(4) That notice of election to dissolve be mailed to all shareholders and known claimants and creditors of corporation [Corp Code § 1903(c)].

(5) That officers are authorized and directed to file Form 966, Return of Information, as required by Internal Revenue Code.

(6) That officers of corporation are authorized and directed to prepare and file any other documents and take any other action that is necessary or advisable in connection with winding up and dissolution of corporation.

2. Obtain vote or written consent of shareholders to elect to dissolve [Corp. Code § 1900(a)].

NOTE:
In order to elect to dissolve the corporation, it is necessary to obtain the vote or written consent of the shareholders holding at least 50 percent of the voting power of the corporation [Corp. Code § 1900(a); see §§ 12.202, 12.203], except in certain cases in which the directors may dissolve the corporation without shareholder approval [see Corp. Code §§ 1900(b), 1906; see §§ 12.20[1][b], 12.204].

a. If meeting will be held to obtain consent to election:

(1) Ensure that meeting is validly called [Corp. Code § 600(d)].

(2) Ensure that proper notice of meeting is given [Corp. Code § 601(a), (b), (f)] or waived [Corp. Code § 601(e)].

(3) Have shareholders holding at least 50 percent of voting power adopt resolution to dissolve corporation [see § 12.203].

NOTE:
A provision in the articles of incorporation purporting to require a supermajority of shareholders to elect voluntary dissolution is unenforceable [see Corp. Code §§ 204(a)(5), 1900]. However, the articles may provide for classes or series of preferred shares and that dissolution requires the consent of a supermajority of preferred shares, not to exceed 662/3 percent [Corp. Code § 402.5].

b. If election will by written consent, have shareholders holding at least 50 percent of voting power execute consent [

Corp. Code § 1900(a); see § 12.202].

NOTE:

Shareholder action is permitted without meeting if holders of requisite percentage of shares consent in writing [see Corp. Code § 603(a)]. A provision in the articles of incorporation purporting to require a supermajority of shareholders to elect voluntary dissolution is unenforceable [see Corp. Code §§ 204(a)(5), 1900]. However, the articles may provide for classes or series of preferred shares and that dissolution requires the consent of a supermajority of preferred shares, not to exceed 662/3 percent [Corp. Code § 402.5].

If the motion to dissolve a corporation voluntarily carries by a vote of exactly 50 percent, dissolution may be avoided by having either the corporation or the remaining shareholder(s) purchase for cash the shares of the shareholders voting for dissolution [Corp. Code § 2000(a); see § 12.20[9]*]. For further discussion of the applicable procedure and determination of the share price, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 15, Dissolution and Winding Up (Matthew Bender).

3. Draft certificate of election to wind up and dissolve [see § 12.205] stating [Corp. Code § 1901(b)]:

NOTE:

The separate filing of a certificate of election is not required if (1) the election to dissolve is made by the vote of all the outstanding shares and (2) a statement to that effect is inserted in the certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code § 1901(c); see § 12.205]. Further, the separate filing of a certificate of election is not required if winding up and dissolution are mandatory because the term of existence of the corporation has expired [see Corp. Code § 1906*]. For the Secretary of State's form for a Domestic Stock Corporation Certificate of Election to Wind Up and Dissolve (Form ELEC STK), see § 12.205.

The Secretary of State's office will certify up to two copies of the certificate at no charge, provided that the copies are submitted with the original [Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional certified copies may be obtained for a nominal fee [see Gov. Code § 12183; see § 12.205[1][c]].

NOTE:

For good cause, the EDD may extend for 30 days the time in which the corporation may file a return or pay any amount due without penalty or interest [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(c)]. "Quitting business" does not include any change in the form or membership of the employer if before and after the change, 50 percent or more of the control of management is held by the same individual, or is held by an individual before death and after death by his or her estate or heirs [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(4)].

NOTE:

Box D in Form DE-6 should be checked off to indicate that the report is a final report.

b. Pays all required contributions with respect to return [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(b)].

NOTE:

This payment should be made using the standard payroll tax deposit coupons supplied by the EDD. Form DE-6 and the payroll tax payment may be submitted together, but if they are mailed together they must be mailed to the payroll tax deposit coupon mailing address [EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44]. A 10-percent penalty, plus interest, accrues for delinquent payments [Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1112, 1113; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19521 (computation of interest)]. The penalty also applies to payments that, although required to be submitted electronically, an employer submits by means other than an electronic funds transfer without good cause [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1112(b)].

12. Ensure that within 10 days after quitting business, corporation files final annual reconciliation return (EDD Form DE-7) [see § 12.282] for current year [EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44].

NOTE:

Box B should be checked off to indicate that the return is a final return. The form should be sent separately from the DE-6 and payroll tax payment. Employee W-2 forms should not be sent to EDD [EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44]. For the mailing address and additional discussion of the filing requirements, see § 12.282[1].

13. [Reserved]

14. Hold directors' meeting to determine following [see § 12.220]:

e. Plan for distribution of assets to shareholders; and

f. Tax planning that is available, including determination as to collapsibility of corporation [see § 12.62].

15. If directors intend to adopt a plan for distribution of corporate assets to shareholders that is not in accordance with liquidation preferences of preferred shareholders, have plan approved by both board of directors [see § 12.226] and outstanding shares of each class [Corp. Code § 2007(a); see §§ 12.227, 12.230], as follows:

NOTE:

The plan may provide that the distribution be in complete or partial satisfaction of the rights of any of those shareholders on distribution and liquidation of the assets [Corp. Code § 2007(a)]. Once adopted by the shareholders, the plan of distribution is binding on all shareholders [Corp. Code § 2007(b)] except objecting preferred shareholders, who must be paid their liquidation preferences in cash unless the plan is abandoned [Corp. Code § 2007(c), (d)]. These rules [Corp. Code § 2007(a)-(d)] do not apply, however, to certain distributions made in accordance with merger reorganizations [Corp. Code § 181(a) (definition); see Ch. 11C, Mergers] and sale-of-assets reorganizations [Corp. Code § 181(c) (definition); see Ch. 11E, Acquisition of Assets for Shares].

a. If plan of distribution is not in accordance with liquidation preferences of preferred shareholders, give notice of adoption of plan to those shareholders within 20 days of adoption of plan [Corp. Code § 2007(b); see § 12.231].

NOTE:

The officer giving notice should execute a certificate of mailing of notice and place it in the corporation's minute book [see § 12.229].

b. Give preferred shareholders 30 days from date of mailing to dissent from plan and demand that they be paid their liquidation preferences in cash [Corp. Code § 2007(c); see § 12.233].

c. If preferred shareholders dissent, directors may abandon plan without approval of shareholders [Corp. Code § 2007(d)], and may either adopt new plan of distribution or distribute assets according to rights and liquidation preferences of shareholders [Corp. Code § 2007(d)].

16. Within 30 days of adopting plan of liquidation, file notice on Form 966 with Internal Revenue Service [I.R.C. § 6043(a)(1)].

NOTE:

Form 966 must be filed with the IRS within 30 days after the adoption of a plan of liquidation [I.R.C. § 6043(a)(1)]. If no formal plan of liquidation is adopted at the time of the election to dissolve, Form 966 should be filed within 30 days after the election. The corporate seal must be affixed to Form 966.

17. Collect corporation's assets; assets that cannot be collected can be either:

a. Assigned to shareholders for collection [see § 12.235];

b. Collected subsequently by corporation and distributed to shareholders at that time, even if subsequent to dissolution [Corp. Code § 2010(a), (c)]; or

c. Transferred to liquidating trust [see § 12.280].

18. Arrange for sale of any assets that are not to be distributed to shareholders and execute contract of sale.

19. Pay or provide for known debts and liabilities of corporation [Corp. Code § 2004].

NOTE:

Distributions may not be made to shareholders unless the corporation's known debts and liabilities are paid or provided for [Corp. Code § 2004]. Shareholders will be liable for those liabilities to the extent of distributions received in dissolution [see Corp. Code § 2009(a)], and directors may also be liable for those distributions [Corp. Code § 316(a)(2), (c)]. The final certificate of dissolution of corporation may not be filed unless debts and liabilities have been provided for or paid [see Corp. Code § 1905(a)(2)].

a. All current debts and liabilities should be paid, including those owed to city, county, state, and federal agencies.

b. Debt can be provided for by being assumed by financially responsible person [Corp. Code § 2005(a)], or by depositing amount of debt with Controller in trust for benefit of those entitled to the payment [Corp. Code §§ 2005(b), 2008(a)].

c. Usual method of providing for known debts and liabilities is to have shareholders assume them in same proportion as their interests in corporation (but only to extent of amount of distributions received by them in dissolution) and receive right of ratable contribution from other shareholders to extent that other shareholders do not pay their share of assumed debts or liabilities [Corp. Code § 2009(c); see § 12.234].

d. If shareholders do not agree to assume debts and liabilities of corporation, directors must either [Corp. Code §§ 1806(b), (i), 1904]:

(1) Retain sufficient assets in corporation to pay debts and liabilities, or

(2) Petition court to supervise dissolution in order to pay or provide for debts and liabilities.

e. Directors cannot distribute assets to shareholders until known debts and liabilities are paid or provided for [Corp. Code § 2004].

NOTE:

If the directors make distributions to the shareholders without providing for debts and liabilities, they are subject to suit by creditors in the name of corporation [Corp. Code § 316(a)(2), (c)], as are shareholders themselves [Corp. Code § 2009(b)].

20. Distribute assets to shareholders [see § 12.235].

a. Pay any liquidation preferences first [see Corp. Code § 2004].

b. Distribute remaining assets to shareholders according to plan of distribution [see §§ 12.220, 12.226].

NOTE:

Distributions to the shareholders can be made in installments or in a lump sum, and can be in money or in kind, but must be fair and ratable to each of the shareholders [Corp. Code § 2006].

c. Assets may be retained to provide for contingent liabilities.

d. For tax purposes, have shareholders execute receipt for distributions [see § 12.236].

e. If location or identity of certain shareholders is unknown, if payments, dividends, or distributions are unclaimed, if existence or amount of shareholder's claim is contingent or contested, or if ownership of stock is in dispute, deposit unclaimed or disputed distributive share with Controller in trust for benefit of those entitled to payment [Corp. Code § 2008(a)].

NOTE:

These deposits with the Controller may be reclaimed in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1500-1582 [Corp. Code § 2008(b)].

f. If claims against corporation exceed its assets, instruct corporation to recover amounts previously distributed to shareholders pursuant to dissolution proceedings [Corp. Code § 2009(a)].

21. File appropriate tax forms.

a. Federal tax forms.

(1) On or before February 28 following every calendar year in which distributions are made to shareholders pursuant to dissolution proceedings, file Form 1099 DIV with IRS for each shareholder receiving distributions totaling $600 or more in preceding calendar year [see I.R.C. § 6043(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.6043-2].

(2) File final federal income tax return (IRS Form 1120) on or before 15th day of third full month following close of tax year (that is, date of dissolution), unless District Director permits later filing date [see I.R.C. § 6072(b); Rev. Rul. 71-129, 1971-1 C.B. 397].

NOTE:

Corporate dissolution occurs (1) when a court enters an order declaring the corporation duly wound up and dissolved [Corp. Code §§ 1808(b), 1907(d)], or (2) on the date on which the certificate of dissolution is filed [Corp. Code § 1905(b)].

b. File final California franchise tax return [FTB Form 100], within 2 months and 15 days after close of income year (that is, date of dissolution) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18601(a)].

NOTE:

For franchise tax purposes, dissolution occurs on the date when a certificate of dissolution is filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1905(b)] or when an order declaring the corporation duly wound up and dissolved is filed with the Secretary of State [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23331(a)]. The Secretary of State must provide the taxpayer with an acknowledgment of the receipt of all winding up and dissolution documents on or before 21 days after their receipt [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23331(c)].

If the corporation filing the certificate of dissolution has not issued shares and is filing under Corp. Code § 1900.5, the certificate of dissolution must state that the final franchise tax return has been filed [Corp. Code § 1900.5(a)(4)].

22. Arrange procedure for submission, receipt, and cancellation of share certificates.

23. Prepare certificate of dissolution [see §§ 12.240-12.242].

a. Draft certificate [see §§ 12.130, 12.242].

b. Have certificate executed by majority of directors then in office [Corp. Code § 1905(a)].

c. Have certificate verified under penalty of perjury, dated and signed with person's name and title [Corp. Code §§ 1900.5(a), 1905(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

24. File original and at least two copies of certificate of dissolution with Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 169, 1905(b); see § 12.243 (transmittal letter)].

NOTE:

No fee is required for filing a certificate of dissolution [Gov. Code § 12186(o)]. The Secretary of State will provide the taxpayer with an acknowledgment of the receipt of all winding up and dissolution documents on or before 21 days after receipt [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23331(c)]. The Secretary of State will certify up to two copies of the certificate of dissolution at no charge, provided that the copies are submitted with the original [Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies are available for a nominal fee [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. For further discussion, see § 12.240[1].

25. After Secretary of State certifies and returns copy, file certified copy of certificate in corporation's minute book.

§ 12.121 Voluntary Dissolution of Nonprofit Corporation

1. Instruct nonprofit board of directors, members, or both, to adopt resolution to elect to dissolve corporation [see §§ 12.260, 12.261]:

a. By vote or written consent of majority of all members of corporation; or

b. By board of directors, if corporation has no members.

2. Prepare and file certificate of election to wind up and dissolve [see § 12.262].

NOTE:
The certificate of election must be filed before, or simultaneously with, the certificate of dissolution. However, if the election to dissolve is made by the vote of all the members of a corporation with members, or by all members of the board of directors of a corporation without members, the certificate of election is not required to be filed if the certificate of dissolution states either (1) the corporation has no members and the election was made by all the directors of the corporation, or (2) the election to dissolve was made by the vote of all the members of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 6611(c), 8611(c)].

The original and at least two copies of the certificate should be submitted. The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the filed certificate without charge, provided that the copies are submitted to the Secretary of State with the original to be filed. Any additional copies submitted with the original will be certified on request and payment of the $8.00 per copy certification fee.

3. If nonprofit is public benefit corporation, religious corporation, or mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust at time of dissolution, file copy of certificate of election to wind up and dissolve [see § 12.262] with Attorney General [Corp. Code §§ 6611(a), 8611(a), 9680(a)].

4. Prepare certificate of dissolution [see § 12.266].

5. [Reserved]

6. If nonprofit is public benefit corporation, religious corporation, or mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust at time of dissolution, have distribution of those assets approved by Attorney General or secure waiver of objections to proposed distribution [see Corp. Code §§ 6716, 8716, 9680].

NOTE:

Information regarding the Attorney General's approval can be obtained by calling the Registrar of Charitable Trusts at (916) 445-2021 or can be downloaded from the Registrar of Charitable Trusts website which is located at http://caag.state.ca.us/charities. The website contains a searchable database of charitable organizations registered with the California Attorney General's office.

7. Send notice of dissolution to members and creditors.

8. Wind up business operations:

a. Pay or adequately provide for all liabilities.

b. Distribute assets in accordance with approved plan.

9. File certificates, by mail or hand delivered for over-the-counter processing, with the Secretary of State's office in Sacramento.

NOTE:

Dissolution documents are not filed in branch offices. All dissolution documents must be filed with the Secretary of State's Office in Sacramento. Mailing or submitting dissolution documents to other state or federal agencies, including the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, does not satisfy the statutory filing requirements for dissolution.

The Secretary of State advises that for proof of submittal of proposed dissolution documents, documents mailed to the Secretary of State's office should be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. To facilitate processing of mailed documents, a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the corporate name and number as well as the name, return address and telephone number of the individual filing the documents should be submitted.

A $15.00 special handling fee applies to documents delivered in person at the public counter in the Sacramento office. This fee must be remitted by separate check, as it will be retained whether the documents are filed or rejected.

10. If corporation is required to file informational returns, file final return.

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.130

§ 12.130 Certificate of Dissolution for Domestic Stock Corporation

NOTE:

Corporate dissolution is effected by the filing of a certificate of dissolution of the corporation with the Secretary of State in the Sacramento office [Corp. Code § 1905(b); see § 12.20[6]]. In lieu of filing the certificate of dissolution, the directors may petition the superior court for an order declaring the corporation duly wound up and dissolved [Corp. Code § 1907(a); see § 12.20[7]].

A corporation that has not issued shares and is filing for dissolution within 12 months of filing the articles of incorporation may file a somewhat different certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code § 1900.5(a)]. For further discussion, see § 12.242.

1. Draft certificate of dissolution, stating all of the following [Corp. Code § 1905(a); see §§ 12.240 12.242]:

a. Name of corporation, exactly as name appears on records at office of Secretary of State.

b. That person(s) executing certificate are majority of directors of corporation now in office.

c. That corporation has been completely wound up [Corp. Code § 1905(a)(1)].

d. That one of following requirements has been met [Corp. Code § 1905(a)(2)]:

NOTE:

The certificate may only use one of the five alternatives set forth below [see Corp. Code § 1905(a)(2)]. For example, stating that both (1) the dissolving corporation's known debts and liabilities have been actually paid and (2) the dissolving corporation's known debts and liabilities have been adequately provided for by their assumption by a specified person or corporation is inconsistent, and will result in the certificate being returned for correction.

(1) Corporation's known debts and liabilities have been actually paid;

(2) Corporation's known debts and liabilities have been paid as far as its assets permit;

(3) Corporation's known debts and liabilities have been adequately provided for as far as its assets permit; or

NOTE:

If adequate provision has been made for debts and liabilities, the pertinent facts regarding those provisions must also be stated [Corp. Code § 1905(a)(2)]. The paragraph must state (1) the name and address of the person, corporation, or governmental agency that has assumed or guaranteed payment; (2) the name and address of the depository with which deposit has been made; or (3) other information needed to enable the creditors and other persons to whom payment will be made to appear and claim payment [see § 12.240 (form)].

(4) Corporation has not incurred any known debts or liabilities.

e. That one of following requirements has been met [Corp. Code § 1905(a)(3)]:

(1) Corporation's known assets have been distributed to persons entitled to them; or

(2) Corporation acquired no known assets.

f. That a final franchise tax return has been or will be filed with the Franchise Tax Board [see Rev. & Tax Code § 23332].

g. If election to dissolve was made by vote of all outstanding shares, statement to that effect [see Corp. Code § 1901(c)].

h. That corporation is dissolved [Corp. Code § 1905(a)(4)].

2. Have majority of directors then in office sign and verify certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code § 1905(a)].

1. If revocation election is by shareholders or members, either:

1. Forms for Election to Wind Up and Dissolve

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.200

§ 12.200 Directors' Resolutions to Obtain Shareholders' Election to Dissolve

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of minutes of the meeting held by the board of directors of a domestic stock corporation to consider the advisability of dissolving the corporation. It records the resolution of the directors that dissolution is in the best interests of the corporation, and authorizes the officers and directors to obtain the vote or written consent of the shareholders in support of the dissolution.

A corporation may validly elect to wind up and dissolve by the vote or written consent of shareholders holding at least 50 percent of the voting power of the corporation [Corp. Code § 1900(a); see Corp. Code §§ 194 ("vote" includes authorization by written consent), 603(a) (shareholder action is permitted without meeting if holders of requisite percentage of outstanding shares consent in writing)] without a prior meeting of the board of directors. However, the usual procedure for dissolving a corporation is for the directors to hold a meeting to discuss the possibility of and need for dissolution. Once a decision to dissolve is reached, the directors then attempt to obtain the vote or written consent of shareholders holding at least 50 percent of the voting power [Corp. Code § 1900(a)]. The form may be adapted if the articles of incorporation provide for special voting rights or preferences in the event of corporate dissolution.

[b] Dissolution by Board Approval Alone

Any corporation may elect by approval of the board to wind up and dissolve without shareholder action if (1) an order for relief has been entered under Chapter 7 of the federal bankruptcy law; (2) the corporation that has disposed of all of its assets and has not conducted any business for a period of five years immediately preceding the adoption of the resolution electing to dissolve the corporation; and (3) the corporation that has issued no shares [Corp. Code § 1900(b)]. In addition, a majority of the directors must dissolve the corporation if its term of corporate existence expires without renewal or extension, unless otherwise provided by law [Corp. Code § 1906]. This form is designed for use when further action by the shareholders is required, but may be adapted for use when only board action is required.

[c] Plan of Distribution of Assets

If dissolution is a virtual certainty, the directors may also adopt a plan of liquidation and distribution of assets at this meeting. This form incorporates only the decision of the directors to obtain the vote or written consent of the shareholders to dissolve. However, if a plan of distribution of assets is also to be adopted, the resolutions in this form should be combined with those in § 12.222. By combining them, the directors can obtain in one document the written consents of the shareholders to dissolution and, if necessary, to the plan of distribution.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain the written waiver of notice and consent to the holding of the meeting of the directors to discuss the dissolution of the corporation, in the event the meeting is held without the giving of proper notice [see Corp. Code § 307(a)(2), (3)]. Although attendance by a director, without protest of the lack of notice, operate as a waiver of notice of the meeting, it is customary to have all directors, absent or present, sign a waiver of notice, a consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting [see Corp. Code § 307(a)(3)]. Such waivers, consents, or approvals may be signed before or after the meeting and must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code § 307(a)(3)]. For further discussion of, and forms for, the call and notice of a directors' meeting, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

A waiver of notice need not specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the board [Corp. Code § 307(a)(2)]. However, specifying the purpose of the meeting is advisable, particularly in the context of corporate dissolution. If the meeting is called to discuss both the election to dissolve and the adoption of a plan of distribution of the assets in dissolution, the purpose clauses contained in the waiver in § 12.220 should be added to this waiver.

PART IV. FORMS
A. Domestic Stock Corporations
1. Forms for Election to Wind Up and Dissolve

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.202

§ 12.202 Shareholders' Written Consent to Voluntary Dissolution

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain the written consent of shareholders holding 50 percent or more of the voting power of a corporation to the voluntary dissolution of the corporation [Corp. Code § 1900(a)]. Although the election to dissolve may be made by shareholders holding 50 percent or more of the voting power at a properly called and noticed meeting [see Corp. Code §§ 600(d), 601(a), (b), (f); see also § 12.203[1]], the election to dissolve can also be made by the filing of written consents by the holders of at least 50 percent of the voting power without holding a meeting [Corp. Code §§ 194 ("vote" includes written consent), 603(a) (shareholder action as permitted without meeting if holders of requisite percentage of outstanding shares consent in writing); see In re Security Finance Co. (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 370, 376, 317 P.2d 1] . Prompt notice must be given in writing to all shareholders who did not vote in favor of dissolution [Corp. Code § 1903(c); see Corp. Code § 603(b); see also § 12.208].

This form contains an optional provision under which the consenting shareholders waive their right to notice of the commencement of voluntary dissolution proceedings. For a form for that notice, see § 12.208.

If 50 percent of the shareholders object to the dissolution of the corporation, the only method of dissolution might be by written consent, since the lack of a quorum might prevent valid action being taken at a meeting called to vote on dissolution [see Corp. Code § 602(a)].

Voluntary dissolution proceedings commence on the filing of the shareholders' written consents with the corporation [Corp. Code § 1903(a)].

[b] Dissolution by Election of Shareholders

Except in certain situations when the board may act alone to dissolve the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 1900(b), 1906; see also § 12.20[1][b]], it is necessary to obtain the vote or written consent of shareholders holding at least 50 percent of the voting power of the corporation to voluntarily dissolve the corporation [Corp. Code § 1900(a)]. Corp. Code § 1900(a) does not distinguish between classes of stock having voting power for purposes of the percentage requirement, whereas other sections of the Corporations Code sometimes have percentage requirements based on each class of shares [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 2007(a)]. As used in the Corporations Code, "voting power" means the power to vote for the election of directors at the time any determination of voting power is made; it does not include the right to vote on some condition that has not yet occurred [Corp. Code § 194.5]. In any case in which different classes of shares are entitled to vote as separate classes for different members of the board, the determination of percentage of voting power is made on the basis of the percentage of the total number of authorized directors that the shares in question have the power to elect in an election in which all shares then entitled to vote for the election of any directors are voted [Corp. Code § 194.5].

§ 12.203 Shareholders' Resolution to Elect to Dissolve

[1] Comment

If the election to dissolve the corporation [Corp. Code § 1900(a)] will be made at a meeting of the shareholders, the resolutions set forth in this form should be adopted and incorporated in the appropriate place in the minutes of the meeting. For a complete form for minutes of a shareholders' annual meeting, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements, § 8A.260. The election to dissolve the corporation may be made at either the annual meeting [Corp. Code § 600(b)] or at a special meeting [Corp. Code § 600(d)] called to discuss dissolution.

Although the shareholders may elect to dissolve may be made by written consent without holding a meeting [Corp. Code §§ 194, 603(a), 1900(a); In re Security Finance Co. (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 370, 376, 317 P.2d 1 ; see § 12.202], if the corporation has many shareholders, or if the possibility of dissolution must be discussed by the shareholders before making the election, the election should be conducted at a shareholders' meeting.

[b] Call and Notice of Meeting

If a meeting is conducted to obtain the vote of the shareholders to dissolve, the meeting must be properly called [Corp. Code § 600(d)] and notice must be given to all of the shareholders [Corp. Code § 601(a), (b), (f)]. Unless the election to dissolve is made at a meeting by the unanimous vote of all shareholders entitled to vote, the election is not valid unless the notice of the meeting states that the purpose of the meeting is to consider dissolution of the corporation [Corp. Code § 601(f)]. For forms and discussions for calls and notices of shareholders' meetings, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements . Notice of the holding and general purpose of the meeting is also required if the resolution to dissolve is to be validly adopted at the annual shareholders' meeting [Corp. Code § 601(a), (f)].

§ 12.204 Directors' Resolution to Wind Up and Dissolve

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains resolutions by the directors to elect to dissolve the corporation. It should be used when the election can be made by the board of directors acting alone [see [b], below]. The resolutions should be adopted at a meeting of the directors and incorporated in the appropriate place in the minutes of that meeting. For a complete set of minutes of a directors' meeting, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions . The directors' election to dissolve the corporation also can be made by unanimous written consent [Corp. Code § 307(b)].

[b] Voluntary Election by Directors to Dissolve

The board of directors may elect to voluntarily dissolve the corporation if it (1) has been adjudicated a bankrupt; (2) has disposed of all its assets and has not conducted any business for the preceding five-year period; or (3) has issued no shares [Corp. Code § 1900(b)]. The board must dissolve the corporation if its term of existence expires without renewal or extension [Corp. Code § 1906]. This form contains three alternative recital clauses to cover these situations in which the directors have the authority to dissolve the corporation without the approval of the shareholders.

The phrase "approval of the board," as used in Corp. Code § 1900(b), means approval or ratification by the vote of the board of directors, or by the vote of a committee authorized to exercise the power of the board [Corp. Code § 151]. Under the general provisions of the Corporations Code governing voting by the board of directors, an election to dissolve can be made by a majority of directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present [Corp. Code § 307(a)(8)]. A quorum consists of a majority of the authorized number of directors [Corp. Code § 307(a)(7)]. The certificate of election to wind up and dissolve, to be filed with the Secretary of State after an election by the directors [see Corp. Code § 1901], should be in the form set forth in § 12.205.

[c] Mandatory Election to Dissolve

The board must dissolve the corporation if its term of existence expires without renewal or extension [Corp. Code § 1906].

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of election to wind up and dissolve a domestic stock corporation. Any format that meets the statutory requirements may be used [see Corp. Code § 1901]. However, use of the standard form is recommended inasmuch as it is simple and easy and there is no advantage to using any other version.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/bpd_forms.htm#corp . You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12.205. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request, and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

A certificate of election to dissolve is required to be filed when the election is made by the vote of less than 100 percent of the outstanding shares, or no shares have been issued [see Corp. Code § 1901(c)]. A certificate of election to dissolve is not required when the election is made by the vote of all the outstanding shares and a statement to that effect is included in the Certificate of Dissolution [see Corp. Code § 1905; see also § 12.240], or the corporation meets the requirements for filing a Short Form Certificate of Dissolution [see Corp. Code § 1900.1; see also § 12.242]. It also is not required if winding up and dissolution are mandatory because the corporation's term of existence has expired [see Corp. Code § 1906].

The certificate must be filed before, or at the same time as, the Certificate of Dissolution [see § 12.240[1]].

[b] Contents of Certificate

The certificate must set forth [Corp. Code § 1901(b)(1), (2)]:

- That the corporation has elected to wind up and dissolve; and

- If the election was made by shareholder vote, the number of shares voting for the election and that the election was made by shareholders representing at least 50 percent of the voting power.

The certificate must either be an officers' certificate or be signed and verified by at least a majority of the directors then in office, or by one or more shareholders authorized to do so by shareholders holding 50 percent or more of the voting power [Corp. Code § 1901(b)(3)]. An officers' certificate is a certificate signed and verified by the chairman of the board, the president, or any vice president and the secretary, the chief financial officer, or the treasurer, or any assistant secretary or assistant treasurer [Corp. Code § 173].

[c] Filing Requirements and Fees

The Secretary of State's office requires that all dissolution documents must be filed with the Secretary of State in the Sacramento office. Mailing or submitting documents to branch offices, or other state or federal agencies, including the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, will not satisfy the filing requirements for corporate dissolution.

The original and at least two copies of the certificate should be included in the submission. There is no fee required to file a certificate of election to wind up and dissolve by mail [Gov. Code § 12186(n)]. For proof of submission of proposed dissolution documents, the Secretary of State's office recommends that documents be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. A self-addressed envelope and letter referencing the corporate name and file number, as well as the attorney's name, return address, and telephone number should also be submitted.

The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the certificate at no charge, provided that they are submitted with the original for filing [see Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies submitted with the originals will be certified on request and payment of a per copy fee. A certified copy should be placed in the corporation's minute book.

A special handling fee applies for processing documents delivered in person at the public counter in the Sacramento Office. This fee must be remitted by separate check as it will be retained regardless of whether the documents are filed or rejected.

Preclearance or expedited filing of eligible corporate documents can be requested in a specified time frame, for an additional fee (in lieu of the special handling fee) [see Gov. Code § 12182(c)]. This preclearance/expedited filing service is not available in the branch offices.

1. Forms for Election to Wind Up and Dissolve

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.208

§ 12.208 Notice of Commencement of Voluntary Dissolution

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form notifies shareholders and creditors that a voluntary proceeding to wind up and dissolve the corporation has commenced. The notice must be mailed to all shareholders (except no notice is required to be given to shareholders who voted in favor of dissolution) and to all known creditors and claimants whose addresses appear on the records of the corporation promptly after the commencement of voluntary dissolution proceedings [Corp. Code § 1903(c)]. The date on which proceedings for voluntary dissolution are deemed to begin is the date that (1) the directors adopted the resolution, (2) the shareholders adopted the resolution, or (3) the written consent of the shareholders was filed with the corporation [Corp. Code § 1903(a)].

It would appear to be good practice to send notice to all shareholders, whether or not they voted in favor of dissolution. Therefore, this form states that notice is being sent to all shareholders. If the notice will only be sent to shareholders who did not vote for dissolution, the form should be amended accordingly. It is also advisable to have the officer (typically the secretary) who caused notice to be given to execute a certificate stating that notice of the dissolution was given to all shareholders, creditors, and claimants [see § 12.209].

Because written notice of the dissolution proceedings must be given to all shareholders who did not vote in favor of dissolution and to all known creditors and claimants whose addresses appear on the corporate books [Corp. Code § 1903(c)], it is good practice to have the secretary, or other person giving notice, execute a certificate that the requisite notice was given. The certificate and a copy of the notice should be placed in the corporate minute book.

This form, like the notice in § 12.208, states that notice is being sent to all shareholders. If the notice will only be sent to shareholders who did not vote for dissolution, the form should be amended accordingly.

§ 12.211 Information Return of Dissolving Corporation [IRS Form 966]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is IRS Form 966, an information return to be used by dissolving corporations. Form 966 may be filled in online, downloaded, and printed out by going to the forms and publications page of the IRS website at http://www.irs.gov/formspubs/index.html?portlet=3 .

In general, every corporation must file Form 966 with the Internal Revenue Service if the corporation adopts a resolution or plan to dissolve the corporation or liquidate any of its stock [I.R.C. § 6043(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.6043-1(a)]. However, exempt corporations and qualified subchapter S subsidiaries are not required to file this form [see I.R.C. § 6043(b); Form 966, instructions; see also IRS Forms 990, 990-PF, 8869].

IRS Form 966 must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service center where the corporation is required to file its income tax return [IRS Form 966, instructions].

IRS Form 966 must contain the following information [Treas. Reg. § 1.6043-1(b)(1); IRS Form 966, instructions]:

- The name and address of the corporation.
- The place and date of incorporation.
- Whether the liquidation is complete or partial.
- The date of the adoption of the resolution or plan of dissolution or complete or partial liquidation.

- The Internal Revenue Service center where the last income tax return was filed, and the taxable year covered by that return.

- The date of the final tax year.

- Whether the corporation's final tax return was filed as part of a consolidated income tax return and related matters.

- The total number of shares outstanding at the time of the adoption of the plan of liquidation.

- The section of the Internal Revenue Code under which the corporation is being dissolved or liquidated.

- Dates of any amendments to the plan of dissolution and the dates of any previously filed IRS Forms 966 [see [c], below].

A certified copy of the resolution or plan (and any amendments or supplements not previously filed) must be attached to the form [IRS Form 966, instructions].

[c] Time for Filing

IRS Form 966 must be filed within 30 days after the resolution or plan is adopted to dissolve the corporation or liquidate any of its capital stock [I.R.C. § 6043(a)]. Although it would appear that the first meeting of the directors (resolving to obtain the vote or written consent of the shareholders to dissolve) would not constitute a "plan of dissolution," it is better practice to file IRS Form 966 counting from that date, attaching a certified copy of the appropriate resolutions [see § 12.200] and a certified copy of the written consent or the resolutions adopted by the shareholders consenting to the election [see §§ 12.202, 12.203].

An amended IRS Form 966 must be filed within 30 days after the directors' second meeting dealing with the disposition of the assets [Treas. Reg. § 1.6043-1(a)(2)]. The amended IRS Form 966 must state the date the original form was filed and contain a certified copy of the directors' resolutions [see § 12.220] and a certified copy of any consents or resolutions of the shareholders [see §§ 12.227, 12.230] that are obtained with respect to the directors' second meeting. If any further resolutions are adopted by the directors at any subsequent meetings concerning the dissolution, additional amended IRS Forms 966 must be filed within 30 days of the adoption of those resolutions [IRS Form 966, instructions].

The attorney should delay filing the original IRS Form 966 if it appears that the second directors' meeting concerning the disposition of the assets and the shareholders' consent will be obtained within 30 days of the first directors' meeting. In this situation, the attorney will only have to file an original IRS Form 966 containing certified copies of the resolution of the directors at both their first and second meetings, and certified copies of all written consents or resolutions of the shareholders.

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.220

§ 12.220 Minutes of Special Meeting of Directors to Formulate Plan of Distribution of Assets in Cash and Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a general form of minutes for a meeting of the board of directors of a dissolving corporation held to discuss the method for paying or providing for the known debts and liabilities of the corporation, for the collection of its assets, and for the distribution of the assets. The meeting should be held after the certificate of election to dissolve the corporation has been filed with the Secretary of State [see § 12.205]. This form contains resolutions authorizing the directors to sell any or all of the assets and to distribute, pro rata, the cash and undivided interests in the assets other than cash, and other necessary resolutions.

It may not always be necessary to hold two separate directors' meetings, one to authorize obtaining the shareholders' election to dissolve [see § 12.200] and another to adopt a plan for distribution of the assets. All of these matters could be resolved at one meeting, the determinations regarding the distribution of assets being conditional upon the election by the shareholders to dissolve. If the directors' meetings are combined, the resolutions contained in § 12.200 should be combined with the resolutions in this form.

There is no requirement that a notice or waiver of notice specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the board [Corp. Code § 307(a)(2)]. However, the specification of purpose is advisable. Therefore, if the meeting is called to discuss both the election to dissolve and the adoption of a plan of distribution of the assets in dissolution, the call and notice, or the waiver of notice, to this combined meeting should state that the meeting is being held for both purposes. In the case of the waiver of notice, this can be accomplished by combining the purpose clauses in § 12.203 and § 12.221.

If the directors' meetings are combined, it will be necessary to have only one meeting of shareholders to obtain shareholder approval of the dissolution and plan of distribution (to the extent that shareholder approval is required), or, if written consents are obtained from shareholders in lieu of a meeting, a single document may be used.

The necessity for shareholder approval, and the percentage of shareholder votes required for approval, of a plan of distribution depends on the nature of the distribution intended by the directors, and, in some instances, on whether or not the assets are to be sold, the nature of the consideration to be paid, and the relationship of the purchaser to the selling corporation [see [c], below]. If the shareholder election to dissolve and shareholder approval of a plan of distribution or sale of the assets is obtained in the same document, care must be taken to comply with the differing voting requirements for both types of shareholder approval. Shareholder election to dissolve requires the vote of at least 50 percent of the voting power of the corporation [Corp. Code § 1900(a); see §§ 12.202, 12.203]. Approval of a plan of distribution [Corp. Code § 2007(a)] or sale of the assets for noncash consideration [Corp. Code §§ 1001(a), 2001(g)] for example, have different voting requirements [see §§ 12.223, 12.224, 12.227, 12.230].

The assets may be distributed to the shareholders when all of the known debts and liabilities have been provided for or paid [Corp. Code § 2004], and as soon as reasonably consistent with the beneficial liquidation of the corporation [Corp. Code § 2006]. The distributions may be in installments or in one lump sum [Corp. Code § 2006], in money or in property or securities, if this can be done fairly and ratably, and in conformity with the provisions of the articles of incorporation and the rights of the shareholders [Corp. Code § 2006]. For forms for assumption of the corporate liabilities by shareholders, assignment of corporate assets to shareholders, and receipt of corporate assets by shareholders, see §§ 12.234-12.236.

If all of the assets are sold, and the funds from the sale distributed to all of the shareholders in accordance with their respective rights, the distribution will be fair and ratable. If the assets in kind are distributed in undivided interests to the shareholders as tenants in common with the same interests in the assets as they had in the corporation, the distribution would appear to be fair and ratable. However, if the assets are valued and distributed on the basis of that value, the distribution may not be fair and ratable.

Shareholders with liquidation preferences must receive their liquidation preferences before distributions to other shareholders, as provided in the articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code § 2004]. For a discussion of the adoption of a plan of distribution of the assets in kind that is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares, including provisions for shareholder approval and protest by the holders of preferred shares, see § 12.226[1].

If it is desirable to specify certain assets and provide for their distribution, see § 12.226. Other modifications of the form may be required depending on the nature of the plan of distribution adopted by the directors.

If the directors propose to distribute noncash corporate assets, such as securities in other corporations, according to a method of distribution that is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles, approval of the outstanding shares of each class is required [Corp. Code §§ 152, 2007(a); see §§ 12.227, 12.230] and a resolution should be added to authorize the obtaining of that shareholder approval. In addition, a resolution should be adopted authorizing and directing the giving of notice to shareholders with liquidation preferences within 20 days after the adoption of such a plan, in the event it is adopted [Corp. Code § 2007(b); see § 12.231]. For further discussion of a plan of distribution in kind that is not in accordance with liquidation preferences, including a discussion of shareholder approval and notice requirements, see § 12.226.

If the directors propose to sell the assets of the corporation for consideration other than cash, shareholder approval is required [Corp. Code §§ 1001(a), 2001(g); see §§ 12.223, 12.224], and a resolution to obtain that consent should be adopted. If the directors propose to sell the assets to a buyer in control of, or under common control with, the selling corporation, a resolution must be adopted to obtain the requisite 90 percent shareholder approval that is required by statute [Corp. Code §§ 1001(d), 2001(g)].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a written waiver of notice and consent to the holding of a directors' meeting to discuss the adoption of a plan of dissolution for the corporation, in the event that the meeting is held without giving the notice required by statute [see Corp. Code § 307(a)(2), (3)]. Although the mere attendance by a director, without protest of the lack of notice, operates as a waiver of notice of the meeting, it is customary to have all directors, absent or present, sign a waiver of notice, a consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code § 307(a)(3)]. The waiver, consents, or approvals may be signed before or after the meeting and must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code § 307(a)(3)]. For a further discussion of, and forms for, the call and notice of a directors' meeting, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

There is no requirement that a waiver of notice specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the board [Corp. Code § 307(a)(2)]. However, the specification of purpose is advisable. If the meeting is called to discuss both the election to dissolve and the adoption of a plan of distribution of the assets in dissolution, the purpose clauses contained in § 12.202 should be added to this waiver.

§ 12.222 Directors' Resolutions Authorizing Sale of All or Substantially All of the Corporate Assets

This form is a directors' resolution authorizing the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation. Among the powers expressly listed by Corp. Code § 2001 is the power to sell at public or private sale, exchange, convey, or otherwise dispose of all or any part of the assets of the corporation, on the terms and conditions and for the consideration that the board of directors deems reasonable or expedient and to execute bills of sale and deeds of conveyance in the name of the corporation [Corp. Code § 2001(g)]. No shareholder approval of such a sale is required if the sale is solely for cash [Corp. Code § 2001(g); see Comment to Form 12.223].

This form may be used when the agreement for sale of the business has been negotiated and the sale agreement drafted by the time the directors adopt resolutions for distribution of assets to shareholders. A sale agreement may be negotiated and executed under a general plan of distribution of assets such as that contained in Form 12.220.

For other forms related to the sale of all or substantially all the assets of a corporation, see Ch. 11B, Cash Purchase of Assets , and Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

§ 12.223 Shareholders' Written Consent Approving Sale of All or Substantially All of the Corporate Assets for Consideration Other Than Cash

This form is a written consent of corporate shareholders approving the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of a corporation for consideration other than cash. If a sale or exchange of all or substantially all of the assets of a corporation for profit is made in the course of dissolution for a consideration consisting in whole or in part of something other than money, it must be approved or ratified by the vote of the outstanding shares, either before or after the action of the directors [Corp. Code §§ 1001(a), 2001(g)]. Approval by the outstanding shares means approval by a majority of the outstanding shares entitled to vote (or, if required by the articles, by the vote of a majority of each class of shares entitled to vote, or by a higher percentage of the shares) [Corp. Code § 152]. Shareholder approval of a sale of the corporate assets for consideration other than cash may be given by written consent, as well as by vote at a meeting [Corp. Code §§ 194, 603(a); see § 12.224].

This form must be modified if it will be used by a corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons, unless the form is to be distributed to fewer than 10 of the shareholders. Any written consent form distributed to 10 or more shareholders of a corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons must (1) allow the shareholder to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters to be acted on; and (2) provide that when a choice is specified, the shares will be voted in accordance with that choice [Corp. Code § 604(a)]. For a general consent form that satisfies the requirements of Corp. Code § 604, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements, § 8A.223.

If the consideration for the sale of the assets during dissolution is solely cash, shareholder approval is not required [Corp. Code § 2001(g)]. However, if the consideration consists in whole or in part of the equity securities of another corporation or its parent, or of the debt securities of another corporation or its parent, which are not adequately secured and have a maturity date in excess of five years after the consummation of the transaction, the sale of the assets is characterized as a "sale-of-assets reorganization" [Corp. Code § 181(c)]. The required shareholder approval for this type of transaction is discussed in Ch. 11E, Acquisition of Assets for Shares .

§ 12.225 Certificate of Authorization of Dissolution and Sale of Assets, Attachment to Deed or Other Instrument of Transfer

When shareholder approval is required for a sale of all or substantially all corporate assets during dissolution because consideration other than cash is being received [Corp. Code §§ 1001(a), 2001(g)], the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation may execute a certificate setting forth the resolutions of the board of directors and stating the fact of approval by the outstanding shares, for the purpose of annexing the certificate to any deed or instrument conveying or otherwise transferring the assets of the corporation [Corp. Code § 1002]. Such a certificate is prima facie evidence of the existence of the facts authorizing such conveyance or other transfer of the assets and is conclusive evidence in favor of any innocent purchaser or encumbrancer for value [Corp. Code § 1002].

If the sale is for cash only and no shareholder approval is obtained, the purchaser may require a certificate stating that the corporation is in dissolution, because the directors may not sell all the assets without shareholder approval otherwise [Corp. Code § 1001(a)]. If such a certificate is desired, the following form should be modified by eliminating Paragraphs 3 and 4 [see [2], below].

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.226

§ 12.226 Resolution of Directors for Distribution of Specific Assets in Kind

This form is a resolution that should be adopted by the directors at a meeting to discuss a plan of distribution of corporate assets in dissolution when the corporate assets will be distributed in kind, rather than being sold and the proceeds of the sale distributed among the shareholders. The form contains optional paragraphs that can be used whenever appropriate to specify the distribution of particular types of assets to particular classes of shareholders.

If the directors propose to distribute noncash corporate assets, such as securities in other corporations, according to a method of distribution that is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles, the plan of distribution must be approved by the board and by a majority (or any greater percentage specified in the articles) of the outstanding voting shares of each class [Corp. Code §§ 151, 152, 2007(a); see §§ 12.227, 12.230]. Notice of the adoption of the plan of distribution must be given to shareholders with liquidation preferences within 20 days after its adoption [Corp. Code § 2007(b); see § 12.231]. Dissenting preferred shareholders are entitled to be paid the amount of their liquidation preference in cash if they file a written demand for payment within 30 days after the date of mailing of the notice of the plan [Corp. Code § 2007(c); see § 12.233].

If a shareholder with liquidation preferences files a dissent from the plan of distribution, the directors may adopt a new plan of distribution, or abandon the plan without further approval of the shareholders and distribute the assets according to the rights and liquidation preferences of the shareholders [Corp. Code § 2007(d)].

These rules [Corp. Code § 2007(a)-(d)] do not apply, however, to certain distributions made in accordance with merger reorganizations [Corp. Code § 181(a) (definition); see Ch. 11C, Mergers] and sale-of-assets reorganizations [Corp. Code § 181(c) (definition); see Ch. 11E, Acquisitions of Assets for Shares]. The rules do not apply to those distributions when [Corp. Code § 2007(e); see Corp. Code § 1202(b)]:

- The terms of the reorganization provide that a class or series of preferred shares will receive as a distribution a lesser amount than would be required by applicable article provisions; and

- The principal terms of the reorganization have been approved by the same percentage of outstanding shares of that class or series that would be required to approve an amendment of the article provisions to provide for the distribution of that lesser amount [Corp. Code § 2007(e); see Corp. Code § 1202(b)].

If, by adopting a plan for the distribution of assets in kind, the directors are departing from the liquidation preferences expressed in the articles, this form should be modified by the addition of a resolution authorizing the obtaining of the approval of the outstanding shares of each class. In addition, a resolution should be adopted authorizing and directing the giving of notice to shareholders with liquidation preferences within 20 days after the adoption of the plan, in the event it is adopted. For forms for written consent and resolutions of the shareholders approving such a distribution plan, see §§ 12.227 and 12.230. For a form for giving notice to preferred shareholders, see § 12.231.

For further discussion of the adoption of a plan for the distribution of the assets in dissolution, see § 12.220, which is a general form for minutes of the directors meeting held to adopt a plan of distribution.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that when the Board of Directors of this corporation may determine that all liabilities of the corporation have been paid or adequately provided for and that there be no further need for the reserve fund, any remaining balance in the reserve fund will be distributed as follows: _____.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that distribution of the assets pursuant to the plan provided in these resolutions is subject to the following conditions:

1. That each shareholder properly endorse and surrender the certificate or certificates evidencing that shareholder's ownership of shares of the capital stock of this corporation;

2. That the distribution will be in complete satisfaction of the rights of each shareholder of this corporation upon distribution and liquidation of assets;

3. That this plan of distribution be approved by the shareholders as specified in Corp. Code § 2007(a);

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the officers of this corporation are authorized, empowered, and directed to take all steps as they deem necessary or proper to procure the approval of the shareholders of record at the close of business on _____[date], in accordance with Corp. Code § 2007(a);

Code § 1905*.

§ 12.227 Shareholders' Written Consent Approving Plan of Distribution Not in Accordance With Liquidation Rights of Preferred Shares

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain the written consent of shareholders to a plan of distribution of the noncash assets of the corporation that is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles [see Corp. Code § 2007(a); see also § 12.20[4][e]]. After the plan has been approved by the board of directors, it must be approved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of each class entitled to vote unless a higher percentage is required by the articles of incorporation [Corp. Code § 2007(a); see Corp. Code § 152].

This form must be modified if it will be used by a corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons, unless the form is to be distributed to fewer than 10 of the shareholders. Any written consent form distributed to 10 or more shareholders of a corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons must (1) allow the shareholder to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters to be acted on; and (2) provide that when a choice is specified, the shares will be voted in accordance with that choice [Corp. Code § 604(a)]. For a general consent form that satisfies the requirements of Corp. Code § 604, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements, § 8A.223.

If the directors' decisions to seek shareholder consent to dissolution, and (if dissolution is elected) to distribute the assets under a plan not in accordance with liquidation preferences, are made at the same meeting, this consent can be combined with the consent to the election to dissolve provided in § 12.202. However, it is important to remember that although only 50 percent of the voting power of the corporation must consent to dissolution [Corp. Code § 1900(a)], the plan of distribution must be approved by a majority of the voting shares of each class, or a higher percentage if the articles so require [Corp. Code §§ 152, 2007(a)].

Because approval of the plan must be by each class of shares [Corp. Code §§ 152, 2007(a)], a separate consent form for each class may be preferable. For further discussion of shareholders' written consents, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements .

[b] Special Requirement When Shareholders Give Written Consent to Plan

When written shareholder consent to a plan of distribution is sought pursuant to Corp. Code § 2007(a), the consents of all shareholders entitled to vote should be solicited in writing. Otherwise, even if the minimum number of votes is obtained to authorize the plan of distribution, its adoption must be delayed for a 10-day period while notice of the adoption of the plan is given to those shareholders entitled to vote who did not consent in writing [Corp. Code § 603(b)(1)]. However, if the consent to dissolution and the consent to the plan of distribution were combined in one document, it appears that the election to dissolve would be effective as soon as the requisite number of consents were filed with the corporation, even though the 10-day notice requirement might delay valid adoption of the plan of distribution, provided prompt notice is given to the shareholders not consenting in writing to the dissolution [Corp. Code § 603(b)(2)].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to give notice to nonconsenting shareholders of the adoption by the board of directors and the written consent of shareholders of a plan of distribution of corporate assets in kind that is not in accordance with the liquidation preferences of preferred shares [Corp. Code §§ 603(b), 2007(a)]. Such a notice must be given if shareholder consents to the adoption of the plan were not solicited in writing from all of the shareholders entitled to vote on the plan [Corp. Code § 603(b)]. If that is the case, notice of the authorization of the plan by the directors and a majority of the outstanding voting shares of each class must be given to all nonconsenting shareholders who were entitled to vote on the plan including, apparently, those nonconsenting shareholders whose votes were solicited, and a waiting period of 10 days before the plan goes into effect is imposed after notice is given or mailed [Corp. Code § 603(b)(1)].

Notice may be given by first-class mail, in which case it is deemed to be given at the time of deposit in the mail [*Corp. [1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a declaration, to be executed by the secretary or other officer who gave notice, that notice has been mailed to all nonconsenting shareholders that a plan of distribution of corporate assets that is not in accordance with the liquidation preferences of preferred shareholders [Corp. Code § 2007(a)] has been adopted by the written consent of a majority of the outstanding shares of each class, or a higher percentage if required by the articles [Corp. Code §§ 152, 2007(a)]. This notice must be given in the event that not all the shareholders entitled to vote were solicited for their written consent, even if the holders of the required percentage of the outstanding voting shares of each class gave their consent [Corp. Code § 603(b)(1); see § 12.227]. An affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) is prima facie evidence of the giving of the notice [*Corp. § 12.230 Shareholders' Resolutions Approving Plan of Distribution of Assets in Kind

This form is a shareholders' resolution approving a plan of distribution of the corporations's assets in kind. If the consent of shareholders to a plan of distribution of the noncash assets of the corporation which is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles [see Corp. Code § 2007(a)] is to be obtained at a meeting of the shareholders, the resolutions set forth in this form should be adopted.

It is not necessary to hold a shareholders' meeting to obtain shareholders' consent to the adoption of a plan of liquidation that is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles, because that consent may be obtained in writing [Corp. Code §§ 194, 603(a), 2007(a); see § 12.227]. However, if a meeting is held proper call [Corp. Code § 600(d)] and notice [Corp. Code § 601(a), (b)] must be given [see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements (call and notice of shareholders' meetings)]. The vote may be taken at the shareholders' annual meeting or at a special meeting, but in either event, for a vote on a plan of distribution pursuant to Corp. Code § 2007(a) to be valid, the notice of the meeting must contain a statement of the general nature of the proposal to be voted on [Corp. Code § 601(f)].

After a plan of distribution of the noncash assets of the corporation which is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles has been approved by the board of directors [see § 12.226], it must be approved by the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding voting shares of each class of stock, or a higher percentage if the articles require it [Corp. Code §§ 152, 2007(a)]. If the plan of distribution is approved at the meeting by the required percentage of the outstanding voting shares of each class, the minutes of the meeting should reflect that fact. For forms and discussion of the minutes of annual and special meetings of shareholders, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements .

This form is a notice to preferred shareholders of a plan of distribution. If a plan of distribution that is not in accordance with the liquidation preferences of preferred shareholders is adopted by approval of the board and the outstanding shares [*Corp. The notice must be given within 20 days after the adoption of the plan [Corp. Code § 2007(b)]. The plan is adopted on the date that the shareholders vote. However, if the shareholders adopt the plan by written consent and fewer than all of the shareholders are solicited for their written consent, notice must be given to all nonconsenting shareholders [see § 12.228] and a 10-day waiting period after the giving of notice is imposed before the plan can be considered to be adopted [*Corp. This form may be used by a preferred shareholder who dissents from the adoption of a plan of distribution of corporate assets that is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of the preferred shares as specified in the articles [Corp. Code § 2007(c)]. Shareholders with liquidation preferences may demand to be paid in cash their liquidation preferences, including any preferred dividend arrearages to which they are entitled, rather than accept the distribution of assets as set forth in the plan of distribution [Corp. Code § 2007(c)]. The preferred shareholder's written dissent and demand for cash payment must be filed within 30 days after the date of mailing of the notice of the adoption of the plan required by Corp. Code § 2007(b) [Corp. Code § 2007(c)]. For further discussion, see § 12.220.

The demand should be signed in the same manner that the shareholder's name appears on the certificate. If the stock is held jointly, both parties should execute the demand. If the shareholder holds several stock certificates, the shareholder should execute additional demands for each of the following, when applicable:

- If the names appear differently on the certificates.
- If some shares are held jointly and not others.
- If the shares constitute different classes of stock having different liquidation preferences.

§ 12.234 Assumption of Corporate Debts and Liabilities by Shareholders

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an assumption of corporate liabilities by the shareholders. All known corporate debts and liabilities must be paid or adequately provided for before the remaining assets of a corporation in the process of winding up can be distributed to its shareholders [Corp. Code § 2004]. This form may be used when the shareholders of the corporation choose to assume its liabilities and debts as the method of providing for their payment. Assumption of the debts and liabilities by the shareholders is only one of several ways that corporate debts and liabilities can be adequately provided for [see [b], below].

In most dissolutions of small corporations when the property is being distributed to the shareholders as tenants in common, all of the known liabilities and debts of the corporation that have not yet become due ordinarily are assumed by the shareholders in the same proportion as their share holdings. However, in some cases, the corporate assets will be valued and distributed to the shareholders on the basis of that value and on the basis of the amount of liabilities to be assumed by each shareholder. In this case, the liabilities of the corporation are not assumed proportionately by the shareholders, and this form should be modified to specify those liabilities being assumed by each shareholder.

To the extent that an unknown liability is not assumed by the shareholders, each shareholder will be liable, to the extent of the distributions received from the corporation, for that liability [see Corp. Code § 2009(a), (b)]. Suit against the shareholder(s) may be brought by the corporation [Corp. Code § 2009(a)], or by an unpaid creditor in the name of the corporation [Corp. Code § 2009(b)]. To the extent that a shareholder satisfies any unknown and unassumed liability in excess of the shareholder's proportionate share of that liability, the shareholder has the right of ratable contribution from the other shareholders [Corp. Code § 2009(c)].

[b] Alternative Methods of Providing for Debts

The assumption of corporate debts by shareholders is only one method of adequately providing for the known debts and liabilities of a corporation before distributing the corporation's assets to the shareholders. In general, a liability or debt is paid or adequately provided for if: (1) payment is assumed or guaranteed in good faith by one or more financially responsible persons, corporations, or by the United States government or one of its agencies and the provision was determined by the directors, acting with reasonable care and on good faith, to be adequate at the time of any distribution of assets; or (2) the maximum amount of the debt or liability is deposited with the Controller in trust for the benefit of those entitled to the payment, and accompanied by a statement of the name of the person entitled to the debt, the time the debt was created, and any information possessed as to the residence of the person entitled to the debt [Corp. Code §§ 2005(a), (b), 2008].

ASSUMPTION OF CORPORATE DEBTS AND LIABILITIES BY SHAREHOLDERS

This assumption of debts and liabilities is made as of _____[date], by the undersigned as shareholders of _____[name of corporation], a California corporation.

WHEREAS, _____[name of corporation] has elected to wind up and dissolve:

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the distribution by the corporation to the undersigned shareholders of certain assets and properties of the corporation, and in order to complete the winding up and dissolution, each of the undersigned shareholders agrees that, to the extent of the property and assets received by him or her in distribution by the corporation pursuant to the winding up and dissolution, he or she hereby assumes and agrees to discharge the known liabilities and obligations of the corporation not in fact discharged or otherwise adequately provided for in the winding up and dissolution. However, each of the undersigned shareholders retains the right of contribution and recovery as provided in Corporations Code Section 2001(c) and as otherwise provided by law. This assumption of debts and liabilities is effective as of the date of distribution of the corporate assets to the undersigned shareholders.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, each of the undersigned has signed his or her name and the date of signing and the number of shares of the corporation entitled to vote held by him or her of record on this date.

§ 12.235 Distribution of Assets to Shareholders in Kind--Assignment of All Assets to Shareholders

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

If the assets of the corporation are to be distributed to the shareholders in kind, it is necessary to prepare documents transferring title. This form is a simple assignment of all of the assets to the shareholders in undivided interests in proportion to their interests in the corporation. If any property is to be transferred to fewer than all of the shareholders, this form must be modified accordingly. It is also necessary to prepare all deeds and other documents of transfer, such as assignments of leases, necessary to transfer the property to the shareholders. For forms and discussion of deeds, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording . For a form and discussion of assignment of lease, see Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests .

[b] Distribution of Assets in Kind

In the case of a small corporation with few shareholders, the assets may be distributed to them as tenants in common with the same interests in the assets as they had in the corporation. This approach is common when the shareholders will continue to operate the business in a noncorporate form. In many cases they will immediately transfer the assets to a partnership. It is also desirable to transfer the assets to the shareholders as tenants in common when there is a disagreement as to the value of the assets and the disagreement cannot be settled prior to the time that they desire to make distributions. In many cases, this problem can be avoided by making a determination as to the distribution of the assets before the making of the election to dissolve. Alternatively, the assets may be transferred to a liquidating trust [see § 12.280].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

It may be desirable from a tax standpoint for the shareholders to acknowledge receipt of all of the property of the corporation, especially when the distributions must have been made during a certain period, such as in the case of a Section 332 dissolution [see I.R.C. § 332] or a Section 337 dissolution [see I.R.C. § 337]. If a receipt document is executed, it is very difficult for the Internal Revenue Service to take the position that the property was not distributed within the required period.

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's form for a certificate of dissolution of a corporation to be used once the corporation has initiated a voluntary dissolution by an election to dissolve. If the election to dissolve is not made by the vote of all the outstanding shares, a Certificate of Election to Wind Up and Dissolve (Form ELEC STK) [see § 12.205] must be filed either before or together with this form. In lieu of this form, a corporation can file a Short Form Certificate of Dissolution (Form DSF STK) if specified requirements are met [see § 12.242].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/bpd_forms.htm#corp . You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12.240. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request, and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

The certificate must be dated, signed, and verified under penalty of perjury by a majority of the directors of the corporation in office at the time, or by the sole director, if there is only one [Corp. Code § 1905(a)]. If additional signature space is necessary, any additional dated and verified signatures may be made on 8-1/2" x 11" attachments.

For further discussion and a drafting guide to certificates of dissolution, see §§ 12.20[6] and 12.130.

[b] Dissolution by Court Order as Alternative to Filing Certificate

In lieu of filing a certificate of dissolution with the Secretary of State, the directors may petition the superior court for an order declaring the corporation duly wound up and dissolved [Corp. Code § 1907; see § 12.20[7]]. For a form for such a petition, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 170, Corporations: Dissolution and Winding Up (Matthew Bender).

[c] Filing Requirements and Fees

All dissolution documents must be filed with the Secretary of State in the Sacramento office. Mailing or submitting documents to branch offices, or other state or federal agencies, including the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, will not satisfy the filing requirements for corporate dissolution.

The original and at least two copies of the certificate should be included in the submission. There is no fee required to file a certificate of dissolution by mail [Gov. Code § 12186(o)]. For proof of submission of proposed dissolution documents, the Secretary of State's office recommends that documents be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. A self-addressed envelope and letter referencing the corporate name and file number, as well as the attorney's name, return address, and telephone number should also be submitted.

The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the certificate at no charge, provided that they are submitted with the original for filing [see also Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies submitted with the originals will be certified on request and payment of a per copy fee. A certified copy should be placed in the corporation's minute book.

A $15 special handling fee applies for processing documents delivered in person at the public counter in the Sacramento Office. This fee must be remitted by separate check as it will be retained regardless of whether the documents are filed or rejected.

Preclearance or expedited filing of eligible corporate documents can be requested in a specified time frame, for an additional fee (in lieu of the $15 special handling fee) [see Gov. Code § 12182(c)]. This preclearance/expedited filing service is not available in the branch offices.

[d] Effect of Filing Certificate

Once the certificate is filed, the corporation's powers, rights, and privileges will cease. The Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board of the dissolution [Corp. Code § 1905(b)]. The Secretary of State will provide the taxpayer with an acknowledgment of the receipt of all winding up and dissolution documents on or before 21 days after their receipt [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23331(c)].

However, even after the filing of a certificate of dissolution, or the entry of a court order declaring the corporation wound up and dissolved, the corporation is not absolutely extinguished. The corporation continues to exist for the purpose of winding up its affairs, prosecuting and defending actions against it, collecting and discharging obligations, conveying corporate property, and collecting and dividing assets [Corp. Code § 2010(a); see Penasquitos, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 1180, 283 Cal. Rptr. 135, 812 P.2d 154 ; see, e.g., Catalina Investments, Inc. v. Jones (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 1, 7-8, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 256 (as consequence of dissolved status, former corporation lacked capacity to submit purported certificate of revocation of dissolution more than four years later, in attempt to reinstate corporate existence)]. Actions or proceedings to which a corporation is a party do not abate as a result of the dissolution of the corporation, or by reason of proceedings for winding up and dissolution [Corp. Code § 2010(b)]. Causes of action against a dissolved corporation, whether arising before or after the dissolution, may be enforced against the dissolved corporation to the extent of its undistributed assets [Corp. Code § 2011(a)(1)(A)]. Further, if any of the assets of the dissolved corporation have been distributed to shareholders, causes of action against the dissolved corporation may be enforced against the shareholders to the extent of the lesser of (1) their pro rata share of the claim or (2) the corporate assets distributed to them, regardless of whether the cause of action arose before or after the dissolution [Corp. Code § 2011(a)(1)(B); see § 12.20[8]].

§ 12.250 Shareholders' Written Consent to Revocation of Election to Dissolve

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain the written consent of shareholders representing a majority of the voting power of a corporation to revoke a voluntary election to dissolve the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 194, 603(a), 1902(a)]. A certificate evidencing the revocation [see § 12.252] must be signed, verified, and filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1902(a)].

[b] Revocation of Voluntary Election to Dissolve

In general, a voluntary election to dissolve may be revoked in the same manner that it was made. A voluntary election to dissolve the corporation may be revoked by shareholders representing a majority of the voting power at any time before the distribution of assets to the shareholders [Corp. Code § 1902(a)]. The revocation may be made by the vote or the written consent of the shareholders [Corp. Code §§ 194, 603(a), 1902(a)]. Ordinarily, revocation of the election to dissolve is by written consent. If so, prompt notice of the revocation by written consent must be given to those shareholders who did not consent in writing, unless the consents of all shareholders entitled to vote were solicited in writing [Corp. Code § 603(b)(2)].

[c] More Than 100 Shareholders

This form must be modified if it will be used by a corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons, unless the form is to be distributed to fewer than 10 of the shareholders. Any written consent form distributed to 10 or more shareholders of a corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons must do both of the following [Corp. Code § 604(a)]:

- Allow the shareholder to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters to be acted on; and

- Provide that when a choice is specified, the shares will be voted in accordance with that choice.

If the revocation of the election to dissolve is by the vote of the shareholders at a meeting, the resolutions in § 12.251 should be adopted at the meeting.

Written Consent of Shareholders to Revocation of Election to Dissolve

WRITTEN CONSENT OF SHAREHOLDERS TO REVOCATION OF ELECTION TO WIND UP AND DISSOLVE _____ [name of corporation], A CALIFORNIA CORPORATION

The undersigned shareholders of record of _____[name of corporation], a California corporation, whose shares represent more than 50 percent of the voting power of the corporation, hereby elect and consent to revoke the election to wind up and dissolve, a certificate of which was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on _____[date]. The undersigned do authorize and direct the officers or directors to execute a certificate evidencing the election to revoke the election to wind up and dissolve, pursuant to and in conformity with the Corporations Code Section 1902, to cause that certificate to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and to take any further action as may be necessary or convenient to revoke that election.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, each of the undersigned shareholders of record has executed and dated this written consent, and has stated the number of shares entitled to vote for the election of directors held by him or her of record as of that date.

This form is a resolution by the shareholders of a corporation revoking an earlier election to dissolve. If the election to revoke the dissolution is to be obtained at a meeting of the shareholders, the resolutions set forth in this form should be adopted and inserted in the appropriate place in the minutes of the shareholders' meeting. If the revocation is to be adopted by the vote of the shareholders it is necessary that proper call [Corp. Code § 600(d)] and notice [Corp. Code § 601(a), (b)] of the meeting be given, even though the election could have been made by the written consent of the shareholders, without the necessity of holding a meeting [see § 12.250].

In general, a voluntary election to dissolve may be revoked in the same manner that it was made. A voluntary election to dissolve the corporation may be revoked by shareholders representing a majority of the voting power at any time before the distribution of assets to the shareholders [Corp. Code § 1902(a)]. The revocation may be by the vote or the written consent of the shareholders [Corp. Code §§ 194, 603(a), 1902(a)].

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.252

§ 12.252 Certificate of Revocation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of revocation of election to dissolve. It must be filed with the Secretary of State to revoke a previously filed certificate of election to wind up and dissolve [Corp. Code § 1902(a)]. The certificate must be signed, verified, and filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1902(a)].

This form contains two alternative versions of Paragraph 4. The first is for use in the usual case when the election to dissolve and the revocation of that election were by the vote or written consent of the shareholders. The second is for use when the election to dissolve and revocation were by the board of directors [see Corp. Code §§ 1900(b), 1902(a)]. Revocation by approval of the board alone is permitted if the original election was approved solely by the board [see Corp. Code § 1900(b); see also § 12.20[1][b]].

This certificate is an officers' certificate. A certificate of revocation must be either an officers' certificate [see Corp. Code § 173] or executed by at least a majority of the directors then in office, or by one or more shareholders authorized to do so by shareholders holding 50 percent or more of the voting power [Corp. Code §§ 1901(b), 1902(a)]. An officers' certificate is a certificate signed and verified by the chairman of the board, the president, or any vice president and the secretary, the chief financial officer, or the treasurer, or any assistant secretary or assistant treasurer [Corp. Code § 173]. The certificate must be verified [Corp. Code §§ 173, 1901(b), 1902(a)] either by affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2009] or by declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. If the certificate will instead be executed by the directors or shareholders, such as when the shareholders have reason to believe that the officers would refuse to execute the certificate, the form should be modified.

An original and at least two copies of the certificate should be sent to the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State will certify up to two copies without charge, provided that they are submitted with the original. One certified copy should be placed in the corporation's minute book. The filing fee for the original is set forth in Gov. Code § 12186(p). For further discussion of fees, see § 12.240[1][c].

[b] Contents of Certificate

If the revocation of the election to dissolve the corporation was by the shareholders, the certificate must set forth the following [Corp. Code § 1902(b)(1)-(3)]:

- That the corporation has revoked its election to wind up and dissolve;
- That no assets have been distributed pursuant to the dissolution; and
- The number of shares voting for revocation and the total number of outstanding shares the holders of which were entitled to vote on the revocation.

If the revocation was made by the directors, that fact must be stated [Corp. Code § 1902(b)(4)].

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains the resolutions of the board of directors of a domestic nonprofit corporation to wind up and dissolve adopted at a special meeting of the board convened to discuss dissolution. Voluntary dissolution proceedings commence on the filing of the adoption of a resolution electing dissolution by the members, the board and the members, or, in certain circumstances, the board acting alone [see Corp. Code §§ 6613(a), 8613(a), 9680(a)].

The form contains alternative provisions for use if the directors may initiate the dissolution on its own, or if the directors must obtain the vote or written consent of the members in support of dissolution of the corporation.

This form can be used when the directors may initiate dissolution proceedings on their own--i.e., when corporation has no members, has been the subject of an order for relief in bankruptcy, has disposed of all of its assets and has not conducted any activity for the immediately preceding five years, or is a subordinate corporation required to dissolve after the loss of its charter [see Corp. Code §§ 6610(b), 8610(b), 9680(b)(2)]. The form can also be used when the directors must secure the members' consent to dissolution [see Corp. Code §§ 6610(a), 8610(a), 9680(b)(1); see also § 12.40[2]].

The form also contains optional resolutions stating that the corporation will pay all known debts and liabilities, set aside a reserve, and distribute any remaining assets appropriately [see Corp. Code §§ 6716, 8717, 9680; see also § 12.20[4][d]]. Finally, the form authorizes the directors and officers to take all other necessary actions.

§ 12.261 Members' Written Ballot to Elect to Wind Up and Dissolve

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a ballot that may be used to obtain the consent of a majority of the members to wind up and dissolve a nonprofit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 6610(a), 8610(a), 9680(b)(1); Corp. Code §§ 5033, 5034; see also § 12.40[2]]. Voluntary dissolution proceedings commence on the filing of the adoption of a resolution electing dissolution by the members, the board and the members, or, in certain circumstances, the board acting alone [see Corp. Code §§ 6613(a), 8613(a), 9680(a)]. In general, and unless prohibited in the articles or bylaws, any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting if the corporation distributes a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter [see Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a), 9413(a)]. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a)*]. Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the ballot and any related material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation and responses may be returned to the corporation by electronic transmission to the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21]. The ballot must set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, and provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot to the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), (c), 7513(a), (c)]. If written ballots are distributed to 10 or more members of a corporation with at least 100 members, the ballot must specify that, when a member indicates a choice on any matter presented in the ballot, the vote will be cast as directed, subject to reasonable specified conditions [Corp. Code §§ 5514(a), 7514(a)]. Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, a written ballot may not be revoked [Corp. Code §§ 5513(d), 7513(d)].

The ballots must be properly solicited [see Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 5514, 7511(b), 7514]. The solicitation must specify the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement, the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the matter at hand, and the time by which the ballot must be received in order to be counted [Corp. Code §§ 5513(c), 7513(c)]. The ballot solicitation must be delivered to each member, personally, by electronic transmission by the corporation, or by first class mail, postage prepaid, or by other means of written communication, addressed to the member at the address appearing on the corporation's books or given by that member for the purpose of notice [Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 5513(c), 7511(b), 7513(c)].

Approval by written ballot is valid only when the number of votes cast by ballot within the designated time period equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot [Corp. Code §§ 5513(b), 7513(b)].

[c] Ballot Requirements for Religious Corporations

Any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting if the corporation solicits the written ballot of every member entitled to vote on the matter and the required number of signed approvals are received [see Corp. Code § 9413(a)]. The signed approvals must set forth the proposed action [Corp. Code § 9413(a), (c)]. A written ballot may not be revoked [Corp. Code § 9413(d)].

Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the ballot and any related material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation and responses may be returned to the corporation by electronic transmission to the corporation [Corp. Code § 9413(a); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21].

The ballots must be properly solicited [see Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 5514, 7511(b), 7514]. The solicitation must specify the time by which the ballot must be received in order to be counted [Corp. Code § 9413(b)].

Approval by written ballot is valid only when the number of ballots cast within the designated time period equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of ballots cast [Corp. Code § 9413(c)].

§ 12.262 Domestic Nonprofit Corporation Certificate of Election to Wind Up and Dissolve (Form ELEC NP)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of election to wind up and dissolve a domestic nonprofit corporation. As noted below, it is available on the Secretary of State's website, where it can be filled in online, downloaded, and printed out. Use of the Secretary's form is not required, and any format that meets the statutory requirements may be used. However, use of the standard form is recommended inasmuch as it is easy to complete and there is no advantage to using any other version.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/bpd_forms.htm#corp . You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12.262. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request, and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

This form is intended for use when the election is made by the members, the board and the members, or the board acting alone [see Corp. Code §§ 6610(a), (b), 8610(a), (b), 9680(b); see also [2], P3, below; Committee to Save the Beverly Highlands Homes Association v. The Beverly Highlands Homes Association (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 1247, 1262-1263, 1271, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 732 (trial court erred in granting summary judgment to plaintiffs who sought to enjoin allegedly wrongful dissolution of nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, based on finding that nonprofit corporation was common interest development within meaning of Davis-Stirling Act)].

The certificate must be filed with the Secretary of State immediately after the corporation elects to wind up and dissolve, either before or simultaneously with the certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 6611(a), 8611(a), 9680(a); see Secretary of State's website; see also [c], below]. A copy of the election must be filed with the Attorney General [Corp. Code §§ 6611(a), 8611(a), 9680(a)].

The separate filing of this certificate is not required if (1) the election is made by the vote of all the members of a corporation with members or (2) the election was made by all members of the board of directors of a corporation without members and (3) a statement to that effect is included in the certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 6611(c), 8611(c), 9680(a); see also 12.266].

For a transmittal letter, see § 12.207.

The certificate of election to wind up and dissolve must state the following [Corp. Code §§ 6611(b), 8611(b), 9680(a)]:

- That the corporation has elected to wind up and dissolve; and
- If the election was made by the members alone, the number of votes for the election and that the number constitutes a majority of all members; or
- That the election was made by the board of directors and a majority of the members; or
- If the election was made by the board alone, the circumstance showing that the corporation is of type that the board may dissolve on its own [see § 12.40[2]].

If the certificate is executed by a member or members, the certificate must also show that the subscribing member(s) were authorized to execute the certificate by a majority of all members [Corp. Code §§ 6611(b)(4), 8611(b)(4), 9680(a)].

The certificate must either be an officers' certificate [see Corp. Code § 173] or be signed and verified by at least a majority of the directors then in office, or by one or more members authorized to do so by the approval of a majority of all members [Corp. Code §§ 6611(b), 8611(b), 9680(a)]. An officers' certificate is a certificate signed and verified by the chairman of the board, the president, or any vice president and the secretary, the chief financial officer, or the treasurer, or any assistant secretary or assistant treasurer [Corp. Code § 173]. The verification may be by affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2009] or by declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. If the declaration is made under penalty of perjury, the certificate must state the date and place of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

The Secretary of State's office requires that all dissolution documents must be filed with the Secretary of State in the Sacramento office. Mailing or submitting documents to branch offices, or other state or federal agencies, including the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, will not satisfy the filing requirements for corporate dissolution.

The original and at least two copies of the certificate should be included in the submission. There is no fee required to file a certificate of election to wind up and dissolve by mail [Gov. Code § 12186(o)]. For proof of submission of proposed dissolution documents, the Secretary of State's office recommends that documents be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. A self-addressed envelope and letter referencing the corporate name and file number, as well as the attorney's name, return address, and telephone number should also be submitted.

The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the certificate at no charge, provided that they are submitted with the original for filing [see Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies submitted with the originals will be certified on request and payment of a per copy fee. A certified copy should be placed in the corporation's minute book.

A special handling fee applies for processing documents delivered in person at the public counter in the Sacramento Office. This fee must be remitted by separate check as it will be retained regardless of whether the documents are filed or rejected.

Preclearance or expedited filing of eligible corporate documents can be requested in a specified time frame, for an additional fee (in lieu of the special handling fee) [see Gov. Code § 12182(c)]. This preclearance/expedited filing service is not available in the branch offices.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

When a nonprofit corporation elects to dissolve, it must give notice to the Attorney General and submit a copy of the certificate of election to wind up and dissolve [see § 12.262[2]] if one is filed [Corp. Code §§ 6611(a), 8611(a), 9680(a); see § 12.262[1][a]]. In order to distribute any assets remaining after the corporation's debts and liabilities are paid, and after the return of any corporate property subject to a condition requiring their return to the proper distributee, the corporation must secure a court decree or the Attorney General's waiver of objections [see Corp. Code §§ 6716(c), 8716(c), 9680(e); see § 12.41]. This form provides the requisite notice and seeks such a waiver.

The form should be accompanied by copies of the corporation's organizational instruments, exemption letters, and documentation supporting the proposed distribution of assets.

PART IV. FORMS

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.264

§ 12.264 Notice to Creditors and Members of Voluntary Dissolution

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form notifies members and creditors that a voluntary proceeding to wind up and dissolve the corporation has commenced. The notice must be mailed to all members (except that notice is not required to be given to the members who voted in favor of winding up and dissolving the corporation [but see below]), to all known creditors and claimants whose addresses appear on the records of the corporation, and to the Attorney General [Corp. Code §§ 6613(c), 8613(c), 9680(a); see § 12.263]. The date on which proceedings for voluntary dissolution are deemed to begin is the date that the resolution to elect to wind up and dissolve was adopted by the members, the members and the board, or the board alone [Corp. Code §§ 6613(a), 8613(a), 9680(a)].

Although notice is not required to be given to members who voted in favor of winding up and dissolving the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 6613(c), 8613(c), 9680(a)], it would appear to be good practice to send notice to all members, whether or not they voted in favor of dissolution. Therefore, this form states that notice is being sent to all members. If the notice will only be sent to those members who did not vote for dissolution, the form should be amended accordingly.

It is also advisable to have the officer (typically the secretary) who caused notice to be given to execute a certificate stating that notice of the dissolution was given to all members, creditors and claimants, and the Attorney General. For a form that may be adapted for this use, see § 12.209.

§ 12.266 Domestic Nonprofit Corporation Certificate of Dissolution (Form DISS NP)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's form for a certificate of dissolution of a domestic nonprofit corporation. If the election to dissolve is not made by the vote of all members, or if the corporation has no members, by the vote of all the directors, a Certificate of Election to Wind Up and Dissolve (Form ELEC STK) [see § 12.205] must be filed either before or together with this form. As noted below, it is available on the Secretary of State's website, where it can be filled in online, downloaded, and printed out.

A majority of the directors then in office must execute and verify the certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 6615(a), 8615(a), 9680(a)]. Verification may be by affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2009], or by declaration under penalty of perjury [Corp. Code § 193; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. The sample forms that appear on the Secretary of State's website use a declaration under penalty of perjury.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/bpd_forms.htm#corp You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12.266. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request, and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

The certificate of dissolution must be filed with the Secretary of State when all the debts of the corporation have been paid or adequately provided for, the assets distributed to shareholders, and the corporation completely wound up without court proceedings [Corp. Code §§ 6615(a), 8615(a), 9680; but see [b], below].

Nonprofit public benefit and religious corporations must attach a document, issued by the Attorney General, waiving objections to the corporation's distribution of assets or confirming that the corporation has no assets [Corp. Code §§ 6615(b), 9860(a); see [c], below; see also § 12.263 (request for waiver of objections)]. Nonprofit mutual benefit corporations must instead state in the certificate of dissolution that the corporation's known assets have been distributed to the persons entitled to them, or that the corporation acquired no known assets [Corp. Code § 8615(a)].

[b] Dissolution by Court Order as Alternative to Filing Certificate

If the board of a public benefit, mutual benefit, or religious corporation petitions the superior court of the proper county for an order declaring the corporation wound up, the corporation must file the petition is lieu of a certificate [Corp. Code §§ 6617, 8617, 9680(a); see § 12.40[5][a]]. For a form for such a petition, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 170, Corporations: Dissolution and Winding Up (Matthew Bender).

Nonprofit public benefit and religious corporations must attach one of the following documents, issued by the Attorney General, to the certificate of dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 6615(b), 9860(a)]:

- A written waiver of objections to the distribution of the corporation's assets [see Corp. Code § 6716(c); see also § 12.263 (request for waiver of objections)]; or
- A written confirmation that the corporation has no assets.

The Secretary of State will not accept a certificate of dissolution for filing unless one of these documents is attached to the certificate [Corp. Code §§ 6615(c), 9860(a)].

All dissolution documents must be filed with the Secretary of State in the Sacramento office. The Secretary of State's office advises that mailing or submitting documents to branch offices, or other state or federal agencies, including the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, will not satisfy the filing requirements for corporate dissolution.

The original and at least two copies of the certificate should be included in the submission. There is no fee required to file a certificate of dissolution by mail [Gov. Code § 12186(o)]. For proof of submission of proposed dissolution documents, the Secretary of State's office recommends that documents be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. The Secretary of State's office also advises that a self-addressed envelope and letter referencing the corporate name and file number, as well as the attorney's name, return address, and telephone number, should also be submitted.

The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the certificate at no charge, provided that they are submitted with the original for filing [see Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies submitted with the originals will be certified on request and payment of a per copy fee. A certified copy should be placed in the corporation's minute book.

A $15 special handling fee applies for processing documents delivered in person at the public counter in the Sacramento Office. This fee must be remitted by separate check as it will be retained regardless of whether the documents are filed or rejected.

Preclearance or expedited filing of eligible corporate documents can be requested in a specified time frame, for an additional fee (in lieu of the $15 special handling fee) [see Gov. Code § 12182(c)]. This preclearance/expedited filing service is not available in the branch offices.

[d] Effect of Filing Certificate

The corporate existence will cease when the Secretary of State has accepted and filed the certificate of dissolution and attachment by the Secretary of State, except for the purpose of further winding up if needed. The Secretary of State will.notify the Franchise Tax Board of the dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 6615(c), 8615(b), 9680(a)]. The Secretary of State will provide the taxpayer with an acknowledgment of the receipt of all winding up and dissolution documents on or before 21 days after their receipt [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23331(c)].

However, even after the filing of a certificate of dissolution, or the entry of a court order declaring the corporation wound up and dissolved, the corporation is not absolutely extinguished. The corporation continues to exist for the purpose of winding up its affairs, prosecuting and defending actions against it, collecting and discharging obligations, conveying corporate property, and collecting and dividing assets [Corp. Code §§ 6720(a), 8722(a), 9680(a)]. Actions or proceedings to which a corporation is a party do not abate as a result of the dissolution of the corporation, or by reason of proceedings for winding up and dissolution [Corp. Code §§ 6720(b), 8722(b), 9680(a)]. Further, if any assets are inadvertently or otherwise omitted from the winding up, those assets continue in the dissolved corporation for the benefit of the persons entitled to them on dissolution and must be distributed to them [Corp. Code §§ 6720(c), 8722(c), 9680(a)]. For further discussion, see § 12.40[7].

§ 12.280 Liquidating Trust Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of form

This form is a liquidating trust agreement to establish an irrevocable trust to complete the winding up and dissolution of a corporation. The form may be used by domestic stock corporations, as well as nonprofit mutual benefit corporations. The trust is drafted in terms of shareholders, but may be easily amended to cover members.

The trust agreement terms should be tailored to the purpose of the trust: the orderly disposition of a dissolving corporation's assets. The term of the trust is limited to a finite number of years; its duration should be based on a reasonable estimate of the time needed to properly dispose of the trust's assets.

The form provides that the trustee will hold the trust assets for disposition, but in the interim will manage the assets in the best interests of the beneficiaries. The trustee will collect payments on any promissory notes and accounts receivable, but may not conduct any business on behalf of the trust. The trustee has the ordinary powers and duties of a trustee, including maintaining books and records and filing necessary tax returns. On termination, the trustee will provide a complete accounting of all transactions made under the authority of the trust agreement.

The corporation must convey and assign the remaining assets to the trust. For a form that may be adapted to this purpose, see § 12.235.

[b] Circumstances Warranting Use of Trust

In most cases of dissolution, a sale of the corporation's assets for cash will be the best way to make a ratable distribution among the shareholders. A cash distribution is simpler to make and does not involve the problems inherent in distribution of noncash assets to shareholders as tenants in common. Ratable noncash distributions are likely to be economically undesirable and to pose serious problems of valuation and fairness. However, in many circumstances, such as the following, a ratable cash distribution is not practical. In the following circumstances, the use of a liquidating trust may be useful:

- When the distribution of the corporation's assets will be complicated, either because of the nature of the assets or their valuation.
- When the corporation has unliquidated debts.
- When some shareholders or members cannot be found.
- When the shareholders or members are so numerous that it is impractical for them to manage the property as tenants in common.
- When there is substantial conflict amongst the shareholders or members.

For example, if the corporation holds several promissory notes, and it is impractical to break the notes into smaller denominations so that they can be divided among the shareholders or members, a liquidating trust might be useful to collect the proceeds and ratably distribute them to the trust beneficiaries.

5-12 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12.281

§ 12.281 Final Quarterly Wage and Withholding Report [EDD Form DE-6]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is EDD Form DE-6, the quarterly wage and withholding report that an employer must file on discontinuing business. It may be filled in online and printed out by going to the Payroll Taxes-Forms and Publications page of the Employment Development Department (EDD) website at http://www.edd.ca.gov/Payroll_Taxes/Forms_and_Publications.htm . The form is also available from any district office of the EDD. The official EDD instructions to Form DE-6 and the EDD checklist for completing Form DE 6 (EDD Form DE 6CL) are also reproduced here, along with the text of the form itself. Form DE-7 [see § 12.282], the reconciliation of income tax withheld, must be filed at the same time as this form.

[b] Filing and Payment Requirements

Within 10 days after the earlier of commencing dissolution proceedings or "quitting business," every domestic corporation must file a final contribution return and report of wages of its employees with the EDD [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(2)]. "Quitting business" does not include any change in the form or membership of the employer if before and after the change, 50 percent or more of the control of management is held by the same individual, or is held by an individual before death and after death by his or her estate or heirs [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(4)].

The EDD requires that form DE-6 be used to make the report mentioned above [see EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44]. When completing the form, Box D must be checked to indicate that this is a final report. The form should be mailed to the EDD, addressed as follows:

State of California Employment Development Department
P.O. Box 826288
Sacramento, CA 94230-2688

Note that Form DE-7, which is also required, should be sent to a different post office box address [see § 12.282]; thus, the two forms should not be sent under the same cover. Magnetic media filing requires prior approval, which may be obtained from the EDD Magnetic Media Coordinator, P.O. Box 942840, Sacramento, CA 94280-0001, (916) 654-6845 [see EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44].

The corporation must also pay contributions with respect to the return within 10 days of quitting business [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(b)]. These payments should be made using the standard payroll tax deposit coupons supplied by the EDD [see EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44]. Form DE-6 and the payroll tax payment may be submitted together, but if they are mailed together they must be mailed to the payroll tax deposit coupon mailing address instead of the address listed for Form DE-6 in the preceding paragraph. Address labels are located in the back of the payroll tax booklet [see EDD California Employer's Guide, Pub. No. DE 44]. A 10-percent penalty, plus interest, accrues for delinquent payments [Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1112, 1113; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19521 (computation of interest)]. The 10 percent penalty also applies to payments that, although required to be submitted electronically, an employer submits by means other than an electronic funds transfer without good cause [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1112(b)]. For good cause, however, the EDD may extend for 30 days the time in which the corporation may file a return or pay any amount due without penalty or interest [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(c)].

For further coverage of unemployment contribution procedures on termination of a business, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

CHAPTER 12A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.10

§ 12A.10 Governing Law

[1] Multiple Statutes Govern Professional Corporations

Professional corporations are governed by three sets of California statutes and by regulations promulgated by the state agencies that regulate the services rendered by the various types of professional corporations:

- The Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act (Professional Corporation Act) [see Corp. Code § 13400 et seq.] authorizes the formation of professional corporations and sets forth the general law applicable to professional corporations [see [2], below].

- The Business and Professions Code contains separate sets of provisions for every profession that may incorporate. These provisions state the requirements for the particular types of professional corporations and authorize the state agencies regulating the professions to adopt rules covering professional corporations under their respective jurisdictions. Title 16 of the California Code of Regulations contains all rules of this type, with the exception of the Law Corporation Rules of the State Bar. It is critical to consult these rules when forming a professional corporation because they regulate matters such as corporate names, annual reports, and the practice of multiple professions [see § 12A.01[2]].

- The General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 100 et seq.] governs professional corporations except in instances when its provisions are inconsistent with those of the Professional Corporation Act [Corp. Code § 13403]. The General Corporation Law governs most aspects of formation, operation, and dissolution of professional corporations.

Professional corporations formed under the General Corporation Law may take advantage of the close corporation provisions in that law [see Corp. Code § 158]. Articles of incorporation for close corporations must contain special provisions and share certificates must contain a special legend [see Corp. Code § 186; see also Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements]. The shareholders' agreement is probably the most important document regulating the affairs of a close corporation. The attorney drafting a shareholders' agreement for a closely held professional corporation must ensure that it complies with the Professional Corporation Act.

Because the provisions of the Professional Corporation Act prevail over inconsistent or conflicting provisions of the General Corporation Law, the shareholders' agreement cannot waive those provisions. For example, the General Corporation Law provides that requirements applicable to officers of the corporation [see Corp. Code § 312] may be waived by a shareholder agreement [see Corp. Code § 300(c)]. However, the Professional Corporation Act specifies that certain officers must exist, and this requirement may not be waived with respect to a professional corporation.

[2] Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act

[a] Definitions

The Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act (Professional Corporation Act) [see Corp. Code § 13400 et seq.] contains several important definitions:

- "Professional services" are defined as any type of professional services that may be rendered only under a license, certification, and/or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Chiropractic Act, the Osteopathic Act, or the Yacht and Ship Brokers Act [Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3; see Bus. & Prof. Code, App., §§ 1-20].

- "Professional corporations" are defined as corporations organized under the General Corporation Law (or a professional law corporation organized as a nonprofit public benefit corporation) [see Corp. Code § 13406(b)] that is engaged in rendering professional services in a single profession under a certificate of registration issued by its governing agency and that designates itself as a professional corporation [Corp. Code § 13401(b)]. However, there are limited statutory exceptions to the single profession restriction [see Corp. Code § 13401.5; see also § 12A.14[6]]. Furthermore, there are no certification requirements for medical, osteopathic, dental, pharmacy, veterinary, architectural, court reporter, behavioral sciences, or nursing corporations [see Corp. Code § 13401(b); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 2406].

- A "licensed person" is any natural person licensed to render the same professional services as are rendered by the professional corporation of which he or she is an officer, director, shareholder, or employee [Corp. Code § 13401(d)].

- A "disqualified person" is a licensed person who becomes legally disqualified (temporarily or permanently) to render the professional services that the professional corporation renders [see Corp. Code § 13401(e)].

[b] Corporations Not Covered by Act

The Professional Corporation Act does not apply to corporations that are authorized to render professional services under other laws. In other words, such a corporation is not a professional corporation within the meaning of the Professional Corporation Act [Corp. Code § 13402(a)]. For example, realtors and engineers are separately authorized to render professional services in the corporate form [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6738 (engineers); see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10006, 10150-10159.2] and are not governed by the Professional Corporation Act.

If a corporation that is not a professional corporation conducts a business pursuant to a license or registration issued under any state law (except a law relating to taxation), the business will not be deemed the business of a professional corporation, regardless of whether a professional corporation could conduct the same business, or parts of it [Corp. Code § 13402(b)].

[c] Professional Law Corporation May Incorporate as Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation

A professional law corporation may be incorporated as a nonprofit public benefit corporation under the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law under either of the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 13406(b)]:

- The corporation is a qualified legal services project or a qualified support center [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6213(a), (b)]; or

- The professional law corporation otherwise meets all of the requirements and complies with all of the provisions of the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law, as well as all of the following requirements:

    - All of the members of the corporation, if it is a membership organization as described in the Nonprofit Corporation Law, are persons licensed to practice law in California;

    - All of the members of the professional law corporation's board of directors are persons licensed to practice law in California;

    - Seventy percent of the clients to whom the corporation provides legal services are lower income persons [see Health & Safety Code 50079.5], and to other persons who would not otherwise have access to legal services; and

    - The corporation will not enter into contingency fee contracts with clients.

A professional law corporation incorporated as a nonprofit public benefit corporation that is a recipient in good standing of State Bar funds for indigent legal services [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6213(c) ("recipient" defined)] will be deemed to have satisfied all professional law corporation filing requirements [Corp. Code § 13406(c); see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6161.1, 6162, 6163].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.12

§ 12A.12 Restrictions on Corporate Practice of Multiple Professions

Generally, a professional corporation may render services only in a single profession [Corp. Code § 13401(b)]. Shareholders and, under some circumstances, directors and certain officers, must be licensed to practice the professional services that the corporation will render [Corp. Code §§ 13401(d), 13403, 13406]. However, in some cases, persons licensed in professions other than the one that the corporation was formed to practice (that is, "allied professionals") may be shareholders, officers, directors, or professional employees rendering allied services in their own professions. In these cases, the "allied professionals" can neither outnumber professionals licensed by the agency regulating the corporation nor own more than 49 percent of the stock [Corp. Code § 13401.5]. For a list of "allied professionals" and the corporations in which they may participate as shareholders, officers, directors, or professional employees, as well as the restrictions placed on that participation, see § 12A.14[6].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 12A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.13

§ 12A.13 Advantages and Disadvantages of Incorporation

[1] Limitation of Liability Issues

When advising professionals about whether to incorporate, an attorney must decide whether incorporation will offer any business and tax advantages that otherwise would not be available. Shareholders of a professional corporation have the same insulation from liability for nonprofessional acts or omissions as the shareholders of other types of corporations [see Corp. Code § 13404.5; see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 2, Choice of Form of Doing Business (Matthew Bender)]. Furthermore, professionals forming a close corporation [see Corp. Code § 158 (definition)] will obtain the flexibility of management and still receive the limited protection of Corp. Code § 300(e), which insulates shareholders from personal liability based solely on the failure to observe corporate formalities [see Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity ; Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 2, Choice of Form (Matthew Bender); see also Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations].

However, the major source of potential liability in a professional practice is personal liability for malpractice, professional negligence, and similar claims. Incorporation as a professional corporation ordinarily will not help the professional to avoid such liability. Professional corporation shareholders ordinarily remain personally liable for claims arising from acts or omissions of the corporate practice pursuant to applicable agency regulations, which generally take one of the following forms [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 2, Choice of Form of Doing Business (Matthew Bender)]:

- A provision that the applicable laws or regulations will not alter the duties or responsibilities of licensed professionals to their clients or others [see, e.g., 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 2462 (shorthand reporting corporations)];

- A requirement that an application for a corporate certificate of registration be accompanied by a corporate guarantee of payment of all claims, signed by the shareholders [see, e.g., Law Corp. Rule IV(B)(3); 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 75.8 (accountancy corporations)]; or

- A provision that establishes shareholder liability up to specified amounts, unless insurance is purchased to cover at least those amounts [see 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 367.8 (chiropractic corporations), 1059(b) (dental corporations), 1547 (optometric corporations), 1671 (osteopathic corporations)].

Thus, insulation from shareholder professional liability is not a primary reason for adopting the corporate form. On the other hand, limitation of liability for other, nonprofessional expenses, such as expenses relating to the business aspects of the professional practice, may be a consideration if the practice has a high operating expense or overhead.

[2] Other Corporate Features

Three other important reasons for incorporating a business--free transferability of interests, centralized management, and continuity of existence--ordinarily are secondary concerns in a small professional practice. To the extent they are actually significant concerns, these goals can be achieved by agreements among partners and rarely justify the expense and effort involved in incorporating.

[3] Federal Taxation Issues

The Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA) [Pub. L. No. 97-248] was largely successful in achieving parity between corporate and noncorporate qualified pension plans. Consequently, TEFRA greatly lessened the previous principal appeal of professional corporations--the favorable treatment afforded to corporate retirement plans. Nevertheless, practice in the corporate form still offers a few tax advantages. For example, if a corporation is likely to have substantial income, it may benefit from the availability of loans to qualified pension plan participants [see § 12A.21[2][f]] and the potentially greater contribution allowances available under corporate plans [see § 12A.21[2][g]].

A professional practice that is likely to employ a significant number of persons will benefit from the deductibility of payments to fringe benefit plans, such as group term insurance [see § 12A.21[2][b]], medical, health, and accident plans [see § 12A.21[2][c], [d]], and disability income plans [see § 12A.21[2][e]]. Counsel advising a professional regarding the desirability of incorporating should review these discussions and determine whether they have any specific application to the client's own situation. If they do not, ordinarily there would be no tax reason to incorporate.

§ 12A.14 Corporate Formation

[1] Restrictions on Corporate Names

[a] Permissible Names Determined by Regulating Agency

A professional corporation may adopt any name that is permitted by the law applicable to the profession in which it will be engaged, or that is permitted by a rule or regulation of the agency regulating that profession [Corp. Code § 13409(a)].

For example, under the Medical Practice Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2000-2521], the name of a medical or podiatry corporation must be the name or surname of one or more of the present, prospective, or former shareholders who are licensed physicians or podiatrists, unless a fictitious name permit is obtained and the appropriate fee paid [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2285, 2415; 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1344(a), (b); see 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1350-1350.3 (obtaining fictitious name permit); but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2285 (exceptions for contractors, employees, or staff members of licensed clinics, licensees employed by professional corporation holding fictitious name permit, accredited outpatient surgeries, approved medical schools, and faculty practice plans)].

Without a fictitious name permit, the use of any fictitious, false, or assumed name in any public communication, advertisement, sign, or announcement of a professional practice constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2285]. If the corporate name is a physician's name or surname, and the corporate name does not include the words "medical doctor," "M.D.," "podiatrist," "doctor of podiatric medicine," or the abbreviation "M.D." or "D.P.M.," the words or abbreviations denoting corporate existence must indicate that the corporation is a medical or podiatry corporation [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1344(e)]. If a fictitious name is used, it must not be deceptive, misleading, or confusing [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2415(c)]. Regardless of whether a licensee's name or a fictitious name is used, a medical corporation's name must contain one of the following terms: "Medical Corp.," "Medical Corporation," "Podiatry Corp.," "Podiatry Corporation," "Professional Corp.," "Professional Corporation," "Corporation," "Corp.," "Incorporated," or "Inc." [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1344(c)]. However, a professional corporation with a majority of physicians and surgeons as shareholders, officers, and directors may not use the designations "Podiatry Corporation" and "Podiatry Corp." Similarly, a corporation with a majority of podiatrists as shareholders, officers, and directors may not use the designation "Medical Corporation" and "Medical Corp." [16 Cal. Code Reg. § 1344(d)].

Corp. Code § 201(b), prohibiting misleading names, does not apply to a professional corporation whose name contains and is restricted to the name or last name of one or more of the present, prospective, or former shareholders, or persons who were associated with a predecessor person, partnership, or other organization or whose name or names appeared in the name of the predecessor organization [Corp. Code § 13409]. Therefore, the Secretary of State may not refuse to file the articles of incorporation of a professional corporation with such a name solely on the basis of Corp. Code § 201(b), provided that the name is not substantially the same as the name of a domestic corporation, the name of a foreign corporation that is authorized to transact business in California, or a name already reserved by another corporation [Corp. Code § 13409(a)].

[b] Affidavit of Compliance With Agency Requirements

The Secretary of State may require proof, by affidavit or otherwise, establishing that the name of the professional corporation complies with the requirements and the law governing the profession in which the corporation is engaged. The statement of fact in such an affidavit may be accepted by the Secretary of State as sufficient proof of the facts [Corp. Code § 13409(a)]. For forms for such an affidavit, see §§ 12A.201 (affidavit by licensed person) and 12A.202 (affidavit by attorney).

[c] Qualified Foreign Professional Corporations

Foreign professional corporations qualified to render services in California may transact intrastate business by any name permitted by a law expressly applicable to the profession in which the corporation is engaged, or by a rule or regulation of the governmental agency regulating the corporation's rendering of professional services in California [Corp. Code § 13409(b)]. Foreign professional corporations are governed by corporate name rules similar to those applicable to domestic professional corporations [see Corp. Code § 13409(b); see also [a], above].

[2] Articles of Incorporation

The formation of a professional corporation is governed by the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 100 et seq.] unless that law conflicts with the Professional Corporation Act [Corp. Code § 13403]. Although the General Corporation Law requires that all initial directors named in the articles of incorporation sign the articles, the initial directors need not be named in the articles [Corp. Code § 204(c)]. If the initial directors are not named, the articles must be signed by the incorporators [Corp. Code § 200(b)]. For an explanation of corporate formation under the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 100 et seq.], see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].

The articles of incorporation must contain a statement that the corporation is a professional corporation within the meaning of the Professional Corporation Act [Corp. Code § 13404]. If the professional corporation will be a closely held corporation, the articles must provide [Corp. Code § 158(a)]:

- That all of the corporation's issued shares all classes will be held of record by no more than a specified number of persons, not exceeding 35; and

- The statement, "This corporation is a close corporation."

[3] Bylaws

In general, bylaws are the rules under which a corporation conducts its internal business and manages its affairs [see Corp. Code §§ 202, 204, 206, 212(b)]. The shareholders or the board may adopt, amend, and repeal bylaws [see Corp. Code §§ 207(b), 211]. A representative set of bylaws for a professional corporation is set forth in § 12A.203. For further discussion, see Ch. 4, Bylaws .

[4] Director, Officer, and Shareholder Requirements

A corporation must have at least three directors unless it has fewer than three shareholders [Corp. Code § 212(a)]. A sole shareholder corporation may have one director. That director must be the sole shareholder, who must also serve as corporate president and treasurer [Corp. Code § 13403; see Corp. Code § 212(a)]. In a sole shareholder professional corporation, the shareholder who holds the offices of president and treasurer must be licensed to practice the profession for which the corporation is formed, but the other corporate officers need not be licensed persons [see Corp. Code § 13403].

PRACTICE TIP:

The single shareholder requirements of Corp. Code § 13403 highlight a discrepancy between the General Corporation Law and the Professional Corporation Act. Under the General Corporation Law, the office of "treasurer" has been replaced by the office of "chief financial officer" [see Corp. Code § 312(a)]. The treasurers of corporations in existence, on January 1, 1977, when the General Corporation Law took effect were deemed chief financial officers as of the effective date of that law [see Corp. Code §§ 2300, 2305]. However, the General Corporation Law applies to professional corporations only to the extent that it does not conflict with the Professional Corporation Act [Corp. Code § 13403]. Because the latter requires that a sole shareholder act as "treasurer," the attorney drafting the sole-shareholder corporation's articles of incorporation or bylaws may want to include for both a treasurer and a chief financial officer in order to ensure literal compliance with both statutory schemes.

A corporation in which there are only two shareholders need have only two directors [Corp. Code § 13403; see Corp. Code § 212(a)]. Those directors must be the two shareholders and, between them, they must serve as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of the corporation [Corp. Code § 13403].

PRACTICE TIP:

The two-shareholder requirements of Corp. Code § 13403 highlight another discrepancy between the General Corporation Law and the Professional Corporation Act. Under the General Corporation Law, any number of offices may be held by the same person unless the corporate articles or bylaws provide otherwise [Corp. Code § 312(a)]. Thus, to ensure literal compliance with both statutory schemes, the attorney drafting the articles or bylaws for a two-shareholder professional corporation may wish to provide that (1) all offices may not be held by a single shareholder, and (2) one of the shareholders will serve as president and treasurer and the other shareholder will serve as vice-president and secretary.

In general, shares of capital stock in a professional corporation may be issued only to persons licensed in California and persons who are licensed in another jurisdiction to render the same professional services [Corp. Code § 13406(a)]. However, specified "allied professionals" qualify as licensed persons, provided that specified membership requirements are met [see Corp. Code § 13401.5; see also §§ 12A.12, 12A.14[6]]. Shares issued to nonlicensed persons are void. Shareholders may not enter into voting trusts, execute proxies, or enter into any other arrangement to give voting power of the shares to any other persons unless those persons are both licensed and shareholders of the professional corporation. Purported voting trusts, proxies, and other arrangements violating this rule are void [Corp. Code § 13406(a)].

Particular professional corporations may be subject to additional requirements regarding directors, officers, and shareholders. For example, except in a sole shareholder corporation [see Corp. Code § 13403] or a corporation in which other licensed persons own less than half the corporate stock [see Corp. Code § 13401.5], each shareholder, director, and officer of a medical or podiatry corporation (other than an assistant secretary or assistant treasurer) must be a licensed person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2408; see Corp. Code § 13401(d) ("licensed person" defined)]. Therefore, even a provisional director of such a corporation appointed by a court when the corporation's directors cannot agree regarding the corporation's management [see Corp. Code § 208] must be a licensed person [see Marik v. Superior Court (1987)

[5] Registration With Licensing Board

[a] Certificate of Registration Required Unless Exempt

All corporations subject to the Professional Corporations Act must have a certificate of registration before they can render professional services, except corporations regulated by the following [Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), (b), 13404; Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2400, 2402 (Moscone-Knox exceptions)]:

- Medical Board of California.
- Osteopathic Medical Board of California.
- Dental Board of California.
- Veterinary Medical Board.
- California State Board of Pharmacy.
- California Architects Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5502].
- Court Reporters Board of California.
- Board of Behavioral Sciences.
- Board of Registered Nursing.

[b] Registration Procedure Determined by Regulating Agency

A certificate of registration is issued by the agency that regulates the profession in which the corporation proposes to practice [see Corp. Code §§ 13401(b), 13404]. Each agency prescribes its own registration procedures.

PRACTICE TIP:

The Department of Consumer Affairs permits online professional licensing for certain professionals, including dentists, nurses, physicians/surgeons, and psychologists [see www.dca.ca.gov/proflic/index.html (Department of Consumer Affairs website)].

[c] Registration Procedure for Law Corporations

An applicant for registration as a law corporation must supply to the State Bar all necessary and pertinent documents and information requested by the State Bar concerning the applicant's plan of operation, including, but not limited to the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6161]:

- A copy of the corporation's articles of incorporation, certified by the Secretary of State.
- A copy of its bylaws, certified by the secretary of the corporation.
- The names and addresses of the corporation, its officers, directors, shareholders, members, and employees who will render professional services, the address of each office, and any fictitious name or names which the corporation intends to use.

The State Bar will issue a certificate of registration on payment of the registration fee if the State Bar finds that all of the following requirements have been satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6161]:

- The corporation is duly organized and existing or duly qualified for the transaction of intrastate business pursuant to the General Corporation Law of [see Corp. Code § 13406(b)].

- Each officer (except as provided in Corp. Code § 13403), director, shareholder (except as provided in Corp. Code § 13406(b)), and employee who will render professional services is a licensed person.

- The application states that the affairs of the corporation will be conducted in compliance with law and the rules and regulations of the State Bar.

[d] Registration Procedure for Accountancy Corporations

An applicant for registration as an accountancy corporation must supply to the board all necessary and pertinent documents and information requested by the board concerning the applicant's plan of operation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5151]. The board will issue a certificate of registration on payment of the registration fee If the board finds that all of the following requirements have been satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5151]:

- The corporation is duly organized and existing or duly qualified for the transaction of intrastate business.

- Each officer (except as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5053, 5079), director, shareholder, and employee who will render professional services is a licensed person.

- The application indicates that the affairs of the corporation will be conducted in compliance with law and the rules and regulations of the board.

[6] Allied Professionals

Specified "allied professionals" may be shareholders, directors, officers, or professional employees of designated professional corporations if two conditions exist [Corp. Code § 13401.5]:

- First, the sum of all shares owned by allied professionals must not exceed 49 percent of all shares in the corporation.

- Second, the number of allied professionals owning shares must not exceed the number of share owners who are professionals licensed by the regulatory agency governing the professional corporation.

[7] Fictitious Name Permits

Every person who regularly transacts business in California for profit under a fictitious business name must file a fictitious business name statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17910]. A "fictitious business name" is either of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900(b).(c)]:

- Any name other than the surname of an individual owner, the surnames of all general partners, or the full name of a business entity.
- A name that suggests the existence of additional owners.

In many instances, the rules governing the use of fictitious name permits are specific to the particular profession. For example, medical corporations are subject to specific statutory requirements for fictitious business names [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2407, 2415, 2443]. Using a factitious name without first obtaining a permit constitutes unprofessional conduct [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2285].

For further discussion of fictitious name permits, see Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business .

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 12A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.15

§ 12A.15 Restrictions on Issuance and Transfer of Shares

[1] Transfer Restricted to Licensed Persons, Shareholders, and Allied Professionals

Shares of a professional corporation (or a foreign professional corporation qualified to render professional services in California) may be transferred only to the following [Corp. Code § 13407]:

- Persons licensed in California or another jurisdiction to practice the profession for which the corporation was formed;
- A shareholder of the same professional corporation;
- A person licensed to practice the same profession in the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which the person practices; or
- The professional corporation [see [2], below].

Any transfer in violation of these rules is void [Corp. Code § 13407]. However, specified licensed persons ("allied professionals") may be shareholders provided that [Corp. Code § 13401.5]:

- The sum of all shares owned by allied professionals does not exceed 49 percent of the total number of shares of the corporation; and
- The number of allied professionals owning shares in the corporation does not exceed the number of persons licensed by the agency regulating the corporation.

For a list of allied professionals who may own stock in professional corporations, see § 12A.14[6].

[2] Repurchase of Shares

A professional corporation may purchase its own shares, without regard to any restrictions on the corporate repurchase of shares, as long as at least one share remains issued and outstanding [Corp. Code § 13407].

Within 90 days following the date of disqualification of a shareholder, or within six months following the date of death of the shareholder, the professional corporation's certificate of registration may be suspended or revoked by the governmental agency regulating the profession in which the corporation is engaged, under any of the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 13407]:

- If a professional corporation (or a foreign professional corporation qualified to render professional services in California) fails to acquire all the shares of a shareholder who is disqualified from rendering professional services in California; or

- If a professional corporation (or a foreign professional corporation qualified to render professional services in California) fails to acquire all the shares of a deceased shareholder who was, on his or her date of death, licensed to render professional services in California; or

- If the disqualified shareholder or the representative of the deceased shareholder fails to transfer the shares to the corporation, to another shareholder of the corporation, to a person licensed to practice the same profession in the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which the person practices, or to a licensed person.

In the event of such a suspension or revocation, the corporation must immediately cease rendering professional services in California [see § 12A.18].

PRACTICE TIP:

These transfer and repurchase restrictions may cause problems. For example, on the shareholder's death, the shares owned by a professional become assets of his or her estate. On the death or disqualification of a shareholder, his or her shares must be transferred to a licensed person or persons or to the corporation [Corp. Code § 13407].

If the shareholder dies, the transfer must occur within six months following the death. If the shareholder becomes legally disqualified (either permanently or temporarily) from rendering the accustomed professional services [see Corp. Code § 13401(e)], the shares must be transferred within 90 days following the date of disqualification. Although not always practicable, if these transfers are not made within the specified period, the certificate of registration may be suspended or revoked by the governing board, in which case the corporation must immediately stop rendering professional services [Corp. Code § 13407].

One solution is for the corporation's articles of incorporation to provide that the corporation will redeem shares immediately on the death or the disqualification of any shareholder, or any attempted transfer of shares to someone other than a licensed person. However, such an inflexible solution is not ideal. Alternatively, all corporate shares may be subject to a buy-sell agreement among all the shareholders [see § 12A.220]. A buy-sell agreement can govern the disposition of a shareholder's shares in the event of death or disqualification. Similar problems may arise if shares in the corporation are attached by a creditor of the shareholder.

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 12A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.16

§ 12A.16 Operating Requirements

[1] Malpractice Insurance

Professional corporations need to purchase malpractice insurance to protect the corporation's assets. The board governing the particular professional practice may specify required amounts of coverage. As a practical matter, the corporation should purchase and maintain the policy [see § 12A.16[1]].

For further discussion of insurance issues, see Ch. 1F, Insurance Considerations in Business Formation .

[2] Covenants Not to Compete

In general, every contract by which anyone is restrained from engaging in a lawful profession, trade, or business of any kind is to that extent void [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600]. However, the following sellers may agree with a buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business within a specified geographic area in which the business so sold, or that of the business entity, division, or subsidiary has been carried on, so long as the buyer, or any person deriving title to the goodwill or ownership interest from the buyer, carries on a like business in that geographic area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601]:

- Any person who sells the goodwill of a business.

- Any owner of a business entity selling or otherwise disposing of all of his or her ownership interest in the business entity.

- Any owner of a business entity that sells (1) all or substantially all of its operating assets together with the goodwill of the business entity; (2) all or substantially all of the operating assets of a division or a subsidiary of the business entity together with the goodwill of that division or subsidiary; or (3) all of the ownership interest of any subsidiary [but see Hill Med. Corp. v. Wycoff (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 895, 897, 906-908, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 779 (noncompetition provision in radiologist's stock redemption agreement was void and outside exception of Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601 because business goodwill not a factor in purchase of shares); see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice].

A covenant not to compete may raise an income tax problem to a selling shareholder and afford a benefit to the acquiring corporation. Ordinarily, the profit a shareholder receives on the sale of corporate shares is a capital gain. For shares held more than 12 months, only one-half of that capital gain is subject to income taxation [see I.R.C. § 1222]. The covenant not to compete may have an independent value if the seller's covenant not to compete with the buyer or the business is structured as part of the sale of the shares in the business. The buyer may be paying one amount for the selling shareholder's shares and an additional amount for the covenant not to compete. Upon a determination that the covenant not to compete has an independent value, the portion of the purchase price found to have been paid for the covenant not to compete, as opposed to the shares, is taxed to the selling shareholder as ordinary income [Fox & Fox, Corporate Acquisitions and Mergers, Ch. 5D, Acquisitions of Stock (Matthew Bender)]. The buyer, on the other hand, is allowed to depreciate the covenant's purchase price over the duration the covenant by means of depreciation deductions for a portion of that price each year during the term of the covenant [see O'Dell & Co. v. Commissioner (1974) 61 T.C. 461, 468-469] .

[3] Reporting Requirements

[a] Law Corporations

The Business and Professions Code requires that law corporations renew their certificate of registration annually at a time to be fixed by the State Bar and pay the applicable fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6161.1]. At least annually, law corporations must also file a report with the State Bar containing the requisite information pertaining to qualification and compliance with the statutes, rules, and regulations, together with the applicable fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6163(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6127.5]. The report must be signed and verified by an officer of the corporation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6163(a)].

The certificate of registration of any law corporation failing to file the annual report, renew its certificate, and pay any applicable fee and penalty will be suspended for 60 days following written notice of delinquency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6163(b)]. However, a client may not use this failure as justification for refusing to pay legal fees [see Olson v. Cohen (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 1209, 1215, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 620] .

In addition, law corporations must report in writing to the State Bar any change in directors, officers, employees performing professional services, share ownership, and amendments to its articles of incorporation and bylaws [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6162].

[b] Accountancy Corporations

The Business and Professions Code requires that accountancy corporations biennially renew their permit to practice and pay the applicable renewal fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5152.1; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5134]. In addition, each accountancy corporation must file a report with the board containing information pertaining to qualification and compliance with the statutes, rules, and regulations. All reports must be signed and verified by an officer of the corporation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5152].

§ 12A.17 Observing Corporate Formalities

The corporation must observe the formalities of corporate organization to take advantage of corporate limited liability [see § 12A.13[1]] and the potential tax benefits afforded by incorporation [see § 12A.21]. Therefore, the corporation must hold shareholders' and directors' meetings, keep proper minutes, issue stock certificates, keep accurate stock records, pass resolutions, and use the corporate name in all of its business activities.

Accounting and legal fees may increase because of the necessity of keeping corporate minutes and drafting the various documents necessary to carry out the corporation's tax planning programs. Nevertheless, the increase in these fees may be outweighed by the benefits gained through incorporation.

Professionals forming a close corporation [see Corp. Code § 158 (definition)] receive the limited protection of Corp. Code § 300(e), which insulates shareholders from personal liability based solely on the failure to observe corporate formalities [see Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity ; Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 2, Choice of Form of Doing Business (Matthew Bender)].

§ 12A.18 Suspension or Revocation of Certificate of Registration

In addition to suspension or revocation for failure to make a timely transfer of shares after a shareholder dies or becomes disqualified [see § 12A.15], the certificate of registration of a professional corporation may be suspended or revoked under any of the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 13408]:

- At any one time, all of the shareholders are"disqualified persons" [see Corp. Code § 13401(e) (definition)].
- The sole shareholder is a "disqualified person."
- The corporation knowingly employs or retains in its employment a "disqualified person"
- The corporation violates any applicable rule or regulation of its governing board.
- The corporation violates any statute applicable to a professional corporation.
- Other grounds exist for suspension or revocation under provisions of the Business and Professions Code relating to the profession in which the corporation is engaged.

A corporation whose certificate of registration is suspended or revoked must immediately stop rendering professional services [Corp. Code § 13408].

For corporations no longer required to have a certificate [see § 12A.10[2]], the sanction for violation of the Professional Corporation Act or applicable regulations is disciplinary action against the practitioners involved [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2234, 2286].

§ 12A.19 Securities Issues

[1] Federal Law

The issuance of stock by a professional corporation or by a foreign professional corporation qualified to render professional services in California under the Professional Corporation Act is exempt from federal registration requirements under the intrastate or private offering exemption [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11), (b); see also Corp. Code § 13401(c) (foreign professional corporation defined)] or Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508]. For a general discussion of the securities laws, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . For general coverage of the mechanics of issuing corporate stock, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

[2] California Law

The issuance of stock by a professional corporation or by a foreign professional corporation [see Corp. Code § 13401(c)] qualified to render professional services in California under the Professional Corporation Act is exempt from the qualification requirement of the Corporate Securities Law [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.6]. However, the anti-fraud provisions apply to the transaction [see Corp. Code §§ 25401, 25501].

This exemption does not apply to a subsequent transfer of stock issued by a professional corporation. However, any sale of stock by a shareholder for his or her own account is exempt from qualification if the sale is not accompanied by an advertisement and is not effected by or through a broker-dealer in a public offering [Corp. Code § 25104(a)]. Thus, most sales of shares by a shareholder of a professional corporation will be exempt from qualification requirements.

The Professional Corporation Act does not address the dissolution of professional corporations. Therefore the provisions of the General Corporation Law apply. When the sole shareholder of a professional corporation dies, the decedent's personal representative will be faced with the choice of either dissolving the corporation or continuing it in existence until dissolution and liquidation are desirable from a tax standpoint [see § 12A.15[1]]. § 12A.21 Federal Taxation of Professional Corporations

[1] Tax Aspects of Incorporation

[a] Incorporation Is Ordinarily Tax-Free

In general, the transfer of property to a corporation controlled by the transferors will not cause the transferors to recognize gain or loss, provided they receive only stock and securities in the corporation, and, immediately after the exchange, those persons own at least (1) 80 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of the corporation's voting stock, and (2) 80 percent of the total number of shares of all other classes of the corporation's stock [I.R.C. §§ 351(a), 368(c)]. If this rule would apply to an exchange but for the fact that the transferors receive other property or money in addition to stock and securities, then gain, if any, will be recognized, but not in excess of the amount of money received plus the fair market value of the other property received [I.R.C. § 351(b)(1)]. Loss may never be recognized by the transferors [I.R.C. § 351(b)(2)].

[b] Corporate Assumption of Liabilities May Result in Taxable Gain

The assumption of liabilities by the corporation may cause gain to be recognized by the liabilities' transferors. The excess of the amount of liabilities assumed by the corporation over the total of the adjusted tax bases of the property transferred to the corporation will be treated as gain taxable to the transferors as capital gain (capital asset) or ordinary income (non-capital asset) [I.R.C. § 357(c)(1)]. Thus, the relevant tax and financial records must be reviewed before incorporation to determine whether, in the aggregate, the liabilities to be assumed by the corporation will not exceed the aggregate tax bases of the assets transferred to the corporation. For purposes of this computation, however, certain liabilities (such as the following) will not be taken into account as long as the creation of the liabilities does not result in the creation of or an increase in the basis of any property [I.R.C. § 357(c)(3)]:

- Liabilities, the payment of which will give rise to a deduction (for example, accrued but unpaid business expenses)

- Liabilities described in I.R.C. § 736(a) (payments to a retiring partner or a deceased partner's successor in interest).

In calculating the amount of liability assumed, any portion of a recourse liability is treated as having been assumed if, determined on the basis of all facts and circumstances, the transferee has agreed to (and is expected to) satisfy that liability regardless of whether the transferor has been relieved of the liability [I.R.C. § 357(d)(1)(A)]. Nonrecourse liabilities are treated as assumed, except that the amount is reduced by the lesser of (1) the amount of the liability that an owner of other assets not transferred to the transferee and also subject to the liability has agreed with the transferee to, and is expected to, satisfy, or (2) the fair market value of those other assets (determined without regard to I.R.C. § 7701(g)) [I.R.C. § 357(d)(1)(B), (2)].

In general, professional corporations organized under state law are treated as corporations for tax purposes [Rev. Rul. 70-101, 1970-1 C.B. 278]. However, if the manner in which the business is conducted indicates that the shareholders of the professional corporation continue to practice as individuals, the corporate entity will be disregarded and the members will be taxed as individuals [see Roubik v. Commissioner (1969) 53 T.C. 365] . Furthermore, when an employee-sole shareholder of a professional corporation provides services to another entity under an agreement between the employee and the other entity, the employee-sole shareholder, not the professional corporation, is taxed on the resulting income [Keller v. Commissioner (1981) 77 T.C. 1014] .

PRACTICE TIP:

A professional corporation will be treated as a corporation for tax purposes only to the extent it is operated as a corporation distinct from its shareholders. The mere organization of a corporation by professional persons will not suffice to bestow the desired tax status. To ensure corporate treatment, the corporation should hold title to assets used in the practice, bill and receive fees in the corporate name, handle employment matters, and observe corporate formalities.

The general tax consequences of incorporation are discussed in Ch. 1E, Taxation of Businesses .

[2] Incorporation Presents Limited Tax Advantages

[a] Corporate Employees Enjoy Some Tax Advantages

Prior to 1982, a principal reason for conducting an incorporated professional practice, rather than using the traditional proprietorship or partnership form, was to afford the practitioner the same income tax advantages available to employees of business corporations, such as group term life insurance [see [b], below], health and accident insurance plans [see [c], below], medical reimbursement plans [see [d], below], and disability income plans [see [e], below]. However, the favorable treatment of corporate retirement plans over those of other entities was largely eliminated by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA) [Pub. L. No. 97-248]. Nevertheless, corporate employees enjoy some remaining tax advantages, such as group term life insurance benefits and medical reimbursement plans [see [b], [d], below].

[b] Group Term Life Insurance

A corporation may provide each of its employees with up to $50,000 in group term life insurance and may fully deduct the premiums paid for that insurance. If the group term life insurance coverage provided through the employer exceeds $50,000 per employee, the cost of the excess coverage must be included in the gross income of the employee [I.R.C. § 79(a)]. Although includable, the cost of the excess coverage is taxed at the rates provided in the regulations, rather than at actual cost of the excess coverage [Treas. Reg. § 1.79-3(d)(2)].

In contrast, if the corporation's group term life insurance plan discriminates in favor of key employees, either with respect to eligibility to participate or the type and amounts of available benefits, those key employees will not receive favorable tax treatment in terms of the exclusion and the uniform rates [see I.R.C. § 79(d)]. A plan is discriminatory unless it has the following attributes [I.R.C. § 79(d)(3)(A); see I.R.C. § 79(d)(3)(B) (excluded employees)]:

- At least 70 percent of all employees benefit;
- At least 85 percent of all participating employees are not key employees;
- The participating employees qualify under a classification that the IRS determines to be nondiscriminatory; or
- The plan is a cafeteria plan that satisfies I.R.C. § 125 requirements.

An employee's status as a "key employee" is determined by reference only to an employee's status during the plan year, and not to prior plan years. An employee is considered a key employee if, during the plan year, the employee was any of the following [I.R.C. §§ 79(d)(6), 416(i)(1)(A)]:

- An officer with compensation in excess of $130,000 (adjusted for inflation for plan years beginning after 2002 in $5,000 increments).
- A 5-percent owner.
- A 1-percent owner with compensation in excess of $150,000.

No more than 50 employees (or if fewer, the greater of 3 employees or 10 percent of the total employees) may be treated as officers for the purpose of being considered a key employee [I.R.C. § 416(i)(1)(A)]. The term "key employee" also includes any former employee, if the employee was a key employee at the time of retirement or separation from service [I.R.C. § 79(d)(6)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ability of the corporation to provide a group term life insurance plan allows the corporate employer a favorable business expense deduction and at the same time provides an attractive and nontaxable benefit to the employees.

[c] Health and Accident Insurance Plans

The corporate employer's contributions to health and accident insurance plans are not taxable to the employees [I.R.C. § 106], and the corporation may deduct its contributions to the plans [see I.R.C. § 162(a)]. Payments made under a plan to employees are not taxable as long as they are used to reimburse the employee for expenses incurred for medical care [I.R.C. § 105(b)] or are compensation for permanent injuries [see I.R.C. § 105(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ability of the corporation to provide health and accident plans allows the corporate employer a favorable business expense deduction and at the same time provides an attractive and nontaxable fringe benefit to the employees.

Following the repeal of former I.R.C. § 89 [repealed Nov. 8, 1989, by Pub. L. 101-140, § 202(a), 103 Stat. 830], no discrimination rules apply to insured health and accident plans with regard to the exclusion of employer contributions [see I.R.C. § 106] or the exclusion of amounts received on account of personal injury or sickness [see I.R.C. § 105]. For a plan to be treated as an insured plan for this purpose, however, it must involve the actual shifting of risk to an unrelated third party. A plan underwritten by a policy of insurance, or a prepaid health care plan that does not involve a shifting of risk, will be treated as a self-insured plan for this purpose. Thus, a policy that, in effect, provides only administrative or bookkeeping services is considered self-insured [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(b)(1)(ii) (plan not deemed self-insured merely because insurer uses employer's prior claims experience as factor in determining premium)].

[d] Medical Reimbursement Plans

[i] Basic Requirements

Amounts paid to non-highly compensated employees for expenses incurred for medical care under a self-insured medical reimbursement plan [see I.R.C. § 105(h)(6) (definition)] are excludable, regardless of whether the plan is discriminatory [see I.R.C. § 105(b), (h)(1)]. However, in order for medical payments made to highly compensated employees under a self-insured medical reimbursement plan to be excludable under I.R.C. § 105(b), the plan may not discriminate in terms of (1) eligibility to participate in the plan [see I.R.C. § 105(h)(3) ("nondiscriminatory eligibility" defined)]; or (2) actual availability of benefits under the plan [I.R.C. § 105(h)(1); see I.R.C. § 105(h)(4) ("nondiscriminatory benefits" defined)].

A self-insured medical reimbursement plan satisfies the eligibility requirement if the plan benefits (1) 70 percent or more of all employees of the corporation; (2) 80 percent or more of all the corporation's employees who are eligible to benefit under the plan, if 70 percent or more of the employees of the corporation are eligible; or (3) all employees who qualify under a classification set up by the employer, and the Internal Revenue Service determines that the classification does not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees [I.R.C. § 105(h)(3)(A); see Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(2)(ii)]. For the purpose of determining whether the plan discriminates in terms of eligibility, the following employees may be excluded [I.R.C. § 105(h)(3)(B)]:

- Employees who have not completed three years of service [see Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(2)(iii)(A)].
- Employees under the age of 25.
- Part-time or seasonal employees [see Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(2)(iii)(C)].
- Employees not included in the plan who are covered by a collective bargaining agreement if accident and health benefits were the subject of good faith bargaining between the employee representatives and the employer.
- Nonresident alien employees who received no earned income [see I.R.C. § 911(d)(2)] from the employer that constitutes income from sources within the United States [see I.R.C. § 861(a)(3)].

A self-insured medical reimbursement plan satisfies the benefits requirement only if the plan benefits provided for highly compensated employees and their dependents are also provided for all other participants and their dependents [I.R.C. § 105(h)(4); Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(3)(i)]. This test is applied to the benefits subject to reimbursement under the plan, rather than the actual benefit payments or claims under the plan [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(3)(i)].

Furthermore, not only must a plan not discriminate on its face in providing benefits in favor of highly compensated employees, the plan also must not discriminate in actual operation [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(3)(ii)]. The determination of whether plan benefits discriminate in actual operation in favor of highly compensated employees is made based on the facts and circumstances of each case [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(3)(ii)]. Special rules apply to retired employees, multiple plans, and health maintenance organization participants [see Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(3)(iii), (4)].

[ii] Excess Reimbursement

If a corporation provides a self-insured medical reimbursement plan, and the plan discriminates in any plan year in favor of highly compensated employees, either in terms of eligibility to participate or actual benefits available, then amounts paid to a highly compensated employee during that year are includable to the extent that the payments constitute an excess reimbursement of that employee [I.R.C. § 105(h)(1); see I.R.C. § 105(h)(7) ("excess reimbursement" defined)]. A "highly compensated employee" is any person [see I.R.C. § 105(h)(5); Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(d)]:

- Who is one of the five highest paid officers of the corporation;

- Who is a shareholder who owns more than 10 percent in value of the stock of the employing corporation; or

- Who is among the highest paid 25 percent of all employees.

The status of an employee as an officer or stockholder is determined with respect to a particular benefit on the basis of the employee's officer status or stock ownership at the time during the plan year when the benefit is provided [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(d); see Young, Pensions and Profit Sharing Plans (Matthew Bender)].

The amount that is treated as an "excess reimbursement" from a self-insured medical reimbursement plan (and is includable in a highly compensated employee's income) depends on the extent of the discrimination. If the plan provides a benefit that is available to highly compensated employees but not to all other participants (i.e., provides discriminatory benefits), the entire amount of the reimbursement is an excess reimbursement [I.R.C. § 105(h)(7)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(e)(2)]. If the plan discriminates in eligibility to participate (discriminatory coverage), a portion of the benefit paid to a highly compensated employee in a plan year constitutes an excess reimbursement. The includable portion is the amount in the same proportion to the total reimbursed to the highly compensated employee as the ratio of the total amount reimbursed to all highly compensated employees during the plan year to the total amount reimbursed to all participants in that year. Discriminatory benefits are not included in this calculation [I.R.C. § 105(h)(7)(B); see Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(c)(3), (e)(3), (4)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Ordinarily, shareholder employees of professional corporations want to provide themselves with the maximum benefits under corporate medical reimbursement plans. Consequently, because of the antidiscrimination provisions of I.R.C. § 105(h), self-insured plans may not be attractive to professional corporations.

[e] Disability Insurance

A corporation may purchase long term disability insurance on behalf of its employees. The premiums paid by the corporation for that insurance are deductible [see I.R.C. § 162(a)]. The insured employees need not include the value of the premiums in their gross income [I.R.C. § 106(a)]; however, amounts actually received under the policy are includible in the recipient's gross income [see I.R.C. § 61(a)(1)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ability of the corporation to provide a group term life insurance plan allows the corporate employer a favorable business expense deduction and at the same time provides an attractive and generally nontaxable benefit to the employees.

[f] Loans to Participants in Corporate Plans

Access to plan funds is often an important consideration to high income professionals, who tend to view the plan as an investment fund rather than a retirement plan. One advantage to a corporate plan is that a loan from a corporate plan to a participant, secured only by the employee's vested accrued benefits within the plan, will cause neither the disqualification of the plan [see I.R.C. § 401(a)(13)] nor the imposition of an excise tax on a prohibited transaction, provided that specified requirements are met [I.R.C. § 4975(d)(1)]. However, loans from noncorporate plans to owner-employees or, in the case of S corporation plans, loans to shareholder-employees, are treated as prohibited transactions [see I.R.C. § 4975(c)]. Such loans, if secured only by the participants' vested benefits, will result in the disqualification of the entire plan [see I.R.C. § 401(a)(13)]. If secured by property outside of the plan, the loans will still be prohibited transactions, and although the plan will not be disqualified, an excise tax of 15 percent on prohibited transactions will be imposed [I.R.C. § 4975(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ability to borrow from the plan, free of excise tax and without outside security, can be an important advantage to incorporation. A loan secured only by vested benefits is the functional equivalent of an early withdrawal, and the interest paid on the loan provides an additional deduction to the professional participant.

[g] Limitations on Plan Contributions

Annual contributions to a defined benefit plan (a plan designed to produce a designated payout) cannot exceed an amount necessary to fund the lesser of an annual benefit of $160,000 or 100 percent of the employee's compensation for his or her three highest years [I.R.C. § 415(b)]. Annual contributions to a defined contribution plan (a plan in which contributions rather than benefits are fixed) cannot exceed the lesser of $40,000 or 100 percent of the participant's compensation [I.R.C. § 415(c)(1)]. The $160,000 limit for defined benefit plans and the $40,000 limit for defined contribution plans are both subject to cost-of-living adjustments [I.R.C. § 415(d)(1)].

Although the contribution limitations for the corporate and self-employed plans appear to be the same, the definition of earned income [see I.R.C. §§ 401(c)(2)(A)(v), 415(b)(3), (c)(3)(B)] serves to make the contribution limitation for the self-employed lower than for corporate plans. To determine a self-employed person's earned income, the definition requires that the deduction for contributions to qualified plans be subtracted from individual's compensation [I.R.C. § 401(c)(2)(A)(v)]. This deduction reduces the amount that is considered 100 percent of the participant's compensation for purposes of the defined benefit or defined contribution limitation [see I.R.C. § 415(b)(1), (c)(1)].

[h] Benefits are Equally Portable

The rules that apply to rollovers from one plan to another plan are the same for self-employed persons and corporate qualified plans [see I.R.C. §§ 401(a)(31), 402(c), (f), 408(d)]. Therefore, portability of benefits is not a factor bearing on the merit of incorporating.

[3] Income Taxation of Professional Corporations

[a] Professional Corporations Taxed at 35 Percent Flat Rate

All taxable income of a "qualified personal service corporation" is subject to a flat tax rate of 35 percent [I.R.C. § 11(b)(2)]. A "qualified personal service corporation" means any corporation that meets both of the following criteria [I.R.C. § 448(d)(2)]:

- Substantially all of the corporation's activities involve the performance of services in the fields of health, law, engineering, architecture, accounting, actuarial science, performing arts, or consulting [see I.R.C. § 448(d)(2)(A)].

- Substantially all of the corporate stock (by value) is held directly (or indirectly through one or more partnerships, S corporations, or qualified personal service corporations) by employees performing services in those fields, retired employees who performed those services for the corporation, the estates of these persons, or anyone who acquired the stock due to the death of those persons (but only for the two-year period beginning on the date of the employee's death [see I.R.C. § 448(d)(2)(B)].

This flat rate of tax means that professional corporations are not eligible for the graduated tax rates generally applicable to individuals and other corporations [see I.R.C. §§ 1(a)-(d), (i)(2), 11(b)(1)].

The highest corporate tax rates (including the qualified personal service corporation's tax rate) are now slightly higher than the highest individual tax rates [see I.R.C. §§ 1, 11]. It is likely that the typical professional corporation will have a smaller tax base than any of its shareholders. In general, this result occurs because the overwhelming portion of the corporation's income is usually devoted to the payment of salaries and to tax-deductible contributions to qualified pension and profit-sharing plans for the shareholders' benefit [see I.R.C. § 401 et seq.]. However, because of the similarity in corporate and individual tax brackets, and particularly between the brackets applicable to qualified personal service corporations and highly compensated individuals, there is only limited flexibility in income tax planning.

[b] Taxable Year

A professional corporation, like S corporations and partnerships, must use the calendar year for tax reporting purposes, unless the corporation can show a valid business purpose for adopting a different fiscal year and the IRS approves the change [I.R.C. § 441(i); see I.R.C. §§ 441(a), (b), 706]. However, a professional corporation may elect a different taxable year if the new taxable year does not result in more than a three-month deferral of income. Thus, a professional corporation may have taxable year ending in September, October, or November [see I.R.C. § 444(a), (b); see also I.R.C. § 444(d) (manner of election)]. If such an election is in effect, the corporation may be subject to limitations on the deductibility of amounts paid to employee owners [see I.R.C. §§ 280H, 444(c)(2)].

[c] Method of Accounting

A professional corporation that is a qualified personal service corporation [see I.R.C. § 448(d)(2); see [b], above] ordinarily may use either the accrual method of accounting or the cash method, provided that the method selected clearly reflects income [I.R.C. §§ 446(a), (b), 448(a), (b)(2)]. Most professional corporations use cash basis accounting.

A person using an accrual method of accounting is not required to accrue, but may use a non-accrual experience method of accounting, for amounts to be received for the performance of services by that person, but that based on that person's experience will not be collected. This rule does applies only if interest is required to be paid on that amount, or if there is any penalty for failure to timely pay that amount [I.R.C. § 448(d)(5)].

Gross income received by a sole practitioner or by a professional partnership is includable in the income tax return of the professional for the calendar year during which the gross income was received by the partnership. In other words, operating a professional practice as a sole proprietor or a professional partnership generally will not enable a professional to defer the taxable year for recognition of any item of gross income.

In contrast, the professional corporation offers flexibility with respect to the year during which the professional is deemed to have received income. An incorporated professional, as an employee who receives compensation in the form of a salary (and possible a bonus) can control the timing of the payment of the compensation. Because the Internal Revenue Code does not require that a salary or bonus be paid on a predetermined periodic basis, the incorporated professional may adjust the amount and frequency of payment to a schedule that will provide the maximum deferral of payment of tax on the compensation. However, the professional will also be trying to minimize the corporation's taxable income as of the last day of its taxable year. Otherwise, the corporation will be required to pay tax on income that would have been distributed in the form of compensation relatively soon after the end of the corporation's taxable year.

Generally, both these goals can be achieved if the corporation adopts a fiscal year as its taxable year [see [b], above]. The professional employees often will be paid monthly salaries whose aggregate sum is substantially less than the amounts the professional employees anticipate receiving as salaries and bonuses over the course of the corporation's fiscal year. Then, immediately before the end of the corporation's fiscal year, the corporation will pay bonuses to its professional employees in amounts that will enable the corporation to optimally reduce its taxable income as much as possible.

Although each professional employee will have income tax withheld at the rate of 20 percent of the year-end bonus [see Treas. Reg. § 31.3402(g)-1(a)(2)(ii)], this rate of withholding is substantially less than the withholding if the bonus had been paid as part of the professional's periodic salary. The remaining income tax liability based on payment of the bonus will not be due until April of the year following the year in which the bonus was paid.

As in any case of aggressive tax planning, the professional must be careful. If the professional attempts to supplement a low salary through a series of open-account advances during the course of the year, the advances may be challenged and construed as periodic salary, taxable when received. Furthermore, if the professional corporation is a personal service corporation within the meaning of I.R.C. § 269A, and the corporation is formed or operated primarily to avoid or evade federal income taxation, the IRS may reallocate items of income and deduction between the corporation and its employees [see I.R.C. § 269A; see also [4][d], below].

One advantage of incorporation is that the corporation may own insurance policies on the lives of its employees, and, in effect, pay the premiums with corporate earnings that have not been subject to tax at the high tax rates of the corporation's shareholders. However, the corporation cannot take a deduction for premiums paid on those policies or for interest paid or accrued on excessive indebtedness incurred with respect to those policies [I.R.C. § 264(a); see I.R.C. § 264(d)].

A greater tax advantage can be achieved through the purchase of group term life insurance by the corporation. Premiums paid by the corporation are generally fully deductible for tax purposes [I.R.C. § 162(a)(1)]. In addition, the cost of that insurance [I.R.C. § 79(c)] is not included in the employee's gross income to the extent that its cost does not exceed the cost of $50,000 of insurance plus any amounts paid by the employee toward the purchase of the insurance [I.R.C. § 79(a); see I.R.C. § 79(b) (exceptions), (d) (nondiscrimination rules)]. Furthermore, the proceeds of the policies are not subject to income tax when paid to the employee's estate or beneficiary [I.R.C. § 101(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.101-1(a)(1)].

An attorney arranging a group term life insurance program must take care to ensure that the program does not discriminate in favor of key employees [see I.R.C. §§ 79(d)(6), 416(i)(1) ("key employee" defined); see also §§ 12A.21[2][b], [d]]. It appears that a group term program under which each employee is given an amount of insurance protection based on the same proportion of his or her compensation as the insurance protection provided to the other employees will not be viewed as discriminatory.

[4] Potential Tax Disadvantages to Incorporating Professional Practices

[a] Problems Involving Unreasonable Compensation

A professional corporation may deduct compensation paid to its employees, including shareholder-employees, only if the amount of the compensation is reasonable [I.R.C. § 162]. For purposes of this test, "reasonable compensation" is the amount that would ordinarily be paid for like services by like enterprises under like circumstances [Treas. Reg. §

1.162-7(b)(3)]. For this purpose, all forms of compensation, including salary, bonus, and fringe benefits will be taken into account [Keller v. Commissioner (1981) 77 T.C. 1014] .

The absence of dividend payments by the corporation does not necessarily indicate that a portion of the compensation paid to a shareholder-employee should be treated as a dividend [see Charles McCandless Tile Serv. v. United States (Ct. Cl. 1970) 422 F.2d 1336, 1338-1339] . A corporation that has historically paid more than an insubstantial portion of its earnings as dividends on its stock will elicit close scrutiny, especially if the compensation paid to shareholder-employees is not found to be reasonable. But deductions for such compensation under I.R.C. § 162(a) will not be denied on the sole ground that the corporation has not paid more than an insubstantial portion of its earnings as dividends on its outstanding stock [Rev. Rul. 79-8, 1979-1 C.B. 92].

If the corporation is a viable, independent taxable entity, but the compensation paid to the shareholder-employees is treated as being unreasonable, a portion of the amounts paid to its shareholder-employees will be disallowed as a deduction; in effect, the corporation will be treated as having paid dividends. Such a characterization will cause the corporation's tax liability to increase. In contrast, if the existence of the corporation is ignored, all professional fees received by the corporation will be deemed to have been received by the professionals and all corporate expenses will be deemed to have been paid by them. Furthermore, the professionals will be treated as if they are self-employed and, as such, will not be able to take deductions for those expenditures paid by the corporation that are not deductible by self-employed individuals.

PRACTICE TIP:

Year bonuses are most likely to be challenged, especially if distributed to all shareholders in proportion to their salaries [see Pediatric Surgical Assocs., P.C. v. Commissioner (2001) TC Memo 2001-81] .

[b] Penalty Tax on Personal Holding Companies

If a professional corporation is classified as a personal holding company, it will also be taxed at 15 percent on its undistributed income [I.R.C. § 541]. A professional corporation will be treated as a "personal holding company" if it satisfies two tests [I.R.C. § 542(a)]:

- More than 50 percent in value of its outstanding stock is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for not more than five individuals at any time during the last half of the taxable year.

- At least 60 percent of its adjusted ordinary gross income [see I.R.C. § 543(b)(2)] for the taxable year is personal holding company income [see I.R.C. § 543(a)].

"Personal holding company income" includes amounts received under an express or implied contract for a corporation to furnish personal services, if either (1) some person other than the corporation has the right to designate, by name or description, the individual who is to perform the services; or (2) the individual who is to perform the services is designated by name or description in the contract. This definition applies with respect to amounts received for services under a particular contract only if, at some time during the taxable year, 25 percent or more in value of the corporation's outstanding is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the individual who has performed, is to perform, or may be designated by name or description as the one to perform the services [I.R.C. § 543(a)(7)].

Because a single-person professional corporation necessarily involves the client's or patient's selection of the performing individual, the personal holding company penalty tax may present particular problems for this type of professional corporation. The IRS has clarified this situation in a ruling relating to a medical corporation with one practitioner. The IRS ruled that while a patient customarily will solicit and expect to receive the services of a particular physician, as long as the physician-patient relationship is terminable at will by either party and the physician can provide a competent substitute physician if unable to provide a particular medical service, the corporation will not have personal holding company income derived from a personal service contract. On the other hand, a personal service contract would obtain if the corporation contracted with the patient to provide the services of a designated physician, or if a physician performed services so unique as to preclude substitution of another physician. However, the IRS has not defined what constitutes "unique services" [Rev. Rul. 75-67, 1975-1 C.B. 169 ; see Rev. Rul. 75-250, 1975-1 C.B. 172].

PRACTICE TIP:

A professional corporation should have a written agreement with clients reserving the right to designate the professional who will render the services.

[c] Accumulated Earnings Tax

A professional corporation also may be subject to the accumulated earnings tax imposed on current earnings if the corporation has unreasonable accumulations of income [I.R.C. §§ 531-537]. Although most corporations may accumulate up to $250,000 without concern for the existence of proper business justification for the accumulations, for purposes of this tax, corporations that provide services in the field of health, law, engineering, architecture, accounting, actuarial science, performing arts, or consulting may accumulate only $150,000 absent proper business justification [I.R.C. § 535(c)(2)(B)]. If the corporation exceeds the applicable limitation, a 15 percent penalty tax will be imposed on the accumulated taxable income of the corporation [I.R.C. § 531].

Income that has been accumulated for the reasonable needs of the business is not taken into account when computing a corporation's accumulated taxable income [I.R.C. § 535(c)(1)]. Nevertheless, unless the professional corporation can demonstrate a business need to purchase expensive equipment or a building in which its offices will be located, it may be difficult to justify business needs that require accumulations in excess of $150,000.

[d] Reallocation Under I.R.C. § 269A

I.R.C. § 269A provides that the Internal Revenue Service can reallocate income and deductions between a personal service corporation and its owner-employees if both of the following conditions exist [I.R.C. § 269A]:

- Substantially all of the services of the corporation are performed for or on behalf of another entity.

- The corporation was formed principally to avoid or evade federal income tax by reducing the income of, or securing the benefit of any expense, deduction, credit, exclusion, or other allowance for, any employee-owner that would not otherwise be available.

I.R.C. § 269A applies only to partnerships of professional corporations or to professional corporations serving an outside entity (such as an incorporated doctor employed solely by a hospital). It does not apply to professional corporations that serve a number of clients. For a more detailed discussion of I.R.C. § 269A, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 23, Tax Planning for the Closely-Held Corporation , § 483.02[3] (Matthew Bender).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.22

§ 12A.22 California Taxation

Professional corporations incorporating in California must pay an annual franchise tax to the State of California for the privilege of doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5 (activities excluded from franchise tax)]. For taxable years beginning on or before December 31, 2010, "doing business in California" means actively engaging in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a)]. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer is "doing business in California" if any of the following conditions has been satisfied [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(b)]:

1. The taxpayer is organized or commercially domiciled in California;

2. The taxpayer's sales in California for the taxable year exceed the lesser of $500,000 or 25 percent of the taxpayer's total sales [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 25101(b)(2), 25120(e), (f) (determination of "sales")];

3. The taxpayer's real property and tangible personal property in California exceed the lesser of $50,000 or 25 percent of the taxpayer's total real property and tangible personal property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25101(b)(3) (determination of property value)]; or

4. The amount the taxpayer paid in California for compensation exceeds the lesser of $50,000 or 25 percent of the total compensation paid by the taxpayer [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23101(b)(4), 25133, 25137 (rules for determining compensation)].

The amounts in 2.-4., above, are subject to annual revision [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(c)]. The taxpayer's sales, property, and payroll include the taxpayer's pro rata or distributive share of a partnership or S corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(d)].

The franchise tax is based on the corporation's net income for that taxable year and is imposed on general corporations at the rate of 8.84 percent [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151(a), (e), (f)].

With limited exceptions, the minimum franchise tax is imposed on professional corporations until they formally dissolve [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23153(a), (d)(1), 23181]. However, corporations that incorporate or qualify to do business in California after January 1, 2000, are not subject to the minimum franchise tax for the first taxable year, unless the corporation reorganized solely to avoid payment of the minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(1), (3)].

§ 12A.110 Non-Tax Considerations Affecting Incorporation

NOTE:

It is important to consider multiple representation issues when advising professionals whether or not to incorporate. Following corporate formation, will the client be the corporation or one of the professionals. For further discussion of this potential conflict of interest, see Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business .

Accountants, lawyers, and architects are permitted to operate as limited liability partnerships (LLPs) [see Corp. Code § 16951 et seq.]. An LLP shields the professionals from vicarious liability for the debts and obligations of the partnership and permits flexible management. For further discussion, see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships . The authority permitting architectural LLPs expires on January 1, 2007 [Corp. Code § 16101(17)].

1. Are prospective shareholders of a professional corporation seeking insulation from liability for nonprofessional acts or omissions or acts of professional partners [see Corp. Code § 13403; T & R Foods, Inc. v. Rose, 47 Cal. App. 4th Supp. 1 ; see also § 12A.13[2]]?

NOTE:

If the professional corporation is organized as a close corporation [see Corp. Code § 158 (definition)], the corporation will obtain the flexibility of management and still receive the limited protection of Corp. Code § 300(e), which insulates shareholders from personal liability based solely on the failure to observe corporate formalities [see Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity ; see also Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations].

2. On what terms will corporation employ professionals?

NOTE:

Formal written employment agreements should be drafted for each professional employee of the corporation. For a representative employment agreement, see § 12A.230.

3. What terms will be included in buy-sell agreement?

NOTE:
Among other matters, the buy-sell agreement must restrict the transfer of shares to licensed professionals [see § 12A.15[1]*]. For a representative buy-sell agreement, see § 12A.220.

4. Will "allied professionals" own shares or hold office in corporation [see § 12A.14[6]]?

a. If any shares of prospective professional corporation will be held by person licensed only to practice a profession other than professional corporation's principal profession, do these persons qualify as "allied professionals" [see Corp. Code § 13401.5]?

NOTE:
For a list of the "allied professionals" permitted to hold stock in particular classes of corporations, see § 12A.14[6].

b. Do interests of proposed shareholders who are allied professionals total no more than 49 percent of all shares in corporation?

NOTE:
The sum of all shares owned by allied professionals cannot exceed 49 percent of the corporations total shares [Corp. Code § 13401.5].

c. Is total number of proposed shareholders who are allied professionals less than or equal to number of shareholders who are licensed by regulatory agency governing proposed professional corporation?

NOTE:
The number of allied professionals owning shares must not exceed the number of share owners who are professionals licensed by the regulatory agency governing the professional corporation [Corp. Code § 13401.5].

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.111

§ 12A.111 Tax Considerations Affecting Incorporation

1. Are prospective incorporators likely to want to borrow from pension plan fund?

NOTE:

The availability of pension plan funds as a source for loans is advantageous to most professionals. These funds are not available under noncorporate plans. For an explanation of the tax aspects of professionals securing loans from their corporate pension plans, see § 12A.21[2][f].

2. Is professional practice currently lucrative; is it likely to be so in the near future?

NOTE:

Professionals who will receive high incomes from their practice may benefit from incorporation in that the limits on their contributions to pension plans may be higher than the limits placed on noncorporate plans. For an explanation of the laws governing these contributions, see § 12A.21[2][g].

3. Will costs of incorporation be offset by additional corporate advantages, such as:

a. Deductibility of payments to medical, life, and disability insurance plans.

NOTE:

For an explanation of the allowable deductions and the anti-discriminatory provisions that apply to these plans, see § 12A.21.

b. Possibly slightly lower flat tax rate, but without benefit of graduated rates.

c. Tax deferral through adoption of corporate fiscal year.

4. What are the current tax planning strategies of the potential incorporators?

NOTE:
If the professionals have been practicing as partners or as self-employed individuals, it is important to remember that, if they incorporate, they will not be able to offset the incorporated business's losses or gains against their personal losses or gains.

5. What compensation will be paid to professional employees, including:

a. Salaries.

b. Fringe benefits.

c. Bonuses.

NOTE:
For tax planning purposes, it is important to avoid paying compensation that the IRS may consider unreasonable. For an explanation of the law governing this matter, see § 12A.21[4][a].

6. What period will prospective corporation select as taxable year?

NOTE:
A professional corporation must use the calendar year for tax reporting purposes unless the corporation can show a valid business purpose for adopting a different fiscal year and the IRS approves the change [I.R.C. § 441(i)]. However, a professional corporation may elect a different taxable year if the new taxable year does not result in more than a three-month deferral of income; thus, a professional corporation may have taxable year ending in September, October, or November [see I.R.C. § 444(a), (b); see also I.R.C. § 444(d) (manner of election)]. If such an election is in effect, the corporation may be subject to limitations on the deductibility of amounts paid to employee owners [see I.R.C. §§ 280H, 444(c)(2)].

a. Calendar year.

b. Fiscal year.

7. Should corporation elect to be taxed as S corporation [see I.R.C. §§ 1361-1379; see also Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status]?

NOTE:
Most professional corporations will derive no tax benefits from the election of Subchapter S status because there is only a slight chance that the corporation will accumulate. For a detailed explanation of the taxation of S corporations, see Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status .

3. Prepare initial filings to incorporate professional practice.

a. Draft articles of incorporation and make at least five copies [see Corp. Code § 200; see also § 12A.200]:

NOTE:
Bylaws for a professional corporation ordinarily contain the same provisions found in bylaws of a business corporation [see Ch. 4, Bylaws].

5. Restrict ownership of shares by doing both of following:

a. Specifying required manner of disposition of shares belonging to deceased or disqualified shareholder.

b. Requiring corporate shares to contain appropriate restrictive legend [see § 12A.203[1]].

6. Prepare minutes of organizational meeting [see § 12A.204].

a. Either:

(1) Instruct incorporators to hold initial meeting of board of directors; or

(2) Have initial board of directors waive meeting and take initial actions by unanimous written consent.

(2) Subscription for malpractice insurance covering corporation and its employees.

(3) Purchase of life, health, accident, and other medical disability insurance.

(4) Fringe benefit plans, such as medical reimbursement plan or medical diagnostic plan [see §§ 12A.231, 12A.232].

a. Insert one copy into minutes of meeting.

b. Deliver one copy, certified by corporation secretary, to bank, regulatory agency, or any other third party affected by resolution.

8. Draft all documents for fringe benefit plans.

NOTE:

For a detailed explanation of pension and profit sharing plans and representative forms, see Young, Pensions and Profit Sharing Plans (Matthew Bender).

NOTE:

The IRS issues an annual Revenue Procedure containing the current procedures for requesting determination letters [see, e.g., Rev. Proc. 2004-1, 2004-1 I.R.B. 1]. As these procedures are updated every year, the attorney is advised to review the most recent Revenue Procedure for information on current procedures.

10. Prepare and file application for certificate of registration, if required.

NOTE:

Professional corporations rendering professional services by persons duly licensed by the Medical Board of California (or any examining committee under its jurisdiction), the Osteopathic Medical Board of California, the Dental Board of California, the California State Board of Pharmacy, the Veterinary Medical Board, the California Architects Board, the Court Reporters Board of California, Board of Behavioral Sciences, the Board of Registered Nursing, or the State Board of Optometry need not obtain a certificate of registration [Corp. Code § 13401(b); see § 12A.10[2][b]].

11. Obtain federal employer identification number by filing IRS Form SS-4 with Internal Revenue Service.

12. Obtain California employer identification number.

NOTE:

Within 15 days after becoming subject to the personal income tax withholding requirements [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 675], an employer must register with the Employment Development Division (EDD) and secure an account by filing the Registration Form for Commercial Employers (Form DE-1) at an Employment Tax district office [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1086]. 5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.200

§ 12A.200 Articles of Incorporation for Professional Corporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of articles of incorporation for a professional corporation modeled after the California Secretary of State's sample form. It is a general purpose form and does not purport to illustrate provisions related to any particular profession. The incorporation of some professions may be governed by statutes and regulations other than and in addition to the Moscone-Knox Professional Corporation Act [see Corp. Code § 13400 et seq.]. These provisions commonly regulate matters such as the name and purpose of the corporation [see [d], below; see also § 12A.14[1]] and the qualification of shareholders [see § 12A.14[4]]. The agency regulating the profession may require that a professional corporation's articles include provisions for the purpose of enforcing the profession's code of ethics. This form should be adapted in accordance with any rules and regulations for the particular profession to be practiced by the corporation.

[b] Required Provisions

Articles of incorporation for professional corporations differ from articles for business corporations in that they must state that the corporation is a professional corporation [Corp. Code §§ 202(b)(4), 13404; see art. I, below]. The articles must also identify the professional purpose of the corporation [see Corp. Code § 202(b)(1)(ii); see also art. II, below]. The articles may not contain any additional statement regarding the powers or purposes of the corporation except for purposes of limitation or as required by other state or federal law [Corp. Code § 202(b)(4)].

The articles must specify the name of the corporation's initial agent for service of process. If the designated agent is an individual, the articles also must specify the agent's California street address [Corp. Code § 202(c); see Corp. Code § 1502(b); see also art. IV, below]. Article IV of this form contains two alternative provisions for the appointment of the initial corporate agent for service of process. The first alternative should be used if a natural person is appointed agent. The second alternative should be used if a corporation will be appointed agent. If a corporate agent is appointed, that agent must comply with the requirements contained in Corp. Code § 1505. For a discussion of Corp. Code § 1505 and a representative certificate of consent of a corporation to act as agent for service of process for another corporation, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

If the corporation is authorized to issue only one class of stock, the articles must specify all of the following [Corp. Code § 202(e)(1)]:

- The total number of authorized shares [Corp. Code § 202(d); see art. V, below]. If the corporation is authorized to issue more than one class of stock or if any single class of stock will have two or more series, the articles must specify the total number of authorized shares for each class or series or, alternatively, that the board of directors is authorized to fix the number of shares in each series.

- The designation of each class or series or, alternatively, that the board of directors is authorized to determine the designation of each series.

- The rights, preferences, privileges and restrictions granted to or imposed on the respective classes or series of shares or the holders of those shares or, alternatively, that the board of directors may alter those rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions subject to any stated limitations on any wholly unissued class or series of shares.

[c] Optional Provisions

This form contains optional provisions setting forth the number of directors [see art. VI, below], the names of initial directors [see art. VI, below], the number of shareholders [see art. VII, below], and the fact that the corporation is a close corporation [see art. VII, below]. The clauses relating to the directors are optional in that their absence will not affect the acceptability of the articles for filing with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code §§ 204(c), 212(a)]. However, the clause specifying the number of directors must appear in the articles if it is not contained in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 212(a)]. The clause specifying the number of shareholders in a close corporation is also optional, but it must appear in the articles for the corporation to effectively elect close corporation status on formation [Corp. Code § 158; see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].

[d] Corporate Name

As a general rule, the names of professional corporations must reflect the nature of the professional practice in which the corporation will engage. Most professional corporation names must contain and be restricted to the last name of one or more of the present, prospective, or former shareholders or of persons who were associated with a predecessor person, partnership, or other organization and must include wording or abbreviations denoting the corporate existence such as "Professional Corporation," "Prof. Corp.," "Corporation," "Corp.," "Incorporated," or "Inc." [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1054 (chiropractic corporations), 1804 (dental corporations), 2530.3, 2537.4 (speech pathology and audiology corporations), 2693 (physical therapy corporations), 2902 (psychological corporations), 4978 (acupuncture corporations), 8043 (shorthand reporting corporations), 4987.7 (counseling corporations); see also 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 367.7 (chiropractic corporations), 1344 (medical and podiatry corporations), 1399.476 (acupuncture corporations), 1546 (optometric corporations), 1850.6 (counseling corporations)].

The names of accountancy corporations are not restricted to the name of one or more of the shareholders. However, the name chosen for the corporation may not be false or misleading [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5058.1, 5060(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5060(b) (no one may practice public accountancy under name other than that on valid permit)].

For an analysis of the prohibition against use of misleading names and how it relates to professional corporations, see § 12A.14[1].

[e] Signature and Acknowledgment

The articles of incorporation must be signed and acknowledged by each initial director named in the articles. If no initial directors are named, the articles must be signed by the incorporators [Corp. Code § 200(b); see Corp. Code § 149]. Certificates of acknowledgment must be in the form prescribed by statute [Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1189(a); see [2], below]. The officer taking the acknowledgment of an instrument must authenticate the certificate by endorsing it, and must then attach the certificate to the instrument [Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1193]. A certificate of acknowledgment of an instrument executed by a duly authorized person on behalf of an incorporated or unincorporated entity in the prescribed form [see Civ. Code § 1189(a)] is prima facie evidence that the instrument is the duly authorized act of the entity named in the instrument, and is conclusive evidence of that fact in favor of any good faith purchaser, lessee, or encumbrancer [Civ. Code § 1190].

For a more detailed discussion of the execution and acknowledgment of articles, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

[f] Filing

An original and at least two copies should be included in the filing with the Secretary of State, together with the current filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(c)]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify two copies of the articles without charge if submitted with the original [Gov. Code § 12185]. For a detailed discussion of filing procedures, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

[g] Commencement of Practice

Although the act of filing the articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State establishes the existence of the corporation, the corporation may not begin to render professional services until it has obtained a certificate of registration, when necessary [Corp. Code §§ 13401(b), 13404]. For an explanation of the registration certificate requirement for professional corporations, see § 12A.14[5].

This version of the affidavit is for use when the licensed person will file the articles of incorporation. If the attorney or another person will file the articles, § 12A.202 should be used in place of this form.

PART IV. FORMS

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.203

§ 12A.203 Bylaws for Professional Corporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a representative set of bylaws for a professional corporation. Because it is not designed to be used for any particular type of professional corporation, it contains provisions of general application that in most cases will have to be modified and augmented to meet the needs of the particular type of professional practice involved.

Because many professional corporations are small entities with only a few shareholders, this form has been kept relatively simple and basic. If more detailed provisions regarding corporate structure and management are desired, the provisions of this form may be augmented by adding provisions from the long-form corporate bylaws set forth in Ch. 4, Bylaws, § 4.200. For a detailed discussion of corporate bylaws, and other alternative bylaw clauses, see Ch. 4, Bylaws .

For ease of reference, the headings of the individual provisions in these bylaws contain reference to the relevant Corporations Code sections. These statutory references should be omitted from actual bylaws drafted using this form as a model.

[b] Restrictions Regarding Officers

Specified persons licensed in other professions related to the profession in which a corporation is engaged may be officers, directors, shareholders, or employees of the corporation. However, the roles of allied professionals in professional corporations are subject to restrictions [see Corp. Code § 13401.5]. For an explanation of those restrictions, see § 12A.12. For a complete list of allied professionals, see § 12A.14[6].

[c] Directors of Medical Corporations

The bylaws (or articles) of a medical professional corporation may set forth the powers, duties, compensation, and methods of selection and removal of directors. Each term of office for these directors may not exceed three years.

However, if the medical corporation has more than 200 shareholders, the bylaws or articles may provide that directors who are officers of the corporation or who are responsible for the management of all medical services at one or more medical centers may have directors' terms of up to six years. In no event, however, may more than 50 percent of the members of the board, plus one additional member of the board, have six-year terms of office [Corp. Code § 13403].

Article Five of these bylaws provides that the corporation will indemnify any corporate director, officer, or employee for expenses and/or liabilities incurred as a result of good faith activities on behalf of the corporation. This provision will enable any professional employee who is found liable for malpractice to have a right of reimbursement against the corporation. The determination of whether or not the person is seeking indemnity reasonably and in good faith will be up to the directors and will not necessarily depend on the outcome of any proceeding in connection with which the director, officer, or employee seeks indemnity.

[e] Sole Shareholder Corporations

In a sole shareholder corporation, the shareholder must serve as both president and treasurer [Corp. Code § 13403; see § 12A.14[4]]. That shareholder must be licensed to practice the profession for which the corporation is formed, but the other corporate officers and directors need not be licensed persons [Corp. Code § 13403; see [2*], §§ 4.01, 4.02, below*].

[2] FORM

Bylaws for Professional Corporation

BYLAWS OF

_____ [name of corporation]

I. SHARE OWNERSHIP

Qualifications of Shareholders [Corp. Code §§ 13401.5, 13406(a), 13407]

1.01. The Corporation may not issue shares, nor may any shareholder transfer any of its capital stock, to anyone other than the Corporation or an individual who is duly licensed or otherwise legally authorized to render the specific professional services for which the Corporation was organized. [If allied professionals may be officers of corporation (see Corp. Code § 13401.5), add: Persons licensed to practice _____ (specify allied profession(s), e.g., psychology) may at no time own more than 49 percent of the total number of shares of the corporation and may at no time outnumber those persons licensed to practice _____ (specify profession in which corporation will render services, e.g., medicine)].

Required Transfer of Shares [Corp. Code § 13407]

1.02. (a) Shares owned by a person who dies or becomes a disqualified shareholder will be sold and transferred to the Corporation or its shareholders on the terms agreed on by the Corporation and its shareholders. The sale or transfer will occur not later than six months following the death of any shareholder, or within 90 days following the disqualification of any shareholder to practice the profession of _____[specify profession for which corporation is organized].

[If shareholders executed a buy-sell agreement (see § 12A.220), add:]

The terms for the purchase and sale are set forth in _____ (title of the buy-sell agreement), executed by the shareholders and the Corporation on _____[date].

[If shareholders will not execute a buy-sell agreement, add:]

(b) If the shareholders and a disqualified shareholder or the estate of a deceased shareholder are unable to agree on the value of shares in the Corporation, that value will be determined by arbitration conducted in accord with the terms of this section. One arbitrator will be selected by the Corporation, and one arbitrator will be selected by the disqualified shareholder or the estate of the deceased shareholder. The two arbitrators will confer and determine the value of the shares. If the two arbitrators cannot agree on the disputed matter, they will select a third arbitrator whose decision will be final and binding on all parties.

II. MEETINGS AND ACTIONS OF SHAREHOLDERS

Annual Meetings [Corp. Code § 600(a), (b)]

2.01. (a) The annual meeting of the Corporation's shareholders will be held at the principal office of the Corporation or at another place determined from time to time by the Board of Directors. The annual meeting will be held _____[e.g., at 10:00 o'clock A.M., on the first Monday in April] each year it is if not a legal holiday (but if it is a legal holiday, then on the next day not a legal holiday), or at another time in each year, as determined from time to time by the Board of Directors.

(b) The annual meeting will be held for the purpose of electing directors and considering reports. On due notice, matters that can properly be considered and acted on at a special meeting may also be considered and acted on at an annual meeting, in which case the annual meeting will also be considered as, and will be, a special meeting. If the annual meeting is not held, or if directors are not elected at the annual meeting, a special meeting may be called and held for that purpose.

Special Meetings [Corp. Code § 600(d)]

2.02. Special shareholders' meetings may be called by the Chairman of the Board, the President or a Vice-President; by the Board of Directors pursuant to a meeting of the Board; by a majority of the directors acting without a meeting; or by any person or persons who hold not less than 25 percent of all shares outstanding and entitled to be voted on any proposal to be submitted at the meeting. On written request by any person or persons entitled to call a shareholders' meeting, made by registered or certified mail or delivered in person to the Secretary, the Secretary will provide the shareholders with notice of a meeting. If the Secretary fails to set the meeting and give notice within 20 days after the delivery of the request, the person or persons requesting the meeting may fix the time of the meeting and give notice in the manner provided in Section 2.03. No business other than that specified in the notice may be considered at any special meeting.

Notice of Meetings [Corp. Code § 601(a), (b)]

2.03. (a) A written notice of annual or special shareholders' meetings, stating the time, place, and in the case of special meetings, the object or objects of the meetings, must be given by or at the direction of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, or Assistant Secretary to each shareholder of record entitled to vote at the meeting. The record date for the determination of shareholders who are entitled to vote at any meeting is the close of business on the date preceding the date on which notice is given.

(b) Notice will be mailed not less than 10 nor more than 60 days before the date fixed for the meeting to the shareholder's address on the books of the corporation. Notice will be deemed to have been given on the day mailed. No failure or irregularity of notice of meeting will invalidate the meeting or any proceeding or action taken at the meeting, and actual attendance at any meeting without protest prior to commencement of the meeting constitutes a waiver. Notice of meetings may be waived by any shareholder or by all the shareholders pursuant to law.

Quorum [Corp. Code § 602(a)]

2.04. Unless otherwise provided by statute, the Articles, or these Bylaws, shareholders of record entitled to vote not less than a majority in number of the shares authorized, issued, and outstanding, represented in person or by proxy, constitute a quorum sufficient for the taking of any action submitted to a vote at a meeting of the shareholders.

Voting [Corp. Code §§ 700, 708]

2.05. Unless otherwise provided by statute, the Articles, or these Bylaws, shareholders at the close of business on the record date are entitled to notice and to vote, notwithstanding the transfer of any shares on the books of the corporation after the record date. Each share has one vote. Unless otherwise provided by statute, the Articles, or these Bylaws, a majority of the shares entitled to vote, represented in person or by proxy, will determine any matter submitted to a vote at a meeting of the shareholders. Cumulative voting in the election of directors _____[is or is not] permitted.

Voting Trusts and Proxies [Corp. Code §§ 705, 706]

2.06. Any voting trust, proxy, or other arrangement with any other person is void.

Adjournment [Corp. Code § 602(c)]

2.07. At any meeting, the shareholders present in person or by proxy, whether or not a quorum, may adjourn the meeting from time to time.

Action Without Meeting [Corp. Code §§ 603]

2.08. Any action that may be authorized or taken at a shareholders' meeting may be authorized or taken without a meeting with the affirmative vote or approval of, and in writing signed by, all of the shareholders who would be entitled to notice of a meeting for that purpose. The writing will be filed with or entered on the records of the Corporation.

III. DIRECTORS

Number of Directors [Corp. Code § 212(a)]

3.01. The number of directors will be determined, from time to time, at a shareholders' meeting called for the purpose of electing directors, at which a quorum is present, by resolution of shareholders holding a majority of the shares, in person or by proxy, entitled to vote. The number of directors will not be less than three unless all the shares of the Corporation are owned of record by one or two shareholders, in which case the number of directors may be less than three but not less than the number of shareholders. In case the shareholders at any meeting for the election of directors fail to fix the number of directors to be elected, the number elected will be deemed to be the number of directors so fixed.

Licensing [Corp. Code §§ 13401.5, 13403]

3.02. All directors must hold a current valid license to practice _____[specify profession] or to practice the allied profession[s] of _____[specify allied profession(s)] in California. If any director is disqualified from the practice of _____[restate profession, or, if more than one type of professional is authorized to be a director, state: any of the aforementioned professions], that director will be removed from the board and an election to replace the vacancy thus created will be conducted in accordance with Section 3.04.

Election and Term of Office [Corp. Code § 301]

3.03. The directors will be elected at each annual shareholders' meeting, or if not so elected, at a special shareholders' meeting called for that purpose. Each director will hold office until the expiration of the term for which he or she was elected and will continue in office until a successor is elected, or until earlier resignation, removal from office, or death. Each director's term of office will be _____[specify number not greater than three unless company is a large professional medical corporation (see Corp. Code § 13403), e.g., one year, from the annual meeting date to the next succeeding annual meeting date].

Vacancies [Corp. Code § 305]

3.04. Any vacancy occurring in the Board of Directors by reason of death, resignation, or other incapacity will be filled by a majority vote of the remaining members of the Board except as otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation. Interim directors appointed in this manner will hold office until the next annual shareholders' meeting, until a successor is elected. If the vote of the remaining members of the Board results in a tie, the vacancy may be filled by a vote of the shareholders at a special meeting called for that purpose.

Meetings of Directors [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(2), 307(a)(1)]

3.05. (a) Regular meetings of the Board of Directors will be held on dates that the Board may designate. The Secretary will give at least _____[e.g., five] days notice of the time and place of each meeting to each member of the Board.

(b) Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be held on call of the President, or the Chairman of the Board, and will be called by the President on request of not less than one-third of the members of the Board of Directors. A special meeting may be held at any place, within or without the State of California, on four days notice to each director by first-class mail, postage prepaid, or 48 hours notice delivered personally or by telephone, including a voice messaging system or other system or technology designed to record and communicate messages, telegraph, facsimile, electronic mail, or other electronic means. The notice must specify the time, place, and general purposes of the meeting and be served on each director either personally or by telephone, or by mail or telegram addressed to his or her last place of residence known to the Corporation.

(c) Notice of any meeting need not be given to any director who signs a waiver of notice, or a consent to holding the meeting or an approval of the minutes of the meeting, whether before or after the meeting, or who attends the meeting without protesting, prior to the meeting or at its commencement, the lack of notice to the director. Any waiver of notice need not specify the purpose of the meeting. All waivers, consents, and approvals of minutes shall be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting to which they pertain.

Quorum [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(4), 307(a)(7)]

3.06. A majority of the number of directors then in office constitutes a quorum for the transaction of any business except the filling of vacancies. The act of the majority of the directors present at the meeting at which a quorum is present constitutes the act of the Board of Directors, unless the act of a greater number is required by the California General Corporation Law, the Articles of Incorporation, or these Bylaws. If at any meeting of the directors there is less than a quorum present, a majority of those present may adjourn the meeting from time to time without notice, other than giving an announcement at the meeting, until a quorum will be present.

Action Without a Meeting [Corp. Code § 307(b)]

3.07. Any action that may be authorized or taken at a meeting of the directors may be authorized or taken without a meeting with the affirmative vote or approval of, and in a writing or writings signed by, all the directors, provided that the number of directors serving at the time the action is taken constitutes a quorum. The writing or writings must be filed with or entered on the records of the Corporation.

No Compensation for Director Services [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(4)]

3.08. Directors will not receive any stated salary for their services as members of the Board of Directors. However, on resolution of the Board, a fixed sum for attendance may be allowed for regular and special meetings. Nothing contained in this provision will be construed to preclude any director from serving the Corporation in any other capacity and receiving compensation from the Corporation for those services.

IV. OFFICERS

Number and Types [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(6), 312(a)]

4.01. The Corporation will have a President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer/Chief Financial Officer. The Corporation may also have one or more Vice-Presidents and any other officers and assistants that the Board of Directors may deem necessary and proper for the conduct of the business of the corporation. [add if corporation will have only one shareholder: The offices of President and Treasurer/Chief Financial Officer will be held by the same person].

[If corporation will have more than one shareholder:]

Qualifications of Officers [Corp. Code §§ 13401(d), 13401.5, 13403]

4.02. All officers of the corporation must be licensed to practice _____[specify profession in which corporation will render services and, if desired, any allied professions specified in Corp. Code § 13401.5; if allied professionals may be officers, include additional language indicated in Section 1.01, above, e.g., medicine or psychology] in the State of California. The President of the corporation will serve as a director, but other corporate officers need not be directors.

[Or, if corporation will have only one shareholder:]

4.02. The President and Treasurer/Chief Financial Officer of the corporation must be licensed to practice _____[specify profession in which corporation will render services and, if desired, any allied professions specified in Corp. Code § 13401.5; if allied professionals may be officers, include additional language indicated in Section 1.01, above, e.g., medicine or psychology] in the State of California. The other officers of the corporation need not be licensed. The President and Chief Financial Officer of the corporation will serve as a director, but other corporate officers need not be directors.

Election and Term [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(6), 312(b)]

4.03. All officers and assistant officers will be elected by the Board of Directors at its annual meeting for a term of one year unless a shorter term is designated by the Board.

Removal and Resignation [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(6), 312(b)]

4.04. Any officer may be removed, either with or without cause, subject to any rights of the officer under any employment contract with the corporation, by the vote of the Board of Directors at any regular or special meeting of the Board, or by the unanimous written consent of the directors then in office without a meeting. Any officer may resign at any time without prejudice to any rights of the corporation under any contract to which the officer is a party by giving written notice to the President or the Secretary of the corporation. Any resignation shall take effect on the date the notice is received unless a later effective date is specified, in which case the resignation is effective on the specified date. Unless otherwise specified in the notice, acceptance of the resignation by the Board of Directors is not necessary to make it effective.

Vacancies [Corp. Code §§ 212(b)(6), 312(a)] 4.05. If the office, President, Secretary, or Treasurer/Chief Financial Officer becomes vacant by reason of death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, the Board of Directors shall fill it by appointing a successor officer [who shall hold the office for the unexpired term]. If any other office becomes vacant, the Board of Directors, in its discretion, may leave it unfilled for any period that it may fix or it may appoint a successor officer to fill the vacancy.

V. INDEMNIFICATION

Right to Indemnification [Corp. Code §§ 204(a)(10), (11), 317]

5.01. The Corporation has the authority to indemnify any person who was or is a party to any threatened, pending, or completed civil lawsuit or proceeding, whether administrative, or investigative, including all appeals (other than an action brought by or on behalf of the Corporation) by reason of the fact that person is or was acting as a director, officer, or employee of the Corporation. Indemnification will include all expenses, including without limitation, attorneys' fees, court costs, expert witness fees, judgments, decrees, and fines actually paid by the person in settlement of any action, suit, or proceedings provided that the Board of Directors first determines, in its sole judgment, that the person acted in good faith and in a manner that he or she reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Corporation. The termination of any action, suit, or proceeding by judgment, order, or settlement does not of itself create a presumption that the person did not act in good faith.

Gross Negligence or Misconduct [Corp. Code §§ 204(a)(10), (11), 317(b)]

5.02. No indemnification will be made for any claim, issue, or matter as to which the person is finally adjudged to be liable for gross negligence or intentional misconduct in the performance of his or her duties as director, officer, or employee.

Indemnity for Successful Defense [Corp. Code § 317(d)]

5.03. In spite of any limitations set forth in Sections 5.01 and 5.02, to the extent that any person is successful on the merits or otherwise in defense of any action, suit, or proceeding referred to in those sections, that person will be indemnified against all expenses actually and reasonably paid by him or her, including, without limitation, attorneys' fees, court costs, and expert witness fees.

Advancement of Expenses [Corp. Code § 317(f)]

5.04. Expenses incurred in defending a civil action, suit, or proceeding may be paid by the Corporation in advance of the final disposition of the action, suit, or proceeding as authorized by the Board of Directors, on receipt by the Board of Directors of an undertaking by or on behalf of the director, officer, or employee involved to repay the expenses if it is ultimately determined that the person is not entitled to be indemnified by the Corporation as authorized in this section.

Indemnification Not Exclusive [Corp. Code § 317(g)]

5.05. The indemnification provided under this section is not exclusive of any other rights to which any person indemnified may be entitled under any regulation, agreement, vote of the stockholders or disinterested directors, or otherwise. The indemnification provided under this section will be deemed exclusive of any other power to indemnify or right to indemnification that the Corporation or any person referred to in this section may have or acquire. Indemnification will continue and inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, and administrators of any person entitled to indemnification under this section.

Liability Insurance [Corp. Code § 317(i)]

5.06. The Corporation may purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of any person who is or was a director, officer, employee, or designated agent of the Corporation against any liability asserted against and incurred by that person whether or not the Corporation would have the power to indemnify that person under the provisions of these Bylaws.

VI. AMENDMENT OF BYLAWS

Vote Required to Amend [Corp. Code §§ 211, 212]

6.01. These Bylaws may be adopted, amended, or repealed by the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares empowered to vote at any meeting called and held for that purpose, or without a meeting, by the written assent of the owners of record of two-thirds of the shares of the Corporation entitled to vote.

Articles to Govern [Corp. Code § 212(b)]

6.02. In case any provision of these Bylaws is inconsistent with the Articles of Incorporation, the Articles govern.

I certify that:

§ 12A.205 Letter Offer Transferring Assets of Professional Practice to Professional Corporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter offer transferring the assets of an existing professional practice to a professional corporation. It can be used to transfer all of the assets of an existing professional practice to a newly formed professional corporation. The assets are exchanged solely for the stock of the corporation to accomplish a tax-free incorporation.

[b] Tax-Free Incorporation

As a general rule, the transfer of property to a corporation controlled by the transferors will not cause the transferors to recognize gain or loss as long as they receive only stock and securities in the corporation, and, immediately after the exchange, those persons own at least 80 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of the corporation's voting stock and at least 80 percent of the total number of shares of all other classes of the corporation's stock [I.R.C. §§ 351(a), 368(c)]. If the transferor receives property or money in addition to stock and securities, then gain will be recognized, but not in excess of the amount of money received plus the fair market value of the other property received [I.R.C. § 351(b)(1)]. Furthermore, the assumption of liabilities by the corporation may cause gain to be recognized by the transferor. The excess of the amount of liabilities assumed by the corporation over the total of the adjusted tax bases of the property transferred to the corporation will be treated as gain taxable to the transferor as ordinary income [I.R.C. § 357(c)(1)].

For further discussion, see § 12A.21[1][b].

B. Shareholder Agreements

§ 12A.220 Buy-Sell Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a basic buy-sell agreement that sets forth the terms and conditions of the purchase and sale of shares in a professional corporation. This form covers the purchase of a shareholder's shares by the corporation or the remaining shareholders. In general, buy-sell agreements are designed to create a ready market for shareholders' shares and to ensure that the corporation's shares are not transferred to outsiders. In the case of a professional corporation, the buy-sell agreement serves a third purpose. It ensures that the shares will not be transferred to a person who is not licensed to practice the profession for which the corporation was incorporated. The shares of a professional corporation can be transferred only to an individual who is licensed to practice the profession for which the corporation was organized [Corp. Code § 13407; see § 12A.15[1]].

Generally, the market for a shareholder's shares will be either the remaining shareholders, the corporation, or both. It is usually advantageous to allow the corporation to purchase the shares of a shareholder who desires to sell since the dollars used to pay the purchase price will be subject to tax only once, at the corporation's income tax bracket.

Although there are many different formulas to determine the price at which shares will be purchased, the buy-out approach and valuation method selected should reflect the nature of the professional corporation involved. Two features are common to most professional corporations: (1) most professional corporations lack substantial business assets; and (2) most professional corporations report income and expenses on the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting [see I.R.C. § 446]. The combination of these characteristics ordinarily means that the corporate stock is properly valued by taking into account only its relatively modest book value (determined without regard to accounts receivable, which represent future income rather than after-tax profits). The accounts receivable, in turn, are relevant to determining the amount of deferred compensation to which the departing shareholder will be entitled [see § 12A.21[3][d]]. This form adopts this means of disregarding future corporate income as an element of value in determining the buy-sell price.

For further discussion of buy-sell agreements, and additional forms for such agreements, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements .

[b] Problems Involving Transfer of Stock in Professional Corporations

Several potential problems may arise in the transfer of shares of stock in a professional corporation and in a close corporation. Any transfer of shares in a professional corporation to a nonlicensed person is void [Corp. Code § 13406(a)]. A professional corporation may purchase its own shares without regard to any restrictions otherwise provided by law, provided that at least one share remains outstanding [Corp. Code § 13407]. For a more detailed explanation of these problems and possible solutions, see § 12A.15.

A legend restricting transfer of the shares subject to the agreement must be printed on the shares themselves [see Corp. Code § 418(a)(1)] to ensure that any transferee has adequate notice that the shares are subject to a buy-sell agreement. If the required statement does not appear on the certificate, transfer restrictions imposed by the corporation are unenforceable against a transferee without actual knowledge of the restrictions [Corp. Code § 418(b)].

By accepting a stock certificate that contains a restrictive legend [see Corp. Code § 418(c)], a shareholder in a close corporation agrees not to make any inter vivos transfer of that stock if the transfer would cause the number of shareholders of record to exceed the number specified in the articles of incorporation. Acceptance also constitutes a waiver of any right that the shareholder might have to sell the stock to a greater number of purchasers or to demand registration of the stock under the Securities Act of 1933 [Corp. Code § 421]. If the certificate for stock in a close corporation contains a restrictive legend, any attempt to make an inter vivos transfer of the stock will be void if the transfer would result in the number of shareholders of record exceeding the number specified in the articles of incorporation [Corp. Code § 418(d)].

[2] FORM

Buy-Sell Agreement

BUY-SELL AGREEMENT

This Agreement is entered into on this _____ day of _____, _____[year] at _____[location], California, between _____[name of corporation], a California professional corporation ("Corporation"), and _____, _____, and _____[names of all the shareholders] (collectively "Shareholders" and individually "Shareholder").

Recitals

The Shareholders are or will be the principal executive officers and sole shareholders of the Corporation.

The parties in furtherance of the interests of the Corporation desire to establish consistent and harmonious policies and to ensure continuity of management by persons who have a proprietary interest in the Corporation and continuity of stock ownership by persons licensed to practice the profession of _____[specify, e.g., medicine].

In consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained below, the undersigned agree with each other as follows:

Sale of Shares

1. The Corporation will purchase and the Shareholder or the estate of the deceased Shareholder will sell to the Corporation at the price set forth in Paragraph 11, all of the shares in the Corporation legally or beneficially owned by the Shareholder or by the Shareholder's estate at the time of the occurrence of any of the events:

(a) The death of a Shareholder;

(b) The disqualification of a Shareholder from the practice of _____[type of professional practice, e.g., medicine];

(c) The permanent disability or incapacity of a Shareholder rendering him or her unable to practice _____[type of professional practice, e.g., medicine]; or

(d) The complete cessation of employment of a Shareholder by the Corporation for any other reason.

Restrictions on the Transferability of Shares

2. Neither the Shareholder nor the Shareholder's heirs, executors, or administrators will sell, exchange, give, transfer, pledge, hypothecate, or otherwise dispose of any shares in the Corporation or any interest in the shares, except as provided in this Agreement. The corporation will ensure that a legend restricting the transfer of shares subject to the agreement is printed on the shares themselves.

Method of Sale

3. After the occurrence of any of the events specified in Paragraph 1, and before the purchase date, the Shareholder or the Shareholder's estate whose shares are being sold under this Agreement must deliver to the Corporation the certificates for the shares accompanied by an assignment and power of attorney in blank or properly endorsed for transfer. The Corporation will pay the Shareholder or the Shareholder's estate the price set forth in Paragraph 11. [Optional: Thereafter, the Corporation will retire the purchased shares.]

Terms of Payment on Death of Shareholder

4. If the Shareholder has died, the terms of payment are as follows:

(a) If the proceeds of any life insurance policy on the life of the deceased Shareholder owned by the Corporation are equal to or exceed the purchase price for the shares of the deceased Shareholder, the purchase price will be paid in cash on the purchase date.

(b) If the proceeds of any life insurance are less than the purchase price, the total proceeds from the insurance on the deceased Shareholder's life will be paid on the Purchase Date to the deceased Shareholder's estate, plus any additional amount of cash as will be required to make the payment to the deceased Shareholder's estate equal to at least 20 percent of the purchase price, and the balance of the purchase price will be paid in 60 equal monthly installments beginning one year after the date of the first payment. The obligation to pay will be evidenced by the Corporation's promissory note providing for the payment of the balance in 60 equal monthly installments commencing one year from the Purchase Date bearing interest at the rate determined pursuant to Paragraph 15 on the unpaid balance. The obligation to pay will be personally guaranteed by the surviving Shareholder(s). The Corporation may prepay any promissory note, in whole or in part, at any time without penalty.

Terms of Payment on Occurrence Other Than Death

5. If an event specified in Paragraph 1 other than death of a Shareholder has occurred, the purchase price will be paid over a period of years, evidenced by Corporation's promissory note providing for the payment of the purchase price in 10 equal annual installments commencing one year from the date of delivery of the certificates to the Corporation and bearing interest, from the date of delivery, at the rate determined pursuant to Paragraph 15 on the unpaid balance. Payment of the note will be personally guaranteed by the remaining Shareholder[s]. The Corporation may prepay any promissory note, in whole or in part, at any time, without penalty.

Consolidation of Debts

6. On the purchase by the Corporation of shares from a Shareholder or a Shareholder's estate in accordance with this Agreement, the Corporation will proceed according to this Paragraph with respect to any indebtedness of the Corporation to the Shareholder. As to all indebtedness to the Shareholder, whether or not evidenced by promissory notes or other evidence of indebtedness of the Corporation, the Corporation will deliver to the Shareholder or a deceased Shareholder's estate (and at that time any outstanding promissory notes or other evidences of indebtedness of the Corporation to the Shareholder will be canceled) its nonnegotiable promissory note in the principal amount equal to the indebtedness, including any accrued interest. The nonnegotiable promissory note will be payable to the order of the Shareholder or the administrator or executor of a deceased Shareholder's estate; dated as of the date 90 days after the occurrence of the event causing sale of the Shareholder's shares; be payable in five equal annual installments; and bear interest at the rate determined pursuant to Paragraph 15 on the unpaid balance from the date of the event causing sale of the Shareholder's shares. The first installment will be due and payable one year from the date of execution of the note. The Corporation may prepay the note, in whole or in part, at any time without penalty. Payment of the note must be personally guaranteed by the remaining Shareholder(s).

Subordination

7. Each promissory note issued and delivered by the Corporation under this Agreement at a time when there is an outstanding debt of the Corporation that requires subordination, must contain a subordination clause in the form required by the terms of any agreement with the Corporation's creditors.

Right of First Refusal

8. (a) If a Shareholder wishes to dispose of any of his or her shares in the Corporation and no event specified in Paragraph 1 of this Agreement has occurred, the Shareholder must first offer, in writing, to sell all of the stock to the Corporation at a price determined in accordance with the provisions of Paragraph 11.

(b) Any shares not purchased by the Corporation within 30 days after receipt of the offer in writing must be offered at the same price to the other Shareholder(s) who shall have the right to purchase all or any portion of the shares offered for sale. If more than one of the remaining Shareholders agree to purchase the shares, then unless those Shareholders who desire to purchase the shares agree otherwise, the shares will be purchased pro rata on the basis of the number of the Corporation's shares owned by each of those Shareholders who desire to purchase the shares.

Sale to Licensed Professional Only

9. If the shares offered pursuant to Paragraph 8 are not purchased by the Corporation or the remaining Shareholder(s) within 60 days of the receipt of the offer, the Shareholder desiring to sell shares may sell them to any other person licensed to practice the profession of _____[specify profession for which corporation was formed]. However, the Shareholder may not sell the shares without giving the Corporation and the remaining Shareholder(s) the right to purchase the remaining shares at the price and on the terms offered to the other person.

Terms of Payment

10. (a) Payment by the Corporation for any shares offered by the offering Shareholder pursuant to Paragraph 8 will be at the price set forth in Paragraph 11 on the terms set forth in this Paragraph. Twenty percent of the purchase price will be payable in cash on delivery of the share certificates to the Corporation, and the balance will be payable in 60 equal monthly installments commencing one year from the date of delivery of the share certificates to the Corporation and continuing from month to month until paid in full.

(b) If any Shareholder or Shareholders exercise an option to purchase, the purchase price of the shares will be determined by Paragraph 11 and be paid on the following terms: Twenty percent of the purchase price is payable in cash on delivery of the share certificates to the purchaser and the balance will be payable in 60 equal monthly installments commencing one year from the date of delivery of the share certificates to the purchaser and continuing from month to month until paid in full.

(c) The portion of any purchase price not paid in cash will be evidenced by the promissory note(s) of the purchasing Corporation or Shareholder(s), bearing interest at the rate determined pursuant to Paragraph 15 on the unpaid balance. Payment of the Corporation's promissory note will be personally guaranteed by the remaining Shareholder(s). The purchasing Corporation or Shareholder(s) may prepay the note(s), in whole or in part, at any time without penalty.

Purchase Price

11. The purchase price to be paid for the interest of a Shareholder will be an amount equal to the number of shares of stock in the Corporation owned by that Shareholder on the Purchase Date multiplied by the book value of a single share of the corporation's stock as determined under Paragraph 13 of this Agreement. In no event, however, will the purchase price for a deceased Shareholder's interest be less than the amount of insurance, if any, on the deceased Shareholder's life owned by the Corporation for the specific purpose of purchasing a deceased Shareholder's interest. For purposes of this Agreement, the valuation date will be the last day of the fiscal quarter preceding the month in which the offer to sell is submitted by the Shareholder, or the last day of the fiscal quarter preceding the month in which some event specified in Paragraph 1 occurs.

Life Insurance

12. Any insurance on the lives of the Shareholders carried by the Corporation for the specific purpose of purchasing a deceased Shareholder's interest must be carried in amounts proportionate to their share holdings in the Corporation. Any excess of the purchase price paid for the stock of a Shareholder who has died or who is permanently disabled or incapacitated over the book value of the stock is attributable to the goodwill of the Corporation.

Definition and Computation of Book Value

13. (a) "Book value," for purposes of this Agreement, means the value of the capital stock of the Corporation as of the valuation date, after deducting the sum of all the Corporation's liabilities from the sum of all of the Corporation's assets and property as shown on the Corporation's books, except that the Corporation's capital stock will not be deducted as a liability, nor will any surplus or undivided profits or any reserve fund representing the surplus or undivided profits be deducted. The book value of any single share of capital stock of the Corporation is its proportionate share of the book value of all the outstanding stock of the Corporation as of the valuation date.

(b) To determine book value for purposes of this Paragraph, an inventory will be taken of the property, assets (excluding accounts receivable), and liabilities of the Corporation as of the valuation date. Accounts receivable will not be taken into account. All other sums owed to the Corporation will be valued as they are carried gross on the books. Furniture, fixtures, equipment and other fixed assets on hand will be valued as they appear on the books of the Corporation, being original cost, less depreciation. Goodwill, trademarks, and trade names will be deemed of no value unless they have been acquired and paid for in cash, and in that event, the sum will be computed at the amount paid for them. Insurance policies on the life or lives of Shareholders owned by the Corporation and in which it is named as a beneficiary will be valued at their cash surrender value on the valuation date. Federal income taxes payable on operating profits for the year up to the date of valuation will be apportioned. All state and other taxes and assessments that are unpaid will be apportioned. Outstanding contracts with suppliers will be deemed of no value for the purpose of this inventory. The usual accounting practices employed by the accountant auditing the books of the Corporation must be employed in determining the foregoing values.

(c) In the event of a disagreement between the parties with respect to valuation of any asset, or any other matter relating to the determination of the book value of the capital stock of the Corporation, one arbitrator will be selected by the selling Shareholder and one arbitrator will be selected by the purchaser or purchasers. If the two arbitrators cannot agree on the disputed matter, they will select a third arbitrator. The decision of the majority is final and binding on all the parties. The arbitration will be governed by the rules of the American Arbitration Association.

Purchase Date

14. The purchase date of a deceased Shareholder's shares will be _____[specify number; must be within six-month period specified by Corp. Code § 13407, e.g., 120] days following the death of that Shareholder. The purchase date of a Shareholder's shares sold by reason of the occurrence of any event specified in Paragraph 1, other than the death of a Shareholder, will be _____[specify number; must be within 90-day period specified by Corp. Code § 13407, e.g., 30] days after the date of the event precipitating the sale.

Interest Rate

15. The interest rate determined under this Paragraph will be equal to the lowest interest rate per annum by which no interest will be imputed to the recipient of this interest by reason of I.R.C. § 483 and the Treasury Regulations under that section as amended from time to time. This determination will be made as of the date the payer of the interest first becomes obligated to pay interest on any obligation created pursuant to this Agreement.

Shareholder Actions

16. If any vote, consent, or other action on the part of the Corporation's Shareholders is necessary to remove a legal impediment that would otherwise prevent the performance by the Corporation of any one or more of its obligations under this Agreement, each of the Shareholders agrees to supply that vote, consent, or other action. By executing this agreement, each of the Shareholders hereby authorizes and directs his or her heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns to execute any and all instruments and to take any and all further action necessary or desirable for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Agreement. The Shareholders specifically agree for themselves and their heirs, administrators, successors, and assigns to take appropriate action as Shareholders of the Corporation to reduce the stated capital of the Corporation and/or to cause the Corporation to write up to fair market value any or all of its physical assets if either or both of these actions are necessary or desirable to make lawful the purchase by the Corporation of its own shares under the provisions of this Agreement.

Amendment

17. This Agreement may be altered, amended, or terminated by a writing signed by the Corporation and by all the Shareholders who are parties to this Agreement.

Termination

18. This Agreement terminates on the occurrence of any of the following events:

(a) The bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership, or dissolution of the Corporation;

(b) The deaths within a period of 90 days of all Shareholders who are parties to this Agreement;

(c) When only one Shareholder who is a party to this Agreement survives, but only after the purchase by the Corporation of the shares in the Corporation of any deceased Shareholder; or

(d) The written consent of all parties to this Agreement.

Necessary Acts

19. All parties to this Agreement will perform any acts, including executing any documents, that may be reasonably necessary to fully carry out the provisions and intent of this Agreement.

Notices

20. All notices, demands, requests, or other communications required or permitted by this Agreement must be in writing and will be deemed duly served when personally delivered to the party or to an officer or agent of the party, or when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to the Corporation at _____[address of corporation's principal office], or to a Shareholder at the address appearing for him or her on the books and records of the Corporation, or at any other address the party may designate by written notice to the others.

Attorneys' Fees

21. In the event of any litigation concerning this Agreement between the parties to this Agreement or the parties to this Agreement and the estate of any deceased Shareholder, the prevailing party will be entitled, in addition to any other relief as may be granted, to reasonable attorneys' fees.

Binding on Successors and Assigns

22. This Agreement is binding on the Shareholders, their heirs, legal representatives, successors, and assigns and on the Corporation, its successors, and assigns.

Severability

23. If any provision is unenforceable or invalid for any reason, the remaining provisions will be unaffected by that holding.

Governing Law

24. This Agreement will be construed according to and governed by the laws of the State of California.

Agreement Available for Inspection

25. An original copy of this Agreement duly executed by the Corporation and by each of the Shareholders will be delivered to the Secretary of the Corporation and maintained by the Secretary at the principal office of the Corporation available for inspection by any person requesting to see it.

PART IV. FORMS
B. Shareholder Agreements

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.221

§ 12A.221 Share Purchase Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a basic share purchase agreement for use by professional corporations having more than one shareholder. When an existing professional corporation hires a new professional, it is often desirable to have the professional "buy into" the practice over a period of time. One way of structuring this transaction is to have the newly admitted professional purchase shares from the remaining shareholders. In general, the purchase price will be based on the value of the corporation's stock as of the date the professional commences employment.

One problem with the staged buy-in is what happens if for some reason the relationship does not work out. In that case, the newly employed professional's obligation to purchase additional shares immediately terminates. Furthermore, he or she should be required to resell to the remaining shareholders or the corporation the shares purchased to date. This latter goal can be accomplished by requiring the newly employed professional to enter into a buy-sell agreement [see § 12A.220] at the same time that the purchase agreement is executed.

In consideration of the promises and mutual covenants made in this Agreement, it is agreed as follows:

Sellers' Obligations To Sell

3. Sellers' obligations to sell and Buyer's obligation to purchase shares of the Corporation's common stock as of the date of each installment payment are conditioned on Buyer's continued employment with the Corporation. Sellers' Representations and Warranties

(c) All issued and outstanding shares of the Corporation are fully paid and nonassessable. There are no outstanding subscriptions, options, or other agreements obligating the Corporation to issue additional shares of its capital stock or any other securities of any kind or class.

No Right to Continued Employment

5. Buyer, Sellers, and the Corporation acknowledge to each other that this Agreement may not be deemed to give the Buyer any right to continued employment by the Corporation.

6. As of the date of this Agreement, Buyer, Sellers, and the Corporation agree to all of the terms of the Shareholders' Agreement set forth in Exhibit B this Agreement and incorporated by this reference. From and after the date of this Agreement, the Shareholders' Agreement will be effective for all parties to this Agreement, the execution of this Agreement serving also as the execution and adoption of the Shareholders' Agreement. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, each of the undersigned agrees to the share transfers covered by this Agreement and waives any rights with respect to the share transfers that he, she, or it may have under the Shareholders' Agreement, but only to the extent necessary to permit the transfers covered by this Agreement.

Employee will not disclose, either during or after the term of employment, all or any part of the list of the Corporation's clients to any person, firm, corporation, association, or other entity for any reason or purpose whatsoever. In the event of a breach or threatened breach by Employee of the provisions of this Paragraph, the Corporation will be entitled to an injunction restraining Employee from disclosing, in whole or in part, the list of the Corporation's clients, or from rendering any services to any person, firm, corporation, association, or other entity to whom the list, in whole or in part, has been disclosed or is threatened to be disclosed. Records

11. On the termination of this Agreement, Employee will not be entitled to keep or preserve records or charts of the Corporation as to any _____[clients or patients] unless a _____[client or patient] specifically requests a different disposition of those records. In no event will Employee be entitled to the records of clients not served by Employee.

Vacation

Any notice of change of address is effective only on receipt.

Waiver

14. Failure to insist on strict compliance with any of the terms, covenants, or conditions of this Agreement will not be deemed a waiver of that term, covenant, or condition. Furthermore, no waiver or relinquishment of any right or power at any one time or times will be deemed a waiver or relinquishment of the right or power for all or any other times.

Remedy for Breach

15. If Employee breaches any provision of this Agreement, the Corporation may institute and prosecute proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction to obtain damages for breach of this Agreement or for any other legal or equitable relief to which the Corporation may be entitled at law. The prevailing party in any action to enforce or interpret the terms of this Agreement will be entitled to recover from the other party reasonable attorneys' fees, court costs, and other necessary expenses incident to the action, in addition to any other relief to which that party is entitled.

Partial Invalidity

16. The invalidity or unenforceability of any term or provision or any clause of this Agreement in no way impairs or affects the validity or enforceability of any other provision of this Agreement, which will remain in full force and effect.

Assignment

17. This Agreement is personal in nature, and neither of the parties may assign or transfer this Agreement or any rights or obligations under this Agreement without the consent of the other party, except that the Corporation may assign or transfer this Agreement to a successor corporation in the event of merger, consolidation, or transfer or sale of all or substantially all of the assets of Corporation; provided, that in the case of any assignment or transfer under the terms of this Paragraph, this Agreement will be binding on and inure to the benefit of the successor corporation, and the successor corporation will discharge and perform all of the obligations of the Corporation under this Agreement.

CHAPTER 12A PROFESSIONAL CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Miscellaneous Forms

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.231

§ 12A.231 Medical Reimbursement and Wage Continuation Plan

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a medical reimbursement and wage continuation plan providing for the reimbursement of medical expenses for the employees of a professional corporation and their dependents. There are two general areas in which a medical reimbursement plan can be tailored to fit the needs of the corporation.

First, the scope of reimbursable medical expenses can be limited [see [2], P 3].

Second, and more importantly, serious consideration should be given to the maximum dollar amount of claims that may be submitted by any one employee. The reason for such a limitation is that the medical reimbursement plan must be available to all employees of the corporation who meet the eligibility requirements, not just the highly compensated or professional employees. If the plan discriminates in favor of the corporation's highly compensated or professional employees, then amounts paid to a highly compensated employee during that year are includable in that employee's gross income to the extent that the payments constitute an excess reimbursement of that employee [I.R.C. § 105(h)(1), (7); see § 12A.21[2][d]]. Paragraph 12 of this form allows the corporation to limit the amount to be paid under the plan to or for the benefit of any employee and that employee's dependents during any plan year. Paragraph 13 provides for a continuation of wages during the disability of an employee.

[b] Tax Consequences of Medical Reimbursement Plan

A medical reimbursement plan is a significant fringe benefit to employees because the employer's contributions to the plan for the benefit of the employees will not be includable in the covered employees' gross incomes [I.R.C. § 106], nor will the benefits received by covered employees be includable in their gross incomes [I.R.C. § 105(b)]. Furthermore, the payments by the corporation for employee medical expenses may qualify as a deductible expense for the corporation [I.R.C. § 162(a)]. A qualifying plan may be one that covers one or more employees, and different plans may be provided for different employees or classes of employees.

Few requirements limit the types of plans that can qualify for favorable tax treatment. An accident or health plan may be insured or noninsured, it need not be in writing, and an employee's rights under a plan need not be legally enforceable. However, if the employee's rights are not enforceable, amounts will be deemed received under a plan only if, as of the date that the employee became ill or injured, the employee was covered by a plan providing for the payment of amounts to the employee in the event of illness or injury and notice or knowledge of the plan was reasonably available to the employee [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-5(a)]. Furthermore, favorable tax treatment does not depend on the identity of the payor of the benefits to the employee; the payor may be the employer, a welfare fund, a state sickness or disability benefits fund, an association of employers or employees, or an insurance company [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-5(a)].

For further discussion of the taxation of medical reimbursement plans, see § 12A.21[2][d]. For a medical diagnostic plan, under which reimbursements are not treated as taxable income to the employee even if the plan fails the antidiscrimination rules [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(g)], see § 12A.232.

[c] Tax Consequences of Wage Continuation Plans

Although premium payments for disability insurance are deductible by the corporation [I.R.C. § 162(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.162-10(a)], and are not includible in the employee's gross income [I.R.C. § 106(a); see § 12A.21[2][e]], amounts actually received under the policy are no longer excluded from taxation. Therefore, the corporate employee will be subject to income tax on any payments received under the policy [see I.R.C. § 61(a)(1)].

Medical Reimbursement and Wage Continuation Plan

MEDICAL REIMBURSEMENT AND WAGE CONTINUATION PLAN FOR BENEFIT OF EMPLOYEES OF _____ [name of corporation]

Reimbursement for Medical Care Expenses

1. _____[name of corporation] (Corporation) will reimburse at least annually any eligible employee of the Corporation for all expenses incurred by the employee for the medical care (as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 213(d)(1)) of the employee, the employee's spouse, and the employee's dependents (as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 152).

Eligible Employees

2. The term "eligible employee" means an employee who has completed 3 years of employment with the Corporation and has attained the age of 25 years before the commencement of the Plan year, has a customary work week with the Corporation of 35 hours or more, has customary annual employment with the Corporation of nine months or more and is not included in a unit of employees covered by an agreement between employee representatives and one or more employers that the Secretary of the Treasury finds to be a collective bargaining agreement, in which accident and health benefits were the subject of good faith bargaining between the employee representatives and the employers. Eligibility will be determined as of the last day of the Plan year.

Included Expenses

3. Expenses for medical care as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 213(d)(1) shall include _____[specify, e.g., all amounts paid for hospital bills, doctor and dental bills, drugs, and premiums on accident or health insurance, including hospitalization, surgical, and medical insurance]. Dependents, as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 152, include any member of the eligible employee's family over one half of whose support is furnished by the eligible employee.

Direct Payment

4. The Corporation, in its discretion, may pay any or all of the above-defined expenses directly in lieu of making reimbursement for them. In that event, the Corporation will be relieved of all further responsibility with respect to that particular medical expense.

Submission of Records

5. Any eligible employee applying for reimbursement under this Plan must submit to the Corporation, at least annually, all hospitalization, doctor, dental, or other medical bills, including premium notices for accident or health insurance, for verification by the Corporation before the payment. Failure to comply may terminate the employee's right to reimbursement, at the discretion of the Corporation.

Other Insurance

6. Reimbursement under this Plan will be made by the Corporation only in the event and to the extent that reimbursement or payment is not provided for under any insurance policy or policies, whether owned by the Corporation or the eligible employees, under any other health and accident plan, or under any government reimbursement or payment plan or program. In the event that there is such a policy in whole or in part, the Corporation will be relieved of any liability under this Plan to the extent of the coverage under that policy, plan, or program.

Purpose

7. It is the intention of the Corporation that benefits payable under this Plan are eligible for exclusion from the gross income of the eligible employees covered by this Plan, as provided by Internal Revenue Code Sections 105 and 106, as now or hereafter amended.

Determination and Enforcement

8. All determinations under this Plan will be made by the Board of Directors of the Corporation and will be final. No person has any right to enforce payment under this Plan in any court of law or equity, or in any form of judicial or administrative proceeding.

Coverage

9. Any person becoming an employee of the Corporation after the execution of this Agreement will be eligible for the benefits provided under this Plan on becoming an eligible employee as defined in Paragraph 2, above. A copy of this Plan will be given to all present and future eligible employees of the Corporation.

Termination

10. This Plan is subject to termination at any time by the affirmative vote of the Board of Directors of the Corporation. However, termination of the Plan will not affect any right to claim reimbursement for medical expenses arising before termination.

Effective Date and Plan Year

11. The Plan will be effective as of _____. The Plan year will be the Corporation's fiscal year.

Limitation On Medical Benefits

12. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Plan, total reimbursement and/or direct payments under this Plan to or for the benefit of any eligible employee, spouse and dependents will not exceed $_____ during any one Plan year.

Continuation of Wages During Disability

13. The Corporation will pay, for a period of 12 months, the wages of any eligible employee who is absent from work as a result of personal injury or sickness. The 12-month period commences with the month following the month in which the disability occurs.

5-12A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12A.232

§ 12A.232 Medical Diagnostic Plan

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a medical diagnostic plan. Many professional corporations do not adopt self-insured medical reimbursement plans because the tax advantages of these plans are limited if the plan discriminates in favor of highly compensated employees [see I.R.C. § 105(h); see also § 12A.231[1][b]]. Nevertheless, these corporations may adopt a medical diagnostic plan, under which reimbursements for medical diagnostic procedures for employees (but not dependents) are not treated as taxable income to the employee even if the plan does not satisfy the antidiscrimination rules [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(g)].

[b] Types of Covered Expenses

The medical diagnostic procedures for which reimbursement may be made without regard to the antidiscrimination rules include routine medical examinations, blood tests, and X rays. On the other hand, reimbursement may not be made for expenses incurred for the treatment, cure, or testing of a known illness or disability, or for the treatment or testing for a physical injury, complaint, or specific symptom of a bodily malfunction. Furthermore, procedures do not include any activity undertaken for exercise, fitness, nutrition, recreation, or the general improvement of health unless they are for medical care [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(g)(1); see I.R.C. § 213(e)]. Diagnostic procedures for which reimbursement is made must be performed at a facility that provides no services, directly or indirectly, other than medical and ancillary services. Physical proximity between a medical facility and nonlexical facilities does not alone cause the medical facility not to qualify. For example, an employee's annual physical examination conducted at the employee's personal physician's office is not considered a part of the medical reimbursement plan and therefore is not subject to the nondiscrimination requirements. Accordingly, the amount reimbursed may be excludable from the employee's income if the requirements of I.R.C. § 105(b) are satisfied [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(g)(1)].

Transportation expenses incurred primarily for an allowable diagnostic procedure may also be reimbursed under the plan without regard to anti-discrimination rules, but only to the extent they are ordinary and necessary. Neither transportation undertaken merely for the general improvement of health, or in connection with a vacation, nor incidental expenses for food or lodging qualify for this treatment. Therefore, amounts reimbursed for such expenses may constitute excess reimbursements [Treas. Reg. § 1.105-11(g)(2); see § 12A.21[2][d]].

§ 12A.233 Deferred Compensation Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a deferred compensation agreement. The primary purpose of a deferred compensation agreement is to delay the receipt of compensation until after retirement, when the shareholder may be in a lower tax bracket. Another important objective, in the context of a professional corporation, is to adequately reward a departing shareholder for his or her interest in the corporation. In most incorporated professional practices, business is conducted under the cash receipts and disbursements accounting method. Thus, the corporation's accounts receivable existing on the date of the shareholder's termination will not be a corporate after-tax asset, but will represent future corporate income [see [b], below].An allocation of a portion of the accounts receivable to the departing shareholder will compensate that shareholder for work done on the corporation's behalf.

[b] Tax Consequences

Because a deferred compensation arrangement does not constitute a qualified plan under the Internal Revenue Code, the corporation is not entitled to a deduction during the year in which the compensation is deferred. Rather, the corporation may deduct deferred compensation, as well as any vacation pay treated as deferred compensation, in the taxable year in which paid to the employee. Similarly, the employee is not taxed on deferred compensation in the year during which it is deferred, but the employee is taxed in the year the compensation is received [I.R.C. § 404(a)(5)].

Although the corporation will not be able to deduct currently the amount of compensation deferred, it will have the use of the money that would otherwise be paid as compensation. Deferred compensation agreements often provide that the amount of compensation deferred will grow at an assumed rate of interest to reflect the fact that the professional has in effect made loans to the corporation. However, care must be taken in structuring these arrangements. If the professional has more than a mere contractual right to receive payment, he or she may be treated as having constructively received that deferred compensation in the year during which it is deferred [Rev. Rul. 60-31, 1960-1 C.B. 174].

[c] Reasonable Compensation

In structuring a deferred compensation arrangement, the parties must consider the total compensation paid to the professional. It is important that the compensation be reasonable [see Treas. Reg. § 1.162-7(b)(3); see also § 12A.21[3][d], [4]]. In computing the compensation, the IRS considers not only the amount of salary and bonus paid to the professional, but also the amount of fringe benefits, pension plan benefits, medical benefits, and deferred compensation paid or accrued on his or her behalf [Keller v. Commissioner (1981) 77 T.C. 1014] . Thus, deferred compensation agreements, as in the case of any other compensation or fringe benefit arrangement, must provide a reasonable benefit in light of the other compensation paid to or accrued on behalf of the professional.

[2] FORM

Deferred Compensation Agreement

DEFERRED COMPENSATION AGREEMENT

This Agreement is made on _____[date], between _____[name of corporation] (Corporation), and _____[name of employee] (Employee).

Recitals

Employee has been employed in an executive capacity by the Corporation for many years, and has performed and is currently performing valuable services for and on behalf of the Corporation, resulting in substantial profits to the Corporation.

The Corporation desires further to compensate Employee for past services, to secure future services, to secure a commitment not to compete with the Corporation after termination of employment by the Corporation, and to compensate the Employee in return.

The Corporation and Employee mutually agree as follows:

Employment

1. The Corporation agrees to employ Employee, and Employee agrees to remain in the employ of the Corporation, at Employee's current rate of compensation or any other compensation mutually agreed to by Employee and the Corporation, to and including _____[specify, e.g., the last day of the month in which falls Employee's birthday, or such other time as may be mutually agreed on by Employee and the Corporation, or until the Employee's death or disability].

Covenant Not to Compete

2. Employee agrees that on the termination of employment by the Corporation under Paragraph 1, and during the period of receipt of monthly payments from the Corporation under Paragraph 3, Employee will not directly or indirectly act in an executive or other capacity for any business enterprise that competes in a substantial degree with the Corporation, and will not engage in any activity involving substantial competition with the Corporation. Nothing in this Agreement prohibits Employee from owning stock or other securities of a competitor that are relatively insubstantial to the total stock of the competitor, as long as the Employee does not have the power to control or direct the management or policies of the competitor and does not serve as a director or officer of, and is not otherwise associated with, any competitor.

Deferred Compensation

3. On the termination of the Employee's employment for any reason, including death, disability, retirement, voluntary termination, or discharge with or without cause, the Employee will be paid as deferred compensation for past services rendered to the Corporation an amount determined in accord with this Paragraph. The Corporation's uncollected fees, both billed and unbilled (adjusted for estimated uncollectible accounts by the public accountant or certified public accountant then servicing the Corporation's account), as of the date of the Employee's termination of employment, must be determined. The Employee will be paid deferred compensation equal to _____ percent of the amount so determined, in [specify, e.g., 60] equal consecutive monthly installments. The first installment will be paid within the period of _____[specify, e.g., 60] days following the Employee's termination of employment. Payments made pursuant to this Paragraph 3 will be made to Employee, or after death, to any person or entity that the Employee designates in writing to the Corporation. In the absence of any designation, the payments will be made to the Employee's spouse; or, if the Employee has no spouse or the Employee's spouse does not survive the Employee, to the Employee's estate. If the Employee's spouse survives the Employee but is not living at the time a monthly payment is due and payable, the payment will be made to any person that the Employee's spouse has designated in writing, or, in the absence of any designation, to the Employee's estate.

Transfer of Rights to Receive Payments

4. Neither Employee, Employee's spouse, nor any other person has any right to commute, encumber, or dispose of the right to receive payments under this Agreement. The payments and the rights to the payments are expressly declared to be nonassignable and nontransferable, and in the event of any attempted assignment or transfer, the Corporation will have no further liability under this Agreement.

Default

5. In the event that Employee defaults at any time on any of the obligations under Paragraphs 1 or 2, or in the event that the Employee is discharged for willful disloyalty or other just cause during the period specified in Paragraph 1, all amounts then remaining unpaid under this Agreement will be forfeited, and the Corporation will have no further liability to any person under this Agreement.

Miscellaneous

6. This Agreement is binding on and inures to the benefit of any successor of the Corporation, and the successor will be deemed substituted for the Corporation under the terms of this Agreement. As used in this Agreement, the term "successor" includes any person, firm, corporation, or other business entity, that at any time, whether by merger, purchase, or otherwise, acquires all or substantially all of the assets or business of the Corporation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Corporation and Employee have executed this Agreement, each intending to be legally bound by it.

§ 12A.234 Client Memorandum for Professional Corporation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a client memorandum for a professional corporation. It is designed to be signed by the attorney representing the corporation and given to the officers, directors, and shareholders of the professional corporation. This memorandum explains the conduct by the professionals and the corporation necessary to sustain the validity of the corporate entity for federal tax purposes [see § 12A.17]. The form serves as a confirmation of the explanation to the parties of the legal consequences of the incorporation.

[2] FORM

Client Memorandum for Professional Corporation

[Law firm letterhead]

To: Directors and Officers of _____[name of corporation]

The Articles of Incorporation for _____[name of corporation] were filed on _____[date] with the Secretary of State of California pursuant to the provisions of the General Corporation Law and the Moscone-Knox Professional Corporations Act. In addition to the filing of the Articles of Incorporation, several other formal steps should be undertaken soon: (1) the adoption of bylaws for the corporation; (2) the organizational meetings of the shareholders and the Board of Directors; and (3) the issuance of shares of stock.

As soon as these steps have been taken, your professional corporation will be organized and in operation. However, even though the legal formalities for transition into a professional corporation will have been completed, many other organizational matters should be addressed.

To make the transition easier, we provide the following memorandum outlining the future activities of the corporation.

1. Lawful Activity. Under Corporations Code Section 13401(b), a professional corporation ordinarily may not engage in more than one type of professional service. The term "professional service" is defined in Corp. Code § 13401(a) to mean any type of professional service that may lawfully be rendered only pursuant to a license, certification, or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Chiropractic Act, or the Osteopathic Act.

2. Ownership of Shares in the Corporation. The shares of stock in the corporation are transferable only to persons who are duly licensed to render the same type of professional service that the Corporation was organized to render in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

3. Transition to a Professional Corporation. The following initial steps should be taken at the time you commence practice as a professional corporation:

(a) Your letterhead, bills, stationery, and other papers should be modified or changed to reflect the full name of the professional corporation.

(b) All of your professional cards should be changed to reflect the name of the professional corporation.

(c) A new bank account should be opened in the name of the professional corporation, as authorized at the organizational meeting of the Board of Directors of the corporation.

(d) Your telephone listing and your listing in all professional directories should be changed to reflect the corporation's name.

(e) All leases, contracts, and other arrangements previously entered into in connection with your professional practice should be modified, assigned, or rewritten to reflect the fact that the corporation has replaced you entirely as the contracting party to each lease, contract, or obligation.

(f) Any loans or indebtedness created in your professional practice should be transferred to or assumed by the corporation, but only after a determination that no adverse tax consequences will result from the assumption of liability. New loans and indebtedness created after the date of the creation of the professional corporation should be made in the name of the professional corporation.

(g) Any listing of your name on an office building directory or similar place should be changed to reflect the professional corporation.

(h) You should meet with your insurance agent to determine which insurance policies should be retained individually and which should be transferred to the professional corporation.

4. Professional Corporation Activities. The professional corporation must be maintained, operated, and regarded as a corporation rather than as a partnership or individual practice. The corporation is a tax-paying entity separate from its members, and this distinction must be maintained. The corporation should hold regular meetings of its Board of Directors and its shareholders, and any transaction of significance should be reflected in the minutes of the meetings. All contracts, plans, pension plans, trust agreements, loans, leases, purchase contracts, insurance contracts, and other agreements and transactions should be made in the name and on behalf of the professional corporation and should be reflected by appropriate minutes in the corporation minute book.

5. Accounting and Finances. You should meet with your accountant to discuss such matters as setting up a new set of books for the professional corporation, securing a Federal Employer's Identification Number for the corporation, and any other matters that the accountant may suggest. In addition, you should discuss a cash-flow analysis with your accountant or other advisor to determine the salaries that will be necessary to meet your living expenses and other commitments.

6. Directors and Officers. There is an important distinction between Directors and Officers of the professional corporation. The Directors have the responsibility of controlling the policy, actions, and functions of the professional corporation. This duty may not be delegated. An Officer, however, serves at the pleasure of the Board of Directors and performs only those duties and obligations conferred by the Board of Directors. Therefore, it will be necessary for the Board of Directors to hold an annual meeting for the purpose of electing Officers of the corporation. Likewise, the shareholders of the corporation should hold a meeting at least annually for the purpose of electing the Director or Directors to serve the professional corporation.

7. Individual Responsibilities to Professional Corporation. As individuals, you may have certain fiduciary relationships and duties to the corporation. Before the forming of a professional corporation, an individual is free to deal with the affairs and interests of the practice. However, once the professional corporation is a separate entity, the Directors and shareholders must respect this separate identity in their dealings with the corporation. Such matters as leasing equipment to the corporation, use of the corporation's assets for personal activities, and other matters must be carefully monitored to maintain an arm's length relationship between the shareholder and the corporation. Although the corporation may offer many tax advantages to the shareholders, these advantages can be lost if the formalities are not followed. For example, the withdrawal of a sum from the corporation's bank account may be considered either a dividend from the corporation (taxable to the shareholder) or a loan from the corporation that will have to be repaid.

This memorandum has not attempted to answer all the questions that may arise in the operations of the corporation, but rather to provide some general guidelines and suggestions for operation that you may find beneficial. Although the formalities and procedures of corporate operation may seem different and unusual at first, they will become routine once a pattern of dealing with the corporation is established. As the transition to an incorporated form of practice progresses, please call on us with any questions that you may have.
Dated: _____.

Sincerely,
_____ [name of law firm]
By _____ [signature]

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 12B FOREIGN CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Foreign Corporations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.10

§ 12B.10 Status of Foreign Corporations in California

[1] Nature of California Law Applicable to Foreign Corporations

States are limited by the United States Constitution in their power to regulate interstate commerce [see U.S. Const., art. I, § 8; Pike v. Bruce Church (1970) 397 U.S. 137, 142-143, 90 S. Ct. 844, 25 L. Ed. 2d 174 ; see also § 12B.20[2]]. In spite of this limitation, when a corporation conducts activities outside of its place of incorporation, or conducts activities in its place of incorporation that have an impact in a different jurisdiction, it becomes subject to the laws of and taxation by the foreign jurisdiction in varying degrees [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender); see also § 12B.20[2]]. Therefore, California has the right to prescribe the terms on which any foreign corporation may do intrastate business within its limits [see, e.g., Chattanooga National B. & L. Asso. v. Denson (1903) 189 U.S. 408, 416-417, 23 S. Ct. 630, 47 L. Ed. 870] .

A foreign corporation that transacts intrastate business in California is governed by Ch. 21 of the Corporations Code [Corp. Code § 2100; see Corp. Code §§ 2100-2117], which requires the foreign corporation to obtain a certificate of qualification [Corp. Code § 2105(a); see § 12B.11]. The general provisions of the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 100-195; see also Corp. Code §§ 200-14202] apply to foreign corporations only when expressly provided by statute [Corp. Code §§ 102(a), 162]. The laws governing foreign corporations generally do not affect the conduct of a foreign corporation's internal affairs, with the exception of provisions governing nominally foreign and resident corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 2100-2117; see also § 12B.14].

However, even if a foreign corporation's activities in California do not fall under the definition of "transacting intrastate business" [see § 12B.11[1]], the corporation may be subject to certain provisions not related to the transaction of intrastate business. For example, many California laws governing such fields as the environment, health and safety, and regulation of special entities such as insurance apply to all corporations regardless of the place of incorporation.

[2] Types of Foreign Corporations Subject to Regulation

[a] Foreign Corporations in General

A "foreign corporation" is any corporation that is not formed under the laws of California [Corp. Code § 171; see Corp. Code § 167 ("domestic corporation" is corporation formed under California laws)]. Therefore, with one exception, the term "foreign corporation" applies to corporations formed in the United States as well as abroad, as long as they are not formed in California. The exception is any corporation or association chartered under the laws of the United States; these organizations are not included in the definition of "foreign corporation" for the purposes of Corporations Code Ch. 21 [see Corp. Code §§ 2100-2117], and therefore are not subject to its provisions [Corp. Code § 171; see Corp. Code § 2100].

[b] Foreign Associations

Foreign associations, which are business associations organized as trusts under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 170; see Corp. Code § 200.5 (procedures for incorporating business trust as California corporation)], are considered foreign corporations (unless the applicable statute states otherwise) for purposes of the General Corporation Law regulating foreign corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 191, 201, 2100-2117] and for purposes of certain penalties relating to foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 171; see Corp. Code §§ 2203, 2258, 2259; see also §§ 12B.11[3], 12B.12[3], 12B.31[3], [4]]. In this chapter, the term "foreign corporation" will include foreign associations unless otherwise specified.

[c] Foreign Nonprofit Corporations

Under the Nonprofit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 5000-10841], a "foreign corporation" is, for most purposes, any corporation incorporated in a jurisdiction outside California pursuant to that jurisdiction's law for the incorporation of nonprofit corporations [Corp. Code § 5053]. Foreign nonprofit corporations fall within the general definition of "foreign corporations" [see Corp. Code § 171] and are governed by the same provisions [see Corp. Code §§ 2100-2117], except as to provisions expressly excluding nonprofit corporations and as to matters specifically otherwise provided for in the Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 6910].

For example, foreign nonprofit corporations are not subject to certain requirements applicable to foreign corporations generally, such as requirements concerning nominally foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 6910; see Corp. Code § 2115; see also [d], below]. Further, foreign nonprofit corporations are treated differently from foreign for-profit corporations under the Nonprofit Corporation Law for purposes of mergers [see Corp. Code §§ 6010, 6018, 8010, 8018].

In this chapter, the term "foreign corporations" applies to both foreign nonprofit corporations and foreign for-profit corporations, unless otherwise indicated.

[d] Nominally Foreign and Resident Foreign Corporations

Certain foreign corporations (other than foreign associations and foreign nonprofit corporations) transacting intrastate business are subject to California regulation of their internal affairs if, although organized as foreign corporations, they are actually more than half domestic [see Corp. Code § 2115(a)]. These corporations, generally referred to as "nominally foreign" or "pseudo-foreign" corporations, are made subject to various provisions of the General Corporation Law [see § 12B.14[1][e]] that are otherwise only applicable to domestic corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender)]. For a discussion of regulation of these corporations, see § 12B.14[1].

Additionally, a foreign corporation may be subject to some California regulation of its internal corporate affairs if it is a "resident foreign" corporation because it "resides" in California [see Corp. Code §§ 1501, 1600, 1601-1603]. For further discussion, see § 12B.14[2].

[e] Foreign Professional Corporations

Foreign professional corporations may qualify as foreign professional corporations to transact intrastate business in California in accordance with Chapter 21 [Corp. Code § 2100 et seq.] of the Corporations Code, and are generally subject to the provisions of the Corporations Code applicable to foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 13404.5(a)]. In addition, foreign professional corporations must have a currently effective certificate of registration issued by the governmental agency regulating the profession, under the applicable provisions of the California Business and Professions Code expressly authorizing those professional services to be rendered by a foreign professional corporation [Corp. Code § 13404.5(b)]. Foreign professional corporations are subject to California rules governing shareholder liability [Corp. Code § 13404.5(c)], and every application by a foreign professional corporation to do business in California must contain a statement, in language prescribed by statute, agreeing to be subject to any applicable California liability rules and submitting to the jurisdiction of California courts to the same extent as a California professional corporation [Corp. Code § 13404.5(d)].

CHAPTER 12B FOREIGN CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Foreign Corporations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.11

§ 12B.11 Qualifying to Transact Intrastate Business in California

[1] When Certificate of Qualification Is Required

[a] Transacting Intrastate Business

A foreign corporation must obtain a certificate of qualification from the Secretary of State before it may transact intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 2105(a); see [2], below]. A foreign corporation "transacts intrastate business" when it enters into repeated and successive transactions of its business in California, other than interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 191(a)].

The concept of "transacting intrastate business" for purposes of requiring qualification is narrower than the concept of "doing business" for purposes of service of summons [Thorner v. Selective Cam Transmission Co. (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 89, 91, 4 Cal. Rptr. 409] . One of the factors considered in determining whether a corporation is transacting intrastate business is the presence of agents and employees in California [see Mediterranean Exports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 605, 616-618, 174 Cal. Rptr. 169 ; see also Eli Lilly & Co. v. Sav-On-Drugs (1961) 366 U.S. 276, 280-282, 81 S. Ct. 1316, 6 L. Ed. 2d 288] . For further discussion of this determination, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender).

[b] Activities Not Requiring Certificate of Qualification

[i] In General

Foreign corporations are expressly permitted to conduct certain activities without having to obtain a certificate of qualification for transacting intrastate business. First, a foreign corporation is not considered to be transacting intrastate business merely because its subsidiary transacts intrastate business [Corp. Code § 191(b)]. For most purposes, such a foreign "parent" corporation would normally possess more than 50 percent of the voting power directly or indirectly through one or more of its subsidiaries [Corp. Code § 189(a); see Corp. Code §§ 189(b), 703]. Further, a foreign corporation is not considered to be transacting intrastate business merely because of its status as any one or more of the following [Corp. Code § 191(b)]:

- A shareholder of a domestic corporation.
- A shareholder of a foreign corporation transacting intrastate business.
- A limited partner of a domestic limited partnership.
- A limited partner of a foreign limited partnership transacting intrastate business.
- A member or manager of a domestic limited liability company.
- A member or manager of a foreign limited liability company transacting intrastate business.

A foreign corporation also is not considered to be transacting intrastate business solely because it carries on in California any one or more of the following activities, which are generally attributable to interstate corporate activities [Corp. Code § 191(c); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender)]:

- Maintaining, defending, or settling any action, suit, administrative or arbitration proceeding, or settling any other claim or dispute.
- Holding meetings of its board or shareholders or carrying on other activities concerning its internal affairs.
- Maintaining bank accounts.
- Maintaining offices or agencies for the transfer, exchange, and registration of its securities or depositaries with relation to its securities.
- Effecting sales through independent contractors.
- Soliciting or procuring orders by mail, through employees or agents, or otherwise, if those orders require acceptance outside of California before becoming binding contracts.
- Creating evidences of debt, mortgages, liens, or security interests on real or personal property.
- Conducting an isolated transaction that is completed within a period of 180 days and is not in a course of repeated transactions of a like nature.

Activities other than those enumerated above may also be activities that do not constitute "transacting intrastate business" [see Corp. Code § 191(c); see e.g., United Systems of Arkansas, Inc. v. Stamison (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1001, 1007, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407 (simply submitting bid in response to request for quotation by DMV was not "transacting intrastate business"; out-of-state bidder could maintain its suit challenging award of contract to another bidder without obtaining certificate of qualification from Secretary of State)].

[ii] Activities by Foreign Lending Institution

A foreign lending institution may engage in various other activities, listed below, without transacting intrastate business [see Corp. Code § 191(d)]. The term "foreign lending institution" includes the following [Corp. Code § 191(d)]:

- Any foreign banking corporation.

- Any foreign corporation whose capital stock is all owned by one or more foreign banking corporations.

- Any foreign savings and loan association.

- Any foreign insurance company.

- Any foreign corporation or association authorized by its charter to invest in loans secured by real and personal property, whether organized under the laws of the United States or of any other state, district, or territory of the United States.

A foreign lending institution is not required to qualify, nor does it become subject to any provisions of the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.] or the Corporations Code [Corp. Code § 2100 et seq.], Financial Code, or Insurance Code relating to the transaction of intrastate business, solely by engaging in one or more of the activities listed below [Corp. Code § 2104]. These activities do not include all possible activities that are not considered "transacting intrastate business" [Corp. Code § 191(d)]. However, an institution engaging in any of the activities listed below is deemed to have appointed the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process for actions arising out of those activities. It must file an annual statement with the Secretary showing the address to which any process should be sent [Corp. Code § 2104; see Corp. Code § 2111; see also § 12B.251 (form)].

A foreign lending institution is not considered to be "transacting intrastate business" solely because it engages in any or all of the following activities, either (1) on its own behalf, (2) as a trustee of a pension plan, employee profit-sharing or retirement plan, testamentary or inter vivos trust, or (3) in any other fiduciary capacity [Corp. Code § 191(d)]:

- The acquisition by purchase, contract to purchase, advance commitment to purchase, or assignment of any loans (secured or unsecured) or any interest in loans through activities carried on by the institution from outside California.

- The making, by the institution's officer or employee, of physical inspections and appraisals of real or personal property securing or proposed to secure any loan, if the officer or employee is not a resident of and does not maintain a place of business for such purpose in California.

- The ownership of any loans and the enforcement of any loans by trustee's sale, judicial process, or deed in lieu of foreclosure or otherwise.

- The modification, renewal, extension, transfer, or sale of loans or the acceptance of additional or substitute security for loans or the full or partial release of the security for loans or the acceptance of substitute or additional obligors for loans if the activities are carried on by the lending institution from outside of California.

- The engaging by contract of a corporation, firm, or association, qualified to do business in California, that is not a subsidiary or parent of the lending institution and that is not under common management with the lending institution, to make collections and to service loans in any manner, including the payment of ground rents, taxes, assessments and the like and the making of, on behalf of the institution, physical inspections and appraisals of real or personal property securing any loans or proposed to secure any loans, and the performance of that engagement.

- The acquisition of title to the real or personal property covered by any mortgage, deed of trust, or other security instrument by trustee's sale, judicial sale, foreclosure, or deed in lieu of foreclosure, or for the purpose of transferring title to any federal agency or instrumentality as the insurer or guarantor of any loan, and the retention of title to any real or personal property acquired in that manner pending the property's orderly sale or other disposition.

- The engaging in activities necessary or appropriate to carry out any of the activities listed in the first six categories above.

[2] Requirements for Certificate of Qualification

[a] Statement and Designation

To obtain a certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business in California (to "qualify"), a foreign corporation must file a statement and designation setting forth the required information [see §§ 12B.120, 12B.201, 12B.203], including the corporate name [Corp. Code § 2105(a); see [b], below]. In addition, the foreign corporation must attach a certificate from the appropriate official stating that the foreign corporation is an existing corporation in good standing, or that the foreign association is a validly organized and existing business association under the laws of the specified foreign jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 2105(b); see § 12B.202].

On submitting these materials and paying a filing fee (subject to corporate name requirements [see [b], below]), the Secretary of State will issue a certificate of qualification stating that the corporation is qualified to transact intrastate business, subject to any licensing requirements otherwise imposed by California law [Corp. Code § 2106(a); see Corp. Code § 2105; see also Gov. Code § 12186(f)(fee)]. The Secretary may cancel the filing of the statement and designation if a check or other remittance in payment of the filing fee or franchise tax is not paid on presentation [Corp. Code § 110.5]. Foreign nonprofit corporations are entitled to a reduced fee requirement [see Gov. Code § 12186(e)].

For a detailed guide to procedures for qualifying, see § 12B.120.

[b] Corporate Name Requirements

[i] In General

A foreign corporation cannot qualify to transact intrastate business in California [see [a], above] if its name is likely to mislead the public [Corp. Code § 201(b)]. In addition, except in certain circumstances [see [ii], below], a foreign corporation cannot qualify if its name is the same as, or resembles so closely as to tend to deceive, any of the following names [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b)]:

- The name of a domestic corporation;

- The name of a foreign corporation that is authorized to transact intrastate business or that has registered its name with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 2101; see also § 12B.13[1]];

- A name that a foreign corporation has assumed [see [ii], below];

- A name that will become the record name of a domestic or foreign corporation on the effective date of a filed corporate instrument [see Corp. Code §§ 110(c), 5008(c)]; or

- A name under reservation for another corporation.

If the corporation's name conflicts with one of these names, the corporation has three alternative means of qualifying [see [ii], below].

Additional restrictions on names may be applicable as well. For example, the words "Olympic" or "Olympiad" may, under certain circumstances, violate federal law [see 36 U.S.C. § 380]. In addition, use of the word "cooperative" is restricted [see Corp. Code § 12311(b); Food & Agric. Code § 54036].

[ii] Alternatives to General Requirements

A foreign corporation has several alternatives in attempting to qualify under a corporate name that might otherwise not be available. First, if the corporate name is substantially the same as the name of an existing domestic corporation or a foreign corporation that has either qualified or registered its name [see Corp. Code § 2101; see also § 12B.13[1]], the corporation may qualify under that name by providing proof of consent by the other corporation. The foreign corporation seeking to use the conflicting name must also provide a finding by the Secretary of State that, under the circumstances, the public is not likely to be misled [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b)].

Second, if the corporate name conflicts with any of the names listed in [i], above, the foreign corporation may nevertheless qualify if it obtains and files an order from a court of competent jurisdiction permanently enjoining the corporation with the conflicting name from doing business in California under that name [Corp. Code § 2106(b)].

Third, in the event of a conflict [see [i], above], the corporation may qualify under an assumed name. The assumed name may be the corporation's name with the addition of some distinguishing word or words acceptable to the Secretary of State, or a name available for the name of a new domestic corporation [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b)].

To qualify under an assumed name, the foreign corporation must obtain from the Secretary of State a finding, pursuant to an affidavit or other manner selected by the Secretary, that the business to be conducted in California by the foreign corporation is not the same as or similar to the business being conducted or to be conducted by the corporation with the conflicting name, and that the public is not likely to be deceived. The foreign corporation must then agree to transact business in California under the assumed name and to use that assumed name in all of its dealings with the Secretary of State and in the conduct of its affairs in California. During the period that the agreement remains in effect, the corporation may only do business in California under the assumed name [Corp. Code § 2106(b)].

[iii] Requirements for Foreign Insurance Companies

To qualify under one of the alternative methods [see [ii], above], foreign insurance companies must first obtain a certificate from the Insurance Commissioner approving the corporate name [Corp. Code § 2106(b)]. The Secretary of State will not file any statement and designation [see [a], above] or amended statement and designation [see § 12B.12[1]] of a foreign insurer unless the certificate is attached [Corp. Code § 2106.5; see also Corp. Code §§ 2106, 2107; Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender)].

[3] Annual Statement of Information; Corporate Disclosure Statement

[a] Annual Filing Required

Every foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) qualified to transact intrastate business must file a statement of information during the applicable filing period annually [Corp. Code § 2117(a); see §§ 12B.132, 12B.210]. That period is the calendar month during which the original statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2105] was filed and the five calendar months immediately preceding that month [Corp. Code § 2117(d)]. The statement of information must be on the form prescribed by the Secretary of State and must include the information required by statute [Corp. Code § 2117(a); see §§ 12B.132, 12B.210]. If the information in the statement last filed in the Secretary of State's office has not changed, the corporation, in lieu of completing the entire statement, may merely check the box indicating that no changes have occurred during the applicable filing period [Corp. Code § 2117(f); see Corp. Code § 1502(c)].

Every publicly traded foreign corporation must also file annually, within 150 days after the end of its fiscal year, a corporate disclosure statement on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2117.1(a); see §§ 12B.132, 12B.211].

[b] Penalty for Failure to File

If a corporation does not comply with these filing requirements, the Secretary of State will mail a notice of delinquency to the corporation. If the corporation does not file an annual statement within 60 days after the notice is mailed, the Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board [Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), 2206(a)], which will assess a penalty against the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 2204(b), 2206(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19141]. The corporation may request relief from the Secretary of State because of reasonable cause or unusual circumstances justifying the failure to file. If the Secretary of State does not grant relief, the corporation may pay the penalty under protest and file a claim with the Board of Control requesting relief [Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), 2206(a)].

A corporation that (1) fails to file a statement [see Corp. code § 1502] for an applicable filing period, (2) has not filed a statement during the preceding 24 months, and (3) was certified for a penalty [see Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), (b), 2206(a)] for the same filing period will forfeit the exercise of the corporate powers, rights, and privileges of a foreign corporation, but will not be assessed a monetary penalty [Corp. Code §§ 2205(a), 2206(a)]. In this situation, the Secretary of State will mail a notice to the corporation informing it that its corporate powers, rights, and privileges will be suspended after 60 days if it fails to file a statement [Corp. Code §§ 2205(b), 2206(a)]. After the 60-day period has expired without the filing of a statement, the Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board of the forfeiture, and mail a notice of the forfeiture to the corporation. The corporate powers, rights, and privileges of the corporation are thereby forfeited, except for the purpose of amending the articles of incorporation to set forth a new name [Corp. Code §§ 2205(c), 2206(a); see Palm Valley Homeowners Assn., Inc. v. Design MTC (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 553, 560-561, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in imposing sanctions on law firm for continuing litigation activities on behalf of corporation that it knew to be suspended under Corp. Code § 2205 for failure to file information statement required by Corp. Code § 1502)]. Additionally, a suspended corporation may file an application for exempt status, and amend its articles of incorporation as necessary to perfect that application [Corp. Code § 1502(c)], and a foreign nonprofit corporation that has suffered forfeiture may nevertheless file an application for exempt status [Corp. Code § 2206(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

If a corporation that has suffered forfeiture thereafter files the statement, the Secretary of State will certify that fact to the Franchise Tax Board. The corporation may then be relieved from forfeiture in accordance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a, unless the corporation's powers have been forfeited for failure to pay taxes [Corp. Code §§ 2205(d), 2206(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23775]. According to the Office of the Secretary of State, the same application form is used for revivor from forfeiture for failure to file annual statements [see Corp. Code § 2117(a)] as is used for revivor from forfeiture for failure to pay taxes. For an illustration of this form, see § 12B.261. For further information on the Revenue and Tax Code provisions concerning forfeiture and revivor, see § 12B.31[3].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 12B FOREIGN CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Foreign Corporations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.12

§ 12B.12 Modification, Surrender, and Forfeiture of Certificate of Qualification

[1] Modification

A qualified foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) qualified to transact intrastate business may change its name or make a change affecting an assumed name [see Corp. Code § 2106; see also § 12B.11[2][b][ii]] by filing an amended statement signed by a corporate officer setting forth the change made. The statement must set forth the name relinquished and the new name assumed. The corporation must annex to the amended statement a certificate of an authorized public official from the corporation's state or place of incorporation certifying that the name change was made in accordance with the laws of that state or place [Corp. Code § 2107(a); see §§ 12B.133, 12B.223]. Name changes are subject to the general requirements for corporate names [see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also § 12B.11[2][b]]. On the filing of the amended statement, the Secretary of State will issue a new certificate of qualification [Corp. Code § 2107(a)].

A qualified corporation (other than a foreign association) may change (1) the address of its principal office in California, (2) the address of its principal executive office, (3) its agent for service of process, or (4) the stated address of any natural person designated as an agent by filing its annual statement [see Corp. Code § 2117; see also § 12B.11[3]]. The filing of an annual statement will supersede the statement and designation with respect to the changes made [Corp. Code § 2107(d)].

A qualified foreign association may change (1) its name, (2) the address of its principal office in California, (3) the address of its principal executive office, (4) its agent for the service of process, or (5) the stated address of any natural person designated as an agent by filing an amended statement and designation signed by an officer setting forth the changes made. If the association is changing its name, the amended statement and designation must set forth the name relinguished and the new name assumed, and must include an officers' certificate stating that the change of name was made in accordance with its declaration of trust. If the change includes a change of name or a change affecting an assumed name [see Corp. Code § 2106; see also § 12B.11[2][b][ii]], the Secretary of State will issue a new certificate of qualification once the amended statement has been filed [Corp. Code § 2107(b)].

If the modification includes a change of name of an insurer subject to the Insurance Code, the amended statement must state that the corporation is such an insurer, if that statement does not already appear [Corp. Code § 2107(c)].

To correct an error, such as a misstatement of fact, a defect in execution, or any other error or defect contained in the certificate, the corporation should file a certificate of correction [see Corp. Code § 109]. For further discussion and a form for a certificate of correction, see Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles .

For a procedural guide to amending filed certificates, see § 12B.133. For forms, see §§ 12B.220, 12B.222.

A qualified foreign corporation that converts into another foreign corporation (for instance, a Nevada corporation that becomes a Delaware corporation) cannot lose its capacity to do business, or to appear in legal proceedings, in California because of a failure to follow the notification procedure in Corp. Code § 2107 for a change in name or address of a qualified foreign corporation, since that code section does not require (nor does any other statute require) notification of a mere change in the state of incorporation [Capital Gold Group, Inc. v. Nortier (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1130-1133, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 439 (also holding that Corp. Code § 1157, governing conversion of certain entities to or from status as corporation, does not apply to foreign corporation's conversion into another foreign corporation, and noncompliance with that code section would not affect such foreign corporation's status as qualified foreign corporation)].

[a] Certificate of Surrender

A foreign corporation that has qualified to transact intrastate business may surrender that status by filing a certificate of surrender, signed by a corporate officer, with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2112; see §§ 12B.230, 12B.232 (forms)]. If a qualified foreign corporation has ceased transacting intrastate business in California, filing this certificate may remove the corporation from the jurisdiction of California courts concerning events that occur after surrender [see Corp. Code § 2114(b); Northern Natural Gas Co. v. Superior Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 983, 987 n.1, 134 Cal. Rptr. 850] . A corporation does not revoke its appointment of any agent for the service of process merely by ceasing to do business without filing a certificate of surrender [Corp. Code § 2114(d); see [e], below].

The certificate of surrender must contain all of the following [Corp. Code § 2112(a)]:

- The name of the corporation and the state or place of incorporation or organization.
- A statement that the corporation revokes its designation of agent for service of process.
- A statement that the corporation surrenders its authority to transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2112(a)(3)].
- A statement that the corporation consents that process against it in any action on any liability or obligation incurred in California before the filing of the certificate of withdrawal may be served on the Secretary of State. Presumably, the term "certificate of withdrawal" [see Corp. Code § 2112(a)(4)] refers to the certificate of surrender [see Corp. Code § 2114(b)].
- A post office address to which the Secretary of State may mail a copy of any process against the corporation served on the Secretary of State. This address may be changed by a corporate officer filing a signed statement.

For a guide to surrending the right to transact business, see § 12B.135. For certificates of surrender, see §§ 12B.230 and 12B.232.

Surrender of a foreign insurance company's right to transact intrastate business will not prevent it from carrying out contracts made before surrender [Corp. Code § 2103].

[b] Merger

A qualified foreign corporation that is disappearing due to merger may, depending on the circumstances of the merger, surrender its right to transact intrastate business in California in one of the following ways [Corp. Code § 2113(a)]:

- It may surrender by filing a certificate of surrender [see [a], above]. If a qualified foreign corporation disappears in a merger not involving any domestic corporation, it must file a certificate of surrender [see Corp. Code § 2113(b)].

- If a qualified foreign corporation is the disappearing corporation [see Corp. Code § 165] in a merger with a domestic surviving corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 167, 190], it may surrender by filing the merger agreement and the officers' certificate [Corp. Code § 2113(a); see Corp. Code § 1103] or a certificate of ownership [see Corp. Code § 1108(c); see also Corp. Code §§ 110(c), 1110], and, in the case of a foreign nonprofit or mutual benefit corporation, the officers' certificate of each constituent corporation as provided by Corp. Code § 6014 or 8014 [Corp. Code §§ 6018(c), 8018(c)].

- If the foreign corporation disappears in a merger with a disappearing domestic corporation and a surviving foreign corporation, it may surrender its right to transact intrastate business by filing a certified copy or executed counterpart of the merger agreement, certificate, or other merger document filed by the surviving corporation in the state or place of incorporation to effect the merger [Corp. Code § 2113(a); see Corp. Code § 1108(d)].

- If a foreign subsidiary corporation is merged into a domestic parent corporation, it may surrender by filing a certificate of ownership [Corp. Code § 2113(a); see Corp. Code § 1110(e)].

For a discussion of the impact of securities regulations on mergers involving foreign corporations, see § 12B.14[3]. For a detailed discussion of mergers, including the effective dates of mergers involving foreign corporations and dissenting shareholders' rights, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

[c] Conversion

A qualified foreign corporation that is disappearing as a result of conversion may surrender its right to transact intrastate business in California by filing an organizational document containing a statement of conversion [Corp. Code § 2113(a); see Corp. Code §§ 15677.8 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010), 15911.08 (ULPA '08) (limited partnership), 16908 (general partnership), 17540.8 (limited liability company)]. This filing automatically terminates the corporation's right to transact intrastate business and precludes the need to file a certificate of surrender [see Corp. Code § 2113(a)].

[d] Service of Process on Surrendered Corporation

A corporation that has surrendered its right to transact intrastate business pursuant to a certificate of surrender or merger may be served with process in any action on a liability or obligation incurred in California before surrender, by delivery of process to the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State will send the process to the address set forth in the certificate of surrender or to the address of the surviving corporation in a merger [Corp. Code § 2114(a), (b); see § 12B.15[2]].

Unless it files a certificate of surrender, a foreign corporation does not revoke the appointment of any agent for the service of process when it ceases to transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2114(d)].

[3] Forfeiture

A qualified foreign corporation's right to transact intrastate business may be revoked by the Franchise Tax Board if the corporation fails to file its tax returns or to pay its franchise tax or corporation income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301-23303, 23775; see also § 12B.31[3]]. However, forfeiture of the corporation's right to transact intrastate business does not extend to the filing of an application for exempt status or the amending of the articles of incorporation as necessary either to perfect the application or to set forth a new name [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301]. In addition, every contract made in California during the time that the corporation's rights are forfeited for failure to pay taxes or file a tax return is voidable at the instance of any party to the contract other than the foreign corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1]. For further information, including a discussion of revivor from forfeiture, see § 12B.31[3], [4]. For a form for application for relief from contract voidability, see § 12B.262.

The Secretary of State must revoke qualification if a corporation fails to file an annual statement under certain circumstances [see Corp. Code §§ 2205(a), 2206(a)]. For further discussion, see § 12B.11[3].

§ 12B.13 Transacting Business Without Certificate of Qualification

[1] Protecting Corporate Name

Any foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) that is not transacting intrastate business in California may register its corporate name with the Secretary of State, provided its corporate name would be available to a new corporation organized under the General Corporation Law at the time of registration [Corp. Code § 2101; see Corp. Code § 201; see also § 12B.11[2][b]].

A foreign corporation that plans to qualify in California at some future time may wish to reserve its name in advance to avoid name availability problems at the time of qualification. However, registration does not protect against use of the name; it merely prevents any other corporation from incorporating or qualifying under that name [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14415].

If the name to be registered includes the words "bank," "trust," "trustee," or related words, the foreign corporation must, in addition to meeting the general requirements for a corporate name, obtain written approval from the Superintendent of Banks [Corp. Code §§ 201(a), 2101(a)].

The corporation must file an application for registration and a certificate of good standing from the place where the corporation is organized [Corp. Code § 2101(b); see §§ 12B.11[2][a], 12B.202]. Registration is effective until the close of the calendar year in which the application is filed [Corp. Code § 2101(b)]. Registration may be renewed from year to year by filing an application for renewal and a certificate of good standing as required for the original registration [Corp. Code § 2101(c); see § 12B.136]. For a detailed guide to registration and renewal procedures, see § 12B.121. For an application form, see § 12B.240.

As an alternative to registration, a foreign corporation may reserve its name by applying for a certificate of reservation pursuant to the procedures set forth in Corp. Code § 201(c) [see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations]. However, that type of reservation is only valid for 60 days, and is non-renewable [see Corp. Code § 201(c)].

[2] Penalties for Transacting Business Without Qualification

Any foreign corporation that transacts intrastate business without first qualifying with the Secretary of State when it is required to do so is subject to all of the following:

- The corporation is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine, recoverable in any court of competent jurisdiction. The Attorney General or any district attorney may bring prosecution [Corp. Code § 2258].

- Any person who transacts intrastate business on behalf of a foreign corporation that is not qualified, knowing that it is not qualified, is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine [Corp. Code § 2259].

- The corporation may be subject to a penalty for each day that it willfully transacts unauthorized intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2203(a), (b)]. Prosecution may be brought by the Attorney General or any district attorney [Corp. Code § 2203(b); see Corp. Code § 2258]. The amount of the penalty assessed will be determined by the court based on the circumstances, including the size of the corporation and the willfulness of the violation [Corp. Code § 2203(b)].

- The corporation cannot maintain any action or proceeding in any California court on any intrastate business transacted in California, until it has (a) complied with the qualification requirements [see Corp. Code § 2105; see also § 12B.12[2]], (b) paid to the Secretary of State a penalty in addition to the fees due for filing the statement and designation required to qualify [see Corp. Code § 2105], and (c) filed with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending receipts showing the payment of those fees and penalties, all franchise taxes, and any other taxes on business or property in California that should have been paid for the period during which it transacted intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2203(c)].

A foreign corporation transacting intrastate business that has failed to qualify may commence an action in state court. It may also defend an action brought against it in state court [United Medical Management Ltd. v. Gatto (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1732, 1739, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 600 ; Ward Land etc. Co. v. Mapes (1905) 147 Cal. 747, 753, 82 P. 426] . The act of maintaining an action commenced prior to qualification requires compliance with Corp. Code § 2203(c). However, a foreign corporation that qualifies to transact intrastate business after transacting, but before commencing an action on, intrastate business, may maintain the action without complying with Corp. Code § 2203(c), as long as the Franchise Tax Board has not suspended the corporation for failure to pay taxes before it commences the action [United Medical Management Ltd. v. Gatto (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1732, 1742, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 600 ; see also United Systems of Arkansas, Inc. v. Stamison (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1001, 1007, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407 (out-of-state bidder's submission of bid was not "transacting intrastate business" and bidder could maintain suit challenging award of contract to another bidder without obtaining certificate of qualification from Secretary of State)].

In addition, a foreign corporation transacting unauthorized intrastate business is deemed to consent to the jurisdiction of California courts in any civil action arising in California in which the corporation is named a party defendant [Corp. Code § 2203(a)].

If an unqualified foreign corporation fails to file a tax return or to pay any taxes required by the Bank and Corporation Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.], additional penalties may apply, including the voidability of contracts entered into during the applicable time period [see § 12B.31[4]].

CHAPTER 12B FOREIGN CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Foreign Corporations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.14

§ 12B.14 Regulation of Internal Affairs of Foreign Corporations

[1] Nominally Foreign Corporations

[a] In General

Certain foreign corporations transacting intrastate business are subject to California regulation of their internal affairs, although organized as foreign corporations, they are actually more than half domestic. These corporations are made subject to various provisions of the General Corporation Law [see [e], below] that are otherwise applicable only to domestic corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 2115 Legislative Committee Comment (1975)--Assembly]. Corporations in this category are generally referred to as "nominally foreign" corporations, and are also sometimes called "pseudo-foreign" corporations [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender); see also Kruse, California's Statutory Attempt to Regulate Foreign Corporations: Will It Survive the Commerce Clause? 16 San Diego L. Rev. 943 (1979)].

CAUTION:
In May 2005, the Delaware Supreme Court declared Corp. Code § 2115 unconstitutional and inapplicable to a Delaware corporation on federal constitutional grounds and also on the basis of the "internal affairs doctrine" [see VantagePoint Venture Partners 1996 v. Examen, Inc. (Del. 2005) 871 A.2d 1108] . For a comprehensive discussion of this case, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations , § 393.07 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Excluded Corporations and Associations

The rules governing nominally foreign corporations do not apply to foreign associations or foreign nonprofit corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(a)]. In addition, the rules do not apply to any of the following corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(c)]:

- Corporations that have outstanding securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the NYSE Amex, the NASDAQ Global Market, or the NASDAQ Capital Market.

- Corporations in which all of the voting shares, other than directors' qualifying shares, are owned directly or indirectly by a corporation or corporations that are not nominally foreign.

[c] Determination of Nominally Foreign Status

[i] Tax Factors

Two criteria are used to determine whether a corporation is nominally foreign: tax factors and shareholder residence factors [see [ii], below].

The tax factors determine whether the corporation does more than half of its business in California. That occurs when the average of the corporation's "property factor," "payroll factor," and "sales factor" are more than 50 percent during the corporation's latest full income year [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1); see § 12B.113, P 1]. Each of these factors is a fraction that has already been computed by the corporation to determine business income apportionable to California for franchise tax purposes [see Corp. Code § 2115(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 25128]. If the allocation of the corporation's income is governed by special formulas, or if the corporation is not required to file separate or any tax returns, the determination is based on the factors that would have been used if the corporation were governed by the three-factor formula [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2)].

The "property factor" is the average value of the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property that is owned or rented and used in California during the income year, over the average value of all of the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property that is owned or rented and used during the taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 25129; see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1)]. The "payroll factor" is the total amount paid in California during the taxable year by the taxpayer for compensation, over the total compensation paid in all states during the taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 25132; see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1)]. The "sales factor" is the total sales of the taxpayer in California during the taxable year, over the total sales of the taxpayer everywhere during the taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 25134; see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1)].

If the corporation is a parent corporation, these factors are determined on a special consolidated basis. The computation must eliminate intercompany transactions and deduct a percentage of the property, payroll, and sales of any subsidiary equal to the percentage minority ownership, if any, in the subsidiary. The computation includes the property, payroll, and sales of the parent and all of its subsidiaries in which the parent owns directly or indirectly more than 50 percent of the outstanding shares entitled to vote for the election of directors [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2)].

[ii] Residence of Holders of Voting Securities

The shareholder residence factor is determined from the corporation's books, which must show that more than half of the foreign corporation's outstanding voting securities are held of record by persons with California addresses, as appears on the corporation's books on the record date for the latest meeting of shareholders held during its latest full income year or, if no meeting was held during that year, on the last day of latest full income year [see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2)]. Any securities that, to the knowledge of the issuer, are held in the names of broker-dealers, nominees for broker-dealers (including clearing corporations), or banks, associations, or other entities holding securities in a nominee name or otherwise on behalf of beneficial owners (collectively "nominee holders") are not considered outstanding [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2)].

However, the foreign corporation may request all nominee holders to certify the number of shares held for beneficial owners both inside and outside California, according to the addresses shown on the nominee holder's records. All shares so certified will be considered outstanding and held of record by persons having addresses either in California or outside California, as indicated on the certification. The certification must be retained with the shareholder record and made available for inspection and copying in the same manner as the shareholder record [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2); see Corp. Code §§ 1600, 1601 (inspection provisions)]. A current list of beneficial owners of a foreign corporation's securities provided to the corporation by one or more nominee holders, or their agents, pursuant to the requirements of federal Rule 14b-1(b)(3) [see 17 C.F.R. § 240.14b-1(c)] or Rule 14b-2(b)(3) [see 17 C.F.R. § 240.14b-2(b)(3)] as adopted on January 6, 1992, will constitute an acceptable certification with respect to beneficial owners for these purposes [Corp. Code § 2115(a)]. For a detailed discussion of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and its regulations, see Federal Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Matthew Bender).

[d] Duration of Nominally Foreign Status

The provisions concerning nominally foreign corporations become applicable on the first day of the first income year of the corporation beginning on or after (1) the 135th day of the income year immediately following the latest income year with respect to which the tests establishing nominally foreign status have been met [see [c], above] or (2) the entry of a final order by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring that those tests have been met [Corp. Code § 2115(d)].

A corporation's nominally foreign status ceases at the end of (1) the first income year of the corporation immediately following the latest income year with respect to which at least one of the tests establishing nominally foreign status is not met [see [c], above] or (2) the income year of the corporation during which a final order has been entered by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring that one of those tests is not met, provided that a contrary order is not entered before the end of the income year [Corp. Code § 2115(e)].

[e] General Corporation Law Applicable to Nominally Foreign Corporations

[i] In General

Nominally foreign corporations are subject to specific provisions of the General Corporation Law [see [ii]-[iv], below], that govern directors, corporate distributions, records and reports, shareholder meetings, and corporate sales and reorganizations, to the exclusion of the law in the corporation's state or place of incorporation [Corp. Code § 2115(b)]. In addition, all of the general provisions and definitions of the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 100-195] apply to nominally foreign corporations to the extent that they apply to those specific provisions [Corp. Code § 2115(b)].

To avoid any conflicts with the law of the state or place of incorporation, the corporation may amend its articles and bylaws to reflect the applicable provisions of California law [see Halloran & Hammer, Section 2115 of the New California General Corporation Law--The Application of California Corporation Law to Foreign Corporations, 23 UCLA L. Rev. 1282 (1976)].

[ii] Law Governing Directors

A nominally foreign corporation must elect and remove directors in accordance with California law. Directors must be elected at an annual meeting of shareholders for a one-year term, although it is permissible to effectuate a voting shift [see Corp. Code § 194.7 (definition)] by providing in the articles that directors hold office for a shorter term. Separate classes or series of shares may have the right to elect one or more directors [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 301(a)].

The directors may be removed without cause when approved by the outstanding shares [see Corp. Code § 152 (definition of "approval by outstanding shares")], subject to certain requirements limiting removal (1) of individual directors when the number of votes not voting for removal would be sufficient to elect the director under similar circumstances [see Corp. Code § 303(a)(1), (3)] and (2) to the holders of the class or series of shares with the right to elect the director [see Corp. Code § 303(a)(2)]. Any reduction of the authorized number of directors or amendment reducing the number of classes of directors does not remove any director before the expiration of the director's term of office [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 303(b)].

The appropriate California superior court may remove a director from office and may bar any director so removed from reelection on suit of a certain percentage of the shareholders in the case of fraudulent or dishonest acts or gross abuse of authority or discretion and [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 304].

If, after the directors fill a vacancy, the elected directors constitute less than a majority of the directors, the holders of an aggregate of at least 5 percent of the total shares at the time outstanding may call a special meeting to elect a new board or apply to the court for an order for a special meeting [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 305(c); see also Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions].

For further discussion of electing and removing directors, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation , Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions and Resolutions , Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles , and Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . For detailed discussion of these topics, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 5, Management: Functions of Directors, Officers, and Committees (Matthew Bender).

The directors of a nominally foreign corporation are held to the same standard of care as directors of domestic corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 309; see also Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions]. They are also liable for unlawful distributions to the same extent as directors of domestic corporations, except for certain loans or guaranties [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 316(a)(1), (2), (b)- (f)]. Finally, the rules governing indemnification of directors and officers apply to nominally foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 317]. For further discussion, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 6, Management: Duties and Liabilities of Directors and Controlling Shareholders (Matthew Bender).

[iii] Law Governing Shareholders and Distributions

A foreign corporation must hold an annual shareholders' meeting and the required notice or report must be given [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 600(b)]. The appropriate superior court may order a meeting on failure to hold the annual meeting [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 600(c)]. The shareholders of a foreign corporation are entitled to cumulate votes for the election of directors [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 708]. In addition, the articles or a certificate of determination may provide for a supermajority vote in accordance with California law [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 710; see also Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation]. For further information on shareholders meetings and voting, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements . For further information on election of directors, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

The basic limitations on corporate distributions contained in the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 500-505] apply to nominally foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(b)]. In addition, shareholders are liable for receiving prohibited distributions [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 506]. For further discussion, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments .

[iv] Records, Sales, and Reorganizations

Nominally foreign corporations are required to keep adequate and correct books and records of account, minutes of proceedings, and records of shareholders [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 1500]. In addition, unless the corporation has less than 100 holders of record [see Corp. Code § 605], the board must send shareholders an annual report containing certain required information, including financial statements and current income statements [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 1501]. The provisions of the General Corporation Code regarding shareholder and director rights of inspection [see Corp. Code §§ 1600-1605] also apply to nominally foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 2115(b)]. The Attorney General may enforce compliance with the laws regarding records and reports and rights of inspection [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 1508]. For further information, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports .

Nominally foreign corporations must comply with limitations on the sale of assets [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 1001(d)]. They must comply with the General Corporation Law's requirements applicable to conversions [see Corp. Code § 1152] and the first sentence of Corp. Code § 1151 relating to limitations on conversions [Corp. Code § 2115(b)]. Further, they must comply with the provisions of the General Corporation Law regarding reorganizations [see Corp. Code §§ 1200, 1201] and dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code §§ 1300-1312; see also Ch. 11C, Mergers]. For a detailed discussion of reorganization and dissenters' rights, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 12, Corporate Acquisitions, Mergers, and Reorganizations (Matthew Bender).

[v] Duty to Advise of Nominally Foreign Status

Nominally foreign corporations must advise any shareholder of record; any officer, director, employee, or other agent [see Corp. Code § 317]; and any creditor of the corporation in writing, within 30 days of receiving a written request for the information, whether or not the corporation is subject to Corp. Code § 2115(b) at the time the request is received [Corp. Code § 2115(f); see [1], above]. If a party obtains a final determination from a court of competent jurisdiction that the corporation failed to provide the requisite information, or provided incorrect information, the court has discretion to award all court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in that legal proceeding to the extent that they relate to obtaining this final determination [Corp. Code § 2115(f)].

[2] Resident Foreign Corporations

A foreign corporation that does not meet the criteria of a "nominally foreign" corporation [see [1][c], above] may nevertheless be subject to some California regulation of its corporate affairs if it is a "resident foreign" corporation because it "resides" in the state by having its principal executive office in California or customarily holding meetings of its board in California. Such a corporation is subject to the California rules regarding the right of shareholders to inspect and copy the shareholder list [see Corp. Code § 1600(d)], the requirement of an annual report [see Corp. Code § 1501(g)], and the directors' right to inspect records and physical properties [see Corp. Code § 1602]. For these purposes, a foreign association is not considered a foreign corporation [Corp. Code § 171].

In addition, a foreign corporation that has its principal executive office in California or keeps its books and records in California must allow its shareholders to inspect its accounting books, records, and minutes [Corp. Code § 1601(a)]. Compliance may be enforced by court order [see Corp. Code §§ 1508, 1603].

For a detailed discussion of these inspection rights, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports .

[3] Sales of Securities in California

Foreign corporations that offer or sell securities in California [see Corp. Code §§ 25008, 25017 (definitions)] are subject to California securities regulation to the same extent as domestic corporations [see Corp. Code § 25110]. They are also subject to regulation of changes in rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions [see Corp. Code § 25120].

If a foreign corporation exchanges securities incident to a merger or reorganization, that exchange will be exempt from qualification if less than 25 percent of the outstanding shares of each class whose holders are to receive securities in the reorganization are held by persons who have California addresses [Corp. Code § 25103(c)]. For a detailed discussion of California securities regulation, see Chs. 6- 6H. For a detailed discussion of mergers and reorganizations, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

Securities transactions that take place in California are subject to the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 even if the securities were issued by foreign corporations. In particular, officers and directors of a foreign corporation who engage in prohibited insider trading in California [see Corp. Code § 25402] can be liable to the corporation under Corp. Code § 25502.5, and the internal-affairs doctrine of Corp. Code § 2116 [see [4], below] will not shield them from liability [Friese v. Superior Court (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 693, 709-710, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 558] . For discussion of the prohibition against insider trading, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 515, Securities and Franchise Regulation, § 515.22 (Matthew Bender).

[4] Violations of Directors' Duties

The directors of a foreign corporation that transacts intrastate business are liable to the corporation, its shareholders, creditors, receiver, liquidator, or trustee in bankruptcy, for the making of unauthorized dividends, purchase of shares or distribution of assets or false certificates, reports, or public notices, or for the violation any other official duty according to the applicable laws of the state or place of incorporation or organization. This liability is incurred whether the acts are committed in California or elsewhere. The liability may be enforced in California courts [Corp. Code § 2116].

§ 12B.15 California Jurisdiction Over Foreign Corporations

[1] Jurisdiction

[a] Long-Arm Statute

California law does not distinguish between foreign and domestic corporations for the purpose of exercising jurisdiction. A California court may exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the state and federal constitutions [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10]. By imposing no limitations except those imposed by constitutional considerations, this statute authorizes the broadest possible exercise of judicial jurisdiction [Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 534, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278] . This allows California courts to obtain jurisdiction over a foreign corporation based on a sufficient amount of activity in or affecting California, regardless of whether the corporation has specifically designated an agent for service of process or consented to service of process on the Secretary of State [see § 12B.15[1][b]-[d], [2], below].

[b] Minimum Contacts

As a general constitutional principle, a court may exercise personal jurisdiction over a foreign corporate defendant only if that defendant has sufficient "minimum contacts" with the state so that the maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316-319, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; see McGee v. International Life Ins. Co., 355 U.S. 220, 222-224, 78 S. Ct. 199, 2 L. Ed. 2d 223 (1957) ; see also In re Marriage of Martin (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1435-1438, 255 Cal. Rptr. 720] .

It is essential that there be some act by the defendant to purposefully avail itself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum state, thus invoking the benefits and protections of the state's laws [Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 253, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283] . In other words, the minimum contacts must be based on an act of the defendant. Foreseeability that the defendant's act might cause injury in the forum state is not, by itself, a sufficient basis for jurisdiction. Instead, it is necessary that the defendant's conduct and connection with the forum be such that the defendant should reasonably anticipate being taken to court there [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980)

444 U.S. 286, 295-298, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; see Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 108-113, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92] . The basis for jurisdiction generally depends on an assessment of the relationship among the corporation, the forum, and the litigants [see Helicopteros Nacionales de Colombia v. Hall (1984) 466 U.S. 408, 414, 104 S. Ct. 1868, 80 L. Ed. 2d 404 ; Rush v. Savchuk (1980) 444 U.S. 320, 327, 100 S. Ct. 571, 62 L. Ed. 2d 516 ; see also Sammons Enterprises, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1427, 1434-1435, 253 Cal. Rptr. 261] .

The mere ownership of a subsidiary in California does not subject a foreign parent corporation to specific personal jurisdiction based on the subsidiary's contacts with California. Ownership of a subsidiary alone does not constitute purposeful availment. A foreign parent corporation purposefully avails itself of forum benefits through the activities of its subsidiary, as required to justify the exercise of specific personal jurisdiction, if and only if the parent deliberately directs the subsidiary's activities in, or having a substantial connection with, the forum state. Only in those circumstances should the parent corporation reasonably anticipate being haled into court in the forum state based on the activities of its subsidiary [HealthMarkets, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1169, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 527] .

For a more detailed discussion of California jurisdiction over foreign corporations, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender). For a discussion of jurisdiction in general, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 323, Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances (Matthew Bender).

[c] Over Foreign Corporations Transacting Intrastate Business in California

Foreign corporations that qualify in California are required to designate an agent for service of process [see Corp. Code §§ 2105(a)(4), 2117(b)] and thereby subject themselves to jurisdiction of the state courts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10 Comment--Judicial Council; Corp. Code § 2105(a)(5) (qualifying corporation must irrevocably consent to service of process); see also Pennsylvania. Fire Ins. Co. v. Gold Issue Mining Co. (1917) 243 U.S. 93, 95-96, 37 S. Ct. 344, 61 L. Ed. 610 ; Oro Navigation Co. v. Superior Court (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 884, 889, 187 P. 2d 444] . Additionally, a qualifying corporation must consent to service of process on the Secretary of State if the designated agent or his or her successor is no longer authorized to act or cannot be found at the address given in the corporation's statement and designation [Corp. Code § 2105(a)(5); see § 12B.15[2], below; see also § 12B.11[1][a]].

Foreign corporations that transact intrastate business without qualifying are deemed to consent to the jurisdiction of California courts in any civil action arising in California in which that corporation is named a party defendant [see Corp. Code § 2203(a)].

Similarly, a corporation that has transacted intrastate business in California and then withdraws, surrenders, has its right to transact intrastate business revoked, or ceases to transact business without filing a certificate of surrender before being served may be served with process [Corp. Code § 2114]. Therefore, California courts impliedly have jurisdiction over such corporations, at least for actions arising out of the business conducted [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 2114(a)].

[d] On Grounds Other Than Transacting Intrastate Business

Other foreign corporations may also be subject to California jurisdiction based on their activities in the state. Under the minimum contacts test [see [a], above], there is a constitutionally sufficient relationship to warrant general jurisdiction over a foreign defendant if its activities in the state may be described as "extensive or wide-ranging" [see Buckeye Boiler Co. v. Superior Court (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 893, 898-899, 80 Cal. Rptr. 113, 458 P.2d 57] , or "substantial, continuous and systematic" [see Perkins v. Benguet Mining Co. (1951) 342 U.S. 437, 447-448, 72 S. Ct. 413, 96 L. Ed. 485, 63 Ohio Law Abs. 146] .

However, if the defendant's activities in the forum are not so pervasive as to justify the exercise of general jurisdiction, then the finding of jurisdiction depends on the character of the defendant's activity in the forum, whether the cause of action arises out of or has a substantial connection with that activity, and on the balancing of the convenience of the parties and the interests of the state in assuming jurisdiction [Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147-148, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264] .

A dissolved corporation continues to exist for purposes of prosecuting and defending actions by or against it [Corp. Code § 2010(a)]. This provision applies to foreign corporations as well as domestic corporations [North American Asbestos Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 902, 911, 225 Cal. Rptr. 877] .

[2] Service of Process

[a] Direct Service

Process may be served on foreign corporations transacting intrastate business in California by hand delivery of a copy of any process to any of the following agents [Corp. Code § 2110]:

- Any officer of the corporation, its general manager in California, or, if the corporation is a bank, to a cashier or an assistant cashier.

- Any natural person designated by it as agent for the service of process.

- If the corporation has designated a corporate agent, to any person named in the latest certificate of the corporate agent filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505.

A copy of the statement and designation, or a copy of the latest statement filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 2117, certified by the Secretary of State, is sufficient evidence of the appointment of an agent for the service of process [Corp. Code § 2110].

A foreign corporation may serve as an agent for service of process for another corporation only if it is qualified to transact business in California and is in good standing on the records of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1505(c)]. If the foreign corporate agent has forfeited its certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business, designation of a new agent must be filed [Corp. Code § 1504].

In addition, service may be effected by any method provided for under the Code of Civil Procedure provisions on service [Corp. Code § 2110.1; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40].

[b] Substituted Service

Substituted service may be effected on the Secretary of State or to an assistant or deputy Secretary of State under any of the following circumstance:

- If the agent for the service of process is a natural person and cannot be found with due diligence at the address stated in the statement and designation [Corp. Code § 2111(a); see Corp. Code § 2117(b); see also § 12B.11[1][a]].

- If the agent is a corporation [see Corp. Code § 1505] and no person can be found with due diligence to whom the delivery authorized by Corp. Code § 2110 [see [a], above] may be made for the purpose of delivery to the corporate agent [Corp. Code § 2111(a)].

- If the agent designated is no longer authorized to act, or if no agent has been designated, and if no one of the officers or agents of the corporation specified in Corp. Code § 2110 [see [a], above] can be found after diligent search [Corp. Code § 2111(a)].

- If the foreign corporation has surrendered its qualification to transact intrastate business [see Corp. Code §§ 2112, 2113; see also § 12B.12[2]] and the action is on a liability or obligation incurred within California before the surrender [Corp. Code § 2114(b)]. If a corporation ceases to transact business without filing a certificate of surrender, the appointment of its agent for service of process remains effective [Corp. Code § 2114(d)].

It is unclear from the language of the statute whether an affidavit must be submitted to the court in any of the above circumstances showing that one or more of the conditions exist, or if the affidavit need only be submitted in the third circumstance [see Corp. Code § 2111(a)]. However, logic would require that the affidavit be submitted whenever a court order must be obtained to effect substituted service [see Tri-State Mfg. Company v. Superior Court (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 442, 444, 36 Cal. Rptr. 750] .

In addition, the qualification provisions in the Corporations Code requiring designation of an agent for service of process with the Secretary of State do not affect the Insurance Code provisions requiring foreign insurance companies to maintain such a designation in the Insurance Commissioner's office [Corp. Code § 2103; see Ins. Code §§ 1600-1605]. Those qualification provisions do not prevent a foreign insurance company from carrying out contracts made before the surrender of its right to engage in intrastate business or contracts made with citizens of other states who subsequently become California citizens or residents [Corp. Code § 2103]. Special provisions exist permitting service on the Insurance Commissioner for service of process on foreign insurers that are not qualified to transact intrastate business that do specified acts of business in California [see Ins. Code §§ 1610, 1611].

§ 12B.20 Effect of Doing Business in States Other Than California

[1] In General

A California corporation doing or planning to do business in other states must consider the impact of its activities in the following three areas: (1) whether the nature of its activities will subject the corporation to the jurisdiction of the other state, (2) whether the corporation will be subject to taxation by the other state, and (3) whether the corporation will be subject to the other state's requirements for qualification [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender)].

Each of these areas requires a different level of activity to subject the corporation to the other state's laws [see §§ 12B.11[1], 12B.15, 12B.30, 12B.31[1][a]]. The greater the amount of activity, the more likely the corporation will be required to obtain a certificate of authority [see, e.g., Rev. Model Business Corp. Act § 15.03 (1984)], also called a certificate of qualification [see, e.g., § 12B.11], to do business in the foreign state. A corporation that has obtained, or is required to obtain, a certificate will virtually always be subject to service of process and taxation in the foreign state, but a corporation that is subject to service of process or state taxation is not necessarily required to qualify [see Rev. Model Business Corp. Act § 15.01 (1984--Official Comment)].

If the corporation will be conducting purely interstate commerce, the Commerce Clause prohibits most state regulation [U.S. Const., art. I, § 8; see [2], below; but see, e.g., Md. Corps. & Ass'ns Code Ann. § 7-202 (unqualified foreign corporations must register before doing interstate business)]. However, If the corporation will also be conducting intrastate commerce, it becomes subject to state regulation [see Ford Motor Co. v. Beauchamp (1939) 308 U.S. 331, 334-335, 60 S. Ct. 273, 84 L. Ed. 304 , reh'g denied, 308 U.S. 640 ; Atlantic Refining Co. v. Virginia (1937) 302 U.S. 22, 26, 58 S. Ct. 75, 82 L. Ed. 24] .

[2] State's Power Over Corporations Conducting Purely Interstate Commerce: Taxation and Jurisdiction

[a] In General

As a threshold consideration, all states are limited in the amount they can regulate foreign corporations by the constitutional considerations of the Commerce Clause [U.S.Const. art. I, § 8; see, e.g., Pike v. Bruce Church, Inc., 397 U.S. 137, 142, 90 S. Ct. 844 (1970) ; Bibb v. Navajo Freight Lines, Inc., 359 U.S. 520, 529-530, 79 S. Ct. 962, 3 L. Ed. 2d 1003 (1959) ; S. Pac. Co. v. Arizona, 325 U.S. 761, 767-768, 65 S. Ct. 1515, 89 L. Ed. 1915 (1945)] and by the requirements of due process [see [b], [c], below; see also § 12B.15[1][a]]. If a corporation is conducting purely interstate commerce, the Commerce Clause prohibits the other state from requiring qualification [Atlantic Refining Co. v. Virginia (1937) 302 U.S. 22, 26, 58 S. Ct. 75, 82 L. Ed. 24 ; see U.S. Const. art. I, § 8].

"Interstate commerce" is not limited to transportation across state lines. The term includes all of the parts of commercial intercourse between different states to which the corporation is a party, including negotiations, contracts, trade, or dealings between the corporation and the other parties to the transaction that result in the movement of goods, persons, or information from one state to another [Furst v. Brewster (1931) 282 U.S. 493, 497-498, 51 S. Ct. 295, 75 L. Ed. 478] .

[b] Jurisdiction

In general, the power of a state's courts to subject a foreign corporation to jurisdiction depends on whether the corporation's activities supply the necessary "minimum contacts" and whether the exercise of jurisdiction offends traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [Internat. Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316-319, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; McGee v. International Life Ins. Co., 355 U.S. 220, 222-224, 78 S. Ct. 199, 2 L. Ed. 2d 223 (1957) .] For additional information on jurisdiction, see Section 12B.15[1]. For a detailed discussion of the subject in the context of California law, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender), and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 323, Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances (Matthew Bender).

[c] Taxation

A state's power to tax a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce generally depends on whether the corporation's activities create a sufficient "nexus" between the tax and the transactions within the state, and on whether the state's tax is non-discriminatory and properly apportioned to local activities within the state. A corporation's activities must forge a "definite link, some minimum connection" sufficient to satisfy due process requirements to permit a state to tax income from interstate commerce activities within its borders. The controlling question is whether the state has given the corporation anything, such as opportunities, protections, or benefits, for which the state can ask return [Northwestern Cement Co. v. Minn. (1959) 358 U.S. 450, 452, 464-465, 79 S. Ct. 357, 3 L. Ed. 2d 421 ; see Complete Auto Transit, Inc. v. Brady (1977) 430 U.S. 274, 287-289, 97 S. Ct. 1076, 51 L. Ed. 2d 326] .

However, states are prohibited by federal law from taxing a foreign taxpayer's income that is derived in interstate commerce if the only business activities of the taxpayer within the state consist of solicitation, by or for the taxpayer, of orders for tangible personal property [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 381-384; see also Brown Group Retail, Inc. v. Franchise Tax Board (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 823, 838, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 202 (immunity not available when employees of independent retail distributor division in California went beyond mere solicitation)].

[3] State's Power Over Foreign Corporations Doing Intrastate Business: Qualification Requirements

[a] In General

All states have enacted some form of qualification requirement for foreign corporations transacting intrastate business in their state, although some jurisdictions do not specifically provide for a certificate to be issued but instead require the foreign corporation to make certain filings [see Rev. Model Business Corp. Act § 15.01 (1984), annotation (list of each state's qualification statute)]. These statutes and the accompanying regulations imposed by the states generally govern only the foreign corporation's external affairs [see Southern Sierras Power Co. v. Railroad Comm'n (1928) 205 Cal. 479, 482-483, 271 P. 747 ; see also Kruse, California's Statutory Attempt to Regulate Foreign Corporations: Will It

Survive the Commerce Clause? 16 San Diego L. Rev. 943, 947-948 (August 1979)].

[b] When Qualification Is Required

To determine whether a corporation will be required to qualify, the attorney must consult the individual state's qualification statute. Although most states do not define what constitutes the transaction of business sufficient to require qualification, most of the statutes list activities that do not require qualification.

For example, the Revised Model Business Corporation Act provides that the following activities, among others, do not constitute transacting business so as to require a certificate of qualification [Rev. Model Business Corp. Act § 15.01 (1984)]:

- Maintaining, defending, or settling any proceeding.
- Carrying on internal corporate affairs, including holding meetings of the board of directors or shareholders.
- Maintaining bank accounts.
- Maintaining offices or agencies for the transfer, exchange, and registration of the corporation's own securities or maintaining trustees or depositaries with respect to those securities.
- Selling through independent contractors.
- Soliciting or obtaining orders, whether by mail or through employees or agents or otherwise, if the orders require acceptance outside the state.
- Creating or acquiring indebtedness, mortgages, and security interests in real or personal property.
- Securing or collecting debts or enforcing mortgages and security interests in property securing the debts.
- Owning real or personal property.
- Conducting an isolated transaction that is completed within 30 days and that is not in the course of repeated transactions of a like nature.
- Transacting business in interstate commerce.

In addition, many states permit unqualified foreign corporations to engage in lending activities. Typically, these states allow corporations to lend money to residents, take security for mortgages, enforce the security, and service mortgages without obtaining a certificate of authority. It is necessary to consult the individual state's statute to determine precisely which lending activities are permitted without qualification.

The question of whether a particular activity other than those listed in the state's qualification statute would require the corporation to qualify can only be answered by consulting the case law of the jurisdiction [see, e.g., Jay-Lor Textiles v. Pacific Compress Warehouse (Tex. Civ. App. 1977) 547 S.W.2d 738, 741 (rental of equipment past 30-day statutory period required corporation to qualify)]. However, any activity should be considered in the context of the purpose for which a corporation is organized, since the corporation's "ordinary business" may be a decisive element in the consideration of whether qualification is required [see e.g., Royal Ins. Co. v. All States Theatres, Inc., 242 Ala. 417, 419, 6 So. 2d 494 (1942);].

[c] Penalties for Failure to Qualify

Most states provide a combination of jurisdictional and monetary penalties for a corporation's failure to qualify. To determine which penalties apply in the state in which the California corporation intends to do business, it is necessary to consult that state's statutes. The Revised Model Business Corporation Act prescribes the following consequence for transacting business without authority [Rev. Model Business Corp. Act § 15.02(a)- (d)(1984)]:

- A prohibition against maintaining a proceeding in any court in the state until the foreign corporation obtains a certificate of authority.

- A prohibition against the foreign corporation's successor and the assignee of a cause of action arising out of the unauthorized business maintaining a proceeding based on that cause of action in any court in the state until the foreign corporation or its successor obtains a certificate of authority.

- A stay of a proceeding commenced by a foreign corporation, its successor, or its assignee to determine whether the foreign corporation or its successor requires a certificate of authority and, if applicable, until the foreign corporation or its successor obtains the certificate.

- Civil monetary penalties for the period during which the corporation transacted unauthorized business, to be collected by the attorney general.

On the other hand, under the Revised Model Business Corporation Act, unqualified foreign corporations doing intrastate business are permitted to defend themselves in suits brought against them [see Rev. Model Business Corp. Act § 15.02(e)(1984)].

§ 12B.30 Overview

Foreign corporations in California, except those that are exempt from taxation [see § 12B.33[2]], may be subject to any of the following three taxes:

- A franchise tax on the privilege of exercising the corporation franchise in California [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23101-23364a]. This tax is imposed on all corporations, including financial corporations and certain noncorporate entities, that are "doing business" in California [see § 12B.31[1][a][ii]]. Franchise tax liability for commencing or withdrawing corporations, and for corporations ceasing or resuming business is determined under special rules [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23221-23226 (commencing corporations), 23281-23282 (resuming business), 23331-23334 (withdrawing corporations); see also § 12B.31].

- A corporation income tax, imposed on corporations that are not subject to the franchise tax but that derive income from California sources, based on the net income from California sources for the immediately preceding year [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23501-23561; see also § 12B.32]. Banks are not subject to this tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23181, 23501(a)].

- An alternative minimum tax, adopted from the federal alternative minimum tax, which is imposed on all general corporations subject to the franchise tax or the corporation income tax, and on exempt organizations subject to tax on unrelated business income, and banks and financial corporations [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23400-23459]. This tax, however, is not imposed on S corporations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23400(b); see § 12B.34].

In addition, other taxes are imposed such as property tax [see § 12B.35[1]] and sales and use taxes [see § 12B.35[2]].

Insurance companies are not taxed under the Bank and Corporation Tax Law. They are, instead, required to pay a tax on gross premiums [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 12201(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 12001-13170], which is in lieu of all other state taxes except real property taxes, retaliatory taxes, ocean marine insurance taxes, and vehicle registration fees and taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 12102, 12204(a)]. However, each corporate or other attorney in fact of a reciprocal or interinsurance exchange is subject to taxes imposed on corporations or others doing business in California, except taxes on income derived from its principal business as attorney in fact [Rev. & Tax. Code § 12204(a)(5)].

[a] Types of Corporations Subject to Franchise Tax

Every foreign or domestic corporation that is "doing business" in California [see [b], below] and that is not expressly exempt from taxation [see § 12B.33] must pay an annual franchise tax for the privilege of exercising its corporate franchise in the state [Rev. & Tax. Rptr. 2d 509 , cert. denied, 121 S. Ct. 2623 (2001) (holding that trial court properly included California sales of South Dakota affiliate in calculating amount of income apportionable to California operations under rule in effect at the time, despite fact that SBE subsequently returned to prior rule)]. See Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 22, Corporate Franchise and Income Taxes in California (Matthew Bender) for a discussion of the special tax problems of multijurisdictional taxpayers.

Banks, financial corporations [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23183(a) (definition)], other than certain exempt entities, and other special entities, including insurance companies [see § 12B.30], are also subject to franchise taxes, but the tax liability for these entities is computed under special provisions [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 12001-13170, 23151(a), 23181, 23183, 23183.1]. The franchise tax rate is higher for these corporations than for other corporations, in lieu of certain other state and local taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23182, 23186].

Foreign banks and financial corporations that are not subject to the franchise tax include international banks maintained by banks in California [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25107(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25107(b) (definition)], foreign lending institutions [see Corp. Code §§ 191(d) (definition), 2104 (foreign lending institutions are not considered to be doing business unless located in California)], and federal reserve banks [see 12 U.S.C. § 531; see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 22, Corporate Franchise and Income Taxes in California (Matthew Bender)].

Foreign corporations that obtain a certificate of qualification [see § 12B.11] are liable for the minimum franchise tax even if they do not engage in any intrastate business in California. A foreign corporation that does not obtain a certificate of qualification but that nevertheless does business in California is subject to the minimum franchise tax for any year that it engages in such activities [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23151].

[b] Requirement That Corporation Be Doing Business in California

The term "doing business" for franchise tax purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151] is broader than the term "transacting intrastate business" used in the Corporations Code [see Corp. Code § 191(a)]. It does not require that the corporation maintain a regular course of business or transactions in California [Hise v. McColgan (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 147, 151, 148 P.2d 616] . "Doing business" for taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011, means actively engaging in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a)], and includes such minimal activities as (1) buying or selling stocks or bonds, (2) endorsing notes of a subsidiary corporation, (3) leasing real property to a subsidiary corporation or to other tenants, and (4) liquidating activities such as selling or renting property or collecting on notes [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101]. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer is doing business in California for a taxable year if any of the following conditions has been satisfied [Corp. Code § 23101(b)]:

- The taxpayer is organized or commercially domiciled in California.

- Sales [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25120(e), (f)] for the taxable year in California exceed the lesser of $500,000 or 25 percent of the taxpayer's total sales.

- The real property and tangible personal property of the taxpayer in California exceed the lesser of $50,000 or 25 percent of the taxpayer's total real property and tangible personal property.

- The amount paid in California by the taxpayer for compensation [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25120(c)] exceeds the lesser of $50,000 or 25 percent of the total compensation paid by the taxpayer.

Thus, a foreign corporation that maintains a stock of goods in California and that makes deliveries in California pursuant to orders taken by employees in California is "doing business" and its entire income from sources within California is subject to the corporate franchise tax [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101]. On the other hand, a corporation holding or organized to hold stock or bonds of other corporations that does not trade in stocks, bonds, or other securities, and that engages in no activities other than the receipt and disbursement of dividends from stock or interest from bonds is not "doing business" for the purpose of imposing franchise taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23102].

A foreign corporation engaging entirely in interstate commerce is not subject to a California franchise tax. It is, unless it is exempt, subject to a tax on income derived from California sources [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23501-23561; see also § 12B.32]. However, if the foreign corporation engages in intrastate activities in California in addition to its interstate activities, it is subject to the franchise tax on its entire net income derived from California sources, including its income derived from interstate commerce [18 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 23101, 23501; see Complete Auto Transit, Inc. v. Brady, 430 U.S. 274, 287-289, 97 S. Ct. 1076, 51 L. Ed. 2d 326 (1977)].

A foreign corporation may petition the Franchise Tax Board for a determination that its activities in California do not constitute "doing business" and that it does not derive income from California sources [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b); see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d)]. For further information, see § 12B.33. For a form to apply for exclusion from state taxation, see § 12B.260.

[c] Franchise Tax Rates

The franchise tax rate, applicable to every corporation subject to the franchise tax except banks and financial corporations, is 8.84 percent of the corporation's net income for the preceding year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151(e), (f)] subject to an annual minimum tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(d)(1), (e); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 22, Corporate Franchise and Income Taxes in California (Matthew Bender)]. For the first taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 2000, the annual franchise tax is the sum of the tax based on the net income for the next preceding year (but not less than the minimum tax) plus the tax based on the net income for the first taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 2000 (but not less than the minimum tax) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151(f)(1)].

The tax rate for banks and financial corporations is the rate specified for other corporations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151] plus 2 percent [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23186], subject to an annual minimum tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23153, 23181(e), 23183(a)]. For the first taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 2000, the annual franchise tax is the sum of the tax based on the net income for the next preceding year (but not less than the minimum tax) plus the tax based on the net income for the first taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 2000 (but not less than the minimum tax) [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23181(f)(1), 23183(c)(1)].

A foreign corporation is generally subject to the minimum tax from the taxable year in which it is qualified or commences doing business in California, whichever is earlier, until the later of the effective date of dissolution or withdrawal [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23331], or the date that the corporation ceases to do business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(a)]. However, every corporation that qualifies to do business in California on or after January 1, 2000, is not subject to the minimum franchise tax for its first taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(1), (3) (limitation)].

The "taxable year" for purposes of the franchise tax is the calendar year or the fiscal year for which the tax is payable [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23041(a), (e) (calendar or fiscal years beginning before January 1, 2000)], that is, the year in which the corporation is exercising the corporate franchise and doing business [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 22, Corporate Franchise and Income Taxes in California (Matthew Bender)]. For taxable tears beginning before January 1, 2000, and the first taxable year beginning on or after that date, "income year" for franchise tax purposes is the calendar year or the fiscal year on the basis of which the net income is computed or, in the case of a return made for part of a year, the period for which the return is made [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23042(a)(1)]. For taxable years (other than the first taxable year) beginning on or after January 1, 2000, the term "income year" has the same meaning as the term "taxable year" [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23042(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23041].

If a foreign corporation is receiving income from business conducted in several states, the California tax is measured by the net income attributable to sources in California pursuant to allocation and apportionment rules [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 25101-25141]. Three of those rules are used for purposes of determining nominally foreign corporation status [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 25128, 25129, 25132; see § 12B.14[1][c]]. Banks and financial corporations are subject to special apportionment rules [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 25137-4-1(c)].

[2] Prepayment for Qualification

Before January 1, 2000, foreign corporations were required to prepay the minimum tax for their first year of business in California when filing the first annual statement [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153; see former Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221(a)]. Corporations that qualify to do business in California on or after January 1, 2000, and before January 1, 2001, are not subject to the prepayment requirement [see former Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221(f)]. Effective January 1, 2001, only credit unions are subject to the prepayment requirement [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221 (effective on January 1, 2001)].

[3] Forfeiture Penalty for Failure to Pay Franchise Tax

[a] Bases for Forfeiture

A foreign corporation qualified to do business in California may forfeit its corporate powers, rights, and privileges, except for purposes of filing an application for exempt status, or the filing of an amended statement and designation to set forth a new or assumed name [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a], if it either fails to pay any franchise tax, penalty, or interest when due [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.6] or fails to file a tax return [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301.5, 23301.6; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 21020, 23302(a)- (c) (forfeiture procedure)]. Forfeiture will occur if the payment is not made within the following time limits [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301]:

- For all or part of any tax, penalty, or interest that is due either at the time the return must be filed or on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year, by 6:00 P.M. on the last day of the 12th month after the close of the taxable year.

- For all or part of any tax, penalty, or interest that is due and payable on notice and demand from the Franchise Tax Board, by 6:00 P.M. on the last day of the 11th month following the due date of the tax.

- For taxes due and payable pursuant to the Revenue and Taxation Code provisions on interest and penalties [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19131 et seq.], by 6:00 P.M. on the last day of the 11th month following the due date of the tax liability.

[b] Notice and Effect of Forfeiture

Before forfeiture can become effective, the corporation must receive notice from the Franchise Tax Board indicating that the corporation will be suspended on a particular date pursuant to the appropriate section of the Revenue and Taxation Code. The notice must be mailed to the corporation at least 60 days before the effective date [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23302(a), (b), 21020].

Once the Franchise Tax Board transmits the names of corporations whose legal rights have been forfeited to the Secretary of State, the forfeiture becomes effective. The certificate of the Secretary of State is prima facie evidence of the forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23302(c)]. Additionally, a certificate of forfeiture from the Franchise Tax Board stating that the forfeited taxpayer has been notified of its tax liability or the requirement to file a return and that the taxpayer has not paid or filed is prima facie evidence of those facts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305d].

If a foreign corporation's powers, rights, and privileges are forfeited, the corporation may not sell, transfer, or exchange real property in California during the period of forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23302(d)]. Any transaction of business after forfeiture is punishable by fine, imprisonment, or both [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19719(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19719(b) (bar does not apply to insurer's duty to defend)]. If a corporation nevertheless transacts business during forfeiture, any income received or business transacted during the forfeiture period is subject to franchise taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23303]. The Franchise Tax Board will also impose an annual penalty on a corporation doing business after forfeiture if the corporation fails to make and file a tax return, unless the failure to file is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19135].

Contracts made in California with foreign corporations after forfeiture [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23775] are voidable at the option of any party to the contract other than the foreign corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(a); see [4], below].

[c] Reviving Corporate Powers

[i] Revivor With Payment of Amounts Due

The corporation's powers may be revived by (1) applying in writing to the Franchise Tax Board for a certificate of revivor [see § 12B.261 (form)], (2) filing all tax returns required under the Bank and Corporation Tax Law, and (3) paying all taxes, additions to tax, deficiencies, interest, and penalties due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305].

The application for revivor of a corporation that has suffered forfeiture may be made by (1) any stockholder or creditor, (2) a majority of the surviving trustees or directors of the corporation, (3) an officer, or (4) any other person who has interest in relief from forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305].

[ii] Revivor Without Payment of Amounts Due

The Franchise Tax Board may revive a corporation to good standing without full payment of franchise tax liability if it determines that revival will improve the prospects for collection of the full amount due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305b]. The revivor may be limited as to time, may limit the functions the revived corporation can perform, or both. The corporate powers, rights, and privileges may be forfeited again if the Franchise Tax Board determines that the prospects for collection of the full amount due have not been improved by the revivor of the corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305b].

In addition, the Franchise Tax Board will issue a certificate of revivor if the corporation provides the Board with an assumption of liability, a bond, deposit, or other acceptable security for the corporation's tax liability in lieu of actual payment of all outstanding tax liabilities [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. Obtaining revivor by securing the debt does not constitute an admission of liability and does not relieve the corporation from liability for taxes, additions to tax, penalties, or interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. After securing the debt, the corporation has a reasonable time after the issuance of the certificate of revivor in which to file any necessary returns, notwithstanding the otherwise applicable requirement that the corporation file all necessary returns before the Franchise Tax Board will grant revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305].

[iii] Issuance and Effect of Certificate of Revivor

Before the certificate of revivor can be issued, the Franchise Tax Board must obtain from the Secretary of State an endorsement on the application for reinstatement of the fact that the name of the corporation continues to meet the corporate name requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also Boyer v. Jones (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 220, 221-222, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 824 (holding that under Corp. Code § 201(b) and Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a, name of suspended corporation may be reserved and adopted by another corporation during period of suspension, and affirming trial court's denial of suspended corporation's petition for writ of mandate seeking restoration of its name); § 12B.11[2][b]]. Once this endorsement is received, the Franchise Tax Board will issue a certificate of revivor to the corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305] and inform the Secretary of State that the corporation's powers, rights, and privileges have been revived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305c(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305c(c) (restoration for erroneous forfeitures)].

Before a certificate of revivor can be issued, the corporation, in addition to the taxes, penalties, and interest already owed [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305], must prepay the minimum franchise tax imposed to resume doing business after revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23282(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23153, 23221]. The tax imposed on any taxpayer that has suffered suspension or forfeiture [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301] and revives in any taxable year other than the taxable year in which the suspension or forfeiture occurred is computed on the basis of the net income for the taxable year in which the corporation revives, but not less than the minimum tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23282(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153].

On issuance of the certificate, the corporation is reinstated and its legal rights are revived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see Rochin v. Pat Johnson Mfg. Co. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1228, 1236-1237, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 719 (although manufacturer's corporate powers were suspended before personal injury action was brought against it and before subsequent action to vacate amended judgment, corporation was entitled to defend appeal from order sustaining its demurrer in second action because corporation's certificate of revivor became effective during pendency of appeal); Benton v. County of Napa (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1485, 1490, 277 Cal. Rptr. 541 (revivor validates procedural steps taken during suspension)]. The reinstatement is without prejudice to any action, defense, or right that has accrued because of the original forfeiture except as to the voidability of some contracts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23304.5, 23305.1; see also [4], below]. Further, the certificate of revivor operates as prima facie evidence of the reinstatement, and may be recorded in the office of any county recorder [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a].

If the forfeiture was erroneous, the corporation's status will be "restored" retroactive to the date of forfeiture as if there had been no forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305c(c)].

For an application for a certificate of revivor, see § 12B.261. For further discussion of the suspension and revivor of corporate powers, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 14, Litigation Involving Corporations and Shareholders (Matthew Bender).

[4] Contract Voidability Penalty for Failure to Pay Tax

[a] In General

Contracts made in California by a qualified foreign corporation during the time that the corporation's powers, rights, and privileges are forfeited due to a failure to pay taxes or file a tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23775; see also [3], above] are voidable at the option of any party to the contract other than the foreign corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5 (procedure)]. In addition, if a foreign corporation that neither is qualified to do business in California nor has a corporate account number from the Franchise Tax Board fails to file a tax return required by the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.], any contract made in California during the applicable period may be voided by any party to the contract other than the corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(b)].

The "applicable period" is the period beginning on the later of (1) January 1, 1991, or (2) the first day of the taxable year for which the taxpayer failed to file a return, and ending on the earlier of (1) the date that the taxpayer qualified to do business in California or (2) the date that the taxpayer obtained a corporate account number from the Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(d) (voidability of contracts of nonqualified corporations with corporate accounts); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305c(d)].

If a corporation is unqualified [see § 12B.11] but has a corporate account number from the Franchise Tax Board, failure to file a tax return or to pay any amount owing to the Franchise Tax Board required under the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.], or an exempt organization's failure to file any informational statement or return [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23772, 23774; see § 12B.33[2]], will render any contract made by the corporation in California during a certain time period voidable at the instance of any party to the contract other than the taxpayer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(d)]. To be subject to this penalty, the corporation must have failed to file or pay within 60 days after the Franchise Tax Board mailed a written demand. The time period for voidability begins at the end of this 60-day period and ends on the earlier of (1) the date relief is granted [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1; see [c], below] or (2) the date the taxpayer qualifies to do business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(d); see § 12B.11].

[b] Effect of Voidability

A party with the right to declare a contract void under these provisions may exercise that right only in a lawsuit on the contract [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5]. The rights of the parties to the contract are not affected by these provisions except to the extent expressly provided by a final judgment of the court, and that judgment must allow the corporation a reasonable time to cure the voidability [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1].

If the court finds the contract voidable, it must order the contract rescinded. However, the court cannot order rescission unless the unqualified foreign corporation receives full restitution of the benefits provided under the contract [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5].

If the corporation applies for relief from voidability, the Franchise Tax Board may assess additional penalties [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b); see [c], below].

[c] Relief From Voidability

[i] Application

A corporation may apply to the Franchise Tax Board for relief from contract voidability [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)]. Relief will be granted if the application is properly filed [see § 12B.262], the period for which relief is requested is indicated, any necessary tax returns are filed, and any taxes, penalties, interest, and other amounts due are paid to the Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)] or liability for them is assumed [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. The Franchise Tax Board will assess a penalty for each day of the period for which relief from voidability is granted. The total penalty assessed, however, must not exceed the amount of the tax for the period for which relief is requested [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(1)]. A daily penalty with a different maximum is specified if an application for relief from contract voidability is filed for a period in which an application for revivor has been filed and a certificate of revivor has been issued [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(2); see § 12B.262[1] (application for revivor)].

Notwithstanding the requirement that the corporation pay any liability due [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)], the Franchise Tax Board will issue a certificate of relief from voidability if the corporation provides the Board with an assumption of liability or a bond, deposit, or other acceptable security for the corporation's tax liability in lieu of actual payment of all outstanding tax liabilities [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. Obtaining relief by securing the debt does not constitute an admission of liability and does not relieve the corporation from liability for taxes, additions to tax, penalties, or interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. After securing the debt, the corporation has a reasonable time after relief is granted in which to file any necessary returns, notwithstanding the otherwise applicable requirement that the corporation file all necessary returns before the Franchise Tax Board will grant revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1].

[ii] Effect of Relief

If the taxpayer is granted relief from contract voidability, all contracts entered into during the period for which relief is granted that have not been rescinded by a final court order [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5] may be enforced in the same manner and to the same extent, with regard to both parties to the contract and any third parties, as if the contract had never been voidable [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(1)(A)]. Sales, transfers, and exchanges of California real property during the period for which relief is granted (that is, when the taxpayer was not entitled to sell, transfer, or exchange real property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23302(d); see also [3], above]) that have not been rescinded by a final court order [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5] are as valid as if the taxpayer had not been prohibited from conveying real property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(1)(B)].

Once relief is granted, the Franchise Tax Board will issue and mail a certificate to the taxpayer, or as directed by the taxpayer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(2)]. The certificate (1) indicates the period for which relief is granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(2)], (2) constitutes prima facie evidence of the relief from voidability, and (3) may be recorded [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(d)].

[5] Liability for Year of Cessation

[a] General Corporations

In general, when a corporation (other than a financial or an exempt corporation [see § 12B.33[2]]) ceases doing business in California [see [1][a], above], its franchise tax for its final year is measured by its net income for the prior year plus its net income for the final year, with a stated minimum tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151.1(d), (e); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153]. If a corporation begins and ceases doing business in the same taxable year, its franchise tax ordinarily would be measured by its net income for that year, subject to the stated annual minimum [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151.1(b), 23153]. However, corporations that qualify to do business in California on or after January 1, 2000, are not subject to the minimum franchise tax for the first taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(1), (3) (exemption inapplicable if corporation reorganized solely to avoid payment of minimum franchise tax)].

If the corporation withdraws in the same year that it ceases to do business, it ordinarily has no further California tax liability if it has no other income from California sources [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151.1, 23151.2, 23504]. To withdraw, the corporation must file a certificate of surrender or document of merger [see Corp. Code §§ 2112, 2113; see also § 12B.12[2]].

On the other hand, if the corporation does not legally withdraw, it remains liable for the minimum franchise tax for years after the year of cessation, until it either resumes business activities or withdraws [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23281, 23151.2, 23153]. A corporation that has qualified must continue to pay the annual minimum tax, even after ceasing to do business, until it files a certificate of surrender with the Secretary of State or dissolves in its state of incorporation [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23151]. If the corporation withdraws in a year subsequent to the year of cessation of business, it is liable for franchise tax in its final income year based on its net income for the income for the taxable year in which it ceased doing business, unless that income has already been taxed, subject to the stated minimum tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151.2].

If a foreign corporation ceases doing business, but continues to derive income from California sources, it will become liable for the corporation income tax [see § 12B.32] for the years subsequent to the year in which it ceased doing business [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23504]. A qualified corporation that ceases doing business but continues to receive income from California sources before it withdraws will be subject to both the minimum franchise tax and the corporation income tax. In that situation, however, the franchise tax is allowed as an offset against the income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23503].

[b] Banks and Financial Corporations

If a financial corporation ceases to do business in California, the tax for the taxable year during which the cessation occurred is based on the corporation's net income for the prior year plus its net income for the taxable year during which the corporation ceased doing business. If a financial corporation dissolves or withdraws from California, the tax for the taxable year during which the dissolution or withdrawal occurs is based on its net income for the income year in which the corporation ceased doing business, unless the income had previously been taxed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23332.5; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23183(b), (d), 23183.1, 23183.2; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23186 (rate)].

If a bank ceases doing business in the same taxable year as it commences doing business, the tax ordinarily would be based on its net income for that year, subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23181(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23186 (rate)]. However, corporations that qualify to do business in California on or after January 1, 2000, are not subject to the minimum franchise tax for the first taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(1), (3) (exemption inapplicable if corporation reorganized solely to avoid payment of minimum franchise tax)]. If a bank ceases doing business in any other year, the tax for the taxable year of cessation is based on its net income for the prior year plus its net income for the taxable year during which the bank ceased doing business [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23181(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23186]. In any event, the bank is liable for the annual minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23181(e); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153], except for in its first taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code §

23153(f)(1)].

CHAPTER 12B FOREIGN CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. California Taxation of Foreign Corporations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.32

§ 12B.32 California Corporation Income Tax

The corporate income tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23501-23571] complements the franchise tax by taxing the income of those corporations (other than banks or financial institutions) whose activities within California are not sufficient to subject them to the franchise tax [see § 12B.31[1]], but who receive income from California sources [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501]. Banks are not subject to the corporate income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23181-23183, 23501]. The corporation income tax rate is 8.84 percent, but there is no minimum income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151(e), 23501(c)].

All corporate net income, other than income subject to the franchise tax, that is derived from sources within California (whether in intrastate, interstate, or foreign commerce) is subject to income taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23040 ("income" defined)]. Sources of California income include the following [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23040(a)]:

- Income, rents, and gains from the sale of real or tangible personal property located in California, regardless of where the sale or transfer is consummated.

- Income from the ownership, control, or management of real or personal property located in California.

- Income from business or activities carried on in California.

- Income from stocks, bonds, notes, bank deposits, and other intangible personal property with a business situs in California.

Federal law restricts California's ability to tax a corporation earning income in interstate commerce whose only business activities in California consist of soliciting orders for tangible personal property to be filled from inventories maintained outside the state [see 15 U.S.C. § 381; see also The Reader's Digest Association, Inc. v. Franchise Tax Board (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1240, 1248, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 (finding that wholly owned subsidiary was not "independent contractor" pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 381(d)(1) and thus plaintiff was not exempt from tax under 15 U.S.C. § 381(c))].

A foreign corporation will forfeit the exercise of its corporate powers, rights, and privileges in the state if it fails to pay the corporate income tax or to file an income tax return when required [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5; see § 12B.31[3]].

If a corporation that has been subject to the corporate income tax begins doing business in California, or qualifies to transact intrastate business, the corporation continues to pay income tax for the year of the changeover [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23224.5(a)]. The following year is treated as the year in which the corporation commences doing business [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23224.5(b); see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151.1(c)(2), 23153].

If a corporation that has been subject to the franchise tax ceases doing business, withdraws, or dissolves, the corporation becomes subject to the corporation income tax on income thereafter received from California sources. For the year in which the change occurs, however, only the franchise tax will be assessed against the corporation. For subsequent years, the corporation will be subject to the income tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23504]. Corporation income tax liability is offset by any franchise taxes imposed for the same period. If any taxes, interest, or penalties that should have been paid as franchise tax are in fact paid as corporation income tax, they shall be considered as if they had been paid as franchise tax as of the date they were made [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23503].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.33

§ 12B.33 Exclusion and Exemption From Franchise or Income Tax

[1] Application for Exclusion

The Franchise Tax Board may determine that a corporation is not doing business in California for purposes of the franchise tax, or is not deriving income from sources within California for purposes of the income tax, if its only activities in California comprise either or both of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a); see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(a)- (c), (e)]:

- The presence of employees in California for the sole purpose of attending a public or private school, college, or university [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(2)].

- The purchase of personal property or services solely for its own use or use by its affiliate outside California if the following three conditions are satisfied:

  (1) The corporation does not have more than 100 employees in California, and their duties are limited to solicitation, negotiation, liaison, monitoring, auditing, and inspecting the personal property or services acquired, or providing technical advice with respect to its requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(A)].

  (2) The corporation does not have more than 200 employees in California, whose duties are limited to solicitation, negotiation, liaison, monitoring, auditing, and inspecting the personal property or services acquired, or providing technical advice with respect to its requirements, and the corporation or its affiliate uses the personal property or property for the construction or modification of a physical plant or facility located outside California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(B)].

  (3) The combined number of employees in California described in paragraphs (a) and (b) does not exceed 200 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(C)].

When the corporation is engaged in a unitary business, the limitation of 100 or 200 employees must be applied to the aggregation of all corporations in the unitary group [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(e)].

A corporation may petition the Franchise Tax Board, in accordance with procedures established by the Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b); see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d), (e), (g)] for such a determination [see § 12B.260 (form for petition)]. If a corporation submits a petition, it is deemed to have waived the confidentiality provisions as to the facts alleged in the petition and any additional evidence produced concerning those facts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19543; see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(h)]. The confidentiality provisions prohibit agents of the Franchise Tax Board from divulging income information set forth on a taxpayer's returns or other filed documents [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19542].

Exclusions are granted for a period of five years, as long as the corporation continues to meet the requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(c)]. A new petition may be filed when the exemption expires. During the period of an exclusion, the corporation's records are subject to audit to the same extent as are the records of any other corporation doing business or deriving income from sources in California [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(g)].

There are related annual reporting requirements for the corporation after it has obtained an FTB determination [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(d)] and for any taxpayer that sells property or services to a corporation that has obtained an FTB determination [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(f)].

[2] Exempt Corporations

Certain nonprofit corporations are exempt from both the franchise and income tax on the filing and approval of an application for exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701]. A corporation (other than a bank, financial corporation, association, or business trust) entitled to this exemption that has income that otherwise would be subject to the franchise tax must file a return reporting that income and must pay a tax on its unrelated business taxable income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23771; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23731, 23732 (definition)].

In addition, most exempt corporations must file an annual information return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772] or an annual statement [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23774]. Failure to (1) file an information return or a statement, or (2) pay any amounts due as a result of the disallowance of an exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703] or as a filing fee for or penalty for failure to file an information return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(a)(3), (c)(1)] will subject the corporation to forfeiture of its corporate powers, rights, and privileges [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23775; see § 12B.31[3]].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.34

§ 12B.34 Alternative Minimum Tax

In addition to any other taxes imposed by the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.], California imposes an alternative minimum tax on most corporations [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23400 et seq.]. This tax is determined, with a few exceptions, pursuant to the alternative minimum tax provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23400(b); see I.R.C. §§ 55-59]. The purpose of the alternative minimum tax is to ensure that no taxpayer with substantial economic income can avoid significant tax liability by using exclusions, deductions, and credits [see S. Rep. No. 99-313 (Pub. L. No. 99-514), at 518]. It accomplishes this by imposing a tax on the excess of the tentative minimum tax [see I.R.C. §§ 55-59] over the regular state tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23400(a), 23455, 23456], in addition to the regular tax.

Corporations subject to the alternative minimum tax include those subject to the franchise tax other than banks and financial corporations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23455(a)(1); see § 12B.31], those subject to the corporation income tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23455(a)(2); see § 12B.32], exempt organizations subject to the tax on unrelated business income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23455(a)(3); see § 12B.3[2]], and banks and financial corporations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23455(a)(4), (5)].

The alternative tax is calculated in the following manner [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23400-23459; see I.R.C. §§ 53-59]. The "alternative minimum taxable income" [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23455(b); I.R.C. § 55] is computed as the net income, minus various adjustments [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23456, 23456.5 (modifications to I.R.C. § 56); I.R.C. § 56], plus various items of tax preference [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23457 (modifications to I.R.C. § 57); I.R.C. § 57].

The "tentative minimum tax" [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23455(a); I.R.C. § 55] is computed by subtracting from the alternative minimum taxable income the exemption amount multiplied by the applicable tax rate. The "exemption amount" is $40,000 [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23400(a); I.R.C. § 55(d)(2)]. The applicable tax rate is generally 6.65 percent, although it is augmented for banks and financial corporations [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23400, 23455(a), (d); I.R.C. § 55].

The alternative minimum tax equals the excess of the tentative minimum tax over the regular tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23400-23459; see I.R.C. §§ 53-59]. The "regular tax" is the corporation's liability for, as applicable, the California franchise tax, the California corporation income tax, and the tax on unrelated business income, determined before reduction by any credits against the tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23051.5(a), 23455(c); I.R.C. § 55(c)].

The franchise tax rules for corporations that commence, reorganize, resume, have their rights forfeited, or withdraw from doing business in California [see § 12B.31] apply to the alternative minimum tax, except that the alternative minimum tax need not be prepaid [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23455(b)(2)].

For information on the alternative minimum tax in the context of equipment leasing, see Ch. 53, Personal Property Leasing .

B. Preliminary Determinations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.110

§ 12B.110 General Determinations for Foreign Corporations in California

1. Ascertain whether corporation is foreign corporation under California law:

a. Determine whether corporation incorporated under laws of any jurisdiction other than California.

NOTE:
A corporation formed under the laws of California is a "domestic corporation" [Corp. Code § 167]. Any other corporation, except a federal corporation in certain situations [see P b, below], is a "foreign corporation" [Corp. Code § 171].

b. Determine whether corporation is federal corporation.

NOTE:
A corporation chartered under federal law is a "foreign corporation" in California except with respect to laws governing the transaction of intrastate business [Corp. Code § 171; see Corp. Code §§ 2100-2117].

c. Determine whether corporation is nonprofit corporation.

NOTE:
The provisions of the General Corporation Law governing foreign corporations apply to foreign nonprofit corporations, except for provisions that expressly exclude nonprofit corporations [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 2115], and except as to matters otherwise provided for in the Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 6910; see Corp. Code §§ 5000-10841]. For further information, see § 12B.10[2][c].

d. Determine whether corporation is business association organized as trust under laws of foreign jurisdiction.

NOTE:

These foreign associations are considered foreign corporations for purposes of the provisions governing foreign corporations, except when otherwise provided [Corp. Code §§ 170, 171; see Corp. Code §§ 191, 201, 2100-2117, 2203, 2258, 2259].

2. Determine whether corporation is one of following organizations deemed to be foreign lending institution under California law [Corp. Code § 191(d)]:

NOTE:

Foreign lending institutions [see Corp. Code § 191(d)] in California are subject to some different requirements than other foreign corporations [see §§ 12B.111 P 1, 12B.122]. Additionally, foreign lending institutions are permitted to carry on certain transactions without obtaining a certificate of qualification [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 191(d); see also §§ 12B.11[1][b][ii], 12B.122].

a. Foreign banking corporation.

b. Foreign corporation whose capital stock is all owned by one or more foreign banking corporations.

c. Foreign savings and loan association.

d. Foreign insurance company.

e. Foreign corporation or association authorized by charter to invest in loans secured by real and personal property.

3. Determine whether corporation is bank or financial corporation.

NOTE:

A financial corporation is a corporation that predominantly deals in money or moneyed capital in substantial competition with the business of national banks, except that the term "financial corporation" does not include any corporation whose principal business activity consists of leasing tangible personal property [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23183(a); see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23183(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23183(b)]. Banks and financial corporations are subject to special rules concerning taxation. For more information, see § 12B.31[1][a], [5][b].

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.111

§ 12B.111 Determinations Regarding California Filing Requirements

1. Determine whether corporation is required to obtain certificate of qualification from Secretary of State before carrying on its activities in California:

NOTE:
To qualify, the corporation must file a statement and designation and certificate of good standing and pay a filing fee [see Corp. Code § 2105; see also § 12B.120].

a. Ascertain if foreign corporation or association is chartered under federal law.

NOTE:
Federal corporations are not required to qualify in California [see Corp. Code § 171].

b. Ascertain if corporation will transact intrastate business in California.

NOTE:
Qualification is a prerequisite to the transaction of intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 2105]. A foreign corporation "transacts intrastate business" in California if it enters into repeated and successive transactions of its business in California, other than interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 191(a)]. Failure to obtain qualification before transacting intrastate business will result in various penalties [see § 12B.13[2]].

A foreign corporation is not considered to be transacting intrastate business merely because its subsidiary does so [Corp. Code § 191(b)]. Further, a foreign corporation is not considered to be transacting intrastate business merely because of its status as a shareholder of a domestic corporation or foreign corporation transacting intrastate business, as a limited partner of a domestic limited partnership or foreign limited partnership transacting intrastate business, or as a member or manager of a domestic limited liability company or a foreign limited liability company transacting intrastate business [Corp. Code § 191(b)]. The transaction of purely interstate business does not require qualification [see Corp. Code § 2105; Atlantic Refining Co. v. Virginia (1937) 302 U.S. 22, 26, 58 S. Ct. 75, 82 L. Ed. 24 ; see also § 12B.20[2]].

c. Ascertain whether activities of corporation in California consist solely of one or more of the following:

NOTE:

A foreign corporation will not be considered to be transacting intrastate business solely because it carries on the following activities [Corp. Code § 191(c); see § 12B.11[1][b]]. However, this list does not include all possible activities that do not constitute the transaction of intrastate business [see Corp. Code § 191(c); see e.g., United Systems of Arkansas, Inc. v. Stamison (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1001, 1007, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407 (simply submitting bid in response to request for quotation by DMV held not to be "transacting intrastate business"; out-of-state bidder could maintain suit challenging award of contract to another bidder without obtaining certificate of qualification from Secretary of State)].

(1) Maintaining or defending any action, suit, or administrative or arbitration proceeding, or settling any such proceeding or other claim or dispute.

(2) Carrying on internal affairs, including holding meetings of its board or shareholders.

(3) Maintaining bank accounts.

(4) Maintaining offices or agencies for transfer, exchange, and registration of its securities or depositaries.

(5) Effecting sales through independent contractors.

(6) Soliciting or procuring orders that require acceptance outside of California.

(7) Creating evidences of debt, mortgages, liens, or security interests on real or personal property.

(8) Conducting isolated transaction that:

(a) Is completed within period of 180 days; and

(b) Is not in course of repeated transactions of like nature.

d. If corporation is foreign lending institution [see § 12B.110, P 2], ascertain whether its actions in California consist solely of one or more of following:

NOTE:

A foreign lending institution is not considered to be transacting intrastate business solely because it engages in any of the following activities, whether (1) on its own behalf, (2) as a trustee of a pension plan, employee profit-sharing or retirement plan, testamentary or inter vivos trust, or (3) in any other fiduciary capacity [Corp. Code § 191(d)]. However, this list does not include all possible activities that do not constitute transacting intrastate business [see Corp. Code § 191(d)*].

A foreign lending institution will not be required to qualify, or be subject to any provisions of the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.*] or the Corporations, Financial, or Insurance Codes relating to the transaction of intrastate business solely by engaging in one or more of the following activities [Corp. Code § 2104; see Corp. Code § 191(d)*]. However, such an institution will be deemed to have appointed the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 2104].

(1) Acquiring loans, or any interest in loans, through activities carried on outside California by:

(a) Purchase.

(b) Contract to purchase.

(c) Advance commitments to purchase.

(d) Assignment of loans.

(2) Making physical inspection and appraisals of real or personal property securing or proposed to secure any loan, by officer or employee who:

(a) Is not California resident; and

(b) Does not maintain place of business in California for purposes of inspections and appraisals.

(3) Owning and enforcing loans.

(4) Altering loan arrangements through following activities carried on by institution from outside California:

(a) Modification.

(b) Renewal.

(c) Extension.

(d) Transfer or sale.

(e) Acceptance of additional or substitute security.

(f) Full or partial release of security.

(g) Acceptance of substitute or additional obligors.

(5) Contractually engaging qualified corporation, firm, or association to:

NOTE:

The entity engaged cannot be a subsidiary or parent of the lending institution, or under common management with the lending institution [Corp. Code § 191(d)(5)].

(a) Make collections.

(b) Service loans in any manner.

(c) Pay ground rents, taxes, assessments, or insurance.

(d) Make physical inspections and appraisals of real or personal property securing or proposed to secure any loans on behalf of institution.

(6) Acquiring and retaining (pending disposition) title to real or personal property covered by mortgage, deed of trust, or other security instrument:

(a) By trustee's sale, judicial sale, foreclosure, or deed in lieu of foreclosure.

(b) For purpose of transferring title to any federal agency or instrumentality as insurer or guarantor of loan.

(7) Engaging in activities necessary or appropriate to carry out any of foregoing activities.

2. If corporation is other than foreign association [see Corp. Code § 170], determine whether corporation should register or reserve its name with Secretary of State [see § 12B.121]:

NOTE:

The name registration procedures do not apply to foreign associations [Corp. Code § 2101(a)].

Name reservation, as opposed to registration, will reserve a corporation's name for 60 days only on a non-renewable basis [see Corp. Code § 201(c)]. Therefore, this procedure is used primarily in advance of registration or qualification [see §§ 12B.120, 12B.121].

a. Ascertain whether corporation intends to transact intrastate business in California, but not in immediate future.

NOTE:

Registration of a foreign corporation's name prevents any other corporation from incorporating or qualifying under that name through the end of the calendar year, or subsequent years for which the registration is renewed [see Corp. Code §§ 201(b), 2101(b)*].

b. Ascertain that corporation is not transacting intrastate business in California [see P 1, above; see also § 12B.11[1][b]].

NOTE:

Name registration procedures apply only to corporations that do not transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2101]. The names of foreign corporations that qualify in California are already protected to the same extent as those of domestic corporations [see Corp. Code § 201(b)].

c. Ascertain whether corporation's name would be available to new corporation under General Corporation Law [see §§ 12B.11[2][b], 12B.120, PP 3, 4].

NOTE:

A foreign corporation can register a corporate name only if the name would be available to a new corporation [Corp. Code § 2101(a); see Corp. Code § 201].

3. If corporation is foreign lending institution [see § 12B.110, P 2], determine whether it is required to file annual statement of address for service of process with Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2104; see § 12B.122]:

a. Ascertain whether institution is qualified to transact intrastate business in California [see §§ 12B.11[2], 12B.120].

NOTE:

Qualified foreign lending institutions are not required to file this statement [Corp. Code § 2104]. Qualified foreign corporations must follow specific procedures regarding an agent for service of process [see §§ 12B.120 P 7, 12B.132].

b. Ascertain whether institution will engage in any of specified activities that do not require qualification in California [see P 1d, above].

NOTE:

A foreign lending institution that engages in certain activities [see Corp. Code § 191(d); see also P 1d, above] is deemed to have appointed the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process, and must notify the Secretary of its address for receipt of process [Corp. Code § 2104].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.112

§ 12B.112 Determinations Regarding Filing Requirements in Other States

NOTE:

To advise California corporations intending to transact business in other states, it is essential to consult the other state's business and corporations statutes. Although many statutes are based on the Model Business Corporation Act or the revised Act, state requirements can, and often do, vary widely.

1. Determine whether level of corporate activity proposed to be undertaken in other state would render corporation subject to jurisdiction by other state.

NOTE:

Whether a corporation's activities are sufficient to subject it to the other state's jurisdiction depends on whether the corporation's activities supply the necessary "minimum contacts" and whether the exercise of jurisdiction offends traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316-319, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; see McGee v. International Life Ins. Co., 355 U.S. 220, 222-224, 78 S. Ct. 199, 2 L. Ed. 2d 223 (1957) .] For further information, see §§ 12B.15 and 12B.20.

2. Determine whether level of corporate activity proposed to be undertaken in other state would render corporation subject to taxation by other state.

NOTE:

A state's power to tax a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce generally depends on whether the corporation's activities create a sufficient "nexus" between the tax and the transactions within the state, and on whether the state's tax is non-discriminatory and properly apportioned to local activities within the state [Northwestern States

Portland Cement Co. v. Minnesota, 358 U.S. 450, 452, 464-465, 79 S. Ct. 357 (1959)] However, states are prohibited by from taxing a foreign taxpayer's income from interstate commerce if the only business activities of the taxpayer within the state consist of solicitation, by or for the taxpayer, of orders for tangible personal property [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 381-384; see also § 12B.20[2][c]].

3. Determine whether level of corporate activity proposed to be undertaken in other state would render corporation subject to other state's qualification requirement:

NOTE:

States require different levels of activity to subject a corporation to their qualification requirement. The greater the level of corporate activity, the more likely that qualification will be required. Most statutes provide a list of activities that do not require qualification [see § 12B.20][3]]. To determine whether qualification would be required because of a particular activity, it is necessary to consult the case law of the jurisdiction.

If a corporation will be transacting purely interstate business, it need not qualify [see Atlantic Refining Co. v. Virginia (1937) 302 U.S. 22, 26, 58 S. Ct. 75, 82 L. Ed. 24 ; see also § 12B.20[2]].

a. Ascertain whether corporation is considered foreign corporation under other state's statute.

NOTE:

A corporation that is not organized under the laws of the other state is not always considered a foreign corporation. For example, in California, corporations chartered under federal law, foreign associations, and foreign nonprofit corporations are not always subject to the same regulations as other foreign corporations [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 171, 2115, 6910].

b. Ascertain whether corporation's proposed activities in other state are permitted without qualification [see P 1, above].

c. If corporation is lending institution, ascertain whether other state's statutes permit foreign corporations to lend money without qualifying.

NOTE:

In addition to listing activities of general corporations that do not require qualification, many statutes permit unqualified foreign corporations to lend money to residents [see, e.g., Kan. Stat. Ann. § 17-7305; Wash. Rev. Code Ann. §§ 23B.18.010-23B.18.030; Wis. Stat. Ann. § 180.801(2); see § 12B.20[3]].

4. Determine whether other state permits registration or other protection for corporate name in advance of qualifying [see § 12B.121].

5. If corporation does not need to qualify, determine whether other state requires any other kind of filing to transact business [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 2104; Md. Corps. & Ass'ns Code Ann. § 7-202 (unqualified foreign corporations must register before doing interstate business)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.113

§ 12B.113 Determinations Regarding Regulation of Internal Corporate Affairs

1. Determine whether corporation is required to comply with California laws applicable to nominally foreign corporations [see §§ 12B.14[1][e], 12B.136].

NOTE:

Nominally foreign corporations are corporations whose connections with California are sufficient to justify extensive regulation of their internal affairs, to the exclusion of the law of the jurisdiction in which they are incorporated [see Corp. Code § 2115; see also cautionary note in § 12B.14[1][a] regarding VantagePoint Venture Partners 1996 v. Examen, Inc. (Del. 2005) 871 A.2d 1108, 2005 Del. LEXIS 179 , a Delaware case in which Corp. Code § 2115 was found to be unconstitutional and inapplicable to a Delaware corporation].

a. Ascertain whether corporation is exempt from nominally foreign status as:

(1) Foreign association [see Corp. Code § 2115(a)].

(2) Foreign nonprofit corporation [see Corp. Code § 2115(a)].

(3) Foreign corporation with outstanding securities meeting one of following criteria [see Corp. Code § 2115(c); see Corp. Code § 25100(o)]:

(a) Listed on New York Stock Exchange;

(b) Listed on NYSE Amex;

(c) Listed on NASDAQ Global Market;

(d) Listed on NASDAQ Capital Market.

(4) Foreign corporation in which all voting shares (other than directors' qualifying shares) are owned directly or indirectly by any corporation or corporations not subject to provisions governing nominally foreign corporations [see Corp. Code § 2115(c)].

b. If corporation is parent, ascertain whether its subsidiary is transacting intrastate business in California.

NOTE:
Only corporations transacting intrastate business are subject to nominally foreign status [see Corp. Code § 2115(a); see also Corp. Code § 2100]. However, a foreign parent corporation may be nominally foreign, even though it does not itself transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2115(a)].

c. Determine whether average of following factors was more than 50 percent during corporation's latest full income year:

NOTE:
This test measures whether the foreign corporation does more than half of its business in California [see Corp. Code § 2115 (Legislative Committee Comment (1975)--Assembly)]. The following computation involves figures already generated for the corporation's franchise tax returns [see Corp. Code § 2115(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 25128].

If allocation of the foreign corporation's income is governed by a special formula, or if the corporation is not required to file separate tax returns or any tax returns, the corporation must use the factors that would have been used if it were governed by the following formula [Corp. Code § 2115(a)]. For further information, see § 12B.14[1][c]. For a complete discussion, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 22, Corporate Franchise and Income Taxes in California (Matthew Bender).

(1) Property factor, comprised of [Rev. & Tax. Code § 25129; see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1)]:

(a) Average value of taxpayer's real and tangible personal property owned or rented and used in California during taxable year, over

(b) Average value of all of taxpayer's real and tangible personal property owned or rented and used during taxable year.

(2) Payroll factor, comprised of [Rev. & Tax. Code § 25132; see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1)]:

(a) Total amount paid by taxpayer in California during taxable year for compensation, over

(b) Total compensation paid in all states during taxable year.

(3) Sales factor, comprised of [Rev. & Tax. Code § 25134; see Corp. Code § 2115(a)(1)]:

(a) Taxpayer's total sales in California during taxable year, over

(b) Taxpayer's total sales everywhere during taxable year.

NOTE:

If the corporation is a parent corporation, the determination of the factors described above will be made on a consolidated basis, including in a unitary computation (after elimination of intercompany transactions) the property, payroll, and sales of the parent and all of its subsidiaries in which it owns directly or indirectly more than 50 percent of the outstanding shares entitled to vote for the election of directors, but deducting a percentage of those factors of any subsidiary equal to the percentage minority ownership, if any, in that subsidiary [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2)].

d. Ascertain whether more than 50 percent of corporation's outstanding voting securities are held of record by persons with California addresses, as appearing on corporation's books on record date for latest meeting of shareholders held during its latest full income year or, if no meeting was held during that year, on last day of latest full income year [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2)].

NOTE:

Any securities held to the knowledge of the issuer in the names of broker-dealers, nominees for broker-dealers (including clearing corporations), banks, associations, or other entities holding securities on behalf of a beneficial owner will not be considered outstanding [Corp. Code § 2115(a)]. However, such shares may be considered outstanding if the nominee holder certifies the number of shares held for the beneficial owners both inside and outside California [Corp. Code § 2115(a)(2); see § 12B.14[1][c][ii]].

2. Determine whether corporation is required to comply with California laws applicable to resident foreign corporations [see Corp. Code § 2115(b); see also § 12B.137].

NOTE:

Even if a foreign corporation's contacts with California are less extensive than those maintained by a nominally foreign corporation [see P 1, above], in certain circumstances it must also comply with the shareholder and director inspection rights [see Corp. Code §§ 1501, 1600, 1602; see also § 12B.138], requirements normally applicable only to domestic corporations [see § 12B.14[2]].

a. Determine whether corporation is exempt from resident foreign corporation status.

NOTE:

For purposes of these requirements, the term "foreign corporation" does not include foreign associations [Corp. Code § 171; see Corp. Code §§ 1501(g), 1600(d), 1601(a), 1602].

b. Ascertain whether corporation will do either of following:

NOTE:

A corporation maintaining the following contacts with California must comply with the provisions regarding the right of shareholders to inspect and copy the shareholder list [see Corp. Code § 1600(d)], the requirement of an annual report [see Corp. Code § 1500(g)], and the directors' right to inspect records and physical properties [see Corp. Code § 1602; see also § 12B.138].

(1) Have its principal executive office in California.

(2) Customarily hold board meetings in California.

c. Ascertain whether corporation will do either of following:

NOTE:
A corporation maintaining the following contacts with California must allow its shareholders to inspect its accounting books, records, and minutes [Corp. Code § 1601(a); see Corp. Code §§ 1508, 1603; see also § 12B.138].

(1) Have its principal executive office in California.

(2) Keep its corporate accounting books, records, or minutes in California.

3. If California corporation is transacting or planning to transact business in other state, determine whether other state has provisions governing nominally or resident foreign corporations [see PP 1, 2, above].

B. Preliminary Determinations

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.114

§ 12B.114 Determinations Regarding State Taxation

1. If corporation is California corporation transacting or intending to transact business in other state, consult other state's tax laws to determine which taxes, if any, corporation will be subject to, based on level of business activity in other state.

NOTE:

A state may tax a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce if the corporation's activities create a sufficient "nexus" between the tax and the transactions within the state, and if the state's tax is non-discriminatory and properly apportioned to local activities within the state [Northwestern States Portland Cement Co. v. Minnesota, 358 U.S. 450, 452, 464-465, 79 S. Ct. 357 (1959) .] States are prohibited from taxing a foreign taxpayer's income that is derived from interstate commerce if the only business activities of the taxpayer within the state consist of solicitation, by or for the taxpayer, of orders for tangible personal property [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 381-384; see also Brown Group Retail, Inc. v. Franchise Tax Board (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 823, 838, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 202 (immunity not available when employees of independent retail distributor division in California went beyond mere solicitation); § 12B.20[2][c]].

2. If foreign corporation is doing or will do business in California, determine whether corporation is subject to California franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101]:

NOTE:

A foreign corporation subject to the state franchise tax must file an annual return and pay any amount due [see § 12B.130] unless it is eligible for exemption or exclusion from tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151; see P 4, below].

a. For taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011, ascertain whether corporation will "do business" in California by actively engaging in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit, including [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101]:

NOTE:
The term "doing business" is much broader than the term "transacting intrastate business"; it does not require that the corporation maintain a regular course of business or transactions [Hise v. McColgan (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 147, 151, 148 P.2d 616] . A corporation holding or organized to hold stock or bonds of other corporations that will engage in no activities other than receipt and disbursement of dividends or interest is not "doing business" [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23102].

(1) Buying or selling stocks or bonds.

(2) Endorsing notes of subsidiary corporation.

(3) Leasing real property to subsidiary corporations or to other tenants.

(4) Liquidating activities such as selling or renting property or collecting on notes.

b. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, ascertain whether corporation will "do business" in California because any of the following apply [Corp. Code § 23101(b)]:

(1) Taxpayer is organized or commercially domiciled in California.

(2) Sales [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25120(e),(f)] for taxable year in California exceed lesser of $500,000 or 25 percent of taxpayer's total sales.

(3) Real property and tangible personal property of taxpayer in California exceed lesser of $50,000 or 25 percent of taxpayer's total real property and tangible personal property.

(4) Amount paid in California by taxpayer for compensation [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 25120(c)] exceeds lesser of $50,000 or 25 percent of total compensation paid by the taxpayer.

c. Ascertain whether corporation will obtain certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business [see § 12B.111, P 1].

NOTE:
A foreign corporation is deemed to be "doing business" and is therefore subject to the franchise tax if it obtains a certificate of qualification, even if it does not actually transact intrastate business [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23151].

d. If corporation will not obtain certificate of qualification, ascertain if it will transact purely interstate business [see § 12B.20[2][a]].

NOTE:
A foreign corporation engaging entirely in interstate commerce is not subject to the franchise tax [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101]. For further discussion, see § 12B.20[2].

3. If foreign corporation is receiving or will receive income from California sources, determine whether corporation is required to pay California corporate income tax.

NOTE:
A corporation subject to the state corporate income tax must file an annual return and pay any amount of tax due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501; see §§ 12B.32, 12B.130] unless it is eligible for exemption or exclusion from tax [see P 4, below].

a. Ascertain whether corporation is not subject to corporate income tax on either of following bases:

(1) Corporation is subject to franchise tax.

NOTE:
The corporate income tax applies to corporations other than banks on net income derived from sources in California other than income subject to the franchise taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23181 et seq. (banks and financial corporations subject to franchise tax)].

(2) Corporation's income in interstate commerce derives from business activities in California consisting only of soliciting orders for tangible personal property to be filled from inventories maintained outside California [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 381-384; see also § 12B.32].

b. Ascertain whether corporation will derive income from sources in California, including following:

NOTE:
All corporate income, other than that subject to the franchise tax and that of banks, that is derived from sources within California, whether in intrastate, interstate, or foreign commerce, is subject to income taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501(a); 18 Cal. Code Reg. 23040(a)].

(1) Rents and gains from sale of real or tangible personal property located in California, regardless of where transaction is consummated.

(2) Ownership, control, or management of real or personal property located in California.

(3) Business or activities carried on in California.

(4) Stocks, bonds, notes, bank deposits, and other intangible personal property with business situs in California.

(5) Portion of income derived from business carried on between California and other states that is attributable to California sources.

4. Determine whether foreign corporation is eligible for exemption or exclusion from California franchise or income tax on one of following bases:

a. Corporation is nonprofit organization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq].

NOTE:

Certain nonprofit organizations are exempt from both the franchise and income tax. However, the organization must apply for exempt status [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(a)]. For further information, see § 12B.33[2]. For a detailed discussion of exemption, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

b. Corporation's activities are limited to one or both of following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5]:

Code § 23101.5(a)*; see 18 Cal. Code Reg. 23101.5(a)- (c), (e); see also §§ 12B.130, P 3, 12B.260 (petition)].

(1) Presence of employees in California for sole purpose of attending public or private school, college, or university [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(2)].

(2) Purchase of personal property or services solely for its own use or use by its affiliate outside California if following three conditions are satisfied:

(b) Corporation does not have more than 200 employees in California, whose duties are limited to solicitation, negotiation, liaison, monitoring, auditing, and inspecting the personal property or services acquired, or providing technical advice with respect to its requirements, and corporation or its affiliate uses the personal property or property for construction or modification of physical plant or facility located outside California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(B)].

(c) Combined number of employees in California described in paragraphs (a) and (b) does not exceed 200 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(C)].

§ 12B.120 Qualification to Transact Intrastate Business in California

NOTE:

The following procedures apply only to those foreign corporations that "transact intrastate business" in California [see Corp. Code § 191* (definition); see also § 12B.111*, P 1]. When a corporation has met all of the applicable requirements, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate of qualification [see Corp. Code § 2106(a)]. A corporation that transacts intrastate business without first obtaining qualification is subject to monetary and other penalties [see § 12B.13[2]].

For procedures governing qualification in other states, consult the other state's statutes and the secretary of state's office.

1. Instruct corporation's board of directors to adopt resolution that does following [see § 12B.200]:

NOTE:

The form and manner of adoption of the resolution are governed by the laws of the jurisdiction in which the corporation was incorporated.

a. Authorizes qualification of corporation to transact intrastate business in California.

b. Selects agent for service of process who meets following requirements [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 1505, 2105(c)]:

(1) Natural person residing in California; or

(2) Corporation that meets all of following criteria:

(a) Is currently authorized to engage in business in California;

(b) Is in good standing on records of Secretary of State; and

(c) Has filed certificate of consent [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 1505, 2105(c)].

NOTE:
A corporation cannot be named as agent for service of process for itself.

On designation of the agent, the corporation should give the agent written instructions regarding the transmittal of any process received [see § 12B.205*].

c. Submits several assumed names under which corporation could do business in California if actual name is unavailable [see P 6, below].

2. If corporation is foreign insurer [see Ins. Code §§ 23, 27]:

a. File and maintain designation of agent for service of process in office of Insurance Commissioner [Corp. Code § 2103; see Ins. Code §§ 1600-1605].

b. Obtain certificate from Insurance Commissioner approving use of name under which it proposes to transact business in California [Corp. Code § 2103; see Ins. Code § 881].

NOTE:
The Secretary of State will not file any statement and designation [see P 7, below] of an insurer subject to the Insurance Code unless a certificate of the Insurance Commissioner approving the corporate name is attached [Corp. Code § 2106.5; see Ins. Code §§ 800-886*]. The provisions regarding a foreign corporation's name [see P 3, below] do not apply to a foreign insurer unless it has first obtained that certificate [Corp. Code § 2106(b)].

3. Verify with Secretary of State that corporation's name is [see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also Corp. Code § 201(b)]:

NOTE:
Preliminary inquiries may be made in writing or by telephone. Written requests for the availability of up to three names, in order of preference, should be sent to Secretary of State, Business Filings, 1500 11th Street, Sacramento, CA 95814, Attention: Name Availability Unit [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_naav2.htm]. A request will typically be processed in two to four working days after the date of receipt.

A telephone request, may be made to the Secretary of State's Name Availability Unit, provided that the client has established a prepaid priority account. Special fees apply [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21903*].

a. Not likely to mislead public.

b. Not same as, or resembling so closely as to tend to deceive:

(1) Name of domestic corporation.

(2) Name of foreign corporation that:

(a) Is authorized to transact intrastate business; or

(b) Has registered its name with Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2101].

(3) Name that foreign corporation has assumed [see Corp. Code § 2106(b)].

(4) Name that will become record name of domestic or foreign corporation on effective date of filed corporate instrument [see Corp. Code §§ 110(c), 5008(c)].

(5) Name under reservation for another corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 201, 5122, 7122, 9122].

NOTE:

If the proposed name is substantially the same as that of an existing domestic corporation, an authorized foreign corporation, or a foreign corporation that has registered its name [see Corp. Code § 2101; see also § 12B.121], the name may be available for use if the other corporation consents [see P 5, below].

4. If selected name does not conflict with any other corporate name on file with Secretary of State [see P 3, above]:

a. Reserve proposed name with Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 201(c)]:

NOTE:

Because a name reservation is effective for only 60 days, it should be timed so that the statement and designation [see P 7, below] will be filed within 60 days after the reservation [see Corp. Code § 201(c)]. For a detailed checklist of procedures for name reservation, see Ch. 2, Preincorporation Planning .

NOTE:

Reservations by mail should be sent to Secretary of State Business Filings, 1500 11th Street, Sacramento, CA 95814, Attention: Name Availability Unit [see instructions for Name Reservation Request Form on Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/naavreservform.pdf].

b. Pay filing fee [Gov. Code § 12186(a)].

NOTE:

There is a fee for each name to be reserved by mail. There is an additional special handling fee for each name to be reserved over the counter [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21903(b)(3)].

5. If name is substantially same as name of domestic corporation or foreign corporation that has qualified or registered its name, and consent to name's use has been obtained from other corporation [see Corp. Code § 201(b); see also Corp. Code § 2106(b)]:

a. File proof of consent by other corporation.

b. Obtain finding by Secretary of State that under circumstances public is not likely to be misled.

6. If name conflicts with name of any other corporation on file with Secretary of State [see P 3, above], and other corporation does not consent to name's use, either [see Corp. Code § 2106(b)]:

a. Obtain and file order from court of competent jurisdiction permanently enjoining corporation with conflicting name from doing business in California under that name [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions (Matthew Bender)]; or

(1) Select assumed name under which corporation will do business by:
(a) Adding distinguishing word or words acceptable to Secretary of State to actual corporate name; or

NOTE:
This agreement is set forth in the statement and designation [see § 12B.201[2]].

(a) Transact business in California under assumed name disclosed to Secretary of State; and

(b) Use assumed name in all its dealings with Secretary of State and in conduct of its affairs in California.

NOTE:
A corporation that makes such an agreement with the Secretary of State may do business in California only under the agreed name as long as the agreement is in effect [Corp. Code § 2106(b)(2)].

If the foreign corporation uses a name that differs from the name stated in its filed articles, and regularly transacts business for profit in California under that name, it must also file a fictitious name statement within 40 days from the time it begins transacting business [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900(b)(3), 17910 see Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business].

a. If desired, submit statement and designation form for preclearance as follows [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(c)]:

NOTE:

The statement and designation form may be precleared for filing with the Secretary of State [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(a)(3)]. "Preclearance" is a written determination by the Secretary of State that an eligible document submitted for review prior to an intended filing date, conforms to law within the meaning of the applicable sections of the code under which it is intended to be filed, and will be filed when the eligible document is submitted for filing, if all the applicable requirements are satisfied [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(a)(5)]. Preclearance is an optional procedure.

A precleared document may be submitted to the Secretary of State for filing through the usual filing process [see PP b-e, below], the special handling provisions [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21903], or the expedited filing provisions [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21905; see also P f, below]. To submit a precleared document for filing with the Secretary of State, the person seeking filing must submit (1) the completed document, containing the required signatures; (2) two copies of the document; (3) a copy the preclearance response; (4) the requisite filing fee; and (5) the requisite special handling fee or expedited filing fee, if applicable. The review of a document that has received a preclearance generally will be limited to the following determinations: (1) whether any changes have been made to the document since the preclearance was issued; (2) whether all designated blank spaces, if any, in the preclearance version have been completed and, if not, whether the failure to complete that information causes the document not to conform to law; and (3) whether the eligible document has been signed and, to the extent required by law, verified or acknowledged, in accordance with the applicable provisions related to its execution [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(d)(1)- (3)].

NOTE:
Filing fees are based on the class of service requested [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(c)(8)*].

(b) States preferred means of delivery of preclearance response [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(c)(9)].

These procedures apply only to foreign corporations (other than foreign associations) that plan to reserve their names in California without complying with qualification procedures [Corp. Code § 2101; see § 12B.111, P 2]. Registration does not protect against use of a corporate name; it merely prevents any other corporation from incorporating or qualifying under that name [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14415].

For procedures governing name registration in other states, consult the other state's statutes and the appropriate agency in the other state.

1. Check with Secretary of State's Name Availability Unity to ensure that corporation's name is available [see Corp. Code §§ 201, 2101(a); see also § 12B.120, P 3].

NOTE:

In addition to the limitations on the corporate name outlined in § 12B.120, P 3, a corporation registering its name must obtain written approval from the Superintendent of Banks for any name that includes the words "bank," "trust," "trustee," or related words [Corp. Code § 2101(a); see Corp. Code § 201(a)].

2. File application for registration [see Corp. Code § 2101(b)(1); see also § 12B.240].

NOTE:

A foreign name registration may be precleared for filing with the Secretary of State [2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21904(a)(3)]. For discussion of preclearance procedures, see § 12B.120, P 7a. Expedited filing services are also available [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21905; see also § 12B.120, P 7f].

3. Obtain and file original certificate of good standing [see § 12B.202 (request for certificate)] from state or place of incorporation [see Corp. Code § 2101(b); see also § 12B.120, P 7].

4. Pay filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(b)].

NOTE:

Registration is effective from the date of filing until the close of the calendar year in which the application is filed [Corp. Code § 2101(b)]. For the procedures required for renewal of registration, see § 12B.135.

§ 12B.130 Payment of California State Tax

NOTE:

This section discusses only the payment of California tax. Federal taxation of foreign corporations is beyond the scope of this chapter. For a summary of the federal income tax imposed on corporations, see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations . For discussion of the federal income taxation of nonprofit corporations, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

For state tax procedures for other states, consult the other state's tax statutes and tax boards.

1. If foreign corporation is subject to California franchise tax [see § 12B.114, P 2], advise corporation:

a. To file annual franchise tax return (Form FTB 100) [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23181, 23183].

NOTE:

The franchise tax is a percentage of the corporation's net income for the immediately preceding income year, subject to a stated annual minimum [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151(a), 23153(d); see § 12B.31[1][b]].

In general, every corporation that qualifies to do business in California on or after January 1, 2000, is not subject to the minimum franchise tax for its first taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(1)]. Further, corporations are no longer required to prepay the minimum tax [see former Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221(f), (g); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221 (effective January 1, 2001; credit unions subject to prepayment requirement)]. For coverage of tax procedures for the year in which a qualified corporation surrenders its right to transact business, see § 12B.135, PP 4, 5, and 7.

b. That failure to pay franchise tax or penalty assessment when due or failure to file franchise tax return may result in forfeiture of corporation's powers, rights, and privileges [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23301.6; see also § 12B.31[3]] and following additional penalties [see § 12B.31[3], [4]]:

NOTE:
During the period of forfeiture, a corporation may not sell, transfer, or exchange real property in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23302(d)].

(1) Contracts entered into in California during forfeiture may be voidable at option of other party [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(a); see also § 12B.31[4]].

(2) Transaction of business after forfeiture may lead to either or both of following [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19719(a)]:

NOTE:
The rule barring the transaction of business during suspension or forfeiture does not apply to an insurer (or counsel retained by an insurer) on behalf of a suspended corporation who (1) provides a defense for the corporation in a civil action based on a claim for personal injury, property damage, or economic losses against the suspended corporation and (2) prosecutes subrogation, contribution, or indemnity rights in the corporate name in connection with that defense [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19719(b)].

(a) Fine.

(b) Imprisonment.

NOTE:
If a corporation nevertheless transacts business during forfeiture, any income received or business transacted is subject to franchise taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23303].

(3) If corporation does business after forfeiture and fails to make and file tax return, Franchise Tax Board may impose annual penalty [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19135].

2. If corporation is subject to corporate income tax [see § 12B.114, P 3], advise corporation:

a. To file annual corporate income tax return (Form FTB 100) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501(a)].

NOTE:
The same form (Form FTB 100) is used for filing an income or franchise tax return. The corporate income tax is imposed on the corporation's net income from California sources for the preceding year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501].

b. That corporation may suffer forfeiture [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301] if it fails to pay any tax, penalty, or interest due or to file any tax returns required under Bank and Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a].

NOTE:
For further discussion, see P 1b, above, and § 12B.31[3], [4].

3. If corporation is nonprofit organization eligible for exempt status [see § 12B.114, P 4], file, or advise corporation to file, application for exemption from tax (Form FTB 3500) [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701].

NOTE:

The same form is used to file a petition for exemption from corporate income tax or franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701]. For an example and discussion of the application for exemption, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

If the nonprofit corporation transacts intrastate business in California, it may file an application for exemption on filing its statement and designation [see § 12B.120, P 7e(2)] to avoid the prepayment requirement for franchise taxes.

If the corporation thereafter has unrelated business income, it must file an annual return (Form FTB 109) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23771; see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

4. If corporation is eligible to apply for exemption from taxation [see § 12B.114, P 4], petition, or advise corporation to petition, Franchise Tax Board for determination of exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d); see § 12B.260].

NOTE:

The same form is used to apply for exemption from either franchise or corporate income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a); see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d), (f)]. Exemption from tax is granted for a period of five years, if the corporation continues to meet the requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(c)]. A new application may be filed when the exclusion expires [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)].

a. Submit, or have corporation submit, application to Franchise Tax Board, P.O. Box 1468, Sacramento, California 95807.

NOTE:

The application should be submitted as soon as the corporation contemplates having employees within California [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)]. The act of filing the petition is deemed to be a waiver of the confidentiality provisions as to facts alleged in the petition and any additional evidence produced with respect to those facts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 26451; see also § 12B.33[1]].

The granting of an exclusion is discretionary with the Franchise Tax Board, and no standards are provided regarding the exercise of that discretion. Favorable rulings are uncommon when the application is based on purchasing activities in California, and are unlikely when the corporation maintains a permanent office in California.

b. If exclusion is granted, file statement, or have corporation file statement, two months and 15 days after close of fiscal year that [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)]:

NOTE:

During the period of exclusion the corporation's records are subject to audit to the same extent as the records of any other corporation subject to the franchise or corporate income tax [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)].

(1) Affirms that facts relevant to granting of exclusion then in effect remain unchanged; or

(2) Explains changes that have occurred since preceding report was filed.

5. Advise corporation to pay alternative minimum tax, if any [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23400, 23453-23459].

NOTE:

The alternative minimum tax is the excess of the tentative minimum tax [see I.R.C. §§ 55-59*] over the regular state tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23400(a); I.R.C. § 55(a); see § 12B.34*].

6. If corporation owns property in California, advise corporation to pay state property taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 201].

7. If corporation engages in retail sales in California, advise corporation to pay sales tax on gross receipts from sale of tangible personal property sold at retail within state [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051].

§ 12B.131 Obtaining Relief From Forfeiture and Contract Voidability Penalties

1. If corporate powers have been forfeited for failure to pay franchise or corporation income tax, apply to Franchise Tax Board for certificate of revivor using one of following procedures:

NOTE:

The application may be made by any stockholder or creditor, a majority of the surviving trustees or directors of the corporation, an officer, or any other person with an interest in the relief from forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305]. The same application may be used by a corporation seeking relief from forfeiture for failure to file an annual statement [Corp. Code §§ 2205(d), 2206(a); see Corp. Code § 2117; see also § 12B.132].

Before a certificate of revivor can be issued, the Franchise Tax Board must obtain from the Secretary of State an endorsement on the application for reinstatement that the corporate name continues to meet the corporate name requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23305a, 23305c(c); see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also Boyer v. Jones (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 220, 221-222, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 824 (holding that under Corp. Code § 201(b) and Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a, name of suspended corporation may be reserved and adopted by another corporation during period of suspension, and affirming trial court's denial of suspended corporation's petition for writ of mandate seeking restoration of its name); § 12B.120, P 3].

Before the corporation can resume business, it must prepay the higher of the minimum franchise tax or the appropriate tax on the income from business done in the year preceding the year of revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23282(b)(1); see § 12B.31[3][c]].

On issuance of the certificate, the corporation is reinstated and its legal rights are revived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see, e.g., Rochin v. Pat Johnson Mfg. Co. (1998) 67 Cal.

App. 4th 1228, 1236-1237, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 719 (although manufacturer's corporate powers were suspended before personal injury action was brought against it and before subsequent action to vacate amended judgment, corporation was entitled to defend appeal from order sustaining its demurrer in second action because corporation's certificate of revivor became effective during pendency of appeal)].

a. Apply in writing to Franchise Tax Board for certificate of revivor (Form FTB 3557) [see § 12B.261 (application form)] and make, or have corporation make, following filings and payments [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305]:

(1) File all tax returns required to be filed.

(2) Pay all taxes due, including:

(a) Tax.

(b) Additions to tax.

(c) Deficiencies.

(d) Interest.

b. Apply in writing for determination from Franchise Tax Board that revivor will improve prospects for collection of full amount due [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305b].

NOTE:

A revivor on this basis may be limited as to time, may limit the functions the revived corporation can perform, or both. Forfeiture may occur again if the Franchise Tax Board determines that the prospects for collection of the full amount due have not been improved by the revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305b].

c. Apply in writing to Franchise Tax Board and have corporation secure debt by any of following [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]:

(1) Assumption of liability [see § 12B.263].

(2) Bond.

(3) Deposit.

(4) Any other acceptable security for tax liability.

NOTE:

Obtaining revivor by securing the debt does not constitute an admission of liability and does not relieve the corporation from liability for taxes, additions to tax, penalties, or interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. After securing the debt, the corporation has a reasonable time after the issuance of the certificate of revivor in which to file any necessary returns, notwithstanding the otherwise applicable requirement that the corporation file all necessary returns before the Franchise Tax Board will grant revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305].

2. If corporation has entered into contracts that may be voidable [see § 12B.31[4]], apply in writing to Franchise Tax Board for relief from voidability (Form FTB 2518) [see § 12B.262 (application form)] and ensure that corporation does all of following [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)]:

a. State in application period for which relief is requested in accordance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b).

NOTE:

Ordinarily, the period for which relief is requested begins on the date that one of the taxpayer's income years begin and ends on the date that relief is granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(1)(A)]. However, if an application for relief for voidability is filed for a period in which an application for revivor has been filed and a certificate of revivor has been issued, the period for which relief is requested begins on the date the taxpayer's powers, rights, and privileges had been suspended or forfeited and ends on the date relief is granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(2)(A)].

b. File any tax returns required.

c. Pay any tax, additions to tax, penalties, interest, and any other amounts owing to Franchise Tax Board.

d. Pay penalty imposed by Franchise Tax Board.

NOTE:

The Franchise Tax Board will assess a penalty for each day of the period for which relief from voidability is granted, not to exceed the total amount of the tax owed for the period for which relief was requested [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(1)(B)]. A daily penalty with a different maximum is specified if an application for relief is filed for a period in which an application for revivor has been filed and a certificate of revivor has been issued [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(2)(B)].

a. Complete entire form if:
(1) Corporation is filing statement for first time [see §§ 12B.210, 12B.211].

(2) Changes from last filed statement exist [see Corp. Code § 2117(e); see also § 12B.133]; or

(3) Changes, other than those affecting corporate name, from original filed statement and designation exist [see Corp. Code § 2107(d)].

b. Merely check appropriate box if there have been no changes in information contained in last filed statement [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(c), 2117(f)].

2. File annual statement with Secretary of State during either of following periods [see Corp. Code § 2117(f); see Corp. Code § 1502(d)]:

NOTE:
The Secretary of State will mail a notice for compliance to each corporation approximately three months before the close of the applicable filing period. The notice will state the due date for compliance and will be mailed to the last address of the corporation according to the for compliance Secretary of State's records. The failure of the corporation to receive the notice is not an excuse for failing to file the annual statement [Corp. Code §§ 1502(f), 2117(f)]. Copies of the form may be obtained from office of the Secretary of State.

(1) In calendar month in which original statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2105; see also § 12B.201] was filed; or

(2) During five calendar months immediately preceding month in which original statement and designation was filed.

3. Pay filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(h); see also Corp. Code § 2117(d)].

NOTE:

Foreign corporations must also pay a small "disclosure fee" when filing the statement and designation. One-half of this fee is used to further the development and maintenance of the online database permitting on-line inspection of annual statements and one-half is deposited into the Victims of Corporate Fraud Compensation Fund [Corp. Code § 2117(d); see Corp. Code § 1502.5]. There is a fee for furnishing a copy of the statement [see Gov. Code § 12182].

4. If foreign corporation is publicly traded, complete and file corporate disclosure statement annually within 150 days after end of fiscal year on prescribed form [Corp. Code § 2117.1(a); see § 12B.211].

NOTE:

The foreign corporation must certify that the information provided in this form is true and correct. No claim may be made against the state for inaccurate information contained in corporate disclosure statements [Corp. Code § 2117.1(d)]. There is no fee for filing this form [Gov. Code § 12186(j)].

5. Advise corporation that failure to file may result in monetary penalties or, under some circumstances, forfeiture of corporate powers, rights, and privileges in California [see Corp. Code §§ 2204, 2205(a), 2206(a); see § 12B.11[3][a][ii]].

§ 12B.133 Amending Filed Statements

NOTE:
To correct a mere error in the names or addresses of the initial agent for service of process or of the first directors, the corporation should file a certificate of correction [see Corp. Code § 109]. For further discussion and a certificate of correction, see Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles **.

1. If qualified foreign corporation (other than foreign association) changes name or assumed name set forth in statement and designation [see § 12B.120, P 7], file amended statement and designation by foreign corporation [see Corp. Code § 2107(a); see also § 12B.220]:

NOTE:
The Secretary of State will issue a new certificate of qualification when a foreign corporation files an amended statement and designation [Corp. Code § 2107(a)]. For procedures for foreign associations seeking to amend their statements, see Paragraph 4, below.

a. Complete form prescribed by Secretary of State [see § 12B.220], including:
(1) Name relinquished.

(2) New name assumed.

NOTE:
A corporation cannot file an amended statement containing a name that would not be available to a new domestic corporation organized under the General Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see § 12B.120, P 3].

(3) If change includes change of name of insurer subject to Insurance Code, statement that corporation is insurer [see Corp. Code § 2107(c)].

b. Attach certificate of authorized public official of corporation's state or place of incorporation that change of name was made in accordance with laws of that state or place [see § 12B.221 (request for certificate)].

c. Pay filing fee [Gov. Code § 12186(p)].

NOTE:

The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies without charge when the copies are submitted along with the original [Gov. Code § 12185].

2. If qualified foreign corporation (other than foreign association) changes any of following information set forth in statement and designation [see § 12B.120, P 3], file statement of information by foreign corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 2107(d), 2117; see also §§ 12B.132, 12B.210]:

NOTE:

The annual statement of information may be used to change information contained in the original statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2107(d)]. There is a fee for filing and a fee for furnishing a copy of the statement [see Gov. Code § 12186(h) see also Corp. Code § 2117(d) (additional "disclosure fee")].

a. Address of principal office in California.

b. Address of principal executive office.

c. Agent for service of process.

d. Stated address of any natural person designated as agent for service of process.

3. If foreign corporation (other than foreign association) changes any information set forth in annual statement of information by foreign corporation [see § 12B.210]:

a. File new statement of information by foreign corporation [see Corp. Code § 2117(c); see also § 12B.210].

NOTE:

If the changed information concerns the names and addresses of the corporation's officers, the address of its principal executive office or principal business office, or the general type of corporate business, filing a current statement is optional. However, to change its agent for service of process or the agent's address, the corporation must file a current statement containing all of the information required in the annual statement of information. Filing an annual statement of information supersedes any previously filed statement and the original statement and designation [Corp. Code §§ 1502(e), 2117(f); see Corp. Code §§ 2105, 2117; see also § 12B.210].

b. Pay filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(e), (f); see also Corp. Code § 2117(d) (additional "disclosure fee")].

4. If qualified foreign association changes any information set forth in statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2105(a); see § 12B.203]:

a. File amended statement and designation on form prescribed by Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 2107(b); see also § 12B.222].

b. If name is changed, include both of following [see Corp. Code § 2107(b)]:

(1) Both name relinquished and new name assumed.

(2) Officers' certificate, annexed to amended statement and designation, stating that change of name was made in accordance with association's declaration of trust.

NOTE:
Unlike the procedure required for foreign corporations [see PP 1, 2, above], the same form is used to indicate changes in a foreign association's name as well as changes in the address of its principal office in California, the address of its principal executive office, its agent for service of process, and the stated address of any natural person designated as its agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 2107(b)].

If the change includes a change of name or a change affecting an assumed name, the Secretary of State will issue a new certificate of qualification on the filing of the amended statement [Corp. Code § 2107(b)].

c. Pay filing fee [Gov. Code § 12191(a)(2)].

NOTE:
The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies without charge when the copies are submitted along with the original [Gov. Code § 12185].

§ 12B.134 Surrendering Right to Transact Intrastate Business

NOTE:

These procedures apply only to qualified foreign corporations that wish to terminate their right to transact intrastate business in California. A qualified foreign corporation that merely ceases to transact intrastate business will remain liable for state taxes until it either dissolves in its state of incorporation or follows California surrender procedures [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23151; see § 12B.31[5]].

1. If corporation is not surrendering pursuant to merger [see PP 2, 3, below], file certificate of surrender [see Corp. Code § 2112; see also §§ 12B.12[2][a], 12B.230, 12B.232].

NOTE:

There is no fee for filing the certificate of surrender [see Gov. Code §§ 12186(n) (corporation), 12191(a)(3)(association)].

The term "certificate of withdrawal" used in the statute [see Corp. Code § 2112(a)(4)] presumably refers to the certificate of surrender [see Corp. Code § 2114(b)].

2. If foreign corporation "disappears" in merger [see Corp. Code § 165] with another foreign corporation, file certificate of surrender signed by either of following [see Corp. Code § 2113(b); see also P 1, above]:

a. Officer of disappearing corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 2112(a), 2113(b)].

b. Officer of surviving corporation in name of surviving corporation [see Corp. Code § 2113(c)].

NOTE:
If the certificate is signed in the name of the surviving corporation by one of its officers, it must be accompanied by a certificate of an authorized public official of the state or place of incorporation of the merged foreign corporation stating that it has been merged into another foreign corporation and setting forth the name and state or place of incorporation of the surviving foreign corporation [Corp. Code § 2113(c); see § 12B.234 (request for certificate)].

3. If foreign corporation disappears in merger involving domestic corporation [see Corp. Code § 2113; see also Corp. Code § 165]:

NOTE:
A foreign corporation will automatically surrender its right to transact intrastate business by filing the following merger documents, and need not file a certificate of surrender [Corp. Code § 2113(a); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 18, Foreign Corporations (Matthew Bender)]. Alternatively, the corporation may file a certificate of surrender [see P 1, above]. For a detailed discussion of mergers, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

a. When merger involves surviving domestic corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 190, 1103], file either of following documents with Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 1108(c)]:

(1) Merger agreement and officers' certificate [see Corp. Code § 1103].

(2) Certificate of ownership.

NOTE:
In the case of a foreign nonprofit or mutual benefit corporation, the officers' certificate of each constituent corporation also must be filed [Corp. Code §§ 6018(c), 8018(c); see Corp. Code §§ 6014, 8014].

b. When merger involves disappearing domestic corporation and other surviving foreign corporation, file with Secretary of State copy or executed counterpart of any of following filed by surviving corporation in state or place of incorporation to effect merger [see Corp. Code § 2113(a); see also Corp. Code § 1108(d)]:

(1) Merger agreement.

(2) Certificate.

(3) Other merger document.

NOTE:
If a copy is filed, it must be certified by the public officer having custody of the original [Corp. Code § 1108(d)].

By filing the documents listed above, a foreign disappearing corporation automatically surrenders its right to transact business as of the date of filing in California regardless of the time of effectiveness as to a domestic disappearing corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 1103(d), 1108(e), 2113(a)].

c. When foreign subsidiary corporation is merged into domestic parent corporation, file certificate of ownership [see Corp. Code § 2113(a); see also Corp. Code § 1110(e)].

4. If qualified foreign corporation disappears as result of conversion and files organizational document containing statement of conversion, that filing constitutes surrender of foreign corporation's right to transact intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 2113(a); see Corp. Code §§ 15677.8 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010), 15911.08 (ULPA '08) (limited partnership), 16908 (general partnership), 17540.8 (limited liability company)].

5. If corporation has employees in California, within 10 days after surrendering right to transact intrastate business or "quitting business" [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(3), (b); see also Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(4) (definition of "quitting business")]:

a. File final return and report of employee wages with Employment Development Department [see Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution].

b. Pay any amount due.

6. File final franchise tax return (Form FTB 100) [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18601(c)].

NOTE:

Taxpayers required to file a short period return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 24634] must file the state return (1) by the same due date for the federal return that includes the net income of the taxpayer for that short period, or (2) within two months and 15 days after end of month in which the corporation files a certificate of surrender if no federal return need be filed that would include the net income for the short period [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18601(a), (c)].

The corporation is liable for franchise tax for its last taxable year based on its net income for the year in which it ceased doing business, unless that income has already been subject to tax. However, it will be liable for at least the $800 minimum tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151(a), 23153(d)].

For a list of federal and state tax procedures upon dissolution or withdrawal, see Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution .

7. Advise surrendering corporation that it is still subject to service of process for actions on liability or obligation incurred in California before surrender [see Corp. Code § 2114].

NOTE:

Process may be served on the corporation by delivery to the Secretary of State, or to the Secretary's assistant or deputy, without court order. The Secretary will mail a copy of process to the corporation's address as set forth in the certificate of surrender [see Corp. Code § 2114(b)].

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.136

§ 12B.136 Procedures for Nominally Foreign Corporations

NOTE:

A corporation is "nominally foreign" if more than on half of its outstanding voting securities are held by California residents and more than one half of its business is conducted in California [see Corp. Code § 2115(a); see also §§ 12B.14[1][c], 12B.113]. A nominally foreign corporation is required to comply with extensive California regulation of its internal affairs, to the exclusion of the law of the jurisdiction in which it is incorporated [Corp. Code § 2115; see § 12B.14[1][e]].

1. Advise corporation to begin compliance with California requirements for internal affairs [see P 2, below] within following time limits [see Corp. Code § 2115(d)]:

a. On first day of first income year of corporation beginning on or after 135th day of the income year immediately following the latest income year with respect to which the tests establishing nominally foreign status are met.

b. If nominal status is subject of litigation, on or after entry of final order by court of competent jurisdiction declaring that tests of nominally foreign status have been met.

2. Ensure that corporation complies with following California requirements [see Corp. Code § 2115(b)]:

a. Holds election of directors at annual shareholders' meeting [see Corp. Code § 301; see also P i, below].

NOTE:

For a discussion of the election of directors, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions **.

b. Permits removal without cause of any or all directors by vote of outstanding shares [see Corp. Code § 303].

NOTE:

There are several restrictions on the removal of directors without cause [see Corp. Code § 303; see also Corp. Code § 301.5 (directors in different classes serving different terms)]. Additionally, 10 percent of the shareholders of a nominally foreign corporation may petition the proper court for removal of directors for misconduct [Corp. Code § 304]. For further information, see § 12B.14[1][e][iii]. For a detailed discussion of both types of removal, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 5, Management: Functions of Directors, Officers, and Committees (Matthew Bender).

c. Permits special election of entire board when, after directors have filled vacancy on board, elected directors constitute less than majority of board [see Corp. Code § 305(c)].

NOTE:

For a detailed discussion of this procedure, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

d. Requires directors to perform duties in good faith, in best interests of corporation and its shareholders, with care that ordinarily prudent person in like position would use under similar circumstances [see Corp. Code § 309; see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 6, Management: Duties and Liabilities of Directors and Controlling Shareholders (Matthew Bender)].

NOTE:

Subject to the director's standard of care, directors are liable for improper distributions, not including improper loans or guaranties [see Corp. Code § 316(a)(1), (2), (b)- (f)]. A foreign corporation may indemnify directors and other personnel and agents under appropriate circumstances [see Corp. Code § 317].

e. Does not make, or allow subsidiary to make, any distribution to shareholders unless both of the following conditions exist [see Corp. Code § 500]:

NOTE:

A distribution consists of cash or property transferred to the shareholders without consideration, whether by dividend or otherwise, except for share dividends and reacquisitions [see Corp. Code § 166]. For a discussion of the restriction on distributions, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments .

The distribution restrictions do not apply to a corporation licensed as a broker-dealer [see Corp. Code §§ 25210-25220] if the corporation, immediately after giving effect to any distribution, is in compliance with the net capital rules of the Commissioner of Corporations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.12] and the Securities and Exchange Commission [Corp. Code § 500(c); see 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c3-1].

(1) Immediately before distribution, retained earnings equal or exceed amount of proposed distribution; and

(2) Assets remain to effect that:

(a) Sum of assets is at least 11/4 times liabilities.

(b) Current assets are at least equal to current liabilities (or, in certain instances, at least 11/4 times current liabilities).

f. Does not make, or permit subsidiary to make, any distribution to shareholders if corporation or subsidiary making distribution would be unable to meet liabilities [see Corp. Code § 501].

NOTE:
For further discussion, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments .

g. Does not make, or permit subsidiary to make, distribution of assets to junior shareholders if remaining assets would be less than liquidation preference of senior shares [see Corp. Code § 502].

NOTE:
For further discussion, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments .

h. Does not make, or permit subsidiary to make, distribution to junior shareholders unless retained earnings equal or exceed amount of proposed distribution plus aggregate of cumulative dividends in arrears on preferred shares [Corp. Code § 503].

NOTE:
Certain exceptions exist for regulated investment companies [see Corp. Code § 504(a)(1), (b); see also I.R.C. § 851 (definition)] and for real estate investment trusts [see Corp. Code § 504(a)(2); see also I.R.C. § 856 (definition)]. For discussion, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments .

The corporation may place additional restrictions on declaring dividends or purchasing or redeeming shares [Corp. Code § 505]. Shareholders are liable for receiving distributions that they should be aware are improper [Corp. Code § 506].

i. Holds annual shareholders' meeting for election of directors and other proper business [Corp. Code § 600(b), (c)].

NOTE:
If the meeting is not held for 60 days after the designated date, or for 15 months after organization or the last annual meeting, any shareholder may seek proper court action for a meeting, at which the actual number of votes represented automatically will constitute a quorum [Corp. Code § 600(c)]. The Attorney General may enforce compliance with these requirements [Corp. Code § 1508].

j. Recognizes cumulative voting in election for directors if [see Corp. Code § 708(a)- (c)]:

NOTE:
Corporations with shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the NYSE Amex, the NASDAQ Global Market, or the NASDAQ Capital Market ("listed corporations") may amend their articles or bylaws to eliminate cumulative voting [Corp. Code § 301.5; see Corp. Code §§ 708, 708.5; see also Ch. 4, Bylaws ; Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles].

(1) Name of candidate to be voted on has been placed in nomination before voting.

(2) At least one shareholder has given notice:

(a) At meeting before voting.

(b) Of shareholder's intention to cumulate votes.

k. Recognizes right of corporation with outstanding shares held of record by 100 or more persons [see Corp. Code § 605] to amend articles or certificate of determination to permit supermajority voting [see Corp. Code § 710].

NOTE:

A "supermajority vote" is a requirement that specified corporate actions be approved by a larger proportion of the outstanding shares than a majority, subject to certain limitations [see Corp. Code § 710(b)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

l. Observes following special protective provisions applicable to reorganizations, conversions, or outright major property dispositions:

(1) Requirement of special voting approval when assets are transferred to buyer in control relationship with selling corporation [see Corp. Code § 1001(d)].

NOTE:

For discussion of this requirement, see Ch. 11B, Cash Purchase of Assets .

(2) Fairness limitations on transformation of common shares and fair allocation provisions on distributions within classes or series of shares [see Corp. Code § 1101(e)].

NOTE:

For further discussion, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

(3) Requirements applicable to conversions.

NOTE:

Nominally foreign corporations are subject to the General Corporation Law's requirements applicable to conversions [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 1152]. They are also subject to the first sentence of Corp. Code § 1151, which requires that under the proposed conversion, (1) each share of the same class or series of the converting corporation must be treated equally with respect to any cash, rights, securities, or other property to be received by, or any obligations or restrictions to be imposed on, the holder of that share, unless all the shareholders of the class or series consent to a different treatment; and (2) nonredeemable common shares of the converting corporation must be converted only into nonredeemable equity securities of the converted entity unless all of the shareholders of the class consent [Corp. Code § 2115(b); see Corp. Code § 1151(a)]. For further discussion of these conversion rules and limitations, see Ch. 11C, Mergers **.

(4) Approval requirements for merger, exchange, and sale-of- asset reorganizations [Corp. Code §§ 1200, 1201].

NOTE:

For further discussion, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

(5) Dissenting shareholders' rights and procedures in reorganizations [Corp. Code §§ 1300-1312].

NOTE:

For further discussion, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

m. Keeps following records [Corp. Code § 1500]:

NOTE:
For further discussion, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports **.

(1) Adequate and correct books and records of account.

(2) Minutes of proceedings of shareholders, board, and committees of board.

(3) Record of shareholders, including:

(a) Names and addresses.

(b) Number and class of shares held by each.

n. Sends annual report and provides financial information on request [Corp. Code § 1501].

NOTE:
This requirement also applies to corporations that are not nominally foreign, but that have their principal executive office in California or customarily hold board meetings in California [see §§ 12B.14[2], 12B.138]. For further discussion, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports **.

o. Allows shareholders and directors to inspect records, minutes, books, or properties, to extent required by law [Corp. Code §§ 1600-1603].

NOTE:
Shareholders may be awarded expenses, including attorneys' fees, if the corporation fails without justification to comply with a demand for inspection [Corp. Code § 1604]. A request for inspection is not deemed complied with until the corporation, at its own expense, makes the records available in written form [Corp. Code § 1605]. For further discussion, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports **.

3. Advise corporation that its nominally foreign status will terminate [Corp. Code § 2115(e)] if either of the following occurs [see Corp. Code § 2115(e)]:

NOTE:
Neither of the following circumstances will terminate the corporation's nominally foreign status if a contrary order is entered before the end of that income year [Corp. Code § 2115(e)].

a. When at least one of tests of nominal status [see Corp. Code § 2115(a); see also § 12B.113, P 1c] is not met.

NOTE:
In this circumstance, the nominally foreign status terminates at the end of the first income year of the corporation immediately following the latest income year with respect to which at least one of the tests establishing nominally foreign status is not met [Corp. Code § 2115(e)].

b. Final order is entered by court of competent jurisdiction declaring that one of tests of nominal status [ see Corp. Code § 2115(a); see also § 12B.113, P 1c] has not been met.

NOTE:

In this circumstance, the nominally foreign status terminates at the end of the income year of the corporation during which the final order is entered [Corp. Code § 2115(e)].

b. Permits shareholders holding at least 5 percent of outstanding shares, or holding 1 percent of shares and filing Schedule 14B with federal Securities and Exchange Commission, or certain banks with insured deposits [see Corp. Code § 1600(a)]:

NOTE:
For a detailed guide to shareholder inspection rights, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports .

The procedures described below apply to any foreign corporation that is qualified to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 1510(a); see also § 12B.11]. They also apply to any foreign corporation that is not qualified, but that has one or more subsidiaries that are domestic corporations or qualified foreign corporations [see *Corp. 1. Advise corporation to provide written results [see P 2, below] of any vote taken at annual, regular, or special shareholder meeting to resident shareholder [*see Corp. b. Mail to shareholder.

NOTE:
There is no specific statutory time limit on how long the corporation may take to provide the shareholder with the information after receipt of the initial request. The only requirement is that the shareholder be informed "forthwith" [see Corp. Code § 1509].

1. Documents for Obtaining Certificate of Qualification

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.200

§ 12B.200 Resolution Authorizing Qualification, Agent, and Name

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a resolution of a foreign corporation's board of directors that (1) authorizes qualification of the corporation to transact intrastate business in California, (2) selects the agent for service of process, and (3) states the name that the corporation will use to transact business in California. While this form suggests the content of the resolution, the method of adoption and specific form of the resolution are governed by laws of the foreign corporation's state of incorporation. For examples of resolutions made pursuant to California law, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

[b] Qualification Requirements

A corporation that wishes to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 191(a) (definition); see also § 12B.11[1]] must obtain a certificate of qualification from the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2105(a)]. To qualify, a foreign corporation must file a statement and designation [see § 12B.201] and a certificate of good standing [see § 12B.202] with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2105]. A foreign association must file a statement and designation, together with an officers' certificate [see § 12B.203 (foreign association)] stating that the association is validly organized and existing under the laws of its home jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 2105]. The organization must also pay the filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(e), (f), (p), 12191(a)].

For a guide to procedures for qualification in California, see § 12B.120. For further discussion, see § 12B.11.

[c] Selecting Agent for Service of Process

The corporation's agent for service of process must be either a natural person residing in California or a domestic or foreign corporation whose capacity to act as an agent has not terminated [Corp. Code § 2105(a)(4); see Corp. Code §§

1502(b), 1505]. If a corporate agent is selected, it must (1) be currently authorized to engage in business in California, (2) be in good standing on the Secretary of State's records, and (3) have filed a cert ificate of consent [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 1505, 2105(c)]. For further discussion, see § 12B.20][1][d].

[d] Corporate Name

It is possible that a foreign corporation's name, as set forth in its articles of incorporation, may not be available for use in California. The Secretary of State may determine that the name would be likely to mislead the public, or it may be unavailable if it is the same as, or deceptively similar to, a name that has been officially recognized by the Secretary of State as used or reserved for use in California by another corporation [see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also Corp. Code § 201(b); §§ 12B.11[2][b], 12B.201[1][c]].

If the corporation's name is unavailable due to conflict, the corporation may use an assumed name if the Secretary of State finds that (1) its business is not the same as or similar to the corporation with the conflicting name, and (2) the public is not likely to be deceived [Corp. Code § 2106(b)(2); see § 12B.20[1][c][ii]]. The directors should therefore agree on several alternative assumed names that the corporation can use in its business dealings in California, if necessary. The name may be the corporation's name, with the addition of some distinguishing word or words, or another name available in California [see Corp. Code § 2106(b)(2); see also Corp. Code § 201(b)].

For additional discussion of corporate name issues, see § 12B.11[2][b]; see also Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations, § 2.13.

§ 12B.201 Statement and Designation for Foreign Corporation [Corp. Code § 2105]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the statement and designation that a foreign corporation, other than a foreign association [see Corp. Code § 170 (definition); see also § 12B.203 (form for foreign association)], must file to obtain a certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 2105]. To "transact intrastate business" means to enter into repeated and successive transactions of the corporation's business in California, other than interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 191(a); see § 12B.11[1]].

The statement and designation must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office [see Corp. Code § 2105(a)]; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. The version reproduced here is the Secretary of State's official form. Forms prepared by the Secretary of State may be obtained from its Sacramento office or from any of its satellite offices in Los Angeles, San Diego, Fresno, or San Francisco, or on the Secretary of State's website as indicated below.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. This form is the general form for use by most foreign corporations. For a form for use by foreign professional corporations, see § 12B.201A. For a form for use by a foreign insurer corporation, see § 12B.201B.

This form may be filed in the Sacramento office or any of the satellite offices of the Secretary of State [see Instructions to Form, reproduced in [2], below]. On filing the statement and designation with an attached certificate of good standing [see Corp. Code § 2105(b); see also § 12B.202 (request for certificate)], and payment of the required fees and taxes, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate of qualification [Corp. Code § 2106(a); see [f], below]. For a guide to the procedures for qualification, see § 12B.120.

[b] Contents of Form

The form must be signed by a corporate officer, and must state the following information [Corp. Code § 2105(a)]:

- The corporation's name and state or place of incorporation or organization. This information must agree with the certificate of good standing that accompanies the statement [see [e], below]. If the corporation must use an assumed name, the assumed name must be set forth in the first line of the statement, following the correct corporate name [see [c][ii], [2], below]. The assumed name should not be set forth anywhere else in the form [see Instructions to Form, reproduced in [2], below].

- The addresses of its principal executive office and its principal office in California, if any. Formerly the Secretary of State's office would accept only a full street address, not a post office box. However, the office has advised that it has changed this policy and is now accepting post office box addresses.

- The name of an agent for service of process in California and, if the agent is a natural person, the agent's complete residence or business address [see [d], below].

- The corporation's irrevocable consent to service of process on its designated agent, or on the Secretary of State if the agent or the agent's successor is not authorized or cannot be found at the address given.

- If applicable, the fact that the corporation is an insurance company.

A foreign corporation's irrevocable consent to service of process extends to service of process directed to the corporation's agent in California for a search warrant issued pursuant to Penal Code § 1524.2 and for any other validly issued and properly served search warrant for records or documents that are in the corporation's possession [Corp. Code § 2105(a)(5)(B) (rule applies regardless of whether corporation is party or nonparty to matter for which warrant is sought)].

[c] Corporate Name

[i] Availability

A corporate name may not be available if it is likely to mislead the public or if it resembles any of the following names so closely as to tend to deceive [see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also Corp. Code § 201(b)]:

- The name of a domestic corporation.

- The name of a foreign corporation that is authorized to transact intrastate business or that has registered its name with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 2101].

- A name that a foreign corporation has assumed [see Corp. Code § 2106(b)].

- A name that will become the record name of a domestic or foreign corporation on the effective date of a filed corporate instrument [see Corp. Code §§ 110(c), 5008(c)].

- A name under reservation for another corporation [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b)].

A foreign corporation that has a name that would not be available to a new corporation organized in California [see Corp. Code §§ 201(b), 2106(b); see also § 12B.120, P 3 (checking name availability)] must comply with one of the following procedures concerning its name to obtain qualification to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 2106; see also Corp. Code § 210(b)]: (1) obtain an injunction against the corporation with the conflicting name; (2) obtain permission from the other corporation to use that name; or (3) use an assumed name in California [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b)].

For additional discussion of corporate name issues, see § 12B.11[2][b]; see also Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations, § 2.13.

[ii] Use of Assumed Name

For a foreign corporation to use an assumed name, the Secretary of State must find, based on affidavit or other proof, that the business to be conducted in California by the foreign corporation is not the same as or similar to the business being or to be conducted by the corporation with the conflicting name, and that the public is not likely to be deceived [Corp. Code § 2106(b)]. The corporation may choose an assumed name that is either the corporation's name with the addition of some distinguishing word or words acceptable to the Secretary of State, or a name that would be available to a new domestic corporation [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b)].

In addition, the foreign corporation must agree that it will transact business in California under the assumed name disclosed to the Secretary of State and that it will use that assumed name in all of its dealings with the Secretary of State and in the conduct of its affairs in California [Corp. Code § 2106(b)]. This agreement is set forth in the first line of the statement and designation [see [2], below]. The corporation may do business in California only under the agreed name, as long as the agreement with the Secretary of State is in effect [Corp. Code § 2106(b)(2)].

In completing the form, the corporation must set forth its correct corporate name, followed by the statement "which will do business in California as (assumed name)." The assumed name should not be used anywhere else in the document Instructions to Form, reproduced in [2], below].

[iii] Use as Trade Name

Qualification under a corporate name establishes a rebuttable presumption that the corporation has the exclusive right to use that name, or any confusingly similar name, as a trade name if the corporation (1) is the first to have obtained qualification or filed articles under that name, and (2) is actually engaged in a trade or business utilizing that corporate name or a confusingly similar name [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14415]. For a discussion of trade names, see Ch. 103B, Trademarks .

[d] Agent for Service of Process

The corporation's agent for service of process must be either a natural person residing in California, or a domestic or foreign corporation (1) that is currently authorized to engage in business in California (that is, qualified to transact intrastate business if a foreign corporation), (2) that is in good standing on the Secretary of State's records, (3) that has filed a certificate of consent providing the information required by statute [see Corp. Code § 1505(a); see also § 12B.204 (certificate of consent for foreign corporation)], and (4) whose capacity to act as an agent has not terminated [

Corp. Code § 2105(a)(4); see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 1505, 2105(c)]. A corporation cannot be named as agent for service of process for itself [see Instructions to Form, reproduced in [2], below].

If a natural person is designated, the statement and designation must set forth the agent's complete business or residence street address. Formerly the Secretary of State's office would accept only a full street address, not a post office box. However, the office has orally advised that it has changed this policy and is now accepting post office box addresses. No address should be set forth for a corporate agent [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 2105(a)(4)]; this information will appear in the corporation's certificate of consent [see Corp. Code § 1505(a)].

A foreign corporation's irrevocable consent to service of process extends to service of process directed to the corporation's agent in California for a search warrant issued pursuant to Penal Code § 1524.2 and for any other validly issued and properly served search warrant for records or documents that are in the corporation's possession [Corp. Code § 2105(a)(5)(B) (rule applies regardless of whether corporation is party or nonparty to matter for which warrant is sought)].

The designation requirements of the Corporations Code do not affect the provisions contained in the Insurance Code [see Ins. Code §§ 1600-1605] that require a foreign insurer to maintain a designation of an agent for service of process in the Insurance Commissioner's office [Corp. Code § 2103].

On designation of an agent for service of process, the corporation should give the agent written instructions regarding transmittal of any process received [see § 12B.205].

[e] Accompanying Certificate of Good Standing

A foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) must attach a certificate of good standing from a public official of its state or place of incorporation to the statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2105(b); see § 12B.202 (request for certificate)]. The Secretary of State's office advises that although the use of the words "good standing" is not per se essential, provided that the certificate conveys the meaning that the corporation exists and is authorized to function as a corporation as of the certificate date, it is very important that the name of the corporation as it appears in the certificate of good standing agree with the name of the corporation as it appears in the statement and designation, including punctuation and abbreviations.

If a nonprofit corporation is to be qualified, the Secretary of State requires that the certificate of good standing also indicate that the corporation is a nonstock, nonprofit corporation; see Requirements for Qualification of Foreign Nonprofit Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_sdcnpinfo.htm]. The latter information is required as proof that the corporation is eligible for the reduced filing fees that apply to nonprofit corporations. Although the information on the Secretary of State's website states that a certified copy of the articles of incorporation will not be accepted in lieu of the required certificate [see Requirements for Qualification of Foreign Nonprofit Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_sdcnpinfo.htm], the Secretary of State's office has orally advised that the certificates typically provided by some states or places of incorporation do not specify that the corporation is nonprofit, and that in such a case the Secretary of State's office will accept an endorsed copy of the corporation's articles as proof of its nonprofit status.

The certificate of good standing for a foreign association must be in the form of an officers' certificate [Corp. Code § 2105(b); see § 12B.203].

[f] Filing Requirements

The statement and designation, together with the certificate of good standing, should be filed within 60 days of reserving a corporate name with the Secretary of State, because a name reservation is valid for 60 days only [see Corp.

Code § 201(c)]. The corporation may file at any of the Secretary of State's offices, including the satellite offices located in Los Angeles, San Diego, Fresno, and San Francisco, together with the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(e), (f) (filing fees)].

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the statement and designation if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not honored on presentation. After receiving written notification that the remittance has not been honored, the Secretary of State, 70 days or less after the original filing, will give written notice of cancellation and the cancellation date, which will be not less than 20 days from the date of mailing, to the person submitting the remittance or to the agent for service of process. If the amount is not then paid by cashier's check or the equivalent before the cancellation date, the cancellation will become effective [Corp. Code § 110.5].

[g] Amendments to Form

The corporation must notify the Secretary of State if any of the information set forth in the filed statement and designation changes. A foreign association uses one form to change any of the information set forth in the statement and designation [Corp. Code § 2107(b); see § 12B.222]. A foreign corporation uses one type of form to notify the Secretary of a change in its name [Corp. Code § 2107(a); see § 12B.220], and another type of form [see §§ 12B.210, 12B.211] to change any other information set forth in the statement and designation [Corp. Code § 2107(d); see Corp. Code § 2117].

§ 12B.202 Request for Certificate of Good Standing From State of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter, for use by a foreign corporation other than a foreign association, requesting an authorized public official in the foreign corporation's place of incorporation to issue a certificate stating that the corporation is in good standing. The certificate requirements are different for foreign associations [see Corp. Code § 2105(b)]. This form contains only the requirements for a foreign corporation, not a foreign association. For the certificate of good standing required for a foreign association, see § 12B.203.

A foreign corporation must attach a certificate of good standing to its statement and designation [see § 12B.201] to obtain a certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 2105(b)]. A certificate of good standing is also required when a foreign corporation that is neither currently qualified nor applying for qualification to transact intrastate business in California files an application to register its name in the state [Corp. Code § 2101(c); see Corp. Code § 2101; see also § 12B.240].

[b] Form and Contents of Certificate

A corporation should not prepare a certificate of good standing in advance, because states generally have standard printed forms of certificates that each state will issue, and the Secretary of State will not accept a certificate unless it is on the official form. The certificate must set forth that the corporation is an existing corporation in good standing in that state or place [Corp. Code § 2105(b)]. Use of the words "good standing" is not essential, as long as the certificate conveys the meaning that the corporation exists and is authorized to function as a corporation on the date of the certificate. It is very important that the name of the corporation as it appears in the certificate of good standing agree with the name of the corporation as it appears in the statement and designation [see § 12B.201], including punctuation and abbreviations [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_filetips.htm].

If the corporation is nonprofit, the certificate must also indicate that it is a nonstock, nonprofit corporation or a corporation organized for educational, religious, scientific, or charitable purposes that is not issuing shares.

The certificate submitted for filing must be an original executed by, or in the name of, the Secretary of State or other public official from the jurisdiction of incorporation who has custody of the corporation's charter documents, or by a public official of that jurisdiction who is authorized by the laws of that jurisdiction to provide the certificate. Charter documents, such as articles of incorporation, that are certified by the public officer of the state are not acceptable substitutes for the required certificate [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_sdcinfo.htm (general stock corporation) and http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_sdcnpinfo.htm (nonprofit corporation)].

The Corporations Code does not specify how recently dated the certificate must be. The Secretary of State's office requires that the certificate be dated within six months of the anticipated qualification date [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_filetips.htm].

§ 12B.203 Statement and Designation and Officers' Certificate for Foreign Association [Corp. Code § 2105]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for a statement and designation and attached officers' certificate of good standing, which a foreign association must file to obtain a certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 2105(a), (b)]. A "foreign association" is a business association organized as a trust under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction [see Corp. Code § 170]. For a statement and designation for use by foreign corporations other than business associations, see § 12B.201.

The association's statement and designation must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office [see Corp. Code § 2105(a)]; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. Copies of the Secretary of State's form can be obtained only from the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State. Unlike most other official forms of the Secretary of State, this form was not available online at the time this form comment was last revised.

Although foreign associations are generally treated as foreign corporations under the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 171], and are subject to the same requirements as general corporations for the statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2105(a)], they are governed by different requirements for the certificate of good standing [see Corp. Code § 2105(b)]. For a discussion of the requirements of the statement and designation, see § 12B.201[1]. For a discussion of the certificate of good standing used for foreign corporations other than foreign associations, see § 12B.202.

If the association changes its name or if there are any changes in the information contained in its statement and designation, the association must file an amended statement and designation [Corp. Code § 2106(b)]. For an amended statement and designation for use by an association, see § 12B.222.

[b] Form and Contents of Certificate

The certificate of a foreign association is an officers' certificate issued by the association itself [see Corp. Code § 2105(b); see also Corp. Code § 173]. The form for the certificate appears on the back of the form of statement and designation prepared by the Secretary of State for use by a foreign association [see Corp. Code § 2105(a)].

The certificate must state that the foreign association is a validly organized and existing business association under the laws of a specified foreign jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 2105(b)]. The certificate must be signed and verified by (1) the chairman of the board, the president, or any vice president, and (2) the secretary, chief financial officer, treasurer, assistant secretary, or assistant treasurer [see Corp. Code §§ 173, 2105(b)]. However, according to the form provided by the Office of the Secretary of State, it may instead be signed and verified by two of the trustees of the association [see [2], below]. "Verified" means that the statements contained in the certificate are declared to be true to the knowledge of the persons executing it, either in an affidavit signed by them under oath before an officer authorized to administer oaths or in a written declaration executed by them under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution [Corp. Code § 193]. An affidavit sworn to outside California before a notary public, judge, or clerk of a court of record with an official seal need not be further authenticated [Corp. Code § 193].

§ 12B.204 Foreign Corporation's Certificate of Consent to Act as Agent for Service of Process [Corp. Code § 1505]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of consent to be filed by a foreign corporation for the corporation to act as the agent for service of process for another corporation in California [Corp. Code § 2105(a)(4); see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 1505(a)]. The agency may be made by either a foreign or a domestic corporation on behalf of any domestic corporation or any foreign corporation that has qualified to transact intrastate business [see Corp. Code §§ 202(c), 1502, 2105]. For a comparable form used by a domestic corporation to consent to act as agent for service of process, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

For a discussion of a foreign corporation's designation of an agent for service of process in its statement and designation, see § 12B.201 [1][d]. For a discussion of a domestic corporation's designation of an agent for service of process in its articles of incorporation, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

The version reproduced here is the Secretary of State's official form.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12B.204. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Contents

A corporation's certificate of consent must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 1505(a)]:

- The complete address of its office or offices in California where any corporation that has designated it as agent may be served with process.
- The name of each employee at each specified office to whom it authorizes delivery of process.
- Its consent that delivery to any specified employee at a specified office will constitute delivery of process to it as agent for service of process.

The certificate must be executed in the name of the corporation by an officer of the corporation [Corp. Code § 1505(a)].

[c] Filing Requirements

A corporation may not file the certificate of consent unless it is currently authorized to engage in business in California and is in good standing on the records of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1505(c)]. For a foreign corporation, the term "authorized to engage in business" means that it has obtained qualification to transact intrastate business [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, ch. 18, Foreign Corporations].

The corporation designated as agent must file the certificate and pay the filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(p)] before any domestic or foreign corporation may designate it as agent for service of process [Corp. Code §§ 1505(a), 2105(c)]. It may thereafter file any number of supplemental certificates containing all of the information required in the original certificate. On filing, a supplemental certificate will supersede the original certificate or any previously-filed supplemental certificate [Corp. Code § 1505(b)].

A new agent must be designated when a foreign corporation that is the agent for service of process withdraws from California, dissolves or surrenders its qualification, or forfeits its qualification in California [Corp. Code § 1504; see § 12B.12].

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter of instruction from a foreign corporation to an individual authorized to accept service of process on behalf of that corporation. Every foreign corporation qualified to transact intrastate business must designate in its statement and designation either a natural person or another corporation as its agent in California on whom service of process directed to it may be served [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 2105(a); see also § 12B.201[1][d]]. If a corporate agent is selected, that agent must file a certificate of consent naming employees who are authorized to receive process [see Corp. Code §§ 1502(b), 1505(a), 2105(c); see also § 12B.204]. In either case, a particular individual will receive a copy of process or other notice. The foreign corporation should give every individual authorized to receive process specific instructions regarding his or her responsibilities if process is served.

[b] Resignation, Removal, or Death of Agent

The authority of an agent for service of process ceases on the filing of a signed and acknowledged statement of resignation with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1503]. Although the Secretary of State must promptly notify the corporation of the resignation [Corp. Code § 1503], the agent should be instructed to notify the corporation in advance of resignation so that it may select another agent before the authority of the original agent ceases [see [2], below].

The foreign corporation must designate a new agent in an amended statement if either of the following occurs [Corp. Code § 1504; see Corp. Code §§ 2107(b), (d), 2117; see also §§ 12B.220 (foreign corporation), 12B.222 (foreign association)]:

- A natural person designated as agent for service of process resigns, dies, or moves from California.
- A corporate agent resigns, dissolves, withdraws from California, forfeits its right to transact intrastate business, has its corporate rights, powers, and privileges suspended, or ceases to exist.

The foreign corporation should then provide the new agent with this set of instructions.

[c] Change of Address of Natural Person

If the stated address of a natural person designated for service of process changes, the foreign corporation must file an amended statement with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 2107(b), (d), 2117; see §§ 12B.220 (foreign corporation), 12B.222 (foreign association)]. Therefore, the agent should be instructed to immediately notify the corporation of any such change [see [2], below].

§ 12B.210 Annual Statement of Information by Foreign Corporation [Corp. Code § 2117]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is Secretary of State Form SI 350, Statement of Information by Foreign Corporation, also sometimes referred to as the Statement of Officers, or simply "annual statement" or "Statement of Information." The Secretary of State's official printed form is reproduced here, along with the text of the official instructions. Every foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) qualified to transact intrastate business must file this form during the applicable filing period each year [Corp. Code § 2117(a); see [c], below]. For the comparable forms used by domestic corporations, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports, §§ 7.207, 2.207A. This form may be used by both foreign stock corporations and foreign nonprofit corporations. If the corporation is a publicly traded company, the corporation must also file a corporate disclosure statement [see Corp. Code § 2117.1(a); see also § 12B.211].

This form is also used to indicate a change in the information set forth in a previously filed statement of information [see Corp. Code § 2117(e)] or in the foreign corporation's original statement and designation [see § 12B.201] regarding the address of its principal office in California, the address of its principal executive office, its agent for service of process, or the address of any natural person designated as agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 2107(d); see [b][ii], below]. However, it is not necessary to file this form to correct a mere error in the names or addresses of the initial agent for service of process or of the first directors. These errors can be corrected by a certificate of correction [see Corp. Code § 109]. For further discussion and a form for a certificate of correction, see Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles .

The Secretary of State's office requires that the officially prepared form be used; copies and other reproductions are not sufficient. After the initial filing, the Secretary will mail a notice for compliance to each corporation approximately three months before the close of the applicable annual filing period [see [c], below]. The notice will state the due date for compliance and will be mailed to the last address of the corporation according to the Secretary of State's records. However, failure of the corporation to receive the notice is not an excuse for failing to file the statement [Corp. Code §§

1502(d), 2117(f)].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12B.210. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Contents and Effect of Form

[i] Initial Filing

The first time that a corporation files this statement, it must complete the entire form [see [2], below (Instructions to Form)], which must contain all of the following information [Corp. Code § 2117(a), (b)]:

- The names and complete business or residence addresses (a post office box is not acceptable) of the corporation's chief executive officer, secretary, and chief financial officer. If the executive officers use other titles, such as president or treasurer, the statement must include the executive officers performing comparable duties under other titles. If the corporation has no officers, or has no executive officers who are natural persons, the statement must include the names of natural persons performing comparable duties for the corporation pursuant to a management contract or other arrangement.

- The street address of its principal executive office.

- The mailing address of the corporation, if different from the street address of its principal executive office.

- The street address of its principal business office in California, if any.

- A statement of the general type of business that constitutes the principal business activity of the corporation (for example, manufacturer of aircraft, wholesale liquor distributor, or retail department store). If the corporation has not yet commenced doing business, it should include a statement of the type of business in which it intends to engage.

- The agent for service of process. The agent for service of process must be either a natural person residing in California or a corporation that has filed a certificate of consent and whose capacity to act as an agent has not terminated [Corp. Code § 2117(b); see Corp. Code § 1505]. If a natural person is designated, the statement must also set forth that person's complete business or residence street address. If a corporate agent is designated, no address need be given [Corp. Code § 2117(b)]. For further discussion, see §§ 12B.201[1][d] and 12B.205[1].

In addition, every publicly traded company (that is, foreign corporation that is an issuer [see 15 U.S.C. Sec. 78c], and has at least one class of securities listed or admitted for trading on a national securities exchange, the OTC-Bulletin Board, or the electronic service operated by Pink OTC Markets Inc. [Corp. Code § 2117.1(b)(1); see Corp. Code § 171]) must file a separate disclosure statement [see Corp. Code § 2117.1; see also Corp. Code § 2117.1(b)(1)], which is set forth in § 12B.211.

A foreign corporation's irrevocable consent to service of process extends to service of process directed to the corporation's agent in California for a search warrant issued pursuant to Penal Code § 1524.2 and for any other validly issued and properly served search warrant for records or documents that are in the corporation's possession [Corp. Code § 2105(a)(5)(B) (rule applies regardless of whether corporation is party or nonparty to matter for which warrant is sought)].

[ii] Subsequent Filings

After complying with the initial filing requirement, the corporation need not complete the entire form if the information contained in the last filed statement remains unchanged. In that circumstance, the corporation should complete only Items 1 and 13 of the form [Corp. Code §§ 1502(c), 2117(f); see [2], below]. The filing fee must be paid regardless of whether the entire form has been submitted [see Gov. Code § 12186(e), (f); see also Corp. Code § 2117(d) (additional "disclosure fee")].

If a qualified corporation wishes to indicate changes in any of the information contained in its annual statement other than the corporate name, the corporation may file a current annual statement containing all of the information required in the initial statement [Corp. Code §§ 2107(d), 2117(e); see Corp. Code § 2107(a); see also [i], above]. Such an optional filing can be made at any time (other than during the applicable annual filing period).

If the changes concern the agent for service of process or the address of the agent, the corporation must file a current statement containing all the information required in the initial statement [Corp. Code § 2117(e)]. The corporation must designate a new agent when the agent's authority ceases [Corp. Code § 2117(b)], if a natural person designated as agent dies or no longer resides in California, or if a corporate agent dissolves, withdraws from the state, forfeits its right to transact intrastate business, has its corporate rights, powers, and privileges suspended, or ceases to exist [Corp. Code § 1504]. For further information on changes concerning agents for service of process, see § 12B.205[1]. Changes affecting the corporate name or assumed name require a separate form [Corp. Code § 2107(a); see § 12B.220].

A current annual statement will supersede the original statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2105; see also § 12B.201] and any previously filed statement [Corp. Code §§ 2107(d), 2117(e)]. The Secretary of State may destroy or otherwise dispose of any original, annual, or current statement and designation after it has been superseded by the filing of a new statement [Corp. Code §§ 1502(f), 2117(f)].

The provisions governing the annual statement do not place any person dealing with the corporation on notice of, or under any duty to inquire about, the existence or content of a statement filed pursuant to that provision [Corp. Code §§ 1502(g), 2117(f)].

[c] Filing Statement

The annual statement is to be filed by the last day of the anniversary month of incorporation or qualification, or within the five month period preceding the anniversary month, and whenever the agent for service of process or the agent's address is changed [see Corp. Code § 2105; see also [b], above (change in status of agent for service of process)]. A preprinted form and self addressed envelope are automatically sent to each active foreign and domestic corporation, to the last mailing address of record, for completion and return to the Secretary of State prior to the applicable due date [see [1][a], above].

There are two fees that apply to the filing of the statement [see Gov. Code § 12186(e), (f); see also Corp. Code § 2117(d) (additional "disclosure fee")] and an additonal fee for furnishing a copy of the statement [see Gov. Code § 12]. If a copy of the statement is submitted with the original document, the copy will be endorsed and returned to the corporation. If no copy is included, the cancelled check will be the corporation's only proof of filing.

[d] Penalties for Failure to File

[i] Monetary Penalties

If a corporation fails to file an annual statement, the Secretary of State will mail a notice of delinquency to the corporation. The notice must advise the corporation of its right to request relief due to reasonable cause or unusual circumstances, and, if the Secretary does not grant relief, to pay any penalty under protest and to file a claim with the Board of Control requesting relief [Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), 2206(a); see 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 630-632 (claim form)]. If the corporation does not file a statement within 60 days after the notice is mailed, the Secretary of State will certify the name of the corporation to the Franchise Tax Board [Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), 2206(a)], which will assess a penalty against the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 2204(b), 2206(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19141].

If, after certification, the Secretary of State finds that the required statement was filed before expiration of the 60-day period after the notice of delinquency was filed, or the failure to provide notice of delinquency was due to an error of the Secretary of State, the Secretary must decertify the name of the corporation to the Franchise Tax Board, which will abate any penalty assessed [Corp. Code §§ 2204(e), 2206(a)]. If the Secretary of State determines that the corporation's failure to file the statement is excusable due to reasonable cause or unusual circumstances that justify the failure, the Secretary may waive the penalty and not certify the corporation's name to the Franchise Tax Board [Corp. Code §§ 2204(f), 2206(a)].

The penalty does not apply to a corporation that on or before the date of certification has dissolved or been merged into another corporation [Corp. Code §§ 2204(c), 2206(a)]. The statute does not state whether or not the penalty applies to a foreign corporation that has surrendered without merger [see Corp. Code §§ 2204(c), 2206(a)]. However, the penalty does not apply to, and no notice of delinquency need be mailed to, a corporation that has suffered forfeiture of its corporate powers, rights, and privileges by the Franchise Tax Board [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23775] on or before, and remain suspended on, the last day of the filing period [Corp. Code §§ 2204(d), 2206(a)].

[ii] Suspension of Corporate Powers

A corporation that (1) fails to file an annual statement for an applicable filing period [see [c], above], (2) has not filed a statement during the preceding 24 months, and (3) was certified for a penalty [see Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), (b), 2206(a)] for the same filing period will be subject to forfeiture of the exercise of the corporate powers, rights, and privileges of a foreign corporation in California, rather than to the monetary penalty [Corp. Code §§ 2205(a), 2206(a)]. In this situation, the Secretary of State will mail a notice to the corporation informing it that its corporate powers, rights, and privileges will be forfeited after 60 days if it fails to file a statement [Corp. Code §§ 2205(b), 2206(a)]. After the 60-day period has expired without the filing of a statement, the Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board of the forfeiture, and mail a notice of the forfeiture to the corporation. The corporate powers, rights, and privileges of the corporation are thereby forfeited, except for the purpose of amending the articles of incorporation to set forth a new name [Corp. Code §§ 2205(c), 2206(a); see Palm Valley Homeowners Assn., Inc. v. Design MTC (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 553, 560-561, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in imposing sanctions on law firm for continuing litigation activities on behalf of corporation that it knew to be suspended under Corp. Code § 2205 for failure to file information statement required by Corp. Code § 1502)]. In addition, a suspended corporation may file an application for exempt status, and amend its articles of incorporation as necessary to perfect that application [Corp. Code § 1502(c); see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

Forfeiture of the exercise of the corporate powers, rights, and privileges of a foreign corporation in California does not prohibit the transaction of business by the foreign corporation if the business carried on subsequent to the forfeiture would not, considered as an entirety, require the foreign corporation to obtain a certificate of qualification [Corp. Code § 2206(c); see Corp. Code § 2105]. In addition, a foreign nonprofit corporation that has forfeited the exercise of its corporate powers, rights, and privileges in California may nonetheless file an application for exempt status [Corp. Code § 2206(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301].

If the chief executive officer is not among the five most highly compensated executive officers of the corporation, the compensation paid to the chief executive officer must also be included.

The term "executive officer" means means the chief executive officer, president, any vice president in charge of a principal business unit, division, or function, any other officer of the corporation who performs a policymaking function, or any other person who performs similar policymaking functions for the corporation [Corp. Code § 2117.1(b)(2)]. The term "compensation" means all plan and nonplan compensation awarded to, earned by, or paid to the person for all services rendered in all capacities to the corporation and to its subsidiaries, as the compensation is specified by Item 402 of Regulation S-K of the Securities and Exchange Commission [*Corp. The term "loan" excludes an advance for expenses, the corporation's payment of life insurance premiums, and any advance of litigation expenses, in each instance as permitted according to the applicable law of the state or place of incorporation or organization of the foreign corporation [Corp. Code § 2117.1(b)(4)].

§ 12B.220 Amended Statement and Designation by Foreign Corporation [Corp. Code § 2107]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an amended statement that a qualified foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) must file if it changes its name or makes a change affecting an assumed name set forth in the statement and designation [see Corp. Code § 2107(a); see also Corp. Code § 2105; see also Secretary of State's information packet]. The new name chosen by a foreign corporation must be a name available to a new domestic corporation in California [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b); see also §§ 12B.11[2][b], 12B.201[1][c][i]].

The amended statement and designation must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office [see Corp. Code § 2107(a)]; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. The version reproduced here is the Secretary of State's official form and can be obtained from the Secretary of State's office in Sacramento or from any of its satellite offices in Los Angeles, San Diego, or Fresno, or on the Secretary of State's website as indicated below.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12B.220. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

The form must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. On filing and payment of the filing fee [see Gov. Code §

12186(p)], the Secretary of State will issue a new certificate of qualification [Corp. Code § 2107(a)]. The Secretary will compare and certify up to two copies of the amended statement without charge when the copies are submitted along with the original [Gov. Code § 12185].

For the original statement and designation of a foreign corporation, see § 12B.201. For the form used to indicate any change in information set forth in a foreign association's statement and designation, see § 12B.222.

[b] Requirements

The statement must set forth the name relinquished as well as the new name assumed. It must also include the signature of a corporate officer [Corp. Code § 2107(a)].

To enable filing, an original certificate of an authorized public official of the state or place of incorporation must be attached to this form unless the corporation is merely deleting or changing a "doing business as" name and not changing the legal corporate name. The certificate must state that the name change was made in accordance with the laws of the state or place of incorporation [see Secretary of State's information packet]. A certified copy of the certificate of amendment or other document by which the name change was effected is not a sufficient substitute for this certificate [see Secretary of State's information packet; see also § 12B.221 (request for certificate)].

If the change includes a change of name of an insurer subject to the Insurance Code, the form must include a statement that the corporation is an insurer if it does not already appear on previously filed documents [Corp. Code § 2107(c)].

[c] Changing Corporate Address or Agent

To change a foreign corporation's corporate address or the identity or address of the agent for service of process, the corporation must request a Statement by Foreign Corporation form from the Secretary of State, Statement of Officers Unit [see Corp. Code § 2117; Secretary of State's information packet; see also § 12B.210]. The information on each newly filed statement supersedes previous information of record [see Secretary of State's information packet].

[d] No Amendment of Domicile

A foreign corporation's state of domicile cannot be changed by amendment. This change can only be accomplished in California by filing (1) an agreement of merger or (2) a certificate of surrender on behalf of the qualified corporation of record from the original place of domicile and the qualification of the corporation under its new place of domicile. Using the second option, the documents may be filed simultaneously to permit continued use of the corporate name in California [see Secretary of State's information packet].

§ 12B.222 Amended Statement and Designation by Foreign Association [Corp. Code § 2107]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an amended statement and designation that a qualified foreign association--that is, a business association organized as a trust under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 170 (definition)]--must file with the Secretary of State when any of the information set forth in its original statement and designation has changed. A foreign association is treated as a species of foreign corporation for purposes of the Corporations Code provisions regulating foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 171 (definition)]. Note that this discussion applies only to "foreign associations" as defined by Corp. Code § 170. Nonprofit unincorporated associations [see Corp. Code § 18020(a)] are governed by different requirements [see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations .]

Foreign associations, unlike other foreign corporations, use the same form for name changes as for changes in the address of its principal office in California, the address of its principal executive office, its agent for service of process, or the stated address of any natural person designated as agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 2107(b); see Corp. Code § 2107(a), (d)].

The amended statement and designation must be on the form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office [see Corp. Code § 2107(b)]; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. This form may be ordered from the Secretary of State's Sacramento Office. Unlike most other official forms of the Secretary of State, this form was not available online at the time this form comment was last revised.

The form must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2107(b)]. There is a fee for filing the statement [Gov. Code § 12191(a)(2)]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the statement without charge when the copies are submitted along with the original [Gov. Code § 12185].

If the change includes a change of name or a change affecting an assumed name [see Corp. Code § 2106], the Secretary of State will issue a new certificate of qualification on the filing of the form [Corp. Code § 2107(b)].

For an original statement and designation, see § 12B.201. For the form used to indicate a change in the name of a foreign corporation, see § 12B.220. For the form used to indicate a change in other information set forth in a foreign corporation's original statement and designation, see § 12B.210.

[b] Contents of Form

The form must set forth the change or changes made, and must be signed by an officer of the association [Corp. Code § 2107(b)].

If the change is in the association's name, the form must (1) set forth the name relinquished, (2) set forth the new name assumed, and (3) have attached an officers' certificate stating that the change of name was made in accordance with its declaration of trust [Corp. Code § 2107(b); see § 12B.223]. The new name chosen by the foreign association must be a name available to a new domestic corporation in California [Corp. Code § 2106(b); see Corp. Code § 201(b); see also § 12B.201[1][c]].

If the change includes a change of name of an insurer subject to the Insurance Code, the form must include a statement that the corporation is such an insurer [Corp. Code § 2107(c)].

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.230

§ 12B.230 Foreign Corporation's Certificate of Surrender of Right to Transact Intrastate Business [Corp. Code § 2112]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the certificate that a qualified foreign corporation must file to surrender its right to transact intrastate business in California. This form is used (1) when the corporation is disappearing in a merger into another foreign corporation in a transaction not involving a domestic corporation or (2) when the corporation is surrendering its right to transact intrastate business, but not disappearing due to a merger involving a domestic corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 2112, 2113]. Alternatively, a foreign corporation disappearing in a merger or conversion involving a domestic corporation may surrender that right by filing the appropriate documents [Corp. Code § 2113(a)]. For further discussion of the requirements to surrender, see § 12B.12[2]. For a guide to surrender procedures for foreign corporations disappearing due to merger or conversion, see § 12B.135, PP 2, 3, and 4.

The certificate of surrender must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. The version reproduced here is the Secretary of State's official form. Forms prepared by the Secretary of State may be obtained from its Sacramento office or from any of its satellite offices in Los Angeles, San Diego, or San Francisco, or on the Secretary of State's website as indicated below.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12B.230. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Filing a certificate of surrender will remove a foreign corporation from the jurisdiction of California courts concerning events that occur after surrender; however, the corporation remains subject to jurisdiction for events that occurred before surrender [see Corp. Code § 2114(a), (b); see also Northern Natural Gas Co. v. Superior Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 983, 987 n.1, 134 Cal. Rptr. 850]. A foreign corporation that ceases to do business without filing a certificate of surrender does not revoke the appointment of any agent for the service of process [Corp. Code § 2114(d)]. For information on service of process on corporations that have surrendered, see § 12B.12[2][d].

[b] Contents of Certificate

The certificate of surrender must state all of the following [Corp. Code § 2112(a)]:

- The corporation's name as shown on the records of the Secretary of State, and the state or place of incorporation or organization.
- That the corporation revokes its designation of agent for service of process.
- That the corporation surrenders its authority to transact intrastate business.
- That the corporation consents that process against it in any action on any liability or obligation incurred within California before filing of the certificate may be served on the Secretary of State.
- A post office address to which the Secretary of State may mail a copy of any process against the corporation that is served on the Secretary. The corporation may change the address or the name to which the process should be sent by filing a statement signed by a corporate officer [see § 12B.231].
- That a final franchise tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23332] has been or will be filed with the Franchise Tax Board.

The certificate of surrender must be signed by a corporate officer [Corp. Code § 2112(a)], unless it is filed by a foreign corporation disappearing due to merger with another foreign corporation in a transaction not involving a domestic corporation. In that case, the certificate may be signed in the name of the surviving corporation by an officer of the surviving corporation, and must be accompanied by a certificate of an authorized public official of the jurisdiction of incorporation stating that the corporation has been merged into another foreign corporation and setting forth the name and state or place of incorporation of the surviving corporation [Corp. Code § 2113(c)].

[c] Tax Clearance Certificate

A tax clearance certificate from the Franchise Tax Board is no longer required in order to obtain a certificate of surrender [see former Rev. & Tax Code § 23334; 2006 Stats., ch. 773]. The Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board of the surrender [see Corp. Code § 2112(b)].

[d] Filing

There is no fee for filing a certificate of surrender [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_formsfees.htm; see Gov. Code §§ 12186(o) (corporation), 12191(a)(3)(association)].

The certificate of surrender may be filed in person at the Sacramento office or by mail. There is a special handling fee for filing the certificate in person [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21903]. If the certificate is mailed for filing, the Secretary of State recommends that it be sent by certified mail, with return receipt requested, for proof of submittal.

§ 12B.240 Application for Registration of Name by Foreign Corporation Not Transacting Intrastate Business [Corp. Code § 2101]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application by a foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) that is not transacting intrastate business in California to register its name with the Secretary of State. The registration process is not available to foreign associations [Corp. Code § 2101(a)]. The names of qualified corporations are already protected [see Corp. Code § 201; see also Corp Code § 2101(a)].

A foreign corporation that is not qualified to do business in California may reserve its name in the state to avoid name availability complications that could arise if it later decides to qualify under that name [see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also § 12B.120, P 3]. Registration is effective until the close of the calendar year in which the application is filed, and may be renewed [Corp. Code § 2101(b), (c)]. Registration prevents any other corporation from incorporating or qualifying under the same name for the duration of the registration.

This form may also be used to renew a registration. Renewal may be accomplished by filing an application for renewal between October 1 and December 31 of each year. A registration form, with a certificate of good standing attached, may be used as the request for renewal. Filing a renewal application will extend the name registration through the following calendar year [Corp. Code § 2101(c); see Gov. Code § 12186(b) (filing fee)].

The application for name registration must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. The version reproduced here is the Secretary of State's official form. Forms prepared by the Secretary of State may be obtained from its Sacramento office, or on the Secretary of State's website as indicated below.

[b] Name Availability

The applicant's name must be a name that would be available to a new corporation organized at the time of registration [Corp. Code § 2101(a); see Corp. Code § 201; see also § 12B.201[1][c][i]]. In addition, it must not be a name in which the words "bank," "trust," "trustee," or related words appear, unless a certificate of approval is attached [Corp. Code § 2101(a); see Corp. Code § 201(a)].

[c] Registration Requirements

A foreign corporation may register its name by filing an application for registration with the Secretary of State and paying a filing fee [Corp. Code § 2101(a); see Gov. Code § 12186(b)]. The application must be signed by a corporate officer and must state (1) the name of the corporation; (2) the state or place of incorporation; (3) the date of incorporation; and (4) the corporation's desire to register its name under Corp. Code § 2101 [Corp. Code § 2101(b)]. The application must be accompanied by an original certificate of an authorized public official of the state or place of incorporation, stating that the corporation is in good standing under those laws [Corp. Code § 2101(b); see Secretary of State's information packet; see also § 12B.202 (request for certificate)].

Foreign name registration documents must be mailed, or hand delivered for over the counter processing to the Sacramento headquarters office [Secretary of State's information packet]:

Business Filings
1500 11th Street
Sacramento, CA 95814
Attention: Document Filing Support Unit

Foreign name registration documents may not be filed in satellite offices [Secretary of State's information packet].

[d] Alternatives to Registration

A foreign corporation may reserve its name by applying for a certificate of reservation pursuant to the procedures set forth in Corp. Code § 201(c) [see § 12B.120, P 4]. However, since that type of reservation is valid for only 60 days and is non-renewable [see Corp. Code § 201(c)], it is best used in conjunction with an application for qualification. A corporation may also qualify to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 2105] or incorporate in California in order to obtain the same name protection.

§ 12B.250 Resolution Authorizing Filing of Annual Address Statements

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a resolution by the board of directors of a foreign lending institution that has not qualified to transact intrastate business in California confirming the appointment of the California Secretary of State as the foreign corporation's agent for service of process and authorizing the filing of annual address statements [see Corp. Code § 2104]. While this form suggests the content of the resolution, the method of adoption and specific form of the resolution are governed by laws of the foreign corporation's state of incorporation. For the form for the annual address statement, see § 12B.251.

[b] "Foreign Lending Institution" Defined

The term "foreign lending institution" includes any (1) foreign banking corporation, (2) foreign corporation whose capital stock is owned exclusively by one or more foreign banking corporations, (3) foreign savings and loan association, (4) foreign insurance company, or (5) foreign corporation or association authorized by its charter to invest in loans secured by real and personal property. Other types of organizations may also be included within the definition. The lending institution may have been organized under the laws of the United States or any state, district, or territory of the United States [Corp. Code § 191(d)].

[c] Statement Requirement

Any foreign lending institution that has not qualified to do business in California, but engages in certain activities within the state that do not constitute the transaction of intrastate business [see Corp. Code § 191(d); see also § 12B.11[1][b][ii]] is considered to have appointed the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process for any action arising out of those activities. It must file a statement showing its address for receipt of process, and pay the appropriate filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(o)], on or before June 30 of each year [Corp. Code § 2104; see Corp. Code § 2111; see also § 12B.251].

A lending institution is not required to qualify, and does not become subject to certain statutes regarding qualification for doing or transacting business solely because it engages in one or more of the activities giving rise to the statement requirement [Corp. Code § 2104; see Corp. Code § 191(d)].

[b] Filing Requirements

A foreign lending institution that is required to file the address statement must do so on or before June 30 of each year. A new statement must be filed every year even if the address remains unchanged [see Corp. Code § 2104; see Gov.

Code § 12186(o) (filing fee)]. The lending institution should file a supplemental statement if, before the following June 30, it changes the address to which process should be sent [see § 12B.252].

There is no procedure for filing a withdrawal statement when the institution ceases the activities requiring the statement. If the lending institution expands its activities in California [see Corp. Code § 191(d)], it must qualify to transact intrastate business by filing a statement and designation that specifies an agent for service of process [see Corp. Code § 2105(a)(4); see also § 12B.201].

[c] Transmittal of Process

Service of process is deemed complete on the tenth day after delivery to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 2104, 2111(a)]. Code §§ 2104, 2111(b)*; see [2], below]. The Secretary of State will keep a record of all process served on that office for the lending institution and the time of service. The Secretary's certificate and seal certifying the (1) receipt of process, (2) giving of notice, and (3) forwarding of process to the institution will be competent and prima facie evidence of the facts stated in the certificate [Corp. Code §§ 2104, 2111(c)].

6-12B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12B.260

§ 12B.260 Application of Foreign Corporation for Exclusion From State Taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application by a foreign corporation to the California Franchise Tax Board for a determination that the corporation is excluded from state franchise or corporate income taxation. The same form is used to apply for exclusion from either franchise or corporate income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a); see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d), (f)].

A corporation is subject to the franchise tax if it is doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23151; see § 12B.31]. For taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011, a corporation is "doing business" if it actively engages in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a); see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101], or if it has qualified in California [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23151]. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer is doing business in California for a taxable year if any of specified conditions has been satisfied [Corp. Code § 23101(b); see § 12B.31, above]. A corporation is subject to the corporate income tax if it is not subject to the franchise tax, but is deriving income from sources within California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23501]. For further discussion of franchise and income taxation, see §§ 12B.30-12B.32, 12B.114.

However, a corporation may be excluded from the requirement to pay these taxes if its only activities within California are related to the purchase of personal property or services and/or the education of its employees [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a); see [b], below; see also § 12B.33].

The Franchise Tax Board has not prepared an official form of application for exclusion. This form includes all the information required by statute for the application [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d)]. The corporation should submit the application for exclusion to the Franchise Tax Board, P.O. Box 1468, Sacramento, California 95807, as soon as it contemplates having employees in California [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)].

By filing an application, the corporation waives the confidentiality provisions governing taxpayer documents [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19542] as to facts alleged in the application and any additional evidence produced with respect to those facts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(b)].

[b] Criteria for Exclusion

[i] Purchasing Activities

The Franchise Tax Board may determine that a corporation is not doing business in California for purposes of the franchise tax, or is not deriving income from sources within California for purposes of the income tax, if its only activities in California comprise the purchase of personal property or services solely for its own use or use by its affiliate outside California, and the following three conditions are satisfied.

- The corporation does not have more than 100 employees in California, and their duties are limited to solicitation, negotiation, liaison, monitoring, auditing, and inspecting the personal property or services acquired, or providing technical advice with respect to its requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(A)].

- The corporation does not have more than 200 employees in California, whose duties are limited to solicitation, negotiation, liaison, monitoring, auditing, and inspecting the personal property or services acquired, or providing technical advice with respect to its requirements, and the corporation or its affiliate uses the personal property or property for the construction or modification of a physical plant or facility located outside California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(B)].

- The combined number of employees in California described in paragraphs (a) and (b) does not exceed 200 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(1)(C)].

When the corporation is engaged in a unitary business, the limitation of 100 or 200 employees must be applied to the aggregation of all corporations in the unitary group [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(e)].

The term "purchase of personal property" includes storage of property purchased, manufactured, or assembled in California pending shipment to destinations outside the state [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(b)]. Employees are "temporarily present" when their contact with California, disregarding Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5, would not subject the foreign corporation to California franchise or corporate income tax [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(b)].

The Franchise Tax Board will not grant an exclusion to a corporation whose purchasing activities constitute its principal business activity, unless the corporation is engaged in a unitary business (that is, a business earning income within and without the state) with one or more other corporations outside California and the purchasing activities in California do not constitute the principal business activity of that unitary business [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(e)].

[ii] Educational Activities

The Franchise Tax Board may determine that a corporation is not doing business in California for purposes of the franchise tax, or is not deriving income from sources within California for purposes of the income tax, if its only activities in California comprise the presence of employees in California for the sole purpose of attending a public or private school, college, or university [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(a)(2); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(c)].

[c] Contents of Application

[i] In General

An application for exclusion from taxation based on purchasing activities and/or employee presence in California must contain the following information [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d)]:

- The corporation's name.
- The corporation's federal employer identification number, if any.
- The corporation's mailing address.
- The date of incorporation.
- The corporation's accounting period for tax purposes.
- The years, of the four income years preceding the year for which the exclusion is sought, in which a California franchise or corporate income tax return was filed.
- Any corporations in which the applicant owns 50 percent or more of the voting stock.
- Any corporations that own 50 percent or more of the applicant's voting stock.

[ii] Based on Purchasing Activities

In addition to the general information specified in [i], above, an application based on corporate purchasing activities in California must also contain the following information [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d)(8)- (12)]:

- The names and addresses of businesses or individuals with which the applicant expects to purchase or has purchased personal property or services and which are covered by the exclusion.
- The names of employees the applicant expects to be present within California during the income year, and the expected duration of each employee's presence in state, to the extent determinable.
- The destination and use of personal property and services contracted for that are to be covered by exclusion, to the extent determinable.
- The period for which the exclusion is requested.
- The estimated number of California jobs created and the economic effect on California resulting from the act for which exclusion is sought.

[iii] Based on Educational Activities

In addition to the general information specified in [i], above, an application based on the educational activities of corporate employees in California must also include (1) the names of the employees and the schools, colleges, and universities in California at which they are or will be enrolled, and (2) the period for which exclusion is requested [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(d)].

[d] Determination of Exclusion

The granting of an exclusion is discretionary with the Franchise Tax Board, and no standards are provided regarding the exercise of that discretion. However, in the past the Board has seldom granted favorable rulings on applications of corporations that maintain a permanent office in California. A determination of exemption will remain in force for a period of five years, if the corporation continues to meet the required criteria [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101.5(c)].

If the corporation receives an exclusion from taxation, its records are subject to audit during the period of exclusion to the same extent as the records of any other corporation subject to the franchise or corporate income tax [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)].

[e] Subsequent Filings

A corporation receiving an exclusion must annually confirm within two months and 15 days after the close of the fiscal year that facts relevant to the granting of the exclusion then in effect remain unchanged, or state and explain the changes that have occurred since the preceding report was filed [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)].

If an exclusion has expired, or if the Board or the corporation determines that due to changed circumstances the original exclusion is invalidated but another exclusion should be granted, the corporation should submit a new application setting forth all of the information required for an initial application [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23101.5(f)].

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for certificate of revivor for use by a foreign corporation that has had its powers, rights, and privileges forfeited, and that seeks revivor from that forfeit. Forfeiture can be due to failure to pay taxes or file tax returns [*see Rev. & Tax. The application on behalf of a taxpayer that has suffered forfeiture may be made by (1) any stockholder or creditor, (2) a majority of the surviving trustees or directors of the corporation, (3) an officer, or (4) any other person who has interest in the relief from forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305].

[b] Bases for Forfeiture

A foreign corporation qualified to do business in California may forfeit its corporate powers, rights, and privileges, except for purposes of filing an application for exempt status, or the filing of an amended statement and designation to set forth a new or assumed name [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a], if it either fails to pay any franchise tax, penalty, or interest when due [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.6] or fails to file a tax return [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301.5, 23301.6; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 21020, 23302(a)- (c) (forfeiture procedure)]. Forfeiture will occur if the payment is not made within the required following time limits [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301; see § 12B.31[3][a]]. For further discussion of forfeiture for failure to pay taxes, see § 12B.31[3].

In addition, a foreign corporation may suffer forfeiture for failure to file an annual statement if it (1) fails to file a statement for an applicable filing period, (2) has not filed a statement during the preceding 24 months, and (3) was certified for a penalty [see Corp. Code §§ 2204(a), (b), 2206(a)] for the same filing period [Corp. Code §§ 2205(a), 2206(a); see Corp. Code §§ 2117, 2204]. If the corporation later files the required statement, it may be relieved from forfeiture pursuant to the provisions of Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305(a) [Corp. Code § 2205(d)]. For further discussion of forfeiture for failure to file an annual statement, see § 12B.11[3][a].

[c] Notice and Effect of Forfeiture

[i] For Failure to Pay Taxes or File a Tax Return

Before forfeiture for failure to pay taxes or file a tax return can become effective, the corporation must receive notice from the Franchise Tax Board indicating that the corporation will be suspended on a particular date pursuant to the appropriate section of the Revenue and Taxation Code. The notice must be mailed to the corporation at least 60 days before the effective date [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 21020, 23302(a), (b)].

If a foreign corporation's powers, rights, and privileges are forfeited, the corporation may not sell, transfer, or exchange real property in California during the period of forfeiture [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23302(d)]. Any transaction of business after forfeiture is punishable by a fine, imprisonment, or both [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19719(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19719(b) (bar does not apply to insurer's duty to defend); see also § 12B.130, P 1b]. If a corporation nevertheless transacts business during forfeiture, any such income received or business transacted during the forfeiture period is subject to franchise taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23303]. Additionally, the Franchise Tax Board will impose an annual penalty on a corporation doing business after forfeiture if the corporation fails to make and file a tax return, unless the failure to file is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19135].

In addition, contracts made in California after forfeiture [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23775] are voidable at the option of any party to the contract other than the foreign corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(a); see §§ 12B.31[4], 12B.262 (form)].

[ii] For Failure to File Annual Statements

When a corporation has suffered forfeiture for failure to file an annual statement, the Secretary of State will mail a notice to the corporation, informing it that its corporate powers, rights, and privileges will be suspended after 60 days if it fails to file a statement [Corp. Code §§ 2205(b), 2206(a)]. After the 60-day period has expired without the filing of a statement, the Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board of the forfeiture, and mail a notice of the forfeiture to the corporation.

In this circumstance, when the corporate powers, rights, and privileges of the corporation are forfeited, the corporation may nevertheless amend the articles of incorporation to set forth a new name [Corp. Code §§ 2205(c), 2206(a)].

Additionally, a suspended corporation may file an application for exempt status, and amend its articles of incorporation as necessary to perfect that application [Corp. Code § 1502(c)], and a foreign nonprofit corporation that has suffered forfeiture may nevertheless file an application for exempt status [Corp. Code § 2206(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301].

[d] Reviving Corporate Powers

When forfeiture was suffered for failure to pay taxes or file tax returns, the corporation's powers may be revived by (1) applying in writing to the Franchise Tax Board for a certificate of revivor [see [2], below], (2) filing all tax returns required under the Bank and Corporation Tax Law, and (3) paying all taxes, additions to tax, deficiencies, interest, and penalties due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(e) (simultaneous filing for relief from voidability)].

Alternatively, the Franchise Tax Board may revive a corporation to good standing without full payment of franchise tax liability if the Board determines that doing so will improve the prospects for collection of the full amount due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305b]. In addition, the Franchise Tax Board will issue a certificate of revivor if the corporation provides the board with an assumption of liability, a bond, deposit, or other acceptable security for the corporation's tax liability in lieu of actual payment of all outstanding tax liabilities [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. After securing the debt, the corporation has a reasonable time after the issuance of the certificate of revivor in which to file any necessary returns, notwithstanding the otherwise applicable requirement that the corporation file all necessary returns before the Franchise Tax Board will grant revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305]. For further discussion of reviving corporate powers, see § 12B.31[3][c].

A foreign corporation that has suffered forfeiture for failure to file annual statements must file all required statements before applying for revivor [see Corp. Code §§ 2205(d), 2206(a)].

[e] Issuance and Effect of Certificate of Revivor

Before the certificate of revivor can be issued, the Franchise Tax Board must obtain from the Secretary of State an endorsement on the application for reinstatement of the fact that the name of the corporation continues to meet the corporate name requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see Corp. Code § 2106(b); see also Boyer v. Jones (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 220, 221-222, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 824 (holding that under Corp. Code § 201(b) and Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a, name of suspended corporation may be reserved and adopted by another corporation during period of suspension, and affirming trial court's denial of suspended corporation's petition for writ of mandate seeking restoration of its name); § 12B.11[2][b]]. Once this endorsement is received, the Franchise Tax Board will issue a certificate of revivor to the corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305] and inform the Secretary of State that the corporation's powers, rights, and privileges have been revived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305c(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305c(c) (restoration for erroneous forfeitures)].

Before a certificate of revivor can be issued for a corporation that has suffered forfeiture for failure to pay taxes or file a tax return, the corporation must, in addition to paying the taxes, penalties, and interest already owed [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305], prepay the minimum franchise tax imposed to resume doing business after revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23282(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153]. Additional taxes may be due depending on whether the corporation was "doing business" in the year preceding or during the year of revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23282(a), (c)]. For further discussion, see § 12B.31[3][c][iii].

On issuance of the certificate, the corporation is reinstated and its legal rights are revived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see Rochin v. Pat Johnson Mfg. Co. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1228, 1236-1237, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 719 (although manufacturer's corporate powers were suspended before personal injury action was brought against it and before subsequent action to vacate amended judgment, corporation was entitled to defend appeal from order sustaining its demurrer in second action because corporation's certificate of revivor became effective during pendency of appeal); Benton v. County of Napa (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1485, 1490, 277 Cal. Rptr. 541 (revivor validates procedural steps taken during suspension)]. However, the reinstatement is without prejudice to any action, defense, or right that has accrued by reason of the original forfeiture except as to the voidability of some contracts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23304.5, 23305.1; see also §§ 12B.31[4], 12B.262 (form)]. Further, the certificate of revivor operates as prima facie evidence of the reinstatement, and may be recorded in the office of any county recorder [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a].

§ 12B.262 Application for Relief From Contract Voidability for Failure to Pay Taxes or File Returns [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for relief from contract voidability [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1]. It is used by a foreign corporation to apply to have voided (but unrescinded) contracts enforced [see [d], below] after the corporation has been deprived of its corporate power to make contracts due to a failure to pay taxes or file tax returns [see [b], below].

The form illustrated here is the official Franchise Tax Board form (Form FTB 2518BC). The Franchise Tax Board will accept applications only on the official form; photocopies and other reproductions are not sufficient. Forms may be ordered by telephoning 1-800-852-5711, or by mail, from the Franchise Tax Board.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Franchise Tax Board, which is located at http://www.ftb.ca.gov. [b] Bases for Contract Voidability

Contracts made in California by a qualified foreign corporation during the time that the corporation's powers, rights, and privileges are forfeited due to a failure to pay taxes or file a tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23301.5, 23775; see also § 12B.31[3]] are voidable at the option of any party to the contract other than the foreign corporation [Rev. &

Tax. Code § 23304.1(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5 (procedure)]. In addition, if a foreign corporation that neither is qualified to do business in California nor has a corporate account number from the Franchise Tax Board fails to file a tax return required by the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.], any contract made in California during the applicable period may be voided by any party to the contract other than the corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(c) ("applicable period")].

If a corporation is unqualified [see § 12B.11] but has a corporate account number from the Franchise Tax Board, failure to file a tax return or to pay any amount owing to the Franchise Tax Board required under the Bank and Corporation Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.], or an exempt organization's failure to file any informational statement or return [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23772, 23774; see § 12B.31[2]], will render any contract made by the corporation in California during a certain time period voidable at the instance of any party to the contract other than the taxpayer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(d)]. To be subject to this penalty, the corporation must have failed to file or pay within 60 days after the Franchise Tax Board mailed a written demand. The time period for voidability begins at the end of this 60-day period and ends on the earlier of (1) the date relief is granted [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1; see [d], below] or (2) the date the taxpayer qualifies to do business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.1(d); see § 12B.11].

[c] Effect of Voidability

A party with the right to declare a contract void under these provisions may exercise that right only in a lawsuit on the contract [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5]. The rights of the parties to the contract are not affected by these provisions except to the extent expressly provided by a final judgment of the court, and that judgment must allow the corporation a reasonable time to cure the voidability [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1].

If the court finds the contract voidable, it must order the contract rescinded. However, the court cannot order rescission unless the unqualified foreign corporation receives full restitution of the benefits provided under the contract [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5].

If the corporation applies for relief from voidability, the Franchise Tax Board may assess additional penalties [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b); see [d], below].

[d] Applying for Relief From Contract Voidability

[i] Application Procedure

A corporation may apply to the Franchise Tax Board for relief from contract voidability [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)], which will be granted if the application is properly filed, the period for which relief is granted is specified, any necessary tax returns are filed, and any taxes, penalties, interest, and other amounts due are paid to the Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)] or liability for them is assumed [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. The Franchise Tax Board will assess a penalty for each day of the period for which relief from voidability is granted. The total penalty assessed, however, must not exceed the amount of the tax for the period for which relief is requested [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(1)(B)]. A daily penalty with a different maximum is specified if an application for relief is filed for a period in which an application for revivor has been filed and a certificate of revivor has been issued [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(2)(B)].

Ordinarily, the period for which relief is requested begins on the date that one of the taxpayer's income years begin and ends on the date that relief is granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(1)(A)]. However, if an application for relief for voidability is filed for a period in which an application for revivor has been filed and a certificate of revivor has been issued, the period for which relief is requested begins on the date the taxpayer's powers, rights, and privileges had been suspended or forfeited and ends on the date relief is granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(b)(2)(A)].

Notwithstanding the requirement that the corporation pay any liability due [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(a)], the Franchise Tax Board will issue a certificate of relief from voidability if the corporation provides the Board with an assumption of liability or a bond, deposit, or other acceptable security for the corporation's tax liability in lieu of actual payment of all outstanding tax liabilities [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. Obtaining relief by securing the debt does not constitute an admission of liability and does not relieve the corporation from liability for taxes, additions to tax, penalties, or interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2]. After securing the debt, the corporation has a reasonable time after relief is granted in which to file any necessary returns, notwithstanding the otherwise applicable requirement that the corporation file all necessary returns before the Franchise Tax Board will grant revivor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1].

[ii] Effect of Relief

If the taxpayer is granted relief from contract voidability, all contracts entered into during the period for which relief is granted that have not been rescinded by a final court order [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5] may be enforced in the same manner and to the same extent, with regard to both parties to the contract and any third parties, as if the contract had never been voidable [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(1)(A)]. Sales, transfers, and exchanges of California real property during the period for which relief is granted (that is, when the taxpayer was not entitled to sell, transfer, or exchange real property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23302(d); see also § 12B.31[3]]) that have not been rescinded by a final court order [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23304.5] are as valid as if the taxpayer had not been prohibited from conveying real property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(1)(B)].

Once relief is granted, the Franchise Tax Board will issue and mail a certificate to the taxpayer, or as directed by the taxpayer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(2)]. The certificate (1) indicates the period for which relief is granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(c)(2)], (2) constitutes prima facie evidence of the relief from voidability, and (3) may be recorded [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305.1(d)].

This chapter discusses the nature and formation of limited liability companies ("LLCs") under California's Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act [Corp. Code § 17000 et seq.]. The Legal Background covers the applicability of the Act, including domestic and foreign LLCs. Formation and operation of LLCs are covered, including structuring formalities, member and management concerns, registration and recordkeeping requirements, and merger and dissolution procedures. The Legal Background also examines taxation and liability issues that will arise in the formation and operation of an LLC. Finally, the Legal Background provides preformation planning assistance, by comparing LLCs with other types of business entities.

The Transaction Guide provides checklists of information and documents to be covered in client interviews, as well as guides to help in deciding whether to form an LLC and if so, how to structure the LLC. Procedural guides are provided for forming and operating a domestic LLC, amending the articles, correcting other filed forms, filing annual statements, filing tax forms, merging and reorganizing, and dissolving. Procedural guide are also provided for registering and canceling a foreign LLC. Finally, the Transaction Guide includes a guide to drafting an operating agreement.

The forms in this chapter contain all of the Secretary of State's mandatory LLC forms, complete operating agreements and optional or alternative provisions, an agreement of merger, a notice and demand related to dissenters' rights on reorganization, transmittal letters to the LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State, and various Franchise Tax Board tax forms for use by LLCs.

For coverage of S corporations, see Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status . General and limited partnerships are covered in Chs. 15 through 15C. For a discussion of the conversion of business entities, including limited liability companies, into corporations, and the conversion of corporations into other business entities, see Ch. 11F, Corporate Conversions .

6-12C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 12C.10

AUTHOR: Jack S. Johal Colby A. Campbell Practice ConsultantsMelissa C. Marsh Practice Consultant for November 2002 Forms Revision

§ 12C.10 Overview

[1] Effective Date

On September 30, 1994, Governor Pete Wilson signed legislation enacting the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act (the "Act") [Stats. 1994, ch. 1200, § 27; S.B. 469; see Corp. Code § 17000 et seq.]. As urgency legislation, the Act became effective on that date [Stats. 1994, ch. 1200, § 100]. Conforming legislation to various California codes was also enacted [Stats. 1994, ch. 1010; S.B. 2053].

[2] General Characteristics of Limited Liability Companies

The Limited Liability Company or "LLC" is a relatively new type of business entity that is essentially a hybrid of a corporation and a partnership. If structured properly, a California LLC can be taxed as a partnership on both the federal and California level, without some of the restrictions imposed on corporations and limited partnerships. Properly structured LLCs can also provide their members, managers, and officers limited liability similar to that enjoyed by corporate shareholders; that is, liability limited to their investments and commitments to invest in the LLC.

LLCs offer great flexibility of form and structure, which can range from the extremely simple to the very complex and, if desired, can closely resemble the management and ownership structures of either corporations or general or limited partnerships.

LLCs have two basic organizational documents. The first is the articles of organization, a one-page statutory form, which must be filed with the Secretary of State [see § 12C.200]. The second is the operating agreement, a vehicle for prescribing the structural details of the LLC [see § 12C.220]. It is permissible to have an oral operating agreement, though prudent practice would indicate having a written agreement. Various other registration forms are also prescribed by the Secretary of State [see §§ 12C.201-12C.211].

[3] Overriding the Act Through Articles or Operating Agreement

The Act expressly allows an LLC's articles of organization and operating agreement to govern the relations among members and between members and the LLC. To the extent that the articles of organization or operating agreement do not provide otherwise, the Act will govern those relations [Corp. Code § 17005(a)]. Thus, with the exceptions noted below, the Act's provisions are default provisions that will apply when the articles or operating agreement are silent. The Act further provides that the presence in any of its provisions of the words "unless otherwise provided in the articles of organization or operating agreement" (or similar words) does not imply that other provisions of the Act may not be varied as among members by those documents [Corp. Code § 17005(e)].

Some provisions of the Act may only be varied by the articles or a written operating agreement. These include the provision that the power to adopt, alter, amend, or repeal an operating agreement is vested in the members [Corp. Code § 17059]; certain matters as to members' voting rights [Corp. Code § 17103]; certain matters as to meetings of members [Corp. Code § 17104]; certain matters as to election, removal, resignation, or expiration of terms of managers [Corp. Code § 17152]; appointment, resignation, and removal of officers and their authority [Corp. Code § 17154]; and indemnification of managers and others and securing insurance for them [Corp. Code § 17155].

The provision as to the fiduciary duties of a manager [see § 12C.24[6]] can be modified only by a written operating agreement "with the informed consent of the members" [Corp. Code § 17005(d)].

Corp. Code § 17005(b) lists several provisions of the Act respecting relations of members that cannot be overridden by articles or an operating agreement. These include the definitions in the Act and a number of voting and other rights of members [Corp. Code § 17005(b)]. Certain other matters relating to formation of LLCs, class and derivative actions, mergers, and dissenting rights of members in reorganizations and dissolution of an LLC may be varied only to the extent expressly provided by the pertinent provisions of the Act [Corp. Code § 17005(c)].

This chapter includes reminders in several key places that a particular provision of the Act may or may not be overridden. Other provisions of the Act described in this chapter, however, may also be overridden. Therefore, the reader should refer back to this section or to Corp. Code § 17005 for guidance as to whether a particular provision of the Act may be overridden and in what way.

[4] Role of Limited Liability Companies

The role of LLCs in California is becoming clearer with the passage of time. Though the Act is designed especially to assist the formation and operation of small, closely-held or closely-controlled business arrangements, unlike some other states' statutes the California Act permits structures sufficiently flexible to be attractive to larger, more complex business ventures. Business areas in which the LLC seems particularly useful include real estate, joint ventures (particularly ventures with foreign partners), high technology and venture capital, oil and gas, and theatrical investments. LLCs often may be used in situations in which a general or limited partnership or S corporation previously might have been used.

[5] Prohibited Activities

[a] Professional Limited Liability Companies

The California LLC Act, unlike similar legislation in other states, prohibits domestic and foreign LLCs from rendering professional services in California [Corp. Code § 17375]. "Professional services" means any type of professional services that may be lawfully rendered only pursuant to a license, certification, or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Osteopathic Act, the Yacht and Ship Brokers Act, or the Chiropractic Act [Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3].

The Limited Liability Company Unit (LLC Unit) in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State (where LLC documents must be filed) has indicated that it is the applicant's responsibility to determine whether the LLC is prohibited from filing; the LLC Unit will not make that determination. The current policy of the LLC Unit is to return any filing or name reservation that is indicative of a "professional service" LLC [see Corp. Code § 13401(a) (definition)]. If the documents are returned in error, the applicant may resubmit the documents accompanied by a letter stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition. If the document originally submitted for filing was otherwise acceptable, the filing date will be the date indicated in the Secretary of State stamp on the reverse of the document [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

To prevent delays, the Secretary of State recommends that the applicant submit a cover letter with the documents stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition on LLCs rendering professional services, and that the LLC is not prohibited from filing [Secretary of State's LLC form packet; see §§ 12C.241, 12C.242 (transmittal letters)].

Chapter 9of the LLC Act has been reserved for possible future use if changes in law permit LLCs to render professional services. For the present, however, professional LLCs may not be formed.

[b] Banking, Insurance, or Trust Company Business

Limited liability companies may not engage in the banking business, the business of issuing insurance policies and assuming insurance risks, or trust company business [Corp. Code § 17002(a)]. This relatively narrow restriction should not detract from the overall business usefulness of LLCs.

[c] Health Care Service Plan

No LLC may operate as a licensed health care service plan unless it is a subsidiary of a licensed health care service plan and is established to serve an existing line of business of the parent [Corp. Code § 17002(b)]. Further, the tort and contractual liability of an LLC created to operate as a health care service plan and its members is not limited or restricted in any manner because of the LLC status of the health care service plan [Corp. Code § 17002(b)].

§ 12C.11 Foreign Limited Liability Companies

[1] Recognition and Governing Law

A foreign limited liability company ("foreign LLC") may register as an LLC in California. A foreign LLC will be recognized as such and its organization and internal affairs, and the authority and liability of its managers and members, will be governed by the laws of the state or foreign country under which it is organized [Corp. Code § 17450(a)].

[2] Registration; Transacting Intrastate Business

A foreign LLC is allowed to register with the Secretary of State and must do so to transact intrastate business in California lawfully [Corp. Code §§ 17450-17457]. To register as a foreign LLC, it must register with the Secretary of State on Form LLC-5 [see § 12C.204], comply with name requirements, and pay applicable fees [Corp. Code §§ 17451, 17452].

A foreign LLC may not be denied registration because of a difference between the laws under which it is organized and the laws of California [Corp. Code § 17450(b)]. This can be of considerable importance because the definition of a "foreign LLC" [see Corp. Code § 17001(q)] allows considerable latitude of form and structure with respect to the foreign LLC. However, this provision does not override the restriction described in § 12C.10[5], prohibiting the rendition of professional services. Accordingly, foreign LLCs may not render professional services as LLCs in California [Corp. Code § 17375].

Failure to register before transacting intrastate business subjects a foreign LLC to penalties essentially the same as those applicable to unregistered foreign corporations or limited partnerships. The definition of "transacting intrastate business" [see Corp. Code § 17001(ap)] is also essentially the same for foreign LLCs as for other foreign business entities. Penalties include the inability to maintain proceedings in California courts until the LLC registers and monetary penalties [Corp. Code § 17456(a), (b)]. In addition, a foreign LLC transacting business in California without having registered appoints the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process for causes of action arising out of the transaction of business in California [Corp. Code § 17456(d)]. A member of a foreign LLC does not become liable for obligations of the foreign LLC solely because of its failure to register [see Corp. Code § 17456(c)]. A registered foreign LLC is required to file the same biennial report as an LLC within specified periods [see Corp. Code § 17060(a)] and is subject to monetary penalties and possible loss of its right to transact intrastate business in California if it does not do so [Corp. Code § 17655].

[3] Effect of Recognition and Registration

Recognition of foreign LLCs is very significant for them under California law. Before enactment of the California LLC Act, a foreign LLC might have been treated as a general partnership, an unincorporated association, or a corporation. Treatment might have differed depending on the purpose; for example, liability of members, taxation, entity status, or right to hold property. The Act seems to lay most of these uncertainties to rest, subject to future judicial interpretations.

As with other types of foreign entities doing intrastate business in California, registration of a foreign LLC means that it may transact intrastate business, may maintain legal actions, is required to pay state taxes and fees [see § 12C.53], and can avoid pecuniary penalties for failure to register [Corp. Code §§ 17456, 17457].

§ 12C.20 General Description and Characteristics

[1] Definition and Powers Under the Act

A "limited liability company" or "domestic limited liability company" is an entity with one or more members organized under the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)].

An LLC may engage in any lawful business activity (subject to any limitations contained in its articles of organization and to compliance with any other applicable laws) except the banking business, the business of issuing insurance policies and assuming insurance risks, or trust company business [Corp. Code § 17002(a)], and except for rendering professional services as described in § 12C.10[5]. An LLC may operate as a licensed health care service plan if it is a subsidiary of a licensed health care service plan and is established to serve an existing line of business of the parent [Corp. Code § 17002(b)]. In carrying out its business activities, an LLC has all of the powers of a natural person, subject to any limitations contained in its articles of organization and subject to compliance with the Act and other applicable laws. These powers include the power to transact business, sue or be sued, make contracts, own and transfer real and personal property, issue stock, and many others [see Corp. Code § 17003].

[2] Characteristics of a Limited Liability Company

[a] Limited Liability

In general, LLCs afford their members and managers (including officers) limited liability essentially like that enjoyed by a corporate shareholder. They are not personally liable for any debt, liability, or obligation of the LLC arising in "contract, tort, or otherwise" solely by being a member, manager or officer of the LLC [Corp. Code §§ 17101(a), (b), 17158; but see Corp. Code § 17101(a) (LLC members subject to liability under common law alter ego doctrine)]. However, neither the tort and contractual liability of an LLC created to operate as a health care service plan, nor that of its members, is limited or restricted in any manner because of the LLC status of the health care service plan [Corp.

Code § 17002(b)]. Additional exceptions to limited liability of members, managers, and officers are discussed in §§ 12C.23[14][b] and 12C.24[8][b].

[b] Treatment Similar to Partnership for Income Tax Purposes

A properly structured LLC will be taxed as a partnership for income tax purposes. That treatment avoids the double taxation attributable to corporations that are not S corporations; that is, taxation once on the corporate earnings and again on shareholders' dividends. It also allows other tax benefits as contrasted not only with corporations but also, in a few respects, with partnerships. For detailed coverage of partnership tax treatment of an LLC, see § 12C.50[2].

[c] Limited Duration

The articles of organization may specify the time when the limited liability company is dissolved [Corp. Code § 17051(c)(3)], but are no longer required to do so. When the Act was first enacted in California, a date of dissolution was required to be set forth in the articles [see former Corp. Code § 17051(a)(2)]. This requirement was included in the Act to help achieve partnership tax treatment for LLCs under the Internal Revenue Service's entity classification rules in effect prior to January 1, 1997. Under the pre-1997 rules, continuity of life was one corporate characteristic that combined with others could result in the classification of an entity as a corporation rather than a partnership for income tax purposes. Under the liberalized treasury regulations, commonly called "check-the-box regs," that took effect on January 1, 1997, the requirement that a date of dissolution be specified to avoid continuity of life is no longer relevant because partnership tax status is a matter of election rather than counting up corporate characteristics [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(a)(1); see also § 12C.50]. Accordingly, the Act's former requirement that a date of dissolution be included in the articles of organization was eliminated in 1998, and inclusion of a date of dissolution is now optional instead [Corp. Code § 17051(c)(3)].

Similarly, under former law an LLC was required to dissolve on the death, bankruptcy, retirement, resignation, expulsion, or dissolution of any member who is a manager (in an LLC managed by one or more member-managers) or any member (in an LLC managed by its members or by one or more nonmember-managers) unless the agreement provided to the contrary or permitted a majority in interest of the remaining members to vote to continue the business [see former Corp. Code § 17350(d)]. This requirement is no longer imposed by statute, or necessary to ensure proper tax status [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(a)(1)].

[d] Members

An LLC must have at least one member [see Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b); see also § 12C.23[1]]. A membership interest includes the member's economic interest in the LLC, any right to vote or participate in management, and any right to information about the affairs of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(z)]. The interest may, but need not, be issued in the form of certificates of interest.

Except for membership interests in LLCs that are actively managed by all members, an interest in an LLC is a "security" as that term is defined by the Corporate Securities Law of 1968, and is subject to qualification under that law unless an exemption from qualification is available. The person claiming that an LLC interest is not a "security" because all members actively manage the LLC has the burden of proof. Evidence that members vote, or have the right to vote, or the right to information concerning the LLC's business and affairs, or the right to participate in management does not establish, without more, that all members are actively managing the LLC [Corp. Code § 25019].

[3] Taxation of Limited Liability Companies

A domestic or foreign LLC classified as a partnership for California tax purposes that is doing business in California, organized in California, or registered with the Secretary of State must file a California tax return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5; see § 12C.250 (tax return)]. It must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 for the privilege of doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(a), (b), 23151, 23153(d)(1)]. In addition, an LLC subject to the minimum franchise tax must also pay a graduated annual fee based on its total income of $250,000 or more from all sources derived from or attributable to California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a), (b)]. For more detailed coverage of the taxation of LLCs, see § 12C.53.

An LLC is a pass-through tax entity for California and federal income tax purposes, much like a partnership, and so its members, not the LLC, pay tax on its net income, much as partners would [I.R.C. § 701]. For further discussion, see §§ 12C.51 and 12C.52.

§ 12C.21 Formation

[1] General Requirements

An LLC must have at least one member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. Members may be natural persons, partnerships, limited partnerships, trusts, estates, associations, corporations, other LLCs, or other types of entities, whether domestic or foreign [Corp. Code § 17001(x), (ae); see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

PRACTICE TIP:

For federal tax purposes, a LLC with only one member is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner for federal tax purposes, unless it elects to be taxed as an "association" (corporation) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

Forming an LLC is simple: the LLC comes into existence when its articles of organization are filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17050(c); see [3], below; see also § 12C.200]. Before or after (presumably promptly after) that filing, the members must enter into a written or oral operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17050(a); see [4], below; see also § 12C.220].

[2] Name

[a] Requirements

The Act sets forth specific requirements regarding an LLC's name. The name of the LLC must be set forth in the articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17052; see [3][b], below]. Chiefly, the name must not be one that the Secretary of State determines is likely to mislead the public, and must not be the same as, or resemble so closely as to tend to deceive, the name of an existing domestic or registered foreign LLC or a name already reserved by an LLC or foreign LLC. An existing domestic or foreign LLC may, however, consent to the use of the proposed name, and if the Secretary of State finds that under the circumstances the public is not likely to be misled, the name may be used [Corp. Code § 17052(c); see [b], below].

The last words of the name must be "limited liability company" or the abbreviation "LLC" or "L.L.C." The words "limited" and "company" may be abbreviated to "Ltd." and "Co." respectively [Corp. Code § 17052(a)]. The words "bank," "trust," "trustee," "incorporated," "inc.," "corporation," "corp.," "insurer," "insurance company," or any other words suggesting that the LLC is in the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, may not be used in the name of an LLC [Corp. Code § 17052(d)].

An LLC's name may contain the name of one or more of its members [Corp. Code § 17052(b)].

[b] Reservation

On payment of the required fee [see Gov. Code § 12190(a)], an applicant may reserve an approved LLC name with the Secretary of State for 60 days. The same person may not reserve the same name for consecutive 60-day periods [Corp. Code § 17053], but may do so with breaks between 60-day periods. If the name is approved by the LLC Unit, the applicant will receive a certificate of reservation for the name. However, obtaining a certificate of reservation for an LLC name is not a prerequisite to filing articles of organization [Secretary of State's LLC form packet]. For the official form reserving an LLC name, see § 12C.199.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is the policy of the LLC Unit to return any filing or name reservation that is indicative of a "professional service" LLC [Secretary of State's LLC form packet; see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition), 17375]. For this reason, the applicant should include a statement in his or her filing instructions that the LLC will not be rendering professional services.

[3] Articles of Organization

[a] Filing Requirements

Articles of organization must be filed on Form LLC-1 [see § 12C.200 (form)]. This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, the articles, like all mandatory LLC forms, must be filed with the LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet]. The articles must be executed by one or more persons, who need not be members of the LLC, and submitted for filing with the applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 17050(a); see Gov. Code § 12190(b)(fee)].

[b] Contents

The articles of organization of an LLC must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 17051(a)]:

- The name of the LLC.
- A statement regarding the purpose of the LLC in the form specified by the Act.
- The name and address of the LLC's initial agent for service of process.
- If it is to be managed by managers and not by all of its members, a statement to that effect. If it is to be managed by only one manager, a statement to that effect [Corp. Code § 17151(b); see Form LLC-1, item 6; see also § 12C.200[2]].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Act contains a default provision stating that if the articles of organization are silent on the issue of management, the LLC will be deemed to be managed by its members [Corp. Code §§ 17150, 17151(b)]. An LLC may elect management by managers after the initial filing of the articles by amending them, or by executing restated articles [see [d], [e], below].

The articles may include other provisions not inconsistent with law, including provisions limiting or restricting the business or powers of the LLC; governing admission of members; the time when the limited liability company is dissolved; any events that will cause dissolution of the LLC [see § 12C.26[1]]; a statement of whether there are limitations on the authority of managers or members to bind the LLC and if so what they are; and the names of the managers of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17051(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Because the articles of organization are a public document and can be changed only by amendment filed with the Secretary of State and, unless otherwise provided in the articles or a written operating agreement, require the unanimous vote of all members for their amendment, it may be desirable not to include optional matters in the articles.

[c] Articles of Organization Govern Operating Agreement

If any provision of the articles of an LLC conflicts with the LLC's written operating agreement, the articles control [Corp. Code § 17005(f); see [4], below].

[d] Amendment of Articles

Subject to the requirement that at least a majority in interest of the members vote to amend [Corp. Code § 17103(b)], the members of an LLC may amend its articles at any time [Corp. Code § 17054(a)]. An amendment may make any change in the articles determined by the members and that would be lawful to insert in original articles filed at the time the amendment is filed [Corp. Code 17054(a)].

To amend the articles, at least one manager of the LLC (or a greater number, if provided in articles) must execute and file a certificate of amendment (Form LLC-2) with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17054(b); see § 12C.201]. Although the Act expressly requires the manager(s) to execute the certificate [see also Corp. Code § 17056(a) (generally requiring managers to execute documents filed with the Secretary of State)], and has no provision for members in a member-managed LLC to execute a certificate of amendment, such members would have to have that authority if the LLC has no manager(s) [see Corp. Code § 17157]. Thus, presumably, the LLC's operating agreement would designate which member or members in an LLC without managers would have the authority to execute certificates of amendment.

The certificate must contain the LLC's name, its Secretary of State's file number, and the text of the amendment [Corp. Code § 17054(b)]. It must be filed to effect the following [Corp. Code § 17054(c)]:

- A change in the name of the LLC.
- A change in the statement regarding the existence of managers [see Corp. Code § 17151(b)].
- A change in the time for dissolution of the LLC.
- A change in the events that will cause dissolution of the LLC.

In addition, a certificate of amendment must be filed within 30 days of discovery by a manager (or, presumably, a member if the LLC has no managers) of any false or erroneous material statement in the articles [Corp. Code § 17054(d)].

A manager may be liable for misstatements in a certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 17054(e); see § 12C.24[8][b][iii]].

[e] Restatement of Articles

An LLC's articles of organization may be restated at any time by filing Form LLC-10 [see § 12C.208] with the Secretary of State. In general, the restated articles must contain all the information required to be included in the original articles [Corp. Code § 17054(f); see Corp. Code § 17051 (requirements for original articles); see also [b], above].

[f] Recording of Articles

An LLC may record with any county recorder a certified copy of its articles of organization and any exhibits, attachments, or amendments filed with the Secretary of State. A foreign LLC may record a certified copy of its application for registration, certificate of registration, or any amendment filed in the office of the Secretary of State. The recording will create a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the LLC's real property located in the county in which the certified copy has been recorded of the statements contained in the document [Corp. Code § 17052(f)].

[4] Operating Agreement

The members of an LLC must enter into an operating agreement either before or after the filing of its articles [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. The Act defines an "operating agreement" as any agreement, written or oral, among all the members as to the affairs of the LLC and the conduct of its business in a manner not inconsistent with law or its articles, including amendments [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)].

The operating agreement may be written or oral and may be as simple as an agreement to organize an LLC pursuant to the provisions of the Act [Corp. Code § 17001(ab) ("operating agreement" defined)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Except in unusual circumstances or when its terms are relatively simple and readily provable, an operating agreement should be written. A written agreement may help to avoid (1) future disagreements among members and between members, managers, and officers, and (2) arguments against limited liability protection based on a lack of operating agreement or the inadequacy of the agreement (for example, insufficient structuring of capital accounts). A written agreement that provides for the active management of all members will also assist in establishing that membership interests are not "securities" for the purposes of the California Corporate Securities Law [see Corp. Code § 25019].

Depending, among other things, on the complexity of the desired business structure and on whether the LLC will be managed by its members or by managers other than all of the members, the operating agreement may need to contain provisions somewhat akin to those in corporate bylaws and certainly many of the provisions that would be contained in a well thought out partnership agreement. One of the advantages of the LLC format is the flexibility to structure the operating agreement with some or all of the elements of bylaws, partnership agreements, or combinations of both in order to customize and conform the agreement to the parties' economic arrangements.

The operating agreement may include, without changes, the matters already provided for by the Act simply as a readily available administrative guide. This practice, common in drafting corporate bylaws, will require that the agreement be reviewed when the governing law is amended. The operating agreement should also specify any respects in which the "default provisions" of the initial Act [see § 12C.10[3]] are to be changed or rendered inapplicable to the LLC. Some changes to default provisions must be in a written operating agreement to be effective [Corp. Code § 17005(b)- (d)].

The power to adopt and change the operating agreement of an LLC is vested in its members but its articles of organization or a written operating agreement may prescribe the manner in which the operating agreement may be changed [Corp. Code § 17059].

For a checklist of provisions to be included in the operating agreement, refer to the drafting guide in § 12C.140. For an operating agreement form, see § 12C.220.

[5] Biennial Statement

Every LLC, whether domestic or foreign, must file a biennial statement of information on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State [see §§ 12C.210 (Form LLC-12--initial statement), 12C.210A (Form LLC-12R--biennial renewal statement)]. The form must be filed with the Secretary of State within 90 days after an LLC's original articles of organization are filed, and biennially thereafter during the calendar month when the original articles of organization were filed, or in the case of a foreign LLC, the month during which its application for registration was filed, and the immediately preceding five months [Corp. Code § 17060(a), (c)]. Approximately three months prior to the close of the applicable filing period, the Secretary of State will mail a form for compliance with this filing requirement to the LLC's last known address according to the records of the Secretary of State. Failure of an LLC to receive the form will not exempt it from complying with the filing requirement [Corp. Code § 17060(c)]. If no required information has changed since the previous statement was filed, an LLC, in lieu of filing this statement, may advise the Secretary of State that no changes in the required information have occurred on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17060(b); see § 12C.210A[1][c]].

If the biennial statement is not filed as required, an LLC is subject to monetary penalties and possible suspension of its powers and rights [Corp. Code §§ 17651(b), 17653, 17654].

§ 12C.22 Agent, Office, and Recordkeeping Requirements

[1] Agent for Service of Process

An LLC must continuously maintain an agent in California for service of process [Corp. Code § 17057(b)].

If there is a change in the identity or address of the agent, the LLC must file a new Statement of Information (Form LLC-12 or LLC-12R) containing the updated information [Corp. Code § 17060(d); see § 12C.210A[1][d]].

[2] Office in California

An LLC must continuously maintain an office located in California at which it keeps required records [Corp. Code § 17057(a); see [3], below]. Within California the office may be located where the managers, if any, or the members of the LLC choose.

[3] Records Required to Be Kept at Office

An LLC must maintain the following records at its office in California, in writing or in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form [Corp. Code § 17058(a)]:

- A current list of the full name and last known business or residence address of each member and each holder of an economic interest in the LLC, set forth in alphabetical order, and the contribution and share in profits and losses of each member and holder of an economic interest.

- A current list of the full name and business or residence address of each manager [see Corp. Code § 17151(b)].

- A copy of its articles of organization, any amendments to the articles, and executed copies of any powers of attorney relating to the execution of the articles.

- Copies of the LLC's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns and reports, if any, for the six most recent taxable years.

- A copy of any written operating agreement, any amendments to the agreement, and executed copies of any powers of attorney relating to the execution of the agreement.

- Copies of the LLC's financial statements for the six most recent fiscal years.

- The LLC's books and records as they relate to its internal affairs for at least the current and past four fiscal years.

On an assessor's request, an LLC owning, claiming, possessing, or controlling property in California that is subject to local assessment must make available at the LLC's principal office in California, or at a place mutually acceptable to the assessor and the LLC, a true copy of business records relevant to the amount, cost, and value of all property that it owns, claims, possesses, or controls within the county [Corp. Code § 17058(b)].

An LLC failing to comply with these recordkeeping requirements after a written request to do so by a member is subject to daily monetary penalties up to a stated maximum [Corp. Code § 17651].

§ 12C.23 Members

[1] "Member" Defined

A "member" of an LLC is a person who has been admitted as a member in accordance with its articles of organization or operating agreement, or is an assignee of an interest in the LLC who has become a member, and who has not resigned, withdrawn, or been expelled or dissolved [Corp. Code § 17001(x)]. The term "person" includes natural persons and most other types of entities, domestic and foreign [Corp. Code § 17001(ae); see § 12C.21[1]]. Thus, potentially any person can be a member of an LLC, which is one of the primary advantages LLCs have over, for example, S corporations [see § 12C.42].

[2] "Membership Interest" Defined

A "membership interest" in an LLC is a member's rights in it, collectively, including the member's economic interest, any right to vote or participate in its management, and any rights to information concerning its business and affairs provided by the Act [Corp. Code § 17001(z)]. "Economic interest" means a person's right to share in income, gains, losses, deductions, credit, or similar items of, and receive distributions from, an LLC, but does not include any other rights of a member including, without limitation, rights to vote or to participate in management or, with some exceptions set forth in Corp. Code § 17106, rights to information concerning the business and affairs of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(n)]. A membership interest or an economic interest is the personal property of the member or an assignee, and neither a member nor an assignee has any interest in specific LLC property [Corp. Code § 17300; see Paclink Communications International, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 958, 964-965, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] . Thus, for example, an action by LLC members for fraudulent transfer of company's assets could only be brought as derivative action. Because members hold no direct ownership interest under Corp. Code § 17300, they cannot be directly injured when company is improperly deprived of those assets [see Paclink Communications International, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 958, 964-965, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] .

A member's interest in an LLC is not subject to execution if the LLC is not a judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a)(2)]. A judgment creditor, however, may charge the membership interest of a member, and to the extent charged, become an assignee of that interest and entitled to the economic interest of the member [Corp. Code § 17032]. Whether a judgment creditor may foreclose on an LLC interest in the same manner that a judgment creditor may foreclose on a partnership interest is unclear because the Act, unlike the Uniform Partnership Acts, does not mention foreclosure of an LLC member's interest in connection with charging the member's interest [cf. Corp. Code § 16504 (creditors' rights respecting partnership interest subject to charging order); see Hellman v. Anderson (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 840, 848-850, 284 Cal. Rptr. 830 (right of creditor to foreclose implied from statute)].

An employee's interest in an LLC issued pursuant to a membership interest purchase or option plan, or an officer's or manager's membership interest issued in any transaction in connection with securing employment, is not subject to Labor Code provisions governing employee investments in an employer's business [Corp. Code § 17100(d); see Lab. Code §§ 406, 407].

[3] Classes of Members

The articles or a written operating agreement may provide for different classes of members. A class may have such relative rights, powers, and duties, which may be senior or subordinate to other classes, as provided by those documents [Corp. Code § 17103(a)].

[4] Becoming a Member

On formation of an LLC, its members are the persons who enter into its operating agreement before or after filing of its articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. After an LLC is formed, a person may become a member by acquiring a membership interest from it in conformity with its articles of organization or operating agreement or, if those documents do not otherwise provide, by vote of a majority in interest of the members, excluding the vote of the person acquiring the membership interest, and only on becoming a party to the operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17100(a)(1)].

A person who is an assignee of a membership interest may become a member on the unanimous vote (or if so provided in the articles or operating agreement, a lesser vote) of the other members and by complying with the articles or operating agreement or, if those documents do not so provide, when the person becomes a party to the operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17100(a)(2)]. Thus, even if membership interests are freely assignable, an assignee can become a member only as set forth in the preceding sentence.

The operating agreement may provide that interests of members or assignees may be evidenced by certificates and provide for their transfer [Corp. Code § 17105].

[5] Rights and Duties of Members

[a] Rights Contained in Articles of Organization or Operating Agreement

Membership rights and responsibilities are generally determined by the operating agreement or articles of organization. If those documents are silent, the Act provides default provisions [see § 12C.10[3]; see also Corp. Code §§ 17100-17104]. Particularly important issues to consider include members' rights concerning classes of members, capital contributions, allocations of profits and losses, distributions, voting, management rights (and rights as to managers), transfer of interests, and dissolution or merger.

[b] Transfer of Interests

Except as provided in the articles or the operating agreement, members may freely assign or encumber their economic interests [Corp. Code § 17301(a)(1); see [2], above]. They also may transfer their membership interests at any time with the consent of a majority in interest of the members not transferring their interests [Corp. Code §§ 17301(a), 17303(a)(1)]. Assignment of an economic interest does not of itself dissolve an LLC or, except as set forth in articles of organization or the operating agreement, entitle the assignee to vote and participate in the management and affairs of the LLC or to become or exercise any rights of a member [Corp. Code § 17301(a)(2)]. The assignment merely entitles the assignee to receive, to the extent assigned, economic benefits to which the assignor would have been entitled [Corp. Code § 17301(a)(3)]. In contrast, the assignment or transfer of a membership interest in accordance with the articles or operating agreement entitles the assignee to all of the rights and powers, and certain of the obligations, of a member [Corp. Code § 17303(a), (b)]. The assignee is not obligated for liabilities that are unknown to the assignee at the time the assignee became a member and that could not be determined from the articles or the operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17303(b)].

[c] Class and Derivative Actions

Any member of a domestic or foreign LLC may bring a class action on behalf of all or a class of members to enforce a claim common to those members, and may bring derivative actions in the name or right of the LLC. Any such class action is governed by the general law applicable to class actions [Corp. Code § 17500; see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; see also California Forms of Pleading & Practice, Ch. 120, Class Actions (Matthew Bender)]. In order to maintain a class action with regard to an LLC, there is no requirement that the class be so numerous that joinder of all members of the class is impractical [Corp. Code §§ 17500, 17501].

[6] Authority of Members

Unless the articles provide that an LLC will be managed by one or more managers, who may, but need not be members [Corp. Code § 17151(b)], every member is an agent of the LLC for the purpose of its business and affairs [Corp. Code § 17157(a)]. The act of any member for the apparent purpose of carrying on in the usual way the LLC's business and affairs binds the LLC, unless the member has no authority to act for the LLC in the particular matter and the person with whom the member is dealing actually knows that the member has no such authority [Corp. Code § 17157(a)]. A member acting in contravention of a restriction on authority cannot bind the LLC to persons actually knowing of the restriction [Corp. Code § 17157(c)].

If the LLC is managed by one or more managers, then no member, acting solely as such, is an agent of the LLC or can bind or act for the LLC [Corp. Code § 17157(b)(1)].

[7] Capital Contributions and Accounts of Members

[a] In General

The articles or operating agreement of an LLC may provide for capital contributions of members, which may be in money, property, or services, or an obligation to contribute money, property or services to the LLC [Corp. Code § 17200(a)]. The Act does not require that members make capital contributions, but some member capital is generally required by the business and adequate capitalization may be necessary for members to avoid personal liability [see § 12C.23[14][b][i]]. Subject to the articles or operating agreement, a member is not excused from an agreement to make a contribution to the LLC because of death, disability, dissolution, or other reason [Corp. Code § 17201(a)(1)].

A member who does not make an agreed contribution of property or services may be required, at the LLC's option, to contribute an amount of cash equal to the fair market value (or written agreed value, if any) of the contribution not made [Corp. Code § 17201(a)(2)]. This option is in addition to other rights under the articles, the operating agreement or applicable law.

An operating agreement may provide that the interest of a member who fails to make any agreed contribution or other payment shall be subject to specified remedies or consequences. Such a provision is enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the member seeking to invalidate it establishes that it was unreasonable under the circumstances at the time the agreement was made. The Act lists a number of specific remedies which may be provided, including, without limitation, loss of voting rights and rights to participate in management of the LLC; liquidated damages; a dilution of the member's interest in the LLC; subordinating the defaulting member's interest to that of the nondefaulting members; and permitting a forced sale of the defaulting member's interest [Corp. Code § 17201(a)(3)].

The capital contribution of a member to an LLC is to be credited to a capital account established for the member. Unless otherwise provided in the operating agreement, that account will consist of the original contribution, increased by any additional contribution and the member's share of profits and decreased by any distribution to the member and by that member's share of losses [see Corp. Code § 17001(d)]. For the tax consequences of capital accounts and allocations, see § 12C.51 and Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 26, Partnership Taxation .

Except as otherwise provided in the articles or operating agreement, the obligation of a member to make a contribution may be compromised only by the unanimous vote of the other members. Notwithstanding any such compromise, a person whose claim against an LLC arose before receipt of notice of the compromise may enforce the original obligation of the member to make the contribution but any other person with a claim may enforce only the existing obligation to make a contribution after giving effect to the compromise [Corp. Code § 17201(b)].

If an obligation of a member to make a contribution is conditional, a person with a claim against the LLC may not enforce the obligation unless the conditions have been satisfied or waived. "Conditional obligations" include, among other things, a capital contribution payable on a discretionary call of the LLC before the call occurs [Corp. Code § 17201(c)].

[b] Additional Contributions of Members

Absent a provision to the contrary in the articles or operating agreement, no member is required to make a capital contribution other than any agreed initial contribution [Corp. Code § 17200(b)]. If additional contribution is required, the obligation to make it and the remedies for failure to do so are the same as those described above as to an initial contribution [Corp. Code § 17201].

[c] Tax Consequences of Contributions

Various tax consequences arise for both the member and the LLC from a member's contribution to an LLC. For example, a contribution of services by a member to an LLC in exchange for an interest in the LLC capital is a taxable event for the member. Providing services to an LLC in exchange for a profit interest, however, would not be a taxable event for either the member or the LLC [Rev. Proc. 93-27, 1993-2 C.B. 343]. There are likely to be other tax consequences from the receipt of services by the LLC. An in-depth discussion of tax issues is beyond the scope of this chapter, but they are important, and an LLC should not be formed and capitalized without careful consultation with a tax professional. Allocations of LLC tax items among the members may depend on conformity to IRS rules, among other things, as to capital accounts [see Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)].

[8] Profits, Losses, and Distributions

Profits and losses of an LLC and distributions to members are allocated among them, and among the classes of members, as provided in the operating agreement. If the operating agreement does not provide otherwise, profits and losses are allocated in proportion to the contributions of each member [Corp. Code § 17202]. If the operating agreement does not provide otherwise, distributions that are a return of capital are allocated in proportion to the contributions of each member, and distributions that are not a return of capital are made in proportion to the allocation of profits [Corp. Code § 17250].

The operating agreement may provide for allocation of profits and losses or distributions independent of the capital contributions or accounts of LLC members. If those allocations are to be upheld for federal income tax purposes, however, they must meet the requirements of I.R.C. § 704(b) and the regulations thereunder. See § 12C.50 et seq. and Ch. 26, Partnership Taxation , in Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws (Matthew Bender) for further discussion.

At the time a member becomes entitled to receive a distribution, the member has the status of a creditor of the LLC with respect to the distribution, and is entitled to all remedies available to creditors, subject to limitations on distributions that would result in insolvency [Corp. Code § 17250; see Corp. Code §§ 17254, 17353; but see Paclink Communications International, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 958, 965-966, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436 (members of LLC who brought direct action alleging fraudulent transfer of LLC assets incorrectly relied on Corp. Code § 17250; derivative action is appropriate when gravamen of complaint is injury to LLC)]. The operating agreement may provide for establishing a record date with respect to the sharing of profits and distributions [Corp. Code § 17250].

A member is entitled to receive distributions from an LLC while a member and before dissolution and winding up of the LLC, as specified in the operating agreement, subject to certain limitations on distributions that would result in insolvency [Corp. Code §§ 17251, 17254].

Regardless of the nature of a member's contribution, a member does not have the right to demand other than cash distributions. In addition, a member cannot be forced to accept a distribution of any in-kind asset offered in lieu of a proportionate distribution of money being made to other members. Except on dissolution and winding up of an LLC, a member cannot be compelled to accept a distribution of any asset in kind [Corp. Code § 17253].

[9] Voting

Members' voting rights may be tailored on almost any basis in an LLC. The articles or a written operating agreement may provide all or certain identified members or a specified class or group of members the right to vote separately or with all or any class or group of members on any matter. Voting may be on a per capita, number, financial interest, class, group or other basis [Corp. Code § 17103(a); see [3], above (classes of members)]. If no voting provision is contained in the articles or a written operating agreement, members vote in proportion to their interests in current profits (or in the case of a member whose entire economic interest in the LLC has been assigned to a person who is not a member, the interest in current profits the assigning member would have had if the assignment had not been made) [Corp. Code § 17103(a)(1)]. Any amendment of the articles of organization or operating agreement will require the unanimous vote of all members [Corp. Code § 17103(a)(2)]. In no event may the articles be amended by a vote of less than a majority in interest of the members and members must be afforded the right to vote on a merger of the LLC or on its dissolution [Corp. Code § 17103(b), (c)]. These amendment provisions may not be overridden [Corp. Code § 17005(b)(3)].

[10] Members' Meetings

Members' meetings may be held at any place in or out of California specified by the caller of the meeting or by articles of organization or a written operating agreement. If no location is so specified, meetings are to be held at the principal executive office of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17104(a)]. A members' meeting may be called by a manager or by one or more members representing more than 10 percent of the interests of members [Corp. Code § 17104(b)].

Meetings may also be held by electronic video screen communication or by electronic transmission by and to the limited liability company [Corp. Code § 17104(a); see Corp. Code § 17001(o) (definition)]. Members may participate in an LLC meeting through the use of a conference telephone call or electronic video screen communication, as long as all members participating in the meeting can hear one another, or by electronic transmission by and to the limited liability company. Participation in a meeting in this manner constitutes presence in person at that meeting [Corp. Code § 17104(f)].

Meetings must be noticed, conducted, and adjourned and special meetings may be called and adjourned as specified in the Act [Corp. Code § 17104(c)- (e), (g), (h)]. A majority in interest of the members represented at a meeting in person or by proxy constitutes a quorum [Corp. Code § 17104(h)]. Record dates may be set much as in the case of business corporations [Corp. Code § 17104(k)]. Proxies may be used as they are in corporations formed under the General Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 17104(j)]. Note that many of these rules may be varied by a written operating agreement [see §§ 12C.10[3], 12C.21[4]].

PRACTICE TIP:

The members' failure to strictly comply with meeting requirements set forth in the Act provides the LLC's creditors with additional grounds for holding members personally liable. For this reason, it is generally not advisable to incorporate meeting requirements into the operating agreement.

Actions that may be taken at a meeting may be taken without a meeting if written consent is received within a specified time from a sufficient number of members [Corp. Code § 17104(i)]. Unless prohibited by the articles of organization and if authorized by the operating agreement, members not physically present in person or by proxy at a meeting of members may, by electronic transmission by and to the limited liability company or by electronic video screen communication, participate in the meeting, be deemed present in person or by proxy, and vote at the meeting, whether that meeting is to be held at a designated place or in whole or in part by means of electronic transmission by and to the limited liability company or by electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code § 17104(a); see Corp. Code §§ 17001(o), 17104 (l)(definition; conducting meeting by electronic communication)].

[11] Information and Inspection Rights

[a] Right to Information

The Act provides certain rights to members and holders of economic interests in LLCs to obtain information and to inspect records, to receive annual reports, financial statements, and federal and state income tax information [Corp Code § 17106]. These rights cannot be varied by the articles of organization or an operating agreement, nor can they be waived by the members [Corp. Code § 17005(b)(4), 17106(h)].

Upon the request of a member or a holder of an economic interest, for purposes reasonably related to the interest of that person as a member or a holder of an economic interest, a manager must, at the LLC's expense, promptly deliver to the requesting person a copy of [Corp. Code § 17106(a)]:

- A current alphabetical list of the full name and last known business or residence address of each member and of each holder of an economic interest, together with the contribution and the share in profits and losses of each member and holder of an economic interest.

- If the articles of organization state that the LLC will have a manager or mangers, a current list of the full name and business or residence address of each manager.

- The LLC's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns and reports, if any, for the six most recent taxable years.

- Any written operating agreement.

In addition, an LLC is obliged to [Corp. Code § 17106(d), (e)]:

- Promptly furnish to a member a copy of any amendment to the articles of organization or operating agreement executed by a manager pursuant to a power of attorney from the member, which the LLC may send by electronic transmission [see Corp. Code § 17001(o)(1)].

- Send or cause to be sent to each member or holder of an economic interest within 90 days after the end of each taxable year such information as is necessary to complete federal and state income tax or information returns, and, in the case of an LLC with 35 or fewer members, a copy of its federal, state, and local income tax or information returns for the year.

[b] Inspection of Records

Each member, manager, and holder of an economic interest has the right upon reasonable request, for purposes reasonably related to the interest of that person as a member, manager, or holder of an economic interest, to each of the following [Corp. Code § 17106(b)]:

- To inspect and copy during normal business hours any of the records required to be maintained by Corp. Code § 17058.

- To obtain in writing from the LLC promptly after becoming available, a copy of the LLC's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns for each year.

[c] LLCs With More than 35 Members

In the case of any LLC with more than 35 members [Corp. Code § 17106(c)]:

- A manager must cause an annual report to be sent to each of the members not later than 120 days after the close of the fiscal year. That report, which may be sent by electronic transmission [see Corp. Code § 17001(o)(1)], must contain a balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year and an income statement and statement of cash flows for the fiscal year.

- Members representing at least 5 percent of the voting interests of members, or three or more members, may make a written request to a manager for an income statement of the LLC for the initial three-month, six-month, or nine-month period of the current fiscal year ended more than 30 days prior to the date of the request, and a balance sheet of the LLC as of the end of that period. The statement must be delivered or mailed to the members within 30 days thereafter.

- The financial statements referred to above must be accompanied by the report thereon, if any, of the independent accountants engaged by the LLC or, if there is no report, the certificate of a manager of the LLC that the financial statements were prepared without audit from the books and records of the LLC.

[d] Persons Entitled to Make Request

Any request, inspection, or copying by a member or holder of an economic interest may be made by that person or by that person's agent or attorney [Corp. Code § 17106(i)].

[e] Enforcement

The Act provides that a court of competent jurisdiction may enforce the duty of making and mailing or delivering the information and financial statements as required by the Act [Corp. Code § 17106(f)], and, if it finds the failure to comply with those requirements is without justification, the court may award the person bringing the action the reasonable expenses incurred by that person, including attorney's fees. The Attorney General is also given the power to enforce the information and inspection rights of members [see Corp. Code § 17107].

[12] Withdrawal of Members

The articles or operating agreement may provide that a member may withdraw, resign, or retire from an LLC at the time or on the happening of events specified in the operating agreement, or that a member does not have the right to withdraw, resign, or retire [Corp. Code § 17252(a); see Corp. Code § 17001(as) ("withdrawal" defined to include the resignation or retirement of a member)]. Notwithstanding any restriction on the right to withdraw, resign, or retire, a member may withdraw at any time by giving notice to the other members. Unless the articles or operating agreement provide otherwise, a withdrawn member is no longer a member of the LLC and is not entitled to payment for the member's interest in the LLC. Beginning on the date of the withdrawal, the withdrawn member will have only the right of a holder of an economic interest [see Corp. Code § 17001(n) (definition); see also § 346.14[2]] with respect to that member's interest, and then only with respect to distributions, if any, to which a holder of an economic interest is entitled under the operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17252(a)].

If the withdrawal, resignation, or retirement is in violation of the operating agreement, the LLC has the right, in addition to any other remedies set forth in the operating agreement, to offset any damages for breach of the operating agreement from any amounts otherwise distributable to the withdrawn member with respect to that member's economic interest in the LLC [Corp. Code § 17252(a)]. When a member withdraws, the list of members must be amended accordingly [Corp. Code § 17252(b); see Corp. Code § 17058(a)(1)].

[13] Termination of Membership Interests

An LLC's operating agreement may provide for termination in whole or part of membership interests and economic interests. If an member's economic interest is terminated pursuant to the operating agreement, the member is entitled to demand and receive a return of that member's contribution. Any provision in an operating agreement governing the termination of a member's interest and the return of a member's contribution is enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the member seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the agreement was made. On any termination of a membership interest, the membership list must be amended accordingly [Corp. Code § 17100(c)].

[14] Liability of Members

[a] General Non-Liability

In general, a member of an LLC is not personally liable for any debt, obligation, or liability of the LLC arising in contract, tort, or otherwise solely by reason of being a member [Corp. Code § 17101(a)]. However, neither the tort and contractual liability of an LLC created to operate as a health care service plan, nor that of its members, is limited or restricted in any manner because of the plan's LLC status [Corp. Code § 17002(b)]. In addition, there are a number of situations in which members may be personally liable for the LLC's obligations and liabilities for their actions taken as members. The most important of these are covered in [b], below.

[b] Situations Giving Rise to Personal Liability

[i] Agreement to Be Personally Obligated

Notwithstanding the personal liability protection afforded by the Act, a member of an LLC may agree to be obligated personally for any or all of the LLC's debts, obligations, and liabilities, as long as the agreement to be obligated is set forth in the articles of organization or in a written operating agreement that specifically refers to the code section (Corp. Code § 17101(e)) authorizing liability [Corp. Code § 17101(e)]. In addition, pursuant to the terms of a written guarantee or other contractual obligation (other than an operating agreement), a member may be personally obligated for any debt, obligation or liability of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17101(c)].

[ii] Liability Comparable to That of a Shareholder

A member of an LLC is subject to liability under the common law governing alter ego liability and is personally liable under a judgment of a court or for an obligation of the LLC arising in contract, tort, or otherwise under the same or similar circumstances and to the same extent as a shareholder of a corporation may be personally liable for such an obligation of the corporation, except that failure to hold meetings or to observe formalities pertaining to calling or conducting meetings may not be considered a factor tending to establish personal liability when the articles of organization or operating agreement do not expressly require the holding of meetings of members or managers [Corp. Code § 17101(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

As a general rule, therefore, it is not advisable for the operating agreement to require meetings.

[iii] Improper Distributions

Personal liability will attach for receiving improper distributions (that is, distributions that, if made, would render the LLC insolvent) made before or during the winding up of an LLC [Corp. Code §§ 17101(a), (c), 17254]. A member or assignee of a member is personally obligated to return an improper distribution from an LLC to the extent that the member or assignee had actual knowledge of facts indicating the impropriety of the distribution [Corp. Code § 17254(e)].

Moreover, a member or manager who votes for a distribution in violation of the operating agreement or that is improper under the Act is personally liable to the LLC for the amount of the distribution that exceeds what could have properly been distributed if the member or manager had acted in compliance with the relevant sections of the Act governing distributions [Corp. Code § 17255(a)].

[iv] Failure to Pay Taxes

Personal liability may also attach to a member who is responsible for an LLC that collects sales tax and fails to remit this tax to the State Board of Equalization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(c)]. Notwithstanding any provision in the Corporations Code to the contrary, personal liability will result if the SBE can establish that (1) the member had a duty to comply with Rev. & Tax. Code 6829; (2) the member willfully failed to pay or failed to cause the LLC to pay the taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(d) (definition)]; and (3) that the LLC included tax reimbursement in the selling price of, or added tax reimbursement to the selling price of, tangible personal property sold in the conduct of LLC business or that the LLC consumed tangible personal property and failed to pay the tax to the seller, or has included use tax on the billing and collected the use tax or has issued a receipt for the use tax and failed to report and pay use tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(f) (notice of deficiency determination)].

[v] Tortious Conduct

Nothing in the provisions limiting liability of members of an LLC is intended to affect a member's liability to third parties for the member's participation in tortious conduct [Corp. Code § 17101(c); see Corp. Code § 17101(a) (general liability rule)].

[15] Indemnification and Insurance

If provided in its articles or written operating agreement, an LLC may indemnify a member for any act in that capacity except a breach of fiduciary duty [Corp. Code § 17155(a); see [16], below (fiduciary duties)]. Similarly, an LLC may purchase insurance on behalf of any member against liabilities asserted against the member in that capacity [Corp. Code § 17155(b)].

[16] Standard of Conduct of Members

The fiduciary duties of members, solely in their capacity as members, are not set forth in the Act. Corp. Code § 17153 does provide that the fiduciary duties of managers are the same as those of partners in a partnership [see Corp. Code § 16404 (partners' fiduciary duties); see also Ch. 15A, Formation of General Partnerships]. It is likely, therefore, that the fiduciary duties owed by members to each other and the LLC are also the same as the duties partners owe to the partnership and the other partners. As for members in an LLC without managers, since they are deemed to be managers [Corp. Code § 17001(w)], they clearly would be covered by the language of Corp. Code § 17153, and as managers would owe partnership fiduciary duties to the LLC and to other members. Furthermore, as mangers in a member-managed LLC, members would come under the provision of the Act that states that the fiduciary duties of a manager to the LLC and its members may be modified in a written operating agreement with the informed consent of the members [Corp. Code § 17005(d); see § 12C.24[6][b]]. Whether any such modification of members' duties could be accomplished in the same manner if the LLC is one that is not member-managed (i.e., its articles provide for managers), is not clear. By analogy, however, partnership law does permit the modification of the partners' fiduciary duties under certain circumstances [see Corp. Code § 16103(b)(3), (4) (partnership agreement may specify standards of care, loyalty, and obligation of good faith and fair dealing)]. There is no reason to suppose that members' duties could not be similarly modified or a provision included in the operating agreement permitting member ratification of acts that might ordinarily violate such duties.

A member of an LLC is expressly permitted to lend money to and transact other business with the LLC and, "subject to other applicable law," has the same rights and liabilities as a person who is not a member [Corp. Code § 17004]. The interplay of these two concepts remains to be determined.

§ 12C.24 Management

[1] "Manager" Defined

A "manager" of an LLC is a person elected by the members to manage the LLC if its articles contain the required statement regarding managers [see Corp. Code § 17151(b); see also § 12C.21[3][b]]. If the articles do not contain that statement, "manager" refers to each member of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(w)]. Therefore, for an LLC without elected managers, the management provisions outlined in this section and references to management elsewhere in this summary and the Act apply to all members of the LLC.

[2] Tax Implications of Management Structure

Prior to January 1, 1997, a manager-managed LLC would be deemed under IRS rules to have the corporate characteristic of centralized management. If that LLC had one other corporate characteristic, it would be taxed as a corporation. Thus, prior to January 1, 1997, how an LLC was managed could have a bearing on whether it was taxed as a partnership or as a corporation.

New entity classification regulations that went into effect on January 1, 1997, eliminated IRS reliance on "corporate characteristics" as a basis for entity classification. Instead, LLCs are now simply permitted to elect whether or not they want to be taxed as partnerships or as corporations [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3], and the presence or absence of centralized management is no longer a factor in determining the tax classification of an LLC.

[3] Management by Members, Managers, or Officers

An LLC may be managed either by all of its members or by one or more managers [Corp. Code §§ 17150, 17151]. A manager need not be a member [Corp. Code § 17151(a)] or a natural person [Corp. Code § 17151(c)].

If management is vested in the members, they have the rights, duties, and obligations of managers [Corp. Code § 17150] and the description contained in this chapter as to "rights, duties, and obligations" of managers in general apply to the members in their management role. Care should be taken in applying this rule since not all of the provisions of the Act concerning managers involve the creation of rights of, or imposition of duties or obligations on, managers. For example, Corp. Code § 17152, dealing with election, removal, resignation, and expiration of the term of office of a manager, would seem by its terms to apply only to a situation when managers manage; the references in it ought not to apply to members as managers.

If an LLC is to be managed by managers, its articles of organization must contain a statement to that effect [Corp. Code § 17151(b)]. The articles need not state the number or names of managers, but if there is to be only one manager, the articles must so state [Corp. Code § 17151(b)]. The articles or operating agreement may, and one of them (preferably the operating agreement) should, contain provisions in detail regarding the names [see Corp. Code § 17051(c)(6)], number, qualifications, and duties of managers [Corp. Code § 17151(c)] and about the authority of managers to bind the LLC [Corp. Code § 17051(c)(5)]. One of those documents (again, preferably, the operating agreement) should also contain provisions and regulations appropriate to the particular LLC for its management [see § 12C.21[4] (operating agreement and its contents)]. If an LLC has manager(s), a member acting solely in the capacity of a member is not an agent of the LLC and cannot bind it or execute any instrument on its behalf [Corp. Code § 17157(b)(1)].

A written operating agreement may provide for the appointment of officers for the LLC, including, without limitation, a chairperson or a president, or both, a secretary, a chief financial officer, and any other officers with powers and duties as specified in the articles or operating agreement, or determined by the manages or members. Officers may, but need not, be members or managers. Any number of offices may be held by the same person [Corp. Code § 17154(a)]. If the operating agreement does not provide for the appointment of officers, the managers may appoint officers [Corp. Code § 17154(b)]. An officer serves at the pleasure of the managers, and may be removed or resign at any time, subject in each case to rights and liabilities of the officer or LLC, as the case may be, under any contract to which the officer is a party [Corp. Code § 17154(b)].

[4] Appointment and Removal of Managers

The Act's provisions regarding the appointment and removal of managers cannot be varied except by the articles of organization or a written operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17005(b)]. Management positions must be filled by the affirmative vote of a majority in interest of the members [Corp. Code § 17152(a)]. Unless otherwise provided in the operating agreement, a "majority in interest of the members" is more than 50 percent of the interests of members in current profits [Corp. Code § 17001(v)]. Unless they resign or are removed, managers hold office until expiration of their terms or until their successors have been elected and qualified [Corp. Code § 17152(d)].

Removal of managers may be with or without cause, but must be by a vote of a majority in interest of the members at a meeting called expressly for that purpose [Corp. Code § 17152(b)]. Managers may resign as such at any time on written notice to the LLC [Corp. Code § 17152(c)]. Neither removal nor resignation of a manager prejudices the rights, if any, of the manager or the LLC under any contract of employment [Corp. Code § 17152(b), (c)].

[5] Managers and Officers As Agents

If the articles of organization provide that an LLC is to be managed by one or more managers, every manager is an agent of the LLC for the purpose of its business and affairs [Corp. Code § 17157(b)(2)]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles of organization or the operating agreement, if the members have appointed more than one manager, decisions of the managers must be made by majority vote of the managers if at a meeting, or by unanimous written consent [Corp. Code § 17156]. The act of any manager for the apparent purpose of carrying on in the usual way the business and affairs of the LLC binds the LLC, unless the manager has no actual authority to act for the LLC in the particular matter and the person with whom the member is dealing actually knows that the manager has no such authority [Corp. Code § 17157(b)(2)]. A manager acting in contravention of a restriction on authority cannot bind the LLC to persons actually knowing of the restriction [Corp. Code § 17157(c)].

The general rule is that no act of a manager or member in contravention of a restriction on authority can bind an LLC to persons having actual knowledge of the restriction [Corp. Code § 17157(c)]. The Act also provides that in the absence of another person's actual knowledge of the signer's lack of authority to execute or enter any note, mortgage, evidence of indebtedness, contract, certificate, statement, conveyance, or other instrument in writing, and any assignment or endorsement thereof, between an LLC and that person, none of those instruments is invalidated as to the LLC when signed by any of the following [Corp. Code §§ 17154(c), 17157(d)]:

- Two managers;
- One manager if the articles of organization state that there is only one manager;
- The chairperson of the board;
- The president or any vice-president;
- Any secretary or assistant secretary;
- The chief financial officer; or
- Any assistant treasurer.

[6] Managers' Fiduciary Duties

[a] Application of Partnership Standards

A manager owes the same fiduciary duties to an LLC and to its members that a partner owes to a partnership and to the other partners [Corp. Code § 17153; see Corp. Code § 16404 (describing partners' fiduciary duties)]. For a detailed discussion of partnership fiduciary duties, refer to Ch. 15A, Formation of General Partnerships.

[b] Modification of Managers' Fiduciary Duties

In the case of partnerships, the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 permits the partners to agree to specific standards regarding the obligation of good faith and fair dealing in order to measure a partner's performance of that obligation [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(5)]. Similarly, while the partners' duty of loyalty may not be eliminated by the partnership agreement, it may provide, if not manifestly unreasonable, for specific type or categories of activities that do not violate the duty of loyalty, or for ratification by all or some lesser number of partners, after full disclosure of all material facts, of acts or transactions that would violate the duty of loyalty. [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(3)(A), (B)]. Finally, a partner's duty of care may not be unreasonably reduced by the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(4)].

Since these fairly specific limitations on the ability of partners to fine-tune fiduciary duties also apply to managers of LLCs, it is not clear why the Act separately provides an apparently much broader authority for LLCs by permitting fiduciary duties of managers to be "modified in a written operating agreement with the informed consent of the members" [Corp. Code § 17005(d)]. It would seem that any court reviewing an LLC's "modification" of fiduciary duties would be inclined to apply the narrowly drafted limitations on customizing those duties that are set out in the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994.

From a practical standpoint, some tailoring of managers' duty of care and loyalty may be beneficial. For example, the duty of care could be graduated, ranging from breach that stems from negligence to breach stemming from willful misconduct, depending on the proscribed activity and the skills expected from the manager.

From the view of the manager, the modification could serve to narrow the scope of the duty of loyalty to allow the manager to enter into business that is competitive with the company or to take opportunities for the manager's personal advantage. Such an arrangement may be necessary to induce the manager to serve the LLC as such.

With respect to the duty of care, in certain circumstances a reasonable reduction of that duty might be to exclude negligence as a breach. An LLC manager's duty of care might also be modified to reflect the requisite conduct and skill expected in the performance of the particular managerial role.

Presumably the standard of fiduciary duty and the power of an operating agreement to change that standard apply to members in their role as managers in an LLC that they manage [see Corp. Code § 17001(w) (members deemed managers in member-managed LLC); see also § 12C.23[16]]. It is probable that members are even more likely than managers to have outside interests that impinge on or even compete with their LLC and that need to be limited or permitted by careful drafting as to their duty of loyalty. Similarly, members entitled to participate in management of an LLC may bring entirely different skills to it so that their duty of care needs to be carefully addressed in light of the particular facts.

[7] Managers' Other Duties

The Act does not provide that managers must hold meetings or observe any formalities. Because the Act is silent in this regard, the operating agreement has the flexibility and should be used to establish whatever rules and procedures for management suit the parties' purposes. However, as with members' liability issues, if particular formalities are required in the operating agreement, failure to observe those formalities may impose personal liability on the members for obligations of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17101(b)]. Therefore, inclusion of such formalities in the operating agreement should be considered with particular attention. If such formalities are included in an operating agreement, they should be meticulously followed.

Managers must file a certificate of amendment [see § 12C.205] to the articles of organization within 30 days after discovering any false or erroneous material statement in the articles or in any amendment to the articles [Corp. Code § 17054(d); see § 12C.21[3][d] (amendment of articles)].

[8] Liability of Managers and Officers

[a] General Non-Liability

In general, managers and officers of an LLC are not personally liable for any debt, obligation, or liability of the LLC arising in contract, tort or otherwise, solely by reason of being a manager or officer [Corp. Code § 17158(a)]. However, neither the tort and contractual liability of an LLC created to operate as a health care service plan, nor that of its members, is limited or restricted in any manner because of the plan's LLC status [Corp. Code § 17002(b)]. In addition, there are a number of instances in which a manager will be personally liable for actions taken as a manager or officer [see [b], below].

[b] Situations Giving Rise to Personal Liability

[i] Agreement To Be Obligated

A manager may agree to be obligated personally for any or all of the LLC's debts, obligations, and liabilities if the agreement to be liable is set forth in the articles or a written operating agreement that specifically refers to the code section (Corp. Code § 17158(b)) authorizing liability [Corp. Code § 17158(b)(1)]. Furthermore, a manager may agree to be obligated pursuant to the terms of a written guarantee or other contractual obligation entered into by the manager, other than an operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17158(b)(2)].

[ii] Breach of Fiduciary Duties

A manager may be liable for breach of fiduciary duties [Corp. Code § 17153; see [6], above].

[iii] Criminal or Tortious Conduct

Although the Act does not specifically deal with the liability of a manager for participation in tortious conduct (as it does in Corp. Code § 17101(c) with respect to members), there seems no doubt that a manager as well as a member would be so liable. In addition, under well established criminal principles applied in a business context, a manager could have personal criminal responsibility for participation in criminal acts in the same manner as corporate officers. For example, the Corporate Criminal Liability Act of 1989 [Pen. Code § 387], which imposes criminal liability for certain workplace safety violations, applies to corporations, LLCs, and to any person who is a manager, including managers of an LLCs, provided that person's activities bring him or her under the definition of "manager" in the Criminal Liability Act [see Pen. Code § 387(b)(1)]

[iv] Misstatement in Articles of Organization

A manager who executes a certificate of amendment to the articles of organization is personally liable for any statement materially inconsistent with the operating agreement or any material misstatement of fact in the certificate of amendment if the manager knew or should have known that the statement was false when made or that the statement became false and a required amendment was not filed, and a person suffered from reliance on those statements [Corp. Code § 17054(e); see Corp. Code § 17054(d) (manager's duty to file certificate of amendment within 30 days of discovering false or erroneous statement); see also § 12C.21[4][d]].

[v] Voting for Improper Distributions

A manager who votes for a distribution in violation of the operating agreement or Corp. Code §§ 17254 or 17353 is personally liable to the LLC for the amount of the distribution that exceeds what could have been distributed without violating those sections or the operating agreement. For this liability to apply, it must be established that the manager did not act in compliance with Corp. Code §§ 17254 or 17353 [Corp. Code § 17255(a)]. A manager held liable under this provision may compel contribution from other liable parties [Corp. Code § 17255(b)]. Improper distributions are discussed in § 12C.23[14][b].

[vi] Failure to Pay Sales Taxes

A manager may become personally liable for unpaid sales taxes and interest and penalties on those taxes under certain circumstances if the manager willfully fails to pay or cause to be paid sales taxes due from the LLC [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(a); see State Board of Equalization v. Wirick (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 411, 413, 419, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 919 (Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829 applied to former chief financial officer of corporation, despite fact that he had resigned position over one year before corporation ceased business; because present tense in statute includes past tense, section covers former officers as well as those in charge when corporation ceases)]. Notwithstanding any provision in the Corporations Code to the contrary, personal liability will result if the SBE can establish that the manager (1) had a duty to comply with Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829; (2) willfully failed to pay or failed to cause the LLC to pay the taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(d) (definition)]; and (3) that the LLC included tax reimbursement in the selling price of, or added tax reimbursement to the selling price of, tangible personal property sold in the conduct of LLC business or that the LLC consumed tangible personal property and failed to pay the tax to the seller, or has included use tax on the billing and collected the use tax or has issued a receipt for the use tax and failed to report and pay use tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(f) (notice of deficiency determination)].

[9] Indemnification and Insurance

If so provided in its articles of organization or written operating agreement, an LLC may indemnify its managers, officers, employees, or agents for any act done in such a capacity, except a breach of the fiduciary duty set forth in Corp. Code § 17153 [Corp. Code § 17155(a)]. The standard of fiduciary duty set forth in Corp. Code § 17153 can be varied with "the informed consent of the members" [Corp. Code § 17005(d)]. Corp. Code § 17153 (fiduciary duty) refers only to managers, not officers or others [see [6], above]. The document providing for indemnification should set forth clearly the standards for entitlement to it and the procedures for receiving it.

In addition to the indemnification described above, an employee of an LLC would be entitled to the indemnity provided by Lab. Code § 2802.

An LLC also may purchase insurance on behalf of its managers, officers, employees, or agents who have liability asserted against them in that capacity or arising out of their status as such [Corp. Code § 17155(b)].

[10] Remuneration of Managers

Managers and members of an LLC are not entitled to remuneration for acting in the LLC business, except as follows:

- The LLC operating agreement or other agreement among all LLC members may provide for remuneration to members for acting in the LLC business [Corp. Code § 17004(b)].

- Managers or members winding up the affairs of the LLC are entitled by statute to reasonable compensation, except as otherwise provided in the articles of organization or a written operating agreement [Corp. Code §§ 17004(b), 17352(c)].

§ 12C.25 Merger and Reorganization Procedure

One or more LLCs may merge with or be acquired by any other business entity or entities [Corp. Code § 17550(a), (b)] if the other entity or entities are authorized to do so by their governing law. This applies to domestic as well as foreign LLCs and other business entities [Corp. Code § 17555].

The Act specifies the procedures for merger. First, each LLC must approve an agreement of merger [see § 12C.230] by a majority vote, and each other merging entity must approve that agreement by those persons required to do so by the laws under which it is organized [Corp. Code § 17551(a)]. The agreement of merger must contain information specified by the Act, which is similar to that required in mergers of business corporations and limited partnerships [Corp. Code § 17551(a)(1)- (6); see § 12C.230[1][d]]. Specific rules must be followed concerning treatment of interests in LLCs in mergers involving their parents or other entities owning more than 50 percent of the voting interests in the LLC [Corp. Code § 17551(b)]. An agreement of merger may be amended or abandoned [Corp. Code § 17551(c), (d)]. The Act provides for filings of one or more certificates of merger, the content and filing of which differ depending on the identity of the surviving entity [Corp. Code § 17552]. If the members of any constituent LLC would become personally liable for any obligations of a party to the merger, the principal terms of the agreement of merger must be approved by all members of the constituent LLCs unless all members would have dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 17551(a)].

For a basic merger agreement, see § 12C.230. For additional merger agreements that may be modified for use with LLCs, see Ch. 11C, Mergers, §§ 11C.200, 11C.201 (corporations), and Ch. 15C, Mergers of Limited Partnerships. Dissenters' rights forms, including a notice of approval of reorganization and demand for purchase of dissenting interests, are provided in §§ 12C.231 and 12C.232 [see § 12C.126].

Mergers are effective on filing of the certificate of merger (Form OBE MERGER-1) [see § 12C.207] with the Secretary of State, unless it provides for delayed effective date [Corp. Code § 17553]. On the effective date of merger, existence of the disappearing business entities ceases, and the surviving entity succeeds automatically to the rights, property, debts, and liabilities of the disappearing entities [Corp. Code § 17554].

An agreement of merger may amend the operating agreement of a constituent LLC, or adopt a new operating agreement for a constituent LLC, if it is the surviving LLC in the merger. The amendment or adoption is effective at the effective time or date of the merger. However, if a greater number of members is required to approve an amendment to the operating agreement of the constituent LLC than is required to approve the agreement of merger, any amendment or adoption takes effect if the vote of the constituent LLC in favor of the merger is at least as great as the vote required to amend the operating agreement of that LLC [Corp. Code § 17551(e)].

Both the merger procedures and the rules governing dissenting interests are similar to the rules applicable to mergers and reorganizations of business corporations and limited partnerships [Corp. Code §§ 1200-1312, 15678.1-15678.9, 15679.1-15679.14].

The tax treatment of a merger of an LLC with another entity should be carefully reviewed, since such a merger may or may not qualify as a tax-free reorganization.

§ 12C.26 Conversions

[1] Entities Into Which LLC May Convert; Carryover of Interests

An LLC may be converted into a domestic or a foreign other business entity [see Corp. Code § 17001(k), (s), (ac) (definitions)] or a foreign LLC [see Corp. Code § 17001(q) (definition)] if, pursuant to a conversion into a domestic or foreign general partnership or limited partnership or into a foreign LLC, each of the members of the converting LLC will receive a percentage interest in profits and capital of the converted entity equal to that member's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting limited liability company as of the effective time of the conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.2(a)(1)].

An LLC may be converted into a domestic or a foreign other business entity other than a general or limited partnership or foreign LLC if both of the following occur [Corp. Code § 17540.2(a)(2)]:

- Each of the membership interests of the same class is treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted entity, unless all members of the class consent; and

- The nonredeemable membership interests of the converting limited liability company are converted only into nonredeemable interests or securities of the converted entity, unless all holders of the nonredeemable interests consent.

[2] Applicable Law Must Authorize Conversion

LLC conversion to a domestic or foreign other business entity or a foreign LLC may be effected only if both of the following apply [Corp. Code § 17540.2(b)]:

- The law under which the converted entity will exist expressly permits the formation of that entity pursuant to a conversion; and

- The LLC complies with any and all other requirements of any other law that applies to conversion to the converted entity.

Chapter 11.5 of the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 161.9, 1150 et seq.; Stats. 2002, ch. 480], permits both (1) the conversion of corporations into domestic "other business entities" (including limited liability companies) and (2) the conversion of domestic or foreign other business entities and foreign corporations into corporations [Corp. Code § 1157(a); see Corp. Code §§ 174.5, 1150(g)]. For further discussion of the conversion of corporations into LLCs and other types of business entities, see Ch. 11F, Corporate Conversions .

[3] Plan of Conversion

[a] Contents

An LLC that wants to convert to a domestic or foreign other business entity or a foreign LLC must approve a plan of conversion that states all of the following [Corp. Code § 17540.3(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the conversion.

- The place of the organization of the converted entity and of the converting LLC and the name of the converted entity after conversion.

- The manner of converting the membership interests of each of the members into securities of, shares of, or interests in, the converted entity.

- The provisions of the governing documents for the converted entity, including the articles or certificate of incorporation if the converted entity is a domestic or foreign corporation, the partnership agreement, or the LLC articles of organization and operating agreement, to which the holders of interests in the converted entity are to be bound.

- Any other details or provisions required by the laws under which the converted entity is organized.

- Any other provisions desired by the parties.

[b] Requisite Approvals

Unless the articles of organization or written operating agreement of the converting LLC specifies a greater percentage of the voting interests of members for conversion, a plan of conversion must be approved by a vote of a majority in interest of the members of the converting LLC [Corp. Code § 17540.3(b)]. However, if the LLC members would become personally liable for any obligations of the converted entity as a result of the conversion, the plan of conversion must be approved by all of the members of the converting LLC, unless the plan of conversion provides that all members will have dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 17540.3(b); see Corp. Code § 17600 et seq.; see also § 12C.27].

In addition to the above approvals, if the LLC is converting into a limited partnership, the plan of conversion must be approved by those members who will become general partners of the converted limited partnership pursuant to the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.3(c)].

[c] All Non-Dissenting Members Deemed Parties to Plan

All members of the converting LLC, except those that exercise dissenters' rights, are deemed parties to any governing documents for the converted entity adopted as part of the plan of conversion, regardless of whether the member has executed the plan of conversion or similar governing documents for the converted entity. Adoption of the new governing documents made pursuant to the conversion are effective at the effective time or date of the conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.3(d); see [5], below].

[d] Amendment of Plan

Notwithstanding its prior approval, a plan of conversion may be amended before the conversion takes effect if the amendment is approved by the members of the converting LLC in the same manner that was required for approval of the original plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.3(e)].

[e] Maintaining Plan of Conversion

The converted entity must keep the plan of conversion at one of the following locations [Corp. Code § 17540.3(g)]:

- The principal place of business of the converted entity if the converted entity is a domestic partnership or foreign other business entity.

- The principal executive office of or registrar or transfer agent of the converted entity if the converted entity is a domestic corporation.

- The office at which records are to be kept under Corp. Code § 15614 or 15901.14 if the converted entity is a domestic limited partnership.

A member of a converting LLC has an unwaivable right to request that the person authorized to act on behalf of the converted entity, at the entity's expense, promptly deliver to the member or the holder of interests, shares, or other securities a copy of the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.3(g)].

[4] Abandoning Conversion

The members of the converting LLC may abandon a plan of conversion at any time before the conversion is effective, provided that the abandonment is effected in the same manner as required for approval of the plan of conversion, subject to the contractual rights of third parties [Corp. Code § 17540.3(f)].

[5] Conversion Into Domestic Other Business Entity

[a] Effective Date of Conversion

If an LLC converts into a domestic "other business entity," the conversion is effective on the earliest date that all of the following occur [Corp. Code § 17540.4(a)]:

- The approval of the plan of conversion by the members of the converting LLC [see [3][b], above].

- The filing of all documents required by law to effect the conversion and create the converted entity, including, if required, a statement of conversion [see Corp. Code § 17540.6; see also [c], below].

- The occurrence of the effective date, if set forth in the plan of conversion.

[b] Evidence of Conversion

A copy of the statement of partnership authority or certificate of limited partnership (including any required statement of conversion), duly certified by the Secretary of State, constitutes conclusive evidence of the conversion of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17540.4(b); see Corp. Code § 17540.6; see also [c], below].

[c] Statement or Certificate of Conversion

If an LLC is converting into a domestic limited partnership, the converting entity must complete a statement of conversion on the certificate of limited partnership for the converted entity [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(1)]. Secretary of State Form LP-1A, Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion [see § 15C.205] is used for that purpose. Form LP-1A includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion.

If the LLC is converting into a domestic partnership, the converting entity must complete a statement of conversion on the statement of partnership authority for the converted entity [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(2)]. Secretary of State Form GP-1A, General Partnership Statement of Partnership--Conversion [see § 15.801] is used for that purpose. Form GP-1A includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion. Alternatively, if no statement of partnership authority is filed, then the converting entity must file a separate certificate of conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(2)]. Secretary of State Form CONV-1A, Certificate of Conversion [see § 12C.212], is used for this purpose.

If the LLC is converting to a domestic corporation, a statement of conversion must be completed on the articles of incorporation for the converted entity [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(3)]. The conversion by an other business entity, including a limited liability company [see Corp. Code §§ 174.5, 1150(g)], will be effective as of the filing with the Secretary of State of the articles of incorporation of the converted corporation containing a statement of conversion [Corp. Code § 1157(d)]. The Secretary of State has provided sample articles of incorporation containing the required statement of conversion [see § 12C.213].

If an LLC is converting into a foreign LLC or foreign other business entity, the converting entity must file a certificate of conversion (Form CONV-1A) [see § 12C.212] with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(3)].

The filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion or an organizational document containing a statement of conversion has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation by the converting LLC. No converting LLC that has made this filing need also file a certificate of dissolution or a certificate of cancellation [see Corp. Code § 17356] as a result of that conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.6(c)].

A certificate or statement of conversion must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)]:

- The name and the Secretary of State's file number of the converting limited liability company.

- A statement that the principal terms of the plan of conversion were approved by a vote of the members that equaled or exceeded the requisite vote [see Corp. Code § 17540.3; see also [3][b], above], specifying each class entitled to vote and the percentage vote required of each class.

- The form of organization of the converted entity.

Any certificate or statement of conversion must be executed and acknowledged by all of the managers, unless a lesser number is provided in the articles of organization or the operating agreement of the converting LLC [Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)].

[6] Conversion Into Foreign Other Business Entity or LLC

[a] Effective Date of Conversion

The conversion of an LLC into a foreign other business entity or a foreign LLC is generally governed by the laws of the state or place of organization of the foreign other business entity or foreign LLC. The conversion becomes effective in accordance with that law [Corp. Code § 17540.5(b); but see Corp. Code § 17540.4(a) (effective date of conversion to foreign LLC); see also [5][a], above].

[b] Certificate of Conversion

When an LLC is converting into a foreign LLC or foreign other business entity, a certificate of conversion must be filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(4)]. Secretary of State Form CONV-1A, Certificate of Conversion [see § 12C.212] is used for this purpose. The contents of the certificate and execution requirements are discussed in [5][c], above.

[c] Secretary of State as Agent for Service of Process

To enforce an obligation of an LLC that has converted to a foreign LLC or foreign other business entity, the Secretary of State is the agent for service of process in an action or proceeding against that converted foreign entity if (1) the agent designated for the service of process is a natural person and cannot be located with due diligence; (2) if the agent is a corporation and no person to whom delivery may be made can be located with due diligence; or (3) if no agent has been designated and if none of the officers, partners, managers, members, or agents of that entity may be located after diligent search, and it is so shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court [Corp. Code § 17540.5(c)(1)]. The court may then order that service be made by personal delivery to the Secretary of State (or to an assistant or deputy Secretary of State) of two copies of the process together with two copies of the order; the order must set forth an address to which the process will be sent by the Secretary of State. Service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17540.5(c)(1)]. On receiving process and the applicable fee, the Secretary of State will give notice to the foreign entity of the service of the process by forwarding by certified mail, return receipt requested, a copy of the process and order to the specified address [Corp. Code § 17540.5(c)(2); see Gov. Code § 12206 (fee)]. The certificate of the Secretary of State, under official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the giving of notice to that entity, and the forwarding of the process, constitutes competent and prima facie evidence of the contents [Corp. Code § 17540.5(c)(3)].

[7] Title to Real Property of Converting LLC

[a] Recording Requirements

The recording of (1) a certificate of conversion, statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, or articles of organization complying with Corp. Code § 17540.6 in the prescribed form, or (2) a copy of a certificate of conversion, or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other certificate or document evidencing the creation of a foreign other business entity or foreign LLC by conversion, containing a statement of conversion, certified by the Secretary of State or an authorized public official of the state or place pursuant to the laws of which the conversion is effected, in the county where the converting LLC or other converting entity owns California real property, is evidence of record ownership in the converted LLC or other converted entity of all interest of the converting LLC or other converting entity in and to the real property located in that county. This rule operates only when the law of the jurisdiction of the place of organization provides, as does California law, that conversion vests in the converted LLC or other converted entity all the real property of the converting LLC or other converting entity [Corp. Code § 17540.7(a); see Corp. Code § 17540.9(b)].

A filed and recorded (if appropriate) certificate of conversion, or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other certificate evidencing the formation of a foreign other business entity or a foreign LLC containing a statement of conversion, stating the name of the converting LLC or other converting entity in whose name property was held before the conversion and the name of the converted entity or converted LLC, is sufficient to effect a change in record title [Corp. Code § 17540.7(b)].

[b] Presumption in Favor of Bona Fide Purchasers

The recording of a certificate of conversion or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other certificate evidencing the creation of an other business entity or a LLC by conversion, containing a statement of conversion [see [a], above], creates a conclusive presumption in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrances for value that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 17540.7(c)].

[8] Conversion of Other Business Entity or Foreign LLC Into Domestic LLC

An other business entity or a foreign other business entity or foreign LLC may be converted to a domestic LLC, provided that the converting entity is authorized by the laws under which it is organized to effect the conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.8(a)]. The domestic or foreign other business entity or foreign LLC that desires to convert into a domestic LLC must approve the plan of conversion or other instrument that is required to be approved to effect the conversion pursuant to the laws under which that entity is organized [Corp. Code § 17540.8(b)]. The conversion of a domestic or foreign other business entity or a foreign LLC must be approved by that number or percentage of the partners, members, or holders of interest of the converting entity that is required by the law under which that entity is organized, or a greater or lesser percentage, subject to applicable laws, as set forth in the converting entity's partnership agreement, articles of organization, operating agreement, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other governing document [Corp. Code § 17540.8(c)].

A limited partnership or corporation that is converting into a California limited liability company must complete a statement of conversion on the articles of organization for the converted entity [Corp. Code §§ 1155(a)(3) (corporation), 15677.6(a)(1) (limited partnership)]. A California general partnership that is converting into a California limited liability company must complete a statement of conversion on the articles of organization for the converted entity if the converting partnership had filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 and that statement is effective at the time of conversion [Corp. Code § 16906(a)]. Secretary of State Form LLC-1A, which is reproduced in § 12C.200A, is a form for articles of organization containing the statement of conversion language. If a converting partnership has not filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 that is effective at the time of conversion, then the filing of a statement of conversion on its articles of organization is optional [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

The conversion by an other business entity or foreign LLC is effective when the conversion is effective under the law under which the converting entity is organized, as long as the articles of organization have been filed with the Secretary of State. If the converting entity's governing law is silent as to the effectiveness of the conversion, the conversion is effective on the completion of all acts required under California law to form an LLC [Corp. Code § 17540.8(d)].

The filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion or articles of organization containing a statement of conversion [see Corp. Code § 17540.8(a)] has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation by a converting foreign limited liability company or foreign limited partnership. Therefore, a converting foreign limited liability company or foreign limited partnership that has made this filing is not required to file a certificate of cancellation as a result of the conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.8(e); see Corp. Code §§ 15696, 15909.07, 17455]. If a converting other business entity is a foreign corporation qualified to transact business in California, the foreign corporation automatically surrenders its right to transact intrastate business in California by virtue of this filing [Corp. Code § 17540.8(e)].

[9] Effect of Conversion on Rights and Liabilities of Converting Entities and Members

[a] Converting Entity Unchanged

An entity that converts into another entity pursuant to the LLC conversion provisions is for all purposes the same entity that existed before the conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.9(a)]. When conversion takes effect, the following rules apply [Corp. Code § 17540.9(b)]:

- All the rights and property, whether real, personal, or mixed, of the converting entity or converting LLC are vested in the converted entity or converted LLC.

- All debts, liabilities, and obligations of the converting entity or converting LLC continue as debts, liabilities, and obligations of the converted entity or converted LLC.

- All rights of creditors and liens on the property of the converting entity or converting LLC are preserved unimpaired and remain enforceable against the converted entity or converted LLC to the same extent as against the converting entity or converting LLC as if the conversion had not occurred.

- Any action or proceeding pending by or against the converting entity or converting LLC may be continued against the converted entity or converted LLC as if the conversion had not occurred.

[b] Liabilities of Members

A member of a converting LLC is liable for the following [Corp. Code § 17540.9(c)]:

- All obligations of the converting LLC for which the member was personally liable before the conversion.

- All obligations of the converted entity incurred after the conversion takes effect, but those obligations may be satisfied only out of property of the entity if the member is a limited partner, a shareholder in a corporation, or, unless expressly provided otherwise in the articles of organization or other governing documents, a member of a converted LLC or a holder of equity securities in an other converted entity if the holders of equity securities in the entity are not personally liable for the obligations of the entity under the law under which that entity is organized or its governing documents.

A member of a converted LLC remains liable for any and all obligations of the converting entity for which the member was personally liable before the conversion, but only to the extent that the member was personally liable for the obligations of the converting entity before the conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.9(d)].

If the other party to a transaction with an LLC reasonably believes when entering the transaction that the LLC member is a general partner, that LLC member is liable for an obligation incurred by the LLC within 90 days after the conversion takes effect. The LLC member's liability for all other obligations of the LLC incurred after the conversion takes effect is that of a LLC member [Corp. Code § 17540.9(e)].

§ 12C.27 Dissenter's Rights on Merger, Conversion, or Reorganization

[1] In General

The Act provides for dissenters' rights in mergers or other reorganizations [see Corp. Code §§ 17600-17613]. "Reorganization" is defined to include mergers, conversions, certain acquisitions of controlling interests in other business entities, and certain acquisitions of substantially all of the assets of other business entities [Corp. Code § 17600(a)]. In general, in a merger or reorganization, a member who is entitled to vote on a reorganization and has taken necessary steps to have a dissenting interest [see Corp. Code § 17601(b) (definition)] may require the LLC to purchase that interest for cash at fair market value [Corp. Code § 17601(a); see [3], below; see also § 12C.126 (procedures for enforcing dissenters' rights)].

These dissenters' rights provisions apply to domestic LLCs, and to foreign LLCs if members holding more than 50 percent of voting interests reside in California [Corp. Code § 17612(a)]. These provisions do not apply to an LLC with 35 or fewer members if all the members have waived the application of dissenters' rights provisions in writing [Corp. Code § 17612(c)].

With certain listed exceptions, a dissenting member of an LLC that is reorganizing does not have the right to attack the validity of the reorganization or to have the reorganization set aside or rescinded [see Corp. Code § 17613(a)].

[2] "Dissenting Interest" Defined

A "dissenting interest" is a membership interest in an LLC that satisfies all of the following [Corp. Code § 17601(b)]:

- The membership interest was outstanding on the date for the determination of members entitled to vote on the reorganization.

- The membership interest was not voted in favor of the reorganization, or the membership interest was voted against the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17601(b)(2)].

- The member has demanded that the LLC purchase its interest at its fair market value [see Corp. Code § 17602 (method of demand)].

- The member has submitted the certificate of interest for endorsement, if applicable [see Corp. Code § 17603].

[3] Procedure to Require Company to Purchase Dissenting Interest

If LLC members have the right to require the LLC to purchase their dissenting interests [see Corp. Code § 17601(b) (definition); see also [b], above], the LLC must mail to each member a notice of approval of the proposed reorganization [see § 12C.231 (form for notice)]. The notice must contain specified information, including the price determined to be the fair market value of outstanding interests, the method of valuation, the latest available balance sheet, the latest income statement, and a description of the procedure to exercise dissenters' rights. The statement of price constitutes an offer by the LLC to purchase dissenting interests at that price [Corp. Code § 17602(a)].

A member with a dissenting interest who wishes the LLC to purchase his or her interest must make a written demand on the LLC for the purchase of the interest and the payment to the member in cash of its fair market value [see § 12C.232 (form for demand)]. To be effective, the demand must be received by the LLC within 30 days after the notice of reorganization was mailed to members [Corp. Code § 17602(b)]. The demand must state the number or amount of interest, and must contain a statement of the member's claim of the fair market value of the interest on the day before the announcement of the proposed reorganization. The statement of value constitutes an offer by the member to sell the dissenting interest at that price [Corp. Code § 17602(c)].

If the LLC and the dissenting member agree that the interest is a dissenting interest, and agree on the price to be paid for the interest, the dissenting member is entitled to the agreed price, with interest from the date of consummation of the reorganization. Agreements as to value of dissenting interests must be in writing and must be kept with the records of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17604(a)]. The LLC must pay for a dissenting interest within 30 days after the amount of the interest has been agreed on, or within 30 days after conditions to the reorganization are satisfied, whichever is later [Corp. Code § 17604(b)]. The dissenting member must submit certificates of interest (or, if none, written notice of the number or amount of interests) on payment [Corp. Code § 17604(b); see Corp. Code § 17603].

If the LLC denies that an interest is a dissenting interest, or the LLC and the dissenting member cannot agree on the value of a dissenting interest, either the LLC or the member may bring an action in superior court within six months after the date of the notice of approval of the reorganization to settle the issue [Corp. Code § 17605]. The court may appoint an appraiser to determine the fair market value of dissenting interests [see Corp. Code § 17606].

For detailed coverage of the procedure for enforcing dissenters' rights, see § 12C.126[2].

[4] Loss of Status as Dissenting Interest

A dissenting interest loses its status as such, and the holder of that interest ceases to be a dissenting member, on the occurrence of any of the following [Corp. Code § 17610]:

- The LLC abandons the reorganization.

- The interest is transferred before its submission for endorsement [see Corp. Code § 17603].

- The dissenting member and the LLC do not agree that the interest is a dissenting interest or disagree on the purchase price of the interest, and neither files a complaint within six months after the notice of approval of the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17605].

- The dissenting member, with the LLC's consent, withdraws the demand for purchase of the dissenting interest.

§ 12C.28 Dissolution and Winding Up

[1] Causes of Dissolution

An LLC must be dissolved, and its affairs wound up, when the first of the following occurs [Corp. Code § 17350]:

- When specified in the articles of organization.
- On the happening of events specified in the articles or written operating agreement.
- By the vote of a majority in interest of the members [see Corp. Code § 17001(v) (definition)], or greater percentage of the voting interests of members specified in the articles or written operating agreement.
- Entry of a decree of judicial dissolution pursuant to Corp. Code § 17351 [see [2], below].

Provisions respecting dissolution and winding up may not be varied in the articles of organization or operating agreement except as indicated by statute.

[2] Judicial Dissolution

An LLC may be judicially dissolved pursuant to an action filed by a manager or member when any of the following occurs [Corp. Code § 17351(a)]:

- It is not reasonably practicable to carry on the LLC's business in conformity with its articles or operating agreement.

- Dissolution is reasonably necessary for the protection of the rights or interests of the complaining members.

- The LLC's business has been abandoned.

- The LLC's management is deadlocked or subject to internal dissention.

- Those in control of the LLC have been guilty of, or have knowingly countenanced persistent and pervasive fraud, mismanagement, or abuse of authority.

Noninitiating members may avoid dissolution by purchasing the membership interests of the initiating members at their fair market value [Corp. Code § 17351(b)(1)]. The Act specifies procedures for such a purchase [see Corp. Code § 17351(a)(1)- (4)].

[3] Noncompetition Agreements

Any member, on or in anticipation of dissolution of an LLC, may agree not to carry on a business similar to that carried on by the LLC within a specified geographic area where LLC business has been transacted so long as any other member of the LLC (or any person deriving title to the business or its goodwill from any other member of the LLC) carries on a similar business in that area [Bus. & Prof Code § 16602.5]. For additional discussion and examples, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice , and Ch. 85, Employment Agreements .

[4] Continuation of Existence After Dissolution

A dissolved LLC continues to exist for the purpose of winding up its affairs, dealing with actions by or against it, collecting or discharging its obligations, disposing of or conveying its property, and collecting and dividing its assets [Corp. Code § 17354(a)]. A dissolved LLC may not continue business, however, except so far as necessary for its winding up. In that connection, actions to which the LLC is a party do not abate by reason of its dissolution or its winding up proceedings and assets inadvertently omitted from its winding up continue to be owned by it for the benefit of the persons entitled to it [Corp. Code § 17354(b)].

Causes of action against a dissolved LLC may be enforced against it to the extent of its undistributed assets and, if its assets have been distributed to its members, against them to the extent of the assets distributed to them [Corp. Code § 17355]. The Act provides for contribution in the event a member is compelled to return distributed assets in an amount in excess of the member's pro rata share of the claim and for a statute of limitations for such claims against members [Corp. Code § 17355(a)]. In addition, as with business corporations, LLCs survive and continue to exist indefinitely for the purpose of being sued in quiet title actions; and judgments rendered in any such actions bind all members or other persons to the extent of their interest in the LLC [Corp. Code § 17355(c)].

Even if a certificate of dissolution has been filed [see [5], below], a majority in interest of the members of an LLC may file a certificate of continuation (Form LLC-8) [see § 12C.206] with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17357(a)] and on that filing, the certificate of dissolution is of no effect [Corp. Code § 17357(c)].

A certificate of continuation may be filed in any of the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 17357(a)]:

- The business of the LLC is to be continued pursuant to a unanimous vote of the remaining members.

- The dissolution of the LLC was by vote of the members pursuant to Corp. Code § 17350(b) and each member who consented to the dissolution has agreed in writing to revoke that member's vote in favor of or consent to the dissolution.

- The LLC was not, in fact, dissolved.

[5] Winding Up

When a limited liability company is dissolved, the managers or members must wind up its affairs. In a judicial dissolution [see [2], above], winding up is conducted in accordance with the decree of dissolution [Corp. Code § 17352(a)]. In a nonjudicial dissolution, the managers who have not wrongfully dissolved the LLC or, if none, the members may wind it up. The winding up process requires notification to known creditors and claimants, payment or adequate provision for debts and liabilities and distributions of remaining assets among members according to their respective rights and preferences as specified in the Act [Corp. Code § 17353(a); see Corp. Code § 17353(c) (method of adequately providing for payment of debts and liabilities)] or as otherwise specified in articles of organization or the operating agreement.

On the petition of a manager, a member, or three or more creditors, a court may order the winding up of the LLC if it appears necessary for the protection of those parties [Corp. Code § 17352(b)].

For detailed coverage of the dissolution and winding-up procedure, see § 12C.127.

[6] Certificate of Dissolution and Certificate of Cancellation

When a limited liability company dissolves, its managers must file a certificate of dissolution (Form LLC-3) [see § 12C.202] with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17356(a)]. If, however, the LLC is dissolved by the vote of all of the members [see Corp. Code § 17350(b)] and a statement to that effect is added to the certificate of cancellation of articles, a separate filing of a certificate of dissolution is not required [Corp. Code § 17356(a)(3)].

When the affairs of the LLC have been wound up, a certificate of cancellation (Form LLC-4/7) [see § 12C.203] must be filed with the Secretary of State, canceling the LLC's articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17356(b)]. The Secretary of State will notify the Franchise Tax Board of the filing [Corp. Code § 17356(b)(3)].

§ 12C.29 Securities Issues

[1] LLC Interests Classified As Securities

Under California law, an LLC interest is included in the statutory definition of a security. The term "security" includes every interest in an LLC and any class or series of those interests (including any fractional or other interest in that LLC interest) [Corp. Code § 25019].

A limited exception to this definition excludes a membership interest in an LLC in which the person claiming this exception can prove that all of the members are actively engaged in the management of the LLC. However, the statute provides that evidence that members vote or have the right to vote, the right to information concerning the business and affairs of the LLC, or the right to participate in management, does not establish, without more, that all members are actively engaged in the management of the LLC [Corp. Code § 25019]. As a practical matter, virtually all LLC interests are securities under California law and must be qualified unless exempt.

Under federal law, the determination of whether or not an interest is a security similarly involves an analysis of whether or not the interest holder actively participates in the business affairs of the issuing entity [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77b(a)(1), 78c(a)(10) (investment contracts as securities); see also SEC v. Howey Co. (1946) 328 U.S. 293, 298, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244 (analysis determines whether investment opportunity is financial arrangement or investment contract)]. Stated differently, courts must determine whether the sale of an LLC interest was essentially an investment transaction (securities law applies) or a commercial transaction (securities law inapplicable) [Great Lakes Chem. Corp. v. Monsanto Co. (D. Del. 2000) 96 F. Supp. 2d 376, 389] . It is possible that a different result will be reached under state and federal law, such that an LLC interest may be a security for California purposes, but not for federal securities laws purposes.

For a detailed discussion of securities registration, qualification, and exemptions, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues

, and subsequent chapters.

[2] California Securities Exemptions Applicable to LLCs

The most common California exemption applicable to LLC membership interests is the limited offering exemption, which is similar to federal Regulation D [see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions ; for discussion of Regulation D, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations]. Key to this exemption is the prohibition on advertising [Corp. Code § 25102(f); see Corp. Code § 25102(f); see also 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508].

The California small offering exemption applies only to the issuance of shares and is therefore inapplicable [see Corp. Code § 25102(h); for discussion of the small offering exemption, see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption]. An LLC can rely on the qualified purchaser exemption if sales are made only to qualified purchasers or other persons that the LLC reasonable believes, after reasonable inquiry, to be qualified purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102(n); for discussion of the qualified purchaser exemption, see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions].

In addition, an offer or sale of a security issued by an LLC pursuant to a purchase plan or agreement, or issued pursuant to an option plan or agreement, is exempt from qualification if, at the time of issuance or grant, the security is exempt from registration under federal law [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.701] and (1) the terms of the plan or agreement comply with California requirements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.41 (option plan), 260.140.42 (purchase plan), 260.140.45, 260.140.46]; (2) the issuer files a notice of transaction within 30 days after the initial issuance of any security under the plan; and (3) the issuer pays the prescribed filing fee [Corp. Code § 25102(o); see Corp. Code § 25608(y)(fee)]. However, the failure to file the notice, or to file the notice within the specified time, does not affect the availability of the exemption. An issuer that fails to file the notice as required by statute must, within 15 business days after the earlier of the discovery of the failure to file the notice or demand by the Commissioner, file the notice and pay a fee equal to the maximum aggregate fee that would have been payable had the transaction been qualified [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

§ 12C.40 Overview

This part of the Legal Background briefly compares LLCs with corporations (generally including S corporations except as noted) in § 12C.41; with S corporations in § 12C.42; with limited partnerships in § 12C.43; and with general partnerships in § 12C.44. Section 12C.45 discusses some cost and other considerations not otherwise mentioned in this summary that are involved in converting an existing business entity to an LLC.

Proponents of the LLC entity believe that it has very favorable attributes compared to other business entities, principally because it offers the personal liability protection associated with corporations and the pass-through tax treatment and flexibility of a partnership.

Several types of businesses may not operate through the LLC form. Certain providers of professional services are not currently authorized to render those services through an LLC [Corp. Code § 17375; see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition); see also § 12C.10[5]]. In addition, LLCs may not be formed to engage in the banking business, the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, or trust company business [Corp. Code § 17002(a)]. No LLC may operate as a licensed health care service plan unless it is a subsidiary of a licensed health care service plan and is established to serve an existing line of business of the parent [Corp. Code § 17002(b)]. However, entities engaged in these otherwise prohibited businesses may be members of an LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(x)].

Since January 1, 2000, California has permitted the formation and operation of LLCs with one member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. However, a single-member LLC will be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner for tax purposes unless it elected to be taxed as a corporation [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

§ 12C.41 Corporations

[1] Formation and Operation

The formation requirements applicable to an LLC are somewhat similar to those applicable to a corporation formed under the California General Corporation Law, so there is no particular advantage to either type of entity at the formation stage. With respect to day-to-day operations, the members of an LLC are required to enter into an operating agreement governing the LLC's internal affairs [Corp. Code §§ 17001(ab), 17050(a)], while corporations must adopt written bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 211-213]. Although, unlike corporate bylaws, an LLC's operating agreement need not include any particular provisions, and need not be in writing, as a practical matter those agreements are fairly detailed and as a rule should be in writing [see §§ 12C.21[4], 12C.220].

As noted in § 12C.40, LLCs are not permitted to engage in certain businesses or render certain professional services [Corp. Code §§ 17002, 17375; see § 12C.10[5]]. In contrast, corporations, other than corporations subject to the Banking Law or professional corporations, may pursue any lawful business activity; corporations subject to the Banking Law and professional corporations may form and engage in business activities that are permitted under the respective governing statutes [Corp. Code § 206; see Corp. Code §§ 163, 13400-13410].

An LLC may operate under a traditional management structure, with a nonmember board of directors and officers, it may be managed by one or more managers (who may, but need not, be members), or it may be managed by all of its members [Corp. Code §§ 17150-17157; see 12C.24]. In contrast to a corporation's usual board of directors structure in which each director has a single vote, an LLC operating agreement may create nearly any management structure and may allocate management voting rights based on ownership or other factors [Corp. Code § 17103]. A corporation, however, may be formed as a close corporation under the General Corporation Law and as such may operate without a board of directors and pursuant to a shareholders agreement, which may be structured much like a partnership agreement or an operating agreement of an LLC. Although statutory close corporations may only have 35 or fewer shareholders, this limitation may not be germane to selection of form of entity in a great many cases when an LLC is being considered.

Finally, as a general rule, an LLC's record keeping and reporting burdens are less onerous than those of corporations [compare Corp. Code § 1500 et seq. (corporations) with Corp. Code §§ 17058, 17106 (LLCs); see § 12C.23[11]].

[2] Limited Liability

LLC members and corporate shareholders generally are shielded from personal liability for company obligations [Corp. Code §§ 17101(a), 17158]. Nevertheless, both members of LLCs and corporate shareholders may be personally liable under some circumstances [Corp. Code § 17101(b); see People v. Clauson (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 374, 41 Cal. Rptr. 691 ; Cooperman v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 1, 122 Cal. Rptr. 127] . For example, the tort and contractual liability of an LLC created to operate as a health care service plan, and that of its members, is not limited or restricted in any manner because of the plan's LLC status [Corp. Code § 17002(b)]. In addition, LLC members are subject to liability under the common law governing alter ego liability, and may be personally liable under a court judgment for any debt, obligation, or liability of the LLC under the same circumstances and to the same extent as a corporate shareholder [Corp. Code § 17101(b)]. Further, LLC members may agree to be obligated personally for any or all of the LLC's debts, obligations, and liabilities under certain circumstances [Corp. Code § 17101(c), (e); see § 12.23[14][b]]. Finally, LLC members are subject to certain statutory liabilities for participation in tortious conduct [Corp. Code § 17101(c)] or in criminal acts, situations unlikely to arise as to shareholders except in close corporations managed by shareholders. These liabilities, however, should arise as to LLC members only when they manage the LLC or there is actual malfeasance on their part [Corp. Code § 17101(c)]. Liability of LLC members and managers is discussed further in §§ 12C.23[14] and 12C.24[8].

[3] Tax Treatment

The principal advantage of an LLC over a business corporation that is not an S corporation (a "C corporation") is the different tax treatment afforded the LLC. An LLC is treated as a partnership unless it elects to be taxed as a corporation [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a); see § 12C.50[2]].

Usually, the most immediate advantage of partnership income tax status for an LLC is the pass-through aspect of profit and loss to its members. This treatment avoids the double taxation applicable to C corporations, once on earnings at the corporate level [I.R.C. § 11; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23038, 23151] and again on dividend and appreciated property distributions at the shareholder level [I.R.C. § 61(a)(7)]. Further, LLCs are not subject to accumulated earnings taxes [I.R.C. § 531 et seq.] and personal holding company taxes [I.R.C. § 541 et seq.] that may be imposed on C corporations. LLCs have an advantage over S corporations in that LLCs can specially allocate items of income, gain, loss, deduction, and distributions pursuant to the operating agreement, within the restrictions of I.R.C. § 704(b).

Whether the pass-through of income from an LLC to members is beneficial depends on the applicable tax rates and the amount of income involved. Pass-through (and therefore, selection of LLC status over a C corporation) will be beneficial if an individual member's tax rate is less than the federal corporate tax rate. The maximum individual tax rate after 2002 is 35 percent, although taxpayers with taxable income of less than $250,000 are subject to lower tax rates [I.R.C. § 1(a)- (d), (i)(2)]. In contrast, the maximum federal corporate tax rate for taxable income between $75,000 and $10 million is 34 percent. For taxable income over $10 million, the maximum corporate tax rate is 35 percent [I.R.C. § 11(b)]. An additional 5 percent tax is imposed on corporate taxable income exceeding $100,000, with an $11,750 cap on additional tax liability. This causes an effective tax rate of 39 percent on taxable income between $100,000 and $335,000. A 3 percent additional tax is imposed on corporate taxable income exceeding $15 million, with a $100,000 cap on additional tax liability. This causes an effective tax rate of 38 percent on corporate taxable income between $15 million and $18,333,333. Corporate taxable income over $18,333,333 is subject to a tax rate of 35 percent [I.R.C. § 11(b)(1)]. Thus, the pass-through of income may not be beneficial, especially if the business needs to retain its earnings and does not plan significant cash distributions to its owners. Nonetheless, for businesses that traditionally have higher deductions and write-offs, LLC members may be able to use their pass-through losses to offset other income. In addition, because LLC income taxation is at the member level, natural person members (but not C corporations) may benefit from the lower capital gain income tax rates [I.R.C. §§ 1(h), 11 1201(a)].

One advantage of a corporation available to holders of "small business stock" is that 50 percent of the gain from sale of the stock may be excluded under certain circumstances [I.R.C. § 1202(a)(1); see I.R.C. § 1202(a)(2) (60 percent in empowerment zone business); see I.R.C. § 1202(a)(3) (75 percent for certain stock acquired in 2009 or 2010)]. In addition, shareholders of a "small business corporation" in some circumstances may deduct, as an ordinary loss, losses from the sale, exchange, or worthlessness of their stock in the business, which ordinarily would be capital losses [I.R.C. § 1244]. These provisions are not available to members of LLCs.

An important tax difference between corporations and LLCs may arise if an appreciated asset is to be contributed to the entity's capital in exchange for an ownership interest. Unless the transferors are in "control" of the corporation immediately after the exchange, they will recognize gain in the amount of the fair market value of the acquired interest in the corporation over the tax basis of the property transferred [I.R.C. § 351(a)], but no such rule applies to contributions to an LLC by its members.

There is also an important difference between the basis of a shareholder in a C corporation in the corporation's stock and of an LLC member in the LLC membership. The stock basis of the C corporation shareholder is not affected by the gains or losses realized by the C corporation, while the bases of LLC members (and S corporation shareholders) in their ownership interests are increased by allocations to them of gains and profits earned by their company and decreased by allocations to them of losses incurred by the company [I.R.C. §§ 705(a), 1367(a)]. Losses of C corporations therefore are retained at the corporate level; losses of LLCs and S corporations that flow through to the members and S corporation shareholders may be used by them to offset other income, subject to rules too complex to delineate here involving primarily the owner's basis and the application of passive loss limitations.

Typically, an LLC suffers no adverse tax consequences on liquidation [I.R.C. § 731(b)]. An LLC member generally will not recognize gain unless the distribution of cash exceeds the member's adjusted basis in the LLC immediately before the distribution [I.R.C. § 731(a)]. However, C corporations are subject to potential double taxation on liquidation [I.R.C. §§ 331, 336], which may be a consideration for C corporations that are considering reorganization as LLCs.

In addition to federal taxes, both LLCs and C corporations must pay state taxes and fees to do business in California. For example, LLCs must pay a minimum franchise tax and a graduated fee on income [see § 12C.53]. Like LLCs, corporations must pay a minimum franchise tax and pay income tax on their net earnings [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23010 et seq., 23501 et seq.], and may be subject to other fees.

There are a number of other tax rules that differ as between C corporations and the other entities considered here, such as differences in accounting methods that may be used and taxable years that may be elected.

§ 12C.42 S Corporations

PRACTICE TIP:

Federal law limits the number of shareholders of an S corporation to 100 [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(A)]. California has generally conformed to the federal rules except that California S corporations are subject to the minimum franchise tax and tax at the rate of 11/2 percent of taxable income [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5, 23800, 23802]. For further discussion of the federal changes, see Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status .

[1] Definition

S corporation status is primarily a creature of federal and state tax law [see I.R.C. § 1361 et seq.; Rev. & Tax. Code § 23800 et seq.]. While retaining the corporate characteristic of limited liability, a corporation can generally secure pass-through tax status by filing an S election on Form 2553 with the Internal Revenue Service and Form 3560 with the Franchise Tax Board [see I.R.C. § 1362; Rev. & Tax. Code § 23801]. However, S corporations are subject to structural restrictions [see [2], below], and are subject to tax restrictions [see [3], below] not applicable to LLCs.

[2] Structural Restrictions Applicable to S Corporations

Unlike LLC membership, which is virtually unrestricted [see Corp. Code §§ 17001(x), 17102], S corporation shareholder status is subject to several restrictions. An S corporation may not have (1) more than 100 shareholders; (2) shareholders who are not individuals other than estates and qualified trusts [see I.R.C. § 1361(c)(2)]; or (3) shareholders who are nonresident aliens [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)].

In addition, LLCs may have a variety of classes of members and classes of interests [Corp. Code §§ 17001(z), 17102], but S corporations may not have more than one class of stock [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(D), (c)].

LLCs may be subsidiaries of other corporations or entities and may themselves have subsidiaries. S corporations are limited as to the identity of their shareholders and may not own 80 percent or more of the voting stock of another corporation or otherwise be a member of an affiliated group [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(2)], but these restrictions do not apply to LLCs.

LLCs also have the other advantages over S corporations, such as more flexible management structure and less burdensome record and report keeping obligations, that were discussed in connection with corporations generally [see § 12C.41].

[3] Tax Treatment

Properly constituted LLCs and S corporations are not subject to federal income taxation at the LLC/corporate level. Most items of S corporation income and loss (and their tax attributes) pass through to the shareholders [I.R.C. §§ 1361-1379]. The profits and losses of an LLC can be allocated among members and classes of members within IRS restrictions by its operating agreement; if the agreement does not provide to the contrary, profits and losses are allocated in proportion to the contributions of the members [Corp. Code § 17202]. Each S corporation shareholder, however, recognizes and reports a pro rata share, based on shareholdings, of the corporation's income, loss, deductions, and credits; S corporations are not permitted to specially allocate these items [I.R.C. §§ 1366, 1377(a)]. An S corporation shareholder does not have a basis in the corporation's debts (except debt to that shareholder) to use to support loss deductions [I.R.C. § 1366(d)]. LLC members are entitled to basis for the LLC's debts [I.R.C. §§ 701-704, 752], even though the debts are nonrecourse as to the members.

S corporations may be subject to penalty taxes for certain built-in gains [I.R.C. § 1374] and on excessive passive income [I.R.C. § 1375; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23811]. LLCs are not subject to these penalties.

The death of an S corporation shareholder and changes in the number and identity of shareholders may result in the termination of the S election [I.R.C. § 1362(d)(2)], but does not affect the basis of the assets of the corporation [I.R.C. § 1014(a)]. In contrast, an LLC faced with the death or withdrawal of a member or admission of new members must allocate taxable income or loss among the continuing members and the deceased or withdrawing member [I.R.C. §§ 706, 708; see Treas. Reg. § 1.706-1(c)] and, if the LLC is not continued by the remaining members, could face dissolution and winding up.

LLCs taxed as partnerships are not subject to California income taxation at the LLC level, but are subject to the annual minimum franchise tax and a statutory fee on gross income [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 17942; see also § 12C.53]. S corporations are subject to the greater of the annual minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151, 23153(d)(1), 23802(c)] or 1.5 percent income tax at the corporate level [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23802(b)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23802(b)(2) (higher rate for S financial corporations)].

§ 12C.43 Limited Partnerships

[1] Formation and Operation

Most LLCs and all limited partnerships involve the association of two or more persons to form and carry on a business: a limited partnership requires one or more general partners and one or more limited partners [Corp. Code 15901.02(q) (ULPA '08)]; however, LLCs are permitted to form and operate with one member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. Formal formation requirements are minimal: LLCs must file a simple articles of organization form (Form LLC-1) with the Secretary of State and must have an oral or written operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]; similarly, limited partnerships must file a simple certificate of limited partnership (Form LP-1) with the Secretary of State and must have an oral or written partnership agreement [Corp. Code 15901.02(x), 15902.01(a), (b) (ULPA '08)]. The articles of organization and operating agreement of the LLC and the certificate of limited partnership and partnership agreement respectively govern the business operations of the entity [Corp. Code §§ 15901.02(x), 15902.01(a), (b)(ULPA '08), 17001(ab)].

[2] Limited Liability

LLC members and limited partners of properly structured entities are ordinarily shielded from personal liability for company obligations [Corp. Code §§ 15903.03 (ULPA '08), 17101(a), 17158]. Nevertheless, both members of LLCs and limited partners may be liable beyond the amount of their capital contributions under certain circumstances [see §§ 12C.23[14], 12C.24[8]; see also Corp. Code §§ 17101(b), (c), 15903.03 (ULPA '08)]. As with misstatements contained in LLC articles of organization, personal liability attaches to a partner executing a Form LP-1 knowing it to be false. Because the person executing this statement is usually the general partner, and general partners have unlimited liability for the limited partnership's obligations [Corp. Code § 15904.04 (ULPA '08)], this limitation rarely affects the status of the limited partners. However, a limited partner who participates in the control of the limited partnership's business is treated as a general partner and loses the protection of limited liability [Corp. Code § 15903.03 (ULPA '08)]. LLCs are not required to have a member who is personally liable for the debts of the LLC and members have limited liability even if they participate in management of the business.

The liability of LLC members and managers is discussed in further detail in §§ 12C.23[14] and 12C.24[8].

[3] Tax Treatment

LLCs and limited partnerships, if they elect to be taxed as partnerships [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3], provide pass-through income tax treatment to their members and limited and general partners: members and partners are subject to tax [I.R.C. § 701]. This treatment avoids for both the double-level taxation imposed on C corporations. Despite their overall similarity as to tax treatment, there are some potentially significant differences between LLCs and limited partnerships, details of which are beyond the scope of this summary and some of which are still evolving with the tax treatment of LLCs. One important advantage for LLCs, however, is that limited partners are automatically subject to the passive loss limitation rules for federal income tax purposes, while LLC members are not automatically subject to those limitations [see I.R.C. § 469(h)(2)].

Both LLCs and limited partnerships must pay the minimum franchise tax annually if they do business in California, and remain liable for this tax until a tax clearance certificate is issued by the Franchise Tax Board in conjunction with entity's termination [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17935, 17941, 23151, 23153(d)(1)]. LLCs must also pay a graduated fee on gross income [see § 12C.53[2]; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942].

§ 12C.44 General Partnerships

[1] Formation and Operation

Most LLCs and all general partnerships essentially involve the association of two or more persons to form and carry on a business [Corp. Code §§ 16101(9), 17050(b)]; however, LLCs are permitted to form and operate with one member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. Formal formation requirements are minimal: LLCs must file simple articles of organization (Form LLC-1) with the Secretary of State and must have an oral or written operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]; general partnerships have no formal filing requirements, and need not have a formal oral, written, or express partnership agreement [see Cochran v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 75, 81, 149 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; see also Leff v. Gunter (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 508, 514-518, 189 Cal. Rptr. 377, 658 P.2d 740] . However, as a general partnership is "an association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners a business for profit" [Corp. Code §§ 16101(7)], there are inherently some formal or informal business arrangements that, subject to proof as to what these arrangements are and subject to the rules of the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994, define partners' relationships with each other and are best reflected in a written agreement.

Both general partnerships and LLCs allow for the participation of any number of principals in the conduct of the business, distributing work, and sharing risks and rewards [Corp. Code §§ 16301, 16401, 17157]. Each partner is an agent of the partnership for the purpose of its business and the act of a partner for apparently carrying on in the usual way the partnership business binds the partnership [Corp. Code §§ 16301]. Each member of an LLC may be a similar agent of the LLC with similar powers or, if the LLC is managed by managers will not have those agency or management powers [Corp. Code § 17157; see § 12C.24[3]].

Unlike LLCs, which currently are not permitted to render certain types of professional services [see § 12C.10[5]], general partnerships can and do render those services, subject, of course, to satisfying licensing and other requirements as to the particular profession. With that exception, LLCs and general partnerships, generally speaking, can engage in much the same businesses and have the same capital and operating structure as the other.

[2] Liability

A major difference between LLCs and general partnerships is that the liability of LLC members is generally limited to their paid-in or committed capital contributions to the LLC, subject to certain exceptions [see §§ 12C.23[14] (members), 12C.24[8] (members who are managers)]. With these exceptions, LLC members, whether they or managers manage it, are not personally liable for the LLC's obligations [Corp. Code §§ 17101, 17158].

In contrast, general partners have unlimited personal liability for the obligations of the general partnership [Corp. Code §§ 16305-16308 (applicable to all partnerships after 1998)]. General partners are jointly and severally liable for the wrongful acts and omissions of any partner acting in the ordinary course of partnership business [Corp. Code §§ 16305(a), 16306(a)] and for the misapplication of funds or property by other partners [Corp. Code §§ 16305(b), 16306(a)]. In addition, partners in general partnerships are jointly and severally liable for partnership obligations [Corp. Code § 16306(a)]. It is this broad liability of general partners and the recourse to each partner's personal assets that is the fundamental disadvantage of a general partnership compared to an LLC. This difference between LLCs and general partnerships should be considered, however, in light of the fact that within limits, those wishing to operate through a general partnership can do so through a corporation (including an S corporation) as general partner and limit their personal exposure to their investment in the corporate partner. On the other hand, because such an arrangement would require two separate entities, it would entail additional legal, accounting, and administrative costs and burdens.

[3] Tax Treatment

LLCs [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3] and general partnerships can provide pass-through income tax treatment to their members and general partners: members and partners are subject to tax [I.R.C. § 701]. Both LLC members and general partners are treated very similarly for income tax purposes.

LLCs, but not general partnerships, must pay the minimum franchise tax annually if they do business in California, and remain liable for this tax until dissolution documents are filed [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 23151, 23153(d)(1); see also § 12C.53[1]]. LLCs must also pay a graduated fee on gross income [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942; see also § 12C.53[2]]; general partnerships are not subject to such a fee.

§ 12C.45 Conversion Costs

[1] Introduction

Sections 12C.40 through 12C.44 compare and contrast the LLC entity with other business entities (C corporations, S corporations, limited partnerships, and general partnerships) from the perspective of two or more persons deciding to form a new business and determining which type of entity best suits their needs. This section focuses on three key factors that should be evaluated when an existing business entity is considering reorganizing as an LLC. Many of the costs involved in creating a business entity as an LLC and converting an existing business entity into an LLC are much the same: professional fees (such as attorneys, accountants, and appraisers), which tend to fluctuate with the complexity of the proposed business structure; filing fees; and other formation costs. However, the additional costs of dissolving an existing entity [see [2], below] or converting it into an LLC and the effect of a change in ownership of business real property [see [3], below] should also always be considered. In addition, the tax consequences of converting a partnership interest to an LLC interest are covered [see [4], below].

For discussion, procedures, and forms related to the conversion of general partnerships into LLCs, see Ch. 15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships .

[2] Dissolution of Existing Entity

Often, the process of dissolving an existing business entity to redeploy some or all of its assets in an LLC can be costly, involving one or more of the following expenses:

- Obtaining the consent of the shareholders or partners [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 1900, 15637, 15681, 15901.15, 15908.01].

- Preparing and mailing notices and document filings and recordings [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 1901, 1903, 1905, 15621, 15623, 15902.03, 15908.07, 16805].

- Paying or assuming outstanding debts and liabilities [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 2001-2009, 15683, 15908.09, 16807].

- Paying or assuming tax liabilities [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 2001, 15038, 16802, 16803].

- Valuing, liquidating, and distributing business assets [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 2004-2007, 15684, 15908.09, 16401, 16801 et seq.; see also Com. Code §§ 6101-6111 (bulk sales)].

Some of these procedures and expenses can be eliminated if the existing business entity can be merged into a newly formed LLC, a procedure possible if the existing business is a corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 174.5, 1109, 17550], a limited partnerships [see Corp. Code §§ 15611(v), 15677.2, 15911.01(k), 15911.03] or a general partnership [see Corp. Code § 16901 et seq; see also Ch. 15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships].

Such business reorganizations or combinations may not be tax free reorganizations (the reorganization of a corporation into an LLC would not be), so the income tax cost of such a reorganization should be carefully reviewed with tax counsel [see § 12C.45[4]].

[3] Property Taxation of Changes in Ownership

Ordinarily, transfers of any interest in real property between a corporation, partnership, or other legal entity and a shareholder, partner, or any other person, and between entities, constitute changes in ownership [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 61(j), 62] that may result in the reassessment of the value of the real property and a resulting change in property taxes [see Cal. Const. art. XIIIA, § 2]. However, no change in ownership occurs in certain tax free or other specified reorganizations or if the transfer between entities (or by individuals to an entity) preserves the previous owners' proportionate interests in the property and the transfer is only a change in the method of holding title to the property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(b) (exemption for affiliated group transfers)]. Further, existing business entities such as partnerships and corporations will be permitted to convert into, or transfer real property to, LLCs without incurring a documentary transfer tax, provided the direct or indirect proportional interests in the property remain the same [Stats. 1996, ch. 57, § 29]. The purchase or transfer of ownership interests in legal entities, such as the purchase or sale of LLC interests, does not constitute a transfer of the real property of the entity unless the purchase or transfer involves a change of control or is of a majority interest of the LLC [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(a), (c), (d)]. From the foregoing, it is clear that in converting an entity to an LLC, the practitioner should take care to structure the conversion in a manner that does not trigger a change of ownership of the entity's real property for property tax purposes.

When a member of a limited liability company satisfies a company-funding obligation by conveying real property to the LLC, that change in ownership is, for property tax purposes, a 100-percent change in ownership because the entire "beneficial use" of the property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 60] has been transferred from the member to the LLC. The member does not retain any measure of the beneficial use of the property because, except in a fiduciary context (which this situation is not), for property tax purposes, it is not possible for the beneficial use of property to be separated from the holder of the legal title. Therefore, the conveyance is not a partial change in ownership even though the member retains an inchoate ownership interest in the property, proportional to the member's interest in the LLC, and even though the member likewise retains partial power respecting the use and subsequent disposition of the property. Consequently, a reassessment of the entire property will ensue along with, usually, a resulting increase in the assessed value of the property [Fashion Valley Mall, LLC v. County of San Diego (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 871, 885-887, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 327 (trial court properly disregarded parties' purported reformation of transactional documents, which parties explicitly undertook to avoid adverse property tax consequence of original transaction)].

[4] Conversion of Partnership Interest Into Limited Liability Company Interest

Under Rev. Rul. 95-37 [see Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130], the conversion of an interest in a domestic partnership into an interest in a domestic LLC that is classified as a partnership for federal tax purposes is treated as a conversion of a general partnership to a limited partnership that is subject to the principles of Rev. Rul. 84-52 [Rev. Rul. 95-37 ; see Rev. Rul. 84-52, 1984-1 C.B. 157]. Rev. Rul. 84-52 provides that if specified conditions are met, the conversion of a general partnership to a limited partnership has the following effects [Rev. Rul. 84-52, 1984-1 C.B. 157 ; see Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130]:

- It generally does not cause the partners to recognize gain or loss [but see I.R.C. §§ 704(b), 752];
- It does not terminate the partnership for tax purposes under I.R.C. § 708;
- If partners' shares of liabilities remain unchanged, there is no change in basis of any partners' interests (and other basis provisions); and
- Under I.R.C. § 1223(1), there is no change in the holding period of any partner's total interest in the partnership.

In summary, Rev. Rul. 95-37 [Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130] holds that the federal income tax consequences described in Rev. Rul. 84-52 [see Rev. Rul. 84-52, 1984-1 C.B. 157] apply to the conversion of an interest in a domestic partnership into an interest in a domestic LLC that is classified as a partnership for federal tax purposes. Therefore, if structured properly, the LLC will simply be treated as a continuation of the partnership for federal tax purposes, with no federal income tax consequences. Accordingly, the taxable year of the converting partnership does not close with respect to any of the partners, and the resulting LLC does not need to obtain a new taxpayer identification number [Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130].

The holdings of Rev. Rul. 95-37 apply to the similar conversion of an interest in a domestic LLC classified as a partnership for tax purposes to an interest in a domestic partnership. Rev. Rul. 95-37 does not address the federal tax consequences of a conversion of an organization classified as a corporation into an organization classified as a partnership for federal tax purposes [Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130].

§ 12C.50 Taxation of Income of Limited Liability Company

[1] Freedom to Choose Type of Tax Treatment

For income tax purposes, an LLC may be taxed as a corporation or as a partnership. It seems likely that most LLCs will choose partnership tax treatment, in which the LLC is merely a pass-through tax entity, and the members report their respective shares of LLC tax items on their own tax returns. LLCs will automatically be taxed as partnerships for federal income tax purposes unless they affirmatively elect to be taxed as an "association" (corporation) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a) (election), (b)(1)(i)(classification as partnership in default of election)].

California entity classification issues are discussed in [2][c], below.

[2] Treatment as Partnership for Income Tax Purposes

[a] Advantage of Partnership Tax Treatment

If desired, an LLC will receive pass-through income tax treatment essentially like that of a partnership. One of the primary benefits of an LLC is its ability to be classified as a partnership for tax purposes. For income tax purposes, the LLC is not a separate taxpaying entity and is not subject to tax at the entity level [I.R.C. § 701]. Instead, the LLC's members report their respective shares of LLC income, gain, loss, deduction, and credit on their own federal tax returns.

[b] Obtaining Partnership Tax Treatment

Prior to January 1, 1997, whether an LLC was taxed as a corporation or as a partnership was determined based on the presence or absence of four corporate characteristics. If an entity lacked two or more of those characteristics, it was treated as a partnership, not a corporation, for federal income tax purposes. These corporate characteristics were (1) continuity of life, (2) centralized management, (3) limited liability for obligations of the enterprise, and (4) free transferability of interests [see Rev. Proc. 95-10, 1995-1 C.B. 501 (obsolete as of January 1, 1997)]. Complex guidelines applied to determine the presence or absence of these characteristics, and avoiding at least two of them was an important consideration in planning an LLC.

Effective January 1, 1997, the entity classification rules were substantially revised. The complex classification rules were replaced by a much simpler system under which entities (including LLCs) other than corporations are permitted simply to elect whether to be classified as corporations or partnerships for federal income tax purposes [see Treas. Reg. §§ 301.7701-1-301.7701-3]. Under these rules, a LLC with at least two members can elect to be classified as either an association (i.e., corporation) or a partnership, and a LLC with only one member can elect to be classified as an association or to be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. Entities that fail to make an election will automatically be classified as partnerships if they have more than one member, or will be disregarded as entities separate from their owners if they have only one member [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)]. Entities that prefer not to be classified as partnerships may elect to be classified as corporations by filing IRS Form 8832. The election will be effective on the date specified by the entity on Form 8832 [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c) (procedures for making election)].

[c] California Tax Classification

California specifically provides that the classification of an eligible business entity as a partnership or association taxable as a corporation for Personal Income Tax and Bank and Corporation Tax purposes must be the same as the classification for federal tax purposes effective for income or taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1997. However, any business entity that was classified as an association taxable as a corporation for California tax purposes at any time during a 60-month period preceding January 1, 1997, will continue to be classified as an association taxable as a corporation until it elects to be classified as a partnership or disregarded as an entity separate from its owners, the same as the entity is classified for federal purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038(b)(2)(A), (B)].

[d] Tax Matters Member

LLCs must select a tax matters partner (TMP) in the same fashion as a TMP is selected for a partnership [see I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7); see also Treas. Reg. §§ 301.6231(a)(7)-1, 301.6231(a)(7)-2]. Designation and termination of a TMP must be made under Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1. Among other responsibilities, the TMP gives notice to the other partners of tax proceedings, makes tax decisions that bind the other partners, and petitions the IRS for readjustments [see I.R.C. §§ 6223(g), 6224(c)(3), 6226(a)].

A TMP is either (1) the general partner designated as the TMP, or (2) if no such partner is designated, the general partner having the largest profits interest in the partnership at the close of the taxable year. If there is more than one such partner, the first such partner alphabetically is the TMP [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7)]. If the partnership has not designated a tax matters partner and it is impracticable [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(o) (determination of impracticability)] to apply the largest-profits-interest rule, the Commissioner will select a tax matters partner [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7); Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(n), (p)]. Within 30 days of that selection, the Secretary must notify all partners entitled to notice [see I.R.C. § 6223(a)] of the name and address of the selected TMP [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(r)]. The person designated as TMP must be, or have been, a general partner during the taxable period in question [Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(b)(1)].

For purposes of selecting a TMP for an LLC, only a member-manager of an LLC is treated as a general partner. A member who is not a member-manager is treated as a partner other than a general partner [Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-2(a)]. A member-manager for the purpose of selecting a TMP is a member of an LLC who, alone or together with others, is vested with the continuing exclusive authority to make the management decisions necessary to conduct the business for which the organization was formed. If there are no elected or designated member-managers, each member will be treated as a member-manager for purposes of selecting a TMP [Treas. Reg. §

301.6231(a)(7)-2(b)(3)].

An LLC should designate a TMP in its operating agreement rather than risk having the IRS choose its TMP based on profits interests or other criteria [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7)(B); see § 12C.220].

§ 12C.51 Limited Liability Company as Accounting Entity for Income Taxation of Members

If an LLC is taxed as a partnership for federal and California income tax purposes [see § 12C.50], it will be taxed under the partnership taxation statutes and regulations. The basic premise of Subchapter K (partnership provisions) of the Internal Revenue Code (applicable to qualifying LLCs) [see I.R.C. § 701 et seq.] is that the LLC is merely an accounting entity for determining items of income, gain, loss, deduction, and credit that are to be allocated to individual taxpayers (the members of the LLC).

Though an LLC is not treated as a tax-paying entity, it does make its own elections related to accounting, including choosing a taxable year, which generally must be the same as that of its principal members [see I.R.C. §§ 703(b), 706]. The Internal Revenue Code provides methods for determining the taxable year of an LLC [see I.R.C. §§ 444, 706(b)]. Detailed discussion of these issues is beyond the scope of this legal background. Text references from the Research Guide [§ 12C.06] should be consulted for more detailed explanations.

For California purposes, taxation of LLCs treated as partnerships is generally determined in accordance with Subchapter K of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. § 701 et seq.]. However, there are certain California modifications [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17853 et seq.; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941 et seq.].

§ 12C.52 Income Taxation of Members of Limited Liability Company

[1] Overview

If taxed as a partnership, an LLC is not a federal income taxpayer. Instead, the members, not the LLC, report their respective shares of LLC income, gain, loss, deduction, and credit on their own tax returns [I.R.C. § 701]. The main purpose of partnership income tax law [see I.R.C. § 701 et seq.] is to allocate income and loss (and certain other items) to the members for use in preparing their individual tax returns. Another chief purpose is to determine the tax consequences of members' contribution of assets to the LLC.

For detailed coverage of the taxation of partnerships and partners, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 26, Income Taxation of Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

[2] Separately Stated Items

Because the LLC is essentially an accounting entity, items of taxable income or loss realized by the LLC are allocated to the members; amounts allocated are known as "distributive shares." Each member must take into account and separately report on his or her income tax return the member's distributive share of the following LLC items [I.R.C. § 702(a)]:

- Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for not more than one year.
- Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for more than one year.
- Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of property described in I.R.C. § 1231 (relating to certain property used in a trade or business and involuntary conversions).

- Charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170(c)].

- Dividends that are subject to capital gains treatment [see I.R.C. § 1(h)(11)] or for which a corporate dividends-received deduction applies [see I.R.C. § 241 et seq.].

- Taxes paid or accrued to foreign countries and United States possessions [see I.R.C. § 901].

- Other items of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit to the extent provided by the regulations [see Treas. Reg. § 1.702-1(a)(8)].

- Taxable income or loss, exclusive of items requiring separate computation under the preceding paragraphs.

The purpose of these separate computations is to preserve the character of the items, such as charitable contributions, whose ultimate treatment depends on facts particular to each member. Further, the tax character of any item of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit included in a member's distributive share is determined at the LLC level as if the items were realized directly from the same source as that realized by the LLC, or incurred in the same manner as incurred by the LLC [I.R.C. § 702(b)].

[3] Distributive Shares of Income, Loss, and Other Items to Members

As stated in [1], above, an LLC merely passes tax items on to its members. After computation of income and loss at the LLC level, each member is allocated a "distributive share" of these items as provided in the LLC's operating agreement [I.R.C. §§ 704(a), 706(a)]. The IRS will not recognize special allocations of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit unless they are in accordance with the member's interest in the LLC and have a substantial economic effect [see I.R.C. § 704(b)]. A special allocation has a "substantial economic effect" if it affects the dollar amount of the members' share in total LLC income independent of tax consequences [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)].

Members are responsible in their individual capacities for payment of taxes on LLC income. Liability for tax due on the distributive share attaches regardless of whether or not the share is actually distributed [see I.R.C. §§ 701, 702].

[4] LLC Taxable Income

For federal tax purposes, LLC taxable income is computed in the same manner as individual taxable income except that items of gain and loss must be stated separately [I.R.C. § 703(a)(1); see I.R.C. § 702(a); see also [3], above]. In addition, the following deductions are not available [I.R.C. § 703(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.703-1(a)(2)]:

- Personal exemptions [see I.R.C. § 151].

- Net operating losses [see I.R.C. § 172].

- Standard deductions [see I.R.C. § 63(c)].

- Items that must be separately stated [see [2], above].

[5] Loss Allowance

A member's distributive share of LLC losses is allowed only to the extent of the member's adjusted basis in the LLC at the end of the LLC taxable year in which the loss occurs. Any excess may be deducted at the end of the LLC year in which that excess is repaid to the LLC [I.R.C. § 704(d)].

Loss allowances are further limited for a member of an LLC who is (1) an individual, (2) a Subchapter S corporation, or (3) a closely held corporation in which five or fewer individuals own more than 50 percent of the stock [see I.R.C. §§ 465(a)(1), 542(a)(2)]. These members may deduct losses from certain activities to the extent of the amounts they have at risk in the activity giving rise to the loss [I.R.C. § 465(a); see I.R.C. § 465(b) ("at risk" defined)].

The at-risk rule acts as a ceiling on the amount of loss that may be deducted for any activity. The passive activity rule then acts as a potential further limitation on the deductibility of losses that are otherwise allowable under the at-risk rule.

In addition, a member may be limited by the passive loss rules. An activity involving the conduct of a trade or business in which the taxpayer does not materially participate is a "passive activity" for federal income tax purposes [I.R.C. § 469(c)]. Deductions and credit arising from passive activities may only be taken against income and tax liability attributable to all passive activities [I.R.C. § 469(a)(1), (d)]. Deductions and credits that are disallowed under the rule in any taxable year may be carried forward to the next taxable year, but not back to any previous taxable year [I.R.C. § 469(b)].

[6] Basis in LLC Assets and Interests

An LLC has a tax basis in its assets. For assets purchased by the LLC, the basis is usually the cost of the asset [I.R.C. § 1012]. For assets contributed by a member to the LLC, the basis is the contributing member's adjusted tax basis in the asset, increased by any gain [I.R.C. §§ 722, 723].

Each member has a tax basis in his or her interest in an LLC. The basis is first established by the member's basis in the property contributed to the LLC, which is equal to the member's tax basis in the property [I.R.C. § 722]. The member's basis is increased by the member's distributive share of items of income, and decreased by the member's distributive share of loss and distributions [I.R.C. § 705]. A member's basis may also be affected any increase or decrease in a member's share of LLC liabilities [see I.R.C. § 752].

[7] Built-in Gain or Loss

Income, gain, loss, and deductions with respect to property contributed to the LLC by a member must be shared among the members pursuant to Treasury Regulations so as to take account of the variation between the basis of the property and its fair market value at the time of contribution. Similar rules apply to contributions by a member of accounts payable and other accrued but unpaid items [I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(A)]. Special rules apply to distributions of contributed property that occur within seven years of contribution [see I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(B)], contributed property that has a built-in loss [see I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(C)], and distributions of contributed property that would not result in gain or loss outside the LLC context [see I.R.C. § 704(c)(2)].

[8] Current Distributions

When an LLC transfers money or property to a member in a transaction other than a loan, sale, or guaranteed payment, a distribution occurs [Treas. Reg. § 1.731-1(c)(2), (3)]. Any decrease in a member's share of LLC liabilities and any assumption by the LLC of a member's personal liabilities are treated as money distributions to the member [I.R.C. § 752(b)]. Distributions are considered current for tax purposes if they do not result in a termination of the recipient member's LLC interest [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.731-1(a), 1.761-1(d)].

When money is distributed by an LLC to a member, no gain is recognized to the member except to the extent that the amount of money distributed exceeds the adjusted basis of the member's interest in the LLC immediately before the distribution [I.R.C. § 731(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.731-1(a)]. No loss is recognized by a member on a current distribution [ see I.R.C. § 731(a)(2)].

There is an exception to the general rule of nonrecognition of gain or loss on current distributions in certain situations involving unrealized receivables and substantially appreciated property [see I.R.C. § 751(b)(1)].

An LLC has no gain or loss on distributions of property or money to a member [I.R.C. § 731(b)].

§ 12C.53 Taxes and Fees Applicable to Limited Liability Company

[1] Minimum California Franchise Tax

In general, every LLC that is doing business in California and that is required to file a California tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5; see § 12C.250 (tax return)] must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 for the privilege of doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(a), (b), 23153(d)(1); see § 12C.256 (tax voucher)]. This tax must be paid annually until a certificate of cancellation of articles of organization (LLC) or certificate of cancellation of registration (foreign LLC) is filed with the Secretary of State [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(b)(1)]. An LLC, however, is not subject to the franchise tax for a taxable year if it (1) files a timely final annual return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17947(b) (definition)] for the preceding taxable year, (2) does not do business in California after the end of the taxable year for which it filed the final return, and (3) files a certificate of cancellation [see Corp. Code §§ 17356, 17455] with the Secretary of State before the end of the 12-month period beginning with the date the final return was filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17947(a)]. An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Secretary of State includes a notice, in its instructional materials provided in conjunction with the form for filing articles of organization, that filing the LLC registration obligates the LLC to pay the annual minimum tax for that taxable year [Corp. Code §§ 17050(d), 17451(d); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(a), (b)]. The notice will be updated annually to specify the dollar amount of that tax [Corp. Code §§ 17050(d), 17451(d)]. If an LLC files a return that is designated as its final return, the Franchise Tax Board will notify the LLC that the annual tax is due annually until a certificate of cancellation is filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(b)(2); see Corp. Code §§ 17356, 17455].

[2] California Fee Based on Income

In addition to the minimum franchise tax [see [1], above], every LLC or foreign LLC subject to the minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941] must also pay a graduated annual fee based on its total income of $250,000 or more from all sources derived from or attributable to California [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(a), (b)(1), 24172 ("total income" defined); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)(1) (limitation on total income)]. However, an LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax, and thus not subject to this annual fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

The base range for this annual fee is $900 to $11,790 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a)]. Special income determination provisions apply to commonly controlled LLCs [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)(2)]. This fee is due and payable on the date the LLC is required to file its tax return [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(c), 18633.5; see [1], above]. The fee must be estimated and paid on or before the 15th day of the sixth month of the current taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(d)].

[3] Property Taxes

[a] In General

While an in-depth discussion of property taxation issues regarding LLCs is beyond the scope of this chapter, a few items warrant mentioning. For coverage of property taxation issues brought about by Proposition 13 on a change of ownership, see § 12C.45[3].

[b] Power to Own Real Property

An LLC is an entity separate from its members [see Corp. Code § 17001(t)], and has all of the powers of a natural person in carrying out its business activities, including the power to purchase, lease, use, and dispose of real property [Corp. Code § 17003(f)]. This means that an LLC can own property in its own name, rather than in the name of one of its members, and will, accordingly, pay tax on that property.

[c] Limited Liability Company Treated as Partnership

For purposes of California property taxation, limited liability companies are considered partnerships, except when context or specific provisions otherwise require [Rev. & Tax. Code § 28.5]. Thus, most partnership property tax law will also apply to LLCs.

§ 12C.54 Filing Requirements Applicable to Limited Liability Company

[1] Requirement to File California Tax Return

Every LLC or foreign LLC classified as a partnership for California tax purposes that is doing business in California, organized in California, or registered with the Secretary of State is required to file a California tax return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5; see § 12C.250 (tax return)]. The return is used (1) to report income, deductions, gains, losses, and the like from the operation of an LLC, (2) to show payment of the $800 minimum franchise tax, and (3) to determine and pay the amount of the LLC's annual fee, if any, based on total income [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 17942, 18633.5]. For coverage of filing deadlines and other information, see § 12C.250[1]. For a procedural guide to completing and filing California LLC tax forms, see § 12C.129[1].

With its return, every LLC must file the agreement, in the prescribed form, of each nonresident member to file a return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18501], to make timely payment of all California taxes imposed on the member with respect to the LLC's income, and to be subject to personal jurisdiction in California for purposes of collecting income taxes imposed on the member with respect to the LLC's income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 186335.5(e)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 186335.5(f); see also § 12C.254].

Various related schedules and forms must be filed along with the LLC tax return. For coverage of these forms, see §§ 12C.251-12C.256.

An LLC classified as a corporation must file a corporate tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(h); see also Instructions for Form 568, p. 3].

[2] Requirement to File Federal Tax Return

An LLC classified as a partnership for federal tax purposes must file a partnership return [see Treas. Reg. §

1.6031-1(a)], as well as related schedules and other forms. For a procedural guide to completing and filing federal LLC tax forms, see § 12C.129[2].

[3] Requirement to Provide Tax Information to Members

Every LLC required to file a California tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(a)] for any taxable or income year must furnish to each person who holds an interest in the LLC a copy of the information required to be shown on the tax return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(b)]. This may include copies of California Form 568, federal Form 1065, and related schedules and attachments [see § 12C.129; see also §§ 12C.250-12C.256 (forms)].

§ 12C.110 Determining Whether to Form Limited Liability Company

NOTE:
For discussion of the qualities of an LLC as compared to C corporations, S corporations, limited partnerships, and general partnerships, see §§ 12C.40-12C.44.

1. Is income tax treatment as partnership desired?

NOTE:
An LLC may elect to be taxed either as a corporation or as a partnership [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

2. Will business entity engage in one of following areas?

a. Real estate.

b. Joint ventures (especially with foreign partners).

c. High technology and venture capital.

d. Oil and gas.

e. Theatrical investments.

NOTE:

The LLC Act is designed to assist formation and operation of small, closely-held or closely-controlled businesses. However, the Act seems flexible enough to accommodate more complex ventures. Most likely, an LLC will be used in situations in which a partnership or S corporation might be used.

3. Will business entity engage in one of following areas?

a. Professional practice, such as:

(1) Law.

(2) Healing arts.

(3) Accounting.

(4) Contracting.

b. Banking business.

c. Business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks.

d. Trust company business.

e. Any professional services business requiring license under the California Business and Professions Code.

NOTE:

The California LLC Act, unlike similar legislation in other states, prohibits domestic and foreign LLCs from rendering professional services in California [Corp. Code § 17375; see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition)]. However, a law, accounting, or architecture practice may do business as a limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 16101(6), (8); see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships]. An LLC may not engage in the banking business, the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, or trust company business [Corp. Code § 17002].

4. Can business afford to pay following taxes and fees?

a. Annual minimum franchise tax of $800 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(a)].

NOTE:

An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

b. Additional fee based on gross income over $250,000 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)].

NOTE:

An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax, and thus not subject to this annual fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

c. Filing fees for filing articles and statement of information [see Gov. Code § 12190(b); see also § 12C.210[2] (form)].

NOTE:

If the business cannot afford these costs of doing business, another form of doing business, such as sole proprietorship or general partnership, may be more appropriate.

5. Are organizers seeking flexibility in allocating profits and losses?

6. Would existing business entity have elected S corporation status absent some unavoidable restriction against that status [see § 12C.42]?

§ 12C.111 Determining Structure of Limited Liability Company

1. Determine number of initial members of LLC.

NOTE:
LLCs are permitted to form and operate with one member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)].

2. Determine classes of LLC membership, with corresponding rights [see Corp. Code § 17102].

3. Determine whether members want right to continue business on death, retirement, resignation, expulsion, bankruptcy, or dissolution of member or occurrence of any other event that terminates continued membership of member.

4. Determine whether to vest management in:

a. Members.

NOTE:
If members participate in the active management of an LLC, these members will most likely be subject to the federal self-employment tax on LLC distributions [see Treas. Reg. § 1.1402].

b. One or more managers.

c. Officers.

5. Determine whether to establish limited duration for LLC.

NOTE:

An LLC is no longer required to have limited duration [see § 12C.20[2][c]]. However, a specified date of dissolution of an LLC may be stated in its articles of organization if desired [Corp. Code § 17051(a)(2)].

§ 12C.120 Forming Domestic Limited Liability Company

NOTE:

The Limited Liability Company Unit will not file documents for professional LLCs [Corp. Code § 17375]. The policy of the LLC Unit is to return any filing or name reservation that is indicative of a "professional service" LLC [see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition)]. If the documents are returned in error, the applicant may resubmit the documents accompanied by a letter stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition. If the document originally submitted for filing was otherwise acceptable, the filing date will be the date indicated in the Secretary of State stamp on the reverse of the document. An applicant can prevent delays by submitting a cover letter with the articles of organization stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition on professional LLCs, and that the LLC is not prohibited from filing [Secretary of State's LLC form packet; see § 12C.10[5][a]; see also P 6, below].

1. Select appropriate name for LLC [see Corp. Code § 17052]:

NOTE:

The LLC's name must not be one that the Secretary of State determines is likely to mislead the public, and it must not be the same as, or resemble so closely as to tend to deceive, the name of an existing domestic or registered foreign LLC (absent consent) or a name reserved by an LLC or foreign LLC [see Corp. Code § 17052(c)].

a. Last words of name must be "limited liability company" or abbreviation "LLC" or

"L.L.C."; words "limited" and "company" may be abbreviated to "Ltd." and "Co.", respectively.

b. Words "bank," "trust," "trustee," "incorporated," "inc.," "corporation," "corp.," "insurer," "insurance company," or any other words suggesting that the LLC is in the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, may not be used [Corp. Code § 17052(d)].

c. LLC's name may contain name of one or more of its members [Corp. Code § 17052(b)].

2. If desired, reserve approved LLC name with Secretary of State for period of 60 days by sending official name reservation form [see § 12C.199] and paying applicable fee [Corp. Code § 17053; see Gov. Code § 12190(a)(fee)].

NOTE:

On payment of the required fee, an applicant may reserve an approved LLC name with the Secretary of State for 60 days. The same person may not reserve the same name for consecutive 60-day periods [Corp. Code § 17053] but may do so with breaks between 60-day periods.

If the name is acceptable, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate of reservation. However, obtaining a certificate of reservation for an LLC is not a prerequisite to filing articles of organization [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

3. Prepare articles of organization on official form designated by Secretary of State (Form LLC-1) [see § 12C.200], setting forth [Corp. Code § 17051(a)]:

NOTE:

If the LLC is converting to the LLC form from another form of business entity, Form LLC-1A [§ 12.200A] should be used.

a. Required information:

(1) Name of LLC.

(2) Statement regarding LLC's purpose in form specified by LLC Act.

(3) Name and address of LLC's initial agent for service of process.

(4) Statement as to whether LLC will be managed by [see Corp. Code § 17151(b)]:

(a) One manager;

(b) One or more managers but not by all its members.

b. Other provisions not inconsistent with law, including provisions [Corp. Code § 17051(c)]:

NOTE:

Since the articles are a public document and can be changed only by formal amendment filed with the Secretary of State and, unless otherwise provided in the articles or a written operating agreement, require the unanimous vote of all members for their amendment, it may be desirable to include optional matters in operating agreement rather than the articles.

(1) Limiting or restricting business or powers of LLC.

(2) Governing admission of members.

(3) Specifying time when LLC will dissolve.

(4) Stating events that will cause dissolution of the LLC.

(5) Statement of whether there are limitations on authority of managers or members to bind LLC and if so what they are

(6) Stating names of managers of the LLC.

4. Have articles executed by one or more persons [Corp. Code § 17050(a)].

5. Verify that all formation requirements have been satisfied:

a. Establish and maintain office in California [Corp. Code § 17057(a)].

b. Appoint initial agent for service of process in California, ensuring that agent satisfies statutory requirements [Corp. Code §§ 17051(a)(4), 17057(b); see Corp. Code § 17061(d)(1)]:

(1) Individual residing in California.

(2) Corporation that has filed an agency certificate [see Corp. Code § 1505] and whose capacity to act as agent has not terminated.

6. Prepare cover letter stating [Secretary of State's LLC form packet; see § 12C.241 (cover letter)]:

a. Applicant is aware of prohibition on professional LLCs [see Stats. 1994, ch. 1200, § 93; see also Corp. Code § 17375].

b. LLC is not prohibited from filing.

7. File original together with at least one copy of properly executed articles of organization with Secretary of State and pay applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 17050(a); see Gov. Code § 12190(b)(fee)].

NOTE:

The articles of organization and other forms required to be filed with the Secretary of State may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, LLC forms must be filed with the LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State. If the original is filed with two copies, the Limited Liability Unit will certify two copies for no extra fee [Gov. Code § 12185]. Only one original, executed copy of each form (no copies) should be filed. Contact the Limited Liability Company Unit more information [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

8. If desired, record certified copy of articles, together with any exhibits, attachments, amendments, or corrections, with county recorder.

NOTE:

An LLC may record with any county recorder a certified copy of its articles of organization and any exhibits, attachments, or amendments filed with the Secretary of State. The recording will create a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the LLC's real property located in the county in which the certified copy has been recorded of the statements contained in the document [Corp. Code § 17052(f)].

9. Prepare operating agreement either before or after filing articles of organization [see § 12C.140].

10. Within 90 days after filing articles of organization, file initial statement of information (Form LLC-12) [see § 12C.210] and pay applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 17060(a); see Gov. Code § 12190(k)(fee); see also § 12C.125].

11. Pay franchise taxes and fees:

NOTE:

An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax or the fee based on income [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

a. On or before 15th day of fourth month of organization, pay annual minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(a), 23153(d)(1)].

b. Additional fee based on income [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a), (b)*].

12. File annual tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5*; see § 12C.129].

[1] Merger

NOTE:
One or more LLCs may merge with or be acquired by any other business entity or entities [Corp. Code § 17550(a), (b)] if the other entity or entities are authorized to do so by their governing law. This applies to domestic as well as foreign LLCs and other business entities [Corp. Code § 17555]. Certain special provisions apply if the surviving entity of a merger is a foreign LLC [see Corp. Code § 17555(b)- (f)]. The procedures in this section are for use if a domestic LLC is the surviving business entity in a merger.

1. Each merging LLC must approve agreement of merger [see § 12C.230] by vote of majority of interest of members (or other greater specified percentage) [Corp. Code § 17551(a)].

NOTE:
For an agreement of merger for two domestic LLCs, see § 12C.230. For additional agreements of merger, which may be modified as needed, see Ch. 11C, Mergers (corporations), and Ch. 15C, Mergers of Limited Partnerships.

2. Each other merging entity must approve agreement of merger by persons required to approve merger by governing law [Corp. Code § 17551(a)].

3. Agreement of merger must contain all of following [Corp. Code § 17551(a)(1)- (6); see § 12C.230[1]]:

a. Terms and conditions of merger.

b. Name and place of organization of surviving LLC or other entity.

c. Name and place of organization of each disappearing LLC or other entity.

d. Manner of converting interests of each constituent LLC into interests in surviving business entity.

e. Amendments to articles of organization of surviving LLC, if applicable, to be effected by merger.

f. Any other provisions required by law.

g. Any other provisions desired.

NOTE:
Specific rules must be followed concerning treatment of interests in LLCs in mergers involving their parents or other entities owning more than 50 percent of the voting interests in the LLC [Corp. Code § 17551(b)].

4. If necessary, amend agreement of merger before filing certificate of merger [Corp. Code § 17551(c)].

5. If necessary, abandon merger before filing certificate of merger [Corp. Code § 17551(d)].

6. Amend articles of organization as required by merger [Corp. Code § 17551(a)(4); see § 12C.123].

7. If desired, amend operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17551(e)].

8. Retain copy of agreement of merger at office in California [Corp. Code § 17551(f)].

9. On request, provide copy of agreement of merger to member or holder of shares [Corp. Code § 17551(f)].

10. Complete certificate of merger (Form OBE MERGER-1) [see § 12C.207], which must contain all of following [Corp. Code § 17552(a)]:

a. Name of each constituent business entity.

b. Secretary of State's file number, if any, of each constituent business entity.

c. Separate identification of disappearing and surviving business entities.

d. If vote of members was required [see Corp. Code § 17551], statement about vote.

e. If surviving entity is LLC, any changes required to articles of organization.

f. If merger is not to be effective on filing of certificate, future effective date of merger.

g. If surviving entity is not domestic LLC, description of that entity.

h. Any other information required to be stated in certificate of merger.

11. Have each constituent business entity execute and acknowledge certificate of merger [Corp. Code § 17552(a)].

12. An FTB certificate of satisfaction for each constituent business entity [see former Corp. Code § 17552(e)] is no longer required [see Stats. 2006, ch. 773].

13. File certificate of merger with Secretary of State and pay applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 17552; see Gov. Code § 12190(i), (j) (fees)].

NOTE:

Mergers are effective on filing the certificate of merger, unless it provides for a delayed effective date [Corp. Code § 17553(a)]. On the effective date of merger, the disappearing business entities cease to exist, and the surviving entity succeeds automatically to the rights, property, debts, and liabilities of the disappearing entities [Corp. Code § 17554].

14. If required by local law, record ownership of real property in name of surviving entity [Corp. Code § 17556].

[2] Conversion

1. Draft plan of conversion containing [Corp. Code § 17540.3]:

a. Terms and conditions of conversion.

b. Place of organization of converted entity and of converting LLC.

c. Name of converted entity after conversion.

d. Manner of converting membership interests of each member into securities of, shares of, or interests in converted entity.

NOTE:

Conversion is permitted only if each member of the converting LLC will receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted entity equal to the partner's percentage interest in the converting LLC as of the effective time of conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.2(a)].

e. Provisions of governing documents for converted entity, including the articles or certificate of incorporation if the converted entity is a domestic or foreign corporation, the partnership agreement, or the LLC articles of organization and operating agreement, to which that will bind holders of interests in converted entity are to be bound.

NOTE:

Including provisions of the converted entity's governing document is ordinarily accomplished by attaching it and incorporating it by reference.

f. Any other details or provisions required by laws under which converted entity is organized.

g. Any other details or provisions that are desired.

h. Effective date of conversion.

NOTE:

Conversion into an other business entity or a foreign LLC is effective on the earliest date that all of the following occur: (1) the approval of the conversion plan [see Corp. Code § 17540.3]; (2) the filing of all documents required by law to create the converted entity, including, if required, a statement of conversion [see Corp. Code § 17540.6]; and (3) the effective date set forth in the plan of conversion [see Corp. Code § 17540.4]. If an LLC is converting to a foreign entity, conversion is effective according to the law of the foreign jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 17540.2(b)(1)].

2. Submit plan of conversion for approval of members.

NOTE:

A plan must be approved by a majority in interest of the members of the converting LLC, unless the articles or operating agreement specify a higher percentage. However, if the members of the LLC would become personally liable for any obligations of the converted entity as a result of the conversion, the plan of conversion must be approved by all of the members of the converting LLC, unless the plan of conversion provides that all members will have dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 17540.3(b); see § 12C.25[3]; see also [3], below]. In addition to the foregoing approvals, if the LLC is converting into a limited partnership, then the plan of conversion must be approved by all members who will become general partners of the converted limited partnership pursuant to the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 17540.3(c)].

3. Submit any amendments of plan of conversion to members for approval by same vote as required for adoption of original plan [Corp. Code § 17540.3(e)].

4. If members decide to abandon conversion, arrange for vote to abandon by same vote required to approve original plan [Corp. Code § 17540.3(f)].

NOTE:

The plan can be abandoned at any time before the conversion is effective, but abandonment cannot prejudice the rights of third parties [Corp. Code § 17540.3(f)].

5. Complete and file statement or certificate of conversion.

a. Use Form LP-1A, Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion [see § 15C.205] for limited liability company that is converting into a California limited partnership [Corp. Code § 17450.6(a)(1)].

NOTE:

The form referred to above contains the statement of conversion language prescribed by statute [see Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)].

b. For limited liability company that is converting into a California general partnership [Corp. Code § 17450.6(a)(2)], use:

(1) Form GP-1A, General Partnership Statement of Partnership--Conversion [see § 15.801]; or

NOTE:

The form referred to above contains the statement of conversion language prescribed by statute [see Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)].

(2) Certificate of conversion (Form CONV-1A) [see § 12C.212], if no statement of partnership authority is filed.

c. For LLC that is converting into domestic corporation, prepare and file articles of incorporation as follows:

NOTE:

For an illustration of the Secretary of State's sample set of articles of incorporation for a California limited partnership that is converting into a California stock corporation, see § 12C.213. The sample is to be used as a guide and satisfies minimum statutory requirements. The sample form includes suggested language for the required statement of conversion, containing the information specified below.

(1) Include in articles of incorporation for converted entity a statement of conversion containing following information [Corp. Code § 1157(e), 17540.b(a)(3), (b)]:

(a) Name, form, and jurisdiction of organization of converting entity [Corp. Code § 1157(e)].

(b) Secretary of State's file number of converting limited partnership [Corp. Code §§ 1157(e), 17540.6(b)(1)].

(c) Statement that principal terms of plan of conversion were approved by vote of partners that equaled or exceeded vote required under Corp. Code § 17540.3, specifying [Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)(2)]:

(i) Each class entitled to vote; and

(ii) Percentage vote required of each class.

(d) Form of organization of converted entity (i.e., a California stock corporation) [Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)(3)].

(e) Name of corporation's initial agent for process and address, if agent is individual [see § 12C.213].

(f) If converting entity is a foreign limited partnership, all of following [Corp. Code § 1157(e)]:

(i) Statement that converting entity is authorized to effect the conversion by laws under which it is organized.

(ii) Statement that converting entity has approved plan of conversion or other instrument as is required to be approved to effect conversion under laws under which converting entity is organized.

(iii) Statement that conversion has been approved by number or percentage of partners, members, shareholders, or other holders of interest of converting entity that is required by laws under which that entity is organized, or a greater or lesser percentage as may be set forth in converting entity's partnership agreement, articles of organization, operating agreement, articles of incorporation, or other governing document in accordance with applicable laws.

(2) File articles of incorporation with Secretary of State as follows [see § 12C.213]:

NOTE:

The conversion to a corporation by an other business entity, including a limited liability company [see Corp. Code §§ 174.5, 1150(g)], will be effective as of the filing with the Secretary of State of the articles of incorporation of the converted corporation containing a statement of conversion [Corp. Code § 1157(d)].

(a) Include original and at least two copies with submission.

NOTE:

The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the filed document without charge, provided that the copies are submitted to the Secretary of State with the document to be filed. Any additional copies submitted will be certified on request and payment of an additional per-copy certification fee.

(b) Include appropriate filing fee.

(c) Include both of following submission to facilitate return of documents:

(i) Self-addressed envelope.

(ii) Letter referencing corporate name and sender's name, return address, and telephone number.

(d) Mail or hand deliver filing packet to Sacramento office of Secretary of State.

NOTE:

These documents must be mailed or hand delivered for over-the-counter processing to the Sacramento office. They cannot be processed using the preclearance, expedited, wait for, or rush letter service, and cannot be filed in the regional offices].

d. Use certificate of conversion (Form CONV-1A) [see § 12C.212] for limited liability company that is converting to foreign other business entity [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(4)].

NOTE:

Although the statute does not mandate that the official form be used for filing a certificate of conversion [see Corp. Code § 17540.6*], there is no reason to draft a non-standard form, nor is there any guarantee that such a form would be readily accepted by the Secretary of State's office in lieu of the official form.

6. Record certified copy of certificate of conversion or statement of conversion in each county in which converted entity owns real property [Corp. Code § 17540.7(a); see P 5, NOTE, above; see also § 12C.26[7]].

NOTE:

Recording a certificate of conversion or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, or articles of organization, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other certificate showing the formation of an other business entity or LLC by conversion containing a statement of conversion creates a conclusive presumption in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 17540.7(c)]. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [Gov. Code § 27361]. A separate fee for certifying the copy applies as well [see Gov. Code § 27364*].

7. Comply with rules regarding dissenter's rights [see Corp. Code § 17600 et seq.; see also [3], below].

8. Notify all creditors of LLC of effective date of conversion and of dissociation of any member.

[3] Dissenters' Rights on Merger or Reorganization

NOTE:

The LLC Act provides for dissenters' rights in mergers, conversions, and other reorganizations [see Corp. Code § 17600 et seq.*]. "Reorganization" includes mergers, certain acquisitions of controlling interests in other business entities, and certain acquisitions of substantially all of the assets of other business entities [Corp. Code § 17600(a)]. In general, in a merger or reorganization, a member who is entitled to vote on a reorganization and has taken the necessary steps to have a dissenting interest [see Corp. Code § 17601(b)*] may require the LLC to purchase that interest for cash at fair market value [Corp. Code § 17601(a)]. With certain listed exceptions, a dissenting member of a reorganizing LLC does not have the right to attack the validity of the reorganization or to have the reorganization set aside or rescinded [see Corp. Code § 17613(a)*].

These dissenters' rights provisions apply to domestic LLCs, and to foreign LLCs if members holding more than 50 percent of voting interests reside in California [Corp. Code § 17612(a)]. These provisions do not apply to LLCs with 35 or fewer members if all the members have waived the application of dissenters' rights provisions in writing [Corp. Code § 17612(c)].

1. Ensure that dissenting member has "dissenting interest" [Corp. Code § 17601(b)]:

a. Membership interest was outstanding on date for determination of members entitled to vote on reorganization.

b. Membership interest was not voted in favor of reorganization, or membership interest was voted against reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17601(b)(2)].

c. Member has demanded that LLC purchase its interest at its fair market value [see Corp. Code § 17602 (method of demand)].

d. Member has submitted certificate of interest for endorsement, if applicable [see Corp. Code § 17603].

2. Dissenting interest loses status as such, and holder of interest ceases to be dissenting member, on occurrence of any of following [Corp. Code § 17610]:

a. LLC abandons reorganization.

b. Interest is transferred before submission for endorsement [see Corp. Code § 17603].

c. Dissenting member and LLC do not agree that interest is dissenting interest, or disagree on purchase price of interest, and neither files complaint within six months after notice of approval of reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17605].

d. Dissenting member, with LLC's consent, withdraws demand for purchase of dissenting interest.

3. If LLC members have right to require LLC to purchase dissenting interests [see P 1, above], LLC must mail each member notice of approval of proposed reorganization within 10 days after date of approval [Corp. Code § 17602(a); see § 12C.231 (notice)].

4. Notice of approval of reorganization must contain all of following [Corp. Code § 17602(a)]:

a. Copies of Corp. Code §§ 17601 through 17605.

b. Statement of price determined by LLC to be the fair market value of outstanding interests.

c. Statement of method of valuation used.

d. Latest available balance sheet of LLC.

e. Latest available income statement of LLC.

f. Description of procedure to exercise dissenters' rights.

NOTE:
The statement of price constitutes an offer by the LLC to purchase dissenting interests at that price [Corp. Code § 17602(a)].

5. Member with dissenting interest who wishes LLC to purchase interest must make written demand on LLC for purchase of interest and payment to member in cash of its fair market value [Corp. Code § 17602(b); see § 12C.232 (form for demand)].

6. Demand must be received by LLC within 30 days after notice of reorganization was mailed to members [Corp. Code § 17602(b)].

7. Demand must include all of following [Corp. Code § 17602(c)]:

a. Number or amount of member's interest.

b. Statement of member's claim of fair market value of interest on day before announcement of proposed reorganization.

NOTE:
The statement of value constitutes an offer by the member to sell the dissenting interest at that price [Corp. Code § 17602(c)].

8. If LLC and dissenting member agree that interest is dissenting interest and agree on price to be paid, dissenting member is entitled to agreed price, with interest from date of consummation of reorganization [Corp. Code § 17604(a)].

NOTE:

Agreements as to the value of dissenting interests must be in writing and must be kept with the records of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17604(a)].

9. LLC must pay for dissenting interest within 30 days after price of interest has been agreed on, or within 30 days after conditions to reorganization are satisfied, whichever is later [Corp. Code § 17604(b)].

10. Dissenting member must submit certificates of interest (or, if none, written notice of number or amount of interests) on payment [Corp. Code § 17604(b); see Corp. Code § 17603].

11. If LLC denies that interest is dissenting interest, or LLC and dissenting member cannot agree on value of dissenting interest, LLC or member may bring action in superior court within six months after date of notice of approval of reorganization [Corp. Code § 17605].

§ 12C.129 Filing Tax Returns

NOTE: This section is for use by an LLC that is classified as a partnership for state and federal tax purposes. LLCs that are exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that are not taxed as corporations for California tax purposes are not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax or the fee based on income [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

If the LLC will be taxed as a corporation, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws (Matthew Bender), for coverage of corporate tax issues and procedures. Chiefly, an LLC classified as a corporation for tax purposes must pay the $800 minimum franchise tax when filing its articles of organization or application for registration [Secretary of State's LLC form packet] and must file California Form 100, Corporation Income or Franchise Tax Return, rather than Form 568 [see Instructions for Form 568, p. 4; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(h)].

[1] California Forms

1. File Form 568 [Instructions for Form 568, p. 4; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(a); see also § 12C.250]:

a. If LLC is any of following:
(1) Doing business in California.

(2) Organized in California.

(3) Organized in another state but registered with California Secretary of State.

b. Within following time periods:

(1) For calendar year filer, by April 15.

(2) For fiscal year filer, by 15th day of fourth month following close of taxable year.

c. Include all necessary attachments to Form 568, as applicable, for example:

(1) Form FTB 3885L, concerning depreciation and amortization [see § 12C.252].

(2) Schedule D (568), concerning capital gain and loss [see § 12C.253].

(3) Form FTB 3832, containing consents of nonresident members to California jurisdiction for taxation of pro rata share of LLC income [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 186335.5(e)(1), (f); see also § 12C.254].

2. If LLC later discovers changes to return are required, file following within six months [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6; see § 12C.250]:

a. Amended Form 568.

b. Amended Schedule K-1 for each member [see § 12C.251].

NOTE:
If an LLC discovers that it needs to amend its federal partnership return (Form 1065), or if the return is changed in response to an IRS audit, it is likely the LLC will need to file an amended California Form 568. This must be done within six months of final federal adjustments. If an IRS audit was done, the LLC must attach a copy of the IRS Federal Agent's Report. Members of the LLC may also need to file amended returns [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

3. If LLC wishes to obtain automatic six-month extension of time to file Form 568:

a. File Form FTB 3537 [see § 12C.255] within following time periods [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45]:

(1) For fiscal year filer, by 15th day of 10th month following close of taxable year.

(2) For calendar year filer, by October 15 of following year.

NOTE:
Filing the LLC's tax return within the six-month extension period verifies that the LLC qualified for the extension. No separate written request is required [see Instructions for Form 568, p. 4].

b. Pay the following [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 17942]:

NOTE:
An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax, and thus not subject to the annual statutory fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§

17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

(1) $800 minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(d)(1); see § 12C.256[1][d], [e]].

(2) LLC statutory fee, if any, based on income [see § 12C.255].

(3) Any nonconsenting nonresident member's tax [see § 12C.255].

4. Within LLC's filing deadline, provide copies of filed tax forms to LLC's members and other holders of LLC interests [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(b)].

5. Use Form FTB 3522 to pay $800 minimum franchise tax by 15th day of fourth month after close of LLC's tax year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941; see § 12C.256].

NOTE:

An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

[2] Federal Forms

NOTE:

Under IRS entity classification rules effective January 1, 1997, LLCs can elect to be classified either as associations (i.e., corporations) or as partnerships [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. If an LLC elects to be classified as a corporation rather than a partnership, it must file Form 8832, and attach a copy of Form 8832 to its federal tax or informational return for that tax year. Such an election will be effective on the date specified in Form 8832, or on the date filed if no date is specified in the election form [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)]. The steps below assume that the LLC elects to be classified as a partnership rather than a corporation for tax purposes. When that is the case, no formal election is required, inasmuch as the default rules provide for such a classification in the absence of an election [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)].

1. File Form 1065 [Treas. Reg. § 1.6031-1(a)]:

a. With District Director of Internal Revenue for district in which LLC's principal place of business is located [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6031-1(e)(1)].

b. Within following time periods [I.R.C. § 6072(a)]:

(1) For calendar year filer, by April 15.

(2) For fiscal year filer, by 15th day of fourth month following close of taxable year.

2. File Form 1099 with both IRS and FTB [see I.R.C. § 6041 et seq.; see also Instructions for Form 568, p. 6]:

a. If in course of trade or business, LLC has done any of following:

(1) Made payments to one person of rents, salaries, wages, annuities, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more.

(2) Paid to one employee interest and dividends of $10 or more.

(3) Received cash payments of over $10,000.

b. By February 28 of year following close of reporting year.

3. If LLC is reporting its income for first time, include one of following with both federal and state returns [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.441-1(c), 1.706-1(b)(7); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]:

a. Copy of letter from Commissioner of IRS approving adoption of LLC taxable year other than that of all principal members;

b. Statement that LLC taxable year is same as that of all principal members;

c. Statement that all principal members are concurrently changing to taxable year adopted by LLC; or

d. Statement that all principal members are on different taxable years and LLC has adopted calendar year without prior approval.

4. If LLC changes taxable year, file separate return for period beginning on day after former taxable year closed and ending day before new taxable year [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.443-1(a), 1.706-1(b)(8)(i)(B)]:

a. Include copy of letter from IRS Commissioner approving adoption of new year.

NOTE:
An existing LLC may only change its tax year by securing the Commissioner's approval [see I.R.C. § 442] or by making an I.R.C. § 444 election. However, approval is automatic for certain changes, such as a change to the required tax year pursuant to administrative procedures [Treas. Reg. 1.706-1(b)(8)].

b. File by 15th day of fourth month after close of short period.

§ 12C.140 Drafting Operating Agreement

NOTE:

This section provides a guide to the provisions that should be considered, and included, in a written operating agreement. For sample operating agreement forms, see §§ 12C.220 and 12C.221.

The members of an LLC must enter into an operating agreement, either written or oral, before or after filing of its articles or organization [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. An operating agreement is any agreement among all the members as to the affairs of the LLC and the conduct of its business in a manner not inconsistent with law or its articles, including amendments [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. It is advisable to have a written operating agreement, because it is likely to be the key document of an LLC. The degree of complexity in the agreement is largely up to the drafter and the parties themselves. The operating agreement may not be filed with the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

Provisions typically found in corporate bylaws or partnership agreements generally can be adapted to LLC operating agreements in appropriate instances. For a variety of corporate bylaw provisions, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . For partnership provisions, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships . For other provisions that may be appropriate to this type of agreement, see Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements .

1. Define terms used in operating agreement [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 1, 12C.221[2], art. 1].

2. State name, purpose, and operative date of LLC [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 2, 12C.221[2], PP 1.2, 1.3, 1.5, and 1.6].

3. Set forth names and addresses of members.

4. Detail initial and additional (if any) capital contributions of members [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 3, 12C.221[2], art. 3].

5. Enumerate LLC's remedies in the event of member's failure to make initial and subsequent capital contributions.

6. Specify capital accounts and capital structure [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 3, 12C.221[2], art. 4].

7. Include provisions governing transfers and assignment of membership interests, and disposition of a member's interest on that member's death [see §§ 12C.220[2], PP 3.09-3.17, 12C.221[2], art. 8].

NOTE:

If LLC is an association of closely acquainted individuals, in the nature of a small general partnership, the members may wish to place significant limitations on the transfer of membership interests, to ensure that they are not forced to accept as a member someone whom they do not want. Similarly, the disposition of a membership interest on the death of a member may be limited in appropriate cases. If desired, provisions similar to those frequently included in corporate or partnership buy-sell agreements should be included. The operating agreements in this chapter contains significant transfer restrictions on membership interests [see §§ 12C.220[2], PP 3.09-3.12, 12C.221[2], art. 8], as well as simple buy-sell provisions for optional or mandatory purchase of a membership interest [see §§ 12C.220[2], PP 3.13-3.17, 12C.221[2], art. 10]. For other buy-sell provisions, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements (close corporations), Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships, §§ 15.240-15.262 (partnerships).

8. Specify rights and duties of members, including limiting authority and liability [see, e.g., § 12C.221[2], art. 2].

9. Specify rights and duties of classes of members, if any.

10. Specify procedures for amending articles of organization and operating agreement [see, e.g., §§ 12C.220[2], P 22.10, 12C.221[2], P 12.2].

NOTE:

The power to adopt and change the operating agreement of an LLC is vested in its members, but its articles of organization or a written operating agreement may prescribe the manner in which the operating agreement may be changed [Corp. Code § 17059].

11. State whether LLC is to be managed by the members, managers, or officers [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 5, 12C.221, Section 5.01].

12. If LLC is to be managed by members, include provisions as to management and as to a management group of members, if any [see §§ 12C.221[2], 12C.226].

13. If LLC is to be managed by managers or officers, set forth necessary details of that management [see § 12C.220[2], arts. 5-10; see also § 12C.227].

14. Detail members' meeting requirements and voting rights [see §§ 12C.220[2], arts. 15-17, 12C.221[2], Sections 5.07-5.09].

15. Set forth method of allocating profits and losses and any special allocations [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 18, 12C.221, art. 6].

16. Provide for indemnification of members and managers, and specify members' and managers' fiduciary duties [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 19, 12C.221[2], art. 11].

NOTE:

The drafter should also consider (1) whether the individual members will be permitted to do business with the LLC in their individual capacities [see § 12C.220[2], P 19.02], and (2) whether and to what extent they will be allowed to engage in activities that might be deemed competitive with the business of the LLC [see §§ 12C.220[2], P 19.03, 12C.221[2], Section 5.02].

Trade secret protection may be essential in LLCs that involve processes or information not generally available to the public [see § 12C.220[2], P 19.04].

17. Set forth provisions as to accounting, records, financial statements, and reports [see §§ 12C.220[2], art. 20, 12C.221[2], art. 7].

18. Set forth method of making distributions.

19. Include provisions covering various tax matters such as tax elections and identification of equivalent of tax matters partner [see §§ 12C.220[2], P 16.03, 12C.221[2], Section 7.06].

20. Include provisions governing dissolution and winding up [see § 12C.220[2], art. 21].

21. Include provisions governing procedures common to detailed contracts, including [see § 12C.220[2], art. 22]:

a. Statements of consideration.

b. Provisions for notice, severability, integration, governing law, and confidentiality (if appropriate).

22. Include provisions covering any matters as to which LLC Act's default rules are changed.

NOTE:

The LLC Act allows the members of an LLC to alter the "default" provisions of the Act in the articles of organization or operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17005(b)]. For discussion of the statutory provisions that may and may not be altered, see § 12C.10[3].

23. Provide for consents of spouses of married members [see §§ 12C.220[2], 12C.221[2]].

24. Attach schedule showing:

a. Each member's initial contributions of:
(1) Cash;

(2) Property; and/or

(3) Services.

b. Percentage interest of each member in LLC.

§ 12C.199 Request for Reservation of Limited Liability Company Name--Official Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official name reservation form used by the California Secretary of State's office. The form may be used to request the reservation of a corporate, limited partnership, or limited liability company name.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.199. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Up to three names may be listed, in order of preference, and the first available name will be reserved for a period of 60 days [see Corp. Code § 17053]. Only one reservation will be made per request form. The name reservation request must be accompanied by a check, payable to the Secretary of State, covering the applicable fee of $10. The applicable fee does not depend on the number of names included in the request [see "Limited Liability Company Name Availability," Secretary of State's website located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/llc/llc_naav2.htm#resv].

The request may be submitted by mail, along with a self-addressed envelope, to the Sacramento office at [see "Limited Liability Company Name Availability," Secretary of State's website located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/llc/llc_naav2.htm#resv]:

Secretary of State
Name Availability Unit
1500 11th Street, 3d Floor
Sacramento, CA 95814

The request may be submitted in person at the Secretary of State's Sacramento office. A special handling fee applies to each name reserved in person. This fee must be remitted by separate check, payable to the Secretary of State; the fee will be retained regardless of whether the reservation of the proposed name is accepted or denied. Currently, email and/or online requests for name reservations are not accepted [see "Limited Liability Company Name Availability," Secretary of State's website located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/llc/llc_naav2.htm#resv].

For a procedural guide to assist in choosing a name, see § 12C.120.

[b] Name Reservation

On payment of the required fee [see Gov. Code § 12190(a)], an applicant may reserve an approved LLC name [see [c], below] with the Secretary of State for 60 days. The same person may not reserve the same name for consecutive 60-day periods [Corp. Code § 17053], but may do so with breaks between 60-day periods. If the name is approved by the LLC Unit, the applicant will receive a certificate of reservation for the name. However, obtaining a certificate of reservation for an LLC name is not a prerequisite to filing articles of organization [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

PRACTICE TIP:

It is the policy of the LLC Unit to return any filing or name reservation that is indicative of a "professional service" LLC [Secretary of State's LLC form packet; see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition), 17375]. For this reason, the applicant should ensure that the desired LLC name is not indicative of a professional service and state in the transmittal letter that the LLC is not being formed to conduct any business that requires a license under the Business and Professions Code [see § 12C.241[2] (transmittal letter)].

[c] Name Requirements

The name of a domestic LLC must be set forth in the articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17052]. Chiefly, the name must not be one that the Secretary of State determines is likely to mislead the public, and must not be the same as, or resemble so closely as to tend to deceive, the name of an existing domestic or registered foreign LLC (absent consent) or a name already reserved by an LLC or foreign LLC [Corp. Code § 17052(c)]. The last words of the name must be "limited liability company" or the abbreviation "LLC" or "L.L.C." The words "limited" and "company" may be abbreviated to "Ltd." and "Co." respectively [Corp. Code § 17052(a)]. The words "bank," "trust," "trustee," "incorporated," "inc.," "corporation," "corp.," "insurer," "insurance company," or any other words suggesting that the LLC is in the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, may not be used in the name of an LLC [Corp. Code § 17052(d)]. An LLC's name may contain the name of one or more of its members [Corp. Code § 17052(b)].

[d] Special Name Requirements for Foreign Limited Liability Companies

An application for registration of a foreign LLC must contain its name and any different name under which it proposes to transact business in California [Corp. Code § 17451(a)(1)]. If the name of the foreign LLC does not satisfy Corp. Code § 17052 [see [c], above], to obtain a certificate of registration, the foreign LLC must either (1) add the words "limited liability company" or the abbreviation "LLC" or "L.L.C." to its name for use in California, or (2) use an assumed name that is available and that satisfies Corp. Code § 17052 [see [c], above]. If a foreign LLC uses an assumed name, it must agree to use only that name in its dealings with the Secretary of State and in the conduct of its affairs in California [Corp. Code § 17452(b)].

§ 12C.200 Articles of Organization [Form LLC-1]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLC-1, "Articles of Organization," used to file an LLC's articles with the Secretary of State. Articles of organization must be filed by every domestic LLC [see Corp. Code §§ 17050, 17051]. Use of this form is mandatory. This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, the form must be filed with the Limited Liability Company Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

The articles of organization must be executed by one or more persons, and only one original submitted for filing with the applicable filing fee of $70 [Corp. Code § 17050(a); see Corp. Code § 17701(b)(fee)]. For a cover letter to submit with the articles, see § 12C.241.

The articles are a public document and can be changed only by a formal amendment filed with the Secretary of State. Such an amendment requires the unanimous vote of all members unless otherwise stated in the LLC's articles of organization or operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17054(a)]. In addition, notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in the articles or operating agreement, in no event may the articles be amended by a vote of less than a majority in interest of the members [Corp. Code § 17103(b)]. Therefore, it may be desirable to cover optional matters in the operating agreement rather than the articles.

[b] Contents of Articles of Organization

An LLC's articles of organization must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 17051(a)]:

- The LLC's name [see § 12C.21[2] (name requirements and reservation of name)].

- A statement regarding the LLC's purpose in the form specified by the Act.

- The name of the LLC's initial agent for service of process [see § 12C.22[1]]. If an individual is named as agent for service of process, include a business or residence address; if a corporation is designated as agent for service of process and the corporation has filed a certificate pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505, do not include an address [Corp. Code § 17051(a)(4); see [2], below (Instructions for Form LLC-1, item 4)].

- If the LLC is to be managed by managers and not by all of its members, a statement to that effect. If it is to be managed by only one manager, a statement to that effect. If the LLC is to be managed by members, as statement to that effect [see Corp. Code § 17151(b); see [2], below (Form LLC-1, item 5)].

The articles may include other provisions not inconsistent with law, including provisions limiting or restricting the business or powers of the LLC; governing admission of members; the time when the limited liability company is dissolved; any events that will cause dissolution of the LLC [see § 12C.25[1]]; a statement of whether there are limitations on the authority of managers or members to bind the LLC and if so, what they are; and the names of the managers of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17051(c)]. Any additional provisions should be added to the articles on separate attached pages. If any provision of the articles of an LLC conflicts with its written operating agreement, the articles control [Corp. Code § 17005(f)].

For an illustration of sample attorney-drafted provisions that may be included as an attachment to the operating agreement, see § 12C.219.

[c] Steps Required to Form Limited Liability Company

To form an LLC, several steps are required. The articles of organization must be drafted, executed, and filed along with payment of the applicable fee. The existence of the LLC begins on the date of filing of the articles. Before or after filing the articles, the members of an LLC must enter into a written or oral operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. For further discussion of formation issues, see § 12C.21. For a procedural guide to forming a domestic LLC, see § 12C.120. For an operating agreement, see § 12C.220.

§ 12C.200A Limited Liability Company Articles of Organization--Conversion [Form LLC-1A]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for limited liability company articles of organization that must be filed by an entity that is converting to a California limited liability company from some other form of entity. It includes the mandatory statement of conversion required by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 1155(a)(3) (conversion from corporation), 15677.6 (conversion from limited partnership), 16906(a) (conversion from general partnership)]. The form is available from any office of the Secretary of State, or can be obtained on the Secretary of State's website as described below.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.200A. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

This form is, in effect, a specialized form of limited liability company articles of organization that is to be used when the limited liability company being formed is a preexisting business that is being converted from some other form of business entity, rather than a brand new entity. Newly formed limited liability companies file their articles of organization using Form LLC-1, which is illustrated as § 12C.200. For general discussion of the effect of filing a certificate of limited partnership, see § 15A.200[1].

Entities that are converting from California limited liability companies to other business entities do not file this form. Rather, they file a statement or certificate of conversion that is appropriate for the type of business entity into which they are converting. For discussion, see § 12C.212[1].

[b] Requirement for Statement of Conversion

A corporation that is converting into a California limited liability company must complete a statement of conversion of the articles of organization for the converted entity [Corp. Code § 1155(a)(3)]. A limited partnership that is converting into a California limited liability company must complete a statement of conversion on the articles of organization for the converted entity [Corp. Code §§ 15677.6(a)(1), 15911.06]. A California general partnership that is converting into a California limited liability company must complete a statement of conversion on the articles of organization for the converted entity if the converting partnership had filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 and that statement is effective at the time of conversion. If a converting partnership has not filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 that is effective at the time of conversion, then the filing of a statement of conversion on its articles of organization is optional [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

This form contains the statement of conversion information.

§ 12C.201 Certificate of Amendment [Form LLC-2]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLC-2, "Certificate of Amendment." To amend an LLC's articles of organization, at least one manager (or one member if the LLC is member-managed) of the LLC (or greater number, if provided in the articles) must file this certificate of amendment with the Secretary of State and pay the applicable fee [Corp. Code § 17054(b); see Corp. Code § 17701(d)(fee)]. Subject to the requirement that at least a majority in interest of the members vote to amend [Corp. Code § 17103(b)], the members of an LLC may amend its articles at any time [Corp. Code § 17054(a)].

Use of this form is mandatory. This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, the form must be filed with the Limited Liability Company Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

[b] When to File Certificate of Amendment

The articles of organization of an LLC may be amended at any time. An amendment may make any change in the articles determined by the members and that would be lawful to insert in original articles filed at the time the amendment is filed [Corp. Code § 17054(a)]. A certificate of amendment to articles must be filed to effect the following [Corp. Code § 17054(c)]:

- A change in the name of the LLC.
- A change in the statement regarding the existence of managers [Corp. Code § 17151(b)].

- A change in the time for dissolution of the LLC.
- A change in the events that will cause dissolution of the LLC.

In addition, a certificate of amendment must be filed within 30 days of discovery by a manager (or member in a member-managed LLC) of any false or erroneous material statement in the articles [Corp. Code § 17054(d)]. A manager, and presumably a member of a member-managed LLC who filed the original certificate, may be liable for misstatements in a certificate of amendment [*Corp. § 12C.202 Certificate of Dissolution [Form LLC-3]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLC-3, "Certificate of Dissolution." The managers (or member(s) if the LLC is member-managed) of an LLC must file this certificate with the Secretary of State when the LLC dissolves [Corp. Code § 17356(a); see [b], [c], below]. A separate filing of a certificate of dissolution is not required, however, if the LLC is dissolved by the vote of all of the members [see Corp. Code § 17350(b)] and a statement to that effect is added to the certificate of cancellation of articles [Corp. Code § 17356(a)(3)]. After filing this form, the managers of the LLC must wind up the business of the LLC [Corp. Code §§ 17352, 17353; see [d], below].

Use of this form is mandatory. This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, the form must be filed with the Limited Liability Company Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

[b] Causes of Dissolution

An LLC must be dissolved, and its affairs wound up, when the first of the following occurs [Corp. Code § 17350]:

- When specified in the articles of organization.
- On the happening of events specified in the articles or written operating agreement.
- By the vote of a majority in interest of the members [see Corp. Code § 17001(v) (definition)], or greater percentage of the voting interests of members specified in the articles or written operating agreement.

- Entry of a decree of judicial dissolution pursuant to Corp. Code § 17351.

[c] Judicial Dissolution

An LLC may be judicially dissolved pursuant to an action filed by a manager or member when any of the following occurs [Corp. Code § 17351(a)]:

- It is not reasonably practicable to carry on the LLC's business in conformity with its articles or operating agreement.

- Dissolution is reasonably necessary for the protection of the rights or interests of the complaining members.

- The LLC's business has been abandoned.

- The LLC's management is deadlocked or subject to internal dissention.

- Those in control of the LLC have been guilty of, or have knowingly countenanced, persistent and pervasive fraud, mismanagement, or abuse of authority.

[d] Winding Up and Filing Certificate of Cancellation

When a limited liability company is dissolved, the managers or members must wind up its affairs. In a judicial dissolution, winding up is conducted in accordance with the decree of dissolution [Corp. Code § 17352(a)]. In a nonjudicial dissolution, the managers who have not wrongfully dissolved the LLC or, if none, the members may wind it up. The winding up process requires notification to known creditors and claimants, payment or adequate provision for debts and liabilities and distributions of remaining assets among members according to their respective rights and preferences as specified in the operating agreement, or if the operating agreement does not specify, then pursuant to the Act [Corp. Code § 17353(a); see Corp. Code § 17353(c)] or as otherwise specified in articles of organization or the operating agreement.

After the affairs of the LLC have been wound up, a certificate of cancellation (Form LLC-4/7) must be filed with the Secretary of State, canceling the LLC's articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17356(b); see § 12C.203 (form for certificate of cancellation); see also Gov. Code § 12190(m) (no fee)].

- If the merger is not to be effective on filing of the certificate, the future effective date of merger.

- Any other information required to be stated in the certificate of merger.

The restated articles must include the name of the LLC, the Secretary of State's file number of the LLC, and any other information required to be included in the original articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17054(f); see Corp. Code § 17051; see also § 12C.200[1][b] (contents of articles of organization)].

§ 12C.209 Certificate of Correction [Form LLC-11]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLC-11, "Certificate of Correction." This form is used to correct any document required to be filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17055; see [b], below].

Use of this form is mandatory. This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, the form must be filed with the Limited Liability Company Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.209. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Completing Certificate of Correction

If any LLC document filed with the Secretary of State contains any typographical error, error of transcription, or other technical error, or has been defectively executed, the document may be corrected by filing a certificate of correction with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17055(a)] and paying the applicable fee [see Gov. Code § 12190(g)].

The certificate of correction must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 17055(b)]:

- The name and Secretary of State's file number of the LLC.
- The title of the document being corrected.
- The name of each part to the document being corrected.
- The date that the document being corrected was filed.
- The provision in the document as previously filed and as corrected and, if execution of the document was defective, the manner in which it was defective.

The certificate of correction must be executed in the same manner the document being corrected was required to be executed [Corp. Code § 17055(d)].

A certificate of correction may not make any other change or amendment that would not have complied in all respects with the requirements of the LLC Act at the time the document being corrected was filed [Corp. Code § 17055(c)]. In any case, a certificate of correction may not change the effective date of the document being corrected. Similarly, it may not affect any right or liability accrued or incurred before its filing, except that any right or liability accrued or incurred by reason of the error or defect being corrected will be extinguished by the filing if the person having the right or to whom the liability is owed has not detrimentally relied on the original document [Corp. Code § 17055(e)].

§ 12C.210 Statement of Information [Form LLC-12]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLC-12, "Statement of Information." Every domestic and foreign LLC must file a statement of information with the Secretary of State within 90 days after filing its original articles of organization (or application for registration) and biennially thereafter [Corp. Code § 17060(a); see [c], [d], below]. An LLC is required to file this statement even if it is not actively engaged in business when the statement is due [see Instructions to Form LLC-12]. A fee of $20 must accompany each statement [see Gov. Code § 12190(k)]. The contents requirements are the same for the initial statement and biennial statements [see [b], below].

This form (Form LLC-12) should be used for making the initial filing of the statement of information. For subsequent biennial renewal filings, Form LLC-12R should be used instead of this form. Form LLC-12R is reproduced in this publication in § 12C.210A. The comment in § 12C.210A[1] discusses the biennial filing requirements that apply after the initial filing has been made. Apparently, either this form or Form LLC-12R may be used to change the name or street address of an LLC's agent for service of process or to make the optional change-of-information filings authorized by Corp. Code § 17060(d) [see § 12C.210A[1][d]].

Use of this form is mandatory. This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, the form must be filed with the Limited Liability Company Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.210. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Contents of Statement of Information

The initial statement of information must include all of the following [Corp. Code § 17060(a)]:

- The name of the LLC.
- The Secretary of State's file number of the LLC.
- For a foreign LLC, the state or country of formation.
- The name of its agent for service of process [see Corp. Code § 17057(b)]. If an individual is named as agent for service of process, include a business or residence address; if a corporation is designated as agent for service of process and the corporation has filed a certificate under Corp. Code § 1505, do not include an address [see [2], below (Instructions for Form LLC-12, item 4)].
- The street address of its principal executive office.
- For a domestic LLC, the street address of the office containing its records [see Corp. Code § 17057(a)].
- The name and complete business or residence address of the managers, if any, and the chief executive officer, if any.
- If there are no managers, the name and business or residence address of each member.
- The general type of business that constitutes the principal business activity of the LLC.

[c] Filing Initial Statement

The initial statement of information must be filed within 90 days after one of the following [Corp. Code § 17060(a)]:

- For a domestic LLC, filing the original articles of organization.
- For a foreign LLC, filing the application for registration.

The Secretary of State will endorse one copy of the filed statement at no additional cost, provided that the copy is submitted along with the original being filed [see Instructions to Form LLC-12].

[d] Failure to File

Failure to file the completed statement by the due date may result in assessment of a $250 penalty [see Corp Code § 17651(b)]. An LLC that does not file also is subject to possible suspension of its powers and rights [Corp. Code §§ 17653, 17654].

§ 12C.210A Statement of Information Renewal [Form LLC-12R]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLC-12R, "Statement of Information." Domestic and foreign LLCs registered to transact interstate business in California must file this statement biennially [see [b], below, for discussion of the applicable filing period].

This form (Form LLC-12R) should be used only for renewal filings. It should not be used for making the initial filing of the Statement of Information, which must be filed within 90 days after the LLC files its original Articles of Organization (or application for registration) [Corp. Code § 17060(a)]. Form LLC-12 should be used for making initial filings, instead of this form. Form LLC-12 is reproduced in this publication in § 12C.210. The comment in § 12C.210[1] discusses the initial filing requirements, as well as the content of the statement, and other matters that are applicable to this form and are not repeated here.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.210A. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

A LLC is required to file the statement even if it is not actively engaged in business at the time the statement is due [see Corp. Code § 17060(a) (filing requirement extends to "every" LLC registered to transact intrastate business in California); see also Instructions to Form LLC-12R].

[b] Applicable Filing Period

After the initial statement is filed, the statement of information must be filed biennially thereafter, during the applicable filing period [Corp. Code § 17060(a), (c)]:

- For a domestic LLC, the calendar month in which the original articles were filed and the preceding five months.

- For a foreign LLC, the calendar month in which the application for registration was filed and the preceding five months.

Approximately three months before the close of the applicable filing period, the Secretary will mail the statement of information to the last known address of the LLC on record. However, he failure to receive a statement of information from the Secretary of State does not exempt an LLC from complying with the law [see Corp. Code § 17060(c)].

The Secretary of State will endorse one copy of the filed statement at no additional cost, provided that the copy is submitted along with the original being filed [see Instructions to Form LLC-12R].

[c] "No Change" Filings

If there has been no change in the information contained in the last Statement of Information on file with the Secretary of State, the person filling out the form for the LLC may simply check the "no change" box and execute the form. However, if there have been any changes to the information in the form, the statement must be completed in its entirety.

[d] Change of LLC's Agent, Agent's Address, or Other Information

When the name or street address of an LLC's agent for service of process changes, a new complete current statement of information must be filed. When any other information required by Corp. Code § 17060(a) changes, a current statement of information may be filed [Corp. Code § 17060(d)].

It appears that the mandatory and optional filings noted in the preceding paragraph may be made using either Form LLC-12R (this form) or Form LLC-12 (the form in § 12C.210). Although the instructions to the forms do not expressly state that either form may be used, both sets of instructions do note that there is no fee for filing changes of information to initial or biennial statements.

A statement changing the name and address of the agent for service of process supersedes any previously filed statement and any statement in the original or restated articles of organization, or application for registration in the case of a foreign LLC. However, any subsequent filing of restated articles of organization containing a statement of the name and address of the LLCs agent for service of process supersedes any previously filed statement of information [Corp. Code § 17060(d)].

[e] Failure to File

Failure to file the completed statement by the due date may result in assessment of a $250 penalty [see Corp Code § 17651(b)]. An LLC that does not file also is subject to possible suspension of its powers and rights [Corp. Code §§ 17653, 17654].

§ 12C.211 Resignation of Agent for Service of Process [Form RA-100]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form RA-100, "Resignation of Agent for Service of Process." This form is for use by a resigning agent for service of process to notify the Secretary of State of the resignation [see Corp. Code § 17061(d)(2); see also [b], below]. Unlike the Secretary of State's other LLC forms illustrated in this chapter, use of this form is not mandatory. It is provided for the convenience of the resigning agent. The resigning agent may alternatively notify the Secretary of State of his or her resignation with a letter of resignation. When notified of the resignation, the Secretary of State will provide written notice of the resignation to the LLC [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

This form may be obtained from any office of the Secretary of State. However, if used, the form must be filed with the Limited Liability Company Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.211. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Resignation of Agent for Service of Process

A domestic LLC's articles of organization (and a foreign LLC's application for registration) must provide the name and address of the LLC's agent for service of process in California [Corp. Code §§ 17051(a)(4), 17061(d)(1)]. The agent may resign at any time by filing with the Secretary of State a signed and acknowledged written statement of resignation as agent. On filing of the statement, the authority of the agent ceases, and the Secretary of State will give written notice to the LLC at its principal executive office of the agent's resignation [Corp. Code § 17061(d)(2)].

On resignation of its agent for service of process, an LLC must appoint a new agent and inform the Secretary of State of the name and address of the new agent [see Corp. Code § 17061(d)(1)]. Information about the new agent can be filed on the statement of information (Form LLC-12) [see § 12C.210 (form)].

§ 12C.212 Certificate of Conversion [Form CONV-1A]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for a certificate of conversion, together with the accompanying official instructions. This form is filed with the Secretary of State in the following situations involving LLC conversions:

- By a California limited liability company that is converting into a foreign limited liability company or a foreign other business entity [see Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(4); see also [b], below]. Except as noted below, California limited liability companies that are converting into other California business entities should file a statement of conversion using the form that is appropriate for the type of business entity into which they are converting [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(1), (2); see [c], below].

- By a California limited liability company that is converting into a California general partnership if no statement of partnership authority is filed [Corp. Code §§ 15677(a)(2) (limited partnership), 17540.6(a)(2) (limited liability company); see Ch. 15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships , § 15.801 (statement of partnership authority)].

- By a California general partnership or limited partnership that is converting to a foreign limited liability company [see Corp. Code §§ 15677(a)(3) (limited partnership), 16906(b)(general partnership)]. For discussion, see Ch. 15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships , and Ch. 15C, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, respectively.

This form is available from any office of the Secretary of State, or can be obtained on the Secretary of State's website as described below.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12C.212. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Statutory Requirements for Certificate of Conversion--Conversion to Foreign Limited Liability Company or Other Business Entity

Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(4) provides that a California limited liability company that is converting into a foreign limited liability company or a foreign other business entity--that is, any other business entity formed under the laws of any state other than California or under the laws of a foreign country [see Corp. Code § 17001(s)]--must file a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15740.6(a)(4)].

The required contents of a certificate of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 15740.6(b)] and incorporated into this form. While the statute does not mandate that the official form be used for filing a certificate of conversion [see Corp. Code § 17540.6], there is no reason to draft a non-standard form, nor is there any guarantee that such a form would be readily accepted by the Secretary of State's office in lieu of the official form.

[c] Statutory Requirements for Statement of Conversion--Conversion to Domestic Entities

In most cases, this form is not appropriate for California limited liability companies that are converting to other California business entities. In most cases, a statement of conversion, rather than a certificate of conversion, is filed as discussed below [Corp. Code § 17640.6(a)(1), (2)].

If the limited liability company is converting to a California limited partnership, a statement of conversion must be completed on the certificate of limited partnership of the converted entity [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(1)].

If the limited liability company is converting into a California general partnership, a statement of conversion must be completed on the statement of partnership authority for the converted entity. If the limited liability company is converting into a California general partnership and no statement of partnership authority is filed, however, a certificate of conversion (this form) must be filed separately [Corp. Code § 17540.6(a)(2)].

If the limited liability company is converting into a California domestic corporation, a statement of conversion must be completed on the articles of incorporation for the converted entity [Corp. Code §§ 1157(d), (e), 17540.6(a)(3); see § 12C.126[2], P 5(c)(1); see also § 12C.213].

The contents of the statement of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 17540.6(b)] and are reflected in the forms promulgated by the Secretary of State. These forms are to be filed as follows:

- A limited liability company that is converting into a California limited partnership will file Form LP-1A, Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion [see Ch. 15C, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, § 15C.205]. That form includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion.

- A limited liability company that is converting into a California general partnership will file Form GP-1A, General Partnership Statement of Partnership--Conversion [see Ch. 15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships , § 15.801]. That form includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion. (If no partnership statement is filed, then this form, Form CONV-1A, must be filed separately.)

- A limited liability company that is converting into a California corporation will include a statement of conversion in the new entity's articles of incorporation. For an illustration of the Secretary of State's sample articles of incorporation containing statement of conversion language, see § 12C.213[2].

[d] Effect of Filing Certificate of Conversion

The filing of a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State has the same effect as the filing of a certificate of cancellation by the converting limited liability company. No limited liability company that has made the filing is required to file a certificate of dissolution or a certificate of cancellation as a result of the conversion [Corp. Code § 15740.6(c)].

Once the statement of conversion has been filed, certified copies of the statement may be recorded in the county recorder's office of counties where the limited liability company held real property. Recordation provides notice to third parties and also provides a title chain for the real property for title insurance purposes [Corp. Code § 17540.7]. Furthermore, recordation will create, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15740.7(c)].

§ 12C.213 Articles of Incorporation With Statement of Conversion

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample set of articles of incorporation containing a statement of conversion for use by limited liability companies converting into California general stock corporations. It is modeled after the sample provided by the Secretary of State, and satisfies the minimum statutory requirements [see Corp. Code §§ 200, 1150, 1157, 17540.1]. A sample also is available on official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. However, the sample is illustrative only, and cannot be filled in and submitted in the form reproduced on the website. The Secretary of State's office advises that this sample may be used as a guide in preparing articles. The Secretary of State's office further advises that modifications can be made to add permissive provisions and/or to meet the specific statutory requirements for a professional or close corporation. The Secretary of State's office does not provide a standardized form due to the many possible drafting variations. For general discussion of articles of incorporation, including the statutory requirements for articles of incorporation as well as mandatory and optional provisions for corporate articles, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

[b] Mandatory Provisions

Article I must be completed with the name of the corporation exactly as the name is to appear on the records of the Secretary of State.

Article II contains language required by the Secretary of State and cannot be modified.

Article III must be completed with the name of the initial agent for service of process, as well as the address if an individual is designated as agent.

Article IV must include the total number of shares that the corporation will be authorized to issue.

Article V contains the statement of conversion [see Corp. Code §§ 1157, 17540.6]. If the class of interests entitled to vote or the percentage vote required differs from the sample, the articles must be modified accordingly.

[c] Execution, Filing, and Fees

The statement of conversion must be signed and acknowledged by all of the managers of the limited liability company, unless a lesser number is provided in the articles of organization or operating agreement. If initial directors are named in the in the articles, additional signatures and acknowledgments will be required as the articles must also be signed by any named initial directors. If initial directors are not named in the articles, the individuals executing the articles are the incorporators [see Corp. Code § 200(b); see [2], below (instructions)].

The original and at least two copies of the completed documents are mailed or hand delivered to the Secretary of State, together with the applicable fee [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Conversion of a California Limited Liability Company Into a California Stock Corporation, Information Sheet]. These articles of incorporation must be mailed or hand-delivered for over-the-counter processing at the Sacramento office. The articles cannot be filed in the regional offices, and cannot be processed using the preclearance, expedite, wait for or rush letter service. To facilitate processing, articles of incorporation submitted by mail should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the proposed corporate name as well as the name, telephone number, and return address of the person filing the articles [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Conversion of a California Limited Liability Company Into a California Stock Corporation, Information Sheet]. The articles of incorporation must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(c), (d)].

The original and at least two copies should be included with the submission. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the articles at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for processing documents delivered in person at the Sacramento office. The handling fee must be remitted by separate check for each submittal. Check(s) should be made payable to the Secretary of State [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Conversion of a California Limited Liability Company Into a California Stock Corporation, Information Sheet].

§ 12C.219 Attachment to LLC Articles of Organization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an attachment to the articles of organization of a California LLC. The articles of organization are filed on a one-page statutory form, which must be filed with the Secretary of State. The applicable statutory form includes a check box to note the number of pages of additional attachments [see §§ 12C.200[2], P 7 (formation), 12C.200A[2], P 8 (conversion)]. The additional provisions should be added to the articles on separate attached pages and keyed to the paragraph number of the statutory form.

The articles of organization may include other provisions not inconsistent with law, including provisions limiting or restricting the business or powers of the LLC; governing admission of members; the time when the limited liability company is dissolved; any events that will cause dissolution of the LLC [see § 12C.25[1]]; a statement of whether there are limitations on the authority of managers or members to bind the LLC and if so, what they are; and the names of the managers of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17051(c)]. If any provision of the articles of an LLC conflicts with its written operating agreement, the articles control [Corp. Code § 17005(f)].

Because the articles of organization are a public document and can be changed only by amendment filed with the Secretary of State and, unless otherwise provided in the articles or a written operating agreement, require the unanimous vote of all members for their amendment, caution should be exercised when determining whether to include optional matters in the articles.

[b] Contents of Form

The provisions in this form are important to the structure, continuity, and dissolution of the LLC. In general, they provide notice of their existence and refer to the operating agreement. Specifically, these provisions include:

- Restrictions on the admission of new members [see § 12C.219[2], P A].
- Provisions as to the nature and transferability of membership interests [see § 12C.219[2], P B, C].
- Provisions as to dissolution and continuity [see § 12C.219[2], P D, E].
- Statement that the LLC will be regulated by the articles and a written operating agreement [see § 12C.219[2], P F].
- Provisions as to indemnification [see § 12C.219[2], P G].
- Provisions governing the amendment of the articles of organization [see § 12C.219[2], P H].

Attachment to LLC Articles of Organization

ATTACHMENT TO LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY ARTICLES OF ORGANIZATION OF
_____ [name]

_____ A. Restrictions on Admission of a New Member.

The members may admit to the LLC one or more additional members who shall participate in the profits, losses, available cash flow, and ownership of the assets of the LLC only on the terms and conditions set forth in the Operating Agreement, as amended from time to time.

_____ B. Restrictions on Transfer of Membership Interests.

The transfer of a member's membership interest may be effectuated only on the terms and conditions as are set forth in the Operating Agreement, as amended from time to time.

_____ C. Nature and Transferability of Membership Interest.

The interest of each member of the LLC constitutes the personal estate of that member and may be transferred or assigned as provided in these Articles of Organization, as amended from time to time, and the Operating Agreement, as amended from time to time. However, if the members of this LLC, other than the member proposing to dispose of his, her or its interest, do not unanimously approve of the proposed transfer or assignment by written consent, the transferee of the membership interest will have no right to participate in the management of the business and affairs of this LLC or to become a member. Without the requisite unanimous written consent, the transferee of the membership interest holds only an economic interest and is entitled only to an allocation of the share of net profits, net losses, distributions and returns of capital to which the transferring member would otherwise be entitled.

_____ D. Dissolution and Continuity.

The LLC will be dissolved and wound up on the occurrence of any of the following events:

a. When the period fixed for the duration of the LLC in these Articles of Organization expires, if limited; or

b. A determination by the unanimous written agreement of all members; or

c. By entry of a decree of judicial dissolution of the LLC pursuant to California Corporations Code 17352; or

d. The sale of all, or substantially all, of the assets of the LLC unless all members consent in writing to the continuation of business by the LLC; or

e. Any other event or circumstances provided in the Operating Agreement as a condition for or as an event of dissolution.

_____ E. Continuation of Business.

The LLC will not be dissolved or wound up solely as a result of the death, retirement, withdrawal, resignation, expulsion, bankruptcy or dissolution of a member, or the occurrence of any other disassociation event that terminates the continued membership of a member in the LLC except as otherwise provided by the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act, as amended from time to time. On the occurrence of any disassociation event described in the preceding sentence and as otherwise permitted by the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act, the remaining members or member will continue the business of the LLC unless [the remaining member or all the remaining members] by action or resolution duly made under the Operating Agreement approve and authorize the dissolution and winding up of the LLC.

_____ F. Regulation of Business and Affairs.

The business and affairs of the LLC will be regulated by a written Operating Agreement between the LLC and its members consistent with the legal requirements and provisions of the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act as amended from time to time and these Articles of Organization as amended from time to time.

_____ G. Indemnifications.

The LLC may indemnify any manager, member, officer, employee or agent of the LLC incurred as result of action in that capacity and made a party to a proceeding as a result of action against judgments, settlements, penalties, or expenses of any kind, only on the terms and conditions as are set forth in the Operating Agreement as may amended from time to time,

The indemnification of expenses may only be authorized by the Operating Agreement and the unanimous written consent or agreement approved by all of the members. The Articles of Organization will not be interpreted to limit in any manner the power of the LLC to provide indemnification, to purchase any insurance, or to advance expenses of a person who would otherwise be entitled thereto.

In addition to the foregoing, the LLC will indemnify and hold the organizer harmless for all acts taken as organizer of the LLC, and will pay all costs and expenses incurred by or imposed on the organizer as a result of the same, including compensation based on the usual charges for any time expenditures required of the organizer in pursuit of the defense against any liability arising on the account of acting as organizer, or arising on the account of enforcing the indemnification right under these Articles, and the LLC releases the organizer from all liability for any act as organizer not involving willful or grossly negligent misconduct.

_____ H. Amendments.

Amendments to the Articles of Organization of the LLC will be adopted by vote of the members as set forth in the Operating Agreement or with the unanimous written consent of the members, but in no event will the Articles of Organization be amended by a vote or written consent representing less than a majority-in-interest of the members. For purposes of amending the Articles of Organization, a majority-in-interest means members holding more than _____ percent of the interest of members in net profits for the current annual period and the capital account balances of the LLC determined under the Operating Agreement as amended as of the date of the proposed action to amend.

§ 12C.220 Manager-Managed LLC Operating Agreement--Short Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a skeletal manager-managed operating agreement for a California LLC. It is intended to provide a basic outline of what an operating agreement should cover. It should be modified to meet the particular operating needs of the LLC being formed.

The members of an LLC must enter into an operating agreement either before or after the filing of the LLC's articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. An "operating agreement" is any agreement among all the members as to the affairs of the LLC and the conduct of its business in a manner not inconsistent with law or the LLC's articles, including amendments to those articles. For a foreign LLC, all documents that serve a like function under the laws of the jurisdiction in which the foreign LLC is organized is defined as an operating agreement under the California Act [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. An operating agreement may be written or oral, and it may be as simple as an agreement to organize an LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. In most cases, it is best to have a written operating agreement, since it is likely to be the key document of an LLC. The operating agreement is not filed with the office of the Secretary of State [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

Many of the same types of provisions typically found in corporate bylaws or partnership agreements may be appropriate in a LLC operating agreement if the members so desire. For a variety of corporate bylaw provisions, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . For partnership provisions, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships . For other provisions that may be appropriate to this type of agreement, see Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements . The complexity of the agreement depends on the drafter and the wishes of the members.

This form is drafted for manager-managed LLC that will have more than one member, and it contains provisions appropriate in that situation. However, effective January 1, 2000, California LLCs are permitted to have only a single member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. This form may be converted to a single member LLC. For further discussion, see [d], below.

[b] Contents of Agreement

This form contains many provisions covering a great variety of topics; it must be revised as needed for each particular limited liability company. In general, a well-drafted, relatively detailed operating agreement should contain provisions addressing some or all of the following topics:

- Definitions of terms used in the agreement [see [2], art. 1, below]. Note that an operating agreement may not vary the definitions set forth in Corp. Code § 17001, except as specifically provided in that section [Corp. Code § 17005(b)(1)].

- Extent and nature of the LLC's business.

- The operative date of the agreement. Paragraph 2.04 allows this date to be either the date of execution of the agreement, or a specified future time.

- Specification of rights and duties of members [see [2], art. 3, below].

- Information on initial and additional capital contributions [see [2], PP 1.01(d), 3.01, 3.02, below]. In this regard, Paragraph 3.03 gives the drafter the option of either prohibiting future contributions except on unanimous consent of the members, or permitting such contributions on specified terms. Paragraph 3.02(b) and (c) specifies the remedies of the LLC against any member who fails to make any required initial or future contribution. The specified remedies are stated broadly to include all those specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 17201(a)(2), (3)].

- Names and addresses of members [see [2], P 3.01, below].

- If the LLC is to be managed by the members, provisions as to management and as to a management group of members, if any [see §§ 12C.221 (member-managed operating agreement), 12C.226 (member management provisions)].

- Information on capital accounts and capital structure [see [2], P 3.04, below].

- Amendment of operating agreement [see [2], art. 4, below].

- If the LLC is to be managed by managers, the necessary details of that management, including duties, time required to be devoted to management, and potential conflicts of interest [see [2], arts. 5-10, below].

- Members' right, if any, to withdraw, including buyout rights enforceable by withdrawing member and exercisable by remaining members. In this regard, the provisions in this form contemplate that the interests of the members will not be freely transferrable and that prior consent of the other members is required [see [2], PP 3.09-3.12, below]. Paragraphs 3.13 through 3.17 contain simple buyout provisions giving the remaining members either the option or the duty (depending on the alternative version of Paragraph 3.13 included by the drafter) to purchase the interest of any member who dies or who is expelled under the terms of the operating agreement. Many other arrangements for the transfer of membership interests are possible, depending on what the members want to do. If the LLC members wish to have a different type of buy-sell arrangement, appropriate provisions from the corporate or partnership materials in this publication may be adapted to a LLC agreement [see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements (close corporations); Ch. 15, Part A, General Partnerships, §§ 15.240-15.262 (partnerships)].

- Termination of memberships and rights of members holding terminated memberships.

- Assignment of membership interests [see [2], P 3.10, below] and admission of additional members [see [2], P 3.06, below].

- Rights of the members with respect to meeting, voting, proxies, and similar matters [see [2], arts. 12-14, below].

- Allocations of items of LLC profits, losses, gain, deduction and credit [see [c]; see also art. 15, below].

- Time, manner, and priority of distributions [see [2], PP 15.02, 15.03, below].

- Provisions governing indemnification, fiduciary duties, competition, and trade secrets [see [2], art. 16, below].

- Accounting, records, financial statements and reports [see [2], art. 17, below].

- Various tax matters, such as tax elections and identification of the equivalent of a tax matters partner [see [2], P 17.03, below].

- Dissolution and winding up [see [2], art. 18, below]. Among other circumstances, this agreement permits dissolution on the agreement of a majority of the members or on the occurrence of specific events (to be specified by the drafter) that are deemed to constitute a failure of the LLC achieve its intended purpose. The latter provision is intended to provide a "safety valve" if the LLC is formed for a specific purpose and there is uncertainty over whether all the necessary conditions for fulfillment of that purpose will exist in the future [see [2], P 18.01, below].

- Other provisions common to detailed contracts, including statements of consideration, provisions for notice, severability, integration, governing law, and confidentiality (if appropriate) [see [2], art. 19, below].

- A spousal consent under which the spouses of the members consent to the terms of the Agreement with respect to any portion of the membership interests that are community property. This consent should be executed by all the spouses of the LLC members. For additional discussion of the law relating to this type of spousal consent, see Ch. 8C, Corporation Shareholder Agreements, § 8C.203.

- A schedule showing the respective contributions of cash, property, or services to be made by each member, and the percentage interest in the LLC allocated to each member. This schedule may be amended from time to time to reflect subsequent adjustments in the interests of the members due to additional contributions, purchase of the interest of a deceased or departing member, or other sources [see [2], Schedule A, below].

The operating agreement should also specify any respects in which the default provisions of the LLC Act are to be changed or rendered inapplicable to the LLC [see Corp. Code § 17005(e); see also § 12C.10[3]]. With regard to changes in some default provisions, only a written operating agreement is effective [see Corp. Code § 17005(b), (c)]. If any provision of the articles of an LLC conflicts with its written operating agreement, the articles control [Corp. Code § 17005(f)].

[c] Allocation Provisions

The operating agreement provides for allocation of net income, net loss and capital gain according to each member's percentage interest in the LLC. This generally meets the requirements of I.R.C. § 704 and Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1 that allocations have substantial economic effect. The agreement also provides for special allocation of built-in gain or loss if property is contributed to the LLC that has a tax basis different from its value for purposes of the contribution [see Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3; see also [2], art. 15, below].

Other issues arise in the context of allocating gains or losses and whether the operating agreement allocation provisions have substantial economic effect including the maintenance of capital accounts, distributions on the liquidation of the LLC, and the obligation of members to make up any deficits in their capital accounts on the liquidation of the member's interest [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)]. Practitioners should review the safe harbor provisions in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b) to determine if any of those provisions are necessary for the LLC's for which for the operating agreement is being drafted.

[d] Conversion to Single Member-Managed Agreement

This basic manager-managed LLC operating agreement may be converted to a single member LLC. For federal tax purposes, a LLC with only one member is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner for federal tax purposes unless it elects to be taxed as an "association" (corporation) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

Counsel should consider whether, the retention, deletion, or modification of the relevant provisions of this agreement is appropriate in a one-member situation. For example, provisions governing allocations and profit-sharing should be reviewed and ordinarily deleted from the agreement. However, although provisions governing contributions, voting rights, and so on may seem superfluous in a single-member LLC, it may be desirable to retain many of these provisions even when the LLC will be formed with a single member. Even if not anticipated at the time of formation, the admission of additional members may become desirable at a future time due to changing or unanticipated circumstances, and those provisions may obviate the need for revising the operating agreement of a single-member LLC that subsequently admits additional members.

§ 12C.221 Member-Managed Operating Agreement--Long Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a detailed, member-managed operating agreement for a California limited liability company. It should be modified to meet the particular operating needs of the LLC being formed.

The members of an LLC must enter into an operating agreement either before or after the filing of the LLC's articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. An "operating agreement" is any agreement among all the members as to the affairs of the LLC and the conduct of its business in a manner not inconsistent with law or the LLC's articles, including amendments to those articles. For a foreign LLC, all documents that serve a like function under the laws of the jurisdiction in which the foreign LLC is organized is defined as an operating agreement under the California Act [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. An operating agreement may be written or oral, and it may be as simple as an agreement to organize an LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. In most cases, it is best to have a written operating agreement, since it is likely to be the key document of an LLC. The operating agreement is not filed with the office of the Secretary of State [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

Many of the same types of provisions typically found in corporate bylaws or partnership agreements may be appropriate in a LLC operating agreement if the members so desire. For a variety of corporate bylaw provisions, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . For partnership provisions, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships . For other provisions that may be appropriate to this type of agreement, see Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements . The complexity of the agreement depends on the drafter and the wishes of the members.

This form is drafted for an LLC that will have more than one member, and it contains provisions appropriate for that situation. However, since January 1, 2000, California LLCs have been permitted to have only a single member [Corp.

Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. The form may be adapted for use in a single-member LLC, and counsel should consider whether the retention, deletion, or modification of the relevant provisions of this agreement is appropriate [see § 12C.220[1][d]; see also [2], Section 9.01(g), below].

[b] Contents of Agreement

This form contains many provisions covering a great variety of topics; it must be revised as needed for each particular limited liability company. In general, a well-drafted, relatively detailed operating agreement should contain provisions addressing some or all of the following topics:

- Definitions of terms used in the agreement [see [2], art. 1, below]. Note that an operating agreement may not vary the definitions set forth in Corp. Code § 17001, except as specifically provided in that section [Corp. Code § 17005(b)(1)].

- Extent and nature of the LLC's business.

- The operative date of the agreement [see [2], Section 1.05, below].

- Specification of rights and duties of members [see [2], art. 2, below].

- Information on initial and additional capital contributions [see [2], art. 3, below]. In this regard, Paragraph 3.02 permits additional capital contributions on specified terms.

- Names and addresses of members [see [2], Section 2.01, Exhibit A, below].

- If the LLC is to be managed by the members, provisions as to management [see [2], art. 5, below].

- Information on capital accounts and capital structure [see [2], art. 4, below].

- Amendment of operating agreement [see [2], Section 12.02, below].

- Members' right, if any, to withdraw, including buyout rights enforceable by withdrawing member and exercisable by remaining members. In this regard, the provisions in this form contemplate that members may not voluntarily withdraw [see [2], Section 2.03, below], that membership interests are not freely transferrable and that prior consent of the other members is required. The form contains buyout provisions giving the remaining members either the option or the duty to purchase the interest of any member who dies or who is expelled under the terms of the operating agreement [see [2], art. 8, below]. Many other arrangements for the transfer of membership interests are possible, depending on what the members want to do. If the LLC members wish to have a different type of buy-sell arrangement, appropriate provisions from the corporate or partnership materials in this publication may be adapted to a LLC agreement [see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements (close corporations); Ch. 15, Part A, General Partnerships, §§ 15.240-15.262 (partnerships)].

- Rights of the members with respect to meeting, voting, proxies, and similar matters [see [2], art. 5, below].

- Allocations of items of LLC profits, losses, gain, deduction and credit [see [c]; see also art. 6, below].

- Accounting, records, financial statements and reports [see [2], art. 7, below].

- Time, manner, and priority of distributions [see [2], Exhibit D, below].

- Dissolution and winding up [see [2], art. 9, below]. Among other circumstances, this agreement permits dissolution on the agreement of all of the members or on the occurrence of specific events that are deemed to constitute a failure of the LLC achieve its intended purpose. The latter provision is intended to provide a "safety valve" if the LLC is formed for a specific purpose and there is uncertainty over whether all the necessary conditions for fulfillment of that purpose will exist in the future [see [2], Section 9.01(e), below].

- Provisions governing indemnification [see [2], art. 11, below].

- A spousal consent under which the spouses of the members consent to the terms of the Agreement with respect to any portion of the membership interests that are community property [see [2], Exhibit E, below]. This consent should be executed by all the spouses of the LLC members. For additional discussion of the law relating to this type of spousal consent, see Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements, § 8C.203.

- A schedule showing the respective contributions of cash, property, or services to be made by each member, and the percentage interest in the LLC allocated to each member. This schedule may be amended from time to time to reflect subsequent adjustments in the interests of the members due to additional contributions, purchase of the interest of a deceased or departing member, or other sources [see [2], Exhibit A, below].

The operating agreement should also specify any respects in which the default provisions of the LLC Act are to be changed or rendered inapplicable to the LLC [see Corp. Code § 17005(e); see also § 12C.10[3]]. With regard to changes in some default provisions, only a written operating agreement is effective [see Corp. Code § 17005(b), (c)]. If any provision of the articles of an LLC conflicts with its written operating agreement, the articles control [Corp. Code § 17005(f)].

[c] Allocation Provisions

This operating agreement provides for allocation of net income, net loss and capital gain according to each member's percentage interest in the LLC [see [2], Section 6.01(b), (c), below]. This allocation generally meets the requirements of I.R.C. § 704 and Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1 that allocations have substantial economic effect. The agreement also provides for special allocation of built-in gain or loss if property is contributed to the LLC that has a tax basis different from its value for purposes of the contribution [see Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3; see also [2], Section 6.02, below]. The agreement also provides rules for allocations solely for tax purposes [see [2], Section 6.03, below], and for distributions in respect of transferred interests [see [2], Section 6.04, below].

Other issues arise in the context of allocating gains or losses and whether the operating agreement allocation provisions have substantial economic effect including the maintenance of capital accounts, distributions on the liquidation of the LLC, and the obligation of members to make up any deficits in their capital accounts on the liquidation of the member's interest [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)]. Practitioners should review the safe harbor provisions in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b) to determine if any of those provisions are necessary for the LLC for which for the operating agreement is being drafted. Consultation with the LLC's accountant is strongly recommended.

[If partnership tax treatment is desired, use:]

1.09. Tax Classification. The Members intend the Company to be classified as a partnership for federal and, to the maximum extent possible, state income taxes. This classification for tax purposes does not create or imply a general partnership, limited partnership, or joint venture between the Members for state law or any other purpose. Instead, the Members acknowledge the Company's status as a limited liability company formed under the Act and no Member will take any action inconsistent with the express intent of the parties to this Agreement.

[Or, if corporate tax treatment is desired, use:]

1.11. Title to All Properties in Name of Company. Real and personal property owned or purchased by Company will be held and owned, and conveyance made, in the name of Company. Written documents providing for the acquisition, mortgage, or disposition of property of Company are valid and binding on Company, except as otherwise limited in this Agreement, including Subsection 5.03(b), if executed by [number of members required to approve acquisition and disposition of Company property] or more Members of Company.

The agent's street address for receipt of service of process is the registered office of the limited liability company in California. If the agent changes the location of the agent's office, the agent for service of process must within 30 days file a certificate with the Secretary of State setting forth the names of the limited liability companies represented by the agent, the address at which the agent maintained the office for each of the limited liability companies, and the new address to which the office is transferred.

1.13. Required Maintenance of Records in California Office. Company will continuously maintain an office in the State of California, which may but need not be a place of its business in this state or its registered office, and at which the Company will maintain the following:

ARTICLE 2 MEMBERS

2.01. Members. The initial Members are each of the persons executing this Agreement and making the initial Capital Contributions set forth opposite their respective names in Exhibit A. Each initial Member is admitted as a Member effective as of the beginning of the Term of this Agreement. The Members, their respective addresses, their respective aggregate Capital Contributions to Company, and their respective Voting Interests and Percentage Interests in Net Profits and Net Losses (Economic Interests) of Company are set forth in Exhibits A and B, as the exhibits may be amended from time to time.

2.02. Additional Members. No additional Members, other than Permitted Transferees, may be admitted to Company without the unanimous written consent of the Members, which consent may be withheld for any reason or for no reason. On the admission of an additional Member pursuant to this Section 2.02, each Member (including the additional Member) will execute an amendment to this Agreement: (1) reflecting the Members' new Percentage Interests and (2) evidencing the additional Member's consent to be bound by the provisions of this Agreement. The admission of any additional Member may result in a dilution of the Percentage Interests of the then Members in their Voting Interests and Economic Interests (Net Profits and Net Losses).

[OPTIONAL]

2.03. No Withdrawal. No Member may withdraw, retire, or resign from Company.

[Continue]

2.04. Limitations on Liability of Members for Debts of Company. Except as provided in this Agreement and Corp. Code § 17254, relating to distributions by Company, and Corp. Code § 17101(b), relating to responsibility of Members for certain unsatisfied debts or obligations of Company, no Member will be liable under a judgment, decree, or order of a court, or in any other manner, for a debt, obligation, or liability of Company whether that liability or obligation arises in contract or tort. No Member will be required to loan any funds to Company. No Member will be required to make any contribution to Company by reason of any negative balance in the Member's capital account, nor will any negative balance in a Member's capital account create any liability on the part of the Member to any third party.

2.05. Liability of Members to Company.

(a) Liability of Members to Company. A Member is liable to Company: (1) for the difference between the Member's contribution to capital as actually made and that stated in the Articles, this Agreement, subscription for contribution, or other document executed by the Member as having been made by the Member; and (2) for any unpaid contribution to capital which the Member agreed in the Articles, this Agreement, or other document executed by the Member to make in the future at the time and on the conditions stated in the Articles of Organization, this Agreement, or other document evidencing that agreement. No Member will be excused from an obligation to Company to perform any promise to contribute money or property or to perform services because of death, disability, dissolution, or any other reason.

(b) Member as Trustee for Company. A Member holds as trustee for Company (1) specific property stated in the Articles of Organization, this Agreement, or other document executed by the Member as contributed by that Member, but that was not contributed or that has been wrongfully or erroneously returned; and (2) money or other property wrongfully paid or conveyed to the Member on account of the Member's contribution.

(c) Waiver of Liability of Member. The liabilities of a Member as set out in this Section 2.05 can be waived only by the unanimous written consent of the Members. However, a waiver does not affect the right of a creditor of Company who extended credit or whose claim arose after the filing and before a cancellation or amendment of the Articles of Organization to enforce the liabilities.

(d) Liability of Member Receiving a Return of Capital. When a Member has rightfully received the return in whole or in part of the capital of the Member's contribution, the Member is nevertheless liable to Company for a period of six years after the return of the capital contribution for any sum, not in excess of the return without interest, necessary to discharge Company's liability to all creditors of Company who extended credit during the period the capital contribution was held by Company or whose claims arose before the return.

(e) No Responsibility for Pre-Formation Commitments. In the event any Member (or any of the Member's shareholders or affiliates), (collectively "liable Member") incurs any indebtedness or obligation before the date of this Agreement that relates to or otherwise affects Company, neither Company nor any other Member will have any liability or responsibility for that indebtedness or obligation unless that indebtedness or obligation is assumed by Company pursuant to a written instrument signed by all Members. Furthermore, neither Company nor any Member will be responsible or liable for any indebtedness or obligation that is hereafter incurred by any other liable Member. In the event that a liable Member, whether before or after the date of this Agreement, incurs (or has incurred) any debt or obligation that neither Company nor the other Members has any responsibility or liability for, the liable Member will indemnify and hold harmless Company and the other Members from any liability or obligation they may incur in respect thereof.

2.06. Rights of Judgment Creditor of Member. On application to a court of competent jurisdiction by a judgment creditor of a Member, the court may charge the Membership Interest with payment of the unsatisfied amount of the judgment with interest. To the extent so charged, the judgment creditor has only the rights of an Assignee of the Membership Interest. This Section 2.06 does not deprive any Member of the benefit of any exemption from legal process applicable to that Member's interest.

2.07. Member Compensation. Unless approved by all of the Members, no Member or an Affiliate of a Member is entitled to any payment or compensation for services rendered or goods provided to, or on behalf of, Company, except for reasonable compensation under Corp. Code § 17352(z) for winding up of Company's affairs. Any compensation paid by Company to a Member or an Affiliate of a Member, pursuant to this Section 2.07, will be treated as a payment to a person who is not a Member under I.R.C. § 707(a) or 707(c).

[OR]

2.07. Member Compensation. Unless approved by all of the Members, no Member or an Affiliate of a Member is entitled to any payment or compensation for services rendered to, or on behalf of, Company, except for reasonable compensation under Corp. Code § 17352(z) for winding up of Company affairs. The Members may authorize reimbursement of all expenses of Company reasonably incurred and paid by the Member on behalf of Company.

[CONTINUE]

2.08. Legal Representative or Successor of a Member. If an individual Member dies or is adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction to be incompetent to manage his or her person or property, the executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, or other legal representative may exercise all rights of that Member for the sole purpose of settling the estate or administering that Member's property.

2.09. Authority of Members. The Members will manage the Company. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, each Member as Manager has the full and complete authority, power, and discretion to act for and bind Company in the ordinary course of Company's business, except as provided below, and specifically Article 5.

2.10. Limitation on Power to Contract Debts. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, no debt will be contracted or liability incurred by or on behalf of Company, except by any Member as provided in the Articles and with particular reference to Article 5 of this Agreement.

ARTICLE 3 CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS

3.01. Initial Capital Contributions. As provided in the Articles, the Members will concurrently with a Member's execution of this Agreement make the initial Capital Contributions in the form of money (including promissory notes), property, or services rendered or to be rendered or other obligation to contribute money or property or to render services, as set forth opposite that Member's name in Exhibit A to this Agreement.

3.02. Additional Capital. The Members may make any subsequent Capital Contributions in any type of money (including promissory notes), property, and services rendered or to be rendered as may be agreed on by all of the Members. No Member may be required to make any additional Capital Contributions to Company other than the capital contributions set opposite to the name of the Member in Exhibit A, as it may be amended from time to time. However, if Company's revenues are insufficient to pay Company's expenses, the Members have the opportunity, but not the obligation, to contribute additional capital in cash to Company on a pro-rata basis in accordance with their respective Percentage Interests. Each Member will receive a credit to that Member's Capital Account in the amount of any additional capital that the Member contributes to Company. Immediately following such Capital Contributions, the Percentage Interests will be adjusted, and Exhibit A will be revised, to reflect the new relative proportions of the Members' Capital Accounts. To obtain additional funds or for other business purposes, a Member may contribute additional capital to Company, but only upon the written consent of all other Members. As a condition to the acceptance of property other than money in Company, the value of the property will be determined by agreement of the contributing member and Company as evidenced by a signed writing.

3.03. Percentage Interest of Member And Certificates. The Membership Interest of Company held by each Member may be divided into a Percentage Interest to represent, respectively, voting power, allocation of Net Profits, and allocation of Net Losses as reflected, respectively, in Exhibit A and Exhibit B, as each exhibit may be amended from time to time. The Membership Interest in Company may be represented by a certificate of membership. The exact contents of a certificate of membership may be determined by action of the Members but will be issued substantially in conformity with the following requirements:

(a) Each certificate of membership will be consecutively numbered beginning with Number 1, and as each certificate is issued, it will be signed by the authorized representatives of Company and will be impressed with Company seal, if Company obtains one.

(b) Each certificate of membership will state the name of Company, the laws of the state under which Company is organized, the name of the person to whom the certificate is issued, the date the certificate is issued, and the Percentage Interest represented by the certificate.

(c) Each certificate will contain a statement of the designations, preferences, qualifications, limitations, restrictions, and special or relative rights of the Interests represented thereby, set forth in full or summarized on the face or back of the certificates that Company shall issue. Or, in lieu thereof, the certificate may set forth that the Company will furnish the statement or summary to any holder of the Interests on request and without charge.

3.04. Cancellation and Replacement of Certificates. All certificates of membership surrendered to Company for transfer will be canceled and no new certificates of membership will be issued in lieu thereof until the former certificates for a like number of Membership Interests have been surrendered and canceled, except as provided in this Agreement with respect to lost, stolen, or destroyed certificates. Any Member claiming that the Member's certificate of membership is lost, stolen, or destroyed may make an affidavit or affirmation of that fact and submit the same to the other Members of Company, accompanied by a signed application for a new certificate. Thereupon, and on the giving of a satisfactory bond of indemnity to Company not exceeding an amount double the value of the Membership Interests as represented by that certificate (the necessity for such a bond and the amount required to be determined by the Members of Company), a new certificate may be issued of the same tenor and representing the same Percentage Membership Interests as were represented by the certificate alleged to be lost, stolen, or destroyed.

3.05. Limitations on Withdrawals of Capital Contribution. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this Agreement, no Member has the right to demand the return of, or withdraw, any or all of that Member's Capital Contribution before the dissolution and winding up of Company. No Member guarantees the return of another Member's Capital Contribution. No Member is required to contribute or to lend any cash or property to Company to enable Company to return any Member's Capital Contributions. No Member will receive property or any part of that Member's Capital Contribution until (1) all liabilities of Company, except liabilities to Members on account of their Capital Contributions, have been paid or there remains property of Company sufficient to pay them; (2) the consent of the Members holding a Majority-In-Interest or more is had, unless the return of the Capital Contributions may be rightfully demanded as provided in the Act; (3) the Articles are canceled or so amended as to allow the withdrawal or reduction. In the absence of a statement in the Articles to the contrary or the consent of Members holding at least a Majority-In-Interest, a Member, irrespective of the nature of the Member's contribution, has no right to demand and receive cash in return for the Member's Capital Contribution until the dissolution of Company. The withdrawn Member has only the rights of a holder of an Economic Interest with respect to the withdrawing Member's interest in the Company to which a holder of an Economic Interest in company is entitled, and then only with respect to distributions, if made pursuant to Article 6.

3.06. Interest. Members have no right to receive interest on any Capital Contributions or Capital Account balance, absent the unanimous written consent of the Members.

ARTICLE 4 CAPITAL ACCOUNTS

4.01. Capital Accounts For Each Member. The Company will establish and the Members will maintain a separate Capital Account (as defined in simplified form in Section 4.02) for each Member strictly in accordance with the requirements of I.R.C. § 704(b) and applicable regulations. The Members intend that the Capital Accounts of the Members be maintained strictly in accordance with the rules of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv), as amended from time to time. In this connection, to the extent the results determined under a literal application of this Paragraph 4.1 vary from the results that would be obtainable under the rules described in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv), the rules set forth in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv) will be used and govern the maintenance of capital accounts under this Agreement.

4.02. Simplified Description of Capital Account Determination. Subject to the other paragraphs in this Agreement, "Capital Account" generally means the amount of money contributed by the Member to Company,

(a) Increased (credited) by:

(1) The fair market value of property other than money contributed by the Member to Company as determined by the contributing Member and Company; and

(2) The Net Profits allocated to the Member; and

(3) The amount of any liabilities of Company assumed by Member or that are secured by property distributed to Member by Company; and

(b) Decreased (debited) by:

(1) The amount of money distributed to the Member;

(2) The fair market value of property distributed to the Member by Company as determined by recipient Member and Company;

(3) The Member's share of expenditures of Company described in I.R.C. § 705(a)(2)(B) (including, for this purpose, losses which are nondeductible under I.R.C. § 267(a)(1) or I.R.C. § 707(b);

(4) The Member's share of amounts paid or incurred by Company to organize Company or to promote the sale of (or to sell) an interest in Company (except to the extent properly amortizable for income tax purposes);

(5) The Net Losses allocated to the Member; and

(6) The amount of any liabilities the Member assumed by Company or secured by property contributed by Member of Company.

4.03. Capital Account Adjustments For Special Events.

(a) Succession to Capital Account. If a Member transfers all or part of a Membership Interest in accordance with this Agreement, that member's Capital Account attributable to the transferred Membership Interest shall carry over to the new owner of the Membership Interest pursuant to Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv) and the transferee will succeed to the Capital Account of the transferor to the extent that it relates to the transferred interest.

(b) Assumption of Liability. An assumption of unsecured liability by Company will be treated as a distribution of money to the Member. An assumption of the unsecured liability of Company by a Member will be treated as a cash contribution to Company. In determining the amount of any liability for this purpose, there shall be taken into account Internal Revenue Code Section 752(c) and any other applicable provisions of the Code and Regulations.

(c) Adjustment for Noncash Distribution. In the event that assets of Company other than cash are distributed in kind to a Member, Capital Accounts will be adjusted for the hypothetical "book" gain or loss that would have been realized by Company if the distributed assets had been sold for their fair market values in a cash sale (in order to reflect unrealized gain or loss).

(d) Adjustment to Fair Market on Transfer of Interest. Capital Accounts will be adjusted to reflect fair market value of all properties in the event of acquisition of Membership Interest by an existing or new Member.

(e) Adjustment for Constructive Termination of Company. Capital Accounts will also be adjusted on the constructive termination of Company as provided under I.R.C. § 708 in accordance with the method set forth in the immediately preceding subsection (as required by Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(b).

(f) Adjustment for Recapture of Certain Credits. Capital Accounts will be adjusted appropriately on account of investment tax credit and investment tax credit recapture in accordance with the principles of I.R.C. § 48.

4.04. Power to Modify Capital Accounts to Company With Tax Regulations. The foregoing provisions and the other provisions of this Agreement relating to the maintenance of Capital Accounts are intended to comply with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv), and will be interpreted and applied in a manner consistent with the Regulations. In the event that the Members determine that it is necessary to modify the manner in which the Capital Accounts are computed to comply with the Regulations and to reflect the agreed on allocation of the distribution of cash, the Members may make a modification, provided that it is not likely to have a material effect on the amounts distributable to any member on the dissolution of Company. The Members will also make any appropriate modifications in the event unanticipated events occur that might otherwise cause this Agreement not to comply with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv).

4.05. Maintenance of Income (Drawing) Accounts. A separate individual income account will be maintained for each Member. At the end of each fiscal year, each Member's share of the Net Profits and Net Losses of Company will be credited or debited to, and any withdrawals during the fiscal year deducted from, that Member's income account. After these amounts have been credited or debited to and deducted from the income account of a Member, any balance or deficit remaining in the account will be transferred to or charged against the individual capital account of that Member.

ARTICLE 5 MANAGEMENT AND CONTROL OF BUSINESS INCLUDING MEETINGS

5.01. Management of Company.

(a) Management by Members. The Members as managers will manage Company. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, each Member has the full and complete authority, power, and discretion to act for and bind Company in the ordinary course of Company's business.

(b) General Duties and Obligations. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, no Member will have any authority to hold itself out as a general or special agent of Company in any business or other activity. The Members will take all actions that may be necessary or appropriate (1) for the continuation of the Company's valid existence as a limited liability company under the Act, and (2) for the acquisition, development, maintenance, preservation, and operation of Company property in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement and applicable laws and regulations.

[OPTIONAL]

(c) Insurance. The Members will cause Company to procure and maintain in force a reasonable amount of insurance covering the Company and Company property for all types of liability and loss.

[CONTINUE]

(d) Competition. During the term of Company, each Member may engage in any business activity for his or her own profit or advantage without the other Members' consent; provided, however, no Member may engage in any activity that is in direct competition with Company's business.

5.02. Other Activities of Members Permitted. The Members may engage in other business activities and are obliged to devote only as much of their time to the business of Company as shall be reasonably required in light of the purposes of Company. A Member will perform the duties as a Manager in good faith, in a manner that the Member reasonably believes to be in the best interests of Company, and with such care as a reasonable person under similar circumstances. A Member who so performs the Member's duties as Manager will not have any liability by reason of being or having been a Manager of Company.

[OR]

5.02. Other Activities of Members Permitted. The Members must, unless otherwise agreed by the Members, devote full business time to the business and affairs of Company except that a Member (1) may engage in incidental other business activities that do not compete with Company or interfere with the Member's services to Company, and (2) may engage in personal investment activities in enterprises that do not directly compete with Company.

[CONTINUE]

5.03. Specific Powers and Limitations of Members as Managers.

(a) Powers of Members as Managers. Each Member as Manager has the power and authority to act on Company's behalf, subject to the limitations of the Act and the following limitations:

(1) To acquire property from any person as the Members may determine. The fact that a Member is directly or indirectly affiliated or connected with any such person does not prohibit a Manager from dealing with that person or entity.

(2) To borrow money for Company from banks, other lending institutions, the Members, or Affiliates of the Members on the terms that the Member deems appropriate, and in that connection, to hypothecate, encumber, and grant security interests in the assets of Company to secure repayment of the borrowed sums. Except as otherwise provided in the Act, no debt will be contracted or liability incurred by or on behalf of Company, except by the Members.

(3) To purchase liability and other insurance to protect the property and business of Company.

(4) To hold and own any Company real and personal properties in the name of Company.

(5) To execute on behalf of Company all instruments and documents, including, without limitation, checks; drafts; notes and other negotiable instruments; mortgages or deeds of trust; security agreements; financing statements; documents providing for the acquisition, mortgage, or disposition of property of Company; assignments; bills of sale; leases; partnership agreements; and any other instruments or documents reasonably believed to be necessary in the opinion of the Members, to the business of Company.

(6) To employ accountants, legal counsel, managing agents, and other experts to perform services for Company and to compensate them from Company funds.

(7) To retain and compensate employees and agents generally, and to define their duties.

(8) To enter into any and all other agreements on behalf of Company, with any other person or entity for any purpose necessary or appropriate to the conduct of the business of Company.

(9) To reimburse all expenses of Company reasonably incurred and paid by the Members on behalf of Company.

(10) To do and perform all other acts as may be necessary or appropriate to the conduct of the business of Company.

[Add the following, if desired:]

Except that items 1 through 4 must be approved [in writing by _____ (specify, e.g., 51 percent) of the Members at a meeting, via written consent signed by _____ (specify, e.g., 51 percent) of the Members or by _____ (specify, e.g., 51 percent) of the Voting Interest of all the Members].

[CONTINUE]

(b) Limitations on Power of Members as Managers. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 5.03(a), above, no act shall be taken, sum expended, decision made, or obligation incurred by any member regarding a matter within the scope of any of the major decisions enumerated below ("Major Decisions") unless and until the same has been approved [in writing by all Members at a meeting or via unanimous written consent by the Members or by _____ (specify, e.g., 75 percent) of the Voting Interest of all the Members]. "Major Decisions" are the following:

(1) The transfer, exchange, or other disposition of all Company's assets, any significant portion thereof, or any significant interest in Company assets occurring as part of a single transaction or plan.

(2) The merger of Company with any other limited liability company, limited partnership, or corporation.

(3) Contracting on behalf of Company of any debt, obligation, or liability on behalf of Company of more than _____ [specify, e.g., $1,000], except for trade debt incurred in the ordinary course of Company's business and due within 12 months.

(4) Making any single expenditure in excess of _____ [specify, e.g., $10,000], or expenditures in any one year that in the aggregate are in excess of _____ [specify, e.g., $25,000].

(5) Approving the transfer of a Membership Interest and the admission of an Assignee as a Member.

(6) Amending the Articles or this Agreement.

(7) Performing any act that would make it impossible to carry on the ordinary business of Company.

(8) Making, executing, or delivering on behalf of Company any assignment for the benefit of creditors or any guarantee, indemnity bond, or surety bond, or any equivalent thereof.

(9) Lending funds belonging to Company to any third party or extending to any person, firm, or corporation, credit on behalf of Company, except in the ordinary course of business or as set forth in this Agreement.

(10) Changing the amount or character of Capital Contributions, or changing the character of the business of Company.

(11) Investing any funds of Company temporarily (by way of example and not imitation) in time deposits, short-term governmental obligations, commercial paper, or other investments.

(c) Members as Agent of Company. Every Member is an agent of Company for the purpose of its business, and for every other Member, for purposes of the execution in name of Company of any instrument for apparently carrying on in the usual way the business of Company and binds Company, unless that act is in contravention of the Articles or this Agreement, or unless the Member so acting otherwise lacks the authority to act for Company and the person with whom the Member is dealing knows or should have known that the Member has no such authority.

(d) Acts of Member as Conclusive Evidence of Authority. Every contract, deed, mortgage, lease and other instrument executed by at least [specify, e.g., two] Members is conclusive evidence in favor of every person relying on or claiming under the instrument that at the time of its delivery (1) Company was in existence, (2) neither this Agreement nor the Articles had been amended in any manner so as to restrict the delegation of authority among Members, and (3) the execution and delivery of the instrument was duly authorized by Members. Any person may always rely on a certificate addressed to him or her and signed by any two Members:

(1) As to who are the Members under this Agreement.

(2) As to the existence or non-existence of any fact that constitutes a condition precedent to acts by the Members or in any other manner germane to the affairs of Company.

(3) As to who is authorized to execute and deliver any instrument or document of Company.

(4) As to the authenticity of any copy of the Articles or this Agreement, including amendments, and any other document relating to the conduct of the affairs of Company.

(5) As to any act or failure to act by Company or as to any other matter whatsoever involving Company or any Member in Member's capacity as a Member or Manager.

5.04. Warranted Reliance by Members on Others. In performing their duties, the Members as Managers are entitled to rely on information, opinions, reports, or statements of the following persons or groups unless they have knowledge concerning the matter in question that would cause that reliance to be unwarranted:

(a) One or more employees or other agents of Company whom the Managers reasonably believe to be reliable and competent in the matters presented.

(b) Any attorney, public accountant, or other person as to matters which the Managers reasonably believe to be within that person's professional or expert competence.

(c) A committee on which the Member does not serve, duly designated in accordance with a provision of the Articles or this Agreement, as to matters within its designated authority, provided that the Members reasonably believe the committee merits competence.

5.05. Limitations on Liability of Members Acting as Managers. A Member acting as a Manager is not liable to Company or the other Members for any loss or damage resulting from any mistake of fact or judgment or any act or failure to act unless the mistake, act, or failure to act is the result of fraud, bad faith, gross negligence, or willful misconduct.

5.06. Deadlock. If the Members are deadlocked on any matter or any decision, the Members must promptly select a mutually acceptable unrelated and independent individual who will, after good faith discussions with the Members, resolve the deadlocked matter (including, if necessary, by causing his or her vote in favor of a proposed resolution). If the Members cannot agree on the selection of such an individual, any Member is entitled to request that an official of the local office of the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") appoint such an individual. That Member will promptly give written notice to the other Members that such request has been made (whereupon no other Member will be entitled to make a duplicative request to the AAA). In this event, the official of the AAA will be instructed to use his or her best efforts to appoint an individual who (1) is of good reputation and possesses [specify requisite experience, e.g., a minimum of five years experience as a senior executive of a retail company], and (2) has no prior relationship with either the requesting Member or Company. The appointed individual will, after good faith discussions with the Members, resolve the deadlocked matter (including, if necessary, by causing his or her vote in favor of a proposed resolution in the event that no consensus can be reached on the conclusion of these discussions). Company will indemnify and hold harmless any individual selected or appointed in accordance with the foregoing to the same extent that the person would be indemnified if he or she were a Member of Company. However, in no event will any such individual be designated or construed to be a Member of Company.

5.07. Annual Meeting of Members Not Required. The Members may but need not hold an annual meeting and may hold additional regular meetings. When held, the meetings must be noticed, held and conducted pursuant to the Act. Any action required or permitted to be taken by the Members at a meeting may be taken by the written consent of Members having not less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take that action at a meeting at which all Members entitled to vote on that action at a meeting were present and voted.

5.08. Special Meetings of Members

(a) Power to Call Special Meeting. Special meetings of Members for any purpose or purposes of addressing any matters on which Members may vote, unless otherwise proscribed by the Act or by the Articles, may be called on written demand of any Member or Members representing at least [specify, e.g., 10 percent] of the Voting Interests on any issue proposed to be considered.

(a) Date, Time, and Place of Special Meeting. Special meetings of Members for any purpose may be held at the date, time, and place within or without the State of California as stated in the notice of the meeting or in a duly executed and delivered waiver of notice, provided that notice of the meeting is given in accordance with Section 5.09, below .

5.09. Notices, Voting and Procedures at Meetings of Members.

(a) Required Notification of Meetings of Members. The Member or Members calling a meeting of Members will deliver or mail written notice to all Members stating the date, time, and place of any meeting of Members to each Member of record entitled to vote at the meeting, at the address as appears in the records of Company. In the case of a special meeting of Members or when otherwise required by law, the notice must contain a description of the purposes for which the meeting is called. Notice must be mailed _____[specify, e.g., at least 10 days but not more than 60 days before the date of the meeting]. A Member may waive notice of any meeting, before or after the date of the meeting, by delivering a signed waiver to Company for inclusion in the minutes of Company. A Member's attendance at any meeting of members, in person or by proxy (1) waives objection to lack of notice or defective notice of the meeting, unless the Member at the beginning of the meeting objects to holding the meeting or transacting business at the meeting, and (2) waives objection to consideration of a particular matter at the meeting that is not within the purposes described in the meeting notice, unless the Member objects to considering the matter when it is presented.

(b) Record Date for Eligibility of Members to Vote at Meetings of Members. The record date for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to notice of a meeting of Members, for demanding a special meeting of Members, for voting, or for taking any other action shall be the tenth day before the date of the meeting or other action.

(c) Quorum. At any meeting of the Members, the presence of Members entitled to cast at least [specify, e.g., 51 percent] of the total votes of all Members entitled to vote at the meeting constitutes a quorum.

(d) Voting by Members at Meetings of Members. A Member may appoint a proxy to vote or otherwise act for the Member pursuant to a written appointment form executed by the Member or the Member's duly authorized attorney-in-fact. An appointment of a proxy is effective when received by the Managers of Company. The general proxy of a fiduciary is given the same effect as the general proxy of any other Member. A proxy appointment is valid for eleven months unless otherwise expressly stated in the appointment form.

(e) Relative Weight of Votes of Members at Meetings of Members. At any meeting of Members, each Member entitled to vote will have a number of votes equal to the product of (1) the Member's percentage of Voting Interest as set forth in Exhibit A, as amended from time to time, multiplied by (2) one hundred. At any meeting of members, presence of Members entitled to cast at least 51 percent of the total votes of all Members entitled to vote at the meeting constitutes a quorum. Except for matters relating to the continuation of the business of Company on the occurrence of a condition of dissolution, action on a matter is approved if it receives approval by at least 51 percent of the total number of votes entitled to be cast by all Members in Company entitled to vote at the meeting or any greater number as may be required by law, the Articles, or this Agreement for the particular matter under consideration. On the occurrence of a Disassociation Event (as defined in Article 1), a Selling Member is not entitled to any vote in determining whether Company will purchase the interest of that Selling Member as permitted in Article 10 of this Agreement. Any Assignee of a Member's Interest is not entitled to vote or participate on any matters at any meeting unless that Assignee become a substitute Member as provided in Article 8 of this Agreement.

(f) Appointment of Chair and Secretary for Meetings of Members. At any annual or special meeting of Members, the Members will appoint a person to preside as chair at the meeting and a person to act as secretary of the meeting. The secretary of the meeting will prepare minutes of the meeting, which shall be placed in the minute books of Company.

(g) Consent by Members in Lieu of Meetings of Members. Subject to the applicable laws of the State of California, any action required or permitted to be taken at a Members' meeting may be taken without a meeting if the action is approved by the written consent of the Members entitled to vote on the action. The written consent must describe the action to be taken, be signed by all the Members entitled to vote on the action, and delivered to Company for inclusion in the Company minutes. The record date for determining Members entitled to take action without a meeting is the first date a Member signs the consent to that action.

[OPTIONAL]

(h) Telephonic Participation by Members at Meetings of Members. Any or all Members may participate in any annual or special Members' meeting by, or through the use of, any means of communication by which all Members participating may simultaneously hear each other during the meeting. A Member so participating is deemed to be present in person at the meeting of Members.

[If company will have officers, provide for their election, term, compensation, and powers and duties, see § 12C.227.]

ARTICLE 6 ALLOCATIONS OF NET PROFITS AND NET LOSSES AND DISTRIBUTIONS

PRACTICE TIP

These provisions should be drafted in consultation with the LLC's accountant.

6.01. Allocations of Net Profits and Net Losses.

(a) Definitions. As used in this Agreement, the following terms have the meanings set forth below:

(1) "Net Profit" and "Net Loss" means the income, gain, loss, deductions, and credits of Company in the aggregate or separately stated, as appropriate, determined in accordance with the method of accounting at the close of each fiscal year employed on Company's information tax return filed for federal income tax purposes; provided, that Net Profit and Net Loss do not include any items that are specially allocated pursuant to Section 6.02, below.

(2) "Fiscal Year" for Company means _____ [the calendar year or as specified elsewhere in agreement], unless and until changed to a different fiscal year with the consent of a Majority Interest of the Members.

(3) "Minimum Gain" means the excess of the fair market value of a Property over the tax basis of that Property, provided that Minimum Gain is never less than the excess of the amount by which the Nonrecourse Liability secured by a Property exceeds the tax basis of such Property.

(4) "Nonrecourse Liability" means any liability secured by a Property or Company assets with respect to which no Member (or a party closely related to or affiliated with the Member) is personally liable.

(b) Allocation of Net Loss. Net Loss will be allocated to the Members in proportion to their percentage interests. Notwithstanding the previous sentence, loss allocations to a Member will, to the extent possible, be made only to the extent that the loss allocations will not create a deficit Capital Account balance for that Member in excess of an amount, equal to that Member's share of Minimum Gain of Company (as defined above). Any loss not allocated to a Member because of the foregoing provision will be allocated to the other Members (to the extent the other Members are not limited pursuant to the allocation of losses stated above). Any loss reallocated under this Section 6.01(b) will be taken into account in computing subsequent allocations of income and losses pursuant to this Paragraph, so that the net amount of any item so allocated and the income and losses allocated to each Member pursuant to this Section 6.01, will be to the extent possible equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each Member pursuant to this Section 6.01 if no reallocation of losses had occurred.

(c) Net Profit. Net Profit will be allocated to the Members in proportion to their percentage interests.

6.02. Special Allocations. Although allocations different than those set forth in Section 6.01, above, are not anticipated, for federal tax purposes Company must follow certain special allocation rules in the event of unanticipated economic circumstances. Accordingly, notwithstanding Section 6.01:

(a) Minimum Gain Chargeback. If there is a net decrease in Company Minimum Gain occurs during any fiscal year, each Member must be specially allocated items of Company income and gain for that fiscal year (and, if necessary, in subsequent fiscal years) in an amount equal to the portion of that Member's share of the net decrease in Company Minimum Gain that is allocable to the disposition of Company property subject to a Nonrecourse Liability, which share of net decrease will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(g)(2). Allocations pursuant to this Paragraph will be made in proportion to the amounts required to be allocated to each Member under this Paragraph). The items to be so allocated will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(f). This Paragraph is intended to comply with the minimum gain chargeback requirement contained in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(f) and will be interpreted consistently with that Regulation.

(b) Chargeback of Minimum Gain Attributable to Member Nonrecourse Debt. If a net decrease in Company Minimum Gain attributable to a Member Nonrecourse Debt occurs during any fiscal year, each Member who has a share of the Company Minimum Gain attributable to that Member Nonrecourse Debt (which share will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg § 1.704-2(i)(5)) will be specially allocated items of Company income and gain for that fiscal year (and, if necessary, in subsequent fiscal years) in an amount equal to that portion of that Member's share of the net decrease in Company Minimum Gain attributable to that Member Nonrecourse Debt that is allocable to the disposition of Company property subject to that Member Nonrecourse Debt (which share of the net decrease will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg § 1.704-2(i)(5)). Allocations pursuant to this Section will be made in proportion to the amounts required to be allocated to each Member under this Article. The items to be so allocated will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg § 1.704-2(i)(4). This Subsection (b) is intended to comply with the minimum gain chargeback requirement contained in Treas. Reg § 1.704-2(i)(4) will be interpreted consistently with that Regulation.

(c) Nonrecourse Deductions. Any nonrecourse deductions (as defined in Treas. Reg § 1.704-2(b)(1)) for any fiscal year or other period will be specially allocated to the Members in proportion to their respective percentage interests.

(d) Member Nonrecourse Deductions. Those items of Company loss, deduction, or I.R.C. § 705(a)(2)(B) expenditures that are attributable to Member Nonrecourse Debt for any Fiscal Year or other period will be specially allocated to the Member who bears the economic risk of loss with respect to the Member Nonrecourse Debt to which the items are attributable in accordance with Treas. Reg § 1.704-2(i).

(e) Qualified Income Offset. If a Member unexpectedly receives any adjustments, allocations, or distributions described in Treas. Reg § 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d)(4), (5) or (6), or any other event creates a deficit balance in the Member's Capital Account in excess of that Member's share of Company Minimum Gain, items of Company income and gain will be specially allocated to that Member in an amount and manner sufficient to eliminate the excess deficit balance as quickly as possible. Any special allocations of items of income and gain pursuant to this Section will be taken into account in computing subsequent allocations of income and gain so that the net amount of any item so allocated and the income, gain, and losses allocated to each Member pursuant to this Section to the extent possible, will be equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each Member pursuant to the provisions of this Section 6.02(e) if the unexpected adjustments, allocations, or distributions had not occurred.

6.03. I.R.C. § 704(c) Allocations. Notwithstanding any other provision in this Article 6, in accordance with I.R.C. § 704(c) and the regulations promulgated under that section, income, gain, loss, and deduction with respect to any property contributed to the capital of the Company, solely for tax purposes, will be allocated among the Members so as to take account of any variation between the adjusted basis of the property to Company for federal income tax purposes and its fair market value on the date of contribution. Allocations pursuant to this Section 6.03 are solely for purposes of federal, state, and local taxes. As such, they do not affect or should in any way be taken into account in computing a Member's Capital Account or share of profits, losses, or other items or distributions pursuant to any provision of this Agreement.

6.04. Allocation of Net Profits and Losses and Distributions in Respect of Transferred Interests. If any Membership Interest is transferred, or is increased or decreased by reason of the admission of a new Member or otherwise, during any fiscal year of Company, Net Profits or Net Losses for that fiscal year will be assigned to the Members and other holders of Membership Interests according to any method permitted under I.R.C. § 706. Notwithstanding any provision above to the contrary, gain or loss of Company realized in connection with a sale or other disposition of any of the assets of Company will be allocated solely to the parties owning Membership Interests as of the date that the sale or other disposition occurs.

6.05. Distributions. Subject to applicable law and any limitations contained elsewhere in this Agreement, the Tax Matters Partner may, from time to time, cause Company to make distributions out of funds not needed for operations by Company. These distributions may be made in amounts and at such times as determined by the Tax Matters Partner. Distributions will be made to the Members in proportion to their Percentage Interests.

ARTICLE 7 ACCOUNTING, TAXES, AND BANKING

7.01. Accounting Decisions and Reliance on Others. The Members will make all decisions as to accounting matters, except as otherwise specifically set forth in this Agreement. The Members may rely on the advice of the independent accountants of Company as to whether those decisions are in accordance with accounting methods followed for federal income tax purposes.

7.02. Maintenance of Books and Records and Accounting. The Members will cause Company to keep proper and complete books of account of Company's business records, including all of Company's transactions. The records will be kept at Company's principal place of business and remain open to inspection by any of the Members or their authorized representatives at any reasonable time during business hours. The accounting records will be maintained in accordance with generally accepted bookkeeping practices for Company's type of business and those methods followed for federal and state income tax purposes.

7.03. Fiscal Year End. The fiscal year end of Company for financial reporting and for federal income tax purposes will be [e.g., December 31].

7.04. Bank Accounts. The Members as Managers have the fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of Company, whether or not in their immediate possession or control. The Members will cause Company's funds to be maintained in one or more separate bank accounts in the name of Company, and will not permit Company funds to be commingled in any fashion with the funds of any other person or the Members. Checks or drafts drawn on Company's accounts require the following signatures:

(a) Checks of [e.g., $5000] or less require the signature of any one Member, acting alone.

(b) Checks in amounts greater than [e.g., $5000] require the signature of at least two Members, acting together.

7.05. Tax Returns. The Members will cause to be prepared at least annually, at Company's expense, information necessary for the preparation of the Members' federal and state income tax returns. The Company will send or cause to be sent to each Member within 90 days after the end of each taxable year (1) the information necessary to complete federal and state income tax or information returns, and (2) a copy of the Company's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns for that year.

7.06. Tax Matters for Company. _____[Member name] is designated as the Tax Matters Partner ("TMP") for purposes of I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7) to represent Company, at Company's expense, in connection with all examinations of Company affairs by tax authorities and to expend Company funds for professional services and associated costs. The TMP has all authority granted by the Code. [Optional, to limit TMP's authority: However, _____ (name) may not take the following steps without first securing the unanimous consent of the members: _____ (specify, e.g., entering into a settlement with the Internal revenue Service that purports to bind Company)].

7.07. Annual Filing of List of Managers and Designation of Agent for Service of Process. The Members on behalf of Company will, within 90 days after filing the original Articles and annually thereafter on or before the last day of the month in which the anniversary date of the filing of the original Articles occurs in each year, file with the Secretary of State an annual statement on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State and enclose any required filing fee. The statement required to be filed must contain all of the information required by Corp. Code § 17060.

ARTICLE 8 TRANSFER OF MEMBERSHIP INTERESTS

8.01. General Prohibition on Transfers and Assignments of Membership Interests. Except for those Permitted Transfers (as defined below) no Member may transfer, assign, convey, sell, encumber, or in any way alienate all or any part of the Member's Interest in Company, except with the prior written approval of all Members, which approval may be given or withheld in the sole discretion of the Members. Transfers in violation of this Section 8.01 are effective only to the extent set forth in Section 8.04. After the consummation of any transfer, conveyance, assignment, sale, or encumbrance of any part of a Member's Interest in the Company, the Interest in the Company so transferred must comply with all of the provisions of this Agreement. Each Member acknowledges the reasonableness of this prohibition in view of the purposes of Company and the relationship of the Members.

8.02. Substitution of Members after Transfer of a Membership Interest. A transferee of an Interest has the right to become a substitute Member with full management, participation, and voting rights under this Agreement ONLY IF:

(a) The transferee is a Permitted Transferee as described in Exhibit C; or

(b) The existing Members unanimously consent to the transfer and the transferee executes an instrument satisfactory to the other Remaining Members accepting and adopting the terms and provisions of this Agreement, and that transferee pays any reasonable expenses in connection with the transferee's admission as a new Member.

An Assignee who becomes a substituted Member has, to the extent assigned, the rights and powers of a Member under the Articles, this Agreement, and the Act. An Assignee who becomes a substituted Member is also liable for obligations to contribute to capital and to return any unlawful distributions made to Assignee.

8.03. Effective Date of Permitted Transfers of a Membership Interest. Any permitted Transfer of all or any portion of an Interest in Company will take effect on the first day of the month following receipt by the other Remaining Members of written notice of transfer. Any Permitted Transferee of a Permitted transfer of an Interest in Company shall take subject to the restrictions on Transfer imposed by this Agreement.

8.04. Effect of Transfers of Interest in Violation of Agreement. On any transfer of an Interest in Company in violation of this Agreement, the transferee will have no right to participate in the management of the business and affairs of Company or to become a Member of Company. The transferee will hold only an Economic Interest and be entitled to an allocation of the share of Net Profits, Net Losses, distributions, and returns of capital to which the transferor of the Interest in Company would otherwise be entitled. In the event of an assignment that violates the terms of this Agreement, the assignor continues to be a Member and to have the power to exercise any rights and powers of a Member, including the right to vote until the assignee of an Interest in Company becomes a Member.

8.05. Pledge or Grant of Security Interest Not a Transfer. The pledge or granting of a security interest, lien, or other encumbrance in or against any or all of the Interest of a Member does not cause the Member to cease to be a Member or to grant anyone else the power to exercise any rights or powers of a Member.

ARTICLE 9 DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP

9.01. Company Dissolution. The Company will be dissolved, its assets disposed of, and its affairs wound up on the first of the following "Dissolution Event" to occur:

(a) The expiration of the period fixed for the duration of Company term as stated in its Articles, if so fixed;

(b) A determination by the unanimous written agreement of all Members that the Company be dissolved and wound up;

(c) The sale of all, or substantially all, of the assets of Company unless Members holding a Majority-In-Interest consent to the continuation of business by Company;

(d) The entry of a decree of judicial dissolution by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to Corp. Code § 17351;

(e) The happening of any event that makes it unlawful or impossible to carry on the business of the Company; or

(f) The occurrence of a Disassociation Event and the failure of either (1) Company or the Remaining Members to purchase the Interest of the Selling Member as provided in Article 10, or (2) the other Members to provide written consent for the transfer resulting in the occurrence of the Disassociation Event or (3) Members holding a Majority-In-Interest to provide written consent to the continuation of business of Company as provided in Section 9.07, below, provided in all cases that Company will have at least two remaining Members.

PRACTICE TIP

Although single member LLCs are now permitted in California, tax treatment will differ. Nevertheless, the above provision may be amended to permit a single member LLC with amended articles.

9.02. Filing of Statement of Intent to Dissolve Company. As soon as possible following the occurrence of any of the Dissolution Events specified in Section 9.01, above, the Members on behalf of Company will execute a Certificate of Dissolution in the form prescribed by the Secretary of State and file the certificate as required by the Act. On the filing of the Certificate of Dissolution, Company will cease to carry on its business, except insofar as may be necessary for the winding up of its business. Company's separate existence will continue until the Certificate of Cancellation of Articles is filed with the Secretary of State or until a decree dissolving Company is entered by a court of competent jurisdiction. The Members who filed the Certificate of Dissolution will cause to be filed in the office of, and on a form prescribed by, the Secretary of State, a Certificate of Cancellation of Articles on the winding up of the affairs of Company.

9.03. Winding Up the Affairs of Company. On the occurrence of any of the events specified in Section 9.01, above, Company will continue solely for the purpose of winding up its affairs in an orderly manner, liquidating its assets, disposing of and conveying its property, collecting and dividing its assets, satisfying the claims of its creditors, and prescribing and defending actions by or against company in order to collect and discharge obligations. No Member may take any action that is inconsistent with, or not necessary to or appropriate for, winding up the business and affairs of Company. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, all covenants and obligations in this Agreement will continue in full force and effect until the assets have been distributed and Company has been dissolved.

[OPTIONAL]

9.04. Responsibility for Winding up Affairs of Company. The Members will be responsible for overseeing the winding up and liquidation of Company, will take full account of the liabilities of Company and its assets, will cause written notice of the commencement of the dissolution be given to all of the Company's known creditors, will cause its assets to be liquidated as promptly as is consistent with obtaining their fair market value, and will cause the proceeds, to the extent sufficient, to be applied and distributed as next provided. The persons responsible for winding up the affairs of Company will give written notice of the commencement of winding up by mail for all known creditors and claimants whose addresses appear on the records of Company.

[OPTIONAL]

9.05. Order of Payment of Liabilities on Dissolution. In settling accounts of Company after dissolution, the Members will settle the liabilities of Company with payments in the following order, as required by the Act:

(a) To creditors other than Members, in the order of priority as provided by law, except those to Members of Company on account of their contributions;

(b) To creditors who are Members in order of priority except amounts owed to Members on account of their contributions;

(c) To Members in respect of their share of the Net Profits and other compensation by way of income on their contributions;

(d) To Members for return of their contributions; and

(e) To Members in accordance with the respective positive account capital balances after giving effect to all Capital Contributions, distributions, revaluations, and allocations required under this Agreement.

[OPTIONAL]

9.06. Limitations on Payments Made in Dissolution. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this Agreement, each Member is only entitled to look solely at the assets of Company for the return of that Member's positive Capital Account balance and has no recourse for that Member's Capital Contribution and / or share of Net Profits (on dissolution or otherwise) against any other Member. Managers or Members winding up the affairs of Company are entitled to reasonable compensation. All payments to the Members on the winding up and dissolution of Company will be strictly in accordance with the positive capital account balance limitation and other requirements of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d).

[CONTINUE]

9.07. Consequences of Disassociation Event; Consent to Continue Business of Company. On the occurrence of any Dissolution Event, as described in Section 9.01 above, Company will dissolve unless the remaining Members holding a Majority-In-Interest consent in writing to the continuation of the business of Company. If the Member whose actions or conduct constitute one or more of the Dissolution Events described in this Article ("Selling Member") or that Selling Member's trustees or heirs, rightfully demands the return of the Capital Account of a Member by a written notice to the remaining Members, Company (with consent in writing of the remaining Members holding a Majority-In-Interest) may, within six months following that written notice, purchase the Selling Member's Interest as provided in Article 10 to avoid dissolution of Company.

ARTICLE 10 OPTIONAL PURCHASE EVENTS

10.01. "Optional Purchase Event" Defined. An "Optional Purchase Event" means, with respect to any Member, any one or more of the following:

(a) The death, disability, or bankruptcy of a Member;

(b) The withdrawal, retirement, or resignation of a Member in violation of Article II of this Agreement;

(c) A Member becoming a Terminated Member;

(d) The occurrence of any event that is, or would cause, a transfer in contravention of this Agreement; or

(e) A Member filing an action seeking a decree of judicial dissolution pursuant to Corp. Code § 17351.

10.02. Purchase Option. On the occurrence of an Optional Purchase Event with respect to any Member ("Selling Member"), Company first and then the other Members ("Purchasing Members") have the option to purchase the Selling Member's Membership Interest ("Selling Member's Interest"). If the option is exercised, the Selling Member, or the Selling Member's legal representative will sell the Selling Member's Interest as provided in this Article 10. Each Member who causes an Optional Purchase Event or to whom an Optional Purchase Event occurs, must provide prompt notice of the Optional Purchase Event to the other Members.

10.03. Purchase Price. The purchase price for the Selling Member's Interest is the fair market value of the Selling Member's Membership Interest on the date of the Optional Purchase Event, as determined by an independent appraiser jointly selected by the Selling Member (or the Selling Member's legal representative) and the Purchasing Member.

If the Selling Member (or the Selling Member's legal representative) and Company or Purchasing Member are unable to agree on the selection of an appraiser within 30 days after the Optional Purchase Event, each will select an independent appraiser within 20 days after the expiration of the 30-day period. The two appraisers will each independently appraise the Selling Member's Interest. Provided that the difference in the two appraisals does not exceed [specify, e.g., 10 percent of the lower of the two appraisals], the fair market value is the average of the two appraisals and is binding on the parties. If either party fails to select an independent appraiser within the time required by this Section 10.03, the fair market value will be conclusively deemed to equal the appraisal of the independent appraiser timely selected by the other.

If the difference between the two appraisals referred to above exceeds [specify above percentage, e.g., 10 percent of the lower of the two appraisals], the two selected appraisers will select a third appraiser who will also independently appraise the Selling Member's Membership Interest. In this case, the fair market value of the Selling Member's Membership Interest will be the average of the two closest appraisals. The determination of these appraisals is binding on the parties and not subject to judicial review by arbitration. Company and the Selling Member will each pay one-half of the cost of the third appraisal.

In determining the fair market value, the appraisers selected under this Agreement will consider all opinions and relevant evidence submitted to them by the parties, or otherwise obtained by them. [Optional: The appraisers must also consider appropriate discounts for illiquidity and the minority status of the Selling Member's Interest.] The appraisers will set forth their determination in writing together with their opinions and the considerations on which the opinions are based, with a signed counterpart to be delivered to each party within 60 days after commencing the appraisal.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Optional Purchase Event results from a breach of this Agreement by the Selling Member, the purchase price will be reduced by 50 percent.

10.04. Notice of Intent to Purchase. Within five business days after the Selling Member receives the appraisals from which the purchase price of the Selling Member's Interest can be determined, the Selling Member will notify the Purchasing Member of that price in writing. Within 30 days after the Selling Member has notified the Purchasing Member of the purchase price of the Selling Member's Interest, the Purchasing Member will notify the Selling Member in writing of the Purchasing Member's desire to purchase the Selling Member's Interest. The failure of the Purchasing Member to submit a notice within the applicable period constitutes an election on the part of the Member not to purchase any of the Selling Member's Interest. The Purchasing Member may assign to Company or any other person that Purchasing Member's right to purchase the Selling Member's Interest. For convenience, the party or parties purchasing the Selling Member's Interest under this Agreement will be referred to collectively as the "Purchasers" and individually as a "Purchaser."

10.05. Election to Purchase Less Than All of the Selling Member's Interest. If the Purchasers do not elect to purchase all of the Selling Member's Interest, the portion of the interest not purchased will be an Economic Interest only.

10.06. Payment of Purchase Price. The purchase price will be paid by the Purchasers by either of the following methods, each of which may be selected separately by each Purchaser:

(a) At the Closing (as defined below), each Purchaser will pay in cash the total purchase price for the Selling Member's Interest; or

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 10.06, at the Closing (as defined below), each purchaser will pay one-fifth of the purchase price in cash ("Down Payment") and the balance of the purchase price (the "Loan") must be paid in arrears in equal monthly installments over a four-year period, based on a 48-month schedule, plus accrued interest at the Prime Rate. The Loan will be evidenced by separate promissory notes (each, a "Note") executed by each Purchaser, as applicable. Each Note will be in an original principal amount equal to the portion owed by the Purchaser. The Purchaser may prepay the Note in full or in part at any time without penalty. The Note will contain customary terms, including a provision for the payment of attorneys' fees if litigation is commenced to enforce the Note. Any Note made by a Purchaser will be secured by a pledge of that portion of the Selling Member's Interest Purchased by the Purchaser, and if the Purchaser is not a natural person, then the beneficial owners of the Purchaser will personally guarantee the Purchaser's payment obligations under the Note.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 10.06, if the event giving rise to the purchase of a Selling Member's Interest is the death of the Selling Member, the Down Payment will be increased to the amount of insurance proceeds, if any, actually received by Company from life insurance policies owned by Company insuring that Selling Member's life. However, at no time will the Down Payment exceed the purchase price determined pursuant to Section 10.03, above.

10.07. Closing of Purchase of Selling Member's Interest. Unless court approval is required, the closing ("Closing") for the sale of a Selling Member's Interest pursuant to this Article 10 will be held at 10:00 a.m. at the principal office of the Company no later than 60 days after the determination of the purchase price, except that if the Closing date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, then the closing will be held on the next succeeding business day. If Court approval is required, (1) the Closing of the sale of a Selling Member's Interest will occur not later than five business days after entry of the order approving that sale; (2) the Company will file the application seeking Court approval within 30 days after the determination of the purchase price; and (3) the parties to the Court proceeding will make every effort to obtain the Court's approval in an expeditious manner. At the Closing, the Selling Member will deliver to each Purchaser an instrument of transfer (containing warranties of title and no encumbrances) conveying the Selling Member's Interest. The Selling Member and each Purchaser will do all things and execute and deliver all papers as may be reasonably necessary fully to consummate the sale and purchase in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

10.08. Purchase Terms Varied by Agreement. Nothing contained in this Article 10 is intended to prohibit Members from agreeing on terms and conditions for the purchase by Company or any Member of the Interest of any Member in Company desiring to retire, withdraw or resign, in whole or in part, as a Member (on the terms and conditions as may be agreed on by the Selling Member and Company or the remaining Members as the case may be). Nothing contained in this Agreement is intended to limit or otherwise affect the ability of a Member to demand a return of the Member's contribution to Company as provided in the Act.

ARTICLE 11 INDEMNIFICATION

PRACTICE TIP

Indemnifying members and managers is optional. If the operating agreement will provide for indemnification, that fact must also be stated in the articles of organization filed with the Secretary of State [see § 12C.219].

11.01. Indemnification of Members And Managers. To the greatest extent not inconsistent with the Act and the other laws and public policies of the State of California, Company will indemnify against expenses and liabilities any Member or Manager made a party or who was threatened to be made a party to any proceeding by Company or another because that party is or was a Member or Manager against all liability incurred by that person in connection with any action, suit, or proceeding, or any threatened, pending, or complete action of suit or proceeding; whether civil, criminal, administrative, or investigative pursuant to the procedures set forth in Section 11.06, below, it is determined that indemnification of that person is permissible under the circumstances because the person has met the standards of conduct for indemnification set forth in Section 11.05, below.

11.02. Advance Undertakings for Indemnification. To the greatest extent not inconsistent with the Act and other laws and public policies of the State of California, Company will pay for or reimburse the reasonable expenses incurred by a Member or Manager in connection with any proceeding as incurred in advance of final disposition of the action, suit, or proceeding if (1) the person furnishes Company a written affirmation of the person's good faith belief that the Member or Manager has met the standards of conduct for indemnification described in Section 11.05, below; (2) the Member or Manager furnishes Company a written undertaking to repay the advance if it is ultimately determined by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Member or Manager did not meet the applicable standard of conduct and that the Member or Manager is not entitled to be indemnified; and (3) a determination is made in accordance with the procedures set forth in Section 11.06, below , that, based on facts then known to those making the determination, indemnification would not be precluded under this Article 11.

The undertaking described above must be a general obligation of the Member or Manager, subject to any reasonable limitations as Company may permit, but need not be secured and may be accepted without reference to financial ability to make repayment. Company will indemnify a Member or Manager who is wholly successful, on the merits or otherwise, in the defense of any such proceeding, as a matter of right, against reasonable expenses incurred by the Member or Manager in connection with the proceeding without the requirement of a determination described in Section 11.06, below.

11.03. Advancement of Expenses. On demand by a Member or Manager for indemnification or advancement of expenses incurred in defending a civil or criminal lawsuit or proceeding, Company will expeditiously determine whether the Member or Manager is entitled to indemnification or advancement of expenses in accordance with this Article 11. The indemnification and advancement of expenses provided for under this Article 11 will be applicable to any proceeding arising from acts or omissions occurring before or after the adoption of this Agreement.

11.04. Indemnification of Others. Company may, but is not required, to indemnify any person who is or was an employee or agent of Company to the same extent as if that person was a Member or Manager.

11.05. Standards of Conduct Required for Indemnification. Indemnification of a Manager or Member is permissible under this Article only if (1) the person acted in good faith, and (2) the person reasonably believed that the conduct was in Company's best interest; and (3) in the case of any criminal proceeding, the person had no reasonable cause to believe that the person's conduct was unlawful. The termination of a proceeding by judgment, order, settlement, conviction, or on a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent is not, in itself, determinative that the person did not meet the standard of conduct described in this Section 11.05.

11.06. Procedures to Approve Indemnification. A determination as to whether indemnification of or advancement of expenses is permissible will be made by any one of the following procedures:

(a) By the Members not at the time parties to the proceedings holding a Majority-In-Interest; or

(b) By the Members or Managers not parties to the proceedings in the manner prescribed in Section 11.07, below.

11.07. Court Order of Indemnification. A Member or Manager who is a party to a proceeding may apply for indemnification from Company to the court, if any, conducting the proceeding or to another court of competent jurisdiction. On receipt of an application, the court, after giving notice the court considers necessary, may order indemnification if the court determines either of the following:

(a) In a proceeding in which the Member or Manager is wholly successful, on the merits or otherwise, that the Member or Manager is entitled to indemnification under this Section 11.07, in which case the court will order Company to pay the Member or Manager the reasonable expenses incurred to obtain that court ordered indemnification; or

(b) The Member or Manager is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnification in view of all the relevant circumstances, regardless of whether the Member or Manager met the standards of conduct set forth in Section 11.05, above.

11.08. Described Indemnification Rights Are Non-Exhaustive. Nothing contained in this Article 11 limits or precludes the exercise, or may be deemed exclusive, of any right under the law, by contract or otherwise, relating to indemnification of or advancement of expenses to any person who is or was a Member or Manager, or is or was serving at Company's request as a director, officer, partner, manager, trustee, employee, or agent of another foreign or domestic company, partnership, association, limited liability company, corporation, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan, or other enterprise, whether for profit or not.

11.09. Construction of Indemnification Rights. Nothing contained in this Article 11 limits the ability of Company to otherwise indemnify or advance expenses to any person. It is the intent of this Article 11 to provide indemnification to Members and Managers to the fullest extent now or hereafter permitted by the law consistent with the terms and conditions of this Article 11. Indemnification will be provided in accordance with this Article 11 irrespective of the nature of the legal or equitable theory on which a claim is made including, without limitation, negligence, breach of duty, mismanagement, waste, breach of contract, breach of warranty, strict liability, violation of federal or state securities law, violation of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended, or violation of any other state or federal law.

11.10. Definitions for Indemnification Provisions.

(a) "Expenses" mean all direct and indirect costs (including, without limitation, attorney fees, retainers, court costs, transcripts, expert fees, witness fees, travel expenses, duplicating costs, printing and binding costs, facsimile charges, telephone charges, postage, messenger and delivery fees, and all other out-of-pocket expenses) actually incurred in connection with the investigation, defense, settlement, or appeal of a proceeding or establishing or enforcing a right to indemnification under this Section 11.10, applicable law, or otherwise.

(b) "Liabilities" mean obligations (including those incurred by way of settlement) to pay a judgment, settlement, penalty, fine, excise tax (including an excise tax assessed with respect to an employee benefit plan), or reasonable expenses incurred with respect to a proceeding.

(c) "Party" means a person who was or is threatened to be made a named defendant in a proceeding.

(d) "Proceeding" means any threatened, pending, or completed action, suit, or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative, or investigative and whether formal or informal.

11.11. Insurance Funding of Indemnification. To the greatest extent not inconsistent with the Act and other laws and public policies of the State of California, Company may purchase and maintain insurance or other financial arrangement for the benefit of any person who is or was a Member, Manager, employee, or agent, against any liability asserted against or expenses incurred by that person arising out of that person's service with Company, whether or not Company would have the power to indemnify that person against liability. These other financial arrangements made by Company may include:

(a) Insurance.

(b) The creation of a trust fund.

(c) The establishment of a program of self-insurance.

(d) The granting of a security interest or other lien on any assets of the Company.

(e) The establishment of a letter of credit, guaranty or surety.

None of the above may, however, provide protection for a person adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction, after exhaustion of all appeals, to be liable for intentional misconduct, fraud, or a knowing violation of law, except with respect to the advancement of expenses or indemnification ordered by a court. Any insurance or other financial arrangement made on behalf of a person pursuant to this Section 11.11 may be provided by Company or other person approved by the Members.

ARTICLE 12 MISCELLANEOUS

12.01. Additional Documents and Acts. Each Member agrees to execute and deliver additional documents and instruments and to perform additional acts as may be necessary or appropriate to effectuate, carry out, and perform the 12.04. Binding Effect. Subject to the provisions of this Agreement relating to transferability, this Agreement is binding on and inures to the benefit of the Members, and their respective transferees, successors, and assigns, but only to the extent that assignment and approval by all Members is in accordance with the Act, the Articles, and this Agreement.

This arbitration clause, however, will not deprive the parties of any right they may otherwise have to seek provisional injunctive relief from a court of competent jurisdiction. Notice of demand for arbitration shall be filed in writing with the other parties to this Agreement and with the AAA, and that notice must set forth the demanding party's position as to the matter or matters in dispute, the amount of damages being sought, and any other relief sought. The parties will ask the arbitrator to limit discovery to the greatest extent possible consistent with basic fairness. 12.10. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in several counterparts, each of which will be deemed an original, but all of which will constitute one and the same instrument.

12.11. Parties In Interest. This Agreement is made solely and specifically among and for the benefit of the parties, and their respective successors and assigns subject to the express provisions relating to successors and assigns, and no other person will have any rights, interest, or claims under this Agreement or be entitled to any benefits on account of this Agreement as a third party beneficiary or otherwise.

12.12. Agreement Not For Benefit of Creditors. The provisions of this Agreement are intended only for the regulation of relations among the Members and Company. This Agreement is not intended for the benefit of a creditor who is not a Member and does not grant any rights to or confer any benefits on any creditor who is not a Member or any other person who is not a Member, a Manager, or an officer.

12.13. Notices. Any notice to be given or to be served on Company or any party to this Agreement in connection with this Agreement must be in writing and is deemed to have been given and received when delivered to the address specified by the party to receive the notice. [CONTINUE]

12.15. Severability. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be illegal, invalid, or unenforceable under the present or future laws effective during the term of this Agreement, that provision will be fully severable. This Agreement will be construed and enforced as if the illegal, invalid, or unenforceable provision had never comprised a part of this Agreement; the remaining provisions of this Agreement will remain in full force and effect and will not be affected by the illegal, invalid, or unenforceable provision or by its severance from this Agreement. Furthermore, the parties agree to replace any illegal, invalid, or unenforceable provision of this Agreement with a similar valid and enforceable provision that will achieve, to the fullest extent possible, the economic, business, and other purposes of the void or unenforceable provision.

12.16. Specific Performance. The Members agree that they will not have an adequate remedy at law if this Agreement is not performed in accordance with its terms, and that any damages available at law for breach of this Agreement would not be an adequate remedy. Therefore, the provisions and the obligations of the Members under this Agreement are enforceable by a decree of specific performance, and appropriate injunctive relief may be applied for and granted in connection therewith. These remedies and all other remedies provided for in this Agreement are cumulative and not exclusive and are in addition to any other remedies that a Member may have under this Agreement.

12.18. Interpretation. Each party to this Agreement acknowledges that it has participated in the drafting of this Agreement, and any applicable rule of construction to the effect that ambiguities are to be resolved against the drafting party shall not be applied in connection with the construction or interpretation of this Agreement.

EXHIBIT D
ALLOCATION OF NET PROFITS, NET LOSS, MINIMUM GAIN, AND OTHER COMPANY ITEMS

A. Allocation of Net Profits. Except as otherwise provided elsewhere under this Agreement and after first giving effect to the special allocations in Paragraphs C through L, below, Net Profits for any fiscal year will be allocated to each Member in accordance with the Member's Percentage Interest in Net Profits as set forth in Exhibit B. Subject to any limitations described elsewhere in this Agreement, including but not limited to Paragraphs M and N, below, the above allocation of Net Profits may be modified by subsequent agreement to conform to adjustments made to the Percentage Interest in Net Profits because of loans converted to Capital Contributions, any distributions of cash, and any liquidating distribution. If a Member's Percentage Interest in Net Profits is not the same throughout a given fiscal year, the Members will determine the allocation of Net Profits by taking into account this varying Percentage Interest during the year but this determination will be in conformity with the requirements of I.R.C. § 706(d) and the regulations thereunder.

"Net Profits" refers to all items of income (including all items of gain and including income exempt from tax) as properly determined for book purposes. Net Profits will be determined based on the book value of the assets of Company as set forth on the books of Company in accordance with the principles of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(g). Otherwise Net Income and loss will be determined strictly in accordance with Federal income tax principles (including rules governing depreciation and amortization), applied hypothetically based on values of Company assets as set forth on the books of Company.

B. Allocation of Net Losses. Except as otherwise provided under this Agreement and after giving effect to the special allocations in Paragraphs C through L, below, Net Losses for any fiscal year will be allocated to each Member accordance with his, her or its Percentage Interest in Net Losses set forth in Exhibit B. Subject to any limitations described elsewhere in this Agreement, including but not limited to Paragraphs M and N, below, the above allocation of Net Losses may be modified by subsequent agreement to conform to adjustments made to the Percentage Interest in Net Losses because of loans converted to Capital Contributions, any distributions of cash and any liquidation distributions. If a Member's Percentage Interest in Net Losses is not the same throughout a given fiscal year, the Members will determine the allocation of Net Losses to the Member by taking into account his varying Percentage Interest in Net Losses during the year but this determination will be in conformity with the requirements of I.R.C. § 706(d) and the regulations thereunder.

"Net Losses" refers to all items of loss (including deductions) as properly determined for book purposes. Net Losses will be determined based on the value of the assets of Company as set forth on the books of Company in accordance with the principles of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(g). Otherwise, Net Losses will be determined strictly in accordance with federal income tax principles (including rules governing depreciation and amortization) applied hypothetically based on values of Company assets as set forth on the books of Company.

C. Allocation of Company Minimum Gain. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, if there is a net decrease in Company Minimum Gain for a Company taxable year, then each Member will be allocated items of income and gain for that year (and, if necessary, for subsequent years) in proportion to, and to the extent of, an amount equal to the greater of (1) the portion of that Member's share of the net decrease in Company Minimum Gain during the year that is allocable to the disposition of Company property subject to one nor more Nonrecourse Liabilities of Company and (2) the deficit balance in such Member's capital account at the end of that year. These allocations must be made before any other allocation of Company items for the year. For the purpose of this Paragraph, the balance in a Members's capital account at the end of the year will be determined with the adjustments prescribed by Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1T(b)(4)(iv)(e)(2). These allocations must be made in accordance with the provisions of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1T(b)(4)(iv)(e). Company Minimum Gain will be defined and determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(d).

D. Allocation of Member's Share of Minimum Gain. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or this Exhibit D, if there is a net decrease during a Company taxable year in the Member's Share of Minimum Gain, then any Member with a share of the Minimum Gain at the beginning of that year will be allocated items of Company income and gain for that year (and, if necessary, subsequent years) in proportion to, and to the extent of, an amount equal to the greater of (1) the portion of that Member's share of the net decrease in the Minimum Gain that is allocable to the disposition of Company property subject to the Member's Nonrecourse Debt, and (2) the deficit balance in such Member's capital account at the end of that year. The items of Company income and gain allocated by this Exhibit D shall not include any items of income or gain allocated pursuant to the Paragraph above. The allocations under this Paragraph D must be made before any other allocation of Company items for the year. For the purpose of this Paragraph, the balance in a Member's capital account at the end of the year will be determined with the adjustments prescribed by, and the allocations under this Exhibit D will be made in accordance with, the provisions of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1T(b)(4)(iv)(h)(4). Member's share of Minimum Gain shall be defined and determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(d).

E. Allocation of Net Profits and Gains Under Qualified Income Offset. Items of Net Profits and gain will be specially allocated to each Member in an amount and manner sufficient to eliminate, to the extent required by the Regulations, the Adjusted Capital Account Deficit of the Member determined under Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d) as quickly as possible in the event any Member unexpectedly receives any (1) distributions that, as of the end of that year, reasonably are expected to be made to a Member to the extent they exceed offsetting increases to that Member's capital account that reasonably are expected to occur during (or before) Company taxable years in which such distributions reasonably are expected to be made (other than increases pursuant to a minimum gain chargeback of this Agreement); or (2) adjustments, allocations, or distributions described in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d)(4), (5) or (6). This subparagraph is intended to comply with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d) and should be so interpreted.

F. Allocation of Nonrecourse Deductions. Company Nonrecourse Deductions will be allocated to the Member, if any, that bears the economic risk of loss for the Member Nonrecourse Debt to which the Member Nonrecourse Deductions are attributable. If more than one Member bears the economic risk of loss for a Member Nonrecourse Debt, the Nonrecourse Deduction attributable to such Member Nonrecourse Debt shall be allocated among those Members in accordance with the ratios in which the Members share the economic risk of loss for that Nonrecourse Debt. Otherwise, Nonrecourse Deductions shall be allocated in the same manner as, and be subject to the same restrictions imposed upon Net Losses. Member Nonrecourse Debt is defined and determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(b)(4). Company Nonrecourse Deductions shall be defined and determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(b) and (c).

G. Allocation of Income, Gains and Losses Related to Contributed Property. In accordance with I.R.C. § 704(c) and the regulations thereunder, income, gain, loss, and deduction with respect to any property contributed to the capital of Company will, solely for tax purposes, be allocated among the Members so as to take account of any variation between the adjusted basis of that property to Company for federal income tax purposes and its initial gross fair market value. In the event that the initial gross fair market value of any Company asset is adjusted, subsequent allocations of income, gain, loss, and deduction with respect to that asset must take account of any variation between the adjusted basis of such asset for federal income tax purposes and its initial gross fair market value under one of the methods allowed under I.R.C. § 704(c) and the Regulations thereunder. Any elections or other decisions relating to these allocations must be made by the Managers in any manner that reasonably reflects the purpose and intention of this Agreement. Allocations pursuant to this Paragraph G are solely for purposes of federal, state, and local taxes and do not affect, or should in any way be taken into account in computing, any member's Capital Account or share of Net Profits, Net Losses, or other items or distributions pursuant to any other provision of this Agreement.

H. Allocation of Gain and Loss from Sale or Other Disposition of Property Not Revalued. If, in connection with the admission of an additional Member to Company or the liquidation of a Member's Interest in Company, Company property is not revalued pursuant to Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(f) and the Members' capital accounts are not adjusted accordingly, then, on any subsequent sale or other disposition of Company property, gain or loss recognized on the sale or other disposition must be allocated among the Members so as to take into account the variation between the adjusted basis of the property and its fair market value as of the date the additional Member was admitted or the date the Member's Interest was liquidated, as the case may be, in the same manner as under I.R.C. § 704(c).

I. Allocation of Gains and Losses Related to Adjustments in Tax Basis. To the extent an adjustment to the adjusted tax basis of any Company asset pursuant to I.R.C. § 734(b) or I.R.C. § 743(b) is required, pursuant to Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(m), to be taken into account determining Capital Accounts, the amount of the adjustment to the Capital Accounts will be treated as an item of gain (if the adjustment increases the basis of the asset) or loss (if the adjustment decreases such basis), and the gain or loss will be specially allocated to the Members in a manner consistent with the manner in which their Capital Accounts are required to be adjusted pursuant to Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(m).

J. Allocation to Avoid Adjusted Capital Account Deficit. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article, no Member will receive an allocation of Net Losses, net capital losses, Nonrecourse Deductions as defined in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(b) and (c), or any other item of loss or deduction that would create or increase an Adjusted Capital Account Deficit of the Member. Any loss, or item thereof, that cannot be allocated to a Member as a result of the foregoing limitation will be allocated to all Members. Any loss, or item thereof, allocated to all Members pursuant to the preceding sentence must be taken into account in computing subsequent allocations of Net Profits or Losses or Net Capital Gain or Loss so that the net amount of any items so allocated and the profits, losses and all other items allocated to each Member will, to the extent possible, be equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each Member if the allocations required by the preceding sentence had not been made.

K. Allocation of Gross Income to Restore Capital Account Deficit. In the event any Member has a distribution in the Member's Capital Account at the end of any fiscal year that exceeds of the sum of (1) the amount that the Member is obligated to restore pursuant to any provision of this Agreement, and (2) the amount the Member is deemed to be obligated to restore pursuant to the penultimate sentences of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(g)(1) and Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(i)(5), that Member will be specially allocated items of income and gain in the amount of that excess as quickly as possible, provided that an allocation pursuant to this subparagraph will be made only if and to the extent that the Member would have a Capital Account with a deficit balance in excess of that sum after all other allocations provided for in this Exhibit D have been made as if Paragraph E, above, relating to allocations under a qualified income offset and this subparagraph were not in this Agreement.

L. Allocation of Capital Event Adjustments and Subsequent Effects. To the extent the gross fair market value of any asset of Company is increased or decreased for a "capital event" as described in Section 4.03 of this Agreement relating to Capital Account adjustments for special events, any resulting book gain or loss will be allocated as required for capital account purposes and subsequent allocations of income, gain, loss, or deduction with respect to that asset will take into account any difference between the adjusted basis of that asset for federal income tax purposes and its gross fair market value.

M. Allocation of Net Profits and Net Losses Consistent with Distributions. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Net Profits and Net Losses will be allocated in a manner that is consistent with the requirements for distributions of cash described elsewhere in this Agreement, the requirements for distribution of assets of Company on its dissolution and winding up strictly in accordance with capital account balances determined in accordance with these procedures described below, and the requirements for the allocations to comply with applicable regulations under I.R.C. § 704(b).

N. Allocation of Income, Gain, Losses, and Deductions to Comply with Regulations and Intentions of Members. If the allocations described above are not consistent with the manner in which Members intend to divide Company distributions, the Members are hereby authorized to divide and allocate Net Profits, Net Losses, and other items among Members so as to prevent the allocations from distorting the manner in which the Members intend the Company distributions to be divided among Members, but in a manner consistent with the requirements of Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(v). In general, Members anticipate that this division will be accomplished by specially allocating other Net Profits, Net Losses, and items of income, gain, loss, and deduction among the Members so that the net amount of the allocations and special allocations to each Member is zero. If, for whatever reason, the Members determine that the allocation provisions of this Agreement are unlikely to be respected for federal income tax purposes, the Managers are granted the authority to amend the allocation provisions of this Agreement, to the minimum extent necessary to effect the plan of allocations and distributions provided in this Agreement. Further, Managers have the discretion to adopt and revise rules, conventions, and procedures as they believe appropriate in any reasonable manner with respect to the admission of Members to reflect the Members' Interests in Net Profits, Net Losses and other items in Company at the close of the year.

O. Order for Applying Allocation Provisions. The allocation provisions shall be applied in the following order from first to last:

(1) Allocation of company minimum gain as required by Paragraph C;

(2) Allocation of member's share of Minimum Gain as required by Paragraph D;

(3) Allocation of Net Profits and gains under qualified income offset as required by Paragraph E;

(4) Allocation of Nonrecourse Deductions as required by Paragraph F;

(5) Allocation of income, gains, or losses related to contributed property as required by Paragraph G;

(6) Allocation of gain and loss from sale or other disposition of property not revalued as required by Paragraph H;

(7) Allocation of Net Profits as required by Paragraph A;

(8) Allocation of Net Losses as required by Paragraph B;

(9) Allocation of gains and losses related to adjustment in tax basis as required by Paragraph I;

(10) Allocations to avoid Adjusted Capital Account Deficit as required by Paragraph J;

(11) Allocation of gross income to restore capital account deficit as required by Paragraph K;

(12) Allocation of capital account adjustments and subsequent effects as required by Paragraph L;

(13) Allocation of Net Profits and Net Losses consistent with distributions as required by Paragraph M;

(14) Allocation of Net Profits, income gains, Net Losses, and deductions to comply with regulations and intentions of Members as required by Paragraph N.

(e) Duties and Powers of Vice-President. The vice-president, or, if more than one, the vice-presidents in the order determined by a resolution of the Members, will, in the absence or disability of the president, perform the duties and exercise the powers of the president and perform any other duties and have any other powers as the Members by resolution may from time to time prescribe.

If required by a resolution of the Members, the treasurer will give Company a bond in the amount and with surety or sureties that will be satisfactory to the Members for the faithful performance of the duties of the treasurer's office and for the restoration to Company, in case of the treasurer's death, resignation, retirement, or removal from office, of all books, papers, vouchers, money, and other property of whatever kind in the treasurer's possession or under the treasurer's control that belong to Company.

§ 12C.228 Provisions for Marital Dissolution

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision governing the effects of marital dissolution, as defined, on the ownership of membership interests. First, the form requires that membership interests be allocated in any property division resulting form a marital dissolution to the extent possible to the member and not the member's spouse [see [2], P A, below]. Next, the member has a 90-day purchase option to purchase any portion of the spouse's interest remaining with the non-member spouse [see [2], P B, below]. If the member spouse does not purchase all of the membership interest, the member must notify the company, which then has an assignable option to purchase and redeem the remaining interest [see [2], P C, below]. The form also specifies a purchase procedure [see [2], P D, below] and a method to determine the applicable purchase price [see [2], P E, below]. Lastly, if the company and members do not exercise their option as to all of the former spouse's membership interest, the form provides that the former spouse continued to hold the membership interest, subject to the provisions of the agreement.

[2] FORM

Provisions for Marital Dissolution

_____ Dissolution of Marriage.

(a) Marital Dissolution. Any Membership Interest subject to transfer, disposition, or allocation in connection with a marital settlement agreement, legal separation, dissolution of marriage, or annulment of marriage ("Marital Dissolution"), as to the entire interest, community or separate, of any Member and any Member's spouse, will be allocated in the property division to the extent possible to the Member and not the Member's spouse ("Former Spouse"). If, however, a Former Spouse receives, retains, or is awarded any Membership Interest, the Former Spouse will promptly give notice of that fact to Company, and Company and/or the Members other than the Former Spouse will have the right to purchase, and the Former Spouse will be obligated to sell, that Former Spouse's Membership Interest as provided in this Section _____.

(b) Spouse's Option to Buy Former Spouse's Interest. In the event of a Marital Dissolution (and notwithstanding Section _____ [specify section of agreement covering notice of intent to purchase]), the Member spouse in the Marital Dissolution will have the option, exercisable for a period of 90 days following Marital Dissolution (or the transfer of the Membership Interest pursuant to the Marital Dissolution, if later), to purchase any or all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest at the price and terms provided in this Section _____.

(c) Company's Option to Purchase. If, for any reason, the Member spouse does not exercise the option to purchase all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest within 90 days after the Marital Dissolution (or the transfer of the Membership Interest pursuant to the Marital Dissolution, if later), the Member spouse will promptly give notice of that fact to Company and the remaining Members. Company will have the assignable option, exercisable at any time thereafter, to purchase and redeem any or all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest at the price and on the terms provided in this Section _____.

(d) Purchase Procedure. A purchase of the Membership Interest of a Former Spouse pursuant to this Section _____ will be initiated by Company or the Member exercising the Company's right as assignee by providing a notice of intent to purchase to the Manager and the Former Spouse. Within 30 days following the determination of the purchase price pursuant to Subparagraph E, below, Company or Member who filed the notice of intent to purchase will, by written notice to the Former Spouse, either confirm or withdraw that notice. If the notice of intent to purchase is confirmed, the closing for the sale of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest will be held pursuant to the procedure for closing of sale of a Former Member's Interest under Section _____ of this Agreement.

(e) Determination of Purchase Price. The purchase price of a Former Spouse's Membership Interest will be determined pursuant to the method set forth in Section _____ of this Agreement; provided that the determination of the purchase price will be initiated by a notice of intent to purchase and all deadlines will be measured from the date of that notice rather than from the notice of a Triggering Event; and, further provided that the purchase price will be determined as of the Marital Dissolution, unless the notice of intent to purchase is given more than 180 days after the Marital Dissolution, in which event, the determination will be made as of the date notice of intent to purchase is given.

(f) Effect of Failure to Exercise Purchase Option. If Company and the Members collectively do not exercise their option as to all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest, then the Former Spouse will continue to hold the Membership Interest subject to the provisions of this Agreement, including the terms of Section _____, which sets forth conditions on the right of the Former Spouse to become a substitute Member.

§ 12C.230 Agreement of Merger

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement of merger between two California LLCs, resulting in a surviving LLC. This form may be modified to provide for the merger of any other number of LLCs, or to provide for the merger of other types of entities into a successor LLC. For more detailed agreements of merger, which may be modified for use with LLCs, see Ch. 11C, Mergers , and Ch. 15C, Mergers of Limited Partnerships .

For further discussion of merger, see § 12C.25. For a procedural guide to merger of LLCs, see § 12C.126[1]. Dissenters' rights forms relating to merger, including a notice of approval of reorganization and demand for purchase of a dissenting interest, are provided in §§ 12C.231 and 12C.232.

[b] Types of Entities That May Merge

One or more LLCs may merge with or be acquired by an LLC or any other business entity or entities if the other entity or entities are authorized to do so by their governing law [Corp. Code § 17550(a), (b)]. This applies to domestic as well as foreign LLCs and other business entities [Corp. Code § 17555].

[c] Procedure for Merger

For an effective merger, each constituent LLC must first approve an agreement of merger [see [d], below (contents of agreement)] by a majority vote (or greater percentage specified in the articles or operating agreement), and each other merging entity must approve that agreement by the persons required to do so by the laws under which it is organized. If the members of a constituent LLC become personally liable for obligations of the constituent LLC because of the merger, the principal terms of the agreement of merger must be approved by all the members of the LLC unless the agreement provides that all members will have dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 17551(a); see §§ 12C.231, 12C.232]. An agreement of merger may be amended or abandoned [Corp. Code § 17551(c), (d)]. The agreement of merger must be kept at the office of the surviving LLC or other business entity [Corp. Code § 17551(f)].

Specific rules must be followed concerning treatment of interests in LLCs in mergers involving their parents or other entities owning more than 50 percent of the voting interests in the LLC [Corp. Code § 17551(b)].

After approval of a merger, the constituent LLCs or other business entities must file a certificate of merger (Form LLC-9) with the office of the Secretary of State. The certificate of merger must be executed and acknowledge by specified persons of each constituent LLC or other business entity [Corp. Code § 17552(a); see § 12C.207 (form for certificate of merger)]. Unless a future effective date is provided by the certificate of merger, the merger is effective on the filing of the certificate of merger (or agreement of merger) in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17553(a)]. On the effective date of merger, existence of the disappearing business entities ceases, and the surviving entity succeeds automatically to the rights, property, debts, and liabilities of the disappearing entities [Corp. Code § 17554]. Filing the certificate of merger has the effect of filing a certificate of cancellation or articles of organization for each disappearing LLC; no separate certificate of cancellation need be filed [Corp. Code § 17552(c)].

An agreement of merger may amend the operating agreement of a constituent LLC, or adopt a new operating agreement for a constituent LLC, if it is the surviving LLC in the merger. The amendment or adoption takes effect at the effective time or date of the merger. However, if a greater number of members is required to approve an amendment to the operating agreement of the constituent LLC than is required to approve the agreement of merger, any amendment or adoption takes effect if the vote of the constituent LLC in favor of the merger is at least as great as the vote required to amend the operating agreement of that LLC [Corp. Code § 17551(e)].

Both the merger procedures and the rules governing dissenting interests are similar to the rules applicable to mergers and reorganizations of business corporations and limited partnerships [see Corp. Code §§ 1200 et seq., 15678.1 et seq., 15679.1 et seq., 15911.11 et seq., 15911.20 et seq.].

[d] Contents of Agreement of Merger

The agreement of merger must contain all of the following information [Corp. Code § 17551(a)(1)- (6)]:

- The terms and conditions of the merger.
- The name and place of organization of the surviving LLC or other business entity, including any change in the name of the surviving LLC.
- The name and place of organization of each disappearing LLC or other business entity.

- Any amendments to the articles of organization of the surviving LLC.

§ 12C.231 Notice of Approval of Reorganization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of approval of reorganization of a limited liability company. It must be sent by an LLC that proposes to reorganize to all members who have the right to require the LLC to purchase their dissenting interests [Corp. Code § 17602(a); see [b], below ("reorganization" and "dissenting interest" defined)]. In general, in a merger or reorganization, a member who is entitled to vote on a reorganization and has taken necessary steps to have a dissenting interest [see Corp. Code § 17601(b) (definition)] has the right to require the LLC to purchase that interest for cash at fair market value [Corp. Code § 17601(a)].

These dissenters' rights provisions apply to domestic LLCs, and to foreign LLCs if members holding more than 50 percent of voting interests reside in California [Corp. Code § 17612(a)]. These provisions do not apply to LLCs with 35 or fewer members if all the members have waived the application of dissenters' rights provisions in writing [Corp. Code § 17612(c)].

For further coverage of dissenters' rights, see § 12C.25. For a procedural guide to merger, see § 12C.126[1]. For a procedural guide to the steps involved in establishing dissenters' rights, see § 12C.126[2]. For an agreement of merger, see § 12C.230.

[b] Definitions

The term "reorganization" includes mergers, conversions, certain acquisitions of controlling interests in other business entities, and certain acquisitions of substantially all of the assets of other business entities [Corp. Code § 17600(a)].

A "dissenting interest" is a membership interest in an LLC that satisfies all of the following [Corp. Code § 17601(b)]:

- The membership interest was outstanding on the date for the determination of members entitled to vote on the reorganization.
- The membership interest was not voted in favor of the reorganization, or the membership interest was voted against the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17601(b)(2)].
- The member has demanded that the LLC purchase its interest at its fair market value [see Corp. Code § 17602 (method of demand)].
- The member has submitted the certificate of interest for endorsement, if applicable [see Corp. Code § 17603].

[c] Procedure to Require Company to Purchase Dissenting Interest

If LLC members have the right to require the LLC to purchase their dissenting interests [see Corp. Code § 17601(b) (definition); see also [b], above], the LLC must mail to each member a notice of approval of the proposed reorganization. The notice must contain all of the following information [Corp. Code § 17602(a)]:

- Copies of Corp. Code §§ 17601-17605.
- A statement of the price determined by the LLC to be the fair market value of outstanding interests.
- A statement of the method of valuation used.
- The latest available balance sheet of the LLC.
- The latest available income statement of the LLC.
- A description of the procedure to exercise dissenters' rights.

This form contains or provides for all of this required information.

A member with a dissenting interest who wishes the LLC to purchase his or her interest must make a written demand on the LLC for the purchase of the interest and the payment to the member in cash of its fair market value [Corp. Code § 17602(b), (c); see § 12C.232 (form for demand)].

If the LLC and the dissenting member agree that the interest is a dissenting interest, and agree on the price to be paid for the interest, the dissenting member is entitled to the agreed price, with interest from the date of consummation of the reorganization. Agreements as to value of dissenting interests must be in writing and must be kept with the records of the LLC [Corp. Code § 17604(a)]. The LLC must pay for a dissenting interest within 30 days after the amount of the interest has been agreed on, or within 30 days after conditions to the reorganization are satisfied, whichever is later [Corp. Code § 17604(b)]. The dissenting member must submit certificates of interest (or, if none, written notice of the number or amount of interests) on payment [Corp. Code § 17604(b); see Corp. Code § 17603].

If the LLC denies that an interest is a dissenting interest, or the LLC and the dissenting member cannot agree on the value of a dissenting interest, either the LLC or the member may bring an action in superior court within six months after the date of the notice of approval of the reorganization to settle the issue [Corp. Code § 17605].

[2] FORM

Notice of Approval of Reorganization

NOTICE TO MEMBERS OF _____ [name],
A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY, OF APPROVAL OF REORGANIZATION

To: _____[name of member]
_____[address of member]

This is to give notice that the outstanding interests of [add if applicable: each class of interests of] _____[name], a California limited liability company, have approved by the requisite vote or consent the principal terms of a reorganization, as defined in the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act. In this reorganization, _____[specify, e.g., this limited liability company will be merged into _____ (name of surviving entity), a _____ (type of entity)].

Any member of this limited liability company may require the limited liability company to purchase at its fair market value on the day before the announcement of the reorganization described in this notice the interest owned by the member that comes within the definition of "dissenting interest" set forth in Corporations Code Section 17601(b). To meet the definition set forth in Section 17601(b), the interest (1) must have been outstanding on the date for determination of members entitled to vote on the reorganization, and (2) must not have been voted in favor of the reorganization or must have been voted against the reorganization.

For a member to enforce his or her right to require the limited liability company to purchase a dissenting interest owned by him or her, the member must take two actions:

1. Within 30 days after the date of the mailing of this notice to the member, the member must serve on the limited liability company a written demand for the limited liability company to purchase his or her dissenting interest and to pay the member the fair market value, in cash, of that interest. The demand must state the number or amount of the member's interest that the member demands the limited liability company purchase, and the price the member claims to be the fair market value of that interest on the day before the announcement of the proposed reorganization described in this notice.

2. Within 30 days after the date of the mailing of this notice to the member, the member must, in addition to making the demand described in Paragraph 1, above, submit to the limited liability company _____[if interest is evidenced by certificate: the member's certificate representing the interest the member demands the limited liability company purchase, to be stamped or endorsed with a statement that the interest is a dissenting interest, or to be exchanged for certificates of appropriate denominations so stamped or endorsed or, if interest is not evidenced by certificate: written notice of the number or amount of interest that the member demands the limited liability company purchase]. The [certificate or written notice] must be submitted to the limited liability company at its principal office at _____[address] or at the office of its transfer agent at _____[address].

If the limited liability company and the member agree that the member's interest is a dissenting interest, and agree on the price to be paid for the dissenting interest, the dissenting member is entitled to the agreed price, plus interest at the legal rate for judgments from the date of consummation of the reorganization. Payment will be made within 30 days after the price of the dissenting interest has been agreed on, or within 30 days after any statutory or contractual conditions to the reorganization are satisfied, whichever is later.

If the limited liability company denies that the member's interest is a dissenting interest, or if the limited liability company and the member fail to agree on the fair market value of the dissenting interest, the member may file a complaint to determine whether the interest is a dissenting interest, or to determine the fair market value of the dissenting interest. The complaint must be filed in the Superior Court of the State of California for the County of _____, the county in which the principal office of the limited liability company is located. The complaint must be filed within six months after the date on which this notice was mailed to the member. A copy of Corporations Code Sections 17601 through 17605, which govern the procedure a member must follow to require the limited liability company to purchase a dissenting interest, is enclosed with this notice. In addition, copies of the latest available balance sheet and income statement of the limited liability company are enclosed with this notice.

The limited liability company has determined that the price of $ _____ per interest is the fair market value of outstanding interests on the day before the announcement of the terms of the reorganization described in this notice [if there is more than one class of interest, specify each class and list price for each]. The method of valuation used to determine this price was [specify].

§ 12C.232 Demand for Purchase of Dissenting Interest

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a written demand that a dissenting member of an LLC must send to the LLC as a prerequisite to forcing the LLC to purchase the dissenting interest [see [b], below]. This form is sent by the dissenting member to the LLC after receiving a notice of proposed reorganization from the LLC [see § 12C.231].

For further coverage of dissenters' rights, see § 12C.25. For a procedural guide to the steps involved in establishing dissenters' rights, see § 12C.126[2].

[b] Requiring Limited Liability Company to Purchase Dissenting Interest

A member of an LLC with a dissenting interest [see [c], below (definition)] who wishes the LLC to purchase his or her interest must make a written demand on the LLC for the purchase of the interest and for the payment to the member in cash of its fair market value. To be effective, the demand must be received by the LLC within 30 days after the notice of reorganization was mailed to member [Corp. Code § 17602(b)]. The demand must state the number or amount of the interest, and must contain a statement of the member's claim of the fair market value of the interest on the day before the announcement of the proposed reorganization. The statement of value constitutes an offer by the member to sell the dissenting interest at that price [Corp. Code § 17602(c)]. This form contains these required statements.

[c] "Dissenting Interest" Defined

A "dissenting interest" is a membership interest in an LLC that satisfies all of the following [Corp. Code § 17601(b)]:

- The membership interest was outstanding on the date for the determination of members entitled to vote on the reorganization.

- The membership interest was not voted in favor of the reorganization, or the membership interest was voted against the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17601(b)(2)].

- The member has demanded that the LLC purchase its interest at its fair market value [see Corp. Code § 17602 (method of demand)].

- The member has submitted the certificate of interest for endorsement, if applicable [see Corp. Code § 17603].

[d] Loss of Status as Dissenting Interest

A dissenting interest loses its status as such, and the holder of that interest ceases to be a dissenting member, on the occurrence of any of the following [Corp. Code § 17610]:

- The LLC abandons the reorganization.

- The interest is transferred before its submission for endorsement [see Corp. Code § 17603].

- The dissenting member and the LLC do not agree that the interest is a dissenting interest or disagree on the purchase price of the interest, and neither files a complaint within six months after the notice of approval of the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 17605].

- The dissenting member, with the LLC's consent, withdraws the demand for purchase of the dissenting interest.

§ 12C.241 Transmittal Letter for Domestic Limited Liability Company's Articles of Organization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a transmittal letter to accompany a domestic LLC's articles of organization, when filed by mail. LLC forms must be filed with the LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [Secretary of State's LLC form packet]. The Secretary of State has indicated that it is desirable to include a transmittal letter for articles to be filed that includes, among other things, a statement that the applicant is aware of the prohibition on professional LLCs [see [b], below; see also Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

This letter should be used as a cover letter to the articles of organization, explaining that the articles are submitted for filing, stating that the required fee is enclosed [see Gov. Code § 12190(b)], and including the required statement about professional LLCs [see [b], below].

For an illustration of the official form for articles of organization (Form LLC-1) that must be filed with the LLC Unit, see § 12C.200. For a transmittal letter to use when filing a foreign LLC's application for registration, see § 12C.242.

[b] Prohibition on Professional Limited Liability Companies

The LLC Act currently does not permit a domestic or foreign LLC to render professional services, as defined in Corp. Code §§ 13401(a) and 13401.3, that may be lawfully rendered only under a license, certification, or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Osteopathic Act, the Yacht and Ship Brokers Act, or the Chiropractic Act unless authorized under those laws [Corp. Code § 17375]. For further discussion of the prohibition on professional LLCs, see § 12C.10[5].

The LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State (where LLC documents must be filed) has indicated that it is the applicant's responsibility to determine whether the LLC is prohibited from filing; the LLC Unit will not make that determination. The current policy of the LLC Unit is to return any filing or name reservation that is indicative of a "professional service" LLC [see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition)]. If the documents are returned in error, the applicant may resubmit the documents accompanied by a letter stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition. If the document originally submitted for filing was otherwise acceptable, the filing date will be the date indicated in the Secretary of State stamp on the reverse of the document [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

To prevent delays in filing articles of organization, the Secretary of State recommends that the applicant submit a cover letter with the documents stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition on LLCs rendering professional services, and that the LLC for which articles are being filed is not prohibited from filing [Secretary of State's LLC form packet]. This form includes language intended to satisfy this requirement.

§ 12C.242 Transmittal Letter for Foreign Limited Liability Company's Application for Registration

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a transmittal letter to accompany a foreign LLC's application for registration, when filed by mail. LLC forms must be filed with the LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [Secretary of State's LLC form packet]. The Secretary of State has indicated that it is desirable to include a transmittal letter for an application to be filed that includes, among other things, a statement that the applicant is aware of the prohibition on professional LLCs [see [c], below; see also Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

This letter should be used as a cover letter to the application for registration, explaining that the application is submitted for filing, requesting a delayed effective date, if desired [see Corp. Code § 17056(c)], stating that the required fee is enclosed [see Gov. Code § 12190(c)], stating whether a certificate of good standing is included [see Corp. Code § 17451(b); see also [b], below], and including the required statement about professional LLCs [see [c], below].

For an illustration of the official application for registration (Form LLC-5) that must be filed with the LLC Unit, see § 12C.204. For a transmittal letter to use when filing a domestic LLC's articles of organization, see § 12C.241.

[b] Certificate of Good Standing

An application for registration of a foreign LLC must be accompanied by a certificate of good standing from an authorized public official of the foreign LLC's jurisdiction. If the laws of the jurisdiction do not permit issuance of such a certificate, a statement by the LLC to that effect must be included [Corp. Code § 17451(c)]. This form provides text for either situation.

[c] Prohibition on Professional Limited Liability Companies

The LLC Act does not permit a domestic or foreign LLC to render professional services, as defined in Corp. Code §§ 13401(a) and 13401.3, that may be lawfully rendered only under a license, certification, or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Osteopathic Act, the Yacht and Ship Brokers Act, or the Chiropractic Act unless authorized under those laws [Corp. Code § 17375]. For further discussion of the prohibition on professional LLCs, see § 12C.10[5].

The prohibition on LLCs rendering professional services is especially relevant to foreign LLCs, because various other states provide for professional LLCs. A professional LLC from one of these jurisdiction may register in California, but it may not register as a professional LLC, may not indicate in its name that it is a professional LLC, and may not render professional services in California [Corp. Code § 17375; see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

The LLC Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State (where LLC documents must be filed) has indicated that it is the applicant's responsibility to determine whether the LLC is prohibited from filing; the LLC Unit will not make that determination. The current policy of the LLC Unit is to return any filing or name reservation that is indicative of a "professional service" LLC [see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3 (definition)]. If the documents are returned in error, the applicant may resubmit the documents accompanied by a letter stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition. If the document originally submitted for filing was otherwise acceptable, the filing date will be the date indicated in the Secretary of State stamp on the reverse of the document [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

To prevent delays in filing applications for registration, the Secretary of State recommends that the applicant submit a cover letter with the documents stating that the applicant is aware of the prohibition on LLCs rendering professional services and that the LLC for which the application is being filed is not prohibited from filing [Secretary of State's LLC form packet]. This form includes language intended to satisfy this requirement.

§ 12C.250 Limited Liability Company Return of Income [Form 568]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form (Form 568) is the official Franchise Tax Board (FTB) form used (1) to report income, deductions, gains, losses, and the like from the operation of an LLC, (2) to show payment of the $800 minimum franchise tax, and (3) to determine and pay the amount of the LLC's annual fee, if any, based on total income [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 17942, 18633.5]. California's reporting requirements for LLCs are generally the same as the federal reporting requirements for partnerships [Instructions for Form 568, p. 3; see Instructions for federal Form 1065].

This form can be obtained at any FTB office or by contacting the FTB at (800) 852-5711.

[b] Who Must File Form 568

Form 568 must be filed by every LLC classified as a partnership for tax purposes that is [Instructions for Form 568, p. 4; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5; see also § 12C.54]:

- Doing business in California;
- Organized in California; or
- Organized in another state but registered with the California Secretary of State.

Regardless of where the trade or business of an LLC is conducted, an LLC taxable as a partnership is considered to be "doing business" in California if any of its members, managers, or other agents are conducting business in California on behalf of the LLC [Instructions for Form 568, p. 4].

An LLC classified as corporation for tax purposes must file Form 100, Corporation Income or Franchise Tax Return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(h)].

[c] Filing Form 568

Form 568 must be filed by the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of an LLC's taxable year [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(a)]. If an LLC cannot file Form 568 by this date, the LLC is granted an automatic six-month extension without having to file a request for extension. However, this automatic extension does not extend the time to pay the LLC tax or the fee based on income [Instructions for Form 568, pp. 4, 5; see [f], below]. To pay the LLC tax and fee, the LLC should file Form FTB 3537 [see § 12C.255].

Form 568, accompanied by payment, is filed by mailing it to Franchise Tax Board, P.O. Box 942857, Sacramento, CA 94257-0501. Form 568, not accompanied by payment, is filed by mailing it to Franchise Tax Board, P.O. Box 942857, Sacramento, CA 94257-0500. Note that these two addresses are identical except for the last digit of the ZIP code. The included check should be made payable to the "Franchise Tax Board." The check must include the Secretary of State's LLC number and the LLC's federal employer ID number [Instructions for Form 568, pp. 4, 5].

Form 568 must be signed by an authorized member or manager of the LLC, or, if appropriate, a receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or assignee controlling the LLC's property or business. If a paid preparer completes the return, that person should not sign the return, but must sign the Paid Preparer's Use Only area, provide the required preparer information, and give a copy of the return to the LLC, in addition to filing a copy with the FTB [Instructions for Form 568, p. 7].

[d] Filing Amended Form 568

If, after filing Form 568, the LLC discovers that it needs to make changes to the form, it must file an amended Form 568, as well as an amended Schedule K-1 for each member [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

In addition, if the LLC discovers that it needs to amend its federal partnership return, or if the return is changed in response to an IRS audit, it is likely the LLC will need to file an amended California Form 568. This must be done within six months of final federal adjustments. If an IRS audit was done, the LLC must attach a copy of the IRS Federal Agent's Report. Members of the LLC may also need to file amended returns [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

[e] Determination of Income

An LLC classified as a partnership determines its California income under the Personal Income Tax Law [Instructions for Form 568, p. 3; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17001 et seq.].

Income of nonresident members, including banks and corporations, derived from "qualified investment securities" of an LLC that qualifies as an "investment partnership" is considered to be from a source other than California. Therefore, nonresident members are not taxed in California on this income [Instructions for Form 568, p. 7].

[f] Taxation of Limited Liability Companies

[i] Net Income Tax

If an LLC elects to be taxed as a partnership, its members, not the LLC, pay tax on its net income, much as partners would [see I.R.C. § 701; Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3 (election)]. As with a partnership, for tax purposes the LLC is merely an accounting entity for determining items of income and loss that are to be allocated to the members. An LLC, like a partnership, does not pay income tax, but must nonetheless file an information return (this form) [see I.R.C. §§ 701, 6031; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see also § 12C.50[2][c]].

For further discussion of taxation of partnerships, also applicable to limited liability companies, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships .

[ii] Minimum Franchise Tax

In general, every LLC or foreign LLC classified as a partnership for California tax purposes must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 for the privilege of doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(a)]. However, an LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

This tax applies to (1) an LLC that is doing business in California, (2) an LLC that has filed articles of organization in California, and (3) a foreign LLC that has registered with the California Secretary of State [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(a), (b), 23153(d)(1); see Instructions for Form 568, p. 5]. This tax must be paid annually until a certificate of cancellation of articles of organization (LLC) or a certificate of cancellation of registration (foreign LLC) is filed with the Secretary of State [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(b), (c)].

The minimum franchise tax is due and payable on or before the 15th day of the fourth month after the close of the LLC's taxable year [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(c), 18633.5(a)].

For LLCs that must pay the minimum franchise tax, the failure to pay the tax on time is subject to a late payment penalty plus interest. Penalties may also be charged for NSF checks and costs of collection [Instructions for Form 568, p. 5].

[iii] California Fee Based on Income

In addition to the minimum franchise tax [see [ii], above], an annual fee is also based on total for income from all sources derived from or attributable to California [Instructions for Form 568, p. 4; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(b)(1), 24172 ("total income" defined); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)(1) (limitation on total income)]. However, an LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax, and thus not subject to this annual fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

The base range for this annual fee is $900 to $11,790 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a)]. Special income determination provisions apply to commonly controlled LLCs [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)(2)]. The fee is due and payable on or before the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of the LLC's taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(c), 18633.5]. The fee must be estimated and paid on or before the 15th day of the sixth month of the current taxable year, and a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of any underpayment will be added to the fee [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(d)]. An LLC that fails to pay its total fee (or that fails to pay its total nonresident members' tax), by the due date, will be assessed for late payment as follows [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6]:

- Five percent of the unpaid fee; plus
- One half of one percent for each month or partial month (not to exceed 40 months) that the fee remains unpaid; but
- Subject to a 25-percent limit of the unpaid fee.

Penalties may also be charged for NSF checks and the costs of collection [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

[g] Filing Group Return

Individual nonresident members of a foreign or domestic LLC may elect [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18535; see also Form FTB 3864, Group Nonresident Return Election] to file a group return on Form 540NR rather than an individual Form 540NR, but only if each nonresident member has no California source income other than that reported on the LLC group return [Instructions for Form 568, p. 7; see FTB Pub. 1067].

On group returns, income is taxed at the highest marginal rate. No deductions are allowed except those necessary to determine each member's distributive share of LLC income, and certain other deductions relating to earned income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18535(a), (b), (d); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17501 et seq.]. No credits are allowed except those directly attributable to the LLC [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(a)].

[h] Information Returns

Every LLC must file an information return on federal Form 1099 if, in the course of its trade or business, it meets the following criteria [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6; see I.R.C. § 6031 et seq.]:

- Makes payments to one person of rents, salaries, wages, annuities, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more;
- Pays to one payee interest and dividends of $10 or more; or
- Receives cash payments of over $10,000.

The return is for the calendar year, and must be filed by February 28 of the following year [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

§ 12C.251 Member's Share of Income, Deductions, Credits, etc. [Schedule K-1 (568)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form (Schedule K-1 (568)) is the official Franchise Tax Board (FTB) form used by an LLC to report a member's share of an LLC's income, deductions, credits, and the like. This form is to be completed by the LLC. The LLC then sends one copy to the FTB, and one copy to the member. The member does not file Schedule K-1 with the FTB, but uses it to prepare his or her own tax return [Instructions for Form 568, pp. 12-14].

This form can be obtained at any FTB office or by contacting the FTB at (800) 852-5711.

[b] Amended Return Requires Amended Schedule

If an LLC files an amended Form 568 [see § 12C.250[1][d]], it must also file an amended Schedule K-1 for each resident member and provide the amended schedule to each member. This will usually require the member to file an amended tax return as well [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

§ 12C.252 Depreciation and Amortization [Form FTB 3885L]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form (Form FTB 3885L) is the official Franchise Tax Board (FTB) form used by an LLC to show depreciation and amortization of its assets [Instructions for Form 568, p. 31; see [b], below].

This form can be obtained at any FTB office or by contacting the FTB at (800) 852-5711.

[b] Depreciation and Amortization of Assets

The California Personal Income Tax law incorporates by reference the federal depreciation and MACRS provisions, subject to several modifications and internal cross references to California statutes [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17201, 17250; I.R.C. §§ 167, 168]. Therefore, taxpayers subject to the California Personal Income Tax Law generally may compute depreciation or cost recovery deductions for California purposes in the same manner as under federal law.

The California provisions do not incorporate federal provisions relating to property on Indian reservations, however [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17250(a)(3); I.R.C. § 168(j)], and the deduction for amortization of pollution control facilities is allowed only for facilities located in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17250(b); I.R.C. § 169]. The California Personal Income Tax Law prohibits depreciation and other deductions relating to substandard housing [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17274] and also has specific provisions relating to depreciation of diseased grapevines [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17250(a)(2)]. California law also declines to incorporate certain federal provisions relating to straight line depreciation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17250(a)(5); see I.R.C. § 168(b)(3)(G), (H)], provisions relating to 15-year property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17250(a)(6); see I.R.C. § 168(e)(3)(E)(iv), (v)], and provisions relating to leasehold improvement property and qualified restaurant property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17250(a)(7); see I.R.C. § 168(e)(6), (7)].

It should be noted, however, that for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2002 and on or before December 31, 2004 the incorporated federal law that applies for California purposes under the general conformity rule is the law in effect on January 1, 2001. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2005, the applicable incorporated federal law is the federal law in effect on January 1, 2005 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1), 17201, 17250; I.R.C. §§ 167, 168]. Thus, the California Personal Income Tax Law did not incorporate the federal provision allowing additional 30-percent first-year depreciation for certain property acquired after September 10, 2001 and before January 1, 2005, or the bonus 50-percent first-year depreciation deduction allowed for certain property acquired after May 5, 2003 and before January 1, 2005 [see I.R.C. § 168(k)(4); Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(a)(1)(3), 17201, 17250(a)]. However, California fully incorporates these federal provisions for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2005 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(N)].

The California Personal Income Tax Law also allows taxpayers to expense certain costs of depreciable property, generally in accordance with federal law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17255; I.R.C. § 179]. The California Personal Income Tax Law, however, has not incorporated the federal increase in the expensing amount to $125,000 beginning after 2006 and before 2011 [I.R.C. § 179(b)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(a)(1), 17255(a), (b)], or the federal eligibility of off-the-shelf computer software for current expensing for tax years beginning after 2002 and before 2011, [I.R.C. § 179(d)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(a)(1), 17255(a), (f)].

The California Corporation Tax Law does not incorporate I.R.C. § 168 by reference or otherwise adopt those provisions. Accordingly, corporations (including LLCs that are treated for tax purposes as corporations) and other taxpayers subject to the Corporation Tax Law may not use MACRS to compute deprecation or cost recovery deductions for California tax purposes. Instead, depreciation deductions must generally be computed using one of several methods (straight-line, double declining balance, sum-of-years digits), taking into account useful life and salvage value [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 24349(a), (b), 24350, 24351, 24352, 24352.5, 24353, 24354, 24354.1, 24355, 24355.1, 24355.4]. These rules generally follow pre-1981 federal law, and result in depreciation deductions that are likely to be less favorable than under federal law [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 24349(a), (b), 24350, 24351, 24352, 24352.5, 24353, 24354, 24354.1, 24355, 24355.1, 24355.4; I.R.C. §§ 167, 168].

The California Corporation Tax Law prohibits depreciation and other deductions related to substandard housing [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24436.5], and contains special depreciation provisions relating to diseased grapevines [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24349(c)]. The California Corporation Tax Law also restricts amortization deductions to pollution control facilities to facilities located in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24372.3; see I.R.C. § 169]. The Corporation Tax Law also allows an expensing election similar to that allowed under I.R.C. § 179, equal to 20 percent of the cost of qualifying property. The amount that can be expensed, however, is limited to $10,000 per year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24356(a), (c)].

For further discussion of depreciation and amortization of personal property, see the Legal Background to Ch. 53, Personal Property Leasing.

§ 12C.254 Limited Liability Company's List of Members and Consents [Form FTB 3832]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form (Form FTB 3832) is the official Franchise Tax Board (FTB) form used by an LLC (1) to list the names and social security numbers or federal employer identification numbers of its members, and (2) to obtain the signature of its nonresident members evidencing their consent to California jurisdiction to tax their pro rata share of income attributable to California sources [Instructions for Form 568, p. 43; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)].

This form should be completed only when an LLC has nonresident members. When completed, the form is filed with the FTB as an attachment to Form 568, and a copy is given to each nonresident member [Instructions for Form 568, p. 43; see [b], below].

This form can be obtained at any FTB office or by contacting the FTB at (800) 852-5711.

[b] Consents of Nonresident Members

When completed, this form provides that each nonresident member consents to California jurisdiction to tax the member's pro rata share of LLC income attributable to California sources [Instructions for Form 568, p. 43; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)(1)].

If the LLC fails to timely file these consents, the LLC is required to pay the tax at the highest marginal rate on that member's distributive share of income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)(1)]. Any amount paid by the LLC is considered a payment made by the member [Rev. & Tax. Code § 186335.5(g)]. The LLC may recover from the member any tax paid on his or her behalf [Instructions for Form 568, pp. 7, 43; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)(1)].

If the LLC fails to attach this form, or to make a timely payment when required, the payment will be considered the LLC's tax for purposes of the penalty prescribed by Rev. & Tax. Code § 19132 and the interest prescribed by Rev. & Tax. Code § 19101 for failure to timely pay tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)(2)]. No penalty or interest will be imposed on the LLC if the nonresident member timely files and pays all taxes imposed on the member with respect to the LLC's income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)(3)].

In addition to signing this form, nonresident members of an LLC may also need to file Form 540NR. Form 540NR must be filed if a member had income over specified amounts from California sources or tax liability of $1 or more [Instructions for Form 568, p. 43].

[c] Filing a Group Return

Individual nonresident members of a foreign or domestic LLC may elect [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18535; see also Form FTB 3864, Group Nonresident Return Election] to file a group return on Form 540NR rather than an individual Form 540NR, but only if each nonresident member has no California source income other than that reported on the LLC group return [Instructions for Form 568, p. 7].

On group returns, income is taxed at the highest marginal rate. No deductions are allowed except those necessary to determine each member's distributive share of LLC income, and certain others deductions relating to earned income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18535(a), (b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17501 et seq.]. No credits are allowed except those directly attributable to the LLC [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18535(a); see Instructions for Form 568, p. 7].

For more information on group returns, obtain FTB Pub. 1073, Guidelines for Filing a Group Nonresident Return for Nonresident Partners/Members of a Partnership/Limited Liability Company.

§ 12C.255 Payment Voucher for Automatic Extension for Limited Liability Companies [Form FTB 3537]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form (Form FTB 3537) is the official Franchise Tax Board (FTB) form used by an LLC to obtain an automatic six-month extension of the time [see [b], below] to file its tax return by paying its LLC tax (minimum franchise tax), LLC fee, and any member's tax due [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45; see [d], [e], below].

This form can be obtained at any FTB office or by contacting the FTB at (800) 852-5711.

[b] Automatic Extension of Time to File Tax Return

If an LLC cannot file its California tax return (Form 568) [see § 12C.250] on time [see [c], below], it may obtain an automatic six-month extension of the time to file by using Form FTB 3537 to pay its $800 minimum franchise tax, its fee (if any) based on income, and any tax due from nonresident members who did not sign Form FTB 3832 [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45; see § 12C.255 (Form FTB 3832)]. The extension is granted automatically on submission of the voucher and payment, and no separate request need be filed to obtain the extension [Instructions for Form 568, p. 4]. Filing of the LLC's tax return within the six-month extension period will verify that the LLC qualified for the extension [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45].

Failure to file the LLC tax return on time or failure to file Form FTB 3537 along with the required payment will result in late penalties and interest [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45; see [e], below].

[c] When Tax Return Must be Filed

For fiscal year filers, the LLC tax return is usually due by the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of its taxable year. The six-month extension moves the filing deadline to the 15th day of the 10th month following the close of the taxable year [Instructions for Form 568, p. 45; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(a)].

For calendar year filers, the LLC tax return is normally due on April 15 of each year.

[d] Liability for Taxes and Fees

[i] Minimum Franchise Tax

In general, every LLC or foreign LLC classified as a partnership for California tax purposes must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 for the privilege of doing business in California. This tax applies to (1) an LLC that is doing business in California, (2) an LLC that as filed articles of organization in California, and (3) a foreign LLC that has registered with the California Secretary of State [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(a), (b)(1), 23153(d)(1); see Instructions for Form 568, p. 5]. This tax must be paid annually until a certificate of cancellation of articles of organization (LLC) or certificate of cancellation of registration (foreign LLC) is filed with the Secretary of State [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(b)(1)]. The tax is due and payable on or before the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of the LLC's taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941(c)].

However, an LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

[ii] California Fee Based on Income

In addition to the minimum franchise tax [see [ii], above], an annual fee is due based on total income from all sources derived from or attributable to California [Instructions for Form 568, p. 5; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(b)(1), 24172 ("total income" defined); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)(1) (limitation on total income)]. The fee is due and payable on or before the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of the LLC's taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(c), 18633.5]. The fee must be estimated and paid on or before the 15th day of the sixth month of the current taxable year, and a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of any underpayment will be added to the fee [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(d)]. An LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax, and thus not subject to this annual fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

[iii] Member's Fee

In certain situations, such as when a nonresident member fails to sign Form FTB 3832 [see § 12C.254], an LLC is required to pay tax on a member's distributive share of LLC income. Any amount paid by the LLC is considered a payment made by the member [Rev. & Tax. Code § 186335.5(g)]. The LLC may recover from the member any tax paid on his or her behalf [Instructions for Form 568, pp. 5, 36; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5(e)(1)]. This form provides for payment of those members' taxes by the LLC.

[e] Penalties and Interest

For LLCs that must pay the $800 minimum franchise tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code§ 17941], the failure to pay the tax on time is subject to a late payment penalty plus interest [Instructions for Form 568, p. 4]. If an LLC fails to pay its total fee (or that fails to pay its total nonresident members' tax (see § 12C.254[1][b])), by the due date, the following penalties will be assessed [Instructions for Form 568, pp. 5, 6]:

- Five percent of the unpaid fee; plus

- One half of one percent for each month or partial month (not to exceed 40 months) that the fee remains unpaid; but

- Subject to a 25 percent limit of the unpaid fee.

Penalties may also be charged for NSF checks and the costs of collection [Instructions for Form 568, p. 6].

Filing this form and paying required taxes and fees will prevent imposition of these penalties and interest.

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form (Form FTB 3522) is the official Franchise Tax Board (FTB) form used by an LLC [see [b], below] to pay the annual LLC minimum franchise tax [Instructions for Form 568, p. 47; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(a), (b)(1), 23153(d)(1)].

[b] Who Must Pay Minimum Franchise Tax

Every LLC or foreign LLC classified as a partnership for California tax purposes must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 for the privilege of doing business in California. A. Governing Law and Types of Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.10

§ 13.10 Nonprofit Corporation Law

The California Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5000 et seq.] provides for the formation and organization of nonprofit corporations to the exclusion of the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 100 et seq.]. The Nonprofit Corporation law divides all nonprofit corporations into three primary groups:

- Nonprofit public benefit corporations [see Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.; see also § 13.11[1]].
- Nonprofit mutual benefit corporations [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.; see also § 13.11[2]].
- Religious corporations [see Corp. Code § 9110 et seq.; see also § 13.11[3]].

The Nonprofit Corporation law also governs other specialized types of nonprofit corporations:

- Corporations sole [see Corp. Code § 10000 et seq.].
- Corporations for charitable or eleemosynary purposes [see Corp. Code § 10200].
- Trust funds [see Corp. Code §§ 10250, 10251].
- Societies for prevention of cruelty to children and animals [see Corp. Code § 10400 et seq.].
- Port and terminal protection and development corporations [see Corp. Code § 10700 et seq.].
- Nonprofit medical, hospital, or legal services corporations [Corp. Code § 10810 et seq.].

CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Law and Types of Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.11

§ 13.11 Types of Nonprofit Corporations

[1] Public Benefit Corporations

Public benefit corporations fall into two categories:

- Corporations organized primarily for charitable purposes that plan to obtain state tax exempt status under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d and/or federal tax exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3).

- Corporations organized to act as civic leagues or social welfare organizations that plan to obtain state tax exempt status under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701f and/or federal tax exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(c)(4).

However, a public benefit corporation's status does not depend on state and federal tax-exempt status.

Public benefit corporations are organized under or subject to the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5060]. In general, public benefit corporations are prohibited from making distributions [Corp. Code § 5410] of any gains, profits, or dividends to members [Corp. Code § 5049]; however, this prohibition does not apply to the purchase of a membership in any limited-equity housing corporation organized as a public benefit corporation [Corp. Code § 5410; see Health & Safety Code § 33007.5, repealed 2009 ("limited-equity housing corporation" defined); now see Civ. Code § 817].

For articles of incorporation and bylaws designed for public benefit corporations, see §§ 13.200, 13.201.

[2] Mutual Benefit Corporations

A corporation formed for purposes other than religious, charitable, civic league, or social welfare purposes that plans to obtain tax exempt status under provisions other than Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d or 23701f, or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d, 23701f, or I.R.C. § 501(c)(4), or that is not planning to be tax exempt at all, is a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation.

This type of nonprofit corporation is organized under or subject to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5059]. These corporations may be operated for any lawful purpose (other than religious, charitable, civic league, or social welfare purposes) that does not contemplate any distribution prohibited by the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 7410-7413 (corporation may distribute assets to members on dissolution)]. In general, these corporations are operated for the specific benefit of its members or persons engaging in a particular type of business or activity. However, a corporation, all of the assets of which are irrevocably dedicated to charitable, religious, or public purposes and that as a matter of law or according to its articles or bylaws must, on dissolution, distribute its assets to a person or persons carrying on a charitable, religious, or public purpose, may not be formed under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7111]. Common mutual benefit corporations include social and neighborhood clubs, theater groups, business and trade associations, automobile and sports clubs, home owner associations, organizations formed for fraternal purposes, and cemeteries.

For articles of incorporation and bylaws for mutual benefit corporations, see §§ 13.210-13.212.

[3] Religious Corporations

A corporation organized to operate a church or to be otherwise structured for primarily religious purposes is a nonprofit religious corporation. Religious corporations are specifically governed by the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5061] and are formed primarily or exclusively for religious purposes [Corp. Code § 9111].

For articles of incorporation and bylaws for religious corporations, see §§ 13.220, 13.221.

[4] Common Interest Development Corporations

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], the term "association" means a nonprofit corporation or unincorporated association created for the purpose of managing a common interest development [Civ. Code § 1350(a)]. A "common interest development" includes any of the following [Civ. Code § 1350(c); see Committee to Save the Beverly Highlands Homes Association v. The Beverly Highlands Homes Association (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 1247, 1262-1263, 1271, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 732 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation was not common interest development within meaning of Davis-Stirling Act; corporation had no common area within meaning of Corp. Code § 1351(b))]:

- A community apartment project; that is, a development in which an undivided interest in land is coupled with the right of exclusive occupancy of any apartment located in the development [Civ. Code § 1350(d)].

- A condominium project, which is a development consisting of condominiums, which in turn consists of an undivided interest in common in a portion of real property coupled with a separate interest in space called a unit [see Civ. Code § 1350(e), (f)].

- A planned development; that is a development (other than a community apartment project, a condominium project, or a stock cooperative) having either or both (1) a common area owned either by an the association or in common by the owners of the separate interests who possess appurtenant rights to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area or (2) a power existing in the association to enforce an obligation of an owner of a separate interest with respect to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area by means of an assessment that may become a lien on the separate interests [Civ. Code § 1350(k); see Civ. Code § 1367].

- A stock cooperative; that is, a development in which a corporation is formed or availed of primarily > for the purpose of holding title to, either in fee simple or for a term of years, improved real property, and all or substantially all of the shareholders of the corporation receive a right of exclusive occupancy in a portion of the real property, title to which is held by the corporation. The owners' interest in the corporation, whether evidenced by a share of stock, a certificate of membership, or otherwise, is deemed to be an interest in a common interest development and a real estate development [see Corp. Code § 25100(f)].

A common interest development is created whenever a separate interest coupled with an interest in the common area or membership in the association is, or has been, conveyed, provided, all of the following are recorded [Civ. Code § 1352]:

- A declaration [see Civ. Code § 1353];
- A condominium plan, if any exists; and
- A final map or parcel map, if required [see Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.].

A common interest development may form a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation by filing articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 7210; see also Civ. Code § 1363.5; § 13.211].

[5] Corporations Sole

A corporation sole is formed to administer and manage the affairs, property, and temporalities of any religious denomination, society, or church [see Corp. Code § 10000 et seq.]. The form is only available to church leaders, including bishops, chief priests, presiding elders, or other presiding officer [Corp. Code § 10002].

One principal purpose of a corporation sole is to ensure continuation of ownership of property dedicated to the benefit of a religious organization and held in the name of its titular head. There is a clear distinction between the corporation sole and the individual who happens to be the current office holder [County of San Luis Obispo (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 380, 383-384, 194 Cal. Rptr. 5] . Thus, in a case involving a pastor who was allegedly appointed by a predecessor under an amendment to the corporate articles without the approval of parishioners, the court rejected the plaintiff's argument that the requirement set forth in Corp. Code § 10010 that an amendment to the articles be "duly authorized by the religious organization governed by the corporation" was met because there was no evidence of any religious organization other than the predecessor. The statutory scheme makes clear that the chief officer of the corporation sole is not also "the religious organization governed by the corporation" [Berry v. Society of Saint Pius X (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 354, 368-372, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574 (because putative pastor's appointment was ineffective, pastor had no right to possession of disputed church property)].

CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Law and Types of Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.12

§ 13.12 Selecting Appropriate Type of Nonprofit Corporation

Public benefit corporations are formed for charitable or public purposes, rather than for the more limited purposes of either the mutual benefit of the members or the furtherance of religion [Corp. Code § 5111]. The Nonprofit Corporation Law does not define either "public" or "charitable" purposes. These entities are subject to greater oversight by the Attorney General than the other two primary types of nonprofit corporations.

Mutual benefit corporations are those formed primarily for the benefit of the members of the corporations or persons engaging in a particular type of business or activity. Because the business or activity of mutual benefit corporations tends to be of a limited nature, mutual benefit corporations serve a smaller group of recipients than public benefit corporations formed for public or charitable purposes. For example, most common interest development associations are formed as nonprofit mutual benefit corporations. However, a corporation whose assets will be irrevocably dedicated to charitable, religious, or public purposes and that, as a matter of law or according to its articles or bylaws, must distribute its assets to person or persons carrying on a charitable, religious, or public purpose on dissolution, may not be formed under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7111].

Religious corporations are the least regulated of the three primary types of nonprofit corporations. On this basis, if the corporation will be formed primarily or exclusively for religious purposes [see Corp. Code § 9111], the corporation should organize under the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 9110 et seq.].

For further comparison of these entities and selection criteria, see § 13.110.

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.20

§ 13.20 Articles of Incorporation

[1] Filing Articles Begins Corporate Existence

One or more persons may form a nonprofit corporation by executing and filing articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 5120(a), 7120(a), 9120(a); see Corp. Code § 5035 ("articles" defined)]. Societies for the prevention of cruelty to children and animals require 20 or more persons who are citizens and residents of California [Corp. Code § 10400]. A nonprofit corporation is formed and corporate existence begins on the filing of the articles of incorporation and continues perpetually unless otherwise expressly provided by law or in the articles [Corp. Code §§ 5120(a), (c), 7120(a), (c), 9120(a), (c); see Corp. Code §§ 5132(a)(1), 7132(a)(1), 9132(a)(1) (limiting corporation's existence)].

For all purposes, other than an action in the nature of quo warranto, a copy of the articles of a corporation duly certified by the Secretary of State is conclusive evidence of the formation of the corporation and prima facie evidence of its corporate existence [Corp. Code §§ 5133, 7133, 9133]. Thus, the act of the Secretary of State in filing the articles, even though done under an erroneous view of the legal requirements for incorporation, the availability of the name chosen, or as to the sufficiency of the articles or their execution, is effective to create a valid corporation, except against direct attack by the state [see Vallejo & N. R. Co. v. Reed Orchard Co. (1915) 169 Cal. 545, 559-560, 147 P. 238].

For discussion of execution requirements, see §§ 13.200[1][e] (public benefit), 13.210[1][e] (mutual benefit), and 13.220[1][e] (religious), respectively.

[2] Contents

The articles of incorporation must set forth provisions prescribed by the Nonprofit Corporation Law, including the name of the corporation, a prescribed statement concerning the purpose and governing law of the corporation, and information identifying the corporation's agent for service of process [see Corp. Code §§ 5130, 7130, 9130]. In addition to these mandatory provisions, the articles effecting incorporation of an unincorporated association [see Corp. Code §§ 5121(a), 7121(a), 9121(a)] must set forth the name of the unincorporated association and a statement that an existing unincorporated association is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code §§ 5121(b), 7121(b), 9121(b)].

The Nonprofit Corporation Law also specifically mentions numerous optional provisions that may be included in the articles [see Corp. Code §§ 5131, 5132, 7131, 7132, 9131, 9132; see also § 13.130].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Organization of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.21

§ 13.21 Bylaws

[1] Purpose of Bylaws

"Bylaws" are rules and procedures adopted by the corporation for its internal government that regulate its conduct and operations and prescribe the rights and duties of its members towards itself and among themselves in reference to the management of its affairs [see Corp. Code §§ 5150(a), 7150(a), 9150(a); see also Olincy v. Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 260, 267, 19 Cal. Rptr. 387] . The term "bylaws" includes amendments to the bylaws and amended bylaws [Corp. Code § 5037]. The bylaws provide rules for procedures not covered by statute, and may be used to alter default rules that apply in the absence of a bylaw to the contrary. Under the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law, the term "bylaws" means the code or codes of rules used, adopted, or recognized for the regulation or management of the affairs of the corporation irrespective of the name or names by which those rules are designated [Corp. Code § 9150(a); see Metropolitan Philip v. Basil Steiger (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 923, 932, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 605 (bylaws of religious corporation can include more than just document bearing that title); Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, Nonprofit Corporations and Organizations , § 418.04 (Matthew Bender); see also § 13.221].

Subject to the provisions of the articles, the bylaws, and applicable statutes, nonprofit corporations generally may tailor the bylaws to suit their needs. However, the bylaws must operate reasonably and equally to all members [see Haynes v. Annandale Golf Club (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 28, 30, 47 P.2d 470 ; see also Braude v. Automobile Club of Southern Cal. (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 178, 182-185, 144 Cal. Rptr. 169] . The adoption, amendment, and repeal of bylaws are discussed in §§ 13.201[1][n] (public benefit) and 13.212[1][n] (mutual benefit), respectively.

[2] Contents

Unless stated in the articles, the bylaws must state (1) the number of directors of the corporation; (2) the method of determining the number of directors of the corporation; or (3) that the number of directors may not be less than a stated minimum (one or more) nor more than a stated maximum with the exact number of directors to be fixed, within the limits specified, by approval of the board or the members [Corp. Code § 5034], in the manner provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5151(a), 7151(a), 9151(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5151(e), 7151(e), 9151(e) (supermajority voting requirements)]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, once members have been admitted, a bylaw specifying or changing a fixed number of directors or the maximum or minimum number or changing from a fixed to a variable board or vice versa may only be adopted by approval of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5151(b), 7151(b), 9151(b)].

The Nonprofit Corporation Law also specifically mentions numerous optional provisions that may be included in the bylaws [see Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)-(f), 7151(c)-(f), 9151(c)-(f); see also § 13.131]. Further, the bylaws may delegate some or all of the members' authority. If delegates are provided for, the bylaws must state the delegates' terms of office, a reasonable method for delegates' selection and removal, and a reasonable method for calling, noticing, and holding meetings of delegates; the bylaws may set forth the manner in which delegates may act by written ballot [Corp. Code §§ 5152, 7152, 9152; see Corp. Code §§ 5513, 7513, 9413]. Delegates may only act personally at a meeting or by written ballot and may not act by proxy [Corp. Code §§ 5152, 7152, 9152].

§ 13.22 Changing Unincorporated Association to Corporation

An existing unincorporated association may change its status to that of a public benefit corporation if the change is properly authorized by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code §§ 5121(a), 7121(a), 9121(a)]. In this situation, in addition to the matters required to be set forth in the articles [see Corp. Code §§ 5130, 7130, 9130], the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, stating its name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code §§ 5121(b), 7121(b), 9121(b)].

The articles of incorporation being filed must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association, stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the verified statement is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code §§ 5121(c), 7121(c), 9121(c); see § 13.242].

Effective on the change of status of an unincorporated association to a corporation, the property of the association becomes the property of the corporation and association members with voting rights [see Corp. Code § 5056] become members of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5121(d), 7121(d), 9121(d)]. The filing for record in the office of the county recorder of any California county in which any of the association's real property is located of a copy of the articles of incorporation, certified by the Secretary of State, constitutes evidence of record ownership in the corporation of all interests of the association in and to the real property located in that county [Corp. Code §§ 5121(e), 7121(e), 9121(e)]. All rights of creditors and all liens on association property are preserved unimpaired. Further, any action or proceeding pending by or against the unincorporated association may be prosecuted to judgment (and the judgment will bind the corporation) or the corporation may be proceeded against or substituted in its place [Corp. Code §§ 5121(f), 7121(f), 9121(f)].

If a corporation is organized by a person who is or was an officer, director, or member of an unincorporated association and the corporation is not organized pursuant to Corp. Code §§ 5121(a), 7121(a), or 9121(a), then the unincorporated association may continue to use its name and the corporation may not use a name that is the same as or similar to the name of the unincorporated association [Corp. Code §§ 5121(g), 7121(g), 9121(g)].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the unincorporated association's voting members will not all be included as members of the corporation being formed, or if additional persons will become members of the corporation, the association's governing instrument(s) should be modified before incorporation, or the corporation's articles or bylaws should be drafted to achieve the desired result immediately on incorporation.

Following the filing of the articles of incorporation, nonprofit corporations must hold their initial meeting to complete corporate formation. At the meeting, corporations typically choose directors if not already selected, adopt bylaws [see § 13.21], elect officers, and make financial and operational decisions.

For the procedure for holding an organizational meeting, see § 13.121. For a form for minutes of the meeting, see § 13.247. To determine whether the meeting is subject to the Brown Act, see § 13.31[5][g].

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.31

§ 13.31 Directors

[1] Authority of Board

[a] Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

Each corporation must have a board of directors. Subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law and any limitation in articles or bylaws requiring member approval or approval by a majority of the members [see Corp. Code §§ 5033, 5034], the board conducts the activities and affairs of the corporation, and all corporate powers [see § 13.30] are exercisable by or under the direction of the board subject to any limitations in the [Corp. Code § 5210, 7210]. The board may delegate corporate management authority to any person or persons, management company, or committee, however composed, provided that the activities and affairs of the corporation are managed and all powers exercised under the ultimate direction of the board [Corp. Code § 5210, 7210].

Subject to qualifications concerning the transaction of business [see Corp. Code §§ 5212, 5233-5235, 5238(e), 7212, 7233, 7234, 7237(e), 7238; see also § 13.38], every act or decision done or made by a majority of the directors present at a meeting duly held at which a quorum is present is the act of the board. The articles or bylaws may not provide that a lesser vote than a majority of the directors present at a meeting is the act of the board. A meeting at which a quorum is initially present may continue to transact business notwithstanding the withdrawal of directors, if any action taken is approved by at least a majority of the required quorum for that meeting, or such greater number as is required by the law, the articles, or the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(8), 7211(a)(8)].

[b] Religious Corporations

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, and subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law, each corporation must have a board of directors. The board conducts the activities and affairs of the corporation, and all corporate powers [see § 13.30] are exercisable by or under the direction of the board subject to any limitations in the [Corp. Code § 9210(a)]. The board may delegate corporate management authority to any person or persons, provided that the activities of the corporation are managed and all powers exercised under the ultimate direction of the board [Corp. Code § 9210(b)].

Any act or decision by a majority of the directors present at a duly held meeting at which a quorum is present is the act of the board. The articles or bylaws may not provide that a lesser vote than a majority of the directors present at a meeting is the act of the board. A meeting at which a quorum is initially present may continue to transact business notwithstanding the withdrawal of directors, if any action taken is approved by at least a majority of the required quorum for that meeting, or a greater number if required by the applicable Corporations Code provisions, the articles, or the bylaws [Corp. Code § 9211(a)(8)].

[2] Selection, Nomination, and Election of Directors

[a] Election of Directors of Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

In general, directors of public benefit or mutual benefit corporations must be elected unless the articles or bylaws permit the designation or selection by a specified designator of directors [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), (d), 7220(a), (d)]. Directors may be elected by written ballot [see Corp. Code §§ 5513, 7513]. When the corporation has members, the members must have reasonable nomination and election procedures given the nature, size, and operations of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5520(a), 7520(a)]. If the corporation complies with all of the following statutory provisions applicable to corporations with the same number of members, the nomination and election procedures of the corporation will be deemed reasonable [Corp. Code §§ 5520(b), 7520(b)]:

- Corp. Code §§ 5521, 5523, and 5524 or 7521, 7523, and 7524, applicable to corporations with 500 or more members.

- Corp. Code §§ 5522 or 7522, applicable to corporations with 5,000 or more members.

However, these statutes do not prescribe the exclusive means of making reasonable nomination and election procedures available to the members. A corporation may make other reasonable procedures available to the members, in view of the nature, size, and operations of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5520(b), 7520(b)].

[b] Nomination Requirements for Directors of Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

A public benefit or mutual benefit corporation with 500 or more members may provide that, except for directors elected as authorized by the Corporations Code provision regarding the appointment of delegates [see Corp. Code §§ 5152, 7152] or on the basis of chapter or other organizational unit [see Corp. Code §§ 5153, 7153], and except as provided in the Corporations Code section relating to corporations with 5,000 or more members [see Corp. Code §§ 5522, 7522], any person qualified to be elected as a director of the corporation may be nominated [Corp. Code §§ 5521, 7521]

- By any method authorized by the bylaws, or if no method is set forth by the bylaws, by any method authorized by the board.

- By petition delivered to an officer of the corporation, signed within 11 months preceding the next time directors will be elected, by an appropriate number of voting members [see Corp. Code §§ 5521(b), (c), 7521(b), (c)].

- If a meeting will be held to elect directors, by any member present at the meeting in person or by proxy if proxies are permitted.

If the corporation has 5,000 or more members, several restrictions are applicable to the nomination and election of directors and inapplicable to an election of delegates [see Corp. Code §§ 5152, 7152] or an election on the basis of organizational or geographic grouping [Corp. Code §§ 5522, 7522; see Corp. Code §§ 5153, 7153]. For example, the corporation's articles or bylaws must set a date for the close of nominations for the board, after which nominations may not be made. The date must not be less than 50 nor more than 120 days before the day the directors are to be elected. If more people are nominated for the board than can be elected, the election must take place by means of a procedure that allows all nominees a reasonable opportunity to solicit votes and all members a reasonable opportunity to choose among the nominees. A nominee must have a reasonable opportunity to communicate to the members the nominee's qualifications and the reasons for the nominee's candidacy. If after close of nominations the number of people nominated for the board is not more than the number of directors to be elected, the corporation may declare, without further action, that those nominated have been elected [Corp. Code §§ 5522, 7522].

[c] Special Rule for Public Benefit Corporations and Interested Persons

No more than 49 percent of the board of directors of a public benefit corporation may be interested persons [Corp. Code § 5227(a)]. "Interested persons" include (1) persons currently compensated by the corporation for services rendered in the preceding year, whether as a full-time or part-time employee, independent contractor, or otherwise, excluding any reasonable compensation paid to a director as director and (2) any brother, sister, ancestor, descendant, spouse, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, mother-in-law, or father-in-law of any compensated person described in (1) [Corp. Code § 5227(b); see Corp. Code §§ 5227(c), 5142 (standing)]. Violations of these rules do not affect the validity or enforceability of any transaction entered into by the corporation [Corp. Code § 5227(d)].

The term "interested person," unlike the term "interested director" [see § 13.38] does not require a material financial interest [compare Corp. Code § 5227(b) with Corp. Code § 5233(a)].

[d] Religious Corporations

The articles or bylaws of religious corporations may provide for the tenure, election, selection, designation, removal, and resignation of directors [Corp. Code § 9220(a)]. Directors must perform their duties in good faith and in a manner believed to be in the corporation's best interests as to any acts or omissions in connection with the election, selection, and nomination of directors [Corp. Code § 9242(a)].

Absent specific provision in the articles or bylaws, the terms of directors is one year [Corp. Code § 9220(b)]. Each director, including a director elected to fill a vacancy, holds office until the expiration of the term for which elected and until a successor has been elected and qualified unless the articles or bylaws provide otherwise, or unless the director has been removed from office [Corp. Code § 9220(c)].

[e] Appointment by Superior Court

The superior court of any county may appoint directors of nonprofit corporations in two situations. First, if a nonprofit corporation has not issued memberships and all the directors resign, die, or become incompetent, the superior court may appoint directors on the application of any party in interest. Second, if the corporation's initial directors have not been named in the articles and all the incorporators resign, die, or become incompetent before the election of the initial directors, the superior court may appoint the directors on the application of any party in interest [Corp. Code §§ 5220(e), 7220(e), 9220(d)].

[3] Number and Qualifications of Directors

The bylaws must specify the exact number of directors of the corporation or the method of determining the number of directors of the corporation; unless the articles state that requirement. Alternatively, the bylaws or the articles may state that the number of directors must not be less than a stated minimum nor more than a stated maximum with the exact number of directors to be fixed by the approval of the board or the members. In either event, the number or minimum number of directors may be one or more [Corp. Code §§ 5151(a), 7151(a), 9151(a)]. Once members have been admitted, any adoption of a bylaw specifying or changing the fixed number of directors or the maximum or minimum number or changing from a fixed to a variable board or vice versa must be approved by the members [Corp. Code §§ 5151(b), 7151(b), 9151(b)].

The bylaws may specify the required qualifications of the directors, provided that they do not conflict with the law or with the articles of incorporation [Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)(3), 7153(c), 9153(c)]. Typical qualifications include corporate membership, California residency, and specific educational or employment background.

[4] Term of Office

[a] Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

With the exception of directors who may be designated or selected [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)], directors of public benefit and mutual benefit corporations must be elected for terms not longer than four years, as fixed in the articles or bylaws. Corporations without members may provide for terms up to six years. Absent provision in the articles or bylaws, a director's term of office is one year [Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), 7220(a)]. The articles or bylaws may provide for staggering the terms of directors by dividing the total number of directors into groups. The terms of office of the several groups, as well as the number of directors in each group, need not be uniform. However, no amendment of the articles or bylaws may extend the term of a director beyond that for which the director was elected, and a bylaw provision increasing the terms of directors may not be adopted without the approval of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5220(a), 7220(a)].

Unless the articles or bylaws provide to the contrary, each director, including a director elected to fill a vacancy, must hold office until the expiration of the term for which elected and until a successor has been elected and qualified, unless the director has been removed from office [Corp. Code §§ 5220(b), 7220(b)].

Notwithstanding these rules, all or any portion of the directors authorized in the articles or bylaws of a corporation may hold office by virtue of designation or selection by a specified designator as provided by the articles or bylaws rather than by election. These directors continue in office for the term prescribed by the governing article or bylaw provision; if no term is prescribed, directors continue until the governing article or bylaw provision is duly amended or repealed, or the director is removed without cause [Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d); see Corp. Code §§ 5222(e), 7222(e)]. A bylaw provision authorized by this subdivision may be adopted, amended, or repealed only by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 5034] except as provided in Corp. Code § 5150(d) or 7150(d) (written approval requirement) [Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)].

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the entitlement to designate or select a director or directors will cease if either of the following circumstances exist [Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d)]:

- The specified designator of that director or directors has died or ceased to exist.

- The entitlement of the specified designator of that director or directors to designate is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and the office, trust, or status has ceased to exist.

[b] Religious Corporations

The articles or bylaws of a religious corporation may provide for the tenure of the directors [Corp. Code § 9220(a)]. Absent provision in the articles or bylaws, the terms of directors is one year [Corp. Code § 9220(b)]. Unless the articles or bylaws otherwise provide, each director, including a director elected to fill a vacancy, holds office until the expiration of the term for which elected and until a successor has been elected and qualified, unless the director has been removed from office [Corp. Code § 9220(c)].

[5] Meeting Requirements

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should advise nonprofits of the importance of complying with meeting, notice, and quorum requirements. Nonprofits may consider the technicalities of corporate formalities and governance of less import than the charitable purposes of the corporation.

[a] Call and Location

Meetings of the board may be called by the chair of the board or the president or any vice president or the secretary or any two directors unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(1), 7211(a)(1), 9211(a)(1)]. Meetings of the board may be held at any place within or outside California that has been designated in the notice of meeting or, if not stated in the notice or if there is no notice, designated in the bylaws or by resolution of the board [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(5), 7211(a)(5), 9211(a)(5)]. Each director present and voting at a meeting has one vote on each matter presented to the board of directors for action at that meeting. No director may vote at any meeting by proxy [Corp. Code §§ 5211(c), 7211(c), 9211(c)].

[b] Quorum Requirements

A majority of the number of directors authorized in or pursuant to the articles or bylaws constitutes a quorum of the board for the transaction of business [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(7), 7211(a)(7), 9211(a)(7)]. The articles or bylaws may require the presence of one or more specified directors in order to constitute a quorum of the board to transact business, as long as the death of a director or the death or nonexistence of the person or persons otherwise authorized to appoint or designate that director does not prevent the corporation from transacting business in the normal course of events [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(7), 7211(a)(7), 9211(a)(7)]. The articles or bylaws of public or mutual benefit corporations may not provide that a quorum will be less than one fifth the number of directors authorized in or pursuant to the articles or bylaws, or less than two, whichever is larger, unless the number of directors authorized in or pursuant to the articles or bylaws is one, in which case the single directors constitutes a quorum [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(7), 7211(a)(7)].

[c] Notice Requirements

Regular meetings of the board may be held without notice if the time and place of the meetings are fixed by the bylaws or the board. Special meetings of the board must be held on four days notice by first class mail or 48 hours notice delivered personally or by telephone, including a voice messaging system or by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(2), 7211(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 20]. The articles or bylaws may not dispense with notice of a special meeting. A notice, or waiver of notice, need not specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the board [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(2), 7211(a)(2), 9211(a)(2)].

Notice of a meeting need not be given to a director who provided a waiver of notice, or a consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting in writing, whether before or after the meeting, or who attends the meeting without protesting, before the meeting or at its commencement, the lack of notice to that director. All waivers, consents and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meetings [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(3), 7211(a)(3), 9211(a)(3)].

[d] Participation Through Electronic Means

Board members may participate in a meeting through use of conference telephone, electronic video screen communication, or electronic transmission by and to the corporation. Participation in a meeting through use of conference telephone or electronic video screen communication constitutes presence in person at the meeting as long as all members participating in the meeting are able to hear one another. Participation in a meeting through use of electronic transmission by and to the corporation (other than conference telephone and electronic video) screen communication constitutes presence in person at the meeting if all the following apply [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(6), 7211(a)(6), 9211(a)(6)]:

- Each participating member can communicate with all other members concurrently.

- Each member has the means to participate in all matters before the board, including, without limitation, the capacity to propose, or to interpose an objection to, a specific action to be taken by the corporation.

[e] Action Without Meeting

Any action required or permitted to be taken by the board may be taken without a meeting, if all members of the board individually or collectively consent in writing to that action. All written consents must be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the board. Such an action by written consent has the same force and effect as the unanimous vote of the directors [Corp. Code §§ 5211(b), 7211(b), 9211(b)].

[f] Adjournment

A majority of the directors present, whether or not a quorum is present, may adjourn any meeting to another time and place [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(4), 7211(a)(4), 9211(a)(4)]. If the meeting is adjourned for more than 24 hours, notice of any adjournment to another time or place must be given before the time of the adjourned meeting to the directors who were not present at the time of the adjournment [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(4), 7211(a)(4)].

[g] Brown Act Requirements

Under specified circumstances, meetings of boards of directors, commissions, committees, and other multimember bodies governing a private corporation, limited liability company, or other entity may be subject to the Brown Act. The Brown Act balances the need for public access to meetings of public entities and the need for confidentiality [see Gov. Code § 54950 et seq.].

Nonprofits may be subject to the Brown Act in one of two ways. First, the Brown Act expressly applies to corporations, limited liability companies, and other entities that are created by an elected legislative body to exercise authority that may lawfully be delegated by the elected governing body to a private corporation, limited liability company, or other entity [Gov. Code § 54952(c)(1)(A)]. Second, if the corporation, limited liability company, or other other entity (1) receives funds from a local agency and (2) has an appointed member of the legislative body of the local agency as a member of its own governing body includes a member of the appointed to that governing body as a full voting member by the legislative body of the local agency [Gov. Code § 54952(c)(1)(B); see Gov. Code § 54952(c)(2)]. Thus, the Brown Act does not apply based solely on the receipt of public funds, or if the legislative body appoints someone other than one of its own members.

The Brown Act can apply to informal and formal meetings, including any congregation of a majority of the members of a legislative body (corporation) at the same time and location, including teleconference location as permitted by Gov. Code § 54953, to hear, discuss, deliberate, or take action on any item that is within the subject matter jurisdiction of the legislative body [Gov. Code § 54952.2(a)]. Further, the Act applies to purely social or ceremonial gatherings at which a majority of the legislative body is present unless a majority of the members do not discuss among themselves business of a specific nature that is within the subject matter jurisdiction of the legislative body of the local agency [Gov. Code § 54952.2(c)(5)].

The Brown Act imposes notice and agenda requirements [Gov. Code §§ 54954.2, 54956], and public access requirements [see Gov. Code § 54954.3]. The failure to comply with the Brown Act is subject to injunctive and declaratory relief [see Gov. Code §§ 54960, 54960.1, 54960.5], and the imposition of criminal penalties [see Gov. Code § 54959].

[6] Duties and Liabilities

[a] Good Faith Standard for Public and Mutual Benefit Corporations

A director of a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation must perform the duties of that office, including duties as a member of any board committee on which the director may serve, in good faith, in a manner that the director believes to be in the best interests of the corporation and with the care, including reasonable inquiry, as an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances [Corp. Code §§ 5231(a), 7231(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5232, 7232]. In performing these duties, a director is entitled to rely on information, opinions, reports or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, in each case prepared or presented by any of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5231(b), 7231(b)]:

- One or more officers or employees of the corporation whom the director believes to be reliable and competent in the matters presented.

- Counsel, independent accountants, or other persons as to matters that the director believes to be within that person's professional or expert competence.

- A committee on which the director does not serve that is composed exclusively of any or any combination of directors, persons described in item (1), above, or persons described in item (2), above, as to matters within its designated authority, if the director believes that the committee merits confidence, so long as the director acts in good faith, after reasonable inquiry when the need is indicated by the circumstances, and without knowledge that would cause reliance to be unwarranted.

A person who performs the duties of a director in accordance with these requirements will not be liable based on any alleged failure to discharge the person's obligations as a director, including, without limitation, any actions or omissions that exceed or defeat a public or charitable purpose to which a corporation, or the assets held by it, are dedicated [Corp. Code §§ 5231(c), 7231(c); but see Corp. Code § 5233 (self-dealing); see also § 13.38].

These rules apply regardless of whether or not the director is compensated [Corp. Code §§ 5230(a), 7230(a)].

[b] Good Faith Standard for Religious Corporations

A director of a religious corporation must perform the duties of that office, including duties as a member of any board committee on which the director may serve, in good faith, in a manner that the director believes to be in the best interests of the corporation and with the care, including reasonable inquiry, as an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances [Corp. Code § 9241(a)]. In performing these duties, a director is entitled to rely on the same sources on which directors of other nonprofits may rely [see [a], above], plus information, opinions, reports or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, in each case prepared or presented by religious authorities and ministers, rabbis, priests, or other persons whose position or duties in the religious organization the director believes justifies reliance and confidence and who the director believes to be reliable and competent in the matters presented. In any event, the director must act in good faith, after reasonable inquiry when the need is indicated by the circumstances, and without knowledge that would cause reliance to be unwarranted [Corp. Code § 9241(b)]. Further, in making a good faith determination, the director may consider what he or she believes to be the religious purposes of the corporation and applicable religious tenets, canons, laws, policies, and authorities [Corp. Code § 9240(c)].

A person who performs the duties of a director in accordance with these requirements will not be liable based on any alleged failure to discharge the person's obligations as a director, including, without limitation, any actions or omissions that exceed or defeat a public or charitable purpose to which a corporation, or the assets held by it, are dedicated [Corp. Code § 9241(d); but see Corp. Code § 9243 (self-dealing); see also § 13.38].

The good faith requirement rather than the rules on self-dealing govern any action or omissions of a director regarding the compensation of directors, as directors or officers, or any loan to or guaranty of the obligation of any director or officer. No otherwise valid obligation is voidable merely because directors who benefited by a board resolution to pay compensation or to make the loan or guaranty participated in making the resolution [Corp. Code § 9241(c)].

These rules apply regardless of whether or not the director is compensated [Corp. Code § 9240(a)].

[c] Liability for Distributions, Loans, and Guarantees

Subject to Corp. Code §§ 5231, 7231, and 9241, discussed in [a] and [b], above, directors of a corporation who approve any of the following corporate actions are jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the following [Corp. Code §§ 5237(a), 7236(a), 9245(a)]:

- The making of any distribution, or for a mutual benefit corporation, any distribution contrary to Corp. Code § 7410 et seq.

- The distribution of assets after institution of dissolution proceedings, without paying or adequately providing for all known liabilities of the corporation, excluding any claims not filed by creditors within the time limit set by the court in a notice given to creditors [see Corp. Code §§ 6510-6721, 8510-8721, 9680].

- The making of any loan or guaranty contrary to Corp. Code §§ 5236, 7235, 9241 [see § 13.38].

Directors of public benefit or mutual benefit corporations who are present at a meeting of the board or any board committee, at which one of the above specified actions is taken and who abstains from voting is considered to have approved the action [Corp. Code §§ 5237(b), 7236(b)].

Recoverable damages include the amount of the illegal distribution, or if the illegal distribution consists of property, the fair market value of that property at the time of the illegal distribution, plus interest from the date of the distribution at the legal rate on judgments until paid, together with all reasonably incurred costs of appraisal or any other valuation of that property, or the loss suffered by the corporation as a result of the illegal loan or guaranty [Corp. Code §§ 5237(d), 7236(d), 9245(c)].

The directors sued may implead all other directors liable and may compel contribution, either in that action or in an independent action against directors not joined in that action [Corp. Code §§ 5237(e), 7236(e), 9245(d)]. Directors are also entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the corporation against the persons who received the distribution or the loan or guaranty. Directors may also file a cross-complaint against the person or persons who are liable to the director as a result of this subrogation or may proceed against them in an independent action [Corp. Code §§ 5237(f), 7236(f), 9245(e)].

[7] Removal of Directors for Cause

The board may declare vacant the office of a director who has been declared of unsound mind by a final order of court or convicted of a felony, If the bylaws provide that a director may be removed for missing a specified number of board meetings, as of the time of the director's election, the director may be removed for failing to attend the requisite number of meetings [Corp. Code §§ 5221(a), 7221(a), 9221(a)]. A public benefit or mutual benefit corporation director may be removed if found by final court order or judgment to have breached specified duties [Corp. Code §§ 5221(a), 7221(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5230 et seq., 7238].

If the articles or bylaws prescribe qualifications for the directors [see Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)(3), 7151(c)(3), 9151(c)(3)], the board, by a majority vote of the directors who meet all of the required qualifications to be a director, may declare vacant the office of any director who fails or ceases to meet any required qualification that was in effect at the beginning of that director's current term of office [Corp. Code §§ 5221(b), 7221(b), 9221(b)].

[8] Removal of Directors Without Cause

[a] Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

If the corporation has no members, removal without cause requires the approval of a majority of the directors then in office except as provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5222(a)(3), 5310, 7222(a)(3), 7310].

In general, a directors may not be removed before the expiration of the director's term of office [Corp. Code §§ 5222(d), 7222(d); but see [Corp. Code §§ 5221, 5223, 7221, 7223 (removal for cause; members' suit)]. Unless designated, directors may be removed without cause as follows:

- For corporations with fewer than 50 members, the removal is approved by a majority of all members [Corp. Code §§ 5222(a)(1), 7222(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 5033].

- For corporations with 50 or more members, the removal is approved by the members [Corp. Code §§ 5222(a)(2), 7222(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 5034].

When a corporation's articles or bylaws authorize members to cumulate their votes [see § 13.33[5]], no director may be removed (unless the entire board is removed) when the votes cast against removal, or not consenting in writing to the removal, would be sufficient to elect the director if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast (or, if action is taken by written ballot, all memberships entitled to vote were voted) and the entire number of directors authorized at the time of the director's most recent election were then being elected [Corp. Code §§ 5222(b)(1), 7222(b)(1)].

If the articles or bylaws provide that the members of any class, voting as a class, are entitled to elect one or more directors, any directors so elected cannot be removed except by the applicable vote of the members of that class [Corp. Code §§ 5222(b)(2), 7222(b)(2)].

If the articles or bylaws provide that the members within a chapter or other organizational unit, or region or other geographic grouping, voting as such, are entitled to elect one or more directors, any director so elected may be removed only by the applicable vote of the members within that organizational unit or geographic grouping [Corp. Code §§ 5222(b)(3), 7222(b)(3)].

Any reduction of the authorized number of directors, or any amendment reducing the number of classes of directors, does not remove any director before the expiration of that director's term of office unless the reduction or any amendment also provides for the removal of one or more specified directors [Corp. Code §§ 5222(c), 7222(c)].

When a director removed without cause, for cause, or by members' suit was chosen by designation [see Corp. Code §§ 5220(d), 7220(d); see also [4][a], above], the following rules apply [Corp. Code §§ 5222(d), 7222(d)]:

- If a different person may be designated pursuant to the governing article or bylaw provision, the new designation must be made.

- If the governing article or bylaw provision contains no provision under which a different person may be designated, the governing article or bylaw provision is deemed repealed.

When the articles or bylaws permit a designator to designate one or more directors, then any director so designated may be removed without cause by the designator unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws at the time of designation [Corp. Code §§ 5222(f)(1), 7222(f)(1)]. The designator must consent in writing to the removal [Corp. Code §§ 5222(f)(2), 7222(f)(2)]. Unless provided otherwise in the articles or bylaws, the right to remove will not apply if (1) the designator entitled to that right has died or ceased to exist, or (2) the right is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and that office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code § 5222(f)(3)].

[b] Religious Corporations

If a religious corporation has no members, removal without cause requires the approval of the board except as provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 9222(a), (b), 9310].

For religious corporations with members, any or all directors may be removed without cause if the removal is approved by the members unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 9222(a)]. When the members of any class, voting as a class, are entitled to elect one or more directors, by the provisions of the articles or bylaws, any director so elected may be removed only by the applicable vote of the members of that class [Corp. Code § 9222(b)(1)]. If the articles or bylaws provide that the members within a chapter or other organizational unit, or region or other geographic grouping, voting as such, are entitled to elect one or more directors, any director so elected may be removed only by the applicable vote of the members within that organizational unit or geographic grouping [Corp. Code § 9222(b)(2)].

Any reduction of the authorized number of directors, or any amendment reducing the number of classes of directors, does not remove any director before the expiration of that director's term of office, unless the reduction or the amendment also provides for the removal of one or more specified directors [Corp. Code § 9222(c)].

[9] Removal of Directors by Suit

[a] Public Benefit Corporations

The superior court of the proper county, on suit by a director, or the lesser of (1) twice the authorized number [see Corp. Code § 5036] of members or (2) 20 members, may remove from office any director in case of fraudulent or dishonest acts, gross abuse of authority or discretion with reference to the corporation, or breach of any duty arising the standards of conduct requirements [Corp. Code § 5223(a); see Corp. Code § 5230 et seq.]. The court may bar from reelection any director so removed for a period prescribed by the court. The corporation must be made a party to the action [Corp. Code § 5223(a)]. The Attorney General may bring also an action, may intervene in such an action brought by any other party, and must be given notice of any such action brought by any other party [Corp. Code § 5223(b)].

[b] Mutual Benefit Corporations

The superior court of the proper county may, on suit by one of the following parties, remove from office any director in case of fraudulent or dishonest acts, gross abuse of authority or discretion with reference to the corporation, or breach of any duty arising from the corporation's holding assets in charitable trust [Corp. Code § 7223(a), (b); see Corp. Code § 7238; see also Committee to Save the Beverly Highlands Homes Association v. The Beverly Highlands Homes Association (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 1247, 1272, 1271, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 732 (suit by committee was insufficient to enable plaintiffs to obtain removal of board pursuant to Corp. Code § 7223)]:

- A director.

- In the case of a corporation in which the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is less than 5,000, the lesser of twice the authorized number [see Corp. Code § 5036] of members or 20 members.

- In the case of a corporation in which the total number of votes entitled to be cast for a director is 5,000 or more, the lesser of twice the authorized number [see Corp. Code § 5036] of members or 100 members.

Further, the court may bar from reelection any director so removed for a period prescribed by the court. The corporation must be made a party to the action [Corp. Code § 7223(a)].

In the case of a corporation holding assets in charitable trust, the Attorney General may bring such an action, may intervene in such an action brought by any other party, and must be given notice of any such action brought by any other party [Corp. Code § 7223(c)].

[c] Religious Corporations

The superior court of the proper county may, on suit by a director, or twice the authorized number [see Corp. Code § 5036 (definition of "authorized number") of members, remove from office any director in case of fraudulent acts and may bar from reelection any director so removed for a period prescribed by the court. The corporation must be made a party to the action [Corp. Code § 9223(a)]. The Attorney General may also bring or intervene in such an action and must be given notice of any such action brought by any other party [Corp. Code § 9223(b)].

[10] Resignation; Filling Vacancies

[a] Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

Any director may resign effective on giving written notice to the chairman of the board, the president, the secretary or the board of directors of the corporation, unless the notice specifies a later time for the effectiveness of the resignation. If the resignation is effective at a future time, a successor may be elected to take office when the resignation becomes effective [Corp. Code §§ 5224(c), 7224(c)]. However, a public benefit corporate director may not resign if the corporation would then be left without a duly elected director or directors in charge of its affairs except on notice to the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5226].

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws and except for a vacancy created by removal, vacancies on the board may be filled by approval of the board [see Corp. Code § 5032] or, if the number of directors then in office is less than a quorum, by (1) the unanimous written consent of the directors then in office; (2) the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors then in office at a meeting held pursuant to notice or waivers of notice [see Corp. Code §§ 5211, 7211]; or (3) the sole remaining director [Corp. Code §§ 5224(a), 7224(a)]. Unless the articles or a bylaw approved by the members provides that the board may fill vacancies occurring in the board by reason of the removal of directors, or unless the corporation has no members [see Corp. Code §§ 5310, 7310], vacancies occurring because of removal may be filled only by approval of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5224(a), 7224(a)]. The members may elect a director at any time to fill any vacancy not filled by the directors [Corp. Code §§ 5224(b), 7224(b)].

[b] Religious Corporations

Any director may resign effective on giving written notice to the chairman of the board, the president, the secretary or the board of directors of the corporation, unless the notice specifies a later time for the effectiveness of the resignation. If the resignation is effective at a future time, a successor may be elected to take office when the resignation becomes effective [Corp. Code § 9224(c)]. However, a director may not resign if the corporation would then be left without a duly elected director or directors in charge of its affairs [Corp. Code § 9226].

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws and except for a vacancy created by the removal of a director by the members, vacancies on the board may be filled by approval of the board [see Corp. Code § 5032] or, if the number of directors then in office is less than a quorum, by (1) the unanimous written consent of the directors then in office; (2) the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors then in office at a meeting held pursuant to notice or waivers of notice [see Corp. Code § 9211]; or (3) the sole remaining director [Corp. Code § 9224(a)]. Subject to any provision in the articles or a bylaws, the members may elect a director at any time to fill any vacancy not filled by the directors [Corp. Code § 9224(b)].

[11] Executive Committees

The board, by resolution adopted by a majority of the number of directors then in office, provided that a quorum is present, may create one or more committees. Each committee consists of two or more directors and must serve at the pleasure of the board. Committee appointments must be by a majority vote of the directors then in office, unless the articles or bylaws require a majority vote of the number of directors authorized in or pursuant to the articles or bylaws. The bylaws may authorize one or more committees, each consisting of two or more directors, and may provide that a specified officer or officers who are also directors of the corporation must be a member or members of the committee or committees. The board may appoint one or more directors as alternate members of any committee, who may replace any absent member at any meeting of the committee [Corp. Code §§ 5212(a), 7212(a), 9212(a)].

Any executive committee, to the extent provided in the resolution of the board or the bylaws, has all the authority of the board, except with respect to the following areas [Corp. Code §§ 5212(a), 7212(a), 9212(a)]:

- The approval of any action for which the approval of the members or approval of a majority of all members is required by law, regardless of whether the corporation has members.
- The filling of vacancies on the board or in any committee that has the authority of the board.
- The fixing of compensation of the directors serving on the board or on any committee.
- The amendment or repeal of bylaws or the adoption of new bylaws.
- The amendment or repeal of any resolution of the board which by its express terms is not so amendable or repealable.
- The appointment of committees of the board or the members of those committees.

Further, executive committees of public and mutual benefit corporations lack board authority over the following [Corp. Code §§ 5212(a), 7212(a)]:

- The expenditure of corporate funds to support a nominee for director after there are more people nominated for director than can be elected.
- The approval of any self-dealing transaction, except as provided in Corp. Code § 5233(d)(3)].

A committee exercising the authority of the board may not include as members persons who are not directors. The board may create other committees that do not exercise the authority of the board, and these other committees may include persons who are not directors [Corp. Code §§ 5212(b), 7212(b), 9212(b)].

Unless the bylaws provide to the contrary, a board of directors may delegate its powers to any committee, except as to the matters listed above over which the committees lack board authority [Corp. Code §§ 5212(c), 7212(c), 9212(c)].

[12] Appointment of Provisional Directors

If a public or mutual benefit corporation has an even number of directors who are equally divided and cannot agree as to the management of its affairs, so that its activities can no longer be conducted to advantage or so that there is danger that its property, activities, or business will be impaired or lost, the superior court of the proper county, notwithstanding any provisions of the articles or bylaws, and whether or not an action is pending for an involuntary winding up or dissolution of the corporation, may appoint a provisional director. An action seeking the appointment may be brought by any director or by members holding not less than 331/3 percent of the voting power [Corp. Code §§ 5225(a), 7225(a)].

If the members of a public or mutual benefit corporation are deadlocked so that they cannot elect the directors at the prescribed time, the superior court of the proper county may, notwithstanding any provisions of the articles or bylaws, on petition of members holding 50 percent of the voting power, appoint a provisional director or directors or order any other equitable relief as the court deems appropriate [Corp. Code §§ 5225(b), 7225(b)].

In the case of a public benefit corporation or a mutual benefit corporation holding assets in charitable trust, the person bringing the action must give notice to the Attorney General [Corp. Code §§ 5225(c), 7225(c)(1)]. The Attorney General may intervene, and the Attorney General may also bring suit independently [Corp. Code §§ 5225(c), (d), 7225(c)].

A provisional director must be an impartial person who is neither a member nor a creditor of the corporation, nor related by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree according to the common law to any of the other directors of the corporation or to any judge of the court by which the provisional director is appointed. A provisional director has all the rights and powers of a director until the deadlock in the board or among members is broken, or until that provisional director is removed by order of the court or by approval of a majority of all members [Corp. Code §§ 5225(e), 7225(d); see Corp. Code § 5033]. Provisional directors are entitled to compensation as fixed by the court unless otherwise agreed with the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5225(e), 7225(d)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.32

§ 13.32 Officers

A nonprofit corporation must have a chair of the board (who may be given the title chair of the board, chairperson of the board, chairman of the board, or chairwoman of the board) [see Corp. Code § 5039 ("chair" defined)] or a president or both, a secretary, a treasurer, a chief financial officer (or both), and other officers with titles and duties as are stated in the bylaws or determined by the board and as may be necessary to enable it to sign instruments [Corp. Code §§ 5213(a), 7213(a), 9213(a)]. The president or, if none, the chair of the board, is the general manager and chief executive officer of the corporation, unless otherwise provided in the articles or the bylaws. Unless otherwise specified in the articles or bylaws, if there is no chief financial officer, the treasurer is the chief financial officer of the corporation. Any number of offices may be held by the same person unless the articles or bylaws provide otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 5213(a), 7213(a), 9213(a)], except that neither the secretary, the treasurer, or the chief financial officer may serve concurrently as the president or chair of the board [Corp. Code §§ 5213(a), 9213(a)].

Except as otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, officers are chosen by the board and serve at the pleasure of the board, subject to the rights, if any, of an officer under any contract of employment [Corp. Code §§ 5213(b), 7213(b), 9213(b)]. Any officer may resign at any time on written notice to the corporation without prejudice to the rights, if any, of the corporation under any contract to which the officer is a party [Corp. Code §§ 5213(b), 7213(b), 9213(b)]. However, if the articles or bylaws of a public benefit corporation provide for the election of any officers by the members, the term of office of that officer must be one year unless the articles or bylaws provide for a different term. If the articles or bylaws provide for a different term, that term may not exceed three years [Corp. Code § 5213(c)].

The scope of authority of corporate officers is determined by reference to any applicable statutes, the articles, the bylaws, and board resolutions. The articles, bylaws, or a board resolution may limit the activities, powers, and discretion of the officers. These restrictions should be clearly stated in the applicable instrument.

PRACTICE TIP:

Nonprofit corporations often use other designations for their officers. In this situation, the bylaws should correlate the "official" designation with the operation title in the bylaws.

CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.33

§ 13.33 Members

[1] Admission of Members

A nonprofit corporation may admit persons to one class of members or provide for multiple classes of membership, as provided in the articles or bylaws, or the articles or bylaws may provide that the corporation will not have members. Absent provision for members, a corporation has no members [see Corp. Code §§ 5310(a), 7310(a), 9310(a); see also Corp. Code §§ 5313, 7313, 9313]. A corporation without members includes a corporation in which the directors are the only members Corp. Code §§ 5310(c), 7310(c), 9310(c)].

Memberships may be issued with or without consideration, subject to the articles and the bylaws, as determined by the board [Corp. Code §§ 5311, 7311, 9311].

[2] Meeting Requirements for Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

PRACTICE TIP:
Counsel should advise nonprofits of the importance of complying with meeting, notice, and quorum requirements. Nonprofits may consider the technicalities of corporate formalities and governance of less import than the charitable purposes of the corporation.

[a] Meetings in Accordance With Bylaws

Meetings of members of a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation may be held at any place stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws. If the bylaws fail to provide for a place of meeting, the meetings of members must be held at the principal office of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5510(a), 7510(a)].

[b] Meetings by Electronic Transmission

A meeting of the members may be conducted, in whole or in part, by electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication if [Corp. Code § 5510(f)]:

- The corporation implements reasonable measures to provide members a reasonable opportunity to participate in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy) in the meeting and to vote on matters submitted to the members, including an opportunity to read or hear the proceedings of the meeting substantially concurrently with those proceedings; and

- The corporation maintains a record of any member's vote or other action made or taken by means of electronic transmission to the corporation or electronic video screen communication.

Members not physically present in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy) at a meeting of the members may participate and vote at the meeting by electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication unless prohibited by the bylaws of the corporation provided that the board of directors has authorized electronic participation. The board has sole discretion to authorize electronic participation and adopt guidelines and procedures, subject to the requirement of obtaining the members' consent. A member will be deemed present in person or by proxy whether the meeting is held at a designated place or in whole or in part by means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code § 5510(a); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21].

Any request by a corporation to a member for consent to conduct a meeting of the members by electronic transmission by and to the corporation must include a notice that absent consent of the member, the meeting will be held at a physical location in accordance with statute [Corp. Code § 5510(f); see Corp. Code § 20(b)].

[c] Regular Meetings

A regular meeting of members must be held on a date and at a time, and with the frequency, stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws. In any event, a regular meeting must ordinarily be held in each year in which directors are to be elected at that meeting, for the purpose of conducting that election and transacting other proper business [Corp. Code §§ 5510(b), 7510(b)].

If a corporation with members is required to hold a regular meeting and fails to hold that meeting for a period of 60 days after the designated date, or if a meeting has not been held for a period of 15 months after formation or its last regular meeting if no date is designated in the bylaws, then the superior court of the proper county may summarily order the meeting to be held on the application of a member or the Attorney General [Corp. Code §§ 5510(c), 7510(c); see Corp. Code §§ 5510(d), 7510(d) (order may specify time, place, and form of notice of, and record date for, meeting); see also Corp. Code §§ 5515, 7515]. Similarly, if the corporation fails to hold a written ballot for a period of 60 days after the designated date, the superior court may summarily order the ballot to be conducted [Corp. Code §§ 5510(c), 7510(c)]. In either case, the corporation is entitled to a notice giving it an opportunity to be heard [Corp. Code §§ 5510(c), 7510(c)].

[d] Special Meetings

Special meetings of members for any lawful purpose may be called by the board, the chairman of the board, the president, or any other persons specified in the bylaws. In addition, special meetings for any lawful purpose may be called by 5 percent or more of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5510(e), 7510(e)].

[e] Quorum Requirements

One third of the voting power represented in person or by proxy constitutes a quorum at a meeting of the members. If a quorum is present, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voting power represented at the meeting, entitled to vote, and voting on any matter is the act of the members, unless the vote of a greater number or voting by classes is required by law or the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5512(a), 7512(a)]. The term "voting power" means the power to vote for the election of directors at the time any determination of voting power is made. It does not include the right to vote on the happening of some condition or event that has not yet occurred. In any case in which different classes of memberships are entitled to vote as separate classes for different members of the board, the determination of percentage of voting power is made on the basis of the percentage of the total number of authorized directors that the memberships in question (whether of one or more classes) have the power to elect in an election at which all memberships then entitled to vote for the election of any directors are voted [Corp. Code § 5078].

However, subject to statutory limitations [see Corp. Code §§ 5512(b), (c), 7512(b), (c)], a bylaw may set a different quorum. Any bylaw amendment to increase the quorum may be adopted only by approval of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5512(a), 7512(a)]. If a bylaw authorizes a corporation to conduct a meeting with a lower quorum requirement than that set by statute, then the only matters that may be voted on at a regular meeting actually attended, in person or by proxy, by less than one-third of the voting power are those for which notice of a general nature was given [Corp. Code §§ 5512(b), 7512(b)].

If a meeting is called or written ballot ordered by the superior court pursuant to Corp. Code § 5510(c) or 7510(c), the votes represented, either in person or by proxy, at that meeting and entitled to be cast on the business to be transacted constitute a quorum for the purpose of the meeting, notwithstanding any provision of the articles or bylaws to the contrary [Corp. Code § 5510(d)].

The members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough members to leave less than a quorum, if any action taken (other than adjournment) is approved by at least a majority of the members required to constitute a quorum or by the vote of any greater number or voting by classes required by law, the articles, or the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5512(c), 7512(c)]. Absent a quorum, any meeting may be adjourned from time to time by the vote of a majority of the votes represented either in person or by proxy and no other business may be transacted subject to the above requirement [Corp. Code §§ 5512(d), 7512(d)].

[f] Requirement and Timing of Notice

Whenever members are required or permitted to take any action at a meeting, a written notice of the meeting must be given not less than 10 nor more than 90 days before the date of the meeting to each member who is entitled to vote at the meeting as of the record date for notice of the meeting. If the notice is given by mail, and the notice is not mailed by first class, registered, or certified mail, that notice must be given not less than 20 days before the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5511(a), 7511(a)].

In the case of a special call, on written request to the corporation addressed to the attention of chairman of the board, president, vice-president, or secretary by any person (other than the board of directors) entitled to call a special meeting of members, that officer must forthwith cause notice to be given to the members entitled to vote. The notice must state that a meeting will be held at a time fixed by the board, not less than 35 nor more than 90 days after receipt of the request [Corp. Code §§ 5511(c), 7511(c); see [f], below]. If the notice is not given within 20 days after receipt of the request, the persons entitled to call the meeting may give the notice or the superior court of the proper county [see Corp. Code § 5068 (definition of "proper county")] will summarily order the giving of the notice, after notice to the corporation giving it an opportunity to be heard. The court may issue any orders that may be appropriate, including, without limitation, orders designating the time and place of the meeting, the record date for determination of members entitled to vote, and the form of notice [Corp. Code §§ 5511(c), 7511(c)].

[g] Contents of Notice

The notice must state the place, date, and time of the meeting of members and any means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21] or electronic video screen communication, if any, by which shareholders may participate in meeting [Corp. Code § 5511(a)]. In the case of a special meeting, it must also identify the general nature of the business to be transacted, and no other business may be transacted [Corp. Code §§ 5511(a), 7511(a)]. In the case of a regular meeting, the notice must also state those matters that the board, at the time of the mailing of the notice, intends to present for action by the members, but, subject to Corp. Code § 5512(b) or 7512(b), any proper matter may be presented at the meeting. If directors are to be elected, the notice must also state the names of the nominees as of the time the notice is sent to the members [Corp. Code §§ 5511(a), 7511(a)].

[h] Manner of Giving Notice

Notice of a members' meeting (or any report) must be given personally, by electronic transmission by the corporation, or by mail or other means of written communication addressed to the member at the address of the member appearing on the books of the corporation or given by the member to the corporation for purpose of notice. If no address appears or has been given, notice must be given at the place where the principal office of the corporation is located or by publication at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office is located [Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 7511(b)].

Notice given by electronic transmission by the corporation is valid only if it complies with Corp. Code § 20 [Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 7511(b)]. "Electronic transmission by the corporation" means a communication (1) delivered by facsimile telecommunication or electronic mail when directed to the facsimile number or electronic mail address on record with the corporation, (2) posting on an electronic message board or network designated by the corporation for those communications, together with a separate notice to the recipient of the posting, or (3) other electronic means to a recipient who has provided an unrevoked consent to the use of those means of communication transmission. The electronic transmission must create a record capable of retention, retrieval, and review and that may be rendered into clearly legible tangible form [Corp. Code § 20]. In the case of an electronic posting, the posting will be validly delivered on the later of the posting or delivery of the separate notice [Corp. Code § 20].

Notice may not be given by electronic transmission by the corporation if (1) the corporation is unable to deliver two consecutive notices to the shareholder by that means, or (2) the inability to deliver notices via electronic transmission becomes known to the secretary, any assistant secretary, the transfer agent, or other person responsible for giving notice [Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 7511(b)].

If any notice addressed to a member at the address appearing on the books of the corporation is returned to the corporation by the United States Postal Service marked to indicate that it is unable to deliver the notice to the member at that address, all future notices will be deemed to have been duly given without further mailing if they are available to the member on written demand of the member at the principal office of the corporation for a period of one year from the date on which the notice was given to all other members [Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 7511(b)].

[i] Notice of Adjourned Meeting

In general, if a members' meeting is adjourned to another time or place, unless the bylaws otherwise require, notice need not be given of the adjourned meeting if the time and place of the meeting (or any means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation or electronic video screen communication by which members may participate) are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken. However, if a new record date is fixed for notice or voting after the adjournment, notice of the adjourned meeting must be given to each member who, as of the record date for notice of the meeting, is entitled to vote at the meeting. No meeting may be adjourned for more than 45 days. At the adjourned meeting the corporation may transact any business which might have been transacted at the original meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5511(d), 7511(d)].

[j] Affidavit of Notice

The secretary, assistant secretary, or any transfer agent may execute an affidavit of giving of notice in accordance with the provisions of the Nonprofit Public Benefit or Mutual Benefit Corporation Law governing notices to members [see Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 7511(b)]. The affidavit is prima facie evidence of the giving of notice [Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 7511(b)].

[k] Waiver of Notice

The transactions of any meeting of the members, however called or noticed, and wherever held, are as valid as if effected at a meeting duly held after regular call and notice, if a quorum is present either in person or by proxy, and if, either before or after the meeting, each of the persons entitled to vote, not present in person or by proxy, provides waiver of notice, a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting in writing. All waivers, consents, and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5511(e), 7511(e)]. In general, neither the business to be transacted at nor the purpose of any regular or special meeting of members need be specified in any written waiver of notice, consent to the holding of the meeting, or approval of the minutes, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws [see Corp. Code §§ 5511(e), 7511(e)]. However, specified statutory approvals, other than unanimous approval, are valid only if the general nature of the approved proposal was stated in the notice of meeting or in any written waiver of notice [Corp. Code §§ 5511(f), 7511(f); see Corp. Code §§ 5222, 5224, 5812, 6610 (public benefit corporations); see also Corp. Code §§ 7222, 7224, 7233, 7812, 8610, 8719 (mutual benefit corporations)].

Attendance of a person at a meeting constitutes a waiver of notice of and presence at the meeting, except when the person objects, at the beginning of the meeting, to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called. However, attendance at a meeting is not a waiver of any right to object to consideration of the matters required to be included in the notice but not so included, if that objection is expressly made at the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5511(e), 7511(e)].

[l] Appointment of Inspectors of Election

In advance of any meeting of members, the board may appoint inspectors of election to act at the meeting and any adjournment of the meeting. If inspectors are not appointed, or if the appointed persons fail to appear or refuse to act, the chair of any meeting of members may, and on the request of any member or member's proxy must, appoint inspectors of election (or replacements) at the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5615(a), 7614(a)].

The number of inspectors must be either one or three. If appointed at a meeting on the request of one or more members or proxies, the majority of members represented in person or by proxy must determine whether one or three inspectors are to be appointed [Corp. Code §§ 5615(a), 7614(a)]. If there are three inspectors, the decision, act, or certificate of a majority of inspectors is the decision, act, or certificate of all [Corp. Code §§ 5615(c), 7614(c)].

In any action by written ballot [see [4][a], below], the board may similarly appoint inspectors of election [Corp. Code §§ 5615(a), 7614(a)].

[m] Duties of Inspectors of Election

The inspectors of election must determine the number of memberships outstanding and the voting power of each; the number represented at the meeting; the existence of a quorum; and the authenticity, validity, and effect of proxies. They must receive votes, ballots, or consents; hear and determine all challenges and questions in any way arising in connection with the right to vote; and count and tabulate all votes and consents. Finally, the inspectors must properly conduct the election or vote with fairness to all members, and determine when the polls close and the election result [Corp. Code §§ 5615(b), 7614(b)]. The inspectors must perform their duties impartially, in good faith, to the best of their ability and as expeditiously as is practical. Any report or certificate made by the inspectors constitutes prima facie evidence of the facts stated [Corp. Code §§ 5615(c), 7614(c)].

[3] Meeting Requirements for Religious Corporations

[a] Meetings in Accordance With Bylaws

The bylaws or articles may provide any reasonable method of calling, noticing, and holding regular or special meetings or obtaining approvals [Corp. Code § 9410(a)]. However, the articles or bylaws may not vary the provisions of Corp. Code § 9411(e) (notice contents), Corp. Code § 9417(e) (proxy notice contents), or Corp. Code § 9418 (suit to determine validity of directorship).

[b] Meetings by Electronic Transmission

A meeting of the members may be conducted, in whole or in part, by electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication if [Corp. Code § 9411(f)]:

- The corporation implements reasonable measures to provide members a reasonable opportunity to participate in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy) in the meeting and to vote on matters submitted to the members, including an opportunity to read or hear the proceedings of the meeting substantially concurrently with those proceedings; and

- The corporation maintains a record of any member's vote or other action made or taken by means of electronic transmission to the corporation or electronic video screen communication.

Members not physically present in person (or, if proxies are allowed, by proxy) at a meeting of the members may participate and vote at the meeting by electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication unless prohibited by the bylaws of the corporation provided that the board of directors has authorized electronic participation. The board has sole discretion to authorize electronic participation and adopt guidelines and procedures, subject to the requirement of obtaining the members' consent. A member will be deemed present in person or by proxy whether the meeting is held at a designated place or in whole or in part by means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code § 9411(a); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21].

Any request by a corporation to a member for consent to conduct a meeting of the members by electronic transmission by and to the corporation must include a notice that absent consent of the member, the meeting will be held at a physical location in accordance with statute [Corp. Code § 9411(f); see Corp. Code § 20(b)].

[c] Special Meetings

Special meetings of members for any lawful purpose may be called by the board, the board chair, or the president. In addition, special meetings of members for any lawful purpose may be called by 5 percent or more of the members [Corp. Code § 9411(b)].

On written request to the board chair, president, vice-president, or secretary by any person (other than the board) entitled to call a special meeting of members, the board must expeditiously set a reasonable time and place for the meeting and the officer must cause notice to be given to the members entitled to vote of the time and place of the meeting. If the notice is not given within 20 days after receipt of the request, the persons entitled to call the meeting may give the notice or the superior court of the proper county must summarily order the giving of the notice, after notice to the corporation giving it an opportunity to be heard. The court may issue any appropriate orders, including, without limitation, orders designating the time and place of the meeting, the record date for determination of members entitled to vote and the form of notice [Corp. Code § 9411(c)].

[d] Quorum Requirements

One third of the voting power represented in person or by proxy constitutes a quorum at a meeting of the members. If a quorum is present, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voting power represented at the meeting, entitled to vote, and voting on any matter is the act of the members, unless the vote of a greater number or voting by classes is required by law or the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 9412(a)]. The term "voting power" means the power to vote for the election of directors at the time any determination of voting power is made. It does not include the right to vote on the happening of some condition or event that has not yet occurred. In any case in which different classes of memberships are entitled to vote as separate classes for different members of the board, the determination of percentage of voting power is made on the basis of the percentage of the total number of authorized directors that the memberships in question (whether of one or more classes) have the power to elect in an election at which all memberships then entitled to vote for the election of any directors are voted [Corp. Code § 5078].

The members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough members to leave less than a quorum, if any action taken (other than adjournment) is approved by at least a majority of the members required to constitute a quorum or by the vote of any greater number or voting by classes required by law, the articles, or the bylaws [Corp. Code § 9412(b)]. Absent a quorum, any meeting may be adjourned from time to time by the vote of a majority of the votes represented either in person or by proxy and no other business may be transacted subject to the above-mentioned requirement [Corp. Code § 9412(c)].

[e] Waiver of Notice

The transactions of any meeting of the members, however called or noticed, and wherever held, are as valid as if effected at a meeting duly held after regular call and notice, if a quorum is present either in person or by proxy, and if, either before or after the meeting, each of the persons entitled to vote, not present in person or by proxy, signs a written waiver of notice, a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting. All waivers, consents, and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code § 9411(d)].

In general, neither the business to be transacted at nor the purpose of any regular or special meeting of members need be specified in any written waiver of notice, consent to the holding of the meeting, or approval of the minutes [see Corp. Code § 9411(d)]. However, specified statutory approvals, other than unanimous approval, are valid only if the general nature of the approved proposal was stated in the notice of meeting or in any written waiver of notice [Corp. Code § 9411(e); see Corp. Code §§ 9150(b), 9222, 9631(a), 9640(c), 9680(b); see also Corp. Code §§ 5812, 6015(a) (made applicable by Corp. Code §§ 9620, 9640)].

A person's attendance at a meeting constitutes a waiver of notice of and presence at the meeting, except when the person objects, at the beginning of the meeting, to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called. However, attendance at a meeting is not a waiver of any right to object to consideration of the matters required to be included in the notice but not so included, if that objection is expressly made at the meeting [Corp. Code § 9411(d)].

[4] Action Without Meeting

[a] Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

For the most part, any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting if the corporation distributes a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter unless prohibited in the articles or bylaws. Further, unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the annual report and any accompanying materials may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation and responses may be returned by electronic transmission to the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21]. The ballot must set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, and provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot to the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5513(a), 7513(a)]. However, the election of directors by written ballot may not be authorized if the directors are elected by cumulative voting [Corp. Code §§ 5513(e), 7513(e); see Corp. Code §§ 5616, 7615 (cumulative voting)]. Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, a written ballot may not be revoked [Corp. Code §§ 5513(d), 7513(d)].

Ballots must be solicited in a manner consistent with the requirements applicable to notice of members' meetings and proxy requirements [Corp. Code §§ 5513(c), 7513(c); see Corp. Code §§ 5511(b), 5514, 7511(b), 7514; see also [2], above]. All ballot solicitations must indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement and, with respect to ballots other than for the election of directors, must state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure submitted. The solicitation must also specify the time by which the ballot must be received in order to be counted [Corp. Code §§ 5513(c), 7513(c)].

Directors may be elected by written ballot, if authorized by the articles or bylaws, unless the directors are elected by cumulative voting [Corp. Code §§ 5513(e), 7513(e)]. When directors are to be elected by written ballot and the articles or bylaws prescribe a nomination procedure, the procedure may provide for a date for the close of nominations before the printing and distributing of the written ballots [Corp. Code §§ 5513(f), 7513(f)].

Approval by written ballot pursuant is valid only when the number of votes cast by ballot within the specified time period equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot [Corp. Code §§ 5513(b), 7513(b)].

[b] Religious Corporations

In general, any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting if (1) the written ballot of every member is solicited, (2) the requisite number of signed approvals, setting forth the actions taken, is received; and (3) the approval requirements are met [Corp. Code § 9413(a), (c)]. Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, that ballot and any related material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 20] and responses may be returned to the corporation by electronic transmission to the corporation [Corp. Code § 9413(a); see Corp. Code § 21]. All solicitations of ballots must indicate the time by which the ballot must be returned to the corporation to be counted [Corp. Code § 9413(b)]. A written ballot may not be revoked [Corp. Code § 9413(d)].

Approval by written ballot pursuant is valid only when the number of ballots cast on or before the specified date on which the ballot must be returned for counting equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot [Corp. Code § 9413(b)].

Directors may be elected by written ballot, if authorized by the articles or bylaws, unless the directors are elected by cumulative voting [Corp. Code § 9413(e); see Corp. Code § 9415; see also [6][c], below].

[5] Voting Requirements for Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] One-Vote Rule

In general, each member of a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation is entitled to only one vote on each matter submitted to a vote of the members. This rule is subject to the exceptions of cumulative voting and contrary provisions in the articles or the bylaws of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5610, 7610; see Corp. Code §§ 5615, 7615].

Single memberships in which two or more persons have an indivisible interest, including memberships standing in the names of two or more persons, are bound by the vote of one member, if only one member votes, or the act of the majority of members, if more than one member votes [Corp. Code §§ 5610, 5612, 7610, 7612]. This rule applies unless the secretary of the corporation is given written notice to the contrary and is furnished with a copy of the instrument or order appointing the members or creating the relationship wherein it is so provided [Corp. Code §§ 5610, 5612, 7610, 7612].

[b] Record Date for Entitlement to Vote

The bylaws may provide or, if there is no provision in the bylaws, the board may fix, in advance, a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to vote at a meeting of members. This record date may not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting. The record date also applies in the case of an adjournment of the meeting unless the board fixes a new record date for the adjourned meeting. If no record date is fixed, members on the day of the meeting who are otherwise eligible to vote are entitled to vote at the meeting of members or, in the case of an adjourned meeting, members on the day of the adjourned meeting who are otherwise eligible to vote are entitled to vote at the adjourned meeting of members [Corp. Code §§ 5611(b), 7611(b)].

[c] Record Date for Entitlement to Cast Ballots

The bylaws may provide or, if there is no provision in the bylaws, the board may fix, in advance, a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to cast written ballots. This record date may not be more than 60 days before the day on which the first written ballot is mailed or solicited. If no record date is fixed, members on the day the first written ballot is mailed or solicited who are otherwise eligible to vote are entitled to case written ballots [Corp. Code §§ 5611(c), 7611(c)].

[d] Record Date for Other Lawful Actions

The bylaws may provide or, if there is no provision in the bylaws, the board may fix, in advance, a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to exercise any rights in respect to any other lawful action. This record date may not be more than 60 days before the action. If no record date is fixed, members at the close of business on the day on which the board adopts the resolution relating to the action, or the sixtieth day before the date of that other action, whichever is later, are entitled to exercise their rights [Corp. Code §§ 5611(d), 7611(d)].

[e] Use of Proxies

Members may authorize another person or persons to act by proxy with respect to their membership, except that this right may be limited or withdrawn by the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5613(a), 7613(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5613(e), 7613(f)]. Any proxy purported to be executed in accordance with the provisions of the Nonprofit Corporation Law is presumptively valid [Corp. Code §§ 5613(a), 7613(a)].

A proxy is invalid after the expiration of 11 months from its issuance date unless otherwise provided in the proxy, except that the maximum term of any proxy is three years from the date of execution. Every proxy continues in full force and effect until revoked by the person executing it before the relevant vote. Revocation may be effected by a writing delivered to the corporation stating that the proxy is revoked, or by a subsequent proxy executed by the person executing the prior proxy and presented to the meeting, or as to any meeting by attendance at that meeting and voting in person by the person executing the proxy. The dates contained on the proxy forms presumptively determine the order of execution, regardless of the postmark dates on the envelopes in which they are mailed [Corp. Code §§ 5613(b), 7613(b)

A proxy is not revoked by the death or incapacity of the maker, or the termination of a membership as a result of death or incapacity, unless written notice of death or incapacity is received by the corporation before the vote is counted [Corp. Code §§ 5613(c), 7613(c)].

The proxy of a public benefit corporation member may not be irrevocable [Corp. Code § 5613(d)]. In contrast, a mutual benefit corporation member's proxy that states that is irrevocable for a specified period is irrevocable for that period (notwithstanding the three-year and death or incapacity rules), unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, provided that the proxy is held by a statutorily specified person or nominee [see Corp. Code § 7613(d) (limits on irrevocability)]. Nevertheless, the proxy may be revoked by a transferee of a membership without knowledge of the existence of irrevocability provision, unless the existence of the proxy and its irrevocability appears on the membership certificate [Corp. Code § 7613(e)].

No amendment of the articles or bylaws repealing, restricting, creating or expanding proxy rights may be adopted without approval by the members [Corp. Code §§ 5613(e), 7613(f)(1)]. Furthermore, an amendment of the articles or bylaws of a mutual benefit corporation that restricts or limits the use of proxies does not affect the validity of a previously issued irrevocable proxy during the term of its irrevocability as long as the proxy complied with any applicable provisions of the articles or bylaws at the time of issuance and the proxy is otherwise valid under Corp. Code § 7613 [Corp. Code § 7613(f)(2)].

Anything to the contrary notwithstanding, any proxy covering matters requiring a vote of the members pursuant to specified statutes is not valid as to those matters unless the proxy sets forth the general nature of the matter to be voted on [Corp. Code §§ 5613(f), 7613(g)]. Further, any public benefit corporation proxy relating to the election of directors [see Corp. Code § 5220] is not valid unless the proxy lists the nominees as of the time that the notice of the vote is given to members [Corp. Code § 5613(f)].

[f] Cumulative Voting

Every member entitled to vote an election of directors may cumulate the member's votes provided that the articles or bylaws authorize cumulative voting. Cumulative voting allows a member to give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the member is entitled, or to distribute the member's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the member thinks fit [Corp. Code § 5616(a), 7615(a)]. If applicable, a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation can only amend or repeal the article or bylaw provision authorizing cumulative voting only by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 5034]. The governing article or bylaw provision may require the vote of a greater proportion of the members, or of the members of any class, for its repeal [Corp. Code § 5616(a), 7615(a)].

No member may cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names were placed in nomination before the voting and at least one member gave notice at the meeting before the voting of the member's intention to cumulate votes [Corp. Code § 5616(b), 7615(b)].

Any form of proxy or written ballot distributed to 10 or more members of a corporation with 100 or more members must afford an opportunity on the proxy or form of written ballot to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters intended, at the time the written ballot or proxy is distributed, to be acted on at the meeting for which the proxy is solicited or by written ballot. The proxy or ballot must also provide, subject to reasonable specified conditions, that when the person solicited specifies a choice, the vote must be cast in accordance with the choice [Corp. Code §§ 5514(a), 7514(a)]. Further, in any election of directors, any form of proxy or written ballot in which the directors to be voted on are named as candidates and that is marked by a member "withhold" or otherwise marked in a manner indicating that the authority to vote for the election of directors is withheld must not be voted either for or against the election of the director [Corp. Code §§ 5514(b), 7514(a)]. The failure to comply with either of these two rules may be the basis for an action to challenge a proxy at a meeting or a written ballot, but does not invalidate any corporate action taken [Corp. Code §§ 5514(c), 7514(c)].

[6] Voting Requirements for Religious Corporations

[a] Written Consent

Any action required or permitted to be taken by the members of a religious corporation may be taken without a meeting, if all members individually or collectively consent in writing to the action [Corp. Code § 9420]. The written consent or consents must be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the members. Action by written consent has the same force and effect as the unanimous vote of the members [Corp. Code § 9420].

[b] Use of Proxies

Members may authorize another person or persons to act by proxy with respect to their membership, except that this right may be limited or withdrawn by the articles or bylaws. Any proxy purported to be executed in accordance with the provisions of the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law is presumptively valid [Corp. Code § 9417].

A proxy is invalid after the expiration of 11 months from its issuance date unless otherwise provided in the proxy. The maximum term of any proxy is three years from the date of execution. Every proxy continues in full force and effect until revoked by the person executing it before the relevant vote. Revocation may be effected by a writing delivered to the corporation stating that the proxy is revoked, or by a subsequent proxy executed by the person executing the prior proxy and presented to the meeting, or as to any meeting by attendance at that meeting and voting in person by the person executing the proxy [Corp. Code § 9417(b)].

The proxy of a religious corporation member may not be irrevocable [Corp. Code § 9417(d)]. A proxy is not revoked by the death or incapacity of the maker, or the termination of a membership as a result of death or incapacity, unless written notice of death or incapacity is received by the corporation before the vote is counted [Corp. Code § 9417(c)].

Anything to the contrary notwithstanding, any proxy covering matters requiring a vote of the members pursuant to specified statutes is not valid as to those matters unless the proxy sets forth the general nature of the matter to be voted on [Corp. Code § 9417(e); see Corp. Code §§ 9631(a), 9640(c), 9680(b); see also Corp. Code §§ 5812, 6015(a) (made applicable by Corp. Code §§ 9620, 9640)].

[c] Cumulative Voting

Every member of a religious corporation entitled to vote an election of directors may cumulate the member's votes provided that the articles or bylaws authorize cumulative voting. Cumulative voting allows a member to give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the member is entitled, or to distribute the member's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the member thinks fit [Corp. Code § 9415(a)]. No member may cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names were placed in nomination before the voting and at least one member gave notice at the meeting before the voting of the member's intention to cumulate votes [Corp. Code § 9415(b)].

[7] Good Faith Acceptance or Rejection of Ballots, Consents, Waivers, and Proxies

If the name signed on a ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment, corresponds to the name of a member, the corporation may, if acting in good faith, accept the ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment and give it effect as the act of the member [Corp. Code §§ 5517(a), 7517(a), 9421(a)].

When the name signed on a ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment does not correspond to the record name of a member, the corporation, acting in good faith, is nevertheless entitled to accept the ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment and give it effect as the act of the member if any of the following occur [Corp. Code §§ 5517(b), 7517(b), 9421(b)]:

- The member is an entity and the name signed purports to be that of an officer or agent of the entity.

- The name signed purports to be that of an attorney-in-fact of the member and, if the corporation requests, evidence acceptable to the corporation of the signatory's authority to sign for the member has been presented with respect to the ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment.

- Two or more persons hold the membership as cotenants or fiduciaries and the name signed purports to be the name of at least one of the coholders and the person signing appears to be acting on behalf of all the coholders. A mutual benefit corporation, acting in good faith, may accept and effectuate a ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment if the signed name purports to be that of an administrator, executor, guardian, conservator, receiver, or trustee representing the members and, on the corporation's request, if acceptable evidence of that status is presented to the corporation [Corp. Code § 7517(b)(4), (5)].

The corporation may reject a ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment if the secretary or other officer or agent authorized to tabulate votes, acting in good faith, has a reasonable basis for doubt concerning the validity of the signature or the signatory's authority to sign for the member [Corp. Code §§ 5517(c), 7517(c), 9421(c)]. The corporation and the officer or agent accepting or rejecting a ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment in good faith and in accordance with these standards are not liable in damages to the member for the consequences of the acceptance or rejection [Corp. Code §§ 5517(d), 7517(d), 9421(d)].

Corporate action based on the acceptance or rejection of a ballot, consent, waiver, or proxy appointment is valid unless a court of competent jurisdiction determines to the contrary [Corp. Code §§ 5517(e), 7517(e), 9421(e)].

[8] Termination of Membership in Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Operation of Bylaws

A membership in a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation that is issued for a period of time expires when that period of time has elapsed unless the membership is renewed [Corp. Code §§ 5340(c), 7340(c)].

In addition, the bylaws may specifically provide for the termination of memberships. For example, the bylaws may provide that any membership terminates when the subject member fails to pay dues, assessments, or fees. Another example is a provision for membership termination on the attempted transfer of a membership for value. The drafting attorney may include other substantive grounds for termination; however, it should be kept in mind that the grounds must not violate contractual or other rights of the members.

Specific procedures, including notice and member approval, apply if a public benefit corporation wishes to amend its articles or bylaws to terminate all memberships [Corp. Code § 5342; see [e], below].

[b] Resignation

Resignation of a member as another cause of termination [see Corp. Code §§ 5340(a), 7340(a)]. A member may resign at any time [Corp. Code §§ 5340(a), 7340(a)]; however, a mutual benefit corporation may provide in its articles or bylaws that reasonable notice is required before the resignation is effective [Corp. Code § 7340(a)].

Although a corporation may levy dues, assessments, and fees on its members, a member may on learning of them avoid liability for them by promptly resigning from membership [see Corp. Code §§ 5351, 7351]. However, resignation does not relieve the resigning member from any obligation for charges incurred; services or benefits actually rendered; dues, assessments, or fees; or arising from contract or otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 5340(b), 5351, 7340(b), 7351]. The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law also expressly states that a resigning member will not be relieved of any condition to ownership of land or any obligation arising out of the ownership of land [Corp. Code § 7340(b)]. Furthermore, resignation does not diminish any right of the corporation to enforce any such obligation or to obtain damages for its breach [Corp. Code §§ 5340(b), 7340(b)].

[c] Death or Dissolution

Membership terminates and all rights of membership cease on the death or dissolution of the subject member [Corp. Code §§ 5320(a)(2), 7320(a)(2)]. However, the articles or bylaws of a mutual benefit corporation may provide for, or may authorize the board to provide for, the transfer of any memberships (or of memberships within any class or classes), with or without restriction or limitation, including transfer on the death, dissolution, merger, or reorganization of a member [Corp. Code § 7320(b)]. When transfer rights are provided, no applicable restriction is binding with respect to memberships issued before the adoption of the restriction unless of the holders of the memberships voted in favor of the restriction [Corp. Code § 7320(c)].

[d] Procedures for Expulsion, Suspension, or Termination

A member may not be suspended or expelled, and a membership or membership rights may not be terminated or suspended, unless the expulsion, suspension, or termination is consistent with and satisfies several procedures prescribed by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 5341(a), (f), 7341(a), (f)]. If the procedures are not satisfied, the expulsion, suspension, or termination is void and without effect [Corp. Code §§ 5341(a), 7341(a)].

Any expulsion, suspension, or termination must be done in good faith and in a fair and reasonable manner [Corp. Code §§ 5341(b), 7341(b); see Corp. Code §§ 5341(c), 7341(c) ("fair and reasonable manner" defined)], and all notices to members must be given by any method reasonably calculated to provide actual notice [Corp. Code §§ 5341(d), 7341(d); see Corp. Code §§ 5341(e), 7341(e) (action alleging defective notice)]. A procedure is fair and reasonable when it does all of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5341(c), 7341(c)]:

- The provisions of the procedure are set forth in the articles or bylaws, or copies of those provisions are sent annually to all members as required by the articles or bylaws.

- The procedure provides the giving of 15 days prior notice and the reasons for the proposed action proposed.

- The procedure provides an opportunity for the member to be heard, orally or in writing, at least five days before the effective date of the expulsion, suspension, or termination, by a person or body authorized to decide that the proposed expulsion, suspension, or termination not take place.

A member who is expelled or suspended, or whose membership is terminated, remains liable for charges incurred; services or benefits actually rendered; dues, assessments, or fees incurred before the expulsion, suspension, or termination; or arising out of contract or otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 5341(g), 7341(g)].

Case law recognizes that membership is a valuable right that may not be terminated or otherwise interfered with contrary to the fundamental requirements of the law. Thus, a member is entitled to a full and fair hearing in accordance with the rules of the organization and the law. Moreover, each member is entitled to adequate notice, an adequate opportunity to defend him or herself a properly constituted tribunal, and a decision based on the evidence presented [see Cunningham v. Burbank Bd. of Realtors (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 211, 214, 68 Cal. Rptr. 653] . The procedural requirements discussed above codify the safeguards expressed by the courts.

[e] Amending Articles or Bylaws to Terminate Membership

Specific rules apply to public benefit corporations when a corporation with members or classes of members seeks to amend its articles or bylaws to terminate either all memberships or classes of memberships [see Corp. Code § 5342]. The corporation must give written notice describing the effect of the amendment on the corporation and the members to members not less than 45 nor more than 90 days before the members vote. However, the corporation need not send this notice at least 45 days in advance if all members entitled to vote (1) receive a written notice before the vote, describing the effect of the amendment on the corporation and the members, and (2) sign a written waiver of the 45 days notice [Corp. Code § 5342(b)]. The amendment must be approved by the members [Corp. Code §§ 5034, 5342(c)].

The articles or bylaws may impose additional requirements governing the termination of memberships or any class of memberships [Corp. Code § 5342(d)]. On request of a member, the corporation must allow the member to inspect the corporation's membership records or obtain an alphabetical list of the names, addresses, and voting rights [see Corp. Code § 6330(a)], at the corporation's option, as soon as reasonably possible to permit the member to contact other members regarding the proposed change [Corp. Code § 5342(e)]. Any membership termination effectively terminates the members' rights as members [Corp. Code § 5342(f); see Corp. Code § 5056].

The rules governing expulsion, suspension, and termination discussed in [d], above, do not apply to the termination of all memberships (or any class) pursuant to an amendment to the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 5342(g)].

[9] Termination of Membership in Religious Corporations

A member of a religious corporation may resign from membership at any time [Corp. Code § 9340(a)]. However, resignation does not relieve the resigning member from any obligation for charges incurred or services or benefits actually rendered; dues, assessments, or fees; or obligations arising from contract or otherwise. The corporation may enforce such an obligation or obtain damage for its breach [Corp. Code § 9340(b)].

All rights of membership cease on the member's death or dissolution unless the articles or bylaws provide to the contrary [Corp. Code § 9320(b)]. Further, a membership issued for a period of time expires when that period of time elapses unless the membership is renewed (or unless the member resigns, dies, or dissolves before that date) [Corp. Code § 9340(c)].

A membership may be terminated as provided in the articles or bylaws of the corporation [Corp. Code § 9340(d)].

[10] Membership Certificates for Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Issuance

A mutual benefit corporation may issue membership certificates, but is not required to do so [Corp. Code § 7313(a)]. A corporation may issue a new membership certificate or a new certificate for security in the place of any certificate previously issued by it, alleged to have been lost, stolen, or destroyed. The corporation may require the owner of the lost, stolen, or destroyed certificate, or the owner's legal representative, to give the corporation a bond (or other adequate security) sufficient to indemnify the corporation against any claim that may be made against it on account of the alleged loss, theft, or destruction of any certificate or the issuance of a new certificate [Corp. Code § 7314(a)].

If the articles or bylaws are amended so that any statement required by Corp. Code § 7313(b) [see [b], below] on outstanding membership certificates is no longer accurate, the board may cancel the outstanding certificates and issue in their place new certificates conforming to the articles or bylaw amendments. The board may order holders of outstanding certificates to surrender and exchange them for new certificates within a reasonable time fixed by the board [Corp. Code § 7313(d), (e)].

[b] Contents

Each membership certificate must state on the certificate that the corporation is a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation that may not make distributions to its members except on dissolution, or, if the articles so provide, that it may not make distributions to its members during its life or on dissolution. When appropriate, the certificate must also include a statement that the corporation issued the whole or any part of its memberships as partly paid and subject to call for the remainder of the consideration to be paid [Corp. Code § 7313(b)(1), (3)].

If transfer of memberships is restricted, the certificate must also state that a copy of the restrictions are on file with the secretary of the corporation and that the copy is open for inspection by a member on the same basis as the records of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7313(b)(2)]. If the membership certificates are transferable only with the consent of the corporation, then instead of placing a statement of transferability restrictions on the certificate, the corporation must give notice to the transferee, within a reasonable time after the corporation is first notified of the proposed transfer, and before the membership is transferred on the books and records of the corporation, of the information concerning the transfer restrictions [Corp. Code § 7313(c)].

§ 13.34 Recordkeeping Requirements

[1] Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws

Every nonprofit corporation must keep at its principal office in California the original or a copy of its articles of incorporation and bylaws as amended to date. These documents must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the corporation does not have a principal office in California, on the written request of any member it must furnish to that member a copy of the articles or bylaws as amended to date [Corp. Code §§ 5160, 7160, 9160].

[2] Other Records

Every nonprofit corporation must keep [Corp. Code §§ 6320(a), 8320(a), 9510(a)]:

- Adequate and correct books and records of account;
- Minutes of the proceedings of its members, board, and board committees; and
- A record of its members with their names, addresses, and the class of membership held by each.

These minutes and other books and records must be kept in written form, in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, or in any combination of the two. When minutes and other books and records are kept in a form capable of being converted into clearly legible paper form, the clearly legible paper form into which those minutes and other books and records are converted will be admissible in evidence, and accepted for all other purposes, to the same extent as an original paper record of the same information would have been, provided that the paper form accurately portrays the record [Corp. Code §§ 6320(a), 8320(a), 9510(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should advise nonprofits of the importance of complying with corporate record requirements. Nonprofits may consider the technicalities of corporate formalities and governance of less import than the charitable purposes of the corporation.

§ 13.35 Compliance With Rights of Inspection

[1] Public Benefit and Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] In General

Inspection rights can be exercised in person or by an agent or attorney, and include the right to copy and make extracts [Corp. Code §§ 6311, 8311]. Any right of inspection extends to the subsidiary of a corporation [Corp. Code §§ 6312, 8312]. The inspection rights of members may not be limited by contract, the articles of incorporation, or the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 6313, 8312].

If a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation does not maintain any records subject to inspection, including membership lists, in written form, the corporation must make those records available in written form, at its own expense, before complying with a request for inspection [Corp. Code §§ 6310, 8310]. The terms "written" or "in writing" includes electronic means of communication [Corp. Code §§ 6310, 8310].

[b] Directors' Inspection Rights

Every director of a public benefit or mutual benefit corporation has the absolute right exercisable at any reasonable time to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind and to inspect the physical properties of the corporation of which that person is a director [Corp. Code §§ 6334, 8334].

[c] Members' Inspection Rights

The members of every public benefit or mutual benefit corporation have statutory rights of inspection with respect to the articles and bylaws of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5160, 7160]. Further, the accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of members and the board and committees of the board must be open to inspection on the written demand on the corporation of any member at any reasonable time, for any purpose reasonably related to that person's interest as a member [Corp. Code §§ 6333, 8333].

Subject to the corporation's right to set aside the demand [see Corp. Code §§ 6331, 8331] and the power of the court to limit inspection rights of members [see Corp. Code §§ 6332, 8332], and unless the corporation offers a reasonable alternative [see Corp. Code §§ 6330, 8330; see below], a member may do either one or both of the following as permitted by Corp. Code §§ 6330(b) and 8330(b) [Corp. Code §§ 6330(a), 8330(a)]:

- Inspect and copy the record of all members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, on five business days prior written demand on the corporation; the demand must state the purpose for which the inspection rights are requested.

- Obtain from the secretary of the corporation, on written demand and tender of a reasonable charge, a list of the names, addresses, and voting rights of those members entitled to vote for the election of directors, as of the most recent record date for which it has been compiled or as of a date specified by the member subsequent to the date of demand. The demand must state the purpose for which the list is requested. The list of members must be alphabetical and be made available on or before the later of 10 business days after the demand is received or after the date specified therein as the date as of which the list is to be compiled.

These rights may be exercised by any member, for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interest as a member, or the authorized number of members for a purpose reasonably related to the members' interest as members. In the case of a demand by a member, the corporation may deny the member access to the list if the corporation reasonably believes that the information will be used for another purpose, or the corporation provides a reasonable alternative [Corp. Code §§ 6330(b), 8330(b); see below]. In any enforcement action, a court will enforce these rights unless the corporation proves that (1) the member will allow the use of the information for purposes unrelated to that person's interest as a member, or (2) the proposed alternative method reasonable achieves the proper purpose set forth in the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6330(b)(1), 8330(b)(1)].

Although the inspection rights of members cannot be limited by contract or the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 6313, 8313], the Nonprofit Corporation Law sets forth two limitations based on judicial action [see Corp. Code §§ 6331, 6332, 8331, 8332]. First, if the corporation, in good faith and with substantial basis, believes that the membership list demanded by the authorized number of members will be used for a purpose not reasonably related to the interests of members, or provides a reasonable alternative, the corporation may petition the superior court for an order setting aside the demand. The petition must be filed within 10 business days after the later of the date that the demand was made, or that a written rejection of the proposed alternative was received [Corp. Code §§ 6331(a), (b), 8331(a), (b); see Corp. Code §§ 6331(c), 8331(c) (extension)]. Second, on petition of the corporation or any member, the superior court may limit or restrict the statutory inspection rights if, and only if, that limitation or restriction is necessary to protect the rights of any member under the Constitution of the United States or the Constitution of the State of California [Corp. Code §§ 6332, 8332].

Within 10 business days after receiving a member's inspection demand, the corporation may deliver to the person(s) making the demand a written offer of an alternative method of achieving the purpose identified in the demand without providing access to or a copy of the membership list. An alternative method that reasonably and in a timely manner accomplishes the proper purpose set forth in a demand will be deemed a reasonable alternative, unless the corporation fails to effect that alternative method within a reasonable time after acceptance of the offer. Any rejection of the offer must be in writing and must indicate the reasons the alternative proposed by the corporation does not meet the proper purpose of the demand [Corp. Code §§ 6330(c), 8330(c)].

[2] Religious Corporations

[a] Directors' Inspection Rights

Every director of a religious corporation is entitled, at any reasonable time, to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind and to inspect the physical properties of the corporation of which that person is a director. However, this right is limited to purposes reasonably related to that person's interests as a director [Corp. Code § 9513].

[b] Members' Inspection Rights

The members of every religious corporation have statutory rights of inspection with respect to the articles and bylaws of the corporation [Corp. Code § 9160]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, a member may inspect and copy the record of all the members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, on five business days prior written demand on the corporation for a purpose reasonably related to the member's interest as a member [Corp. Code § 9511]. Unless otherwise specified in the articles or bylaws, the accounting books and records and the minutes of proceedings of the members, the board, and board committees must be open to inspection on the written demand on the corporation of any member at any reasonable time, for a purpose reasonably related to the member's interests as a member [Corp. Code § 9512].

§ 13.36 Reporting Requirements

PRACTICE TIP:
Counsel should advise nonprofits of the importance of complying with corporate reporting requirements. Nonprofits may consider the technicalities of corporate formalities and governance of less import than the charitable purposes of the corporation.

[1] Annual Reports to Members and Directors

[a] Public Benefit Corporations

In general, public benefit corporations must prepare and deliver annual reports to members and directors within 120 days after close of corporation's fiscal year [see Corp. Code § 6321(a); see also § 13.142, P 9]. However, no annual report is required if the corporation receives less than $25,000 in gross revenues or receipts during the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 6321(c)]. Further, if the corporation provides for regular meetings of members less often than annually, then the report need be made to members only with the frequency of the regular membership meetings unless the articles or bylaws require a report more often [Corp. Code § 6321(d)]. Nevertheless, a report containing the required information must be furnished annually to all directors and any member who so request in writing [Corp. Code § 6321(e)].

A corporation that solicits contributions in writing from 500 or more persons is also exempt from the annual reporting requirement under specified circumstances [see Corp. Code § 6321(f)]. If the corporation reports to the Attorney General [see [3][a], below], and the report contains the information required by the annual report, the corporation may furnish a copy of that report in lieu of the annual report [Corp. Code § 6324].

The annual report must be accompanied by any report of independent accountants, or, absent a report, the certificate of an authorized officer of the corporation to the effect that the statements in the report were prepared without audit from the books and records of the corporation [Corp. Code § 6321(b)].

Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the annual report and any accompanying material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code § 6321(a); see Corp.

Code § 20].

[b] Mutual Benefit Corporations

In general, mutual benefit corporations must prepare and deliver annual reports to members and directors within 120 days after close of corporation's fiscal year [see Corp. Code § 8321(a); see also § 13.142, P 10]. However, no annual report need be sent if the corporation receives less than $10,000 in gross revenues or receipts during the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 8321(c)]. The annual report must be accompanied by any report of independent accountants, or, absent a report, the certificate of an authorized officer of the corporation to the effect that the statements in the report were prepared without audit from the books and records of the corporation [Corp. Code § 8321(b)].

Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the annual report and any accompanying material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code § 8321(a); see Corp. Code § 20].

[c] Religious Corporations

Religious corporations need not prepare and deliver annual reports to members and directors unless the articles or bylaws impose such a requirement. The Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law does not independently require annual reports. However, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, a member may inspect and copy the record of all the members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, on five business days prior written demand for a purpose reasonably related to the member's interest as a member [Corp. Code § 9511]. Similarly, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the accounting books and records and the minutes of proceedings of the members, board, and board committees must be open to inspection on the written demand of any member at any reasonable time, for a purpose reasonably related to such person's interests as a member [Corp. Code § 9512]. Further, directors may, at any reasonable time, inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind and to inspect the physical properties of the corporation for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interests as a director [Corp. Code § 9513].

[2] Biennial Statement of Information With Secretary of State

Every public benefit, mutual benefit, and religious corporation must file a biennial statement of information with the Secretary of State on Form SI 100 [Corp. Code §§ 6210, 8210, 9660(a); see § 13.248]. If the corporation does not file the statement, the Secretary of State will mail a notice of delinquency. If the corporation fails to file within 60 days after that mailing date, the corporation will be assessed a nominal penalty [Corp. Code §§ 6810, 8810, 9690]. If the corporation fails to file for 24 months and been assessed a penalty in the preceding year, the corporation may be suspended [Corp. Code § 5008.6; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23301, 23305a, 23775].

[3] Reports With Registrar of Charitable Trusts in Office of Attorney General

[a] Charitable Corporations Subject to Filing Requirements

In general, every charitable corporation and trustee subject to the Supervision of Trustees and Fundraisers for Charitable Purposes Act [see Gov. Code § 12580 et seq.] must file with the Registrar of Charitable Trusts in the office of the Attorney General periodic written reports, under oath, setting forth information as to the nature of the assets held for charitable purposes and the administration of those assets by the corporation or trustee [Gov. Code § 12586(a); 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 301]. Specifically, the following corporations must file Form RRF-1 [see 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 303]:

- Domestic nonprofit corporation formed for charitable or eleemosynary purposes [Gov. Code § 12582.1].

- Foreign nonprofit corporation doing business or holding property in California for charitable or eleemosynary purposes [Gov. Code § 12582.1].

- Corporations holding property for charitable purpose [Gov. Code § 12581].

- Commercial fundraisers for charitable purposes [Gov. Code § 12581, 12599].

[b] Entities Exempt From Filing Requirements

The following are exempt from these filing, registration, and reporting provisions [Gov. Code § 12583]:

- The United States, any state, territory, or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, any agency or governmental subdivisions.

- Any religious corporation sole or other religious corporation or organization that holds property for religious purposes.

- Regulated cemetery corporations [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 9600 et seq.].

- Specified political action committees [see Gov. Code §§ 82013, 84200 et seq.].

- Charitable corporations or unincorporated associations organized and operated primarily as a religious organization, educational institution, hospital, or a health care service plan licensed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1349.

[c] Filing Requirements

Every charitable corporation, unincorporated association, and trustee that has received property for charitable purposes must file with the Attorney General an initial registration form, under oath [see Gov. Code § 12585(b) (Attorney General will adopt rules and regulations regarding contents, execution, and filing requirements for form)], within 30 days of receiving property. A trustee is not required to register as long as the charitable interest is a future interest, but must do so within 30 days after any charitable interest in a trust becomes a present interest [Gov. Code § 12585(a); see Gov. Code § 12593]. Form RRF-1 must be filed with the Registry of Charitable Trusts annually on or before January 15 [see Form RRF-1; see Gov. Code § 12586(d); see also 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 305 (extension for good cause)]. The organization must also file annually within four and one half months after the end of the corporation's fiscal year a copy of the organization's IRS Form 990, 990-EZ, or 990-PF.

Form RRF-1 seeks information about the financial transactions between the corporation and its directors or officers, whether any financial malfeasance occurred, whether funds were paid as penalties or fines, and information about fundraising activities [see IRS Form 4720].

The Attorney General, on written request, may suspend a corporation's reporting duties as to a particular charitable trust or relationship for a reasonable, specifically designated time. However, the Attorney General must first file in the register of charitable trusts a written statement that (1) the interests of the beneficiaries will not be prejudiced by the suspension and (2) periodic reports are not required for proper supervision by his or her office [Gov. Code § 12586(b)].

[d] Effect of Failure to File

If a corporation fails to comply with the filing requirement discussed in [c], abov e, the Attorney General typically advises the corporation of the default and provides an opportunity to file. The failure to file can result in the disallowance of franchise tax exemption, after the Attorney General sends the Franchise Tax Board written notice [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703(a), (b)]. The exemption may be reinstated, but the corporation will be liable for the minimum franchise tax for any year of disallowance [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703(c)]. However, the individual responsible for the default is personally liable for the tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703(d)].

The Attorney General may also institute proceedings to secure compliance with these rules and to invoke the jurisdiction of the court [Gov. Code § 12591; see Gov. Code § 12596 (10-year statute of limitations)]. If the judgment is in favor of the state, the judgment must require the payment of the state's reasonable investigation and prosecution costs by the person who had the duty to report [Gov. Code § 12597].

[e] Public Inspection

Subject to reasonable rules and regulations adopted by the Attorney General, the register, copies of instruments, and the reports filed with the Attorney General will be held open to public inspection. However, the Attorney General must withhold from public inspection any instrument whose content is not exclusively for charitable purposes [Gov. Code § 12590].

[4] Additional Attorney General Filing Requirements for Public Benefit Corporations

Public benefit corporations must provide certain documents to the office of the California Attorney General. First, public benefit corporations must provide a copy of its articles of incorporation or certificate of amendment to the Attorney General. This filing is accomplished by providing an extra copy to the Secretary of State when the original document is filed [Corp. Code §§ 5120, 5817; see Corp. Code § 5120(e) (extra copy for Controller in certain circumstances)]. Second, the corporation must file a copy of any proposed merger agreement at least 20 days before the merger is consummated [Corp. Code § 6010(b)]. Third, unless the sale, lease, transfer, or other disposition of all or substantially all of the corporation's assets is in the usual or regular course of the corporation's activities, the corporation must furnish at least 20 days written notice unless the Attorney General waives notice [see Corp. Code § 5913].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.37

§ 13.37 Insurance Considerations and Liability Issues

[1] Need for Insurance

Nonprofit corporations ordinarily need some level of insurance to protect against business risks in the marketplace. Nonprofit corporations are not exempted from these risks by their nonprofit status. The types and amounts of coverage needed will vary depending on the nature of the corporation's activities, size and nature of workforce, risk experience, and revenues. Most nonprofits need at least a commercial general liability policy [see [2][a], below] and insurance coverages for employees if the corporation will have employees [see [2][b], below]. Further, nonprofits should consider securing a directors' and officers' liability policy [see [2][d], below]. Finally, if warranted, nonprofits should consider obtaining professional liability insurance. Typically, claims related to the provision of professional services are excluded from the coverage of standard commercial general liability policies.

For further discussion, see Ch. 1F, Insurance Considerations in Business Formation , and California Insurance Law and Practice(Matthew Bender).

[2] Types of Insurance

[a] Commercial General Liability Policy

A commercial general liability (CGL) policy typically covers premises and operations liability: injuries such as libel, slander, trade libel, and false imprisonment, and medical payments incurred by third parties. CGL coverage is probably the most important insurance for nonprofits.

[b] Unemployment and Disability Insurance

Nonprofit corporations that are employers, and their employees, may be required to contribute to the state Unemployment Fund for wages paid for employment [Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 976, 984]. "Employment" includes service that is excluded from the Federal Unemployment Tax Act [see I.R.C. § 3306(c)(8)] solely because it is service performed in the employ of a religious, charitable, educational or other nonprofit organization described in I.R.C. §

501(c)(3) that is exempt from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(a) [Unemp. Ins. Code § 608]. However, "employment" does not include service performed in the employ of any of the following [Unemp. Ins. Code § 634.5; see Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 605, 608, 629, 631, 635, 639-648]:

- A church, convention, or association of churches, or an organization operated primarily for religious purposes that is operated, supervised, controlled, or principally supported by a church, convention, or association of churches.

- A duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his or her ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of required duties.

Similarly, employees of nonprofit corporations must contribute to the state Disability Fund for wages paid for employment [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 2901]. For purposes of disability insurance, "employment" does not include service performed in the employ of a corporation, community chest, fund, or foundation in connection with the operation of a health facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1250 (defined)] that meets the following requirements [Unemp. Ins. Code § 2606(b)]:

- Its earnings do not inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

- Its activities are not substantially composed of carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation.

- It does not participate or intervene in (including publishing or distributing statements) any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office.

- It is exempt from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(a), except service performed by certain members of the clergy.

[c] Workers' Compensation Insurance

A workers' compensation policy covers workplace injuries to employees, and most California employers are subject to state workers' compensation laws. Nonprofit corporations are subject to workers' compensation laws, even if the corporation has only a single part-time employee [see Lab. Code §§ 3300, 3351]. Under workers' compensation laws, a corporation will be held strictly liable for injuries occurring on the job [see Lab. Code §§ 3300 et seq.]. For more detailed coverage of workers compensation insurance generally, see California Insurance Law and Practice, ch. 42, Workers Compensation Insurance (Matthew Bender), and California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation(Matthew Bender).

Although nonprofits are not required by statute to secure workers' compensation insurance coverage for volunteers, nonprofits should still consider securing coverage limiting exposure to volunteer injuries. The need for this coverage is dependent on the nature of the nonprofit's business operations. Volunteer coverage is available if the volunteer receives no remuneration other than reimbursements for meals, transportation, lodging, and incidentals [Lab. Code § 3352]. The corporation's board of directors, in its sole discretion, may declare in writing that a volunteer is an employee solely for workers' compensation purposes, provided that the declaration is made before any injury [see Lab. Code § 3363.6]. Volunteer coverage is usually secured by an endorsement to the policy; cost is typically based on job classification, number of hours worked, and the assumption that the volunteer earns minimum wage. The corporation can ordinarily secure this protection at a low cost.

[d] Directors and Officers Liability Policy

A directors' and officers' liability (D&O) policy ordinarily covers directors and officers from claims arising from the performance of their corporate duties. Most D&O policies only cover injuries resulting arising from the business decisions and activities of directors and officers, and do not shield the corporation or its other employees. However, entity coverage, covering the company, employees, volunteers, and agents is increasingly available. Most D&O policies exclude coverage for the types of personal injury and property damage typically covered by a CGL policy, as well as many claims against directors and officers for self-dealing, intentional or willful violations, and environmental claims. For more detailed coverage of this type of insurance, see California Insurance Law and Practice, ch. 43, Directors and Officers Insurance (Matthew Bender).

[3] Tort Liability of Volunteer Directors and Officers

[a] Limitation on Volunteer Directors' and Officers' Liability for Unintentional Torts

For nonprofit corporations to conduct and manage public and charitable services efficiently in California, the services of directors and officers are often provided on a volunteer basis. However, many potential volunteers are deterred from contributing these valuable services because of the unavailability and cost of liability insurance to protect their personal assets [see Corp. Code § 5047.5(a)]. In response to this problem, Corp. Code § 5047.5 provides that no cause of action for monetary damages will arise against any person serving without compensation [see Corp. Code § 5047.5(f), (i) (determination of compensation)] as a director or officer of a nonprofit corporation that is (1) subject to laws governing nonprofit public benefit corporations, nonprofit mutual benefit corporations, or nonprofit religious corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 5110 et seq., 7110 et seq., 9110 et seq.]; (2) organized to provide religious, charitable, literary, educational, scientific, social, or other forms of public service; and (3) exempt from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or (6), on account of any negligent act or omission that occurs [Corp. Code § 5047.5(b), (d)]

- Within the scope of that person's duties as a director acting as a board member, or as an officer acting in an official capacity;
- In good faith;
- In a manner that the person believes to be in the best interest of the corporation; and
- In the exercise of his or her policymaking judgment.

This protection against damages only applies under the following circumstances [see Corp. Code § 5047.5(e), (f), (h), (i)]:

- The nonprofit corporation does not unlawfully restrict membership, services, or benefits conferred on the basis of political affiliation, age, or any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e) (Unruh Civil Rights Act) [Corp. Code § 5047.5(h)].
- The volunteer director or officer does not receive compensation from the corporation in any other capacity, including but not limited to, as an employee [Corp. Code § 5047.5(i)]. The payment of actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of the duties of a director or officer do not constitute compensation [Corp. Code § 5047.5(f)].
- The claim against the volunteer director or officer can be maintained directly against the corporation, and a liability insurance policy is applicable to the claim [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)].
- The corporation maintains a liability insurance policy, so that a policy is applicable to the claim. If the corporation's annual budget is less than $50,000, the policy must provide at least $500,000 coverage;

if the corporation's annual budget equals or exceeds $50,000, the policy must provide at least $1 million coverage. If the policy is found to cover the damages caused by the director or officer, no cause of action based on the negligent acts or omissions (as discussed above) may be maintained against the director or the officer [Corp. Code § 5047.5(e)].

To effect the provisions of Corp. Code § 5047.5, the Code of Civil Procedure provides that without an order of the court, no cause of action against a person serving without compensation as a director or officer of a nonprofit public benefit, mutual benefit, or religious corporation may be included in a complaint or other pleading on account of his or her negligent act or omission occurring within the scope of his or her duties as a director or officer. The court will enter such an order only after it determines that the party seeking to file the pleading has established evidence that substantiates the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(a)]. For this purpose, compensation is defined as remuneration, whether by way of salary, fee, or other consideration for services rendered; however, the payment of per diem, mileage, or other reimbursement expenses to a director or officer does not constitute compensation [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.15(d)].

[b] Exceptions to Limited Liability

Corp. Code § 5047.5 does not protect against the intentional torts of directors and officers. Further, the limitations on the liability of volunteer directors and officers (see [a], above) do not affect the liability of a volunteer director or officer for any of the following [Corp. Code § 5047.5(c)]:

- Self-dealing transactions [see Corp. Code §§ 5233, 9243; see also § 13.38].
- Conflicts of interest [see Corp. Code § 7233; see also § 13.38].
- Improper distributions, loans, or guarantees [see Corp. Code §§ 5237, 7236, 9245].
- With respect to a charitable trust, an action or proceeding against a trustee brought by a beneficiary of the trust.
- An action or proceeding brought by the Attorney General.
- Intentional, wanton, or reckless acts, gross negligence, or an action based on fraud, oppression, or malice.
- An action brought for a prohibited combination in restraint of trade [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16700 et seq.].

[c] Nonprofit Corporation's Liability Not Limited

Corp. Code § 5047.5 does not limit the liability of a nonprofit corporation for any negligent act or omission of a director, officer, employee, agent, or servant occurring within the scope of his or her duties [Corp. Code § 5047.5(g)]. Similarly, Corp. Code § 5239 and Corp. Code § 9247, which provide additional liability protection for volunteer directors and executive officers (see [3], below), do not affect the liability of a nonprofit public benefit or religious corporation for acts or omissions of volunteer directors and executive officers [Corp. Code §§ 5239(d), 9247(d)].

[d] Additional Protection for Nonprofit Public Benefit and Religious Corporations

In addition to Corp. Code § 5047.5, other provisions protect volunteer directors and volunteer executive officers of nonprofit public benefit corporations [Corp. Code § 5239] and nonprofit religious corporations [Corp. Code § 9247] from liability. Volunteer directors and executive officers of these nonprofit corporations are shielded from personal liability to third parties for monetary damages caused by the directors' or officers' negligent acts or omissions in the performance of their duties, if all of the following criteria are met [Corp. Code §§ 5239(a), 9247(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5239(b), 9247(b) (definitions)]:

- The act or omission was within the scope of the director's or executive officer's duties.
- The act or omission was performed in good faith.
- The act or omission was not reckless, wanton, intentional, or grossly negligent.
- Damages caused by the act or omission are covered by a liability insurance policy issued to the corporation (either in the form of a general liability policy or a director's and officers' liability policy, or personally to the director or executive officer), or the board of directors and the director or officer made all reasonable good faith attempts to obtain liability insurance.

For nonprofit public benefit corporations that have an annual budget of less than $25,000 and that are exempt from federal income taxation under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), the condition of making "all reasonable efforts in good faith to obtain available liability insurance" is satisfied if the corporation makes at least one inquiry per year to purchase a general liability insurance policy with coverage of at least $500,000, and that insurance was not available for less than 5 percent of the corporation's budget for the previous year. If the corporation is in its first year of operation, this subsection applies for as long as the budget of the corporation does not exceed $25,000 in its first year of operation [Corp. Code § 5239(h)].

Neither Corp. Code § 5239 nor Corp. Code § 9247 limits the liability of the corporation for acts or omissions of a volunteer director or executive officer [Corp. Code §§ 5239(d), 9247(d)], or the liability of a director or officer for self dealing [Corp. Code §§ 5239(e)(1), 9247(e)(1); see Corp. Code §§ 5233, 9243], for making improper distributions, loans, or guaranties [Corp. Code §§ 5239(e)(1), 9247(e)(1); see Corp. Code §§ 5237, 9245], or in any action or proceeding brought by the attorney general [Corp. Code §§ 5239(e)(2), 9247(e)(2)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The requirements of the two manners of limiting volunteer director and officer liability, securing qualifying insurance and attempting to purchase qualifying insurance, substantially overlap. However, the "purchase" requirements are more liberal: (1) the qualifying policy may be a director's and officer's liability policy (and either may purchase the policy directly); and (2) directors and officers may be protected if the board and affected person show good faith reasonable efforts to secure insurance [compare Corp. Code §§ 5239(a), 9247(a) with Corp. Code § 5047.5].

[e] Additional Protection for Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporations

In addition to Corp. Code § 5047.5, volunteer directors and volunteer executive officers of nonprofit mutual benefit corporations are shielded from monetary liability for failure to discharge their duties, if the duties were performed in a manner that meets all of the following criteria [Corp. Code § 7231.5(a); but see Corp. Code §§ 7233 (transactions involving directors), 7236 (directors' liability for distributions, loans, and guaranties)]:

- The duties were performed in good faith.
- The duties were performed in a manner that the director or officer believed to be in the best interests of the corporation.

- The duties were performed with the degree of care, including reasonable inquiry, that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances.

This protection against liability applies only to trade, professional, and labor organizations incorporated pursuant to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporations Law [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] that operate exclusively for fraternal, educational, and other nonprofit purposes, and under I.R.C. § 501(c) [Corp. Code § 7231.5(d)].

A director or executive officer is a "volunteer" if he or she does not receive remuneration by way of salary, fee, or other consideration for services rendered. However, the payment of per diem, mileage, or other reimbursement expenses does not affect the director's or executive officer's status as a volunteer [Corp. Code § 7231.5(b)]. "Executive officer" means the president, vice-president, secretary, or treasurer of a corporation, or other person serving in a similar capacity, who assists in establishing the policy of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7231.5(c)].

[f] Volunteer Protection Act of 1997

The Volunteer Protection Act of 1997 [42 U.S.C. § 14501 et seq.] limits lawsuits against volunteers performing services for nonprofit organizations that are exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or any nonprofit organization organized and conducted for public benefit and operated primarily for charitable, civic, educational, religious, welfare or health purposes. The Act covers all volunteers who receive no compensation in excess of $500 a year (not including reimbursed expenses) [42 U.S.C. § 14505(b)]. No volunteer may be held liable for harm caused by his or her act or mission on behalf of the corporation if any of the following are true [42 U.S.C. § 14503(a)]:

- The volunteer was acting within the scope of his or her responsibilities.

- The volunteer held any requisite license or certification.

- The damage did not result from willful or criminal misconduct, gross negligence, reckless misconduct, or a conscious flagrant indifference to the rights and safety of the individual harmed.

- The harm was not the result of the volunteer's operation of a motor vehicle, vessel, aircraft, or other vehicle that must be insured or operated pursuant to a license under state law.

However, the Act's limitation on liability does not apply to misconduct stemming from violent crimes, hate crimes, and damage resulting from being under the influence of alcohol and drugs [42 U.S.C. § 14503(f); 18 U.S.C. § 16; 28 U.S.C. § 534 note]; acts of terrorism or state law sex crimes for which the defendant is convicted [42 U.S.C. § 14503(f); 18 U.S.C. § 2331]; and acts involving misconduct for which the defendant is found to have violated state or federal civil rights laws [42 U.S.C. § 14503(f)].

C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.38

§ 13.38 Restrictions on Transactions Between Corporations and Directors

[1] Public Benefit and Religious Corporations

[a] Self-Dealing Transactions Subject to Sanctions

Directors of public benefit and religious corporations are subject to sanctions for engaging in self-dealing transactions [Corp. Code §§ 5233, 9243]. A "self-dealing transaction" is any transaction to which the corporation is a party and in which one or more of its directors has a material financial interest, unless the transaction is expressly excluded from the application of the statute [see Corp. Code §§ 5233(b), 9243(b)] or the transaction is approved [Corp. Code §§ 5233(a), 9243(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5233(d), 9243(d); see also [b], below]. A director engaging in a self-dealing transaction is an "interested director" [Corp. Code §§ 5233(a), 9243(a)].

The following transactions are expressly excluded from the definition of self-dealing transactions [Corp. Code §§ 5233(b), 9243(b)]:

- Actions of the board fixing the compensation of a director as a director or officer of the corporation.

- Actions of the board of a religious corporation making any loan of money or property to, or guaranteeing the obligation of, any director or officer.

- Transactions that are part of the corporation's public, charitable (or for religious corporations, religious) programs if approved or authorized by the corporation in good faith and without unjustified favoritism, even though one or more directors or their families benefit because they are in the class of persons intended to be benefited by the program.

- Transactions of which the interested director or directors have no actual knowledge that do not exceed the lesser of 1 percent of the gross receipts of the corporation for the preceding fiscal year or $100,000.

[b] Exception for Approved Transactions

Participation in a self-dealing transaction is not subject to sanction if the transaction is validated in any of the following manners [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d), 9243(d)]:

- The Attorney General (or the court in a suit in which the Attorney General is an indispensable party) may approve the transaction before or after consummation [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(1), 9243(d)(1); see § 13.251 (letter seeking Attorney General's approval)].

- The board authorized or approved the transaction in good faith by a vote of a majority of disinterested directors then in office [Corp. Code §§ 5234(d)(2), 9243(d)(3)].

- A committee or person authorized by the board approved the transaction [Corp. Code §§ 5234(d)(3), 9243(d)(4)].

For board approval, the following facts must be established [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(2), 9243(d)(3)]:

- The corporation entered into the transaction for its own benefit or for the benefit of the religious organization.

- The transaction was fair and reasonable as to the corporation (or, for religious corporations, the transaction was in furtherance of its religious purposes) at the time the corporation entered into the transaction.

- The board, before consummating any part of the transaction, authorized or approved the transaction in good faith by a vote of a majority of the directors then in office without counting the vote of the interested director or directors, and with knowledge of the material facts concerning the transaction and the director's interest in the transaction.

- Before authorizing or approving the transaction, the board considered and in good faith determined after reasonable investigation under the circumstances that either the corporation could not have obtained a more advantageous arrangement with reasonable effort under the circumstances (or, for religious corporations, the transaction was in furtherance of the corporation's religious purposes) or, in fact, either the corporation could not have obtained a more advantageous arrangement with reasonable effort under the circumstances (or the transaction was in furtherance of the corporation's religious purposes) [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(2), 9243(d)(3)].

For approval by committee or authorized person, the following facts must be established [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(3), 9243(d)(4)]:

- The committee or person approved the transaction in a manner consistent with board approval.

- It was not reasonably practicable to obtain board approval before entering into the transaction.

- The board, after determining in good faith that these conditions were satisfied, ratified the transaction at its next meeting by a vote of the majority of the directors then in office without counting the vote of the interested director or directors.

Members of a religious corporation can ratify a transaction if the transaction is approved or ratified in good faith by the members, other than the directors, after notice and disclosure to the members of the material facts concerning the transaction and the director's interest in the transaction [Corp. Code § 9234(d)(2)].

Although the vote of interested directors will not be counted [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(2), (3), 9243(d)(3), (4)], interested directors may be counted in determining the presence of a quorum at a board meeting that authorizes, approves, or ratifies a contract or transaction [Corp. Code §§ 5233(g), 9243(g)].

[c] Remedies

Any of the following may bring an action in the superior court of the proper county for the remedies provided by statute for violation of the self-dealing transaction rules [Corp. Code §§ 5233(c), 9243(c)]:

- The corporation, or a member asserting the right in the name of the corporation [see Corp. Code § 5710].
- A director or officer of the corporation.
- Any person authorized by the bylaws to bring an action.

When a self-dealing transaction has occurred, the interested director or directors must disgorge profits [see Corp. Code §§ 5233(h), 9243(h)]. The director must take those actions and pay damages as the court in its discretion determines will provide an equitable and fair remedy to the corporation, taking into account any benefit received by the corporation and whether the interested director or directors acted in good faith and with intent to further the best interest of the corporation. Specifically, the court may order the director to do any or all of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5233(h), 9243(h)]:

- Account for any profits made from the transaction, and pay them to the corporation.
- Pay the corporation the value of the use of any of its property used in the transaction.
- Return or replace any property lost to the corporation as a result of the transaction, together with any income or appreciation lost to the corporation by reason of the transaction, or account for any proceeds of sale of such property, and pay the proceeds to the corporation together with interest at the legal rate.

The court may also award prejudgment interest [see Civ. Code §§ 3287, 3288] and, in its discretion, grant exemplary damages for a fraudulent or malicious violation of the self-dealing rules [Corp. Code §§ 5233(h), 9243(h)].

[2] Mutual Benefit Corporations

[a] Material Financial Interest

Mutual benefit corporations are subject to significantly fewer restrictions regarding transactions involving the corporation and one or more directors than public benefit or religious corporations [compare Corp. Code § 7233 with Corp. Code §§ 5233, 9243; see Corp. Code § 310; see also Raven's Cove Townhomes, Inc. v. Knuppe Development Co. (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 783, 171 Cal. Rptr. 334 (director may not benefit his or her own interests at corporation's expense)]. However, if a mutual benefit corporation holds assets in charitable trust, the conduct of its directors (or any person performing similar functions) is governed by the rules applicable to public benefit corporations with regard to the assets held in trust [Corp. Code § 7238; see [1], above].

No contract or other transaction between a corporation and one or more of its directors, or between a corporation and any domestic or foreign corporation, firm, or association in which one or more of its directors has a material financial interest, is either void or voidable because that (1) director or directors or that other corporation, business corporation, firm, or association are parties or (2) director or directors are present at the meeting of the board or a committee that authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction, if any of the following are true [Corp. Code § 7233(a)]:

- The material facts as to the transaction and as to the director's interest are fully disclosed or known to the members and the contract or transaction is approved by the members in good faith, with any membership owned by any interested director not being entitled to vote on the matter.

- The material facts as to the transaction and as to the director's interest are fully disclosed or known to the board or committee, and the board or committee authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction in good faith by a vote sufficient without counting the vote of the interested director or directors and the contract or transaction is just and reasonable as to the corporation at the time it is authorized, approved, or ratified.

- As to contracts or transactions not approved, the person asserting the validity of the contract or transaction sustains the burden of proving that the contract or transaction was just and reasonable as to the corporation at the time it was authorized, approved, or ratified.

A mere common directorship does not constitute a material financial interest. A director is not interested in a resolution fixing the compensation of another director as a director, officer, or employee of the corporation, notwithstanding the fact that the first director is also receiving compensation from the corporation [Corp. Code § 7233(a)].

No contract or other transaction between a corporation and any corporation, business corporation, or association of which one or more of its directors are directors is either void or voidable because that director or directors are present at the meeting of the board or a committee that authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction, if any of the following are true [Corp. Code § 7233(b) (Corp. Code § 7233(b) does not apply when Corp. Code § 7233(a) applies)]:

- The material facts as to the transaction and as to the director's other directorship are fully disclosed or known to the board or committee, and the board or committee authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction in good faith by a vote sufficient without counting the vote of the common director or directors, or the contract or transaction is approved by the members in good faith.

- As to contracts or transactions not approved, the contract or transaction is just and reasonable as to the corporation at the time it is authorized, approved, or ratified.

Interested or common directors may be counted in determining the presence of a quorum at a board or committee meeting that authorizes, approves, or ratifies a contract or transaction [Corp. Code § 7234].

[b] Loans, Guarantees, and Advances

Unless prohibited by the articles or bylaws, a mutual benefit corporation may loan money or property to, or guarantee the obligation of, any director or officer of the corporation or of its parent, affiliate, or subsidiary, under the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 7235(a)]:

- The board determines the loan or guaranty may reasonably be expected to benefit the corporation.

- Before consummating any part of the transaction, the loan or guaranty is either (1) approved by the members, without counting the vote of the director or officer, if a member, or (2) approved by the vote of a majority of the directors then in office, without counting the vote of the director who is to receive the loan or the benefit of the guaranty.

Notwithstanding the above limitation, a corporation may advance money to a director or officer of the corporation (or of its parent, affiliate, or subsidiary) for any expenses reasonably anticipated to be incurred in the performance of the duties of the director or officer of the corporation (or of its parent, affiliate, or subsidiary), provided that the director or officer would otherwise be entitled to reimbursement in the absence of an advance [Corp. Code § 7235(b)].

These rules do not apply to any of the following [Corp. Code § 7235(c)]:

- Credit unions.

- The payment of premiums in whole or in part by a corporation on a life insurance policy on the life of a director or officer so long as repayment to the corporation of the premiums paid is secured by the proceeds of the policy and its cash surrender value.

- Loans permitted under any statute regulating any special class of corporations.

[3] Public Benefit Corporations--Loans, Guarantees, and Advances

A public benefit corporation may not make any loan of money or property to or guarantee the obligation of any director or officer, unless approved by the Attorney General. However, a corporation may advance money to a director or officer of the corporation (or of its parent or any subsidiary) for expenses reasonably anticipated to be incurred in the performance of official duties, provided that the director or officer would otherwise be entitled to reimbursement [Corp. Code § 5236(a)].

This restriction does not apply to the payment of premiums in whole or in part by a corporation on a life insurance policy on the life of a director or officer, as long as repayment to the corporation of the premiums paid is secured by the policy proceeds and its cash surrender value [Corp. Code § 5236(b)]. Further, this restriction does not apply to a loan of money to or for the benefit of an officer if, in the judgment of the board, the loan is necessary to provide financing for the purchase of the principal residence of the officer to secure the services or continued services of the officer and the loan is secured by real property located in the state [Corp. Code § 5236(c)].

§ 13.39 Actions for Breach of Charitable Trust

An action to enjoin, correct, obtain damages for, or to otherwise remedy, a breach of a charitable trust under which any or all of the assets of a corporation are held, may be brought by any of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5142(a), 7142(a), 9142(a)]:

- The corporation or a member asserting the right in the name of the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5710, 7710], or a former member of a religious corporation asserting the right in the corporation's name.
- An officer of the corporation.
- A director of the corporation.
- A person with a reversionary, contractual, or property interest in the assets subject to the trust.
- The Attorney General or anyone granted relator status by the Attorney General if the corporation is a public or mutual benefit corporation.

For public and mutual benefit corporations, if someone other than the Attorney General brings suit, the Attorney General is entitled to notice and may intervene [Corp. Code §§ 5142(a), 7142(a)].

The court may not rescind or enjoin the performance of a contract pursuant to a suit for breach of charitable trust unless all of the following conditions are met [Corp. Code §§ 5142(b), 7142(b), 9142(b)]:

- All of the parties to the contract are parties to the action.
- No party to the contract has, in good faith and without actual notice of the restriction, parted with value under or in reliance on the contract.

- It is equitable to rescind or enjoin contractual performance.

No assets of a religious corporation are or will be deemed to be impressed with any express or implied trust, statutory or at common law, unless one of the following applies [Corp. Code §§ 9142(c)]:

- Unless, and only to the extent that, the assets were received by the corporation with an express commitment by resolution of its board of directors to so hold those assets in trust.

- Unless, and only to the extent that, the articles or bylaws of the corporation, or the governing instruments of a superior religious body or general church of which the corporation is a member, so expressly provide [see Corp. Code §§ 9142(d)].

- Unless, and only to the extent that, the donor expressly imposed a trust, in writing, at the time of the gift or donation.

CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.40

§ 13.40 Securities Law

[1] California Requirements

[a] Equity Securities

Under the Corporate Securities Law [see Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.], the sale of, or offer to sell, securities must be qualified by the California Commissioner of Corporations. The word "security" includes membership in an incorporated or unincorporated association, as well as "debt securities" [Corp. Code § 25019; see [b], below]. Therefore, the offer or sale of memberships must be qualified unless exempt.

Corp. Code § 25100 lists certain securities that are exempt from the provisions of Corp. Code §§ 25110 (issuer transactions), 25120 (recapitalizations and reorganizations), and 25130 (nonissuer transactions). Corp. Code § 25100(j) exempts any security (except evidences of indebtedness, whether interest bearing or not) of an issuer (1) organized exclusively for educational, benevolent, fraternal, religious, charitable, social, or reformatory purposes and not for pecuniary profit, if no part of the net earnings of the issuer inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, or (2) organized as a chamber of commerce or trade or professional association. The fact that amounts received from memberships or dues or both will or may be used to construct or otherwise acquire facilities for use by members of the nonprofit organization does not disqualify the organization for this exemption. This exemption does not apply to the securities of any nonprofit organization if any promoter expects or intends to make a profit directly or indirectly from any business or activity associated with the organization or operation of that nonprofit organization or from remuneration received from that nonprofit organization. However, this exemption does not apply to the securities of any nonprofit organization if any promoter of that organization expects or intends to make a profit directly or indirectly from any business or activity associated with the organization or operation of the nonprofit organization or from remuneration received from the nonprofit organization [Corp. Code § 25100(j); but see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.20 (limited exceptions to bar)]. An "issuer" is a person who issues or proposes to issue any security [Corp. Code § 25010].

If no exemption is available, the organization must comply with detailed qualification requirements before it offers or sells its memberships. For discussion of the qualification and exemption of securities, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues , and Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

PRACTICE TIP:

Not every membership in a nonprofit corporation is a membership within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25019. As used in that statute, "membership" refers to a security that confers rights on the holder similar to those conferred by the ownership of a share of stock [see Corp. Code § 115]. However, the term "membership" is often applied to license arrangements under which a person who is merely a licensee is entitled to use certain facilities or services. It is necessary to distinguish the two types of memberships carefully in order to avoid confusion and to properly determine whether a particular "membership" is subject to the qualification provisions or exempt [see Dept. of Corps. Releases No. 15-C (Revised Oct. 7, 1970)].

Despite the statutory exception for trade associations, the Commissioner has taken the position that the exemption does not apply to trade organizations formed to enhance the economic position of the members [see Corporations Commissioner's Policy Letter No. 10 (July 10, 1969)].

[b] Debt Securities

Although debt securities are specifically excluded from the exemption for nonprofit corporation securities [Corp. Code § 25100(j); see [a], above], they may nonetheless be exempt from qualification under Corp. Code § 25100(l) (short-term commercial paper) or Corp. Code § 25100(p) (secured notes), or the transaction in which they are offered or sold may be exempt if it does not involve a public offering [Corp. Code § 25102(e)]. For a detailed discussion of debt securities, see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities .

[c] Antifraud Requirements

Regardless of whether membership interests in a nonprofit corporation are exempt from qualification, the corporation is not exempt from the antifraud provisions. These statutes prohibit false and misleading business practices, misrepresentation of material fact, insider trading, and the inducement of illegal acts [see Corp. Code §§ 25400-25403].

[2] Federal Requirements

Memberships in nonprofit corporations ordinarily do not constitute securities under federal securities law [see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(1)]. Thus, federal securities law will not apply, provided that the corporation and its members do not expect any profit or return and the corporation does not issue stock or other instruments deemed to be a security. However, if the corporation issues stock, sells notes or bonds, or sells memberships from which members anticipate a pecuniary return, the stock, bonds, or memberships are deemed to be securities. Therefore, the issuance must be registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission unless exempt.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.41

§ 13.41 Tax Considerations

[1] Nonprofit Corporations Subject to Income Tax Unless Exempt

Corporations formed under the California Nonprofit Corporation Law are subject to the federal income tax [I.R.C. § 11] unless they are entitled to an exemption [see I.R.C. §§ 501-528 (rules governing exempt organizations)]. Qualifying nonprofit organizations are also exempt from federal withholding tax [see I.R.C. §§ 3121(b)(8)(B), 3401(a)(9) (religious organizations)].

Nonprofit corporations are also subject to the California franchise and income taxes unless they are specifically exempted from that tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq. (exemptions)].

For a more detailed discussion of the federal income taxation of nonprofit corporations, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

[2] Charitable Gifts

[a] Gifts Generally Deductible From Income

Contributions to qualified nonprofit corporations may entitle the donor to claim the federal income tax deduction for charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170]. For example, taxpayers ordinarily may deduct gifts made to I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) corporations (corporations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, and specified public purposes) from income [I.R.C. § 170(c)]. However, the deduction is lost if the corporation attempts to intervene in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office [I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)(B), (D); see [c], below].

Charitable gifts by check are ordinarily deemed made (and deductible) when the check is delivered or mailed to the charitable organization, regardless of when the charity actually receives the check [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-1(b)]. Similarly, gifts made by credit card are deemed made (and deductible) when the donor charges the contribution, regardless of when the donor pays the credit card bill [Rev. Rul. 78-38, 1978-1 C.B. 67].

Purchases at auctions are only deductible if and to the extent that the taxpayer intends a gift and the fair market value of the purchased item is less than the amount bid and paid [I.R.C. § 170(c); see Hardesty v. Commissioner (1993) 65 T.C.M. 2743, T.C. Memo. 1993-225] . Under federal law, the cost of a raffle ticket generally is not deductible, unless the value of participating in the raffle is worth less than the ticket price [see Rev. Rul. 83-130, 1983-2 C.B. 148 ; but see Penal Code § 320] (generally barring sale of raffle tickets).

For further discussion of state and federal income tax charitable deductions available for contributions to qualifying nonprofit organizations, see Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions .

[b] Documentation Requirements

Federal law imposes disclosure and documentation requirements on charitable organizations described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) that solicit deductible and/or nondeductible contributions [see I.R.C. §§ 170(f), 6113, 6115]. Special substantiation rules apply to specific types of contributions [see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(f)(9), (11)-(17)].

An I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) charitable organization must provide a contemporaneous written acknowledgment or receipt to each donor contributing $250 or more in cash or property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)]. The required contents of the receipt are specified by statute, but the charity is not required to state the value of the gift property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8); see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(a)(1), (b)(1), (f)(2)]. Multiple gifts under the $250 threshold will not be aggregated [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(f)(1)]. Although it is the donor's responsibility to obtain any necessary documentation, the charity nevertheless should provide a receipt, either at the time of the gift or by mail early in the succeeding year. Donors who incur deductible out-of-pocket expenses of $250 or more when rendering services to the nonprofit must obtain a written acknowledgment from the corporation describing the services provided by the donor and either goods or service received in return or that no goods or services were provided [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(f)(10); see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(f)(8) (exception for membership benefits)].

When a gift of property other than cash or publicly traded securities valued in excess of $5,000 is made to a nonprofit, the donor must obtain a qualified appraisal and attach an appraisal summary to the donor's income tax return [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(2)]. For this purpose, all similar items contributed in a single year are aggregated, even when the gifts are made to different donees [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(1), (7) (similar items)].

[c] No Deduction for Gifts to Lobbying Entities; Use of Affiliate

Gifts to exempt organizations that attempt to intervene (including the publication and distribution of statements) in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office are not deductible [I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)(B), (D)]. The prohibition against lobbying has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court, provided that an alternate means of communication is available [Regan v. Taxation With Representation (1983) 461 U.S. 540, 552-553, 103 S. Ct. 1997, 76 L. Ed. 2d 129 (entity may use its I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization for nonlobbying activities and create I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) affiliate to pursue its charitable goals through lobbying); see FCC v. League of Women Voters (1984) 468 U.S. 364, 400, 104 S. Ct. 3106, 82 L. Ed. 2d 278 (affirming Regan holding)].

When an I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) corporation wishes to engage in lobbying, the corporation typically creates an I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) affiliate to pursue its charitable goals through lobbying. An I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) entity, a nonprofit organization operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare whose net earnings are devoted exclusively for charitable, educational, or recreational purposes, is also exempt from taxation [I.R.C. § 501(c)(4)]. Although an I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) entity is similarly banned from intervening in political campaigns [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(2)(ii)], the entity may form a political action committee (PAC) that is free to participate in political campaigns [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(2)(ii), 1.527-6(f), (g)]. However, the relatedI.R.C. § 501(c)(4) entity must be separately incorporated, and it must maintain records that show that tax-deductible contributions to the I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) entity have not been used to support the political activities [see I.R.C. § 527(f)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.527-6(e), (f); see also Branch Ministries v. Rossotti (D.C. Cir. 2000) 211 F.3d 137, 141-144] .

[d] Estate and Gift Tax Deduction

Five basic categories of organizations to which the transfer of property will give rise to a federal estate tax deduction are specified by statute [I.R.C. § 2055(a)]:

- The United States, any state, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes;

- Any corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art, or to foster national or international amateur sports competition (but only if no part of its activities involve the provision of athletic facilities or equipment), and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, if no part of its net earning inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual; if it is not disqualified for tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) for attempting to influence legislation; and if it does not participate or intervene in any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office;

- A trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if those contributions or gifts are to be used by that trustee or trustees, or by the fraternal society, order, or association, exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals; if the trust, fraternal society, order, or association would not be disqualified for tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) for attempting to influence legislation; and if the trustee, fraternal society, order, or association does not participate in or intervene in (including publishing or distributing statements) any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office;

- Any veterans' organization incorporated by act of Congress, or its departments, local chapters, or posts, if no part of its earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; and

- An ESOP if the transfer is a qualified gratuitous transfer of qualified employer securities [see I.R.C. § 664(g)].

The categories of organizations qualifying for the federal gift tax charitable deduction generally are coextensive with the categories listed above, although they are not identical [see I.R.C. § 2522(a)]. There are significant differences, however, between the categories of organizations qualifying for the federal income tax deduction [see [a], above] and those qualifying for the federal estate and gift tax deductions. For more detailed discussion of the federal estate and gift tax charitable deductions, and comparison with the federal income tax charitable deduction, see Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions .

[e] Property Tax Exemption

Nonprofit corporations that are exempt from income taxation [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d; I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); see also [a], above] may also be exempted from property taxation pursuant to the "welfare exemption" [Cal. Const., art. XIII, §§ 4(b), 5; Rev. & Tax. Code § 214]. Under the welfare exemption, property used exclusively for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes that is owned and operated by community chests, funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations organized and operated for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes ordinarily is exempt from taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)]. However, the welfare exemption will not be granted to any organization unless it is qualified as an exempt organization under either Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d or I.R.C. §

501(c)(3) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.8(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 213.7, 214(g), 214.8(a), 215.1, 231 (additional exemptions)]. An organization will not be deemed "qualified" as an exempt organization unless it has filed a valid organizational clearance certificate with the assessor [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214(a)(3)(C), 214.18(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.6 (claim for certificate must be filed with Board of Equalization)].

Property used exclusively for religious purposes is also subject to a "religious exemption" from property tax, which remains in effect until the property no longer qualifies [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 207]. The exemption provides a simplified claims process for churches and church schools to file for property tax exempt status [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 257], with minimal annual filing requirements [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 257.1].

For further discussion of exemptions from property tax, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Operations of Domestic Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.42

§ 13.42 Corporate Changes

[1] Conversions

Any business, public benefit, mutual benefit, religious, or cooperative corporation may convert into another type of corporation. This type of corporate change generally is effected by amending the articles of incorporation and making related filings as required [see Corp. Code §§ 911, 5813.5, 7813.5, 9621(a), 12504]. Because the Attorney General considers that all assets of public benefit corporations are held in charitable trust, the Attorney General must give advance written approval to a conversion of a public benefit corporation to a mutual benefit, business, or cooperative corporation unless the public corporation has no assets. In the latter situation, the Attorney General is entitled to 20 days advance notice by the corporation's submission of a copy of the amendment [see Corp. Code § 5813.5(b)].

[2] Mergers

In general, public benefit corporations, mutual benefit corporations, and religious corporations may merge with any other domestic or foreign nonprofit or stock corporation. However, these mergers require the prior written consent of the California Attorney General [Corp. Code §§ 6010, 8010, 9640]. To effect the merger, a copy of the agreement of merger, an officer's certificate for the surviving corporation and for each disappearing corporation, and a tax clearance certificate for each disappearing California corporation and each disappearing foreign corporation that has qualified in California must be filed with the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_mrgcorp.htm].

Without the prior written consent of the Attorney General, a public benefit corporation may only merge with another public benefit corporation, religious corporation, or foreign nonprofit corporation the articles of which provide that its assets are irrevocably dedicated to charitable, religious, or public purposes [Corp. Code § 6010(a)]. At least 20 days before the consummation of a merger, a public benefit corporation must provide a copy of the proposed merger agreement to the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 6010(b)]. Without the Attorney General's prior written consent, when a merger occurs, each member of a constituent corporation may only receive or keep a membership in the surviving corporation for or as a result of that member's membership in the constituent corporation [Corp. Code § 6010(c)]. Procedures governing mergers involving public benefit corporations are set forth in Corp. Code § 6011 et seq.

A mutual benefit corporation may merge with any domestic or foreign corporation, provided that a merger with a public benefit or religious corporation must have the prior written consent of the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 8010]. Procedures governing mergers involving public benefit corporations are set forth in Corp. Code § 8011 et seq.

A religious corporation may merge with any domestic or foreign corporation. However, without the prior written consent of the Attorney General, a religious corporation may only merge with another religious corporation, public benefit corporation, or foreign nonprofit corporation the articles of which provide that its assets are irrevocably dedicated to charitable, religious, or public purposes [Corp. Code § 9640(b)]. Merger procedure generally is governed by the rules applicable to public benefit corporations, other than Corp. Code § 6010(a), 6011, 6012 [Corp. Code § 9640(a); see Corp. Code § 9640(c), (d) (approval requirements)].

[3] Dissolution

[a] Voluntary Dissolution

Public benefit, mutual benefit, and religious corporations may elect to voluntarily dissolve, generally by a vote of a majority of the members [see Corp. Code §§ 6610, 8610, 9680; Committee to Save the Beverly Highlands Homes Association v. The Beverly Highlands Homes Association (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 1247, 1262, 1271, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 732 (trial court erred in finding that nonprofit mutual benefit corporation was common interest development and thus approval of 100 percent of members was required for dissolution under Corp. Code § 8724)]. The corporation must file a certificate of election to wind up and dissolve with the Secretary of State, and with the Attorney General if the corporation holds assets in charitable trust or has a charitable dissolution clause [Corp. Code §§ 6611(a), 8611(a), 9680(a)]. The distribution of assets is regulated and subject to review by the courts and/or the Attorney General [see Corp. Code §§ 6716(c), 8716(c), 9680(e)(3)]. To finalize dissolution, the corporation must file a certificate of dissolution, executed by a majority of the directors, with the Secretary of State when the corporation is completely wound up [see Corp. Code §§ 6615(a), 8615(a), 9680]. However, if the corporation is wound up under court supervision, the final decree of dissolution must be filed in lieu of the certificate [see Corp. Code §§ 6614, 8614, 9680].

Detailed discussion of the procedures for dissolution of domestic nonprofit corporations, with forms, is included in Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution.

[b] Involuntary Dissolution

Public benefit and mutual benefit corporations also may be subject to involuntary dissolution proceedings [see Corp. Code §§ 6510 et seq., 8510 et seq.; but see Corp. Code § 8510(d) (exceptions)]. The persons who may file the dissolution action and the permissible grounds are specified by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 6510(a), (b), 8510(a), (b)]. In addition, the Attorney General may bring suit to dissolve the corporation on any of the following grounds [Corp. Code §§ 6511(a), 8511(a)]:

- The corporation has seriously offended against any provision of the statutes regulating corporations or charitable organizations.

- The corporation has fraudulently abused or usurped corporate privileges or powers.

- The corporation has violated any provision of law by any act or default that is a legal ground for forfeiture of corporate existence.

- The corporation has failed to pay to the Franchise Tax Board for a period of five years any tax imposed by the Bank and Corporation Tax Law.

The Corporations Code contains no procedure for the involuntary dissolution of religious corporations.

§ 13.50 Application of General Corporation Law

In general, foreign nonprofit public benefit and mutual benefit corporations transacting intrastate business in California must comply with the provisions of the General Corporation law applicable to foreign corporations [see Corp. Code § 2100 et seq.] except as to matters specifically covered under the Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 6910, 8910].

The Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law does not contain a statute expressly requiring foreign religious corporations to comply with the California General Corporation Law. However, Corp. Code § 9660 subjects all religious corporations to the requirements noted in the preceding paragraph.

Corp. Code § 2115, which specifies various requirements applicable to for-profit foreign corporations, is inapplicable to foreign nonprofits [Corp. Code §§ 6910, 8910].

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.51

§ 13.51 Qualification Requirements

A foreign nonstock, nonprofit corporation or a foreign corporation organized for educational, religious, scientific, or charitable purposes that does not issue shares, may qualify as a nonprofit corporation in California. Foreign public benefit, mutual benefit, and religious corporations must file a signed statement and designation consistent with the requirements of Corp. Code § 2105 to qualify to transact intrastate business in California [see § 13.249]. The corporation must attach an original certificate by an authorized public official of the state or place of its incorporation, to the effect that the corporation making the statement is an existing corporation in good standing in that state or place. The certificate must also indicate that the corporation is a nonstock, nonprofit corporation [see Requirements for Qualification of Foreign Nonprofit Corporations, Secretary of State's website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_sdcnpinfo.htm]. The latter information is required as proof that the corporation is eligible for the reduced filing fees that apply to nonprofit corporations. Although the information on the Secretary of State's website states that a certified copy of the articles of incorporation will not be accepted in lieu of the required certificate [see Requirements for Qualification of Foreign Nonprofit Corporations, Secretary of State's website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_sdcnpinfo.htm], the Secretary of State's office has orally advised that the certificates typically provided by some states or places of incorporation do not specify that the corporation is nonprofit, and that in such a case the Secretary of State's office will accept an endorsed copy of the corporation's articles as proof of its nonprofit status.

For further discussion of California requirements applicable to foreign corporations, see Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations .

D. California Requirements for Foreign Nonprofit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.52

§ 13.52 Factors in Determining Whether to Qualify or Incorporate in California

In general, foreign nonprofit corporations are less common than their business counterparts. Nonprofit activities rarely warrant the expense of foreign incorporation and state qualification. However, foreign charitable corporations cannot secure some of the benefits of domestic incorporation. For example, foreign corporations are ineligible for the nonprofit public benefit corporations procedure for independent director approval of specified types of self-dealing transactions [see Corp. Code §§ 5233, 7233; see also § 13.38]. Further, the California Attorney General's office subjects foreign nonprofit corporations to the more stringent law applicable to trusts because they hold assets in charitable trust [see Holt v. College of Osteopathic Physicians & Surgeons (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 750, 756, 40 Cal. Rptr. 244] .

The term "charitable corporation" includes any nonprofit foreign corporations doing business or holding property in California for charitable or eleemosynary purposes. Therefore, such a corporation must file with the Registrar of Charitable Trusts [Gov. Code § 12582.1; see § 13.36[3]]. In addition, a foreign corporation with no principal office in California, on written request of any member, must furnish a copy of the bylaws as amended to date [see Corp. Code §§ 5160, 7160, 9160].

B. Preliminary Determinations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.110

§ 13.110 Selection of Appropriate Entity

1. Determine whether entity should be nonprofit.

NOTE:

For-profit entities may conduct nonprofit activities without changing status. However, significant advantages may result from nonprofit status, including tax exemptions, minimum wage [see 29 U.S.C. § 203(r)], and special copyright treatment [see 17 U.S.C. § 110 et seq.].

a. Whether entity has clear nonprofit purpose, e.g., charitable, public benefit, mutual benefit, or religious purposes.

b. Whether nonprofit and/or tax-exempt status is important for operational reasons.

(1) Dependent on tax deductibility of contributions to entity [see § 13.41[2]].

(2) Dependent on grant or endowment funding.

(3) Securities exemptions [see § 13.40].

(4) Reduced rate mailing privileges.

(5) Property tax advantages [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 202-207, 213.7-217, 221-231; see also Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

(6) Sales tax advantages [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6361 et. seq.]

NOTE:
The gross receipts from the sale, storage, use, and other consumption in California of tangible personal property that is made, prepared, assembled, or manufactured by organizations that (1) are formed and operated for charitable purposes qualifying for the "welfare exemption" [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214], (2) are engaged in the relief of poverty and distress, and (3) make the sales and donations as a matter of assistance to the purchasers and donees are exempt [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6375].

c. Whether it will be easier or harder to attract qualified directors and officers.

(1) Public or charitable motive.

(2) Lack of incentive stock options and generally lower compensation.

d. Whether entity would comply with heightened corporate formalities.

NOTE:
Nonprofit entities must comply with reporting requirements of the Internal Revenue Service and Franchise Tax Board and may face stricter investment standards. Public benefit corporations are subject to the supervision of the California Attorney General.

e. Determine whether bar against distributions and personal benefit will defeat organizational purpose.

f. Determine whether organizers have private profit motivation.

(1) Plans to convert to profit corporation in future.

(2) Plans for future transactions with related parties.

2. Determine whether entity should be corporation or association [see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations].

NOTE:
Disadvantages of incorporation include the costs of incorporation, transfer of assets, increased paperwork, and corporate formality requirements.

a. Whether entity will own real property.

NOTE:
If the entity will own real property, the corporation form is the easiest to establish ownership and title [see Corp. Code § 18115].

b. Whether tort or other liability concerns are of significant concern.

NOTE:
Nonprofit corporations are eligible for tort liability protection for volunteer directors and officers [see Corp. Code § 24001.5]. Although ordinarily money judgments against unincorporated associations may be enforced only against association property [Corp. Code § 18260], causes of action may be enforced against persons who received assets distributed during dissolution [Corp. Code § 18135(a)]. Further, judgments against the association may be levied against assets of members, directors, officers, and agents of the association [Corp. Code § 18270]. For further discussion of insurance matters, see § 13.37 and Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations .

c. Whether entity will engage in active business operations.

NOTE:

If the client does not envision active business operations, a charitable trust, as a passive management or investment vehicle, may serve the client's goals without the expense and obligations involved in organizing a nonprofit corporation [see Estate of Graham (1923) 63 Cal. App. 41, 218 P. 84 (trust purpose must be exclusively and clearly charitable and beneficiaries must be public or institutions devoted to public welfare)]. Charitable trusts can be established relatively quickly and inexpensively and are not subject to many statutory formalities. However, trusts generally are not suited to members.

d. Whether entity will have members.

e. Whether entity will engage in some unrelated business activities.

f. Whether perpetual existence is desirable.

3. If incorporation is desirable, determine whether incorporation should occur in California or elsewhere.

NOTE:

This chapter assumes that incorporation will be in California. Foreign incorporation and qualification in California is discussed briefly in § 13.50 et seq. If the client emphasizes finding the state with the least regulation of nonprofit corporations, the client's long-range commitment to charitable purposes may be questionable.

4. Determine type of domestic nonprofit corporation.

NOTE:

A particular type of nonprofit corporation, such as a homeowners association or health care service plan, may be subject to additional statutory requirements beyond those required for public benefit, mutual benefit, and religious corporations [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 10820, 10821; Bus. & Prof. Code § 11005.5].

a. Determine whether corporation will be organized primarily or exclusively for religious purposes.

NOTE:

If the corporation will be organized primarily or exclusively for religious purposes, the corporation should consider forming as a nonprofit religious corporation as these entities are subject to the least amount of government oversight and requirements and have the most flexibility in managing their internal affairs. However, corporations with religious purposes may incorporate under the other two laws. Unlike public and mutual benefit corporations, the Nonprofit Law does not provide for the involuntary dissolution of religious corporations [see Corp. Code § 6510 et seq., 8510 et seq.; see also Corp. Code § 9680].

b. If public benefit corporation status is being considered, advise client of following:

(1) Public benefit corporations are subject to most oversight by both Secretary of State and Attorney General.

NOTE:
Public benefit corporation members and other persons entitled to vote can file a court action to determine the validity of any election or appointment of any director, and the Attorney General may intervene [Corp. Code § 5617].

(2) Corporation may not distribute assets or profits to members during life of corporation and must distribute remaining assets on dissolution to charitable entity and not members.

(3) Stricter conflict of interest rules apply to public benefit corporations.

(a) No more than 49 percent of persons serving on board may be interested persons [Corp. Code § 5227(a); see § 13.31[2][c]].

NOTE:
"Interested persons" means either any person currently being compensated by the corporation for services rendered to it within the previous 12 months, whether as a full-time or part-time employee, independent contractor, or otherwise, excluding any reasonable compensation paid to a director as director; or any brother, sister, ancestor, descendant, spouse, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, mother-in-law, or father-in-law of any such person [Corp. Code § 5227(b)]. There is no statutory counterpart applicable to mutual benefit or religious corporations.

Any person entitled to bring an action for breach of charitable trust may bring an action to correct violations of this rule [Corp. Code § 5227(c); see Corp. Code § 5142]. However, these rules do not affect the validity or enforceability of any transaction entered into by the corporation [Corp. Code § 5227(d)].

(b) Restrictions against self-dealing transactions is significantly stricter and more detailed procedures [compare Corp. Code § 5233 with Corp. Code § 7233; compare Corp. Code § 5233 with Corp. Code § 9243(d)(2) (members may approve self-dealing transaction)].

(4) Members have no proprietary interest.

c. If mutual benefit corporation status is being considered, advise client of following:

(1) Corporation may qualify for federal tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or (6).

(2) Corporation may not distribute gain, profits, or dividends to members during lifetime of corporation.

(3) Corporation may provide services and facilities to members.

(4) Corporation may distribute remaining assets to members on dissolution.

B. Preliminary Determinations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.111

§ 13.111 Selection of Appropriate Corporate Name

NOTE:

The incorporators may select the name they desire for the corporation on the basis of its proposed activities and personal factors before consulting counsel. Counsel should suggest two or three alternative names, and should be prepared to check the choices made against the statutory restrictions on the corporate names. The Secretary of State will not file articles of incorporation setting forth a corporate name that is proscribed by statute. The following list indicates the types of names and specific names that should be avoided.

Foreign corporations are subject to the same name restrictions and limitations as domestic corporations. If the true name of a foreign corruption is not available for use in California, the corporation may use an assumed name.

1. Ensure that name must not include any of the following terms [Corp. Code §§ 5122(a), 7122(a), 9122(a)]:

NOTE:

This prohibition does not apply if the incorporators obtain a certificate of approval from the Commissioner of Financial Institutions. The certificate must be attached to the articles of incorporation for filing [Corp. Code §§ 5122(a), 7122(a), 9122(a)].

a. "Bank";

b. "Trust";

c. "Trustee"; or

d. Any related terms.

2. Ensure that name is not likely to mislead public [Corp. Code §§ 5122(b), 7122(b), 9122(b)].

3. Ensure that name is not same as, or resemble so closely as to tend to deceive, any of the following [Corp. Code §§ 5122(b), 7122(c), 9122(b)]:

NOTE:
A corporation may adopt a name that is substantially the same as an existing domestic or foreign corporation that is authorized to transact intrastate business or has registered its name pursuant to Corp. Code § 2101 on proof of consent by that corporation and a finding by the Secretary of State that under the circumstances the public is not likely to be misled [Corp. Code §§ 5122(b), 7122(b), 9122(b)]. The consent must be on the letterhead of the consenting corporation, and must be signed by an officer. The Secretary of State will determine the acceptability of a consent based on corporations of record at the time of presentation [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_naav2.htm].

a. Name of another domestic corporation.
