The landlord may give to the tenant a single notice of belief of abandonment and of right to reclaim the abandoned property [Civ. Code §§ 1991 (property left on residential premises), 1993.09 (property left on commercial premises)]; or he or she may give separate notices of each [see Civ. Code § 1951.3 (belief of abandonment of leased premises); Civ. Code §§ 1983, 1984 (tenant's right to reclaim personal property left at residential premises), 1983.03, 1983.04 (tenant's right to reclaim personal property left at commercial premises)]. Although the notice of right to reclaim abandoned personal property is ordinarily given only after the tenancy has terminated and the tenant has vacated the premises, it may be given at the same time as a notice of belief of abandonment, even though the tenancy does not terminate until the end of the period specified in the notice of belief of abandonment [Civ. Code §§ 1991, 1993.09; see Civ. Code § 1983(a), 1993.03(a) (notice given after abandonment)].

This form is not appropriate for use when the lease was executed before July 1, 1971, or when the lease was executed after that date, but its terms were fixed by an agreement executed before July 1, 1971. § 35B.216 Notice of Public Sale of Tenant's Personal Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, a notice to be published in a newspaper, announces a landlord's public sale of personal property left behind by a tenant at the termination of a tenancy. It may be used by a landlord who has elected to dispose of property left behind by a tenant under the optional statutory procedure for disposing of a former tenant's personal property [see Civ. Code §§ 1980 et seq. (property left at residential premises), 1983 et seq. (property left at commercial premises); see also § 35B.214]. It may also be used by a keeper with whom personal property has been left [Civ. Code §§ 1980(a), (f), 1981(a), 1993(b), (g), 1993.02; see Ch. 102, Bailments].

This form contains the following three alternative versions of the required notice:

- The first alternative is to be used to advertise the sale of property left behind by a single tenant or the tenants of a single unit.

- The second alternative covers the sale of property left by various tenants in a single building or complex.

- The third alternative covers the sale of property left by various tenants at various locations.

Before selling property left behind by former tenants, a landlord must give notice of the sale by publication in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the sale is to be held [Civ. Code §§ 1988(b), 1993.07(b)

]. The notice must be published once weekly for two consecutive weeks [Gov. Code § 6066]. Two publications in a paper published at least once weekly, with at least five days intervening between the two publication dates, is sufficient [Civ. Code §§ 1988(b), 1993.07(b); Gov. Code § 6066]. The first publication may not be made before the last of the dates on which the tenant or owner is permitted to reclaim the property in accordance with the written notice required to be sent to the tenant or owner [Civ. Code §§ 1983(a), 1988(b), 1993.03(a), 1993.07(b); see §§ 35B.214, 35B.215]. The last publication may not be less than five days before the sale is to be held [Civ. Code § 1988(b), 1993.07(b)].

[c] Contents of Notice

The notice of sale must give the time and place of the sale, and must describe the property to be sold in a manner reasonably adequate to permit the owner to identify it [Civ. Code §§ 1988(b), 1993.03(b)]. The notice may describe all or a portion of the property [Civ. Code §§ 1988(b), 1993.03(b)]. The landlord will not be protected from liability with regard to any property not described in the notice, except that the contents of a container that is locked, fastened, or tied in a manner that deters immediate access to its contents need not be described [Civ. Code §§ 1988(b), 1993.03(b)]. However, the container itself must be described, and the fact that the contents cannot be ascertained must be stated [Civ. Code §§ 1988(b), 1993.03(b)].

§ 35B.217 Tenant's Request for Return of Personal Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a request by a tenant for the return of personal property left on the residential premises formerly occupied by the tenant. This method of reclaiming personal property is an alternative to the optional statutory procedure for use by the landlord to dispose of personal property remaining on the premises after a tenancy has been terminated and the premises vacated [Civ. Code § 1965(c); see Civ. Code §§ 1980-1991 (landlord's optional statutory procedure); see also §§ 35B.51, 35B.214].

This remedy is not exclusive and will not preclude either the landlord or the tenant from pursuing any other remedy provided by law [Civ. Code § 1965(f)].

[b] Limitations on Use of Form

This form and its implementing procedure may not be used when either of the following circumstances exist [Civ. Code § 1965(c)]:

(1) The personal property's disposition has been initiated or completed in accordance with the alternative optional statutory procedure initiated by the landlord [see Civ. Code §§ 1980-1991; see also §§ 35B.52, 35B.214]; or

(2) The relevant tenancy was in a hotel, motel, or residence club where the innkeeper retained a right of access to the dwelling unit or provided certain services [see Civ. Code § 1940(b)].

§ 35B.230 Three-Day Notice to Pay Rent or Quit

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice to pay rent or quit the premises. It is to be delivered by a lessor to a tenant who, before the lease's termination period, continues in possession of leased property after defaulting in the rental payments. The notice is part of the unlawful detainer proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1161-1179a] and is a condition precedent to the filing of a complaint for unlawful detainer [Briggs v. Electronic Memories & Magnetics Corp. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 900, 905, 126 Cal. Rptr. 34] .

The purpose of the notice is to give the tenant the opportunity to pay rent and retain possession of the premises; and if payment is made within the three-day notice period, the right to possession remains with the tenant as if there had been no default [Briggs v. Electronic Memories & Magnetics Corp. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 900, 905, 126 Cal. Rptr. 34] . This notice to pay rent or quit is appropriate for use even if the landlord has previously given the tenant a notice of belief of abandonment [see §§ 35B.212, 35B.215], since that notice does not satisfy the notice requirements of an unlawful detainer proceeding [Civ. Code § 1951.3(g)].

For further discussion of the unlawful detainer procedure, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer (Matthew Bender). For coverage of unlawful detainer actions, including numerous forms of complaint for unlawful detainer, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender).

[b] Contents of Notice

[i] Rent Owed

Since one of the purposes of this three-day written notice is to point out specifically to the tenant the amount of rent due, and to give the tenant the opportunity to pay the rent within the time allowed by law [see Haydell v. Silva (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 20, 23, 19 Cal. Rptr. 705] , it is essential that the notice (1) state no more than the amount of rent due, and (2) be phrased in the alternative, that is, demanding that the tenant either pay the rent due or quit the premises [see Werner v. Sargeant (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 833, 837, 264 P.2d 217] . "Rent," for these purposes, refers only to the periodic payment for occupancy labeled in a lease as rent and not to other duties owed to the landlord, including obligations to pay real estate taxes, a proportionate share of the cost of maintaining common areas, or other monies [Cal-American Income Property Fund IV v. Ho (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 583, 586, 207 Cal. Rptr. 532] .

A three-day notice that demands payment of more than one year's rent is insufficient to support an unlawful detainer action because it does not correctly state "the amount which is due" and because it is not served within "one year after the rent becomes due" [see [c], below], both of which are required under Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2) [Bevill v. Zoura (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 694, 697-698, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635] .

In regard to commercial real property, Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1 provides that a landlord may estimate the rent in a Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2) notice under certain defined circumstances [see [e], below].

In addition to the amount due, the three-day notice must set forth the name, telephone number, and address of the person to whom the rent payment is to be made [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. If the payment may be made personally, the notice must state the usual days and hours that person will be available to receive the payment or the number of an account and the name and street address of a financial institution into which the rental payment may be made, provided that the institution is located within five miles of the rental property [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. If the address for payment does not allow for personal delivery, it will be conclusively presumed that on the mailing of any rent or notice to the owner by the tenant to the name and address provided, the notice or rent is deemed received by the owner on the date posted, if the tenant can show proof of mailing to the name and address provided by the owner [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. If an electronic funds transfer procedure has been previously established, the notice must state that payment may be made pursuant to that procedure [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)].

The tenant's failure to pay rent does not automatically result in the leasehold's forfeiture, but merely gives the lessor the right to terminate the lease in accordance with set statutory provisions [Lamey v. Masciotra (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 78 Cal. Rptr. 344 ; see Civ. Code § 791 (landlord's right of reentry); see also [g], below].

For a forfeiture to occur, the notice must contain wording that warns the tenant that nonpayment during the three-day period will cost the tenant his or her tenancy rights [Briggs v. Electronic Memories & Magnetics Corp. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 900, 905, 126 Cal. Rptr. 34] . If the notice contains the appropriate forfeiture language, a landlord may refuse to accept the payment of rent after the three-day period expires and proceed to terminate the tenant's possession. However, if there is no forfeiture provision, a tenant is not foreclosed from paying the rent after the expiration of the three-day period and retaining possession [Briggs v. Electronic Memories & Magnetics Corp. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 900, 905, 126 Cal. Rptr. 34] . An unlawful detainer judgment declaring the lease's forfeiture will not relieve the tenant from liability for damages for the lease's termination in accordance with Civ. Code § 1951.2 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.5].

[c] Service of Notice

Except in the case of tenants of agricultural lands [see [h], below] the notice to pay rent or quit may be served at any time within one year after the rent becomes due [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. The landlord may serve the notice by one of the following methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 1162]:

- By delivering a copy to the tenant personally;

- If the tenant is absent from his or her residence and usual place of business, by (1) leaving a copy with some person of suitable age and discretion at either place and (2) sending a copy through the mail addressed to the tenant at his or her place of residence; or

- If the tenant's places of residence and business cannot be ascertained, or a person of suitable age or discretion cannot be found at either place, by affixing a copy in a conspicuous place on the property, delivering a copy to a person residing on the property (if one can be found), and mailing a copy to the tenant at the leased premises.

PRACTICE TIP:

Obtain Personal Service of Notice. The law "abhors a forfeiture." In addition, since judges are loathed to terminate a tenancy in which the tenant has moneys invested in an established business, they will strictly construe service statutes. Therefore, it is always best to obtain personal service of any "cure" notice. This does not mean that other modes of service should not be simultaneously utilized as well. Often a tenant who is dodging personal service will let his or her guard down upon being served in another manner, thus leaving the tenant open to personal service. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[d] Subtenants

The three-day notice normally must be served, in the manner specified by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1162; see also [c], above], on any subtenant in actual occupation of the premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. However, the landlord may maintain an unlawful detainer proceeding against the tenant without serving the subtenant if both the tenant and the subtenant occupy the premises [Chinese Hosp. Foundation Fund v. Patterson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 627, 632, 81 Cal. Rptr. 795] . However, if the landlord wants to evict both the tenant and the subtenant, the subtenant must be served with a separate notice that complies with the statutory requirements, rather than with a copy of the notice that is directed to and served on the tenant [Briggs v. Electronic Memories & Magnetics Corp. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 900, 904-905, 126 Cal. Rptr. 34] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Service of Notice on Subtenants. Note, however, that the notice must be served on the subtenant only if the breach is curable. By Myron Moskovitz.

PRACTICE TIP:

Serve Everyone! Serve everyone in occupation of the premises or who might have a colorable claim to the possession or control of the premises, and serve them in all ways and often. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[e] Requirements Affecting Commercial Property

[i] "Commercial Real Property" Defined

Special requirements govern the application of Code Civ. Proc. § 1161 to commercial real property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1]. For these purposes, "commercial real property" means all real property in California except the following:

- Dwelling units [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(d); see also Civ. Code § 1940(c) ("dwelling unit" defined)];

- Mobilehomes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(d); see also Civ. Code § 798.3 ("mobilehome" defined)]; and

- Recreational vehicles [see Civ. Code §§ 799.24(a), 799.29 ("recreational vehicle" defined); Health & Safety Code § 18862.39 ("recreational vehicle park" defined)].

[ii] Rights and Liabilities of Tenant

Under the special requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1, if the amount stated in the three-day notice provided to the tenant pursuant to statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)] is clearly identified by the notice as an estimate, and the amount claimed is not, in fact, correct, the tenant will be subject to judgment for possession. The tenant will also be subject to the actual amount of rent and other sums found to be due if the court in the unlawful detainer action determines that (1) rent is owing and (2) the amount claimed in the notice was "reasonably estimated" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(a); see [iii], below]. However, the tenant will be deemed the prevailing party in the action if both of the following conditions are met [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(a)]:

- On receiving a three-day notice claiming an amount identified by the notice as an estimate, the tenant tenders to the landlord, within the three-day period required by the notice, the amount that the tenant has reasonably estimated to be due; and

- At trial it is determined that the amount of rent then due was the amount tendered by the tenant or a lesser amount.

If the court determines that the amount tendered by the tenant was less than the amount due, but was reasonably estimated [see [iii], below], the tenant will retain the right to possession if the tenant pays to the landlord within five days of the judgment's effective date all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(a)]:

- The amount previously tendered if it had not been previously accepted;

- The difference between the amount tendered and the amount determined by the court to be due; and

- Any other sums ordered by the court.

[iii] Amount of Rent Claimed as "Reasonably Estimated"

The amount of rent claimed or tendered is presumed reasonably estimated if it is no more than 20 percent more or less than the amount judicially determined to be due [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(e)]. However, if the rent due is contingent on information primarily within the knowledge of one party to the lease and that information has not been furnished to, or has not been accurately furnished to, the other party, the court will consider that fact in determining the reasonableness of the amount of rent claimed or tendered [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Estimate Procedure. If a commercial lease provides for a rent in a fixed amount, there is no need to use the estimate procedure allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1. That section is designed for leases providing that rent shall be determined by a percentage of sales. Here, the landlord cannot be sure of the correct rent, because knowledge of the amount of sales is in the hands of the tenant. The estimate should usually be based on the landlord's knowledge of past sales during a similar time period. By Myron Moskovitz.

[f] Acceptance of Partial Payments of Rent

If the landlord accepts a partial payment of rent, including any payment of estimated payment of rent tendered for commercial real property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(a); see also [e], above], without any further notice to the tenant, the landlord may commence and pursue an unlawful detainer action to recover the difference between the amount demanded in that notice and the payment actually received [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(b)]. In that case, the complaint must describe the partial payments accepted by the landlord [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(b)].

If the landlord accepts a partial payment of rent after filing a complaint for unlawful detainer, and the landlord provides actual notice to the tenant that acceptance of the partial rent payment does not constitute a waiver of any rights (including the right the landlord may have to recover the property's possession), the landlord's acceptance of the partial payment is evidence only of that payment, and does not constitute a waiver of any rights or defenses of any of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1166 (requirements governing complaint)]. The landlord will be entitled to amend the complaint to reflect the partial payment without necessitating the filing of an additional answer or other responsive pleading by the tenant, and without prior leave of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(c)]. Further, the amendment will not delay the matter from proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161.1(c)].

[g] Landlord's Rights of Reentry

The landlord's summary reentry on the premises for the nonpayment of rent or other breach is not warranted, even though a lease clause expressly authorizes reentry, unless the statutory three-day written notice is properly served on the tenant [Civ. Code § 791; Lamey v. Masciotra (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 78 Cal. Rptr. 344] . A landlord who does not properly serve the required three-day notice is guilty of forcible entry and detainer [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 605-608, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1159 (forcible entry defined), 1160 (forcible detainer defined)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Right of Reentry and Use of Self-Help. It should be noted, however, that service of the three-day notice does not permit a landlord to use self-help. Only the sheriff may retake possession, after judgment and writ of possession are issued. By Myron Moskovitz.

[h] Holdover of Agricultural Land Tenancy

A tenant of agricultural lands who holds over and retains possession for more than 60 days after expiration of the term without any demand of possession or notice to quit by the landlord or the landlord's successor in estate, is deemed to be holding by permission of the landlord or successor in estate and is entitled to hold under the terms of the lease for another full year [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. Under these circumstances, the tenant will not be guilty of an unlawful detainer during that year, and the holding over is construed as a consent on the tenant's part to hold for another year [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)].

§ 35B.231 Three-Day Notice to Perform Covenant or Quit

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, a notice to perform a covenant or quit the premises, is to be delivered by the landlord to a tenant who, during the lease's term, continues in possession of the leased premises after failing to perform a condition or covenant of the lease (other than the covenant to pay rent) that can still be performed. The notice requires the tenant to perform the condition or covenant or to surrender the premises. The landlord may not maintain an unlawful detainer action based on such a breach, unless the landlord serves this notice on the tenant and on any subtenant in possession of the premises and the recipient (or certain other persons) fails to perform the condition or covenant within that three-day period [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3)].

PRACTICE TIP:
Service of Notice on Subtenants. A landlord may maintain an unlawful detainer action against a tenant even if the landlord failed to serve a subtenant. However, a resulting judgment will not give the landlord possession from the subtenant. Thus, the landlord had better serve the subtenant [see [e], below]. By Myron Moskovitz.

For detailed coverage of unlawful detainer actions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer (Matthew Bender).

[b] Distinguished From Other Three-Day Notices

The landlord must use a different three-day notice if the unlawful detainer action is based on any of the following:

- A default in the payment of rent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2); see also § 35B.230];

- An incurable violation of a lease covenant, that is, a violation of a lease covenant that cannot afterward be performed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3); see also § 35B.232]; or

- Any of the following acts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(4); see also § 35B.232]:

  (1) Violating a lease covenant or condition by assigning the lease, subletting the leased premises, or committing waste on the premises;

  (2) Maintaining, committing, or permitting the maintenance or commission of a nuisance on the premises; or

  (3) Using the premises for an unlawful purpose.

[c] Contents of Notice

[i] Performance of Covenant

The notice must be phrased in the alternative, demanding that the tenant either perform the defaulted covenant or surrender possession of the premises [Feder v. Wreden Packing & Provision Co., Inc. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 665, 671, 265 P. 386] . It must also specifically describe the covenant that has not been performed [Feder v. Wreden Packing & Provision Co., Inc. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 665, 671, 265 P. 386] .

For a forfeiture to occur, the notice must state that nonperformance of the covenant within three days will cause the tenant to forfeit the lease [Code Civ. Proc. § 1174(a)].

Since the failure or neglect to perform a condition or covenant may result in the lease's forfeiture, any covenant or condition involving a forfeiture by the lessee must be strictly construed against the lessor [Civ. Code § 1442]. Consequently, trivial breaches will not support a forfeiture [McNeece v. Wood (1928) 204 Cal. 280, 285, 267 P. 877] , nor will forfeiture result when the tenant has in good faith substantially complied with the covenant's command [Knight v. Black (1912) 19 Cal. App. 518, 526, 126 P. 512] .

An unlawful detainer judgment declaring the lease's forfeiture will not relieve the lessee from liability for damages for the lease's termination under Civ. Code § 1951.2 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.5].

[d] Service of Notice

The notice must be given in the manner prescribed by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1162; see also § 35B.230[1][c]].

[e] Subtenants

The three-day notice normally must be served in the manner specified by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 on any subtenant in actual occupation of the premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3)]. However, the landlord may maintain an unlawful detainer proceeding against the tenant without serving the subtenant if both the tenant and the subtenant occupy the premises [Chinese Hosp. Foundation Fund v. Patterson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 627, 632, 81 Cal. Rptr. 795] . If the landlord wants to evict both the tenant and the subtenant, however, the subtenant must be served with a separate notice that complies with the statutory requirements, rather than with a copy of the notice that is directed to and served on the tenant [Briggs v. Electronic Memories & Magnetics Corp. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 900, 904-905, 126 Cal. Rptr. 34] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Obtain Personal Service of Notice. The law "abhors a forfeiture." In addition, since judges are loathed to terminate a tenancy in which the tenant has moneys invested in an established business, they will strictly construe service statutes. Therefore, it is always best to obtain personal service of any "cure" notice. This does not mean that other modes of service should not be simultaneously utilized as well. Often a tenant who is dodging personal service will let his or her guard down upon being served in another manner, thus leaving the tenant open to personal service. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[f] Statute of Limitations

The notice to perform a covenant or quit may be served more than one year after the breach [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3)]. Further, an unlawful detainer action based on the breach of a covenant to pay money other than rent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3)] is not subject to the one-year time limitation governing unlawful detainer actions based on failure to pay rent, leaving the ordinary statute of limitations to apply [Cal- American Income Property Fund IV v. Ho (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 583, 585-586, 207 Cal. Rptr. 532 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2) (one year statute of limitations for unlawful detainer action based on failure to pay rent)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Waiver and Estoppel. Although a notice may be served more than one year after the breach, if the landlord has accepted rent during this period with knowledge of the breach, he/she will have waived the right to recover possession because of this breach--unless a lease provision says that acceptance of rent with knowledge of the breach is not a waiver. Even in this situation, the landlord might be estopped from claiming possession based on this breach if the tenant reasonably relied on the landlord's actions. By Myron Moskovitz.

[g] Landlord's Right of Reentry

When the lease contains a provision granting the landlord the right of reentry for breach of a condition or covenant of the lease, the landlord may reenter after the right has accrued, but only after giving the tenant three days' written notice, as provided by statute [Civ. Code § 791; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1161, 1162 (three-day notice requirements); Lamey v. Masciotra (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 78 Cal. Rptr. 344 ; see Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 608, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 (regarding breach of covenant to pay rent)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Right of Reentry and Use of Self-Help. Note, however, that service of the three-day notice does not permit a landlord to use self-help. Only the sheriff may retake possession, after judgment and writ of possession are issued. By Myron Moskovitz.

§ 35B.232 Three-Day Notice to Quit

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, a notice to quit the premises, is designed for use by a landlord whose tenant subleases, assigns, or commits waste contrary to covenants of the lease under which the property is held; maintains, commits, or permits the maintenance or commission of a nuisance on the premises or uses the premises for an unlawful purpose; or or violates a lease covenant that cannot afterward be performed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3), (4)].

The notice includes alternative statements depending on whether the breach can or cannot be cured. For non-curable breaches, the notice makes no demand that the violation be cured and simply requires the tenant to quit the premises within three days. In these situations, the landlord may not maintain an unlawful detainer action based on the breach unless he or she serves the three-day notice to quit on the tenant and on any subtenant in possession of the premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3); see Schnittger v. Rose (1903) 139 Cal. 656, 660-661, 73 P. 449] and the recipient (or certain other persons) fails to quit the premises within that three-day period [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3)]. For curable breaches, however, the notice should include a statement requiring that the tenant cure the stated breach or vacate and deliver possession to the landlord.

PRACTICE TIP:

Notices for Curable Breaches Must Be Stated in the Alternative. Any notice related to a curable breach must be stated in the alternative--"cure or vacate." A simple demand for possession after the expiration of three days without a statement of alternatives renders the notice defective. By Benjamin Kaplan.

For further discussion of unlawful detainer actions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer (Matthew Bender).

[b] Reasonable Grounds Required for Basis of Belief That Violation of Lease Occurred

In certain cases, a dispute will arise between a landlord and tenant over the question of whether the tenant has breached the lease. In such a case, the landlord may validly serve the tenant with a notice to quit and obtain possession of the premises if the landlord has reasonable grounds to believe that the tenant has breached the lease (whether or not the tenant has in fact breached the lease), or if the landlord acts in good faith without malice [Asell v. Rodrigues (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 817, 824-825, 108 Cal. Rptr. 566] . The tenant will have an action for damages for wrongful eviction only if the landlord acts maliciously and without probable cause [Asell v. Rodrigues (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 817, 825, 108 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

[c] Distinguished From Other Three-Day Notices

The form in [2], below, is not appropriate for use when a tenant who holds the premises under an unexpired lease has defaulted in his or her covenant to pay rent or has failed to perform some other covenant capable of being performed. In these instances, the appropriate notices to quit must contain alternate clauses for the payment of rent due [see § 35B.230] or performance of the violated covenant or condition [see § 35B.231].

[d] Contents of Notice--Forfeiture of Lease

For a forfeiture to occur, the notice to quit must so state [Code Civ. Proc. § 1174(a)]. However, an unlawful detainer judgment declaring a lease's forfeiture will not relieve the lessee from liability for damages for the lease's termination under Civ. Code § 1951.2 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.5].

[e] Service of Notice

The notice must be given in the manner prescribed by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1162; see also § 35B.230[1][c]].

[f] Landlord's Right of Reentry

If the lease contains a provision authorizing reentry by the landlord, the landlord may reenter at any time after the right has accrued, but only on three days notice, as provided by statute [Civ. Code § 791; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1161, 1162 (three-day notices); Lamey v. Masciotra (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714, 78 Cal. Rptr. 344] . The landlord, thus, has no immediate right to possession under a right of reentry until a proper three-day notice has been served on the lessee [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 608, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 (regarding breach of covenant to pay rent)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Right of Reentry and Use of Self-Help. Note, however, that service of the three-day notice does not permit a landlord to use self-help. Only the sheriff may retake possession, after judgment and writ of possession are issued. By Myron Moskovitz.

§ 35B.240 Notice to Tenant Terminating Tenancy at Will or Periodic Tenancy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice from a landlord to a tenant terminating a periodic tenancy or a tenancy at will. To terminate either type of tenancy, the landlord must serve sufficient notice of termination on the tenant [Civ. Code §§ 789, 1946, 1946.1; Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(1)].

For definitions of tenancies at will and periodic tenancies and for further discussion of termination by notice, see § 35B.26. For the form of notice to be used by a tenant to terminate a periodic tenancy, see § 35B.241.

[b] Notice Requirement--Tenancy at Will

A tenancy at will may be terminated by the landlord giving written notice to the tenant to remove from the premises within a period of not less than 30 days, to be specified in the notice [Civ. Code § 789].

[c] Notice Requirements--Periodic Tenancies

[i] Month-to-Month Tenancy

A tenancy from month-to-month may be terminated at any time by a 30-day written notice from one party, landlord or tenant, to the other [Civ. Code § 1946]. When the tenancy is terminated by a 30-day notice given other than 30 days before the end of any month term, the tenancy terminates at the end of the 30 days specified in the notice, and rent is due and payable up to and including the date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946].

Nothwithstanding the above, the parties to the tenancy may agree at the time the tenancy is created that it may be terminated by a notice given at any time not less than seven days before expiration of a recurring term of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 1946].

Notwithstanding Civ. Code § 1946, an owner must give notice at least 60 days (not 30 days) before the proposed date of termination of a periodic tenancy if the tenant has been living in the dwelling for at least one year [Civ. Code § 1946.1(a)-(c)]. In any case, a tenant must give notice for a period at least as long as the term of the periodic tenancy before the proposed date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(b), (e)]. Notice must be sent by certified or registered mail or given in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 [Civ. Code § 1946.1(f)].

The 60-day notice requirement for longer term renters does not apply if (1) the dwelling or unit is alienable separate from the title to any other dwelling unit; (2) the owner has contracted to sell the dwelling or unit to a bona fide purchaser for value, and has established an escrow with a licensed escrow agent or a licensed real estate broker; (3) the purchaser is a natural person or persons; (4) the notice is given no more than 120 days after escrow is established; (5) notice was not previously given to the tenant in accordance with Civ. Code § 1946.1; and (6) the purchaser in good faith intends to reside in the property for at least one full year after the tenancy's termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(d)]. These provisions do not affect the authority of a public entity to regulate or monitor the basis for eviction [Civ. Code § 1946.1(g)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Effect of Rent Control Ordinances. Some California cities have rent control ordinances that prevent termination of any residential tenancy (even month-to-month tenancies) without "good cause"--as defined by the ordinance. By Myron Moskovitz.

[ii] Other Periodic Tenancies

Any periodic tenancy other than a month-to- month tenancy, such as a year-to-year or a week-to-week tenancy, may be terminated unilaterally only at the end of one of its recurring terms [Civ. Code § 1946]. In the absence of an agreement between the parties, the notice required to terminate a periodic tenancy, other than one from month-to-month, must be given either 30 days before expiration of one of the recurring terms or as long before expiration as one of the terms as the term itself [Civ. Code § 1946]. For example, in the absence of an agreement between the parties, a year-to- year tenancy may be terminated only by a written notice given at least 30 days before the end of one of its yearly terms. A week-to-week tenancy may be terminated only by a written notice given at least one week before the end of one of its weekly terms [Civ. Code § 1946].

Until January 1, 2010, an owner must give notice at least 60 days before the proposed date of termination if the tenant has been living in the dwelling for at least one year. The tenant must give notice for a period at least as long as the term of the periodic tenancy before the proposed date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(b), (e); see § 35B.240[1][c][i]].

Notwithstanding the above, the parties to any type of periodic tenancy may agree at the time the tenancy is created that it may be terminated by a notice given at any time not less than seven days before expiration of a recurring term of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 1946].

[d] Service of Notice

Service of the notice must be given in one of the following ways:

- By delivering a copy to the party personally [Code Civ. Proc. § 1162];
- If the party is absent from his or her residence and usual place of business, by (1) leaving a copy with some person of suitable age and discretion at either place and (2) sending a copy through the mail addressed to the tenant at his or her place of residence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1162];

- If the party's places of residence and business cannot be ascertained, or a person of suitable age or discretion cannot be found at either place, by affixing a copy in a conspicuous place on the property, delivering a copy to a person residing on the property (if one can be found), and mailing a copy to the tenant at the leased premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1162]; or

- By sending a copy by certified or registered mail addressed to the other party [Civ. Code §§ 1946, 1946.1].

If the tenant is the party giving the notice, he or she is permitted to give notice by sending a copy by certified or registered mail addressed to the lessor's agent to whom the lessee has paid rent for the month before the date of the notice or by delivering a copy to the agent personally [Civ. Code § 1946]. However, a tenant giving notice pursuant to Civ. Code § 1946.1 (regarding termination of tenancies when tenant has been living in dwelling for at least one year), must give notice in the manner specified by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 or by certified or registered mail [Civ. Code § 1946.1(f); see § 35B.240[1][c][i]].

Service of notice by the landlord on one cotenant is notice to the other cotenant(s) [University of So. Cal. v. Weiss (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 759, 769-770, 25 Cal. Rptr. 475] . Notice by one cotenant to the landlord, however, does not function as notice by the other cotenant who continues as a tenant until the landlord terminates the tenancy as to him or her [Schmitt v. Felix (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 642, 647, 321 P.2d 473] .

If a subtenant is involved, the 30-day notice of termination is not required to be served on the subtenant [Four Seas Inv. Corp. v. International Hotel Tenants' Assn. (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 604, 611-612, 146 Cal. Rptr. 531] .

[e] Foreclosed Property

Notwithstanding the unlawful detainer provisions of Civ. Code § Code Civ. Proc. § 1161 [see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases], a tenant or subtenant in possession of a rental housing unit at the time the property is sold in foreclosure must be given 60 days' written notice to quit in the manner set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 before the tenant or subtenant may be removed from the property through unlawful detainer proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161b(a)]. However, this notice requirement does not apply if any party to the note remains in the property as a tenant, subtenant, or occupant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161b(b)]. Section1161b is in effect until January 1, 2013, and as of that date is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, that is enacted before January 1, 2013, deletes or extends that date [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161b(c)].

In 2009, Congress established a 90-day notice to vacate requirement in the Protecting Tenants at Foreclosure Act [P.L. 111-22, S. 896]. This requirement applies to any foreclosure on a federally-related mortgage loan or on any dwelling or residential real property after May 20, 2009 [P.L. 111-22, sec. 702, 123 Stats. 1660-1661; see also P.L. 111-22, sec. 703, 123 Stats. 1661, amending 42 U.S.C. § 1437f(o)(7) (following foreclosure, successor in interest may terminate section 8 tenancy on 90 days' notice if owner will occupy property as primary residence)]. In addition, the Act provides that any immediate successor in interest in the property pursuant to the foreclosure assumes that interest subject to the rights of any bona fide tenant as of the date of the notice of foreclosure, under any bona fide lease entered into before the notice of foreclosure, to occupy the premises until the end of the remaining term of the lease [P.L. 111-22, sec. 702(a)(2), 123 Stats. 1661]. However, a successor in interest may terminate a lease effective on the date of sale of the unit to a purchaser who will occupy the unit as a primary residence, subject to the receipt by the tenant of a 90-day notice to vacate [P.L. 111-22, sec. 702(a)(2), 123 Stats. 1661]. A lease or tenancy is considered bona fide if (1) the mortgagor or the child, spouse, or parent of the mortgagor under the contract is not the tenant; (2) the lease or tenancy was the result of an arms-length transaction; and (3) the lease or tenancy requires the receipt of rent that is not substantially less than fair market rent for the property or the unit's rent is reduced or subsidized due to a federal, state, or local subsidy [P.L. 111-22, sec. 702(b), 123 Stats. 1661]. These provisions are repealed on December 31, 2012 [P.L. 111-22, sec. 704, 123 Stats. 1662]. As of August 2009, the California Legislature was in the process of amending Code Civ. Proc. § 1161b to extend the notice period from 60 to 90 days if required by any other provision of state or federal law [SB 483, Corbett].

PRACTICE TIP:

Calculating Rent Due. Although it is appropriate to include in the notice language to the effect, "The rent for the premises shall be due and payable to and including the date of termination," I would defer stating the amount due [see second alternative in second to last paragraph in [2], below]. Once the notice is served I would send a letter to the tenant informing him or her of the amount due, and carefully instruct the client that if a check with a larger amount is tendered by the tenant then it must be immediately returned through his or her attorney's office. For practical as well as legal purposes I always calculate rent owing by applying every interpretation in favor of the tenant. Thus, I always calculate rent on a 31-day month, never 30 days nor 29 days (nor 29 days even if such months do apply). If notices have been served in different manners, I also calculate rent owing based on the most favorable interpretation to the tenant. Keep in mind that I am always going to wait such additional days before filing the complaint as to make all modes of service of the notice effective, not just the service which was personal or "shorter" in time effect. This conservative approach should act as a safety net to any mistakes that have been made in one service of notice procedure, although your assurance level of appropriate service before filing the complaint should be 100 percent. By Benjamin Kaplan.

§ 35B.241 Notice to Landlord Terminating Periodic Tenancy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice to be used by a tenant to terminate a periodic tenancy. Either party may terminate a periodic tenancy by giving an appropriate written notice to the other party [see Civ. Code §§ 1946, 1946.1].

For the definition of a periodic tenancy and further discussion of termination by notice, see § 35B.26. For the form of notice to be used by a landlord to terminate a periodic tenancy, see § 35B.240.

[b] Cotenancy

When one cotenant gives notice of termination to the landlord, that cotenant is not liable for the other cotenant's remaining in possession, nor may that cotenant bring a proceeding to force the other cotenant to surrender the premises to the landlord [Schmitt v. Felix (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 642, 648, 321 P.2d 473] . On receiving the notice, the landlord must choose either to accept the cotenant as the tenant alone or to terminate the tenancy [Schmitt v. Felix (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 642, 648, 321 P.2d 473] .

[c] Service of Notice

See § 35B.240[1][d] for discussion of service of the notice.

[d] Effect of Failure to Surrender Premises After Notice

A tenant who fails, without the landlord's permission, to deliver up possession of the premises at the time specified in the tenant's written notice terminating the tenancy is guilty of unlawful detainer [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(5)].

§ 35B.243 Lessee's Request for Notice of Reletting When Advance Payment Made Before Lease Termination

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, a request by a lessee to a former landlord for written notice of the initial reletting of the leased premises, may be used when the lease has been terminated before the end of the term by the lessor because of a breach of the lease or as a result of the lessee's breach and abandonment of the property [see Civ. Code § 1951.2].

A lessee may request, in writing, that the landlord notify the lessee of the initial reletting of the leased premises, and the landlord must send the lessee the requested notice if all of the following circumstances exist [Civ. Code § 1951.7(b), (c)]:

- The lessee has made an advance payment, as defined by statute [see [b], below];
- The lease is terminated in accordance with Civ. Code § 1951.2;
- The lessee has requested, in writing, that the lessor send such a notice to the lessee; and
- The amount of the rent due and unpaid at the time of termination is less than or equal to the amount of the advance payment.

For a form of written notice that the landlord may use to send the prescribed information to the lessee, see § 35B.244.

[b] Advance Payment Defined

For these purposes, an "advance payment" is moneys paid to the lessor as prepayment of rent, or as a deposit to secure faithful performance of the lease's terms, or another payment that is the substantial equivalent of either of these [Civ. Code § 1951.7(a)]. A payment that is not in excess of the amount of one month's rent is not an advance payment [Civ. Code § 1951.7(a)].

[c] Contents of Notice and Time and Manner of Delivery Unspecified

The contents of the request are not specified by law, and a mere reference to the controlling code section is probably sufficient [see Civ. Code § 1951.7(b)(3)]. However, the form below considers several expanded statements and includes a reference to the dollar amount of the advance payment.

Further, the statute does not specify in what manner the request must be delivered, nor the time for delivery [see Civ. Code § 1951.7]. Theoretically, a tenant may give his or her landlord such a request at any time during the lease term, or a lease provision requiring notice by the landlord may itself be made an automatic request, or the breaching lessee may make the request during the period of the lessee's default.

The form in [2], below, is a notice from a landlord informing a former tenant who made an advance payment and whose lease was terminated before the end of the term by the lessor because of a breach of the lease, or as a result of the lessee's breach and abandonment of the property, of certain details concerning the initial reletting of the leased premises.

See § 35B.243 for discussion of the circumstances under which a landlord must send this type of notice to a lessee. For a request by a lessee to a former landlord for written notice of the initial reletting of the leased premises, see also § 35B.243.

[b] Content of Notice

The written notice must state that the property has been relet, the name and address of the new lessee, the length of the new lease, and the amount of the rent [Civ. Code § 1951.7(c)].

CHAPTER 36 OIL AND GAS RIGHTS AND LEASES

18-36 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce

Scope

Linda Breen Piercen* Scope

This chapter covers the transfer, assignment, and development of oil and gas interests in California. The Transaction Guide covers the basic steps necessary to lease oil and gas interests in California. The forms illustrate basic lease documents and alternative provisions that can be inserted in the basic lease forms. In addition to basic leases, the forms include provisions that may be used to transfer oil and gas interests by assignment, grant deed, and agreements.

This chapter does not cover the category of solid minerals known as "locatable" minerals, for example, gold and other minerals that are the subject of mining claims. Mining claims are covered in Ch. 36A, Mining Claims, Timber Interests, and Water Rights . This chapter also does not cover the Subdivided Lands Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.], which generally applies to the lease of any subdivided oil and gas lands and requires that a notice of intention to sell or lease be filed with the California Department of Real Estate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010]. For general coverage of the Subdivided Lands Act, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation . For further coverage of subdivision regulation in California, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, ch. 424, Regulation of Subdivided Land Sales (Matthew Bender). For coverage of environmental contamination issues in real property transactions, see Ch. 33, Contamination Considerations in Real Property Transactions .

Although the fundamental rights and remedies of persons engaged in the development of oil and gas have been decided by the courts [see Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 43 P.2d 788] , the Legislature has the power to regulate these resources [see People v. Associated Oil Co. (1930) 211 Cal. 93, 105, 294 P. 717] , and it has taken steps to prevent the waste of these rapidly disappearing minerals.

The principal California statutes regulating the development of oil and gas are set forth in the Public Resources Code. Division 3 of that Code [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3000-3865] deals exclusively with oil and gas. The statutes in that division are subject to the administrative supervision of the Division of Oil, Gas, and Geothermal Resources in the Department of Conservation [Pub. Res. Code § 3002; see Pub. Res. Code § 607(b)]. The Division of Oil, Gas, and Geothermal Resources is headed by the State Oil and Gas Supervisor [Pub. Res. Code § 690], who appoints district deputies for each of the six oil and gas districts in California [Pub. Res. Code § 3101; see Pub. Res. Code § 3100]. Division 3 and the regulations adopted under it [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1710-1998.2] comprise the bulk of the statutes and regulations affecting the development of oil and gas. However, other statutory provisions are scattered throughout other codes and many of these provisions are identified in the Research Guide in § 36.01[1], and have been mentioned when relevant to the transaction under consideration.

§ 36.11 Securities Aspects of Oil and Gas Leases

[1] Sales of Interest in Oil and Gas Leases Generally Exempt From Securities Law

A certificate of interest or participation in an oil or gas title or lease is a "security" and is therefore subject to the qualifications provisions of the Corporations Code [see Corp. Code § 25110]. Notwithstanding this, many sales of (or offers to sell) interests or participations in oil or gas leases are exempt from those provisions. For example, a sale or offer to sell is exempt if all the purchasers have been engaged primarily in the business of drilling for, producing, or refining oil or gas for the preceding two years [Corp. Code § 25102(j)(1)(A)]. Another exemption is available for sales to banks, savings and loan associations, trust companies, insurance companies, and certain investment companies [Corp. Code § 25102(j)(1)(B); see Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1)]. Still another exemption is available for persons who have been found by the Commissioner of Corporations on written application to be substantially engaged in the business of drilling for, producing, or refining oil or gas so as not to require the protection of the securities qualification law [Corp. Code § 25102(j)(1)(C)].

This chapter does not cover the securities law aspects of the transfer or assignment of oil and gas interests. For coverage of securities laws generally, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues , and Ch. 11, Merger and Acquisition Issues .

[2] Limited Partnerships and the Development of Oil and Gas Interests

The Commissioner of Corporations has promulgated comprehensive regulations governing the formation of limited partnerships for the purpose of developing oil and gas interests. The qualification of these partnerships will normally precede or coincide with the negotiation and execution of oil or gas leases [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.120-260.140.131.9]. For general coverage of limited partnerships, their formation, dissolution, and merger, see Ch. 15A, Limited Partnerships .

§ 36.12 Nature of Oil and Gas Ownership

[1] Petroleum as a Mineral

[a] Commonly Used Terms

Petroleum has long been popularly regarded and has been held by the courts to be a "mineral" [Burke v. Southern P. R. Co. (1914) 234 U.S. 669, 676, 34 S. Ct. 907, 58 L. Ed. 1527 ; see Chino Land & Water Co. v. Hamaker (1918) 39 Cal. App. 274, 276, 178 P. 738] . Originally, the word "petroleum" meant "rock oil" and was used to describe an oily substance found naturally oozing from crevices in rocks [Burke v. Southern P. R. Co. (1914) 234 U.S. 669, 676, 34 S. Ct. 907, 58 L. Ed. 1527] .

Today, the term "petroleum" is commonly used as a generic term to describe all combustible hydrocarbon compounds found in the earth [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Background of Oil and Gas Law, § 101 (Matthew Bender)]. Although petroleum sometimes occurs in nature in a solid state, it most often is discovered in nature in either a gaseous or liquid state [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Background of Oil and Gas Law, § 101 (Matthew Bender)]. When it appears in nature in a gaseous state it is called "natural gas" [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "N" (Matthew Bender)]. When it appears in nature in a liquid state, it is called "crude oil" [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "C" (Matthew Bender)]. Whenever liquid petroleum, or oil, is found in nature, some gaseous petroleum, or natural gas, is almost always found to be present too [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Background of Oil and Gas Law, § 101 (Matthew Bender)].

When a geologist starts looking for land that might produce oil or gas, he or she looks for what are known as "reservoir traps," which may, when a well is drilled, be found to contain either singly or in combination, three different fluids: gas, oil, and water [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering

Background of Oil and Gas Law, § 104 (Matthew Bender)]. When the gas-tight dome on the reservoir trap is broken or pierced with an oil-well shaft, the pressure on the fluids in the reservoir is reduced. This causes the gas in the reservoir to expand forcing the oil in the reservoir up the oil-well shaft to freedom [People v. Associated Oil Co. (1930) 211 Cal. 93, 106, 294 P. 717] . In like manner, when there is little gas but a great deal of water in the reservoir trap, the reduction in pressure will cause the water to expand pushing the oil in the reservoir toward the oil-well shaft when it can be pumped to the surface by mechanical means [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Background of Oil and Gas Law, § 104 (Matthew Bender); see Lynch v. State Board of Equalization (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 94, 99-101, 210 Cal. Rptr. 335 for a detailed overview of the oil and gas production process].

When a reservoir lies beneath several parcels of land owned by different persons, an oil well drilled on one of the parcels will cause the oil under each parcel to be directed toward the well where it can be either forced or pumped to the surface. The oil from each of the adjoining parcels becomes the property of the person on whose land the well was drilled when it enters the well [Brown v. Spilman (1895) 155 U.S. 665, 670, 15 S. Ct. 245, 39 L. Ed. 304] .

[2] Ownership of Subsurface Minerals

[a] Ownership in Place Doctrine Inapplicable in California

Ordinarily, the ownership of land includes the ownership of all "minerals" lying below the surface of the land [Bowman, Ogden's Revised California Real Property Law, vol. 1, § 1.9 (Cal. C.E.B. 1974)]. However, the ordinary "ownership in place" doctrine that makes the surface owner of land the owner of all minerals under the land cannot be applied to petroleum [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 116-117, 43 P.2d 788] . Some states try to apply the "ownership in place" doctrine to oil and gas by saying the surface owner has a defeasible fee in all oil and gas lying below the owner's land which the owner may lose should the oil and gas escape or be drained from the owner's land by an oil well on adjoining land [see Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 115-116, 43 P.2d 788 ; see also Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 2, Nature of Interests in Oil and Gas, §§ 203.2, 203.3 (Matthew Bender)]. California rejects this ownership-in-place or defeasible fee theory [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 117-118, 43 P.2d 788] .

[b] Rule-of-Capture Doctrine

In California, the fee owner of land does not own the oil and gas in place under the owner's land. Instead, the owner has merely the exclusive incorporeal right to drill for oil and gas and to claim as the owner's property all the oil and gas brought to the land's surface by means of wells drilled on the owner's land [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 117, 43 P.2d 788 ; Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1526, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] . Known as the "rule of capture," the owner of a tract of land acquires title to the oil and gas which the owner produces from wells drilled thereon, though it may be proved that part of the oil or gas migrated from adjoining lands [Pacific Gas & Electric Company v. Zuckerman (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1113, 1137-1138, 234 Cal. Rptr. 630 ; see Kramer & Martin, The Law of Pooling and Unitization, Ch. 2, The Rule of Capture, § 2.01 (Matthew Bender)].

[c] Transferability of Fee Owner's Rights

In the instance in which one entity has fee simple ownership of the property to all depths, that owner has the exclusive right to drill for and produce oil and gas on that property [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237 ; Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1526, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] . This incorporeal right, like the owner's right to exclusive occupancy and use of the land's surface, is one of the bundle of rights that make up the land owner's fee simple title to the land [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 120, 43 P.2d 788] . It is a valuable right and, like most of the other rights that make up the owner's fee title to the land, may be transferred by the owner independent of the land or the owner's other rights in and to the land [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237 ; Contra Costa Water District v. Vaquero Farms, Inc. (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 883, 894, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272] . In like manner, this incorporeal right can also be excepted or reserved by the land owner in a transfer of all the owner's other rights in and to the land [Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 241, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438] . If this right is separated from the land by either an independent transfer or reservation of the right to drill for and remove oil and gas from the land, the right becomes an incorporeal profit 'a prendre much like an easement [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237 ; Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 241, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438] .

[d] Ownership of Recovered Oil and Gas

Depleted gas reservoirs are often used for storage purposes. An oil and gas producer can inject gas or oil recovered or purchased from another source into an underground storage reservoir. Once gas or oil is reduced to the personal possession the owner of the gas or oil is not to be considered to have been divested of ownership simply because it stores the gas in an underground storage reservoir. Furthermore, the owner of the recovered gas and oil does not lose its ownership of the minerals if they migrate to another parcel [Pacific Gas & Electric Company v. Zuckerman (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1113, 1137-1139, 234 Cal. Rptr. 630] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-36 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 36.13

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce

§ 36.13 Interests Created by Oil and Gas Lease

[1] Conveyance and Contract

An oil and gas lease is both a conveyance and a contract. The conveyancing elements are the granting and habendum clauses, and the contractual elements include the provisions that pertain to the tenant's obligations with regard to exploring, drilling, and producing operations [San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 409, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287] .

[2] Profit 'a Prendre Interest in Tenant

[a] Nature of Interest

Under the usual oil and gas lease, the owner-landlord of the premises transfers to the tenant the owner-landlord's right to drill for and produce oil and other substances on the described premises [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 122, 43 P.2d 788] . This right in the oil and gas tenant presents a clear case of a profit 'a prendre in gross, a right to remove a part of the substance of the land [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 122, 43 P.2d 788] . A profit 'a prendre is a right to take something from the land of another [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 878 n.7, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] . It is an incorporeal hereditament much like an easement [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 121, 43 P.2d 788 ; Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 880, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692 ; Wells Fargo Bank v. Goldzband (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 596, 622, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 826] .

An "incorporeal hereditament," for example, a profit 'a prendre, is a limited interest or estate in land [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 878 n.7, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] . There is a significant difference between a permanent right to extract oil and gas and the interest of a tenant under an oil and gas lease [Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1526, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] . When the incorporeal hereditament or limited interest is to endure for perpetuity or for life, it is a freehold interest just as a fee simple or life estate in the land itself is a freehold interest [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 120, 43 P.2d 788] . When the incorporeal hereditament is to endure only for a term of years, it is simply a leasehold interest in the land or a "chattel real" [Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5

Cal. 2d 1, 6-7, 53 P.2d 962] .

[b] Duration of Profit 'a Prendre Interest

The typical oil and gas lease grants the profit 'a prendre to take oil and gas from the leased premises for a stated term and so long thereafter as oil and gas are produced in paying quantities or simply produced from the leased premises [Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 11, 53 P.2d 962] . In other words, the typical oil and gas lease provides, in its habendum clause, for a fixed term called the "exploratory period" and an indefinite term thereafter called the "production period" [Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 14, 53 P.2d 962] . Both periods vest in the tenant immediately on execution of the lease [Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 14, 53 P.2d 962] . Thus, the tenant is vested with the profit 'a prendre for an indefinite and uncertain term; a term the common law classified as a freehold interest in the nature of a qualified or determinable fee [Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 11, 53 P.2d 962 ; Renner v. Huntington-Hawthorne Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 98, 244 P.2d 895] .

Because the profit 'a prendre is an incorporeal hereditament, it, like a perpetual easement, can be abandoned [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 882, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] . Being in the nature of an easement, it is simply a burden on the leased or servient property. Full fee title to the property, subject to the burden of the profit 'a prendre, is still retained by the landlord. When the profit 'a prendre ends or is abandoned, its burden is simply removed from the leased premises. However, to conclude that the tenant has abandoned its rights under the oil and gas lease, the court must find a concurrence of the tenant's nonuser of the rights and the tenant's intent to abandon the rights [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 889, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] . But the tenant's nonuser of his or her rights may in itself create conflicting inferences as to an oil and gas tenant's intent to abandon his or her profit 'a prendre. In this case, to find an abandonment by the tenant, the court must find either that the tenant's future use of the profit could result only from a palpably unsound business judgment or that the tenant has given some further indication of its intent to abandon [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 894-895, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] .

[d] Servitude in Gross

Because the tenant's right to drill for and take oil or gas from the leased premises is not for the benefit of any other land owned by the tenant or dependent on the tenant's ownership of any other land, it is called a profit 'a prendre in gross rather than a profit 'a prendre appurtenant [see Balestra v. Button (1942) 54 Cal. App. 2d 192, 197, 128 P.2d 816] . Incorporeal hereditaments or servitudes in gross are expressly recognized by statute in California [Civ. Code § 802]. Although there was some question as to the transferability or assignability of a servitude in gross other than a profit 'a prendre at common law, a profit 'a prendre if granted in gross was capable of being transferred in gross [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 121, 43 P.2d 788] . By statute in California, property of any kind, including a servitude in gross, may be transferred unless expressly made nontransferable by statute [Civ. Code § 1044; Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 121, 43 P.2d 788] .

[3] Royalty Interest in Landlord

After the owner of the land executes an oil and gas lease on the owner's land, the landlord under the lease has the following three distinct interests [Brown v. Copp (1951) 105 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 232 P.2d 868] :

- The fee simple title to the surface estate of the land;
- A reserved royalty interest in the land; and
- A possibility of reverter of the minerals described in the lease.

The landlord's right to receive royalty payments is itself an interest in land in the nature of an incorporeal hereditament [Atlantic Oil Co. v. Los Angeles County (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 594, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006] . The royalty an oil and gas tenant pays to an oil and gas landlord is rent or so closely analogous to rent as to partake of the incidents of rent [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 123, 43 P.2d 788] .

Because rents and royalties are an interest in the land in the nature of an incorporeal hereditament, they are transferable; and a transfer of a rental or royalty interest must be recorded, to be effective against purchasers without actual notice, as a conveyance of an interest in land [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 124, 43 P.2d 788] .

[4] Landlord's Rights and Duties as Surface Owner

Surface owners typically own nearly all rights in the land except for the exclusive right to drill for and produce oil, gas, and other hydrocarbons. The owners of the mineral estate, and their tenants, typically hold only the very limited right, analogous to an easement, to drill and capture subsurface oil and gas, and the incidental rights necessary to accomplish this [Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1782-1783, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] . The right of the surface owner is subordinate to an oil and gas tenant, and the surface owner may not affect the tenant's rights so as to prevent the tenant's enjoyment or unreasonably interfere with the tenant's rights [Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1780, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] .

In a typical oil and gas lease, the landlord grants the tenant a right to drill for the production of minerals. However, any use by the owner, or others operating under the owner, which does not affect the search for and production of the minerals, is lawful, and the tenant has no right to interfere with this use, except when in the actual exercise of the tenant's rights under the lease [Brookshire Oil Co. v. Casmalia Etc. Co. (1909) 156 Cal. 211, 217, 103 P. 927 (oil and gas tenant had no right to destroy pipelines installed by licensee of owner when pipelines did not interfere with tenant's rights)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-36 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 36.14

§ 36.14 Development Clauses in Oil and Gas Leases

[1] Types of Development Clauses

Oil and gas leases are classified as either "or" or "unless" leases depending on the wording of their "development" clauses [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 402 (1940)]. Every oil and gas lease has a development clause, either express or implied [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 684, 74 P. 296] . The implied covenant for development requires the oil and gas tenant to use diligence in drilling for oil on the leased property [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 684-685, 74 P. 296 ; see Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 239-241, 73 P.2d 1163] . The express development clause typically will be in the form of an "or" type clause [see [2], below] or an "unless" type clause [see [3], below].

[2] "Or" Type Development Clause

The earliest type of "drill or pay" provision was a version of what is known today as an "or" type development clause. The "or" type clause provides that the tenant must commence drilling operations within a specified period, shorter than the exploratory period specified in the lease's habendum clause, "or" begin paying delay rental, usually of a specified amount per acre [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 401 (1940)]. The lease is not forfeited or terminated by failure of the tenant to comply with the terms of the "drill or pay" clause. However, the tenant's failure to drill within the time required does make the obligation to pay delay rental absolute and the landlord may sue to collect it [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 593-594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] . In addition, the default clause of a lease almost always provides that on the tenant's failure to pay any money due under the lease or perform any other condition of the lease the landlord may, at the landlord's election, declare the lease terminated and the tenant's rights under it forfeited. Thus, absent any provision which would permit the tenant to reduce or eliminate the obligation to pay rental, the tenant's failure to drill within the time required or pay the delay rental would give the landlord the following choice of remedies [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239 ; Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 401 (1940)]:

- The landlord may declare the lease terminated for breach under the default clause and sue to quiet title to the landlord's land; or

- The landlord may allow the lease to continue in its unproductive state and from time to time sue for the delay rental as it accrues, all the way to the end of the exploratory term specified in the lease's habendum clause.

To avoid having to pay delay rental on land valueless for oil producing purposes, the oil producers and operators have developed two lease clauses: (1) the "surrender" clause [see § 36.200[1][f]] and (2) the "unless" development clause [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 401-402 (1940); see [3], below].

[3] "Unless" Type Development Clause

The "unless" type development clause provides that if drilling is not commenced on the leased premises within a specified time the lease is terminated unless the tenant pays delay rental of a specified amount per acre. The lease is automatically forfeited or terminated by the tenant's failure to either drill within the specified time or pay rent [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] . No notice of default need be given by the landlord [Norris Oil Co. v. Von Glahn (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 159, 161, 230 P.2d 885 ; Alexander v. Oates (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 266, 267-268, 223 P.2d 264] . Therefore, the landlord cannot maintain a suit against the tenant for the delay rental as it accrues in the event that the tenant fails to either drill or pay, because the lease is automatically terminated [Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 591, 229 P.2d 838] . Thus, the tenant, under an "unless" type development clause, is allowed to escape from the lease when the tenant comes to believe the leased land is not worthy of exploration [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 404 (1940)].

[4] History of Development Clauses

Before 1940, the California courts seemed confused as to the exact nature of an "or" or "unless" development or delayed rental clause in an oil and gas lease [see Carlisle v. Lady (1930) 109 Cal. App. 567, 572-573, 293 P. 686] . Although the courts apparently recognized that oil and gas do not wander aimlessly about underneath the land's surface, the misconception which originally caused the courts to assume that drilling had to be commenced within the period specified in the development clause to capture the oil and gas before it escaped, they still adhered to the early strict view requiring immediate drilling under an oil and gas lease [see Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 684-685, 74 P. 296 ; Hall v. Augur (1927) 82 Cal. App. 594, 600, 256 P. 232] . They allowed forfeiture to be declared by a landlord for a tenant's failure to drill within the period specified in the lease's development clause though the lease contained no forfeiture provisions [Hall v. Augur (1927) 82 Cal. App. 594, 600-601, 256 P. 232] . The California courts also held that when an oil and gas lease did not contain an express development clause requiring drilling to be commenced within a reasonable time, one would be implied by law [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 684, 74 P. 296] . This still appears to be the law in California [see Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 239-241, 73 P.2d 1163] .

In 1940, a comprehensive law review article was published tracing the history of the development or delay rental clauses in oil and gas leases which has led to the use of the "or" and the "unless" type oil and gas leases [see Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 304, 393, 400-408 (1940)]. One year later a California court of appeal expressly recognized the difference between "or" and "unless" type leases [Wilcox v. West (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 267, 270-271, 114 P.2d 39] . There followed a series of court of appeal decisions recognizing this distinction [see Alexander v. Oates (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 266, 268, 223 P.2d 264 ; Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 590, 229 P.2d 838 ; Norris Oil Co. v. Von Glahn (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 159, 161, 230 P.2d 885 ; Walston v. Flintridge Oil Co. (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 660, 662, 284 P.2d 895 ; Fritsch v. Fisher (1957) 151 Cal. App. 2d 732, 734, 312 P.2d 21] . Finally, in 1960, the issue reached the California Supreme Court and it too recognized the distinction between "or" and "unless" type development or delay rental clauses [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 594, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-36 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 36.15

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce

§ 36.15 Tenant's Covenants to Protect Leased Premises

[1] Drainage Protection Covenants

In every oil and gas lease there is either an express or implied covenant requiring the tenant to protect the leased premises from having the oil drained from under it by wells on adjoining lands [see Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 426-427 (1940)]. The usual and ordinary way to accomplish this protection from drainage is to drill so-called "offset" wells on the leased premises [see Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 252, 158 P.2d 754 ; see also Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "O" (Matthew Bender)]. Ordinarily, in the absence of state regulations, an offset well is drilled the same distance from the common boundary of the two parcels of land as is the well it is "offsetting" on the adjoining land [see Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289 (1960)]. An express "offset clause" provides, in effect, that if a well producing oil or gas in paying quantities is drilled on adjacent land within a specified distance of the leased land, the oil and gas tenant must drill an offset well on the leased land [Hightower, The Oil and Gas Lease in California, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 424 (1956)]. If the covenant requiring the tenant to protect the leased land from drainage is implied, a distinction is made between drainage by others and drainage by the tenant's operations on adjoining land [see Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 252, 158 P.2d 754 ; see also [2][a], [c], below].

[a] Drainage by Third Parties

If the leased land is being drained of oil or gas by a well drilled and operated on adjacent premises by third parties, the tenant is only required to afford reasonable protection against the drainage [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 426-427 (1940)]. This means the tenant must drill an offset well only if a prudent oil person, under similar circumstances, would drill an offset well [see Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 252, 158 P.2d 754] . The prudent operator would drill the offset well only if the operator could do so without incurring a loss [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 427 (1940)]. In other words, the prudent oil person would drill the offset well only if it were probable that it would produce oil or gas "in paying quantities" and the operator would make a profit from its operation [see Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 250, 158 P.2d 754] .

[b] Meaning of "In Paying Quantities"

For purposes of the implied covenant, the term "in paying quantities" has a different meaning than it has when used in the habendum clause of an oil and gas lease [see § 36.202[1][c]]. For purposes of the implied covenant against drainage, the term means the quantities as will result in a profit to the tenant after deducting the costs of drilling, equipping, and operating the offset well, and marketing its products [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 427 (1940)].

[c] Drainage by Tenant

If the leased land is being drained of oil or gas by a well drilled or operated on adjacent land by the tenant directly, the tenant has an absolute duty to protect it against the drainage [see Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 243, 73 P.2d 1163 ; Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 250-252, 158 P.2d 754] . There is an implied duty imposed on every oil and gas tenant to refrain from taking any affirmative action that will result in the draining of a substantial quantity of oil or gas from the leased premises through wells drilled or operated by the tenant on adjacent property owned by another landlord [Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 251-252, 158 P.2d 754] . In fact, at least one writer has argued that this obligation to protect the premises by not draining it is a separate and distinct implied covenant from the implied covenant requiring the tenant to reasonably protect the leased premises from drainage by others [see Seed, The Implied Covenant in Oil and Gas Leases to Refrain From Depletory Acts, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 508 (1956)].

[d] Effect of Other Covenants in Lease

The implied obligation to protect the leased premises from drainage is probably not affected by an express provision specifying the maximum number of wells to be drilled [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 241, 73 P.2d 1163] . This provision will definitely not relieve the tenant from the duty to drill offset wells to protect the leased premises from drainage by the tenant directly [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 241-242, 73 P.2d 1163] . Similarly, an express provision excusing the tenant from drilling offset wells does not relieve the tenant of the implied obligation to refrain from taking affirmative action to drain the leased premises by wells on adjoining property drilled or operated by the tenant [Bush Oil Co. v. Beverly-Lincoln Land Co. (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 246, 253, 158 P.2d 754] .

[3] Remedy for Breach of Drainage Covenant

The remedy for breach of the express or implied covenants of protection against drainage is damages. The landlord from whose land oil or gas has been drained may recover from the tenant the royalties the landlord should have been paid on the oil or gas drained from the landlord's land by the well or wells on adjoining property [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 254, 73 P.2d 1163 ; Mitchell v. Union Drilling & Petroleum Co. (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 56, 60, 32 P.2d 1069] .

[1] Physical and Economic Waste

Under the law of capture, captured oil belongs to the person in whose well it is captured [see Kramer & Martin, the Law of Pooling and Unitization, ch. 2, The Rule of Capture , § 2.01 (Matthew Bender)]. At common law, an owner could drill as many wells as the owner liked on the owner's land. Thus, when an oil and gas reservoir lay under several adjoining parcels of land owned by different persons, each land owner would try to drill more wells on the owner's land and capture more of the oil and gas in the reservoir than the owner's neighbor [Comment, Compulsory Unitization--The Answer to Oil and Gas Conservation? 7 UCLA L. Rev. 312, 313 (1960)].

The result of this race to capture the oil was great physical and economic waste [Kramer & Martin, The Law of Pooling and Unitization, Ch. 2, The Rule of Capture, § 2.02 (Matthew Bender)]. There was physical waste because the maximum amount of oil was not brought to the surface because the overdrilling of wells reduced the gas and water pressures in the reservoir causing less oil to be moved to the well and up its shaft [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Background of Oil and Gas Law, § 104 (Matthew Bender)]. More important, however, was the economic waste that resulted from drilling duplicate and unnecessary wells and producing gas and oil in quantities that bore no relation to the market demand for those products [Comment, Compulsory Unitization--The Answer to Oil and Gas Conservation? 7 UCLA L. Rev. 312, 313 (1960)]. This waste led to voluntary pooling and unitization by oil and gas operators. It also led to well-spacing statutes requiring unitization or pooling in certain instances [see Kramer & Martin, the Law of Pooling and Unitization, ch. 2, The Rule of Capture , § 2.02 (Matthew Bender)].

[2] Meaning of Pooling and Unitization; Advantages

The terms "pooling" and "unitization" are often used interchangeably [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "P" and "U" (Matthew Bender)]. However, in oil and gas parlance each has come to have a commonly understood different meaning. The term "pooling" is commonly understood in the industry to refer to the consolidation of the oil and gas rights of the parcels of land that can be efficiently drained by one oil or gas well. By contrast, the term "unitization" is commonly understood to mean the consolidation of the oil and gas rights of all parcels of land overlying an entire oil and gas reservoir [Hoffman, Pooling and Unitization Clauses in Oil Leases, 1 Rocky Mtn. Min. L. Inst. 103 (1955)].

When the oil and gas rights to various parcels of land are "pooled" or "unitized," individual property lines are ignored, and all the land in the "pool" or "unit" is treated for drilling and petroleum production purposes as if it were one parcel covered by one oil and gas lease. All the owners of parcels of land in the "pool" or "unit" receive a share of the royalties payable for oil or gas produced on any part of the pooled or unitized land [Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289, 289-290 (1960)].

Thus, pooling, though involving several landlords, will most often involve only one tenant. A unitization will, because it covers a much larger area than a pooling, often involve many landlord and several oil and gas tenants [Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289, 290 (1960); see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "P" and "U" (Matthew Bender)]. The principal advantage of pooling is that it prevents the drilling of unnecessary and uneconomic wells when one well will do the job [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "P" (Matthew Bender)]. The principal advantage of unitization is that it allows maximum recovery of oil from a reservoir by making it economically feasible to engage in "cycling" and other methods of maintaining gas and water pressure in the reservoir [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "U" (Matthew Bender); see Kramer & Martin, the Law of Pooling and Unitization, ch. 2, The Rule of Capture , § 2.03 (Matthew Bender)]. The best results in conservation can be achieved only through unitization [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "U" (Matthew Bender)].

[3] Methods of Pooling or Unitizing

[a] Statutory Requirements

There are several ways in which the pooling or unitization of oil and gas rights can be accomplished. In some cases it may be required as a conservation measure by statute and be practically decreed by administrative fiat [see Hunter v. Justice's Court (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 315, 317, 223 P.2d 465] . For example, when land aggregating less than one acre is surrounded by other lands that are subject to an oil and gas lease aggregating one acre or more, and if the drilling or producing of a well on the first parcel would be a public nuisance under Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3607 (required spacing of wells), the first parcel is deemed included in the oil and gas lease on the adjoining lands when the State Oil and Gas Supervisor records a declaration to that effect with the county recorder of the county in which the first parcel is located [Pub. Res. Code § 3608]. This right to receive royalties under the oil and gas lease on adjoining lands is appurtenant to the land and passes to the grantee on sale of the property [LeBard v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 532, 536-538, 15 Cal. Rptr. 617, 364 P.2d 449] .

[b] Voluntary Agreements

Pooling or unitization can be accomplished voluntarily by means of either (1) a community lease, the insertion of so-called "pooling clauses" in separate leases [see [c], below], or (2) a separate pooling or unitization agreement among various tenants and landlord [see [e], below; see also Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289 (1960); see LeBard v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 532, 537, 15 Cal. Rptr. 617, 364 P.2d 449] .

[c] Pooling Clauses in Oil and Gas Leases

A pooling clause is simply a lease provision giving the tenant the right to pool the leased land with other properties in the vicinity for gas and oil development, production, and operational purposes [Hoffman, Pooling and Unitization Clauses in Oil Leases, 1 Rocky Mtn. Min. L. Inst. 103, 104 (1955)]. A properly drawn pooling clause usually does all of the following [see Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289, 308-310 (1960)]:

- It restricts the property with which the leased land may be pooled to that in the immediate vicinity of the leased land;

- It limits the number of acres that may be pooled with the leased land; and

- It specifies that the landlord must receive a portion of the royalties from any oil or gas produced anywhere on the pooled property.

[d] Community Leases

[i] Features of Community Lease

A community lease is a single oil and gas lease signed by several owners of distinct parcels of land who are leasing their parcels as a combined tract of land for oil and gas purposes [Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289, 290 (1960)]. The features of a community lease are the following [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 818, 129 P.2d 383] :

- That several owners of distinct parcels lease their respective parcels as one tract of land;

- That the tenant is given sole and exclusive right to drill for and produce oil on any part of the tract; and

- That each owner shares proportionately in the royalties from any oil or gas produced from the tract regardless of the portion of the tract on which it is discovered or produced.

Community leases are only one method for achieving common oil development, however, and agreements for the pooling of individual leases [see [e], below] and other forms of unit operation are not uncommon [LeBard v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 532, 536-537, 15 Cal. Rptr. 617, 364 P.2d 449] .

[ii] Cross-Conveyancing

In a community oil and gas lease, each landowner conveys to each of the other landowners signing the lease a percentage interest in all oil produced on his or her land by the tenant during the term of the lease. The consideration each landowner receives for conveying a percentage interest in all oil produced on his or her land to each of the other landowners is a like conveyance by each of them of a portion of the oil produced on his or her land [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 820, 129 P.2d 383] .

[iii] Two Distinct Royalty Interests

Each landowner signing a community oil and gas lease has the following two royalty interests [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 820, 129 P.2d 383 ; see LeBard v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 532, 536-537, 15 Cal. Rptr. 617, 364 P.2d 449] :

- The landowner has a percentage royalty interest in the oil and gas produced from the landowner's land, which is an incorporeal hereditament appurtenant to that land; and

- The landowner also has a percentage royalty interest in the oil and gas produced from the land of each of the other landowners who signed the lease which, in his or her hands, is an incorporeal hereditament in gross.

An incorporeal hereditament that is appurtenant passes with the land to which it is appurtenant. An incorporeal hereditament in gross, not being appurtenant to any land, does not pass with the conveyance of the landowner's land [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 820, 129 P.2d 383] .

[iv] Withdrawal of Land From Community Lease

Under the "cross-conveyancing" theory [see [ii], above], when a landowner who is a party to a community lease withdraws his or her land from the lease and releases the tenant from all obligations under the lease with regard to the landowner's land, the landowner is still entitled to a portion of the royalty earned by oil produced from other land subject to the lease. The withdrawal and release does not affect the landowner's rights under the incorporeal hereditament in gross conveyed to the landowner on execution of the lease by each of the other landowners [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 823, 129 P.2d 383] . Furthermore, when the withdrawal and release of one parcel is joined in by all the other landowners, a well may be drilled on the withdrawn land and its owner need not share the royalties from oil produced by that well with anyone else [Tanner v. Olds (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 110, 116, 173 P.2d 6] .

[v] Conveyance of Land Subject to Community Lease

A conveyance of land subject to a community lease, although it conveys to the grantee oil royalty rights appurtenant to the land, does not convey to the grantee the right to royalties from oil produced from other lands subject to the community lease [Vantress Farms, Inc. v. Sydenstricker (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 943, 949, 90 Cal. Rptr. 251 ; Agajanian v. Cuccio (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 828, 831-832, 297 P.2d 755 ; Friedrich v. Roland (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 543, 549, 213 P.2d 423] . However, it would not be unreasonable for the parties to provide that all of the royalties payable to an individual landlord under unit operation should be appurtenant to the landlord's land to avoid the problem of apportionment that arises under the Tanner rules in the event of a sale without a reservation of the mineral rights or an assignment of the royalties held in gross [Lebard v. Richfield Oil Corporation (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 532, 537, 15 Cal. Rptr. 617] . Whether, in any given agreement for unit development, the Tanner rules will be applicable between the parties will depend on the terms of the agreement [Lebard v. Richfield Oil Corporation (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 532, 537, 15 Cal. Rptr. 617 ; see [i]-[iv], above, for discussion of the Tanner rules].

[vi] Foreclosure of Land Subject to Community Lease

If land included in a community lease was foreclosed on under a lien that predated the lease, the owner of that land lost the right to part of the royalties for oil produced from other lands subject to the community lease. On foreclosure, the tenant lost the right to drill for and produce oil from the foreclosed land. That, in turn, meant that the consideration agreed to be given by the owner of the foreclosed parcel for the cross-conveyance of a royalty interest in each of the other lands subject to the community lease failed, and the owner of the foreclosed parcel lost the right to royalties under the community lease [Gillis v. Royalty Serv. Corp. (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 365, 368-369, 204 P.2d 968] .

[e] Separate Pooling Agreement

A separate pooling or unitization agreement is, as the name implies, a separate agreement providing for pooling or unitization of specified parcels and is usually solicited from a landlord after the landlord has already executed an oil and gas lease. A separate pooling or unitization agreement usually specifically describes the area to be pooled or unitized and may even specify the manner in which the pool or unit is to be operated [Hoffman, Pooling and Unitization Clauses in Oil Leases, 1 Rocky Mtn. Min. L. Inst. 103, 105 (1955)].

Pooling clauses in oil and gas leases are most often used to authorize the formation of a "pooled" unit that can be drained or produced through one well [Hoffman, Pooling and Unitization Clauses in Oil Leases, 1 Rocky Mtn. Min. L. Inst. 103, 105 (1955)]. In contrast, separate unitization agreements are almost always used to unitize an entire oil and gas reservoir. The majority of unitization production units in the United States are said to be based on separate unitization agreements substantially following the Model Form Unit Agreement and Model Form Unit Operating Agreement prepared by the American Petroleum Institute.

[1] Pre-1992 Rules

Before January 1, 1992, when the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities became operative in California [see Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.], a lease that was to commence in the future was subject to the common law rule against perpetuities. Under this rule, if the leasehold interest was "nonvested," it was invalid unless, at the time the lease was created, the leasehold was certain to either vest or terminate within 21 years after the death of some person alive at the time of creation, or alternatively within 60 years after the creation [see former Civ. Code §§ 715.2, 715.6, repealed January 1, 1992; see also Wong v. Di Grazia (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 525, 535-541, 35 Cal. Rptr. 241, 386 P.2d 817] . For purposes of applying this rule, an interest was "nonvested" if it was subject to an unsatisfied condition precedent. An interest was "vested" if it was owned free of all conditions precedent [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2552-2553 (1990); Black's Law Dictionary 1563 (6th ed. 1990)].

[2] Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities

Under the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, most leases are not subject to the rule against perpetuities. This is because the Uniform Statutory Rule excludes most "nondonative" transfers from its application [see Prob. Code § 21225(a)]. For this purpose, a "nondonative" transfer is a commercial-type transaction that is supported by consideration, for example, a typical commercial lease, an option to renew a lease, and a right of first refusal to purchase the property [Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 571, 576, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] . A "donative" transfer, in contrast, is generally a transfer that is not supported by consideration [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2594-2595 (1990)]. Under the exclusion for "nondonative transfers," it would appear that property interests arising in oil and gas leases are not subject to the rule against perpetuities.

For a detailed discussion of the rule against perpetuities in California, see the Legal Background to Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities .

[3] Related Time Restrictions

Although leases supported by rent are not subject to the rule against perpetuities, many leases are subject to other time limitations. For example, under Civ. Code § 718, any lease of a town or city lot for which the term exceeds 99 years, including options to renew the lease, is invalid [Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 576, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] . If the property is owned or controlled by the municipality, generally the term will be limited to 55 years or less [see Gov. Code § 37380; see also Civ. Code § 718].

Every lease that is to commence at a time certain or on the happening of a future event becomes invalid if its term does not actually commence in possession within 30 years after its execution [Civ. Code § 715]. The effect of this section is to place a 30-year limit on leases that might have been voidable future interests under the old common law rule against perpetuities [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2595 (1990); see former Civ. Code § 715.2, repealed January 1, 1992; see also [1], above]. It should be noted, however, that the old rule against perpetuities required that an interest either vest or terminate within the applicable period. Civ. Code § 715, in contrast, requires that the lease actually commence in possession within 30 years. Thus, a lease may be invalid because it does not commence in possession within the statutory period even though the lease is fully vested within that period.

For further coverage of these restrictions, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender).

§ 36.19 Termination of Oil and Gas Lease

[1] Surrender by Tenant

A typical oil and gas lease may be terminated before its natural expiration in a number of ways. Most leases have a surrender clause [see § 36.200[1][f]] that permits the tenant to unilaterally terminate the lease. Since the tenant's interest in an oil and gas lease is a profit 'a prendre, it can be abandoned [see § 36.13[2]].

The rules governing surrender and abandonment of possessory leaseholds are expressly inapplicable to a profit 'a prendre. Civ. Code § 1952.4 (which governs the rights and obligations of landlords and tenants with regard to termination, surrender, and abandonment) provides as follows [see also Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. of California (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1179, 1186, 242 Cal. Rptr. 403] :

> An agreement for the exploration for or the removal of natural resources is not a lease of real property within the meaning of [Civ. Code] Sections 1951 to 1952.2, inclusive.

[2] Termination of Tenant's Surface Rights

Without terminating the lease, a landlord may file an action to terminate the tenant's surface rights to all or part of the land subject to the lease under limited circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 772.030, 772.040; Donlan v. Weaver (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 675, 680-684, 173 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

[3] Tenant's Obligation to Quitclaim Interest

When the term of any oil, gas, or other mineral right lease has expired, or a lease has been abandoned, the landlord, his or her successor in interest, heirs, or grantees may demand a deed quitclaiming the tenant's interest in the land and minerals covered by the lease [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 393, Oil and Gas (Matthew Bender)]. Within 30 days after this demand, the tenant, his or her assignee, or other successor in interest must execute, acknowledge, and deliver, or cause to be recorded, a quitclaim deed. When the expiration or abandonment of a lease covers less than the tenant's entire interest, the tenant must execute, acknowledge, and deliver a notice of surrender or termination or other appropriate instrument covering the interest that has expired or been abandoned [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)].

If the landlord of oil or mineral producing property sues for damages when the tenant breaches a contract to drill or mine, the appropriate contract measure of damages is the amount of royalties the landlord can prove that he or she lost by reason of the tenant's breach [Gold Min. & Water Co. v. Swinerton (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 19, 32, 38-42, 142 P.2d 22 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 741, 747, 118 Cal. Rptr. 811] . § 36.101 Basic Facts About Property Subject to Lease

1. Landlord's title to property subject to lease, including:

a. Date landlord acquired title.

b. Manner in which landlord holds title, such as:
(1) Corporation in corporate name.

(2) Partnership in partnership name.

(3) Partnership in name of one or more partners.

(4) Limited liability company in name of limited liability company.

(5) Unincorporated association [see Corp. Code § 18000 et seq.].

(6) Individual.

(7) Husband and wife in [see Fam. Code § 750]:
(a) Joint tenancy.

(b) Tenancy in common.

(c) Community property.

(d) Community property with right of survivorship.

(8) Co-owner in [see Civ. Code § 682]:

(a) Joint tenancy.

(b) Tenancy in common.

(9) Executor or administrator of decedent's estate [see Prob. Code §§ 9940-9948].

2. Description of real property subject to lease, including:

a. City and county in which property is located.

b. Exact legal description of property.

c. Proximity of property to producing oil and gas wells or fields, including:

(1) Whether property is part of established oil and gas field; and

(2) Whether property is located in "wildcat territory."

NOTE:
"Wildcat territory" is defined as territory that is not known to contain oil and is not near enough to known oil territory to make the existence of oil under it reasonably probable. However, it includes territory that has a relation to other oil lands and geological characteristics suggesting the possibility that it contains oil [United States v. Stockton Midway Oil Co. (S.D. Cal. 1917) 240 F. 1006, 1007] .

d. Number or approximate number of acres of property.

NOTE:
The acreage aids in determining whether a well may be drilled on the property under the well-spacing statutes [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3609] and the number of wells that may be drilled on the property. It will also determine, to some extent at least, the number of wells that will most efficiently drain the oil from under the property and whether the land should be pooled with other land [see § 36.17* (pooling and unitization)].

3. Nature of tenant's operations and purpose for which tenant desires lease, such as:

a. Operating oil and gas producer intending to drill wells and produce oil or gas from leased premises.

b. Operating oil and gas producer intending to pool leased premises with other land in vicinity which it has under oil and gas leases.

c. Independent "lease hound" intending to speculate on rights under lease.

NOTE:

A "lease hound" is a person whose business is securing oil and gas leases from landowners. Some lease hounds are employed by oil corporations and are called "landmen" [see § 36.100, P 2c, NOTE]. Others, however, are self-employed and secure oil and gas leases in their own names so they may sell them at a profit to another person who will actually drill on and develop the leased property [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "L" (Matthew Bender)].

4. Name and address of each person or entity, other than landlord, who owns any interest in property that is to be subject to lease, including:

NOTE:

Part of this information can readily be obtained from the landlord but much of it may have to be learned by means of a title report ordered from a title company. The prospective oil and gas tenant may, in fact, have already obtained a title report on the property it seeks to lease for oil and gas purposes.

a. Former grantors of land who have reserved any oil or rights.

b. Persons to whom present owners or any former owners granted any interest in oil and gas rights.

c. Former grantors of land who reserved any mineral rights to land.

d. Persons to whom present owners or any former owners have granted any interest in any kind in mineral rights.

e. Trustees and beneficiaries of any deeds of trusts encumbering property.

f. Holders of any liens encumbering the property.

g. Any tenants of surface rights.

h. Persons holding easements or licenses over or to use any portion of land.

    b. Decree of distribution by which property, if inherited, was distributed to landlord.

    c. Other instruments showing legal description.

2. Copies of all leases given by landlord for use of property to be leased, including:

    a. Leases for occupancy of all or any part of surface of land, including:
    (1) Agricultural leases.

    (2) Business leases.

    (3) Residential leases.

    b. Prior oil and gas or mineral leases.

4. Preliminary title report showing status of:

a. Title to land sought to be leased.

b. Title to oil and gas rights of land sought to be leased.

5. Copies of any and all instruments described in preliminary report of title company that might cloud title to oil and gas rights.

6. When landlord is a corporation, certified copy of the resolution of its board of directors authorizing execution of lease [see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms, § 34A.200].

§ 36.110 Feasibility of Oil Well Drilling

1. Determine whether tenant desires a short term lease-option of real property for purpose of making further surveys of its potential oil and gas reserves.

2. Determine whether size of land or peculiarities of terrain will require drilling of slant well through adjoining land, and if so:

a. Whether drilling may require acquisition by lease of surface drilling rights on neighboring land subject to well-spacing rules [see Pub. Res. Code § 3606].

b. When land on which well to be located is not contiguous with land to be leased for oil and gas production, whether an easement through intervening parcel(s) will be necessary [see § 36.230].

3. Determine whether well may be drilled on leased land without pooling or unitization owing to limitations imposed by well-spacing requirements [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3600-3608.1].

NOTE:

In addition to any voluntary unit or pooling plan authorized by statute [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3630-3690], the State Supervisor of Oil and Gas may require a particular well-spacing plan, or inclusion of certain parcels under a unit or pooling program, if the Supervisor determines, after a hearing, that a well-spacing plan or program is necessary to prevent waste and increase recovery from a designated reservoir of oil and gas [Pub. Res. Code § 3609].

4. Determine whether voluntary pooling of leased land with neighboring property is advisable to avoid drilling of offset wells [see § 36.17[1]].

§ 36.111 Basic Terms of Lease

1. Ascertain rental to be paid at time oil and gas lease is executed.

2. Ascertain amount of deferred rentals tenant will pay to defer drilling on leased land [see § 36.14] by considering factors such as:

a. Whether amount is paid annually at rate per acre or per unit or per lot in case of subdivided land.

b. Whether amount is determined by [see Mee, Cal. Div. of Oil and Gas Pub. No. PRO 9, Leasing Land for Oil and Gas Development in California, "Questions and Answers" (1976)]:
(1) Proximity of leased land to other producing wells.

(2) Value of land for other uses.

(3) Economic analyses of prospect, including costs.

(4) Negotiations between oil and gas landlord and oil and gas tenant.

3. Ascertain royalties payable under lease, including:

a. Oil royalties [see § 36.200[1][d][iii]].

b. Gas royalties [see § 36.200[1][d][i]].

c. Casinghead gasoline royalties [see § 36.200[1][d][ii]].

d. Other royalties.

4. Determine whether following royalties will be payable in cash or in kind, or only in cash:

a. Oil royalties.

b. Gas and casinghead gasoline royalties.

5. Determine length of exploratory term during which either oil or gas must be discovered or property must be pooled or unitized with other property.

NOTE:
An oil and gas lease is usually granted for a definite number of years "and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced" in paying quantities from the leased land. The specified number of years is the exploratory period and the "thereafter" period is known as the production period [see § 36.201[1][b]].

6. Determine period within which drilling must be commenced on leased land or deferred rental paid [see § 36.14], considering factors such as:

a. Whether period will be considerably shorter than exploratory term of lease.

b. Whether deferred rentals usually cannot defer drilling beyond exploratory term of lease.

7. Determine any conditions that would prevent drilling from surface of leased land, for example:

a. Land in urban area having high value for surface use.

b. Leases already granted for surface use.

c. Buildings or other structures of considerable value occupying surface of land.

8. Determine whether either party wishes to include any special provisions or conditions in lease, for example:

a. Clause giving easement to leased land as drilling site over adjoining land owned by landlord.

b. Clause restricting drilling on specified portions of leased land, for example, portion near landlord's home.

1. Take whatever actions are necessary to remove defects in title affecting tenant's rights as revealed by preliminary title report, including:

a. Quitclaim or corrective deeds.

b. Releases of liens or other evidences of debt.

c. Quiet title action.

2. If slant well will be required [see § 36.110], obtain easement from adjoining landowner to drill well.

3. Make inquiries to find out whether local authorities or other regulatory bodies have imposed zoning or other regulations affecting land to be leased.

4. Check with local administrative office for appropriate district of Division of Oil, Gas, and Geothermal Resources to determine whether there is any existing well-spacing plan [*see 14 Cal. § 36.121 Representation of Both Parties to Lease

1. If requested to represent both parties to transaction:

a. Recommend that one party obtain separate counsel.

b. Determine whether or not potential for conflict exists.

2. If potential clients do not withdraw their request and do not appear to have conflicting or potentially conflicting interests, take both of the following steps [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310; Klemm v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 893, 899, 142 Cal. Rptr. 509] :

a. Make full disclosure to each party of nature of representation of other party.

b. Obtain written consent from both parties to arrangement before accepting employment.

PRACTICE TIP:
Representing Both Parties to a Lease Is Not Advised. It is impossible to see how there can be an effective waiver of a conflict of interest that would permit any attorney to represent both parties to a lease transaction even if that attorney's role was "limited" to drafting an already reached agreement. Any attorney who enters into such an arrangement is simply looking for major problems with either or both clients. It would be akin to representing both parties in a dissolution of marriage proceeding in which substantial interests were involved. By Benjamin Kaplan.

§ 36.123 Drafting, Execution, and Recording Lease

1. Draft lease.

NOTE:
For a drafting guide for an oil and gas lease, see Part D of this Transaction Guide.

2. Execute lease.

NOTE:
The execution requirements for a lease depend on whether the landlord or tenant is an individual or other type of legal entity. These requirements are discussed in the Transaction Guide to Ch. 34B, Residential Leases.

3. Record lease, or a Memorandum of Lease [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.203[1] for discussion of advantages and purpose of recording memorandum of lease].

NOTE:
If the county of recordation imposes a documentary transfer tax, the consideration for, or the value of, the interest conveyed will need to be determined [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911]. Since a right to drill for oil and gas is a profit 'a prendre which continues for an indefinite period (for as long as oil and gas are produced), it is a freehold interest and its conveyance is a sale subject to the provisions of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 11901-11934]. However, it is not at all clear how a nonproducing profit 'a prendre could be valued, and it is likely that the tax can be simply calculated on the initial payment of deferred rental.

4. Forward original lease (or memorandum of lease) to county recorder, together with:

a. Cover letter requesting recordation.

b. Check for recording fees [see Gov. Code § 27361].

c. Check for amount of documentary transfer tax, calculated at $0.55 per $500 of consideration for or value of lease.

a. Notice of intention to commence drilling [see Pub. Res. Code § 3203].

The Supervisor of Oil and Gas ("Supervisor") may approve the use of forms other than printed forms supplied by the Division of Oil and Gas, and may require other pertinent information to supplement the notice of intention [Pub. Res. Code § 3203].

b. Either of the following:

(1) Blanket indemnity bond [see Pub. Res. Code § 3205]; or

NOTE:
Any operator who engages in the drilling of one or more wells (or related work) in California may file with the Supervisor one blanket indemnity bond for $250,000 ($100,000 for operators with 50 or fewer wells) to cover all of that person's drilling operations in any of his or her wells in the state in lieu of an individual indemnity bond for each drilling operation [Pub. Res. Code § 3205]. A blanket surety bond provided before January 1, 1999, must be increased to $250,000 by January 1, 2001. A blanket cash bond provided before January 1, 1999, must be increased by a minimum of $30,000 per year, commencing January 1, 2000, and yearly on January 1 thereafter [Pub. Res. Code § 3205(a)]. Instead of filing a $250,000 bond, which does not include the bonds or fees for idle wells required by Pub. Res. Code § 3206, operators may provide a $1 million bond and be relieved of the requirements of Pub. Res. Code § 3206 [Pub. Res. Code § 3205(c)].

(2) Individual indemnity bond [see Pub. Res. Code § 3204].

NOTE:

Every operator who drills a well (or performs related tasks) in California and who has not filed a blanket indemnity bond must file with the Supervisor an individual indemnity bond in the following sum for each well that is to be drilled: $15,000 for each well less than 5,000 feet; $20,000 for each well more than 5,000 but less than 10,000 feet, and $30,000 for each well 10,000 or more feet [Pub. Res. Code § 3204].

Either type of bond may be terminated and canceled when the well or wells covered by them have been properly completed or abandoned, or another valid bond has been substituted [Pub. Res. Code § 3207]. A well is properly completed when it has been shown to the satisfaction of the Supervisor of Oil and Gas that the manner of producing oil or gas or injecting fluids into the well is satisfactory and that the well has maintained production or injection for a continuous six-month period [Pub. Res. Code § 3208].

2. File notice of intention and bond with Supervisor or district deputy of Division [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3203-3205].

3. Unless Supervisor or district deputy informs client in writing of rejection of notice of intention within 10 working days of Supervisor's (or deputy's) receipt of that notice, instruct client to commence drilling on the later of the following time [Pub. Res. Code § 3203]:

a. On approval of notice.

b. After 10 working days have elapsed since Supervisor's (or deputy's) receipt of notice.

NOTE:

If the Supervisor or district deputy does not give the operator a written response to the notice of intention within 10 working days from the date of the notice's receipt, that failure will be considered an approval of the notice and the notice will be deemed a written report of the Supervisor [Pub. Res. Code § 3203].

4. Keep accurate log, core record, and history of drilling of well [see Pub. Res. Code § 3210].

NOTE:

The log must be kept together with tour reports in the well owner's local office and be open to inspection by the Supervisor of Oil and Gas or his or her deputies [Pub. Res. Code § 3214]. The supervisor or district deputy may require the owner or operator of any well to file a copy of the entire log or a portion of the log at any time after drilling is commenced [Pub. Res. Code § 3216].

5. File following documents with Supervisor [Pub. Res. Code § 3227]:

a. Monthly well statement, on prescribed form.

b. If client produces oil by application of mining or other unconventional techniques, an annual report, on or before March 1 of each year, showing amount of oil produced by those techniques in preceding calendar year.

6. Before abandoning well, take both of the following steps [Pub. Res. Code § 3229]:

a. Complete and file prescribed notice of intent to abandon well [see Pub. Res. Code § 3230 (required contents of form)]; and

b. Obtain approval of Supervisor or district deputy.

NOTE:
The abandonment may not proceed until the Supervisor or a district deputy approves the proposed abandonment. If the Supervisor or a district deputy fails to give the owner or operator a written response to the notice of intention within 10 working days, the proposed abandonment will be deemed to have been approved and the notice of intention will be deemed a written report of the Supervisor [Pub. Res. Code § 3229].

7. Within 60 days after date of cessation of drilling or abandonment operations, or date of suspension of operations, file the following with district deputy [Pub. Res. Code § 3215]:

NOTE:
On a showing of hardship, the Supervisor may extend this 60-day period by up to 60 additional days [Pub. Res. Code § 3215].

a. True copies of:

(1) Log.

(2) Core record.

(3) History of work performed.

b. If made, true and reproducible copies of all electrical, physical, or chemical logs, tests, or surveys on forms provided by Division.

NOTE:
Within 10 days after the receipt of a written report of abandonment, the Supervisor or a district deputy will furnish the owner or operator with a written final approval of abandonment, or with a written disapproval of abandonment that sets forth the conditions on which the disapproval is based [Pub. Res. Code § 3232].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Oil and Gas Lease and Alternative Provisions

18-36 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 36.200

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce

§ 36.200 Oil and Gas Lease With "Drill or Pay" Development Clause

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth an oil and gas lease illustrating use of a "drill or pay" type development clause. This form should be regarded as a master form, the key provisions of which may be substituted for by other provisions as set forth in the forms in §§ 36.201-36.205.

[b] Habendum Clause

Paragraph 2 of the form in [2], below, sets forth the habendum clause, the provision in an oil and gas lease that sets the duration of the tenant's interest in the lease [see San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 405, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287] . For an alternative habendum clause and additional discussion, see § 36.201.

[c] "Or" and "Unless" Development Clauses

Oil and gas leases have traditionally been classified as either "or" or "unless" leases depending on the wording of their development clause. The development clause requires the tenant to commence drilling on the leased premises within a specified period or thereafter pay delay rental. An "unless" type lease provides that the lease will terminate unless the tenant commences drilling or paying rent before the end of a specified period. An "or" type lease simply provides that the tenant must either commence drilling or start paying rent before the end of a specified period. Paragraph 9 of the form in [2], below, is of the latter type and provides that on or before the last day of a specified period the tenant must either commence drilling operations on the leased land or pay rental of a stated sum per acre per year.

An alternative "unless" development clause is set forth in § 36.202[2]. The differences between "or" and "unless" type leases are more fully discussed in § 36.14.

[d] Royalties Reserved Under Lease

[i] Gas Royalties

The oil and gas lease in [2], below, provides for the following three different types of royalties:

- Gas royalties [see discussion, below];
- Casinghead gasoline royalties [see [ii], below]; and
- Oil royalties [see [iii], below].

Natural gas found with oil has a double value. It is valuable in and of itself as a product that may be marketed for heating or power generating purposes. It is also valuable as an energy force lifting the oil in the oil-well reserve to the surface of the well [People v. Associated Oil Co. (1930) 211 Cal. 93, 107, 294 P. 717 ; see § 36.12[1]]. Recognition of the double value of gas found in oil wells, particularly its value as an energy source independent of its capacity to raise oil to the surface, has led to the insertion of gas royalty provisions in most oil leases.

The gas royalty provision in [2], below, requires a stated percentage or a stated fraction of all gas produced on the premises and sold to be paid as a royalty to the landowner [see Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses, § 6.05 (Matthew Bender)]. In this form, the costs of transporting the gas to an extraction plant is deducted from the proceeds received by the tenant to determine the net amount subject to royalty payments. A lease may provide that the gas royalty is to be based on the value of all gas produced on the premises and not used in oil or gas well operations on the leased premises [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 643.2 (Matthew Bender); see [2], P 5, below].

Gas produced by an oil or gas well is of two types: dry gas and wet gas. Wet gas contains liquid hydrocarbons in solution with it. The hydrocarbons can be removed by a relatively simple extraction process leaving dry gas and natural gasoline [Axis Petroleum Co. v. Taylor (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 389, 394, 108 P.2d 978] . The latter is called "casinghead gasoline" because it is retrieved from openings in the side of the casinghead that tops the casing that seals the side of an oil-well shaft.

Technically speaking, casinghead gasoline and casinghead gas can only be produced from an oil well and not a gas well [Brown & Brown, the Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses, § 6.06 (Matthew Bender)]. Wet gas produced by a gas well is called "distillate" or "condensate" [Brown & Brown, the Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses, § 6.07 (Matthew Bender)]. The gasoline extracted from wet gas produced by a gas well is known simply as "natural gasoline" [San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 406 n.2, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287 ; see Saulsbury Oil Co. v. Phillips Petroleum Co. (10th Cir. 1944) 142 F.2d 27, 31] . However, casinghead gasoline produced by an oil well is also a form of "natural gasoline" [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "N" (Matthew Bender)]. Therefore, the casinghead gasoline royalty provision in this form expressly includes, in the term "casinghead gasoline," natural gasoline produced by a gas well. The gas royalty clause in the lease in this form would cover all dry gas produced and sold whether produced as dry gas directly from the well or resulting from the extraction of casinghead or natural gasoline from wet gas produced by the well.

[iii] Oil Royalties

The oil royalty clause in [2], below, requires the tenant to pay the landlord an amount equal to a stated fraction or percentage of the value of all oil produced on the leased premises. The oil is to be valued at the posted market price for oil of like gravity.

Oil is marketed according to its gravity [Alamitos Land Co. v. Shell Oil Co. (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 396, 402, 44 P.2d 573] . In the oil and gas industry the specific gravity of oil is expressed in "A.P.I. degrees" standardized by the American Petroleum Institute (A.P.I), which can be reached at 1220 L Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C. 20005, (202) 682-8000, http://www.api.org. The A.P.I. degree scale is inverted so that the oil with the lightest or least specific gravity has the highest number of A.P.I. degrees. All things being equal, the oil with the highest number of A.P.I. degrees commands the highest price [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 1, A Brief Introduction to Scientific and Engineering Background of Oil and Gas Law , § 101 (Matthew Bender)].

[e] Suspension Clause

Paragraph 16 of the form in [2], below, provides that the tenants' obligations under the lease are suspended in the event that rates for oil production fall below a certain level or the tenant is prevented from performing under the lease due to conditions beyond the tenant's control (force majeure clause). This suspension clause will not excuse the conditions precedent in an habendum clause to extend the lease unless the force majeure clause specifically applies to these conditions or unless the habendum clause incorporates the force majeure clause by reference [San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 411-413, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287] . In this form, the force majeure clause applies only to the tenant's obligations, not to any conditions contained in the lease.

[f] Surrender Clause

[i] Unilateral Right of Tenant

A surrender provision is set forth in Paragraph 20 of the form in [2], below. Almost every oil and gas lease, especially a "drill or pay" lease, contains a provision allowing the tenant to surrender all or any part of the leased premises back to the landlord [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 140, 114 P.2d 351 ; Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified SCh. Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 610, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640] . This is a unilateral right of the tenant, and the landlord's acceptance of the surrender is not required [Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. of California (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1179, 1186-1188, 242 Cal. Rptr. 403] .

[ii] Purpose of Surrender Clause

The purpose of a surrender clause is to protect an oil and gas tenant from the failure to develop once promising land that becomes apparently valueless for oil or gas producing purposes [Hightower, The Oil and Gas Lease in California, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 424 (1956)]. Since the tenant remains obligated to pay royalties for as long as it holds an interest in the property (which typically is for an indefinite term), most oil and gas leases include a surrender clause that enables the tenant unilaterally to quitclaim its interest and avoid paying any further royalties on land that proves to be unproductive [Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. of California (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1179, 1187, 242 Cal. Rptr. 403] .

[iii] Under "Drill or Pay" Type Lease

Under a "drill or pay" delay rental clause, the tenant has an absolute obligation to either drill on the leased land within a specified time or pay a delay rental of so much per acre for each acre subject to the oil and gas lease. The delay rental is normally payable periodically, for example, monthly or annually, until drilling is commenced on the lease premises [see Brown & Brown, the Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. VII, The Drilling and Rental Clause, § 7.01 (Matthew Bender)]. Thus, when it appears, perhaps from explorations made on adjoining property, that there is no oil or gas under the leased premises, the oil and gas tenant would either have to drill a useless well on the leased land or pay delay rental until expiration of the 10 or 20-year "exploration" term of the lease [Wooton v. McAdoo (1930) 110 Cal. App. 48, 53, 293 P. 694] . The surrender clause avoids this result by permitting the tenant to surrender the lease at any time and be discharged from all further obligations under it [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, Part Two, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 402 (1940)]. The surrender clause usually authorizes the tenant to surrender all or any part of the leased land. Thus, the tenant may retain the portion of the leased premises that appears most promising and reduce the delay rental under the lease by surrendering the rest of the leased acreage [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 680 (Matthew Bender)].

Under an "unless" type lease, the oil and gas lease is automatically terminated unless the tenant drills on the leased premises within a specified time or starts paying delay rental [see § 36.14[3]]. Thus, a surrender clause is not as important in an "unless" type oil and gas lease as it is in a "drill or pay" type oil and gas lease [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 680 (Matthew Bender)]. Surrender clauses, particularly those allowing the tenant to surrender all or any part of the leased premises, are, however, commonly included in "unless" type leases for two purposes [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, Ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 680 (Matthew Bender)]. First, a tenant who does not wish to drill immediately may, even under an "unless" type lease, reduce the delay rentals the tenant must pay to keep the lease active by retaining only the most promising part of the leased premises and surrendering the rest. Second, a tenant may reduce its obligation to drill further wells after drilling has commenced on the leased premises. Many leases provide that additional wells are to be drilled on the leased land until they equal a specified number per acre, once oil or gas in paying quantities is discovered.

In addition, many leases contain a so-called "dry-hole clause" requiring the tenant to continue drilling wells until the tenant discovers oil or gas in paying quantities on the leased land [see § 36.203]. Furthermore, the law will imply, if the lease does not expressly include it, an obligation on the part of the tenant to drill offset wells to protect the leased premises from being drained by wells drilled on adjoining properties [see § 36.15[2]]. The tenant may reduce its duty under each of these drilling obligations by surrendering that portion of the leased premises that appears to be the least promising [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 680 (Matthew Bender)].

On the unilateral exercise of a surrender right under an oil and gas lease, the geothermal interest automatically extinguishes and merges into the estate out of which it was carved [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 140, 114 P.2d 351 ; Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. of California (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1179, 1187, 1188, 242 Cal. Rptr. 403] . However, a surrender of only a portion of the leased premises under the surrender clause in no way affects or reduces the royalties payable under the lease [Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified School Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 608-611, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640] . Otherwise, a tenant could reduce the royalties provided for in the lease by surrendering the major portion of the leased premises and then drain the oil and gas reservoir lying under both the surrendered and unsurrendered portions of the premises through a well drilled on the unsurrendered portion [Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified School Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 609, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640] .

California courts consistently have recognized that the right to surrender a profit interest is a unilateral right vested in the tenant. Because the right to surrender may be exercised unilaterally by the tenant regardless of the landlord's consent, a lease containing a surrender clause lacks mutuality of obligations and cannot be specifically enforced by the tenant [Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. of California (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1179, 1187 n.7, 242 Cal. Rptr. 403] .

It was argued originally that a surrender clause in a lease was abortive and without consideration [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, Part Two, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 402 (1940)]. However, the real consideration for an oil and gas lease is the tenant's promise to drill wells and pay royalties. That promise is sufficient consideration to support the demising of the leased premises by the landlord and all the promises and provisions of the lease favoring the tenant [Hill v. General Petroleum Corp. (1932) 128 Cal. App. 284, 293, 16 P.2d 1035] . It is also sufficient to support a restriction in the surrender clause preventing the landlord from drilling on a surrendered portion of the leased land within a specified distance of a producing well on the unsurrendered portion of the land [Hill v. General Petroleum Corp. (1932) 128 Cal. App. 284, 293, 16 P.2d 1035] .

It has also been held that a surrender clause does not render the lease so unfair and inequitable that it cannot be enforced in equity by the tenant [Guffey v. Smith (1915) 237 U.S. 101, 115-116, 35 S. Ct. 526, 59 L. Ed. 856] . Neither does the apparent lack of mutuality of obligation prevent a tenant from bringing an equitable action to protect the leasehold interest. Equity requires mutuality of obligation only to grant specific performance of an executory contract. An action to protect a presently existing vested leasehold interest under an already executed lease is not an action for specific performance of an executory contract [Guffey v. Smith (1915) 237 U.S. 101, 115, 35 S. Ct. 526, 59 L. Ed. 856] .

On the surrender of land by a tenant, in the absence of any other restrictive covenants, the landowner may drill or permit others to drill wells on the surrendered land. The owner is under no duty to share royalties from oil produced by the newly drilled wells on the surrendered land with the original tenant who surrendered the land [Tanner v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 814, 823-824, 129 P.2d 383] .

[2] FORM

Oil and Gas Lease With "Drill or Pay" Development Clause

OIL AND GAS LEASE

_____[Name(s)], [status, e.g., husband and wife or a single man or a married woman dealing with her sole and separate property] ("Landlord"), and _____[name], [status, e.g., a California corporation] ("Tenant"), agree as follows:

Granting Clause

1. Landlord, in consideration of the rent payment of $[specify amount of rental for primary term], receipt of which is acknowledged by Landlord, and the covenants and conditions contained in this lease, does lease and demise to Tenant exclusively that certain tract of land in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [legal description of land] and containing [number] acres, more or less ("the premises"), for the purpose of exploring, mining, drilling, and operating for, and extracting, storing, and removing of oil, gas, hydrocarbons, and all associated substances.

Lease Term

2. Landlord leases to Tenant the premises for a term of _____ years from and after the date of this lease and so long thereafter as (a) any oil, gas, or other hydrocarbon substances are produced from the premises; (b) drilling operations are being continuously prosecuted on the premises; or (c) the term is extended by agreement of the parties.

Tenant's Rights

3. During the term of this lease, Tenant shall have the exclusive right to explore, drill, and mine for, and extract, store, and remove oil, gas, hydrocarbons, and other associated substances on and from the premises and for the following purposes:

(a) To enter and occupy the premises;

(b) To erect, construct, maintain, operate, use, repair, and replace on the premises structures, buildings, plants, machinery, casing, instruments, equipment, tanks, houses for employees, pipe lines, pole lines, power lines, telephone lines, telegraph lines, roads, and other structures and facilities as may be necessary or convenient;

(c) To inject in the premises gas, water, and other fluids;

(d) To drill on the premises for water and use, without charge, any water obtained by its operations on the premises; and

(e) To construct, erect, maintain, use, operate, repair, and replace on the premises a plant, with all necessary appurtenances, for the extraction of gasoline and other products from gas produced from the premises or other land in the vicinity of the premises.

Oil Royalty

4. Tenant shall pay to Landlord as royalty for all oil produced and removed from the premises an amount equal to [fraction or percentage, e.g., one sixth or one eighth or 162/3 percent or 121/2 percent] of the value of all oil produced and removed from the premises after the customary adjustments are made for temperature, water, and basic sediment. The value of the oil shall be the posted available market price in the district in which the premises is located for oil of like gravity on the day the oil is removed from the premises. Landlord, by giving 90 days' notice in writing to Tenant, may elect to receive the royalty provided for in this paragraph in kind, in which event Tenant shall, at no cost to Landlord, deliver to Landlord's tanks on the premises or to a pipe line designated by Landlord at the mouth of each well on the premises the percentage or fraction of all oil produced and removed from the premises as specified in this paragraph; provided, however, that a change from payment in kind to payment in value, or vice versa, may be made no more often than once each calendar year. No royalty shall be due Landlord for or on account of oil lost through evaporation, leakage, fire, or other casualty before marketing, or, when royalty oil is being taken in kind by Landlord, before delivery.

Gas Royalty

5. Tenant shall pay to Landlord as a royalty for all gas, including residual dry gas, produced, removed, saved, and sold from the premises an amount equal to [fraction or percentage, e.g., one sixth or 162/3 percent] of the net proceeds received by Tenant from the sale of the gas; provided, however, that nothing contained in this paragraph shall obligate Tenant to produce, save, or sell gas from the premises. Should Tenant, for purposes of having gasoline extracted from the gas, transport the gas, or cause it to be transported, to a gasoline extraction plant located on the premises or on other land, the cost of so transporting the gas shall be deducted from the amount received for it by Tenant before determining the net proceeds received by Tenant from the sale of the gas. Further, no royalty shall be payable to Landlord for any gas that is

(a) Lost, used, or consumed in the operation of the gasoline extraction plan; or

(b) Used by Tenant to repressure any oil bearing formation from which oil is being produced by a well or wells on the premises though the repressuring is accomplished by injecting the gas into wells not situated on the premises.

Casinghead Gasoline Royalty

6. Any casinghead gasoline extracted from gas produced from the premises may, at the option of Tenant, either be returned to the oil or gas formation from which it was produced or sold by Tenant at the best price and on the best terms reasonably obtainable. When the gasoline is returned to the oil or gas formation from which it was produced, no royalty shall be payable to Landlord for this gasoline. When the gasoline is sold, a royalty shall be paid by Tenant to Landlord equal to [fraction or percentage, e.g., one sixth or 162/3 percent] of the net proceeds received by Tenant for the sold casinghead gasoline. The term "casinghead gasoline" shall include natural gasoline produced by a gas well. When sold, casinghead gasoline shall be sold for not less than the public or open market price for this gasoline, when it exists, at its place of extraction.

No Royalty for Own Use

7. Tenant is not required to account for or pay royalties to Landlord for any oil, gas, or water produced from the premises and used by Tenant in its operations under this lease.

Payment of Royalties

8. On or before the _____ day of each month, Tenant shall pay to Landlord in the manner specified in this lease all royalties due to Landlord under this lease for any oil, gas, or other substances produced and removed or sold from the premises during the preceding month; provided, however, that should the amount of royalties due for any month be less than $[specify amount, e.g., $50], payment of this amount may be withheld until it equals $[specify amount, e.g., $50], or the end of the calendar year in which the royalty became due. All royalties, regardless of amount, shall be fully paid, if not otherwise already paid, at the end of the calendar year in which they accrue.

Development Clause

9. Tenant has paid to Landlord the rental in full for the first [number] months of the term of this lease. Unless Tenant terminates this lease sooner, as provided in this lease, Tenant, on or before the last day of that period, shall either commence drilling operations on the premises or pay to Landlord as rental the sum of $_____ per acre for each acre of the premises remaining subject to this lease and make a like payment of rental to Landlord on or before the _____ day of [month, e.g., January] each year thereafter, until drilling operations are actually commenced on the premises or this lease is terminated.

Manner of Payment of Rent

10. All rent and royalties payable under this lease shall be deemed duly paid when a check for the same, payable to the order of Landlord jointly, is deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Landlord at _____[mailing address]. Landlord may at any time, and from time to time, change its address for the purpose of this paragraph by giving written notice to Tenant in the manner prescribed in Paragraph 23 of this lease.

Payment for Lesser Interest

11. The rentals and royalties specified in this lease are based on the assumption that all the oil and gas rights in the premises are owned by Landlord and leased to Tenant under this lease. Should it hereafter appear that Landlord, at the time of making this lease, owns less than a fee simple in the premises and therefore less than all oil and gas rights in the premises, the rentals and royalties accruing under this lease to Landlord shall be reduced proportionately.

Oil Development

12. Should oil or gas be produced in paying quantities by any well drilled by Tenant on the premises, tenant shall continue to drill additional wells on the premises as rapidly as can be done with one drilling rig working with reasonable diligence until as many wells have been drilled on the premises as equal the number of acres held under this lease divided by [number, e.g., six]. Thereafter, all drilling obligations of Tenant on the premises shall be deemed fully performed.

Gas Development

13. Should Tenant complete a well or wells on the premises that fail or fails to produce oil in paying quantities but produces gas in paying quantities, tenant shall either sell so much of the gas as it may be able to find a market for and pay Landlord the gas royalties specified in this lease or suspend operations of the gas well or wells and pay Landlord a yearly rental in advance of $_____ per acre for each acre held under this lease at the commencement of the suspension until producing operations on the premises are again resumed by Tenant. Should Tenant complete a well on the premises that fails to produce oil in paying quantities but produces gas in paying quantities, Tenant shall not be obligated to conduct any further drilling operations on the premises, except to drill offset wells as described in Paragraph 14 of this lease, until in its judgment the drilling of additional wells under the provisions of this lease is warranted by existing or anticipated market conditions.

Offset Wells

14. Should oil or gas be discovered in paying quantities by means of any well drilled on property adjoining the premises and within _____ feet of the exterior boundary of the premises, Tenant shall offset this well by commencing the drilling of an offset well on the premises provided both of the following conditions are met:

(a) Oil or gas in paying quantities is produced by the adjoining well for longer than a 30-day production test period; and

(b) The drilling obligations of Tenant expressed in Paragraph 12 of this lease have not been fully performed.

Conduct of Operations

15. All operations to be performed by Tenant on the premises in accordance with this lease shall be performed by Tenant at Tenant's own cost and expense and not at the expense of Landlord or any of them. Further, Tenant shall conduct all operations in a careful workmanlike manner, in accordance with all laws, statutes, and regulations relating to the operations of oil and gas production, and shall allow no liens to attach to the premises as a result the oil and gas operations.

Suspension Clause

16. Drilling and production operations under this lease may be suspended by Tenant during any period the price offered generally in the vicinity of the premises to producers for oil of the quality produced from the premises is [number, e.g., 80] cents or less per barrel at the well. Furthermore, the obligations of Tenant under this lease shall be suspended during any period tenant is prevented from performing these obligations, in whole or in part, by strikes, lockouts, actions of the elements, other matters or conditions beyond the control of Tenant, or the statutes, rules, or regulations of any governmental agency, be it federal, state, municipal, or otherwise.

Taxes

17. Tenant shall pay all taxes on any improvements placed or oil stored by it on the premises and [fraction or percentage, e.g., five sixths or 831/3 percent] of the taxes levied and assessed on the petroleum mineral rights in the premises. Landlord shall pay all taxes levied or assessed against the premises and [fraction or percentage, e.g., one sixth or 162/3 percent] of the taxes levied and assessed against the petroleum mineral rights in the premises. Should any state, federal, or local government levy a license or tax on the oil produced under this lease or on Tenant's right to conduct operations under this lease, Tenant shall pay [fraction or percentage, e.g., five sixths or 831/3 percent] and Landlord shall pay [fraction or percentage, e.g., one sixth or 162/3 percent] of this license or tax.

Surface Use

18. Landlord shall have the right to use the surface of the premises, and all of it, for agriculture and any purposes that do not interfere with Tenant's rights under this lease.

Default Clause

19. Should Tenant default in the payment of any rent or royalty due under this lease or in the performance of any other obligation imposed on it by this lease, and this default is not corrected within [number] days after written notice of the default has been served on Tenant by Landlord, then Landlord may terminate this lease and all rights of Tenant in and to the premises or under this lease shall cease. However, if any oil well has been drilled or is being drilled on the premises by Tenant and Tenant is not in default in connection with this well, Tenant's right to this well and to one acre surrounding the well, together with Tenant's right to any rights-of-way necessary for egress and ingress to the well, shall not be affected by the default or terminated by Landlord.

Surrender of Land

20. Tenant, either before or after discovery of oil or gas on the premises, at any time, and from time to time, may surrender all or any part of the premises to Landlord or its successors in interest by executing and delivering to Landlord or its successors in interest an instrument of surrender particularly describing the portion surrendered and recording an acknowledged copy of the surrender instrument in the office of the County Recorder of the county in which the premises are located. On surrender by Tenant of all or any part of the premises, Tenant's obligations under this lease as to the land so surrendered shall cease, and full title to the surrendered land shall vest, free and clear of this lease, in landlord or its successors in interest; provided, however, that Landlord shall not drill any oil or gas wells on any land surrendered in accordance with this Paragraph within [number] feet of any well drilled by Tenant on any other portion of the premises.

Termination of Lease

21. On termination of this lease, or on surrender by Tenant of any of the premises under Paragraph 20 of this lease, Tenant shall peaceably surrender possession of the premises, or the portion surrendered to Landlord or its successors in interest in as good condition, reasonable wear and tear excepted, as it was on the date of this lease. Tenant shall have the right, on termination of this lease or surrender of any part of the premises, to all improvements placed on the premises or the surrendered part of the premises by Tenant under this lease including all structures, buildings, plants, machinery, casing, instruments, equipment, or tanks erected or installed by Tenant.

Assignments

22. Landlord and Tenant shall each have the right to assign its interests in this lease, in the premises, and in the oil and gas rights to the premises; provided, however, that no assignment by Landlord shall increase Tenant's obligations under this lease and no assignment by Landlord shall be binding on Tenant until Tenant has been given written notice, signed by Landlord, of the assignment.

Notices

23. Any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party to this lease by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed to be served when personally delivered to any Landlord by Tenant or to any executive officer of Tenant by Landlord. In lieu of this personal service, the notice or other communication shall be deemed served when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Landlord at _____[mailing address], or to Tenant at _____[mailing address]. Either party to this lease may change the party's address for purposes of this section by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this section.

Binding on Heirs

24. This lease shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns of the parties to this lease.

Attorneys' Fees

25. If any litigation is commenced between the parties to this lease concerning the Premises, this lease, or the rights and duties of either in relation to the Premises or to this lease, the party prevailing in that litigation shall be entitled to, in addition to any other relief that may be granted in the litigation, a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in that litigation that are determined by the court in that litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Sole Agreement

26. This instrument constitutes the sole agreement between Landlord and Tenant respecting the Premises, the leasing of the Premises to Tenant, or the lease term created under this lease, and correctly sets forth the obligations of Landlord and Tenant to each other as of its date. Any agreements or representations respecting the Premises or their leasing by Landlord to Tenant not expressly set forth in this instrument are null and void. This lease may not be extended, amended, modified, altered, or changed, except in a writing signed by Landlord and Tenant.

Definition of Terms

27. All words, phrases, and terms used in this lease shall, as used in this lease, have the meaning ascribed to them in the _____ edition of Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms (Matthew Bender). Any words, phrases, or terms not included in that publication shall, as used in this lease, have the meaning ascribed to them by common usage and the general law of the State of California on the date of this lease.

CHAPTER 36 OIL AND GAS RIGHTS AND LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Oil and Gas Lease and Alternative Provisions

18-36 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 36.201

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce

§ 36.201 Habendum Clause Extending Lease for as Long as Oil or Gas Is Produced in Paying Quantities

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth an alternative provision that may be substituted for the habendum clause of the oil and gas lease set forth in § 36.200[2], P 2. The purpose of an habendum clause is to limit and define the estate granted or conveyed [Estate of Blake (1910) 157 Cal. 448, 462, 108 P. 287] . The form in [2], below, is referred to as a "thereafter clause," that is, a clause that provides for the continued validity of the tenant's interest after the expiration of the primary term, so long as a specified state of affairs continues [San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 405-406, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287] .

This form provides three different variations of the standard definition of "in paying quantities," which term, as explained in [c], below, will determine how long the lease will continue. Generally, the more the term "in paying quantities" is qualified by limitations, the easier it will be for the tenant or the landlord to escape from an uneconomical lease.

[b] Exploratory and Production Periods

The habendum clause of an oil and gas lease typically grants a determinable fee estate in a profit 'a prendre on the leased land to the tenant by specifying two different time periods for which the lease is to run. The first period is an "exploratory period" of a specified number of years. The second period is an indefinite "production period" continuing after the expiration of the exploratory period for "so long thereafter" as production of drilling continues on the leased premises [Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 9-10, 53 P.2d 962] .

[c] Meaning of "In Paying Quantities"

[i] Implied Term in Habendum Clause

The difference between the habendum clause of the lease in § 36.200[2], P 2, and this form is that the phrase "in paying quantities," as defined, is used to extend the term of the production period. That is, the lease will continue "so long thereafter" as oil or gas is produced "in paying quantities." Although the habendum clause of the lease in § 36.200[2], P 2, does not mention "in paying quantities," this phrase is an impli ed term of the habendum clause as a matter of law [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 604.5 (Matthew Bender)]. When an oil or gas lease is for a specified period and "so long thereafter" as oil or gas is "produced" from the leased land, the word produced means "produced in paying quantities" [Barnard v. Gibson (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 527, 533-534, 224 P.2d 90 ; Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1528 n.1, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] . In this case, the law supplies its own definition of the phrase "in paying quantities" [Renner v. Huntington-Hawthorne Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 99, 244 P.2d 895 ; see [ii], below].

[ii] Excess Over "Operating Costs"

In California, and in the great majority of states, the phrase "in paying quantities" when used in the habendum clause of an oil or gas lease means the production of oil or gas in quantities sufficient to yield a return in excess of the operating costs of producing it [Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1528, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611 ; Transport Oil Co. v. Exeter Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 616, 622, 191 P.2d 129 ; West v. Russell (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 638, 643, 90 Cal. Rptr. 772 ; see Renner v. Huntington-Hawthorne Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 99, 244 P.2d 895 ; see also [2], Second Alternative, below]. The fact that the royalties payable under the lease are insufficient to enable the landlord to pay the real property taxes on the land covered by the lease is immaterial [West v. Russell (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 638, 643, 90 Cal. Rptr. 772] , unless provided for in the lease [see [2], Third Alternative, below].

As discussed in [ii], above, the definition of "in paying quantities" refers to an excess over "operating costs." Expenses related to oil and gas production will be classified as either operating or capital expenditures. Operations which merely serve to improve the productivity of a well and which do not involve new drilling or major equipment, are in the nature of repairs or maintenance and have long been held to be items which are considered current expenses in determining whether or not a well is producing in paying quantities. The initial drilling and equipping costs ("sunk" costs) are excluded from this calculation. Current operating expenses have been held to include all of the following [Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1530-1532, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] :

- The cleaning out and servicing of wells [West v. Russell (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 638, 644, 90 Cal. Rptr. 772 ; Barnard v. Gibson (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 527, 534-535, 224 P.2d 90] ;

- Labor costs, including the costs of hiring a pumper [Kerr v. Hillenberg (Okla. 1962) 373 P.2d 66 ; Sunburst Oil & Refining Co. v. Callender (1929) 84 Mont. 178, 274 P. 834] ;

- Taxes, including taxes on "mining rights" [West v. Russell (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 638, 638, 90 Cal. Rptr. 772] ;

- Electricity [Edwards v. Hardwick (Okla. 1960) 350 P.2d 495 ; Fick v. Wilson (Tex. Civ. App. 1961) 349 S.W.2d 622] ;

- Landlord's royalties [Welport Oil Co. v. Fairfield (1942) 51 Cal. App. 2d 533, 541, 125 P.2d 97 ; Transport Oil Co. v. Exeter Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 616, 622-623, 191 P.2d 129] ; and

- The reperforating and testing of an oil and gas well [Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App.

3d 1518, 1531-1532, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] .

[iv] Different Meaning Than in Development Clause

In construing the meaning of the phrase "in paying quantities" in an habendum clause, the court is dealing with a tenant who has already expended the amount necessary to drill and equip a well [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 604.6(b) (Matthew Bender)]. Because the tenant has already invested all the drilling costs required to produce oil from the leased premises, the tenant should be entitled to recoup as much of that cost as possible from operation of the well the tenant has placed on the leased premises [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 604.6(b) (Matthew Bender); see [2], First Alternative, below, for provision building in the drilling and equipment costs as part of definition of "in paying quantities"]. Consequently, so long as sufficient oil and gas is being produced from the leased premises to return a profit to the tenant over and above the current operating costs for producing the oil or gas, oil or gas is deemed being produced "in paying quantities" for purposes of the lease's habendum clause and the lease term continues [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 604.6(b) (Matthew Bender)].

In contrast, when the phrase "in paying quantities" is used in the development provisions of the lease [see § 36.200[2], P 12], it limits the tenant's obligation to continue drilling on the leased premises [Transport Oil Co. v. Exeter Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 616, 621, 191 P.2d 129] . In that context, the use of the phrase has the effect of excusing the tenant from expending more money drilling on the leased land unless oil or gas has been discovered "in paying quantities" [Transport Oil Co. v. Exeter Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 616, 621, 191 P.2d 129] . The tenant should not be required, under the development provisions of a lease, to expend more money drilling on the leased land unless the tenant can reasonably expect to be reimbursed for that money from the oil or gas that will be discovered by the drilling. Thus, the phrase "in paying quantities," as used in the development provisions, means oil and gas in sufficient quantities to cause a prudent person experienced in the oil and gas industry to reasonably expect to receive a reasonable profit over and above the cost of drilling, equipping, and operating the enterprise [Renner v. Huntington-Hawthorne Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 99, 244 P.2d 895 ; see Humphrey v. Placid Oil Co. (E.D. Tex. 1956) 142 F. Supp. 246, 255] .

[d] Time Periods for Paying Quantities Analysis

There is no hard-and-fast rule for determining over what period the paying quantities analysis must be made. Obviously, the period cannot be unreasonably short (for example, a few days or even weeks) or else a landlord could claim that a lease had terminated when in fact it was merely shut-in for repairs or maintenance. On the other hand, using an excessively long period of many years could keep a lease "alive" long after it had become uneconomic and was no longer producing in "paying quantities" by using high initial and very short-lived production rates to claim an artificial "profit" years later through averaging [Lough v. Coal Oil, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1528-1529, 266 Cal. Rptr. 611] . Although a month was "inadequate to provide a reasonably accurate financial picture as to the profitability of production," an entire year was an adequately lengthy period [Transport Oil Co. v. Exeter Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 616, 624, 191 P.2d 129] .

[e] Condition Precedent in Habendum Clause

Lease provisions are either covenants or conditions. A covenant is a promise to do or refrain from doing a specific act. A condition is a qualification to the parties' obligations; if it occurs, the interest is terminated or enlarged [San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 411, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287] . The form in [2], below, is a condition precedent to the extension of the term of the lease. It should be noted that the force majeure clause commonly found in oil and gas leases [see § 36.200[2], P 16] will not excuse the conditions precedent in an habendum clause to extend the lease unless the force majeure clause specifically applies to these conditions or unless the habendum clause incorporates the force majeure clause by reference [see San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 410-413, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287 ; see also [f], below].

[f] Term Extended by Other Clauses in Lease

It is not uncommon for the habendum clause to be modified by other clauses in the lease, which may have the effect of extending the duration of the lease beyond the primary term in the absence of commercial production. Clauses that deal with rights and obligations of the tenant following the drilling of a dry hole, for example, are frequently designed to have this effect [Southern Pacific Land Company v. Westlake Farms, Inc. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 807, 821-822, 233 Cal. Rptr. 794] . Some dry hole clauses are designed to give the tenant a stated period of time after to the completion of a dry hole to commence new operations, even if the stated period of time extends into the secondary term [Southern Pacific Land Company v. Westlake Farms, Inc. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 807, 821-822, 233 Cal. Rptr. 794] . However, for this provision to extend the term of the lease, the habendum clause should refer to these other provisions in the lease that are intended to have that effect [see [2], below].

§ 36.202 "Unless" Type Development Clause Terminating Lease When Drilling Not Commenced Within Stated Period Unless Rental Paid to Landlord

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

Oil and gas leases are known in the industry as either "unless" or "or" type leases depending on the wording of their development or delay rental clause [Richfield Oil Corp. v. Bloomfield (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 589, 590, 229 P.2d 838 ; see § 36.14]. The development or delay rental clause set forth in § 36.200[2], P 9, makes that lease an "or" type lease. The form in [2], below, sets forth an alternative development or delay rental clause that may be used to transform the oil and gas lease in § 36.200[2] into an "unless" type lease. If used, it should replace § 36.200[2], P 9.

[b] Purpose of Development or Delay Rental Clause

The principal purpose of an oil and gas lease is to procure the exploration of the leased land followed by proper development if warranted [Hall v. Augur (1927) 82 Cal. App. 594, 600, 256 P. 232] . The tenant cannot hold the lease for purely speculative purposes at the expense of the landlord [Hall v. Augur (1927) 82 Cal. App. 594, 600, 256 P. 232] . Otherwise, the landlord's land would be burdened by a lease that could and should be profitable but in fact is profitless through neglect, and the landlord is prevented from making other arrangements for the property's development [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 686, 74 P. 296] .

For these reasons, most oil leases that provide for a royalty on the oil produced from the land to be paid to the landlord contain provisions requiring the almost immediate sinking of wells [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 685, 74 P. 296] . In fact, when an oil and gas lease does not contain an express provision for the immediate sinking of wells, and the only consideration for the lease is the promise of royalties, the law will imply a covenant requiring the tenant to use diligence to discover and produce oil or gas [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 684-685, 74 P. 296 ; Hall v. Augur (1927) 82 Cal. App. 594, 601, 256 P. 232] .

There are two types of development or deferred rental clauses in common use today [Blake, The Oil and Gas Lease, Part Two, 13 S. Cal. L. Rev. 393, 401-408 (1948)]:

- The first, the "unless" type, automatically terminates the oil and gas lease if its terms are not met; and
- The other, the "or" type, gives the oil and gas landlord the alternative of either suing for the delay rental or terminating the lease.

For a discussion of the distinctions between the two types, see § 36.14. Both the "unless" type development clause in this form and the "or" type development clause in § 36.200[2] are worded so there should be no confusion as to their meaning.

[c] Acts Constituting Commencement of Drilling

When an oil and gas lease provides that the tenant must commence drilling operations within a specified time or pay delay rental, a question might arise as to what constitutes the commencement of drilling operations on the leased premises [see Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 593, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239 ; Wilcox v. West (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 267, 271-272, 114 P.2d 39] .

The general rule is that actual drilling is unnecessary. Work preparatory to drilling is sufficient to constitute the commencement of drilling if performed with a bona fide intention to proceed with actual drilling operations prosecuted with reasonable diligence [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 595, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239 ; Wilcox v. West (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 267, 272, 114 P.2d 39] . Thus, the following activities may be sufficient to constitute the commencement of drilling [Wilcox v. West (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 267, 272, 114 P.2d 39] :

- Work or activities at the location of well sites;
- Hauling of lumber onto the premises;
- Erection of derricks;
- Providing a water supply; or
- Moving machinery on the premises preliminary to commencing drilling.

As a corollary to the general rule that preliminary work if done in good faith may constitute the commencement of drilling operations on the leased premises, failure to continue the work may be evidence of bad faith [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 596-598, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] . Thus, after the preliminary work is completed and the deadline for commencing drilling operations on the leased premises has past, failure to prosecute actual drilling with due diligence is evidence the tenant did the preliminary activities without any real intent to commence drilling [Butler v. Nepple (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 589, 595, 6 Cal. Rptr. 767, 354 P.2d 239] .

§ 36.203 Dry-Hole Clause Requiring Tenant to Drill Another Well or to Pay Delay Rental When Well Drilled on Leased Premises Does Not Produce Oil or Gas

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form sets forth an alternative lease provision known in the petroleum industry as a "dry-hole clause" [see Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. IX, The Dry Hole and Lease Extension Clause, § 9.01 (Matthew Bender)]. A "dry-hole" is a completed well that does not produce oil or gas, or at least does not produce oil or gas in paying quantities [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "D" (Matthew Bender)]. A "dry-hole clause" provides that the lease must terminate unless the tenant continues drilling wells on the leased premises during the lease's exploratory term, as stated in the habendum clause of the lease, though the preceding well drilled by the tenant is a dry hole [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 613]. In some situations, a "dry hole" provision may also be the means by which a tenant may keep a lease alive after drilling a non-producing well [San Mateo Community College District v. Half Moon Bay Limited Partnership (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 401, 413 n.5, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287] , at least in those instances when the habendum clause provides that the lease may be extended by other provisions in the lease such as a "dry hole" clause [see Southern Pacific Land Company v. Westlake Farms, Inc. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 807, 821-822, 233 Cal. Rptr. 794] .

[b] Purpose of Dry-Hole Clause

The primary purpose of a dry-hole clause is similar to that of a development or delay rental clause [see § 36.202[1][b]]. The principal purpose of an oil and gas lease is to procure the exploration of the leased land [Hall v. Augur (1927) 82 Cal. App. 594, 600, 256 P. 232] . Since an oil and gas lease is valuable to the landlord, whose principal consideration for the lease is its promise of royalties only on the discovery of oil or gas, it is not only important to see that drilling is commenced at an early date, but that the drilling be continued until the oil and gas possibilities of the land have been fully explored and developed [Acme Oil & Mining Co. v. Williams (1903) 140 Cal. 681, 684-685, 74 P. 296] .

Dry-hole clauses have been recognized in California and applied, when appropriately worded, to a well that produced oil but not in paying quantities. This result follows from the fact that it is commonly known that some oil wells never produce in paying quantities [Siemon v. Lyon (1942) 51 Cal. App. 2d 350, 353, 124 P.2d 893] . The operator must be given a reasonable time, however, to determine whether the well will produce in paying quantities [Welport Oil Co. v. Fairfield (1942) 51 Cal. App. 2d 533, 537, 125 P.2d 97 ; see § 36.201[1][d] (time period for paying quantity analysis)].

§ 36.204 Shut-In Royalty Clause for Payment of Specified Amount When Operations of Gas Well Are Suspended

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

Although a tenant drills a well during the exploratory term of the lease capable of producing gas in paying quantities, the tenant may be unable to market the gas [Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, Ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses, § 6.08 (Matthew Bender)]. In this case the tenant would normally be forced to suspend operation of the well to avoid losing money on operating expenses. As a result, the oil and gas lease would terminate at the end of the exploratory term specified in its habendum clause because neither gas nor oil is being produced from the leased land in paying quantities [see § 36.201[1][b]].

The form in [2], below, sets forth a lease provision designed to prevent termination of the lease in this situation. It is known in the industry as a "shut-in royalty clause" and provides that the tenant may continue the lease in full force and effect when the tenant has suspended operations of a gas well on the leased premises by paying a specified rent to the landlord [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 631 (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Application of "Shut-In Royalty Clause"

The "shut-in royalty clause" in this form is typical in that it applies only when gas but not oil has been discovered by the oil and gas tenant on the leased premises [see Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, Ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses, § 6.08 (Matthew Bender)]. This is because the operation of an oil well capable of producing oil in paying quantities seldom has to be suspended because there is no market for the oil. Sometimes, however, the operation of a gas well capable of producing gas in paying quantities must be suspended because there is no pipeline available to carry the gas from the well to market and the gas is therefore, in effect, not marketable [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 631 (Matthew Bender)]. Unlike oil, gas cannot be produced, saved, and marketed from a well unless and until a pipeline connection with the well is secured [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 6, The Oil and Gas Lease--Express Provisions , § 631 (Matthew Bender)].

The shut-in royalty clause in this form is not limited, however, to the situation in which operations must be suspended because of the lack of a pipeline connection with the well. It would also be applicable when operations of the gas well must be suspended for conservation purposes or other reasons [see Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, Ch. VI, The Royalty Clauses, § 6.08 (Matthew Bender)].

[2] FORM

Shut-In Royalty Clause for Payment of Specified Amount When Operations of Gas Well Are Suspended

Shut-In Royalty

_____. Should Tenant complete only a well, or wells, on the premises that produces gas but not oil in paying quantities, Tenant may suspend operations of the well, or wells, and continue this lease in full force as if gas in paying quantities were being produced from the premises by paying to Landlord on the first day of the month following the suspension of operations and on the anniversary of that day each year during the period of suspension the sum of $_____ per year in lieu of any and all other rentals or royalties that may be produced by the well or wells. The provisions of this paragraph shall apply to any suspension of operations of a well, or wells, described in it either during the primary term of this lease or at any time thereafter.

§ 36.205 Clause Authorizing Leased Land to Be Combined or Pooled With Other Land for Drilling and Production Purposes

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth a model "pooling clause" that may be inserted in an oil and gas lease. The clause authorizes the tenant to combine the leased land with other land in the vicinity to form one or more production units or pools at any time during the continuance of the lease. However, it limits the tenant's power to pool the leased land with other land after oil or gas has been discovered in paying quantities on it or any other land in the proposed pool. It also limits the number of acres that may be included in the pool. When this limitation or any other set forth in this form is not desired, it may be omitted and the remaining subdivisions of the clause renumbered.

[b] Methods of Protecting Oil and Gas Rights

If an oil and gas reservoir underlies several parcels of land owned by different persons, a well drilled on any of the parcels will drain the oil from under all the parcels [see § 36.12[1]]. In this event, there are only two ways the owners of the various parcels can protect their oil and gas rights [Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289 (1960)]:

- Drill offset wells on each of their own parcels; or
- Enter into an agreement to combine or pool their respective rights to the oil and gas in the reservoir.

As a result it has become common practice for oil tenants to insert a "pooling clause" in the lease giving them authority to pool the oil rights to the leased land with the oil rights to other lands in the vicinity [Gregg, Community Leases and Pooling Clauses, 7 UCLA L. Rev. 289, 302 (1960)].

Generally, pooling clauses in oil and gas leases are designed to provide for pooling, not unitization. For a discussion of "pooling" and "unitization," see § 36.17.

[2] FORM

Clause Authorizing Leased Land to Be Combined or Pooled With Other Land for Drilling and Production Purposes

Pooling

_____. Tenant may at any time during the continuance of this lease, in Tenant's sole discretion, combine or pool all or any part of the premises with other land in the immediate vicinity of the premises [or within _____ miles of an exterior boundary of the premises or in the same section of the U.S. Geological Survey as the premises] to form one or more drilling or production units ("pools"), provided

(a) No pool or pools created by combining and pooling of the premises, or any part of the premises, shall be effective until a Declaration of Pooling describing the land included in the pool and the owners of the land is executed by Tenant, recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the county or counties in which the premises is located, and served on Landlord.

(b) No pool or pools shall be created later than _____ days after the discovery in paying quantities of oil or gas on any of the land, including the premises, to be included in the pool.

(c) No pool created in accordance with this paragraph shall exceed [number] acres for oil development or [number] acres for gas development.

(d) Should oil or gas in paying quantities be produced from any land, including the premises, included in a pool created in accordance with this paragraph, for the purpose of computing the royalties payable under this lease to Landlord the proportion of the oil or gas so produced as the surface area of the premises included in the pool bears to the total surface area of all land included in the pool shall be allocated to and regarded as having been produced from the premises and not from any other tract of land. The royalty payments to be made under this lease to Landlord shall be based solely on the oil and gas allocated to and considered, under this subparagraph, produced from the premises.

(e) For drilling and developmental purposes, all land included in a pool created in accordance with this paragraph shall be considered as subject to this lease and the drilling of any well on any part of the land included in a pool created in accordance with this paragraph shall satisfy Tenant's drilling obligations under this lease to the same extent as if the well were drilled on the premises expressly described in this lease.

(f) Tenant need not offset any well drilled on any land included in a pool created in accordance with this paragraph by drilling an offset well on this property.

(g) Tenant may surrender, in the manner described in Paragraph _____ of this lease, any land, including all or any portion of the premises, included in a pool created in accordance with this paragraph and be immediately relieved of all obligations regarding the land so surrendered. Any owner of land in the pool who does not own, other than by reason of the pool, any interest in the land surrendered shall have no further interest in the land surrendered, in any gas or oil thereafter produced from the surrendered land, or any right to royalties for oil or gas produced from the surrendered land. The owner of the surrendered land shall, however, continue to be entitled to receive royalties for any oil or gas produced by any land included in the pool in the proportion specified in subparagraph (d) of this paragraph until the owner again leases the surrendered land for oil and gas exploration and development purposes.

(h) Should only part of the premises be included in a pool created in accordance with this paragraph, the remainder of the premises not included in the pool shall be considered as held by Tenant under a separate lease of the same date as this lease and containing all the provisions contained in this lease. A default by Tenant as to the portion of the premises not included in the pool shall not be a default as to the part of the premises included in the pool, and vice versa.

(i) Any pool or pools created in accordance with this paragraph may be terminated by Tenant, in Tenant's sole discretion, at any time before oil or gas is produced from any of the lands included in the pool by a declaration stating that the pool, identifying it by reference to the recorded Declaration of Pooling that created it, has been terminated. The declaration stating the pool has been terminated shall be executed by Tenant, recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the county or counties in which the Declaration of Pooling creating the pool was recorded, and served on Landlord.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth the instrument that should be used by a tenant or its assignee in exercising its right under the lease surrender provision [see § 36.200[1][f] (surrender clauses)]. The instrument of surrender should be executed and acknowledged before a notary public and recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the oil and gas lease is recorded. The recording fees are set by statute [see Gov. Code § 27361 for amounts]. Under the surrender clause set forth in § 36.200[2], P 20, an executed copy of the surrender instrument must also be delivered to the landlord or his or her successors in interest.

When the surrender is being made by an assignee of the original tenant, the bracketed recital appearing under "Recital Identifying Assignment" should be included in the surrender instrument. When the surrender is by a more remote assignee of the original tenant, for example, by an assignee of the assignee of the original tenant, successive "Recital Identifying Assignment" paragraphs should be included in the surrender instrument reciting the various assignments of the lease.

§ 36.211 Assignment of Tenant's Interest in Oil and Gas Lease Reserving Overriding Royalty--Long Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, and the form in § 36.212[2], both set forth forms for the assignment of a tenant's interest in an oil and gas lease, reserving to the original tenant an overriding royalty in oil or gas produced from the leased premises. The form in § 36.212[2], however, is a one-paragraph assignment signed by the assignor and a separate one-paragraph acceptance of assignment signed by the assignee. The form in [2], below, sets forth an agreement between the assignor and assignee in which the assignor assigns its interest in the lease and the assignee agrees to do certain things favoring the assignor. The assignor also warrants that it has not encumbered the leased premises and that the lease the assignor purports to assign is still in good standing and effect. In addition, this form assumes the assignor is the original tenant under the oil and gas lease being assigned. Thus, its identity of lease recitals identify only the lease being assigned and the book and page where that lease is recorded [see § 36.212[2] for recitals for prior assignments].

[b] Distinctions Between Assignment and Sublease

The difference between an assignment and a sublease is that an assignment transfers the tenant's entire interest in the property whereas a sublease transfers only a portion of that interest, with the original tenant retaining a right of reentry at some point during the unexpired term of the lease [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 242-243, 73 P.2d 1163 ; Kendall v. Ernest Pestana, Inc. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 488, 492 n.2, 220 Cal. Rptr. 818, 709 P.2d 837] . A lease is both a contract and a conveyance of an estate in real property. Therefore the original tenant is bound to the landlord by both privity of contract and privity of estate [see § 36.13[1]]. When the original tenant assigns its leasehold estate in the leased premises, the assignee, though not bound to the original landlord by privity of contract, is bound to the original tenant by privity of estate [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 243, 73 P.2d 1163] .

When a tenant, however, executes a sublease, the tenant carves a lesser leasehold estate out of the original leasehold estate and conveys it to the subtenant. Thus, the subtenant is not bound to the original landlord by either privity of contract or privity of estate [Reed v. South Shore Foods, Inc. (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 705, 710, 40 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

An instrument designated by the parties as an "assignment" may be held to be a "sublease" [see Garner v. Knudsen (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 747, 754-756, 277 P.2d 890] . If a tenant reserves both an overriding royalty and a right of reentry for breach of any condition in the assignment, the assignment is held to be a sublease. In this case, the right of reentry amounts to a "contingent reversionary interest" in the purported assignor and therefore, the assignor has not assigned the whole of the unexpired term of the lease [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 243, 73 P.2d 1163 ; Garner v. Knudsen (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 747, 755-756, 277 P.2d 890] .

An important distinction exists, so far as a landlord is concerned, between the subleasing of property subject to an oil and gas lease and the assignment of the oil and gas lease. A subtenant is not liable to an original landlord in damages for breach of covenants in the original lease [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 242, 73 P.2d 1163 ; Recorded Picture Company v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 350, 364, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 742] , unless the subtenant specifically assumes the tenant's obligations under the original lease [Bennett v. Leatherby (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 449, 452, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 340] . In contrast, whatever remedies the landlord of any real property has against the immediate tenant for the breach of any agreement in the lease, or for recovery of possession, the landlord has against the assignees of the tenant for any cause of action accruing while they are assignees [Civ. Code § 822].

However, when in a sublease of oil and gas property the subtenant expressly agrees to assume and perform the master oil and gas lease on the property, the promise can be enforced by the original landlord. In this case, the original landlord is a third-party beneficiary of the express assumption promise contained in the sublease and may bring an action for damages against the subtenant for breach of the master lease's covenants [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 244-245, 73 P.2d 1163] . Thus, the original landlord may maintain an action for damages against the subtenant for breach of the implied covenant, implied in every oil and gas lease, to protect the leased premises from drainage [Hartman Ranch Co. v. Associated Oil Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 232, 244, 73 P.2d 1163 ; see § 36.15[2]].

The term "royalty" is generally applied to the fractional interest in all oil and gas produced from a particular piece of land and is created either by reservation when an oil and gas lease is entered into or by grant to a third person [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 135, 114 P.2d 351] .

The term "overriding royalty" is applied generally to a fractional interest in the tenant's share of all oil and gas produced under an oil and gas lease [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 135, 114 P.2d 351] . It is in addition to the share of oil and gas produced from the land that is reserved for the land owner [Meeker v. Ambassador Oil Co. (10th Cir. 1962) 308 F.2d 875, 882] and must be created by the oil tenant from its share, after payment of the landowner's oil royalty [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 135, 114 P.2d 351] . It may be created by a sublease when the tenant transfers all its interest under the lease except an overriding royalty to a subtenant, or it may be created by a grant by a tenant of a fractional part of its share of the oil and gas to some third person [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 135, 114 P.2d 351] .

If, without subleasing, the tenant grants the overriding royalty to a third party, the grant constitutes an interest in real property and must be in writing. The interest, however, is not unlimited but is a determinable interest limited to the duration of the existing oil and gas lease. Termination of the lease terminates the overriding royalty interest granted the third party [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 139-140, 114 P.2d 351] . Whether the grant of the overriding royalty makes the grantee a tenant in common with the tenant and able to enter the leased premises and share in the operation of the oil development and drilling functions depends on the intent of the parties. In the absence of a clear indication of a contrary intent, the grant, when not coupled with a sublease, will be held to retain in the grantor-tenant the operating rights contained in the profit 'a prendre granted by the oil and gas lease, and grant to the third party simply a share in the oil and gas produced under the lease [La Laguna Ranch Co. v. Dodge (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 132, 138, 114 P.2d 351] .

ASSIGNMENT OF OIL AND GAS LEASE BY TENANT

_____. _____[Name(s)], [status, e.g., husband and wife or a single man or a California corporation] ("Assignor"), and _____[name(s)], [status, e.g., husband and wife or a single man or a California corporation] ("Assignee") agree:

Identity of Lease

WHEREAS, Assignor is tenant under that certain Oil and Gas Lease executed on _____[date], by Assignor as Tenant and _____[name(s)] as Landlord covering the real property in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [legal description of real property]; and

WHEREAS, this lease is duly recorded in Book _____ at Page _____ of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ County, California.

Assignment

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the sum of $_____ and other good and valuable consideration, receipt of which is acknowledged, Assignor does sell, assign, transfer, and convey to Assignee all of Assignor's right, title, and interest in and to the lease and the real property covered by the lease on the following terms and conditions.

Override Royalty

There is excepted from the above assignment and conveyance and reserved and retained in Assignor an overriding royalty equal to [fraction or percentage] of the value of all oil produced and removed under the lease and the net proceeds received by Assignee from the sale of all gas and casinghead gasoline produced and sold under the lease.

The overriding royalty reserved and retained by Assignor shall be payable to Assignor at the same time, and shall be computed in the same manner, as is provided in the lease for the payment, and computation, of royalties payable under it to Landlord.

Assignee to Perform Lease

Assignee accepts, on the terms and conditions specified in this agreement, this assignment of lease and agrees to truly and fully perform all the terms and conditions of the lease to be performed under the lease by Tenant.

Indemnity Agreement

Assignee shall indemnify and hold Assignor and the property of Assignor, including Assignor's interest under this agreement, free and harmless from any and all claims, liability, loss, damage, or expense resulting from Assignee's performance of the lease, Assignee's occupation of any part of the real property covered by the lease, or the exploration for or extraction by Assignee under the lease of any oil, gas, or other hydrocarbon substances.

Modification and Extension of Lease

Assignee shall have the right to obtain from Landlord under the lease, or Landlord's successor in interest as Landlord under the lease, any modifications or extensions of the lease Assignee may desire so long as the modifications or extensions do not reduce in any way the overriding royalty reserved and retained by Assignor under this agreement or otherwise infringe on any rights of Assignor under this agreement.

Development Clause

Unless Assignee, on or before _____[date], has either commenced drilling operations on the land covered by the lease or reassigned its rights under the lease to Assignor, Assignee shall pay or tender to Assignor in advance on the first day of each and every month a monthly rental of $_____ until drilling operations are commenced by Assignee on the land covered by the lease or Assignee's rights in and to the lease are reassigned by Assignee to Assignor. No payments made under this paragraph shall in any way extend the period within which Assignee must commence drilling operations on the land covered by the lease beyond one year from the date of this agreement. Any amounts payable under the lease to landlord under the lease as deferred rentals until drilling operations are actually commenced on the land covered by the lease shall be paid, for a period not exceeding one year from the date of this agreement, by Assignor from the rental payable to the Assignor by Assignee in accordance with this paragraph.

Default Clause

Should Assignee fail to commence drilling operations on the land covered by the lease within one year from and after the date of this agreement, or should Assignee fail or default in the performance of the lease or this agreement, then Assignor, at Assignor's option, may either (a) declare Assignee's rights under the lease and this agreement forfeited and resume Assignor's status as Tenant under the lease or (b) bring an appropriate action in law or equity to either enforce this agreement or recover appropriate damages.

Access to Wells

Assignor shall have access to any well drilled by Assignee on the land covered by the lease and shall have the privilege of witnessing all tests and operations conducted on or in connection with any of these wells. On written request of Assignor, Assignee agrees to furnish Assignor with copies of logs and reports obtained or prepared in connection with any well drilled on the land covered by the lease.

Assignor's Warranties

Assignor makes no warranty of title with regard to the land covered by the lease but Assignor does warrant and represent to Assignee that

(a) The rights and interest conveyed to Assignee by this agreement are free and clear of all liens, charges, and encumbrances created by Assignor;

(b) Assignor has the right to make the transfer and conveyance effectuated by this agreement;

(c) No default or defaults now exist or have been declared under the lease; and

(d) The lease is now in good standing and in full force and effect.

Manner of Payments to Assignor

All moneys payable under this agreement by Assignee to Assignor shall be deemed duly paid when a check therefor payable to the order of Assignor is deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Assignor at _____[mailing address]. Assignor may from time to time change the address for the purpose of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change of address in the manner prescribed by Paragraph _____ of this agreement.

Notices

Any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this agreement, the lease, or by law to be served on or given to either party to this agreement, Assignor or Assignee, by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served when personally delivered to the party to whom it is directed or when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Assignor at _____[mailing address], or to Assignee at _____[mailing address]. Either party, Assignor or Assignee, may change its address for the purpose of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this paragraph.

Attorneys' Fees

Should any litigation be commenced between the parties to this agreement concerning the assignment and transfer made by it, the lease, or the rights or duties of either party in relation to the lease or this agreement, the party, Assignor or Assignee, prevailing in the litigation shall be entitled, in addition to any other relief as may be granted, to a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in the litigation, which shall be determined by the court in the litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Binding on Heirs

All the terms and provisions of this agreement shall inure to the benefit of and shall be binding on the heirs, executors, administrators, representatives, successors, and assigns of each of the parties to this agreement.

Sole Agreement

This agreement constitutes the sole agreement between Assignor and Assignee respecting the lease or the assignment of the lease by Assignor to Assignee and correctly sets forth the obligations of Assignor and Assignee to each other as of its date. Any agreements or representations respecting the lease or its assignment to Assignee not expressly set forth in this agreement are null and void.

The form in [2], below, sets forth a short form assignment of an oil and gas lease by an assignee of the original tenant. This form reserves to the assignor an overriding royalty in any gas or oil produced under the assignment. This form differs from the assignment in § 36.211[2] in that it is intended for use by an assignee of the original oil and gas tenant instead of the original oil and gas tenant. It should be noted that in both forms, the assignee agrees to perform all the terms of the lease being assigned to him or her. This should allow the original landlord to bring an action directly against the assignee for damages caused by any breach of a covenant, express or implied, of the lease [see § 36.211[1][c]].

The form in [2], below, assumes that there have been three prior assignments of the lease. The recitals identify not only the lease being assigned and its recordation but each of the three previous assignments of that lease and their recordation. However, by either adding to or omitting the recitals of former assignments the form can be made to reflect the actual number of assignments at the time of the particular transaction for which it is used. In some areas there has been a great deal of speculative buying and selling of oil and gas leases and some leases have been assigned as many as five or six times before drilling is commenced on the leased premises [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 401 (Matthew Bender)].

§ 36.213 Conveyance of Mineral Interest in Oil and Gas by Landowner

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth a deed of mineral interest or grant deed conveying a fractional mineral interest in all oil and gas produced from a specified piece of real property. It differs from the deed in § 36.214[2], which conveys an expense-free royalty interest in all oil and gas produced from a specified piece of real property. It differs from the assignment in § 36.215[2], which assigns only a percentage of the royalties to be received by a landowner under a particular oil and gas lease.

This form conveys to the grantee an undivided fractional interest in the landowner's exclusive right to drill for and produce oil and gas from the land described in the deed [see Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234-235, 217 P.2d 416] . Thus, it would convey the right, equal with that of the grantor, to enter on the property described in it and to drill on and produce oil and gas from that land [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 125-126, 43 P.2d 788] . Apparently, if no valid oil and gas lease on the property already exists, either the grantor or grantee, or both jointly, may lease the property described in the deed to an oil and gas tenant. Thus, this form should not be used unless the grantor wishes to convey to the grantee a permanent interest in the real property described in the deed and to make the grantee a tenant in common of the grantor's right to explore for and produce oil and gas from the land described in the deed.

Because the deed in this form conveys an interest in real property it should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying full fee title [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. Further, when the value of the mineral rights being conveyed exceeds $100, the deed in this form may be subject to taxation under the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act in counties that have adopted ordinances imposing a tax in accordance with that Act [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 11901-11934]. For a discussion of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act and the taxes that may be imposed under it, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

[b] Distinctions Between Royalty and Mineral Interests

[i] Royalty Interest

A landowner's exclusive right to drill for and produce oil from its land may be assigned or transferred separately from the other rights that go to make up land ownership [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 118-121, 43 P.2d 788] . Furthermore, this exclusive right may be split up and assigned in different parts to different persons [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237] . The landowner usually develops its exclusive right to drill for and produce oil from its land by executing a lease with an oil and gas producer. It conveys to the tenant the exclusive right to drill for oil or gas on the leased land and to retain the major portion of the oil or gas brought to the surface [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237] . The interest conveyed to the oil and gas tenant, in the hands of a person who owns no other interest in the land, is called a profit 'a prendre [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 118, 43 P.2d 788] .

Under the normal oil and gas lease the tenant agrees, as consideration for the lease, to deliver to the landowner, at no cost or expense to the landowner, a certain percentage or fraction of the oil and gas recovered by the tenant [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 649, 52 P.2d 237] . This percentage or fraction of oil or gas is called a "royalty" and represents the landowner's "royalty interest" under the lease. It is referred to as a 1/6, 1/8, or 15 percent royalty interest depending on the fraction or percentage of produced oil and gas agreed to be delivered to the landowner [Robinson v. Southwestern Dev. Co. (1954) 130 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 277 P.2d 825] .

The royalty interest retained by the landowner under an oil and gas lease is itself an interest in real property in the nature of a profit 'a prendre and may be assigned, in whole or in part [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 123-124, 43 P.2d 788] . In fact, it may be assigned, in whole or in part, before any oil and gas lease has been executed by the landowner and it may be assigned in perpetuity [see Beam v. Dugan (1933) 132 Cal. App. 546, 549, 23 P.2d 58] . An assignment in perpetuity not only assigns all or a part of the royalty interest under an existing lease, but also assigns all or a part of the royalty interest under any future leases [Beam v. Dugan (1933) 132 Cal. App. 546, 549, 23 P.2d 58] .

Thus, when a landowner conveys to a third person 1/8 royalty interest, the third person is entitled to 1/8 of all oil or gas produced from the land and the landowner has no right to execute an oil and gas lease calling for a lesser royalty [see Maxwell, A Primer of Mineral and Royalty Conveyancing, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 449, 454 (1956)]. If, after the conveyance, the landowner executes an oil and gas lease on the land under which tenant agrees to pay a 1/6 royalty, the landowner is entitled to 1/24 of all oil and gas produced under the lease and the landowner's assignee is entitled to 1/8 or 3/24 of all oil and gas produced under the lease [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 657-658, 52 P.2d 237] .

[ii] Mineral Interest

In addition to being able to assign or convey fractional interests in its royalty interest under any oil and gas lease the landowner may place on a designated parcel of land, a landowner may also assign or convey fractional interests in its exclusive right to explore for and produce oil and gas from that land [Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 235, 217 P.2d 416] . When the landowner conveys an interest to explore and produce minerals, the landowner is said to have conveyed a "mineral interest" and not merely a "royalty interest" to the grantee, and the landowner and the grantee become tenants in common of the exclusive right to explore and produce oil and gas [Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234, 217 P.2d 416] . Because both the landowner and the fractional grantee are tenants in common of the right, either may enter the land and drill for and produce oil or gas from the land [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 655, 52 P.2d 237] . Furthermore, either tenant in common may make an oil and gas lease conferring on a tenant the right to enter the land and drill for and produce oil or gas from the land [Atlantic Oil Co. v. Los Angeles County (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 602, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006] .

When one cotenant of the mineral interest in oil and gas discovers and produces oil and gas from the land, the cotenant must account to its other cotenants for their respective shares of the oil and gas produced because the producing cotenant is exhausting the very thing that the cotenants own in common--the minerals [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 656, 52 P.2d 237] .

However, when one cotenant of the mineral interest produces oil and gas, the cotenant is entitled to charge the interests of the nonproducing cotenants in that oil and gas with their proportionate share of the drilling and operating expenses incurred by the producing cotenant [Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234, 217 P.2d 416] . The general rule that nonproducing cotenants are generally subject to a charge or deduction for their proportion of drilling and operating expenses is controlled by agreement of the parties, express or necessarily implied [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 657, 52 P.2d 237 ; Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1779, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] . When one cotenant produces oil from the land by leasing it to a developer, and the lease provides for payment of a 1/6 royalty to the landowner, the cost to the cotenant of producing the oil is 5/6 of the oil retained by tenant [Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234, 217 P.2d 416] . When the nonproducing cotenants accept benefits under the oil and gas lease, they ratify the lease [Atlantic Oil Co. v. Los Angeles County (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 602, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006] and so agree that the 5/6 of the oil retained by the tenant is a fair charge for the expense of drilling and producing oil under the lease [Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234, 217 P.2d 416] .

The discussion in [i] and [ii], above, highlight two important practical distinctions between a fractional "mineral interest" and a fractional "royalty interest" in oil and gas rights. First, the owner of a fractional mineral interest is a tenant in common with the landowner of the oil rights and may either (1) enter the land and drill for oil or (2) place an oil and gas lease on the land. However, the owner of a fractional royalty interest can do neither of these things. The owner of this interest has a right only to share in the royalty payable under an oil and gas lease if a lease is ever placed on the property involved [Maxwell, A Primer of Mineral and Royalty Conveyancing, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 449, 454 (1956)].

Second, the owner of a fractional mineral interest must bear a proportionate part of the expenses involved in producing oil or gas from the land [Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234, 217 P.2d 416] . The owner of a fractional royalty interest does not have to bear any of the expenses of production [Robinson v. Southwestern Dev. Co. (1954) 130 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 277 P.2d 825] . Thus, courts sometimes refer to the interests created by a conveyance as an "expense-free royalty interest" or an "expense-bearing mineral interest" [see Robinson v. Southwestern Dev. Co. (1954) 130 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 277 P.2d 825] .

Since the owner of a 1/6 royalty interest is entitled to receive 1/6 of all oil and gas produced from that land free and clear of any expenses [Maxwell, A Primer of Mineral and Royalty Conveyancing, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 449, 454 (1956)], when there is an oil and gas lease providing for a royalty of 1/6 to be paid to the landlord, the owner of a 1/6 royalty interest would be entitled to the entire royalty payable under the lease [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 657-658, 52 P.2d 237] .

In contrast, the owner of a 1/6 mineral interest is entitled to receive the 1/6 that remains after enough oil and gas has been sold to pay the expenses of production. Thus, when an oil and gas lease provides for a royalty of 1/6 of all oil and gas to be paid to the landlord, the owner of a 1/6 mineral interest in the oil and gas rights to the land is entitled to 1/6 of the oil and gas remaining after payment of 5/6 of the oil and gas to the tenant for producing it or, in other words, 1/36 of the oil and gas produced from the land [see Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 234, 217 P.2d 416] .

[c] Construction of Deed Granting Mineral or Royalty Interest

There has been confusion over whether a royalty interest or mineral interest was being conveyed by deeds or assignments that purported to convey "one eighth of all oil, gas, and other hydrocarbon substances in, under, or which may be produced and saved from" certain real property [see Little v. Mountain View Dairies (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 232, 233, 217 P.2d 416] . Deeds dealing in the transfer of oil interests must be construed as a whole in the light of both of the following [Dabney-Johnston Oil Corp. v. Walden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 637, 651, 52 P.2d 237 ; Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1779, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574] :

- The circumstances under which they were executed; and
- The expressed intent of the parties at that time

The deed in this form expressly states it is conveying a fractional interest in oil and gas rights "as a mineral interest and not as a royalty interest." Conversely, the deed in § 36.214[2] expressly states it is conveying a fractional interest in oil and gas rights "as an expense-free royalty interest and not as a mineral interest." In like manner, the provisions in § 36.216[2] and § 36.217[2] reserve to the grantor of real property a mineral interest in the oil and gas rights to the property. The form in § 36.218 reserves to the grantor of real property a royalty interest in the oil and gas rights to the property.

The form in [2], below, sets forth a deed of royalty interest or grant deed conveying to the grantee a fractional royalty interest in perpetuity in all oil and gas produced from a specified piece of real property. It differs from the form in § 36.213[2], which conveys a mineral interest, and from the form in § 36.215[2], which assigns only a percentage of the royalties to be received by a landowner under a particular oil and gas lease. For discussion of the nature of a royalty interest as conveyed by the deed in this form, see § 36.213[1][b][i]. The discussion in that comment should be reviewed before a decision is made as to whether the deed in this form, the deed in § 36.213[2], or the assignment in § 36.215[2] should be used in a particular situation.

The deed in [2], below, conveys an interest in real property. Thus, it should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying full fee title to real property [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. Further, when the value of the royalty rights being conveyed exceeds $100, the deed in this form may be subject to taxation under the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act in counties that have adopted ordinances imposing a tax under that Act [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 11901-11934]. For discussion of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act and the taxes that may be imposed under it, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

The form in [2], below, sets forth an assignment of lease by which an oil and gas lease landlord assigns a portion of the royalties payable under an existing oil and gas lease. This form differs from the deeds in § 36.213[2] and § 36.214[2], which convey fractional "mineral" or "royalty" interest in oil and gas rights. The assignment in this form conveys neither a "mineral" nor a "royalty" interest as those terms are generally understood and described in § 36.213[1][b]. It simply assigns a fractional part of the royalty agreed to be paid under a specific oil and gas lease. When the specific oil and gas lease described in the assignment ends, the rights of the assignee also end. Under either the deed contained in § 36.213[2] or the deed in § 36.214[2], the rights of the grantee continue in perpetuity.

The right of an oil and gas landlord to receive a royalty under an oil and gas lease has been declared a form of interest in real property [Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 123, 43 P.2d 788] . Thus, the assignment in this form conveys an interest in real property and should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying real property [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].

§ 36.216 Grant Deed Excepting and Reserving Mineral Interest in Oil and Gas With Complete Rights for Grantor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth a grant deed conveying real property from a grantor or grantors to a grantee but reserving to the grantor or grantors a mineral interest in oil and gas rights to the conveyed land. The important part of this form is the "EXCEPTING AND RESERVING" clause of the deed. It illustrates the proper way to reserve to the grantor or grantors a mineral interest, as distinguished from a royalty interest, in the oil and gas rights of the real property being conveyed.

The reserving clause of this deed may either be used as part of a deed drawn by counsel, or it may be added to the printed form Grant Deed distributed in California by most title companies. It is included in this form as part of a complete grant deed to show its proper location as part of the legal description of the property being conveyed and as a separate single-spaced paragraph of that description.

The reserving clause in this form should be compared with the similar provision in § 36.217[2], which reserves a mineral interest to a grantor without the right to enter on the land surface of the conveyed real property. It should also be compared with the form in § 36.218[2], which reserves a royalty interest to the grantor. The distinctions between a "mineral interest" and a "royalty interest" in oil and gas rights are discussed in § 36.213[1][b]. That discussion should be read before a decision is made as to which grant deed reservation clause should be used in a particular case--the one in this form, the one in § 36.217[2], or the one in § 36.218[2].

[b] Reservation and Exception of Oil Rights

A mineral or royalty interest may be retained by a land grantor either in perpetuity or for a limited time [Rousselot v.

Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 241, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438 ; see § 36.12[2][c]]. This exception or reservation does not violate the rule against perpetuities [see § 36.18[2]]. A reservation in a grant is to be interpreted in favor of the grantor [Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1778, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574]

§ 36.217 Grant Deed Provision Reserving Mineral Interest in Oil and Gas to Grantor Without Right to Enter Land Surface

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth a provision reserving a mineral interest that may be inserted into a grant deed conveying real property. This form differs from the form in § 36.216[2] because, although it reserves a mineral interest in the grantor, it prohibits the grantor's entry on the surface of the land. Normally, the owner of a mineral interest in the oil and gas rights to a parcel of land has the right to enter the land and drill for oil on it [see § 36.213[1][b][ii]]. Here, however, it is assumed that the grantor will either slant drill to reach the reservoir under the property conveyed or that the reservoir can be drained efficiently by a vertical well on adjoining land under the grantor's control.

The provision in this form should be inserted in a grant deed in the same manner as the reservation provision in § 36.216[2].

The form in [2], below, is a provision in a grant deed retaining in the grantor a royalty interest in oil and gas rights to property being conveyed by the grantor. Unlike the reservation clauses in § 36.216[2] and § 36.217[2], which reserve a mineral interest to the grantor, this form reserves an expense-free royalty interest to the grantor. The nature of mineral interests and royalty interests in oil and gas rights, as well as the distinctions between the two types of interests, is discussed in § 36.213[1][b].

When used, the provision in this form should be inserted in a grant deed in the same manner the "EXCEPTING AND RESERVING" clause in § 36.216[2] is inserted in the grant deed set forth in that form.

§ 36.230 Agreement and Grant of Easement for Slant Wells Through Land Adjoining Property Leased for Oil and Gas Purposes

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth the type of instrument a well driller will require from owners of the land through which a slant drilled well is to pass on its way to an oil and gas reservoir. It was adapted from the fact situation and "Stocker Strip Agreement" described in Dawson v. Standard Oil Co. (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 85, 87, 30 Cal. Rptr. 600 . It grants to the well driller or grantee an easement through the grantor's land at a depth of at least 100 feet below land surface for a slant well to an oil and gas reservoir under neighboring land. In return for the easement the well driller or grantee agrees to pay the grantor a royalty on all oil and gas produced through the easement and slant well. The grantee or oil well driller is given no right, however, to locate any structures or pipelines on the surface or in the top 100 feet of the grantor's land.

Sometimes it is impossible or undesirable to drill a well on the surface of the land directly above a known oil and gas reservoir [see, e.g., Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified School Dist. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 603, 605, 70 Cal. Rptr. 640] . In this case, a tenant of the land containing the oil and gas reservoir will drill a so-called "slant" or "whipstock" well at an angle from the surface of some other parcel of land to the reservoir under the leased land [see Sehle v. Producing Properties, Inc. (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 430, 432, 41 Cal. Rptr. 136] . To do so the oil and gas tenant will, of course, have to obtain drilling rights from the owner of the land from which the well is to be drilled and an easement for the tenant's slant well from the owners of all land lying between that parcel and the parcel under which the reservoir lies.

A "slant well" is also known as "whipstock well" and a "directional well." A "directional well" is a well that departs materially from the vertical [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, vol. 8, Manual of Oil and Gas Terms, "D" (Matthew Bender)]. In other words, a "slant or directional well," instead of being drilled perpendicular to the surface of the earth, is drilled at an angle toward a specific direction or reservoir of oil and gas [see Stafford v. Union Oil Co. (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 307, 309, 343 P.2d 380] .

Thus, a slant well will have its surface location or "well head" at one location and its "producing interval" or bottom at another location several feet or hundreds of feet to the east, west, north, or south of its surface location [see Richfield Oil Corp. v. Crawford (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 729, 733, 249 P.2d 600] . The "producing interval" of a well is that portion of an oil well through which oil is taken into the well to be raised by mechanical means to the mouth of the well [Victory Oil Co. v. Hancock Oil Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 222, 225, 270 P.2d 604] .

[c] Interest Created: Easement vs. Profit 'a Prendre

The right to drill a slant or traverse well through land to capture oil or gas on adjoining land is an easement as distinguished from a profit 'a prendre created by an oil and gas lease on adjoining lands [Sehle v. Producing Properties, Inc. (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 430, 432, 41 Cal. Rptr. 136] . An easement is typically and primarily the privilege of doing a certain act on another's property [Sehle v. Producing Properties, Inc. (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 430, 432-433, 41 Cal. Rptr. 136] . A profit 'a prendre is the right to take something from another's property [Gerhard v. Stephens (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 864, 878 n.7, 69 Cal. Rptr. 612, 442 P.2d 692] . The easement to drill a slant well is appurtenant to the oil and gas lease on the land from which the oil or gas is being taken and, when no other limitation is expressed in the instrument creating it, lasts for the duration of that lease [Sehle v. Producing Properties, Inc. (1964) 41 Cal. Rptr. 136].

[d] Recording and Transfer Tax Requirements

As noted in [a], above, the agreement for slant wells creates and conveys an interest in real property. Thus, the grantee or oil well driller should have the instrument (1) executed and acknowledged before a notary public and (2) recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county where the grantor's property is located [see Gov. Code § 27361 for current fee schedule].

It also appears that the agreement in this form creates an easement or interest in real property of sufficient length and quantity to be subject to the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 11901-11934]. A local documentary transfer tax may be imposed, by ordinance, on each deed, instrument, or writing by which real property sold within the county is granted, assigned, transferred, or otherwise conveyed to, or vested in, another person when the consideration or value of the interest or property conveyed, exclusive of the value of any lien or encumbrance remaining on the property at the time of sale, exceeds $100 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911(a), (b)]. An easement is subject to the Documentary Transfer Tax Act if it potentially may endure for a substantial period of time, for example, as in the following [62 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 87 (1979)] :

- A perpetual easement;
- An easement for life; or
- An easement for a fixed period of years that (1) can be renewed by the easement holder, or (2) is of sufficient length so as to approximate a perpetual easement or an easement for life.

Thus, if the county in which the grantor's land is located has adopted a documentary transfer tax, payment of the tax would appear to be a prerequisite to the recordation of the instrument. For further discussion of the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

[e] Unauthorized Slant Well as Trespass; Accrual of Cause of Action

A slant well drilled from one parcel of land into an oil and gas reservoir under another parcel of land without permission of the owner of the land under which the reservoir is located is a trespass [Stafford v. Union Oil Co. (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 307, 313, 343 P.2d 380] . An action to enjoin or abate for damages on account of an underground trespass by means of a well drilled for oil or gas from a surface location on land other than the real property in which the plaintiff has some right, title, or interest must be commenced within 180 days after the cause of action accrues [Code Civ. Proc. § 349.4(a)]. When the slant well has been drilled unintentionally, the cause of action accrues 10 days after the well is first placed in production [Code Civ. Proc. § 349.4(b)]. When the slant well is drilled intentionally, the cause of action does not accrue until the aggrieved party discovers the trespass [Code Civ. Proc. § 349.4(b)]. Though the slant well would ordinarily be a continuing trespass, it gives rise to only one cause of action accruing either 10 days after start of production or on plaintiff's discovery of the intentionally drilled well [Code Civ. Proc. § 349.4(b)].

Recital of Grantee's Leased Land

WHEREAS, Grantee is tenant under that certain lease, recorded in Book _____ at page _____ of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ County, California, executed on _____[date], by _____[name(s)] as Landlord and covering that certain land in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [insert legal description of leased land];

Recital of Grantor's Land

WHEREAS, Grantor is the owner in fee of that certain parcel of land ("Grantor's Land") in the County of _____, State of California, more particularly described as follows: [insert legal description of grantor's land]; and

Recital of Agreement's Purpose

WHEREAS, Grantee is desirous of obtaining a right-of-way and easement to drill slant wells, as defined below, through Grantor's Land to obtain and produce oil, gas, and other hydrocarbon substances from the leased land.

Grant of Easement

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the sum of $_____ and other good and valuable consideration, receipt of which is acknowledged, Grantor grants to Grantee the exclusive right-of-way and easement to drill and operate, at any time and from time to time, slant wells into and through Grantor's Land on the following terms and conditions.

Purpose of Slant Wells

1. The only purpose for which slant wells may be drilled and operated under this grant is the production of water, oil, gas, and hydrocarbon substances from the leased land.

Included Rights

2. The right to drill and operate slant wells under this grant shall include the right of Grantee to repair, redrill, deepen, maintain, and abandon these wells.

Definition of Slant Wells

3. The slant wells authorized by this grant to be drilled and operated into and through Grantor's Land shall be wells

(a) The surface or wellhead locations of which are on the other lands;

(b) The bore-holes and subsurface course of which transverse Grantor's Land at a depth of not less than 100 feet below the present surface of Grantor's Land; and

(c) The producing intervals of which shall be located in the leased land.

Royalty Payments

4. As full consideration and compensation for the rights granted under this agreement, Grantee shall account and pay to Grantor on or before the last day of April, July, October, and January each year

(a) A sum equal to the "sale value" of [fraction or percentage] of all oil produced and run to pipeline from the leased land during the three calendar months preceding the month of payment by means of slant wells drilled through Grantor's land;

(b) A sum equal to the "sale value" of [percentage or fraction] of all gas produced, saved, and sold from the leased land during the three calendar months preceding the month of payment by means of slant wells drilled through Grantor's Land; and

(c) A sum equal to the "sale value" of [percentage or fraction] of all gasoline extracted and saved from gas produced from the leased land during the three calendar months preceding the month of payment by means of slant wells drilled through Grantor's Land.

"Sale Value" Defined

5. As used in Paragraph 4 of this agreement,

(a) "Sale value" of all oil produced and run to pipeline from the leased land shall be the value of the oil at the current price posted by Grantee for oil of like gravity and quality in the same vicinity as the leased land;

(b) "Sale value" of all gas produced, saved, and sold from the leased land shall mean the net proceeds received by Grantee for the gas. However, should any gas produced and saved from the leased land by means of slant wells drilled through Grantor's Land not be sold but used by Grantee for purposes not connected with or incident to its operations on the leased land, Grantee shall pay Grantor for [fraction or percentage] of the price being received by Grantee for similar surplus gas from _____[name of utility or other consumer of gas] in the same geographical area. The value of the gas used by Grantee and not sold shall be measured in cubic feet at [specify pounds, e.g., 14.73] pounds per square inch absolute pressure and at a temperature of [specify degrees, e.g., 60] degrees Fahrenheit in accordance with procedure outlined in [name of publication, e.g., California Natural Gasoline Association Bulletin No. TS-353]; and

(c) "Sale value" of all gasoline extracted and saved from gas produced from the leased land shall mean the value of the gasoline at the current price being offered or paid by Grantee for gasoline of like specification and quality in the vicinity of the leased land.

Oil and Gas Used on Leased Land

6. Grantee shall not be obligated to account for or pay Grantor for oil, gas, or gasoline produced from the leased land and used by Grantee in connection with its operations on the leased land.

Payment for Lesser Interest

7. The payments specified in this instrument are based on the assumption that Grantor owns a full fee simple estate in Grantor's Land. Should it hereafter appear that Grantor owns less than a fee simple estate in Grantor's Land, the payments accruing under this instrument to Grantor shall be reduced proportionately.

Manner of Payments

8. All payments to be made to Grantor under this instrument shall be deemed duly paid when paid by check payable to the order of Grantor and the check is deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to _____[mailing address]. Grantor may from time to time change the address specified in this paragraph by giving written notice of the change in the manner specified in Paragraph 12 of this agreement.

Continuance of Agreement

9. This agreement shall remain in full force and effect as long as the lease covering the leased land and recorded in Book _____ at Page _____ of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ County, California remains in full force and effect.

Surface of Grantor's Land

10. Grantee shall have no right to enter or to locate any structure or facility on or within 100 feet below the surface of Grantor's Land.

Rights in Leased Land

11. Nothing contained in this agreement shall be construed to convey, grant, or give to Grantor any right, title, claim, or interest in or to the leased land or any slant wells drilled in accordance with this instrument. Further, nothing contained in this agreement shall obligate Grantee to drill any slant wells or to produce, save, sell, or otherwise dispose of any oil, gas, or gasoline from the leased land. Grantee reserves the right to modify, surrender, assign, or terminate all or any part of its interest in the leased land, at any time and without Grantor's participation or consent.

Notices

Any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this instrument or by law to be served on or given to either party to this agreement, Grantor or Grantee, by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served when personally delivered to the party to whom it is directed, or any officer of the party to whom it is directed. In lieu of personal service, any notice or other communication shall be deemed duly served and given when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Grantor at _____[mailing address], or to Grantee at _____[mailing address]. Either party, Grantor or Grantee, may change their address for purposes of this paragraph by giving written notice of this change to the other party in the manner specified in this paragraph.

Binding on Heirs

13. This agreement shall be binding on and inure to the benefit of the heirs, administrators, executors, successors, and assigns of each of the parties to this agreement.

Sole Agreement

14. This agreement constitutes the sole agreement between Grantor and Grantee concerning Grantor's Land, the leased land, or the drilling of slant wells through Grantor's Land. Any prior or other agreement or representation not expressly set forth in this agreement is of no further force or effect.

Attorneys' Fees

15. If any litigation is commenced between the parties to this agreement concerning the Grantor's Land, the leased land, or the drilling of slant wells through Grantor's Land, the party prevailing in that litigation shall be entitled to, in addition to any other relief that may be granted in the litigation, a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in that litigation that are determined by the court in that litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

§ 36.231 Dry-Hole Contribution Letter--Contribution Not Due Unless Test Well Is a Dry Hole

The form in [2], below, sets forth a typical so-called "dry-hole letter" [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 431.1]. The purpose of a dry-hole letter agreement is to finance the drilling of test wells in promising but unproven oil fields. A promising but unproven oil field is known as "wildcat" territory and a test well drilled in it is called a "wildcat" well [United States v. Stockton Midway Oil Co. (S.D. Cal. 1917) 240 F. 1006, 1007] . The writer of the dry-hole letter will receive geological information from the results of the test well.

A dry-hole letter (or a bottom-hole letter [see § 36.232]) typically is used when two oil and gas developers or operators have oil and gas leaseholds in the same wildcat or oil field adjacent or near to each other. The essence of a dry-hole letter is that one of the two neighboring oil and gas leaseholders offers to pay a part of the cost incurred by the other in drilling a well on the other's leasehold if certain conditions are met [see Seaman, Financial Aspects of Oil Transactions, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 550, 560 (1956)]:

- The leaseholder drilling the test well must furnish the other leaseholder all the geological information he or she uncovers in drilling the well;

- The well must be drilled to a specified depth or to a depth sufficient to test a specified rock or sand strata; and

- The well must be a dry hole incapable, without further drilling, of producing oil or gas in paying quantities.

The writer of the dry-hole letter is under no duty to make a financial contribution toward the cost of drilling the test well, under a dry-hole letter, if the well, after or before it is drilled to the depth designated in the letter, produces oil and gas in paying quantities [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 431.1 (Matthew Bender)].

Whether, for purposes of a dry-hole letter, a test well is capable of producing oil or gas in paying quantities depends on the definition of the term "in paying quantities" used by the parties [see discussion of this term in § 36.201[1][c]]. In this form, the term is specifically defined to avoid disputes.

Re: Test Well in _____ County, California; Dry-Hole Contribution

Dear _____:

When accepted by you this letter shall constitute a binding agreement by us to make, on the terms and conditions set forth in this letter agreement, a dry-hole contribution to the cost of a test well to be drilled by you in _____ County, California:

1. The well shall be located _____ feet from the [e.g., west] line and _____ feet from the [e.g., south] line of the real property in _____ County, California described as follows: [set forth legal description of property].

2. Drilling operations for the well shall be commenced within [number, e.g., 30 days] from and after the date of this letter and shall be prosecuted with due diligence until the well has reached either of the following:

- A depth that in the opinion of our geologist is sufficient to test the

- 10,000 feet.

3. Should the well be abandoned as a dry hole after reaching one of the depths described in Paragraph 2 of this letter and you have complied with all the terms and conditions of this letter, then, in that event and only in that event, we shall pay to you a dry-hole contribution toward the cost of drilling the well of $_____. The well cannot be abandoned as a dry hole when it is capable, without further drilling, of producing oil or gas "in paying quantities," as that term is defined in this letter.

4. At all times during the drilling, testing, and completing of the well, our representatives shall have free access to the derrick floor and shall be entitled to receive all the information concerning the well that they would be entitled to receive were we drilling the well ourselves under their supervision.

5. At all times during the drilling and testing of the well you must furnish us with all of the following:

(a) Daily written drilling reports;

(b) Samples, unless we elect not to require them, of all cuttings and cores obtained in the drilling operations;

(c) A certified copy of the driller's log for the well;

(d) A true copy of an electrical well log from the base of the surface casing to the total depth of the well;

(e) Sufficient notice of the taking of any cores or of the making of any other tests of the well for us to have, and if we so desire, a representative present to witness the operation; and

(f) Should the well result in a dry hole, a completion and plugging report evidencing the plugging of the well in accordance with applicable federal, state, and local laws.

6. After location of the well has been staked but before spudding in of the well, you must furnish us with a plat showing the exact location of the well.

7. You must test, in the manner an ordinarily prudent person experienced in oil and gas exploration would test, all horizons and formations in the well that show reasonable probability of producing oil or gas "in paying quantities," as the term "in paying quantities" is defined in this letter, as evidenced by one of the following:

(a) The electrical well log required to be made by subparagraph (d) of Paragraph 5 of this letter;

(b) Any electrical well log made of the well either before or after the well has reached the depths required by this letter; or

(c) Any electrical well log when considered in conjunction with evidence from any cuttings, cores, or other tests made of the well.

8. Neither this letter nor the agreement resulting from your acceptance of this letter shall be construed as creating a partnership or joint venture between us. The well described in this letter shall be drilled at your sole cost, risk, and expense. You agree to indemnify us and hold us and our property free and harmless from any and all claims, damages, costs, or expenses arising because of or incurred by you in your drilling the well.

9. Neither the agreement embraced in this letter, the rights arising under it, or the duties required by it, may be assigned or delegated by you to any person or entity without our express written consent.

10. All notices, communications, and other information required under this letter to be furnished to us by you shall be delivered by you to our office at _____ Street, _____, California in the form as the person in charge of that office may from time to time require.

11. All notices, communications, and other matters required or permitted to be given by us to you under this letter shall be deemed properly delivered to you when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage pre-paid, addressed to you at the address to which this letter is being sent.

12. The well will produce oil or gas "in paying quantities" as the term "in paying quantities" is used in this letter when an ordinarily prudent person experienced in oil or gas production and exploration would, taking into consideration the existing conditions and circumstances, expect operation of the well to result in a reasonable profit over and above [the cost of operating the well excluding the cost of drilling and equipping it or the cost of drilling, equipping, and operating the well].

Should the terms of this letter meet with your approval, we request you sign the original of this letter and return it within _____ days from the date of this letter to our above office. When signed by you and returned to our office, this letter will constitute a contract between you and us and will supersede any and all other and former agreements between you or us, or any understandings, by either you or us, as to the matters contained in it.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, sets forth a form of a "bottom-hole letter" [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 431.1 (Matthew Bender)]. A bottom-hole letter has much the same purpose as a dry-hole letter [see § 36.231]. The only difference between the two is that the writer of the dry-hole letter agrees to make a contribution toward the cost of drilling the operator's test well only if the test well, after reaching at least a specified depth, fails to produce oil or gas in paying quantities or, in other words, is a dry hole. The writer of a bottom-hole letter agrees to contribute toward the cost of the test well provided it is drilled to at least a specified depth, regardless of whether it produces oil or gas in paying quantities or is a dry hole [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 431.1 (Matthew Bender)].

When two or more oil and gas operators have taken oil and gas leases on property near to each other in the same promising but perhaps unproven oil field, the operators may decide to drill just one test well instead of each drilling a test well on their respective leaseholds. In this case, the operator on whose oil and gas leasehold the test well is to be drilled may receive "contribution letters" from other operators having oil and gas leases on nearby property [see §§ 36.231, 36.232]. In the contribution letters the other operators agree to contribute toward the cost of drilling the test well provided they are furnished with the geological information gathered from the drilling of the test well.

If, in exchange for the test well information, the operators agree to contribute money toward the cost of the test well, their contribution letter is known as either a "bottom-hole letter" or a "dry-hole letter." When, instead of money, the operator writing the contribution letter agrees to contribute oil and gas rights to other property in exchange for the test well information, the letter is known as an "acreage-contribution letter" [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 431.1 (Matthew Bender)]. A bottom-hole letter is set forth in § 36.232[2], and a dry-hole letter is set forth in § 36.231[2]. The form in [2], below, is an acreage-contribution letter.

The acreage-contribution letter illustrated by this form is merely a type of bottom-hole letter. It provides, like a bottom-hole letter, that if the test well is drilled to a specified depth and the writer of the letter is furnished with geological information from the well, the writer will contribute to the addressee a portion of the writer's interest as tenant under a designated oil and gas lease. Thus, the discussion in § 36.232[1] as to the use and purpose of a bottom-hole letter is equally applicable to the acreage-contribution letter in this form. Furthermore, because a dry-hole letter is just another form of a bottom-hole letter, the discussion in § 36.231[1] is also applicable to the acreage-contribution letter in this form.

§ 36.234 Farm-Out Letter Agreement for Drilling of Test Well on Leased Premises by One Company in Exchange for Assignment of Portion of Tenant's Rights Under Oil and Gas Lease

The form in [2], below, is a "farm-out letter agreement" by which an oil and gas tenant "farms out" its lease obligations, particularly the obligation to drill, in exchange for a portion of the tenant's interest under the lease [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 432 (Matthew Bender)]. A farm-out agreement is usually evidenced by a letter agreement written by the oil and gas tenant to the person or organization it is offering the "farm out" [Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. XVIII, Forms of Leases, Assignments, Escrow Agreements, and Other Contracts Affecting Oil and Gas Leases, § 18.09 (Matthew Bender)].

Under a typical farm-out agreement, the person accepting the farm out must drill a well on the leased premises at a designated location within a specified period of time. The tenant agrees that, if the will is drilled to a designated depth, the tenant will assign to the driller a portion of its rights under the lease. Farm-out letters are often used when a tenant is either unable or unwilling to commence drilling within the time required by the lease and that time is nearing expiration [Brown & Brown, The Law of Oil and Gas Leases, ch. XVIII, Forms of Leases, Assignments, Escrow Agreements, and Other Contracts Affecting Oil and Gas Leases, § 18.09 (Matthew Bender)]. Performance of the drilling by the farm out saves the lease for the tenant and, in most cases, also furnishes the tenant with geological information useful in further drilling on the leased premises [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 4, Grants and Reservations Affecting Working Interest , § 432 (Matthew Bender)].

We, _____[name], a California corporation, are the owners [by assignment] of tenant's interest in that certain Oil and Gas Lease executed on _____[date], by _____[name] as Landlord and _____[by us or name] as Tenant covering land ("the premises") in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [legal description of land].

Enclosed is a copy of the lease duly recorded in Book _____ at Page _____ of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ County, California, [and a copy of the assignment to us of tenant's interest in the lease duly recorded in Book _____ at Page _____ of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of the same county]. We refer you to the recorded copies of the lease [or those documents] for further details as to its [or their] contents.

We agree that if on or before _____[date], you commence the drilling of a well on [specify location, e.g., the east five acres] of the premises and prosecute the drilling of the well with due diligence to a depth sufficient to test the [type of formation] formation lying at an estimated depth of [number] feet to our satisfaction, unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at a lesser depth, and you complete the well within a reasonable time not exceeding [number, e.g., 90 days] after commencement of drilling, we will assign to you the tenant's interest under the lease for the _____[description, e.g., east five acres or portion described in Schedule A attached to this letter] of the premises on the following terms and conditions:

1. We shall retain and reserve to ourselves under the lease both of the following:

(a) The right under the lease to all oil, gas, and other minerals in, under, or that may be produced from any portion of the premises not expressly agreed in this letter to be assigned to you; and

(b) An overriding royalty equal to [fraction or percentage] of the value of all oil, gas, and other hydrocarbons produced and removed from the premises under the lease, excluding fuel oil and gas used for operational purposes on the premises, to be computed and paid in the same manner as the royalties reserved to landlord under the lease.

2. Should you fail to commence drilling a well in the manner and time specified in this letter, or having commenced the well should you fail to complete it with due diligence within the time limit specified in this letter, we may, at our option, terminate the contract created by this letter and your acceptance of its terms.

3. We are not to deliver to you an assignment of tenant's interest in the lease as to the acreage specified in this letter until you have completed the drilling of a well in the manner and time specified in this letter.

4. You agree to indemnify us and hold us and our property, including our interest in the lease, free and harmless from any and all claims, demands, liabilities, or losses arising from your operations under this letter or on the premises.

5. We shall retain the option to purchase all oil and gas produced under this letter or from the premises during the term of the lease, or any extensions or renewals of the lease, at the market price for the oil and gas prevailing at the time of its production at the mouth of the well from which it is produced.

6. No portion of that part of the premises agreed to be assigned to you shall be surrendered to landlord under the lease, nor shall any gas well drilled on that part of the premises be shut in without the express written consent of both parties, you and us, to this letter agreement. Should you, with the consent of both of us, shut in any gas well on the part of the premises agreed to be assigned to you, you shall pay at your own expense to landlord under the lease any shut-in royalties due under the lease for this well.

7. We shall at all times have the freedom of the derrick floor, and you shall on request by us

(a) Core or test, by drill stem or other specified method, any formation or formations encountered by you on the premises; and

(b) Furnish us with all information, including cores and cuttings, pertaining to any well or wells drilled by you on the premises.

8. You shall furnish us with all of the following in relation to the well to be drilled, as required by this letter:

(a) Weekly written reports of your progress in drilling the well;

(b) Prompt notice, before plugging and abandonment, of the fact the well is a dry hole, if it should be a dry hole, so that our representative may inspect and measure the well; and

(c) On completion of the well, as either a producing well or a dry hole, a complete log of the well together with an electrical log of the well from surface to the bottom of the hole.

9. This agreement is personal and cannot be assigned, nor can the duties under this agreement be delegated by you, without our express consent in writing.

10. Any and all notices and other communications or requests, including request for authority to plug or abandon a well, authorized or required to be given to us by you must be in writing and shall not be deemed received by us until they are received by _____[name of officer or employee to whom communications are to be sent] at _____ Street, _____, California, or his [or her] designated representative at the well site.

11. Any and all notices or other communications required or permitted to be given to you by us shall be deemed duly delivered to you when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to you at the address to which this letter is addressed.

12. The letter will not constitute a binding agreement until you accept its terms by signing two copies of it and returning them to our above office within 10 days of this letter's date. § 36.235 Division Order Specifying Royalty Interests of Landlords and Tenants in Oil Produced From Specified Oil Farm--Given by Owners to Oil Purchaser

The form in [2], below, sets forth a division order specifying the royalty interests of various persons who are parties to an oil and gas lease. The purpose of a division order is to protect the person who must distribute the proceeds received from the sale of oil or gas produced under the lease [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 7, Division Orders, Transfer Orders, and Gas Purchase Contracts , § 701 (Matthew Bender)]. In the typical situation, the tenant is a driller or oil-field operator but not a marketer of oil and gas. Therefore, the tenant attempts to sell the oil or gas to a refinery or marketer of oil and gas. Before the refinery or marketer purchases the oil and gas from the tenant, it will want to know the following information [Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 7, Division Orders, Transfer Orders, and Gas Purchase Contracts , § 701 (Matthew Bender)]:

- How much belongs to the tenant;
- How much belongs, as a royalty, to the landlord;
- Whether the tenant has authority to sell the landlord's share or if, instead, it must be delivered in kind to the landlord; and
- Whether any persons other than the landlord or the tenant have any mineral interests or royalty interests [see § 36.213[1][b]] entitling them to any of the oil or gas.

There are several ways in which the intended purchaser of the oil and gas can ascertain these matters. The purchaser can have an attorney examine the lease and other relevant instruments and render an opinion and report [see Williams & Meyers, Oil and Gas Law, ch. 7, Division Orders, Transfer Orders, and Gas Purchase Contracts , § 701 (Matthew Bender)]. The purchaser may even receive a report and perhaps some form of title insurance from a title company [see Audrain, Title Insurance of Oil and Gas Leases, 3 UCLA L. Rev. 523 (1956)]. None of these methods is foolproof. The intended purchaser's attorney may be mistaken on the law or facts, though he or she uses reasonable care in researching both. The title company, if it issues a report or insurance, cannot take responsibility for instruments not recorded or for ambiguously worded instruments that may create either a mineral or a royalty interest in oil and gas rights. For these reasons, the oil and gas purchaser ordinarily will demand that a "division order," listing the rights of every party claiming an interest in or under the oil and gas lease, be signed by each of the parties claiming any interest under the lease.

We, the undersigned, and each of us, do agree, warrant, and guarantee that we are the legal owners, in the proportion set out below opposite our respective names, of the oil produced from _____[name] Farm, described as [legal description of leased or pooled land] in the County of _____, State of California.

You are authorized commencing as of [time, e.g., 7:00 A.M.], on _____[date], and continuing until further written notice either from you or us, to receive oil from the farm, purchase it, and pay for it as follows:

_____ _ [street], _____ _, CA	_____ [name]	_____%

The following covenants are also a part of this Division Order and shall be binding on the undersigned, their successors, legal representatives, and assigns, to wit:

1. The oil run under this Division Order shall become your property on actual delivery to you or on actual delivery into any gathering or trunk line of any pipeline company designated by you.

2. The oil received and purchased by you under this Division Order shall be delivered F.O.B. to you or to any gathering system or pipeline company designated by you. You shall pay for the oil to the owners above listed in the percentages set forth opposite their names the market price posted by you for oil of the same kind and quality from the field in which the above-described land is located on the date it is received by you. However, should it be necessary to transport the oil by truck for delivery to you, you may deduct from the amount due the owners the trucking costs incurred by you. Provided further, should the oil be sold by you to a purchaser who accepts delivery at the well tanks, your payment to the owners may be based on the price received by you from the purchaser.

3. The amount due each owner shall be paid to the owner monthly by your check mailed to the owner at the address set forth above opposite the owner's name.

4. The quantity of oil delivered to and received by you under this Division Order shall be computed from regularly compiled tank tables, corrections for impurities and temperatures being made as may be required, in your judgment, to make the oil merchantable. The oil may also be steamed if necessary, in your judgment, to render it merchantable.

5. Those undersigned owners who own working or producing interests in the wells covered by this Division Order warrant that oil purchased by you under this Division Order has been and will in the future be produced in accordance with all applicable federal, state, county, and municipal laws, statutes, ordinances, rules, and regulations.

6. The undersigned will furnish satisfactory evidence of title on demand by you. On failure to furnish satisfactory evidence of title, or on any adverse claim, question, or controversy arising as to the title to the oil purchased by you under this Division Order, or any part of the oil, you may hold the proceeds due under this Division Order for the oil, to the extent of the adverse claim or controversy, without interest until either satisfactory indemnity is furnished to you or the adverse claim or controversy has been resolved. Should any litigation be commenced because of any adverse claim or controversy, the undersigned shall promptly notify you of the litigation.

7. Each of the undersigned agree to indemnify and hold you and any carrier engaged by you to transport oil for your account free and harmless from any claims or judgments rendered against you or them because of any oil received, purchased, or transported in accordance with this Division Order. Further, each of the undersigned agrees to promptly notify you of any change of ownership of any interests set forth in this Division Order and further agree any change of ownership shall not be binding on you until you are notified of the change of ownership in writing by one of the undersigned.

8. This Division Order is valid and binding on each of the owners named in this Division Order who has or will sign it regardless of whether any other owner listed in it has or will sign it.

This chapter covers three major types of natural resources: minerals (except for oil and gas), timber, and water. The focus is on the basic procedures that must be followed under state and federal law when establishing a timber operation, negotiating and executing a water supply contract, or staking a claim to a mine.

The coverage of minerals in this chapter is limited to the category of solid minerals known as "locatable" minerals, which includes all recognized minerals except those categorized as "leasable" minerals (such as oil and gas) and those categorized as "salable" minerals (such as sand, stone, gravel, and clay). Oil and gas interests are covered in Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases .

This chapter does not discuss the large body of statutory and case law dealing with the acquisition, development, and misappropriation of water rights in California. For forms and other coverage relating to that subject, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 575, Waters (Matthew Bender).

[1] Overview

Mining claims in California are governed by both federal and state statutes. The applicable federal statutes primarily authorize the location and patenting of mining claims on United States government-owned land and describe in general the procedure for patenting a mining claim. The California statutes supplement the federal statutes on locating and patenting a mining claim and detail the manner in which the claim must be posted, marked, and recorded. The California statutes also define "mining partnerships" and their peculiar characteristics. These laws are discussed in more detail in [2] and [3], below.

For these purposes, "location" essentially means the act or acts leading to the acquisition of private ownership rights in deposits of locatable minerals on federal lands.

[2] Federal Provisions

The federal requirements governing the manner in which mining claims may be located, claimed, and patented are set forth in Title 30 of the United States Code [see 30 U.S.C. §§ 21-54]. Basically, these provisions state that, "except as otherwise provided," all vacant lands belonging to the United States, both surveyed and unsurveyed, containing valuable mineral deposits are open to exploration, occupation, and purchase or patenting by citizens of the United States and those who have declared their intention to become United States citizens [30 U.S.C. § 22]. However, Congress has the power to withdraw public lands from prospecting or patenting by statute or certain other methods [see U.S. Const., art. IV, § 3, cl. 2; Union Oil Co. v. Smith (1919) 249 U.S. 337, 344, 39 S. Ct. 308, 63 L. Ed. 635 ; see also American Law of Mining, Ch. 14, Reservations and Withdrawals (Matthew Bender)].

Under the federal statutes, a claim may be located and claimed on federal land "according to local customs" so far as they are not inconsistent with United States laws [30 U.S.C. § 22]. This means that claims must be located and claimed in accordance with state laws on the subject [43 C.F.R. § 3831.1].

[3] California Provisions

The relevant California laws [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900-3924] establish mandatory procedures for locating either a "lode" or a "placer" mining claim, posting the claim, marking the boundaries of the claim, and recording a notice of its location [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900-3902, 3911]. They also specify the procedure for claiming (1) a "tunnel right" instead of a mining claim and (2) a "millsite" as part of a mining claim [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3906, 3907, 3910]. Further, these statutes provide for the use of an affidavit to prove performance of required annual assessment work on a mining claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3913]. General federal requirements also apply to these matters [see 43 C.F.R. §§ 3840.1-3844.1].

§ 36A.11 Patented Mining Claims

Although the claimant is not required to purchase fee simple title to the lands, he or she may do so by obtaining a patent from the United States government [see American Law of Mining, Ch. 30, Introduction to Federal Mining Law (Matthew Bender)]. The procedure that must be followed in applying for a patent from the United States government conveying title to the claimant, after a claim has been duly located and claimed, is specified by federal statutes and regulations [see 30 U.S.C. § 29; 43 C.F.R. §§ 3861.1-1-3864.1-4]. For a more detailed discussion of patents, which is beyond the scope of this chapter, see American Law of Mining, Ch. 54, Mineral Patents (Matthew Bender).

§ 36A.12 Mining Partnerships

Mining partnerships, although otherwise governed by the Uniform Partnership Act [Pub. Res. Code § 3940; see Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.], are specifically defined and regulated by the Public Resources Code [see Pub. Res. Code § 3940 et seq.]. The provisions of the Public Resources Code prevail over the provisions of the Uniform Partnership Act when the two are inconsistent [Pub. Res. Code § 3940]. For a discussion of the formation and characteristics of mining partnerships, and a sample agreement, see § 36A.207.

§ 36A.13 Surface Mining and Reclamation Act

Surface mining operations in California are subject to the Surface Mining and Reclamation Act of 1975 [Pub. Res. Code § 2710 et seq.]. Surface mining operations include all of the following [Pub. Res. Code § 2735]:

- Open-pit mining;
- Mining by the auger method;
- Dredging and quarrying;
- In-place distillation, retorting, or leaching;
- Prospecting and exploratory activities; and
- Surface work incident to an underground mine.

The Act is designed to promote the reclamation of mined lands so as to prevent or minimize adverse effects on the environment and to protect the public health and safety [Pub. Res. Code § 2711(a)]. For a further discussion of the Surface Mining and Reclamation Act of 1975 and its requirements, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 82, Mineral Development (Matthew Bender).

§ 36A.14 Termination of Mineral Right

The owner of real property that is subject to a mineral right may bring an action to terminate the right if there has been no mineral production, exploration, drilling, mining, development, or other mineral operations for a period of 20 years [Civ. Code § 883.220; see § 36A.211[1][c]; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 393, Oil and Gas (Matthew Bender)]. An action may not be maintained, however, if the owner of the mineral right records a notice of intent to preserve the right [Civ. Code § 883.230]. For further discussion and a sample form for a notice of intent, see § 36A.211. For actions to quiet title to property subject to a mineral right, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 482, Quieting Title (Matthew Bender).

§ 36A.20 Authority Over Forest Lands

The following are the three basic types of forest lands in California:

- National forests owned by the United States government;
- State forests owned by the State of California; and
- Privately owned lands.

The law that governs the cutting and logging of timber in California is determined in large part by the ownership of the land on which the timber grows.

The Secretary of Agriculture has statutory authority to sell trees, portions of trees, or forest products located on National Forest System lands [16 U.S.C. § 472a]. The Secretary has delegated authority over the National Forest System lands to the United States Forest Service [36 C.F.R. § 200.3(b)(2)]. Regulations governing timber management planning for the National Forest System lands are set forth in the Code of Federal Regulations [see 36 C.F.R. § 221.3].

The California Director of Forestry and Fire Protection, with the approval of the State Director of General Services, has authority to make sales of forest products from state forests, if the value of the forest products does not exceed $10,000 or if the forest products are from dead, dying, downed, diseased, or defective trees and the sales do not exceed 100,000 board feet [Pub. Res. Code § 4650(a)]. All other sales must be on competitive bids [Pub. Res. Code § 4650(b)].

[1] Applicability

Timber harvesting on private land in California is subject to the Z'berg-Nejedly Forest Practice Act of 1973 (the Forest Practice Act) [Pub. Res. Code § 4511 et seq.] and the Forest Practice Rules [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895 et seq.; for complete coverage of the Forest Practice Act and the Forest Practice Rules, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 80, Forestry Development (Matthew Bender)]. The Forest Practice Act applies to all non-federal land that is available for and capable of growing trees of any commercial species used to produce lumber or other forest products [Pub. Res. Code § 4526]. The state is divided into the following three forest districts:

- The Coast Forest District, which generally includes the redwood and pure Douglas-fir forest types of the north and central coast of California [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 907; see 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 911-929.7 for rules applying to Coast Forest District];

- The Northern Forest District, which includes the inner coast range, the Siskiyou Mountains, and the Northern Sierra Nevada [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 908; see 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 931-949.7 for rules applying to Northern Forest District]; and

- The Southern Forest District, which covers the remainder of the state southward from El Dorado County in the Sierra and Monterey County on the coast [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 909; see 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 951-969.7 for rules applying to Southern Forest District].

Commercial species of timber are determined by the State Board of Forestry for each forest district [see Pub. Res. Code § 4526; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1].

[2] Relationship to California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA)

With certain exceptions, timber harvesting operations are subject to the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; Sierra Club v. State Board of Forestry (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1215, 1228-1231, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 876 P.2d 505] . Under CEQA, certain regulatory programs are exempt from the requirement of preparing an environmental impact report (EIR) [see Pub. Res. Code § 21080.5]. Under the provisions of this exemption statute, the Secretary of the Resources Agency certified that timber harvest plans filed under the Forest Practice Act qualify for the exemption of Pub. Res. Code § 21080.5. However, timber harvesting plans are subject to all other provisions of CEQA [Sierra Club v. State Board of Forestry (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1215, 1231, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 876 P.2d 505] .

For detailed coverage of CEQA, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Chs. 20- 23 (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 303, Requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (Matthew Bender).

[3] Timber Harvesting Plan

[a] When Plan Is Required

The Forest Practice Act requires every person who conducts timber operations to submit a timber harvesting plan prepared by a registered professional forester [Pub. Res. Code § 4581]. "Timber operations" mean the cutting or removal or both of timber or other solid wood forest products, including Christmas trees, from timberlands for commercial purposes [Pub. Res. Code § 4527]. The term "commercial purposes" includes both of the following [Pub. Res. Code § 4527]:

- The cutting or removal of trees which are processed into logs, lumber, or other wood products and offered for sale, barter, exchange, or trade; and

- The cutting or removal of trees or other forest products during the conversion of timberlands to land uses other than the growing of timber which are subject to the provisions of Pub. Res. Code 4621, including, but not limited to, residential or commercial developments, production of other agricultural crops, recreational developments, ski developments, water development projects, and transportation projects.

If a person intends to sell timber when it is cut, and the timber is cut for commercial purposes, it is immaterial whether the sale is ever realized [Hewlett v. Squaw Valley Ski Corp. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 499, 523, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 118] .

[b] Requirements of Plan

Some requirements for timber harvesting plans are set forth in the Forest Practice Act, whereas others are set forth in regulations. In general, timber harvesting plans are required to provide information as to how timber harvesting practices will be selected to prevent or minimize impacts on natural resources [see Pub. Res. Code § 4582; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034; see also §§ 36A.121, 36A.131 (procedures and contents of timber harvesting plan)]. Regulations set forth responsibilities for the contractor (that is, the plan submitter) [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1035], the registered professional forester [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1035.1; see also 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1035.2], and the licensed timber operator [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1035.3; see also 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1035.2] relating to timber harvesting plans.

For a detailed description of the requirements of the Forest Practice Act and rules for submitting timber harvesting plans, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 80, Forestry Development (Matthew Bender).

[c] Review and Approval of Plan

The Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (Department of Forestry) is required to review the plan, take public comments, and either return or approve the plan [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(a), (b)]. The statutory framework of the Forest Practice Act, Forest Practice Rules, and California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [see Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.] confer on the Department of Forestry the obligation to see that cumulative impacts and alternatives to projects, as well as other specified environmental information, be taken into consideration in evaluating a timber harvesting plan [Schoen v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 556, 567, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] . No harvesting can occur before the director has approved the plan [Pub. Res. Code § 4582; Sierra Club v. State Board of Forestry (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1215, 1226, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 876 P.2d 505] .

The Forest Practice Act does not expressly grant the Department of Forestry the authority to request information not expressly specified by the rules, nor do the rules themselves. However, by vesting the Department of Forestry with the authority to determine whether timber harvesting plans incorporate the measures specified by the State Board of Forestry to reduce significant adverse environmental impacts, the State Board impliedly vests the Department of Forestry with the authority to secure the information that it needs to make that determination. Furthermore, the Department of Forestry has the express authority to request any information needed to identify the significant adverse impacts of a timber harvesting plan under CEQA provisions [Pub. Res. Code § 21160; Sierra Club v. State Board of Forestry (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1215, 1227-1228, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 876 P.2d 505] .

[d] Timber Operations Exempted From Plan Requirement

The Forest Practice Act authorizes the State Board of Forestry to exempt certain types of timber operations from the requirement of filing a timber harvesting plan [see Pub. Res. Code § 4584]. Under this authority, the State Board has enacted the following regulations exempting certain timber operations from the requirement of a timber harvesting plan:

- Harvesting Christmas trees [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a)];

- Harvesting dead, dying, or diseased trees of any size, fuelwood, or split products in amounts less than 10 percent of the average volume per acre, under specified conditions [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b), (d)];

- The cutting or removal of trees in compliance with Pub. Res. Code §§ 4290 and 4291 which eliminates the vertical continuity of vegetative fuels and the horizontal continuity of tree crowns for the purpose of reducing flammable materials and maintaining a fuelbreak to reduce fire spread, duration, and intensity [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(c)];

- Timber operations in the Lake Tahoe Region for the purposes of (1) cutting Christmas trees, for other ornamental purposes, or for minor forest products such as fuel wood; (2) cutting or removing dead, dying diseased trees of any size; or (3) cutting or removing trees that eliminates the vertical continuity of vegetative fuels and the horizontal continuity of tree crowns for the purpose of reducing flammable materials and maintaining a fuel break, provided specified conditions are met [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(f)].

- The removal of woody debris and slash that is (1) located outside the standard width watercourse and lake protection zone; (2) within the reach of loading equipment operating on existing logging roads and landings; (3) developed during timber operations; and (4) delivered as combustion fuel for the production of energy [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(g)]; and

- The harvesting of trees in compliance with Pub. Res. Code § 4584(k) (Forest Fire Prevention Exemption) [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(i)].

However, no tree that existed before 1800 A.D and is greater than 60 inches in diameter at stump height for Sierra or Coastal Redwoods, and 48 inches in diameter at stump height for all other tree species, may be harvested unless done so under the conditions or criteria set forth in 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(h). Under § 1038(h), harvesting of large old trees may only occur when the tree is not critical for the maintenance of a Late Successional Stand and a registered professional forester (RPF) attaches to the exemption an explanation and justification for the removal based on the RPF's finding that specified criteria or conditions are met. However, these requirements need not be met if an approved management document such as a habitat conservation plan or sustained yield plan addresses large old tree retention for the area in which the large old trees are proposed for removal and the removal is in compliance with the retention standards of that document. All large old trees to be harvested must be marked by an RPF before removal [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(h)(1), (2)]. A large old tree may also be removed when [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(h)(2)(A)-(C)]:

- It is a hazard to safety or property;

- The removal of the tree is necessary for the construction of a building as approved by the appropriate county/city permitting process and as shown on the county/city approved site plan, which must be attached to the Notice of Exemption; or

- The tree is dead or is likely to die within one year of the date of proposed removal, as determined by an RPF or professionally certified arborist.

[e] Amendments to Timber Harvesting Plan

Once approved, amendments to the original timber harvesting plan may be submitted detailing proposed changes from the original plan [Pub. Res. Code § 4591]. Substantial deviations from the original plan may not be undertaken until the amendment has been filed with, and acted on, by the Department of Forestry [Pub. Res. Code § 4591; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1039; Schoen v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 556, 566, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] . However, minor deviations may be undertaken by the person who submitted the plan without submission of an amendment to the plan. However, these deviations must be reported immediately in writing to the Director [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1040; Schoen v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 556, 568, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] . "Minor deviations" mean any change, minor in scope, in a plan which can reasonably be presumed not to make a significant change in the conduct of timber operations and which can reasonably be expected not to significantly adversely affect timberland productivity or values relating to soil, water quality, watershed, wildlife, fisheries, range and forage, recreation, and aesthetic enjoyment. All other changes are presumed to be "substantial," and are subject to public review [Schoen v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 556, 568, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] .

[f] Plan to Conform to Subsequently Enacted Standards and Rules

All timber operations must conform to any changes or modifications of standards and rules made after plan approval unless before the adoption of such changes or modifications, both of the following occur [Pub. Res. Code § 4583; Public Resources Protection Assn. v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 111, 119, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11, 865 P.2d 728] :

- Substantial liabilities for timber operations have been incurred in good faith and in reliance on the standards in effect at the time the plan became effective; and

- Adherence to such new rules or modifications would cause unreasonable additional expense to the owner or operator.

If new rules or rule revisions are adopted after a timber harvest plan becomes effective, the Department of Forestry has discretion to require amendments to the plan to ensure that no substantial deviation occurs between the plan and timber operations [Louisiana-Pacific Corp. v. Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1993) 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468] .

[4] Emergency Timber Operations

A registered professional forester may, in an emergency, on behalf of a timber owner or operator, file an "emergency notice" with the Department of Forestry that will allow immediate commencement of timber operations [Pub. Res. Code § 4592; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1052; County of Santa Cruz v. California State Board of Forestry (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 826, 831-832, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 393] . A bona fide emergency may include, but is not limited to, the necessity to harvest to remove fire-killed or damaged timber or insect or disease-infested timber, or to undertake emergency repairs to roads [Pub. Res. Code § 4592]. Under emergency circumstances, timber operations may be conducted if there is potential financial loss of timber that was previously inoperable or unmerchantable due to access, location, condition, or timber volume and that has unexpectedly become feasible to harvest, provided that the harvest opportunity will not be economically feasible for more than 120 days and operations meet specified stocking requirements [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1052.1].

[5] Modified Timber Harvesting Plan

A modified timber harvesting plan may be submitted by an owner of 100 acres or less if the plan submitter meets specified conditions designed to avoid and mitigate significant adverse environmental effects [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1051(a)(1)-(16)]. Although mitigation measures are automatically incorporated as a prerequisite for approval of a modified timber harvesting plan, the Department of Forestry must still require a cumulative impacts assessment when substantial evidence in the record supports a fair argument that significant individual or cumulative impacts will result. In addition, a modified timber harvesting plan must include discussion of feasible alternatives even if the project's significant impacts will be avoided through mitigation measures [Friends of the Old Trees v. California Dept. of Forestry and Fire Protection (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 1397, 1404, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 297] .

[6] Nonindustrial Timber Management Plan

A nonindustrial timber management plan may be submitted by an owner of less than 2,500 acres of timberland who is not primarily engaged in the manufacture of forest products [Pub. Res. Code § 4593.3; see Pub. Res. Code § 4593.2(b) ("nonindustrial tree farmer" defined)]. A nonindustrial timber management plan is a management plan with the objective of a managed, uneven-aged timber stand and sustained yield for a parcel or group of contiguous parcels [Pub. Res. Code § 4593.2(e)]. Any person who proposes to harvest trees under a nonindustrial timber management plan must file a notice of intent to harvest in the year during which the harvesting will occur [Pub. Res. Code § 4594; 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1090.7, 1090.21]. The notice must include (1) statements regarding the present condition of the harvest site and (2) the use of best management practices [see Pub. Res. Code § 4594; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1090.7].

[7] Stocking Standards

The Forest Practice Act sets forth resource conservation (stocking) standards designed to ensure that an adequate cover of trees of commercial species remains or is established after the conclusion of timber operations. The stocking standards set forth in the Act must generally be attained within five years after completion of timber operations [Pub. Res. Code § 4561]. For a discussion of the stocking standards of the Act, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 80, Forestry Development (Matthew Bender).

[8] Preemption of Local Laws

The Forest Practice Act generally preempts local laws and regulations relating to timber harvesting operations [see Pub. Res. Code § 4516.5(d)], except for timber operations on any land area of less than three acres and which is not zoned for timberland production [Pub. Res. Code § 4516.5(f)]. Thus, a county ordinance creating a local permit requirement for timber operations is preempted by the Forest Practice Act when the timber operations are to occur on a land area of three or more acres [Westhaven Community Development Council v. County of Humboldt (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 365, 368-369, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536] . However, although the Forest Practice Act preempts city and county ordinances regulating the conduct of timber harvesting operations, it does not preempt a county ordinance designating the location in which timber harvesting may take place [Big Creek Lumber Company, Inc. v. County of San Mateo (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 418, 426, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159] . To the contrary, in enacting the California Timberland Productivity Act of 1982 (TPA) [Gov. Code § 51100 et seq.], the Legislature specifically mandated local zoning authorities to designate areas as "timberland production zones." The purpose of the TPA is to protect properly conducted timber operations from being prohibited or restricted due to conflict or apparent conflict with surrounding land uses [Big Creek Lumber Company, Inc. v. County of San Mateo (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 418, 425-426, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159] .

§ 36A.22 Transfer of Timber Interests on Private Land

The owner of forested land may transfer or reserve the rights to the timber on his or her land in one of several ways, including the following:

- The owner may contract to sell all timber standing on the property as of the date of sale. The buyer has a right to remove the trees within a limited, specified time period [see § 36A.220 for discussion of relevant law and a sample contract of sale];

- The owner may convey an interest in the timber standing on his or her land as of the date of transfer. The grantee may remove the trees at any time in the future, but may remove only those trees that were standing at the date of the transfer [see § 36A.221 for discussion of relevant law and a sample grant deed];

- The owner may convey all timber rights (both standing timber and future growths) forever to its grantee [see § 36A.222];

- The owner may reserve the standing timber only when conveying title to his or her land [see § 36A.223]; and

- The owner may reserve all timber, both standing and future growths, when conveying title to his or her land [see § 36A.224].

For discussion and forms relating to the termination of claimed timber rights in land, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 482, Quieting Title (Matthew Bender).

§ 36A.30 Constitutional Mandates

The California Constitution recognizes the importance of water in the state by setting forth general policy statements relating to the use and conservation of water. It recognizes all of the following [Cal. Const., art. X, § 2]:

- That the general welfare requires that the water resources of the state be put to beneficial use to the fullest extent possible;

- That waste and unreasonable use of water must be prevented; and

- That water conservation must be encouraged by promoting the reasonable and beneficial use of water.

The California Constitution also declares that the use of all water now appropriated, or that may be appropriated in the future, for rental or distribution, is a public use and subject to regulation by the state [Cal. Const., art. X, § 5].

§ 36A.31 Governing Statutes

The basic statutory scheme for water regulation in California was first enacted by the Legislature as the Water Commission Act in 1913. The Water Commission Act is now codified as Water Code § 1000 et seq. The Act applies only to water flowing in surface streams or subterranean streams flowing through known and definite channels [Water Code § 1200]. The Act does not affect riparian water rights or overlying water rights [see § 36A.32]. It does, however, preclude the acquisition of appropriative water rights without a license from the State Water Resources Control Board [Water Code § 1225; see Water Code §§ 1226-1226.4].

Other statutes regulating water are also found in other codes [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 116270 et seq. (drinking water and water systems); Pub. Util. Code § 2701 et seq. (water companies)]. The rules governing the regulation of water are covered in detail in California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 575, Waters (Matthew Bender).

§ 36A.32 Types of Water Rights

The following four basic types of water rights are recognized in California:

- Riparian rights;
- Appropriative rights;
- Prescriptive rights; and
- Overlying rights.

Riparian rights accrue to the owner of land bordering a stream or other natural watercourse and allow him or her to use so much of the water from the stream as may be put to beneficial use reasonably on his or her land [Cal. Const., art. X, § 2; Pleasant Valley Canal Company v. Borror (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 742, 781, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] .

An appropriative right to water is acquired simply by appropriating the water from a stream or other surface watercourse and putting it to a beneficial purpose. The appropriation gives the water user a right to water from the stream or watercourse as against all subsequent appropriators [City of Pasadena v. City of Alhambra (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 908, 926, 207 P.2d 17 , cert. denied, 339 U.S. 937 (1950)] .

Prescriptive rights accrue by the wrongful appropriation of water if it is used for the period required in California to establish title by adverse possession [City of Pasadena v. City of Alhambra (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 908, 926, 207 P.2d 17 , cert. denied, 339 U.S. 937 (1950)] .

An overlying right to water is the right of the owner of land to take water from a water table or basin underlying his or her land [City of Pasadena v. City of Alhambra (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 908, 925, 207 P.2d 17 , cert. denied, 339 U.S. 937

(1950) ; City of Barstow v. Mojave Water Agency (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 737, 750, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 477] .

However, all four types of water rights are limited to only so much of the water from the source to which they appertain as the taker may reasonably use for beneficial purposes [Cal. Const., art. X, § 2; Peabody v. City of Vallejo (1935) 2 Cal. 2d 351, 383, 40 P.2d 486] . In addition, all unappropriated water flowing in any natural channel belongs to the state and can be appropriated only by permission of the State Water Commission or State Water Resources Control Board [Water Code §§ 1003.5, 1201, 1225].

The judicial determination of water right disputes, including actions for declaratory relief, injunctive relief, and quieting title, are covered in California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 575, Waters (Matthew Bender).

Any person, firm, or corporation that sells, leases, rents, or delivers water to any other person, firm, corporation, municipality, or other political subdivision in California is a public utility and, as such, subject to the provisions of the Public Utilities Act [Pub. Util. Code § 2701; see Pub. Util. Code § 2100 et seq]. Certain transactions between adjoining landowners are exempted from the regulations of the Public Utilities Code [see Pub. Util. Code § 2704].

The rights and obligations of public utilities in California are generally described in the Public Utilities Code [see Pub. Util. Code § 451 et seq.], which also sets forth the rules under which public utilities are regulated [see Pub. Util. Code § 701 et seq.].

Any person who wishes to operate a public water system in California must first submit an application to the California Department of Public Health and receive a permit as provided in the Health and Safety Code [Health & Safety Code § 116525]. Requirements for water system permits are set forth in the Health and Safety Code [see Health & Safety Code § 116325 et seq.].

§ 36A.100 Mining Claims--Facts

1. Contact information for the locator(s), including:

    a. Name in full as locator wishes it to appear on claim patent.

    b. Addresses of locator (mailing, delivery, e-mail).

    c. Telephone numbers (voice, fax, message).

2. Legal status and relationship of locator(s), including:

    a. United States citizenship.

    b. For a married person:
    (1) Name of spouse.

    (2) Whether name of spouse should be listed as colocator.

    c. For a corporation:

    (1) Date and state of incorporation.

    (2) Corporate officer, employee, or geologist handling claim.

d. If more than one locator, determine:

(1) Whether they intend to form a "mining partnership" by working claim together.

NOTE:
Colocators and owners of a mining claim are not members of a "mining partnership" but merely coowners of the claim unless they actually engage in working the claim together [see § 36A.207[1]].

(2) Whether they are or intend to become partners in an ordinary commercial partnership, as distinguished from a mining partnership, for operation of claim [see § 36A.207[1]].

(3) Whether they intend to be merely coowners as tenants in common of claim.

3. Type or nature of mining claim, such as:

a. Lode claim.

NOTE:
This type of claim contains a "lode" or "vein," which is a belt of mineral or mineral-bearing rock held in place under the ground by layers of other, clearly distinguishable, rock [see § 36A.200[1][b]].

b. Placer claim.

NOTE:
This is a claim of any plot of ground containing minerals in its earth, sand, or gravel other than in "lodes" or "veins" and may be a subterranean channel of an ancient river containing mineral-bearing gravel [see § 36A.200[1][b]].

c. Location of tunnel right.

NOTE:
This location merely gives locator(s) first right to claim as a lode claim any veins or lodes discovered in the tunnel on a line within 3,000 feet of its face [see § 36A.203[1]].

4. Location of claim, including:

a. County and state.

b. Township, range, section or sections, and meridian of United States public land survey.

c. Approximate distance and direction from some well-known natural object or permanent monument in vicinity of the claim to point on claim where minerals were discovered by locator(s) [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900(f), 3902(a)(5)].

5. Size and description of claim, for example:

a. For lode claim:

(1) May be no more than 1,500 feet along length of lode or vein [30 U.S.C. § 23; Pub. Res. Code § 3901; 43 C.F.R. § 3841.4-1].

NOTE:
Entire length may be on one side, or partly on one side and partly on the other side of the point of discovery [43 C.F.R. § 3841.4-5].

(2) Cannot exceed 300 feet on each side of centerline of vein at ground surface [30 U.S.C. § 23; Pub. Res. Code § 3901; 43 C.F.R. §§ 3841.4-2, 3841.4-3].

NOTE:
When the locator has not located the centerline of the vein at ground surface of the vein by exploration, the locator's discovery shaft must be assumed to mark that point [43 C.F.R. § 3841.4-3].

b. For placer claim:

(1) Must conform as nearly as practicable with United States system of public land surveys and rectangular subdivisions of those surveys [30 U.S.C. § 35; 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-5(a)].

(2) Must be rectangular or square even when located on land not covered by United States public land survey [see § 36A.202[1]].

(3) Cannot exceed 20 acres for each individual claimant and 160 acres for all claimants [30 U.S.C. §§ 35, 36].

(4) When claim can be described in notice of location as legal subdivision of public land survey, its boundaries need not be marked and it need not be further described by reference to some known natural object or permanent monument [30 U.S.C. § 35; Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)].

NOTE:
The smallest placer claim that may be described as a legal subdivision of a public land survey is a 10-acre tract [30 U.S.C. § 36; 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-3]. This tract might be described, for example, as the Northeast 1/4 of the Northeast 1/4 of the Northeast 1/4 of Section 10, Township 3 South, Range 3 East, M.D.B. & M. [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-4; see § 36A.201[1][b][ii]].

6. Amount, type, and manner of discovery of mineral on propsective claim, for example:

a. For lode claim:

NOTE:
No lode claim may be located until after the discovery of a vein or lode within its limits [30 U.S.C. § 23; 43 C.F.R. § 3841.3-1].

(1) Must be vein or lode of rock bearing minerals in sufficient quantities and value to cause person of ordinary business prudence, not necessarily a miner, to expend time and money developing property as mine [see § 36A.200[1][d][ii]].

(2) Need not be original discovery; claimant may take advantage of discovery by prior claimant who has forfeited his or her claim [see § 36A.200[1][f]].

(3) Unless vein is traceable on surface of land claimant, before locating claim, should sink shaft or run tunnel or drift to sufficient depth to discover and develop:
(a) Mineral-bearing vein.

(b) General course of vein [see 43 C.F.R. § 3841.3-2].

(c) "Apex" or highest point of vein or lode.

NOTE:
The locator may lose all rights to his or her mining claim and the vein, even after the locator has received a patent for the claim, when the "apex" of the vein is on land that is later located and claimed by someone else as a lode mining claim. The owner of a lode mining claim has the exclusive right to follow, from the vein's apex or high point, the "dip" or downward slope of the vein across the claim's boundaries all the way to the vein's end [30 U.S.C. § 26; see § 36A.200[1][c]]. Consequently, the owner of a mining claim located on the apex of a vein could, for all practical purposes, invalidate an earlier claim based on the same vein but located below the apex on the vein's dip [see American Law of Mining, Ch. 6, Locatable Public Domain (Matthew Bender)].

b. For placer claim:

NOTE:
A placer claim may not be located until after discovery of a valuable placer mineral deposit within its limits [see American Law of Mining, Ch. 4, Historical Background of Federal Lands and Minerals , § 4.17 (Matthew Bender)].

(1) Evidence of placer mineral deposit constituting "discovery" must be of such character that person of ordinary prudence would be justified in further expenditure of labor and means with reasonable prospect of success in developing valuable mine [see § 36A.201[1][c][ii]].

(2) Discovery of a lode or vein of rock bearing valuable minerals, required for locating lode mining claim, will not support placer mining claim [Duffield v. San Francisco Chem. Co. (9th Cir. 1913) 205 F. 480, 486] .

c. Tunnel right.

NOTE:
A discovery of minerals is not required for a "tunnel right" claim or location. The locator must simply commence the tunnel and post monuments and a notice of location in the manner prescribed by law [see § 36A.203[1]]. A tunnel right is lost by a failure to prosecute work on the tunnel for a period of six months [30 U.S.C. § 27; 43 C.F.R. § 3843.1].

§ 36A.101 Mining Claims--Documents

1. Paper copy of master title plat for individual township, range, and section of United States public land survey in which claim is located.

NOTE:

The master title plat will show land open to claims and show unpatented mining claims after October 22, 1976 [see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(a)]. It is obtainable from United States Department of Interior, Bureau of Land Management, California State Office, 2135 Butano Drive, Sacramento, CA 95825-0451, telephone (916) 978-4400. The master title plats are also available for inspection in the public room of the Bureau of Land Management office in Sacramento.

2. Lot book report from title company in county where claim is located showing any notices of location recorded on the property.

NOTE:

Explicit instructions will probably have to be given to the title company as to the information and type of title search desired. Cost of the search will vary but will probably range from $15 to $125 depending on whether title insurance on the search, known as a "lot book guarantee" insurance, is desired [see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows]. This same information--notice of location recorded on the same claim--should be available at the office of the United States Bureau of Land Management having jurisdiction over the property [see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2].

3. Assay report of minerals discovered on claim, if made.

§ 36A.110 Mining Claims

1. Determine which Bureau of Land Management (BLM) district land office has jurisdiction over proposed claim.

NOTE:

To answer this question, the attorney should contact the BLM's administrative office in California, which is located in the federal building at 2800 Cottage Way, Sacramento, CA 95825, telephone (916) 978-4400.

2. Ascertain whether proposed mining claim is on United States public land that is open to mining, by reviewing the following:

NOTE:

Public land is basically any unreserved and unappropriated national resources land administered by the BLM or any unreserved and unappropriated public domain land in a national forest administered by the United States Department of Agriculture's Forest Service [see 43 C.F.R. §§ 3811.1, 3811.2-1]. Land in national parks and national monuments, with the exception of Death Valley, are not open to private mining unless specifically authorized by law [43 C.F.R. § 3811.2-2].

a. Records in the public room of applicable BLM office having jurisdiction over proposed claim.

b. Paper copy of master title plat obtained from local BLM office for township, range, and section of public land survey in which proposed claim is located.

3. Determine from records in public room of proper BLM Land Office whether previous notice of location was recorded on proposed mining claim, and if so:

a. Determine whether previously recorded notice of location was defective in content or in complying with recording and filing requirements [see §§ 36A.200-36A.203].

NOTE:
Defects or impropriety in recording a notice will normally appear on the face of the recorded notice. For a guide to the required contents of the notice of location, and the posting and recordation requirements, see § 36A.120.

b. Determine whether previously recorded notice of location is still valid [see § 36A.200[1][e] for discussion of requirement for annual development work].

NOTE:
Failure to perform required assessment work on a claim makes the claim relocatable by someone else at any time before the failure is corrected and assessment work is performed [30 U.S.C. § 28; 43 C.F.R. § 3851.3]. However, the Secretary of the Interior may grant temporary deferment of annual assessment work under certain conditions [30 U.S.C. §§ 28b-28d; 43 C.F.R. §§ 3852.0-3852.2]. For a guide to the assessment work requirements, see § 36A.140.

c. Whether the prior claim, if valid, bars mining claim on same land.

NOTE:
Valid claims may coexist. For example, a patented placer mining claim does not include known lodes or veins located in the claim unless, in the application for patent, the owner of the placer mining claim stated that he or she wished to claim the lode and paid the lode claim purchase price for the vein and 25 feet of surface on each side of it [30 U.S.C. § 37].

4. Determine whether type of mineral discovered on proposed claim is type for which mining claim is available.

NOTE:
Mining claims may be made only for "locatable" minerals. Minerals are "locatable" if they are subject to the General Mining Law, are not leasable under the mineral leasing laws, and are not salable under the Mineral Materials Act of 1947 and Surface Resources Act of 1955 (30 U.S.C. § 601 et seq., 43 C.F.R. pts. 3600-3620) [43 C.F.R. § 3830.11; but see 43 C.F.R. § 3830.12(b) (certain varieties of mineral materials are locatable under Surface Resources Act if they are uncommon because they possess distinct and special value)]. In addition, to be locatable, a mineral must be recognized as a mineral by the scientific community and found on federal lands open to mineral entry [43 C.F.R. § 3830.12(a)]. Deposits of oil, gas, coal, potassium, sodium, phosphate, oil shale, native asphalt, solid and semi-solid bitumen, and bituminous rock, including oil-impregnated rock or sands from which oil is recoverable only by special treatment, can be acquired under the mineral leasing laws [see 43 C.F.R. § 3100.0-3(a)(1)] and are not subject to location and purchase under the United States mining laws. The so-called "common variety" mineral materials and petrified wood on the public lands may be acquired under the Materials Act [see 43 C.F.R. §§ 3600.0-1-3604.2].

§ 36A.111 Timber Operations in Forests Other Than National Forests

1. Ascertain ability of timber buyer or logging contractor to post bond for payment of possible logging liens in amount equal to at least 50 percent of contract price for timber covered by contract.

NOTE:
The bond, when duly recorded, limits the amount of any logger's lien on the lumber removed from the premises to the contract price as against the timberland owner [Civ. Code § 3065]. Further, since the logger's lien lasts only for 30 days or until the lumber is removed from the county in which the services that are the basis for the lien were performed [Civ. Code § 3065a], logger's liens are probably ineffective in most cases [see Morehouse v. Shipman Lbr. Servaes Co. (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 135, 138, 335 P.2d 496] .

2. Ascertain type of contract or other instruments required, for example:

a. Contract between private individuals or corporations for sale of standing timber on privately owned land.

b. Contract between federal government and private operator for sale of standing timber in national forest, including length of term, such as:
(1) Contract to be performed in less than one year.

(2) Contract requiring more than one year to perform.

c. Contract between state and private operator for sale of standing timber in state forest.

d. Logging contract between logging contractor and owner of private timberland.

3. Determine time within which timber is to be removed from land, including:

a. Starting date.

b. Date for completion of harvesting.

4. If transaction involves sale of standing timber or logging of timber on land other than national forest land, ascertain state forest district established under Z'berg-Nejedly Forest Practice Act of 1973 [Pub. Res. Code § 4511 et seq.] in which timberland is located, for example:

a. Coast Forest District, which generally includes coastal area north of Monterey County extending to Oregon border [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 907].

b. Northern Forest District, which generally includes inner Coast Range, Siskiyou Mountains, and Northern Sierra Nevada [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 908].

c. Southern Forest District, which generally covers rest of state southward from El Dorado County in the Sierra and Monterey County on the coast [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 909].

5. Advise client where to find rules of forest practice for state forest district in which timberland is located [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 911-929.7 (Coast Forest District Rules); 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 931-949.7 (Northern Forest District Rules); 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 951-969.7 (Southern Forest District Rules)].

6. Determine whether person or firm that plans to conduct cutting and logging operations has valid timber operator's license from State Board of Forestry [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 4571-4578].

NOTE:

A license is not required for operations on land owned by the federal government [see Pub. Res. Code § 4526 ("timberland" defined)].

7. Determine whether planned operations are subject to requirement of preparing and submitting timber harvesting plan.

NOTE:

Timber harvesting plans prepared by registered professional foresters must be prepared for all timber operations subject to the Z'berg-Nejedly Forest Practice Act of 1973 (the Forest Practice Act) [see Pub. Res. Code § 4511 et seq.; see also § 36A.21]. Timber harvesting plans are not required for operations on land owned by the federal government [see Pub. Res. Code § 4526 ("timberland" defined)].

8. Determine whether planned operations are exempt from requirement of preparing and submitting timber harvesting plan on grounds that operations are for one of the following purposes [Pub. Res. Code § 4584; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038; see § 36A.21[3][d]]:

a. Harvesting Christmas trees.

b. Harvesting dead, dying, or diseased trees, or fuelwood or split products in amounts less than 10 percent of the average volume per acre when following conditions are met [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b), (d)]:

(1) No tractors or other heavy equipment will be used on slopes greater than 50 percent.

(2) No new tractor roads will be constructed on slopes greater than 40 percent.

(3) Timber operations within any Special Treatment Area [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1] must comply with the rules associated with that Special Treatment Area.

(4) No tractors or other heavy equipment will be used on known slides or unstable areas.

(5) There will be no new road construction or reconstruction [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1].

(6) No heavy equipment will be used within a watercourse or lake protection zone, except for maintaining roads and drainage facilities or structures or the removal of dead or dying trees when consistent with 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 916.4(b), 936.4(b), and 956.4(b).

(7) No known sites of rare, threatened, or endangered plants or animals will be disturbed, threatened, or damaged.

(8) No timber operations will be conducted within the buffer zone of a sensitive species [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1].

(9) No timber harvest will be conducted in a watercourse or lake protection zone except sanitation-salvage harvesting.

(10) No timber operations will be conducted on any site that satisfies the criteria listed in 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1 for a significant archaeological or historical site.

NOTE:
Specific requirements apply to timber operations in the Lake Tahoe Region for the purposes of (1) cutting Christmas trees, for other ornamental purposes, or for minor forest products such as fuel wood; (2) cutting or removing dead, dying diseased trees of any size; or (3) cutting or removing trees that eliminates the vertical continuity of vegetative fuels and the horizontal continuity of tree crowns for the purpose of reducing flammable materials and maintaining a fuel break [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(f)*].

c. Cutting or removing trees to reduce flammable materials and maintain a fuelbreak as specified in Pub. Res. Code § 4584(j).

d. Removal of woody debris and slash that is [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(g)]:

(1) Located outside standard width watercourse and lake protection zone;

(2) Within reach of loading equipment operating on existing logging roads and landings;

(3) Developed during timber operations; and

(4) Delivered as combustion fuel for production of energy.

e. Harvesting of trees that eliminate vertical continuity of vegetative fuels and horizontal continuity of tree crowns, for purpose of reducing rate of fire spread, duration and intensity, fuel ignitability, or ignition of tree crowns, as provided in Pub. Res. Code § 4584(k) (effective until January 1, 2013).

NOTE:

However, no tree that existed before 1800 A.D and is greater than 60 inches in diameter at stump height for Sierra or Coastal Redwoods, and 48 inches in diameter at stump height for all other tree species, may be harvested unless done so under the conditions or criteria set forth in 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(h) [see discussion in § 36A.21[3][d]].

9. Determine whether land on which timber operations are planned is exempt from requirement of preparing and submitting timber harvesting plan because land is managed by California Department of Parks and Recreation.

NOTE:

Timber operations on land managed by the California Department of Parks and Recreation are exempt from the requirement of preparing and submitting a timber harvest plan provided the operations have undergone all evaluations required by the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038.3(a); see Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq. (CEQA)]. For the requirements of CEQA, see Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Chs. 20- 23 (Matthew Bender).

10. Determine whether emergency exists that requires immediate commencement of timber operations for any of the following reasons [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1052.1]:

NOTE:

A registered professional forester may file an emergency notice with the Department of Forestry and Fire Protection that will allow immediate commencement of timber operations. The notice must contain a declaration under penalty of perjury that a bona fide emergency exists that requires immediate harvest activities [Pub. Res. Code § 4592]. The notice must describe the nature of the emergency and the need for immediate cutting in sufficient detail so that the reason for the emergency is clear. An emergency is presumed to exist when tree killing insects have killed and are likely to kill trees within one year on timberland. Trees will be considered likely to die when they are determined to be high-risk under specified classification or rating systems or when evidence of a current beetle attack exists (that is, existence of boring dust, woodpecker feeding, or recent top kill) and those trees are within 100 feet of multiple tree kills [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1052.2].

a. Trees are dead or dying as a result of insects, disease, parasites, or animal damage.

b. Trees are fallen, damaged, dead, or dying as a result of wind, snow, freezing weather, fire, flood, landslide, or earthquake.

c. Trees are dead or dying as a result of air or water pollution.

d. Cutting or removing of trees is required for emergency construction or repair of roads.

e. In high, very high or extreme fuel hazard conditions, combustible fuel quantity, type, condition, configuration and terrain positioning poses a significant fire threat on private timberlands.

f. Trees obscure the sight-line from the observation area of a fire detection lookout maintained by a government agency.

g. It has unexpectedly become feasible to harvest timber that was previously inoperable or unmerchantable due to access, location, condition, or timber volume, provided the following conditions are met:

(1) Harvest opportunity will not be economically feasible for more than 120 days;

(2) Harvest will meet conditions specified in 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b)(1)-(10) for exempting the harvest of dead, dying, or diseased timber from timber harvesting plan and stocking requirements; and

(3) Harvest will meet minimum stocking requirements at end of timber operations.

11. If timber harvesting plan is required, determine which office of Department of Forestry and Fire Protection plan should be filed in [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032], for example:

NOTE:

The Timber Harvesting Plan must be submitted in writing on a form that meets regulatory requirements at the appropriate CAL FIRE Review Team Office:

§ 36A.112 Timber Operations in National Forests

1. If transaction involves sale of standing timber in national forest, ascertain location of its headquarters office.

NOTE:
the address for the headquarters office of any National Forest in California can be found on the website of the United States Forest Service at http://www.fs.fed.us/r5/.

2. Contact headquarters office of particular national forest in which timber is to be cut to ascertain price to be paid for timber, that is, timber's "stumpage value," using one of the following methods:

a. Transaction evidence appraisal method.

NOTE:
This method determines the fair market value based on prices received for comparable sales of standing timber. It is the preferred method of determining fair market value for all Forest Service Regions, except Alaska (Region 10) [61 Fed. Reg. 5685 (Feb. 14, 1996)] . Other valid methods include (1) analytical appraisals, (2) comparison appraisals, and (3) independent estimates based on average investments. Pertinent factors affecting market value include (1) prices paid and valuations established for comparable timber, (2) selling value of products produced, (3) estimated operating costs, (4) operating difficulties, and (5) quality of timber [36 C.F.R. § 223.60].

b. Lump-sum "stumpage value" method or at rate per unit of measure [36 C.F.R. § 223.64].

NOTE:

When timber is sold at a rate per unit of measure, the rate may be adjusted during the contract period if it is specified in the contract according to formulas or other equivalent specifications because of changes in timber values or product values [36 C.F.R. § 223.64]. All contracts exceeding seven years in duration must provide for a redetermination of rates for stumpage and for the required deposits at intervals of not more than five years [36 C.F.R. § 223.33].

3. Determine whether headquarters office of national forest will require the following:

a. Satisfactory evidence of client's financial ability to perform timber purchase contract [36 C.F.R. § 223.101].

b. Satisfactory evidence of client's ability to obtain equipment and supplies suitable for logging timber being sold, manufacturing timber, and for meeting fire precautionary terms required by forest service to be included in contract [36 C.F.R. § 223.101].

c. Performance bond for satisfactory compliance with terms of timber sale contract [36 C.F.R. § 223.35].

4. Determine when timber is to be paid for by client.

NOTE:

Ordinarily, timber and forest products sold by a national forest must be paid for in advance of cutting [36 C.F.R. § 223.34]. However, the contract may provide that payment may be made after timber is cut and scaled [see § 36A.200[1][e]*], provided that the purchaser, before cutting, furnishes a bond with a corporate surety, satisfactory to the United States Forest Service, for the value of the timber to be cut before payment is made [36 C.F.R. § 223.35].

5. Draft contract for sale of timber or review and approve contract prepared for sale of timber by United States Forest Service.

6. If client is not successful bidder for timber advertised for sale by United States Forest Service:

a. Determine if bid was highest bid submitted [36 C.F.R. § 223.100].

b. Determine, if bid was highest, if client failed to show ability to meet financial and other requirements for contract [36 C.F.R. § 221.10(a)].

c. Determine whether any other reason specified in regulations authorizes denial of sale to client when client is high bidder, such as:

(1) If two or more equally qualified bidders submit identical bids, sale may be awarded by lot [36 C.F.R. § 223.100(b)].

(2) Emergency situation may require division of sale between highest bidder and another purchaser [36 C.F.R. § 221.10(a)(3)].

(3) Contract may be denied highest bidder if he or she is notoriously or habitually careless with fire, or has failed to comply satisfactorily with requirements of previous national forest contracts [36 C.F.R. § 223.100(c)].

(4) Contract may be denied highest bidder if monopoly, injurious to public welfare, would result from control of large amounts of public or public and private timber by bidder [36 C.F.R. § 223.100(d)].

§ 36A.113 Water Supply Contract

1. Determine nature of water supplier's right to water as one of the following [see § 36A.32]:

a. Riparian right.

b. Appropriative right.

c. Prescriptive right.

d. Overlying right.

2. Determine extent of supplier's right to water.

NOTE:
In general, the supplier's right is limited to only so much as may be reasonably used for beneficial purposes [Cal. Const., art. X, § 2], and when the supplier's right is appropriative or prescriptive, he or she may have to apply to the State Water Resources Control Board for more water [Water Code §§ 1003.5, 1201, 1225].

3. When contract is for supplying water system for proposed subdivision, ascertain proposed subdivider's ability to successfully complete proposed subdivision without liens or other financial disasters, considering the following:

a. Previous experience in subdivision development.

b. Commitments for financing of subdivision, including:

(1) Financing of off-site improvements.

(2) Construction loans for on-site improvements.

(3) Take out loans.

c. Net worth.

d. Purchase money mortgage or deed of trust and other encumbrances presently encumbering proposed subdivision land.

4. Determine nature and type of easements, if any, over lands of persons other than contracting parties that may be necessary to supplier to perform contract, considering the following:

a. Nature of required easements.

b. Land over which required easements must pass.

c. Best location and exact legal description of easements.

d. Names and addresses of owners of land over which easements must pass.

5. Determine method of acquiring easements across lands owned by others necessary for performance of contract, including:

a. Purchase of easement by private company or public district.

b. Acquisition by eminent domain.

c. Exchange for other easement or property.

6. Determine how improvements required for performance of water supply contract are to be financed, for example.

a. Private financing.

b. Formation of special assessment district and issuance of bonds [see Ch. 30A, Construction Financing].

c. Construction loans.

§ 36A.120 Locating Mining Claims

1. Prepare notice of location [see §§ 36A.200-36A.203 for appropriate form].

2. Have locator(s) post notice of location and mark claim boundaries, including the following:

NOTE:
The space on the notice of location should be left blank, to be filled in on all copies on the date the notice is actually posted on the claim [see Pub. Res. Code § 3900(d)].

a. For lode claim:
(1) On date of location, have locator(s) erect monument at point of discovery and post notice of location in or on monument [Pub. Res. Code § 3900].

NOTE:
The monument must be one of the following: (1) a wooden post not less than one and a half inches in diameter projecting at least two feet above the ground; (2) a mound of stone projecting at least two feet above the ground; or (3) a nonperforated, capped metal post or solid metal rod, not less than one inch in diameter and projecting at least two feet above the ground [Pub. Res. Code § 3915(a)].

(2) Within 60 days after date of location, have locator(s) erect monument at each corner of claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3901].

(3) Confirm that each corner monument bears or contains markings sufficient to appropriately designate

[Pub. Res. Code § 3901]:

(a) Corner of mining claim to which it pertains.

(b) Name of claim.

b. For placer claim:

(1) When claim being located is described in notice of location as part of United States public land survey:

(a) Have locator(s) erect conspicuous and substantial monument at point of discovery of valuable minerals and post notice of location in or on monument [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(a)].

(b) Do not mark boundaries of claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)].

(2) When claim being located is not described as part of United States public land survey, have locator(s) do the following:

(a) Erect conspicuous and substantial monument at point of discovery of valuable minerals [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(a)].

(b) Post notice of location in or on monument [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(a)].

(c) Erect conspicuous and substantial monument at each corner of claim, or nearest accessible point to each corner, bearing or containing [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)]:
(i) Markings sufficient to appropriately designate corner of mining claim to which it pertains; and

(ii) Name of claim.

c. For tunnel right:

(1) Have locator(s) erect conspicuous and substantial monument at face or point of commencement of tunnel (point where it enters ground) and post notice of location in or on monument [Pub. Res. Code § 3906].

(2) Have conspicuous and substantial monuments erected along lines of tunnel on surface of ground at 600-feet intervals for distance of 3,000 feet from face or point of commencement of tunnel [Pub. Res. Code § 3907].

d. If it is impractical or dangerous to place or maintain monument in its true position because of precipitous ground or because the claim is being worked, use a "witness monument" as follows [see Pub. Res. Code § 3915(b), (c)]:

NOTE:
A "witness monument" is a monument that is not placed at the true point where it should have been placed but contains a notice or other marking specifying where that true point is located [see the American Law of Mining, Ch. 33, Location Procedures (Matthew Bender)].

(1) Erect it as near true position as nature of ground will permit; and

(2) Mark it to identify true position.

3. As soon as notice of location is posted, forward the following documents to county recorder of county in which mining claim or tunnel right is located:

NOTE:

The notice of location must be recorded within 90 days after it is posted on the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3911]. It is not advisable to delay recording because a certified copy of the recorded notice must also be filed within 90 days of the "date of location" with the BLM [43 U.S.C. § 1744(b); 43 C.F.R. §§ 3833.0-5, 3833.1-2(a)]. In California, the "date of location" is the date the notice is posted on the claim [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900(d), 3902(a), 3906(b)].

a. One executed and two conformed copies of notice of location.

NOTE:

A notice of location of a mining claim is expressly exempted from the requirement that a "document" must be acknowledged before it can be recorded [see Gov. Code § 27282(a)(3)].

b. Cover letter asking county recorder to do the following:

(1) Record an executed copy of notice of location enclosed with letter.

(2) Certify one of conformed copies of notice of location with recorder's certificate showing date of recording of executed copy, book and page at which it was recorded, and document number assigned to it.

(3) Stamp other conformed copy of notice of location as "Endorsed: Filed" on date executed copy was recorded.

c. Counsel's check payable to county recorder for recording and certification fees consisting of:

(1) Fee for recording executed copy of notice of location [see Gov. Code § 27361 for current amount of fee].

(2) Fee for certifying conformed copy of notice of location [see Gov. Code § 27364 for current amount of certification fees].

NOTE:

Gov. Code § 27364 no longer establishes a set fee. Rather, it has been amended to provide for the setting of certification fees by the board of supervisors in amounts necessary to recover the costs of providing products or services or the costs of enforcing any regulation for which fees or charges are levied.

4. Within 90 days after date of location, forward the following to BLM office in Sacramento:

a. Copy of official record of notice of location that was or will be filed under California law, including description of location of mining claim or tunnel right sufficient to locate claimed lands on ground [43 U.S.C. § 1744(b); 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(a)].

NOTE:

This official record of notice of location must be accompanied by a topographic map published by the U.S. Geological Survey or by a narrative description or sketch depicting or describing the location of the claim [43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(b)].

b. Copy of notice of location stamped "Endorsed: Filed" by county recorder of county where it was recorded.

c. Counsel's check payable to BLM in amount of required service fee [see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-3(b) for service fees].

d. Cover letter requesting BLM to do the following:

(1) File copy of notice of location that has been certified by county recorder of county where it was recorded.

(2) On copy of notice of location stamped "Endorsed: Filed" by county recorder, mark serial number assigned by Bureau to claim and date of Bureau's filing of certified copy of notice of location and return "Endorsed: Filed" copy to counsel for counsel's office files.

§ 36A.121 Timber Operations

1. Prepare and have parties execute contract for sale of standing timber [see § 36A.220[2]] or logging contract [see § 36A.225], as applicable.

2. Prepare timber harvesting plan as follows:

NOTE:
Timber harvesting plans are customarily prepared by the landowner, landlord, or other person who controls or operates on the land [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 4581, 4582; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.7]. If someone other than the owner plans to harvest the timber, that person must file the timber harvesting plan and must also notify the owner by certified mail that the plan has been submitted [Pub. Res. Code § 4582; see P 4, below].

a. Employ registered professional forester to prepare plan.

NOTE:
The plan must be prepared by a registered professional forester [Pub. Res. Code § 4581; see Pub. Res. Code § 752 ("professional forester" defined); 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1 ("registered professional forester" defined)]. The names and addresses of registered professional foresters may be obtained from the State Board of Forestry at its office in the Resources Building, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento. The mailing address is P.O. Box 944246, Sacramento, CA 94244-2460 [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1601].

b. Confirm that plan is prepared on official form and includes required information [see § 36A.131, P 1 (guide to drafting timber harvesting plan)].

3. File plan with State Department of Forestry and Fire Protection at appropriate address [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032].

NOTE:
The plan must be filed by a person who owns, leases, or otherwise controls or operates on the timberland and plans to harvest the timber on the land [Pub. Res. Code § 4582]. For the appropriate addresses for filing, see § 36A.111, P 11.

4. If client does not own land on which timber is to be harvested, notify owner by certified mail that plan has been submitted and certify to Department of Forestry and Fire Protection that owner has been notified [Pub. Res. Code § 4582].

5. Prepare Notice of Intent to Harvest Timber if any of the following situations exist [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.7(c); see § 36A.131, P 2 (guide to drafting Notice of Intent)]:

a. Any proposed plan boundary lies within 300 feet of any property owned by another person.

b. Any plan amendment [see Pub. Res. Code § 4591] changes a plan boundary so that new boundary lies within 300 feet of any property owned by another person.

c. Any plan amendment changes silvicultural method, and Notice of Intent was required for the plan under a. or b., above.

NOTE:
"Silviculture" is the theory and practice of controlling the establishment, composition, and growth of forests. "Silvicultural system" is the planned program of forest stand treatments during the life of a stand. It consists of a number of integrated steps conducted in logical sequence leading to maintaining a forest stand of distinctive form for the level of management intensity desired [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 895.1].

6. Before plan is submitted, have client post copy of Notice of Intent and map at conspicuous location on public road nearest plan site.

NOTE:
The Notice of Intent must be on colored paper or identified with colored flagging so as to be easily visible to the public [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.7(g)].

7. Submit all of following to Director of Forestry and Fire Protection at appropriate regional office [see § 36A.111, P 11 (addresses)]:

a. Timber harvest plan [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032].

b. Notice of Intent, if required [see P 5, above].

c. Names and mailing addresses of all property owners within 300 feet of plan boundary.

NOTE:
These names and addresses must be furnished by the registered professional forester when the plan is submitted. The names and addresses can be compiled from the latest equalized assessment roll or a list provided by a title company doing business in California compiled within 60 days of the plan's submission [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.7(e)]. The Department will mail copies of the Notice of Intent to the person on this list within two working days after the plan is received [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.7(f)].

d. Copies of notice by letter (as well as proof of service and publication of notice and any response to notice [see NOTE, below]) to all other landowners within 1,000 feet downstream of the plan boundary whose ownership adjoins or includes a Class I, II, or IV watercourse(s) that receives surface drainage from the proposed timber operations [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.10].

NOTE:

The notice must request that the plan submitter be advised of surface domestic water use from the watercourse. In addition, notice by publication must be given one time by the plan submitter in a newspaper of general circulation in the area affected by the proposed project [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.10]. The letter and publication must notify the party of the proposed timber operation and describe its legal location and identify the name, if any, of the watercourse it may effect. The letter and publication must also request a response by the property owner within 10 days of the postmarked date on the letter or the date of publication. Copies of the notice, proof of service and publication, and any responses must be attached to the plan when submitted. However, the registered professional forester may propose, with justification and explanation, an exemption to these notice requirements [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032.10].

8. Inform client of following procedure for processing of plan, which may require client's participation:

a. Director of Forestry and Fire Protection must review plan and take public comments within one of following time periods [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(a)]:

(1) 30 days from completion of any initial inspection (with 10 of those days following the date of final interagency review);

NOTE:

Within 10 days of the receipt of a plan, or within 20 days of the receipt of a plan to which a Road Management Plan [see 14 Cal. Code. Reg. § 895.1 (definition)] is appended, the Director must determine if an initial inspection is necessary [Pub. Res. Code § 4604(a); 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1037]. If an inspection is necessary, the Department of Forestry and Fire Protection will conduct the inspection within that same period, or any longer period mutually agreed on by the Department and the person submitting the plan [Pub. Res. Code § 4604].

(2) 15 days from date plan was filed, if no inspection is necessary; or

(3) Any longer period mutually agreed on by Director and client.

b. After initial review and public comment period has ended, Director must determine if plan complies with applicable requirements, within one of following time limits [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(a)]:

NOTE:

As a part of this process, the Director must (1) review the public input, (2) consider recommendations and mitigation measures of other agencies, and (3) respond in writing to the issues raised [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(a)].

(1) 15 working days; or

(2) Any longer period mutually agreed on by Director and client.

c. Department of Forestry and Fire Protection may hold public hearing on plan, within time limits set forth in Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7 [see P b, above], if the following occur [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.6(d)]:

NOTE:

The Department must hold the requested hearing before taking any action on the plan. The hearing must be held (1) at a time and place convenient to the public, (2) in the county in which the proposed harvest is located, and (3) at county offices if they are made available by the county for that purpose. Oral and written testimony will be accepted at the hearing. This hearing will not extend the time limits established by Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7 [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.6(d)].

(1) State Board of Forestry has adopted local rules and regulations applicable to county in which lands covered by plan are located [see Pub. Res. Code § 4516.5].

(2) Board of supervisors or planning commission of that county request the hearing.

9. If Director approves plan in timely fashion [see P 8b, above], instruct client to commence operations, unless Director of Fish and Game or State Water Resources Control Board appeals approval to State Board of Forestry within 10 days of approval [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.9(a); 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1037.7].

NOTE:

If the approval is appealed, no further timber operations may occur under the plan until a final determination of the appeal by the Board [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.9(a)]. The Board must hold a public hearing on the appeal and then approve or deny the plan [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.9(d)].

10. If Director does not act on plan within 25 days, or a longer period as mutually agreed on by Board and person filing plan, inform client that operations may commence [see Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(d)].

11. If Director notifies client in writing that plan does not comply with applicable requirements, instruct client to take one of following actions:

NOTE:

The written notification must (1) set forth the Director's reasons for the denial, (2) inform the applicant of his or her right to a public hearing before the Board, and (3) state that timber operations under the plan must not commence [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(b); 14 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1037.6, 1054; see P c, below]. Further, the Director must specify any changes and reasonable conditions that in the Director's professional judgment are needed to bring the plan into conformance with the Board's rules, and must offer to confer with the registered professional forester to reach agreement on the conditions necessary to bring the plan into conformance [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1037.6].

a. Comply with any changes and conditions identified in Director's statement that are necessary to bring plan into conformance with Board's rules [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1037.6];

b. Accept Director's offer (contained in statement) to confer with registered professional forester to reach agreement on conditions necessary to bring plan into conformance [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1037.6]; or

c. Within 10 days of return of plan, appeal rejection by requesting public hearing before Board as follows [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(c); 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1054.1]:

NOTE:
After an appeal is made, the Board must schedule a public hearing to review the plan to determine if it conforms to the Board's rules and regulations and the Z'Berg-Nejedly Forest Practice Act of 1973 [Pub. Res. Code § 4511 et seq.]. Timber operations must await Board approval of the plan. Board action must occur within 30 days from the filing of the appeal, or any longer period mutually agreed on by the Board and the appellant [Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(c)].

(1) Prepare written request containing [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1054.2]:
(a) Statement requesting hearing before Board.

(b) Identification of timber harvesting plan.

(c) Name and address of person making request.

(2) Mail request to State Board of Forestry, 1416 Ninth Street, Room 1506-14, Sacramento, CA 95814 [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1054.3].

NOTE:
The request will be considered filed on the date it is mailed or the date it is otherwise received at the Board's Sacramento headquarters, whichever is earlier [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1054.3].

d. Abandon rejected plan and consider preparing new one.

12. If hearing on rejected plan is held, advise client to take one of following steps (as appropriate) after hearing [see Pub. Res. Code § 4582.7(d); 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1054.8]:

a. If Board approves plan, commence operations.

b. If Board rejects plan but Director overrides Board and approves plan within 10 days of Board's action:

(1) Bring plan into full compliance with all applicable rules and regulations.

(2) Commence operations.

c. If Board rejects plan and Director does not override rejection, refrain from conducting timber operations under plan.

b. After approval of annexation petition and annexation to district of land proposed to be subdivided, proceed to form a special assessment district of land proposed to be subdivided to finance construction of water system for subdivision [see Ch. 30A, Construction Financing].

5. When water system is to be built and water supplied by privately owned commercial water system, proceed with the following:

a. Apply to California Public Utilities Commission for certificate of public convenience and necessity allowing water system to extend its mains and build system for subdivision [Pub. Util. Code § 1001; see § 36A.132 for guide to drafting petition].

b. File petition with State Department of Health for permit to operate water system for subdivision [see Health & Safety Code § 116525].

6. On receipt of all required permits and authorizations, proceed to assist in planning and developing subdivision and water supply system for subdivision.

§ 36A.140 Mining Claims--Annual Assessment Work

1. Inform owner of placer or lode mining claim about need to perform not less than $100 worth of labor or improvements annually [30 U.S.C. § 28; 43 C.F.R. § 3851.1; Pub. Res. Code § 3912; see § 36A.200[1][e]].

NOTE:

The period within which work must be done commences at 12:01 p.m. on the first day of September succeeding the date of location of the claim [30 U.S.C. § 28; 43 C.F.R. § 3851.1]. Failure to make annual assessment work during any assessment year subjects the claim to relocation by others unless the owner of the claim resumes work after the failure and before relocation of the claim by others [30 U.S.C. § 28; 43 C.F.R. § 3851.3].

2. Notify owner that above requirement may be satisfied by conduct of geological, geochemical, or geophysical surveys on claim [30 U.S.C. § 28-1; 43 C.F.R. § 3851.2(a)].

NOTE:

The surveys must be verified by a detailed report filed in the county office where the claim was recorded. Surveys cannot be applied as the assessment labor due on the claim for more than two consecutive years or for a total of more than five years in all, and cannot be repetitive of any previous survey of the same claim [30 U.S.C. § 28-1; 43 C.F.R. § 3851.2(a)].

3. Warn owner that assessment work substantially affecting surface environment may require filing of notice of intent and plan of operation with BLM or under California Surface Mining and Reclamation Act of 1975 [Pub. Res. Code § 2710 et seq.].

NOTE:

Federal surface management rules for mining claims are set forth in 43 C.F.R. pt. 3809.

The California Surface Mining and Reclamation Act of 1976 is not applicable to surface mining operations that are required by federal law to protect a mining claim conducted solely for that purpose [Pub. Res. Code § 2714(e)].

4. Within 30 days after September 1 of each year, have person for whose benefit annual assessment work for year was performed (or someone on that person's behalf) make affidavit of annual labor performed on claim [see § 36A.205] and have it recorded in office of county recorder of county in which claim is located [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(a)].

NOTE:

Failure to file the affidavit within 30 days after September 1 of any year creates a prima facie presumption of the act and intent of the owner to abandon the mining claim and places the burden of proof on the owner to show that the assessment work was performed and the claim was not abandoned [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(c)]. Failure to record the affidavit before December 31 of any year conclusively constitutes an abandonment of the mining claim [43 U.S.C. § 1744(c)]. However, the owner may avoid this presumption by filing for record, before December 31, a notice of intention to hold mining claim [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a)(1)].

5. Before December 31 of each year, have owner of lode or placer mining claim file with proper BLM office either evidence of annual assessment work having been performed or notice of intention to hold mining claim [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a)(1); 43 C.F.R. §§ 3833.2-1, 3833.2-2], as follows:

NOTE:

The general mining laws allow the required annual assessment work to be initiated in the assessment year following the assessment year in which the claim was located [see 30 U.S.C. § 28*]. Accordingly, a claimant of a mining claim located between September 1 and December 31 of a given calendar year must submit an annual filing on or before December 31 of the following calendar year [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-3(a)].

a. Evidence of annual assessment work having been performed must be in form of either:

(1) Exact legible reproduction or duplicate, except microfilm, of evidence of assessment work that was performed under state law and that was or will be filed for record in local jurisdiction where claim or group of claims is located and recorded, setting forth [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-4(a)]:

(a) BLM serial number assigned to claim on filing of notice or certificate of location in proper BLM office; and

(b) Any change in mailing address, if known, of owner or owners of claim; or

(2) Exact legible reproduction or duplicate, except microfilm, of detailed report concerning geological, geochemical, and geophysical surveys which has been or will be recorded in California jurisdiction where claim or group of claims is located and recorded [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-4(b)].

b. Notice of intention to hold claim must include [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-5(b)]:

NOTE:

A notice of intention may be filed at the owner's election, regardless of whether the assessment has been suspended, deferred, or not yet accrued. However, the claimant must file with the BLM the same documents that have been or will be recorded with the county or local recorder's office. The notice will be effective only to satisfy the filing requirement for the year [see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.0-5(o) (filing year means time period during which documents and fees are required to be provided to the proper BLM office; the time periods are set forth in the regulation)] in which the notice is filed [but see NOTE immediately following P 5, above]. The filing of a notice with the BLM will not relieve the owner of complying with federal and state laws pertaining to the performance of annual assessment work [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-5(a)].

(1) Exact legible reproduction or duplicate (except microfilm) of an instrument signed by owner of claim or owner's agent and setting forth the following:

(a) BLM serial number; and

(b) Any known change in mailing address of owner of claim.

(2) Reference by date and serial number to decision (on file in proper BLM office) that granted deferment of annual assessment work.

(3) Reference to pending petition for deferment of annual assessment work by date of filing and serial number.

6. Before December 31 of each year, an owner of a tunnel mill or tunnel site must file with proper BLM office a notice of intention to hold claim in a form of letter or other notice signed by owner of site or owner's agent, setting forth the following information [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-5(c)]:

a. BLM serial number.

b. Any known change in mailing address of owner.

a. Mining claim in United States is surrounded by lands over which right-of-way for performance of assessment work has been denied or is in litigation or is in process of acquisition under state law; or

(2) Both duplicate copies of petition should:
(a) Be signed by at least one of owners of claim; and

(b) Give name of claim, date of location, and date of beginning of one-year assessment work period for which deferment is requested [43 C.F.R. § 3852.2(a)].

(3) When petition is based on denial of right-of-way it must state all of the following:

(a) Nature and ownership of land, or claim to ownership of land, over which it is necessary to obtain right-of-way to reach claim;

(b) Description of such land by legal subdivision of United States public land survey if land is surveyed;

(c) Full details as to why present use of right-of-way is denied or prevented and steps that have been taken to acquire right to use it; and

§ 36A.200 Notice of Location of Lode Mining Claim [30 U.S.C. § 28; Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900, 3911]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice of location of a lode mining claim. The posting of a notice of location, and the recordation of an exact copy of the posted notice, are two of the required steps in the claiming of any type of mining claim [see [d][i], below]. For the notices applicable to a placer mining claim, see § 36A.201 and § 36A.202. A notice of location of a tunnel right is set forth in § 36A.203.

For a guide to the procedures applicable to staking a mining claim, see § 36A.120.

[b] "Lode" vs. "Placer" Claims

There are two types of mining claims: "lode" claims and "placer" claims. The distinction between "lode" claims and "placer" claims is delineated in both federal and California statutes [see 30 U.S.C. §§ 23-27, 35-37; Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900-3902].

Lode claims embrace one or more continuous veins, lodes, or ledges of mineral lying within well-defined seams or fissures in the surrounding rock, within boundaries clearly separating it from the neighboring rock, often deep within the bowels of the earth [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] . The terms "lode," "vein," and "ledge" mean the same things when used in the federal and California statutes dealing with mining claims [Wm. H. Hoegee Inv. Co. v. Burton Bros. (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 863, 867, 283 P.2d 314] .

In contrast, a "placer" is a gravelly place where a mineral is found, especially by the side of a river, or in the bed of a mountain torrent. [Hansen Brothers Enterprises, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors of Nevada County (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 533, 567 n.25, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 907 P.2d 1324 ; Gregory v. Pershbaker (1887) 73 Cal. 109, 114, 14 P. 401] . The term "placer" includes all forms of mineral deposits except veins of quartz or other rock in place [30 U.S.C. § 35]. It also includes subterranean beds of gravel that contain minerals [Gregory v. Pershbaker (1887) 73 Cal. 109, 114-115, 14 P. 401] .

A lode claim is limited by reference to its course, while a placer claim may not exceed 20 acres for each individual claimant [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113 ; see § 36A.201[1][b][i]].

[c] Size and Extent of Lode Claim

Both federal and California statutes provide that a lode mining claim may not (1) extend more than 1,500 feet along the course of the lode or vein that is the basis for the claim and (2) include more than 300 feet of ground on either side of the center of the vein or lode [30 U.S.C. § 23; Pub. Res. Code § 3901]. Neither the sidelines nor the end lines of a lode mining claim need be straight. However, the end lines of the claim must be parallel to each other [30 U.S.C. § 23]. End lines of a lode mining claim are those that cut across the lode or vein that is the basis for the claim and mark the end of the 1,500 feet or lesser distance the claim runs along the course of the vein [see U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, Discovery, Location, Recordation, and Assessment Work for Mining Claims and Sites in California 10 (1987 ed.)].

The "dip" of a vein is broadly defined as its downward course or direction toward depth [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Butler (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 466, 487, 145 P.2d 49] . The "strike" of a vein is at right angles to its dip and is used to designate the longitudinal or horizontal course of the vein [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Butler (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 466, 487, 145 P.2d 49] . The "apex" of a vein is the highest point of the vein, or the place where the vein is nearest the surface, and the top of the vein's dip [Brugger v. Lee Yim (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 38, 49-50, 55 P.2d 564] . The apex must, however, be the top of the vein itself and not merely the top of some spur or feeder of the vein [Brugger v. Lee Yim (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 38, 50, 55 P.2d 564] . Whether, in fact, a mine owner was following the dip of a vein that has its apex on the owner's claim when he or she goes beyond the sidelines of the claim is a question of fact to be determined by the trier of fact [Wm. H. Hoegee Inv. Co. v. Burton Bros. (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 863, 868, 283 P.2d 314] .

The owner of a lode mining claim may follow the dip of any lode or vein having its apex on the owner's claim indefinitely outside the sidelines of the owner's claim [Flagstaff Silver Mining Co. v. Tarbet (1878) 98 U.S. 463, 467, 25 L. Ed. 253] . The owner may not, however, follow either the dip or the strike of the vein or lode beyond the end lines of his or her claim [Flagstaff Silver Mining Co. v. Tarbet (1878) 98 U.S. 463, 467, 25 L. Ed. 253] . This was the general rule of "miners' law" [Flagstaff Silver Mining Co. v. Tarbet (1878) 98 U.S. 463, 467, 25 L. Ed. 253] , and has been expressly incorporated into the federal mining claim statutes [see 30 U.S.C. § 26]. The right to follow the dip of a vein beyond the sidelines of a claim is known as the claimant's "extralateral rights" [see American Law of Mining, Ch. 30, Introduction to Federal Mining Law (Matthew Bender)]. If the claim is in a shape other than a parallelogram (for example, in the shape of a horseshoe or an isosceles triangle) and its side and end lines are indistinguishable, the claim owner loses these extralateral rights [Doe v. Sanger (1890) 83 Cal. 203, 209-214, 23 P. 365] .

[d] Locating and Claiming Lode Claim

[i] Essential Requirements

The federal statutes set forth the general requirements for locating and claiming either a lode or a placer claim [see 30 U.S.C. §§ 21-36]. They are supplemented by California statutes specifying in greater detail the requirements for locating and claiming a placer, lode, tunnel right, or millsite claim [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900-3924].

In mining terms, "location" refers to the acts required to stake a claim to mineral bearing property. In addition to discovering the minerals [see [ii], below], the locator must do all of the following [Creede & C. C. M. & M. Co. v.

Uinta T. M. & T. Co. (1904) 196 U.S. 337, 346, 25 S. Ct. 266, 49 L. Ed. 501 ; Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] :

- Mark the boundaries of the claim [see [iii], below];
- Post a notice of location on the claim [see [iv], [v], below];
- Record and file the notice of location [see [vi], [vii], below];
- Take possession and work the claim [see [e], below]; and
- Perform whatever else is mandated by the acts of Congress and by local laws and regulations.

[ii] Discovery of Minerals

Discovery of valuable minerals on the claim is necessary to perfect the claim, but discovery need not precede the other acts of location [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] .

There are two tests used to determine whether a lode claim has been properly discovered:

- The "prudent person test," in which the locator must find evidence of mineralization that would justify the expenditure of addition labor and means by an ordinarily prudent person to develop the property as a mine [see Kramer v. Gladding, McBean & Co. (1938) 30 Cal. App. 2d 98, 104, 85 P.2d 552] ; and
- The "marketability test," which complements the prudent person test, and requires that the locator find a mineral deposit that can be mined and sold at a profit, given the accessibility of the deposit, its proximity to a market, the demand for the mineral, and the costs of development [Acting Solicitor Op., "Taking of Sand and Gravel From Public Lands for Federal Aid Highways," 54 I.D. 294, 296 (1933) , GFS Mining Supp. Decision No. 6 (1973)].

For further discussion of these tests, see American Law of Mining, Ch. 35, Discovery (Matthew Bender).

[iii] Boundaries

The boundaries of a lode mining claim must be defined by the locator so that they may be readily traced, but in no case may the claim extend more than 1,500 feet along the course of the vein or lode, or more than 300 feet on either side of it, as measured from the centerline of the vein at the surface [Pub. Res. Code § 3901]. Within 60 days after the claim is located, the locator must erect a monument at each corner of the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3901; see Pub. Res. Code § 3915]. The monument must be of one of the following forms [Pub. Res. Code § 3915(a)]:

- A wooden post not less than one and one-half inches in diameter projecting at least two feet above the ground.
- A mound of stone projecting at least two feet above the ground.
- A nonperforated, capped metal post or solid metal rod, not less than one inch in diameter and projecting at least two feet above the ground.

Each corner monument must bear or contain markings sufficient to appropriately designate the corner of the mining claim and the name of the claim to which it pertains [Pub. Res. Code § 3901].

[iv] Contents of Notice

The notice of location of a lode mining claim must contain all of the following information [Pub. Res. Code § 3900; 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(b)]:

- The name of the lode or claim.
- The type of claim or site.
- The name and current mailing or residence address of the locator.
- The number of linear feet claimed in length along the course of the vein or lode, each way from the point of discovery, with the width on each side of the center of the claim, and the general course of the vein or lode, as near as may be.
- The date of the location, which must be the same as the date of posting the notice.
- A description of the type of monuments used for the discovery and corner monuments.
- A description of the claim by reference to some natural object or permanent monument by which the claim can be identified.

[v] Posting Notice

The locator must post the notice of location in or on a monument erected by the locator at the point of discovery of the vein or lode [Pub. Res. Code § 3900; see [iii], above (monument requirements)].

[vi] Recording Notice

Within 90 days after the notice of location is posted on the claim, a true copy of the posted notice together with a statement of the boundary markings and their character must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the claim is situated [Pub. Res. Code § 3911]. The notice need not be acknowledged to be recorded [Gov. Code § 27282(a)(3)]. The recording fees are set by statute [see Gov. Code § 27361 for current amounts]. Recordation of the notice serves as constructive notice to other prospectors, but a failure to record with the county recorder does not work a forfeiture and persons with actual knowledge of the claim may not take advantage of the failure to record [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 902, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] .

[vii] Filing Notice With Bureau of Land Management

In 1976, Congress enacted the Federal Land Policy and Management Act [43 U.S.C. § 1701 et seq.]. Under that Act, the owner of an unpatented mining claim is required to file with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), within 90 days of locating the claim, a copy of the official notice of the location or certificate of location [43 U.S.C. § 1744(b); 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(a)]. In California, the notice should be filed at the following address:

Bureau of Land Management
California State Office
2800 Cottage Way, Suite W-1834
Sacramento, CA 95825-1886
Telephone: (916) 978-4400

Internet: <<www.ca.blm.gov/caso/minerals.html>>

The copy must be accompanied by a topographic map published by the U.S. Geological Survey or by a narrative description or sketch depicting or describing the location of the claim [see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(b)(5)(ii)]. A legal description that describes the location by legal subdivision, section, township, range, meridian, and state is sufficient for this purpose [43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(b)(6)].

[e] Annual Development Work

After a claim is perfected, a miner must perform at least $100 worth of labor or improvements tending to develop the property each year or the claim will be open to other prospectors until such time as work is resumed [30 U.S.C. § 28; Pub. Res. Code § 3912]. California law also requires the recordation of an affidavit of the performance of labor and improvements within 30 days of the time limited by law for the performance of such work [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(a)]. Timely recordation of the affidavit serves as prima facie proof of the performance of the work stated in the affidavit [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(b)]. A failure to record the affidavit timely creates a prima facie presumption of the act and intent of the owner to abandon the claim at the end of the assessment year in which the work should have been done and imposes on the owner the burden of proof of showing that the work was performed in any contest, suit, or proceeding touching the title to the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(c)]. However, the failure to record the affidavit does not work a forfeiture of the claim if the owner proves that he or she in fact performed the requisite annual work [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 902, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] . For a form of affidavit or declaration, see § 36A.205[2].

Under the Federal Land Policy and Management Act [43 U.S.C. § 1701 et seq.], the owner of a claim is required to file with state officials and with the Bureau of Land Management [see [d][vii], above, for address, telephone number, and web site], before December 31, one of the following [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a)]:

- A notice of intention to hold the claim;
- An affidavit of assessment work performed on the claim; or
- A detailed reporting form.

The failure to file the required instruments will be deemed conclusively to constitute an abandonment of the mining claim by the owner [43 U.S.C. § 1744(c)]. Full and timely compliance with these provisions is required for preservation of a mining claim and failure to comply works a forfeiture of the claim [United States v. Locke (1985) 471 U.S. 84, 97-102, 105 S. Ct. 1785, 85 L. Ed. 2d 64] . Thus, intent to abandon is irrelevant and the claim is lost [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 903, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113 (claimant lost his rights to mining claim by failing to file annual affidavit, thereby allowing subsequent claimant to quiet title to claim)].

[f] Exclusive Right to Possession

If a miner has perfected a location of a mining claim and while he or she continues to perform the required annual development work on the claim, the miner is entitled to the exclusive right of possession and enjoyment of all the surface included within the borders of the location for so long as he or she complies with all of the laws of the United States and with the state, territorial, or local regulations not in conflict with the laws of the United States [30 U.S.C. § 26; Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901-902, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] . An attempted location on lands that are already covered by a valid and existing location of another is void [Denman v. Smith (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 752, 761, 97 P.2d 451] . If, however, the location is abandoned by the locator or is forfeited for the failure to comply with legal prerequisites for locating and maintaining a claim, any other person may relocate the claim in the same manner as is required of an original locator [Pub. Res. Code § 3903].

§ 36A.201 Notice of Location of Placer Mining Claim on Land Covered by United States Survey [30 U.S.C. § 35; Pub. Res. Code §§ 3902(b), 3911]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice of location that may be used in locating and claiming a placer mining claim on land covered by a United States public land survey [for discussion of public land surveys, see [b][ii], below]. If the claim is on land not covered by a public land survey, counsel should use the form in § 36A.202[2].

For the definition of "placer" and a discussion of the differences between placer claims and lode claims, see § 36A.200[1][b].

[b] Size, Shape, and Purpose of Placer Claims

[i] Maximum Acreage

The federal statutes that authorize placer claims appear to disagree about the permissible size of a placer claim. One statute provides that no placer claim may exceed 160 acres for any one person or association of persons [30 U.S.C. § 36; see 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-2(a)]. Another federal statute, however, provides that any claim must not include more than 20 acres for each individual claimant [30 U.S.C. § 35; see 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-2(b)]. The two statutes have been construed together by the United States Bureau of Land Management to mean that no placer claim may exceed 20 acres per claimant and a total of 160 acres for all claimants when the claim is being located by more than one person [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-2(c)]. Thus, according to the Bureau, one person may locate and claim 20 acres as a placer mining claim, two persons may jointly locate and claim 40 acres as a placer mining claim, and eight persons may jointly locate and claim 160 acres as a placer mining claim [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-2(c)]. Nine persons may not, however, jointly locate and claim 180 acres as a placer mining claim. The maximum amount of land eight or more persons may jointly locate and claim as a placer mining claim is 160 acres [30 U.S.C. § 36; 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-2(c)].

[ii] Public Land Survey System

All placer mining claims, even those on unsurveyed land, must conform as nearly as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions created by those surveys [30 U.S.C. § 36; 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-5(a)]. The United States system of public land surveys is also sometimes called the "U.S. Rectangular System" because it divides the land into a rectangular grid pattern measured from a particular geographical reference point [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Boundaries and Descriptions (Matthew Bender)]. The "legal subdivisions" created by the surveys are one mile square "sections" containing 640 acres. The sections are numbered 1 through 36 and are described as being located in a specified "Township" north or south of a particular geographical reference point and in a specified "Range" east or west of that same geographic reference point [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Boundaries and Descriptions (Matthew Bender)]. The following are three geographical reference points used by the United States Rectangular System in California [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Boundaries and Descriptions]:

- The Humboldt Base Line and Meridian in Northern California.
- The Mt. Diablo Base Line and Meridian in Central California.
- The San Bernardino Base Line and Meridian in Southern California.

Whether a placer location conforms reasonably with the legal subdivisions of the public survey is a question of fact to be determined in each case [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-5(d)]. Conformity to the public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions created by them is not required when conformity would result in a claim's overlapping a previously located claim [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-5(b)].

For a placer mining claim to be described as a "legal subdivision" of a United States public land survey, it must be described as a fraction of a section created by the survey, for example, "the Northeast 1/4 of the Northeast 1/4 of Section 10 of Township 3 South, Range 3 East, M.D.B. & M." The smallest placer mining claim that may be described as a "legal subdivision" of a public land survey is a 10-acre tract, for example, "the Northwest 1/4 of the Northeast 1/4 of the Northeast 1/4" of a specified section [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-3]. Any smaller mining claim must be described by metes and bounds and have its boundaries properly marked [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-3].

[iii] Building Stones Subject to Placer Claims

Originally, most placer mining claims were located and claimed for gold or other valuable minerals discovered on them. However, placer mining claims may also be located because of uncommon varieties of building stone found on them [43 C.F.R. § 3842.2(b)]. A placer mining claim may not be located and claimed, however, merely for common varieties of building stones located on it [43 C.F.R. § 3842.2(a)].

[c] Locating and Claiming Placer Claim

[i] Essential Requirements

The federal statutes set forth the general requirements for locating and claiming either a lode or a placer claim [30 U.S.C. §§ 21-36]. They are supplemented by California statutes specifying in greater detail the requirements for locating and claiming a placer, lode, tunnel right, or millsite claim [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3900-3924].

In mining terms, "location" refers to the acts required to stake a claim to mineral bearing property. In addition to discovering the minerals [see [ii], below], the locator must do all of the following [Creede & C. C. M. & M. Co. v.

Uinta T. M. & T. Co. (1904) 196 U.S. 337, 346, 25 S. Ct. 266, 49 L. Ed. 501 ; Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] :

- Mark the boundaries of the claim [see [iii], below];
- Post a notice of location on the claim [see [iv], [v], below];
- Record the notice of location [see [vi], below]; and
- Take possession and work the claim and perform whatever else is mandated by the acts of Congress and by local laws and regulations [see [vi], below].

[ii] Discovery of Minerals

Discovery of valuable minerals on the claim is necessary to perfect the claim, but discovery need not precede the other acts of location [Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 901, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] .

To discover a placer claim, a person must acquire acknowledge that the claim is reasonably valuable for mining purposes [Parsons v. Kazange (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 779, 783-784, 323 P.2d 577] . Thus, if the purported locator of a placer claim, before locating the claim, had found evidence of gold on it and indications of prior mining operations on it, the locator's "discovery" of valuable minerals on the claim was held sufficient to substantiate the purported location and claim [Parsons v. Kazange (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 779, 783-784, 323 P.2d 577] . The discovery of minerals on a second claim was also held sufficient when the locator had "panned" on the claim, found "colors" indicating gold might be present on the claim, and observed evidence of previous mining activities on the claim [Parsons v. Kazange (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 779, 784, 323 P.2d 577] .

[iii] Boundaries

The boundaries of a placer mining claim need be marked only if the claim is not covered by the United States system of public land surveys or is not claimed as a legal subdivision of a survey [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)]. Although the surveys do not cover all the land in California [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Boundaries and Descriptions], undoubtedly most public land owned by the United States government in the state is covered by a public land survey. All placer mining claims must conform as nearly as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions of those surveys [30 U.S.C. § 35; 43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-5].

[iv] Contents of Notice

The notice of location of a placer mining claim must contain all of the following information [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(a); 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(b)]:

- The name of the claim.
- The type of claim or site.
- The name and current mailing address or current residence address of the locator.
- The number of feet or acreage claimed.
- A description of the claim that, among other things, refers to some natural object or permanent monument to identify its location.

- The date of location of the claim, which must be the date of posting of the notice of location.

[v] Posting Notice of Location

The notice of location of a placer mining claim must be posted in or on a conspicuous and substantial monument erected at the point of discovery of minerals on the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(a)]. For discussion of discovery of minerals, see [ii], above.

[vi] Other Requirements

For a discussion of the requirements to record a notice of location of a placer or lode claim, see § 36A.200[1][d][vi]. Additional filing requirements are mandated by the Federal Land Policy and Management Act [see § 36A.200[1][d][vii]]. Annual development work on the claim and corresponding filing requirements are required to prevent a forfeiture of the claim [see § 36A.200[1][e]].

§ 36A.202 Notice of Location of Placer Mining Claim Not Described as Subdivision of United States Survey [30 U.S.C. § 35; Pub. Res. Code §§ 3902(a), 3911]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice of location of a placer mining claim that may be used when the claim is located on land that is either not covered by the United States system of public land surveys or is not described in the notice of location as part of that system. Although the land claimed as a placer mining claim need not be described in the notice of location as part of a public land survey or be covered by the United States system of surveys, it must conform as nearly as practicable with the shape of the rectangular subdivisions created by the system of surveys [43 C.F.R. § 3842.1-5(a)]. For a notice of location for a placer mining claim on land covered by a United States public land survey and described as a "legal subdivision" of that survey, see § 36A.201[2]. For a discussion of placer mining claims and the system of public land surveys, see § 36A.201[1].

[b] Boundaries

If the land being claimed as a placer mining claim is not covered by the United States system of public land surveys or cannot be conformed with and claimed as a legal rectangular subdivision of a public land survey, its boundaries must be marked so they may be readily traced [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)]. In addition, at each corner of the claim or at the nearest accessible point to a corner, a "conspicuous and substantial monument" must be erected [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)]. To qualify as "conspicuous and substantial," a monument must be one of the following [Pub. Res. Code § 3915(a)]:

- A wooden post not less than one and one-half inches in diameter projecting at least two feet above the ground;

- A mound of stone projecting at least two feet above the ground; or

- A nonperforated, capped metal post or solid metal rod, not less than one inch in diameter and projecting at least two feet above the ground.

Each monument must bear or contain markings sufficient to designate the corner it marks and the name of the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3902(b)].

§ 36A.203 Notice of Location of Tunnel Right [30 U.S.C. § 27; Pub. Res. Code § 3906]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice of location of a tunnel right. When a tunnel is run for the development of a vein or lode or for the discovery of mines, the owners of the tunnel have the right of possession of all veins or lodes not previously known to exist that are discovered in the tunnel, on the line of the tunnel, and within 3,000 feet of its face [30 U.S.C. § 27]. To avail themselves of this statutory right, the owners of the tunnel must, however, post and record a notice of their tunnel right (this form) and mark the boundaries of the tunnel [43 C.F.R. § 3843.2]. The manner in which they must post the notice and mark the boundaries, as well as the matters that must be contained in the notice, are stated both in regulations adopted by the United States Department of Interior Bureau of Land Management [see 43 C.F.R. § 3843.2] and in California statutes [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3906, 3907]. This form complies with both the Department of Interior regulations and the California statutes.

[b] Locating and Claiming Tunnel Right

[i] Posting Notice on Monument

The claimant of a tunnel right may locate his or her claim by erecting a "conspicuous and substantial" monument at the "face" or point of commencement of the tunnel and then posting a notice of location of the tunnel right in or on the monument [43 C.F.R. § 3843.2; Pub. Res. Code § 3906]. For the types of monuments that will qualify as "conspicuous and substantial," see § 36A.200[1][d][iii].

[ii] Boundaries

The locators of the tunnel right must also erect conspicuous and substantial monuments along the boundary lines of the tunnel, on the surface of the land, at intervals of not more than 600 feet from the face of the tunnel to the terminus of 3,000 feet from the face [43 C.F.R. § 3843.2; Pub. Res. Code § 3907]. The "face" of the tunnel means the place where work on the tunnel first began and the point at which the tunnel actually enters "cover" [43 C.F.R. § 3843.1].

[iii] Contents of Notice

The notice of location of a tunnel right must contain all of the following information [Pub. Res. Code § 3906; 43 C.F.R. § 3833.1-2(b)]:

- The name and current mailing address or current residence address of the locator.
- The actual or proposed course or direction of the tunnel.
- The height and width of the tunnel.
- A description of the tunnel that includes, among other things, a reference to some natural object or permanent monument.
- The date of location of the tunnel right, which must be the date the notice is posted at the face or point of commencement of the tunnel.

[iv] Recording and Filing Requirements

For a discussion of the requirements to record a notice of location of a tunnel right, see § 36A.200[1][d][vi]. Additional filing requirements are mandated by the Federal Land Policy and Management Act [see § 36A.200[1][d][vii]].

[c] Ongoing Work on Tunnel

Failure to prosecute work on the tunnel for six months will be considered an abandonment of the right to all undiscovered veins on the line of the tunnel [30 U.S.C. § 27; 43 C.F.R. § 3843.1].

§ 36A.204 Amended Notice of Location of Mining Claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3908]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is an amended notice of location of a mining claim that corrects defects in an original notice of location of a mining claim. If the locator of a lode or placer mining claim or a tunnel right finds that the original notice of location was defective or erroneous or did not comply with the law, the locator may post and file an amended notice of location remedying the defect. However, the amended location notice will not cure a defect if this would interfere with the existing rights of others as of the time of the posting and filing of the amended notice [Pub. Res. Code § 3908].

For original notices of location, see §§ 36A.200[2] (lode mining claim), 36A.201[2] (placer mining claim on land covered by United States survey), 36A.202[2] (placer mining claim on land not covered by United States survey), and 36A.203[2] (tunnel right).

[b] Posting and Filing Amended Notice

The locator must comply with the following requirements for posting and filing an amended notice [Pub. Res. Code § 3908]:

- The amended location notice on the claim to which it relates must be posted in the same manner that the original notice of location was posted on the claim [see § 36A.200[1][d][v]];

- The amended notice must be recorded in the office of the appropriate county recorder [see § 36A.200[1][d][vi]]; and

- A copy of the recorded notice must be filed with the California State Office of the Bureau of Land Management [see § 36A.200[1][d][vii]].

§ 36A.205 Declaration of Annual Labor Performed on Claim [43 U.S.C. § 1744; Pub. Res. Code § 3913]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a declaration of assessment work performed on a mining claim. To hold possession of an unpatented mining claim [for discussion of patents, see § 36A.11], the owner of the claim must perform at least $100 worth of labor or make at least $100 worth of improvements on the claim between 12:01 p.m. of the first day of September, commencing with the first day of September following location of the claim, and 12:01 p.m. of the first day of September of the following year [30 U.S.C. § 28]. Under the federal statutes, this type of work is referred to as "assessment work" [see 43 U.S.C. § 1744(a)(1)]. Both state and federal law require the owner of the claim to record and file annually [see [c], below] an affidavit or declaration of the assessment work performed on the claim during the year (this form) [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a); Pub. Res. Code § 3913(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (use of declaration in lieu of affidavit)]. The federal statutes, however, provide the owner with two alternatives to the filing of a declaration [see [f], below].

For additional discussion of the requirement of annual assessment work on a claim, see § 36A.200[1][e].

[b] Required Contents of Affidavit or Declaration

The affidavit or declaration must contain all of the following information [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(a)]:

- The name of the claim and the serial number, if any, assigned to the claim by the Bureau of Land Management in the United States Department of Interior.

- A reference by book and page or document number to the public record of the notice of location of the claim and, if amended, of the last recorded amendment.

- The section or sections, township, range, and meridian of the United States survey within which all or any part of the claim is located.

- A description of the labor performed or improvements made on or for the benefit of the claim for which the proof is made, the value of each item, and the dates on which, or the period of time within which, the labor was performed or the improvement was made, or a statement that a maintenance fee in the amount prescribed by the laws of the United States has been or will be paid, the amount of the maintenance fee, and the date of payment or anticipated payment.

- The name, current mailing address, and current residence address of the person making the proof (the declarant) and of the owner of the claim, as known to the declarant.

- A statement that the claim is held and claimed by the owner, or the declarant if he or she is entitled to possession of the claim, for the valuable mineral contained in the claim.

- The name and address of the person who performed the work or made the improvements described in the declaration, as known to the declarant, if applicable.

- A statement that all monuments required by law to have been erected on the claim and all notices required by law to have been posted on the claim were in place at a date within the assessment year for which the declaration is made, and a statement of that date.

- A statement that on the above date, each corner monument bore or contained a marking sufficient to appropriately designate the corner of the mining claim to which it pertains and the name of the claim.

[c] Recording and Filing Declaration

The declaration must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county where the claim is located within 30 days after the time required by law for performing the labor, making improvements, or paying the maintenance fee [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(a); see [a], above (assessment year)]. The owner must then file an exact legible reproduction or duplicate (other than microfilm) of the recorded declaration with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) before December 31 of the year in which it is recorded [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a); 43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-4(a)]. The copy must be filed with the BLM at the following address:

Bureau of Land Management
California State Office
2135 Butano Drive
Sacramento, CA 95825-0451
Telephone: (916) 978-4400
Internet: http://www.blm.gov/nhp/efoia/ca/Phone/PhDir.htm

[d] Effects of Recordation and Failure to File

Under California law, a properly recorded and certified copy of the declaration issued by the county recorder is prima facie evidence of the performance of the labor, the making of the improvements, or the payment of the maintenance fee [Pub. Res. Code § 3913(b)]. The neglect or failure to make the declaration and cause it to be properly recorded creates a prima facie presumption under California law of the act and intent of the owner to abandon the claim, and imposes the burden of proof on the owner to show, in any contest, suit, or proceeding involving title to the claim, that the labor has been performed, that the improvements have been made, or that the maintenance fee has been paid [Pub. Res. Code §

However, if the declaration is executed and recorded by anyone other than the owner within the 30-day period, and the owner discovers that there are deficiencies in the recorded declaration, the owner may record a supplemental declaration to correct the problems [see Pub. Res. Code § 3913(c)].

Under federal law, the failure to file a copy of the recorded declaration with the BLM is deemed conclusively to constitute an abandonment of the claim by its owner [43 U.S.C. § 1744(c); see Crummett v. Miller (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 906-907, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113 (43 U.S.C. § 1744(c) is self-executing and may be enforced in a civil action brought by a private party in state court)]. However, the owner may avoid this result by filing with the BLM a "Notice of Intention to Hold Claim" [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a); see [f], below].

[e] Certificate of Payment of Property Taxes

A county board of supervisors may pass a resolution requiring any person filing a declaration (or affidavit) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] in accordance with Pub. Res. Code § 3913, or any person filing a notice of intention to hold a claim [see 43 U.S.C. § 1744(a); see also [f], below], to demonstrate, before the recordation of the declaration or notice of intention, proof of payment of any unsecured tax levied against the mining claim on which the declaration or notice of intention to hold is filed; and proof of payment of any delinquent unsecured taxes levied against the person filing the affidavit or notice of intention [Pub. Res. Code § 3914]. If this resolution is adopted, it may also prohibit the county recorder from accepting the declaration or notice of intent to hold for recordation without the tax collector's certification that the taxes have been paid [Pub. Res. Code § 3914(a)]. Further, the resolution may require all of the following [Pub. Res. Code § 3914(b)]:

- That, when taxes are paid, the tax collector issue a receipt or certificate of payment for use in certification of the affidavit or notice of intent to hold.

- That the county recorder forward the affidavit or notice of intent to hold to the tax collector if the county recorder receives an affidavit for recording by mail and the affidavit or notice of intent to hold does not contain the tax collector's certification that the taxes have been paid.

- That, if applicable, the tax collector then certify that the taxes have been paid on the face of the affidavit or notice of intent to hold and return the document to the county recorder for recording.

- That, if the taxes have not been paid, the tax collector return the affidavit unrecorded to the filer.

The form in [2], below, contains a tax collector's certification.

[f] Federal Alternatives to Declaration

Under federal law, there are two alternatives to the filing of the declaration. Compliance with either of these alternatives will not, however, relieve the owner of the obligation to comply with California's declaration requirements [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-5(a); see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-4(b); see also American Law of Mining, Ch. 45, Assessment Work Requirement (Matthew Bender)].

Under the first alternative, the annual assessment work required to be performed on a mining claim may be, instead of labor or improvements, a geological, geochemical, or geophysical survey conducted by a qualified expert and verified by a detailed report recorded in the office of the county recorder where the claim is located [30 U.S.C. §§ 28-1, 28-2]. An exact legible reproduction or duplication (other than microfilm) of the recorded report must then be filed with the BLM at the address set forth in [c], above [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-4(b)]. That copy must include the BLM serial number assigned to the claim and any change in the mailing address of the owner of the claim [43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-4(b)].

The second alternative permits the owner to file a notice of intention to hold a claim [43 U.S.C. § 1744(a)]. The notice must be in the form required by regulation [see 43 C.F.R. § 3833.2-5].

For a detailed discussion of the federal requirements for annual assessment work, see American Law of Mining, Ch. 45, Assessment Work Requirement (Matthew Bender).

§ 36A.206 Agreement Between Mining Claim Owner and Contractor for Construction of Tunnel on Unpatented Mining Claim

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is an agreement for the construction of a mining tunnel by an independent contractor on an unpatented mining claim. The owner of an unpatented mining claim must perform at least $100 worth of assessment work on the claim each year to hold the claim [see § 36A.205] and must perform at least $500 of assessment work on the claim before he or she may apply for a patent for the claim [30 U.S.C. §§ 28, 29]. The running of a tunnel for the purpose of developing a lode or lodes owned by the owner of the mining claim is considered the performance of the required assessment work on the claim [30 U.S.C. § 28].

[2] FORM

Agreement Between Mining Claim Owner and Contractor for Construction of Tunnel on Unpatented Mining Claim

AGREEMENT FOR DEVELOPMENT WORK

_____[name] ("Owner") and_____[name] ("Contractor") agree:

Recitals

WHEREAS, Owner is the owner of that certain mining claim known as the_____[name of claim] Mining Claim and described in a Notice of Location duly recorded in Book _____ at Page _____ of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ County, California;

NOW THEREFORE:

Excavation of Tunnel

1. Contractor shall excavate and construct a mining tunnel on the claim approximately [number] lineal feet in length, commencing at a point [specify e.g., approximately 100 feet east of the point of discovery as described in the Notice of Location], and ending at a point [specify, e.g., approximately 50 feet east of the west boundary of the claim].

Size of Tunnel

2. The tunnel agreed to be constructed by Contractor under Paragraph 1 of this Agreement shall be located at a depth of not more than _____ feet below the surface of the claim, shall be _____ feet in width and _____ feet in height in the clear and shall be timbered where necessary.

Payment for Tunnel

3. Owner shall pay the sum of $_____ per lineal foot to Contractor for each foot of the tunnel completed by Contractor_____[specify manner of payment, e.g., in equal installments on the completion of each _____ feet of the tunnel or within _____ days after full and final completion of the tunnel].

Time for Performance

4. Contractor shall commence work on the tunnel within _____ days after the date of this Agreement and shall complete the same in a good and minerlike manner on or before_____[date].

Charges and Liens

5. Contractor shall pay all charges incurred in the construction of the tunnel for labor and materials used in this construction as they become due. Should Contractor fail to pay any such charge, Owner may pay the same on behalf of Contractor and deduct it from the amount due Contractor under this Agreement. Should the amount so paid by Owner exceed the amount due under this Agreement from Owner to Contractor on full completion of the tunnel, the same shall immediately become, on payment by Owner, due and payable by Contractor to Owner with interest thereon at the highest rate allowed by law from the time of payment by Owner to its repayment to Owner by Contractor.

Examination by Contractor

6. Contractor has by careful examination ascertained (a) the nature and location of the tunnel; (b) the conformation of the ground and soil in which the tunnel is to be constructed; (c) the character, quantity, and quality of materials, equipment, and facilities required to complete the tunnel under this Agreement; and (d) all other matters in any way affecting the performance of this Agreement by Contractor. Further, Contractor represents and agrees that Contractor is entering this Agreement solely as a result of those examinations by Contractor and not because of any representations made to Contractor by Owner or any agent of Owner and not contained in this Agreement.

Indemnity Agreement

7. § 36A.207 Agreement for Mining Partnership Among Co-Owners of Mining Claim [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3940-3950]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is an agreement between two or more co-owners of a mine or mining claim to work the mine or mining claim jointly and to form a mining partnership. Because a mining partnership differs in some respects from an ordinary business partnership [see [b], [c], below], care should be taken to distinguish an agreement to form a mining partnership from an agreement to form a partnership to engage in mining or in the operation of a mining claim [see American Law of Mining, Ch. 121, Comparative Analysis of Organizational Structures (Matthew Bender)]. If the parties desire simply to form a partnership to engage in mining or in the operation of a mine, counsel should use the partnership forms in Ch. 15, General Partnerships . When the parties desire to form a mining partnership [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 3940-3950], counsel should use the form in [2], below.

Mining partnerships cannot be formed in California for the extraction of oil, gas, or other hydrocarbons [Pub. Res. Code § 3950].

[b] Formation of Mining Partnership

A mining partnership exists when two or more persons who own or acquire a mining claim for the purpose of working it and extracting the mineral from it actually engage in working the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3940]. An express agreement to become partners or to share the profits and losses of mining is not necessary to the formation or existence of the mining partnership [Pub. Res. Code § 3941]. The following two elements are essential to the formation of a mining partnership [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3940, 3941; Treat v. Murdock (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 316, 320-321, 65 P.2d 881] :

- Ownership of shares or interests in a mine.

- Joint participation by the partners in the actual working of the mine.

This joint participation requirement does not mean that each of the co-owners must perform actual physical labor in the mine. It does mean, however, that each of the partners must have some part in carrying on the mining operations. A mining partnership arises only when the co-owners unite and cooperate in working the mine [Treat v. Murdock (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 316, 321, 65 P.2d 881 ; Peterson v. Beggs (1915) 26 Cal. App. 760, 762, 148 P. 541] .

[c] Characteristics of Mining Partnership

[i] Partner's Share of Profits and Losses

The mining partners share in the profits and losses of the mine in the proportion the interest each owns in the mine bears to the whole partnership capital or whole number of partnership shares [Pub. Res. Code § 3942]. The decision of the members owning a majority of the shares or interests in the partnership binds the partnership in the conduct of its business [Pub. Res. Code § 3949].

[ii] Assignment of Partnership Interest

The interests of each partner in a mining partnership may be sold and assigned without the consent of the other partners [Pub. Res. Code § 3945]. The purchaser of a selling partner's interest in the partnership becomes, from the date of purchase, a member of the mining partnership [Pub. Res. Code § 3945]. Although the consent of the other partners is not required, it would obviously be unjust to subject those partners to personal liability for debts created and torts committed by a person who became a member of the partnership without their consent and against their wishes [Skillman v. Lachman (1863) 23 Cal. 198, 23 Cal. 199, 206] . Consequently, no member, agent, or manager of a mining partnership can, by a written contract, bind the partnership except by express authority derived from the members of the partnership [Pub. Res. Code § 3948].

[iii] Partnership Property

The mining ground owned and worked by the partners in mining, whether or not purchased with partnership funds, is partnership property [Pub. Res. Code § 3944]. Each member of a mining partnership has a lien on the partnership property for the debts due the partnership's creditors and for money advanced by the member for partnership use [Pub. Res. Code § 3943]. The lien exists notwithstanding an agreement among the partners that it must not exist [Pub. Res. Code § 3943]. A purchaser of an interest in a mine owned by a mining partnership takes it subject to all such existing liens unless he or she purchased the interest in good faith for a valuable consideration without notice of any such lien [Pub. Res. Code § 3946]. However, a purchaser of the interest of a partner in a mine that the partnership is engaged in working takes with notice of all liens resulting from the relation of the partners to each other and to partnership creditors [Pub. Res. Code § 3947].

[d] Fiduciary Relationship of Partners

There is nothing in the law of mining partnerships which relieves a mining partner of the same degree of fiduciary responsibility as that of any other partner; indeed, considering the nature of mining operations, it is essential that the partners in such ventures should show the highest good faith and regard for the rights of their fellow venturers [Bufalini v. De Michelis (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 452, 457, 288 P.2d 934] .

§ 36A.208 Grant Deed Conveying Unpatented but Located Mining Claim

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a grant deed that may be used to convey the locator's right in an unpatented but properly located mining claim to another person.

The locator of a mining claim has the right to the exclusive possession and enjoyment of the land embraced in that claim [Mery v. Brodt (1898) 121 Cal. 332, 335, 53 P. 818] . Although the ultimate fee title to the land remains in the United States government, the interest of the locator of a validly located mining claim on public land of the United States has always, except as against the United States government, been treated as virtually a title in fee [Buchner v. Malloy (1909) 155 Cal. 253, 255, 100 P. 687] . The locators of a properly located mining claim are treated, as between themselves and all persons but the United States, as the owners of the land and the mines comprising the claim [Buchner v. Malloy (1909) 155 Cal. 253, 256, 100 P. 687] . They may sell the claim, give it to another, or transfer it in any other mode authorized by law [Richardson v. McNulty (1864) 24 Cal. 339, 345] .

However, because a mining claim is real property [Del Giorgio v. Powers (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 668, 678, 81 P.2d 1006] it can be conveyed or transferred only in the manner in which real property may be conveyed or transferred. An estate in real property, other than an estate at will or for a term not exceeding one year, can be transferred only by operation of law or by an instrument in writing subscribed by the party disposing of the interest or by his or her agent authorized in writing [Civ. Code § 1091]. Thus, a mining claim, although unpatented, can be transferred or conveyed only by an instrument in writing signed by the owner of the claim or by his or her agent duly authorized to sign the instrument by a written instrument [Mery v. Brodt (1898) 121 Cal. 332, 335, 53 P. 818] . This form sets forth the usual form of the instrument in writing used to transfer estates in real property in California [see Civ. Code § 1092].

Because the deed in this form conveys an interest in real property it should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying full fee title [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. Further, when the value of the mining claim being conveyed exceeds $100, the deed in this form may be subject to taxation under the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act in counties that have adopted ordinances imposing a tax under that Act [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 11901 et seq.]. For a discussion of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act and the taxes that may be imposed under it, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

§ 36A.209 Grant Deed Conveying Mineral Interest in Minerals

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a deed of mineral interests granting all, or a fraction of all, of the minerals under the land owned by the grantor. Title to the surface of the land need not be held by the same person or persons who hold the title to subsurface minerals in the land [*Ames v. Empire Star Mines Co., Ltd. § 36A.211 Notice of Intent to Preserve Mineral Right

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a notice of intent to preserve a mineral right and should be recorded by an owner of a mineral right who has not been using the right but wishes to prevent that right from becoming dormant and thereafter being terminated by the owner of the subject real property. For the purposes of this procedure, "mineral right" means an interest in virtually any mineral that is created by any grant or reservation, whether a fee or lesser interest, mineral, royalty, or leasehold, absolute or fractional, corporeal or incorporeal, and includes express or implied appurtenant surface rights [Civ. Code § 883.110].

The statutory provisions governing the termination and preservation of mineral rights are part of the marketable record title provisions of the Civil Code [see Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq.], which fix expiration periods for certain interests in real property. For a discussion of the general provisions applicable to all of these terminable interests, see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows .

The statutory provisions discussed in this section apply to all mineral rights, regardless of when they were executed or recorded [Civ. Code § 883.270].

[b] Exempt Interests

The following interests are not subject to the termination and preservation provisions discussed throughout this section [Civ. Code § 883.120]:

- Mineral rights reserved to the United States, whether in a patent, in accordance with federal law, or otherwise.

- An oil or gas lease, mining claim, or other mineral right of a person, to the extent provided in Civ. Code § 880.240.

- Mineral rights of the state or a local public entity, or of any other person, to the extent provided in Civ. Code § 880.240.

In addition, the following interests are not subject to expiration under the marketable record title provisions of the Civil Code [Civ. Code § 880.240]:

- The interest of a person in possession (including use or occupancy) of real property, and the interest of a person under whom a person in possession claims, if possession would have been revealed by reasonable inspection or inquiry.

- An interest of the United States or an interest in real property which, under federal law, is not subject to state recording requirements and has not terminated under federal law.

- An interest of the state or a local public entity in real property.

- A conservation easement.

Finally, the termination and preservation provisions discussed in this section do not limit or affect the common law governing abandonment of a mineral right or any other statutory procedure for clearing an abandoned mineral right from title to real property [Civ. Code § 883.130].

[c] Termination of Dormant Mineral Rights

The owner of real property subject to a mineral right may bring an action to terminate the right if it is dormant [Civ. Code § 883.210]. A mineral right is dormant if all of the following conditions are satisfied for a period of 20 years immediately preceding commencement of the termination action [Civ. Code § 883.220]:

- There is no production of the minerals and no exploration, drilling, mining, development, or other operations that affect the minerals, whether on or below the surface of the real property or on other property, whether or not unitized or pooled with the real property;

- No separate property tax assessment is made of the mineral right or, if made, no taxes are paid on the assessment; and

- No instrument creating, reserving, transferring, or otherwise evidencing the mineral right is recorded.

An action to terminate a mineral right must be brought in the superior court of the county in which the subject real property is located [Civ. Code § 883.240(a)], in the same manner and subject to the same procedure as an action to quiet title [Civ. Code § 883.240(b); see discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. (quiet title provisions) in California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 370, Quieting Title and Determining Adverse Claims (Matthew Bender)].

A terminated mineral right is unenforceable and is deemed to have expired. A court order terminating a mineral right is equivalent for all purposes to a conveyance of the mineral right to the owner of the real property [Civ. Code § 883.260].

[d] Preserving Mineral Rights

An owner of a mineral right may record, at any time, a notice of intent to preserve the mineral right [Civ. Code § 883.230(a)]. Recordation will prevent an unused mineral right from becoming dormant [see [c], above], and therefore prevent the owner of the subject real property from terminating the right, if it occurs within 20 years immediately preceding commencement of an action to terminate the right [Civ. Code § 883.230(c)(1)].

Dormancy and termination can also be avoided after the commencement of an action to terminate the mineral right if the owner of the right (1) records a late notice of intent to preserve the right and (2) pays into court for the benefit of the owner of the real property the litigation expenses attributable to the mineral right covered by the notice. For purposes of this procedure, "litigation expenses" means recoverable costs and expenses reasonably and necessarily incurred in preparation for the action, including reasonable attorneys' fees [Civ. Code §§ 883.230(c)(2), 883.250].

[e] Contents of Notice

In most respects, a notice of intent to preserve a mineral right must comply with the requirements of the marketable record title provisions of the Civil Code applicable to notices to preserve any interest in real property [see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows]. The one exception concerns the description of the right; a mineral rights notice may refer generally and without specificity to any or all mineral rights claimed by the claimant in any real property situated in the county [see bracketed instruction under "Interest" in the form in [2], below]. This description may be used in lieu of the more detailed descriptive statements required for all other notices of intent to preserve interests in real property by Civ. Code § 880.330(b)(2), (3), and is sufficient notwithstanding any other statutory provisions governing marketable record title [Civ. Code § 883.230(b)].

§ 36A.212 Mineral Right Quitclaim Deed

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a quitclaim deed quitclaiming all interest in and to mineral rights covered by a mineral rights lease. If the term of a mineral rights lease has expired or a mineral rights lease has been abandoned by the tenant, the tenant, within 30 days after demand by the landlord, must execute, acknowledge, and deliver, or have recorded, a deed quitclaiming all interest in and to the mineral rights covered by the lease [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]. For the purposes of this requirement, the term "tenant" or "lessee" includes an assignee or other successor in interest of the tenant [Civ. Code § 883.140(a)(1)], and "landlord" or "lessor" includes a successor in interest, heir, or grantee of the landlord [Civ. Code § 883.140(a)(2)].

For a general discussion of quitclaim deeds, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

[b] Partial Expiration or Abandonment

If the expiration or abandonment covers less than the tenant's entire interest, the tenant must execute, acknowledge, and deliver an appropriate instrument or notice of surrender or termination that covers the interest that has expired or been abandoned [Civ. Code § 883.140(b)]. For an instrument of surrender executed by a tenant and releasing a part of leased land from an oil and gas lease, see Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases, § 36.210[2].

[c] Actions to Clear Title

If a tenant fails to comply with the applicable requirements, the tenant is liable for all damages sustained by the landlord as a result of the failure, including court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees in an action to clear title to the landlord's interest. The tenant must also pay landlord the sum of $150 [Civ. Code § 883.130(c)]. These requirements do not, however, make a quitclaim deed or other instrument or notice of surrender or termination, or a demand for the same, a condition precedent to an action to clear title to the landlord's interest [Civ. Code § 883.140(d)].

§ 36A.220 Contract Between Landowner and Purchaser for Sale of Standing Timber on Real Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a contract for the sale of standing timber growing on certain designated real property and for its severance and removal by a specified date. The contract also provides that any disputes arising between the parties to it concerning it or their duties under it must be settled by arbitration.

[b] Contract as Grant of Real Property

When this form is used, the buyer should insist that the signatures on the contract be acknowledged before a notary public and the contract be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county where the real property on which the timber is growing is located. Contracts for the purchase and sale of standing timber or trees, for severance or otherwise, may be acknowledged or proved, certified, and recorded in like manner and with like effect as grants of real property [Civ. Code § 1220]. All statutory provisions relating to the recordation or nonrecordation of conveyances of real property and the effect of recordation or nonrecordation apply to recorded and nonrecorded contracts for the purchase and sale of standing timber [Civ. Code § 1220]. It appears that when the real property on which the timber being sold is growing is in a county that has adopted a documentary transfer tax under the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11901 et seq.], a transfer tax may have to be paid on the contract at the time it is submitted for recording. For a discussion of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act and the taxes that may be imposed under it, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording . The recording fees are set by statute [see Gov. Code § 27361 (current amounts)].

[c] Contract as Sale of Goods

In California, real property is defined as consisting, among other things, of land and that which is affixed to land [Civ.

Code § 658]. A thing is attached to land when it is attached to it by roots as in the case of trees, vines, or shrubs [Civ. Code § 660]. However, for purposes of sale, industrial growing crops and things attached to or forming part of the land which are agreed to be severed before sale or under a contract of sale, are treated as goods and their sale is governed by the statutes regulating the sale of goods [Civ. Code § 660].

Even before enactment of the Uniform Commercial Code in California, it was held that a contract for the sale of standing timber, purchased separately from the land on which it is growing for the purpose of severance from the land, is a contract of sale of "goods" or personal property [Palmer v. Wahler (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 705, 711, 285 P.2d 8 ; Ascherman v. McKee (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 277, 282-283, 299 P.2d 367] . This rule has been codified in California's Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2107(2)]. It makes no difference whether the timber is to be severed from the land by the buyer or by the seller or that it forms a part of the realty at the time of contracting [Com. Code § 2107(2)].

[d] When Title Passes to Buyer

[i] As Trees Are Cut

The fact that growing timber to be cut is treated as goods or personal property for sales contract purposes does not mean that title to the timber passes to the buyer on execution of the sales contract [Drewry v. Welch (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 159, 166, 46 Cal. Rptr. 65] . The rule was well established in California before adoption of the Uniform Commercial Code that when there was a contract for the sale of standing trees to be removed from the land within a specified time, title passed to the buyer only for those trees which the buyer cut and removed within the designated period. Title to the remaining, uncut trees remained in the seller [Whittaker v. Thompson (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 192, 194, 1 Cal. Rptr. 7, 347 P.2d 7] .

It is doubtful that any change in this rule was intended by adoption of the Uniform Commercial Code. The applicable statute provides that the parties can, by identification, effect a present sale before severance [Com. Code § 2107(2)]. Thus, when the parties do not effect a present sale before severance by identification, presumably the contract for the sale of timber to be cut is merely a contract for a future sale. Should a contract for the sale of timber to be severed from the land within a specified time continue to be construed as merely a sale of only so many trees as the buyer might cut and remove within the designated time [Mallett v. Doherty (1919) 180 Cal. 225, 229, 180 P. 531] , it would seem "identification," as defined in the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2501(1)], could not occur until the designated time for removal has elapsed [see Mallett v. Doherty (1919) 180 Cal. 225, 230, 180 P. 531] .

If the contract of sale does not constitute an absolute present sale but only a sale of so much timber as the buyer may remove from the land within the time designated in the contract, the seller cannot prevent the buyer from removing trees within the contract time. Should the buyer be interrupted by the seller from removing trees during that period, the period of interruption would be taken into account and the period designated in the contract would be extended by operation of law for that period [Mallett v. Doherty (1919) 180 Cal. 225, 230, 180 P. 531] .

[ii] Present Sale Passing Immediate Title

Even before the adoption of the Uniform Commercial Code the parties could contract for the sale of timber to be severed within a designated time and agree that it was a present sale passing immediate title to the severed timber to the buyer [Gibbs v. Peterson (1912) 163 Cal. 758, 763, 127 P. 62 ; Miller v. Taber (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 792, 795, 309 P.2d 110] . In one case, an absolute present sale of timber was held to exist when the contract of sale provided the following [Peterson v. Gibbs (1905) 147 Cal. 1, 6, 81 P. 121 ; see Gibbs v. Peterson (1912) 163 Cal. 758, 763, 127 P. 62 (as explained in Mallett v. Doherty (1919) 180 Cal. 225, 228, 180 P. 531)]:

- The buyer was to remove the timber within 10 years;

- If the timber was not removed within 10 years, the buyer should pay seller a yearly rental thereafter of $200 for the privilege of removing it; and

- All the privileges granted in the agreement were to continue until the timber was removed.

If an absolute present sale, passing title to the timber to the buyer at the time the contract is executed, is held to have occurred, the time designated in the contract for removal of the timber and other agreements in the contract are held to be mere "covenants" [Gibbs v. Peterson (1912) 163 Cal. 758, 764, 127 P. 62 ; Ascherman v. McKee (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 277, 283, 299 P.2d 367] . Damages may be recovered by the seller for breach of the covenants but a forfeiture of the buyer's title to the standing timber cannot be declared because of the buyer's breach [Gibbs v. Peterson (1912) 163 Cal. 758, 765, 127 P. 62 ; Ascherman v. McKee (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 277, 285-286, 299 P.2d 367] .

[e] Scaling of Timber

Unless modified or controlled by other expressions in an agreement, "timber" means such trees as are fit to be used for lumber in building or similar construction [Buffum v. Texaco, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 732, 735, 50 Cal. Rptr. 852 ; Crain v. Hoefling (1942) 56 Cal. App. 2d 396, 405, 132 P.2d 882] .

Most contracts for the sale of timber, and most logging contracts [see § 36A.225], provide that the timber subject to the contract will be "scaled" by a specified "scaler." A "scaler" is an expert person employed to determine the number of board feet and the percentage of unsound timber in logs [see Lumsden v. Roth (1955) 138 Cal. App. 2d 172, 176, 291 P.2d 88 ; Kinkle v. Fruit Growers Supply Co. (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 102, 108, 146 P.2d 8] . Scaling is essential to fix the rights of the parties in most logging and timber sales contracts and is a continuous operation [Connecticut Valley Lbr. Co. v. Stone (2d Cir. 1914) 212 F. 713, 715] .

If the parties agree on a specified scaler as the person who is to determine the board feet and unsound timber in lots subject to their contract, the scaler's report is binding on the parties and can be set aside only for fraud or mistake [Kinkle v. Fruit Growers Supply Co. (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 102, 108, 146 P.2d 8] . The scaler is like an arbitrator, and the mistake that will justify a rejection of an arbitrator's decision must be more than a mere error in judgment--it must amount to actual or constructive fraud [Kinkle v. Fruit Growers Supply Co. (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 102, 108, 146 P.2d 8] .

One way to check on the accuracy of scalings made by a scaler is to have a qualified "timber cruiser" make a "stump cruise" of the land from which the timber has been removed. In making a "stump cruise" the cruiser marks the point where the butt of a felled tree struck the ground and then determines the length between that mark and the point where the top cut was made on the felled tree trunk, as determined from sawdust left on the ground. The cruiser then measures the circumference inside the bark of the tree stump left in the ground and by a fixed formula finds the number of board feet in the felled portion of the tree that was "bucked" or sold for timber purposes [see Lumsden v. Roth (1955) 138 Cal. App. 2d 172, 176, 291 P.2d 88] .

The scale for the measurement of logs that will apply to all timber transactions in California is that published by the National Bureau of Standards [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 12313].

§ 36A.221 Grant Deed Conveying Standing Timber

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a deed that conveys only the timber "now standing, lying, and contained" on the land to its grantee. In contrast, the deed in § 36A.222[2] conveys timber rights forever to the land described in it to its grantee. Similarly, the provision in § 36A.223[2] reserves only standing timber to the grantor of the grant deed in which it is inserted and the provision in § 36A.224[2] reserves timber rights to the grantor.

Because the deed in this form conveys an interest in real property it should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying full fee title [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. Further, when the value of the timber rights being conveyed exceeds $100, the deed in this form may be subject to taxation under the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act in counties that have adopted ordinances imposing a tax under that Act [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 11901 et seq.]. For a discussion of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act and the taxes that may be imposed under it, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

[b] Standing Timber vs. Timber Rights

A fee interest in timber standing on real property may be conveyed apart from title to the real property on which the timber stands [Buffum v. Texaco, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 732, 734, 50 Cal. Rptr. 852] . A distinction must be drawn, however, between a conveyance of "standing timber" and a conveyance of "timber rights" on real property. Standing timber means the present growth of timber on the land; timber rights includes all successive growths of timber on the land as well as existing timber [see Crain v. Hoefling (1942) 56 Cal. App. 2d 396, 405-406, 132 P.2d 882] .

If a grant or reservation is limited to "timber," the grant or reservation is only of the standing timber on the land. Under this grant, the grantee's rights are exhausted when the timber growing on the land at the time of the grant is exhausted [

Buffum v. Texaco, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 732, 735, 50 Cal. Rptr. 852] . Under a grant of "timber rights," however, the grantee is not so limited. The grantee may, in this case, harvest successive crops of timber that grow on the land as they mature [Buffum v. Texaco, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 732, 735, 50 Cal. Rptr. 852] . Exceptions and reservations in grants are to be interpreted in favor of the grantor [Sears v. Ackerman (1903) 138 Cal. 583, 586, 72 P. 171] .

[c] Time for Removal of Standing Timber

If the conveyance or reservation specifies the time within which the timber must be removed, the timber must be removed during the specified time. If no time limit is specified, a reasonable time will be implied [Cochran v. Union Lbr. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 423, 426, 102 Cal. Rptr. 632] .

If, however, a deed clearly and unequivocally states that the grantee of standing timber is given "the right to remove same at any time hereafter," the grantee's right to remove the timber is perpetual [Cochran v. Union Lbr. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 423, 426, 102 Cal. Rptr. 632] . The grantee has only the right to remove standing timber growing on the land at the time the deed is given, not successive crops of timber grown on the land, but it may remove that standing timber at any time in the future it chooses [Cochran v. Union Lbr. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 423, 426, 102 Cal. Rptr. 632] .

If a deed conveying the timber "now standing" on described real property is executed in accordance with an earlier contract containing similar language, the grantee is entitled to all timber standing on the property at the date of the deed, rather than on the date of the preceding contract. In the absence of mistake, fraud, or other matter affecting the validity of the instrument, a deed executed in consummation of an agreement between the parties merges all prior negotiations and agreements relating to its subject matter. Thus, the deed becomes the measure of the rights of the parties and prevails over the contract under which it was executed [Cochran v. Union Lbr. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 423, 429, 102 Cal. Rptr. 632] .

The form in [2], below, is a grant deed conveying the timber rights in perpetuity to certain real property. For a discussion of the distinction between a conveyance of timber rights and a conveyance of standing timber, see § 36A.221[1][b].

Because the deed in this form conveys an interest in real property it should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying full fee title [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. § 36A.223 Grant Deed Provision Reserving Standing Timber

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a provision that may be inserted in a grant deed conveying title to real property when the grantor of the deed wishes to retain the standing timber on the property. The provision in this form reserves to the grantor only the standing timber now on the land being conveyed; it does not reserve the right to future growths of timber that will grow on the land. The distinction between a grant or reservation of "standing timber" and "timber rights," and the rules governing time for removal of the timber are discussed in § 36A.221[1][b] and [c].

The provision in the form in [2], below, should be inserted in the grant deed immediately following the legal description of the land. For a provision that may be inserted in a grant deed reserving to the grantor timber rights to the conveyed property, see § 36A.224[2].

§ 36A.224 Grant Deed Provision Reserving Timber Rights in Perpetuity

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a provision that may be inserted in a grant deed conveying title to real property when the grantor wants to reserve the timber rights in perpetuity to the property. The distinction between "standing timber" and "timber rights," and the language required to convey or reserve either, is discussed in § 36A.221[1][b]. The provision in this form should be inserted in the grant deed immediately following the legal description of such property. For a provision that may be inserted in a grant deed reserving to the grantor rights to standing timber only, see § 36A.223[2].

§ 36A.225 Logging Contract Between Timber Landowner and Logging Contractor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a contract for the logging of real property by a licensed logging contractor or timber operator. A logging contract to log a specific piece of land requires the contractor to fell the timber trees on that land, cut them into saw logs, and transport the logs to mill or market [see Fray v. Rogers (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 858, 862, 77 Cal. Rptr. 776] . In most instances, a timber harvesting plan must be submitted and approved by the Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (Department of Forestry) before the commencement of timber operations [see § 36A.21[3]].

In this contract the landowner is also the operator of a lumber mill that transforms saw logs into lumber suitable for use in the construction industry. The owner agrees to pay the logging contractor a specified amount per measure for different species of timber delivered by the contractor to the owner's mill yard at a designated place. Normally the price is calculated as a designated sum per board foot of lumber contained in the saw logs delivered to the yard. The number of board feet in a given log is determined by a "scaler" who "scales" the log according to a scaling or log measurement table published by the National Bureau of Standards [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 12313; see also § 36A.220[1][e] (scaling)]. Enough copies of this contract should be prepared so that both the owner and contractor may have an executed copy; an executed copy may be recorded in the county where the real property is located, and a copy may be filed with the California Department of Forestry.

[b] Timber Operator's License

[i] When Required; Exceptions

Before executing the contract in [2], below, the contractor must be licensed by the State Board of Forestry. The Forest Practice Act requires every timber operator in California to obtain a timber operator's license [Pub. Res. Code § 4571(a)

]. A "timber operator" is anyone who cuts or removes (or contracts with others to cut or remove) timber or other solid wood forest products from non-federal lands for commercial purposes [Pub. Res. Code §§ 4526.5, 4527]. Additionally, a timber operator's license is required for mechanical site preparation activities undertaken before the stocking standards of the Forest Practice Act and related rules have been met in a logging area [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1022.2]. However, a timber operator's license is not required for either of the following:

- Site preparation activities involving broadcast burning [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1022.2].

- The maintenance of erosion control structures following the completion of timber operations described in an approved work completion report for a timber harvesting plan [14 Cal. Code Reg. § 1022.3].

No other licenses are required for timber operations in California [Pub. Res. Code § 4578].

[ii] Basis for Denial of License

A timber operator's license may be denied for any of the following reasons:

- The applicant is not the real person in interest [Pub. Res. Code §§ 4570, 4573(a)].

- Material misrepresentation or false statements in the application [Pub. Res. Code § 4573(b)].

- Conviction within one year of the application of unlawfully operating without a license [Pub. Res. Code § 4573(c)].

- Failure by the applicant to comply with the Forest Practice Act within the three years before the filing of the application [Pub. Res. Code § 4573(d)].

- The applicant's failure or refusal to pay a judgment resulting from violation of the Forest Practice Act or of rules and regulations adopted under the Act [Pub. Res. Code § 4573(e)].

- The applicant's failure or refusal to keep current insurance [Pub. Res. Code §§ 4572(c), 4573(f)].

- The applicant's failure or refusal to reimburse the Department of Forestry for costs incurred as the result of an action brought to correct a violation of the Act [Pub. Res. Code §§ 4573(g), 4601-4612].

[c] Contractor's Lien

Every person who renders labor or uses livestock, machinery, or appliances to perform work or service in connection with the felling, preparing, or transporting of any logs has a lien on any and all of the logs and on any and all of the lumber or other timber products manufactured from the logs for the value of that person's work and services [Civ. Code § 3065]. The lien has priority over all other encumbrances on the logs except the landowner's claim for a reasonable stumpage when the lien claimant was not employed directly by the landowner [Civ. Code § 3065]. The amount of the lien is not, however, limited by any contract between the landowner and the logging contractor or between the logging contractor and the person who makes the logs into lumber [Civ. Code § 3065]. However, the lien cannot extend to any work or labor performed by the claimant for the logging contractor not embraced within, contemplated by, covered by, or reasonably necessary to the execution of the original contract between the contractor and log owner when the lien claimant had actual notice of the contract before performance of the contractor's services [Civ. Code § 3065].

[d] Effect of Recorded Logging Contract

When the original contract between the logging contractor and timber owner is recorded in the county where the timberland is located before commencement of work under the contract, the recordation is equivalent to the giving of actual notice of the contract by the owner to all persons who may be entitled to a lien for services rendered under the contract [Civ. Code § 3065]. The contract must be acknowledged to be recorded [Gov. Code § 27287]. Recording fees are set by statute [see Gov. Code § 27361 for current recording fees].

[e] Contractor's Bond

The contract in [2], below, requires the contractor to furnish a bond for the payment of labor and material claims incurred by the contractor in the performance of the contract. When the contract is recorded together with a bond of the contractor for payment of liens claims, the amount that may be recovered from the timber owner on such claims is limited to the price specified in the contract [Civ. Code § 3065]. The balance of the liens must be paid by the contractor and the sureties on the contractor's payment bond [Civ. Code § 3065]. The bond must be in an amount not less than 50 percent of the contract price specified in the contract and must be conditioned for the payment in full of the claims of all persons performing labor or services under the contract [Civ. Code § 3065]. It must also, by its terms, be made to inure to the benefit of such persons so as to give them a right of action on the bond either in a suit to enforce their liens on the logs and lumber or in a separate suit on the bond itself [Civ. Code § 3065].

The bond shall inure to the benefit of any and all persons who perform labor or use livestock, machinery or appliances in the execution of the work to be done under this Contract so as to give those persons, and their assigns or successors in interest, a right of action to recover on the bond in any suit brought to enforce the liens provided under Civil Code Section 3065, or in a separate suit brought on the bond.

Examination by Contractor

10. Contractor agrees with and represents to Owner that Contractor has carefully examined the timber and real property subject to this Contract, and that Contractor is entering into this Contract as a result of Contractor's examination of this timber and real property and not as a result of any representation made to Contractor by Owner or any agent of Owner that is not contained in this Contract.

Any and all notices or other matters required or permitted by this Contract or by law to be served on, given to, or delivered to either party by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served, given, or delivered when personally delivered to the party to whom it is directed [or to a supervisorial employee of such party], or, in lieu of such personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Owner at_____[mailing address], or to Contractor at_____[mailing address]. Either party may change its address for the purposes of this Paragraph by giving written notice of such change to the other party in the manner prescribed in this Paragraph.

§ 36A.230 Agreement by Landowner to Supply Water From Well to Grantee of Adjoining Land

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a water use agreement in which the owner of a parcel of land containing a well agrees to supply water for domestic use to a person purchasing an adjoining parcel of land. It was modeled after the water use agreement involved in Acadia California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 332-333, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 , furnished through the courtesy of Fain and Lavine, Attorneys at Law, Beverly Hills, California.

The transaction contemplated by the agreement in [2], below, is exempt from the requirements imposed on water companies under the Public Utilities Code [see Pub. Util. Code § 2704].

[b] Nature of Right to Receive Water

A contract to furnish water confers a right to receive water on the terms specified in the agreement, and that right is a right in real property. The agreement does not, however, constitute a present grant or transfer of an interest in real property [Stanislaus Water Co. v. Bachman (1908) 152 Cal. 716, 723, 93 P. 858] . It conveys no interest in the water itself but merely a right to demand and be furnished with water according to the terms of the contract for the purposes specified in the contract [Stanislaus Water Co. v. Bachman (1908) 152 Cal. 716, 723, 93 P. 858] . Water itself, whether in lakes, streams, or from percolation through the soil, is, in its natural state, part of the land and real property. Like any other part of the realty, it becomes personal property only on being severed from the realty [Copeland v. Fairview Land & Water Co. (1913) 165 Cal. 148, 154, 131 P. 119] . When it is sold for domestic use, as in the contract in [2], below, and delivered to the premises where it is to be used through pipes, the pipes themselves are fixtures and part of the real property. Therefore, the water is severed from the land and becomes personal property only when taken from the pipes by the consumer [Copeland v. Fairview Land & Water Co. (1913) 165 Cal. 148, 154, 131 P. 119] .

[c] Recording Agreement

Since the agreement set forth in [2], below, is an instrument affecting an interest or right in real property, it should be recorded in the county where the land is located on which the water is to be used. Because use of the water to be supplied under this agreement is limited to specifically described premises, it in effect constitutes an easement appurtenant to those premises. Since it is therefore an incident of that land, the right to water under this contract will pass as such by a conveyance of that land without express mention or reference being made to it in the instrument of conveyance [Stanislaus Water Co. v. Bachman (1908) 152 Cal. 716, 724, 93 P. 858] .

[2] FORM

Agreement by Landowner to Supply Water From Well to Grantee of Adjoining Land

WATER USE AGREEMENT

_____[Name(s)] of _____ County, California ("Grantor"), and_____[name(s)] of _____ County, California ("Grantee"), agree:

Recital of Original Ownership of Land

WHEREAS, Grantor was, before Grantor's conveyance of a certain portion to Grantee, the owner of a tract of land consisting of approximately [number] acres in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [legal description of land owned by Grantor before conveyance to Grantee]; and

Recital of Conveyance

WHEREAS, Grantor has before this date or will contemporaneously with execution of this Agreement convey to Grantee by separate deed that portion of the above-described land ("Grantee's land"), in the County of _____, State of California, that is described as follows: [legal description of portion of land conveyed or being conveyed to grantee]; and

Well Recital

WHEREAS, Grantor before this date drilled and developed a certain water well on that portion of the above-described land ("the retained land"), not being conveyed to Grantee; and

Recital of Desire for Water

WHEREAS, Grantee desires to obtain water from the water well so drilled and developed by Grantor on the retained land for use by Grantee solely for domestic purposes on the land so conveyed to Grantee by Grantor;

Agreement to Furnish Water

NOW, THEREFORE, Grantor agrees to furnish to Grantee from this well such water as may be necessary for the "domestic use," as that term is defined in Pargraph 1, of Grantee in the occupancy and development of Grantee's Land as a residence on the following terms and conditions.

Domestic Use Defined

1. The "domestic use" for which water is to be furnished Grantee under this Agreement consists in general of the usual household uses and the adequate watering of ornamental plants and shrubbery and household garden plots connected with the occupancy and development of Grantee's land as a residence but not its development for any industrial or commercial or general agricultural purposes.

Limit on Water Amount

2. In no event shall the water furnished Grantee under this contract exceed [specify amount, e.g., one fiftieth] of the maximum amount of water that may be made available from the well or any replacement well drilled in place of this well.

No Guaranty as to Quantity

3. Grantor cannot and does not make any guaranty concerning the quantity of water agreed to be furnished under this Agreement or concerning the continuing availability of water except as provided in this Agreement. Grantee understands and acknowledges that Grantor is not a public utility, is not guaranteeing any specific quantity of water, is the sole owner of the well and all waters underlying or in any way connected with the retained land, and has agreed to furnish water to Grantee only in accordance with the terms of this Agreement. Grantee stipulates that Grantor has no right, title, or interest in or to any water from the well or water underlying the retained land except as specifically set forth in this Agreement.

Maintenance by Grantor

4. Grantor shall at Grantor's sole cost and expense

(a) Maintain the well in proper and sanitary order without representation as to the quantity or quality of water that may be produced by it;

(b) Install such pipeline, tanks, and other facilities for the delivery of water to Grantee's land as Grantor may deem reasonably necessary;

(c) Maintain and operate the facilities described in this Paragraph for so long as it is reasonably possible to procure and distribute water from the waters underlying the retained land; and

(d) Drill a replacement well and place it in operation if the original well should sand up or become inoperative and it is reasonably possible, in the opinion of water experts, to drill another producing well in lieu of the original well on the retained land.

Payment for Water

5. Grantee shall pay to Grantor for water furnished under this Agreement the sum of $_____ per month during the first year of this Agreement and shall pay during each subsequent year an amount per month that will reflect any increase in the expenses of Grantor over Grantor's expenses for the prior year in furnishing water to Grantee under this Agreement; provided, however, should more than one residence be maintained on Grantee's land, the monthly rate specified in this Paragraph shall apply to each residence; the term residence meaning family dwelling unit.

Receipt on Grantee's Land

6. Grantee shall receive the water furnished Grantee at gravity and without pressure at the property line separating Grantee's land from the retained land and shall, at Grantee's own cost and expense, make such provision for its distribution and use on Grantee's land as Grantee may desire and which is in accord with the permitted uses specified in Paragraph 1 of this Agreement.

Term of Agreement

7. This Agreement is made for the period of one year commencing_____[date], and will be automatically renewed thereafter from year to year so long as Grantee complies strictly with the terms of this Agreement concerning the permitted use of the water furnished under it and the payment for that water.

Default Clause

8. Should Grantee fail to pay the monthly charge for water specified in this contract for a period of [number] days after receiving written notice of this failure from Grantor, Grantor may terminate this Agreement and discontinue furnishing water to Grantee's Land under it.

Sale of Retained Land and Well

9. Grantor expressly reserves the right to sell, lease, trade, mortgage, encumber, or otherwise deal with the retained land as Grantor may see fit. This Agreement is binding on Grantor only so long as Grantor is, and is binding on Grantor's successors in interest only to the extent they are, the owner of that portion of the retained land, not exceeding 4,000 square feet in area immediately surrounding the well, on which the well is located and which is necessary to the operation and replacement of this well.

Subject to Valid Laws

10. This Agreement is subject at all times to any and all valid laws, ordinances, and governmental regulations whether federal, state, county, or city, and any modification made to this Agreement by any such law or ordinance or regulation or to the conduct of the parties under this Agreement shall not impose liability on either party for breach of their duties under this Agreement.

Assignment and Binding on Heirs

11. This Agreement shall be binding on the parties to this Agreement and on their successors in interest; provided, however, Grantor and Grantor's successors in interest shall have no obligations under this Agreement at any time except to the present or future owners or tenants of Grantee's lands and then only as expressly set forth in this Agreement.

Notices

12. Any and all notices or other matters required or permitted by this Agreement or by law to be served on, given to, or delivered to either party by the other party to this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served, given, or delivered when personally delivered to the party to whom it is directed, or, in lieu of such service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Grantee at the address of Grantee's land or to Grantor at the address of the retained land.

§ 36A.231 Contract to Construct Water System for and Supply Water to Subdivision--Between Subdivider and Private Water Corporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a contract by a privately owned water supply company to supply water to a subdivision proposed to be developed by a subdivider on what is now raw land. It is assumed that at the time this contract is drafted neither the preliminary nor final map of the proposed subdivision has been drafted, much less approved, by any of the proper officials of the county where the proposed subdivision is to be located [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation , for discussion of preliminary and final maps and their approval; see also Manaster & Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 61, Subdivision Regulation (Matthew Bender)].

This contract provides for the water company's construction of the water system according to its specifications with money furnished in advance by the subdivider. The contract in this form is adapted, in part at least, from the fact situation and contract described in Bakersfield Country Club v. Pacific Water Co. (1961) 192 Cal. App.2d 528, 532-533, 13 Cal. Rptr. 573 .

[b] Conditions in Contract

Because the contract in [2], below, will be executed at a preliminary stage of development, many things specified in this contract must be provided for on a conditional basis. For example, because the subdivision has not been definitely planned and plotted yet, the exact cost of the water system to be installed by the water company cannot be determined. Further, performance of the contract is expressly conditioned to commence only after approval of the final subdivision map of the subdivision by proper local county authorities of the county in which the property is located [see [2], P 6, below].

Two other important conditions to performance of the contract by the water company are included in the form in [2], below. First, the contract is conditioned on the issuance of authority by the California Public Utilities Commission to the water company to expand its lines and system to serve the subdivision [see [2], P 1, below]. Any person, firm, or corporation in California operating, owning, controlling, or managing a public water system is a public utility subject to control and regulation by the state Public Utilities Commission [Pub. Util. Code § 2701]. Most public utilities, including water corporations, are prohibited from beginning the construction of a line, plant, or system, or any extension of the same, without having first obtained from the Commission a certificate that the present or future public convenience and necessity require or will require the construction [Pub. Util. Code § 1001]. The contents of an application for this certificate for construction or expansion of a public utility line or system is specified in regulations issued by the Commission [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 18; see also § 36A.132].

Second, performance of the contract by the water company is conditioned on the issuance by the California Department of Public Health of a permit for the proposed water system [see [2], P 2, below]. No person may operate a public water system unless he or she first files a petition for and receives a permit to do so from the Department of Public Health [Health & Safety Code § 116525]. A complete set of plans and specifications for the proposed system must be filed with the petition for a permit [Health & Safety Code § 116530].

[2] FORM

Contract to Construct Water System for and Supply Water to Subdivision--Between Subdivider and Private Water Corporation

CONTRACT TO SUPPLY WATER TO SUBDIVISION

_____[Name], a California corporation ("Supplier"), and_____[name], a California corporation ("Subdivider"), agree:

Recitals

WHEREAS, Subdivider proposes to develop a subdivision and construct approximately, [number] homes on that certain real property in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [legal description of real property]; and

WHEREAS, Supplier operates a water system supplying water to residents and other occupants of land in the County of _____, adjoining the real property;

Agreement to Supply Water

NOW, THEREFORE, Supplier agrees to install and operate a complete and adequate water distribution system in the proposed subdivision to be created by Subdivider on the real property and to supply water to the residents and occupants of the Subdivision on the following terms and conditions.

Approval by Public Utilities Commission

1. Rendition of a decision by the California Public Utilities Commission authorizing Supplier to expand its [or to construct and operate a] water system to serve this Subdivision is an express condition precedent to the rendition of any performance under this Contract by Supplier.

Permit From Health Department

2. Issuance of a permit by the California Department of Public Health to Supplier for a water system serving this Subdivision and the proposed occupants of this Subdivision is also an express condition precedent to the rendition of any performance under this Contract by Supplier.

Plat of Subdivision

3. Notwithstanding the provisions of Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Contract and before the occurrence of the events described in these Paragraphs, Supplier shall cooperate with the civil engineer or civil engineering firm selected by Subdivider in preparing the preliminary subdivision map of the Subdivision and determining and showing on the map the location, type, size, and other details of water mains to be installed to serve the Subdivision.

Water Supply Facilities

4. All water mains and water supply facilities installed in or to serve the Subdivision shall be of the type and meet standards determined by Supplier and its engineering staff.

At the same time Subdivider will deposit with_____[name of joint control or disbursing agency] instructions to distribute the same to Supplier in the manner described in Paragraph 8 of this Contract and shall notify Supplier of the deposit and the date Subdivider proposes to commence construction of off-site improvements in the unit. Supplier shall commence construction and installation of the water system for the unit on or before the date so specified by Subdivider as the date it proposes to commence construction of off-site improvements for the unit.

Water for Construction

Supplier, after receiving the authorization and permits described in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Contract, shall construct and install on request from Subdivider such temporary or other facilities as may be required to supply water to Subdivider or contractors and subcontractors employed by Subdivider during construction of any off-site or on-site improvements in any unit or portion of the Subdivision. Subdivider shall promptly on installation of any such facilities reimburse Supplier for its actual cost, including _____ percent overhead expenses, incurred in installing such facilities. These facilities shall be capable of supplying the water and volume of water reasonably required for construction of off-site or on-site improvements, as the case may be, in the Subdivision. Subdivider and contractors or subcontractors of Subdivider shall pay Supplier for water furnished through these facilities or used in the construction of improvements in the Subdivision Supplier's normal rates for water supplied to its patrons.

§ 36A.232 Grand Deed Conveying Riparian Water Rights Appurtenant to Land

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a grant deed that may be used to convey water rights separate and apart from the land to which the water is appurtenant. Water rights are appurtenant to real property and part of the real property [Copeland v. Fairview Land & Water Co. (1913) 165 Cal. 148, 154, 131 P. 119] . Therefore, they pass as an incident to real property by a conveyance of the real property to which they are appurtenant without being mentioned in the deed or other instrument of conveyance of that real property [Stanislaus Water Co. v. Bachman (1908) 152 Cal. 716, 724, 93 P. 858] . Water rights may also be conveyed separate and apart from the rest of the rights and incidents going to make up the real property to which they are appurtenant [Mount Carmel Fruit Co. v. Webster (1903) 140 Cal. 183, 186-187, 73 P. 826] .

[b] Statute of Frauds

Because water rights are an interest in real property, a conveyance of them in perpetuity or for a term longer than one year is required by the statute of frauds to be in writing signed by the grantor [Civ. Code § 1624(c)].

[c] Other Requirements

Because the deed in this form conveys an interest in real property it should be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as a grant deed conveying full fee title [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. Further, when the value of the water rights being conveyed exceeds $100, the deed in this form may be subject to taxation under the California Documentary Transfer Tax Act in counties that have adopted ordinances imposing a tax under that Act [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 11901 et seq.]. For a discussion of the Documentary Transfer Tax Act and the taxes that may be imposed under it, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

§ 36A.233 Grant Deed Provision Reserving Riparian Water Rights Appurtenant to Land

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a provision that should be inserted in a deed conveying fee title to a parcel of real property when the grantor wishes to retain riparian water rights that are appurtenant to the property. It also reserves to the grantor an easement for a pipeline across a portion of the property being conveyed to carry water to the grantor's adjoining land.

This provision should be inserted in the deed conveying title to the property in question immediately after the legal description of that property [see § 36A.232[2]]. The reservation may be modified to reserve to a grantor a water right other than a riparian right that is appurtenant to the land being conveyed.

This chapter covers the preparation and drafting of leases of agricultural lands. The Legal Background includes a brief discussion of the general requirements for farm leases and relevant tax considerations. The Transaction Guide lists the various factors in determining what type of lease is appropriate and what provisions should be included. The Forms section includes leases that typify the arrangements encountered in farm leasing and alternative rental provisions.

This chapter does not present all the issues relevant to the drafting of real property leases generally. For a general discussion of real property leases and lease provisions, including forms, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases , Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases , and Ch. 34D, Ground Leases . For a complete discussion of the tax consequences of leasing real property and agricultural transactions, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 23, Real Estate Leases , and Ch. 24, Agricultural Transactions and Natural Resources (Matthew Bender).

§ 37.10 Nature of Farm Lease

[1] Agriculture as Subject Matter

The terms "farming," "husbandry," and "tillage" are said to be synonymous with or equivalent to the term "agriculture" [Fraenkel v. Bank of America (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 845, 850, 256 P.2d 569] . Agriculture has been defined as the art or science of cultivating the ground, raising and harvesting crops, and raising livestock [Fraenkel v. Bank of America (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 845, 850, 256 P.2d 569] . A lease of real property is an instrument by which one is granted, on stated terms and conditions, the right to occupy a parcel of land to the grantor's exclusion [Bachenheimer v. Palm Springs Management Corp. (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 580, 591, 254 P.2d 153] . Thus, a farm lease may be defined as a contract by which a landlord grants to a tenant the exclusive right to occupy certain real property for the purpose of cultivating and raising crops and raising livestock [see Harrelson v. Miller & Lux Inc. (1920) 182 Cal. 408, 410-412, 188 P. 800] .

Except for the subject matter and the manner by which rent is calculated, farm leases do not differ significantly from other leases of real property. For a discussion of the distinguishing aspects of farm leases from other types of arrangements, see [2], below.

PRACTICE TIP:
Practical Factors Affecting Type of Farm Lease. In counseling the client and preparing a farm lease, an attorney must be familiar with all of the following:

- The acreage to be leased;
- The economic outlook for the contemplated crops;
- Zoning laws applicable to the affected parcel;

- Potential sources of water; and
- The experience and abilities of the prospective tenant/farmer.

The leasing custom in the locale where the acreage is situated is also of major significance. These factors are all relevant to the determination of what type of lease to employ. This information may be obtained from the client or from secondary sources, such as county agricultural commissioners and instructors at local agriculture education institutions. By Publisher's Editorial Staff and Benjamin Kaplan.

[2] Farm Lease Distinguished From Other Farm Agreements

[a] Sharecropping Agreement

A lease is distinguishable from other types of arrangements found in farm usage such as sharecropping, licenses, or partnerships. The distinction between a sharecropping agreement and a farm lease is that a lease grants the tenant an estate in land for a given time, a right of property in crops, and in the case of a crop share lease, the power to divide the crops between the tenant and the landlord. The sharecropper, however, has no estate in land, nor ownership in crops, but is a servant and receives a share of the crops from the landowner, who has title to them [In re Okahara (1923) 191 Cal. 353, 361, 216 P. 614] .

[b] License Agreement

An agreement for the use and occupancy of land or other premises may be either a lease or a license. A lease gives exclusive possession of the premises against all other persons, including the owner, to the tenant [Kaiser Co. v. Reid (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 610, 619, 184 P.2d 879 ; Regency Outdoor Advertising, Inc. v. Carolina Lanes, Inc. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1323, 1330, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] . Thus, the test in determining whether an agreement for the use of land is a lease or a license is the following: if the contract gives exclusive possession of the premises against all the world, including the owner, it is a lease; if it merely confers a privilege to occupy under the owner it is a license [Kaiser Co. v. Reid (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 610, 619, 184 P.2d 879 ; O'Shea v. Claude C. Wood Company (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 903, 909, 159 Cal. Rptr. 125 (contract giving person the right to stockpile dirt on the property of another for the first person's benefit created a license)].

A license is revocable at the will of the licensor [Golden West Baseball Co. v. City of Anaheim (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 11, 36, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378 ; see Von Goerlitz v. Turner (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 425, 430, 150 P.2d 278] . Tenants of agricultural lands often grant licenses permitting other persons to graze livestock on crop remains after harvest. Because these licenses are not equivalent to lease arrangements, they do not violate covenants against assignment or subletting [see Harrelson v. Miller & Lux Inc. (1920) 182 Cal. 408, 413, 188 P. 800] .

The question of whether an instrument is a lease or merely conveys a license is a question of law that must be determined from the instrument itself [Kaiser Co. v. Reid (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 610, 619, 184 P.2d 879] . For further discussion of the distinctions between leases and licenses, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 150, Types of Tenancies (Matthew Bender).

[c] Partnership Agreement

A lease of farm property, particularly a crop share lease, may appear to establish a partnership [see Smith v. Schultz (1891) 89 Cal. 526, 533-534, 26 P. 1087 (use of terms indicating partnership in share lease agreement)]. If a lease is deemed to create a partnership, certain potentially undesirable consequences may ensue, including (1) joint liability for partnership losses [see Corp. Code § 16401(b)], (2) joint and several liability to third parties [see Corp. Code §§ 16301-16308], and (3) the ability of one partner to bind the partnership [see Corp. Code § 16301; Smith v. Schultz (1891) 89 Cal. 526, 534, 26 P. 1087] . For that reason, a farm lease often includes a denial of a partnership [see § 37.201[2], P 40].

Under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.], a partnership is defined as an association of two or more persons carrying on as co-owners a business for profit and includes a registered limited liability partnership, but excludes a limited partnership formed under Corp. Code § 15501 et seq. (ULPA, repealed January 1, 2010), Corp. Code § 15611 et seq. (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010), or Corp. Code § 15900 et seq. (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code § 16101(9)]. However, the sharing of gross returns (as in a crop share lease) does not by itself establish a partnership, whether or not the persons sharing them have a joint or common interest in any property from which the returns are derived [Corp. Code § 16202(c)(2)]. Furthermore, the receipt by a person of a share of the profits of a business is not prima facie evidence of a partnership if the profits were received as rent to a landlord [Corp. Code § 16202(c)(3)(C)]. For a complete discussion of partnerships, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships , and Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships.

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 37 FARM LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.11

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.11 Types of Farm Leases

[1] Cash Farm Lease

The most common types of farm leases encountered are the following:

- Cash farm leases [see § 37.200];
- Crop share leases [see § 37.11[2]; see also § 37.201];
- Livestock share leases [see § 37.11[2]; see also § 37.210]; and
- Livestock leases for annual grasslands [see § 37.11[3]; see also § 37.202].

Each of these leases is an example of the various methods by which rent is charged. These various farm lease methods have evolved to take into consideration various types of farm operations, the relative agricultural skills and knowledge of the parties, and the viability of the land to support the proposed operations.

A cash farm lease [see § 37.200] is a typical leasing arrangement in which the tenant makes a fixed periodic cash payment. It provides the landlord with a fixed income and allows both parties to fix their costs and expenses for the future. When the landlord is unsure of the likelihood for success of the tenant or, conversely, when the tenant has skills and expertise greater than those believed by the landlord, this arrangement may be desirable [see § 37.200[1][b]].

[2] Crop or Livestock Share Lease

In a crop or livestock share lease arrangement [see §§ 37.201, 37.210], the tenant agrees to pay a fixed share of the crop or livestock production, either in the product itself or in cash proceeds. In a share lease, the landlord assumes a risk of a partial or total crop failure or insufficient weight gain in the livestock. However, when the chances for a successful yield are high, either due to a history of crop or livestock success on the premises or the skill and expertise of the tenant, the share lease method may be favored. Share basis leases also provide for the "material participation" of the landlord, allowing for the eligibility for Social Security benefits and the special use valuation [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 401-433; I.R.C. § 2032A; see also § 37.13[3], [4]].

[3] Livestock Lease for Annual Grasslands

A lease of annual grasslands for livestock grazing [see § 37.202] should be employed when livestock grazing will be the sole operation on the leased premises. Under this type of lease the method of calculating rent may be based either on the acreage leased or other factors relating to the specific livestock to be placed on the property [see § 37.202[1][b]].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.12

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.12 Formal Lease Requirements

[1] Intent to Lease

Farm leases are largely similar to other leases of real property and therefore must comply with the basic requirements of a lease [see generally, Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, §§ 34B.15-34B.18; Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, §§ 34C.14-34C.16]. Although no particular legal terminology is required in making a lease, it is essential that the instrument show an intention to establish the relationship of landlord and tenant [O'Shea v. Claude C. Wood Co. (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 903, 909, 159 Cal. Rptr. 125] .

[2] Writing Required

A lease entered into for a period exceeding one year must be evidenced by a written instrument [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(3); see Civ. Code § 1091; Code Civ. Proc. § 1971]. For further discussion of the statutes requiring a lease to be in writing, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, § 34B.15[3].

[3] Other Requirements

Any lease must include all of the following [O'Shea v. Claude C. Wood Co. (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 903, 909-910, 159 Cal. Rptr. 125 ; see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, §§ 34B.15-34B.18; Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, §§ 34C.14-34C.16]:

- A definite description of the property leased;
- An agreement as to the amount of rent to be paid;
- The time and manner of payment of rent; and
- A specified term of duration.

In addition, agricultural or horticultural leases may not be entered into for a term exceeding 51 years [Civ. Code § 717].

CHAPTER 37 FARM LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.13

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.13 Taxes, Assessments, and Entitlements

[1] Property Taxes and Assessments

When the lease makes no express provision regarding the liability for taxes and assessments, the general rule holds the landlord liable for all taxes and assessments levied on the demised premises during the lease term [Lawrence v. F.W. Woolworth Co. (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 119, 121, 45 Cal. Rptr. 140, 403 P.2d 396] . However, if the lease is silent with regard to tax liability, the tenant is liable for any additional assessments if the tenant makes improvements and retains possession of the improvements on termination of the lease, and the landlord derives no substantial benefit from those improvements [see Lawrence v. F.W. Woolworth Co. (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 119, 121-123, 45 Cal. Rptr. 140, 403 P.2d 396] . Conversely, when the landlord will gain possession of the improvements on the lease's termination and will derive a substantial benefit from them, the landlord will be liable for the additional assessments [see City of Oakland v. Albers Bros. Milling Co. (1919) 43 Cal. App. 191, 193, 184 P. 868] .

[2] Crop Share Rents as Taxable Income to Landlord

When the lease agreement specifies that rent is to be paid on a crop share method [see § 37.201], the crops paid will be treated as taxable income to the landlord [see I.R.C. § 61(a)(5) (rents included in gross income); Treas. Reg. § 1.61-4]. However, the income is not required to be reported until the time that the crops are reduced to cash or its equivalent, whether the taxpayer is on a cash or accrual method of accounting [Treas. Reg. § 1.61-4(a), (b)].

Crop shares received by the landlord and subsequently fed to the landlord's livestock are taxed at their fair market value at the time of feeding [Rev. Rul. 75-11, 1975-1 C.B. 27]. An equivalent expense deduction can be taken to offset the income, if applicable [see I.R.C. § 162(a)(3)]. If crop shares are donated to a charitable organization, their fair market value as of the date donated (rather than the date converted by the donee) must be reported as taxable income [Rev. Rul. 75-11, 1975-1 C.B. 27], although a deduction for charitable contributions is normally allowed to offset the reported income [see I.R.C. § 170; see also Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions].

[3] Social Security Benefits

[a] Eligibility Requirements

A landlord of agricultural lands may become eligible for Social Security benefits [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 401-433] if he or she has generated qualifying self-employment income [see 42 U.S.C. § 411(a); I.R.C. § 1402(a) ("net earnings from self-employment" defined)] through the receipt of rental payments under a crop share lease [see 42 U.S.C. § 402 (entitlement to Social Security benefits); 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.110, 404.143, 404.1082 (farm rental income qualifying for inclusion in calculating eligibility for Social Security benefits)]. A person having net earnings from self-employment income is also liable for a tax on those earnings [see I.R.C. § 1401]. To qualify for social security benefits, both of the following requirements must be met [42 U.S.C. § 411(a)(1)]:

- The lease must provide for the landlord's "material participation" [see [b], below] in the production or management of the production of agricultural or horticultural commodities; and

- The landlord must actually participate.

Crop share leases provide the opportunity for this type of "material participation" [see § 37.201[2], P 11]. Conversely, a landlord already receiving Social Security payments may have those payments reduced or eliminated if his or her "material participation" in the farm operations creates net earnings from self-employment income [see 42 U.S.C. § 403(b), (f); 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.410-404.416].

[b] "Material Participation" Defined

"Material participation" generally will be found if the landlord does any of the following [see Rev. Rul. 57-58, 1957-1 C.B. 270]:

- Periodically advises or consults with the tenant regarding production of the crop;

- Periodically inspects the production activities on the land and furnishes a substantial portion of the machinery or implements used in production;

- Advances funds; or

- Assumes financial responsibility for a substantial portion of the production expenses.

The making of management decisions by the landlord has been held to constitute "material participation" in the management of the production of agricultural products [Conley v. Ribicoff (9th Cir. (1961) 294 F.2d 190, 193, 195 ; see Treas. Reg. § 1.1402(a)(4) ("actual participation to a material degree" defined)]. Caution should be exercised in drafting leases when the landlord is "materially participating" to avoid having the relationship deemed a partnership [see § 37.10[2][c]].

[4] Special Use Valuation for Estate Tax Purposes

[a] Making an Election

Under I.R.C. § 2032A, the executor of an estate may elect to have certain qualified real property specially valued for estate tax purposes. The reduction in valuation of the decedent's estate may be as high as $750,000 by valuing the real property at its current use rather than its highest and best use [I.R.C. § 2032A(a)]. This amount is subject to inflation adjustments [I.R.C. § 2032A(a)(3)]. For decedents dying in 2002, the maximum reduction is $820,000 [Rev. Proc. 2001-59 , § 3.18, 2001-52 I.R.B. 623]. Real property used as a farm for farming purposes by the decedent or a member of the decedent's family qualifies if (1) its adjusted value [see I.R.C. § 2032A(b)(3)(B)] equals 50 percent or more of the adjusted value of the gross estate [see I.R.C. §§ 2032A(b)(1)(A), 2053(a)] and (2) certain other restrictions are met, including the "material participation" of the decedent or a member of the decedent's family in the operation of the farm during five of the last eight years that the decedent was alive [I.R.C. § 2032A(b)(1)(C); see 42 U.S.C. § 411(a)(1) and [3], above].

For a complete discussion of the rules relating to the special use valuation election, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 24, Agricultural Transactions and Natural Resources, § 24.27 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Recapture of Tax Savings

The tax savings achieved under the election in [a], above, are subject to recapture if the qualified heir [see I.R.C. § 2032A(e)(1)] to the estate subjects the farmland to a use other than one permitted under the Code during the recapture period [see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)]. Lease arrangements before the decedent's death that fail to provide for "material participation" by the decedent or a member of the decedent's family may prevent the election of the special use evaluation [see I.R.C. § 2032A(b)(1)(C)]. Leases failing to provide for the continued "material participation" by the qualified heir or a member of the qualified heir's family [see I.R.C. § 2032A(e) ("qualified heir" and "member of family" defined)] after the decedent's death may trigger the recapture of the tax savings [see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(6)]. For this reason, crop share leases often provide for the "material participation" of the landlord in a manner consistent with the requirements for the special use valuation election [see § 37.201[2], PP 9, 11].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.14

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.14 California Land Conservation Act of 1965 (Williamson Act)

[1] Williamson Act Contracts Creating Agricultural Preserves

The California Land Conservation Act of 1965 [Gov. Code § 51200 et seq.], widely referred to as the Williamson Act, provides tax relief to property owners who contract with a city or county to create an agricultural preserve [see Gov. Code § 51201(d) ("agricultural preserve" defined)]. The contract must be for an initial term of not less than 10 years [Gov. Code § 51244]. Agricultural preserve contracts must (1) contain provisions excluding uses other than agriculture and (2) be binding on the owner's successors in interest (including tenants) [Gov. Code § 51243; see Olympic Federal Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Regan (9th Cir. 1981) 648 F.2d 1218, 1221-1222 (successor in interest is party who has equitable title in land)]. The land is further subject to any additional restrictions on development set forth in the contract [Gov. Code § 51240]. Williamson Act contracts must be recorded with the county recorder within 20 days of the date the contract is entered into [Gov. Code § 51248].

For a complete discussion and forms for Williamson Act contracts, see Ch. 28D, Conservation Restrictions on Use of Agricultural and Open-Space Land , and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 322, Preservation of Agricultural and Open-Space Land (Matthew Bender). In addition, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 70, Agricultural Preservation (Matthew Bender), includes detailed coverage of the Williamson Act and other environmental laws, such as the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.].

[2] Assessment and Taxation of Agricultural Preserves

Land placed in an agricultural preserve under the Williamson Act is assessed and taxed at its restricted value rather than the full cash value [see Cal. Const., arts. XIII, § 8, XIIIA, § 1]. Although the tax benefits to the landowner have diminished since the passage of Proposition 13 in 1978 [see Cal. Const., art. XIIIA], Williamson Act contracts still remain in use as viable land use planning devices [see Note, Proposition 13: A Mandate to Reevaluate the Williamson Act, 54 S. Cal. L. Rev. 93 (1980)].

[3] Practical Considerations

Attorneys drafting farm leases should be aware of the presence of a Williamson Act contract enforceable against the property to be leased. Restrictions on use that appear in the contract [see Gov. Code § 51240; see also [1], above] and the subsequent tax benefits that arise [see [2], above] are both possible factors in reducing the rental rate in the lease agreement. Further, the owner's successors in interest [see Olympic Federal Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Regan (9th Cir. 1981) 648 F.2d 1218, 1221-1222 (successor in interest is party who has equitable title in land)] are bound and benefited by the contract restricting use [Gov. Code § 51243(b)]. Therefore, tenants should take into account the presence of the contract in contemplating future uses of the leased land.

§ 37.115 Appropriate Type of Farm Lease

NOTE:

Although the parties may have already agreed on a particular type of lease arrangement before consulting an attorney, the attorney should acquire sufficient familiarity with the situation to advise his or her client on the legal consequences of that decision, and to suggest alternatives if it appears that the proposed arrangement is not in the client's best interest.

1. Determine likelihood of success in carrying out operation(s) proposed for leased premises, including:

a. Whether either party has successfully participated in management and operation of farm.

b. Whether proposed operation has been successfully performed on premises under consideration.

2. Determine financial needs of client, including:

a. Whether landlord has monthly expenses that require fixed income from leased premises.

b. Whether tenant has sufficient capital to provide expenses of farm operation(s) and make periodic cash rental payments.

3. Determine projected market conditions and economic outlook.

NOTE:

This information is critical in determining the most appropriate type of lease. If the economic and market forecast is weak, the landlord may prefer a cash farm lease [see §§ 37.11[1], 37.200]. However, when the indications are for a strong market and economy, the landlord may wish to employ a share basis lease [see §§ 37.11[2], 37.201, 37.210]. Conversely, a tenant may prefer a cash farm lease when he or she believes that his or her skill and expertise will provide a greater yield than that expected by the landlord, or a share basis lease when the risk of low prices or yields is high.

4. After discussing client's preference with client in light of factors discussed above, make final determination regarding specific type of lease arrangement desired, such as:

a. Cash farm lease [see § 37.200[2] (form)].

b. Crop share farm lease [see § 37.201[2] (form)].

c. Livestock lease for annual grasslands [see § 37.202[2] (form)].

d. Livestock share farm lease [see § 37.210[2] (form)].

§ 37.116 Calculating Equitable Rent

NOTE:

If the parties have not already determined the amount of rent payable under the lease, the attorney may employ any of the methods outlined in this section in assisting the calculation and negotiation of an equitable rent. As indicated, these methods may be used singly or in combination.

1. To calculate equitable rent, determine the following:

a. Specific nature of operation(s) to be conducted on leased premises.

b. Market rate rents charged for similar operations in farming locale.

NOTE:

Information relating to current rental rates and other local rental customs may be obtained from the client or the independent farm consultants or county farm commissioners.

A Williamson Act contract restricting the use of the proposed premises to be leased may affect the market rental [see § 37.14]. Since the contract terms are binding on the tenant [see Gov. Code § 51243(b)], the tax savings may be a consideration in negotiating the rental amount.

c. For crop or livestock share lease [see §§ 37.201, 37.210], compute rent as share of crops or livestock equal to percentage of total production costs contributed by landlord, or based on customary local farm practice.

d. For cash farm lease, compute rent as follows [see § 37.200]:

(1) Determine probable yield (in bushels, tons, or other standard unit of measurement) of crop(s) to be grown on leased premises.

(2) Determine probable market price (in bushels, tons, or other standard unit of measurement) of crops to be grown on leased premises.

(3) Multiply projected total yield by projected market price and apply percentage of total costs of production contributed by landlord to determine rent.

2. Determine whether variable rent provision should be used [see § 37.211].

NOTE:

Variable rent provisions are most often found in cash farm leases when the parties agree to have the rent payment fluctuate with crop prices or yields. Because crop or livestock share leases already account for fluctuations in either price or yield, variable rents are normally used only when the chance of crop failure is extremely high.

§ 37.117 Effect of Williamson Act Contract on Proposed Farming Operations

NOTE:

A contract entered into under the Williamson Act [Gov. Code § 51200 et seq.] restricts the development of the property covered by the contract for a minimum of 10 years [Gov. Code § 51244]. In addition to the statutory requirements of the contract, the property may be subject to any further restrictions agreed on by the original parties [Gov. Code § 51240; see § 37.14[1]].

1. Determine restrictions on use of premises.

2. Determine amount of time remaining in contract.

3. Determine tax savings realized under contract.

NOTE:

In determining the amount of rent payable under a farm lease, the expenses and investments of both parties are considered. Therefore, a lower tax rate on the premises may contribute to a lower rental rate.

§ 37.130 Representation of Both Parties to Lease

1. If requested to represent both parties to transaction:

a. Recommend that one party obtain separate counsel.

b. Determine whether or not potential for conflict exists.

2. If potential clients do not withdraw their request and do not appear to have conflicting or potentially conflicting interests, take both of the following steps [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310; Klemm v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 893, 899, 142 Cal. Rptr. 509] :

a. Make full disclosure to each party of nature of representation of other party.

b. Obtain written consent and waiver from both parties to arrangement before accepting employment.

PRACTICE TIP:

Representing Both Parties to a Lease Is Not Advised. It is impossible to see how there can be an effective waiver of a conflict of interest that would permit any attorney to represent both parties to a lease transaction even if that attorney's role was "limited" to drafting an already reached agreement. Any attorney who enters into such an arrangement is simply looking for major problems with either or both clients. It would be akin to representing both parties in a dissolution of marriage proceeding in which substantial interests were involved. By Benjamin Kaplan.

NOTE:

Provisions for the landlord's consultation and inspection should be included if the lease will provide for the "material participation" of the landlord in the farm operations. Material participation may be desirable for generating Social Security benefits or receiving favorable estate tax treatment [see § 37.13[3], [4]]. § 37.200 Cash Farm Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a cash farm lease. It should be used when the parties agree to have the payment of rent established at a specific periodic cash rate. For a farm lease based on a crop share rental, see § 37.201.

For a listing of the provisions that should be included in a cash farm lease, see §§ 37.140-37.149.

[b] Advantages of Cash Farm Lease

Although rent may be paid in the form of cash or crops [see Silveira v. Ohm (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 272, 275-276, 201 P.2d 387] , there may be instances when either or both parties to a farm lease may prefer to have the rent payment made on a periodic cash basis. If the landlord requires a fixed income sufficient to cover fixed expenses (for example, loan payments, taxes, and insurance), a cash farm lease providing for the periodic payment of a stipulated cash rental is often employed.

Cash farm leases may be desirable when the price stability of the crops to be grown on the leased premises is uncertain. Further, when the tenant's farming expertise is questionable and the landlord is unable to ensure that the tenant will comply with the best farming practices in the locale, a cash farm lease secures the landlord with a consistent income. The tenant may desire a cash farm lease when he or she believes that the yields and prices of the crops grown on the leased premises may be greater than the landlord anticipates, thereby increasing the percentage of the gross income that will go to the tenant.

[c] Holdover by Tenant

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2), in all cases of tenancy on agricultural lands, when the tenant has held over and retained possession for more than 60 days after expiration of the lease term, and the landlord has not made any demand for possession or given a notice to quit, the tenant is deemed to be holding by permission of the landlord for another full year under the terms of the lease, and is not subject to an unlawful detainer action during that time.

Agricultural leases sometimes contain a "holdover" provision specifying that a month-to-month tenancy will be created if the tenant remains in possession of the premises after expiration of the lease term. This form does not contain a holdover provision because it may conflict with the statutory rule of Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2) stated above. Although case law authorizes modification of other notice requirements of that section [see Folberg v. Clara G.R. Kinney Co. (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 136, 140, 163 Cal. Rptr. 426] , there is no authority permitting modification of the special requirement for agricultural leases, which by the langauge of the statute itself applies "[i]n all cases of tenancy upon agricultural lands" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)].

For a discussion of a form provision for the automatic renewal of a farm lease that may be included in this form, see § 37.201[1][d].

[d] Recording Lease

The tenant of a farm lease may want to record the lease or a memorandum of lease to impart constructive notice of its interest in the leased premises to all subsequent purchases and mortgagees of the property [see Civ. Code §§ 1213, 1214]. For a form and discussion of the requirements for recording a memorandum of lease, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.203.

FARM LEASE

Preamble

_____[Name(s)] (Landlord), [status, e.g., a California corporation or husband and wife or a single woman], _____[address or principal place of business in California], California, hereby leases to _____[name(s)] (Tenant), [status, e.g., a California corporation, or husband and wife, or a single woman], _____[address or principal place of business in California], California, the real property, "leased premises," in the County of _____, State of California, described as follows: [legal description

].

This lease is subject to the following terms and conditions.

Term of Lease

1. The term of this lease shall be for a period of _____ years, commencing on _____[date], and ending on _____[date].

Rent

2. As rental for the leased premises, Tenant agrees to pay to Landlord a total rent of $_____ per month [or other period], payable in cash or by certified check, money order, or any other form of payment acceptable to Landlord, without deduction or offset. Payment shall be made on the [e.g., first] day of each month [or other period], commencing _____[date], at _____ Street, _____, California, or any other place or places that may be designated by Landlord in a written notice to Tenant given in the manner prescribed in Paragraph 22 of this lease.

Use of Leased Premises

3. The leased premises are demised to Tenant for the following purposes and for no other purpose except with the prior written consent of Landlord:

(a) The planting, growing, and harvesting of agricultural crops, specifically crops of [specify, e.g., oats, wheat, barley, and other grain cereals];

(b) The feeding, pasturing, maintenance, and production of agricultural livestock, specifically [specify, e.g., beef cattle], not to exceed [number] head in total count; and

(c) The residence of Tenant and Tenant's family and any employees of Tenant engaged in farming activities on the leased premises.

Operations on Leased Premises

4. (a) Tenant shall carry on all of the activities specified under Paragraph 3 in accordance with good husbandry and the best practices of the farming community in which the leased premises are situated. If Tenant fails to take any required action or conduct any operation in accordance with the best course of husbandry practiced in the farming community surrounding the leased premises, Landlord may, after giving Tenant [number] days' written notice of the failure in the manner prescribed in Paragraph 22 of this lease, enter the leased premises and take any reasonable action Landlord may deem necessary to protect Landlord's interest in this lease and the leased premises. Tenant agrees to reimburse Landlord on demand for the cost of any reasonable actions taken by Landlord in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph.

(b) Tenant shall, at Tenant's cost and expense, comply with any and all laws, ordinances, rules, regulations, requirements, and orders present or future, of any federal, state, county, or municipal governments which may in any way apply to the use, maintenance, operations, or production of crops on the leased premises, or the sale or disposition of those crops.

(c) Tenant agrees not to apply pesticides, insecticides, fungicides, herbicides, or other chemical treatments that will have a residual effect beyond the term of this lease except with the prior written consent of Landlord.

Operating Costs

5. Tenant shall pay all costs in connection with Tenant's operations on the leased premises, including but not limited to costs of preparing the leased premises for planting of crops, production costs, costs of tools and labor, electricity and other utilities, and any tax or assessment imposed on the leased premises by the _____ Irrigation District for the provision of water required by Tenant.

Taxes and Assessments

6. Tenant shall pay, before delinquency, all personal property taxes or assessments levied on Tenant's personal property situated in or about the leased premises during the term of this lease. On demand, Tenant shall provide to Landlord satisfactory evidence of payment of taxes. Landlord shall be responsible for the payment of real property taxes or assessments levied on the leased premises.

Insurance

[If landlord is to maintain insurance on the property:]

7. Before the commencement of this lease, Landlord shall procure, and thereafter maintain, sufficient property and liability insurance coverage to protect Landlord and Tenant from public liability and property damage on the leased premises. Tenant shall not commit or permit the commission of any acts on the leased premises nor use or permit the use of the leased premises in any manner that will increase the existing rates for or cause the cancellation of any fire, liability, or other insurance policy insuring the leased premises, improvements, and crops on the leased premises. Tenant shall, at Tenant's own cost and expense, comply with any and all requirements of Landlord's insurance carriers necessary for the continued maintenance, at reasonable rates, of reasonable fire and liability insurance on the leased premises and crops thereon.

[Or, if tenant will provide insurance:]

7. Tenant shall, at all times during the term of this lease, maintain and keep in force insurance coverage with insurers approved by Landlord which will adequately protect both Tenant and Landlord against public liability and property damage on the leased premises. The minimum coverage required by this paragraph shall be $_____ bodily injury per individual, $_____ per occurrence, and $_____ property damage. Proof of the insurance coverage obtained by Tenant shall be given to Landlord within _____ days after execution of this lease. Any contract entered into by Tenant for insurance coverage on the leased premises shall include a provision requiring timely notice to Landlord in the event of cancellation of coverage by the insurer. Tenant is also responsible for any workers' compensation insurance required under state law.

Maintenance

8. Tenant shall, at Tenant's own expense, keep and maintain the leased premises, all improvements on the premises, and all facilities appurtenant to the leased premises, in good order and repair and in as safe and clean a condition as they were when received from Landlord, reasonable wear and tear excepted.

Waste or Nuisance

9. Tenant shall not commit, or permit others to commit, any waste on the leased premises. Tenant shall not maintain, commit, or permit the maintenance or commission of any nuisance as defined by California Civil Code Section 3479 on the leased premises. Tenant shall not use or permit the use of the leased premises for any unlawful purpose.

Alterations and Mechanics' Liens

10. (a) Tenant shall not make or permit any alterations or improvements to the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord. On termination or expiration of this lease, all improvements and alterations other than trade fixtures shall be the property of Landlord, and no reimbursement to Tenant shall be required. Tenant shall remove all trade fixtures placed by Tenant on the leased premises within _____ days after the expiration of this lease.

(b) Tenant shall keep the premises free and clear of any and all liens arising out of any work performed or materials furnished at the request of Tenant, or obligations incurred by Tenant.

Inspection by Landlord

11. Tenant shall permit Landlord or Landlord's agents, representatives, or employees to enter the leased premises at all reasonable times to determine whether Tenant is complying with the terms of this lease and for the purpose of doing other lawful acts that may be necessary to protect the Landlord's interest in the leased premises.

Acceptance by Tenant

12. Tenant accepts the leased premises, as well as the improvements on the premises and facilities appurtenant to the premises, in their present condition. Tenant agrees with, and represents to Landlord, that the leased premises have been inspected by him/her and that Tenant has been assured by means independent of Landlord or Landlord's agents of the truth of all facts material to this lease and that the leased premises are being leased by Tenant as a result of its inspection and investigation and not as a result of any representations made by Landlord or Landlord's agents.

Indemnification of Landlord

13. Throughout the term of this lease, Tenant shall indemnify and hold Landlord harmless from all damages, injuries, or claims arising in or about the leased premises or arising from Tenant's operations on the leased premises.

Assignment and Subleasing

14. Tenant shall not assign, transfer, or encumber this lease or any interest in this lease without the prior written consent of Landlord. Tenant shall not sublease all or any part of the leased premises or allow any persons other than Tenant's agents, family, or employees to occupy or use all or any part of the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord. Landlord's consent to one assignment, sublease, occupation, or use by another person shall not be deemed to be a consent to any subsequent assignment, sublease, occupation, or use by any other person. Any assignment or subleasing without the prior written consent of Landlord shall be void. The consent of Landlord to the assignment or subleasing of any interest in this lease by Tenant shall not be unreasonably withheld.

Default by Tenant

15. The occurrence of any of the following shall constitute a material default and breach of this lease by Tenant:

(a) Any failure by Tenant to pay the rent or to make any other payment required to be made by Tenant under this lease (when that failure continues for [number, e.g., 10 days] after written notice of the failure is given by Landlord to Tenant);

(b) The abandonment or vacation of the Premises by Tenant;

(c) A failure by Tenant to observe and perform any other provision of this lease to be observed or performed by Tenant, when that failure continues for [number, e.g., 30 days] after written notice of Tenant's failure is given by Landlord to Tenant; provided, however, that if the nature of that default is such that it cannot reasonably be cured within a [specify same time period for cure used above, e.g., 30-day] period, Tenant shall not be deemed to be in default if Tenant commences that cure within the [same time period for cure used above, e.g., 30-day] period and thereafter diligently prosecutes it to completion; or

(d) The making by Tenant of any general assignment for the benefit of creditors; the filing by or against Tenant of a petition to have Tenant adjudged a bankrupt or of a petition for reorganization or arrangement under any law relating to bankruptcy (unless, in the case of a petition filed against Tenant, it is dismissed within 60 days); the appointment of a trustee or receiver to take possession of substantially all of Tenant's assets located at the Premises or of Tenant's interest in this lease, when possession is not restored to Tenant within 30 days; or the attachment, execution, or other judicial seizure of substantially all of Tenant's assets located at the Premises or of Tenant's interest in this lease, when that seizure is not discharged within 30 days.

The notices provided for in subsections (a) through (c) of this paragraph are not intended to replace, but rather are in addition to, any required statutory notices for unlawful detainer proceedings under Code of Civil Procedure Section 1161 et seq.

Recovery of Damages on Tenant's Default

16. In the event of any default by Tenant under this lease, in addition to any other remedies available to Landlord at law or in equity, Landlord shall have the right to terminate this lease and all rights of Tenant under this lease by giving written notice of the termination. No act of Landlord shall be construed as terminating this lease except written notice given by Landlord to Tenant advising Tenant that Landlord elects to terminate the lease. In the event Landlord elects to terminate this lease, Landlord may recover from Tenant all of the following:

(a) The worth at the time of award of any unpaid rent that had been earned at the time of the lease's termination;

(b) The worth at the time of award of the amount by which the unpaid rent that would have been earned after the lease's termination until the time of award exceeds the amount of rental loss that Tenant proves could have been reasonably avoided;

(c) The worth at the time of award of the amount by which the unpaid rent for the balance of the term of this lease after the time of award exceeds the amount of rental loss that Tenant proves could be reasonably avoided; and

(d) Any other amount necessary to compensate Landlord for all detriment proximately caused by Tenant's failure to perform its obligations under this lease.

Landlord's Right to Continue Lease in Effect After Breach

17. If Tenant breaches this lease and abandons the Premises before the natural expiration of this lease's term, Landlord may continue this lease in effect by not terminating Tenant's right to possession of the Premises, in which event Landlord shall be entitled to enforce all its rights and remedies under this lease, including the right to recover the rent specified in this lease as it becomes due under this lease. For as long as Landlord does not terminate this lease, Tenant shall have the right to assign or sublease the Premises with the Landlord's prior written consent. Landlord shall not unreasonably withhold consent.

Condemnation

18. (a) If all or any part of the leased premises is taken by any public or quasi-public agency or entity under the power of eminent domain during the term of this lease,

(1) Either Landlord or Tenant may terminate this lease by giving the other _____ [number] days' written notice of termination; provided, however, that Tenant cannot terminate this lease unless the portion of the leased premises taken by eminent domain is so extensive as to render the remainder of the premises useless for the uses permitted by this lease; and

(2) If only a portion of the leased premises is taken by eminent domain and neither Landlord nor Tenant terminates this lease, the rent thereafter payable under this lease shall be reduced by the same percentage that the total acres of the portion taken by eminent domain bears to the total acreage of the leased premises.

(b) Any and all damages and compensation awarded or paid because of a taking of the leased premises shall belong to Landlord, and Tenant shall have no claim against Landlord or the entity exercising eminent domain power for the value of the unexpired term of this lease or any other right arising from this lease.

Oil, Gas, and Mineral Rights

19. All rights in any and all minerals, oil, gas, and other hydrocarbons located on or under the leased premises are reserved to Landlord and are particularly excepted from the property covered by the terms of this lease. Tenant hereby grants to Landlord, Landlord's agents and licensees, and tenants of these rights, a right of entry and right of way for access to the leased premises for the exploration, drilling, and mining of minerals, gas, oil, and other hydrocarbons on or under the leased premises. Landlord, however, shall reimburse Tenant for any interference with the quiet enjoyment or agricultural operations on the leased premises arising from exploration, drilling, or mining operations performed by Landlord, Landlord's agents and licensees, and tenants of these rights.

Hunting Rights

20. All of the hunting rights and privileges on the leased premises are reserved to Landlord. Tenant agrees that he/she will not permit any hunting on the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord.

Attorneys' Fees

21. If any litigation is commenced between the parties to this lease concerning the Premises, this lease, or the rights and duties of either in relation to the Premises or to this lease, the party prevailing in that litigation shall be entitled to, in addition to any other relief that may be granted in the litigation, a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in that litigation that are determined by the court in that litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Notices

22. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served and given when personally delivered to [any member of or the designated agent of] the party to whom they are directed, or in lieu of personal service when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Tenant at _____ Street, _____, CA [zip code], or to Landlord at _____ Street, _____, CA [zip code]. Either party may change its address for the purpose of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this paragraph.

Binding on Heirs and Successors

23. This lease and each of its provisions shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of the respective heirs, devisees, legatees, executors, administrators, trustees, successors, and assigns of the parties to this lease. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall be construed as a consent by Landlord to any assignment of this lease or any interest in this lease by Tenant except as provided in Paragraph 14 of this lease.

Time of Essence

24. Time is of the essence of this lease and of each provision contained within, and each provision is made and declared to be a material, necessary, and essential part of this lease.

Sole and Only Agreement

25. This instrument constitutes the sole and only agreement between Landlord and Tenant respecting the Premises, the leasing of the Premises to Tenant, or the lease term created under this lease, and correctly sets forth the obligations of Landlord and Tenant to each other as of its date. Any agreements or representations respecting the Premises or their leasing by Landlord to Tenant not expressly set forth in this instrument are null and void. This lease may not be extended, amended, modified, altered, or changed, except in a writing signed by Landlord and Tenant.

Effect of Partial Invalidity

26. If any term or provision of this lease or any application of this lease shall be held invalid or unenforceable, the remainder of this lease and any application of the terms and provisions shall remain valid and enforceable under this lease or California law.

Governing Law

27. This agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

Waiver

28. The waiver by Landlord of any breach by Tenant of any of the provisions of this lease shall not constitute a continuing waiver or a waiver of any subsequent breach by Tenant either of the same or of another provision of this lease.

CHAPTER 37 FARM LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Complete Farm Lease Forms

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.201

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.201 Crop Share Farm Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a complete crop share farm lease. It should be used when the rental rate will be based on a division of the gross income of the farming operation, whether the division is in crops or their cash proceeds. For a farm lease based on a fixed cash rental, see § 37.200.

[b] Terms in Crop Share Lease

The crop share lease form in [2], below, includes several provisions that should be given careful consideration by the drafting attorney. It includes provisions for all of the following:

- The automatic renewal of the lease term for succeeding and consecutive one-year terms until either party gives notice of termination [see [2], P 2, below; see also [d], below];

- That the landlord and tenant will own the crops grown on the demised premises as co-tenants [see [2], P 5, below; see also [e], below]; and

- The division of expenses incurred in the production of crops [see [2], PP 8, 9, below].

Also included is a provision making the landlord a material participant in the operations of the farm [see [2], P 11, below; see also [f], below].

For a detailed listing of the provisions that should be included in a crop share farm lease, see §§ 37.140-37.149.

[c] Advantages of Crop Share Farm Lease

Rent is defined as the compensation paid for the use of land. Cash payment is not required; chattels or products of the soil will suffice [Clarke and Cain v. Cobb (1898) 121 Cal. 595, 597, 54 P. 74] . Crop share rental leases are unique to the field of agriculture, but are similar to the more commonly encountered commercial percentage lease [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.200[1][e], for discussion of percentage rent in commercial leases]. Crop share leases, like commercial percentage leases, protect the tenant from declining prices, demand, and production, while allowing the landlord to participate in the success of the tenant's operations.

The crop share lease allows the parties to share the risk of a total crop failure due to unforeseen circumstances. It also serves as an incentive to the landlord to make capital improvements on the demised premises that may result in increased crop production benefiting both tenant and landlord.

[d] Automatic Renewal of Lease Term

[i] Agricultural Leases Limited to 51 Years

The lease form in [2], below, includes a provision for the automatic renewal of the lease for consecutive one-year periods after the expiration of the initial lease term unless notification of termination is provided by either party [see [2], P 2, below].

Under Civ. Code § 717, a lease of agricultural lands is not valid if drafted for a term exceeding 51 years. California courts are divided on whether lease provisions for automatic renewal violate the 51-year limit. One case, relying on out-of-state decisions, held that options for renewal are in the nature of a present demise, including the renewal periods, and that although the current term is enforceable, a renewal provision for a term or terms in excess of the statutory limitation is invalid [see Erickson v. Boothe (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 266, 272-274, 179 P.2d 611] . A later case, however, held that until the option to renew is exercised, the tenant has only a contractual right to extend the lease, and not an estate beyond the original lease term. The lease and its renewal option provision were upheld as a valid agreement [Klepper v. Hoover (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 460, 463-465, 98 Cal. Rptr. 482] . The court in the latter case refused to follow the reasoning of the earlier decision, citing a lack of California authority for it and concluding that the earlier court had adopted the "present demise" theory only because it enabled the court to reach an equitable result under the facts of that particular case [see Klepper v. Hoover (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 460, 465, 98 Cal. Rptr. 482] . In any event, a lease in excess of a statutory period is not void except as to the excess [Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 576 n.9, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] .

To preclude any possibility that the lease might be voided under Civ. Code § 717, a provision for automatic renewal should limit the maximum term, including renewals, to 51 years.

[ii] Holdover Tenants Subject to Action for Unlawful Detainer

Absent a provision for automatic renewal, a tenant holding over past the expiration of the lease term would be subject to an action for unlawful detainer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. However, even without an automatic renewal provision, a tenant of agricultural lands who holds over for more than 60 days without any demand of possession or notice to quit by the landlord is entitled to remain in possession for another full year [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. For further discussion of the statutory renewal on holdover by a tenant on agricultural lands, see § 37.200[1][c].

[e] Ownership of Crops

When a relationship of landlord and tenant exists, the title to the crops grown on the leased premises is held by the tenant, and not by both parties as tenants in common. The fact that the rent payable is on a crop share basis does not alter tenant's title [Cox v. Miller (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 494, 498, 59 P.2d 628] . However, by the terms of a lease agreement, the parties may be made cotenants in the crops grown [see Woodsend v. Chatom (1923) 191 Cal. 72, 76, 214 P. 965] . The landlord-tenant relationship of the parties does not preclude creation of a cotenancy in the crops, as long as the intention to create the cotenancy is evidenced by the lease agreement [see Clarke and Cain v. Cobb (1898) 121 Cal. 595, 597, 54 P. 74] .

The form in [2], below, contains a provision making the landlord and tenant tenants in common in the crops grown on the premises [see [2], P 5, below]. The provision states that the landlord's title to the crops vests at the time of planting and that it is equal to the share of rent payable under the lease. By this provision, the landlord reserves title to its rental share of the crop and binds the parties to the lease and all others having notice of the reservation of title in the crops [Cox v. Miller (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 494, 498-499, 59 P.2d 628] . To protect the landlord's interest in the crops to be planted and grown on the leased premises from possible claims of the tenant's creditors, the lease or a memorandum of lease should be recorded [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.203].

[f] Material Participation by Landlord

Crop share leases may provide for the "material participation" of the landlord [see [2], PP 9, 11, below]. If the landlord is materially participating in the farm operations on the leased premises, issues of Social Security benefits, self-employment income, and estate taxation become important. For a discussion of these areas, see § 37.13[3], [4].

"Material participation" generally will be found if the landlord periodically advises or consults with the tenant regarding production of the crop, periodically inspects the production activities on the land [see [2], P 11, below], and furnishes a substantial portion of the machinery or implements used in production, advances funds, or assumes financial responsibility for a substantial portion of the production expenses [see Rev. Rul. 57-58, 1957-1 C.B. 270 ; see also [2], P 9, below]. The making of management decisions by the landlord has been held to constitute "material participation" in the management of the production of agricultural products [Conley v. Ribicoff (9th Cir. 1961) 294 F.2d 190, 193, 195 ; see also Treas. Reg. § 1.1402(a)(4) ("actual participation to a material degree" defined)].

[g] Arbitration Provision

This form sets forth a provision for the arbitration of any disputes relating to the lease's provisions [see [2], P 41, below]. A written agreement to submit a controversy to arbitration is a binding and enforceable contract [Code Civ. Proc. § 1281]. The provision in this lease form calls for any arbitration entered into under this lease to be conducted in compliance with the statutory scheme for arbitration contained in the California Arbitration Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2]. If the lease includes an option to purchase, certain additional requirements will generally be required for the arbitration provision [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.280 for discussion of these requirements].

A crop share lease contains many elements that may lead to subjective disagreements between the parties. Examples of these issues include the following:

- What constitutes the best farming practices and good husbandry [see [2], P 10, below];
- What constitutes proper preparation and delivery of crop shares [see [2], PP 6, 7, below]; and
- What additional crops, if any, may be grown [see [2], P 8(a), below].

Disputes relating to these issues can be settled quickly and with minimal expense by a panel of arbitrators familiar with agricultural practices [see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.250].

This lease is subject to the following terms and conditions.

Term of Lease

1. The term of this lease shall be for a period of _____ years, commencing on _____[date], and ending on _____[date].

Automatic Renewal

2. Under no circumstances, however, shall the initial term and any subsequent renewal periods extend beyond a total lease term of 51 years. The notice required by this paragraph shall be made in the manner prescribed in Paragraph 33 of this lease.

Use of Leased Premises

3. The leased premises are demised to Tenant for the following purposes and for no other purpose except with the prior written consent of Landlord:

extensions of this lease.

5. Crops planted, cultivated, and grown in accordance with Paragraph 3 of this lease on the leased premises during the term of this lease or any renewals or extensions of this lease shall be owned by Landlord and Tenant as tenants in common, before the actual physical division and removal from the leased premises. (d) Replace or repair any dwelling or permanent improvement now located on the leased premises that may be damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, tornado, or any other cause not the fault and beyond the control of Tenant.

Operations on Leased Premises

10. (a) Tenant shall carry on all of Tenant's activities specified under Paragraph 3 in accordance with good husbandry and the best practices of the farming community in which the leased premises are situated. Should Tenant fail to take any action required by the best course of husbandry practiced in the farming community surrounding the leased premises, or should Tenant fail to conduct any operation undertaken by Tenant on the leased premises in accordance with the best course of husbandry practiced in the farming community surrounding the leased premises, Landlord may, after serving _____ days' written notice of the failure on Tenant in the manner prescribed in Paragraph 33 of this lease, enter the leased premises and take any reasonable action Landlord may deem necessary to protect Landlord's interest in this lease and the leased premises. Tenant agrees to reimburse Landlord on demand for the cost of any reasonable actions taken by Landlord in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph;

(b) Tenant shall, at Tenant's cost and expense, comply with any and all present or future laws, ordinances, rules, regulations, requirements, and orders of federal, state, county, or municipal governments that may in any way apply to the use, maintenance, operations, or production of crops on the leased premises, or the sale or disposition of those crops; and

11. In addition to any other duties imposed on Landlord under the provisions of this lease, Landlord or Landlord's designated agent or employee shall consult with Tenant on a [specify periodic basis, e.g., weekly or bimonthly] basis regarding the maintenance and operation of the leased premises. Landlord or Landlord's designated agent or employee shall inspect the operations of Tenant on the leased premises on a [specify periodic basis, e.g., weekly or bimonthly] basis to assure that Tenant is operating the farm in accordance with the provisions of this lease and the best course of husbandry practiced in the farming community surrounding the leased premises.

[Continue with the following:]

Crop on Levee

12. Tenant shall not plant, cultivate, or grow any crop or crops on any levee or levees located on or adjacent to the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord. Should Landlord consent to the planting, growing, or cultivation of any crop on any levee, Tenant will do nothing in planting, cultivating, or growing the crop that might weaken or impair the strength of the levee. Any consent given by Landlord for the growing of any crop by Tenant on a levee may be withdrawn at any time by Landlord without liability to Landlord if Landlord has reasonably determined the strength of the levee is endangered thereby.

Weeds and Pests

13. Tenant shall prevent noxious weeds from going to seed on the leased premises, destroy them, and keep the weeds and grass cut. Tenant shall make and keep all levees on or abutting the leased premises free and clear of all growth of any kind, except as may be allowed under Paragraph 12 of this lease. Tenant shall make and keep the leased premises free and clear of all rats, gophers, squirrels, and other pests.

Disease or Blight

14. Should any disease or blight of any character appear on the leased premises or in or on any crop growing or grown on the leased premises, Tenant, at Tenant's own cost and expense, shall do both of the following:

(a) Employ the best known methods for eradicating the disease or blight; and

Tenant shall not use or permit the use of the leased premises for any unlawful purpose.

Insurance

[If landlord is to maintain insurance on the property:]

16. Before the commencement of this lease, Landlord shall procure, and thereafter maintain, sufficient property and liability insurance coverage to protect Landlord and Tenant from public liability and property damage on the leased premises. Tenant shall not commit or permit the commission of any acts on the leased premises, nor use or permit the use of the leased premises in any manner that will increase the existing rates for or cause the cancellation of any fire, liability, or other insurance policy insuring the leased premises, improvements, and crops on the leased premises. Tenant shall, at Tenant's own cost and expense, comply with any and all requirements of Landlord's insurance carriers necessary for the continued maintenance, at reasonable rates, of reasonable fire and liability insurance on the leased premises and crops thereon.

[Or, if tenant will provide insurance:]

16. Tenant shall, at all times during the term of this lease, maintain and keep in force insurance coverage with insurers approved by Landlord that will adequately protect both Tenant and Landlord against public liability and property damage on the leased premises. The minimum coverage required by this paragraph shall be $_____ bodily injury per individual, $_____ per occurrence, and $_____ property damage. Proof of the insurance coverage obtained by Tenant must be given to Landlord within _____ days after execution of this lease. Tenant is also responsible for any workers' compensation insurance required under state law.

Crop Insurance

17. Tenant, at Tenant's own cost and expense, shall insure for their full insurable value, through insurance policies issued by companies approved by Landlord, any crops specified in Paragraph 3 of this lease grown on the leased premises, against damage or destruction by [specify calamity or calamities, e.g., fire, hail, windstorms, tornadoes, and explosions]. The losses recoverable under any policy issued in accordance with this paragraph shall be payable to Landlord and Tenant according to their respective interests in the crop as specified in Paragraph 4 of this lease.

Maintenance

18. Tenant, at Tenant's own expense, shall keep and maintain the leased premises, all improvements, and all facilities appurtenant to the leased premises, in good order and repair and in as safe and clean a condition as they were when received from Landlord, reasonable wear and tear excepted.

Alterations and Mechanics' Liens

19. (a) Tenant shall not make or permit any alterations or improvements to the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord. On termination or expiration of this lease, all improvements and alterations other than trade fixtures shall be the property of Landlord, and no reimbursement to Tenant shall be required. Tenant shall remove all trade fixtures placed by Tenant on the leased premises within _____ days after the expiration of this lease.

(b) Tenant shall keep the premises free and clear of any and all liens arising out of any work performed or materials furnished at the request of Tenant, or obligations incurred by Tenant.

Inspection by Landlord

20. Tenant shall permit Landlord or Landlord's agents, representatives, or employees to enter the leased premises at all reasonable times to determine whether Tenant is complying with the terms of this lease and for the purpose of doing other lawful acts that may be necessary to protect the Landlord's interest in the leased premises.

Acceptance by Tenant

21. Tenant accepts the leased premises, as well as the improvements on the premises and facilities appurtenant to the premises, in their present condition. Tenant agrees with, and represents to Landlord, that the leased premises have been inspected by it and that Tenant has been assured by means independent of Landlord or Landlord's agents of the truth of all facts material to this lease and that the leased premises are being leased by Tenant as a result of its inspection and investigation and not as a result of any representations made by Landlord or Landlord's agents.

Indemnification of Landlord

22. Tenant, throughout the term of this lease, shall indemnify and hold Landlord harmless from all damages, injuries, or claims arising in or about the leased premises or arising from Tenant's operations on the leased premises.

Assignment and Subleasing

23. Tenant shall not assign, transfer, or encumber this lease or any interest in this lease without the prior written consent of Landlord. Tenant shall not sublease all or any part of the leased premises or allow any persons other than Tenant's agents, family, or employees, to occupy or use all or any part of the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord. Landlord's consent to one assignment, sublease, occupation, or use by another person shall not be deemed to be a consent to any subsequent assignment, sublease, occupation, or use by any other person. Any assignment or subleasing without the prior written consent of Landlord shall be void. The consent of Landlord to the assignment or subleasing of any interest in this lease by Tenant shall not be unreasonably withheld.

Death or Incapacity of Tenant

24. Should Tenant die or become permanently incapacitated for any reason from performing Tenant's duties under this lease before the time any crop planted by Tenant on the leased premises has been fully harvested, Landlord, at Landlord's option, may (1) re-enter and take possession of the leased premises; (2) cause the crop to be properly cultivated, grown, and harvested in a manner consistent with good farming practice and husbandry; (3) sell the crop for the best price reasonably obtainable at the time of the harvest; and (4) divide the proceeds from the sale of the crop, after reimbursing Landlord for any costs or expenses incurred by it in performing the provisions of this paragraph, between Landlord and the estate of Tenant according to the respective interests of both parties in the crop provided under Paragraph 4 of this lease. Tenant shall become permanently incapacitated within the meaning of this paragraph if Tenant is adjudged incompetent in a proceeding to have a guardian or conservator appointed for Tenant or if, in the opinion of three qualified physicians who have examined Tenant, it is impossible or dangerous to continue to perform Tenant's duties under this lease.

Default by Tenant

25. The occurrence of any of the following shall constitute a material default and breach of this lease by Tenant:

(a) Any failure by Tenant to pay the rent or to make any other payment required to be made by Tenant under this lease (when that failure continues for [number, e.g., 10 days] after written notice of the failure is given by Landlord to Tenant);

(b) The abandonment or vacation of the Premises by Tenant;

(c) A failure by Tenant to observe and perform any other provision of this lease to be observed or performed by Tenant, when that failure continues for [number, e.g., 30 days] after written notice of Tenant's failure is given by Landlord to Tenant; provided, however, that if the nature of that default is such that it cannot reasonably be cured within a [specify same time period for cure used above, e.g., 30-day] period, Tenant shall not be deemed to be in default if Tenant commences that cure within the [same time period for cure used above, e.g., 30-day] period and thereafter diligently prosecutes it to completion; or

(d) The making by Tenant of any general assignment for the benefit of creditors; the filing by or against Tenant of a petition to have Tenant adjudged a bankrupt or of a petition for reorganization or arrangement under any law relating to bankruptcy (unless, in the case of a petition filed against Tenant, it is dismissed within 60 days); the appointment of a trustee or receiver to take possession of substantially all of Tenant's assets located at the Premises or of Tenant's interest in this lease, when possession is not restored to Tenant within 30 days; or the attachment, execution, or other judicial seizure of substantially all of Tenant's assets located at the Premises or of Tenant's interest in this lease, when that seizure is not discharged within 30 days.

The notices provided for in subsections (a) through (c) of this paragraph are not intended to replace, but rather are in addition to, any required statutory notices for unlawful detainer proceedings under Code of Civil Procedure Section 1161 et seq.

Recovery of Damages on Tenant's Default

26. In the event of any default by Tenant under this lease, in addition to any other remedies available to Landlord at law or in equity, Landlord shall have the right to terminate this lease and all rights of Tenant under this lease by giving written notice of the termination. No act of Landlord shall be construed as terminating this lease except written notice given by Landlord to Tenant advising Tenant that Landlord elects to terminate the lease. In the event Landlord elects to terminate this lease, Landlord may recover from Tenant all of the following:

(a) The worth at the time of award of any unpaid rent that had been earned at the time of the lease's termination;

(b) The worth at the time of award of the amount by which the unpaid rent that would have been earned after the lease's termination until the time of award exceeds the amount of rental loss that Tenant proves could have been reasonably avoided;

(c) The worth at the time of award of the amount by which the unpaid rent for the balance of the term of this lease after the time of award exceeds the amount of rental loss that Tenant proves could be reasonably avoided; and

(d) Any other amount necessary to compensate Landlord for all detriment proximately caused by Tenant's failure to perform its obligations under this lease.

Landlord's Right to Continue Lease in Effect After Breach

27. If Tenant breaches this lease and abandons the Premises before the natural expiration of this lease's term, Landlord may continue this lease in effect by not terminating Tenant's right to possession of the Premises, in which event Landlord shall be entitled to enforce all its rights and remedies under this lease, including the right to recover the rent specified in this lease as it becomes due under this lease. For as long as Landlord does not terminate this lease, Tenant shall have the right to assign or sublease the Premises with the Landlord's prior written consent. Landlord shall not unreasonably withhold consent.

Force Majeure Clause

28. Should the performance of the obligations of either party under this lease be prevented or delayed by an act of God, war, civil insurrection, fire, flood, storm, strikes, lockouts, or by any law, regulation, or order of any federal, state, county, or municipal authority, or by any other cause beyond the control of the party to be excused, that party's performance under this lease, to the extent it is prevented or delayed, shall be excused.

Condemnation

29. (a) If all or any part of the leased premises is taken by any public or quasi-public agency or entity under the power of eminent domain during the term of this lease,

(1) Either Landlord or Tenant may terminate this lease by giving the other _____ [number] days' written notice of termination; provided, however, that Tenant may not terminate this lease unless the portion of the leased premises taken by eminent domain is so extensive as to render the remainder of the premises useless for the uses permitted by this lease; and

(2) If only a portion of the leased premises is taken by eminent domain and neither Landlord nor Tenant terminates this lease, the rent thereafter payable under this lease shall be reduced by the same percentage that the total acres of the portion taken by eminent domain bears to the total acreage of the leased premises.

(b) Any and all damages and compensation awarded or paid because of a taking of the leased premises shall belong to Landlord, and Tenant shall have no claim against Landlord or the entity exercising eminent domain power for the value of the unexpired term of this lease or any other right arising from this lease.

Oil, Gas, and Mineral Rights

30. All rights in any and all minerals, oil, gas, and other hydrocarbons located on or under the leased premises are reserved to Landlord and are particularly excepted from the property covered by the terms of this lease. Tenant hereby grants to Landlord, Landlord's agents and licensees, and tenants of these rights, a right of entry and right of way for access to the leased premises for the exploration, drilling, and mining of minerals, gas, oil, and other hydrocarbons on or under the leased premises. Landlord, however, shall reimburse Tenant for any interference with the quiet enjoyment or agricultural operations on the leased premises arising from exploration, drilling, or mining operations performed by Landlord, Landlord's agents and licensees, and tenants of these rights.

Hunting Rights

31. All of the hunting rights and privileges on the leased premises are reserved to Landlord. Tenant agrees that Tenant will not permit any hunting on the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord.

Attorneys' Fees

32. If any litigation is commenced between the parties to this lease concerning the Premises, this lease, or the rights and duties of either in relation to the Premises or to this lease, the party prevailing in that litigation shall be entitled to, in addition to any other relief that may be granted in the litigation, a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in that litigation that are determined by the court in that litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Notices

33. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served and given when personally delivered to [any member of or the designated agent of] the party to whom they are directed, or in lieu of personal service when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Tenant at _____ Street, _____, CA [zip code] or to Landlord at _____ Street, _____, CA [zip code]. Either party may change its address for the purpose of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this paragraph.

Binding on Heirs and Successors

34. This lease and each of its provisions shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of the respective heirs, devisees, legatees, executors, administrators, trustees, successors and assigns of the parties to this lease. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall be construed as a consent by Landlord to any assignment of this lease or any interest in this lease by Tenant except as provided in Paragraph 23 of this lease.

Time of Essence

35. Time is of the essence of this lease and of each provision contained within, and each provision is made and declared to be a material, necessary, and essential part of this lease.

Sole and Only Agreement

36. This instrument constitutes the sole and only agreement between Landlord and Tenant respecting the Premises, the leasing of the Premises to Tenant, or the lease term created under this lease, and correctly sets forth the obligations of Landlord and Tenant to each other as of its date. Any agreements or representations respecting the Premises or their leasing by Landlord to Tenant not expressly set forth in this instrument are null and void. This lease may not be extended, amended, modified, altered, or changed, except in a writing signed by Landlord and Tenant.

Effect of Partial Invalidity

37. If any term or provision of this lease or any application of this lease shall be held invalid or unenforceable, the remainder of this lease and any application of the terms and provisions shall remain valid and enforceable under this lease or California law.

Governing Law

38. This agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

Waiver

39. The waiver by Landlord of any breach by Tenant of any of the provisions of this lease shall not constitute a continuing waiver or a waiver of any subsequent breach by Tenant either of the same or of another provision of this lease.

No Partnership

40. Nothing contained in this lease shall create a partnership, joint venture, or employment relationship between Landlord and Tenant. Neither Landlord nor Tenant shall be liable, except as otherwise expressly provided for in this lease, for any obligations or liabilities incurred by the other.

Arbitration

41. Any dispute that arises between Landlord and Tenant relating to the provisions of this lease shall be submitted to arbitration on application by either party. The arbitration panel shall consist of three persons, one each appointed by Landlord and Tenant, and the third shall be jointly appointed by the appointees of Landlord and Tenant. The arbitration shall be conducted in compliance with Code of Civil Procedure Sections 1280-1294.2 relating to arbitration. The cost of the arbitration shall be divided evenly between Landlord and Tenant.

CHAPTER 37 FARM LEASES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Complete Farm Lease Forms

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.202

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.202 Livestock Lease for Annual Grasslands

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a lease that may be used by parties entering into an agreement for the grazing of livestock on annual grasslands. It includes several alternative provisions illustrating different methods for payment of rent [see [b], below]. When the parties contemplate an agreement under which the tenant will plant, grow, and harvest crops as supplemental feed, and reside on the leased premises, use the provisions in § 37.210[2].

[b] Method of Calculating Rent

[i] Customary Practices

The parties must determine the method of rental by which the leased premises will be demised. A number of methods are in use and local practices should be considered when the determination is made. For assistance in determining the prevailing local rental rates or in selecting the proper method for determining the rent payable, county farm commissioners and independent farm advisors may be consulted. Possible methods of calculating rent include the following:

- Per-acre charges [see [ii], below];
- Per-head charges [see [iii], below]; and
- The "share of gain" method [see [iv], below].

[ii] Per-Acre Charges

Per-acre charges [see [2], P 2 (first alternative), below] vary with the productivity of the leased premises and the conditions of the lease. The parties must agree on the number and type of animals to be stocked, and the time of use (for example, month, season, year) to avoid overgrazing. Under this method, the landlord receives the same return per year based on an average range forage production, and the tenant assumes the risk of a diminished range forage production due to drought or other detrimental condition.

[iii] Per-Head Charges

Per-head charges [see [2], P 2 (second alternative), below] for a month or season vary with the type of livestock grazed--cows and calves, stocker cattle, replacement heifers, sheep, or horses. Under this method, the landlord assumes a portion of the risk of diminished range forage production but has greater control of the number of livestock grazed on the leased premises.

[iv] Share-of-Gain Method

The "share of gain" method [see [2], P 2 (third alternative), below] applies to seasonally grazed, weight-gaining animals such as stocker cattle, replacement heifers, and lambs. Rent charges under this method may consist of a pre-established charge per pound of weight gain (for example, $0.25) or a share of the total weight gain (40-60 percent) for the predetermined grazing period. Animals are weighed before and after the grazing period, with the difference being the weight gain.

[c] Lease Agreement Conditions

This lease is similar to that of the other common farm leases illustrated in this chapter [see §§ 37.200, 37.201] and should include those provisions that are required in all real property leases [see § 37.12]. In addition, there are a number of special provisions that may be appropriate, depending on the circumstances. These include provisions governing acceptable grazing levels [see [2], P 3, below], health of the livestock [see [2], P 10, below], and the manner of weighing the stock when weight is a factor in determining the rent [see [2], P 11, below].

For a discussion of a provision governing the automatic renewal of a farm lease for a period not to exceed the statutory limitation that may be included here, see § 37.201[1][d]. For a discussion of holdover tenants on agricultural lands, see § 37.200[1][c].

(b) Any and all damages and compensation awarded or paid because of a taking of the leased premises shall belong to Landlord, and Tenant shall have no claim against Landlord or the entity exercising eminent domain power for the value of the unexpired term of this lease or any other right arising from this lease.

Oil, Gas, and Mineral Rights

21. Landlord, however, shall reimburse Tenant for any interference with the quiet enjoyment or agricultural operations on the leased premises arising from exploration, drilling, or mining operations performed by Landlord, Landlord's agents and licensees, and tenants of these rights.

Notices

24. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served and given when personally delivered to [any member of or the designated agent of] the party to whom they are directed, or in lieu of personal service when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Tenant at _____ Street, _____, CA [zip code] or to Landlord at _____ Street, _____, CA [zip code]. 26. Time is of the essence of this lease and of each provision contained within, and each provision is made and declared to be a material, necessary, and essential part of this lease.

Sole and Only Agreement

27. This instrument constitutes the sole and only agreement between Landlord and Tenant respecting the Premises, the leasing of the Premises to Tenant, or the lease term created under this lease, and correctly sets forth the obligations of Landlord and Tenant to each other as of its date. Any agreements or representations respecting the Premises or their leasing by Landlord to Tenant not expressly set forth in this instrument are null and void. This lease may not be extended, amended, modified, altered, or changed, except in a writing signed by Landlord and Tenant.

§ 37.210 Livestock Share Farm Lease Provisions

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, consists of lease provisions to be used when the primary operation on the leased premises will be the production of livestock and rental payment is to be made based on a percentage of the gross income of the operation. This form is designed to be substituted for Paragraphs 3-9 of § 37.201[2] (crop share farm lease).

These provisions limit the number of livestock that may be raised, and describe the crops that may be grown on the premises. Unlike the crop share lease arrangement [see § 37.201[2], P 3], crops are limited to those necessary for supplemental feeding of livestock and grains and vegetables raised for the personal consumption of the tenant and the tenant's family.

This form contains two alternative methods for payment of rent. One provides for payment of a share of the actual livestock raised on the leased premises, while the other provides for cash payment of a share from the proceeds of the sale [see [2], PP 4, 6, below].

When the parties contemplate an agreement in which the tenant will only be grazing livestock on annual grasslands, § 37.202[2] (livestock lease for annual grasslands) should be used.

B. Alternative Farm Lease Provisions

18-37 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 37.211

AUTHOR: Linda Breen Pierce Benjamin Kaplan Myron Moskovitz Practice Consultants

§ 37.211 Variable Rent for Cash Farm Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a variable rent provision for use in a cash farm lease [see § 37.200[2]]. It should be used when the parties agree to have the rent calculated according to the current market price for the crops grown on the leased premises, rather than at a fixed rental rate. When used, this provision should be substituted for Paragraph 2 of § 37.200[2] (Cash Farm Lease).

[b] Purpose and Effect of Variable Rent

Under a variable rent arrangement, the rent payable for the leased premises is made to vary according to either the price received for the crops grown, yield per acre of the crops grown, or income derived from the leased premises. The effect of this type of arrangement is that the parties to the lease share the risk of an increase or decrease in the price of the crops grown on the leased premises in proportion to the rise or fall in the income received from those crops. Variable rent provisions allow the rental rate to go up or down as the prices of the crops grown on the leased premises fluctuate, and reflect crop income more realistically.

Payment shall be made on the [e.g., first] day of each month and shall consist of one twelfth of the adjusted annual amount, commencing _____[date], at _____ Street, _____, California, or other place or places as may be designated by Landlord in a written notice given to Tenant in the manner prescribed in Paragraph _____ of this lease.

§ 37.220 Farm Lease Worksheet

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a worksheet for use in computing an equitable rent payable under a farm lease. The worksheet was originally published in a pamphlet written by Professors Reed and Snyder, What You Should Know About Farm Leases, Leaflet No. 2361 (University of California Coop. Extension 1973). The publication, however, has been discontinued and no replacements, updates, or substitutes are available.

PRACTICE TIP:

Getting in Touch With the University of California Cooperative Extension. Cooperative Extension publications are distributed by the University of California's Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources. The address, telephone number, and e-mail address of the Cooperative Extension are as follows:

University of California
ANR Communication Services
6701 San Pablo Ave.
Oakland, CA 94608-1239

Telephone: (800) 994-8849
E-mail: www.danrcs.ucdavis.edu

The ultimate objective of a farm lease is the production of income. The land alone, however, does not produce income. The lessee/farmer bears the expenses of planting, harvesting, and sacking the crop, and is entitled to reasonable wages for its skill, industry, and management in operating the farm [see Edgar v. Bank of America (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 827, 836, 123 P.2d 885] . Cash payment is not required; chattels or products of the soil will suffice [Clarke and Cain v. Cobb (1898) 121 Cal. 595, 597, 54 P. 74] .

The method for determining rent under this farm lease worksheet is based on the assumption that an equitable rent is one under which the landlord and the tenant share gross income in the same proportion as they contribute to the cost of production. This worksheet is one method by which the costs of production contributed by both lessor and lessee can be calculated. By determining the proportionate contributions of the lessor and lessee toward the production of farm income, the worksheet determines the percentage of farm income that should be paid to the lessor in rent.

PRACTICE TIP:

Be Aware of Customary Rental Rates in Your Locale. Attorneys engaged in rent negotiations should be aware of customary rental rates in the farm locale that may serve as a basis for establishing current rental rates. However, customary rates should be reappraised by the use of this form, or another method, to reflect economic and technological changes. Assistance in determining the customary rate can be obtained through the county farm advisor at the Cooperative Extension.

§ 38.10 Types of Property Warranting Professional Management

Any type of income-producing property may be the subject of real property management. The bulk of professionally managed property consists of residential, commercial, and industrial properties. Residential properties include all types of dwellings--single-family, apartment complexes, duplexes, condominiums, and public housing. Commercial properties include office buildings and complexes and retail establishments, ranging from large regional shopping centers to small neighborhood or strip shopping centers. Factories, warehouses, and industrial parks are all types of industrial property.

Properties that do not necessarily fall into one of the above property classifications, but that are often professionally managed, encompass a wide variety of special-use properties. These include hotels, motels, mobilehome parks, self-storage facilities, and resort properties. Agricultural property is another type of property that may be the subject of professional management. For example, the owner of agricultural property may hire a property manager to operate a particular agricultural enterprise, such as a farm, ranch, orchard, or vineyard [see § 38.225 (agricultural property management agreement)].

While a property manager's specific duties vary depending on the type of property managed, the principles applicable to property management, property managers, and agreements between owners and managers discussed in this chapter are common to all income-producing property.

§ 38.11 Goals and Duties of Property Manager

A property manager must control and supervise the day-to-day operation and maintenance of real property. Further, the manager must strive to maximize the owner's net income from the property. Maximization of income necessarily requires a diligent monitoring of expenses. The manager must also preserve and maintain the physical condition of the property and provide present and prospective tenants with the level of service needed to assure maximum occupancy.

A property manager may contract to perform any of a wide range of duties. These duties range from simply accepting rental applications and collecting periodic rent payments to performing a more comprehensive management role. This role may include, for example, the performance of the following tasks: screening and selecting tenants to fill vacancies, keeping business records on the operation of the property, and preparing financial reports for the owner. For a checklist of various preliminary, general, and specialized management duties, see Section 38.110.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-38 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 38.12

AUTHOR: by Jeannie C. Newell, J.D.

§ 38.12 Types of Property Managers

In its broadest sense, the term "property manager" includes a wide range of individuals and organizations. For example, the term may refer to an individual who performs limited management services, such as a resident manager of an apartment complex or a superintendent of an office building. Alternatively, it may refer to an individual or to a property management firm that performs, for a fee, all or most of the management responsibilities for income-producing property. This chapter uses the term "full-service property manager" to refer to such a manager or management firm.

An individual property manager may be employed by a management firm or may contract directly with a property owner, as an employee or an independent contractor [see § 38.18], to manage the owner's property. He or she may, or may not, work exclusively for the owner, or specialize in the management of particular types of property.

A variety of entities are active in the field of property management. The professional property management firm usually specializes in the management of particular types of property. Large institutional real estate investors, such as pension funds and life insurance companies, may utilize their own "in-house" management division to manage their real estate portfolio. Local real estate offices may also provide property management services to clients. However, these services are often limited to properties on which the office has a listing or on which the office has an exclusive option to list in the event the owner decides to sell [see Ch. 21, Agreements with Brokers and Agents].

AUTHOR: by Jeannie C. Newell, J.D.

§ 38.13 Selecting Type of Manager

There are no precise guidelines for determining whether a property owner's management needs will be better served by either an individual manager or a management firm. The type and size of the owner's property, the income it produces, and any specialized services needed to properly manage it are some of the factors to be considered in determining the type and extent of management services needed. One advantage of a management firm, in the case of large income-producing properties that require extensive management services, is that a firm may draw on the management skills of several individuals. These individuals in the aggregate may possess more expertise in the field of property management than would one individual.

On the other hand, an owner simply may not need or desire the extensive management services provided by a large management firm. For example, in a small-to-medium-sized apartment building, an individual resident manager or husband-wife team who performs limited management duties such as collecting rent, showing vacant apartments, and performing light maintenance tasks, may be all that a property owner needs or wants to manage the building. In the case of larger apartment buildings, the property owner may need both a resident manager and a full-service property manager [see § 38.12 (full-service property manager)].

For further discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of both an individual manager and a management firm, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 382, Property Management (Matthew Bender).

Before selecting a property manager, counsel and the property owner should be familiar with the professional property management associations and the designations bestowed by them. For coverage of these associations and designations, see Section 38.14.

§ 38.14 Professional Associations and Designations for Managers

[1] Institute of Real Estate Management (IREM)

[a] Overview

The Institute of Real Estate Management (IREM) is a branch of the National Association of Realtors [see [7], below] and is headquartered in Chicago, with local chapters throughout the country. IREM members must adhere to a code of ethics and other professional standards applicable specifically to property managers. IREM publishes the Journal of Property Management, textbooks, bulletins, and standardized forms of property management agreements. IREM bestows the following professional designations on individuals: Certified Property Manager (CPM) [see [b], below], and Accredited Resident Manager (ARM). Qualified property management firms receive the designation of Accredited Management Organization (AMO) [see [c], below]. A list of these professionals in a specific geographical area may be obtained from IREM headquarters or local chapters.

[b] Certified Property Manager (CPM)

To qualify as a CPM, the candidate must satisfy educational, exam, experience, and ethical requirements [see Achieve: Become a CPM (IREM, November 1989)]. The candidate must also complete a management plan prior to receiving the certification. At the time of certification, the candidate must be a member in, or be affiliated with a member board of, the National Association of Realtors. Further, the appropriate local chapter of IRM must endorse the candidate's integrity and ethics.

[c] Accredited Management Organization (AMO)

In order to be designated an Accredited Management Organization (AMO), a property management firm must satisfy specified requirements. One of these is that the firm must employ at least one CPM in an executive and supervisory position. To protect the owner's investment, AMOs are required to carry (1) a fidelity bond in a prescribed minimum amount covering all management employees and officers or owners of the firm and (2) depositor's forgery and alterations insurance. AMOs must undergo independent financial review by IREM and be endorsed by local members in the firm's geographical area. Once accredited, an AMO must be reaccredited on a regular periodic basis [see Is an Accredited Firm Managing Your Real Estate Investment? (IREM, March 1990)].

[2] Building Owners and Managers Association International (BOMA)

The Building Owners and Managers Association International (BOMA), headquartered in Washington, D.C., bestows the designation of Real Property Administrator (RPA) on individuals who successfully complete an educational course. RPAs, and individuals with comparable qualifications, may obtain a Systems Maintenance Administrator (SMA) designation from BOMA if they complete courses on the technical systems and other aspects of office buildings, such as electrical and control systems and building design.

[3] International Council of Shopping Centers

The International Council of Shopping Centers is a professional member association based in New York City that provides educational courses, standardized forms, and other materials in the field of shopping center management. To obtain the Certified Shopping Center Manager (CSM) designation offered by the Council, the candidate must pass a required exam.

[4] Community Associations Institute (CAI)

The Community Associations Institute (CAI), based in Arlington, Virginia, publishes numerous reports geared to specific problems and tasks involved in operating a community association. CAI also offers educational courses and programs. A qualified manager may be designated a Professional Community Association Manager (PCAM) through CAI.

[5] National, State, and Local Apartment Associations

The National Apartment Association (NAA) and California Apartment Association (CAA) provide educational courses, publications, and standardized forms to their members. Local chapters of the Apartment Association exist throughout California and may offer a professional designation. For example, a manager may be certified as a Certified Apartment Manager (CAM) by the Orange County Apartment Association after meeting required educational, exam, and experience requirements.

[6] International Property Management Organizations

A qualified candidate may become a Certified International Property Specialist (CIPS) through the Federation Internationale des Administrateurs de Biens Conseils Immobiliers (FIABCI) by satisfying education, experience, and other requirements. The FIABCI operates in several countries and maintains its United States headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The International Real Estate Institute, based in Scottsdale, Arizona, is another organization oriented toward international property management. It publishes the International Real Estate Journal, and offers a Registered Property Manager (RPM) designation for managers.

[7] National and Local Realtor Associations

As a real estate licensee [see § 38.19], a property manager may be a member of the National Association of Realtors (NAR) on the national level and of the California Association of Realtors (CAR) on the state level. A manager may also be a member of a local board of realtors [see California Real Estate Law & Practice, ch. 60, The Brokerage Industry and Its Regulation (Matthew Bender)].

§ 38.15 Manager's Compensation

[1] Basic Fee

The amount of compensation paid to a property manager depends on a number of factors, including the type and size of the property, the scope of responsibilities assumed by the manager, the degree of difficulty involved in managing the property, and the amount of time required to effectively manage the property. For example, because industrial space is usually considered easier to manage than other types of property, its management fees are typically lower. In order to determine what is competitive compensation at the time a management agreement is executed, local sources (such as a board of realtors or a chapter of a professional association) [see § 38.14] should always be checked to determine current rates and compensation arrangements for a particular type of property in a given area.

A full-service property manager [see § 38.12] typically receives, as its fee for basic management services, a percentage of the property's income. The exact percentage paid will depend not only on the factors listed above, but also on the average amount of rental income, the location of the property, and the prevailing economy. The compensation is usually a percentage of gross collected income, but may also be a percentage of gross possible income or effective gross income. Some compensation arrangements provide for the payment of a flat fee or a stated percentage of gross income, whichever is greater.

As an alternative to the percentage method of payment, the owner may pay a flat fee to the property manager. A flat fee is more often paid to a manager performing limited management services, such as a resident manager, rather than to a full-service manager. The flat fee may be determined by multiplying the number of units managed by an agreed-on dollar amount.

A common method of compensating a resident manager is to provide the manager with a rent-free apartment or a reduction in rent, usually in addition to a fixed salary. The amount of value of an apartment that may be credited against the employer's minimum wage obligation to a resident manager employee is limited by law [see 8 Cal. Code Reg.§ 11050(10)(B); see also § 38.220[1][e]]. The wages, hours, and working conditions of a resident manager who is an employee rather than an independent contractor [see § 38.18] are also regulated [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050; see also § 38.220[1]].

For most types of property, rent (and other income) on the property is collected monthly and basic management fees are paid monthly. For agricultural property that usually produces one or two crops a year, a percentage management fee may instead be paid on an annual basis [see § 38.225].

[2] Extra Compensation

In addition to the basic management fee, a property manager is usually paid extra compensation, in the form of a commission or a fixed fee, for performing additional services. Examples of these services include procuring new leases or renewing existing leases, supervising any major alterations or repairs to the property, placing insurance on the property, and preparing a comprehensive management plan or market analysis for the property. A property manager, as a licensed real estate broker [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131; see also § 38.19], may also be granted an exclusive option to list the property in the event the owner decides to sell. This could result in the payment of a real estate commission to the broker [see Ch. 21, Agreements With Brokers and Agents].

[3] Deduction of Management Expenses by Owner

Compensation paid to a property manager by the property owner is deductible for income tax purposes, when paid or incurred, either as an ordinary and necessary expense of business [I.R.C. § 162(a)] or as an expense for the management, conservation, or maintenance of property held for the production of income [I.R.C. § 212]. However, fees and expenses incurred by a property owner to procure tenants and leases, or to obtain renewals of leases, must ordinarily be attributed to the entire leasehold term. Thus, commissions paid and incurred by an owner for these services are deductible for federal tax purposes ratably over the period or life of the lease for which the fees are paid [Andrew J. Pembroke (1931) 23 B.T.A. 1176 , aff'd, Pembroke v. Helvering (D.C. Cir. 1934) 70 F.2d 850, 851 ; Clara Hellman Heller Trust No. 7610 (1946) 7 T.C. 556 , rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Wells Fargo Bank & Union Trust Co. v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (9th Cir. [T.C.] 1947) 163 F.2d 521 ; Rev. Rul. 70-408, 1970-2 C.B. 68]. For further discussion of the tax consequences of real property management to both the owner and property manager, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 22, Development and Subdivision , Part E, "Real Estate Management" (Matthew Bender).

§ 38.16 Applicability of Statute of Frauds

An agreement must be in writing if it authorizes or employs an agent, broker, or any other person to do any of the following for compensation or a commission: purchase or sell real estate; lease real estate for a term exceeding one year; or procure, introduce, or find (1) a purchaser or seller of real estate or (2) a lessee or lessor of real estate, if the lease term is to exceed one year [Civ. Code § 1624(d)]. An agreement for the leasing of real property for a term exceeding one year made by an agent of the party sought to be charged is invalid unless the authority of the agent is in writing, subscribed by the party sought to be charged [Civ. Code § 1624(c)].

§ 38.17 Manager as Owner's Agent

[1] In General

A written management agreement between a property owner and manager typically establishes a principal-agent relationship that is subject to pertinent California statutes [see Civ. Code §§ 2295-2357] and principles of general agency law [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 3, Agency and Employment (10th ed. 2005)]. As an agent of the owner, a manager has certain fiduciary duties to the owner created by the trust relationship between them [see Civ. Code § 2322(c); see also Prob. Code §§ 15000-19403 (Trust Law), Prob. Code §§ 16000-16105 (trustee's duties and standard of care)]. For example, the manager must act in good faith and with loyalty toward the owner, disclose material facts [see Prob. Code § 16002], avoid conflicts of interest with the owner [see Prob. Code §§ 16004, 16005], and avoid commingling the owner's funds with the manager's funds [Prob. Code § 16009]. As a real estate licensee [see § 38.19], the manager is also bound by the fiduciary duties imposed under the Real Estate Law [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10000-10580; see also California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 63, Duties and Liabilities of Brokers (Matthew Bender)].

[2] Disclosures for Residential Transactions

A real estate broker must provide the seller and buyer in a real property transaction with two disclosures regarding the broker's agency relationship with the seller or buyer [Civ. Code § 2079.13; see Civ. Code §§ 2079.12-2079.24]. The first disclosure consists of a statutory form that contains general disclosures regarding real estate agency relationships [see Civ. Code § 2079.16]. In addition to providing that form, the broker must disclose whether the broker is acting exclusively as the seller's agent, exclusively as the buyer's agent, or as a dual agent representing both buyer and seller [Civ. Code § 2079.17]. This disclosure may be made either orally or in writing, but must be followed by a written confirmation of the relationship [Civ. Code § 2079.17(a), (b)]. Although these requirements relate primarily to sales of real property, the term "sale" includes transactions for the creation of a leasehold exceeding one year's duration [see Civ. Code § 2079.13(l)] and the term "real property" includes any leasehold in residential property containing one to four units [see Civ. Code 2079.13(j)]. For a full discussion of these disclosure requirements, see Ch. 21, Agreements with Real Estate Brokers and Agents .

AUTHOR: by Jeannie C. Newell, J.D.

§ 38.18 Status of Manager as Employee or Independent Contractor

In any property management arrangement, it is important to determine whether the manager is an employee of the owner or an independent contractor [see Lab. Code §§ 3352, 3353 (definitions)]. This determination is important since if the manager is deemed an employee of the owner, rather than an independent contractor, the owner is obligated to comply with pertinent wage and hour laws, pay and deduct social security taxes, withhold income taxes and disability insurance payments, pay federal and California unemployment insurance taxes, and carry workers' compensation insurance [see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements]. Liability of an owner for the manager's torts also differs depending on whether the manager is an employee of the owner or an independent contractor [see Civ. Code § 2338; see also Ch. 84, Independent Contractors and Ch. 85, Employment Agreements; California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 381, Tort Liability of Property Owners (Matthew Bender); Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 3, Agency and Employment (10th ed. 2005)].

Although the written agreement between the property owner and manager is relevant in determining the relationship between them, the terminology used in such an agreement is not conclusive, even in the absence of fraud or mistake [see Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 952, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975 ; see also § 38.111]. Instead, a variety of factors must be considered in making this determination [see Restatement of Agency 2d, § 220 and Comment h; Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 949-950, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975 ; Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43-44, 168 P.2d 686] . The single most important factor is the right to control the manner and means by which the work is accomplished. If the employer has the right to exercise complete control, an employer-employee relationship exists [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43, 168 P.2d 686] .

Most large full-service property management firms retained by an owner are probably independent contractors. In the case of a resident manager [see § 38.220], it is more likely that the control exercised by the owner over the manager's performance creates an employer-employee relationship. For additional discussion, see Ch. 84, Independent Contractors , and California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 382, Property Management (Matthew Bender).

§ 38.19 Applicability of Real Estate Licensing Requirements

[1] Activities Requiring License

Many activities routinely engaged in by persons who manage the real property of another require a real estate broker's or salesperson's license under the Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10000-10580]. These activities include leasing or offering to lease real property, placing real property for lease, soliciting listings of places for lease, soliciting leases for prospective tenants, negotiating the sale, purchase, or exchange of leases on real property, or collecting rent from real property or improvements on real property [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10131(b), 10130, 10132]. These specific activities, described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131(b), are referred to in the discussion under [2], below, as "management activities" solely for the purpose of explaining certain exceptions to the licensing law requirements. As a licensee under the Real Estate Law, a property manager must conform to the ethical standards [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10176, 10177] and other requirements of the Real Estate Law and its implementing regulations [see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 60, Regulation of Real Estate Brokers; Ch. 64, Licensing and Discipline of Brokers (Matthew Bender)]. A person performing activities for which a license is required may not bring an action to collect a commission or any compensation if he or she was not duly licensed at the time the right to receive the compensation is alleged to have arisen [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10136].

[2] Exception for Certain Management Activities

The manager of a hotel, motel, auto park, or trailer park, or the employee of such a manager, may engage in the management activities described in [1], above, without possessing a real estate license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(a)(1)]. The resident manager of an apartment building, apartment complex, or court, or the employee of such a manager, may also engage in those activities without a real estate license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(a)(1)].

Exemptions from the requirement of possessing a real estate license are also available for persons who solicit, arrange, or accept reservations or money for transient occupancies in common interest developments [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(a)(2); see Civ. Code § 1351 (common interest developments); see also Civ. Code § 1940(b) (transient occupancies)] and for certain employees of property management firms [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(a)(3)]. The employee of a property management firm retained to manage a residential apartment building, complex, or court, and who works under the supervision and control of a broker who is an employee of the firm, or a salesperson licensed to the broker, may perform any of the following services without a license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(a)(3)]:

(1) Show rental units and common areas to prospective tenants.

(2) Provide or accept preprinted rental applications, or respond to inquiries from prospective tenants concerning the completion of such an application.

(3) Accept deposits or fees for credit checks or administrative costs, and accept security deposits and rents.

(4) Provide information about rental rates and other terms and provisions of a lease or rental agreement as set out in a schedule provided by an employer.

(5) Accept signed leases and rental agreements from prospective tenants.

A broker employing these nonlicensed persons must also obtain a license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10163] for each apartment building, complex, or court where the nonlicensed persons are employed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(c)].

[3] Exemptions

Certain persons may perform not only the management activities referred in [1], above, but also any other activity that ordinarily requires a real estate broker's license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131], without a license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10133]. The persons exempt from these licensing requirements are [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10133(a)]:

(1) A regular officer of a corporation or a general partner of a partnership with respect to real property owned or leased by the corporation or partnership, respectively, or in connection with the proposed purchase or leasing of real property by the corporation or partnership, respectively, if the acts are not performed by the officer or partner in expectation of special compensation;

(2) A person holding a duly executed power of attorney from the property owner with respect to which the acts are performed;

(3) An attorney rendering legal services to a client;

(4) A receiver, trustee in a bankruptcy, or other person acting under order of a court of competent jurisdiction; and

(5) A trustee for the beneficiary of a deed of trust when selling under authority of that deed of trust.

The above exemptions are not applicable to a person who uses or attempts to use them for the purpose of evading the provisions of the Real Estate Law [Bus. Prof. Code 10133(b)]. For example, the power of attorney exemption listed above applies only when a property owner is compelled by personal necessity to empower another to consummate a particular or isolated transaction [Sheetz v. Edmonds (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 1432, 1435, 247 Cal. Rptr. 776] . A power of attorney executed by owners to allow a personal friend to manage their property did not exempt the friend from the real estate licensing requirements. Even though the friend did not manage any other properties, she performed tasks that the owners had previously hired real estate brokers to perform and received compensation for performing tasks that required a license [Sheetz v. Edmonds (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 1432, 1436, 247 Cal. Rptr. 776] .

§ 38.20 Applicability of Other Requirements Under Real Estate Law

[1] In General

A property manager who is required to be licensed under the Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.; see § 38.19] must satisfy not only the licensing requirements but also all other requirements of the Real Estate Law. Some of the requirements that are particularly relevant to a property manager are summarized below. For further discussion of the duties and responsibilities of licensees under the Real Estate Law, see California Real and Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 63, Duties and Liabilities of Brokers (Matthew Bender).

[2] Trust Fund Account

[a] Deposit of Funds

A real estate broker who accepts funds belonging to others in connection with any transaction subject to the Real Estate Law must deposit all funds that are not immediately placed into a neutral escrow depository [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(i) (definition of"neutral escrow")]. Compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145 requires that the broker place funds accepted on behalf of another into the hands of the owner of the funds or into a neutral escrow depository or a trust fund account in the name of the broker as trustee at a bank or other financial institution, not later than three business days following receipt of the funds by the broker or by the broker's salesperson [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2832(a)]. The funds must be kept in the account until disbursed by the broker in accordance with instructions from the person entitled to the funds [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2834]. The Real Estate Law prohibits a broker from commingling his or her own money or property with any money or property that belongs to others and that is being held by the broker [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2835 (definition of "commingling")].

For general discussion of broker trust funds accounts, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 60, Regulation of Real Estate Brokers (Matthew Bender).

[b] Interest-Bearing Accounts

If requested by the owner of trust funds or by principals of the subject transaction, and if not otherwise specifically prohibited under the Real Estate Law, a broker may deposit the trust funds into an interest-bearing account with a bank or other designated financial institution whose accounts are federally insured, provided certain statutory requirements are satisfied [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(d); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(f) (Real Estate Commissioner's authority to promulgate related regulations); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2830.1; California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 60, The Brokerage Industry and Its Regulation (Matthew Bender)]. A broker need not place trust funds into an interest-bearing account unless requested to do so and unless all of the relevant statutory requirements governing deposits in interest-bearing accounts are satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(e); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(d)]. Further, no deposit is required in any event if the broker advises the party making the request that the funds will not be placed in an interest-bearing account [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(e)].

[c] Financial Records

A broker must maintain a separate record of the receipt and disposition of all trust funds, including any interest earned on the funds [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(g); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2831-2831.2]. On request of the Real Estate Commissioner, a broker must furnish to the Commissioner an authorization for examination of financial records of any such trust fund accounts maintained in a financial institution [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10145(h); see Gov. Code § 7473 (procedures for examination)].

[3] Retention of Documents and Inspection and Audit

A licensed real estate broker must retain for three years copies of all listings, deposit receipts, canceled checks, trust records, and other documents executed by him or her or obtained by him or her in connection with any transactions for which a real estate license is required. After notice, the books, accounts, and records must be made available for examination, inspection, and copying by the Real Estate Commissioner or his or her designated representative during regular business hours. On the appearance of sufficient cause, the books, accounts, and records are subject to audit without further notice, except that the audit must not be harassing in nature [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10148(a)].

[4] Delivery of Copy of Agreement

When a licensee prepares or has prepared an agreement authorizing or employing the licensee to perform any of the acts for which he or she is required to hold a license [see § 38.19 [1]], or when the licensee secures the signature of any person to any contract pertaining to these acts, he or she must deliver a copy of the agreement to the person signing it at the time the signature is obtained [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10142].

[5] Specific Requirements for Agreement

A broker must have the written authorization of a property owner prior to offering business property for sale, lease, or exchange [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176(j)]. An exclusive agreement authorizing the broker to perform any acts for which a license is required must contain a specified date of final and complete termination [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176(f); see also § 38.19 [1] (activities requiring license)].

§ 38.21 Special Requirements for Management of Common Interest Developments

[1] Limitations on Association Board

The homeowners' association for a condominium project or other common interest development often contracts with a professional property manager for the day-to-day management of the project. Subject to specified exceptions, the governing association for a homeowners' association cannot enter into a management contract for a term longer than one year [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(b)(1)]. If the homeowners' association is incorporated under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 7110-8910], as most are, and a member of the board of directors wishes to enter into a management agreement with the association, or has a material financial interest in the proposed management entity, the material facts of the transaction must be disclosed to and approved by the board [see Corp. Code § 7233(a)]. For further discussion of these requirements and other limitations on the authority of a homeowners' association, and for a form of management agreement between a condominium owners' association and a property manager, see Ch. 34, Condominiums .

[2] Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act

[a] Definition of Managing Agent

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], a "managing agent" is a person or entity who, for compensation or in expectation of compensation, exercises control over the assets of a common interest development [Civ. Code §§ 1363.1(b), 1363.2(f); see Civ. Code § 1351(c) (definition of "common interest development")]. A full-time employee of the homeowners' association and any regulated financial institution operating within the normal course of its regulated business practice are excluded from the definition [Civ. Code §§ 1363.1(b), 1363.2(f)]. For purposes of the statutory requirements relating to the handling of funds and the maintenance of records [see [c], below], an attorney acting within the scope of his or her license is also excluded from the definition of managing agent [Civ. Code § 1363.2(f)].

[b] Disclosures to Board of Directors

A prospective managing agent, as defined in [a], above, must provide a written statement disclosing certain information to the board of directors prior to entering into a management agreement [Civ. Code § 1363.1(a)]. The required information includes the names and business addresses of the following: in the case of an agent that is a noncorporate entity, its owners or general partners; or, if the agent is a corporation, its directors, officers, and any shareholders holding more than 10 percent of the shares of the corporation. Further, the statement must describe the licenses and professional certifications held by the foregoing persons or entities. For further discussion of the required disclosures, see Ch. 34, Condominiums .

[c] Requirements for Handling Funds

Special statutory provisions apply to a managing agent's handling of association funds [see Civ. Code § 1363.2]. For example, funds must be maintained in a trust account and must be separately accounted for [Civ. Code § 1363.2(a), (c)]. These requirements and others are discussed in Ch. 34, Condominiums .

§ 38.22 Special Requirements for Residential Property

[1] Disclosure of Identity and Address of Owner and Manager

Certain information required by statute must be disclosed to tenants of a dwelling structure containing one or more units that are offered to the public for lease for residential purposes [Civ. Code § 1961]. The required information includes the name, telephone number, and usual street address for purposes of effecting personal service of (1) any person authorized to manage the premises, and (2) an owner of the premises or the person who is authorized to act for and on behalf of the owner for the purpose of service of process and for the purpose of receiving and receipting all notices and demands [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(1)].

The owner of the dwelling structure, or a party signing a lease on behalf of the owner, must make the required disclosures by one of the following methods:

- In the lease itself [Civ. Code § 1962(a)];
- If the lease agreement is oral, by a separate written statement [Civ. Code § 1962(b)]; or
- By posting a notice containing the required information in at least two conspicuous places in the structure, one of which must be in the elevator if the structure contains one [Civ. Code § 1962.5].

In addition, the lease or rental agreement must disclose the name, telephone number, and address of the person or entity to whom rent payments must be made and, if payment may be made personally, the lease or rental agreement must disclose the usual days and hours that the person will be available to receive payment [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(2)]. Alternatively, the lease or rental agreement may disclose the name and street address and account number at a financial institution into which payment may be made, provided that the financial institution is located within five miles of the rental property, or furnish the information necessary to establish an electronic funds transfer procedure for paying the rent [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(2)]. The lease or rental agreement must also disclose the form or forms in which rental payments must be made [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(3)].

The owner of the premises or the owner's agent must provide a copy of the rental agreement or lease to the tenant within 15 days of its execution by the tenant and must provide a copy once each calendar year thereafter, on request by the tenant [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(4)]. If the owner or owner's agent does not possess the original or a copy of the rental agreement or lease, the owner or owner's agent must instead furnish the tenant with a written statement stating that fact and containing the information required to be disclosed [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(4)]. In the case of an oral rental agreement, the owner or owner's agent must furnish the tenant, within 15 days of the agreement, with a written statement containing the information required to be disclosed and must provide an additional copy of the statement once each calendar year thereafter, within 15 days after request by the tenant [Civ. Code § 1962(b)].

The information required to be disclosed to tenants must be kept current, and any successor owner or manager must comply with the statutory requirements within 15 days of succeeding the previous owner or manager [Civ. Code § 1962(c)]. A party who enters into a lease on behalf of the owner but fails to comply with the statutory disclosure requirements is deemed an agent of each person who is an owner for the purposes of service of process, receiving and receipting notices and demands, performing the obligations of the owner under the law and under the lease, and receiving rental payments [Civ. Code § 1962(d)]. Nothing in the applicable statutory provisions limits or excludes the liability of any undisclosed owner [Civ. Code § 1962(e)]. In the event an owner fails to comply with the disclosure requirements, service of process by a tenant with respect to a dispute arising out of the tenancy may be made by registered or certified mail sent to the address at which rent is paid [Civ. Code § 1962.7; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 (methods of service applicable)].

[2] Live-In Caretaker

A manager, janitor, housekeeper, or other responsible person must reside on the premises and must have charge of every apartment house in which there are 16 or more apartments, and of every hotel in which there are 12 or more guest rooms, if the owner of the apartment house or hotel does not reside on the premises. Only one caretaker is required for all structures under one ownership and on one contiguous parcel of land. For apartment houses in which there are more than four but less than 16 apartments and in which the owner does not reside, a notice stating the owner's name and address or the name and address of the owner's agent in charge of the apartment house must be posted in a conspicuous place on the premises [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 42].

[3] Compensation Paid to Resident Manager

If, as is usually the case, a resident manager is an employee of the property owner or a management firm rather than an independent contractor [see §§ 38.18, 38.220], the manager's minimum wages and maximum hours are regulated under the Industrial Welfare Commission's regulations for the public housekeeping industry [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(4); see also § 38.220[1]]. If lodging is used by the employer to meet part of the employee's minimum wage obligation, the amount that may be credited for the lodging is limited by regulation [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(10)(B), (C)]. For a full discussion of these and other related requirements for a resident manager, see § 38.220[1].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

18-38 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 38.23

AUTHOR: by Jeannie C. Newell, J.D.

§ 38.23 Wage and Hour Laws

[1] State Industrial Welfare Commission

The Industrial Welfare Commission regulates wages, hours, and working conditions in the public housekeeping industry [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050 (Industrial Welfare Commission Order No. 5-89)]. This industry includes hotels, motels, apartment houses, rooming houses, camps, clubs, trailer parks, office or loft buildings, and similar establishments offering living, business, or commercial quarters for lease [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(2)(P)(3)]. The regulations cover all nonexempt employees [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(1)]. Exempt employees are student nurses [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(1)(A)] and those persons employed in administrative, executive, or professional capacities [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(1)(B)]. To qualify under the second exemption, the employee must be engaged in work that is primarily intellectual, managerial, or creative and that requires the exercise of discretion and independent judgment. Further, the remuneration for the work must be at least the monthly minimum dollar amount set forth in the regulations [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(1)(B)(1)-(3)].

[2] Fair Labor Standards Act

The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 [29 U.S.C. § 201 et seq.] contains minimum wage, overtime, and recordkeeping requirements for employees employed in an enterprise engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce [see 29 U.S.C. § 203(s)(1); see also 29 U.S.C. § 203(r)(1) (definition of "enterprise")]. One of the requirements an employer must meet to be considered an enterprise engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce is to have annual gross sales in excess of $500,000 [see 29 U.S.C. § 203(s)(1)(A)(ii)].

A real estate management company that provides extensive management services to owners of apartments or commercial buildings must comply with the provisions of the Act if the scope and dollar volume of its activities are sufficient to bring it within the Act. For purposes of making this determination, the correct measure of the "gross sales" (see preceding paragraph) is the gross commissions the management company receives for the sale of its professional management services. The gross rentals collected by the company as agent for the owners are not used for this determination because they do not represent sales attributable to the company's enterprise [Falk v. Brennan (1973)

§ 38.111 Status of Manager as Employee or Independent Contractor

NOTE:

The actual relationship between the owner and manager must be considered to determine whether the manager is an employee of the owner or is an independent contractor. The terminology used in the agreement between the owner and manager may be relevant but is not conclusive on the subject [see Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 952, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975] . It is important to accurately characterize the relationship since if the manager is an employee of the owner, the owner must comply with applicable wage and hour laws, pay and deduct social security taxes, withhold income taxes and disability insurance payments, pay federal and California unemployment insurance taxes, and carry workers' compensation insurance. This section sets forth some relevant criteria for making the foregoing determination in the context of an owner/property manager relationship. For more detailed coverage of the distinction between an employee and an independent contractor, see Ch. 84, Independent Contractors , and Ch. 85, Employment Agreements .

1. In relationship between owner and manager:

a. Does owner have right to control manner and means of accomplishing result desired by owner; or

b. Does manager have discretion as to method and means used to obtain owner's desired results, with owner's control limited only to results?

NOTE:

Whether a person is an independent contractor or an employee is generally a question of fact [Rogers v. Whitson (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 662, 672, 39 Cal. Rptr. 849] . In determining whether a person is an independent contractor or an employee, the most important question is which party has the right to control the manner and means by which the work is accomplished [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43, 168 P.2d 686] . For additional discussion, see Ch. 84, Independent Contractors .

2. In delegation of duties to manager, has owner:

a. Retained responsibility for many of the duties and delegated only narrowly defined specific duties to manager; or

b. Delegated most or all property management duties to manager?

NOTE:

As a general rule, the more responsibilities the owner retains and the more control the owner retains over a manager, the more likely the relationship is to be one of owner/employee [see, e.g., Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975] .

§ 38.112 Applicability of Real Estate Law to Manager

1. Will proposed manager perform any duties for owner that require a license under Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.], e.g. [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10131(b), 10130, 10132]:

a. Leasing?

b. Offering or negotiating to lease?

c. Soliciting prospective tenants?

d. Collecting rents from real property or improvements located on real property?

2. Is manager one of following that may perform duties described in (1), above, without real estate license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01(a)]:

a. Resident manager of apartment building, complex, or court, or employee of such a manager?

b. Manager of hotel, motel, or auto and trailer park?

NOTE:
Certain employees of a management firm are also exempt from the licensing requirements when performing various leasing-related activities, subject to requirements set forth in the statute [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.01; see also § 38.19[2]].

3. Does manager fall within scope of any of the following exemptions from licensing requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10133(a), 10131]?

a. Regular officer of corporation or general partner of partnership acting with respect to real property owned or leased by corporation or partnership, respectively, or in connection with proposed purchase or leasing of real property by corporation or partnership, respectively, if acts are not performed by officer or partner in expectation of special compensation?

b. Person acting pursuant to executed power of attorney from owner of property?

c. Attorney at law rendering legal services to client?

d. Receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or other person acting under order of court of competent jurisdiction?

e. Trustee selling under deed of trust?

NOTE:

The above exemptions from the licensing requirements of Real Estate Law are not applicable to a person who uses or attempts to use them for the purpose of evading provisions of the Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10133(b); see § 38.19[3]].

§ 38.113 Manager's Compensation

1. Considering type of property to be managed, what form of compensation will manager receive for basic management services?

NOTE:
The method of basic compensation paid to a manager will depend on the type and size of property managed and the type of services provided by manager. For example, a resident manager is often paid a fixed salary plus the use of an apartment. A full service property manager is commonly paid some percentage of income on the property.

a. Flat fee arrangement?
(1) Straight flat fee?

NOTE:
A flat fee arrangement may be stated as a specific dollar amount per unit to be managed.

(2) Flat fee plus one of following:

(a) Apartment?

(b) Apartment and utilities?

(c) Percentage of collections from property [see P 1b, below]?

b. Percentage of one of following:

(1) Gross collected rents?

(2) Gross possible income?

(3) Effective gross income?

(4) Other?

c. Combination, e.g., greater of specific percentage of gross rents or stated dollar amount?

d. Other?

2. Will manager be paid additional compensation based on special services, i.e.:

a. Procuring new leases?

b. Renewing leases?

c. Supervising major repairs or rehabilitation of property?

d. Other?

3. For resident manager:

a. What are number of hours to be worked each day and each week?

b. What day(s) will manager have off each week?

c. If use of apartment is to be credited against employee's minimum wage, what is maximum amount that can be credited?

NOTE:

Only two-thirds of the ordinary rental value of the apartment or a dollar amount set by law, whichever is less, may be credited against the resident manager's minimum wage [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(10)]. If no credit for the apartment is used to meet the employer's minimum wage obligation to the manager, the employer may charge, pursuant to a voluntary written agreement with the manager, up to two-thirds of the fair market rental value of the apartment supplied to the manager [Lab. Code § 1182.8].

§ 38.120 Negotiation and Execution of Management Agreement

[1] Reviewing Agreement Drafted or Submitted by Other Party

1. If agreement has not yet been drafted or submitted by other party, assist client in negotiations with other party.

2. On receipt of agreement drafted or submitted by other party's attorney, review agreement to ensure that it is:

a. Consistent with client's previously stated requirements and objectives for agreement.

b. Otherwise acceptable to client;

c. Legally sufficient.

NOTE:
The Drafting Guide [see § 38.130] may be used as a checklist of provisions that must or should be included in a property management agreement.

3. Communicate and negotiate with other party's attorney regarding changes in agreement requested by client to determine whether or not requested changes are acceptable to other party.

4. For requested changes that are not acceptable to other party, confer with client to determine client's position:

a. Drop request for change.

b. Insist on request for change and, if not agreed to by other party, stop negotiations on agreement.

c. Compromise on stated terms and conditions.

5. For requested changes acceptable to other party, confer with other party's attorney for mechanics of implementing change.

NOTE:
The drafting attorney may (1) agree to draft the proposed change for the attorney requesting the change on behalf of his or her client, or (2) request the other attorney to submit a draft of the proposed change. Alternatively, the attorneys may jointly draft a proposed change, by phone or otherwise.

6. Obtain client's approval of final changes to original agreement.

[2] Drafting Agreement

NOTE:
For a drafting guide for a management agreement, see § 38.130.

[3] Executing Agreement

NOTE:
As with any contract, if the manager or property owner is any legal entity other than an individual, the property management agreement must be executed by the person or persons authorized to legally bind the entity [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 313 (corporations)]. If the property to be managed is community property and the agreement authorizes the manager to enter into leases for a period longer than one year on behalf of the owners, both owner spouses should execute the agreement [see Fam. Code § 1102]. Also, if the property is owned by a legal entity other than an individual and the agreement authorizes the manager to lease the property, appropriate approval of the entity should be obtained [see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases].

§ 38.200 Property Management Agreement--Long Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a property management agreement suitable for use when a property owner wishes to contract with a property manager or management firm for a full range of management services, rather than for the more limited services usually provided by a resident manager or on-site building superintendent or manager [see § 38.220[2]]. This form is a referred to as a "long form" property management agreement because it describes the duties of the manager in more detail and provides the property owner with more control than do shorter, standardized forms of management agreement used by many professional property management firms. For a general purpose standardized form of agreement, see Section 38.201.

This form may be used for most types of income-producing property, but should be modified to include any special management duties unique to the particular type of property involved and any special management services desired by the property owner. For special purpose management agreements, see Sections 38.220 and 38.221 (resident manager), 38.224 (motel manager), and 38.225 (agricultural property manager).

[b] Agency and Status

A property owner may elect to designate a property manager as the owner's agent for (1) the management and operation of the property [see [2], P 1.01] and (2) the leasing of the property [see [2], P 2.04]. The two are separate functions and an owner may not wish to retain the same manager for both purposes. This form includes alternative provisions for making the manager either an exclusive or a nonexclusive agent for leasing [see [2], P 2.04].

This form also contains alternative provisions specifying that the manager is either an employee of the owner or an independent contractor [see [2], P 1.01]. Whether a person is an independent contractor or an employee is generally a question of fact [Rogers v. Whitson (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 662, 672, 39 Cal. Rptr. 849] . Although the language of an agreement is a factor in determining whether the manager is an employee or an independent contractor, it is not determinative [see Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 952, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975] . Instead, a variety of factors must be considered in making this determination [see Restatement of Agency 2d, § 220 and Comment h; Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 949-950, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975 ; Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43-44, 168 P.2d 686] . The single most important factor is the right to control the manner and means by which the work is accomplished. If the employer has the right to exercise complete control, an employer-employee relationship exists [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43, 168 P.2d 686] . For further discussion, see Ch. 84, Independent Contractors .

If a manager is an employee of the property owner, the owner/employer must comply with applicable minimum wage and maximum hour laws, as well as other laws relating to employees. For further discussion, see Section 38.220[1][d], [e].

[c] Preliminary Professional Services

Large professional management companies offer various professional services in addition to the day-to-day maintenance and operation of the property, such as the preparation of a comprehensive management plan for the property. The agreement must describe these services, if applicable, and any separate compensation payable for the services [see [2], P 1.03].

[d] Leasing

Article 2 of this form sets forth the duties of the manager with respect to leasing and defines the scope of the manager's authority. Duties in this area might include qualifying and screening tenants, negotiating and entering into leases, advertising, enforcing leases, evicting tenants, collecting rents and security deposits, and handling tenant problems [see § 38.110].

The agreement should clearly describe any limitations the owner wishes to place on the manager's authority to lease. For example, a manager may be authorized only to enter into leases that are for at least a minimum term set by the owner and not longer than a maximum term specified by the owner [see [2], P 2.01]. The owner may also elect to retain control over the lease forms used by the manager [see [2], P 2.02].

[e] Operation and Maintenance

Article 3 of this agreement authorizes the property manager to perform several duties ordinarily required for the operation and maintenance of most types of income-producing property. These duties include hiring and supervising employees to work on the property, maintaining and repairing the property, contracting for services and utilities for the property, and complying with government regulations. As is true for the manager's authority to lease, any restrictions or limitations on the manager's authority to operate and maintain the property, such as prior owner approval for expenditures in excess of a stated dollar amount [see [2], P 3.02(b)], must be clearly described in the agreement.

A property owner may delegate responsibility to the manager for procuring and maintaining adequate insurance coverage for the property. This form includes alternative insurance provisions [see [2], P 3.05]. The first alternative requires the manager to obtain bids but reserves to the owner the right to select the specific carrier and coverage. The second alternative grants the manager discretion to procure and maintain adequate insurance for the property.

This form includes an optional provision that may be used if the manager is to maintain an office on the premises [see [2], P 3.06].

[f] Collection and Disbursement of Revenues

Article 4 of this form requires the manager to collect all rents and other revenue from the property, to deposit collected funds in a trust account [see § 38.20 [2] (trust account requirements)], and to pay from the trust account recurring property expenses authorized under the agreement. This form includes alternative language that may be used to designate the party that is to be responsible for direct payment of the mortgage and property taxes on the property [see [2], P 4.03].

Paragraph 4.04 of this form requires the manager to furnish the owner a fidelity bond for protection against misapplication of the owner's funds by the manager or its employees. An Accredited Management Organization (AMO), accredited by the Institute of Real Estate Management (IREM) [see § 38.14 [1]] is required to have a fidelity bond, broad form money and securities insurance, and depositor's forgery and alternations insurance [Solving the Property Management Puzzle: Selecting the Right Firm for Your Investments (IREM), No. 313-901].

[g] Financial Records and Reports

Article 5 describes the financial records the manager is required to maintain and the financial statements the manager must periodically prepare and deliver to the owner, such as a monthly income and expense report [see [2], P 5.02] and an annual financial statement [see [2], P 5.05]. In addition, the owner may require special reports, such as delinquency and vacancy reports for the property [see [2], P 5.04]. Paragraph 5.07 of this form requires the manager to prepare an annual budget for the owner's approval. After the budget is approved, the manager must inform the owner of any anticipated deviations from the budget both with respect to income and expenses. The manager is also required to prepare and file all payroll and employee-related forms and statements [see [2], P 5.06].

[h] Monthly Payments to Owner

This form requires the manager to remit to the owner, each month, the monthly net profit from the property as shown on the preceding month's income and expense report [see [2], PP 5.02, 5.03]. It includes optional language for use if the owner authorizes the manager to make any deductions from the amount otherwise payable as net profit, for the manager's monthly compensation or to establish a reserve fund for expenses not yet due [see [2], P 5.03].

[i] Compensation

The basic management fee paid to a professional property manager is usually based in some manner on income collected from the property, but instead may be a flat fee [see § 38.15]. Both alternatives are included in Paragraph 6.01 of this form.

In addition to a basic management fee, a property manager who is authorized to lease the property on either an exclusive or nonexclusive basis usually receives extra compensation for leasing services in the form of a commission. The agreement should set forth the total commission, if any, payable by the owner for both the procuring of new leases and the renewal or extension of existing leases [see [2], P 6.02].

Unlike some other management agreements, this form does not grant a property manager the exclusive right to list the managed property in the event the owner decides to sell it. For coverage of listing agreements, see Ch. 21, Agreements with Brokers and Agents .

[j] Termination

The term of the agreement, including both its commencement and final termination date, should be clearly set forth in the agreement [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176(f); see [2], P 7.01]. This form includes alternative renewal provisions [see [2], P 7.02]. The first provides for automatic renewal unless a notice of termination is given by either party prior to the original expiration date of the agreement; the second requires the parties to execute a renewal agreement prior to the agreement's original expiration date.

This form permits either party to terminate the agreement by written notice to the other. Optional language is included that may be used if the parties agree that neither shall have this right until a minimum period has elapsed [see [2], P 7.03].

An optional provision in this form requires the owner to pay the manager a cancellation fee, under certain circumstances, if the owner terminates the agreement during a specified period of time (for example, the first 12 months of the term) [see [2], P 7.07]. If the property is sold, any cancellation fee otherwise payable must be offset against the real estate commission paid to the manager, if any, for the sale. No cancellation fee is payable if the purchaser of the property retains the services of the manager [see [2], P 7.05]. In the event of the owner's or the manager's bankruptcy, either party may terminate the agreement, but no cancellation fee will be payable [see [2], P 7.05].

For alternative termination provisions for a management agreement, see Sections 38.224[2] and 38.225[2].

Annual Operating Budget

5.07. Manager shall prepare and submit to Owner for Owner's approval, an Operating Budget (the "Budget") for the calendar [or fiscal] year beginning _____[date] and for each calendar [or fiscal] year thereafter during the term of this Agreement. Manager shall be entitled to share in any real estate commission paid by Owner to another broker for leasing of the Premises on any terms agreed to by that broker and Manager.

Compensation for Special Services

6.03. The compensation payable by Owner to Manager under this Agreement covers only those management services specifically described in it and does not cover any special real estate services Owner may from time to time request Manager to perform, including the sale of the Premises, appraisals, and financing. If Owner requests Manager to perform any of these special services, the agreement between Owner and Manager for the special services shall be set forth in a separate written instrument executed by the parties.

Except as otherwise provided in Paragraph 6.03 of this Agreement, Manager's compensation (as described in Paragraphs 6.01 and 6.02 of this Agreement) is to be paid in consideration of all services to be rendered pursuant to the terms of this Agreement by Manager and all of Manager's employees, except on-premises employees and workers. Manager's managerial expenses shall not be reimbursed by Owner and shall not be an operating expense of the Premises. Manager's office overhead expenses, whether or not allocable to services rendered in the management of Premises, are to be treated as services and expenses incurred in consideration of the managerial compensation provided for in Paragraph 6.01 of this Agreement. All rebates, discounts, or commissions collected by Manager, or credited to Manager's use, that relate to the purchasing of supplies or the rendering of services for the Premises, must be fully disclosed to Owner. Any part of any rebate, discount, or commission that is allocable to the purchasing of supplies, or to the rendering of services for the Premises, shall be credited to Owner's account. For the purposes of this Paragraph, all rebates, discounts, or commissions relating solely to managerial overhead expenses need not be disclosed to Owner and need not be allocated in part to Owner's account.

ARTICLE 7. TERMINATION

Term

7.01. This Agreement shall be effective as of the date first set forth in this Agreement [or specify other date] and shall continue until _____[date] ("original expiration date"), unless the Agreement is: terminated prior to the original expiration date pursuant to the terms of this Agreement; or (2) renewed pursuant to Paragraph 7.02 of this Agreement.

[Choose either of the following paragraphs:]

[First Alternative (automatic renewal):]

7.02. This Agreement shall be automatically renewed, on the same terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement, for a period of [time period, e.g., one year] beyond the original expiration date, unless at least [time period, e.g., 30 days] prior to the original expiration date, either party gives the other written notice that it elects to terminate the Agreement as of the original expiration date. If this Agreement is renewed beyond the original expiration date, the provisions for renewal, notice, and termination contained in this Paragraph shall [or shall not] apply to each subsequent renewal period. A notice given by one party to the other at least [time period, e.g., 30 days] before the original expiration date (or subsequent expiration date) offering to renew this Agreement subject to the amendment of certain terms and conditions shall be treated as a notice of termination unless the other party accepts in writing the amended terms and conditions at least [time period, e.g., 15 days] before the original expiration date (or subsequent expiration date).

[OR]

[Second Alternative (new agreement required for renewal):]

7.02. This Agreement terminates on the original expiration date set forth in Paragraph 7.01 of this Agreement unless the parties enter into and execute a renewal agreement prior to the original expiration date.

[Continue with the following:]

Termination by Notice

7.03. Either party to this Agreement [add if desired:, after it has been in effect for at least _____ (specify minimum period, e.g., 60 days),] may elect to cancel and terminate this Agreement with or without cause as of _____[describe effective date of termination and method required to terminate, e.g., the close of business on the last day of any calendar month by giving written notice to the other party at least _____ (time period, e.g., 60 days) prior to the termination date].

Termination on Sale

7.04. Owner shall notify Manager at least [specify number] days before an anticipated transfer of title to the Premises. On transfer of title to the Premises, this Agreement shall automatically terminate.

Right to Terminate on Bankruptcy

7.05. If either Owner or Manager is adjudicated a bankrupt, voluntarily files for bankruptcy, or makes any assignment for the benefit of creditors, either party may terminate this Agreement by giving the other written notice of termination. The Agreement shall terminate on the date specified in the notice of termination. [If termination fee is otherwise payable, add: In the event of termination under this Paragraph, Manager shall not be entitled to the termination fee provided for in Paragraph _____ (number, e.g., 7.07) of this Agreement].

Effect of Termination

7.06. On termination of this Agreement, Owner and Manager agree as follows:

(b) Manager's right to compensation [if termination fee is payable, add:, other than any termination fee payable under this Agreement,] shall immediately cease, except that Manager is entitled to compensation for services rendered before the termination date.

(c) The agency relationship created under this Agreement shall immediately cease, and Manager shall have no further right or authority to act for or on behalf of Owner.

[If manager occupies office on the premises, add:]

(d) Manager shall immediately: vacate the office occupied by it on the Premises, remove only personal property owned by Manager, and leave the office in good condition and repair.

No termination fee shall be paid or payable in the event of a termination by either Owner or Manager under Paragraph 7.05 of this Agreement. In the event this Agreement terminates because title to the Premises is transferred by Owner, the amount paid or payable to Manager as a termination fee shall be offset by any real estate broker's commission paid or payable to Manager from the sale of the Premises. Also, no termination fee shall be paid or payable to Manager in the event the new owner of the Premises hires Manager to operate and manage the Premises.

ARTICLE 8. MISCELLANEOUS

Attorneys' Fees

8.01. If any litigation is commenced between the parties to this Agreement concerning the Premises, this Agreement, or the rights and duties of either party with respect to this Agreement, the party prevailing in the litigation shall be entitled, in addition to any other relief that may be granted in the litigation, to a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in the litigation that shall be determined by the court in the litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Prohibition Against Assignment

8.02. Manager shall not assign this Agreement without Owner's prior written consent.

PART IV. FORMS
A. General Purpose Property Management Agreements

18-38 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 38.201

AUTHOR: by Jeannie C. Newell, J.D.

§ 38.201 Property Management Agreement [CAR Form]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the California Association of Realtors (CAR) standard form of Property Management Agreement [CAR Form PMA, displayed/reprinted with permission, CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS(R); endorsement not implied]. It may be used when the manager is a licensed real estate broker [see § 38.19]. Although this form may be used for many different types of property management situations, the particular desires and needs of most property owners require at least some modification or alteration of this basic model. For a more detailed, custom-drafted property management agreement, see § 38.200.

[b] Summary of Form Provisions

Under this form, the owner grants the broker/manager (hereafter referred to as the "manager") the exclusive right to rent, lease, operate, and manage the property or properties described in the agreement [see [2], P 1; see also [c], below]. The agreement may be terminated by either party on 30 days' written notice to the other. However, the right to terminate may not be exercised until a minimum period agreed on by the parties has elapsed [see [2], P 1]. If neither party exercises that right, the agreement will terminate on a specified date [see [2], P 1].

Paragraph 3 of this form sets forth the duties and responsibilities of the manager for the operation and maintenance of the property. They include the following: advertising the availability of rental units; executing, renewing, modifying, and cancelling leases; collecting rents, security deposits, and other charges; terminating tenancies; making repairs and providing maintenance services; entering into contracts involving the operation and maintenance of the property; and paying various expenses and costs for the property [see [2], P 3].

This form requires the parties to specify the compensation the manager is to receive for the performance of various services [see [2], P 6; see also § 38.15]. It also permits the manager to be compensated by tenants who retain the services of the manager to obtain the owner's consent to an assignment of their leases [see [2], P 6(D)(1)].

[c] Status of Manager as Independent Contractor or Employee

An important issue in any property management transaction is whether the manager will be an employee or an independent contractor [see § 38.18]. A previous version of this form provided that the owner "hereby employs" the manager. This form no longer contains any language relating to an employment relationship between the owner and the manager. Instead, it states that the owner "hereby appoints" and grants the manager certain rights [see [2], P 1]. It also provides that the manager agrees to act as the dual agent for the owner and tenant(s) in any resulting lease transaction involving the property covered by the agreement [see [2], P 7]. Although this language suggests that the manager is an independent contractor instead of an employee, there is no express provision establishing an independent contractor status. However, as discussed below, factors other than the terminology used in the agreement must be taken into account in determining the manager's status.

Whether a person is an independent contractor or an employee is generally a question of fact [Rogers v. Whitson (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 662, 672, 39 Cal. Rptr. 849] . Although the language of an agreement is a factor in determining whether the manager is an employee or an independent contractor, it is not determinative [see Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 952, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975] . Instead, a variety of factors must be considered in making this determination [see Restatement of Agency 2d, § 220 and Comment h; Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 943, 949-950, 88 Cal. Rptr. 175, 471 P.2d 975 ; Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43-44, 168 P.2d 686] . The single most important factor is the right to control the manner and means by which the work is accomplished. If the employer has the right to exercise complete control, an employer-employee relationship exists [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Cal. Emp. Com. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 33, 43, 168 P.2d 686] .

If a manager is an employee, the employer must comply with applicable minimum wage and maximum hour laws, as well as other laws relating to employees. For discussion of those laws, see § 38.220[1][d], [e].

For extensive coverage of the laws governing independent contractors and employees, see Ch. 84, Independent Contractors , and Ch. 85, Employment Agreements . For alternative provisions characterizing a property manager as an employee or independent contractor, see § 38.200[2].

§ 38.220 Resident Manager Employment Agreement--Custom-Drafted Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a management agreement for a resident manager who is an employee rather than an independent contractor [see [d], below]. It is drafted for use by a property owner to directly employ the resident manager, but may be easily modified for use by a property management firm to employ a resident manager for residential property managed by the firm. For a shorter, standardized resident management agreement, see § 38.221. For a full-service property management agreement, see § 38.200.

For discussion of the factors that must be considered in determining whether a manager is an independent contractor or an employee, see § 38.200[1][b].

[b] Resident Manager or Live-in Caretaker Required for Certain Properties

As a matter of practice, a resident manager is often hired for apartment complexes to monitor on-site tenant problems and to perform recurring management tasks. An on-site manager or other responsible person is required for certain residential properties. Specifically, if an owner of an apartment house containing 16 or more apartments does not reside in the apartment house, some responsible caretaker, such as a manger, janitor, housekeeper, or other responsible person, must reside on and have charge of the premises. The same requirement applies to every hotel in which there are 12 or more guest rooms. Only one caretaker is required for structures under one ownership and on one contiguous parcel of land. For an apartment house with more than four but fewer than 16 apartments and in which the owner does not reside, a notice stating the owner's name and address, or the name and address of an agent in charge of the apartment house, must be posted in a conspicuous place on the premises [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 42].

[c] Duties of Resident Manager

The employer of a resident manager should clearly set forth in the agreement all duties the manager is expected to perform. Paragraph 4 of this form lists several duties commonly performed by a resident manager. These include showing vacant apartments, collecting rents from tenants, and performing light maintenance tasks.

[d] Overview of Wage and Hour Laws

If a resident manager is an employee of either the property owner or a management firm, in contrast to an independent contractor [see § 38.18], the employer must comply with all applicable minimum wage and maximum hour laws, as well as other laws relating to employees [see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements]. In California, the wages, hours, and working conditions of a resident manager employed in an apartment building are regulated by the Industrial Welfare Commission [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050]. The Commission's Order regulating wages, hours, and working conditions in the public housekeeping industry [see Industrial Welfare Order No. 5-89 (effective 7/1/89)] extends to all nonexempt employees [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(1); see also § 38.23[1]] employed in the public housekeeping industry, which includes apartment houses, hotels, motels, rooming houses, office or loft buildings, camps, clubs, trailer parks, and similar establishments offering the rental of living, business, or commercial quarters [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(2)(P)(3)]. Some of the specific wage and hour requirements are discussed in [e], below.

If the employer is subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 [29 U.S.C. § 201 et seq.; see § 38.23[2]], wages and hours of the manager are also regulated under the Act and its implementing regulations [see, e.g., 29 C.F.R. pts. 531 (wage payments under Act), 776 (interpretive bulletin on general wage and hours provisions of Act)].

[e] Manager's Compensation

This agreement provides that the manager is entitled to a monthly salary, payable semimonthly [see Lab. Code § 204 (requirements governing semimonthly payments)], plus the use of a designated apartment for services rendered under the agreement [see [2], P 2, below]. The wages paid to the manager must at least equal the hourly minimum wage for all hours worked [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(4)(A)]. When an employee is required to reside on the premises, "hours worked" means the time spent carrying out assigned duties [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(2)(K)].

Hourly overtime rates must be paid if the employee works hours in excess of eight per day or 40 per week, or if the employee works more than six days in any one workweek [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(3)(A)]. An employee may, however, be employed on seven workdays in one workweek with no overtime pay required when the total hours of employment during the workweek do not exceed 30 and the total hours of employment in any one workday of the workweek do not exceed six [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(3)(G)]. The exact amount of overtime pay required for excess hours worked by an employee ranges from one-and-one-half to two times the regular rate of pay for an employee [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(3)(A)].

This form [see [2], P 5, below] requires the employer to specify the maximum hours in a day and in a week and the maximum days in a week the manager is authorized to work. The manager must obtain the employer's permission to work hours in excess of those specified unless the extra hours are required because of an emergency situation. As a practical matter, the hours required for a resident manager to perform his or her duties usually vary from day to day. For this reason, this agreement allows the manager to establish his or her own work schedule and to work hours that may vary from day to day, as long as the maximum number of hours and days specified in the agreement are not exceeded. The manager must furnish the employer, on a semimonthly basis, a record of all hours worked. An employer in the public housekeeping industry is required to keep and maintain various types of employee records, including records of all hours worked by each employee [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(7)].

Under the terms of this agreement, the value of the apartment to be occupied by the resident manager is to be credited toward the manager's total monthly salary, and thus toward the employer's minimum wage obligation [see [2], P 2, below]. Lodging may not be credited against the minimum wage without a voluntary written agreement between the employer and the resident manager [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(10)(C)]. When credit for lodging is used to meet part of the minimum wage obligation of the employer, the lodging, if an apartment, may not be valued in excess of two-thirds of the ordinary rental value of the apartment, or a maximum dollar amount prescribed in the regulations, whichever is less. The maximum dollar amount permitted depends on whether only the manager is employed or whether a couple is employed [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(10)(C)]. Also, if as a condition of employment, the employee must live at the place of employment or occupy quarters owned or under the control of the employer, then the employer may not charge rent for an apartment in excess of the described maximum amounts [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(10)(E)].

Rather than credit the value of a resident manager's apartment against the employer's minimum wage obligation, the employer and manager may agree on a different compensation arrangement. For example, they might agree that the employer will pay the manager a salary that meets minimum wage requirements and that no deduction will be made for the manager's use of the apartment. Instead, the manager will separately pay the employer a specific amount each month (or other period) for the use of the apartment. If this arrangement is reached through the voluntary written agreement of the parties, the employer may charge the employee up to two-thirds of the fair market rental value of the apartment for its use [Lab. Code § 1182.8]. As discussed in the paragraph above, if the use of the apartment is credited against the employer's minimum wage obligation to the employee, the maximum value that can be credited is the lesser of two-thirds of the ordinary rental value of the apartment or the maximum dollar amount permitted under the regulations [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(10)].

[f] Manager's Right to Occupy Apartment

This agreement states that the manager's right to occupy an apartment on the managed premises arises from the employee-employer relationship between the parties and does not create a landlord-tenant relationship [see [2], P 3, below]. The tenant's right to occupy the apartment ends when the employment relationship terminates [see [g], below]. The purpose of these provisions is to clarify that the manager is not a tenant and is not entitled to any legal rights of a tenant [see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases] before or after the agreement is terminated. For this reason, the property owner or manager should not enter into any lease with the resident manager that would create a tenancy unless a tenancy is intended.

A person who becomes the occupant of premises as an employee and who remains in possession after termination of the employer-employee relationship or after the time fixed in the employment agreement for occupancy has expired is guilty of unlawful detainer [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(1)]. A resident manager who occupies premises furnished by the employer as compensation to the manager under an employment agreement does not have a right to retain possession of the premises after the employment relationship is terminated. If the former manager continues to occupy the premises following the termination, he or she is a tenant at sufferance [Karz v. Mecham (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4, 174 Cal. Rptr. 310] . However, if the employee remains in possession and the employer demands rent in a stated monthly amount for the employee's continued occupancy, the tenancy at sufferance may be converted into a month-to-month tenancy [see Karz v. Mecham (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4, 174 Cal. Rptr. 310] .

[g] Termination of Agreement

The termination provision in this agreement allows either party to terminate the employment relationship at any time by giving written notice to the other [see [2], P 6, below]. The parties should specify the exact time period within which the resident manager must vacate his or her apartment once the agreement has been terminated [see [f], above].

Employee shall post, on the door of Employee's apartment [or specify other location], a schedule of the hours for which Employee is regularly available for work.

§ 38.221 Resident Apartment Manager-Employer Agreement [CAA Form]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the California Apartment Association (CAA) standard Resident Apartment Manager-Employee Agreement [reprinted with permission, California Apartment Association]. A property owner may use this form to employ a resident manager on an hourly basis [see § 38.200[1][b] (status of manager as employee or independent contractor)].

Instruction sheets for completing this form are available from CAA [see CAA Instruction Sheets 1.0-I and 1.2-I]. The instructions are not reproduced here because they refer to specific wages and other amounts required by applicable state and federal wage and hour laws, and those requirements are subject to continuing change. Counsel should contact the CAA to obtain the latest revision of both the management agreement form and its accompanying instruction sheets.

PRACTICE TIP:

California Apartment Association Forms. The CAA publishes a "Rental Housing Forms Sample Packet." The booklet includes instruction sheets for completing the forms as well as the forms. A listing of all CAA local Chapters and Divisions, including address, phone numbers, and fax numbers, is also included. The address, telephone number, fax number, and e-mail address of CAA's main office is as follows:

California Apartment Association
980 Ninth Street, Suite 2150
Sacramento, CA 95814

Telephone: (800) 967-4222
Fax: (916) 447-7903

This form must be used in conjunction with two other CAA forms. For discussion of those forms, see [b], below.

For a custom-drafted resident manager agreement, see § 38.220[2]. For coverage of the laws governing resident managers, see § 38.220[1].

[b] Related CAA Exhibits

[i] List of Duties

This form does not describe the manager's duties. Instead, it (1) provides that the duties assigned to the manager are indicated on "Exhibit A--Job Description" [see § 38.222[2] (Exhibit A)], and (2) incorporates the provisions of Exhibit A by reference [see [2], P 2]. For further discussion of that exhibit, see § 28.222[1].

[ii] Record of Hours Worked

Paragraph 1 of the form in [2], below, provides that the "employee" (that is, the manager) will be compensated on an hourly basis. Further, it requires the manager to obtain the consent of the "employer" (that is, the owner) before working more than a specified number of hours per week. "Exhibit B" of the Resident Apartment Manager-Employer Agreement is the "Report of Hours Worked" form [see § 38.223].

[c] Apartment Occupied by Resident Manager

If a resident manager is an employee, the employer must comply with all applicable minimum wage and maximum hour laws, as well as other laws relating to employees. The California laws governing a manager's wages provide, in part, that a portion of the value of an apartment provided to a resident manager may be credited against the resident manager's minimum wage compensation [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050; see also § 38.220[1][d], [e]]. However, if the employer is subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 [see § 38.23], value for use of the apartment may not be deducted from the employee's salary. Rather, the employee must separately pay the agreed-on amount for his or her use of the apartment directly to the employer [see 29 U.S.C. § 203(m); see also 29 C.F.R. pt. 531]. This form provides for both alternatives [see [2], P 3].

For additional coverage of wage and hour laws, see § 38.220[1][d], [e].

§ 38.222 Exhibit A--Job Description [CAA Form]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the California Apartment Association (CAA) Exhibit A--Job Description [reprinted with permission, California Apartment Association]. It is an exhibit to the CAA standard form for a Resident Apartment Manager-Employer Agreement [see § 38.221]. For an additional exhibit intended for use with the CAA standard resident management agreement, see § 38.223 (Exhibit B--Report of Hours Worked).

This form contains an extensive list of property management duties. By checking the appropriate box following each listed duty, the parties to the underlying manager-employer agreement indicate whether the primary responsibility for the performance of the duty rests with the manager, the employer (that is, the owner), or an outside contractor. Any duties assigned in this manner to the manager are subject to the manager-employer agreement. That agreement incorporates this form by reference [see § 38.221[2], P 2].

§ 38.223 Exhibit B--Report of Hours Worked [CAA Form]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the California Apartment Association (CAA) Exhibit B--Report of Hours Worked [reprinted with permission, California Apartment Association]. It is an exhibit to the CAA standard form for a Resident Apartment Manager-Employer Agreement [see § 38.221[2]]. For an additional exhibit intended for use with the CAA standard resident management agreement, see § 38.222[2] (Exhibit A--Job Description).

The manager uses this form to record hours worked pursuant to the underlying CAA manager-employer agreement. Under that agreement, the manager is paid by the hour. The manager must obtain the employer's consent before devoting more than a specified number of hours per week to the performance of the duties assigned to the manager in Exhibit A [see § 38.221[2], P 1; see also § 38.222[2] (Exhibit A)]. By establishing these maximum hours, the owner may prevent the manager from qualifying for the hourly overtime rates required by California law [for coverage of those rates, see § 38.220[1][e]]. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the CAA manager-employer agreement provides that the manager may exceed the specified maximum hours without obtaining the employer's prior consent in the case of an emergency, provided the manager notifies the employer of the additional hours worked within 48 hours [see § 38.221[2], P 1].

This form reflects the above provisions of the underlying manager-employer agreement by requiring the manager to report all hours worked. As a practical matter, the manager-employer agreement does not require the manager to work a specified number of hours. Instead, it specifies the duties the manager must perform, and, as discussed above, requires the manager to obtain the owner's consent before working more than the specified maximum hours. Further, the manager must indicate whether or not excess hours were authorized or were the result of an emergency. Finally, the manager must also use this form to report any failure to perform the assigned duties.

§ 38.224 Motel Management Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement between an owner of a motel and a property manager for the management of the motel. Motel management combines the duties and responsibilities of both commercial and residential property management since the manager must not only operate a business but also attract and handle guests. Large motel and hotel chains often have their own management divisions. For an alternative hotel management agreement, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 22, Real Estate Development and Subdivision , Part E, "Real Estate Management" (Matthew Bender).

In addition to the usual management duties of handling guests, collecting room revenues and other charges, and arranging for building maintenance, a motel manager is normally required to arrange for continuous advertising, to hire and manage a large staff, to operate restaurants and other facilities or deal with business tenants who will operate these facilities, and to maintain a system of services responsive to the needs of the guests. Paragraph 3 of this form describes in detail typical duties of a motel manager and includes language limiting the authority of the manager in carrying out certain duties. The manager is paid a base salary plus a percentage of net profits generated by the motel [see [2], P 7, below]. The circumstances under which the agreement may be terminated prior to its natural expiration date are described in Paragraph 11 of the form.

[b] Requirement of Live-In Caretaker or Manager

A manager, janitor, housekeeper, or other responsible person must reside on the premises and must have charge of every hotel in which there are 12 or more guest rooms if the owner of the hotel does not reside on the premises [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 42]. It is not clear whether or not this regulation is also applicable to motels [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1 (applicability of housing law regulations)]. For forms of agreement that may be used by a management firm or property owner to employ a resident manager, see §§ 38.220[2] and 38.221[2].

[c] Status of Manager

Paragraph 1 of this form provides that the manager will be the owner's employee. For discussion of the factors that must be considered in determining whether a manager is an independent contractor or an employee, see § 38.200[1][b].

An employer must comply with all applicable minimum wage and hour laws, as well as other laws relating to employees. Those laws include regulations governing non-exempt employees in the public housekeeping industry, such as motel employees [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11050(2)(P)(3)]. For additional discussion, see § 38.220[1][d], [e].

(h) Manager shall perform or arrange for the performance of the following tasks to conserve water in the Motel:

(1) Clean all sidewalk and other concrete areas by sweeping them with a broom, unless cleaning with water is necessary for health and safety reasons.

(2) Water all grass and shrubbery prior to dawn or after sunset.

(3) Serve water to guests and patrons of the restaurant only on request.

(4) On or before _____ (date), equip all showers with flow-restrictor shower heads, and install water displacement bags or bottles in all toilet tanks, pursuant to a schedule that does not interrupt the occupation of rooms by guests.

(5) Strictly follow any other conservation measures made mandatory by any governmental authority with jurisdiction.

[Continue with the following:]

(i) Manager shall comply with all statutes, ordinances, laws, rules, regulations, orders, and determinations of any government authority with jurisdiction over the Motel. Any repair or capital improvement costing in excess of $ _____ required by any government authority shall not be made by Manager without the prior written consent of Owner, unless the repair or capital improvement and its cost have previously been provided for and approved in the Annual Budget described in Paragraph 4 of this Agreement. If any required repair or capital improvement is not made because Owner fails or refuses to give its consent after Manager's written request for consent, Owner shall indemnify and hold Manager harmless from any and all liability, including attorneys' fees, that may arise from the failure to make the repair or capital improvement.

(j) On behalf of and at the expense of Owner, Manager shall institute in Manager's name all necessary legal actions or proceedings to collect charges, rent, or other income from the Motel, to evict or oust guests, tenants, or other persons on the premises of the Motel, or to terminate any Tenant Facility lease for default by the tenant _____ [set forth any restrictions or limitations on authority, e.g.,; provided, however, that Manager shall not terminate any Tenant Facility lease with a term in excess of one year without the prior written consent of Owner]. Owner shall designate counsel [or shall have the right to approve counsel designated by Manager] for any legal action described under this Subparagraph.

(k) Manager shall receive, consider, respond to, and resolve all guest, customer, and tenant complaints and problems.

(l) Manager shall perform all other duties specifically set forth in this Agreement.

Annual Budget and Plan

4. The Motel shall be operated and books and records maintained for the Motel on the basis of a calendar year [or a fiscal year that begins on _____ (date) and ends on _____ (date)]. At least [time period, e.g., 60 days] prior to the beginning of each calendar [or fiscal year] in the term of this Agreement, Manager shall prepare and submit to Owner for Owner's approval a detailed Annual Budget and Plan that sets forth an estimate of all projected income from the Motel (including all of its Facilities and Tenant Facilities) and an estimate of all expenses for the Motel (including all costs for repairs, maintenance, replacements, and capital expenditures for the ensuing calendar [or fiscal] year). Within [time period, e.g., 30 days] after its receipt of the Annual Budget and Plan, Owner shall either approve it or specify the particular items of expense or income that are to be amended. Owner may not increase or decrease the amount of any of Manager's estimates by more than [number, e.g., 10] percent without Manager's approval. Manager shall comply with the Annual Budget and Plan as approved or amended by Owner and shall not incur any substantial expense not set forth in the Annual Budget and Plan, except: in the case of an emergency; or when the failure to incur the expense would subject Owner to imminent criminal liability other than the payment of fines.

Income and Expense Statements

5.(a) On or before the [day of month, e.g., 15th] day of each month, Manager shall deliver to Owner (or any person or entity designated in writing by Owner) a detailed Income and Expense Statement of the Motel's operations that separately sets forth all capital expenditures and all net profit for both the preceding month and for the period beginning on the first day of the calendar [or fiscal] year and ending on the last day of the preceding month. The statements shall be prepared by the accounting department for the Motel and shall be certified by one of Manager's authorized financial officers.

(b) Not later than _____ [time period, e.g., 60 days] after the end of each calendar [or fiscal] year in the term of this Agreement, Manager shall deliver to Owner a detailed Annual Income and Expense Statement of the Motel's operations that sets forth all capital expenditures and the net profit for the preceding calendar [or fiscal] year. The statement shall be prepared and certified by the public accounting firm of _____ [name of firm] or any other firm designed in writing by Owner from time to time. Manager shall provide the firm with the data necessary for the preparation of the statement.

Payments to Owner

6. Simultaneously with the delivery each month of the Income and Expense Statement described in Subparagraph 5(a) of this Agreement, Manager shall remit to Owner all amounts collected on Owner's behalf from Motel operations during the preceding month, less: disbursements and advances made on behalf of and for Owner's account; and a reasonable amount for reserves determined by Manager to be necessary for the payment of obligations that will or may become due, taking into account estimated future income. Nothing in this Paragraph shall limit or preclude Owner's right to use or withdraw funds from Motel operations that are deposited in bank accounts for Owner's account pursuant to Subparagraph 3(e) of this Agreement.

Manager's Compensation

7. As compensation for Manager's services under this Agreement, Owner shall pay Manager a base annual salary of $ [dollar amount] ("Salary"), plus [number] percent of the Motel's net profit [or some other measure capable of objective determination, e.g., net sales or adjusted net sales] ("Incentive") for each calendar [or fiscal] year as shown on the final Annual Income and Expense Statement described in Subparagraph 5(b) of this Agreement. The Salary portion of Manager's compensation shall be payable in monthly installments, on the [day of month, e.g., first] day of each month. The Incentive Portion of Manager's compensation shall be paid not later than [time period that is after the date by which the annual income and expense statement must be prepared, e.g., 90 days] after the end of each calender [or fiscal year] in the term of this Agreement.

Insurance for Motel

8.(a) Manager shall procure and maintain in full force and effect throughout the term of this Agreement, the following types of insurance for the Motel: public liability insurance; fire insurance; any insurance required under Owner's deed(s) of trust on the Motel, any tenant lease, or any other applicable written agreement; and any insurance otherwise required by Owner in a written notice provided to Manager.

(b) Simultaneously with submission of the Annual Budget and Plan for the Motel each year, Manager shall submit to owner a schedule that sets forth the insurance presently maintained and in force for the Motel (including the type, amount, and name of the insurer) and any additional insurance Manager recommends be procured and maintained for the protection of the Motel, Owner, and Manager (including the type, amount, and name of the insurer). Within _____ [time period, e.g., 30 days] after its receipt of the schedule, Owner shall advise Manager in writing of the specific insurance to be maintained (and procured, if necessary) for the following year, specifying, for every type of insurance, the amount and the name of the insurer. The insurer need not be the same one (if any) specified in the Manager's schedule for the particular type of insurance. Manager shall maintain in full force and effect and procure as necessary all insurance for the Motel set forth in Owner's written directive.

(c) All insurance required under this Agreement shall be maintained at Owner's expense. The original and one duplicate of all policies shall be delivered to Owner or to persons or entities designated by Owner.

(d) For each policy of insurance required to be maintained under this Agreement, Owner shall indicate in writing whether the policy shall name Owner, Manager, or a mortgagee as insured. Any policy of hazard insurance shall contain a loss payment clause that meets the requirements of any mortgage covering the Motel.

(e) Provided Manager procures and maintains in full force and effect all insurance required under this Agreement, Owner and Manager agree that neither shall assert against the other any claims for losses, damages, liability, or expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred or sustained by them, to the extent the losses, damages, liability, or expenses are covered by insurance, on the account of damage or injury to person or property arising out of the ownership, operation, or maintenance of the Motel. If Manager fails to procure and maintain in full force and effect any or all insurance required under this Agreement, Manager shall be solely liable for any and all losses, damages, liability, and expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred or sustained by Manager or Owner and not fully reimbursed by insurance proceeds.

(f) Owner shall indemnify and hold harmless Manager from all damages for injuries to persons or property on or about the Motel premises and shall defend any action against Manager arising from those injuries, subject to the limitations described in Subparagraph (e) of this Paragraph, and provided that the damages were not the result of the gross negligence or willful misconduct of Manager.

(g) Manager and Owner shall each give the other notice of any claims made against either of them or against the Motel, and each shall cooperate with the other and any insurance carrier in the investigation and defense of any claim. Manager shall not hire or retain legal counsel for the defense of Owner or the Motel without the prior written consent of Owner.

(h) Manager shall comply with any written directive prepared from time to time by Owner that instructs Manager to maintain a fidelity or other bond for the protection of Owner, Manager, or any mortgagee. The bonds shall be in the amounts and obtained from the surety companies designated by Owner in Owner's written directive to Manager.

Casualty Losses

9. In the event the Motel is damaged by fire or other casualty, Manager shall immediately notify Owner. As Owner's agent, Manager shall file the insurance claim(s) with the appropriate insurer and shall negotiate with the insurer as necessary for the payment of proceeds. If Owner determines that the assistance of legal counsel is necessary to obtain the insurance proceeds, Owner shall designate the counsel to be used. Manager shall obtain Owner's written consent prior to entering into any settlement [or any settlement in excess of $ _____ (maximum dollar amount, e.g., $5,000)] on behalf of Owner. With the insurance proceeds obtained, Manager shall cause the damaged premises to be promptly repaired and restored as nearly as practicable to the condition existing immediately prior to the damage or destruction. For any repairs or restoration costing in excess of the total insurance proceeds collected for the casualty, Manager shall obtain Owner's written consent for the cost of repairs prior to the time Manager authorizes the repairs to be made. The provisions of any Mortgage on the Motel governing the payment of insurance proceeds in the event of a casualty loss shall have priority and supersede, to the extent applicable, the provisions of this Paragraph.

Subordination of Agreement to Mortgage(s)

10. This Agreement is not, and shall not be deemed to be, an interest in or a lien against either the Motel or the real property on which the Motel is located. This Agreement and the rights of Manager set forth in the Agreement shall be and remain at all times subordinate to any mortgage on the Motel or its underlying real property (including any renewal, modification, consolidation, replacement, or extension of any mortgage). If requested by Owner or any Mortgagee, Manager shall execute a separate written instrument confirming the subordination described in this Paragraph.

Termination of Agreement

11. Owner may terminate this Agreement by written notice to Manager if any of the following occur:

(a) Pursuant to any federal or state statute:

(1) Manager files in any court a petition in bankruptcy or insolvency, or for a reorganization, or for the appointment of a receiver or trustee of all or a substantial portion of Manager's property.

(2) Manager makes an assignment for, petitions for, or enters into an arrangement for the benefit of creditors.

(3) A petition in bankruptcy is filed against Manager and is not discharged within 90 days after the filing date.

(b) Owner sells the Motel.

(c) The Motel or a substantial portion of it is taken by eminent domain.

(d) Owner loses title to the Motel, the right to possession of the Motel, or the right to collect income from the Motel, regardless of the cause of the loss.

(e) Following substantial damage to the Motel by fire or other casualty, Owner elects not to rebuild the Motel.

(f) Manager defaults in the performance of this Agreement, and within _____ [time period, e.g., 30 days] following Owner's written notice to Manager of the alleged default: Manager fails to cure the default; or, if the default is not capable of being cured within the above cure period, Manager fails to commence to cure the default within that period and to diligently proceed to cure the default.

[Add the following if manager is to have the right to demand arbitration of disputes involving manager's alleged default:]

Notwithstanding the foregoing, Manager shall have the right to dispute Owner's assertion that Manager is in default and to demand arbitration by so notifying Owner in writing within [time period, e.g., 15 days] after the date of Owner's notice of Manager's default. The dispute shall be promptly submitted to arbitration for determination in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association, and the decision of the arbitrator shall be final and binding on both parties. If the decision of the arbitrator is that Manager is in default under this Agreement, Manager shall pay all costs and expenses of the arbitration. If the arbitrator finds that Manager is not in default under this Agreement, Owner shall pay all costs and expenses of the arbitration.

[Continue with the following:]

(g) Any notice of termination given by Owner to Manager pursuant to this Paragraph shall set forth the effective date of termination. Except in the case of a termination subject to Subparagraph (f) of this Paragraph, the termination date shall be no earlier than _____ [time period, e.g., two weeks] after the date of Owner's notice of termination. In the case of a termination subject to Subparagraph (f), the termination date shall reflect the time periods set forth in that subparagraph.

Assignment

12. Manager may not assign this Agreement without the prior written consent of Owner [describe any exceptions to consent requirement, e.g.,, except that Manager's merger or consolidation with a corporation that has substantially the same operating personnel as Manager on the date of the consolidation or merger and that is primarily engaged in the management and operation of motels shall not require the prior written consent of Owner].

Mortgage and Mortgagee Defined

13. As used in this Agreement, the term "mortgage" means any mortgage, deed of trust, or similar security instrument executed by Owner in connection with the Motel or the real property on which the Motel is located. "Mortgagee" means the holder of any mortgage, deed of trust, or similar security instrument.

Attorneys' Fees

14. If any litigation is commenced between the parties to this Agreement concerning the Premises, this Agreement, or the rights and duties of either party with respect to this Agreement, the party prevailing in the litigation shall be entitled, in addition to any other relief that may be granted in the litigation, to a reasonable sum as and for its attorneys' fees in the litigation that shall be determined by the court in the litigation or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Notices

15. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this Agreement or by law to be served on or given to either party by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly served and given when personally delivered to the party to whom they are directed, or in lieu of personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Owner at _____[street address, city, state, and zip code] or to Manager at _____[street address, city, state, and zip code]. Either party may change its address for the purpose of this Paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this Paragraph.

Binding on Heirs and Successors

16. The provisions of this Agreement shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of both of the parties and to their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, except that nothing in this Paragraph shall be construed as a consent by Owner to any assignment of this Agreement or any interest in it by Manager except as provided in Paragraph 12 of this Agreement.

Partial Invalidity

17. In the event any provision of this Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be either invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions of the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect.

Sole Agreement

18. This Agreement constitutes the sole agreement between the parties regarding the matters contained in it.

Owner's Consent

CHAPTER 38 REAL PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART IV. FORMS
B. Specialized Property Management Agreements

18-38 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 38.225

AUTHOR: by Jeannie C. Newell, J.D.

§ 38.225 Agricultural Property Management Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a management agreement for agricultural property. It may be used by an owner of agricultural property to turn over to a manager or management firm complete responsibility for operating a particular type of agricultural operation on the owner's property. It is appropriate for use if the manager is an independent contractor rather than an employee of the owner [see [2], P 1; see also § 38.200[1][b] (discussion of manager's status as independent contractor or employee)].

For illustrative purposes only, this agreement uses the example of a walnut orchard. However, with few modifications, the form can be used for other types of agricultural property, such as a farm, ranch, or vineyard. The specific duties of the manager and expenses involved in management will depend on the particular type of agricultural activity conducted on the property.

[b] Payment of Property Expenses

Under the terms of this agreement, the property manager is required to pay all property expenses from revenues produced by the property. To the extent revenues are insufficient, the property owner must provide funds for the payment of the expenses [see [2], P 6]. Because agricultural property generally produces income only annually, rather than monthly as do most nonagricultural types of property, some or all of the property expenses may become due prior to the time that the property produces its annual income. For example, expenses for planting and maintaining a crop may become due and payable prior to the time when the crop is harvested and sold. Under the terms of this agreement, the property owner must supply the manager with the funds necessary to pay these expenses and is assumed to have made his or her own financing arrangements in this regard.

[c] Compensation to Manager

The compensation paid to a manager of agricultural property, like that paid to a manager of nonagricultural property, is usually in the form of a fixed fee or a specified percentage of income from the property [see § 38.15 [1]]. However, unlike managers of nonagricultural property who generally receive a monthly fee for managing property that generates a monthly income, managers of agricultural property may receive an annual management fee that corresponds with the property's yearly production of income. The compensation provision in this form [see [2], P 7] permits the parties to specify the compensation to be paid to the manager for each year covered by the term of the agreement. That compensation may be the same for each year, or may vary from year to year.

[d] Termination of Agreement

The first termination provision in this form [see [2], P 9] permits either the property owner or the property manager to terminate the agreement without cause and prior to the original termination date set by the parties, but only at the end of any year for which the agreement is to be in effect. Under this type of provision, both the owner and manager are assured that, absent a default by either party, the management agreement will be in effect for at least one full year. Because most agricultural activities are of a seasonal nature, the years in the term of the agreement should coincide with the growing season involved. This type of provision is intended to protect the manager from a mid-season termination of the agreement, that is, a termination prior to the time the crop is harvested. Also, from the standpoint of the property manager, it may not be economically feasible for the manager to enter into the management agreement unless the agreement prohibits the owner from terminating the agreement without cause for at least one full year.

The second termination clause in this form [see [2], P 10] is intended to cover the situation in which either party defaults under the terms of the agreement. It describes a procedure for submitting disputes to an arbitrator who has the power to terminate the agreement.

After delivery of the Allegation of Default, the violating party shall have [number, e.g., 30] days within which to cure the alleged default or to otherwise respond to the Allegation of Default. If the violating party does cure the alleged default within the required time period, this Agreement shall continue in effect as though no default had occurred. Scope

by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.n* Scope

This chapter covers the statutory and regulatory requirements governing mobilehome parks. It provides an overview of the development and construction requirements for a new mobilehome rental park, and reproduces applications for a construction permit and a permit to operate a park. The chapter also covers the conversion of a mobilehome rental park to a resident-owned park. Finally, the chapter examines in detail the operation of a mobilehome park and the relationship between park management and the tenants of the park (referred to as "homeowners" under the applicable laws). Illustrative forms relating to park tenancies include a lease agreement, park rules and regulations, and notices that must or may be given by either park management or a homeowner.

Unless otherwise indicated, all regulatory requirements discussed in this chapter apply to manufactured homes as well as to mobilehomes [see § 39.11]. Except for a brief summary of applicable tenancy laws [see §§ 39.15, 39.16], the chapter does not cover recreational vehicles and floating homes. Finally, this chapter does not discuss factory-built housing.

For extensive coverage of the sale of mobilehomes (and manufactured homes), registration and titling requirements, and security interests in mobilehomes, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes . Chapter 40 also covers the taxation and installation of mobilehomes.

CHAPTER 39 MOBILEHOME PARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

18-39 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 39.10

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 39.10 Rental Park and Resident-Owned Park Distinguished

There are two basic types of mobilehome parks. The first, commonly referred to as a rental park, is one in which the individual lots or spaces in the park are rented or leased to individual owners of mobilehomes by the park's owner, usually through the owner's manager or management company. The second type of park is one in which the individual owners of mobilehomes located in the park have some type of ownership interest in the park and in the lots or spaces occupied by their mobilehomes. Examples of this type of park include those organized as regular subdivisions, condominiums, or cooperatives [see § 39.28].

The distinction between the two types of parks is important for determining the applicability of specific statutory requirements. For example, the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and its requirements for development, construction, and operation of a park [see § 39.13 (summary of Act)] apply only to rental parks and resident-owned parks that were converted from a rental park [see Health & Safety Code § 18214(a) ("mobilehome park" defined)]. Parks that are developed and constructed from the outset as resident-owned parks are therefore not subject to the Act but to other regulatory schemes [see § 39.28].

The Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], for the most part, only applies to rental parks [see Civ. Code § 798.4 ("mobilehome park" defined)]. However, limited provisions do apply to resident-owned parks [see Civ. Code §§ 798.26(b), 799-799.10 (rights and duties regarding sale of mobilehome located in park)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

18-39 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 39.11

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 39.11 Definition of "Mobilehome" Includes "Manufactured Home"

For purposes of the statutory and other requirements discussed in this chapter, the term "mobilehome" includes a "manufactured home." Although each of these terms is separately defined under the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; see § 39.13[3] (definitions)], the implementing regulations for the Act [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] make it clear that the term "mobilehome" includes and is interchangeable with the term "manufactured home" [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1002 ("MH-unit" as used in regulations means mobilehome, manufactured home, or multi-unit manufactured housing)]. Also, a "manufactured home" [see Health & Safety Code § 18007; § 39.13[3][b]] is included in the definition of a mobilehome under the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798.3].

§ 39.12 Mobilehome Ombudsman

The Mobilehome Ombudsman assists the public in resolving problems and complaints relating to mobilehomes [see Health & Safety Code § 18150; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 18151-18153]. The Ombudsman is appointed by the governor, and the position exists within the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [see Health & Safety Code § 18150]. Among other things, the Ombudsman helps with problems concerning titling, registration, installation, warranties, certain financing, sales, inspection of homes and parks, mobilehome accessories and improvements, and the Mobilehome Residency Law [Health & Safety Code § 18151(b); see Civ. Code § 798 et seq. (Mobilehome Residency Law)]. Further, the Ombudsman must establish procedures to deal with complaints and publish complaint forms and materials that inform the public of its functions [Health & Safety Code § 18153]. The Ombudsman is not authorized to arbitrate, mediate, negotiate, or provide legal advice on mobilehome park rent disputes, lease or rental agreements, or disputes arising from lease or rental agreements. However, the Ombudsman may provide information on these issues [Health & Safety Code § 18151(c)]. Finally, the Ombudsman must refer any alleged violations of law or regulations within the jurisdiction of HCD to their Division of Codes and Standards [Health & Safety Code § 18151(d)].

The management of a mobilehome park must post a mobilehome ombudsman sign provided by HCD [Civ. Code § 798.29]. The sign must be posted in the mobilehome park clubhouse or in another conspicuous public place within the park [Health & Safety Code § 18253.5(a)].

§ 39.13 Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA)

[1] Legislative Purpose

The purpose of the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] is to assure protection of the health, safety, and general welfare of all mobilehome park residents [Health & Safety Code § 18254(a)] in mobilehome parks and manufactured housing communities [see Health & Safety Code § 18214.1 (definition of "park" includes these types of developments); see also § 39.13[3][c] (definition of "mobilehome park"); § 39.17 (coverage of manufactured housing communities)]. The Act is predicated on the legislative finding and declaration that the standards and requirements established for the construction, maintenance, occupancy, use, and design of mobilehome parks (1) should guarantee park residents maximum protection of their investment and a decent living environment, and (2) should be flexible enough to accommodate new technologies and to allow designs that reduce costs and enhance the living environment of park residents [Health & Safety Code § 18251; see Health & Safety Code § 18250 (further legislative findings and declarations)].

[2] Scope of Regulation

The MPA and its implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] govern the construction, maintenance, occupancy, use, and design of mobilehome parks and manufactured housing communities [Health & Safety Code §§ 18254, 18251; see Health & Safety Code § 18214.1 (definition of "park" for purposes of MPA includes these types of developments)]. The MPA (and its regulations) apply on a statewide basis and supersede any local ordinance applicable to a matter covered by it [Health & Safety Code § 18300(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18253 (authority of HCD to develop specific requirements for MPA), 18930 (limitations on state agencies to enact conflicting, overlapping, or duplicate regulations)].

Any park owned, operated, and maintained by the federal government, the state, any agency or political subdivision of the state, or any city, county, or city and county, is exempt from regulation under the MPA [Health & Safety Code § 18303]. The MPA also does not apply to electric, gas, or water facilities owned, operated, and maintained by public utilities [Health & Safety Code § 18304(b)].

[3] Definitions

[a] "Mobilehome"

Under the MPA, a "mobilehome" is a structure that meets the requirements for a "manufactured home," defined in § 39.13[3][b] [Health & Safety Code § 18008; see Health & Safety Code § 18211 (MPA incorporation of definition)].

The term "mobilehome" does not include a recreational vehicle, a commercial coach, or factory-built housing [Health & Safety Code §§ 18008, 18211; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18010, 18215.5 (definition of recreational vehicle), 18001.8, 18218 (definition of commercial coach), 19971 (definition of factory-built housing)].

[b] "Manufactured Home"

A "manufactured home" means a structure, transportable in one or more sections, that (1) in the traveling mode, is eight body feet or more in width, or 40 body feet or more in length, or (2) when erected on site, is 320 or more square feet. It must be built on a permanent chassis and designed to be used as a dwelling with or without a permanent foundation when connected to the required utilities. "Manufactured home" includes a mobilehome subject to the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Act of 1974 [Health & Safety Code § 18007; see Health & Safety Code § 18210.5 (MPA incorporation of § 18007 definition); see also 42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq. (federal Act)].

[c] "Mobilehome Park"

A "mobilehome park" is any area or tract of land where, to accommodate manufactured homes, mobilehomes, or recreational vehicles used for human habitation, two or more lots (1) are rented or leased, (2) are held out for rent or lease, or (3) were formerly held out for rent or lease and later converted to a subdivision, cooperative, condominium, or other form of resident ownership [Health & Safety Code § 18214(a)]. Notwithstanding the above, for purposes of the requirement to obtain an initial or annual permit to operate or to pay related fees, employee housing that has obtained a permit to operate pursuant to the Employee Housing Act [Health & Safety Code § 17000 et seq.] will not be deemed a mobilehome park if both of the following requirements are met [Health & Safety Code § 18214(b)]:

- The housing meets the criteria for employee housing set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17021.6; and

- The housing is comprised of two or more lots or units held out for lease or rent or provided as a term or condition of employment.

In addition, notwithstanding the definition of "mobilehome park" in Health & Safety Code § 18214(a), an area or tract of land will not be deemed a mobilehome park if the structures on it consist of residential structures that are rented or leased, or held out for rent or lease, if the residential structures (1) consist of manufactured homes constructed under the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.] or mobilehomes containing two or more dwelling units for human habitation and (2) those manufactured homes or mobilehomes have been approved by a city, county, or city and county as an alternate use that is at least the equivalent to the requirements prescribed in the California Building Standards Code or the State Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq.] in performance, safety, and for the protection of life and health [Health & Safety Code § 18214(c); see Health & Safety Code § 17951(e) (obtaining approval as alternate use)].

[d] Other Terms

Several other terms pertinent to mobilehomes and mobilehome parks are defined under the MPA. These include, among others, "lot" [see Health & Safety Code § 18210], "mobilehome accessory building or structure" [see Health & Safety Code § 18213], and "permanent building" [Health & Safety Code § 18214.5; see Health & Safety Code § 18620 (applicability of State Building Standards Code and Department regulations to permanent buildings)].

[4] Administration and Enforcement

For mobilehomes located in mobilehome parks, the "enforcement agency" for purposes of the MPA and its implementing regulations is the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD), or any city, county, or city and county that has properly assumed responsibility for the enforcement of the MPA in the appropriate local jurisdiction [Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined); see Health & Safety Code § 18300(b)-(f) (assumption of responsibility for enforcement); see also 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1004-1006]. For mobilehomes located outside of a mobilehome park, the local government with jurisdiction must enforce the MPA and its regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18300(f)(2) (no formal assumption of responsibility required)].

[5] Special Occupancy Parks

Standards and requirements for the construction and maintenance of special occupancy parks are set forth in the Special Occupancy Park Act [Health & Safety Code § 18860 et seq.; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2000 et seq. (implementing regulations)]. "Special occupancy park" means a recreational vehicle park, temporary recreational vehicle park, incidental camping area, or tent camp [Health & Safety Code § 18862.43]. The Legislature has found that because owners of recreational vehicles are highly mobile and use various facilities throughout the state, there is a need for consistent and uniform statewide regulations for special occupancy parks [Health & Safety Code § 18863]. Accordingly, in legislation enacted in 2001 [2001 Stats., ch. 434, SB 325], the Legislature removed provisions addressing special occupancy parks from the MPA and placed them in the Special Occupancy Parks Act. The Special Occupancy Parks Act imposes substantially similar requirements as the Mobilehome Parks Act [see Health & Safety Code § 18861(a) (to extent provisions of Special Occupancy Parks Act are substantially the same as existing statutory provisions relating to same subject matter, they must be construed as restatements and continuations and not as new enactments)].

The Mobilehome Parks Act continues to govern the construction, installation, maintenance, use, and occupancy of a mobilehome, manufactured home, mobilehome accessory building or structure, commercial coach, factory-built home, or permanent building in a special occupancy park [Health & Safety Code § 18861(b)]. The Mobilehome Parks Act applies to any portion of a special occupancy park that is also a mobilehome park, but if a portion of a park is permanently dedicated to recreational vehicles, the Special Occupancy Parks Act applies in that portion of the park [Health & Safety Code §§ 18300.25(a), 18865.05].

§ 39.14 Mobilehome Residency Law

[1] Scope of Regulation

The Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] governs the landlord-tenant relationship between a mobilehome park owner or management and a mobilehome owner who leases or rents a lot, space, or site in the park. With a few exceptions, the MRL applies only to mobilehome parks in which the individual sites are rented or leased, and not to resident-owned parks [see Civ. Code § 798.4 (definition of "mobilehome park"); § 39.10 (rental parks and resident-owned parks distinguished)]. Tenants in a mobilehome rental park are referred to under the MRL as "homeowners" [see Civ. Code §§ 798.9, 798.12], and that same terminology is used throughout this chapter.

Among other things, the MRL regulates rental and lease agreements, permitted fees and charges, rent and exemptions from local rent control, park rules and regulations, tenant rights, management obligations, termination of tenancies, and the sale of mobilehomes located in a park. This Legal Background briefly discusses the foregoing subjects [see §§ 39.50-39.64], and includes cross-references (where necessary) to other parts of the chapter for more detailed coverage.

[2] Definitions

For purposes of the MRL, a "mobilehome" is a structure designed for human habitation and for being moved on a street or highway under permit [Civ. Code § 798.3(a); see Veh. Code § 35790 (permit required before mobilehome wider than eight-and-a-half feet can be moved on highway)]. The term includes "manufactured homes" and "mobilehomes" as defined under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18007, 18008 (definition of respective terms)]. It does not include commercial modulars [see Health & Safety Code § 18001.8 (definition of "commercial modular")] or certain recreational vehicles [Civ. Code § 798.3(a); but see Civ. Code § 798.3(b) (Act applies to certain recreational vehicles that are used for human habitation and that satisfy specified occupancy criteria)].

The MRL defines several other terms, and these definitions govern construction of the MRL's provisions unless otherwise provided [Civ. Code § 798.1]. A "mobilehome park" is an area of land where two or more mobilehome sites are rented, or held out for rent, to accommodate mobilehomes used for human habitation [Civ. Code § 798.4]. A "rental agreement" is an agreement (including a lease) between the management and a homeowner establishing the terms and conditions of a park tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.8]. "Management" means the owner of a mobilehome park or an agent or representative authorized to act on his or her behalf in connection with matters relating to a tenancy in the park [Civ. Code § 798.2]. "Tenancy" is the right of a homeowner to the use of a site within a mobilehome park on which to locate, maintain, and occupy a mobilehome, site improvements, and accessory structures for human habitation, including the use of the services and facilities of the park [Civ. Code § 798.12].

A "homeowner" is a person who has a tenancy in a mobilehome park under a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.9]. A "resident" is a homeowner or other person who lawfully occupies a mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.11]. Under these definitions, a "homeowner" is always a resident, but a resident is not necessarily a "homeowner." For example, since a homeowner is one whose tenancy is established by rental agreement with park management [see Civ. Code §§ 798.8, 798.9], a person who rents or leases a mobilehome from the homeowner directly is not a homeowner but a resident for purposes of the MRL. The distinction is important since some provisions of the MRL apply only to homeowners [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 798.25, 798.27 (required notices to homeowners)].

§ 39.15 Floating Home Residency Law

The Floating Home Residency Law (Law) [Civ. Code § 800 et seq.] is a series of landlord-tenant provisions similar to those in the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 39.14], but that apply to floating homes in floating home marinas. For purposes of the law, a "floating home"is a floating structure that satisfies all of the following criteria [Civ. Code § 800.3 (incorporation of definition contained in Health & Safety Code § 18075.55(d))]:

- It is designed and built to be used, or it is modified to be used, as a stationary waterborne residential dwelling;
- It has no mode of power of its own;
- It is dependent for utilities on a continuous utility linkage to a source originating on shore; and
- It has a permanent continuous hookup to a shoreside sewage system.

A "floating home marina" is an area where five or more floating home berths are rented (or held out for rent) to accommodate floating homes [Civ. Code § 800.4]. The following are not considered a "floating home marina" for purposes of the Floating Home Residency Law: (1) a marina where 10 percent or fewer of the berths are leased or held out to lease to floating homes; and (2) a marina or harbor that is managed by a nonprofit organization, has rules and regulations that are set by a majority of th e berthholders, and contains berths for fewer than 25 floating homes [Civ. Code § 800.4].

The Law regulates the landlord-tenant relationship between the management [see Civ. Code § 800.2 ("management" defined)] of a floating home marina and the "homeowners" [Civ. Code § 800.306], that is, the people who own or reside in the floating homes in the marina pursuant to a rental agreement with management [Civ. Code § 800.6]. For example, the Law regulates the contents of rental agreements and the manner in which they are offered to prospective homeowners [see Civ. Code §§ 800.20-800.26]. It also requires management to make specified disclosures to homeowners [see Civ. Code §§ 800.33, 800.34], and limits management's right to enter floating homes [see Civ. Code §§ 800.32, 800.35]. Further, the Law contains requirements governing rules and regulations [see Civ. Code § 800.31; see also Civ. Code § 800.30]; abandoned floating homes [see Civ. Code §§ 800.36, 800.37]; fees and charges [see Civ. Code §§ 800.40-800.50]; homeowner meetings [see Civ. Code §§ 800.60, 800.61]; terminations of tenancies [see Civ. Code §§ 800.70-800.75]; transfers of floating homes and floating home marinas [see Civ. Code §§ 800.80-800.91 (floating homes), 800.100 (marinas)]; actions, proceedings, and penalties [see Civ. Code §§ 800.200, 800.201]; and floating home cooperatives an condominiums [see Civ. Code §§ 800.300-800.306].

§ 39.16 Recreational Vehicle Park Occupancy Law

The Recreational Vehicle Park Occupancy Law (Law) [Civ. Code § 799.20 et seq.] regulates limited aspects of the relationship between the management of a recreational vehicle park on the one hand, and occupants, tenants, and residents of the park on the other. For these purposes, "management" means the owner of a recreational vehicle park or an authorized agent or representative of the owner [Civ. Code § 799.26]. "Occupant" means the owner or operator of a recreational vehicle who has occupied a lot in a recreational vehicle park for 30 days or less [Civ. Code § 799.28]. A "tenant" is the owner or operator of a recreational vehicle who has occupied a lot in a park for more than 30 consecutive days [Civ. Code § 799.32]. A "resident" is a tenant who has occupied a lot in a park for nine months or more [Civ. Code § 799.31].

The Law deals primarily with the procedures park management must follow to terminate the occupancy or tenancy rights of an occupant, tenant, or resident. The rights created under this Law are cumulative and in addition to any other legal rights the management of a park may have against a defaulting occupant, tenant, or resident, or that an occupant, tenant, or resident may have against park management [Civ. Code § 799.40].

Because the Law expressly does not apply to a mobilehome [Civ. Code § 799.41; see Health & Safety Code § 18008 (applicable definition of "mobilehome")], additional coverage of the Law is beyond the scope of this chapter. For further discussion of the Law, see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 174, The Mobilehome Residency Law (Matthew Bender).

§ 39.17 Manufactured Housing Communities

Special requirements apply to manufactured housing communities. A manufactured housing community is any area or tract of land where two or more manufactured home lots are rented or leased, held out for rent or lease, or were formerly held out for rent or lease and later converted to a subdivision, cooperative, condominium, or other form of resident ownership, only to accommodate the use of (1) manufactured homes constructed pursuant to the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.; see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes, § 40.14; see also Health and Safety Code § 18801(c) (exclusion for area or tract of land structures on which consist of certain specified manufactured homes or mobilehomes approved under State Housing Law (Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq.) as alternate use)] or (2) mobilehomes containing two or more dwelling units [Health & Safety Code § 18210.7(a); but see Health & Safety Code § 18210.7(b) (exclusion for housing for agricultural employees)]. These communities are subject to the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; see Health & Safety Code § 18214.1 (MPA definition of "park" includes manufactured housing communities); see also § 39.13]. Furthermore, an area or tract of land will not be deemed a mobilehome park if the structures on it consist of residential structures that are rented or leased, or held out for rent or lease, if those residential structures meet both of the following requirements: (1) The residential structures are manufactured homes constructed pursuant to the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.] or mobilehomes containing two or more dwelling units for human habitation; and (2) those manufactured homes or mobilehomes have been approved by a city or county pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17951(d) as an alternate for which the requirements are at least equivalent to the requirements prescribed in the California Building Standards Code or Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq. for performance, safety, and the protection of life and health [Health & Safety Code § 18210.7(c)].

§ 39.20 General Zoning Considerations

The general police power of a local jurisdiction to subject mobilehomes and mobilehome parks to local land use restrictions and requirements is restricted by statute. For example, a city or county cannot prohibit mobilehomes in areas zoned for conventional single-family dwellings [Gov. Code § 65852.3], or require the average density in a new mobilehome park to be less than that permitted by the applicable zoning ordinance, plus any density bonus, for other types of affordable housing [Health & Safety Code § 18300(h)(1); see Gov. Code § 65915 (density bonus)].

A mobilehome park must be deemed a permitted land use on all land zoned for residential uses as designated by the applicable general plan [Gov. Code § 65852.7]. Notwithstanding the above, a local jurisdiction may require a use permit for a mobilehome park [Gov. Code § 65852.7; see § 39.21], and may establish certain zones for mobilehomes and mobilehome parks [see Gov. Code § 65852.3; Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)(1)]. A local jurisdiction may also impose certain architectural requirements and development standards on mobilehomes [see Gov. Code § 65852.3(a); Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)(1)].

Any person may file an application for a conditional use permit for a mobilehome park with the appropriate local governing body. A public hearing, preceded by advance notice, must be held to consider the application. A staff report with recommendations and the basis for the recommendations must be included in the record of the hearing. The decision of the governing body is final. The reasons for its decision must be included in the record for the hearing [Health & Safety Code § 18300.1].

§ 39.22 Foundation Systems

[1] Limitation on Local Requirements

A local government cannot require that any mobilehome located either on private property or in a mobilehome park be placed on a foundation system [Health & Safety Code § 18551(d), (e); see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes (coverage of requirements for installation on foundation system)]. Also, a local government may not require, as a condition for the approval of the conversion of a rental park to a resident-owned park, that mobilehomes located there be placed on foundation systems. This limitation does not apply if the rental park to be converted has been operating as a rental park for a period of fewer than five years [Health & Safety Code § 18551(f)].

[2] Construction of Park to Accommodate

Any mobilehome park constructed after January 1, 1982, may be constructed in a manner that will enable mobilehomes sited in the park to be placed on a foundation system. Mobilehomes in such a park may be placed on the foundation systems subject to the installation requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18551(b) and to the approval of park management [Health & Safety Code § 18551.1(a), (d)]. Also, any mobilehome originally sited on or after January 1, 1985, in a mobilehome park constructed prior to January 1, 1982, may be placed on a foundation system, subject to compliance with applicable requirements for installation and to approval by park ownership [Health & Safety Code § 18551.1(b), (d); see Health & Safety Code § 18551(b); Ch. 40, Mobilehomes (coverage of requirements for installation on foundation system)]. Finally, notwithstanding the above, any mobilehome sited in a mobilehome park that is converted, or is in the process of being converted, to resident ownership [see § 39.29] on or after January 1, 1992, may be placed on a foundation system, subject to applicable statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(b)], and with the approval of the park ownership [Health & Safety Code § 18551.1(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18555; § 39.29[5]].

§ 39.25 Environmental Regulations

Compliance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.], including the preparation of an environmental impact report (or negative declaration), is required before developing and constructing a mobilehome park [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1030, 1032(b); see also § 39.29[4] (exemption available for "converted" parks)]. The potential applicability of other environmental laws and regulations must also be considered, including the following: the California Coastal Act of 1976 [*Pub. Res. § 39.26 Access Requirements for Mobilehome Park Fronting on Body of Water

An enforcement agency may not approve a park that fronts on a coastline, shoreline, river, or waterway, or on any lake or reservoir owned in whole or in part by a public agency, including the State, unless the city, county, or city and county with jurisdiction over the property has determined that reasonable public access by fee or easement from public highways exists to the body of water. Any public access route required to be provided by the park owner must be expressly designated on a map filed with the local county recorder. The map must specify the name of the park owner, particularly describe the property involved, and designate the governmental entity to which the route or routes are dedicated. The dedication must be accepted by the appropriate governmental entity within three years after the map is recorded or it is deemed abandoned [Health & Safety Code § 18406].

Public access through or across a park need not be provided if the city, county, or city and county with jurisdiction makes a finding that reasonable public access is otherwise available within a reasonable distance from the park. If this finding is made, it must be set forth on the recorded map required for the park [Health & Safety Code § 18406].

The statutory requirement for public access discussed above may not be construed to require a park owner to improve any access route or routes that are primarily for the benefit of nonresidents of the park [Health & Safety Code § 18406].

§ 39.27 Development and Construction of New Rental Park

For any mobilehome rental park or resident-owned park that was formerly a rental park [see Health & Safety Code § 18214(a) ("mobilehome park" defined); see also § 39.10 (distinction between rental and resident-owned parks)], it is unlawful under the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] to do any of the following without a valid construction permit issued by the enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18500; see § 39.13[4] (discussion of enforcement agency)]:

- Construct a park;
- Construct additional buildings or lots, or alter buildings, lots, or other installations, in an existing park; or
- Operate, occupy, rent, lease, sublease, let out, or hire out for occupancy any lot in a park that has been constructed, reconstructed, or altered without a required permit.

A labor camp with a valid annual permit to operate is exempt from the construction permit requirement [Health & Safety Code § 18500].

For any construction activity regulated under the MPA, an application for a construction permit must be completed on a form provided by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(a)] and filed with the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(a)]. An application for new park construction must be accompanied by, among other things (1) complete plans and specifications; (2) evidence that the plans have been previously approved by the local planning commission, health and fire departments, the local department responsible for flood control and public works, and serving utilities [Health & Safety Code § 18501(e); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(b)]; and (3) the appropriate filing fees [Health & Safety Code §§ 18502, 18503; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7]. Written evidence of compliance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.] must also be submitted with the application for a construction permit [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1030, 1032(b); see § 39.200]. For the form of application for obtaining a construction permit and a full discussion of the procedure for obtaining a construction permit, see § 39.200. For an overview of the regulatory requirements for construction and development of a new rental park, see § 39.120.

Once construction of a new mobilehome park is completed, it is unlawful to operate the mobilehome park or any part of it without a valid operating permit [Health & Safety Code § 18500; see § 39.201 (form of application and requirements for operating permit)].

§ 39.28 Development and Construction of New Mobilehome Subdivision (Resident-Owned Park)

A developer may elect to develop a mobilehome park in which the lots will be sold rather than rented or leased. This type of project is commonly referred to as a "mobilehome subdivision" or a resident-owned park. If the development is to contain commonly owned areas, it should be formed as a common interest subdivision, such as a condominium project, planned development, or stock cooperative. A development without commonly owned areas would be formed as an ordinary subdivision. In either case, the development must comply with the laws regulating subdivisions in general. These laws include the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.; see § 39.212 (official petition); but see Gov. Code § 66428.1 (exemption from map requirements when at least two thirds of tenants in mobilehome park sign petition indicating intent to purchase park and convert it to resident ownership)], the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], and the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.; but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8 (exemption for purchase of mobilehome park by certain tenant-controlled nonprofit corporations)]. Those laws are discussed in detail in Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation , and in Ch. 33A, Time-Share Profits , Ch. 33B, Membership Camping Contracts , Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives , Ch. 33D, Planned Developments , and Ch. 34, Condominiums . For further discussion of mobilehome subdivisions, see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 472, Mobilehome Parks , Part B (Matthew Bender). For detailed coverage of the Subdivision Map Act and of subdivision regulation in general, see California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 61, Subdivision Regulation (Matthew Bender).

Although the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] governs the development and construction of new mobilehome rental parks [see § 39.27], it does not regulate the initial construction and development of a new mobilehome park subdivision [see Health & Safety Code § 18214 (definition of "mobilehome park" under MPA only includes rental parks and resident-owned parks that were formerly a rental park)]. Rather, these subdivisions are subject to the general subdivision laws identified above.

§ 39.29 Conversion of Rental Park to Resident-Owned Park

[1] In General

A rental park may be converted to resident ownership, that is, to a mobilehome subdivision [see § 39.28 (types of subdivision ownership)]. Once the park has been converted, each resident (1) has a marketable equity interest in the lot in which his or her mobilehome is located, (2) usually has an ownership interest in any common areas in the park, and (3) shares in the park's control and management. The process of converting a park is regulated by the general subdivision laws described in § 39.28. For conversions initiated and joined in by at least two thirds of park residents, certain waivers and exemptions from otherwise applicable laws may be available [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 66428.1; see also § 39.212[1][b], [c] (exemption from parcel map and tentative and final map requirements under Subdivision Map Act)].

[2] Subdivision Map Act Requirements and Waivers

[a] Report on Impact of Conversion on Displaced Park Residents

At the time of filing a tentative or parcel map for a subdivision to be created from the conversion of a rental mobilehome park to resident ownership, a subdivider must file a report on the impact of the conversion on the residents of the mobilehome park to be converted. The subdivider must make a copy of the report available to each resident of the mobilehome park at least 15 days before the hearing on the map [Gov. Code § 66427.5(b), (c)]. The subdivider must also obtain a survey of the support of residents in the mobilehome park for the proposed conversion [Gov. Code § 66427.5(d)], although this requirement does not apply to any application for parcel map approval for conversion of a rental mobilehome park to resident ownership approved by the local agency before January 1, 2003 [see 2002 Stats., ch. 1143, § 3]. The survey must be conducted in accordance with an agreement between the subdivider and the resident homeowners' association, if there is one, that is independent of the subdivider or mobilehome park owner [Gov. Code § 66427.5(d)(2)]. The survey must be conducted pursuant to written ballot, and each occupied mobilehome space must have one vote [Gov. Code § 66427.5(d)(3), (4)]. The results of the survey must be submitted to the local agency with the filing of the tentative or parcel map, to be considered as part of the hearing on the map [Gov. Code § 66427.5(d)(5)].

The hearing will be conducted by the legislative body or advisory agency that is authorized by local ordinance to approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove the map [Gov. Code § 66427.5(e)]. The subdivider must offer each existing tenant an option to either purchase his or her condominium or subdivided unit, which is to be created by the conversion of the park to resident ownership, or to continue residency as a tenant [Gov. Code § 66427.5(a)]. The subdivider is required to avoid the economic displacement of all nonpurchasing residents in accordance with statutory requirements [Gov. Code § 66427.5(f)].

[b] Waiver for Certain Tenant-Initiated Conversions

A waiver from the requirements for a parcel map or tentative and final map under the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] may be sought if at least two thirds of the owners of mobilehomes who are tenants in the park sign a petition indicating their intent to purchase the park for purposes of converting it to resident ownership [Gov. Code § 66428.1(a); see § 39.212 (form of petition)]. The waiver must be granted unless certain circumstances described by statute exist. For example, the requirements will not be waived if the conversion will result in additional parcels, or if significant design or improvement requirements will be necessary because of health and safety concerns [see Gov. Code § 66428.1(a); § 39.212 (complete list of permitted grounds for denying waiver)]. If the waiver is not granted, the appropriate map (parcel or tentative and final) must be filed, but the local governing body is limited as to the onsite and offsite improvements it may require [see Gov. Code § 66428.1(d)-(f)]. For further discussion of the procedure for obtaining this waiver and additional requirements imposed if the waiver is or is not granted, see § 39.212.

[3] Subdivided Lands Act Exemption

As discussed in § 39.28, the sale of individual units in a mobilehome subdivision is ordinarily subject to the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.]. The subdivider of a mobilehome park that is proposed to be converted to resident ownership must, before filing a notice of intention [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010], disclose to homeowners and residents of the park, by written notice and in accordance with statutory requirements, the tentative price of the subdivided interest proposed to be sold or leased [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.9].

An exemption from the notice of intention requirement of the Subdivided Lands Act exists for the sale of a mobilehome park to certain nonprofit corporations. To qualify for this exemption, all of the following must apply [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8]:

- A majority of the shareholders or members of the nonprofit corporation constitute a majority of the homeowners of the mobilehome park, and a majority of the members of the board of directors of the corporation are homeowners of the mobilehome park.

- All members of the corporation are residents of the mobilehome park, and members of the corporation may enter into leases with the corporation that are greater than five years in length [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8(a)(2) ("homeowners" and "residents" defined)].

- A permit to issues securities is obtained from the Department of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 25113], unless the transaction is exempt from the permit requirement [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8(a)(3)].

- All tenant funds for the purchase of the mobilehome park are deposited in escrow until the document transferring title of the mobilehome park to the corporation is recorded [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8(a)(4) (authorizing use of escrow funds to pay conversions costs under specified circumstances)].

[4] Exemption from EIR Requirements

The conversion of an existing rental mobilehome park to a resident-initiated subdivision, cooperative, or condominium project for mobilehomes is exempt from the environmental impact report and other requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.] if the conversion will not result in an expansion of or change in the existing use of the property [Pub. Res. Code § 21080.8].

[5] Applicability of Mobilehome Parks Act

The Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] regulates both rental mobilehome parks and resident-owned parks that were formerly rental parks [Health & Safety Code § 18214 (definition of "mobilehome park" expressly includes a park where two or more mobilehome lots were formerly held out for rent or lease and later converted to a subdivision, cooperative, condominium, or other form of resident ownership, to accommodate manufactured homes or mobilehomes used for human habitation)]. The legislative intent behind this inclusive definition is that enforcement agencies regulate converted parks in the same manner as all other mobilehome parks are regulated under the MPA [see Stats. 1989, ch. 721, § 2].

Under the Act, the registered owner of a mobilehome in a mobilehome park that has been converted or proposed to be converted to a resident-owned park may, if the registered owner is also a participant in the resident ownership, apply for voluntary conversion of the mobilehome to a fixture and improvement to the underlying real property without complying with the statutory requirements otherwise applicable to installing a mobilehome as a fixture or improvement to real property [Health & Safety Code § 18555(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18551(a), 18555(b)-(l); see also Health & Safety Code § 18551.1(c); § 39.22[2]]. For further discussion, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

[6] State Loans for Conversions and for Residents of Converted Parks

[a] Mobilehome Park Purchase Fund

The Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) is authorized to make loans from the Mobilehome Park Purchase Fund to resident organizations to assist residents of a rental mobilehome park to convert the park to resident ownership [Health & Safety Code § 50783(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 50780-50786.5; see also Health & Safety Code § 50781(l) ("resident organization" defined); Health & Safety Code § 50781(m) ("resident ownership" defined)]. There are two types of authorized loans, discussed in [b] and [c], below.

[b] Loans to Finance Conversions

The first type of loan may be made to resident organizations [see Health & Safety Code § 50781(l) ("resident organization" defined)] for the purpose of financing conversion costs [Health & Safety Code § 50783(a); see Health & Safety Code § 50781(b) ("conversion costs" defined)]. These loans are for a short term (not more than three years), bear interest at a rate well below market, and are ordinarily (but not always) limited to an amount that does not exceed 50 percent of the approved conversion costs [Health & Safety Code §§ 50783(b), (c), 50785, 50786(d)].

[c] Loans to Reduce Monthly Costs to Affordable Level

[i] Purpose and Intended Recipients of Loans

The second type of loan under the Mobilehome Park Purchase Fund program may be made to the following [Health & Safety Code § 50784(a)]:

- Individual low-income residents of mobilehome parks that have converted to resident ownership;

- Resident organizations that have converted or plan to convert a mobilehome park to resident ownership; or

- "Qualified nonprofit housing sponsors" [see Health & Safety Code § 50783(k) for definition] or local public entities that plan to acquire a mobilehome park, provided that no less than 30 percent of the spaces in the park are for occupancy by manufactured homes owned by low-income residents.

The purpose of this type of loan is to reduce the monthly housing costs for low-income residents to an affordable level [Health & Safety Code § 50784(a)].

[ii] Loans to Finance Individual Interests

Loans provided to individual low-income residents must be for the minimum amount necessary to reduce the borrower's monthly housing costs to an affordable level. Furthermore, loans to finance individual interests in the mobilehome park are subject to the following provisions [Health & Safety Code § 50784(e)]:

- To the extent possible, loan amounts must not exceed 50 percent of the acquisition costs of the individual interests. However, the loan amounts may be for up to 100 percent of the acquisition costs of the individual interests when approved by HCD;

- HCD may grant approval to exceed 50 percent of the acquisition costs of the individual interests only when (1) the low-income resident has made an effort to secure additional funding from other sources and these funds are not available, and (2) it is determined that the low-income resident would be unable to purchase an individual interest without a waiver of the 50 percent financing limitation; and

- The total indebtedness of the loan plus any senior debt on individual interests may not exceed 100 percent of the value of the collateral securing the loan, plus the amount of costs incidentally, but directly, related to the acquisition.

These loans are long term (up to 30 years) and low-interest [see Health & Safety Code § 50784(c)]. The HCD may establish flexible repayment terms for loans of this type if the terms are necessary to reduce the monthly housing costs for low-income residents to an affordable level, and do not represent an unacceptable risk to the security of the Fund. Flexible repayment terms may include, but are not limited to, graduated payment schedules with negative amortization [Health & Safety Code § 50784(d)].

[iii] Loans to Entities

Loans provided to resident organizations, qualified nonprofit housing sponsors, or local public entities must be for the minimum amount necessary to reduce the monthly housing costs of low-income residents to an affordable level. These loans are also subject to all of the following provisions [Health & Safety Code § 50784(f)]:

- To the extent possible, loan amounts must not exceed 50 percent of the conversion costs attributable to low-income spaces. However, the loan amounts may be for up to 95 percent of the conversion costs attributable to low-income spaces when approved by HCD;

- The HCD may grant approval to exceed 50 percent of the conversion costs attributable to low-income spaces only when it is demonstrated that (1) the applicant has made an effort to secure additional funds from other sources and these funds are not available, and (2) the project would not be feasible as determined by HCD without a waiver of the 50 percent financing limitation; and

- The total secured debt in a superior position to HCD's loan plus the HCD's loan must not exceed the value of the collateral securing the loan plus the amount of costs incidentally, but directly, related to the acquisition and, if applicable, rehabilitation of the park.

[iv] Restrictions on Loans to Individuals and Entities

Funds from loans to individuals [see [ii], above] or entities [see [iii], above] may not be used for any of the following purposes [Health & Safety Code § 50784(g)]:

- To assist residents who are not of low income;

- To reduce monthly housing costs for low-income residents to less than 30 percent of their monthly income; or

- To facilitate the purchase of a park by a qualified nonprofit corporation or local public entity from a public entity that had acquired the park before the commitment of the loan.

[v] Purchase of Mobilehome Park by Local Public Entity

Any mobilehome park purchased by a local public entity with this type of loan must be transferred to a nonprofit housing sponsor or resident organization that has converted, or plans to convert, the park to resident ownership no later than three years from the date of loan closing, with all obligations under the loan assumed by the nonprofit organization or resident organization [Health & Safety Code § 50784(b)(1)].

If a local public entity has made a good faith effort, but has not been able, to transfer the park by the end of the three-year period, the entity may apply to HCD for an additional three-year extension. On a determination by HCD that the local public entity has made a good faith effort to transfer the park within the three-year period, it will have an additional three years from the expiration date of the first three-year period to consummate the transfer. The three-year extension may only be granted once by HCD for each loan to a local public entity [Health & Safety Code § 50784(b)(2)]. When a local public entity fails to make a good faith effort to transfer the park within the first three-year period, as determined by HCD, or fails to transfer the park by the expiration date of the extended three-year period, it must repay the loan in full to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 50784(b)(3)].

[vi] Relocation of Mobilehome Park

Funds provided under this program may be used to finance the costs of relocating a mobilehome park to a more suitable site within the same jurisdiction if HCD determines that the cost of the relocation, including any and all relocation costs to the affected households, is a more prudent expenditure of funds than the costs of needed or repetitive repairs to the existing park. However, these funds may not be used to relieve a park owner of any responsibility for covering the costs of mitigating the impacts of a park closure as may be provided for by local ordinance or under Gov. Code §§ 65863.7 and 66427.4 [Health & Safety Code § 50784(h)].

[d] Eligibility Criteria for Loans

In determining the eligibility for and amount of loans under [b] and [c], above, HCD must take into consideration, among other factors, all of the following [Health & Safety Code § 50785(a)]:

- The reasonableness of the conversion costs relating to repairs, rehabilitation, construction, or other costs;

- Any administrative and security factors affecting HCD's program operation and administration;

- Whether or not the project complements the implementation of a local housing program to preserve or increase the supply of housing for persons and families of low or moderate income;

- Whether or not state funds are utilized in the most efficient and effective manner; and

- In the case of a loan to a qualified nonprofit housing sponsor or to a local public entity, evidence of resident participation in the conversion and management of the park, in the form of either resident participation on the board of directors of the entity that acquires ownership of the park or through a permanent resident advisory board.

To the extent consistent with requests for assistance, HCD must allocate funds available under this program throughout California in accordance with identified housing needs, including seeking to allocate not less than 20 percent to rural areas [Health & Safety Code § 50785(b)].

When a city, county, or other local governmental entity has acquired a mobilehome park for the purpose of converting the park to resident ownership, and HCD has entered into a binding agreement for the commitment of funds to the project, HCD may not require that more than a simple majority of households residing in the park actually purchase, or have opened escrow to purchase, interests or spaces in the park as a condition of disbursement of funds for loans made to qualified individual households under [c], above [Health & Safety Code § 50786.5].

[e] Administration of Loan Programs

A loan of either type described under [b] or [c], above, must be secured by the best available security [Health & Safety Code § 50786(b)]. Also, no financing will be provided unless, among other things, at least two thirds of the households residing in the mobilehome park support the plans for acquisition and conversion of the park [Health & Safety Code § 50786(d)]. HCD is required by statute to promulgate rules and regulations for the administration and implementation of these statutory loan provisions [Health & Safety Code § 50786(a)].

[7] Exemptions From Property Tax Reassessment

A transfer of a mobilehome park to a nonprofit corporation, stock cooperative corporation, limited equity stock cooperative, or other entity formed by the tenants of the park for the purpose of purchasing it, is not considered a change in ownership for property tax reassessment purposes if the individual tenants who were renting at least 51 percent of the spaces in the park before the transfer participate in the transaction through the ownership of an aggregate of at least 51 percent of the voting stock of, or other ownership or membership interests in, the acquiring entity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)(1), (c) (generally applicable, but not necessarily limited, to transfers occurring on and after Jan. 1, 1985)]. Similarly, a transfer of rental spaces in a mobilehome park to the individual tenants of the rental spaces is not considered a change of ownership if (1) at least 51 percent of the rental spaces are purchased by individual tenants who rented their spaces before the purchase and (2) the individual tenants of these spaces form, within one year after the first purchase of a rental space by a tenant, a resident organization [see Health & Safety Code § 50781(l)] to operate and maintain the park [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)(2) (applicable to transfers occurring on and after Jan. 1, 1985)]. Finally, a related exception to the change in ownership laws applies to a transfer of a mobilehome park to a nonprofit corporation, stock cooperative corporation, tenant-in-common ownership group, or other entity (including a governmental entity) if, within 18 months after the transfer, a second transfer is made that satisfies either of the exceptions discussed above [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.2]. For further discussion of these exceptions, see § 39.201[1][f][ii].

[8] Right of Qualified Homeowners' Organization to Receive Prior Notice of Park Owner's Intention to Sell Park

If a homeowners' organization is formed for the purpose of purchasing a rental park from the owner and converting it to resident ownership, that organization is entitled, under certain circumstances, to receive notice from the park owner of the owner's intention to sell the park. The owner must provide the notice before he or she lists the park for sale or offers to sell it to a third party. The organization is only entitled to this prior notice from the park owner [see § 39.211 (form of notice by park owner)] if, among other requirements, it notifies the owner of its existence and of its interest in purchasing the park before the time the owner lists it for sale or offers it for sale to a third party [see § 39.210 (form of notice to park owner and other requirements)]. Also, the resident organization is not entitled to notice for certain exempt sales or transfers by the park owner [see Civ. Code § 798.80].

§ 39.40 Operating Permit for Park

[1] Required Permits and Posting Requirement

It is unlawful to operate a mobilehome park [see Health & Safety Code § 18214 ("mobilehome park" defined)] without possessing a valid operating permit issued by the enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18500(d); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1006.5; see § 39.13[4] (discussion of enforcement agency)]. The permit must be posted in a conspicuous place in the park [Health & Safety Code § 18508]. It is also unlawful to operate, occupy, rent, lease, sublease, let out, or hire out for occupancy any lot in a park that has been constructed, reconstructed, or altered without having obtained a construction permit [Health & Safety Code § 18500(c); see § 39.200].

[2] Issuance of Permit

Permits to operate must be issued by the enforcement agency. A copy of each operating permit must be forwarded to the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [Health & Safety Code § 18505].

For new construction, a permit to operate is issued by HCD following notification by the local enforcement agency that the construction has been completed for a new park or for additional lots in an existing park. By approving the application for a permit to operate [see § 39.201], the enforcement agency authorizes occupancy of the newly constructed facilities [Health & Safety Code § 18505]. After approval by the local enforcement agency, one copy of the permit application must be provided to the applicant and one copy must be forwarded to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18505].

For existing parks, permits to operate are issued by the enforcement agency on an annual basis [Health & Safety Code § 18506]. A completed permit application and an operating fee must be submitted each year to renew the permit [Health & Safety Code § 18506; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18502-18504 (fees)]. A permit to operate will not be issued to a park that has had its previous operating permit suspended until the violations which were the basis for the suspension have been corrected [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

If there has been a change in the name, ownership, or possession of the park, the enforcement agency will issue an amended permit to operate after it receives notice of the change and the appropriate fee [Health & Safety Code § 18507(a); see §§ 39.41, 39.201[1][f]].

§ 39.41 Change of Park's Name, Ownership, or Possession

The enforcement agency must be notified in writing of any change in a park's name or in its ownership or possession. The new owner or operator of the park must give the notice within 30 days of the event causing the change and must also submit a fee [Health & Safety Code § 18507(a); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1014(a); see also Health & Safety Code § 18502 (fees); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1014(b) (fees)]. Changes in information must include [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1014(a)]:

- Change of name, mailing address, or ownership; or
- Change in the number of lots resulting from the sale, lease, removal, construction, or alteration of existing lots or facilities; or
- Change of conditional uses specified on the annual permit to operate; or
- When a snow load roof maintenance program status is changed pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1338.

The enforcement agency will then record the change of ownership or possession and issue an amended operating permit [Health & Safety Code § 18507(a); see § 39.201 (application for operating permit)]. If the change occurs while the park is being built and construction will deviate from previously approved plans, a new application for a construction permit must be submitted, together with revised plans and required fees [Health & Safety Code § 18507(b); see § 39.200 (application for construction permit)].

§ 39.42 General Operating and Management Duties

Duties for operating a mobilehome park are imposed both by the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; see § 39.13] and the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 39.14]. For example, the MPA requires that mobilehome parks be lighted from sunset to sunrise [Health & Safety Code § 18602], and that a person be available in the park who is responsible for its operation and maintenance [see Health & Safety Code § 18603]. In every park with 50 or more units, this responsible person must reside in the park and must have knowledge of emergency procedures relative to utility systems and common facilities under the ownership and control of the owner of the park [Health & Safety Code § 18603].

Management responsibilities under the MRL are summarized in §§ 39.50-39.62. A procedural guide for operating a mobilehome park, which includes coverage of management's responsibilities toward park tenants, is set forth in § 39.121.

§ 39.43 Unlawful Mobilehome Occupancy Uses

It is unlawful for any person to occupy (or to cause or permit to be used for occupancy) any of the following [Health & Safety Code § 18550]:

- Any manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle supplied with fuel, gas, water, electricity, or sewage connections, unless the connections and installations conform to regulations of the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD).

- Any manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle that is permanently attached with underpinning or foundation to the ground, except for a manufactured home or mobilehome that (i) bears an HCD insignia or federal label [see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes], and (ii) is installed on a foundation system in accordance with statutory requirements [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 18551].

- Any manufactured home or mobilehome that does not conform to HCD registration requirements [see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes].

- Any manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle in an unsafe or unsanitary condition.

- Any manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle that is structurally unsound and does not protect its occupants against the elements.

The provisions listed above apply to any manufactured home or mobilehome, wherever located, not only to those located in parks. The provisions also apply to recreational vehicles located in mobilehome parks [Health & Safety Code § 18550].

§ 39.44 Governmental Inspection of Parks

[1] Authorized and Required Inspections

The enforcement agency for the jurisdiction in which a park is located [see § 39.13[4] ("enforcement agency" defined)] is empowered to enter private property to determine whether a "park" subject to the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [see Health & Safety Code § 18214.1; see also § 39.13[3][c] ("mobilehome park" defined)] exists on the property [Health & Safety Code § 18400(b)]. When a park does exist, the enforcement agency may enter the park and inspect it and all of its accommodations, equipment, or paraphernalia in order to enforce the MPA and its implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18400(b); see § 39.13[2] (regulatory scope of MPA)]. The enforcement agency must enter and inspect mobilehome parks to ensure compliance with the MPA and its implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18400.1(a), (g) (repealed as of Jan. 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)].

[2] Violations

[a] Issuance of Notice of Violation

If the enforcement agency determines, as a result of its inspection, that a mobilehome park, mobilehome, accessory building or structure, or lot is in violation of the MPA or rules or regulations adopted under the MPA, the enforcement agency must issue a notice of violation [Health & Safety Code § 18400.1(a), (g) (repealed as of Jan. 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18420-18424 (required procedure for notices of violation; repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)].

As a general rule, the notice must be issued within 10 days after the agency completes the inspection and makes the determination that a violation exists [Health & Safety Code § 18420(a)(1), (b)(1) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. However, if the violation constitutes an imminent threat to health and safety, it must be issued immediately [Health & Safety Code § 18420(a)(2), (b)(2) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. The violation must be corrected by (1) the owner or operator of the park, in the case of a violation by the park [Health & Safety Code § 18420(a)(3) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)], or (2) the registered owner of the mobilehome, if the mobilehome, an accessory building or structure, or the lot is in violation of applicable laws [Health & Safety Code § 18420(b)(3) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)].

[b] Request for Informal Conference

If the holder of the permit to operate the park or the registered owner of the mobilehome disputes the agency's determination or certain related matters, he or she may request an informal conference with the agency. The conference, any subsequent hearings, and any appeals of the agency's decision must be conducted in accordance with procedures prescribed by HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18421; see Health & Safety Code § 18423 (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)].

[c] Fines and Penalties

The enforcement agent may order that nuisances in a park be abated [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18402, 18403], and that violations of the MPA be corrected [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18401, 18404]. Willful violation of the MPA or its regulations is a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both. Civil penalties for each violation or for each day of a continuing violation may also be imposed for willful violations. Finally, the park's permit to operate [see § 39.201] may be suspended or revoked if the holder of the permit willfully violates any provision of the MPA [Health & Safety Code § 18700].

§ 39.50 Notice of Zoning and Lease Terms

Prior to commencement of a tenancy in a mobilehome park, management must give the prospective tenant (referred to as a "homeowner" under the Mobilehome Residency Law (MLR)) written notice of certain matters relating to the park's right to operate [see § 39.230 (form of notice)]. Specifically, the notice must describe the nature of the zoning or use permit under which the mobilehome park operates, and include any renewal or expiration dates applicable to the permit. Also, if management leases rather than owns all or any portion of the park from a third party, the notice must indicate the duration of the lease [Civ. Code § 798.27(a)].

After a homeowner becomes a resident of the park, he or she must be given written notice of any change that occurs concerning (1) the zoning or use permit under which the park operates or (2) a lease under which the management is a lessee. The notice must be given within 30 days of the change [Civ. Code § 798.27(b)].

§ 39.52 Rental Agreements

[1] Definitions; Required Contents of Agreement

Under the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL), a "rental agreement" is an agreement between park management and the homeowner establishing the terms and conditions of a mobilehome park tenancy. A lease is a rental agreement for these purposes [Civ. Code § 798.8]. A rental agreement must contain certain provisions required by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.15]. For a discussion of these mandatory provisions and a form of lease agreement, see § 39.220.

A copy of the text of the MRL must be attached as an exhibit to, and incorporated by reference into, the rental agreement. Each year thereafter during a homeowner's tenancy, park management must provide the homeowner with an updated version of the MRL that reflects significant legislative changes made during the previous year [Civ. Code § 798.15(c)].

A rental agreement for a mobilehome may not contain any provision under which the homeowner waives his or her rights under the MRL. Any waiver of this type is deemed contrary to public policy and void [Civ. Code §§ 798.19, 798.77]. In addition, rental agreements entered into or renewed on and after January 1, 2006, may not include a clause, rule, regulation, or any other provision that grants to management the right of first refusal to purchase a homeowner's mobilehome that is in the park and offered for sale to a third party pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.70 et seq. [Civ. Code § 798.19.5]. However, this does not preclude a separate agreement for separate consideration granting the park owner or management a right of first refusal to purchase the homeowner's mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.19.5].

[2] Rent Control

As a general rule, a mobilehome park rental agreement is exempt from any local rent control measure if the agreement and the manner in which it is offered to the homeowner satisfy certain criteria [see Civ. Code § 798.17]. For example, an "exempt agreement" must have a term exceeding 12 months and must contain a provision regarding its exempt status. Further, it must be entered into between management and a homeowner who will use the mobilehome as his or her personal and actual residence. The prospective homeowner must be given the opportunity to accept or reject the proffered agreement for at least 30 days from the time it is first presented, and must have the right to void the agreement within 72 hours of executing it [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)]. For further discussion of the requirements for an exempt rental agreement, see §§ 39.220 (rental agreement) and 39.231 (required notice of homeowner rights).

Another exemption from rent control exists for mobilehomes that are not the principal residence of the homeowner and that are not rented to another party [see Civ. Code § 798.21]. An additional exemption from local rent control measures applies to new construction in a mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.45]. For these purposes, "new construction" means any newly constructed spaces initially held out for rent after January 1, 1990 [Civ. Code § 798.7].

When a local rent control measure applies to a mobilehome park, the local agency that administers the measure must permit the park management to separately charge a homeowner for certain fees, assessments, or other charges imposed on the homeowner's space in the park (1) by the local jurisdiction or (2) pursuant to any state-mandated or locally mandated housing program authorized by the Health and Safety Code [see Civ. Code § 798.49(a); see also Civ. Code § 798.49(b) (decreased or eliminated fees), (d) (exceptions)]. The amount of any such fee, assessment, or other charge must be separately stated on any billing to the homeowner [see Civ. Code § 798.49(c), (e)]. Any change in the amount of the fee, assessment, or other charge must be considered when any rental adjustment is made under the local measure [Civ. Code § 798.49(c)].

Local rental ordinances applicable to mobilehome parks have been challenged on constitutional grounds. In Cashman v. City of Cotati [Cashman v. City of Cotati (9th Cir. 2004) 374 F.3d 887, 898-899] , the Ninth Circuit originally held that a mobilehome rent control ordinance violated the takings clause of the Fifth Amendment because it did not provide for a mechanism to prevent the capture of a premium by the owner on the sale of a mobilehome, and therefore did not substantially advance the city's interest in maintaining affordable housing. However, the United States Supreme Court subsequently held that the test set forth in Agins v. City of Tiburon (1980) 447 U.S. 255, 259-263, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (government regulation of private property effects a taking if it does not "substantially advance legitimate state interests") is inapplicable in takings cases [Lingle v. Chevron U.S.A. Inc. (2005) 544 U.S. 528, 125 S. Ct. 2074, 2083, 161 L. Ed. 2d 876]. Consequently, the Ninth Circuit in Cashman granted rehearing, withdrew its opinion, and issued a new opinion affirming the district court's judgment in favor of the city [Cashman v. City of Cotati (9th Cir. 2005) 415 F.3d 1027] . For a general discussion of the validity of rent control ordinances applicable to mobilehome parks, including questions of constitutional validity, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 174, The Mobilehome Residency Law (Matthew Bender).

[3] Security Deposits

A security deposit may be required by management only on or before a homeowner's initial occupancy in the park [see § 39.220[2], P 4 (security deposit provision for rental agreement)]. The amount charged at that time may not exceed an amount equal to two months' rent, in addition to any rent for the first month [Civ. Code § 798.39(a)]. With regard to security deposits collected on or after January 1, 1989, management must, in response to a written request from the homeowner, refund the deposit (within the time specified by statute) following the earlier of (1) the resale of the mobilehome or (2) the prompt payment by the homeowner, for any 12 consecutive months after the payment of the deposit and within five days of applicable due dates, of all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges [Civ. Code § 798.39(b)].

With regard to security deposits collected before January 1, 1989, they must be refunded to the homeowner on the extension or renewal of the rental agreement or lease between the homeowner and the management, and on receipt of a written request from the homeowner. To be eligible for the refund, the homeowner must have paid, within five days of the due date, all of the rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for the 12-consecutive-month period preceding the receipt of the written request. The management must refund the security deposit within 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.39(c)]. With regard to any security deposits collected before January 1, 1989, and not otherwise disbursed, in the event the mobilehome park is sold or transferred to any other party or entity, the selling park owner must deposit in escrow an amount equal to all security deposits held by the park owner. The seller's escrow instructions must direct that on the close of escrow the security deposits deposited in escrow that were held by the selling park owner (including the escrow period) for 12 months or more must be disbursed to the persons who paid the deposits and who promptly paid (within five days of their due date) all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for the 12-month period preceding the close of escrow [Civ. Code § 798.39(d)].

[1] General Prohibitions

The general laws prohibiting discrimination in housing apply to the sale and rental of mobilehomes [*see Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 370, 376-378, 256 Cal. [2] Age or Familial Status Classifications

[a] General Rule for Senior Parks

Management of a mobilehome park may require that a prospective purchaser comply with any rule or regulation limiting residency based on age requirements for housing for older persons, provided that the rule or regulation complies with specified provisions of the Fair Housing Act [42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.] that prohibit discrimination based on "familial status" (among other classifications) [Civ. Code § 798.76; see 42 U.S.C. § 3605(a)]. "Familial status" essentially means families that include one or more children under the age of 18 [see 42 U.S.C. § 3602(k)]. The general effect of this federal prohibition is that mobilehome parks may not adopt rules that exclude families with children [see Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 370, 375, 256 Cal. Rptr. 750, 769 P.2d 932 (decided under former version of Civ. Code § 798.76)]. However, the Fair Housing Act exempts "housing for older persons" from the prohibition against discrimination based on familial status [42 U.S.C. § 3607(b)(1)]. "Housing for older persons" means, among other things, either of the following: (1) housing intended for, and solely occupied by, persons 62 years of age or older; or (2) housing intended and operated for occupancy by persons 55 years of age or older and which has at least 80 percent of its occupied units occupied by at least one person who is 55 years of age or older, provided the housing meets certain criteria [42 U.S.C. § 3607(b)(2), (3); see 42 U.S.C. § 3607(b)(2)(C)]. The effect of this federal exemption on state law is that mobilehome parks may not prohibit children under 18 who live with their parents from living in the park unless the federal "housing for older persons" requirements are satisfied [see Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 370, 375, 391, 256 Cal. Rptr. 750, 769 P.2d 932 ; Colony Cove Associates v. Brown (1989) 220 Cal. App. 3d 195, 201, 269 Cal. Rptr. 234 (restriction against residents under age 55 held enforceable under state and federal law when mobilehome park was adapted for older persons)].

[b] Homeowner's Relatives Requiring Live-In Care

A senior homeowner (one who is 55 years of age or older) who lives in a mobilehome park that has implemented rules or regulations limiting residency based on age requirements for housing for older persons may share his or her mobilehome with any person over 18 years of age if that person is a parent, sibling, child, or grandchild of the senior homeowner and requires live-in health care, live-in supportive care, or supervision pursuant to a written treatment plan prepared by a physician and surgeon. Management may not charge a fee for the person. Any agreement between the senior homeowner and the person will not change the terms and conditions of the rental agreement between management and the senior homeowner. Unless otherwise agreed upon, park management is not required to manage, supervise, or provide for the person's care during his or her stay in the mobilehome park. The person has no rights of tenancy in the park, and must comply with the rules and regulations of the mobilehome park. A violation of the mobilehome park rules and regulations by the person will be deemed a violation of the rules and regulations by the homeowner pursuant to subdivision Civ. Code § 798.56(d) [Civ. Code § 798.34(d); see Civ. Code § 799.9(b) (similar requirements for resident-owned mobilehome parks)].

[3] Private Club Membership

Membership in a private club or organization may be a condition for tenancy in a mobilehome park. However, when it is a condition, the membership may not be denied on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, disability, or source of income [Civ. Code § 798.20(a); see Civ. Code § 798.20(b) (senior housing exceptions)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 39.54 Park Rules and Regulations

[1] Contents; Rules and Regulations Apply to Owners and Employees

A rental agreement for space in a mobilehome park must contain, in addition to other required matters [see § 39.220], the rules and regulations for the park [Civ. Code § 798.15(b)]. These rules and regulations typically address tenant conduct in and use of the common facilities for the park. They also usually contain provisions relating to the tenant's use of his or her particular rented space in the park, at least to the extent these matters are not included in the tenant's rental agreement. For an illustrative set of rules and regulations for a mobilehome park and a discussion of relevant provisions of the MRL, see § 39.221.

The park's owner and any park employee are subject to and must comply with all park rules and regulations to the same extent as residents and guests [Civ. Code § 798.23(a)]. However, this requirement does not apply to any rule or regulation that governs the age of any resident or guest or to acts of an owner or employee that are undertaken to fulfill a park owner's maintenance, management, and business operation responsibilities [Civ. Code § 798.23(b)].

Any rule or regulation of a mobilehome park that (1) is unilaterally adopted by the management, (2) is implemented without the consent of the homeowners, and (3) by its terms purports to deny homeowners their right to a trial by jury or which would mandate binding arbitration of any dispute between management and homeowners is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25.5].

[2] Restrictions on Fees for Enforcement

As a general rule, park management may not charge a homeowner a fee for the enforcement of any of the rules and regulations of the park [Civ. Code § 798.36]. An exception exists for a situation in which a homeowner fails, after notice from management [see § 39.237 (form of notice)], to maintain his or her rented space as required under a rental or lease agreement and park management is required to perform the necessary maintenance [Civ. Code § 798.15(g)]. Management may also charge a reasonable fee if, in good faith, it (1) has removed and stored a homeowner's or resident's personal property in order to bring the premises into compliance with park rules and regulations or with the Mobilehome Parks Act or its implementing regulations, and (2) has complied with notice requirements [Civ. Code § 798.36(a), (b); see § 39.237A (form of notice)].

[3] Amendments

When management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations, the management must meet and consult with the homeowners in the park, their representatives, or both. Written notice setting forth the proposed amendment and the date, time, and location of the meeting must be given to all the homeowners in the park 10 days or more before the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.25(a); see § 39.234A (management's notice of meeting to amend rules and regulations)]. Following the meeting and consultation with the homeowners, the noticed amendment to the park rules and regulations may be implemented, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner, or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than six months. Any amendment to the park's rules and regulations that creates a new fee payable by the homeowner and that has not been expressly agreed on by the homeowner and management in the written rental agreement or lease is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25(e)]. However, regulations applicable to recreational facilities may be amended without homeowner consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(b); see § 39.235 (management's notice of amendment to rules and regulations)]. Written notice to a homeowner whose tenancy commences within the required period of notice of a proposed amendment to the park's rules and regulations constitutes compliance when the notice is given before the inception of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.25(c)].

When management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation, it may implement the amendment, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

[4] Remedies for Homeowner Violations

Three remedies are available to management under the MRL for homeowner violations of the park rules and regulations. Under the first, management may terminate a homeowner's lease or rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]. Prior notice of the alleged violation and a short time to cure must be given to the offending homeowner before terminating the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.56(d); see § 39.238 (form of and requirements for termination notice)].

Alternatively, or in addition to the right to terminate, management may obtain an injunction against continuing or recurring violations of mobilehome park rules [see Civ. Code § 798.88]. The procedure for obtaining the injunction is prescribed by statute [Civ. Code § 798.88; see § 39.121[6] (required procedure)].

Substantial violation of a mobilehome park rule is also a public nuisance [Civ. Code § 798.87(b); see Civ. Code §§ 3490-3496 (public nuisances and remedies)]. The nuisance may be remedied only by a civil action or abatement, and not by criminal prosecution (which is ordinarily available as a remedy for a public nuisance) [Civ. Code § 798.87(b); see Civ. Code § 3491 (available relief for public nuisance includes criminal prosecution)].

Code §§ 798.50-798.52*; see § 39.121[7]]. Homeowners are also entitled to meet with park management on certain matters that affect the park, such as amendments to park rules and regulations and standards for maintaining physical improvements in the park [*see Civ. § 39.56 Restrictions on Fees Charged to Homeowners

Homeowners may be charged fees only for rent, utilities, and services actually rendered [Civ. Code § 798.31]. However, there is a split of authority on the question of whether an assessment or rent "pass-through" for capital improvements is a prohibited fee under Civ. Code § 798.31 or is a permitted form of "rent." Interpretation of local rent control ordinances has been determinative in some of these cases [see Robinson v. City of Yucaipa (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1506, 1513-1515, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 291 (permitted form of rent); Karrin v. Ocean-Aire Mobile Home Estates (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 1066, 1070-1073, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 581 (prohibited fee)]. In other areas with no applicable rent control ordinances, the language of the lease itself has been determinative [see Vance v. Villa Park Mobilehome Estates (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 698, 705-706, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 723 (permitted form of rent); Dills v. Redwoods Associates, Ltd. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 888, 893, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 838 (permitted form of rent)].

In addition to the general rule under Civ. Code § 798.31, the MRL contains restrictions on specific types of fees, for example, fees for guests and pets. The specific fee restrictions of the MRL are discussed in § 39.121[5]. Ninety days' prior notice is required before management may increase rent under a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.30; see § 39.232 (form of notice for rent increase)] or impose fees for services not contained in a homeowner's rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.32; see § 39.233 (form of notice for imposing fees for new services)].

§ 39.57 Management's Duty to Maintain Park's Common Facilities and to Provide Promised Services

Park management must provide and maintain physical improvements in the park's common facilities in good working order and condition [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(1)]. With regard to a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration of these conditions, management has a "reasonable period of time" to repair the sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration and bring the improvements into good working order and condition after management knows or should have known of the breakdown or deterioration. A reasonable period of time means as soon as possible in situations affecting a health or safety condition, and must not exceed 30 days in any other case except when exigent circumstances justify a delay [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(2)].

Management must also list in a homeowner's rental agreement, the specific services that will be provided to the homeowner during his or her tenancy, and the fee, if any, to be charged to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.15(f)].

Except for personal injury or wrongful death actions, a homeowner may not commence an action based on the management's failure to maintain the physical improvements in the common facilities or on an alleged reduction of service unless management is given at least 30 days' prior written notice of the intention to commence the action [Civ. Code § 798.84(a), (f)]. The notice must contain certain information and be served in the manner required by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.84(b), (c)]. A homeowner is not required to give the notice before filing suit if the management has been notified of the alleged failure to maintain or the alleged reduction of services by a state or local agency [Civ. Code § 798.84(d)].

The substantial failure of park management to provide and maintain physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition is deemed a public nuisance [Civ. Code § 798.87(a); see Civ. Code §§ 3490-3496 (public nuisances and remedies)]. The nuisance may be remedied by a civil action or abatement, but not by criminal prosecution (which is ordinarily available as a remedy for a public nuisance) [Civ. Code § 798.87(a); see Civ. Code § 3491 (available relief for public nuisance includes criminal prosecution)].

§ 39.57A Management's Duty to Maintain Trees and Driveways

[1] Duty with Regard to Trees

Park management is solely responsible for the trimming, pruning, or removal of any tree in the common areas of a mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(b)]. With regard to trees in rental spaces in a mobilehome park, park management is responsible for trimming, pruning, or removal of a tree on written notice by a homeowner or a determination by park management that the tree poses a specific hazard or health and safety violation [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(a)]. In the case of a dispute over that assertion, the park management or a homeowner may request an inspection by the Department of Housing and Community Development or a local agency responsible for the enforcement of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] to determine whether there is a violation of that Act [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(a)].

In addition, no homeowner may plant a tree within a mobilehome park without first obtaining written permission from the management [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(d)].

[2] Duty with Regard to Driveways

Park management is solely responsible for the maintenance, repair, replacement, paving, sealing, and the expenses related to the maintenance of all driveways installed by park management, including repair of root damage to driveways and foundation systems [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(c)]. Homeowners are responsible for the maintenance, repair, replacement, paving, sealing, and the expenses related to the maintenance of a homeowner-installed driveway [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(c)]. A homeowner may be charged for the cost of any damage to the driveway caused by an act of the homeowner or a breach of the homeowner's responsibilities under the mobilehome park rules and regulations, so long as those rules and regulations are not inconsistent with the statutory requirements [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(c)].

[3] Duties Apply to Agreements on or After January 1, 2001

The provisions in [1] and [2], above, regarding trees and driveways apply only to rental agreements entered into, renewed, or extended on or after January 1, 2001 [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(f)].

§ 39.58 Management's Restricted Right of Entry

Park management may not enter a homeowner's mobilehome or enclosed accessory structure without the prior written consent of the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.26(a)]. This consent requirement does not apply, however, in the case of an emergency or when the resident has abandoned the mobilehome or accessory structure [Civ. Code § 798.26(b)]. Management may enter upon the land on which a mobilehome is situated for specified purposes, such as the maintenance of utilities, provided the entry is performed in a manner and at a time that does not interfere with the resident's quiet enjoyment [Civ. Code § 798.26(a)]. The same restrictions apply to management of a mobilehome subdivision park [see Civ. Code § 799.2.5; see also § 39.29 (mobilehome subdivisions)].

§ 39.59 Termination of Tenancies

The management of a mobilehome park may not terminate or refuse to renew a mobilehome park site tenancy except for a reason permitted under the MRL [Civ. Code § 798.55(b); see Civ. Code § 798.56 (permissible reasons for termination)]. A notice to sell or remove, at the homeowner's election, a mobilehome from a park must be given at least 60 days prior to the required removal [see Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1162] and served in the manner required by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. The notice of termination must also state specific facts relied on by management for the termination; mere reference to the statute authorizing terminations is insufficient [Civ. Code § 798.57; see § 39.238 (notice of termination)]. The permissible reasons for terminating a mobilehome park rental or lease agreement and the procedure management must follow in terminating the tenancy are discussed in § 39.238. Homeowners who desire to terminate their tenancies must give management written notice at least 60 days prior to vacating the park [Civ. Code § 798.59].

The MRL does not apply to any area owned, operated, or maintained by the state for the purpose of providing employee housing or space for a mobilehome owned or occupied by a state employee [Civ. Code § 798.13(a)]. However, a state employer must provide the occupant of a privately owned mobilehome that is situated in an employee housing area owned, operated, or maintained by the state, and that is occupied by a state employee by agreement with his or her state employer and subject to the terms and conditions of that state employment, with a minimum of 60-days' notice before terminating the tenancy for any reason [Civ. Code § 798.13(b)].

§ 39.60 Notice of Owner's Intention to Sell Mobilehome Park

Subject to limited exceptions, the owner of a mobilehome park who enters into a listing agreement for sale of the park or who offers to sell the park to any party, must give notice of this intention to sell to any resident organization that has been formed by mobilehome owners in the park for purposes of purchasing the park and converting it to condominium or stock cooperative ownership interests [Civ. Code § 798.80(a); see Civ. Code § 798.80(e) (transfers exempt from notice requirement); see also § 39.29 (mobilehome park conversions)]. To be entitled to this notice, the resident organization must, among other things, have previously notified management in writing that it is interested in purchasing the park [Civ. Code § 798.80(b)(2)]. Failure by a park owner to give notice to a qualified resident organization of his or her intention to sell does not affect the validity of a purchaser's title in the event the owner sells the park, but does expose the owner to a lawsuit by the homeowners or the resident organization [Civ. Code § 798.80(c); see Civ. Code § 798.86 (civil damages for willful violations of MRL)].

§ 39.61 Notice of Change in Park Use

If the owner of a mobilehome park wants to change the use of the park to one that will result in the termination of homeowner tenancies [see Civ. Code § 798.10 ("change of use" defined)], he or she must give prior notice of the change or proposed change to homeowners before terminating any tenancy [see Civ. Code § 798.56(g)]. Specific notice requirements depend on whether or not the change in use requires governmental permits [see § 39.240 (form and requirements for notice)]. "Change of use" for these purposes includes a change of the park or any portion of it to a condominium, stock cooperative, planned unit development, or any form of ownership involving the sale of spaces in the park [Civ. Code § 798.10; see § 39.29 (mobilehome park conversions)]. At the same time the notice of change in use is given, the owner must also give the homeowners a report on the impact of the conversion, closure, or cessation of use on displaced mobilehome park residents. The report must address the availability of adequate replacement housing in mobilehome parks and relocation costs [Civ. Code § 798.56(h); Gov. Code § 65863.7 (required report)].

§ 39.62 Homeowner's Sale of Mobilehome During Term of Rental Agreement

If a person sells a mobilehome to a purchaser who wishes to remain in the same mobilehome park, park management has the right to approve the purchaser [see Civ. Code § 798.74]. For the procedure management must follow in approving or disapproving a prospective purchaser and the permitted grounds for disapproval, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes . Management may not require the selling homeowner to list the mobilehome for sale with management or any other specified broker, dealer, or person as a condition to management granting its approval of a prospective purchaser [Civ. Code § 798.71(c)].

If a mobilehome is sold to a third party during the term of the rental agreement between park management and the selling homeowner, management may not require removal of the mobilehome from the park except under narrowly defined circumstances [Civ. Code § 798.73; see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes]. If a mobilehome will remain in the park after its sale, management may not require repairs or improvements to the park space or property owned by management, except for damage caused by the actions or negligence of the homeowner or his or her agent [Civ. Code § 798.83]. However, park management may require repairs or improvements to the mobilehome, its appurtenances, or its accessory structures not owned and installed by the management, if (1) the repair or improvement is based on or is required by a local ordinance or state statute or regulation relating to mobilehomes, or a rule or regulation of the mobilehome park that implements or enforces a local ordinance, state statute, or regulation relating to mobilehomes; and (2) the repair or improvement relates to the exterior of the mobilehome, its appurtenances, or the accessory structure [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(a)].

Park management may not require a homeowner who is replacing a mobilehome or manufactured home on a space in the park in which he or she resides to use a specific broker, dealer, or other person as an agent in the purchase of or installation of the replacement home [Civ. Code § 798.71(d)].

For further discussion of the requirements applicable to the sale of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome park, including the rights and duties of both park management and the selling homeowner, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

§ 39.63 Renting or Subletting Mobilehome or Space

Park management must permit a homeowner to rent his or her mobilehome, if it is the homeowner's primary residence, or to sublet his or her space, if a medical emergency or medical treatment requires the homeowner to be absent from home and this is confirmed in writing by an attending physician [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(a), (b)]. The minimum term of the rental or sublease must be six months and the maximum term may not exceed 12 months, unless management approves a shorter or longer term [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(1)]. A homeowner may not charge a renter or sublessee more than the amount necessary to cover the cost of space rent, utilities, and scheduled loan payments on the mobilehome, if any [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(c)]. The homeowner will remain liable for the mobilehome park rent and other park charges [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(4)].

The management may require approval of a prospective renter or sublessee, subject to the process and restrictions applicable to prospective purchasers of mobilehomes [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(2); see Civ. Code § 798.74(a) (approval of purchaser)]. A prospective sublessee must comply with any rule or regulation limiting residency based on age requirements [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(2); see Civ. Code § 798.76; § 39.53[2]]. In addition, the management may charge a prospective sublessee a credit screening fee for the actual cost of any personal reference check or consumer credit report [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(2)].

The renter or sublessee must comply with all park rules and regulations. Failure to comply with the rules and regulations may result in the termination of the homeowner's tenancy in the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(3); see Civ. Code § 798.56; § 39.59 (termination of tenancies)]. A homeowner's tenancy may not be terminated if the homeowner completes an action for unlawful detainer or executes a judgement for possession within 60 days of the homeowner's receipt of notice of the tenancy's termination [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(3)].

Park management may require the homeowner to reside in the mobilehome park for a term of one year before allowing the homeowner to rent or sublet the mobilehome or mobilehome space [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(5)]. If a security deposit has been refunded to the homeowner pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.39(b) or (c), management may require the homeowner to resubmit a security deposit in an amount or value not to exceed two months' rent in addition to the first month's rent. Management may retain this security deposit for the duration of the term of the rental or sublease [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(6)]. The homeowner must keep his or her current address and telephone number, or the name, address, and telephone number of his or her legal representative, on file with the management during the term of rental or sublease [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(7)].

18-39 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 39.110

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 39.110 Determinations for Construction and Development of New Park

1. Will park be rental park or resident-owned park?

NOTE:
The requirements of the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] discussed in this Section apply to construction of a new "rental" mobilehome park, that is, one in which the spaces or lots will be rented to owners of mobilehomes [see Health & Safety Code § 18214(a) ("mobilehome park" defined)]. Construction and development of a new mobilehome park that is to be resident-owned is not regulated under the MPA, but rather under the Subdivision Map Act and the Subdivided Lands Act [see § 39.29[2], [3]].

2. Is Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) or a local governing body the enforcement agency (for purposes of MPA) in jurisdiction in which park will be constructed?

NOTE:
HCD is the enforcement agency unless enforcement responsibility has been assumed by a local governing body [see Health & Safety Code § 18300(b); see also § 39.13[4]].

3. Has project been approved by local planning agency [Health & Safety Code § 18501(e); see Health & Safety Code § 18300.1; § 39.21 (conditional use permits for mobilehome parks); see also California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 265, Zoning Relief: Amendments, Variances, and Conditional Use Permits (Matthew Bender)]?

4. If park fronts on coastline, shoreline, river, or waterway, or on any lake or reservoir owned in whole or in part by a public agency, has local government with jurisdiction over park determined that reasonable public access by fee or easement from public highways exists to body of water, either through park or within reasonable distance from it [Health & Safety Code § 18406; see § 39.27]?

5. Have requirements of California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.], including preparation of environmental impact report (or negative declaration), been met [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1030, 1032(b); see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation , Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits ; see also California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 303, Environmental Impact Reports (Matthew Bender)]?

6. If park is within area of coastal zone requiring a development permit, has permit been obtained from Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission [see Health & Safety Code § 18501(e); see also California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 300, Regulation in the Coastal Zone (Matthew Bender)]?

7. Has appropriate local approval been obtained for the following [Health & Safety Code § 18501; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(b)]:

a. Water supply and method of sewage disposal?

b. Plans for fire protection provided in park?

c. Plans for park surface or subsurface drainage system?

8. Have local sewer and water agencies and public utilities agreed that planned services for park will be provided [Health & Safety Code § 18501; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(b)]?

§ 39.111 Determinations for Mobilehome Park Tenancies

1. Is park (or if not yet constructed, will it be) limited to seniors [see § 39.53[2]]?

2. Is membership in any club or organization required as a condition of tenancy?

NOTE:
Membership in a private club or organization may be made a condition of tenancy, but membership may not be denied on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, disability, or source of income [Civ. Code § 798.20(a); see Civ. Code § 798.20(b) (senior housing exceptions)].

3. Is park located in rent control jurisdiction?

4. If park is located in rent control jurisdiction, have tenants been offered (or for new park, will prospective tenants be offered) lease agreements that are exempt from local rent control ordinances?

NOTE:
Under these circumstances, the agreements must comply with specific statutory requirements [see Civ. Code § 798.17; see also § 39.220[1][f] (discussion of requirements)].

5. Will tenants be offered any gifts by management for entering into "exempt" rental agreement?

§ 39.120 Procedural Guide to Construction of New Rental Park

NOTE:

The construction permit procedure under the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] for a new "rental" mobilehome park is outlined below. Initial construction and development of a new mobilehome park subdivision (that is, one that will be resident-owned) is not subject to the MPA, but rather to the Subdivision Map Act and the Subdivided Lands Act [see § 39.29[2], [3]]. However, construction in a "converted" park (that is, one that was originally a rental park but was subsequently converted to a resident-owned park) is subject to the requirements of the MPA [see Health & Safety Code § 18214(a) (definition of "mobilehome park" includes rental and "converted" parks)].

1. To obtain construction permit for park, submit following to enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code §§ 18500(a), 18501; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032; see § 39.13[4] (determination of enforcement agency)]:

a. Official application form [see § 39.200 (form of application)].

b. Evidence of all required governmental approvals for project [see § 39.110 (list of required approvals)].

c. Description of grounds.

d. Plans and specifications of proposed construction [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034; see § 39.200[1][e]].

NOTE:
Standard plan approval may be available for some aspects of the project [see § 39.200[1][e][iii]].

e. Required fees [see § 39.200[1][f]].

2. When permit is issued, instruct developer to:

a. Post construction permit in conspicuous location on jobsite [Health & Safety Code § 18508; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(j)]; and

NOTE:
The approved application for the construction permit [see § 39.200 (form of application)] will serve as the official permit.

b. Keep permit and approved set of plans and specifications on job site until enforcement agency has made final inspection [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(j)].

3. Authorize commencement of construction.

NOTE:
If construction work is commenced before issuance of a valid permit, the work must be discontinued until a permit is obtained, and all fees prescribed for the permit will be doubled [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1050].

a. Confirm that contractor complies with all regulatory standards for buildings, equipment, facilities, and installations in park [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1130-1520].

b. Advise contractor to not use any materials, appliances, installations, devices, arrangements, or methods of construction that are not specifically prescribed by law (i.e., "alternates" or "equivalents") without first requesting and obtaining approval from enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18305; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1016]:

NOTE:
The enforcement agency will forward the request to the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1016]. HCD may approve the request if it finds that the proposed design is satisfactory and that the proposed alternate or equivalent is at least the equivalent to that prescribed by law. Proof of compliance, at the owner's expense, may be required [Health & Safety Code § 18305(b), (c)].

c. Confirm that construction complies with all regulatory requirements for:

(1) Grading and sloping [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1116].

(2) Lot identification [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1104].

(3) Roadways and driveways [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1106].

4. Have developer or contractor request inspection of work during stages of construction, as required by HCD regulations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1048].

5. If developer receives written order from enforcement agency demanding cessation of work:

NOTE:
The enforcement agency may issue such a notice whenever the construction work violates the relevant statutory and regulatory requirements. The notice will identify the requirements that have been violated [Health & Safety Code § 18511; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1046 (stop order)].

a. Instruct developer to immediately cease work.

NOTE:
The work cannot be recommenced until the agency gives its authorization to proceed [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1046].

b. If developer wishes to contest suspension of work:

(1) File petition with enforcement agency requesting hearing [see Health & Safety Code § 18513].

NOTE:
The enforcement agency will notify the petitioner in writing of the time and place for the hearing [Health & Safety Code § 18514].

(2) Attend hearing on request and show why notice should be modified or withdrawn [Health & Safety Code § 18514; see Health & Safety Code § 18516].

c. Unless notice is modified or withdrawn following hearing:

(1) Advise developer to correct violation(s) within 30 days after date of mailing and posting of notice [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18511, 18517]; and

NOTE:
If the violation is not corrected within that 30-day period, the enforcement agency may suspend the permit [Health & Safety Code §§ 18511, 18517].

(2) Submit proof of compliance to agency, so that agency will [Health & Safety Code § 18518]:

(a) Reinstate permit; or

(b) Issue new permit.

6. Inform client that construction permit automatically expires within six months from date of issuance unless extension is granted [Health & Safety Code § 18509; see P 7, below].

NOTE:
If the permit expires, the work must cease until the enforcement agency issues a new construction permit [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b)]. Fees paid for a construction permit [see § 39.200[1][f]*] are forfeited if construction has not started within six months of the date the permit was issued [25 Cal. Code Reg. §

1038(c)].

7. To obtain six-month extension of permit [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a), (b); see Health & Safety Code § 18509]:

NOTE:
Although more than one six-month extension may be obtained, all permits will expire two years from the date on which the original permit was issued [see Health & Safety Code § 18509; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a)].

a. Have work commenced prior to application for extension.

NOTE:
An extension will not be granted unless the construction work has commenced [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a)].

b. Submit application for extension (available from HCD) prior to expiration of permit.

NOTE:
Applications for extensions need not be accompanied by plans and specifications if the original ones still control, are made available to the enforcement agency during the construction, and were approved less than two years before the request for the extension [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b)].

8. If, during construction, there is a change in name of park or a transfer of ownership or possession of park:

a. Have owner (new owner in case of transfer of ownership or possession) send written notice to enforcement agency within 30 days after name change or transfer of ownership [Health & Safety Code § 18507(a)]; and

NOTE:
No additional fee will be required if the new owner completes construction in accordance with the approved plans and specifications. However, if there is any substantial deviation from the approved plans and specifications, a new application for a permit to construct must be submitted [Health & Safety Code § 18507(b)].

b. In the case of a transfer of ownership of park, have transferee report transfer to county [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480, 480.3; see also § 39.201[1][f]].

9. On completion of construction, arrange for final inspection by enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1048].

10. Once construction is certified as complete by enforcement agency, obtain permit to operate before commencing park operation [Health & Safety Code § 18505; see § 39.201 (application and procedure for obtaining permit)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

18-39 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 39.121

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 39.121 Procedural Guide to Operating Mobilehome Park

NOTE: The requirements outlined in this Procedural Guide assume that a mobilehome park is subject to both the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; see § 39.13[2] (scope of Act)] and the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 39.14 (scope of MRL)]. Tenants are referred to as "homeowners" in order to be consistent with the terminology used in the MRL [see Civ. Code § 798.9 ("homeowner" defined)].

Unless otherwise indicated, the steps below are phrased in terms of directives to park management. However, this Procedural Guide should be equally useful to the attorney representing a homeowner since it outlines homeowner rights and duties in a mobilehome park as well as management's duties and responsibilities.

[1] Permit to Operate

NOTE:
It is unlawful to do any of the following without first obtaining a permit to operate from the enforcement agency for the mobilehome park: operate a mobilehome park or any portion of it; or operate, occupy, rent, lease, sublease, let out, or hire out for occupancy any lot in a mobilehome park that has been constructed, reconstructed, or altered [Health & Safety Code § 18500]. However, a person who owns a mobilehome located on leased land and who is not a park operator, may rent the mobilehome (and the land on which it is located) to a third party without a permit, subject to the lease or rental agreement governing the underlying ground [Health & Safety Code § 18500.6].

1. To obtain original permit to operate mobilehome park:

a. Submit following to enforcement agency:
(1) Completed application for permit on HCD-approved form [Health & Safety Code § 18500(d); see § 39.201 (application form)].

(2) Annual operating permit fee [Health & Safety Code § 18502(c)(1) (repealed as of January 1, 2007, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)].

(3) Separate and additional annual fee based on number of lots in park [Health & Safety Code § 18502(c)(2) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)].

NOTE:
This fee must be used exclusively for the governmental inspection of mobilehome parks required under the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 18502(c)(3) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute), 18400.1 (required inspections); see §§ 39.13[4], 39.44 (inspections and notice of violations)]. The permit holder may charge each homeowner one-half of the per lot separate annual fee at the next billing for the rent (and other charges) immediately following the payment of the separate annual fee to HCD or the local enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18502(c)(3) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. Statutory authority for the additional annual fee is repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless a statute enacted before that time deletes or extends the repeal date [see Health & Safety Code § 18502(f)].

b. Verify local enforcement agency has [Health & Safety Code § 18505]:

(1) Notified HCD that construction of new park or additional lots to existing park has been completed.

(2) Issued certificate of occupancy for new construction.

2. Renew operating permit each year after it is originally issued [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

NOTE:
Annual operating permits are issued by the enforcement agency for a 12-month period [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

a. Submit renewal application and annual fees [Health & Safety Code § 18506; for required annual fees, see Health & Safety Code § 18502(c) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute); see also P 1a, above].

b. If renewal application and fees are not timely submitted, pay required penalty fee [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

3. Caution park owner that violation of terms and conditions of operating permit or any provision of MPA may result in suspension of permit by enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18510].

4. Before applying for reissuance of permit that has been suspended, cause all violations that were basis for suspension to be corrected [Health & Safety Code § 18506; see Health & Safety Code § 18518].

NOTE:
If a previous operating permit for a mobilehome park has been suspended by the enforcement agency, a permit to operate will not be issued until the violations that were the basis for the suspension have been corrected [Health & Safety Code § 18506; see Health & Safety Code § 18518].

5. If there is any change in name, ownership, or possession of park:

a. Submit written notice of change in name, ownership, and/or possession, and appropriate fee [see Health & Safety Code § 18502(d)], to enforcement agency within 30 days after change [Health & Safety Code § 18507(a)].

NOTE:
For a discussion of the special rules that apply when the change in name, ownership, or possession takes place prior to the completion of construction [see Health & Safety Code § 18507(b)], see § 39.200[1].

b. Report change in ownership to county officials [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480, 480.3].

NOTE:
Following any change in ownership of taxable real property, the transferee must file a preliminary change of ownership report or change in ownership statement with the county in which the real property is located [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480, 480.3; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 60 ("change in ownership" defined)]. However, certain transfers are exempt from this reporting requirement. For further discussion of the reporting requirement and applicable exemptions, see §§ 39.29[7] and 39.201[1][f].

[2] Maintenance of Park and Its Facilities

1. Have park owner designate person to be responsible for operation and maintenance of park, and confirm that foregoing person meets or will meet following criteria [Health & Safety Code § 18603]:

a. Will be available by telephone or other means, or in person, to respond in a timely manner to emergencies concerning operation and maintenance of park; and

b. If park has 50 or more units:

NOTE:
The following requirements may be satisfied by a designee of the person who is responsible for the operation and maintenance of the park [Health & Safety Code § 18603].

(1) Will reside in park; and

(2) Has knowledge of emergency procedures applicable to utility systems and common facilities under ownership and control of park owner.

2. Maintain physical improvements in common facilities in good working order and condition at all times [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(1)].

NOTE:
With regard to a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration of these improvements, management has a reasonable period of time to repair the sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration and bring the improvements into good working order and condition after management knows or should have know of the breakdown or deterioration. A reasonable period of time to repair a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration is as soon as possible in situations affecting a health or safety condition, and must not exceed 30 days in any other case except when exigent circumstances justify a delay [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(2)]. If management fails to properly maintain the park's common facilities, it is subject to civil liability [see Civ. Code §§ 798.84, 798.86]. Also, the substantial failure of management to provide and maintain physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition is deemed a public nuisance that may be remedied by a civil action or abatement [see Civ. Code § 798.87(a); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks (Matthew Bender) (form of complaint)].

3. Keep each common area facility open or available to residents at all reasonable hours, and post hours at facility [Civ. Code § 798.24].

4. Maintain in safe operating condition all common areas, park-owned electrical, gas, and plumbing equipment and installations, and park-owned permanent building and structures [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1102(a)].

NOTE:

Any violation must be corrected within five days or any longer period permitted by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1611(a)(2)]. At least 72 hours before an interruption of more than two hours in utility service for the maintenance, repair, or replacement of facilities of utility systems over which park management has control within the park, management must post notice of the interruption on the mobilehomes of all affected homeowners and residents. This requirement does not apply to an interruption that is due to an emergency. For these purposes, "emergency" means the interruption of utility service resulting from an accident or act of nature, or cessation of service caused by other than the management's regular or planned maintenance, repair, or replacement of utility facilities. If management violates this posting requirement, it will be liable only for any actual damages sustained by a homeowner or resident [Civ. Code § 798.29.5].

5. Prevent wastewater, sewage, or waste material from any plumbing fixtures in the park, from the park sewage or waste disposal system, or from any plumbing fixtures in a manufactured home, mobilehome, recreational vehicle, accessory structure, or permanent building in the park, from being discharged onto or deposited on the surface of the ground [Health & Safety Code § 18554(a)].

NOTE:

The enforcement agency may order the removal, sanitation, or both, of any wastewater, sewage, or waste material discharged onto or deposited on the surface of the ground, or may require the removal, sanitation, or both, of the wastewater, sewage, or waste material, in a manner consistent with the requirements of, and in consultation with, the local health department or agency [Health & Safety Code § 18554(b)]. However, the registered owner of a mobilehome, manufactured home, or recreational vehicle is be responsible for complying with an order, or the correction of a citation, issued by the enforcement agency, and the costs of that order, whenever wastewater, sewage, or waste material is discharged onto or deposited upon the surface of the ground as a result of leaks from plumbing fixtures in a manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle, or accessory structure, or whenever those leaks come from plumbing on the space or lot that connects the home or recreational vehicle or accessory structure to the park's sewer, septic, or drain system on the home or vehicle registered owner's side of the connection, if the discharge or deposit is determined by the enforcement agency to be the fault of the registered owner of the home or recreational vehicle [Health & Safety Code § 18554(c)].

6. Keep park area clean and free from accumulation of refuse, garbage, and similar material [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1120].

NOTE:
The park must provide rubbish containers with tight-fitting covers and a collection system for those containers [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1120(d)].

7. Install artificial light and keep it burning from sunset to sunrise for adequate illumination of [Health & Safety Code § 18602]:

a. Every park building containing toilets and showers.

b. Park roadways and walkways.

NOTE:
The average level of light required for each of these facilities is prescribed by regulation [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1108].

8. For individual lots or spaces in park:

a. Keep lots identifiable and distinguishable as follows [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1104]:

(1) Number or designate lots by street number or other suitable means, with designation:
(a) In conspicuous location facing driveway; or

(b) On wall surface nearest driveway.

(2) Use corner markers as permanent lot lines.

NOTE:
Park lot lines may not be created, moved, shifted, or altered without a permit issued to the park owner or operator by the enforcement agency and the written authorization of the registered owner or owners of the mobilehome or manufactured home located on the lot or lots on which the lot line will be created, moved, shifted, or altered [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(a)]. The park owner or operator must submit a written application for the lot line alteration permit to the enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(c); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2105(b)]. The application must include a list of the names and addresses of the registered owners of mobilehomes or manufactured homes located on the lot or lots that would be altered by the proposed lot line change and the written authorization of the registered owners. The enforcement agency may also require that the mobilehome park owner or operator submit documents demonstrating compliance with the statutory requirements, including a detailed plot plan showing the dimensions of each lot altered by the creation, movement, shifting, or alteration of the lot lines [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(c); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2105(b)(1)]. If submission of a plot plan is required, the mobilehome park owner or operator must provide a copy of the plot plan to the registered owners of mobilehomes or manufactured homes located on each lot that would be altered by the proposed lot line change and must provide the enforcement agency with proof of delivery by first-class postage prepaid of the copy of the plot plan to the affected registered owners [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(c); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2105(b)(1)(E)]. If the park is a common interest development as defined in Civ. Code § 1351, and the lot line change involves encroaching into a common area, the plot plan must demonstrate compliance with the approval provisions of Civ. Code § 1363.07 [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2105(b)(1)(G)]. If the Department of Housing and Community Development is the enforcement agency and the application proposes to reduce or increase the total number of lots available for occupation, the applicant must submit a copy of the application and any other required information to the local planning agency of the jurisdiction where the park is located [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(e); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2105(c)].

b. If management proposes to create, move, shift, or alter lot lines before July 1, 2005:

(1) Refrain from taking that action if it would place an occupant of a lot in violation of any statutory or regulatory separation or space requirements [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(b)].

(2) In all other cases [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(a)]:

(a) Obtain a permit from local planning agency; and

(b) Obtain written authorization or consent of any occupants of mobilehome lots affected by proposed action.

c. If management proposes to create, move, shift, or alter lot lines on and after July 1, 2005:

(1) Refrain from taking that action if it would place the mobilehome owner [see Health & Safety Code § 18400.4 (mobilehome owner defined)] of a mobilehome or manufactured home located on a lot in violation of any statutory or regulatory separation or space requirements [Health & Safety Code § 18610.5(b)].

(2) In all other cases:

(a) Obtain a permit from enforcement agency; and

(b) Obtain written authorization of registered owner or owners of mobilehome or manufactured home, if any, located on lot or lots affected by proposed action.

9. Take following steps in supervising park's fire fighting program:

a. In areas where fire department services are not available, instruct staff in use of park fire protection equipment and specific duties [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1305].

b. Print and post in conspicuous place on premises list showing [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1122]:

(1) Telephone numbers of fire department, police department or sheriff's office, park office, person responsible for operation and maintenance, and enforcement agency.

(2) Location of park (by street or highway numbers), nearest fire alarm box (when available), and nearest public telephone.

c. Protect fire protection or suppression equipment against freezing in any susceptible areas [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1314].

d. Instruct homeowners and management staff to keep area under and around vehicles free from accumulation of paper, leaves, brush, or other combustible material [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1120(a)].

10. Before constructing additional buildings or lots, or altering buildings, lots, or other installations in park:

a. Obtain permit from enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18500; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018; see § 39.200]; and

b. Instruct park owner to keep permit posted in conspicuous place [Health & Safety Code § 18508].

11. If homeowner is to be responsible for his or her own lot maintenance and landscaping:

a. Confirm that obligations imposed on homeowner are reasonable [see Civ. Code § 798.37] and are recited in rental agreement or in park rules and regulations contained in agreement [see Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36].

b. Do not require homeowner or prospective homeowner to purchase, rent, or lease goods or services for landscaping, remodeling, or maintenance from any person, company, or corporation [Civ. Code § 798.37].

12. Do not enter any resident's mobilehome or enclosed accessory structure without his or her prior written consent except [Civ. Code § 798.26]:

NOTE:
Written consent may be revoked in writing by a resident at any time [Civ. Code § 798.26(a)].

a. In case of emergency; or

b. If resident has abandoned mobilehome or accessory structure.

13. Enter on land (lot or space) on which mobilehome is located only [Civ. Code § 798.26(a)]:

NOTE:
Entry may not be made in a manner or at a time which interferes with the resident's quiet enjoyment [Civ. Code § 798.26(a)].

a. At a reasonable time; and

b. For any of the following:

(1) Maintenance of utilities, trees, and driveways.

(2) Maintenance of premises in accordance with rules and regulations of park when homeowner or resident fails to maintain the premises.

(3) Protection of park.

14. Trim, prune, or remove any tree on the rental space on either written notice from the homeowner or a determination by park management that the tree poses a specific hazard or health and safety violation [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(a)].

NOTE:
This requirement applies only to rental agreements entered into, renewed, or extended on or after January 1, 2001 [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(f)]. If there is a dispute as to whether a tree poses a specific hazard or a health and safety violation, the park management or a homeowner may request an inspection by the Department of Housing and Community Development or a local agency responsible for the enforcement of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] to determine whether there is a violation of that Act [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(a)].

[3] Renting and Leasing

1. For any rental or lease agreement [see § 39.220 (form of agreement)] to be offered to prospective homeowners, confirm that agreement:

a. Contains all mandatory provisions required by Mobilehome Residency Law [see Civ. Code § 798.15; § 39.220[1][d]].

b. Is for one of the following terms (unless agreement is to be exempt from local rent control) [Civ. Code § 798.18(a); see P 2, below (different term requirement for agreements exempt from local rent control)]:

NOTE:
A rental agreement must not contain any terms or conditions with respect to charges for rent, utilities, or incidental reasonable service charges that would be different during the first 12 months of the rental agreement from the corresponding terms or conditions that would be offered to the homeowners on a month-to-month basis [Civ. Code § 798.18(b)].

(1) Twelve months [see P (2), NOTE, below].

(2) Period less than 12 months, if requested by homeowner.

NOTE:
A rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less must not include any provision that authorizes automatic extension or renewal of, or automatically extends or renews, the rental agreement beyond the initial term for a term longer than 12 months at the sole option of either park management or the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.18(c)].

(3) Period longer than 12 months, if mutually agreed to by park management and homeowner.

c. Complies with any local rent control ordinance, unless agreement is exempt [see P 2, below].

d. Does not impose any fee or charge prohibited by MRL [see Civ. Code §§ 798.30-798.44; see also § 39.121[5] (prohibited fees and charges)].

e. Does not contain any provision in which homeowner waives his or rights under MRL [Civ. Code § 798.19].

f. For rental agreements entered into or renewed on and after January 1, 2006, does not include a clause, rule, regulation, or any other provision that grants to management the right of first refusal to purchase the homeowner's mobilehome that is in the park and offered for sale to a third party pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.70 et seq. [Civ. Code § 798.19.5].

NOTE:

Management is not precluded from entering into a separate agreement for separate consideration granting the park owner or management a right of first refusal to purchase a homeowner's mobilehome that is in the park and offered for sale [Civ. Code § 798.19.5].

g. Includes park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.15(b); see § 39.221 (illustrative set of rules and regulations)].

h. Incorporates by reference an attached copy of Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798.15(c)].

NOTE:

Each year before February 1, management must provide homeowners with a new copy of the MRL that contains substantive legislative amendments made during the prior year [Civ. Code § 798.15(c)].

i. Contains all other provisions governing tenancy [see Civ. Code § 798.15(h)].

NOTE:

The agreement must contain, in addition to the items required by Civ. Code § 798.15 (discussed above), any other provisions otherwise required by law to be included in such an agreement [Civ. Code § 798.15]. Further, the agreement may include any other provisions permitted by law, but need not include specific language contained in state or local laws that are not a part of the MRL [Civ. Code § 798.16(a)].

2. For rental or lease agreement that is to be exempt from local rent control ordinance:

NOTE:

If a rental agreement and the manner in which it is offered to the homeowner satisfy the criteria set forth in this Paragraph and in Paragraph 3, below, the agreement will be exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by the local governmental entity that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent (hereafter referred to as a "local rent control measure" [see Civ. Code § 798.17]. For additional coverage of these requirements, see § 39.220[1][f].

"New construction" in a mobilehome park is automatically exempt from local rent control measures [Civ. Code § 798.45]. Consequently, a rental agreement covering such construction need not comply with the requirements of Civ. Code § 798.17. For these purposes, "new construction" means any newly constructed spaces initially held out for rent after January 1, 1990 [Civ. Code § 798.7].

a. Before entering into agreement, confirm that:

(1) Prospective homeowner will use mobilehome as his or her personal and actual residence [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(2)].

(2) Prospective homeowner will accept term exceeding 12 months [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(1)].

b. Confirm that rental or lease agreement satisfies following requirements:

(1) Contains, in first sentence of first paragraph of agreement, notice advising prospective homeowner that agreement will be exempt from any local rent control measure [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(2); see § 39.220[2], first unnumbered paragraph (required notice)].

NOTE:
The notice must be in at least 12-point boldface type if the agreement is printed, or in capital letters if it is typed [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(2)].

(2) Is for term longer than 12 months [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(1)].

(3) Provides that homeowner will use mobilehome as his or her personal and actual residence [see Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(2)].

(4) Contains specific provisions required under MRL [Civ. Code § 798.15; see P 1, above].

(5) Does not include provision that authorizes automatic extension or renewal of, or automatically extends or renews, agreement for period beyond initial stated term at sole option of either management or homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.17(g)].

c. At time agreement is first offered to homeowner, provide homeowner with written notice of homeowner's right [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)]:

NOTE:
The failure of management to provide this notice will make the agreement voidable at the homeowner's option on the homeowner's discovery of the failure [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)].

(1) To have at least 30 days to inspect agreement; and

NOTE:
The homeowner must have at least 30 days from the date the rental agreement is first offered to the homeowner to accept or reject the agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(3)].

(2) To void agreement within 72 hours of acceptance of agreement [see P e, below].

d. Obtain homeowner's written acknowledgment of receipt of notice described in P c, above [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)].

e. If homeowner executes offered agreement, allow homeowner opportunity to void it by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of homeowner's execution of agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(4)].

f. If homeowner executes and then rescinds agreement within 72 hours [see P e, above], or rejects agreement within 30 days [see P c(1) NOTE, above], give homeowner option to accept alternative rental agreement for term of 12 months or less from date offered agreement was to have begun [Civ. Code § 798.17(c); see P 1b, above].

NOTE:
If the homeowner selects this alternative, the agreement must contain the same rental charges, terms, and conditions as the offered agreement during the first 12 months, with one exception: the alternative agreement need not include any options to extend or renew that were contained in the offered agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(c); see Civ. Code § 798.18(c) (limitations on provisions governing extensions or renewals of agreements with a term of 12 months or less)].

g. Return executed copy of rental agreement to homeowner within 15 business days after receipt of rental agreement signed by homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.16(b)].

3. If park is to be limited to "adults only," confirm rental practices and physical facilities conform to federal requirements for "housing for older persons" [see Civ. Code § 798.76; 42 U.S.C. § 3607(b); see also § 39.53[2][a]].

4. If membership in any private club or organization is to be a condition for tenancy in park, do not deny membership to anyone on basis of any of the following [Civ. Code § 798.20(a)]:

a. Race;

b. Color;

c. Religion;

d. Sex;

e. Sexual orientation;

f. Marital status;

g. National origin;

h. Ancestry;

i. Familial status;

j. Disability; or

k. Source of income.

NOTE:
With regard to familial status, Civ. Code § 798.20(a) may not be construed to apply to housing for older persons, as defined in Gov. Code § 12955. Also with regard to familial status, nothing in § 798.20(a) may be construed to affect Civ. Code §§ 51.2, 51.3, 51.4, 51.10, 51.11, and 799.5, relating to housing for senior citizens. However, Civ. Code §§ 51(d) and 1360 (concerning requirements for building construction and alterations) and Gov. Code § 12955(n), (o), and (p) (concerning financial status) do apply to Civ. Code § 798.20(a) [Civ. Code § 798.20(b)].

5. Do not refuse to renew homeowner's tenancy for any reason except one permitted by statute for termination of a tenancy [see Civ. Code § 798.55; § 39.238[1][h]].

6. Confirm that any mobilehome rented out by park to occupant bears either of the following [Health & Safety Code § 18604; see Health & Safety Code § 18026]:

a. Insignia of approval issued by HCD; or

b. Federal label issued pursuant to National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.].

NOTE:
For coverage of these requirements, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

7. Collect and maintain duplicate registration cards for mobilehomes located in park [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.6(a)].

NOTE:

When a mobilehome is registered, the HCD, among other things, issues a registration card to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18091, 18091.5]. The registration card is in two parts. One part must be retained in the mobilehome, and, if the mobilehome is located in a mobilehome park, the other part must be submitted to the operator of the park [Health & Safety Code § 18080.6(a)]. For further discussion of the registration process, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

8. Do not include any provision in governing documents for park that prohibit use of any mobilehome that satisfies following criteria [see Civ. Code § 714.5]:

a. Is constructed in offsite facility or factory; and

b. Is subsequently moved or transported in sections or modules to park.

9. If park was developed after January 1, 1982, do not rent lots or spaces in park for use by recreational vehicles unless [Civ. Code § 798.22(a); see Civ. Code § 799.29]:

a. Park has specifically designated area for recreational vehicles;

b. Designated area is separate and apart from area designated for mobilehomes; and

c. Recreational vehicles are located only in specifically designated area.

10. For each lot, limit occupancy to one mobilehome (or, if permitted in park, one recreational vehicle or commercial coach) [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1118].

NOTE:

A self-propelled recreational vehicle or truck-mounted camper may be parked on a lot beside an occupied mobilehome or recreational vehicle if it is used as a means of transportation, is not occupied or connected to the lot utility facilities, and is not interconnected with the occupied mobilehome or recreational vehicle [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1118].

[4] Park Rules and Regulations

1. Before implementing or enforcing any rule or regulation relating to pets in the park, notify management that:

a. It cannot charge pet-related fees, except for any special facilities or services for pets provided by it [Civ. Code § 798.33(b); see § 39.121[5]];

b. No lease agreement entered into, modified, or renewed on or after January 1, 2001, may prohibit a homeowner from keeping at least one pet within park, subject to park's reasonable rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)].

NOTE:

For these purposes, "pet" means any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept within an aquarium, or other animal as agreed to between the management and the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.33(c)]. These provisions do not affect any other rights provided by law to a homeowner to keep a pet within the park [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)].

c. It must not permit any dogs or other domestic animals to run at large in park [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1114(a)].

2. Before amending a park rule or regulation:

NOTE:
The following steps apply when management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations [see Civ. Code § 798.25].

a. Provide 10 days' advance written notice to all homeowners in park setting forth proposed amendment and date, time, and location of meeting to discuss amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(a)].

b. Meet and consult with homeowners in park, their representatives, or both [Civ. Code § 798.25(a)].

c. After meeting and consultation, do either of following to implement noticed amendment, as to any homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.25(b)]:

(1) Obtain that homeowner's consent; or

(2) Give homeowner at least six months written notice of amendment.

NOTE:
Regulations applicable to recreational facilities may be amended without homeowner consent on written notice of at least 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(b)]. Written notice to a homeowner whose tenancy commences within the required period of notice of a proposed amendment constitutes compliance with the rules for amending park rules and regulations if the written notice is given before the inception of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.25(c)]. However, any amendment to the park's rules and regulations that creates a new fee payable by the homeowner and that has not been expressly agreed on by the homeowner and management in the written rental agreement or lease is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25(e)]. When management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation, it may implement the amendment, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

3. If homeowner violates any park rule or regulation included in rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]:

a. Give homeowner written notice of alleged rule or regulation violation.

b. Give homeowner seven days from date of notice to adhere to rule or regulation.

NOTE:

Failure of a homeowner or resident to comply with a reasonable rule or regulation that is part of a rental agreement is a permissible ground for terminating the homeowner's tenancy. However, any homeowner or resident act or omission does not constitute a failure to comply unless and until management complies with the requirements described above. Also, management has the obligation to demonstrate that a rule or regulation has in fact been violated [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)].

4. If homeowner is required by rules and regulations in rental agreement to maintain lot on which mobilehome is located, but fails to do so, consider giving notice to homeowner that [Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36]:

a. States specific condition to be corrected.

b. Advises homeowner that if he or she does not correct condition within 14 days, management may correct condition and charge homeowner a reasonable fee for services.

c. Includes estimate of charges to be imposed by management if services required for correction are performed by management (or management's agent).

NOTE:

A provision that provides for the remedy described above must be included in the rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.15].

5. If violation of rule or regulation is not corrected after written notice and within required time period [see P 3, above], consider feasibility of following remedies, as appropriate for specific violation:

a. Proceed to terminate tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.56(d); see § 39.238 (procedure for termination)].

b. For failure by homeowner to maintain lot as required under rental agreement, perform necessary maintenance on lot and charge homeowner for reasonable services rendered [Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36; see P 4, above].

c. For substantial violation, treat it as a public nuisance and file civil action or abatement proceeding.

NOTE:

The substantial violation of a park rule is deemed a public nuisance that may be remedied by a civil action or abatement, but not by a criminal proceeding [Civ. Code § 798.87(b); see Civ. Code § 3491 (remedies for public nuisance usually include criminal information or indictment)]. Also, a "substandard" mobilehome (that is, one that is unfit for human occupancy) is considered a nuisance. The local enforcement agency may order the abatement or removal of such a mobilehome [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1606-1618 (abatement procedure); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks (Matthew Bender)].

d. For continuing or recurring violation, obtain injunction prohibiting the violation [Civ. Code § 798.88; see P 6, below (procedure for obtaining injunction)].

6. If management wishes to enjoin continuing or recurring violation of reasonable rule or regulation, take following steps [Civ. Code § 798.88]:

NOTE:

The injunction remedy provided by Civ. Code § 798.88 is nonexclusive, and nothing in that statute may be construed to preclude or limit any rights the management of a mobilehome park may have to terminate a tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.88(g); see Civ. Code § 798.88(a); see also Civ. Code §§ 798.55-798.61 (termination of tenancy); § 39.238].

A party to an action under Civ. Code § 798.88 may appear through legal counsel or in propria persona [Civ. Code § 798.88(f)].

a. File petition for order enjoining nuisance with superior court for county in which park is located [Civ. Code § 798.88(b); see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks, § 369.132 (Matthew Bender) (illustrative petition)].

b. If desired, at time of filing of petition, request temporary restraining order (TRO) and submit supporting affidavit [Civ. Code § 798.88(b)].

NOTE:

To obtain the TRO, the petitioner must comply with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c) [Civ. Code § 798.88(b)]. For discussion of those requirements and an illustrative affidavit, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks*, § 369.132* (Matthew Bender).

A TRO restraining the violation may be granted, with notice, if the petitioner's affidavit shows, to the satisfaction of the court, reasonable proof of a continuing or recurring violation of a rule or regulation of the park by the named homeowner or resident, and that great or irreparable harm would result to the management or other homeowners or residents of the park from continuance or recurrence of the violation [Civ. Code § 798.88(b)].

c. If TRO is granted, have following documents personally served on respondent homeowner or resident [Civ. Code § 798.88(c)]:

(1) TRO;

(2) Petition for injunction; and

(3) Notice of hearing on petition [see P d, below].

NOTE:

The TRO will remain in effect for a period of up to 15 days, except as modified or sooner terminated by the court [Civ. Code § 798.88(c)].

d. Attend hearing on petition [see Civ. Code § 798.88(d)].

NOTE:

The court will hold the hearing within 15 days of the filing of the petition. If the court, by clear and convincing evidence, finds the existence of a continuing or recurring violation of a reasonable rule or regulation of the park, the court will issue an injunction prohibiting the violation. The duration of the injunction may not exceed three years [Civ. Code § 798.88(d)].

e. No more than three months before expiration of injunction, consider petitioning for new injunction if [Civ. Code § 798.88(e)]:

(1) There has been a recurring or continuous violation of injunction; or

(2) There is a threat of a future violation of park rules on termination of injunction.

7. If management determines, in good faith, that removal of a homeowner's or resident's personal property from land and premises on which mobilehome is situated is necessary to bring premises into compliance with park rules and regulations or with Mobilehome Parks Act or its implementing regulations [Civ. Code § 798.36(a), (b)]:

NOTE:

If management elects to proceed under Civ. Code § 798.36, it may not also terminate the tenancy pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(d) (violation of park rules or regulations; see P 3, above) based on the same specific violations [Civ. Code§ 798.36(b)(4)].

a. Give homeowner or resident written notice that [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(1); see § 39.237A (form of notice)]:

(1) Gives 14 days from date of notice to correct violation.

(2) Describes property to be removed.

(3) Specifies rule, regulation, or code justifying removal.

(4) Provides estimate of charges to be imposed by management.

NOTE:

The homeowner or resident is responsible for reimbursing management the actual, reasonable costs of removing and storing the property [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(2)]. Costs incurred by management in correcting the violation associated with the property's removal and storage are deemed to be reasonable incidental service charges and may be collected pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(e) if a notice of nonpayment of the removal and storage fees is personally served on the homeowner [Civ. Code§ 798.36(b)(2), (3); see § 39.238 (form)].

b. If violation is not corrected after written notice and within required time period, management may remove property to reasonably secure storage facility [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(1)].

c. Within seven days of removal of property to storage area, provide homeowner or resident written notice that includes [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(3); see § 39.237B (notice)]:

(1) Inventory of property removed.

(2) Location where property may be claimed.

(3) Notice that cost of removal and storage must be paid by resident or homeowner.

NOTE:

If, within 60 days, the homeowner or resident does not claim the property, the property is deemed abandoned, and management may dispose of the property in any manner. If a resident or homeowner communicates in writing his or her intent to abandon the property before 60 days has expired, management may dispose of the property immediately and no further storage charges may accrue. If the homeowner or resident claims the property but has not reimbursed management for storage costs, management may bill those costs in a monthly statement that will constitute notice of nonpayment, and the costs will become the obligation of the homeowner or resident. The homeowner's or resident's liability for storage charges may not exceed 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(3)].

d. If management elects to dispose of property by sale or auction and funds received by management exceed amount owed by homeowner or resident [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(4)]:

(1) Refund difference to homeowner or resident within 15 days from date of receipt, by first class mail, postage prepaid, to homeowner's or resident's address in park, or by personal delivery.

(2) Include accounting specifying costs of removal and storage of property incurred by management in correcting rules violation and amount of proceeds realized from sale or auction.

NOTE:

If a sale or auction of the property yields less than the costs incurred by management, the homeowner or resident is responsible for the difference. This amount will be deemed a reasonable incidental service charge and may be collected pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(e) if a notice of nonpayment of the removal and storage fees is personally served on the homeowner [Civ. Code§ 798.36(b)(4); see § 39.238 (form)].

[5] Rent and Other Charges and Fees

1. Limit fees and charges to some or all of the following:

a. Rent and utilities [Civ. Code § 798.31].

NOTE:

For a discussion of the limited circumstances under which mobilehome park rental agreements and "new construction" in mobilehome parks are exempt from local rent control ordinances [see Civ. Code §§ 798.17, 798.45], see § 39.220[1][f]. For purposes of Civ. Code § 798.31, cable television charges are not considered a "utility," at least when those charges are imposed retroactively and on residents who do not want cable services [Greening v. Johnson (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 1223, 1230, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 214] .

b. Incidental reasonable charges for services actually rendered, provided management gives homeowner written notice of charge at least 60 days before its imposition if service is not listed in rental agreement [Civ. Code §§ 798.31, 798.32].

NOTE:

Any charges that are the subject of such a 60-day notice must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If the charge has a limited duration or is amortized for a specific period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice and on each subsequent billing to the homeowner while the charge is being billed [Civ. Code § 798.32(b)].

c. Fee for keeping any pet in park, but only if [Civ. Code § 798.33(b)]:

(1) Management actually provides special facilities or services for pets; and

(2) Fee charged is reasonably related to:
(a) Cost of maintaining facilities or services; and

(b) Number of pets kept in park.

d. Fee for any guest who stays with homeowner for more than 20 consecutive days or total of 30 days in calendar year (except as provided in P 2, below) [Civ. Code § 798.34].

NOTE:
Guests who do not stay that long cannot be required to register with the management [Civ. Code § 798.34].

e. Fee for obtaining lease on mobilehome lot, but only if [Civ. Code § 798.31]:

(1) Lease is for more than one year; and

(2) Fee is mutually agreed on by homeowner and management.

f. Security deposit, but only if [see Civ. Code § 798.39]:

(1) Charge does not exceed equivalent of two months' rent (in addition to rent for first month); and

NOTE:
Management need not place the security deposit in an interest-bearing account or provide a homeowner with any interest on the deposit [Civ. Code § 798.39(e)].

(2) Deposit is required before time homeowner first begins occupancy in park.

NOTE:
Management may not demand an additional security deposit of a homeowner following the initial occupancy [Civ. Code § 798.39(a)].

g. If management does not permit mobilehome owners or residents to purchase liquified petroleum gas for use in mobilehome park from someone other than management, charges to homeowners and residents for liquified petroleum gas must not exceed 110 percent of actual price paid by management [Civ. Code § 798.44(a)].

NOTE:
If the management sells liquified petroleum gas to homeowners and residents under these circumstances, it must post in a visible location the actual price paid by the management for the liquified petroleum gas [Civ. Code § 798.44(b)]. The price limitation applies when federal, state, or local laws or regulations, including requirements for setbacks between mobilehomes, prohibit homeowners or residents from installing their own liquefied petroleum gas supply tanks, even though the management of the mobilehome park permits mobilehome owners and park residents to buy their own liquefied petroleum gas [Civ. Code § 798.44(e)].

2. Do not impose any charge or fee that is:

a. Based on number of members in homeowner's "immediate family," consisting of homeowner, homeowner's spouse, and their parents, children, and grandchildren under 18 years of age [Civ. Code § 798.35].

b. For one "guest" who shares mobilehome with a homeowner who is living alone [Civ. Code § 798.34(b)].

NOTE:
Any agreement between the homeowner and such a "guest" will not change the terms and conditions of the rental agreement between management and the homeowner. The guest must comply with the park's rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.34(b)].

c. For any caretaker of a homeowner who lives in park.

NOTE:
To be a qualified caretaker, the person must be over 18 years of age and provide live-in health care or live-in supportive care to the homeowner pursuant to a written treatment plan prepared by the homeowner's physician [Civ. Code § 798.34(c)].

d. For any senior homeowner's parent, sibling, child, or grandchild who requires live-in health care, live-in supportive care, or supervision under a written treatment plan prepared by a physician and surgeon [Civ. Code § 798.34(d)].

NOTE:
The homeowner's relative must be over 18 years of age [Civ. Code § 798.34(d)].

e. To enforce any of park's rules and regulations, except lot maintenance requirements [Civ. Code § 798.36(a); see Civ. Code § 798.15(g); § 39.237] or charges incurred in cleaning up land and premises [Civ. Code § 798.36(a), (b); see also § 39.121[4]].

f. For entry, installation, hookup, or landscaping as condition of tenancy, unless fee is [Civ. Code § 798.37]:

NOTE:
The park rules and regulations may include reasonable landscaping and maintenance requirements [see Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36; § 39.237]. However, management must not require a homeowner or prospective homeowner to purchase, rent, or lease goods or services for landscaping, remodeling, or maintenance from any person, company, or corporation [Civ. Code § 798.37].

(1) Imposed by local governmental ordinance or requirement;

(2) Directly related to occupancy of specific site on which mobilehome is located; and

(3) Not incurred as portion of development of park as a whole.

g. Reflective of cost to management of any fine, forfeiture, penalty, money damages, or fee assessed by a court against management for a violation of Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code 798.39.5(a)].

NOTE:

Management may not charge or impose any fee or rent increase that reflects the above cost to management (including attorneys' fees and related costs incurred by management) [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(a)]. In determining whether a homeowner has met the burden of proof that a fee or rent increase violates this prohibition, the court must consider the timing of any fine, forfeiture, penalty, or fee assessed against management [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(b)].

3. If management provides both master meter and submeter utilities service [Civ. Code § 798.40]:

a. Post in conspicuous place prevailing residential utilities rate schedule as published by serving utility;

b. Give written notice to homeowners and residents in their utility billing statements by February 1 of each year about assistance to low-income persons for utility costs under California Alternate Rates for Energy (CARE) program [Civ. Code § 798.43.1(a)];

c. For each billing period, separately state charges for period and opening and closing readings for homeowner's meter including CARE discount, if any [Civ. Code § 798.43.1(c)]; and

d. If third-party billing agent or company prepares utility billing for park, disclose name, address, and telephone number of billing agent or company on each resident's billing [Civ. Code § 798.40(b)].

4. Unless rental agreement provides otherwise, consider billing homeowner separately for utility service fees and charges assessed by utility for following services provided to or for spaces in park [see Civ. Code § 798.41(a), (c)]:

a. Natural gas or liquid propane gas.

b. Electricity.

c. Water.

d. Cable television.

e. Garbage or refuse service.

f. Sewer service.

NOTE:

Fees and charges may not be separately billed by management to homeowners who entered into a rental agreement prior to January 1, 1991, unless the agreement is or was extended or renewed on or after that date [Civ. Code § 798.41]. Any separately billed utility fees and charges will not be considered as rent payable under the rental agreement or for purposes of rent increases under any local rent control provision, but only if, at the time of the initial separate billing, the rent chargeable under the rental agreement or the base rent chargeable under the terms of the local provision is simultaneously reduced by an amount equal to the separate fees and charges for utilities [Civ. Code § 798.41(a)].

Specifically, the amount of this reduction must be equal to the average amount charged to management for the utility services for the homeowner's space during the 12 months immediately preceding notice of the commencement of the separate billing for the utility services [Civ. Code § 798.41(a)].

These separately billed utility fees and charges must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If any such fee or charge has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice of the billing and on each subsequent billing that is given to the homeowner while the fee or charge is being billed [Civ. Code § 798.41(d)].

5. If homeowner is responsible for paying gas, water, or electric utility service:

a. Notify homeowner, before inception of tenancy or on discovery, of any condition known to management by which gas, water, or electric meter on homeowner's site measures gas, water, or electric service for common area facilities or equipment, including lighting [Civ. Code § 798.43(a)]; and

NOTE:
This requirement, and the requirement discussed in P 5b, below, applies if the electric meter on the homeowner's site measures electricity for lighting mandated by statute for certain common facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 18602] and this lighting serves the homeowner's site [Civ. Code § 798.43(b)].

b. Do either of following [Civ. Code § 798.43(a)]:

(1) Enter into mutual written agreement with homeowner for compensation by management for cost of portion of service measured by homeowner's meter for common area facilities or equipment; or

NOTE:
This agreement must cover the above costs to the extent that they accrue on or after January 1, 1991 [Civ. Code § 798.43(a)(1)].

(2) Discontinue using meter on homeowner's site for utility service to common area facilities and equipment.

6. If a homeowner plans to sell or sells his or her mobilehome located in park, do not charge [Civ. Code § 798.72; see Civ. Code § 798.74(b)]:

a. Homeowner or homeowner's agent a transfer or selling fee as a condition of sale of mobilehome, except for any actual service management has performed in sale or transfer in accordance with written request of homeowner or homeowner's agent.

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 798.72 also prohibits imposing this fee on any heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of a homeowner's estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome in a mobilehome park through the death of the owner of the mobilehome, provided the owner was a homeowner in the park at the time of his or her death [Civ. Code § 798.72(a)].

b. Prospective homeowner or his or her agent, on purchase of mobilehome, a fee as condition of approval for residency in park, unless management performs specific service in sale.

c. Prospective homeowner an interview fee.

NOTE:
Management may charge a prospective homeowner for a credit check [Civ. Code § 798.72(b); see Civ. Code § 798.74(b) (requirements governing credit checks)].

7. Give at least 90 days' advance written notice before increasing amount of rent payable by homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.30; see § 39.232].

8. Give at least 60 days' advance written notice before imposing any fee or charge for services rendered by management that are not described in rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.32; see § 39.233].

9. If requested in writing by a homeowner, refund homeowner's security deposit within 30 days of earlier of the following [Civ. Code § 798.39(b)]:

NOTE:
The requirements outlined in this paragraph apply to any security deposit collected on or after January 1, 1989 [Civ. Code § 798.39(b)]. Deposits collected before that date must be refunded to the homeowner (1) on the extension or renewal of the rental agreement or lease between the homeowner and the management, and (2) on receipt of a written request from the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.39(c)]. Security deposits not otherwise required to be disbursed must be transferred to the successor in interest of a selling or transferring park owner; the new owner then has the same statutorily-imposed obligations with regard to the security deposits [Civ. Code § 798.39(d)].

For discussion of the statutory limitations on the amount and timing of the deposit [Civ. Code § 798.39(a)], see P 1(f), above.

a. Resale of mobilehome; or

b. End of any 12-month period, following collection of deposit, during which homeowner promptly paid all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges (as applicable) within five days of relevant due dates.

10. Do not acquire any lien or security interest in homeowner's mobilehome located in park unless [see Civ. Code § 798.38]:

a. Homeowner's consent is obtained; or

b. Judgment lien has been obtained.

NOTE:
If management obtains this lien or interest, any billing and payment on the secured obligation must be kept separate from current rent [Civ. Code § 798.38]. For the procedure for perfecting a security interest in a mobilehome, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

11. If local rent control measure applies to mobilehome park, consider separately charging each homeowner for certain fees, assessments, or other charges imposed on homeowner's space in park [see Civ. Code § 798.49]:

NOTE:
The local agency that administers the local measure must permit the park management to separately charge the homeowners for these fees [Civ. Code § 798.49(a)]. Civ. Code § 798.49 does not apply, however, to certain fees and other charges imposed (1) pursuant to the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.], (2) on management by a court for a violation of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see Civ. Code § 798.39.5], or (3) on management for the purpose of defraying the cost of administration of any local rent control measure. Further, it does not apply to any tax imposed on the property by a local jurisdiction [Civ. Code § 798.49(d)].

a. By local jurisdiction; or

b. Pursuant to any state or locally mandated housing program authorized by Health and Safety Code [see Civ. Code § 798.49(a)].

NOTE:

The amount of any such fee, assessment, or other charge must be separately stated on any billing to the homeowner [see Civ. Code § 798.49(c), (e); see also Civ. Code § 798.59(b) (adjustments for decreased or eliminated fees)]. Any change in the amount of the fee, assessment, or other charge must be separately stated on any billing to the homeowner [see Civ. Code § 798.49(c), (e); see also Civ. Code § 798.59(b) (adjustments for decreased or eliminated fees)]. Any change in the amount of the fee, assessment, or other charge must be considered when any rental adjustment is made under the local measure [Civ. Code § 798.49(c)].

[6] Required Notices and Disclosures to Homeowners and Prospective Homeowners

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided, all notices required by the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner; or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.14].

1. Furnish any prospective homeowner with following information, in writing, before beginning of homeowner's tenancy:

a. Notice of park's right to operate [Civ. Code § 798.27(a); see P 4, below].

b. Notice of any change in park's right to operate [see P 4, below] that occurs before time homeowner begins occupancy in park [Civ. Code § 798.27].

c. For any prospective homeowner who is offered a rental or lease agreement that is to be exempt from rent control [see § 39.220[1][f]], notice of homeowner's right to [Civ. Code § 798.17(f); see § 39.231 (form of notice)]:

(1) Have at least 30 days to inspect agreement; and

(2) Void rental agreement by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of accepting rental agreement.

d. Notice of any pending amendment to park's rules and regulations [see Civ. Code § 798.25].

e. Existence of any gas, water, or electric meter on homeowner's site that measures both homeowner's usage and usage for park's common facilities or equipment [see Civ. Code § 798.43; § 39.220[1][i][ix]].

f. If management is requesting a change of use in park before local governmental bodies or if a change of use request has been granted by a local government body, notice of that fact [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(3); see § 39.240 (form of notice)].

g. Notice that mobilehome may be subject to school facilities fee [Civ. Code § 798.82; see § 39.230A (form of notice)].

NOTE:
The notice must be furnished at the time of application for residency [Civ. Code § 798.82].

h. Effective October 1, 2004, within two business days of receiving request from prospective homeowner for application for residency for specific space within mobilehome park, if management has been advised that mobilehome occupying that space is for sale, give prospective homeowner document in at least 12-point type entitled "INFORMATION FOR PROSPECTIVE HOMEOWNERS" that includes specified statements concerning home ownership in mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.74.5(a); see § 39.241[2] (form)].

2. Notify homeowners of existence and identity of Mobilehome Ombudsman by taking following steps [Civ. Code § 798.29]:

NOTE:
The Mobilehome Ombudsman assists the public in resolving problems relating to mobilehomes [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18150-18153; see also § 39.12].

a. Obtain sign from Department of Housing and Community Development that contains name, address, and phone number for Mobilehome Ombudsman; and

b. Post sign in park clubhouse or in another conspicuous public place within park [see Health & Safety Code § 18253.5(a)].

3. Before February 1 of each year, provide homeowners with copy of Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] if Legislature enacted significant change or changes to MRL in prior year [Civ. Code § 798.15(c)].

NOTE:
A copy of the text of the MRL must also be attached as an exhibit to, and incorporated by reference into, a mobilehome park rental agreement [see Civ. Code § 798.15(c); see also § 39.220].

4. Provide all homeowners and prospective homeowners [see P 1a, above] with written notice of park's right to operate park, which describes [Civ. Code § 798.27(a)]:

a. Nature of zoning or use permit under which park operates.

NOTE:
If the park is operating under a permit subject to a renewal or expiration date, the relevant information and dates must be included in the notice [Civ. Code § 798.27(a)].

b. Duration of any lease on all or any portion of park that management leases from another party.

5. If after giving notice described in P 4, above, a change occurs concerning zoning or use permit under which park operates or a lease under which management is a lessee, provide homeowners and prospective homeowners with written notice that describes change [Civ. Code § 798.27].

NOTE:
If this change occurs before the time a homeowner begins his or her tenancy, the notice must be given before the tenancy commences. Otherwise, the notice must be given within 30 days of the change [Civ. Code § 798.27].

6. Disclose, in writing, name, business address, and business telephone number of park owner to any homeowner who requests this information [Civ. Code § 798.28].

7. Before increasing any homeowner's rent, give him or her at least 90 days' advance notice [Civ. Code § 798.30].

8. Before charging homeowner any fee for services that will be rendered by park but that are not described in homeowner's rental agreement, give homeowner at least 60 days' prior notice [Civ. Code § 798.32].

9. In conspicuous place in park, post following information [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1686]:

a. Telephone numbers of the following:

(1) Fire department.

(2) Police department or sheriff's office.

(3) Park office.

(4) Person responsible for operation and maintenance.

(5) Enforcement agency.

b. Locations of the following:

(1) Nearest fire alarm box, when available.

(2) Park (giving street or highway numbers).

(3) Nearest public telephone.

10. Post hours of common area facilities at each facility [Civ. Code § 798.24].

11. Before amending any park rule or regulation give notice as follows:

a. At least 10 days' advance written notice of meeting to discuss proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(a)].

NOTE:
Management must meet and consult with the homeowners in the park, their representatives, or both, when proposing an amendment to the park's rules and regulations. Notice of the meeting must set forth the proposed amendment to the park rule and regulation and the date, time, and location of the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.25(a)]. A meeting is not required when management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation. In such cases, management may implement the amendment, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

b. After meeting and consultation [Civ. Code § 798.25(b)]:

(1) At least 60 days written notice for any amendment that relates to recreational facilities in the park.

(2) At least six months written notice for amendment of any other park rule or regulation.

NOTE:
The six month notice requirement is not required to adopt the noticed amendment, as to any homeowner, if that homeowner's consent is obtained [Civ. Code § 798.25(b)].

12. For violation of park rule or regulation, give homeowner written notice of alleged violation.

NOTE:
A homeowner is not considered to be in violation unless this notice is given and he or she fails to adhere to the rule or regulation within seven days [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]. This notice must also be given before terminating a tenancy for a homeowner's violation of a park rule or regulation [see § 39.236]. Notice of the alleged violation need not be given if notice has been previously given for the same rule or regulation on three or more occasions within a 12-month period [see Civ. Code § 798.56].

13. If homeowner is required by rental agreement to maintain lot on which mobilehome is located but fails to do so, consider giving homeowner notice that if he or she fails to perform maintenance, management may perform the maintenance and charge homeowner a fee for performance of these services [Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36; see § 39.237 (requirements for notice)].

14. If homeowner does not pay rent, utilities, or other permitted park charges within five days of their due date (not including day payment is due), give homeowner three-day notice to pay or vacate [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 (required method of service); see 39.238 (requirements for notice)].

NOTE:
This notice may (and should) be given at the same time as the 60-day notice of termination [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); see P 15, below; see also § 39.121[9], P 3].

If management has previously given a homeowner a three-day notice to pay rent or other charges on three or more occasions in the preceding 12-month period, and each three-day notice contained a warning statement specified in the statute [see [9], below], it need not give a further three-day notice for subsequent nonpayment. Rather, management may give the homeowner a notice to vacate [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5); see P 15, below].

15. If grounds for terminating a tenancy exist [Civ. Code § 798.56; see § 39.238] and any required preliminary notices have been given [see, e.g., P 14, above], give written notice of termination to [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]:

NOTE:

For more detailed coverage of the procedure governing the termination of tenancies, see §§ 39.121[9] (procedural guide to terminations) and 39.238 (coverage of applicable procedure and illustrative termination notice).

a. Homeowner, at least 60 days before date homeowner is required to sell or remove mobilehome from park; and

b. Legal owner of mobilehome, each junior lienholder, and registered owner (if different than homeowner), within 10 days after notice of termination is given to homeowner.

NOTE:

Notice to the legal owner, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner may be sent by regular mail or by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested, at management's option [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. However, for termination for nonpayment of rent or other valid charges, the notice must be sent by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, within 10 days after notice is sent to the homeowner [Civ. Code §§ 798.55(b) (applicable when three-day notice is also required), 798.56(e)(5) (applicable when three-day notice is not required)].

16. If park management seeks a change in park's use:

a. Give homeowners at least 15 days' written notice that management will be appearing before local governing body to request permits for change of use of mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(1)].

b. At same time that notice described in P 15, above, is given, give homeowners report on impact of change in use on displaced park residents [Civ. Code § 798.56(h); Gov. Code § 65863.7(b), (i)].

c. After receiving final approval for change in use, give homeowners six months' or more written notice of termination of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2)].

NOTE:

If the change of use requires no local governmental permits, then notice must be given 12 months or more before the management's determination that a change of use will occur. Also, management must disclose and describe in detail the nature of the change of use [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2)].

17. If qualified homeowner organization has previously notified park owner of its interest in purchasing park in order to convert it to resident ownership [see § 39.210 (form of notice and requirements for qualified organization)], give organization prior notice if park owner intends to do either of following [see Civ. Code § 798.80; see also § 39.211 (form of owner's notice, including requirements for service, and discussion of exempt transfers and sales)]:

a. Enter into written listing agreement with licensed real estate broker for sale of park; or

b. Offer to sell park to any nonexempt party.

18. At least 72 hours before an interruption of more than two hours in utility service for maintenance, repair, or replacement of facilities or utility systems over which management has control within park, post notice of interruption on mobilehomes of all affected homeowners and residents [Civ. Code § 798.42].

NOTE:

This requirement does not apply to an interruption that is due to an emergency. For these purposes, "emergency" means the interruption of utility service resulting from an accident or act of nature, or cessation of service caused by other than the management's regular or planned maintenance, repair, or replacement of utility facilities [Civ. Code § 798.42].

If management violates this posting requirement, it will be liable only for actual damages sustained by a homeowner or resident [Civ. Code § 798.42].

[7] Homeowner Meetings and Right of Assembly

NOTE:

Unless otherwise indicated below, any notice required by the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 39.14 (scope of MRL)] must be either delivered personally to the homeowner or deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.14].

1. Meet with homeowner or homeowners who submit a written request for a meeting on any of following matters [Civ. Code § 798.53]:

NOTE:

Management may meet with homeowners on the following matters either individually, collectively, or with representatives of a group of homeowners who have signed a request to be represented. The meeting must be held within 30 days of receiving the written request for a meeting, and management must give notice to all requesting homeowners at least 10 days before any collective meeting [Civ. Code § 798.53].

a. Resident concerns regarding existing park rules that are not subject to statutory provisions applicable to amendments of park rules and regulations [see Civ. Code § 798.25].

b. Standards for maintenance of physical improvements in park.

c. Addition, alteration, or deletion of service, equipment, or physical improvements.

d. Rental agreements with terms exceeding one year offered pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.17 [see § 39.52[2]].

2. Do not enact any park rule or regulation or take any other action that prohibits or restricts right of homeowners to do the following:

NOTE:

Any homeowner or resident who is prevented by management from exercising the following rights may bring an action to enjoin enforcement of any rule, regulation, or other policy that unreasonably deprives the homeowner or resident of those rights [Civ. Code § 798.52].

a. Peacefully assemble or meet in park, at reasonable hours and in a reasonable manner, for any lawful purpose [Civ. Code § 798.51(a)(1)].

NOTE:
Meetings may be held in the park community hall, recreation hall, or clubhouse when the facility is not otherwise in use. They may also be held in any mobilehome in the park, with the consent of the homeowner of the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.51(a)(1)].

b. Invite public officials, candidates for public office, or representatives of mobilehome owner organizations to meet with homeowners and residents and speak on matters of public interest [Civ. Code § 798.51(a)(2)].

NOTE:
This right must be exercised in accordance with Civ. Code § 798.50 [Civ. Code § 798.51(a)(2)]. Section 798.50 provides that the legislative intent behind the statutory requirements governing homeowner communications and meetings is to ensure that homeowners and residents of mobilehome parks have the right to peacefully assemble and freely communicate with one another and with others with respect to mobilehome living or for social or educational purposes [Civ. Code § 798.50].

c. Canvass and petition homeowners and residents for noncommercial purposes relating to mobilehome living, election to public office, or the initiative, referendum, or recall processes [Civ. Code § 798.51(a)(3)].

NOTE:
The canvassing and petitioning may include the distribution or circulation of information, and must be performed at reasonable hours and in a reasonable manner [Civ. Code § 798.50(c)].

d. Display in window or on side of manufactured home or mobilehome, or within site on which home is located or installed, political campaign sign relating to candidate for election to public office or to initiative, referendum, or recall process [Civ. Code §§ 798.51(e), 799.10].

NOTE:
The size of the face of the sign may not exceed six square feet, and the sign may not be displayed in excess of a period of time from 90 days before an election to 15 days following the election, unless a local ordinance within the jurisdiction where the mobilehome park is located imposes a more restrictive time period [Civ. Code §§ 798.51(e), 799.10].

3. Permit the use of any mobilehome in park as a polling place if county clerk [Elec. Code § 1638.7]:

NOTE:
A rental agreement must not prohibit this use of a mobilehome [Elec. Code § 1638.7].

a. Determines that no other facilities are available for convenient exercise of voting rights by park residents; and

b. Designates mobilehome as a polling place [see Elec. Code § 1638].

[8] Homeowner's Sale of Mobilehome Located in Park

NOTE:
For a discussion of the rights and duties of park management and a homeowner who desires to sell his or her mobilehome located in that park, see Ch. 40, Mobilehome Parks .

[9] Termination of Tenancies

NOTE:
The requirements discussed below for terminating a tenancy in a mobilehome park apply to any tenancy subject to the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 39.14 (scope of MRL)]. The requirements do not affect any rights or proceedings set forth in the unlawful detainer statutes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq.], except as otherwise provided in the MRL [Civ. Code § 798.60]. Unless otherwise indicated below, any notice required by the MRL must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.14].

1. Do not terminate a tenancy except for one or more of the following permitted reasons [Civ. Code § 798.56]:

a. Failure of homeowner or resident to comply, within reasonable time after receiving notice of noncompliance from appropriate governmental agency, with local ordinance or state law or regulation relating to mobilehomes.

b. Conduct by homeowner or resident on park premises constituting substantial annoyance to other homeowners or residents.

c. Conviction of homeowner or resident for prostitution, assault with a firearm on another person or on a peace officer or firefighter engaged in performance of his or her duties [Pen. Code §§ 243(d), 245(a)(2), (b)], lewd or lascivious acts involving children [Pen. Code § 288], arson [Pen. Code § 451], or a felony controlled substance offense, if:
(1) Act resulting in conviction was committed within homeowner's mobilehome or elsewhere on park premises; and

(2) Person convicted of offense has not permanently vacated mobilehome.

d. Homeowner's or resident's continuing noncompliance with reasonable rule or regulation of park that is part of rental agreement, or any amendment to such a rule or regulation, for seven days following receipt of written notice from management of alleged violation [see § 39.236 (form of notice)].

NOTE:
If a homeowner receives three or more written notices of an alleged violation of the same rule or regulation within a 12-month period, no further written notice of the alleged violation is required for a subsequent violation of the same rule or regulation by the same homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)].

e. Nonpayment of rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges, if:

NOTE:
If rent has not been paid on an unoccupied mobilehome for 60 days and certain other criteria are satisfied, the mobilehome and its contents will be considered abandoned and may be sold by management [see Civ. Code § 798.61]. For a discussion of these requirements, see § 39.121[10].

(1) Amount due has been unpaid for at least five days from due date (not including due date);

(2) After that five-day period, management gives homeowner three-day written notice to pay or to vacate tenancy; and

NOTE:
The three-day notice must be given to the homeowner in the same manner as is required for three-day notices under the unlawful detainer statutes [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1162]. However, the three-day notice must also contain the following statement printed in at least 12-point boldface type at the top of the notice, with the appropriate number written in the blank: "Warning: This notice is the (insert number) three-day notice for nonpayment of rent, utility charges, or other reasonable incidental services that has been served upon you in the last 12 months. Pursuant to Civil Code Section 798.56(e)(5), if you have been given a three-day notice to either pay rent, utility charges, or other reasonable incidental services or to vacate your tenancy on three or more occasions within a 12-month period, management is not required to give you a further three-day period to pay rent or vacate the tenancy before your tenancy can be terminated" [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5)]. It may (and should) be given at the same time as the 60-day notice required for termination of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); see P 3, below]. A copy of the three-day notice must be sent to the legal owner [see Health & Safety Code § 18005.8], each junior lienholder [see Health & Safety Code § 18005.3], and the registered owner of the mobilehome, if other than the homeowner, within 10 days after the three-day notice is delivered to the homeowner. The three-day notice need not be sent if the homeowner cures the default [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1)].

If the homeowner has been given a three-day notice to pay or vacate on three or more occasions within the preceding 12-month period, management need not give a written three-day notice for a subsequent nonpayment [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5)]. Instead, management must give written notice to the homeowner to remove the mobilehome from the park within a period (specified in the notice) of not less than 60 days. The notice must be served in the manner required for three-day notices [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1162]. A copy of this notice must be sent to the legal owner, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner of the mobilehome, if other than the homeowner [see Civ. Code § 798.55(b)], by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, within 10 days after notice is sent to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5)].

(3) Default is not cured by either of following methods:

(a) Homeowner pays before expiration of three-day notice period [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(2)]; or

NOTE:
If the homeowner does not pay before the expiration of the three-day notice period, he or she will remain liable for all payments due up until the time the tenancy is vacated [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(2)]. An owner of a mobilehome park who obtains a final money judgment for unpaid rent against the registered owner of a mobilehome may perfect a lien against the mobilehome pursuant to statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.9].

(b) Legal owner, registered owner of mobilehome (if other than homeowner), or junior lienholder [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18005.8, 18009.5, 18005.3 (respective definitions of these terms)] cures homeowner's default by paying amount due within 30 calendar days after three-day notice or notice of termination was mailed [see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(3), (6)].

NOTE:

A cure by either the legal owner, registered owner, or a junior lienholder is not permitted more often than twice during a 12-month period [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(4); see Civ. Code § 798.56(e) (additional restrictions on right to cure)].

f. Condemnation of park.

g. Change of use of all or any part of park, provided [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)]:

(1) Management gives homeowners:

(a) At least 15 days' written notice that management will be appearing before local governmental entity to request permits for change [see § 39.240]; and

(b) After all required permits are approved, six months or more advance written notice of termination of tenancy.

NOTE:

If the change of use requires no local governmental permits, then notice must be given at least 12 months before the management's determination that a change of use will occur. The notice must disclose the nature of the change and describe it in detail [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2)].

(2) Management gives proposed homeowners, before inception of tenancy, written notice that management is requesting change or that change has been granted.

(3) Notice requirements for termination of tenancy set forth in Civ. Code §§ 798.56 and 798.57 are followed if proposed change actually occurs [see § 39.238].

2. Do not terminate tenancy for purpose of making homeowner's site available for person who purchased or proposes to purchase, or rents or proposes to rent, a mobilehome from owner of park or owner's agent [Civ. Code § 798.58].

3. If valid reason for termination exists [see P 1, above], give written notice of termination [see § 39.238 (illustrative termination notice)] to:

NOTE:

The notice must require sale or removal, at the homeowner's election, of the mobilehome from the park on a date that is at least 60 days after the date of the notice of termination [see Civ. Code §§ 798.55(b)(1), 798.73]. Management may not require a mobilehome to be removed from the park pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.73 unless it has provided notice to the homeowner particularly specifying the condition that permits the removal of the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.73(e)]. The notice must set forth the reason for the termination, and provide specific facts to permit a determination of the date, place, witnesses, and circumstances concerning that reason. This requirement will not be satisfied by a mere recital of the language of the applicable termination statutes or by reference to a section number or subdivision of those statutes [Civ. Code § 798.57].

a. Homeowner, at least 60 days before date homeowner is required to sell or remove mobilehome from park; and

NOTE:

If the notice is being given for nonpayment of rent [see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1)], it may (and should) be given at the same time as the three-day notice to pay or vacate [see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); P 1e, above].

b. Legal owner of mobilehome, each junior lienholder, and registered owner (if different than homeowner), within 10 days after notice of termination is given to homeowner.

NOTE:

The notice must be sent to these persons by United States mail, addressed to the recipients at the addresses set forth in the registration card [Civ. Code § 798.55(b); see Health & Safety Code § 18091.5 (registration card)]. It may be sent by regular mail or by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested, at the management's option [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. However, for terminations for nonpayment of rent, the notice must be sent by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested [see Civ. Code §§ 798.55(c), 798.56(e)(5)].

4. If notice of termination has been given [see P 3, above], permit legal owner of mobilehome or any junior lienholder to maintain mobilehome in park until its sale to a third party only if legal owner or junior lienholder does all of following [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)]:

NOTE:

As an alternative to selling the mobilehome to a third party, the legal owner or junior lienholder may agree with management to sell it to park management [see Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)(1)].

a. Within 60 days following receipt of, or no later than 65 days after mailing of, notice of termination, notifies management of either [Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)(2), (3), (b)(1)]:

NOTE:

For the form of notice that must be given, the time requirements for giving it, and related requirements, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

(1) Its intention to foreclose on its security interest in mobilehome; or

(2) Its request that management pursue termination of tenancy against homeowner.

NOTE:

The legal owner and junior lienholder must reimburse management for reasonable attorney's fees and court costs incurred by management in the termination action, in an amount agreed on by the parties [Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)(3)].

b. Satisfies, within 60 days following receipt of notice of termination (but no later than 65 days after its mailing), all of homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities owing to management for 90 days preceding mailing of notice of termination and then continues to satisfy responsibilities and liabilities as they accrue from date notice was mailed until mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)(1)].

NOTE:
For these purposes, "homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities" means all rents, utilities, reasonable maintenance charges of the mobilehome and its premises, and reasonable maintenance of the mobilehome and its premises pursuant to existing park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.56a(c)]. Performance by the legal owner or junior lienholder of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities will not cure the homeowner's default [Civ. Code § 798.56a(g)].

c. Within 60 days following receipt of notice of termination (but no later than 65 days after mailing of that notice), commences all repairs and necessary corrective actions so that mobilehome complies with [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)(2)]:

(1) Park rules and regulations in existence at time notice of termination was given; and

(2) Health and safety standards specified in Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, and 18605.

NOTE:
These standards govern (1) the condition, installation, and registration of mobilehomes [see Health & Safety Code § 18550]; (2) the construction, location, and use of mobilehome accessory buildings [see Health & Safety Code § 18552]; and (3) the use and occupancy of mobilehomes [see Health & Safety Code § 18605].

d. Completes repairs and corrective actions described in P 4c, above, within 90 calendar days of notice of termination, or before date mobilehome is sold, whichever is earlier [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)(2)].

e. Complies with requirements of Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] governing transfers of mobilehomes [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83; see also Ch. 40, Mobilehomes] as they relate to transfers of mobilehomes to third parties [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)(3)].

5. If legal owner or junior lienholder fails to satisfy requirements described in P 4, above, consider exercising following rights [Civ. Code § 798.56a(e)]:

NOTE:
These rights exist notwithstanding any other provision of law, including the one that specifically prohibits a mobilehome from being moved from the site indicated on its registration card until the written consent of the legal owner and each junior lienholder has been obtained [Civ. Code § 798.56a(e); see Health & Safety Code § 18099.5 (prohibition against removal without consent)]. These rights also apply if a registered owner of a mobilehome that is not encumbered by a lien held by a legal owner or a junior lienholder, fails to comply with a notice of termination and is either legally evicted or vacates the premises [Civ. Code § 798.56a(e)].

a. Remove mobilehome from premises and place it in storage or store it on its site.

b. Enforce warehouseman's lien against mobilehome for costs of dismantling and moving, if appropriate, and storage [see Com. Code §§ 7209, 7210 (enforcement procedure); see also Ch. 99, Moving and Storage of Household Goods , Pt. C].

NOTE:

This lien will be superior to all other liens, except any lien the state may have for unpaid registration fees and penalties [see Health & Safety Code § 18116.1].

[10] Disposition of Abandoned Mobilehome

NOTE:

For purposes of the requirements and procedures discussed below, a mobilehome is considered to be "abandoned" if all of the following are true: (1) it is located in a mobilehome park on a site for which no rent has been paid to the management for the preceding 60 days, (2) it is unoccupied, and (3) a reasonable person would believe it to be abandoned [Civ. Code § 798.61(a)(1)]. The term "abandoned mobilehome" includes a mobilehome that (1) is uninhabitable because of its total or partial destruction, (2) cannot be rehabilitated, and (3) satisfies the requirements described in the preceding sentence [Civ. Code § 798.61(a)(2)(B)]. That term also includes certain trailer coaches and recreational vehicles [see Civ. Code § 798.61(a)(2)(A)].

For the procedure a creditor must follow to foreclose on an abandoned mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)], see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

Unlike the remainder of § 39.121, this subsection phrases its steps in terms of directives to the attorney (rather than to park management) because an attorney will normally be retained to perform the acts described below.

1. Prepare notice of belief of abandonment and take following steps [Civ. Code § 798.61(b)]:

a. Post notice on mobilehome for not fewer than 30 days; and

b. Mail copies of notice to:

NOTE:

The copies must be mailed by registered or certified United States mail, postage prepaid, with a return receipt requested [Civ. Code § 798.61(b)].

(1) Homeowner of mobilehome, at last known address.

(2) Any known registered owner, if different from homeowner.

(3) Any known holder of security interest in mobilehome.

2. Thirty or more days following posting of notice, take following steps [Civ. Code § 798.61(c)]:

a. File petition in superior court in county in which park is located, for judicial declaration of abandonment.

b. Post copy of petition on mobilehome.

c. Have copies of petition served on:

NOTE:
This service must be accomplished by mailing copies of the petition by registered United States mail, postage prepaid, with a return receipt requested. The copies must be addressed to the following persons at their last known address [Civ. Code § 798.61(c)].

(1) Homeowner.

(2) Any known registered owner.

(3) Any known person having lien or security interest of record in mobilehome.

3. Attend hearing on petition and show, by preponderance of evidence, that criteria for abandoned mobilehome have been satisfied [Civ. Code § 798.61(d)(2); see NOTE preceding P 1, above].

NOTE:
The hearing on the petition must be given precedence over other matters on the court's calendar [Civ. Code § 798.61(d)].

If, at the hearing, the petitioner makes the required showing and no party establishes an interest in the mobilehome, the court will enter a judgment of abandonment, determine the amount of charges to which the petitioner is entitled, and award attorneys' fees and costs to the petitioner [Civ. Code § 798.61(d)(2)]. "An interest in the mobilehome" is established by evidence of a right to possession of the mobilehome or a security or ownership interest in the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.61(d)(2)].

4. If court enters judgment of abandonment, request that default be entered by court clerk [Civ. Code § 798.61(d)(3)].

NOTE:
A default judgment will be entered following the request if no responsive pleading is filed within 15 days after service of the petition by mail [Civ. Code § 798.61(d)(3)].

5. Assist management in performance of following duties within 10 days following judgment of abandonment [Civ. Code § 798.61(e)]:

a. Enter abandoned mobilehome, complete inventory of its contents, and submit inventory to court.

b. Prepare notice of intent to sell mobilehome and its contents.

NOTE:
This notice must announce the date of sale [Civ. Code § 798.61(e)(2)].

c. Post and mail notice of intent to sell, following same procedures used for notice of belief of abandonment [see P 1, above].

6. If any person having right to possession of mobilehome pays, at any time prior to sale, all rent or other charges due (including reasonable costs of storage and other costs awarded by court), instruct management to take following steps [Civ. Code § 798.61(e)(3)]:

a. Permit that person to recover mobilehome and remove it from premises.

b. Upon receipt of payment and removal of mobilehome, file acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 724.030].

NOTE:

When a money judgment is satisfied, the judgment creditor immediately must file with the court an acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment (unless the judgment is satisfied in full pursuant to a writ) [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.030]. For further discussion and a form of acknowledgment, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 318, Judgments*, § 318.120 et seq.* (Matthew Bender).

7. Following entry of judgment of abandonment, but not less than 10 days following mailing of notice of intent to sell [see P 5c, above], have management conduct public sale of mobilehome and its contents [Civ. Code § 798.61(f)].

NOTE:

Management may bid at the sale, and has the right to offset its bids to the extent of the total amount owed to management (as determined under the statutory provisions discussed here governing the sale of abandoned mobilehomes) [Civ. Code § 798.61(f)].

8. Provide purchaser at sale with the following [Civ. Code § 798.61(h)]:

a. Copy of judgment of abandonment; and

b. Evidence of the sale, as specified by Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) or Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV).

NOTE:

HCD or DMV will register title in the abandoned mobilehome to the purchaser upon presentation of the above judgment of abandonment and evidence of title [Civ. Code § 798.61(h); see Veh. Code § 5903]. The sale will pass title to the purchaser free of any prior interest in the mobilehome, including any security interest or lien, except the state's lien for unpaid fees and penalties [Civ. Code § 798.61(h); see Health & Safety Code § 18116.1 (state's lien for unpaid fees and penalties on mobilehomes)].

9. Following sale, instruct management to do the following:

a. Retain sales proceeds, up to amount owed [Civ. Code § 798.61(f)]; and

b. Within 30 days of sale:

(1) Pay into county treasury any unclaimed amount obtained by management over and above amount to which it is entitled [Civ. Code § 798.61(f)]; and

NOTE:

This unclaimed amount is deemed abandoned property. The former homeowner or any other owner may claim any or all of that unclaimed amount within one year from the date of payment to the county by applying to the county treasurer or other official designated by the county. If the county pays any or all of that unclaimed amount to a claimant, neither the county nor any officer or employee of the county is liable to any other claimant for the amount paid [Civ. Code § 798.61(f)].

(2) Submit to court an accounting of moneys received from sale and disposition of money and items contained in inventory [Civ. Code § 798.61(g)].

§ 39.200 Application for Permit to Construct Mobilehome Park

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) application for a construction permit. Under the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and its implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], a construction permit must be obtained before beginning construction of a new mobilehome rental park [see Health & Safety Code § 18500; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(a); see also § 39.10 (rental and resident-owned parks distinguished)]. For a step-by-step guide to the construction of a mobilehome park, see § 39.120.

Use of this form is mandatory if the enforcement agency for the proposed mobilehome park is HCD [see § 39.13[4]]. If a local governing body has become the enforcement agency by assuming responsibility for enforcement of the MPA in the jurisdiction in which the proposed park is located [see § 39.13[4]], a different form of application may be required. In any event, the application for a construction permit must be submitted to the appropriate enforcement agency, whether it is HCD or a local governing body [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(a)]. The remainder of this comment assumes that the HCD is the enforcement agency for the proposed park; if it is not, the procedure for obtaining a required construction permit may vary slightly from the requirements discussed below.

This application form should not be submitted for construction of a new mobilehome subdivision park (that is, a resident-owned park), since the development and construction of those parks is regulated by the Subdivision Map Act and the Subdivided Lands Act, not the Mobilehome Parks Act [see § 39.29]. However, any construction occurring in a resident-owned park that was formerly a "rental park" is subject to the permit and other requirements of the MPA and its implementing regulations [see Health & Safety Code § 18214(a) (definition of "mobilehome park" includes converted parks)].

This HCD application form is a multi-purpose form that is used not only to obtain a construction permit for a new "rental" park, but also to obtain a permit for other construction and installation activities regulated under the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; see [2], below, "Instructions"]. These other regulated activities are briefly described in [c], below.

[b] Available State Assistance in Permit Process

The Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) provides information relating to the permit process. It publishes informational booklets that summarize specific requirements under the Mobilehome Parks Act. These cover, among other things, the construction permit process and specifications for installing mobilehomes. HCD can be reached in Sacramento at (916) 445-4782.

Until 2004, a number of state and local agencies staffed Permit Assistance Centers, also known as "One-Stop Permitting" Centers, at various locations across the state. The Centers served as a single point where businesses could obtain information, receive permit consultation, and file applications for local, regional, and state permits. Those centers have been replaced by the online "CalGOLD" permit assistance website at http://www.calgold.ca.gov. However, it does not appear that the CalGold website relates to permit assistance for mobilehome parks.

[c] Construction and Other Activities That Require Permit

[i] Overview

It is unlawful to construct a mobilehome park, or to construct or alter buildings, lots, or other installations in an existing mobilehome park, without first obtaining a valid permit issued by the enforcement agency with jurisdiction over the park [Health & Safety Code § 18500(a), (b); see Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined); § 39.13[4]]. Subject to limited exceptions for minor construction [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(d)], the following activities require a construction permit: erecting, constructing, reconstructing, installing, replacing, relocating, or altering any building, structure, accessory building or structure, or building component [see [ii], below], any electrical, mechanical, or plumbing equipment, any fuel gas equipment and installations, or any fire protection equipment or installations of, or within, a mobilehome park, or a mobilehome lot, or perform any non-load bearing grading or area fill with a depth of one foot or greater, unless exempted from obtaining a grading permit pursuant to Appendix 33 of the California Building Code [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(a); see [iii], below (installations)].

[ii] Accessory Structures and Buildings

Examples of accessory buildings and structures include any awning, cabana, ramada, storage cabinet, storage building, private garage, carport, fence, windbreak, or porch, or any residential building or structure established for the use of the occupant of a mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18213]. A single permit may be issued for all mobilehome accessory buildings or structures to be erected at the same time on the same mobilehome lot [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.3(f)]. Standard plan approval is available for these buildings and structures [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1518(a); see [e][ii], below (standard plan approval)].

[iii] Mobilehome Installations and Foundation Systems

A person required to obtain a permit to install a mobilehome must submit an application for the permit to the enforcement agency on forms provided by the enforcement agency (this form) [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(a)]. A complete set of plans and specifications must also be submitted with the application [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(a)(4)]. Further, the application must be accompanied by three copies of a dimensioned plot plan of the lot on which the mobilehome will be installed. The park owner or his or her designated representative must sign at least one copy of the plot plan to certify that the dimensions of the lot are correct [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(a)(4)]. The applicant must provide a copy of the plot plan to the mobilehome owner, if the applicant is a contractor, and to the park owner or operator [Health & Safety Code § 18613.3].

When a foundation is to be installed for a mobilehome, a separate permit to construct the foundation system must be obtained from the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(b)]. An application and three complete copies of the plan and specifications must be submitted for the permit [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(b)(2)].

For a procedural guide to the requirements for installing a mobilehome, either on or not on a foundation system, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

[d] Documentation Required With Application

The following is a list of items that must be submitted with an application for a permit to construct a mobilehome park before a permit will be granted [see Health & Safety Code § 18501; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1030, 1032; Mobilehome Park Plan Review (HCD); Building Plan Review (HCD)]:

- A description of the grounds.

- Complete set of plans and specifications of the proposed construction, drawn to scale on substantial paper, that show the location of the project, the name and address of the owner, and the name and address of the person preparing plans, and that demonstrate that the proposed construction complies with MPA and implementing regulations [see [e], below].

- Evidence that project has been approved by the local planning agency [see Health & Safety Code § 18406; § 39.27 (special approval considerations for waterfront locations); Health & Safety Code § 18300.1; § 39.21 (conditional use permits for mobilehome parks); see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 265, Zoning Relief: Amendments, Variances, and Conditional Use Permits (Matthew Bender), and California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 60, Zoning , and Ch. 62, Planning (Matthew Bender)].

- Written evidence of compliance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 303, Requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (Matthew Bender), and California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Chs. 20- 23 (Matthew Bender)].

- For developments within permit area of coastal zone, permit from Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 300, Regulation in the Coastal Zone (Matthew Bender), and California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 66, Coastal Zone Regulation (Matthew Bender)].

- Written approval or stamp of approval on all the plans from the local health department for water supply and method of sewage disposal.

- Written approval or stamp of approval on all the plans for fire protection provided in the park from the local fire department.

- Written approval or stamp of approval on all plans for the park surface or subsurface drainage system from the local public works department, engineering department, flood control agency, or water quality board.

- Letter(s) from local sewer and water agencies and public utilities that planned services for park will be provided.

- If park fronts on coastline, shoreline, river, or waterway, or on any lake or reservoir owned in whole or in part by a public agency, confirmation that the local government with jurisdiction over the park has determined that reasonable public access by fee or easement from public highways exists to the body of water, either through the park or within a reasonable distance from the park [Health & Safety Code § 18406; see § 39.26].

- Payment of appropriate fees [see [f], below].

Three complete sets of plans and specifications must be submitted if required by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(a)]. Two copies of each of the approvals, conditions of approval, and permits described above must be submitted with the application [see Mobilehome Park Plan Review (HCD)].

[e] Plans and Specifications

[i] General Requirements

As discussed in § 39.200[1][d], plans and specifications for a mobilehome construction project must be submitted with an application for a construction permit. The plans and specifications submitted for proposed work must be of sufficient clarity to indicate the nature and extent of all proposed work, and must show in detail that the work will conform to the Mobilehome Parks Act and its implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(b)]. The enforcement agency may waive the requirement for plans when the proposed work is minor [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(e)].

Detailed specification requirements for mobilehome park construction are contained in the implementing regulations for the Mobilehome Parks Act. These cover, among other things, requirements for electrical, fuel and gas, and plumbing systems [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1130-1520]. Also, the most current version of a Plan Review List, prepared by HCD, should be obtained from HCD and reviewed before preparing plans for submission. This list contains all the detailed and technical requirements for various aspects of the plans and specifications, such as the park plot plan, sewage disposal systems, and water distribution systems.

If the plans and specifications do not comply with the applicable regulations, the enforcement agency will notify the applicant of the violations. The applicant must then correct these matters and resubmit the plans and specifications to the enforcement agency along with a plan resubmission fee [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7(e); see § 39.200[1][f][ii]].

Once the plans and specifications have been approved, any deviations from them must be approved by the designer, engineer, or architect, and the revised plans and specifications must be submitted to the enforcement agency for approval [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(d)].

[ii] Standard Plan Approval

Standard plan approval from HCD may be available when a contractor will construct or install more than one of the same type of certain buildings and structures [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.9]. Under this process, separate original plans need not be submitted each time the same type of building or structure covered under an approved standard plan is constructed or installed. This procedure is available for mobilehome accessory buildings or structures, foundation systems installed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18551 and 25 Cal. Code Reg. 1333(d), and engineered tiedown systems designed in accordance with 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1336.3 [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.9(a)].

[f] Required Fees

[i] Construction Permit Fees and Plan Checking Fees

Payment of required fees for a construction permit must be submitted at the same time as the application for the permit [Health & Safety Code §§ 18502(a), 18503]. Two basic types of fees are required.

The first is a construction permit fee that, for buildings or structures that do not have a standard plan approval from HCD [see § 39.200[1][e][iii]], is based on the estimated value of the building or other structure covered under the permit [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7(a)]. Construction or alteration permit fees for mobilehome accessory buildings, structures, and building components that have a standard plan approval from HCD are a fixed dollar amount [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.4]. The permit fee for electrical, plumbing, or gas piping permits is also a fixed dollar amount, which varies depending on whether the permit holder has a standard plan approval from HCD [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7].

The second type of fee required to be submitted with an application for a construction permit is a plan checking fee. Plan checking fees are equal to one half of the combined total of construction, plumbing, mechanical, and electrical permit fees, with a minimum fee of $10 [Health & Safety Code § 18502(b); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7(a)(2)]. Plan checking fees are not required for mobilehome accessory buildings or structures for which a standard plan approval has been obtained from HCD [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.4(d); see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.9 (standard plan approval)]. If an applicant simultaneously files applications to construct two or more buildings, or two or more mobilehome accessory buildings or structures, and the buildings or structures are identical and within the same mobilehome park, only one plan checking fee is required [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7(c)].

[ii] Fees on Resubmission of Plans and Specifications

If a permit applicant receives notification from the enforcement agency that plans and specifications do not comply with applicable regulations, the applicant must then correct and resubmit the plans and specifications to the enforcement agency along with a plan resubmission fee and a plan checking fee [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7(e); see § 39.200[1][f][i]]. The plan checking fee is a minimum dollar amount, plus an additional amount based on the time it takes to perform the check [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020.7(e)(1)].

[g] Use of Alternate Construction Materials or Methods

HCD must approve the use of any materials, appliances, installations, devices, arrangements, or methods of construction that are not specifically prescribed by the MPA or its implementing regulations, unless the alternate is permitted under local regulations authorized under the MPA [see Health & Safety Code § 18305(a); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1016]. HCD may approve an alternate if it finds that the proposed design is satisfactory and that the alternate is, for the purpose intended, the equivalent of that prescribed by law in quality, strength, effectiveness, fire resistance, durability, safety, and for the protection of life and health [Health & Safety Code § 18305(b)]. The developer, at his or her own expense, may be required to offer proof of the alternate's compliance [Health & Safety Code § 18305(c)].

[h] Posting and Use of Permit

Once a construction permit is issued, the developer must post it in a conspicuous place on the premises [Health & Safety Code § 18508]. An approved set of plans and specifications must also be kept on site until the enforcement agency has made its final inspection [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1034(j)].

[i] Inspections

Construction under a construction permit must be inspected by the enforcement agency during several stages of the construction and when the construction is completed. The developer must request the inspections at specified stages of construction [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1048].

[j] Expiration and Extension of Permit

A construction permit normally expires six months from the date of its issuance. Six-month extensions may be granted, if work approved under the original permit is commenced before the expiration date of the original permit. In all cases, all permits expire two years after the date on which the original permit was issued [Health & Safety Code § 18509; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a); see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks, § 369.131 (Matthew Bender) (form of petition for writ of mandate to require extension of construction permit)].

Once a permit has expired, all work must cease until another valid construction permit has been issued by the enforcement agency. Plans and specifications need not accompany any further applications if (1) construction is to be completed in accordance with the plans filed with the initial permit, (2) the approved plans are made available to the enforcement agency during construction, and (3) the plans were approved less than two years before the request for the extension [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b)]. Fees paid for a construction permit will be forfeited to the enforcement agency if the applicant does not start construction within six months of the date the permit is issued, or if work has commenced, on expiration of the permit [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(c)].

[k] Violations of Permit Requirement

The enforcement agency may institute any appropriate action or proceeding to prevent, restrain, correct, or abate a violation of the permit requirement [Health & Safety Code § 18404(a)]. For example, the agency may serve a written stop order on any person who orders or performs unauthorized work. The person must then stop the work until authorized by the enforcement agency to proceed [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1046], and must pay double the normal fees [Health & Safety Code § 18504; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1050; see [f], above].

[l] Change of Park Ownership During Construction

If there is a change in ownership or possession of the park before completion of construction, the new owner must complete construction in accordance with the approved plans and specifications. No additional fee will be required. However, if there is any substantial deviation from the approved plans and specifications as submitted by the original applicant, a new permit application must be submitted, accompanied by revised plans and specifications and the appropriate fees [Health & Safety Code § 18507(b)].

§ 39.201 Application for Permit to Operate Mobilehome Park

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is the Housing and Community Development (HCD) application form that must be submitted to obtain a permit to operate a mobilehome park. It is unlawful to operate a mobilehome park [see Health & Safety Code § 18214 ("mobilehome park" defined)], or any portion of it, or to operate, occupy, rent, lease, sublease, let out, or hire out for occupancy any lot in a mobilehome park that has been constructed, reconstructed, or altered, without first obtaining a permit to operate from the enforcement agency for the mobilehome park [Health & Safety Code § 18500; see § 39.13[4] (discussion of enforcement agencies)].

[b] Issuance of Permit

A permit to operate will be issued by HCD following notification from the local enforcement agency that the construction of a new park or of additional lots in an existing park has been completed. By approving the application for a permit to operate, the local enforcement agency authorizes occupancy of the newly-constructed facilities. On approval by the local enforcement agency, one copy of the permit application must be provided to the applicant and one copy must be forwarded to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18505].

Annual operating permits are issued by the enforcement agency for a 12-month period [Health & Safety Code § 18506]. A permit to operate may not be issued for a park when the previous operating permit has been suspended by the enforcement agency until the violations that were the basis for the suspension have been corrected [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

If the park was in existence on September 15, 1961, a permit to operate may not be denied if the park complied with the law that was superseded by the MPA [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

[c] Required Fees

[i] Annual Operating Permit Fee

An operating permit fee must be paid annually [Health & Safety Code § 18502(c)]. If a renewal application is submitted after the due date, a penalty fee will be assessed [see Health & Safety Code § 18506]. The operating permit will not be issued until the annual fee and any penalties have been paid [see Health & Safety Code § 18506].

[ii] Separate Inspection Fee

When a permit holder pays the annual operating permit fee [see § 39.201[1][c][i]], he or she must also pay to HCD or the local enforcement agency, as appropriate, a separate annual fee that is based on the number of lots in the park. This separate fee must be used exclusively for the inspection of mobilehome parks and mobilehomes as required under the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18502(c)(2) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute); see § 39.201[1][d] (required inspections)]. Following payment of the fee to HCD or the local enforcement agency, the permit holder may then charge each homeowner one half of the per lot additional annual fee at the next billing for the rent and other charges [Health & Safety Code § 18502(c)(3) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. Statutory authority for the separate, additional annual fee is repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless a statute enacted before that time deletes or extends the repeal date [see Health & Safety Code § 18502(f)].

[d] Notice of Violations

The enforcement agency must enter and inspect all mobilehome parks at least once every seven years, to ensure compliance with the Mobilehome Parks Act and its implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18400.1(a), (g) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. If the enforcement agency determines, as a result of an inspection, that a mobilehome park is in violation of the Act or rules or regulations adopted pursuant to the Act, the enforcement agency must issue a notice to correct the violation to the owner or operator of the park and to the person who is responsible for the operation and maintenance of the park [Health & Safety Code § 18420(a) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute); see Health & Safety Code § 18420(c) (notice and service requirements; repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute); see also Health & Safety Code § 18603 (person in park responsible for operation and maintenance)]. The owner or operator of the park is responsible for the correction of the violation covered by the citation [Health & Safety Code § 18420(a)(3) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. For further discussion, see §§ 39.13[4] and 39.44.

[e] Suspension of Permit

If the holder of a permit to operate violates any provision of the permit or of the Mobilehome Parks Act, the enforcement agency may suspend the permit [Health & Safety Code § 18510]. When a previous operating permit for a mobilehome park has been suspended by the enforcement agency, a permit to operate will not be issued until the violations that were the basis for suspension have been corrected [Health & Safety Code § 18506].

[f] Change of Name or Ownership of Park

[i] Amended Operating Permit

If there is a change in the name, ownership, or possession of an existing mobilehome park, the park operator or owner (new owner in the case of a transfer of ownership or possession) must notify the enforcement agency of the change. The notice must be in writing and must be furnished within 30 days from the time of the change in name or transfer. After the agency receives the notice and required fee, it will record the change and issue an amended permit to operate [

Health & Safety Code § 18507; see Health & Safety Code § 18502(d) (required fee)].

[ii] Reevaluation for Property Tax Purposes

Following any change in ownership of taxable real property or of a mobilehome subject to local property taxation, the transferee must report the transfer to the county assessor of the county in which the property is located [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480, 480.3] so that the taxable value of the property may be increased to fair market value [Cal. Const., art. XIIIA, § 2; see Cal. Const., art. XIII; see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 50-100.9]. A "change in ownership" is a transfer of a present interest in real property, including the beneficial use of the property, the value of which is substantially equal to the value of the fee interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 60; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 61-68; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.001(b)].

There are several exceptions to the basic change in ownership reporting requirement [see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements]. One of them provides that a transfer of a mobilehome park will not constitute a change in ownership for property taxation purposes if it satisfies the following requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)]:

- The transfer occurs on or after January 1, 1985 [but see Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(c) (bona fide transfers before that date are also eligible)].

- The transfer is made to a nonprofit corporation, stock cooperative corporation, limited equity stock cooperative, or other entity formed by the tenants of the park for the purpose of purchasing the park.

- In the case of a transfer occurring on or after January 1, 1989, the individual tenants who were renting at least 51 percent of the spaces in the park before the transfer participate in the transaction through the ownership of an aggregate of at least 51 percent of the voting stock of, or other ownership or membership interests in, the acquiring entity. For park acquisitions on or after January 1, 1998, an additional year after transfer is permitted to attain the required tenant participation level [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)(1)].

If an acquiring entity relies on the above exemption but does not convert the park to condominium ownership, stock cooperative ownership, or limited equity cooperative ownership, then any transfer on or after January 1, 1989, of shares of the voting stock of, or other ownership or membership interests in, the acquiring entity will be a change in ownership of a pro rata portion of the real property of the park unless the transfer is for the purpose of converting the park to one of the above forms of ownership or is otherwise excluded from the change in ownership reporting requirement [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 62.1(b)(2), (3), 2188.10].

A second exception from the change in ownership laws applies to a transfer of rental spaces in a mobilehome park to the individual tenants of the rental spaces, provided the following conditions are satisfied [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)(2)]:

- The transfer occurs on or after January 1, 1985.

- At least 51 percent of the rental spaces are purchased by individual tenants who rented their spaces before the purchase.

- The individual tenants of these spaces form, within one year after the first purchase of a rental space by a tenant, a resident organization to operate and maintain the park. For this purpose, "resident organization" means a group of mobilehome park residents who have formed a nonprofit corporation, cooperative corporation, or other entity or organization for the purpose of acquiring the mobilehome park in which they reside and converting the park to resident ownership [Health & Safety Code § 50781(l)].

If, on or after January 1, 1985, an individual tenant or tenants notify the county assessor of the intention to comply with the exemption described above [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)(2)], any mobilehome park rental space that is purchased by an individual tenant in that park during that period will not be reappraised by the assessor. However, if all of those conditions are not satisfied, the county assessor will thereafter levy escape assessments for the transferred spaces. This escape assessment requirement applies only to rental mobilehome parks that have been in operation for at least five years [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)(2)].

When the Legislature amended the method for determining changes in ownership of resident-owned mobilehome parks in 1988, it failed to specify a notice process for those changes in ownership. The situation therefore arose in which the failure to timely assess changes in ownership in resident-owned mobilehome parks resulted in the issuance of escape and supplemental assessments in an unfair and inequitable manner. Accordingly, the Legislature amended Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1 to avoid the unfair and unreasonable burden on the park residents of escape and supplemental assessments, and to permit the changes in ownership to be applied prospectively only, commencing with the lien date in 2002 [see 2001 Stats., ch. 772, § 1]. Thus, after an exclusion under Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a), the assessor may not levy any escape or supplemental assessment with regard to any change in ownership of a pro rata portion of the real property of the mobilehome park that occurred between January 1, 1989, and January 1, 2002, and for which the assessor did not, before January 1, 2000, levy any assessments. Commencing with the January 1, 2002, lien date, the assessor must correct the base year value of the pro rata portion of the real property of the park to properly reflect the changes in ownership [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(4)(A)]. An assessor who corrects the base year value of the real property of a park must notify the park that residents may be eligible for property tax assistance programs offered by either the controller or the Franchise Tax Board for senior citizens, or blind or disabled persons [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(4)(B)].

Any outstanding taxes that were levied between January 1, 2000, and January 1, 2002, as a result of a pro rata change in ownership as described in Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a) must be canceled. However, no such taxes that were paid before January 1, 2002, will be refunded [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(4)(C)].

A third, related exception from the change in ownership requirements applies to a transfer on or after January 1, 1989, of a mobilehome park to a nonprofit corporation, stock cooperative corporation, tenant-in-common ownership group, or other entity (including a governmental entity) if, among other things, either of the following occurs within 18 months after the transfer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.2(a)]:

- The park is transferred by that corporation or other entity to a nonprofit corporation, stock cooperative corporation, or other entity formed by the tenants of the park in a transaction that qualifies for the exception first discussed above [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(a)]; or

- At least 51 percent of the rental spaces in the park are transferred to the individual tenants of those spaces in a transaction that falls within the scope of the second exception discussed above [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)].

For purposes of the third exception described above, the second qualifying transfer may be made within 36 months, rather than 18 months, of the first qualifying transfer if the first transfer was made on or after January 1, 1993. For transfers on or after January 1, 1995, the 36-month limit requirement for a subsequent transfer to an individual tenant can be met by executing a purchase contract and opening an escrow with a licensed escrow agent, provided that the escrow is opened before the expiration of the 36-month time period and that escrow closes no later than six months after the end of the 36-month time period [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.2(a)(2)]. Also, the limit is 76 months (between the first and second qualifying transfer) for a mobilehome park located within a disaster area that was initially transferred to a qualified entity on or after October 1, 1991, and before October 31, 1991 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.2(a)(2)].

[iii] Notice Requirements

A mobilehome park that does not use recorded deeds to transfer ownership interest in the spaces or lots must file a report with the county assessor's office by February 1 of each year. The report must contain all of the following information [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(5)]:

- The full name and mailing address of each owner, stockholder, or holder of an ownership interest in the mobilehome park;
- The address, including space number, of each unit;
- The date that the ownership interest was acquired; and
- If the unit is a manufactured home, the Department of Housing and Community Development decal number or serial number, or both, and whether the manufactured home is subject to the vehicle license fee or the local property tax.

A park that fails to comply with this reporting requirement is subject to a penalty in accordance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 482 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(7)].

Within 30 days of a change in ownership, the new resident owner or other purchaser or transferee of a mobilehome within a mobilehome park that does not use recorded deeds to transfer ownership interest in the spaces or lots must file a change in ownership statement described in either Rev. & Tax. Code § 480 or 480.2 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1(b)(6)].

For further discussion of the change in ownership laws, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

§ 39.210 Notice of Formation of Resident Organization to Purchase and Convert Park, and Request for Notice of Any Intended Sale by Owner

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is a notice that may be given by residents in a rental park to notify the owner of the park that an organization of residents has been formed for the purpose of purchasing the park and converting it to resident ownership [see Civ. Code § 798.80(b)(2)]. If all requirements for giving the notice are satisfied [see [b], [c], below], the park owner must give the organization prior notice if the owner subsequently lists the park for sale or offers to sell it to a third party, unless the sale or other transfer by the owner is exempt from the prior notice requirement [Civ. Code § 798.80; see § 39.211 (form of notice by park owner and discussion of exempt sales and transfers)].

[b] Requirements for Entitlement to Notice of Intended Sale

To be entitled to prior notice of a park owner's intention to sell the park (provided the sale or transfer is not exempt from this notice requirement) [see § 39.211], a resident organization formed by homeowners in the mobilehome park must satisfy certain requirements. Specifically, the organization must be formed as a nonprofit corporation in accordance with Revenue and Taxation Code Section 23701v, stock cooperative corporation, or other entity for purposes of (1) converting the mobilehome park to condominium or stock cooperative ownership interests, and (2) purchasing the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.80(a)]. Also, before the time the park owner lists the park for sale or offers it for sale to a third party, the resident organization must furnish the park owner or park management with a notice (this form) that contains the following [Civ. Code § 798.80(b)(1), (b)(2)]:

(1) The name and address of the president, secretary, and treasurer of the resident organization to whom the notice of sale is to be given; and

(2) A statement that the residents are interested in purchasing the park.

[c] Subsequent Notices and Requirements

After the initial notice is given by the resident organization to the park owner or park management [see [b], above], the organization must perform additional acts to maintain its right to receive a notice of sale from the park owner. First, once each year following the year initial notice is given, the organization must give the owner a subsequent notice that indicates that the organization is still interested in purchasing the park [Civ. Code § 798.80(b)(2)]. Second, the organization must give the park owner or park management written notice, within five days, of any change in the name or address of the officers of the resident organization to whom the notice of sale is to be given [Civ. Code § 798.80(b)(3)].

[d] Effect of Park Owner's Failure to Comply

Although nothing in Civil Code Section 798.80 will affect the validity of title to real property transferred in violation of that statute, the violation will subject the seller to a civil action [see Civ. Code §§ 798.84-798.88] by homeowner residents of the park or the resident organization [Civ. Code § 798.80(c)]. Further, nothing in Section 798.80 affects the right of a real estate broker to collect a commission under an executed contract between the broker and the mobilehome park owner [Civ. Code § 798.80(d)].

§ 39.211 Notice to Resident Organization That Park Owner Intends to Sell Mobilehome Park

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is a notice by the owner of a mobilehome park that may be used to notify park residents that the owner intends either to list the park for sale with a licensed real estate broker or to otherwise offer it for sale to any party. Except for exempt sales or transfers [see [b], below], a park owner must give this notice to any resident organization in the park that has been formed for the purposes of purchasing the park and converting it to condominium or stock cooperative ownership interests, provided the organization has previously furnished the park owner or park management with notice that it is interested in purchasing the park and satisfied certain other statutory notice requirements [Civ. Code § 798.80; see § 39.210 (notice and other requirements for resident organization)].

The park owner must give this notice to the resident organization at least 30 days but not more than one year before the date the owner (1) enters into a written listing agreement with a licensed real estate broker to sell the park, or (2) otherwise offers to sell the park to any party. The notice must be either personally delivered or mailed by first-class mail to the president, secretary, and treasurer of the resident organization [Civ. Code § 798.80(a)]. A park owner who fails to give this notice when required to do so is subject to civil action by homeowner residents of the park or the resident organization [Civ. Code § 798.80(c); see § 39.210[1][d]].

[b] Sales or Transfers Exempt From Notice Requirement

This notice requirement does not apply to any of the following [Civ. Code § 798.80(e)]:

(1) Any sale or other transfer by a park owner who is a natural person to any relation specified in Probate Code Section 6401 or 6402.

(2) Any transfer by gift, devise, or operation of law.

(3) Any transfer by a corporation to an affiliate [see Civ. Code § 798.80(e)(3) ("affiliate" defined)].

(4) Any transfer by a partnership to any of its partners.

(5) Any conveyance resulting from the judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust encumbering a mobilehome park or any deed given in lieu of such a foreclosure.

(6) Any sale or transfer between or among joint tenants or tenants in common owning a mobilehome park.

(7) Any purchase of a mobilehome park by a governmental entity under its powers of eminent domain.

§ 39.212 Conversion Petition and Disclosure Statement [Gov. Code § 66428.1]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory petition and disclosure statement that must be used when the tenants in a mobilehome rental park (1) are attempting to purchase the park and to convert it to resident ownership and (2) wish to qualify for an exemption from the tentative and parcel map requirements of the Subdivision Map Act [see Gov. Code § 66428.1; see also [b], below]. Parks that are resident-owned are commonly refered to as mobilehome subdivisions [§ 39.29; see § 39.10 (rental and resident-owned parks distinguished)]. For a brief summary of the regulatory requirements applicable to a mobilehome subdivision, see § 39.29. For comprehensive coverage of the requirements of the Subdivision Map Act, see Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives , Ch. 33D, Planned Developments , Ch. 34, Condominiums , and Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

For purposes of this petition and disclosure statement, "resident ownership" means, depending on the context, either or both of the following [Gov. Code § 66428.1(g); see Health & Safety Code § 50781(m)]:

- The ownership of individual interests in a mobilehome park.

- The ownership by a resident organization [see definition, below] of an interest in a mobilehome park that entitles the resident organization to control the operations of the mobilehome park for a term of no less than 15 years. "Resident organization" means a group of mobilehome park residents who have formed a nonprofit corporation, cooperative corporation, or other entity or organization for the purpose of acquiring the mobilehome park in which they reside and converting the park to resident ownership [Health & Safety Code § 50781(l)].

[b] Waiver of Map Requirements Under Subdivision Map Act

The Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] and local ordinances enacted by every city and county in California pursuant to authority granted by the Act require the approval of a parcel map, or a tentative map and final map, prior to the (1) sale, lease, or financing of subdivided property, or (2) the commencement of construction, for sale, lease, or financing, of any building (except model units) in a subdivision [Gov. Code § 66499.30(a), (b); see Gov. Code §§ 66426, 66428]. However, if at least two thirds of the owners of mobilehomes who are tenants in a mobilehome rental park have signed a petition (this form) [see Gov. Code § 66428.1(b) (required form for petition)] indicating their intent to purchase the park for purposes of converting it to resident ownership, and a field survey is performed, an application (on a form provided by the appropriate local agency) may be submitted to the local agency for a waiver of the parcel map or tentative and final map requirements of the Subdivision Map Act. The map requirements must be waived unless any of the following conditions exist [Gov. Code § 66428.1(a); see Gov. Code § 66428.1(c); see also [c], below]:

- There are design or improvement requirements necessitated by significant health or safety concerns.

- The local agency determines that there is an exterior boundary discrepancy that requires recordation of a new parcel or tentative and final map.

- The parcels in existence before the proposed conversion were not created by a recorded parcel or final map.

- The conversion would result in the creation of more condominium units or interests than the number of tenant lots or spaces in existence before the conversion.

After the waiver application is deemed complete, the local agency must approve or deny the application within 50 days. The applicant has the right to appeal a denial of the application to the governing body of the local agency [Gov. Code § 66428.1(c); see Gov. Code § 65943 (standards used to determine completeness of application); see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

[c] Procedure If Waiver Is Denied

If the waiver application is denied, the applicant may proceed to convert the mobilehome park to a "tenant-owned, condominium ownership interest" (that is, a tenant-owned condominium project), but must file a parcel map or a tentative and final map. The local agency may not require the applicant to file and record a tentative and final map unless the conversion creates five or more parcels shown on the map. The number of condominium units or interests created by the conversion must not determine whether the filing of a parcel or a tentative and final map will be required [Gov. Code § 66428.1(f)].

If a tentative map or parcel map is required, the local agency may not impose any offsite design or improvement requirements unless the requirements are necessary to mitigate an existing health or safety condition. No other dedications, improvements, or in-lieu fees can be required. In no case can the mitigation have the effect of reducing the number, or changing the location, of existing mobilehome spaces [Gov. Code § 66428.1(d)].

If the local agency imposes requirements to mitigate a health or safety condition, the applicant and the local agency must enter into an unsecured improvement agreement. The local agency may not require bonds or other security devices for the performance of that agreement. The applicant has a period of one year from the date the agreement was executed to complete the improvements [Gov. Code § 66428.1(e)].

[d] State Financial Assistance for Conversion

The Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) is authorized to make loans from the Mobilehome

Park Purchase Fund to assist in the conversion of rental parks to resident-owned parks [Health & Safety Code §§ 50780-50786.5; see § 39.29[6] (authorized types of loans)]. Certain requirements must be satisfied before financing will be provided [see Health & Safety Code § 50786(d)]. For example, HCD must receive verification that at least two-thirds of the households residing in the mobilehome park support the plans for acquisition and conversion of the park [Health & Safety Code § 50786(d)(1)]. HCD must also have verification that either no park residents will be involuntarily displaced as a result of the park conversion or that the impact of the displacement will be mitigated as required under state and local law. For purposes of this requirement, compliance with Gov. Code § 66427.5 (required methods for avoiding economic displacement of nonpurchasing residents) is conclusively presumed to have mitigated economic displacement [Health & Safety Code § 50786(d)(2)].

[e] Impact Report Required When Filing of Tentative or Parcel Map Is Required

If the filing of a tentative or parcel map is required for a subdivision to be created from the conversion of a rental mobilehome park to resident ownership, the subdivider must take prescribed steps to avoid the economic displacement of all nonpurchasing residents [see Gov. Code § 66427.5]. These steps include, among others, offering existing tenants the option to purchase their units or to continue residency as tenants and filing a report on the impact of the conversion on residents of the mobilehome park to be converted [Gov. Code § 66427.5(a), (b)].

§ 39.220 Mobilehome Park Lease Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease for space in a mobilehome park. It satisfies the requirements for a "rental agreement" imposed by the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.]. For purposes of the MRL, a lease is considered a rental agreement, and "rental agreement" means an agreement between the management and the homeowner establishing the terms and conditions of a park tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.8; see [c], below, for definitions of other terms contained in this definition].

The lease in [2], below, also contains the provisions that must be included in a rental agreement if it is to be exempt from local rent control ordinances [see Civ. Code § 798.17]. These required provisions, as well as the manner in which an "exempt" rental agreement must be offered to a prospective tenant, are discussed in [f], below.

The MRL contains several provisions that govern the specific content of a rental agreement and the landlord/tenant relationship between park management and tenants. These provisions are discussed below. To the extent a particular subject matter is regulated under the MRL, the MRL supersedes provisions of ordinary landlord-tenant law that cover the same subject matter. However, for matters not covered by the MRL, the principles of ordinary landlord-tenant law presumably apply [see Civ. Code §§ 798.15, 798.16]. For coverage of leases of residential property in general, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases .

[b] Mobilehomes Subject to MRL

For purposes of the MRL, a "mobilehome" is a structure designed for human habitation and for being moved on a street or highway under permit pursuant to Veh. Code § 35790 [Civ. Code § 798.3]. Under Veh. Code § 35790, a mobilehome that exceeds a prescribed size or weight may not be moved on any street or highway without a permit from the Department of Transportation or the city or county having jurisidiction over the street or highway [see Veh. Code § 35790(a)]. Specifically, a permit is required for moving a mobilehome wider than eight and a half feet, longer than 40 feet, taller than 14 feet [see Veh. Code §§ 35100, 35250, 35400], or heavier than the maximum allowable weight [see Veh. Code §§ 35550, 35551].

The term "mobilehome" includes a manufactured home (as defined under Health & Safety Code § 18007) and a mobilehome (as defined under Health & Safety Code § 18008) [Civ. Code § 798.3]. The term does not include commercial modulars [see Health & Safety Code § 18001.8 (definition of "commercial modular")] or certain recreational vehicles [Civ. Code § 798.3(a); but see Civ. Code § 798.3(b) (term includes certain recreational vehicles that are used for human habitation and that satisfy specified occupancy criteria)].

[c] Definitions of Other Terms

The MRL distinguishes between "homeowners" and "residents." The distinction is important since different rights are accorded each under the MRL. A "homeowner" is a person who has a tenancy in a mobilehome park under a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.9]. A "resident" is a homeowner or other person who lawfully occupies a mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.11].

Additional definitions under the MRL clarify the difference between a homeowner and a resident. For example, a "tenancy" is the right of a homeowner to the use of a site within a mobilehome park on which to locate, maintain, and occupy a mobilehome, site improvements, and accessory structures for human habitation, including the use of the services and facilities of the park [Civ. Code § 798.12]. A "rental agreement" is an agreement (including a lease) between the management [see Civ. Code § 798.2 (definition of "management")] and the homeowner establishing the terms and conditions of a park tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.8].

From the above definitions, it is clear that the principal difference between a homeowner and a resident is that a homeowner has a contractual relationship with park management through a rental agreement or lease. A resident of a mobilehome may or may not have this contractual relationship. For example, a person who subleases a mobilehome directly from a homeowner is a resident but is not a homeowner for purposes of the MRL.

[d] Required Contents of Rental Agreement

Management of a mobilehome park must offer each homeowner a written rental agreement (this form) [Civ. Code §§ 798.15, 798.18(a)]. The agreement must contain certain information required by statute and discussed below [see Civ. Code § 798.15]. Further, it may contain any other provisions permitted by law that will govern the tenancy [Civ. Code §§ 798.15(h), 798.16(a)]. For a rental agreement that is to be exempt from local rent control measures, additional provisions must be included [Civ. Code § 798.17; see [f], below].

The lease must contain the term of the tenancy and the amount of the rent [Civ. Code § 798.15(a); see § 39.220[2], PP 1, 3]. A homeowner must be given a lease for a term of 12 months, a lesser period if requested by the homeowner, or any longer period mutually agreed on by the homeowner and management [Civ. Code § 798.18(a)]. If the lease is to be exempt from local rent control it must be for a term longer than 12 months [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(1); see [f], below]. The lease may not contain any terms or conditions with respect to charges for rent, utilities, or incidental reasonable service charges that would be different during the first 12 months of the agreement from the corresponding terms or conditions that would be offered to the homeowner or homeowners on a month-to-month basis [Civ. Code § 798.18(b)]. A lease for a term of 12 months or less must not include a provision that authorizes automatic extension or renewal of, or automatically extends or renews, the lease beyond the initial term for a term longer than 12 months at the sole option of either management or the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.18(c); see § 39.220[2], P 20 (providing for negotiation of extension)].

The rental agreement must include the rules and regulations of the park [Civ. Code § 798.15(b); see § 39.221 (illustrative set of rules and regulations)]. These are commonly attached as an exhibit to the lease or rental agreement, as contemplated by this form [see § 39.220[2], P 10], rather than included in the body of the agreement. In addition, a copy of the text of the MRL must be attached as an exhibit and incorporated by reference into the rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.15(c); see § 39.220[2], P 11]. Management must return an executed copy of the rental agreement to the homeowner within 15 business days after receipt of the rental agreement signed by the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.16(b)]. Management must also provide all homeowners with a copy of the MRL before February 1 of each year, if a significant legislative change in its provisions was enacted in the prior year [Civ. Code § 798.15(c)].

A rental agreement must also contain provisions that do the following:

- State that it is the responsibility of management to provide and maintain physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(1)] and that with regard to a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration of these improvements, management has a reasonable period of time to repair the sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration and bring the improvements into good working order and condition after management knows or should have known of the breakdown or deterioration [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(2); see § 39.220[2], P 12]. For purposes of the above, a reasonable period of time to repair a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration means as soon as possible in situations affecting a health or safety condition, and does not exceed 30 days in any other case except when exigent circumstances justify a delay [Civ. Code § 798.15(d)(2)].

- Describe the physical improvements that will be provided the homeowner during the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.15(e); see § 39.220[2], P 12].

- List the services that will be provided at the time the lease is executed and that will continue to be offered for the tenancy period, and the fees, if any, to be charged for those services [Civ. Code § 798.15(f); see, e.g., § 39.220[2], P 5; see also § 39.221[2], P 9].

- State that management may charge a reasonable fee for services relating to the maintenance of the land and premises on which the mobilehome is situated if (1) the homeowner fails to maintain the land or premises in accordance with the park rules and regulations, (2) the homeowner is given a notice stating the specific condition to be corrected and an estimate of the charges to be imposed by management if management (or its agent) performs the services, and (3) the homeowner fails to comply with the notice within 14 days [Civ. Code § 798.15(g); see § 39.220[2], P 9].

[e] Waiver of Rights Under MRL Prohibited

A rental or sale agreement may not contain any provision by which the purchaser waives his or her rights under the MRL. Any such waiver is contrary to public policy and is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.77].

[f] Special Requirements for Rental Agreement That Is to Be Exempt From Local Rent Control

[i] Basis of Exemption

Special rules apply to any rental agreement with a term in excess of 12 months entered into between management and a homeowner, if the agreement and the manner in which it is offered to the homeowner satisfy certain criteria. Such a rental agreement (hereafter referred to as an "exempt agreement") is exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any local governmental entity that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a homeowner for rent (referred to in this discussion as a "local rent control measure") [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(1), (b)(1), (2)]. Further, with regard to any space in the park that is subject to an exempt agreement, and nothwithstanding any local rent control measure, a mobilehome park may not be assessed any fee or other exaction for a park space that is exempt under Civ. Code § 798.17(a) imposed pursuant to any rent control measure. Moreover, no other fee or other exaction may be imposed for a park space that is exempt underCiv. Code § 798.17(a) for the purpose of defraying administrative costs of an exemption [Civ. Code § 798.17(e)].

The statutory provisions set forth in Civ. Code § 798.17 occupy the field with regard to rules for the execution of the rent control-exempt leases, that is, leases for a period of more than 12 months. Provisions of a local ordinance that contradict, duplicate, or otherwise modify these state legislative provisions are invalid [Mobilepark West Homeowners Assn. v. Escondido Mobilepark West (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 32, 46-47, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 393 (provisions governing renewal of rent-control exempt leases)].

[ii] Requirements for Agreement

An exempt agreement must, as a general rule, meet the following criteria:

- The first sentence of the first paragraph of the agreement must notify the homeowner that the agreement will be exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any local governmental entity that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(2); see § 39.220[2], first unnumbered paragraph]. This notice must be in capital letters if the agreement is typed, or in at least 12-point boldface type if the agreement is printed [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(2)].

- The agreement must not include a provision that authorizes automatic extension or renewal of, or automatically extends or renews, the rental agreement for a period beyond the initial stated term at the sole option of either management or the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.17(g); see § 39.220[2], P 20 (providing for negotiation of extension)].

- The agreement must be entered into between management and a homeowner who will use the mobilehome as his or her personal and actual residence [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(2); see § 39.220[2], P 6].

- The homeowner must have at least 30 days from the date the rental agreement is first offered to the homeowner to accept or reject the agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(3); see [iii], below; see also § 39.231].

- A homeowner who executes such a rental agreement must be given the right to rescind the agreement by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of the homeowner's execution of the rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(4); see § 39.231]. Although the statute refers to this as a right to "void" the agreement, the term "rescind" more accurately describes the right of a homeowner to terminate the rental agreement [see Civ. Code § 1688 (contract is extinguished by its rescission); Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571 ("rescission" means restoration of parties to their former position); see also Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations].

[iii] Rejection or Rescission of Offered Agreement and Acceptance of Nonexempt Agreement

If the homeowner rejects the offered rental agreement or rescinds a signed rental agreement [see [ii], above] the homeowner will be entitled to instead accept a rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less from the date the offered rental agreement was to have begun (including a month-to-month tenancy). If the homeowner selects this alternative, the agreement must contain the same rental charges, terms, and conditions as the offered rental agreement during the first 12 months, with the following exception: the alternative agreement need not include any options to extend or renew that were contained in the offered agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(c); see Civ. Code § 798.18(c) (limitations on provisions governing extensions or renewals of agreements with term of 12 months or less); see also [d], above].

[iv] Related Written Disclosure

At the time the rental agreement is first offered to the homeowner, management must provide written notice to the homeowner of the homeowner's right (1) to have at least 30 days to inspect the agreement [see [ii], above], and (2) to rescind the agreement by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of the homeowner's acceptance of the agreement [see [ii], above]. The homeowner must acknowledge in writing his or her receipt of this notice. The failure of management to provide this notice will make the rental agreement voidable at the homeowner's option on the homeowner's discovery of the failure [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)].

This form contains these disclosures [see § 39.220[2], second and third (unnumbered) PP]. However, even if the disclosures are contained in an offered lease or rental agreement, they should also be made by separate notice to the prospective homeowner. For a separate notice of disclosure, see § 39.231. That form includes an acknowledgment of receipt that may be executed by the homeowner/recipient.

[v] Prevailing Rent at Expiration of Lease Term

If the rental agreement is not extended and no new rental agreement in excess of 12 months' duration is entered into, then the last rental rate charged for the space under the previous rental agreement will be the base rent for purposes of any applicable provisions of law concerning rent regulation [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(1)].

[vi] Gifts of Value

Nothing in the MRL prohibits management from offering gifts of value, other than rental rate reductions, to homeowners who execute exempt agreements [Civ. Code § 798.17(d)].

[vii] Separate Exemption for New Construction

Notwithstanding Civ. Code § 798.17, new construction in a mobilehome park is exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any city, county, or city and county, that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent [Civ. Code § 798.45]. For these purposes, "new construction" means any newly-constructed spaces initially held out for rent after January 1, 1990 [Civ. Code § 798.7].

[viii] Separate Exemption for Non-Principal Residence

Notwithstanding Civ. Code § 798.17, if a mobilehome space within a mobilehome park is not the principal residence of the homeowner and the homeowner has not rented the mobilehome to another party, it is exempt from any local rent control measure [Civ. Code § 798.21(a)]. The exemption does not apply under certain circumstances, including those when the mobilehome is being actively held available for sale by the homeowner or pursuant to a listing agreement with a real estate broker or a mobilehome dealer [see Civ. Code § 798.21(f)].

[g] Rent

[i] Increases

For illustrative purposes only, this form has a term of five years [see § 39.220[2], P 1], with the rent set at a yearly fixed amount that increases each year over the term of the lease [see § 39.220[2], P 3]. A tenant may prefer this type of rent arrangement since he or she knows at the beginning of the lease term the precise amount of rent that he or she must pay over the entire term of the lease. Management, on the other hand, may be reluctant to agree to an escalating rent that increases by fixed dollar amounts. This is especially true for lengthy leases since management's increase in operating expenses over the term of the lease may exceed those projected by management at the beginning of a lease term and reflected in fixed amount annual increases. Management may prefer rent increases that are tied to a consumer price or cost-of-living index or to actual increases in the property's operating expenses. For coverage of these types of rent increases, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

As discussed in [f], above, this lease, when used in conjunction with the notice in § 39.231, meets the requirements for a lease or rental agreement that is exempt from local rent control ordinances. If the lease did not qualify for this exemption, it would not be possible to use an escalating rent in fixed dollar amounts. Rather, increases would have to be tied to the formula for rent increases provided for in the rent control ordinance.

The MRL requires park management to give a homeowner written notice of any increase in his or her rent at least 90 days before the date of the increase [Civ. Code § 798.30]. It is not clear whether this requirement applies only to month-to-month rental agreements or also to a lease with an escalating rent clause (such as this one). A cautious attorney would give the notice in the latter case, even though the amount of the increase is spelled out in the lease. For a form of notice for increasing rent due under a rental agreement, see § 39.232.

[ii] Prohibition Against Retaliatory Increases

Management may not charge or impose on a homeowner any fee or rent increase that reflects the cost to management of any fine, forfeiture, penalty, money damages, or fee assessed or awarded by a court against management for a violation of the MRL, including any related attorneys' fees and costs incurred by management [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(a)]. A homeowner has the burden of proving that any fee or rent increase violates this prohibition. In determining whether the homeowner has met this burden, a court must consider the remoteness in time of the assessment or award against management of the fine, forfeiture, penalty, money damages, or fee [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(b)]. Any provision in a rental agreement entered into, renewed, or modified on or after January 1, 1995, that permits a fee or increase in rent that reflects the cost to the management of any money damages awarded against the management for a violation of the MRL is void [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(c)].

[h] Security Deposit

Management may demand that a homeowner pay a security deposit [see § 39.220[2], P 4], in addition to any rent for the first month, provided that (1) the demand is made on or before initial occupancy and (2) the amount or value of the deposit does not exceed the equivalent of two months' rent [Civ. Code § 798.39(a)]. Management need not place the deposit in an interest-bearing account or provide the homeowner with any interest on the deposit [Civ. Code § 798.39(e)].

With regard to security deposits collected on or after January 1, 1989, management must refund the deposit on written request by the homeowner following the earlier of (1) the resale of the mobilehome or (2) the prompt payment by the homeowner, for any 12 consecutive months after the payment of the deposit and within five days of applicable due dates, of all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges. The refund must be made within 30 days following the date of the resale or the end of the foregoing 12-month period [Civ. Code § 798.39(b)]. Security deposits collected before January 1, 1989, must be refunded to the homeowner (1) on the extension or renewal of the rental agreement or lease between the homeowner and the management, and (2) on receipt of a written request from the homeowner. To be eligible for the refund, the homeowner must have paid, within five days of the due date, all of the rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for the 12-consecutive-month period preceding the receipt of the written request. The management must refund the security deposit within 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.39(c)]. With regard to any security deposits collected before January 1, 1989, and not otherwise disbursed, in the event the mobilehome park is sold or transferred to any other party or entity, the selling park owner must deposit in escrow an amount equal to all security deposits held by the park owner. The seller's escrow instructions must direct that on the close of escrow the security deposits deposited in escrow that were held by the selling park owner (including the escrow period) for 12 months or more must be disbursed to the persons who paid the deposits and who promptly paid (within five days of their due date) all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for the 12-month period preceding the close of escrow [Civ. Code § 798.39(d)].

[i] Restrictions on Other Charges to Homeowners

[i] Services Rendered

Management may not charge a homeowner any fees except for rent, utilities, and incidental reasonable charges for services actually rendered [Civ. Code § 798.31]. All services to be provided to the homeowner by management, and corresponding charges, should be clearly described in the rental agreement. Management may not charge a fee for services that are actually rendered but that are not listed in a homeowner's rental agreement unless management gives the homeowner 60 days' advance written notice of the charge [Civ. Code § 798.32(a)]. Any fees that are the subject of such a 60-day notice must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If the fee has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice and on each subsequent billing to the homeowner while the fee is being billed [Civ. Code § 798.32(b)].

[ii] Fee for Lease

Charging a homeowner a fee for obtaining a lease on a mobilehome lot is prohibited unless the lease is for more than one year and the fee is mutually agreed on by the homeowner and management [Civ. Code § 798.31].

[iii] Pets

Charges may not be made for pets unless special facilities or services for pets are actually provided. If special pet facilities are maintained, the fee charged must be reasonably related to the cost and maintenance of the facilities or services and the number of pets kept in the park [Civ. Code § 798.33].

[iv] Guests and Family Members

A homeowner may not be charged a fee for a guest who does not stay with him or her for more than a total of 20 consecutive days or a total of 30 days in a calendar year. A guest whose stay does not exceed these totals may not be required to register with management [Civ. Code § 798.34(a)]. Further, if a homeowner who is living alone wants to share his or her mobilehome with one person, a fee may not be imposed for that person. That person will be considered a guest, and must comply with the park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.34(b)]. A homeowner may also not be charged a fee based on the number of members in his or her immediate family [Civ. Code § 798.35 ("immediate family" includes the homeowner, the homeowner's spouse, and their children, grandchildren under 18 years of age, and parents)].

This agreement does not contain any provision for charging a homeowner a fee for guests [but see § 39.221[2], P 2 (park rules and regulations)].

[v] Senior Caretakers and Homeowner's Relatives Requiring Live-in Care

Park management must not charge a fee for any person over 18 years of age who shares a mobilehome with a homeowner who is 55 years of age or older, if the person provides live-in health care or live-in supportive care to the homeowner pursuant to a written treatment plan prepared by the homeowner's physician. However, that person must comply with the park rules and regulations, and does not have any rights of tenancy in the park [Civ. Code § 798.34(c)].

A similar rule prevents management from charging a fee for a senior homeowner's parent, sibling, child, or grandchild who resides with the homeowner and who requires live-in health care, live-in supportive care, or supervision pursuant to a written treatment plan prepared by a physician and surgeon [Civ. Code § 798.34(d)].

[vi] Enforcement of Park Rules and Regulations

As a general rule, park management may not charge a fee for enforcement of any of the park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.36]. However, management may charge a reasonable fee for services relating to the maintenance or cleanup of the land and premises on which the mobilehome is situated if (1) the homeowner fails to maintain the land or premises in accordance with the park rules and regulations, (2) the homeowner is given a notice stating the specific condition to be corrected and an estimate of the charges to be imposed by management if management (or its agent) performs the services [see § 29.237 (illustrative notice)], and (3) the homeowner fails to comply with the notice within 14 days [Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36; see § 39.220[2], P 9].

[vii] Entry, Installation, and Hookup

A homeowner cannot be charged a fee for entry, installation, or hookup as a condition of tenancy in a mobilehome park. This prohibition does not apply, however, to an actual fee or cost imposed by a local governmental ordinance or requirement directly related to the occupancy of the specific site on which the mobilehome is located and not incurred as a portion of the development of the mobilehome park as a whole [Civ. Code § 798.37].

[viii] Landscaping and Maintenance

Management may impose reasonable landscaping and maintenance requirements on a homeowner [see § 39.220[2], P 9], but cannot charge a fee for landscaping as a condition of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.37]. Also, a homeowner or prospective homeowner cannot be required to purchase, rent, or lease goods or services for landscaping, remodeling, or maintenance from any person, company, or corporation [Civ. Code § 798.37].

[ix] Utility Service Fees and Charges

If a rental agreement does not specifically provide otherwise, park management may elect to bill a homeowner separately for utility service fees and charges assessed by the utility for services provided to or for spaces in the park. Utility services that may be separately billed are natural gas or liquid propane gas, electricity, water, cable television, garbage or refuse service, and sewer service. Any separately-billed utility fees and charges are not deemed to be included in the rent charged for those spaces under the rental agreement, and may not be considered to be rent or a rent increase for purposes of any local rent control ordinance, provided that at the time of the initial separate billing of any utility fees and charges the rent chargeable under the rental agreement or the base rent chargeable under the terms of a local rent control provision is simultaneously reduced by an amount equal to the fees and charges separately billed. Specifically, the amount of this reduction must be equal to the average amount charged to management for the utility services for the homeowner's space during the 12 months immediately preceding notice of the commencement of the separate billing for the utility services [Civ. Code § 798.41(a)].

Separately-billed utility fees and charges must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If any such fee or charge has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice of the billing and on each subsequent billing that is given to the homeowner while the fee or charge is being billed [Civ. Code § 798.41(d)].

This form does not provide for separate billing by management for utility service fees and charges. Instead, it includes certain utilities in the homeowner's rent. For all other utility services, the homeowner must pay their cost directly to the utility provider [see § 39.220[2], P 5].

If a homeowner is responsible for the payment of gas, water, or electric utility service, management must notify the homeowner if there is any gas, water, or electric meter on the homeowner's site that measures gas, water, or electric service for common area facilities or equipment, including lighting. The disclosure must be made prior to the beginning of a homeowner's tenancy or at the time management discovers the condition. Thereafter, management must either discontinue service to the common areas from the meter or mutually agree on compensation to be paid by management for service attributable to the common areas [Civ. Code § 798.43(a)]. Management is not excused from taking either course of action if the meter on the homeowner's site measures electricity for lighting required on park roadways, walkways, or shower and restroom facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 18602], and this lighting provides lighting for the homeowner's site [Civ. Code § 798.43(b)]. This form assumes that the foregoing requirements are not applicable.

[j] Attorneys' Fees

In any action arising out of the MRL, the prevailing party is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees and costs [Civ. Code § 798.85; see § 39.220[2], P 22]. A party is deemed to be a prevailing party when the judgment is rendered in that person's favor, or when the litigation is dismissed in that person's favor before or during the trial, unless the parties have otherwise agreed on a compromise or settlement [Civ. Code § 798.85].

[k] Prohibitions Against Limiting Right of Homeowners to Assemble and Communicate

A rental agreement (or park rule or regulation) may not contain any provision that denies the right of any homeowner or resident to do any of the following [Civ. Code § 798.51]:

- Peacefully assemble or meet in the park, at reasonable hours and in a reasonable manner, for any lawful purpose.

- Invite public officials, candidates for public office, or representatives of mobilehome owner organizations to meet with homeowners and residents and speak on matters of public interest [see Civ. Code § 798.50].

- Canvass and petition homeowners and residents for noncommercial purposes relating to mobilehome living, election to public office, or the initiative, referendum, or recall processes, at reasonable hours and in a reasonable manner. This right specifically includes the distribution and circulation of information.

- Display in the window or on the side of a manufactured home or mobilehome, or within the site on which the home is located or installed, a political campaign sign relating to a candidate for election to public office or to the initiative, referendum, or recall process [Civ. Code §§ 798.51(e), 799.10].

[l] Use of Mobilehome as Polling Place

A mobilehome may be used as a polling place if the county clerk (1) determines that no other facilities are available for the convenient exercise of voting rights by mobilehome park residents and (2) designates the mobilehome as a polling place. A rental agreement may not prohibit the use of a mobilehome as a polling place [Elec. Code § 1638.7; see Elec. Code § 1638 (designation of polling place)].

[m] Membership in Private Club as Condition of Tenancy

Membership in a private club or organization may be made a condition for tenancy in a mobilehome park. However, membership may not be denied to anyone on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, disability, or source of income [Civ. Code § 798.20(a); see Civ. Code § 798.20(b) (senior housing exceptions)]. This form does not make membership in such an entity a condition for tenancy.

[n] Parks Limited to Senior Citizens

This agreement does not limit tenancy in the park to senior citizens [but see § 39.221[2], P 1 (park rules and regulations)]. For a discussion of the enforceability of an "adults only" rule in a mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.76], as limited by federal law, see § 39.53[2][a].

[o] Restrictions on Management's Right to Enter Mobilehome

Management may not enter a homeowner's mobilehome without the homeowner's prior written consent, except in the case of an emergency or if the homeowner has abandoned the mobilehome. The homeowner may at any time revoke in writing a consent previously given [Civ. Code § 798.26; see § 39.220[2], P 21].

Management may enter on a lot or space leased or rented by a homeowner for any of the following purposes: (1) to maintain utilities, trees, and driveways; (2) to maintain the premises after a homeowner is required but fails to do so; or (3) to protect the park. The entry must occur at a reasonable time, and must not interfere with the resident's quiet enjoyment [Civ. Code § 798.26(a); see § 39.220[2], P 21].

[p] Restrictions on Pets

No lease agreement entered into, modified, or renewed on or after January 1, 2001, may prohibit a homeowner from keeping at least one pet within the mobilehome park, subject to reasonable park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)]. For these purposes, "pet" means any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept within an aquarium, or other animal as agreed to between the management and the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.33(c)]. These provisions do not affect any other rights provided by law to a homeowner to keep a pet within the park [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)].

[q] Sale of Mobilehome During Term of Rental Agreement

As authorized under the MRL, this agreement requires the homeowner to obtain management's prior approval of a person who intends to purchase the homeowner's mobilehome and to keep the mobilehome in the park [Civ. Code § 798.74(a); see § 39.220[2], P 15]. It also requires the homeowner to give management written notice of the sale before the close of escrow. Management must approve or disapprove the prospective purchaser within 15 days of receiving all required information from the prospective purchaser [Civ. Code § 798.74(a); see § 39.220[2], P 15]. Management is limited by statute as to the reasons it may use to disapprove a prospective purchaser [Civ. Code § 798.74; see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes]. Management may require that a prospective purchaser of a mobilehome comply with any rule or regulation limiting residency based on age requirements for housing for older persons, provided that the rule or regulation complies with specified provisions of the Fair Housing Act [42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.] that prohibit discrimination based on "familial status" (among other classifications) [Civ. Code § 798.76; see 42 U.S.C. § 3605(a); see also § 39.53[2][a]].

Ordinarily, if a mobilehome is sold to a third party during the term of a homeowner's rental agreement, management cannot require that the mobilehome be removed from the park. However, removal may be required under certain circumstances [Civ. Code § 798.73; see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes].

For a discussion of other restrictions and requirements applicable to the sale of a mobilehome located in a park, see Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

[r] Termination of Mobilehome Tenancy

Because of the high cost of moving mobilehomes, complicated installation requirements, and the cost of landscaping or lot preparation, the Legislature has afforded tenants of mobilehome parks unique protection against actual or constructive eviction [see Civ. Code § 798.55(a)]. Thus, a tenancy may be terminated only for a specific reason permitted by statute [see § 39.220[2], P 17], the particular reason cited for termination must be clearly stated (with supporting facts) in a written notice, and proper service of the notice must be made on the homeowner [Civ. Code §§ 798.55(b), 798.56, 798.57]. The homeowner must also be given written notice to sell or remove the mobilehome. This notice must specify the period (not less than 60 days) within which the mobilehome must be sold or removed [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1); see § 39.220[2], P 18]. For complete coverage of these requirements, see § 39.238.

In addition, Homeowner shall comply with all Park Rules and Regulations (described in Paragraph 10 of this Lease) pertaining to the maintenance of the Homesite by Homeowner.

If Homeowner fails to maintain the Homesite in accordance with this Paragraph and with applicable Park Rules and Regulations, Management shall have the right to perform or cause the performance of the necessary maintenance and to charge Homeowner a reasonable fee for services performed. Prior to exercising this right, Management first shall give Homeowner written notice that states the specific condition to be corrected and an estimate of the charges that will be imposed if Management corrects or causes the correction of the condition. If Homeowner fails to correct the condition within 14 days (or any other period required by then-prevailing law), Management shall have the right to cause the condition to be corrected and to impose a reasonable fee on Homeowner for the services performed.

Management, at the Park's expense, shall provide and maintain all physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition. With regard to a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration of these improvements, management shall have a reasonable period of time to repair the sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration and bring the improvements into good working order and condition after management knows or should have known of the breakdown or deterioration. For purposes of the above, a reasonable period of time to repair a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration shall be as soon as possible in situations affecting a health or safety condition, and shall not exceed 30 days in any other case except when exigent circumstances justify a delay.

Subletting of Mobilehome

13. Homeowner shall not sublet Homeowner's Mobilehome without Management's prior written consent.

Assignment of Lease

14. Homeowner shall have no right to assign this Lease or any interest in it, except to a third-party purchaser of Homeowner's Mobilehome who has been previously approved by Management for tenancy in the Park pursuant to Paragraph 15 of this Lease. In the event of a valid assignment, the assignee shall have the same rights and duties as Homeowner under this Lease.

Homeowner's Sale of Mobilehome During Term of Lease

15. If Homeowner intends to sell _____[his or her] Mobilehome, Homeowner shall notify Management in writing of the proposed sale as soon as possible, but in no event later than the close of escrow for the sale. The notice shall contain the name and address of the proposed purchaser, the name of the escrow company handling the sale, and the date escrow is scheduled to close. If the proposed purchaser intends to keep Homeowner's Mobilehome in the Park after purchasing it, Management shall have the right to approve the prospective purchaser. On request of the prospective purchaser, Management shall inform the purchaser of all information that must be submitted to Management to enable it to approve or disapprove the purchaser. Management may require the prospective purchaser to pay a fee for the procurement of a financial report or credit rating and to submit to a personal interview with Management. Within 15 business days of receiving all required information from the prospective purchaser, Management shall notify Homeowner and the prospective purchaser in writing of Management's acceptance or rejection of the proposed purchaser. If the proposed purchaser is rejected, Management shall set forth in writing the reason or reasons for rejection.

If Homeowner sells_____[his or her] Mobilehome to a third party during the term of this lease, Management may, under circumstances permitted by law, be able to require that Homeowner's Mobilehome be removed from the Park in order to upgrade the quality of the Park.

Homeowner's Notice of Intent to Vacate

16. Homeowner shall give the Park at least 60 days' advance written notice of_____[his or her] intent to vacate the Park and to terminate _____[his or her] tenancy under this Lease. If Homeowner vacates the Park for any reason (other than following the sale of Homeowner's Mobilehome to a third party who is approved by Management for tenancy in the Park pursuant to Paragraph 15 of this Lease), Homeowner shall cause Homeowner's Mobilehome to be removed from the Park on or before the date Homeowner vacates the Park in compliance with Paragraph 19 of this Lease.

Grounds for Termination by Management

17. Homeowner's tenancy in the Park may be terminated by Management for any of the following reasons:

(a) Failure of Homeowner or other resident of Homeowner's Mobilehome to comply with a local ordinance or a state law or regulation relating to mobilehomes within a reasonable time after Homeowner's receipt of notice of noncompliance from the appropriate governmental agency.

(b) Conduct of Homeowner or other resident of Homeowner's Mobilehome that constitutes a substantial annoyance to other homeowners or residents.

(c) Conviction of Homeowner or other resident of Homeowner's Mobilehome for prostitution or a felony controlled substance offense if the act resulting in the conviction was committed within Homeowner's Mobilehome or anywhere else on the premises of the Park; provided, however, that Homeowner's tenancy will not be terminated if the person convicted of the offense was a resident (other than Homeowner) of Homeowner's Mobilehome, and permanently vacates and does not subsequently reoccupy Homeowner's Mobilehome.

(d) Failure of Homeowner to comply with the Park Rules and Regulations, as they may be amended from time to time. Any act or omission of Homeowner or a resident of Homeowner's Mobilehome shall not constitute a failure to comply with Park rules and regulations until Management has first given Homeowner written notice of the alleged rule or regulation violation and Homeowner or resident has failed to adhere to the rule or regulation within seven days. Notwithstanding the above, if Homeowner has been given written notice of an alleged violation of the same rule or regulation on three or more occasions within a 12-month period after the first alleged violation, Management need not give a written notice for a subsequent violation of the same rule or regulation.

(e) Nonpayment of rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges, if (i) the amount due has been unpaid for a period of at least five days from its due date (excluding the date the payment is due), and (ii) the amount remains unpaid for an additional period of three days, beginning on the date Management gives Homeowner a written three-day notice to pay the amount due or to vacate the tenancy. In the event Homeowner does not pay the amount due prior to the expiration of the foregoing three-day notice period, Homeowner shall be liable for all payments due up until the time the tenancy is vacated. The legal owner, registered owner (if different than Homeowner), or any junior lienholder of Homeowner's Mobilehome shall have any right granted by then-prevailing law to cure a monetary default by Homeowner under this lease. If a Homeowner has been given a three-day notice to pay or vacate on three or more occasions within the preceding 12-month period, Management shall not be required to give Homeowner a three-day notice for any subsequent nonpayment of rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges.

(f) The Park is condemned by governmental authority or sold in lieu of condemnation by governmental authority.

(g) There is a change in use of the Park, or any portion of it, provided Management gives Homeowner all written notices, if any, required under then prevailing law prior to and after the change in the Park's use.

Notice of Termination

18. Management may terminate Homeowner's tenancy in the Park only by giving Homeowner written notice of the termination at least 60 days (or any other period required under then-applicable law) prior to the date Homeowner is required to vacate the Park. Any notice of termination shall state the specific facts and the reason or reasons for termination, and shall be served on Homeowner as required by the law then in effect.

Surrender and Removal of Mobilehome

19. On the expiration or sooner termination of this lease, Homeowner shall, at Homeowner's sole expense, surrender the Lot and cause Homeowner's Mobilehome to be moved from the Lot and the Park, unless Homeowner has validly assigned this Lease to a purchasing third party as provided in Paragraphs 14 and 15 of this Lease. All personal property or appurtenances owned by Homeowner and located on the Homesite shall also be promptly removed. The Homesite shall be cleared of all debris and left in a clean condition.

Extension of Lease Agreement

20. Not later than[time period, e.g., six months] prior to the expiration of the term of this Lease, Management shall notify Homeowner in writing if Management is willing to negotiate with Homeowner regarding Homeowner's continued tenancy in the Park after the term of this Lease expires. If Management is so willing, it shall, in the same written notice, notify Homeowner of the lease terms, including the amount of rent and the duration of the lease, proposed by Management.

Management's Right of Entry

21. Management shall not enter Homeowner's Mobilehome without Homeowner's prior written consent, except in the case of an emergency or if Homeowner has abandoned Homeowner's Mobilehome. Management may enter on the Homesite for any of the following purposes: to perform any act necessary to protect the Park; to maintain any utilities located on the Homesite; or to perform any maintenance Homeowner is required under this Lease or the Park Rules and Regulations to perform but has failed to perform. Except in the case of an emergency, Management's entry on the Homesite shall be conducted in a manner and at a time that do not substantially interfere with Homeowner's quiet enjoyment of the Homesite.

Attorneys' Fees

22. If any legal action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Lease is brought by either party to this Lease, the prevailing party shall be entitled to receive from the other party, in addition to any other relief that may be granted, the reasonable attorneys' fees, costs, and expenses incurred in the action or proceeding by the prevailing party.

Entire Agreement

23. This Lease constitutes the entire and only agreement between Homeowner and Management regarding Homeowner's tenancy in the Park. It fully and correctly sets forth the respective obligations of Homeowner and Management as of its date.

Amendment of Agreement

24. Any amendment or modification of this Lease shall be valid and binding only if made in writing and executed by both parties to this Lease.

PART IV. FORMS

1. Agreements Between Mangement and Homeowners

18-39 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 39.221

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 39.221 Mobilehome Park Rules and Regulations

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of rules and regulations for a mobilehome rental park. The precise content of park rules and regulations is in large part discretionary with park management. The Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code §§ 798-799.8] does not require that specific provisions be included in the park rules and regulations, as it does for a rental or lease agreement [see § 39.220]. However, many of its provisions limit management's right to do certain things. For example, management may not charge a fee for keeping a pet in the park unless management actually provides special facilities or services for pets [see Civ. Code § 798.33; see § 39.221 [2], P 4]. Familiarity with the requirements (and prohibitions) of the MRL is essential, since without it, management might promulgate nonconforming rules and regulations [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 798.25.5 (any rule or regulation unilaterally adopted by management, implemented without homeowner consent, and that purports to deny homeowners their right to a jury trial or mandates binding arbitration of disputes is void and unenforceable)]. Most of these requirements applicable to a rental or lease agreement and park rules and regulations are discussed in Section 39.220. This form should be used in conjunction with that discussion.

[b] Inclusion of Rules and Regulations in Rental Agreement

Mobilehome park rules and regulations must be included in a mobilehome park rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.15; see § 39.220 (rental agreement)]. Because these rules and regulations are usually lengthy, they are often not included in the body of the rental agreement. Instead, they are incorporated by reference in, and attached as an exhibit to, the rental agreement [see, e.g., § 39.220[2], P 10].

[c] Applicability of Rules and Regulations to Park's Owner and Employees

The park's owner and any park employee are subject to and must comply with all park rules and regulations to the same extent as residents and guests [Civ. Code § 798.23(a)]. However, this requirement does not apply to any rule or regulation that governs the age of any resident or guest or to acts of an owner or employee that are undertaken to fulfill a park owner's maintenance, management, and business operation responsibilities [Civ. Code § 798.23(b)].

[d] Amendment of Park Rules and Regulations

[i] Meetings With Homeowners

When park management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulation, the management must meet and consult with the homeowners in the park, their representatives, or both after written notice of the meeting has been given to all the homeowners in the park [Civ. Code § 798.25(a); see [ii], below (prior notice requirements)].

In addition, management must, on written request, meet and consult with the homeowners on certain specified matters [see § 39.121[7]], including resident concerns regarding existing park rules that are not subject to the statutory provisions governing amendments to park rules and regulations. With regard to those matters, management may meet with the homeowners individually or collectively, or with representatives of a group of homeowners who have signed a request to be so represented. The meeting must be held within 30 days of receiving the request, and management must give notice to all requesting homeowners at least 10 days before any collective meeting [Civ. Code § 798.53].

[ii] Prior Notice Requirements

Written notice of a meeting and consultation to discuss a proposed amendment to the park's rules and regulations must be given to all the homeowners in the park 10 days or more before the meeting. The notice must set forth the proposed amendment to the park rules and regulations and the date, time, and location of the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.25(a); see § 39.234A (notice of meeting to amend park rules and regulations)].

Following the meeting and consultation, the noticed amendment to the park rules and regulations may be implemented, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner, or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than six months (except that only 60 days' advance written notice is required to amend a regulation pertaining to recreational facilities) [Civ. Code § 798.25(b); see § 39.235 (notice of amendment to park rules and regulations)]. Paragraph 12 of this form sets forth these requirements. Written notice to a homeowner whose tenancy commences within the required period of notice of a proposed amendment to the park's rules and regulations constitutes compliance when the notice is given before the inception of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.25(c)]. However, any amendment to the park's rules and regulations that creates a new fee payable by the homeowner and that has not been expressly agreed on by the homeowner and management in the written rental agreement or lease is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25(e)].

A meeting is not required when management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation. In such cases, management may implement the amendment, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

[e] Violation of Rules and Regulations

[i] Prohibition Against Fees for Enforcement

Subject to two exceptions, a homeowner may not be charged a fee for the enforcement of any of the park rules or regulations. Under one exception, a reasonable fee may be charged by management for the maintenance of the land and premises on which the mobilehome is located if the rules and regulations (or rental agreement) [see § 39.220[2], P 9] require the homeowner to perform the maintenance and the homeowner fails to do so. The charge may not be imposed unless (1) management gives the homeowner written notice of the specific condition to be corrected and an estimate of the charges to be imposed if management performs the services, and (2) the homeowner fails to correct the condition within 14 days [Civ. Code § 798.36(a)]. Management may also charge a reasonable fee if, in good faith, it (1) has removed and stored a homeowner's or resident's personal property in order to bring the premises into compliance with park rules and regulations or with the Mobilehome Parks Act or its implementing regulations, and (2) has complied with notice requirements [Civ. Code § 798.36(a), (b); see § 39.237A (form of notice)].

[ii] Grounds for Termination of Tenancy

Permissible reasons to terminate a tenancy in a mobilehome park are limited by statute [Civ. Code § 798.56]. One permissible reason is the failure of a homeowner or resident to comply with a reasonable rule or regulation of the park that is part of the rental agreement, or with any amendment to such a rule or regulation [Civ. Code § 798.56(a), (d); see § 39.121[9] (other permissible reasons)]. These rules and regulations expressly provide that they (and their amendments) are a part of the rental agreement between management and the homeowner [see § 39.221[2], first unnumbered paragraph].

The act or omission of a homeowner or resident does not constitute a failure to comply with a reasonable rule or regulation unless and until (1) park management gives the homeowner written notice of the alleged rule or regulation violation [see § 39.236], and (2) the homeowner or resident fails to comply with the rule or regulation within seven days after receiving the notice. However, if a homeowner has been given written notice of an alleged violation of the same rule or regulation on three or more occasions within a 12-month period after the homeowner or resident has violated that rule or regulation, no written notice will be required for a subsequent violation of the same rule or regulation [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]. For further discussion of the requirements for terminating tenancies in a mobilehome park and an illustrative notice of termination, see §§ 39.121[9] and 39.238.

[iii] Injunction for Continuing or Recurring Violation

Any person who violates a reasonable rule or regulation of a mobilehome park may be enjoined from the violation [Civ. Code § 798.88(a)]. The procedure for obtaining the injunction is prescribed by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.88; § 39.121[4]], and the injunction will be granted if the court finds that the violation is continuing and recurring [Civ. Code § 798.88(d)]. This remedy is in addition to the right of management to terminate a lease or rental agreement for a violation of park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.88(a), (g)].

[f] Limiting Park Residents to "Older Persons"

This form contains an optional provision that may be used if residency in the park is to be limited to certain "older persons" [see § 39.221[2], P 1]. State law permits the enforcement of a rule or regulation limiting residency in a mobilehome park based on age requirements for housing for older persons, provided that the rule or regulation complies with specified provisions of the Fair Housing Act [42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.] that prohibit discrimination based on "familial status" (among other classifications) [Civ. Code § 798.76; see 42 U.S.C. § 3605(a); see also 42 U.S.C. § 3602(k) ("familial status" essentially means families that include one or more children under the age of 18)]. Federal law exempts "housing for older persons" from the anti-discrimination requirements of the Fair Housing Act if, among other things, the housing (1) is intended for, and solely occupied by, persons 62 years of age or older, or (2) is intended and operated for occupancy by persons age 55 years of age or older and has at least 80 percent of its occupied units occupied by at least one person who is 55 years of age or older [42 U.S.C. § 3607(b)(2), (3)]. The optional "older persons" provision in this form reflects the above federal requirements. For further discussion of the applicable state and federal laws, see § 39.53[2][a].

[g] Restrictions on Charges

A homeowner in a mobilehome park may not be charged a fee for other than rent, utilities, and incidental reasonable charges for services actually rendered [Civ. Code § 798.31]. No charge may be imposed for services that are actually rendered but that are not listed in the rental agreement unless the homeowner is given written notice of the charge at least 60 days before its imposition [Civ. Code § 798.32(a); see Civ. Code § 798.32(b) (requirements governing billing and notice of expiration date of charge)]. It is important, therefore, to itemize all charges in the rental agreement or the rules and regulations included in the agreement. For example, this form lists charges for recreational vehicle (RV) parking and for storage spaces in the park [see § 39.221[2], PP 9, 10].

The MRL contains many provisions that restrict or prohibit several specific types of charges that may be imposed on a homeowner by management. For a discussion of these restrictions and prohibitions and an itemization of the specific types of charges regulated, see § 39.121[5].

[h] Common Facilities

A rental or lease agreement must contain a provision specifying that (1) it is the responsibility of park management to provide and maintain physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition and (2) with regard to a sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration of these improvements, management has a reasonable period of time to repair the sudden or unforeseeable breakdown or deterioration and bring the improvements into good working order and condition after management knows or should have known of the breakdown or deterioration [Civ. Code § 798.15(d); see § 39.220[2], P 12]. It must also contain a description of the physical improvements to be provided to the homeowner during his or her tenancy, and a provision listing those services that will be provided during the tenancy, and the fees, if any, that will be charged for those services [Civ. Code § 798.15(e), (f)]. This form provides for the imposition of fees for the following: use of the recreation room for private functions [see § 39.221[2], P 5]; parking of recreational vehicles or boats in the park [see § 39.221[2], P 9]; and the storage of personal property [see § 39.221[2], P 10].

Each common area facility in a mobilehome park must be open or available to residents at all reasonable hours, and the hours of the common area facility must be posted at the facility [Civ. Code § 798.24]. A homeowner may not be required to obtain liability insurance to use common area facilities for meeting and assembly purposes granted by statute [Civ. Code § 798.51(c); see Civ. Code §§ 798.50, 798.51 (homeowners' meeting)]. However, if alcoholic beverages are to be served at any meeting or private function, a liability insurance binder may be required by the park ownership or management [Civ. Code § 798.51(c)]. The ownership or management of a mobilehome park may prohibit the consumption of alcoholic beverages in the park common area facilities if the terms of the rental agreement or the rules and regulations of the park prohibit it [Civ. Code § 798.51(c)].

A homeowner or resident may not be charged a cleaning deposit to use the park recreation hall or clubhouse for meetings of resident organizations whether or not guests or visitors from outside the park are invited to attend the meeting, if a homeowner or resident of the park is hosting the meeting and all homeowners or residents of the park are allowed to attend [Civ. Code § 798.51(b)]. A homeowner, organization, or group of homeowners using a recreation hall or clubhouse must adhere to any vehicle parking or maximum occupancy limitations or restrictions [Civ. Code § 798.51(d)].

Provisions in this form relating to the swimming pool, laundry room, and recreation room require that the hours of each facility be posted at the entrance of the facility [see PP 5-7].

[i] Guests

The MRL restricts the ability of park management to charge fees for a homeowner's guests [Civ. Code § 798.34]. For discussion of those restrictions, which have been incorporated into this form [see § 39.221[2], P 2], see § 39.220[1][i][iv].

[j] Pets

No lease agreement entered into, modified, or renewed on or after January 1, 2001, may prohibit a homeowner from keeping at least one pet within the mobilehome park, subject to reasonable park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)]. For these purposes, "pet" means any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept within an aquarium, or other animal as agreed to between the management and the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.33(c)]. These provisions do not affect any other rights provided by law to a homeowner to keep a pet within the park [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)].

A homeowner may not be charged a fee for keeping a pet in the park unless the management actually provides special facilities or services for pets. If special pet facilities are maintained by the management, the fee charged must reasonably relate to the cost or maintenance of the facilities or services and the number of pets kept in the park [Civ. Code § 798.33(b)].

This form contains a provision for pets in the park. Paragraph 4 permits pets subject to specific limitations as to type and number.

[k] Annoying Conduct

Conduct by a homeowner or resident on park premises that constitutes a substantial annoyance to other homeowners or residents is grounds for the termination of a rental agreement or lease in a mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.56(b); see § 39.221[2], P 3]. For a discussion of the other permissible reasons to terminate a tenancy, see § 39.121[9].

[l] Rental of RV Spaces in Mobilehome Park

Any mobilehome park first developed after January 1, 1982, must not rent spaces for recreational vehicles (RV's) [see Civ. Code § 799.29 ("recreational vehicle" defined)] unless the mobilehome park has a specifically designated area within the park for the RV's. Such an area must be separate and apart from the area designated for mobilehomes. RV's may be located only in the specifically designated areas [Civ. Code § 798.22; see § 39.221[2], P 9].

[m] Advertising Sale of Mobilehome

The MRL grants both park management and homeowners specific rights with respect to a homeowner's sale of a mobilehome located in a park [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83]. These rights and related requirements are discussed in Ch. 40, Mobilehomes .

One right granted to a homeowner who wants to sell his or her mobilehome is the right to place a sign on or near the mobilehome that advertises the mobilehome for sale/exchange (or for rent, if permitted by his or her rental or lease agreement) [Civ. Code § 798.70; see § 39.221[2], P 11]. The sign must state the name, address, and telephone number of the owner of the mobilehome or his or her agent, and the sign face must not exceed 24 inches in width and 36 inches in height [Civ. Code § 798.70]. Signs posted in front of a mobilehome may be of an H-frame or A-frame design with the sign face perpendicular to, but not extending into, the street. Homeowners may attach to the sign or their mobilehome tubes or holders for leaflets which provide information on the mobilehome for sale, exchange, or rent [Civ. Code § 798.70].

All Homeowners, Residents, and Guests of the Park must comply with the Rules and Regulations. For purposes of these Rules and Regulations:

B. A Homesite is a lot or space in the Park rented or leased by a Homeowner under a rental or lease agreement with Management for the purpose of locating and maintaining a mobilehome.

[If park tenancies are to be limited to seniors, add: Residency in the Park is restricted to Homeowners and Residents who are _____ (62 or 55) years of age or older. [If park tenancies are to be limited to persons who are at least 55 years old, add: If more than one Homeowner or Resident resides in a mobilehome, this requirement shall be satisfied if at least one Homeowner who resides in the mobilehome is 55 years of age or older.]

2. Subject to the exceptions described in this Paragraph, a Guest who has stayed with a Homeowner more than a total of 20 consecutive days or a total of 30 days in a calendar year and who intends to stay on for any continued period beyond that must register with Park Management. The fee shall be paid weekly, in advance.

A Homeowner who lives alone in the Park may share his or her mobilehome with one person. Management shall not impose a "guest" fee or any other fee for that person. The person shall comply with all provisions of these rules and regulations.

Management may not charge any Homeowner a guest fee for any person over the age of 18 years who resides with a Homeowner in order to provide live-in health care or live-in supportive care to the Homeowner pursuant to a written treatment plan prepared by the Homeowner's physician. However, the caretaker shall register with Management and shall comply with these Park Rules and Regulations.

[If mobilehome park is one that has implemented rules or regulations limiting residency based on age requirements for housing for older persons under Civ. Code § 798.76, add:]

A Homeowner 55 years of age or older may share his or her mobilehome with any person over 18 years of age if that person is a parent, sibling, child, or grandchild of the Homeowner and requires live-in health care, live-in supportive care, or supervision pursuant to a written treatment plan prepared by a physician and surgeon. Management may not charge Homeowner a fee for this person. Unless expressly agreed otherwise in writing between Management and the Homeowner, Management shall have no responsibility to manage, supervise, or provide for the person's care during his or her stay in the mobilehome park. The person described in this paragraph who resides with Homeowner shall comply with all rules and regulations of the Park.

A Homeowner or Resident shall promptly clean up after his or her own dog as necessary, on the Homesite or elsewhere in the Park. The owner of a pet shall at all times monitor and control it so as to prevent behavior that is dangerous or disruptive to other Homeowners and Residents.

Recreation Room

5. The recreation room located in the Park is provided for the common use of all Homeowners, Residents, and Guests, and is open for common use during the hours posted on the outside entrance to the room, except as otherwise provided in this Paragraph. Any Homeowner may reserve the recreation room for a private party or other function by submitting a written request to Management at least two weeks prior to the scheduled event. The request shall contain the following: the name of the Homeowner, the date of the request, a description of the event to be held, the date of the event, and the hours during which the event will be held. If Management approves the request, the Homeowner shall pay a nonrefundable room charge of $25 and a refundable cleaning deposit of $25 within [time period, e.g., 48 hours] after the approval. If Homeowner fails to pay these charges before expiration of the foregoing time period, Management shall have the right to cancel Homeowner's reservation for the room. All requests for reserving the recreation room shall be considered on a first-come, first-served basis. All Homeowners and Residents shall be responsible for removing their own trash and personal belongings from the recreation room after using it. A Homeowner who has held a private party or other function in the room must, immediately following the function, clean the room and restore it to the condition it was in prior to the function in order to receive a full refund of the cleaning deposit posted by him or her.

§ 39.230 Notice of Park's Right to Operate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is a notice that informs homeowners and prospective homeowners of a mobilehome park of (1) the nature of the zoning or use permit under which the park operates, and (2) the duration of any lease under which park management leases all or part of the park from a third party. Management must give written notice of these matters to homeowners and prospective homeowners. If the park is operating under a permit subject to a renewal or expiration date, the relevant information and dates must also be included in the notice [Civ. Code § 798.27(a)].

[b] Subsequent Changes

If a change occurs concerning the zoning or use permit under which the park operates or a lease in which the management is a lessee, all homeowners in the park must be given written notice within 30 days of that change. A prospective homeowner must be notified before the inception of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.27(b)]. For the notice that must be given to homeowners if the park's owner petitions for a change in the park's use [see Civ. Code § 798.56(g)], see Section 39.240.

The notice of the park's right to operate (this form) need not describe the above subsequent notification requirements [see Civ. Code § 798.27(b)]. However, the final paragraph of this form includes this description because of the relevance of these notification requirements to the required information set forth in this form. If desired, counsel may delete that paragraph.

The disclosure must be made to any person who proposes to purchase or install a manufactured home or mobilehome on a space, on which the construction of the pad or foundation system commenced after September 1, 1986, and no other manufactured home or mobilehome was previously located, installed, or occupied [*Civ. § 39.231 Notice to Prospective Homeowner Regarding Lease Agreement That Is Exempt From Rent Control

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice that must be given by park management to a prospective mobilehome park homeowner (that is, a prospective tenant) who is offered a rental agreement or lease that is exempt from local rent control measures [see Civ. Code § 798.17; see also Civ. Code § 798.8 ("rental agreement" includes a lease)]. The offered mobilehome park rental agreement must itself meet certain requirements of the MRL [Civ. Code §§ 798-799.8]. These requirements are discussed in Section 39.220.

[b] Requirements for Notice

At the time an "exempt" rental agreement (that is, one exempt from local rent control) is first offered to a prospective homeowner, park management must provide the prospective homeowner with written notice (this form) of his or her right to do the following [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)]:

> (1) To have at least 30 days to inspect the rental agreement [see Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(3) (homeowner must have at least 30 days from date exempt agreement is first offered to homeowner to accept or reject it); see also § 39.231[2]]; and
> (2) To void the rental agreement by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of the acceptance of a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(4); see § 39.231[2]].

If park management fails to provide this written notice, the rental agreement is voidable at the homeowner's option on his or her discovery of the failure [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)].

[c] Tenant's Acknowledgment of Receipt

The receipt of any written notice described in [b], above, must be acknowledged in writing by the homeowner [Civ. Code 798.17(f)]. This form contains the required acknowledgment (immediately following the notice).

[d] Tenant's Option to Accept Rental Agreement for Lesser Term

In order to be exempt from local rent control measures, a mobilehome park rental agreement (or lease) must, among other things [see § 39.220[1][f]], be for a term in excess of 12 months [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)(1)]. If the prospective homeowner rejects the offered agreement or rescinds a signed rental agreement pursuant to Civil Code Section 798.17(b) [see [b], above], the prospective homeowner will be entitled to instead accept a rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less from the date the offered rental was to have begun (including a month-to-month rental agreement). If the homeowner elects to have a rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less, the agreement must contain the same rental charges, terms, and conditions as the offered rental agreement during the first 12 months, with the following exception: the alternative agreement need not include any options to extend or renew that were contained in the offered agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(c); see Civ. Code § 798.18(c) (limitations on provisions governing extensions or renewals of agreements with a term of 12 months or less)]. This right of a prospective tenant is described in this form [see § 39.231[2]] even though the MRL does not require that it be contained in the required written notice [see [b], above].

[2] FORM

Notice to Prospective Homeowner Regarding Lease Agreement That Is Exempt From Rent Control

NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE TENANT REGARDING OFFERED MOBILEHOME PARK LEASE AGREEMENT

_____ [date]

This notice is being provided to you on the date set forth above. On this date, you are also being offered a lease agreement ("the Lease") by the Management of_____[name of mobilehome park] ("the Park") for the Lease of space number _____ in the Park. This Lease is to begin on _____[commencement date of lease] and continue for a term of [specify term, which must be in excess of 12 months in order to be exempt from local rent control measures (see Civ. Code § 798.17)]. Under California Law, you have at least 30 days from the date the Lease was first offered to you (that is, the date set forth at the beginning of this notice) to review the Lease and either to accept or reject it. Consequently, you have until_____[date that is at least 30 days after date lease is offered] either to accept or reject this Lease. Further, if you accept and execute the Lease but then change your mind and want to void the Lease, you may do so provided you give Park Management written notice of that decision within 72 hours from the time you executed the Lease.

If you reject or void the Lease in the manner described above, you will be entitled to instead accept a rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less from the date the offered Lease was to have begun, such as a month-to-month rental agreement. If you choose to have a rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less, that rental agreement will contain the same rental charges, terms, and conditions as the offered Lease during the first 12 months [if offered lease agreement contains option to extend or renew and management wants to exclude this from alternative agreement, add:, except for the option contained in the offered Lease to _____ (extend or renew) the Lease].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice to a homeowner that his or her rent will be increased to a specific amount as of a certain date. Management must give a homeowner written notice of any increase in his or her rent at least 90 days before the date of the increase [Civ. Code § 798.30]. The notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

In order for a mobilehome park rental agreement to be exempt from any local rental control ordinance, the agreement and the manner in which it is offered to the homeowner must satisfy certain criteria [see Civ. Code § 798.17; § 39.220[1][f]]. New construction is also exempt from local rent control measures [Civ. Code § 798.45; see Civ. Code § 798.7 ("new construction" defined)].

§ 39.233 Notice to Homeowner of New Park Services and Corresponding Charges

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by park management to notify existing homeowners in the park that (1) some type of new service will be provided by management for the park and (2) a specific charge will be made to homeowners for the service. This form uses, as an example only, a 24-hour security service.

A homeowner may be charged a fee for only the following: rent, utilities, and incidental reasonable charges for services actually rendered [Civ. Code § 798.31]. For services that are actually rendered but that are not listed in the homeowner's rental agreement, management cannot charge a fee until it first gives the homeowner at least 60 days' written notice of the charge (this form) [Civ. Code § 798.32(a)]. A fee that is the subject of such a 60-day notice must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.32(b)]. This form assumes that the homeowners are not given monthly or other periodic bills, and provides that the payments of the new fee must accompany the monthly rent payments. If the new fee has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice and on each subsequent billing that is provided to the homeowner while the fee is being billed [Civ. Code § 798.32(b)]. Because the 24-hour security service described in this form is to be provided for an indefinite period and the fee is not to be amortized, this form is not subject to the foregoing requirement.

This notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.14].

§ 39.234 Notice to Homeowners of Meeting With Management

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice from park management to homeowners that a meeting has been scheduled between management and the homeowners pursuant to a written request for such a meeting. Management must meet and consult with the homeowners, either individually, collectively, or with representatives of a group of homeowners who have signed a request to be so represented, within 30 days of the receipt of a written request from one or more homeowners for a meeting regarding one or more of four topics specified by statute [Civ. Code § 798.53; see [b], below]. For a collective meeting between homeowners and management, management must give at least 10 days' advance notice of the meeting (this form) to all the homeowners that requested the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.53]. The notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

This form should not be confused with the notice set forth in Section 39.234A. The notice in [2], below, is based on Civil Code Section 798.53, which provides for meetings between management and homeowners on the written request of a homeowner or homeowners. However, the notice set forth in Section 39.234A is required by Civil Code Section 798.25(a), which states that a noticed meeting must be held when management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations.

[b] Homeowners' Right to Meeting on Certain Subject Matters

Homeowners have the right to meet with management [see [a], above] regarding the following matters [Civ. Code § 798.53]:

(1) Resident concerns regarding existing park rules (other than proposed amendments separately governed by Civ. Code § 798.25).

(2) Standards for maintaining physical improvements in the park.

(3) Adding, altering, or deleting service, equipment, or physical improvements.

(4) Rental agreements offered by management that are exempt from rent control ordinances under Civil Code Section 798.17 [see § 39.220[1][f]].

§ 39.234A Notice to Homeowners of Meeting to Amend Park Rules and Regulations

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to homeowners of a meeting to amend the park's rules and regulations. Management must give notice of a meeting to homeowners when it proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations [see Civ. Code § 798.25(a)]. The notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

Because a proposed amendment may be implemented only after management has met with the homeowners [see Civ. Code § 798.25(b)], this form should be used in conjunction with a notice that the park's rules and regulations are being amended [see § 39.235]. However, this form should not be confused with the notice set forth in § 39.234. The notice in [2], below, is required by Civ. Code § 798.25(a), which states that a noticed meeting must be held when management proposes an amendment to the park rules and regulations [see [b], below]. The notice in § 39.234, however, is based on Civ. Code § 798.53, which provides for meetings between management and homeowners on the written request of a homeowner or homeowners.

[b] Meeting and Notice Requirements

When park management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulation, the management must meet and consult with the homeowners in the park, their representatives, or both. Ten days' advance written notice of the meeting must be given to each homeowner. The notice must set forth the proposed amendment to the park rules and regulations and the date, time, and location of the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.25(a)].

Following the meeting and consultation, the amendment may be implemented, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner, or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than six months, except that only 60 days' advance written notice is sufficient for amendments that pertain to recreational facilities [Civ. Code § 798.25(b); see § 39.235 (notice of amendment to park rules and regulations)]. Any amendment to the park's rules and regulations that creates a new fee payable by the homeowner and that has not been expressly agreed on by the homeowner and management in the written rental agreement or lease is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25(e)].

A meeting is not required when management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation. In such cases, management may implement the amendment, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

§ 39.235 Notice of Amendment to Park Rules and Regulations

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to mobilehome park homeowners of an amendment to the park rules and regulations [see [b], below]. The notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

Because an amendment may be implemented only after management has met and consulted with the homeowners [see Civ. Code § 798.25(a), (b)], this form should be used in conjunction with a notice to the homeowners that a meeting will be held to discuss a proposed amendment to the park's rules and regulations [see § 39.234A].

[b] Notice Required for Amendment

Once management has satisfied the meeting requirements applicable to amending a park rule or regulation [see Civ. Code § 798.25(a); see also [c], below], the amendment may be implemented, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner, or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than six months, except that only 60 days' advance written notice is sufficient for amendments that pertain to recreational facilities [Civ. Code § 798.25(b)]. For a homeowner whose tenancy will commence within the required period of notice, written notice of the proposed amendment must be given before the beginning of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.25(c)]. The notice below may be used to give notice of an amendment to new, as well as existing, homeowners.

[c] Meeting Between Management and Homeowners

When park management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations, the management must meet and consult with the homeowners in the park, their representatives, or both, after written notice has been given to all the homeowners in the park 10 days or more before the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.25(a); see § 39.234A]. Any amendment to the park's rules and regulations that creates a new fee payable by the homeowner and that has not been expressly agreed on by the homeowner and management in the written rental agreement or lease is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25(e)].

A meeting is not required when management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation. In such cases, management may implement the amendment, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

§ 39.236 Notice of Violation of Park Rules and Regulations

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of violation of a mobilehome park's rules and regulations. Management should give this notice to a homeowner [Civ. Code §§ 798.9, 798.8 ("homeowner" is a person who has a tenancy in a mobilehome park under a rental agreement with park management)] when the homeowner's tenancy is in danger of being terminated [see [b], below] because the homeowner or a resident of the homeowner's mobilehome has violated a park rule or regulation [Civ. Code § 798.56(d); see Civ. Code § 798.11 ("resident" means a homeowner or other person who lawfully occupies a mobilehome)].

The notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14]. Thereafter, management may terminate the tenancy if the homeowner or resident fails to adhere to the rule or regulation within seven days [see [b], below]. For a notice to terminate a tenancy in a mobilehome park, see § 39.238.

[b] Grounds for Terminating Tenancy

Among other grounds permitted by statute, management may terminate a tenancy if a homeowner or resident fails to comply with (1) a reasonable rule or regulation of the park that is part of the rental agreement, or (2) any amendment to such a rule or regulation [Civ. Code § 798.56(d); see Civ. Code §§ 798.15 (rental agreement must include park rules and regulations), 798.25 (notice required for amendment of park rules or regulations)]. However, any act or omission of the homeowner or resident does not constitute a failure to comply with a reasonable rule or regulation unless and until management gives the homeowner written notice of the alleged rule or regulation violation (this form) and the homeowner or resident fails to adhere to the rule or regulation within seven days [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]. If a homeowner has been given a written notice of an alleged violation of the same rule or regulation on three or more occasions within a 12-month period after the homeowner or resident has violated that rule or regulation, no further written notice is required for a subsequent violation of the same rule or regulation. Management has the obligation to demonstrate that a rule or regulation has in fact been violated [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)].

[c] Injunction Against Recurring Violations

In addition to management's right to terminate a tenancy for a homeowner's violation of park rules and regulations [see [b], above], management may obtain an injunction for a continuing or recurring violation [Civ. Code § 798.88]. The required procedure for obtaining the injunction is outlined in Section 39.121[4].

§ 39.237 Notice of Violation of Lot Maintenance Requirements

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to a homeowner that he or she is in violation of a mobilehome park's lot maintenance requirements. Management may charge a reasonable fee for service relating to the maintenance of the land and premises on which a mobilehome is situated if the homeowner fails to maintain the land or premises in accordance with the park's rules and regulations [see Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36]. However, management cannot take this action unless (1) it provides the homeowner with a written notice (this form) stating the specific condition to be corrected and containing an estimate of the charges to be imposed if the services are performed by management or its agent, and (2) the homeowner fails to comply with the notice within 14 days [Civ. Code §§ 798.15(g), 798.36].

The homeowner's rental agreement must contain a provision describing the foregoing lot maintenance requirements [Civ. Code § 798.15(g)]. For such a provision, see Paragraph 9 of § 39.220[2].

This notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

[b] Termination of Tenancy

Failure by a homeowner to comply with a reasonable rule or regulation of the park that is contained in the homeowner's rental agreement constitutes a ground for termination of the rental agreement by management [see Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]. For a discussion of the procedure required to terminate a tenancy in a mobilehome park, see § 39.121[9].

§ 39.237A Notice for Removal of Personal Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to a homeowner or resident that park management has determined that personal property must be removed from the land and premises on which the mobilehome is situated in order to bring the premises into compliance with park rules and regulations or with the Mobilehome Parks Act or its implementing regulations [see § 39.121[4], P 7]. Management may remove the property to a reasonably secure storage area if the homeowner fails to bring the land or premises into compliance with the park's rules and regulations or the applicable code sections [see Civ. Code § 798.36(a), (b)]. However, management cannot take this action unless (1) it provides the homeowner with a written notice (this form) stating the rule, regulation, or code provision that has been violated, providing a description of the property to be removed, and containing an estimate of the charges to be imposed if the services are performed by management; and (2) the homeowner fails to comply with the notice within 14 days [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(1)]. The homeowner or resident is responsible for reimbursing management the actual, reasonable costs of removing and storing the property [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(2)].

This notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner, or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.14].

[b] Termination of Tenancy

Civ. Code § 798.56(d) based on the same specific violations [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(4)]. Nevertheless, costs incurred by management in correcting the violation associated with the removal and storage of the property are deemed to be reasonable incidental service charges and may be collected pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(e) (termination of tenancy for failure to pay rent, utilities, or other permitted park charges within five days of their due date) if a notice of nonpayment of the removal and storage fees is personally served on the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(2), (3); see § 39.238 (form for termination of tenancy)].

§ 39.238 Notice of Termination of Tenancy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to a homeowner of a mobilehome park that his or her tenancy is being terminated. The management of a mobilehome park may terminate or refuse to renew a tenancy only for one or more reasons specified by statute [see [b], below]. To exercise this right, management must give the homeowner written notice to sell or remove the mobilehome (this form). The notice must specify the period (not less than 60 days) within which the mobilehome must be removed [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. Management must give the notice to the homeowner, and distribute copies to specified persons, in the manner prescribed by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1162; [d], [e], below].

The resident of a mobilehome who remains in the mobilehome park after this notice to sell or remove the mobilehome has been served continues to be subject to the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) and to the rules and regulations of the park, including those pertaining to maintenance of the space [Civ. Code § 798.55(e)]. Any lawful act by the management to enforce the MRL or the rules and regulations of the park may not be deemed or construed to waive or otherwise affect the notice to remove the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.55(f)].

[b] Permissible Grounds for Termination

A tenancy may be terminated by management only for one or more of the following reasons [Civ. Code § 798.56]:

- Failure of the homeowner or resident [see Civ. Code §§ 798.9 ("homeowner" defined), 798.11 ("resident" defined); see also § 39.14[2] (definitions)] to comply with a local ordinance, state law, or regulation relating to mobilehomes within a reasonable time after receipt of a notice of noncompliance from the appropriate governmental agency.

- Conduct by the homeowner or resident, on the park premises, that constitutes a substantial annoyance to other homeowners or residents.

- Conviction of the homeowner or resident for prostitution, an assault with a firearm on another person or on a peace officer or firefighter engaged in the performance of his or her duties [Pen. Code 243(d), 245(a)(2), (b)], lewd or lascivious acts involving children [Pen. Code § 288], arson [Pen. Code § 451], or a felony controlled substance offense if the act resulting in the conviction was committed within the homeowner's mobilehome or anywhere else on the park premises. The tenancy may not be terminated for this reason, however, if the person convicted of the offense has permanently vacated, and does not subsequently reoccupy, the mobilehome.

- Failure of the homeowner or resident to comply with a reasonable park rule or regulation as set forth in the original or amended rental agreement [see Civ. Code § 798.25 (amendment procedure)], if management has complied with, or is exempt from, the statutory notice requirements [see § 39.236].

- Nonpayment of rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges, provided management waits at least five days following the nonpayment (not including the due date) before issuing a three-day notice to pay or vacate [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); but see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5) (three-day notice requirement does not apply if homeowner has already received three of these notices within preceding 12-month period); see also § 39.121[9]].

- Condemnation of the park.

- Change of use of all or any portion of the park, provided proper notice is given [see Civ. Code § 798.56(g) (notice requirements); see also § 39.240].

Any grounds other than those listed above do not constitute the basis for a valid termination of a mobilehome park tenancy. Further, a tenancy may not be terminated for the purpose of making a homeowner's site available for a person who purchased or proposes to purchase, or rents or proposes to rent, a mobilehome from the owner of the park or the owner's agent [Civ. Code § 798.58].

[c] Required Statement of Specific Grounds for Termination

Management must specify in the termination notice the reason for the termination of the tenancy. The reason must be set forth with specific facts so that the date, place, witnesses, and circumstances can be determined. For these purposes, it is not sufficient to simply do either or both of the following: refer to the controlling statute; or recite the language of the governing law [Civ. Code § 798.57].

[d] Service of Notice

The notice of termination must be served on the homeowner in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. Under § 1162, a copy must be delivered to the homeowner personally. If the homeowner is absent from his or her residence and from his or her usual place of business, a copy must be left with someone of suitable age and discretion at either place. In that case, another copy must be mailed to the homeowner at his or her place of residence. If the place of residence and the usual place of business cannot be ascertained or if a person of suitable age or discretion cannot be found at either place, then (1) a copy must be affixed in a conspicuous place on the property, (2) a copy must be delivered to a person residing on the property, if one can be found, and (3) a copy must be mailed to the homeowner at the place where the property is situated. Service on a subtenant may be made in the same manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 1162]. For termination because of a homeowner's nonpayment of rent or other valid charges, the notice of termination may be given at the same time as the required three-day notice to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5) (three-day notice not required for nonpayment if homeowner has been sent three-day notice to pay three or more times within preceding 12-month period)].

[e] Distribution of Copies

A copy of the notice must be sent to the legal owner [see Health & Safety Code § 18005.8 ("legal owner" defined)], each junior lienholder [see Health & Safety Code § 18005.3 ("junior lienholder"defined)], and the registered owner, if other than the homeowner, by United States mail within 10 days after notice to the homeowner. The copy may be sent by regular mail or by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested, at the management's option [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. However, if termination is for nonpayment of rent or other valid charges, this notice must be sent by certified or registered mail return receipt requested within 10 days after notice is sent to the homeowner [Civ. Code §§ 798.55(b), 798.56(e)(5)]. The copies of the notice of termination described above must be addressed to the recipients at the addresses set forth in the registration card [Civ. Code § 798.55(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18091.5 (registration card)].

[f] Effect on Forcible Entry and Unlawful Detainer Statutes

Except as may be otherwise provided in the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL), the provisions of that law do not affect any rights or proceedings authorized by the statutes dealing with forcible entry and unlawful detainer proceedings [Civ. Code § 798.60; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and unlawful detainer statutes)].

As discussed in [a] and [b], above, the MRL permits management of a mobilehome park to terminate a mobilehome tenancy only for one or more specified reasons and only by giving a 60-day written notice to the homeowner to sell or remove his or her mobilehome from the park [Civ. Code § 798.55]. This has been interpreted as placing a restriction on the termination rights of mobilehome landlords. Not only is termination of a mobilehome tenancy contingent on the giving of a 60-day written notice to the homeowner, but the landlord must also rely on one or more of the reasons specified in the MRL [Palmer v. Agee (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 377, 384, 150 Cal. Rptr. 841] . Thus, it would appear that the unlawful detainer proceedings for obtaining possession of real property by giving the homeowner a three-day notice for nonpayment of rent, breach of covenant, or unauthorized subletting, are not applicable to mobilehome tenancies, except to the extent made so by the MRL [see Palmer v. Agee (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 377, 386, 150 Cal. Rptr. 841] .

[g] Grounds for Termination Cannot Be Waived

A rental or lease agreement for space in a mobilehome park may not contain any provision by which the homeowner waives his or her rights under the MRL. A waiver of this type is deemed to be contrary to public policy and void [Civ. Code § 798.19].

[h] Permitted Grounds for Refusal to Renew Tenancy

Park management may refuse to renew a tenancy only for one or more of the same reasons permitted by statute to terminate a tenancy [see [b], [c], above]. Further, management must comply with the same notice of termination requirements [see [a], above] if management determines that it will not renew a homeowner's lease [Civ. Code § 798.55].

§ 39.240 Notice to Homeowners That Management Will Request Change of Use for Park

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to mobilehome park homeowners that the management will be appearing before a local governmental board, commission, or body to request permits for a change of use of the mobilehome park. If the change requires one or more local governmental permits, and the change will result in the termination of one or more tenancies in the park, management must give this type of written notice to homeowners in the park at least 15 days before the appearance before the governmental body [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(1); see Civ. Code § 798.56(g) (tenancy in park may be terminated because of change in use for park)].

This notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

Park management must also give each prospective homeowner, prior to the inception of his or her tenancy, written notice that management is making a change of use request to a local governmental body or that a change of use request has been granted [Civ. Code §§ 798.27(b), 798.56(g)(3)]. With minor modifications, this form may be used to satisfy that requirement.

For coverage of related notices that must be given when there is a change in use of the park, see [d], below.

[b] Required Verification That Park Residents Have Received Notice of Proposed Change in Use

A local agency that receives an application for conversion of a mobilehome park to another use must send the applicant a written notice at least 30 days prior to a hearing or any other action on the application. That notice must inform the applicant of the provisions of Civ. Code § 798.56 (permitted reasons and required procedures for terminating mobilehome park tenancy) and all applicable local requirements that require the applicant to notify residents and mobilehome owners in the park of the proposed change in use. The notice must also indicate the manner in which the applicant must verify that those persons have been notified. Until the applicant has satisfactorily verified that those persons have been notified in the required manner, the local agency cannot conduct a hearing or take any other action on the application [Gov. Code § 65863.8].

[c] Report on Impact of Conversion or Closure of Park

[i] Preparation and Service on Residents

Unless an exception applies [see [iii], below], prior to the conversion of a mobilehome park to another use, or prior to closure of a mobilehome park or cessation of use of the land as a mobilehome park, the proponent of the change in use must file a report with the local legislative body or its delegated advisory agency on the impact of the proposed conversion, closure, or cessation of use on the displaced residents of the park. In determining this impact, the report must address the availability of adequate replacement housing in mobilehome parks and relocation costs [Gov. Code § 65863.7(a)].

If the proposal is for a conversion, the proponent must provide a copy of the report to a resident of each mobilehome in the park at the same time that the 15-day notice of a proposed change in use (this form) is given [see Gov. Code § 65863.7(b); Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(1), (h)]. If the proposal is for a closure or cessation of use, the proponent must provide a copy of the report to a resident of each mobilehome in the park at the same time that the notice of the change is provided to the residents under Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2) [Gov. Code § 65863.7(c); see [d][i], below].

[ii] Review of Report and Mitigation

The local governmental entity must review the impact report prior to any change of use, and may require the proponent, as a condition of the change, to take steps to mitigate any adverse impact of the conversion, closure, or cessation of use on the ability of displaced mobilehome park residents to find adequate housing in a mobilehome park. The cost of these steps must not exceed the reasonable costs of relocation [Gov. Code § 65863.7(e)].

If the impact report is filed in connection with a proposed closure or cessation of use, the person or entity filing the report or any park resident may request, and has a right to, a hearing before the legislative body on the sufficiency of the report [Gov. Code § 65863.7(d)].

[iii] Exceptions

The requirements of Gov. Code § 65863.7 do not apply to a closure or cessation of use of a mobilehome park that results from the entry of an order for relief in bankruptcy [Gov. Code § 65863.7(f)]. Further, they do not apply to the conversion of a mobilehome park to another use regulated under the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq. (Act)], such as a conversion to a mobilehome park subdivision [Gov. Code § 65863.7(a); see § 39.29]. In the latter case, an impact report is still required, but the report is subject to different statutory authority [see Gov. Code § 66427.5; see also § 39.29[2][a]; see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

The standard requirements of Gov. Code § 65863.7 do not apply to a closure, cessation of use, or change of use of a mobilehome park that is the result of (1) a decision by a local governmental entity or planning agency not to renew a conditional use permit or zoning variance under which the mobilehome park has operated, or (2) any other zoning or planning decision, action, or inaction. In this case, the local governmental agency must prepare and distribute the impact report and, if necessary, mitigate the adverse impact of the change [Gov. Code § 65863.7(i)]. The impact report must be given to the homeowners or residents at the same time that the notice of the change in use (this form) is provided to the residents pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2) [Civ. Code § 798.56(h)].

The standard requirements of Gov. Code § 65863.7 apply when the closure, cessation, or change of use is the result of a decision by an enforcement agency [see Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined)] to suspend the permit to operate the mobilehome park [Gov. Code § 65863.7(j)].

[d] Other Required Notices

[i] Termination of Tenancy

After all required permits requesting a change of use have been approved by the local governmental entity [see [a]-[c], above], management must give the homeowners at least six months' written notice that their tenancies are being terminated [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2)]. If the change of use requires no local governmental permits, then management must give the homeowners, at least 12 months prior to management's determination that a change of use will occur, a notice of termination of tenancy that discloses and describes in detail the nature of the change of use [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(2)]. In either case, the notice must be either (1) delivered personally to the homeowner or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.14]. Further, all statutory notice requirements for terminating a tenancy must be followed if a proposed change in use actually occurs [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)(4); see Civ. Code §§ 798.56, 798.57 (notice requirements); see also §§ 39.121[9], 39.238].

[ii] Change Affecting Zoning or Permit

If a change occurs affecting the zoning or use permit under which the park operates or a lease under which the management is a tenant, all homeowners must be given written notice within 30 days of the change [Civ. Code § 798.27(b)]. When the change affects the use of all or any portion of the park, the notice must comply with the requirements of Civ. Code § 798.56(g) (discussed throughout this Section) [Civ. Code § 798.27(b)]. A prospective homeowner must be notified of the change before the beginning of his or her tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.27(b)].

§ 39.241 Information for Prospective Homeowners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is the statutory "Information for Prospective Homeowners" form. Within two business days of receiving a request from a prospective homeowner for an application for residency for a specific space within a mobilehome park, if the management has been advised that the mobilehome occupying that space is for sale, the management must give the prospective homeowner the form set forth below [Civ. Code § 798.74.5(a)]. The form must be in at least 12-point type [Civ. Code § 798.74.5(a)]. On request of the prospective homeowner, management must also provide a copy of park rules and regulations and a copy of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798.74.5(b)].

[2] FORM

Information for Prospective Homeowners

INFORMATION FOR PROSPECTIVE HOMEOWNERS

As a prospective homeowner you are being provided with certain information you should know prior to applying for tenancy in a mobilehome park. This is not meant to be a complete list of information.

Owning a home in a mobilehome park incorporates the dual role of "homeowner" (the owner of the home) and park resident or tenant (also called a "homeowner" in the Mobilehome Residency Law). As a homeowner under the Mobilehome Residency Law, you will be responsible for paying the amount necessary to rent the space for your home, in addition to other fees and charges described below. You must also follow certain rules and regulations to reside in the park.

If you are approved for tenancy, and your tenancy commences within the next 30 days, your beginning monthly rent will be $_____ (must be completed by the management) for space number _____ (must be completed by the management). Additional information regarding future rent or fee increases may also be provided.

In addition to the monthly rent, you will be obligated to pay to the park the following additional fees and charges listed below. Other fees or charges may apply depending upon your specific requests. Metered utility charges are based on use.

(Management shall describe the fee or charge and a good faith estimate of each fee or charge.)

Some spaces are governed by an ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure that limits or restricts rents in mobilehome parks. Long-term leases specify rent increases during the term of the lease. By signing a rental agreement or lease for a term of more than one year, you may be removing your rental space from a local rent control ordinance during the term, or any extension, of the lease if a local rent control ordinance is in effect for the area in which the space is located.

A fully executed lease or rental agreement, or a statement signed by the park's management and by you stating that you and the management have agreed to the terms and conditions of a rental agreement, is required to complete the sale or escrow process of the home. You have no rights to tenancy without a properly executed lease or agreement or that statement. (Civ. Code § 798.75)

If the management collects a fee or charge from you in order to obtain a financial report or credit rating, the full amount of the fee or charge will be either credited toward your first month's rent or, if you are rejected for any reason, refunded to you. However, if you are approved by management, but, for whatever reason, you elect not to purchase the mobilehome, the management may retain the fee to defray its administrative costs. (Civ. Code § 798.74)

We encourage you to request from management a copy of the lease or rental agreement, the park's rules and regulations, and a copy of the Mobilehome Residency Law. Upon request, park management will provide you a copy of each document. We urge you to read these documents before making the decision that you want to become a mobilehome park resident.

Scope

by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.n* Scope

This chapter covers the purchase, sale, registration, titling, and taxation of mobilehomes. The coverage of mobilehome sales includes a consideration of the statutory requirements governing sales by mobilehome dealers and by real estate brokers. Special considerations and requirements for the sale of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome park, including the respective rights and duties of both park management and the selling homeowner, are also covered. Further, the chapter discusses security interests in mobilehomes and foreclosure proceedings.

In addition to the above, this chapter outlines the regulatory requirements for the installation of a mobilehome on a site or foundation system. Applicable law pertaining to the use, maintenance, and occupancy of a mobilehome is also briefly discussed.

Unless otherwise indicated, all requirements for a mobilehome discussed in this chapter also apply to a manufactured home [see § 40.10].

For extensive coverage of mobilehome parks, see Chapter 39, Mobilehome Parks . That chapter examines the regulatory requirements governing the development and construction of a new park, the overall operating requirements for a park, and mobilehome park tenancies.

CHAPTER 40 MOBILEHOMES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.10

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 40.10 "Mobilehome" Includes "Manufactured Home"

The terms "mobilehome" and "manufactured home" are separately but similarly defined under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; see § 40.11[2]], the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; see § 40.12[1]], and the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 40.13]. In 2007 the Legislature amended the Manufactured Housing Act to clarify the distinctions between mobilehomes and manufactured housing [see Health & Safety Code § 18000(b)(4) (changes to Act clarifying meaning of terms "mobilehomes" and "manufactured homes" not intended to effect any substantive change with respect to the treatment of those housing products or to the consumer protections provided for those housing products)]. The Legislature found that confusion exists among consumers, enforcement agencies, lenders, and others in the housing industry regarding the difference between "manufactured housing" and "mobilehomes." It therefore declared that all single-family factory-constructed housing built on or after June 15, 1976, that is in compliance with the standards of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development promulgated under the Federal National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C.§ 5401 et seq.] is manufactured housing or manufactured homes, not "mobilehomes" and, as such, may be subject to additional benefits [Health & Safety Code § 18000(b)]. However, if any codified provision of state law, by its context, requires that the term "mobilehome" applies to mobilehomes or manufactured homes without regard to the date of construction, the codified provision will apply to both mobilehomes, as defined under Health & Safety Code § 18008(a), and manufactured homes, as defined under Health & Safety Code § 18007 [Health & Safety Code § 18008(b)].

Unless otherwise indicated, all statutory and other requirements for a mobilehome discussed in this chapter also apply to a manufactured home. This chapter uses the term "mobilehome" because that is the term commonly used by the industry and the public.

§ 40.11 Manufactured Housing Act of 1980

[1] Scope of Regulation

The Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] (the "Act") is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) and supersedes conflicting local ordinances [Health & Safety Code §§ 18015, 18030.5]. The Act governs the registration and titling of mobilehomes, manufactured homes, commercial coaches, truck campers, and floating homes [Health & Safety Code § 18075(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18075-18124.5].

The Act also regulates sales, escrows, and multiple listings of mobilehomes and manufactured homes by dealers [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18035-18040.5; see also §§ 40.43, 40.120[1]]. Licensing requirements and standards of professional conduct for dealers are also set forth in the Act but are not covered in this chapter. For coverage of dealer licensing, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 77, Mobilehome Dealer Sales and Security Requirements (Matthew Bender).

HCD has adopted regulations that prescribe standards for materials and methods used in manufacturing mobilehomes [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 18025, 18028, 18029.5]. For the most part, the regulations require compliance with the manufacturing standards contained in the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.] and the federal Act's implementing regulations [see Health & Safety Code § 18025.5; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4050]. Additional coverage of these standards is beyond the scope of this chapter.

[2] Definitions

[a] "Mobilehome"

For purposes of the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.], a "mobilehome" is a structure that was constructed prior to June 15, 1976, meets the requirements for a "manufactured home," defined in [b], below [Health & Safety Code § 18008].

The term "mobilehome" does not include a recreational vehicle, a commercial modular, a manufactured home, a multifamily manufactured home, or factory-built housing [Health & Safety Code § 18008; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18007 (manufactured home defined), 18008.7 (multifamily manufactured home defined),18010 (recreational vehicle defined), 18001.8 (commercial modular defined), 19971 (factory-built housing defined)].

[b] "Manufactured Home"

A "manufactured home" is a structure constructed on and after June 15, 1976, transportable in one or more sections, that (1) in the traveling mode is eight body feet or more in width, or 40 body feet or more in length, in the traveling mode, or (2) when erected on site, is 320 or more square feet. Further, it must be built on a permanent chassis and designed to be used as a single-family dwelling with or without a foundation when connected to the required utilities [Health & Safety Code § 18007]. "Manufactured home" includes a any structure that meets all the requirements of this definition except the size requirements and with respect to which the manufacturer voluntarily files a certification and complies with the standards established under the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Act of 1974 [Health & Safety Code § 18007; see 42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.].

§ 40.12 Mobilehome Parks Act

[1] Scope of Regulation

The Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] regulates virtually all operational aspects of a mobilehome park, including its development and construction. The primary coverage in this publication of the MPA is set forth in Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks . However, this chapter discusses the provisions of the MPA that govern the use, maintenance, and occupancy of a mobilehome by its individual owner. These consist mainly of health, safety, and construction standards for the mobilehome and mobilehome accessory structures [see §§ 40.20-40.25], and requirements for the installation of a mobilehome [see § 40.31]. For purposes of the MPA, "mobilehome" and "manufactured home" have the same meaning as under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code §§ 18211, 18210.5; see § 40.11[2]]. For further discussion of the regulatory scope of the Mobilehome Parks Act, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks .

[2] Administration and Enforcement

For mobilehomes located in mobilehome parks, the "enforcement agency" for purposes of the MPA and its implementing regulations is the Department ofHousing and Community Development (HCD), or any city, county, or city and county that has properly assumed responsibility for the enforcement of the MPA in the appropriate local jurisdiction [Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined); see Health & Safety Code § 18300(b)-(f) (assumption of responsibility for enforcement)]. For mobilehomes located outside of a mobilehome park, the local government with jurisdiction must enforce the MPA and its regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18300(f)(2) (no formal assumption of responsibility required)].

The enforcement agency may issue a notice to correct any violation of the MPA disclosed by the agency's inspection of a mobilehome, the lot on which it is located, or any accessory building or structure. The registered owner of the mobilehome must correct the violation before the deadline specified in the notice [see Health & Safety Code § 18420(b) (repealed as of January 1, 2012, unless that date is deleted or extended by statute)]. Uncorrected, willful violations result in civil and criminal penalties [see Health & Safety Code § 18700].

§ 40.13 Mobilehome Residency Law

The Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] governs the overall relationship between management of a mobilehome rental park and the tenants in the park (referred to as "homeowners" under the MRL and in this chapter). It also includes provisions that address the respective rights and duties of park management and a park tenant who desires, during the term of his or her tenancy in the park, to sell his or her mobilehome to a third party [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83]. This chapter covers only those sale-related provisions of the MRL [see §§ 40.44, 40.120[2]]. For full coverage of the MRL, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks .

For purposes of the MRL, a "mobilehome" is a structure designed for human habitation and for being moved on a street or highway under permit pursuant to Veh. Code § 35790 [Civ. Code § 798.3(a); see § 40.30 (permit requirements)]. The term includes a "manufactured home" (as defined in the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980) [see Health & Safety Code § 18007; see also § 40.11[2][b]], but does not include a commercial modular[see Health & Safety Code § 18001.8 ("commercial modular" defined)] or certain recreational vehicles [Civ. Code § 798.3(a); see Civ. Code § 799.29, Health & Safety Code § 18010 ("recreational vehicle" defined); but see Civ. Code § 798.3(b) (term includes recreational vehicles that are used for human habitation and that meet specified occupancy criteria)].

§ 40.14 Federal Regulation

Manufacturers of mobilehomes, as defined in the National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.], are governed by the Act and its implementing regulations [see 24 C.F.R. pts. 3280, 3282]. California manufacturers of mobilehomes, as defined in the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; see Health & Safety Code § 18008; see also § 40.11[2][a]], excluding mobilehomes covered under the federal definition, are governed by the state Act and implementing regulations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4000-4070]. However, the effect of this state regulation is minimal since the applicable state regulations provide that federal standards apply [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4050-4070]. Specific requirements of the federal Act are beyond the scope of this chapter.

§ 40.15 Mobilehome Ombudsman

The Mobilehome Ombudsman assists the public in resolving problems and complaints relating to mobilehomes [see Health & Safety Code § 18150; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 18151-18153]. The Ombudsman is appointed by the governor, and the position exists within the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [see Health & Safety Code § 18150]. Among other things, the Ombudsman helps with problems concerning titling, registration, installation, warranties, certain financing, sales, inspection of homes and parks, mobilehome accessories and improvements, and the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Health & Safety Code § 18151(b); see Civ. Code § 798 et seq. (MRL)]. Further, the Ombudsman must establish procedures to deal with complaints and publish complaint forms and materials that inform the public of his or her functions [Health & Safety Code § 18153]. The Ombudsman is not authorized to arbitrate, mediate, negotiate, or provide legal advice on mobilehome park rent disputes, lease or rental agreements, or disputes arising from lease or rental agreements. However, he or she may provide information on these issues [Health & Safety Code § 18151(c)]. Finally, the Ombudsman must refer any alleged violations of law or regulations within the jurisdiction of HCD to the Division of Codes and Standards [Health & Safety Code § 18151(d)].

§ 40.20 Unlawful Occupancy Uses

It is unlawful for any person to occupy or to cause or permit to be used for occupancy, the following [Health & Safety Code § 18550]:

- Any mobilehome supplied with fuel, gas, water, electricity, or sewage connections, unless the connections and installations conform to regulations enacted under the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] by the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD).

- Any mobilehome that is permanently attached with underpinning or foundation to the ground, except for mobilehomes that bear an HCD insignia or federal label [see § 40.40], and that are installed in accordance with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551; § 40.31[2]].

- Any mobilehome that does not conform to HCD registration requirements [see § 40.50].

- Any mobilehome in an unsafe or unsanitary condition.

- Any mobilehome that is structurally unsound and does not protect its occupants against the elements.

These provisions apply to any mobilehome, whether or not it is located in a mobilehome park [Health & Safety Code § 18550; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1600].

In a mobilehome park, each lot may accommodate only one mobilehome, recreational vehicle, or commercial coach. A self-propelled recreational vehicle or truck mounted camper may be parked beside an occupied mobilehome or recreational vehicle when used as a means of transportation. However, either of these types of transportation vehicles may not be occupied or connected to the lot utility facilities or interconnected with the occupied mobilehome or recreational vehicle [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1118].

§ 40.21 Prohibition Against Waste Discharge

It is unlawful to permit wastewater, sewage, or waste material from any plumbing fixtures in the park, from the park sewage or waste disposal system, or from any plumbing fixtures in a manufactured home, mobilehome, recreational vehicle, accessory structure or permanent building in the park, from being discharged onto or deposited on the surface of the ground [Health & Safety Code § 18554(a)]. The enforcement agency may order the removal, sanitation, or both, of any wastewater, sewage, or waste material discharged onto or deposited on the surface of the ground, or may require the removal, sanitation, or both, of the wastewater, sewage, or waste material, in a manner consistent with the requirements of, and in consultation with, the local health department or agency [Health & Safety Code § 18554(b)]. However, the registered owner of a mobilehome, manufactured home, or recreational vehicle is be responsible for complying with an order, or the correction of a citation, issued by the enforcement agency. The registered owner must also pay the costs of that order whenever wastewater, sewage, or waste material is discharged onto or deposited upon the surface of the ground as a result of leaks from plumbing fixtures in a manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle, or accessory structure, or whenever those leaks come from plumbing on the space or lot that connects the home or recreational vehicle or accessory structure to the park's sewer, septic, or drain system on the home or vehicle of the registered owner's side of the connection, if the discharge or deposit is determined by the enforcement agency to be the fault of the registered owner of the home or recreational vehicle [Health & Safety Code § 18554(c)]. The implementing regulations of the Mobilehome Parks Act [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] contain specific plumbing requirements [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1240-1284].

A "substandard" mobilehome may, after notice and hearing, be abated as a nuisance and ordered removed from its location [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1606-1618; Health & Safety Code § 18605]. A mobilehome that has been ordered to be abated as a nuisance must be removed in a manner consistent with law [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1619(a)]. § 40.23 Accessory Buildings and Structures Mobilehome accessory buildings and structures are subject to building standards adopted by the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1420-1520]. These standards regulate the construction, location, and use of buildings and structures in order to protect the health and safety of the occupants and the public. The appropriate enforcement agency must enforce the standards [Health & Safety Code § 18552; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1004].

Mobilehome accessory buildings and structures include items often affixed to or located near a mobilehome, such as skirting, awnings, carports, and cabanas [see Health & Safety Code § 18008.5 ("manufactured home or mobilehome accessory building or structure" defined)]. Subject to limited exceptions for minor construction [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(d)], a permit must be obtained from the enforcement agency before erecting, constructing, reconstructing, installing, replacing, relocating, or altering a mobilehome accessory building or structure [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(a)]. Standard plan approval is available from HCD for many types of buildings and structures [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1518; see also Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks (coverage of standard plan approvals)]. If the mobilehome is located in a mobilehome park, an application for a permit will not be granted unless the application contains the approval of the park owner or management [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(e)].

§ 40.24 Satisfaction of Compliance Requirements Prior to Sale or Lease of Mobilehome

If a mobilehome was manufactured after September 1, 1958, and contains structural, fire safety, plumbing, heat-producing, or electrical systems and equipment, it is unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale, or lease the mobilehome unless the systems and equipment meet HCD requirements for those systems and equipment and for their installation [Health & Safety Code § 18025(a)]. An exception to this rule exists for mobilehomes manufactured on or after June 15, 1976. Those mobilehomes must comply with the requirements of the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [Health & Safety Code § 18025(b); see 42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq. (federal Act)]. Also, the sale of a used mobilehome by an agent (licensed dealer or salesperson, or a real estate licensee) is subject to separate statutory requirements [Health & Safety Code § 18025(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18046(d) (dealers and salespersons); § 40.41[7]; see also Civ. Code § 2079 (real estate licensees); § 40.45[1]].

A mobilehome manufactured on or after September 1, 1958, that is sold, offered for sale, or leased must bear a federal label or state insignia to signify compliance with applicable manufacturing standards in effect as of the date the mobilehome was manufactured [Health & Safety Code § 18026(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18604 (same requirement applies under Mobilehome Parks Act to rental of mobilehome located in mobilehome park); see § 40.40]. For further discussion of this requirement, see § 40.110.

It is unlawful for any person to alter or convert, or to cause to be altered or converted, the structural, fire safety, plumbing, heat-producing, or electrical systems and installations or equipment of a mobilehome that bears an HCD insignia of approval or federal label [see § 40.40] when the mobilehome is used, occupied, sold, or offered for sale in California, unless the alteration or conversion complies with applicable HCD regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18029]. A permit authorizing any alteration or conversion must be obtained from HCD prior to commencing the work [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4040]. Further, HCD must perform an inspection of the mobilehome to determine whether or not the relevant regulatory requirements have been satisfied [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4010, 4011].

Management may not prohibit a homeowner or resident from installing accommodations for the disabled on the home or the site, lot, or space on which the mobilehome is located, including ramps or handrails on the outside of the home, as long as the installation of those facilities complies with code and any applicable permits have been obtained. However, management may require that such accommodations be removed by the current homeowner at the time the mobilehome is removed from the park or pursuant to a written agreement between the current homeowner and management prior to the completion of the resale of the mobilehome in place in the park. § 40.31 Installation of Mobilehomes

[1] Installation on Foundation Systems Generally

Under the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.], foundation systems for mobilehomes are subject to regulations established by the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD). These regulations apply throughout the state and supersede any ordinance enacted by any local government [Health & Safety Code § 18551; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1333]. HCD may approve alternate foundation systems to those provided by regulation when it is satisfied of equivalent performance [Health & Safety Code § 18551].

A mobilehome may be installed on a foundation system as either a fixture or improvement to real property [see [3], below] or as a chattel (personal property) [Health & Safety Code § 18551; see [2], below]. Installation by either method must comply with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18551(a) (real property), 18551(b), 18613 (personal property)]. The registered owner of a mobilehome in a mobilehome park converted or proposed to be converted to a resident-owned subdivision, cooperative, condominium, or nonprofit corporation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8] may, if he or she is also a participant in the resident ownership, apply for voluntary conversion of the mobilehome to a fixture and improvement to the underlying real property without complying with the statutory requirements otherwise applicable to installation on a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18555(a)]. To be considered a fixture or improvement to real property, a mobilehome must either be installed as such in accordance with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] or be legally converted to that status by compliance with the statutory conversion requirements outlined in Health & Safety Code § 18555 [Health & Safety Code § 18555(i)].

[2] Installation on Foundation System as Personal Property

The installation of a mobilehome on a foundation system as personal property (a chattel) must be in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18613 and is deemed to meet or exceed the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18613.4 [Health & Safety Code § 18551(b)]. A permit must be obtained from the enforcement agency [see § 40.12[2]] each time a mobilehome subject to the MPA is to be located, installed, or reinstalled on any site for human habitation or occupancy as a dwelling [Health & Safety Code § 18613(a); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1324(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18613(a)(2); see also 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1010].

The licensed contractor [see [5], below] engaged to install the mobilehome must obtain a permit, except when the owner of the mobilehome proposes to perform the installation [Health & Safety Code § 18613(b); see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks, § 39.201 (HCD form of application for permit)]. Installation must be completed in accordance with applicable regulations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1320-1368]. The enforcement agency will issue a statement of installation acceptance once the installation has been approved [Health & Safety Code § 18613(e); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1366].

When a foundation is required to be installed for a mobilehome, a separate permit to construct the foundation system must be obtained from the enforcement agency. Plans and specifications, required fees, and other supporting documentation must be submitted with the application for the construction permit [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(b); see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1320-1368 (requirements for installation and facilities)]. For the HCD application that must be used to obtain a construction permit, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks, § 39.200.

For further discussion of the required procedure for installing a mobilehome, see § 40.122.

[3] Installation on Foundation System as Fixture or Improvement to Real Property

[a] Applicable Law

To be considered a fixture or improvement to real property, a mobilehome must either be installed in accordance with the statutory requirements outlined in Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) or be legally converted to that status by compliance with the statutory conversion requirements outlined in Health & Safety Code § 18555 [Health & Safety Code § 18555(i)]. For a discussion of the requirements for conversion of rental parks to resident-owned parks, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks .

[b] Basic Requirements

A mobilehome may not be installed on a foundation system until its owner or a licensed contractor has obtained a building permit from the appropriate enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(1)]. The permit will not be granted unless the owner of the mobilehome presents evidence that he or she either owns the real property on which the mobilehome is to be installed or is a lessee under a qualified lease [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(1)(A)]. Additionally, the permit will not be granted unless the owner of the mobilehome presents satisfactory evidence that the mobilehome is or will be owned free and clear of liens or any encumbrances [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(b)(2)(B)]. These and other requirements for installation on a foundation system as a fixture or improvement to real property are outlined in § 40.122[2].

[c] Effect of Installation

Once the mobilehome is installed on a foundation system in compliance with applicable regulations and the enforcement agency issues a certificate of occupancy, the enforcement agency must then record a document stating that the mobilehome has been affixed to real property [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(2)(A)]. As of that date, registration of the mobilehome is cancelled, subject to HCD's receipt of a copy of the certificate of occupancy and the return of the certificate of title and other indicia of registration for the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(3)]. A mobilehome properly installed on a foundation system then is deemed a fixture and a real property improvement to the real property to which it is affixed [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(4); but see Health & Safety Code § 18555(i) (installation not in compliance with regulations is not deemed fixture or improvement to real property)]. Thereafter, its physical removal from the foundation system, except temporarily for repairs or improvements, is prohibited without the consent of all persons or entities who, at the time of removal, have title to any estate or interest in the real property to which the mobilehome is affixed [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(4), (5)]. For the procedure for removing a mobilehome from its foundation system and the real property on which it is located, see § 40.122[2], P 8.

Once a mobilehome has become a fixture or improvement to real property by being installed in accordance with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] or by being converted to that status [see Health & Safety Code § 18555], it is taxed as all other real property is taxed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 5801(b); see § 40.70]. Also, once installed as or converted to a fixture or improvement to real property, a mobilehome is subject to applicable state-enforced health and safety standards enforced under Health & Safety Code § 18020 [Health & Safety Code §§ 18551(c), 18555(j); see Health & Safety Code § 18025 (standards)].

[4] Restrictions on Local Government's Right to Require Installation on Foundations

A local government cannot require that any mobilehome located either on private property or in a mobilehome park be placed on a foundation system so as to be permanently affixed to real property [Health & Safety Code § 18551(d), (e); see § 40.122[2] (requirements for installation on foundation system)]. Also, a local government may not require, as a condition for the approval of the conversion of a rental park to a resident-owned park, that mobilehomes located there be placed on foundation systems. This limitation does not apply if the rental park to be converted has been operating as a rental park for a period of less than five years [Health & Safety Code § 18551(f)].

[5] "Contractor" Defined

California law imposes licensing requirements on contractors who engage in construction work for $500 or more in compensation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7048; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq.; Ch. 88, Licensing of Contractors].

For these purposes, "contractor" includes any person engaged in the business of the construction, installation, alteration, repair, or preparation for moving of mobilehomes or mobilehome accessory buildings and structures on a site for the purpose of occupancy as a dwelling [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7026.2(a)]. However, "contractor" does not include a seller of a mobilehome who holds a retail mobilehome dealer's license [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18045-18055; see also § 40.41] if the installation of the mobilehome will be performed by a licensed contractor and the seller certifies that fact in writing to the buyer prior to the performance of the installation. The certification must include the name, business address, and contractor's license number of the licensed contractor by whom the installation will be performed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7026.2(c)].

§ 40.40 Federal Label or HCD Insignia of Approval

It is unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale, or lease in California any mobilehome manufactured after September 1, 1958, unless its plumbing, heating, and electrical equipment and installations comply with certain standards. In the case of a mobilehome manufactured on or after June 15, 1976, the relevant standards are those contained in the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [Health & Safety Code § 18025; see 42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq. (federal Act)]. For other mobilehomes, the applicable standards are contained in Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18025].

No mobilehome manufactured on or after September 1, 1958, may be sold, offered for sale, or leased unless it bears either a federal label or HCD insignia of approval, whichever is appropriate [see § 40.110, P 1], to indicate compliance with applicable standards [Health & Safety Code § 18026; see Health & Safety Code § 18604 (same requirement imposed by Mobilehome Parks Act for rental or lease of mobilehome located in park)]. A person who violates this requirement is subject to civil and criminal penalties [Health & Safety Code §§ 18020.5, 18700]. It is also unlawful to remove or to cause the removal of an insignia of approval without prior HCD authorization [Health & Safety Code § 18026].

If a mobilehome does not have the required federal label or state insignia of approval, its owner must apply for one from HCD. HCD will then inspect the mobilehome and notify its owner of any violations. HCD may also post a Prohibited Sales Notice on the mobilehome. Violations must generally be corrected within 20 days. Until all noted violations are corrected, the mobilehome cannot be removed from the location where it was inspected unless HCD is first notified of its intended destination. If HCD has posted a Prohibited Sales Notice on the mobilehome, the notice may not be removed until removal is authorized by HCD [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013].

§ 40.41 Sales of Mobilehomes by Dealers

[1] Governing Law

The sale of new and used mobilehomes by dealers is governed by the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; see § 40.11 (summary of Act)]. In general terms, a "mobilehome dealer" is a person who is engaged in the business of buying and selling mobilehomes for a commission [see Health & Safety Code § 18002.6(a)]. Dealers must be licensed by the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [Health & Safety Code § 18045; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18045-18066.5 (licensing requirements)]. These licensing requirements are not discussed in this chapter but are covered in California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 77, Mobilehome Dealer Sales and Security Requirements (Matthew Bender).

[2] Required Documents and Escrow for Purchase and Sale

In every transaction by or through a dealer to sell (or lease with the option to buy) a new or used mobilehome, the dealer and purchaser must sign a receipt for deposit. The deposit receipt must contain specific information required by statute [see § 40.131]. The dealer must give the purchaser a copy of the deposit receipt, and must retain a copy for at least three years [Health & Safety Code § 18035.1].

Every purchase order, conditional sale contract, or other document evidencing the sale by a dealer of a new or used mobilehome must contain information and notices required by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 18035.3; see also § 40.130]. Further, the dealer must establish an escrow account with an escrow agent [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18035, 18035.2]. The specific requirements governing the escrow and the escrow instructions vary depending on whether the sale involves a mobilehome that is subject to registration or one that is exempt from registration because it will be installed on a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18035 (escrow requirements for mobilehome subject to registration), 18035.2 (escrow requirements for mobilehome installed on foundation system); see also § 40.50 (registration requirements and exemption for mobilehome installed on foundation)]. For additional coverage of the above requirements, see §§ 40.120[1] and 40.130.

The sale by a dealer of a used mobilehome to be installed by the buyer on a foundation system is deemed complete at the close of escrow [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(a), (b)]. Escrow will be deemed closed when [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(b)]:

- A declaration of delivery sale form is executed [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(b)(1); see § 40.207 (form of declaration)];

- All funds in the escrow account, other than escrow fees, amounts for accessories not yet delivered, and any other amounts mutually agreed to by the dealer and buyer, are disbursed; and

- The buyer takes delivery of the mobilehome.

All sales subject to these requirements must meet (1) the escrow requirements in Health & Safety Code § 18035.2, and (2) the reporting requirements set forth in Health & Safety Code § 18080.5 [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(d)]. An escrow agent may not create an escrow instruction in which a purchaser accepts responsibility for the installation of a manufactured home unless and until the escrow agent receives the declaration of delivery form executed by the purchaser. An escrow instruction created before the declaration is received is null and void and unenforceable [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(d)].

[3] Rescission for Inability to Obtain Financing

If a buyer obligates himself or herself to purchase a mobilehome, the seller knows that the buyer intends to obtain financing from a third party without the assistance of the seller, and the buyer is unable to obtain financing within 30 days of the date the contract is executed, the contract is deemed rescinded. All consideration, other than escrow fees, must be returned by the respective parties without demand [Health & Safety Code § 18036].

[4] Truth in Lending Disclosures

A conditional sale contract relating to a new or used mobilehome subject to registration [see § 40.50] must contain all disclosures required by Regulation Z of the Truth in Lending Act [15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.] if Regulation Z [12 C.F.R. pt. 226] otherwise applies to the transaction [Health & Safety Code § 18036.5]. For a discussion of required truth in lending disclosures, see Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales , and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 105, Truth In Lending (Matthew Bender).

[5] Manufactured Home Recovery Fund

[a] Reimbursement for Losses

The Manufactured Home Recovery Fund [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18070-18070.7] exists to reimburse a person for certain losses resulting from his or her purchase or sale of a manufactured home (or mobilehome) [see § 40.11[2][a]] for a personal or family residential or investment purpose. Specifically, the Fund will reimburse such a person if he or she obtains a final judgment against a licensed dealer (or against a manufacturer, salesperson, or other seller or purchaser), and the judgment is based on the grounds of failure to honor warranties or guarantees, fraud, willful misrepresentation, willful violation of any provision of the Manufactured Housing Act [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] or regulations adopted pursuant to the Act, willful violation of the provisions governing mobilehome warranties set forth in Civ. Code § 1797 et seq., or conversion [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(a)]. Reimbursement is also possible when a person purchases a manufactured home from or sells it to a person or entity who is or has been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding, and the person incurs actual and direct losses as a result of thedealer's fraud, willful misrepresentation, conversion, failure to honor warranties or guarantees, willful violation of any provision of the Manufactured Housing Act [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] or regulations adopted pursuant to the Act, or violation of the provisions governing mobilehome warranties set forth in Civ. Code § 1797 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(b)].

Amendments to Health & Safety Code § 18070.3 enacted in 2004 added additional grounds (fraud or misrepresentation related to financial provisions; willful violation of any provision of the Manufactured Housing Act or regulations adopted pursuant to the Act; and willful violation of the provisions governing mobilehome warranties set forth in Civ. Code § 1797 et seq.) and procedures for recovery from the Fund. Those amendments apply to any transaction for which the statute of limitation established by Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(e) had not expired on January 1, 2004 [Health & Safety Code § 18070.7; see [c], below].

[b] Amount of Claim

The total amount of a claim against the Fund may not exceed the amount of actual and direct loss that remains unreimbursed from any source, and the maximum amount that may be recovered under the Fund for any one transaction is $75,000 [see Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(c); see also Health & Safety Code § 18070(b)(1) ("actual and direct loss" defined)]. If the manufactured home was purchased or sold for an investment purpose, the person may receive payment from the Fund for that purpose only once [see Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(c)(3)].

[c] Payment From Fund and Filing of Claim

To make a claim against the Fund, the claimant must have (1) diligently pursued collection efforts against all assets of the judgment debtor, (2) established that he or she is judgment proof, or (3) provided evidence that the costs of collection are likely to be in excess of the amounts that could be collected. This evidence may include (1) a description of the searches and inquiries conducted by or on behalf of the claimant with regard to the judgment debtor's assets liable to be sold or applied to the judgment's satisfaction, (2) an itemized valuation of the assets discovered, and (3) the results of actions by the claimant to have assets applied to satisfy the judgment [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(d)(1)]. If the claim is not based on a final judgment, the claimant must present evidence that either [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(d)(2)]:

- The person or entity is or has been the subject of bankruptcy proceedings and has assigned to the Department of Housing and Community Development any interest in the actual and direct loss in the amount that the claimant recovers from the fund; or

- The claimant's claim is consistent with the Act, and the claimant had presented evidence that the debtor was judgment proof or that the costs of collection were likely to be in excess of the amounts that could be collected.

If the claim is based on a violation of a provision within a warranty [see Civ. Code § 1797 et seq.], the claimant must have provided evidence that he or she has been denied full compensation or correction under the warranty [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(d)(3)].

A claim based on a final judgment must be filed with the Department of Housing and Community Development within two years of the date of the judgment [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(e)(1)]. If the claim is not based on a final judgment, the claim must be filed within two years from the termination of bankruptcy proceedings or two years from the date of sale [see Health & Safety Code § 18070.2(a) (determining sale date)] or within two years of discovery of the violations causing actual and direct losses pursuant to the Act, but no longer than five years after the date of sale, whichever event occurs later [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(e)(2)].

In dispersing moneys from the Fund, the Department may give priority to claimants who have attempted to purchase or sell a manufactured home for a personal or family residential purpose [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(h); see Health & Safety Code § 18070(a)(2)].

[6] Removal of Towbar, Wheels, or Axles

A mobilehome dealer may not remove the towbar, wheels, wheel hubs, or axles from a mobilehome unless the purchase document provides for the removal and states whether the purchase price includes or excludes these items [Health & Safety Code §§ 18550.5(b), 18035.3(a)(1)]. If they are not included in the purchase price, the price of each of these items must be listed in the purchase document [Health & Safety Code § 18035.3(a)(1)]. A manufacturer may deliver a mobilehome to a dealer without these items or may remove or cause those items to be removed only under certain circumstances [Health & Safety Code § 18550.5(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18032].

[7] Inspection and Disclosure Requirements for Resales

If a dealer or salesperson has a written contract with the seller to find or obtain a buyer, or is a dealer or salesperson who acts in cooperation with others to find and obtain a buyer, the dealer or salesperson has a duty to a prospective buyer of a used mobilehome to conduct a reasonably competent and diligent visual inspection of the home offered for sale and to disclose to that prospective buyer all facts materially affecting the value or desirability of the home that an investigation would reveal [Health & Safety Code § 18046(d)]. When a transfer disclosure statement is required under Civ. Code § 1102(b), a dealer or salesperson must discharge this duty by completing the agent's portion of the transfer disclosure statement that a seller prepares and delivers to a buyer for residential property under Civ. Code § 1102 [Health & Safety Code § 18046(d); see Civ. Code § 1102(b) (resale on or after January 1, 2000, of mobilehomes classified as personal property intended for use as a residence, subject to all transfer disclosure statements and related requirements applicable to residential real property); see also Health & Safety Code § 18160].

If no transfer disclosure statement is required, but the transaction is not exempt under Civ. Code § 1102.2 (relating to nonapplication of disclosure requirements), a dealer or salesperson must discharge his or her duty by completing and delivering to the prospective buyer an exact reproduction of Sections III, IV, and V of the transfer disclosure statement required under Civ. Code § 1102(b) [Health & Safety Code § 18046(d)]. The standard of care owed by a dealer to a buyer is the degree of care that a reasonably prudent dealer would exercise and is measured by the degree of knowledge through education, experience, and examination required to obtain a license under the dealer licensing statutes [Health & Safety Code § 18046.1].

For further coverage of applicable disclosure requirements, see § 40.45. The statutory disclosure statement is set forth in § 40.205.

§ 40.41A Sale of Mobilehomes by Contractors

The Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] authorizes licensed general building contractors to buy manufactured homes from the manufacturer for purposes of resale [see Health & Safety Code § 18062.9; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 7057 ("general building contractor" defined); Health & Safety Code § 18007 ("manufactured home" defined)]. This is an exception to the rule that manufactures are prohibited from selling mobilehomes for resale to unlicensed persons since general building contractors are not licensed under the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 for resale [see Health & Safety Code § 18062.8(p)]. However, a manufactured home manufacturer may sell a mobilehome directly to a licensed California general building contractor only if (1) the sale is for five or more mobilehomes in a calendar year; (2) the mobilehomes are delivered directly to a building site and installed on a foundation system in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) [see § 40.31]; and (3) the mobilehomes are installed within a single subdivision, as defined in Gov. Code § 66424, consisting of five or more parcels, and therefore require a tentative and final map in accordance with Gov. Code § 66426 [Health & Safety Code § 18062.9].

Building contractors who resell mobilehomes are subject to the same warranty provisions as manufacturers and dealers who sell directly to buyers [see Civ. Code §§ 1797-1797.7; see also § 40.42[1]].

§ 40.42 Consumer Protection

[1] Statutory Mobilehome Warranty

When a new mobilehome is sold to a buyer, the manufacturer of the mobilehome and the dealer [see Civ. Code § 1797.1(b); Health & Safety Code § 18002.6 ("dealer" defined)] or contractor [see Civ. Code § 1797.1(a); Bus. & Prof. Code § 7057 ("contractor" defined)] who sells it warrant the electrical, plumbing, heating, cooling, fire safety, and structural systems, and all appliances of the mobilehome as installed or manufactured by the contractor, dealer, or manufacturer [Civ. Code §§ 1797, 1797.2(a)]. Further, at the time the sales agreement is signed, the contractor or dealer must deliver to the buyer a separate written warranty document that sets forth the warranty and reprints the provisions of the statutory mobilehome warranty [Civ. Code § 1797.3; see Civ. Code §§ 1797-1797.7 (warranty provisions)]. The warranty document must also contain specific terms required by statute [see Civ. Code § 1797.3]. Among other things, those terms require the buyer or his or her transferee to give the contractor, manufacturer, or dealer written notice of any substantial defects in materials or workmanship that become evident within one year and 10 days from the date of delivery of the mobilehome to the buyer [Civ. Code § 1797.3(b)].

Every contractor or dealer must post a copy of the statutory mobilehome warranty provisions in each area where purchase orders and conditional sales contracts are written [Civ. Code § 1797.5]. Manufacturers, contractors, and dealers must keep records of all actions taken pursuant to the statutory warranty requirements, including all correspondence to or from the buyer, for a period of three years from the date of delivery [Civ. Code § 1797.6].

The contractor, dealer, or manufacturer must complete warranty service to correct all substantial defects within 90 days of receiving the buyer's written notice of the defects (see above), unless there are circumstances that are beyond the control of the contractor, dealer, or manufacturer [Civ. Code § 1797.7].

The statutory mobilehome warranty is in addition to all other rights and privileges that a buyer of a mobilehome has under any other law or instrument [see, e.g., [2], below]. A contractor, manufacturer, or dealer must not require a buyer to waive his or her rights under the mobilehome warranty statutes. Any waiver of this type is deemed contrary to public policy and is unenforceable and void [Civ. Code § 1797.4].

[2] Other Warranties

Under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.], retail sales of consumer goods are, under specified circumstances, accompanied by the following: (1) the manufacturer's and the seller's implied warranty that the goods are merchantable [see Civ. Code § 1792]; (2) the manufacturer's implied warranty of fitness [see Civ. Code § 1792.1]; and (3) the retailer's (or distributor's) implied warranty of fitness [see Civ. Code § 1792.2]. For these purposes, "consumer goods" means any new product or part of a new product that is used, bought, or leased for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, except for clothing and consumables [Civ. Code § 1791(a)]. Consequently, retail sales of mobilehomes by dealers are subject to the Act. For further discussion of this Act and the warranties under it, see Ch. 92, Service Contracts , and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks (Matthew Bender).

Alternative implied warranties of merchantability [see Com. Code § 2314(1), (2)] and fitness for purpose [see Com. Code § 2315] apply when the mobilehome sales transaction is not a retail sale handled by a licensed dealer. For discussion of those warranties, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks (Matthew Bender).

§ 40.43 Sales of Mobilehomes by Real Estate Brokers

A person licensed as a real estate broker may sell or offer to sell, buy or offer to buy, solicit prospective purchasers of, solicit or obtain listings of, or negotiate the purchase, sale, or exchange of, any mobilehome only if the following apply [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10131.6(a), 10131.7(a)]: (1) the mobilehome has been registered under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; see § 40.50 (general registration requirements)], or has become a fixture of real property by being permanently installed on a foundation system in accordance with applicable statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551; § 40.122 (requirements for installation on foundation system)]; and (2) the mobilehome is either located in an established mobilehome park [see Health & Safety Code § 18214 ("mobilehome park" defined)] or in another location permitted by local zoning ordinance or permit, provided its presence there has been authorized or its continued presence and that use would be authorized for a total and uninterrupted period of at least one year. For these purposes, a "mobilehome" is a structure transportable in one or more sections, designed and equipped to contain not more than two dwelling units to be used with or without a foundation system [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(c)]. This definition includes a manufactured home [see Health & Safety Code § 18007 ("manufactured home" defined)], but does not include a recreational vehicle, a commercial modular, or factory built housing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(c); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18010, 18001.8, 19971 (respective terms defined)].

For a discussion of the special duties of a real estate licensee who participates in the purchase or sale of a mobilehome, see § 40.204. For an illustrative mobilehome purchase contract and receipt for deposit that may be used when the purchase and sale of a mobilehome involves real estate brokers, see § 40.204.

§ 40.44 Sale of Mobilehome Located in Mobilehome Park

The Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see § 40.13; see also Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks] contains several requirements governing the sale of a mobilehome that is located in a mobilehome park. Most provisions of the MRL apply only to "rental" parks and not to resident-owned parks [see Civ. Code § 798.4 ("mobilehome park" means a rental park); see also Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks].

For a subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes or other resident-owned park, the applicable provisions governing sale of the mobilehome and other matters depend on whether the mobilehome resident has or does not have an ownership interest in the space, subdivision, cooperative, or condominium in which their mobilehome is located or installed. For those residents who do not have an ownership interest, general provisions of the MRL apply [Civ. Code § 799.1; see Civ. Code §§ 798-798.88 (general provisions)]. If the resident does have an ownership interest, different separate statutory provisions apply to the mobilehome's sale and other matters [Civ. Code § 799.1; see Civ. Code §§ 799-799.10].

Applicable sales requirements impose restrictions on and grant specific rights to both park management and the selling homeowner. For example, park management may reserve the right to approve the purchaser of the mobilehome, but is limited as to the grounds it may use to reject a prospective purchaser [see Civ. Code §§ 798.74, 799.4]. The right of a homeowner to sell his or her mobilehome and to list or advertise it for sale is also covered [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 798.70, 798.71].

An escrow, sale, or transfer agreement involving a mobilehome located in a rental park at the time of the sale, when the mobilehome is to remain in the park, must contain a copy of either a fully executed rental agreement or a statement signed by the park's management and the prospective homeowner indicating that the parties have agreed to the terms and conditions of a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.75(a)]. If the purchaser fails to execute the rental agreement, the purchaser does not have any rights of tenancy in the park [Civ. Code § 798.75(b)].

For further discussion of these requirements and others relating to the sale of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome park, see § 40.120[2].

§ 40.45 Disclosure Requirements

[1] Transfer Disclosure Statement

[a] Requirement to Complete and Deliver Statement

The transfer or sale of a manufactured home or mobilehome in a mobilehome park is subject to the real estate transfer disclosure requirements and provisions set forth in Civ. Code § 1102 et seq. Those requirements include, but are not limited to, the use of the Manufactured Home and Mobilehome Transfer Disclosure Statement [Civ. Code § 1102.6d], discussed below [Civ. Code § 798.74.4].

The seller of a mobilehome classified as personal property and intended for use as a residence must complete and deliver a transfer disclosure statement form to prospective purchasers on all resale transactions on or after January 1, 2000 [Civ. Code § 1102(b); see Civ. Code § 1102.6d; see also § 40.205 (statutory form)]. The only exceptions to this requirement are (1) when a statutory exception applies [see Civ. Code § 1102.2] and (2) when the mobilehome is located in a common interest development [Civ. Code § 1102.6d; see Civ. Code § 1351 et seq. (common interest development)]. Any waiver of the requirement to complete and deliver a disclosure statement, or of any of the other disclosure requirements, is void as against public policy [Civ. Code § 1102(c)].

Any dealer, salesperson, real estate broker, or salesperson representing the seller or obtaining the offer must complete a portion of the statutory transfer disclosure statement [Civ. Code §§ 1102.1(c), 1102.6d; see Health & Safety Code § 18046(d); § 40.41[7] (dealers and salespersons); see also Civ. Code § 2079 (real estate brokers and salespersons)].

[b] Required Contents of Statement

There is a statutory form for use to satisfy the disclosure requirement [see Civ. Code §§ 1102(b), 1102.6d; see also § 40.205[2] (statutory form)]. The statutory form must indicate all of the following [see Civ. Code § 1102.6d]:

- Whether the property has certain items;
- Whether any of those items are not in operating condition;
- Whether the seller is aware of any significant defects or malfunctions in certain structural components of the property; and
- Whether the seller is aware of various other restrictions or problems with the property.

[2] Mobilehome Park Disclosure Form

The management of a mobilehome park must provide a prospective homeowner with a completed written disclosure form concerning the park at least three days before execution of a rental agreement or statement signed by the park management and the prospective homeowner that the parties have agreed to the terms and conditions of the rental agreement. The management must update the information on the disclosure form annually, or, in the event of a material change in the condition of the mobilehome park, at the time of the material change in that condition [Civ. Code § 798.75.5; see § 40.206 (statutory form)].

[3] Natural Hazards Disclosures

On resale transactions on or after January 1, 2000, a transferor of a mobilehome that is classified as personal property intended for use as a residence must make certain natural hazards disclosures to the prospective transferee [see Civ. Code § 1103(b), (c); see also Civ. Code § 1103.2(a) (statutory form)]. The disclosures must be made if the property is located in specified areas that have been designated as hazardous, including all of the following [see Civ. Code § 1103(b), (c)]:

- A special flood hazard area;
- An area of potential flooding;
- A very high fire hazard severity zone;
- A wildland area with substantial forest fire risk;
- An earthquake fault zone; and
- A seismic hazard zone.

For detailed coverage of the natural hazards disclosures, including the statutory form, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

[4] Zoning for Industrial Use

A seller of a mobilehome who has actual knowledge that the property is adjacent to, or zoned to allow, an industrial use (as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 731a), or affected by a nuisance created by such a use, must give written notice of this knowledge as soon as practicable before close of escrow [Civ. Code § 1102.17].

[5] Former Ordnance Locations

A seller of a mobilehome who has actual knowledge of any former federal or state ordnance locations within the neighborhood area must give written notice of that knowledge as soon as practicable before transfer of title [Civ. Code §

1102.15]. "Former federal or state ordnance locations" means an area identified by an agency or instrumentality of the federal or state government as an area once used for military training purposes which may contain potentially explosive munitions. "Neighborhood area" means within one mile of the residential real property [Civ. Code § 1102.15].

The disclosure requirement for former ordnance locations does not limit or abridge any obligation for disclosure created by any other law or that may exist to avoid fraud, misrepresentation, or deceit in the transfer transaction [Civ. Code § 1102.15].

§ 40.50 Basic Registration Requirements

Mobilehomes must, as a general rule, be registered annually with the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5; see § 40.121 (procedural guide for registration and titling of mobilehomes); see also § 40.210 (HCD application for original registration)]. However, there are a number of exceptions to this annual registration requirement [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18075.5, 18075.6; see also § 40.111, P 2 (list of exceptions)]. For example, after the original registration of a mobilehome subject to local property taxation [see § 40.70], that mobilehome need not be registered again except on its subsequent sale, resale, or transfer of title [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(a)]. For these purposes, a "transfer of title" includes any change, addition, or deletion of one or more registered owners, legal owners, or junior liennholders [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(a)].

Mobilehomes installed or to be installed on a foundation system as a fixture or improvement to real property in conformance with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] are exempt from registration so long as they remain affixed to the foundation system. If the mobilehome is removed from the foundation system for any purpose other than dismantling or reinstalling a foundation system, it is immediately subject to registration [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b)].

§ 40.51 Issuance of Title and Subsequent Changes in Interest

When a mobilehome is registered for the first time, HCD establishes a permanent title record for it and issues a certificate of title to the legal owner, a registration card to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18091, 18091.5], and a registration decal that must be affixed to the outside of the mobilehome in a designated location [see Health & Safety Code § 18092]. Thereafter, HCD must be notified in writing whenever any registered or legal owner or junior lienholder does any of the following: (1) changes his or her permanent address [Health & Safety Code § 18098]; (2) moves the mobilehome [see Health & Safety Code § 18100]; or (3) transfers his or her title or interest in the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5]. HCD is authorized to set up a system for the electronic transmission and receipt of certificates of title [see Health & Safety Code § 18090.6]. § 40.61 Perfection and Priority of Security Interests

As between holders of perfected security interests, the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) designates the holder as either the legal owner or a junior lienholder [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(f); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18005.3 ("junior lienholder" defined), 18005.8 ("legal owner" defined)]. These designations are indicated on the permanent title record for the mobilehome, as well as on the certificate of title and registration card issued for the mobilehome [see Health & Safety Code § 18090.5]. For coverage of the procedure for perfecting a security interest held by a legal owner or junior lienholder, see § 40.222[1][b].

Rules of priority for conflicts between perfected and unperfected security interests and for conflicts involving lien creditors [see Health & Safety Code § 18106(a) ("lien creditor" defined)] are specified by statute [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18105, 18106]. § 40.62 Protection of Security Interests

[1] Consent Required Before Moving Mobilehome

No person may move, permit to be moved, or cause to be moved, any mobilehome from the location indicated on the registration card without first obtaining the written consent of the legal owner and each junior lienholder, if any [Health & Safety Code § 18099.5(a)]. If the secured party neither gives nor withholds its consent within 30 days of a properly mailed request, the person proposing the move may move the mobilehome, provided he or she notifies HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18099.5(b)]. For further discussion of these requirements, see § 40.121[2].

[2] Termination of Homeowner's Tenancy

If management gives a homeowner in the park a notice of termination of tenancy, management must also give a copy of the notice to the following people (if other than the homeowner): the legal owner of the mobilehome, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner [Civ. Code § 798.55(b); for an illustrative notice of termination and additional coverage of these terminations, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks]. Thereafter, the legal owner and each junior lienholder must send management, within the time permitted by statute, a responsive written notice that does one of the following: (1) offers to sell the obligation secured by the mobilehome to park management; (2) notifies park management of the lienholder's intention to foreclose on its security interest in the mobilehome; or (3) requests that management pursue the termination of tenancy and offers management reasonable reimbursement of attorneys' fees and costs in that action [see Civ. Code § 798.56a(a); see also § 40.220 (illustrative notice)]. If the legal owner or junior lienholder offers to sell the secured obligation to management but park management rejects the offer, the secured creditor must indicate its choice of one of the other options described above [Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)].

If a legal owner or junior lienholder properly elects to foreclose on its security interest or requests that management terminate the homeowner's tenancy, and the legal owner or junior lienholder has the right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party in accordance with provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], that person or entity has the right to keep the mobilehome on the site within the mobilehome park until it is resold, provided the person or entity satisfies the defaulting homeowner's monetary responsibilities to the park, performs necessary maintenance and repairs for the mobilehome until the time the mobilehome is resold, and performs certain acts, which include the satisfaction of the defaulting homeowner's monetary responsibilities to the park and the performance of necessary maintenance and repairs for the mobilehome until it is resold [Civ. Code §§ 798.56a(b), 798.79(b)]. If the legal owner or junior lienholder does not give the required responsive notice to park management, or gives the notice but fails to perform the acts discussed above, that person or entity has no right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)]. For further discussion of these requirements and the park management's remedies for a lienholder's noncompliance, see § 40.220.

§ 40.63 Release of Liens

If a legal owner or junior lienholder no longer holds an outstanding obligation or a commitment to make advances, incur obligations, or otherwise give value to be secured by a mobilehome, that person or entity must release the lien. For a legal owner, this is done by appropriately signing the certificate of title for the mobilehome and forwarding the certificate to HCD with the required fees [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(4)]. A junior lienholder must properly execute its junior lienholder registration card and forward the card to HCD with the appropriate fees [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(5)].

If a secured party fails to release the lien as described above and subsequently receives a written demand for release from the registered owner, the lien must be released within 20 days of the written demand (except when there is reasonable cause for noncompliance). Otherwise, the secured party is liable to the registered owner for all actual damages suffered by the registered owner by reason of the secured party's failure to release the lien [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(c)].

§ 40.64 Foreclosure of Security Interests

[1] Notice of Default Required Before Sale

Unless the registered owner of a mobilehome has abandoned the mobilehome or has voluntarily surrendered its possession to a foreclosing creditor, the creditor must give a notice of default, in substantially the form prescribed by statute, to the registered owner prior to foreclosing [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)]. For a form of notice and a discussion of the requirements for its content and manner of service, see § 40.223. That section also discusses the registered owner's right to cure the default, the creditor's right of sale, and the required distribution of proceeds resulting from a sale.

[2] Sale of Abandoned Mobilehomes

A secured party may not foreclose on an abandoned mobilehome until it first gives the registered owner a notice of belief of abandonment, in the form and manner required by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)]. A mobilehome is deemed abandoned only if the registered owner fails to respond to the secured party's notice of belief of abandonment within the deadline prescribed by statute. A foreclosing creditor may give a notice of belief of abandonment only when it reasonably believes that the registered owner has abandoned the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)]. For further discussion of these requirements and an illustrative notice of belief of abandonment, see § 40.224.

[3] Special Requirements for Foreclosure if Mobilehome Is Located in Mobilehome Park

Any legal owner or junior lienholder who forecloses on his or her security interest in a mobilehome [see Civ. Code § 798.3 ("mobilehome" defined)] located in a mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 798.4 ("mobilehome park" defined)] has the right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party in accordance with the provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], but only if the foreclosing creditor satisfies all of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities to the management regarding rent, utilities, and reasonable maintenance of a mobilehome and its premises as they accrue through the date the mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.79(a)]. The secured creditor must take additional steps to preserve this right if the mobilehome is the subject of a notice of termination served on its tenant by park management [Civ. Code §§ 798.79(b), 798.56a; see § 40.220].

[4] Prohibition Against Deficiency Judgment

A deficiency judgment is not permitted following the sale of a mobilehome for failure of the purchaser to complete the sales contract given to the seller by the purchaser to secure payment of the balance of the purchase price of the mobilehome. This rule does not apply if there is substantial damage to the mobilehome (other than wear and tear from normal usage) [Health & Safety Code § 18038.7; see Civ. Code § 2983.8].

A mobilehome becomes subject to local property taxation [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 5800 et seq. (The Manufactured Home Property Tax Law)] upon its original registration with the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) and the issuance of a certificate of title by HCD in the name of a consumer, a dealership, or some other party [Health & Safety Code § 18084.7; see § 40.50]. If the mobilehome has become real property by being affixed to land on a permanent foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18551; see also § 40.122[2]], it is taxed as all other real property is taxed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 5801(b)(1)]. A movable mobilehome will be taxed as personal property if it was first sold new on or after July 1, 1980, or if the owner requests that it be taxed as personal property rather than as a vehicle [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 5801(a), 5810]. Mobilehomes sold before that date and not taxed as real or personal property under the foregoing provisions are taxed as vehicles [*see Rev. & Tax. Mobilehomes not subject to local real or personal property taxation [see § 40.70] are subject to annual vehicle licensing and an annual vehicle license fee after they have been registered for the first time in the name of a consumer [Health & Safety Code §§ 18115, 18116; *see Rev. & Tax. The Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) administers the annual vehicle licensing and taxation functions [Health & Safety Code § 18076.5]. The amount of the annual license fee is 2 percent of the market value of the mobilehome, as determined by HCD pursuant to statute [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18115-18116]. § 40.72 Sales and Use Taxes

Generally, a sales or use tax applies to the sale or use of tangible personal property [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6051, 6201]. However, the gross receipts from the sale or use of used mobilehomes that are subject to real or personal property taxation [see § 40.70] are exempt from sales or use taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6379; Health & Safety Code § 18116.5 (use taxes)]. Sales or use taxes are imposed on the sale of used mobilehomes that are not subject to local personal or real property taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6051, 6201, 6379].

The sale or use of a new mobilehome is subject to sales or use taxes whether the mobilehome is sold by a retailer to a purchaser for installation on a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18551] for occupancy as a residence (and thereafter subject to real property taxation) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.8(a)], or for installation on a mobilehome park lot [Health & Safety Code § 18613] for occupancy as a residence [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.9(a)]. For both of these categories of new mobilehomes, the tax is imposed on a percentage of the sales price [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6012.8(a), 6012.9(a)].

The gross receipts from the subsequent sale or use of any used mobilehome, the initial retail sale of which qualified for the imposition of sales or use taxes, are exempt from further sales or use taxation [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6012.8(d), 6012.9(d)]. The sale of a mobilehome that is subject to registration is exempt from sales or use taxation if (1) the seller is the parent, grandparent, child, grandchild, spouse, or sibling of the buyer or (2) the sale is to a revocable trust and certain specified conditions are met [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6285].

For purposes of the application of sales and use taxes to mobilehomes, "gross receipts" from the sale of a used mobilehome [see Health & Safety Code § 18014] and the "sales price" of a used mobilehome, sold, stored, used, or otherwise consumed in California must be based on the current value of the used mobilehome, as specified by a recognized value guide, whenever (1) a registered or legal owner sells a used mobilehome through a licensed dealer and not on the dealer's own account or through a licensed real estate broker [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6], or (2) a purchaser of a used mobilehome is required to pay the use tax to the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.2(a)]. If the value guide does not specify the model or manufacturer of a used mobilehome, the value of the used mobilehome must be established by reference to the highest value in the value guide according to age and size or the actual sales price, whichever is less. If the actual sales price of any used mobilehome is less than the current applicable value specified in the value guide, the "sales price" and "gross receipts" must be based on the actual sales price of the mobilehome as evidenced by the purchase documents. The State Board of Equalization must promulgate regulations approving value guides for use within California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.2(a)].

"Gross receipts" from the sale of a new or used mobilehome must exclude the amount of separately stated escrow fees on the sale of the mobilehome [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.2(b)]. "Actual sales price" means the total contract price, including the value of the mobilehome, in-place location, awning, skirting, carport, patio, landscaping, shrubs, unattached furnishings, or other items not part of the mobilehome, and documentation fees [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.2(c)].

The term "mobilehome," for purposes of sales and use taxation, means a mobilehome as defined under the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 and the Mobilehome Parks Act [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6012.8(b), 6012.9(b); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18008, 18211; see also § 40.11[2][a] (applicable definition of "mobilehome")]. A "used mobilehome" is a mobilehome that was previously sold and registered or titled with HCD, or with an appropriate agency or authority, any other state, the District of Columbia, a territory or possession of the United States, or a foreign state, province, or country [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6379; see Health & Safety Code § 18014].

18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.110

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 40.110 Determinations for Purchase and Sale

1. If mobilehome was manufactured on or after September 1, 1958, does it have affixed to it, either [Health & Safety Code § 18026]:

a. A federal HUD label; or

NOTE:
Mobilehomes manufactured on or after June 15, 1976, are required to have a label that signifies compliance with federally prescribed standards under the National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [24 C.F.R. §§ 3282.205, 3282.362; 42 U.S.C. §§ 5401-5426 (Act); see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4009(b), 4031(e), 4032(f), 4034.3]. The labels are commonly referred to as a HUD label because the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) administers the federal act. A dealer may not lawfully sell a mobilehome that is required to bear, but does not bear, a HUD label [see 24 C.F.R. § 3282.252].

b. Insignia of approval issued by Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD)?

NOTE:
All mobilehomes manufactured on or after September 1, 1958, which are sold, offered for sale, rented, or leased in California must bear a federal label [see P 1a, above] or an insignia of approval issued by HCD, whichever is appropriate, to indicate compliance with HCD regulations which were in effect on the the date of manufacture [Health & Safety Code § 18026]. Since the federal label is required for all mobilehomes manufactured on or after June 15, 1976, the HUD approval insignia must be obtained and affixed for all mobilehomes manufactured between September 1, 1958, and June 14, 1976 [see 25 Cal.

Code Reg. §§ 4034.5(a), 4033(a)(4)]. Violators of this requirement are subject to criminal and civil penalties [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18020.5, 18021].

2. Are any of following involved in sale:

a. Licensed mobilehome dealer;

b. Real estate broker; or

c. General building contractor.

NOTE:

For the requirements that apply to dealer sales of a mobilehome, see §§ 40.120 and 40.130. Special requirements for the sale of a mobilehome by a real estate broker are discussed in § 40.204. For a discussion of the special requirements applicable to the sale of a mobilehome by a general building contractor, see § 40.41A.

3. If mobilehome is located in mobilehome park:

a. Does lease or rental agreement require park management's prior approval of prospective purchaser?

b. If so, has management given this approval?

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.111

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 40.111 Determinations for Registration

1. Does mobilehome fall within definition of "mobilehome" set forth in Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [see Health & Safety Code § 18008; see also Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. (Act); § 40.11[2][a]]?

NOTE:
Under the Act, a mobilehome is a structure that meets the requirements of a "manufactured home" [Health & Safety Code § 18008]. For the Act's definition of "manufactured home" [see Health & Safety Code § 18007], see § 40.11[2][b].

2. If mobilehome is subject to Act, is it exempt from requirements governing original and/or annual registration because it meets any of following criteria?

NOTE:
The Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 (Act) [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] requires the "original" registration of most mobilehomes subject to the Act [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18075(a), 18085; see also Health & Safety Code § 18008 ("mobilehome" defined); § 40.11[2][a]]. Further, these mobilehomes must, as a general rule, be registered annually [see Health & Safety Code § 18075(a)]. However, there are a number of exceptions (listed below) to these registration requirements. For additional coverage of registration and the exceptions, see § 40.210.

a. It is subject to local property taxation [see § 40.70] but is not permanently installed on foundation system as fixture or improvement to real property [Health & Safety Code §

18075.5(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a); see also § 40.122 (requirements for installation on foundation system)].

NOTE:
These mobilehomes must be originally registered, and then registered again, at the time of any subsequent sale, resale, or transfer of title [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(a); see § 40.121[2]* (transfer of registration and title)].

b. It has been or will be installed on foundation system as fixture or improvement to real property [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b); see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a); see also § 40.122 (requirements for installation on foundation system)].

NOTE:
The mobilehome will be exempt from registration as long as it remains affixed to the foundation system. If it is removed from the foundation system for any purpose other than dismantling or reinstallation on another system, it must be immediately registered [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b)].

c. It is new, previously unregistered, unoccupied, and part of inventory held for sale by manufacturer or dealer in course of business [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(f)].

NOTE:
This type of mobilehome is exempt from registration [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(f)].

d. It is installed on a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] and is being used as office at manufacturer's, distributor's, or dealer's established place of business [Health & Safety Code § 18075.6].

NOTE:
This type of mobilehome is exempt from registration [Health & Safety Code § 18075.6].

e. It is owned by member of armed forces and displays valid registration issued by [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(d)]:

NOTE:
This type of mobilehome is exempt from registration. The exemption applies whether or not the owner is a resident of California [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(d)].

(1) Owner's home state of residence; or

(2) Foreign jurisdiction where owner was regularly assigned and stationed for duty by competent military orders at time registration was issued.

NOTE:
"Competent military orders" do not include military orders for leave, for temporary duty, or for any other assignment of any nature requiring the owner's presence outside the foreign jurisdiction where the owner was regularly assigned and stationed for duty [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(d)].

f. It is owned by person who enters California to establish or reestablish residence or accept employment following discharge from United States armed forces [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(e)].

NOTE:

The following conditions and limitations apply to this exception from registration: (1) the person must have owned the mobilehome at the time of his or her discharge; (2) the owner must have registered the mobilehome in a foreign jurisdiction where his or her presence was required by military orders; and (3) the exemption lasts until the expiration of the registration period current at the time of discharge and entrance into California [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(e)].

§ 40.120 Procedural Guide to Sale of Mobilehomes

NOTE:

This Guide outlines the special statutory requirements that apply (1) if a mobilehome is sold by a licensed dealer [see [1], below], or (2) if a mobilehome is sold while located in a mobilehome park [see [2], below]. For a discussion of the special requirements that apply to the sale of a mobilehome by a licensed real estate broker, see § 40.204. For a discussion of the special requirements applicable to the sale of a mobilehome by a general building contractor under Health & Safety Code § 18062.9, see § 40.41A.

[1] Sale by Mobilehome Dealer

NOTE:

In general terms, a "mobilehome dealer" is a person in the business of buying and selling mobilehomes for a commission [see Health & Safety Code § 18002.6(a)]. Such a person must obtain a dealer's license from the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18045-18066.5 (license requirements)].

For these purposes, "dealer" does not include licensed real estate brokers who buy, sell, list, or negotiate the purchase, sale, or exchange of mobilehomes under Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6 [Health & Safety Code § 18002.6(b)(7)]. For a discussion of the special requirements that apply to the sale of mobilehomes by brokers, see § 40.204.

Most of the requirements discussed below apply not only to a sales transaction but also to a transaction involving a lease with an option to buy [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code §§ 18035, 18035.1; PP 9-12, below]. Most of them do not apply to dealer sales of mobilehomes to the federal government, the State of California, any agency or political subdivision of California, or any city, county, or city and county [Health & Safety Code § 18035.4; see, e.g., Health & Safety Code §§ 18035, 18035.1, 18035.2].

1. Inform client that contract or purchase order will be deemed rescinded, and all consideration (other than escrow fees) must be returned by respective parties, if all of the following occur [Health & Safety Code § 18036]:

a. Buyer becomes obligated to buy mobilehome;

b. Seller knows that buyer intends to obtain financing from third party without seller's assistance; and

c. Buyer cannot obtain that financing within 30 days of executing contract or purchase order.

2. Review or draft conditional sale agreement [see § 40.130 (statutory requirements)].

3. Review or draft deposit receipt [see Health & Safety Code § 18035.1; see also § 40.131 (statutory requirements)].

4. Contemporaneous with or prior to receipt of any cash or cash equivalent from buyer, have dealer and buyer execute the following [Health & Safety Code §§ 18035(a), 18035.1]:

NOTE:

For purposes of the above requirement, "cash equivalent" means property other than cash. If an item of cash equivalent is, due to its size, incapable of physical delivery to the escrow holder, the property may be held by the dealer for the purchaser until close of escrow and, if the property has been registered with the HCD or the Department of Motor Vehicles, its registration certificate and (if available) its certificate of title must be delivered to the escrow holder [Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)(3)].

a. Purchase order, conditional sale contract, or other document evidencing purchase.

b. Deposit receipt.

NOTE:

The dealer must retain a copy of the deposit receipt for at least three years [Health & Safety Code § 18035.1; see § 40.131]. A copy of the purchase contract and deposit receipt must be given to the buyer [see Health & Safety Code § 18035.1].

4A. If sale involves used mobilehome that is to be installed by buyer on a foundation, have buyer review and sign Declaration of Delivery Sale [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(b); see § 40.207 (form)].

NOTE:

An escrow agent may not create an escrow instruction in which a purchaser accepts responsibility for the installation of a manufactured home unless and until the escrow agent receives the declaration of delivery sale form executed by the purchaser. An escrow instruction created before the declaration is received is null and void and unenforceable [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(d)].

5. If mobilehome installation is included in sale, have dealer furnish buyer with certificate stating that installation will be performed by licensed contractor and containing following information regarding contractor [Bus. & Prof. Code §

7026.2(c)]:

a. Name.

b. Business address.

c. Contractor's license number.

NOTE:
Any person engaged in the business of installing mobilehomes is a "contractor" who must have a contractor's license [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7026.2(a)]. A licensed mobilehome dealer is not considered a contractor for these purposes if installation of a mobilehome sold by the dealer is performed by a licensed contractor and the dealer certifies that fact in writing to the buyer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7026.2(c)].

6. Have parties determine or select the following:

a. Opening and closing dates for escrow.

b. For used mobilehome, items that will be prorated, e.g.:

(1) Property taxes.

(2) Interest on any existing assumable loan.

(3) Rental of lot on which mobilehome is located.

(4) Fire and peril insurance.

c. Escrow agent.

NOTE:
A dealer must establish an escrow account with an escrow agent [Health & Safety Code §§ 18035(a)(1), 18035.2; see Health & Safety Code § 18035(g); see also Health & Safety Code § 18003.5 ("escrow agent" means person, firm, or corporation authorized by law to conduct escrows required by Health & Safety Code § 18035)]. A dealer or seller may not establish an escrow account in an escrow company in which the dealer or seller has more than a 5 percent ownership interest [Health & Safety Code § 18035(h)]. This restriction does not apply to a dealer who is selling a new or used mobilehome that is to be installed on a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18035.2; see also P 8, below].

NOTE:
At the opening of escrow, the escrow agent must give notice of the right to request that funds be held in escrow in the event of a dispute [Health & Safety Code § 18035(f)]. On receiving written notice of a dispute from a party to the escrow, the escrow agent must inform the party of his or her right to hold funds in escrow by submitting a written request. On receipt by the escrow agent of a party's written request to hold funds in escrow, all funds denoted as deposit must be held in escrow until a release is signed by the disputing party, or pursuant to new written escrow instructions signed by the parties involved, or pursuant to a final order for payment or division by the court. Any other funds, other than escrow fees, must be returned to the buyer or any person, other than the dealer or seller, as appropriate [Health & Safety Code § 18035(f)].

7. Confirm that escrow instructions prepared by escrow agent or escrow company satisfy following requirements:

NOTE:
The escrow agent must prepare the instructions, provide the dealer and the purchaser with copies of the signed instructions and any amendments to them, and retain the originals or executed copies of them [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 5061].

a. Contain information required by law [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18035(a)-(c), (e), (i), (j), 18035.2(b), (c); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 5061]; and

NOTE:
25 Cal. Code Reg. § 5061 sets forth detailed requirements governing the contents of the escrow instructions. It essentially requires the inclusion in the instructions of the following: (1) identifying information regarding the mobilehome and the terms of the transaction; and (2) statements describing procedural steps or affirmative acts that must be performed by the parties during the sales transaction.

b. Are signed by dealer and buyer [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 5061].

8. If dealer is selling new or used mobilehome that is to be installed on foundation system as fixture or improvement to real property [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a); see also § 40.122], comply with following escrow requirements [Health & Safety Code § 18035.2]:

NOTE:
The following requirements apply in lieu of the escrow provisions of Health & Safety Code § 18035, which are discussed in Paragraphs 9-11, below [Health & Safety Code § 18035.2(a); see P 9, NOTE, below]. Further, these requirements must be incorporated into the escrow instructions [Health & Safety Code § 18035.2(b)].

A mobilehome installed or to be installed on a foundation system as a fixture or improvement to real property [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] is exempt from registration under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] so long as it remains affixed to the foundation system [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b); see § 40.111 P 2].

a. Have original manufacturer's certificate of origin placed in escrow; and

NOTE:
The escrow agent must obtain from the manufacturer a true and correct facsimile of the copy of the certificate of origin retained by the manufacturer [Health & Safety Code § 18035.2(b)(3); see Health & Safety Code § 18093].

b. Confirm that either of following occurs with respect to each inventory creditor:

NOTE:
For these purposes, "inventory creditor" includes any person who is identified as a creditor on the manufacturer's certificate of origin or any person who places the original certificate of origin in escrow and claims in writing to the escrow agent to have a purchase money security interest in the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18035.2(b); see Com.

Code § 9103 (purchase money security interest)].

(1) Creditor's lien on mobilehome is satisfied by payment from escrow account; or

(2) Creditor consents in writing to other than full payment.

c. If sale involves used mobilehome that is to be installed by buyer on a foundation, provide Declaration of Delivery Sale form signed by purchaser [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(b); see § 40.207 (form)].

NOTE:

On close of escrow, the escrow agency must submit a copy of the original document to the Department of Housing and Community Development along with documents required to report the sale; the original document must be retained by the escrow agent. In addition, a copy of the original document must be sent to the manufacturer [Health & Safety Code § 18035.26(e)].

9. For any sale not subject to P 8, above (i.e., sale of new or used mobilehome that is subject to registration and that is not and will not be installed on foundation system), take following steps:

NOTE:

The escrow requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 18035 and discussed in this P 9 and in PP 10 and 11, below, apply to the sale by or through a dealer of a mobilehome subject to registration under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(a); see also Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. (Act)]. Consequently, they do not apply to the sale by a dealer of a new or used mobilehome installed or to be installed on a foundation system as an improvement orfixture to real property [see Health & Safety Code § 18035.2(a); see also P 8, above].

The rights established by Health & Safety Code § 18035 may not be waived [Health & Safety Code § 18035(k)].

a. Instruct dealer to deposit into escrow account, within five working days of receipt (including day of receipt), any cash or cash equivalent received before close of escrow as a deposit, down payment, or whole or partial payment for mobilehome or mobilehome accessory [Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)(1), (2)].

NOTE:

Checks, money orders, or similar payments made toward the purchase of the mobilehome or a mobilehome accessory must be made payable only to the escrow agent [Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)(1)]. A down payment or whole or partial payment must include an amount designated as a deposit, which may be less than or equal to the total amount placed in escrow [Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)(2)].

For the definition of "cash equivalent" [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)(3)], see P 4, NOTE, above.

b. Comply with additional requirements described in P 10 or 11, below, as appropriate.

10. If sale involves new mobilehome that is not to be installed on foundation system as fixture or improvement to real property, confirm that [Health & Safety Code § 18035(b)]:

NOTE:
The escrow instructions must provide for the performance of the following acts [Health & Safety Code § 18035(b); see P 7, above].

a. Original manufacturer's certificate of origin is placed in escrow; and

NOTE:
The escrow agent must obtain from the manufacturer a true and correct facsimile of the copy of the certificate of origin retained by the manufacturer [Health & Safety Code § 18035(b)(3); see Health & Safety Code § 18093].

b. Either of following occurs with respect to each inventory creditor:

NOTE:
For the definition of "inventory creditor" [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(b)(2)(B); see Com. Code § 9103 (purchase money security interest)], see P 8b, NOTE, above.

(1) Creditor's lien on mobilehome is satisfied by payment from escrow account; or

(2) Creditor consents in writing to other than full payment.

11. If sale involves used mobilehome that is not to be installed on foundation system as fixture or improvement to real property, take following steps:

a. Confirm that escrow agent completes official notice of escrow opening and forwards it to Department with appropriate fees within three days of receipt of [Health & Safety Code § 18035(d)(2)]:

(1) Notification from dealer that seller has accepted buyer's offer to purchase [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(d)(1)]; and

(2) Mutually endorsed escrow instructions.

b. Confirm that following documents are placed in escrow [Health & Safety Code § 18035(c)(1)]:

NOTE:
This requirement must be incorporated into the escrow instructions [Health & Safety Code § 18035(c)].

(1) Current registration card;

(2) All copies of registration cards held by junior lienholders; and

(3) Certificate of title.

c. Unless procedure in Paragraph 11d, below, is selected, have registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18035(c)(2)(A)]:

NOTE:
The performance of the alternative procedures set forth in this paragraph and in P 11d, below, must be required by the escrow instructions [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(c)].

(1) Acknowledge in writing amount of dealer's sales commission; and

(2) Release all ownership interests in mobilehome, either:
(a) Contemporaneously upon payment of specified amount from escrow account; or

(b) At close of escrow, if buyer has executed security agreement approved by registered owner covering unpaid balance of purchase price.

(1) Dealer declares in writing that mobilehome is dealer's inventory.

(2) Registered owner acknowledges in writing that dealer has paid purchase price in full.

NOTE:
This price is the price paid by the dealer to acquire the mobilehome before its resale by the dealer [Health & Safety Code § 18035(c)(2)(B)].

(3) Registered owner executes current certificate of title to reflect release of all of his or her ownership interests.

(4) Dealer releases all of its ownership interests in mobilehome, either:

An official statement of condition lien release is available from HUD.

(b) Executed statement of anticipated formal assumption.

If a creditor willfully fails to comply with the above requirements within 21 days of the receipt of the written demand and related documents, the creditor must forfeit $300 to the escrow agent, unless the creditor has reasonable cause for noncompliance. This money will be credited to the seller, unless otherwise provided in the escrow instructions. If this penalty is paid, it will preclude any civil liability for noncompliance with Health & Safety Code § 18035.5 relating to the same act or omission [Health & Safety Code § 18035(d)(6)].

(1) Complete and execute statement.

(2) Prepare lien status report [see § 40.221].

a. Confirm that mobilehome will have operable smoke detector in each room designed for sleeping on date of transfer of title [Health & Safety Code § 18029.6(a)].

NOTE:
This requirement will be satisfied if, within 45 days before the date of transfer of title, the transferor signs a declaration stating that each smoke detector in the manufactured home or mobilehome is operable on the date that the declaration is signed [Health & Safety Code § 18029.6(b)].

The purchaser need not file a change in ownership statement if the dealer gives written notice of the transfer to the county assessor for the county where the mobilehome is installed. Dealers must give this notice within 10 days after the sale or other transfer [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.5(d)].

[2] Special Requirements for Sale or Transfer of Mobilehome Located in Mobilehome Park

NOTE:
The requirements discussed below are imposed by the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] and apply to mobilehomes located in a mobilehome rental park [see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks]. The MRL also contains similar but separate requirements for the sale of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome subdivision [see Civ. Code §§ 799-799.9; see also Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks]. Those provisions are not separately detailed below.

The MRL refers to tenants in a park as "homeowners" [see Civ. Code § 798.9], and that terminology is used below.

1. Concerning showing or listing of mobilehome:

a. Notify client that park management must permit listing or sale of mobilehome by any of the following [Civ. Code §§ 798.71(b), 798.81]:

NOTE:
Management cannot require any of the following persons to authorize management or any other specified broker, dealer, or person to act as the agent in the sale of the mobilehome as a condition of management's approval of the buyer or prospective homeowner for residency in the park [Civ. Code §§ 798.71(c), 798.81].

(1) Homeowner;

(2) Heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of estate who gains ownership of mobilehome through death of its owner, provided that owner was a homeowner at time of his or her death; or

(3) Agent (other than management) of any such person.

b. If management is to show or list mobilehome, confirm that management obtains owner's written authorization specifying terms and conditions of showing or listing [Civ. Code § 798.71(a); see § 40.200].

2. Inform client that homeowner and other authorized sellers [see P 1a, above] have right to display sign in window of mobilehome, on side of mobilehome facing street, or in front of mobilehome facing street that [Civ. Code § 798.70]:

NOTE:
Signs posted in front of the mobilehome may be of an H-frame or A-frame design with the sign face perpendicular to, but not extending into, the street. Homeowners may attach to the sign or their mobilehome tubes or holders for leaflets which provide information on the mobilehome for sale, exchange, or rent [Civ. Code § 798.70].

a. Advertises sale, exchange, or, if not prohibited by any agreement with management, rental of mobilehome by owner or owner's agent.

b. States name, address, and telephone number of owner or owner's agent.

c. Face of which does not exceed 24 inches in width and 36 inches in height.

3. If heir, joint tenant, or personal representative is selling mobilehome [see P 1a(2), above], inform client that seller has right to do following prior to sale [Civ. Code § 798.78(c)]:

NOTE:

The heir, joint tenant, or personal representative has the right to sell the mobilehome to a third party in accordance with the provisions applicable to the original homeowner [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83], provided all the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities to the management regarding rent, utilities, and reasonable maintenance of the mobilehome and its premises that arise at any time from the death of the homeowner until the date the mobilehome is resold are satisfied as they accrue pursuant to the rental agreement in effect at the time of the death of the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.78(a)]. If the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities to management have not been so satisfied, management has the right to require the removal of the mobilehome from the park [Civ. Code § 798.78(b)].

a. Replace existing mobilehome with another new or used mobilehome; or

NOTE:

If the mobilehome is to be replaced, the replacement mobilehome must meet current standards of the park as contained in the park's most recent written requirements issued to prospective homeowners [Civ. Code § 798.78(c)].

NOTE:

Management may not require a homeowner who is replacing a mobilehome or manufactured home on a space in the park in which he or she resides, to use a specific broker, dealer, or other person as an agent in the purchase of or installation of the replacement home [Civ. Code § 798.71(d)].

b. Repair existing mobilehome so that it complies with health and safety standards provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, and 18605 and their implementing regulations [see §§ 40.20 (use and occupancy of mobilehome), 40.23 (accessory buildings or structures)].

4. Explain to client that park management may not charge:

a. Homeowner (or other authorized seller) [see P 1a, above] a transfer or selling fee as condition of sale of mobilehome within park unless management performs a service in sale [Civ. Code § 798.72(a)].

NOTE:

Management may not render a sales-related service unless the homeowner (or other authorized person) has submitted a written request for the service [Civ. Code § 798.72(a); see § 40.200].

b. Prospective purchaser or homeowner (or his or her agent) a fee as condition of approval for residency in park [Civ. Code § 798.72(b)].

c. Prospective homeowner a fee for interview [Civ. Code § 798.72(b)].

NOTE:

Management may impose a fee for a credit check of the prospective homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.72(b); see Civ. Code § 798.74(b); see also P 6c, below].

5. Inform client that in event of sale of mobilehome in park to third party, management may not require removal of mobilehome during term of homeowner's rental agreement unless mobilehome falls within one of the following categories [Civ. Code § 798.73; see § 40.202 (notice requiring removal)]:

a. Is not considered a "mobilehome" under Mobilehome Residency Law [see Civ. Code § 798.3 (definition); see also § 40.13].

b. Meets all of the following criteria:

(1) Is more than 20 years old, or more than 25 years old if manufactured after September 15, 1971;

(2) Is 20 feet wide or more; and

(3) Does not comply with applicable health and safety statutes [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, 18605] and their implementing regulations [see § 40.20 (use and occupancy of mobilehome); see also § 40.23 (accessory structures)], as determined following inspection by appropriate enforcement agency [see Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined); see also § 40.12[2]].

c. Meets all of following criteria:

(1) Is more than 17 years old, or more than 25 years old if manufactured after September 15, 1971;

(2) Is less than 20 feet wide; and

(3) Does not comply with applicable health and safety statutes [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, 18605] and their implementing regulations [see §§ 40.20, 40.23], as determined following inspection by appropriate enforcement agency [see Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined); see also § 40.12[2]].

d. Is in significantly run-down condition or in disrepair, as determined by its general condition and its acceptability to health and safety of occupants and public, exclusive of its age.

NOTE:

Management bears the burden of demonstrating that the mobilehome is in a significantly run-down condition or in disrepair, and must use reasonable discretion in determining the general condition of the mobilehome and its accessory structures [Civ. Code § 798.73(d)]. Management may not require repairs and improvements to the park space or property owned by the management, except for damage caused by the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.73(d)].

6. If mobilehome is to remain in park:

a. Inform client that management may only require repairs or improvements to mobilehome, its appurtenances, or accessory structures not owned and installed by management, if [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(a)]:

(1) Repair or improvement is based on or is required by local ordinance or state statute or regulation relating to mobilehomes, or rule or regulation of mobilehome park that implements or enforces local ordinance, state statute, or regulation relating to mobilehomes; and

(2) Repair or improvement relates to exterior of mobilehome, its appurtenances, or accessory structure.

b. Explain to client that management must provide homeowner with written summary of required repairs and improvements no later than 10 business days following receipt of request for this information made by homeowner as part of homeowner's 60-day notice of termination of tenancy under Civ. Code § 798.59 [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(b)].

NOTE:

The summary must include specific references to the park rules and regulations, local ordinances, or state statutes and regulations relating to mobilehomes on which the request for repair or improvement is based [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(b)].

7. If mobilehome is to remain in park:

NOTE:

The following requirements apply not only to prospective homeowners in general but also to heirs, joint tenants, or personal representatives [see P 1a(2), above] who desire to establish a tenancy in the park [Civ. Code § 798.78(d)].

a. Inform client that management may require a selling homeowner to obtain management's prior approval of a prospective purchaser and to give management notice of the sale [Civ. Code § 798.74(a); see § 40.201 (form for notice of sale and request for approval)].

b. Explain to client that management must notify prospective homeowner, upon his or her request, of information management will require in order to determine whether or not he or she will be acceptable as homeowner in park [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

c. Inform client that management may collect fee or charge from prospective purchaser to obtain financial report or credit rating [Civ. Code § 798.74(b)].

NOTE:

If management rejects the prospective purchaser, management must refund the full amount of that fee or charge within 30 days from the date of rejection. If the purchaser is approved, management must credit the full amount of the fee or charge toward payment of the first month's rent, unless the prospective purchaser elects not to buy the mobilehome, in which case management may retain all or a portion of the fee to defray its related administrative costs [Civ. Code § 798.74(b)].

d. Explain to client that management may reject prospective purchaser only if [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)]:

NOTE:

If management withholds approval for any reason other than those described in Civ. Code § 798.74 [see P (1), (2), below] or in the other statutory provisions governing the transfer of mobilehomes [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83, discussed throughout this § 40.120[2]], management or the owner of the mobilehome may be held liable for all damages proximately resulting from the disapproval [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

(1) Purchaser lacks financial ability to pay rent and charges of park; or

NOTE:
In determining whether the purchaser has the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park, management may not require the purchaser to submit copies of any personal income tax returns in order to obtain approval for residency in the park. However, management may require the purchaser to document the amount and source of his or her gross monthly income or means of financial support [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

(2) Management determines, based on purchaser's prior tenancies, that he or she will not comply with park rules and regulations.

e. Inform client that, within 15 business days after management receives all information requested from prospective homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)]:

(1) Prospective homeowner must comply with any request by management for a personal interview.

(2) Management must notify seller and prospective homeowner, in writing, of:

(a) Acceptance or rejection of application; and

(b) If management rejects application, reasons for rejection.

8. If mobilehome is to remain in park, confirm that escrow, sale, or transfer agreement contains [Civ. Code § 798.75(a)]:

a. Statement, signed by management and prospective homeowner, indicating that parties have agreed to terms and conditions of a rental agreement; or

b. Clause incorporating by reference the provisions of a rental agreement that has been executed by purchaser and management.

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 798.75(a) provides that the escrow, sale, or transfer agreement must "contain" either the statement described in P a, above, or a fully executed rental agreement. Although the statute does not define the term "contain," the incorporation by reference of a rental agreement in the manner described in this P b should satisfy the requirements of § 798.75(a).

If the purchaser does not execute a rental agreement, he or she will not have any rights of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.75(b)].

9. If escrow, sale, or transfer agreement contains clause incorporating by reference provisions of executed rental agreement [see P 8b, above], attach copy of that rental agreement to escrow, sale, or transfer agreement [Civ. Code § 798.75(a)].

10. If occupant of mobilehome has no rights of tenancy [see P 8b, NOTE, above] and is not otherwise entitled to occupy mobilehome, instruct client that management may [Civ. Code § 798.75(c)]:

a. Demand that occupant surrender mobilehome park site; and

b. Commence unlawful detainer proceedings if occupant becomes "unlawful occupant" by failing to comply with above demand within five days [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1159-1179a].

NOTE:

The occupant will not be considered an unlawful occupant and will not be subject to the procedures discussed in this Paragraph if (1) management failed or refused to offer the occupant a rental agreement [see P 8, above]; (2) the occupant is the registered owner of the mobilehome; and (3) management has determined that the occupant has the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park, will comply with the park rules and regulations (based on the occupant's prior tenancies), and will comply with the provisions of the MRL regulating the transfer of mobilehomes [Civ. Code § 798.75(d); see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83].

11. Verify that sales agreement does not contain any provision by which purchaser or homeowner waives his or her rights [see PP 1-10, above] under MRL provisions governing mobilehome transfers [Civ. Code § 798.77; see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83; see also PP 1-10, above].

12. Advise any legal owner or junior lienholder who wishes to foreclose his or her security interest in mobilehome in park of following rights and responsibilities:

a. Mobilehome may be resold by legal owner or junior lienholder following foreclosure, subject to MRL provisions discussed in PP 1-10, above, but only if legal owner or junior lienholder satisfies all of homeowner's monetary and other responsibilities until date mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.79].

b. If park management gives legal owner or junior lienholder a copy of a notice of termination of park tenancy sent to homeowner [see Civ. Code § 798.56; see also Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks], legal owner or junior lienholder must respond with written notice to management and perform other acts to preserve its right to maintain mobilehome in park until its resale [Civ. Code § 798.56a; see § 40.220].

13. If seller posted security deposit with management at beginning of his or her tenancy in park, advise seller to submit request for refund [see Civ. Code § 798.39(b)].

NOTE:

Management must refund the deposit within 30 days following the date of the resale [Civ. Code § 798.39(b)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks **.

[3] Required Disclosures

1. Advise seller to prepare Transfer Disclosure Statement in form specified by Civ. Code § 1102.6d [see § 40.205[2] for form].

NOTE:

The seller of a mobilehome classified as personal property and intended for use as a residence must complete and deliver a transfer disclosure statement form to prospective purchasers on all resale transactions on or after January 1, 2000 [Civ. Code § 1102(b); see Civ. Code § 1102.6d; see also § 40.205 (statutory form)], except when the mobilehome is located in a common interest development [Civ. Code § 1102.6d].

2. Advise agents, dealers, and salespersons involved in resale transaction of mobilehome to conduct

4. Advise seller to indicate compliance with delivery requirement by making notation of date of delivery on receipt for deposit or in separate document.

5. Request park management to provide Mobilehome Park Disclosure Form required by statute to prospective homeowner at least three days before execution of rental agreement (or statement signed by park management and prospective homeowner indicating that parties have agreed to rental terms) [see Civ. Code § 798.75.5; see also § 40.206[2] (form)].

6. Advise seller who has actual knowledge that property is affected by or zoned to allow industrial use [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731a] to give written notice of this knowledge as soon as practicable before close of escrow [Civ. Code § 1102.17].

7. Advise seller of mobilehome to disclose certain natural hazards if property is located in specified areas that have been designated as hazardous, including following areas [see Civ. Code § 1103(b), (c); see also Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements , for form]:

a. Special flood hazard area;

b. Area of potential flooding;

c. Very high fire hazard severity zone;

d. Wildland area with substantial forest fire risk;

e. Earthquake fault zone; and

f. Seismic hazard zone.

8. Advise seller of mobilehome who has actual knowledge of any former federal or state ordnance locations within neighborhood area to give written notice of that knowledge as soon as practicable before close of escrow [Civ. Code § 1102.15].

18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.121

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 40.121 Procedural Guide to Registration and Titling of Mobilehome

NOTE:

Subject to limited exceptions [see § 40.111*], all mobilehomes are subject to the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 ("Act") [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] for purposes of titling and registration [Health & Safety Code § 18075(a)]. Registration and titling for mobilehomes is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD).

[1] Original and Annual (Renewal) Registration

1. To originally register mobilehome, complete HCD official registration application [see § 40.210].

NOTE:

Even though certain mobilehomes are exempt from annual registration [see § 40.111*, P 2], they must still be originally registered unless they are also exempt from original registration [see Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b), (f); see also § 40.111, P 1]. The HCD application form contains a questionnaire that must be completed to establish the basis for an annual exemption from registration [see § 40.210[2]*].

2. On application form [see § 40.210] or other documentation required by HCD, designate name(s) and manner in which registration title is to be held:

a. If registration is to be held by two or more individuals, register mobilehome in names of [Health & Safety Code § 18080]:

(1) Two or more persons as joint tenants.

NOTE:

Each joint tenant will have the right of survivorship. The signature of each joint tenant or survivor(s), as the case may be, will be required to transfer or encumber the title to the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18080(a)].

(2) Two or more persons as tenants in common.

NOTE:

If the names of the tenants in common are separated by the word "and," each tenant in common may transfer his or her individual interest in the mobilehome without the signature(s) of the other tenant(s) in common. However, the signature of each tenant in common is required to transfer full interest in the title to a new registered owner. If the names of the tenants in common are separated by the word "or," any one of them may transfer full interest in the title to the mobilehome to a new registered owner without the signature of any other tenant in common. The signature of each tenant in common is required in all cases to encumber the title to the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18080(b)].

For these purposes, all mobilehomes registered on or before January 1, 1985, in the names of two or more persons as tenants in common, will be considered the same as mobilehomes registered in the names of tenants in common whose names are separated by the word "or," as provided in the preceding paragraph [Health & Safety Code § 18080(d)].

(3) Husband and wife, with mobilehome registered as community property.

NOTE:

The signature of each spouse will be required to transfer or encumber the title to the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18080(c)].

b. For individual owner, register in true name of individual owner only [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(a)].

NOTE:

Complimentary or professional titles may be added to the true name only if the individual is commonly addressed by that title [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(a)].

c. For conservatorship or guardianship, register in name(s) of person(s) designated as conservator(s) or guardian(s), with each name followed by one of the following, as appropriate [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(b)]:

(1) Guardian.

(2) Conservator.

NOTE:

The status of any conservators or guardians must be evidenced by documentation deemed adequate by HCD. Subsequent transfer of ownership or encumbrance of a mobilehome registered in the above manner will require the signatures of all designated conservators or guardians [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(b)].

d. For trust, register in name of trust [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(c)].

NOTE:

The status of the trust must be evidenced by documentation deemed adequate by HCD. Transfer of ownership or encumbrance of a mobilehome registered in this manner requires the signature(s) of the authorized trustee(s) designated in the trust [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(c)].

e. For estate, register in name of estate [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(e) (application must be signed by appointed executor or administrator of estate)].

NOTE:

The status of the appointed executor or administrator must be evidenced by documentation deemed adequate by HCD. A subsequent transfer of ownership or encumbrancing of the mobilehome registered will require the signature of the appointed executor or administrator [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(e)].

f. For company, register in name of company [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(d)].

NOTE:

The subsequent transfer of ownership or encumbrancing of a mobilehome registered in a company name will require the signature of an officer or authorized agent of the company [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(d)].

3. Have designated registered owners execute application form.

NOTE:

If the mobilehome is registered in the name of a company, the registration application must be countersigned by an officer or authorized agent of the company [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(d)]. For an estate, the application must be signed by the appointed executor or administrator of the estate [Health & Safety Code § 18080.1(e)].

4. Submit completed application for original registration [see § 40.210 (form of application)] to HCD, along with:

a. Required registration and license fee(s) [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18085(a), 18114, 18116].

b. Manufacturer's certificate of origin [Health & Safety Code § 18085(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18093, 18093.5 (requirements for certificate of origin)].

NOTE:

The original manufacturer's certificate of origin must be submitted. If it is not in existence, a duplicate must be obtained from the manufacturer and submitted. Any duplicate copy must be conspicuously marked by the manufacturer as a duplicate copy [Health & Safety Code § 18085(a)]. In the absence of satisfactory evidence of ownership of a mobilehome or other structure or vehicle subject to registration, HCD may require an undertaking or a bond [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18086.5, 18089].

c. If mobilehome was previously registered out of state [Health & Safety Code § 18087.5]:

NOTE:

The registration of a mobilehome that has been previously registered in another state is due 20 days after the date of entry into California, and is delinquent if a registration application is not made and any applicable fees are not paid within 40 days after that date of entry [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(c)]. A limited exception exists for mobilehomes owned by members of the armed forces or by persons recently discharged from the armed forces who enter California to establish or reestablish residence or to accept gainful employment [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(d), (e)].

(1) All unexpired plates, seals, or other evidence of foreign registration in applicant's possession or control.

(2) Fee charged for cost of returning unexpired plates to issuing state.

NOTE:
HCD must give current valid foreign certificates of title full faith and credit [see Health & Safety Code § 18088]. If the foreign certificate indicates an unpaid lien or encumbrance, the certificate of title issued by HCD must include the name of the legal owner and lienholders [see Health & Safety Code § 18088.5].

d. Use tax payable, if any [Health & Safety Code §§ 18123 (authority of HCD to withhold registration until payment), 18117 (use tax required for mobilehomes previously registered out-of-state)].

NOTE:
The circumstances under which a use tax is payable are discussed in Section 40.72. HCD may withhold the registration or the transfer of registration of any mobilehome sold at retail to any applicant by any person, other than a licensed mobilehome dealer or manufacturer, until the applicant pays to it any required use tax, unless the State Board of Equalization finds that no use tax is due. An applicant may elect to pay the use tax to HCD in order to obtain immediate action on his or application for registration or transfer of registration, and thereafter apply through HCD to the State Board of Equalization for a refund of the amount paid [Health & Safety Code § 18123(a)].

5. After registered owner receives registration card from HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18080.4]:

NOTE:
HCD, on the original registration of a mobilehome, will establish a permanent title record for the mobilehome and will issue a certificate of title to the legal owner and a registration card to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5; see Health & Safety Code §§ 18091, 18091.5]. The registration card will be in two parts. The two parts will contain identical registration information, except that the part to be filed with the mobilehome park operator will bear a special notation [Health & Safety Code § 18080.6(a); see P 5a NOTE, below].

a. If mobilehome is located in mobilehome park, instruct owner to submit appropriate part of registration card to park operator [Health & Safety Code § 18080.6(a)].

NOTE:
The part that should be submitted to the operator will bear the following notation: "Duplicate copy to be filed with the mobilehome park operator as required by law" [Health & Safety Code § 18080.6(a)].

b. Advise owner to keep other part or copy of it in mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18080.4(a)].

NOTE:

This requirement does not apply when the card is necessarily removed from the mobilehome for the purpose of applying for the renewal, amendment, or transfer of registration [Health & Safety Code § 18080.4(b)].

6. Instruct owner of mobilehome to apply registration decal to outside of mobilehome in clearly visible location within 15 inches of lower front right-hand side [Health & Safety Code § 18092(a), (b)].

NOTE:

HCD issues a registration decal for every mobilehome subject to registration [Health & Safety Code § 18092(a)]. The decal indicates, by color or otherwise, whether or not the mobilehome is subject to annual registration or is subject to local property taxation and the current status of any registration fee [Health & Safety Code § 18092(c)].

7. Advise registered owner, legal owner, and junior lienholder to notify HCD of any new permanent address [Health & Safety Code § 18098(a)].

NOTE:

This notification is required within 10 days of the move or other change of permanent address, but no penalty arises from a person's failure to notify HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18098(a), (b)]. However, it is important to notify HCD of an address change since HCD and all other persons are entitled to rely on a party's last known address listed with HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18098(c)]. A registered owner who changes his or her address should mark out the old address on the registration card, write or type the new address on the face of the card, and initial the change [Health & Safety Code § 18098(d)].

8. If mobilehome is to be moved at any time after its original registration:

a. Prior to move [Health & Safety Code § 18099.5]:

(1) Have party proposing the move obtain official HCD consent form and deliver or mail it (by certified mail, return receipt requested) to following persons:
(a) Legal owner; and

(b) Each junior lienholder, if any.

NOTE:

If there is no legal owner and no junior lienholder, the registered owner must complete the written consent form [Health & Safety Code § 18099.5(a)]. The original copy of each written consent form must accompany the mobilehome to its new situs in lieu of a registration card [Health & Safety Code § 18099.5(a)].

(2) If legal owner or any junior lienholder does not give or withhold its consent within 30 days after request for consent is delivered or mailed [see P 8a(1), above], have person proposing to move mobilehome submit written notification of this fact (on official HCD form) to HCD.

NOTE:

In this case, a copy of the notification form must accompany the mobilehome to its new situs [Health & Safety Code § 18099.5(b)].

b. Within 10 days after move, have person responsible for move submit following to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18100]:

(1) Application for amended registration card;

(2) Copy of written consent form described in P 8a(1), above.

(3) Any information HCD may require relating to new situs location.

(4) Current registration card.

(5) Required fee.

9. Unless exempt from annual (renewal) registration [see § 40.111, P 2], advise registered owner to renew registration annually prior to its expiration date by submitting following to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18109]:

a. Existing registration card.

b. Renewal fee [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18114-18119].

[2] Transfer of Title and Registration

NOTE:

As a general rule, no transfer of the title of a mobilehome registered under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 ("Act") [Health & Safety Code §§ 18000-18000 et. seq.] is effective until the transferor has endorsed and delivered the certificate of title, and delivered the registration card, as provided under the Act [Health & Safety Code § 18101]. Specific requirements for various types of transfers are set forth below.

1.If title or interest of registered owner or legal owner in registered mobilehome is transferred, submit following to Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) within 20 days from date of transfer [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(1)]:

NOTE:

On its receipt of the items listed below, HCD will amend the permanent title record, forward a new certificate of title to the legal owner, and forward an amended registration card to the registered owner with copies to all secured parties shown on the permanent title record. If there is no legal owner, the new certificate of title and amended registration card will be forwarded to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(1)].

a. Notice of transfer [see § 40.211].

b. Required fee [see Health & Safety Code § 18114].

c. Certificate of title, executed by transferor and transferee in accordance with HCD requirements set forth on the certificate [see Health & Safety Code § 18091].

NOTE:

If the transfer is made by a registered owner and the transferee is to assume an underlying indebtedness secured by the mobilehome and owed to the legal owner, the legal owner must state on the certificate of title that legal title and interest are to be retained [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(1)].

d. For transfer of used mobilehome subject to local property taxation [see § 40.70], either of the following [Health & Safety Code § 18092.7]:

(1) Tax clearance certificate issued by tax collector of county where mobilehome is located [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 5832].

(2) Conditional tax clearance certificate that [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 2189.8, 5832]:

NOTE:
A conditional tax clearance certificate sets forth the amount of an outstanding tax liability and the final date that the amount may be paid before a further tax liability is incurred [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 5832].

(a) Was issued by foregoing tax collector; and

(b) Indicates that tax liability has been satisfied pursuant to Health and Safety Code Section 18035(m)(3).

NOTE:
Health and Safety Code Section 18035(m) applies when an escrow is opened on a used mobilehome that is subject to local property taxation and to registration. Under Health and Safety Code Section 18035(m)(3), an escrow officer may satisfy the terms of the conditional tax clearance certificate by (1) paying the amount of the tax liability shown on the certificate out of the escrow proceeds on or before the date indicated on the certificate, and (2) certifying in the space provided on the certificate that all of its terms and conditions have been complied with.

(3) Certification signed by escrow officer under penalty of perjury that tax collector has failed to respond to written demand for tax clearance certification or conditional tax clearance certificate [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(m)(2)].

NOTE:
Under Health and Safety Code Section 18035(m) [see NOTE to P 1d(2), above], an escrow officer may forward to the tax collector of the county in which a used mobilehome is located a written demand for a tax clearance certificate (if no tax liability exists) or a conditional tax clearance certificate. As a general rule, the collector must forward the certificate within five working days of receipt of the demand [Health & Safety Code § 18035(m)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 5832(b)]. If the collector does not comply with the demand within 30 days from the date the demand was mailed, the escrow officer may close the escrow and submit a statement of facts certifying that the written demand was made and that the collector failed to comply within 30 days [Health & Safety Code § 18035(m)(2); Rev. & Tax. Code § 5832(c); but see Rev. & Tax. Code § 5832(d) (if mobilehome has not been enrolled in county, collector is not subject to foregoing 5- and 30-day deadlines)]. HCD will accept this statement in lieu of a tax certificate [Health & Safety Code § 18035(m)(2); Rev. & Tax. Code § 5832(c)].

e. Use tax payable, if any [see § 40.72], or statement of facts evidencing exemption from use tax (on official HCD form) [see Health & Safety Code § 18123].

NOTE:

HCD may withhold a transfer of registration until the applicant pays any use tax due for the transaction [Health & Safety Code § 18123(a)]. For a discussion of use taxes and applicable exemptions, see Section 40.72.

2. If interest of junior lienholder is being transferred [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(2)]:

a. Have transferor and transferee execute registration card.

b. Within 20 days of transfer, submit card to HCD with appropriate fees [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18114-18119].

NOTE:

After these steps are taken, HCD will amend the permanent title record and forward an amended registration card to the registered owner with copies to all secured parties shown on the permanent title record [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(2)].

3. If creditor acquires security interest in mobilehome after permanent title record has been established, notify HCD within 20 days [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(3); see § 40.222 (official HCD notice)].

NOTE:

HCD will amend the permanent title record to reflect the interest as that of a legal owner or as that of a junior lienholder, as appropriate. If the record already reflects the interest of one or more junior lienholders, the creditor then perfecting its interest will be designated as the most junior lienholder [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(3)]. For the procedure for perfecting a security interest obtained after the original registration of a mobilehome, see Section 40.222.

4. If secured obligation to legal owner has been fully satisfied, have legal owner take following steps [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(4)]:

a. Indicate release of lien by signing certificate of title.

b. Within 20 days from date obligation is satisfied, forward certificate to HCD with appropriate fees [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18114-18119].

NOTE:

HCD will amend the permanent title record, deliver a new certificate of title to the new legal owner, if any, and forward an amended registration card to the registered owner with copies to all secured parties shown on the registration card [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(4)]. For these purposes, the new legal owner will be either of the following, as appropriate: (1) the junior lienholder, if any; or (2) if there is more than one junior lienholder, the junior lienholder whose statement of lien was designated, on the permanent title record, as the most senior of the junior liens [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(4)].

If the secured party fails to release the lien as described above, the registered owner should send a written demand for release to the secured owner. Then, if the secured party fails to release the lien within 20 days after receipt of the demand (without reasonable cause for noncompliance), the secured party is liable to the registered owner for all actual damages suffered by the registered owner by reason of the failure to release the lien [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(c)].

5. If secured obligation of junior lienholder is fully paid and satisfied, have junior lienholder [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(5)]:

a. Submit to HCD, within 20 days, a statement of lien release on official HCD form.

b. Pay required fee [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18114-18119].

NOTE:
HCD will amend the permanent title record and forward an amended registration card to the registered owner with copies to all secured parties shown on the permanent title record [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)(5)]. If the junior lienholder fails to release the lien, the registered owner should give the lienholder a written demand for release [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(c); see NOTE to P 4, above].

6. If registered or legal owner dies without leaving other property necessitating probate and did not otherwise bequeath mobilehome, and at least 40 days have elapsed since owner's death, advise surviving heir or beneficiary to obtain transfer of registration of decedent's title or interest by submitting following to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18102(b); see § 40.212]:

a. Certificate of title and registration card, if available.

b. Certified statement of heir or beneficiary setting forth his or her interest in decedent's estate, fact of decedent's death, and status of creditors' claims [see § 40.212 (official HCD form for statement)].

c. Names and addresses of any other heirs or beneficiaries, if required by HCD.

d. Certificate of death, if required by HCD.

7. If title held by or interest of registered owner or legal owner in registered mobilehome passes to another person other than by voluntary transfer (except under circumstances described in P 6, above), instruct new registered owner or legal owner to apply for transfer of registration by submitting following to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(d)]:

a. Last certificate of title, if available.

b. Current registration card, if available.

c. Required transfer fee.

d. Any original or certified copies of instruments or documents of authority that may be required by HCD, or by law, to evidence or effect the transfer.

e. For transfer of used mobilehome subject to local property taxation [see § 40.70], proof of tax clearance described in P 1d, above [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18100.5(e), 18092.7].

NOTE:
HCD, when satisfied of the genuineness and regularity of the transfer, will amend the permanent title record, issue a new current registration card and certificate of title, and forward copies of the current registration card to all junior lienholders [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(d)].

8. For any transaction by or through a dealer to sell (or lease with the option to buy) a used mobilehome, advise client that HCD may impose moratorium on transferring any ownership interest or transferring or creating any security interest during required escrow period [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(b); see Health & Safety Code § 18035(d)(2) (required notice of escrow opening)].

9. Concerning required transfer fees, advise client that:

a. If application for transfer is filed during 60-day period before expiration of existing registration, applicant must submit full renewal fees (if any) for following registration year in addition to any other fees then due and payable [Health & Safety Code § 18118].

b. To avoid delinquency penalty, required transfer fee must be paid not later than 20 days after transferee receives properly executed certificate of title [Health & Safety Code § 18117.5].

§ 40.122 Procedural Guide to Installation of Mobilehomes

[1] Installation on Foundation System as Personal Property

NOTE:

The installation of a mobilehome on a foundation system as personal property (a chattel) must be in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18613 and is deemed to meet or exceed the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18613.4 [Health & Safety Code § 18551(b)]. Under the Mobilehome Parks Act (MPA) [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.], a permit must be obtained from the enforcement agency [see § 40.12[2]] each time a mobilehome subject to the MPA is to be located, installed, or reinstalled, on any site for human habitation or occupancy as a dwelling [Health & Safety Code § 18613(a); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1324(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18613(a)(2); see also 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020].

1. If mobilehome is being purchased from licensed dealer [see § 40.120[1]] and purchase is to include installation by licensed contractor:

a. Confirm that dealer provides buyer, before installation, with written certification that [Health & Safety Code § 18035.3(a)(5); Bus. & Prof. Code § 7026.2(c) (formerly § 7027(c))]:

(1) States that installation is to be performed by licensed contractor; and

(2) Includes the contractor's:

(a) Name;

(b) Business address; and

(c) License number.

b. Notify client of dealer's responsibility to correct any defects in installation by licensed contractor [Health & Safety Code § 18035.25].

NOTE:
Any allegation against a dealer for a failure to correct must be filed within three years after the occurrence of the alleged act or omission [Health & Safety Code § 18035.25].

2. If mobilehome will be installed in mobilehome park:

a. Obtain park operator's approval for installation [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(d)].

b. Confirm that initial installation (or subsequent reinstallation on a different lot pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18613) will resist, in conjunction with vertical loads, either forces from horizontal wind pressures of 15 pounds per square foot or the home's design wind load, whichever is greater [Health & Safety Code § 18613.4(a)].

NOTE:
This requirement applies whether the mobilehome will be installed in a mobilehome park or elsewhere [Health & Safety Code § 18613.4(a)]. In addition, for purposes of complying with this requirement, all mobilehomes with manufacturer's installation instructions that include requirements for tiedowns must be installed in accordance with specific statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18613.4(b)]. If no manufacture's installation instructions are available that include requirements for tiedowns, the mobilehome must be installed in accordance with certain other requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18613.4(c)]. However, all mobilehomes may be installed or reinstalled in accordance with plans and specifications signed by a licensed architect or engineer that meet the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18613.4.

3. Obtain installation permit by submitting following to enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code §§ 18613, 18613.3, 18613.5; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1020, 1324]:

NOTE:
The application must be submitted by the licensed contractor who will perform the installation, unless the installation will be performed by the owner of the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18613(b)].

a. Official application form [see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks, § 39.200].

b. Complete set of plans and specifications [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(a)(4)].

c. Required fees [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1020(a)(1), 1020.1].

NOTE:
When the enforcement agency issues an installation permit for a new mobilehome, a copy of the permit must be delivered to the county or city assessor having jurisdiction where the mobilehome is located [Health & Safety Code § 18613.2].

d. Dimensioned plot plan of lot on which mobilehome will be installed [see Health & Safety Code §

18613.3].

NOTE:
This requirement applies to an application for a permit for initial installation of a mobilehome. The park owner or operator must sign the plot plan to certify that the dimensions of the lot are correct. The applicant must provide a copy of the plot plan to the mobilehome owner, if the applicant is a contractor, and to the park owner or operator [Health & Safety Code § 18613.3].

4. Obtain separate permit for any of following activities that will be performed in conjunction with installation:

NOTE:
For the official HCD application form that must be submitted to obtain the following permits, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks **.

a. If mobilehome will be installed on foundation, construction permit for foundation system [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1020(b); see also 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1320-1368].

b. If earthquake resistant bracing system will be installed, permit for installation of bracing system [Health & Safety Code § 18613.7; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1370-1377].

c. If any mobilehome accessory building or structure (e.g., an awning) will be constructed or installed, permit for construction or installation [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1018(a), 1020.3; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1420-1520; see also Health & Safety Code § 18213 ("mobilehome accessory building or structure" defined)].

5. Confirm that contractor (or owner/installer) requests inspection of installation by enforcement agency at least 24 hours before expected completion [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1326(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18613(c), (d)].

6. If agency notifies installer that installation is inadequate, instruct installer to [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1326(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18613(c), (d)]:

a. Perform necessary corrective work indicated by enforcement agency and request reinspection within 10 days.

b. Pay required reinspection fee.

NOTE:
If the installer is a licensed contractor who fails to timely perform corrective work, the contractor may be subject to disciplinary action [see Health & Safety Code § 18614].

7. If enforcement agency will not approve mobilehome for occupancy because of defects in mobilehome, advise owner of mobilehome that [Health & Safety Code § 18613(d)]:

a. He or she may not occupy mobilehome if it failed inspection because of immediate hazards to health or safety of occupant.

b. He or she may occupy mobilehome if it failed inspection because of conditions that do not endanger occupant's health or safety.

NOTE:

The enforcement agency must immediately notify HCD whenever any mobilehome cannot be approved for occupancy because of defects. The report must indicate health and safety defects and, in the case of new mobilehomes, substantial defects of materials and workmanship. "Substantial defects of materials and workmanship" means defects objectively manifested by broken, ripped, cracked, stained, or missing parts or components. Alleged defects concerning color combinations or grade of materials used are not considered such defects [Health & Safety Code § 18613(d)].

8. If mobilehome passes inspection, obtain "Installation Acceptance" certificate from enforcement agency [see Health & Safety Code § 18613(e); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1366(a)].

NOTE:

If the mobilehome is moved or relocated, the statement of installation acceptance becomes invalid [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1366(b)].

[2] Installation on Foundation System as Real Property

NOTE:

To be considered a fixture or improvement to real property, a mobilehome must either be installed in accordance with the statutory requirements outlined in Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) or be legally converted to that status by compliance with the statutory conversion requirements outlined in Health & Safety Code § 18555 [Health & Safety Code § 18555(i)]. Installation requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) are outlined below. For a discussion of the requirements for conversion of rental parks to resident-owned parks, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks **.

1. Confirm that following eligibility requirements for installation of mobilehome on foundation system as fixture or improvement to real property have been satisfied:

NOTE:

The building permit required to install a mobilehome on a foundation system will not be issued unless satisfactory evidence of the following is submitted to the enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(1)].

a. For real property on which mobilehome is to be installed, owner of mobilehome must either [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(1)(A)]:

(1) Own, hold title to, or be purchasing the property; or

(2) Hold a transferable lease for the exclusive use of the property, provided:

(a) Term of lease is 35 years or more, or is less than 35 years and mutually agreed on by lessor and lessee; and

(b) Term is not revocable at discretion of lessor except for cause as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)-(5).

a. Copy of certificate of occupancy.

b. Certificate of title.

c. Registration card and decals.

NOTE:
Cancellation of registration is effective as of the date the mobilehome is permanently affixed to a foundation system, that is, the date a certificate of occupancy and the statement described in P 5, above, is recorded. However, HCD will not enter the cancellation on its records until it receives a copy of the certificate of occupancy [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(3)].

7. Advise owner that once mobilehome is installed on foundation system (in compliance with statutory requirements discussed above):

a. Mobilehome is deemed to be a fixture and a real property improvement to real property to which it is affixed [Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)(4)].

This is not true for any mobilehome that is installed without complying with the statutory requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) (discussed above) [Health & Safety Code § 18555(i)].

b. Mobilehome is subject to state-enforced health and safety standards for mobilehomes [Health & Safety Code § 18551(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18020 (enforcement authority)].

§ 40.200 Homeowner's Request and Authorization for Performance of Sales-Related Services by Park Management

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is (1) a request by a homeowner (or authorized representative) that mobilehome park management perform certain services in connection with the sale of the homeowner's mobilehome in the park, and (2) an authorization for management to perform the requested services [see Civ. Code § 798.72(a); see also Civ. Code § 798.9 ("homeowner" means person who has tenancy in mobilehome park under rental agreement)]. Management may not perform a service in connection with the sale of a mobilehome in the park unless a written request for the service (this form) is made by one of the following: the homeowner; an heir, a joint tenant, or a personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of the mobilehome through the death of a person who, at the time of his or her death, owned the mobilehome and was a homeowner in the park; or the agent of any such person [Civ. Code § 798.72(a)].

This form is not a listing agreement for the sale of a mobilehome, nor does it require management to show the mobilehome [see Civ. Code § 798.71 (listings or showings by management); [b], below]. Rather, the services management is authorized to perform are limited to providing notice of the mobilehome's availability to prospective purchasers and introducing these prospective purchasers to the owner of the mobilehome or his or her agent. For these services, management will be paid a flat fee. Optional language included in the form should be used if the owner of the mobilehome also agrees to pay management a commission based on the sales price at the close of escrow. For discussion of restrictions on transfer-related fees that may be charged by management, see [c], below.

[b] Restrictions on Showing or Listing Services by Management

The management of a mobilehome park may not show or list for sale a mobilehome in the park without first obtaining the owner's written authorization. Any authorization must specify the terms and conditions regarding the showing or listing [Civ. Code § 798.71(a)]. Depending on the activities performed by management, it may be subject to the statutes governing the licensing of mobilehome salespersons or dealers [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18045-18066.5; see also Civ. Code § 798.71]. This form does not authorize management to list or show a mobilehome, but rather to assist in finding buyers and introducing them to the selling homeowner or to his or her agent [see [a], above].

Management of a mobilehome park cannot prohibit the homeowner or his or her designated representative [see [a], above] from listing or selling his or her mobilehome. Further, management may not require the selling homeowner (or his or her representative) to authorize the management or any other specified broker, dealer, or person to act as the agent in the sale of a mobilehome as a condition of management's approval of the buyer or prospective homeowner for residency in the park [Civ. Code § 798.71(c); see Civ. Code § 798.74 (management's right to prior approval of mobilehome purchaser)].

Management may not require a homeowner who is replacing a mobilehome or manufactured home on a space in the park in which he or she resides, to use a specific broker, dealer, or other person as an agent in the purchase of or installation of the replacement home [Civ. Code § 798.71(d)].

[c] Restrictions on Transfer-Related Fees

Unless management actually performs a sales-related service that has been requested in writing by the homeowner or the homeowner's representative, management may not charge the homeowner or his or her representative a transfer or selling fee as a condition of the sale [Civ. Code § 798.72(a)]. This form provides for the payment of a flat fee to park management for its sales-related services. It also includes optional language for additional compensation to be paid at the close of escrow in an amount equal to a specified percentage of the mobilehome's sale price.

Management may not charge a prospective homeowner (or his or her agent) a fee, on the purchase of the mobilehome, as a condition of management's approval of that purchaser or homeowner for residency in the park unless management performs a specific service in the sale [Civ. Code § 798.72(b); see Civ. Code §§ 798.72(a) (performance of service must be requested in writing by seller), 798.74 (management's right of approval of mobilehome purchaser)]. Further, management may not charge a fee for interviewing a prospective homeowner. However, a fee may be charged for a credit check [Civ. Code § 798.72(b); see Civ. Code § 798.74(b); § 40.201[1][d] (requirements governing this fee)].

A rent increase imposed on new tenants at the time of the sale or transfer of a mobilehome (excluding any transfer to a transferor's spouse, children, or parents) is not a prohibited fee within the meaning of Civ. Code § 798.72 [Vance v. Villa Park Mobilehome Estates (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 698, 707, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 723] . A local rent control ordinance may, however, prohibit rent increases at the termination of a tenancy [see Carson Harbor Village Ltd. v. City of Carson (9th Cir. 1994) 37 F.3d 468, 472-473] .

18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.201

AUTHOR: by Jeannie Christy Newell, J.D.

§ 40.201 Seller's Notice of Intended Sale of Mobilehome and Request for Park Management's Approval of Purchaser

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to the management of a mobilehome rental park of the proposed sale of a mobilehome within the park to a particular purchaser. The notice requests management's prior approval of the purchaser for purposes of allowing the latter to keep the mobilehome in the park, and includes a place for management to indicate its decision.

[b] Management's Limited Right of Prior Approval

Management of a mobilehome park may insist on the right of prior approval of a purchaser of a mobilehome that will remain in the park, and may require the selling homeowner or his or her agent to give notice of the sale to management before the closing of the sale (this form). Management cannot withhold approval unless (1) management reasonably determines, on the basis of the purchaser's prior tenancies, that he or she will not comply with the rules and regulations of the park; or (2) the purchaser does not have the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

In determining whether the purchaser has the financial ability to pay the rent and park charges, management may not require the purchaser to submit copies of any personal income tax returns to obtain approval for residency in the park. However, management may require the purchaser to document the amount and source of his or her gross monthly income or means of financial support [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)]. Management may also obtain a financial report or credit rating on the prospective purchaser [see Civ. Code § 798.74(b); [d], below].

On request, management must notify a prospective homeowner of the information that it will require to determine whether or not the person will be acceptable as a homeowner in the park [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)]. During the 15-day period in which management is required to conduct its evaluation and make its determination [see [c], below], the prospective homeowner must submit to a personal interview with management if management so requests [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

Management may not condition its approval of a prospective buyer on a requirement that the selling homeowner list the mobilehome for sale with management or any other specified broker, dealer, or person [Civ. Code §§ 798.71(c), 798.81]. Also, management may not charge a prospective homeowner who purchases a mobilehome in the park (or his or her agent) a fee as a condition of approval for residency in the park unless management performs a specific service in the sale [Civ. Code § 798.72(b); see Civ. Code § 798.72(a) (performance of service must be requested in writing by seller)]. For further discussion of sales-related restrictions applicable to park management, see § 40.200.

[c] Procedure for Accepting or Rejecting Applicant

Within 15 business days of management's receipt of all of the information requested from the prospective homeowner, management must notify the seller and the prospective homeowner, in writing, of management's acceptance or rejection of the application. During the same 15-day period, a prospective homeowner must comply with management's request (if any) for a personal interview. Any notice of rejection given by management must set forth the reason or reasons for the rejection [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)]. This form contains a place for management to indicate its approval or disapproval of the proposed purchaser and, if applicable, its reasons for a rejection. If a prospective homeowner is disapproved for any reason other than those permitted under the Mobilehome Residency Law [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83], management is subject to civil damages resulting from the disapproval [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

[d] Handling Requirements for Credit Report Fees and Charges

If park management collects a fee or charge from the prospective purchaser to obtain a financial report or credit rating, the collected funds must be handled in the following manner. If the purchaser is approved, management must credit the full amount of the fee or charge toward payment of the first month's rent for that purchaser, unless the purchaser elects (for whatever reason) not to purchase the mobilehome, in which case management may retain all or a portion of the fee to defray its related administrative costs. If management rejects the prospective purchaser, management must refund the full amount of the fee or charge within 30 days from the date of rejection [Civ. Code § 798.74(b)].

[e] Purchaser's Acknowledgment of Rental Agreement

If a mobilehome in a park is to be sold and remain in the park, the escrow, sale, or transfer agreement must contain a copy of either of the following: (1) a fully executed rental agreement; or (2) a statement, signed by park management and the prospective homeowner, indicating that the parties have agreed to the terms and conditions of a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.75(a); see § 40.120 [2], P 7]. A purchaser who fails to execute a rental agreement does not have any rights of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.75(b)].

An occupant of a mobilehome who has no tenancy rights and who is not otherwise entitled to occupy the mobilehome is subject to an unlawful detainer action if the occupant refuses to surrender the mobilehome park site within five days after park management's demand for surrender [Civ. Code § 798.75(c)]. An occupant of a mobilehome is not considered an unlawful occupant and is not subject to this surrender requirement if all of the following conditions are present [Civ. Code § 798.75(d)]:

(1) The management failed or refused to offer the occupant a rental agreement;

(2) The occupant is the registered owner of the mobilehome; and

(3) The management has determined that the occupant (i) has the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park, (ii) will comply with the rules and regulations of the park [see Civ. Code §

798.75(d)(2) (this determination must be based on the occupant's prior tenancies)], and (iii) will comply with the statutory provisions governing the transfer of mobilehomes [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.81].

§ 40.202 Notice to Remove Sold Mobilehome From Park

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to the seller and purchaser of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome rental park that park management will not allow the mobilehome to remain in the park. As a general rule, management may not require the removal of a mobilehome if it is sold to a third party during the term of the homeowner's rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.73]. However, management may require removal following a sale under narrow circumstances relating to the condition of the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.73; see [b], below]. Management's limited right to require removal applies only if the mobilehome is located in a rental park; the right does not exist if the mobilehome is located in a subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes, or in a resident-owned mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 799.3].

The statute governing when management may require removal of a mobilehome from its park [see Civ. Code § 798.73] does not require that any specific form of notice be given, nor does it address the issues of when and to whom the notice must be given. In the interest of fairness to both the seller and purchaser, management should probably give the notice to both parties as soon as management is aware of a pending sale (for example, at the time the selling homeowner notifies management of the pending sale and seeks management's approval of the purchaser to remain in the park as a tenant) [see Civ. Code § 798.74; see also § 40.201]. The notice should be either (1) delivered personally, or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park and to the purchaser at his or her current address [see Civ. Code § 798.14].

[b] Grounds for Required Removal

If a mobilehome in a park is sold to a third party during the term of the homeowner's rental agreement, management may, to upgrade the quality of the park, require that the mobilehome be removed from the park, but only for a reason permitted by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.73]. One permissible reason for removal is that the mobilehome is not a "mobilehome" as defined under the Mobilehome Residency Law [see Civ. Code § 798.3; § 40.13]. Another permissible reason is that the mobilehome does not comply with certain health and safety or construction standards [see Civ. Code § 798.73]. For a complete list of circumstances under which removal may be required, see § 40.120[2].

The notice must particularly specify the condition that permits the removal of the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.73(e)].

Management must use reasonable discretion in determining the general condition of the mobilehome and bears the burden of demonstrating that the mobilehome is in a significantly rundown condition or in disrepair. Also, management may not require repairs or improvement to the park space or property, except for damage caused by the actions or negligence of the homeowner or the homeowner's agent [Civ. Code § 798.73(d)].

This mobilehome occupies space in the park under an unexpired rental agreement between _____[name of selling homeowner] and _____[name of mobilehome park]. Because of this sale [or pending sale], management has inspected the mobilehome and discovered the following: [specify grounds for removal, e.g., the mobilehome has several broken windows, and its sidings have been severely scorched by fire. Management has considered the results of that inspection in evaluating the general condition of the mobilehome and its acceptability to the health and safety of the occupants and to the public. The age of the mobilehome was not considered in the inspection or evaluation. Based on the evaluation and in the exercise of reasonable discretion, management has determined that the mobilehome is in a significantly run-down condition and in disrepair.] Therefore, pursuant to Civil Code Section 798.73, you are hereby informed that you must remove the mobilehome from the park _____[immediately or by _____ (date)].

§ 40.202A Notice to Repair Mobilehome

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice to the seller of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome park that park management has inspected the mobilehome and requires certain repairs to be made. Park management may only require repairs or improvements to the mobilehome, its appurtenances, or its accessory structures not owned and installed by the management, if (1) the repair or improvement is based on or is required by a local ordinance or state statute or regulation relating to mobilehomes, or a rule or regulation of the mobilehome park that implements or enforces a local ordinance, state statute, or regulation relating to mobilehomes, and (2) the repair or improvement relates to the exterior of the mobilehome, its appurtenances, or the accessory structure [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(a)].

The statute permitting park management to require repairs on the sale or transfer of a mobilehome does not require any specific form of notice. It requires management to provide a homeowner with a written summary of required repairs and improvements no later than 10 business days following receipt of a request for this information made by the homeowner as part of the homeowner's 60-day notice of termination of tenancy under Civ. Code § 798.59 [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(b)]. The summary must include specific references to the park rules and regulations, local ordinances, or state statutes and regulations relating to mobilehomes on which the request for repair or improvement is based [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(b)]. The notice should either be (1) delivered personally, or (2) deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the homeowner at his or her site within the mobilehome park.

§ 40.203 Request for Registration Information and Title Search

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is the official Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) form that must be completed and submitted to HCD to request information regarding the current registration and title status of a mobilehome [see Health & Safety Code § 18081(a)]. To complete the form, the requester must supply identifying information for the unit in question and indicate whether an informal or formal search is being requested. If a request for informal information is made, HCD issues its information statement based only on the current status of its records as of the date it processes the request. For a formal search, which should be requested in any sales transaction, HCD supplies information based on the date the original request is processed and, in addition, provides follow-up notices of any changes to the record within 120 days of the initial request.

On its receipt of a properly executed request for information and the payment of prescribed fees (specified in the form), HCD must provide the information within five working days by first-class mail to the address indicated on the request [Health & Safety Code § 18081(b)]. Alternatively, if so requested, HCD may supply the information by electronic facsimile, provided the requester pays an additional fee and has established a prepaid requester account [see [2], below, instructions; see also Health & Safety Code § 18081(b) (authority of HCD to adopt procedures for providing information by electronic facsimile)].

The Department of Housing and Community Development maintains an informative website at www.hcd.ca.gov. HCD forms, including the form in [2], below, can be found and printed out at the website.

[b] Confidentiality of Registered Owner's Home Address

If a registered owner of a mobilehome has requested confidentiality of his or her home address, HCD will not disclose that address to any requester except a court, law enforcement agency, the State Board of Equalization, or any other governmental entity entitled by law to that information [Health & Safety Code § 18081(c)]. A registered owner who requests confidentiality of his or her home address must supply HCD with a valid and accurate mailing address, which HCD will supply to requesters [Health & Safety Code § 18081(d)].

§ 40.204 Manufactured Home Purchase Agreement and Joint Escrow Instructions [CAR Form MHPA]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the California Association of Realtors (CAR) Manufactured Home Purchase Agreement and Joint Escrow Instructions [CAR Form MHPA, displayed/reprinted with permission, CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS(R); endorsement not implied]. It is intended for use in transactions in which real estate brokers participate in the sale of a mobilehome [see [b], below].

The form is titled "Manufactured Home Purchase Agreement." Note that a "mobilehome" is defined as a structure that meets the requirements of a "manufactured home" [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18007, 18008].

This form and other standardized purchase agreements prepared by real estate boards and associations and commercial publishers assume that the buyer and his or her broker will complete the form. Everything preceding the seller's acceptance clause constitutes the buyer's offer to purchase the mobilehome. After the buyer completes the offer, the buyer's broker formally presents the offer to the seller and the seller's broker. To accept the offer and create a binding contract, the seller must execute the form and return the signed copy to the buyer [see P 36 of form in [2], below]. Several of the provisions of this form are identical to those contained in the CAR "Residential Purchase Agreement and Joint Escrow Instructions." For detailed coverage of the provisions of that form, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.203.

For a summary of requirements for mobilehome purchase/sale documents, see § 40.130. Special considerations and requirements that apply to the sale of a mobilehome located in a mobilehome park are outlined in § 40.120[2]. Finally, for discussion of the requirements that apply when a mobilehome is sold by a licensed dealer, see § 40.131.

PRACTICE TIP:

Getting in Touch With the California Association of Realtors. The California Association of Realtors has offices throughout California. Their headquarters are located at 525 South Virgil Ave., Los Angeles, CA. 90020, (213) 739-8200, www.car.org. Generally, the Association will sell their forms in packages to both members and non-members. Some local Associations, however, will not sell to non-members. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

[b] Broker's Sale of Mobilehome

[i] Authority to Sell

As a general rule, a licensed real estate broker may sell or offer to sell, buy or offer to buy, solicit prospective purchasers of, solicit or obtain listings of, or negotiate the purchase, sale, or exchange of a mobilehome if the mobilehome has been registered under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 as personal property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. (Act); see also § 40.50 (basic registration requirements)]. A broker who performs any of these activities described above in connection with mobilehomes may not maintain any place of business where two or more mobilehomes are displayed and offered for sale unless the broker is also licensed as a mobilehome dealer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6; see Health & Safety Code § 18045 et seq. (dealer licensing requirements)].

For these purposes, a "mobilehome" is a structure transportable in one or more sections designed and equipped to contain not more than two dwelling units used with or without a foundation system [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(c)]. Recreational vehicles, commercial coaches, and factory-built housing are not included in this definition [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(c); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18010, 18001.8, 19971 (definitions of these respective terms)].

In addition to the above requirements, a real estate broker, like any other seller of a mobilehome, may not sell, offer for sale, rent, or lease any mobilehome unless its plumbing, heating, and electrical equipment and installations comply with standards contained in Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) regulations or, for a mobilehome manufactured on or after June 15, 1976, standards contained in the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [Health & Safety Code § 18025; see 42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq. (federal Act)]. The mobilehome must have affixed to it either a federal label or HCD insignia to indicate compliance with these standards [Health & Safety Code § 18026; see § 40.40].

[ii] Duty of Inspection and Disclosure

If a broker has a written contract with the seller to find or obtain a buyer or is a broker who acts in cooperation with that broker to find and obtain a buyer, the broker has a duty to a prospective purchaser of a mobilehome to inspect the property offered for sale and to disclose to the prospective purchaser all facts materially affecting the value or desirability of the property that an investigation would reveal [Civ. Code § 2079(a); see Health & Safety Code § 18046(c)]. Also, the disclosure statement and other requirements applicable to the sale of residential property apply to the sale of a mobilehome classified as real property, and also apply to the resale, on or after January 1, 2000, of a mobilehome classified as personal property intended for use as a residence [Civ. Code § 1102; see Health & Safety Code § 18160].

[c] Prohibited Broker Practices

It is unlawful for a real estate broker to do any of the following in connection with the sale of a mobilehome [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.7]:

- Advertise or offer for sale any mobilehome unless either of the following applies: (1) the mobilehome is in place on a lot rented or leased for human habitation within an established mobilehome park [see Health & Safety Code § 18214 (applicable definition of "mobilehome park")] and the advertising or offering for sale is not contrary to any terms of a contract between the seller of the mobilehome and the owner of the mobilehome park; or (2) the mobilehome is otherwise located, in accordance with a local zoning ordinance or permit, on a lot where its presence has been authorized, or its continued presence and that use would be authorized for an uninterrupted period of at least one year.

- Fail to withdraw any advertisement of a mobilehome for sale, lease, or exchange within 48 hours after receiving notice that the mobilehome is no longer available for sale, lease, or exchange.

- Advertise or represent a mobilehome as a new mobilehome.

- Add licensing or title transfer fees [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 10751] to the selling price of the mobilehome when they are not yet due unless either (1) the broker has paid these fees to avoid a late payment penalty, or (2) the seller has paid the fees and the buyer and seller agree to a proration of the fees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.7(d)].

- Make any representation that a mobilehome is capable of being transported on California highways if the mobilehome does not meet all equipment standards applicable to mobilehomes [see Veh. Code § 24000 et seq.], or fail to disclose any material fact regarding these equipment requirements.

- Advertise or otherwise represent, or knowingly allow to be advertised or represented on the broker's behalf or at his or her place of business, that no downpayment is required in connection with the sale of a mobilehome when a downpayment is in fact required and the buyer is advised or induced to finance the downpayment by a loan in addition to any other loan financing the balance of the purchase price.

- Fail or neglect to cause the endorsement, dating, and delivery of (or fail to endorse, date, and deliver) the certificate of ownership or title to the mobilehome, and, when having possession, to fail to deliver the registration card to a transferee who is lawfully entitled to a transfer of registration.

[d] Broker's Disclosure of Agency Relationship

A licensed real estate broker under whose license a listing is executed or an offer to purchase is obtained must disclose whether he or she is acting exclusively as the seller's agent, exclusively as the buyer's agent, or as a dual agent representing both the buyer and the seller. Further, the broker must confirm this disclosure in writing [Civ. Code § 2079.17; see Civ. Code §§ 2079.14, 2079.16 (obligation to provide sellers and buyers with related statutory disclosure form)]. The written confirmation must appear either in the purchase agreement or in a separate writing [Civ. Code § 2079.17]. Paragraph 30 of this form contains the required confirmation. For further discussion, see Ch. 21, Agreements With Real Estate Brokers and Agents, §§ 21.20, 21.21.

[e] Mobilehome Park's Approval of Purchaser

Management of a mobilehome park may insist on the right to approve any potential purchaser of a mobilehome in the park if the mobilehome is to remain in the park [see Civ. Code §§ 798.74 (tenant park), 799.4 (resident-owned park)]. This form provides that if the property is located on leased or rented land, obtaining residency approval is a contingency of the agreement. After acceptance, the buyer is required to submit a residency application [see P 14 of form in [2], below]. For the limited factors that may be used by management to disapprove a purchaser and the procedure that must be followed to communicate approval or disapproval, see § 40.201.

[f] Installation of Smoke Detector

Any used mobilehome that is sold must have an operable smoke detector in each room designed for sleeping on the date of transfer of title [Health & Safety Code § 18029.6(a)]. This requirement will be satisfied if, within 45 days before the date of transfer of title, the transferor signs a declaration stating that each smoke detector in the manufactured home or mobilehome is operable on the date that the declaration is signed [Health & Safety Code § 18029.6(b)]. Paragraph 4(C)(1) provides that the buyer or seller, depending on which box is checked, must pay for smoke detector installation. Before the close of escrow, the seller must then provide the buyer with a written statement of compliance in accordance with state and local law, unless exempt.

[g] Arbitration

A binding arbitration provision in a deposit receipt or other contract providing for the conveyance of real property must be clearly titled "ARBITRATION OF DISPUTES," must satisfy certain format requirements, and must contain a statutory notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(a)-(c)]. Paragraph 19(B) of this form satisfies those requirements. For further discussion, see Chapter 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

[h] Liquidated Damages

A liquidated damages clause in a contract to purchase and sell real property is valid if:

- It is separately signed or initialed by each party to the contract [Civ. Code §§ 1676, 1677(a)];
- In the case of a printed contract, the provision is set out either in at least 10-point bold type or in contrasting red print in at least eight-point bold type [Civ. Code §§ 1676, 1677(b)]; and
- The buyer, or other person seeking to invalidate the provision, does not establish that it was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code §§ 1671(b), 1676].

The liquidated damages provision in this form [see P 18 of form in [2], below] satisfies the requirement for type size described in the second bulleted item, above. In addition, both parties must initial the provision before it will be incorporated into the agreement. For further discussion of liquidated damages clauses in contracts providing for the sale of real property, see Chapter 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.18.

[i] Regulation Z Disclosures

A conditional sale contract for the purchase of a new or used mobilehome that is subject to registration under the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [see § 40.50 (general registration requirements)] must contain all of the disclosures required under the federal Truth in Lending Act [15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.] by Regulation Z [12 C.F.R. § 226.1 et seq.], if Regulation Z applies to the transaction [Health Safety Code § 18036.5(b); see Health & Safety Code § 18036.5(c)-(m) (violations of disclosure requirement)]. To determine whether or not Regulation Z applies to a particular mobilehome sales transaction, see Chapter 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales . Chapter 45 also fully discusses the Regulation Z disclosure requirements.

[j] Broker's Commission

The CAR form provides that the seller agrees to pay compensation to the broker as specified in a separate written agreement between the seller and the broker [see P 35(A) of form in [2], below]. Real estate brokers are not parties to the agreement. The form also includes provisions that may be used if the commission is to be split between the seller's broker ("listing broker") and another broker ("cooperating broker") [see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.200[1][c][v] for coverage of splitting commissions].

If this form will be the first document to establish the broker's right to compensation for the sale of the mobilehome, or will alter the terms of any previous agreement providing for that compensation, the form must include a statutory statement regarding the negotiable nature of real estate commissions [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10147.5(a)]. As a practical matter, the first form to establish this right typically is a listing agreement executed at the time the property is placed on the market for sale. For further discussion of this requirement, as well as several sample listing agreements, see Chapter 21, Agreements with Real Estate Brokers and Agents .

[k] Reporting Change in Ownership

If the mobilehome is or will be subject to local property taxation [see § 40.70], the buyer must, following the change in ownership, file a preliminary change of ownership report or change in ownership statement with the county in which the mobilehome is located [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 480, 480.3]. An action to enforce the terms of a conditional sale contract providing for the change in ownership of a mobilehome that is subject to local property taxation and to the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 may not be maintained until a change in ownership statement is filed or the contract is recorded [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.10]. For further discussion and illustrative reporting forms, see Chapter 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

§ 40.205 Transfer Disclosure Statement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is a Transfer Disclosure Statement to be used by the seller of a mobilehome on a resale transaction on or after January 1, 2000 [see Civ. Code §§ 1102(b), 1102.6d]. Unless a statutory exception applies [see [b], below], the seller of a mobilehome classified as personal property and intended for use as a residence must complete and deliver a statutory disclosure form to prospective purchasers [Civ. Code § 1102(b); see Civ. Code § 1102.6d], except when the mobilehome is located in a common interest development [Civ. Code § 1102.6d; see Civ. Code § 1351 et seq. (common interest development)]. Any waiver of this requirement, or of any of the other disclosure requirements, is void as against public policy [Civ. Code § 1102(c)].

The statutory form must indicate whether the property has certain items, whether any of those items are not in operating condition, whether the seller is aware of any significant defects or malfunctions in certain structural components of the property, and whether the seller is aware of various other restrictions or problems with the property [see Civ. Code § 1102.6d]. The disclosure of the existence of any window security bars and any safety release mechanism on those window security bars must also be included [Civ. Code § 1102.16].

Each disclosure and each act which may be performed in making the disclosure, must be made in good faith. "Good faith" means honesty in fact in the conduct of the transaction [Civ. Code § 1102.7].

[b] Exempted Transactions

The requirement to furnish a Transfer Disclosure Statement to a prospective purchaser [see [a], above] does not apply in any of the following situations [Civ. Code § 1102.2]:

- Transfers that are required to be preceded by the furnishing to a prospective transferee of a copy of a public report in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1 (relating to subdivisions) and transfers that can be made without a public report in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.4 (relating to subdivisions);

- Transfers ordered by the court, including, but not limited to, transfers ordered by a probate court in the administration of an estate, transfers pursuant to a writ of execution, transfers by any foreclosure sale, transfers by a trustee in bankruptcy, transfers by eminent domain, and transfers resulting from a decree for specific performance;

- Transfers to a mortgagee by a mortgagor or successor in interest who is in default, transfers to a beneficiary of a deed of trust by a trustor or successor in interest who is in default, transfers by any foreclosure sale after default, transfers by any foreclosure sale after default in an obligation secured by a mortgage, transfers by a sale under a power of sale or any foreclosure sale under a decree of foreclosure after default in an obligation secured by a deed of trust or secured by any other instrument containing a power of sale, transfers by a mortgagee or a beneficiary under a deed of trust who has acquired the real property at a sale conducted pursuant to a power of sale under a mortgage or deed of trust or a sale pursuant to a decree of foreclosure or has acquired the real property by a deed in lieu of foreclosure, transfers to the legal owner or lienholder of a manufactured home or mobilehome by a registered owner or successor in interest who is in default, or transfers by reason of any foreclosure of a security interest in a manufactured home or mobilehome;

- Transfers by a fiduciary in the course of the administration of a decedent's estate, guardianship, conservatorship, or trust;

- Transfers from one co-owner to one or more other co-owners;

- Transfers made to a spouse, or to a person or persons in the lineal line of consanguinity of one or more of the transferors;

- Transfers between spouses resulting from a judgment of dissolution of marriage or of legal separation or from a property settlement agreement incidental to that judgment;

- Transfers by the Controller under the Unclaimed Property Law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1500 et seq.];

- Transfers under the statutory provisions providing for the sale of tax-defaulted property [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 3691 et seq., 3771 et seq.]; and

- Transfers or exchanges to or from any governmental entity.

[c] Duties of Dealers, Salespersons, Real Estate Agents, and Escrow Agents

Any dealer, salesperson, real estate broker, or salesperson representing the seller or obtaining the offer must complete a portion of the Transfer Disclosure Statement [see Civ. Code §§ 1102.1(c), 1102.6d, 2079; see also [2], below, PP III, IV, and V].

If more than one licensed real estate broker is acting as an agent in the transfer of a mobilehome, the broker who has obtained the offer made by the transferee must deliver the Transfer Disclosure Statement to the transferee, unless the transferor has given other written instructions for delivery [Civ. Code § 1102.12(a)].

If a licensed real estate broker responsible for delivering the Transfer Disclosure Statement cannot obtain the required disclosure document and does not have written assurance from the transferee that the disclosure has been received, the broker must advise the transferee in writing of his or her rights to the disclosure. A licensed real estate broker responsible for delivering the disclosure statement must maintain a record of the action taken to effect compliance in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 10148 [Civ. Code § 1102.12(b)].

A person or entity acting in the capacity of an escrow agent for the transfer of a mobilehome (other than a real estate agent) will not be deemed the agent of the transferor or transferee for purposes of the disclosure requirements, unless the person or entity is empowered to so act by an express written agreement to that effect. The extent of such an agency must be governed by the written agreement [Civ. Code § 1102.11].

[d] Delivery and Receipt of Transfer Disclosure Statement

The transferor of a mobilehome must deliver to the prospective transferee the Transfer Disclosure Statement as follows [Civ. Code § 1102.3a(a)]:

- In the case of a sale, or a lease with an option to purchase, of a mobilehome involving an agent (as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18046) as soon as practicable, but no later than the close of escrow for the purchase of the mobilehome; and

- In the case of a sale, or lease with an option to purchase, of a mobilehome not involving an agent (as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18046) at the time of execution of any document by the prospective transferee with the transferor for the purchase of the mobilehome.

Delivery of disclosures must be by personal delivery or mail to the prospective transferee. For the purposes of this requirement, delivery to the spouse of a transferee is deemed delivery to the transferee, unless provided otherwise by contract [Civ. Code § 1102.10].

The transferor must indicate compliance with these requirements either on the Transfer Disclosure Statement, any addendum attached to the statement, or on a separate document [Civ. Code § 1102.3a(b)].

[e] Amendment to Transfer Disclosure Statement

Any disclosure made in accordance with Civ. Code § 1102 et seq. may be amended in writing by the transferor or his or her agent. The amendment is subject to the same provisions for delivery and confirmation of receipt as the original statement [Civ. Code § 1102.9; see [d], above].

Furthermore, if a Transfer Disclosure Statement, or any material amendment of any disclosure, is delivered after the execution of an offer to purchase, the transferee has three days after delivery in person or five days after delivery by deposit in the mail, to terminate his or her offer by delivering a written notice of termination to the transferor [Civ. Code § 1102.3a(c)].

[f] Information From Third Parties

The delivery of any information required to be disclosed under Civ. Code § 1102 et seq. to a prospective transferee by a public agency or other person providing this information is deemed to comply with the disclosure requirements and relieves the transferor or any listing or selling agent of any further disclosure duty with regard to that item of information [Civ. Code § 1102.4(b)].

Likewise, the delivery of a report or opinion prepared by a licensed engineer, land surveyor, geologist, structural pest control operator, contractor, or other expert, dealing with matters within the scope of the professional's license or expertise, is sufficient compliance for application of the exemption discussed in [b], above, if the information is provided to the prospective transferee in response to a written or oral request for that information. In responding to such a request, an expert may indicate, in writing, an understanding that the information provided will be used in fulfilling the requirements of Civ. Code § 1102.6 and, if so, must indicate the required disclosures to which the information being furnished is applicable. When the expert's statement is furnished, the expert is not responsible for any items of information other than those expressly set forth in the statement [Civ. Code § 1102.4(c)].

[g] Errors and Omissions

Neither the transferor nor any listing or selling agent will be liable for any error, inaccuracy, or omission of any information in the Transfer Disclosure Statement if the error, inaccuracy, or omission meets all of the following criteria [Civ. Code § 1102.4(a)]:

- It was not within the personal knowledge of the transferor or that listing or selling agent;
- It was based on information timely provided by public agencies or by certain other persons [see [f], above]; and
- Ordinary care was exercised in obtaining and transmitting it.

[h] Subsequent Inaccuracies

If information disclosed is subsequently rendered inaccurate as a result of any act, occurrence, or agreement after the delivery of the required disclosures, the resulting inaccuracy does not constitute a violation of the disclosure requirements. If at the time the disclosures are required to be made, an item of information required to be disclosed is unknown or not available to the transferor, and the transferor or his or her agent has made a reasonable effort to ascertain it, the transferor may use an approximation of the information, provided the approximation is clearly identified as such, is reasonable, is based on the best information available to the transferor or his or her agent, and is not used for the purpose of circumventing or evading the transfer disclosure requirements [Civ. Code § 1102.5].

[i] Effect of Noncompliance

The transfer of a mobilehome will not be invalidated solely because of the failure of any person to comply with the requirements to furnish a Transfer Disclosure Statement to a prospective transferee. However, any person who willfully or negligently violates or fails to perform any duty under Civ. Code § 1102 et seq. will be liable in the amount of actual damages suffered by a transferee [Civ. Code § 1102.13].

An escrow agent may not create an escrow instruction in which a purchaser accepts responsibility for the installation of a manufactured home unless and until the escrow agent is in receipt of the executed form. 18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.210

§ 40.210 Application for Original Registration

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) application form [Form HCD 480.5] for the original registration of any mobilehome that is subject to registration under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code §§ 18075, 18085; see Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. (Act); see also § 40.50]. Except as otherwise explained below, this form must be filed to originally register a mobilehome, even if the mobilehome is exempt from annual registration requirements [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18085, 18075; see also § 40.111, P 2 (exemption from annual registration requirements)]. The reverse side of the official form contains a questionnaire that includes a request for information necessary to establish the basis for an exemption from the annual registration requirements.

Mobilehomes installed or to be installed on foundation systems as a fixture or improvement to real property [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a); see also § 40.122] are exempt from registration so long as they remain affixed to a foundation system. Therefore, for the purchase of a new mobilehome that will be immediately installed on a foundation system, this application for original registration need not be filed. However, if the mobilehome is subsequently removed from the foundation system, this form must be filed to obtain the original registration for the mobilehome [see Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b)]. This application for original registration also does not have to be filed for any new and previously unregistered, unoccupied mobilehome that is part of an inventory held for sale by a manufacturer or dealer in the course of business until the mobilehome is sold [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18075.5(f), 18084.7].

For an outline of mobilehome registration and titling requirements, see § 40.121. That outline covers original and renewal registration, transfers of title and interests after initial registration, and miscellaneous required notices.

The Department of Housing and Community Development maintains an informative website at www.hcd.ca.gov. HCD forms, including the form in [2], below, can be found and printed out at the website.

[b] Filing Requirements

A completed application for original registration (this form) must be submitted to HCD, along with the appropriate filing fee [see Health & Safety Code § 18114]. For mobilehomes manufactured on or after January 1, 1986, theoriginal manufacturer's certificate of origin for the mobilehome must also be submitted [Health & Safety Code § 18085(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18093, 18093.5 (certificate of origin)]. If the original certificate of origin does not exist, a duplicate copy must be obtained from the manufacturer and submitted with the application. Any duplicate copy must be conspicuously marked by the manufacturer as a duplicate copy [Health & Safety Code § 18085(a)].

[c] Required Information

The following information must be furnished in the application for original registration [Health & Safety Code § 18085(b)]:

- The true name and mailing address of the registered owner, the legal owner (if any), and any junior lienholders.

- The name of the county in which the registered owner resides.

- The situs address of the mobilehome.

- A description of the mobilehome, including all of the following: (1) the manufacturer's name and identification number; (2) the date of manufacture; (3) the serial number or numbers; (4) the federal label or HCD insignia number or numbers affixed to the mobilehome [see § 40.40]; (5) the date first sold or leased to a purchaser or lessee for purposes other than resale; and (6) any other information reasonably required by HCD to enable it to determine whether the mobilehome is entitled to registration.

[d] Establishment of Permanent Title Record

When a mobilehome is originally registered, HCD will establish a permanent title record for the mobilehome and issue (1) a certificate of title [see Health & Safety Code § 18091 (contents)] to the legal owner, and (2) a registration card [see Health & Safety Code § 18091.5 (contents)] to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5(a)]. The holder (if any) of the perfected security interest in the mobilehome, will be designated as the legal owner on the permanent title record. If there is more than one perfected security interest, the holder of the security interest designated in the application for original registration (this form) as the legal owner will be the legal owner [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5(b)].

The record will also designate as junior lienholders those holders (if any) of perfected security interests in the mobilehome other than the legal owner. If there is more than one junior lienholder, they will be listed on the permanent title record in the same order as designated in the application for original registration [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5(c)].

If the application specifies more than one secured creditor and HCD is unable to determine from the application which creditor is to be the legal owner, or the seniority order in which junior lienholders are to be designated, HCD must (1) so notify the applicant and all secured creditors, and (2) withhold registration until it receives the designation [Health & Safety Code § 18090.5(d)].

[e] HCD Refusal to Register

HCD may refuse to register a mobilehome in the following instances [Health & Safety Code § 18092.5]:

- If HCD is not satisfied that the applicant is entitled to have the mobilehome registered under the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980.

- If the applicant has failed to furnish information required in the application or reasonable additional information required by HCD.

[f] Registration When Ownership or Foreign Liens in Doubt

If HCD is not satisfied as to the ownership or the existence of foreign liens on the mobilehome, it may register the mobilehome and issue a registration card with distinctive markings. It will not, however, issue a certificate of title unless the applicant presents documents sufficient to reasonably satisfy HCD of the applicant's ownership of the mobilehome and the absence of any liens, or posts a bond pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18086.5 [Health & Safety Code § 18089]. A Health & Safety Code § 18086.5 bond may be accepted by HCD in the absence of regularly required supporting evidence of ownership. The bond must be conditioned to protect HCD, all of its officers and employees, any subsequent purchaser of the mobilehome, any person acquiring a lien or security interest on the mobilehome, or the successor in interest of that purchaser or that person against any loss or damage arising from any defect in or undisclosed claim on the right, title, and interest of the applicant or other person to or in the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18086.5(a)].

[g] Renewal of Registration

The registration card for all mobilehomes subject to annual registration [see § 40.111, P 2 (list of exemptions)] expires at midnight on the expiration date indicated on the registration card, and must be renewed before that expiration. Renewal is accomplished by submitting the registration card and required renewal fees to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18109].

[h] Filing of Application to Perfect Security Interest

To perfect a security interest acquired or retained at or before the original registration of a mobilehome, the holder of the security interest must forward or cause to be forwarded to HCD an application for original registration of the mobilehome (this form), executed by the registered owner. The security interested is perfected (provided it has attached as provided in Com. Code § 9302(a)) [see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing], except as otherwise provided by Com. Code § 9313, on HCD's receipt of the completed application designating the holder of the security interest as "legal owner" [Health & Safety Code §§ 18080.7(a), (b), 18090.5(b)].

§ 40.211 Notice of Sale or Transfer of Mobilehome

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the official Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) notice of sale or transfer of a mobilehome [Form HCD 476.8]. This form must be completed and submitted to HCD within 20 days of any of the following events [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(a)]:

- The title or interest of a registered owner, legal owner, or junior lienholder in a registered mobilehome is transferred to another person.

- All outstanding secured obligations previously held by a legal owner registered on the original or subsequent registration or by a junior lienholder are satisfied and the person no longer has any obligation to extend credit, incur obligations, or otherwise give value to be secured by the mobilehome.

- A security interest is taken in a mobilehome after the permanent title record has been established.

For further discussion of the requirements governing a transfer of title, see § 40.121[2].

§ 40.212 Certificate for Transfer Without Probate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) form that must be submitted to HCD by a surviving heir or beneficiary of a deceased registered or legal owner of a mobilehome, if the registration of the decedent's title or interest in the mobilehome is to be transferred without probate [Form HCD 475.2; see Health & Safety Code § 18102]. For discussion of the requirements that must be satisfied to secure a transfer under these circumstances, see [b], below.

The Department of Housing and Community Development maintains an informative website at www.hcd.ca.gov. HCD forms, including the form in [2], below, can be found and printed out at the website.

[b] Transfer of Registration in Absence of Probate

If 40 days have elapsed since the death of the registered or legal owner of a registered mobilehome and the decedent has not left other property necessitating probate, then, irrespective of the value of the mobilehome, the following person or persons may secure a transfer of registration of the decedent's title or interest [Health & Safety Code § 18102(a)]:

- The sole person or all of the persons who succeeded to the decedent's property by intestate succession [see Prob. Code §§ 6401, 6402], unless the mobilehome is otherwise bequeathed by will.

- The sole beneficiary or all of the beneficiaries who succeeded to the mobilehome under the decedent's will.

To secure the transfer, the above person(s) must present all of the following to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18102(b)

]:

- The appropriate certificate of title and registration card, if available.
- If required by HCD, a certificate of the decedent's death.
- If required by HCD, the names and addresses of any other heirs or beneficiaries.
- A certificate of the heir or beneficiary under penalty of perjury (this form) containing the following information and statements:

(1) the date and place of the decedent's death;

(2) a statement that the decedent left no other property necessitating probate and that no probate proceeding is now being or has been conducted in California for the decedent's estate;

(3) a statement that the declarant is entitled to the mobilehome either as the sole person (or all of the persons) who succeeded to the decedent's property by intestate succession [see Prob. Code §§ 6401, 6402], if the decedent left no will, or as the beneficiary (or beneficiaries) under the decedent's last will, and that no one has a right to the decedent's mobilehome that is superior to that of the declarant; and

(4) a statement that there are no unsecured creditors of the decedent or, if there are, that the decedent's unsecured creditors have been paid in full or their claims have been otherwise discharged.

The person who secures the transfer of the mobilehome under the procedure described above is subject to the Probate Code provisions governing liability resulting from transfer of a decedent's property [see Prob. Code §§ 13109-13113] to the same extent as a person to whom transfer of property is made under Probate Code provisions that permit the collection of all or a portion of a small estate without administration [Health & Safety Code § 18102(c); see Prob. Code § 13100 et seq. (collection of small estate without administration); California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 440, Probate: Is Probate Necessary ? (Matthew Bender)].

§ 40.220 Responsive Notice by Secured Party Regarding Homeowner's Default

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to park management from the legal owner of a mobilehome in the park or a junior lienholder with a security interest in such a mobilehome, responding to a notice of termination of tenancy. If park management gives a homeowner written notice that his or her tenancy in the park is being terminated [see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks], it must also send notice of the termination to the legal owner of the mobilehome and any junior lienholder [Civ. Code § 798.55(b); see [c], below (definitions of "legal owner" and "junior lienholder")]. The legal owner and each junior lienholder must then send management, within the time permitted by statute, a responsive written notice (this form) that does one of the following [see Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)]:

- Offers to sell the obligation secured by the mobilehome to park management.
- Notifies park management of the lienholder's intention to foreclose on its security interest in the mobilehome.
- Requests that management pursue the termination of tenancy and offers management reasonable reimbursement of attorneys' fees and costs in that action.

The notice must be sent by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested [Civ. Code § 798.56a(f)]. If a legal owner or junior lienholder fails to give the required notice, that person or entity has no right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b); see [f], [g], below].

[b] Secured Party's Right of Sale

As a general rule, any legal owner or junior lienholder who forecloses on his or her security interest in a mobilehome located in a mobilehome park has the right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party in accordance with applicable provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) [see Civ. Code § 798 et seq. (MRL); Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83 (MRL transfer and sale requirements); see also §§ 40.44, 40.120[2]]. However, this right may be exercised only if all of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities to the park management regarding rent, utilities, and reasonable maintenance of a mobilehome and its premises are satisfied by the foreclosing creditor as they accrue through the date the mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.79(a)]. Also, if a legal owner or junior lienholder has received from park management a copy of a notice of termination of tenancy, the foreclosing creditor's right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party is subject to the creditor's compliance with all of the requirements discussed in this § 40.220 [see Civ. Code § 798.56a].

[c] "Legal Owner" and "Junior Lienholder" Defined

For purposes of the statutory provisions discussed in this § 40.220, "legal owner" means a person holding a security interest in a mobilehome, provided (1) the security interest has been perfected by the filing of the appropriate documents with the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.7 (procedure for perfecting security interest)] and (2) the person is entitled to the designation under the provisions of the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 governing applications for original registration and title or transactions affecting the registration of, or interests in, mobilehomes [Health & Safety Code § 18005.8; Civ. Code §§ 798.55(b), 798.56(e)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 18080.7]. A lien arising from a final money judgment for unpaid rent in a mobilehome park [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.9] is not a "security interest" for purposes of this definition [Health & Safety Code § 18005.8].

"Junior lienholder" means a person, other than a legal owner, holding a security interest in a mobilehome that has been perfected by the filing of the appropriate documents with HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18005.3; Civ. Code §§ 798.55(b), 798.56(e)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 18080.7].

[d] Termination of Tenancy

Management may terminate a tenancy in a mobilehome park only for one or more reasons permitted by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.56]. To exercise this right, management must give the homeowner written notice to remove the mobilehome from the park. The notice must specify the period (not less than 60 days) within which the mobilehome must be sold or removed. Management must also send a copy of this notice to the legal owner, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner, if other than the homeowner, by United States mail within 10 days after notice to the homeowner. The copy may be sent by regular mail or by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested, at the management's option [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1)]. Further, if the homeowner has not paid the rent due (if any) within three days "after notice to the homeowner," and if the first notice was not sent by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested, an additional copy of the notice of termination must be sent to the legal owner, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner, if other than the homeowner, by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested within 10 days after notice to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.55(c)]. As used above, "after notice to the homeowner" apparently refers to the notice of termination received by the homeowner. However, because a termination cannot be based on a nonpayment of rent unless the homeowner is also given a three-day notice to pay or vacate [see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1); Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks], a notice of termination provided to the homeowner under these circumstances should be accompanied by such a three-day notice, as permitted by statute [see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1)]. The copies of the notice of termination described above must be addressed to the recipients at the addresses set forth in the registration card [Civ. Code § 798.55(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18091.5 (registration card)].

[e] Requirements for Responsive Notice

Within 60 days following the receipt of the notice of termination (but no later than 65 days after it was mailed), the legal owner and each junior lienholder must notify management in writing (this form) of at least one of the following [Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)]:

- Its offer to sell the obligation secured by the mobilehome to management for the amount specified in its written offer. In that case, management has 15 days following the receipt of the offer to accept or reject it in writing. If management rejects the offer, the offeror has 10 days in which to exercise one of the other options described in (2) and (3), below, and to notify management in writing of its choice.

- Its intention to foreclose on its security interest in the mobilehome.

- Its request that management pursue the termination of tenancy against the homeowner and its offer to reimburse management for the reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs incurred by management in that action.

The notice must be sent to management by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested [Civ. Code § 798.56a(f)].

[f] Conditional Right to Keep Mobilehome in Park Pending Resale

If the legal owner or junior lienholder elects to foreclose on its security interest or requests that management terminate the homeowner's tenancy [see [e], above], and the legal owner or junior lienholder has the right to sell the mobilehome to a third party in accordance with the provisions of the MRL governing transfers of mobilehomes in mobilehome parks [Civ. Code § 798.56a(c); see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.82; see also §§ 40.44, 40.120[2]], that person or entity has the right to keep the mobilehome on the site within the park until it is resold, provided the person or entity performs all of the following acts [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)]:

- Satisfies, within 60 days following receipt of the notice of termination (but no later than 65 days after mailing of that notice), all of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities owing to management for the 90 days preceding the mailing of the notice of termination. For these purposes, "homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities" means all rents, utilities, reasonable maintenance charges of the mobilehome and its premises, and reasonable maintenance of the mobilehome and its premises pursuant to existing park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.56a(c)]. Performance by the legal owner or junior lienholder of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities does not cure the homeowner's default [Civ. Code § 798.56a(g)].

- Continues to satisfy the above responsibilities and liabilities as they accrue from the date of mailing of the notice of termination until the date the mobilehome is resold.

- Within 60 days following receipt of the notice of termination (but no later than 65 days after mailing of that notice), commences all repairs and necessary corrective actions so that mobilehome complies with (a) the park rules and regulations that were in existence at the time the notice of termination was given and (b) certain health and safety standards [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, 18605; see also §§ 40.20, 40.23].

- Completes the repairs and corrective actions described above, within 90 calendar days of the notice of termination, or before the date the mobilehome is sold, whichever is earlier.

- Complies with the requirements of the MRL governing transfers of mobilehomes [see Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.82; § 40.44] as they relate to transfers of mobilehomes to third parties.

- Reimburses management the amount of reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs, as agreed on by management and the legal owner or junior lienholder, incurred by management in an action to terminate the homeowner's tenancy, provided the legal owner or junior lienholder requested that management pursue such an action [see [a], above]. The reimbursement must be paid to management on or before the earlier of (a) the sixtieth calendar day following receipt of written notice from management of the aggregate amount of those reasonable attorneys' fees and costs or (b) the date the mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.56a(a)(3)].

[g] Consequences of Noncompliance by Secured Party With Notice and Other Requirements

If the legal owner or junior lienholder fails to provide management with this notice, or, after giving the notice, fails to comply with all conditions required by statute to maintain the mobilehome in the park until its resale [see Civ. Code § 798.56a(b); [f], above], that person or entity does not have any right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party [Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)]. Further, notwithstanding any other provision of law, if neither the legal owner nor the junior lienholder (if any) gives this notice or performs as agreed in that notice within 30 days, management may either remove the mobilehome from the premises and place it in storage or store it on its site. In that case, management will have a warehouseman's lien [see Com. Code § 7209; see also Ch. 99, Moving and Storage of Household Goods, pt. C] against the mobilehome for costs of dismantling and moving, if appropriate, and storage. The warehouseman's lien is superior to all other liens, except the state's lien for unpaid license and registration fees and penalties [see Health & Safety Code § 18116.1]. The lien may be enforced under the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 7210 (procedure for lien enforcement); see also Ch. 99, Moving and Storage of Household Goods , Part C] either after the date of judgment in an unlawful detainer action or after the date the mobilehome is physically vacated by the resident, whichever occurs earlier [Civ. Code § 798.56a(e)]. After any lawful sale to enforce the warehouseman's lien, management must provide the purchaser at the sale with evidence of the sale as may be specified by HCD, which then must, upon proper request by the purchaser, register title to the mobilehome to that purchaser, whether or not there existed a legal owner or junior lienholder on title to the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.56a(e)].

[h] Effect of Homeowner's Bankruptcy

If the defaulting homeowner files for bankruptcy, all time periods described in subsections [a] through [g], above, are tolled until the mobilehome is released from bankruptcy [Civ. Code § 798.56a(d)].

§ 40.221 Secured Party's Lien Status Report

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the type of lien status report that a secured party (that is, a legal owner or junior lienholder) [see Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(a)(1)] must provide to an entitled party upon written request. An "entitled party" is any of the following: (1) a registered owner or any person holding a security interest or other lien or encumbrance that is subordinate to the security interest of the secured party; or (2) an escrow agent for an escrow involving the sale or transfer of an interest in a mobilehome subject to registration under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(a)(2); see Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.].

In addition to this statement, an entitled person or his or her authorized agent may demand a true, correct, and complete copy of the conditional sale contract or the promissory note and security agreement and any subsequent modifications. All of the requested documents must be mailed to the person whose name and address is set forth in the demand [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(b), (d)].

The secured party may charge up to $50 for furnishing the required report, whether or not the security agreement covering the mobilehome provides for a charge [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(g)].

If the secured party has more than one branch, office, or other place of business, the demand must be made to the branch or office where the payments of the obligation are made. The report, unless it specifies otherwise, will be deemed to apply only to the unpaid balance owing to or payable at that branch office or place of business [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(f)].

[b] Required Contents of Report

The written report must indicate all of the following [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(b)]:

- The amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation owing to the secured party and the interest rate, together with the total amounts (if any) of all overdue installments of either principal or interest, or both.

- The amounts of periodic payments, if any.

- The date on which the obligation is due in whole or in part.

- The date to which taxes and special assessments have been paid, to the extent that information is known to the secured party.

- The amount of hazard insurance in effect and the term and premium of that insurance, to the extent that information is known to the secured party.

- The amount in an account, if any, maintained for the accumulation of funds with which to pay taxes and insurance premiums.

- The nature and, if known, the amount of any additional charges, costs, or expenses paid or incurred by the secured party that have become a lien on the mobilehome.

- If applicable, a statement indicating (a) that subsequently incurred obligations will be secured by the mobilehome and (b) if applicable, the maximum amount that may thereafter become secured.

[c] Proof of Entitlement

Before delivering the report, the secured party may require reasonable proof that the person making the demand is in fact an "entitled person" [see [a], above]. If this demand is made, the secured party will not be subject to penalties for failure to prepare and deliver the report [see [d], below] until 21 days after receipt of the proof demanded [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(c)].

A written statement appointing an authorized agent, signed by the entitled person, will constitute reasonable proof as to the identity of an agent when delivered to the secured party either personally or by registered mail (return receipt requested). Similar delivery of any of the following documents will constitute reasonable proof as to the identity of a successor in interest, provided the person demanding the report is named as successor in interest in the document: a title insurance policy; a preliminary report issued by a title company; an original or photographic copy of a sales agreement covering the mobilehome; or a certified copy of letters testamentary, guardianship, or conservatorship [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(c)].

[d] Failure to Provide Report

If, for a period of 21 days after receipt of the written demand, a secured party willfully fails to prepare and deliver the report, he or she is liable to the entitled person for all actual damages. Further, whether or not actual damages are sustained, the secured party must forfeit $300 to the entitled person. Each failure to prepare and deliver a lien status report when required to do so creates a separate cause of action. However, a judgment awarding an entitled person the $300 forfeiture (with or without damages) bars recovery of damages and forfeiture for any other failure to prepare and deliver a report in response to a demand for such a report that (1) is made within six months before or after the demand that lead to the award and (2) relates to the same obligation [Health & Safety Code § 18035.5(e)].

§ 40.222 Statement of Lien by Junior Lienholder

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is the official Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) form [Form HCD 480.7] that, in conjunction with other items [see [b], below] must be filed to perfect a security interest that is acquired or to be retained after the original registration of a mobilehome (that is, a junior lien) [see Health & Safety Code § 18080.7]. Except as otherwise provided in the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 (Act) [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.], a security interest in a mobilehome subject to registration under the Act [see § 40.50] is governed by Division 9 [see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.] of the Commercial Code [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(h); see Com. Code § 9201(b)]. The requirements discussed below are only those imposed by the Act. For detailed coverage of Division 9 requirements, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

[b] Filings Required to Perfect Security Interest

To perfect a security interest in a mobilehome that is acquired or retained after the original registration of the mobilehome, the following must be filed with HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7]:

- Appropriate filing fee [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18114-18119].
- Certificate of title or current registration card with appropriate insertions and signatures [see Health & Safety Code § 18100.5].
- Debtor's signed statement of lien (this form) that contains description of collateral [see Com. Code § 9203 (value must have been given and debtor must have rights in collateral for security interest to attach)].

The completed statement of lien may be faxed to HCD. In that case, the interest will be perfected as of its date of receipt by HCD (provided the interest has attached) [see Com. Code § 9203(a); see also Com. Code § 9313; but see [c], below], subject to HCD receiving the following within 10 days of the facsimile transmission: the required fee, the certificate of title or current registration card, and the original of the statement of lien (this form) [see Health & Safety Code 18080.7(b)].

To perfect a security interest acquired or retained at or before the original registration of a mobilehome, an application for original registration [see § 40.210[2] (form for application)] and appropriate fees [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18114-18119] must be forwarded to HCD [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(a), (b)].

The failure of a secured party to perfect a security interest for which there has been attachment does not impair or affect in any way its enforceability against the registered owner or debtor with respect to the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(g)].

[c] Establishment or Amendment of Permanent Title Record

On receipt of the items required to perfect a security interest [see [b], above], HCD will ordinarily take the following steps: establish or amend the permanent title record of the mobilehome to reflect the interest of the secured party; issue the registered owner a current registration card indicating the interest of the secured party; and forward a copy of the registration card to all persons holding a record security interest in the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(c), (d)]. The registration card will designate the holder of a perfected security interest as either the legal owner or a junior lienholder [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(f)]. HCD may not refuse to establish or amend the permanent title record to indicate a security interest that is authorized by law to be recorded and that would otherwise satisfy statutory requirements for departmental documentation and recordation on the basis of lack of knowledge as to the attachment of the security interest prior to its receipt of the statement of lien or of the electronic facsimile of the statement [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7(e)].

Notwithstanding the provisions discussed above regarding amendments to permanent title, HCD may impose a moratorium on any amendments to the permanent title if it has previously received notice that escrow has been opened for the sale of the subject mobilehome in which the security interest is to be acquired [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(b)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 18035(d) (escrow and other requirements for dealer sale or lease with option to buy a used mobilehome)]. This moratorium period begins on the date HCD receives notice that escrow has been opened, and continues for 120 days or until the escrow is cancelled or closes. It extends, among other things, to any amendments to the permanent title record of the mobilehome for the purpose of transferring any ownership interest or transferring or creating any security interest in the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18100.5(b)(1)].

PART IV. FORMS

18-40 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 40.223

§ 40.223 Notice of Default

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory notice of default that must be given by a creditor to the registered owner of a mobilehome before the creditor may foreclose its security interest under any security agreement relating to a loan or conditional sale contract that grants the secured creditor the right to foreclose its security interest in (or repossess) the property [see Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)]. Unless the registered owner of the collateral has voluntarily surrendered possession of the property to the secured creditor or has abandoned the property, this notice must be given prior to foreclosure, notwithstanding any contrary provisions in the security agreement or conditional sale contract or in any other agreement entered into prior to default [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)]. For a form for the notice that must be given in cases of abandonment, see § 40.224.

Use of this notice and the foreclosure procedure discussed below is limited to situations in which the collateral is a mobilehome that (1) is subject to registration under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.], and (2) does not constitute part of a dealer's inventory [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)].

If the collateral is subject to registration but is part of a dealer's inventory, the secured party may repossess and dispose of the collateral in accordance with the provisions of the security agreement or conditional sale contract and applicable law, including applicable provisions of Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(b); see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. After repossession, the secured creditor must then prepare and forward to the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD) a notice of repossession on the form prescribed by it [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(b)].

This form and the foreclosure procedure discussed below also should not be used if (1) the mobilehome pledged as collateral is permanently affixed to a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18551; § 40.122 [2]], or (2) security for the loan involved includes the real property on which the mobilehome is affixed or installed. In those cases, procedures for foreclosure (including notice of default and sale) are the same as those required for real property [Health & Safety Code § 18039.1; see Civ. Code §§ 2920-2967; Ch. 25D, Foreclosure].

[b] Form of Notice and Mailing Requirements

The notice of default must be in substantially the form required by statute (this form), must be in at least 10-point type, and must be signed by the foreclosing creditor [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(1)].

The foreclosing creditor must mail (via registered or certified mail with postage prepaid) this notice to each registered owner listed on the current registration of the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(1)]. Within five days following that mailing, the creditor must then forward a copy of the notice to HCD and to the legal owner and each junior lienholder (as shown on the current registration card), provided they are different than the foreclosing creditor. These copies of the notice must also be mailed via registered or certified mail with postage prepaid [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(2)].

Each registered owner and each junior lienholder having a security interest that is subordinate to the security interest of the foreclosing creditor has the right to cure the default. This right must be exercised in the methods and manner prescribed in the notice of default (this form) within 45 days after the notice of default is mailed to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(3)].

[d] Sale of Mobilehome

If the default is not cured within the time indicated in the notice of default, or if the property has been abandoned by the registered owner or voluntarily surrendered by the registered owner to the foreclosing creditor, the creditor may sell the mobilehome at a private or public sale [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(4); see § 40.224 (notice required prior to sale of abandoned mobilehome)]. The sale must be conducted pursuant to the provisions of Com. Code § 9610 [see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions (required sale procedure)], except that certain of those provisions relating to the notice of sale and the distribution of sale proceeds are superseded by the requirements discussed below [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(4), (5), (c); see [e], below (required distribution of sale proceeds)]. Specifically, in the case of the notice of sale required by Com. Code §§ 9610, 9611, 9617, 9618, 9624, the notice must not be mailed or delivered before expiration of the period for the right to cure the default (as stated in the notice of default), unless the registered owner abandons the property or voluntarily surrenders it to the foreclosing creditor [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(4)]. Notwithstanding any contrary provisions of Com. Code 9610, 9611, 9615, 9617, 9618, and 9624, the foreclosing creditor also must send, by registered or certified mail, a notice of sale addressed to each party to whom a copy of the notice of default was mailed [see [b], above]. The notice of sale must be given at least 10 days before the date fixed for a public sale or the date on or after which any private sale is to be made [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(5)].

[e] Distribution of Sale Proceeds

The proceeds of the sale of the mobilehome must be applied to the following, in the order indicated below [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)]:

> (1) The reasonable and necessary expenses incurred in preparing for and conducting the sale; if the foreclosing creditor has obtained possession of the collateral (mobilehome) prior to the disposition, the reasonable and necessary expenses for the retaking and holding of the collateral; and, to the extent provided for in the agreement and not prohibited by law, reasonable attorneys' fees and legal expenses incurred by the foreclosing creditor in retaking the property from any person not a party to the credit contract.

(2) The satisfaction of the indebtedness secured by the security interest of the foreclosing creditor under which the disposition is made.

(3) The satisfaction of indebtedness secured by any subordinate liens or encumbrances on the property in the order of their priority as provided in Health & Safety Code § 18105 if, with respect to a junior creditor, written demand is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed, and to the satisfaction of any subordinate attachment lien or execution lien pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b), if notice of the levy of attachment or execution is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the foreclosing creditor, the holder of a subordinate lien or encumbrance must furnish reasonable proof of his or her interest. If he or she does not furnish this proof, the foreclosing creditor need not comply with the demand.

(4) The satisfaction of indebtedness secured by all senior liens or encumbrances in the order of their priority as provided in Health & Safety Code § 18105 if, with respect to a senior creditor, written demand is received by the foreclosing creditor before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the foreclosing creditor, the holder of a senior lien or encumbrance must furnish reasonable proof of his or her interest. If he or she does not furnish this proof, the foreclosing creditor need not comply with his or her demand.

(5) The registered owner, within 45 days after the sale is conducted, if a surplus remains.

[f] Written Accounting to Registered Owner

If the registered owner makes a request for an accounting within one year after the sale of the mobilehome and an accounting was not automatically provided within 45 days after the sale, the foreclosing creditor must provide a written accounting containing the gross sales proceeds and its allocation. If any surplus is paid to the registered owner [see [e], above], the foreclosing creditor must furnish an accounting whether or not one is requested by the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(d)].

§ 40.224 Notice of Belief of Abandonment

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This statutory notice of belief of abandonment must be given by a secured creditor with the right of foreclosure who reasonably believes that the registered owner of collateral for the creditor's secured obligation has abandoned the collateral. Under these circumstances, this notice, in lieu of a notice of default [see § 40.223[2]], is required before the secured creditor may foreclose on its security interest [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a), (a)(1), (6)]. This notice must be used when the collateral believed to be abandoned is a mobilehome subject to registration under the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] and is not a part of dealer inventory [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a), (a)(6)].

This form may not be used, and different foreclosure proceedings apply [see § 40.223[1][a]], if any of the following apply to the collateral for the secured obligation:

- The collateral is a part of dealer inventory [see Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a), (b)].

- The collateral is a mobilehome that is permanently affixed to a foundation system [Health & Safety Code § 18039.1; see Health & Safety Code § 18551 (requirements for installation on foundation system)].

- The collateral includes real property on which a mobilehome is affixed or installed [Health & Safety Code § 18039.1].

[b] Form of Notice and Service Requirements

The notice must be in 10-point type and in substantially the form set forth below. It must be personally delivered to the registered owner or sent by registered or certified mail, with postage prepaid, to the registered owner at his or her last known address. If there is reason to believe that the registered owner will not receive the notice sent to that address, then it must also be sent to any other known address where the registered owner may reasonably be expected to receive it [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)].

[c] Responsive Notice by Registered Owner

After this notice is delivered, the mobilehome will be deemed abandoned unless the registered owner responds by written notice before the date indicated in the notice. The date indicated in the notice must be not less than 15 days after the notice is served personally or, if the notice is mailed, not less than 18 days after the notice is deposited in the mail. The registered owner's written notice to the foreclosing creditor must state the following [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)]:

- That the registered owner has not abandoned and does not intend to abandon the mobilehome; and
- An address at which the registered owner may be served by certified mail with a summons in connection with any legal action that the foreclosing creditor may appropriately initiate.

[d] Sale and Distribution of Proceeds

If the registered owner does not respond in writing within the required time period after receiving the notice of belief of abandonment [see [c], above], the mobilehome is deemed abandoned and the foreclosing creditor may proceed to sell it [see Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(4), (6)]. For a discussion of the sale procedure and the required distribution of proceeds, see § 40.223.
