2.10. The amount charged by each Partner for professional services rendered in connection with the Partnership business shall be determined by each Partner pursuant to a schedule of charges to be adopted by majority vote of the Partners. However, each Partner may render professional services for any member of his or her immediate family without charge and may, on approval of the Partners having a majority interest in the Partnership profits and losses, render professional services without charge or at less than regular charge to any professional, civic, educational, religious, or charitable organization or project.

Bank Accounts

2.11. All Partnership funds shall be deposited in bank accounts designated by majority vote of the Partners. The Partners shall also designate by majority vote three Partners, one of whom shall be the Managing Partner, who shall be authorized to sign checks and make withdrawals from such bank accounts. All checks and withdrawals on or from any such bank account shall require the signatures of two authorized Partners.

Books

2.12. Complete and accurate accounts of all Partnership transactions shall be kept in proper books, and each Partner shall enter in those books a full and accurate account of all transactions conducted by that Partner on behalf of the Partnership. The books of account and other Partnership records shall be kept in the Partnership place of business at all times, and each Partner shall have access to, and may inspect and copy, any of them at any time.

Method of Accounting

2.13. The Partnership books of account shall be kept on a cash and calendar year basis.

Accountings

2.14. As soon after December 31 in each year as is reasonably practicable, a complete and accurate accounting shall be made of all Partnership receipts and disbursements during the preceding calendar year. The net Partnership profits or losses during that year shall be ascertained and credited or debited, as the case may be, on the Partnership books, to the respective Partners in the proportions specified in Section 2.05 of this Agreement.

Capital Accounts

2.15. An individual capital account shall be maintained for each Partner. Each Partner's capital account shall consist of his or her contribution to the initial capital, any additional contributions to the Partnership capital made by that Partner pursuant to this Agreement, and any amounts transferred from his or her income account to Partnership capital pursuant to this Agreement.

Income Accounts

2.16. An individual income account shall be maintained for each Partner. At the end of each calendar year each Partner's share of the Partnership net profits or losses shall be credited or debited to, and his or her withdrawals during the year deducted from, that income account. Except as provided in Section 2.04 of this Agreement, amounts may be transferred from a Partner's income account to the Partnership only by majority vote of the Partners.

Amounts in Income Accounts

2.17. Any amount credited to a Partner's income account on any regular Partnership accounting provided for in this Agreement shall constitute a liability of the Partnership to that Partner payable without interest on demand.

ARTICLE 3. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF PARTNERS

Vacations and Sick Leave

3.01. Each partner shall devote full time, knowledge, and skill to the Partnership business. Each Partner shall be entitled to vacations, sick leave, and absences from the Partnership business in the following manner:

(a) Each Partner shall be entitled to [number] weeks vacation in each calendar year to be taken at such times as may be most convenient to the Partnership. Any vacation not used in one year may be used in a future year only with the approval and to the extent agreed on by majority vote of the Partners.

(b) Each Partner shall be entitled to [number] weeks sick leave each calendar year without adjustment in earnings because of actual sickness or accident to the Partner or any member of the Partner's immediate family. Sick leave not used in one year may not be carried over to future years or used for additional vacation.

(c) In addition to sick leave, each Partner who becomes pregnant shall be entitled to [number] months maternity leave during any twelve month period without adjustment in earnings.

(d) Each Partner, in addition to the vacation and sick leave provided for in this Section shall be entitled to be absent from the Partnership business for [number] days each calendar year for the purpose of attending professional meetings or postgraduate courses.

(e) If any Partner's vacation or sick leave exceeds the limits specified in this Section for any year, that Partner's distributive share of the net Partnership profits for the year shall be reduced at the rate of _____ percent for each week the vacation or sick leave exceeds the limits specified in this Section without the consent of [a majority or all] of the remaining Partners. The amount by which any Partner's distributive share of Partnership net profits is reduced pursuant to this provision shall be credited to the other Partners according to their percentage interests in those profits as specified in Section 2.05 of this Agreement.

Management

3.02. In addition to other matters specified in this Agreement, the following matters shall be determined by majority vote of the Partners as defined in Section 3.05 of this Agreement:

(a) Matters relating to general management, professional policy, and the purchase of furniture and equipment costing more than $ _____.

(b) The assignment of professional duties and responsibilities among the Partners.

(c) The selection of a Partner to serve as Managing Partner.

Statement of Partnership

3.03. Concurrent with the execution of this Agreement, the Partners shall cause to be filed with the California Secretary of State a Statement of Partnership Authority pursuant to California Corporations Code Section 16303 setting forth the Partners' rights with respect to management and control of the Partnership and any limitations thereon as set forth in this Agreement. The Partnership shall cause the Statement of Partnership Authority be recorded in every county in which the Partnership owns, or contemplates owning, real property.

Managing Partner

3.04. The Managing Partner shall be selected at the beginning of each calendar year and shall serve in that capacity for the calendar year or until a successor is selected. The Managing Partner shall have the duty and authority to carry out and implement decisions relating to general management and professional policy, to purchase supplies, furniture, and equipment costing less than $ [amount specified in Section 3.02(a)], and to employ, discharge, and supervise the clerical, administrative, and other employees of the Partnership.

Votes

3.05. In any matter requiring a majority vote of the Partners, each Partner shall have one vote for each one percent of Partnership net profits distributable to the Partner under Section 2.05 of this Agreement during the year in which that vote is taken. "Majority vote of the Partners" as used in this Agreement shall mean 51 percent of the votes cast pursuant to this Section.

Prohibited Acts

3.06. No Partner shall, without the consent of all other Partners:

(a) Loan any Partnership funds;

(b) Tender any professional services to any person if requested by the Managing Partner not to do so;

(c) Incur any obligations in the name of or on the credit of the Partnership except in the ordinary course of the Partnership business; or

(d) Become bail, surety, or endorser for any other person.

The Partnership shall be indemnified for any losses it sustains because of the breach of this paragraph by the Partner committing the breach.

Personal Debts

3.07. Each Partner shall pay and discharge that Partner's own separate obligations as they become due, and shall protect the other Partners and the Partnership from all costs, claims, and demands relating to his or her personal obligations.

Malpractice

3.08. Each Partner shall indemnify the Partnership for all damages and expenses for which the Partnership may become liable as a result of any alleged act of negligence or professional malpractice on the part of that Partner to the extent that the damages and expenses are not paid or reimbursed under a policy of insurance carried by the Partnership.

Assignment of Interest

3.09. No Partner shall sell, assign, mortgage, hypothecate, or encumber any interest in the Partnership.

ARTICLE 4. PARTNER DISSOCIATION

Withdrawal of Partner

4.01. Any Partner may withdraw from the Partnership at the end of any calendar year by giving _____ months written notice to the other Partners. On service of that notice:

(a) The dissociation of the Partner from the Partnership will automatically become effective at the end of the calendar year in which given, unless within [number] days after receiving notice the remaining Partners, by written agreement signed by all of them, elect to dissolve the Partnership and serve written notice of their election on the dissociating Partner, in which event his or her notice shall be deemed an expression of the Partner's will to dissolve and wind up the Partnership business.

(b) If the remaining Partners do not elect to dissolve the Partnership, the Partnership books shall be closed at the end of the calendar year in the usual manner. The withdrawing Partner shall then be paid the balance shown in his or her capital and income accounts, increased by his or her share of Partnership net profits or decreased by his or her share of Partnership net losses during the year, and decreased further by his or her drawings against anticipated profits during the year. The net amount payable to the withdrawing Partner shall not include any share in uncollected charges received by the Partnership subsequent to the effective date of withdrawal and shall be payable without interest in [number] equal consecutive [e.g., monthly or quarterly] installments commencing [number] month(s) after the effective date of dissociation.

(c) A Partner may withdraw from the Partnership without the written advance notice required under this Paragraph, but such a withdrawal shall be considered a wrongful dissociation under Corp. Code § 16602(b)(1) and the Partner will be liable for any damages caused by the wrongful dissociation under Corp. Code § 16602(c).

Expulsion of a Partner

4.02. Any Partner may be expelled from the Partnership.

(a) Expulsion shall become effective on the adoption by majority vote of the remaining Partners, at a meeting held after five days written notice has been given to the expelled Partner, of a written resolution finding that the Partner has:

(1) Engaged in personal misconduct or a willful breach of this Agreement of such a serious nature as to render the Partner's continued presence in the Partnership personally or professionally obnoxious or detrimental to the other Partners or the Partnership;

(2) Been expelled, suspended, or otherwise disciplined by the final action of any professional organization or duly constituted authority;

(3) Resigned from any professional organization under threat of disciplinary action;

(4) Been convicted by final action of any court of any offense punishable as a felony or involving moral turpitude; or

(5) Made an assignment for the benefit of creditors or been declared a bankrupt.

(b) The expelled Partner shall be entitled to receive from the remaining Partners, as soon as practical after the effective date of the dissociation, the book value of the expelled Partner's Partnership interest as determined by a complete inventory and accounting of the Partnership affairs as of the close of business on the effective date of the dissociation, less any value attributable to the goodwill of the Partnership business and less any damages, if the expulsion was caused by willful breach of this Agreement, sustained by the remaining Partners or the Partnership because of the breach.

Retirement of Partner

4.03. Any Partner may voluntarily retire from the Partnership at any time after the age of _____ years by giving [number] months written notice of the intention to retire to the other Partners.

Disability of Partner

4.04. Any Partner who is disabled because of illness, accident, or other cause, and therefore unable to perform normal duties as a Partner for a continuous period of [number] months or longer may be retired from the Partnership by majority vote of the other Partners. [For an alternative provision concerning termination of a disabled partner's interest in the Partnership, see Section 4.02 of form in § 15.200[2].]

Payment for Partnership Interest

4.05. On the dissociation of a Partner due to death or retirement under Section 4.03, or because of disability under Section 4.04, the Partnership shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto, in full liquidation of that Partner's interest in the Partnership, the following amounts:

(a) An amount each month for [number] consecutive months following the retirement or death of the Partner that is equal to [fraction or percentage, e.g., one third] of the Partner's average monthly earnings from the Partnership in the [number] years immediately preceding the Partner's retirement or death during which the Partner was a member of the partnership; plus

(b) The Partner's distributive share of the Partnership net profits for its current year to the date of retirement or death, less withdrawals made by the Partner against those profits, payable [number] days after the date of retirement or death; plus

(c) An amount equal to the balance in the Partner's capital and income accounts on the date of retirement or death, payable without interest in [number] consecutive equal [e.g., quarterly] installments beginning [number] months after the date of retirement or death.

Noncompetition Clause

4.06. Any retired Partner who engages in competition with the Partnership in any way during the period any amounts are payable to him or her under Subparagraph (a) of Paragraph 4.05 of this Agreement shall forfeit all right to any remaining payments due under that Subparagraph. "Competition with the partnership" shall mean engaging, directly or indirectly, (including, by way of example only, as a director, principal, partner, venturer, partner, or agent), or having any direct or indirect interest, in any business similar to or competitive with that then being carried on by the Partnership in the _____[, specify geographical scope of noncompetition, e.g., City and County of Los Angeles].

Retired Partner's Right to Examine Books

4.07. Any person legally entitled to receive any payments pursuant to the provisions of Paragraph 4.05 of this Agreement shall have the right to examine the Partnership books and records at any time during normal business hours to the extent that the examination is necessary to determine the amount of any payments set forth in Paragraph 4.05 of this Agreement.

Limitation on Payments to Dissociated Partners

4.08. A dissociated Partner, including a deceased Partner's estate, shall not have any claim against the Partnership or the remaining Partners, except for payments expressly provided in this Agreement to be paid to them. If the Partnership is dissolved before the full amount of these payments has been paid, the unpaid balance shall be paid in full before any distribution of Partnership assets shall be made to the remaining Partners.

Dissolution

4.09. The Partnership may be dissolved on the affirmative vote of a [specify, e.g., a majority in interest, or a majority in numbers, or percentage greater than majority] of the Partners. On dissolution of the Partnership, all Partnership assets, including any lease for office space occupied by the Partnership, but excluding any files or records pertaining to the affairs of its [clients or patients] shall be liquidated and the proceeds distributed in the manner specified in California Corporations Code Section 16807.

Files

4.10. On any dissolution of the Partnership, the Partner who has usually rendered professional services for a particular [client or patient] shall be entitled to the [client's or patient's] file unless the [client or patient] requests that a different disposition be made of that file. A Partner who withdraws from the Partnership shall be entitled only to the records or files of those [clients or patients] for whom he or she regularly performed professional services as a member of the Partnership and for whom he or she also rendered professional services before becoming a member of the Partnership. The estate of a deceased Partner shall not be entitled to any records or files of the Partnership except records and files relating to personal matters of the deceased Partner.

ARTICLE 5. MISCELLANEOUS

Additional Partners

5.01. The Partners may by [specify, e.g., a majority in interest, or a majority in numbers, or unanimous vote], admit additional Partners and fix the capital contributions, if any, to be made and the participation percentage in profits and losses of any additional Partners. All Partners shall relinquish an equal proportion of their own participation percentage in Partnership profits and losses to any such additional Partners. However, before being admitted, each additional Partner must first agree in writing to be bound by the provisions of this Agreement.

Notices

5.02. Any notices permitted or required by law or by this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly given when personally delivered to the Partner to whom they are addressed or, in lieu of personal delivery, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, certified, addressed to that Partner at the address that appears below that Partner's signature at the end of this Agreement.

§ 15.271 Professional Partnerships--Provision for Contribution of Existing Practices to Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides for the merger of existing professional practices into the partnership being formed. It is designed to be substituted for Section 2.01 of the form in § 15.270[2]. Although it provides for the merger of two partnerships, a single or solo practitioner, and a person who contributes cash to the new partnership, it can be modified to eliminate one or more firms or persons or to add as many firms or persons as desired. If additional firms or practitioners are merged into the new partnerships, paragraphs describing them should be inserted after Subparagraph (d) of this form and the last two subparagraphs of this form renumbered accordingly. If the existing firms' accounts receivable are being transferred to the new partnership, the language excluding them in Subparagraph (a), (b), and (d) of this form, as well as all the language of Subparagraph (f) of this form should be omitted.

Frequently small firms will desire to "merge" or reorganize into a large partnership to conserve expenses, expand services, and perhaps enhance the reputation of their practice. This form provides for such a merger or reorganization. Each of the former small firms contributes its assets to the initial capital of the new partnership. For the purposes of clearly indicating the tax consequences of such a merger, this form also provides for the contribution of cash to the initial capital of the new partnership by one partner.

PRACTICE TIP

Not infrequently small firm mergers fail because the fiercely autonomous individual partners are unable to define or establish an entity culture or shared management practices. Counsel should consider the true motivations of a small firm merger and carefully review any post-merger management practices. Counsel should also keep in mind the risks of partnership dissolution and be certain that the attorney-client relationship is clearly defined, making all appropriate conflict disclosures and maintaining all waivers in the file. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[b] Tax Consequences of Merger of Practices

Neither the partnership nor the contributing partner recognize gain or loss on contributions of cash or other property to the partnership [I.R.C. § 721; see § 15.18[2]]. Consequently, each existing firm can transfer all of its assets to the new partnership, and the partner who contributes cash to the partnership can do so without any income tax liability. However, the basis to the partnership of each item of property contributed to it is the adjusted basis the contributing partner had for the property immediately before the contribution to the partnership [I.R.C. § 723]. Because of the large amount of accounts receivable or "unrealized receivables" inherent in their businesses, most professionals report their income on a cash rather than an accrual basis [see discussion in § 15.271[1][d]]. Accordingly, they pay taxes on their accounts receivable only as they receive payments on those accounts. Therefore, they will have no income tax basis for accounts receivable and the partnership will have no basis for them when they are contributed to the partnership capital. Further, because such accounts are not within the definition of "capital assets" [see I.R.C. § 1221], any income received from them after their transfer to the partnership would be taxed as ordinary income to the partnership. Thus a portion of the amount received on each contributed accounts receivable will be taxed to each partner in the new partnership, including the partner who contributed only cash to the partnership [see Grant & Paul, Tax Problems of Professional Partnerships, 1960 So. Cal. Tax Inst. 517, 518]. To avoid this result, this form provides that the accounts receivable of each existing firm remain the property of that firm, but will be billed and collected by the new partnership and paid to the existing firm to which they belong. In this manner the tax consequences of transferring such accounts to the new partnership are avoided, but the existing firm's clients are reminded each month that their former attorney or doctor is now part of the new partnership--a reminder that will be valuable to the goodwill of the new partnership.

Under California law, the taxation of partnerships generally is determined in accordance with the partnership provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

[2] FORM

Professional Partnerships--Provision for Contribution of Existing Practices to Partnership

Capital

2.01. The initial capital of the Partnership shall consist of:

(a) All the physical assets shown on a schedule attached to this Agreement marked Exhibit A, and the intangible assets, including client lists, accounts receivable and work in progress shown on Exhibit A, of the Partnership for the practice of [profession] previously conducted by _____ and _____[names] under the name of _____[firm name], which are contributed to this Partnership by those persons at an agreed value of $ _____.

(b) All the physical assets shown on a schedule attached to this Agreement marked Exhibit B, and the intangible assets, including client lists, accounts receivable and work in progress shown on Exhibit A, of the individual practice of [profession] previously conducted by _____[name], which are contributed to this Partnership by _____[name of owner] at an agreed value of $ _____.

(c) The sum of $ _____ in cash, contributed to this Partnership by _____[name of partner].

(d) All the physical assets shown on a schedule attached to this Agreement marked Exhibit C, and the intangible assets, except accounts receivable and work in progress, of the Partnership for the practice of [profession] previously conducted by _____ and _____[names] under the name of _____[firm name], which are contributed to this Partnership by those persons at an agreed value of $ _____.

(e) The term "work in progress" as used in this section means matters, cases, or other activities requiring the rendition of professional services commenced prior to but not completed at the date of this Agreement by any of the former Partnerships or practices mentioned in this section, referred to in this Agreement as "existing" firms. Each such matter, case, or activity shall be completed by this Partnership. The charges for completion shall be billed and collected by this Partnership, and shall, on receipt, be allocated between the existing firm involved and this Partnership in a manner determined by majority vote of all Partners.

(f) Accounts receivable of the existing firms shall be billed and collected by this Partnership but at all times shall remain the property of the existing firms and their members. Any payments received on any accounts receivable shall be promptly paid to the existing firm whose property it remains. Any practices, other than normal billing and accounting procedures, required to collect any such accounts receivable shall be undertaken by the existing firm whose property it remains and not by this Partnership.

(g) "Client lists" as used herein shall mean all client information, billing records, accounts, work in progress related to those accounts, and all after-acquired information, records, accounts and client matters, contributed to the Partnership by the respective Partners. On dissolution of the Partnership or dissociation of any Partner, other than by death, disability, or expulsion, all such client lists shall be distributed in-kind to the Partner who contributed such client lists to the Partnership pursuant to this Agreement.

PRACTICE TIP

The disposition of unfinished partnership business on dissolution of a professional partnership can be controlled by agreement. This is particularly important when client services are rendered over time as in the legal profession. For example, in the absence of an agreement providing otherwise, attorneys' fees received for cases in progress on the dissolution of a law partnership are to be shared by the former partners according to their right to fees in the dissolved partnership, regardless of which partner provides the legal services in the case after dissolution. The fact that the client substitutes one of the former partners as attorney of record in place of the dissolved partnership does not affect this result [Jewel v. Boxer (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 171, 174, 203 Cal. Rptr. 13] . A partner has no right, however, to share in the proceeds from future business from the dissolved partnership's former clients who elected to retain the services of a new partnership formed by former copartners [Fraser v. Bogucki (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 604, 611, 250 Cal. Rptr. 41] . For further discussion of the rights of partners with respect to unfinished partnership business, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, pt. C (Matthew Bender). Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.272 Professional Partnerships--Provision for Sharing Profits and Losses According to Who Originated Client and Who Performed Services for Client

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides that the partner who secured the business of a client or customer, and the partner who performed the services for which the fee is charged, will receive stated percentages of all fees received from the customer or client. After the stated percentages are distributed to the partners, the partnership profits will be determined and distributed equally among all partners. If used, this form should be substituted for 2.05 of the form in § 15.270[2]. Other provisions of the form in § 15.270[2] referring to the percentage interests of the partners in the partnership profits, especially 3.01 and 3.02, should be omitted if this form is used.

[b] Purpose of Form

A number of factors affect the fairness of profit division in professional partnerships. Many partners prefer the "formula" approach provided in this form, which apportions each fee received among the partner originating the fee for the partnership, the partner who actually performed services for which the fee was paid, and other partners. This system requires the careful maintenance of reliable records of the work performed by each partner and accurate records of which clients were secured by each partner. It also requires a detailed breakdown of the general costs of maintaining the partnership and their allocation on an hourly or other basis to the services performed. For a detailed discussion of this "formula" approach and the objections to it, see Willis, The Problems of Professional Partnership, 26 N.Y.U. Tax. Inst. 167, 171 173 (1968).

[2] FORM

Professional Partnerships--Provision for Sharing Profits and Losses According to Who Originated Client and Who Performed Services for Client

Profits and Losses

2.05. Net Partnership profits and losses shall be shared in the following manner:

(a) Each Partner who has originated a particular client [or patient or customer] by having secured that [client's or patient's or customer's] business for the Partnership shall be allocated _____ percent of all fees received from that [client or patient or customer]. If more than one Partner is responsible for securing a [client's or patient's or customer's] business for the Partnership, the allocated percentage shall be apportioned equally among the responsible Partners. Each Partner who has performed or directed the performance of services on behalf of any client shall be allocated _____ percent of any fees received as a result of those services. The remaining fees shall be distributed equally among the Partners.

(b) All Partnership expenses in rendering professional services to any client, including allowances for the general office, insurance, rental, and other overhead expenses of the Partnership, determined pursuant to a formula to be adopted by majority vote of the Partners, shall be _____[specify method in which overhead will be paid, e.g., charged to the Partners in the same proportion as the fees for those services are allocated among the Partners under this Section or paid before any fees are distributed to the Partners according to the method specified in this Section].

§ 15.273 Professional Partnerships--Provision for Sharing Profits and Losses According to Units if Participation Assigned to Each Partner

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides for the allocation of partnership profits and losses on the basis of units of participation assigned to each partner. It is a substitute for Section 2.05 of the form in § 15.270[2]. If it is used, Section 3.01(d) should be modified to provide that a partner's share of the profits of the partnership will be reduced by a specified number of units of participation instead of percentage for each week that partner's vacation or sick leave exceeds the limits set in Section 3.01 of the form in § 15.270[2].

[b] Units of Participation Formula

The most readily adjustable formula for determining each partner's distributive share of partnership profits and losses is the assignment of "units of participation" to each partner. Each partner is assigned a specified number of "units of participation." As the total number of "units of participation" outstanding among the partners increases or decreases, the partners' individual interests in partnership profits and losses also increase and decrease without any amendment of the partnership agreement being required.

The total number of units assigned to the partners need not total 100 or any other figure. Thus, if 10 units are outstanding, each unit is worth 10 percent of the profits, and if 20 units are outstanding, each unit is worth only 5 percent of the profits. Consequently, on the termination of a partner's interest in the partnership, no change in the number of units held by the remaining partners is required. Conversely, when a new partner is added or a junior partner's share of profits is increased, no change in the number of units of participation assigned to the other partners need be made. However, if each partner was given a specified percentage interest in the profits and losses of the partnership, changes in the number of partnership units would be required. Although mathematically the results should be the same, senior partners may be more reluctant to increase the stated percentage of profits distributable to a junior partner when the stated percentage distributable to them must be reduced in the partnership agreement than they are to increase the number of participating units held by a junior partner when the number of units held by them remains the same.

PRACTICE TIP

Anti-dilution rights in profit-sharing agreements can be creatively structured to protect classes of partners. For example, a senior partner may have anti-dilution rights against junior partners, but not among themselves, and junior partners may have no anti-dilution rights. These types provisions should be carefully considered before including them in any agreement. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[2] FORM

Professional Partnerships--Provision for Sharing Profits and Losses According to Units if Participation Assigned to Each Partner

Profits and Losses

2.05. Net Partnership profits and losses shall be shared by the Partners on the basis of the units of participation held by each Partner.

(a) The units of participation that shall be held by each Partner are as follows:

Name of Partner	Units of Participation
_____	_____ [e.g., 30] units
_____	_____ [e.g., 20] units
_____	_____ [e.g., 17] units

(b) After the net Partnership profit or loss for any calendar year has been calculated, the total number of units of participation held by the then members of the Partnership shall be divided into that calculated net profit or loss, thereby determining the amount of that profit or loss, therein called "unit value," that is attributable to each unit of participation then outstanding. Each Partner's distributive share of the net profit or loss shall then be determined by multiplying the unit value by the number of units of participation held by that Partner.

(c) On termination of any Partner's interest in the Partnership, the units of participation held by that Partner will also terminate. The number of units of participation assigned to a new Partner upon admission to the Partnership shall be determined by a majority vote of the remaining Partners. In either case no adjustment will be required with respect to the units of participation held by the other Partners. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, the number of units of participation held by each Partner as specified in this section shall not be changed except by amendment to this Agreement.

§ 15.275 Professional Partnerships--Provision for Percentage of Net Profits to Be Credited to Bonus Reserve Account and Distributed Among Partnership Employees

[1] Comment--Use of Form

Paragraph (a) of this form provides for a stated percentage of the annual net partnership profits to be credited to a "bonus reserve account" and distributed among the partners and employees of the partnership in a manner determined by a majority vote of the partners, such as incentive bonuses. Any of the formulas set forth in the forms in §§ 15.272[2]through 15.274[2] or in Section 2.05 of the form in § 15.270[2] may be modified and inserted as Paragraph (b) of this form to describe the manner in which the remainder of the annual net Partnership profits or losses will be distributed among the partners themselves. This form is designed to be substituted, when appropriate, for Section 2.05 of the form in § 15.270[2].

(a) _____ percent of the annual net Partnership profits shall be allocated on each regular accounting provided for in this Agreement to a "bonus reserve account," and shall be distributed among the Partners and employees of the Partnership in a manner determined by majority vote of the Partners. § 15.276 Professional Partnerships--Provision for Management Committee

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form creates a management committee composed of the partners to manage the affairs of the partnership. Subject to any agreement between them, each partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(f)]. This form is designed primarily for use by large professional partnerships in which it would be inconvenient to hold daily or weekly partnership meetings. This form is designed to be substituted for Section 3.02 of the form in § 15.270[2]. If it is used, Section 3.03 of that form should be omitted, the remaining paragraphs of that form renumbered accordingly, and all provisions that provide for decisions by the majority vote of the partners carefully reviewed. Further, if this form is used, consideration should be given to the use of either form in §§ 15.277[2] or 15.278[2] relating to meetings of the partners. If this form is used, the remainder of the agreement should be reviewed to assure that it contains no inconsistent provisions with respect to voting rights, allocation of responsibilities among the partners, and authority of the partners.

[2] FORM

Professional Partnerships--Provision for Management Committee

Management Committee

Section 3.02. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, the entire management of the Partnership shall be vested in a Management Committee consisting of three Partners, no one of whom may be retired (although a member of the Management Committee may be participating in steps toward gradual retirement as herein provided).

(a) Each Partner named to the Management Committee shall serve as a member until withdrawal from the Partnership, retirement from the Partnership, expulsion from the Partnership, resignation as a member of the Management Committee, or removal from the Management Committee by majority vote of the Partners.

PRACTICE TIP

Professional partnerships often rotate management committee membership on an annual basis, as is done on a corporate board of directors. An appointment terminable by a majority in interest at the majority's will is not a true life appointment. If a lifetime appointment is intended, then it should only be terminable for cause, as defined in the agreement. Each partnership must structure its management committee to fit its needs and the relative strengths of the partners. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

(b) Any member of the Management Committee may resign from the Committee at any time by giving written notice of resignation to the other members of the Management Committee.

(c) Any vacancies that may occur on the Management Committee shall be filled as soon as possible by vote of the Partners at a meeting of Partners called for that purpose.

(d) Action of the Management Committee shall be by majority vote of its members, but it shall not be necessary that any notice be given of its meetings or of the matters to be decided at any meeting. Any decision of the Committee may be reversed by subsequent action of the Committee.

(e) The Management Committee may delegate any part of its powers, rights, and authority to any subcommittee of one or more of its members either for the purpose of recommending to the full Management Committee what action should be taken or with power in the subcommittee to act. In the latter event, the act of the subcommittee shall be the act of the Management Committee. Any such delegation may be terminated by the Management Committee at any time without notice.

(f) The Management Committee may appoint any Partner or full-time employee of the Partnership, or any group of such Partners and full-time employees, to investigate any matter and recommend action by the Management Committee or by vote of the Partners.

(g) Though it has no obligation to do so, the Management Committee may refer any matter to a meeting of the Partners for decision.

(h) _____, _____, and _____[names] are hereby appointed members of the Management Committee.

§ 15.277 Professional Partnerships--Provisions for Calling and Conducting Partnership Meetings--Each Partner to Have One Vote

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is designed for use in place of Sections 3.03 and 3.04 of the form in § 15.270[2]. It provides the procedure for calling and conducting meetings of the partners in which each partner has one vote. For a form granting voting rights to the partners according to their percentage interests in the partnership profits and losses, see Section 3.04 of the form in § 15.270[2]. For a provision concerning partnership meetings in which each partner has the same number of votes as "units of participation" in partnership profits and losses held by that partner, see the form in § 15.278[2].

[2] FORM

Professional Partnerships--Provisions for Calling and Conducting Partnership Meetings--Each Partner to Have One Vote

Partnership Meetings--Notice

3.03. A meeting of the Partners may be held at the office of the Partnership at any time:

(a) On call of the [Management Committee or Managing Partner] and [number] hours notice [in writing or either in writing or oral] to each Partner specifying the time and purpose of the meeting.

(b) On [number] days notice in writing, specifying the time and purpose of the meeting, given to each Partner and signed by any [number] Partners.

Conduct of Partnership Meetings

3.04. At any meeting of Partners provided for in this Agreement:

(a) Each Partner shall have one vote on any matter properly brought before the meeting whether a vote of the Partners on that matter is required by this Agreement or the matter is voluntarily submitted to vote of the Partners by the Management Committee.

(b) The presence, either in person or by proxy, at any meeting of a majority in [number or interest] of all Partners shall, except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business that may come before that meeting.

(c) Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, the decision by majority vote of all Partners present, either in person or by proxy, at any meeting at which a quorum is present shall be binding on the Partnership and each Partner.

(d) No Partner shall be entitled to vote on any matter coming before any meeting that affects that Partner's continuing status as a member of the Partnership, or on any matter involving ratification of that Partner's transactions with the Partnership whether individually or through an entity in which: (1) that partner owns at least a 51 percent interest; or (2) ownership resides in individuals related by kinship or marriage to that Partner. For the purpose of determining whether a quorum is present to act on such matters or whether such a matter has received the percentage of votes required for its passage, the number of units of participation outstanding shall be deemed reduced by the number held by the Partner so affected.

(e) Except as provided in Subsection (d) of this Section 3.04, the following matters must be adopted by the vote of the Partners as specified below, either in person or by proxy, at a meeting held after [number] days notice in writing has been given to each Partner specifying the time and purpose of the meeting:

§ 15.278 Professional Partnerships--Provisions for Calling and Conducting Partnership Meetings--Each Partner's Voting Rights Measured by Units of Participation in Partnership Profits

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is designed for use in place of Sections 3.03 and 3.04 of the form in § 15.270[2]. It provides that the voting rights of each partner at a partnership meeting will be equivalent to the number of "units of participation" in the partnership profits held by that partner. Accordingly, this form should be used only if the form in § 15.273[2], providing for the sharing of profits and losses according to "units of participation" held by the partners, is also used. The nature and advisability of using "units of participation" as a method for distributing partnership profits and losses is discussed in § 15.273[1]. For a provision concerning partnership meetings in which each partner has one vote, see the form in § 15.277[2]. For a provision granting voting rights to the partners according to their percentage interest in the partnership profits and losses, see Section 3.04 of the form in § 15.270[2].

[2] FORM

Professional Partnerships--Provisions for Calling and Conducting Partnership Meetings--Each Partner's Voting Rights Measured by Units of Participation in Partnership Profits

Partnership Meetings--Notice

3.03. A meeting of the partners may be held at the office of the Partnership at any time during regular business hours on the call, without notice, of the [Management Committee or Managing Partner], or on [number] days notice in writing to each Partner specifying the time and purpose of the meeting signed by any [number] Partners.

Conduct of Partnership Meetings

3.04. At any meeting of Partners provided for in this Agreement:

(a) Each Partner will have one vote for each unit of participation in the net profits and net losses of the Partnership held by that Partner pursuant to Paragraph 2.05 of this Agreement [whether the vote on a particular matter is required by this Agreement or the matter is voluntarily submitted to vote of the Partners by the Management Committee].

(b) The presence in person or by proxy at any meeting of Partners holding a majority of the total number of units of participation in the Partnership shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business that may come before the meeting, except as otherwise provided in this agreement.

(c) Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, the decision by majority vote of all units of participation represented, either in person or by proxy, at any such meeting at which a quorum is present, shall be binding on the Partnership and each Partner.

(d) No Partner shall be entitled to vote on any matter coming before any meeting that affects that Partner's continuing status as a member of the Partnership, or on any matter involving ratification of that Partner's transactions with the Partnership whether individually or through an entity in which: (a) that partner owns at least a 51 percent interest; or (b) ownership resides in individuals related by kinship or marriage to that Partner. For the purpose of determining whether a quorum is present to act on such matters or whether such a matter has received the percentage of votes required for its passage, the number of units of participation outstanding shall be deemed reduced by the number held by the Partner so affected.

PRACTICE TIP

This paragraph could, if appropriate, include further disqualifying conflicts of interest. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

(e) Except as provided in Subparagraph (d) of this Paragraph 3.04, the following matters to be effective must be adopted by the vote specified below of all units of participation outstanding, cast either in person or by proxy, at a meeting held after [number] days notice in writing has been given to each Partner specifying the time and purpose of the meeting.

§ 15.279 Professional Partnerships--Provision for Membership at Firm Expense in Professional or Civic Organizations

[1] Comment--Use of Form

To enhance its reputation and attract business in the community, professional partnerships often encourage their members to become active in professional and civic organizations such as a county bar association or the local chamber of commerce. This form provides that the partnership will become a member of any such organization at partnership expense, and requires or encourages each partner to belong to one or more such organizations. This form is designed to be inserted as Section 3.09 of the form in § 15.270[2].

3.09. As an ordinary and necessary expense of its business, deductible before determination of net profits:

(a) The Partnership shall maintain membership in whatever professional and civic organizations are necessary or are determined by [majority vote of the Partners or the Management Committee] to be desirable for the practice of its profession.

(b) Each Partner [must or is encouraged to] belong to one or more professional associations or community organizations approved by [majority vote of the Partners or the Management Committee], such as: _____[list types

(c) As members of any such organizations, the Partnership and each Partner will act in accord with the rules and principles of those organizations at all times.

§ 15.280 Professional Partnerships--Provisions for Partner's Gradual Retirement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The abrupt retirement or death of a partner can disrupt the operation of a professional or personal service partnership. First, the retiree is usually a senior partner not only in age, but also in the development of the firm, and the remaining partners may be unprepared financially to liquidate the retiree's interest [see Willis, The Problems of the Professional Partnership, 26 N.Y.U. Tax. Inst. 167, 180 (1968)]. Second, the goodwill of a professional partnership is dependent on the personal and confidential relationship existing between each partner and the clients or patients he or she serves [Lyon v. Lyon (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 519, 524, 54 Cal. Rptr. 829] . The client who is accustomed to having a particular partner handle work may not instantly trust whoever else is assigned to handle future matters. This form provides for the gradual retirement of a partner, thereby giving the remaining partners an opportunity to plan ahead for liquidation of the retiring partner's interest and gives the retiring partner a chance to gradually introduce clients to other members of the partnership.

PRACTICE TIP

While gradual retirement is the preferred method, often immediate retirement is dictated by poor health or other events. Care should be taken to ensure that an event of sudden retirement does not result in a breach of the partnership agreement. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

This form may be inserted as Section 4.04 of the form in § 15.270[2], and the subsequent sections of that form renumbered accordingly.

Gradual Retirement

(d) During the [specify period, e.g., third year] of gradual retirement, the retiring Partner shall not be required to devote more than _____ hours per week or more than _____ weeks per year to the business of the Partnership and that Partner's distributive share of net Partnership profits [and voting rights] before the commencement of the period of his or her gradual retirement shall be further reduced by _____ percent.

During the [restate period, e.g., fourth and fifth years] of gradual retirement, the retiring Partner's distributive share of net Partnership profits [and voting rights] before the commencement of the period of his or her gradual retirement shall be further reduced by _____ percent.

(f) At the end of the [specify period, e.g., fifth year] of the gradual retirement period, the retiring Partner will be retired from the Partnership, will have no further rights, duties, or privileges therein, and his or her Partnership interest shall be liquidated in the manner provided in Paragraph _____ of this Agreement.

Code §§ 16105, 16303*].The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [see Gov. Code § 27361; see also Gov. Code § 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 15.285. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Note that, when an existing limited liability company or limited partnership converts to a California general partnership, that entity must use a different form, Form GP-1A, to file its statement of partnership authority [see Corp. Code §§ 15677.6(a)(2), repealed January 1, 2010, 15911.06(a)(2) (conversion from limited partnership), 17540.6 (conversion from limited liability company)]. For discussion and a reproduction of Form GP-1A, see Pt. C, § 15.801.

[b] Contents and Execution

A statement of partnership authority must include the following [Corp. Code § 16303(a)]:

- Name of the partnership.
- Street address of its chief executive office.
- If the chief executive office is outside California, the street address of an office in California, if any.
- Names and mailing addresses of all partners or of an agent who maintains the list of names and mailing addresses of all partners and who will make it available on a showing of good cause.
- Names of all partners authorized to execute an instrument transferring real property held in the name of the partnership.

The partnership statement of authority may include statements that grant or limit the authority for some or all of the partners to enter into transactions on behalf of the partnership or any other matter [Corp. Code § 16303(b)].

A statement filed by a partnership must be signed by at least two of the partners who declare under penalty of perjury that the contents of the statement are accurate [Corp. Code § 16105(c)]. Copies should be sent to all nonfiling partners [Corp. Code § 16105(e)].

[c] Effect of Statement

A statement of partnership authority helps to protect the partnership and partners against liability from the unauthorized acts of partners by giving constructive notice of the authority of partners in the partnership. Third parties may rely on conclusively on a filed statement to the extent that they are uncontradicted by later-filed statements [Corp. Code § 16303(d)(1); see Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 337, 345-348, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713 (interpreting Corp. Code § 15010.5, predecessor statute under former UPA)]. In addition, third parties who purchase partnership real property are deemed to know of any limitations on the authority of a partner to act if the statement of partnership authority is on record in the recording office [Corp. Code § 16303(d)(1), (e)]. Third parties otherwise are not deemed to know of a limitation on the authority of a partner because the limitation is contained in a filed statement [Corp. Code § 16303(f)]. For further discussion of the effect of a statement of partnership authority with respect to third persons and transfers of real property, see § 15.15[3].

Whenever real property recorded in the partnership name is conveyed, whether the conveyance is signed by one or all the partners, a "gap" will appear in the chain of title to the property and title insurance companies will be reluctant to insure the purchaser's title unless it can be established that the person signing the conveyance is a person authorized to convey real property recorded in the partnership name. Recording a certified copy of the statement of partnership authority in the office of the county recorder of any county remedies this problem. As noted above, third parties who purchase partnership real property are deemed to know of any limitations on the authority of a partner to act if the statement of partnership authority is on record in the recording office [Corp. Code § 16303(d)(1), (e)].

A provision in a recorded statement of partnership signed by all the partners granting the authority to one or more partners individually to transfer partnership property generally will serve as satisfactory evidence of that authority to title companies. These provisions will also be picked up by the title companies in their search of records and will obviate the necessity of bringing the partnership agreement to the title company office each time a piece of partnership real property is being conveyed.

This form is official Form GP-2, Statement of Denial [see Corp. Code § 16304]. It is available from any office of the California Secretary of State. The form should be filed with the General Partnership Unit of the Secretary of State, together with the filing fee of $30 [see Instructions to Form].

A statement of denial may be used to deny a person's partnership status, or limit a person's authority as a partner. It may be filed either by a partner in the partnership or by the person who is affected. A statement of denial is a limitation of authority that limits the extent to which third parties may rely on a filed and recorded partnership statement of authority [Corp. Code § 16304; see Corp. Code § 16303(d), (e); see also § 15.285[1], above]. In order for a statement of denial to be effective for real estate transfers, a certified copy of the statement issued by the Secretary of State must be recorded with the county recorder's office for recording transfers of real property [see Instructions to Form].

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.299

§ 15.299 Scope of Part

This part covers the dissociation of partners and the dissolution and winding up of general partnerships under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994, including the partners' rights and duties to the partnership and to the other partners, their duties and obligations to third parties, and their continuing liability for matters related to the partnership after dissociation from the partnership or the partnership's dissolution and winding up. Following this discussion is a summary of the tax consequences of liquidation of the partnership and of disposition of partnership interests. This part also describes the procedures to be followed to dissolve a partnership's business and either wind it up or continue it by agreement or pursuant to statute. Dissociation of a partner that does not result in a dissolution of the partnership is covered in connection with the continuation of a partnership and the sale of a departing partner's partnership interest.

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.300

§ 15.300 Governing Law

The Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA '94) [Corp. Code §§ 16100-16962] governs all partnerships on and after January 1, 1999, including the dissolution of partnerships at any time thereafter [Corp. Code § 16111(b)].

The former Uniform Partnership Act, originally enacted in 1949 [former Corp. Code §§ 15001-15045], governed partnerships formed before January l, 1997 until the earlier of either (1) January 1, 1999, or (2) the effective date of a partnership's election to be governed by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16111(a)]. However, since January 1, 1999, all partnerships have been governed by UPA '94, regardless of the date on which they were originally formed [Corp. Code § 16111(b)]. The former UPA now affects only actions or proceedings commenced, or rights accrued, prior to the date the UPA'94 took effect [Corp. Code § 16112].

For a correlation table showing the relationship between sections of the former UPA and UPA '94, see § 15.11[3] in Part A of this chapter.

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.301

§ 15.301 Distinction Between "Dissociation," "Dissolution," "Winding Up," and "Termination"

[1] In General

Under UPA '94, a partnership is an entity distinct from its partners [Corp. Code § 16201]. This means, among other things, that changes in the composition of the partnership do not necessarily trigger dissolution. A partner's "dissociation" (a term introduced by UPA '94) from a partnership is treated separately from partnership dissolution, although the dissociation of a partner may be a predicate for dissolution in the case of a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose [see Corp. Code § 16801; see also § 15.302[2]]. Absent a judicial determination that a partnership must be dissolved and wound up for reasons that will be described [see § 15.302[3]], partnerships at will are not automatically dissolved by the rightful or wrongful dissociation of a partner. Again excepting a judicial determination that a partnership must be wound up, a partnership agreement can control when and if a partnership should dissolve [see Corp. Code § 16103].

The partnership continues after dissolution only for the purpose of winding up its affairs, and is terminated at the conclusion of the winding up [Corp. Code § 16802(a)]. "Termination" is the term used to denote the cessation of any business activity on the part of the dissolved partnership. For income tax purposes, termination is either the cessation of any business activity by the partners in partnership form, or the sale, within a 12-month period, of 50 percent or more of the total interest in partnership capital and profits [see I.R.C. § 708; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17867].

[2] Events Triggering a Partner's Dissociation

[a] Notice by Partner

A partner may dissociate from a partnership voluntarily at any time by giving notice to the partnership of the partner's express will to withdraw as a partner on that date or on a stated later date [Corp. Code § 16601(1)].

[b] Provision in Partnership Agreement

A partner is dissociated on the occurrence of an event that the agreement specifies will cause the partner's dissociation [

Corp. Code § 16601(2)]. For example, in a professional partnership, the agreement would commonly require dissociation if a partner's license to practice is revoked. A partner may also be expelled if the partnership agreement so provides, for example, if the partnership agreement provides the grounds for expulsion [Corp. Code § 16601(3)].

[c] Unanimous Vote of Other Partners

Absent an agreement to the contrary, a partner may be expelled by the unanimous vote of the other partners if any of the following apply [Corp. Code § 16601(4)]:

- There has been a transfer of all or substantially all of that partner's transferable interest in the partnership, other than a transfer for security purposes, or a court order charging the partner's interest, that has not been foreclosed.

- Within 90 days after the partnership notifies a corporate partner that it will be expelled because it has filed a certificate of dissolution or the equivalent, its charter has been revoked, or its right to conduct business has been suspended by the jurisdiction of its incorporation, and the certificate of dissolution has not been revoked or the corporation's charter or its right to conduct business has not been reinstated.

- A partnership, limited partnership, or limited liability company that is a partner has been dissolved and its business is being wound up.

[d] Judicial Determination

On application by the partnership or another partner, a court may order a partner's expulsion for any of the following reasons [Corp. Code § 16601(5)]:

- The partner engaged in wrongful conduct that adversely and materially affected the partnership business.

- The partner willfully or persistently committed a material breach of the partnership agreement or of a duty owed to the partnership or the other partners.

- The partner engaged in conduct relating to the partnership business that makes it not reasonably practicable to carry on the business in partnership with that partner.

[e] Financial Problems

If the partner acts or fails to act in any of the following instances, the partner is dissociated from the partnership unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise [Corp. Code § 16601(6)]:

- By becoming a debtor in bankruptcy.

- By executing an assignment for the benefit of creditors.

- By seeking, consenting to, or acquiescing in the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of that partner or all or substantially all of that partner's property.

- By failing, within 90 days after the appointment, to have vacated or stayed the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the partner or of all or substantially all of the partner's property obtained without the partner's consent or acquiescence, or failing within 90 days after the expiration of a stay to have the appointment vacated.

[f] Loss of Capacity

A partner who is an individual is dissociated from the partnership by death, the appointment of a guardian or general conservator of that partner, or a judicial determination that the partner has otherwise become incapable of performing the partner's duties under the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16601(7)].

A partner that is a trust or acting by virtue of being a trustee of a trust is dissociated upon the distribution of the trusts entire transferable interest in the partnership, but not merely by reason of the substitution of a successor trustee [Corp. Code § 16601(8)]. A partner that is an estate or acting as a partner by virtue of being a personal representative of an estate is dissociated when the estate's entire transferable interest in the partnership is distributed, but not upon the mere substitution of a successor personal representative [Corp. Code § 16601(9)]. Finally, termination of a partner who is not an individual, partnership, corporation, trust or estate will also result in that partner's dissociation [Corp. Code § 16601(10)].

[3] Power of Partner to Dissociate

A partner has the power to dissociate at any time, rightfully or wrongfully, by the partner's express will [Corp. Code § 16602(a)]. The partnership agreement can declare dissociation to be a violation of the agreement (which would make the dissociation "wrongful" [Corp. Code § 16662(b)(1)]), but the agreement cannot vary a partner's power to dissociate, except to require the dissociating partner to notify the partnership in writing [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(5)].

In any partnership, dissociation will be wrongful when it constitutes a breach of the partnership agreement. In partnerships for a definite term or particular purpose, subject to a contrary partnership agreement, dissociation is also wrongful in the following situations [Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2)]:

- The partner dissociates before the term of the partnership expires or the undertaking has been completed.
- The partner has been expelled by court order.
- The partner is dissociated by reason of becoming a debtor in bankruptcy.
- A partner that is not an individual, trust, or estate is dissociated because it willfully dissolves or terminates.

The UPA '94 distinguishes between rightful and wrongful dissociation for the purpose of allocating rights and liabilities. For example, a wrongfully dissociating partner will be liable to the partnership for whatever damages are caused by the dissociation [Corp. Code § 16602(c)], and a wrongfully dissociating partner is not permitted a voice in determining whether a partnership should waive dissolution and continue in business [see Corp. Code § 16802(b)].

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.302

§ 15.302 Events Causing Dissolution and Winding Up

[1] Partnership at Will

A partnership at will [see Corp. Code § 16101(11) (definition)] must be dissolved and wound up if it is the express will of at least half the partners [Corp. Code § 16801(1)]. Excluded from that half are wrongfully dissociating partners [see Corp. Code § 16602(b); see also § 15.301[2][c]], but included in determining whether half the partners want to dissolve are those who have rightfully dissociated within the preceding 90 days and whose express purpose of dissociation is their willingness to dissolve and wind up the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16801(1)]. The partnership agreement, of course, may vary the statutory rule and specify a lower or higher voting requirement, and base it either on the number of partners or on the percentage of the partnership interests they own [see Corp. Code § 16103(a)].

[2] Partnership for a Definite Term

Absent an agreement to the contrary, a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose must be dissolved and wound up if all the partners expressly agree to do so, the partnership term has expired, or the undertaking has been completed [Corp. Code § 16801(2)(B), (C)].

Under UPA '94, these partnerships are treated somewhat differently than a partnership at will, because it is assumed that the composition of the partnership is essential to accomplishing its purpose, and that the dissociation of a partner should always give the other partners the opportunity to dissolve and wind up the partnership. Thus, absent a contrary provision in the partnership agreement, a partnership for a definite term or particular undertaking must dissolve and be wound up after 90 days have elapsed since a partner has wrongfully dissociated, or has dissociated for reasons of incapacity or financial problems [Corp. Code § 16801(2)(A)]. However, a majority in interest of the other partners can agree to continue the partnership. Included in the interests capable of approving a continuation of the partnership are those of partners who have withdrawn from the partnership within 90 days after a partner's dissociation that would trigger dissolution, i.e., wrongful dissociation or dissociation for reasons of incapacity or financial problems [see Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2)(A)]. For example, if a partner withdraws from the partnership within 90 days after one of the partners has died, that partner's withdrawal is not wrongful and that partner may still help form the majority in interest to continue the partnership.

Incapacity occurs when any of the following events happens [Corp. Code § 16601(7)-(10)]:

- An individual partner dies, is placed under guardianship or general conservatorship, or is the subject of a judicial determination that he or she has otherwise become incapable of performing his or her duties under the partnership agreement.

- A partner is a trust or is acting as a partner by virtue of being a trustee, and the trust's entire transferable interest in the partnership is distributed.

- A partner is an estate or is acting as partner by virtue of being a personal representative of an estate, and the estate's entire transferable interest in the partnership is distributed.

- There is a termination of any partner who is not an individual, partnership, corporation, trust, or estate.

The financial problems specified by statute are the partner's act or failure to act in the following instances [Corp. Code § 16601(6)]:

- By becoming a debtor in bankruptcy;

- By executing an assignment for the benefit of creditors;

- By seeking, consenting to, or acquiescing in the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the partner or of all or substantially all of that partner's property.

- By failing, within 90 days after appointment, to have vacated or stayed the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of all or substantially all of the partner's property obtained without the partner's consent or acquiescence, or failing within 90 days after the expiration of a stay to have the appointment vacated.

A partner wrongfully dissociates from a partnership for a definite term when any of the following occur [Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2)]:

- The dissociation violates the partnership agreement.

- The partner dissociates before the term of the partnership expires or the undertaking has been completed.

- The partner has been expelled by court order.

- The partner is dissociated by reason of becoming a debtor in bankruptcy.

- A partner that is not an individual, trust, or estate is dissociated because it willfully dissolves or terminates.

[3] By Judicial Decree

[a] Any Partnership

Regardless of anything in the partnership agreement to the contrary [see Corp. Code § 16103(8)], either a partnership at will or a partnership for a definite term must be dissolved and its business wound up if, on the application of a partner, a court determines one of the following applies [Corp. Code § 16801(5); see Corp. Code § 16405(b) (partner's right to sue partnership to force dissolution)]:

- The economic purpose of the partnership is likely to be unreasonably frustrated.

- Another partner has engaged in conduct relating to the partnership business that makes it not reasonable practicable to carry on the business in partnership with that partner.

- It is not otherwise reasonably practicable to carry on the partnership business in conformity with the partnership agreement.

[b] Partnership for a Definite Term

Anything in the partnership agreement to the contrary notwithstanding [see Corp. Code § 16103(8)], a transferee of a partner's transferable interest (that is, the partner's interest in profits, losses, and distributions [Corp. Code § 16502]) in a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose, may apply for a judicial determination that it is equitable to wind up the partnership business at the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking. The right of the transferee to seek winding up is dependent on the partnership's status at the time of the partner's transfer or the entry of a charging order against the partner's interest. Thus, if a partnership for a definite term or limited purpose is continued after the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking, it is presumed to be a partnership at will, and a transfer at that time would not give the transferee the right to seek winding up [Corp. Code § 16801(6); see Corp. Code § 16406].

Any partnership, whether at will or for a definite term, will be dissolved and wound up if there is a provision in the partnership agreement specifying an event requiring that result [Corp. Code § 16801(3)]. Since such a provision obviously is not self-executing, each partner has the right to enforce the partners' rights under the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16405(b)(1)].

Similarly, any partnership must be dissolved and wound up if an event makes it unlawful for all or substantially all of the partnership business to be continued. A cure of illegality within 90 days after notice to the partnership of the event is effective retroactively to the date of the event [Corp. Code § 16801(4)]. The partnership agreement cannot waive illegality as a basis for compelling the dissolution and winding up of the business [Corp. Code § 16103(8)].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.303

§ 15.303 Rights of Partners on Dissociation or Dissolution

[1] In General

The dissociation of a partner does not necessarily result in the dissolution of the partnership. Therefore, it is necessary to distinguish between a dissociating partner's rights on dissociation, and the rights of partners generally when there is a dissolution and winding up. The following discussion deals with the former.

[2] Buyout of Dissociating Partners

[a] Terms of Buyout

Most partnerships should have an agreement covering the purchase of a dissociating partner's interest. If there is no such agreement, the provisions of UPA '94 will control. Under UPA '94, when a partner dissociates, whether rightfully or wrongfully, that partner's interest in the partnership must be bought out by the partnership [Corp. Code § 16701(a)]. The buyout price is the amount the partner would receive as surplus on dissolution and winding up, that is, after the creditors have been paid and the accounts settled [see Corp. Code § 16807], if, on the date of dissociation, the assets of the partnership were sold at a price equal to the greater of (1) the liquidation value or (2) the value based on the sale of the entire business as a going concern (without the dissociated partner), and the partnership was wound up as of that date. Interest must be paid from the date of dissociation to the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(b)]. Damages for wrongful dissociation and any other amounts owed the partnership by the dissociating partner must be offset against the buyout price, with interest from the date the amount owed is due until the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(c)].

These provisions for buyout do not apply to a partner who dissociates within 90 days before the partnership's dissolution. Instead, such a partner would be treated as any other partner, and would have to wait for the winding up of the partnership, with the amount distributable to that partner taking into account any amounts owed by the partner to the partnership, including damages for wrongful dissociation [Corp. Code § 16701.5].

Unless there is an agreement to the contrary, if no agreement for purchase of a dissociated partner's interest is reached within 120 days after a written demand for payment, the partnership must pay (or cause to be paid) to the dissociated partner the amount the partnership estimates to be the buyout price with accrued interest, less any offsets [Corp. Code § 16701(e)]. If the partner has wrongfully dissociated from a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose [see Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2); see also § 15.302[2], [3][b]], the buyout of that partner will be deferred until the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking, unless the partner establishes to the satisfaction of a court that earlier payment will not cause undue hardship to the business of the partnership. If the payment is deferred, it must be adequately secured and bear interest [Corp. Code § 16701(h)], and the partnership may tender a written offer to pay the estimated amount of the deferred buyout price, with interest but reduced by offsets, stating the time payment, type of security, and the other terms and conditions of the obligation [Corp. Code § 16701(f)].

Either payment or tender of the buyout price must be accompanied by all of the following [Corp. Code § 16701(g)]:

- A statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of the date of dissociation;
- The latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement, if any;
- An explanation of how the estimated amount of the payment was calculated; and
- Written notice that the payment is in full satisfaction of the obligation to purchase unless, within 120 days after the written notice, the dissociated partner commences an action to determine the buyout price and any offsets or other terms of the obligation to purchase.

[c] Court Action to Determine Buyout Price

Partners who have dissociated may maintain an action against the partnership to determine the buyout price of their interests, including any offsets or other terms of the obligation to purchase. The action must be commenced within 120 days after the partnership has tendered payment or an offer to pay, or within one year after written demand for payment if the partnership has not paid or tendered an offer of payment. The court must determine the buyout price, offsets, and accrued interest, and enter a judgment for any additional payment or refund. The court also must determine the security for payment and other terms of the obligation in the case of a deferred payment to a wrongfully dissociating partner [Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

The court may assess reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of appraisers or experts against a party that the court finds acted arbitrarily, vexatiously, or not in good faith. That finding may be based on the partnership's failure to tender payment or an offer to pay or to furnish the statement [see [b], above] that must accompany an offer to pay or tender of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

[3] Rights and Duties of Dissociating Partner With Respect to Partnership

A dissociating partner's rights and duties with respect to the partnership and its property generally come to an end on dissociation. Thus, when a partner dissociates, either rightfully or wrongfully, the following rules apply [Corp. Code § 16603]:

- The partner's right to participate in the management and conduct of the business terminates.
- The partner's duty to refrain from competing with the partnership terminates [see Corp. Code § 16404(b)(3)].
- The partner's duties of loyalty and care as to the conduct or winding up of the partnership business > are generally continued, but only with respect to matters arising and events occurring before the partner's dissociation. This means, for example, that a dissociated partner could not assist a person with a claim against the partnership that arose before the partner's dissociation, nor could a dissociated partner make any recklessly false accusation against a partnership with respect to a transaction occurring before dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16404(b) (duties of loyalty and care); see also § 15.17[4]].

When a partnership is incorporated, the partnership ceases to exist after formation of the corporation, even if the entity is operated in a manner similar to that which it was operated as a partnership [Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1157, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335 (rejecting trial court conclusion that a "de facto" partnership existed concurrently with the corporate enterprise); Cavasso v. Downey (1920) 45 Cal.App. 780, 785, 188 P. 594] . Thus, the obligations among partners that flow from a partnership, including fiduciary duties among partners, ordinarily no longer exist and therefore cannot be enforced against one another by the former partners turned shareholders, with the limited exception that courts will enforce pre-incorporation agreements among partners or joint venturers who have incorporated in order to carry out the agreement between or among the partners or joint venturers [Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1157-1159, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335] .

UPA '94 contains no specific provision regarding the rights of partners on rescission of the partnership agreement for fraud or misrepresentation. Nevertheless, since partners are granted the right to compel a dissolution and winding up when another partner has engaged in conduct relating to the partnership that makes it not reasonably practicable to carry on the partnership business in partnership with that partner (almost certainly the case if there has been fraud or misrepresentation), UPA '94 essentially provides the same rights and remedy for partners seeking rescission of a partnership agreement as did the former UPA [see Corp. Code § 16405(b)(2)(C)]. For example, under the former UPA, a partner entitled to rescind might be entitled to a lien on, or to retain, surplus partnership property, and/or to be indemnified by the guilty partner [see Corp. Code § 15039]. Furthermore, a partner may maintain an action against a partner or the partnership to enforce the rights and otherwise protect the interest of the partner [Corp. Code § 16405(b)(3)].

II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 15.305 Rights of Retiring Partner or Estate of Deceased Partner When Business Is Continued

UPA '94 makes no distinction between a retiring or deceased partner and any other partner who is dissociated from the partnership. A dissociated partner is entitled to receive payment for that partner's partnership interest [see § 15.303[2]] and, in the case of a retiring partner, is relieved of his or her duties to the partnership with respect to events occurring after the partner's dissociation [see § 15.303[3]]. Continued use of a partnership name, or a dissociated partner's name as part of the partnership name, by partners continuing the business, does not of itself make the dissociated partner liable for an obligation of the partners or the partnership that continues the business [Corp. Code § 16705].

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.306

§ 15.306 Liability of Partners and Partnership

[1] Liability of Dissociated Partners

[a] When Discharged

A partner's dissociation does not of itself discharge that partner's liability for a partnership obligation incurred before dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(a)]. It is common, however, for buyout agreements to indemnify a partner against past and future partnership liabilities. UPA '94 expressly requires, absent a contrary understanding among the partners, that a dissociating partner be indemnified against all partnership liabilities no matter when incurred, other than those liabilities incurred by the partnership as a result of the act of the dissociated partner within two years after dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16701(d) (buyout provisions); see also Corp. Code § 16702 (partnership obligation incurred by dissociated partner)].

A dissociated partner ordinarily is not liable for a partnership obligation incurred after dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(a)]. If all of the following are true, however, a dissociating partner will be liable to third parties for transactions entered into by the partnership within two years after the partner's dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(b)]:

- The other party reasonably believes that the dissociated partner was a partner;
- The other party had no notice of the partner's dissociation; and
- The other party is not deemed to have knowledge or notice of the partner's dissociation [see Corp. Code §§ 16303(e), 16704(c)].

Avoiding a two-year overhang of liability is accomplished by notifying partnership creditors by letter, and by giving constructive notice by filing and, as appropriate, recording a statement of dissociation [see [b], below].

A dissociated partner is relieved from liability for a partnership obligation, regardless of when incurred, if the partnership's creditor, having notice of the partner's dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16102 (definition of "notice")] but without the partner's consent, agrees to a material alteration in the nature or time of payment of a partnership obligation [Corp. Code § 16703(d)].

[b] Placing Third Persons on Notice of Dissociation

A dissociating partner and/or the partnership can notify third parties of the dissociation by certified mail, and can give constructive notice to the world by filing and if appropriate, recording, a statement of dissociation.

The partner or the partnership may file a statement of dissociation with the Secretary of State. The statement of dissociation must state the name of the partnership, any identification number issued by the Secretary of State, and that the partner is dissociated [Corp. Code § 16704(a)]. The filed statement is a "limitation" on the dissociating partner's authority [Corp. Code § 16704(b)]. With respect to real property transactions, a filed and recorded statement of dissociation will give third persons immediate constructive knowledge of the limitation on authority pursuant to Corp. Code § 16303(e). With respect to all other transactions, a filed statement will give constructive notice to third parties 90 days after the statement has been filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16704(c)]. Depending on the circumstances of the partner's dissociation, among other considerations, a 90-day window of joint and several liability for non-real property transactions probably is undesirable from both the dissociating partner's and the partnership's point of view. Therefore, as noted above, in addition to the constructive notice given by the filing of a statement, actual notice should be given to partnership creditors at the earliest possible time.

[2] Liability of Partnership and Partners

[a] For Acts of Dissociated Partner

For two years after a partner dissociates, the partnership remains bound by the acts of that partner only if the same circumstances exist that would bind the dissociating partner with respect to post-dissociation partnership obligations, that is, the third party reasonably believed the dissociated partner was still a partner, had no notice of the dissociation, and did not have constructive knowledge of the dissociation [Corp. Code § 16702(a); see [1][a], above]. The same rules regarding the effect of filing and, if appropriate, recording a statement of dissociation apply as well [see Corp. Code § 16704(c); see also [1][b], above].

A buyout agreement under UPA '94 is not required to indemnify the dissociated partner for that partner's post-dissociation actions that bind the partnership [see Corp. Code § 16701(d)]. Furthermore, if the partnership is liable for an act of the dissociated partner within the two-year period, that partner is liable to the partnership for any damages arising out of the obligation the partner incurred [Corp. Code § 16702(b)].

[b] When There Is a Waiver of Dissolution

A partnership continues after dissolution only for the purpose of winding up its business, and is terminated only after the winding up is completed [Corp. Code § 16802(a)]. At any time after dissolution, but before winding up is completed, all of the partners, including any dissociating partner other than one who has wrongfully dissociated, can waive the right to have the business wound up and terminated, and resume carrying on business as if dissolution had never occurred. In that event, any liability incurred by the partnership or a partner after dissolution and before the waiver is determined as if dissolution never occurred. Furthermore, the partnership will be bound by a partner's acts that were appropriate to winding up the business, and the rights of a third party arising out of conduct in reliance on the dissolution before the third party knew or received notification of the waiver cannot be adversely affected [Corp. Code § 16802(b)]. This means, for example, that a third party is protected when it relies on its knowledge that the partnership is being dissolved and has no notice of a waiver of dissolution, even though the transaction would be inappropriate to a partnership that is continuing its business.

[c] Partnership's Liability for Post-Dissolution Acts

A partnership is bound by a partner's post-dissolution acts that either (1) are appropriate for the winding up of the business, or (2) would have bound the partnership before dissolution, that is, were in the ordinary course of doing business and the partner's authority to act in the matter was not limited by a filed statement of authority [see Corp. Code § 16301(a)], provided that the other party did not have notice of the dissolution [Corp. Code § 16804].

[d] Limitation on Partner's Authority to Bind Partnership

UPA '94 provides the means for placing third parties on notice of the dissolution by permitting any partner (other than a wrongfully dissociating partner) to file a statement of dissolution with the Secretary of State, stating, along with the identity of the partnership, the fact that it is being dissolved and wound up [Corp. Code § 16805(a)]. This statement has the important effect of canceling a filed statement of partnership authority, and constitutes a limitation on authority [Corp. Code § 16805(b)]. With respect non-real property transactions, however, third persons are not deemed to have notice of the dissolution or a limitation on a partner's authority until 90 days after the statement is filed [Corp. Code § 16805(c)]. Here again, immediate actual notice to partnership creditors is important. On the other hand, if the statement is also recorded in the county where the partnership holds real property, it will give immediate constructive notice of the limitation on the authority of a partner to transfer that property [Corp. Code § 16805(b)].

After filing and, if appropriate, recording the statement of dissolution, a dissolved partnership may file and record a new statement of partnership authority that will give one or more partners authority to act on behalf of the partnership in transactions with third parties [Corp. Code § 16805(d)]. If such a statement is filed and recorded, it will have the effect of immediately giving constructive notice of to third persons in transactions involving the partnership's real property, whether or not those transactions are appropriate to winding up the business [Corp. Code § 16895(d)].

[e] Partners' Liability for Post-Dissolution Acts

After dissolution, each partner is liable to the other partners for that partner's share of any partnership obligation that was appropriate for the winding up of the business or that would have bound the partnership had it been incurred before dissolution (i.e., was in the ordinary course of business) and the other party had no notice of the dissolution [Corp. Code § 16806(a); see Corp. Code § 16804]. Partners who bind the partnership after dissolution by acts that are not appropriate to the winding up of the business are liable to the partnership for any damage to the partnership that arises from the partnership liability they incurred [Corp. Code § 16806(b)].

§ 15.307 Winding Up Partnership Affairs

[1] Persons Authorized to Wind Up Business

Any partner who has not dissociated may participate in winding up the partnership's business, subject, of course to any limitation on that partner's authority in a statement of partnership authority filed and/or recorded after a statement of dissolution has been filed [Corp. Code § 16803(a)]. The legal representative of the last surviving partner may also wind up the partnership's business [Corp. Code § 16803(b)]. On the application of any partner, or a partner's legal representative, or a transferee, a court, for good cause shown, may order judicial supervision of the winding up [Corp. Code § 16803(a)].

A person winding up a partnership's business may do the following [Corp. Code § 16803(c)]:

- Preserve the partnership business or property as a going concern for a reasonable time.
- Prosecute and defend actions and proceedings, whether civil, criminal, or administrative.
- Settle and close the partnership's business.
- Dispose of and transfer the partnership's property.
- Discharge the partnership's liabilities
- Distribute the assets of the partnership [see [3], below].
- Settle disputes by mediation or arbitration.
- Perform other necessary acts.

[3] Order of Distribution of Partnership Assets and Settlement of Accounts

The assets of the partnership, including the contributions the partners must make to satisfy an excess of charges over credits to their respective accounts, must be applied to discharge the partnership obligations to creditors, including partner-creditors to the extent permitted by law. Any surplus must be applied to pay in cash the net amount distributable to partners [Corp. Code § 16807(a)].

Each partner is entitled to a settlement of all partnership accounts on winding up, with the profits and losses that result from liquidation of partnership assets being credited and charged to the partners' accounts. The partnership must distribute an amount equal to any excess of the credits over the charges in each partner's account, but a partner must contribute to the partnership any excess of charges over credits in that partner's account [Corp. Code § 16807(b); see O'Flaherty v. Belgum (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1044, 1047, 1056-1061, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 286 (arbitrator exceeded authority by declaring forfeiture of withdrawing partners' capital accounts; forfeiture was contrary to partnership law, partnership agreement, and decisional law)]. If such a contribution is not made, then the other partners (and the estate of a deceased partner) must contribute an amount proportional to their share of losses to cover their joint and several liability for partnership obligations. A partner, or a partner's personal representative, can recover from other partners any amount the partner contributed to the extent it exceeds that partner's share of the joint and several obligations of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16807(c), (e)].

After settlement of accounts, each partner (and the estate of a deceased partner) must contribute, proportionally to the partner's share of partnership losses, the amount necessary to satisfy joint and several partnership obligations unknown at the time accounts were settled [Corp. Code § 16807(d), (e)].

In all the instances discussed above, an assignee for the benefit of creditors of a partnership or a partner, or a court-appointed creditor representative of a partnership or a partner, may enforce a partner's obligation to contribute to the partnership [Corp. Code § 16807(f)].

[4] Costs of Winding Up and Allocation of Post-Dissolution Income

The costs of reasonable overhead expenses for winding up unfinished partnership business may be charged to the partnership by the partner generating post-dissolution income [Jewel v. Boxer (1984) 203 Cal. Rptr. 13]. Net post-dissolution is then allocated to the partners according to their respective partnership interests [Fox v. Abrams (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 610, 614, 210 Cal. Rptr. 260] . Subject to the partnership agreement, the partner winding up the business may not seek extra compensation (beyond the overhead expenses and his or her share of the post-dissolution partnership allocation) for winding up partnership affairs or completing unfinished partnership business [Jewel v. Boxer (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 171, 176-177].

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.308

§ 15.308 Tax Consequences of Dissolution

[1] In General

The tax consequences of the dissolution of a partnership differ, depending on whether the transaction involves the sale or exchange ("sale") of a partnership interest [see [2], below] or the liquidation of a partnership interest [see [3], below].

The characterization of the transaction as a sale or liquidation is important to the buying partners as well as to the selling partner. If the transaction is a sale, the remaining partners are purchasing a capital asset in much the same manner, for income tax purposes, as they would purchase any other capital asset--with funds they have already earned or will earn in the future and on which they have paid or will pay in the future ordinary income tax. The purchase price they pay becomes their basis for the partnership interest purchased. In other words, the adjusted basis of each remaining partner's interest in the partnership is increased by the portion of the purchase price that partner pays for the selling partner's partnership interest [I.R.C. §§ 742, 1012; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031].

If the transaction is a liquidation of the partnership interest, the remaining partners face different tax consequences. The partnership as an entity is distributing capital assets to the selling partner. For income tax purposes, the situation is the same as if the partnership gave the selling partner's share of partnership property to that partner, and that partner sold it at an appreciated market value. The basis of the remaining partners' interests in the partnership would be unaffected. To the extent, however, that the partnership gives the selling partner anything in excess of the fair market value of the selling partner's interest in partnership property, it is giving either a distributive share of its income or a guaranteed payment from its income, and that excess amount is taxed as ordinary income [I.R.C. § 736(a)]. If the excess payments are considered a distributive share of partnership income to the selling partner, they reduce the distributive shares going to the remaining partners on which they must pay taxes. If the excess payments are considered guaranteed payments to the selling partner, they are deductible by the partnership and again reduce the distributive shares going to the remaining partners on which they must pay taxes [Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(a)(4)]. Thus, the major difference for the remaining partners in the two transactions is obtaining the partnership interest with after-tax or pre-tax dollars. This advantage for remaining partners has to be compared with the capital gains advantage to the deceased or dissociated partner on the purchase and sale of the partnership interest rather than liquidation.

In addition to the differing tax treatment accorded to sale or liquidation, there is a question as to who bears these tax consequences. Under a sale or liquidation of a partnership interest, the differing tax consequences are borne by the individual partners involved. If the transaction results in the termination of the partnership, all of the partners bear tax consequences [see [4], below].

California generally follows the federal tax law in this area of partnership taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Dissolution counsel can be placed in a conflict of interest situation when advising on the tax consequences of dissolution. The competing interests are now the partnership itself, the remaining partners, and the withdrawing partner. Counsel should consider referring each adverse interest to separate tax counsel before finalizing the structure of the transaction. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[2] Sale of Partnership Interest

[a] Capital Gain or Loss

Generally, gain or loss resulting from the sale of a partnership interest is accorded capital asset treatment and is reported as a capital gain or loss by the transferor [I.R.C. § 741; Treas. Reg. § 1.741-1(a)]. However, payments made in exchange for a partner's interest in unrealized receivables or inventory are treated as ordinary income [I.R.C. § 751(b); Treas. Reg. § 1.751-1(a)]. The transferor's distributive share of partnership income up to the date of the sale is ordinary income [see I.R.C. §§ 702, 706(c)(2)], and the transferor must include that distributive share on his or her individual income tax return for the taxable year [see Treas. Reg. § 1.706-1(c); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5].

[b] Deceased Partner's Interest

If a partner dies, the partner's estate receives a new income tax basis for the interest equal to the value placed on the interest for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 1014; Treas. Reg. § 1.1014-3(a); for decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis regime generally applies, so a step-up basis does not apply (I.R.C. § 1022)]. Payments for a partner's interest in the partnership assets generally represent the fair market value of the assets at the time of the outgoing partner's death or retirement [see Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(a)(2)]. The Internal Revenue Service will usually accept the partners' valuation of a deceased partner's interest in partnership property if it is arrived at in an arm's length agreement. If, however, such a valuation reflects only the partner's net interest, it must be adjusted to take into account the partner's share of partnership obligations [Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(b)(1)]. Thus, if the buy and sell provisions of a partnership agreement are sufficient to establish the value of a partnership interest for federal estate tax purposes, the basis of a deceased's partnership interest will be the same as the purchase price specified in the partnership agreement and the estate will have no taxable gain on the sale of the interest to the remaining partners.

[c] Taxable Year for Partner

The taxable year of a partnership closes with respect to a partner whose entire interest in the partnership terminates, whether by reason of death, liquidation, or otherwise, as of the date of the termination of the entire interest [I.R.C. § 706(c)(2)(A)]. The taxable year does not close (other than at the end of the partnership's regular tax year) with respect to a partner who sells or exchanges less than his or her entire partnership interest, or with respect to a partner whose interest is reduced, whether by entry of new partners, partial liquidation, gift, or otherwise [I.R.C. § 706(c)(2)(B)]. An early closing of the partnership year with respect to a selling partner can result in the bunching of income to the transferor and requires careful planning to avoid an excessive tax burden on the transferor.

[d] Partnership Basis Adjustment

The purchase of a partnership interest results in an increase in the tax basis of the partnership interest to the purchasing party [see I.R.C. §§ 742, 1012; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031]. When that occurs, the partnership may elect to increase its basis in the remaining partnership properties [see I.R.C. §§ 743(b), 754]. The partnership may also elect to adjust basis when a distribution to a partner results in a substantial basis reduction in the contributed property [see I.R.C. § 734(a), (b); see also I.R.C. § 734(d) ("substantial basis reduction" defined)].

[3] Liquidation of Partnership Interest

[a] Liquidation Payment Made by Partnership

The distinguishing characteristic of a liquidation of a partnership interest from the sale of a partnership interest is that the payments are made by the partnership rather than the remaining partners [Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(a)(1)(i)]. In general, the payments received by a retiring partner or the estate of a deceased partner are liquidating distributions and will be treated as either ordinary income or capital gain, depending on the source to which the payment is allocated or attributed.

[b] Special Treatment for Liquidating Payments

The general rules of I.R.C. § 731, which apply to the tax treatment partnership distributions, specifically do not apply to payments made in liquidation of a partnership interest [I.R.C. § 731(d)]. The tax treatment of payments in liquidation of a partnership interest is determined under I.R.C. § 736. Under this section, payments made in liquidation of the interest of a retiring or deceased partner are allocated between payments for the value of the partner's interest in partnership assets and other payments [Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(a)(2)].

[c] Payments in Exchange for Partnership Property

Liquidating payments made in exchange for the interest of the partner in partnership property, are treated as liquidating distributions to the extent that they do not include amounts paid for unrealized receivables or goodwill and are taxable under I.R.C. § 731 [I.R.C. § 736(b); Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(b)(1)]. Under I.R.C. § 731, these payments are treated as capital gain or loss measured by the partner's basis in the partnership [I.R.C. § 731(a)].

The amounts paid for unrealized receivables of the partnership or partnership goodwill (except to the extent that the partnership agreement provides for payment therefor) are not included in payments for partnership property. Thus, such payments may not be accorded capital gain treatment [see I.R.C. § 736(b)(2)]. Goodwill, however, may be treated as partnership property for which capital gain treatment is available if (1) the partnership agreement provides for payments for goodwill; (2) capital is not a material income-producing factor for the partnership; and (3) the retiring or deceased partner was a general partner in the partnership [I.R.C. § 736(b)(3)].

[d] Other Payments

Payments made in liquidation of the interest of a retiring or deceased partner other than for partnership property are either treated as a distributive share of partnership income or as guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. §§ 707(c), 736(a)]. Both are reported as ordinary income by the recipient during the taxable year in which received [see I.R.C. §§ 61(a), 707(c), 736(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(a)(4); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17071].

[e] Partnership Basis Adjustment

The partnership may elect to increase the basis of undistributed partnership property after a liquidating distribution [see I.R.C. §§ 734(b), 754]. The taxable year of the partnership closes as of the date of liquidation with respect to a partner whose entire interest is liquidated, except that the taxable year of a partnership with respect to a partner who dies will not close before the end of the partnership's taxable year [I.R.C. § 706(c)]. This may result in the bunching of income to the recipient [see [4], below].

[4] Termination of Partnership

[a] State and Tax Law Causes for Termination

Although the loss of a partner or the admission of a new partner is not an automatic cause of dissolution, the partnership nevertheless may be dissolved and wound up because of the express will of a majority of the partners, or by court order or other reasons [see Corp. Code § 16801]. Further, a partnership may be terminated for tax purposes, even though it is not terminated for state law purposes, by the sale or exchange of 50 percent or more of the total interest in partnership capital and profits within a 12-month period [I.R.C. § 708(b)]. The disposition of a partnership interest by gift (including assignment to a successor in interest), bequest, or inheritance, or the liquidation of a partnership interest, however, is not a sale or exchange for this purpose [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(b)(2)].

[b] Deemed Occurrences Under Tax Law When Partnership Business Continues

On termination, if the partnership business will continue, the partnership is deemed to distribute its properties to the purchaser and the remaining partners, if any. Immediately thereafter, the purchaser and any remaining partners will be deemed to have contributed the properties to a new partnership, either for continuation of the business or for winding up [see Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(b)(4)].

[c] Close of Partnership Tax Year

The partnership taxable year closes with respect to all partners on the date on which the partnership terminates, either the date the winding up is completed or the date of the sale or exchange of an interest together with all other interests transferred during the preceding 12 months transfers 50 percent or more in both partnership capital and profits [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(b)(3); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5 (federal I.R.C. and regulations generally apply)].

If the partnership taxable year is not a calendar year, the closing of its taxable year upon termination can result in the bunching of income to the partners because the income of the partnership from the close of the regular taxable year to the date of termination, as well as income from the regular taxable year, must be shown on each partner's tax return for the calendar year in which the partnership is terminated.

For example, if the partnership's taxable year ends January 31 and the partners are calendar year taxpayers, they will show income from the 12-month period ending January 21 of that year on their returns. If the partnership is terminated on August 31, the partners will have to show on their income tax returns for that year not only the income from the partnership taxable year ending January 31, but also the income from February through August, for a total of 19 months of income on one year's tax return. This effect can be avoided by careful coordination of the termination date and the partnership taxable year [see Willis, Partnership Taxation, Ch. 31, Terminating Partnership, § 31.12 (McGraw-Hill 2d ed. 1976)].

If two or more partnerships merge or consolidate, the resulting partnership will be considered the continuation of any merging or consolidating partnership whose members own an interest of more than 50 percent in the capital and profits of the resulting firm [I.R.C. § 708(b)(2)(A)]. If a partnership divides into two or more partnerships, the resulting partnerships (other than any resulting partnership the members of which had an interest of 50 percent or less in the capital and profits of the prior partnership) will be considered a continuation of the prior partnership [see I.R.C. § 708(b)(2)(B)]. III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.400

§ 15.400 Facts

NOTE:

If the partnership or one of the partners is already a client, most of the following information and documents may already be on file, including the partnership agreement. Nevertheless, the client interview checklist should be reviewed to make certain all pertinent facts and documents are available in order to make a complete analysis of steps to be taken if a partner is dissociating or the partnership is going to dissolve.

PRACTICE TIP:

The importance of identifying the client and establishing a clear attorney-client relationship cannot be overstated. Multiple representations of parties involved in a partnership dissolution can lead to conflict of interest problems. Even the most amicable dissolution can create irreconcilable conflicts and become adversarial. Dissolution is a time of individual partner reexamination of both the partnership relationship and personal life goals. Even with full conflict disclosure and consent, counsel may find it impossible to represent multiple interests. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[1] General Information

1. Establish type and basic terms of partnership agreement.

a. Name and address of partnership.

b. Business purpose.

c. Oral or written agreement.

d. Term or at will of partnership.

2. Partnership's offices and real property, including:

a. Address, including county.

b. For rented premises, date lease expires, current rental price, and liability for early cancellation.

c. For owned premises, details of outstanding loans.

3. Partners.

a. Identify client(s).

b. Make appropriate conflict disclosures and obtain appropriate consents and/or waivers.

c. Names, addresses, and telephone number (home and business).

d. Unless contained in an agreement, request all facts concerning each partner's share of profit and loss, capital contributions, and amount, if any, partnership owes each partner as a partnership creditor.

[2] Information About Dissociating Partners

1. Reasons why partner(s) want to voluntarily dissociate from partnership.

NOTE:

A partner may dissociate, rightfully or wrongfully, at any time [Corp. Code § 16602(a)]. In a partnership at will, unless it would violate the partnership agreement to do so, a dissociating partner's withdrawal is not wrongful [Corp. Code § 16602(b)]. In a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose, however, premature withdrawal, or withdrawal because of incapacity or financial difficulty such as bankruptcy, is generally wrongful [Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2)]. A partner who dissociates wrongfully is denied certain rights that the partner would have had were the dissociation rightful. See § 15.302[2] for a discussion of dissociation from the partnership. The reasons for dissociation generally determine whether the dissociation or dissolution will be amicable (and therefore an apt subject for an agreement) or hostile (and therefore likely to entail litigation). At this point counsel can also identify possible conflict of interest issues.

2. Complete circumstances surrounding the partnership's desire that the partner dissociate from the partnership, e.g.:

a. An event specified in partnership agreement causes partner to be dissociated [Corp. Code § 16601(2)].

b. Partnership agreement provides grounds for expulsion for partner's acts or failure to act

c. There are grounds for seeking court-ordered dissociation of partner based on [Corp. Code § 16601(5)]:
(1) Wrongful conduct that adversely and materially affects partnership business;

(2) Persistent material breaches of partnership agreement or of a duty owed partnership or other partners; or

(3) Partners conduct makes it not reasonably practicable to carry on business with that partner.

d. Partnership has voted or will vote to dissociate partner.

NOTE:
Absent an agreement to the contrary, generally speaking a partner may be expelled by the unanimous vote of the other partners if it is unlawful to carry on the partnership business with that partner, if the partner's interest is transferred, or if the partner is a corporate or other business entity that is dissolving or has had its right to do business suspended or revoked [see Corp. Code § 16601(4); see also § 15.301[2]].

3. Will dissociation require that partnership dissolve because:

a. The partnership agreement so provides, or

b. There is no agreement covering dissociation but UPA '94 requires dissolution in the event of dissociation.

NOTE:
Partnerships at will are not required to dissolve when a partner dissociates unless the partnership agreement requires it. On the other hand, when a partner prematurely dissociates from a partnership for a definite term or a particular purpose, the remaining partners are given 90 days to decide whether to either dissolve the partnership or vote to continue it with no intervening dissolution [Corp. Code § 16801(2)]. See the discussion in § 15.302[2].

4. Does partnership have a buyout agreement for dissociating partner's interest, or will the UPA '94 buyout provisions apply [see Corp. Code § 16701].

NOTE:
If dissolution follows within 90 days of the dissociation, the partner is not entitled to a buyout of his, her or its interest and must await winding up and settlement of accounts, at which time damages resulting from the wrongful dissociation can be charged against that partner's account [Corp. Code § 16701.5].

5. Method available for determining price partnership is to pay for purchase of partnership interest of dissociating partner:

a. Formula contained in partnership agreement or buy-sell agreement.

b. Appraisal or accounting by third party under method agreed on by all parties.

c. Negotiations between all parties.

d. Arbitration, either as provided in agreement or with mutual consent of parties.

6. If dissociating partner (or that partner's estate) is to be paid for, that partner's share of partnership goodwill:

a. Value of goodwill; or

b. Method to establish value of goodwill.

NOTE:
Goodwill may be treated as partnership property and receive capital gain treatment in a liquidation only if (1) the partnership agreement provides for payment, (2) capital is not a material income producing factor in the partnership, and (3) the retiring or deceased partner was a general partner in the partnership [I.R.C. § 736(b)(2), (3)].

7. Interest of dissociating partner in:

a. Unrealized receivables.

b. Substantially appreciated inventory assets.

8. Method of payment of purchase price for partnership interest being purchased, e.g.:

a. Lump-sum cash.

b. Installments, pursuant to agreement.

c. Installments under promissory note, either secured or unsecured.

d. Payments funded by insurance.

e. Payment of portion of partnership income for specified period.

f. Payment deferred until expiration of partnership term or completion of purpose if partner has prematurely dissociated [see Corp. Code § 16701(h)].

9. If dissociation of a partner has already occurred, have notice of dissociation and an amended statement of partnership authority been filed with the Secretary of State and, as appropriate, recorded in each county where partnership owns real property [see Corp. Code § 16303 (statement of partnership authority); Corp. Code § 16704 (statement of dissociation)]?

10. If dissociation is a result of a partner's death, bankruptcy, or adjudicated incompetence:

a. Name and address of attorney handling partner's estate or interests.

b. Name and address of partner's personal representative, guardian, conservator or trustee, as applicable.

c. Name of court and style and file number of probate or bankruptcy action.

11. If an entity such as corporation or trust is dissociating because it has dissolved or been otherwise terminated:

a. Jurisdiction of state of incorporation or organization.

b. Name of agent for service of process.

c. Names of trust beneficiaries.

[3] Information Concerning Status of Partnership Dissolution.

1. What event or events dictate that partnership be dissolved, e.g. [see Corp. Code § 16801]:

a. Election to do so by partners.

NOTE:
Absent a different requirement in the partnership agreement, a partnership at will must dissolve if it is the express will of at least half of the partners [Corp. Code § 16801(1)]. Unless there is another agreement, a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose is dissolved by a partners' vote only if all of them expressly agree [Corp. Code § 16801(2)(B)].

b. In a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose:

(1) Expiration of partnership term or completion of purpose.

(2) Ninety days have elapsed since a partner has wrongfully dissociated, or has dissociated for reasons of incapacity or financial problems [Corp. Code § 16801(2)(A); see § 15.302[2]].

NOTE:
However, a majority in interest of the other partners can agree to continue the partnership. Included in the interests capable of approving a continuation of the partnership are those of partners who have withdrawn from the partnership within 90 days after a partner's dissociation that would trigger dissolution, i.e., wrongful dissociation or dissociation for reasons of incapacity or financial problems [see Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2)(A)].

c. Impracticable to carry on business.

NOTE:
Differences between the partners could lead to a lawsuit alleging one or more grounds for judicial dissolution, i.e., the economic purpose of the partnership is likely to be frustrated; one partner's conduct makes it not practicable to carry on the business; or it not otherwise reasonable to carry on the business in conformity with the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16801(5)].

d. Event stipulated in partnership agreement.

e. Event making it illegal to continue the business.

f. Transferee of partner's transferable partnership interest seeks court-ordered dissolution.

2. If a vote to dissolve has been held, names of partners who voted to dissolve and the percentage of partnership interests they hold.

3. Names of partners, if any, designated to carry out winding up and termination of partnership.

NOTE:

If the partnership has dissolved, it should file a statement of dissolution with the Secretary of State. This filing will cancel any existing partnership authority, although as to third parties it only gives constructive notice of the dissolution after it has been on file for 90 days [Corp. Code § 16805(a), (b); see § 15.306[1][b]]. If recorded, the statement gives immediate constructive notice to third parties with respect to the partnership's real property [Corp. Code § 16805(b)]. To place third parties on notice of which partners have authority to conduct transactions in the winding up of the business, the dissolved partnership should then file, and record if appropriate, a new statement of partnership authority specifying the authority of named partners to wind up the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16805(d)]. For the scope of the authority of a partner who is winding up the business, see § 15.307[2].

4. Identify partners responsible for completion of unfinished partnership business (work-in-progress), if any, and project costs for, and partnership income from, any such business.

5. Desired disposition of partnership assets.

a. Liquidation of all partnership assets and conversion to cash.

b. Sale of business as a going concern to third parties.

c. Return of capital and distribution of any balance, pro rata, to partners.

6. Name and address of attorney and/or accountant representing each partner.

7. Details relating to cash and invested partnership funds:

a. Name and address of bank or other deposit institution.

b. Account number or numbers.

c. Amount of deposit and applicable interest rate.

d. Name of brokerage.

e. Amount invested.

f. Degree of liquidity.

8. Identify and value tangible and intangible partnership assets.

a. Real property.

b. Capital equipment.

c. Intellectual property rights.

PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.410

§ 15.410 Dissociation of a Partner

1. Determine whether partner's dissociation requires that partnership dissolve [see § 15.400[2]].

NOTE:
In a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose, unless the partnership agreement requires dissolution, a majority in interest of the remaining partners are given the option to continue the partnership in the event of a partner's premature voluntary or involuntary dissociation [Corp. Code § 16801(2)].

2. If dissociation requires or permits dissolution, determine whether remaining partners will continue the business because:

a. Partnership agreement provides so provides.

b. Majority in interest will vote to continue.

3. Determine whether dissociation of partner was or will be wrongful [see Corp. Code § 16602; see also § 15.301[3]].

NOTE:
A wrongfully dissociating partner, in addition to being liable to the partnership for damages arising from the dissociation [Corp. Code § 16602(c)], is prohibited from further exercising his, her, or its rights as a partner.

4. Determine dissociating partner's right to have partnership interest bought out pursuant to partnership agreement or separate buyout agreement, e.g.:

NOTE:

If no buyout agreement exists, the default provisions of UPA '94 apply [see Corp. Code § 16701; see also § 15.303[2]].

a. Requirement that partners or partnership fund purchase or liquidation and, if so, governing details.

b. Method of determining buyout price.

NOTE:

Different methods for valuation of partnership interests are discussed and illustrated in the forms in §§ 15.240[2]-15.249[2] in Part A of this chapter. See § 15.303[2][a] for a discussion of the valuation formula prescribed by the UPA '94 default provisions for buyout of a partner's interest.

c. Payment for partnership goodwill.

d. Payment for partnership's unrealized receivables.

e. Method of allocating each partner's distributive share of net profits and losses.

f. Insurance, if any, for funding purchase of dissociating partner's partnership interest, including:

(1) Whether policy is paid up and in effect.

(2) What proof of loss is required.

(3) Where proof of loss must be filed.

g. Offsets to be charged against dissociating partner's interest based on debt owed partnership or damages for wrongful dissociation.

h. Whether payment of buyout price can be deferred until expiration of partnership's term or completion of its purpose.

NOTE:

Absent a contrary agreement, a partner who wrongfully dissociates from a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose by leaving early ordinarily is not entitled to payment of the buyout price until the term expires or the purpose has been achieved [see Corp. Code § 16701(h); see also § 15.303[2][b]].

5. If dissociation is result of partner's death and no agreement provides for disposition of that partner's partnership interest, determine whether deceased partner's will provides:

a. For disposition of partnership interest.

b. For that partner's executor, without court order or approval, to execute and deliver all documents required to complete disposition of partnership interest.

6. Determine whether any business or tax licenses or permits need to be changed.

7. Determine if partners want to change name of partnership.

NOTE:

Continued use the partnership's name, or a dissociated partner's name as part of the partnership name, will not of itself make the dissociated partner liable for an obligation of the partners or the partnership continuing the business [Corp. Code § 16705].

8. Determine whether partnership desires that dissociated partner enter noncompetition agreement as part of buyout.

NOTE:

Any partner, on or in anticipation of his or her dissociation from the partnership, may agree not to carry on a business similar to that carried on by the partnership within a specified geographic area where partnership business was transacted so long as any other member of the partnership (or any person deriving title to the business or its goodwill from any other member of the partnership) carries on a similar business in that area [Bus. & Prof Code § 16602(a), (b)(2)].

III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.411

§ 15.411 Dissolution

NOTE:

At any time before winding up and liquidation, the partners, including those that have not wrongfully dissociated, can waive the right to have the business wound up, and the business will be resumed as if dissolution had never occurred [Corp. Code § 16802(b); see § 15.306[2][b]].

1. Determine the date on which partners will meet to vote on dissolution.

2. Names of partners designated to carry out winding up and termination of partnership.

3. Determine whether partnership filed and, as appropriate, recorded statement of partnership authority [see Corp. Code §§ 16105, 16303].

4. Determine whether partnership filed statement of fictitious business name.

NOTE:

In most cases, a statement of fictitious business name must be filed in the county in which the partnership has its principal place of business [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17915].

5. Determine tax consequences of dissolution of partnership [see § 15.308].

6. Determine respective rights of partners under agreement for settlement of partners' accounts on dissolution [see § 15.412].

7. Determine whether partnership desires that one or more partners enter noncompetition agreement.

NOTE:

Any partner, on or in anticipation of partnership dissolution, may agree not to carry on a business similar to that carried on by the partnership within a specified geographic area where partnership business was transacted so long as any other member of the partnership (or any person deriving title to the business or its goodwill from any other member of the partnership) carries on a similar business in that area [Bus. & Prof Code § 16602(a), (b)(1)].

PART B. Dissolution of General Partnerships
III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.412

§ 15.412 Winding Up and Termination

1. Determine what limitations, if any, will apply to partners charged with winding up partnership affairs.

NOTE:
Any limitations on a partner's authority to wind up partnership affairs should be noted in a new statement of partnership authority filed after dissolution with the Secretary of State. The filing of a statement of dissolution will cancel the partnership's existing statement of authority [see Corp. Code § 16805]. For the scope of the authority of a partner who is winding up the business, see § 15.307[2].

2. Determine most advantageous method for liquidation of partnership assets:

a. Sale of partnership business as "going business" to individual, corporation, or other partnership.

NOTE:
The sale of a partnership business as a going business may require compliance with the Bulk Transfer Division of the California Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111; see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice].

b. Assignment of contracts and accounts receivable.

c. Going out of business sale.

d. Public auction.

3. If going out of business sale is to be conducted, determine requirements for license or permit from local governmental entities.

4. Determine whether partnership will be terminated for federal income tax purposes, i.e., whether there will be sale or exchange of 50 percent or more of total interests in partnership capital and profits within 12-month period [I.R.C. § 708(b)(1)].

5. Determine who will act as custodian of records or files upon dissolution and termination.

PRACTICE TIP:

A deficiency tax assessment may be issued up to six years after final tax returns are filed [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 19057 (four years), 19508 (six years when more than 25 percent of stated gross income omitted)]. Moreover, if a fraudulent tax return is filed, a deficiency tax assessment may be filed at any time [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19057]. A records custodian should preserve partnership records for at least seven years from the termination date of the partnership. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

6. If partnership is in business as retail seller of consumer goods, determine process by which any "dealer reserve accounts" established by lenders can be released to partners charged with winding up and termination.

NOTE:

A "dealer reserve account" is an account, opened by the lender, that finances conditional sales contracts for the purchase of goods by consumers. Generally, the lender requires that a portion of the purchase price paid by the lender for each contract be deposited in the dealer reserve account and maintained there until the contract is paid by the consumer.

7. Determine what assets or type of assets are available for application in paying partnership liabilities and settling accounts between partners after dissolution [see Corp. Code § 16807].

8. Determine liability of each partner and the estate of any deceased partner for partnership creditor obligations [Corp. Code § 16807(c)].

9. Make preliminary estimate of damages, if any, caused by wrongful dissociation of partner [Corp. Code § 16602(c)].

NOTE:

A partner who wrongfully dissociates is liable in damages to the partnership. If dissolution follows within 90 days of the dissociation, the partner is not entitled to a buyout of the partner's interest and must await winding up and settlement of accounts, at which time damages resulting from the wrongful dissociation can be charged against that partner's account [Corp. Code § 16701.5].

§ 15.420 Dissociation of Partner

1. If death of partner is cause of dissociation and buyout agreement is funded by life insurance, file necessary proof of loss forms with and collect proceeds from insurers:

a. Obtain copy of death certificate for each policy.

b. Obtain proof of loss forms from each insurer.

c. Have proof of loss forms signed by all beneficiaries.

d. File proofs of loss with insurers.

2. Give preliminary notification to dissociating partner or partner's personal representative that buyout will be in accordance with terms of existing buyout agreement, and:

a. Arrange for services of accountants and/or business appraisers to calculate value of partner's interest.

b. Send buyout offer to dissociating partner or personal representative with supporting documents, including [see Corp. Code § 16701(b)]:
(1) Statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of date of dissociation.

(2) Latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement.

(3) Explanation of how the amount of partner's interest was calculated.

c. In cover letter to dissociating partner or personal representative state that:

(1) Payment of amount in offer will be in full satisfaction of partnership's obligation under buyout agreement, and,

(2) Dissociating partner or personal representative has number of days specified in agreement to either accept offer or commence arbitration or seek other remedies provided for in agreement.

NOTE:
After 120 days have passed since dissociation and the parties have been unsuccessful in reaching an agreement, the partnership must pay an amount it estimates to be the buyout price and notify the partner that the payment is in full satisfaction of the partner's obligation to buy out the dissociating partner unless that partner commences an action to determine the buyout price within 120 days [Corp. Code § 16701(g)].

3. If there is no existing buyout agreement, prepare recommended draft agreement for dissociating partner's counsel to review and arrange for subsequent execution by all parties [see § 15.510].

NOTE:
If there are no buyout provisions in the partnership agreement or a separate agreement, the default provisions of UPA '94 will apply and the partnership will have 120 days from the date of dissociation to reach agreement with the dissociated partner on the buyout price. If no agreement is reached, the partnership must pay the dissociated partner the estimated buyout price, plus accrued interest, reduced by any amounts the partner owes the partnership [see Corp. Code § 16701(f) and discussion in § 15.303[2][b]].

4. If there is no existing buyout agreement and negotiations for purchase have reached impasse, within 120 days after dissociation [Corp. Code § 16701(e)]:

a. Advise remaining partners that dissociating partner's interest must be purchased for cash payment.

b. Estimate amount due to dissociating partner buyout formula [see discussion of formula in § 15.303].

c. Draft and send dissociating partner notice that payment is in full satisfaction of obligation to purchase interest [see § 15.511].

5. Include indemnification agreement in any buyout agreement.

NOTE:
Buyout agreements must indemnify dissociating partners for past and future partnership obligations other than obligations that are the result of an act of the dissociated partner after that partner has dissociated [see Corp. Code § 16701(d)].

6. If partner has wrongfully dissociated by withdrawing prematurely from partnership for definite term or particular purpose, prepare tender of deferred payment of buyout price [see § 15.511[1][d]].

NOTE:
A partner who wrongfully dissociates in this manner is not entitled to immediate payment of the buyout price unless the partner can establish the satisfaction of a court that earlier payment will not work a hardship on the business of the partnership [see Corp. Code 16701(f), (h); see also § 15.303[2]].

7. Prepare, file, and, as appropriate, record statement of dissociation [see § 15.530] with Secretary of State's office and a certified copy of the statement with the county recorder in each county in which the partnership owns real property [Corp. Code § 16704(a)].

NOTE:

The filing fee is $30 [Corp. Code § 16113(b)]. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [Gov. Code § 27361]; a separate fee for certifying the copy applies as well [see Gov. Code § 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)]. A recorded statement that is not a copy certified by the Secretary of State will not have the effect given to such statements by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16105(b)].

8. Send copies of partnership statements to all nonfiling partners [Corp. Code § 16105(e)].

9. Arrange for denial of dissociated partner's access to partnership bank accounts, safe deposit boxes, and credit cards.

10. If necessary, obtain new signature cards for partnership accounts and safe deposit boxes if required by depositary.

to wind up the business. For a discussion of the effect of filing a statement of authority on third parties, see § 15.306[2][d].

The filing fee is $70 [Corp. Code § 16113(a)]. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [*Gov. (2) Location.

(3) Account or other identification number.

c. List of all accounts receivable, including:

NOTE:

A fictitious business name for a partnership is any name that does not include the surname of each general partner or that suggests the existence of additional owners Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900(b)(2)]. § 15.422 Winding Up and Termination

1. Follow all generally applicable dissolution procedures [see § 15.421]

2. Dispose of partnership assets by one or more of following:

    a. Public auction.

    b. Going out of business sale.

    c. Assignment of accounts receivable to factor or other financial institution.

    d. Assignment of contracts.

    e. Sale of partnership business as going business to corporation, other entity, or sole proprietor.

3. Apply proceeds from disposition of partnership assets as follows [see Corp. Code § 16807]:

    a. Pay liabilities owing to creditors other than partners.

    NOTE:
    These liabilities would include those for employment and sales taxes, for which a partner may be personally liable if they go unpaid. For example, on dissolution, any partner or other person having control or supervision, or who is charged with responsibility for the filing, of sales tax returns or the payment of tax, is personally liable for any unpaid sales taxes, plus any interest or penalties if the failure is willful [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(a), (d) ("willful" defined as an intentional, conscious, and voluntary course of action); see *State Board of Equalization v. Wirick (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 411, 413, 419, 112 Cal. The partner or other person is only liable for the taxes that became due during the period that he or she had the control, supervision, responsibility, or duty to act for the partnership [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(b)], and only if the State Board of Equalization can establish that the partnership (1) included or added tax reimbursement in to the selling price of tangible personal property sold in the conduct of partnership business or (2) consumed tangible personal property and failed to pay the tax to the seller or has included use tax on the billing and collected the use tax or issued a receipt for the use tax without reporting and paying use tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(f) (notice of deficiency determination)].

b. Pay liabilities owing to partners other than for capital and profits.

4. If disposition of partnership assets does not yield sufficient amount to pay partnership liabilities:

a. Require partners to contribute amounts necessary to satisfy them [see Corp. Code § 16807].

NOTE:

An assignee for the benefit of creditors or any person appointed by the court may enforce the obligation to make contributions [Corp. Code § 16807(f)]. Any partner or legal representative has the right to enforce contributions to the extent of the amount paid by the partner or estate in excess of that party's share of the liability [see Corp. Code § 16807(c)].

b. If any partner is insolvent or is not subject to process and refuses to contribute, require other partners to contribute [Corp. Code § 16807(c)]:

(1) Their share of liabilities; and

(2) In relative proportions in which they share profits, any additional amount necessary to pay liabilities.

5. If payment of liabilities leaves sufficient amounts to make distributions to remaining partners, distribute surplus in cash either [Corp. Code § 16807(b); *see O'Flaherty v. a. As provided in partnership agreement; or

b. In an amount equal to the excess of credits over charges in each partner's account after crediting and charging each account with profits and losses resulting from liquidation.

6. After all obligations of partnership have been paid:

a. Render complete accounting to each partner and each unpaid creditor, if any.

b. Have partners execute and file final federal and California income tax returns.

c. Have partners cancel any outstanding permits and licenses.

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.430

§ 15.430 Election to Increase Tax Basis of Partnership Assets on Death of Partner or Sale or Exchange of Partnership Interest

NOTE:

The purchase of a partnership interest by another partner or a third party increases the tax basis of the partnership interest of the purchasing party to the amount of the purchase price [see I.R.C. §§ 742, 1012; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851, 18031 (taxation of partnerships, and gain and loss on disposition of property, determined in accordance with Internal Revenue Code, unless otherwise provided)]. For decedents dying before 2010, the basis of property in the hands of a person who acquired the property from a decedent or to whom the property passed from a decedent is the fair market value of the property at the date of the decedent's death [see I.R.C. §§ 742, 1014; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851, 18031 (taxation of partnerships, and gain and loss on disposition of property, determined in accordance with Internal Revenue Code, unless otherwise provided)]. For decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis rule generally applies, so a step-up basis in the property does not apply [I.R.C. § 1022].

As a result of the increase in the tax basis of property passing by purchase or descent, the basis in the remaining assets of the partnership will in most cases be lower than the acquiring party's basis in the newly acquired partnership interest. In those circumstances, the remaining partners may have the partnership elect to increase the basis of the partnership assets in order to decrease their income tax liability on distribution when the partnership dissolves in the future [see I.R.C. §§ 743, 754; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851 (taxation of partnerships determined in accordance with Internal Revenue Code, unless otherwise provided)].

The basis of partnership property may also be adjusted as the result of a distribution to a partner if there is a substantial basis reduction in the contributed property [see I.R.C. § 734(a), (b); see also I.R.C. § 734(d) ("substantial basis reduction" defined)]. See § 15.431, P 1a(3).

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel and the partners' and partnership's tax advisors may wish to collectively consider the tax effect a change in tax basis may have. When counsel does not have specialized tax knowledge, it may be prudent to directly involve a tax professional concerning these tax matters. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

1. Advise partners of adjusted basis election following transfer of interest in partnership, either [see I.R.C. §§ 743(a), 754; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]:

a. By sale or exchange; or

b. On death of partner.

2. Advise partners of effect of election, i.e., that partnership must either [I.R.C. § 743(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]:

a. Increase adjusted basis of partnership property by excess of basis to transferee partner over that partner's proportionate share of adjusted basis of partnership property; or

b. Decrease adjusted basis by excess of transferee's proportionate share of adjusted basis of partnership property over basis of that partner's interest in partnership.

3. After independent consideration by remaining partners and their affirmative vote, make election in written statement [Treas. Reg. § 1.754-1(b)(1); see I.R.C. § 754; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]:

a. Setting forth name and address of partnership.

b. Declaring that partnership elects under I.R.C. § 754 to apply provisions of I.R.C. § 743(b).

c. Executed by at least one partner.

4. Submit election statement to Internal Revenue Service and California Franchise Tax Board.

a. Attach written election statement to partnership income tax return for taxable year in which transfer, sale, or death occurs [I.R.C. § 754; Treas. Reg. § 1.754-1(b)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(e), 17851].

b. To ensure that election will be effective, file partnership tax return on or before due date [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6031-1(e)] or under "timely amendment" [see Treas. Reg. § 1.754-1; Estate of Dupree v. United States (5th Cir. 1968) 391 F.2d 753, 758-759 ; see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(e), 17851].

§ 15.431 Election to Increase Basis of Undistributed Assets on Distribution to Any Partner

1. Advise partnership that basis of undistributed partnership property can be increased under following circumstances [see I.R.C. §§ 734(b), 754; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]:

a. If distribution is made to partner or partners of cash or property and that distribution results in:
(1) Gain to distributees;

(2) Increase in distributees' basis in partnership interest; or

(3) Substantial basis reduction in contributed property.

NOTE:
A partnership has a substantial built-in loss with respect to a transfer of an interest in a partnership if the partnership's adjusted basis in the partnership property exceeds the fair market value of the property by more than $250,000 [I.R.C. § 734(d)(1)]. However, an electing investment partnership may elect to avoid being treated as having a substantial built-in loss with respect to any transfer occurring during the pendency of the election [see I.R.C. § 743(e)(1); see also I.R.C. § 743(e)(6) (consent irrevocable unless Secretary consents)].

IV. FORMS
A. Liquidation of Partnerships or Partnership Interests

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.500

§ 15.500 Agreement Dissolving Partnership--Sale of Assets--Liquidating Distribution of Net Proceeds to All Partners

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement for the dissolution of a partnership with cessation of the partnership business and a liquidating distribution of the net proceeds to the partners. It is for use when the parties wish to dissolve the partnership, sell the firm's assets, pay its debts, and distribute the proceeds to the partners in a liquidating distribution. Under applicable law, the partners may agree to dissolve and wind up the partnership at any time [see Corp. Code § 16801; see also § 15.302].

The partnership agreement may not adequately provide for dissolution of the partnership because, apart from specifying the events that could require dissolution or the vote needed to dissolve the partnership, it is unlikely that the partnership agreement can cover all the aspects of dissolution in advance of that event. Consequently, a document like this form will reflect the understanding of the partners at the time the partnership is actually going to be dissolved.

This form contemplates a liquidating distribution to the partners, which is treated the same under federal and California tax law [see I.R.C. § 736; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; I.R.C. §§ 701-761; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17852-17857 (modifications of federal provisions)].

This form includes an optional provision requiring the partner charged with winding up the affairs of the partnership to conduct a "going out of business" sale to convert the assets of the partnership to cash. Local ordinances may control such sales and should be reviewed and discussed with the partner who is winding up the business.

[b] Termination of Partnership

This form provides for the withdrawal of all of the partners in a three-member partnership. For income tax purposes, such a withdrawal causes a termination of the partnership [see I.R.C. § 708(b)(1); see also § 15.308[4]].

[c] Tax Consequences of Liquidating Distributions

Liquidating distributions are taxed under I.R.C. § 736. They are allocated between payments for partnership property, which receive capital gain or loss treatment and other payments, which are treated either as a partner's distributive share of partnership income or guaranteed payments both of which are ordinary income to the partner [I.R.C. § 736(a), (b)]. Because this form does not contemplate the continuation of the partnership business, and all payments are made by the partnership to the partners, there is no question that the payments are liquidating distributions. See § 15.308 for further discussion of the tax consequences of liquidating distributions. Consider also the advantages and disadvantages of a purchase and sale of partnership interests if some of the partners will continue the business [see § 15.308].

§ 15.510 Agreement for Buyout of Dissociating Partner's Interest in Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement for a partnership to purchase the interest of a dissociating partner. This form tracks the provisions of UPA '94 that require a dissociating partner's interest to be bought out by the partnership. This form assumes that the partnership either does not have a written agreement or that its agreement does not state the terms for a buyout of a dissociating partner's interest.

[b] Buyout Requirement

A dissociating partner is entitled to have that partner's interest bought out [Corp. Code § 16701(a); for discussion of what constitutes dissociation, see § 15.301[2]]. The statute provides that the partnership "shall cause" the dissociated partner's interest to be purchased, leaving it up to the parties to arrange the method of buyout that makes the most economic sense for those continuing the business and the dissociating partner or that partner's personal representative. For example, life insurance is often used to fund the contingency of death of a partner, and installment payments to a retiring partner may be the best way to fund a buyout of that partner's interest. See the forms in §§ 15.260[2]-15.262[2] for examples of agreements funded with insurance.

[c] Terms of Buyout

The buyout price is the amount the partner would receive as surplus on dissolution and winding up, that is, after creditors have been paid and accounts settled [see Corp. Code § 16807], if, on the date of dissociation, the assets of the partnership were sold at a price equal to the greater of (1) the liquidation value or (2) the value based on the sale of the entire business as a going concern (without the dissociated partner), and the partnership was wound up as of that date. Interest must be paid from the date of dissociation to the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(b)]. The interest rate under UPA '94 (unless the parties agree otherwise) is that specified in Civ. Code § 3289 [Corp. Code § 16104(b)]. Damages for wrongful dissociation and any other amounts owed the partnership by the dissociating partner must be offset against the buyout price, with interest from the date the amount owed is due until the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(c)].

[d] No Buyout Within 90 Days of Dissolution

The foregoing buyout requirements do not apply to a partner who dissociates within 90 days before the partnership's dissolution. Instead, such a partner would be treated as any other partner and would have to wait for the winding up of the partnership, with the amount distributable to that partner taking into account any amounts owed by the partner to the partnership, including damages for wrongful dissociation [Corp. Code § 16701.5].

[e] Failure to Reach Agreement; Payment or Tender of Buyout Price

Unless there is an agreement to the contrary (e.g., one giving the partnership a longer time to reach agreement), if no agreement for purchase of a dissociated partner's interest is reached within 120 days after a written demand for payment, the partnership must pay (or cause to be paid to) the dissociated partner the amount the partnership estimates to be the buyout price with accrued interest, less any offsets [Corp. Code § 16701(e); see § 15.511[2] (notice that accompanies the estimated payment]. If the partner has wrongfully dissociated from a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose [see Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2); see also § 15.302[2]], the buyout of that partner will be deferred until the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking unless the partner establishes to the satisfaction of a court that earlier payment will not cause undue hardship to the business of the partnership. If the payment is deferred it must be adequately secured and bear interest [Corp. Code § 16701(h)] and the partnership may tender a written offer to pay the estimated amount of the deferred buyout price, with interest but reduced by offsets, stating the time payment, type of security, and the other terms and conditions of the obligation [Corp. Code § 16701(f)]. In the event either a tender offer or an estimated payment of the buyout price is required under UPA '94, this form could be used to convey the terms of the offer to the dissociated partner. With some modification as to the date payment will be made, this form could also be used to tender a deferred payment to a wrongfully dissociating partner.

[f] Documents to Accompany Payment or Tender

This form assumes that the parties have concluded their bargain based on complete disclosure of the bases on which the buyout was agreed to. When, however, the parties have been unable to agree and the payment or tender requirements discussed in [e], above, are triggered, the partnership is required to include with either a payment or tender of the buyout price (1) a statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of the date of dissociation; (2) the latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement, if any; (3) an explanation of how the estimated amount of the payment was calculated; and (4) written notice that the payment is in full satisfaction of the obligation to purchase unless, within 120 days after the written notice, the dissociated partner commences an action to determine the buyout price and any offsets or other terms of the obligation to purchase [Corp. Code § 16701(g)]. This form provides that the partnership will furnish these documents at a date fixed by the parties, presumably enough in advance of the payment date that the dissociating partner and that partner's attorney and/or accountant can review the calculation used to arrive at the buyout price.

[g] Court Action to Determine Buyout Price

Partners who have dissociated may maintain an action against the partnership to determine the buyout price of their interests, including any offsets or other terms of the obligation to purchase. The action must be commenced within 120 days after the partnership has tendered payment or an offer to pay, or within one year after written demand for payment if the partnership has not paid or tendered an offer of payment. The court must determine the buyout price, offsets, and accrued interest and enter a judgment for any additional payment or refund. The court must also determine the security for payment and other terms of the obligation in the case of a deferred payment to a wrongfully dissociating partner [

Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

The court may assess reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of appraisers or experts against a party that the court finds acted arbitrarily, vexatiously, or not in good faith. That finding may be based on the partnership's failure to tender payment or an offer to pay or to furnish the statement [see [i][ii], below] that must accompany an offer to pay or tender of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

[h] Rights and Duties of Dissociating Partner With Respect to Partnership

A dissociating partner's rights and duties with respect to the partnership and its property generally come to an end on dissociation. Thus, when a partner dissociates, either rightfully or wrongfully, the following apply [Corp. Code § 16603]:

- The partner's right to participate in the management and conduct of the business terminates.

- The partner's duty to refrain from competing with the partnership terminates [see Corp. Code § 16404(b)(3)].

- Only with respect to matters arising and events occurring before the partner's dissociation, the partner's duties of loyalty and care as to the conduct or winding up of the partnership business are generally continued. This means, for example, that a dissociated partner could not assist a person with a claim against the partnership that arose before the partner's dissociation; nor could a dissociated partner make any recklessly false accusation against a partnership with respect to a transaction occurring before dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16404(b) (duties of loyalty and care); see also § 15.17[4]].

[i] Liability of Dissociated Partners

[i] When Discharged

A partner's dissociation does not of itself discharge that partner's liability for a partnership obligation incurred before dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(a)]. It is common, however, for buyout agreements to indemnify a partner against past and future partnership liabilities, as does the agreement in this form. UPA '94 expressly requires, absent a contrary understanding among the partners, that a dissociating partner be indemnified against all partnership liabilities no matter when incurred, other than those liabilities incurred by the partnership as a result of the act of the dissociated partner within two years after dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16701(d) (buyout provisions); see also Corp. Code § 16702 (partnership obligation incurred by dissociated partner)]. Furthermore, if the partnership is liable for an act of the dissociated partner within the two-year period, that partner is liable to the partnership for any damages arising out of the obligation the partner incurred [Corp. Code § 16702(b)].

A dissociated partner ordinarily is not liable for a partnership obligation incurred after dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(a)]. If all of the following are true, however, a dissociating partner will be liable to third parties for transactions entered into by the partnership within two years after the partner's dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(b)]:

- The other party reasonably believes that the dissociated partner was a partner, and

- The other party had no notice of the partner's dissociation, and

- The other party is not deemed to have knowledge or notice of the partner's dissociation [see Corp. Code §§ 16303(e), 16704(c)].

[ii] Statement of Dissociation

Avoiding a two-year overhang of liability is accomplished by notifying partnership creditors by letter, and by giving constructive notice by filing and, as appropriate, recording a statement of dissociation. This form provides that the partnership will file, and if necessary, record the statement, and provide a copy--as it is required to do--to the dissociating partner [Corp. Code §§ 16105(e), 16704]. For a form for the statement of dissociation, see § 15.530.

1. Sale of Interest to Continuing Partners

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.511

§ 15.511 Notice to Accompany Payment for Dissociating Partner's Interest

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice that will accompany cash payment of the estimated amount due a dissociating partner for the partner's interest in the partnership. It will only be needed if there is no provision in the partnership agreement that covers purchase of a dissociating partner's interest, and 120 days of fruitless negotiations have passed since the partnership received a written demand for payment [Corp. Code § 16701(e)].

[b] Buyout Formula

The amount of cash payment that will accompany this notice is calculated under the UPA '94 buyout formula. It is the amount the partner would receive as surplus on dissolution and winding up, i.e., after creditors have been paid and accounts settled [see Corp. Code § 16807], if, on the date of dissociation, the assets of the partnership were sold at a price equal to the greater of (1) the liquidation value or (2) the value based on the sale of the entire business as a going concern (without the dissociated partner), and the partnership was wound up as of that date. Interest must be paid from the date of dissociation to the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(b)]. The interest rate under UPA '94 (unless the parties agree otherwise) is that specified in Civ. Code § 3289 [Corp. Code § 16104(b)]. Damages for wrongful dissociation and any other amounts owed the partnership by the dissociating partner must be offset against the buyout price, with interest from the date the amount owed is due until the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(c)].

[c] No Buyout Within 90 Days of Dissolution

The buyout requirements do not apply to a partner who dissociates within 90 days before the partnership's dissolution. Instead, such a partner would be treated as any other partner and would have to wait for the winding up of the partnership, with the amount distributable to that partner taking into account any amounts owed by the partner to the partnership, including damages for wrongful dissociation [Corp. Code § 16701.5].

[d] Tender to Wrongfully Dissociating Partners

If the partner has wrongfully dissociated from a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose [see Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2); see also § 15.302[2]], the buyout of that partner will be deferred until the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking unless the partner establishes to the satisfaction of a court that earlier payment will not cause undue hardship to the business of the partnership. If the payment is deferred, it must be adequately secured and bear interest [Corp. Code § 16701(h)], and the partnership may tender a written offer to pay the estimated amount of the deferred buyout price, with interest but reduced by offsets, stating the time payment, type of security, and the other terms and conditions of the obligation [Corp. Code § 16701(f)]. In the event a tender of the deferred buyout price is to made, this form can be modified with respect to the term of payment to reflect the fact that the dissociating partner is not entitled to cash until the partnership term expires and to specify the amount and type of security offered for that payment.

The notice must contain all of the following [Corp. Code § 16701(g)]:

- A statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of the date of dissociation;
- The latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement, if any;
- An explanation of how the estimated amount of the payment was calculated; and
- Written notice that the payment is in full satisfaction of the obligation to purchase unless, within 120 days after the written notice, the dissociated partner commences an action to determine the buyout price and any offsets or other terms of the obligation to purchase.

[f] Court Action to Determine Buyout Price

Partners who have dissociated may maintain an action against the partnership to determine the buyout price of their interests, including any offsets or other terms of the obligation to purchase. The action must be commenced within 120 days after the partnership has tendered payment or an offer to pay, or within one year after written demand for payment if the partnership has not paid or tendered an offer of payment. The court must determine the buyout price, offsets, and accrued interest and enter a judgment for any additional payment or refund. The court must also determine the security for payment and other terms of the obligation in the case of a deferred payment to a wrongfully dissociating partner [Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

The court may assess reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of appraisers or experts against a party that the court finds acted arbitrarily, vexatiously, or not in good faith. That finding may be based on the partnership's failure to tender payment or an offer to pay or to furnish the statement [see [e], above] that must accompany an offer to pay or tender of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(i)].

§ 15.520 Agreement for Sale of Partnership Interest to Corporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement for sale of all the partners' partnership interests to a corporation. After the decision is made to dissolve a partnership, the partners often will desire to sell all of the partnership assets, pay the liabilities, and distribute any excess. However, they may find that the assets can be disposed of more readily and at a higher price if sold together as a business or going concern rather than separately.

PRACTICE TIP:

Often the value of the partnership as a going concern will depend on the continued involvement of one or more partners as employees or consultants with the acquiring entity. Care should be taken to ensure that the sale valuation and purchase price fairly reflect the business valuation. An unfair discount on the business valuation and unfair premium on an employment or consulting contract may result in a violation of the fiduciary duties the partners owe to one another. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

This agreement is drafted with provisions that favor the purchaser. An attorney representing the seller should modify the agreement for the seller's benefit.

For further coverage of the applicable law and the procedures for the sale of a partnership business, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

[b] Structure of Sale for Tax Purposes

The sale of a partnership business can either be structured as the sale of partnership interests or as the sale of partnership assets. If the sale is of the partnership interests, then the transaction is treated as the sale of a capital asset, except for unrealized receivables and inventory items which result in ordinary income [I.R.C. §§ 741, 751]. If the sale is of partnership assets, then the proceeds are taxable according to the character of the assets [I.R.C. § 702].

This form provides for the sale of the partnership interests. To avoid misunderstanding, the agreement should clearly state that the transaction is the sale of partnership interests, rather than assets, even though the courts will look at the substance of the transaction and not the form. An agreement speaking only of partnership assets may be held to be a sale of partnership interests if all of the partnership business is conveyed [Barran v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (5th Cir. 1964) 334 F.2d 58, 64-65]. On the other hand, a transaction structured as a sale of partnership interests may be held to be a sale of the assets, if it is substantially a sale of the assets, especially when the partnership has substantially completed its business activities [see Rev. Rul. 72-172, 1972-1 C.B. 265 ; see also Haggard v. Wood (9th Cir. 1961) 298 F.2d 24, 27] .

The tax treatment of the purchaser is not so dependent on whether the transaction is structured as a purchase of partnership interests or partnership assets. The purchaser may be treated as acquiring partnership assets directly by purchase even if the transaction is structured as the purchase of partnership interests [see McCauslen v. Commissioner (1966) 45 T.C. 588, 589-590] . Therefore, this form provides for the allocation of the purchase price among the assets of the partnership.

The allocation of the total purchase price among assets may require extensive negotiations. For instance, recapture on depreciation previously taken by the partnership on certain assets may be ordinary income to it at the time of the sale [I.R.C. §§ 1245, 1250], and the partners will attempt to allocate as small a portion of the sales price to these assets as possible. The buyer, however, will want as much of the purchase price as possible allocated to the depreciable property since its subsequent depreciation on these assets depends on its cost basis in these assets [I.R.C. § 167].

The partners will want a large portion of the purchase price allocated to goodwill since it will result in capital gain to the partnership [see I.R.C. § 741]. However, the buyer may want to avoid the allocation to goodwill because goodwill may only be amortized over a 15-year period [I.R.C. § 197(a)]. The partners will try to avoid allocation of the purchase price to inventories because gain on the sale of inventory is ordinary income to the partnership, but the buyer will want a large allocation to inventory because a large allocation will increase its basis in these assets and will lower the amount of ordinary income it receives on subsequent sales of such inventory [I.R.C. § 751].

The buyer will also want to allocate a portion of the purchase price to a covenant not to compete since it can be deducted over the period of the covenant; the sellers will want to avoid such an allocation since it will be ordinary income to them [see Barran v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (5th Cir. 1964) 334 F.2d 58, 61-64 ; see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice (covenants not to compete)].

If the allocation of purchase price is done on an "arm's length" basis with parties having adverse interests, it should stand up for tax purposes [see Treas. Reg. § 1.736-1(b)(1)]. Obviously, attempts should not be made to allocate unreasonably the purchase price among assets in a way which does not at all reflect the true relative values of those assets.

§ 15.530 Statement of Dissociation (GP-3)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form GP-3, Statement of Dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16704]. It is available from any office of the California Secretary of State. The form may be filed and, if appropriate, recorded, by either a dissociating partner or the partnership when a partner has left the partnership for any reason. Its purpose is to protect the partnership and the dissociating partner against liability by giving constructive notice of the dissociation to third parties. At the same time, third parties can conclusively rely on filed statements to the extent that they are uncontradicted by later filed statements [Corp. Code § 16303(d), (e)]. However, the filing of a statement of dissociation requires the prior filing of a Statement of Partnership Authority [see Instructions to Form; see also § 15.285].

PRACTICE TIP

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 15.530. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Contents, Execution, and Filing

A statement of dissociation may be filed with the Secretary of State by the dissociating partner or the partnership, and must state the name of the partnership, any identification number issued by the Secretary of State, and that the partner is dissociated [Corp. Code § 16704(a)].

A statement filed by a partnership must be executed by two partners who declare under penalty of perjury that the contents of the statement are accurate [Corp. Code § 16105(c)]. A statement filed by the dissociated partner must be executed with the original signature of the dissociated partner [see Instructions to Form]. Facsimiles and photocopies are not acceptable for filing.

A copy of the statement, certified by the Secretary of State, may then be recorded in the recorder's office in any county where the partnership owns real property [Corp. Code § 16105(b)]. A copy of the filed statement should promptly be sent to each nonfiling partner and any other person named as a partner in the statement, but failure to do so will not limit the effectiveness of the statement as to third parties [Corp. Code § 16105(e)].

The fee for filing a statement of dissociation is $30 [Corp. Code § 16113(b)]. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [Gov. Code § 27361]; a separate fee for certifying the copy applies as well [see Gov. Code § 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)]. A recorded statement of dissociation that is not a copy certified by the Secretary of State will not have the effect given to such statements by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16105(b)].

A statement of dissociation may be amended or canceled by filing a Statement of Amendment/Cancellation on official Form GP-7 [Corp. Code § 16105(d); see § 15.287[2]]. Form GP-7 may be filed with the office of the Secretary of State and, if the partnership owns real property in California, it may also be recorded in the office of the county recorder. The filing fee is $30, and the statement may only be filed if there has been a prior filing of a Statement of Partnership Authority [see § 15.285].

The filed statement is a "limitation" on the dissociating partner's authority [Corp. Code § 16704(b)]. This means that with respect to real property transactions, a filed and recorded statement of dissociation will give third persons immediate constructive knowledge of the limitation on authority pursuant to Corp. Code § 16303(e). With respect to all other transactions, a filed statement will give constructive notice of the limitation to third parties 90 days after the statement has been filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16704(c)].

Depending on the circumstances of the partner's dissociation (among other considerations), a 90-day window of joint and several liability for non-real property transactions probably undesirable from both the dissociating partner's and the partnership's point of view. Therefore, in addition to the constructive notice given by the filing of a statement, actual notice should be given to partnership creditors at the earliest possible time. See § 15.540[2] for a letter to creditors giving actual notice.

A partner's dissociation does not of itself discharge that partner's liability for a partnership obligation incurred before dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(a)].

A dissociated partner ordinarily is not liable for a partnership obligation incurred after dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(a)]. If all of the following are true, however, a dissociating partner will be liable to third parties for transactions entered into by the partnership within two years after the partner's dissociation [Corp. Code § 16703(b)]:

- The other party reasonably believes that the dissociated partner was a partner, and
- The other party had no notice of the partner's dissociation, and

- The other party is not deemed to have knowledge or notice of the partner's dissociation [see Corp. Code §§ 16303(e), 16704(c)].

Avoiding a two-year overhang of liability is accomplished by notifying partnership creditors by letter, and by giving constructive notice by filing and, as appropriate, recording a statement of dissociation [see [c], above].

A dissociated partner is relieved from liability for a partnership obligation, regardless of when incurred, if the partnership's creditor, having notice of the partner's dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16102 (definition of "notice")] but without his, her or its consent, agrees to a material alteration in the nature or time of payment of a partnership obligation [Corp. Code § 16703(d)].

[e] Liability of Partnership and Partners for Later Acts of Dissociated Partner

For two years after a partner dissociates, the partnership remains bound by the acts of that partner, but only if the same circumstances exist that would bind the dissociating partner with respect to post-dissociation partnership obligations; that is, the third party reasonably believed the dissociated partner was still a partner, had no notice of the dissociation, and did not have constructive knowledge of the dissociation [Corp. Code § 16702(a); see [c], above]. The same rules regarding the effect of filing and, if appropriate, recording a statement of dissociation, apply as well [see Corp. Code § 16704(c); see also [b], above].

[f] Statement of Fictitious Name

When the partnership has previously filed a statement of fictitious business name, a withdrawing partner may file a statement of withdrawal [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17923(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17923(b) (contents)]. The statement of withdrawal must be executed in the same manner as the fictitious business name statement and filed in the county where the partnership filed its fictitious business name statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17923(a)]. Further, the statement of withdrawal must be published in the same manner as the fictitious business name statement and an affidavit showing the publication must be filed with the county clerk after the completion of the publication [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17923(c)]. The fact that a statement of withdrawal is filed does not cause a previously filed statement of fictitious business name to expire [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17923(d)]. The previous statutory authority for filing a statement of dissociation in lieu of satisfying the publication and affidavit requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17923(c)] has been deleted. For further discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business .

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form GP-4, Statement of Dissolution [see Corp. Code § 16805]. It is available from any office of the California Secretary of State. The form may be filed with the office of the Secretary of State and, if the partnership owns real property in California, it is also recorded in the office of the county recorder. The purpose of filing and recording a statement of dissolution is to protect the interests of the partnership and of third persons dealing with the partnership who rely on the public record in conducting business with the partnership. However, the filing of a statement of dissolution requires the prior filing of a Statement of Partnership Authority [see Instructions to Form; see also § 15.285].

[b] Contents, Execution, and Filing

A statement of dissolution may be filed with the Secretary of State after the partnership has dissolved. It can be filed by any partner who has not wrongfully dissociated. It must state the name of the partnership, any identification number issued by the Secretary of State, and that the partnership has dissolved and is winding up its business [Corp. Code § 16805(a)].

Although the statement may be filed by one partner, UPA '94 requires that any statement filed "by a partnership" be executed by two partners [Corp. Code § 16105(c)], and the Form GP-4 does require two partners to sign the statement under penalty of perjury that the contents of the statement are accurate [Corp. Code § 16105(c)]. A copy of the statement, certified by the Secretary of State, may then be recorded in the recorder's office in any county where the partnership owns real property [Corp. Code § 16105(b)]. A copy of the filed statement should be promptly sent to each nonfiling partner and any other person named as a partner in the statement, but failure to do so will not limit the effectiveness of the statement as to third parties [Corp. Code § 16105(e)].

There is no fee for filing a statement of dissolution. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [Gov. Code § 27361]; a separate fee for certifying the copy applies as well [see Gov. Code § 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)]. A recorded statement of dissolution that is not a copy certified by the Secretary of State will not have the effect given to such statements by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16105(b)].

A statement of dissolution may be amended or canceled by filing a Statement of Amendment/Cancellation on official Form GP-7 [Corp. Code § 16105(d); see § 15.287[2]]. Form GP-7 may be filed with the office of the Secretary of State and, if the partnership owns real property in California, it may also be recorded in the office of the county recorder. The filing fee is $30, and the statement may only be filed if there has been a prior filing of a Statement of Partnership Authority [see § 15.285].

[c] Partnership's Liability for Post-Dissolution Acts

A partnership is bound by a partner's post-dissolution acts that are either (1) appropriate for the winding up of the business or (2) would have bound the partnership before dissolution, that is, were in the ordinary course of doing business and the partner's authority to act in the matter was not limited by a filed statement of authority [see Corp. Code § 16301(a)], provided that the other party did not have "notice" of the dissolution [Corp. Code § 16804]. "Notice" in this context means that the party knows a fact, has received notice of it, or has reason to know it [Corp. Code § 16102(b)].

[d] Limitation on Partner's Authority to Bind Partnership

Although absent notification sent to a third party, that party does not have notice of a dissolution, a filed statement of dissolution will place third parties on notice, albeit delayed. A filed statement of dissolution has the important effect of canceling a filed statement of partnership authority, and it constitutes a "limitation" on authority [Corp. Code § 16805(b)]. Further, with respect to non-real property transactions, third persons are deemed to have notice of the dissolution and the limitation on a partner's authority after 90 days have elapsed since the filing of the statement [Corp. Code § 16805(c)]. Obviously, actual notice in the form of a return receipt requested letter to creditors affords more immediate protection for non-real property transactions than does the filing of the statement of dissolution [see § 15.541, for an appropriate notice]. On the other hand, if the statement is also recorded in the county where the partnership holds real property, it will give immediate constructive notice of the limitation on the authority of a partner to transfer that property [Corp. Code § 16805(b)].

[e] Filing New Statement of Partnership Authority

After filing and, if appropriate, recording the statement of dissolution, a dissolved partnership may file and record a new statement of partnership authority that will give one or more partners authority to act on behalf of the partnership in transactions with third parties [Corp. Code § 16805(d)]. If such a statement is filed and recorded, it will have the effect of immediately giving constructive notice of to third persons in transactions involving the partnership's real property, whether or not those transactions are appropriate to winding up the business [Corp. Code § 16895(d)].

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter giving notice of the dissociation of a partner. This form treats the dissociation prospectively, and should be modified if the dissociation has already occurred.

In addition to being an opportunity to make contact with business customers and suppliers, this letter performs the important function of giving them actual notice of changes in the partnership. The letter should be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested.

[b] Protection of Partnership and Dissociating Partner

As discussed in § 15.530[1], when a partner dissociates it is essential that those dealing with the partnership receive notification of the fact that partner no longer has authority to act as agent for the partnership. It is also important to protect the dissociated partner from further partnership liability. This letter will suffice to give actual notice to past and existing creditors.

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter giving notice of the dissolution of a partnership. In addition to being an opportunity to make contact with and thank former business customers and suppliers, this letter performs the important function of giving them actual notice of the partnership's winding up and those entitled to conduct it. The letter should be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested.

[b] Protection of Partnership and Partners

As discussed in § 15.531[1], because of the 90-day delay in giving constructive notice by means of the statement of dissolution, it is important that creditors and suppliers of the partnership receive notification of the dissolution by mail. In addition to alerting third parties that business will not be conducted in a routine manner pursuant to a winding up, they can also be placed on notice as to which partners they can safely deal with if not all partners are authorized to conduct the winding up.

The partners themselves are liable for partnership liabilities incurred after dissolution, even if not incurred in a transaction appropriate to a winding, if the third party had no notice of the dissolution [Corp. Code § 16804].

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART C. Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.599

§ 15.599 Scope of Part

This part describes the procedure for, and contains forms related to, the conversion and merger of general partnerships under Article 9 of the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA '94). Under Article 9, a general partnership may convert into a domestic limited partnership, domestic corporation, or domestic limited liability company, or into a foreign "other business entity"; in other words, a foreign limited partnership, corporation, limited liability company, or unincorporated association. Conversion to a registered limited liability partnership is not permitted under Article 9. Such conversions are governed by Article 10 of UPA '94, and only a law or accounting partnership may convert into a registered limited liability partnership [see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships].

Under Article 9 of UPA '94, general partnerships can merge with other general partnerships and with limited partnerships and limited liability companies. The merger of two or more limited partnerships is governed by ULPA '08 and is covered in Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships .

This part also discusses the statutory authority governing the conversion of limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and corporations into California general partnerships [see § 15.602[8]; see also Corp. Code § 16908] and includes the statement of partnership authority (Form GP-1A) that must be filed by such converting entities [see § 15.801]. For more detailed coverage of the requirements for such conversions, see Ch. 11F, Corporate Conversions , Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , and Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, respectively.

It is assumed in this part that the legal and tax consequences of a conversion or merger have been considered, and the decision made to proceed with the transaction. For a discussion summarizing the legal and tax incidents of doing business or practicing a profession in any of the various partnership forms or as a limited liability company, see the Legal Background in Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies. This part focuses on the legal considerations, from the partnership's point of view, that precede and are coincident with a plan or agreement to convert or to merge. It does not cover the procedures and forms relevant to formation of the converted or surviving entity. If that entity is a general partnership, then the materials in Part A of this chapter will apply. If the converted or surviving entity is a limited liability company, see Ch. 12C, LimitedLiability Companies , and if a limited partnership, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships .

Article 9 of UPA '94, provisions for conversion of general partnerships [see Corp. Code §§ 16901-16917], became operative on January 1, 1997, and applies to partnerships formed on and after that date. On and after January 1, 1999, all partnerships are governed by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16111(a), (b)].

With respect to both conversion and merger of partnerships, the UPA '94 provisions are not exclusive, and general partnerships may be converted or merged in any other manner provided by law.

§ 15.601 Definition of Terms

The UPA '94 provisions for conversion and merger of partnerships contain the following definitions, which are crucial to understanding how the law applies [Corp. Code § 16901]:

- "Constituent other business entity" means any other business entity that is merged with or into one or more partnerships and includes a surviving other business entity.

- "Constituent partnership" means a partnership that is merged with or into one or more other partnerships or other business entities and includes a surviving partnership.

- "Disappearing other business entity" means a constituent other business entity that is not the surviving other business entity.

- "Disappearing partnership" means a constituent partnership that is not the surviving partnership.

- "Domestic" means organized under the laws of this state when used in relation to any partnership, other business entity, or person (other than an individual).

- "Foreign other business entity" means any other business entity formed under the laws of any state other than California or under the laws of the United States or of a foreign country.

- "Foreign partnership" means a partnership formed under the laws of any state other than this state or under the laws of a foreign country.

- "General partner" means a partner in a partnership and a general partner in a limited partnership.

- "Limited liability company" means a limited liability company created under Title 2.5 (commencing with Corp. Code § 17000), or comparable law of another jurisdiction.

- "Limited partner" means a limited partner in a limited partnership.

- "Limited partnership" means a limited partnership created under Chapter 3 (CRLPA, commencing with Corp. Code § 15611, repealed January 1, 2010) or Chapter 5.5 (ULPA '08, commencing with Corp. Code § 15900), predecessor law, or comparable law of another jurisdiction.

- "Other business entity" means a limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, business trust, real estate investment trust, or an unincorporated association (other than a nonprofit association), but excluding a partnership.

- "Partner" includes both a general partner and a limited partner.

- "Surviving other business entity" means an other business entity into which one or more partnerships are merged.

- "Surviving partnership" means a partnership into which one or more other partnerships or other business entities are merged.

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART C. Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.602

§ 15.602 Conversions

[1] Entities Into Which Partnership May Convert; Carryover of Interests

A general partnership may be converted into a domestic other business entity or a foreign other business entity--that is, a domestic or foreign limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, business trust, real estate investment trust, or unincorporated association (other than a nonprofit association), but excluding a partnership [see Corp. Code § 16902(a); see also Corp. Code § 16901(12) ("other business entity" defined)]. Conversion into a domestic or foreign limited partnership or limited liability company may be effected only if each of the partners of the converting partnership will receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted other business entity equal to the partner's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting partnership as of the effective time of the conversion [Corp. Code § 16902(a)(1)]. Conversion into any other business entity or foreign other business entity may be effected only if each of the partnership interests of the same class is treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted other business entity unless all partners of the same class consent [Corp. Code § 16902(a)(2)].

Note that separate provisions in Article 10 of UPA '94 [see Corp. Code§§ 16951-16962] permit the conversion of any domestic law or accounting general partnership into a limited liability partnership if partners holding the majority of interests in current profits approve the conversion, unless the partnership agreement specifies a different vote for conversion [Corp. Code § 16955].

[2] Requirement That Law of Jurisdiction Authorize Conversion

Corp. Code § 16902(b) states that conversion of a partnership to a domestic limited partnership or limited liability company or foreign other business entity may be effected only if (1) the law under which the converted entity will exist expressly permits the formation of that entity pursuant to a conversion; and (2) the partnership complies with any and all other requirements of that law as it applies to conversion of the other business entity.

[3] Plan of Conversion

[a] Contents

A general partnership that wants to convert to a domestic or a foreign other business entity must approve a plan of conversion that states the following [Corp. Code § 16903(a); see § 15.800]:

- The terms and conditions of the conversion.
- The place of the organization of the converted entity and of the converting partnership and the name of the converted entity after conversion, if different from that of the converting partnership.
- The manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the partners into shares of, securities of, or interests in the converted entity.
- The provisions of the governing documents for the converted entity, such as a limited partnership agreement, limited liability company articles of organization and operating agreement, or articles or certificate of incorporation, to which the holders of interest in the converted entity are to be bound.
- Any other details or provisions as are required by laws under which the converted entity is organized.
- Any other details or provisions that are desired.

[b] Approvals

Unless the partnership agreement provides for a different vote for conversion, a plan of conversion must be approved by the number or percentage of partners required by the partnership agreement to approve an amendment to the partnership agreement. If, however, the conversion effects a change for which the partnership agreement requires a greater number or percentage of partners than is required to amend the partnership agreement, the plan of conversion must be approved by that greater number or percentage. If the partnership agreement fails to specify the vote required to amend the partnership agreement, the plan of conversion must be approved by all partners [Corp. Code § 16903(b)].

In addition to the foregoing approvals, if the partnership is converting into a limited partnership, then the plan of conversion must be approved by all partners who will become general partners of the converted limited partnership pursuant to the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 16903(c)].

[c] All Partners Deemed Parties to Plan

All partners of the converting partnership, except those that dissociate upon effectiveness of the conversion [see Corp. Code § 16909(e)], are deemed parties to any partnership or operating or organic document for the converted entity adopted as part of the plan of conversion, regardless of whether that partner has executed any of those documents. Adoption of a new partnership, operating agreement, or other organic document is effective at the effective time or date of the conversion [Corp. Code § 16903(d); see [5], below, for effective date of conversion].

[d] Amendment of Plan

A plan of conversion may be amended before the conversion takes effect if the amendment is approved by the partnership in the same manner, and by the same number or percentage of partners, that was required for approval of the original plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 16903(e)].

[e] Maintaining Plan of Conversion

The converted entity must keep the plan of conversion at (1) the principal place of business of the converted entity, if the converted entity is a foreign other business entity or a corporation; or (2) the office at which records are to be kept under either Corp. Code § 15614 or 15901.14 (domestic limited partnerships) or Corp. Code § 17057 (domestic limited liability companies). A partner of the converting partnership has an unwaivable right to request that the person authorized to act on behalf of the converted entity, at the entity's expense, promptly deliver to the partner or the holder of interests or other securities a copy of the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 16903(g)].

[4] Abandoning Conversion

In their discretion, the partners of a converting partnership may abandon a conversion at any time before it is effective, without further approval by the partners, if abandonment is done in the same manner, and by the same number orpercentage of partners, that was required for approval of the original plan of conversion, subject to the contractual rights of third parties [Corp. Code § 16903(f)].

[5] Conversion Into Limited Partnership or Limited Liability Company

[a] Effective Date

If a partnership is converting into a domestic other business entity, the conversion is effective on the earliest date that all of the following have occurred [Corp. Code § 16904(a)]:

- The approval of the plan of conversion by the partners of the converting partnership [see [3][b], above].

- The filing of all documents required by law to create the converted other business entity, including, if required, a statement of conversion [see [c], below].

- The effective date, if set forth in the plan of conversion, has occurred.

[b] Evidence of Conversion

A copy of the certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation (including any statement of conversion required), duly certified by the Secretary of State, is conclusive evidence of the conversion of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16904(b); see Corp. Code § 16906].

[c] Statement of Conversion

Converting partnerships that have a currently effective statement of partnership authority [see Corp. Code § 16303; see also § 15.15[3] (statements of partnership authority)] on file must include a statement of conversion along with the charter documents of the domestic limited partnership, limited liability company, or corporation into which they are converting. If the converting partnership does not have a statement of authority in effect at the time of conversion, filing the statement of conversion is optional. The statement, which must in a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, includes basic information about the partnership's identity as well as a statement that the conversion received the approval of the requisite partnership interests [Corp. Code § 16906(a)]. If filed, a statement of conversion that is contained in the certificate of a limited partnership or articles of a limited liability company has the effect of canceling any statement of partnership authority on file [Corp. Code § 16906(c)].

The contents of the statement of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 16906(a)(1), (2)] and are reflected in the forms promulgated by the Secretary of State. These forms are to be used as follows:

- A general partnership that is converting into a California limited partnership will file Form LP-1A, Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, § 16B.411]. This form includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion.

- A general partnership that is converting into a California limited liability company will file Form LLC-1A, Limited Liability Company Articles of Organization--Conversion [see § 12C.200A]. This form includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion.

- A general partnership that is converting into a California corporation will file articles of incorporation that include a statement of conversion. For a sample set of articles for a California general partnership that is converting into a California corporation, containing the required statement of conversion, see § 15.803. For a sample set of articles for a foreign general partnership that is converting into a California corporation, see § 15.804.

A general partnership that converts to a foreign other business entity does not file a statement of conversion, but rather a certificate of conversion [§ 15.802] as discussed in [6][c], below.

[6] Conversion Into Foreign Other Business Entity

[a] Effective Date

Conversion of a partnership to a foreign other business entity is generally governed by the laws of the foreign jurisdiction [see Corp. Code § 16902; see also [2], above], including the law determining the effective date of the conversion [Corp. Code § 16905(b)].

[b] Secretary of State as Agent for Service of Process

In general, the Secretary of State is the agent for service of process in an action or proceeding against a foreign other business to enforce an obligation of a converted partnership. Unless a statement of conversion has been filed to effect the conversion [see [c], below], the converted entity must promptly notify the Secretary of State of the mailing address of its agent for service of process, its chief executive office, and of any change of address.

To enforce an obligation of a partnership that has converted to a foreign other business entity, the Secretary of State is the only agent for service of process in an action against the converted foreign entity if the designated agent is (1) a natural person that cannot be found with due diligence, (2) a corporation and no person to whom delivery may be made may be located with due diligence, or (3) if no agent has been designated and if no officer, partner, manager, member, or agent of the converted foreign entity may be located after diligent search and thatfact is shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court. The court may then make an order that service may be effected by personal delivery to the Secretary (or assistant or deputy) of two copies of the process and two copies of the order, which must state the address to which the process must be sent by the Secretary. Service of process in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary [Corp. Code § 16905(c)(1)].

On receipt of process, order, and the applicable fee [see Gov. Code § 12206], the Secretary will notify the converted foreign entity at the specified address by forwarding a copy of the process and order by certified mail, return receipt requested [Corp. Code § 16905(c)(2)]. The Secretary of State will keep a record of all process served on the Secretary, recording the time of service and the Secretary's actions. The certificate of the Secretary, under official seal, certifying to receipt of process, the provision of notice to the converted entity, and the forwarding of process constitutes competent and prima facie evidence of the matters stated in the certificate [Corp. Code § 16905(c)(3)].

Corp. Code § 16906(b) provides that a California general partnership that is converting into a foreign other business entity--that is, a limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, business trust, real estate investment trust, or unincorporated association other than a nonprofit association, but excluding a general partnership [see Corp. Code § 16901(6), (12)]--that has filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 [see § 15.285] that is effective at the time of conversion may file a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16906(b)]. Note that Corp. Code § 16906(b) uses the word "may," which would appear to mean that the filing of a certificate of conversion is optional in all cases involving conversion to a foreign entity. In contrast, the official instructions to the Secretary of State's form [see § 15.802] state that this form "shall" be filed with the Secretary of State, which would indicated that the Secretary of State's office regards such a filing as mandatory. Whether or not the filing of a certificate of conversion is mandatory under these circumstances, there are advantages to filing such a certificate, as discussed in [7], below.

The certificate of conversion must identify the partners and the entity into which the partnership is converting, including the street address of the converted entity's chief executive office and any office in California and its form of organization [Corp. Code § 16906(b)]. The Secretary of State's office has promulgated an official form that satisfies these requirements [see § 15.802 (form)].

The filing of a certificate of conversion has the effect of canceling any statement of partnership authority on file [Corp. Code § 16906(c)].

[7] Title to Real Property of Converting Partnership

[a] Recording Requirements

The recording of (1) a certificate of conversion, or a certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation, complying with Corp. Code § 16906, in the form prescribed by the Secretary of State, certified by the Secretary of State, or (2) a copy of a certificate of conversion or a certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other certificate evidencing the creation of a foreign other business entity by conversion, containing a statement of conversion, certified by the Secretary of State or an authorized public official of the state or place pursuant to the laws of which the conversion is effected, in the county recorder's office in the county where the converting entity owns California real property, is evidence of record ownership of all interest in the property in the converted partnership or other entity [Corp. Code § 16907(a)]. This rule operates only when the law of the jurisdiction of the converted entity provides, as does UPA '94 [see Corp. Code § 16909(b)], that conversion vests in the converted partnership or other business entity all the real property of the converting partnership or other business entity [Corp. Code § 16907(a)].

A filed and, if appropriate, recorded certificate of conversion, or a certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles or certificate of incorporation containing a statement of conversion, or other certificate evidencing the creation of an other business entity by conversion, need not contain all the information required in a statement of conversion [see Corp. Code § 16906] to effect a change of record title [Corp. Code § 16907(b)]. It is enough if the certificate or other document is executed and declared to be accurate under penalty of perjury [see Corp. Code § 16105(c)] by two partners, and states the name of the converting partnership or converting other business entity that held title to the real property and the name of the converted entity [Corp. Code § 16907(b)].

[b] Presumption in Favor of Bona Fide Purchasers

If the certificate of conversion or other certificate evidencing the creation of another business entity by conversion is duly recorded, it creates a conclusive presumption in favor of bona fide purchasers for value that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 16907(c)].

[8] Conversion of Limited Partnership or Limited Liability or Other Company into Domestic Partnership

[a] When Permitted

Article 9 of UPA '94 authorizes a domestic limited partnership, limited liabilitycompany, or corporation, or a foreign other business entity, to be converted to a domestic general partnership. How often this is likely to occur is not certain. Nevertheless, the statute provides that such a conversion may be "pursuant to this article," but only if the converting entity is authorized by the laws under which it is organized [Corp. Code § 16908(a)]. Note that the statute appears to require a foreign other entity, e.g., a limited partnership, converting to a California general partnership do so pursuant to Article 9. This is probably a drafting error since it is not clear what interest California has in the method by which a foreign entity converts, as evidenced by the fact that according to Article 9, the effective date of such a conversion is governed by the law under which the converting entity is organized [Corp. Code § 16908(d)], not California law.

The statutes governing limited partnerships [see Corp. Code § 15900 et seq. (ULPA '08)] limited liability companies [see Corp. Code § 17540.1 et seq.], and corporations [see Corp. Code § 1150 et seq.] govern the procedures for conversion of those entities into other types of entities, including California general partnerships. For more detailed coverage of the requirements for such conversions, see Ch. 11C, Mergers , Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , and Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, respectively.

[b] Approvals

An entity converting into a domestic partnership must approve a plan of conversion or whatever instrument is required to be approved pursuant to the laws under which the entity is organized [Corp. Code § 16908(b)]. The conversion of a domestic limited partnership, limited liability company, or corporation, or a foreign other business entity must be approved by the number or percentage of the partners, members, shareholders, or holders of interest of the converting entity as is required by the law under which the entity is organized, or a greater or lesser percentage (subject to applicable laws) as set forth in the limited partnership agreement, articles of organization, operating agreement, or articles or certificate of incorporation, or other governing document for the converting entity [Corp. Code § 16908(c)].

[c] Effective Date

The conversion by a domestic limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, or a foreign other business entity into a partnership will be effective under UPA '94 at such time as the conversion is effective under the law under which the converting entity is organized [Corp. Code § 16908(d)].

[d] Filing Requirements for Statement of Partnership Authority and Statement of Conversion

A limited partnership or limited liability company that is converting into a California general partnership must complete a statement of conversion on its statement of partnership authority. If no statement of partnership authority is filed, then the converting entity must file a separate certificate of conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(2) (limited partnership), 17540.6(a)(2) (limited liability companies); see § 15.802 (standard certificate of conversion form)].

Converting limited liability companies or limited partnerships file the statement of partnership authority using Form GP-1A, which is a specialized form of partnership statement that is to be used when the partnership being formed is a preexisting business that is being converted from some other form of business entity, rather than a brand new entity. For general discussion of the effect of filing a statement of partnership authority, see § 15.285[1] and discussion in Part A of this chapter. Form GP-1A includes the mandatory statement of conversion required by statute [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(2) (conversion from limited partnership), 17540.6 (conversion from limited liability company)] and is reproduced in § 15.801.

The filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion (or a statement of partnership authority containing a statement of conversion) [see Corp. Code § 16908(a)] has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation by the converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company. Therefore, a converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company that has made this filing is not required to file a certificate of cancellation as a result of the conversion [Corp. Code § 16908(e); see Corp. Code § 15909.07, 17455]. If a converting other business entity is a foreign corporation qualified to transact business in California, the foreign corporation automatically surrenders its right to transact intrastate business in California by virtue of this filing [Corp. Code § 16908(e)].

[9] Effect of Conversion on Rights and Liabilities of Converting Entity and on Partners

[a] Converting Entity Unchanged

An entity that converts into another entity pursuant to UPA '94 is for all purposes the same entity that existed before the conversion, and when conversion takes effect, the following apply [Corp. Code § 16909(a), (b)]:

- All the rights and property, whether real, personal, or mixed, of the converting entity remain vested in the converted entity.

- All debts, liabilities, and obligations of the converting entity continue as debts, liabilities, and obligations of the converted entity.

- All rights of creditors and liens upon the property of the converting entity are preserved unimpaired and remain enforceable against the convertedentity to the same extent as against the converting entity as if the conversion had not occurred.

- Any action or proceeding pending by or against the converting entity may be continued against the converted entity as if the conversion had not occurred.

[b] Rights and Liabilities of Partners

A partner of a converting partnership is liable for the following [Corp. Code § 16909(c)]:

- All obligations of the converting partnership for which the partner was personally liable before the conversion.

- All obligations of the converted entity incurred after the conversion takes effect, but those obligations may be satisfied only out of property of the entity if (1) the converted other business entity is a limited partnership and the partner becomes a limited partner; (2) the converted other business entity is a limited liability company and the partner becomes a member, unless the articles of organization or the operating agreement of the limited liability company provide otherwise; or (3) the converted other business entity is a corporation and the partner becomes a shareholder.

A partner of a partnership that converted from an other business entity is liable for any and all obligations of the converting other business entity for which the partner was personally liable before the conversion, but only to the extent the partner was liable for the obligation of the converting entity prior to the conversion [Corp. Code § 16909(d)].

Case law outside the conversion context holds that when a partnership is incorporated, the partnership ceases to exist after formation of the corporation, even if the entity is operated in a manner similar to that which it was operated as a partnership [Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1157, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335 (rejecting trial court conclusion that a "de facto" partnership existed concurrently with the corporate enterprise); Cavasso v. Downey (1920) 45 Cal.App. 780, 785, 188 P. 594] . Thus, the obligations among partners that flow from a partnership, including fiduciary duties among partners, ordinarily no longer exist and therefore cannot be enforced against one another by the former partners turned shareholders, with the limited exception that courts will enforce pre-incorporation agreements among partners or joint venturers who have incorporated in order to carry out the agreement between or among the partners or joint venturers [Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1157-1159, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335] .

[c] Right of Dissenting Partner to Dissociate

A partner of a converting partnership who does not vote in favor of the conversion and does not agree to become a partner, member, shareholder, or holder of an interest in the converted other business entity may rightfully dissociate from the partnership as of the date the conversion takes effect [Corp. Code § 16909(e)].

Within 10 days after the partners approve conversion, the converting partnership must send notice of the approval to each partner that has not approved the conversion, accompanied by copies of Corp. Code § 16701 (buyout provisions) and a brief description of the procedure to be followed under that section if the partner wishes to dissociate from the partnership. A partner that wants to dissociate must send written notice of dissociation within 30 days after the date of the notice of the approval of the conversion. The converting partnership must then cause the partner's interest in the entity to be purchased [Corp. Code § 16909(e)].

The converting partnership is bound under Corp. Code § 16702 by an act of a dissociated general partner, and the partner is liable under Corp. Code § 16703 for transactions entered into by the converted entity after the conversion takes effect [Corp. Code § 16909(e)]. To limit the scope of this liability, the partnership and/or the dissociating partner should file a statement of dissociation that has the effect of placing third persons on notice of the dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16704]. For a detailed discussion of dissociation, including the buyout of dissociated partners and the liabilities of the partnership on dissociation, refer to § 15.303[2] and § 15.306[2].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART C. Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.603

§ 15.603 Merger

[1] Entities That May Merge

[a] Pursuant to Article 9 of UPA '94

The following entities may be merged pursuant to Article 9 of UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16910(a)]:

- Two or more partnerships into one partnership.

- One or more partnerships and one or more other business entities into one of those other business entities.

- One or more partnerships, other than a limited liability partnership, and one or more other business entities into one partnership.

[b] Merger Must Be Authorized by Law Under Which Entity Is Organized

Any number of partnerships may merge with any number of other business entities only if the other business entities organized in California are authorized by law to merge. If a domestic partnership is the surviving partnership, any foreignother business entity that is a party to the merger must not be legally prohibited by the laws under which it is organized from merging. If a foreign partnership or foreign other business entity is the survivor of the merger, the laws of the jurisdiction under which the survivor is organized must authorize the merger [Corp. Code § 16910(b)].

[c] Law Governing Merger Proceedings

If the surviving entity is a domestic partnership or a domestic other business entity, the merger proceedings with respect to that partnership or other business entity and any domestic disappearing partnership must conform to the provisions of Article 9 of UPA '94 that govern the merger of domestic partnerships. If, however, the surviving entity is a foreign partnership or a foreign other business entity, the merger proceedings may be in accordance with the laws of the state or place of organization of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity [Corp. Code § 16913(b)].

[2] Merger Agreement

[a] Approval

Each partnership and other business entity that is merging must approve a merger agreement. In the case of a partnership, approval must be by the number or percentage of partners required to approve a merger by the partnership agreement of the constituent partnership. Absent a voting requirement for merger approval, the merger agreement must be approved by that number or percentage of partners specified by the partnership agreement to approve an amendment to the partnership agreement. If, however, the merger effects a change for which the partnership agreement requires a greater number or percentage of partners than that required to amend the partnership agreement, then the merger must be approved by that greater number or percentage. If the partnership agreement is silent on approval of both mergers and amendments, then the merger agreement must be approved by all the partners [Corp. Code § 16911(a)].

The agreement of merger must be approved on behalf of each constituent other business entity by those persons required to approve the merger by the laws under which it is organized. Other persons may be parties to the agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 16911(a)].

If the partnership is merging into a limited partnership, then in addition to the approval of the partners as described above, the agreement of merger must be approved by all partners who will become general partners of the surviving limited partnership when the merger takes effect [Corp. Code § 16911(b)].

[b] Required Contents

The agreement of merger must state the following [Corp. Code § 16911(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the merger.

- The name and place of organization of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity, and of each disappearing partnership and disappearing other business entity, and the agreement of merger may change the name of the surviving partnership, which new name may be the same as or similar to the name of a disappearing partnership.

- The manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the constituent partnerships into interests or other securities of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity. If partnership interests of any of the constituent partnerships are not to be converted solely into interest or other securities of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity, the merger agreement must specify the cash, property, rights, interests, or securities that the holders of the partnership interest are to receive in exchange for the partnership interests. The cash, property, rights, interests, or securities may be in addition to or in lieu of interests or other securities of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity. If the partnership interests are canceled without consideration, that fact must be stated.

- Any other details or provisions required by the laws under which any constituent other business entity is organized.

- Any other details or provisions that are desired, including, without limitation, a provision for the treatment of fractional partnership interests.

[c] Scope of Agreement

A duly approved merger agreement, in addition to stating the terms of merger, may amend the partnership agreement of any domestic constituent partnership, or adopt an entirely new partnership agreement for a domestic constituent partnership, if it is the surviving partnership in the merger. Any amendment to a partnership agreement or adoption of a new partnership agreement will be effective as of the time or date the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 16911(e)].

[d] Amendment

After approval, a merger agreement may be amended before the merger takes effect if the amendment is approved by the partners of each constituent partnership in the same manner as required for approval of the original agreement of merger, and by each of the constituent other business entities [Corp. Code § 16911(c)].

[e] Abandonment

The partners of a constituent partnership may in their discretion, abandon a merger in the same manner that is required for approval of the original agreementof merger. However, abandonment is subject to the contractual rights, if any, of third parties, including other constituent partnerships and constituent other business entities [Corp. Code § 16911(d)].

[f] Maintenance and Provision of Copies

The surviving partnership or surviving other business entity must keep the merger agreement at the following locations [Corp. Code § 16911(f)]:

- The principal place of business of the surviving entity if the surviving entity is a partnership or a foreign other business entity.

- The office referred to in Corp. Code § 1500 if the surviving entity is a domestic corporation.

- The office referred to in Corp. Code § 15614(a) or 15901.14, if the surviving entity is a domestic limited partnership, or at the office referred to in Corp. Code § 17057, if the surviving entity is a domestic limited liability company.

On the request of a partner of a constituent partnership or a holder of interests or other securities of a constituent other business entity, the authorized person on behalf of the partnership or the surviving other business entity must promptly deliver a copy of the merger agreement to the requesting party. The copy is provided at the partnership's or other entity's expense, and a waiver of the right to a copy of the merger agreement is unenforceable [Corp. Code § 16911(f)].

[a] Generally

UPA '94 provides for the filing of either a statement of merger or a certificate of merger, depending on who the parties to the merger are. The purpose of filing either document is the same: to place third parties on notice of the merger, fix its effective date, and establish record title to real property. The UPA '94 provisions permitting or requiring these fillings, and the interrelated provisions regarding effective dates of mergers, are not models of clarity.

[b] Statement of Merger

Filing a statement of merger is not mandatory. UPA '94 provides that it may be filed in the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 16915(a)]:

- In a merger involving a domestic partnership and another partnership in which no other domestic other business entity is a party, e.g., two domestic partnerships or a domestic partnership and a foreign partnership.

- In a merger involving a domestic partnership and a foreign other business entity in which no other domestic other business entity is a party, e.g., a domestic partnership and a foreign limited partnership or limited liability company.

The statement of merger may be filed in the Secretary of State's office by either the surviving partnership or the surviving foreign other business entity. The statement declares that one or more partnerships have merged into the surviving partnership or surviving foreign other business entity, or that one or more partnerships or foreign other business entities have merged into the surviving domestic partnership, and contains the following [Corp. Code § 16915(a)]:

- The name of each partnership or foreign other business entity that is a party to the merger.

- The name of the surviving entity into which the other partnerships or foreign other business entities were merged.

- The street address of the surviving entity's chief executive office and of an office in California, if any.

- Whether the surviving entity is a partnership or a foreign other business entity, specifying the type of the entity.

[c] Certificate of Merger

[i] When and by Whom Filed

Filing a certificate of merger is mandatory in any merger involving a domestic partnership when a domestic other business entity is also a party [Corp. Code § 16915(b)]. This does not mean that either has to be the survivor, nor that the merger might not also involve, for example, a foreign partnership or other business entity.

After approval of the merger by the constituent parties, a certificate of merger must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State by both the constituent partnerships and the constituent other business entities. It must be filed on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, and must be executed and acknowledged by each domestic constituent partnership by two partners (unless a lesser number is provided in the partnership agreement), by each foreign constituent partnership by one or more partners, and by each constituent other business entity by those persons required to execute the certificate of merger by the laws under which the constituent other business entity is organized [Corp. Code § 16915(b)].

Form GP-6, which formerly was used for both statements of merger and certificates of merger, is no longer used for a certificate of merger. Instead, Secretary of State Form OBE MERGER-1 is used when a certificate of merger is needed. For an illustration of the latter form, official instructions and comments, and discussion, see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, § 16B.421.

The certificate of merger must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 16915(b)]:

- The names and the Secretary of State's file numbers, if any, of each of the constituent partnerships and constituent other business entities, separately identifying the disappearing partnerships and disappearing other business entities and the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If a vote of the partners was required, a statement that the principal terms of the agreement of merger were approved by a vote of the partners, which equaled or exceeded the vote required.

- If the surviving entity is a domestic partnership and not an other business entity, any change to the information set forth in any filed statement of partnership authority of the surviving partnership resulting from the merger, including any change in the name of the surviving partnership resulting from the merger. The filing of a certificate of merger setting forth any changes to any filed statement of partnership authority of the surviving partnership has the effect of the filing of a certificate of amendment of the statement of partnership authority by the surviving partnership, and no other amendment need be filed [see Corp. Code § 16105(d) (amending statements of authority); see also § 15.287[2] (statement of amendment or cancellation)].

- The future effective date or time (which must be a date or time certain not more than 90 days subsequent to the date of filing) of the merger, if the merger is not to be effective upon the filing of the certificate of merger with the office of the Secretary of State.

- If the surviving entity is an other business entity or a foreign partnership, the full name, type of entity, legal jurisdiction in which the entity was organized and by whose laws its internal affairs are governed, and the address of the principal place of business of the entity.

- Any other information required to be stated in the certificate of merger by the laws under which each constituent other business entity is organized.

[d] Agreement of Merger

If the surviving entity is a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation in a merger involving a domestic corporation, the surviving corporation must file a copy of the agreement of merger and the requisite attachments [Corp. Code § 16915(b); see Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1)]. For further discussion of mergers involving corporations, see Ch. 11, Merger and Acquisition Issues .

[e] Effect of Filing

A filed statement of merger or a certificate of merger has the effect of the filing of a cancellation for each disappearing partnership of any statement of partnership authority filed by it [Corp. Code § 16915(c)].

For all mergers in which a certificate of merger is required to be filed, a copy of the certificate of merger duly certified by the Secretary of State is conclusive evidence of the merger of [Corp. Code § 16912(b)]:

- The constituent partnerships (either by themselves or together with constituent other business entities) into the surviving other business entity; or

- The constituent partnerships or the constituent other business entities, or both, into the surviving partnership.

[4] Effective Date of Merger

[a] When Certificate of Merger Is Required

When a certificate of merger is required to be filed [see [3][c], above], the merger will be effective as of the date it is filed, unless a later effective date or time is specified in the certificate [Corp. Code §§ 16912(a), 16913(c)]. This means, for example, that in a merger between a domestic partnership and a domestic limited partnership, the merger will be effective as of the date the certificate of merger is filed unless the certificate specifies a later date. If, however, such a merger also involved a foreign partnership or other business entity, and that partnership or entity was the survivor, the merger becomes effective in accordance with the law of the survivor's jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 16913(d)].

[b] Merger Not Involving Domestic Other Business Entity

A merger in which no domestic other business entity is a party (e.g., between two general partnerships) to the merger is effective on the later of any of the following [Corp. Code § 16912(b)]:

- The approval of the agreement of merger by all parties to the merger [see Corp. Code § 16911];
- The filing of all documents required by law to be filed as a condition to the effectiveness of the merger; or
- Any effective date specified in the agreement of merger.

[5] Effect of Merger on Constituent Parties

When a merger takes effect, the separate existence of the disappearing partnerships and disappearing other business entities ceases, and the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity succeeds, without other transfer, act or deed, to all the rights and property whether real, personal, or mixed, of each of the disappearing parties. The survivor is subject to all the debts and liabilities ofeach in the same manner as if the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity had itself incurred them [Corp. Code § 16914(a)].

[6] Effect of Merger on Rights of Creditors and Others

[a] Enforcement of Liens Against Survivor

When a merger takes effect, all rights of creditors and all liens on the property of each of the constituent partnerships and constituent otherbusiness entities are preserved unimpaired, and may be enforced against the surviving partnership or the surviving other business entity to the same extent as if the debt, liability or duty which gave rise to that lien had been incurred or contracted by it. Liens on the property of a disappearing partnership or disappearing other business entity are limited, however, to the property affected thereby immediately prior to the time the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 16914(a)].

[b] Pending Actions

When a merger takes effect, any action or proceeding pending by or against any disappearing partnership or disappearing other business entity may be prosecuted to judgment, which will bind the surviving entity. In the alternative, the surviving entity may be proceeded against or be substituted in the disappearing party's place [Corp. Code § 16914(a)].

[c] The Secretary of State as Agent for Service of Process

Unless a certificate of merger has been filed to effect the merger, a surviving foreign entity must promptly notify the Secretary of State of the mailing address of its agent for service of process, its chief executive office, and of any change of address [Corp. Code § 16914(b)(1)]. To enforce an obligation of a partnership that has merged with a foreign partnership or foreign other business entity, the Secretary of State will only be the agent for service of process in a suit against the surviving foreign partnership or foreign other business entity if any of the following conditions exists [Corp. Code § 16914(b)(1)]:

- The agent designated for the service of process for that entity is a natural person and cannot be located with due diligence.

- The agent is a corporation and no person to whom delivery may be made can be located with due diligence.

- No agent has been designated and no one of the officers, partners, managers, members, or agents of the entity can be located after diligent search, and it is so shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court.

The court will then make an order that service be made by personal delivery to the Secretary of State (or to an assistant or deputy Secretary of State) of two copies of the process together with two copies of the order; the order must also state an address to which the process will be sent by the Secretary of State. Service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16914(b)(1)].

On receipt of the process and order and the applicable fee [see Gov. Code § 12197(c)], the Secretary of State will provide notice to the entity of the service of the process by forwarding by certified mail, return receipt requested, a copy of the process and order to the address specified in the order [Corp. Code § 16914(b)(2)]. The Secretary of State will keep a record of all process served on the Secretary and record the time of service and the Secretary's action with respect to the process. The Secretary's certificate, under official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the provision of notice to the entity, and the forwarding of the process, constitutes competent and prima facie evidence of the matters stated [Corp. Code § 16914(b)(3)].

[7] Liabilities of Partners or Members of Surviving Entity

[a] Pre-Merger and Post-Merger Obligations of Constituent Parties

A partner of the surviving partnership or surviving limited partnership, a member of the surviving limited liability company, a shareholder of the surviving corporation, or a holder of equity securities in the surviving other business entity is liable for all of the following [Corp. Code § 16914(c)]:

- All obligations of a party to the merger for which that person was personally liable before the merger.

- All other obligations of the surviving entity incurred before the merger by a party to the merger, but those obligations may be satisfied only out of property of the entity.

- All obligations of the surviving entity incurred after the merger takes effect, but those obligations may be satisfied only out of property of the entity if that person is a limited partner, a shareholder in a corporation, or, unless expressly provided otherwise in the articles of organization or other governing documents, a member of a limited liability company or a holder of equity securities in a surviving other business entity.

[b] When Pre-Merger Obligations Not Satisfied out of Survivor's Property

If the pre-merger obligations of a partnership or limited partnership are not satisfied out of the property of the surviving entity, those who were general partners immediately before the effective date of the merger must contribute the amount needed to satisfy that partnership's or limited partnership's obligations to the surviving entity. The contribution willmade as if the merged party had dissolved, i.e., be proportional to the partner's share in partnership losses [see Corp. Code § 16807(c) (partner's contribution on liquidation)]. In the case of a partner in a foreign limited partnership, the contribution will be determined by that jurisdiction's laws concerning the liability of general partners on dissolution [Corp. Code § 16914(d)].

[8] Effect of Merger on Title to Real Property

[a] Recording Certificate or Statement of Merger

The recording of a statement of merger, agreement of merger, or certificate of merger, certified by the Secretary of State or authorized official of the state or place under whose laws the merger is effected, in the county recorder's office in the county where the disappearing partnership or other business entity owns California real property, is evidence of record ownership of all interest in the property in the surviving partnership or other entity. This rule operates only when the law of the jurisdiction of the disappearing entity provides, as does UPA '94 [see Corp. Code § 16914(a)], that the effect of merger is to vest in the surviving partnership or other business entity all the real property of the disappearing partnership or other business entity [Corp. Code § 16916(a)].

A filed, and if appropriate, recorded certificate of merger need not contain all the information required in a statement of merger [see Corp. Code § 16915(a)] to effect a change of record title. It is enough if the statement is executed and declared to be accurate under penalty of perjury [see Corp. Code § 16105(c)] by two partners (or an authorized person if on behalf of an other business entity), and states (1) the names of the disappearing partnership or other business entity that held title to the real property, and (2) the name of the surviving entity [Corp. Code § 16916(b)].

[b] Presumption in Favor of Bona Fide Purchasers

If a certified copy of a certificate of merger is duly recorded it creates a conclusive presumption in favor of bona fide purchasers for value that the merger was validly completed [Corp. Code § 16916(c)]. Note that UPA '94 does not accord the same protection to bona fide purchasers when it is a certified statement of merger rather than a certificate of merger that is recorded. This is probably a drafting oversight.

[9] Right of Dissenting Partner to Dissociate

A partner of a domestic disappearing partnership who does not vote in favor of a merger and does not agree to become a partner, member, shareholder, or holder of interest or equity securities of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity has the right to dissociate from the partnership as of the date the merger takes effect [Corp. Code § 16914(e)].

Within 10 days after the partners' approval of a merger, the partnership must send notice of the approval to each partner that has not approved the conversion, accompanied by copies of Corp. Code § 16701 (buyout provisions) and a brief description of the procedure to be followed under that section if the partner wishes to dissociate from the partnership. A partner that wants to dissociate must send written notice of dissociation within 30 days after the date of the notice of the approval of the merger. The disappearing partnership must then cause the partner's interest in the entity to be purchased [Corp. Code § 16914(e)].

The surviving entity is bound under Corp. Code § 16702 by an act of a dissociated general partner, and the partner is liable under Corp. Code § 16703 for transactions entered into by the surviving entity after the merger takes effect [Corp. Code § 16914(e)]. To limit the scope of this liability, the partnership and/or the dissociating partner will want to file a statement of dissociation that has the effect of placing third persons on notice of the dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16704]. The dissociation of a partner in connection with a merger pursuant to these rules does not constitute a wrongful dissociation [Corp. Code § 16914(e); see Corp. Code § 16602]. For a detailed discussion of dissociation, including the buyout of dissociated partners and the liabilities of the partnership on dissociation, see the Legal Background to Part B of this chapter.

PART C. Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.604

§ 15.604 Tax Consequences of Conversion or Merger

[1] Conversions to Limited Partnerships and Limited Liability Companies

The tax consequences of conversion of a general partnership either to limited partnership or limited liability company taxed as a partnership are the same, according to IRS rulings [Rev. Rul. 84-52, 1984-1 C.B. 157 (conversion to limited partnership); Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130 (conversion to limited liability company)]. Thus, the tax consequences of a conversion are as follows:

- Partners do not recognize gain or loss on the conversion;
- The partnership is not terminated for tax purposes unless its business will not continue after the conversion;
- The adjusted basis of any partner's interest in the partnership is not changed if the partners' shares of partnership liabilities do not change;
- If the partners' shares of partnership liabilities change causing a deemed contribution of money to the partnership, the adjusted basis of the partner's interest is increased by the amount of the deemed contribution;
- If the partners' shares of partnership liabilities change causing a deemed distribution of money to a partner, then the basis of such a partner's interest will be reduced (but not below zero) by the amount of the deemed distribution, and gain must be recognized by the partner if the deemed distribution exceeds the partner's adjusted basis; and
- The partners' holding period for the partnership interest is not changed.

Additionally, the conversion does not cause the taxable year of the partnership to close with respect to all the partners or with respect to any partner. Furthermore, because the conversion does not cause a termination, the new limited partnership or limited liability company does not need to obtain a new taxpayer identification number [Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130].

The IRS ruling on conversions to limited liability companies does not apply to any conversion to a limited liability company classified as a corporation [Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130].

California generally follows the federal tax law in the area of taxation of partnerships [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

[2] Mergers With Other General or Limited Partnerships

When two or more partnerships merge or consolidate into one partnership, the IRS deems the resulting partnership to be a continuation of the merging or consolidating partnership whose partners own an interest of more than 50 percent in the capital and profits of the resulting partnership [I.R.C. § 708(b)(2)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(c)(1)]. If the resulting partnership can be considered a continuation of more than one of the merging or consolidating partnerships, the partnership will be considered the continuation of solely that partnership that is credited with the contribution of assets having the greatest fair market value (net of liabilities) to the resulting partnership unless the Commissioner permits otherwise [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(c)(1)]. The other merging partnerships are terminated [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(c)(1)]. If none of the partners of the merging partnerships hold an interest of more than 50 percent, then all the merging partnerships are considered terminated and the resulting partnership is a new partnership [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(c)(1)]. The IRS has ruled that the merger provisions of I.R.C. § 708(b)(2)(A) take precedence over the 50 percent termination rules of I.R.C. § 708(b)(1)(B) [Ltr. Rul. 8619015 (Feb. 5, 1986)].

Termination of the merging partnerships does not have tax consequences to the partners because the partnerships that terminate are treated as having contributed all of their respective assets and liabilities to the resulting partnership in exchange for a partnership interest. That partnership interest is then treated as having been transferred to the partners in liquidation of their partnership interests with their basis determined under I.R.C. § 732(b) [Rev. Rul. 68-289, 1968-1 C.B. 314]. Because there is no deemed distribution of cash, there is no recognition of gain to the partners [see I.R.C. § 731]. There is no termination of the continuing partnership under the rule requiring a termination when more than 50 percent of the partnership interests are sold or exchanged within a twelve month period even though more than 50 percent is distributed by the terminating partnerships [Rev. Rul. 90-17, 1990-1 C.B. 119].

This treatment for mergers differs from the treatment when there is a termination because of the sale or exchange of more than 50 percent of the total capital and profits interest of a partnership within a 12 month period [see I.R.C. § 708(b)(1)(B)]. In this situation, there is a deemed distribution of partnership properties to the partners based on their respective partnership interests, and a contribution by the continuing partners of those properties to the new partnership [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(b)(4)]. This can result in the recognition of gain or recapture of tax credits to partners depending on the cash position and partnership property held by the partnership.

[3] Mergers With Limited Liability Companies

The IRS has not ruled on the tax consequences of mergers of partnerships and limited liability companies as it has on the conversion of a partnership to a limited liability company [Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130]. Although it is likely that such mergers will be treated similar to partnership mergers, until there is a ruling practitioners should consider requesting a private letter ruling to assure that there are no unintended income tax consequences of the merger.

[4] Property Taxation

Increased property taxes on partnership or limited liability company property can be a side effect of mergers and even of conversions if enough partners choose not to become members of the new business entity. Ordinarily, the transfer or purchase of interests in partnerships and limited liability companies is not a transfer of real property that will subject the property to reassessment [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(a)]. But when there is a more than 50-percent change in ownership in a partnership or limited liability company, there is a transfer of the entity's real property that causes reassessment and potentially increased property taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(c)]. The purchase of minority partnership interests by a majority partner is exempted from this reassessment [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(c)(2)]. Thus, practitioners must determine the change in ownership of partnership and limited liability interests in mergers and conversion to accurately predict whether there will be a deemed change of ownership of the entity's real estate causing a reassessment and potential property tax increases.

§ 15.720 Facts

NOTE:

This transaction guide does not attempt to enumerate the steps necessary to form the entities into which a partnership can convert or with which it can merge. If the converted or surviving entity is a limited partnership or a limited liability company, the chapters containing the appropriate procedures and forms should be consulted [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , and Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships]. If a general partnership is the survivor in a merger, then the procedures and forms in Part A of this chapter should be reviewed.

[1] Information Relating to Partnership

1. Reasons why partnership proposes to convert into or merge with another entity.

NOTE:

The business objectives driving a decision to convert or merge will often include the need to limit the partners' liability, although other considerations, such as synergy or the need to meet competition more effectively, may also play a role. It should be noted that if the partnership is a law, architecture, or accounting partnership seeking limited liability, it may convert only to a registered limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 16101(7), (8), (14); see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships], or form a professional corporation [see Ch. 12C, Professional Corporations].

2. Type and general characteristics of business.

NOTE:

The choice of the converted or surviving entity may be limited by the nature of the partnership's business. For example, real estate, high technology, venture capital, oil and gas, and theatrical investments are enterprises regarded as well-suited to the limited liability company structure. On the other hand, limited liability companies currently cannot engage in professional practices, banking, insurance, or trust company business [Corp. Code §§ 17002(a), 17375; see Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3; but see Corp. Code § 17002(b) (subsidiary LLC may operate as licensed health care service plan)].

3. Names and addresses of all partners.

4. Partnership mailing address and principal place of business.

5. Tax identification number of partnership.

6. Name and address of registered agent for service of process of every corporate partner.

7. Desired effective date of proposed conversion or merger.

NOTE:

For the effective date of conversion to a domestic limited partnership or limited liability company, see § 15.602[5]. For the effective date of conversion to a foreign other business entity, see § 15.602[6]. For the effective date of a merger, see § 15.603[4].

8. Each partner's distributive share of net partnership profits and losses.

9. Any provisions in existing partnership agreement regarding required approval for conversion or merger or to amend agreement.

NOTE:

For approvals required for a conversion, see § 15.602[3][b]. For approvals required for a merger, see § 15.603[2].

10. Complete information concerning any pending litigation to which partnership is a party, including names of counsel.

11. Names of partners who are likely to dissent from conversion or merger.

NOTE:

Partners who do not approve a conversion and partners of a disappearing partnership who do not approve a merger may dissociate from the partnership and the partnership will be required to buy them out, either in accordance with an existing buyout agreement or pursuant to the buyout provisions of UPA '94 [see Corp. Code §§ 16909(e), 16914(e); see also the discussion in § 15.303[2]].

12. Whether partners are aware of potential costs of conversion or merger.

a. Attorneys, accountants, and appraisers fees.

b. Property taxation of changes in ownership.

NOTE:

For a discussion of the property tax consequences of conversion or merger, see § 15.604.

c. Franchise taxes and fees.

NOTE:

For example, a limited liability company must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941], and must pay an additional fee based on total income over $250,000 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(b)(1), 24172 ("total income" defined)]. Filing fees include fees for filing articles and a statement of information [see Gov. Code § 12190(b), (k)].

d. Potential income tax consequences.

NOTE:

There are no adverse income tax implications in a conversion to a limited partnership or limited liability company [Rev. Rul. 84-52, 1984-1 C.B. 157 ; see Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130]. With respect to mergers, however, especially in mergers involving limited liability companies, the income tax consequences are less certain. See § 15.604 for further discussion of these issues.

[2] Facts Relating to Converted or Surviving Entity

1. Does law of jurisdiction of entity to be created by conversion expressly permit entity to be formed by conversion [see Corp. Code § 16902(b)]?

2. Are entities with which partnership will merge authorized by law to do so [see Corp. Code § 16910(b)]?

3. Extent to which existing partnership agreement will be blueprint for governance of converted or surviving entity.

4. Name of converted or surviving entity.

5. Length of time converted or surviving entity is to continue, either:

a. Specified period, or

b. Until dissolved by agreement, or

c. Until specified undertaking is completed, or

d. Until dissolved by some specific act or event.

6. How partnership interests are to be exchanged for interests in converted or surviving entity.

NOTE:

Conversion into a domestic or foreign limited partnership or limited liability company may be effected only if each of the partners of the converting partnership will receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted other business entity equal to the partner's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting partnership as of the effective time of the conversion [Corp. Code § 16902(a)(1)

]. Conversion into any other business entity or foreign other business entity may be effected only if each of the partnership interests of the same class is treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted other business entity unless all partners of the same class consent [Corp. Code § 16902(a)(2)].

§ 15.730 Approval of Conversion or Merger

1. Can conversion or merger be approved by vote specified in partnership agreement?

NOTE:
Absent a specific provision for approval of a conversion or merger, the vote needed to approve an amendment to the partnership agreement will suffice to approve the conversion or merger. If the agreement is silent as to conversions, mergers and amendments, then all the partners must approve a conversion or merger [Corp. Code §§ 16903(b), 16911(a)].

2. Will proposed conversion or merger effect change requiring greater approval than is needed to amend agreement?

NOTE:
For example, if the number or percentage of partners required to ratify a self-dealing transaction is greater than that required to amend the partnership agreement, that higher number or percentage will have to approve the conversion or merger if the ratification approval requirements are changed (presumably by making them lower or eliminating them altogether) by the charter documents of the converted or surviving entity [see Corp. Code §§ 16903(b), 16911(a)].

3. How will purchase of dissenting interests be funded?

a. Sale to remaining partners.

b. Liquidation of interest by partnership.

NOTE:

Absent provisions in the agreement to the contrary, UPA '94 provisions for the buyout of a dissociated partner's interest will apply [see Corp. Code § 16701; see also § 15.303[2]].

§ 15.731 Operation of Converted or Surviving Entity

NOTE:

Many of the following organizational issues may be mooted in a partnership conversion if the converted entity will be operated in much the same way as the predecessor partnership. This is also true in a merger when the partners in a disappearing partnership become subject to the existing agreement of the surviving entity. If conversion or merger requires the drafting of entirely new articles of partnership or an entirely new organizational agreement, the following items are important and should be considered in conjunction with the determinations relevant to the formation of the converted or surviving entity; i.e., a general or limited partnership or a limited liability company [see Part A of this chapter; Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies; Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships].

1. Special duties, if any, each general partner or member will perform in converted or surviving entity.

2. Designation of general partners or manager(s) of converted or surviving entity.

3. Vote to be required for administrative and/or business matters.

4. Grounds for expulsion of general partners or members of converted or surviving entity.

5. Terms for admission of new general partners or members.

6. Weight accorded each general partner's or member's vote.

7. Amount of time each general partner or member must devote to converted or surviving entity.

8. Restrictions, if any, to be placed on general partners' or members' outside business activities.

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.740

§ 15.740 Conversion

1. Draft plan of conversion containing [Corp. Code § 16903(a) see § 15.800[2] (form)]:

a. Terms and conditions of conversion.

b. Place of organization of converted entity and of converting partnership.

c. Name of converted entity after conversion, if different from that of converting partnership.

d. Manner of converting partnership interests of each partner into shares of, securities of, or interests in converted entity.

NOTE:
A general partnership may be converted into a domestic other business entity or a foreign other business entity [see Corp. Code § 16902(a)]. Conversion into a domestic or foreign limited partnership or limited liability company may be effected only if each of the partners of the converting partnership will receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted other business entity equal to the partner's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting partnership as of the effective time of the conversion [Corp. Code § 16902(a)(1)]. Conversion into any other business entity or foreign other business entity may be effected only if each of the partnership interests of the same class is treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted other business entity unless all partners of the same class consent [Corp. Code § 16902(a)(2)].

e. Provisions of governing documents for converted entity, such as limited partnership agreement including limited partnership agreement, limited liability company articles of organization and operating agreement, or articles or certificate of incorporation if converted entity is a corporation, to which holders of interest in converted entity will be bound.

NOTE:

Including provisions of the converted entity's governing document is normally accomplished by attaching it and incorporating it by reference.

f. Any other details or provisions required by laws under which converted entity is organized.

g. Any other details or provisions that are desired.

h. Effective date of conversion.

NOTE:

If a partnership is converting into a domestic other business entity, conversion is effective on the date when all of the following have occurred: (1) the approval of the conversion plan; (2) the filing of all documents required by law to create the converted entity, including, if required, a statement of conversion; and (3) the effective date set forth in the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 16904(a)].

If the partnership is converting to a foreign other business entity, conversion is effective according to the law of the foreign jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 16902(b)].

2. Submit plan of conversion for approval of partners.

NOTE:

Absent a specific provision for approval of a conversion, the vote needed to approve an amendment to the partnership agreement will suffice to approve a conversion. However, if the conversion effects a change for which the partnership agreement requires a greater number or percentage of partners than is required to amend the agreement, the plan of conversion must be approved by that greater number or percentage [Corp. Code § 16903(b)]. If the agreement is silent as to conversions and amendments, then all the partners must approve a conversion [Corp. Code §§ 16903(b), 16911(a)]. In addition to the foregoing approvals, if the partnership is converting into a limited partnership, then the plan of conversion must be approved by all partners who will become general partners of the converted limited partnership pursuant to the plan of conversion [Corp. Code § 16903(c)].

3. Submit any amendments of plan of conversion to partners for approval by same vote as required for adoption of original plan [Corp. Code § 16903(e)].

4. If partners decide to abandon conversion, arrange for vote to abandon by same vote required to approve original plan [Corp. Code § 16903(f)].

NOTE:

The plan can be abandoned at any time before the conversion is effective, but abandonment cannot prejudice the rights of third parties [Corp. Code § 16903(f)].

5. File one of following, as appropriate [Corp. Code § 16906(a)]:

NOTE:

Converting partnerships that have filed a statement of partnership authority that is effective at the time of conversion must file the certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation containing a statement of conversion on conversion to a domestic limited partnership, limited liability company, or corporation [Corp. Code § 16906(a); see Corp. Code § 16303; see also § 15.15[3]]. If the converting partnership has no effective statement of partnership authority on file, the converted domestic entity may file the statement on its certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation [Corp. Code § 16906(a)]. These optional filings are recommended. Once a certificate of limited partnership or articles of organization containing a statement of conversion, or a certificate of conversion is filed, the document has the effect of canceling any statement of partnership authority on file [Corp. Code § 16906(c)]. The applicable filing fee is set forth in Corp. Code § 16113(b).

a. LP-1A, Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion [see § 16B.411] for general partnership that is converting into California limited partnership [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

NOTE:

The form mentioned above contains the statement of conversion language prescribed by statute [see Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

b. Form LLC-1A, Limited Liability Company Articles of Organization--Conversion [see § 12C.200A] for general partnership that is converting into California limited liability company [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

NOTE:

The form mentioned above contains the statement of conversion language prescribed by statute [see Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

c. Certificate of conversion (Form CONV-1A) [see § 15.802] for general partnership that is converting to foreign other business entity [Corp. Code § 16906(b)].

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 16906(b) provides that a California general partnership that is converting into a foreign other business entity--that is, a limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, business trust, real estate investment trust, or unincorporated association other than a nonprofit association, but excluding a general partnership [see Corp. Code § 16901(6), (12)]--that has filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 [see § 15.285] that is effective at the time of conversion may file a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16906(b)]. Note that Corp. Code § 16906(b) uses the word "may," which would appear to mean that the filing of a certificate of conversion is optional in all cases involving conversion to a foreign entity. In contrast, the official instructions to the Secretary of State's form [see § 15.802] state that this form "shall" be filed with the Secretary of State, which would indicate that the Secretary of State's office regards such a filing as mandatory.

Although the statute does not mandate that the official form be used for filing a certificate of conversion [Corp. Code § 16906(b); cf. Corp. Code § 16906(a), which does require that the official forms be used for statements of conversion], there is no reason to draft a non-standard form, nor is there any guarantee that such a form would be readily accepted by the Secretary of State's office in lieu of the official form.

d. For California general partnership that is converting into domestic corporation, prepare and file articles of incorporation as follows:

NOTE:

For an illustration of the Secretary of State's sample set of articles of incorporation for a California general partnership that is converting into a California stock corporation, see § 15.803. The sample form includes suggested language for the required statement of conversion, containing the information specified below. For sample articles applicable to foreign limited partnerships that convert to California corporations, see § 15.804.

(1) Include in articles of incorporation for converted entity a statement of conversion containing following information [Corp. Code §§ 1157(e), 16906(a), (b)]:

(a) Name, form, and jurisdiction of organization of converting entity [Corp. Code §§ 1157(e), 16906(b)(1)].

(b) Secretary of State's file number, if any, of converting partnership [Corp. Code §§ 1157(e), 16906(b)(1)].

(c) Statement that principal terms of plan of conversion were approved by vote of partners that equaled or exceeded vote required under Corp. Code § 16303 [Corp. Code § 16906(b)(2)].

(g) If converting entity is a foreign general partnership, all of following [Corp. Code § 1157(e)]:

(i) Statement that converting entity is authorized to effect conversion by laws under which it is organized.

(ii) Statement that converting entity has approved plan of conversion or other instrument that is required to be approved to effect conversion under laws under which converting entity is organized.

(iii) Statement that conversion has been approved by number or percentage of partners, members, shareholders, or other holders of interest of converting entity that is required by laws under which that entity is organized, or a greater or lesser percentage that may be set forth in converting entity's partnership agreement, articles of organization, operating agreement, articles of incorporation, or other governing document in accordance with applicable laws.

(2) File articles of incorporation with Secretary of State as follows [see § 15.803[2] (official filing instructions)]:

(a) Include original and at least two copies with submission.

NOTE:

The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the filed document without charge, provided that the copies are submitted to the Secretary of State with the document to be filed. Any additional copies submitted will be certified on request and payment of an additional per-copy certification fee.

(b) Include appropriate filing fee.

(c) Include both of following in submission to facilitate return of documents [see Conversion of a California General Partnership Into a California Stock Corporation, Instructions, in § 15.803[2]]:

(i) Self-addressed envelope.

(ii) Letter referencing corporate name and sender's name, return address, and telephone number.

(d) Mail or hand deliver filing packet to Sacramento office of Secretary of State.

NOTE:

These documents must be mailed or hand delivered for over-the-counter processing to the Sacramento office. They cannot be processed using the preclearance, expedited, wait for, or rush letter service, and cannot be filed in the regional offices [see Conversion of a California General Partnership Into a California Stock Corporation, Instructions, in § 15.803[2]].

6. Record certified original or copy of certified certificate of conversion or certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation containing statement of conversion in each county in which converted entity owns real property [Corp. Code § 16907(a); see discussion of effect of recording in § 15.602[7]].

NOTE:

The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [Gov. Code § 27361]; a separate fee for certifying the copy applies as well [see Gov. Code § 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)]. A recorded statement that is not a copy certified by the Secretary of State will not have the effect given to such statements by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16105(b)].

7. Within 10 days of approval of conversion, notify by certified mail all partners not voting in favor of conversion of their right to dissociate and be bought out [see § 15.821[2] (form for notice)], and include [Corp. Code § 16909(e)]:

a. Copy of Corp. Code § 16701 (statutory buyout provisions).

b. Brief description of procedure to be followed under that section if partner wishes to dissociate from partnership.

NOTE:

A partner that wants to dissociate must send written notice of dissociation within 30 days after the date of the notice of the approval of the conversion. The converting partnership must then cause the partner's interest to be purchased [Corp. Code § 16909(e)]. For a discussion of the buyout procedure, refer to § 15.303[2].

8. As to any dissociating partner, file statement of dissociation in the office of the Secretary of State, and record a certified copy in each county in which partnership owns property [see § 15.560[2] (form)].

NOTE:

The converting partnership is bound under Corp. Code § 16702 by an act of a dissociated general partner, and the partner is liable under Corp. Code § 16703 for transactions entered into by the converted entity after the conversion takes effect [Corp. Code § 16909(e)]. For the effect that filing a statement of dissociation has on third parties, see the discussion in § 15.306[2].

The filing fee is $30 [Corp. Code § 16113(b)]. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [Gov. Code § 27361]; a separate fee for certifying the copy applies as well [see Gov. Code § 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)]. A recorded statement that is not a copy certified by the Secretary of State will not have the effect given to such statements by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16105(b)].

9. Notify all creditors of partnership of effective date of conversion and of dissociation of any partner.

NOTE:

For a discussion of the rights and liabilities of partners and the converting partnership with respect to third parties, see § 15.602[9].

§ 15.800 Plan of Conversion

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a plan of conversion to convert a domestic partnership to a domestic limited liability company [see Corp. Code § 16903]. It may be adapted for use in converting a general partnership into other domestic business entities and foreign other business entities [see Corp. Code § 16903(a)]. The plan must be approved by the number of partners required by the partnership agreement either for a conversion or an amendment to the partnership agreement or by all the partners if there is no provision in the agreement for approval of conversion or amendment of the agreements [see Corp. Code § 16903(b)]. With the approval of the plan and other specified requirements, a domestic general partnership may be converted to a domestic or foreign other business entity [Corp. Code § 16902; see § 15.602]. Under this form, the partnership interests will be exchanged for equal interests in the converted entity. This meets one of the additional requirements for conversion, that a partner's percentage ownership interests in profits and capital of the converting partnership must be carried over to the converted entity [Corp. Code § 16902(a)].

[b] Contents

A general partnership that wants to convert to a domestic limited partnership or limited liability company, or to a foreign other business entity must approve a plan of conversion that states the following [Corp. Code § 16903(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the conversion.

- The place of the organization of the converted entity and of the converting partnership and the name of the converted entity after conversion, if different from that of the converting partnership.

- The manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the partners into securities of, shares of, or interests in the converted entity.

- The provisions of the governing documents for the converted entity, including a limited partnership agreement, limited liability company articles of organization and operating agreement, or articles or certificate of incorporation to which the holders of interest in the converted entity are to be bound.

- Any other details or provisions as are required by laws under which the converted entity is organized.

- Any other details or provisions that are desired.

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.801

§ 15.801 General Partnership Statement of Partnership--Conversion (GP-1A)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for a statement of partnership by an entity that is converting to a California general partnership from some other form of entity. It includes the mandatory statement of conversion required by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 1151 (conversion from corporation), 15911.06 (conversion from limited partnership), 17540.6 (conversion from limited liability company)]. The form is available from any office of the Secretary of State, or can be obtained on the Secretary of State's website as described below.

PRACTICE TIP

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 15.801. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

This form is a specialized form of partnership statement that is to be used when the partnership being formed is a preexisting business that is being converted from some other form of business entity, rather than a brand new entity. Newly formed partnerships file their statement of partnership using Form GP-1, which is illustrated as § 15.285. For general discussion of the effect of filing a statement of partnership authority, see § 15.285[1] and discussion in Part A of this chapter.

Entities that are converting from California general partnerships to other business entities do not file this form. Rather, they file a certificate of conversion that is appropriate for the type of business entity into which they are converting. For discussion, see § 15.802[c].

[b] Requirement for Statement of Conversion

A limited partnership, limited liability company, or corporation that is converting into a California general partnership must complete a statement conversion on the statement of partnership authority (this form). If no statement of partnership authority is filed, then the converting entity must file a separate certificate of conversion [Corp. Code §§ 1155(a)(2) (corporation), 15911.06 (limited partnership), 17540.6(a)(2) (limited liability companies); see § 15.802 (standard certificate of conversion form)].

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for a certificate of conversion, together with the accompanying official instructions. This form is filed with the Secretary of State in the following situations involving general partnership conversions:

- By a California general partnership that is converting into a foreign other business entity [see Corp. Code § 16906(b); see also [b], below]. California general partnerships that are converting into California other business entities should file a statement of conversion using the form that is appropriate for the type of business entity into which they are converting [Corp. Code § 16906(a); see [c], below].

- By a corporation, limited partnership, or limited liability company that is converting into a California general partnership if no statement of partnership authority [see § 15.801] is filed (a nonregistered general partnership) [Corp. Code §§ 1155(a)(2) (corporation), 15911.06(a)(4) (limited partnership), 17540.6(a)(2) (limited liability company)].

- By a California limited partnership or limited liability company that is converting to a foreign general partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.06(a)(2) (limited partnership), 17540.6(a)(4) (limited liability company)]. For discussion, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , and Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, respectively.43

This form is available from any office of the Secretary of State, or can be obtained on the Secretary of State's website as described below.

[b] Statutory Requirements for Certificate of Conversion--Conversion to Foreign Other Business Entity

Corp. Code § 16906(b) provides that a California general partnership that is converting into a foreign other business entity--that is, a limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, business trust, real estate investment trust, or unincorporated association other than a nonprofit association, but excluding a general partnership [see Corp. Code § 16901(6), (12)]--that has filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 [see § 15.285] that is effective at the time of conversion may file a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16906(b)]. Note that Corp. Code § 16906(b) uses the word "may," which would appear to mean that the filing of a certificate of conversion is optional in all cases involving conversion to a foreign entity. In contrast, the official instructions to the Secretary of State's form (reproduced below) state that this form "shall" be filed with the Secretary of State, which would indicate that the Secretary of State's office regards such a filing as mandatory. Whether or not the filing of a certificate of conversion is mandatory under these circumstances, there are advantages to filing such a certificate, as discussed in [d], below.

The required contents of a certificate of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 16906(b)] and incorporated into this form. While the statute does not mandate that the official form be used for filing a certificate of conversion [Corp. Code § 16906(b); cf. Corp. Code § 16906(a), which does require that the official forms be used for statements of conversion], there is no reason to draft a non-standard form, nor is there any guarantee that such a form would be readily accepted by the Secretary of State's office in lieu of the official form.

[c] Statutory Requirements for Statement of Conversion--Conversion to Domestic Entities

This form ordinarily is not appropriate for California general partnerships that are converting to other California business entities. In those cases, a statement of conversion, rather than a certificate of conversion, is filed as discussed below [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

If a converting California general partnership has filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 [see § 15.285] and that statement is effective at the time of conversion, then, on conversion to a California limited partnership, limited liability company, or corporation, the certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation must contain a statement of conversion in a form prescribed by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16906(a)]. If the converting partnership has not filed a statement of authority under Corp. Code § 16303, completion of the statement of conversion is optional [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

The contents of the statement of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 16906(a)(1), (2)] and are reflected in the forms promulgated by the Secretary of State. These forms are to be used as follows:

- A general partnership that is converting into a California limited partnership will file Form LP-1A, Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion [see § 15C.205]. This form includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion.

- A general partnership that is converting into a California limited liability company will file Form LLC-1A, Limited Liability Company Articles of Organization--Conversion [see § 12C.200A]. This form includes the appropriate Statement of Conversion.

- A general partnership that is converting into a California general corporation will include a statement of conversion in the new entity's articles of incorporation. For an illustration of the Secretary of State's sample articles of incorporation for a converting California general partnership, containing statement of conversion language, see § 15.803[2]. For an illustration of the Secretary of State's sample articles of incorporation for a foreign limited partnership, see § 15.804.

The filing of a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State has the same effect as the filing of a cancellation by the converting partnership of any statement of partnership authority that had been filed by the partnership [Corp. Code § 16906(c)].

Once the certificate of conversion has been filed, certified copies of the certificate may be recorded in the county recorder's office of counties where the partnership held real property. Recordation provides notice to third parties and also provides a title chain for the real property for title insurance purposes [see Corp. Code § 16907(a)]. Furthermore, recordation will create, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 16907(c)].

This form is a reproduction of the sample articles of incorporation for a California general partnership that is converting to a California stock corporation. This form is drafted to meet the minimum statutory requirements for articles containing a statement of conversion for a general stock corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 200, 1157(d), (e), 16901, 16901.1]. The Secretary of State's office advises that this sample may be used as a guide in preparing articles. The Secretary of State's office further advises that modifications can be made to add permissive provisions and/or to meet the specific statutory requirements for a professional or close corporation. The Secretary of State's office does not provide a standardized form due to the many possible drafting variations. For general discussion of articles of incorporation, including the statutory requirements for articles of incorporation as well as mandatory and optional provisions for corporate articles, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: An electronic version of this form is available on the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405. Bear in mind, however, that the form is illustrative only and that the Secretary of State's office does not provide a standardized form.

This sample should not be used if the converting entity is a foreign general partnership. The State's office has prepared a separate set of sample articles for foreign general partnerships that are converting to California corporations. These articles are illustrated in § 15.804.

[b] Filing Conversion Articles

Articles of incorporation containing a statement of conversion into a domestic stock corporation must be accompanied by the appropriate filing fees. These documents must be mailed or hand delivered for over-the-counter processing to the Sacramento office. They cannot be processed using the preclearance, expedite, wait for or rush letter service, and cannot be filed in the regional offices [see Conversion of a California General Partnership Into a California Stock Corporation, Instructions, in [2], below].

The original and at least two copies should be included with the submission. The Secretary of State will certify two copies of the filed document without charge, provided that the copies are submitted to the Secretary of State with the document to be filed. Any additional copies submitted will be certified on request and payment of an additional per copy certification fee.

To facilitate the processing of documents mailed to the Secretary of State, a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the corporate name as well as the sender's name, return address, and telephone number should be included with the submission [see Conversion of a California General Partnership Into a California Stock Corporation, Instructions, in [2], below].

A foreign other business entity, including a foreign general partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 171.07, 174.5, 1159(g)], may convert to a California Corporation if, and only if, the converting entity is authorized by the laws under which it is organized to effect the conversion [*Corp. 7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.810

§ 15.810 Agreement to Merge

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form illustrates an agreement of merger to be used for the merger of a domestic general partnership into a limited partnership, limited liability company, or other business entity. Under this form, the general partnership disappears after merging with the other business entity. However, alternative provisions are included if the partnership is to be the surviving entity. The form also may be modified to be used for the merger of two or more partnerships or a partnership or partnerships with one or more other business entities as permitted under UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16910(a)]. This form includes all the information required by statute, and also includes a statement that the terms and conditions of the agreement have been approved by partners and members of the merging entities [Corp. Code § 16911; see § 15.603[2][a] (approval requirements)]. For further discussion of mergers, including what entities may merge, the effect of merger, and the rights of creditors and others against the surviving entity, see § 15.603.

[b] Contents

An agreement of merger at a minimum must include the following [Corp. Code § 16911(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the merger.

- The name and place of organization of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity, and of each disappearing partnership and disappearing other business entity.

- The manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the constituent partnerships into interests or other securities of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity. If partnership interests of any of the constituent partnerships are not to be converted solely into interest or other securities of the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity, the agreement must specify the property or interests which the holders of the partnership interest will receive in exchange for the partnership interests or that the partnership interests are canceled without consideration.

- Any other details or provisions required by the laws under which any constituent other business entity is organized.

- Any other details or provisions that are desired. This may include a provision for the treatment of fractional partnership interests.

The agreement of merger must be kept by a surviving entity and disclosed to entitled parties under specified conditions [Corp. Code § 16911(f); see § 15.603[2][f]].

[c] Scope of Agreement

The scope of a merger agreement may go beyond the details of the merger to include amending an existing partnership agreement or adopting a new partnership agreement of any participating domestic partnership. Any amendment to a partnership agreement or adoption of a new partnership agreement will be effective as of the time or date the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 16911(e)].

[d] Effective Date of Merger

This form provides that the merger will be effective on the date that the certificate of merger is filed with the Secretary of State. Because the form is predicated on the merger of a domestic partnership into a domestic other business entity, a certificate of merger must be filed and usually controls the effective date [see Corp. Code §§ 16912, 16915(b); see also § 15.603[4]].

§ 15.811 Statement of Merger (GP-6)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form (Form GP-6) for a statement of merger.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:
Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 15.811. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

A statement of merger may be filed with the Secretary of State to place third parties on notice of the merger, fix its effective date, and establish record title to real property. A statement of merger also has the effect of filing a cancellation of a statement of partnership authority for each disappearing partnership [Corp. Code § 16915(a), (c); see § 15.603[3]]. Certified copies of the statement should be filed in the County Recorder's office in all counties in which a disappearing entity holds real property [see Corp. Code § 16916; see also § 15.603[8]].

A Statement of merger is used when a partnership merges only with other partnerships or when a domestic partnership merges with foreign other business entities. If a domestic partnership and a domestic other business entity are involved in the merger, then a certificate of merger, rather than a statement of merger, is required [Corp. Code § 16915(a), (b); see discussion in [b], below].

[b] Certificate of Merger--Filing Requirements

A certificate of merger must be filed in any merger involving a domestic partnership when a domestic other business entity is also a party. This does not mean that either entity has to survive or that only domestic entities can be involved [Corp. Code § 16915(b)]. For example, the certificate must still be filed if the merger involves a foreign partnership or other business entity in addition to the domestic entities.

If the surviving entity is a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation in a merger involving a domestic corporation, the surviving corporation must also file a copy of the agreement of merger and the requisite attachments [Corp. Code § 16915(b); see Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1)]. For further discussion of mergers involving corporations, see Ch. 11, Mergers and Acquisitions .

The certificate of merger is filed in the office of the Secretary of State by the constituent partnerships and other business entities after approval of the merger by the constituent parties. It must be executed and acknowledged by each domestic constituent partnership by two partners (unless a lesser number is provided in the partnership agreement), by each foreign constituent partnership by one or more partners, and by each constituent other business entity by those persons required to execute the certificate of merger by the laws under which the constituent other business entity is organized [Corp. Code § 16915(b)]:

For further discussion of a certificate of merger, including its effect, see § 15.603[3][c], [d]. Form GP-6, which formerly was used for both statements of merger and certificates of merger, is no longer used for a certificate of merger. Instead, Secretary of State Form OBE MERGER-1 is used when a certificate of merger is needed. For an illustration of the latter form, official instructions and comments, and discussion, see Ch. 15C, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships, § 15C.201.

The certificate of merger must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 16915(b)]:

- The names and the Secretary of State's file numbers, if any, of each of the constituent partnerships and constituent other business entities, separately identifying the disappearing partnerships and disappearing other business entities and the surviving partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If a vote of the partners was required, a statement that the principal terms of the agreement of merger were approved by a vote of the partners, which equaled or exceeded the vote required.

- If the surviving entity is a domestic partnership and not an other business entity, any change to the information set forth in any filed statement of partnership authority of the surviving partnership resulting from the merger, including any change in the name of the surviving partnership resulting from the merger. The filing of a certificate of merger setting forth any changes to any filedstatement of partnership authority of the surviving partnership has the effect of the filing of a certificate of amendment of the statement of partnership authority by the surviving partnership, and no other amendment need be filed [see Corp. Code § 16105(d) (amending statements of authority); see also § 15.287[2] (statement of amendment or cancellation)].

- The future effective date or time (which must be a date or time certain not more than 90 days subsequent to the date of filing) of the merger, if the merger is not to be effective upon the filing of the certificate of merger with the office of the Secretary of State.

- If the surviving entity is an other business entity or a foreign partnership, the full name, type of entity, legal jurisdiction in which the entity was organized and by whose laws its internal affairs are governed, and the address of the principal place of business of the entity.

- Any other information required to be stated in the certificate of merger by the laws under which each constituent other business entity is organized.

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.820

§ 15.820 Notice of Approval to Dissenting Partners

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to satisfy the requirement that notice of approval of a conversion or merger be given to partners who do not vote in favor of the conversion or merger. Within 10 days after the approval of the conversion or merger, the partnership must send notice of the approval to each partner that did not approve the conversion or merger. The notice must include a copy of Corp. Code § 16701 and a brief description of the procedure to be followed under that section if a partner wishes to dissociate [Corp. Code §§ 16909(e), 16914(e)]. If the partnership agreement adequately provides for the buyout of dissociating partners in all situations including conversion and merger, it will likely provide for notice to dissenting partners. If so, this form, modified to refer to the provisions of the partnership agreement under which the dissociating partner will be bought out, can be used [see Corp. Code § 16103].

[b] Statutory Buyout Procedure

After receiving the notice of approval, a dissenting partner has 30 days to notify the partnership of his, her or its decision to dissociate and demand payment [see § 15.821]. The partner has the right to dissociate as of the effective date of the merger or conversion. If the partner exercises that right, then absent a partnership agreement to the contrary, his, her or its interest will be valued and purchased in accordance with the statutory buyout procedures in Corp. Code § 16701 [Corp. Code §§ 16909(e), 16914(e)]. Those procedures require that if the parties cannot agree on a buyout price within 120 days of the date of the dissociating partner's written demand for payment [see § 15.821[2] (form)], then the partnership must pay an estimated buyout price calculated according to the statutory formula. For a transmittal letter accompanying such a payment, see § 15.513.

[2] FORM

Notice of Approval to Dissenting Partners

NOTICE TO PARTNERS OF _____ [name],
A CALIFORNIA GENERAL PARTNERSHIP, OF APPROVAL OF CONVERSION [or MERGER]

To: _____ [name of partner]
_____ [address of partner]_____

This is to give notice that the partnership interests of _____[name], a California general partnership, have approved by the requisite vote or consent the principal terms of a [either: plan of conversion or merger agreement] as permitted under California Corporations Code Section 16902 [or 16910]. Under the [either: plan of conversion or merger agreement] _____[name] will be converted [or merged] into _____[name of converted or merged entity], a [specify, e.g., Limited Partnership or Limited Liability Company].

You did not vote in favor of the adoption of the [either: plan of conversion or merger agreement]. Any member of this partnership who did not vote in favor of the conversion [or merger] and who does not agree to become a [specify according to type of converted entity, e.g. member] of _____[name of converted or merged entity] may dissociate from the partnership and demand payment under the provisions of Corporations Code Section 16701.

Under California Corporations Code Section 16701, you have 30 days from the date of this notice to notify us in writing of your desire to dissociate from _____[name of partnership] and to demand payment for your partnership interest. The partnership must then cause your interest to be purchased at a price determined by the amount that would have been payable to you if, on the date of [conversion or merger], the assets of the partnership were sold at a price equal to the greater of the liquidation value or the value based on the sale of the entire business as a going concern without you as a partner, and the partnership's assets were distributed on dissolution under California Corporations Code Section 16807 after the discharge of obligations.

If we have not reached agreement regarding the purchase of your interest in the partnership within 120 days of your written demand for payment, the partnership will pay you in cash for your interest, the amount of that payment being calculated according to the statutory buyout formula described in the preceding paragraph. This payment will be in full satisfaction of the partnership's obligation to purchase your interest in the partnership unless, within 120 days after you receive the payment, you commence an action to determine the buyout price of your interest.

Except as provided in Section 16701.5, all of the following shall apply:

(a) If a partner is dissociated from a partnership, the partnership shall cause the dissociated partner's interest in the partnership to be purchased for a buyout price determined pursuant to subdivision (b).

(b) The buyout price of a dissociated partner's interest is the amount that would have been distributable to the dissociating partner under subdivision (b) of Section 16807 if, on the date of dissociation, the assets of the partnership were sold at a price equal to the greater of the liquidation value or the value based on a sale of the entire business as a going concern without the dissociated partner and the partnership was wound up as of that date. Interest shall be paid from the date of dissociation to the date of payment.

(c) Damages for wrongful dissociation under subdivision (b) of Section 16602, and all other amounts owing, whether or not presently due, from the dissociated partner to the partnership, shall be offset against the buyout price. Interest shall be paid from the date the amount owed becomes due to the date of payment.

(d) A partnership shall indemnify a dissociated partner whose interest is being purchased against all partnership liabilities, whether incurred before or after the dissociation, except liabilities incurred by an act of the dissociated partner under Section 16702.

(e) If no agreement for the purchase of a dissociated partner' s interest is reached within 120 days after a written demand for payment, the partnership shall pay, or cause to be paid, in cash to the dissociated partner the amount the partnership estimates to be the buyout price and accrued interest, reduced by any offsets and accrued interest under subdivision (c).

(f) If a deferred payment is authorized under subdivision (h), the partnership may tender a written offer to pay the amount it estimates to be the buyout price and accrued interest, reduced by any offsets under subdivision (c), stating the time of payment, the amount and type of security for payment, and the other terms and conditions of the obligation.

(g) The payment or tender required by subdivision (e) or (f) shall be accompanied by all of the following:

(1) A statement of partnership assets and liabilities as of the date of dissociation.

(2) The latest available partnership balance sheet and income statement, if any.

(3) An explanation of how the estimated amount of the payment was calculated.

(h) A partner who wrongfully dissociates before the expiration of a definite term or the completion of a particular undertaking is not entitled to payment of any portion of the buyout price until the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking, unless the partner establishes to the satisfaction of the court that earlier payment will not cause undue hardship to the business of the partnership. A deferred payment shall be adequately secured and bear interest.

(i) A dissociated partner may maintain an action against the partnership, pursuant to subparagraph (B) of paragraph (2) of subdivision (b) of Section 16405, to determine the buyout price of that partner's interest, any offsets under subdivision (c), or other terms of the obligation to purchase. The action shall be commenced within 120 days after the partnership has tendered payment or an offer to pay or within one year after written demand for payment if no payment or offer to pay is tendered. The court shall determine the buyout price of the dissociated partner's interest, any offset due under subdivision (c), and accrued interest, and enter judgment for any additional payment or refund. If deferred payment is authorized under subdivision (h), the court shall also determine the security for payment and other terms of the obligation to purchase. The court may assess reasonable attorney's fees and the fees and expenses of appraisers or other experts for a party to the action, in amounts the court finds equitable, against a party that the court finds acted arbitrarily, vexatiously, or not in good faith. The finding may be based on the partnership's failure to tender payment or an offer to pay or to comply with subdivision (g).

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter discusses the nature and formation of limited partnerships under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) after its operative date, January 1, 2008. It also covers the application of the ULPA '08 to limited partnerships existing before that date ("preexisting limited partnerships"). The operation of preexisting limited partnerships under the provisions of former limited partnership acts is beyond the scope of this chapter; for coverage, see Ballantine & Sterling, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships Parts A, B. This chapter also covers the registration requirements applicable to foreign limited partnerships under the ULPA '08.

The Legal Background discusses the formation of limited partnerships; the rights, status, and obligations of limited and general partners; and changes in partnership membership. Federal income tax classification of limited partnerships is also covered. The Transaction Guide includes procedures for forming a limited partnership, and drafting guides for limited partnership agreements and other partnership documents.

The forms include a complete limited partnership agreement, the official limited partnership certificates, and forms for use by partners in granting consent to various actions. For other limited partnership agreements, see Chs. 29A, Joint Ventures , 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and Ch. 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates .

The chapter contains an overview of limited partnership interests as securities; for an extensive discussion of securities law, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . The securities law aspects of real estate syndicate interests are covered in Chapter 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and Ch. 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates .

The dissolution of limited partnerships is covered in Ch. 16A. The merger of limited partnerships with other limited partnerships, as well as with other business entities, is discussed in Chapter 16B.

The formation, operation, and dissolution of general partnerships are covered in Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships and Ch. 15, Part B, Dissolution of General Partnerships . Limited liability partnerships are discussed in Ch. 16C; limited liability companies are discussed in Ch. 12C.

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Law

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.10

§ 16.10 Operative Dates

The Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08), set forth in Corp. Code §§ 15900-15912.07, became operative on January 1, 2008 [see Corp. Code § 15912.04; Stats. 2006, ch. 495, § 20; Corp. Code § 15900].

Existing acts governing limited partnerships, i.e., the Uniform Limited Partnership Act (ULPA) [Corp. Code §§ 15501-15533] and the California Revised Limited Partnership Act (CRLPA) [Corp. Code §§ 15611-15723], became inoperative and were repealed on January 1, 2010 [see Corp. Code §§ 15534, 15724]. Before that date, the new Act governed only [see Corp. Code § 15912.06(a)]:

- Limited partnerships formed on or after January 1, 2008; and

- Limited partnerships formed before January 1, 2008, which elected to be subject to the new Act, except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15912.06(c),(d) [see §§ 16.11, 16.12].

Except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15912.06(c) [see § 16.11], on and after January 1, 2010 the new Act governs all limited partnerships [Corp. Code § 15912.06(b)].

Corp. Code § 15912.06 refers to "limited partnerships," which are domestic limited partnerships by definition [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(q)]. Because the ULPA '08 contains no comparable phase-in provisions for foreign limited partnerships, once the 2008 Act became effective, it applied immediately to all foreign limited partnerships, whether formed before or after the 2008 Act's effective date [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 724.03 (Matthew Bender)].

The ULPA '08 does not affect any action commenced, proceeding brought, or right accrued before its operative date [see Corp. Code § 15912.07].

For detailed discussion of the California partnership acts, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships (Matthew Bender). Part A of that chapter summarizes major similarities and differences between the ULPA '08 and the CRLPA, Part B discusses the provisions of the CRLPA, and Part C covers the 2008 Act.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Law

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.11

§ 16.11 Preexisting Limited Partnerships

With respect to any limited partnership formed before January 1, 2008, the following rules apply except as the partners otherwise elect in the manner provided in the partnership agreement or by law for amending the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15912.06(c)]:

- Corp. Code § 15901.04(c) (providing that the limited partnership has perpetual duration) [see § 16.20] does not apply and the limited partnership has whatever duration it had under the law applicable immediately before January 1, 2008.

- Corp. Code §§ 15906.01 and 15906.02 (dissociation of limited partner and effects of dissociation) [see § 16.33] do not apply and a limited partner has the same right and power to dissociate from the limited partnership, with the same consequences, as existed immediately before January 1, 2008.

- Corp. Code § 15906.03(d) (dissociation of general partner by expulsion) [see § 16.37[1]] does not apply.

- Corp. Code § 15906.03(e) (expulsion of general partner by judicial order) [see § 16.37[1]] does not apply and a court has the same power to expel a general partner as the court had immediately before January 1, 2008.

- Corp. Code § 15908.01(c) (nonjudicial dissolution of limited partnership after dissociation of general partner) [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships] does not apply and the connection between a person's dissociation as a general partner and the dissolution of the limited partnership is the same as existed immediately before January 1, 2008.

These provisions will not apply to pre-existing partnerships without the election by the partners, because their ongoing relationship as established in the partnership agreement might have been based on a different agreement or on different assumptions that should not be automatically changed without the consent of all partners [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 724.04].

With respect to a limited partnership formed before January 1, 2008 that elects to be subject to the ULPA '08 [see Corp. Code § 15912.06(a)(2); see also [1], above], after the election takes effect, the provisions of the ULPA '08 relating to the liability of the partnership's general partners to third parties apply [Corp. Code § 15912.06(d)]:

- Before January 1, 2010, to (1) a third party that had not done business with the limited partnership in the year before the election took effect; and (2) a third party that had done business with the limited partnership in the year before the election took effect only if the third party knows or has received a notification of the election.

- On and after January 1, 2010, to all third parties, but those provisions remain inapplicable to any obligation incurred while those provisions were inapplicable under clause (2) above.

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Law

§ 16.13 Application of Securities Laws

Under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968, it is unlawful to offer or sell securities in California unless the securities are qualified for sale by the California Commissioner of Corporations, are exempted from qualification, or are not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130; see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1 (securities not subject to qualification)]. Limited partnership interests are considered to be securities subject to that law, despite the fact that they are not specifically included within the definition of "securities" [see Corp. Code § 25019]. They may be labeled as either profit-sharing agreements or investment contracts, which are both specifically included within the definition [see Corp. Code § 25019; see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Corporate Securities Laws, Ch. 5, Problems Relating to Special Types of Issuers and Securities (Matthew Bender)], although the exact characterization is not important since the list of items set forth in Corp. Code § 25019 is illustrative rather than all-inclusive [see People v. Syde (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 765, 768, 235 P.2d 601] . Courts will look to the substance of an investment, rather than to its form, to determine whether it is a security [see Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 814, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906] .

In California, courts have generally used the "risk capital test" to determine whether an investment is a "security" within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25019. Under that test, a transaction comes within the regulatory purposes of the Corporate Securities Law if investors provide capital that will be risked in the promoter's venture or enterprise [see Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 815, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906] . A limited partnership interest is a security under that test, notwithstanding that investor participation is contemplated or required, as long as the investor is not involved in those essential managerial efforts that affect the failure or success of the enterprise [People v. Graham (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1159, 1168-1169, 210 Cal. Rptr. 318] .

For purposes of the qualification requirements of the Corporate Securities Law, a "sale" of securities includes every contract of sale, contract to sell, or disposition of a security or interest in a security for value, as well as any exchange of securities or any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities [Corp. Code § 25017(a)]. "Offer" includes every attempt or offer to dispose of, or solicitation of an offer to buy, a security or interest in a security for value [Corp. Code § 25017(b)].

There are numerous exemptions from the California qualification requirements. The limited offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(f); see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions] is generally used for limited partnership interests [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Corporate Securities Laws, Ch. 5, Problems Relating to Special Types of Issuers and Securities (Matthew Bender)]. Further, master limited partnership interests are exempt from qualification under Corp. Code § 25100(o) if they are listed, or approved for listing on notice of issuance, on a national securities exchange or on the National Market System of the NASDAQ Stock Market (or its successor) that has been certified by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25100(o)].

For a discussion of the corporate securities laws in general, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . For a discussion of the securities law aspect of real estate syndicate interests, see Ch. 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and Ch. 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates .

§ 16.14 Application of California Law

California law governs relations among the partners of a limited partnership and between the partners and the partnership. It also governs the liability of partners as partners for an obligation of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.06]. A partnership agreement may not vary the law applicable to a limited partnership under § 15901.06 [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(2); see § 15.21[4][b]].

Unless displaced by particular provisions of the ULPA '08, the principles of law and equity supplement that act [Corp. Code § 15901.06(a)]. If an obligation to pay interest arises under the ULPA '08 and the rate is not specified, the rate is that set forth in Civ. Code § 3289 [Corp. Code § 15901.07(b)].

§ 16.20 Nature of California Limited Partnerships

[1] Definition

A limited partnership (or a domestic limited partnership) (except in the phrases "foreign limited partnership" and "foreign limited liability limited partnership") is an entity with one or more general partners and one or more limited partners, which is formed under the ULPA '08 by two or more persons, or which becomes subject to the ULPA '08 pursuant to conversion [see Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq.; see also Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships] or election or operation of law [Corp. Code § 15901.02(q); see Corp. Code §§ 15911.01, 15912.06(a),(b); see also § 16.11]. With respect to a limited partnership, a "general partner" is a person to whom either of the following applies: (1) becomes a general partner under Corp. Code § 15904.01 [see § 16.36] the person or (2) the person was a general partner in a limited partnership when the limited partnership became subject to the ULPA '08 under Corp. Code § 15912.06(a) or (b) [Corp. Code § 15901.02(m); see § 16.21]. A "limited partner" is a person to whom either of the following applies: (1) the person becomes a limited partner under Corp. Code § 15903.01 [see § 16.32] or 15907.02(h) (transfer) or (2) the person was a limited partner in a limited partnership when the limited partnership became subject to the ULPA '08 under Corp. Code § 15912.06(a) or (b) [Corp. Code § 15901.02(p); see § 16.21]. A "partner" means a limited partner or a general partner [Corp. Code § 15901.02(w)]. A "person" means an individual, partnership, limited partnership, trust, estate, association, corporation, limited liability company, or other entity, whether domestic or foreign [Corp. Code § 15901.02(y)].

The most important feature of a limited partnership, particularly from the point of view of a limited partner investor, is that a limited partner is granted limited liability as long as the limited partner does not participate in control of the partnership business [see § 16.21[4][d][ii]]. The affairs of the partnership are managed by the general partners [see § 16.21[4][d][i]; the liability of general partners is discussed in § 16.34[3].

A limited partnership has certain features formerly associated only with corporations. For example, a partnership name may be reserved in advance of formation [see § 16.21[3][b]] and formation is accomplished on the filing of a certificate of limited partnership with the Secretary of State [see § 16.21[1]]. Limited partners are accorded rights to inspect partnership records and obtain financial reports similar to those available to corporate shareholders [see § 16.30[1]], voting rights, and the right to call partnership meetings [see §§ 16.24[a], 16.30[3][b]]. In addition, important litigation rights, including class and derivative actions that are similar to those of corporate shareholders, are granted to limited partners [see Corp. Code §§ 15910.01 et seq.].

The ULPA '08 states that a limited partnership is an entity distinct from its partners [Corp. Code § 15901.04(a)], which has a perpetual duration [Corp. Code § 15901.04(c)].

[2] Permissible Business of Limited Partnerships

A limited partnership may be organized for any lawful purpose. It may engage in any lawful business activity, whether or not for profit, except the banking business, the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, or the trust company business [Corp. Code § 15901.04(b)].

A limited partnership has power to do all things necessary or convenient to carry on its activities, including power to sue, be sued, and defend in its own name and to maintain an action against a partner for harm caused to the partnership by a breach of the partnership agreement or violation of a duty to the partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.05].

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Formation and Operation of Limited Partnerships

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.21

§ 16.21 Formation of Limited Partnerships

[1] Overview of Formal Requirements

A limited partnership is formed by the filing of a certificate of limited partnership in the office of the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(a), (c)], together with the payment of required filing fees [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(f); Gov. Code § 12188(b); see also [2], below]. At least one general partner and at least one limited partner are required to form a limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(q)].

Before filing the certificate of limited partnership, the partnership may select and reserve a name [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.08, 15901.09, 15902.01(a); see also [3], below]. Either before or after the filing of the certificate of limited partnership, the partners must enter into a partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)]. The partnership agreement may be written or oral [Corp. Code § 15901.02(x)], but need not be filed in the office of the Secretary of State [see [4], below].

A limited partnership that is defectively formed due to its failure to file a certificate of limited partnership may be treated as a general partnership [see American Alternative Energy v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 560-562, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686 (noncompliance with certificate requirement under CRLPA rendered entity a general partnership with capacity to sue)].

[2] Certificate of Limited Partnership

[a] Contents of Certificate

The ULPA '08 specifies certain items that must be included in the certificate of limited partnership, and accords the general partners discretion to include other information. The certificate must state the following [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)]:

- The name of the limited partnership [see [3], below];

- The address of the initial designated office [see § 16.23[2]];

- The name and address of the initial agent for service of process [see Corp. Code § 15901.16(d)(1); see also § 16.23[1]]; and

- The name and address of each general partner.

A certificate of limited partnership may also contain any other matters, but may not vary or otherwise affect the provisions specified in Corp. Code § 15901.10(b) in a manner inconsistent with that section [Corp. Code § 15902.01(b); see § 16.21[4]].

The desirability of including additional information in the certificate is unclear. If the general partners wish to keep the additional information private, the information should instead be included in the partnership agreement [see [4], below]. Further, if the limited partners want to be able to vote on an issue on which the partners have currently agreed, the issue should be included in the partnership agreement rather than the certificate; limited partners are permitted by statute to vote on amendments to the partnership agreement without being deemed to participate in the control of the business and jeopardizing their limited liability status [Corp. Code § 15903.03(b)(4); see § 16.30[3][a]].

The certificate must be filed on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State (LP-1) and be accompanied by the payment of the required filing fees [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(a),(f); Gov. Code § 12188(b); see also [b], below].

[b] Execution and Filing of Certificate

[i] Execution

An initial certificate of limited partnership must be signed by all general partners listed in the certificate [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(1)]; see § 16.210]. A partner may execute the certificate either personally or by an attorney-in-fact [Corp. Code § 15902.04]. For discussion of the execution, and filing of a certificate of limited partnership by someone other than a general partner, see [iv], below.

[ii] Filing Requirements

The general partners must file the certificate of limited partnership, on the form prescribed by the Secretary of State (LP-1), in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 15902.01(a)]. The certificate must be accompanied by the payment of the required filing fees [Gov. Code § 12188(b); see Corp. Code § 15902.01(f)]. If the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentation, the Secretary may cancel the filing of the certificate [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(f)]. After receiving notice of nonpayment, the Secretary will notify the agent for service of process (or the person submitting the certificate for filing) in writing of the application of this rule. If the amount is not then paid by cashier's check or the equivalent, the Secretary will issue a second written notice of cancellation, effective on issuance, at least 20 days after the first notice but within 90 days of the original filing [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(f); see also § 16.210[1][b]].

[iii] Filing Date

Any record authorized or required to be delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 must be completed on a form prescribed by and in a medium permitted by the Secretary of State, and be delivered to the Secretary of State. Unless the Secretary of State determines that a record does not comply with the filing requirements of the ULPA '08, and if all requisite fees have been paid, the Secretary of State must file the record [Corp. Code § 15902.06(a); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ac) ("record" means information inscribed on tangible medium or stored in electronic or other medium, and is retrievable in perceivable form)].

Except as otherwise provided [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.16 (service of process), 15902.01 (certificate of limited partnership), and 15902.07 (certificate of correction) [see § 16.22[3]], a record delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 may specify an effective time and delayed effective date [Corp. Code § 15902.06(b)]. Except as otherwise provided in ULPA '08, a record filed by the Secretary of State is effective [Corp. Code § 15902.06(b)]:

- If the record does not specify a delayed effective date, on the date the record is filed as evidenced by the Secretary of State's endorsement of the date on the record;

- If the record specifies a delayed effective date, on the earlier of the specified date or the 90th day after the record is filed.

If a delayed effective date is specified, the record may be prevented from becoming effective by a certificate stating that by appropriate action it has been revoked and is null and void. The certificate must be executed in the same manner as the original record and delivered to the Secretary of State for filing before the specified effective date [Corp. Code § 15902.06(c)].

[iv] Execution and Filing by Person Other Than General Partner

If a person required by the ULPA '08 to sign or deliver a record, e.g., a certificate of limited partnership, to the Secretary of State for filing does not do so, any other person that is aggrieved may petition the superior court to order [Corp. Code § 15902.05(a); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(af) ("sign" defined)]:

- The person to sign the record;

- The person to deliver the record to the Secretary of State for filing; or

- The Secretary of State to file the record unsigned.

If the person aggrieved as described above is not the limited partnership or foreign limited partnership to which the record pertains, the aggrieved person must make the limited partnership or foreign limited partnership a party to the action. A person aggrieved as described above may seek the remedies described above in the same action in combination or in the alternative. In any such action, if the court finds the failure of the person to comply with the requirement to sign a record or deliver a record to the Secretary of State for filing to have been without justification, the court may award an amount sufficient to reimburse the persons aggrieved bringing the action for the reasonable expenses incurred by those persons, including attorneys' fees, in connection with the action or proceeding [Corp. Code § 15902.05(b)].

A record filed unsigned pursuant to this provision is effective without being signed [Corp. Code § 15902.05(c)].

Any person, other than a general partner, delivering a record to the Secretary of State for filing must state the statutory authority for that action after the signature on the appropriate record [Corp. Code § 15902.05(d)].

Furthermore, if no certificate of limited partnership has been filed, a person that makes an investment in the enterprise and erroneously but in good faith believes that the person has become a limited partner in the enterprise may cause an appropriate certificate of limited partnership, amendment, or certificate of correction to be signed and delivered to the Secretary of State for filing [Corp. Code § 15903.06(a); see § 16.31[4]].

If the Secretary of State determines that a record delivered for filing does not conform to the law and returns it to the person delivering it, the record may be resubmitted. It must be accompanied by a written opinion of the member of the State Bar of California delivering the record or representing the person delivering it, to the effect that the specific provisions of the record objected to by the Secretary of State do conform to law and stating the points and authorities on which the opinion is based. With respect to any disputed point of law, other than the application of Corp. Code §§ 15901.08, 15901.09, 15909.02, and 15909.05 (name requirements), the Secretary of State must rely on that written opinion in determining whether the record conforms to law. When filed by the Secretary of State upon resubmission, that record is effective retroactively as of the date that the original record was delivered to the Secretary of State for filing [Corp. Code § 15902.06(d)].

[c] Recordation of Certificate

A limited partnership may record in the office of the county recorder of any county in California a certified copy of the certificate of limited partnership that has been filed in the office of the Secretary of State. The recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the partnership real property located in the county in which the certified copy has been recorded that (1) the persons named as general partners in the certificate are in fact the general partners, and (2) these persons are all of the general partners of the partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

[d] Liability for Misstatements

If any record that is delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 and filed by the Secretary contains false information, a person that suffers loss by reliance on the information may recover damages for the loss from [Corp. Code § 15902.08(a)]:

- A person that signed the record, or caused another to sign it on the person's behalf, and knew the information to be false at the time the record was signed; and

- A general partner that had notice that the information was false when the record was filed or had become false because of changed circumstances, if the general partner had notice for a reasonably sufficient time before the information is relied upon to enable the general partner to effect an amendment under Corp. Code § 15902.02 (amendments or restatements of certificates of limited partnerships), file a petition pursuant to § 15902.05 (filings pursuant to judicial order) [see [2][b][iv], above], or deliver to the Secretary of State for filing a certificate of correction pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.07.

Signing a record authorized or required to be filed under the 2008 Act constitutes an affirmation under the penalties of perjury that the facts stated in the record are true [Corp. Code § 15902.08(b)]. Liability for misstatements is discussed in further detail in § 16.31[2].

[3] Limited Partnership Name

[a] Name Requirements and Restrictions

The name of a limited partnership, as set forth in its certificate of limited partnership, must end with the words "limited partnership" or the abbreviation "L.P." or "LP" [Corp. Code § 15901.08(b)]. The name may contain the name of any partner [Corp. Code § 15901.08(a)]; the name may not include the words "bank," "insurance," "trust," "trustee," "incorporated," "inc.," "corporation," or "corp." [Corp. Code § 15901.08(g)].

Unless authorized as described in the next paragraph, the name of a limited partnership must be distinguishable in the records of the Secretary of State from: (1) the name of any limited partnership that has previously filed a certificate of limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.01 or any foreign limited partnership registered pursuant to Corp. Code § 15909.01; and (2) each name reserved under Corp. Code § 15901.09 [Corp. Code § 15901.08(d)].

A limited partnership may apply to the Secretary of State for authorization to use a name that does not comply with the above requirements. The Secretary of State will authorize use of the name applied for if, as to each conflicting name [Corp. Code § 15901.08(e)]:

- The present user, registrant, or owner of the conflicting name consents in a signed record [see Corp. Code § 15901(ac) (definition)] to the use and submits an undertaking in a form satisfactory to the Secretary of State to change the conflicting name to a name that is distinguishable in the records of the Secretary of State from the name applied for;

- The applicant delivers to the Secretary of State a certified copy of the final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction establishing the applicant's right to use in California the name applied for; or

- The applicant delivers to the Secretary of State proof satisfactory to the Secretary of State that the present user, registrant, or owner of the conflicting name (1) has merged into the applicant; (2) has been converted into the applicant; or (3) has transferred substantially all of its assets, including the conflicting name, to the applicant.

[b] Reservation of Name

A limited partnership name may be reserved in advance of formation in much the same manner as the advance reservation of corporate names [see Corp. Code § 15901.09].

The exclusive right to the use of a name that complies with the requirements described in Corp. Code § 15901.08 [see [a], above], may be reserved by [Corp. Code § 15901.09(a)]:

(1) A person intending to organize a limited partnership under the ULPA '08 and to adopt the name;

(2) A limited partnership or a foreign limited partnership authorized to transact business in California intending to adopt the name;

(3) A foreign limited partnership intending to obtain a certificate of registration to transact business in California and adopt the name;

(4) A person intending to organize a foreign limited partnership and have it obtain a certificate of registration to transact business in California and adopt the name;

(5) A foreign limited partnership formed under the name; or

(6) A foreign limited partnership formed under a name that does not include the phrases "limited partnership," the abbreviation "L.P." or "LP" or "LLP" or "LLLP" or "L.L.P." The name reserved, however, may differ from the foreign limited partnership's name only to the extent necessary to comply with name requirements [see Corp. Code § 15901.08(b), (c)].

A person may apply to reserve a name by delivering to the Secretary of State an application that states the name to be reserved and the paragraph of Corp. Code § 15901.08(a) that applies. If the Secretary of State finds that the name is available for use by the applicant, the Secretary must issue a certificate of name reservation and thereby reserve the name for the exclusive use of the applicant for 60 days [Corp. Code § 15901.09(b)]. An applicant that has reserved a name may reserve the same name for an additional 60-day period. The Secretary of State will not issue a certificate reserving the same name for two or more consecutive 60-day periods to the same applicant or for the use or benefit of the same person [Corp. Code § 15901.09(c)].

A person that has reserved a name may transfer it to another person, effective on delivery to the Secretary of State of a notice of transfer that states the reserved name, the name and address of the transferee, and the paragraph of Corp. Code § 15901.08(a) that applies to the transferee [Corp. Code § 15901.09(d)].

There are other means of protecting the partnership name, including trade or service mark protection [see Ch. 103B, Trademarks]. For coverage of name reservation and other methods of protecting the partnership name, see § 16.111. For a reproduction of the Secretary of State's official form for requesting a limited partnership name, see § 16.260.

[c] Fictitious Business Names

If the limited partnership will conduct business under a fictitious name, then the partnership must file a fictitious business name statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17902; see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930]. If the limited partnership regularly transacts business for profit under a fictitious name, it must file a fictitious business name certificate within 40 days after it commences business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17910(a)].

For any limited partnership that has filed a certificate of limited partnership with the California Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15902.01; see also §§ 16.111, 16.121], or any foreign limited partnership that has filed an application to register with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15909.02; see also § 16.51], a business name is a "fictitious business name" if it is any name other than the name of the limited partnership on file with the Secretary of State[Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900(b)(4)]. For a limited partnership that has not filed its certificate, or a foreign limited partnership that has not filed its application, a name that does not include the surname of each general partner, or a name that suggests the existence of additional owners [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900(c), 17901] is a fictitious business name [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900(b)(2)].

[4] Partnership Agreement

[a] Use of Written Agreement

A limited partnership agreement the partners' agreement, whether oral, implied, in a record, or in any combination, concerning the limited partnership. The term includes the agreement as amended [Corp. Code § 15901.02(x)].

Because the ULPA '08 contains many specific provisions that depend on the provisions of the partnership agreement, it is advisable to have a specific and detailed agreement in writing [see Corp. Code § 15901.11(5) (duty to maintain copy of agreement); see also § 16.200[1][d]]. Further, as a practical matter, federal and state tax law make a written agreement necessary [see § 16.70].

[b] Variation of ULPA '08 Provisions by Partnership Agreement

Except as otherwise described below, the partnership agreement governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership. To the extent the partnership agreement does not otherwise provide, the ULPA '08 governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.10(a)].

A partnership agreement may not [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)]:

(1) Vary a limited partnership's power under Corp. Code § 15901.05 to sue, be sued, and defend in its own name.

(2) Vary the law applicable to a limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15901.06 [see § 16.14].

(3) Vary the requirements of Corp. Code § 15902.04 (signature requirements for filed "records").

(4) Vary the information required by Corp. Code § 15901.11 (information required to be retained at limited partnership's designated office) [see § 16.23[2]] or unreasonably restrict the right to information under Corp. Code § 15903.04 (limited partners) [see § 16.30[1]] or Corp. Code § 15904.07 (general partners) [see § 16.34[4]]. However, the partnership agreement may impose reasonable restrictions on the availability and use of information obtained under those sections and may define appropriate remedies, including liquidated damages, for a breach of any reasonable restriction on use.

(5) Eliminate the duty of loyalty under Corp. Code § 15904.07 [see § 16.35[2], but the partnership agreement may: (a) identify specific types or categories of activities that do not violate the duty of loyalty, if not manifestly unreasonable; and (b) specify the number or percentage of partners which may authorize or ratify, after full disclosure to all partners of all material facts, a specific act or transaction that otherwise would violate the duty of loyalty.

(6) Unreasonably reduce the duty of care under Corp. Code § 15904.08(a) [see § 16.35[2]].

(7) Eliminate the obligation of good faith and fair dealing of limited partners under Corp. Code § 15903.05(b) [see § 16.35[2]] and of general partners under Corp. Code § 15904.08(d) [see § 16.35[2]], but the partnership agreement may prescribe the standards by which the performance of this obligation is to be measured, if the standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

(8) Vary the power of a person to dissociate as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15906.04(a) except to require that the notice under Corp. Code § 15906.03(a) be in a record [see § 16.37].

(9) Eliminate the power of a court to decree dissolution in the circumstances specified in Corp. Code § 15908.02(a) [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

(10) Vary the requirement to wind up the partnership's business as specified in Corp. Code § 15908.03 [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

(11) Unreasonably restrict the right of a partner to maintain an action as provided in Corp. Code § 15910.01 et seq.

(12) Restrict the right of a partner to approve a conversion or merger [see Ch. 16B, Conversion and Merger of Limited Partnerships].

(13) Vary the provisions of Article 11.5 (regarding dissenting limited partners' rights to dissent in a conversion or merger), except to the extent expressly permitted by those provisions [see Ch. 16B, Conversion and Merger of Limited Partnerships].

(14) Restrict rights under the ULPA '08 of a person other than a partner or a transferee.

[c] Inconsistency With Filed Certificate

Subject to Corp. Code § 15902.01(b) [see § 16,21[2][a]], if any provision of a partnership agreement is inconsistent with the filed certificate of limited partnership or with a filed certificate of dissociation, cancellation, or amendment or filed certificate of conversion or merger [Corp. Code § 15902.01(d)]:

(1) The partnership agreement prevails as to partners and transferees; and

(2) The filed certificate of limited partnership, certificate of dissociation, cancellation, or amendment or filed certificate of conversion or merger prevails as to persons, other than partners and transferees, that reasonably rely on the filed record to their detriment.

[d] Creation of Classes of Partners

[i] General Partners

A partnership agreement may provide for the creation of classes of general partners. If so, the agreement must must define the rights, powers, and duties of those classes, including the rights, powers, and duties senior to other classes of general partners [Corp. Code § 15904.09]. The agreement may provide to all or specified classes of general partners the right to vote separately, or with all or any class of the general partners, on any matter [Corp. Code § 15904.09].

[ii] Limited Partners

A partnership agreement may provide for the creation of classes of limited partners. If so, the agreement must must define the rights, powers, and duties of those classes, including the rights, powers, and duties senior to other classes of limited partners [Corp. Code § 15903.07]. The agreement may provide to all or specified classes of limited partners the right to vote separately, or with all or any class of the limited partners, on any matter [Corp. Code § 15903.07].

[e] Consent to Jurisdiction, Arbitration, and Service of Process

A partner may consent, in a written partnership agreement or other writing, to be subject to the nonexclusive jurisidiction of the courts of a specified jurisdiction, or the exclusive jurisdiction of the California courts [Corp. Code § 15901.17].

If a partner wishes to use the arbitration process, that partner may consent, in a written partnership agreement or other writing, to be nonexclusively subject to arbitration in a specified state, or to be exclusively subject to arbitration in California [Corp. Code § 15901.17].

Along with the consent to jurisdiction or arbitration, a partner may consent to be served with legal process in the manner prescribed in the written partnership agreement or other writing [Corp. Code § 15901.17].

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Formation and Operation of Limited Partnerships

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.22

§ 16.22 Amending Certificate of Limited Partnership

[1] Certificate of Amendment

[a] In General

A certificate of limited partnership [see § 16.21[2]] may be amended by filing a certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 15902.02]. Alternatively, the partnership may file a restated certificate [Corp. Code § 15902.02; see [2], below].

Because most items contained in a certificate of limited partnership are for identification purposes, some amendments (such as a change in address of a general partner) need not be the subject of agreement among the partners or governed by the partnership agreement. However, items such as a change in the name of the partnership or the designated agent for service of process may be substantive matters in the agreement itself. In this situation, the partnership agreement should be amended before the certificate is amended.

A certificate of amendment must state the following [Corp. Code § 15902.02]:

- The name of the limited partnership.
- The Secretary of State's file number of the limited partnership.
- The changes the amendment makes to the certificate as most recently amended or restated.

The amendment takes effect as of the filing of the certificate of amendment with the Secretary of State[Corp. Code § 15902.02(f); see also Corp. Code § 15902.06(c) (delayed effective date); see also [c], below].

Whenever any of the following events occurs, the general partners must promptly file a certificate of amendment promptly[Corp. Code § 15902.02; see § 16.211[2]]:

- The admission of a new general partner;

- The dissociation of a person as a general partner; or

- The appointment of a person to wind up the limited partnership's activities under Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) or (d).

A general partner that knows that any information in a filed certificate of limited partnership was false when the certificate was filed or has become false due to changed circumstances must promptly cause the certificate to be amended, or if appropriate, deliver to the Secretary of State for filing an amendment or a certificate of correction pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.07 [Corp. Code § 15902.02(c); see § 16.22[3]].

A certificate of limited partnership may be amended at any time for any other proper purpose as determined by the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.02(d)].

[c] Execution and Filing of Certificate

A certificate of amendment delivered to the Secretary of State for filing pursuant to the ULPA '08 must be signed as follows [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)]. An amendment designating as a general partner a person admitted under Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2) following the dissociation of a limited partnership's last general partner [see § 16.36] must be signed by that person admitted as a general partner [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(2)]. An amendment required by Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) following the appointment of a person to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships] must be signed by that person [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(3)]. Any other amendment must be signed by [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(4)]:

- At least one general partner listed in the certificate of limited partnership;

- Each other person designated in the amendment as a new general partner; and

- Each person that the amendment indicates has dissociated as a general partner, unless (1) the person is deceased or a guardian or general conservator has been appointed for the person and the amendment so states; or (2) the person has previously delivered a certificate of dissociation to the Secretary of State for filing.

Any person may execute the certificate either personally or by an attorney-in-fact [Corp. Code § 15902.04]. The certificate of amendment must then be filed, on the form prescribed by the Secretary of State, in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02], accompanied by the payment of the required filing fees [Gov. Code § 12188(d)].

[d] Failure to Sign or Deliver Record

If a person required by the ULPA '08 to sign or deliver a record, e.g., a certificate of amendment [see § 16.22[1]], to the Secretary of State for filing does not do so, any other person that is aggrieved may petition the superior court to order [Corp. Code § 15902.05(a)]:

- The person to sign the record;

- The person to deliver the record to the Secretary of State for filing; or

- The Secretary of State to file the record unsigned.

If the person aggrieved as described above is not the limited partnership or foreign limited partnership to which the record pertains, the aggrieved person must make the limited partnership or foreign limited partnership a party to the action. A person aggrieved as described above may seek the remedies described above in the same action in combination or in the alternative. In any such action, if the court finds the failure of the person to comply with the requirement to sign a record or deliver a record to the Secretary of State for filing to have been without justification, the court may award an amount sufficient to reimburse the persons aggrieved bringing the action for the reasonable expenses incurred by those persons, including attorneys' fees, in connection with the action or proceeding [Corp. Code § 15902.05(b)].

A record filed unsigned pursuant to this provision is effective without being signed [Corp. Code § 15902.05(c)].

Any person, other than a general partner, delivering a record to the Secretary of State for filing must state the statutory authority for that action after the signature on the appropriate record [Corp. Code § 15902.05(d)].

[2] Restated Certificate

In lieu of filing a certificate of amendment [see [1], above], the general partners may file a Restated Certificate of Limited Partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.02]. A restated certificate embodies, in a single certificate, all of the operative and effective provisions contained in the different certificates that have been filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02]. The restated certificate replaces the original certificate of limited partnership and all amendments previously filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02].

The restated certificate may include an amendment that has not been previously filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02]. However, any new amendment effected in a restated certificate is subject to the other provisions of the CRLPA that would apply if a separate certificate of amendment were filed to effect that amendment or change [Corp. Code § 15902.02; see [1], above].

A restated certificate of limited partnership must be signed by at least one general partner listed in the certificate, and to the extent the restated certificate effects a change under any other paragraph of Corp. Code § 15902.04(a), the restated certificate must be signed in a manner that satisfies the requirements of that paragraph [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(5)].

[3] Certificate of Correction

A limited partnership or foreign limited partnership may deliver to and on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State for filing a certificate of correction to correct a record previously delivered by the limited partnership or foreign limited partnership to the Secretary and filed by the Secretary, if at the time of filing the record contained false or erroneous information or was defectively signed [Corp. Code § 15902.07(a)]. A certificate of correction may not state a delayed effective date, and must (1) describe the record to be corrected, including its filing date and file number, (2) specify the incorrect information and the reason it is incorrect or the manner in which the signing was defective, and (3) correct the incorrect information or defective signature [Corp. Code § 15902.07(b)].

When filed by the Secretary of State, a certificate of correction is effective retroactively as of the effective date of the record the certificate corrects, except that the certificate is effective when filed (1) for the purposes of Corp. Code § 15901.03(c) and (d) (notice) and (2) as to persons relying on the uncorrected record and adversely affected by the correction [Corp. Code § 15902.07(d)].

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Formation and Operation of Limited Partnerships

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.23

§ 16.23 Operating Requirements

[1] Office and Agent for Service of Process

[a] Office

A limited partnership must continuously maintain an office in California (which need not be a place of its activity in the state), where specified partnership records are kept [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.14(a)(1), 15901.11; see also [2], below]. This office is its "designated office" [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(e).

[b] Agent for Service of Process

In addition, each limited partnership must continuously maintain a California agent for service of process on the partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.14(a)(2) (domestic limited partnerships), 15901.14(b) (foreign limited partnerships)]. The agent for service of process must be an individual who is a California resident, or a corporation that has complied with Corp. Code § 1505 (certificate requirement) and whose capacity to act as an agent has not terminated [Corp. Code § 15901.14(c)]. The certificate of limited partnership must state (1) the name and address of the agent if the agent is an individual or (2) the name of the agent if the agent is a corporation [Corp. Code §§ 15902.01(a)(3), 15901.16(d)(1); see § 16.21[2][a]].

Whenever the address of an individual agent for service of process is changed, or a new agent is designated, the partnership must file a certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 15902.02(b), (c); see § 16.22]. Similarly, the partnership must file a certificate of amendment if (1) an individual agent dies, resigns, or no longer resides in California or (2) a corporate agent resigns, dissolves, or withdraws from California, forfeits its right to transact intrastate business, has its rights, powers, and privileges suspended, or ceases to exist [Corp. Code § 15901.16; see § 16.22].

An agent designated for service of process may resign by filing a signed and acknowledged statement of resignation with the Secretary of State. The filing terminates the authority of the agent, and the Secretary of State will give written notice of the filing by mail to the partnership at its designated office [Corp. Code § 15901.16].

[c] Substituted Service on Secretary of State

Whenever an agent for service of process has resigned and not been replaced, or if the designated agent cannot be found with reasonable diligence at the address designated for personal delivery of process, and it is shown by affidavit to the court's satisfaction that process against a limited partnership cannot be served on the designated agent (or, if a foreign limited partnership, upon any general partner by hand as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30(a)) with reasonable diligence, the court will order service on the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15901.16]. However, because Chapter 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure permits service on the general partner or general manager in lieu of service on the designated agent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50 (procedure)], the exercise of reasonable diligence probably requires an attempt to serve a general partner or general manager before applying to the court for an order designating the Secretary of State for service of process.

Service is made by hand delivering one copy of the process for each defendant to be served, a copy of the court order authorizing service on the Secretary of State, and the prescribed fee [see Gov. Code § 12197] to the Secretary of State or to any assistant or deputy Secretary of State. Service is deemed complete on the tenth day after delivery of process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15901.16]. The Secretary of State will then give notice to the limited partnership by forwarding a copy of the process to the principal office by registered mail, return receipt requested [Corp. Code § 15901.16]. The Secretary of State keeps a record of all process served in this manner, and records the time of service and any action taken. A certificate under official seal certifying the Secretary of State's receipt of process and notice to the limited partnership constitutes prima facie evidence of the matters stated in the certificate [Corp. Code § 15901.16].

A limited partnership must keep the following records at its designated office [Corp. Code § 15901.11]:

- A current list of the full name and last known street and mailing address of each partner, in alphabetical order, separately identifying the general partners and the limited partners.

- A copy of the initial certificate of limited partnership, and all amendments to and restatement of the certificate, together with executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which any certificate has been executed.

- A copy of any filed certificate of conversion or merger.

- Copies of the limited partnership's federal, state, and local income tax returns and reports for the six most recent taxable years.

- Copies of any limited partnership's partnership agreement made in a record and any amendments to the agreement.

- Financial statements of the limited partnership for the six most recent years.

- A copy of any record made by the limited partnership during the past three years of any consent given by or vote taken of any partner pursuant to the ULPA '08 or the partnership agreement.

- Unless contained in a partnership agreement made in a record, a record stating (a) the amount of cash, and a description and statement of the agreed value of the other benefits, contributed and agreed to be contributed by each partner; (b) the times at which, or events on the happening of which, any additional contributions agreed to be made by each partner are to be made; (c) for any person that is both a general partner and a limited partner, a specification of what transferable interest the person owns in each capacity; and (d) any events upon the happening of which the limited partnership is to be dissolved and its activities wound up.

§ 16.24 Partnership Meetings

Unlike prior law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15637 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010)], the ULPA '08 does not contain default provisions regarding partnership meetings. Therefore, the partnership agreement should set forth any desired provisions governing this topic [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 732.01[2] (Matthew Bender)]. The ULPA '08 does provide that each general partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the limited partnership's activities [Corp. Code § 15904.06(a)]. It also provides that action requiring the consent of partners may be taken without a meeting, and a partner may appoint a proxy to consent or otherwise act for the partner by signing an appointment record, either personally or by the partner's attorney in fact [Corp. Code § 15901.15; see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ab) ("proxy" defined)]. Whenever the ULPA '08 or a partnership agreement provides for a limited partner to give or withhold consent to a matter, the limited partnership must provide the limited partner without demand before that consent is given or withheld, with all information material to the limited partner's decision that the limited partnership knows [Corp. Code § 15903.04(j)].

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.30

§ 16.30 Rights and Duties of Limited Partners

[1] Access to Partnership Records

[a] Information Required to Be Maintained By Partnership

A limited partner may, on 10 days' demand pursuant to a record received by the limited partnership, inspect and copy any information required to be maintained pursuant to Corp. Code § 15901.11 [see § 16.23[2]] during regular business hours in the partnership's designated office. The limited partner need not have any particular purpose for seeking this information [Corp. Code § 15903.04(a)].

[b] Information Regarding Activities and Financial Condition

Subject to a partnership's right to keep certain information confidential [see [c], below], a limited partner may, during regular business hours and at a reasonable location specified by the partnership, obtain from the partnership and inspect and copy true and full information regarding the state of the activities and financial condition of the partnership and other information regarding its activities that is just and reasonable if [Corp. Code § 15903.04(b); see also Corp. Code § 15903.04(d) (rights of dissociated limited partner)]:

- The limited partner seeks the information for a purpose reasonably related to the partner's interest as a limited partner;

- The limited partner makes a demand in a record received by the partnership, describing with reasonable particularity the information sought and the purpose for seeking the information; and

- The information sought is directly connected to the limited partner's purpose.

This information may be transmitted to the limited partner via electronic transmission [Corp. Code § 15903.04(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(h) (definition)].

Within 10 days after receiving a demand, the partnership in a record must inform the limited partner that made the demand [Corp. Code § 15903.04(c)]:

- What information the limited partnership will provide in response to the demand;
- When and where the limited partnership will provide the information; and
- If the partnership declines to provide any demanded information, the partnership's reasons for declining.

[c] Confidential Information

The partnership has the right to keep confidential from limited partners for any period of time that the partnership deems reasonable, any information which it reasonably believes to be in the nature of trade secrets or other information the disclosure of which the partnership in good faith believes is not in its best interest or could damage it or its business or which it is required by law or by agreement with a third party to keep confidential [Corp. Code § 15903.04(g)].

[d] Restrictions on Use of Information

The partnership may impose reasonable restrictions on the use of information obtained. In a dispute concerning the reasonableness of such a restriction, the partnership has the burden of proving reasonableness [Corp. Code § 15903.04(h)].

[e] Exercise of Partner's Rights by Others

A limited partner or person dissociated as a limited partner may exercise the rights to information through an attorney or other agent. Any restriction imposed by law or the partnership agreement applies both to the attorney or other agent and to the limited partner or person dissociated as a limited partner [Corp. Code § 15903.04(k)]. The rights to information do not extend to a person as transferee, but may be exercised by the legal representative of an individual under legal disability who is a limited partner or person dissociated as a limited partner [Corp. Code § 15903.04(l)]. If a limited partner dies, the deceased partner's personal representative or other legal representative may exercise the rights of a current limited partner under Corp. Code § 15903.04 [Corp. Code § 15903.04(f); see Corp. Code § 15907.04; see also § 16.30[1]].

[f] Charges For Costs

A limited partnership may charge a person that makes a demand the reasonable costs of copying, limited to the costs of labor and material [Corp. Code § 15903.04(i)].

[2] Contributions and Distributions

The rules governing contributions and distributions are set forth in Corp. Code §§ 15905.01-15905.09. Those rules are discussed in §§ 16.39 (contributions) and 16.40 (distributions).

[3] Permissible Actions

A limited partner is not liable for any obligation of a limited partnership unless named as a general partner in the certificate or, in addition to exercising the rights and powers of a limited partner, the limited partner participates in the control of the business [Corp. Code § 15903.03(a); see § 16.41]. A limited partner does not participate in the control of the business within the meaning of § 15903.03(a) solely by doing, attempting to do, or having the right or power to do, one or more of the following [Corp. Code § 15903.03(b)]:

- Being:

  (1) An independent contractor for, an agent or employee of, or transacting business with, the partnership or a general partner of the partnership.

  (2) An officer, director, or shareholder of a corporate general partner of the partnership.

  (3) A member, manager, or officer of a limited liability company that is a general partner of the partnership.

  (4) A limited partner of a partnership that is a general partner of the partnership.

  (5) A trustee, administrator, executor, custodian, or other fiduciary or beneficiary of an estate or trust that is a general partner.

  (6) A trustee, officer, advisor, shareholder, or beneficiary of a business trust that is a general partner.

- Consulting with and advising a general partner with respect to the business of the partnership.

- Acting as surety for the partnership or for a general partner, guaranteeing one or more specific debts of the partnership, providing collateral for the partnership or general partner, borrowing money from the partnership or a general partner, or lending money to the partnership or a general partner.

- Approving or disapproving an amendment to the partnership agreement.

- Voting on, proposing, or calling a meeting of the partners.

- Winding up the partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15908.03.

- Executing and filing a certificate pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.05, a certificate of withdrawal pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(4), or a certificate of cancellation of the certificate of limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(6).

- Serving on an audit committee or committee performing the functions of an audit committee.

- Serving on a committee of the partnership or the limited partners for the purpose of approving actions of the general partner.

- Calling, requesting, attending, or participating at any meeting of the partners or the partners.

- Taking any action required or permitted by law to bring, pursue, settle, or terminate a derivative action on behalf of the partnership.

- Serving on the board of directors or a committee of, consulting with or advising, being or acting as an officer, director, stockholder, partner, member, manager, agent, or employee of, or being or acting as a fiduciary for, any person in which the partnership has an interest.

- Exercising any right or power permitted to limited partners under the 2008 Act and not specifically enumerated above.

The enumeration above does not mean that any other conduct or the possession or exercise of any other power by a limited partner constitutes participation by the limited partner in the control of the business of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15903.03(c)].

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.31

§ 16.31 Liability of Limited Partners

[1] Limited Liability

In the operation of a limited partnership, the general rule is that a limited partner is not liable for any obligation of a limited partnership unless that partner is named as a general partner in the limited partnership certificate, or, in addition to the exercise of the rights and powers of a limited partner [see § 16.30 [3]], that partner participates in the control of the partnership business [Corp. Code § 15903.03; see, e.g., Gruendl v. Oewel Partnership (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 654, 659, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217 (under prior law, limited partner not deemed to have participated in control merely because he acted as surety, lent money to limited partnership, or exercised duties as president of corporate general partner)]. Even if a limited partner participates in the control of the business without being named as a general partner, that partner may be held liable as a general partner only to those persons who transact business with the limited partnership with (1) actual knowledge of that partner's participation in control and (2) a reasonable belief, based on the limited partner's conduct, that the partner is a general partner at the time of the transaction [Corp. Code § 15903.03]. However, nothing in the ULPA '08 will be construed to affect the liability of a limited partner to third parties for the limited partner's participation in tortious conduct [Corp. Code § 15903.03].

[2] Liability for Misstatements

If a record delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 and filed by the Secretary contains false information, a person that suffers loss by reliance on the information may recover damages for the loss from a person, which includes a limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(y)], that signed the record, or caused another to sign it on the person's behalf, and knew the information to be false at the time the record was signed [Corp. Code § 15902.08(a)(1)].

[3] Liability for Improper Distributions and Contributions

A partner or transferee that received a distribution knowing that the distribution to that partner or transferee was made in violation of Corp. Code § 15905.08 [see § 16.40[6]] is personally liable to the limited partnership. However, liability is only to the extent that the distribution received by the partner or transferee exceeded the amount that could have been properly paid under Corp. Code § 15905.08 [Corp. Code § 15905.09(b); see § 16.40[6]].

[4] Liability of Investor in Partnership

Except as otherwise described below, a person that makes an investment in a business enterprise and erroneously but in good faith believes that the person has become a limited partner in the enterprise is not liable for the enterprise's obligations by reason of making the investment, receiving distributions from the enterprise, or exercising any rights of or appropriate to a limited partner, if, on ascertaining the mistake, the person [Corp. Code § 15903.06(a)]:

- Causes an appropriate certificate of limited partnership, amendment, or certificate of correction to be signed and delivered to the Secretary of State for filing; or

- Withdraws from future participation as an owner in the enterprise by signing and delivering to and on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State for filing a certificate of withdrawal under § 15903.06.

A person that makes such an investment is liable to the same extent as a general partner to any third party that enters into a transaction with the enterprise, believing in good faith that the person is a general partner, before the Secretary of State files a certificate of withdrawal, certificate of limited partnership, amendment, or certificate of correction to show that the person is not a general partner [Corp. Code § 15903.06(b)].

If a person makes a diligent effort in good faith to comply but is unable to cause the appropriate certificate of limited partnership, amendment, or certificate of correction to be signed and delivered to the Secretary of State for filing, the person has the right to withdraw from the enterprise as described above, even if the withdrawal would otherwise breach an agreement with others that are or have agreed to become co-owners of the enterprise [Corp. Code § 15903.06(c)].

C. Rights and Duties of Partners

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.32

§ 16.32 Admission, Powers, and Duties of Limited Partners

[1] Manner of Admission

A person becomes a limited partner in one of the following ways [Corp. Code § 15903.01(a)]:

- As provided in the partnership agreement;
- As the result of a conversion or merger under Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq. [see Ch. 16B, Conversion and Mergers of Limited Partnerships]; or
- With the consent of all the partners.

[2] Powers and Duties

A limited partner does not have the right or the power as a limited partner to act for or bind the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15903.02].

A limited partner does not have any fiduciary duty to the limited partnership or to any other partner solely by reason of being a limited partner [Corp. Code § 15903.05(a)]. Further, a limited partner must discharge the duties to the partnership and the other partners under the ULPA '08 or under the partnership agreement and exercise any rights consistently with the obligation of good faith and fair dealing [Corp. Code § 15903.05(b)]. Finally, a limited partner does not violate a duty or obligation under the ULPA '08 or under the partnership agreement merely because the limited partner's conduct furthers that partner's own interest [Corp. Code § 15903.05(c)].

[1] Causes of Dissociation

A person does not have a right to dissociate as a limited partner before the termination of the partnership [Corp. Code § 15906.01(a).]

However, a person is dissociated from a limited partnership as a limited partner upon the occurrence of any of the following 10 events [Corp. Code § 15906.01(b)]:

(1) The partnership's having notice of the person's express will to withdraw as a limited partner or on a later date specified by the person. (This circumstance of dissociation seems inconsistent with the nonexistence of a right to dissociate set forth in § 15906.01(a); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 746.01 (Matthew Bender) for further discussion).

(2) An event agreed to in the partnership agreement as causing the person's dissociation as a limited partner.

(3) The person's expulsion as a limited partner pursuant to the partnership agreement.

(4) The person's expulsion as a limited partner by the unanimous consent of the other partners if:

- It is unlawful to carry on the partnership's activities with the person as a limited partner.

- There has been a transfer of all of the person's transferable interest [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ak); see also § 16.38] in the partnership, other than a transfer for security purposes, or a court order charging the person's interest, which has not been foreclosed.

- The person is a corporation and, within 90 days after the partnership notifies the person that it will be expelled as a limited partner because it has filed a certificate of dissolution or the equivalent, its charter has been revoked, or its right to conduct business has been suspended by the jurisdiction of its incorporation, there is no revocation of the certificate of dissolution or no reinstatement of its charter or its right to conduct business.

- The person is a limited liability company or partnership that has been dissolved and whose business is being wound up.

(5) On application by the partnership, the person's expulsion as a limited partner by judicial order because: (a) the person engaged in wrongful conduct that adversely and materially affected the partnership's activities; (b) the person willfully or persistently committed a material breach of the partnership agreement or of the obligation of good faith and fair dealing under Corp. Code § 15903.05(b) [see § 16.32[2]] or (c) the person engaged in conduct relating to the partnership's activities which makes it not reasonably practicable to carry on the activities with the person as limited partner.

(6) In the case of a person who is an individual, the person's death.

(7) In the case of a person that is a trust or is acting as a limited partner by virtue of being a trustee of a trust, distribution of the trust's entire transferable interest in the partnership, but not merely by reason of the substitution of a successor trustee.

(8) In the case of a person that is an estate or is acting as a limited partner by virtue of being a personal representative of an estate, distribution of the estate's entire transferable interest in the partnership, but not merely by reason of the substitution of a successor personal representative.

(9) Termination of a limited partner that is not an individual, partnership, limited liability company, corporation, trust, or estate.

(10) The partnership's participation in a conversion or merger under Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq. [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships] if the partnership (a) is not the converted or surviving entity; or (b) is the converted or surviving entity but, as a result of the conversion or merger, the person ceases to be a limited partner.

[2] Effect of Dissociation

Upon a person's dissociation as a limited partner, subject to Corp. Code § 15907.04 (rights of deceased partner's representative), the person does not have further rights as a limited partner [Corp. Code § 15906.02(a)(1)]. The effect of this provision is that a dissociated limited partner's status becomes that of a mere transferee, except as to a deceased dissociated limited partner or one dissociated in connection with a conversion or merger [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 746.02 (Matthew Bender)]. Furthermore, upon dissociation, the person's obligation of good faith and fair dealing as a limited partner under Corp. Code § 15903.05(b) [see § 16.32[2]] continues only as to matters arising and events occurring before the dissociation [Corp. Code § 15906.02(a)(2)]. Finally, subject to Corp. Code § 15907.04 (rights of deceased partner's representative) and Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq. (conversion and merger) [see Ch. 16A, Conversion and Merger of Limited Partnerships], any transferable interest owned by the person in the person's capacity as a limited partner immediately before dissociation is owned by the person as a mere transferee [Corp. Code § 15906.02(a)(3); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ak) (definition of transferable interest, (al) (definition of transferee)].

A person's dissociation as a limited partner does not of itself discharge the person from any obligation to the partnership or the other partners which the person incurred while a limited partner [Corp. Code § 15906.02(b)].

CHAPTER 16 FORMATION OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Partners

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.34

§ 16.34 Rights, Powers, Restrictions, and Liabilities of General Partners

[1] General Partner as Agent of Partnership

Each general partner is an agent of the limited partnership for the purposes of its activities. An act of a general partner, including the signing of a record in the partnership's name, for apparently carrying on in the ordinary course the limited partnership's activities or activities of the kind carried on by the limited partnership binds the limited partnership, unless the general partner did not have authority to act for the limited partnership in the particular matter and the person with which the general partner was dealing knew, had received a notification, or had notice under Corp. Code § 15901.03(d) that the general partner lacked authority [Corp. Code § 15904.02(a)].

An act of a general partner which is not apparently for carrying on in the ordinary course the limited partnership's activities or activities of the kind carried on by the limited partnership binds the limited partnership only if the act was actually authorized by all the other partners [Corp. Code § 15904.02(b)].

[2] Dual Capacity as General and Limited Partner Permitted

A person may be both a general partner and a limited partner. A person that is both a general and a limited partner has the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided by the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement in each capacity. When the person acts as a general partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for general partners. When the person acts as a limited partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for limited partners [Corp. Code § 15901.13].

[3] Rights in Management and Conduct of Partnership's Activities

Each general partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the limited partnership's activities. Except as expressly provided in the ULPA '08, any matter relating to the activities of the limited partnership may be exclusively decided by the general partner or, if there is more than one general partner, by a majority of the general partners [Corp. Code § 15904.06(a)].

The consent of each partner is necessary to (1) amend the partnership agreement; and (2) sell, lease, exchange, or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all of the limited partnership's property, with or without the goodwill, other than in the usual and regular course of the limited partnership's activities [Corp. Code § 15904.06(b)].

A limited partnership must reimburse a general partner for payments made and indemnify a general partner for liabilities incurred by the partner in the ordinary course of the activities of the partnership or for preservation of its activities or property [Corp. Code § 15904.06(c)]. A limited partnership must also reimburse a general partner for an advance to the partnership beyond the amount of capital the partner agreed to contribute [Corp. Code § 15904.06(d)]. A payment or advance made by a general partner which gives rise to an obligation of the limited partnership as described above constitutes a loan to the limited partnership which accrues interest from the date of the payment or advance [Corp. Code § 15904.06(e)].

A general partner is not entitled to remuneration for services performed for the partnership [Corp. Code § 15904.06(f)].

[4] Right to Information

[a] Current Partners

A general partner, without having any particular purpose for seeking the information, may inspect and copy during regular business hours in the limited partnership's designated office, required information [Corp. Code § 15904.07(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ad) (required information is that which partnership must maintain under Corp. Code § 15901.11)]. Similarly, the partner may inspect and copy, at a reasonable location specified by the limited partnership, any other records maintained by the limited partnership regarding the limited partnership's activities and financial condition [Corp. Code § 15904.07(a)(2)].

Each general partner and the limited partnership must furnish to a general partner the following information, which may be transmitted via electronic transmission [Corp. Code § 15904.07(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(h) (definition)]:

> (1) Without demand, any information concerning the limited partnership's activities and activities reasonably required for the proper exercise of the general partner's rights and duties under the partnership agreement or the ULPA '08; and
> (2) On demand, any other information concerning the limited partnership's activities, except to the extent the demand or the information demanded is unreasonable or otherwise improper under the circumstances.

[b] Dissociated Partners

Except as to deceased general partners [see Corp. Code §§ 15904.07(e), 15907.04], on 10 days' demand made in a record received by the limited partnership, a person dissociated as a general partner may have access to the information and records described in Corp. Code § 15904.07(a) [see [a], above], at the location there specified if (1) the information or record pertains to the period during which the person was a general partner; (2) the person seeks the information or record in good faith; and (3) the person satisfies the requirements imposed on a limited partner by Corp. Code § 15903.04(b) [Corp. Code § 15904.07(c); see § 16.30]. The limited partnership must respond to such a demand in the same manner as provided in Corp. Code § 15903.04(c) [Corp. Code § 15904.07(b); see § 16.30].

The partnership may impose reasonable restrictions on the use of information. In any dispute concerning the reasonableness of such a restriction, the partnership has the burden of proving reasonableness [Corp. Code § 15904.07(f)].

The partnership may charge a person dissociated as a general partner that makes such a demand reasonable costs of copying, limited to the costs of labor and material [Corp. Code § 15904.07(g)]. A general partner or person dissociated as a general partner may exercise the rights under this section through an attorney or other agent. Any restriction imposed by the partnership or by the partnership agreement applies both to the attorney or other agent and to the general partner or person dissociated as a general partner [Corp. Code § 15904.07(h)].

The rights described above do not extend to a person as transferee, but the rights of a person dissociated as a general partner may be exercised by the legal representative of an individual who dissociated as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15906.03(g)(2) or (3) [Corp. Code § 15904.07(i); see § 16.37].

[5] Contributions and Distributions

The rules governing contributions and distributions are set forth in Corp. Code §§ 15905.01-15905.09. Those rules are discussed in §§ 16.39 (contributions) and 16.40 (distributions).

[6] Liabilities

[a] Liability for False Information

If a record delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 and filed by the Secretary contains false information, a person that suffers loss by reliance on the information may recover damages for the loss from [Corp. Code § 15902.08(a)]:

- A person that signed the record, or caused another to sign it on the person's behalf, and knew the information to be false at the time the record was signed; and

- A general partner that had notice that the information was false when the record was filed or had become false because of changed circumstances, if the general partner had notice for a reasonably sufficient time before the information is relied upon to enable the general partner to effect an amendment under Corp. Code § 15902.02 (amendments or restatements of certificates of limited partnerships), file a petition pursuant to § 15902.05 (filings pursuant to judicial order), or deliver to the Secretary of State for filing a certificate of correction pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.07.

Signing a record authorized or required to be filed under the 2008 Act constitutes an affirmation under the penalties of perjury that the facts stated in the record are true [Corp. Code § 15902.08(b)].

A general partner that consents to a distribution made in violation of Corp. Code § 15905.08 [see § 16.40[6]] is personally liable to the limited partnership for the amount of the distribution that exceeds the amount that could have been distributed without the violation if it is established that in consenting to the distribution the general partner failed to comply with that section [Corp. Code § 15905.09(a)]. Establishing the liability, however, may be quite difficult [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 745.08].

A partner or transferee that received a distribution knowing that the distribution to that partner or transferee was made in violation of § 15905.08 is personally liable to the limited partnership but only to the extent that the distribution received by the partner or transferee exceeded the amount that could have been properly paid under Corp. Code § 15905.08 [Corp. Code § 15905.09(b)].

A general partner against which an action is commenced as described above may implead in the action (1) any other person that is liable under § 15905.09(a) and compel contribution from the person; and (2) any person that received a distribution in violation of § 15905.09(b) and compel contribution from the person in the amount the person received in that violation [Corp. Code § 15905.09(c)].

An action under Corp. Code § 15905.09 is barred if it is not commenced within four years after the distribution [Corp. Code § 15905.09(d)].

[c] Liability for Partnership Obligations

All general partners are liable jointly and severally for all obligations of the limited partnership unless otherwise agreed by the claimant or provided by law [Corp. Code § 15904.04(a)]. However, a person that becomes a general partner of an existing limited partnership is not personally liable for an obligation of a limited partnership incurred before the person became a general partner [Corp. Code § 15904.04(b)].

[d] Partnership's Liability for General Partner's Actions

A limited partnership is liable for loss or injury caused to a person, or for a penalty incurred, as a result of a wrongful act or omission, or other actionable conduct, of a general partner acting in the ordinary course of activities of the limited partnership or with authority of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15904.03(a)].

If, in the course of the partnership's activities or while acting with authority of the partnership, a general partner receives or causes the limited partnership to receive money or property of a person not a partner, and the money or property is misapplied by a general partner, the limited partnership is liable for the loss [Corp. Code § 15904.03(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Rights and Duties of Partners

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.35

§ 16.35 Duties of General Partners

[1] General Duties

The general partners in a limited partnership are required to maintain an office and an agent for service of process within California [see Corp. Code § 15901.14; see also § 16.23[1]] and maintain certain specific types of records in that office [see Corp. Code § 15901.11; see also § 16.23[2]]. They are required to prepare a partnership agreement [see § 16.21[4]], to prepare and execute the original and any amended certificate of limited partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 15012.01-15902.09; see also §§ 16.21[2], 16.22] and give limited partners access to partnership records [see Corp. Code § 15903.04; see also § 16.30].

[2] Fiduciary Duties

The fiduciary duties that a general partner owes to the partnership and the other partners are the duties of loyalty and care [Corp. Code § 15904.08(a)].

A general partner's duty of loyalty to the partnership and the other partners is limited to the following [Corp. Code § 15904.08(b)]:

- To account to the partnership and hold as trustee for it any property, profit, or benefit derived by the general partner in the conduct and winding up of the partnership's activities or derived from a use by the general partner of partnership property, including appropriating a partnership opportunity;

- To refrain from dealing with the partnership in the conduct or winding up of activities as or on behalf of a party having an interest adverse to the partnership; and

- To refrain from competing with the partnership in the conduct or winding up of its activities.

A general partner's duty of care to the partnership and the other partners in the conduct and winding up of the limited partnership's activities is limited to refraining from engaging in grossly negligent or reckless conduct, intentional misconduct, or a knowing violation of law [Corp. Code § 15904.08(c)].

A general partner must discharge the duties to the partnership and the other partners under the ULPA '08 or under the partnership agreement and exercise any rights consistently with the obligation of good faith and fair dealing [Corp. Code § 15904.08(d)]. A general partner does not violate a duty or obligation under the ULPA '08 or under the partnership agreement merely because the general partner's conduct furthers the general partner's own interest [Corp. Code § 15904.08(e)].

This list of duties is similar to that set forth in the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 [see Corp. Code § 16404], and was included in the ULPA '08 to make it more of a stand-alone statute [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 743.08 (Matthew Bender)].

§ 16.37 Dissociation of General Partners

[1] Causes of Dissociation

The ULPA '08 provides that a person is dissociated from a partnership as a general partner upon the occurrence of any of the following 11 events [Corp. Code § 15906.03]:

(1) The partnership's having notice of the person's express will to withdraw as a general partner or on a later date specified by the person.

(2) An event agreed to in the partnership agreement as causing the person's dissociation as a general partner.

(3) The person's expulsion as a general partner pursuant to the partnership agreement.

(4) The person's expulsion as a general partner by the unanimous consent of the other partners if:

(a) it is unlawful to carry on the partnership's activities with the person as a general partner;

(b) there has been a transfer of all or substantially all of the person's transferable interest in the partnership, other than a transfer for security purposes, or a court order charging the person's interest, which has not been foreclosed;

(c) the person is a corporation and, within 90 days after the partnership notifies the person that it will be expelled as a general partner because it has filed a certificate of dissolution or the equivalent, its charter has been revoked, or its right to conduct business has been suspended by the jurisdiction of its incorporation, there is no revocation of the certificate of dissolution or no reinstatement of its charter or its right to conduct business;

(d) the person is a limited liability company or partnership that has been dissolved and whose business is being wound up.

(5) On application by the partnership, the person's expulsion as a general partner by judicial order because:

(a) the person engaged in wrongful conduct that adversely and materially affected the limited partnership activities;

(b) the person willfully or persistently committed a material breach of the partnership agreement or of a duty owed to the partnership or the other partners under Corp. Code § 15904.08 [see § 16.35]; or

(c) the person engaged in conduct relating to the partnership's activities which makes it not reasonably practicable to carry on the activities of the partnership with the person as a general partner.

(6) The person's:

(a) becoming a debtor in bankruptcy;

(b) execution of an assignment for the benefit of creditors;

(c) seeking, consenting to or acquiescing in the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the person or of all or substantially all of the person's property; or

(d) failure, within 90 days after the appointment, to have vacated or stayed the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the general partner or of all or substantially all of the person's property obtained without the person's consent or acquiescence, or failing within 90 days after the expiration of a stay to have the appointment vacated.

(7) In the case of a person who is an individual: the person's death, the appointment of a guardian or general conservator for the person, or a judicial determination that the person has otherwise become incapable of performing the person's duties as a general partner under the partnership agreement.

(8) In the case of a person that is a trust or is acting as a general partner by virtue of being a trustee of a trust, distribution of the trust's entire transferable interest in the partnership, but not merely by reason of the substitution of a successor trustee.

(9) In the case of a person that is an estate or is acting as a general partner by virtue of being a personal representative of an estate, distribution of the estate's entire transferable interest in the partnership, but not merely by reason of the substitution of a successor personal representative.

(10) Termination of a general partner that is not an individual, partnership, limited liability company, corporation, trust, or estate.

(11) The partnership's participation in a conversion or merger under Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq. [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships], if the limited partnership is not the converted or surviving entity, or is the converted or surviving entity but as a result of the conversion or merger the person ceases to be a general partner.

[2] Power to Dissociate

[a] By Express Will

A person has the power to dissociate as a general partner at any time, rightfully or wrongfully, by express will pursuant to Corp. Code § 15906.03(a) [Corp. Code § 15906.04(a)].

[b] Wrongful Dissociation

A person's dissociation as a general partner is wrongful only if [Corp. Code § 15906.04(b)]:

(1) It is in breach of an express provision of the partnership agreement; or

(2) It occurs before the termination of the limited partnership, and:

- The person withdraws as a general partner by express will;
- The person is expelled as a general partner by judicial determination [see Corp. Code § 15906.03(e)];
- The person is dissociated as a general partner by becoming a debtor in bankruptcy; or
- In the case of a person that is not an individual, trust (other than a business trust) or estate, the person is expelled or otherwise dissociated as a general partner because it willfully dissolved or terminated.

[c] Liability Upon Wrongful Dissociation

A person that wrongfully dissociates as a general partner is liable to the limited partnership and, subject to Corp. Code § 15910.01 (direct action by partner), to the other partners for damages caused by the dissociation. This liability is in addition to any other obligation of the general partner to the limited partnership or to the other partners [Corp. Code § 15906.04(c)].

[3] Effect of Dissociation as General Partner

[a] Right to Participate in Management

Upon a person's dissociation as a general partner, the person's right to participate as a general partner in the management and conduct of the partnership's activities terminates [Corp. Code § 15906.05(a)(1)].

[b] Duties of Loyalty and Care

Upon dissociation, the person's duty of loyalty as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15904.08(b)(3) terminates. The person's duty of loyalty as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15904.08(b)(1) and (2) and duty of care under Corp. Code § 15904.08(c) [see § 16.35] continue only with regard to matters arising and events occurring before the person's dissociation as a general partner [Corp. Code § 15906.05(a)(2),(3)].

[c] Certificate of Dissociation

The person may sign and deliver to the Secretary of State for filing, on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, a certificate of dissociation pertaining to the person. At the request of the partnership, the person must sign an amendment to the certificate of limited partnership which states that the person has dissociated [Corp. Code § 15906.05(a)(4)].

[d] Transferable Interests

Subject to Corp. Code § 15907.04 (deceased dissociated general partner) and Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq. (conversions and mergers) [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships], any transferable interest [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ak) (definition of transferable interest)] owned by the person immediately before dissociation in the person's capacity as a general partner is owned by the person as a mere transferee [Corp. Code § 15906.05(a)(5); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(al) (definition of transferee)].

[e] No Discharge of Obligations

A person's dissociation as a general partner does not of itself discharge the person from any obligation to the partnership or the other partners which the person incurred while a general partner [Corp. Code § 15906.05(b)].

[4] Liability of Dissociated General Partner

A person's dissociation as a general partner does not of itself discharge the person's liability as a general partner for an obligation of the partnership incurred before dissociation. Except as otherwise described in Corp. Code § 15906.07(b),(c) [see below], however, the person is not liable for a partnership's obligation incurred after dissociation [Corp. Code § 15906.07(a)]. A person whose dissociation as a general partner resulted in a dissolution and winding up of the partnership's activities is liable to the same extent as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15904.04 [see § 16.34[6]] on an obligation incurred by the partnership under Corp. Code § 15908.04 (actions following dissolution) [Corp. Code § 15906.07(b)]. A person that has dissociated as a general partner but whose dissociation did not result in dissolution and winding up of the partnership's activities is liable on a transaction entered into by the partnership after the dissociation only if (1) a general partner would be liable on the transaction, and (2) at the time the other party enters into the transaction less than two years have passed since the dissociation and the other party does not have notice of the dissociation and reasonably believes that the person is a general partner [Corp. Code § 15906.07(c)].

By agreement with a creditor of a partnership and the partnership, a person dissociated as a general partner may be released from liability to the creditor for an obligation of the partnership [Corp. Code § 15906.07(d)]. A person dissociated as a general partner is also released from liability for an obligation of the partnership if the partnership's creditor, with notice of the person's dissociation as a general partner but without the person's consent, agrees to a material alteration in the nature or time of payment of the obligation [Corp. Code § 15906.07(e)].

[5] Liability of Partnership for Actions of Dissociated Partner

After a person is dissociated as a general partner and before the limited partnership is dissolved, converted, or merged out of existence [see Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq.], the partnership is bound by an act of the person only if the act would have bound the partnership under Corp. Code § 15904.02 [see § 16.34[1]] before the dissociation, and at the time the other party enters into the transaction (1) less than two years have passed since the dissociation and (2) the other party does not have notice of the dissociation and reasonably believes that the person is a general partner [Corp. Code § 15906(a)].

If a limited partnership is bound under these circumstances, the person dissociated as a general partner which caused the partnership to be bound is liable (1) to the partnership for any damage caused to the limited partnership arising from the obligation incurred under § 15906(a), and (2) if a general partner or another person dissociated as a general partner is liable for the obligation, to the general partner or other person for any damage caused to the general partner or other person arising from the liability [Corp. Code § 15906.06(b)].

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.38

§ 16.38 Transfer of Partnership Interests

[1] Transferable Interest

The only interest of a partner which is transferable is the partner's transferable interest. A transferable interest is personal property [Corp. Code § 15907.01]. "Transferable interest" is defined as a partner's right to receive distributions [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ak)].

[2] Effect of Transfer

A transfer, in whole or in part, of a partner's transferable interest [Corp. Code § 15907.02(a)]:

- Is permissible;
- Does not by itself cause the partner's dissociation or a dissolution and winding up of the limited partnership's activities; and
- Does not, as against the other partners or the partnership, entitle the transferee to participate in the management or conduct of the partnership's activities, to require access to information concerning the partnership's transactions except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15907.02(c) [see [3], below], or to inspect or copy the required information or the partnership's other records or to exercise any other rights or powers of a partner.

"Transfer" includes an assignment, conveyance, deed, bill of sale, lease, mortgage, creation of a security interest or encumbrance, gift, and transfer by operation of law [Corp. Code § 15901.02(aj)].

[3] Rights and Obligations of Transferee

A transferee has a right to receive, in accordance with the transfer, distributions to which the transferor would otherwise be entitled [Corp. Code § 15907.02(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(al) ("transferee" defined as person to which all or part of transferable interest has been transferred, whether or not transferor is a partner)]. A transferee is entitled to an account of the partnership's transactions only upon the dissolution and winding up of the partnership [Corp. Code § 15907.02(c)]. Upon transfer, the transferor retains the rights of a partner other than the interest in distributions transferred and retains all duties and obligations of a partner [Corp. Code § 15907.02(d)]. A limited partnership need not give effect to a transferee's rights until the partnership has notice of the transfer [Corp. Code § 15907.02(e)]. A transfer of a partner's transferable interest in the partnership in violation of a restriction on transfer contained in the partnership agreement is ineffective as to a person having notice of the restriction at the time of transfer [Corp. Code § 15907.02(f)]. A transferee that becomes a partner with respect to a transferable interest is liable for the transferor's obligations under Corp. Code §§ 15905.02 and 15905.09 (regarding contributions and distributions) [see § 16.39]. However, the transferee is not obligated for liabilities unknown to the transferee at the time the transferee became a partner [Corp. Code § 15907.02(g)].

A transferee of a partnership interest, including a transferee of a general partner, may become a limited partner if and to the extent that the partnership agreement so provides or all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners consent [Corp. Code § 15907.02(h); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(t) (definition)].

[4] Rights of Deceased Partner's Representative

If a partner dies, the deceased partner's personal representative or other legal representative may exercise the rights of a transferee as provided in Corp. Code § 15907.02 [see [3], above]. For the purposes of settling the estate, the representative may exercise the rights of a current limited partner under Corp. Code § 15903.04 [Corp. Code § 15907.04; see § 16.30[1]].

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.39

§ 16.39 Contributions

[1] Nature of Contribution

A partner's contribution may consist of tangible or intangible property or other benefit to the limited partnership, including money, services performed, promissory notes, other agreements to contribute cash or property, and contracts for services to be performed [Corp. Code § 15905.01]. "Contribution" is defined as any benefit provided by a person to a limited partnership in order to become a partner, or in the person's capacity as a partner [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(c)].

[2] Obligation to Contribute

A partner's obligation to make a contribution to a limited partnership is not excused by the partner's death, disability, or other inability to perform personally [Corp. Code § 15905.02(a)]. If a partner does not make a promised nonmonetary contribution, the partner is obligated at the option of the limited partnership to contribute money equal to the value of that portion, as stated in the required information, of the stated contribution which has not been made [Corp. Code § 15902.02(b)].

The obligation of a partner to make a contribution or return money or other property paid or distributed in violation of the ULPA '08 may be compromised only by consent of all partners. A creditor of a limited partnership which extends credit or otherwise acts in reliance on an obligation of a partner to make a contribution, without notice of any compromise of that obligation, may enforce the original obligation [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)].

A partnership agreement may provide that the interest of a partner who fails to make any contribution or other payment that the partner is required to make will be subject to specific remedies for, or specific consequences of, the failure. A provision will be enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the partner seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the agreement was made. The specific remedies or consequences may include loss of voting, approval, or other rights, loss of the partner's ability to actively participate in the management and operations of the partnership, liquidated damages, or a reduction of the defaulting partner's economic rights [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)]. The reduction of the defaulting partner's economic rights may include one or more of the following provisions [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)(1)-(6)]:

- Diluting, reducing, or eliminating the defaulting partner's proportionate interest in the partnership.
- Subordinating the defaulting partner's interest in the partnership to that of non-defaulting partners.
- Permitting a forced sale of the partnership interest.
- Permitting the lending or contribution by other partners of the amount necessary to meet the defaulting partner's commitment.
- Adjusting the interest rates or other rates of return, preferred, priority, or otherwise, with respect to contributions by or capital accounts of the other partners.
- Fixing the value of the defaulting partner's interest in the partnership by appraisal, formula and redemption, or sale of the defaulting partner's interest in the partnership at a percentage of that value.

These provisions are not to be construed to affect the rights of third-party creditors of the partnership to seek equitable remedies nor any rights existing under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)(7); see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.].

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.40

§ 16.40 Distributions

[1] Sharing of Distributions

A distribution by a limited partnership must be shared among the partners on the basis of the value, as stated in the required records when the limited partnership decides to make the distribution, of the contributions the limited partnership has received from each partner [Corp. Code § 15905.03]. "Distribution" is defined as a transfer of money or other property from a limited partnership to a partner in the partner's capacity as a partner, or to a transferee on account of a transferable interest owned by the transferee [Corp. Code § 15901.02(f)].

[2] Allocation of Profits and Losses

The profits and losses of a limited partnership must be allocated among the partners in the manner provided in the partnership agreement. If the partnership agreement does not otherwise provide, profits and losses are allocated in the same manner as the partners share distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.035].

[3] Form of Distributions

A partner does not have a right to demand or receive any distribution from a limited partnership in any form other than cash. Subject to, a limited partnership may distribute an asset in kind to the extent each partner receives a percentage of the asset equal to the partner's share of distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.06].

[4] Right to Receive Distribution

A partner does not have a right to any distribution before the dissolution and winding up of the limited partnership unless the partnership decides to make an interim distribution [Corp. Code § 15905.04].

Furthermore, a person does not have a right to receive a distribution on account of dissociation [Corp. Code § 15905.05].

[5] Status as Creditor as to Distribution

When a partner or transferee becomes entitled to receive a distribution, the partner or transferee has the status of, and is entitled to all remedies available to, a creditor of the limited partnership with respect to the distribution. However, the partnership's obligation to make a distribution is subject to offset for any amount owed to the limited partnership by the partner or dissociated partner on whose account the distribution is made [Corp. Code § 15905.07].

A limited partnership may not make a distribution in violation of the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15905.08(a)].

Furthermore, a partnership may not make a distribution if, after the distribution: (1) the partnership would not be able to pay its debts as they become due in the ordinary course of its activities; or (2) the partnership's total assets would be less than the sum of its total liabilities plus the amount that would be needed, if it were to be dissolved, wound up, and terminated at the time of the distribution, to satisfy the preferential rights upon dissolution, winding up, and termination of partners whose preferential rights are superior to those of persons receiving the distribution [Corp. Code § 15905.08(b)]. The limited partnership may base a determination that a distribution is not prohibited under § 15905.08(b) on financial statements prepared on the basis of accounting practices and principles that are reasonable in the circumstances or on a fair valuation or other method that is reasonable in the circumstances [Corp. Code § 15908.08(c)].

Except for distributions in the form of indebtedness (see below), the effect of a distribution under § 15905.08(b) is measured in the case of distribution by purchase, redemption, or other acquisition of a transferable interest in the partnership, as of the date money or other property is transferred or debt is incurred by the partnership [Corp. Code § 15905.08(d)(1)]. In all other cases, the effect of a distribution is measured as of the date the distribution is authorized, if the payment occurs within 120 days after that date; or as of the date the payment is made, if payment occurs more than l20 days after the distribution is authorized [Corp. Code § 15905.08(d)(2)]. If indebtedness is issued as a distribution, each payment of principal or interest on the indebtedness is treated as a distribution, the effect of which is measured on the date the payment is made [Corp. Code § 15905.08(g)].

A limited partnership's indebtedness to a partner incurred by reason of a distribution made in accordance with Corp. Code § 15905.08 is at parity with the limited partnership's indebtedness to its general unsecured creditors [Corp. Code § 15905.08(e)]. A limited partnership's indebtedness, including indebtedness issued in connection with or as part of a distribution, is not considered a liability for purposes § 15905.08(b), if the terms of the indebtedness provide that payment of principal and interest are made only to the extent that a distribution could then be made to partners under this section [Corp. Code § 15905.08(f)].

The Uniform Law Comments state that reasonable compensation to partners for services or contributions to various retirement, pension or other benefit plans should not be treated as distributions and that a determination that a distribution is not prohibited seems to require exercise of the standard of ordinary care imposed upon partners.

A general partner that consents to a distribution made in violation of Corp. Code § 15905.08 [see [6], above] is personally liable to the limited partnership for the amount of the distribution that exceeds the amount that could have been distributed without the violation if it is established that in consenting to the distribution the general partner failed to comply with § 15904.08 [Corp. Code § 15905.09(a); see Corp. Code § 15905.09(c),(d) (actions under this section)].

A partner or transferee that received a distribution knowing that the distribution to that partner or transferee was made in violation of Corp. Code § 15905.08 [see [6], above] is personally liable to the limited partnership, but only to the extent that the distribution received by the partner or transferee exceeded the amount that could have been properly paid under Corp. Code § 15905.08 [Corp. Code § 15905.09(b)].

D. Foreign Limited Partnerships

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.50

§ 16.50 In General

A "foreign limited partnership" is a partnership formed under the laws of any jurisdiction other than California and required by those laws to have one or more general partners and one or more limited partners [Corp. Code § 15901.02(k) (term includes a foreign limited liability limited partnership, defined in Corp. Code § 15901.02(j))]. With respect to a foreign limited partnership, a general partner means a person that has rights, powers, and obligations similar to those of a general partner in a domestic limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.02(m)(2)].

The laws of the state or jurisdiction under which the foreign limited partnership is organized govern relations among the partners of the foreign limited partnership and the liability of partners as partners for an obligation of the foreign limited partnership, except as to foreign limited liability partnerships, which will be treated as if they were foreign limited partnerships [Corp. Code § 15909.01(a)]. A foreign limited partnership cannot be denied California registration by reason of any difference between those laws and California law [Corp. Code § 15909.01(b)]. A certificate of registration, however, does not authorize a foreign limited partnership to engage in any business or exercise any power that a limited partnership may not engage in or exercise in California [Corp. Code § 15909.01(c)].

§ 16.51 Registration Requirements

[1] Application for Registration

[a] In General

A foreign limited partnership may apply for a certificate of registration to transact business in California [see Corp. Code § 15909.02]. Activities of a foreign limited partnership that do not constitute transacting business in California for registration purposes described below include the activities set forth in Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai) [Corp. Code § 15909.03(a); see [b], below]. For purposes of required registration as a foreign limited partnership, ownership in California of income-producing real property or tangible personal property, other than as described above, constitutes transacting business in California [Corp. Code § 15909.03(b)]. Corp. Code § 15909.03 does not apply in determining the contacts or activities that may subject a foreign limited partnership to service of process, taxation, jurisdiction, or regulation under any other law of California [Corp. Code § 15909.03(c)].

To register, a foreign limited partnership must submit an application for registration as a foreign limited partnership, on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, signed and acknowledged by a general partner [Corp. Code § 15909.02(a); see § 16.220 (LP-5); see also Gov. Code § 12188(c) (filing fee)]. The application must include the name and address of an agent for service of process, the name of the partnership, the jurisdiction under which it is organized, the address of its designated office [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(e) (defined as its principal office); see also Corp. Code § 15901.02(aa) (office where principal executive office is located, whether or not in California)], the name and address of each general partner, and whether the foreign limited partnership is a foreign limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 15909.02(a)]. The partnership must also deliver a certificate of existence signed by the official having custody of its publicly filed records in the jurisdiction where the partnership is organized [Corp. Code § 15909.02(b)].

In addition, a foreign limited partnership must file an amendment to the application for registration, on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, if the original application for registration contains false information or any statements made in the application have become erroneous. The amendment must be signed and acknowledged by a general partner [Corp. Code § 15909.06].

For a guide to the procedures for registration, see § 16.112.

[b] Transacting Intrastate Business Defined

The term "transacting intrastate business" means for purposes of registration entering into repeated and successive transactions of business in California other than interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)]. A person is not deemed to be transacting intrastate business in California merely because of the person's status as a limited partner of a domestic limited partnership or a foreign limited partnership registered to transact intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)].

A foreign limited partnership is not considered to be transacting intrastate business merely because of its status as one or more of the following [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)]:

- A shareholder of a foreign corporation transacting intrastate business.
- A shareholder of a domestic corporation.
- A limited partner of a foreign limited partnership transacting intrastate business.
- A limited partner of a domestic limited partnership.
- A member or manager of a foreign limited liability company transacting intrastate business.
- A member or manager of a domestic limited liability company.

Further, a foreign limited partnership is not considered to be transacting intrastate business solely on the basis that the partnership conducts one or more of the following activities in California [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)]:

- Maintaining or defending any action or suit or any administrative or arbitration proceeding, or effecting the settlement thereof or the settlement of claims and disputes.
- Holding meetings of its partners, or carrying on other activities concerning its internal affairs.
- Maintaining bank accounts.
- Maintaining offices or agencies for the transfer, exchange, and registration of its securities or depositaries with relation to its securities.
- Effecting sales through independent contractors.
- Soliciting or procuring orders, whether by mail or through employees, agents, or otherwise, when the orders require acceptance outside California before becoming binding contracts.
- Creating or acquiring evidences of debt or mortgages, liens, or security interests on real or personal property.
- Securing or collecting debts or enforcing mortgages and security interests in property securing the debts.
- Conducting an isolated transaction completed within a 180-day period that is not the course of a number of repeated transactions of a similar nature.

- Transacting business in interstate commerce.

This list is not exclusive; other activities may not constitute transacting intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)].

[2] Name Requirements

A foreign limited partnership must comply with the name requirements applicable to domestic limited partnerships set forth in Corp. Code § 15901.08 [Corp. Code § 15909.05(a); see § 16.21[3]]. If a foreign limited partnership authorized to transact business in California changes its name to one that does not so comply, it may not thereafter transact business in California until it complies and obtains an amended certificate of registration [Corp. Code § 15909.05(b)].

[3] Issuance of Certificate

If the Secretary of State determines that the application for registration conforms to law and that all requisite fees have been paid, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate of registration to transact intrastate business in California. However, registration is subject to any licensing requirements otherwise imposed by California law [Corp. Code § 15909.04].

[4] Cancellation of Application or Certificate

The application for registration must be accompanied by the payment of the required filing fees [Gov. Code § 12188(c); see Corp. Code § 15909.05(c)]. If the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentation, the Secretary of State may cancel the application and certificate of registration [Corp. Code § 15909.05(c)]. After receiving notice of nonpayment, the Secretary of State will notify the agent for service of process (or the person submitting the instrument for filing) in writing of the application of this rule. If the amount is not then paid, by cashier's check or the equivalent, the Secretary of State will issue a second written notice of cancellation, effective on issuance, at least 20 days after the first notice but within 90 days of the original filing [see Corp. Code § 15909.05(c)].

[5] Service of Process

A foreign limited partnership is served by delivering process to the designated agent, in accordance with the provisions set forth in Corp. Code § 15901.16 [see Corp. Code § 15901.16(a) (application of section to foreign limited partnerships]. For further discussion, see § 16.23[1].

The recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the partnership real property located in the county in which the certified copy has been recorded that (1) the persons named as general partners in the certificate are in fact the general partners, and (2) these persons are all of the general partners of the partnership [*Corp. § 16.53 Consequences of Failure to Register

A foreign limited partnership transacting intrastate business in California that has failed to register may not maintain any action or proceeding in California courts [Corp. Code § 15909.07(b)]. The transaction of intrastate business in California without registration constitutes the appointment of the Secretary of State as the partnership's agent for service of process in cases arising out of that business [Corp. Code § 15909.07(f)]. However, the failure to register does not impair any of its contracts or invalidate its acts, or prevent the partnership from defending any action or proceeding in California [Corp. Code § 15909.07(d)]. Further, a limited partner of a foreign limited partnership is not liable for the obligations of the foreign limited partnership solely because the partnership transacted intrastate business in California without registration [Corp. Code § 15909.07(e)].

An unregistered foreign limited partnership that transacts intrastate business in California without registration is subject to a penalty of $20 for each day that unauthorized business is transacted. The maximum liability is $10,000 [Corp. Code § 15909.07(d)]. An action to recover the penalty may be brought by the Attorney General or district attorney [Corp. Code § 15909.07(d); see Corp. Code § 2258 (sanctions on foreign corporations for failure to qualify)]. In addition, the Attorney General may also bring an action to restrain a foreign limited partnership from transacting intrastate business in California in violation of California law [Corp. Code § 15909.08].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Tax Classification

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.70

§ 16.70 Federal Entity Classification Rules

[1] In General

Final federal entity classification regulations [see Treas. Reg. §§ 301.7701-1-301.7701-6], allow eligible entities to elect their tax classification for federal tax purposes as an association taxable as a corporation or as a partnership. Entities with only a single owner may elect to be classified as a corporation or to be disregarded as an entity separate from their owner [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. These "elective classification" regulations replace former regulations that classified business organizations as associations or partnerships, based on the presence or absence of the four corporate characteristics of continuity of life, centralization of management, limited liability for debts of the enterprise, and free transferability of interests [see former Treas. Reg. 301.7701-2(a)-(e)].

The elective classification regulations were generally effective January 1, 1997 [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(f)(1)]. All prior revenue rulings and procedures are obsolete to the extent that they use the prior classification regulations and their focus on corporate characteristics to differentitate between partnerships and corporations. [1997-1 C.B. 348, Notice 97-1].

[2] Determining Whether Separate Entity Exists

The first step in the federal entity classification process is to determine whether there is an entity separate from its owners. This determination is a matter of federal law, not local law, and generally focuses on whether the participants carry on a trade, business, financial operation, or venture and divide any resulting profits [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-1(a)(1)]. For example, a separate entity exists for federal tax purposes if co-owners of an apartment building lease space and in addition provide services to the occupants directly or through an agent [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-1(a)(2)]. Mere co-ownership of property that is maintained, kept in repair, or rented or leased, however, does not constitute a separate entity for federal tax purposes. For example, if an individual owner, or tenants in common, of farm property lease it to a farmer for cash rental or a share of the crops, they do not necessarily create a separate entity for tax purposes [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-1(a)(2)]. Similarly, a joint undertaking merely to share expenses does not create a separate entity for federal tax purposes [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-1(a)(2)]. Certain joint undertakings that are not entities under local law may be entities for federal tax purposes. Conversely, not all entities formed under local law will be recognized as separate entities for federal tax purposes. For example, if an LLC with a single individual owner is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3, its individual owner is subject to federal tax as if the LLC's business were operated as a sole proprietorship [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-1(a)(3)].

[3] Classification of Separate Entities as Trusts or Business Entities

An organization that is recognized as a separate entity for federal tax purposes is classified as either a trust [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-4] or a business entity [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2], unless a separate provision of the Internal Revenue Code provides for special treatment [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-1(b)]. An organization generally is classified as a trust if it does not have associates or an objective to carry on a business for profit [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-4].

[4] Classification of Certain Business Entities as Corporations

Certain business entities are automatically classified as corporations for federal tax purposes. These include corporations denominated as such under applicable law, associations, joint-stock companies, insurance companies, organizations that conduct certain banking activities, organizations wholly owned by a state or political subdivision, organizations that are taxable as corporations under a provision of the Internal Revenue Code other than I.R.C. § 7701(a)(3), and certain organizations formed under the laws of specified foreign jurisdictions (including a US possession, territory, or commonwealth) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(b)]. A special grandfathering rule applies for specific listed foreign entities. Under the rule, a foreign entity described in the list of foreign entities treated as per se corporations [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(b)] will nevertheless be classified as other than a corporation if certain conditions are met. The grandfathering rule also lists certain situations in which a grandfathered foreign business entity will lose its grandfathered status [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(d)].

[5] Eligible Entities May Choose Classification for Federal Tax Purposes

Any business entity that is not required to be treated as a corporation for federal tax purposes [see [4], above] is an "eligible entity" [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. An eligible entity may choose its entity classification under rules set forth in the regulations. An eligible entity with at least two members may choose to be classified as either a partnership or an association (taxable as a corporation). An eligible entity with a single member may choose to be classified as an association (taxable as a corporation) or may choose to be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. However, if the single owner of a business entity is a bank [I.R.C. § 581] or a foreign bank [I.R.C. § 585(a)(2)(B)] then the special rules applicable to banks continue to apply to the single owner as if the wholly-owned entity is a separate entity except with regard to I.R.C. §§ 864(c), § 882(c), and 884 [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(c)(2)(ii)].

[6] Default Classification Rules

To provide most eligible entities with the classification they would choose without requiring them to file an election, default classification rules are provided that aim to match taxpayers' expectations (and thus reduce the number of elections that will be needed) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)]. The default classification for an existing entity is the classification that the entity claimed immediately prior to January 1, 1997. An entity's default classification continues until the entity elects to change its classification by means of an affirmative election [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)(3)].

For domestic entities, a newly formed eligible entity will be classified as a partnership under the default rules if it has at least two members, or will be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner if it has a single owner [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)(1)]. For foreign entities, the default classification is based on whether the members have limited liability. Thus, a foreign eligible entity will be classified as an association (and taxable as a corporation) if all members have limited liability. A foreign eligible entity will be classified as a partnership if it has two or more members and at least one member does not have limited liability; the entity will be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner if it has a single owner and that owner does not have limited liability [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)(2)(i)].

A member is not treated as having limited liability for purposes of this rule if the member, by virtue of membership in the foreign entity, has personal liability for all or any portion of the debts of the entity [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-4(b)(2)(ii)].

[7] How to Elect Entity Classification

An eligible entity [see [5], above] may affirmatively elect its classification (or may change its classification) on Form 8832, Entity Classification Election [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(1)(i)]. The election must be signed by each member of the entity, or by any officer, manager, or member of the entity who is authorized to make the election and who represents to having that authorization under penalties of perjury. The determination of whether a person is authorized to make an election is based on local law [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(2)(i)]. If the election is made by all of the members, each person who is an owner at the time the election is made must consent to the election. If an election is to be effective for any period before the date the election is made, however, each person who was an owner between the date the election is to be effective and the date the election is filed and who is not an owner on the date the election is filed must also consent to the election [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(2)(ii); see § 16.30 [3]]. An election will not be accepted unless it includes all of the required information, including the entity's taxpayer identifying number (TIN) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(1)(i)].

Taxpayers (including indirect owners of an entity) are required to attach a copy of the classification election to their tax returns, but failure to do so will not invalidate an otherwise valid election. All members of an entity are required to file tax returns that are consistent with the entity's election. Therefore, failure to attach the election form to a federal tax or information return may give rise to penalties against the non-filing party. Other penalties may be imposed against parties who file federal tax or information returns inconsistent with the entity's election [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(1)(ii)].

An entity classification election must be made at the beginning of the taxpayer's taxable year. Taxpayers may specify the date on which an election will be effective, but an election cannot be effective more than 75 days before, or more than 12 months after, the date on which the election is filed. If no effective date is specified in the election, the effective date is the date of filing. No election, whenever filed, is effective before January 1, 1997 [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(1)(iii)].

Not more than one election to change an entity's classification may be made during any 60-month period. The Commissioner may waive this rule by letter ruling, but only if there has been more than a 50-percent ownership change in the entity. The 60-month limitation applies only to a change in classification by election. It does not apply if the organization's business is actually transferred to another entity [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(1)(iv)].

[9] Classification Rules for Partnership Terminations and Divisions

A partnership is considered terminated if within a 12-month period there is a sale or exchange of at least 50 percent of the total interests in partnership capital and profits [I.R.C. § 708(b)(1)(B)]. When a partnership is divided into two or more partnerships, the resulting partnerships (other than any resulting partnership the members of which had an interest of 50 percent or less in the capital and profits interest of the prior partnership) are considered a continuation of the prior partnership [I.R.C. § 708(b)(2)(B)]. For purposes of the entity classification rules, a partnership resulting from one of the above terminations or divisions is a partnership [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(e)]. This rule does not apply for certain foreign entities whose entity status was grandfathered under special rules [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(e); see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(d)(3)].

[10] Transition Rules

A special transition rule applies for entities that were in existence on January 1, 1997. The IRS will not challenge the prior classification of an existing eligible entity or an existing foreign entity described on the per se list [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2(b)(8)] for periods before 1997 if the following requirements are met [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(f)(2)]:

- The entity had a reasonable basis (within the meaning of I.R.C. § 6662) for its claimed classification;

- The entity and all members of the entity recognized the federal tax consequences of any change in the entity's classification within the 60 months before January 1, 1997; and

- Neither the entity nor any member had been notified in writing on or before May 8, 1996 that the classification of the entity was under examination.

[11] Classification for California Income Tax Purposes

California generally conforms to the federal entity classification rules under Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2 [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038; see also FTB Notice 92-5]. The classification of a business entity as an association taxable as a corporation is determined under FTB regulations, which must be consistent with the federal regulations in effect on January 1, 1997, that classify a business entity as a partnership or an association taxable as a corporation, or disregard the separate existence of the business entity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038(b)(2)(B)(i)]. The classification of an eligible business entity as a partnership or an association taxable as a corporation is the same as the classification of the entity for federal tax purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038(b)(2)(B)(ii)]. However, if an eligible business entity was properly classified as an association taxable as a corporation for any income year beginning with the 60-month period preceding January 1, 1997, the entity continues to be an association taxable as a corporation until it elects to be classified the same as the entity is classified for federal purposes. This rule does not apply to any entity that was not doing business in California, did not derive income from California, and had no California resident owner during the 60-month period preceding January 1, 1997 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038(b)(2)(C)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Tax Classification

§ 16.71 Publicly Traded Partnerships Taxed as Corporations

A limited partnership may be classified as a corporation for tax purposes if it is "publicly traded" [I.R.C. § 7704]. A partnership is "publicly traded" if its interests are either traded on an established securities market (including any national securities exchange registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78a-78kk]), or readily tradable on a secondary market or its substantial equivalent [I.R.C. § 7704(b); see Conf. Rep. No. 100-495, Pub. L. No. 100-495, p. 948 ("readily tradable" means interest is regularly quoted by brokers or dealers who make a market in the interest; "secondary market" is indicated by existence of a person standing ready to make a market in the interest)]. If a partnership's interests are not traded on an established securities market [I.R.C. § 7704(b)(1)], however, those interests will be classified as readily tradable on a secondary market (or its substantial equivalent) [I.R.C. § 7704(b)(2)] only if all of the interests were issued (1) in a transaction that was registered under the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], or (2) in a transaction that was not registered under the Securities Act of 1933 and the partnership either (a) has more than 500 partners, or (b) offers each unit of partnership interest for less than $20,000, [1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75 ("safe harbor" provisions); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 26, Income Taxation of Partnerships (Matthew Bender)].

A partnership that is classified as "publicly traded" under these rules will be deemed to have transferred all of its assets to a newly formed corporation in exchange for the stock of the corporation, and distributed the stock to its partners in liquidation of their interests in the partnership [I.R.C. § 7704(f); see Conf. Rep. No. 100-495 (Pub. L. No. 100-495) p. 945]. Numerous "safe harbors," however, are available to allow partnerships to escape taxation as corporations under I.R.C. § 7704 [see 1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75]. Furthermore, even if a partnership (excluding regulated investment companies [see I.R.C. § 851(a)] meets the definition of a "publicly traded partnership," it will not be subject to corporate tax treatment if 90 percent or more of its gross income for the taxable year, and for each preceding taxable year beginning after December 31, 1987, in which it was in existence, consists of interest, dividends, or other specified passive-type income [I.R.C. § 7704(c), (d)]. Thus, I.R.C. § 7704 is inapplicable to the vast majority of limited partnerships.

6. If partnership name is to include surnames of general partners, which names are to be retained after death or retirement?

7. Partnership addresses (including county):

a. Address of its initial designated office.

NOTE:
This information must be included in the certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)(2); see §§ 16.21[2][a], 16.210].

8. Term of partnership, including:

a. Date partnership is to commence operations.

NOTE:
The length of "lead time" required before the partnership can commence business will be determined in part by the estimated time it will take to sell the limited partnership interests.

b. Length of time partnership is to continue.

NOTE:
The ULPA '08 provides that a limited partnership has a perpetual duration [Corp. Code § 15901.04(b); see § 16.20]. This provision is a "default" provision; it may be changed in a partnership agreement to specify some other duration [see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)]. Even if the default rule is not changed in the agreement, a limited partnership can be terminated by winding up and dissolution and by other events [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 727 (Matthew Bender)].

(1) Specified period.

(2) Specified period or until sooner dissolved and wound up in accordance with partnership agreement.

(3) Until dissolved by agreement.

(4) Until specified undertaking is completed.

(5) Until dissolved following occurrence of specific act or event.

(6) Any combination of these.

9. Partnership capital necessary to commence operations.

10. Initial capital contributions by general and limited partners.

This information must be included in the records to be kept by the partnership [see Corp. Code § 15901.11(8); see also § 16.23].

a. Cash.

b. Property, including:

(1) Description and valuation.

(2) Contributing partner's adjusted income tax basis.

NOTE:
A partner's contribution to the partnership may consist of a promissory note or other agreement to contribute money or property [Corp. Code § 15905.01]. The obligation of any partner to make a contribution may be compromised only by the written consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)]. A creditor of a limited partnership which extends credit or otherwise acts in reliance on an obligation of a partner to make a contribution, without notice of any compromise of that obligation, may enforce the original obligation [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)]. Nothing in Corp. Code § 15905.02 will be construed to affect the rights of third-party creditors of the partnership to seek equitable remedies or any rights existing under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)(7); see Civ. Code §§ 3439 et seq.].

e. Other obligation to contribute money or property or to render services, including description and valuation.

11. Details of any arrangements made among prospective partners for future contributions of capital.

NOTE:
Ordinarily, no such arrangements will exist at the formation stage. However, in the case of a small limited partnership when all members are prior acquaintances, discussions may have occurred regarding whether the partnership will be permitted to "call" for additional contributions. Unless contained in a partnership agreement made in a record, a limited partnership must keep at its designated office a record stating the times at which, or events on the happening of which, any additional contributions agreed to be made by each partner are to be made [see Corp. Code § 15901.11(8)].

12. Whether any general partner intends to make contribution and share in profit and loss as limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15644].

NOTE:

A person may be both a general partner and a limited partner. A person that is both has the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided by the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement in each capacity. When the person acts as a general partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for general partners. When the person acts as a limited partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for limited partners [Corp. Code § 15901.13; see §§ 16.30-16.35].

13. Whether obligation of any partner to make contributions may be compromised and, if so, whether consent of all partners should be required.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the obligation of a partner to make a contribution may be compromised only with the written consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c); see paragraph 11, above].

14. Details of arrangements for any partner to:

NOTE:

A partner may lend money to and transact other business with the partnership unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15901.12]. However, if the limited partnership is subject to regulation by the Commissioner of Corporations, there are generally restrictions on transactions between the partnership and a general partner [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.1-260.140.114.10 (real estate syndicates)]. Further, these transactions involve conflicts of interest that will have to be carefully spelled out in any offering memorandum or prospectus [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.114.5(c)(2), 260.140.117.3; see, e.g., Ch. 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates].

a. Transact business with partnership.

b. Loan property or cash to partnership.

c. Lease property to partnership, including terms of lease.

15. Share of each partner in profits and losses.

16. Amount of time each general partner will be required to devote to partnership business, and:

a. Whether partner has or may have outside business activities.

b. If partner has or may have outside business activities, restrictions, if any, to be placed on those activities.

17. Special duties, if any, each general partner will perform:

a. Division of labor according to each partner's level of skill, training, or other factors.

b. Designation of managing partners:

(1) Designation of managing partner; or

(2) Designation of partners to serve on management committee.

18. Any limitations to be imposed on amount or types of partnership liabilities that any general partner may incur.

19. Weight accorded each partner's vote:

a. General partners.

b. Limited partners.

20. Vote required for approval or disapproval by general partners of administrative and/or business matters occurring in ordinary course of partnership business.

21. Voting rights of limited partners

a. Matters on which limited partners may be allowed to vote, for example:

NOTE:
The ULPA '08 does not set forth extensive provisions on voting, in contrast to prior law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15636(f) (CRLPA)]. It does provide that a limited partner does not participate in the control of the business solely by voting on, proposing, or calling a meeting of the partners [Corp. Code § 15903.04(b)(5)]. The partnership agreement may set forth any provisions other than those prohibited by the ULPA '08 in Corp. Code § 15901.10(b) [see § 16.21[4][b]].

(1) Dissolution and winding up [see Corp. Code § 15908.01(b),(c); see also Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

(2) Merger of limited partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 15678.1-15911.01 et seq.; see also Ch. 16B, Mergers of Limited Partnerships].

(3) Sale, exchange, lease, mortgage, pledge, or other transfer of, or granting of security interest in, all or substantial part of partnership assets other than in ordinary course of business.

(4) Incurrence of debt other than in ordinary course of business.

(5) Change in nature of business.

(6) Transactions in which general partners have actual or potential conflict of interest with limited partners or the partnership.

(7) Election to continue business of partnership when general partner ceases to be such and at least one general partner remains.

(8) Admission of new general partner when at least one general partner remains.

(9) Other matters related to business of limited partnership that partnership agreement makes subject to approval or disapproval of limited partners.

(10) Any action required or permitted by law to bring, pursue, settle, or terminate derivative action on behalf of partnership.

b. Margin to be required for limited partners' approval or disapproval of partnership actions on which partnership agreement may permit them to vote.

22. Voting rights of limited partners applicable to expulsion of general partner [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15906.03(d) (unanimous consent of other partners)].

23. Voting requirements of limited partners applicable to admission of new general partner and election to continue business after general partner ceases to be partner and there is no remaining or surviving general partner [see Corp. Code § 15908.01(c); see also Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

24. Amount of salary or other remuneration to be paid to any partner, if any.

NOTE:
A limited partner ordinarily would not be paid a salary unless he or she independently contracts with the partnership. A partner may lend money to and transact other business with the limited partnership and has the same rights and obligations with respect to the transaction as a person that is not a partner [Corp. Code § 15901.12].

a. Basis for making salary determination (e.g., amount of time devoted to business).

b. Whether salaries paid should be deducted before computing net profits, or charged against partners' shares of net profits [see I.R.C. § 707(c); see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships].

25. Rights of partners to distributions during operation of partnership.

NOTE:
A "distribution" is a transfer of money or property by a partnership to its partners without consideration [Corp. Code § 15901.02(f)]. Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, distributions must be shared among the partners on the basis of the value, as stated in the required records when the limited partnership decides to make the distribution, of the contributions the limited partnership has received from each partner [Corp. Code § 15905.035].

a. Frequency of distributions to be specified in partnership agreement.

b. Extent of each distribution to be specified in partnership agreement.

c. Details of any arrangement by which any limited partner will have priority over other limited partners.

d. Whether limited partners will be given right to receive property other than money in any distribution.

NOTE:
Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, no limited partner has the right to demand or receive any distribution from a limited partnership in any form other than cash [Corp. Code § 15905.06].

e. Whether any partner may be compelled to accept distribution of assets in kind in lieu of proportionate cash distribution being made to other partners.

NOTE:
Subject to Corp. Code § 15908.09(b)(applications of assets in dissolution), a limited partnership may distribute an asset in kind to the extent each partner receives a percentage of the asset equal to the partner's share of distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.06].

26. Frequency with which accountings of partnership affairs will be required.

NOTE:
The ULPA '08 requires only that the partnership maintain records, including financial statements, for the six most recent fiscal years [Corp. Code § 15901.11(4),(6)]. The limited partners have access to these records [see Corp. Code § 15903.04(a)].

27. When financial statement should be distributed to all partners.

28. When copies of the partnership's tax returns should be:

a. Prepared by the partnership (i.e., whether partnership should be required to prepare them in advance of date on which partners' returns are due to IRS).

b. Distributed to all partners.

29. Extent to which limited partnership interests may be transferred [see Corp. Code § 15907.02(a)].

NOTE:
A partnership may be taxed as a corporation if its interests are assignable to the extent they are "publicly traded" [I.R.C. § 7704]. "Publicly traded" means its interest are (1) traded on an established securities market [I.R.C. § 7704(b)(1)], or (2) readily tradable on a secondary market [I.R.C. § 7704(b)(2); see Conf. Rep. No. 100-495, Pub. L. No. 100-203, p. 948 (definitions)]. A partnership's interests, however, will be treated as publicly traded on a secondary market only if they were issued in a transaction that was registered under the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], or in a transaction that was not so registered when the partnership either (1) has more than 500 partners, or (2) offers each unit of partnership interest for less than $20,000 [see 1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75]. For further discussion, see §§ 16.13, 16.71.

30. Criteria for admission of additional limited partners:

a. When partnership interest is to be acquired directly from partnership:

(1) Contributions and other financial requirements.

(2) Consent required.

NOTE:
The partnership agreement usually provides for the acquisition of a partnership interest directly from the partnership. If the agreement does not provide for this, then the written consent of the partners is required [Corp. Code § 15903.01]. The partnership agreement may provide for a consent of a specified number of partnership interests, or simply permit the general partners to admit additional limited partners on compliance with the agreement.

b. When partnership interest will be acquired from transferor, whether partnership agreement should admit transferee as limited partner.

NOTE:
A transferee may become a limited partner if and to the extent that the partnership agreement provides or all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners consent [Corp. Code § 15907.02(h)].

31. Rules desired for partnership meetings.

NOTE:
Unlike prior law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15637 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010)], the ULPA '08 does not contain default provisions regarding partnership meetings. Therefore, the partnership agreement should set forth any desired provisions governing this topic [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 732.01[2] (Matthew Bender)].

a. Place where meetings are to be held [see Corp. Code § 15637(a)].

b. Time and manner of giving notice of meeting.

c. Proportion of limited partnership interests required to constitute quorum at partnership meetings.

d. Whether partnership agreement should permit or limit action to be taken without meeting on written consent.

NOTE:
The ULPA '08 provides that action requiring the consent of partners may be taken without a meeting, and a partner may appoint a proxy to consent or otherwise act for the partner by signing an appointment record, either personally or by the partner's attorney in fact [Corp. Code § 15901.15].

e. Whether notice of adjourned meeting need be given [see Corp. Code § 15637(d)].

32. Whether general partners may be expelled for specified reasons [see Corp. Code § 15906.03; see also § 16.37[2]].

NOTE:
A person is dissociated from a limited partnership as a general partner upon the occurrence of an event agreed to in the partnership agreement as causing the person's dissociation as a general partner, or upon the person's expulsion as a general partner pursuant to the partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15906.03(b),(c)].

33. Whether partnership agreement should provide for specific consequences to general partner for breach of partnership agreement [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15906.04(b) (wrongful dissociation)].

34. Rules desired to govern withdrawal of general partner.

NOTE:

Unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise, upon dissociation as a general partner a person's right to participate as a general partner in the management and conduct of the partnership's activities terminates, among other things [see Corp. Code § 15906.05(a)]. Further, the person's dissociation as a general partner does not of itself discharge the person from any obligation to the limited partnership or other partners which the person incurred while a general partner [Corp. Code § 15906.05(b); see §§ 16.34-16.35].

35. Rules restricting or preventing general partner from assigning or encumbering partnership interest [see Corp. Code § 15907.01, 15907.02; see also § 16.38].

36. Rules regarding liability of dissociated general partner.

NOTE:

Unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise, liability is as set forth in Corp. Code § 15906.07 [see § 16.37[4]].

37. Rules desired to govern withdrawal of limited partner:

NOTE:

A person does not have a right to dissociate as a limited partner before the termination of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15906.01(a)]. However, this is one of the provisions that may be modified in a partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15901.10].

In a given partnership, if limited partners are considered as simply investors with transferable interests, the partnership agreement may provide for their dissociation on transfer and admission of the transferee as a limited partner (as in a corporation when a stockholder sells stock to another person who becomes the stockholder). However, in an enterprise that amounts to a family limited partnership with relationships among the original partners, the partnership agreement may provide that the original partners remain as such during the term of the partnership, even if some or all of their transferable interests become owned by others. See Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 746.01 (Matthew Bender).

38. Whether partnership agreement should provide for specific consequences to limited partner for breach of partnership agreement.

39. Whether partnership desires to restrict limited partners' right to information.

NOTE:

A partnership agreement may not unreasonably restrict the right to information under Corp. Code § 15903.04 [see § 16.30[1]], but it may impose reasonable restrictions on the availability and use of information obtained under that section and may define appropriate remedies, including liquidated damages, for a breach of any reasonable restriction on use [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(4); see § 16.21[4][b]].

40. Any specific provisions specifying consequences of partner's failure to make required contribution, such as [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)]:

NOTE:
A partnership agreement may provide that the interest of a partner who fails to make any contribution or other payment that the partner is required to make will be subject to specific remedies for, or specific consequences of, the failure. A provision will be enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the partner seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the agreement was made [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)].

a. Loss of voting, approval, or other rights.

b. Loss of partner's ability to actively participate in management and operations of partnership.

c. Liquidated damages.

d. Reduction of defaulting partner's economic rights.

41. Rules desired to specify when partnership should be dissolved and wound up [see Corp. Code § 15908.01 et seq.]:

NOTE:
The procedures involved in the dissolution and winding up of limited partnerships are discussed in Ch. 16A.

a. Time to be specified for, or event that will precipitate, dissolution and winding up.

b. Number of general and limited partners needed for written consent to dissolution and winding up.

c. Whether dissolution and winding up will be required if general partner ceases to be such and at least one other general partner remains.

d. Whether new general partner may be admitted if sole general partner ceases to be such.

42. Rules desired to govern winding up on dissolution [see Corp. Code § 15908.03]:

a. Which partners should be required by partnership agreement to wind up partnership business.

NOTE:
Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement if a dissolved limited partnership does not have a general partner, a person to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities may be appointed by the consent of limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective [Corp. Code § 15908.03(c)].

b. If limited partners wind up partnership affairs, whether they should be allowed reasonable compensation [see Corp. Code § 15908.03(e)].

43. Rules desired for distribution of assets on dissolution and after satisfaction of liabilities to creditors; either [see Corp. Code § 15908.09(a),(b):

a. To partners as they share in distributions; or

b. As otherwise provided by partnership agreement.

B. Procedural Guide

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.110

§ 16.110 Preliminary Considerations

1. Must partnership file certificate of fictitious name [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930; see also § 16.21[3][c]]?

NOTE:
A "fictitious business name" is any name other than the name of the limited partnership on file with the Secretary of State Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900(b)(4). For further discussion, see Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business .

2. What type of licenses or permits will be required before partnership can conduct its business?

NOTE:
For discussion of various license and permit requirements, see Chs. 1B through 1F.

3. Will goodwill be major asset of partnership's business [see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships]?

NOTE:
The partnership agreement should require payments based on goodwill in provisions governing the liquidation of any partnership interest when goodwill is a substantial asset. Unless expressly provided for, payments for goodwill are not treated as payments in exchange for an interest in partnership property and, accordingly, are taxed as ordinary income to the partner who receives them [see I.R.C. § 736(b)(2)(B); see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships]. This rule only applies if capital is not a material income-producing factor for the partnership and the retiring or deceased partner was a general partner [I.R.C. § 736(b)(3)].

4. Will accounts receivable be major asset of partnership's business [see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships]?

NOTE:
Counsel should advise clients who intend to form a limited partnership that will operate a business involving accounts receivable that payments for unrealized receivables made in liquidation of a partnership interest are not considered payments for partnership property [see I.R.C. § 736(b)(2)(A)*]. This rule only applies if capital is not a material income-producing factor for the partnership and the retiring or deceased partner was a general partner [I.R.C. § 736(b)(3)].

5. What accounting method (cash or accrual) should be used [see I.R.C. § 446]?

NOTE:
Partnerships organized to operate retail or wholesale commercial enterprises are likely to accumulate substantial accounts receivable and should not employ the accrual method, since it will result in tax liability for amounts not necessarily realized [see I.R.C. § 446*].

However, a partnership that has a C corporation as a partner may not use the cash method of accounting unless it is a farming business, a qualified personal service corporation, or a small business with less than $5,000,000 in gross receipts [I.R.C. § 448(a)(2), (b)], or unless it qualifies under a special small business exception, under which the IRS allows certain taxpayers with average annual gross receipts of $10 million or less to use the cash method of accounting [Rev. Proc. 2002-28, 2002-1 C.B. 815]. A partnership that qualifies as a "tax shelter" [see I.R.C. § 461(i)(3)*] is prohibited from using the cash method of accounting under all circumstances [I.R.C. § 448(a)(3)]. For further discussion of these restrictions, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships .

6. If separate capital and income accounts are to be maintained for each partner, should each partner's annual net balance:

a. Automatically be transferred to capital accounts at close of each partnership taxable year; or

b. Be treated as loan to partnership and, if so [see Corp. Code § 15901.12]:
(1) What, if any, rate of interest will loan bear?

(2) From what date will interest be due?

7. What taxable year should be adopted by partnership [see I.R.C. §§ 444, 706; see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships]?

NOTE:
Unless the partnership elects a taxable year pursuant to I.R.C. § 444, its taxable year will be determined according to the rules set forth in I.R.C. § 706 [see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships]. For purposes of California taxation, the taxable year of a taxpayer may not be different from the taxable year used for federal purposes, unless initiated or approved by the Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17565(a)].

8. Could partnership be classified as corporation for income tax purposes, due to "public trading" of partnership interests [I.R.C. § 7704]?

NOTE:
A publicly traded partnership is classified as a corporation for tax purposes [I.R.C. § 7704; see I.R.C. § 7704(b) (definition); see also P b, below]. For further discussion of I.R.C. § 7704, see § 16.70.

a. Are partnership interests traded as follows [I.R.C. § 7704(b)]?

NOTE:
Partnership interests are considered "publicly traded" only when transfer occurs under the following circumstances [I.R.C. § 7704(b)].

(1) Traded on established securities market [see Conf. Rep. No. 100-495, Pub. L. No. 100-495, p. 947 ("established securities market" defined)]; or

(2) Readily tradable on secondary market or its substantial equivalent [see Conf. Rep. No. 100-495, Pub. L. No. 100-495, p. 948 (definitions of "readily tradable" and "secondary market")].

b. Does partnership meet either of following criteria [1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75]?

NOTE:
A partnership that does not meet either of these criteria is exempt from application of I.R.C. § 7704. In addition, the IRS has specified numerous other exemptions from application of that section [see Notice 88-75, 1988-2 C.B. 386].

(1) All of partnership interests were issued in transaction that was registered under Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa]; or

(2) All of partnership interests were issued in transaction that was not registered under Securities Act of 1933, but partnership either:
(a) Has more than 500 partners; or

(b) Offers each unit of partnership interest for less than $20,000.

c. Is partnership electing 1987 partnership [I.R.C. § 7704(g)]?

NOTE:
A partnership that qualifies as an electing 1987 partnership [see I.R.C. § 7704(g)(2)] is exempt from the application of I.R.C. § 7704, but may be subject to additional tax [I.R.C. § 7704(g)(1), (3)].

B. Procedural Guide

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.111

§ 16.111 Formation of Domestic Limited Partnerships

NOTE:
A "domestic limited partnership" is a limited partnership formed in California [Corp. Code § 15901.02(q)]. A "foreign limited partnership" is a limited partnership formed under the laws of a jurisdiction other than California [Corp. Code § 15901.02(k)].

1. Select partnership name that meets all statutory criteria.

a. Choose name that is distinguishable in records of Secretary of State from [Corp. Code § 15901.08(d); see § 16.21[3]]:

NOTE:
The fact that a partnership name has been reserved or is already in use in California can be ascertained from the office of the Secretary of State by telephone or written inquiry [see paragraph 2, below]. A limited partnership may apply to the Secretary of State for authorization to use a name that does not comply with the above requirements [see Corp. Code § 15901.08(e); see also § 16.21[3]].

(1) Name of any limited partnership that has previously filed certificate of limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.01, or any foreign limited partnership registered pursuant to Corp. Code § 15909.01; and

(2) Each name reserved under Corp. Code § 15901.09.

b. If desired, include name of any partner [Corp. Code § 15901.08(a)].

c. Add either of following to end of name [Corp. Code § 15901.08(b)]:

(1) "Limited Partnership"; or

(2) The abbreviation "L.P." or "LP."

d. Do not use words "bank," "insurance," "trust," "trustee," "incorporated," "inc.," "corporation," or "corp." [Corp. Code § 15901.08(g)].

e. Do not use language prohibited by federal law [see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations, § 2.13].

2. Protect name by obtaining certificate of reservation of that name from Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15901.09; see also § 16.210]:

a. Determine availability of name from office of Secretary of State by:

(1) Telephone: (916) 653-3365; or

(2) Letter, addressed to Secretary of State, Limited Partnership Unit, P.O. Box 944225, Sacramento, CA 94244-2250.

b. Send written request for reservation of name to office of Secretary of State [see P a(2), above] with required fee [see Gov. Code § 12188(a); see § 16.260 (official name reservation form)].

c. Do not attempt to reserve name for two or more consecutive 60-day periods.

NOTE:

The Secretary of State will not issue certificates reserving the same name for two or more consecutive 60-day periods to the same applicant or for the use or benefit of the same person [see Corp. Code § 15901.09(c)]. If the formation of a limited partnership is not completed within the initial 60-day period, it would appear that another reservation could be made on the sixty-second day, provided the name had not been reserved by someone else on the sixty-first day.

3. Advise partnership to protect its name by one or more of following:

a. Local filing of statement of fictitious business name [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930; see also Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business].

b. Registration of trademark or service mark [see Ch. 103B, Trademarks].

4. Draft, and have all original general and limited partners execute, limited partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15902.01].

NOTE:

Although the ULPA '08 requires a limited partnership to have an agreement, it does not prescribe specific language. It does not even require the partnership agreement to be written [Corp. Code § 15902.01; see Corp. Code § 15901.02(x) ("partnership agreement" defined)]. Rather, with certain limited exceptions [see Corp. Code § 15901.10; see also § 16.21[4]], the ULPA '08 merely states the rules that will apply absent a contrary provision in the agreement. The Client Interview portion of this Transaction Guide [see § 16.100*] indicates what choices are available to the drafter of the agreement. Suggestions for the drafting of a limited partnership agreement are set forth in § 16.120; for a limited partnership agreement, see § 16.200.

5. Select agent for service of process to be named in certificate of limited partnership and maintained within California by the partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.14, 15902.01(a)(3), 15621(a)(4); see also § 16.23[1]].

NOTE:

After its formation, the limited partnership must continuously maintain, within California, an agent for the service of process [Corp. Code § 15901.14(a)]. The name and address of individuals or the name of the corporation designated as the agent for service of process must be included in the certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code §§ 15902.01(a)(3), 15901.16(d)]. If a corporation is designated as agent for service of process, it must file a certificate disclosing the places it can be served with process and the name of each person authorized to accept service of process, among other matters [see Corp. Code § 15901.16(d); see also Corp. Code § 1505].

6. Draft and file certificate of limited partnership [see § 16.210].

NOTE:

For a detailed guide to drafting and filing a limited partnership certificate, see § 16.121.

7. Pay minimum franchise tax to Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935].

NOTE:

Limited partnerships must pay the minimum franchise tax if they are doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(a)]. Before January 1, 2011, "Doing business" is defined as actively engaging in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a)]. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer is doing business in California if certain conditions relating to organization, sales, property value, or compensation paid are met [see Rev. & Tax Code § 23101(b); see also Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations, § 12B.31].

In addition, limited partnerships that have executed, acknowledged, and filed a certificate of limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15902.01*] must pay the minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(b)(1)]. This tax is payable for each taxable year or portion of taxable year, until a certificate of cancellation is filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(b)(1); see Corp. Code § 15902.03*; see also Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

The Secretary of State will include with the instructional materials, provided in conjunction with the form for filing a certificate of limited partnership, a notice stating that the filing of a certificate of limited partnership obligates the partnership to pay an annual tax for that taxable year [Corp. Code § 15902.01(g); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935*]. The notice will be updated annually to specify the dollar amount of the annual tax [Corp. Code § 15902.01(g)].

8. Advise partnership that on receipt of certificate of limited partnership from Secretary of State, it should record certified copy of certificate in office of county recorder of any county in which partnership owns real property [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

NOTE:

The recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the partnership real property that the persons named as general partners are all the general partners, among other matters [Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

9. Advise partnership to establish (and continuously maintain) within California an office at which partnership records [see P 10, below] are to be kept [Corp. Code § 15901.11].

10. Advise partnership to maintain the following information at its designated office [Corp. Code § 15901.11]:

a. Current list, in alphabetical order by name of partners, of each partner's full name and last known street and mailing address.

NOTE:
The list must separately identify the general partners, in alphabetical order, and the limited partners, in alphabetical order [Corp. Code § 15901.11(1)].

b. Copy of certificate of limited partnership and:

(1) All amendments to and restatements of certificate.

(2) Executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which any certificate, amendment, or restatement has been executed.

c. Copies of partnership's federal, state, and local income tax returns and reports, if any, for prior six years.

d. Copies of original partnership agreement and all amendments.

e. Partnership financial statements for prior six years.

f. Copy of any filed certificate of conversion or merger.

g. Copy of any record made by partnership during past three years of any consent given by, or vote taken of, any partner.

h. Unless contained in partnership agreement made in record:

(1) Amount of cash, and description and statement of agreed value of other benefits, contributed and agreed to be contributed by each partner;

(2) Times at which or events upon which additional contributions agreed to be made by each partner are to be made;

(3) For person that is both general and limited partner, specification of what transferable interest person owns in each capacity; and

(4) Any events upon which limited partnership will be dissolved and activities wound up.

§ 16.112 Registration of Foreign Limited Partnerships

NOTE:

The laws of the jurisdiction in which the firm was organized govern its organization and affairs and the liability of its limited partners. A foreign limited partnership may not be denied registration in California by reason of any difference between those laws and the law of California [Corp. Code § 15909.01].

1. Advise foreign limited partnership that before transacting intrastate business in California, it must register with Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15909.02].

NOTE:

The term "transacting intrastate business" means entering into repeated and successive transactions of business in California, other than interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)(1); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai)(2)-(4); see also § 16.51[1][b]]. The Attorney General may sue to restrain an unregistered foreign limited partnership from transacting intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 15909.08].

2. Advise foreign limited partnership that if its name does not comply with Corp. Code § 15901.08 [see § 16.21[3]], for purposes of transacting business in California it must adopt an alternate name that does comply [Corp. Code §§ 15909.02(a)(1), 15909.05(a)].

NOTE:

If a foreign corporation authorized to transact business in California changes its name to one that does not comply with Corp. Code § 15901.08, it may not transact business in California until it complies with the above name requirements and obtains an amended certificate of registration [Corp. Code § 15909.05(b)].

3. Complete, and have signed and acknowledged by general partner, registration application on form prescribed by Secretary of State [see § 16.220], setting forth [Corp. Code § 15909.02(a)]:

NOTE:
The partnership must also deliver with the completed application a certificate of existence signed by the official having custody of its publicly filed records in the jurisdiction where the partnership is organized [Corp. Code § 15909.02(b)].

a. Name of firm and, if different, name under which it proposes to register and do business in California.

b. Jurisdiction and date of formation.

c. Name and address of agent for service of process [see Corp. Code § 15909.02(a)(4); see also Corp. Code § 15901.16(d)(1)].

NOTE:
If the agent for service of process is a corporation, only the corporation's name need be designated. The corporation must file a certificate disclosing the address of each office where service can be made and the name of each person authorized to accept service, among other matters [see Corp. Code § 15901.16; see also Corp. Code § 1505].

If a partnership is domiciled outside of California and has no regular place of business within California, it should file a statement of unincorporated association [see Corp. Code §§ 15800(a), 16309] designating an agent for service of process (either a natural person or corporation that has filed the certificate required of corporate agents [see Corp. Code § 1505]) with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 18200].

The Secretary of State will include with the instructional materials, provided in conjunction with the form for filing a certificate of limited partnership, a notice stating that the filing of a certificate of limited partnership obligates the partnership to pay an annual tax for that taxable year [Corp. Code § 15692(h); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935]. The notice will be updated annually to specify the dollar amount of the annual tax [Corp. Code § 15692(h)].

d. Address of designated office of firm and its principal office in California, if any.

e. Names and business or residence addresses of general partners.

f. Whether foreign limited partnership is foreign limited liability limited partnership.

4. Submit following to Secretary of State, Limited Partnership Unit, P.O. Box 944225, Sacramento, CA 94244-2250:

a. Original application and copies.

NOTE:
The Secretary of State will compare and certify two copies of the certificate without charge [see Gov. Code § 12185].

b. Filing fee [Gov. Code § 12188(c)].

NOTE:

The Secretary of State may cancel the partnership's application and certificate of registration if the partnership's check or other remittance submitted to pay the filing fee is not honored. On receiving written notification that the check was not honored for payment, the Secretary must give written notice to the partnership's agent for service of process, or to the person who submitted the check, that the application and certificate will be cancelled if payment is not received. If the partnership does not then pay the amount due with a cashier's check or its equivalent, the Secretary must give a second written notice of cancellation, effective on issuance. The second notice must be given at least 20 days after the first notice and no later than 90 days after the original filing [Corp. Code § 15909.05(c)].

5. Pay minimum franchise tax to Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935].

NOTE:

Foreign limited partnerships that are doing business or that have registered in California must pay the minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(a), (b)(1)]. Before January 1, 2011, "Doing business" is defined as actively engaging in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a)]. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer is doing business in California if certain conditions relating to organization, sales, property value, or compensation paid are met [see Rev. & Tax Code § 23101(b); see also Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations, § 12B.31]. This tax must be paid for each taxable year (or portion of taxable year) until a certificate of cancellation [LP-7] is filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(b)(1); see Corp. Code § 15909.07; see also Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

6. Advise partnership that on receipt of certificate of registration from Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15909.04], it should record certified copy of application for registration and certificate of registration in office of county recorder of any county in which partnership owns real property [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

NOTE:

The recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of the partnership real property that the persons named as general partners are all the general partners, among other matters [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

7. Advise partnership that it must file amendment to application for registration, signed and acknowledged by a general partner, in office of Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15909.06; see § 16.221]:

a. When any statement made in prior application for registration has become erroneous.

b. If any statement in application for registration was false when made.

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.120

§ 16.120 Provisions for Limited Partnership Agreement

NOTE:

The ULPA '08 grants a considerable latitude to the drafter of a limited partnership agreement. Except as specifically prohibited by the ULPA '08, the partnership agreement governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership. To the extent the agreement does not otherwise provide, the ULPA '08 governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.10; see § 16.21[4][b] (prohibited provisions); see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships (Matthew Bender)]. For partnerships formed before January 1, 2008, certain provisions of the ULPA '08 will not apply except as the partners otherwise elect in the manner provided in the partnership agreement or by law for amending the partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15912.06(b),(c); see also § 16.11].

No attempt has been made to incorporate the real estate syndicate rules or any other rules of the California Corporations Commissioner that may require specific provisions to appear in the partnership agreement regardless of the options offered by the CRLPA. For coverage of the real estate syndicate rules, see Chs. 29A, Joint Ventures , 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates].

[1] Formation and Organization

1. Begin agreement with preamble setting forth [see § 16.200[2], Preamble]:

a. Names of initial general partners and designation of those persons as general partners.

b. Names of initial limited partners and designation of those persons as limited partners.

c. Assent of those persons to terms set forth in balance of agreement.

2. Set forth agreement of parties to form limited partnership, designated as "the Partnership," pursuant to the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [see § 16.200[2], P 1.01].

3. State name of partnership [see § 16.200[2], P 1.02].

NOTE:
The name of the partnership may include the name of any limited partner [Corp. Code § 15901.08(a)].

a. Use name that is distinguishable in records of Secretary of State from [Corp. Code § 15901.08(d)]:

NOTE:
A limited partnership may apply to the Secretary of State for authorization to use a name that does not comply with the above [Corp. Code § 15901.08(e); see § 16.21[3]].

(1) Name of any limited partnership that has previously filed a certificate [see Corp. Code § 15902.01] or any registered foreign limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15909.01]; and

(2) Each name reserved under Corp. Code § 15901.09.

NOTE:
The name of the partnership may include the name of a partner [Corp. Code § 15901.08(a)].

b. Do not use words "bank," "insurance," "trust," "trustee," "incorporated," "inc.," "corporation," or "corp." [Corp. Code § 15901.08(g)].

c. Add either of following to end of name [Corp. Code § 15901.08(b)]:

(1) "Limited Partnership"; or

(2) The abbreviation "L.P." or LP.

4. Specify type of business partnership will conduct, adding or including related or incidental activities [see § 16.200[2], P 1.03].

NOTE:
A California limited partnership may engage in any lawful business activity, whether or not for profit, except the banking business, the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, or the trust company business [Corp. Code § 15901.04(b)].

5. Consider providing that partnership will engage in no other business [see § 16.200[2], P 1.03].

6. Specify address of partnership's designated office within California [see § 16.200[2], P 1.04]:

a. Include county.

b. State that address may change, as determined from time to time by general partners.

c. Provide for limited partners to be notified of any change of address of designated office.

7. If desired, include term of partnership's existence [see § 16.200[2], P 1.05]:

NOTE:
The ULPA '08 provides that a limited partnership has perpetual duration [see Corp. Code § 15901.04(c)]. This default provision, however, may be changed by the partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15901.10]. However, the default provision does not apply to a partnership formed before January 1, 2008 unless the partners otherwise elect [Corp. Code § 15912.06(c); see § 16.20*].

a. Specify that term will commence on specified date or upon filing of certificate of limited partnership.

b. State term, either:

(1) For fixed period of time, sufficiently long to accomplish contemplated project; or

(2) Unlimited or indefinite period, e.g., until dissolution.

8. Include agreement of general partners to execute and file certificate of limited partnership [see § 16.200[2], P 1.06].

9. Include glossary of terms used in agreement [see § 16.200[2], P 1.07].

[2] Partnership Members and Transfers

1. Provide that additional general partners may be admitted after original certificate of limited partnership has been filed, on [Corp. Code § 15904.01; see Corp. Code § 15636(f); see also § 16.200[2], P 2.03]:

a. On consent of all partners;

b. As result of conversion or merger;

c. After dissociation of limited partnership's last general partner [see Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2); or

d. As otherwise desired.

NOTE:
Corp. Code § 15904.01(a) provides that a person becomes a general partner as provided in the partnership agreement.

For a consent to the admission of an additional general partner and relevant discussion, see § 16.241.

2. Provide for admission of replacement for sole or sole remaining general partner:

NOTE:
A partnership is dissolved 90 days after the dissociation of a person as a general partner if the partnership does not have a remaining general partner, unless before the end of that period consent to continue its activities and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning a majority of rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective, and at least one person is admitted as a general partner in accordance with the consent [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2)].

3. Provide for admission of additional limited partners [see Corp. Code § 15903.01; see also § 16.200[2], P 2.05].

NOTE:

A person becomes a limited partner as provided in the partnership agreement, as the result of a conversion or merger, or with the consent of all the partners [Corp. Code § 15903.01].

4. Provide for admission of transferees of partnership interests as substituted limited partners, subject to [Corp. Code §§ 15907.02(h), 15674(a); see § 16.200[2], P 2.06, Article 9]:

NOTE:

The transferee of a general partner's or a limited partner's interest in a limited partnership may become a limited partner when (1) the partnership agreement so provides, or (2) all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners consent [Corp. Code § 15907.02(h); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 9.03].

a. Other provisions of partnership agreement; or

b. Consent of existing partners.

5. Require general partners to add name, address and contribution for any new partner to records maintained by partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.11, 15631(b); see also § 16.200[2], P 2.07].

6. Provide that any new partner must execute a written agreement to be bound by partnership agreement prior to admission to partnership [see § 16.200[2], P 2.08].

7. If desired, provide for creation of classes of limited partners [Corp. Code § 15903.07]:

a. Define rights, powers, and duties of those classes, including rights, powers and duties senior to other classes of limited powers.

b. If desired, provide to all or certain specified classes the right to vote separately or with all or any class or the general partners on any matter.

8. If desired, provide for creation of classes of general partners [Corp. Code § 15904.09]:

a. Define rights, powers, and duties of those classes, including rights, powers and duties senior to other classes of general powers.

b. If desired, provide to all or certain specified classes the right to vote separately or with all or any class or the general partners on any matter.

[3] Partnership Finances

1. Set forth initial capitalization of partnership [see § 16.200[2], P 3.01].

NOTE:

In a small limited partnership in which all of the initial general and limited partners are known, the capitalization can be stated simply in terms of dollar amounts [see § 16.200[2], P 3.01]. In more complex partnerships, capitalization is often expressed in terms of partnership units to be sold in return for initial capital contributions by partners [see Chs. 29A, Joint Ventures , 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates].

Often, an affiliate, such as the president, of the general partner makes a small contribution (in the more complex partnerships, this will generally be the cost of one limited partnership unit), thereby becoming the original or initial limited partner. He or she then receives that contribution back upon the admission of the first additional limited partner. The general partner may also purchase another class of limited partnership interests or make a contribution giving it a percentage interest in the distributions, income, and losses. In any event, these separate contributions should be indicated either in the agreement or in an attachment to the agreement.

2. Set forth each original partner's initial contribution to partnership of either [see Corp. Code § 15905.01; see also § 16.200[2], PP 3.02, 3.03]:

NOTE:

"Contribution," except in the phrase "right of contribution," means any benefit provided by a person to a limited partnership in order to become a partner or in the person's capacity as a partner [Corp. Code § 15901.02(c)].

A person admitted to a limited partnership as a partner is not required to make any contribution. However, subject to any provision in the partnership agreement, a partner is not excused from any obligation to contribute money or other property or other benefit to, or to person services for, a limited partnership by reason of the partner's death, disability, or other inability to perform personally [Corp. Code § 15905.03(a)].

If an advance ruling from the IRS on the tax status of the partnership is desired [see § 16.113], the general partner or partners must have a 1 percent interest in each material item of partnership income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit. Limited partnership interests owned by a general partner are not counted [Rev. Proc. 74-17, 1974-1 C.B. 438].

Special requirements exist for syndicates required to qualify under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. For coverage of these requirements, see Chs. 29A, Joint Ventures , 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates .

a. Money.

b. Property, describing property and indicating agreed upon value.

NOTE:

Property is rarely contributed to a partnership. In most cases, property will be acquired out of partnership assets and loans or will be leased.

c. Services rendered, describing services and indicating agreed upon value.

NOTE:

Services are rarely contributed. In most cases, a separate agreement provides for services in return for stated fees.

d. Promissory note or other obligation to contribute money or property, describing property and indicating agreed upon value.

e. Obligation to render services, describing services and indicating agreed upon value.

3. Consider including provision permitting general partner to make contributions, and share in profits, losses, and distributions, as limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15901.13].

NOTE:

If the agreement permits the general partner to participate as a limited partner, that partner's interest as a limited partner must be separately designated in the partnership agreement. One who is both a general and a limited partner has the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided by the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement in each capacity. When the person acts as a general partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for general partners. When the person acts as a limited partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for limited partners [Corp. Code § 15901.13].

The limited partnership interest held by a general partner could be limited by, for example, denying the general partner the right to vote its limited partnership interests on matters such as removing a general partner, particularly if unanimity is required by the agreement. One way of doing this is by creating two classes of limited partnership interests.

4. Include provision for initial capital contribution by future limited partners [see § 16.200[2], P 3.04].

5. Consider including provision governing additional contributions by partners, e.g., provision permitting additional voluntary contributions by any limited partner, with or without provision that additional contributions are subject to approval by general partners.

6. Consider provision prohibiting interest on contributions [see § 16.200[2], P 3.05].

NOTE:

If partnership interests are being sold over a period of time and the partnership will not be commenced unless adequate start up capital is contributed, an interest-bearing impound account in which contributions are held would be a standard feature of the partnership agreement. For illustrative provisions, see Chs. 29A, Joint Ventures , 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates .

7. Consider including provisions protecting partnership against default of limited partner's promise to make or complete contribution, either:

a. Provision for sale of defaulting limited partner's interest to either another limited partner or general partner; or

b. Provision that obligation of partner to make any contribution may be compromised upon notice of compromise to all existing creditors of partnership, either [see Corp. Code § 15905.02(c); see also § 16.250]:

NOTE:

Subject to contrary provisions in the partnership agreement, the obligation of a partner to make a contribution or return money or property distributed in violation of the CRLPA may be compromised only by the written consent of all the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)].

Notwithstanding the compromise of any obligation to contribute to the partnership, a creditor of the partnership which extends credit or otherwise acts in reliance on an obligation described in Corp. Code § 15905.03(a) without any notice of any compromise may enforce the original obligation [Corp. Code § 15905.03(a); see § 16.250].

(1) By written consent of all partners; or

(2) Under specified conditions.

8. If desired, provide that interest of partner who fails to make any contribution or other required payment will be subject to specific remedies for, or specific consequences of, failure [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 3.06]:

NOTE:

A provision will be enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the partner seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the agreement was made rights [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)].

a. Loss of voting, approval, or other rights.

b. Loss of partner's ability to actively participate in management and operations of partnership.

c. Liquidated damages.

d. Reduction of defaulting partner's economic rights, which may include one or more of following [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)(1)-(6)]:

NOTE:

These provisions are not to be construed to affect the rights of third-party creditors of the partnership to seek equitable remedies nor any rights existing under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)(7); see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.].

(1) Diluting, reducing, or eliminating defaulting partner's proportionate interest in partnership.

(2) Subordinating defaulting partner's interest in partnership to that of non-defaulting partners.

(3) Permitting forced sale of partnership interest.

(4) Permitting lending or contribution by other partners of amount necessary to meet defaulting partner's commitment.

(5) Adjusting interest rates or other rates of return, preferred, priority, or otherwise, with respect to contributions by or capital accounts of the other partners.

(6) Fixing value of defaulting partner's interest in partnership by appraisal, formula and redemption, or sale of defaulting partner's interest in partnership at percentage of that value.

[4] Allocation and Distribution of Profits and Losses

1. Provide for allocation of partnership profits and losses, either [see Corp. Code § 15905.035; see also § 16.200[2], P 4.01]:

NOTE:
The profits and losses must be allocated among the partners in the manner provided in the partnership agreement. If the agreement does not otherwise provide, profits and losses must be allocated in the same manner as the partners share distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.04].

a. In the same manner as the partners share distributions; or

b. On any other basis acceptable to parties.

2. Include definition of "net income" and "net loss" [see § 16.200[2], P 1.07(i)].

3. Provide for distribution of partnership profits in terms of cash available for distribution [see § 16.200[2], paragraph 4.02].

NOTE:
A distribution must be shared among the partners on the basis of the value, as stated in the required records when the partnership decides to make the distribution, of the contributions the partnership has received from each partner.

4. Include provision that partners do not have right to receive property other than money upon any distribution [Corp. Code § 15905.06; see § 16.200[2], P 4.03].

[5] Management of Partnership Affairs

1. Provide for exercise by general partners only of powers of control and management of partnership affairs [see § 16.200[2], P 5.01].

2. Designate general partners responsible for management, either:

NOTE:

Each general partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the limited partnership's activities. Except as otherwise provided in the ULPA '08, any matter relating to the activities of the partnership may be exclusively decided by the general partner, or if there is more than one general partner, by a majority of the general partners [Corp. Code § 15904.06(a)].

a. Equal responsibility among all general partners [see § 16.200[2], P 5.01];

b. Managing partner;

c. Management committee; or

d. Specific class of general partners, if any.

3. Set forth any desired restrictions on authority of managing partners.

4. Describe power and authority of managing general partners generally, and specifically with regard to [see § 16.200[2], P 5.01]:

a. Acquisition of property for partnership in ordinary course of partnership business.

b. Disposition of partnership property in ordinary course of partnership business.

c. Financing of partnership activities.

d. Employment of agents to facilitate conduct of partnership affairs.

e. Any other action permitted by law and customary in, or reasonably related to, conduct of partnership business or affairs.

5. Include prohibition against exercise of control or management functions by limited partners [see § 16.200[2], P 5.02].

6. Provide for fiduciary duties of general partners [see § 16.200[2], P 5.03].

7. Consider inclusion of provision permitting general partners to act on behalf of partnership in own names or in name of nominee [see § 16.200[2], P 5.04].

8. Consider inclusion of provisions governing dissociation of general partners [see § 16.200[2], P 5.05].

NOTE:

After dissociation, among other things the person's transferable interest is owned by the person as a mere transferee [Corp. Code § 15906.05(a)(5); see § 16.37[3]].

9. Consider inclusion of provisions governing dissociation of limited partners [see § 16.200[2], paragraph 5.06].

[6] Books, Records, and Accounts

1. Provide for use of cash or accrual method of accounting [see § 16.200[2], P 6.01(a)].

2. Specify partnership's taxable year [see I.R.C. §§ 444, 706; see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships , § 16.200[2], P 6.01(b)].

NOTE:
Unless the partnership elects a taxable year pursuant to Internal Revenue Code Section 444, its taxable year will be determined according to the rules set forth in Internal Revenue Code Section 706 [see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships].

3. Include provision requiring general partners to maintain true and proper books, accounts, records, and reports [see § 16.200[2], P 6.02].

4. Include requirement that partnership keep and maintain records required by statute [see Corp. Code § 15901.11] in its designated office in California [see § 16.200[2], P 6.03].

NOTE:
For discussion of the types of records a partnership is required by law to keep at an office within California, see Section 16.23[2].

5. Provide that, on 10 days' demand made in record received by limited partnership, limited partner may inspect and copy any of following during regular business hours in partnership's designated office [Corp. Code § 15903.04(a); see Corp. Code § 15901.11; see also § 16.200[2], paragraph 6.04]:

NOTE:
The limited partner need not have any particular purpose for seeking this information [Corp. Code § 15903.04(a)].

The partnership agreement may not unreasonably restrict the right to information set forth in Corp. Code § 15903.04. However, it may impose reasonable restrictions on the availability and use of information obtained, and may define appropriate remedies including liquidated damages for a breach of any reasonable restriction on use [see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(4)].

a. What information partnership will provide in response.

b. When and where partnership will provide information.

c. Reasons for declining to provide any demanded information.

8. Provide that general partner may inspect and copy during regular business hours [Corp. Code § 15904.07(a); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 6.07]:

NOTE:

The partner need not have any particular purpose for seeking this information [Corp. Code § 15904.07(a)].

The partnership agreement may not unreasonably restrict the right to information set forth in Corp. Code § 15904.07. However, it may impose reasonable restrictions on the availability and use of information obtained, and may define appropriate remedies including liquidated damages for a breach of any reasonable restriction on use [see *Corp. 9. Provide that limited partnership must furnish to general partner [Corp. Code § 15904.07(b)); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 6.08]:

NOTE:
This information may be transmitted via electronic transmission [Corp. Code § 15904.07(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(h), (i) (definition)].

[7] Rights, Powers, and Duties of, and Restrictions on, Partners

1. Grant general partners full and exclusive charge and control of management, conduct, and operation of partnership [see § 16.200[2], P 7.01].

2. Cover obligation of general partners to devote time and attention to affairs of partnership, either [see § 16.200[2], P 7.02]:

a. Undivided time and attention, without engaging in any other business; or

b. All time needed to conduct affairs of partnership efficiently with right of general partner to manage other businesses.

3. Provide for voting rights of general partners [see § 16.200[2], P 7.03].

4. Consider providing that general partners have all rights and powers of and are subject to all restrictions imposed on general partners under ULPA '08 [see § 16.200[2], P 7.04].

10. Consider including provisions specifying dissenting rights of limited partners pursuant to merger [see Ch. 16B, Mergers of Limited Partnerships].

[8] Meetings of Partners

NOTE:
Unlike prior limited partnership law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15637 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010)], the ULPA '08 does not require or set forth default provisions regarding partnership meetings. It does provide that action requiring the consent of partners under it may be taken without a meeting, and that a partner may appoint a proxy to consent or otherwise act for the partner by signing an appointment record, either personally or by the partner's attorney-in-fact [Corp. Code § 15901.15]. Limited partnerships with some size or complexity may want to provide for meetings and voting to efficiently conduct their business [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 732.01[2] (Matthew Bender)]. For those partnerships, the provisions below are suggestions regarding possible topics to include.

1. Include provision for call of meeting by and at written request of general partner or limited partners holding more than 10 percent of limited partnership interests [see Corp. Code § 15637(b), (c)(3); see also § 16.200[2], P 8.01].

2. Specify method of setting record date for determining partners entitled to notices of meetings and right to vote, or right to take any other lawful action as of record date [see § 16.200[2], PP 13.01, 13.03].

3. Include provision requiring general partners to send all partners notice of meeting setting forth [see § 16.200[2], P 8.02]:

a. Description of matters to be covered at meeting.

b. Place, date, and hour of meeting.

c. Means by which notice is to be given.

4. Specify what constitutes a quorum and consequences of withdrawal of sufficient partners to leave less than quorum [see § 16.200[2], P 8.03].

5. Include provisions for adjournment of meeting [see Corp. Code § 15637(d), (h)(3); see also § 16.200[2], P 8.04].

6. Include provisions regularizing meeting not duly called, noticed, or held by providing for waiver of notice or consent to holding of meeting if quorum is present [see § 16.200[2], P 8.05].

7. Set forth rules governing waiver of notice [see § 16.200[2], P 8.06].

8. Consider including provision for actions by partners by written consent without meeting [see Corp. Code § 15901.15; see also § 16.200[2], P 8.07].

9. Provide for use of proxies [see Corp. Code § 15637(j); see also § 16.200[2], P 8.08].

[9] Transfer of Partnership Interests

NOTE:
Provisions for the admission of new partners are included in Form 16.200[2], Article 2, "Members of Partnership" [see § 16.120[2]*].

1. Consider including provision prohibiting transfer of limited partnership interests, except [see Corp. Code § 15907.02]:

NOTE:
Unless otherwise provided [see Corp. Code § 15901.10*; § 16.21[4]], transfer of a partner's transferable interest [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.02(ak), 15907.01* (definition)] in whole or part is permissible, and does not by itself cause the partner's dissociation or a dissolution and winding up of the limited partnership's activities [Corp. Code § 15907.02(a)(1),(2)]. Such a transfer does not, as against the other partners or the limited partnership, entitle the transferee to participate in the management or conduct of the limited partnership's activities, to require access to information concerning the limited partnership's transactions except as provided in Corp. Code § 15907.02(c) (accounting upon dissolution and winding up) [see § 16.38*], or to inspect or copy the required information or the limited partnership's other records or to exercise any other rights or powers of a partner [Corp. Code § 15907.02(a)(3)]. A transferee has a right to receive, in accordance with the transfer, distributions to which the transferor would otherwise be entitled [Corp. Code § 15907.02(b)]. Upon transfer, the transferor retains the rights of a partner other than the interest in distributions transferred, and retains all duties and obligations of a partner [Corp. Code § 15907.02(d)]. A limited partnership need not give effect to a transferee's rights until the limited partnership has notice of the transfer [Corp. Code § 15907.02(e)]. A transfer of a transferable interest in violation of a restriction on transfer in the partnership agreement is ineffective as to a person having notice of the restriction at the time of transfer [Corp. Code § 15907.02(f)].

If the partnership is subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Corporations with regard to its offering of limited partnership interests, restrictions on assignment of those interests will not be allowed. Moreover, restrictions on the substitution of a limited partner are generally disfavored and will be allowed only to the extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the partnership and any restriction must be supported by opinion of counsel [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.116.7*].

a. As provided elsewhere in partnership agreement [see § 16.200[2], P 9.01; see also § 16.200[2], P 9.02 for permitted transfers]; or

b. Upon consent of all general partners and majority in interest of limited partners.

NOTE:
A transferee of a partnership interest, including a transferee of a general partner, may become a limited partner if and to the extent that the partnership agreement provides, or all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners consent [Corp. Code § 15907.02(h)].

2. If agreement includes provisions governing transfer of partnership interest [see Corp. Code § 15907.02; see also § 16.200[2], P 9.02]:

a. Consider advance notice to general partners of receipt of offer for purchase of partner's interest and opportunity for them to purchase.

b. Consider providing opportunity for other partners to purchase, in event general partners fail to exercise option to purchase.

c. Include provision outlining rights and obligations of transferor and transferee of interest.

3. Include provisions for conditions under which transferee of limited partnership interest may become a partner [see Corp. Code § 15907.02(g),(h); see also § 16.200[2], paragraph 9.03].

4. Include provisions regarding exercise of rights by deceased partner's representative [see Corp. Code § 15907.04; see also § 16.200[2], paragraph 9.04].

NOTE:
Under these circumstances, absent provision to the contrary in the partnership agreement, the partner's personal representative or other legal representative may exercise the rights of a transferee [see Corp.

Code § 15907.02; see also § 16.38[3]], and for the purposes of settling the estate may exercise the rights of a current limited partner under Corp. Code § 15903.04 [Corp. Code § 15907.04; see § 16.38[4]].

[10] Liabilities of Partners

1. Provide for joint and several liability of all general partners for all obligations of limited partnership [see § 16.200[2], P 10.01].

NOTE:
This liability exists by default under the ULPA '08 unless otherwise agreed by the claimant or provided by law [Corp. Code § 15904.04(a)]. A person who becomes a general partner of an existing limited partnership is not personally liable for an obligation of a limited partnership incurred before the person became a general partner [Corp. Code § 15904.04(b)].

2. Limit liability of limited partners to partnership to amount of capital contributions and any loans [see § 16.200[2], P 10.02].

3. Provide for partnership's liability for following actions of general partners [see Form 16.200[2], paragraph 10.03]:

a. For loss or injury caused to person, or penalty incurred, as result of wrongful act or omission or other actionable conduct of general partner acting in ordinary course of activities of partnership, or with authority of partnership [Corp. Code § 15904.03(a)].

b. For loss if, in course of partnership's activities or while acting with authority of partnership, general partner receives or causes partnership to receive money or property of person not a partner and misapplies it [Corp. Code § 15904.03(b)].

[11] Prohibited Transactions

1. Include provisions prohibiting any partner from doing any of following acts and stating promise of each partner not to do any such acts [see § 16.200[2], P 11.01]:

a. Using partnership name or substantially similar name, or any trademark or trade name adopted by partnership, except in ordinary course of partnership business.

b. Disclosing to nonpartners any partnership business practice, trade secrets, or other information not generally known.

c. Acting with intent to harm partnership business operations.

d. Doing any act contrary to partnership agreement, without prior express written approval of all partners.

e. Doing any act that would make it impossible to carry on partnership business.

f. Confessing judgment against partnership.

g. Abandoning, wrongfully transferring, or disposing of partnership property.

2. Set forth prohibition against use by general partners of partnership assets for any purpose other than conducting partnership business and include promise of general partners not to do so [see § 16.200[2], P 11.02].

[12] Dissolution of Partnership

1. Set forth time when, or events on which, partnership will be dissolved and its affairs wound up, e.g.:

NOTE:
The ULPA '08 provides that a limited partnership has a perpetual duration [Corp. Code § 15901.04(b); see § 16.20[1]]. This provision is a "default" provision; it may be changed in a partnership agreement to specify some other duration [see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)]. Even if the default rule is not changed in the agreement, a limited partnership can be terminated by winding up and dissolution and by other events [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 727 (Matthew Bender)].

a. On expiration of term set forth in agreement for existence of partnership [see Corp. Code § 15908.01(a); see also § 16.200[2], P 12.01].

b. Upon written consent of any specified percentage of general and limited partners [see Corp. Code § 15908.01; see also § 16.200[2], P 12.02].

c. After dissociation of person as general partner, if [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 12.03]:
(1) Partnership has at least one remaining general partner, and consent to dissolve is given within 90 days after dissociation by partners owning majority of rights to receive distributions as partners at time consent is to be effective; or

(2) If partnership does not have remaining general partner, passage of 90 days after dissociation, unless before end of period:
(a) Consent to continue activities of partnership and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning majority of rights to receive distributions as limited partners at time consent is to be effective; and

(b) At least one person is admitted as general partner in accordance with consent.

d. Passage of 90 days after dissociation of partnership's last limited partner, unless before end of period limited partnership admits at least one limited partner [Corp. Code § 15908.01(d); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 12.03].

e. Upon happening of event specified in agreement [Corp. Code § 15908.01(a); see § 16.200[2], paragraph 12.04]

f. When court orders partnership dissolved [Corp. Code § 15908.02; see § 16.200[2], paragraph 12.05; see also Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

NOTE:
The partnership agreement may not eliminate the power of a court to decree dissolution in these circumstances [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(9)].

2. Designate partner responsible for winding up affairs of dissolved partnership [see Corp. Code § 15908.03(c); see also § 16.200[2], P 12.06].

3. Prescribe procedure for liquidation of partnership assets, winding up partnership affairs, and distributions [see Corp. Code § 15908.09; see also § 16.200[2], P 12.07].

4. Consider including provision prohibiting dissolution in event:

a. Limited partner withdraws from partnership [see Corp. Code § 15906.01].

b. Any partner seeks payment of debts owing by partnership.

5. Consider including provisions for filing of certificate of cancellation of certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.03; see § 16.200[2], P 12.09].

6. Consider including provision for reasonable compensation to be paid to limited partners winding up partnership affairs [Corp. Code § 15908.03(e); see § 16.200[2], Paragraph 12.09].

[13] Record Dates

1. Specify method by which partners may set record date for purpose of partnership meetings (if meetings are permitted by partnership agreement) [see § 16.200[2], P 13.01].

2. Specify method by which partners may set record date for distributions [see § 16.200[2], P 13.02].

3. Provide method for determining record dates in absence of action by partners setting any record dates [see § 16.200[2], P 13.02].

[14] Miscellaneous Provisions

1. Specify that partnership agreement contains entire agreement of parties [see § 16.200[2], P 14.01].

2. Specify method of amending agreement [see § 16.200[2], P 14.02].

NOTE:
The consent of each partner is necessary to amend the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15904.06(b)].

3. Provide for attorneys' fees in actions for declaratory or injunctive relief or for interpretation of agreement [see § 16.200[2], P 14.03].

4. Specify that California law governs [see § 16.200[2], P 14.04].

NOTE:

A partnership agreement may not vary the law applicable to a limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15901.01 [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(2)]. A general partner may, in a written partnership agreement or other writing, consent to be subject to the nonexclusive jurisdiction of the courts of a specified jurisdiction, or the exclusive jurisdiction of the California courts [Corp. Code § 15901.17]. A partner may consent to be served with legal process in the manner prescribed in the agreement or other writing [Corp. Code § 15901.17].

5. Provide for arbitration, if desired.

NOTE:

A general partner desiring to use the arbitration process may, in a written partnership agreement or other writing, consent to be nonexclusively subject to arbitration in a specified state, or exclusively subject to arbitration in California [Corp. Code § 15901.17].

6. Provide for written notice and delivery by regular mail to partners at addresses shown in partnership records [see § 16.200[2], P 14.05].

7. Provide that agreement is binding on partners and their successors [see § 16.200[2], P 14.06].

8. Provide for severability of invalid provisions [see § 16.200[2], P 14.07].

§ 16.121 Limited Partnership Certificates

[1] Certificate of Limited Partnership

1. Include all of following mandatory information on form prescribed by Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)(1)-(4); see § 16.210[2], PP 1-8]:

a. Name of limited partnership.

b. Address of partnership's initial designated office office.

c. Names and addresses of all general partners.

d. Agent for service of process, either:
(1) Name and address of individual agent for service of process; or

(2) Name of corporate agent for service of process.

e. If partnership was formed under ULPA, date, location, and file number of recorded certificate.

2. State number of general partners whose acknowledgment is required for filing certificates of amendment etc. [see Corp. Code § 15902.04; see also § 16.210[2], P 8].

NOTE:
Although this information is not required by statute, it is required by the Secretary of State's mandatory form.

3. Set forth any other information that the person filing the certificate determines to include [Corp. Code § 15902.01(b); see § 16.210[2], P 9].

NOTE:

Although the certificate may contain matters not mentioned in the statute, even nonessential information, once included, will require an amendment of the certificate if that information becomes obsolete [see Corp. Code § 15902.02].

4. Have certificate of limited partnership

NOTE:

If a person required to sign or deliver a record to the Secretary of State for filing does not do so, any other person that is aggrieved may petition the superior court to order the person to sign or deliver the record, or for the Secretary to file the record unsigned [Corp. Code § 15902.05(a)].

a. Signed by all general partners listed in the certificate [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(1)];

b. Caused to be signed by purported limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15903.06(a)(1)].

NOTE:

A person believing erroneously but in good faith that he or she has become a limited partner after making an investment in a business enterprise may cause an appropriate certificate to be signed and delivered to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15903.06(a)(1)].

c. Signed by attorney-in-fact of any person required or permitted to execute a certificate [Corp. Code § 15902.04]; or

5. Mail certificate to Secretary of State, Limited Partnership Unit, P.O. Box 944225, Sacramento, CA 94244-2250 [Corp. Code § 15902.01].

NOTE:

A limited partnership is formed at the time the certificate is filed in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.01(c)].

A limited partnership that is defectively formed due to its failure to file a certificate of limited partnership may be treated as a general partnership [see American Alternative Energy v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 560-562, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686 (noncompliance with certificate requirement rendered entity a general partnership with capacity to sue)].

a. File original and at least two copies.

NOTE:

The Secretary of State will compare and certify two copies of the certificate without charge [see Gov. Code § 12185].

b. Accompany certificate with filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12188(b)].

NOTE:

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the certificate if the partnership's check or other remittance submitted to pay the filing fee is not honored. On receiving written notification that the check was not honored for payment, the Secretary must give written notice to the partnership's agent for service of process, or to the person who submitted the check, that the filing will be canceled if payment is not received. If the partnership does not then pay the amount due with a cashier's check or its equivalent, the Secretary must give a second written notice of cancellation, effective immediately. The second notice must be given at least 20 days after the first notice and no later than 90 days after the original filing [Corp. Code § 15902.01(f)].

6. If date of filing other than date of receipt by Secretary of State is desired, specify effective date [Corp. Code § 15902.06(b)].

NOTE:

Except as otherwise provided [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.16, 15902.01, and 15902.07], a record delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 may specify an effective time and delayed effective date. Such a record is effective on the earlier of the specified date or the 90th day after the record is filed [Corp. Code § 15902.06(b); see § 16.21[2][b][iii]].

7. Record certified copy of certificate of limited partnership in office of county recorder of any county in which partnership has real property [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

NOTE:

Recording is not mandatory. However, recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of partnership real property in the county where the certificate is recorded that the persons named as general partners in the certificate are all of the general partners, among other matters [see Corp. Code §§ 15902.01(e)].

[2] Certificate of Amendment to Certificate of Limited Partnership

NOTE:

The general partners may file a restated certificate of limited partnership that embodies in a single certificate all of the operative and effective provisions contained in various certificates of amendment that have been filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(1)]. The restated certificate may also include an amendment that has not been filed, and replaces the initial certificate and all previously filed amendments [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(2), (3); see Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(4); see also Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(5) (execution requirements)]. For further discussion, see [3], below.

1. Include all information indicated on form prescribed by Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(a); see § 16.211]:

a. File number assigned to limited partnership by Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(a)(1)].

b. Name of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.02(a)(1)].

c. Changes the amendment makes to the certificate as most recently amended or restated [Corp. Code § 15902.02(a)(2)].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Limited Partnership Agreements

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.200

§ 16.200 Limited Partnership Agreement--General Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a partnership agreement governing a relatively small, privately owned limited partnership to be formed under ULPA '08 [Corp. Code §§ 15900-15912.07]. It is designed for use by persons who have already decided to become partners and do not currently contemplate the addition of new limited partners to obtain additional capital.

Although the ULPA '08 requires that the partners enter into a limited partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see [d], below], the agreement need not be as long or as complex as this form since the ULPA '08 provides numerous rules that will apply unless the partnership agreement provides to the contrary. However, even when the drafter of the partnership agreement wishes to follow the statutory requirements, it is good practice to include them in the agreement in any case, both as an easy reference and because the law may be amended in a manner not anticipated by the partners or their counsel.

For a detailed guide to the statutory provisions that apply in the absence of provisions in the agreement to the contrary and alternate suggestions for the drafting of a limited partnership agreement, see § 16.120.

For additional limited partnership agreements for use by limited partnerships that intend to make public or private offerings conforming to federal and California securities laws, see Chs. 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates , and 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates .

[b] Variation of the Effect of ULPA '08 Provisions

Except as provided below, the partnership agreement governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership. To the extent the partnership agreement does not otherwise provide, the ULPA '08 governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.10(a)].

A partnership agreement may not do any of the following [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)]:

- Vary a limited partnership's power under Corp. Code § 15901.05 to sue, be sued, and defend in its own name.

- Vary the law applicable to a limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15901.06 [see § 16.14].

- Vary the requirements of Corp. Code § 15902.04 (signature requirements for filed "records").

- Vary the information required by Corp. Code § 15901.11 (information required to be retained at limited partnership's designated office) [see § 16.23[2]] or unreasonably restrict the right to information under Corp. Code § 15903.04 (limited partners) [see § 16.30[1] or Corp. Code § 15904.07 (general partners) [see § 16.34[4]]. However, the partnership agreement may impose reasonable restrictions on the availability and use of information obtained under those sections and may define appropriate remedies, including liquidated damages, for a breach of any reasonable restriction on use.

- Eliminate the duty of loyalty under Corp. Code § 15904.07 [see § 16.35[2]], but the partnership agreement may: (a) identify specific types or categories of activities that do not violate the duty of loyalty, if not manifestly unreasonable; and (b) specify the number or percentage of partners which may authorize or ratify, after full disclosure to all partners of all material facts, a specific act or transaction that otherwise would violate the duty of loyalty.

- Unreasonably reduce the duty of care under Corp. Code § 15904.08(a) [see § 16.35[2]].

- Eliminate the obligation of good faith and fair dealing of limited partners under Corp. Code § 15903.05(b) [see § 16.32[2]] and of general partners under Corp. Code § 15904.08(d) [see § 16.35[2]]. However, the partnership agreement may prescribe the standards by which the performance of this obligation is to be measured, if the standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

- Vary the power of a person to dissociate as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15906.04(a) [see § 16.37[2]], except to require that the notice under Corp. Code § 15906.03(a) be in a record.

- Eliminate the power of a court to decree dissolution in the circumstances specified in Corp. Code § 15908.02(a) [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

- Vary the requirement to wind up the partnership's business as specified in Corp. Code § 15908.03 [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].

- Unreasonably restrict the right of a partner to maintain an action as provided in Corp. Code § 15910.01 et seq.

- Restrict the right of a partner to approve a conversion or merger [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships].

- Vary the provisions of Article 11.5 (regarding dissenting limited partners' rights to dissent in a conversion or merger), except to the extent expressly permitted by those provisions [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships].

- Restrict rights under the ULPA '08 of a person other than a partner or a transferee.

[c] Publicly Traded Partnerships Taxable as Corporations

A partnership that is "publicly traded" may be classified as a corporation for tax purposes [I.R.C. § 7704; see § 16.71]. If a partnership's interests are not traded on an established securities market [see I.R.C. § 7704(b)(1)], however, the partnership will be treated as a corporation pursuant to this rule only if all of its interests were issued (1) in a transaction that was registered under the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], or (2) in a transaction that was not registered under the Securities Act of 1933 if the partnership either (a) has more than 500 partners, or (b) offers each unit of partnership interest for less than $20,000, [1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75 ("safe harbor" provisions)]. Other "safe harbor" exceptions may apply even to partnerships that do not meet these criteria. For further discussion, see § 16.71.

This agreement is designed for a small privately owned limited partnership whose shares will not be traded on an established securities market or secondary market. Such a partnership would fall within one of the "safe harbors" that the Internal Revenue Service has set forth in advance of issuing regulations [see 1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75 ; see also § 16.71]. In the event that this agreement is adapted or otherwise used as a model for an agreement for a large partnership, however, the possible adverse effects of I.R.C. § 7704 must be considered.

To form a limited partnership, the partners must enter into a partnership agreement and the general partners must file a certificate of limited partnership with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see § 16.21]. The partnership agreement is not required to be written [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see also Corp. Code § 15901.02(x) ("partnership agreement" defined)]; however, it is advisable to memorialize an oral agreement in a written form, to prevent subsequent disagreements over the agreement's terms [see § 16.21 [4]]. A limited partnership is formed when the certificate is filed [Corp. Code § 15902.01(c)]. There is no requirement that any partner have a preexisting relationship with any other partner in order to form a limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(c)].

For discussion of the formation of a limited partnership, including these requirements as well as name requirements and the need to maintain certain records and an office and agent for service of process in California, see §§ 16.21 and 16.23. A guide to the procedures involved in forming a California limited partnership is set forth in § 16.111.

ARTICLE 5. MANAGEMENT OF PARTNERSHIP AFFAIRS

Control and Management

Subject to any limitations expressly set forth in this Agreement, the General Partners have the power and authority to take any action from time to time as they may deem to be necessary, appropriate, or convenient in connection with the management and conduct of the business and affairs of the Partnership, including without limitation, the power to do the following:

(1) Acquire property, including real or personal property, for the use of the Partnership on the terms and conditions as the General Partners may, from time to time, determine to be advantageous to the Partnership;

(2) Dispose of Partnership property, either in the ordinary course of the business of the Partnership or, from time to time, when the General Partners deem the disposition to be in the best interests of the Partnership;

(3) Finance the Partnership's activities by borrowing money from third parties on the terms and under the conditions as the General Partners deem appropriate. When money is borrowed for Partnership purposes, the General Partners are authorized to pledge, mortgage, encumber, or grant a security interest in Partnership properties as security for the repayment of those loans;

(4) Employ, retain, or otherwise secure the services of any personnel or firms deemed necessary by the General Partners for or to facilitate the conduct of Partnership business affairs, all on the terms and for the consideration as the General Partners deem advisable; and

(5) Take any and all other action permitted by law that is customary in or reasonably related to the conduct of the Partnership business or affairs.

(b) Each general partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the limited partnership's activities. Except as otherwise provided in the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008, any matter relating to the activities of the Partnership may be exclusively decided by the General Partner, or if there is more than one General Partner, by a majority of the General Partners.

Restrictions on Limited Partners

5.02. The Limited Partners do not have either the obligation or the right to take part, directly or indirectly, in the active management or control of the business of the Partnership, except as otherwise permitted in this Agreement or by the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008.

Fiduciary Duties of General Partners

5.03. The fiduciary duties that a General Partner owes to the Partnership and the other Partners are the duties of loyalty and care. A General Partner's duty of loyalty to the Partnership and the other Partners is limited to the following:

(1) To account to the Partnership and hold as trustee for it any property, profit, or benefit derived by the general partner in the conduct and winding up of the Partnership's activities or derived from a use by the General Partner of partnership property, including appropriating a partnership opportunity;

(2) To refrain from dealing with the Partnership in the conduct or winding up of activities as or on behalf of a party having an interest adverse to the Partnership; and

(3) To refrain from competing with the Partnership in the conduct or winding up of its activities.

A General Partner's duty of care to the Partnership and the other Partners in the conduct and winding up of the Limited Partnership's activities is limited to refraining from engaging in grossly negligent or reckless conduct, intentional misconduct, or a knowing violation of law.

A General Partner must discharge the duties to the Partnership and the other Partners under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 or under the Partnership Agreement and exercise any rights consistently with the obligation of good faith and fair dealing. A General Partner does not violate a duty or obligation under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 or under the Partnership Agreement merely because the General Partner's conduct furthers the General Partner's own interest.

Authority for Use of Nominees

5.04. All Partners recognize that practical difficulties exist in doing business as a Limited Partnership, occasioned by third parties seeking to determine the capacity of the General Partners to act for and on behalf of the Partnership, or for other reasons. Therefore, the Limited Partners specifically authorize the General Partners to acquire all real and personal property, arrange all financing, enter contracts, and complete all other arrangements needed to effectuate the purpose of this Partnership, either in their own names or in the name of a nominee, without having to disclose the existence of this Partnership. If the General Partners decide to transact the Partnership business in their own names or in the name of a nominee, they shall place a written declaration of trust in the Partnership books and records that acknowledges the capacity in which the nominee acts and the name of the Partnership as the true or equitable owner.

This official form, and no other certificate, must be completed and filed as part of the process of forming a California limited partnership. In order to form a partnership, the general partners must sign and file a certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see § 16.21]. Either before or after the filing of the certificate, the partners must enter into a partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see § 16.200].

For a discussion of the formation of a California limited partnership, see § 16.21. The procedures for forming a domestic California limited partnership are set forth in § 16.111. A guide to the contents of a limited partnership certificate and the procedures for executing, acknowledging, and filing the certificate of limited partnership is contained in § 16.121[1].

[b] Filing the Certificate

A limited partnership is formed at the time its certificate is filed in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.01(c)]. It has been held under former law that a limited partnership that is defectively formed due to its failure to file a certificate of limited partnership may be treated as a general partnership [see American Alternative Energy v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 560-562, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686 (noncompliance with certificate requirement rendered entity a general partnership with capacity to sue)].

The general partners ordinarily must be the ones who file the certificate [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)], but under limited circumstances when they fail to do so, a purported limited partner may cause the certificate to be signed and delivered to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15903.06(a)]; see § 16.21[2][b][iv]]. Furthermore, if a person required by the ULPA '08 to sign or deliver the certificate does not do so, any other person that is aggrieved may petition the superior court to order the person to sign or deliver the record, or for the Secretary of State to file the record unsigned [Corp. Code § 15902.05(a)].

Any person, other than a general partner, who files a certificate of limited partnership must state the statutory authority for filing after the signature on the certificate [Corp. Code § 15902.05(d)].

The original and one copy of the certificate, together with the filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12188(b)], should be mailed to the California Secretary of State, Limited Partnership Unit, P.O. Box 944225, Sacramento, CA 94244-2250.

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the certificate if the partnership's check or other remittance submitted to pay the filing fee is not honored. On receiving written notification that the check was not honored for payment, the Secretary must give written notice to the partnership's agent for service of process, or to the person who submitted the check, that the filing will be canceled if payment is not received. If the partnership does not then pay the amount due with a cashier's check or its equivalent, the Secretary must give a second written notice of cancellation that is immediately effective. The second notice must be given at least 20 days after the first notice and no later than 90 days after the original filing [Corp. Code § 15902.01(f)].

[c] Contents of Certificate

The certificate of limited partnership must contain all of the following information [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)]:

- The name of the limited partnership;
- The address of the initial designated office;
- The names and addresses of the general partners; and
- The name and address of the initial agent for service of process [see Corp. Code § 15901.16(d)(1)], or, if a corporate agent is designated, only the name of that agent.

The certificate may also contain any other matters that the person filing the certificate desires to include, but may not vary or otherwise affect the provisions specified in Corp. Code § 15901.10(b) [see § 16.21[4][b]] [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b); see [2], P 9, below].

[d] Liability for False Information

If a record delivered to the Secretary of State for filing under the ULPA '08 and filed by the Secretary contains false information, a person that suffers loss by reliance on the information may recover damages for the loss from [Corp. Code § 15902.08(a)]:

- A person that signed the record, or caused another to sign it on the person behalf, and knew the information to be false at the time the record was signed; and

- A general partner that had notice that the information was false when the record was filed or had become false because of changed circumstances, if the general partner had notice for a reasonably sufficient time before the information is relied upon to enable the general partner to effect an amendment under Corp. Code § 15902.02 (amendments or restatements of certificates of limited partnerships), file a petition pursuant to § 15902.05 (filings pursuant to judicial order), or deliver to the Secretary of State for filing a certificate of correction pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.07.

Signing a record authorized or required to be filed under the 2008 Act constitutes an affirmation under the penalties of perjury that the facts stated in the record are true [Corp. Code § 15902.08(b)].

[e] Inconsistencies With Partnership Agreement

Subject to Corp. Code § 15902.01(b) [see § 16.21[2][a]], if any provision of a partnership agreement is inconsistent with the filed certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(d)]:

(1) The partnership agreement prevails as to partners and transferees; and

(2) The filed certificate of limited partnership prevails as to persons, other than partners and transferees, that reasonably rely on the filed record to their detriment.

§ 16.211 Certificate of Amendment to Certificate of Limited Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for a certificate of amendment (LP-2). It may be used to amend a certificate of limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15902.02(a); see § 16.22[1]]. Alternatively, a limited partnership may filed a restated certificate of limited partnership, which replaces the original certificate and incorporates all amendments [see Corp. Code § 15902.02(e); see also [e], below; §§ 16.22[2], 16.212].

The original and one copy of the certificate, together with the filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12188(d)], should be mailed to the Secretary of State, Limited Partnership Division, P.O. Box 944225, Sacramento, CA 94244-2250 [see Corp. Code § 15902.02].

For a guide to the procedures involved in amending the certificate, including the procedures for executing, acknowledging, and filing the certificate, see § 16.121[2].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 16.211. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Requirement for Amendment

A limited partnership must promptly deliver to the Secretary of State for filing an amendment to a certificate of limited partnership to reflect [Corp. Code § 15902.02(b)]:

- The admission of a new general partner;
- The dissociation of a person as a general partner; or
- The appointment of a person to wind up the limited partnership's activities under Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) or (d).

A certificate of limited partnership may be amended at any time for any other proper purpose as determined by the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.02(d)].

[c] Liability for False Information

A general partner that knows that any information in a filed certificate of limited partnership was false when the certificate was filed or has become false due to changed circumstances must promptly cause the certificate to be amended, or if appropriate, deliver to the Secretary of State for filing an amendment or a certificate of correction pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.07 [Corp. Code § 15902.02(c); see § 16.22[1][b]].

[d] Signature Requirements

A certificate of amendment delivered to the Secretary of State for filing pursuant to the ULPA '08 must be signed as follows [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)]. An amendment designating as a general partner a person admitted under Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2) following the dissociation of a limited partnership's last general partner must be signed by that person admitted as a general partner [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(2)]. An amendment required by Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) following the appointment of a person to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships] must be signed by that person [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(3)]. Any other amendment must be signed by [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(4)]:

- At least one general partner listed in the certificate of limited partnership;
- Each other person designated in the amendment as a new general partner; and
- Each person that the amendment indicates has dissociated as a general partner, unless (1) the person is deceased or a guardian or general conservator has been appointed for the person and the amendment so states; or (2) the person has previously delivered a certificate of dissociation to the Secretary of State for filing.

If a person required by the ULPA '08 to sign or deliver a record, e.g., a certificate of amendment, to the Secretary of State for filing does not do so, any other person that is aggrieved may petition the superior court to order [Corp. Code § 15902.05(a)]:

- The person to sign the record;
- The person to deliver the record to the Secretary of State for filing; or
- The Secretary of State to file the record unsigned.

A record filed unsigned in this manner is effective without being signed [Corp. Code § 15902.05(c)].

Anyone other than a general partner who files the certificate must include the statutory authority after his or her signature [Corp. Code § 15902.05(d)]. Any person permitted or required to execute the certificate of amendment may do so by an attorney-in-fact [Corp. Code § 15902.04(b)].

[e] Restated Certificate of Limited Partnership

When a number of certificates of amendment have been filed or many additional amendments are necessary, the general partners may alternatively file a restated certificate of limited partnership that embodies in a single certificate all of the operative and effective provisions contained in the various certificates of amendment that have been filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(1); see § 16.212]. The restated certificate may also include an amendment that has not been filed [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(2)]. The restated certificate replaces the initial certificate and all previously filed amendments [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(3); see Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(4); see also Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(5)(a)(8) (execution requirements)].

8-16 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16.212

§ 16.212 Restated Certificate of Limited Partnership

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the restated certificate of limited partnership, LP-10, prescribed by the Secretary of State. A restated certificate embodies, in a single certificate, all of the operative and effective provisions contained in the different certificates that have been filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(1)]. The restated certificate replaces the original certificate of limited partnership and all amendments previously filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(3)]. A restated certificate [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)] may be filed in lieu of filing a certificate of amendment [see § 16.211]. This approach is commonly taken when the original certificate has been amended several times, in order to eliminate any confusion.

The restated certificate may include an amendment that has not been previously filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(2)]. However, any new amendment effected in a restated certificate is subject to the other provisions of the ULPA '08 that would apply if a separate certificate of amendment were filed to effect that amendment or change [Corp. Code § 15902.02(e)(4)].

A restated certificate of limited partnership must be signed by at least one general partner listed in the certificate, and to the extent the restated certificate effects a change under any other paragraph of Corp. Code § 15902.04(a), the restated certificate must be signed in a manner that satisfies the requirements of that paragraph [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(5)]; see also § 16.211[1][d]].

§ 16.220 Application for Registration as a Foreign Limited Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official application for registration of a foreign limited partnership, LP-5. A foreign limited partnership must register, using this application form, before it transacts intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 15909.02]. In general, the term "transact intrastate business" means entering into repeated and successive business transactions in California, other than interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ai); see § 16.51[1][b]].

The original and one copy of the application, together with the filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12188(c)], must be mailed to the office of the Secretary of State, Limited Partnership Unit, P.O. Box 944225, Sacramento, CA 94244-2250. If the Secretary of State finds that the application conforms to the law and that all requisite fees have been paid, the Secretary of State's office will issue a certificate of registration to transact intrastate business in California, subject to any licensing requirements otherwise imposed by the laws of California [Corp. Code § 15909.04].

For a guide to the procedures involved in registering a foreign limited partnership, and the procedures for executing and filing the certificate, see § 16.112. For discussion of the ULPA '08 requirements imposed on foreign limited partnerships, including the sanctions against an unregistered foreign limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15909.07, see §§ 16.50-16.55. For the form used to amend the application for registration, see § 16.221.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 16.220. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Contents of Form

The application for registration as a foreign limited partnership must be signed and acknowledged by a general partner, and must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 15909.02(a)]:

- The name of the foreign limited partnership and, if its name does not comply with Corp. Code § 15901.08 [see § 16.21[3]], for purposes of transacting business in California it must adopt an alternate name that does comply [Corp. Code §§ 15909.02(a)(1), 15909.05(a)];
- The state or jurisdiction under whose law the partnership is organized;
- The name and address of a partnership's initial agent for service of process [see Corp. Code §];
- The street address of the designated office of the foreign limited partnership and, if laws of jurisdiction under which partnership is organized require it to maintain office there, address of that office; and
- The names and addresses of the general partners.
- Whether foreign limited partnership is foreign limited liability partnership.

The partnership must also deliver a certificate of existence signed by the official having custody of its publicly filed records in the jurisdiction where the partnership is organized [Corp. Code § 15909.02(b)].

A foreign limited partnership whose name does not comply with Corp. Code § 15901.08 [see § 16.21[3]], may not obtain a certificate of registration until it adopts, for purposes of transacting business in California, an alternate name that does comply [Corp. Code § 15909.05(a)].

[c] Payment of Filing Fee

The fee for filing the application for registration as a foreign limited partnership must accompany the application [Gov. Code § 12188(c)]. The Secretary of State may cancel the partnership's application and certificate of registration if the partnership's check or other remittance submitted to pay the filing fee is not honored. On receiving written notification that the check was not honored for payment, the Secretary must give written notice to the partnership's agent for service of process or to the person who submitted the check that the application and certificate will be cancelled if payment is not received. If the partnership does not then pay the amount due with a cashier's check or its equivalent, the Secretary will issue a second written notice of cancellation, effective immediately. The second notice must be given at least 20 days after the first notice and no later than 90 days after the original filing [Corp. Code § 15909.05(c)].

§ 16.230 Written Consent of Partner to Action Taken Without a Meeting of Partners

[1] Comment

This form is a written consent by a limited partner to actions that would ordinarily be voted on at a meeting. Unlike prior law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15637 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010)], the ULPA '08 does not contain default provisions regarding partnership meetings [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 732.01[2] (Matthew Bender)]. It does specify, however, that any action requiring the consent of partners under the ULPA '08 may be taken without a meeting [Corp. Code § 15901.15]. A partner may appoint a proxy to consent or otherwise act for the partner by signing an appointment record, either personally or by the partner's attorney in fact [Corp. Code § 15901.15; see Corp. Code § 15902.04 (any record may be signed by attorney in fact)].

It is probably not good practice to permit all actions on which the limited partners have a right to vote (such as the expulsion of a general partner) to be consummated by written consent. However, many partnership actions can be approved in this manner. If there are certain actions that will not be subject to the general written consent provision in this form, it should be modified to indicate what the excluded actions are.

This form is a consent to the admission of a limited or general partner's transferee to a limited partnership. It is for use when the partnership agreement requires the consent of all or a stated number or percent of the partners or if it is silent on the subject.

An transferee of a general or limited partner's interest in a limited partnership may become a limited partner if and to the extent that the partnership agreement provides or all the general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners consent [Corp. Code § 15907.01(h); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(t) ("majority in interest of the limited partners" defined)]. The assignee becomes a limited partner at the time provided in, or on compliance with, the partnership agreement.

[a] Use of Form

This form is a consent by the limited partners to the admission of a replacement for a sole remaining general partner and to continue the activities of the partnership. It includes space for the signatures of all the limited partners, although a separate consent form may be executed by each limited partner whose consent is required. This form may be used when the only general partner ceases to be a general partner [see Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2); see also [b], below]. All consents to the admission of a general partner should be filed in the partnership records.

For general discussion of the admission of general partners, see § 16.36.

[b] Replacement for Sole General Partner

Ordinarily, a limited partnership is dissolved, and its activities must be wound up upon the passage of 90 days after dissociation of the last general partner, unless before the end of that period [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2)]:

- Consent to continue the activities of the limited partnership and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective; and

- At least one person is admitted as a general partner in accordance with the consent.

The limited partners may vote on the admission of a general partner and an election to continue the business of the partnership without being deemed to participate in the control of the business [see Corp. Code § 15903.03(b)(5)].

[a] Use of Form

This form is a consent by a partner to the compromise of another partner's obligation to make a contribution of capital or to return money or property distributed in violation of law. With respect to the compromise of an obligation to make a contribution, the more common practice in installments in the partnership agreement for default procedures that will result in the general or limited partners buying out the defaulting partner rather than compromising the claim for contributions.

[b] Execution of Compromise

Unless the partnership agreement provides to the contrary, a partner's obligation to make a contribution to the partnership (or return money or other property paid or distributed in violation of the ULPA '08) may be compromised only by the consent of all the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)]. Therefore, if the partnership agreement does not provide for the execution of a compromise by less than all of the partners, each partner must execute a copy of this form [see Corp. Code § 15905.02(c); see also [d], below].

[c] Obligation of Partner's Transferee

An transferee who becomes a partner with respect to a transferable interest [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ak) (right to receive distributions)] is liable for the obligations of the transferor to make contributions to the partnership. [Corp. Code § 15907.02(g); see Corp. Code § 15905.02; see also § 16.38]. Furthermore, a transferee that becomes a partner with respect to a transferable interest is liable for the transferor's obligations under Corp. Code § 15905.09 [Corp. Code § 15907.02(g)]. Under that section, a partner or transferee that received a distribution knowing that the distribution to that partner or transferee was made in violation of Corp. Code § 15905.08 [see § 16.40] is personally liable to the limited partnership, but only to the extent that the distribution received by the partner or transferee exceeded the amount that could have been properly paid under Corp. Code § 15905.08 [Corp. Code § 15907.02(g)]. However, the transferee is not obligated for liabilities that are unknown to the transferee at the time that the transferee becomes a partner [Corp. Code § 15907.02(g)].

[d] Creditors' Rights

A creditor of a limited partnership which extends credit or otherwise acts in reliance on an partner's obligation to contribute [see Corp. Code § 15905.02(a)], without notice of any compromise, may enforce the original obligation [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)]. Nothing in Corp. Code § 15905.02 will be construed to affect the rights of third-party creditors of the partnership to seek equitable remedies nor any rights existing under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)(7); see Civ. Code § 2429 et seq.].

For further discussion, see §§ 16.31[3], 16.34[3][b].

This chapter covers the dissolution of limited partnerships under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code § 15900-15912.07]. As of January 1, 2010, this act governs all limited partnerships, except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15912.06(c) [Corp. Code § 15912.06(b); see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.11]. The Legal Background discusses the causes of nonjudicial dissolution and issues related to winding up and termination of a limited partnership. The Transaction Guide covers the procedural steps required to dissolve and wind up a limited partnership. The Forms section of this chapter includes several agreements among partners relating to dissolution or continuation of a limited partnership. It also includes official forms required to be filed with the Secretary of State.

For the requirements and procedure for forming a limited partnership under the ULPA '08, see Chapter 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships . The merger of limited partnerships is covered in Chapter 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships . The tax consequences of dissolving a partnership are discussed in Chapter 15, Part B, Dissolution of General Partnerships .

For detailed discussion of all the California partnership acts, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships (Matthew Bender). That chapter summarizes major similarities and differences between the ULPA '08 and the prior law, the California Revised Limited Partnership Act (CRLPA) [former Corp. Code § 15611 et seq., repealed Jan. 1, 2010], and provides detailed coverage of the ULPA '08.

§ 16A.311 Process of Dissolution, Winding Up, and Cancellation

Dissolution of a limited partnership is a process that consists of winding up of partnership affairs, liquidation of its assets, and cancellation of its certificate of limited partnership. "Winding up" partnership activities may involve amending the certificate of limited partnership to state that the partnership is dissolved, prosecuting and defending actions and proceedings, transferring partnership property, settling disputes, discharging the partnership's liabilities, and distributing partnership assets [see Corp. Code § 15908.03; see also § 16A.313]. A partnership may publish notice of its dissolution requesting persons with claims against it to present them [see Corp. Code § 15908.07; see also § 16A.319], and may dispose of known claims by following specified procedures [see Corp. Code § 15908.06; see also § 16A.318]. Upon completion of winding up, a dissolved limited partnership must file a certificate of cancellation [see Corp. Code § 15902.03; see also § 16A.450].

§ 16A.312 Causes of Dissolution Under ULPA '08

[1] Nonjudicial Dissolution

Except as provided in Corp. Code § 15908.02 (judicial dissolution) [see [2], below], a limited partnership is dissolved and its activities must be wound up only upon the occurrence of any of the following [Corp. Code § 15908.01]:

- The happening of an event specified in the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15908.01(a)].

- The consent of all general partners and of limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective [Corp. Code § 15908.01(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(f) ("distribution" defined)].

- After the dissociation of a person as a general partner [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)]:

  (1) If the limited partnership has at least one remaining general partner, and a consent to dissolve the partnership is given within 90 days after the dissociation by partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as partners at the time the consent is to be effective; or

  (2) If the limited partnership does not have a remaining general partner, the passage of 90 days after the dissociation, unless before the end of that period (a) consent to continue the activities of the limited partnership and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions a limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective, and (b) at least one person is admitted as a general partner in accordance with the consent.

- The passage of 90 days after the dissociation of the limited partnership's last limited partner, unless before the end of the period the limited partnership admits at least one limited partner.

With respect to a limited partnership formed before January 1, 2008, except as the partners otherwise elect in the manner provided in the partnership agreement or by law for amending the partnership agreement, Corp. Code § 15908.01(c) does not apply. The connection between a person's dissociation as a general partner and the dissolution of the limited partnership is the same as existed immediately before January 1, 2008 [Corp. Code § 15912.06(c)(5); see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.11].

[2] Judicial Dissolution

On application by a partner, a court of competent jurisdiction may order dissolution of a limited partnership if it is not reasonably practicable to carry on the activities of the limited partnership in conformity with the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15908.02(a)]. The other partners, however, may avoid dissolution by purchasing for cash the partnership interests owned by the partners initiating the proceedings at their fair market value [Corp. Code § 15908.02(a)]. A partnership agreement may not eliminate the power of a court to decree dissolution in the circumstances specified in Corp. Code § 15908.02(b)(9) [Corp. Code § 15901.10; see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[4][b]].

§ 16A.313 Winding Up Partnership Activities

[1] Continuation of Partnership for Purpose of Winding Up

A limited partnership continues after dissolution only for the purpose of winding up its activities [Corp. Code § 15908.03(a)]. A partnership agreement may not vary the requirement to wind up the partnership's business as specified in Corp. Code § 15908.03 [Corp. Code § 15901.10; see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[4][b]].

In winding up, a partnership must discharge the limited partnership's liabilities, settle and close the limited partnership's activities, and marshal and distribute the assets of the partnership [Corp. Code § 15908.03(b)(2)]. The partnership may (1) amend its certificate of limited partnership to state that the partnership is dissolved, (2) preserve the limited partnership business or property as a going concern for a reasonable time, (3) prosecute and defend actions and proceedings, whether civil, criminal, or administrative, (4) transfer the limited partnership's property, (5) settle disputes by mediation or arbitration, (6) file a certificate of cancellation [see Corp. Code § 15902.03; see also § 16A.314], and (7) perform other necessary acts [Corp. Code § 15908.03(b)(1)].

[2] Appointment of Person to Wind Up Activities

If a dissolved limited partnership does not have a general partner, a person to wind up the limited partnership's activities may be appointed by the consent of limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective [Corp. Code § 15908.03(c)]. A person so appointed has the powers of a general partner under Corp. Code § 15908.04 [see § 16A.316]. That person must promptly amend the certificate of limited partnership to state that the limited partnership does not have a general partner, and the name of the address of the person appointed to wind up the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15908.03(c)].

[3] Judicial Supervision of Winding Up

On the application of any partner, the appropriate court may order judicial supervision of the winding up, including the appointment of a person to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities, if (1) the limited partnership does not have a general partner and within a reasonable time following the dissolution no person has been appointed pursuant to Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) [see [2], above], or (2) the applicant establishes other good cause [Corp. Code § 15908.03(d)].

[4] Limited Partners' Entitlement to Reasonable Compensation

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the limited partners winding up the affairs of the partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15908.03 are entitled to reasonable compensation [Corp. Code § 15908.03(e)].

§ 16A.315 Reviving Canceled Certificate

[1] Requirements

A domestic limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(g)] whose certificate of limited partnership has been canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 [see § 16A.314, above] may be revived by filing a certificate of revival with the Secretary of State, on a form prescribed by the Secretary. That form must be accompanied by written confirmation by the Franchise Tax Board (FTB) that all of the following have occurred [Corp. Code 15902.09(a); see Corp. Code 15902.09(e)]:

- All of the following have been paid to the Franchise Tax Board [Corp. Code 15902.09(a)(1)]:

  (1) The annual tax due under Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935.

  (2) All fees, penalties, and interest for each year for which the domestic limited partnership failed to pay the annual tax, including each year between the cancellation of its certificate of limited partnership and its revival.

- All required tax returns have been filed, including returns for each taxable year between the cancellation of its certificate of limited partnership and its revival [Corp. Code 15902.09(a)(2)].

[2] Contents of Certificate of Revival

A certificate of revival must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 15902.09(b)]:

- The name of the limited partnership at the time its certificate of limited partnership was canceled. If the name is not available at the time of revival, the name under which the limited partnership is to be revived.

- The date of filing of the original certificate of limited partnership.

- The address of the limited partnership's designated office [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(e) ("designated office" defined)].

- The name and address of the initial agent for service of process in accordance with Corp. Code § 15901.16(d)(1) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.23[1]].

- A statement that the certificate of revival is filed by one or more general partners of the limited partnership authorized to execute and file the certificate of revival to revive the limited partnership.

- The Secretary of State's file number for the original limited partnership.

- The name and address of each general partner.

- Any other matters the general partner or partners executing the certificate of revival determine to include therein.

[3] Certificate Deemed To Be Amendment

The certificate of revival should be deemed to be an amendment to the certificate of limited partnership. The limited partnership will not be required to take any further action to amend its certificate of limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.02 [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.22] with respect to the matters set forth in the certificate of revival [Corp. Code § 15902.09(c)].

[4] Effect of Filing Certificate

Upon filing the certificate of revival, the limited partnership will be revived with the same force and effect as if the certificate of limited partnership had not been canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 [see § 16A.314]. The revival will validate all contracts, acts, matters, and things made, done, and performed by the limited partnership, its partners, employees, and agents following the time its certificate of limited partnership was canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 with the same force and effect and all intents and purposes, as if the certificate of limited partnership had remained in full force and effect [Corp. Code § 15902.09(d)]. This provision applies provided that third parties are relying on the acts of the partnership, its partners, employees, and agents [Corp. Code § 15902.09(d)].

All real and personal property, and all rights and interests, that belong to a limited partnership at the time its certificate of limited partnership was canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 [see § 16A.314] or that were acquired by the limited partnership following the cancellation of the certificate of limited partnership, that were not disposed of prior to the time of its revival, will be vested in the limited partnership after its revival as fully as if they were held by the limited partnership at, and during the time after, as the case may be, the time the certificate of limited partnership was canceled. After its revival, the limited partnership and its partners will have all of the same liability for contracts, acts, matters, and things made, done, or performed in the limited partnership's name and on behalf of its partners, employees, and agents, as the limited partnership and its partners would have had if the limited partnership's certificate of limited partnership had at all times remained in full force and effect [Corp. Code § 15902.09(d)].

A dissolved limited partnership may dispose of the known claims against it by following the procedures described below [Corp. Code § 15908.06(a)]]. A dissolved limited partnership may notify its known claimants of the dissolution in a record [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(ac) (definition)]. The notice must [Corp. Code § 15908.06(b)]:

§ 16A.320 Application of Assets to Satisfy Obligations to Creditors

[1] Obligations to Creditors

In winding up a limited partnership's activities, the assets of the limited partnership, including the contributions required as described herein, must be applied to satisfy the limited partnership's obligations to creditors, including to the extent permitted by law, partners that are creditors [Corp. Code § 15908.09(a)].

[2] Remaining Surplus

Any surplus remaining after the limited partnership complies with Corp. Code § 15908.09(a) [see [1], above] must be returned to the partners as they share in distributions [Corp. Code § 15908.09(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(f) ("distribution" defined)].

[3] Assets Insufficient to Satisfy Obligations

If a limited partnership's assets are insufficient to satisfy all of its obligations under Corp. Code § 15908.09(a) [see [1], above], the following rules will apply. Each person that was a general partner when the obligation was incurred and that has not been released from the obligation under Corp. Code § 15906.07 [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.37] must contribute to the limited partnership for the purpose of enabling the limited partnership to satisfy the obligation. The contribution due from each of those persons is in proportion to the right to receive distributions in the capacity of general partner in effect for each of those persons when the obligation was incurred [Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(1); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(c) ("contribution" defined); see also Corp. Code § 15901.02(f) ("distribution" defined)].

If a person does not contribute the full amount required under Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(1), discussed above, with respect to an unsatisfied obligation of the limited partnership, the other persons required to contributed by paragraph (1) on account of the obligation must contribute the additional amount necessary to discharge the obligation. The additional contribution due from each of those other persons is in proportion to the right to receive distributions in the capacity of general partner in effect for each of those other persons when the obligation was incurred [Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(2)].

If a person does not make the additional contribution under Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(2), described above, further additional contributions are determined and due in the same manner as provided in that paragraph [Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(3)].

A person that makes an additional contribution under Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(2) or (3) may recover from any person whose failure to contribute under Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(1) or (2) necessitated the additional contribution. A person may not recover more than the amount additionally contributed. A person's liability may not exceed the amount the person failed to contribute [Corp. Code § 15908.09(d)].

The estate of a deceased individual is liable for the person's obligations under Corp. Code § 15908.09 [Corp. Code § 15908.09(e)]. Furthermore, an assignee for the benefit of creditors of a limited partnership or a partner, or a person appointed by a court to represent creditors of a limited partnership or a partner, may enforce a person's obligation to contribute under Corp. Code § 15908.09(c) [Corp. Code § 15908.09(f)].

§ 16A.410 Circumstances Causing Dissolution

1. Determine whether event has occurred (or whether one is imminent) that causes non-judicial dissolution:

NOTE:
A partnership is dissolved and its activities must be wound up only upon the occurrence of any of the following [Corp. Code § 15908.01].

a. Event specified in partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15908.01(a)].

NOTE:
With respect to a limited partnership formed before January 1, 2008, except as the partners otherwise elect in the manner provided in the partnership agreement or by law for amending the partnership agreement, Corp. Code § 15908.01(c) does not apply. The connection between a person's dissociation as a general partner and the dissolution of the limited partnership is the same as existed immediately before January 1, 2008 [Corp.

Code § 15912.06(c)(5); see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships*, § 16.11*].

(1) Limited partnership has at least one remaining general partner, and consent to dissolve partnership is given within 90 days after dissociation by partners owning majority of rights to receive distributions as partners at time the consent is to be effective; or

(2) Limited partnership does not have a remaining general partner, and 90 days have passed since dissociation.

NOTE:
Dissolution will not take place if before the end of that 90-day period (a) consent to continue the activities of the limited partnership and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions a limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective, and (b) at least one person is admitted as a general partner in accordance with the consent [*Corp. NOTE:
If a general partner having knowledge of the dissolution causes a limited partnership to incur an obligation under Corp. § Code § 15909.04(a) by an act that is not appropriate for winding up the partnership's activities, the general partner is liable (1) to the limited partnership for any damage caused to the limited partnership arising from the obligation; and (2) if another general partner or person dissociated as a general partner is liable for the obligation, to that other general partner or person for any damage caused to that other general partner or person arising from the liability [*Corp. NOTE:
If person dissociated as general partner causes limited partnership to incur obligation under *Corp. NOTE:

The additional contribution due from each of those other persons is in proportion to the right to receive distributions in the capacity of general partner in effect for each of those other persons when the obligation was incurred [Corp. Code § 15908.09(c)(2)].

§ 16A.450 Certificate of Cancellation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official certificate of cancellation for a limited partnership governed by the ULPA '08, LP-4/7. It is prescribed by the Secretary of State and may be obtained online at www.ss.ca.gov. The filing of this certificate cancels (1) a certificate of limited partnership, and (2) the registration of a foreign limited partnership to do business in California. The form must be filed by a limited partnership that has completed winding up, or by a foreign limited partnership in order to cancel its certificate of registration [see Corp. Code §§ 15902.03, 15909.07]. There is no filing fee [Gov. Code § 12188(n)].

[b] Contents of Certificate

The certificate of cancellation must state [Corp. Code § 15902.03]:

- The name of the limited partnership and the Secretary of State's file number.
- The date of filing its initial certificate of limited partnership.
- Any other information as determined by the general partners filing the certificate, or by a person appointed pursuant to Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) or (d) [see § 16A.313[2], [3]].

[c] Signature Requirements

A certificate of cancellation must be signed by all general partners listed in the certificate of limited partnership, or if the certificate of limited partnership of a dissolved limited partnership lists no general partners, by the person appointed pursuant to Corp. Code § 15908.03(c) or (d) to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities [Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(6); see § 16A.313[2], [3]].

For a foreign limited partnership, the certificate must be signed and acknowledged by a general partner of the foreign limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15909.07(a); see Corp. Code § 15901.02(a) ("acknowledged" defined)]. If a foreign limited partnership cancels its certificate of registration, it appoints the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process for rights of action arising out of the transaction of business in California [Corp. Code § 15909.07(f)].

[d] Recording Certificate

If a certified copy of the certificate of limited partnership has been previously recorded in any county in California [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)], it is recommended that a certified copy of the certificate of cancellation also be recorded in the same county or counties [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)].

§ 16A.451 Certificate of Revival

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of revival prescribed by the Secretary of State, LP-7. It is prescribed by the Secretary of State and may be obtained from office, or online at www.ss.ca.gov. A domestic limited partnership whose certificate of limited partnership has been canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 [see § 16A.450, above] may be revived by filing a certificate of revival with the Secretary of State, on a form prescribed by the Secretary [Corp. Code § 15902.09(a)]. The filing fee is $30 [Gov. Code § 12188(h)].

[b] Deemed Amendment to Certificate of Limited Partnership

The certificate of revival should be deemed to be an amendment to the certificate of limited partnership. The limited partnership will not be required to take any further action to amend its certificate of limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.02 [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.211] with respect to the matter set forth in the certificate of revival [Corp. Code § 15902.09(c)].

[c] Confirmation of Tax Payments

The certificate of revival must be accompanied by written confirmation by Franchise Tax Board (FTB) that all of the following have occurred [Corp. Code 15902.09(a); see Corp. Code 15902.09(e)]:

- All of the following have been paid to the Franchise Tax Board [Corp. Code 15902.09(a)(1)]:

  (1) The annual tax due under Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935.

(2) All fees, penalties, and interest for each year for which the domestic limited partnership failed to pay the annual tax, including each year between the cancellation of its certificate of limited partnership and its revival.

- All required tax returns have been filed, including returns for each taxable year between the cancellation of its certificate of limited partnership and its revival [Corp. Code 15902.09(a)(2)].

[d] Contents of Certificate

The certificate must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 15902.09(b)]:

- The name of the limited partnership at the time its certificate of limited partnership was canceled. If the name is not available at the time of revival, the name under which the limited partnership is to be revived.

- The date of filing of the original certificate of limited partnership.

- The address of the limited partnership's designated office [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(e) ("designated office" defined)].

- The name and address of the initial agent for service of process in accordance with Corp. Code § 15901.16(d)(1) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.23].

- A statement that the certificate of revival is filed by one or more general partners of the limited partnership authorized to execute and file the certificate of revival to revive the limited partnership.

- The Secretary of State's file number for the original limited partnership.

- The name and address of each general partner.

- Any other matters the general partner or partners executing the certificate of revival determine to include.

[e] Signature Requirements

The certificate must be signed by at least one general partner listed in the certificate of limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(9)]. A certificate filed by a foreign limited partnership must be signed by at least one general partner of the foreign limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15902.04(a)(9)].

[f] Effect of Filing Certificate

Upon filing the certificate of revival, the limited partnership will be revived with the same force and effect as if the certificate of limited partnership had not been canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 [see § 16A.450]. The revival will validate all contracts, acts, matters, and things made, done, and performed by the limited partnership, its partners, employees, and agents following the time its certificate of limited partnership was canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 with the same force and effect and all intents and purposes, as if the certificate of limited partnership had remained in full force and effect [Corp. Code § 15902.09(d)]. This provision applies provided that third parties are relying on the acts of the partnership, its partners, employees, and agents [Corp. Code § 15902.09(d)].

of limited partnership was canceled pursuant to Corp. Code § 15902.03 [see § 16A.450] or that were acquired by the limited partnership following the cancellation of the certificate of limited partnership, that were not disposed of prior to the time of its revival, will be vested in the limited partnership after its revival as fully as if they were held by the limited partnership at, and during the time after, as the case may be, the time the certificate of limited partnership was canceled. After its revival, the limited partnership and its partners will have all of the same liability for contracts, acts, matters, and things made, done, or performed in the limited partnership's name and on behalf of its partners, employees, and agents, as the limited partnership and its partners would have had if the limited partnership's certificate of limited partnership had at all times remained in full force and effect [Corp. Code § 15902.09(d)].

This chapter covers the conversion and merger of limited partnerships under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code §§ 15900-15912.07 (operative January 1, 2008)]. As of January 1, 2010, this act governs all limited partnerships, except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15912.06(c) [Corp. Code § 15912.06(b); see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.11]. The Legal Background discusses conversion and merger requirements and partners' dissenting rights. The Transaction Guide covers the procedural steps required to merge limited partnerships and other business entities, convert to another business entity, and exercise dissenting partners' rights. This chapter also includes forms applicable to mergers and conversions, and to the exercise of the rights of dissenting limited partners.

The nature and formation of limited partnerships are discussed in Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships . The dissolution of limited partnerships is discussed in Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships .

For detailed discussion of California partnership law, including the California Revised Limited Partnership Act (CRLPA) [former Corp. Code § 15611 et seq., repealed Jan. 1, 2010], see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships (Matthew Bender). The merger of California corporations with domestic and foreign limited partnerships is covered in Ch. 11C, Mergers . The conversion of California corporations into other business entities, including limited partnerships, and the conversion of other business entities into corporations, is discussed in Ch. 11F, Corporate Conversions .

§ 16B.312 Conditions Allowing Conversion

[1] Entities Into Which Limited Partnerships May Be Converted

A limited partnership may be converted into any of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)]:

- An other business entity.
- A foreign other business entity.
- A foreign limited partnership.

Conversion under the ULPA '08 is permitted only under the following conditions [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)]. For a conversion into a domestic or foreign partnership or limited liability company or into a foreign limited partnership, each of the partners of the converting partnership must receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted entity equal to that partner's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting limited partnership as of the effective time of the conversion consent [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)(1)]. For a conversion into an other business entity or foreign other business entity not specified above, both of the following must occur [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)(2)]:

- Each limited partnership interest of the same class must be treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted entity, unless all limited partners of the class consent; and
- The nonredeemable limited partnership interests of the converting limited partnership must be converted only into nonredeemable interests or securities of the converted entity, unless all holders of the unredeemable interests consent.

[2] Applicable Law Must Permit Conversion

The conversion of a limited partnership to an other business entity, a foreign other business entity, or a foreign limited partnership may be effected only if both the law under which the converted entity will exist expressly permits the formation of that entity pursuant to a conversion, and the limited partnership complies with all other requirements of any other law that applies to conversion to the converted entity [Corp. Code § 15911.02(b)].

§ 16B.313 Plan of Conversion

[1] Required Provisions

A limited partnership that desires to convert to an other business entity, a foreign other business entity, or a foreign limited partnership must approve a plan of conversion. That plan must state all of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.03(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the conversion.
- The place of organization of the converted entity and of the converting limited partnership and the name of the converted entity after conversion.
- The manner of converting the limited and general partnership interests of each of the partners into shares of, securities of, or interests in, the converted entity.
- The provisions of the governing documents for the converted entity, including the partnership agreement, limited liability company articles of organization and operating agreement, or articles or certificate of incorporation if the converted entity is a corporation, to which the holders of interests in the converted entity are to be bound.
- Any other details or provisions that are required by the laws under which the converted entity is organized, or that are desired by the parties.

[2] Approval Requirements

The plan of conversion must be approved by all general partners of the converting limited partnership and by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of the converting limited partnership, unless a greater or lesser approval is required by the partnership agreement of the converting limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.03(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(12) (partnership agreement may not restrict right of partner to approve conversion)]. However, if the limited partners of the limited partnership would become personally liable for any obligations of the converted entity as a result of the conversion, the plan of conversion must be approved by all of the limited partners of the converting limited partnership, unless the plan of conversion provides that all limited partners will have dissenters' rights as provided in Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33 [Corp. Code § 15911.03(b); see § 16B.350 et seq.].

[3] All Non-Dissenting Partners Deemed Parties to Plan

Upon the effectiveness of the conversion, all partners of the converting limited partnership, except those that exercise dissenters' rights [Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33; see § 16B.350 et seq.] are deemed parties to any governing documents for the converted entity adopted as part of the plan of conversion, whether or not the partner has executed the plan or the governing documents for the converted entity. Any adoption of governing documents made pursuant thereto is effective at the effective time or date of the conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.03(c)].

The converted entity must keep the plan of conversion at the following location [Corp. Code § 15911.03(f)]:

- The principal place of business of the converted entity, if the converted entity is a domestic partnership or foreign other business entity;

- The principal executive office of, or registrar or transfer agent of, the converted entity, if the converted entity is a domestic corporation; or

- The office at which records are to be kept under Corp. Code § 17057, if the converted entity is a domestic limited liability company [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies].

Upon the request of a partner of a converting limited partnership, the authorized person on behalf of the converted entity must promptly deliver to the partner or the holder of shares, interests, or other securities, at the expense of the converted entity, a copy of the plan of conversion. A waiver by a partner of these rights is unenforceable [Corp. Code § 15911.03(f)].

[5] Amending Plan of Conversion

Notwithstanding its prior approval, a plan of conversion may be amended before the conversion takes effect if the amendment is approved by all general partners of the converting limited partnership. If the amendment changes any of the principal terms of the plan, the plan must also be approved by the limited partners of the converting limited partnership in the same manner and to the same extent as required for the approval of the original plan [Corp. Code § 15911.03(d)].

[6] Abandoning Conversion

The general partners of a converting limited partnership in their discretion may abandon a conversion by unanimous approval at any time before the conversion is effective, without further approval by the limited partners, subject to the contractual rights of third parties other than limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.03(e)].

- All documents required by law to create the converted entity are filed and contain a statement of conversion if required under Corp. Code § 15911.06 [see § 16B.317]; and

- The effective date, if set forth in the plan of conversion, occurs.

A copy of the statement of partnership authority or articles of organization complying with Corp. Code § 15911.06 [see § 16B.317], if applicable, duly certified by the Secretary of State, is conclusive evidence of the conversion of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.04(b)].

§ 16B.316 Service Of Process

To enforce an obligation of a limited partnership that has converted to a foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity, the Secretary of State will only be the agent for service of process in an action or proceeding against that converted foreign entity, if (1) the agent designated for the service of process for that entity is a natural person and cannot be found with due diligence; (2) if the agent is a corporation and no person, to whom delivery may be made, may be located with due diligence; or (3) if no agent has been designated and if no one of the officers, partners, managers, members, or agents of that entity may be located after diligent search; and in each case it is so shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court. The court then may make an order that service be made by personal delivery to the Secretary of State or to an assistant or deputy Secretary of State of two copies of the process together with two copies of the order. The order must set forth an address to which the process will be sent by the Secretary of State. Service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.05(c)(1)].

Upon receipt of the process and order and the fee set forth in Gov. Code § 12206, the Secretary of State must provide notice to that entity of the service of the process by forwarding by certified mail, return receipt requested, a copy of the process and order to the address specified in the order [Corp. Code § 15911.05(c)(2)].

The Secretary of State must keep a record of all process served upon the Secretary and record in it the time of service and the Secretary's action with respect thereto. The certificate of the Secretary of State, under the Secretary's official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the providing of notice to that entity, and the forwarding of the process is competent and prima facie evidence of the matters stated in it [Corp. Code § 15911.05(c)(3)].

§ 16B.317 Certificate or Statement of Conversion

Upon conversion of a limited partnership, one of the following applies [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)]:

- If the limited partnership is converting into a domestic limited liability company, a statement of conversion must be completed on the articles of organization for the converted entity and filed with the Secretary of State.

- If the limited partnership is converting into a domestic partnership, a statement of conversion must be completed on the statement of partnership authority for the converted entity. If no statement of partnership authority is filed, a certificate of conversion must be filed separately with the Secretary of State.

- If the limited partnership is converting into a domestic corporation, a statement of conversion must be completed on the articles of incorporation for the converted entity and must be filed with the Secretary of State.

- If the limited partnership is converting into a foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity, a certificate of conversion must be filed with the Secretary of State.

[2] Contents of Certificate or Statement of Conversion

Any certificate or statement of conversion must be executed and acknowledged [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(a) (definition)] by all general partners, unless a lesser number is provided in the certificate of limited partnership. The certificate or statement must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.06(b)]:

- The name and the Secretary of State's file number of the converting limited partnership.

- A statement that the principal terms of the plan of conversion were approved by a vote of the partners that equaled or exceeded the vote required under Corp. Code § 15911.03 [see § 16B.313] specifying each class entitled to vote and the percentage vote required of each class.

- The form of organization of the converted entity.

- The mailing address of the converted entity's agent for service of process and the chief executive office of the converted entity.

The filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion or a statement of partnership authority, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation containing a statement of conversion as set forth above has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation by the converting limited partnership, and no converting limited partnership that has made the filing is required to file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 as a result of that conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.06(c)].

§ 16B.318 Record Ownership of Real Property

Whenever a limited partnership or other business entity having any real property in California converts into a limited partnership or an other business entity pursuant to laws of California or of the state or place in which the limited partnership or other business entity was organized, and the laws of the state or place of organization, including California of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity provide substantially that the conversion vests in the converted limited partnership or other converted entity all the real property of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity, the filing for record in the office of the county recorder of any county in California in which any of the real property of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity is located either of the documents listed below evidences record ownership in the converted limited partnership or other converted entity of all interest of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity in and to the real property located in that county [Corp. Code § 15911.07(a)]:

- A certificate of conversion or statement of partnership authority, a certificate of limited partnership, articles of incorporation, or articles of organization complying with Corp. Code § 15911.06 [see § 16B.317] in the form prescribed and certified by the Secretary of State.

- A copy of a certificate of conversion or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles of incorporation, or other certificate or document evidencing the creation of a foreign other business entity or foreign limited partnership by conversion, containing a statement of conversion, certified by the Secretary of State or an authorized public official of the state or place pursuant to the laws of which the conversion is effected.

A filed and, if appropriate, recorded certificate of conversion or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other certificate evidencing the creation of a foreign other business entity or foreign limited partnership by conversion, containing a statement of conversion, filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 15911.06 [see § 16B.317] stating the name of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity in whose name property was held before the conversion and the name of the converted entity or converted limited partnership, but not containing all of the other information required by Corp. Code § 15911.06, operates with respect to the entities named to the extent provided in Corp. Code § 15911.07(a) [Corp. Code § 15911.07(b)].

Recording of a certificate of conversion, or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles of incorporation, or other certificate evidencing the creation of another business entity or a limited partnership by conversion, containing a statement of conversion, as described above, will create in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrances for value, a conclusive presumption that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.07(c)].

An other business entity or a foreign other business entity or a foreign limited partnership may be converted to a domestic limited partnership pursuant to the conversion provisions of the ULPA '08 only if the converting entity is authorized by the laws under which it is organized to effect the conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.08(a)].

An other business entity or a foreign other business entity or a foreign limited partnership that desires to convert into a domestic limited partnership must approve a plan of conversion or another instrument required to be approved to effect the conversion pursuant to the laws under which that entity is organized [Corp. Code § 15911.08(b)].

The conversion of an other business entity or a foreign other business entity or a foreign limited partnership into a domestic limited partnership must be approved by the number or percentage of the partners, members, shareholders, or holders of interest of the converting entity as is required by the laws under which that entity is organized, or a greater or lesser percentage, subject to applicable laws, as set forth in the converting entity's partnership agreement, articles of organization, operating agreement, articles or certificate of incorporation, or other governing document [Corp. Code § 15911.08(c)].

The conversion by an other business entity or a foreign other business entity or a foreign limited partnership into a domestic limited partnership is effective under the ULPA '08's provisions at the time the conversion is effective under the laws under which the converting entity is organized, as long as a certificate of limited partnership containing a statement of conversion has been filed with the Secretary of State. If the converting entity's governing law is silent as to the effectiveness of the conversion, it becomes effective upon the completion of all acts required under Title 2 of the Corporations Code [see Corp. Code § 15501 et seq. (partnerships)] to form a limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.08(d)].

Filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion or a certificate of limited partnership containing a statement of conversion pursuant to subdivision (a) of Corp. Code § 15911.08 has the effect of filing a certificate of cancellation by the converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company and no converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company that has made the filing is required to file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 or 17455 (applicable to limited partnerships governed by the ULPA '08 and limited liability companies governed by the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act) as a result of that conversion. If a converting other business entity is a foreign corporation qualified to transact business in California, the foreign corporation, by virtue of the filing, automatically surrenders its right to transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 15911.08(e)].

§ 16B.320 Effect of Conversion

[1] No Deemed Transfer of Property

An entity that converts into another entity pursuant to the ULPA 08's conversion provisions is, for all purposes other than for the purposes of Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17001 et seq., 18401 et seq., and 23001 et seq., the same entity that existed before the conversion, and the conversion will not be deemed a transfer of property [Corp. Code. § 15911.09(a)].

[2] Rights and Liabilities Continue

Upon a conversion taking effect, all of the following apply [Corp. Code § 15911.09(b)]:

- All rights and property, whether real, personal, or mixed, of the converting entity or converting limited partnership are vested in the converted entity or converted limited partnership.

- All debts, liabilities, and obligations of the converting entity or converting limited partnership continue as debts, liabilities, and obligations of the converted entity or converted limited partnership.

- All rights of creditors and liens upon the property of the converting entity or converting limited partnership are preserved unimpaired and remain enforceable against the converted entity or converted limited partnership to the same extent as against the converting entity or converting limited partnership as if the conversion had not occurred.

- Any action or proceeding pending by or against the converting entity or converting limited partnership may be continued against the converted entity or converted limited partnership as if the conversion had not occurred.

[3] Partner's Liability

A partner of a converting limited partnership is liable for the following [Corp. Code § 15911.09(c)]:

- All obligations of the converting limited partnership for which the partner was personally liable before the conversion.

- All obligations of the converted entity incurred after the conversion takes effect, but those obligations may be satisfied only out of property of the entity if that partner is a limited partner or a shareholder in a corporation, or unless expressly provided otherwise in the articles of organization or other governing documents, a member of a limited liability company, or a holder of equity securities in another converted entity if the holders of equity securities in that entity are not personally liable for the obligations of that entity under the law under which the entity is organized or its governing documents.

A partner of a converted limited partnership remains liable for any and all obligations of the converting entity for which the partner was personally liable before the conversion, but only to the extent that the partner was liable for the obligations of the converting entity prior to the conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.09(d)].

If the other party to a transaction with the limited partnership reasonably believes when entering the transaction that the limited partner is a general partner, the limited partner is liable for an obligation incurred by the limited partnership within 90 days after the conversion takes effect. The limited partner's liability for all other obligations of the limited partnership incurred after the conversion takes effect is that of a limited partner [Corp. Code § 15911.09(e)].

- Two or more limited partnerships into one limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.11(a)].

[1] Approval

Each limited partnership and other business entity that desires to merge must approve an agreement of merger. The agreement must be approved by all general partners of each constituent limited partnership and the principal terms of the merger must be approved by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of each constituent limited partnership, unless a greater approval is required by the partnership agreement of the constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a); see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(12) (partnership agreement may not restrict right of partner to approve conversion); see also Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[4][b]]. However, if the limited partners of any constituent limited partnership would become personally liable for any obligations of a constituent limited partnership or constituent other business entity as a result of the merger, the principal terms of the agreement of merger must be approved by all of the limited partners of the constituent limited partnership, unless the agreement of merger provides that all limited partners will have dissenters' rights [see § 16B.350 et seq.]. The agreement of merger must be approved on behalf of each constituent other business entity by those persons required to approve the merger by the laws under which it is organized. Other persons, including a parent [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(v) (definition)] of a constituent limited partnership, may be parties to the agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

[2] Contents

The agreement of merger must state [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the merger.

- The name and place of organization of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, and of each disappearing limited partnership and disappearing other business entity. The agreement of merger may change the name of the surviving limited partnership; the new name may be the same as or similar to the name of a disappearing domestic or foreign limited partnership, subject to Corp. Code § 15901.08 (name requirements) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[3]].

- The manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the constituent limited partnerships into interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If partnership interests of any of the constituent limited partnerships are not to be converted solely into interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, the cash, property, rights, interests, or securities that the holders of the partnership interests are to receive in exchange for the partnership interests. The cash, property, rights, interests, or securities may be in addition to or in lieu of interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If applicable, that the partnership interests are canceled without consideration.

- Any other details or provisions that are required by the laws under which any constituent other business entity is organized, including, if a domestic corporation is a party to the merger, Corp. Code § 1113(b).

- Any other details or provisions that are desired, including, without limitation, a provision for the treatment of fractional partnership interests.

[3] Rules for Partnerships With Over 35 Limited Partners

With respect to constituent limited partnerships with over 35 limited partners [see Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)], each limited partnership interest of the same class of any constituent limited partnership, other than a limited partnership interest in another constituent limited partnership that is being canceled and that is held by a constituent limited partnership or its parent [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(v) (definition)] or a limited partnership of which the constituent limited partnership is a parent must, unless all limited partners of the class consent, be treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities. However, except in a merger of a limited partnership with a limited partnership in which it controls at least 90 percent of the limited partnership interests entitled to vote with respect to the merger, the unredeemable limited partnership interests of a constituent limited partnership may be converted only into unredeemable interests or securities of the surviving limited partnership or other business entity or a parent if a constituent limited partnership or a constituent other business entity or its parent owns, directly or indirectly, prior to the merger, limited partnership interests of another constituent limited partnership or interests or securities of a constituent other business entity representing more than 50 percent of the interests or securities entitled to vote with respect to the merger of the other constituent limited partnership or constituent other business entity or more than 50 percent of the voting power, as defined in Corp. Code § 194.5, of a constituent other business entity that is a domestic corporation, unless all of the limited partners of the class consent [Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)].

The provisions described above do not apply to any transaction if the California Commissioner of Corporations has approved the terms and conditions of the transaction and the fairness of those terms and conditions pursuant to Corp. Code § 25142 [Corp. Code § 15911.13].

[4] Amendment of Agreement of Merger

Notwithstanding its prior approval, an agreement of merger may be amended before the filing of the certificate of merger or the agreement of merger as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.14 [see § 16B.334] if (1) the amendment is approved by the general partners of each constituent limited partnership in the same manner as required for approval of the original agreement of merger and (2) if the amendment changes any of the principal terms of the agreement of merger, the amendment is approved by the limited partners of each constituent limited partnership in the same manner and to the same extent as required for the approval of the original agreement of merger, and by each of the constituent other business entities [Corp. Code § 15911.12(c)].

[5] Amendment or Adoption of New Partnership Agreement

An agreement of merger approved as described in [1], above, may amend the partnership agreement of any constituent limited partnership. The agreement may adopt a new partnership agreement for a constituent limited partnership if it is the surviving limited partnership in the merger. Any amendment to a partnership agreement or adoption of a new partnership agreement made as described above is effective at the effective time or date of the merger. However, if a greater number of limited partners is required to approve an amendment to the partnership agreement of a constituent limited partnership than is required to approve the agreement of merger and the number of limited partners that approve the agreement of merger is less than the number of limited partners required to approve an amendment to the partnership agreement of the constituent limited partnership, any amendment to the partnership agreement or adoption of a new partnership agreement of that constituent limited partnership made in a merger agreement is effective only if the agreement of merger provides that all of the limited partners will have dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 15911.12(e); see § 16B.350 et seq.].

[6] Location and Inspection of Agreement of Merger

The surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity must keep the agreement of merger at its designated office or at the business address specified in Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)(5), as applicable. Upon the request of a limited partner of a constituent limited partnership or a holder of shares, interests, or other securities of a constituent other business entity, the general partners of the surviving limited partnership or the authorized person of the surviving other business entity must promptly deliver to the limited partner or the holder of shares, interests, or other securities, at the expense of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, a copy of the agreement of merger. A waiver by a partner or holder of shares, interests, or other securities of the rights described above is unenforceable [Corp. Code § 15911.12(f)].

[7] Abandonment of Merger

The general partners of a constituent limited partnership may, in their discretion, abandon a merger, subject to the contractual rights, if any, of third parties, including other constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities, without further approval by the limited partnership interests, at any time before the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 15911.12(d)].

§ 16B.334 Certificate of Merger

[1] When Required

If the surviving entity is a limited partnership or an other business entity, other than a corporation in a merger in which a domestic corporation is a constituent party, after approval of a merger by the constituent limited partnerships and any constituent other business entities, the constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities must file a certificate of merger in the office of, and on a form prescribed by, the Secretary of State. The certificate of merger must be executed and acknowledged by each domestic constituent limited partnership by all general partners, unless a lesser number is provided in the certificate of limited partnership of the domestic constituent limited partnership, and by each foreign constituent limited partnership by one or more general partners, and by each constituent other business entity by those persons required to execute the certificate of merger by the laws under which the constituent other business entity is organized [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)].

The certificate of merger must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)]:

- The names and the Secretary of State's file numbers, if any, of each of the constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities, separately identifying the disappearing limited partnerships and disappearing other business entities and the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If a vote of the limited partners was required under Corp. Code § 15911.12 [see § 16B.333], a statement setting forth the total number of outstanding interests of each class entitled to vote on the merger and that the principal terms of the agreement of merger were approved by a vote of the number of interests of each class which equaled or exceeded the vote required, specifying each class entitled to vote and the percentage vote required of each class.

- If the surviving entity is a limited partnership and not an other business entity, any change required to the information set forth in the certificate of limited partnership of the surviving limited partnership resulting from the merger, including any change in the name of the surviving limited partnership resulting from the merger. The filing of a certificate of merger setting forth any such changes to the certificate of limited partnership of the surviving limited partnership has the effect of filing a certificate of amendment by the surviving limited partnership, and the surviving limited partnership need not file a certificate of amendment under Corp. Code § 15902.02 to reflect those changes.

- The future effective date or time, which must be a date or time certain not more than 90 days subsequent to the date of filing of the merger, if the merger is not to be effective upon the filing of the certificate of merger with the office of the Secretary of State.

- If the surviving entity is an other business entity or a foreign limited partnership, the full name of the entity, type of entity, legal jurisdiction in which the entity was organized and by whose laws its internal affairs are governed, and the address of the principal place of business of the entity.

- Any other information required to be stated in the certificate of merger by the laws under which each constituent other business entity is organized, including, if a domestic corporation is a party to the merger, Corp. Code § 1113(g)(2). If the surviving entity is a foreign limited partnership in a merger in which a domestic corporation is a disappearing other business entity, a copy of the agreement of merger and attachments as required under Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1) must be filed at the same time as the filing of the certificate of merger.

[3] Effect on Disappearing Limited Partnerships

A certificate of merger or the agreement of merger, as applicable, has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation for each disappearing limited partnership, and no disappearing limited partnership need file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 as a result of the merger [Corp. Code § 15911.14(c)].

[4] Filing Requirement for Surviving Corporations

If the surviving entity is a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation in a merger in which a domestic corporation is a constituent party, after approval of the merger by the constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities, the surviving corporation must file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of the agreement of merger and attachments required under Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1). The certificate of merger must be executed and acknowledged by each domestic constituent limited partnership by all general partners, unless a lesser number is provided in the certificate of limited partnership of the domestic constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.14(b)].

[5] Filing Requirement for Disappearing Foreign Corporations

If the organization disappearing into the other business entity is a foreign corporation qualified to transact intrastate business in California, a certificate of satisfaction of the Franchise Tax Board as required by Rev. and Tax. Code § 23334 must be filed with the certificate of merger or agreement of merger, as applicable. By the filing of the certificate of merger or agreement of merger, as applicable, the foreign corporation automatically surrenders its right to transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 15911.14(d)].

§ 16B.335 Effective Date of Merger

Unless a future effective date or time is provided in a certificate of merger or the agreement of merger, if an agreement of merger is required to be filed under Corp. Code § 15911.14 [see § 16B.334], in which event the merger will be effective at that future effective date or time, a merger is effective upon the filing of the certificate of merger or the agreement of merger, as is applicable, in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.15(a)].

For all purposes, a copy of the certificate of merger duly certified by the Secretary of State is conclusive evidence of the merger of (1) the constituent limited partnerships, either by themselves or together with constituent other business entities, into the surviving other business entity, or (2) the constituent limited partnerships or the constituent other business entities, or both, into the surviving limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.15(b)(1)].

In a merger in which the surviving entity is a corporation in which a domestic corporation and a domestic limited partnership are parties to the merger, a copy of an agreement of merger certified on or after the effective date by an official having custody of it has the same force in evidence as the original and, except as against the state, is conclusive evidence of the performance of all conditions precedent to the merger, the existence on the effective date of the surviving corporation, and the performance of the conditions necessary to the adoption of any amendment to the articles of incorporation of the surviving corporation, if applicable, contained in the agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.15(b)(2)].

§ 16B.336 Succession to Rights and Liabilities of Disappearing Entities

Upon a merger of limited partnerships or limited partnerships and other business entities pursuant to the ULPA '08, the separate existence of the disappearing limited partnerships and other business entities ceases and the surviving limited partnership or other business entity succeeds, without other transfer, act, or deed, to all rights and property, real, personal, or mixed, of each disappearing party, and is subject to all debts and liabilities of each as if the surviving party had itself incurred them [Corp. Code § 15911.16(a)].

All rights of creditors and all liens on the property of each constituent party are preserved unimpaired and may be enforced against the surviving party to the same extent as if the debt, liability, or duty which gave rise to that lien had been incurred or contracted by the surviving party, provided that the liens on the property of a disappearing party are limited to the property affected thereby immediately before the time the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 15911.16(b)].

Any action or proceeding pending by or against any disappearing party may be prosecuted to judgment, which will bind the surviving party, or the surviving party may be proceeded against or be substituted in the place of the disappearing party [Corp. Code § 15911.16(c)].

Nothing in the ULPA '08's provisions as to mergers is intended to affect the liability a general partner of a disappearing limited partnership may have in connection with the debts and liabilities of that partnership existing before the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 15911.16(d)].

§ 16B.337 Merger with Foreign Limited Partnerships or Foreign Other Business Entities

The merger of any number of domestic limited partnerships with any number of foreign limited partnerships or foreign other business entities must comply with the merger provisions described below [Corp. Code § 15911.17(a)].

If the surviving entity is a domestic limited partnership or a domestic other business entity, the merger proceedings with respect to that entity and any domestic disappearing limited partnership must conform to the provisions of the ULPA '08 governing the merger of domestic limited partnerships. However, if the surviving entity is a foreign limited partnership or a foreign other business entity, then the merger proceedings may be in accordance with the laws of the state or place of organization of the surviving entity subject to the following [Corp. Code § 15911.17(b)]:

- The merger becomes effective in accordance with the laws of the jurisdiction in which the surviving limited partnership or entity is organized, but is effective as to any domestic disappearing limited partnership as of the time of effectiveness in that jurisdiction upon the filing in California of a certificate of merger or agreement of merger as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.14 [Corp. Code § 15911.17(d); see § 16B.334].

- The provisions of Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33, regarding dissenters' rights apply [see § 16B.350 et seq.].

- With respect to any domestic constituent corporation, Corp. Code §§ 1113 (mergers of corporations with other types of entities), 1200 et seq. (reorganizations), and 1300 et seq. (dissenting rights in mergers) apply.

If the surviving entity is a domestic limited partnership or domestic other business entity, other than a domestic corporation, the certificate of merger must be filed as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.14(a) [see § 16B.334] and thereupon, subject to Corp. Code § 15911.15(a) [see § 16B.335] the merger is effective as to each domestic constituent entity. If the surviving entity is a domestic corporation, the agreement of merger with attachments must be filed as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.14(b) [see § 16B.334] and thereupon subject to Corp. Code § 15911.15(a) [see § 16B.335] the merger is effective as to each domestic constituent entity unless another effective date is provided in the merger provisions of Corp. Code § 1100 et seq. with respect to any constituent corporation or constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.17(c)].

If a merger described in Corp. Code § 15911.17(c) or (d) also includes a foreign disappearing limited partnership previously registered for the transaction of intrastate business in California pursuant to Corp. Code § 15909.02, the filing of the certificate of merger or agreement of merger, as is applicable under Corp. Code § 15911.14 [see § 16B.334] automatically has the effect of a cancellation of registration for that foreign limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15909.06 without the necessity of the filing of a certificate of cancellation [Corp. Code § 15911.17(e)].

The provisions of Corp. Code § 15911.12(b) [see § 16B.333[3]] and the provisions regarding dissenters' rights in the ULPA '08 [see § 16B.350 et seq.] apply to the rights of the limited partners of any of the constituent limited partnerships that are domestic limited partnerships and of any domestic limited partnership that is a parent of any foreign constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.17(f)].

Whenever a domestic or foreign limited partnership or other business entity having any real property in California merges with another limited partnership or other business entity pursuant to the laws of California or of the state or place in which any constituent entity was organized, and the laws of the state or place of organization, including California of any disappearing entity provide substantially that the making and filing of the agreement of merger or certificate of merger vests in the surviving entity all the real property of any disappearing entity, the filing for record in the office of the county recorder of any county in California in which any of the real property of the disappearing entity is located of either of the following evidences record ownership in the surviving entity of all interest of that disappearing entity in and to the real property located in that county: (1) a certificate of merger certified by the Secretary of State, or other certificate prescribed by the Secretary of State, or (2) a copy of the agreement of merger or certificate of merger, certified by the Secretary of State or an authorized public official of the state or place pursuant to the laws of which the merger is effected [Corp. Code § 15911.18].

Recording of the certificate of merger in accordance with Corp. Code § 15911.18 creates, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the merger was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.19].

§ 16B.350 Law Governing Dissenting Limited Partners' Rights

[1] Article 11.5 of ULPA '08

Under the ULPA '08 [Corp. Code §§ 15900-15912.07], rights of dissenting limited partners are set forth in Article 11.5 [Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33]. Before January 1, 2010, the ULPA '08 governs only the following [see Corp. Code § 15912.06(a)]:

- Limited partnerships formed on or after January 1, 2008; and

- Limited partnerships formed before January 1, 2008, which elect to be subject to the new Act, except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15912.06(c), (d) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, §§ 16.11, 16.12].

On and after January 1, 2010, the ULPA '08 will govern all limited partnerships, except as otherwise provided in Corp. Code § 15912.06(c) [Corp. Code § 15912.06(b) ; see discussion in § 16B.310].

The rights of dissenting limited partners governed by prior law is discussed in Part A of this chapter. The provisions of the ULPA '08 on dissenting rights are substantively very similar to those of the CRLPA [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 754 (Matthew Bender)]. For detailed discussion of all the California partnership acts, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

[2] Application of Article 11.5

The provisions of the ULPA '08 respecting dissenters' rights apply to [Corp. Code § 15911.32(a)]:

- A domestic limited partnership formed on or after January 1, 1991.

- A foreign limited partnership if (1) the foreign limited partnership was formed on or after January 1, 1991 or filed an application to qualify to do business on or after January 1, 1991, and (2) limited partners holding more than 50 percent of the voting power held by all limited partners of the foreign limited partnership reside in California.

- A limited partnership if the partnership agreement so provides or if all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners determine that those provisions will apply.

The dissenter's rights provisions of the ULPA '08 do not apply to limited partnership interests governed by limited partnership agreements whose terms and provisions specifically set forth the amount to be paid in respect of such interests in the event of a reorganization of the limited partnership, or to limited partnerships with 35 or fewer limited partners, unless the partnership agreement provides that these provisions will apply or unless all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners agree that these provisions will apply [Corp. Code § 15911.32(b)].

§ 16B.351 Definitions Applicable to Dissenting Limited Partners' Rights

[1] In General

The ULPA '08 sets forth definitions specifically applicable to dissenters' rights [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.20, 15911.21]. These definitions are in addition to those generally applicable throughout the ULPA '08 [see Corp. Code § 15901.02; see also Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships].

[2] "Reorganization"

"Reorganization" refers to any of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.20(a)]:

- A conversion pursuant to Corp. Code § 15911.01 [see § 16B.310 et seq.].

- A merger pursuant to Corp. Code § 15911.10 [see § 16B.330 et seq.].

- The acquisition by one limited partnership in exchange, in whole or in part, for its partnership interests (or the partnership interests or equity securities of a partnership or other business entity that is in control of the acquiring limited partnership) of partnership interests or equity securities of another limited partnership or other business entity if, immediately after the acquisition, the acquiring limited partnership has control of the other limited partnership or other business entity.

- The acquisition by one limited partnership in exchange in whole or in part for its partnership interests (or the partnership interests or equity securities of a partnership or other business entity which is in control of the acquiring limited partnership) or for its debt securities (or debt securities of a limited partnership or other business entity which is in control of the acquiring limited partnership) which are not adequately secured and which have a maturity date in excess of five years after the consummation of the acquisition, or both, of all or substantially all of the assets of another limited partnership or other business entity.

[3] "Control"

"Control" means the possession, direct or indirect, of the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of a limited partnership or other business entity [Corp. Code § 15911.20(b)].

[4] "Dissenting Interest"

"Dissenting interest" means the interest of a limited partner that satisfies all of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)]:

(1) Either:

(A) Was not, immediately before the reorganization, either (i) listed on any national securities exchange certified by the Commissioner of Corporations under Corp. Code § 25100(o), or (ii) listed on the list of OTC margin stocks issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, provided that in either instance the limited partnership whose outstanding interests are so listed provides, in its notice to limited partners requesting their approval of the proposed reorganization, a summary of the provisions of Corp. Code §§ 15911.21, 15911.22, 15911.23, 15911.24 and 15911.25; or

(B) If the interest is of a class of interests listed as described in clause (i) or (ii) of subparagraph (A) above, demands for payment are filed with respect to five percent or more of the outstanding interests of that class.

(2) Was outstanding on the date for the determination of limited partners entitled to vote on the reorganization.

(3) (A) Was not voted in favor of the reorganization, or (B) if the interest is described in clause (i) or (ii) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1) above, was voted against the reorganization; provided, however, that clause (A) rather than this clause (B) of this sub-paragraph applies in any event where the approval for the proposed reorganization is sought by written consent rather than at a meeting.

(4) The limited partner has demanded that the interest be purchased by the limited partnership at its fair market value in accordance with Corp. Code § 15911.22.

(5) The limited partner has submitted the interest for endorsement, if applicable, in accordance with Corp. Code § 15911.23.

[5] "Dissenting Limited Partner"

"Dissenting limited partner" means the recordholder of a dissenting interest, and includes an assignee of record of such an interest [Corp. Code § 15911.21(c)].

§ 16B.352 Nature of Dissenting Rights

[1] Right to Require Purchase of Interest

If the approval of outstanding limited partnership interests is required for a limited partnership to participate in a reorganization, pursuant to the limited partnership agreement of the partnership, or otherwise, then each limited partner of the limited partnership holding those interests may, by complying with the provisions on dissenting rights, require the limited partnership to purchase for cash, at its fair market value, the interest owned by the limited partner in the limited partnership, if the interest is a dissenting interest [see § 16B.351[4]]. The fair market value is determined as of the day before the first announcement of the terms of the proposed reorganization, excluding any appreciation or depreciation in consequence of the proposed reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.21(a)].

[2] Limitation on Right to Attack Reorganization

No limited partner of a limited partnership who has a right under Article 11.5 [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33] to demand payment of cash for the interest owned by that limited partner in a limited partnership has any right at law or in equity to attack the validity of the reorganization, or to have the reorganization set aside or rescinded, except in an action to test whether the vote or consent of limited partners required to authorize or approve the reorganization has been obtained in accordance with the procedures established therefor by the partnership agreement of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.33(a)].

If one of the parties to a reorganization is directly or indirectly controlled by, or under common control with, another party to the reorganization, the paragraph above does not apply to any limited partner of that controlled party who has not demanded payment of cash for that limited partner's interest pursuant to dissenters' rights. However, if that limited partner institutes any action to attack the validity of the reorganization or to have the reorganization set aside or rescinded, the limited partner will not thereafter have any dissenter's right to demand payment of cash for that limited partner's interest [Corp. Code § 15911.33(b)].

If one of the parties to a reorganization is directly or indirectly controlled by, or under common control with, another party to the reorganization, then in any action to attack the validity of the reorganization or to have the reorganization set aside or rescinded, (1) a party to a reorganization which controls another party to a reorganization has the burden of proving that the transaction is just and reasonable as to the limited partners of the controlled party, and (2) a person who controls two or more parties to a reorganization has the burden of proving that the transaction is just and reasonable as to the limited partners of any party so controlled [Corp. Code § 15911.33(c)].

Corp. Code § 15911.32(b) and (c) do not apply if a majority in interest of the limited partners other than limited partners who are directly or indirectly controlled by, or under common control with, another party to the reorganization approve or consent to the reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.33(d)]. Corp. Code § 15911.32 does not prevent a partner of a limited partnership that is a party to a reorganization from bringing an action against a general partner of the limited partnership, the limited partnership, or any person controlling a general partner at law or in equity as to any matters (including, without limitation, an action for breach of fiduciary obligation or fraud) other than to attack the validity of the reorganization or to have the reorganization set aside or rescinded [Corp. Code § 15911.33(e)].

§ 16B.353 Procedures to Enforce Dissenting Rights

[1] Notice of Approval of Reorganization

If limited partners have the right described in § 16B.352, above , subject to compliance with paragraphs (4) and (5) of the definition of "dissenting interest" [see § 16B.351[4]], to require the limited partnership to purchase their partnership interests for cash, the partnership must mail to each such partner a notice of approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of limited partners, within 10 days after the date of that approval, accompanied by (1) a copy of Corp. Code §§ 15911.21 through 15911.25, (2) a statement of the price determined by the partnership to represent the fair market value of its outstanding interests, and (3) a brief description of the procedure to be followed if the partner desires to exercise the partner's rights under those sections. The statement of price constitutes an offer by the partnership to purchase at the price stated any dissenting interests (as defined), unless they lose their status as dissenting interests under Corp. Code § 15911.30 [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a)].

[2] Demand for Payment

Any limited partner who has a right to require the limited partnership to purchase the partner's interest for cash under Corp. Code § 15911.21 [see § 16B.351[2]], subject to compliance with Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(4), (5), and who desires the partnership to purchase that interest, must make written demand upon the partnership to purchase that interest and for payment to the partner in cash of its fair market value. The demand is not effective for any purpose unless it is received by the partnership or any transfer agent thereof in the case of interests described in Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(1)(A)(i) or (ii) [see § 16B.351[4]] not later than the date of the limited partners' meeting to vote upon the reorganization, or (2) in any other case, within 30 days after the date on which notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of the limited partners is mailed by the limited partnership to the limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.22(b)].

The demand must state the number or amount of the limited partner's interest in the limited partnership and must contain a statement of what that partner claims to be the fair market value of that interest on the day before the announcement of the proposed reorganization. The statement of fair market value constitutes an offer by the partner to sell the interest at that price [Corp. Code § 15911.22(c)].

[3] Submission of Certificate or Written Statement

Within 30 days after the date on which notice of the approval of the outstanding interests of the limited partnership is mailed to the limited partner pursuant to Corp. Code § 15911.22(a) [see [1], above], the limited partner must submit to the partnership at its principal office or at the office of any transfer agent thereof, one of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.23]:

- If the interest is evidenced by a certificate, the limited partner's certificate representing the interest which the partner demands that the partnership purchase, to be stamped or endorsed with a statement that the interest is a dissenting interest or to be exchanged for certificates of appropriate denominations so stamped or endorsed; or

- If the interest is not evidenced by a certificate, written notice of the number or amount of interest which the partner demands that the partnership purchase.

Upon subsequent transfers of the dissenting interest on the books of the partnership, the new certificates or other written statement issued therefor must bear a similar statement, together with the name of the original holder of the dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.23].

[4] Subsequent Procedure When Parties Agree on Nature of Interest and Price

If the limited partnership and the dissenting limited partner agree that the partner's interest is a dissenting interest and agree upon the price to be paid for it, the dissenting partner is entitled to the agreed price with interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments from the date of consummation of the reorganization. All agreements fixing the fair market value of any partner's interest as between the partnership and that partner must be in writing and filed in the records of the partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.24(a)].

Subject to the provisions of Corp. Code § 15911.27 [see [6], below], payment of the fair market value for a dissenting interest must be made within 30 days after its amount has been agreed to or within 30 days after any statutory or contractual conditions to the reorganization are satisfied, whichever is later, and in the case of dissenting interests evidenced by certificates of interest, subject to surrender of such certificates of interest, unless provided otherwise by agreement [Corp. Code § 15911.24(b)].

[5] Subsequent Procedure When Parties Disagree on Nature of Interest or Fair Market Value

[a] Court Action

If the limited partnership denies that a limited partnership interest is a dissenting interest, or the partnership and a dissenting limited partner fail to agree upon the fair market value of a dissenting interest, then that partner or any interested limited partnership, within six months after the date on which notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of the limited partners was mailed to the limited partner, but not thereafter, may file a complaint in the superior court of the proper county praying the court to determine whether the interest is a dissenting interest, or the fair market value of the dissenting interest, or both, or may intervene in any action pending on such a complaint [Corp. Code § 15911.25(a)]. Two or more dissenting limited partners may join as plaintiffs or be joined as defendants in any such action and two or more such actions may be consolidated [Corp. Code § 15911.25(b)].

On the trial of the action, the court must determine the issues. If the status of the limited partnership interest as a dissenting interest is in issue, the court must first determine that issue. If the fair market value of the dissenting interest is in issue, the court must determine, or must appoint one or more impartial appraisers to determine, the fair market value of the dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.25(c)].

[b] Court-Appointed Appraisers

If the court appoints an appraiser or appraisers, they must proceed forthwith to determine the fair market value per interest of the outstanding limited partnership interests of the limited partnership, by class if necessary. Within the time fixed by the court, the appraisers, or a majority of them, must make and file a report in the office of the clerk of the court. Thereupon, on the motion of any party, the report must be submitted to the court and considered on such additional evidence as the court considers relevant. If the court finds the report reasonable, the court may confirm it [Corp. Code § 15911.26(a)].

If a majority of the appraisers appointed fails to make and file a report within 30 days from the date of their appointment, or within any further time allowed by the court, or the report is not confirmed by the court, the court must determine the fair market value per interest of the outstanding limited partnership interests of the limited partnership, by class if necessary [Corp. Code § 15911.26(b)].

Subject to Corp. Code § 15911.27 [see [6], below], judgment must be rendered against the limited partnership for payment of an amount equal to the fair market value, as determined by the court, of each dissenting interest which any dissenting limited partner who is a party, or has intervened, is entitled to require the partnership to purchase, with interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments from the date of consummation of the reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.26(c)].

Any such judgment is payable forthwith but, with respect to limited partnership interests evidenced by transferable certificates of interest, only on the endorsement and delivery to the limited partnership of those certificates representing the interests described in the judgment. Any party may appeal from the judgment [Corp. Code § 15911.26(d)].

[d] Costs

The costs of the action, including reasonable compensation for the appraisers, to be fixed by the court, are assessed or apportioned as the court considers equitable, but, if the appraisal exceeds the price offered by the limited partnership, the partnership must pay the costs (including, in the discretion of the court, if the value awarded by the court for the dissenting interest is more than 125 percent of the price offered by the limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15911.22(a), attorneys' fees and fees of expert witnesses) [Corp. Code § 15911.26(e); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 754.04].

[6] Dissenting Limited Partners as Creditors

To the extent that payment to dissenting limited partners for their dissenting interests would require the limited partners to return that payment or a portion of it by reason of Corp. Code § 15905.09 (circumstances in which certain distributions must be returned as improper) or the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.] then that payment or portion thereof must not be made. The dissenting partners become creditors of the limited partnership for the amount not paid, together with interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments until the date of payment. The claims of dissenting limited partners are subordinate to all other creditors in any proceeding relating to the winding up and dissolution of the limited partnership, with such debt to be payable when permissible [Corp. Code § 15911.27].

Any cash distributions made by a limited partnership to a dissenting limited partner after the date of consummation of the reorganization, but before any payment by the partnership for that dissenting partner's interest, is to be credited against the total amount to be paid by the partnership for that dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.28].

[7] Rights of Dissenting Limited Partners Continue Until Payment

Except as expressly limited by the ULPA '08's provisions on dissenting rights, dissenting limited partners continue to have all the rights and privileges incident to their interests immediately before the reorganization, including limited liability, until payment by the limited partnership for their dissenting interests. A dissenting limited partner may not withdraw a demand for payment unless the limited partnership consents thereto [Corp. Code § 15911.29].

[8] Loss of Status as Dissenting Interest

A dissenting interest loses its status as such and its holder ceases to be a dissenting limited partner and ceases to be entitled to require purchase of the interest upon the happening of any of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.30]:

- The limited partnership abandons the reorganization. Upon abandonment, the partnership must pay, on demand, to any dissenting limited partner who has initiated dissenting proceedings in good faith, all reasonable expenses incurred in those proceedings and reasonable attorneys' fees.

- The interest is transferred before its submission for endorsement in accordance with Corp. Code § 15911.23 [see [3], above].

- The dissenting limited partner and the limited partnership do not agree on the status of the interest as a dissenting interest or on its purchase price, and neither files a complaint nor intervenes in a pending action, as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.25 [see [5], above] within six months after the date on which notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of limited partners was mailed to the limited partner.

- The dissenting limited partner, with the consent of the limited partnership, withdraws the limited partner's demand for purchase of the dissenting interest.

[9] Litigation as to Adequacy of Vote or Consent

If litigation is instituted to test the sufficiency or regularity of the vote or consent of the limited partners in authorizing a reorganization, any proceedings under Corp. Code §§ 15911.25 and 15911.26 [see [5], above] will be suspended until final determination of that litigation [Corp. Code § 15911.31].

§ 16B.360 Conversion

[1] Facts

NOTE:

The facts and documents listed below concern conversions of limited partnerships into other types of entities. When a limited partnership is converted into an other business entity, such as a limited liability company or a general partnership, the chapters concerning those entities should also be reviewed [see, e.g., Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies ; Ch. 15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships]. When an other business entity or foreign limited partnership is converted into a domestic limited partnership, Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, should also be consulted.

1. Reasons that limited partnership wishes to convert into other business entity or foreign limited partnership.

NOTE:

The business objectives driving a decision to convert often include the need to limit the partners' liability, although other considerations such as synergy, capital needs, or the need to meet competition more effectively, may play a role. If an existing partnership is a law, architecture, or accounting partnership seeking limited liability, it may only convert to a registered limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 16101(7), (8), (14); see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships] or form a professional corporation [see Ch. 12A, Professional Corporations].

2. Type and general characteristics of business.

NOTE:

The choice of the converted entity may be limited by the nature of the partnership's business. For example, real estate, high technology, venture capital, oil and gas, and theatrical investments are enterprises regarded as well-suited to the limited liability company structure. On the other hand, limited liability companies currently cannot render professional services, or engage in the banking business, the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, or the trust company business [see Corp. Code §§ 17002, 17375]. "Professional services" means any type of professional services that may be lawfully rendered only pursuant to a license, certification, or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Chiropractic Act, the Osteopathic Act, or the Yacht and Ship Brokers Act [Corp. Code § 13401(a), 13401.3].

3. Names and addresses of all general and limited partners.

4. Following information about existing entity:

a. Mailing address, telephone and fax number of principal place of business.

b. Tax identification number of business.

c. Name and address of registered agent for service of process.

5. Desired effective date of proposed conversion.

6. Allocation of partnership profits and losses.

7. Any provisions in existing partnership agreement regarding required approval for conversion or to amend agreement.

8. Complete information concerning any pending litigation to which partnership is a party, including names of counsel.

9. Names of partners who are likely to dissent from conversion.

10. Whether partners are aware of potential costs of conversion.

a. Attorneys, accountants, and appraisers' fees.

b. Property taxation of changes in ownership.

c. Franchise taxes and fees.

NOTE:

For example, a limited liability company must pay an annual minimum franchise tax of $800 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17941] and must pay an additional fee if total income from all sources derived from or attributable to California is $250,000 or more [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942(b)(1), 24271 ("total income" defined)]. Filing fees include fees for filing articles and a statement of information [see Gov. Code § 12190(b), (k)].

d. Potential income tax consequences.

NOTE:

There are no adverse federal income tax implications in a conversion to a foreign limited partnership or limited liability company [Rev. Rul. 84-52, 1984-1 C.B. 157 ; see Rev. Rul. 95-37, 1995-1 C.B. 130].

11. Does law of jurisdiction of entity to be created by conversion expressly permit entity to be formed by conversion?

NOTE:

A domestic limited partnership may be converted into an other business entity, a foreign other business entity, or a foreign limited partnership only if (1) the law under which the converted entity will exist expressly permits the formation of that entity pursuant to a conversion, and (2) the limited partnership complies with all other requirements of any law that applies to conversion of the converted entity [Corp. Code § 15911.02(b)]. California permits domestic and foreign other business entities and foreign limited partnerships to convert into a domestic limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.08].

12. Facts about converted entity:

a. Extent to which existing partnership or operating agreement will be blueprint for governance of converted entity.

b. Name of converted entity.

c. Length of time converted entity is to continue, either:

(1) Specified period;

(2) Until dissolved by agreement;

(3) Until specified undertaking is completed;

(4) Until dissolved by some specific act or event.

13. How existing partnership interests are to be exchanged for interests in converted entity.

NOTE:

A limited partnership may be converted into a domestic or foreign partnership or LLC or into a foreign limited partnership only if each of the partners of the converting limited partnership will receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted entity equal to the partner's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting limited partnership as of the effective time of the conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)(1)].

For conversion into an other business entity or foreign other business entity not specified above, both of the following must occur: (1) each limited partnership interest of the same class must be treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted entity, unless all limited partners of the class consent; and (2) the nonredeemable limited partnership interests of the converting limited partnership must be converted only into nonredeemable interests or securities of the converted entity, unless all holders of the unredeemable interests consent [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)(2)].

14. Person(s) who will be general partners, managers, members, directors, or officers in converted entity.

[2] Documents

1. Initial partnership agreement of each converting limited partnership, including all amendments.

2. Initial certificate of limited partnership of each converting limited partnership, including all amendments and restatements.

3. Articles of incorporation, trust, or other charter documents of each converting business entity, including all amendments.

4. Copies of certificates and statements of general partnership on file.

5. Copies of any powers of attorney under which charter documents or agreements were executed.

6. Any separate buyout agreements for partner's interest.

7. Current financial statements and/or balance sheet.

8. Most recent tax returns of each converting entity.

9. Lists of each converting entity's assets.

10. All instruments evidencing title, e.g.:

a. Deeds.

b. Documents of title to motor vehicles.

c. Leases.

d. Liens, deeds of trust, or mortgages.

11. Licenses, permits, and patents if any.

12. Franchise agreements, if any.

13. Fictitious business name statement, if any.

14. Insurance policies on all real and personal property contributed to converting entity, and any policies on property contributed to converted limited partnership as part of conversion process.

15. Insurance policies, if any, used to fund cross purchase agreements.

§ 16B.370 Conversion of Limited Partnership Into Another Type of Business Entity

1. Can conversion be approved by vote specified in partnership agreement?

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the plan of conversion must be approved by all general partners of the converting limited partnership and by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of the converting limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.03(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(12) (partnership agreement may not restrict right of partner to approve conversion)]. However, if the limited partners of the limited partnership would become personally liable for any obligations of the converted entity as a result of the conversion, the plan of conversion must be approved by all of the limited partners of the converting limited partnership, unless the plan of conversion provides that all limited partners will have dissenters' rights as provided in Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33 [Corp. Code § 15911.03(b); see § 16B.350 et seq.].

2. How will purchase of any dissenting interests be funded?

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the agreement, statutory provisions for the buyout of a dissenting partner's interest will apply [see Corp. Code § 15911.20 et seq.; see also § 16B.350 et seq.].

3. Operation of converted entity.

NOTE:

This determination is relevant only if the converted entity will not operate in the same manner as the predecessor entity.

§ 16B.371 Mergers

1. Determine whether following advantages of merger of limited partnerships and other business entities indicate that merger is best method to achieve purpose.

a. Simplicity.

NOTE:
A merger is perfected by approving an agreement of merger and filing a certificate of merger or an agreement of merger [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.12, 15911.14]. As of the effective date of the merger, the surviving entity succeeds without further transfer to all the rights and property of each disappearing entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.16(a)].

(1) Means to combine or increase capital.

(2) Means to acquire assets.

(3) Means to further centralize management.

b. Dissenting limited partners' only method of objecting to merger is to require surviving entity to purchase their interests [see Corp. Code § 15911.33; see also § 16.352[2]].

NOTE:
Litigation can be instituted to test the sufficiency and regularity of the vote or consent of the limited partners in authorizing the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 15911.14].

c. Effective date of merger can be controlled [see Corp. Code § 15911.15].

2. Determine whether following disadvantages of merger of limited partnerships outweigh benefits.

a. Surviving entity automatically becomes subject to all debts and liabilities of each disappearing entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.16(a)].

b. General partner of disappearing limited partnership remains liable for partnership debts and liabilities that existed before effective date of merger [see Corp. Code § 15911.16(d)].

c. All rights of creditors and all liens on property of each constituent entity are preserved against surviving entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.16(b)].

NOTE:
However, any liens against the property of a disappearing entity are limited to the property affected by the lien immediately before the effective date of the merger [see Corp. Code § 15911.16(b)].

d. Agreement of merger must be approved by each constituent limited partnership.

NOTE:
The agreement of merger must be approved by all general partners of each constituent limited partnership. The principal terms of the merger must be approved by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of each constituent limited partnership, unless a greater approval is required by the constituent limited partnership agreement. However, if the limited partners of any constituent limited partnership become personally liable for any obligations of a constituent entity as a result of the merger, the principal terms of the agreement of merger must be approved by all of the limited partners of the constituent limited partnership unless the agreement provides that all limited partners have dissenters rights [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

e. Agreement of merger must be approved on behalf of each constituent other business entity by those persons required to approve merger by laws under which they are organized [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

f. Dissenting limited partners may require that limited partnership purchase their interest at fair market value on day preceding first announcement of terms of proposed reorganization [see Corp. Code § 15911.21(a)].

g. Disappearing limited partnership will lose name and identity in merger unless surviving limited partnership changes name [see Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)(2)].

§ 16B.372 Foreign Entities

1. Determine whether proposed merger involves foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity.

NOTE:

A "foreign limited partnership" is a partnership formed under the laws of a jurisdiction other than California and required by those laws to have one or more general partners and one or more limited partners. The term includes a foreign limited liability limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.02(k)]. A foreign other business entity" means a corporation, general partnership, limited liability company, business trust, real estate investment trust, or unincorporated association, other than a nonprofit association, excluding a limited partnership, formed under the laws of any state other than California, or under the laws of a foreign country [Corp. Code § 15911.01(j), (k)].

2. Determine whether laws under which foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity is organized permit merger.

NOTE:

Any number of domestic limited partnerships may merge with any number of foreign limited partnerships or foreign other business entities if the foreign entities are authorized by the laws under which they are organized to effect such a merger, and the merger complies with Corporations Code § 15911.10 [Corp. Code § 15911.17(a)].

3. If foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity will be survivor, determine whether merger will be conducted under foreign law.

NOTE:

If the surviving entity is a foreign limited partnership or a foreign other business entity, then the merger proceedings may be in accordance with the laws of the state or place of organization of the surviving entity. However, the following requirements apply: (1) the merger becomes effective in accordance with the laws of the jurisdiction in which the surviving limited partnership or entity is organized, but is effective as to any domestic disappearing limited partnership as of the time of effectiveness in that jurisdiction upon the filing in California of a certificate of merger or agreement of merger as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.14 [Corp. Code § 15911.17(d)]; (2) the provisions of Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33, regarding dissenters' rights apply [see § 16B.350* et seq.]; and (3) with respect to any domestic constituent corporation, Corp. Code §§ 1113 (mergers of corporations with other types of entities), 1200 et seq. (reorganizations), and 1300 et seq. (dissenting rights in mergers) apply [Corp. Code § 15911.17(b)]. However, a domestic disappearing limited partnership must still file a certificate of merger or an agreement of merger as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.14 [Corp. Code § 15911.17(d)].

a. Determine when merger becomes effective in accordance with law of foreign jurisdiction.

NOTE:

The merger is effective as to any domestic disappearing limited partnership as of the time of effectiveness in the foreign jurisdiction on the filing in California of a certificate of merger or agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.17(d)].

b. Evaluate merger laws of foreign jurisdiction, and ascertain whether foreign law provides for dissenting limited partners' rights.

4. If any disappearing entity is foreign, determine:

NOTE:

If the surviving entity is domestic, the merger proceedings as to that entity and any domestic disappearing entities must conform to the merger provisions of the ULPA '08 [Corp. Code § 15911.17(b)].

a. Whether foreign limited entity is authorized to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 15909.02].

NOTE:

If a merger includes a foreign disappearing limited partnership previously registered for the transaction of intrastate business in California pursuant to Corp. Code § 15909.02, the filing of the certificate of merger or agreement of merger, as is applicable under Corp. Code § 15911.14 [see § 16B.334*] automatically has the effect of a cancellation of registration for that foreign limited partnership pursuant to Corp. Code § 15909.06 without the necessity of the filing of a certificate of cancellation [Corp. Code § 15911.17(e)].

b. With respect to any real property owned by foreign entity:

(1) Whether any real property is in California.

(2) Whether foreign laws provide that perfection of merger vests all real property in surviving entity.

§ 16B.373 Manner of Converting Interests in Merged Limited Partnerships

NOTE:

The agreement of merger must state the manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the constituent limited partnerships into interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, or that the partnership interests are cancelled without consideration [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)(3)].

1. Determine whether interests of disappearing limited partnership will be converted into [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)(3)]:

NOTE:

If partnership interests of any of the constituent limited partnerships are not to be converted solely into interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, the cash, property, rights, interests, or securities that the holders of the partnership interests are to receive in exchange for the partnership interests must be stated in the agreement of merger. The cash, property, rights, interests, or securities may be in addition to or in lieu of interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)(3)].

a. Interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

b. Cash, property, rights, interests, or securities that the holders of the partnership interests are to receive in exchange for the partnership interests.

NOTE:
Unless all limited partners of a class consent to the contrary, each limited partnership interest of the same class of any constituent limited partnership having more than 35 limited partners, must be treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interest, or securities [Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)]. This rule does not apply to a limited partnership interest in another constituent limited partnership that is being canceled and that is held by a constituent limited partnership or its parent or a limited partnership of which the constituent limited partnership is a parent [Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)]. Further, it does not apply to any transaction if the Commissioner of Corporations has not approved the terms and conditions of the transaction and the fairness of those terms and conditions pursuant to Corp. Code § 25142 [Corp. Code § 15911.13].

2. If interests of disappearing limited partnership will be converted solely into interests of surviving limited partnership or its parent, determine exchange ratio for conversion.

3. Determine whether constituent limited partnership or other business entity or parent owns (directly or indirectly) limited partnership interests of another constituent limited partnership or securities of constituent other business entity, representing (1) more than 50 percent of limited partnership interests or securities of other constituent business entity entitled to vote with respect to merger prior to merger, or (2) more than 50 percent of voting power [see Corp. Code § 194.5] of constituent other business entity that is domestic corporation [see Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)].

NOTE:
If a constituent limited partnership has more than 35 limited partners under these circumstances (other than in a merger of a limited partnership with a limited partnership in which it controls at least 90 percent of the limited partnership interests entitled to vote with respect to the merger), the unredeemable limited partnership interests of a constituent limited partnership may be converted only into unredeemable interests or securities of the surviving limited partnership or other business entity or a parent, unless all of the limited partners of the class consent [Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)]. These provisions do not apply to any transaction if the California Commissioner of Corporations has approved the terms and conditions of the transaction and the fairness of those terms and conditions pursuant to Corp. Code § 25142 [Corp. Code § 15911.13].

4. Determine whether any other details or provisions regarding conversion are desired in agreement of merger.

NOTE:
Because the agreement of merger may be recorded with a California county recorder to evidence transfer of title to real estate to the surviving entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.18], optional provisions that the parties prefer to keep private should be set forth in a side agreement rather than in the agreement of merger.

§ 16B.380 Procedures for Conversion of Limited Partnerships

NOTE:
These procedures apply to a limited partnership converting into an other business entity, foreign other business entity, or foreign limited partnership. For procedures applicable to the conversion of another entity into a domestic limited partnership, see § 16B.381.

1. Draft plan of conversion, stating all of following [Corp. Code § 15911.03(a); see § 16B.313[1]]:

a. Terms and conditions of conversion.

b. Place of organization of converted entity and of converting limited partnership.

c. Name of converted entity after conversion.

d. Manner of converting limited and general partnership interests of each of partners into shares of, securities of, or interests in, converted entity.

NOTE:
A limited partnership may be converted into a domestic or foreign partnership or LLC or into a foreign limited partnership only if each of the partners of the converting limited partnership will receive a percentage interest in the profits and capital of the converted entity equal to the partner's percentage interest in profits and capital of the converting limited partnership as of the effective time of the conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)(1)].

For conversion into an other business entity or foreign other business entity not specified above, both of the following must occur: (1) each limited partnership interest of the same class must be treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities of the converted entity, unless all limited partners of the class consent; and (2) the nonredeemable limited partnership interests of the converting limited partnership must be converted only into nonredeemable interests or securities of the converted entity, unless all holders of the unredeemable interests consent [Corp. Code § 15911.02(a)(2)].

e. Provisions of governing documents for converted entity, including partnership agreement, limited liability company articles of organization and operating agreement, or articles or certificate of incorporation if converted entity is corporation, to which holders of interests in converted entity are to be bound.

f. Any other details or provisions that are required by the laws under which the converted entity is organized.

g. Any other details or provisions that are desired by parties.

h. Effective date of conversion [see § 16B.314].

NOTE:

A conversion into an other business entity, a foreign other business entity, or a foreign limited partnership becomes effective upon the earliest date that all of the following occur [Corp. Code § 15911.04(a)]:

- The plan of conversion is approved by the partners of the converting limited partnership, as provided in Corp. Code § 15911.03;
- All documents required by law to create the converted entity are filed and contain a statement of conversion if required under Corp. Code § 15911.06; and
- The effective date, if set forth in the plan of conversion, occurs.

2. Submit plan of conversion for approval of partners.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the plan of conversion must be approved by all general partners of the converting limited partnership and by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of the converting limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.03(b); see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(12) (partnership agreement may not restrict right of partner to approve conversion)]. However, if the limited partners of the limited partnership would become personally liable for any obligations of the converted entity as a result of the conversion, the plan of conversion must be approved by all of the limited partners of the converting limited partnership, unless the plan of conversion provides that all limited partners will have dissenters' rights as provided in Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33 [Corp. Code § 15911.03(b); see § 16B.350 et seq.].

3. Submit any amendments to plan of conversion to partners for approval by same vote as required for adoption of original plan.

NOTE:

Notwithstanding its prior approval, a plan of conversion may be amended before the conversion takes effect if the amendment is approved by all general partners of the converting limited partnership. If the amendment changes any of the principal terms of the plan, the plan must also be approved by the limited partners of the converting limited partnership in the same manner and to the same extent as required for the approval of the original plan [Corp. Code § 15911.03(d)].

4. Complete and file one of following, as appropriate, with Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.06]:

NOTE:

Any certificate or statement of conversion must be executed and acknowledged [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(a)] by all general partners, unless a lesser number is provided in the certificate of limited partnership. The certificate or statement must set forth the name and the Secretary of State's file number of the converting limited partnership; a statement that the principal terms of the plan of conversion were approved by a vote of the partners that equaled or exceeded the vote required under Corp. Code § 15911.03, specifying each class entitled to vote and the percentage vote required of each class; the form of organization of the converted entity; and the mailing address of the converted entity's agent for service of process and the chief executive office of the converted entity [Corp. Code § 15911.06(b)].

a. If limited partnership is converting into domestic limited liability company, statement of conversion on articles of organization for converted entity [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(1); see § 16B.317].

b. If limited partnership is converting into domestic partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(2); see § 16B.317]:

(1) Statement of conversion on statement of partnership authority for converted entity.

(2) If no statement of partnership authority is filed, separate certificate of conversion [see § 16B.410].

c. If limited partnership is converting into domestic corporation, statement of conversion on articles of incorporation for converted entity [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(3)].

d. If limited partnership is converting into foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity, certificate of conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(4); see § 16B.410].

5. Record applicable certificate of conversion, statement of partnership authority, or certificate of limited partnership, articles of incorporation, articles of organization, or other certificate evidencing the creation of another business entity or limited partnership by conversion [see paragraph 5, above] in each county in which converted entity owns real property [Corp. Code § 15911.07].

NOTE:

Recordation creates a conclusive presumption in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.07(c)].

6. Notify all creditors of limited partnership of effective date of conversion and any exercise of dissenters' rights by limited partners.

§ 16B.381 Procedures for Conversion of Other Business Entity to Domestic Limited Partnership

NOTE:

An other business entity or a foreign other business entity or a foreign limited partnership may be converted to a domestic limited partnership pursuant to the conversion provisions of the ULPA '08 only if the converting entity is authorized by the laws under which it is organized to effect the conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.08(a)].

1. Advise client that entity must approve plan of conversion or instrument required to be approved to effect conversion pursuant to laws under which entity is organized [Corp. Code § 15911.08(b)].

2. Ensure approval by number or percentage of partners, members, shareholders, or holders of interest of converting entity required by laws under which that entity is organized, or a greater or lesser percentage (subject to applicable laws), set forth in converting entity's governing document [Corp. Code § 15911.08(c)].

3. Complete statement of conversion on certificate of limited partnership and file with Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.08(d); see § 16B.411].

4. Advise client that conversion is effective under ULPA '08 when conversion is effective under laws under which converting entity is organized, if certificate of limited partnership containing a statement of conversion has been filed with Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.08(d)].

NOTE:

If the converting entity's governing law is silent as to the effectiveness of the conversion, it becomes effective upon the completion of all acts required under Title 2 of the Corporations Code [see Corp. Code § 15501 et seq. (partnerships)] to form a limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.08(d)].

5. Notify client that converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company that has made required filing [see paragraph 4, above] is not required to file certificate of cancellation [Corp. Code § 15911.08(e)].

NOTE:

Filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion or a certificate of limited partnership containing a statement of conversion pursuant to Corp. Code § 15911.08 has the effect of filing a certificate of cancellation by a converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company and no converting foreign limited partnership or foreign limited liability company that has made the filing is required to file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 or 17455 as a result of that conversion.

If a converting other business entity is a foreign corporation qualified to transact business in California, the foreign corporation, by virtue of the filing, automatically surrenders its right to transact intrastate business [Corp. Code § 15911.08(e)].

§ 16B.382 Drafting and Approving Agreement of Merger

1. Draft agreement of merger, including all of following [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a); see § 16B.420]:

a. Terms and conditions of merger.

b. Name and place of organization of surviving limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(l)] or surviving other business entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(m)], and of each disappearing limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(h)] and disappearing other business entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(i)].

NOTE:
The agreement of merger may change the name of the surviving limited partnership. The new name may be the same as or similar to the name of a disappearing domestic or foreign limited partnership, subject to Corp. Code § 15901.08, which sets forth the requirements for a limited partnership's name [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)(2); see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships].

c. Manner of converting partnership interests of each of constituent limited partnerships into interests, shares, or other securities of surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

d. If partnership interests of any of constituent limited partnerships are not to be converted solely into interests, shares, or other securities of surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, cash, property, rights, interests, or securities that holders of partnership interests are to receive in exchange for the partnership interests.

e. If applicable, that partnership interests are canceled without consideration.

f. Any other details or provisions that are required by laws under which any constituent other business entity is organized, including, if domestic corporation is party to merger, Corp. Code § 1113(b).

g. Any other details or provisions that are desired, including provision for treatment of fractional partnership interests.

2. Submit agreement of merger to partners for approval as follows, unless partnership agreement provides otherwise [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)]:

NOTE:
Each limited partnership and other business entity that desires to merge must approve an agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

a. Agreement must be approved by all general partners of each constituent limited partnership.

b. Principal terms of merger must be approved by majority in interest of each class of limited partners of each constituent limited partnership, unless greater approval is required by constituent limited partnership agreement.

c. If limited partners of any constituent limited partnership become personally liable for any obligations of constituent entity as result of merger, principal terms of agreement of merger must be approved by all limited partners of constituent limited partnership unless agreement provides that all limited partners have dissenters rights [see Corp. Code § 15911.20 et seq.].

3. If merger involves other business entities, submit agreement of merger to persons required to approve merger by laws under which constituent other business entities are organized [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

§ 16B.383 Filing Certificate of Merger

1. Complete Secretary of State's official form for certificate of merger [see Corp. Code § 15911.14 (statutory requirements); see also § 16B.421].

NOTE:
The form is available online at the California Secretary of State's website, www.ss.ca.gov/business.

2. Submit certificate of merger to each constituent entity for execution and acknowledgment by [see Corp. Code § 15911.14]:

a. All general partners of each domestic constituent limited partnership, unless lesser number is provided in certificate of limited partnership of domestic constituent limited partnership.

b. One or more general partners of each foreign constituent limited partnership.

c. Those persons in each constituent other business entity required to execute certificate of merger by laws under which constituent other business entity is organized.

3. File certificate of merger [see § 16B.421] in office of Secretary of State.

NOTE:
By filing the certificate of merger (or an agreement of merger, as applicable), a foreign corporation automatically surrenders its right to transact intrastate business [Corp. Code §

15911.14(d)].

The filing of a certificate of merger (or an agreement of merger, as applicable), has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation for each disappearing limited partnership, and no disappearing limited partnership need file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 as a result of the merger [Corp. Code § 15911.14(c)]. A copy of the certificate of merger duly certified by the Secretary of State is conclusive evidence of the merger of (1) the constituent limited partnerships, either by themselves or together with constituent other business entities, into the surviving other business entity, or (2) the constituent limited partnerships or the constituent other business entities, or both, into the surviving limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.15(b)(1)].

Recording of the certificate of merger [see Corp. Code § 15911.18; see also § 16B.338] creates, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the merger was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.19].

4. File agreement of merger (and any required attachments, under following circumstances [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)(6), (b)]:

a. If surviving entity is foreign limited partnership in merger in which domestic corporation is disappearing other business entity.

b. If surviving entity is domestic corporation or foreign corporation in merger in which domestic corporation is constituent party [see Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1)].

§ 16B.384 Mailing Notice of Approval of Reorganization

NOTE:
If the limited partners have a right to require the limited partnership to purchase their dissenting interests [see Corp. Code § 15911.21; see § 16B.352], the limited partnership must mail notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of the limited partners to each of its limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a); see Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(4), (5)].

1. Draft notice of approval that satisfies each of the following requirements [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a); see § 16B.430]:

a. States that proposed reorganization has been approved by requisite vote or consent of limited partners.

b. States price determined by partnership to represent fair market value of its outstanding interests.

NOTE:
The statement of price constitutes an offer by the partnership to purchase at the price stated any dissenting interests [see Corp. Code § 15911.21], unless they lose their status as dissenting interests under Corp. Code § 15911.30 [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a)].

c. Briefly describes procedure for dissenting limited partners to follow in order to exercise dissenting rights.

2. Include copy of Corp. Code §§ 15911.21-15911.25 to accompany notice of approval [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a)];

3. Mail notice to each limited partner entitled to require limited partnership to purchase dissenting interests within 10 days after date of approval by requisite vote or consent [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a)].

4. For each limited partner that complies with procedures to exercise dissenting rights [see § 16B.386], instruct partnership to either:

a. Purchase dissenting interests at fair market value, plus interest thereon at legal rate on judgments from date of consummation of reorganization [see Corp. Code § 15911.24]:

NOTE:

All agreements fixing the fair market value of any dissenting limited partner's interest as between the limited partnership and that limited partner must be in writing and filed in the records of the limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.24(a)].

The payment requirement is subject to the provisions of Corp. Code § 15911.27, which provides that to the extent a payment to dissenting limited partners for dissenting interests would require the limited partners to return that payment or a portion of it as an improper distribution [see Corp. Code § 15905.09] or because of the application of the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.], then that payment or portion thereof is not to be made. The dissenting partners become creditors of the limited partnership for the amount not paid, together with interest at the legal rate on judgments until the date of payment. The claims of dissenting limited partners are subordinate to all other creditors in any proceeding relating to the winding up and dissolution of the limited partnership, with the debt to be payable when permissible [Corp. Code § 15911.27].

(1) Within later of following dates:

(a) Thirty days after amount of fair market value has been agreed to; or

(b) Thirty days after any statutory or contractual conditions to reorganization are satisfied.

(2) If dissenting interests are evidenced by certificates of interest, by surrender of certificates.

b. Refuse to purchase interests, based on [see Corp. Code § 15911.25; see also § 16B.382]:

(1) Denial by limited partnership of dissenting interest status; or

(2) Failure of limited partnership and limited partner to agree on fair market value of dissenting interests.

5. If limited partnership refused to purchase dissenting interests [see paragraph 4b, above], advise partnership that it may:

a. File complaint in superior court to determine disputed issues, within six months after date on which notice of approval of reorganization was mailed to limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15911.25(a)].

b. Intervene in any action pending on such a complaint [see Corp. Code § 15911.25(a)].

c. Take no action, and force limited partner to attempt to enforce payment.

§ 16B.385 Evaluating Dissenting Limited Partner Status

NOTE:

These procedures apply to those limited partners who wish to sell their interests back to the limited partnership. If the approval of outstanding limited partnership interests is required for a limited partnership to participate in a reorganization, pursuant to the limited partnership agreement or otherwise, each limited partner of the limited partnership holding those interests may, by complying with the provisions on dissenting rights, require the limited partnership to purchase those interests for cash at fair market value, if the interest is a dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.21(a); see Corp. Code § 15911.21(b), (c) ("dissenting interest" and "dissenting limited partner" defined)]. If a limited partner has the right to demand cash payment for dissenting interest, this procedure is the limited partner's exclusive remedy, other than an action to test whether the vote or consent of the limited partners was obtained in accordance with the procedures established by the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15911.33(a)].

1. Determine whether dissenting rights statutes are applicable to limited partnership, as follows [Corp. Code § 15911.32; see § 16B.350[2]]:

NOTE:

Article 11.5 of the ULPA '08 [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.20-15911.33] provides rights for dissenting limited partners in certain limited partnerships involved in reorganizations [see § 16B.350; see also Corp. Code § 15911.20 ("reorganization" defined)].

a. Domestic limited partnership formed on or after January 1, 1991 [Corp. Code § 15911.32(a)].

b. Foreign limited partnership if [Corp. Code § 15911.32(a)]:

(1) Foreign limited partnership was formed on or after January 1, 1991 or filed an application to qualify to do business on or after January 1, 1991, and

(2) Limited partners holding more than 50 percent of voting power held by all limited partners of foreign limited partnership reside in California.

c. Limited partnership, if [Corp. Code § 15911.32(a)]:

(1) Partnership agreement provides for application of Article 11.5; or

(2) All general partners and majority in interest of limited partners determine that those provisions will apply.

d. Limited partnership interest is not governed by limited partnership agreement whose terms and provisions specifically set forth amount to be paid in respect of those interests in event of reorganization of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.32(b)].

e. Limited partnership with 36 or more limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.32(b)].

f. Limited partnership with 35 or fewer limited partners, if [Corp. Code § 15911.32(b)]:

(1) Partnership agreement provides that Article 11.5 will apply; or

(2) All general partners and majority in interest of limited partners agree that these provisions will apply.

2. Ascertain whether approval of outstanding limited partnership interests is required for limited partnership to participate in proposed reorganization [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.12, 15911.21].

NOTE:

Each merging limited partnership must approve an agreement of merger. The agreement of merger must be approved by all general partners of each constituent limited partnership. The principal terms of the merger must be approved by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of each constituent limited partnership, unless a greater approval is required by the partnership agreement of the constituent limited partnership. However, if the limited partners of any constituent limited partnership become personally liable for any obligations of a constituent limited partnership or other business entity as a result of the merger, the principal terms of the agreement of merger must be approved by all of the limited partners unless the agreement of merger provides that all limited partners have dissenters' rights [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

3. Confirm that limited partnership interest in question satisfies all requirements for classification as "dissenting interest" [Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)]:

a. Either [Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(1)]:

(1) Immediately before reorganization:

(a) Interest was not listed on any national securities exchange certified by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 25100(o)], or list of OTC margin stocks issued by Board of Governors of Federal Reserve System; or

(b) Interest was listed [see paragraph 1a, above] and notice to limited partners requesting approval of proposed reorganization summarizes provisions of Corp. Code §§ 15911.21-15911.25; or

(2) Demands for payment are filed with respect to 5 percent or more of outstanding interests of class of listed interests.

b. Interest was outstanding on date for determination of limited partners entitled to vote on reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(2)], and either [Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(3)]:

(1) Interest was not voted in favor of reorganization; or

(2) If interest is listed on certified national securities exchange or on list of OTC margin stocks issued by Board of Governors of Federal Reserve System, it was voted against reorganization.

NOTE:
If approval for the proposed reorganization is sought by written consent rather than at a meeting, it is sufficient to establish dissenting status if the interest was not voted in favor of the reorganization [see Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(3)].

4. Advise client that dissenting interest terminates if any of following occur [Corp. Code § 15911.30]:

a. Limited partnership abandons reorganization.

NOTE:
Upon abandonment, the partnership must pay, on demand, to any dissenting limited partner who has initiated dissenting proceedings in good faith, all reasonable expenses incurred in those proceedings and reasonable attorneys' fees [Corp. Code § 15911.30].

b. Interest is transferred before its submission for endorsement [see Corp. Code § 15911.23].

c. Dissenting limited partner and limited partnership do not agree on status of interest as dissenting interest or on its purchase price, and neither files a complaint nor intervenes in a pending action [see Corp. Code § 15911.25; see also § 16B.353[5]] within six months after date on which notice of approval of reorganization was mailed to limited partner.

d. Dissenting limited partner, with consent of limited partnership, withdraws demand for purchase of dissenting interest.

§ 16B.386 Exercising Dissenting Limited Partner Status

NOTE:
If limited partners have a right to require limited partnership to purchase their limited partnership interests for cash [see Corp. Code § 15911.21], the limited partnership must mail to each such limited partner a notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent within 10 days after approval [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a)].

1. Have limited partner make written demand on partnership that complies with following [Corp. Code 15911.22(b)]:

a. Demands both [Corp. Code 15911.22(b)]:
(1) Purchase of dissenting interest.

(2) Payment in cash of fair market value of dissenting interest.

b. States following [Corp. Code 15911.22(c)]:

(1) Number or amount of the limited partner's interest.

(2) Statement of what partner claims to be fair market value of interest on day before announcement of the proposed reorganization.

NOTE:
The statement of fair market value constitutes an offer by the partner to sell the interest at that price [Corp. Code § 15911.22(c)].

c. Is received by partnership or transfer agent [Corp. Code 15911.22(b)]:

(1) If interests are listed on national securities exchange certified by Commissioner of Corporations, or list of OTC margin stocks issued by Board of Governors of Federal Reserve System [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.21(b)(1), 25100(o)], no later than date of limited partners' meeting to vote on reorganization; or

(2) In any other case, within 30 days after date on which notice of approval of reorganization was mailed to limited partners.

2. Instruct dissenting partner to submit following to partnership at principal office (or office of any transfer agent of partnership) for endorsement within 30 days after date on which notice of approval of reorganization was mailed to partner [Corp. Code § 15911.23]:

NOTE:
On subsequent transfers of dissenting interest on the books of the limited partnership, the new certificates or other written statement issued therefore must bear a statement that the interests are dissenting interests, and the name of the original holder of the dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.23].

a. If interest is evidenced by certificate, limited partner's certificate representing interest that partner demands that limited partnership purchase.

b. If interest is not evidenced by certificate, written notice of the number or amount of interest that limited partner demands that limited partnership purchase.

3. If partner and partnership agree that partner's interest is dissenting, and agree on purchase of shares, instruct partner to submit written agreement to partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.24(a)].

NOTE:
All agreements fixing the fair market value of any dissenting limited partner's interest as between the limited partnership and that limited partner must be in writing and filed in the records of the limited partnership. The dissenting limited partner is entitled to the agreed price with interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments from the date of consummation of the reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.24(a)].

4. Regarding payment for dissenting interest, advise partner that [Corp. Code § 15911.24(b)]:

NOTE:
These procedures apply when the partnership agreement does not provide otherwise, and the limited partnership and the limited partner agree that the interest is a dissenting interest and agree on the fair market value of the interest [see Corp. Code § 15911.24].

a. If partnership is able to make payment, it must pay fair market value for interests:

NOTE:
The payment provision is subject to the provisions of Corporations Code § 15911.27, which provides that to the extent a payment to dissenting limited partners for dissenting interests would require the limited partners to return that payment or a portion of it as an improper distribution [see Corp. Code § 15905.09] or because of the application of the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.], then that payment or portion thereof is not to be made. The dissenting partners become creditors of the limited partnership for the amount not paid, together with interest at the legal rate on judgments until the date of payment. The claims of dissenting limited partners are subordinate to all other creditors in any proceeding relating to the winding up and dissolution of the limited partnership, with the debt to be payable when permissible [Corp. Code § 15911.27].

(1) Within the later of the following:
(a) Thirty days after amount of fair market value has been agreed upon; or

(b) Thirty days after any statutory or contractual conditions to reorganization are satisfied.

(2) After partner surrenders certificates, if dissenting shares are evidenced by certificates of interest.

b. If partnership is not able to make payment, dissenting partner becomes creditor of partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.27]:

(1) For amount not paid, together with interest thereon at legal rate on judgments until date of payment.

(2) Subordinate to all other creditors in any proceeding relating to winding up and dissolution of limited partnership, with the debt to be payable when permissible.

c. Any cash distributions made by limited partnership to dissenting limited partner after date of consummation of reorganization, but before any payment by partnership for that dissenting partner's interest, must be credited against total amount to be paid by partnership for that dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.28].

d. Dissenting limited partners generally continue to have all rights and privileges incident to their interests immediately before reorganization, including limited liability, until payment by for dissenting interests [Corp. Code § 15911.29].

NOTE:
A dissenting limited partner may not withdraw a demand for payment unless the limited partnership consents to withdrawal [Corp. Code § 15911.29].

§ 16B.387 Bringing Action to Enforce Payment

NOTE:

These procedures apply only when the dissenting limited partnership denies that a limited partnership is a dissenting interest, or if the limited partnership and a limited partner fail to agree on the fair market value of the dissenting interest [Corp. Code § 15911.25].

1. File complaint in superior court of proper county, within six months after date on which notice of approval of reorganization was mailed to limited partner, to determine [Corp. Code § 15911.25(a)]:

NOTE:

Two or more dissenting limited partners may join as plaintiffs, or be joined as defendants in that action. Two or more such actions may be consolidated [Corp. Code § 15911.25(b)].

a. Whether interest is dissenting interest.

b. Fair market value of dissenting interest.

c. Both of above issues.

2. If action on complaint to enforce payment of dissenting shares is already pending, file intervention petition on behalf of dissenting limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15911.26(b)].

NOTE:

For discussion and forms for intervention generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 395, Parties (Matthew Bender).

3. Advise dissenting limited partner that amount of judgment will be for payment of amount equal to fair market value, as determined by court, of each dissenting interest, with interest thereon at legal rate on judgments from date of consummation of reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.26(c)].

NOTE:

The payment requirement is subject to Corp. Code § 15911.27, which provides that to the extent a payment to dissenting limited partners for dissenting interests would require the limited partners to return that payment or a portion of it as an improper distribution [see Corp. Code § 15905.09] or because of the application of the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.], then that payment or portion thereof is not to be made. The dissenting partners become creditors of the limited partnership for the amount not paid, together with interest at the legal rate on judgments until the date of payment. The claims of dissenting limited partners are subordinate to all other creditors in any proceeding relating to the winding up and dissolution of the limited partnership, with the debt to be payable when permissible [Corp. Code § 15911.27].

4. Advise dissenting limited partner that court may equitably assess or apportion costs, including reasonable compensation for any appraisers appointed by the court [Corp. Code § 15911.26(e)].

NOTE:

If the appraisal exceeds the price offered by the limited partnership, the limited partnership must pay the costs, including, in the discretion of the court, if the value awarded by the court for the dissenting interest is more than 125 percent of the price offered by the limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15912.03(a), attorneys' fees and fees of expert witnesses [Corp. Code § 15911.26(e); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships , § 754.04 (although statute refers to Corp. Code § 15902.03, that cite seems erroneous and correct reference appears to be Corp. Code § 15911.22(a))].

5. If dissenting interest is evidenced by transferable certificate of interest, have dissenting partner endorse certificates and deliver certificates to partnership.

NOTE:

With respect to limited partnership interests evidenced by transferable certificates of interest, any judgment requiring payment for dissenting interests is payable only on the endorsement and delivery to the limited partnership of those certificates representing the interests described in the judgment [Corp. Code § 15911.26(d)].

§ 16B.400 Subsequent Procedures Regarding Conversion of Limited Partnership

NOTE:

The following actions relate specifically to the conversion of a limited partnership into another entity, and not to the creation of the converted entity. For procedures appropriate to the converted entity, see the applicable chapter for the new entity, e.g., Ch. 15, General Partnerships, Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies.

1. Arrange for plan of conversion to be maintained at [Corp. Code § 15911.03(f)]:

NOTE:

On the request of a partner of a converting limited partnership, the authorized person on behalf of the converted entity must promptly deliver to the partner or the holder of shares, interests, or other securities, at the expense of the converted entity, a copy of the plan of conversion. A waiver by a partner of these rights is unenforceable [Corp. Code § 15911.03(f)].

a. Principal place of business of converted entity if converted entity is domestic partnership or foreign other business entity.

b. Principal executive office of, or registrar or transfer agent of, converted entity, if converted entity is domestic corporation.

c. Office at which records are to be kept under Corp. Code § 17057 if converted entity is domestic limited liability company [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies].

2. If general partners decide to abandon conversion, have all general partners approve abandonment of conversion.

NOTE:

The general partners of a converting limited partnership may, by unanimous approval at any time before conversion is effective, in their discretion abandon a conversion without further approval by the limited partners, subject to the contractual rights of third parties other than limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.03(e); see § 16B.313[6]].

§ 16B.402 Filing With County Recorder

1. After merger, file in county recorder's office in county where real property is located [Corp. Code § 15911.18]:

NOTE:

The procedures in this section apply only to disappearing domestic or foreign limited partnerships or other business entities if (1) the partnership or entity owns real property in California, and (2) the laws of the state or place of organization of any disappearing entity provide substantially that the filing of an agreement of merger or certificate of merger vests all of the real property of any disappearing entity in the surviving entity [Corp. Code § 15911.18].

Recording of the certificate of merger in accordance with Corp. Code § 15911.18 creates, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the merger was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.19].

a. Certificate of merger certified by Secretary of State, or other certificate prescribed by the Secretary of State; or

b. Copy of following, certified by Secretary of State or authorized public official of state or place pursuant to laws of which merger is effected:
(1) Agreement of merger.

(2) Certificate of merger.

2. After conversion, file in county recorder's office in county where real property is located [Corp. Code § 15911.07]:

NOTE:

The procedures in this section apply only when (1) a limited partnership or other business entity having any real property in California converts into a limited partnership or an other business entity pursuant to laws of California or of the state or place in which the limited partnership or other business entity was organized, and (2) the laws of the state or place of organization of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity provide substantially that the conversion vests in the converted limited partnership or other converted entity all the real property of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity [Corp. Code § 15911.07(a)].

The filing for record evidences record ownership in the converted limited partnership or other converted entity of all interest of the converting limited partnership or other converting entity in and to the real property located in that county [Corp. Code § 15911.07(a)].

Recording of a certificate of conversion, or a statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles of incorporation, or other certificate evidencing the creation of another business entity or a limited partnership by conversion, containing a statement of conversion, will create in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrances for value, a conclusive presumption that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.07(c)].

a. Certificate of conversion or statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of incorporation, or articles of organization complying with Corp. Code § 15911.06 [see § 16B.317] in form prescribed and certified by Secretary of State.

b. Copy of certificate of conversion or statement of partnership authority, certificate of limited partnership, articles of organization, articles of incorporation, or other certificate or document evidencing creation of foreign other business entity or foreign limited partnership by conversion, containing statement of conversion, certified by the Secretary of State or authorized public official of state or place pursuant to laws of which conversion is effected.

3. Pay recording fees [see Gov. Code § 27361].

§ 16B.410 Certificate of Conversion to Foreign Other Business Entity

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form for a certificate of conversion, CONV-1A, together with the accompanying official instructions. It should be filed with the Secretary of State in the following situations involving limited partnership conversions:

- By a California limited partnership that is converting into a foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(4); see [b], below].

- By a California limited partnership that is converting into a California general partnership if no statement of partnership authority is filed [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(2); see [b], below; see also Ch. 15, General Partnerships].

- By a California general partnership or LLC that is converting into a foreign limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 16906(b) (general partnership), 17540.6(a)(4) (LLC)]; see also Chs. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , Ch. 15, General Partnerships].

This form is available from any office of the Secretary of State, or from the Secretary's website at www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm.

[b] Statutory Requirements for Certificate of Conversion--Conversion to Foreign Limited Partnership or Foreign Other Business Entity

Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(4) provides that a California limited partnership that is converting into a foreign limited partnership or foreign other business entity, i.e., any other business entity formed under the laws of any state other than California or under the laws of a foreign country [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.02(k), (l), (u), 15911.01(j), (k)], must file a certificate of conversion with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(4)].

The required contents of a certificate of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(b); see also § 16B.317[2]] and incorporated into this form.

[c] Statutory Requirements for Certificate of Conversion--Conversion to Domestic Entity

In most cases, this form is not appropriate for California limited partnerships that are converting to other California business entities. When a California limited partnership converts to another type of California entity, a statement of conversion rather than a certificate of conversion is filed, as discussed below [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(1)-(3)].

If the limited partnership is converting to a California LLC, the statement of conversion must be completed on the articles of organization for the converted entity and filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(1)]. If the limited partnership is converting into a California partnership, the statement of conversion must be completed on the statement of partnership authority for the converted entity. However, if no statement of partnership authority is filed, a certificate of conversion (this form) must be filed separately with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(2)]. If the limited partnership is converting into a California corporation, the statement of conversion must be completed on the articles of incorporation for the converted entity and filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(a)(3)].

The required contents of a certificate of conversion are specified by statute [see Corp. Code § 15911.06(b); see also § 16B.317[2]] and are reflected in the forms promulgated by the Secretary of State. These forms are to be filed as follows:

- A limited partnership that is converting into a California LLC will file Form LLC-1A, Limited Liability Company Articles of Organization--Conversion [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies, § 12C.200A]. That form includes the appropriate statement of conversion.

- A limited partnership that is converting into a California general partnership will file Form GP-1A, General Partnership Statement of Partnership--Conversion [see Ch. 15, General Partnerships , Pt. C., § 15.801]. That form includes the appropriate statement of conversion. (If no partnership statement is filed, then this form § 16B.400 must be filed separately).

- A limited partnership that is converting into a California corporation will include a statement of conversion in the new entity's articles of incorporation.

[d] Effect of Filing Certificate of Conversion

The filing with the Secretary of State of a certificate of conversion or a statement of partnership authority, articles of organization, or articles of incorporation containing a statement of conversion as set forth above has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation by the converting limited partnership. No converting limited partnership that has made the filing is required to file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 as a result of that conversion [Corp. Code § 15911.06(c)].

Once the statement of conversion has been filed, certified copies of the statement may be recorded in the county recorder's office of any county where the partnership held real property. Recordation evidences record ownership in and to the real property located in that county, and also creates, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the conversion was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.07(a), (c)].

§ 16B.411 Certificate of Limited Partnership--Conversion to Limited Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official form, LP-1A, for a certificate of limited partnership that must be filed by an entity that is converting from some other form of entity to a California limited partnership. It includes the mandatory statement of conversion required by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 1155(a)(1) (conversion from corporation), 16906(a) (conversion from general partnership), 17540.6(a)(1) (conversion from limited liability company)]. The form is available from any office of the Secretary of State, or from the Secretary's website at www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm.

This form is basically a specialized form of limited partnership certificate to be used when the limited partnership being formed is a preexisting business that is being converted from some other form of business entity, rather than a brand new entity. For general discussion of the effect of filing a certificate of limited partnership, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[2].

Entities that are converting from California limited partnerships to other business entities do not file this form. Rather, they file a statement or certificate of conversion that is appropriate for the type of business entity into which they are converting. For discussion, see § 16B.410.

[b] Required Statement of Conversion

A corporation or limited liability company that is converting into a California limited partnership must complete a statement of conversion on the certificate of limited partnership for the converted entity [see Corp. Code §§ 1155(a)(1) (conversion from corporation), 17540.6(a)(1) (conversion from LLC)].

A California general partnership that is converting into a California limited partnership must complete a statement of conversion on the certificate of limited partnership for the converted entity if the converting partnership had filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 and that statement is effective at the time of conversion. If a converting partnership has not filed a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303 that is effective at the time of conversion, then the filing of a statement of conversion on its certificate of limited partnership is optional [Corp. Code § 16906(a)].

This form contains the statement of conversion information.

§ 16B.420 Agreement of Merger

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a general agreement for the merger of a limited partnership with another limited partnership or other business entity pursuant to the merger provisions of the ULPA '08. It can be adapted for use when more than two limited partnerships or other business entities are merging.

For discussion of the amendment of an agreement of merger or the abandonment of a merger before it becomes effective, see § 16B.333[5], [7].

[b] Approval of Merger

The first step required by the ULPA '08 to effectuate a merger of two or more limited partnerships or other business entities is for limited partnership and other business entity to approve an agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)]. The agreement of merger must be approved by all general partners of each constituent limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(f)], and the principal terms of the merger must be approved by a majority in interest of each class of limited partners of each constituent limited partnership, unless a greater approval is required by the partnership agreement of the constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)]. However, if the limited partners of any constituent limited partnership become personally liable for any obligations of a constituent limited partnership or constituent other business entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(g)] as a result of the merger, the principal terms of the agreement must be approved by all of the limited partners of the constituent limited partnership unless the agreement provides that all limited partners will have dissenter's rights [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a); see Corp. Code § 15911.20 et seq.].

The agreement must be approved on behalf of each constituent other business entity by those persons required to approve the merger by the laws under which it is organized. Other persons, including a parent of a constituent limited partnership, may be parties to the agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)].

[c] Contents of Agreement of Merger

An agreement of merger must state [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)]:

- The terms and conditions of the merger.

- The name and place of organization of the surviving limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(l)] or surviving other business entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(m)], and of each disappearing limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(h)] and disappearing other business entity [see Corp. Code § 15911.01(i)].

- The manner of converting the partnership interests of each of the constituent limited partnerships into interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If partnership interests of any of the constituent limited partnerships are not to be converted solely into interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, the cash, property, rights, interests, or securities that the holders of the partnership interests are to receive in exchange for the partnership interests. The cash, property, rights, interests, or securities may be in addition to or in lieu of interests, shares, or other securities of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If applicable, that the partnership interests are canceled without consideration.

- Any other details or provisions that are required by the laws under which any constituent other business entity is organized, including, if a domestic corporation is a party to the merger, Corp. Code § 1113(b).

- Any other details or provisions that are desired, including, without limitation, a provision for the treatment of fractional partnership interests.

In addition, the agreement of merger may change the name of the surviving limited partnership. The new name may be the same as or similar to the name of a disappearing domestic or foreign limited partnership, subject to Corp. Code § 15901.08, which sets forth the requirements for a limited partnership's name [Corp. Code § 15911.12(a)(2); see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[3]].

[d] Rules for Partnerships With 35+ Limited Partners

With respect to constituent limited partnerships with over 35 limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)], each limited partnership interest of the same class of any constituent limited partnership, other than a limited partnership interest in another constituent limited partnership that is being canceled and that is held by a constituent limited partnership or its parent [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(v) (definition)] or a limited partnership of which the constituent limited partnership is a parent must, unless all limited partners of the class consent, be treated equally with respect to any distribution of cash, property, rights, interests, or securities. However, except in a merger of a limited partnership with a limited partnership in which it controls at least 90 percent of the limited partnership interests entitled to vote with respect to the merger, the unredeemable limited partnership interests of a constituent limited partnership may be converted only into unredeemable interests or securities of the surviving limited partnership or other business entity or a parent if a constituent limited partnership or a constituent other business entity or its parent owns, directly or indirectly, prior to the merger, limited partnership interests of another constituent limited partnership or interests or securities of a constituent other business entity representing more than 50 percent of the interests or securities entitled to vote with respect to the merger of the other constituent limited partnership or constituent other business entity or more than 50 percent of the voting power, as defined in Corp. Code § 194.5, of a constituent other business entity that is a domestic corporation, unless all of the limited partners of the class consent [Corp. Code § 15911.12(b)].

The provisions described above do not apply to any transaction if the California Commissioner of Corporations has approved the terms and conditions of the transaction and the fairness of those terms and conditions pursuant to Corp. Code § 25142 [Corp. Code § 15911.13].

[e] Location and Inspection of Agreement of Merger

The surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity must keep the agreement of merger at its designated office or at the business address specified in Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)(5), as applicable. Upon the request of a limited partner of a constituent limited partnership or a holder of shares, interests, or other securities of a constituent other business entity, the general partners of the surviving limited partnership or the authorized person of the surviving other business entity must promptly deliver to the limited partner or the holder of shares, interests, or other securities, at the expense of the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity, a copy of the agreement of merger. A waiver by a partner or holder of shares, interests, or other securities of the rights described above is unenforceable [Corp. Code § 15911.12(f)].

§ 16B.421 Certificate of Merger

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official certificate of merger, OBE MERGER-1. If the surviving entity is a limited partnership or an other business entity, other than a corporation in a merger in which a domestic corporation is a constituent party, after approval of a merger by the constituent limited partnerships and any constituent other business entities, the constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities must file a certificate of merger in the office of, and on a form prescribed by, the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)].

The filing of this certificate effectuates the merger. The filing fee varies depending on the type of merger involved [see Gov. Code § 12188(i), (j)].

[b] Contents of Certificate

The certificate of merger must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)]:

- The names and the Secretary of State's file numbers, if any, of each of the constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities, separately identifying the disappearing limited partnerships and disappearing other business entities and the surviving limited partnership or surviving other business entity.

- If a vote of the limited partners was required under Corp. Code § 15911.12 [see § 16B.333], a statement setting forth the total number of outstanding interests of each class entitled to vote on the merger and that the principal terms of the agreement of merger were approved by a vote of the number of interests of each class which equaled or exceeded the vote required, specifying each class entitled to vote and the percentage vote required of each class.

- If the surviving entity is a limited partnership and not an other business entity, any change required to the information set forth in the certificate of limited partnership of the surviving limited partnership resulting from the merger, including any change in the name of the surviving limited partnership resulting from the merger.

- The future effective date or time, which must be a date or time certain not more than 90 days subsequent to the date of filing of the merger, if the merger is not to be effective upon the filing of the certificate of merger with the office of the Secretary of State.

- If the surviving entity is an other business entity or a foreign limited partnership, the full name of the entity, type of entity, legal jurisdiction in which the entity was organized and by whose laws its internal affairs are governed, and the address of the principal place of business of the entity.

- Any other information required to be stated in the certificate of merger by the laws under which each constituent other business entity is organized, including, if a domestic corporation is a party to the merger, Corp. Code § 1113(g)(2).

[c] Executing, Acknowledging, and Filing Certificate

The certificate of merger must be executed and acknowledged by each domestic constituent limited partnership by all general partners, unless a lesser number is provided in the certificate of limited partnership of the domestic constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)]. In addition, the certificate must be executed and acknowledged by each foreign constituent limited partnership by one or more general partners, and by each constituent other business entity by those persons required to execute the certificate of merger by the laws under which the constituent other business entity is organized [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)].

If the surviving entity is a foreign limited partnership in a merger in which a domestic corporation is a disappearing other business entity, a copy of the agreement of merger and attachments as required under Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1) must be filed at the same time as the filing of the certificate of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.14(a)(6)].

If the surviving entity is a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation in a merger in which a domestic corporation is a constituent party, after approval of the merger by the constituent limited partnerships and constituent other business entities, the surviving corporation must file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of the agreement of merger and attachments required under Corp. Code § 1113(g)(1) [Corp. Code § 15911.14(b)].

The certificate of merger must be executed and acknowledged by each domestic constituent limited partnership by all general partners, unless a lesser number is provided in the certificate of limited partnership of the domestic constituent limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.14(b)].

[d] Effect of Filing Certificate

A certificate of merger (or an agreement of merger, as applicable), has the effect of the filing of a certificate of cancellation for each disappearing limited partnership, and no disappearing limited partnership need file a certificate of cancellation under Corp. Code § 15902.03 as a result of the merger [Corp. Code § 15911.14(c)].

A copy of the certificate of merger duly certified by the Secretary of State is conclusive evidence of the merger of (1) the constituent limited partnerships, either by themselves or together with constituent other business entities, into the surviving other business entity, or (2) the constituent limited partnerships or the constituent other business entities, or both, into the surviving limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15911.15(b)(1)].

In a merger in which the surviving entity is a corporation in which a domestic corporation and a domestic limited partnership are parties to the merger, a copy of an agreement of merger certified on or after the effective date by an official having custody of it has the same force in evidence as the original and, except as against the state, is conclusive evidence of the performance of all conditions precedent to the merger, the existence on the effective date of the surviving corporation, and the performance of the conditions necessary to the adoption of any amendment to the articles of incorporation of the surviving corporation, if applicable, contained in the agreement of merger [Corp. Code § 15911.15(b)(2)].

[e] Effect of Recording Certificate

Recording of the certificate of merger [see Corp. Code § 15911.18] creates, in favor of bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers for value, a conclusive presumption that the merger was validly completed [Corp. Code § 15911.19]. If a copy of a certificate of limited partnership was recorded with the county recorder when the partnership was formed, or when the partnership acquired real property, a copy of the certificate of merger should be recorded wherever the certificate of limited partnership was recorded.

§ 16B.430 Notice to Limited Partners of Approval of Reorganization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of approval of a reorganization of a limited partnership. One of the critical aspects of a reorganization of limited partnerships is the right of dissenting limited partners to force the limited partnership to purchase their dissenting interests for cash. To initiate this process, the ULPA '08 requires the limited partnership to mail notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of the limited partners to each of its limited partners, if its limited partners have a right to require purchase [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a); see Corp. Code § 15911.21(b)(4), (5); see [b], below]. The notice must be sent to each limited partner within 10 days after the date of approval by the requisite vote or consent.

The notice must be accompanied by [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a)]:

- A copy of Corp. Code §§ 15911.21 through 15911.25;
- A statement of the price determined by the partnership to represent the fair market value of its outstanding interests; and
- A brief description of the procedure to be followed if the partner desires to exercise the partner's rights under those sections.

The statement of price constitutes an offer by the partnership to purchase at the price stated any dissenting interests [see Corp. Code § 15911.21(b); see also § 16B.351[4]], unless they lose their status as dissenting interests under Corp. Code § 15911.30 [Corp. Code § 15911.22(a); see § 16B.353[8]].

[b] Rights of Dissenting Limited Partners

[i] In General

If the approval of outstanding limited partnership interests is required for a limited partnership to participate in a reorganization, pursuant to the limited partnership agreement of the partnership, or otherwise, then each limited partner of the limited partnership holding those interests may, by complying with the provisions on dissenting rights, require the limited partnership to purchase for cash, at its fair market value, the interest owned by the limited partner in the limited partnership, if the interest is a dissenting interest [see § 16B.351[4]]. The fair market value is determined as of the day before the first announcement of the terms of the proposed reorganization, excluding any appreciation or depreciation in consequence of the proposed reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.21(a)].

In order to require purchase, the limited partner's interest must be a dissenting interest [see Corp. Code § 15911.21(b); see also § 16B.351[4]]. The limited partner must make a written demand on the partnership for the purchase of the dissenting interest [see Corp. Code §§ 15911.21(b)(4), 15911.22(b), (c); see also § 16B.353[2]]. Further, if the interest is evidenced by a certificate, the limited partner must submit to the limited partnership (or its transfer agent) the certificate representing the interest which the partner demands that the partnership purchase, to be stamped or endorsed with a statement that the interest is a dissenting interest or to be exchanged for certificates of appropriate denominations so stamped or endorsed. If the interest is not evidenced by a certificate, the limited partner must submit a written notice of the number or amount of interest which the partner demands that the partnership purchase [Corp. Code § 15911.23].

If the limited partnership and the dissenting limited partner agree that the partner's interest is a dissenting interest and agree on the price to be paid for it, the dissenting partner is entitled to the agreed price with interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments from the date of consummation of the reorganization [Corp. Code § 15911.24(a)]. If the limited partnership denies that a limited partnership interest is a dissenting interest, or the partnership and a dissenting limited partner fail to agree on the fair market value of a dissenting interest, then that partner or any interested limited partnership, within six months after the date on which notice of the approval of the reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of the limited partners was mailed to the limited partner, but not thereafter, may file a complaint in the superior court of the proper county praying the court to determine whether the interest is a dissenting interest, or the fair market value of the dissenting interest, or both, or may intervene in any action pending on such a complaint [Corp. Code § 15911.25(a); see § 16B.353[5]].

[ii] Limited Partnerships That Must Purchase Dissenting Interests

The provisions of Article 11.5 of the ULPA '08 respecting dissenters' rights apply to [Corp. Code § 15911.32(a)]:

- A domestic limited partnership formed on or after January 1, 1991.

- A foreign limited partnership if (1) the foreign limited partnership was formed on or after January 1, 1991 or filed an application to qualify to do business on or after January 1, 1991, and (2) limited partners holding more than 50 percent of the voting power held by all limited partners of the foreign limited partnership reside in California.

- A limited partnership if the partnership agreement so provides or if all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners determine that those provisions will apply.

However, Article 11.5 does not apply to limited partnership interests governed by limited partnership agreements whose terms and provisions specifically set forth the amount to be paid in respect of such interests in the event of a reorganization of the limited partnership, or to limited partnerships with 35 or fewer limited partners, unless the partnership agreement provides that Article 11.5 will apply or unless all general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners agree that it will apply [Corp. Code § 15911.32(b)].

Notice to Limited Partners of Approval of Reorganization

NOTICE OF LIMITED PARTNERS'
APPROVAL OF REORGANIZATION TO LIMITED
PARTNERS OF _____ [name of limited partnership]:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the outstanding interests of each class of this limited partnership have approved, by the requisite vote or consent, the principal terms of a reorganization, as defined in the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008, whereby _____ [specify, e.g., "this limited partnership will be merged into _____ (name of surviving limited partnership) pursuant to the terms of a Merger Agreement between the two limited partnerships dated _____"].

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that any limited partner of this limited partnership may require the limited partnership to purchase for cash at their fair market value on the day before the first announcement of the reorganization described in this notice any interests owned by the limited partner that come within the definition of "dissenting interests" contained in Corporations Code Section 15911.21(b). To be dissenting interests within the definition contained in Section 15911.21(b), the interests must have been held of record, that is, outstanding, on the date for determination of the limited partners who were entitled to vote on the reorganization described in this notice and must not have been voted in favor of the reorganization.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that for a limited partner to enforce his or her right to require this limited partnership to purchase any dissenting interests owned by him or her, the limited partner must take two actions:

[If the interest is listed on any certified national securities exchange or on the list of OTC margin stocks, use the following:]

1. Before the date of the limited partners' meeting to vote on the reorganization, the limited partner must have served a written demand for this limited partnership to purchase his or her dissenting interests and pay the limited partner the fair market value, in cash, of those interests on the limited partnership or on a transfer agent of the limited partnership. The demand must have stated the number and class of interests held by the limited partner that the limited partner demanded the limited partnership purchase as dissenting interests, and the price that the limited partner claimed to be the fair market value of those interests as of the day before the first announcement of the proposed reorganization described in this notice.

[If the interest is not listed on any certified national securities exchange or on the list of OTC margin stocks, use the following:]

1. Within 30 days after the date of the mailing of this notice to the limited partner, the limited partner must serve on the limited partnership (or on a transfer agent of the limited partnership) a written demand for this limited partnership to purchase his or her dissenting interests and to pay the limited partner the fair market value, in cash, of those interests. The demand must state the number and class of interests held by the limited partner that the limited partner demands the limited partnership purchase as dissenting interests, and the price the limited partner claims to be the fair market value of those interests as of the day before the first announcement of the proposed reorganization described in this notice.

[Continue with the following:]

2. Within 30 days after the date of the mailing of this notice to the limited partner, the limited partner must, in addition to making the demand described above, _____ [specify, e.g., "submit the certificate for the interests he or she claims to be dissenting interests to the limited partnership or its transfer agent so that there may be stamped or endorsed on the certificate a statement that the interests represented by it are dissenting interests" or, if the interest is not evidenced by a certificate: "written notice of the number or amount of interest that the limited partner demands that the limited partnership purchase"]. The _____ [certificate or written notice] should be submitted to the limited partnership at its principal office at _____ [address], California or to its transfer agent, _____ [name], at its office at_____ [address], California.

Thereafter, should the limited partnership fail to agree to purchase the limited partner's dissenting interests at an agreed price, or deny they are dissenting interests, the limited partner may file a complaint against the limited partnership to force it to purchase the interests. The complaint must be filed in the Superior Court of the State of California for the County of _____, the county in which the principal executive office of this limited partnership is located. The complaint must be filed by the limited partner within six months after the date on which this notice was mailed to the limited partner. A copy of California Corporations Code Sections 15911.21-15911.25, which govern the procedure a limited partner must follow to require this limited partnership to purchase dissenting interests owned by the limited partner, is enclosed with this notice.

[If the limited partnership has only one class of interests outstanding, use:]

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that this limited partnership has determined that the price of $_____ per interest represents the fair market value of dissenting interests of this limited partnership as of the day before the first announcement of the terms of the reorganization described in this notice.

[If the limited partnership has more than one class of interests outstanding, use:]

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that this limited partnership has determined that the following prices represent the fair market value of dissenting interests of this limited partnership as of the day before the first announcement of the terms of the reorganization described in this notice: _____ [specify, e.g.,

"$_____ per interest for _____(specify class of interest);

§ 16B.431 Written Demand by Limited Partner for Purchase of Dissenting Interests

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the written demand that must be served on a limited partnership that is a party to a reorganization [see Corp. Code § 15911.20] by a limited partner desiring to have the limited partnership purchase his or her dissenting interests. The nature of a limited partner's right to require a limited partnership to purchase dissenting interests, limited partnerships that must purchase dissenting interests, interests that are dissenting interests, and the procedure to be followed to enforce a dissenting limited partner's rights to require the purchase are discussed in §§ 16B.350-16B.353. A procedural guide for enforcing the rights of a dissenting limited partner, up to filing an action to enforce those rights, is set forth in §§ 16B.384-16B.387.

The demand contained in this form must be served on a limited partnership within 30 days after the partnership has mailed a notice to the limited partner of approval of a proposed reorganization by the requisite vote or consent of the limited partners [Corp. Code § 15911.22(b)]. However, if the dissenting interests covered by this demand are listed on a certified national securities exchange or on the list of OTC margin stocks of the Federal Reserve System, the demand should be served on the limited partnership on or before the date set for the limited partners' meeting to vote on the proposed reorganization [*Corp. This chapter discusses the nature and formation of legal services, architecture, and public accountancy limited liability partnerships (LLPs) in California. The Legal Background covers the registration of domestic and foreign LLPs. The Transaction Guide provides checklists of information and documents to be covered in client interviews. Additional guides cover the registration of LLPs, the amendment of registration documents, and ongoing reporting requirements. The Forms part contains all of the Secretary of State's mandatory LLP forms, the official LLP rules, regulations, and forms of the California State Bar, complete limited liability partnership agreements, and related forms.

This chapter is designed for use by existing general partnerships that desire to take advantage of the liability protection offered by the LLP organizational form. Although the chapter contains complete limited liability partnership agreement forms, it is not designed to cover all of the issues surrounding the formation of a general partnership. For detailed coverage of the formation, operation, and dissolution of general partnerships, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships .

This chapter covers formation and operating requirements under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA '94). Effective January 1, 1999, all registered LLPs are governed by the UPA '94, regardless of their formation date [Corp. Code § 16955.5(d); see Corp. Code § 16111(a), (b); see also § 16C.11].

§ 16C.10 Effective Date of Enabling Legislation

On October 8, 1995, Governor Wilson signed legislation permitting the registration of domestic and foreign limited liability partnerships (LLPs) in California [Stats. 1995, ch. 679 (S.B. 513); see Corp. Code §§ 16306(c)- (h), 16951-16962 (UPA '94); see also § 16C.11]. As urgency legislation [Stats. 1995, ch. 679, § 20], the legislation became effective when chaptered on October 10, 1995.

This legislation allows a domestic or foreign general partnership practicing law, public accountancy, or (until 2012) architecture [Corp. Code § 16101(6)(A), (8)(A), (19)], to register as a limited liability partnership (LLP). Assuming compliance with all statutory requirements, the legislation permits partners of an LLP to limit their personal liability for the obligations of the partnership, such as the acts, errors or omissions arising out of the practice of law, accountancy, or architecture, including liability for malpractice of their partners, but not including liability for their own tortious conduct.

§ 16C.11 Effect of Uniform Partnership Act of 1994

LLPs are a species of general partnership [see Corp. Code § 16101(8), (9)] and, as such, are governed by the general provisions of the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA '94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.], as well as by the special provisions specifically applicable to LLPs. The statutes governing LLPs are subdivisions of the UPA '94, which applies to all general partnerships.

The UPA '94 took effect on January 1, 1997 [Corp. Code § 16111; see Corp. Code § 16101 et seq.]. Since January 1, 1999, all partnerships have been governed by the UPA '94, regardless of when they were formed [Corp. Code § 16111].

§ 16C.12 General Characteristics

An LLP is a general partnership that can provide its partners with limitations on their personal liability without changing most other attributes of a general partnership. Thus, an LLP can combine the income tax transparency of partnerships on both the federal and California levels [but see § 16C.60], the management flexibility of general partnerships and, with some significant limitations, limited liability for general partners akin to that of shareholders of business corporations.

As described in more detail in § 16C.23, the LLP format can protect the personal assets of partners of law, architecture, and public accounting firms from liability for partnership debts and obligations, and most particularly from liability for obligations arising from acts, errors, or omissions arising out of practice of law, architecture, or public accounting ("malpractice") [Corp. Code § 16306(c)], but not including a partner's liability to third parties for his or her own malpractice [Corp. Code § 16306(e); see § 16C.23]. For LLP partners to obtain limited liability for malpractice, their LLP must comply with requirements for "security" subject to a maximum annual total coverage [see Corp. Code § 16956; see also § 16C.21[4][d]]. The minimum for all LLPs is $1 million see § 16C.21[4][d][iii]). The maximum for a legal services LLP is $7,500,000 and for a public accounting or architecture LLP is $5,000,000 [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(A), (2)(A), (3)(A); see § 16C.21[4][d]].

§ 16C.13 Status as Person and Partnership

A registered LLP is a "person" [Corp. Code § 16101(13); Rev. & Tax. Code § 19] and a "partnership". To the extent a general partnership is an "entity" (which it is for some purposes), an LLP retains that status. A registered LLP can own property, and can sue and be sued, just as can a non-LLP general partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 16955(b), 16959(h), (k)].

§ 16C.14 Legislative Perspective

In 1994, California passed the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act [see Corp. Code § 17000 et seq.] creating limited liability companies (LLCs) under California law. In addition to establishing a new form of business organization in California, that law contains detailed requirements for LLCs including formation, operation, limitation of members' and managers' liability, and dissolution. Properly structured LLCs can provide income tax transparency and limited liability to their members and managers [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies].

The prospect of professional LLCs created substantial opposition during the legislative process. While Chapter 9 of the LLC Act was reserved for the future enactment of professional LLC legislation, the Act specifically prohibited the formation of domestic professional LLCs and the registration in California of foreign LLCs providing professional services required to be licensed under the California Business & Professions Code. [Stats. 1994, ch. 1200, § 93].

Firms intending to practice or practicing law, public accountancy, or (until 2012) architecture can, however, form or convert to LLPs. The 1995 LLP legislation authorizes a professional partnership format that can be income tax transparent [see § 16C.60] and can afford its partners limited liability [see § 16C.23[2]]. The legislation was enacted as urgency legislation because it was recognized to be necessary for the following reasons [Stats. 1995, ch. 679, § 20]:

- To provide an attractive business environment;
- To stem the flow of business and jobs from California;
- To avoid disadvantages for California professionals in competing with professionals in other jurisdictions;
- To avoid causing California businesses to incur costs in excess of those charged for similar services elsewhere; and

- To protect the rights of Californians dealing with LLPs.

To ensure passage of this legislation, financial responsibility provisions were included [Corp. Code § 16956; see § 16C.21[4][d]].

The 1995 LLP legislation is much more limited than the LLC legislation, both in its level of detail and in its scope. The details of the law governing LLPs are provided by the law already applicable to general partnerships, which is now modified respecting LLPs.

The only firms that can take advantage of the LLP form in California are partnerships, other than limited partnerships, that are law and public accountancy partnerships registered in California as California LLPs, or foreign LLPs, registered and operating as LLPs in other jurisdictions, that have registered in California. From January 1, 1999 until January 1, 2012, domestic and foreign general partnerships engaged in the practice of architecture also may register as professional limited liability partnerships (LLPs) [Corp. Code § 16101(6)(A), (8)(A), (19)].

§ 16C.15 Role of Limited Liability Partnerships in California

The role that LLPs will play in California's legal, architecture, and accounting fields is not yet clear. California joins at least 30 other states that permit LLPs to do business as such within their borders, and the majority of these other states do not restrict use of this business structure to law, architecture, and public accounting firms. However, because these professions are not permitted to organize as LLCs in California, the impact of LLPs is likely to be significant, at least and especially with regard to firms currently organized as general partnerships in California or as general partnerships or LLPs in other jurisdictions and desiring LLP status in California.

Penalties are imposed on foreign LLPs doing intrastate business in California without proper California registration [see Corp. Code § 16959(i); see also § 16C.32[3][d][i]]. Avoidance of those penalties provides one reason for prompt registration as a foreign LLP, even though registration does not seem to be required for its partners to obtain limited liability (other than for malpractice) under California law [see Corp. Code § 16959(j)]. For a partner of a foreign LLP to obtain limited liability for malpractice other than the partner's own, the foreign LLP must register and comply with statutory security requirements [see § 16C.21[4][d]]. Foreign public accounting LLPs and foreign legal services LLPs must be registered with, respectively, the California State Board of Accountancy and the California State Bar to practice their professions in California.

An existing firm organized as a professional corporation would face significant tax and other costs if it were to convert to an LLP [see § 16C.42]. Use of the LLP format by those corporations depends on their perception of the advantage of converting and the tax and other costs of doing so [see §§ 16C.42, 16C.47]. Existing professional corporations can, of course, be partners in an LLP and enjoy whatever advantages may flow from the LLP protections not enjoyed by those corporations.

§ 16C.20 Definition

A "registered limited liability partnership" (a "registered LLP") is an association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners a business for profit, other than a limited partnership, formed pursuant to an agreement governed by the UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16951 et seq.] that is registered under Corp. Code § 16953 and satisfies one of the following requirements [Corp. Code § 16101(8)(A)]:

- Each of its partners is either a "licensed person" (that is, a person duly licensed, authorized, or registered under the Business and Professions Code to practice architecture, public accountancy, or law, or lawfully able to render these services in California [Corp. Code § 16101(7), (14)], or a person who is licensed or authorized to engage in the practice of architecture, public accounting, or law in a jurisdiction(s) other than California [Corp. Code § 16101(8)(A)(i)].

- The partnership is licensed under the laws of California to engage in the practice of architecture, public accountancy, or law [Corp. Code § 16101(8)(A)(ii). The California Board of Accountancy licenses all accounting partnerships; the California State Bar requires registration only of law LLPs; see § 16C.23[2][a][ii]].

- The partnership (1) is "related" to a registered LLP that practices public accountancy or, to the extent permitted by the California State Bar, practices law or is related to a foreign LLP; and (2) provides services related or complementary to the public accountancy or legal services provided by (or provides services or facilities to) that registered LLP or foreign LLP [Corp. Code § 16101(8)(A)(iii)].

A partnership is "related" to a registered LLP or foreign LLP if the following conditions are satisfied [Corp. Code § 16101(8)(B):

- At least a majority of the partners in one partnership are also partners in the other partnership, or

- Holders of at least a majority in interest in each partnership, hold interests in or are members of another person, other than an individual, and each partnership renders services pursuant to an agreement with that other person, or

- One partnership, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with, the other partnership.

The provision recognizing related partnerships was primarily intended to afford LLP status to consulting or other subpartnerships or affiliated partnerships of public accounting firms. Applicability of this provision to partnerships related to registered legal services LLPs is less clear, but could apply to controlled related partnerships owning premises leased to a legal services LLP, or those providing services other than the practice of law.

§ 16C.21 Becoming a Registered LLP

[1] General Requirements

A domestic partnership meeting the requirements described in § 16C.20 may become a registered LLP by the vote of partners holding a majority of the interests of the partners in the current profits of the partnership, or by any different vote required by its partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16955(a)].

Becoming a registered LLP is simple: the partnership must file a registration with the Secretary of State and pay the applicable fee [see Corp. Code § 16953(a), (b); see also [4][a], below]. The partnership becomes a registered LLP when that registration is filed, or at any later date or time specified in the registration. The partnership continues as a registered LLP until dissolved and finally wound up or until it files a notice that it is no longer an LLP [Corp. Code § 16953(e); see § 16C.24].

An LLP providing professional services in California must comply with all statutory and administrative registration or filing requirements of the state bodies that prescribe the rules and regulations governing the profession in which that partnership proposes to engage. No such body may disclose, unless compelled by a subpoena or other order of a court of competent jurisdiction, any information received in the course of evaluating the compliance of an LLP with applicable statutory and administrative registration or filing requirements. However, this restriction on disclosure does not prevent a state body from disclosing the manner in which the LLP has complied with the security requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956; see also [4][d], below] or whether the LLP has or has not complied with any other requirements of that body [Corp. Code § 16953(h)].

[2] Registration With Regulatory Body

[a] Law Partnerships

A registered LLP providing legal services must have a currently effective certificate of registration issued by the California State Bar if the liability of its partners is to be limited for professional malpractice claims against their firm or other partners [Corp. Code § 16306(f)]. The State Bar promulgated Limited Liability Partnership Rules and Regulations, effective January 1, 1996 [see § 16C.231]. The application for registration requires that it be accompanied by a nonrefundable fee of $50 per partner, up to a maximum fee of $2,500 [see § 16C.230]. Among other things, eligibility for certification requires that the applicant must certify that each partner is an active member of the State Bar or is licensed and entitled to practice law in another jurisdiction and that the applicant have and maintain for the period of certification the requisite security for claims [State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rules 3.2, 3.4, 5.1; see [4], below].

The LLP legislation does not appear to require registration with the State Bar to obtain limited liability against claims other than malpractice claims. The State Bar's LLP Rules, however, seem to require registration under those Rules for an attorney to practice law in California through an LLP [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 1.0)]. The Rules also provide for annual renewal and for termination of LLP status if the LLP fails to renew in a timely manner [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 10.0)]. Further, the Rules provide for the involuntary termination of the registration certificate if the LLP has only one partner or the State Bar is notified that the LLP has been suspended by the Secretary of State or the Franchise Tax Board [State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rules 8.1-8.3].

[b] Accounting Partnerships

Only certificate holders may secure a permit to engage in the practice public accountancy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5070]. Permits are effective for two years, and may be renewed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5070.5; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5070.6 (renewal of expired permits)].

Persons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5535 ("person" defined)] who wish to engage in the practice of accountancy as a partnership must register with the Board [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5071; see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5072-5076].

[c] Architectural Services Partnerships

Persons, including individuals, firms,partnerships, general corporations,professional corporations, and limited liability partnerships performing architectural services must be licensed [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5535, 5536]. However, the State Board of Architecture advises that there are no current registration requirements for limited liability partnerships engaged in the practice of architecture.

[3] Name Requirements

Corp. Code § 16952 sets forth specific requirements for the name of an LLP. The last words or letters of its name must be "Registered Limited Liability Partnership" or "Limited Liability Partnership" or one of the abbreviations "L.L.P.," "LLP," "R.L.L.P.," or "RLLP" [Corp. Code § 16952].

The LLP legislation does not state that an LLP must do business under its official name. Nevertheless, a conservatively-run LLP would almost certainly use its legal name when doing business in California or some name indicating the limited liability of its partners. The Rules of the California State Bar also require that an applicant for Bar certification must agree that the only name under which it will practice is the name filed with the State Bar [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 3.3)].

[4] Registration With Secretary of State as LLP

[a] Filing Requirements

To become a registered LLP, a partnership must file a registration with the Secretary of State on official Form LLP-1 [

Corp. Code § 16953(a); see § 16C.200]. The registration must be executed by one or more partners who are authorized to do so [Corp. Code § 16953(a)], and must be accompanied by the applicable fee [see Corp. Code § 16953(b)]. The Secretary must register as a registered LLP any partnership that submits a completed registration with the requisite fee [Corp. Code § 16953(c); see Corp. Code § 16953(d) (cancellation of registration if remittance of fee not paid)].

[b] Contents of Registration

The registration must set forth all of the following [see Corp. Code § 16953(a); Form LLP-1; see § 16C.200]:

- The name of the registered LLP.
- Whether or not the LLP is domestic or foreign.
- The address of its principal office.
- The name and address of its agent for service of process on the LLP in California [see § 16C.22[3]].
- A brief statement describing the business in which the partnership engages.
- A statement that the partnership is registering as a registered LLP.
- Any delayed effective date of registration.
- Any other matters that the partnership determines to include.

If an architecture or accounting services LLP relies on the third alternative security provision, confirming $10 million net worth [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(D), (3)(D)], or if a legal services LLP relies on the third alternative security provision, confirming $15 million net worth [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(D)], the registration must be accompanied by a transmittal form (Form LLP-3) [Corp. Code § 16956(b); for discussion of the statutory security requirements, see [d], below; see also § 16C.202].

Because the registration form is a public document and can only be changed by an amendment filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 16954; see also [e], below], it may be prudent to include only the information required by statute in that form.

Copies of the Secretary of State's registration form [Form LLP-1] may be obtained from the Secretary's office [see Corp. Code § 16953(g); see also § 16C.200].

[c] Effect of Registration

A partnership effectively becomes a registered LLP when the initial registration is filed and the fee paid, or at any later date or time specified in the registration [Corp. Code § 16953(e)]. The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of a registration if the remittance accepted for the fee is not honored for payment, after giving at least 20 days written notice to the person submitting the instrument or to the agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 16953(d)]. Otherwise, the partnership continues as a registered LLP until it has been dissolved and finally wound up or it files a notice that it is no longer a registered LLP [Corp. Code § 16953(e); see Corp. Code § 16954(b)].

The status of a partnership as a registered LLP is not adversely affected by errors or subsequent changes in the information stated in its registration, an amended registration [see Corp. Code § 16954(a); see also [e], below] or a notice terminating its LLP status [Corp. Code § 16953(e); see Corp. Code § 16954(b); see also § 16C.24]. However, achieving limited liability for partners depends on satisfaction of the requirements described in [1], above, not just on filing the registration form. The California State Bar's Rules require annual renewal of an LLP's certificate of registration with the State Bar [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 10.0)]. Accountancy partnership registrations with the State Board of Accountancy must also be renewed every two years [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5070.5 (permits expire at end of month of licensee's birthday during second of two-year term unless renewed)]. The State Board of Architecture advises that there are no current registration requirements for limited liability partnerships engaged in the practice of architecture.

When a domestic partnership effectively converts to a registered LLP, all of the following apply [Corp. Code § 16955(b)]:

- All real and personal property, tangible and intangible, of the converting partnership remains vested in the converted registered LLP.

- All debts, obligations, liabilities, and penalties of the converting partnership continue as debts, obligations, liabilities, and penalties of the converted registered LLP.

- All civil or criminal actions, suits, or proceedings pending by or against the converting partnership may be continued as if the conversion had not occurred.

- To the extent provided in the conversion agreement and by statute, the partners of a partnership continue as partners in the converted registered LLP.

- A partnership that has been converted to a registered LLP is the same person that existed before the conversion.

The filing of a registration with the Secretary of State replaces and makes it unnecessary for all purposes for the registered LLP to make any of the filings referred to in Chapter 5 of the Business and Professions Code related to fictitious business names [Corp. Code § 16961; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900 et seq.].

An LLP registration (or an amended registration) on file with the Secretary of State constitutes notice that the partnership is a registered LLP and notice of the facts stated in the registration that are required to be stated in the registration [Corp. Code § 16953(f)].

[d] Security Requirements

[i] Practice of Public Accountancy

When a public accountancy partnership registers as an LLP [see [a], above], and at all times during which it transacts intrastate business in California, it must provide security for claims against it based on acts, errors, or omissions arising out of its practice of public accountancy. The security must comply with one, or some combination [see Corp. Code § 16956(b)], of the following [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)]:

- Maintaining a policy or policies of insurance against liability imposed on or against it by law for damages arising out of claims The total aggregate limit of liability under the policy or policies of insurance for LLPs with five or fewer licensed persons may not be less than $1 million; and for partnerships with more than five licensees rendering professional services on behalf of the partnership, an additional $100,000 insurance for each additional licensee. The maximum amount of insurance, however, need not exceed $5 million in any one designated period, less amounts paid in defending, settling, or discharging those claims. A "licensed person" is a person duly licensed, authorized or registered under the Business and Professions Code to render LLP services or who is lawfully able to do so in California [Corp. Code § 16101(7)]. Because strict compliance with the "security" requirements seems critical to limiting malpractice liability, the count of licensed persons should be carefully made and constantly monitored, and the amount of security kept current if maintained below the maximum. In making the count, an LLP should bear in mind that the term "licensed persons" is not limited to persons practicing in California but includes persons licensed, authorized, registered, or lawfully able to practice in California.

- Maintaining in trust or bank escrow, cash, bank certificates of deposit, United States Treasury obligations, bank letters of credit, or bonds of insurance or surety companies as security for payment of liabilities imposed by law for damages arising out of the claims The amount of security for partnerships with five or fewer licensed persons must not be less than $1 million; and for partnerships with more than five licensees rendering professional services on behalf of the partnership, an additional $100,000 of security must be obtained for each additional licensee. The maximum amount of security, however, need not exceed $5 million.

- Confirming [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(D), (c)] that, as of the last day of its most recently completed fiscal year, the LLP had a net worth equal to or exceeding $10 million. The statute does not indicate the consequence of an incorrect confirmation.

Unless the LLP uses the net worth method in the third alternative listed above, each partner of the LLP, by virtue of that person's status as a partner, automatically guarantees payment of the difference between the maximum amount of security required for LLPs providing accounting services and the security otherwise provided in accordance with the first two alternatives listed above. The aggregate amount paid by all partners under these guarantees will not exceed that difference. Nothing in this rule affects or impairs the rights or obligations of the partners among themselves or the LLP, including, but not limited to, rights of contribution, subrogation, or indemnification [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(C); see [viii], below].

For purposes of satisfying these security requirements, a registered LLP may aggregate the security it provides pursuant to the security provisions described above [Corp. Code § 16956(b)].

When using the malpractice insurance policy option, the policies may be issued on a claims-made or occurrence basis. A claims-made policy must cover claims initially asserted in the designated period, while an occurrence policy must cover occurrences during the designated period. "Designated period" means a policy year or any other period specified in the policy that does not exceed 12 months. The impairment or exhaustion of the aggregate limit of liability by amounts paid under the policy in connection with the settlement, discharge, or defense of claims applicable to a designated period does not require the LLP to acquire additional insurance coverage for that designated period. The policies may be in any form reasonably available in the commercial insurance market, and may be subject to the terms, conditions, exclusions, and endorsements that are typically contained in those policies. Specifically, policies may be subject to a deductible or self-insured retention [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(A); see [vii], below].

When using the second alternative, the LLP remains in compliance during any calendar year notwithstanding amounts paid out in defending, settling, or discharging claims, provided that the LLP met the requisite amount as of the first business day of that calendar year. Notwithstanding the pendency of other claims against the LLP, the LLP will be deemed in compliance as to a claim if within 30 days after the time that the claim is initially asserted through service of a summons, complaint, or comparable pleading in a judicial or administrative proceeding, the LLP provides the requisite amount of security by designating and segregating funds pursuant to this security alternative [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(B)].

To use the net worth alternative method of meeting the security requirements, a registered accounting LLP must file official Form LLP-3 with the Secretary of State's office establishing compliance with security requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956(b), (c); see also [iv], below; § 16C.202]. In addition, an LLP using this alternative must file an annual confirmation with the Secretary of State's office on Form LLP-3 [see Corp. Code § 16956(c); see also [iv], below; § 16C.202]. To be current in a given year, the form for confirming compliance with this alternative method must be on file within four months of the completion of the prior fiscal year. Timely filing constitutes full compliance with the financial security requirements as of the beginning of the fiscal year. A confirmation filed during any particular fiscal year continues to be effective for the first four months of the next succeeding fiscal year [Corp. Code § 16956(c)].

The statute does not address directly whether an LLP registering after the first four months (and before the end) of a fiscal year can use the net worth alternative during that year by filing the required confirmation with its registration; clarification seems in order. To avoid uncertainty in securing limited liability for its partners, an accounting LLP may wish to use the first two alternatives for any partial year.

Additional considerations involved in satisfying the four alternatives described above are discussed in [v]-[vii], below.

[ii] Practice of Law

When a law partnership registers as an LLP [see [a], above], and at all times during which it transacts intrastate business in California, it must provide security for claims against it based on acts, errors, or omissions arising out of the practice of law. The security must comply with one, or some combination [see Corp. Code § 16956(b)], of the following [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)]:

- Maintaining a policy or policies of insurance against liability imposed on or against it by law for damages arising out of claims rendering. The total aggregate limit of liability under the policy or policies of insurance for LLPs with five or fewer licensed persons may not be less than $1 million; and for partnerships with more than five licensees rendering professional services on behalf of the partnership, an additional $100,000 insurance must be obtained for each additional licensee. The maximum amount of insurance, however, need not exceed $7.5 million in any one designated period, less amounts paid in defending, settling, or discharging those claims. A "licensed person" is a person duly licensed, authorized or registered under the Business and Professions Code to render LLP services or who is lawfully able to do so in California [Corp. Code § 16101(7)]. Because strict compliance with the "security" requirements seems critical to limiting malpractice liability, the count of licensed persons should be carefully made and constantly monitored, and the amount of security kept current if maintained below the maximum. In making the count an LLP should bear in mind that the term "licensed persons" is not limited to persons practicing in California, but means the persons licensed, authorized, registered, or lawfully able to practice in California. The California State Bar's Limited Liability Partnership Rules and Regulations should also be consulted in determining what persons to count [see [1], above; see also § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 5.3)].

- Maintaining in trust or bank escrow, cash, bank certificates of deposit, United States Treasury obligations, bank letters of credit, or bonds of insurance companies as security for payment of liabilities imposed by law for damages arising out of claims The maximum amount of security for partnerships with five or fewer licensed persons must not be less than $1 million; and for partnerships with more than five licensees rendering professional services on behalf of the partnership, an additional $100,000 of security must be obtained for each additional licensee. The maximum amount of security, however, need not exceed $7.5 million.

- Confirming [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(D), (c)] that, as of the last day of its most recently completed fiscal year, the LLP had a net worth equal to or exceeding $15 million. The statute does not indicate the consequences of an incorrect confirmation.

Unless the LLP uses the net worth method in the third alternative listed above, each partner of the LLP, by virtue of that person's status as a partner, automatically guarantees payment of the difference between the maximum amount of security required for LLPs providing legal services and the security otherwise provided in accordance with the two preceding paragraphs. The aggregate amount paid by all partners under these guarantees will not exceed that difference. Nothing in this rule affects or impairs the rights or obligations of the partners among themselves or the LLP, including, but not limited to, rights of contribution, subrogation, or indemnification [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(C); see [viii], below].

A registered LLP may satisfy these security requirements by aggregating the security it provides pursuant to the security provisions described above [Corp. Code § 16956(b)].

When using the malpractice insurance policy option, the policies may be issued on a claims-made or occurrence basis. A claims-made policy must cover claims initially asserted in the designated period, while an occurrence policy must cover occurrences during the designated period. "Designated period" means a policy year or any other period specified in the policy that does not exceed 12 months. The impairment or exhaustion of the aggregate limit of liability by amounts paid under the policy in connection with the settlement, discharge, or defense of claims applicable to a designated period does not require the LLP to acquire additional insurance coverage for that designated period. The policies may be in any form reasonably available in the commercial insurance market, and may be subject to the terms, conditions, exclusions, and endorsements that are typically contained in those policies. Specifically, policies may be subject to a deductible or self-insured retention [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(A); see [vi], below].

When using the second alternative, the LLP remains in compliance during any calendar year notwithstanding amounts paid out in defending, settling, or discharging claims, provided that the LLP met the requisite amount as of the first business day of that calendar year. Notwithstanding the pendency of other claims against the LLP, the LLP will be deemed in compliance as to a claim if within 30 days after the time that the claim is initially asserted through service of a summons, complaint, or comparable pleading in a judicial or administrative proceeding, the LLP provides the requisite amount of security by designating and segregating funds pursuant to this security alternative [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(B)].

The California State Bar's LLP Rules and Regulations provide that a registered legal services LLP must maintain the required security [see [1], above] for claims against it for acts, errors, and omissions from the time of the application through the entire period of certification [State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rules 3.4, 5.1; see also § 16C.231 (Rules)].

Additional considerations involved in satisfying the alternatives described above are discussed in [v]-[vii], below.

[iii] Practice of Architecture

When an architecture partnership registers as an LLP [see [a], above], and at all times during which it transacts intrastate business in California, it must provide security for claims against it based on acts, errors, or omissions arising out of its practice of architecture. The security must comply with one, or some combination [see Corp. Code § 16956(b)], of the following [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)]:

- Maintaining a policy or policies of insurance against liability imposed on or against it by law for damages arising out of those claims in an amount for each claim of at least $100,000 multiplied by the number of licensed persons rendering professional services on behalf of the LLP. (On and after January 1, 2008, the total aggregate limit of liability under the policies of insurance for LLPs with five or fewer licensees may not be less than $1 million. For all other LLPs, an additional $100,000 of liability coverage must be obtained for each additional licensee, but the total aggregate limit of liability under the policies is not required to exceed $5 million.) A "licensed person" is a person duly licensed, authorized or registered under the Business and Professions Code to render LLP services or who is lawfully able to do so in California [Corp. Code § 16101(7)]. Because strict compliance with the "security" requirements is critical to limiting malpractice liability, the count of licensed persons should be carefully made and constantly monitored, and the amount of security kept current if maintained below the maximum. In making the count, an LLP should bear in mind that the term "licensed persons" is not limited to persons practicing in California but includes persons licensed, authorized, registered, or lawfully able to practice in California.

- Maintaining in trust or bank escrow, cash, bank certificates of deposit, United States Treasury obligations, bank letters of credit, or bonds of insurance or surety companies as security for payment of liabilities imposed by law for damages arising out of the claims in the same amount set forth above.

- Confirming [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)(D), (c)] that, as of the last day of its most recently completed fiscal year, the LLP had a net worth equal to or exceeding $10 million. The statute does not indicate the consequence of an incorrect confirmation.

Unless the LLP uses the net worth method in the third alternative listed above, each partner of the LLP, by virtue of that person's status as a partner, automatically guarantees payment of the difference between the maximum amount of security required for LLPs providing architectural services and the security otherwise provided in accordance with the first two alternatives listed above. The aggregate amount paid by all partners under these guarantees will not exceed that difference. Nothing in this rule affects or impairs the rights or obligations of the partners among themselves or the LLP, including, but not limited to, rights of contribution, subrogation, or indemnification [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)(C); see [vii], below].

A registered LLP may aggregate the security it provides pursuant to the security provisions described above [Corp. Code § 16956(b)].

When using the malpractice insurance policy option, the policies may be issued on a claims-made or occurrence basis: a claims-made policy must cover claims initially asserted in the designated period, and an occurrence policy must cover occurrences during the designated period. "Designated period" means a policy year or any other period specified in the policy that does not exceed 12 months. The impairment or exhaustion of the aggregate limit of liability by amounts paid under the policy in connection with the settlement, discharge, or defense of claims applicable to a designated period does not require the LLP to acquire additional insurance coverage for that designated period. The policies may be in any form reasonably available in the commercial insurance market, and may be subject to the terms, conditions, exclusions, and endorsements that are typically contained in those policies. Specifically, policies may be subject to a deductible or self-insured retention [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)(A); see [vii], below].

When using the second alternative, the LLP remains in compliance during any calendar year notwithstanding amounts paid out in defending, settling, or discharging claims, provided that the LLP met the requisite amount as of the first business day of that calendar year. Notwithstanding the pendency of other claims against the LLP, the LLP will be deemed in compliance as to a claim if within 30 days after the time that the claim is initially asserted through service of a summons, complaint, or comparable pleading in a judicial or administrative proceeding, the LLP provides the requisite amount of security by designating and segregating funds pursuant to this security alternative [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)(B)].

To use the net worth alternative method of meeting the security requirements, a registered architecture LLP must file official Form LLP-3 with the Secretary of State's office establishing compliance with security requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956(b), (c); see also [iv], below; § 16C.202]. In addition, an LLP using this alternative must file an annual confirmation with the Secretary of State's office on Form LLP-3 [see Corp. Code § 16956(c); see also [iv], below; §

16C.202]. To be current in a given year, the form for confirming compliance with this alternative method must be on file within four months of the completion of the prior fiscal year. Timely filing constitutes full compliance with the financial security requirements as of the beginning of the fiscal year. A confirmation filed during any particular fiscal year continues to be effective for the first four months of the next succeeding fiscal year [Corp. Code § 16956(c)].

The statute does not address directly whether an LLP registering after the first four months (and before the end) of a fiscal year can use the net worth alternative during that year by filing the required confirmation with its registration; clarification seems in order. To avoid uncertainty in securing limited liability for its partners, an architecture LLP may wish to use the first two alternatives for any partial year.

Additional considerations involved in satisfying the four alternatives described above are discussed in [v]-[vii], below.

[iv] Transmittal Form Evidencing Compliance With Alternative Security Requirements

For LLPs to use the third (net worth) alternative for meeting the security requirements [see [i]-[iii], above], the LLP must file a transmittal form with the Secretary of State using Form LLP-3 [Corp. Code § 16956(b); see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(D) (accounting), (2)(D) (law), (3)(D),(b) (architecture)].

Whenever any information set forth in the transmittal form becomes inaccurate or insufficient, the LLP must file a certificate of amendment on Form LLP-2 [Corp. Code § 16954(a); see [e], below; see also § 16C.201].

Each year, LLPs must file Form LLP-3 to confirm compliance with the net worth alternative security requirement [Corp. Code § 16956(c); see § 16C.220].

[v] Adequacy of Security for Malpractice Claims

The limitation of liability [see Corp. Code § 16306(c)] ordinarily applies to any registered LLP, as soon as the LLP is registered, as to claims arising while the partnership is a registered LLP. This general rule is subject to a crucial qualification with respect to acts, errors, or omissions arising out of the rendering of accounting, architecture, or legal services by the registered LLP. As to these claims, limitation of liability seems to be contingent on compliance with statutory security requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956(a); see also [i]-[iii], above], although the LLP legislation does not specify that consequence. Accordingly, it is extremely important that the requirements of those statutory provisions be observed.

There are several issues to be considered in that connection, the first relating to insurance [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(A) (accounting), (2)(A) (law), (3)(A) (architecture)]. The first issue, relating to insurance, appears to have been resolved by 1997 legislation. When the LLP security requirements were first passed, an issue existed as to whether a policy containing a deductible, requiring retention by the insured of a portion of the loss above a deductible, or deducting from the total coverage amounts paid in defending or settling claims, would satisfy the statutory requirements. The security requirements were modified by 1997 legislation [Stats. 1197 ch. 387] that resolves this issue. It qualifies the maximum amounts by providing that they are reduced by amounts paid in defending, settling, or discharging claims. The impairment or exhaustion of the aggregate limit of liability by amounts paid under the policy in connection with the settlement, discharge, or defense of claims applicable to a designated period does not require the LLP to acquire additional insurance for that period. The 1997 legislation also provides that the policies may be in a form reasonably available in the commercial insurance market and may be subject to terms, conditions, exclusions, and endorsements typically continued in those policies. Policies that are subject to a deductible or self-insured retention are now specifically permitted [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(A), (2)(A), (3)(A)].

A second issue relates to the amount of security required when the number of licensed persons increases. A legal, architecture, or accounting registered LLP or registered foreign LLP is required to have an amount of security based on the number of professionals, up to the respective maximum amounts [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)- (3)]. If an amount of security provided below the maximum becomes too low on the hiring of an additional professional, the security requirements would not be sufficient and, at least for claims arising in the period between the increase and provision of the required increased security, liability for malpractice claims would not be limited. Issues of this type suggest that a law firm may wish to employ the written agreement procedure as a fall back. Similarly, an architecture or accounting LLP that is not using the net worth alternative may wish to have extra insurance or cash security so as to provide a margin of error in using the other alternatives.

[vi] Compliance During Insolvency

If a registered LLP or foreign LLP is otherwise in compliance with the security requirements when a bankruptcy or other insolvency proceeding is commenced with respect to it, the LLP will be deemed to be in compliance throughout the pendency of the proceeding [Corp. Code § 16956(e)]. However, if an LLP conducts business after the insolvency proceeding ends, it must comply with the security requirements [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1), (2)] to secure the limitations on liability available to partners of LLPs under Corp. Code § 16306(c) [Corp. Code § 16956(e); see § 16C.23].

[vii] Compliance During Dissolution

On the dissolution and winding up of the partnership, the partnership must, with respect to any insurance policies maintained pursuant to its security obligations, maintain or obtain an extended reporting period endorsement or equivalent provision in the maximum requisite total aggregate limit of liability for a minimum of three years if reasonably available from the insurer [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(A), (2)(A), (3)(A)].

With regard to the automatic guarantee security requirement discussed in [i], [ii], and [iii], above, neither the withdrawal of a partner nor the dissolution and winding up of the LLP affects the rights or obligations of a partner arising before withdrawal or dissolution and winding up. This guarantee applies only to conduct that occurred before the withdrawal or dissolution and winding up [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(C), (2)(C), (3)(C)].

[viii] Inadmissibility of Evidence of Security Compliance

Neither the existence of the security requirements [Corp. Code § 16956(a)] nor the extent of a registered or foreign LLP's compliance with the alternative requirements is admissible in court, or may in any manner be made known to a jury or other trier of fact in determining an issue of liability for, or to the extent of, the damages in question [Corp. Code § 16956(d)].

[e] Amended Registration

A registered LLP may amend its registration by filing a certificate of amendment, official Form LLP-2, with the Secretary of State. Use of LLP-2 is mandatory [see Corp. Code § 16954(d)]; copies may be obtained from the Secretary of State's office. An LLP must file an amended registration within a reasonable time after any information set forth in the initial registration [see § 16C.200], the alternative security provision [see § 16C.202], or any previously filed certificate of amendment [see § 16C.201] becomes inaccurate or to add information to the registration or previously filed certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 16954(a)]. The certificate of amendment must be executed by one or more partners authorized to do so [Corp. Code § 16954(a)], and accompanied by the applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 16954(c)].

§ 16C.22 Operating Matters

[1] Governing Legislation

Except as described below as to limitations on distributions and appointment of an agent for service of process, the LLP legislation does not impose operating requirements on LLPs or requirements as to the content of a registered LLP's partnership agreement. For the most part, those requirements are supplied by legislation governing partnerships in general [see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships]. However, as discussed in [4], below, some provisions of an LLP agreement must be tailored to the consequences of LLP status.

[2] Limitations on Distributions

A registered LLP may not make any distribution if, after giving effect to the distribution, either of the following is true [Corp. Code § 16957(a)]:

- The LLP would not be able to pay its debts as they become due in the usual course of business.

- The LLP's total assets would be less than the sum of its liabilities, plus the amount that would be needed to satisfy the preferential rights of other partners on dissolution that are superior to the rights of the partners receiving the distribution if the registered LLP were to be dissolved at the time of the distribution.

For this purpose, a "distribution" is a transfer of money or property by a registered LLP to its partners without consideration [Corp. Code § 16957(c)].

This prohibition on distributions appears modeled closely after a similar prohibition applicable to limited liability companies [see Corp. Code § 17254] and bears resemblance to Corp. Code §§ 500 and 501 as to dividends payable by business corporations. The prohibition as to LLCs is accompanied by provisions on which an LLC can rely to determine whether a distribution is permitted. The LLP statute provides no such guidance and, unlike the General Corporation Law, does not make conformance to generally accepted accounting principles a protection against challenge.

A cause of action with respect to an obligation to return a distribution is extinguished unless the action is brought within four years after the distribution is made [Corp. Code § 16957(b)]. The LLP statute does not specify who may bring an action alleging an improper distribution or articulate what obligation a partner has to return an improper distribution [compare Corp. Code § 17254(e), which requires an LLC member to return an improper distribution only if the member had actual knowledge of facts indicating the impropriety of the distribution].

[3] Agent for Service of Process

Each registered LLP whose principal office is not located in California (and each registered foreign LLP) must designate an agent for service of process. The agent may be any natural person or a domestic or foreign corporation entitled to be designated as agent for the service of process [Corp. Code § 16962(a) (no California residency requirement); (permitting a domestic or foreign corporation to be designated as agent for service of process if it files a required certificate with the Secretary of State setting forth its address, names of employees to whom process may be delivered, and certain other matters)]. In addition to other appropriate forms of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40], delivery by hand of a copy of any process against a registered LLP (or registered foreign LLP) constitutes valid service if delivered to (1) any natural person designated by it as agent or (2) if a corporate agent has been designated, any person named in that agent's most recent certificate at the office of that agent [Corp. Code § 16962(b)].

If the designated agent for service of process has resigned and has not been replaced, or if the designated agent cannot with reasonable diligence be found at the address designated for personally delivering the process, or if no agent has been designated, and it is shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court that process against a registered LLP (or foreign LLP required to be registered in California) cannot be served with reasonable diligence on the designated agent by hand in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10, Corp. Code § 16962 provides for alternative methods of service through the Secretary of State.

[4] Alteration of Partnership Agreement

[a] Need for Changes

The conversion of an existing professional partnership to an LLP almost inevitably requires a considerable number of changes to its partnership agreement. Similarly, the creation of a new partnership that will be an LLP requires the drafting of provisions not usually found in a general partnership agreement.

The following summary is designed to alert partners of prospective LLPs and those drafting LLP partnership agreements to the need for changes. These changes should not simply be drafted into the agreement as somehow necessitated by the use of the LLP format. They must be carefully analyzed and understood and agreed to by the partners.

Important as the following matters are among partners, careful changes may be even more important in preventing third parties (including bankruptcy trustees) from reaching the personal assets of a "nonliable" partner through sharing obligations of partners and obligations of partners to their partnership. Partners should carefully examine their partnership agreement to see what other provisions could provide an indirect or "back door" access to the personal assets of nonliable partners. The agreement among the partners as to the treatment of liable and nonliable partners should be applied to each provision that might conceivably lead to the nonliable partners' assets.

[b] General Considerations

The following are general issues that should be considered when drafting or amending a partnership agreement for an

LLP. Because partnerships vary drastically, depending on the business needs and arrangements of partners, and range from relatively simple two-person partnerships to partnerships with dozens or hundreds of partners with perhaps several classes of partners, this summary is necessarily only illustrative, not exhaustive.

- All partnership assets and capital, including the capital provided by nonliable partners, and all insurance proceeds, may be insufficient to meet partnership obligations. Limited liability to third persons is likely to be of importance to a particular partner's personal assets other than his or her partnership interest only under this circumstance.

- The existence of obligations beyond the partnership's capacity to pay creates the risk that it will cease to be a going concern, and that partners will be extremely adversely affected even if their personal assets are not exhausted.

- The partnership may wish to deal differently with malpractice, or other extraordinary obligations, than with ordinary obligations such as salaries, occupancy costs, and the other operating expenses. Accordingly, counsel should consider how costs other than those related to malpractice should be charged in the partnership's accounts and ultimately to partners' capital or other accounts if that becomes necessary.

- Consideration should be given to the extent to which partners not liable for a malpractice obligation are to indemnify partners who are liable, or to assist them in meeting any personal obligation to pay malpractice claims. How should malpractice claims that are paid be charged internally if paid out of partnership assets (that is, charged only to the liable partner's accounts or more broadly)? To what extent should a liable partner be required to replenish that partner's capital and other accounts or those of others that might be reduced in paying a malpractice claim?

[c] Provisions to Change

[i] Provision for Sharing in Partnership Profits and Losses

A typical partnership agreement provides for sharing of partnership profits and losses in accordance with partnership interests. However, if a claim in excess of all resources of the partnership is viewed as a loss for loss sharing purposes, will loss sharing result in an obligation of partners, not otherwise liable, to pay to the partnership or other partners amounts necessary to settle that claim? As to malpractice obligations, the loss sharing provision may need to be changed so that nonliable partners share in losses caused by partners liable for malpractice, if at all, only to the extent set forth in the agreement. It should also be noted that malpractice obligations may arise through activities of others than partners, and the issue of how to deal with the partners sharing malpractice losses not occasioned by the tortious conduct of a partner must be resolved.

The drafting of this provision becomes more complex if the partnership elects to treat malpractice or other extraordinary liabilities differently from the ordinary liabilities of the partnership. Corp Code § 16401, which may be changed by agreement, prescribing rights and duties of partners to their partnership, including contributions by partners to partnership losses, should be carefully examined.

[ii] Provision Concerning Maintenance of Capital Account

Partnership agreements typically provide that a capital account with a deficit balance must be replenished either out of future income or by contribution. Several issues arise in this connection. One is the extent to which the capital account (or other accounts) of a partner liable for malpractice will be charged, and the extent to which that partner must replenish the account. Another is the extent to which other partners' capital accounts can be charged for partnership obligations for which they are not intended to be liable [see [b], above (possible difference in treatment of malpractice and ordinary obligations)].

Another issue is the extent to which a liable partner may be required to replenish another, nonliable partner's capital account or reimburse that partner for charges to it if the nonliable partner's capital account is diminished by losses for which that partner is not liable. As noted above, a replenishment obligation might be treated as an asset of the partnership against which the holder of an obligation in excess of the partnership's resources could levy, thereby reaching personal assets of partners that they thought were exempt as a result of being partners of an LLP.

[iii] Provision Concerning Maintenance of Income Accounts

A typical partnership agreement provides for an income account for each partner to which is credited that partner's share of net profits and to which is debited that partner's share of any net loss. If a partner's income account can be charged for, or additions to it reduced by, a share of an obligation of the partnership for which the partner is not intended to be liable, that is an indirect but potent erosion of that partner's limited liability. To the extent that partner is required to reimburse the partnership for a deficit in the partner's income account, there could be a total loss of the limited liability.

[iv] Provision Governing Replenishment of Drawing Accounts

Many partnership agreements provide for partner drawing accounts and, like income accounts, require replenishment by a partner if the account is overdrawn either through drawings or charges to the account for partnership losses. Similar consideration must be given to a drawing account as to an income account [see [iii], above].

[v] Provision Regarding Contribution on Liquidation

Partnership agreements typically provide, in the event of liquidation of the partnership, for contributions by partners in proportion to their interests if the assets of the partnership are insufficient to satisfy partnership obligations. Since the nonliability provisions of the LLP legislation may be most important when partnership assets are exhausted by obligations and the partnership is insolvent or liquidated, failure to appropriately alter an obligation to contribute to the partnership to cover any deficiency in its ability to meet its obligations in liquidation could erode or eradicate partners' intended limited liability.

[vi] Additional Considerations

In addition to the kinds of changes discussed above, a variety of other matters should be considered for the partnership agreement. These changes include the following:

- Addition of provisions to ensure the existence of security and the taking of other steps to ensure continuing limited liability.

- Alteration of provisions regarding compensation or shares to account for differences in risks, or other factors, among partners.

- Amendment of provisions regarding distributions, both to keep partnership assets as low as possible given capital needs of the firm, and to avoid violation of restrictions on distributions or fraudulent conveyance laws.

[d] Provisions to Add to Agreement

[i] Statement of LLP Status

Counsel should consider adding a provision to the partnership agreement clearly stating that the partnership is a limited liability partnership under the provisions of California law. It may also be advisable to go on in the agreement to indicate briefly the consequences of that status, giving effect to the partners' decisions about treatment of limited liability as mentioned in [b] and [c], above. Thus, for example, to the extent that a partner who has statutory liability for the partner's own tortious conduct must pay that obligation out of his or her own pocket without indemnification or contribution by other partners, this point may need to be stated. Further, if a liable partner will be required to reimburse the partnership for losses occasioned by the partner's tortious conduct, the agreement should clearly state this rule.

[ii] Summary of Partners' Nonliability

Another possible addition to the partnership agreement is a general provision summarizing the overall agreements as to nonliability of partners and the absence of any obligation to participate in or contribute toward any losses for which they are not intended to be liable. This provision should also state that it overrides any other provision of the agreement inconsistent with the general principle stated, as a way to attempt to override any other provision, not specifically tailored, that could unintentionally erode the agreed limitations on liability.

[5] California LLPs as Foreign LLPs Outside of California

California's LLP legislation provides that the laws of the jurisdiction under which a foreign LLP is organized govern its organization and internal affairs, as well as the liability and authority of its partners, subject to compliance with applicable California security requirements [Corp. Code § 16958(a); see § 16C.31]. This rule may or may not have an analogue under the laws of other jurisdictions in which a California LLP might do business or be subject to legal process. Even if the other jurisdiction has LLP legislation, that legislation may not include provisions comparable to the California provisions as to foreign LLPs. Even if those jurisdictions do look to the organizational jurisdiction of a foreign LLP to determine the liability of its partners, the recognition of limited liability may be tailored or limited to that provided under the jurisdiction's own LLP legislation.

The extent to which one state of the United States must defer to the laws of another state as to the status and characteristics of an organization formed under the laws of the other state is somewhat uncertain. Corporations formed under the laws of one state are universally recognized as such under the laws of other states of the United States, but doubts have been raised as to whether organizations like limited partnerships or limited liability companies are accorded the characteristics granted by their organizing state in other states unless the other state legislatively agrees. The full faith and credit clause of the United States Constitution may require recognition between states, but the matter is somewhat unclear.

The limitation of liability provided in many, if not most, of the other jurisdictions having LLP legislation is less plenary than California's. In some cases, the limitation relates only to liability for acts, errors, and omissions in the practice of the particular profession or business undertaken, that is, as to professional organizations, "professional malpractice," and not to other types of obligations such as contractual obligations of the partnership or other kinds of tortious conduct. Other jurisdictions provide that a particular partner remains liable not only for personal tortious conduct but also for the professional malpractice or wrongful acts or misconduct of any person under that partner's direct supervision and control. Depending on the language of the other jurisdiction recognizing California law, the deferral to California law might be abridged to the extent California law provides greater immunity from liability than that of the other jurisdiction.

Accordingly, before knowingly subjecting a California LLP to the jurisdiction of the courts of another jurisdiction, it seems prudent to investigate the laws of that other jurisdiction to be certain what its laws offer. On the other hand, if the firm in question is a general partnership that has LLP status in its jurisdiction of organization and is operating or would operate as a general partnership in the other jurisdictions if it were a non-LLP partnership, it certainly would be no worse off with either no protection as an LLP or more limited protection as an LLP in that jurisdiction than afforded to it in California. Given that principle, the importance of knowing the differences between California LLP legislation and that of the other jurisdictions may be chiefly informational, enabling the partners to understand their risks of doing business outside California. The information is nevertheless important because it should be considered when drafting the LLP partnership agreement.

8-16C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16C.23

AUTHOR: by Kristin M. Schwaighart

§ 16C.23 Liability of Partners of General Partnerships and Registered LLPs

[1] General Partnerships

In general, all assets of all partners are exposed to claims arising from obligations of their general partnership [Corp. Code §§ 16305, 16306]. General partners are jointly and severally liable to non partners for the wrongful acts and omissions of any partner acting in the ordinary course of partnership business [Corp. Code §§ 16305, 16306(a)] and for the misapplication of funds or property of third persons by other partners [Corp. Code § 16305(b)]. Further, general partners are jointly liable for the all other debts and obligations of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16306(a)]. This extensive exposure to liability, and the recourse to each partner's personal assets, is a fundamental disadvantage of general partnerships.

[2] Registered LLPs

[a] Limited Liability

In contrast to the virtually unlimited exposure to liability that characterizes partners of general partnerships [see [1], above], a partner of a registered LLP is not directly or indirectly liable or accountable, by way of indemnification, contribution, assessment, or otherwise, for the debts, obligations, or liabilities of or chargeable to the partnership, or another partner in the partnership, whether arising in tort, contract, or otherwise, that are incurred, created, or assumed by the partnership while the partnership is a registered LLP, by reason of being a partner or acting in the conduct of partnership business or activities [Corp. Code § 16306(c)]. This limited liability may only be secured (1) by registering as an LLP [Corp. Code § 16953; see § 16C.21[4][a], [c]]; (2) as to liability for malpractice [see § 16C.21[4][v]], by complying with rather substantial security requirements [Corp. Code § 16956; see § 16C.21[4][d]]; and (3) as to a legal services LLP, obtaining a certificate of registration from the California State Bar [Corp. Code § 16306(f); see § 16C.21[1]].

This limitation of liability does not affect the liability of a partner of a registered LLP to third parties for that partner's tortious conduct [Corp. Code § 16306(e)].

The rule of limited liability does not affect or impair the ability of a partner to act as a guarantor or surety for, provide collateral for, or otherwise be liable for, the debts, obligations, or liabilities of a registered LLP [Corp. Code § 16306(h); see [b], below]. A partner in a registered LLP is not a proper party to a proceeding by or against a registered LLP in which personal liability for partnership debts, obligations, or liabilities is asserted against the partner, unless that partner is personally liable for tortious conduct [Corp. Code § 16306(e)], or that partner has agreed to be liable [Corp. Code § 16306(g); see Corp. Code § 16306(d); see also [b], below].

[b] Agreement Extending Liability

Notwithstanding the rule of limited liability [Corp. Code § 16306(c); see [a], above], all or certain specified partners of a registered LLP, if those specified partners agree, may be liable in their capacity as partners for all or specified LLP debts, obligations, or liabilities if the partners possessing a majority of the interests of the partners in the current profits of the partnership (or any different vote required by the partnership agreement) specifically agreed in writing to the specified debts, obligations, or liabilities in writing before those debts, obligations, or liabilities were incurred [Corp. Code § 16306(d)]. This provision seems to require a specification of particular items rather than a general agreement as to, for example, "all liabilities."

That specific agreement may be modified or revoked if the partners possessing a majority of the interests of the partners in the current profits of the partnership, or any different vote required by the partnership agreement, agree to the modification or revocation in writing. However, the modification or revocation does not affect the liability of a specific agreeing partner for any debts, obligations, or liabilities that were incurred, created, or assumed by the registered LLP before the modification or revocation [Corp. Code § 16306(d)].

If a registered LLP ceases to be a registered LLP, it must file a notice (Form LLP-4) with the Secretary of State stating that it is no longer a registered LLP [*Corp. § 16C.30 Definition

A "foreign limited liability partnership" is a partnership, other than a limited partnership, formed pursuant to an agreement governed by the laws of another jurisdiction and denominated or registered as an LLP or registered LLP under the laws of that jurisdiction and that satisfies one of the following requirements [Corp. Code §§ 16101(6), 16202(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900(b)(2)]:

- Each partner is a licensed person [see Corp. Code § 16101(7) ("licensed person" defined); see also § 16C.20] or a person licensed or authorized to provide professional LLP services in a jurisdiction or jurisdictions other than California.

- The partnership is licensed under the laws of California to engage in the practice of architecture, public accountancy, or law. The California State Bar requires registration of foreign legal services LLPs as well as domestic legal services LLPs [State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 3.1; see § 16C.231; see also § 16C.21[1]].

- The partnership is "related" to a registered LLP that practices public accountancy or, to the extent permitted by the California State Bar, practices law or is related to a foreign LLP and provides services related or complementary to the public accountancy or legal services provided by (or provides services or facilities to) that registered LLP or foreign LLP.

A partnership is "related" to a foreign LLP [see Corp. Code § 16101(6)(A)] if (1) at least a majority of the partners in one partnership are also partners in the other partnership, or (2) at least a majority in interest in each partnership hold interests or are members in another person other than an individual, and each renders services pursuant to an agreement with that other person, or (3) one partnership, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with, the other partnership [Corp. Code § 16101(6)(B)]. This provision was primarily intended to permit LLP status to consulting or other such partnerships or affiliated partnerships of public accounting firms. Applicability of this provision to partnerships related to registered legal services LLPs is less clear but could apply to controlled related partnerships owning premises leased to the legal services LLP or providing services other than the practice of law.

§ 16C.31 Governing Law

Corp. Code § 16958(a) provide that the laws of the jurisdiction under which a foreign LLP is organized govern its organization and internal affairs, as well as the liability and authority of its partners, subject to compliance with the applicable California security requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956; see also § 16C.21[4][d]]. A foreign LLP may not be denied registration by reason of any difference between those laws and the laws of California [Corp. Code § 16958(a)(2)].

§ 16C.32 Requirements for Transacting Intrastate Business in California

[1] General Requirements

Before transacting intrastate business in California [see [3][d][ii], below (definition)], a foreign LLP must comply with all statutory and administrative registration or filing requirements of the California governmental bodies that prescribe the rules and regulations governing the particular profession in which the partnership proposes to engage in California [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 16959(q)]. Further, a foreign LLP transacting intrastate business in California must file a registration with the Secretary of State, together with the applicable fee [see Corp. Code § 16959(a)(1), (b); see also [3], below], and must comply with statutory security requirements [Corp. Code § 16956(a); see § 16C.21[4][d]]. The Secretary of State is required to register as a foreign LLP any partnership that submits a completed application with the required fee [Corp. Code § 16959(c); see Corp. Code § 16959(d) (cancellation of registration if remittance of fee not paid)].

The Limited Liability Partnership Rules and Regulations of the California State Bar would seem to require a foreign LLP to secure the certificate of the State Bar referred to in § 16C.21[1] [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rules 1.0, 3.0)]. An accounting partnership must register with the California Board of Accountancy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5071].

[2] Name Requirements

The name of a foreign LLP transacting business in California must satisfy statutory requirements. The last words or letters of the name of a foreign LLP must be "Registered Limited Liability Partnership" or "Limited Liability Partnership," one of the abbreviations "L.L.P.," "LLP," "R.L.L.P.," or "RLLP" as the last words or letters of its name, or similar words or abbreviations as required or authorized by the jurisdiction of formation of the foreign LLP [Corp. Code § 16958(b)].

The statute does not specify that the foreign LLP must do business in California under that name. Nevertheless, a conservatively-run LLP would almost certainly use its legal name when doing business in California or some name indicating the limited liability of its partners. The Rules of the California State Bar referred to in [1], above, also require that an applicant for Bar certification must agree that it will only practice under the name filed with the State Bar [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 3.3)].

[3] Registration

[a] Filing Requirements

A foreign LLP transacting intrastate business in California must register with the Secretary of State within 30 days after the date on which the foreign LLP first transacts intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(1)]. To register, a foreign LLP must file a registration on Form LLP-1 [see § 16C.200] with the Secretary of State, signed by a person authorized to do so by the laws of the jurisdiction of the LLP's formation [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(1)]. The Secretary of State is required to register as a foreign LLP any partnership that submits a completed application and the required fee [Corp. Code § 16959(c)].

The registration must be accompanied by the applicable fee [see Corp. Code § 16959(b)]. In addition, the applicant must attach a certificate from an authorized public official of the foreign LLP's jurisdiction of organization to the effect that the foreign LLP is in good standing in that jurisdiction, if that jurisdiction permits the issuance of these certificates, or, in the alternative, a statement by the foreign LLP that the laws of its jurisdiction of organization do not permit the issuance of certificates of good standing [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(2)].

If an accounting or architectural services foreign LLP relies on the third alternative security provision, confirming $10 million net worth [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(D), (3)(D)], or if a legal services foreign LLP relies on the third alternative security provision, confirming $15 million net worth [Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(D)], the registration must be accompanied by a transmittal form [Form LLP-3] confirming compliance with that security alternative [see Corp. Code § 16958(g); see also § 16C.202].

[b] Contents of Registration

The registration form must state the following [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(1), (g); see § 16C.210 (Form LLP-5)]:

- The name of the foreign LLP.
- Whether or not the LLP is domestic or foreign, and its jurisdiction.
- The address of its principal office.
- The name and address of its agent for service of process in California.
- A brief statement of the business in which it engages.
- Any delayed effective date of registration.
- Any other matters that the partnership determines to include.

Caution should always be exercised when determining whether or not to include optional matters in the registration form. The registration form is a public document, and changes may require formal amendment [see Corp. Code § 16960(a); see also [f], below].

[c] Effect of Registration

A partnership effectively becomes registered as a foreign LLP when the initial registration is filed and the fee paid, or at any later date or time specified in the registration. The partnership continues as a registered foreign LLP until it has been dissolved and finally wound up, or until it files a notice that the partnership is no longer an LLP [Corp. Code § 16959(e); see Corp. Code § 16960(b); see also § 16C.33]. The status of a partnership registered as a foreign LLP, and the liability of a partner of that foreign LLP, is not adversely affected by errors or subsequent changes in the information stated in its registration, an amended registration [see Corp. Code § 16960(a); see also [e], below], or a notice terminating the LLP status [Corp. Code § 16959(e); see Corp. Code § 16960(b); see also § 16C.33].

The California State Bar's Limited Liability Partnership Rules and Regulations require annual renewal of an LLPs certificate of registration with the State Bar [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 10.0); see also § 16C.21[1]].

The filing of a registration with the Secretary of State replaces and makes it unnecessary for all purposes for a registered foreign LLP to make any of the filings referred to in Chapter 5 of the Business & Professions Code related to fictitious business names [Corp. Code § 16961; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17900 et seq.].

The LLP registration (or an amended registration) on file with the Secretary of State constitutes notice that the partnership is a foreign LLP and notice of those facts stated in the registration that are required to be stated in the registration [Corp. Code § 16959(f)].

[d] Effect of Failure to Register

[i] Penalties

Failure to register with the Secretary of State in a timely manner [see [a], above] subjects a foreign LLP to penalties that are essentially the same as those applicable to unregistered foreign corporations [Corp. Code § 16959(h), (i); see Corp. Code §§ 2203, 2259].

Penalties include inability to maintain court proceedings in California [Corp. Code § 16959(h)] and monetary penalties [Corp. Code § 16959(i)]. The monetary penalties are $20 for each day that an unregistered foreign LLP transacts intrastate business in California up to a maximum of $10,000 [Corp. Code § 16959(i)].

A partner of a foreign LLP is not liable for the debts or obligations of the foreign LLP solely by reason of its having transacted business in California without registration [Corp. Code § 16959(j)]. A foreign LLP transacting business in California without registration appoints the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process with respect to causes of action arising out of the transaction of business in California [Corp. Code § 16959(k); but see [e], below (requirement that foreign LLP comply with California's "security" requirements if it does intrastate business in California)].

The California Attorney General may bring an action to restrain a foreign LLP from transacting intrastate business without first satisfying the registration requirements [Corp. Code § 16959(p)].

[ii] "Transacting Intrastate Business" Defined

The definition of "transacting intrastate business" applicable to foreign LLPs is essentially the same as the definitions used for foreign corporations and foreign LLCs [Corp. Code § 16959(l); see Corp. Code §§ 191, 17001(ap)]. "Transact intrastate business" means to repeatedly and successively provide professional LLP services in California, other than in interstate or foreign commerce [Corp. Code § 16959(l)]. A person will not be deemed to be transacting intrastate business in California merely because of that person's status as a partner of a registered LLP or a foreign LLC, whether or not registered to transact intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 16959(o)].

Without excluding other activities that may not be considered transacting intrastate business, a foreign LLP will not be considered to be transacting intrastate business merely because its subsidiary or affiliate transacts intrastate business, or merely because of its status as any one or more of the following [Corp. Code § 16959(m)]:

- A shareholder of a domestic corporation.
- A shareholder of a foreign corporation transacting intrastate business.
- A limited partner of a foreign limited partnership transacting intrastate business.
- A limited partner of a domestic limited partnership.
- A member or manager of a foreign LLC transacting intrastate business.
- A member or manager of a domestic LLC.

Further, without excluding other activities that may not be considered transacting intrastate business, a foreign LLP will not be considered to be transacting intrastate business solely by reason of carrying on any one or more of the following activities in California [Corp. Code § 16959(n)]:

- Maintaining or defending any action or suit or any administrative or arbitration proceeding, or effecting its settlement or the settlement of claims or disputes.
- Holding meetings of its partners or carrying on any other activities concerning its internal affairs.
- Maintaining bank accounts or offices or agencies for the transfer, exchange, and registration of the foreign LLP's securities or maintaining trustees or depositories with respect to those securities.
- Effecting sales through independent contractors.
- Soliciting or procuring orders, whether by mail or through employees, agents, or otherwise, when those orders require acceptance outside California before becoming binding contracts.
- Creating or acquiring evidences of debt or mortgages, liens, or security interests in real or personal property.
- Securing or collecting debts or enforcing mortgages and security interests in property securing the debts.
- Conducting an isolated transaction that is completed within 180 days and not in the course of a number of repeated transactions of a like nature.

[e] Security Requirements

At the time of registration, and at all times during which a foreign LLP transacts intrastate business in California, it must provide "security" for claims against it based on acts, errors or omissions arising out of its practice of public accountancy, architecture, or law by complying with detailed security requirements [Corp. Code § 16956(a); see § 16C.21[4][d]]. This requirement applies to all foreign LLPs transacting intrastate business, not just those that register [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)].

[f] Amended Registration

A registered foreign LLP may amend its registration by filing a certificate of amendment, official Form LLP-2, with the Secretary of State. Use of LLP-6 is mandatory [see Corp. Code § 16960(d)]; copies may be obtained from the Secretary of State's office [Corp. Code § 16960(a); see § 16C.201].

A foreign LLP must file an amended registration within a reasonable time after any information set forth in the initial registration [see § 16C.200], the alternative security provision [see § 16C.202], or any previously filed certificate of amendment [see § 16C.201] becomes inaccurate. In addition, a foreign LLP must file an amended registration to add information to the registration or previously filed certificate of amendment, or to withdraw its registration as a foreign LLP [Corp. Code § 16960(a)]. However, to withdraw its registration, or to cease its status as an LLP, a foreign LLP must file official Form LLP-4 [see Corp. Code § 16960(b), (c); see also § 16C.203[2], Instructions to Form].

The certificate of amendment must be executed with the original signature of one or more partners authorized to do so [Corp. Code § 16960(a)], and must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 16960(e)].

[4] Agent for Service of Process

Each registered foreign LLP must designate as its agent for service of process a natural person (who does not seem to be required to have an address or to reside in California) or a domestic or foreign corporation entitled to be designated as agent for the service of process under Corp. Code § 1505 [Corp. Code § 16962(a); see § 16C.22[3]]. In addition to other appropriate forms of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40], delivery by hand of a copy of any process against a registered foreign LLP constitutes valid service if delivered to (1) any natural person designated by it as agent or (2) if a corporate agent has been designated, any person named in that agent's most recent certificate [see Corp. Code § 1505] at the office of that corporate agent [Corp. Code § 16962(b)].

Service of process when an agent has resigned and not been replaced or cannot be found by exercising reasonable diligence is discussed in § 16C.22[3].

§ 16C.40 Overview

This portion of the Legal Background briefly compares California partnerships registered as LLPs with corporations, including general corporations [§ 16C.41], professional corporations [§ 16C.42], and S corporations [§ 16C.43]; with limited partnerships [§ 16C.44]; with non-LLP general partnerships [§ 16C.45]; and with limited liability companies [§ 16C.46]. Section 16C.47 discusses some cost and other considerations not otherwise mentioned in this summary that may be involved in converting an existing business entity into another structure. This material is included to assist in evaluation of current and potential organizational alternatives.

Conversion from a California law, architecture, or public accountancy general partnership to a registered LLP is not a reorganization into a new type of legal format. Rather, the converted partnership continues to be a general partnership while allowing its partners to achieve limited liability (except for their own tortious conduct) in exchange for registering as an LLP, paying a minimum annual franchise tax and, as to malpractice liability, satisfying security requirements and (if a legal services LLP) registering with the California State Bar and paying the registration fee [see §§ 16C.21, 16C.32].

Conversion of a professional corporation to a registered LLP is a change to a new entity, and involves substantial cost and other consequences [see § 16C.42].

A disadvantage in using an LLP in California is that California has no case law on which to rely for guidance in interpreting the limited liability intended to be afforded by the LLP legislation. In contrast, well-developed and instructive bodies of law exist concerning corporations and limited partnerships.

§ 16C.41 General Corporations

[1] Formation and Operation

Public filing requirements applicable to forming an LLP are about as simple as those required to form a corporation under the California General Corporation Law. Corporations must file articles of incorporation and LLPs must file a registration, in each case with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 200-204, 16953, 16959]. Each of these instruments can occupy as little as one page. No further formation documents are required to be filed by either type of entity although corporate articles can be very long and an LLP may need to file some attachments to its registration. A legal services LLP and a professional law corporation will need to register with the State Bar, and a corporation will normally make some filing under the Corporate Securities Law as to its securities.

The partners in a proposed LLP frequently will have an existing partnership agreement describing the conduct of partnership business and the relationships between the partners [see Corp. Code §§ 16101, 16951] in whatever detail the partners feel is necessary. Although an LLP is not required to have a formal oral, written, or express agreement, as a general partnership it must have some partnership agreement and the agreement should probably be in writing. The agreement may or may not be complex, depending on the LLP's needs. It almost certainly will need modification to deal with partner limited liability [see § 16C.22[4]]. In contrast, a corporation must have written bylaws by which it is operated and managed [Corp. Code § 211-213]; these bylaws need to include at least certain minimum provisions to fill gaps left for them by the General Corporation Law, and usually contain detailed other provisions concerning the corporation's internal affairs.

Registered LLPs may engage only in the practice of law, architecture, or public accountancy [Corp. Code § 16101(6), (8), (14)]. Corporations, of course, other than corporations subject to the Banking Law or professional corporations, may pursue any lawful business activity but can only be used to practice law, architecture, or public accountancy if they are professional corporations. Professional corporations may engage in professional activities permitted under their respective governing statutes [Corp. Code § 206; see Corp. Code §§ 13400-13410].

As is true of ordinary general partnerships, any number of partners of an LLP may actively participate in the conduct of partnership business, distributing work, and sharing risks and rewards. In contrast to a corporate structure where shareholders elect a board of directors, each director has a single vote and the board manages the corporation through officers and employees, an LLP's partnership agreement may create nearly any management structure and may allocate management voting rights based on ownership or other factors. A corporation with 35 or fewer shareholders may, however, be formed as a close corporation under the General Corporation Law and as such may operate without a board of directors and pursuant to a shareholders agreement, which may be structured much like a partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 158].

[2] Limited Liability

An LLP partner is not liable for the debts and obligations of the LLP if the LLP is registered as an LLP, it has a certificate of registration from the California State Bar if it is a legal services LLP and, as to liability for malpractice by the partnership or another partner in the partnership, if the security requirements are satisfied [Corp. Code § 16306(c), 16956; see § 16C.21]. Nevertheless, both partners in LLPs and corporate shareholders may be personally liable under certain circumstances for their own acts [see People v. Clauson (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 374, 41 Cal. Rptr. 691 ; Cooperman v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 1, 122 Cal. Rptr. 127] . In particular, a partner of an LLP is liable for personal tortious misconduct [Corp. Code § 16306(e)]. A shareholder in other than a close corporation would not normally be active enough to commit tortious acts in conduct of its business. See also the comparison of LLCs and professional corporations in § 16C.42.

[3] Income Tax Treatment

The principal advantage of an LLP over a business corporation that is not an S corporation, referred to as a "C corporation," is the different tax treatment that can be afforded an LLP. A properly registered LLP retains its partnership status and can be essentially income tax transparent [see § 16C.60]. The following brief discussion relates to an LLP that is classified as a partnership for income tax purposes.

The most immediate advantage of partnership income tax status is the pass-through aspect of profit and loss to its partners. This treatment avoids the double taxation applicable to C corporations, once on earnings at the corporate level [I.R.C. § 11; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23038, 23151] and again on dividend and appreciated property distributions at the shareholder level [I.R.C. §§ 1(h)(11) (taxation of dividends at capital gains rates), 61(a)(7), 301(a), (c), 316]. LLPs have an additional advantage over C corporations in that LLPs can specially allocate items of income, gain, loss, deduction, and distributions pursuant to the partnership agreement, within the restrictions of I.R.C. § 704(b). Further, LLPs are not subject to accumulated earnings taxes [I.R.C. § 531 et seq.] and personal holding company taxes [I.R.C. § 541 et seq.] that may be imposed on C corporations.

Whether tax transparency to partners is beneficial depends on the applicable tax rates and the amount of income involved. Pass-through (and therefore, selection of an LLP over a C corporation) may be beneficial if an individual partner's tax rate is less than the federal corporate tax rate. The maximum individual tax rate after 2002 is 35 percent [I.R.C. § 1(a)- (d), (i)(2)]. In contrast, the maximum federal corporate tax for taxable income between $75,000 and $10 million is 34 percent. For taxable income over $10 million, the maximum corporate tax rate is 35 percent [I.R.C. § 11(b)(1)]. An additional 5 percent tax is imposed on corporate taxable income exceeding $100,000, with an $11,750 cap on additional tax liability. This causes an effective tax rate of 39 percent on taxable income between $100,000 and $335,000. A 3 percent additional tax is imposed on corporate taxable income exceeding $15 million, with a $100,000 cap on additional tax liability. This causes an effective tax rate of 38 percent on corporate taxable income between $15 million and $18,333,333. Corporate taxable income over $18,333,333 is subject to a tax rate of 35 percent [I.R.C. § 11(b)(1)].

Thus, the pass-through of income may not be beneficial, especially if the business needs to retain its earnings and does not plan significant cash distributions to its owners. However, because LLP income taxation is at the partner level if it is taxed as a partnership, partners who are not C corporations may benefit from the maximum 15 percent capital gain income tax rate [I.R.C. § 1(h)(1)(C), effective generally for tax years ending on or after 5/16/03 and before 2009; see Pub. Law No. 108-27, §§ 301, 303]. Most legal services or public accountancy LLPs will probably distribute most of their net income to their partners and will probably not regularly have capital gains, so these detriments to transparency may not be important.

One advantage of a corporation available to holders of "small business stock" is that half the gain from sale of the stock may be excluded under certain circumstances [I.R.C. § 1202]. In addition, shareholders of a "small business corporation" in some circumstances may deduct as an ordinary loss losses from the sale, exchange or worthlessness of their stock in the business which ordinarily would be capital losses [I.R.C. § 1244]. These provisions are not available to partners of LLPs but ordinarily would not be of major import to shareholders of a professional corporation.

An important tax difference between corporations and LLPs may arise if an appreciated asset is to be contributed to the entity's capital in exchange for an ownership interest. Unless the transferors are in "control" of the corporation immediately after the exchange, they will recognize gain in the amount of the fair market value of the acquired interest in the corporation over the tax basis of the property transferred [I.R.C. § 351(a)]; no such control requirement applies to contributions to an LLP by its partners [I.R.C. § 721(a)].

There is also an important difference between the basis of a shareholder in a C corporation in the corporation's stock and of an LLP partner in an LLP interest. The stock basis of the C corporation shareholder is not affected by the gains or losses realized by the C corporation while the bases of LLP partners (and S corporation shareholders) in their ownership interests are increased by allocations to them of gains and profits earned by their company and decreased by allocations to them of losses incurred by the company [I.R.C. §§ 705(a), 1367(a)]. Losses of C corporations therefore are retained at the corporate level; losses of LLPs and S corporations that flow through to the owners may be used by them to offset other income, subject to extremely complex rules involving primarily the owner's basis and the application of passive loss limitations.

Typically, an LLP partner suffers no adverse tax consequences on liquidation [I.R.C. § 731(b); see § 16C.60]; an LLP partner will not recognize gain unless the distribution exceeds the partner's adjusted basis in the LLP immediately before the distribution [I.R.C. § 731(a)]. However, shareholders of C corporations are subject to potential double taxation on liquidation [I.R.C. §§ 331, 336].

In addition to federal taxes, both LLPs and C corporations must pay state taxes and fees to do business in California. For example, LLPs must pay a minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17948-17948.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151, 23153(d)(1); see also § 16C.61]. C corporations must pay either a state franchise tax or an income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23101 et seq., 23501 et seq.], and may be subject to other fees.

There are a number of other tax rules that differ as between C corporations and the other entities considered here. They include differences as to methods of accounting that may be used, taxable years that may be elected, and others.

§ 16C.42 Professional Corporations

The corporate practice of law, architecture, and public accounting is permitted in California [see Corp. Code § 13400 et seq.; see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5150 et seq., 6160 et seq.]. However, the former tax incentives that once might have outweighed the double taxation that affects a C corporation [see § 16C.41[3]] but not an LLP, such as increased pension contributions, increased insurance benefits, and tax deferrals through the selection of a tax year, have been largely eroded.

Under the LLP legislation and the present rules for professional corporations, those corporations may have some cost advantage over LLPs. Compare State Board of Accountancy Rule 75.8 with the description of an accountancy LLP's security requirements in § 16C.21[4][d][i], and compare Law Corporation Rule IV.B with § 16C.21[4][d][ii].

§ 16C.43 S Corporations

[1] Definition

S corporation status is primarily a creature of federal and state tax law [see I.R.C. § 1361 et seq.; Rev. & Tax. Code § 23800 et seq.]. While retaining the corporate characteristic of limited liability [see § 16C.42 (professional corporations)], a corporation can generally secure pass-through tax status by filing an S election on Form 2553 with the Internal Revenue Service and Form 100S with the Franchise Tax Board [see I.R.C. § 1362; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23801]. However, S corporations are subject to structural [see [2], below] and tax restrictions [see [3], below] not applicable to LLPs.

[2] Structural Restrictions Applicable to S Corporations

S corporation shareholder status is subject to several restrictions. An S corporation may not have (1) more than 100 shareholders; (2) shareholders who are not individuals other than estates [see I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(A), (B), (c)(3)], certain enumerated types of trusts [see I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(B), (c)(2), (d), (e)], qualified subchapter S subsidiaries [see I.R.C. § 1361(b)(3)], and certain exempt organizations [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(B); see I.R.C. § 1361(c)(6)]; or (3) shareholders who are nonresident aliens [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(C)]. LLPs may have an unlimited number of partners (provided that they are licensed attorneys or accountants) and may have a variety of classes of members and classes of interests. In contrast, S corporations may not have more than one class of stock [I.R.C. § 1361(b)(1)(D), (c)(4)].

A corporation that has a valid election under I.R.C. § 1362(a) in effect for federal purposes will be an S corporation under California tax law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23801(a)], and its shareholders will be shareholders of an S corporation without regard to whether the corporation is qualified to do business or is incorporated in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23801(b)].

[3] Tax Treatment

LLPs classified as partnerships for income tax purposes and S corporations are not subject to federal income taxation at the LLP/corporate level. Most items of S corporation income and loss (and their tax attributes) pass through to the shareholders [I.R.C. §§ 1361-1379]. The profits and losses of an LLP classified as a partnership can be allocated among partners and classes of partners, within IRS restrictions, by its partnership agreement, provided that the allocation relates to the partner's interest in the partnership or has substantial effect [see I.R.C. § 704(a), (b)]. Each S corporation shareholder, however, recognizes and reports a pro rata share, based on share holdings, of the corporation's income, loss, deductions, and credits; S corporations are not permitted to specially allocate these items [I.R.C. §§ 1366, 1377(a)]. An S corporation shareholder does not have a basis in the corporation's debts (except debt to that shareholder) to use as passed through losses [I.R.C. § 1366(d)]. Partners of such an LLP are entitled to basis for its debts [I.R.C. §§ 701-704, 752], even though the debts are nonrecourse as to the partners.

S corporations may be subject to penalty taxes for certain built-in gains [I.R.C. § 1374] and on excessive passive income [I.R.C. § 1375; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23811]. LLPs classified as partnerships are not subject to these penalties.

The death of an S corporation shareholder and changes in the number and identity of shareholders may result in the termination of the S election [I.R.C. § 1362(d)(2)] and unexpected and unwelcome loss of the corporation's tax status, but does not affect the basis of the assets of the corporation [I.R.C. § 1014(a)]. In contrast, an LLP faced with the death or withdrawal of a partner or admission of new partners may encounter a timing and recognition problem regarding the closing of the LLP taxable years of either the continuing LLP or the deceased member [see I.R.C. §§ 706, 708; see also Treas. Reg. § 1.706-1(c)] and, if not continued by the remaining partners, could face dissolution and winding up.

At the California level, LLPs are not subject to income taxation at the entity level if classified as a partnership for federal purposes, but are subject to the annual minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17948-17948.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151, 23153(d)(1); see also § 16C.61].

California generally conforms to the federal tax treatment of S corporations. However, S corporations are subject to an annual minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151, 23153(d)(1), 23802(c)], as well as a 1.5 percent income tax at the corporate level [Rev. & Tax. Code 23802(b)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code 23802(b)(2) (applicable rate for financial corporations)].

§ 16C.44 Limited Partnerships

[1] Formation and Operation

Since law, architecture, and accounting firms do not organize as limited partnerships, this discussion is largely academic except for possible reference if the right to operate as an LLP in California is expanded beyond those fields.

LLPs and limited partnerships essentially involve the association of two or more persons to form and carry on a business; a limited partnership requires one or more general partners and one or more limited partners [Corp. Code §§ 15901.02(q), 16101, 16202(a)]. Formal formation requirements are minimal: LLPs must file a simple registration with the Secretary of State and must have an oral or written partnership agreement; LLPs converting from general partnerships generally have pre-existing partnership agreements [see Corp. Code §§ 16101(6), 16202(a)]. Similarly, limited partnerships must file a simple certificate of limited partnership (Form LLP-1) with the Secretary of State and must have an oral or written partnership agreement [Corp. Code §§ 15901.02(x), 15902.01].

[2] Limited Liability

Partners of registered LLPs that meet the requirement for that status and provide the required security [see § 16C.21[4][d]] and limited partners of properly structured and operated limited partnerships are ordinarily shielded from personal liability for partnership obligations [Corp. Code §§ 15903.03, 16306(c)]. Nevertheless, both LLP partners and limited partners may be liable beyond the amount of their capital contributions under certain circumstances [see § 16C.23; see also Corp. Code §§ 16306(c), (d), (e), 15903.03]. Personal liability attaches to a partner of a limited partnership executing a Form LP-1 knowing it to be false. Because the person executing this form is usually the general partner, and general partners have unlimited liability for the limited partnership's obligations [Corp. Code § 15904.04], this limitation rarely affects the status of the limited partners. However, a limited partner who participates in the control of the limited partnership's business is treated as a general partner and loses the protection of limited liability [Corp. Code § 15903.03)]. LLPs are not required to have a partner who is personally liable for the debts of the LLP, even if they participate in management, but one or more LLP partners may agree to assume additional liability [see Corp. Code § 16306(c), (d)].

[3] Tax Treatment

LLPs and limited partnerships, if both qualify for partnership tax treatment, provide income tax transparency to the LLP partners and limited and general partners: partners are subject to tax [I.R.C. § 701]. This treatment avoids for both the double-level taxation imposed on corporations. LLPs, like limited partnerships, may elect their tax status for federal purposes under the federal entity classification rules [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3; see also § 16C.60].

Both LLPs and limited partnerships must pay the minimum franchise tax annually if they do business in California, and remain liable for this tax until dissolution documents [see Corp. Code §§ 15623, 15696, 15902.03, 15909.07], are filed [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17935, 17948-17948.2, 23151, 23153(d)(1)].

§ 16C.45 General Partnerships

[1] Formation and Operation

General partnerships and LLPs (which generally retain their general partnership nature) essentially involve the association of two or more persons to associate to form and carry on as co-owners a business for profit [Corp. Code §§ 16101(6), (8), 16202(a)]. Formal formation requirements are minimal: LLPs must file a registration with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16953] and, if a legal services LLP, must obtain a certificate of registration from the California State Bar [see State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 3.1 (§ 16C.231)]. General partnerships have no formal filing requirements, and need not have a formal oral, written, or express partnership agreement [see Cochran v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 75, 81, 149 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; see also Leff v. Gunter (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 508, 514-518, 189 Cal. Rptr. 377, 658 P.2d 740] . However, most general partnerships have some form of written agreement to handle the formal or informal business arrangements that the partners participate in, and that, subject to proof as to the specifics of the agreement and the rules of the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994, define the partners' relationships with each other. An LLP converting from non-LLP general partnerships typically would have a pre-existing partnership agreement [see Corp. Code §§ 16101(6), (8), 16202(a)], which should be carefully examined to determine changes that may be required or desirable to take advantage of LLP status [see § 16C.22[4]].

Both general partnerships and LLPs allow for the participation of any number of principals in the conduct of the business, distributing work, and sharing risks and rewards [Corp. Code §§ 16301, 16401]. Each partner is an agent of a general partnership for the purpose of its business and the act of a partner for apparently carrying on in the usual way the partnership business binds the partnership [Corp. Code § 16301]. Each LLP partner is a similar agent of the LLP with similar powers [Corp. Code § 16301].

[2] Liability

A major difference between LLPs and general partnerships is that LLP partners can limit their liability by registering as an LLP and satisfying the security requirements [Corp. Code §§ 16306, 16953, 16956, 16959]. With certain exceptions, such as for personal tortious conduct, LLP partners are not personally liable for the LLP's obligations [Corp. Code § 16306(c), (e)] unless they agree to be liable [Corp. Code § 16306(d)] or guarantee its obligations [Corp. Code § 16306(h)]. Limitations on liability are discussed in § 16C.23 and security requirements are discussed in § 16C.21[4][d].

In contrast, all the assets of general partners are exposed to claims arising from obligations of the general partnership [Corp. Code §§ 16305, 16306]. General partners are jointly and severally liable for wrongful acts and omissions of any partner acting in the ordinary course of partnership business [Corp. Code §§ 16305(a), 16306(a)] and for the misapplication of funds or property by other partners [Corp. Code § 16305(b)]. Further, partners are jointly for the obligations of the partnership and severally liable [see Corp. Code § 16306(a); see also Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.]. This extensive liability of general partners and the recourse to each partner's personal assets constitutes a fundamental disadvantage of a general partnership compared to an LLP, and is the primary motivating factor behind a partnership's determination to convert to a registered LLP.

[3] Tax Treatment

LLPs that elect partnership tax treatment, and general partnerships provide income tax transparency to the LLP partners and general partners: partners are subject to tax [I.R.C. § 701]. This treatment avoids for both the double-level taxation imposed on corporations. However, LLPs, because they must have two partners, may choose to be classified for federal tax purposes as either a partnership or an association (taxable as a corporation) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a); see § 16C.60].

LLPs, unlike general partnerships, must pay the minimum franchise tax annually if they do business in California, and remain liable for this tax until dissolution documents, including a tax clearance certificate, are filed [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851.5, 17948-17948.2, 23151, 23153(d)(1)].

§ 16C.46 Limited Liability Companies

The following discussion is extremely brief because (1) the LLP form may be used only by attorneys, architects, or public accountants to practice law, architecture, or public accountancy, and (2) professionals (including attorneys, architects, and public accountants) cannot practice through an LLC, or as a registered foreign LLC, in California [Corp. Code § 17375]. With this caveat, many consider that an LLC has very favorable attributes compared to other business entities, principally because it limits its members' liability for its obligations, it is very flexible, it can have a structure as simple or as complex as desired, and its members can achieve pass-through income tax treatment, even if active in management, without affecting their limited liability. For more detailed discussion of LLCs, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

LLCs, like LLPs, are extremely simple to organize: LLCs must file simple articles of organization (Form LLC-1) with the Secretary of State and must have an oral or written operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]; LLPs must file a simple registration with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16953] or register with the relevant state regulatory body, and typically already have pre-existing partnership agreements [see Corp. Code §§ 16101(6), (8), 16202(a)], which they may modify to deal with partners' limited liability. Legal services LLPs must apply to the California State Bar for a certificate of registration and renew it annually [see § 16C.21[1]].

Partners of LLPs and members and managers of properly structured LLCs are shielded from personal liability from company obligations [Corp. Code §§ 16306(c), 17101(a), 17158]. Nevertheless, both LLP partners and LLC members and managers may be liable in amounts exceeding their capital contributions, for example, in the case of personal tortious conduct or pursuant to the terms of a written guarantee or other contractual obligation entered into by the member outside the operating agreement [Corp. Code §§ 16306(d), 17101(c), 17158].

Properly structured LLCs, like LLPs, if both qualify for partnership tax treatment, provide income tax transparency to their members and partners [I.R.C. § 701]. Both LLCs and LLPs must pay the minimum franchise tax annually if they do business in California, and remain liable for this tax until dissolution documents, including a tax clearance certificate, are filed [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 17948, 17948.2, 23151, 23153(d)(1); see § 16C.61]. However, LLCs but not LLPs must also pay a graduated fee on income over $250,000 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942(d) (penalty for underpayment)].

§ 16C.47 Conversion Costs

[1] Introduction

Discussion in the preceding sections compares and contrasts the LLP format with other business formats (C corporations, professional corporations, S corporations, limited partnerships, general partnerships, and LLCs) from the perspective of two or more persons considering forming or converting to a California registered LLP to provide law or public accounting and determining which type of available entity best suits their needs. This section focuses on two key factors that should be evaluated in that context. These are (1) the additional costs of dissolving an existing entity [see [2], below], and (2) converting an entity into an LLP and the tax consequences, if any, of a change in ownership of business real property [see [3], below].

Many of the other costs involved in creating an LLP or converting to that form are likely to be much the same for an LLP as for any other format available in California to persons engaged in the practice of law or public accountancy: professional fees (such as attorneys, accountants, and appraisers), which tend to fluctuate with the complexity of the proposed business structure; filing fees (State Bar application fees are $200 for a law professional corporation and $50 a partner up to a $2,500 maximum for a legal services LLP); and other normal formation costs.

[2] Dissolution of Existing Entity

A professional corporation organized under the General Corporation Law may not at present be merged into a general partnership, so that its conversion to an LLP would require its dissolution and its net assets to be contributed to the new LLP. Such a dissolution and redeployment of some or all of its assets in an LLP can be costly, involving, by way of example, the following:

- Obtaining consent of shareholders [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 1900]. Usually this cost would be nominal.

- Preparing and mailing notices to creditors and claimants and document filings and recordings [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 1901, 1903, 1905, 15621, 15623, 15902.03, 15908.07].

- Paying or assuming outstanding debts and liabilities [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 2001-2009, 15683, 15908.09, 16807]. This could involve significant negotiations with creditors who will be expected to continue to do business with the successor registered LLP and with clients, who will need to be educated as to the difference in their rights as to the LLP and its partners. Both could be apprehensive about the new format.

- Paying or assuming tax liabilities [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 2001, 16807]. This could be time consuming but ordinarily not difficult.

- Valuing, liquidating, and distributing business assets [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 2004-2007, 16401, 16807, 15684; see also Com. Code §§ 6101-6111 (bulk sales)].

- Terminating existing professional licenses and registrations, and obtaining new ones.

- Arranging for assignments to the LLP of ongoing agreements, licenses, etc. and (more problematic) consents to those assignments.

The dissolution of a professional corporation and its reincarnation as a registered LLP would not be a tax-free reorganization so the income tax cost of such a transaction should be carefully reviewed with tax counsel.

The conversion of a general partnership into a registered LLP does not constitute a termination of the partnership, at least if the individual partnership interests remain the same [see Rev. Rul. 95-55, 1995-2 C.B. 313 ; see § 16C.60], and is generally tax neutral. Since the partnership would continue in existence, presumably its existing agreements, licenses, etc. would remain in effect. To satisfy ethical obligations, clients should be informed. To avoid creditor apprehension as to future credit worthiness of the LLP, discussion and explanations may be advisable.

[3] Property Taxation of Changes in Ownership

Ordinarily, transfers of any interest in real property between a corporation and a partnership, and a shareholder, partner, or any other person, and between entities, constitute changes in ownership [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 61(j), 62; see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462] that may result in the reassessment of the value of the real property and a resulting change in real property taxes [see Cal. Const. art. XIIIA, § 2]. However, no change in ownership occurs if the transfer between entities (or by individuals to an entity) preserves the previous owners' proportionate interests in the property and the transfer is only a change in the method of holding title to the property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(b) (exemption for affiliated group transfers)]. Because the conversion of a general partnership into an LLP retains the partnership status, the reorganization should not cause a reassessment, at least in the absence of changes in partnership interests. Similarly conversion of a professional corporation (by dissolution and reformation) into a registered LLP, if the shareholders/partners reclaim the same proportionate interests should not trigger reassessment.

E. Taxation of LLPs

8-16C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16C.60

AUTHOR: by Kristin M. Schwaighart

§ 16C.60 Income Taxation of LLPs

[1] General Rule

Under California law, a registered LLP remains a partnership for tax purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 28.5]. Registered LLPs can be pass-through tax entities in the same manner as general partnerships. The key question is whether an LLP will be classified for federal tax purposes as a partnership or as an association [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a); see [2], below].

[2] Classification of LLP as Association or Partnership

[a] Election of Entity Classification

After 1996, an LLP may elect its tax status for federal purposes under the federal entity classification rules [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3]. Because an LLP must have two partners, it may choose to be classified for federal tax purposes as either a partnership or an association taxable as a corporation [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. This election is available when an LLP is initially formed and wishes to elect an initial classification that differs from the default classification [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a); see [b], below]. Subject to the limitation that an entity ordinarily may change its entity classification only once every 60 months [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(c)(4)], the election is also available for an existing LLP that wishes to change its classification [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Before 1997, an LLP's classification for federal tax purposes depended on the presence or absence of corporate characteristics as set forth in prior regulations. The IRS issued a revenue ruling, the so-called "New York ruling," in which it analyzed those corporate characteristics in classifying a New York LLP [Rev. Rul. 95-55, 1995-2 C.B. 313]. Because of the elective classification rules set forth in the regulations, the classifications rules in Revenue Ruling 95-55 are now obsolete [see 1997-1 C.B. 348, Notice 97-1].

[b] Default Classification if No Election Made

The entity classification of an LLP that does not make an affirmative entity classification election [see [a], above] is determined under a default classification. The default classification for an LLP that was in existence on January 1, 1997, is the classification that it claimed immediately before January 1, 1997. For an LLP that successfully met the guidelines of Rev. Rul. 95-55, 1995-2 C.B. 313, Rev. Rul. 95-55], the default classification would be a partnership.

A newly formed domestic LLP will be classified as a partnership under the default rules if it has at least two members. Since California law requires at least two members, a new LLP's default entity status is a partnership [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)(1)]. An LLP's default classification continues until the LLP elects to change its classification be means of an affirmative election [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)(3)].

Because the default provisions provide the tax classification--as a partnership--that LLPs will almost always choose, the only LLPs that need to file an election are those that were treated as associations taxable as corporations before 1997 under Rev. Rul. 95-55 [see Rev. Rul. 95-55, 1995-2 C.B. 313].

[c] Transition Rule for Pre-1977 Periods for LLPs in Existence on January 1, 1997

A special transition rule applies for LLPs (and other entities) that were in existence on January 1, 1997. The IRS will not challenge the prior classification of an LLP in existence on that date for periods before 1997 if the following requirements are met [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(f)(2)]:

- The LLP had a reasonable basis (within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code § 6662) for its claimed classification;

- The LLP and all its members recognized the federal tax consequences of any change in the LLP's classification within the 60 months before January 1, 1997; and

- Neither the LLP nor any member had been notified in writing on or before May 8, 1996, that the classification of the LLP was under examination.

[d] LLP's Entity Status for California Tax Purposes

Under California partnership and corporation law, a registered LLP remains a partnership for tax purposes [Corp. Code § 16101(8)(A), (9); Rev. & Tax. Code § 28.5].

§ 16C.61 Minimum California Franchise Tax

Every LLP doing business in California [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101 (definition of "doing business in California" for tax purposes)] and required to file an informational return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633] must pay an annual minimum franchise tax for the privilege of doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17948-17948.2, 23151, 23153(d)(1)]. In addition, every registered LLP and every registered foreign LLP not covered by the preceding sentence that has registered with the Secretary of State must pay this tax annually [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948.2 (no liability if LLP did no business in California and taxable year was not more than 15 days)].

The tax must be paid annually until a notice of cessation is filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code §§ 16954, 16960; see also § 16C.24], or a foreign LLP withdraws its registration [see Corp. Code § 16960; see also § 16C.33], or the registered or foreign LLP has been dissolved and finally wound up [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948(b)]. A registered LLP will not be subject to the tax for a taxable year if it (1) files a timely final annual return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948.3(b)(definition)] with the Franchise Tax Board for the preceding taxable year, (2) does not do business in California after the end of the taxable year for which the final return was filed, and (3) files a notice of cessation [see Corp. Code §§ 16954(b), 16960(b)] with the Secretary of State before the end of the 12-month period beginning with the date the final tax return was filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948.3(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Secretary of State includes a notice, in its instructional materials provided in conjunction with the registration form, that filing the LLP registration obligates the LLP to pay the annual minimum tax for that taxable year [Corp. Code §§ 16953(g), 16959(g); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948]. The notice will be updated annually to specify the dollar amount of that tax [Corp. Code § 16953(g)]. If an LLP files a return that is designated as its final return, the Franchise Tax Board will notify the LLP that the annual tax is due annually until a certificate of cancellation is filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17948(d); see Corp. Code §§ 16954, 16960].

On the termination, dissolution, or abandonment of a registered or foreign (whether or not registered) LLP, any partner or other person having control or supervision, or who is charged with responsibility for the filing, of sales tax returns or the payment of tax, is personally liable for any unpaid sales taxes, plus any interest or penalties if the failure is willful [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(a), (d) ("willful" defined as an intentional, conscious, and voluntary course of action); see State Board of Equalization v. Wirick (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 411, 413, 419, 112 Cal. Code § 6829 applied to former chief financial officer of corporation, despite fact that he had resigned position over one year before corporation ceased business; because present tense in statute includes past tense, section covers former officers as well as those in charge when corporation ceases)]. The partner or other person is only liable for the taxes that became due during the period that he or she had the control, supervision, responsibility, or duty to act for the LLP [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6829(b)], and only if the State Board of Equalization can establish that the LLP (1) included or added tax reimbursement in to the selling price of tangible personal property sold in the conduct of partnership business or (2) consumed tangible personal property and failed to pay the tax to the seller or has included use tax on the billing and collected the use tax or issued a receipt for the use tax without reporting and paying use tax [*Rev. & Tax. § 16C.110 Reformulating Partnership as Legal Services LLP

NOTE:

The following list is drafted for use in the context of a general partnership converting to an LLP. For more basic determinations necessary to form and operate a partnership or LLP and to prepare a partnership agreement, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships .

1. Determine identity of client, and whether or not potential conflict of interest exists as to [see Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rules 3-310, 3-600; see also Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business]:

a. All partners and partnership.

b. Partnership.

c. One or more partners.

2. Determine current policy limits of existing professional liability policies held by partnership.

a. Ascertain total coverage per licensed person.

b. Ascertain policy limits of any umbrella policy.

3. Evaluate whether partnership can afford to provide security for claims against it based on acts, errors, or omissions out of its practice of law satisfying combination of following requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2), (b)]:

NOTE:

In addition to the financial burden of satisfying statutory security requirements in order to limit liability, legal services LLPs must file registration documents with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 16953] and the State Bar [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 4.0); see also § 16C.21[2][a]]. Filing fees should also be considered in the cost benefit analysis to determine whether or not to reformulate as an LLP [see Gov. Code § 12189].

Unless using net worth method discussed in (c), below, each partner automatically guarantees payment of difference between maximum amount of security required and amount provided under (a) and/or (b), below.

a. Maintaining insurance against liability imposed on or against it by law for damages arising out of claims subject to $7.5 million maximum.

NOTE:

The amount of security for legal services LLPs with five or fewer licensed persons may not be less than $1 million. For partnerships with more than five licensees rendering professional services on behalf of the partnership, an additional $100,000 insurance must be obtained for each additional licensee [Corp. Code § 16596(a)(2)(A); see § 16C.21[d]].

b. Maintaining security in form of cash, bank certificates of deposit, U.S. treasury obligations, letters of credit, and similar assets [see § 16C.21[4][d][ii]] subject to $7.5 million maximum.

NOTE:

The minimum amount of security for legal services LLPs with five or fewer licensed persons may not be less than $1 million. For partnerships with more than five licensees rendering professional services on behalf of the partnership, an additional $100,000 of security must be obtained for each additional licensee. [Corp. Code § 16596(a)(2)(B); see § 16C.21[d]].

c. Confirming that, as of last day of its most recently completed fiscal year, its net worth was $15,000,000.

4. If significant amounts of additional capital are needed to increase professional liability policy limits (or other acceptable forms of security) evaluate history of partnership to determine whether protections of LLP form outweigh additional expense.

5. Determine whether partnership is willing to increase its reporting obligations.

NOTE:

In addition to satisfying statutory security requirements in order to limit liability [see P 3, above], LLPs must file registration documents with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 16953]. Further, if facts set forth in filed documents change, such as a change in address or LLP name, additional filings are required [see Corp. Code § 16954]. If the LLP uses the net worth security alternative [see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(D)], the LLP must file an additional form and update it annually [see Corp. Code §§ 16953(a), 16956(a); see also § 16C.202 (Form LLP-3)]. Finally, a legal services LLP must file with the State Bar [see §§ 16C.21[2][a], 16C.23[2][a][ii]].

6. Determine whether or not to amend partnership agreement.

NOTE:

The conversion of an existing professional partnership to an LLP almost inevitably requires significant amendments to its partnership agreement [see § 16C.130]. Similarly, the creation of a new partnership that will be an LLP requires the drafting of provisions not usually found in a general partnership agreement. These amendments should not simply be grafted onto an existing agreement, but must be carefully analyzed and evaluated in the context of the complete partnership agreement; these amendments must be understood and agreed to by the partners. For example, provisions relating to the sharing of profits and losses among the partners must be carefully analyzed to determine whether the provisions would permit third parties, including bankruptcy trustees, to reach the personal assets of a "nonliable" partner through sharing obligations of partners and obligations of partners to their partnership. The agreement among the partners as to the treatment of liable and nonliable partners should be applied to each provision that might conceivably lead to the nonliable partners' assets [see § 16C.22[4]].

a. Send conflict of interest disclosure letter.

b. If representing all partners, seek informed written consent from all partners to representation.

c. If representing one or more but not all partners, send written disclaimer to other partners identifying parties being represented, and nature of that representation.

2. Secure consents of partners to formation as LLP.

3. Select name of proposed LLP [see Corp. Code § 16952; see also §§ 16C.21[3][a], 16C.270].

NOTE:
The last words or letters of the name of an LLP must be "Registered Limited Liability Partnership" or

"Limited Liability Partnership" or one of the abbreviations "L.L.P.," "LLP," "R.L.L.P.," or "RLLP" [Corp. Code § 16952].

The LLP legislation does not state that an LLP must do business under its official name. Nevertheless, a conservatively-run LLP would almost certainly use its legal name when doing business in California or some name indicating the limited liability of its partners. The LLP Rules of the California State Bar require that an applicant for Bar certification must agree to practice only under the name filed with the State Bar [see § 16C.231* (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 3.3)].

4. Complete registration on official Form LLP-1 [see §§ 16C.21[4][c], 16C.200], setting forth all of following [Corp. Code § 16953(a); see § 16C.200]:

a. Name of registered LLP.

b. Whether LLP is domestic or foreign.

c. Address of its principal office.

d. Name and address of LLP's agent for service of process on LLP in California.

e. Brief statement describing business in which partnership engages.

f. Statement that partnership is registering as registered LLP.

g. Any delayed effective date of registration.

h. Any other matters that LLP determines to include.

NOTE:
Because the certificate of registration is a public document and can only be changed by an amendment filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 16954*; see also §§ 16C.21[4][e]*, 16C.201], it may be prudent to include in that form only the information actually required by statute.

5. If net worth security alternative is selected, prepare official Form LLP-3 [see Corp. Code § 16596(a)(2)(D); see also §§ 16C.21[4][d], 16C.202].

6. Ensure that all documents to be filed are properly executed.

NOTE:
Official forms filed with the Secretary of State must be executed and filed with the original signature of one or more authorized partners.

7. Prepare cover letter [see § 16C.271 (o)].

8. File completed certificate of registration (and alternative security provision form if applicable [see § 16C.202]), cover letter [see § 16C.270], and filing fee with LLP Unit of Sacramento office of Secretary of State's office.

9. Complete and file State Bar certificate of registration.

10. File copies of consents and all other documents with partnership records.

11. Amend partnership agreement as necessary for conversion to LLP [see §§ 16C.22[4], 16C.130].

[2] Foreign LLP

1. If potential conflict of interest exists (e.g., if some partners oppose reformulation as LLP) [see Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rules 3-310, 3-600; see also Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business]:

a. Send conflict of interest disclosure letter.

b. If representing all partners, seek informed written consent from all partners to representation.

c. If representing one or more but not all partners, send written disclaimer to other partners identifying parties being represented, and nature of that representation.

2. Verify that foreign LLP is organized and currently registered and in good standing with state of organization [see P 9, below].

NOTE:

The laws of the jurisdiction under which a foreign LLP is organized govern its organization and internal affairs, as well as the liability and authority of its partners, subject to compliance with the applicable California security requirements [see Corp. Code § 16956, 16958(a); see also § 16C.31]. A foreign LLP may not be denied registration by reason of any difference between those laws and the laws of California [Corp. Code § 16958(a)(2)].

3. Secure consents of partners to formation as LLP.

4. Verify that LLP name is acceptable [see Corp. Code § 16958(b); see also §§ 16C.32[2], 16C.270].

NOTE:

The last words or letters of the name of an LLP must be "Registered Limited Liability Partnership" or "Limited Liability Partnership" or one of the abbreviations "L.L.P.," "LLP," "R.L.L.P.," or "RLLP" [Corp. Code § 16958(b)], or similar ending as authorized by the jurisdiction of formation [see § 16C.210[2], Instructions to Form, item 1].

The LLP legislation does not state that an LLP must do business under its official name. Nevertheless, a conservatively-run LLP would almost certainly use its legal name when doing business in California or some name indicating the limited liability of its partners. The LLP Rules and Regulations of the California State Bar require that an applicant for Bar certification agree to practice only under the name filed with the State Bar [see § 16C.231 (State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 3.3)].

5. Complete registration on official Form LLP-1 [see §§ 16C.32[3], 16C.200], setting forth all of following [Corp. Code § 16959(a); Form LLP-1; see § 16C.200]:

a. Name of foreign LLP.

b. Whether LLP is domestic or foreign and its jurisdiction.

c. Address of its principal office.

d. Name and address of agent for service of process in California [see § 16C.32[4]].

e. Brief statement describing business in which partnership engages.

f. Any delayed effective date of registration.

g. Any other matters that LLP determines to include.

NOTE:
Because the certificate of registration is a public document and can only be changed by an amendment filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 16954; see also §§ 16C.32[3][f], 16C.201], it may be prudent to include in that form only the information required by statute.

6. If net worth security alternative is selected, prepare official Form LLP-3 [see Corp. Code § 16596(a)(2)(D); see also §§ 16C.21[4][d], 16C.202].

7. Ensure that all documents to be filed are properly executed.

NOTE:
Official forms filed with the Secretary of State must be executed and filed with the original signature of one or more authorized partners.

8. Secure certificate of good standing from authorized public official in jurisdiction of formation or, if this certificate is not permissible in that jurisdiction, prepare statement that jurisdiction of formation does not permit issuance of certificates of good standing [see Corp. Code § 16959(a)(2)].

9. Prepare cover letter [see § 16C.270].

10. File completed application for registration (and alternative security provision form if applicable) with attached certificate of good standing or statement [see P 6, above], cover letter, and filing fee with LLP Unit of Sacramento office of Secretary of State's office.

11. Complete and file State Bar certificate of registration.

12. File copies of consents and all other documents with partnership records.

13. Amend partnership agreement if necessary for registering as LLP in California [see §§ 16C.22[4], 16C.130].

§ 16C.200 Registration [Form LLP-1]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is official Form LLP-1, Registered Limited Liability Partnership Registration, used to register a domestic or foreign LLP with the Secretary of State. To secure the benefits of limited liability, an LLP must register with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 16953(a), 16959(a)(1)]. Only firms engaged in the practice of architecture, the practice of public accountancy, the practice of law, or practices related or complementary to the practice of public accountancy or law may register as an LLP [Corp. Code § 16101(8)]. A foreign LLP transacting intrastate business in California must register with the Secretary of State within 30 days after the date on which the foreign LLP first transacts intrastate business in California [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(1)]. The use of this form is mandatory, and copies may be obtained from the office of the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code §§ 16953(g), 16959(g)].

The registration must be executed with the original signature of one or more authorized partners [Corp. Code §§ 16953(a), 16959(a)(1)]. Neither facsimiles nor photocopies of the executed certificate will be accepted for filing [see Instructions to Form, item 11].

The executed registration must be filed, together with the filing fee [Corp. Code §§ 16953(b), 16959(b); see Gov. Code § 12189], with the Limited Liability Partnership Unit in the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State [see Instructions to Form]. For a cover letter to submit with the registration, see § 16C.270.

In addition, a foreign LLP registering in California must attach to the registration a certificate from an authorized public official of the foreign LLP's jurisdiction of organization to the effect that the foreign LLP is in good standing in that jurisdiction. If the jurisdiction of organization does not permit the issuance of a certificate of good standing, the foreign LLP must attach a statement that the laws of its jurisdiction of organization do not permit the issuance of certificates of good standing [Corp. Code § 16959(a)(2)].

PRACTICE TIP

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

[b] Contents of Registration

The registration must set forth all of the following [Corp. Code § 16953(a); see [2], below]:

- The name of the registered LLP.
- Whether the LLP is domestic or foreign, and its jurisdiction.
- The address of its principal office.
- The name and address of its agent for service of process in California [see § 16C.22[3]].
- A brief statement describing the business in which the partnership engages.
- A statement that the partnership is registering as a registered LLP.
- Any delayed effective date.
- The name and address of the individual or firm to whom acknowledgment of the filing should be sent.

In addition, the registration may include any other matters that the LLP determines to include [Corp. Code §§ 16593(a), 16959(a)(1)]. However, because the registration form is a public document and can only be changed by an amendment filed with the Secretary of State [see Corp. Code §§ 16954, 16960(a)], it may be prudent to include in this form only the information required by statute.

[c] When Transmittal Form Evidencing Compliance With Alternative Security Provision Required

If an LLP selects the third alternative security provision (that is, the net worth requirement), the registration must be accompanied by a transmittal form (Form LLP-3) confirming compliance with that requirement [see Corp. Code § 16956]. For further discussion, see § 16C.21[4][d] and § 16C.202.

[d] Registration With State Bar

The Office of Certification of the State Bar has adopted rules and regulations governing registration of California attorneys to practice law in the LLP form [see §§ 16C.230 (application for registration), 16C.231 (rules and regulations)]. For further discussion, see §§ 16C.21[2][a] and 16C.23[2][a][ii].

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official Application for Issuance of Certificate of Registration as a Limited Liability Partnership with the State Bar of California. The form, available from the State Bar web site at http://www.calbar.org/2cer/llp/llpapply.htm, consists of the following parts:

- Instructions for completing the application.
- Application form.
- Attachment 1: List of all attorneys and/or law corporation partners in the LLP.
- Attachment 2: List of all non-partners, including employees and all other persons and/or law corporations practicing in the LLP, association, and/or "of counsel" with the LLP in a continuous relationship.
- Attachment 3: Declaration of compliance with Rule 1-400, Rules of Professional Conduct.

The application form and attachments 1 through 3 must be completed and returned to the State Bar. The application must be accompanied by an original certified copy (including the cover with the red date stamp) of the Secretary of State's Certificate of Registration (LLP-1), or by an original certified copy of the Secretary of State's Foreign LLP Application for Registration (LLP-5), as appropriate, and by the required non-refundable application fee (currently $50 per partner, to a maximum of $2500).

For detailed instructions, see the first page of this form. For a copy of the State Bar's LLP Rules and Regulations, see § 16C.231. For answers to questions that arise while completing the form, call the State Bar at (415) 241-2100.

[b] Information Regarding Persons Practicing Law

Attachment 1 requires the names of all attorney and/or law corporation partners in the LLP. Attorney license/member number need only be provided for attorneys licensed to practice in California [see form instructions].

Attachment 2 requires the names of all non-partners, including employees and all other persons and/or law corporations practicing in the LLP, association, and/or "of counsel" with the LLP in a continuous relationship. "Continuous relationship" means co-counsel, contract attorneys, persons sharing office space, and/or any person practicing "of counsel" to the LLP [see form instructions].

[c] Registration Requirements

An LLP providing legal services must have a currently effective certificate of registration issued by the California State Bar if the liability of its partners is to be limited for professional malpractice claims against the partnership or other partners [Corp. Code § 16306(f)]. All partnerships providing accounting services must register with the State Board of Accountancy [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5070 et seq.]; there is no separate registration requirement for accountancy LLPs.

In addition, all LLPs must register with the Secretary of State, using a separate form (Form LLP-1) [Corp. Code § 16953(a); see § 16C.200].

[d] Effective Date of Registration

For LLPs that register with the Secretary of State [see § 16C.21[4]] after January 1, 1996, and apply to the State Bar after that registration, the effective date of State Bar registration is the date the complete application is received by the State Bar, unless a later effective date is requested and granted before the certificate is issued [State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 7.1; see § 16C.231]. Once the application is received, complete and correct, accompanied by the appropriate fee, the State Bar will mail a certificate of registration to the LLP.

[e] Acknowledgment of Receipt of Application

With each application packet, the State Bar includes an Acknowledgment of Receipt in the form of a postcard. To receive a record of the date on which the application is received by the State Bar, that postcard must be completed, stamped, and included with the completed application. The State Bar will return completed, stamped postcards to the LLP with a date stamp indicating receipt of the application.

[f] Change of Address

The official address of record of an LLP is maintained by the State Bar's Office of Certification. To change the LLP's address of record, that office must be notified in writing.

Change of an individual bar member's official State Bar address must be sent separately to the Membership Records Office of the State Bar. Changing an address with one office does not change that address with the other office [see the instructions page to this form, Instruction 2].

If your LLP includes a partner or partners who are licensed only in a non-U.S. jurisdiction, see State Bar LLP Rule 4.3. If a partner is licensed in more than one jurisdiction, list the primary jurisdiction first. (A partner licensed to practice law in California will be entered as a California partner unless you specify otherwise.) You may attach additional pages if necessary.

NOTE:
If you list the name of a law corporation partner on Attachment 1, do not list the shareholder(s) as an individual attorney partner(s), unless the shareholder(s) and the law corporation are separate partners in the LLP.

B. Attachment 2. List the names of all non-partners, including employees and all other persons and/or law corporations practicing in partnership, association and/or "of counsel" with the LLP in a continuous relationship. NOTE:

Certification cannot be issued and the application will not be processed until all attachments are received in our office.

6. The declaration must be signed by a partner authorized to act on behalf of the LLP. If the authorized partner is a law corporation, set forth the complete name of the corporation. A shareholder of the law corporation may sign on behalf of the corporation. Please specify that you are signing on behalf of the corporation. The application is not complete unless it has an original signature. No copies of signature, please. Without the original signed declaration by a partner authorized to act on behalf of the LLP, certification cannot be issued and the application will not be processed until we receive a declaration with the original signature of an authorized partner.

SPECIAL NOTE If you will be forwarding a separate list of partners, or separate lists of partners who practice in different offices or jurisdictions, as an addendum to Attachment 1, please use the following format:

Last Name, First Name, Middle Initial in alphabetical order; Jurisdiction(s) Where Licensed to Practice (list the primary jurisdiction first); California State Bar Attorney License Member Number (if applicable).

Do not list partners and non-partners together on one list. If a "mixed list" is submitted, certification cannot be issued and the application will not be processed until you submit separate lists of partners and non-partners.

§ 16C.240 California Limited Liability Partnership Agreement--Practice of Law

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is designed for use by a California limited liability partnership that provides legal services. It may be adapted for use by an LLP that provides services related to the practice of law. This form is a simple agreement for a three to five partner firm. It may be adapted as needed for partnerships of greater size. Alternative provisions may be found in Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships .

[b] Nature of Legal Services LLP

A legal services LLP is not a special form of partnership. Aside from specific statutory and regulatory provisions governing the practice of law, there are no special statutes regulating its affairs. An LLP is an association of two or more persons as partners for the purpose of practicing of law that has filed a certificate of registration (Form LLP-1) [see § 16C.200]. Typically, a professional partnership differs from other general partnerships in that it tends to have little capital, no inventory, and relatively large amounts of unrealized receivables. Its reputation depends on the skill, experience, and training of its individual members [Lyon v. Lyon (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 519, 525, 54 Cal. Rptr. 829] .

[c] Special Provisions Applicable to Professional Partnerships

Because a professional partnership's income is derived from the personal services of its members and its reputation is dependent on the reputation of its members, provisions governing their rights, duties, and conduct are more detailed in professional partnership agreements. For example, the various partners' experience, reputation, skill, and ability to attract clients are not usually equal. Therefore, the provisions in the partnership agreement for division of the partnership profits require special consideration.

Further, because a professional partnership has little capital or inventory and is almost entirely dependent on the partners' earnings, different tax considerations may be involved in drafting provisions relating to the death or retirement of a partner than are involved in drafting similar provisions for an ordinary commercial partnership. For example, Paragraph 5.05 provides that the partnership interest of a deceased or retired partner will be liquidated by the partnership by payment of a specified amount each month, determined by the past income of the partnership. These payments are taxable to the retired partner or the deceased partner's estate as ordinary income [see I.R.C. § 736(a)]. Ordinarily, after a partner's retirement, the continuing partners are in a higher income tax bracket than the retired partner and gain more by being able to deduct the payments on their income tax returns than the retired partner will lose by having to report the payments as ordinary income.

[d] Taxable Year

Paragraph 3.14 provides that the partnership will keep its books on a cash and calendar year basis. Consequently, this form anticipates that the partnership will file its informational income tax return on a cash and calendar year basis. The cash basis is useful when significant amounts of accounts receivable are carried by the partnership. Under the cash basis method of accounting, accounts receivable are not reported as income and the partners do not pay taxes on them until they have been paid to the partnership. Further, the calendar year basis of accounting and reporting was specified in this form because the partners are usually on a calendar year basis, and in most instances the partnership taxable year must be based on the taxable year of the partners [see I.R.C. § 706(b)].

[e] Security Compliance

Paragraph 4.07 provides that each partner agrees to indemnify the partnership for all damages and expenses for which the partnership may become liable as a result of any alleged act of negligence or professional malpractice on the part of that partner to the extent that the damages and expenses are not paid or reimbursed under a policy of insurance carried by the Partnership.

Paragraph 4.08 requires that the partnership satisfy the security requirements necessary to secure limited liability status [see Corp. Code § 16956].

Paragraph 6.04 is designed as a summary of the limited liability of partners in an LLP. The provision states that the partnership has fulfilled all requirements necessary to secure its status as a limited liability partnership, and that nothing in the agreement is intended to extend the liability of partners to cover obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corp. Code § 16306(c). Inclusion of this type of paragraph is advisable to prevent, for example, a "sharing in partnership profits and losses" provision to expand liability. For further discussion, see § 16C.22[4].

(1) Loan any Partnership funds.

4.08. The Partnership will satisfy the statutory security requirements of Corporations Code Section 16956 in the following manner: [specify].

[If the insurance or financial asset method (see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(A), (B)) is selected, add:]

Whenever a new Partner is added to the Partnership, the Partnership will ensure that the Partnership is still in compliance with the statutory security requirements.

[OR, if the net worth method (see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(2)(D)) is selected, add:]

The Partnership will file a statement (on official Form LLP-3) with the California Secretary of State to establish that the Partnership has a net worth of at least $15,000,000 in its most recently completed fiscal year. The Partnership will file this statement annually for as long as this statement is true and the Partnership remains a limited liability partnership. If the Partnership's net worth becomes less than $15,000,000 for any fiscal year, and the Partnership wishes to remain a limited liability partnership, the Partnership will satisfy the security requirements by another method.

[CONTINUE]

Each Partner, by virtue of that Partner's status as a partner, automatically guarantees payment of any difference between the maximum amount of security required by statute and the security otherwise provided by the Partnership. The aggregate amount paid by all Partners under these guarantees may not exceed that difference. The withdrawal of a Partner does not affect the rights and obligations of the Partner arising before withdrawal.

Assignment of Interest

4.09. No Partner may sell, assign, mortgage, hypothecate, or encumber any interest in the Partnership.

ARTICLE 5 TERMINATION OF PARTNERSHIP

Withdrawal of Partner

(2) If the remaining Partners do not elect to dissolve the Partnership, the Partnership books will be closed at the end of the calendar year in the usual manner. The withdrawing Partner must then be paid the balance shown in his or her capital and income accounts, increased by his or her share of Partnership net profits or decreased by his or her share of Partnership net losses during the year, and decreased further by his or her drawings against anticipated profits during the year. 5.04. Any Partner who is disabled because of illness, accident, or other cause, and therefore unable to perform normal duties as a Partner for a continuous period of [number] months or longer may be retired from the Partnership by majority vote of the other Partners.

Payment for Partnership Interest

5.05. On the retirement, either voluntary or because of disability, or death, of a Partner the Partnership will pay to the person legally entitled to that sum in full liquidation of that Partner's interest in the Partnership the following amounts:

(1) An amount each month for _____ [number] consecutive months following the retirement or death of the Partner that is equal to _____ [fraction or percentage, e.g., one third (1/3)] of the Partner's average monthly earnings from the Partnership in the _____ [number] years, or shorter period as during which the Partner was a member of the Partnership, immediately preceding retirement or death; plus

(2) The Partner's distributive share of the Partnership net profits for its current year to the date of retirement or death less withdrawals made by the Partner against those profits, payable

_____ [number] days after the date of retirement or death; plus

(3) An amount equal to the balance in the Partner's capital and income accounts on the date of retirement or death, payable without interest in _____ [number] consecutive equal

_____ [e.g., quarterly] installments beginning

_____ [number] months after the date of retirement or death.

Noncompetition Clause

5.06. Any retired Partner who competes with the Partnership in any way during the period any amounts are payable to him or her under Paragraph 4.05(1) of this Agreement forfeits all right to any remaining payments due under that Subparagraph.

Retired Partner's Right to Examine Books

5.07. Any person legally entitled to receive any payments pursuant to the provisions of Paragraph 5.05 of this Agreement has the right to examine the Partnership books and records at any time during normal business hours to the extent that the examination is necessary to determine the amount of any payments set forth in Paragraph 5.05 of this Agreement.

Continuation of Partnership

5.08. The withdrawal, retirement, expulsion, or death of any Partner does not dissolve the Partnership and does not affect the continuance of the Partnership business, except as expressly provided in this Agreement. Neither a withdrawing, retired, or expelled Partner, nor a deceased Partner's estate has any claim against the Partnership or the remaining Partners except for payments expressly provided in this Agreement to be paid to them. If the Partnership is dissolved before the full amount of these payments has been paid, the unpaid balance must be paid in full before any distribution of Partnership assets may be made to the remaining Partners.

Dissolution

5.09. On dissolution of the Partnership other than by reason of the withdrawal, expulsion, retirement, or death of a Partner, all Partnership assets including any lease for office space occupied by the Partnership but excluding any files or records pertaining to the affairs of the Partnership's clients will be liquidated and the proceeds distributed in the manner specified in Corporations Code Section 16807.

Files

5.10. On any dissolution of the Partnership, the Partner who has usually rendered professional services for a particular client is entitled to that client's file unless the client requests that a different disposition be made of that file. A Partner who withdraws from the Partnership is entitled only to the records or files of those clients for whom he or she regularly performed professional services as a member of the Partnership and for whom he or she also rendered professional services before becoming a member of the Partnership. The estate of a deceased Partner is not entitled to any records or files of the Partnership except records and files relating to personal matters of the deceased Partner.

ARTICLE 6 MISCELLANEOUS

Additional Partners

6.01. The Partners may by [specify, e.g., a majority in interest, or a majority in numbers, or unanimous vote], admit additional Partners and fix the capital contributions, if any, to be made and the participation percentage in profits and losses of any additional Partners. All Partners must relinquish an equal proportion of their own participation percentage in Partnership profits and losses to any additional Partners. However, before being admitted, each additional Partner must first agree in writing to be bound by the provisions of this Agreement.

Notices

6.02. Any notices permitted or required by law or by this Agreement must be in writing and will be deemed duly given when personally delivered to the Partner to whom they are addressed or, in lieu of personal delivery, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, certified, addressed to the Partner at the office of the Partnership.

Amendments

6.03. No amendment to this Agreement is valid unless made in writing and signed by all of the Partners.

Summary of Limited Liability

6.04. This partnership has fulfilled all requirements necessary to secure its status as a limited liability partnership. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306(c). This Paragraph overrides any other provision in this Agreement that is or might be interpreted as inconsistent with this principle.

AUTHOR: by Kristin M. Schwaighart

§ 16C.241 California Limited Liability Partnership Agreement--Practice of Public Accountancy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is designed for use by a California limited liability partnership that provides public accountancy services. It may be adapted for use by an LLP that provides services related to the practice of public accountancy. This form is a simple agreement for a three to five partner firm. It may be adapted as needed for partnerships of greater size. Alternative provisions may be found in Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships , Part A.

[b] Nature of Public Accountancy LLP

A public accountancy LLP is not a special form of partnership. Aside from specific statutory and regulatory provisions governing the practice public accountancy [see § 16C.21[2][b]], there are no special statutes regulating its affairs. An LLP is an association of two or more persons as partners for the purpose of practicing of law that has filed a certificate of registration (Form LLP-1) [see § 16C.200]. Typically, a professional partnership differs from other general partnerships in that it tends to have little capital, no inventory, and relatively large amounts of unrealized receivables. Its reputation depends on the skill, experience, and training of its individual members [see Lyon v. Lyon (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 519, 525, 54 Cal. Rptr. 829] .

[c] Special Provisions Applicable to Professional Partnerships

Because a professional partnership's income is derived from the personal services of its members and its reputation is dependent on the reputation of its members, provisions governing their rights, duties, and conduct are more detailed in professional partnership agreements. For example, the various partners' experience, reputation, skill, and ability to attract clients are not usually equal. Therefore, the provisions in the partnership agreement for division of the partnership profits require special consideration.

[d] Taxable Year

Paragraph 3.08 provides that the partnership will keep its books on a cash basis. The cash basis is useful when significant amounts of accounts receivable are carried by the partnership. Under the cash basis method of accounting, accounts receivable are not reported as income and the partners do not pay taxes on them until they have been paid to the partnership.

Paragraph 3.09 permits the partnership to specify its fiscal year. Informational income tax return must be filed in accordance with these provisions. The calendar year basis of accounting and reporting is most common because the partners are usually on a calendar year basis, and in most instances the partnership taxable year must be based on the taxable year of the partners [see I.R.C. § 706(b)].

[e] Security Compliance

Paragraph 4.12 provides that the LLP will satisfy the statutory security requirements of Corp. Code § 16956. If the net worth security alternative is selected, the form requires that the LLP will comply with the annual filing requirement [Corp. Code § 16956(c)].

Paragraph 3.12, which deals with the allocation of profits and losses, contains a statement that nothing in the paragraph is intended to require any action on the part of the partners or the partnership that would render the partners liable for partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corp. Code § 16306(b).

Paragraph 6.05 is designed as a summary of the limited liability of partners in an LLP. The provision states that the partnership has fulfilled all requirements necessary to secure its status as a limited liability partnership, and that nothing in the agreement is intended to extend the liability of partners to cover obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corp. Code § 16306(c). Inclusion of this type of paragraph is advisable to prevent, for example, a "sharing in partnership profits and losses" provision to expand liability. For further discussion, see § 16C.22[4].

California Limited Liability Partnership Agreement--Practice of Public Accountancy

PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT OF _____ [Full name of limited liability partnership],

A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY PARTNERSHIP

ARTICLE 1 NATURE OF PARTNERSHIP

Parties

1.01. _____[Name], of _____ County, California, _____[name], _____[name], _____[name], and _____[name], all of _____ County, California, voluntarily associate themselves together as partners engaged in the practice of public accounting under the name _____[name], a limited liability partnership registered under the laws of the state of California, on the terms and conditions set forth in this Partnership Agreement.

Name of Partnership

1.02. The name of this Partnership is _____. For all purposes, this name belongs to the Partnership.

Business of Partnership

1.03. The Partnership is engaged in the business of public accounting.

Term of Partnership

1.04. The Partnership commences on _____[date] and continues until the Partnership is dissolved pursuant to this Agreement. The bankruptcy or separation, whether by reason of termination, expulsion, withdrawal, retirement, incapacity, disability, or death, of a Partner does not terminate or dissolve the Partnership. The Partnership does not terminate or dissolve if or when the Partnership changes its status from a limited liability partnership to a general partnership.

Place of Business

1.05. The Partnership's principal place of business is _____[address], or at any other place or places as may be agreed on by [the unanimous consent of the or the consent of a majority of the] Partners.

ARTICLE 2 DEFINITIONS

Partners

2.01. A "Partner" is a party to this agreement who has not been separated from the Partnership by death, retirement, withdrawal, a determination of incapacity or disability, and has not been terminated or expelled.

Partnership

2.02. The "Partnership" is _____, a registered limited liability partnership.

The "Act"

2.03 The "Act" is the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994, and specifically Corporations Code Sections 16951 through 16962, which govern limited liability partnerships. It is the intention of the Partnership that its internal affairs be governed by, and this Agreement construed to effectuate, that Act.

ARTICLE 3 FINANCIAL MATTERS

Initial Capital

3.01. The initial capital of the Partnership is the sum of $ _____, contributed equally by the Partners.

Additional Contributions to Capital

3.02. No Partner may be required to make additional contributions to the capital of this Partnership, except as provided in Paragraph 3.05. No Partner is permitted to make a voluntary contribution to capital without the written consent of all other Partners.

Withdrawal of Capital

3.03. No portion of the Partnership capital may be withdrawn at any time without the express written consent of all Partners.

Interest on Capital

3.04. No Partner is entitled to interest on contributions to the capital of the Partnership.

Loans to Partnership

3.05. In addition to making the required initial capital contribution, Partners may be required periodically by a vote of a majority of the Partners to loan the additional capital to the Partnership on a pro rata basis in proportion to their interests in the partnership. No Partner may otherwise loan or advance money to the Partnership without the written consent of a majority of the other Partners.

Any loan by a Partner to the Partnership must be separately entered in the Partnership books as a loan to the Partnership. The loan bears interest at a rate determined by a majority of the Partners; the interest on the loans will be treated as an expense of the Partnership. These loans must be evidenced by a promissory note delivered to the lending Partner and executed in the name of the Partnership by the Partnership. These loans may be repaid in full at any time at the discretion of the Partnership.

If a Partner is unable to otherwise secure outside financing to fulfill the Partner's capital contribution or capital loan obligation, the Partnership may assist as deemed appropriate under the circumstances.

Nothing in this Paragraph is intended to require any action of the Partnership that would render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306.

Books of Account

3.06. Complete and accurate accounts of all Partnership transactions must be kept in proper books. Each partner shall enter in the Partnership books an accurate account of all transactions carried out by such Partner on behalf of the Partnership.

Inspection of Books

3.07. The books of account and other Partnership records will, at all times, be kept in the Partnership's principal place of business. At all times, each Partner has access to, and may inspect and copy, any Partnership books and records.

Method of Accounting

3.08. The Partnership books of account will be kept on a cash basis.

Fiscal Year

3.09. The fiscal year of the Partnership ends on the _____[date], of each year.

Accountings

3.10. As soon after the close of each fiscal year as is reasonable, a full and accurate inventory and accounting shall be made of the Partnership affairs as of the close of the fiscal year. In making the accounting, the net profit or net loss sustained by the Partnership during such fiscal year shall be ascertained and credited or debited, as the case may be, in the Partnership books of account, to the respective Partners in the proportions specified in Paragraph 3.12 of this Agreement.

Definition of Profits and Losses

3.11. The terms "net profits" and "net losses" as used in this Agreement mean the net profits and net losses of the Partnership as determined by generally accepted accounting principles for each accounting period provided for in this Agreement.

Profits and Losses

3.12. The net profits or net losses of the Partnership will be credited or charged, as the case may be, to the Partners [in equal proportions or in the following proportions: _____ (specify proportions, e.g., _____ (name) 50 percent, _____ (name) 30 percent, _____ (name) 20 percent]. Nothing in this Paragraph relating to allocation of losses is intended to require any action on the part of the Partners or the Partnership that would render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306.

Capital Accounts

3.13. Each Partner must maintain a separate capital account. An individual Partner's capital account consists of the following:

(1) That Partner's initial contribution to the Partnership capital under Paragraph 3.01 of this Agreement;

(2) That Partner's additional contributions to Partnership capital under Paragraph 3.02 of this Agreement; and

(3) Any amounts transferred from the income to the capital account of that Partner under Paragraph 3.14 of this Agreement.

Income Accounts

3.14. A separate income account will be maintained for each Partner. At the end of each fiscal year each Partner's share of the net profits or net losses of the Partnership shall be credited or debited to, and withdrawals during that fiscal year deducted from, that Partner's income account. After those amounts have been credited or debited to and deducted from a Partner's income account, any balance or deficit remaining in the account shall be transferred to or charged against that Partner's capital account.

Bank Accounts

3.15. All Partnership funds will be deposited in accounts in the name of the Partnership at any bank or banks in _____ County, California, as may from time to time be selected by a majority vote of all Partners. All withdrawals from these accounts will be made only by check or other written instrument signed by at least two Partners.

ARTICLE 4 RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF PARTNERS

Time Devoted to Partnership

4.01. Each Partner must devote undivided working time and professional skill and attention to the Partnership business. A Partner may not provide professional services to any business enterprise that is not a client. A Partner may not engage or invest in any other business, except the ownership of stock or bonds listed on a national securities exchange, without the consent of all other Partners.

Salaries

4.02. No Partner is entitled to any salary or other compensation for services in the Partnership business.

Draws

4.03. Each Partner is entitled to withdraw from the Partnership funds the sum of $ _____ per month for personal use. Each withdrawal by a Partner will be charged against that Partner's share of the Partnership net profits for the fiscal year in which made. If the total withdrawals by any Partner during any fiscal year exceeds that Partner's share of the net profits for that year, the Partner will not be entitled to further withdrawals until the deficiency has been repaid to the Partnership.

The limitation on the amount of withdrawals contained in this paragraph may be increased or decreased at any time by unanimous consent of the Partners.

Management

4.04. Each Partner has an equal voice in the management and conduct of the Partnership business. Any differences arising among the Partners as to ordinary matters connected with the Partnership business shall be decided by a majority vote of the Partners, each Partner having one vote. No act in contravention of this Agreement, however, may be done without the consent in writing of all the Partners.

Power to Incur Liabilities

4.05. Each Partner has authority to bind the Partnership in making contracts and incurring obligations in the Partnership name and on its credit in the ordinary course of the Partnership business. However, no Partner may incur any obligation in the Partnership name or on its credit exceeding the sum of $ _____ without the consent of the other Partners. Any Partner who incurs any obligation in the name and on the credit of the Partnership in violation of this provision shall be individually liable to the other Partners for the entire amount of the obligation incurred. This dollar limitation on the amount of an obligation that may be incurred by a Partner may be increased or decreased at any time by agreement of all Partners.

Vacations

4.06. Each Partner is entitled to a vacation of one business day for each _____days of full time service rendered by that Partner to the Partnership business during the preceding twelve month period. No more than _____ vacation days may be taken by any Partner at one time without the consent of [specify percentage in numbers or all] of the remaining Partners. Each Partner is entitled to withdraw from the Partnership funds the amounts specified in Paragraph [e.g., 4.03] of this Agreement during vacation periods.

Penalty for Extended Absence

4.07. The failure of any Partner not disabled, as provided in Paragraph 5.02 of this Agreement, to devote undivided time and attention to the Partnership business for a period exceeding _____ weeks constitutes an extended absence by that Partner. That Partner will forfeit to the Partnership $ _____ per week for each week of absence unrelated to disability. The amount forfeited will be charged to the absent Partner and distributed to the other Partners in the proportion that their respective shares of the Partnership net profits and net losses bear to one another.

Reimbursement of Expenses

4.08. The Partnership will indemnify all Partners for payments made and personal liabilities reasonably incurred by them in the ordinary and proper conduct of the Partnership business or for the preservation of Partnership business or property.

Prohibited Acts

4.09. No Partner may, without the consent of all other Partners,

(1) Loan any Partnership funds;

(2) Extend Partnership credit to any person a Partner has notified the Partnership not to trust;

(3) Incur any obligations in the name or on the credit of the Partnership except in the ordinary course of the Partnership business; and

(4) Become bail, surety, or indorser for any other person.

Any loss sustained by the Partnership because of the breach of this Paragraph by any Partner shall be deducted from such Partner's share of the Partnership net profits, or if the net profits for the fiscal year in which the breach occurred be insufficient, from that Partner's capital interest in the Partnership.

Personal Debts

4.10. All Partners must discharge their separate obligations as they become due and protect the other Partners and the Partnership from all costs, claims, and demands in relation to those obligations.

Assignment of Interest

4.11. No Partner may sell, assign, mortgage, hypothecate, or encumber an interest in the Partnership.

Malpractice Coverage

4.12. The Partnership will satisfy the statutory security requirements of Corporations Code Section 16956 in the following manner: [specify].

[Select one of the following:]

[If the insurance or financial asset method (see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(A), (B)) is selected, add:]

Whenever a new Partner is added to the Partnership, the Partnership will ensure that the Partnership is still in compliance with the statutory security requirements.

[OR, if the net worth method (see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(1)(D)) is selected, add:]

The Partnership will file a statement (on official Form LLP-3) with the California Secretary of State to establish that the Partnership has a net worth of at least $10 million in its most recently completed fiscal year. The Partnership will file this statement annually for as long as this statement is true and the Partnership remains a limited liability partnership. If the Partnership's net worth becomes less than $10 million for any fiscal year, and the Partnership wishes to remain a limited liability partnership, the Partnership will satisfy the security requirements by another method.

[CONTINUE]

Each Partner, by virtue of that Partner's status as a partner, automatically guarantees payment of any difference between the maximum amount of security required by statute and the security otherwise provided by the Partnership. The aggregate amount paid by all Partners under these guarantees may not exceed that difference. The withdrawal of a Partner does not affect the rights and obligations of the Partner arising before withdrawal.

ARTICLE 5 TERMINATION OF PARTNERS AND PARTNERSHIP

Expulsion of a Partner

5.01. A Partner may be expelled from the Partnership for any of the following:

(1) Willful breach of any provision contained in this Agreement;

(2) Conduct adversely affecting the Partnership business or reputation;

(3) Conduct relating to Partnership matters that makes continuation of the Partnership unreasonable if that Partner remains a member.

(4) Loss of professional license, threat of disciplinary action by or resignation from regulatory professional association, or failure to satisfy continuing education requirements.

(5) Bankruptcy.

(6) Assignment for benefit of creditors.

(7) Conviction of crime involving moral turpitude that affects the Partnership or its reputation.

A Partner will be expelled on the unanimous vote of all other Partners. The other Partners must serve the expelled Partner with a written notice stating the grounds for and effective date of the expulsion and bearing all the other Partners' signatures. Within _____ days after the expulsion becomes effective, the expelled Partner is entitled to receive the value of that Partner's Partnership interest. The value of the expelled Partner's Partnership interest will be determined by a complete inventory and accounting of Partnership affairs as of the close of business on the day the expulsion became effective, less the value of Partnership goodwill, and less any damages sustained by the other Partners because of the breach, if any, of this Agreement by the expelled Partner.

The expulsion of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Disability of a Partner

5.02. If any Partner, in the opinion of any medical doctor duly licensed to practice in California, becomes unable because of any physical or mental disability to devote full time and attention to the Partnership business, that Partner will, subject to the following terms and conditions, be excused from devoting any time or attention to the Partnership business during the continuance of that disability:

(1) During the first

_____ [period, e.g., six months] of disability, the disabled Partner shall continue to be entitled to receive the full share of the Partnership net profits as specified in this Agreement and to withdraw from the Partnership funds each month the full amount specified in Paragraph

_____ [e.g., 4.03] of this Agreement.

(2) At any time after the disabled Partner has been unable to devote full time and attention because of that disability to the Partnership business for a period of

_____ [e.g., six months] or longer, the remaining Partners by majority vote may terminate the disabled Partner's Partnership interest by serving on the disabled Partner written notice of termination, stating its effective date.

The disability of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Bankruptcy, Insanity, or Charging Order

5.03. The remaining Partners, by service of a written notice stating the effective date on both the Partner and on the trustee in bankruptcy of that Partner, the guardian of that Partner, or the judgment creditor of that Partner who has obtained a charging order against that Partner's interest, may terminate the interest in the Partnership of any Partner

(1) Who has been adjudged a bankrupt pursuant to a petition in bankruptcy filed by or against that Partner under the Bankruptcy Act of the United States;

(2) For whom a conservator has been appointed pursuant to Probate Code Sections 1800 through 1849.5.

(3) Against whose interest in the Partnership a charging order has been issued under Corporations Code Section 16504 and not removed within 30 days after it is issued.

The bankruptcy or insanity of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Withdrawal of a Partner

5.04. Any Partner may voluntarily withdraw from the Partnership by giving all other Partners at least [number e.g., 90] days written notice of the Partner's intention to withdraw. The withdrawal of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Retirement of a Partner

5.05. Any Partner may retire or be retired by the Partnership as follows:

(1) A partner must retire at the end of the Partnership's fiscal year following the Partner's 65th birthday, unless a majority of the other Partners consent to extend the retirement date for a limited period.

(2) A Partner may retire at the end of the Partnership's fiscal year following the Partner's _____ [number e.g., 60th] birthday, with full benefits, if the Partner notifies the Partnership in writing of the Partner's intended retirement at least one year before the desired retirement date.

The retirement of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Option to Purchase Terminated Interest

5.06. On dissolution of a Partnership interest by reason of a Partner's death, or by reason of any matters stated in Paragraphs 5.02, 5.03, or 5.04 of this Agreement, the remaining Partners have an option to purchase the interest of the deceased, terminated, or withdrawing Partner in the assets and goodwill of the Partnership business by paying to that Partner (or the person legally entitled to compensation) the value of that Partner's interest, determined as provided in Paragraph 5.07. The remaining Partners must give notice of their exercise of that option in the following manner:

(1) If the Partnership is dissolved by the death of a Partner, by serving written notice of their exercise of this option on the personal representative of the deceased Partner within _____ [number] days after the appointment and qualification of the personal representative.

(2) If the Partnership is dissolved by the voluntary withdrawal of a Partner, by serving written notice of the exercise of this option of the withdrawing Partner within _____ [number e.g., 30] days after service on the remaining Partners of the notice of withdrawal provided in Paragraph 5.04 of this Agreement.

(3) If the Partnership is dissolved because of the disability of a Partner pursuant to Paragraph 5.02 of this Agreement, by serving written notice of the exercise of the option on the disabled Partner at the same time the notice of termination of his or her Partnership interest is served on the disabled Partner.

(4) If the Partnership is dissolved for any of the reasons specified in Paragraph 5.03 of this Agreement, by serving written notice of the exercise of this option on both the terminated Partner and that Partner's trustee in bankruptcy, guardian, or the judgment creditor who secured a charging order against the terminated Partner's interest, at the same time the notice of termination of the terminated Partner's partnership interest is served on those persons.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

5.07. On exercise of the option described in Paragraph 5.06 of this Agreement to purchase an outgoing Partner's Partnership interest, the remaining Partners must pay to the person legally entitled thereto, in the manner specified in Paragraph 5.08, the value of the outgoing Partner's interest, determined as follows:

(1) The remaining Partners, at the time they give notice in the manner specified in Paragraph 5.06 of their exercise of the option to purchase, must appoint an appraiser. Within

_____ [number] days after receiving that notice, the person legally entitled to receive the value of the Partnership interest being purchased must appoint an appraiser. If the two appraisers so appointed are unable to agree on the value of the interest within

_____ [number] days, they shall appoint a third appraiser. The decision in writing of any two of the three appraisers so appointed shall be binding and conclusive on the parties hereto and on any person legally entitled to receive the value of such deceased, withdrawing, or terminated Partner's interest. If the Partnership is terminated because of a charging order issued against the interest of the terminated Partner, unless the remaining Partners guarantee in writing the payment to the judgment creditor who secured such charging order the full amount of the claim, including interests and costs, the appraiser to be appointed by the person legally entitled to receive the value of such terminated Partner's interest shall be appointed by the court which issued such charging order. All fees and expenses of each appraiser shall be paid by

_____ [the remaining Partners or the purchasing and selling parties in equal proportions or the party on whose behalf such appraiser was appointed, and the fees and expenses of the third appraiser to be paid equally by the purchasing and selling parties].

(2) In determining the value of the Partnership interest to be purchased, the appraisers shall value

(a) All items of inventory at their actual cost to the Partnership.

(b) All tangible assets of the Partnership, including lands, buildings, fixtures, machinery, automobiles, and equipment, at their fair cash market value;

(c) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are not more than 90 calendar days old and not barred by the statute of limitations at one-half their face value;

(d) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are less than 90 calendar days old at their full face value; and

(e) Goodwill and other intangible assets of the Partnership at their fair cash market value.

Payment of Purchase Price

5.08. On exercise of the option to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased, withdrawing, or terminated Partner, the remaining Partners shall pay, to the person legally entitled to payment, the value of the interest, determined as provided in Paragraph 5.07 of this Agreement, in the following manner:

One half in cash on receipt of the appraisers' report provided for in Paragraph 5.07, and the balance in 12 equal monthly installments commencing not later than 30 days after receipt of that report. Each monthly installment will be applied first to interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum on the then remaining unpaid principal balance of the purchase price from the date the appraisers' report was received by the remaining Partners and then to the reduction of principal.

Purchase by Less Than All Remaining Partners

5.09. If any remaining Partner is unable or unwilling to exercise the option contained in Paragraph 5.06 of this Agreement to participate in the purchase of an outgoing Partner's interest, the option may be exercised and the interest purchased by the other remaining Partners. No remaining Partner shall be denied a right to participate in any such purchase if that Partner delivers to all other Partners a written declaration of intent to participate. This written declaration must be delivered before the appraisers' report is delivered.

Death of a Partner

5.10. The death of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership. After the death of a Partner, the remaining Partners may continue the business of the Partnership. The effective date of separation from the Partnership is the last day of the month in which death occurred. Neither the personal representative nor the estate of the deceased Partner will be liable for any obligations of the Partnership incurred after the separation date.

Assumption of Partnership Obligations

5.11. On any purchase and sale of a Partnership interest under this Agreement, the remaining Partners must assume all Partnership obligations and must protect and indemnify the separating Partner, the personal representative and estate of a deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner, and the property of any separating, deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner from liability for any Partnership obligations.

Publication of Notice

5.12. On any purchase and sale of a Partnership interest under this Agreement, or on the expulsion of a Partner pursuant to Paragraph 5.01 of this Agreement, the remaining Partners shall, at their own costs and expenses, as soon as reasonably practicable after giving notice of expulsion or of exercise of their option to purchase the departing Partner's interest, prepare, publish, file, and serve all notices required by law to protect the expelled, withdrawing, or terminated Partner and the personal representative and estate of a deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner from liability for future obligations of the Partnership business.

Dissolution Without Sale

5.13. On dissolution of the Partnership other than as provided in Paragraphs 5.01 through 5.12 of this Agreement, the affairs of the Partnership must be wound up, the assets liquidated, the debts paid, and the remaining funds divided among the Partners according to their then net worths in the Partnership business.

ARTICLE 6 MISCELLANEOUS

Notices

6.01. All notices between the Partners must be in writing and will be deemed duly served when personally delivered to a Partner, or, in lieu of personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, certified, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to the Partner at the address of the principal place of business of the Partnership [or to any other place as may be specified in a notice given pursuant to this Paragraph as the address for service of notice on the Partner].

Consents and Agreements

6.02. Any and all consents and agreements provided for or permitted by this Agreement shall be in writing. Signed copies of all consents and agreements must be filed and kept with the books of the Partnership.

Attorneys' Fees

6.03. If any litigation is commenced between the Partners or their personal representatives concerning any provision of this Agreement or the rights and duties of any person in relation to this Agreement, the prevailing party or parties will be entitled, in addition to any other relief as may be granted, to a reasonable sum for their attorneys' fees in that litigation. The amount of this sum will be determined either by the court or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Sole Agreement

6.04. This instrument contains the sole agreement of the parties relating to their Partnership and correctly sets forth the rights, duties, and obligations of each to the others as of its date. Any previous agreements, promises, negotiations, or representations not expressly set forth in this Agreement are of no force and effect.

Summary of Limited Liability

6.05. This partnership has fulfilled all requirements necessary to secure its status as a limited liability partnership. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306(c). This Paragraph overrides any other provision in this Agreement that is or might be interpreted as inconsistent with this principle.

8-16C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 16C.242

AUTHOR: by Kristin M. Schwaighart

§ 16C.242 California Limited Liability Partnership Agreement--Practice of Architecture

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is designed for use by a California limited liability partnership that provides architectural services. This form is a simple agreement for a three to five partner firm. It may be adapted as needed for partnerships of greater size. Alternative provisions may be found in Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships , Part A.

[b] Nature of Architectural Services LLP

An Architectural Services LLP is not a special form of partnership. Aside from specific statutory and regulatory provisions requiring that architects be licensed [see § 16C.21[2][c]], there are no special statutes regulating its affairs. An LLP is an association of two or more persons as partners for the purpose of practicing of law that has filed a certificate of registration (Form LLP-1) [see § 16C.200]. Typically, a professional partnership differs from other general partnerships in that it tends to have little capital, no inventory, and relatively large amounts of unrealized receivables. Its reputation depends on the skill, experience, and training of its individual members [Lyon v. Lyon (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 519, 525, 54 Cal. Rptr. 829 ; see [c], below].

[c] Special Provisions Applicable to Professional Partnerships

Because a professional partnership's income is derived from the personal services of its members and its reputation is dependent on the reputation of its members, provisions governing their rights, duties, and conduct are more detailed in professional partnership agreements. For example, the various partners' experience, reputation, skill, and ability to attract clients are not usually equal. Therefore, the provisions in the partnership agreement for division of the partnership profits require special consideration.

Further, because professional partnerships tend to have limited capital or inventory and are almost entirely dependent on the partners' earnings, different tax considerations may be involved in drafting provisions relating to the death or retirement of a partner than are involved in drafting similar provisions for an ordinary commercial partnership. For example, Paragraph 5.06 provides that the remaining partners have the option to purchase a partnership interest on its dissolution, and Paragraphs 5.07 and 5.09 prescribe the manner of purchases. These payments will be taxable to the retired partner or the deceased partner's estate as ordinary income, either as a distributive share of partnership income or guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. § 736(a)]. However, because the continuing partners are ordinarily in a higher income tax bracket than the retired partner, they will gain more by being able to deduct the payments on their income tax returns than the retired partner will lose by having to report the payments as ordinary income.

[d] Taxable Year; Tax Matters Partner

Paragraph 3.08 provides that the partnership will keep its books on a cash basis. The cash basis is useful when significant amounts of accounts receivable are carried by the partnership. Under the cash basis method of accounting, accounts receivable are not reported as income and the partners do not pay taxes on them until they have been paid to the partnership.

Paragraph 3.09 permits the partnership to specify its fiscal year. Informational income tax return must be filed in accordance with these provisions. The calendar year basis of accounting and reporting is most common because the partners are usually on a calendar year basis, and in most instances the partnership taxable year must be based on the taxable year of the partners [see I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)]. California generally follows federal law with respect to the selection of a tax year for partnerships [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

Paragraph 3.16 designates a tax matters partner. Partnerships must have a "tax matters partner" (TMP) to represent the partnership and act as a liaison between the partnership and the IRS on tax issues [see I.R.C. § 6231(a); see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1]. Among other responsibilities, the TMP has notification responsibilities to the partners and the IRS, and the actions of the TMP may bind the partnership and certain partners [I.R.C. § 6231(a); see I.R.C. §§ 6223(g), 6224(c), 6226(a)]. If the partnership fails to designate a TMP, the Internal Revenue Code provides rules to determine that status. Ordinarily, the general partner with the largest interest in partnership profits at the close of the taxable year automatically becomes the TMP; if the partnership has more than one such partner, the first such partner alphabetically is designated the TMP [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7); Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(m)(2)].

[e] Security Compliance

Paragraph 4.12 provides that the LLP will satisfy the statutory security requirements of Corp. Code § 16956. If the net worth security alternative is selected, the form requires that the LLP will comply with the annual filing requirement [Corp. Code § 16956(c); see § 16C.202].

Paragraph 3.12, which deals with the allocation of profits and losses, contains a statement that nothing in the paragraph is intended to require any action on the part of the partners or the partnership that would render the partners liable for partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corp. Code § 16306(b).

Paragraph 6.05 is designed as a summary of the limited liability of partners in an LLP. The provision states that the partnership has fulfilled all requirements necessary to secure its status as a limited liability partnership, and that nothing in the agreement is intended to extend the liability of partners to cover obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corp. Code § 16306(c). Inclusion of this type of paragraph is advisable to prevent, for example, a "sharing in partnership profits and losses" provision to expand liability. For further discussion, see § 16C.22[4].

Term of Partnership

1.04. The Partnership commences on _____[date] and continues until the Partnership is dissolved pursuant to this Agreement. The bankruptcy or separation, whether by reason of termination, expulsion, withdrawal, dissociation, retirement, incapacity, disability, or death, of a Partner does not terminate or dissolve the Partnership. The Partnership does not terminate or dissolve if or when the Partnership changes its status from a limited liability partnership to a general partnership.

Location of Partnership

1.05. The Partnership is located at _____[address], or at any other place or places as may be agreed on by [the unanimous consent of the or the consent of a majority of the] Partners.

2.02. The "Partnership" is _____[name], a registered limited liability partnership.

The "Act"

2.03. The "Act" is the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994, and specifically Corporations Code Sections 16951 through 16962, which govern limited liability partnerships. It is the intention of the Partnership that its internal affairs be governed by, and this Agreement construed to effectuate, that Act.

ARTICLE 3 FINANCIAL MATTERS

Initial Capital

3.01. The initial capital of the Partnership is the sum of $ _____, contributed equally by the Partners.

Additional Contributions to Capital

3.02. No Partner may be required to make additional contributions to the capital of this Partnership, except as provided in Paragraph 3.05. No Partner is permitted to make a voluntary contribution to capital without the written consent of all other Partners.

Withdrawal of Capital

3.03. No portion of the Partnership capital may be withdrawn at any time without the express written consent of all Partners.

Interest on Capital

3.04. No Partner is entitled to interest on contributions to the capital of the Partnership.

Loans to Partnership

3.05. In addition to making the required initial capital contribution, Partners may be required periodically by a vote of a majority of the Partners to loan the additional capital to the Partnership on a pro rata basis in proportion to their interests in the partnership. No Partner may otherwise loan or advance money to the Partnership without the written consent of a majority of the other Partners.

Any loan by a Partner to the Partnership must be separately entered in the Partnership books as a loan to the Partnership. The loan bears interest at a rate determined by a majority of the Partners; the interest on the loans will be treated as an expense of the Partnership. These loans must be evidenced by a promissory note delivered to the lending Partner and executed in the name of the Partnership by the Partnership. These loans may be repaid in full at any time at the discretion of the Partnership.

If a Partner is unable to otherwise secure outside financing to fulfill the Partner's capital contribution or capital loan obligation, the Partnership may assist as deemed appropriate under the circumstances.

Nothing in this Paragraph is intended to require any action of the Partnership that would render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306.

Books of Account

3.06. Complete and accurate accounts of all Partnership transactions must be kept in proper books. Each partner shall enter in the Partnership books an accurate account of all transactions carried out by such Partner on behalf of the Partnership.

Inspection of Books

3.07. The books of account and other Partnership records will, at all times, be kept in the Partnership's principal place of business. At all times, each Partner has access to, and may inspect and copy, any Partnership books and records.

Method of Accounting

3.08. The Partnership books of account will be kept on a cash basis.

Fiscal Year

3.09. The fiscal year of the Partnership ends on the _____[date] of each year.

Accountings

3.10. As soon after the close of each fiscal year as is reasonable, a full and accurate inventory and accounting shall be made of the Partnership affairs as of the close of the fiscal year. In making the accounting, the net profit or net loss sustained by the Partnership during such fiscal year shall be ascertained and credited or debited, as the case may be, in the Partnership books of account, to the respective Partners in the proportions specified in Paragraph 3.12 of this Agreement.

Definition of Profits and Losses

3.11. The terms "net profits" and "net losses" as used in this Agreement mean the net profits and net losses of the Partnership as determined by generally accepted accounting principles for each accounting period provided for in this Agreement.

Profits and Losses

3.12. The net profits or net losses of the Partnership will be credited or charged, as the case may be, to the Partners [in equal proportions or in the following proportions: _____ (specify proportions, e.g., _____ (name) 50 percent, _____ (name) 30 percent, _____ (name) 20 percent]. Nothing in this Paragraph relating to allocation of losses is intended to require any action on the part of the Partners or the Partnership that would render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306.

Capital Accounts

3.13. Each Partner must maintain a separate capital account. An individual Partner's capital account consists of the following:

(1) That Partner's initial contribution to the Partnership capital under Paragraph 3.01 of this Agreement;

(2) That Partner's additional contributions to Partnership capital under Paragraph 3.02 of this Agreement; and

(3) Any amounts transferred from the income to the capital account of that Partner under Paragraph 3.14 of this Agreement.

Income Accounts

3.14. A separate income account will be maintained for each Partner. At the end of each fiscal year each Partner's share of the net profits or net losses of the Partnership shall be credited or debited to, and withdrawals during that fiscal year deducted from, that Partner's income account. After those amounts have been credited or debited to and deducted from a Partner's income account, any balance or deficit remaining in the account shall be transferred to or charged against that Partner's capital account.

Bank Accounts

3.15. All Partnership funds will be deposited in accounts in the name of the Partnership at any bank or banks in _____ County, California, as may from time to time be selected by a majority vote of all Partners. All withdrawals from these accounts will be made only by check or other written instrument signed by at least two Partners.

Tax Matters Partner

3.16. The Partnership designates _____[name] as the Tax Matters Partner.

ARTICLE 4 RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF PARTNERS

Time Devoted to Partnership

4.01. Each Partner must devote undivided working time and professional skill and attention to the Partnership business. A Partner may not provide professional services to any business enterprise that is not a client. A Partner may not [engage or engage or invest] in any other business, except the ownership of stock or bonds listed on a national securities exchange, without the consent of all other Partners.

Salaries

4.02. No Partner is entitled to any salary or other compensation for services in the Partnership business.

Draws

4.03. Each Partner is entitled to withdraw from the Partnership funds the sum of $ _____ per month for personal use. Each withdrawal by a Partner will be charged against that Partner's share of the Partnership net profits for the fiscal year in which made. If the total withdrawals by any Partner during any fiscal year exceeds that Partner's share of the net profits for that year, the Partner will not be entitled to further withdrawals until the deficiency has been repaid to the Partnership.

The limitation on the amount of withdrawals contained in this paragraph may be increased or decreased at any time by unanimous consent of the Partners.

Management

4.04. Each Partner has an equal voice in the management and conduct of the Partnership business. Any differences arising among the Partners as to ordinary matters connected with the Partnership business shall be decided by a majority vote of the Partners, each Partner having one vote. No act in contravention of this Agreement, however, may be done without the consent in writing of all the Partners.

Power to Incur Liabilities

4.05. Each Partner has authority to bind the Partnership in making contracts and incurring obligations in the Partnership name and on its credit in the ordinary course of the Partnership business. However, no Partner may incur any obligation in the Partnership name or on its credit exceeding the sum of $ _____ without the consent of the other Partners. Any Partner who incurs any obligation in the name and on the credit of the Partnership in violation of this provision shall be individually liable to the other Partners for the entire amount of the obligation incurred. This dollar limitation on the amount of an obligation that may be incurred by a Partner may be increased or decreased at any time by agreement of all Partners.

Vacations and Sick Leave

4.06. Each Partner is entitled to a vacation of one business day for each _____days of full time service rendered by that Partner to the Partnership business during the preceding twelve month period. No more than _____ vacation days may be taken by any Partner at one time without the consent of [specify percentage in numbers or all] of the remaining Partners. Each Partner is entitled to withdraw from the Partnership funds the amounts specified in Paragraph [e.g., 4.03] of this Agreement during vacation periods.

Each Partner is entitled to [number] weeks sick leave each calendar year without adjustment in earnings because of actual sickness or accident to the Partner or any member of the Partner's immediate family. Sick leave not used in one year may not be carried over to future years or used for additional vacation.

In addition to sick leave, each Partner who becomes pregnant is entitled to [number] months maternity leave without adjustment in earnings.

Each Partner, in addition to the vacation and sick leave provided for in this Paragraph, is entitled to be absent from the Partnership business for [number] days each calendar year for the purpose of attending professional meetings or courses.

Penalty for Extended Absence

4.07. The failure of any Partner not disabled, as provided in Paragraph 5.02 of this Agreement, to devote undivided time and attention to the Partnership business for a period exceeding _____ weeks constitutes an extended absence by that Partner. That Partner will forfeit to the Partnership $ _____ per week for each week of absence unrelated to disability. The amount forfeited will be charged to the absent Partner and distributed to the other Partners in the proportion that their respective shares of the Partnership net profits and net losses bear to one another.

Reimbursement of Expenses

4.08. The Partnership will indemnify all Partners for payments made and personal liabilities reasonably incurred by them in the ordinary and proper conduct of the Partnership business or for the preservation of Partnership business or property.

Prohibited Acts

4.09. No Partner may, without the consent of all other Partners,

(1) Loan any Partnership funds;

(2) Extend Partnership credit to any person a Partner has notified the Partnership not to trust;

(3) Incur any obligations in the name or on the credit of the Partnership except in the ordinary course of the Partnership business; and

(4) Become bail, surety, or indorser for any other person.

Any loss sustained by the Partnership because of the breach of this Paragraph by any Partner will be deducted from that Partner's share of the Partnership net profits, or if the net profits for the fiscal year in which the breach occurred be insufficient, from that Partner's capital interest in the Partnership.

Personal Debts

4.10. All Partners must discharge their separate obligations as they become due and protect the other Partners and the Partnership from all costs, claims, and demands in relation to those obligations.

Assignment of Interest

4.11. No Partner may sell, assign, mortgage, hypothecate, or encumber an interest in the Partnership.

Malpractice Coverage; Compliance With Security Requirements

4.12. Each Partner agrees to indemnify the Partnership for all damages and expenses for which the Partnership may become liable as a result of any alleged act of negligence or professional malpractice on the part of that Partner to the extent that the damages and expenses are not paid or reimbursed under a policy of insurance carried by the Partnership.

The Partnership will satisfy the statutory security requirements of Corporations Code Section 16956 in the following manner: [specify].

[If the insurance or financial asset method (see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)(A), (B)) is selected, add:]

Whenever a new Partner is added to the Partnership, the Partnership will ensure that the Partnership is still in compliance with the statutory security requirements.

[OR, if the net worth method (see Corp. Code § 16956(a)(3)(D)) is selected, add:]

The Partnership will file a statement (on official Form LLP-3) with the California Secretary of State to establish that the Partnership has a net worth of at least $10 million in its most recently completed fiscal year. The Partnership will file this statement annually for as long as this statement is true and the Partnership remains a limited liability partnership. If the Partnership's net worth becomes less than $10 million for any fiscal year, and the Partnership wishes to remain a limited liability partnership, the Partnership will satisfy the security requirements by another method.

[CONTINUE]

Each Partner, by virtue of that Partner's status as a partner, automatically guarantees payment of any difference between the maximum amount of security required by statute and the security otherwise provided by the Partnership. The aggregate amount paid by all Partners under these guarantees may not exceed that difference. The withdrawal of a Partner does not affect the rights and obligations of the Partner arising before withdrawal.

ARTICLE 5 TERMINATION OF PARTNERS AND PARTNERSHIP

Expulsion of a Partner

5.01. A Partner may be expelled from the Partnership for any of the following:

(1) Willful breach of any provision contained in this Agreement;

(2) Conduct adversely affecting the Partnership business or reputation;

(3) Conduct relating to Partnership matters that makes continuation of the Partnership unreasonable if that Partner remains a member.

(4) Loss of professional license, threat of disciplinary action by or resignation from regulatory professional association, or failure to satisfy continuing education requirements.

(5) Bankruptcy.

(6) Assignment for benefit of creditors.

(7) Conviction of crime involving moral turpitude that affects the Partnership or its reputation.

A Partner will be expelled on the unanimous vote of all other Partners. The other Partners must serve the expelled Partner with a written notice stating the grounds for and effective date of the expulsion and bearing all the other Partners' signatures. Within _____[_____days or a reasonable time] after the expulsion becomes effective, the expelled Partner is entitled to receive the value of that Partner's Partnership interest. The value of the expelled Partner's Partnership interest will be determined by a complete inventory and accounting of Partnership affairs as of the close of business on the day the expulsion became effective, less the value of Partnership goodwill, and less any damages sustained by the other Partners because of the breach, if any, of this Agreement by the expelled Partner.

The expulsion of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Disability of a Partner

5.02. If any Partner, in the opinion of any medical doctor duly licensed to practice in California, becomes unable because of any physical or mental disability to devote full time and attention to the Partnership business, that Partner will, subject to the following terms and conditions, be excused from devoting any time or attention to the Partnership business during the continuance of that disability:

(1) During the first

_____ [period, e.g., six months] of disability, the disabled Partner shall continue to be entitled to receive the full share of the Partnership net profits as specified in this Agreement and to withdraw from the Partnership funds each month the full amount specified in Paragraph

_____ [e.g., 4.03] of this Agreement.

(2) At any time after the disabled Partner has been unable to devote full time and attention because of that disability to the Partnership business for a period of _____ [e.g., six months] or longer, the remaining Partners by majority vote may terminate the disabled Partner's Partnership interest by serving on the disabled Partner written notice of termination, stating its effective date.

The disability of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Bankruptcy, Insanity, or Charging Order

5.03. The remaining Partners, by service of a written notice stating the effective date on both the Partner and on the trustee in bankruptcy of that Partner, the guardian of that Partner, or the judgment creditor of that Partner who has obtained a charging order against that Partner's interest, may terminate the interest in the Partnership of any Partner

(1) Who has been adjudged a bankrupt pursuant to a petition in bankruptcy filed by or against that Partner under the Bankruptcy Act of the United States;

(2) For whom a conservator has been appointed pursuant to Probate Code Sections 1800 through 1849.5.

(3) Against whose interest in the Partnership a charging order has been issued under Corporations Code Section 16504 and not removed within 30 days after its issuance.

The bankruptcy or insanity of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Withdrawal of a Partner

5.04. Any Partner may voluntarily withdraw from the Partnership by giving all other Partners at least [number e.g., 90] days written notice of the Partner's intention to withdraw.

The withdrawal of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Retirement of a Partner

5.05. Any Partner may retire or be retired by the Partnership as follows:

(1) A partner must retire at the end of the Partnership's fiscal year following the Partner's 65th birthday, unless a majority of the other Partners consent to extend the retirement date for a limited period.

(2) A Partner may retire at the end of the Partnership's fiscal year following the Partner's _____ [number e.g., 60th] birthday, with full benefits, if the Partner notifies the Partnership in writing of the Partner's intended retirement at least one year before the desired retirement date.

The retirement of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership.

Option to Purchase Terminated Interest

5.06. On dissolution of a Partnership interest by reason of a Partner's death, or by reason of any matters stated in Paragraph 5.02, 5.03, or 5.04 of this Agreement, the remaining Partners have an option to purchase the interest of the deceased, terminated, or withdrawing Partner in the assets and goodwill of the Partnership business by paying to that Partner (or the person legally entitled to compensation) the value of that Partner's interest, determined as provided in Paragraph 5.07. The remaining Partners must give notice of their exercise of that option in the following manner:

(1) If the Partnership is dissolved by the death of a Partner, by serving written notice of their exercise of this option on the personal representative of the deceased Partner within _____ [number] days after the appointment and qualification of the personal representative.

(2) If the Partnership is dissolved by the voluntary withdrawal of a Partner, by serving written notice of the exercise of this option of the withdrawing Partner within _____ [number e.g., 30] days after service on the remaining Partners of the notice of withdrawal provided in Paragraph 5.04 of this Agreement.

(3) If the Partnership is dissolved because of the disability of a Partner pursuant to Paragraph 5.02 of this Agreement, by serving written notice of the exercise of the option on the disabled Partner at the same time the notice of termination of his or her Partnership interest is served on the disabled Partner.

(4) If the Partnership is dissolved for any of the reasons specified in Paragraph 5.03 of this Agreement, by serving written notice of the exercise of this option on both the terminated Partner and that Partner's trustee in bankruptcy, guardian, or the judgment creditor who secured a charging order against the terminated Partner's interest, at the same time the notice of termination of the terminated Partner's partnership interest is served on those persons.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

5.07. On exercise of the option described in Paragraph 5.06 of this Agreement to purchase an outgoing Partner's Partnership interest, the remaining Partners must pay to the person legally entitled thereto, in the manner specified in Paragraph 5.08, the value of the outgoing Partner's interest, determined as follows:

(1) The remaining Partners, at the time they give notice in the manner specified in Paragraph 5.06 of their exercise of the option to purchase, must appoint an appraiser. Within

_____ [number] days after receiving that notice, the person legally entitled to receive the value of the Partnership interest being purchased must appoint an appraiser. If the two appraisers so appointed are unable to agree on the value of the interest within

_____ [number] days, they will appoint a third appraiser. The decision in writing of any two of the three appraisers is binding and conclusive on the parties to this Agreement and on any person legally entitled to receive the value of that deceased, withdrawing, or terminated Partner's interest. If the Partnership is terminated because of a charging order issued against the interest of the terminated Partner, unless the remaining Partners guarantee in writing the payment to the judgment creditor who secured that charging order the full amount of the claim, including interests and costs, the appraiser to be appointed by the person legally entitled to receive the value of that terminated Partner's interest will be appointed by the court that issued the charging order. All fees and expenses of each appraiser shall be paid by

_____ [the remaining Partners or the purchasing and selling parties in equal proportions or the party on whose behalf the appraiser was appointed, and the fees and expenses of the third appraiser to be paid equally by the purchasing and selling parties].

(2) In determining the value of the Partnership interest to be purchased, the appraisers shall value

(a) All items of inventory at their actual cost to the Partnership.

(b) All tangible assets of the Partnership, including lands, buildings, fixtures, machinery, automobiles, and equipment, at their fair cash market value;

(c) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are not more than 90 calendar days old and not barred by the statute of limitations at one-half their face value;

(d) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are less than 90 calendar days old at their full face value; and

(e) Goodwill and other intangible assets of the Partnership at their fair cash market value.

Payment of Purchase Price

5.08. On exercise of the option to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased, withdrawing, or terminated Partner, the remaining Partners must pay, to the person legally entitled to payment, the value of the interest, determined as provided in Paragraph 5.07 of this Agreement as follows:

(1) One half in cash on receipt of the appraisers' report provided for in Paragraph 5.07; plus

(2) The balance in 12 equal monthly installments commencing not later than 30 days after receipt of that report.

Each monthly installment will be applied first to interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum on the then remaining unpaid principal balance of the purchase price from the date the appraisers' report was received by the remaining Partners and then to the reduction of principal.

Purchase by Less Than All Remaining Partners

5.09. If any remaining Partner is unable or unwilling to exercise the option contained in Paragraph 5.06 of this Agreement to participate in the purchase of an outgoing Partner's interest, the option may be exercised and the interest purchased by the other remaining Partners. No remaining Partner may be denied a right to participate in such a purchase if that Partner delivers to all other Partners a written declaration of intent to participate. This written declaration must be delivered before the appraisers' report is delivered.

Death of a Partner

5.10. The death of one or more Partners does not terminate the Partnership. After the death of a Partner, the remaining Partners may continue the business of the Partnership. The effective date of separation from the Partnership is the last day of the month in which death occurred. Neither the personal representative nor the estate of the deceased Partner will be liable for any obligations of the Partnership incurred after the separation date.

Assumption of Partnership Obligations

5.11. On any purchase and sale of a Partnership interest under this Agreement, the remaining Partners must assume all Partnership obligations and must protect and indemnify the separating Partner, the personal representative, and the estate of a deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner, and the property of any separating, deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner from liability for any Partnership obligations.

Publication of Notice

5.12. On any purchase and sale of a Partnership interest under this Agreement, or on the expulsion of a Partner pursuant to Paragraph 5.01 of this Agreement, the remaining Partners must, at their own costs and expenses, as soon as reasonably practicable after giving notice of expulsion or of exercise of their option to purchase the departing Partner's interest, prepare, publish, file, and serve all notices required by law to protect the expelled, withdrawing, or terminated Partner and the personal representative and estate of a deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner from liability for future obligations of the Partnership business.

Dissolution Without Sale

5.13. On dissolution of the Partnership other than as provided in Paragraphs 5.01 through 5.12 of this Agreement, the affairs of the Partnership must be wound up, the assets liquidated, the debts paid, and the remaining funds divided among the Partners according to their then net worths in the Partnership business.

ARTICLE 6 MISCELLANEOUS

Notices

6.01. All notices between the Partners must be in writing and will be deemed duly served when personally delivered to a Partner, or, in lieu of personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, certified, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to the Partner at the address of the principal place of business of the Partnership [or to any other place as may be specified in a notice given pursuant to this Paragraph as the address for service of notice on the Partner].

Consents and Agreements

copies of all consents and agreements must be filed and kept with the books of the Partnership.

Attorneys' Fees

6.03. If any litigation is commenced between the Partners or their personal representatives concerning any provision of this Agreement or the rights and duties of any person in relation to this Agreement, the prevailing party or parties will be entitled, in addition to any other relief as may be granted, to a reasonable sum for their attorneys' fees in that litigation. The amount of this sum will be determined either by the court or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Amendments

6.04. No amendment to this Agreement is valid unless made in writing and signed by all of the Partners.

Sole Agreement

6.05. This instrument constitutes the sole agreement of the parties relating to their Partnership and correctly sets forth the rights, duties, and obligations of each to the others as of its date. Any previous agreements, promises, negotiations, or representations not expressly set forth in this Agreement are of no force and effect.

Summary of Limited Liability

6.06. This partnership has fulfilled all requirements necessary to secure its status as a limited liability partnership. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to render the Partners liable for Partnership obligations for which they are not personally liable under Corporations Code Section 16306(c). § 17.10 Legal Considerations in the Purchase and Sale of a Business

Parties to the purchase and sale of a business must contemplate a variety of legal issues including, but not limited to, the following:

- Tax consequences of the transfer and the applicability of income taxes, sales and use taxes, and property taxes [see §§ 17.11-17.13].
- Assignment of trademarks and service marks [see § 17.15].
- Compliance with hazardous waste regulations [see § 17.16].
- Use of letter of intent for the purchase of the business [see § 17.17].
- Pre-sale investigation and due diligence of the business [see § 17.18].
- Use of noncompetition clauses in the sale of a business [see § 17.19].
- Compliance with bulk sales division of Commercial Code [see § 17.20].
- Fraudulent transfers and creditors' rights [see § 17.21].
- Special requirements for purchase and sale of professional practices [see § 17.22].
- Issues relating to the purchase and sale of a franchise [see § 17.23].

If the transaction includes a transfer of employees, then labor and employment issues might arise. However, there should be no issue concerning the statutory duty to warn the employees and various government officials about a mass layoff [see generally Lab. Code § 1400 et seq. (Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, or WARN Act); see also 29 U.S.C. § 2101 et seq. (equivalent federal law applicable to larger employers)], even if the threshold number of 50 employees were transferred, because there would be no mass layoff under the statute. The WARN Act defines a mass layoff in terms of employees losing their positions with the employer [Lab. Code § 1400(c), (d)], whereas in the case of a business transfer that includes existing employees, the employees would merely be exchanging the former employer for a new employer. There would be no duty under the WARN Act even if not all of the existing employees were transferred, as long as fewer than 50 were laid off in the process [MacIsaac v. Waste Management Collection & Recycling, Inc. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1076, 1086-1087, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 650] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

8-17 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 17.11

AUTHOR: Marilyn E. Minger Revision Author

§ 17.11 Evaluating Income Tax Consequences of Sale

[1] Identifying Basic Income Tax Issues

The two income tax issues arising under federal and California law from the sale of a business are (1) the amount of gain or loss realized and recognized [see [2], below], and (2) the character of the gain or loss as ordinary or capital income [see [3], below].

The sale of a business is not considered to be the sale of a single unit or interest. Instead, it is treated as the sale of the separate assets that, taken together, constitute the business [Williams v. McGowan (2d Cir. 1945) 152 F.2d 570, 572] . Therefore, the purchase price must be allocated to the separate assets being sold [Rev. Rul. 55-79, 1955-1 C.B. 370].

For further discussion of the income tax consequences of the sale of real property generally, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements , Legal Background, "Gain or Loss on Sale of Real Property--In General," et seq. For further coverage of the capital gain treatment of specific assets, see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 34, Capital Transactions (Matthew Bender).

[2] Determining Amount of Gain or Loss

For purposes of federal and state income taxation, the amount of gain or loss recognized by a seller on the sale of any property is the difference between the amount realized from the purchase price (including the fair market value of any note received, or any mortgages or deeds of trust the buyer assumed) that is allocated to the asset, and the seller's adjusted income tax basis for the asset [I.R.C. §§ 1001(a), (b) (computation of gain or loss), 1011 (determination of adjusted basis); Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 18031 (gain or loss determined in accordance with federal law), 24901(b) (amount realized includes fair market value of other property received)].

[3] Determining Character of Gain or Loss

Determining the character of gain or loss on the sale of a business should reflect the tax interests of the buyer and seller, even though those interests may conflict under certain circumstances. For example, the characterization of gain from the sale of a business as capital rather than ordinary is advantageous for high income noncorporate taxpayers. For these taxpayers capital gains are taxed at lower rates than those applicable to ordinary income [compare I.R.C. § 1(a)-(e), (i)(2) with I.R.C. § 1(h)]. No similar advantage, however, is available to corporate taxpayers selling a business. For corporate taxpayers, the tax rate for capital gains is the same as those for ordinary income [compare I.R.C. § 11(b) with I.R.C. § 1201]. Some advantage may be available to the corporate taxpayer if it has capital losses than may be offset only against capital gain [I.R.C. § 1211(a)].

To characterize gain from the sale of a business as capital gain, a seller would allocate as much of the purchase price as possible to goodwill or other intangibles such as trademarks or trade names, going concern value, or covenants not to compete, which are usually treated as capital assets [see I.R.C. § 1221; but see I.R.C. §§ 197(f)(7), 1221(a)(2) (goodwill and other intangibles eligible for amortization are depreciable business assets and not capital assets)].

A buyer, however, is likely to want to allocate the bulk of the purchase price to inventory or depreciable fixtures machinery, or equipment. This allocation provides higher immediate deductions either because of an increased cost of goods sold [see Treas. Reg. § 1.61-3(a)] or increased depreciation deductions [I.R.C. §§ 167, 168]. This type of allocation, however increases the ordinary income to the seller [see I.R.C. § 1221(a)(1), (2) (stock in trade, inventory and depreciable business property are not capital assets)]. Even though a buyer who acquires goodwill in a business may be eligible to amortize the cost, the 15 year amortization period makes the amortization deduction less attractive than depreciation or cost of goods sold deductions [compare I.R.C. § 197 with I.R.C. §§ 167, 168].

[4] Allocating Purchase Price to Each Asset

[a] Burden on Parties to Purchase and Sale

Ordinarily, the parties in a purchase and sale have the burden of establishing the amount of the purchase price allocated to each of the assets being sold, including intangible assets such as goodwill. The amount that they allocate to each asset should bear a reasonable relation to the asset's fair market value [see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift, and Estate Taxation, Ch. 34, Capital Transactions, § 34.03 (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Applicable Asset Acquisition

A special method of allocating value among various assets in the sale of a business must be used if there is an applicable asset acquisition [I.R.C. 1060]. An "applicable asset acquisition" is any direct or indirect transfer of assets in which (1) the assets constitute a trade or business, and (2) the buyer's basis in the assets is determined wholly by reference to the consideration paid for the assets [I.R.C. § 1060(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031 (gain or loss on disposition of property determined in accordance with federal law)]. A group of assets constitutes a trade or business if use of the assets would constitute an active business for purposes of I.R.C. § 355 (regarding distribution of stock of a controlled corporation)], or if goodwill or going concern value could attach to those assets [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(b)(2)(i)]. A transaction that is part purchase of assets and part like-kind exchange [see I.R.C. § 1031; see also Ch. 24, Exchanges of Real Property] is also subject to these restrictions [I.R.C. § 1060(c)].

[c] Treatment of Applicable Asset Acquisition

In the case of an applicable asset acquisition, for purposes of determining the buyer's basis in the assets and the seller's gain or loss, the consideration received for the assets must be allocated among the assets in accordance with I.R.C. § 338(b)(5) (relating to stock purchases treated as asset acquisitions) [I.R.C. § 1060(a)]. Under I.R.C. § 338(b)(5), allocation is made by the "residual allocation method," generally in accordance with regulations under I.R.C. § 338. The seller substitutes "consideration" for ADSP (aggregate deemed sale price) in making the allocation under the regulations, and the buyer substitutes "consideration" for AGUB (adjusted grossed-up basis) [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6, 1.338-7, 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

Allocation--both to each class and among the assets within each class--is done according to the gross fair market value of the assets [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(a)(2), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]. To make the allocation, assets are first divided into the following seven classes [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(a)(2), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]:

- Class I Assets. Cash and general deposit accounts, including savings and checking accounts [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(1), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class II Assets. Actively traded personal property [see I.R.C. § 1092(d)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.1092(d)-1, but without regard to I.R.C. § 1092(d)(3)] and certificates of deposit and foreign currency, even if they are not actively traded personal property. Assets in Class II include US government securities and publicly traded stock. Class II assets do not include stock of target affiliates, whether or not of a class that is actively traded, other than actively traded stock described in I.R.C. § 1504(a)(4) (certain preferred stock). This restriction excludes target affiliate stock from Class II when the target holds and 80 percent or greater interest in the target affiliate but a minority interest in target affiliate stock of the same class is actively traded [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(ii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class III Assets. Assets that the taxpayer marks to market at least annually for Federal income tax purposes and debt instruments. These assets include accounts receivable, mortgages, and credit card receivables from customers that arise in the ordinary course of business Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]. Class III assets do not include debt instruments issued by persons related to the target at the beginning of the day following the acquisition date, certain contingent debt instruments [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.1275-4, 1.483-4; I.R.C. § 988], (but not those subject to the non-contingent bond method [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.1275-4(b), 1.483-4] or which involve single nonfunctional currencies [see Treas. Reg. § 1.988-2(b)(2)(I)(B)(2)]), or debt instruments convertible into the stock of the issuer of other property [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class IV Assets. Stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind that would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class V Assets. All assets that do not fall in any of the other six classes [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(v), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class VI Assets. All Section 197 intangibles [see I.R.C. § 197] except goodwill and going concern value [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(vi), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class VII Assets. Goodwill and going concern value (whether or not the goodwill or going concern value qualifies as a Section 197 intangible) [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(vii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

The consideration is first reduced by the amount of the Class I assets. Any amount remaining after the reduction is then allocated to the remaining assets [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(1), (2), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]. The remaining consideration is allocated to Class II assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class II asset, then among Class III assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class III asset, then among Class IV assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class IV asset, then among Class V assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class V asset, then among Class VI assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class VI asset, and finally to Class VII assets [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(i), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

In making the above allocations, the seller and purchaser must each adjust the amount allocated to an individual asset to take into account specific identifiable costs incurred in transferring that asset in connection with the applicable asset acquisition (such as real estate transfer costs or security interest perfection costs). Those costs increase (or decrease, as appropriate) the total consideration that is allocated under the residual method. No adjustment is made to amounts allocated to an individual asset for general costs associated with the overall asset acquisition or with groups of assets (such as non-specific appraisal fees or accounting fees). These costs are taken into account only indirectly through their effect on the total consideration to be allocated [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(c)(3); see Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(c)(3)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The allocation of consideration is based on the gross fair market value of the assets [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(a)(2), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]. To substantiate proper valuation, and to reduce the chance of a successful challenge by the IRS upon a later audit, an independent, expert appraisal of the assets should be obtained near the time of the transaction. An appraisal is especially important when the parties do not have a binding allocation agreement.

Both the buyer and the seller must file IRS Form 8594, Asset Acquisition Statement, with the IRS with the following information about the asset acquisition [I.R.C. § 1060(b)]:

- The amount of consideration to be allocated to I.R.C. § 197 intangibles.
- Any modification of the amount to be allocated to I.R.C. § 197 intangibles.
- Any other information about any other assets transferred that the IRS deems necessary. Regulations require information concerning the amount of consideration in the transaction and its allocation among all assets transferred, and information concerning subsequent adjustments to consideration [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(e)(1)(i)].

Form 8594 must be filed with income tax returns for the taxable year that included the first date assets are sold pursuant to the applicable asset acquisition [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.1060-1(e)(1)(ii)(A), effective for asset acquisitions occurring on or after March 15, 2001]. When an increase or decrease in consideration is taken into account in a later taxable year, the seller and the purchaser each must file a supplemental asset acquisition statement on Form 8594 with the income tax return for the taxable year in which the increase or decrease is properly taken into account [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(e)(1)(ii)(B)]. An information return must also be filed in certain entity transfers, as discussed in [5], below.

[d] Allocation Inconsistent With Allocation in Parties' Written Agreement

Any agreement between the parties as to the allocation of any amount of consideration to, or as to the fair market value of, any of the assets generally is binding on them [I.R.C. § 1060(a)], unless they would be permitted under existing legal authority [see Commr. v. Danielson (3d Cir.) 378 F.2d 771 , cert. denied, (1967) 389 U.S. 858] to refute the valuation or allocation, as because of mistake, undue influence, fraud, duress, or similar reason. The IRS, however, may challenge any valuations or allocations if it determines them to be inappropriate [I.R.C. § 1060(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(c)(4)].

[5] Reporting Requirements for Additional Information

When a seller who is a 10-percent owner with respect to any business transfers an interest in that business and the seller (or a related person) enters into an employment contract, a covenant not to compete, a royalty or lease agreement, or other agreement with the buyer in connection with the transfer, the seller and the buyer must furnish any required information to the Secretary [I.R.C. § 1060(e)(1); see I.R.C. § 1060(e)(3) ("related person" defined); see also I.R.C. §§ 267(b), 707(b)(1)]. A "10-percent owner" is any person who holds 10 or more percent, by value, of the interests in the business immediately before the transfer [I.R.C. § 1060(e)(2)(A); see I.R.C. § 1060(e)(2)(B) (constructive ownership rules); see also I.R.C. § 318]. This reporting requirement applies regardless of whether or not the transaction is an applicable asset acquisition that must be reported under I.R.C. § 1060 [see [4][c], [d], above], and, in the case of a stock purchase, whether or not an election is made under I.R.C. § 338 to treat the stock purchase as an asset purchase [House Conf. Rep., Pub. L. No. 101-508, § 11323].

§ 17.12 Evaluating Sales Tax Consequences of Selling a Business

[1] Applicability of Sales Tax

[a] Transactions Subject to State and Local Sales Taxes

The sale of a business may be subject to state sales tax. The Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.] imposes a tax on the gross receipts of a retailer from the sale of tangible personal property sold at retail in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6051-6051.5]. In addition, similar local and transit taxes may be imposed on the gross receipts of a retailer from the sale of tangible personal property sold at retail within authorized counties and transit districts [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 7200 et seq. (Bradley-Burns Uniform Local Sales and Use Tax Law), Rev. & Tax Code § 7251 et seq. (Transactions and Use Tax Law)].

A "retailer" is defined as a seller who makes any retail sale of tangible personal property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6015(a)]. A "retail sale" is a transfer of title or possession of tangible personal property for consideration, for any purpose other than resale in the regular course of business [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6006(a), 6007]. A one-time sale of assets may qualify as a retail sale subject to the imposition of sales tax, even if the seller has never sold personal property at retail before the asset sale [see Santa Fe Energy Co. v. California State Bd. of Equalization (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 176, 182, 206 Cal. Rptr. 499 (oil company subject to sales tax on sale of assets although it never had sold personal property at retail prior to sale)].

"Tangible personal property" is personal property that may be seen, weighed, measured, felt, or touched, or that is perceptible to the senses in any other manner [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6016]. "Gross receipts" are defined as the total amount of the sales prices received from sales, leases, or rentals of tangible personal property sold at retail [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012(a)]. "Sales price" is defined as the total amount for which tangible personal property is sold [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6011(a)]. The total amount includes (1) any services that are a part of the sale, (2) all receipts, cash, credits, and property of any kind, and (3) any amount for which credit is allowed by the seller to the buyer [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6011(b), 6012(b)].

[b] Types of Assets Typically Subject to Sales Tax on Sale of Business

When a business is sold, the seller typically transfers two types of tangible personal property to the buyer: (1) equipment and furniture, and (2) stock in trade and merchandise. Because the stock in trade and merchandise of the business is usually sold to the buyer for purposes of resale in the regular course of business, the sale of that type of property is not taxable as a retail sale [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6007, 6051]. However, the State Board of Equalization may presume that all gross receipts are subject to sales tax. The seller has the burden of proving that a sale of tangible personal property is not a retail sale, unless he or she obtains a resale certificate from the buyer [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6091, 6092]. Because the other business assets, such as furniture and equipment, are not generally sold for resale, the gross receipts from their sale are subject to taxation [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6051-6051.4] unless they are "intangible" or otherwise exempt [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6351 et seq. (exemptions from sales and use tax law)]. The seller must report any taxable proceeds on his or her final sales tax return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6452].

[2] Determining Whether "Occasional Sales" Exemption Is Applicable to Sale

All persons actively engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail must obtain a sales tax permit (often referred to as a "seller's permit" or "resale number") from the State Board of Equalization before making sales in California [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6066, 6071; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1699]. For discussion of the permit, see Ch. 1E, Taxation of Businesses, § 1E.65.

The gross receipts from "occasional sales" of tangible personal property are exempt from the sales and use tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6367]. Two different types of sales qualify as "occasional" sales. First, a sale of all or substantially all of the property held or used in activities requiring a sales tax permit qualifies as an occasional sale if the ultimate ownership of that property is substantially the same after the transfer as it was before the sale [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.5(b)]. An example of a sale in which the ultimate ownership is the same both before and after the transfer is the incorporation of a going business. "Substantially all of the property" means 80 percent or more of all the tangible personal property held or used in the course of activities, including tangible personal property located outside California [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(b)(2)].

Second, a sale of property that is not held or used by a seller in the course of activities for which a sales tax permit is required qualifies as an occasional sale if the sale is not one of a series of sales that are sufficient in number, scope, and character to constitute an activity requiring a sales tax permit [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.5(a)]. Any taxpayer whose business does not involve retail sales, but who makes three or more sales of tangible personal property used in the business for substantial amounts in a 12-month period (or who makes a substantial number of sales for a relatively small amount during that period) will be considered to be a "retailer" subject to the sales tax permit requirement [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6019; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)]. The determination of whether the seller has made sales of "substantial amounts" or has made a "substantial number" of sales is based on sale frequency and dollar value [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(4)(B)]. Therefore, a sale of business furniture and equipment used in a business that does not involve retail sales that is the seller's first or second sale of business property in a year will be exempt from sales tax as an occasional sale [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6006.5(a), 6367].

[3] Evaluating Businesses Making Taxable and Nontaxable Sales

Many businesses require a sales tax permit for only part of their activities [see generally Ch. 1E, Taxation of Businesses, §§ 1E.60-1E.66]. For example, a service business may also sell some tangible personal property, or a retailer may sell both taxable and exempt property. The State Board of Equalization has prescribed rules regarding the taxation of the sale of the business that differentiate between service and nonservice enterprises [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)].

When operators of service enterprises (such as hospitals, hotels, theaters, schools, laundromats, car washes, transportation companies, and trucking companies) that make some sales incidental to their primary service business (such as the sale of popcorn in a theater or soap in a laundromat) sell that service business, only the gross receipts from the tangible personal property used in the selling activity are subject to sales tax [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(5)(A)(1)]. However, if in any 12-month period, the operator of a service enterprise makes more than two sales for substantial amounts [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(4)(B) (determining scope of sale)] of the tangible personal property used in the service enterprise, the gross receipts from those sales are subject to taxation. If one of those multiple sales is a sale of the business, sales tax will apply to the gross receipts from the sale of the tangible personal property used in the service enterprise [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(5)(A)(2)].

For all other businesses that are not essentially service enterprises, sales tax applies to the sale of all business assets. For example, sales tax applies to sales of grocery and liquor stores that sell both exempt food products and taxable items, and pharmacies that sell exempt medicine and taxable items such as bandages [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(5)(B)(1)].

If a service enterprise and a sales business are operated together so as to constitute one business, tax will apply to the sale of all assets of the business. Thus, if a car wash and gas station are operated at the same premises, and the car wash is available only to persons who buy gas, or the price of a car wash is reduced with the sale of gas, sales tax will apply to the sale of the car wash [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(5)(B)(2)].

§ 17.13 Evaluating Property Tax Consequences of Sale

[1] Transferring Real Property in Sale of Business

If the sale of the business includes the real property on which the business is conducted, the buyer faces property tax consequences. All property in California is subject to property taxation at its full value on an annual basis, unless exempt under federal or California law [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 1; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 201, 401].

Real property subject to local property taxation is reassessed when a change in ownership occurs [see Cal. Const. arts. XIII, XIIIA; see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 401, Real Property Valuation and Assessment (Matthew Bender)]. A "change in ownership" is a transfer of a present interest in real property (including beneficial use of the property), the value of which is substantially equal to the value of the fee interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 60]. That change requires the buyer to file a change in ownership statement [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480-480.2; see § 17.129 of the Transaction Guide]. If the change in ownership takes place after March 1 (the assessment date), and the property has appreciated, the buyer will be liable for a supplemental assessment that reflects the difference between the property's taxable value on the current assessment roll, and the new assessed value on the date of the change in ownership. The supplemental assessment will be prorated for the portion of the tax year remaining after the reappraisal [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 75.41, 75.51].

[2] Determining Amount of Property Tax

Property is taxable to the owner based on its fair market value as of the lien date (January 1) preceding the fiscal year for which the taxes are levied [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 405(a), 2192]. Local tax authorities generally assess and collect the property tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 121, 128, 404].

The property tax consequences of the sale of a business depend on whether the property being sold is on the "secured" or "unsecured" tax rolls. Taxes on real property and personal property that is affixed to real property are secured by a lien on the real property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 109]. Personal property that is not affixed to real property is generally on the unsecured roll [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 109, 134]. Therefore, a buyer who purchases property on the secured roll after January 1 takes the property subject to any tax lien [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 109]. He or she needs to investigate whether or not the seller has already paid the taxes, and to negotiate the sales price to reflect the hidden cost of any such lien. However, if the buyer purchases property on the unsecured roll after January 1, he or she will take it free of any tax lien [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 109, 134]. Therefore, a seller of property on the unsecured roll should ensure that the sales price reflects the tax liability, whether already paid or owing by the seller.

For further discussion of the property tax implications of a sale of real property, see "Property Tax--In General" and subsequent headings in Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements.

§ 17.14 Evaluating Effect of Successor Liability Statutes

[1] Withholding Sufficient Portion of Purchase Price to Pay State Taxes

"Successor liability statutes" protect the state of California against business owners who sell their businesses without paying the taxes owed to the state. Successor liability statutes require that any person who purchases a business must withhold enough of the purchase price to cover all amounts that the seller owes for specific state taxes. These statutes are set forth in California's Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6811, 6812], Unemployment Insurance Code [Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1731-1736], and Personal Income Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669 et seq.].

[2] Withholding Sufficient Portion of Purchase Price to Pay Sales and Use Taxes

[a] Withholding Obligation

When a person liable for sales or use taxes sells his or her business or stock of goods, the buyer must withhold a sufficient portion of the purchase price to pay any sales or use taxes that the seller owes to the California State Board of Equalization (SBE) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6811; see Schnyder v. State Board of Equalization (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 538, 546-547, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 571 (purchasers of business did not "withhold" purchase funds as required by statute by initially depositing them with escrow agent and then interpleading them)]. Generally, the buyer should withhold the entire purchase price, rather than just the amount shown as owing on the seller's final sales tax return [see People v. Buckles (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 76, 79, 134 P.2d 8] , since the SBE has the power to examine and audit the books, papers, records, equipment, and business of the seller to determine the amount required to be paid [Rev. & Tax. Code § 7054]. A buyer of the business or stock of goods of any one location of a business establishment that has various locations is considered to be a buyer subject to these withholding rules [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(e)].

[b] Buyer's Failure to Withhold Sufficient Funds

If the buyer fails to withhold sufficient funds from the purchase price, he or she becomes personally liable for the taxes owed, up to the amount of the purchase price of the business or stock of goods [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(a); see

Schnyder v. State Board of Equalization (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 538, 542, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 571 (purchasers of business held personally liable for sales and use taxes as successors under Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812)]. The buyer's liability extends to all amounts incurred in the operation of the business by the seller, including the following [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(b)]:

- Taxes incurred with respect to the operation of the business by the predecessor or any former owner, including the sale of the business [see § 17.12, above], even though not then determined against the predecessor.

- Interest on the predecessor's taxes to the date of payment.

- Penalties for nonpayment of taxes.

- Penalties for negligence or intentional disregard of the Sales and Use Tax Law or authorized rules and regulations.

- Penalties for fraud or an intent to evade the tax determined and unpaid at the time of sale.

However, if the SBE finds that a buyer's failure to withhold a sufficient amount of the purchase price to cover the amount owed by the former owner is due to reasonable cause and circumstances beyond the buyer's control, and occurred notwithstanding the exercise of ordinary care and in the absence of willful neglect, the SBE may relieve the buyer of any penalty included in the notice of successor liability [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6814(b)(1); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(d)].

[c] Tax Clearance Certificate

The buyer is released from the withholding obligations when the seller produces a receipt from the SBE showing that any outstanding taxes have been paid, or the SBE issues a certificate of tax clearance stating that no amount is due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6811; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(c)]. The SBE may issue the certificate after all amounts have either been paid or secured to the satisfaction of the SBE [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6813]. The SBE is required either to issue a certificate of tax clearance, or mail notice to the buyer of the amount of tax, interest, and penalties that must be paid as a condition of issuing that certificate, within 60 days after the latest of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(b); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(c)]:

- The date the SBE receives a written request from the buyer for a certificate [see § 17.300].

- The date of the sale of the business or stock of goods.

- The date the former owner's records are made available for audit.

If the SBE mails a notice of successor liability, the buyer may petition for reconsideration within 30 days of the receipt of this notice [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6814(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6562-6594 (reconsideration procedure)].

The failure of the SBE to mail either a certificate of clearance or a notice of successor liability to the buyer, after written request by the buyer, releases the buyer from any further obligation to withhold the purchase price [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(c); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(c)]. In addition, the buyer is released from any further successor liability for sales and use taxes after three years from the date that the SBE is notified of the purchase of the business or stock of goods [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6814(a); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(d)].

[3] Withholding Sufficient Portion of Purchase Price to Pay Employment Taxes

Unemp. Ins. Code § 1731 provides that the buyer of a business that employs individuals in the business must withhold in trust money or other property sufficient to pay any contributions, interest, and penalties due or unpaid by the seller for unemployment compensation insurance contributions or disability compensation insurance contributions. The withholding must continue until the seller produces a certificate from the Employment Development Department (EDD) stating that no contributions, interest, or penalties are due [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1731].

If the buyer fails to withhold sufficient funds, he or she becomes personally liable for the contributions, interest, or penalties owed, up to the amount of the purchase price [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1733]. If the seller does not produce the certificate, the buyer must pay the amount due at the time of the purchase [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1731].

Within 30 days of a request from either the seller or buyer [see § 17.301], the EDD must issue a certificate of tax clearance or a statement showing the amount due. Failure to issue a certificate or statement within that time will be deemed equivalent to issuance of a tax clearance certificate [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1732(a)]. Issuance of a certificate stating that no contributions, interest, or penalties are due (or the failure to issue such a certificate within 30 days of a request) will not release the seller from liability on account of any contributions, interest, or penalties then or thereafter determined to be due from the seller. It will, however, release the buyer from any further liability on account of any such contributions, interest, or penalties [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1732(b)]. For a list of requirements that the seller must satisfy in order for the EDD to issue a certificate of tax clearance, see § 17.126, Paragraph 2.

[4] Withholding Sufficient Portion of Purchase Price to Pay California Income Tax Withholding

The buyer of a business must withhold in trust either money or other property sufficient to pay any state income taxes, interest, and penalties that the seller was required to deduct and withhold from the wages of its employees, but did not remit to the state [Rev. & Tax. Code 18669]. The buyer must continue to withhold the money or property in trust until the Franchise Tax Board (FTB) issues a certificate stating that no taxes, interest, or penalties are due or unpaid from the seller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(a)]. If the buyer fails to withhold sufficient funds, he or she becomes personally liable for the taxes, interest, or penalties owed, up to the amount of the fair market value of the business acquired [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(d)]. If a the buyer does not request a certificate, the buyer must pay the amount of tax, interest, or penalties due or unpaid by the seller to the FTB on the day the business is acquired [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)].

The FTB must issue a certificate or statement showing the amount of tax, interest, and penalties due from the seller within 60 days after the buyer requests the certificate [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]. Failure to issue a certificate or statement within that time is deemed equivalent to the issuance of a certificate stating that no tax, interest, or penalties are due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]. Issuance of a certificate stating that no taxes, interest, or penalties are due (or the failure to issue a certificate within 60 days of a request) does not release the seller from liability on account of any taxes, interest, or penalties then or thereafter determined to be due from the seller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(c)]. It does, however, release the buyer from any liability on account of any such taxes, interest, or penalties [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(c)].

If the FTB issues a statement showing that taxes, interest, and penalties are claimed to be due from the seller, the buyer must pay the amount stated (not in excess of the fair market value of the business acquired) to the FTB on or before the later of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]:

- Thirty days after the statement is mailed or delivered to the buyer; or
- The day the business is acquired.

Payment by the buyer does not release the seller from liability to the FTB except to the extent of the amount paid by the buyer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(c)]. Late payment by the buyer will result in a penalty of 10 percent of the amount payable [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)].

For additional discussion and a form for requesting a FTB tax clearance, see § 17.302.

§ 17.15 Assignment of Trademarks or Service Marks

[1] "Trademarks" and "Service Marks" Defined

A "trademark" is any word, name, symbol, device, or any combination that (1) is used by a person or (2) is the subject of an application to register on the principal register by a person who has a bona fide intention to use it in commerce, in order to identify and distinguish his or her goods (including a unique product) from those manufactured or sold by others and to indicate the source of the goods, even if that source is unknown [15 U.S.C. § 1127].

A "service mark" is any word, name, symbol, device, or any combination that (1) is used by a person or (2) is the subject of an application to register on the principal register by a person who has a bona fide intention to use it in commerce, in order to identify and distinguish the services of one person (including a unique service) from the services of others and to indicate the source of the services, even if that source is unknown. Titles, character names, and other distinctive features of radio or television programs may be registered as service marks notwithstanding the fact that they, or the programs, may advertise the goods of the sponsor [15 U.S.C. § 1127].

[2] Transferring Trademarks and Service Marks

If a trademark or service mark is used in connection with the business being sold, the seller should assign the mark to the buyer. A federally registered trademark or service mark, or one for which application to register has been filed, is assignable with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark [15 U.S.C. § 1060(a); see 15 U.S.C. § 1060(b) (foreign assignees)]. However, no application to register a mark under 15 U.S.C. § 1051(b) is assignable before the filing of any amendment to conform the application [see 15 U.S.C. § 1051(a), (c)] or the filing of the verified statement of use [see 15 U.S.C. § 1051(d)], except to a successor to the applicant's business, or portion of the business, to which the mark pertains, if that business is ongoing and existing [15 U.S.C. § 1060(a)(1)]. It is not necessary to include the good will of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by any other mark used in the business, or by the name or style under which the business is conducted [15 U.S.C. § 1060(a)(2)].

Assignment is made by executing and recording a written instrument in the Patent and Trademark Office. Acknowledgment constitutes prima facie evidence of the execution of an assignment; when the prescribed information reporting the assignment is recorded, the record constitutes prima facie evidence of execution [15 U.S.C. § 1060(a)(3)]. However, an assignment is void against any subsequent purchaser for valuable consideration without notice, unless the prescribed information reporting the assignment is recorded within 3 months after the date of the assignment or before the subsequent purchase [15 U.S.C. § 1060(a)(4)]. A trademark or service mark registered in California is assignable with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark. Assignment is made by executing, acknowledging, and filing a written instrument with the California Secretary of State, together with the applicable filing fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14260].

An assignment is void as against any subsequent purchaser for valuable consideration without notice, unless the assignment is filed within three months after the date of the assignment or before the subsequent purchase [15 U.S.C. § 1060; Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220.

§ 17.16 Complying With Hazaradous Materials Regulations

[1] Hazardous Materials Defined

A buyer of a business should always be alert to the use and presence of hazardous materials in the business and on the property where the business operates or has operated. In California, "hazardous waste" is defined as waste that because of its quantity, concentration, or physical, chemical, or infectious characteristics may cause or significantly contribute to an increase in mortality or an increase in serious, irreversible, or incapacitating reversible illness or pose a substantial present or potential hazard to human health or the environment, due to factors including but not limited to carcinogenicity, acute toxicity, chronic toxicity, bioaccumulative properties, or persistence in the environment, when improperly treated, stored, transported, or disposed of or otherwise managed [Health & Safety Code §§ 25117(a), 25141(b)]. "Hazardous waste" also includes RCRA hazardous waste [Health & Safety Code § 25117(b)] and, unless expressly provided to the contrary, extremely hazardous waste and acutely hazardous waste [Health & Safety Code § 25117(c)].

[2] Governing Laws

Businesses generating, treating, storing, transporting, or disposing of a wide variety of hazardous wastes may be subject to regulation under the following state and federal laws, including the following:

- The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) [42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.; 40 C.F.R. § 6.100 et seq.; see "National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA)" in the Legal Background to Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits].

- The California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 15000 et seq.; see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA)--General Requirements," et seq.].

- The California Coastal Act of 1976 [Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13001 et seq.; see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "California Coastal Act--Area Covered," et seq.].

In addition, other regulations and restrictions may apply to property located in specific regions [see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "Overview of Environmental Regulations"], or to particular uses on property, such as operation of underground storage tanks [see Health & Safety Code § 25280 et seq.; see also Health & Safety Code § 25284 (buyer of business using underground storage tanks must either obtain new operating permit or have seller transfer original permit)].

[3] Evaluating Compliance and Potential Liability

Liability for past improprieties is a hallmark of much environmental regulation. Violations of environmental laws can subject a company to civil penalties or criminal sanctions. Therefore, compliance with environmental laws should be evaluated by a competent environmental consultant and should consist of the following:

- A review of the seller's compliance with environmental laws to determine the likelihood of civil and criminal penalties and fines;

- A determination of the likelihood that the company could be liable for the cleanup of contaminated properties; and

- An evaluation of the expenses associated with compliance.

Coverage of the environmental regulation of real property is beyond the scope of this chapter. For more detailed discussion, see Ch. 33, Contamination Considerations in Real Property Transactions . For in-depth coverage of environmental law generally, see California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice (Matthew Bender).

§ 17.17 Letter of Intent for Anticipated Sale

[1] Purpose of Letter of Intent

A letter of intent is used to set forth the principal terms of the anticipated contract for the sale of the business. Although letters of intent are most widely used in the sale of publicly traded corporations, they are also helpful when negotiations are expected to be lengthy or when the nature of the business is complex and requires investigation. A letter of intent may not be necessary or appropriate for all business sales. With some sales, especially those of small businesses, it may be more efficient to bypass the letter of intent and proceed directly to the contract of sale. For a sample letter of intent, see the form in § 17.261.

[2] Binding Nature of Letter of Intent

Parties to a sale generally will prefer that a letter of intent not be binding. Contract law determines the enforceability of a letter of intent. Therefore, if parties do not want the letter to be binding, the letter should include a clause that expressly states that the letter is not a binding or enforceable contract. For a sample nonbinding clause, see the form in § 17.261, Paragraph 30.

The parties should exercise caution should be exercised in signing a letter of intent because it may constitute a binding contract if there is not express language stating otherwise [see Levin v. Knight (9th Cir. 1986) 780 F.2d 786, 787 (writing between parties that includes price and subject matter may be binding even if other significant terms are not included)].

Parties to a transaction may expressly provide that only certain provisions of the letter of intent are to be binding. Binding provisions may include the buyer's covenant not to disclose proprietary and confidential information and the seller's covenant to negotiate exclusively with the buyer [see § 17.261[1][b]].

Once the terms and conditions of the sale have been finalized, parties to a transaction typically enter into a binding sales contract.

§ 17.18 Conducting Due Diligence

[1] Purpose of Due Diligence

A business transaction often takes several months or more to complete. During that time, the buyer needs to conduct a diligent investigation to evaluate the operations of the business and to identify any legal or contractual impediments to the anticipated sale. This "due diligence" allows a buyer to determine the risk of any undisclosed liabilities and helps protect a buyer from post-sale litigation. Due diligence is critical in understanding a business and evaluating its worth.

[2] Obtaining Relevant Information About the Business

Due diligence is undertaken by directing inquiries for information directly to the subject business and by investigating and reviewing public records and documents in the custody of third parties. Although due diligence is generally the task of buyer's counsel, seller's counsel may have a responsibility to verify the seller's warranties or legal opinions about the operations of the business. Investigation responsibilities are often allocated to a variety of professionals with expertise in specific areas of business acquisitions. Professionals consulted for purposes of investigation may include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Tax lawyers or accountants.
- Environmental consultants.
- Patent or trademark attorneys.
- Lawyers or experts specializing in employee benefits.
- Investment bankers.
- Real estate appraisers.

- Actuaries.
- Industry specialists.

The division of responsibility for undertaking due diligence should be committed to writing to assure proper and thorough investigation of the business.

[3] Timing of Due Diligence

A buyer should be cautious about entering into a binding sales agreement without first conducting due diligence. In lieu of a binding sales agreement, the seller may require the buyer to enter into a confidentiality agreement or a letter of intent to purchase before allowing a prospective buyer access to key documents and information. This is especially important if the potential buyer is also a potential competitor of the seller. A confidentiality agreement typically will provide that the buyer will hold in confidence all business information acquired during negotiation and investigation.

[4] Assuring Confidentiality of Business Information

Parties to a sale of a business may enter into a confidentiality agreement with respect to particular information exchanged and uncovered during due diligence. This agreement may be included in a letter of intent and should be expressly binding, even if the sale does not proceed to closing. Confidentiality agreements should specify the nature of the information to be kept in confidence, any exceptions to information deemed confidential, and the ongoing obligation to maintain confidentiality even if the sale is not completed. Although confidentiality agreements may be included in a letter of intent [see, e.g., § 17.261[2], Paragraph 19], parties also may execute a separate confidentiality or nondisclosure agreement [see § 17.262].

§ 17.19 Use of Noncompetition Clauses in the Purchase and Sale of a Business

[1] Restricting Regional Competition by Seller

Noncompetition clauses are commonly used to protect the buyer of a business from competition by the seller [see Monogram Industries, Inc. v. Sar Industries, Inc. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 692, 698, 134 Cal. Rptr. 714] . Any person who sells the goodwill of a business, any owner of a business entity who sells or otherwise disposes of all of his or her ownership interest in the business entity, and any owner of a business entity that sells (1) all or substantially all of the business' operating assets together with the business' goodwill, (2) all or substantially all of the operating assets of a division or subsidiary together with that division's or subsidiary's goodwill, or (3) all of the ownership interest of any subsidiary may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business within a specified geographic area in which the sold business, division, or subsidiary conducted business provided that the buyer (or any person deriving title to the goodwill or ownership interest from the buyer) carries on a similar business in that geographic area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601]. Similar provisions apply to a partner on or in anticipation of the partnership's dissolution or that partner's dissociation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16602], and any member on or in anticipation of dissoulution of, or the termination of that member's interest in, a limited liability company (including a series of a limited liability company formed under the laws of a jurisdiction that recognizes such a series [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16602.5; see also Hill Medical Corporation v. Wycoff (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 895, 897, 906-908, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 779 (holding that noncompetition provision in radiologist's stock redemption agreement was void under Bus & Prof. Code § 16600 and did not fall within exception of Bus & Prof. Code § 16601, when business goodwill was not a factor in corporation's repurchase of his shares); Ch. 11A, Cash Purchase of Shares; Ch. 15, Part B, Dissolution of General Partnerships, § 15.501[1][f]; Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 4, Close Corporations ; Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender)].

At common law, a covenant against competition was valid to the extent it was reasonably necessary for the protection of the goodwill purchased by the covenantee [Swenson v. File (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 389, 396, 90 Cal. Rptr. 580, 475 P.2d 852] . Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601 is a codification of this rule of reasonableness [Monogram Industries, Inc. v. Sar Industries, Inc. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 692, 698, 134 Cal. Rptr. 714] . Accordingly, courts have broadly interpreted the territorial restrictions of that section by holding that the areas in which a business is "carried on" embrace more than merely the county or city where the physical plant or office of the business is located [Swenson v. File (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 389, 396, 90 Cal. Rptr. 580, 475 P.2d 852] . For example, in Monogram Industries, Inc. v. Sar Industries, Inc., the territorial limits of a noncompetition agreement were held to be coextensive with the entire area in which a seller conducted all phases of the business, including production, promotional, and marketing activities as well as sales. In that case, in which the seller solicited sales and advertised a product throughout the United States and Canada, a noncompetition agreement covering both of those countries, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands was held to be reasonable, even though the seller did not have actual sales in all those places [Monogram Industries, Inc. v. Sar Industries, Inc. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 692, 702, 134 Cal. Rptr. 714] . A seller's agreement to refrain from carrying on competitive business in all 58 counties in California was enforceable (to support a preliminary injunction in the buyer's action against the seller for violating the agreement) because substantial evidence established that the plaintiff in fact carried on business in all of the counties [Alliant Ins. Servs., Inc. v. Gaddy (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1292, 1303-1306, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 259 (citing Monogram Industries, Inc. v. Sar Industries, Inc.)]. Similarly, a court found that a business that before its sale had substantial sales in 30 different California counties, but had physical plants and offices only in San Francisco and Los Angeles, "carried on" business in all 30 counties. The seller's covenant not to carry on a similar business in California therefore was held enforceable in all 30 counties where the business had substantial sales [Kaplan v. Nalpak Corp. (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 197, 203, 322 P.2d 226] .

The seller of a business may be in violation of an agreement to refrain from carrying on a similar business in a specified city if he or she opens a similar business just outside the city [Roberts v. Pfefer (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 93, 98, 91 Cal. Rptr. 308] . However, a seller did not violate a noncompetition agreement, even though his office was located in an adjoining area, when he had only isolated, occasional transactions not substantially affecting the competitive position of the sold business in the area or with residents of the area in which the sold business had been carried on [Swenson v. File (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 389, 397, 90 Cal. Rptr. 580, 475 P.2d 852] .

For a discussion of covenants not to compete in the context of an employment relationship, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements .

[2] In Sale of Law Practice

An attorney may not enter into a noncompetition agreement in connection with the sale of his or her law practice unless he or she intends to permanently retire from the practice of law [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500(B)]. For discussion, see § 17.22[5][c].

[3] Using Liquidated Damages Clause to Remedy Breach of Noncompetition Agreement

The parties should consider fixing damages in the event a noncompetition agreement is breached. A liquidated damages provision is valid unless the party seeking to invalidate it can establish that it was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code § 1671; see Weber, Lipshie & Co. v. Christian (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 645, 656-657, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (partnership agreement's liquidated damages provision, which provided that damages to accounting firm for loss of fees from breach of covenant would be measured by doubling firm's time charges for clients lost due to breach for 12 months immediately preceding their loss, was enforceable under Civ. Code § 1671)]. For discussion of liquidated damages provisions in contracts generally, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.251. For an example and discussion of a liquidated damages provision for a noncompetition agreement in an employment contract, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements . For discussion of the special requirements applicable to a liquidated damages provision in a contract for the sale of real property, see § 17.201[1][h].

§ 17.20 Business Transfers Governed by Bulk Sales Division of Commercial Code

[1] Protecting Creditors From Seller Fraud

The Uniform Commercial Code--Bulk Transfers Division of the California Commercial Code [see former Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] was adopted to ensure that the owner of a business does not defraud creditors by either (1) selling the business for less than the market price and paying creditors less than the amount owed or (2) simply selling the business to a good faith purchaser and disappearing with the proceeds [see California Code Comment to former Com. Code § 6101 (adopting without change Comment to U.C.C. § 6-601)]. The bulk transfer provisions were substantially revised and recodified as the Uniform Commercial Code--Bulk Sales Division ("Bulk Sales Division") [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111], generally applicable to bulk sales if date of the bulk sale is on or after January 1, 1991 [Com. Code § 6111(a); see Com. Code § 6102(a)(7) ("date of bulk sale" defined); but see Com. Code § 6111(b) (transitional rules when date of bulk sale is on or after January 1, 1991, but date of bulk sale agreement is before that date)].

To protect creditors, the Bulk Sales Division requires a buyer to record and publish advance notice of the sale [see Com. Code §§ 6104(b), 6105]. Further, in a small cash sale of not more than $2,000,000, the buyer or escrow agent is authorized to impound and control the distribution of the proceeds, and must apply the sale proceeds to the seller's debts before paying the seller [see Com. Code §§ 6106.2, 6106.4]. A seller's "creditors" are "claimants" or other persons holding specified types of claims incurred in the seller's business [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(5), (6)].

[2] "Bulk Sales" Defined

[a] Sales Subject to Bulk Sales Division

A "bulk sale" is any sale outside the ordinary course of the seller's business of more than one half of seller's inventory and equipment, as measured by the fair market value on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6102(a), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), (3), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined)]. A sale is "in the ordinary course of the seller's business" if the sale comports with usual or customary practices in the kinds of business in which the seller is engaged or with the seller's own usual or customary practices [Com. Code § 6102(a)(13)].

The term "bulk sale" also encompasses such a sale when conducted by auction, and a sale or series of sales conducted by a liquidator on the seller's behalf [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3)(i)].

[b] Sales Exempt From Bulk Sales Division

The following categories of sales are exempt from the requirements of the Bulk Sales Division:

- A transfer made to secure payment or performance of an obligation [Com. Code § 6103(c)(1)].
- A transfer of collateral to a secured party pursuant to Com. Code § 9609 [Com. Code § 6103(c)(2)].
- A disposition of collateral pursuant to Com. Code § 9610 [Com. Code § 6103(c)(3)].
- The acceptance of collateral pursuant to Com. Code § 9620 [Com. Code § 6103(c)(4)].
- A sale of an asset encumbered by a security interest or lien if (1) all the sale proceeds are applied in partial or total satisfaction of the debt secured by the security interest or lien or (2) the security interest or lien is enforceable against the asset after the asset has been sold to the buyer and the net contract price is zero [Com. Code § 6103(c)(5)].
- A general assignment for the benefit of creditors or a subsequent transfer by the assignee [Com. Code § 6103(c)(6)].
- A sale by an executor, administrator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, debtor in possession, or any public officer under judicial process [Com. Code § 6103(c)(7)].
- A sale made in the course of judicial or administrative proceedings for the dissolution or reorganization of an organization [Com. Code § 6103(c)(8)].
- A sale to a buyer whose principal place of business is in the United States [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(14)] if the buyer assumes all debts owed to claimants of whom the buyer has knowledge on the date that the buyer receives the seller's list of creditors or completes reasonable inquiry, records and publishes notice of the assumption, and is not insolvent after the assumption [Com. Code § 6103(c)(9); see Com. Code §§ 6103(d) (contents of notice), 6105].
- A sale to a buyer whose principal place of business is in the United States [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(14)] if the buyer assumes all debts incurred in the seller's business before the date of the bulk sale [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(7)], is not insolvent after the assumption, and records and publishes notice of the assumption not later than 30 days after the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6103(c)(10); see Com. Code §§ 6103(e) (contents of notice), 6105].
- A sale to a new organization that is organized to take over and continue the seller's business and that has its principal place of business in the United States [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(14)] if the buyer assumes all debts incurred in the seller's business before the date of the bulk sale [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(7)], the seller receives nothing from the sale except an interest in the new organization that is subordinate to any claims against the organization arising from the assumption, and the buyer records and publishes notice of the assumption not later than 30 days after the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6103(c)(11); see Com. Code §§ 6103(e) (contents of notice), 6105].
- A sale of assets having either (a) a value, net of liens and security interests, of less than $10,000 or

(b) a value of more than $5 million on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6103(c)(12); see Com. Code § 6103(f) (valuation); see also Com. Code § 6102(a)(8) (date of agreement)].

- A sale required by and made pursuant to statute [Com. Code § 6103(c)(13)].

- A transfer of personal property in connection with a sale/leaseback if the transfer is exempt under Civ. Code § 3440.1(k) (transfers without delivery) [Com. Code § 6103(c)(14); see Com. Code § 10308].

- A transfer of personal property in connection with a sale/leaseback if there has been compliance with Civ. Code § 3440.1(h), requiring the filing of a financing statement [see Com. Code §§ 9501 et seq.] with the Secretary of State and the publication of notice of the intended transfer [Com. Code § 6103(c)(14)].

- A transfer that is subject to and complies with the license transfer requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070-24082], such as the transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license, if the transferee records and publishes the requisite notice of transfer at least 12 business days before the transfer is consummated [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Com. Code § 6105(a)(1)-(4); see also Ch. 18, Buying and Selling a Retail Alcoholic Beverage License and Business].

- A transfer of goods in a warehouse when a warehouseman has issued a warehouse receipt [see Com. Code § 7102; see also § 54A.200 in Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods], and a copy of the receipt is kept at the warehouseman's principal place of business and at the warehouse where the goods are stored [Com. Code § 6103(c)(16)].

[3] Determining if Business Is Subject to Bulk Sales Division

The Bulk Sales Division applies to a bulk sale if both of the following conditions exist:

- The seller's principal business is the sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1)]; and

- The seller is located in California, or is located in jurisdiction outside the United States but has its major American executive office in California, on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2)].

A seller is deemed to be located at its place of business or, if the seller has more than one place of business, at its chief executive office [Com. Code § 6103(b)].

The "date of bulk sale agreement" means either of the following [Com. Code § 6102(a)(8)]:

- In the case of a sale by auction or conducted by a liquidator on the seller's behalf, the date on which the seller engages the auctioneer or liquidator; or

- In all other cases, the date on which the bulk sale agreement becomes enforceable between the buyer and the seller.

The "date of bulk sale" means either of the following [Com. Code § 6102(a)(7)(i)]:

- In the case of a sale by auction or conducted by a liquidator on the seller's behalf, the date on which more than 10 percent of the net proceeds is paid to or for the benefit of the seller; or

- In all other cases, the later of the date on which more than 10 percent of the net contract price is paid to or for the benefit of the seller, or the date on which more than 10 percent of the assets, as measured by value, are transferred to the buyer.

If the contract price is deposited in an escrow, the contract price is "paid to or for the benefit of the seller" as of the earlier of the dates when (1) the seller acquires the unconditional right to receive the deposit or (2) the date when the deposit is delivered to or for the benefit of the seller [Com. Code § 6102(a)(7)(ii)(B)].

[4] Failure to Comply With Bulk Sales Division

[a] Buyer's Liability

In general, if a buyer fails to comply with the bulk sale notice requirements with respect to one or more claimants, the buyer is liable for damages in the amount of any claims against the seller, less any amount that the claimant would not have realized if the buyer had complied with the notice requirements [Com. Code § 6107(a)]. The claimant has the burden of establishing the validity and amount of the claim, and the buyer has the burden of establishing the amount that the claimant would not have realized if the buyer had complied [Com. Code § 6107(b)]. If the buyer pays a claim to a creditor based on the buyer's failure to comply with the notice requirements, that payment discharges pro tanto the seller's debt to the creditor [Com. Code § 6107(i)]. Further, unless the buyer and seller agree to the contrary, the buyer has an immediate right of reimbursement from the seller for any amount paid to a creditor in partial or total satisfaction of the buyer's liability under Com. Code § 6107(a) [Com. Code § 6107(j)].

[b] Exception When Buyer Has Made Good Faith Effort to Comply

Despite the general rule of liability for failure to comply with the bulk sale notice requirements, a buyer who makes a good faith and commercially reasonable effort to comply with the bulk sale notice requirements, or to exclude the sale from the application of the bulk sale requirements, is not liable to creditors for failure to comply with the notice requirements [Com. Code § 6107(c)]. The buyer has the burden of establishing the good faith and commercial reasonableness of the effort [Com. Code § 6107(c)].

[c] Limitations on Buyer's Liability

The amount of cumulative liability of the buyer in a single bulk sale for failure to comply with the bulk sale notice requirements is subject to certain limitations [see Com. Code § 6107(d)-(f)], and no action may be brought by or on behalf of a claimant whose claim is unliquidated or contingent [Com. Code § 6107(g)]. A buyer's failure to comply with the bulk sale notice requirements [see Com. Code § 6104] does not impair the buyer's rights in or title to the assets; render the sale ineffective, void, or voidable; entitle a creditor to more than a single satisfaction of its claim; or create liability other than that provided in the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6107(h)].

[d] Time for Commencement of Action

An action under the Bulk Sales Division against a buyer, auctioneer, or liquidator must ordinarily be commenced within one year after the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6110(a)]. However, if the buyer, auctioneer, or liquidator conceals the fact that the bulk sale has occurred, the statute of limitations is tolled, and an action may be commenced within the earlier of (1) one year after the person bringing the action discovers that the sale has occurred or (2) one year after the person bringing the action should have discovered that the sale has occurred, but no later than two years after the date of the bulk sale. Complete noncompliance with the Bulk Sales Division does not in and of itself establish concealment [Com. Code § 6110(b)].

[5] Complying With Notice Requirements Under Bulk Sales Division

[a] Notice of Sale

In any bulk sale subject to the Bulk Sales Division, the buyer must do all of the following [Com. Code § 6104; see Com. Code § 6106.2]:

- Obtain from the seller a list of all business names and addresses used by the seller within three years before the date that the list is sent or delivered to the buyer;
- Give notice of the bulk sale; and
- Comply with the distribution requirements applicable to small cash bulk sales.

The notice referred to above must state all of the following [Com. Code § 6105; see § 17.270]:

- That a bulk sale is about to be made.
- The names and business addresses of the buyer and seller. The buyer must include all other business names and addresses used by the seller within the past three years, to the extent known.
- The location and general description of the property to be transferred.
- The place and the anticipated date of the bulk sale [see [1], [3], above].
- Whether or not the bulk sale is subject to Com. Code § 6106.2, which governs creditor claims in sales for which the consideration is (a) $2 million or less, and (b) substantially all cash, an obligation to pay cash in the future, or a combination of the two [Com. Code § 6106.2(a)].

In a small cash sale [Com. Code § 6106.2(a); see the fifth bulleted item, above], the notice must also state the name and address of the person with whom claims may be filed and the last date (which must be the business day before the noticed sale date) for filing claims [Com. Code §§ 6105(a)(5), 6106.2(f)].

In a bulk sale by auction or liquidation, the notice must be accompanied by a statement that the sale will be by auction or liquidation. The statement must include the name of the auctioneer or liquidator, and the time and place of the auction or the time and place on or after which the liquidator will begin to sell assets on the seller's behalf [Com. Code § 6108(a)(3)].

[b] Recording, Publishing, and Delivering Notice

At least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale, the buyer must take three actions with respect to the notice of bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)]. A "business day" is any day other than a Saturday, Sunday, or day observed as a holiday by the California state government [Com. Code § 6105(b)].

First, the buyer must record the notice in the office of the county recorder of the county or counties in California in which the tangible assets are located and, if different, in the county in which the seller is located at least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(1); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see also Com. Code § 6102(a)(7) ("date of bulk sale" defined)].

Second, the buyer must publish the bulk sale notice at least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see Com. Code § 6102(a)(7)]. The notice must be published at least once in a newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district in which the tangible assets are located and, if different, in the judicial district in which the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2)] If no such newspaper exists, the notice must be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the judicial district is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2)]. If the tangible assets are located in more than one judicial district, the notice must be published in the judicial district in which a greater portion of the assets are located and, if different, the judicial district in which the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b); see Com. Code § 6103(b)].

Third, the buyer must deliver the notice or send the notice by registered or certified mail to the county tax collector in the California county or counties in which the tangible assets are located at least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(3)]. In addition, if the notice is delivered or sent during the period from January 1 to May 7, inclusive, it must be accompanied by a completed business property statement with respect to the property involved in the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(3); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 441 (procedure for filing property statements)].

One court, reading Com. Code § 6105 in light of the legislative intent, has held that the notice must be published and recorded at least 12 business days before the anticipated sale date as specified in the notice (as opposed to the actual sale date). Otherwise, creditors do not have sufficient time to file a timely claim [Gifford v. J&A Holdings (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 996, 999, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 253 (postponing actual date of sale until 12 business days after recordation did not comply with literal terms of statute; postponement without notice did not constitute good faith effort at compliance under Com. Code § 6107(c))].

[6] Paying Creditor Claims

[a] Transactions Subject to Requirements

The Bulk Sales Division imposes additional requirements on the payment of creditor claims when the consideration for the bulk sale is $2 million or less and is either substantially all cash, an obligation of the buyer to pay cash in the future to the seller, or a combination of the two [see Com. Code § 6106.2(a), (b); see also Com. Code § 6106.4]. Bulk sales fitting this description are commonly referred to as "small cash sales."

[b] Obligations of Buyer

In a small cash sale, the buyer (or an escrow agent if the transaction is handled through an escrow) has a duty to apply the consideration in accordance with statutory distribution requirements [see Com. Code § 6106.2(a), (b); see Com. Code § 6106.4 (escrow duties and distribution)]. This duty extends so far as is necessary to pay those debts of the seller for which claims are both (1) due and payable on or before the date of the bulk sale and (2) filed in writing on or before the date specified as the last date to file claims with the person designated in the notice to receive claims [Com. Code § 6106.2(b); see Com. Code §§ 6105(b), 6106.2(f)]. The buyer or escrow agent owes this duty to each creditor who files a timely claim [Com. Code § 6106.2(b)]. However, this duty does not apply to sales made at auction, or sales or series of sales conducted by a liquidator on the seller's behalf [Com. Code § 6106.2(b)].

These requirements were designed to ensure that the sales proceeds will not be dissipated before the creditors have a chance to collect on their claims. Because of the added burden on the buyer, no particular method of withholding the funds is imposed. The buyer may withhold and pay out the funds, use a separate account for that purpose, or use an escrow agent [see Bender' S Uniform Commercial Code Service--Sales and Bulk Transfers, Ch. 15, Bulk Transfers--Article 6 (Matthew Bender)].

[c] Submission of Claims to Seller; Disputed Claims

The buyer or escrow agent should submit all creditor claims to the seller for approval or rejection. If the seller disputes whether a claim is due and payable on the noticed sale date, or disputes the amount of any claim, the buyer or escrow agent must withhold from distribution an amount specified by statute (or the pro rata amount determined when the cash available in escrow for distribution is insufficient to pay all claims in full [see Com. Code § 6106.4(b); see also [7], below]) and give written notice to the claimant within two business days after distribution that the amount will be paid to the seller (or to the other claimants, if necessary, when the cash available for distribution is insufficient) unless attached by the claimant within 25 days from the mailing of the notice [Com. Code § 6106.2(c)]. The buyer or escrow agent must pay to the seller (or to the other claimants, when necessary) any portion of the amount withheld that is not attached within that time.

An attachment is limited in its effect to the amount withheld for the attaching claimant, and will give that claimant no greater priority or rights with respect to the claim than the claimant would have had if the claim had not been disputed [Com. Code § 6106.2(c)]. A claimant may obtain the issuance of an attachment for a claim that is less than $500 and that otherwise meets the requirements of, or that is a secured claim or lien of the type described in, Code Civ. Proc. § 483.010. This remedy is in addition to any other remedies that the claimant may have, including any right to attach the property intended to be transferred or any other property [Com. Code § 6106.2(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 481.010 et seq. (Attachment Law)].

[d] Payment of Undisputed Claims

With respect to timely claims that the seller does not dispute, the buyer or escrow agent, within 45 days after closing (that is, passing of legal title), must either (1) pay the claims to the extent of the cash consideration, or (2) institute an interpleader action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386(b) (action requires various creditors to interplead and litigate their claims against one debtor); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 314, Interpleader (Matthew Bender)] in the appropriate court for the county where the seller had its principal place of business, and deposit the sale consideration with the clerk of that court [Com. Code § 6106.2(e)].

If the cash consideration payable is insufficient to pay all of the claims received in full, and no escrow has been established [see Com. Code § 6106.4], the buyer must follow escrow procedures specified by statute [Com. Code § 6106.2(d); see [7], below].

[7] Paying Creditors When Claims Exceed Cash Deposit

[a] Deposit of Purchase Price With Escrow Agent

Whenever the notice of a bulk sale with consideration of $2 million or less payable in cash [see Com. Code § 6106.2(a)] states that claims may be filed with an escrow agent, the intended buyer must deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration with the escrow agent. If at the time the bulk sale is otherwise ready to be consummated (that is, the seller is otherwise ready to pass title to the buyer), the amount of cash deposited or agreed to be deposited at or before the consummation is insufficient to pay in full all of the claims filed with the escrow agent, the escrow agent must follow the special procedures set forth in [b]-[e], below [Com. Code § 6106.4]. If no escrow has been established, the buyer must follow these procedures [Com. Code § 6106.2(d)].

[b] Delay of Closing and Written Notice to Creditors

First, the escrow agent or buyer must delay the passing of legal title and distribution of the consideration for not less than 25 nor more than 30 days from the date of mailing a notice of the delayed closing to creditors [Com. Code § 6106.4(a)(1)]. Within five business days after the time the transfer would otherwise have closed, the escrow agent or buyer must send a written notice of the delayed closing and insufficiency to each creditor who has filed a claim, stating the following [Com. Code § 6106.4(a)(2), (c)]:

- The total consideration deposited or agreed to be deposited in the escrow.
- The name of each claimant who filed a claim against the escrow and the amount of each claim.

- The amount proposed to be paid to each claimant.

- The new date scheduled for the closing (that is, passing of legal title).

- The date on or before which distribution will be made to claimants, which must not be more than five days after the new date specified for the passing of legal title.

- If an obligation to pay cash in the future is part of the consideration, the amount, terms, and due dates of the obligation and the portion of the claims expected to be paid from it [see Com. Code § 6106.4(c)].

If the escrow agent or buyer receives no written objection to the distribution described in this notice before the new date specified for the passing of legal title, the escrow agent or buyer will not be liable to any person to whom the notice was sent for any good faith error that may have been committed in allocating and distributing the consideration as stated in the notice [Com. Code § 6106.4(a)(3)].

[c] Distribution to Creditors in Order of Priority

Next, the escrow agent or buyer must distribute, on the new closing date specified in the notice to creditors, the consideration to the following claims in the following order of priority [Com. Code § 6106.4(b)]:

- All obligations owing to the United States, to the extent given priority by federal law.

- Secured claims, including statutory and judicial liens, to the extent of the consideration fairly attributable to the value of the properties securing the claims and in accordance with the priorities provided by law [see Civ. Code §§ 2897-2899 (priority of liens); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences (Matthew Bender)]. However, a secured creditor will participate in the distribution only after depositing a release of lien conditioned on receiving an amount equal to that distribution [Com. Code § 6106.4(b)].

- Escrow and professional charges and broker's fees attributable directly to the sale.

- Unpaid employee wage claims earned within 90 days prior to the sale, transfer, or opening of the escrow [Com. Code § 6106.4(b)(4); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1205].

- All other tax claims.

- All other unsecured claims pro rata, including any deficiency claims of partially secured creditors.

[d] Allocation of Principal and Interest on Buyer's Future Payment Obligations

Finally, to the extent that an obligation of the buyer to pay cash in the future is a part of the consideration, and the cash consideration is not sufficient to pay all claims filed in full, the escrow agent or buyer must apply all principal and interest received on the obligation to the payment of claims in the order of priority listed above until they are paid in full, before making any payment to the seller [Com. Code § 6106.4(c)].

[e] Payment for Commissions and Related Expenses

No funds may be drawn from the escrow, before the completion and closing of the escrow, for the payment, in whole or in part, of any commission, fee, or other consideration as compensation for a service that is contingent on the performance of any act, condition, or instruction set forth in the escrow [Com. Code § 6106.4(c)].

[8] Considering Special Rules for Bulk Sale Auctions and Liquidations

The buyer's duties under the Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code § 6104], the notice requirements [see Com. Code § 6105], and the liability provisions [see Com. Code § 6107] generally apply to bulk sales by auction and to bulk sales conducted by liquidators on the sellers' behalf [Com. Code § 6108(a)]. However, certain modifications must be made [see, e.g., Com. Code § 6108(a)(3) (additional notice requirement)]. For example, when the sale is by auctioneers or liquidators, the term "buyer" refers to the auctioneer or liquidator [Com. Code § 6108(a)(1)]. Thus a person who buys at a bulk sale by auction or conducted by a liquidator is not the "buyer" for purposes of the Bulk Sales Division, need not comply with the buyer notice duties, and is not liable for the failure of an auctioneer or liquidator to comply with his or her duties under the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6108(c)].

In a single bulk sale, the cumulative liability of the auctioneer or liquidator for failure to comply with his or her duties [see Com. Code § 6108] may not exceed the amount of the net proceeds of the sale allocable to inventory and equipment sold, less the amount of the portion of any part of the net proceeds paid to or applied for the benefit of a creditor that is allocable to inventory and equipment [Com. Code § 6108(a)(4)]. The term "net contract price" refers to the net proceeds of the auction or the liquidation sale or series of sales [Com. Code § 6108(a)(2)]. A payment made by the auctioneer or liquidator to a person to whom the auctioneer or liquidator is, or believes himself or herself to be, liable reduces pro tanto the auctioneer's or liquidator's cumulative liability [Com. Code § 6108(b)].

§ 17.21 Evaluating Transaction Under Laws Governing Fraudulent Transfers

[1] Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act

The Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Civ. Code §§ 3439-3439.12] provides that a transfer made by a debtor is fraudulent as to any creditor, whether the creditor's claim arose before or after the transfer was made or the obligation was incurred, if the debtor made the transfer either (1) with actual intent to hinder, delay, or defraud the creditor, or (2) without receiving a reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the transfer, when the debtor was engaged or about to engage in a business or transaction for which the remaining assets were unreasonably small, or when the debtor intended to incur debts beyond his or her ability to pay them as they became due [see Civ. Code § 3439.04; see also Sanwa Bank California v. Chang (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1314, 1317-1318, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330 (creditor brought action against wife after husband transferred family residence to her and then failed to include it in his bankruptcy estate)]. With respect to a creditor whose claim arose before the transfer, the transfer is also considered to be fraudulent if the debtor (1) did not receive a reasonably equivalent value for the transfer, and (2) the debtor was insolvent at that time or became insolvent as a result of the transfer [Civ. Code § 3439.05; see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments]. A showing of good faith and reasonably equivalent value is sufficient to defeat a creditor's action pursuant to Civ. Code §§ 3439.04(a), (b), 3439.05 [Civ. Code § 3439.08; see, e.g., Annod Corporation v. Hamilton & Samuels (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 1286, 1294-1295, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 924 (affirming summary judgment for defendants in fraudulent conveyance action brought by landlord against partners who took partnership draws rather than paying rent)].

This Act is designed to prevent debtors from placing property beyond the reach of their creditors when the property legitimately should be made available to satisfy the creditors' demands [see Chichester v. Mason (1941) 43 Cal. App. 2d 577, 584, 111 P.2d 362 (decided under former Civ. Code §§ 3439, 3442)]. A transfer made to defraud creditors, however, may be attacked only by one who is injured by the transfer [see, e.g., Mehrtash v. Mehrtash (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 75, 80-81, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 802 (plaintiff failed to show she was injured by transfer of heavily mortgaged property when she produced no evidence that value of property could support any net recovery for her in event conveyance were set aside)]. The parties may avoid application of the Act to the sale of a business by ensuring that they obtain a professional evaluation of the fair market value of the business. The manner in which a business should be evaluated or priced by a prospective buyer is beyond the scope of this chapter. For further discussion of the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances, § 270.30 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

[2] Civil Code Provisions Applicable to Transfers of Personal Property Without Delivery

The Civil Code also contains provisions rendering fraudulent certain transfers of personal property without delivery [see Civ. Code §§ 3440-3440.9]. A transfer of personal property by a person with possession is void against the creditors of the debtor and subsequent good faith purchasers if the transfer is not accompanied by an immediate delivery and an actual and continued change of possession [see Civ. Code § 3440]. Various types of property, however, are exempted [see Civ. Code § 3440.1]. These provisions are intended to prevent the deception of creditors arising out of the ostensible ownership of the property by a debtor who has made a secret transfer of the property [see Dersch v. Thomas (1934) 138 Cal. App. (Supp.) 785, 789, 30 P.2d 630] . For further discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances, § 270.70 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

§ 17.22 Special Considerations for Purchase and Sale of Professional Practices

[1] Professional Practices Defined

A "professional practice" is a business for the performance of specialized services by a person who has qualified, by reason of education or training, to perform those services. The Professional Corporation Act [Corp. Code §§ 13400-13410] defines professional services as those services that may be lawfully rendered only pursuant to a license, certification, or registration authorized by the Business and Professions Code, the Osteopathic Act, the Chiropractic Act, or the Yacht and Ship Brokers Act [Corp. Code §§ 13401(a), 13401.3; see Ch. 12A, Professional Corporations]. Medical, dental, accounting, and legal practices are typical professional practices.

[2] Sale of Business Goodwill

Goodwill is one of the most valuable assets of a professional practice. "Goodwill" is defined as the expectation of continued patronage [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14100]. Continued patronage by the business's clients depends on the personal skill of the professional and the confidence those clients have in him or her [see Lyon v. Lyon (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 519, 524-525, 54 Cal. Rptr. 829] .

The goodwill of a business is transferable property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14102]. A person transferring the goodwill of a business may transfer with it the right to use the name under which the business is conducted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14103]. The goodwill of a business, however, does not otherwise include a right to use the name of any person from whom the business was acquired [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14101]. For further discussion, see § 17.217[1][b].

Any person who sells the goodwill of a business, any owner of a business who sells or otherwise disposes of all of his or her ownership interest in the business entity, and any owner of a business entity that sells (1) all or substantially all of the business' operating assets together with the business' goodwill, (2) all or substantially all of the operating assets of a division or subsidiary together with that division's or subsidiary's goodwill, or (3) all of the ownership interest of any subsidiary may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business within a specified geographic area in which the sold business, division, or subsidiary conducted business provided that the buyer (or any person deriving title to the goodwill or ownership interest from the buyer) carries on a similar business in that geographic area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601; see Hill Medical Corporation v. Wycoff (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 895, 897, 906-908, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 779 (holding that noncompetition provision in radiologist's stock redemption agreement was void under Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600 and did not fall within exception of Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601, when business goodwill was not a factor in corporation's repurchase of his shares)]. Use of a noncompetition agreement will help ensure that the buyer, rather than the seller, receives the patronage of the practice's existing clients. For an example and discussion of a noncompetition provision, see § 17.213. Special restrictions apply to noncompetition agreements regarding the practice of law [see [5][c], below].

[3] Transferring Work in Progress

The burden of an obligation (that is, the required performance or duty) may not be transferred unless the party entitled to its benefit consents to the transfer [Civ. Code § 1457]. Therefore, in order for the seller to transfer work in progress to the buyer, the seller must first obtain the consent of the client or patient for whom the work was begun.

"Personal service" contracts, which call for the skill or other personal quality of the promisor, are not assignable. Performance by an assignee would be essentially different from that for which the promisee contracted [Coykendall v. Jackson (1936) 17 Cal. App. 2d 729, 731, 62 P.2d 746] . Even a formal recital of assignability in a contract is not binding if the parties intended a purely personal obligation [Davis v. Basalt Rock Co. (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 436, 444-445, 237 P.2d 338] . However, if the services required may be performed by another as satisfactorily as by the promisor, or if the contract by its terms shows that performance by others was contemplated, the obligation may be assigned despite its apparently "personal nature" [Estate of Burke (1926) 198 Cal. 163, 167-168, 244 P. 340 ; see Didier v. American Gas Co. (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 742, 750, 68 Cal. Rptr. 217] . For further discussion, see Ch. 92, Service Contracts .

Additional restrictions are imposed on the transfer of legal work [see [5], below].

[4] Determining Applicability of Tax Laws in Transfer of Professional Practice

Generally, a professional practice will not have a seller's permit issued by the Board of Equalization (SBE) because the business sells services, rather than tangible personal property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1501]. The sale of the practice will be exempt from sales tax as an "occasional sale," unless it is the seller's third sale of tangible personal property used in the practice during the past 12 months [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.5; 18 Cal. Code Reg. 1595; see also § 17.12[2]]. The contract for the sale of any professional practice that has employees must provide for withholding of the purchase price until receipt of a tax clearance certificate from the Employment Development Department [see Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1731, 1733].

[5] Sale of Law Practice

[a] Sale to Another Bar Member of Law Firm

Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300 provides that, subject to the rules discussed in [b], below, all or substantially all of a living or deceased California Bar member's law practice, including goodwill, may be sold to another bar member or law firm. Admission to or retirement from a law partnership or corporation, retirement plan, or similar arrangement, or sale of the tangible assets of a law practice, is not deemed to be a sale or purchase for purposes of Rule 2-300 [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(F)].

[b] Conditions of Sale

When a law practice is sold, the fees charged to clients must not be increased solely by reason of the sale [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(A)]. In addition, if the rules of the court or other tribunal in which a matter is pending require a substitution of attorney, the parties must take all steps necessary for the substitution [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(C); see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-700 (attorney must obtain permission to withdraw from proceeding in tribunal, when required by tribunal's rules)]. Furthermore, all the activities of a buyer or potential buyer must comply with Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rules 3-300 (avoidance of adverse interests) and 3-310 (avoidance of representing adverse interests) [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(D)]. Neither party may disclose confidential information to a nonmember of the California Bar in connection with the sale [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(E)]. Finally, if the sale contemplates the transfer of responsibility for work not yet completed, or responsibility for client files or information that the attorney is required to keep confidential [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(e) (attorney has duty to preserve secrets of his or her clients)], each client must receive written notice prior to the transfer, and consent in writing to the transfer [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)]. For an example of that notice and consent, and discussion of applicable requirements, see § 17.273.

[c] Agreement Not to Practice Law Generally Unenforceable

Although restricting the right of its former owner to compete with the business would be an effective way of protecting the goodwill of a business [see [2], above; see also § 17.273], Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500, limits the use of noncompetition agreements applicable to attorneys. That rule provides that a member of the California Bar must not be a party to, or participate in offering or making an agreement, whether in connection with the settlement of a lawsuit or otherwise, if the agreement restricts the right of a member to practice law [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500(A)]. However, that limitation will not be construed to prohibit a noncompetition agreement that either (1) is a part of an employment, shareholders', or partnership agreement among members, so long as the restrictive agreement does not survive the termination of the employment, shareholder, or partnership relationship; or (2) requires payments to a member upon his or her retirement from the practice of law [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500(A)]. Thus it appears that an attorney may not enter into a noncompetition agreement in connection with the sale of his or her law practice unless he or she intends to permanently retire from the practice of law [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500(A)]. A member must not be a party to or participate in offering or making an agreement that precludes the reporting of a violation of that rule [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500(B)].

[d] Providing Notice to Client

When the sale of a law practice contemplates the transfer of responsibility for work not yet completed, or responsibility for client files or information that the attorney is required to keep confidential [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(e) (attorney has duty to preserve secrets of his or her clients)], the seller must send written notice to each client whose uncompleted case or confidential files will be transferred, not less than 90 days prior to the transfer [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(2); see § 17.273]. If the seller is deceased or has a conservator or other person acting in a representative capacity, the buyer must send the notice prior to the sale [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(1) (no time limitation imposed)].

[e] Contents of Notice to Clients

The notice to clients must state all of the following [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(1)(a), (2)(a); see § 17.273]:

- That the interest in the law practice is being transferred to the buyer.
- That the client has the right to retain other counsel.
- That the client may take possession of any client papers and property, including correspondence, pleadings, deposition transcripts, exhibits, physical evidence, expert's reports, and other items reasonably necessary to the client's representation, whether the client has paid for them or not [see Cal. Rules Prof.

Conduct, Rule 3-700(D)(1)]. The client has the right to a prompt refund of any part of a fee paid in advance that has not been earned, but not to a refund of a true retainer fee that is paid solely for the purpose of ensuring the availability of the attorney for that matter or case [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-700(D)(2)].

- That the buyer may act on behalf of the client unless otherwise notified by the client, if (1) no response is received to the notice within 90 days after it was sent, or (2) when the seller is deceased or represented by a conservator, the client's rights would be prejudiced by a failure to act during that time.

The notice must also comply with the rules governing attorney-client fee arrangements [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rules 4-100-4-400 (financial relationship between attorney and client)], and must comply with the requirements imposed by Rule 1-400(D) [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(1)(a), (2)(a)]. That rule prohibits a communication from being false or misleading, from being transmitted in a manner involving duress, or from stating that a bar member is a certified specialist unless he or she holds a current specialist certificate issued by the California Board of Legal Specialization [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-400(D)].

[f] Obtaining Client's Consent

In addition to sending written notice of transfer, the seller must obtain the client's written consent to the transfer not less than 90 days prior to the transfer [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(2)(b)]. If the seller is deceased or has a conservator or other person acting in a representative capacity, the buyer must obtain consent prior to the sale [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(1)(b) (no time limitation imposed)]. However, if the client does not respond to the notice within 90 days from the date that it was sent to the client's last address as shown on the seller's records, consent will be presumed unless (1) the client otherwise gives notification or (2) when the seller is deceased or represented by a conservator, the client's rights would be prejudiced by a failure to act during that time [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(1)(b), (2)(b)].

[g] Obtaining Client's Consent for Division of Fees After Transfer of Practice

If the buyer and seller will divide the fees for a case or file transferred in the sale, they must obtain the client's written consent to that division, after a full disclosure of the terms of the fee division [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-200(A)(1); see Margolin v. Shemaria (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 891, 903, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 502 (attorney had no viable contract for fee sharing after making case referral to another attorney when contract did not comply with Rule 2-200)]. Further, the total fee charged by both attorneys must not be increased solely due to the division of fees pursuant to the sale, and must not be unconscionable [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-200(A)(2); see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 4-200(B) (factors used to determine conscionability)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

AUTHOR: Marilyn E. Minger Revision Author

§ 17.23 Purchase and Sale of Franchise

[1] "Franchise" Defined

Franchising is essentially a method of doing business by licensing others to sell the franchisor's product or service using the franchisor's trademark [Glickman, Franchising, Ch. 2, Nature of Franchise Relationship, § 2.01 (Matthew Bender); see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements, § 51.20]. For purposes of the California Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.], which requires registration of franchise offerings with the Commissioner of Corporations, a franchise is defined as a contract or agreement that stipulates the following [Corp. Code § 31005; see Ch. 51A, Franchise Registration, § 51A.10]:

- A franchisee is granted the right to engage in the business of offering, selling, or distributing goods or services under a marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial part by a franchisor;

- The operation of the franchisee's business pursuant to the plan or system is substantially associated with the franchisor's trademark, service mark, trade name, logotype, advertising, or other commercial symbol designating the franchisor or its affiliate; and

- The franchisee is required to pay, directly or indirectly, a franchise fee.

[2] Restrictions on Franchise Sale

Virtually all franchise agreements require the consent of the franchisor before the franchise may be assigned. This type of restriction assures the personal responsibility of the franchisee, and prevents the transfer of the franchise to an unqualified person [see Glickman, Franchising, Ch. 9, Considerations in Developing the Agreement, § 9.03[16]; Ch. 10, Provisions of the Franchise Agreement, § 10.15 (Matthew Bender)]. Many franchise agreements give the franchisor the first right to purchase the franchise [see Glickman, Franchising, Ch. 10, Provisions of the Franchise Agreement, § 10.15 (Matthew Bender)]. Some franchise agreements simply require the franchisor's written consent before the franchised business is sold to a third party. Many franchise agreements also specify the qualifications that a buyer of the franchised business must have before the franchisor will consent to the sale [see Glickman, Franchising, Ch. 10, Provisions of the Franchise Agreement, § 10.15 (Matthew Bender)]. For examples of these types of assignment provisions in a franchise agreement, see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements, § 51.210.

B. Preliminary Determinations

8-17 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 17.110

AUTHOR: Marilyn E. Minger Revision Author

§ 17.110 Basic Terms of Sale

1. Determine whether retail alcoholic beverage license will be transferred with business.

NOTE:
If a retail alcoholic beverage license is part of the sale, counsel should follow the procedures set forth in Ch. 18, Buying and Selling a Retail Alcoholic Beverage License and Business , rather than those set forth in this Transaction Guide.

2. Evaluate total purchase price for sale of business.

NOTE:
This Transaction Guide does not cover the manner in which a business should be evaluated or priced by a prospective buyer. It assumes that the parties have consulted a financial advisor regarding the fair market value of the business being sold.

3. Determine manner in which purchase price will be paid:

a. Cash on execution of sale contract.

b. Cash on close of escrow.

c. Installments according to terms of promissory note.

d. Combination of cash, cash on close of escrow, or installments.

4. If portion of purchase price will be paid in installments or on deferral basis, determine any security to be given for payment of purchase price:

NOTE:
For further discussion of secured transactions, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

a. Security interest in fixtures, equipment, and inventory.

b. Security interest in accounts receivable.

c. Deed of trust on business real property or other real property.

d. Security interest in personal property owned by buyer and not connected with business.

e. If buyer is corporation, personal liability of one or more of corporate officers or owners.

f. Other security.

5. Determine whether any assets will be excluded from sale:

a. Accounts receivable.

b. Real property to be retained by seller and leased to buyer.

c. Work in progress.

NOTE:
When a professional practice, such as a law practice, is being sold, it may be impossible or illegal to attempt to transfer work in progress to the buyer without the consent of the client [see § 17.22[5][f]].

d. Other assets of business.

6. Determine whether buyer will assume any obligations of business:

a. Installment sales contracts for particular items of furniture and fixtures.

b. Products liability claims arising later but based on seller's operations.

c. Contracts for services or goods used in business.

NOTE:
For example, a buyer may wish to assume the law book contracts of a law practice.

7. Evaluate manner in which buyer and seller will pay or share following sale costs:

a. Escrow and attorneys' fees.

b. Recording and publication costs.

c. Inventory costs.

d. Other costs.

8. Determine items to be prorated in escrow between buyer and seller, for example:

a. Rent of premises occupied by business.

b. Utilities.

c. Personal property taxes levied on fixtures and equipment of business.

d. Employee salaries.

e. Union welfare contributions and other employee benefits.

f. Insurance policies for business.

g. Equipment leases.

h. Other business expenses.

9. Determine whether real property as well as personal property will be transferred.

NOTE:
Various special requirements apply to the sale of real property. For discussion, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

10. Determine how parties should allocate purchase price among assets being sold.

NOTE:
This information is needed for federal and state income tax purposes as well as state sales and use tax purposes.

In an "applicable asset acquisition," [see (a), below], the parties must allocate the purchase price pursuant to the "residual method" for purposes of determining (1) the seller's gain or loss on the sale, and (2) the buyer's basis in the assets purchased [I.R.C. § 1060(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031]. That method requires fair market value to be allocated to all assets other than goodwill and going concern value in the order required by regulation, with any residual amount allocated to those two assets [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b), 1.1060-1T(d); see b, below]. Both parties to the agreement must file information returns specifying, among other items, amounts that have been allocated to goodwill and going concern value [I.R.C. § 1060(b)]. In an applicable asset acquisition [see a, below], the parties are bound for tax purposes by the terms of the written agreement as to the allocation of any consideration, or as to the fair market value of any of the assets unless the IRS determines that the allocation (or fair market value) is not appropriate [I.R.C. § 1060(a)]. For further discussion, see § 17.11[4]].

a. Determine whether both of following apply [I.R.C. § 1060(a), (c)]:

NOTE:

The restrictions set forth in I.R.C. § 1060 apply only to "applicable assets acquisitions," that is, sales that meet the following two requirements [I.R.C. § 1060(a), (c)].

(1) Sale is direct or indirect transfer of assets constituting trade or business; and

NOTE:

A group of assets constitutes a trade or business if use of the assets would constitute an active business for purposes of I.R.C. § 355 (regarding distribution of stock of a controlled corporation)], or if goodwill or going concern value could attach to those assets [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(b)(2)].

(2) Transferee's basis in assets is determined wholly by reference to consideration paid for assets [I.R.C. § 1060(c)].

b. If sale is "applicable asset acquisition" under a, above, determine classification of all assets being sold under following categories [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b), 1.1060-1T(d)].

(1) Class I assets.

NOTE:

Class I assets are cash and demand deposits and similar accounts in banks, savings and loan associations, and other depository institutions [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(1), 1.1060-1T(d)(1)].

(2) Class II assets.

NOTE:

Class II assets are certificates of deposit, U.S. government securities, and foreign currency [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(ii), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(ii)].

(3) Class III assets.

NOTE:

All assets, other than Class I, II, IV, and V assets, are Class III assets [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(iii)].

(4) Class IV assets.

NOTE:

Class IV assets are intangible assets [see I.R.C. § 197], except those in the nature of goodwill and going concern value [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(iv)].

(5) Class V assets.

NOTE:

Class V assets are intangible assets in the nature of goodwill and going concern value [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(iv)].

11. Determine how ongoing business costs and expenses should be prorated between buyer and seller.

NOTE:

Normally, the parties prorate these costs as of the closing date, based on a 30-day month [see § 17.200[m]].

12. Determine whether buyer will complete any work in progress.

NOTE:

If the buyer will assume responsibility for work in progress, the customer or client must generally consent [see Civ. Code § 1457 (burden of obligation cannot be transferred without consent of party entitled to benefit)]. Furthermore, if legal work in progress is to be transferred, the seller must send written notice to each client and obtain his or her consent [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B); see § 17.273[2]].

13. Determine whether contract of sale should include noncompetition clause [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601].

a. Ascertain whether operation of same or similar business by seller in same area would diminish value of business being sold [see Monogram Industries, Inc. v. Sar Industries, Inc. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 692, 698 134 Cal. Rptr. 714] .

b. Determine geographic areas in which business being sold has been carried on.

NOTE:

A noncompetition clause will be enforceable only with respect to the geographic area in which the business (or business entity, division, or subsidiary) being sold was carried on before the sale and only so long as the buyer (or other person deriving title to the goodwill or ownership interest from the buyer) carries on a similar business in that geographic area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601].

14. Determine whether parties should allocate risk of potential products liability actions.

NOTE:

Liability for defective products may be imposed on the successor to a manufacturer or other distributor of a product in the "stream of commerce" if (1) the plaintiff's remedies against the predecessor company were virtually destroyed by the successor's acquisition of the business, (2) the successor had the ability to estimate the risk of product liability claims arising from the predecessor, and (3) it was fair and equitable to require the successor to assume responsibility for defective products, in view of the successor's use of the predecessor's goodwill in the continued operation of the business [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 22, 31, 136 Cal. Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; see Kaminski v. Western MacArthur Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 445, 456-458, 220 Cal. Rptr. 895 (Alad successor liability rule applies to all distributors of product into stream of commerce)].

15. Determine whether contract should provide for association of seller with business after sale.

NOTE:

This type of provision is useful when the buyer wants the seller to train him or her in the operation of the business, or when effective transfer of the business goodwill depends on continuing patronage of the current business clients. However, the drafting attorney should evaluate the parties' relationship before including such a requirement as a condition of sale [see § 17.216].

§ 17.111 Applicability of Bulk Sales Division

1. Determine whether business is type that is subject to Bulk Sales Division of Commercial Code [Com. Code § 6103(a); see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111]:

NOTE:
If the Uniform Commercial Code--Bulk Sales Division applies, the buyer must give public notice of the bulk sale, essentially to provide notice to the seller's creditors [see Com. Code §§ 6104, 6105]. Careful attorneys usually determine, before setting the date of sale, the name, address, publication dates, and deadline dates of any newspapers of general circulation published in judicial districts (or counties) in which the notice will need to be published. Similarly, careful attorneys usually record the notice at least 13 or 14 business days before the date of the bulk sale.

a. Is seller's principal business sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is business that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1); see Com. Code § 6103(c) (exceptions)]?

b. On date of bulk sale agreement, is seller located in California, or located in jurisdiction outside United States but has its major American executive office in California [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(b)]?

2. If business is subject to Bulk Sales Division of Commercial Code [see (1), above], determine whether proposed sale is "bulk sale" subject to Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3)]:

a. Is sale of assets not in ordinary course of seller's business; and

b. Do assets being sold constitute more than half of seller's inventory and equipment?

NOTE:
In determining the percentage of the seller's inventory and equipment being transferred, the assets are valued at their fair market value as of the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), (3), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined)].

3. Determine whether sale is one of following transactions that is exempt from Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6103(c)]:

a. Is transfer made to secure payment or performance of obligation [Com. Code § 6103(c)(1)]?

b. Does sale involve a transfer of collateral to a secured party pursuant to Com. Code § 9609 [Com. Code § 6103(c)(2)]?

c. Does sale involve a disposition of collateral pursuant to Com. Code § 9610 [Com. Code § 6103(c)(3)]?

d. Will there be an acceptance of collateral pursuant to Com. Code § 9620 [Com. Code § 6103(c)(4)]?

e. Is sale a sale of asset encumbered by security interest or lien in which either [Com. Code § 6103(c)(5)]:

(1) All sale proceeds are applied in partial or total satisfaction of debt secured by security interest or lien; or

f. Will there be a general assignment for benefit of creditors, or subsequent transfer by assignee [Com. Code § 6103(c)(6)]?

g. Will there be a sale by executor, administrator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, debtor in possession, or any public officer under judicial process [Com. Code § 6103(c)(7)]?

h. Will sale be made in course of judicial or administrative proceedings for dissolution or reorganization [Com. Code § 6103(c)(8)]?

i. Will there be a sale to buyer whose principal place of business is in United States [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(14)] and in which [Com. Code § 6103(c)(9)]:

(1) Buyer assumes all debts owed to claimants of whom buyer has knowledge on date that buyer receives the seller's list of creditors or completes reasonable inquiry;

NOTE:
The buyer must obtain a verified and dated list of claimants from the seller or conduct reasonable inquiry to discover the claimants no earlier than 21 days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6103(c)(9)(i)].

(2) Buyer is not insolvent after assumption; and

(3) Buyer records and publishes notice of assumption [see Com. Code §§ 6103(d) (contents of notice), 6105]?

(1) Buyer assumes all debts incurred in seller's business before date of bulk sale [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(7)];

(2) Seller receives nothing from sale except interest in new organization that is subordinate to any claims against organization arising from assumption; and

(3) Buyer records and publishes notice of assumption not later than 30 days after date of bulk sale [see Com. Code §§ 6103(e) (contents of notice), 6105].

l. Is sale one of assets having value, on date of sale agreement, of either [Com. Code § 6103(c)(12); see Com. Code § 6103(f) (valuation); see also Com. Code § 6102(a)(8) (date of agreement)]:

(1) Less that $10,000, net of liens and security interests, or

(2) More than $5 million?

m. Is sale required by and made pursuant to statute [Com. Code § 6103(c)(13)]?

n. Is sale a transfer of personal property in connection with sale/leaseback and either [Com. Code § 6103(c)(14)]:

(2) Transfer complies with Civ. Code § 3440.1(h), requiring filing of financing statement [see Com. Code §§ 9501 et seq.] with Secretary of State and notice of intended transfer is published.

o. Is transfer subject to and in compliance with license transfer requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070-24082], such as the transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license, provided transferee records and publishes requisite notice of transfer at least 12 business days before transfer is consummated [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Com. Code § 6105(a)(1)-(4); see also Ch. 18, Buying and Selling a Retail Alcoholic Beverage License and Business]?

c. Judicial districts in which seller is located and seller's assets are located.

d. Name and address of newspaper of general circulation in judicial districts in which seller is located and seller's assets are located.

NOTE:
The notice of intended transfer [see § 17.270*] must be published in a newspaper of general circulation that is published in the judicial district where the property is located and, if different, in judicial district where seller is located [see Com. Code § 6105(b)(2)*].

§ 17.112 Applicability of Sales and Use Tax

NOTE:

The Sales and Use Tax Law imposes a tax on the gross receipts of a retailer from the sale of tangible personal property sold at retail in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051].

1. Determine whether each item of personal property being sold is "tangible" or "intangible" [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6016, 6051].

NOTE:

The sales tax is imposed only on the sale of tangible personal property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051]. "Tangible personal property" is personal property that may be seen, weighed, measured, felt, or touched, or that is perceptible to the senses in any other manner [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6016].

2. Determine whether any tangible personal property will be sold at retail.

NOTE:

When a business is sold, the seller typically transfers two types of tangible personal property to the buyer: (1) equipment and furniture, and (2) stock in trade and merchandise. Because the stock in trade and merchandise of the business is usually sold to the buyer for purposes of resale in the regular course of business, the sale of that type of property is not taxable as a retail sale [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6007, 6051]. However, the furniture and equipment are generally subject to sales tax, unless exempt [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051; see also § 17.12].

3. If personal property is tangible, determine whether "occasional sale" exemption applies [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6006.5, 6367]:

NOTE:
This exemption covers two types of sales: the sale of property held in activities requiring a sales tax permit [see (a), below] when ownership is the same before and after the sale [see (b), below], and the sale of property used in activities not requiring a sales tax permit [see (a), below] when the seller is not deemed to be a retailer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.5; see (c), below].

a. Is property is of a type that requires sales tax permit from Board of Equalization [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6066, 6071]?

NOTE:
All persons actively engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail must obtain a sales tax permit (or "seller's permit") from the State Board of Equalization prior to making sales in California [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6066, 6071; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1699].

b. If sales tax permit is required, will ultimate ownership of property be substantially the same after transfer as before transfer?

NOTE:
The ultimate ownership is substantially similar to that which existed before a transfer if 80 percent or more of that ownership is unchanged after the transfer [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(b)(2)]. This type of transfer occurs, for example, when a going business is incorporated [see Ch. 2A, Incorporating a Going Business].

c. If sales tax permit is not otherwise required, what is number and size of retail sales made in last year?

NOTE:
Any taxpayer whose business does not involve retail sales, but who makes three or more sales of tangible personal property used in the business for substantial amounts in a 12-month period (or who makes a substantial number of sales for a relatively small amount during that period) will be considered to be a "retailer" subject to the sales tax permit requirement [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6019; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)]. The determination of whether the seller has made sales of "substantial amounts" or has made a "substantial number" of sales is based on sale frequency and dollar value [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595(a)(4)(B)].

4. Determine whether business involves both services and sales of tangible personal property.

NOTE:
Generally, only the gross receipts from sales activities, rather than the service activities, are subject to tax [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595; see also § 17.12[3]].

5. Determine whether business involves sales of both exempt and taxable personal property.

NOTE:

Generally, sales tax applies to all business assets of a business that sells exempt and nonexempt products [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1595; see also § 17.12[3]].

6. Ascertain whether local or transit taxes are also imposed on sale [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 7200-7212 (Bradley-Burns Uniform Local Sales and Use Tax Law), 7251-7274 (Transactions and Use Tax Law)].

§ 17.113 Other Pre-Sale Determinations

1. Determine if buyer will be subject to state or local licensing requirement to operate business.

NOTE:

Most local governments require local businesses to maintain business licenses, renewable annually. Local government should be contacted to determine the applicable requirements. State licenses are required for businesses engaging in various categories of activity. Applicable license requirements may be determined by contacting the state agency charged with regulation of the particular business or profession.

2. Ascertain if property being sold is subject to following federal, state, or local environmental laws and regulations:

NOTE:

For discussion and an example of a seller's warranty regarding hazardous materials, see § 17.214. Compliance with environmental regulation of real property is beyond the scope of this chapter. For discussion, see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits ; see also Ch. 33, Contamination Considerations in Real Property Transactions . For detailed coverage of environmental law generally, see California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice(Matthew Bender).

a. National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) [42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.; 40 C.F.R. § 6.100 et seq.; see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA)"].

b. California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 15000 et seq.; see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA)--General Requirements," et seq.].

c. California Coastal Act of 1976 [Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13001 et seq.; see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "California Coastal Act--Area Covered," et seq.].

d. Other regulations and restrictions applicable to:
(1) Property located in specific regions [see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Permits , Legal Background, "Overview of Environmental Regulations"].

(2) Particular uses on property [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 25280 et seq. (regulation of operation of underground storage tanks)].

3. If business is operated under franchise agreement, determine [see §§ 17.280, 17.281]:

NOTE:
The assignability of a franchise is generally covered in the franchise agreement. For further discussion, see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements .

a. Whether franchisor has first right and option to purchase business.

b. Whether sale to third party is subject to franchisor's consent.

c. Conditions precedent, if any, to which franchisor's consent is subject.

4. If business being sold is law practice, determine whether either of following conditions applies [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)]:

NOTE:
Under these circumstances, the seller is required to send notice to, and obtain the consent of, each affected client [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)].

a. Contract of sale contemplates transfer of work not yet completed.

b. Contract of sale contemplates transfer of responsibility for client files or information that attorney is required to keep confidential [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(e) (attorney has duty to preserve secrets of his or her clients)].

5. Determine buyer's possible obligations under any collective bargaining agreements between seller and union.

NOTE:
The buyer may be bound by such an agreement (or similar legal obligation) if some or all of the following factors are present: an express or implied assumption of the agreement; a substantial continuity of identity in the business enterprise, particularly in the work force, before and after the change in ownership; and the complete disappearance of the initial employer [see Howard Johnson Co. v. Detroit Local Joint Executive Board (1974) 417 U.S. 249, 94 S. Ct. 2236, 41 L. Ed. 2d 46] .

§ 17.120 Drafting Letter of Intent

NOTE:

Letters of intent are helpful when negotiations are expected to be lengthy or when the nature of the business is complex and requires investigation. A letter of intent may not be necessary or appropriate for all business sales. With some sales, especially those of small businesses, it may be more efficient to proceed directly to the contract of sale. The following provisions should be considered when drafting a letter of intent. For a letter of intent, see § 17.261.

1. Include opening clause describing form of transaction.

NOTE:

This clause should include the identities of the parties to the transaction, the structure of the transaction,the anticipated purchase price and allocation of assets.

2. Include clause stating the status and disposition of liabilities and debts, as well as repayment terms on any outstanding loans of business.

3. Include provision allocating sales taxes and closing expenses.

NOTE:

A statement regarding the anticipated tax consequences of the proposed transaction may be stated in the letter to formalize the parties' intentions.

4. Provision warranting veracity of information provided by seller upon which buyer will rely to evaluate business.

5. Clause specifying changes or restrictions on seller's business conduct during the negotiation period, including any protective or restrictive provisions such as noncompetition covenants.

6. Clause stating the anticipated closing date.

7. Provision describing scope of buyer's investigation and due diligence of business.

NOTE:
Due diligence often includes investigation of financial records and warranties, the status of ongoing business deals and pending contracts, compliance with laws and regulations, as well as other aspects of the subject business. The letter of intent generally will set forth the scope of the investigation and the expected duration of due diligence. For additional information on conducting due diligence, see § 17.121.

8. Clause stating any warranty by seller that seller is not negotiating with any other party for sale of business, and any agreement made by seller to terminate negotiations with other prospective buyers during a specified period of negotiation and investigation.

9. Provision stating non-binding force of letter of intent.

NOTE:
Certain provisions in the letter of intent relating to negotiations may be expressly binding even if the letter itself does not constitue a contract of sale. For instance, the letter may state that confidentiality provisions in the letter are binding even though the rest of the letter of intent is not binding on the parties [see § 17.17[2]].

§ 17.121 Due Diligence Checklist

NOTE:

Even if the buyer is not conducting formal due diligence, the following list of issues to be investigated should be considered. Due diligence is undertaken by directing inquiries for information directly to the subject business, and by investigating and reviewing records with public agencies or third parties. Although due diligence is generally the task of buyer's counsel and other professional advisers, seller's counsel may have a responsibility to verify the seller's warranties or legal opinions about the operations of the business.

The following checklist may be used as a due diligence checklist for the buyer or may form the basis of a document request of the seller by the buyer.

1. Obtain and review copies of all contracts and other documents regarding customer commitments to purchase products of the business.

2. Obtain and review documents relating to any partnership or joint venture affiliations or any other investments of the business.

3. Obtain and review materials related to employees of business.

a. Employment and consulting contracts.

b. Noncompetition agreements.

c. bonus and other incentive or compensation plans.

d. Other contracts respecting employees.

e. Company policies, manuals and memoranda respecting vacations, sick leave, termination pay, hiring, promotion, etc.

f. Summaries of unwritten employee policies and practices.

g. Documents and correspondence relating to any equal employment charges, claims, investigations or complaints before federal, state or local agencies, and any affirmative action, government set aside or similar plans.

h. Copies of any OSHA complaints, reports and files on any investigations.

4. Obtain and review any labor-related documents.

a. Collective bargaining contracts and documents regarding any union representation proceedings or pending or threatened labor disputes.

b. Copies of any and all unfair labor practice charges, grievances, arbitration awards, side letters, and records of contract negotiations.

c. Union pension and insurance plans.

5. Obtain and review employee benefit plans.

a. Profit sharing, employee thrift, pension, health, insurance, welfare and other employee benefit plans, as well as any related trusts, ERISA determination letters or government correspondence and the like.

b. Actuarial reports and calculation of liabilities and plan assets.

6. Obtain and review documents related to any real property owned or used by the business, including:

a. Leases, subleases, subordination and non-disturbance agreements, deeds and options.

b. Title reports and all insurance policies.

7. Material equipment leases and subleases.

NOTE:

Inquiries should be conducted with respect to any liens on vehicles or other equipment. Lenders or suppliers who have taken a security interest in the business may have filed a U.C.C. priority lien.

Counsel should advise the buyer to mail Form UCC-11, "Request for Information or Copies," and the applicable filing fee, to the Secretary of State's office [see Com. Code §§ 9523, 9528; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. Form UCC-11 is used to request a certificate showing whether any presently effective financing statement is on file with respect to the seller's business [see Com. Code § 9523]. Often, the escrow instructions instruct the escrow holder to mail this certificate. On the request of any person and payment of the statutory fee, the Secretary of State must issue a combined certificate showing financing statement information [see Com. Code § 9528], state tax lien data [see Gov. Code § 7226], attachment lien information [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 488.375, 488.405], judgment lien information [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.580], and federal lien information [Com. Code § 9528; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2103].

8. Obtain and review any loan agreements, industrial revenue bond documentation, promissory notes, indentures, agreements for lines of credit and other financing or other agreements respecting money borrowed or loaned, list of bank accounts and authorized signatories, security agreements and financing statements, U.C.C. searches, credit reports, deeds of trust, suretyships, indemnities, waivers, guarantees and loans to insiders.

9. Obtain and review any product warranties, marketing literature and samples of all forms of purchase orders, invoices, and similar materials. Correspondence, internal reports or other documents relating to customer complaints or account claims.

NOTE:
All warranties and guarantees should be evaluated to determine potential liabilities connected to business activities.

10. Obtain and review any marketing agreements, including distributorship agreements, wholesaler agreements, sales representative and commission agreements and agreements with raw materials, packaging and equipment suppliers.

11. Obtain and review any membership agreements or other documents relating to exchange, trade association or self-regulatory organization memberships.

12. Obtain and review any litigation and arbitration files, files regarding claims or threatened litigation and arbitration, and any judgments, injunctions, consent decrees, other court orders and the like.

13. Obtain and review any copies of recent attorney letters to auditors.

14. Obtain and review any documents relating to any audits, inquiries or investigations by, or proceedings or threatened proceedings with, any governmental authorities or self-regulatory bodies.

15. § 17.124 Handling Creditor Claims Under Bulk Sales Division

NOTE:

These procedures apply only to those sales that are subject to the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] and involve substantially all cash consideration (or an obligation of the buyer to pay cash in the future) of $2 million or less [Com. Code §§ 6106.2, 6106.4]. The buyer (or escrow agent) in this type of sale must apply the cash consideration to any debts of the seller for which claims are due and payable on or before the date of the bulk sale and are received in writing on or before the date specified as the last date to file claims with person designated by the notice [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(b), 6106.4].

1. If creditor claims will be handled through escrow, have buyer deposit full amount of purchase price with escrow agent [Com. Code § 6106.4].

2. Instruct buyer (or escrow agent) to submit all creditor claims as they are received to seller for approval or rejection [see Com. Code §§ 6106.2, 6106.4].

NOTE:

Disputed claims are subject to special rules [Com. Code § 6106.2(c)].

3. When sale is otherwise ready to be closed, if amount of consideration is insufficient to pay all claims timely filed, have buyer (or escrow agent) [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)-(c)]:

NOTE:

Claims will be deemed timely filed only if actually received by the person designated in the notice to receive claims before the close of business on the day specified in the notice as the last date for filing claims [Com. Code § 6106.2(f)].

a. Delay distribution of consideration and passing of legal title for not less than 25 nor more than 30 days from date that notice of insufficiency is mailed [Com. Code § 6106.4(a)(1)].

b. Within five business days after date bulk sale would otherwise be closed, send written notice of insufficiency to each creditor who has filed claim, stating [Com. Code § 6106.4(a)(2)]:

NOTE:
If the buyer or escrow agent receives no written objection to the distribution described in the notice prior to the new date specified for the passing of legal title, the buyer or escrow agent will not be liable to any person to whom the notice was sent for any good faith error that may have been committed in allocating and distributing the consideration as stated in the notice [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)(3)].

(1) Total consideration deposited or agreed to be deposited in escrow.

(2) Name of each claimant who filed claim against escrow and amount of each claim.

(3) Amount proposed to be paid to each claimant.

(4) New date scheduled for passing of legal title.

(5) Date on or before which distribution will be made to claimants.

NOTE:
This date must not be more than five days after the new date specified for the passing of legal title [Com. Code § 6106.4(a)(2)].

(6) If part of sale consideration is future payment of cash [Com. Code § 6106.4(c)]:

(a) Amount, terms, and due date of obligation; and,

(b) Portion of claims expected to be paid by that obligation.

§ 17.125 Closing the Sale

NOTE:

As used in this chapter, "closing" means the time when legal title to the business passes from the seller to the buyer. The closing may take place on any one of several dates. It may be the date specified in the contract of sale or notice of intended bulk sale [see Com. Code § 6105(a)(4)], the date to which closing was delayed due to insufficient funds [see Com. Code § 6106.4], or the date when a specified condition occurs, such as the closing of a coordinated escrow for real property [see § 17.200[1][i]]. When escrow instructions are used, the escrow agent is instructed to follow the procedures listed below. When an escrow is not used, the attorney handling the sale (or "trustee") may follow those procedures.

1. Have seller execute and acknowledge before notary public if document will be recorded [see Civ. Code §§ 1188-1190; Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording] all instruments required to transfer business property from seller to buyer.

2. If applicable, have buyer deposit in escrow or with trustee that portion of purchase price payable on closing of sale.

3. Have buyer execute, acknowledge, and deposit with escrow agent or trustee any instruments evidencing or securing payment of any deferred part of purchase price.

4. Have seller assign any trade or service mark held by former business to buyer.

NOTE:

For the applicable procedures, see Ch. 103B, Trademarks .

5. Have seller assign copyrights and patents to buyer.

NOTE:
For discussion of copyrights, see Ch. 103A, Copyrights .

6. Distribute executed instruments of transfer to buyer.

7. Forward any assignment of lease and consent to assignment, together with filing fees, to county recorder of county where leased premises are located.

NOTE:
The fees chargeable for recording the assignment of lease and consent to assignment are the same as the fees chargeable for recording any other document [see Gov. Code § 27361].

8. Forward any executed certificates of ownership for motor vehicles being transferred to Department of Motor Vehicles.

NOTE:
For the current transfer fee, see Veh. Code § 9255.

9. Forward any financing statements representing security given for payment of any deferred portion of purchase price to Secretary of State for filing [Com. Code § 9510(a)(2)].

NOTE:
For the current filing fee, see Com. Code § 9525; Gov. Code § 12194(a)-(c).

10. Forward any fixture filing to appropriate filing office [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(B), (2); Com. Code § 9334 (priority of security interest in fixtures)].

NOTE:
There are two ways in which a secured party may file a financing statement to perfect a security interest in goods that are or will become fixtures. A secured party may file in the Division 9 records, as with most other goods [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(2); Com. Code § 9501 (UCC Comment P 4); see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. In these circumstances, the secured party files in the office of the Secretary of State [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(2)]. Alternatively, a secured party may file the financing statement as a "fixture filing" [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(B)]. A fixture filing is the filing of a financing statement covering goods that are or will become fixtures and satisfying Com. Code § 9502(a), (b) [Com. Code § 9102(a)(40); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(41) ("fixtures" defined)]. Filing is in the office where the record of a mortgage on the related real estate would be filed [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(B)].

A financing statement that is filed as a fixture filing must satisfy conditions in addition to those required of a standard financing statement [see Com. Code § 9502(b); see also Com. Code § 9334 (priority of security interests in fixtures)]. For further discussion of these issues, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

11. Advise seller that escrow holder or trustee will retain purchase price until receipt of certificates of tax clearance from Board of Equalization (SBE), Employment Development Department (EDD), and Franchise Tax Board (FTB).

NOTE:

If the buyer (or escrow agent) distributes the purchase price before the seller has satisfied any amounts owed to the SBE, the EDD, or the FTB, the buyer will be personally liable, up to the amount of the purchase price (or, with respect to state income tax withholding, up to the fair market value of the business), for those liabilities [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6812, 18669; Unemp. Ins. Code § 1733].

§ 17.126 Satisfying Seller's Tax Obligations

NOTE:

The seller must satisfy sales tax and employer tax withholding liabilities of the business immediately after the sale of the business, in order for the State Board of Equalization, Employment Development Department, and Franchise Tax Board to issue tax clearance certificates. In contrast, the seller is required to satisfy any income tax obligations only at the time that he or she files an income tax return for the taxable year in which the sale occurred.

1. With respect to sales tax obligations, have seller:

NOTE:

For a discussion of a seller's sales tax obligations from the business, including the sale of the business, see § 17.12.

a. Prepare final sales tax return [SBE Form BT 401-A] for seller's operation of business, clearly marked "FINAL RETURN" [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6452].

b. Visit SBE office for district in which business is located, in order to:
(1) Surrender sales tax permit for business, if applicable.

(2) File final sales tax return.

(3) Pay full amount shown as owing on final sales tax return either by cash, certified check, cashier's check, or money order payable to Board of Equalization.

NOTE:
Usually the district office of the Board of Equalization will issue a certificate of tax clearance upon payment of the amount due, unless its audit department feels seller's sales tax account should be audited. The seller should not pay any amount due by personal check. The State Board of Equalization requires evidence that the personal check has been honored by the seller's bank before it will issue a tax clearance certificate or return a security deposit. For additional information, see SBE Pamphlet 74, "Closing Out Your Seller's Permit," which is available from the Board of Equalization or online at the State Board of Equalization website, which is located at www.boe.ca.gov.

If the audit department of the district office decides to audit the seller's sales tax account, it will normally inform the seller of that fact at the time he or she files the final return. In that event, it will not issue a certificate of tax clearance until it has completed the audit and the seller has paid the amount found due.

2. With respect to unemployment contribution, ensure that within 10 days after "quitting business" [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(1)], seller brings all of following to nearest Employment Tax Customer Service Office of Employment Development Department, or mails these materials to appropriate EDD processing office [see Requirements for Obtaining Certificate of Release of Buyer (Cal. Employment Dev't Department Pub. 3409A)]:

NOTE:
"Quitting business" does not include any change in the form or membership of the employer if, before and after the change, 50 percent or more of the control of management is held by the same individual, or is held by an individual before death and after death by his or her estate or heirs [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1116(a)(4)]. For coverage of required EDD procedures, see California Employer's Guide (Cal. Employment Dev. Dep't Pub. DE-44 1999 ed.); see also Requirements for Obtaining Certificate of Release of Buyer (Cal. Employment Dev. Dep't Pub. 3409A).

All payments to the Employment Development Department must be made by cashier's check, certified check, escrow check, currency, or money order [California Employer's Guide, (Cal. Employment Dev. Dep't Pub. DE-44 1999 ed.)]. The EDD prefers that the materials listed below be mailed to the appropriate EDD office for processing these requests. Requests are not processed at local EDD offices, but instead are referred to one of the four EDD offices that handle such claims; these offices are located in Downey, Laguna Hills, Sacramento, and San Jose. For the mailing addresses of these offices, see § 17.301[1].

The EDD will issue a certificate of tax clearance [EDD Form DE 2220] on filing of all required documents and payment of all amounts owed.

a. Completed Release of Buyer Request Form (Form DE 2220R) [see § 17.301 (form)].

b. Signed Semi-Weekly/Monthly/Quarterly Report of Contributions (DE 88 and/or DE88ALL) for current quarter, along with payment in certified funds (cash, cashier's check, money order, or check from escrow company).

c. Copies of all DE 88 and/or DE88ALL deposits remitted eight weeks prior to date of sale, along with proof of payment.

d. Signed Quarterly Wage Report (DE 6) or other EDD forms required for current quarter.

NOTE:
For an example and discussion of this form, see Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution, § 12.281.

e. Signed Annual Reconciliation Form (DE7) for current year.

NOTE:
For an example and discussion of this form, see Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution, § 12.282.

f. Prior annual reconciliation forms (DE 7 or DE 43) with accompanying documents, if not previously filed with EDD, along with payment of penalty, if applicable.

g. Copy of instructions from escrow agent.

3. Have seller deliver to buyer (or escrow agent) certificates of tax clearance from Board of Equalization and Employment Development Department, as soon as received.

NOTE:
To avoid successor liability for the seller's tax obligations, the purchase price should not be distributed until receipt of these certificates [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812; Unemp. Ins. Code § 1733; § 17.14].

The buyer must also obtain certificate of tax clearance from Franchise Tax Board, but the buyer should obtain this certificate directly from the Board.

(2) If amount of consideration is insufficient to pay in full all timely claims, distribute consideration in following order of priority, within five days after new date for closing (that is, transfer of title) [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(b)]:

(a) All obligations owing to United States, to extent given priority by federal law.

(b) Secured claims, including statutory and judicial liens, to extent of consideration fairly attributable to value of properties provided by law.

NOTE:

A secured creditor, however, will participate in the distribution only after depositing a release of lien conditioned on receiving an amount equal to that distribution [Com. Code § 6106.4(b)(2)].

(c) Escrow and professional charges and broker's fees attributable directly to sale.

(d) Unpaid employee wage claims earned within 90 days before sale, transfer, or opening of escrow [Com. Code § 6106.4(b)(4); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1205].

(e) All other tax claims.

(f) All other unsecured claims pro rata, including any deficiency claims of partially secured creditors.

c. If consideration consists partially of obligation to pay cash in future:

(1) If consideration was insufficient, first apply principal and interest received on that obligation to unpaid debts, in accordance with (b)(2), above, until claims are paid in full [Com. Code § 6106.4(c)].

NOTE:

Every distribution should be made pro rata to creditors having equal priority. A new determination must be made with respect to allocation after each payment received from the buyer, because some of the original high-priority creditors may have been paid in full after the preceding payment.

(2) When all creditor claims have been paid, distribute balance of amounts received to seller.

3. Within two business days after distribution, have buyer (or escrow agent) give written notice to claimant of disputed claim that withheld amount will be paid to seller (or, if consideration is insufficient, to claimants with priority unless claimant attaches that amount within 25 days from mailing of notice) [Com. Code § 6106.2(c)].

NOTE:

A claimant may obtain an attachment for a claim that is less than $500 and based on a contract, or is a secured claim or lien [Com. Code § 6106.2(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 483.010]. Such an attachment is limited in its effect to the amount withheld for that claimant, and will give that claimant no greater priority or rights with respect to the claim than he or she would have had if the claim had not been disputed [Com. Code § 6106.2(c)].

4. Retain amount of disputed claims for 25 days from date of mailing of notice to creditors.

a. If writ of attachment is levied during 25-day period, pay amount retained on claim to levying officer and give garnishee's memorandum if requested [Com. Code § 6106.2(c); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 483.010, 488.610].

NOTE:

The courts may issue a writ of attachment ex parte when a bulk sale notice has been recorded and published [see Code Civ. Proc. § 485.010(b)(3)]. Therefore, it is fairly easy for a creditor to obtain a writ of attachment. The writ, however, will be limited to the property covered by the bulk sale notice or the proceeds of the sale of the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 485.010(c)]. For further discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 62, Attachment (Matthew Bender).

b. If no writ is levied during 25-day period, pay disputed amount to seller (or, if consideration is insufficient, to claimants with priority [Com. Code § 6106.2(c)].

5. If Board of Equalization and/or Franchise Tax Board have not issued tax clearance within 45 days after transfer of title [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6811, 18669], take either of following actions:

a. If only a few creditors have filed timely claims, attempt to obtain extension of time for payment of claims.

NOTE:

The Bulk Sales Division requires payment of timely creditor claims or filing of an interpleader action within 45 days after the buyer takes title to any of the business assets being transferred [Com. Code § 6106.2(e)]. However, the Board of Equalization has 60 days in which to issue a tax clearance certificate after the latest of the sale, a request, or audit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(b)], and the Franchise Tax Board has 60 days in which to issue a tax clearance certificate after written request by the buyer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]. The buyer must not allow distribution until receipt of that certificate, or he or she will be liable for any taxes owed, up to the amount of the purchase price (or, with respect to state income tax withholding, up to the fair market value of the business) [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6812, 18669]. The creditors may be willing to extend the time for payment to avoid the filing of an interpleader action [see (b), below]. Note that because the Employment Development Department's failure to issue a tax clearance certificate within 30 days of a request is deemed the equivalent of a tax clearance, no similar conflict with the Bulk Sales Division should arise [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 1732].

b. If creditors refuse to grant extension, have buyer (or escrow agent) file action in interpleader against [Com. Code § 6106.2(e); Code Civ. Proc. § 386]:

NOTE:

The action must be brought in the appropriate court for the county where the seller had its principal place of business. At the time of filing, the buyer (or escrow agent) must deposit the sales consideration with the clerk of the court [Com. Code § 6106.2(e)]. For examples and further discussion of the interpleader action, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 314, Interpleader (Matthew Bender)].

(1) Buyer and seller;

(2) Board of Equalization and/or Franchise Tax Board; and

(3) All creditors who have filed timely claims.

§ 17.129 Reporting Statutory Change in Ownership of Real Property

NOTE:

Real property subject to local property taxation is reassessed when a change in ownership occurs [see Cal. Const. arts. XIII, XIIIA; see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 401, Real Property Valuation and Assessment (Matthew Bender)]. A "change in ownership" is a transfer of a present interest in real property (including beneficial use of the property), the value of which is substantially equal to the value of the fee interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 60]. Such a change requires the acquiring individual or entity to file a change in ownership statement [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480-480.2]. For further discussion, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements*, § 23.306*.

1. Determine whether real property of business has undergone statutory change in ownership, pursuant to any of following:

NOTE:

Except as provided in (b) or (c), below, the purchase or transfer of ownership interests in legal entities (such as corporate stock or partnership interests) will not be deemed to constitute a transfer of the real property of the legal entity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64]. For further discussion of what constitutes a change in ownership, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements*, § 23.153*.

a. Real property of business that is subject to local property taxation is sold [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 60, 480].

b. Change in control of any corporation, partnership, limited liability company, or other legal entity occurs [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 64(c), 480.1].

c. Interests representing cumulatively more than 50 percent of total interests in business entity are transferred by any of "original co-owners" in one or more transactions [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 64(d), 480.2; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 62(a)(2)].

NOTE:
"Original co-owners" are those persons holding ownership interests in a legal entity immediately following a transaction excluded from the definition of "change in ownership" by Revenue and Taxation Code § 62(a)(2). This section excludes any transfer between an individual or individuals and a legal entity or between legal entities (such as a cotenancy to a partnership, a partnership to a corporation, or a trust to a cotenancy) (1) that results solely in a change in the method of holding title to the real property and (2) in which the proportional interests of the sellers and buyers remain the same after the transfer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62(a)(2)].

2. Have buyer or transferee prepare and file change in ownership statement as follows [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480-480.2]:

a. Complete official form:

NOTE:
A form may be obtained from the district office of the State Board of Equalization for the area in which the acquired business's real property is located. For further detailed discussion of change in ownership procedures, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements*, § 23.306*).

(1) Preliminary change of ownership report [see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.306], if change of ownership will be effected by recordation of deed or other document [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480.3, 480.4].

(2) Change in ownership statement [see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.306], if preliminary change of ownership report is not filed [see (1), above], or if county assessor finds that filed preliminary report is inadequate [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480-480.4].

NOTE:
For a discussion of the change in ownership requirements for corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies, or other legal entities [Rev. & Tax. Code § 480.2], see Ch. 11C, Mergers , § 11C.161.

b. File report at time of recordation of transfer document [Rev. & Tax. Code § 480.3(a)] or file statement within 45 days from date of change in ownership of business, with county assessor of county in which property is located [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480(c), (e); see Rev. & Tax Code §§ 480.1(b), 480.2(b)].

NOTE:
If the change of ownership occurs as the result of death, the statement must be filed (1) within 150 days after the date of death, or (2) when the inventory and appraisal is filed if the estate is probated [Rev. & Tax. Code § 480(e)]. A change in ownership statement must also be filed whenever the Board of Equalization makes a written request for that statement [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480.1(b), 480.2(b)].

3. Advise buyer that Board of Equalization will impose monetary penalty for [Rev. & Tax. Code § 482(b)]:

a. Failure to file statement within 45 days from earlier of either:

(1) Date of change in control or change in ownership of corporation, partnership, LLC, or other legal entity; or

(2) Date of written request by State Board of Equalization.

b. Failure to file missing information after filing incomplete statement and receiving second request for information.

§ 17.130 Reporting Income Tax Consequences of Sale

NOTE:

The parties to the sale of a business must report any personal income tax consequences at the usual time for filing the tax return for the year in which the sale took place. In contrast, sales tax and unemployment tax procedures must be followed immediately after the sale [see §§ 17.126, 17.130].

1. Advise buyer and seller to report any income tax consequences from sale of business on federal and state returns for year in which sale occurred [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 1001; Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031 (determining seller's gain or loss on sale)].

NOTE:

For a discussion of the income tax consequences of the purchase and sale of property generally, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.30.

2. Instruct buyer and seller to attach IRS Form 8594 to federal income tax form for year in which sale of business occurred [see I.R.C. § 1060(b); Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(h)(1)].

NOTE:

Both parties to an "applicable asset acquisition" must allocate the consideration received for the acquired assets using the residual allocation method [I.R.C. § 1060(a); see I.R.C. § 338(b)(5); see also Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b), 1.1060-1T(d)] and report the allocation to the IRS [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(h)(1)]. Form 8594 requires the names and addresses of each party, the date of the sale, the total sales price, and the fair market value and amount of sales price allocated to each class of asset transferred.

In an applicable asset acquisition, both parties are bound for tax purposes by the terms of the written agreement as to the allocation of any consideration, or as to the fair market value of any of the assets unless the IRS determines that the allocation (or fair market value) is not appropriate [I.R.C. § 1060(a)].

3. Advise parties that if amount allocated to any asset increases or decreases after Form 8594 is filed, they must attach new Form 8594 to federal income tax return for year in which increase or decrease is taken into account [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(h)(2)].

NOTE:
To report a change, only Parts I and IV of Form 8594 must be completed. Part IV requires a statement of the allocation as previously reported, the amount of increase or decrease, the redetermined allocation of the sales price, and the reason for the change.

4. Warn parties that failure to file an initial or updated Form 8594, when required, is punishable by fine [I.R.C. § 1060(f); see I.R.C. § 6721 (amount of fine)].

§ 17.200 Contract for Sale of Business

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a basic contract for the sale of a business. With the exception of optional language in Section 6.01 of the form, this form is not designed to comply with the Bulk Sales Division. For provisions that may be added to this form if the sale is subject to the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code ("Bulk Sales Division") [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] see the form in § 17.210[2]. For provisions that may be used with this contract for the an example of a contract for the sale of a professional practice, see the form in § 17.211. For additional provisions that may be incorporated into this contract for sale, see the forms in §§ 17.212-17.220.

[b] Mandatory Terms of Sales Contract

Like all other contracts, contracts for the sale of a business must include the following:

- The consent of parties capable of contracting [see Civ. Code §§ 1556-1559 (parties), 1565-1590 (consent)].
- A lawful objective [see Civ. Code §§ 1595-1599].
- Sufficient consideration [Civ. Code § 1550; see Civ. Code §§ 1605-1615].

For a discussion of these essential elements, see the discussion under "Parties--Capacity" and subsequent headings in the Legal Background to Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

[c] Description of Property Being Sold

The sales contract should enumerate all of the business property that the seller will transfer to the buyer and specifically describe any items of property that are not subject to the sale [see [2], Section 1.01, below]. Transfer of a leasehold interest [see [2], Section 1.01(5), below] should be accomplished by a written assignment signed by the assignor [see Civ. Code §§ 1091, 1624; Code Civ. Proc. § 1971 (required for transfers of term exceeding one year); see also Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests]. The seller may also state the condition of the tangible property being transferred [see [2], Section 7.01(f), below].

The parties should specifically identify any business assets that are not being sold.

[d] Amount of Purchase Price

The contract should state the total purchase price [see [2], Section 2.01, below].

Determination of the purchase price of a business is beyond the scope of this chapter, and is not covered in this form or comment. Generally, the parties will employ a financial expert to determine the fair market value of the business and of each individual asset. The investigation underlying the valuation determination may, however, overlap with the due diligence investigation undertaken to understand the business's rights and liabilities. For a discussion of due diligence, see § 17.18. For a detailed checklist of the documents to be reviewed and information to be obtained during due diligence, see § 17.121.

[e] Allocation of Purchase Price

For tax purposes, the parties must allocate the purchase price among the assets being sold. This allows the seller to determine any gain or loss on the sale and the buyer to determine his or her basis in the assets being acquired [see § 17.11[4]]. Furthermore, an allocation is required to determine sales tax on the sale [see § 17.12].

Restrictions on allocation of the purchase price apply to any applicable asset acquisition; that is, any direct or indirect transfer of assets in which (1) the assets constitute a trade or business, and (2) the buyer's basis in the assets is determined wholly by reference to the consideration paid for the assets [see I.R.C. § 1060(a), (c)]. For purposes of determining the buyer's basis in the assets and the seller's gain or loss in such a transaction, the consideration received for the assets must be allocated among the assets under the "residual method" [I.R.C. § 1060(a); Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b), 1.1060-1T(d)]. Under that method, the purchase price is reduced as follows [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)]:

- First, by the amount of "Class I assets." Class I assets consist of cash, demand deposits and similar accounts in banks, savings and loan associations (or other similar depositary institutions), and other items designated by the IRS in the Internal Revenue Bulletin [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(1), 1.1060-1T(d)(1)].

- Second, by the amount of "Class II assets." Class II assets are certificates of stock, U.S. Government securities, readily marketable stock or securities [see Treas. Reg. § 1.351-1(c)(3)], foreign currency, and other items designated by the IRS in the Internal Revenue Bulletin [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(ii), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(ii)].

- Third, by the amount of "Class III assets." Class III assets are all assets that do not fall within any of the other asset categories specified in this list [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(iii)].

- Fourth, by the amount of "Class IV assets." Class IV assets are all intangibles [I.R.C. § 197], except those in the nature of goodwill and going concern value [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(iv)].

- Fifth, by the amount of "Class V assets." Class V assets are intangibles in the nature of goodwill and going concern value [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(v), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(v)].

When drafting the sales contract in an applicable asset acquisition, it is important to be aware that both parties will be bound for tax purposes by the terms of the written agreement as to the allocation of any consideration, or as to the fair market value of any of the assets, unless the IRS determines that the allocation (or fair market value) is not appropriate [I.R.C. § 1060(a)].

This form allocates the purchase price among the assets in the order indicated above generally referred to as the residual allocation method. Specifically, the allocations are made as follows [see [2], Section 3.01, below]:

- First, to cash and demand deposits and similar accounts in banks, savings and loan associations, and other depository institutions ("Class I assets") [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(1), 1.1060-1T(d)(1)].

- Second, to fair market value of certificates of deposit, U.S. government securities, and foreign currency ("Class II assets") [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(ii), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(i)].

- Third, to fair market value of all other assets other than goodwill and going concern value ("Class III assets") [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(ii)].

- Fourth, to intangibles except those in the nature of goodwill and going concern value [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(iv)].

- Fifth, to goodwill and going concern value [Temp. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338(b)-2T(b)(2)(v), 1.1060-1T(d)(2)(v)].

This form also contains the following [see [2], Section 3.02, below ; see also Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(h) (seller and purchaser must report allocation); Ann. 88-107, Announcement 88-107, 1988-32 I.R.B. 60 (parties must use IRS Form 8594 to report allocation); Dugoni, Drafting and Agreement for the Purchase and Sale of a Medical or Dental Practice, 4 C.E.B. Cal. Bus. Law Prac. 25 (Winter 1989)]:

- The acknowledgment of each party that the amount allocated to each individual asset represents its fair market value determined pursuant to arm's-length negotiation;

- A statement that each party has had the tax consequences of the allocations explained to him or her by a tax attorney or other advisor; and

- The agreement by each party to report the allocations as set forth in the contract of sale to the IRS. For further discussion of the reporting requirements, see § 17.11[4].

[f] Payment of Purchase Price

This form provides for payment of the sales price in either cash or installments [see [2], Section 4.01, below]. The installment sale alternative provides for execution of a promissory note and security agreement giving the seller a security interest in the property being sold. This type of transaction (excluding the sale of accounts receivable as part of the sale of the business from which they arose [see Com. Code § 9109(d)(4)]) is governed by Division 9 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9109(a)(1); see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.]. The seller may "perfect" his or her security interest by filing a financing statement [see Com. Code §§ 9317, 9502]. Coverage of secured transactions is beyond the scope of this chapter. For extensive discussion of secured transactions under Division 9, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

[g] Seller's Warranties Regarding Business

This form contains the seller's warranties regarding ownership of the business, marketable title, the accuracy of the business books and accounts, outstanding debts, and pending litigation or proceedings [see [2], Section 7.01, below]. A warranty is a contractual term concerning any aspect of the sale, such as title or quality. The parties to the sale may negotiate for any express warranties to be included in the contract of sale. Although the buyer will want the contract to contain broad warranties regarding the business, the seller should limit his or her representations in order to avoid any possible liability for fraud or deceit [see Civ. Code §§ 1571-1574 (fraud), 1709-1710 (deceit)]. For additional discussion of warranties under the California Commercial Code, and forms, see Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code, §§ 52.90-52.97.

[h] Assumption of Liabilities

A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction generally is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known or ought to be known to the person accepting [Civ. Code § 1589]. Accordingly, this form provides that the buyer will assume all obligations appearing on the books of the business on the date of the sales contract [see [2], Section 5.01, below]. If the buyer is aware of the existing liabilities, he or she will be able to negotiate a purchase price reflecting the outstanding obligations. The seller should indemnify the buyer for all other claims and liabilities arising from operation of the business before the closing [see [2], Section 13.01, below], and the buyer should indemnify the seller for claims and liabilities arising after the closing [see [2], Section 13.02, below].

The law of products liability, however, has created uncertainty regarding unmatured liabilities. An action for injuries caused by a defective product may arise years after sale of the product. Liability may extend to a manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer, lessor, and even a licensor or franchisor, if the firm supplied the product in its normal course of business and contributed to the placing of the product on the market [see Kasel v. Remington Arms Co. (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 711, 725-726, 101 Cal. Rptr. 314 (licensor); Price v. Shell Oil Co. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 245, 253, 85 Cal. Rptr. 178, 466 P.2d 722 (lessor of personal property); Canifax v. Hercules Powder Co. (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 44, 52, 46 Cal. Rptr. 552 (wholesaler); Vandermark v. Ford Motor Co. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 256, 262-263, 37 Cal. Rptr. 896, 391 P.2d 168 (manufacturer and retailer)]. Furthermore, if the original manufacturer or distributor lacks sufficient assets to satisfy the claim or has dissolved the corporate entity, liability may be imposed on the successor to the business [Rawlings v. D.M. Oliver, Inc. (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 890, 900, 159 Cal. Rptr. 119 (individual seller with insufficient assets); Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 22, 34, 136 Cal. Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 (corporate seller dissolved)].

Under the landmark decision in Ray v. Alad [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 22, 136 Cal. Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3] , liability will be imposed on a successor only if (1) the plaintiff's remedies against the predecessor were virtually destroyed by the successor's acquisition of the business, (2) the successor had the ability to estimate the risk of product liability claims arising from the predecessor, and (3) it was fair and equitable to require the successor to assume responsibility for defective products, in view of the successor's use of the predecessor's goodwill in the continued operation of the business [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 22, 31, 136 Cal. Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; see Lundell v. Sidney Machine Tool Co. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1546, 1550-1557, 236 Cal. Rptr. 70 (defendant who merely purchased part of original manufacturer's assets not liable as successor because Ray v. Alad factors not present)]. Because this successor liability rule applies to all distributors in the "stream of commerce," not just to manufacturers [Kaminski v. Western MacArthur Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 445, 456-458, 220 Cal. Rptr. 895] , the purchaser of a business needs to evaluate the risk of potential products liability.

[i] Closing of Sale

The contract should specify the date and place of closing, that is, transfer of title [see [2], Section 6.01, below]. Closing may be simultaneous with the execution of the contract for the sale of the business or the contract may be executed prior to a specified or target closing date. If the execution and closing occur separately, the contract should include provisions regarding each party's obligations between execution and close, including any limitations placed on seller's interim operation of the business and risk of loss provisions.

If a party is expected to deliver particular documents at the closing, those documents should be enumerated in the sales contract [see [2], Sections 6.02, 6.03, below]. The delivery of those documents should be identified as conditions precedent to the close. If they are not going to be delivered at the close, either the close can be postponed or provision can be made, such as a holdback, to protect the aggrieved party.

[j] Bills of Sale

A seller is not required to use a bill of sale to transfer title to specific personal property to the buyer, but contracts of sale and escrow instructions often specify that the seller deliver a bill of sale for personal property assets of the business to the buyer [see [2], Section 6.02(1), below].

[k] Conduct of Business

This contract requires the seller to continue operating the business in the same manner until the closing [see [2], Section 8.01, below]. For an alternative provision that lists specific requirements, see the form in § 17.215.

[l] Risk of Loss

This form provides that the seller will bear the risk of damage to or loss of the assets of the business prior to closing, and the buyer will bear the risk of loss thereafter [see [2], Section 8.02, below]. However, Civ. Code § 1511(2) provides that performance of an obligation is excused when it is prevented or delayed by an irresistible superhuman cause, unless the parties have expressly agreed to the contrary. For a discussion and example of a "force majeure" clause, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.235.

[m] Proration of Expenses

The buyer and seller generally agree to prorate, as of the closing, the expenses incident to conducting the business. This form provides that the parties will prorate all personal property taxes, insurance policies, employee salaries and benefits, and rent when applicable [see [2], Section 11.01, below].

[n] Inventory

The contract should specify the date and method of taking inventory of the property being sold. This event may take place at the close of business hours on the day preceding the closing [see [2], Section 12.01, below].

[o] Insurance Policies

A provision may be included to require seller to provide a list of insurance policies insuring the business or assets to be transferred and to require the buyer to indicate in writing which policies, if any, he or she desires the seller to transfer to the buyer [see [2], Section 15.01, below]. Generally, an insured may sell or assign an insurance policy. However, in order to prevent an increase of risk to the insurer due to a change of ownership before a loss occurs, the insurer must consent to the assignment [see University of Judaism v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 937, 941, 132 Cal. Rptr. 907 ,] whether or not the policy requires consent [see Bergson v. Builders' Ins. Co. (1869) 38 Cal. 541, 544 ]. For further coverage of the law governing assignment of insurance policies, see California Insurance Law and Practice, Ch. 8, The Insurance Contract, § 8.11 (Matthew Bender).

[p] Indemnification

One party may indemnify the other for potential products liability losses [see Rossmoor Sanitation, Inc. v. Pylon, Inc. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 622 (parties may bargain for one to make good the other's future losses)]. The question of who should undertake responsibility is a business decision to be made in negotiations between the seller and the buyer. The answer may affect the price of the business and may depend on whether the seller will continue to be in a position to insure or self-insure against products liability loss. Insurance companies typically sell discontinued operations or discontinued products liability insurance for the seller, as well as products liability insurance with coverage for products sold by the insured's predecessor in the business. This form contains an optional provision that the buyer will insure against products liability claims arising from seller's activities before the sale [see [2], Section 3.02, below]. For further discussion of products liability with respect to successors in interest, see California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.14[5] (Matthew Bender).

For provisions regarding the implementation of an indemnification that may either form the basis of an independent indemnification agreement or be incorporated into a master agreement, see the form in § 17.212.

[q] Attorneys' Fees

This form specifically provides that attorneys' fees will be awarded to the prevailing party in any arbitration or litigation [see [2], Section 16.02, below]. A litigant is not entitled to attorneys' fees unless they are agreed to by the parties or specifically provided for by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021]. In any action on a contract, if the contract provides that attorneys' fees and costs incurred to enforce the contract are to be awarded either to one of the parties or to the prevailing party, the party who is determined to be the party prevailing on the contract, regardless of whether he or she is the party named in the contract, is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees in addition to other costs [Civ. Code § 1717(a)]. For further discussion and other examples of attorneys' fees provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.252.

[r] Arbitration

This form provides that any dispute regarding the contract will be settled by arbitration [see [2], Section 16.01, below]. Some attorneys consider arbitration clauses to be more or less part of the "boilerplate" of an agreement; that is to say, provisions included fairly automatically. Inclusion and content of an arbitration clause, however, should be carefully considered because arbitration can limit an aggrieved party's rights. Unlike disputes resolved in the courts, with arbitration there may be no recourse to appeal a clearly erroneous decision.

Arbitration provisions commonly incorporate the rules of the American Arbitration Association or the California Arbitration Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq.]. For additional examples and discussion of arbitration clauses, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.250. For an example and discussion of the statutory arbitration notice that must appear in any contract to convey real property [Code Civ. Proc. § 1298], see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.253.

[s] Standard Contractual Provisions

Most written agreements include certain standard provisions. This form contains an "entire agreement" provision [see [2], Section 16.04, below ; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.270], a clause governing amendment and modification [see [2], Section 16.05, below ; see also Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, §§ 77.320-77.323], a provision for the manner of giving notice [see [2], Section 16.06, below ; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.294], and assignability provisions [see [2], Section 16.07, below ; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.280-75.282]. This form also contains a "choice of law" provision [see [2], Section 16.09, below], which may be useful if the sales transaction involves contacts with states other than California [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.273]. For other standard provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

[t] Additional Provisions

Depending on the nature of the business being sold, other provisions may be added to or substituted for the provisions in this contract. For provisions governing the parties' conduct before and after the sale, see §§ 17.215, 17.216. If the business being sold is subject to a franchise agreement, see the forms in §§ 17.280, 17.281. For other miscellaneous provisions, see the forms in §§ 17.210-17.220.

[u] Attached Exhibits

The parties to a contract have the power to incorporate other documents by reference, whether or not those documents are attached [King v. Larsen Realty, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 349, 357, 175 Cal. Rptr. 226 ; see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.290]. This contract incorporates various attached exhibits, including an inventory of fixtures and equipment [see [2], Section 1.01(2), below], a list of accounts receivable [see [2], Section 1.01(4), below], a promissory note and security agreement for use when the purchase price is financed [see [2], Section 4.01(b), second alternative provisions, below], a schedule of parties with an interest in or claim to business assets [see [2], Sections 5.01, 7.01(a), below], a list of all business obligations owed by the seller [see [2], Section 7.01(b), below], a list of all business employees and their salaries [see [2], Section 11.01(c), (d), below], and an inventory of stock in trade [see [2], Section 12.01, below].

8-17 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 17.201

AUTHOR: Marilyn E. Minger Revision Author

§ 17.201 Contract of the Sale of Business and Real Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract for a bifurcated sale of a business and the real property on which the business is operated. It is designed for a sale that is not subject to the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code ("Bulk Sales Division") [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111]. For discussion of the Bulk Sales Division and an example of a contract for the sale of a business subject to its requirements, see the form in § 17.210. Separate escrow instructions for such a sale are set forth in the form in § 17.250. For an example of a contract for the sale of a professional practice, see the form in § 17.211.

[b] Combined Sale of Business and Real Property

This contract contemplates two different but interdependent sales. The sale of the real property on which the business is conducted requires different procedures than the sale of the business, and is often handled by a different agency or person than the one handling the sale of the business. This form assumes that a title insurance company will handle the sale of the real property through an escrow [see [2], Section 3.05, below], and that an attorney will handle the sale of the business and personal property [see [2], Section 2.04, below]. Even if a commercial escrow company were to handle both parts of the sale, it would use separate escrows for each type of transaction. This contract is structured so that closing the sale of the business is conditioned on closing the real property sale, and vice versa [see [2], Sections 2.07, 3.07, below].

[c] Sale of Business

Because this form contemplates the sale of a business that is not subject to the Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111; see also § 17.20], it does not require use of the escrow typically established for a sale subject to those provisions [see § 17.210]. If the parties wish to use an escrow, however, the form may be modified accordingly. This form requires the buyer to deposit the purchase price for the business with the attorney handling the sale for withholding until he or she receives a certificate of tax clearance for the business from the Employment Development Department [see Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1732, 1733; see also [2], Section 2.06, below ; § 17.14[3]]. It also contains an optional provision requiring a certificate of tax clearance from the Board of Equalization when applicable [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6811, 6812; see also [2], Section 2.06, below]. For example, a business that is not subject to the Bulk Sales Division because its principal business is not the sale of merchandise (for example, a hair salon that sells shampoo) [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(3)] might nonetheless sell a limited amount of merchandise requiring a sales permit and tax clearance [see § 17.14[2]].

This comment discusses only those provisions unique to this form. For discussion of the various form provisions generally applicable to the sale of a business, see the discussion in § 17.200[1].

[d] Issuance of License

This form requires the buyer to obtain a state license for operation of the business, as well as any necessary county or city licenses or permits, as a condition of closing [see [2], Section 2.09, below]. The issuance of a state license to the buyer may require examination of the business premises, as well as examination of the buyer's qualifications. For example, the sale of a nursing facility requires issuance of a new license, which will not be issued without a safety, zoning, and building clearance [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72201, 72205].

[e] Sale of Real Property

This form contains a basic contract of sale for the real property on which the business is operated. It provides for the sales transaction to be handled pursuant to an escrow. For discussion of escrow and escrow instructions, see § 17.250; also see § 17.210[2].

Subsections [f] through [i], below, summarize the legal requirements applicable to real property sales agreements. For a basic contract for the sale of real property and extensive discussion of its provisions, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.200.

[f] Payment of Purchase Price

A real property sales agreement must provide for sufficient consideration [see Civ. Code § 1550(4)], which usually consists of the payment of a specified purchase price in exchange for transfer of title. The agreement must also adequately describe the terms and manner of payment [Dennis v. Overholtzer (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 766, 774, 3 Cal. Rptr. 193 (disapproved on other grounds in Ellis v. Mihelis (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 206, 221, 32 Cal. Rptr. 415, 384 P.2d 7)]. This form provides for a down payment, and payment of the balance of the purchase price at close of escrow [see [2], Sections 3.02, 3.03, below]. For examples of alternative payment and financing provisions, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

[g] Risk of Loss

Any contract made in California for the purchase and sale of real property will be interpreted as including an agreement that the parties will be bound by the Uniform Vendor and Purchaser Risk Act, unless the contract expressly provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1662]. Under the Act, if all or a material part of the property is destroyed without fault of the buyer or taken by eminent domain, the seller cannot enforce the contract, and the purchaser is entitled to recover any portion of the purchase price that he or she has already paid [Civ. Code § 1662(a)]. After the legal title or possession has transferred to the buyer, the buyer bears the loss from destruction or eminent domain. The buyer is not relieved from a duty to pay the price, nor entitled to recover any portion already paid [Civ. Code § 1662(b); see Section 3.12 of form].

[h] Liquidated Damages

This form contains a liquidated damages provision that governs the seller's remedies in the case of a default by the buyer [see [2], Section 3.17, below]. Such a provision is valid unless the party seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code §§ 1671(b), 1676; see Weber, Lipshie & Co. v. Christian (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 645, 656-657, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (partnership agreement's liquidated damages provision, which provided that damages to accounting firm for loss of fees from breach of covenant would be measured by doubling firm's time charges for clients lost due to breach for 12 months immediately preceding their loss, was enforceable under Civ. Code § 1671)]. Further, the provision is valid only if (1) it is separately signed or initialed by each party to the contract, and (2) if included in a printed contract, it is set out either in at least 10-point bold type or in contrasting red print in at least 8-point bold type [Civ. Code § 1677].

[i] Time of the Essence

Most real property sales agreements provide that time is of the essence [see [2], Section 3.18, below]. This permits a party to insist on performance by the date specified for the close of escrow. Without it, later performance may have to be tolerated if it is tendered within a "reasonable time." However, a party may waive such a provision by conduct or express waiver. For example, a party waives the requirement by performing after the date [see Lifton v. Harshman (1947) 80 Cal. App. 2d 422, 433, 182 P.2d 222 , disapproved on other grounds, Lee v. Gregoriou (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 502, 506, 326 P.2d 135] , or by accepting performance after the date [see Chin Ott Wong v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1948) 89 Cal. App. 2d 183, 186-188, 200 P.2d 541] .

[j] Standard Contractual Provisions

Most written agreements include certain standard provisions regarding topics such as governing law, notice, and amendment of the contract [see [2], Article 4, below]. For discussion of attorneys' fees, see § 17.200[1][q]. For a discussion of arbitration provisions, see § 17.200[1][r].

[k] Optional Contract Provisions

Depending on the nature of the business being sold, other provisions may be added to or substituted for the provisions in this contract. For provisions governing the parties' conduct before and after the sale, see §§ 17.215[2], 17.216[2]. If the business being sold is subject to a franchise agreement, see §§ 17.280[2] and 17.281[2]. For other miscellaneous provisions, see §§ 17.210[2]-17.220[2].

§ 17.210 Bulk Sales Provisions

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains provisions that may be used to modify the contract for the sale of a business in § 17.200 when the sale is subject to the Bulk Sales Division. In a sale subject to the Bulk Sales Division, either the buyer or an escrow agent must be authorized to impound and control the distribution of the proceeds of the sale, and must apply the proceeds to the seller's debts before paying the seller. For discussion of the Bulk Sales Division, see § 17.20.

If the buyer is going to distribute the proceeds, the contract for sale may be modified to include escrow instructions. This form contains a set of escrow instructions, that may be modified to suit the details of the particular transaction. However, if an escrow agent is going to be used, it may be preferable to use a separate escrow agreement so that the escrow agent does not become a party to the contract for sale. For a separate escrow agreement, see § 17.250. If a separate escrow agreement is used, the escrow provisions in this form then become redundant and should be deleted.

[b] Compliance With Bulk Sales Law

A "bulk sale" is any sale outside the ordinary course of the seller's business of more than one half of seller's inventory and equipment, as measured by the fair market value on the date of the sale [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), (3), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined)].

The Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] applies to a bulk sale if (1) the seller's principal business is the sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1)]; and (2) the seller is located in California, or is located in a jurisdiction outside United States but has its major American executive office in California, on the date of the sale [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(c) (exceptions)]. For further discussion, see §§ 17.20[3], 17.111.

§ 17.211 Provisions for Sale of Professional Practice

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of provisions to be used with a general contract for the sale of a business when the business in question is an unincorporated professional practice. These provisions may be added to the complete agreement in § 17.200[2].

This comment discusses only those aspects of the sale of a professional practice that differ from the sale of any other type of business. For discussion of provisions applicable to the sale of businesses generally, see § 17.200[1].

For coverage of professional corporations, see Ch. 12A, Professional Corporations . For discussion of corporate dissolution, applicable to the sale of an incorporated business [see Corp. Code § 13403 (General Corporations Law applies to professional corporations)], see Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution .

[b] Sale of Law Practice

Special considerations apply to the sale of a law practice [see § 17.22[5]]. This form may be used for the sale of a law practice. It is designed primarily for use by a sole practitioner who has not incorporated the practice or entered into a partnership arrangement with other attorneys. For a discussion of the sale of an incorporated law practice, see Ch. 12, Winding Up and Dissolution .

[c] Seller's Warranties

Because the Bulk Transfers Division [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] does not apply to professional practices [see § 17.20[2][b]], its provisions requiring notice to creditors and payment of claims will not protect the buyer of a professional practice. The buyer is forced to rely on the seller's representations regarding the existence of debts and obligations [see [2], Section _____.01, below]. Therefore, in addition to the usual seller's warranties, Buyer should require the seller to warrant without qualification that the list of obligations and all other financial data is complete and accurate [see [2], Section _____.01(e), below]. Furthermore, the seller should warrant that he or she is a licensee or member of the applicable professional agency or organization, and is not subject to investigation or discipline by that agency or organization [see [2], Section _____.01(f), below].

[d] Buyer's Warranties

The buyer of a professional practice should make various representations designed to protect the seller [see [2], Section _____.02, below]. This form requires the buyer to state the following:

- That he or she is licensed by the applicable professional agency or organization and is not subject to investigation or discipline by that agency or organization.

- That he or she understands that the seller does not guarantee the success of the buyer's continuation of the practice.

- That if the seller is providing financing for the sale, the buyer has sufficient resources to comply with the payment terms.

The contract may require the buyer to provide the seller with access to patrons' files if, for example, in a medical or dental practice, the seller might need to answer questions about prior treatment.

[e] Protection of Goodwill.

To preserve the value of the goodwill, the seller should agree to help the buyer establish contact with the existing patrons (for example, clients or patients) of the practice. This form requires the seller to allow the buyer on the business premises prior to the sale, and to introduce the buyer as his or her successor to clients and other business associates [see [2], Sections _____.04, _____.05, below]. It also requires the seller to send a letter to each client, at his or her own expense, announcing his or her sale of the practice to the buyer. Finally, it requires the seller to encourage his or her clients or patients, in every manner consistent with the ethics of the profession, to treat the buyer as the successor to the business. However, the buyer should acknowledge that the seller cannot guarantee the success of the buyer's practice [see [2], Sections _____.02(b), below].

[f] Malpractice Insurance

The contract may require both parties to maintain malpractice insurance for as long as they continue to practice the profession [see [2], Section _____.09, below]. This type of provision will protect one party from claims arising with respect to actions taken by the other. In particular, the seller may want such a provision to be included if he or she agrees to let the buyer continue using the original name of the practice.

[g] Assumption of Obligations

In addition to typical obligations like real property leases, many professional practices (particularly law practices) have ongoing obligations for the purchase of new and updated books, electronic research tools, and library services. This form provides that the buyer will assume all library and associated obligations [see [2], Section _____.07(a), below].

Many professional practices, particularly medical and dental practices, lease a variety of equipment. This form provides that the buyer will assume those equipment leases [see [2], Section _____.07(b), below].

Section _____.03. Notice of Claim. The party with a right to indemnification under this Agreement (the "Indemnified Party") shall be reimbursed by the other party ("Indemnifying Party") for any damage that is subject to indemnification under this Agreement. An Indemnified Party making any claim against an Indemnifying Party for indemnification shall make that claim in writing, setting forth in general terms the facts upon which the Indemnified Party bases the claim. If any third party asserts any claim or demand against any Indemnified Party by a third party for which that Party may claim indemnification under this Agreement, the Indemnified Party shall give the Indemnifying Party written notice within 30 days after receipt of the claim or demand, and shall indicate whether the Indemnified Party intends to assume the defense of that claim or demand.

Section _____.04. Defense. (a) The Indemnifying Party shall have the right to elect to participate, at that Party's own expense, in the defense of any claim that may be subject to the indemnification under this Agreement, and may exercise that election only by written notice given to the Indemnified Party within 15 days from the date of the Indemnified Party's notice of the claim or demand.

(b) If the Indemnified Party assumes the defense and the Indemnifying Party does not participate, the Indemnified Party shall have the right to completely control and to settle or litigate the proceedings.

(c) If the Indemnifying Party elects to participate in the defense and does not dispute liability for indemnification of all damages arising out of the claim or demand, the Indemnifying Party may elect to control the proceeding but may not settle the claim without the consent of the Indemnified Party; provided that the consent of the Indemnified Party shall not be unreasonably withheld.

(d) If the Indemnifying Party elects to participate in the defense but not to control the proceeding, the Indemnified Party shall control the proceeding but shall not settle the claim without the consent of the Indemnifying Party; provided that the consent of the Indemnifying Party shall not be unreasonably withheld.

(e) If the Indemnified Party elects not to assume the defense, the Indemnifying Party shall have the right to do so and to control the proceeding, but the Indemnified Party shall nonetheless have the right to participate in the proceeding, and the Indemnifying Party shall not settle the claim without the consent of the Indemnified Party; provided that the consent of the Indemnified Party shall not be unreasonably withheld.

§ 17.213 Noncompetition Provision

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of noncompetition provisions or a "covenant not to compete" that prohibits the seller from carrying on the same type of business as the buyer in the same county or city. It may be added to the contract for sale of a business set forth in § 17.200[2].

If this provision is added to the contract, then it might be advisable to add as well the provision in § 17.216[2].

Any person who sells the goodwill of a business, any owner of a business entity who sells or otherwise disposes of all of his or her ownership interest in the business entity, and any owner of a business entity that sells (1) all or substantially all of the business' operating assets together with the business' goodwill, (2) all or substantially all of the operating assets of a division or subsidiary together with that division's or subsidiary's goodwill, or (3) all of the ownership interest of any subsidiary may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business within a specified geographic area in which the sold business, division, or subsidiary conducted business provided that the buyer (or any person deriving title to the goodwill or ownership interest from the buyer) carries on a similar business in that geographic area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601]. For this purpose, "business entity" is defined to include any partnership (including a limited partnership or limited liability partnership), limited liability company (including a series of a limited liability company formed under the laws of a jurisdiction that recognizes such a series), or corporation. An "owner of a business entity" is defined as a partner (partnership), member (limited liability company) or any owner of capital stock (corporation). An "ownership interest" is defined as a partnership interest, a membership interest, or a capital stockholder. "Subsidiary" is defined as a business entity over which the selling business entity has voting control, or from which the selling business has a right to receive a majority share of distributions on dissolution or other liquidation of the business entity, or both [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601].

A noncompetition agreement may not be used in connection with the sale of a law practice unless the selling attorney intends to permanently retire from the practice of law [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500; see also § 17.22[5][c]].

For additional discussion of noncompetition provisions, and for examples of those provisions in employment agreements, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, §§ 85.470-85.473.

[b] Severability Provision

The drafting attorney may wish to add a severability and partial invalidity provision to the noncompetition clause, stating that the covenant not to compete will be construed as a separate covenant for each city, county, or part of those cities and counties. Thus, if a court were to find that the covenant was invalid with respect to certain specified areas because the business was not "carried on" in those areas, the covenant could still be enforced with respect to the other specified areas [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601; see also Hill Medical Corporation v. Wycoff (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 895, 897, 906-908, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 779 (holding that noncompetition provision in radiologist's stock redemption agreement was void under Bus & Prof. Code § 16600 and did not fall within exception of Bus & Prof. Code § 16601, when business goodwill was not a factor in corporation's repurchase of his shares)]. A contract is severable if performance by each party is divided into two or more parts, and performance of each part by one party is the agreed exchange for a corresponding part by the other party [Lowy v. United Pacific Ins. Co. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 87, 91-92, 60 Cal. Rptr 225, 429 P.2d 577] . If a contract has several distinct objects, then any of those objects that is lawful is valid, and any that is unlawful is invalid [Civ. Code § 1599]. For further discussion of severability, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.271.

[c] Professional Practices

When the business being sold is a professional practice, such as a doctor's or accountant's practice [see §§ 17.22, 17.211], it may be desirable to include an additional provision regarding referrals. This form prohibits the seller from referring a client or patient to any member of the profession, other than the buyer, within the same geographic area.

Note, however, that an attorney may not enter into a noncompetition agreement in connection with the sale of his or her law practice unless he or she intends to permanently retire from the practice of law [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 1-500(B)]. For discussion, see § 17.22[5].

[d] Liquidated Damages

This form contains an optional liquidated damages provision, which may be included if the parties desire to fix the amount to be paid by the seller in the event of a breach of the noncompetition provision. A liquidated damages provision is valid unless the party seeking to invalidate it can establish that it was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code § 1671]. In Weber, Lipshie & Co. v. Christian (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 645, 656-657, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 , the court found reasonable a liquidated damages provision that provided that damages to accounting firm for loss of fees from breach of covenant not to compete would be measured by doubling firm's time charges for clients lost due to breach for 12 months immediately preceding their loss. For discussion of liquidated damages provisions in contracts generally, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.251. For an example and discussion of a liquidated damages provision for a noncompetition agreement in an employment contract, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, § 85.473. For an example and discussion of the special requirements applicable to a liquidated damages provision in a contract for the sale of real property, see § 17.201[1][h].

The parties hereby declare that they intend that the remaining covenants of the provision continue to be effective without any covenants that have been declared invalid.

Seller and Buyer agree that the amount stated as liquidated damages is reasonable under the circumstances existing at the time that this agreement was executed.

§ 17.214 Warranty by Seller Regarding Hazardous Materials

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a warranty by the seller that the property being transferred to the buyer does not contain hazardous materials. It may be added to any contract of sale when the buyer is concerned about the presence of hazardous materials in the property being transferred. Use of such a provision is particularly important when the seller is transferring real property for a business that used chemicals or other potentially hazardous materials in its operation. If the buyer has particular concerns about the presence of hazardous materials, however, the parties should consult an environmental expert prior to the sale.

For an example and discussion of the real estate transfer disclosure statement, which requires disclosure of known environmental hazards on residential property [see Civ. Code § 1102.6], see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.300. For additional discusion, see Ch. 33, Contamination Considerations in Real Property Transactions .

The Real Property does not contain any underground storage tanks regulated by Health and Safety Code Sections 25280 through 25299.7, and the building (and its fixtures) do(es) not contain any _____[specify any particular chemicals or other hazardous materials]. Seller has never been cited for violating any federal, state, or local environmental law or regulation with respect to operation of the business on the Real Property.

§ 17.216 Seller's Association With Business After Sale

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an alternative contract provision specifying that the seller will work in the business or professional practice in a designated capacity for a specified period after its sale to the buyer. It should be added to a contract for the sale of a business or professional practice when the buyer wants the seller to train the buyer in the operation of the business, or when effective transfer of the goodwill depends on continuing patronage of the current clients. For example, the buyer of a small fast-food business typically will want the seller to continue working in the business for a period of several weeks after the sale, in order to train the buyer regarding the practical aspects of business operations.

In a sales or marketing business operated primarily by the seller or in a professional practice, the goodwill resulting from the personal skill, talent, experience, or reputation of the seller is often the most valuable asset [see Smith v. Bull (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 294, 302, 325 P.2d 463 ; see also § 17.22[2]]. To protect the value of that asset, the buyer often will want to associate the seller with the business or practice until the customers or clients become acquainted and comfortable with the buyer. The seller's compensation for this association may be included as part of the sale, or may involve a separate consideration [see [2], below].

This provision also could be used to complement and reinforce a noncompetition provision of the kind discussed and illustrated in § 17.213 [see Huong Que, Inc. v. Luu (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 400, 410-416, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 527 (business-sale agreement included buyer's hiring of sellers as "managing agents" of business for limited period, thus creating agency relationship in which sellers were bound, under law of agency, to act with loyalty to new owner; agency provision was not incompatible with, and was not superseded by, agreement's noncompetition provision; sellers could be liable, as disloyal agents, for damages arising from use of customer list for their own future business purposes)].

Before including this provision, the drafting attorney should consider the feasibility of the buyer and seller working together. If the parties have had an adversarial relationship throughout the sale negotiations, required association after the sale may hinder, rather than facilitate, the successful transfer of the business or practice from one party to the other.

Seller's Association With Business After Sale

Section _____. Seller's Association With _____[Business or Practice] After Sale. Seller shall continue to work in the _____[business or practice] as _____[specify occupation, e.g., a consultant] for a period of _____[specify, e.g., 30 days] after the closing of the purchase and sale described in this contract. [Add, if seller will receive separate consideration: Seller's compensation for the work specified in this Section shall consist of _____ (specify, e.g., 20 percent of all gross sales or $_____), payable by Buyer to Seller _____ (specify time for payment, e.g., on a weekly basis).] Seller shall use Seller's own automobile for the performance of services relating to the _____[business or practice], and shall maintain at Seller's own cost and expense an automobile liability insurance policy on the automobile insuring Buyer and Seller as named insureds against liability (1) in an amount not less than $_____ for bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident; (2) in an amount not less than $_____ for bodily injury to or death of more than one person in any one accident; and (3) in an amount not less than $_____ for property damages resulting from any one accident. § 17.217 Buyer's Use of Current Business Name or Seller's Name Prohibited

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an alternative contract provision prohibiting the buyer from using the trade name of the business being sold or the seller's name in connection with the operation of the business. It should be added when the seller wants to disconnect the name from the business. For example, the seller might want to use the existing name in connection with another business, or the business being sold might have been only one of several businesses operated under the same name.

[b] Relationship Between Business Name and Goodwill

The goodwill of a business is transferable property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14102; see § 17.22[2]]. A person transferring the goodwill of a business may transfer with it the right to use the name under which the business is conducted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14103].

The goodwill of a business, however, does not include a right to use the name of any person from whom the business was acquired [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14101]. Thus, if a contract for the sale of a business (and business goodwill) does not specifically permit use of the seller's personal name in continuing the business, the buyer cannot use that name [Mahlstedt v. Fugit (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 562, 567-568, 180 P.2d 777 ; but see Reid v. St. John (1924) 68 Cal. App. 348, 357, 229 P. 863 (express mention was not required when name had become trade name, and circumstances indicated seller's intent to transfer name)].

[c] Limitations on Use of Transferred Name

A valid transfer of the prior name may be limited in time or use. For example, when a seller transferred his business for a consideration payable in installments and the bill of sale granted the buyer "[t]he use of the name 'Sam's Fishing Fleet' for a period of ten years or until said amount due and owing is paid," the court held that the buyer lost the use of the name when he paid the amount due and owing prematurely at the end of five years [see Balesteri v. Holler (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 717, 719-723, 151 Cal. Rptr. 229] . A seller might allow the buyer to use the former name, designated as such, solely to notify the public of the change in ownership [see [2], below].

[2] FORM

Buyer's Use of Current Business Name or Seller's Name Prohibited

Section _____. Use of Name Prohibited. Notwithstanding any other provision of this contract, the sale of the business shall not convey to Buyer any right to use the name "_____[specify current name]" or to use Seller's name in connection with the operation or promotion of the business. Within _____[e.g., 30] days after the closing of the sale, Seller, at Seller's own costs and expense, shall cause the name[s] to be deleted from all signs and advertising pertaining to the business. However, for a period of [specify, e.g., 30 days] following the closing of the sale, Buyer may advertise the fact that the business was "formerly known as '_____[former name],' " has been purchased by Buyer and will be known by a new name. [Add, if applicable: Buyer may also sell any existing inventory bearing the name "_____ (specify current name)," but shall not manufacture any additional inventory bearing that name.]

§ 17.218 Sale Conditioned on Creditors' Acceptance of Purchase Price for Debts

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an alternative contract provision conditioning sale of the business or professional practice on the creditors' acceptance of pro rata shares of the purchase price in full satisfaction of the seller's debts. It may be used when the sale is not subject to the creditor payment provisions of the Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code §§ 6106.2 and 6106.4], and the seller is insolvent.

[b] Payment to Creditors

Under the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111], when the consideration for a sale is (1) $2 milllion or less and (2) substantially all cash, an obligation to pay cash in the future, or a combination of the two, the buyer or escrow agent must first apply the sale proceeds toward the payment of claims that the seller's creditors have filed in a timely manner [see Com. Code §§ 6106.2(a), (b), 6106.4; see also § 17.20[6]]. However, if these provisions of the Bulk Sales Division do not apply to the sale, an insolvent seller's creditors have no assurance that they will receive payment of their claims prior to the sale. If they attach the business assets, they may prevent closing of the sale and force the seller into bankruptcy. Generally, a bankruptcy sale of used fixtures and equipment will result in a lower sales price than if those same fixtures and equipment were sold as part of a going business in which the business goodwill is also transferred. Therefore, if (1) the sale proceeds are more than the seller could obtain from a forced sale and (2) the seller has no other assets from which the creditors can receive payment of their claims, those creditors may agree to accept the proceeds of the sale as a going business in full payment of their claims. This form conditions the sale of the business on such an agreement by the creditors.

[2] FORM

Sale Conditioned on Creditors' Acceptance of Purchase Price for Debts

Section _____. Sale Conditioned on Acceptance by Creditors. Buyer and Seller agree that as a condition precedent to closing of the purchase and sale set forth in this Agreement, each creditor of Seller shall agree in writing to accept a pro rata share of the purchase price in full satisfaction of that creditor's claim. If any creditor listed in the document attached as "Exhibit _____" fails to agree in writing by the closing date, this contact shall be void. In the event that this Agreement is invalidated by reason of this section, Buyer and Seller shall each be released from all liability for further performance, and neither shall be liable for any expenses incurred by the other in attempted performance of this contract.

§ 17.250 Escrow Instructions for Sale of Business--Subject to Bulk Sales Division

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete set of escrow instructions for the sale of a business subject to the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111]. Although an escrow is not required for the sale of a business, the parties to a sale subject to the Bulk Sales Division generally use an escrow to facilitate payment of creditor claims in compliance with that Division [see § 17.20 for discussion of the Bulk Sales division].

As an alternative to using a separate set of escrow instructions, the parties may include some or all of the instructions in the contract of sale itself if they wish to combine all documents for the sale into one document [see § 17.210]. The advantage of using separate escrow instructions, however, is that they may be longer and more detailed, and the escrow agent need not be a party to the contract of sale. Furthermore, when in a separate agreement, escrow instructions may be drafted at a later date, to include additional instructions concerning matters that arise after execution of the sales contract. For discussion of the various provisions in the escrow instructions for the sale of a business, see § 17.210[1].

If a commercial escrow or title company handles the escrow, it will normally require the parties to use its own printed escrow instructions.

[b] Use of Escrow

An escrow is a procedural device for effectuating a sales transaction that requires a concurrent exchange of money and documents for the transfer of title to property after the parties have satisfied all conditions precedent. To insure that the separate interests of each party are protected, a disinterested party called the escrow agent handles the details of the transaction [see Civ. Code § 1057 (escrow agent must be third party)].

The parties to the sale of a business generally use an escrow to ensure compliance with the provisions of the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111; see § 17.20] and the successor liability statutes in the Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6811, 6812] and the Unemployment Insurance Code [Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1731-1733; see § 17.14]. An escrow is a transaction in which instruments and funds are deposited with a neutral third party for delivery on the occurrence of specified conditions [see Lee v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 160, 162, 70 Cal. Rptr. 378 ; see also § 17.210]. The contract for sale itself may set forth escrow instructions, or it may refer to instructions set forth in a separate agreement [see § 17.210].

[c] Escrow Instructions

Escrow instructions are used to authorize and direct the escrow agent to act as the agent of the parties to the agreement, and to take the specific steps necessary to carry out the agreement. They define and limit the authority and the obligations of the escrow agent [see Axley v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1978) 88 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8-9, 151 Cal. Rptr. 570] . For further coverage of escrow generally, and for examples of escrow instructions applicable to the sale of real property, see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows .

[d] Duties of Escrow Agent

The escrow agent has a duty to comply strictly with the instructions of the principals, and to exercise reasonable skill and ordinary diligence [Diaz v. United California Bank (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 161, 166, 139 Cal. Rptr. 314] . If the written escrow instructions constitute the signed agreement of two principals with the escrow agent, neither party can unilaterally change the instructions [Diaz v. United California Bank (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 161, 166, 139 Cal. Rptr. 314] . However, if one party notifies the escrow agent of alleged material error in the jointly executed instructions, the escrow agent cannot ignore that notice and close the escrow. The duty to exercise reasonable skill and ordinary diligence requires the escrow agent to at least delay closure of the escrow until the matter can be clarified [Diaz v. United California Bank (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 161, 171, 139 Cal. Rptr. 314 (escrow agent disregarded seller's notice that escrow instructions incorrectly stated amount of note due from buyer)].

[e] Joint or Separate Instructions

The buyer and seller may use either joint or separate escrow instructions to direct the escrow agent. The choice is often determined by the area of California in which the transaction takes place, or by the complexity of the sale. As a matter of custom, escrow procedures differ in northern and southern California. Joint or "bilateral" instructions are customarily used in southern California, at least in smaller transactions. Separate or "unilateral" instructions, separately executed by each party, are customarily used in northern California. This form contains joint instructions.

The process of drafting joint instructions usually requires the parties' attorneys to confront and resolve inconsistencies and other potential problems at the outset. The escrow agent can then handle the escrow pursuant to a single set of instructions in which potential conflicts have been eliminated. However, because the process of drafting joint instructions may require resolution of conflicts that prove to be immaterial and potential problems that never materialize, it can be a lengthy, time-consuming process that produces an unnecessarily complex set of instructions. For further discussion of these and other aspects of escrow procedure in the context of real property escrows, see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows , Legal Background.

[f] Request for Information (Form UCC-11)

This form requires the escrow holder to mail Form UCC-11, "Request for Information or Copies," and the applicable filing fee to the Secretary of State's office [see Com. Code § 9525; see also Com. Code §§ 9523, 9528; [2], Paragraph 6, below]. A UCC-11 is used to request a certificate showing whether any presently effective financing statement is on file with respect to the seller's business [see Com. Code § 9523; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. On the request of any person and payment of the statutory fee [see Gov. Code § 9525], the Secretary of State must issue a combined certificate showing financing statement information [see Com. Code § 9523], state tax lien data [see Gov. Code § 7226], attachment lien information [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 488.375, 488.405], judgment lien information [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.580], and federal lien information [Com. Code § 9528; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2103]. For coverage of applicable procedures, see § 17.121, P 7 Note. For an illustration of Form UCC-11, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.216. Copies of Form UCC-11 are also available online at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/ucc/ucc.htm and from office supply stores.

[g] Standard Escrow Instructions--Recitals

In addition to the specific instructions required by the Bulk Transfers Division and successor liability statutes, discussed above, the parties should include standard instructions regarding handling of the escrow [see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows]. The first provision should sets forth the parties, the purpose of the escrow, and the closing date [see [2], Paragraph 1, below].

[h] Obligations to Escrow Holder

The parties should agree to indemnify the escrow agent from liability for his or her actions taken pursuant to the instructions. The parties should also agree to reimburse the escrow agent for costs incurred in following the instructions. Further, they should agree to pay the applicable escrow fee [see [2], Paragraph 2, below].

[i] Deposits Into Escrow

The instructions should list the documents and other property that each party is required to deposit into escrow [see [2], Paragraphs 7, 8, below]. The items should be separately listed, so that the escrow agent can confirm when he or she has all the items necessary to close the escrow.

[j] Inventory

The instructions should require the escrow agent to obtain an inventory of the property being sold from the person or firm taking the inventory [see [2], Paragraph 9, below]. For further discussion of inventory, see § 17.200[1][n].

[k] Transfer of Documents

The parties should instruct the escrow agent to arrange for the transfer of any insurance policies to be assigned to the buyer [see [2], Paragraph 10, below; § 17.200[o]]. The instructions should also require the escrow agent to obtain the appropriate papers for the transfer of any other assets, such as motor vehicles, to the buyer [see [2], Paragraph 14, below]. For discussion and examples of transfer documents, see Ch. 102D, Registration and Transfer of Vehicles, Vessels, and Aircraft .

[l] Proration of Expenses

The instructions should list the expenses that the parties will prorate, and the manner of proration [see [2], Paragraph 12, below]. For discussion of the items that buyer and seller generally prorate, see § 17.200[m].

§ 17.260 Agreement to Find Purchaser for Business ("Finder's Agreement")

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement between the owner of a business and an third party who will attempt to find a buyer for the business in return for a fee. Such a person is known as a "finder" and this type of agreement is typically referred to as a "finder's agreement." This type of arrangement is commonly used in business transactions when a seller wishes to compensate an inidividual who has "connections" in a particular business and is willing to use those connections to find a purchaser for the business.

Under this form, the finder will receive a percentage of the sale price if the finder is able to locate a suitable buyer and the sale of the business is ultimately consummated. If no sale is completed, the finder receives nothing.

For a finder's agreement between a prospective buyer and finder, see Warren' S Forms of Agreements, Ch. 8, Sale of a Going Business, § 8.9, Form 8.9.02 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Finder's Duties

Under this agreement, the finder's duties are solely to locate prospective buyers and give those buyers information about the seller's business [see [2], Paragraph 1(a), below]. The information itself is prepared by the seller. The finder is not authorized to make further representations on behalf of the seller, to bind the seller in any way, to conduct negotiations on the seller's behalf, or to function as the seller's agent [see [2], Paragraph 1(b), below]. These limitations are included to limit the seller's potential liability for the finder's acts and representations, as well as to assure that the seller will retain complete control over the transactions. The finder may not assign his or her duties under the agreement, but may engage employees, agents, and advisers to assist him or her in discharging those duties [see [2], Paragraph 8, below]. The finder agrees to indemnify the seller for any liabilities the seller incurs based on any representations made by persons alleging a relationship to the finder [see Paragraph 11 of form].

To preclude conflicts of interest, the finder is also prohibited from acting on behalf of any prospective buyer [see [2], Paragraph 1(c), below].

[c] Finder's Fee

The finder's compensation is determined as a percentage of the sale price of the business, as defined in the agreement [see [2], Paragraph 2(a), below]. Percentage agreements are commonly used, though other arrangements are such as flat rate or hourly fees are also possible. The compensation is payable in full either upon closing of the sale or within a specified time thereafter [see [2], Paragraph 2(b), below].

This form contains optional language requiring payment of the finder's fee directly from escrow upon closing, if an escrow is used [see [2], Paragraph 2(b), below]. This language is designed to protect the finder by providing greater assurance that the finder will actually receive his or her fee on closing. Another optional provision provides similar protection in a non-escrow situation by requiring the seller to have the buyer pay a portion of the purchase price equal to the finder's fee directly to the finder at closing [see [2], Paragraph 2(c), below].

Under this agreement, the seller is not required to pay any portion of the finder's fee, or any related expenses, prior to the closing. If the seller does elect to make any advances, the seller has a right to deduct the amount of those advances from any finder's fee ultimately due [see [2], Paragraph 2(e), below]. If no sale occurs, the finder receives no fee, and the form gives the drafter the option of determining whether or not any advances by the seller in that situation have to be reimbursed [see [2], Paragraph 2(g), below].

Some contracts of sale provide for an adjustment of the purchase price after closing, based upon various factors [see, e.g., § 17.261[2], Paragraphs 21, 22 (letter of intent)]. Optional language in this form provides for an upward or downward adjustment of the finder's fee to account for any such adjustment, with an additional payment to the finder, or a refund of a portion of the finder's fee, as appropriate [see [2], Paragraph 2(f), below].

Under the terms of this agreement, the finder is generally prohibited from accepting any fee from the seller.

[d] Seller's Obligations

The seller is not required to sell the business to any prospective purchaser referred by the finder. The seller may refuse to sell to any prospective purchaser for any reason whatsoever, and no commission will be due [see [2], Paragraphs 2(g), 4, below].

[e] Term and Exclusivity

The agreement is for a specified term, such as one year [see [2], Paragraph 5, below]. The agreement may be made either exclusive or non-exclusive during that term [see [2], Paragraph 6, below]. The finder's fee is required to be paid as long as the sale is to a buyer referred by the finder occurs within a specified time (such as one year) after the referral, even if the finder's agreement itself has expired prior to the sale [see [2], Paragraphs 2(a), 5, below].

[f] Expenses

This agreement provides that expenses incurred by the finder are non-reimbursable [see [2], Paragraph 9, below; see also discussion of voluntary advancements in [c], above]. The seller is also required to bear his or her own expenses [see [2], Paragraph 10, below].

[2] FORM

Agreement to Find Purchaser for Business ("Finder's Agreement")

FINDER'S AGREEMENT

THIS FINDER'S AGREEMENT is made between _____[name of seller] (Seller) and _____[name of finder, broker, or agent] (Finder), collectively referred to as the "Parties."

RECITALS

A. Seller is seeking to locate a buyer for Seller's business (Business).

B. Finder will try to find a suitable buyer in return for a fee.

[C. _____ (list any special qualifications or licenses that finder holds, such as real estate broker).]

In reliance on the foregoing recitals, and in consideration of the representations, warranties, and covenants contained in this Agreement, the parties hereby agree as follows:

AGREEMENT

1. Duties of Finder. (a) Finder shall submit to Seller profiles of prospective buyers who have expressed an interest in purchasing the Business ("Prospective Buyers"). A profile shall consist of information regarding the Prospective Buyer's financial ability to purchase the Business and the Prospective Buyer's qualifications to run the Business ("Profile").

(b) Finder is authorized to deliver to Prospective Buyers a profile of the Business prepared by Seller describing the Business and summarizing its financial condition ("Business Profile"). Finder shall make no representations regarding the Business other than those contained in the Business Profile, or in any other way act or represent that he or she is authorized to act in a manner which would bind Seller in any way whatsoever.

(c) Finder shall not act on behalf of any Prospective Buyer and shall not negotiate on behalf of Seller or any Prospective Buyer. Finder's duties under this Agreement shall be limited solely and exclusively to locating Prospective Buyers and introducing them to Seller.

2. Finder's Fee. (a) If a Prospective Buyer ("Buyer") purchases the Business within _____[e.g., one year] from the date Finder submits the Profile of that Prospective Buyer to Seller, Finder shall receive a Finder's fee equal to _____ percent of the total purchase price of the Business. For purposes of determining the amount of the Finder's fee due under this paragraph, the "total purchase price of the Business" means the total cash consideration actually paid by Buyer to Seller for the Business, including any contingent payments, plus the fair market value, as of the closing date of the sale, of any non-cash assets actually received by Buyer from Seller or any other person or entity as consideration for Buyer's sale of the Business. The value of any of Seller's liabilities assumed by Buyer shall be treated as part of the "total purchase price of the Business" for purposes of determining Finder's fee.

(b) The fee specified in (a), above, shall be payable to Finder in cash _____[immediately on or within _____ days after] the closing of the sale of the Business. [Optional if finder's fee is due on closing of escrow: If the closing is conducted through an escrow, Seller agrees that Finder's fee shall be paid to Finder directly from escrow upon the close of escrow. Seller agrees that an instruction requiring payment of Finder's fee in the manner specified in the preceding sentence will be included in any escrow instructions submitted to the escrow holder by Seller in connection with the sale.]

[Optional: (c) If the closing is not conducted through an escrow, Seller agrees to authorize and require the Buyer to pay directly to Finder, at the closing, that portion of the sale price of the Business equal to the amount owed by Seller to Finder for Finder's fee, as determined under Paragraph 2(a), above. Seller agrees to include in the agreement between Buyer and Seller for sale of the Business a written provision requiring Buyer to make such a payment to Finder. Buyer's failure to comply with any such term in the contract of sale shall not relieve Seller from the obligation to pay Finder's fee as set forth in this Paragraph 2.]

(d) [Except as expressly provided in this agreement,] Finder shall not be paid a fee by Buyer or any Prospective Buyer without the prior written consent of Seller.

(e) Seller shall be under no obligation to pay Finder any compensation or other fee prior to the closing. If Seller, in Seller's sole discretion, elects to pay prior to the closing any portion of Finder's fee or any other expense incurred by Finder, Seller shall have the right to deduct any amounts so advanced from the fee due Finder under Paragraph 2(a), above.

[Optional: (f) Finder's fee as determined under Paragraph 2a, above, _____ (shall or shall not) be adjusted to reflect any post-closing adjustment in the purchase price of the Business that occurs pursuant to the terms of the contract of sale between Buyer and Seller, or by written agreement between Buyer and Seller (that is made within _____ days after the closing). (If adjustment is permitted, add: Any additional amounts owed by Seller to Finder under this Paragraph 2(f) shall be paid in cash to Finder within _____ days after Seller receives the additional funds from Buyer. Any reimbursement owed by Finder to Buyer under this Paragraph 2(f) shall be paid in cash to Buyer within _____ after the amount of the reimbursement is determined.)]

(g) If for any reason, or no reason, including the negligence or wilful refusal of Seller, no sale of the Business occurs, Finder shall receive no Finder's Fee or other consideration for any services performed under this Agreement. In the event that no sale occurs, Finder _____[shall or shall not] be required to reimburse Seller for all amounts advanced to Finder by Seller under Paragraph 2(e) of this Agreement

3. Warranties of Finder. Finder hereby represents and warrants to Seller that Finder's performance under this Agreement and the receipt of fees for that performance does not violate (1) any contractual obligation he or she may have, (2) any duty he or she may have to his or her present employer or (3) any federal or state laws or regulations applicable to Finder or his or her actions taken in furtherance of this Agreement.

4. Obligations of Seller. Seller shall be under no obligation to sell the Business to any Prospective Buyer introduced to Seller by Finder. Seller may, in Seller's sole and absolute discretion, contact, negotiate with, and enter into any agreement with any Prospective Buyer introduced by Finder.

5. Term of Agreement. This Agreement shall terminate automatically _____[time, e.g., 12 months] months from the date this Agreement is executed by the Parties, unless extended by the Parties in a writing signed by both Parties. [Optional: Seller may terminate this Agreement at any time on delivery of written notice to Finder.] On termination of this Agreement, Finder shall deliver no additional Profiles to Seller, shall make no additional introductions to Seller, and shall cease to act as a Finder of Prospective Buyers; provided, however, that Finder shall be entitled to all fees due under Paragraph 2, above, after the effective date of termination.

6. _____[Exclusivity or Non-Exclusivity]. During the term of this agreement, Seller _____[shall not or may] engage any other firm or individual to act as a broker or finder with respect to the sale of all or any part of Seller's Business.

7. Disclosure of Finder's Duties to Third Parties. Finder agrees that Seller may notify any party Seller deems necessary or appropriate that Finder is acting as a Finder for Seller and will be receiving a finder's fee as described in Paragraph 2 of this Agreement.

8. Nonassignability of Finder's Duties. Finder shall not assign any portion of Finder's duties under this Agreement to any other person or entity without Seller's prior written consent. However, Finder may, at Finder's own expense, employ persons, entities, or agents to assist Finder in discharging Finder's duties under this Agreement.

9. Finder's Expenses. Any expenses incurred by Finder in connection with the discharge of Finder's duties under this agreement, including but not limited to transportation, meals, lodging, entertainment, fees to other persons, agents, or advisers, document drafting fees, attorneys' fees, or any other expenses whatsoever, shall be paid by Finder and Seller shall have no obligation to reimburse Finder for any such expenss unless Seller specifically agrees otherwise in writing.

10. Seller's Expenses. Any expenses incurred by Seller in connection with the sale of Seller's Business shall be borne solely by Seller.

11. Indemnification of Seller. Finder agrees to indemnify and hold Seller harmless against all liabilities, claims, and expenses caused by any person claiming a commission, fee, or other expense in connection with the transaction who alleges a relationship with Finder.

12. Governing Law. The laws of the State of California, (irrespective of its choice of law principles) shall govern the validity of this Agreement, the construction of its terms, and the interpretation and enforcement of the rights and duties of the Parties to this Agreement.

13. Effect on Successors and Assigns. Subject to and unless otherwise provided in this Agreement, this Agreement shall be binding upon, and inure to the benefit of, the successors, executors, heirs, representatives, administrators, and assigns of the Parties.

14. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire understanding and agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement, and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous agreements or understandings, inducements or conditions, express or implied, written or oral, between the Parties with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement. The express terms of this Agreement control and supersede any course of performance or usage of the trade inconsistent with any of the terms of this Agreement.

15. Amendment. Any term or provision of this Agreement may be amended, and the observance of any term of this Agreement may be waived (either generally or in a particular instance and either retroactively or prospectively) only by a writing signed by the party to be bound thereby.

16. No Waiver. The failure of any party to enforce any provision or provisions of this Agreement shall not be construed as a waiver of the right of that party thereafter to enforce any provisions of this Agreement.

17. Attorneys' Fees. Should suit or arbitration be brought to enforce or interpret any part of this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover, as an element of the costs of suit or arbitration and not as damages, reasonable attorneys' fees to be fixed by the court (including without limitation, costs, expenses and fees on any appeal).

18. No Joint Venture. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed or construed as creating a joint venture or partnership between the Parties. Neither party, by virtue of this Agreement, is authorized to be an agent, employee or legal representative of the other Party. Neither Party shall have the power to control the activities and operations of any other and their status is, and at all times will continue to be, that of independent contractors with respect to each other. Neither Party shall have any power or authority to bind or commit any other. Neither Party shall hold itself out as having any authority or relationship in contravention of this Paragraph.

§ 17.261 Letter of Intent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter of intent between the prospective buyer and seller of a business. The purpose of a letter of intent is to set forth the principal terms of the anticipated contract for the sale of the business. Letters of intent are helpful when negotiations are expected to be lengthy or when the nature of the business is complex and requires investigation. A letter of intent may not be necessary or appropriate for all business sales. With some sales, especially those of small businesses, it may be more efficient to bypass the letter of intent and proceed directly to the contract of sale.

This form, probably more comprehensive than required for most transactions, may be modified to conform to particular transactions.

[b] Binding Nature of Letter of Intent

Parties to a sale generally will prefer that a letter of intent not be binding. Contract law determines the enforceability of a letter of intent. Therefore, if parties do not want the letter to be binding, the letter should include a clause that expressly states that the letter does not constitute a binding or enforceable contract [see [2], Paragraph 30, below].

In the alternative, only selected provisions of the letter of intent may be made binding. Binding provisions typically include the buyer's covenant not to disclose proprietary and confidential information, and the seller's covenant to negotiate exclusively with the buyer. Optional language in paragraph 30 of this form allows the drafter to specify that selected provisions of the form will be legally binding on the parties.

6. Set-Off. Buyer shall be entitled to set-off against the Note any amounts payable by Seller to Buyer.

7. Bulk Sales Law. All amounts payable to Seller shall be subject to compliance with Division 6 of the California Uniform Commercial Code, and any and all amounts payable by Buyer to Seller shall be made in accordance with Division 6. [If purchase price is less than $2 million, add: The check referred to in Paragraph 4(a) above shall be held in

8. Title. Title to the Assets shall be conveyed by bill of sale free and clear of all encumbrances, except as approved by Buyer in writing during the Due Diligence Period described below.

9. Assumption of Liabilities. Buyer shall assume all of Seller's noncontingent liabilities (except as set forth in Paragraph _____ relating to expenses of sale) as set forth on Seller's balance sheet as delivered at the date of the Closing (the "Liabilities"). At the commencement of the Due Diligence Period, Seller shall provide Buyer and his or her agents, contractors, consultants or advisors ("Buyer's Agents") with reasonable access to all of the books and records of the business. If Buyer determines that the Assets and Liabilities are not satisfactory and as expected, Buyer shall have the right, at Buyer's election, to terminate the purchase agreement by written notice to Seller given on or prior to the expiration of the Due Diligence Period. In the event of such a termination, neither Seller nor Buyer shall have any further obligations under the purchase agreement.

12. Representations and Warranties. The documentation relating to the purchase of the Assets by Buyer shall contain customary representations and warranties of Seller including but not limited to the following:

(a) Seller has good and marketable title to the Assets including to all of the trademarks, licenses, patents and copyrights necessary for the conduct of the business and has the right to transfer the same to Buyer as part of the Assets.

(c) Seller has prepared and filed all federal, state and local income, withholding, sales, real property, personal property and other tax returns and has paid all required taxes.

(e) Seller's real property included in the Assets and all leased premises the lease of which is being assumed by Buyer are adequate for the present operations of the Seller and, as presently used by the Seller complies with all zoning and land use laws and does not contain any hazardous wastes below the ground surface.

(g) Seller maintains and will assign to Buyer at the Closing appropriate insurance policies relating to the Assets and the conduct of its business at the premises subject to the lease described in Paragraph 5.

(h) Seller's financial statements as delivered to Buyer are true and correct and there has been no adverse change in the business of Seller since the date of such financial statements to the Closing.

All items included in the inventory are the property of the Seller, except for sales made in the ordinary course of business since _____[date]. For each such sale, either the purchaser has made full payment or the purchaser's liability to make payment is reflected on the books of Seller. No items included in the inventory have been pledged as collateral or are held by Seller on consignment from others. The inventory shown on the balance sheet is based on quantities determined by physical count or a measurement taken within the preceding 12 months and is valued at the lower of cost (determined on a first in, first out basis) or market value and on a basis consistent with that of prior years. The inventory being purchased by Buyer is sufficient to satisfy open orders pending with Seller.

(q) Seller shall deliver to Buyer at the Closing and warrant as true and correct a schedule of all Seller's employees, their present compensation levels, their scheduled salary review date, their accrued and unpaid sick leave and vacation and all other items of compensation due or to come due Seller's employees.

(r) None of the documents delivered to Buyer (taken together) by Seller contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit a statement of any material fact necessary in order to make the statements contained therein not misleading in light of the circumstances under which the statements were made.

13. Buyer's Representations and Warranties. The documentation relating to the purchase of the Assets by Buyer shall contain customary representations and warranties of Buyer including, but not limited to, Buyer's warranties of the following:

(c) Consummation of the sale of Assets by Buyer will not violate any contract or agreement to which Buyer is a party.

14. Noncompetition Agreement. At the Closing, Buyer shall receive from Seller an Agreement not to compete in the business presently conducted by Seller for a period of the longer of _____ years from the Closing. $_____ of the purchase price of the Assets will be allocated to the Noncompetition Agreement.

15. Closing Date. The Closing Date shall occur no later than _____[date]. In the event the Closing Date has not occurred by _____[date], Seller shall have the right to terminate the purchase agreement.

16. Conduct of Business Until Closing. Until the Closing, Seller will continue to conduct the business and maintain business relationships in the ordinary and usual course, and will not encumber or dispose of the Assets except in the regular and ordinary course of business. During that period, Seller also shall not incur additional long term lease or other contracts, or pay any special bonuses or compensation to employees. Until the Closing, all risk of loss, damage or destruction of the Assets shall be borne by the Seller.

17. Access to Information. Until the Closing, Seller shall allow Buyer and Buyer's agents free access to Seller's files, books and offices, including any and all information relating to taxes, commitments, contracts, leases, licenses, and personal property and Seller's financial condition. Buyer will keep all such information in confidence, and in the event the sale of the Assets is not consummated shall return all copies of that information to Seller immediately on demand.

18. Purchase Agreement. The obligations of Seller to sell and of Buyer to buy the Assets are contingent upon the execution of a purchase agreement consistent with this Letter of Intent and otherwise in a form mutually acceptable to both parties. The purchase agreement shall be executed by both parties as expeditiously as possible after Seller returns to Buyer a fully executed copy of this Letter of Intent, but in no event later than _____[date].

19. Confidentiality. Seller and Buyer agree to hold in confidence all terms and conditions of this Letter of Intent, except that the parties may disclose documents, materials or information to parties who are required to know that information for the proper performance of their duties in effectuating the purchase and sale of the Assets; provided, however, that the disclosing party notifies all parties to whom information is disclosed that the information must be kept confidential in accordance with the terms of this Paragraph. Neither Seller nor Buyer shall issue any press release or general public announcement concerning the terms or fact of this Letter of Intent without first obtaining the consent of the other party, except as may be required by law. [It is agreed that an appropriate public announcement shall be made not later than _____ (date).]

20. Taxes. Immediately after the Closing, Seller shall request a tax clearance from the California State Board of Equalization with respect to Seller's sales taxes and a certificate from the California State Employment Development Department that Seller has paid all contributions, interest or penalties due under the Unemployment and Insurance Code and state income taxes withheld from employee wages. Seller shall indemnify and hold Buyer harmless against all sales taxes, amounts due under the Unemployment and Insurance Code and state income taxes withheld by Seller from employee wages. All sales taxes due on the sale of the Assets to Buyer shall be paid by Seller. Real and personal property taxes relating to the Assets shall be pro rated as of the Closing. Buyer shall not be responsible for any business, occupation, withholding, or similar tax, or any taxes of any kind related to any period before the Closing.

21. Audit. Buyer shall conduct an audit of the Assets purchased and liabilities assumed as soon as practicable after the Closing. In the event that audit shows that the net value of the Assets less liabilities is less than that set forth on the Seller's audited balance sheet for the period ended _____[date], an adjustment to purchase price will be made through the escrow described below.

22. Inventory. [Immediately after the Closing,] [I]n connection with the audit described in Paragraph 21, Buyer and Seller shall conduct a physical inventory of Seller's inventory and shall confirm that it satisfies the requirements of the purchase and sale agreement to be negotiated by the parties. In the event that the inventory has less value according to generally accepted accounting principles than the value set forth in the Seller's audited balance sheet dated _____, a reduction in the purchase price will be made through the escrow described below.

23. Seller's Liabilities. Seller shall indemnify and hold Buyer and the property of Buyer including the Assets purchased by Buyer, free and harmless from any and all claims and losses arising from Seller's operation of the business before the sale of the Assets which claims and losses are not assumed by Buyer on or before the Closing including without limitation claims for unpaid taxes of any kind or nature.

24. Accounts Receivable. Seller shall indemnify Buyer against the non-collectibility of receivables in excess of the allowance for bad debts set forth on Seller's financial statements delivered at the Closing.

25. Breach of Warranties. Seller shall indemnify Buyer against any loss, cost or liability incurred by Buyer as a result of the breach of any representation or warranty by Seller contained in the purchase documentation.

26. Indemnity. Seller shall indemnify and hold Buyer and the property of Buyer, including the Assets purchased by Buyer, free and harmless from any and all claims and losses arising from Seller's operation of its business before the sale of the Assets which claims and losses are not disclosed to Buyer.

27. Escrow. _____ percent of the cash purchase price payable for the Assets shall be placed in an interest bearing escrow account to satisfy any claim by Buyer pursuant to Paragraphs _____, _____, and _____, above. One half of the escrowed amount, less claims paid to Buyer, shall be paid to Seller 15 days after the completion of both the physical inventory set forth in Paragraph _____, above, and audit set forth in Paragraph _____, above, and the balance shall be paid to Seller _____ months after the date of Closing. Nothing in this Paragraph shall be construed as limiting the liability of Seller to the amount placed in escrow, nor shall that amount be considered as liquidated damages for any breach.

28. Expenses. Buyer and Seller shall each bear all of their expenses, including attorneys' fees, in connection with the negotiation of the documentation of the sale of Assets by Seller to Buyer. Seller shall be responsible for all Seller's attorneys' fees incurred from and after the date of this letter and all accounting fees incurred in connection with the audit of Seller's financial statements. Any party engaging a broker or finder shall be solely responsible for that broker's or finder's fee.

29. Negotiation Stand-Still. For a period of _____ days commencing with the date of execution of this letter of intent, Seller agrees that Seller will not enter a binding agreement with any other party relating to the sale of the Assets. For a period of _____ days commencing with the date of execution of this letter of intent, Seller agrees that Seller will not enter negotiations or discussions with any other party concerning the sale of the Assets [or Seller's capital stock].

30. Letter of Intent Nonbinding [Except as Otherwise Specified]. This letter of intent is intended as an outline of material business terms to serve as a basis for the preparation of a purchase agreement for review and approval by Buyer and Seller. [Except as expressly stated in this Paragraph 30], [T]his Letter of Intent shall not constitute a formal binding agreement and neither party is obligated to execute the purchase agreement. It is intended that all legal rights or obligations between the parties who are executing this Letter of Intent shall come into existence only when a definitive agreement is executed and delivered by those parties. [If specified provisions of letter of intent are to be made binding, add the following: Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this Paragraph 30, however, _____ (list portions of agreement that are to be made binding, e.g., Paragraph 19 of this Agreement, relating to confidentiality of information, and Paragraph 29, restricting Seller's right to enter into any agreements or conduct negotiations with other parties), shall be legally binding and enforceable by the Parties.]

If the terms of this letter of intent are acceptable to Seller, please execute the enclosed counterpart of this Letter of Intent, without addition or deletion, and deliver same to Buyer on or before _____[date]. Failure to deliver the fully executed Letter of Intent by that date will render the provisions of this Letter of Intent inoperative and of no further force and effect.

[a] Use of Form

This form is a nondisclosure or confidentiality agreement between the prospective buyer and the prospective seller of a business. This type of agreement may be used to protect confidential information that may be disclosed during the due diligence period prior to the closing of the sale. In the event the sale does not close as planned, the parties, particularly the seller, may find it important to protect such confidential information from subsequent disclosure by the other party or that party's agents.

An alternative approach to nondisclosure is to include nondisclosure or confidentiality provisions in a letter of intent [see, e.g., § 17.261, Paragraph 19] or in the sales agreement itself. The advantage of a separate agreement is that it permits the inclusion of more detailed agreements regarding nondisclosure without unduly lengthening the sales agreement.

Although the seller is usually the principal party at risk with respect to the disclosure of information, this agreement protects both the buyer and the seller. Under some circumstances, the buyer as well as the seller may be required to disclose confidential information. For example, if the seller is carrying a note, information about the buyer's financial condition may be required. Similarly, if the seller is concerned about preservation of goodwill, taking care of long standing customers, and so on, the seller may require buyer to disclose relevant confidential information. Therefore the attached agreement works both ways.

[b] Features of Form

This form addresses the following issues related to confidential information:

- Defines what information is to be classified as confidential for purposes of the agreement [see [2], Paragraph 2, below].

- Restricts the disclosure of confidential information [see[2], Paragraph 3, below].

- Clarifies that confidential information remains the property of the disclosing party [see[2], Paragraph 4, below].

- States the term of the agreement and provides for nondisclosure of confidential information for an additional period after the expiration of that term [see [2], Paragraph 5, below]

- Provides for injunctive relief to prohibit unauthorized disclosures [see [2], Paragraph 6, below].

- Provides for return of confidential documents and information in the event that the the sale of the business falls through for any reason [see [2], Paragraph 7, below].

AGREEMENT

1. Definition of "Receiving Party" and "Disclosing Party." 6. Injunctive Relief. Receiving Party understands and acknowledges that any disclosure or misappropriation of any of the Confidential Information in violation of this Agreement may cause Disclosing Party irreparable harm, the amount of which may be difficult to ascertain and, therefore, agrees that Disclosing Party shall have the right to apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for an order restraining any further disclosure or misappropriation, and for such other relief as Disclosing Party shall deem appropriate. This right of Disclosing Party shall be in addition to the remedies otherwise available to Disclosing Party at law or in equity.

7. Return of Confidential Information. Receiving Party shall immediately return to Disclosing Party all written Confidential Information of Disclosing Party and any and all records, notes and other written, printed or tangible materials pertaining to that Confidential Information upon receipt of a written request from Disclosing Party.

§ 17.270 Notice of Intended Bulk Sale

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of intended bulk sale of a business. The Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] requires that the buyer (or escrow agent, auctioneer, or liquidator) give notice of the intended sale in the manner and within the time required by statute [Com. Code §§ 6104(b), 6105]. If the buyer fails to comply with the notice requirements with respect to one or more claimants, the buyer is liable for damages in the amount of any claims against the seller, less any amount that the claimant would not have realized if the buyer had complied with the notice requirements [see Com. Code § 6107(a); see also Com. Code § 6107(c) (good faith effort at compliance), (d)(limitation of liability)].

For discussion of bulk sales, and the requirements imposed on them by the Commercial Code, see § 17.20. For a notice of intended sale for use when a going business is incorporated, see § 2A.203 in Ch. 2A, Incorporating a Going Business. For a form and discussion of the notice used when the sale is by auction, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances, § 270.241 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Contents of Required Notice

The notice to creditors of the intended transfer must state all of the following [Com. Code § 6105(a)]:

- That a bulk sale is about to be made.
- The names and business addresses of the seller and the buyer.
- All other business names and addresses used by the seller within the past three years, to the extent known to the buyer [see Com. Code § 6104(a)].

- The location and general description of the property to be transferred.

- The place and date on (or after which) the bulk sale will be closed.

- Whether or not the bulk sale is subject to Com. Code § 6106.2, which applies when the consideration for the sale, other than a sale at auction or by a liquidator, is $2 million or less and is substantially all cash, an obligation of the buyer to pay cash in the future to the seller, or a combination [Com. Code § 6106.2(a), (b)]. If this statute applies, the notice must also include the name and address of the person with whom claims may be filed, and the last date (which must be the business day before the noticed sale date) for filing claims [Com. Code § 6106.2(f)].

Preprinted forms setting forth these requirements are also available from commercial form publishers.

[c] Recording, Publishing, and Delivering the Notice

The bulk sale notice of intended transfer must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county or counties in California in which the tangible assets are located and, if different, in the county in which the seller is located at least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(1); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see also Com. Code § 6102(a)(7) ("date of bulk sale" defined)]. A "business day" is any day other than a Saturday, Sunday, or day observed as a holiday by the California state government [Com. Code § 6105(b)].

The notice must also be published at least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see Com. Code § 6102(a)(7) ("date of bulk sale" defined)]. The notice must be published at least once in a newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district in which the tangible assets are located and, if different, in the judicial district in which the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2)] If no such newspaper exists, notice must be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the judicial district is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2)]. If the tangible assets are located in more than one judicial district, the notice must be published in the judicial district in which a greater portion of the assets are located and, if different, in the judicial district in which the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2)].

The notice also must be delivered, or sent by registered or certified mail, to the county tax collector in the California county or counties in which the tangible assets are located at least 12 business days before the date of the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(3)]. If the notice is delivered or sent during the period from January 1 to May 7, inclusive, the notice must be accompanied by a completed business property statement with respect to the property involved in the bulk sale [Com. Code § 6105(b)(3); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 441 (procedure for filing property statements)].

One court, reading Com. Code § 6105 in light of the legislative intent, has held that the notice must be published and recorded at least 12 business days before the anticipated sale date as specified in the notice (as opposed to the actual sale date). Otherwise, creditors do not have sufficient time to file a timely claim [Gifford v. J&A Holdings (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 996, 999, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 253 (postponing actual date of sale until 12 business days after recordation did not comply with literal terms of statute; postponement without notice did not constitute good faith effort at compliance under Com. Code § 6107(c))].

[d] Filing Fees

The office of the county recorder charges a filing fee for recording this notice. For the current fees, see Gov. Code § 27361.

§ 17.271 Notice to Creditors Regarding Insufficient Funds

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to creditors that the amount of cash deposited by the buyer in escrow is insufficient to pay in full all of the claims timely filed with the escrow agent. It is only required to be given for a bulk sale in which the consideration is $2 million or less and is substantially all cash, an obligation to pay cash in the future, or a combination of the two [see Com. Code §§ 6106.2, 6106.4].

This form is designed for use when an escrow agent will be handling the distribution of the consideration, but can be adapted for use when the buyer will be distributing the assets.

[b] Delay of Closing and Distribution

If a bulk sale subject to Com. Code § 6106.2 is otherwise ready to be consummated and the amount of consideration is insufficient to pay in full all of the claims timely filed with the buyer or the escrow agent, the buyer or escrow agent must delay distribution of the consideration and passing of legal title for not less than 25 nor more than 30 days from the date of giving the notice of insufficient funds [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)(1)]. Within five business days after the date the sale would otherwise be closed, the escrow agent must send this notice to each creditor who has filed a timely claim [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)(2)]. Claims will be deemed timely filed only if they are actually received by the person designated in the notice to receive claims before the close of business on the day specified in the notice as the last date for filing claims [Com. Code § 6106.2(f)]. If the buyer or escrow agent receives no written objection to the distribution described in the notice prior to the new date specified for the passing of legal title, the escrow agent will not be liable to any person to whom the notice was sent for any good-faith error that may have been committed in allocating and distributing the consideration as stated in the notice [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)(3)].

[c] Contents of Notice

The notice must state all of the following [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)(2)]:

- The total consideration deposited or agreed to be deposited in escrow or with the buyer.
- The name of each claimant who filed a timely claim, and the amount of each claim.
- The amount proposed to be paid to each claimant.
- The new date scheduled for passing of legal title.
- The date on or before which distribution will be made to claimants. This date must not be more than five days after the new date specified for the passing of legal title [Com. Code §§ 6106.2(d), 6106.4(a)(2)].
- If part of the sale consideration is future payment of cash,
  - The amount, terms, and due date of the obligation, and
  - The portion of claims expected to be paid by that obligation [Com. Code § 6106.4(c)].

[d] If Escrow Is Not Used

If a bulk transfer subject to the requirements set forth above will not be handled through an escrow, the buyer rather than the escrow agent must take all of the actions described above [see Com. Code § 6106.2(d)].

§ 17.272 Notice of Sale of Law Practice

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to the client of a law practice that the practice is being transferred. It also contains a provision for the client's consent to the transfer. Notice and consent are required only when the sale contemplates the transfer of responsibility for work not yet completed, or responsibility for confidential client files or information [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)].

The form assumes that the seller is living, and is not represented by a conservator or other person. However, if a conservator or person other than the seller is making the sale, the form should be modified to reflect that fact.

For contract provisions for a contract of sale of a professional practice, see § 17.211. For discussion of the requirements specifically applicable to the sale of a law practice, see § 17.22[5].

[b] Notice Requirements and Time for Giving Notice

When the sale of a law practice contemplates the transfer of responsibility for work not yet completed, or responsibility for client files or information that the attorney is required to keep confidential [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(e) (attorney has duty to preserve secrets of his or her clients)], the seller must send written notice to each client whose uncompleted case or confidential files will be transferred, not less than 90 days prior to the transfer [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(2)]. If the seller is deceased or has a conservator or other person acting in a representative capacity, the buyer must send the notice prior to the sale [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-300(B)(1) (no time limitation imposed)].

§ 17.280 Consent of Franchisor

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision conditioning the purchase and sale of a business on the franchisor's consent to the sale of a franchised business. It should be included in a contract of sale when the business being sold is operated pursuant to a franchise agreement that (1) requires the franchisor's written consent, and (2) does not specify any conditions that must be performed as a prerequisite to consent. For an example of such a franchise agreement, see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements, § 51.211 (restaurant/fast food franchise).

For a provision to be used with a franchise agreement that gives the franchisor the first right to buy the business, requires the franchisor's written consent for any other transfer, and specifies the conditions precedent for transfer, see § 17.281. For a general discussion of franchise agreements and their relationship to the agreement for the sale of a franchised business, see the comment to that form. For examples and extensive coverage of franchise agreements, see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements .

[2] FORM

Consent of Franchisor

Section _____. Franchisor's Consent Required. (a) Seller is operating the business under a franchise ("the franchise"), granted to Seller by _____[name of franchisor], Franchisor, pursuant to a franchise agreement dated _____.

(b) Under Paragraph _____ of the franchise agreement, the written consent of Franchisor is a condition precedent to the closing of the sale and purchase described in this contract.

(c) Buyer and Seller shall promptly contact Franchisor to obtain Franchisor's written consent to the purchase and sale described in this contract.

(d) Buyer and Seller shall promptly take all actions reasonably required to obtain Franchisor's written consent to the purchase and sale described in this contract.

(e) The time and date specified in this contract for closing of the purchase and sale described in this contract shall be extended for a period not exceeding _____[specify, e.g., 10 days] from the date of this contract until the Franchisor's written consent to the purchase and sale has been received by the escrow agent named in this contract.

(f) If the escrow agent does not receive Franchisor's written consent within the period specified in Paragraph (e), above:

(1) This contract shall become null and void.

§ 17.281 Consent of Franchisor Subject to Specified Conditions

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision conditioning the purchase and sale of a business on the franchisor's consent to the sale of a franchised business and upon satisfaction of related conditions. It is for use only when the business being sold is subject to a franchise agreement that (1) gives the franchisor the first right to buy the business, (2) requires the franchisor's written consent for any other sale of the business, and (3) specifies the conditions required for that consent. For an example of a provision for use when the franchise agreement requires consent but does not specify any conditions, see § 17.280.

For examples and discussion of franchise agreements, see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements .

[2] FORM

Consent of Franchisor Subject to Specified Conditions

Section _____. Franchisor's Consent Required. (a) Seller is operating the business under a franchise ("the franchise"), granted to Seller by _____[name of franchisor], Franchisor, pursuant to a franchise agreement dated _____.

(b) Under Paragraph _____ of the franchise agreement, Franchisor has the first right and option to purchase the business and the franchise from Seller on the terms and conditions specified in this contract for the purchase of the business by Buyer within _____[number specified in franchise agreement] days after receipt by Franchisor of written notice and a copy of this contract, thereby invalidating this contract.

(c) Under Paragraph _____ of the franchise agreement, if Franchisor does not exercise its option to purchase the business and the franchise within the specified period, Seller cannot sell, assign, transfer, or convey Seller's interest in the franchise without the prior written consent of Franchisor.

(d) Under Paragraph _____ of the franchise agreement, Franchisor's consent to the purchase of the business and the franchise by Buyer is subject to the following conditions:

[Set forth all conditions specified in franchise agreement (see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements, § 51.200[2], Section 7.04), e.g.:]

(1) Buyer must be approved by Franchisor; therefore, Buyer agrees to make available any information reasonably required for that approval.

(2) Buyer must participate in the training course required by Franchisor of new franchisees; Buyer therefore agrees to so participate.

(3) Seller must not be in default under any provision of the franchise agreement; therefore, Seller agrees to pay in full all amounts owed to Franchisor, prior to assignment of the franchise to Buyer, through the escrow described in this Agreement.

(4) Buyer must assume all obligations of Seller; Buyer therefore expressly assumes those obligations.

(5) Buyer must be bound by all terms and provisions of the franchise agreement; Buyer therefore expressly agrees to be bound in the same manner and to the same extent as Seller.

(6) Buyer must execute and deliver to Franchisor its standard forms of personal guaranty and subordination agreement; Buyer therefore agrees to do so.

(7) Seller must execute and deliver to Franchisor a general release of all claims and causes of action against Franchisor and its affiliates and agents; Seller therefore agrees to do so.

(8) _____ [specify any other conditions set forth in franchise agreement].

(e) Pending the closing of the sale described in this contract, Seller shall continue to operate the business in the same manner as Seller has operated it in the past, in full compliance with the terms of the franchise agreement.

(f) Buyer shall pay to Franchisor, on behalf of Seller, the sum of $_____ for costs incurred by Franchisor for reasonable legal and accounting fees, credit and investigation charges, and retraining expenses incurred as a consequence of this contract.

(g) If Franchisor exercises its option to purchase the business and the franchise from Seller, as described in Subparagrapn (b), above, or if Franchisor for any reason not attributable to Buyer or Seller fails or refuses to consent in writing to the sale to Buyer within _____[number set forth in franchise agreement] days after the date of this contract,

(1) This contract shall become null and void.

(2) Both Buyer and Seller shall be released from all liability for further performance of the terms and conditions of this contract.

(3) Neither Buyer nor Seller shall be liable for any expenses incurred or expended by the other in partial or attempted partial performance of this contract.

(4) Buyer shall be entitled to the immediate return of all funds paid to Seller or deposited in escrow on account of the purchase of the business.

[Add when one attorney drafts sale contract on behalf of both parties:]

(5) Buyer and Seller shall be jointly and severally liable for the payment of all reasonable fees and charges made for the preparation of this contract, as well as for the payment of any reasonable fees or charges made for establishing and cancelling the escrow described in the contract.

§ 17.290 Bill of Sale for Business--Basic Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a basic bill of sale that a seller may use to convey to a buyer all of the personal property assets of a named business, other than the accounts receivable. For an example of a bill of sale that transfers accounts receivable and includes a power of attorney to collect them, see § 17.291. For a bill of sale that contains assumption of liability and indemnity agreements, see § 17.292. For a bill of sale for a professional practice, see § 17.293. For a bill of sale transferring a going business to a corporation, see Ch. 2A, Incorporating a Going Business, § 2A.204[2]. For a bill of sale applicable solely to goods subject to the Uniform Commercial Code, see Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code , Form 52.04.

[b] Bills of Sale in General

A bill of sale is a written instrument equivalent to a grant or conveyance [Civ. Code § 1053], used to evidence the transfer of title to personal property from a seller to a buyer [see Hull v. Ray (1926) 80 Cal. App. 284, 289, 251 P. 810] . A seller is not required to use a bill of sale to transfer title to specific personal property to the buyer. A transfer of property may be made without a writing, if a writing is not required by statute [Civ. Code § 1052]. However, contracts of sale and escrow instructions often specify that the seller deliver a bill of sale for the personal property assets of the business to the buyer.

A bill of sale takes effect upon delivery by the seller [Civ. Code § 1054]. Delivery to the buyer or the buyer's agent is absolute, and cannot be conditional [Civ. Code § 1056]. However, the grantor may deposit a bill of sale with a third person (that is, put it into escrow), to be delivered upon performance of a condition [Civ. Code § 1057]. Upon delivery by the depositary (that is, the escrow agent), the transfer will take effect [Civ. Code § 1057]. Delivery discharges any conditions on which the delivery was made [Civ. Code § 1056].

[c] Contents of Form

A bill of sale of business assets should set forth the basic facts of the sales transaction, including the parties to the sale, the type of property being transferred, and the consideration paid. The seller generally transfers any leasehold interest for the premises occupied by the business to the buyer on closing of the sale by an assignment of lease executed by the seller, and a consent to the assignment executed by the lessor. For examples and discussion of these forms, see Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests .

§ 17.291 Bill of Sale for Business--Including Accounts Receivable and Power of Attorney for Collection

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a bill of sale that transfers the business's accounts receivable as well as the other business assets, and provides a power of attorney to the buyer to collect the receivables. It includes initial recitals regarding the parties and business, and separate bill of sale and power of attorney sections. For a basic bill of sale, see § 17.290. For a bill of sale containing assumption of obligations and indemnity agreements, see § 17.292. For a bill of sale for a professional practice, see § 17.293.

This comment discusses only those provisions unique to this form. For a discussion of bills of sale generally, see § 17.290[1].

[b] Power of Attorney to Collect Accounts Receivable

This form appoints the buyer as the seller's attorney in fact to demand, receive, and collect all the accounts receivable of the business. A power of attorney allows the buyer to issue receipts for payments received, to compromise any disputed accounts, and, if necessary, to assign the accounts to a collection agency for collection and suit. A collection agency generally requires an account to be assigned to it, rather than merely listed for collection, in order to sue on the account in its own name as a real party in interest [see Code Civ. Proc. § 367 (actions must be prosecuted in name of real party in interest)].

For a general discussion of powers of attorney, see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney ; for a specific form for the power to collect debts and compromise claims, see § 98.220. For a provision regarding the power of attorney to collect debts in a bill of sale transferring a going business to a corporation, see Ch. 2A, Incorporating a Going Business, § 2A.204[2].

[c] Effect of Transferring Receivables

A transfer (other than one intended to create a security interest [see Com. Code § 9109(a)(1), (3)]) of any right to payment and any transfer of accounts or chattel paper excluded from the coverage of Division 9 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 9101 et seq. (secured transactions)] will be deemed perfected as against third persons on the delivery to the buyer of a written and executed assignment of the account, contract right, or right to payment [see Civ. Code § 955.1(a)].

§ 17.292 Bill of Sale for Business--Including Assumption of Obligations and Indemnity Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a two-party bill of sale in which the buyer agrees to assume all existing obligations of the business, and the seller agrees to indemnify the buyer against all obligations not shown on the books of the business. For a basic bill of sale, see § 17.290. For a bill of sale that transfers accounts receivable and includes a power of attorney to collect them, see § 17.291. For a bill of sale for a professional practice, see § 17.293. For a bill of sale transferring a going business to a corporation, see Ch. 2A, Incorporating a Going Business, § 2A.204[2].

This comment discusses only those provisions unique to this form. For a discussion of bills of sale generally, see § 17.290[1].

[b] Assumption of Liabilities

This form contains an assumption by the buyer of all of the obligations that appear on the books of the business on the date of sale [see [2], Paragraph 2, below]. That provision is designed for use with a contract of sale that requires assumption by the buyer. For discussion of contractual assumption of obligations, and coverage of products liability, see § 17.200[1][h]; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability (Matthew Bender). In connection with the assumption of obligations, this form requires the buyer to give notice to suppliers of the business, such as wholesalers, that the seller will no longer be liable for obligations thereafter incurred by the business [see [2], Paragraph 4, below].

[a] Use of Form

This form is a bill of sale designed for use in connection with the sale of a professional practice. For a basic bill of sale,see § 17.290. For a bill of sale that transfers accounts receivable and contains a power of attorney to collect them, see § 17.291. For a bill of sale containing assumption and indemnity agreements, see § 17.292. For a bill of sale transferring a going business to a corporation, see Ch. 2A, Incorporating a Going Business, § 2A.204[2].

This comment discusses only those provisions unique to this form. For a discussion of bills of sale generally, see § 17.290[1].

[b] Work in Progress

This form specifically states that all work in progress, other than that specifically assigned to the buyer, will remain the property and responsibility of the seller. The work in progress of a professional practice cannot be assigned without the consent of the professional's client or patient [see Civ. Code § 1457; see also discussion in § 17.22[3]]. When the sale of a law practice contemplates the transfer of responsibility for work not yet completed, or responsibility for client files or information that the attorney is required to keep confidential [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(e) (attorney has duty to preserve secrets of his or her clients)], each client must receive written notice prior to the transfer, and consent in writing to the transfer [*Cal. 8-17 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 17.300

AUTHOR: Marilyn E. Minger Revision Author

§ 17.300 Request for Tax Clearance From Board of Equalization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request from the buyer of a business that engaged in retail sales to the State Board of Equalization (SBE) requesting a certificate of tax clearance. For equivalent forms used to request certificates of tax clearance from the Employment Development Department and the Franchise Tax Board, see §§ 17.301 and 17.302, respetively. This form was drafted by the publisher; as of the date this material was published, the SBE did not have an official form for requesting a tax clearance.

[b] Purchaser's Withholding Obligations

When a person liable for sales or use taxes sells his or her business or stock of goods, the buyer must withhold a sufficient portion of the purchase price to pay any sales or use taxes owed by the seller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6811]. If the buyer fails to withhold sufficient funds, the buyer becomes personally liable for the taxes owed, up to the amount of the purchase price of the business or stock of goods [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812; see Schnyder v. State Board of Equalization (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 538, 542, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 571 (purchasers of business held personally liable for sales and use taxes as successors under Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812)]. The buyer is released from these withholding obligations when the seller produces a receipt from the State Board of Equalization (SBE) showing that any outstanding taxes have been paid, or the Board issues a certificate of tax clearance stating that no taxes, interest, or penalties are due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6811; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(c)]. The SBE may issue the certificate after all amounts have either been paid or secured to the satisfaction of the Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6813; see § 17.126 for applicable procedures].

The SBE must either issue a certificate of tax clearance, or mail notice to the buyer of the amount that must be paid as a condition of issuing that certificate, within 60 days after the latest of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(b); 18

Cal. Code Reg. § 1702(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6814 (service of notice)]:

- The date the SBE receives a written request from the buyer for a certificate (this form).
- The date of the sale of the business or stock of goods.
- The date the former owner's records are made available for audit.

Failure of the Board to mail the notice will release the buyer from any further obligation to withhold the purchase price [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(c)].

If the SBE finds that a buyer's failure to withhold a sufficient amount of the purchase price to cover the amount owed by the former owner is due to reasonable cause and circumstances beyond the buyer's control, and occurred notwithstanding the exercise of ordinary care, and in the absence of willful neglect, it may relieve the buyer of any penalty includable in the notice of successor liability [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6814(b)]. The last day on which the buyer's obligation as successor must be enforced is three years after the date that the SBE is notified of the purchase of the business or stock of goods [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6814(a)].

If an escrow is used for the sale, the escrow instructions often require the escrow agent to request the certificate on behalf of the buyer [see, e.g., § 17.250[2], Paragraphs 18, 19]. This form is designed for use by either the buyer or escrow agent.

For further discussion, see § 17.12. See also SBE Pamphlet 74, "Closing Out Your Seller's Permit," which is available from the SBE or online at the SBE website located at www.boe.ca.gov.

If the audit department of the district office decides to audit the seller's sales tax account, it will normally inform the seller of that fact at the time he or she files the final return. In that event, it will not issue a certificate of tax clearance until it

[c] Addresses of SBE Offices

The request for a certificate of tax clearance should be addressed to the local office of the SBE for the area in which the business being transferred is located. The local office is listed in the phone book for each area, and a complete list of the SBE offices may be found on the SBE website located at www.boe.ca.gov. If the business is located outside of California, the request should be sent to the California State Board of Equalization at Sacramento, New York, Chicago, or Houston offices. The current addresses of these offices are listed in the SBE website listed above, or may be obtained from the SBE customer service line at (800) 400-7115.

§ 17.301 Request for Tax Clearance From Employment Development Department

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request from the buyer of a business to the Employment Development Department (EDD) requesting a certificate of tax clearance. For equivalent forms used to request certificates of tax clearance from the Board of Equalization and the Franchise Tax Board, see §§ 17.300, 17.302, respectively. This is the official form [DE 2220R] used by the Department to handle such requests.

In order to obtain the certificate, the seller or seller's representative must submit various materials to the EDD. For a list of these materials, see § 17.126, Paragraph 2 [see also Requirements for Obtaining Certificate of Release of Buyer (Cal. Employment Dev't Department Pub. 3409A). For additional information, see the EDD California Employer's Guide (Cal. Employment Dev. Dep't Pub. DE-44), published annually. The current version of this guide may be downloaded from the EDD website, which is located at www.edd.cahwnet.gov.

[b] Buyer's Withholding Requirement

The buyer of a business that employs individuals in the business must withhold in trust either money or other property sufficient to pay any contributions, interest, and penalties due or unpaid by the seller for unemployment compensation insurance contributions, or disability compensation insurance contributions [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1731]. The withholding must continue until the seller produces a certificate from the Employment Development Department (EDD) stating that no contributions, interest, or penalties are due [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1731; see EDD Form DE 2220]. If the buyer fails to withhold sufficient funds, he or she becomes personally liable for the contributions, interest, or penalties owed, up to the amount of the purchase price [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1733]. If the seller does not produce the certificate, the buyer must pay the amount due at the time of the purchase [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1731].

Within 30 days of a request from either the seller or buyer, the Department must issue a certificate of tax clearance or a statement showing the amount due. Failure to issue a certificate or statement within that time will be deemed equivalent to issuance of a tax clearance certificate [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1732(a)]. When an escrow is used for the sale, the escrow instructions often require the escrow agent to request the certificate on behalf of the buyer [see, e.g., § 17.250[2], Paragraphs 18, 19]. This form is designed for use by either the buyer, seller, or escrow agent. For further discussion, see § 17.14[3].

[c] Effect of Tax Clearance Certificate

The issuance of a certificate showing that no contributions, interest, or penalties are due (or the failure to issue that certificate within 30 days after a request) will not release the seller from liability on account of any contributions, interest, or penalties then or thereafter determined to be due. It will, however, release the buyer from any further liability on account of any such contributions, interest, or penalties [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1732].

[d] Addresses of Board Offices

The completed form should be submitted to the appropriate EDD office, as itemized on page 3 of the official form [see [2], below].

8-17 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 17.302

AUTHOR: Marilyn E. Minger Revision Author

§ 17.302 Request for Tax Clearance From State of California, Franchise Tax Board

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request from the buyer of a business to the Franchise Tax Board (FTB) requesting a certificate or statement showing the amount of tax, interest, and penalties that the seller was required to deduct and withhold from the wages of its employees, but did not remit to the state. For equivalent forms used to request certificates of tax clearance from the Employment Development Department and the Board of Equalization, see §§ 17.301[2] and 17.302[2], respectively. This form was drafted by the publisher; as of the date this material was published, the FTB did not have an official form for requesting a tax clearance.

[b] Buyer's Withholding Requirement

The buyer of a business must withhold in trust either money or other property sufficient to pay any state income taxes, interest, and penalties that the seller was required to deduct and withhold from the wages of its employees, but did not remit to the state [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669]. The buyer must continue to withhold the money or property in trust until the FTB issues a certificate stating that no taxes, interest, or penalties are due or unpaid from the seller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(a)]. If the buyer fails to withhold sufficient funds, he or she becomes personally liable for the taxes, interest, or penalties owed, up to the amount of the fair market value of the business acquired [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(d)]. If the buyer does not request a certificate, the amount of tax, interest, or penalties due or unpaid by the seller must be paid by the buyer to the FTB on the day the business is acquired [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)].

Within 60 days after a written request from the buyer, the FTB must issue a certificate or statement showing the amount of tax, interest, and penalties due from the seller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]. Failure to issue a certificate or statement within that time is deemed equivalent to the issuance of a certificate stating that no tax, interest, or penalties are due [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]. When an escrow is used for the sale, the escrow instructions often require the escrow agent to request the certificate on behalf of the buyer [see, e.g., § 17.250[2], Paragraphs 18, 19]. For further discussion, see § 17.14[4].

[c] Effect of Tax Certificate or Statement

Issuance of a certificate stating that no taxes, interest, or penalties are due (or the failure to issue a certificate within 60 days of a request) does not release the seller from liability on account of any taxes, interest, or penalties then or thereafter determined to be due from the seller [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(c)]. It does, however, release the buyer from any liability on account of any such taxes, interest, or penalties [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(c)].

If the FTB issues a statement showing that taxes, interest, and penalties are claimed to be due from the seller, the buyer must pay the FTB the amount stated (not in excess of the fair market value of the business acquired) on or before the later of (1) 30 days after the statement is mailed or delivered to the buyer, or (2) the day the business is acquired [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)]. Payment by the buyer does not release the seller from liability to the FTB, except to the extent of the amount paid by the buyer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(c)]. Late payment by the buyer will result in a penalty of 10 percent of the amount payable [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18669(b)].

[d] Address of Franchise Tax Board

The request for a certificate or statement showing the amount of tax, interest, and penalties due from the seller should be addressed to the State of California, Franchise Tax Board, Correspondence Unit, P.O. Box 942840, Sacramento, CA 94240-0040, or to any local office of the Franchise Tax Board (records are computerized and can be accessed from any Franchise Tax Board office). For a complete list of the addresses of the FTB field offices, see the FTB website which is located at www.ftb.ca.gov.

Lynne Carmichael n* Scope

This chapter covers the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license and business. The Legal Background examines the different types of retail licenses and discusses the laws governing the sale of a retail license and the business for which it was issued.

The Transaction Guide provides checklists of information and documents needed to draft an agreement for the sale of a license and business, determinations that the attorney should make before drafting or approving such an agreement, and procedures used to transfer a license. The Forms include contracts of sale, escrow instructions, transfer applications, and statutory notices regarding the sale.

This chapter is designed to be used in conjunction with Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice. Because the sale of an alcoholic beverage license and business is subject to many of the same laws as the sale of any other business, portions of Ch. 17 are applicable to this chapter as well. To avoid unnecessary repetition, this chapter contains numerous cross-references to coverage in that chapter.

CHAPTER 18 BUYING AND SELLING A RETAIL ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE AND BUSINESS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Statutes and Regulations

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.10

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.10 Governing Law

[1] Federal and State Constitutions

The United States Constitution authorizes each state to regulate the transportation or importation of intoxicating liquor for delivery or use into its borders [U.S. Const., amend. XXI, § 2]. The California Constitution provides that the State of California has the exclusive right and power to license and regulate the manufacture, sale, purchase, possession, and transportation of alcoholic beverages within the state, subject to federal internal revenue laws [Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22]. It also authorizes the legislature to provide for the licensing of premises where alcoholic beverages are sold and delegates the power to issue licenses to the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") [Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22].

[2] Alcoholic Beverage Control Act

The California legislature has exercised its power to regulate alcoholic beverages by enacting the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act ("Act") [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.]. The Act is designed to protect the welfare of the people of California by eliminating the unlicensed and unlawful manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23001]. The term "alcoholic beverages" means alcohol, spirits, liquor, wine, and beer, and every liquid or solid containing alcohol, spirits, wine, or beer, that (1) contains 1/2 of one percent or more of alcohol by volume, and (2) is fit for beverage purposes either alone or when diluted, mixed, or combined with other substances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23004].

The Act governs issuance of alcoholic beverage licenses and regulates all other phases of the alcoholic beverage industry in California, including manufacturing, importation, and wholesale and retail distribution. The power to control the licensing of alcoholic beverage sales in California reasonably extends to the transfer of alcoholic beverage licenses. Otherwise, the power to control their original issuance would be meaningless [Pac. Firestone Escrow Co. v. Food Giant Markets, Inc. (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 155, 158, 20 Cal. Rptr. 570] . The Act's comprehensive provisions give an unmistakable indication of the legislature's determination to exercise its power to control every phase of a transfer [see Grover Escrow Corp. v. Gole (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 61, 64-65, 77 Cal. Rptr. 21, 453 P.2d 461] .

Chapter 6 of the Act governs the issuance and transfer of alcoholic beverage licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23950 et seq.]. Articles 1-4 of that chapter concern the issuance and denial of licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23950 et seq.], and Article 5 governs transfers of licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070 et seq.].

[3] Uniform Commercial Code, Bulk Sales Division

The Uniform Commercial Code-Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6101 et seq.] protects the creditors of certain types of businesses when the owner makes a bulk sale. The Bulk Sales Division requires a buyer to record and publish advance notice of the sale [see Com. Code §§ 6104(b), 6105] and, in small cash sales of not more than $2,000,000, to impound and control the distribution of the proceeds [see Com. Code §§ 6106.2, 6106.4; see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, §§ 17.20, 17.210].

A "bulk sale" is any sale outside the ordinary course of the seller's business of more than one half of the seller's inventory and equipment, as measured by the fair market value on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), (3), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined)]. A sale is "in the ordinary course of the seller's business" if the sale comports with usual or customary practices in the kinds of business in which the seller is engaged or with the seller's own usual or customary practices [Com. Code § 6102(a)(13)]. The term "bulk sale" also encompasses such a sale that is not "in the ordinary course of the seller's business" when conducted by auction, and a sale or series of sales conducted by a liquidator on the seller's behalf [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3)(i)].

The Bulk Sales Division applies to a bulk sale if [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(c) (exceptions)]:

- The seller's principal business is the sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1)]; and

- The seller is located in California, or is located in jurisdiction outside the United States but has its major American executive office in California, on the date of the bulk sale agreement.

The Bulk Sales Division has only limited application to the sale of an alcoholic beverage license and business. A transfer that is subject to and complies with the transfer provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070 et seq.] is exempt from most Bulk Sales Division provisions [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.20[2]]. Because the requirements regarding escrow and payment of creditor claims [Com. Code §§ 6106.2, 6106.4; see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.20[6], [7]] are inconsistent with the payment requirements set forth in the transfer division of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also § 18.51[2]], both could not be applied to the same transaction. The transfer of an alcoholic beverage and license, however, is subject to the Bulk Sales Division's notice requirements [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Com. Code § 6105(a)(1)-(4), (b)]. Therefore, if the Bulk Sales Division applies and the buyer fails to comply with its notice requirements, the buyer is liable for the claims of the seller's creditors [see Com. Code § 6107; Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.20[4], [5]; see also § 18.112].

[4] Federal Laws

Until passage of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 [Pub. L. 107-296, 116 Stat. 2135], federal governmental oversight of the alcoholic beverage industry was carried out by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. With passage of the Homeland Security Act of 2002, the responsibilities for criminal and regulatory violations of federal firearms, explosives, arson, alcohol, and tobacco smuggling laws were transferred to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives ("ATF"), within the Department of Justice under the general oversight of the Director of Homeland Security [Homeland Security Act of 2002, Pub. L. 107-296, § 1111(c)(1), 116 Stat. 2135].

Administration and enforcement of Chapters 51 and 52 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 [I.R.C. §§ 5001 et seq., 5701 et seq], I.R.C. §§ 4181 and 4182, and Title 27 of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act [27 U.S.C. § 201 et seq.] and all functions of the former Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms not transferred to ATF were retained under the Department of Treasury in a newly named Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau ("TTB") [Homeland Security Act of 2002, Pub. L. 107-296, § 1111(c)(2), (d), 116 Stat. 2135]. The TTB is responsible for licensing, labeling, formula approval, and tax collections related to the alcoholic beverage industry.

The principal federal impact on California retail licensed businesses is the imposition and collection of the federal Special Occupational Tax on retail sellers of alcoholic beverages imposed by the Internal Revenue Code [26 U.S.C. § 5121]. This tax of $250 a year for each retail outlet is payable annually (July 1 to June 30) by every retail seller of alcoholic beverages.

[5] Other Laws

In addition to the laws specifically applicable to the sale of alcoholic beverage licenses, described above, other laws govern all sales of businesses. For a discussion of the statutes that operate to protect the creditors of a business that is being sold, and the state and federal statutes that impose income, sales and use, and property tax on the sale of the business, see the Legal Background to Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice. For discussion of statutes that govern the sale of a specific type of property (for example, goodwill, trademarks, or real property), or govern a specific type of sale (for example, sale of a franchised business or professional practice), see the comments to the applicable forms in Ch. 17.

§ 18.20 Types of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses

[1] Retail Licenses

The transfer provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act are applicable to all licenses, but because the cost of nonretail licenses is relatively low [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23954.5], and because the Act restricts the number of retail licenses that can be issued by the ABC [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23816, 23817, 23817.5, 23958], the transfer provisions of the Act are used primarily to transfer "retail licenses" [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070-24082]. Therefore, the discussion in this chapter is limited to the transfer of retail licenses under those provisions. However, the Act also authorizes the ABC to issue various other types of alcoholic beverage licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320].

The Act uses, but does not define, the general term "retail license." A retail license authorizes the licensee to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption, rather than resale [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23393, 23394, 23396]. The Act provides for two specific types of retail licenses: on-sale and off-sale. The most common types of retail licenses are:

- On-sale general, which authorizes the sale of all types of alcoholic beverages: namely, beer, wine, and distilled spirits, for consumption on the premises, and the sale of beer and wine for consumption off the premises [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23396, 23401].

- Off-sale general, which authorizes the sale of all types of alcoholic beverages for consumption off the premises in original, sealed containers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23394].

- On-sale beer and wine, which authorizes the sale of all types of wine and malt beverages (e.g., beer, porter, ale, stout, and malt liquor) for consumption on and off the premises [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23396, 23401].

- Off-sale beer and wine, which authorizes the sale of all types of wine and malt beverages for consumption off the premises in original, sealed containers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23393].

- On-sale beer, which authorizes the sale of malt beverages for consumption on and off the premises [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23396, 23401].

[2] Nonretail Licenses

In addition to retail licenses, the ABC may issue a variety of other licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320 (schedule of licenses and renewal fees)]. For example, a manufacturer's or winegrower's license authorizes the licensee to manufacture, produce, package, and sell the authorized beverage [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23356, 23356.1; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 23356.5 (wine blender's license)]. An importer's license authorizes the licensee to import and export alcoholic beverages and to transfer the beverages to himself or herself under another license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23374]. A wholesaler's license authorizes the sale of the alcoholic beverages specified in the license only to other licensees authorized to sell the same alcoholic beverages [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23378].

The "tied-house" laws in California generally prohibit cross-ownership or control between retail and nonretail licensees [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25500, 25502, 25503; see also § 18.33]. However, there are a number of exceptions to the tied-house laws that allow holders of some nonretail licenses, particularly winegrower's licenses, also to hold retail licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25503.15, 25503.30, 23362]. Under a further statutory tied-house exception, California wine-importing businesses often hold a beer and wine importer's license, a beer and wine wholesaler's license as well as a retail package off-sale beer and wine license under which wine only may be sold to consumers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23378.2]. Some businesses that operate under California nonretail licenses, including any businesses that manufacture, import, or wholesale alcoholic beverages, also require issuance of one or more federal basic permits [27 U.S.C. § 203]. If any nonretail license is the subject of a transfer, the attorney handling the sale should consult the nearest district office of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control and the National Revenue Center of the Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau ("TTB") in Cincinnati, Ohio for applicable requirements and procedures.

§ 18.21 Retail On-Sale Licenses

[1] Basic Categories of On-Sale Licenses

[a] Retailer's On-Sale License

A "retailer's on-sale license" authorizes the sale of the alcoholic beverages specified in the license for consumption on the premises where sold [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23024, 23396]. In addition, every on-sale general license with respect to beer and wine, and any other on-sale license with respect to the particular beverage or beverages mentioned in the license, also authorizes the exercise of the off-sale privileges granted by an off-sale beer and wine license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23401]. The on-sale licenses most commonly the subject of transfers are (1) on-sale beer and wine licenses, and (2) on-sale general licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23024]. In addition, several other types of on-sale licenses may be involved in connection with the sale of a business.

[b] Special On-Sale General License

A special on-sale general license ("special" because a club is not open to the general public) may be issued to a club [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23320.1, 23399.2, 24078]. A club is defined as a corporation or association that meets all the following criteria [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23037]:

- Operates an establishment solely for a social or athletic purpose but not for pecuniary gain;
- Has a bona fide membership list;
- Receives dues from a majority of its members at least once a year;
- Has property owned by members; and

- Sells alcoholic beverages only to its members and bona fide guests.

A special on-sale general license may be issued to an association meeting these requirements even if it is operated for pecuniary gain, or its property is not owned by its members, or both [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23399.2].

[c] Restricted Service Lodging Establishments

An on-sale license for restricted service lodging establishments may be issued to a hotel or motel that [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23396.1(b)]:

- Does not operate a bona fide eating place or other public premises;

- Has at least 10 guestrooms; and

- Does not derive more than 5 percent of its total gross annual revenues from sales of alcoholic beverages.

This license allows the hotel or motel to sell or furnish alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises to its transient guests and their invitees by means of controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinets ("minibars") [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23355.2], or in circumstances where the cost of the alcoholic beverages is included in the price of the overnight transient occupancy accommodation.

[d] Brewpub-Restaurant License

A brewpub-restaurant license in an on-sale retail license that may be issued to a bona fide public eating place as long as the licensed premises has at least a seven-barrel brewing capacity and produces not less than 100 barrels nor more than 5,000 barrels of beer annually on the licensed premises. This license authorizes the sale of beer, wine, and distilled spirits for consumption on the premises and the sale of beer produced by the licensee to licensed beer and wine wholesalers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23396.3].

This license also requires that the licensee submit a federal brewer's notice to TTB [26 U.S.C. § 5401(a); 27 C.F.R. § 25.25]. The attorney handling the sale should contact TTB for applicable requirements and procedures.

[2] Premises for Which Licenses Are Issued

The legislature, under a constitutional grant of authority [see Cal. Const., art. XX, § 22], has authorized issuance of on-sale licenses for the following types of premises:

- Bona fide public eating places [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23038].

- Public premises where food is not sold or served to the extent sold or served in a bona fide public eating place [see discussion, below], but where food products may be sold or served incidentally to the sale and service of alcoholic beverages [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23039(a)(1)].

- Public premises for the sale and service of beer only [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23039(a)(2)].

- Railroad dining or club cars [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23321], passenger ships [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23321.6, 23321.7, 24043], common carriers by air [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23321], and bona fide clubs after they have been lawfully operated for at least a year [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23037, 23431].

A "bona fide public eating place" is a place that is regularly used for the serving of meals to guests for compensation and that has suitable kitchen facilities connected to it. It does not include an establishment that serves only sandwiches or salads [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23038]. It also includes a convention center, exhibit hall, or auditorium that is owned by or leased to the State of California, or to any incorporated city, county, city and county, or public corporation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23038.1]. For purposes of on-sale beer and wine licenses, it also includes a ball park, stadium, or coliseum featuring professional sporting events that maintains kitchen facilities for preparing food for patrons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23038.2].

"Public premises," with respect to an on-sale beer license, means premises on which no food whatsoever is sold or served to the public [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23039(a)(2)]. With respect to other on-sale licenses, "public premises" means premises on which food is not sold or served to the public as in a bona fide public eating place, but on which food products may be sold or served incidentally to the sale or service of alcoholic beverages [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23039(a)(1)].

No one under 21 years of age may enter or be present in a public premises at any time. The premises must be posted with signs stating that no one under 21 is allowed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 25665; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 107].

[3] Issuance and Renewal of On-Sale Licenses

The Act limits the number of on-sale general licenses that the ABC may issue [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23816; see also § 18.30]. However, it does not impose a corresponding limitation on the number of on-sale beer and wine licenses or on-sale beer licenses that the ABC may issue.

All retail on-sale licenses, other than on-sale general licenses for seasonal business [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 56], daily on-sale general licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.1], and special licenses for the sale of beer and wine issued on a temporary basis [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(a)], are issued on an annual basis [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(a)]. However, a license transferred, for example, to a spouse, living trust, fiduciary, or partner, or to a corporation, limited partnership, or limited liability company with new owners [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24071, 24071.1, 24071.2] will only be issued for the unexpired term remaining on the transferor's license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(b)]. Further, the ABC may assign or reassign dates for the expiration of licenses, and may establish a registration year for any licenses consisting of any period from six months to 18 months, with prorated fees for licenses with a registration year of other than 12 months [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(c)].

Every license, other than a temporary license or a daily on-sale general license [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24045(a), 24045.1], is renewable unless the license was revoked, provided that the renewal application is made and the applicable fee paid [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320 (schedule of fees)]. The licensee must renew the license annually [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(c); see § 18.165].

[4] Permits

A number of different permits may be issued to holders of retail on-sale licenses. These permits are transferable as part of the retail on-sale license [see Bus. & Prof Code § 23399(e)]:

- A caterer's permit may be issued to any licensee under an on-sale general license; a caterer's permit authorizes the sale of beer, wine, and distilled spirits at social gathering and events held off the licensed premises [Bus. & Prof Code § 23399(a)].

- An event permit may be issued to any licensee under an on-sale general license or an on-sale beer and wine license. An event permit authorizes the sale of beer, wine, and distilled spirits under an on-sale general license, and beer and wine only under an on-sale beer and wine license at events held no more frequently than four days in any single calendar year on property adjacent to and owned by or under the control of the licensee [see Bus. & Prof Code § 23399(b)].

- A controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet is a closed container, access to the interior of which is restricted by means of a locking device or controlled at all times by the licensee. A hotel or motel with an on-sale license may be issued a controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet permit and may sell alcoholic beverages to its registered guests from these cabinets located in the guestrooms of the hotel or motel [see Bus. & Prof Code § 23355.2].

On-sale general licenses can be issued to a multi-room premises, but the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") may require duplicate or portable bar licenses if spirits are served in rooms other than the location of the principal licensed area. If there is more than one location from which distilled spirits are sold to the public, a duplicate license (for rooms such as a separate barroom in a hotel) or portable bar license (because bars are rolled into banquet rooms or to outside areas) will be required [see Bus. & Prof Code §§ 24042, 24042.5].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ABC web page [www.abc.ca.gov] provides information about permits issued to the license holder. If the buyer intends to continue the business as conducted by the seller, the buyer should apply to transfer the permits as part of the transfer of the retail on-sale license. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

§ 18.22 Retail Off-Sale Licenses

[1] In General

An off-sale license authorizes the sale of packaged alcoholic beverages of the type specified in the license for consumption off the premises where they are sold [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23393, 23394]. Off-sale licenses are customarily held by liquor stores, wine shops, drug stores, and grocery stores.

The Act authorizes, and the ABC issues, two types of retail off-sale licenses:

- A retail package off-sale beer and wine license authorizes the sale of beer in containers and wine in packages, to consumers only and not for resale, for consumption off the premises where sold [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23393]. The wine sold under this type of license must be sold in quantities of 52 gallons or less per sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23393].

- An off-sale general license authorizes the sale of distilled spirits to consumers for consumption off the premises [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23394]. This type of license also authorizes the sale of distilled spirits for resale purposes to holders of daily on-sale general licenses [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23394; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.1]. In addition, the holder of an off-sale general license may sell beer and wine for consumption off the premises in the same manner as the holder of a retail package off-sale beer and wine license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23394].

[2] Issuance and Renewal of Off-Sale Licenses

The Act limits the number of off-sale general licenses that the ABC may issue [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23816; see also § 18.30]. It also limits the number of off-sale beer and wine licenses that can be issued in certain parts of the state [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23817.5].

All retail off-sale licenses are issued on an annual basis [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(a)]. However, a license transferred, for example, to a spouse, living trust, fiduciary, or partner, or to a corporation, limited partnership, or limited liability company with new owners [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24071, 24071.1, 24071.2] will only be issued for the unexpired term remaining on the transferor's license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(b)]. Further, the ABC may assign or reassign dates for the expiration of licenses, and may establish a registration year for any licenses consisting of any period from six months to 18 months, with prorated fees for licenses with a registration year of other than 12 months [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(c)].

Every retail off-sale license is renewable unless the license was revoked, provided that the renewal application is made and the applicable fee paid [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320 (schedule of fees)]. The licensee must renew the license annually [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045(c); see § 18.165].

§ 18.30 Restrictions Imposed on General Licenses

[1] Original Issuance

The legislature has declared that the public welfare and morals require a limitation on the number of premises licensed for the sale of distilled spirits [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23815]. Thus, the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") must issue on-sale and off-sale general licenses on the basis of each county's population [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23816, 23817]. For purposes of these limitations, population is determined by the most recent United States decennial or special census or a subsequent census validated by the Population Research Unit of the California Department of Finance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23818].

The number of premises for which the ABC may issue an on-sale general license (including a special (private club) on-sale general license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23816; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320.1]) is limited to one for each 2,000, or fraction of 2,000, inhabitants of the county where the premises are situated [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23816; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23824 (exceptions for premises located on land owned by and leased from, or for premises owned by, state or governmental entities)]. No additional on-sale general license, other than a renewal or transfer due to an increase in population [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23821], may be issued in any county where the number of premises for which on-sale general licenses are issued is more than one for each 2,000, or fraction of 2,000, inhabitants of the county. The ABC cannot issue an on-sale general license in lieu of, or upon the cancellation or surrender of, an on-sale beer and wine license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23816]. These restrictions, however, do not prohibit the exchange of an on-sale general license for a special on-sale license, or the exchange of a special on-sale general license for an on-sale general license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23825].

The number of premises for which the ABC may issue an off-sale general license is limited to one for each 2,500, or fraction of 2,500, inhabitants of the county where the premises are situated [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23817]. No additional off-sale general license, other than a renewal or transfer due to an increase in population [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23821], will be issued in any county where the number of premises for which off-sale general licenses are issued is more than one for each 2,500, or fraction of 2,500, inhabitants of the county [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23817].

[2] Inter-County Transfer

All on-sale and off-sale general licenses may be transferred from one county to another, subject to the following limitations [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(a)]. The number of on-sale or off-sale general licenses in any county on June 1 of any year may not be increased during the following 12-month period by issuance of whichever is less: (1) more than 25 new original on-sale or off-sale general licenses, or (2) new original on-sale or off-sale general licenses that increase by more than 10 percent the number of those licenses in existence in the county at the beginning of the 12-month period [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(a)(1), (b)(1)].

After the ABC determines the number of new original on-sale and off-sale licenses that may be issued in any county during any 12-month period under these rules, it may permit transfer of on-sale or off-sale general licenses into the county if it has concluded that the foregoing rules permit additional general licenses in the county [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(a)(2), (b)(2)]. In no event, however, may the combined total number of new original on-sale or off-sale general licenses that may be issued in the county during any 12-month period, and the number of on-sale or off-sale general licenses that may be transferred into the county during that period, exceed one for each 2,000 (for on-sale licenses) or 2,500 (for off-sale licenses) inhabitants [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(a)(3), (b)(3); see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23816, 23817].

[3] Prohibition on Transfer for Two Years After Issuance

As a result of the limitations on the number of on-sale general and off-sale general licenses, and the fact that the licenses are transferable from person to person, general licenses have become property of substantial value [see Golden v. State (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 640, 643, 285 P.2d 49] . In order to prohibit speculation in general licenses, the legislature has provided that no general license is transferable from the licensee to another person for a period of two years from the date of issuance, except (1) to a spouse, partner, or fiduciary [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24071; see also § 18.40[3]], or (2) if the ABC determines that the transfer is necessary to prevent undue hardship [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(c))]. If the licensee is a corporation, a controlling interest in the stock ownership of the licensee may not be directly or indirectly sold, transferred, or hypothecated unless the licensee is a corporation whose stock is listed on a California or New York stock exchange, or unless it is required by law to file periodic reports with the SEC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(c)].

[4] Purchase Price on Transfer

The purchase price or consideration that may be paid by a transferee or received by a transferor of an on-sale general license or an off-sale general license is $6,000; however, after a period of five years from the date of the original issuance of the license, there are no restrictions as to the purchase price or consideration [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079(a)]. A violation of this limitation on the purchase price is a crime [People v. Anderson (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 1084, 1089-1090, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 247] . Further, this purchase price limitation cannot be avoided by paying the statutory price to a corporate licensee and a finder's fee to an individual who is one of a few shareholders of the licensee corporation [People v. Anderson (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 1084, 1091-1092, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 247] . Notwithstanding this rule, however, any original on-sale or off-sale general license for which an original fee of $12,000 was paid may not be transferred for a purchase price in excess of $12,000 for two years following its initial issuance and is thereafter free from monetary limitations on the purchase price [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079(c)]

Furthermore, during the five years after an inter-county transfer of an on-sale or off-sale general license, the purchase price or consideration that a buyer may pay or a seller may receive for the license must not exceed $6,000 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(d), (e); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079]. The ABC advises that if the proposed transfer falls within one of these categories, the parties should contact the local district office for detailed instructions [see Form ABC-521, Issuance of Original and Intercounty Transfer of On-Sale General and Off-Sale General Licenses, pp. 4-5 (7/02)].

For a discussion of purchase price allocation for purposes of determining basis and gain or loss on the sale pursuant to federal tax law [I.R.C. § 1060; Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T], see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.11[4].

§ 18.31 Restrictions Imposed on Off-Sale Beer and Wine Licenses

The number of premises for which an off-sale beer and wine license is issued is limited to one for each 2,500 inhabitants (or fraction of that number) of the city or county in which the premises is situated. No additional off-sale beer and wine license, other than a renewal or transfer, may be issued in any city or county in which the number of premises for which all off-sale beer and wine licenses are issued is more than one for each 2,500 inhabitants of the city or county. § 18.32 Conditional Licenses

[1] Existing Conditions

The ABC may impose operating conditions on a retail license in any of the following situations:

- If grounds exist to deny an application for a license or if a protest against issuance of a license is filed, and the ABC finds that the grounds for the denial or the basis for the protest may be removed by imposing conditions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(a)].

- If the ABC makes findings that would justify license suspension or revocation, and the imposition of a condition is reasonably related to those findings [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(b)].

- If the ABC issues an order suspending or revoking only some of the license privileges [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(c)].

- If the ABC makes findings that the licensee has failed to correct objectionable conditions within a reasonable time after receipt of a written notice to correct conditions under Bus. & Prof. Code § 24200(e) (conditions constituting a nuisance on the licensed premises) or § 24200.1(a) and (b) (conditions constituting a nuisance on the licensed premises or an adjacent area, or a public sidewalk abutting the licensed premises) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(d)].

Operating conditions may restrict or deny any privileges of the license, such as hours of sales, exercise of off-sale privileges at an on-sale premises, size and placement of signs, types and strengths of alcoholic beverages, container sizes, single-container sales, and other restrictions to "protect the public welfare and morals" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23801]. In the case of a transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(f)], the ABC may impose restrictions on the presence of the license transferor on the premises [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23801(g); see [2], below].

The fact that conditions have been imposed on a license is noted on the front of the license, and a copy of the conditions must be kept with the license in the licensed premises, available for examination by any peace officer. Conditions are binding on any person to whom the license is transferred [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23802]. Failure to comply with the conditions is grounds for suspension or revocation of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23804]. When conditions are imposed, the ABC recites the grounds for imposition in the document imposing the conditions.

A licensee or an applicant for transfer may petition to have conditions removed or modified, arguing that the grounds for the imposition of the conditions no longer exist. The cost is $100. If the ABC believes the grounds that caused the imposition no longer exist, it must order removal or modification. First, however, the ABC must notify the "local governing body," (the city council, board of supervisors or an agency or department designated by the governing body). If the local governing body objects, the ABC cannot modify or remove the conditions without a hearing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23803].

[2] Conditions Imposed at Time of Transfer

When the ABC receives an application to transfer a retail license, it mails a copy of the application to the sheriff, chief of police, and district attorney of the locality in which the premises are situated, to the city or county planning director with jurisdiction over the premises, and to the board of supervisors if the premises are in an unincorporated area or the city council or other governing body if the premises are in an incorporated area. The license cannot transfer for at least 30 days after the mailing, and the period can be extended for an additional 20 days if the ABC receives written notice from the police or sheriff representative that he or she is preparing a protest to the transfer of the license or proposed conditions to be imposed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987]. In certain areas where there is an "undue concentration" of retail licenses [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958.4], the local governing body or its designee has 40 days to respond, which can be extended by an additional 20 days upon written request [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(e)(2)].

The ABC and the local governing body can use the occasion of the transfer to impose new conditions on the transferred license [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23987, 23800(e), (f)]. The ABC may prescribe conditions that it determines are reasonable pursuant to its investigation or that are requested by the local governing body (or its designated subordinate officer or agency) in whose jurisdiction the license is located, if the request is supported by substantial evidence that specified problems on the premises or in the immediate vicinity of the premises will be mitigated by the conditions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(e)(1)].

Upon receipt of the request, as long as it is received within the time authorized in the statutes, the ABC may either adopt the conditions requested or notify the local governing body, in writing, that it has determined that there is no substantial evidence that the problems exist or that the conditions would not mitigate the problems identified [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(e)(1)]. If the ABC denies a licensee's or applicant's petition for removal of conditions or adopts conditions requested by the local governing body, it must give written notice of its decision to the licensee or applicant [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(e)(1)]. The licensee or applicant, within 10 days after the mailing of the denial, may submit a written request for a hearing, conducted and appealable as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24300 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23805].

In the case of a transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23800(f)], if the license transferor has violated the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act multiple times while in possession of the license, the ABC may impose restrictions on the presence of the transferor on the licensed premises without lawful business. For these purposes, "lawful business" specifically excludes (without limitation) working or volunteering at the premises, consulting with the licensee regarding the operation of the premises, and loitering [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23801(g)].

§ 18.33 Tied-House Restrictions

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Act contains a series of "tied-house" provisions that restrict the relationships between alcoholic beverage manufacturers, wholesalers, and retail licensees [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25500-25512]. For example, no manufacturer, winegrower, rectifier, distiller, bottler, importer, or wholesaler may directly or indirectly own any interest in an on-sale or off-sale license [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25500(a)(1), 25502(a)(1)], make loans or other payments to a retail licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25500(a)(2), 25502(a)(2); see, e.g., Dep't of Alcoholic Beverage Control v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Bd. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 1066, 1074-1080, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278 (suspension of wine grower/supplier's license because payment for advertising in exclusive sales catalog of individual retail licensee violated Bus. & Prof. Code § 25502(a)(2))], or own any interest in the business, furniture, or fixtures of a business operated under a retail license [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25500(a)(3), 25502(a)(3)]. However, under specified conditions, these restrictions do not prohibit the transfer of a retail on-sale or off-sale license to any person (including a manufacturer or wholesaler) with respect to premises that are an integral part of the operations of a hotel, motel, or marine park [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 25503.16], chef's school [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25503.17, 25503.18], passenger cruise ship [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 25503.19], or restaurant [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25503.15, 25503.30], notwithstanding the fact that the transfer would otherwise violate the tied-house restrictions [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25503.11-25503.22. 25503.28-25503.30, 25503.37].

§ 18.40 Authorized Transfers of Retail Licenses

[1] In General

The Act expressly states that each alcoholic beverage license issued under the Act is separate, distinct, and transferable upon approval by the ABC (1) from the licensee to another person, and (2) from one premises to another premises [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070]. Generally premises-to-premises transfers must be within a county. However, in August of each year, based on population growth, the ABC allows the issuance of new licenses and the transfer of licenses county-to-county. The number of licenses available for transfer into a county is limited to one for every additional 2,500 persons in the county, up to a maximum of 25 in any one year. However, notwithstanding any other provision of law, no license may be transferred into any county having a population of 35,000 or less [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24077].

[2] Exchanges of On-Sale Licenses

The typical transfer of on-sale licenses does not involve any change in privileges. However, the holder of an on-sale license or the proposed transferee of the license may exchange a public premises license for a bona fide public eating place or a bona fide public eating place license for a public premises license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070.1]. In any exchange, the licensee must comply with the requirements for public premises operations or bona fide public eating place operations [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23038, 23039].

[3] Between Particular Persons

Licenses may be transferred person-to-person upon payment of transfer and annual fees appropriate to the type of license transferred [see Bus. & Prof. §§ 23320, 24072]. The Act also allows for reduced-fee transfers for the following types of transfers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24071]:

- From one spouse to the other prior to entry of a final decree of divorce (dissolution).

- By or to the surviving partners of a deceased licensee.

- By or to the executor, administrator, conservator, or guardian of a minor ward, incompetent person, conservatee, debtor in a bankruptcy case, person for whose estate a receiver is appointed, or assignor for the benefit of creditors.

- By or to the surviving spouse of a deceased licensee if the licensee leaves no estate for administration.

- By or to the trustee of a licensee's bankrupt estate, a receiver of a licensee's estate, or an assignee for the benefit of creditors of a licensee with the consent of the assignor.

- By or to a receiver appointed for a judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630].

- By a licensee to a revocable living trust when the licensee is also the trustee.

- Between partners where no new partner is being licensed.

- Between corporations whose outstanding shares of stock are owned by the same natural persons.

- From a licensee to a corporation or limited liability company whose entire ownership interests are held by the licensee or his or her spouse.

- From a corporation to a person who owns or whose spouse owns the entire stock of the corporation.

The Act also requires license transfers when the general partner of a limited partnership changes and when 50 percent or more of the ownership interests of a corporation, limited partnership or limited liability company is acquired by a person or persons who did not hold 50 percent when the license was issued to the entity [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24071.1, 24071.2].

§ 18.41 Requirements for Transfer of Retail License

[1] In General

When a licensee (the "seller") proposes to transfer a retail alcoholic beverage license to another person (the "buyer"), the buyer must apply to the ABC for a license of the type to be transferred [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b); Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24073, 24074]. Before filing the transfer application, the buyer and seller of most retail licenses will be required to record a notice of the intended transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see § 18.41[2]] and open an escrow for payment of timely creditor claims [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; § 18.41[4]]. These notice and escrow requirements, however, do not apply to the following types of transfers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24075]:

- The transfer of a license made by an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver (other than a receiver appointed for a judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630]), or other person acting in the legal or proper discharge of official duty or in the discharge of any trust imposed by law.

- Any transfer or assignment made for the benefit of creditors.

- A transfer to a surviving spouse or fiduciary or other person within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 24071 [see § 18.40[3], above].

[2] Notice of Intended Transfer

Before filing a transfer application with the ABC, the buyer and seller must record a notice of intended transfer in the county recorder's office for the county where the licensed premises are located, if the license is (1) an off-sale or on-sale general license restricted in number [see Bus. & Prof Code §§ 23816, 23817]; (2) an off-sale or on-sale beer and wine license; (3) an on-sale beer license; or (4) an on-sale general license for seasonal business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24075 (exceptions to requirement); see also § 18.41[1]]. The buyer and seller must file a copy of that notice, certified by the county recorder, with the transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see § 18.123].

The notice of intended transfer must state all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see § 18.210 (Form ABC-227)]:

- The name and address of the seller.
- The name and address of the buyer.
- The kind of license intended to be transferred.
- The address of the premises to which the license is issued.
- An agreement between the buyer and seller that the consideration for the transfer of the business and license will be paid only after the ABC has approved the transfer.
- The place where the purchase price or consideration for the business and license will be paid; the amount of the purchase price or consideration; and a description of the entire consideration, including a designation of cash, checks, promissory notes, and tangible and intangible property, and the amount of each. If no present consideration is involved in the transfer of the license, the notice should state that no consideration is involved.
- The name and address of the escrow holder (also known as the "escrow agent") [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074] or corporate guarantor [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4; ABC-227 INSTR Instructions and General Information, p1-2; § 18.41[4]], as appropriate.

[3] Bulk Sale Notice

The notice required by the Act as a prerequisite to the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license differs in several material ways from the notice required by the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code (the "Bulk Sales Division," Division 6) [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; Com. Code § 6105; § 18.211 (notice of bulk sales)]. For example, the notice required by the Act must state the amount of the purchase price and a description of the instruments constituting the purchase price [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073(f); see also § 18.210]. The Bulk Sales Division does not impose that requirement. The notice required by the Bulk Sales Division requires a list of all other business names and addresses used by the seller within the preceding three years [see Com. Code § 6105(a)(2)], but the Act does not impose that requirement. The notice required by the Act must be recorded, but need not be published [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073]. A notice of intended bulk sale, in contrast, must be both recorded and published [Com. Code § 6105(b)].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073 is not intended to relieve a seller from compliance with the Bulk Sales Division requirements, when applicable. Therefore, if the seller of a retail alcoholic beverage license will also sell the going business for which the license is issued to the buyer, it appears that two notices must be given. Before an application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license can be filed with the ABC, the buyer or seller must record the notice required by the Act (discussed above) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073]. To avoid liability to creditors of the seller [see Com. Code § 6107], the buyer must record and publish the notice required by the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105]. The ABC does not provide guidance regarding any combination of these two notices, stating only that recording an ABC-227 Notice of Intended Transfer "does not eliminate the need to comply with Division 6 of the Commercial Code, which relates to the business, stock in trade, fixtures, etc. of a merchant. ABC does not give advice on what will meet the Commercial Code requirements" [see Form ABC-227 INSTR, Instructions and General Information, p. 1 (9/99)]. Some commercial escrow companies have attempted to combine the two required notices into one instrument [see, e.g., § 18.212]. However, the resulting form will be lengthy and therefore expensive to publish, as newspapers charge by the column inch for publishing the notice. It may be better practice to record two separate notices [see §§ 18.210, 18.211], and then to publish only the notice required by the Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code § 6105].

[4] Establishing an Escrow

If the intended transfer of the alcoholic beverage license and business involves a purchase price or consideration, the buyer and seller generally must also establish an escrow before filing a transfer application with the ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24075 (exceptions to requirement); § 18.41[1]]. Because an essential element of an escrow is the deposit of money or other consideration with the escrow holder, there is no requirement that an escrow be established when no consideration is involved in the transaction. Furthermore, no escrow is required if, for a transfer of an off-sale beer and wine license only, (1) a corporation with a net worth on a consolidated basis of at least $5,000,000 according to its most recent audited financial statement files a guaranty of full payment of all creditor claims, and (2) the guaranty is acceptable to the creditors [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4; see § 18.125].

The escrow holder must be some person, corporation, or association not a party to the transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074], and must meet the requirements of Chapter 1 of the Escrow Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1; see Fin. Code §§ 17000-17010 (applicability of escrow law to particular persons)]. However, because the attorney handling the sale may act as escrow holder, it should be noted that a California-licensed attorney who has a bona fide client relationship with a principal in a real estate or personal property transaction and who is not actively engaged the business of an escrow agent is exempt from the requirements of the Escrow Law [Fin. Code § 17006(a)(2)].

The buyer must deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration with the escrow holder before filing a transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. In practice, because an application to transfer is often filed before the parties' official transaction closing, the buyer may actually deposit the consideration into the escrow after the application is filed [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3(a) (requiring buyer to provide a statement that the consideration has been deposited within 30 days after the filing)]. The purchase price or consideration need not be entirely in the form of cash, draft, or check, but may consist in whole or in part of promissory notes. Liability on those notes, however, should be conditioned on approval of the transfer by the ABC. The amount deposited may be either (1) the total consideration for the property, business, and the liquor business, (2) the separate reasonable consideration for the licensed business and license, or (3) the consideration for the license only when it is the only asset being transferred [see Form ABC-227 INSTR, Instructions and General Information, p. 1 (9/99)]. The buyer and seller must also deposit an agreement regarding distribution of that consideration with the escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see 18.41[5]].

[5] Parties'Agreement Regarding Distribution of Consideration

The buyer and seller must enter into an agreement setting forth various specific directions regarding distribution of the consideration held in escrow, and deposit that agreement with the escrow holder. First, the agreement must direct the escrow holder to notify any claimant who has filed a claim against the seller with the escrow holder, if the seller disputes his or her claim [see § 18.131 for coverage of claims process]; to retain the amount or pro rata amount of the disputed claim for 25 days; and to pay the amount or pro rata amount to the seller if not attached during that period [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. Second, it must direct the escrow holder, after the tax prerequisites for transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049; see also § 18.51[1]] have been satisfied, to pay out of the purchase price or consideration (whether it takes the form of cash, checks, promissory notes, or tangible or intangible property) the claims of bona fide creditors of the seller who file their claims with the escrow holder before the ABC notifies the escrow holder of its approval of the license transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. Third, it must direct the escrow holder to distribute the purchase price or consideration in the statutory order if it is not sufficient to pay all timely claims in full [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.51[2]]. Finally, it must direct the escrow holder to make the distribution within a reasonable time after the completion of the transfer of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

[6] Filing Application

When a licensee proposes to transfer a retail alcoholic beverage license to another person, the buyer must apply to the ABC for a license of the type to be transferred, and must meet all of the qualifications required of an original applicant for that type of license [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23958, 24073, 24074]. The seller must join in the application [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b); see § 18.220]. While the ABC prefers that the application be made in person, so that any corrections in the required information can be made at the time of application, Form ABC-211-SIG "Application Signature Sheet (Sign On)" (9/01) is designed to be used as the signature page for buyers' applications not signed in the ABC office [see § 18.222]. Furthermore, Form ABC-211-A "License Transfer Request ("Sign Off") (9/01) can also be completed by seller without appearing in the ABC office [see § 18.220]. Signatures on both these forms must be notarized if they are not signed in the ABC office. Most frequently, the seller signs the forms in advance, and the buyer or the buyer's representative then personally comes in to the ABC and files the application in person. The ABC occasionally will accept applications by mail when personal appearance is impractical, but will return the paperwork by mail if any corrections are necessary, thereby delaying processing of the application.

PRACTICE TIP:

In many district offices of the ABC, the wait for an appointment to file an application to transfer can be several weeks, if not months. As soon as a transfer of an alcoholic beverage license appears likely, or even possible, the buyer or buyer's representative should call the appropriate ABC district office to make an appointment to file. It can always be canceled if the transaction does not proceed. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

[7] Required Documents

The application for transfer must include the following documents:

- A license transfer request (Form ABC-211-A) [see § 18.220] signed by seller and indicating seller's intention to transfer.

- Evidence of ownership or tenancy of the premises, such as deed or lease (not necessarily required at time of application, but will be required prior to approval of transfer application).

- Any franchise agreement, if applicable (not necessarily required at time of application, but will be required prior to approval of transfer application).

- A certified copy of the notice of intended transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see also [2], above].

- An application questionnaire (Form ABC-217) [see § 18.221] signed by the buyer, giving financial and investment information about the transaction, including information about the total consideration to be paid, and the consideration to be paid for each asset [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24080]. For a discussion of limitations on these amounts, see § 18.30[4].

- An application signature sheet (Form ABC-211 SIG) [see § 18.222] if the buyer's representative(s) will not file the application in person.

- A complete detailed diagram of the proposed premises where the buyer will exercise the license privileges [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64.2].

- Fiduciaries' proof of status (that is, death certificate or letters testamentary).

- Court order authorizing transfer if the seller has filed for protection under bankruptcy laws.
- Organizational documents of parties that are business entities [see §§ 18.226-18.228].

[8] Transfer Fees

The buyer must pay a transfer fee when filing the application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(c); see § 18.221].

[9] Investigation Period

Immediately after the buyer has filed the application for transfer and accompanying documents, and paid the applicable transfer fee, the ABC must send a copy of the application (1) to the sheriff, chief of police, and district attorney of the locality in which the premises are located; and (2) to the board of supervisors of the county if the premises are in unincorporated territory, or to the city council or other governing body of the city if the premises are within an incorporated area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987]. The ABC cannot transfer the license for at least 30 days after mailing those notices [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987], and generally requires an even longer period, for purposes of investigation [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23987].

Upon receipt of the application, the ABC assigns an investigator (1) to determine whether the applicant and premises qualify for a license, and whether the parties have complied with all provisions of the Act, and (2) to investigate all matters connected with the license that may affect the public welfare and morals [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958]. The average waiting period for a license is 55-65 days [see Instructions and General Information to Form ABC-211-A, reproduced in § 18.220]. For this reason, applicants should be cautious with respect to extensive financial commitments, plans for a grand opening, and so on, during this period. Missing or incomplete documents can also cause delays. The investigator ultimately prepares a report recommending approval or denial of the license, which the ABC reviews at various levels.

[10] Required Notices

After filing a transfer application with the ABC, the buyer must give various notices regarding the application. First, the buyer must post a notice of intention to engage in the sale of alcoholic beverages in a conspicuous place at the entrance to the licensed premises for at least 30 consecutive days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985]. Because the ABC will not issue a license for the premises unless this requirement is satisfied, the buyer must notify the ABC of the date the notice is first posted by filing an affidavit of posting [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109]. A similar requirement applies when the buyer has filed an application for premises that are to be constructed, or are in the process of construction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044]. For further discussion, see § 18.241.

In addition, if the license to be transferred is an on-sale license [see § 18.21], the buyer must publish a notice of the application in a newspaper of general circulation (other than a legal or professional trade publication) that is published in the city where the licensed premises are located, or in the nearest such newspaper of general circulation if the licensed premises are not within a city [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(a); see § 18.240 (Form ABC-207-D)]. The notice must be published once in the newspaper within 10 days after filing the transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(a); see also Gov. Code § 6061]. The buyer must file an affidavit of publication with the ABC before the license will be issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(a)]. An ABC employee will prepare the affidavit of publication if the buyer comes to the district office with proof that the notice has been published as required [see § 18.240].

Furthermore, if the premises are located in a census tract that has an undue concentration of licenses as defined by ABC rules or regulations [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.3], the buyer of an on-sale or off-sale license must publish a notice of the application once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation (other than a legal or professional trade publication) that is published in the city where the licensed premises are located, or in the nearest such newspaper of general circulation if the licensed premises are not within a city [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(b); see Gov. Code § 6063]. He or she must then file an affidavit of publication with the ABC before the license will be issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(b)].

If the parties have applied for transfer of a retail license that requires a recorded notice of intended transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; § 18.210 (ABC-227)], and if there is consideration for the transfer requiring an escrow, within 30 days after filing the application the buyer must also file a statement under penalty of perjury that the purchase price set forth in the escrow agreement [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074] has been deposited with the escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3(a); see § 18.242 (ABC-226)]. Although the ABC may extend the 30-day period for good cause, it will not transfer the license until it has received the statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3(a)]

Finally, if the premises are not currently licensed, or are licensed under a different type of license than the one sought by the application, the buyer must mail notification of the application to every resident of real property within a 500-foot radius of the premises for which the license is to be issued, and submit proof of compliance to the ABC prior to license approval [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5(a)]. The buyer must also notify owners of real property within a 500-foot radius if the local jurisdiction where the license is to be issued provides a list of the names and addresses of the owners to the buyer free of charge [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5(a), (b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the buyer intends to remodel the premises prior to opening the business under the transferred license, and if that remodel involves moving the entrance or enlarging the premises, the ABC may require the buyer to mail a notice to residents within 500 feet, even though the license type is not changing. Moving or changing the entrance may require a premises-to-premises transfer, which expands the allowable grounds for protests of the license transfer. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

§ 18.50 Temporary Permit--Issuance

[1] Issuance

When a seller is transferring a retail alcoholic beverage license with the licensed business, the ABC has the discretion to issue the buyer a "temporary permit" to operate the business on the same premises during the application process. A temporary permit is a conditional permit, authorizing the holder to sell any alcoholic beverages that would be permitted to be sold under the privileges of the license for which the transfer application has been filed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5].

The ABC will issue a temporary permit only when all of the following conditions exist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]:

- The buyer has filed an application with the ABC for transfer of the license at the premises to himself or herself.
- The buyer has submitted an application for a temporary permit, together with the temporary permit fee.
- The seller has surrendered the license for the premises, in accordance with ABC rules [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 65; § 18.220].
- The premises have been operated under a license within 30 days of the date the buyer filed the application for a temporary permit.

When issued, a temporary permit is valid for a period not to exceed four calendar months. The ABC has the discretion to extend the permit for an additional four calendar month period upon payment of an additional fee and compliance with all of the preceding conditions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]. However, the ABC may summarily cancel or suspend a temporary permit at any time if it determines that good cause for the cancellation or suspension exists [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5].

If the ABC refuses to issue or extend a temporary permit, the buyer will not be entitled to petition for the permit [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24011], or to receive a hearing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24012].

[2] Operation of Business Under Permit

During operation of the business under a temporary permit, the buyer must pay for all alcoholic beverage purchases in currency or by business check at or before the time of their delivery [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]. This requirement, however, does not apply to a buyer who is operating under a retail license held in exactly the same ownership, in addition to the temporary permit, and who is not delinquent in payment for any alcoholic beverages as to any retail license under which he or she is operating [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 25509]. Before the ABC will approve the transfer of the license for which the buyer has applied, the buyer must file a statement under penalty of perjury that all current obligations incurred under the temporary permit have been discharged, and that all outstanding checks issued by him or her in payment for alcoholic beverages will be honored on presentation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; § 18.223].

§ 18.51 Escrow Requirements

[1] Payment of Tax Holds

The ABC may refuse to transfer any license when the seller is delinquent in the payment of any taxes due under any of the following laws ("tax holds"), if the tax liability arises partially or completely from the exercise of the privileges of the alcoholic beverage license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2]:

- The Alcoholic Beverage Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 32001-32557 (excise tax imposed on manufacture or importation of alcohol)].
- The Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.].
- The Personal Income Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17001 et seq.].
- The Bank and Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.].
- Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 134, 405(a), regarding county tax on unsecured property.

Similarly, the ABC may refuse to transfer a license if the seller is delinquent in the payment of any amount due under the Unemployment Insurance Code when the liability arises from the conduct of a business licensed by the ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2].

The release of tax holds is a condition precedent to the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license [see Golden v. State (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 640, 646, 285 P.2d 49 ; United States v. California (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1960) 281 F.2d 726, 727-728]. Accordingly, the Act requires the parties to instruct the escrow holder to pay creditor claims out of the purchase price deposited in escrow only after the tax holds have been released [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see discussion under § 18.51[1]].

In practice, the agencies administering the tax laws give notice to the ABC of any tax delinquencies for ABC licensees. Upon receipt of a delinquency notice, the ABC attaches the notice to the licensee's file and notes the tax hold in the ABC database. If the licensee files an application to transfer the license to another person, the ABC returns a duplicate of the application to the taxing agency [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2(1)]. The taxing agency must demand the delinquent amount from the licensee within 30 days after receiving notice of the application to transfer the license, and must give notice of the demand to the escrow holder and buyer. If the agency fails to make a demand within this time, the ABC may proceed to transfer the license [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2(2)]. The ABC sends a notice [Form ABC-202-A] to the escrow holder when there is nothing preventing approval of a license transfer except delinquent taxes. After the escrow holder has paid the tax delinquency from the escrow funds, the taxing agency must send notice of the tax delinquency release in duplicate to the escrow holder, who then sends the original copy to the ABC [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2(3)]. Upon receipt of the release, the ABC will approve transfer of the license and notify the escrow holder [Form ABC-226, Part III] of its approval. At that point, the escrow holder must distribute the sale proceeds deposited in escrow [see discussion in [2], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the funds in the escrow are insufficient to pay the tax holds in full, the taxing agency or agencies will negotiate with the seller and among themselves to determine how the funds from the escrow will be applied to their claims. In some instances, even though all the consideration in the escrow is applied to the tax holds, and the tax holds are released so that the license can be transferred, the seller's obligations to the taxing agency or agencies may not be fully satisfied. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

[2] Distribution of Consideration

After the escrow holder has paid the tax obligations set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049 ("tax holds") [see [1], above] and the tax holds are released, the escrow holder must distribute any remaining consideration held in escrow to creditors who filed their claims with the escrow holder before he or she received notice of the ABC's approval of the transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. If the purchase price or consideration is not sufficient to pay the claims in full, the escrow holder must distribute the consideration in the following order, as instructed by the parties and required by the statute [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]:

- First, to the United States for claims based on income or withholding taxes, then for other tax claims not specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049.

- Second, to the payment of claims for wages and other compensation earned by employees of the seller prior to the sale, transfer, or opening of escrow.

- Third, to the payment of claims of secured creditors, to the extent of the proceeds that arise from the sale of the security.

- Fourth, to the payment of claims on mechanics' liens.

- Fifth, to the payment of escrow fees and claims for brokerage and attorneys' fees.

- Sixth, to the payment of claims for goods sold and delivered to the seller for resale at the licensed premises; to the payment of claims for services rendered, performed, or supplied in connection with the operation of the licensed business; and to the payment of the claims of a landlord to the extent of proceeds on past due rent.

- Seventh, to the payment of other claims that have been reduced to court-ordered judgments, including claims for court-ordered support of a minor child.

- Eighth, to the payment of all other claims. If sufficient assets are not available for payment of each claim in full, payment must be made pro rata.

This distribution scheme is a mandatory and exclusive system of priorities that cannot be defeated by the levy of a writ of attachment on the escrow account by one creditor [Grover Escrow Corp. v. Gole (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 61, 65-66, 77 Cal. Rptr. 21, 453 P.2d 461] . However, unlike the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049, its provisions are not conditions precedent to the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license, but merely a designated method of distributing the sale proceeds [see Golden v. State of California (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 640, 646, 285 P.2d 49] .

If, at the time a creditor files a lien against the seller, the escrow holder has already paid the Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049 taxes, there may be no property of the seller to which the lien can attach. If the seller does not exercise the right to dispute any timely creditor's claim [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074], and the assets are insufficient to pay all claims in full, the seller loses all power to establish a claim to any portion of the proceeds. The matter of distribution then becomes one wholly between the creditors and the escrow holder. Therefore, a United States tax lien that was established after the payment of Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049 taxes, but when the proceeds still remained in escrow, could not attach to those proceeds because the seller had no property rights in them [Business Title Corp. v. United States (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 710, 721-722, 147 Cal. Rptr. 622, 581 P.2d 627] .

§ 18.52 Impediments to Transfer

[1] Denial of Application

The ABC may deny an application for transfer of a license if [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958]:

- Either the applicant or the premises do not qualify for a license;
- Issuance would tend to create a law enforcement problem; or
- Issuance would result in or add to an undue concentration of licenses, and the applicant fails to show that public convenience or necessity would be served by issuance.

A discussion of the administrative and judicial remedies used to contest such a denial is beyond the scope of this chapter. For general discussion of administrative and judicial proceedings relating to alcoholic beverage licenses, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 18, Alcoholic Beverage Licenses (Matthew Bender). Denial and protest proceedings under Article 3 of the ABC Act are conducted in accordance with the administrative adjudication provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24016; see Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (APA hearing procedures)]. For detailed discussion of the administrative adjudication process, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication (Matthew Bender), and subsequent chapters of that publication.

In practice, denial of a license transfer that is only person-to-person (as opposed to premises-to-premises) is rare.

[2] Protests

In a person-to-person transfer of an alcoholic beverage license and business, with no change in the already-licensed premises and no change in the type of license, the buyer does not mail a notice of the transfer to residents within 500 feet of the premises [see Bus. & Prof Code § 23985.5]. Anyone can protest the transfer of the license, as long as the protest is filed at any office of the ABC within 30 days after the notice of transfer is posted at the premises, within 30 days of the mailing of a notification pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5, or within 30 days of the mailing of a notice by the ABC to law enforcement officers pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987, whichever is later. The time within which a local law enforcement agent may file a protest will be extended pursuant to a request made under § 23987 [Bus. & Prof Code § 24013(a)]. The ABC may reject protests, except protests made by a public agency or official, or made by the governing body of the city or county, if it determines the protests are false, vexatious, frivolous or without reasonable or probable cause. If a protest is rejected and the ABC proceeds to issuance, the protestant whose protest has been rejected may file an accusation against the license with the department within 10 days after the license is issued, alleging the grounds of the protest as grounds for revocation of the license [Bus. & Prof Code § 24013(b)].

If a protest is not denied by the ABC, the ABC will proceed with its investigation and determine whether to recommend issuance. If the ABC is recommending issuance in spite of a protest by a public agency, a public official, or the governing body of a city or county, the ABC must notify the protesting agency, public official, or governing body in writing of the determination to recommend issuance and the reasons for that recommendation. At the same time, the ABC must give the public agency, public official, or governing body written notice of hearing as required by Gov. Code § 11509 [Bus. & Prof Code § 24013(b); see § 18.41[10], [3], below].

If the buyer is operating under a temporary permit, the temporary permit continues to be valid in spite of protests against the transfer. If the premises were not eligible for a temporary permit and the ABC is recommending issuance, the ABC may issue an interim permit for use at the premises until the protest hearing can be scheduled. An interim permit is issued for 120 days and can be renewed if necessary [see Bus. & Prof Code § 24044.5]. It can take many months for a protest hearing to be scheduled.

PRACTICE TIP:

The ABC has limited the valid grounds for protest by citizens in a person-to-person transfer that does not include any change in premises or operations. If the premises are already licensed with the same type of license, valid protests can only address a disqualifying factor in the transferee. Otherwise the ABC will reject the protests. However, as discussed in [3], below, protests and demands for conditions from the governing body or public officials are another matter. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

[3] Conditional Licenses

Even if a license transfer is a person-to-person transfer with no change in premises or operations, the ABC mails a copy of the transfer application to the sheriff, chief of police, and district attorney of the locality in which the transferred license is located, to the city or county planning director, whichever has jurisdiction, and to the board of supervisors if the premises are in the unincorporated part of a county, or city council or other appropriate governing body if the premises are in an incorporated city ("local officials") [Bus. & Prof Code § 23987; see § 18.32]. The local officials can protest the transfer of the license [Bus. & Prof Code § 23987]. If there is substantial evidence that adoptions of conditions would address problems at the premises or in the immediate location of the premises, local officials can request that conditions be imposed on the operation of the business [see Bus. & Prof Code § 23800(e); see § 18.32].

NOTE:

This Transaction Guide sets forth procedures specifically applicable to the transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license and business. Because the sale of a business with such a license is also subject to many of the same laws and procedures as the sale of any other business, portions of the Transaction Guide for Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, are also applicable. To avoid unnecessary duplication, this Transaction Guide contains cross references to relevant material in that chapter.

§ 18.100 Facts Regarding Parties to Sale

1. Name, address, and telephone number of each party.

2. All business names and addresses used by seller during preceding three years [see Com. Code § 6105(a)(2)].

3. Legal status of each party:

a. Individual.

NOTE:
If an individual is the sole licensee on an alcoholic beverage license, that individual will need to provide evidence of his or her legal status as a citizen or resident alien. Form ABC-69, which is available on the ABC website [www.abc.ca.gov], is used for this purpose. The evidence is only required if one natural person is to be the licensee.

b. Husband and wife.

NOTE:
If the business is the community property of the buyers, the alcoholic beverage license usually must be issued in the name of both husband and wife [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58(a)].

c. Partnership.

d. Corporation.

e. Limited liability company.

4. Seller's permit number, if seller has sales tax permit (or "seller's permit") for business [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6066-6077; see also Ch. 1E, Taxation of Businesses].

5. Employer number issued by Employment Development Department, if applicable [see Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 13020, 13056].

NOTE:

For general coverage of requirements imposed on employers under California law, see Ch. 1C, Regulation of Employers .

§ 18.101 Facts Regarding Alcoholic Beverage License

1. Type of license being transferred.

NOTE:

For coverage of the various types of retail licenses, see § 18.20[1]. This Transaction Guide covers the transfer of retail licenses only. However, for a brief discussion of other types of alcoholic beverage licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320], see § 18.20[2]. If one of these other licenses is the subject of a transfer, the attorney handling the sale should consult the nearest district office of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control for applicable procedures.

2. Address of premises for which license was issued.

3. Exact name(s) of all license holder(s).

4. Date on which license was originally issued.

NOTE:

For general licenses transferred within two years after issuance, this fact is used to determine the amount of consideration that may be paid for the license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079; see also § 18.111].

PRACTICE TIP:

The License Query System link from the ABC web page www.abc.ca.gov provides reliable information about license type, premises address, actual license holder name(s), date of issuance, date on which renewal fees are due, and any past or current disciplinary actions against the license. If a license is subject to restrictions on transfer or conditions on operations, they will be noted on the web page. Names of authorized signers (officers, general partners, managers) are usually shown and can help determine who must "sign off" on the transfer of the license. The information in the License Query System can be accessed by license number, licensee name, business address or business name. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

5. Whether license will be transferred alone or with seller's business.

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.103

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.103 Facts Regarding Sale

1. Name, address, and phone number of person who will serve as escrow holder.

NOTE:

Every transfer of an alcoholic beverage license that involves a purchase price or consideration must be conducted through an escrow, established before the parties file an application for transfer of the license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also* § 18.41[4]].

2. Total purchase price for sale.

NOTE:

This Transaction Guide does not cover the manner in which the license and business should be evaluated or priced by a prospective buyer. It assumes that the parties have consulted a financial advisor regarding fair market value.

For general licenses, the total purchase price may be limited [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079; see also* § 18.30[4]]. For applicable determinations, see § 18.111.

PRACTICE TIP:

The consideration to be placed into the escrow may be the total consideration, the separately stated reasonable consideration for the liquor-licensed business or the consideration for only the liquor license if that is the sole asset to be purchased from the seller [Form ABC-227 INSTR (NEW 9/99), p. 1]. When the business is a hotel, golf course, supermarket or other business for which the liquor-licensed business is a small part, seller may want to establish a separate, reasonable value for the liquor-licensed business, which would include, at a minimum, the value of the alcoholic beverage license, the alcoholic beverage inventory and any furniture, fixtures and equipment used exclusively in the licensed business. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

3. Manner in which purchase price will be paid:

PRACTICE TIP:

While the law states that the buyer must deposit the total purchase price (or the separately stated reasonable value of the liquor-licensed business) with the escrow holder before the parties file the application for transfer of the license, the application for transfer is often lodged at the ABC well before the parties' transaction closing. Since the purchase price may consist of cash, checks, promissory notes, and tangible or intangible property, the buyer often places a demand note into the escrow, to be replaced with cash when the transaction closing occurs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.200[1][d]]. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

a. Cash on execution of sales contract.

b. Installments according to terms of promissory note.

c. Other.

4. If portion of purchase price will be paid in installments or on deferral basis, any security to be given for payment of purchase price.

NOTE:

For an in-depth discussion of secured transactions, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions. A security interest cannot be created or reserved in an alcoholic beverage license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076].

5. Manner in which buyer and seller will pay or share costs of sale, for example:

a. Escrow fees.

b. Attorneys' fees.

c. Recording and publication costs.

d. Inventory costs.

e. Broker fees.

6. Whether buyer intends to use license on new premises, and if so:

a. Address of new premises.

b. Whether new premises are in a different city or census tract.

c. Whether new premises are in a different county.

NOTE:
Cities with an over-concentration of licenses of a particular type restrict the transfer of new licenses into their jurisdiction, even if the licenses are being transferred from other locations within the same county. Restrictions are imposed on the transfer of general licenses into other counties [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070; see also § 18.30[2]].

7. Whether buyer will use license on premises under construction or to be constructed and, if so:

a. Name of owner.

b. Name of general contractor.

c. Anticipated completion date [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(c)].

8. If business will be transferred with license:

NOTE:
For more detailed coverage, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

a. Any assets to be excluded from sale.

b. Whether buyer will assume any obligations of business.

c. Items to be prorated in escrow between buyer and seller, for example:

(1) Rent.

(2) Utilities.

(3) Employee salaries.

(4) Insurance premiums.

(5) Equipment leases.

d. Whether buyer will apply for temporary retail permit to operate business pending approval of transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see also § 18.220[1]].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.110

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.110 General Determinations

1. If requested to represent both parties to transaction, determine whether or not potential for conflict exists [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310].

NOTE:
For applicable procedures regarding representation of both parties, see § 18.120.

2. Determine whether buyer meets all requirements imposed on original applicant for license of type to be transferred [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b)].

NOTE:
For a discussion of the various types of retail licenses, see § 18.20[1]. The requirements for the issuance of licenses are set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23950-24051.

3. Determine parties who must sign documents relating to sale [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953]:

a. If either party is general partnership, each general partner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(b)].

NOTE:
In the case of a general partnership, the partners are deemed to be the applicants for any alcoholic beverage license, and the licensees under any license actually issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(b)].

b. If either party is limited partnership, each general partner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(c)].

c. If either party is a limited liability company that has elected to be managed by its members, each member or any officer authorized by articles or operating agreement to bind company [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(d)].

d. If either party is a limited liability company that has elected to be managed by manager(s), the manager(s) or any officer authorized by articles or operating agreement to bind company [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(d)].

e. If either party is corporation, two corporate officers, one from each of following categories [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(e)]:

(1) Chairperson of board, president, or vice president.

(2) Secretary, assistant secretary, chief financial officer, or assistant treasurer.

f. If business to be sold is or will be community property, husband and wife [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58].

NOTE:
For further discussion of the rules regarding ownership of an alcoholic beverage license by a husband and wife [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58], see § 18.126.

4. Determine whether following conditions exist, obviating need for escrow and related filings [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24074.3(b), 24074.4; see § 18.125 (filing statement of deposit with escrow holder as prerequisite to transfer)].

a. Transfer involves off-sale beer and wine license.

b. Corporation with net worth on consolidated basis of at least $5 million (according to most recent audited financial statement) has filed guaranty of full payment of all creditor claims.

PRACTICE TIP:
While the statute requires that the guaranty be "acceptable to the creditors," in practice, the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") does not require evidence that it is acceptable, relying instead on the post-filing requirement that all creditors' claims have been paid in a manner "acceptable to the creditors," and the guarantor's statement under penalty of perjury that all conditions of the transfer, including the payment of creditors, have been satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4(a)].

Because an essential element of an escrow is the deposit of money or other consideration with the escrow holder, there is no requirement that an escrow be established when no consideration is involved in the transaction [see Form ABC-227 INSTR at 1, (NEW 9/99); § 18.210]. Furthermore, if certain fiduciary transfers are involved, no escrow is required [see Form ABC-227 INSTR at 2, (NEW 9/99); § 18.210]. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

5. Determine what, if any, instruments must be prepared for deposit into escrow upon execution of contract of sale.

NOTE:
Unless an escrow is not required [see P 4, above*], the full amount of the purchase price must be deposited into escrow before the parties may file an application for transfer of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. The purchase price may consist of cash, checks, promissory notes, or tangible or intangible property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. If the purchase price consists of notes [see § 18.103*], the attorney handling the sale must prepare the notes and instruments securing them prior to filing the transfer application. Furthermore, if the seller is transferring the business, documents of transfer for the business assets should be prepared and deposited into escrow [see § 18.122*].

6. Determine approximate date of sale.

NOTE:

For detailed information regarding the length of time the ABC requires to process and investigate an application prior to approval, see § 18.126[5]].

7. If business will be transferred with license, determine:

NOTE:

For more detailed coverage of the following issues, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

a. Whether property being sold is subject to any federal, state, or local environmental laws or regulations.

b. Whether business is operated under franchise agreement.

c. Whether buyer may have obligations under any collective bargaining agreements between seller and union.

8. If license will be transferred alone, determine:

a. Whether type of license to be transferred is proper license for business that buyer intends to conduct [see §§ 18.20].

b. Whether zoning permits buyer's intended use and whether conditional use permit will be required by governing body [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23790].

NOTE:

An initial application for a conditional use permit to sell alcohol for on-site consumption does not involve a fundamental vested right. Therefore, if the application were denied, a court reviewing that denial would not use its independent judgment to weigh the evidence but would apply the substantial-evidence test [SP Star Enters., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 459, 470-471, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 152 (substantial evidence supported denial of permit)].

c. Whether ABC is likely to approve premises to which buyer wishes to transfer license.

NOTE:

For example, the ABC will not approve a premises-to-premises transfer if the premises or parking lot for the premises is located within 100 feet of a residence unless (1) the buyer can prove that operation of the business would not interfere with the residents'quiet enjoyment, or (2) the premises have been operated under the same type of license within 90 days of the application [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.4]. Furthermore, the property must be properly zoned for the intended business [*see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23790; Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits].

Moreover, the ABC may deny a license if the applicant is unqualified, or if issuance would create a law enforcement problem or an undue concentration of licenses [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958; see § 18.52[1]].

d. Whether buyer has lease, deed, or other right to possession of premises.

NOTE:

The ABC will not approve a transfer unless the buyer can prove a right to possession and control of the premises on which he or she intends to use the license [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(m)].

e. If license will be transferred to premises under construction, whether adequate financing and building permit have been obtained.

NOTE:

For extensive coverage of this topic, see Ch. 30A, Construction Financing .

§ 18.111 Applicability of Transfer Restrictions on General Licenses

NOTE:
The restrictions set forth in this section apply only to transfers of on-sale general or off-sale general licenses [see § 18.30; see also § 18.21[1]].

1. Determine whether proposed transfer to buyer is prohibited, because proposed transfer would take place within two years from date of issuance or inter-county transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(c)].

NOTE:
No license meeting these criteria is transferable from the licensee to another person for a period of two years from the date of issuance, unless it meets one of the exceptions set forth in P 2, below [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(c); see § 18.30[3]*].

2. If transfer is otherwise prohibited pursuant to P 1, above, determine whether ABC may nonetheless approve transfer for either of following reasons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(c)]:

a. Transfer is necessary to prevent undue hardship.

b. Transfer is one of following [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(c), 24071]:
(1) Transfer from one spouse to other spouse, and no final decree of dissolution has been entered prior to filing of transfer application.

(2) Transfer of license of decedent, minor ward, incompetent person, conservatee, debtor in a bankruptcy case, person for whose estate receiver is appointed, or assignor for benefit of creditors by or to:

(a) Surviving partners of deceased licensee;

(b) Executor, administrator, conservator, or guardian of estate of licensee;

(c) Surviving spouse of deceased licensee if deceased leaves no estate to be administered;

(d) Trustee of bankrupt estate of licensee;

(e) Receiver of licensee's estate; or

(f) Assignee for benefit of licensee's creditors with consent of assignor.

(3) Transfer by or to receiver appointed for judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630].

(4) Transfer to revocable living trust when licensee is also trustee.

(5) Transfer between partners when no new partner is being licensed.

(6) Transfer between corporations whose outstanding shares are owned by same natural persons.

(7) Transfer of license, with proper notice [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; § 18.210] to corporation whose entire stock is owned by licensee or licensee's spouse.

(8) Transfer between licensee and LLC whose entire membership consists of licensee or his or her spouse.

(9) Transfer from corporation to person who owns, or whose spouse owns, entire stock of that corporation.

3. Determine whether consideration for transfer is limited to $12,000, because transfer would take place within two years from date of issuance [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079].

NOTE:

Any original on-sale or off-sale general license for which an original fee of $12,000 was paid may not be transferred for a purchase price in excess of $12,000 for two years following its issuance. After two years, the license may be transferred without restriction as to purchase price or consideration that may be paid by a transferee or received by a transferor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079(c)]. For further discussion, see § 18.30.

§ 18.112 Applicability of Bulk Sales Division

NOTE:

This section applies only when the licensee is transferring the business for which the license was issued together with the license. A transfer otherwise subject to the Bulk Sales Division that also is subject to and complies with the provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.] is subject only to the notice requirements [see Com. Code § 6105; see also § 18.124] prescribed by the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see § 18.10[3]].

1. Determine whether business is type that is subject to Bulk Sales Division of Commercial Code [Com. Code § 6103(a); see Com. Code §§ 6101 et seq.]:

a. Seller's principal business is sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1); see Com. Code § 6103(c) (exceptions)]; and

b. On date of bulk sale agreement, seller is located in California, or is located in jurisdiction outside United States but has its major American executive office in California [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(b)].

2. If business is subject to Bulk Sales Division [see P 1, above], determine whether proposed sale is "bulk sale" subject to Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3)]:

a. Sale of assets is not in ordinary course of seller's business; and

b. Assets being sold constitute more than half of seller's inventory and equipment.

NOTE:
In determining the percentage of the seller's inventory and equipment being transferred, the assets are valued at their fair market value as of the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 6102(b)(3), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined)].

3. If proposed sale is subject to Bulk Sales Division, determine following [see Com. Code § 6105]:

a. Address of office of county recorder in county or counties in which seller and seller's tangible assets are located.

b. Judicial districts in which seller is located and seller's assets are located.

c. Name and address of newspaper of general circulation in judicial districts in which seller is located and seller's assets are located:

NOTE:
The notice of intended transfer [see § 18.211] must be published in a newspaper of general circulation that is published in the judicial district where the property is located and, if different, if judicial district where the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see § 18.124].

(1) Publication dates of newspaper; and

(2) Newspaper's deadlines for accepting legal notices.

d. Date on or after which sale is to be closed.

NOTE:
This date is used to determine the recordation and publication dates [Com. Code § 6105(b)(1), (2); see* § 18.124].

§ 18.113 Applicability of Sales and Use Tax Law

NOTE:

The Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.] imposes a tax on the gross receipts of a retailer from the sale of tangible personal property sold at retail in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051 et seq.]. Sales taxes will be payable based on the allocation of consideration to the tangible personal property (furniture, fixtures and equipment) of the transferred business. Sales taxes are not payable on the consideration allocated to the alcoholic beverage license. For discussion, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

§ 18.114 Structuring Sale of License and Business

NOTE:

When the licensee is transferring the business for which the license was issued together with the license, the attorney handling the sale must make various determinations regarding the transfer of the business property. For example, he or she must consider issues regarding allocation of the purchase price to the various assets for purposes of determining gain or loss and basis under federal tax law [see I.R.C. § 1060; Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1; see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.11[4]], division of business costs and expenses, and the possibility of future products liability litigation when structuring the sale. § 18.122 Drafting Contract of Sale and Related Documents

1. Draft contract of sale [see § 18.150, 18.152], and have parties:

a. Read contract.

b. Execute contract.

NOTE:
For examples and discussion of execution requirements, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.295. Note that under the California Statute of Frauds, an agreement for the sale of real property must be subscribed by the parties to be charged or by their agents [Civ. Code § 1624]. Both spouses, either personally or by duly authorized agent, must execute any instrument by which community real property is sold or otherwise conveyed [Fam. Code § 1102(a)].

c. State date and place of execution.

2. If necessary, draft escrow instructions [see § 18.151] when printed instructions will not be used.

NOTE:
If the seller is transferring the license alone and the escrow procedures will be relatively simple, the contract of sale may contain the instructions to the escrow holder [see § 18.152]. For a guide to drafting escrow instructions for the sale of real property, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

3. Prepare all of the following documents for transfer of business:

a. Deeds or other instruments required to transfer real property.

NOTE:

For discussion and forms for deeds, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

b. Assignment of leases or contracts to be transferred to buyer.

NOTE:

For discussion and forms of assignments, see Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests . If the lease is for a term in excess of 35 years, a change of ownership must also be filed [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 62(c)(1), 480*].

c. Vehicle registration transfer documents, if applicable.

NOTE:

For discussion and examples of transfer documents, see Ch. 102A, Personal Property Liens .

d. Bill of sale for tangible and intangible personal property [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice].

NOTE:

A transfer of property may be made without a written instrument if a writing is not required by statute [Civ. Code § 1052]. However, contracts of sale and escrow instructions often specify that the seller deliver a bill of sale for the personal property assets of the business to the buyer.

§ 18.123 Giving Notice of Intended Transfer of License

NOTE:

The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") will not transfer a retail on-sale or off-sale beer and wine license, on-sale beer and wine public premises license, on-sale beer license, on-sale beer public premises license, or on-sale general license for seasonal business unless, prior to filing the transfer application, the buyer or seller has recorded a notice of intended transfer in the office of the county recorder of the county or counties where the licensed premises are situated [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073]. Certain transfers by fiduciaries, however, are exempt from this notice requirement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24075; see § 18.210].

1. Prepare notice of intended transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24073, 24074; see § 18.210 (ABC-227)].

NOTE:

When the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license is accompanied by the sale of a licensed business subject to the notice requirement of the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(b)(1), (2); see § 18.102, the two notices may be combined into one form [see § 18.212*]. Due to the fact that publication of that longer, combined form is more expensive, it may be simpler and cheaper to record separate notices under the Act [see § 18.210*] and under the Bulk Sales Division [see § 18.211*].

2. Record original in office of county recorder of county or counties where premises to which license was issued are located [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073].

NOTE:

For current filing fees, see Gov. Code § 27361.

3. Obtain certified copy of notice, to be filed with application for license transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see also § 18.126].

§ 18.124 Giving Notice of Intended Bulk Sale

NOTE:

The Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] applies only to a "bulk sale" by an enterprise subject to the Division [see Com. Code § 6103(a), (c)], that is a sale not in the ordinary course of the seller's business of more than half of the seller's inventory and equipment [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3); see § 18.112]. Therefore, the requirements set forth in this section do not apply to the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license alone. They specifically apply, however, when the sale of the business and retail alcoholic beverage license of a subject enterprise constitutes a bulk sale [see Com. Code § 6103(c)(15) (transfer exempt from all but notice requirements); see also § 18.10[3]].

1. Draft notice of intended sale, stating all of following [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(a)(1)-(4); see § 18.211]:

NOTE:

A notice combining these requirements and those imposed by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act may be used in lieu of separate notices [see § 18.212].

a. That bulk sale is about to be made.

b. Names and business addresses of seller and buyer.

c. All other business names and addresses used by seller within past three years, to extent known by buyer.

d. Location and general description of property to be transferred.

e. Place and anticipated date of bulk sale, that is, the place and date on (or after which) bulk transfer will be closed.

2. Obtain buyer's signature [see Com. Code § 6105].

NOTE:

Although it is the buyer's responsibility to give the notice [see Com. Code § 6104(b)], both parties frequently sign the notice.

3. At least 12 business days before bulk sale is to be closed, have buyer (or escrow holder) take all of following actions [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(b)]:

NOTE:

A "business day" is any day other than Saturday, Sunday, or a day observed as a holiday by the California state government [Com. Code § 6105(b)].

a. Record notice in office of recorder in county or counties where property to be transferred is located and, if different, where seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(1)].

NOTE:

Current recording fees are set forth in Gov. Code § 27361.

b. Publish notice in newspaper of general circulation in judicial district where property to be transferred is located and, if different, in either [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2)]:

NOTE:

If there is no newspaper of general circulation published in required judicial district, publish notice in the county embracing that judicial district [Com. Code § 6105(b)].

If the property to be transferred is located in more than one judicial district, the notice must be published in the judicial district where a greater portion of the property is located on the date of publication [Com. Code § 6105(b)].

(1) Judicial district where seller is located;

NOTE:

A seller is deemed to be located at its place of business. If a seller has more than one place of business, the seller is located at its chief executive office [Com. Code § 6103(b)].

(2) If seller is not located in United States, judicial district where seller's major executive American office in California is located [see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2)].

NOTE:

If the transfer involves a purchase price or consideration [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4; see also* § 18.103[3]], and no corporate guarantor will handle creditor claims [see § 18.110[4]], the parties must take the actions listed in this section prior to filing an application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also § 18.126].

1. Ensure that parties establish escrow with person, corporation, or association that [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]:

§ 18.126 Applying for License Transfer

1. Instruct buyer to make appointment with Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") to file application for transfer of license.

NOTE:

The ABC prefers, and recommends, that the application be made in person, so that any corrections in the required information can be made at the time of application. Most frequently, the seller signs the forms in advance, and the buyer then personally comes in to the ABC and signs the application in the presence of the ABC personnel. Sometimes both buyer and seller will personally appear to sign the application. The ABC will accept applications by mail when personal appearance is impractical, but will return the paperwork by mail if any corrections are necessary, thereby delaying processing of the application. If buyer is unable to appear in person, a special "sign-on" form is required [see § 18.222]. Any signatures not signed in the presence of the ABC must be notarized [see §§ 18.220, 18.222].

If the seller is transferring the licensed business as well as the alcoholic beverage license, at the time of filing the transfer application the buyer may also apply for a temporary permit [see P 7 below] to operate the business during pendency of the application for license transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5 (temporary permit)]. For further discussion, see § 18.41[6].

2. Ensure that following persons participate in application process:

a. All persons presently named as licensees on license (that is, seller(s)) [see Bus. & Prof.

Code § 23953; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:
To ensure that all necessary persons sign off on behalf of the seller, check the ABC webpage [www.abc.ca.gov] for information about persons named as licensees on the license. It is also usually a good idea to ask the appropriate ABC district office to check the file and specify the persons qualified to sign for the seller(s). Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

b. If buyer is general partnership, each general partner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(b)].

NOTE:
In the case of a general partnership, the partners are deemed to be the applicant for any license, and the licensees under any license actually issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(b)].

c. If buyer is limited partnership, each general partner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(c)].

d. If buyer is LLC that has elected to be managed by its members, each member or any officer authorized by articles or operating agreement to bind company [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(d)].

e. If buyer is LLC that has elected to be managed by manager(s), manager(s) or any officer authorized by articles or operating agreement to bind company [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(d)].

f. If buyer is corporation, two corporate officers, one from each of following categories [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23953(e)].

(1) Chairperson of board, president, or vice president.

(2) Secretary, assistant secretary, chief financial officer, or assistant treasurer.

g. If business is purchased as community property, husband and wife [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58].

NOTE:
If the business is community property, the license must be issued in the name of both husband and wife, unless one spouse can satisfactorily demonstrate that he or she is qualified as a license holder but cannot participate in the operation of the business [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58(a)]. If the business is separate property, the license may be issued to one spouse only [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58(b)]. However, the unlicensed spouse must also meet the qualifications of a license holder, unless the spouses live apart [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 58(c)].

3. Advise buyer and seller that they must present all of following documents on filing transfer application (or at later time and place agreed on between applicants and ABC representative):

a. Application signed by all necessary parties [see § 18.220 (ABC-211A); see also P 2, above, for signature requirements].

NOTE:
Any signatures not signed in the presence of the ABC must be notarized on Form ABC-211 SIG [see § 18.222].

(1) For a general partnership, each partner must sign.

(2) For a limited partnership, each general partner must sign.

NOTE:
Limited partners do not need to sign the application.

(3) For a corporation, one person from each of following categories must sign:

NOTE:
If only one corporate officer exists, that officer must sign twice, once in each category.

(a) Chair of board, president, or a vice president; and

(b) For a manager-managed LLC, application must be signed by each manager or by an officer authorized by articles of organization or operating agreement to bind LLC.

NOTE:
If a managing member of the LLC is to sign the application on behalf of all parties, that person or organization must be listed in the agreement.

NOTE:

NOTE:

The ABC will not transfer a license to any person unless that person (1) owns or otherwise has possession or control (or a right to possession or control) of the premises for which he or she is applying for a license, and (2) can produce an instrument in writing (or other clear and convincing proof) showing possession or control [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(m)]. The ABC has indicated that this information will not necessarily be required at the time of application, but will be required prior to approval of a transfer application.

g. If buyer is purchasing franchised business, copy of franchise agreement.

NOTE:

The ABC has indicated that this information will not necessarily be required at the time of application, but will be required prior to approval of a transfer application.

h. Certified copy of recorded notice of intended transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; § 18.210 (ABC-227); see also § 18.123].

NOTE:

The ABC requires an extra copy of the notice to be submitted with the certified copy [see § 18.210 (ABC-227)].

i. Application Questionnaire (ABC-217).

j. Form ABC-257, the diagram of premises showing exact location of clearly identifiable tangible boundaries of area in which alcoholic beverages will be sold, served, or consumed pursuant to license [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64.2] and hours of operation and other details of buyer's business plan on the back.

k. If buyer or seller is fiduciary, proof of status (for example, death certificate or letters testamentary).

l. If the license will be transferred to premises under construction [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044]:

(1) Copy of building plans or sketch of floor plan.

(2) Copy of construction contract or letter from contractor.

4. Calculate amount of transfer fee to be paid upon filing transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072].

NOTE:

The transfer fee for transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license from one person to another person in the same county is 50 percent of the original fee for the license, not to exceed $1,250. If there is no original fee for the type of license being transferred, the fee is $100 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320 (schedule of fees)]. The ABC imposes a separate fee for transfer of a license from one premises to another [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(c)] and for transfer of an off-sale general license from one county to another [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(d)].

The fee for transfer of an on-sale or off-sale retail license from the licensee to the licensee and his or her mother, father, son, or daughter, when no consideration is given for the transfer, is half of the regular fee for transfer of a license from a licensee to another person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(e)].

If the license being transferred is an off-sale general license, the ABC also charges the buyer a pro rata portion of the annual business practices fee to cover the cost of investigating unfair business practices by retail and wholesale alcoholic beverage dealers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23053.5].

5. Advise parties regarding time required for ABC decision on transfer:

NOTE:

On receipt of the application, the ABC assigns an investigator to determine whether the license should be issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958]. Because of the delay between filing and a final decision, applicants should exercise caution with respect to extensive financial commitments or plans for a grand opening of the business.

a. ABC cannot transfer license for at least 30 days after mailing notice of application to local law enforcement agencies [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987; see also § 18.41[9]].

b. Most investigations take approximately 55-65 days.

c. If valid protest is filed during 30-day posting period [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; see also § 18.127], ABC decision may take 95 days or longer.

6. Advise buyer to take following actions within 30 days after filing transfer application for retail license limited in numbers [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23815-23827 (limitation on number of licensed premises); see also § 18.30], off-sale or on-sale beer and wine license, on-sale beer public premises license, or on-sale general license for seasonal business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3]:

a. File completed Form ABC-226, "Statement Re Consideration Deposited in Escrow" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3; see § 18.242].

NOTE:

This form is an affidavit in which the applicant states under penalty of perjury that the purchase price or consideration set forth in the escrow agreement and contract of sale has been deposited with the escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3]. The escrow agent also signs it to indicate receipt of the consideration and forwards it to the ABC. Although the ABC may extend the 30-day period for good cause, it will not transfer the license until it has received the affidavit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3].

b. Submit copies of statement to seller and escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3].

7. If seller is transferring license and business, and buyer wishes to obtain temporary permit [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]:

NOTE:

The permit allows the buyer to operate the premises while the transfer application is pending [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]. In addition, it allows the seller to close the business and file the final sales and unemployment insurance returns prior to the time the ABC approves transfer of the license [see § 18.129].

a. Have seller sign License Transfer Request (Form ABC-211-A) in section indicating approval of issuance of temporary permit [see § 18.220].

NOTE:

In order for the ABC to issue the permit, the premises must have been operated under a license within 30 days of the date the buyer files his or her application for the temporary permit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5(a)].

b. Have buyer submit with application:

(1) Temporary permit fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5(d)].

(2) Seller's request for surrender of license [see § 18.220].

(3) Proof of buyer's right of occupancy of premises during pendency of transfer application [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(m)].

(4) Buyer's statement under penalty of perjury that he or she has discharged all current obligations and that all outstanding checks issued in payment for alcoholic beverages will be honored on presentation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see § 18.223].

c. Inform buyer that issuance of temporary permit authorizes buyer to sell alcoholic beverage to same extent as under license for which he or she has applied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5].

d. On issuance of temporary retail permit:

(1) Have buyer obtain, before commencing business:
(a) Sales tax permit from State Board of Equalization.

(b) Employer's identification number from Employment Development Department.

(c) Federal employer's number from Internal Revenue Service.

(2) Have buyer comply with special federal occupational tax requirements [I.R.C. § 5142; 27 C.F.R. § 194.102].

NOTE:
For coverage of these requirements, see § 18.166.

(3) Have buyer and seller take inventory of stock in trade and merchandise immediately before buyer commences business operations under temporary permit.

NOTE:
If the ABC subsequently denies the application for transfer, the parties will need to take inventory again before the seller takes back operation of the business [see § 18.132[2][b]].

(4) Advise buyer that while operating under temporary permit, he or she must pay in cash or check for all alcoholic beverages before or at the time of their delivery [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5].

NOTE:
A temporary retail permit holder who also holds one or more retail licenses and is operating under the retail license or licenses in addition to the temporary permit, and who is not delinquent on any payments for alcoholic beverages [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 25509], may buy alcoholic beverages on credit under the temporary permit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5].

(5) Have seller deliver operation and possession of the business to buyer.

§ 18.127 Giving Notice of Application

NOTE:

The buyer must give the notices set forth in this section after filing the transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23985, 23985.5, 23986]. However, this notice requirement does not apply to an exchange of an on-sale general license for a special on-sale general license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072.5]. The ABC is responsible for giving notice of the application to law enforcement authorities in the area where the premises are located [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987].

1. Obtain Form ABC-207-B, "Public Notice of Application for Ownership Change," and take following actions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109]:

NOTE:

The ABC provides the notice, which is two feet long and 14 inches wide, at the time that the buyer files the transfer application [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109].

a. Date and post notice [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109]:

PRACTICE TIP:

The ABC suggests that the buyer post the notice and file an affidavit of posting [see § 18.241] within five days from the application date [see § 18.241 (ABC-293)]. However, this is only a recommendation; the buyer may wait longer than five days to post. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

(1) If premises are already constructed, post in conspicuous place that can be readily observed by ordinary passersby at or near entrance to premises.

(2) If premises consist of vacant lot:
(a) Mount notice on heavy cardboard or wood backing.

(b) Affix notice to post or stake of permanent material.

(c) Post notice at midpoint of largest boundary of lot fronting on public thoroughfare, not more than 10 feet from sidewalk (or roadway if there is no sidewalk), so that it is readily visible from sidewalk (or roadway).

b. Ensure that notice remains posted for at least 30 consecutive days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109].

c. File affidavit of posting with ABC [see § 18.241].

NOTE:

Because the ABC does not pursue its investigation and will not issue a license for the premises unless the applicant has complied with the posting requirement, the buyer must notify the ABC of the date the notice is first posted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985]. If the buyer delays in posting and returning the posting affidavit, the ABC's investigation will be delayed.

2. Mail notice of application to every resident of real property within 500-foot radius of premises, and submit proof of compliance to ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5].

NOTE:

The requirement that a buyer mail notice of application and submit proof of compliance only applies to premises that are not currently licensed, or that are currently licensed under a different type of license than is the subject of the application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5].

3. If local jurisdiction provides list of property owners, mail notice of application to every owner of real property within a 500-foot radius of premises and submit proof of compliance to ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5(a)].

NOTE:

This requirement only applies if the local jurisdiction where the license is to be issued provides a list of the names and addresses of the real property owners to the buyer free of charge [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985.5(b)].

4. If license being transferred is on-sale license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(a)]:

NOTE:

An on-sale license for premises in an area with an undue concentration of licenses is subject to additional requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(b); see also* P 5, below].

a. Obtain and complete Form ABC-207-D [see § 18.240], "Notice of Application for Change in Ownership of Alcoholic Beverage License."

b. Within 10 days after buyer files transfer application, publish notice once in newspaper of general circulation (other than legal or professional trade publication) [see Gov. Code § 6061]:

(1) In city where premises are located; or

(2) In city nearest premises where business will be conducted, if premises are not in a city.

c. File affidavit of publication with district office of ABC at which buyer filed application.

NOTE:

Newspapers typically send an affidavit of publication directly to the district office. An ABC employee will prepare the affidavit if the buyer brings in proof that the notice has been published as required. The ABC will not issue the license until this affidavit is filed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986].

5. If license being transferred is on-sale or off-sale license for premises located in census tract that has undue concentration of licenses [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(b)]:

NOTE:

An undue concentration of licenses, in the case of on-sale retail license applications, exists when the ratio of on-sale retail licenses to population in the census tract or census division in which the applicant premises are located exceeds the ratio of on-sale retail licenses to population in the county in which the applicant premises are located [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958.4(a)(2); 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.3(a)(1)]. In the case of off-sale retail license applications, an undue concentration exists when the ratio of off-sale retail licenses to population in the census tract or census division in which the applicant premises are located exceeds the ratio of off-sale retail licenses to population in the county in which the applicant premises are located [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958.4(a)(3); 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.3(a)(2)].

Although the ABC may deny an application if issuance (original issuance, upgrade of licensed privileges at a previously licensed premises or transfer to a previously unlicensed premises) would result in an undue concentration of licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958; see also* § 18.52[1]], it will nonetheless issue a license despite undue concentration under these criteria if the applicant is able to show that public convenience or necessity would be served by issuance [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.3(a)].

a. Publish notice of application once a week for three consecutive weeks in newspaper of general circulation (other than a legal or trade publication) [see Gov. Code § 6063]:

(1) In city where premises are located; or

(2) In city nearest premises where business will be conducted, if premises are not in a city.

b. File affidavit of publication with ABC.

§ 18.128 Handling Creditor Claims

NOTE:

The procedures in this section apply when the parties use an escrow to effectuate the transfer [see § 18.110[4]]. The parties should set forth these procedures in the instructions to the escrow holder [see §§ 18.151, 18.201].

1. Ensure that escrow holder sends written acknowledgment to creditor within 10 days after receiving claim [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1].

NOTE:

The notice of intended transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see §§ 18.123, 18.210] is designed to alert creditors that the seller is planning to transfer the license (and business), and to permit them to take whatever steps may be necessary to protect their interests [see Form ABC-227 INSTR p. 1 (NEW 9/99); § 18.210]. They may submit a claim to the escrow holder identified in the notice for amounts owed by the seller. Every claim filed by a bona fide creditor before the ABC has notified the escrow holder that the transfer is approved is entitled to full or pro rata payment from the buyer's deposited purchase price [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also § 18.131].

2. Have escrow holder submit each creditor claim to seller for approval or rejection [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

3. Ensure that escrow holder notifies claimant of each claim that seller disputes [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.131[5]]:

a. That seller has disputed claim.

b. That amount otherwise payable will be retained for 25 days after transfer.

c. That if not attached, amount will be paid to seller.

§ 18.129 Satisfying Seller's Tax Obligations

NOTE:

The ABC will not transfer an alcoholic beverage license when the seller is delinquent in the payment of taxes imposed by state law, if the tax liability arises partially or completely from the exercise of the privileges of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2; see § 18.51[1]].

1. Prepare requests for tax clearances from Board of Equalization (BOE) and Employment Development Department (EDD), as applicable.

NOTE:

For the procedures used to request a tax clearance certificate from the BOE with respect to sales taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6811, 6812], and from the EDD with respect to employment taxes [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1732(a)], see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

2. After seller transfers operation of business to buyer, or discontinues operation of business if transferring license only, have seller satisfy any outstanding tax obligations.

NOTE:

For applicable procedures regarding sales and employment taxes, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice . Note, however, that unlike the sale of other types of businesses, the seller normally will not pay any sales tax on personal property (furniture, fixtures and equipment) due as a result of the sale at this time. Instead, the buyer will deposit the sales tax on the sale of the business personal property in the escrow along with the rest of the consideration for the business and license. The escrow agent will notify the BOE of the pending sale and request a tax clearance certificate to protect the buyer from successor liability for the seller's tax obligations. Because the seller has filed its final sales tax return for the business, but has not paid the sales tax due, the BOE will give the escrow holder a notice of any amounts due from the seller, which will include the sales tax due on the sale of the business. The notice provides for a "conditional release" of the buyer if the stated amount is paid to the BOE from the escrow. If the transfer is not approved by the ABC, this procedure allows the seller simply to file an amended final sales tax return deleting the amount of tax shown to be due from the sale.

§ 18.130 Closing the Sale

NOTE:

These procedures apply when the parties use an escrow to effectuate the transfer [see § 18.110[4]]. The parties should set forth these procedures in the escrow instructions [see* § 18.151; see also *§ 18.201].

1. Ensure that parties make the following deposits into escrow:

a. Have seller deposit any instruments required to transfer business property from seller to buyer [see § 18.122[3]].

b. Have buyer deposit any instruments evidencing or securing payment of purchase price [see § 18.103[4]].

2. Have escrow holder keep escrow open until notification from ABC that nothing prevents transfer except delinquencies for taxes under any of following laws [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24049, 24074]:

NOTE:

The escrow must remain open until the ABC approves the qualifications of the buyer and premises [see Form ABC-227 INSTR at 2, (NEW 9/99); § 18.210]. The taxing agencies give notice to the ABC of any tax delinquencies for licensees. Upon receipt of a delinquency notice, the ABC attaches the original notice to the licensee's file. When the licensee files an application to transfer the license to another person, the ABC returns a duplicate to the taxing agency [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2(1)]. The taxing agency must then demand the delinquent amount from the licensee within 30 days after receiving notice of the transfer application, and must give notice of the demand to the escrow holder and the buyer. If the agency fails to make a demand within this time, the ABC may proceed to transfer the license [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2(2)]. The ABC sends a notice (Form ABC-202-A) to the escrow holder when nothing prevents approval of a license transfer except delinquent taxes [see § 18.51[1]*].

a. Alcoholic Beverage Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 32001 et seq.].

b. Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.].

c. Personal Income Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17001 et seq.].

d. Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.].

e. Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 134, 405(b), regarding tax on unsecured property.

f. Unemployment Insurance Code.

3. Ensure that escrow holder, upon receipt of tax delinquency notices, takes all of following actions [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2]:

a. Demands payment of any demand promissory notes from buyer [see § 18.201].

b. Pays from escrow funds amount demanded from taxing agencies for any tax delinquencies.

NOTE:
Payment of state tax delinquencies is a prerequisite to transfer of the license [*see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24049, 24074; see also § 18.51[1]*].

c. Sends notice of payment to ABC main office in Sacramento.

NOTE:
When a taxing agency demands payment from a licensee [see (b), above], it must also include a form (in duplicate) to be completed by the person paying the tax delinquency. After that person (usually the escrow holder) has paid the amount owed to the agency, he or she sends the original of that form, which states that the delinquency has been cleared, to the main ABC office, and keeps the duplicate copy [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2(3)].

4. When escrow holder receives notice from ABC that it has transferred license, ensure that escrow holder does the following:

NOTE:
The ABC will send Form ABC-226 [see § 18.242, § III of the Form] to the escrow holder as confirmation that it has transferred the license.

a. Delivers any instruments evidencing transfer of business assets to buyer.

NOTE:
For further coverage, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

b. Forwards any financing statements representing security given for payment of any promissory notes to Secretary of State [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(2)].

c. Records any instruments conveying real property or occupancy of real property, in recorder's office for county where premises are located.

d. Forwards any fixture filing to appropriate filing office [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(B), (2); Com. Code § 9334 (priority of security interest in fixtures)].

NOTE:

There are two ways in which a secured party may file a financing statement to perfect a security interest in goods that are or will become fixtures. A secured party may file in the Division 9 records, as with most other goods [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(2); Com. Code § 9501 (UCC Comment P 4); see also* Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. In these circumstances, the secured party files in the office of the Secretary of State [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(2)]. Alternatively, a secured party may file the financing statement as a "fixture filing" [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(B)]. A fixture filing is the filing of a financing statement covering goods that are or will become fixtures and satisfying Com. Code § 9502(a), (b) [Com. Code § 9102(a)(40); see Com. Code § 9102(a)(41) ("fixtures" defined)]. Filing is in the office in which the record of a mortgage on the related real estate would be filed [see Com. Code § 9501(a)(1)(B)].

A financing statement that is filed as a fixture filing must satisfy conditions in addition to those required of a standard financing statement [see Com. Code § 9502(b); see also* Com. Code § 9334 (priority of security interests in fixtures)]. For further discussion of these issues, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

§ 18.131 Distributing Sales Proceeds

NOTE:

These procedures apply when the parties use an escrow to effectuate the transfer [see § 18.110[4]]. The parties should set forth these procedures in the instructions to the escrow holder [see § 18.151; see also § 18.201].

1. Ensure that escrow holder, within 10 days after transfer of license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1]:

a. Determines whether consideration remaining in escrow is sufficient to pay in full all timely creditor claims.

NOTE:

To be eligible for payment, a creditor must file his or her claim with the escrow holder before the escrow holder receives notice that the transfer is approved [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

b. If funds are insufficient to pay all creditor claims in full, determines pro rata amount payable on each claim, in accordance with order of priorities specified in P 4, below.

c. Gives notice, to each creditor who has filed timely claim, regarding the following [see § 18.243]:

(1) Whether there are sufficient assets in the escrow to pay all creditors in full.

(2) Date on or before which claims will be paid, if assets remaining in escrow are sufficient to pay all creditors in full.

(3) All of following, if assets remaining in escrow are insufficient to pay all creditors in full:

(a) Total assets placed in escrow and nature of each asset;

(b) Name of each creditor who filed claim, and amount of each claim;

(c) Amounts proposed to be paid or set aside for each creditor; and

(d) Date on or before which assets will be distributed to creditors.

2. Have escrow holder set aside and retain for 25 days after transfer amount otherwise payable on claims disputed by seller [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.128 (handling creditor claims)].

3. If consideration in escrow is sufficient, ensure that escrow holder pays in full, within reasonable time after transfer of license, all timely claims that seller has approved or failed to dispute in writing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

4. If consideration in escrow is insufficient, ensure that escrow holder distributes funds, within reasonable time after transfer of license, in following order [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]:

a. First, to United States for claims based on income or withholding taxes; and thereafter for claims based on any other taxes not specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049 [see § 18.130[2]].

NOTE:

The California Supreme Court has held that any United States tax lien for taxes owed by the seller is a lien on the sale proceeds that has priority over, and must be paid before payment of, the claims of any other ordinary creditors of the seller. The only claims against the seller to which the United States tax lien is not superior is the claim of the State of California for the delinquent taxes described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049 [Business Title Corp. v. Division of Labor Law Enforcement (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 878, 887-889, 132 Cal. Rptr. 454, 553 P.2d 614] .

b. Second, to payment of claims for wages, salaries, or fringe benefits of employees of seller earned or accruing prior to sale, transfer, or opening of escrow.

c. Third, to payment of claims of secured creditors, to extent of proceeds arising from sale of security.

d. Fourth, to payment of claims on mechanics' liens.

e. Fifth, to payment of escrow fees and payment of claims for prevailing brokerage fees for services rendered and claims for reasonable attorneys' fees for services rendered.

f. Sixth, to payment of following:

(1) Claims for goods sold and delivered to seller for resale at his or her licensed premises.

(2) Claims for services rendered, performed, or supplied in connection with operation of licensed business.

(3) Claims of landlord, to extent of proceeds on past due rent.

g. Seventh, to payment of other claims that have been reduced to court-ordered judgments, including claims for court-ordered support of minor child.

h. Eighth, to payment of all other claims.

§ 18.150 Contract for Sale of License and Business

NOTE:
For an example and discussion of this type of contract, see § 18.200.

1. Include following provisions regarding purchase and sale of business:

a. Name of each party to agreement and his or her capacity [see § 18.200, Recitals].

NOTE:
All contracts must contain the consent of parties capable of contracting [Civ. Code § 1550; see Civ. Code §§ 1565-1590]. If one of the parties is an entity, the contract should also include its form of organization and principal place of business.

b. Description of property to be sold [see § 18.200, P 1].

NOTE:
The parties should also specifically identify any business assets that are not being sold.

c. Condition of tangible property [see § 18.200, P 2].

d. Amount of purchase price [see § 18.200, P 3].

NOTE:
For a discussion of statutory restrictions on the total purchase price imposed on certain transfers of general retail licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079], see § 18.30[4].

e. Allocation of purchase price in following manner [I.R.C. § 1060(a); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6, 1.338-7, 1.1060-1(c)(2); see § 18.200, P 4]:

NOTE:

These special allocation rules apply to a transfer in which (1) the assets constitute a trade or business, and (2) the buyer's basis in the assets is determined wholly by reference to the consideration paid for the assets [I.R.C. § 1060(c); see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice]. The parties must also report the allocations on IRS Form 8594 when filing their income tax returns for the year in which the sale occurred [see I.R.C. § 1060(b); Treas. Reg. § 1.1060(e); see also § 18.162]. To the extent that the parties agree in writing as to the allocation of any consideration, or as to the fair market value of any of the transferred assets, the parties are bound by the terms of the agreement unless the IRS determines that the allocation (or fair market value) is not appropriate [I.R.C. § 1060(a)].

(1) First, to cash and general deposit accounts, including savings and checking accounts ("Class I Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(1), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

(2) Second, to actively traded personal property [see I.R.C. § 1092(d)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.1092(d)-1, but without regard to I.R.C. § 1092(d)(3)] and certificates of deposit and foreign currency, even if they are not actively traded personal property, and to U.S. Government securities and publicly traded stock, other than certain stock of target affiliates ("Class II Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(ii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

(3) Third, to assets that are marked to market at least annually for Federal income tax purposes and debt instruments, including accounts receivable, mortgages, and credit card receivables from customers that arise in the ordinary course of business ("Class III Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

NOTE:

Note that Class III assets do not include debt instruments issued by persons related to the target at the beginning of the day following the acquisition date, certain contingent debt instruments [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.1275-4, 1.483-4; I.R.C. § 988] (but not those subject to the non-contingent bond method [see Treas. Reg. § 1.1275-4(b), 1.483-4], or which involve single nonfunctional currencies [see Treas. Reg. § 1.988-2(b)(2)(i)(B)(2)]), or debt instruments convertible into the stock of the issuer or other property [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

(4) Fourth, to stock in trade, inventory, and merchandise ("Class IV Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

(5) Fifth, to all assets that do not fall in any of the other six classes ("Class V Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(v), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

(6) Sixth, to all I.R.C. § 197 intangibles except goodwill and going concern value ("Class VI Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(vi), 1.1060-1(c)(2); see I.R.C. § 197], more specifically [see I.R.C. § 197(d)]:

(a) Workforce in place, including its composition and terms and conditions (contractual or otherwise) of its employment.

(b) Business books and records, operating systems, or any other information base (including lists or other information with respect to current or prospective customers).

(c) Any patent, copyright, formula, process, design, pattern, know-how, format, or other similar item.

(d) Any customer-based intangible [see I.R.C. § 197(d)(2)].

NOTE:

For purposes of this chapter, "customer-based intangible" includes market composition, market share, and any other value resulting from future provision of goods or services pursuant to relationships (contractual or otherwise) in the ordinary course of business with customers [see I.R.C. § 197(d)(2)].

(e) Any supplier-based intangible [see I.R.C. § 197(d)(3)].

NOTE:

"Supplier-based intangible" means any value resulting from future acquisitions of goods or services pursuant to relationships (contractual or otherwise) in the ordinary course of business with suppliers of goods or services to be used or sold by the taxpayer [see I.R.C. § 197(d)(3)].

(f) Any item similar to those listed in PP (a)-(e), above.

(g) Any license, permit, or other right granted by a governmental unit or agency.

(h) Any covenant not to compete, or other arrangement that has substantially the same effect as a covenant not to compete, entered into in connection with a direct or indirect acquisition of an interest in all or a substantial portion of a trade or business.

(i) Any franchise, trademark, or trade name.

(7) Seventh, to goodwill and going concern value (whether or not the goodwill or going concern value qualifies as a Section 197 intangible) ("Class VII Assets") [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(vii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

NOTE:

For a discussion of the amount of the purchase price that the ABC will treat as allocated to goodwill for certain transfers of general retail licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079], see § 18.30[4].

f. With respect to allocation of purchase price [see Treas. Reg. § 1.1060(e); (seller and purchaser must report allocation to IRS); see also P e, above; § 18.200, P 4]:

(1) Acknowledgment of both parties that value allocated to each asset represents fair market value determined in arm's-length negotiation.

(2) Statement that each party has had tax consequences of allocations explained to him or her by tax attorney or other advisor.

(3) Agreement by each party to report allocations as set forth in contract of sale to IRS [see § 18.162].

g. Manner of payment [see § 18.103[3]; see also § 18.200, P 5].

NOTE:

The contract of sale in § 18.200 provides alternatives for payment in cash, or partial payment in cash and execution of a promissory note and security agreement.

h. Security for any notes given [see § 18.200, P 6].

i. Time and manner of taking inventory of all stock in trade, merchandise, and other tangible assets [see § 18.200, P 7].

j. If applicable [see § 18.112], statement that sale must be conducted in accordance with Bulk Sales Division of Commercial Code, to extent applicable [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111; § 18.200, P 9].

NOTE:

For a discussion of the extent to which the Bulk Sales Division applies to the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license and business, see § 18.10[3]. For detailed discussion of the Bulk Sales Division, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

k. Time and place of sale [see § 18.200, P 10].

l. Requirement that parties file transfer application [see § 18.200] and take all actions required to facilitate transfer [see § 18.200, P 11].

m. Conduct of business prior to sale [see § 18.200, P 12].

n. Manner in which parties will bear risk of loss [see § 18.200, P 13].

o. Filing of application for temporary permit [see § 18.200, P 14].

NOTE:

This permit allows the buyer to conduct the business pending approval of the transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; discussion under § 18.50].

p. Proration of business costs and expenses [see § 18.200, P 15].

NOTE:

Typical prorated expenses include property taxes, insurance premiums, salaries and related costs, and rent.

q. Requirement that parties open escrow prior to filing transfer application, and appoint escrow holder [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also § 18.200, P 16].

r. Requirement that buyer deposit total purchase price into escrow prior to filing transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also § 18.200, P 17].

NOTE:

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23000 et seq.] requires the buyer to deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration being paid for the license and business into escrow before filing an application for the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. Thus, unlike a contract for the sale of any other type of property, a contract for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license cannot provide that the buyer will pay a portion of the purchase price on close of escrow.

s. Agreement to include statutory provisions regarding distribution of purchase price to creditors in escrow instructions to be drafted [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also § 18.200, P 18].

t. Enumeration of costs and expenses of sale to be paid by each party [see § 18.200, P 19].

NOTE:

Typical costs and expenses of a sale include drafting and recording costs, sales taxes, and escrow, transfer, and recording fees.

u. Effect of denial of application for transfer of alcoholic beverage license [see § 18.200, P 20].

v. Seller's warranties [see § 18.200, P 21].

NOTE:

Typical representations cover ownership, marketable title, outstanding obligations, accuracy of books and records, and existence of pending litigation, as well as a representation regarding compliance with the Act.

w. Buyer's warranties [see § 18.200, P 22].

NOTE:

These representations should cover the buyer's eligibility for issuance of a license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23952].

x. Buyer's waiver of claims for damages based on representations other than those set forth in contract [see § 18.200, P 24].

y. Indemnity agreement of buyer and seller [see § 18.200, PP 23, 25].

NOTE:

Generally, the seller indemnifies the buyer for liabilities arising on account of the business prior to closing, and the buyer indemnifies the seller for liabilities arising thereafter.

2. Add following alternative contract provisions, as applicable:

NOTE:

These alternative provisions are set forth in Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

a. Provision detailing seller's conduct of business pending closing [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.215].

b. Provision for association of seller with business after sale [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.216].

NOTE:

This type of provision should be added to a contract for the sale of a business or professional practice when the buyer wants the seller to train him or her in the operation of the business, or when effective transfer of the business goodwill depends on continuing patronage of the current business clients.

c. Provision prohibiting the buyer's use of current business name or seller's name [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.217].

NOTE:

The sale of the goodwill of a business does not include the right to use the name of any person from whom the business was acquired or the name under which the business is currently conducted, unless the seller specifically transfers the right to use that name [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14101, 14103].

d. Noncompetition clause prohibiting seller from carrying on same or similar business in specified area or for specified time [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.213].

NOTE:

Generally, a contract that restrains a person from engaging in a lawful profession, trade, or business of any kind is, to that extent, void in California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600; see, e.g., Application Group, Inc. v. Hunter Group, Inc. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 881, 900-902, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 73 (California law governed enforceability of noncompetition agreement in employment contract providing that Maryland law would govern contractual disputes)]. However, any person who sells the goodwill of a business, or any owner of a business entity selling or otherwise disposing of all of his or her ownership interest in the business entity, or any owner of a business entity that sells (1) all or substantially all of its operating assets together with the goodwill of the business entity; (2) all or substantially all of the operating assets of a division or a subsidiary of the business entity together with the goodwill of that division or subsidiary; or (3) all of the ownership interest of any subsidiary, may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business within a specified geographic area in which the business so sold, or that of the business entity, division, or subsidiary has been carried on, so long as the buyer, or any person deriving title to the goodwill or ownership interest from the buyer, carries on a like business within that area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16601]. For additional discussion, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, §§ 17.19, 17.213.

e. If business being sold is subject to franchise agreement, any of following provisions that are appropriate:

(1) Statement that franchisor has first right and option to purchase business.

(2) Statement that sale to third party is subject to franchisor's consent.

(3) List of any conditions precedent to which franchisor's consent is subject.

f. Provision requiring seller to transfer and assign trademark or service mark to buyer [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.220].

NOTE:

A federally registered trademark or service mark, or one for which an application to register has been filed, is assignable with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark [15 U.S.C. § 1060]. No application to register a mark under 15 U.S.C. § 1051(b) is assignable prior to filing of a verified statement of use [see 15 U.S.C. § 1051(d)], except to the applicant's business (or a portion of the business) to which the mark pertains, if that business is ongoing and existing [15 U.S.C. § 1060].

A trademark or service mark registered in California is assignable with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220].

g. Seller's warranty regarding absence of hazardous material in property being sold [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.214].

3. Include following standard contractual provisions, as appropriate:

a. Statement that contract contains entire agreement of parties [see § 18.200, P 26; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.270].

b. Right to modify and amend contract [see § 18.200, P 27].

NOTE:

Modification is usually only permitted with the written consent of both parties.

c. Provision for attorneys' fees and costs [see § 18.200, P 28]; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.252].

NOTE:

Most written contracts contain a provision for attorneys' fees [see Civ. Code § 1717 (prevailing party entitled to fees); Code Civ. Proc. § 1021 (attorneys' fees awarded only when provided by contract or statute); see also* Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions*, § 75.252*].

d. Provision for arbitration of matters in controversy [see § 18.200, P 29; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.250].

NOTE:

Arbitration is the submission for determination of a disputed matter to private unofficial persons selected in the manner provided by law or by the agreement of the parties [Stockwell v. Equitable F. & M. Ins. Co. (1933) 134 Cal. App. 534, 540, 25 P.2d 873] . For examples and discussion of arbitration clauses generally, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.250].

e. Manner of giving notice [see § 18.200, P 30; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.294].

f. Assignment provisions [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.280 et seq.; see also Ch. 76, Assignments of Rights and Obligations].

g. Statement that California law will govern agreement [see § 18.200, P 33; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.273].

h. Incorporation by reference provision [see § 18.200, P 1 (incorporation of inventory of tangible business assets)].

NOTE:

The parties to a contract have the power to incorporate other documents by reference, and those documents need not be physically attached to the contract [King v. Larsen Realty, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 349, 357, 175 Cal. Rptr. 226] **.

§ 18.152 Contract for Sale of License Only

NOTE:
For an example and discussion of this type of contract, see § 18.202[1].

1. Include following provisions regarding purchase and sale of license:

a. Name of each party to agreement and his or her capacity [see § 18.202, Recitals].

b. Description of license to be transferred [see § 18.202, P 1].

c. Total purchase price [see § 18.202, P 2].

NOTE:
For a discussion of statutory restrictions on the total purchase price imposed on certain transfers of general retail licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079], see § 18.30[4].

d. Manner of payment [see § 18.202, P 2].

NOTE:
The Alcoholic Beverage Control Act requires the buyer to deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration being paid for the license and business into escrow before filing an application for the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.202, P 2]. Thus, unlike the contract for the sale of any other type of property, a contract for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license cannot provide that the buyer will pay a portion of the purchase price on close of escrow. The contract in § 18.202 provides for payment in cash. For alternatives, see § 18.200, P 5.

e. Time and place of sale, and appointment of escrow holder [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; § 18.202, P 3].

f. Requirement that parties file transfer application [see § 18.220-18.222] and take all actions required to facilitate transfer [see § 18.202, P 4].

g. Requirement that parties deposit copy of contract into escrow [see § 18.202, P 5].

NOTE:

The parties'agreement on statutorily required order of distribution to creditors [see § 18.131] must be deposited into escrow [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

h. Escrow instructions setting forth statutory requirements for distribution of sales proceeds and notices to creditors [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; § 18.202, P 6].

NOTE:

Escrow instructions can be incorporated into the underlying agreement so that the agreement itself serves as the instructions for the escrow that will be opened to implement it. For further discussion, see § 18.202[1][c][4]. For general discussion of escrow instructions, see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows .

i. Enumeration of costs and expenses of sale to be paid by each party [see § 18.202, P 7].

j. Effect of denial of application for transfer of alcoholic beverage license [see § 18.202, P 8].

k. Seller's and buyer's warranties [see § 18.202, PP 9, 10].

NOTE:

These warranties should contain representations that each party has not violated the Act [see generally Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.], and that the buyer is eligible for issuance of a license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23952].

2. Include standard contractual provisions, as appropriate [see § 18.150[3]].

3. Include signature lines for buyer and seller.

4. Include signature line for escrow holder's acceptance and approval of contract and escrow instructions.

§ 18.161 Reporting Statutory Change in Ownership of Real Property

NOTE:

Real property subject to local property taxation is reassessed when a change in ownership occurs [see Cal. Const. art. XIII, XIIIA; see also* Hagman & Maxwell, California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 401, Real Property Valuation and Assessment]. Code § 60*]. That change requires the acquiring individual or entity to file a change in ownership statement [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480-480.2]. § 18.165 Advising Buyer Regarding License Renewal

1. Advise buyer to file application for renewal of license before license expires [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(b)].

NOTE:

All licenses expire at midnight on the last day of the month posted on the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048; see §§ 18.21[3], 18.22[3]]. On or before the first day of the month preceding the month posted on the license, the ABC will mail to each licensee at the licensed premises, or at any other designated address, an application to renew the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(a)]. The failure to mail this notice does not continue the right to a license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(e)].

A renewal application is deemed to be filed on (1) the date that the document is actually delivered to, and the required renewal fee [see P 2, below] is paid at, any ABC office during office hours, or (2) the date that appears on the postmark, when the document and fee are mailed to the ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(g); see Gov. Code § 11003 (filings by mail)].

2. Instruct buyer to pay renewal fees upon filing application.

NOTE:

For a current schedule of fees, see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320(a).

3. If license expires, advise buyer that he or she must take the following actions to reinstate license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(c)]:

NOTE:

All licenses expire at midnight on the last day of the month posted on the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048].

a. File renewal application within 60 days after license expires.

b. Pay annual renewal fee [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23320, 23358.3, 23399].

c. Pay penalty fee, which is 50 percent of annual fee [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23320, 23358.3, 23399].

4. If license is cancelled, advise buyer that he or she must take following actions within 30 days of cancellation to reinstate license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(f)].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise terminated or renewed [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(b), (c); see also PP 1-3, above], a license that is in effect on the month posted on the license continues in effect through 2 A.M. of the 60th day following the month posted on the license, at which time the license is automatically cancelled [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(d)]. On or before the 10th day preceding the cancellation of a license, the ABC will mail a notice of cancellation to each licensee who has not filed an application to renew, or notified the ABC of his or her intent not to renew, the license. The failure to mail this notice does not continue the right to a license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(e)].

Once a license is cancelled in this manner and not reinstated within 30 days of cancellation, it is automatically revoked on the 31st day after cancellation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24048(f)].

a. File renewal application.

b. Pay annual renewal fee by cashier's check or money order [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23320, 23358.3, 23399].

c. Pay penalty fee by cashier's check or money order, which is 100 percent of annual fee [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23320, 23358.3, 23399].

§ 18.166 Paying Federal Occupational Tax

NOTE:

Most retail dealers in alcoholic beverages [see I.R.C. § 5122 (definition)] must pay a special occupational tax [I.R.C. § 5121] before engaging in business, and annually thereafter [I.R.C. § 5142; 27 C.F.R. § 194.102].

1. Advise buyer to contact National Revenue Center of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau (TTB) regarding tax obligations before opening business.

NOTE:

Buyers required to comply with the federal occupational tax requirements [see PP 2-6, below*], should file with the TTB under the same name and for the same address that is on the application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license.

2. If buyer is subject to occupational tax obligations [see P 1, above], instruct buyer to file TTB Form 5630.5 on or before commencing business [I.R.C. § 5142; 27 C.F.R. § 194.104].

NOTE:

Form 5630.5 is available on the TTB web page [www.ttb.gov] or from the National Revenue Center of TTB. The taxpayer is required to provide information relating to his or her name, trade name, employer identification number, business address, and type of alcoholic beverage business [see 27 C.F.R. §§ 194.106 (form contents), 194.107 (execution requirements)]. A penalty will be imposed for failure to file a timely return [27 C.F.R. § 194.109(a)]. Note, however, that certain related persons (such as a husband or wife or remaining partners) may continue the business at the same location without paying the special tax [see 27 C.F.R. § 194.169].

3. Instruct buyer to pay tax upon filing form [27 C.F.R. § 194.105]:

NOTE:

A current schedule of taxes is shown on the form. A penalty will be imposed if the taxpayer does not pay the total amount due [27 C.F.R. § 194.109(b)], or if the check or money order is not honored [27 C.F.R. § 194.105]. The taxpayer will receive a stamp denoting payment of the tax [see I.R.C. § 5142(c)(2); 27 C.F.R. § 194.121].

a. In cash; or

b. By check or money order made payable to Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms.

4. Advise buyer that he or she must file new form and pay tax on or before July 1 of each new tax year [I.R.C. § 5142(b); 27 C.F.R. § 194.104].

5. Instruct buyer to register with IRS district director for district in which business is located [I.R.C. § 7011].

NOTE:

Every person engaged in any trade or business on which a special tax is imposed by law must register his or her name, residence, business, and business address [I.R.C. § 7011(a)]. Registration is made by filing Alcohol and Tobacco Trade Bureau (TTB; formerly Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms) Form 5630.5, which is available on the TTB website loated at www.ttb.gov.

6. Inform buyer that he or she must keep records on business premises of all distilled spirits, wines, and beer received [see I.R.C. § 5124(a); 27 C.F.R. § 194.234; see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25752, 23334 (records must be kept for three years)].

NOTE:

The taxpayer must make these records available for inspection by any internal revenue officer during business hours [see I.R.C. § 5146].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Sales Contract and Escrow Agreement

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.200

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.200 Contract for Sale of Retail Alcoholic Beverage License and Business

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract for the sale of a going retail business together with the alcoholic beverage license issued for that business. It assumes that the sale is subject to both the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.] and the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 6101 et seq.; see § 18.10[3]]. It may be used for the sale of a business with either a retail on-sale license (for example, a restaurant or bar) or off-sale license (for example, a liquor store or grocery store) [see § 18.20 et seq.].

For a set of escrow instructions designed for use with this contract, see § 18.202. For an example of a contract for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license only, see § 18.202.

Determination of the purchase price of the business and license is beyond the scope of this chapter, and is not covered in this form or comment. Generally, the parties will employ a financial expert to determine the fair market value of the business and of each individual asset.

[b] Basic Contract Provisions

Like all other types of contracts, contracts for the sale of a business must include (1) the consent of parties capable of contracting [see Civ. Code §§ 1556-1559 (parties), 1565-1590 (consent)], (2) a lawful object [see Civ. Code §§ 1595-1599], and (3) sufficient cause or consideration [Civ. Code § 1550; see Civ. Code §§ 1605-1615; Recitals in Form]. For coverage of these essential elements, see the discussion in Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.11.

[c] Description of Property Being Sold

The sales contract should enumerate all of the business property that the seller will transfer to the buyer, and specifically describe any items of property that are not subject to the sale [see P 1 of Form]. It should require transfer of any leasehold interest [see P 1(d) of Form] to be accomplished by a written assignment signed by the assignor [see Civ. Code §§ 1091, 1624(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 1971 (required for transfers of term exceeding one year); see also Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests]. The seller may also state the condition of the tangible property being transferred [see P 2 of Form].

[d] Amount of Purchase Price

The contract should state the total purchase price. For certain transfers of general retail licenses, that amount is limited by statute [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079; see also § 18.30[4]]. This form sets forth a specified sum, plus the value of the stock in trade and merchandise to be determined pursuant to an inventory [see P 3 of Form]. When the contract states the purchase price in this manner, it is impossible to state the exact amount allocated to the inventory in the notice of intended transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code P 24073(f); § 18.210]. Therefore, the ABC will allow the parties to state the amount of the inventory as either an estimated amount or as an amount not to exceed a stated amount in that notice [see § 18.210].

[e] Allocation of Purchase Price

The parties should allocate the purchase price among the assets being sold [see P 4 of Form] in order for the seller to determine any gain or loss on the sale, and the buyer to determine his or her basis in the assets being acquired. In addition, an allocation is required to determine sales tax on the sale [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.11].

The application must state the total purchase price or consideration to be paid, and the amount being paid for each asset [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24080; see § 18.221]. The total purchase price is limited by statute for certain transfers [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079; see also discussion in § 18.20].

Special rules regarding allocation of the purchase price govern any direct or indirect transfer of assets in which (1) the assets constitute a trade or business and (2) the buyer's basis in the assets is determined wholly by reference to the consideration paid for the assets [see I.R.C. § 1060(a), (c)]. For purposes of determining the buyer's basis in the assets and the seller's gain or loss in such a transaction, the consideration received for the assets must be allocated among the assets pursuant to the "residual method" [I.R.C. § 1060(a); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6, 1.338-7, 1.1060-1(a)(1), (c)(2)]. Under the residual method, assets are first divided into the following seven classes [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(a)(2), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]:

- Class I Assets: Cash and general deposit accounts, including savings and checking accounts [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(1), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class II Assets: Actively traded personal property, [see I.R.C. § 1092(d)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.1092(d)-1, but without regard to I.R.C. § 1092(d)(3)] and certificates of deposit and foreign currency, even if they are not actively traded personal property. Assets in Class II include U.S. government securities and publicly traded stock. Class II assets do not include stock of target affiliates, whether or not of a class that is actively traded, other than actively traded stock described in I.R.C. § 1504(a)(4) (certain preferred stock). This restriction excludes target affiliate stock from Class II when the target holds an 80 percent or greater interest in the target affiliate but a minority interest in target affiliate stock of the same class is actively traded [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(ii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class III Assets: Assets that the taxpayer marks to market at least annually for federal income tax purposes and debt instruments. These assets include accounts receivable, mortgages, and credit card receivables from customers that arise in the ordinary course of business [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]. Class III assets do not include debt instruments issued by persons related to the target at the beginning of the day following the acquisition date, certain contingent debt instruments [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.1275-4, 1.483-4; I.R.C. § 988] (but not those subject to the non-contingent bond method [see Treas. Reg. § 1.1275-4(b), 1.483-4], or that involve single nonfunctional currencies [see Treas. Reg. § 1.988-2(b)(2)(i)(B)(2)]), or debt instruments convertible into the stock of the issuer or other property [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class IV Assets: Stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind that would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iv), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class V Assets: All assets that do not fall in any of the other six classes [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(v), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

- Class VI Assets: All Section 197 intangibles except goodwill and going concern value [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(vi), 1.1060-1(c)(2); see I.R.C. § 197].

- Class VII Assets: Goodwill and going concern value (whether or not the goodwill or going concern value qualifies as a Section 197 intangible) [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(vii), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

The consideration is first reduced by the amount of the Class I assets. Any amount remaining after the reduction is then allocated to the remaining assets [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(1), (2), 1.1060-1(c)(2)]. The remaining consideration is allocated to Class II assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class II asset, then among Class III assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class III asset, then among Class IV assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class IV asset, then among Class V assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class V asset, then among Class VI assets in proportion to the fair market value of each Class VI asset, and finally to Class VII assets [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(i), 1.1060-1(c)(2)].

In making the above allocations, the seller and purchaser each must adjust the amount allocated to an individual asset to take into account specific identifiable costs incurred in transferring that asset in connection with the applicable asset acquisition (such as real estate transfer costs or security interest perfection costs). Those costs increase (or decrease, as appropriate) the total consideration that is allocated under the residual method. No adjustment is made to amounts allocated to an individual asset for general costs associated with the overall asset acquisition or with groups of assets (such as non-specific appraisal fees or accounting fees). These costs are taken into account only indirectly through their effect on the total consideration to be allocated [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(c)(3); see Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1T(c)(3)].

For further discussion, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.11[4]. To the extent that the parties agree in writing as to the allocation of any consideration, or as to the fair market value of any of the transferred assets, the parties are bound by the terms of the agreement unless the IRS determines that the allocation (or fair market value) is inappropriate [I.R.C. § 1060(a)]. However, this rule does not apply if the parties are able to refute the allocation or valuation under the standards set forth in Commissioner v. Danielson [Commissioner v. Danielson 378 F.2d 771 (3d Cir. 1967) , cert. denied, 389 U.S. 858 (1967)] . Under this case, a party challenging the tax consequences of an agreement as construed by the Commissioner must offer proof that, in a suit between the parties, it would be admissible to alter that construction or show its unenforceability because of mistake, fraud, duress, and the like [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060-1(c)(4)].

This form allocates the purchase price among the assets in the order required by statute [see P 4 of Form]. In addition, it contains (1) the acknowledgment of each party that the amount allocated to each individual asset represents its fair market value determined pursuant to arm's length negotiation; (2) a statement that each party has had the tax consequences of the allocations explained to him or her by a tax attorney or other advisor; and (3) the agreement by each party to report the allocations as set forth in the contract of sale to the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 1.1060(e) (seller and purchase must report asset acquisition statements on IRS Form 8594, "Asset Allocation Statement")].

[f] Payment of Purchase Price

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23000-25762] ("Act") provides that before an application for the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license may be filed, the buyer must deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration being paid for the license and business into escrow [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see P 5 of Form; § 18.41[4]]. Thus, unlike the contract for the sale of any other type of property, a contract for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license (either with or without the licensed business) cannot provide that the buyer will pay a portion of the purchase price on close of escrow. The buyer need not pay the purchase price or consideration entirely in cash, however. The consideration may also consist of checks, promissory notes, and tangible or intangible property [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24073, 24074], as long as they are deposited prior to filing the application [see P 5 of Form]. Liability on promissory notes should be conditioned upon approval of the transfer by the ABC.

Despite the foregoing rule regarding time for deposit, however, use of a demand promissory note payable to the escrow holder on or before the close of escrow may effectively allow the buyer to pay a portion of the purchase price on close of escrow. This device allows the buyer to use and earn interest on that money during the pendency of the escrow [see P 5 of Form (note does not bear interest)]. It should be used only when the buyer is solvent and will be able to pay the demand note on or before the close of escrow. When used, the contract of sale and escrow instructions [see § 18.201] must identify the demand promissory note as such. A demand note to be replaced with cash on the close of escrow is treated as cash for purposes of the notice of intended transfer [see §§ 18.210-18.212].

This form also provides for execution of a promissory note and security agreement giving the seller a security interest in the property being sold [see P 6 of Form]. Note, however, that the alcoholic beverage license cannot serve as the security [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076]. This type of transaction (excluding the sale of accounts receivable as part of the sale of the business from which they arose [see Com. Code § 9109(d)(4)]) is governed by Division 9 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code § 9109(a)(1); see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.]. The seller may "perfect" his or her security interest by filing a financing statement [see Com. Code §§ 9317, 9502]. Coverage of secured transactions is beyond the scope of this chapter. For an extensive discussion of secured transactions under Division 9, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

[g] Inventory

The contract should specify the date and method of taking inventory of the property being sold. This event generally takes place at the close of business hours on the day preceding the sale [see P 7 of Form]. However, if the ABC issues a temporary permit to the buyer to operate the business pending approval of the transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see also § 18.50], inventory should be taken on the day preceding the effective date of the temporary permit [see P 7 of Form]. For a discussion of the methods of valuing inventory, see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports .

[h] Insurance Policies

This contract requires the seller to provide a list of insurance policies insuring the business or assets to be transferred to the seller. It also requires the buyer to indicate in writing which, if any, of those policies he or she desires the seller to transfer to the buyer [see P 8 of Form]. Generally, an insured may sell or assign an insurance policy. However, in order to prevent an increase of risk to the insurer due to a change of ownership before a loss occurs, the insurer must consent to the assignment [see University of Judaism v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 937, 941, 132 Cal. Rptr. 907] , whether or not the policy requires consent [see Bergson v. Builders' Ins. Co. (1869) 38 Cal. 541, 543] . For further coverage, see California Insurance Law and Practice, Ch. 8, The Insurance Contract (Matthew Bender); for a general discussion of business issues, see Ch. 1F, Insurance Considerations in Business Formation .

[i] Compliance With Bulk Sales Division

The Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 6101-6111] applies to a bulk sale only if (1) the seller's principal business is the sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1)]; and (2) the seller is located in California, or is located in a jurisdiction outside the United States but has its major American executive office in California, on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(c) (exceptions)]. A "bulk sale" is any sale outside the ordinary course of the seller's business of more than one half of the seller's inventory and equipment, as measured by the fair market value on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 6102(b)(3), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined); see also § 18.10[3]].

A transfer that is subject to and complies with the license transfer provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070-24082], however, is subject only to the Bulk Sales Division's notice requirements [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Com. Code § 6105(a)(1)-(4), (b)]. This form assumes that the seller is subject to the Bulk Sales Division, and requires compliance with applicable provisions [see P 9 of Form].

[j] Time and Place of Sale

The contract should specify the date and place of the sale. It should also provide that the sale will not take place on the scheduled date unless the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has approved the transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see also P 10 of Form].

[k] Application for License Transfer

The parties should agree to file an application for transfer within 90 days after execution of the contract [see P 10 of Form]. The ABC will not transfer a license if the transfer is made to fulfill an agreement entered into more than 90 days preceding the date on which the transfer application is filed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076]. The parties should also agree to take all actions required to facilitate the transfer [see P 11 of Form].

[l] Conduct of Business

This contract requires the seller to continue operating the business in the usual manner until the sale [see P 12 of Form]. For an alternative provision that lists specific requirements, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.215.

[m] Risk of Loss

This form provides that the seller will bear the risk of damage to or loss of the assets of the business prior to closing, and the buyer will bear the risk of loss thereafter [see P 13 of Form]. Note, however, that Civ. Code § 1511(2) provides that performance of an obligation is excused when it is prevented or delayed by an irresistible superhuman cause, unless the parties have expressly agreed to the contrary. For a discussion and example of a "force majeure" clause, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.235.

[n] Application for Temporary Permit

The parties should specify whether the buyer may apply for a temporary permit to operate the business pending approval of the transfer application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see also § 18.50]. This form describes the buyer's manner of management and status as sublessor upon obtaining a temporary permit, and provides for the return of assets and control upon ultimate denial of the transfer application [see P 14 of Form].

[o] Prorations

The buyer and seller generally agree to prorate, as of the closing, the expenses incident to conducting the business. This form provides that the parties will prorate all personal property taxes, insurance policies, employee salaries and benefits, and rent [see P 15 of Form].

[p] Escrow Holder and Instructions

When the intended transfer of the alcoholic beverage license or business involves a purchase price or consideration, the licensee and buyer must establish an escrow before filing a transfer application with the ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see P 16 of Form]. However, no escrow is required for a transfer of an off-sale beer and wine license if [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4; see § 18.110[4]]:

- A corporation with a net worth on a consolidated basis of at least $5 million according to its most recent audited financial statement files a guaranty of full payment of all creditor claims; and

- The guaranty is acceptable to the creditors of the seller.

When an escrow is required, the parties must appoint an escrow holder who is not a party to the transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074], and who meets the requirements of Chapter 1 of the Escrow Law (unless he or she is a licensed attorney who is not actively engaged in conducting an escrow agency) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1; see Fin. Code §§ 17000-17010; see also P 16 of Form]. For further discussion, see § 18.41[4]. The parties should also agree to direct the escrow holder, pursuant to escrow instructions, to distribute the consideration deposited by the buyer in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see also P 18 of Form]. For discussion of Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074, see § 18.51[2].

[q] Costs and Expenses

This form contains a provision allocating certain costs of the sale to the buyer or seller. It also requires the parties to bear some expenses equally [see P 19 of Form].

[r] Denial of Transfer Application

This contract of sale provides that it will become null and void upon final denial of the application for transfer of the retail alcoholic beverage license. In addition, it provides that each party will be restored, to the extent possible, to his or her position prior to execution of the contract. It also specifies that either party may bring an action to recover damages when the other party's actions resulted in denial of the transfer [see P 20 of Form].

[s] Seller's Warranties

This form contains the seller's warranties regarding ownership of the business, the accuracy of the business books and accounts, outstanding debts, and pending litigation or proceedings. It also sets forth a warranty that the seller is not in violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, and knows of no reason that the ABC might deny transfer of his or her license [see P 21 of Form]. For further discussion of the warranties made by the parties to the sale of a business, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

[t] Buyer's Warranties

The buyer should warrant that he or she has never been convicted of a felony or violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23952 (eligibility requirements for retail alcoholic beverage license)]. The buyer should also warrant that he or she knows of no reason that the ABC might deny transfer of the license to him or her [see P 22 of Form].

[u] Indemnification

The seller should indemnify the buyer for all claims and liabilities arising from operation of the business before the closing, and the buyer should indemnify the seller for claims and liabilities arising after the closing [see PP 23, 25 of Form]. For a form provision and discussion of the issue of products liability, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

[v] Reliance on Representations

The buyer may state that he or she is purchasing the business based on his or her own inspection of the assets and accounts. This form also contains an express waiver of any claims based on representations other than those set forth in the contract [see P 24 of Form].

[w] Attorneys' Fees

This form specifically provides for attorneys' fees to be awarded to the prevailing party in litigation or arbitration [see P 28 of Form]. A litigant is not entitled to attorneys' fees unless they are agreed upon by the parties or specifically provided for by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021]. In any action on a contract, if the contract provides that attorneys' fees and costs incurred to enforce the contract are to be awarded either to one of the parties or to the prevailing party, then the party who is determined to be the party prevailing on the contract, regardless of whether he or she is the party named in the contract, is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees in addition to other costs [Civ. Code § 1717(a)]. For further discussion and examples of attorneys' fees provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.252.

[x] Arbitration

This form provides that any dispute regarding the contract will be settled by arbitration [see P 29 of Form]. Arbitration is the submission for determination of a disputed matter to private unofficial persons selected in the manner provided by law or by the agreement of the parties [Stockwell v. Equitable F. & M. Ins. Co. (1933) 134 Cal. App. 534, 540, 25 P.2d 873] . Arbitration provisions commonly incorporate the rules of the American Arbitration Association or the California Arbitration Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq.]. For additional examples and discussion of arbitration clauses, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.250. For an example and discussion of the statutory arbitration notice that must appear in any contract to convey real property that contains a binding arbitration provision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1298], see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

[y] Standard Contractual Provisions

Most written agreements include certain standard provisions. This form contains an "entire agreement" provision [see P 26 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.270, 75.271], a clause governing amendment and modification [see P 27 of Form; see also Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations], a provision for the manner of giving notice [see P 30 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.294], and assignability provisions [see PP 31, 32 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.280-75.282; Ch. 76, Assignment of Rights and Obligations]. It also contains a "choice of law" provision [see P 33 of Form see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.273], which may be useful if the sales transaction involves contacts with states other than California. For other standard provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

[z] Optional Provisions

Depending on the nature of the business being sold, the alternative form provisions set forth in Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice , may be added to or substituted for the provisions in this contract.

[aa] Attached Exhibits

The parties to a contract have the power to incorporate other documents by reference, whether or not those documents are attached [King v. Larsen Realty, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 349, 357, 175 Cal. Rptr. 226 ; see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. This contract incorporates attached exhibits such as an inventory of tangible business assets [see P 1 of Form], and other exhibits may be incorporated as necessary.

[Continue with the following:]

Total Purchase Price

3. The total purchase price ("the purchase price") to be paid by Buyer to Seller for all of the property described in Paragraph 1 of this contract is $_____, plus the value of the stock in trade and merchandise shown on the inventory described in Paragraph 7.

Allocation of Purchase Price

4.(a) The purchase price shall be allocated as follows:

[List assets by the following classes as specified in Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(a)(2), (b) 1.1060-1(c)(2) (see § 18.200[1][e]:]

(2) _____ [describe any actively traded personal property, (see I.R.C. § 1092(d)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.1092(d)-1, but without regard to I.R.C. § 1092(d)(3)) and certificates of deposit and foreign currency, even if they are not actively traded personal property, including U.S. Government securities and publicly traded stock, but do not include stock of target affiliates, whether or not of a class that is actively traded, other than actively traded stock described in I.R.C. § 1504(a)(4) (certain preferred stock)]: $_____.

Reg. § 1.1275-4(b), 1.483-4), or which involve single nonfunctional currencies (see Treas. Reg. § 1.988-2(b)(2)(i)(B)(2))], or debt instruments convertible into the stock of the issuer or other property (Treas. Reg. §§ 1.338-6(b)(2)(iii), 1.1060-1(c)(2))*]: $_____.

Buyer and Seller each agree to report the sale of the business and the alcoholic beverage license for income tax purposes according to the allocations set forth in subparagraph (a).

[If payment will be entirely in cash:]

5. Upon execution of this contract, Buyer shall deposit the purchase price specified in Paragraph 3 into the escrow described in Paragraph 15 of this contract.

[Or, if payment will be a combination of cash and other consideration:]

5. The purchase price specified in Paragraph 3 shall be payable as follows:

(b) The additional sum of $_____ shall be evidenced by a demand promissory note, executed by Buyer, that:

(1) Is substantially in the form of the note attached as Exhibit _____.

[Continue with the following:]

Security for Purchase Price

6.(a) Any promissory note described in Paragraph 5 of this contract shall be secured by a security agreement in the form of the attached document marked Exhibit _____, to be executed by Buyer and Seller, granting to Seller a security interest in all of the property described in Paragraph 1 of this contract. However, no security interest shall be reserved or granted to Seller or to any other person in the alcoholic beverage license now or hereafter issued for the premises occupied by the business.

(b) Buyer shall execute any financing statements prepared by Seller to perfect the security interests granted by the security agreement.

Inventory

7. A complete inventory of the stock in trade and merchandise of the business shall be taken by _____[ name of person or company that will take inventory] at the close of business on [day preceding sale and transfer of business and license], or, if the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control issues a temporary permit for the premises occupied by the business to Buyer in accordance with Paragraph 14 of this contract, on the day preceding the effective date of the temporary permit, in the following manner:

(a) Operation of the business will be suspended immediately prior to the taking of the inventory and will remain suspended until after the transfer of the business and alcoholic beverage license.

(b) All items on the premises occupied by the business at the time the inventory is taken that could constitute part of the stock in trade and merchandise of the business shall be conclusively presumed to be part of that stock in trade and merchandise, and shall be included in the inventory.

(c) All items shall be valued according to the [specify valuation method] method of valuation.

(d) No item listed on the inventory shall be sold to any person other than Buyer or removed from the premises until after the transfer of the business and alcoholic beverage license to Buyer.

8. Seller shall provide Buyer with a list of all insurance policies insuring the business or the assets of the business listed in Paragraph 1, which shall include (1) the number of each policy, (2) the insurance company and agent that issued each policy, (3) the premium payable on each policy, and (4) the beginning and expiration dates of each policy. Buyer shall determine which, if any, of those policies Buyer wishes to assume, and shall approve or reject in writing each insurance policy so listed.

Compliance With Bulk Sales Law

9. The purchase and sale of the business shall be conducted in full compliance with the applicable requirements of the Bulk Sales Division of the California Commercial Code.

Time and Place of Sale

10. The purchase and sale described in this contract and the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license from Seller to Buyer shall take place at the office of the Escrow Holder as specified in Paragraph 16 on _____[date], or within [specify time period, e.g., 5 days] after _____ [the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control approves transfer of the alcoholic beverage license or, if business is subject to franchise agreement: both of the following conditions have been satisfied:

(a) The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has approved transfer of the alcoholic beverage license.

(b) _____ (name of franchisor), (Franchisor), has given written consent to the purchase and sale].

The consideration for the purchase and sale of the business and transfer of the alcoholic beverage license shall be paid only after the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control gives its approval of the transfer.

Application for License Transfer

11. Both Buyer and Seller shall take all actions reasonably required to facilitate the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license from Seller to Buyer. Promptly after execution of this contract, and in no event later than 90 days after its execution, Buyer and Seller shall execute and file with the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control an application for transfer of the license from Seller to Buyer. Buyer shall pay all fees required to effectuate transfer of the license.

Conduct of Business

12. Until the closing, Seller shall continue to operate the business in the same manner as Seller has operated it in the past.

Risk of Loss

13. Until the closing, Seller shall bear all risk of loss, injury, damage, or destruction of the assets of the business. If any loss, injury, damage, or destruction substantially impairs the value of the business prior to the closing, Buyer may either terminate this contract, or proceed to closing and receive an assignment of applicable insurance proceeds or proportionate reduction in the purchase price. If any such loss, injury, damage, or destruction interrupts conduct of the business prior to the closing for a period of [specify time, e.g., 30 days] or more, Buyer may terminate this contract. After the closing, Buyer shall bear all risk of loss.

Application for Temporary Permit

14.(a) After the parties have filed the application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license in accordance with Paragraph 10 of this contract, Buyer [shall or may] file an application for a temporary permit allowing Buyer to operate the business while the transfer application is pending. At the time that Buyer files such an application, Seller shall surrender the alcoholic beverage license to the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control in accordance with its rules.

(b) If Buyer's application for a temporary permit is granted:

(1) On the day before the temporary permit becomes effective, Buyer and Seller shall take inventory in accordance with Paragraph 7 of this contract. Buyer shall immediately become the owner of all the stock in trade and merchandise shown on that inventory, and shall thereby become indebted to Seller for the value of that stock in trade and merchandise.

(2) On the day the temporary permit becomes effective, Buyer shall assume full management and control of the business and operate it during the period covered by the temporary permit, or any extension of the permit, in full compliance with the terms of the permit and Business and Professions Code Section 24045.5.

(3) While Buyer has management and control of the business under the temporary permit, Buyer shall be considered to be a sublessee of Seller of the business premises. The parties therefore shall obtain the consent of Seller's lessor to the sublease, and Buyer shall pay $_____ per month to Seller as rent for the use of the business premises.

(4) If the transfer application is thereafter denied or withdrawn, Buyer shall return all of the business assets to Seller. Buyer and Seller shall promptly take inventory of all the stock in trade and merchandise of the business then on the premises, and Seller shall reimburse Buyer for the actual cost to Buyer of that stock in trade and merchandise.

(5) If the temporary permit expires before approval of the transfer application, Buyer may attempt to obtain an extension. If the permit expires and no extension has been granted, Buyer shall comply with the procedures set forth in Subparagraph (b)(4).

Prorations

15. Buyer and Seller shall prorate all of the following, on the basis of 30-day months, as of 12:01 A.M. Pacific time on the date specified in Paragraph 10 for the closing:

(a) All personal property taxes levied or assessed against any of the business assets subject to this contract for the current tax year, based on the amount shown on the latest tax bill.

(b) All premiums on insurance policies insuring the business or the assets subject to this contract, that have been approved by and are being transferred to Buyer pursuant to Paragraph 8.

(c) Salaries of the employees shown on the attached schedule marked Exhibit _____.

(d) All social security taxes and contributions to union, pension, Christmas bonus, or vacation funds accruing during the pendency of the purchase and sale for the business employees shown on the attached schedule marked Exhibit _____.

(e) The rent of the premises occupied by the business pursuant to the lease between Seller and _____[name of lessor] dated _____.

[If any additional costs or expenses will be prorated:]

(f) _____ (describe)].

Appointment of Escrow Holder

16. Buyer and Seller shall open an escrow for the purchase and sale described in this contract within [specify time period, e.g., 10 days] after execution of this contract, and before filing a transfer application with the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. _____[name], [describe status of escrow holder, e.g., an attorney], whose offices are located at _____[street address], _____, [city] , California, is hereby appointed escrow holder ("Escrow Holder") to conduct the purchase and sale of the business and transfer of the alcoholic beverage license.

Deposits Into Escrow

17. Buyer and Seller agree that, prior to filing a transfer application with the ABC, they shall make the following deposits into the escrow described in Paragraph 16:

(a) [Buyer or Seller] shall deposit a copy of this contract with the Escrow Holder.

(b) Buyer shall deposit the total purchase price for the purchase, sale, and transfer into escrow, in the manner set forth in Paragraph 5 of this contract.

(c) Seller shall deposit all documents required to transfer the business assets to Buyer, including [specify, e.g., a bill of sale for all furniture and fixtures, and the DMV registration for any business vehicles].

Required Escrow Instructions

18. Pursuant to escrow instructions to be drafted, the parties shall direct the Escrow Holder identified in Paragraph 16 to distribute the deposited purchase price in the manner required by Business and Professions Code Section 24074.

Costs and Expenses

19.(a) Seller shall bear the following costs and expenses:

(1) The cost of drafting and recording all instruments necessary to convey the business, other than the alcoholic beverage license, to Buyer.

(2) All sales taxes arising from the sale of the furniture, fixtures, and equipment of the business to Buyer.

(b) Buyer shall bear the following costs and expenses:

PART IV. FORMS
A. Sales Contract and Escrow Agreement

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.201

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.201 Escrow Instructions for Sale of Retail Alcoholic Beverage License and Business

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete set of escrow instructions for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license and business subject to both the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.] and applicable provisions of the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 6101-6111]. It is designed for use with the contract of sale set forth in § 18.200.

[b] Escrow Instructions In General

An escrow is a procedural device for effectuating a sales transaction that requires a concurrent exchange of money and documents for the transfer of title to property after all conditions precedent have been satisfied. To ensure that the separate interests of each party are protected, a disinterested party called the "escrow holder" or "escrow agent" handles the details of the transaction [see Civ. Code § 1057 (escrow holder must be third party)]. Escrow instructions are used to authorize and direct the escrow holder to act as the agent of the parties to the agreement, and to take the specific steps necessary to carry out the agreement. They define and limit the authority and the obligations of the escrow holder [see Axley v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1978) 88 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8-9, 151 Cal. Rptr. 570] . The buyer and seller may use joint or separate escrow instructions to direct the escrow holder. This form consists of joint instructions.

For further discussion of escrow instructions for the sale of a business, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice . For coverage of escrow generally, and for examples of escrow instructions applicable to the sale of real property, see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows .

[c] Mandatory Nature of Escrow

In contrast to the sale of other businesses [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice], the transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license and business that involves a purchase price or consideration must be handled pursuant to an escrow [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. Before the parties may file a transfer application for such a transaction with the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC"), they must establish an escrow with some person, corporation, or association that meets statutory requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see [d], below], and the buyer must deposit the total purchase price with the escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.41[4]]. After the ABC approves the transfer, the escrow holder must distribute the deposited money to the seller's creditors [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.51[2]].

The transfer of an off-sale beer and wine license [see § 18.22[1]] is exempted from the escrow requirement when a corporation with a net worth on a consolidated basis of not less than $5 million (according to its most recent audited financial statement) files a guaranty that (1) assures full, prompt, and faithful payment of all claims of bona fide creditors of the seller, and (2) is acceptable to the creditors [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4]. All other transfers involving consideration must be handled pursuant to an escrow [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24074, 24074.1].

[d] Appointment of Escrow Holder

The parties must appoint a person, corporation, or association that is not a party to the transfer to act as escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074]. The escrow holder must meet the requirements of Chapter 1 of the Escrow Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1; see Fin. Code §§ 17000-17010 (application of Escrow Law)]. For a discussion of that law [Fin. Code § 17000 et seq.], see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows . Because the attorney handling the sale may act as escrow holder, it should be noted that a California-licensed attorney who has a bona fide client relationship with a principal in a real estate or personal property transaction and who is not actively engaged the business of an escrow agent is exempt from the requirements of that law [Fin. Code § 17006(a)(2)].

[e] Specific Escrow Instructions

[i] Notice of Intended Bulk Sale

The Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code § 6101 et seq.] requires a buyer to record and publish advance notice of the proposed sale [see Com. Code §§ 6104(b), 6105]. If a buyer fails to comply with the bulk sale notice requirements [see Com. Code § 6104] with respect to one or more claimants, the buyer is liable for damages in the amount of any claims against the seller, less any amount that the claimant would not have realized if the buyer had complied with the notice requirements [Com. Code § 6107(a); but see Com. Code § 6107(c) (good faith attempt at compliance), (d)-(f) (limitation of liability)]. This form instructs the escrow holder to prepare that notice, obtain the buyer's signature, and to record, publish, and deliver it on behalf of the buyer [see P 4 of Form]. For an example and discussion of the notice of intended bulk transfer, see § 18.211.

[ii] Information Request

These instructions require the escrow holder to mail Form UCC-11, "Request for Information or Copies," and the applicable filing fee to the Secretary of State's office [see Com. Code §§ 9523, 9528; see also P 8 of Form]. Form UCC-11 is used to request a certificate showing whether any presently effective financing statement is on file with respect to the seller's business [see Com. Code § 9523; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. On the request of any person and payment of the statutory fee, the Secretary of State must issue a combined certificate showing financing statement information [see Com. Code § 9523], state tax lien data [see Gov. Code § 7226], attachment lien information [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 488.375, 488.405], judgment lien information [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.580], and federal lien information [Com. Code § 9528(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2103]. For an illustration of Form UCC-11, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.216. Copies of Form UCC-11 are also available online from the Secretary of State's office at www.ss.ca.gov/business/ucc/ucc.htm and from office supply stores.

[iii] Deposit of Total Purchase Price

Before filing an application for transfer [see § 18.221 (ABC-217)] with the ABC, the buyer must deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration with the escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 9 of Form]. The purchase price or consideration need not be entirely in the form of cash, draft, or check, but may in whole or part consist of promissory notes. The amount deposited may be either (1) the total consideration for the property, business, and the liquor business, (2) the separate reasonable consideration for the licensed business and license, if there is one in the contract, or (3) the consideration for the license only when it is the only asset being transferred person to person to another location [see Form ABC-227 INSTR, p. 2 (9/99)].

[iv] Acknowledgment of Creditor Claims

The instructions should require the escrow holder to acknowledge each creditor's claim [see § 18.128] within 10 days of receipt [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1], and to submit each claim to the seller for approval or dispute [see P 13 of Form; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

[v] Notice to Creditors of Disputed Claims

The instructions should also require the escrow holder to notify each claimant whose claim has been disputed by the seller that: (1) the seller disputes the claim, (2) the amount otherwise payable on the claim will be retained in escrow for 25 days, and (3) the escrow holder will pay that amount to the seller unless the claimant attaches it during the 25-day period [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see P 13 of Form]. For additional coverage of these procedures, see § 18.128.

[vi] Prohibition on Exchange of Funds

The escrow holder must not release any funds deposited into escrow in exchange for a promissory note or in exchange for any other consideration of less value to the creditors than the funds exchanged [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.2; see P 22 of Form].

[vii] Time for Payment

The parties must instruct the escrow holder to pay or distribute the amount deposited by buyer within a reasonable time after the transfer of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see PP 19, 20 of Form].

[viii] Payment of Tax Holds

The ABC may refuse to transfer any license when the seller is delinquent in the payment of any taxes due under any of the following laws, if the tax liability arises partially or completely from the exercise of the privileges of the alcoholic beverage license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2]:

- The Alcoholic Beverage Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 32001 et seq.].
- The Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.].
- The Personal Income Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17001 et seq.].
- The Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.].
- Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 134 and 405(a) regarding tax on unsecured property.

Similarly, the ABC may refuse to transfer a license if the seller is delinquent in the payment of any amount due under the Unemployment Insurance Code when the liability arises from the conduct of a business licensed by the ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 68.2; see § 18.51[1]]. Furthermore, the buyer will be liable as a successor for any unpaid taxes owed by the seller to the Board of Equalization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6812 (sales tax); Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1733, 13002(i) (employment and income taxes); see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice]. The parties must therefore instruct the escrow holder to first pay the tax obligations set forth in Rev. & Tax. Code § 24049 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; P 14 of Form].

[ix] Notice to Creditors Regarding Distribution

Not more than 10 days after the retail alcoholic beverage license has been transferred, and prior to distribution of the assets deposited by the buyer into escrow, the escrow holder must advise each creditor who has filed a timely claim whether or not there are sufficient assets in the escrow to pay all creditors in full [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1; see P 17 of Form]. If the assets in escrow are sufficient to pay all creditors in full, the notice must specify the date on or before which payment will be made. If the assets are insufficient to pay all creditors in full, the notice must state all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code P 24074; see P 17 of Form]:

- The total assets deposited into escrow and the nature of each asset.
- The name of each creditor who filed a claim against the escrow and the amount of each claim.
- The amounts the escrow holder proposes to pay or set aside for each creditor.
- The date on or before which the escrow holder will distribute the assets to creditors.

For an example and discussion of this notice, see § 18.243.

[x] Payment of Other Creditor Claims

The parties must direct the escrow holder to pay out of the purchase price or consideration, after any tax holds have been removed, the claims of the bona fide creditors of the licensee who filed their claims with the escrow holder before he or she was notified by the ABC of the license transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see P 19 of Form]. They must further direct the escrow holder to distribute the assets in escrow as follows, if the purchase price or consideration is not sufficient to pay those claims in full [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see § 18.51[2]; P 20 of Form]:

- First, to the United States for claims based on income or withholding taxes, then for other tax claims not specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049.
- Second, to the payment of claims for wages and other compensation earned by employees of the seller prior to the sale, transfer, or opening of escrow.
- Third, to the payment of claims of secured creditors, to the extent of the proceeds that arise from the sale of the security.
- Fourth, to the payment of claims on mechanics' liens.
- Fifth, to the payment of escrow fees and claims for brokerage and attorneys' fees.
- Sixth, to the payment of claims for goods sold and delivered to the seller for resale at the licensed premises; to the payment of claims for services rendered, performed, or supplied in connection with the operation of the licensed business; and to the payment of the claims of a landlord to the extent of proceeds on past due rent.

- Seventh, to the payment of other claims that have been reduced to court-ordered judgments, including claims for court-ordered support of a minor child.

- Eighth, to the payment of all other claims. If sufficient assets are not available for payment of each claim in full, payment must be made pro rata.

[f] Standard Escrow Instructions

[i] Recitals

In addition to the specific instructions required by the Bulk Sales Division, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, and successor liability statutes, discussed above, the parties should include standard instructions regarding handling of the escrow [see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows , for coverage]. The first provision should set forth the parties, the purpose of the escrow, and the closing date [see P 1 of Form].

[ii] Obligations to Escrow Holder

The parties should agree to indemnify the escrow holder for liability for actions taken by the escrow holder pursuant to the instructions, and agree to reimburse the escrow holder for costs incurred in following the instructions. Further, they should agree to pay the applicable escrow fees [see P 2 of Form].

[iii] Deposits into Escrow

The instructions should list the documents and other property that each party is required to deposit into escrow [see PP 9, 10 of Form]. The items should be separately listed, so that the escrow holder can confirm when he or she has all the items necessary to close the escrow.

[iv] Inventory

The instructions should require the escrow holder to obtain an inventory of the property being sold from the person or company taking the inventory [see P 11 of Form]. For further discussion of inventory, see § 18.210[1].

[v] Transfer of Documents

The parties should instruct the escrow holder to arrange for the transfer of any insurance policies to be assigned to the buyer [see P 12 of Form]. The instructions should also require the escrow holder to obtain the appropriate papers for the transfer of any other assets, such as motor vehicles, to the buyer [see P 12 of Form]. For discussion and examples of transfer documents, see Ch. 102D, Registration and Transfer of Vehicles, Vessels, and Aircraft .

[vi] Proration of Expenses

The instructions should list the expenses that the parties will prorate, and the manner of proration [see P 18 of Form].

[Continue with the following:]

(d) Finally, pay any funds remaining on deposit with you to Seller.

Distribution of Insufficient Sales Proceeds

20. If, pursuant to Paragraph 16 of these Instructions, you have determined that the amount remaining on deposit in escrow after payment of taxes pursuant to Paragraph 14, whether in the form of cash, checks, promissory notes, or tangible or intangible property, remaining on deposit in this escrow is not sufficient to pay in full all of the timely creditor claims filed with you, distribute the remaining amount within a reasonable time after the transfer in the following manner:

(a) Pay all claims in the following order of priority:

(1) First, to the United States for claims based on income or withholding taxes, and thereafter for claims based on any tax other than the taxes specified in Paragraph 14 of these Instructions.

(2) Second, to the payment of claims for wages, salaries, or fringe benefits that Seller's employees earned or accrued prior to the sale and transfer of the business and license or the opening of this escrow.

(3) Third, to the payment of claims of secured creditors to the extent of the proceeds that arise from the sale of their security.

(4) Fourth, to the payment of claims on mechanics' liens.

(5) Fifth, to the payment of escrow fees, the payment of claims for prevailing brokerage fees for services rendered, and claims for reasonable attorneys' fees for services rendered.

(1) If the creditor of a disputed claim serves you with a writ of attachment for the retained amount during the 25-day period, answer the writ of attachment in the manner required by law and retain that amount until final settlement and discharge of the writ; or

(2) If the creditor of a disputed claim does not serve you with a writ of attachment for the retained amount during the 25-day period, pay the retained amount to Seller.

Denial of Transfer Application

21. If, after exhaustion of all appropriate administrative remedies, the application for transfer of the license from Seller to Buyer is finally denied, you shall:

(a) Adjust between Buyer and Seller any amounts due from one to the other under Paragraph _____ of the contract based on Buyer's operation of the business under a temporary retail permit.

(b) Reimburse yourself from the funds then remaining on deposit in this escrow for all costs and expenses incurred by you in performing these Instructions prior to the date you received notice of the denial of the transfer.

(c) Pay to yourself from the remaining funds on deposit in this escrow a reasonable fee for your services as escrow holder, not to exceed $_____.

(d) Return to Buyer and Seller all instruments, documents, and money deposited by each into escrow pursuant to these Instructions.

Prohibition on Exchange of Funds

22. You shall not release any funds deposited into escrow by Buyer or Seller in exchange for a promissory note or in exchange for any other consideration of less value to the creditors than the funds exchanged.

CHAPTER 18 BUYING AND SELLING A RETAIL ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE AND BUSINESS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Sales Contract and Escrow Agreement

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.202

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.202 Contract for Sale of Retail Alcoholic Beverage License Only

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license which is not accompanied by a sale of the going business for which the license was issued. It is intended for use when the buyer will transfer the license to new premises. The sale contemplated by this contract must comply with the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.; § 18.10[2]]. However, because the contract involves only the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license and not more than half of the seller's inventory and equipment, the transfer is not subject to the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code ("Bulk Sales Division") [see Com. Code § 6102(a)(3); § 18.10[3]]. For discussion of the Bulk Sales Division and an example of a contract for the sale of both a license and business subject to its requirements, see § 18.200. For a set of escrow instructions for use with such a contract, see § 18.201.

This comment discusses only those contract provisions that are unique to this form. For discussion of the various provisions generally used in a contract for the transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license, see § 18.200[1].

[b] Transfer of License to New Premises

[i] In General

Every retail alcoholic beverage license is separate and distinct, and is transferable upon approval by the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") from the licensee to another person, and from one premises to another premises [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070; see § 18.40[1]]. Subject to the rules limiting the number of licenses that may be issued in any county [see § 18.30], licenses may be transferred within the same county pursuant to a single transfer application [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(a); see § 18.220 (transfer application)].

[ii] Premises Under Construction

Although authorized by statute to do so [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044], the ABC ordinarily will not issue a new or original license for the retail sale of alcoholic beverages for premises that are under construction until the premises are substantially complete and ready for operation [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(a)]. However, the ABC may approve a license transfer from a licensee to a person who has premises under construction or to be constructed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(a)]. For such a transfer, the ABC will hold the license until construction of the premises is complete and the premises are ready for operation [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(b)]. The escrow for the transfer need not remain open until the premises are completed. Rather, the escrow will close as usual, and the ABC will simply hold the license certificate pending completion, in order to prevent any sales under it [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(b)]. This procedure for the transfer of a license to premises under construction constitutes an exception to the general rule that requires a license issued for a specific location to be placed in use at that location within 30 days after issuance [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24040, 24044]. However, no license transferred pursuant to this procedure may be retransferred prior to being placed into operation at the premises for which it was issued, except for undue hardship arising from causes beyond the buyer's control [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(b)]. The buyer may not sell any alcoholic beverages pursuant to the license until the premises have been completed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ABC, in certain circumstances, will issue the license to the buyer so that the buyer can purchase alcoholic beverages and stock premises that are nearly ready for use. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

Every application for issuance or transfer of an alcoholic beverage license must be accompanied by a complete diagram, on a form furnished by the ABC, containing an exact description of clearly identifiable, tangible boundaries within which alcoholic beverages will be sold, served, or consumed pursuant to the license [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64.2(a)]. When a license is being transferred to premises under construction, the application also must include a copy of the building plans or a sketch of the floor plan and the expected completion date [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64.1(c)].

When the ABC holds a license pending completion of construction [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(b)], the approved expected completion date may not be extended for more than six months unless the ABC determines that the delay in construction is beyond the control of the applicant or licensee [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(c)]. The ABC will deny the transfer application or cancel the license if already issued, if good cause for the delay does not exist [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 64(c)].

[c] Contract Provisions

[i] Purchase Price

The contract should state the total purchase price [see P 2 of Form]. For certain transfers of general retail licenses, that amount is limited by statute [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070(d), (e), 24079; see also § 18.30[4]]. Unlike the combined sale of a license and business, the parties need not allocate the purchase price among various assets [see § 18.200[1][e]].

Before an application for the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license may be filed, the buyer must deposit the full amount of the purchase price or consideration being paid for the license into escrow [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see P 2 of Form]. Thus, unlike the contract for the sale of any other type of property, a contract for the sale of a retail alcoholic beverage license cannot provide that the buyer will pay a portion of the purchase price on close of escrow. This form provides for payment of the entire purchase price in cash [see P 2 of Form]. For an example and discussion of a provision for deferred payment, see § 18.200.

[ii] Time and Place of Sale

The contract should specify the time and place for the sale. It should also provide that the sale will not take place on the scheduled date unless the ABC has approved the transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see also P 3 of Form].

[iii] Application for License Transfer

The parties should agree to file an application for transfer within 90 days after execution of the contract [see P 4 of Form]. No license will be transferred if the transfer is to fulfill an agreement entered into more than 90 days preceding the date on which the transfer application is filed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076]. They should also agree to take all actions required to facilitate the transfer [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24073, 24074; see also P 4 of Form].

[iv] Escrow Holder and Instructions

When the intended transfer of the alcoholic beverage license involves a purchase price or consideration, the buyer and seller must establish an escrow before filing a transfer application with the ABC [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; see P 5 of Form]. They must appoint an escrow holder who is not a party to the transfer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074], and who meets the requirements of Chapter 1 of the Escrow Law (other than a licensed attorney who is not actively engaged in conducting an escrow agency) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1; see Fin. Code §§ 17000-17010; P 5 of Form]. However, no escrow is required if, for a transfer of an off-sale beer and wine license: (1) a corporation with a net worth on a consolidated basis of at least $5 million according to its most recent audited financial statement files a guaranty of full payment of all creditor claims; and (2) the guaranty is acceptable to the creditors of the seller [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4; see § 18.125]. For further discussion, see § 18.41[4].

Escrow instructions can be incorporated into the underlying agreement, so that the agreement itself serves as the instructions for the escrow that will be opened to implement it [see discussion in Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows]. This form sets forth the language of Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074, regarding the order in which the seller's creditors must receive payment from the deposited purchase price when the purchase price is insufficient to pay all claims in full [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074; P 6 of Form]. It should be noted, however, that every provision set forth in that section may not be applicable to the sale of the license without an accompanying sale of the business. For example, the requirement that the consideration be distributed in payment of the claims of secured creditors to the extent of the proceeds that arise from the sale of the security [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074] appears to be inapplicable, because an alcoholic beverage license cannot be used as security for an obligation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076]. For further discussion of these payment provisions, see § 18.51[2]. For a discussion of separate escrow instructions used for the sale of a license and business, and examples of additional escrow provisions that may be incorporated into this form, see § 18.201.

[v] Denial of Transfer Application

This contract of sale provides that it will become null and void upon final denial of the application for transfer of the retail alcoholic beverage license. In addition, it requires the parties to be restored, to the extent possible, to their positions prior to execution of the contract. It also specifies that either party may bring an action to recover damages when the other party's actions resulted in denial of the transfer [see P 8 of Form].

[vi] Warranties

This form sets forth a warranty that the seller is not in violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, and knows of no reason that the ABC might deny transfer of his or her license [see P 9 of Form]. It also contains a warranty that the buyer has never been convicted of a felony or violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23952 (eligibility requirements for retail alcoholic beverage license)], and knows of no reason that the ABC might deny transfer of the license to the buyer [see P 10 of Form]. For general discussion of the warranties made by the parties to a sale, Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business.

[vii] Attorneys' Fees

This form provides for attorneys' fees to be awarded to the prevailing party in litigation or arbitration [see P 13 of Form]. A litigant is not entitled to attorneys' fees unless they are agreed upon by the parties or specifically provided for by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021; see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.252].

[viii] Arbitration

This form provides that any dispute regarding the contract will be settled by arbitration [see P 14 of Form]. Arbitration provisions commonly incorporate the rules of the American Arbitration Association or the California Arbitration Act [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.250].

[ix] Standard Contractual Provisions

Most written agreements include certain standard provisions. This form contains an "entire agreement" provision [see P 11 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.270], a clause governing amendment and modification [see P 12 of Form; see also Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, §§ 77.320-77.323], a provision for the manner of giving notice [see P 15 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.294], and assignability provisions [see PP 16, 17 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.280-75.282]. It also contains a choice of law provision [see P 18 of Form; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.273]. For a list of these types of provisions, see § 18.150[3]. For other standard provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

(d) If the deposited purchase price is insufficient to pay all creditor claims in full, distribute that money in the following order:

(1) First, to the United States for claims based on income or withholding taxes, then for other tax claims not specified in Business and Professions Code Section 24049.

(2) Second, to the payment of claims for wages and other compensation earned by employees of the Seller prior to the sale, transfer, or opening of escrow.

(3) Third, to the payment of claims of secured creditors, to the extent of the proceeds that arise from the sale of the security.

(4) Fourth, to the payment of claims on mechanics' liens.

(5) Fifth, to the payment of escrow fees and claims for brokerage and attorneys' fees.

(6) Sixth, to the payment of claims for goods sold and delivered to the Seller for resale at the licensed premises; to the payment of claims for services rendered, performed, or supplied in connection with the operation of the licensed business; and to the payment of the claims of a landlord to the extent of proceeds on past due rent.

(7) Seventh, to the payment of other claims that have been reduced to court-ordered judgments, including claims for court-ordered support of a minor child.

(8) Eighth, to the payment of all other claims. If sufficient assets are not available for payment of each claim in full, payment must be made pro rata.

(e) If Seller disputes any claim filed with the Escrow Holder before he or she receives notification from the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control of its approval of the transfer application, notify the claimant of the dispute; retain the amount otherwise payable on the claim for 25 days from the time payment would otherwise be made; and if the creditor does not attach that amount, pay it to Seller.

(f) Make all payments and distributions described in this paragraph within a reasonable time after transfer of the alcoholic beverage license from Seller to Buyer.

[Continue with the following:]

Costs and Expenses

7. Buyer and Seller shall bear the costs and expenses incurred in the purchase, sale, and transfer described in this contract in the following manner:

(a) Buyer shall bear all costs, fees, and other expenses involved in securing the approval of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control to the transfer of the license to Buyer, including the cost of recording or publishing any notices required as a condition precedent to that approval.

(b) Buyer and Seller shall bear the following costs and expenses in equal proportions:

(1) The fee of the Escrow Holder.

(2) Any and all other costs and expenses required for the performance of this contract or for completion of the sale, purchase, and transfer described in this contract.

Denial of License Transfer

8. If, after Buyer and Seller have exhausted all appropriate administrative remedies, the application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license is finally denied for any reason, this contract shall be null and void and each party shall be restored, to the extent possible, to his or her position prior to execution of this contract. The parties shall pay the costs and expenses incurred in the attempted performance of this contract in the proportions set forth in Paragraph 7. However, this Paragraph shall not prevent or bar either Buyer or Seller from maintaining an action against the other to recover damages for the breach of any warranty or other provision contained in this contract, when the breach was the cause for denial of the transfer.

Seller's Warranty

9. Seller hereby warrants and represents to Buyer that Seller is not in violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, and is not aware of any reason why the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control should deny the application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license from Seller to Buyer.

Buyer's Warranty

10. Buyer hereby warrants and represents to Seller that:

(a) No governmental tribunal has convicted or accused Buyer of violating the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act.

(b) Buyer has never been convicted of a felony.

(c) Buyer is not aware of any reason why the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control should deny the application for transfer of the alcoholic beverage license from Seller to Buyer.

Entire Agreement

11. This contract constitutes the entire agreement between Buyer and Seller concerning their rights and obligations with respect to the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license. Any agreements or representations respecting the transfer of the alcoholic beverage license to Buyer that are not expressly set forth in this contract shall have no effect, except for a subsequent written modification signed by the party to be charged.

Amendment of Contract

12. This contract may be amended or modified at any time with respect to any provision by a written instrument executed by Buyer and Seller.

Attorneys' Fees

13. If Buyer or Seller brings any legal action or seeks arbitration regarding any provision of this agreement, the prevailing party in the litigation or arbitration shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees from the other party, in addition to any other relief that may be granted. This provision applies to the entire agreement. Buyer and Seller were each represented by an attorney in the negotiation and execution of the agreement.

Arbitration

14. Any dispute arising under this contract shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with [specify method of arbitration or refer to specific rules, e.g., the Commercial Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association], and judgment on the award rendered by the Arbitrator may be entered in any court having jurisdiction.

Notices

15. Any notice required or permitted to be given under this contract shall be written, and may be given by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail, first-class postage prepaid, return receipt requested. Notice shall be deemed given upon actual receipt in the case of personal delivery, or upon mailing. Mailed notices shall be addressed as follows, but each party may change address by written notice in accordance with this paragraph:

To Buyer: _____[address].

To Seller: _____[address].

Assignment

16. Neither Buyer nor Seller shall assign any right or interest arising under this contract without the prior written consent of the other.

Binding on Heirs

17. This contract shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns of Buyer and Seller.

§ 18.210 Notice of Intended Transfer of Retail Alcoholic Beverage License [ABC-227]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official notice of intended transfer of an alcoholic beverage license. It is available from any district office of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") and on the ABC's web page [www.abc.ca.gov]. Recordation of this form is a prerequisite to filing most transfer applications. For an example and discussion of principal application form, see § 18.221.

[b] Recordation Requirement

The ABC will not transfer an off-sale or on-sale general license, off-sale or on-sale beer and wine license, on-sale beer and wine public premises license, on-sale beer license, on-sale beer public premises license, or on-sale general license for seasonal business, unless the buyer or seller records this notice in the office of the county recorder of the county or counties in which the licensed premises are situated prior to filing the transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see Gov. Code § 27361 (recordation fees)]. The following types of transfers, however, are exempt from this requirement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24075; see § 18.41[2]]:

- The transfer of a license made by an executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, trustee, receiver (other than a receiver appointed for a judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630]), or other person acting in the legal or proper discharge of official duty or discharge of any trust imposed by law.

- Any transfer or assignment made for the benefit of creditors.

- The transfer to a surviving spouse of a deceased licensee (when the deceased leaves no estate to be administered); to the surviving partners of a deceased licensee; to the executor, administrator, conservator, or guardian of the estate of a licensee; to the trustee of a bankrupt estate of a licensee; to a receiver of the estate of a licensee; or to the properly appointed statutory or common law assignee for the benefit of creditors of a licensee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24071; Form ABC-227 INSTR, p. 2 (3/07)].

[c] Contents of Form

The notice of intended transfer must state all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073]:

- The name and address of the licensee (seller) [see PP 1, 3 of Form].
- The name and address of the buyer [see PP 4, 6 of Form].
- The kind of license intended to be transferred, including the name and number [see P 7 of Form].
- The address of the premises to which the license was issued [see P 2 of Form]. pauls

PRACTICE TIP:
The "License Query System" link on the ABC web page [www.abc.ca.gov] is the best source of accurate license holder and premises address information for preparing Form ABC-227. If information about persons qualified to sign for the transferring licensee(s) is not available on the ABC web page, ask the appropriate ABC district office (also shown in the License Query System) to provide the information. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

- An agreement between the buyer and seller that the consideration for the transfer of the business and license will be paid only after the ABC has approved the transfer [see statement below P 10 of Form].
- The place where the purchase price or consideration for the business and license will be paid; the amount of the purchase price or consideration; and a description of the entire consideration, including a designation of cash, checks, promissory notes, and tangible and intangible property, and the amount of each [see P 10 of Form]. If the parties have agreed that the total purchase price will be a stated sum plus the value of the stock in trade and merchandise determined pursuant to an inventory [see § 18.200, P 3], the ABC allows the parties to state the amount of the inventory as either an estimated amount or as an amount not to exceed a stated amount [see Form ABC-227 INSTR (3/07)]. If no present consideration is involved in the transfer of the license, the notice should state that no consideration is involved [see Form ABC-227 INSTR, (3/07)].

PRACTICE TIP:
The ABC has issued a bulletin reminding parties that no licensee can enter into an agreement wherein the transfer of the license acts as security for a loan or as security for the fulfillment of any agreement [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076]. If the consideration for the transfer of the license consists of a note, the parties should be sure not to characterize it as a note "secured by a security agreement" or similar language that might violate Bus. & Prof. Code § 24076 [see Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control Industry Bulletin "Notice of Intended Transfer--Form ABC 227" (01/03/02)]. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

- The name and address of the escrow holder [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074] or guarantor [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4 and discussion in § 18.41[4]], as appropriate [see P 8, 9 of Form].

[d] Filing Requirement

The buyer must file a copy of this notice, certified by the county recorder in the county where the licensed premises are located, with the application for the transfer of the license. One additional copy of this notice must also accompany the application [see Form].

[e] Relationship to Notice of Bulk Sale

Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073 is not intended to exempt the parties from complying with the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code ("Bulk Sales Division") [Com. Code § 6101 et seq.], when they are otherwise required to do so [see Form ABC-227 INSTR (3/07)]. Therefore, the parties must comply with both the notice requirement of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof Code § 24073], and the notice requirement of the Bulk Sales Division [see § 18.211]. Although the two notices may be combined into one instrument [see § 18.212], it is better practice to record separate notices to ensure full compliance with the respective requirements of each notice provision. For further discussion see § 18.41[2].

§ 18.211 Notice of Intended Bulk Sale

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the notice to creditors of an intended bulk sale required by the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code ("Bulk Sales Division") [Com. Code § 6101 et seq.]. For a basic notice of intended bulk sale and a discussion of its requirements, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.270. This notice is designed for use when an alcoholic beverage license is included in the transfer. This comment discusses only those topics specifically applicable to a transfer made under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.].

[b] Application of Bulk Sales Division

The Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 6101 et seq.] applies to a bulk sale only if (1) the seller's principal business is the sale of inventory from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell, or is that of restaurant owner [Com. Code § 6103(a)(1)]; and (2) the seller is located in California, or is located in a jurisdiction outside the United States but has its major American executive office in California, on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6103(a)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(c) (exceptions)]. A "bulk sale" is any sale outside the ordinary course of the seller's business of more than one half of the seller's inventory and equipment, as measured by the fair market value on the date of the bulk sale agreement [Com. Code § 6102(a)(3), (8), (15); see Com. Code §§ 6102(b)(2), 9102(a)(33) ("equipment" defined), 6102(b)(3), 9102(a)(48) ("inventory" defined); see § 18.10[3]].

The Bulk Sales Division has only limited application to the sale of an alcoholic beverage license and business. A transfer that is subject to and complies with the license transfer provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act ("Act") [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070-24082] is exempt from most provisions of the Bulk Sales Division [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.20[2]]. Such a transfer, however, is subject to the Bulk Sales Division's notice requirements [Com. Code § 6103(c)(15); see Com. Code § 6105(a)(1)-(4), (b)]. Thus, if the buyer fails to give notice of the sale (this form) in the prescribed time and within the prescribed time, the buyer is liable to the seller's creditors who file claims in a timely manner [Com. Code §§ 6105, 6107].

[c] Contents of Notice

The notice to creditors of the seller must state all of the following [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(a)(1)-(4); see Form]:

- That a bulk sale is about to be made.
- The names and business addresses of the seller and the buyer.
- All other business names and addresses used by the seller within the past three years, to the extent known to the buyer.
- The location and general description of the property to be transferred.
- The place and date on (or after which) the bulk sale will be consummated.

[d] Recordation and Publication Requirements

The buyer must record this notice in the office of the county recorder in the county or counties where the property to be transferred is located and, if different, where seller is located at least 12 business days before the transfer is to be consummated [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(b)(1); see Gov. Code § 27361]. The buyer must also publish the notice at least 12 business days before the transfer is to be consummated [Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(b)(2)]. The notice must be published at least once in a newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district in which the tangible assets are located and, if different, in the judicial district in which the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(2)]. If the tangible assets are located in more than one judicial district, the notice must be published in the judicial district in which a greater portion of the assets are located and, if different, the judicial district in which the seller is located [Com. Code § 6105(b); see Com. Code § 6103(a)(3)]. If no newspaper of general circulation exists in the judicial district, notice must be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the judicial district is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2)]. For further discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.270[1][c].

[e] Relationship to Notice of Intended Transfer

When the seller of a retail alcoholic beverage license and business is required to comply with both the notice requirement of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act [see § 18.200[2] (ABC-227)] and the Bulk Sales Division [this form], the two notices may be combined into one instrument [see § 18.212]. However, it is better practice to record separate notices to ensure full compliance with the respective requirements of each notice provision. For further discussion, see § 18.41[3].

§ 18.212 Combined Notice of Intended Sale of Retail Alcoholic Beverage License and Notice of Intended Bulk Sale

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of intended transfer of a retail alcoholic beverage license, combined with a notice of intended bulk sale. For an example and discussion of the notice of intended transfer pursuant to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act ("Act") [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq.], see § 18.210. For an example and discussion of a notice of intended bulk transfer pursuant to the Bulk Sales Division of the Commercial Code ("Bulk Sales Division") [Com. Code § 6101 et seq.], see § 18.211.

The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") does not provide guidance regarding the combination of these two notices, stating only that the ABC does not give advice on what will meet the Commercial Code requirements [see Form ABC-227 INSTR, p. 1 (9/99), reproduced in § 18.210[2]]. This form meets the content requirements for both types of forms [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(a)(1)-(4); see also §§ 18.210[1], 18.211[1]]. As discussed below, however, it may be simpler and cheaper to use two separate notices.

[b] Recordation and Publication Requirements

A notice of intended transfer pursuant to the Act must be recorded in the office of the county recorder in the county where the licensed premises are located [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073; see § 18.210[1]]. A notice of intended bulk sale must be recorded in the office of the county recorder in the county or counties where the property to be transferred is located and, if different, where the seller is located [see Com. Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(b)(1); § 18.211[1]]. Therefore, a combined form simplifies the recording process. However, the notice of bulk sale must also be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the judicial district where the tangible assets being transferred are located or where the greater portion of those assets are located and, if different, in the judicial district where the seller is located [Com.

Code §§ 6103(c)(15), 6105(b)]. If no newspaper of general circulation exists in the judicial district, notice must be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the judicial district is located [Com. Code § 6105(b)(2); see § 18.211[1]]. When the information required for a notice of intended transfer under the Act is added to the information required to be published under the Bulk Sales Division, the resulting form becomes much longer. Because newspapers charge by the column inch, publishing the notice also becomes much more expensive. Therefore, it may be simpler and cheaper to record separate notices under the Act and under the Bulk Sales Division [see §§ 18.210, 18.211], and then to publish only the notice of intended bulk sale [see Com. Code § 6105(b) (publication requirements); Gov. Code § 27361 (filing fees)].

[c] Number of Copies Required

When this form is used, the drafting attorney must prepare at least five copies. If the original will be recorded in two counties, the attorney should confirm that the first recorder will return the original to the buyer [see Gov. Code § 27290]. A certified copy must be filed with the ABC at the time of filing the transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073]. A copy of the notice must be submitted to the appropriate newspaper for publication according to the rules set forth in the Bulk Sales Division [see Com. Code § 6105(b); § 18.211[1]].

NOTICE OF INTENDED TRANSFER OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE AND INTENDED BULK SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that _____[name of seller], whose business address is _____, intends to make a bulk sale and to transfer a retail alcoholic beverage license to _____[name of buyer], whose business address is _____. The property intended to be transferred is now located at _____[address], and consists of: _____[give general description of property, e.g., all the stock in trade, merchandise, fixtures, equipment, alcoholic beverage license, goodwill, and trade of the business known as "_____ (name of business)"]. The alcoholic beverage license to be transferred is [specify type and number], now issued to _____[name of seller] for the premises located at _____[address].

To the knowledge of the undersigned buyer, within the past three years, _____[name of seller] has _____[used the following additional business names and addresses: _____ (list, e.g., the name "_____" at _____ [address]; the name "_____" at [address] ; and the name "_____" at _____[address]) or not used any other business names or addresses].

The intended transfer will take place on or after _____[date], at the office of _____[name], the escrow holder for the transfer, located at _____[address]. [Add if desired: Claims for debts of the seller may be filed with the escrow holder, at _____ (address). Pursuant to Business and Professions Code Section 24074, claims may be filed at any time before the escrow holder receives notice of approval of the alcoholic beverage license transfer from the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.]

The total consideration for the transfer of the business and license described in this notice (including inventory, whether actual cost, estimated cost, or a not-to-exceed amount), is $_____, consisting of:

(1) Cash in the amount of $_____;

(2) Checks in the amount of $_____;

(3) Promissory notes in the amount of $_____; and

(4) Tangible and/or intangible property in the amount of $_____.

The parties agree that the consideration for the transfer of the business and license described in this notice will be paid only after the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has approved the proposed transfer. The parties also agree and direct the above escrow holder to make payment or distribution within a reasonable time after the completion of the transfer of the license, as provided in Business and Professions Code Section 24074.

§ 18.220 License Transfer Request ("Sign Off") [ABC-211-A]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is ABC Form 211-A, which is completed by the seller in a license transfer, authorizing the transfer to the buyer and also authorizing the buyer to obtain a temporary permit pending ABC approval of the transfer. The form and the instructions are available from any district office of the ABC and also on the ABC's web page (www.abc.ca.gov).

If this form is not signed by the seller at the ABC district office, signatures on the form must be notarized. The seller's mailing address and telephone number must be included so that notices of renewal or other notices related to the license can be sent to the seller while the ABC completes the investigation for transfer of the license.

[b] Issuance of Temporary Permit

If a seller is selling the business for which the license was issued together with the retail alcoholic beverage license and the parties have agreed that the buyer will operate under a temporary permit, the seller must sign this form twice (PP 9, 15 of the form). If the seller grants permission for a temporary permit by signing in paragraph 9 of this form, the buyer may apply for a temporary permit simultaneously with the filing of the transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5; see § 18.221 (application questionnaire)]. The temporary permit allows the buyer to operate the business pending approval of the transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]. In addition, it allows the seller to close the business and file the final sales and unemployment insurance returns prior to the time the ABC approves transfer of the license [see § 18.129].

When the buyer files the application for transfer, an ABC employee will provide and complete a form for the temporary permit. If the buyer is not present at the ABC to sign the temporary permit, the buyer must execute Form ABC-282, Declaration re Temporary Permit [see § 18.223] and submit it with the application. The ABC will issue a temporary permit only if all of the following conditions have been satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]:

- The buyer has filed an application with the ABC for transfer of the license at the premises to himself or herself;

- The buyer has submitted an application for a temporary permit, together with a temporary permit fee; and

- The premises have been operated under a license within 30 days of the date the application for the temporary permit was filed.

As a condition to issuance of the temporary permit, the seller must surrender the license for the premises in accordance with the ABC's rules [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5(b)]. Those rules require the seller to surrender the license within 15 days after closing, surrendering, quitting, or abandoning the licensed premises [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 65(a)]. The seller's signature approving issuance of a temporary permit to buyer also accomplishes the surrender of the license [see Form].

If the ABC approves transfer of the license to the buyer, it will automatically cancel the surrendered license [see Form ABC-211-A INSTR p. 1 (3/00)]. If the ABC does not approve transfer of the license to the buyer, or if the parties withdraw the application to transfer, the seller may reactivate the license at the premises [see § 18.251 (reactivation of surrendered license)].

For further discussion of the temporary permit, see § 18.50[1].

[c] Seller Signatures

The form must be signed by the following [Form ABC-211-A INSTR, p. 1 (3/00)]:

- All general partners if the seller is a general partnership.

- Each general partner if the seller is a limited partnership.

- The chairperson, president or a vice president and the secretary or chief financial officer or assistant secretary or assistant treasurer if the seller is a corporation. If only one corporate officer exists, he or she must sign twice.

- All members of a limited liability company managed by its members, or by an officer authorized by the articles of organization or the operating agreement to bind the company; a manager or managers or an officer authorized by the articles of organization or the operating agreement to bind the company; or, for a limited liability company managed by a manager or managers, the form must be signed by the manager or managers or by an officer authorized by the articles of organization or the operating agreement to bind the company.

If any of the above persons is unavailable, administrators, executors, guardians, surviving partners, trustees, and receivers may sign the form on behalf of a deceased seller. Additional documents may be required [Form ABC-211-A INSTR, p. 2 (3/00)].

INSTR, p. 2 (3/00)]:

- The general partner cannot be found or located
- The general partner has taken no active part in the operation or management of the licensed business;
- The general partner has not received any income directly or indirectly from the licensed business.

PRACTICE TIP:

If there is any question about whose signatures the ABC will require, the parties should contact the district office of the ABC responsible for the license. Commentary by Lynne Carmichael.

CHAPTER 18 BUYING AND SELLING A RETAIL ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE AND BUSINESS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Basic Application Forms

8-18 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 18.221

AUTHOR: Lynne Carmichael

§ 18.221 Application Questionnaire [Form ABC-217]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides basic information to the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") about the buyer and the buyer's purchase transaction for the license and business. The ABC recommends that the application be made in person, so that any corrections in the required information can be made at the time of application. Most frequently, the seller signs the forms in advance, and the buyer then personally comes in to the ABC and signs the application in the presence of the ABC personnel. However, the ABC will accept applications filed by an attorney or other representative of the buyer.

The ABC will also accept applications by mail when personal appearance is impractical and when it is relatively certain that the papers have been completed accurately. However, the ABC will return the paperwork by mail if any corrections are necessary, thereby delaying processing of the application. If persons who sign for the buyer do not appear personally at the ABC office, the signatures must be notarized, and Form ABC 211 SIG [see § 18.222] must be submitted with the application.

[b] General Requirements

In order to transfer a retail alcoholic beverage license from one person to another, the intended buyer must apply to the ABC for a license of the type to be transferred, and must meet all of the qualifications required of an original applicant for that type of license. The seller must join the buyer in making the application [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24073, 24074; see also 4 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 60(f)-(l) (special requirements for transfers by fiduciaries and partnerships)].

[c] Applicant and Premises Information

The applicant must supply all information requested by the form. The information is provided to law enforcement agencies and may be provided to other governmental agencies [see Civ. Code § 1798.24 (f), (o) and (p); see also ABC-217 INSTR]

- Applicant: If the license will be issued to individuals or legal entities other than a general partnership, complete with individual and entity names. For general partnerships, complete with partners' names [see Item 1].

- License Type: Indicate all licenses that will be transferred. If license type is not shown, indicate Other and write in license type [see Item 2]

- Transaction Type: If the transfer involves a surviving spouse or fiduciary, check the box opposite Section 24071 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24071; see also § 18.40[3], ABC-217 INSTR], in addition to the box for person-to-person transfer [see Item 3]. If the license is being moved to a new location, or if the currently licensed premises will be enlarged or remodeled so that the entrance is in a new location, also check the box opposite premises-to-premises transfer [see § 18.40[10]].

- Applicant Mailing Address: If applicant is not occupying the licensed premises but would like ABC correspondence to go to the premises address when the transfer is completed, provide a mailing address and check the box next to Temporary [see Items 9 and 10].

- ABC License Cost: This amount [Item 11] must be transferred from Item 32a on the reverse of the form. Information about the fair market value of licenses in the county of the license to be transferred can be obtained from alcoholic beverage license brokers or from the local office of the ABC. In certain circumstances, the consideration that can be paid for the license is limited [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24079; see also § 18.30[4]]

- Subtotal: This amount [Item 12] must match the total amount paid for the license, furniture/fixtures, goodwill/non-compete covenant, and leasehold improvements, as indicated in Item 32f on the reverse of the form.

- Felony Convictions and ABC Act Violations: These questions are only answered for persons named as licensee in Item 1 [Items 13 and 14]. Officers, partners, managers, etc. of the licensees named in Item 1 answer a similar question on Form 208A, Individual Personal Affidavit [see § 18.224].

[d] Investment Information

Every application for the transfer of an on-sale or off-sale general license must indicate whether the consideration, if any, to be paid to the transferor includes payment for any or all of the following and must include the actual amount paid for [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24080]:

- Inventory.

- Fixtures.

- Transfer of the license.

The consideration shown may be the entire consideration paid for real property and the licensed business or the consideration for the "business and ABC license" [see ABC-227 INSTR 1 (9/99); see also § 18.41[2]].

In addition, Item 32 of the Form requires information about any consideration paid for goodwill or a non-compete covenant or for leasehold improvements [Item 32d and e]. The amounts in Item 32a-e representing the subtotal in Item 32f should equal the amount shown on the ABC-227 Notice of Intended Transfer [see § 18.210] and the amount transferred to Item 12. The total purchase price or consideration for certain on-sale and off-sale general licenses is limited by statute [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070(d), (e), 24079]. For discussion of the statutory limitations on the purchase price of on-sale and off-sale general licenses, see § 18.30[4].

[e] Investment Details

The form requires disclosure of the amount of cash invested (including loans and lines of credit) and the source of the cash, as well as non-cash consideration for the transfer of the license and the business [Item 33]. These disclosures must match the Notice of Intended Transfer [ABC-227; see § 18.210] as well as the Individual Financial Affidavit information [ABC-208-B; see § 18.224] provided by individual licensees and investors.

[f] Bank Accounts

If bank account information is not known at the time of completing the application paperwork, the applicant may provide this information in a separate letter to the ABC investigator when it is available [Item 34].

[g] Notarization

Only one applicant signature is required on this form. It must be notarized unless the form is signed at the ABC office [Item 35].

[h] Filing Fees

The buyer must pay a transfer fee when filing the application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(c)]. The fee for transfer of a retail license from a licensee to another person is 50 percent of the annual fee for the license, but will not exceed $1,250. The fee for transfer of a retail license from or to the persons set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24071 is $50 [Bus. & Prof Code § 24071; see § 18.41[8]]. If no original fee is set by law, the fee is $100 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23320 (schedule of fees)]. The fee for transfer of a license from one premises to another is $100 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(c); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24082 (exception for premises destroyed by fire or act of God)]. The fee for transfer of an on-sale or off-sale retail license from the licensee, to the licensee and his or her mother, father, son, or daughter when no consideration is given for the transfer, is half of the regular fee for transfer of a license from a licensee to another person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24072(e)].

[i] Temporary Permit

If the business for which the license was issued is being transferred in the same transaction, the buyer may apply for a temporary permit simultaneously with the filing of the transfer application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24045.5]. The ABC will provide a form for the temporary permit. By securing a temporary permit, the buyer will be able to carry on the licensed business pending the processing of the transfer application [see § 18.50]. For further discussion, see §§ 18.220 and 18.223.

[j] Processing Application

After the buyer has filed the application for transfer, provided the accompanying documents, and paid the transfer fee, the ABC must send a copy of the application (1) to the sheriff, chief of police, and district attorney of the locality in which the premises are located; and (2) to the board of supervisors of the county if the premises are within an unincorporated area, or to the city council or other governing body of the city if the premises are within an incorporated area [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987]. The ABC cannot transfer the license for at least 30 days after mailing those notices [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23987], and the usual waiting period is 55-65 days.

§ 18.224 Individual Personal Affidavit [Form ABC-208A]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, Form ABC-208A, is used to provide the ABC with personal information about the following persons:

- Sole owner licensees.
- Officers, a majority of the directors, and persons who hold 10 percent or more of the capital or stock of a corporation.
- General partners of general partnerships.
- General partners and persons who hold 10 percent or more of the ownership interests of limited partnerships.

- All managers and 10 percent or more non-managing members of manager-managed limited liability companies.
- Trustees of trusts.
- Spouses of sole owner licensees, limited liability company members, and managers and 10 percent or more owners of any entity.

The ABC investigates the persons who complete this form to confirm their qualifications to hold an interest in an alcoholic beverage license. Disqualifying factors for retail license applicants include impermissible interests in manufacturers or wholesalers of alcoholic beverages [see Bus. & Prof Code §§ 25500-25512] and recent prosecutions or convictions for criminal offenses. The ABC may grant a license to a convicted felon who is rehabilitated [ABC-217 INSTR, p. 2 (2/03)].

[b] Interests in Other Alcoholic Beverage Licenses

In the individual completing the form has any current interest, direct or indirect, in any alcoholic beverage licensed business, or has ever been a licensee or officer or director of a corporate license, inside or outside California, this information must be disclosed. If the space is insufficient, provide the information on an attachment [Item 19].

Persons completing this form must also provide information about any interests in alcoholic beverage licenses that have been denied, suspended, revoked or had an offer in compromise accepted or rejected. This information also may be included on an attachment to the form [Item 20].

[c] Criminal History

The persons completing this form must disclose forfeited bail, convictions, fines, periods of probation and active prosecutions for criminal offenses. All incidents except minor traffic offenses must be disclosed. Even actions that were the subject of subsequent expungement must be disclosed, unless an order sealing records under Pen. Code § 1203.45 has been issued. The ABC may grant a license to a convicted felon who is rehabilitated [ABC-217 INSTR, p.2 (2/03)].

[d] Financial Contributions

The persons completing this form must disclose whether they are making any financial contribution to the business. Investors in the buyer who hold 10 percent or more of the ownership interests are required to disclose the source of their investment. Persons making a financial contribution must check Box B in Item 23 and complete a Personal Financial Affidavit (ABC-208B) [§ 18.225]. Spouses of persons completing a Personal Financial Affidavit may check Box D in Item 23 and are not required to complete a Personal Financial Affidavit.

§ 18.240 Notice of Application for Change In Ownership of Alcoholic Beverage License [ABC-207-D]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, Form ABC-207-D, is the official notice of application to sell alcoholic beverages, for use by applicants for on-sale licenses only. It is available at any district office of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") and is prepared by the ABC at the time of filing.

Form ABC-207-D is used when there is a change in ownership of an on-sale license. When an on-sale license is originally issued to (i.e., to its first owner), Form ABC-207-A, Notice of Application to Sell Alcoholic Beverages, is used. The latter form, which is not reproduced in this chapter, is identical to form ABC-207-D, other than the caption.

[b] Publishing Notice of Application-On-Sale Licenses

Any applicant for the transfer of an on-sale retail license must publish the notice set forth in this form in a newspaper of general circulation (other than a legal or professional trade publication) that is published in the city where the licensed premises are located, or in the nearest such newspaper of general circulation if the licensed premises are not within a city [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(a)]. The notice must be published once in the newspaper within 10 days after the applicant has filed the transfer application [see Gov. Code § 6061].

The applicant must also file an affidavit of publication with the district office of the ABC at which he or she filed the application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(a)]. The newspaper generally files an affidavit directly with the ABC after publication. An ABC employee will prepare the affidavit if the buyer brings in proof that the notice has been published as required.

[c] Areas Having "Undue Concentration of Licenses"

If the license being transferred is an on-sale or off-sale license for premises located in a census tract that the ABC determines has an undue concentration of licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958 (ABC may deny license if it would result in undue concentration)], this notice must also be published once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation (other than a legal or trade publication) in the city where the premises are located, or in the nearest such newspaper if the licensed premises are not within a city [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23986(b); see Gov. Code § 6063]. An undue concentration of licenses, in the case of on-sale retail license applications, exists when the ratio of on-sale retail licenses to population in the census tract or census division in which the applicant premises are located exceeds the ratio of on-sale retail licenses to population in the county in which the applicant premises are located [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958.4(a)(2); 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.3(a)]. Although the ABC may deny an application if issuance would result in undue concentration of licenses [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23958; see also § 18.127], it will nonetheless issue a license despite undue concentration under these criteria if the applicant is able to show that public convenience or necessity would be served by issuance [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 61.3(a)].

§ 18.241 Affidavit of Posting Notice of Application [ABC-293]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, Form ABC-293, is used by the applicant to verify the date on which the posting notice was posted. It is supplied to the applicant, along with the posting notice, upon acceptance of the application to transfer at the district office of the Department of Alcoholic Beverages ("ABC").

[b] Posting Requirement

After filing an application to engage in the sale of alcoholic beverages at any premises [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 60(b); see also § 18.221 (ABC-217)], the buyer must post on those premises Form ABC-207-B, "Public Notice of Application for Ownership Change" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109]. This requirement also applies to a buyer who has filed an application for premises that are to be constructed, or are in the process of construction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24044 (license for premises under construction)]. The ABC provides the notice, which is two feet long and 14 inches wide, at the time the buyer files the transfer application [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109].

The buyer must post the notice in a conspicuous place which can be readily observed by ordinary passersby at or near the entrance to the premises [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109]. If the premises are a vacant lot, the buyer first must mount the notice on heavy cardboard or wood backing, and affix it to a post or stake of permanent material. The buyer then must place it at the midpoint of the largest boundary of the lot fronting on a public thoroughfare, not more than 10 feet from the sidewalk (or roadway if there is no sidewalk), so that it is readily visible from the sidewalk (or roadway) [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 109].

[c] Affidavit Requirement

Because the ABC cannot pursue its investigation and will not issue a license for the premises unless the buyer has complied with the posting requirement, he or she must notify the ABC of the date the notice is first posted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 23985]. Posting should be accomplished within 5 days from the application date, but the parties may wait longer to post. Any delay in posting will delay the ABC's investigation [see Form].

This form is a statement by the applicant for a retail license transfer (the buyer) that the consideration for the transfer has been deposited into escrow. It is prepared by district office of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control ("ABC") at the time of filing the application.

[b] Filing Requirement

If the buyer has applied for transfer of a retail license limited in numbers [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23815-23827 (limitation on number of licensed premises); § 18.30], off-sale beer and wine license, on-sale beer and wine license, on-sale beer public premises license, or on-sale general license for seasonal business [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24073], he or she must also file a statement under penalty of perjury that the purchase price set forth in the escrow agreement [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074] has been deposited with the escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3(a); see Section I of Form]. The escrow holder must confirm the information, and certify that disbursement of the consideration will not establish a preference for any creditor of the seller except as provided by law [see Section II of Form].

The buyer must transmit the statement to the ABC within 30 days after the transfer application was filed [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3]. Although the ABC may extend the 30-day period for good cause, it will not transfer the license until it has received the statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3]. Upon filing this statement, the buyer must also give copies to the seller and escrow holder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.3(a)]. The ABC will return the form to the escrow holder on the day the license is transferred [see Section III of Form].

[c] Exception to Filing Requirement

A buyer is not required to open an escrow and file this form if (1) the transfer involves an off-sale beer and wine license, and (2) a corporation files a guaranty of full, prompt, and faithful payment of all claims of bona fide creditors of the seller that is acceptable to the creditors [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24074.3(b), 24074.4]. The guarantor corporation must have a net worth on a consolidated basis of not less than $5 million according to its most recent audited financial statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4(b)]. The ABC will not transfer the license until the guarantor has paid all creditors' claims in full in cash or by certified check in a manner acceptable to the creditors, and has filed a statement under penalty of perjury that all conditions of the transfer have been satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.4(a)].

§ 18.243 Notice to Creditors Regarding Distribution

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to creditors that the amount of cash deposited by the buyer in escrow is insufficient to pay in full all of the claims timely filed with the escrow holder. For an example of a similar form used for the sale of a business that does not include a retail alcoholic beverage license, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.271.

[b] Required Contents

Not more than 10 days after the retail alcoholic beverage license has been transferred, and prior to distribution of the assets deposited by the buyer into escrow, the escrow holder must advise each creditor who has filed a timely claim whether or not there are sufficient assets in the escrow to pay all creditors in full [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1]. If the assets in escrow are sufficient to pay all creditors in full, the notice must specify the date on or before which payment will be made. If the assets are insufficient to pay all creditors in full, the notice must state all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074.1]:

- The total assets deposited into escrow and the nature of each asset.
- The name of each creditor who filed a claim against the escrow, and the amount of each claim.
- The amounts the escrow holder proposes to pay or set aside for each creditor.
- The date on or before which the escrow holder will distribute the assets to creditors.

For a discussion of the order of priority for payment of the available funds [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074], see § 18.51[2].

§ 18.250 Application Withdrawal [ABC-209]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is used by the buyer or the seller, or both jointly, to withdraw a pending application for transfer prior to the ABC's approval of the transfer. If only one party files to withdraw the application, the ABC will notify the other party and wait 10 days before processing the withdrawal [ABC Instructions, Interpretations and Procedures, Vol. I, p. L 159 (6/2/82)]]. This form also authorizes payment of the refund of application fees to the person designated in the form. One fourth of the license fee paid (up to a maximum of $100) is not returned to the applicant [Bus. & Prof Code § 23959].

[b] Protests

If the parties withdraw the application because of a protest or protests, the applicant may not refile an application for the same premises for one year from the date of withdrawal [Bus. & Prof Code § 24013.1].

§ 18.251 License Action Request [ABC-231]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, Form ABC-231, is used, among other uses, to reinstate a license surrendered so that a temporary permit could be issued to a potential buyer. If the buyer or seller, or both, withdraw the application to transfer and the seller wishes to resume operation of the business, the seller must submit this form.

[b] License Reinstatement

If the parties withdraw the application or the ABC denies the application for license transfer [see § 18.52[1]], the licensee must request the return of his or her license to avoid revocation. The ABC may reinstate a surrendered license pursuant to a request by the licensee made at least 10 days prior to the date of reinstatement [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 65(c)]. As a condition of reinstatement, the licensee must certify that (1) no change of ownership of the licensed business has occurred; and (2) the premises possess the same qualifications required for the original issuance of the license [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 65(c)].

[c] License Revocation

A surrendered license may be revoked if it is not transferred to another person or premises, or redelivered pursuant to a license action request with resumption of licensed activity, within one year of the surrender date [4 Cal. Code Reg. § 65(d)]. If the license was surrendered so that a temporary permit could be issued to an intended buyer, the surrender date will be the date of denial of the application for license transfer [see Form]. The ABC, however, may extend the one-year period for good cause if [see 4 Cal. Code Reg. § 65(d)]:

- An application for transfer of the surrendered license is pending;

- Litigation other than that involving disciplinary action by the ABC is pending;

- The premises for which the license was issued and for which the license is sought to be redelivered were destroyed due to circumstances beyond the control of the licensee by fire, flood, or other natural catastrophe, or as part of an urban renewal program, and the licensee makes an affirmative showing of good faith efforts to obtain reconstruction; or

- The Director of the ABC finds a case of undue hardship warranting an extension.
