[i] Instructions

The application is in three parts. Part I consists of instructions to the applicant on how to complete the application. Part I is not submitted with the application.

[ii] Index/Quantitative Deficiency Notice

Part II, the Index/Quantitative Deficiency Notice, is a list of the documents required for a substantially complete application. It has three functions and uses:

- The applicant uses Part II to determine which documents are required for a "minimum filing package" and for a "substantially complete application."

- The applicant also uses Part II as an index for tabbing documents that are being submitted with the application.

- Lastly, DRE uses Part II as a "quantitative deficiency notice" to communicate what further documentation, if any, is required of the applicant for a substantially completed application.

After an applicant receives a quantitative deficiency notice, any additional documents required to make the application substantially complete must be submitted together with the deficiency notice on top. If documentation is submitted piecemeal, it will be returned.

Part III is the Questionnaire itself. It contains specific questions about the subdivision project and requests that various kinds of supporting documentation be submitted. All questions must be answered. The Questionnaire should not be submitted until all project plans have been finalized. If a question does not apply to the project at hand, it should be marked "NA."

[i] Alternative Methods

The Department of Real Estate allows three methods of filing an application for a public report and its supporting documents. The basic method of filing consists of submitting a "minimum filing package" (MFP), which includes only a limited amount of supporting documentation [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][e][ii]]. An alternative method of filing involves the submission of a "substantially complete application" (SCA), composed of a MFP and most of the documentation required for issuance of a final public report [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][e][iii]; see also § 33C.142]. Every application must be substantially complete before the Commissioner will proceed with processing the application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2]. Finally, the submission of a "substantially complete filing package" will receive priority processing [see Ch. 34 Condominiums, § 34.200[1][c]-[g]].

All documents submitted as part of the application must be numbered and tabbed. For a discussion of those requirements, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][e][iv].

[ii] Appropriate Regional Office

Applications for public reports must be filed in the regional office of the Department of Real Estate that is responsible for the county in which the subdivision is located. These offices are located in Los Angeles and Sacramento [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][f]].

[iii] Fees

The application must be accompanied by the appropriate filing fee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11011(b)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2790.1(a)(2), (b), 2790.1.5(a)(2), (b)]. A different filing fee applies to an application for a preliminary public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11011(b)(6); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2790.1(a)(6), 2790.1.5(a)(6)].

[e] Issuance of Public Report

After receipt of a substantially or totally complete application [see § 33C.200[1][d][i]], the Real Estate Commissioner will issue a public report only if certain criteria are met [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5]. For a list of those criteria, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.143, P 7.

[f] Preliminary Public Report

Although a developer or agent generally must obtain a final public report before selling, leasing, or offering any units in a stock cooperative [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2; see § 33C.200[1][b]], he or she may accept nonbinding reservations to purchase or lease units in the cooperative prior to obtaining a final public report provided a preliminary public report has been obtained [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(b)]. For a discussion of that type of report, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][i].

[g] Distribution of Final Public Report

After the Department of Real Estate issues a final public report, the developer must provide prospective purchasers with a copy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(a)]. In addition, any developer or agent who provides a copy of the public report must also provide the prospective purchaser with a statutory disclosure form [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(c)].

[h] Renewal of Report

The final public report has a five-year term, but may be renewed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.3; see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][n]].

[i] Specific Form Provisions

[i] Required for All Common-Interest Subdivisions

Most of the provisions of this form reflect the requirements of the Subdivided Lands Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and its implementing regulations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq.]. Because the information required for a "substantially complete" public report application under the Act is substantially the same for any "common interest subdivision" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1 (requirements for condominiums, planned developments, community apartment projects), 2792.2 (requirements for stock cooperatives)], the discussion of specific form provisions in Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1] [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][k]] is largely applicable to stock cooperatives. This comment does not repeat that discussion, but rather examines only those provisions that are exclusively applicable to stock cooperatives [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.13, 2792.14; see also § 33C.32[3]].

[ii] Blanket Encumbrances

If the real property to be owned by the stock cooperative corporation will be subject to a blanket encumbrance [Bus. &

Prof. Code § 11013; see § 33C.200[1][i][ii]], a public report will not be issued unless legal or financial arrangements satisfactory to the Real Estate Commissioner have been made (1) to provide assurance that the blanket encumbrance will be paid and (2) to provide assurance that the ownership and possessory rights of a member of the stock cooperative will not be adversely affected by foreclosure or acceleration of the blanket encumbrance by or on behalf of the beneficiary, unless the affected member or shareholder is delinquent in payments allocated by the stock cooperative to debt service on the blanket encumbrance [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.14(a)]. Satisfactory protection for investors will be deemed to exist if any of the following are in place:

- The blanket encumbrance contains an unconditional release clause that allows the lessee of an apartment to obtain the interest for which he or she contracted, free and clear of the blanket encumbrance, on compliance with the terms and conditions of the purchase lease [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.1];

- Money advanced by the lessee will be deposited in a neutral escrow depository until (1) a proper release from the blanket encumbrance is obtained; (2) the owner, developer, agent, or lessee defaults under the contract and there is a determination by the parties or a court as to the disposition of the money [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation]; or (3) the owner, developer, or agent orders the return of the money to the lessee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2(a)];

- Title to the subdivision will be held in trust until a proper release is obtained [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2(b)];

- A bond to the State of California is furnished to the Commissioner for the benefit and protection of the lessees, providing for the return of money advanced in the event a release from the blanket encumbrance is not obtained [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2(c)];

- Other legal or financial arrangements satisfactory to the Real Estate Commissioner have been made (1) to provide assurance that the blanket encumbrance will be paid and (2) to provide assurance that the ownership and possessory rights of a member of the stock cooperative will not be adversely affected by foreclosure or acceleration of the blanket encumbrance by or on behalf of the beneficiary, unless the affected member or shareholder is delinquent in payments allocated by the stock cooperative to debt service on the blanket encumbrance [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2(d); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.14(a)]; or

- The encumbrance is insured by the FHA and the stock cooperative has issued preferred stock or entered into a regulatory agreement with the FHA that provides for establishing and maintaining a general operating reserve [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.14(b); see § 33C.35[2]].

[iii] Terms and Conditions of Sale

In addition to the statement of the proposed terms and conditions for the disposition of the land required for all common interest subdivisions [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(5); Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][k][xii]], the application form for stock cooperatives seeks information relating to the potential liability of investors in the event all of the stock of the corporation is not purchased. As discussed in § 33C.32[4], all funds received from investors from the presale of stock in the cooperative must be held in escrow until a prescribed percentage of interests in the stock cooperative has been sold, and if the prescribed percentage has not been obtained within a specified time period, the funds must be returned to the investors [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.13].

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 33C STOCK COOPERATIVES
PART IV. FORMS

§ 33C.201 Declaration

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for a stock cooperative. It is designed to comply with (1) the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], which establishes the basic requirements governing the contents and amendment of declarations, (2) the Subdivided Lands Act and its implementing regulations [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq.], and (3) the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.].

With regard to creation and enforcement of assessment liens, this form conforms to the law applicable to assessment liens recorded on or after January 1, 2003 [see Civ. Code § 1367.1], rather than the law applicable to liens recorded before that date [see Civ. Code § 1367].

For examples of declarations for other common interest developments/subdivisions, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[2] and Ch. 33D, Planned Developments, § 33D.200[2].

[b] Effect of Recording Declaration

A common interest development is created when the declaration (and subdivision map, if any) is recorded, and a separate interest coupled with an interest in the common area or membership in the association is conveyed [Civ. Code § 1352]. Ordinarily, the declaration should not be recorded until it has been reviewed by the Real Estate Commissioner [see § 33C.201[1][c]].

[c] Filing With Real Estate Commissioner

A "substantially complete" application for a final public report [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][e][iii]] must include proposed or existing covenants, conditions, and restrictions (in other words, the declaration) for the common-interest subdivision [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.2(a)(8)]. The Department of Real Estate urges applicants to refrain from recording the declaration until after it is reviewed by the DRE [see § 33C.200[2], P 66.0]. Regardless of the timing of this submission, the applicant must submit a copy of the final declaration bearing evidence of its recordation [see § 33C.200[2], PP 65.0, 67.0].

[d] Resolution of Disputes Involving Enforcement of Declaration

An association must provide a fair, reasonable, and expeditious procedure for resolving, inter alia, disputes related to the declaration [Civ. Code § 1363.820(a); see generally Civ. Code § 1363.810 et seq.]. This relatively informal procedure supplements and does not replace the more formal alternative dispute resolution procedure described below and prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq. For further coverage of the statutory requirements for the intra-association dispute resolution procedure, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.34. For a procedure that meets these requirements, see § 33C.201[2], Section 3.10.

If neither party requests resort to the intra-association dispute resolution procedure or if that procedure fails to resolve dispute, parties must engage in the formal alternative dispute resolution (ADR) procedure prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq. before filing civil enforcement action that is solely for declaratory, injunctive, or writ relief, or for that relief in conjunction with a claim for monetary damages not in excess of the small claims court jurisdictional limit. The formal ADR process is not a prerequisite for a small claims action, and does not apply to an assessment dispute [Civ. Code § 1369.520; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220, 116.221 (jurisdiction of small claims court)]. For further coverage, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.35.

Under the Subdivided Lands Act, the Real Estate Commissioner must give his or her prior consent to a proposed amendment to a declaration if (1) the amendment would materially change the rights of the tenant-stockholders, and (2) it is proposed when the developer or the developer's successor in interest holds or directly controls a specified percentage of the voting power of the association [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7]. Whether or not the proposed amendment is subject to that consent requirement, the implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act require amendments to be approved by a specified percentage of the members [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8(a)(18), 2792.24(a)].

The Davis-Stirling Act normally requires amendments to be approved by the percentage of owners specified in the declaration (or other governing document) [see Civ. Code § 1355(a); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24]. However, if that approval cannot be obtained, the association or any tenant-stockholder may, under certain circumstances, petition the superior court for an order approving the amendment [see Civ. Code § 1356]. An alternative amendment procedure must be used when the proposed amendment involves the deletion from any of the governing documents of a provision that relates to the construction or marketing of the development [see Civ. Code § 1355.5]. Finally, an additional statutory procedure may be used to amend a declaration that neither prohibits nor expressly permits amendments [see Civ. Code § 1355(b)].

[f] Provisions Required in Declaration

[i] Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act

Any declaration recorded on or after January 1, 1986, must contain all of the following [Civ. Code § 1353(a)(1)]:

- A legal description of the common interest development [see § 33C.201[2], Recital A];
- A statement that the development is a stock cooperative [see § 33C.201[2], Recital B];

- The name of the association;

- The restrictions on the use or enjoyment of any portion of the stock cooperative that are intended to be enforceable equitable servitudes [the restrictions are set forth throughout the form];

- If the property is located within an airport influence area and the declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, a statutorily-prescribed statement informing potential buyers of the possible annoyances and inconveniences associated with living near an airport [see Civ. Code § 1353(a)(2) ("airport influence area" defined)]; and

- If the property is within the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission's jurisdiction and the declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, it must contain a statutory notice regarding the possible impact on the use and development of the property of the Commission's regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements [Civ. Code § 1353(a)(3)].

The declaration may contain any other matters the original signatory of the declaration or the owners consider appropriate [Civ. Code § 1353(b)].

[ii] Subdivided Lands Act

The governing instruments of every common interest subdivision (the articles, bylaws, and declaration) must contain certain provisions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)]. Some of these provisions, including those describing the powers and duties of the Board of Directors, election of directors and officers, meetings of members and directors, and the inspection of books, records, and governing documents, are set forth in the bylaws [see discussion in § 33C.203[1][b][ii]]. The following provisions are contained in this declaration:

- Creation of an organization (association) of tenant-stockholders [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(1); see § 33C.201[2], Section 3.01];

- A description of the common interests of the subdivision owners or lessees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(2); see § 33C.201[2], Section 2.05];

- Transfer of title and/or control of common interests or of mutual and reciprocal rights of use to the owners in common or to the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(3); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15; § 33C.201[2], Section 2.03];

- Procedures for calculating and collecting regular assessments from members to defray expenses attributable to the ownership, operation, or furnishing of common interests or to the enjoyment of mutual and reciprocal rights of use [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(4); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16; § 33C.201[2], Section 4.04; see also Civ. Code § 1366(b)];

- Procedures for establishing and collecting special assessments for capital improvements or for other purposes [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(5); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(e); § 33C.201[2], Section 4.05];

- Liens upon privately owned subdivision interests for assessments levied pursuant to the declaration and foreclosure thereof for nonpayment [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(6); see § 33C.201[2], Section 4.08];

- Policies and procedures relating to the disciplining of members for failure to comply with provisions of the governing instruments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(7); see Civ. Code § 1363(g); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26; § 33C.201[2], Section 3.06(d)];

- Creation of a governing body for the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(8); see § 33C.201[2], Section 3.08];

- Preparation of the budgets and financial statements of the association and distribution to the association members [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(12); see § 33C.201[2], Section 3.07(d)];

- Amendment procedures for the provisions of the declaration that relate to the ownership, management, and control of the association or the common interests [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(18); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(a); § 33C.201[2], Section 10.01];

- Prohibitions against or restrictions upon the severability of a separately owned portion from the common interest portion of a subdivision interest [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(19); see § 33C.201[2], Section 3.02];

- Action to be taken and procedures to be followed in the event of condemnation, destruction, or extensive damage to the subdivision interests, including provisions respecting the use and disposition ofinsurance proceeds or damages payable to the association or to a trustee on behalf of owners on account of those events [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(21); see § 33C.201[2], Art. VIII];

- Annexation of additional land to the existing development when appropriate [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(22); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27; § 33C.201[2], Section 2.02];

- Architectural and/or design control [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(23); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.28; § 33C.201[2], Art. VI; see also Civ. Code §§ 714, 714.1 (restrictions on solar energy systems); § 33C.201[2], Section 5.01(j)];

- Special provisions for enforcement of financial arrangements by the developer to secure performance of his or her commitment to complete common area improvements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(24); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.4; § 33C.201[2], Section 3.07(c)]; and

- Granting of easements or use rights affecting the common areas [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(25); see § 33C.201[2], Sections 2.07,2.08].

If a stock cooperative is to be developed in phases and it qualifies as a "master planned community" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(a) (definition)], the stock cooperative may be exempt from some of the implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32; Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. (Act); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.25-2792.29]. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.44[3].

[g] Rights of Mortgagees

Article IX of this Form lists several rights of mortgagees of stock in the cooperative. Lenders almost inevitably insist on the inclusion in the declaration of a set of lender-drafted mortgagee protections [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.45[7]]. Therefore, the provisions set forth in Article IX of this Form should only be used as a guide to the scope and complexity of the requirements typically imposed by lenders.

For further discussion of declaration provisions regarding mortgages, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][e][xi].

RECITALS

A. _____[name of declarant], hereinafter referred to as "Declarant,"is the owner of real property located in the City of _____, County of _____, State of California, more particularly described as: [insert legal description of property].

B. It is Declarant's intention to develop the above-described property as a residential stock cooperative, subject to the provisions of the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act contained in Division II, Part 4, Title 6 of the California Civil Code.

C. In furtherance of this intent, Declarant hereby declares that the development is held and shall be held, conveyed, hypothecated, encumbered, leased, rented, used, occupied, and improved subject to the following covenants, conditions, and restrictions, for the purpose of enhancing and perfecting the value, desirability, and attractiveness of the development. All of the covenants, conditions, and restrictions shall run with and be for the benefit of the real property, shall be binding upon all parties having or acquiring any right, title, or interest in the real property and upon their successors in interest, and shall be for the benefit of those parties and successors in interest. This Declaration is made by Declarant pursuant to Section 1352 of the California Civil Code.

[If property is located in airport influence area and declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, include following statement. See Civ. Code § 1353(a).]

NOTICE OF AIRPORT IN VICINITY

This property is presently located in the vicinity of an airport, within what is known as an airport influence area. For that reason, the property may be subject to some of the annoyances or inconveniences associated with proximity to airport operations (for example: noise, vibration, or odors). Individual sensitivities to those annoyances can vary from person to person. You may wish to consider what airport annoyances, if any, are associated with the property before you complete your purchase and determine whether they are acceptable to you.

[If property is located within San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission's jurisdiction and declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, include following statement. See Civ. Code § 1353(a)(3).]

NOTICE OF SAN FRANCISCO BAY CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION JURISDICTION

This property is located within the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Use and development of property within the commission's jurisdiction may be subject to special regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements. You may wish to investigate and determine whether they are acceptable to you and your intended use of the property before you complete your transaction.

ARTICLE II. THE PROPERTY

Property Subject to Declaration

Section 2.01. All the real property comprising the Development, and the improvements thereon, shall be subject to this Declaration.

Annexation of Additional Property

Section 2.02. (a) Additional property may be annexed to the Development upon the vote or written assent of 662/3 percent of the total votes residing in Association Members other than Declarant.

(b) Pursuant to a plan of phased development submitted to the California Real Estate Commissioner along with the application for the public report for the first phase of the Development, the Declarant may annex additional land within the area described in Exhibit [specify number of exhibit containing legal description of property to be annexed] without the approval of the Association, provided that the annexation is effected prior to the third anniversary of the issuance of the original public report for the immediately preceding phase of the Development.

(c) Annexation of property pursuant to Section 2.02(a) or Section 2.02(b), above, shall be effected by the following procedure:

(1) If applicable, recordation of a final subdivision map or maps, or final parcel map or maps for the real property to be annexed; and

(2) Recordation of a Declaration of Annexation covering the property to be annexed containing any modifications and additions to the terms of this Declaration that may be necessary to reflect the different character of the added property, and that are not inconsistent with the general scheme of this Declaration.

Title to Development

Section 2.03. Prior to the first transfer of a right of exclusive occupancy in an Apartment in the Development, Declarant, its successors or assigns, shall convey to the Association title and control of the Development, free of all liens and encumbrances, except current real property taxes and any reservations, easements, covenants, conditions, and restrictions of record, including those contained in this Declaration.

Exclusive Occupancy

Section 2.04. (a) Each Member shall be entitled to the exclusive occupancy of his or her Apartment. Each Member shall also have the exclusive right, subject to approval of the Association, to paint, repaint, tile, paper, or otherwise refinish and decorate the interior surfaces of the perimeter walls, floors, ceilings, windows, doors, and outlets bounding or located within his or her Apartment. Each Member shall maintain his or her Apartment and any Exclusive Use Common Areas in accordance with Section 5.02 of this Declaration. A Member shall be liable for any damage to the Apartment or Exclusive Use Common Areas caused by him or her in accordance with the provisions of the Proprietary Lease.

(b) The Association shall maintain all other Common Areas in accordance with Section 3.07(a) of this Declaration. A Member shall be liable for any damage to the Common Areas caused by him or her in accordance with Section 5.03 of this Declaration.

Common Area

Section 2.05. Each Member shall be entitled to use the Common Area in accordance with the purpose for which it is intended, without hindering or encroaching upon the lawful rights of the other Members.

Exclusive Use Common Areas

Section 2.06. The following portions of the Common Area are [add if exclusive use common areas will be designated after project is operating: or will be] for the exclusive use by the Members of the Apartments to which they are [or will be] appurtenant: _____ [list areas, such as parking stalls or patios]. [Add if desired: However, the following fixtures are not Exclusive Use Common Areas even though they may be located outside the boundaries of, and serve, a single Apartment: _____ (select from the following, as appropriate: shutters, awnings, window boxes, doorsteps, stoops, porches, balconies, patios, exterior doors, door frames, and hardware incident thereto).]

Easements

Section 2.07. Subject to the provisions of this Declaration, there is an easement for ingress, egress, and support through the Common Area appurtenant to each Apartment. However, these easements shall be subordinate to the exclusive easements granted elsewhere in this Declaration, as well as to any rights reserved to the Association to regulate time and manner of use, to charge reasonable admission fees, and to perform its obligations under this Declaration.

Other Easements

Section 2.08. The Association may grant to third parties easements in, on, and over the Common Area for the purpose of constructing, installing, or maintaining necessary utilities and services, and each Member, in executing his or her Proprietary Lease, expressly consents to these easements. However, no such easement shall be granted if it would interfere with any exclusive easement, or with any Member's use, occupancy, or enjoyment of his or her Apartment.

ARTICLE III. OWNERS' ASSOCIATION

The Association

Section 3.01. The Association is a corporation organized under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, charged with the duties and invested with the powers prescribed by law and set forth in this Declaration, the Articles of Incorporation, and the Bylaws.

Membership

Section 3.02. (a) A person approved by the Association pursuant to the Bylaws shall become a Member of the Association upon the purchase of stock and execution of a Proprietary Lease for an Apartment in the Development. Membership in the Association shall be appurtenant to the right of exclusive occupancy in an Apartment.

(b) Upon transfer of a Member's stock in the Association pursuant to Section 3.05 of this Declaration, the membership of the transferor shall automatically cease, and the transferee shall become a Member of the Association. Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of the Member's entire interest shall also include his or her membership interest in the Association.

(c) Upon sublease of a Member's Apartment pursuant to the terms of the Proprietary Lease, the Member shall retain membership in the Association. The sublessee shall acquire only a temporary right of occupancy in the Member's Apartment and a right to use the Common Area or any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Apartment for the period of the sublease.

Voting Rights

Section 3.03. The Association shall have two classes of voting membership, as set forth in Article _____ [e.g., VII] of the Bylaws, which is hereby incorporated by reference.

Membership Meetings

Section 3.04. Article _____ of the Bylaws governing meetings of the Members is hereby incorporated by reference.

Transfer of Interest

Section 3.05. Except as provided in the Bylaws, a Member shall not transfer the stock in _____[name of stock cooperative] or Proprietary Lease appurtenant thereto.

General Powers and Authority

Section 3.06. The Association shall have all the powers of a nonprofit corporation under California law, as set forth in Corporations Code Section 7140, subject only to the limitations in this Declaration or in the other Governing Instruments of the Association. It may perform all acts that may be necessary for or incidental to the performance of the obligations and duties imposed on it by this Declaration or the other Governing Instruments. Its powers shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(a) The Association shall have the power to establish, fix, and levy assessments against the Members in accordance with the procedures set out in Article IV of this Declaration and subject to the limitations therein.

(b) The Association shall have the power to adopt reasonable operating rules governing the use of the Common Area and any facilities located thereon, and of any other Association property. These rules may include, but are not limited to, reasonable restrictions on use by the Members and their guests, rules of conduct, and the setting of reasonable fees for the use of recreational facilities. A copy of the current association rules shall be given to each Member and shall be posted at conspicuous places in the Common Area.

(c) The Association shall have the right to institute, defend, settle, or intervene in litigation, arbitration, mediation, or administrative proceedings in its own name as the real party in interest and without joining within it the Members, in matters pertaining to the following:

(1) Enforcement of this Declaration and the Articles, Bylaws, and Rules of the Association.

(2) Damage to the Common Area.

(3) Damage to the separate interests that the Association is obligated to maintain or repair.

(4) Damage to the separate interests that arises out of, or is integrally related to, damage to the Common Area or separate interests that the Association is obligated to maintain or repair.

The Association may enforce payment of assessments in accordance with the provisions of Article IV of this Declaration.

(d) The Association may discipline Members for violation of any of the provisions of the Governing Instruments or Association Rules by suspending the violator's voting rights, privileges for use of the Common Area, or by imposing monetary penalties for those violations, subject to the following limitations:

(1) The accused person must be given notice and an opportunity to be heard with regard to the alleged violation in accordance with the provisions of Corporations Code Section 7341 and Civil Code Section 1363.05(b).

(2) Any suspension of association privileges shall not exceed _____ [insert number, e.g., 60] days for each violation.

(3) If the Association imposes a monetary penalty, the Board shall distribute to each Member, by personal delivery or first-class mail, a schedule of the monetary penalties that may be assessed for those violations. [If desired, add: No monetary penalty imposed for these purposes shall exceed $ _____ for each violation.]

(4) Except under the provisions of Article IV of this Declaration, relating to termination of membership for failure to pay assessments, the Association shall in no way abridge the right of any Member to the full use and enjoyment of his or her Apartment.

(e) The Association, acting through the Board, shall have the power to delegate its authority, duties, and responsibilities to the committees, officers, or employees allowed under the Governing Instruments to be retained.

(f) The Association's agents or employees shall have the right to enter any Apartment when necessary in connection with any maintenance, landscaping, or construction for which the Association is responsible. That entry shall be made only upon notice to the Member (except in the case of an emergency) and with as little inconvenience as is practicable, and any damage caused thereby shall be repaired by the Association at its own expense.

Duties of the Association

Section 3.07. In addition to the duties delegated to the Association or its agents and employees elsewhere in the Governing Instruments, the Association shall be responsible for the following:

(a) The Association, acting through the Board, shall operate and maintain the Common Areas, other than the Exclusive Use Common Areas, and the facilities located thereon. This duty shall include, but shall not be limited to exterior painting, maintenance, repair, and all landscaping of the Common Area, and any furnishings and equipment for the Common Area that the Board shall determine are necessary and proper. The Board shall have the exclusive right and duty to acquire the above for the Common Area. [Add the following or an alternative allocation of responsibility for pest control work (see Civ. Code § 1364): Further, the Association shall keep the Common Areas free of infestation by wood-destroying pests or organisms. If infestation is present, the Association shall have the right to cause the temporary, summary removal of any occupant of the Development while the Association has the infestation treated. The temporary relocation must be preceded by notice provided by the Association pursuant to Civil Code Section 1364.]

The interior surfaces of each Apartment (and the interior surfaces of Exclusive Use Common Areas) shall be painted, maintained, and repaired by, and at the sole cost and expense of, the Member entitled to exclusive occupancy of that Apartment, in accordance with the provisions of the Proprietary Lease. [Add the following or an alternative allocation of responsibility for pest control costs (see Civ. Code § 1364): Each Member shall also pay the costs of any temporary relocation of the Member or any occupant of the Member's Apartment occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms.]

(b) The Association shall provide for, through the maintenance fund described in Article IV, the following:

(1) All principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premiums, if any, on the Development real property;

(2) All _____ [insert as applicable in accordance with provisions of Proprietary Lease: water, sewer, garbage, electrical, gas, elevator, and other necessary utility service];

(3) The insurance policies described in Article VII of this Declaration;

(4) The services of any personnel that the Board shall determine to be necessary or proper for the operation of the Common Area; and

(5) Legal and accounting services necessary or proper in the operation of the Common Area or the enforcement of this Declaration.

(c) If the Association is obligee under a bond or other arrangement to secure the performance of Declarant as to any Common Area improvements that were not completed prior to the issuance of the final public report on the Development, the following provisions relative to the initiation of action to enforce such a bond shall be applicable:

(1) The Board of Directors of the Association shall consider and vote on the question of action by the Association to enforce the obligations under the bond with respect to any improvement for which a Notice of Completion has not been filed within 60 days after the completion date specified for the improvement in the Planned Construction Statement appended to the bond. If the Association has given an extension in writing for the completion of any Common Area improvement, the Board shall consider and vote on the question if a Notice of Completion has not been filed within 30 days after the expiration of the extension.

(2) If the Board votes not to initiate action to enforce the obligations under the bond, or if it fails to consider and vote on the matter as required, a special meeting of the Members of the Association shall be called for the purpose of overriding the Board's decision or for taking action on the matter, on receipt of a petition calling for such a meeting signed by Members representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the Association. The meeting shall be held not less than 35 days or more than 45 days after receipt of the petition by the Board. At the special meeting, only the Members other than Declarant shall be allowed to vote on the matter. A vote by a majority of the voting power of the Association residing in Members other than Declarant to take action to enforce the obligations under the bond shall be deemed to be the decision of the Association and the Board shall thereafter implement this decision by initiating and pursuing appropriate action in the name of the Association.

(d) The Association shall prepare a pro forma operating budget for each fiscal year, and shall distribute a copy of the budget to each Owner not less than 45 and not more than 60 days before the beginning of the fiscal year. As an alternative to the foregoing distribution of the budget, the Association may elect to do all of the following in the manner required by statute: distribute a summary of the budget to each Owner; make the budget available for inspection at a designated location; and provide copies of the budget to Owners upon request and at the expense of the Association. The budget shall contain at least the following:

(1) The estimated revenue and expenses on an accrual basis;

(2) A summary (printed in bold type) of the Association's reserves that is based on the most recent review or study conducted pursuant to Civil Code Section 1365.5. This summary shall include the following: (i) the current estimated replacement cost, estimated remaining life, and estimated useful life of each major component that the Association is obligated to maintain (hereafter referred to as the "major components"); (ii) the current estimate, as of the end of the fiscal year for which the study is prepared, of the amount of cash reserves necessary to repair, replace, restore, or maintain the major components; (iii) the current amount, as of the end of the fiscal year for which the study is prepared, of accumulated cash reserves actually set aside to repair, replace, restore, or maintain the major components; and (iv) the percentage that the amount described in (iii), above, is of the amount determined for purposes of (ii), above (that is, the percentage obtained by dividing the amount described in (iii), above, by the amount described in (ii), above).

(3) A statement as to whether the Board has determined or anticipates that the levy of one or more special assessments will be required to repair, replace, or restore any major component or to provide adequate reserves for such work.

(4) A general statement addressing the procedures used for the calculation and establishment of reserves to defray the future repair, replacement, or additions to those major components that the Association is obligated to maintain.

(e) Within 120 days after the close of each fiscal year, the Association shall prepare and distribute to the Members an annual report consisting of the following:

(1) A balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year.

(2) An operating (income) statement for the fiscal year.

(3) A statement of changes in financial position for the fiscal year.

(4) For any fiscal year in which the gross income to the Association exceeds $75,000, a copy of the review of the annual report prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles by a licensee of the California State Board of Accountancy. If this report is not prepared by an independent accountant, it shall be accompanied by the certificate of an authorized officer of the Association that the statement was prepared without independent audit or review from the books and records of the Association.

(f) Within 60 days prior to the beginning of each fiscal year, the Association shall prepare and distribute to the Members a statement describing the Association's policies and practices in enforcing lien rights or other legal remedies for default in payment of assessments against Members.

(g) The Association shall prepare a balance sheet, as of an accounting date that is the last day of the month closest in time to six months from the date of closing of the first sale of a share of stock in the Development, and an operating statement for the period from the date of the first closing to the foregoing accounting date. The Association shall distribute this statement to the Members within 60 days after the accounting date. This operating statement shall include a schedule of assessments received and receivable identified by the number of the Apartment and the name of the Member assessed.

(h) Each year, the Association must provide the Members with a summary of the provisions of Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590. These statutes require that alternative dispute resolution be pursued before a civil action may be filed in connection with certain disputes related to enforcement of the governing documents, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.). The required summary must include a specific reference to Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590, and the statutory language set forth in Civil Code Section 1369.590(a). This summary must be provided either (1) at the time the pro forma operating budget described in Section 3.07(d) of this Declaration is distributed, or (2) in the manner specified in Corporations Code Section 5016.

(i) The Association shall provide any Member with the following documents within 10 days of the mailing or delivery of a written request therefor:

(1) A copy of the Governing Instruments.

(2) A copy of the most recent financial statement distributed pursuant to Paragraph (d), above, of this Declaration.

(3) A written statement from an authorized representative of the Association specifying (i) the amount of any assessments levied on the Member's stock that are unpaid on the date of the statement; and (ii) the amount of late charges, interest, and costs of collection that, as of the date of the statement, are or may be made a lien on the Member's stock.

Board of Directors

Section 3.08. The affairs of the Association shall be managed and its duties and obligations performed by an elected Board of Directors, in accordance with the provisions contained in Article _____ of the Bylaws, which are hereby incorporated by reference.

Inspection of Books and Records

Section 3.09. The Association's Governing Instruments and the Association's membership records, books of account, and minutes of the meeting of the Members, of the Board, and of committees of the Board shall be made available for inspection in accordance with Article _____ of the Bylaws, which is hereby incorporated by reference.

Resolution of Disputes

Section 3.10. As required by Civil Code Section 1363.820(a), the Association shall offer a fair, reasonable, and expeditious procedure for resolving any dispute between the Association and a member involving their rights, duties, or liabilities under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.), or under the Association's governing documents. This dispute resolution procedure is supplementary to the alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civil Code Section 1369.510 et seq. as a prerequisite to commencing civil action. The dispute resolution procedure shall consist of the following:

(a) Either party may initiate the procedure by making a written request to the other party to meet and confer in an effort to resolve the dispute. If the request is by the Association, the member may refuse to participate. If the request is by a member, however, the Association may not refuse to participate.

(b) Within 5 days of the written request, the Board of Directors shall designate a member of the Board to meet and confer with the other party.

(c) Within 10 days of the Board member's designation, the parties shall meet at a mutually convenient time and place, explain their positions to each other, and confer in good faith in an effort to resolve the dispute.

(d) If the parties reach agreement on a resolution of the dispute, that resolution shall be memorialized in writing and signed by the parties with the Board designee signing on behalf of the Association.

(e) An agreement reached by the parties is binding on them and may be judicially enforced provided the agreement is consistent with the authority granted by the Board of Directors to its designee, and further provided the agreement is not in conflict with law or the Association's governing documents.

(f) A member of the Association may not be charged a fee to participate in the dispute resolution procedure.

ARTICLE IV. ASSESSMENTS AND COLLECTION PROCEDURES

Covenant to Pay

Section 4.01. The Declarant covenants and agrees for each Apartment owned by it in the Development, and each Member by execution of the Proprietary Lease for an Apartment is deemed to covenant and agree, to pay to the Association the regular and special assessments levied pursuant to the provisions of this Declaration. All moneys collected shall be put into a maintenance fund to be used to defray expenses attributable to the ownership, operation, and maintenance of the Development by the Association. The Member may not waive or otherwise escape liability for these assessments by nonuse of the Common Area or abandonment of an Apartment.

Exemptions From Assessments

Section 4.02. The obligation to pay assessments shall be subject to the following exemptions:

(a) Declarant and any other Member with the right of exclusive occupancy in an Apartment that does not include a structural improvement for human occupancy shall be exempted from that portion of any assessment which is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and the use of the structural improvement. This exemption shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) Roof replacement;

(2) Exterior maintenance;

(3) Walkway and carport lighting;

(4) Refuse disposal;

(5) Cable television; and

(6) Domestic water supplied to living units.

Such an exemption shall be in effect only until the occurrence of the earliest of the following events: (i) the recordation of a notice of completion of the structural improvement; (ii) the occupation or use of the structural improvement; or (iii) completion of all elements of the residential structures that the Association is obliged to maintain.

(b) Any Member (including Declarant) with the right of exclusive occupancy in an Apartment shall be exempted from that portion of any assessment that is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and use of a common facility which is not complete at the time the assessment commences. This exemption shall be in effect only until a notice of completion of the common facility is recorded or the common facility is placed into use, whichever occurs first.

Assessment Period

Section 4.03. The fiscal year for the Association shall be a calendar year, unless the Board decides otherwise. The regular assessment period shall commence on January 1 and terminate on December 31 of each year; provided, however, that the first regular assessment period for all Apartments _____ [in the Development or, if annexation is anticipated: in a phase of development] shall commence on the _____ [date of the first conveyance of an Apartment in the _____ (Development or phase) or first day of the month following the conveyance of an Apartment in the _____ (Development or phase)], and shall terminate on December 31 of that year.

Regular Assessments

Section 4.04. Within 60 days prior to the beginning of each fiscal year of the Association, the Board shall estimate the cash requirements for that year, including a reasonable provision for contingencies and replacements with adjustments made for any expected income and surplus from the prior year's fund. The estimated cash requirement shall be assessed to each Member according to the ratio that the number of shares allocated to the Apartment in which he or she has a right of exclusive occupancy bears to the total number of shares issued and outstanding on the date of assessment. Each Member is obligated to pay regular assessments to the Board in the form of Carrying Charges pursuant to a Proprietary Lease in equal monthly installments on or before the first day of each month, in the manner set forth in _____ [e.g., Paragraph 2] of the Proprietary Lease.

Special Assessments

Section 4.05. If the Board determines that the amount to be collected from regular assessments will be inadequate to defray the common expenses for the year due to the cost of any construction, unexpected repairs or replacements of capital improvements on the Common Area, or for any other reason, it shall make a special assessment for the additional amount needed. Special assessments shall be levied in the same manner as regular assessments.

Limitations on Assessments

Section 4.06. The Board shall comply with the following requirements governing the imposition and amounts of assessments:

(a) The Board may, for any fiscal year, impose a regular assessment per Apartment that is as much as 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the preceding fiscal year, provided (1) the Board has distributed the pro forma operating budget described in Section 3.07(d) for the current fiscal year or (2) the increase is approved by Members constituting a majority of the votes at a meeting or in an election of the Association conducted in accordance with Corporations Code Sections 7510-7527 and 7613.

(b) The Board may impose, for any fiscal year, a regular assessment per Apartment that is more than 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the preceding fiscal year, or may levy special assessments that in the aggregate exceed 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year, provided the increase or levy is approved by Members constituting a majority of the Members of the Association and casting a majority of the votes at a meeting or election of the Association conducted in accordance with Corporations Code Sections 7510-7527 and 7613.

(c) The Board may, without complying with the foregoing requirements, make an assessment increase that is necessary for an emergency situation. An emergency situation is an extraordinary expense that is:

(1) Required by a court order.

(2) Necessary to repair or maintain the Development or any part of it for which the Association is responsible when a threat to personal safety in the Development is discovered.

(3) Necessary to repair or maintain the Development or any part of it for which the Association is responsible that could not have been reasonably foreseen by the Board in preparing and distributing the pro forma operating budget pursuant to Section 3.07(d).

(4) Incurred in making the first payment of the earthquake insurance surcharge pursuant to Insurance Code Section 5003.

Before the Board may impose or collect an assessment in the type of emergency situation described in (3), above, it shall pass a resolution containing written findings as to the necessity of the extraordinary expense and why the expense was not or could not have been reasonably foreseen in the budgeting process, and shall distribute the resolution to the Members with the notice of assessment.

(d) The Board shall notify the Members in writing of any increase in the amount of a regular or special assessment. The Board shall provide this notice by first-class mail not less than 30 nor more than 60 days prior to the due date of the increased assessment.

Late Charges

Section 4.07. Late charges may be levied by the Association against a Member for the delinquent payment of regular and special assessments. An assessment is delinquent 15 days after its due date. If an assessment is delinquent the Association may recover all of the following from the Member:

(a) Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent assessment, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

(b) A late charge not exceeding _____ [10 percent of the delinquent assessment or $10, whichever is greater or specify smaller amount].

(c) Interest on the foregoing sums, at an annual percentage rate not to exceed 12 percent interest, commencing 30 days after the assessment becomes due.

No late charge may be imposed more than once for the delinquency of the same payment. However, the imposition of a late charge on any delinquent payment shall not eliminate or supersede charges imposed on prior delinquent payments.

Enforcement of Assessments and Late Charges

Section 4.08. Each regular and special assessment and any late charges, reasonable costs of collection, and interest, as assessed in accordance with Section 4.06, shall be a debt of the Member at the time the assessment or other sums are levied. At least 30 days before the Association can place a lien on a Member's stock for a past due debt for a regular or special assessment, the Association must notify the Member by certified mail of the following:

(a) A general description of the Association's collection and lien enforcement procedures.

(b) The method of calculation of the amount due.

(c) A statement that the Member has the right to inspect the Association records.

(d) A statement informing the Member that the Member's stock may be subject to foreclosure and sale without court action.

(e) An itemized statement of the charges owed by the Member, including items on the statement that indicate the amount of any delinquent assessments, the fees and reasonable costs of collection, reasonable attorney's fees, and any late charges and interest.

(f) A statement that the Member will not be liable to pay the charges, interest, and costs of collection, if it is determined the assessment waspaid on time.

(g) The Member's right to request a meeting with the Board if the Member disputes the debt.

A Member may dispute the debt by submitting to the Board a written explanation within 15 days of the mailing of the Association's notice. The Board must respond to an Member's timely explanation within 15 days of the mailing of the Member's explanation.

A Member also may submit a written request to meet with the Board to discuss a payment plan for the debt. The request must be mailed within 15 days of the mailing of the Board's notice. The Board must then meet with the Member in executive session within 45 days of the mailing of the Member's request. If there is no regularly scheduled Board meeting within that time period, the Board may designate a committee of one or more members to meet with the Member.

Any partial payments made toward the debt will first be applied to the assessments owed, and only after the principal owed is paid in full will the payments be applied to the fees and costs of collection, attorneys' fees, late charges, or interest. When a Member makes a payment, the Member may request a receipt and the Association shall provide it. The receipt shall indicate the date of payment and the person who received it. The Association shall provide a mailing address for overnight payment of assessments.

A debt for a delinquent regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable fees and costs of collection, reasonable attorneys' fees, and interest shall become a lien on the stock when a notice of delinquent assessment is duly recorded and mailed as provided in Section 1367.1 of the California Civil Code.

The amount of any such assessment or related amount shall become a lien on the Member's stock in the Association when a notice of delinquent assessment is duly recorded and mailed as provided in Section 1367.1(d) of the California Civil Code. This lien shall be prior to all other liens recorded subsequent to the notice of delinquent assessment.

Except as provided below regarding debts arising from delinquent assessments when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, any such lien may be enforced in any manner permitted by law, including sale by a court, sale by the trustee designated in the notice of delinquent assessment, or sale by a trustee substituted pursuant to Section 2934a of the Civil Code. Any sale by a trustee shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Sections 2924, 2924b, and 2924c of the California Civil Code applicable to the exercise of powers of sale in mortgages and deeds of trust. The Association may enforce its lien against the Member's stock by commencing an unlawful detainer action against the Member. After obtaining a judgment against the Member in such an action, the Association may terminate his or her membership in accordance with _____ [e.g., Article V] of the Bylaws.

Upon payment of the sums specified in the notice of delinquent assessment, a notice stating the satisfaction and release of the lien shall be recorded.

In accordance with Section 1367.4 of the California Civil Code, a lien securing a debt arising from a delinquent regular or special assessment when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, and interest, shall not be enforced by judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure unless and until either (1) the debt equals or exceeds $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, and interest, or (2) the debt secured by the lien is more than 12 months delinquent.

Statement Regarding Assessments

Section 4.09. The Association shall provide any Member, upon written request, with a statement specifying (1) the amounts of the Association's current regular and special assessments and fees, and (2) the amounts of any delinquent assessments and related late charges, interest, and costs levied against the Member's Stock, as provided in Section 4.07 of this Declaration.

ARTICLE V. RESTRICTIONS AND COVENANTS

General Restrictions on Use

Section 5.01. The right of a Member and his or her guests to occupy or use the Apartment, or to use the Common Area or any of the facilities thereon, is subject to the following restrictions:

(a) No Member shall occupy or use his or her Apartment, or permit it to be occupied or used, for any purpose other than as a private dwelling. [Add if desired: The provisions contained in _____ (e.g., Paragraph 5) of the Proprietary Lease are hereby incorporated by reference.]

(b) The Member may sublease his or her Apartment only with the written consent of the Association. [Add if desired: The provisions contained in _____ (e.g., Paragraph 16) of the Proprietary Lease are hereby incorporated by reference.]

[For a list of additional restrictions that may be included, see Ch. 33D, Planned Developments, § 33D.200[2], Section 5.01]

Maintenance and Repairs

Section 5.02. Except for those portions which the Association is required to maintain and repair, each Member shall, at his or her sole cost and expense,maintain and repair his or her Apartment, keeping it in good condition and repair. Each Member shall also maintain and repair any Exclusive Use Common Areas that are appurtenant to his or her Apartment. [Add if desired: The provisions contained in _____ (e.g., Paragraph 8) of the Proprietary Lease are hereby incorporated by reference.]

Damage Liability

Section 5.03. Each Member shall be liable to the Association for all damage to the Common Area or other Association property that is sustained by reason of the negligence or willful misconduct of that Member or his or her family, guests, or tenants.

Equitable Servitudes

Section 5.04. The covenants and restrictions set forth in this Declaration shall be enforceable equitable servitudes and shall inure to the benefit of and bind all Members. These servitudes may be enforced by _____ [any Member or by the Association or by both].

ARTICLE VI. ARCHITECTURAL AND DESIGN CONTROL

Architectural and Design Approval

Section 6.01. No building, addition, wall, fence, or alteration shall be begun, constructed, maintained, or permitted to remain on any lot or Apartment, or on the Common Area, until complete plans and specifications of the proposed work have been submitted to and approved by the Architectural Control Committee (hereinafter "Committee"). The Committee shall review all such proposals to judge whether they are compatible with the standards of design, construction, and quality of the Development and, if they are not, to require that changes be made before approval.

Architectural Control Committee

Section 6.02. (a) The Committee shall consist of _____ [specify number which must be at least three but not more than five] committee members, formed as provided in this Section.

(b) The Declarant shall appoint all of the original committee members and all replacements until the first anniversary of the issuance of the original final public report for the [add if project is to be developed in phases: first phase of the] Development and may reserve the power to appoint a majority of the Committee until 90 percent of all Apartments in the Development have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Development, whichever occurs first. After one year from the date of the issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Development, the Board shall have the right to appoint one committee member, until 90 percent of the Apartments have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Development, whichever occurs first. Thereafter, the Board shall have the right to appoint all of the committee members.

(c) Committee members appointed by the Board shall be from the membership of the Association. Committee members appointed by the Declarant need not be Members of the Association.

(d) The term of the initial appointees shall be one year, and thereafter committee members will serve two-year terms unless it becomes necessary to remove members appointed by Declarant in order to comply with Section 6.02(a), in which case the terms of all committee members will end at that time, and the Board will appoint a new Committee. Notwithstanding the above, all committee members shall serve at the will of the party who appointed them, and may be removed by that party at any time with or without cause.

(e) The Committee shall meet as often as it deems necessary to carry out properly the obligations imposed on it, unless directed otherwise by the Board.

The Board of Directors

Section 6.03. All decisions of the Committee are subject to review by the Board of Directors and may be appealed to the Board. The Committee shall notify the Board of all violations of this Article and of any noncompliance with its rulings or with the plans and specifications submitted to and approved by it, after which the Board shall take any actions that it deems necessary in accordance with the provisions of this Declaration.

ARTICLE VII. INSURANCE

Fire and Casualty Insurance

Section 7.01. The Association shall obtain and maintain a policy or policies of fire and casualty insurance with an extended coverage endorsement for the full insurable replacement value of the improvements in the _____ [Common Area or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: Development]. The amount of coverage shall be determined by the Board. This insurance shall be maintained for the benefit of the Association, the Members, and their Mortgagees, as their interests may appear as named insured, subject, however, to any loss payment requirements set forth in this Declaration.

General Liability and Individual Liability Insurance

Section 7.02. The Association shall obtain and maintain one or more policies of insurance that must include coverage for (1) general liability of the Association and (2) individual liability of Officers and Directors of the Association for negligent acts or omissions in that capacity. Both of the above types of coverageshall not be less than _____ [select the appropriate provision below (see Civ. Code §§ 1365.7, 1365.9, applicable to stock cooperative that is exclusively residential)]

[If cooperative consists of 100 or fewer apartments:]

$1,000,000 covering all claims for death, personal injury, and property damage arising out of a single occurrence.

[Or, if cooperative consists of more than 100 apartments:]

$3,000,000 covering all claims for death, personal injury, and property damage arising out of a single occurrence.

[Continue with the following:]

The limits and coverage shall be reviewed at least annually by the Board and increased in its discretion.

Other Association Insurance

Section 7.03. The Association shall purchase and maintain workers' compensation insurance to the extent necessary to comply with any applicable laws. The Association also shall purchase and maintain fidelity bond coverage that names the Association as an obligee, for any person or entity handling funds of the Association, whether or not such persons or entities are compensated for their services. This coverage shall be in an amount that is at least equal to the estimated maximum of funds, including reserve funds, in the custody of the Association [or the Manager] at any given time during the term of each bond. However, the aggregate amount of these bonds must not be less than 150 percent of each year's estimated annual operating expenses and reserves. The Association also may purchase and maintain a blanket policy of flood insurance, and demolition insurance in an amount that is sufficient to cover any demolition that occurs following the total or partial destruction of the Development and a decision not to rebuild.

Trustee for Policies

Section 7.04. The Association, acting through its Board, is hereby appointed and shall be deemed trustee of the interests of all named insureds under all insurance policies purchased and maintained by the Association. All insurance proceeds under any of those policies shall be paid to the Board as trustee. The Board is also authorized to negotiate loss settlements with the appropriate insurance carriers, to compromise and settle any claim or enforce any claim by any lawful action, and to execute loss claim forms and release forms in connection with such settlements.

Individual Insurance

[If association will maintain blanket casualty insurance:]

Section 7.05. No Member shall obtain or maintain fire and casualty insurance for the improvements in the Member's Apartment. If any Member does so, he or she shall be liable to the Association for any resulting reduction in the insurance proceeds payable under the policy or policies of fire and casualty insurance maintained by the Association pursuant to Section 7.01. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a Member may separately insure his or her personal property, and may obtain and maintain personal liability and property damage liability insurance for his or her Apartment, provided that the insurance contains a waiver of subrogation rights by the carrier as to the other Members, the Association, Declarant, and the institutional First Mortgagee of the Member's stock.

[Or, if association will not maintain blanket casualty insurance:]

Section 7.05. Each Member shall provide fire and casualty insurance for the improvements in his or her Apartment. A Member may separately insure his or her personal property, and may obtain and maintain personal liability and property damage liability insurance for his or her Apartment, provided that the insurance contains a waiver of subrogation rights by the carrier as to the other Members, the Association, Declarant, and the institutional First Mortgagees of the Owner's stock.

Insurance Premiums

Section 7.06. Insurance premiums for any insurance coverage obtained by the Association shall be included in the regular assessments. That portion of the regular assessments necessary for the required insurance premiums shall be used solely for the payment of the premiums when due.

ARTICLE VIII. DESTRUCTION OR CONDEMNATION

Condemnation

Section 8.01. Should all or any portion of an Apartment or the building in which an Apartment is located be taken by any public or quasi-public agency or entity under the power of eminent domain, the Proprietary Lease of the Apartment shall terminate as of 12:01 A.M. on the date title to the portion taken by eminent domain vests, or the date actual physical possession of the portion taken by eminent domain is taken by the agency or entity exercising the eminent domain power. Any and all compensation or damages awarded for the taking by eminent domain, except that awarded to a Member for the moving of or damage to personal property owned by the Member on the premises, shall belong to the Association. A Member shall have no claim against the Association or the agency or entity exercising eminent domain for the value of the unexpired term of the Proprietary Lease.

Destruction of Premises

Section 8.02. If any part of an Apartment or the building in which an Apartmentis located is destroyed by fire, casualty, or other cause not the fault of the Association or the Member, the Association shall determine whether to restore the damaged premises. If the Association determines to undertake restoration, it shall promptly repair and restore the premises to their former condition at the Association's sole cost. During the making of the repairs and the restoration work, the Carrying Charges payable under the Proprietary Lease shall be abated for the time and to the extent that the Member is prevented from fully occupying the premises in his or her usual and normal manner; provided, however, that in lieu of making those repairs and performing that restoration work, the Association may terminate the lease if either (a) the necessary repair or restoration work cannot rea- sonably be completed under then-applicable governmental laws and regulations within _____ [e.g., 30] working days after it is commenced, or (b) the loss is not covered by the Association's then-existing fire and extended coverage insurance policies.

In the event the Association decides not to restore the premises, the Carrying Charges shall cease from the date of the loss or damage. Further, the Association shall determine the amount that shall be paid to the Member to redeem the common stock of the Member to which the Proprietary Lease is appurtenant, and shall reimburse him or her for any loss as he or she may have sustained.

ARTICLE IX. RIGHTS OF MORTGAGEES

Warranty

Section 9.01. Declarant hereby warrants that Mortgagees of stock in the Association shall be entitled to the rights and guaranties set forth in this Article. No amendment of this Article shall affect the rights of the holder of any First Mortgage recorded prior to the recordation of the amendment who does not join in the execution of the amendment.

Subordination

Section 9.02. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, liens created under Section 4.08 of this Declaration upon any stock shall be subject and subordinate to, and shall not affect the rights of the holder of, the indebtedness secured by any recorded First Mortgage upon such an interest made in good faith and for value, provided that any transfer of stock as the result of a foreclosure or exercise of a power of sale shall not relieve the new Member from liability for any assessments that become due after the transfer. Such a transfer shall extinguish the lien of assessments that were due and payable prior to the transfer of the stock.

Inapplicability of Right of First Refusal

Section 9.03. Should any of the Association's Governing Instruments provide for a "right of first refusal," this right shall not impair the rights of a First Mortgagee to:

(a) Foreclose or take title to stock pursuant to the remedies provided in the Mortgage;

(b) Accept a deed (or assignment) in lieu of foreclosure in the event of default by a Mortgagor; or

(c) Interfere with a subsequent sale of stock so acquired by the Mortgagee.

Notice of Default

Section 9.04. A First Mortgagee, upon request, will be entitled to written notification from the Association of any default in the performance by the Mortgagor of any obligation under the Association's Governing Instruments that is not cured within 60 days.

Unpaid Assessments

Section 9.05. Any First Mortgagee who obtains title to stock pursuant to the remedies provided in the Mortgage or foreclosure of the Mortgage shall not be liable for unpaid assessments that accrue prior to the acquisition of title to the stock by the Mortgagee.

Mortgagee Approval of Material Amendments

Section 9.06. Notwithstanding Article X of this Declaration, any amendments governing any of the following shall require the prior written approval of at least 51 percent of the First Mortgagees and at least 67 percent of the total voting power of the Members:

(a) Voting;

(b) Rights to use the Common Area;

(c) Reserves and responsibility for maintenance, repair, and replacement of the Common Area;

(d) Boundaries of any Apartment;

(e) Members' interests in the Common Area;

(f) Convertibility of Apartments into a Common Area or a Common Area into Apartments;

(g) Leasing of Apartments;

(h) Establishment of self-management by the Association, when professional management has been previously required by any First Mortgagee or any insurer or governmental guarantor of a First Mortgage;

(i) Annexation, addition, or withdrawal of real property to or from the Development;

(j) Assessments, assessment liens, or the subordination of these liens;

(k) Casualty and liability insurance or fidelity bonds; or

(l) Any provisions expressly benefitting First Mortgagees or insurers or governmental guarantors of first mortgages.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, any first Mortgagee who receives a written request from the Board to approve a proposed amendment or amendments requiring consent under this Section who does not deliver a negative response to the Board within 30 days of the receipt of the request shall be deemed to have approved the proposed amendment or amendments.

Mortgagee Approval of Other Actions

Section 9.07. Unless at least 67 percent of the First Mortgagees (based upon one vote for each First Mortgage owned), or 67 percent of the Members other than Declarant, have given their prior written approval, the Association shall not be entitled to:

(a) By act or omission, seek to abandon or terminate the Development;

(b) Change the pro rata interest or obligations of any individual Apartment for either of the following purposes, unless the change is due to an annexation pursuant to Section 2.02 of this Declaration:

(1) Levying assessments or charges, or allocating distributions of hazard insurance proceeds or condemnation awards; or

(2) Determining the pro rata share of ownership of each Apartment in the Common Area and the improvements thereon.

(c) Partition or subdivide any Apartment;

(d) By act or omission, seek to abandon, partition, subdivide, encumber, sell, or transfer the Common Area unless due to an annexation pursuant to Section 2.02 of this Declaration (the granting of easements for public utilities or for other public purposes consistent with the intended use of the Common Area shall not be deemed a transfer within the meaning of this clause); or

(e) Use hazard insurance proceeds for losses to any Development property (whether to Apartments or to the Common Area) for other than the repair, replacement, or reconstruction of that property, except as provided by statute in case of substantial loss to the Apartments and/or Common Area of the Development.

Liens

Section 9.08. All taxes, assessments, and charges that may become liens prior to the First Mortgage under local law, shall relate only to the individual stock and corresponding Apartment and not to the Development as a whole.

Priority

Section 9.09. No provision of the Governing Instruments of the Association gives any Member, or any other party, priority over any rights of the First Mortgagee of the stock pursuant to its Mortgage in the case of a distribution to the Member of insurance proceeds or condemnation awards for losses to, or a taking of, all or a portion of an Apartment and/or the Common Area.

Reserve Fund

Section 9.10. Association assessments shall be large enough to provide for an adequate reserve fund for maintenance, repairs, and replacement of those common elements that must be replaced on a periodic basis. The reserve fund shall be funded by the regular assessments rather than by special assessments.

Management

Section 9.11. Any agreement for professional management of the Development shall not exceed three years and shall provide that either party may terminate the agreement, with or without cause and without the imposition of a termination fee, on 90 days written notice. The approval of holders of at least 75 percent of First Mortgages shall be obtained before the Association terminates a professional management agreement.

Right to Inspect Books and Records

Section 9.12. Institutional First Mortgagees, upon written request, shall have the right to (1) examine the books and records of the Association during normal business hours, and (2) require the submission of any financial data furnished to the Members by the Association.

Payments by Mortgagees

Section 9.13. First Mortgagees may, jointly or severally, pay taxes or other charges that are in default and that may or have become a charge against the Common Area, and may pay any overdue premiums on hazard insurance policies, or secure new hazard insurance coverage on the lapse of a policy, for the Common Area, and First Mortgagees making these payments shall be entitled to immediate reimbursement from the Association.

Right to Furnish Mortgage Information

Section 9.14. Each Member hereby authorizes the First Mortgagee of a First Mortgage on the Member's stock to furnish information to the Board concerning the status of the First Mortgage and the loan that it secures.

ARTICLE X. GENERAL PROVISIONS

Amendment

Section 10.01. (a) This Declaration may be amended by the vote or writtenconsent of Members representing not less than _____ percent of the voting power of each class of Members of the Association. If only one class of membership exists at the time an amendment is proposed, then it must be approved by not less than _____ [specify percentage which must be at least 51 percent but not more than 75 percent] percent of the voting power of the Association, which shall include at least a majority of the votes residing in Members other than Declarant. Notwithstanding any contrary provision in this Section, the percentage of the voting power necessary to amend a specific clause or provision of this Declaration shall not be less than the percentage of affirmative votes prescribed for action to be taken under that clause or provision.

(b) An amendment becomes effective after (1) the approval of the required percentage of Members has been given, (2) that fact has been certified in a writing executed and acknowledged by _____[an officer designated by the Association for that purpose, or by the President of the Association if no such designation is made or specify name of officer], and (3) that writing has been recorded in _____ [specify each county in which a portion of the development is located].

(c) If a proposed amendment requires the affirmative vote (1) in a single-class voting structure, of more than 50 percent of the votes in the Association, or (2) in a dual-class voting structure, of more than 50 percent of the votes in more than one class, and that total cannot be obtained, the Association or any Member may petition the Superior Court of _____[set forth names of all counties in which development is located], subject to the requirements, limitations, and exceptions set forth in Civil Code Section 1356, for an order reducing the percentage of the affirmative votes necessary for the amendment or approving the amendment. If such an order is issued, the amendment shall be acknowledged by _____ [any person designated by the Association for that purpose or by the President of the Association if no such designation is made or specify other person], and that person shall have the amendment and the court order recorded in _____[name of all counties in which project is located]. On recordation, the amended provision or provisions of this Declaration shall have the same force and effect as if the amendment were adopted in compliance with every requirement imposed by this Declaration and the other governing documents. Within a reasonable time after recordation, the Association shall mail a copy of the amendment and a statement that it has been recorded to each Member.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, the Board may adopt an amendment deleting from this Declaration any provision that was unequivocally designed and intended, or that by its nature could only have been designed or intended, to facilitate Declarant in completing the construction or marketing of the Development. The adoption of any such amendment must comply with the requirements set forth in Civil Code Section 1355.5.

(e) When required under Business and Professions Code Section 11018.7, the written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner shall be obtained prior to submitting a proposed amendment to this Declaration to the vote of the Members.

Term of Declaration

Section 10.02. The provisions of this Declaration shall continue in effect for a term of _____ years from the date of execution, after which time it shall be automatically extended for successive periods of _____ years, until the membership of the Association decides to terminate it.

Nonwaiver of Remedies

Section 10.03. Each remedy provided for in this Declaration is separate, distinct, and nonexclusive. Failure to exercise a particular remedy shall not be construed as a waiver.

Attorneys' Fees

Section 10.04. In any action to enforce this Declaration, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

Severability

Section 10.05. The provisions of this Declaration shall be deemed independent and severable, and the invalidity or partial invalidity or unenforceability of any one provision shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision.

Binding

Section 10.06. This Declaration, any amendment to it, and any valid action or directive made pursuant to the Declaration, shall be binding on the Declarant and the Members and their heirs, grantees, tenants, successors, and assigns.

Limitation of Liability

Section 10.07. The liability of any Member for performance of any of the provisions of this Declaration shall terminate upon sale, transfer, assignment, or other divestment of the Member's entire interest in the stock cooperative with respect to obligations arising from and after the date of divestment.

Number and Headings

Section 10.08. As used in this Declaration, the singular shall include the plural, unless the context requires the contrary. The headings are not a part of this Declaration, and shall not affect the interpretation of any provision.

CHAPTER 33C STOCK COOPERATIVES
PART IV. FORMS

16-33C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33C.202

§ 33C.202 Articles of Incorporation for Stock Cooperative

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of articles of incorporation for a stock cooperative corporation that will be incorporated as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.; see also § 33C.31[4]].

For a general discussion of articles of incorporation for nonprofit corporations, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . For examples and discussion of the articles for a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, see §§ 13.210, 13.211. The form used for a condominium owners' association is set forth in Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.204[2].

[b] Contents of Articles

[i] In General

The articles of incorporation for a corporation formed pursuant to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law must contain (1) the name of the corporation, (2) the name of the corporation's initial agent for service of process (and, if the agent is a natural person, his or her complete business or residence street address), and (3) a statutory statement of corporate purpose [Corp. Code §§ 7130(a), 8210(b); see § 33C.202[2], Arts. I-IV]. The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law also lists a number of provisions that may be set forth in the articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code § 7132; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.130].

In addition to the requirements of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] requires the articles of incorporation of any common interest development association filed with the Secretary of State on or after January 1, 1995, to include an additional statement that: (1) identifies the corporation as an association formed to manage a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act; (2) gives the business or corporate office of the association, if any; and, if the office is not on the development site, states the nine-digit ZIP Code, front street, and nearest cross street for the physical location of the development; and (3) gives the name and address of the association's managing agent, if any [Civ. Code § 1363.5(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11502].

The Real Estate Commissioner has listed several types of provisions that must be included in the governing instruments (declaration, articles, and bylaws) of any common-interest subdivision [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8]. Those provisions have been incorporated into the declaration [see § 33C.201] and the bylaws [see § 33C.203] included in this chapter, rather than in the following articles of incorporation.

If the owners' association is an unincorporated association that is changing to corporate status, the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, identified by name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 7121(b); see § 33C.202[2], Arts. V, VI]. In addition, the articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the verified statement is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 7121(c); see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.210].

[c] Execution and Filing

A nonprofit corporation is formed under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law when its articles of incorporation are executed and filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 7120(a)]. Each incorporator and director named in the articles must sign and acknowledge them [Corp. Code § 7120(b); see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(1) (articles may list names and addresses of initial directors); Civ. Code § 1189(a) (form for certificate of acknowledgment)]. Articles usually identify only the incorporator to avoid the need to obtain the signatures of initial directors.

A guide to the formation of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation is set forth in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.120.

Because the developer must include the articles and other governing documents in the application package for a public report [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.2(a)(23)-(25); see also § 33C.142, P 3(w)], the applicant should postpone filing the articles until after the Department has had an opportunity to review them.

If an unincorporated association is being incorporated, a certified copy of the articles must be filed in the office of the county recorder of any county in California in which any real property of the association is located. This filing evidences record ownership in the corporation of all interests of the association in and to the real property located in that county [Corp. Code § 7121(e)].

[d] Amendment

Regulations promulgated pursuant to the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] set forth requirements for the amendment of declarations, articles, and bylaws of common interest subdivisions. Amendment of the articles requires the vote or written assent of members as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)(1)(A); see § 33C.202[2], Art. VII]:

- At least a majority of the governing body.
- At least a majority of the voting power of the owners' association.
- At least a majority of the votes of members other than the developer. This rule is subject to the following exceptions and qualifications. First, the percentage of a quorum or of the voting power of the association or of members other than the developer necessary to amend a specific clause or provision in the articles must not be less than the prescribed percentage of affirmative votes required for action to be taken under that clause [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(c)]. Second, if a two-class voting system is in effect, the articles cannot be amended without the vote or written consent of a prescribed percentage of the voting power of each class of membership or a prescribed percentage of a quorum of members of each class [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(d)]. Third, if the governing instruments originally provided for a two-class voting structure, but one of the classes has been converted so that a one-class system is in effect, the general rules set forth in the preceding paragraph [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)] apply [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(e)].

PART IV. FORMS

16-33C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33C.203

§ 33C.203 Bylaws for Stock Cooperative

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative set of bylaws for a stock cooperative corporation formed pursuant to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. For an example and discussion of the bylaws for corporations formed under that law, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.212. For bylaws for the owners' association of a condominium project, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.205[2].

[i] Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law

The bylaws of a cooperative corporation organized pursuant to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law must state either: (1) the number of directors of the corporation; (2) the method for determining the number of directors; or (3) that the number of directors will be not less than a stated minimum or more than a stated maximum, with the exact number to be fixed by approval of the board or members [Corp. Code § 7151(a); see § 33C.203[2], Section 8.01]. In any event, the number or minimum number of directors may be one or more [Corp. Code § 7151(a)].

The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law also provides that the bylaws may include any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, including [Corp. Code § 7151(c)-(f)]:

- The names and addresses of persons appointed as initial directors [see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(1)].
- The transfer of memberships [see Corp. Code §§ 7132(c)(2), 7320; § 33C.203[2], Art. IV].
- The classes of members, and if there are two or more classes, the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions attaching to each class [see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(3); § 33C.203[2], Art.

VII].

- A provision that would allow any member to have more or less than one vote in any election or other matter presented to the members for a vote [see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(4)].

- A provision that requires amending the bylaws, and any amendment or repeal of that amendment, to be approved in writing by a specified person or persons other than the board or the members [see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(5); but see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(5)(A)-(C) (circumstances rendering approval requirement inapplicable)].

- Any other provision, not in conflict with law, for managing the activities and conducting the corporation's affairs, including any provision required or permitted by law to be stated in bylaws [see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(6)].

- The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of members', directors', and committee meetings, or of conducting mail ballots [see § 33C.203[2], Arts. VI, X].

- The qualifications, duties, and compensation of directors; the time of their election; and the requirements of a quorum for directors' and committee meetings [see § 33C.203[2], Arts. VIII-X].

- The appointment of committees, composed of directors or nondirectors or both, by the board or any officer, and the authority of these committees.

- The appointment, duties, compensation, and tenure of officers [see § 33C.203[2], Art. XI].

- The mode of determination of members of record [see § 33C.203[2], Section 6.05].

- The making of reports and financial statements to members.

- Setting, imposing, and collecting dues, assessments, and admission and transfer fees.

- Manner of admission, withdrawal, suspension, and expulsion of members [see Corp. Code § 7341; § 33C.203[2], Arts. II, V].

- Voting requirements with regard to the members of any class, unit, or grouping, or the directors [see § 33C.203[2], Arts. VII, X].

- A provision limiting the number of members, in total or of any class, that the corporation is authorized to admit.

[ii] Regulations of California Real Estate Commissioner

The governing instruments (the articles, bylaws, and declaration) of a common interest development must contain the provisions required by the Real Estate Commissioner's regulations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.15-2792.28] enacted under the Subdivided Lands Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.]. Failure to include these provisions in any of the governing documents may result in the denial of the issuance of a public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(a), (b)]. Without such a report, no units in the cooperative may be leased or offered for lease [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2].

Most of these required provisions are contained in the declaration [see § 33C.201[1][f][ii]]. However, these bylaws contain the following provisionsrequired by the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)]:

- Procedures for the election and removal of governing body directors and officers of the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(9); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19; § 33C.203[2], Arts. IX, XII-XVI];

- Enumeration of the powers and duties of the governing body and its officers, and of the limitations on the authority of the governing body to act without the prior approval of members representing a majority of the voting power of the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(10); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21; see also Civ. Code § 1365.5; § 33C.203[2], Section 8.06];

- Allocation of voting rights to association members [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(11); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.18; § 33C.203[2], Art. VII];

- Regular and special meetings of association members with notice requirements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(13); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17; § 33C.203[2], Art. IV];

- Regular meetings of the governing body with provision for notice to association members [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(14); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.20; § 33C.203[2], Art. X];

- Quorum requirements for meetings of members of the association and of the governing body [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(15); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17; § 33C.203[2], Sections 6.05, 10.03];

- Procedures for proxy voting at members' meetings [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(16); see § 33C.203[2], Section 7.02];

- Policies and procedures governing the inspection of books and records of the association by members [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(17); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(c)-(e); § 33C.203[2], Art. XVII]; and

- Amendment procedures for those provisions of the bylaws that relate to the ownership, management, and control of the association and/or the common interests [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(18); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; § 33C.203[2], Art. XIX].

[c] Transfer of Interests

The memberships in a corporation formed under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] are not transferable unless the articles or bylaws provide for transfer [Corp. Code § 7320(a)]. In a stock cooperative, the stock and appurtenant rights to tenancy of a particular apartment are generally made transferable only under certain conditions, in order for the corporation to maintain control over the selection of financially responsible tenant-stockholders [see § 33C.203[2], Section 4.01]. If a tenant-stockholder has an offer to purchase his or her interest in the cooperative, the corporation must repurchase that interest on the same terms within 15 days, or forfeit the right of control over the sale [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(b); see also § 33C.203[2], Sections 4.02, 4.03].

However, to finance the purchase of an interest in the cooperative, a commercial bank must have the right to sell the shares of stock and to assign the proprietary lease of a tenant-stockholder without the prior consent or approval of the Association if the tenant-stockholder defaults on the loan [Fin. Code § 1236; see § 33C.35[3]; see also § 33C.203[2], Section 4.04]. Other lenders usually insist on similar mortgagee protections [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][e][xi]; see also § 33C.201[2], Art. IX].

[d] Termination Procedures

Several laws govern the termination of a tenant-stockholder's membership and tenancy in the stock cooperative. First, the association of a common interest development may only forfeit or abridge a member's right to the full use and enjoyment of his or her subdivision interest (i.e., right of tenancy) for failure to comply with the governing instruments or operating rules (1) by judgment of a court or a decision arising out of arbitration, or (2) on account of foreclosure or sale under a power of sale for failure to pay assessments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(a); see Civ. Code §§ 1366, 1367, 1367.1; see also § 33C.204[1][b][viii]].

Second, a landlord may regain possession of leased premises after a tenant's nonpayment of rent only in accordance with an unlawful detainer action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161 et seq.; see also § 33C.204[1][b][ix]].

Finally, any termination of membership in a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation must be done in good faith and in a fair and reasonable manner [Corp. Code § 7341(a)]. A procedure is fair and reasonable if (1) the provisions of the procedure are set forth in the articles or bylaws, or sent annually to the members, (2) it provides the giving of 15 days' prior notice of the termination and the reasons for it, and (3) it provides an opportunity for the member to be heard, orally or in writing, not less than five days before the effective date of the termination by a person or body authorized to decide that the proposed termination not take place [Corp. Code § 7341(c)]. Notice may be given by any method reasonably calculated to provide actual notice. If notice is mailed, it must be first-class or registered mail sent to the members' last address shown on the corporation's records [Corp. Code § 7341(d); see § 33C.203[2], Section 5.02].

This form authorizes the stock cooperative to terminate a tenant-stockholder's membership, and appurtenant right of tenancy, after obtaining a judgment againstthat person in an unlawful detainer action for nonpayment of carrying charges [see § 33C.203[2], Section 5.02(a)]. As a prerequisite to such an action, the cooperative must record a notice of delinquent assessment against the tenant-stockholder [see Civ. Code §§ 1366, 1367, 1367.1; see also § 33C.201[2], Art. IV]. This form also provides for termination of membership on a tenant-stockholder's voluntary or involuntary transfer of shares [see § 33C.203[2], Sections 5.01(b)-(e)], since such a person is no longer an "owner" entitled to a right of tenancy in an apartment [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(a); Civ. Code § 1358(d)].

The original or a copy of the bylaws certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation is prima facie evidence of the adoption of those bylaws and the matters stated therein [Corp. Code § 314]. This form includes a secretary's certificate. For other certificate forms, see Ch. 4, Bylaws, §§ 4.200, 4.201.

[f] Filing

A copy of the bylaws must be filed with the Real Estate Commissioner as part of an application for a final public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.2(a)(24); see § 33C.200[2] (application)]. Consequently, the applicant should postpone the adoption of the bylaws until after the Commissioner reviews them. For a discussion and example of minutes adopting the bylaws, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.205[1].

ARTICLE I. GENERAL PROVISIONS

Name

Section 1.01. The name of the corporation is _____ ("Association").

Principal Office

Section 1.02. The principal office of the Association is located at _____[street address], _____[city], California. The Board of Directors is hereby granted full power and authority to change the principal office of the Association from one location to another in [the County of _____,] California. Any such change shall be noted by the Secretary in these Bylaws, but shall not be considered an amendment of these Bylaws.

Application

Section 1.03. These Bylaws are applicable to the stock cooperative housing development known as _____ ("Development"), located at _____[address and city] in _____ County, California. These Bylaws are also applicable to all Members of the Association and all tenants, employees, and other persons who use the facilities of the Development in any manner.

Definitions

Section 1.04. Unless otherwise specified in these Bylaws, the definitions set forth in Article I of the Declaration for _____[name of development] ("Declaration") recorded or to be recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, California, apply to these Bylaws.

ARTICLE II. QUALIFICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP

Proof of and Qualification for Membership

Section 2.01. Any natural person approved by the Board of Directors shall be eligible for membership. Except as provided in Section 2.04, no person or persons shall exercise the rights of membership until satisfactory proof has been furnished to the Secretary of the Association of qualification as a Member. A copy of a duly executed and acknowledged Proprietary Lease for an Apartment in the Development shall constitute satisfactory proof of qualification.

Assessments

Section 2.02. No initiation fees, costs, or dues shall be assessed against any person as a condition upon his or her exercise of the rights of membership except any assessments, levies, and charges specifically authorized under the Governing Instruments.

Certificates of Membership

Section 2.03. The Board of Directors may provide for the issuance of certificates evidencing membership in the Association which shall be in the form determined by the Board and which shall set forth the statements required by Section 7313(b) of the California Corporations Code. All certificates evidencing membership shall be consecutively numbered. The name and address of each Member and the date of issuance of the certificate shall be entered on the records of the Association maintained by the Secretary. If any certificate is lost, mutilated, or destroyed, a new certificate may be issued therefor upon such terms and conditions as the Board may direct.

Status of Declarant

Section 2.04. The Declarant shall be a Member of the Association; provided, however, that his or her status as a Member shall terminate at the time specified in Section 7.01(b) of these Bylaws, unless he or she has executed a Proprietary Lease in accordance with this Article.

ARTICLE III. PROPRIETARY LEASE

Form of Lease

Section 3.01. The Board of Directors shall adopt a form of Proprietary Lease to be used by the Association for the leasing of all Apartments in the Development. The leases shall contain any restrictions, limitations, and provisions with respect to assignment, subletting, and the sale or transfer of the stock appurtenant thereto, and any other terms and provisions that the Board of Directors may determine.

After a Proprietary Lease in the form adopted by the Board of Directors has been executed and delivered to the Association, all Proprietary Leases subsequently executed and delivered shall be in the same form, unless a change or alteration is approved pursuant to a vote of the Members.

Allocation of Shares

Section 3.02. The Board of Directors shall allocate to each Apartment to be leased the number of shares of stock that must be purchased by a prospective occupant for execution of a Proprietary Lease of that Apartment.

Loss or Destruction of Proprietary Lease

Section 3.03. In the event that any Proprietary Lease is lost, stolen, destroyed, or mutilated, the Board of Directors may authorize the issuance of a new Proprietary Lease in lieu thereof, in the same form and with the same provisions. The Association may require the Lessee, or his or her legal representative, to give the Association a bond or other adequate security sufficient to indemnify it against any claim that may be made against it on account of the alleged loss, theft, destruction, or mutilation of the Proprietary Lease.

ARTICLE IV. TRANSFER OF MEMBERSHIPS

General Provisions

Section 4.01. Except as provided herein, a Member may not transfer his or herstock in _____[name of stock cooperative] or assign the Proprietary Lease appurtenant thereto. In any event, no transfers shall be made on the books of the Association within _____ days next preceding the annual meeting of Members. The Association shall be entitled to a reasonable fee for processing any transfer.

Association's Option to Purchase

Section 4.02. If a Member desires to sell his or her stock and assign the appurtenant Proprietary Lease to a purchaser who has made a bona fide offer, he or she shall give written notification of that intention to the Association. The Association shall have an option for 15 days after receipt of notice to repurchase the stock and the right to exclusive occupancy appurtenant thereto at terms not less favorable than the terms of the original offer. The purchase by the Association of the stock and the appurtenant Proprietary Lease shall immediately terminate the Members' rights in the Association. The Member shall be released from all obligations under the Proprietary Lease upon compliance with the procedures described in Section 4.03 of these Bylaws.

Failure to Exercise Option

Section 4.03. If the Association fails to exercise the option set forth inSection 4.02within the 15-day period, the Member may sell his or her stock in the Association, and assign the Proprietary Lease appurtenant thereto, to any person provided that the terms of sale are not less favorable than the terms of the original offer. Upon execution of the Proprietary Lease by the transferee, the retiring Member shall be released from the obligations under the Proprietary Lease, provided that he or she has done all of the following:

(a) Endorsed his or her stock certificates for transfer in blank and deposited them with the Association;

(b) Met all of his or her obligations and paid all amounts due under the Proprietary Lease up to the date of transfer; and

(c) Vacated the Apartment, leaving it in good state of repair.

Rights of Commercial Bank

Section 4.04. Notwithstanding the provisions set forth inSections 4.01 -4.03, if a Member defaults on a loan made by a commercial bank on the security of a first security interest on stock and the assignment by way of security of the Member's interest in the Proprietary Lease or right of tenancy in the Apartment, the lender shall have the right, in accordance with Section 1236 of the Financial Code, without the prior consent or approval of the Association, to sell the shares of stock in _____[name of cooperative corporation] at a public or private sale following at least 30 days' prior written notice to both the Member and the Association at the address of the Member's Apartment, and to assign the Proprietary Lease to a purchaser who agrees to cure any defaults thereunder as a condition of assignment.

ARTICLE V. TERMINATION OF MEMBERSHIP

Basis

Section 5.01. The Board may terminate the membership of a Member if any of the following occurs:

(a) The Association prevails in an unlawful detainer action against the Member for default in the failure to pay Carrying Charges, after having recorded a notice of delinquent assessment pursuant to Section 1367.1(b) of the Civil Code;

(b) The Member ceases to be the owner of the shares of stock to which the Proprietary Lease is appurtenant;

(c) A receiver of the Member's stock is appointed under any of the laws of the United States or of any state;

(d) Any of the shares of stock to which the Proprietary Lease is appurtenant are levied upon and sold under the process of any court; or

(e) The Member makes a general assignment for the benefit of creditors.

The Association may not otherwise abridge the right of any Member to the full use and enjoyment of his or her Apartment on account of failure by the Member to comply with the provisions of the governing instruments or rules, except by judgment of a court or a decision arising out of arbitration.

Notice of Termination

Section 5.02. No membership may be terminated except in accordance with the following procedure:

(a) The Association shall send written notice, postage prepaid, by first-class or registered mail addressed to the last address of the Member shown on the Association's records, stating that membership in the Association and all rights appurtenant to membership will expire on a date not less than 15 days after the date of mailing the notice, and the reasons for termination; and

(b) The notice shall inform the Member that he or she has the opportunity to show cause to the Board of Directors, orally or in writing, not less than five days before the effective date of termination, why the termination should not take place.

Surrender of Stock and Lease

Section 5.03. Upon termination, the Member shall be required to deliver promptly to the Association his or her stock certificates, and his or her ProprietaryLease, endorsed in the manner required by the Association. The Association shall thereupon at its election either (1) repurchase that stock at its present transfer value or the amount the retiring Member originally paid for the acquisition of the stock, whichever is the lesser, or (2) proceed with reasonable diligence to effect a sale of the stock to a purchaser and at a sales price acceptable to the Association. The retiring Member shall be entitled to receive the amount so determined, less the following amounts:

(a) Any amounts due to the Association from the Member under the Proprietary Lease;

(b) The cost or estimated cost of all deferred maintenance, including painting, redecorating, floor finishing, and any repairs and replacements that are deemed necessary by the Association to place the Apartment in suitable condition for another occupant; and

(c) Legal and other expenses incurred by the Association in connection with the default of that Member and the resale of the stock. In the event the retiring Member, for any reason, should fail for a period of 10 days after demand to deliver to the Association his or her endorsed stock certificate, if any, that certificate shall forthwith be deemed to be cancelled and may be reissued by the Association to a new purchaser.

ARTICLE VI. MEETINGS OF MEMBERS

Place of Meetings

Section 6.01. All meetings of the Members shall be held within the Development at the principal office of the Association, or at a meeting place specified in writing by the Board as close to the Development as possible. No meeting of the Members shall, unless unusual conditions exist, be held outside of _____ County, in which the Development is located.

Annual Meetings

Section 6.02. The first annual meeting of the Members shall be held on a date, selected by the initial Directors appointed by the Declarant, that is within _____ [select the appropriate provision below]

[if public report authorizes sale of at least 50 subdivision interests in development (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17(a)), use:] 45 days after the close of escrow for the sale of the subdivision interest that represents the fifty-first percentile interest authorized for sale under the first final subdivision public report issued for the Development by the California Real Estate Commissioner, or within six months after the closing of the sale of the first subdivision interest within the Development, whichever is earlier.

[OR]

[if public report authorizes sale of fewer than 50 subdivision interests in development, use:] six months after the closing of the sale of the first subdivision interest within the Development.

[Continue with the following:]

Thereafter, the annual meetings of the Members shall be held on the _____ [specify day and week, e.g., second Tuesday] of _____ [month] each succeeding year, at _____ [time]. If the day designated for the annual meeting is a legal holiday, the meeting shall be held at the same hour on the first day following that day, excluding Saturday and Sunday, that is not a legal holiday.

Special Meetings

Section 6.03. Special meetings of the Members may be called by a majority of a quorum of the Board or by the President of the Association. In addition, special meetings of the Members for any lawful purpose must be promptly scheduled by the Board in response to a written request therefor signed by Members representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the Association. The special meeting shall be held not less than 35 or more than 90 days after adoption of the resolution or receipt of the request. Only that business stated in the notice of meeting given pursuant to Section 6.04 of these Bylaws shall be transacted at the special meeting. The right of Members to call a special meeting pursuant to this Section shall be enforceable as provided in Section 7511(c) of the California Corporations Code.

Notice of Meetings

Section 6.04. The Secretary of the Association shall give written notice of any Members' meeting to each Member of record. Except as provided below, the notice shall be given at least 10 but not more than 90 days before the meeting, by first class [or registered or certified] mail or by personal delivery. If a special meeting is called by Members pursuant to Section 6.03 of these Bylaws, the notice shall be given within 20 days after receipt of the request for the meeting. If that 20-day requirement is not satisfied, the Members who called the meeting may give the notice. Any notice of meeting shall be addressed to the Member at the address appearing on the books of the Association, or the address supplied by the Member to the Association for this purpose. If there is no such address, notice shall be given at the principal office of the Association or by publication at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office is located. The notice shall state the place, date, and time of the meeting. The notice shall also specify those matters the Board intends to present for action by the Members. In the case of a special meeting, the only matters that may be voted on are those matters that were mentioned in the notice of meeting. In the case of an annual meeting, any proper matter may be presented at the meeting for action [add if bylaws authorize a quorum of less than one third of the voting power (see Corp. Code § 7512(b)):, except as provided in Section 6.06 of these Bylaws.] IfDirectors are to be elected at the meeting, the notice shall include the names of all those who are nominees at the time the notice is given.

Record Date of Membership

Section 6.05. The Board shall fix, in advance, a record date or dates for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to notice of and to vote at any meeting of Members. The record date for notice of a meeting shall not be more than 90 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. The record date for voting shall not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting or before the date on which the first written ballot is mailed or solicited. The Board may also fix, in advance, a record date for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to exercise any rights in connection with any other action. Any such date shall not be more than 60 days prior to the action.

Quorum

Section 6.06. At any meeting, the presence either in person or by proxy of Members entitled to cast at least 51 percent [or specify other percentage which must be at least 25 percent and not more than 66 2/3 percent of the total voting power of the association] of the total voting power of the association shall constitute a quorum for any action except as otherwise provided in the Articles, Bylaws, or this Declaration. The Members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough Members to leave less than a quorum, if the action taken, other than adjournment, is approved by at least a majority of Members required to constitute a quorum. [Add if this provision authorizes a quorum of less than one third of the voting power (see Corp. Code § 7512(b)): Notwithstanding the foregoing, whenever the quorum present at an annual meeting of Members consists of less than one third of the voting power of the Association (present in person or by proxy), then the only matters that may be voted on are those matters that were mentioned in the notice of meeting given pursuant to Section 6.04 of these Bylaws.] If a quorum is not present at any time at a duly called meeting, a majority of those Members present in person or by proxy may adjourn the meeting to a time not less than 5 days or more than 30 days from the meeting date, but no other business may be transacted. An adjourned meeting may be held without written notice, provided that notice is given by announcement at the original meeting. If no such announcement is made, or if the selected date is changed after adjournment, notice of the time and place shall be given to Members in the manner provided in Section 6.04 of these Bylaws. The quorum for the adjourned meeting shall be _____ percent.

Parliamentary Procedure

Section 6.07. All meetings of the Members shall be conducted in accordance with (1) a recognized system of parliamentary procedure or (2) any parliamentary procedures adopted by the Association.

Action Taken Without a Meeting

Section 6.08. Any action that may be taken at a meeting of the Members, except for the election of Directors, may be taken without a meeting provided the following ballot requirements are satisfied:

(a) The Association shall distribute a written ballot to every Member entitled to vote on the matter. The ballot shall be solicited in the same manner as provided in Section 6.04 of these Bylaws for the giving of notice of meetings of Members. If the Association has 100 or more Members and the ballots are distributed to 10 or more Members, the ballot shall comply with the additional requirements set forth in Section 7514 of the California Corporations Code.

(b) The ballot shall set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot, indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement, and state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure submitted.

(c) The proposed action shall be considered approved if:

(1) The number of votes cast by ballot within the specified time period equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action; and

(2) The number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required for approval at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot.

(d) No written ballot shall be revoked.

Approval by Members Required by Statute

Section 6.09. Any approval by the Members of the following proposals, other than unanimous approval by those entitled to vote, shall be valid only if the general nature of the approved proposal was stated in the notice of meeting or any waiver of notice of meeting:

(a) Removing a Director without cause pursuant to Section 8.03(b) of these Bylaws;

(b) Filling vacancies on the Board pursuant to Section 8.04 of these Bylaws;

(c) Entering into or approving a contract or transaction between the Association and one or more of the Directors, or between the Association and any entity in which one or more of the Directors has a material financial interest, when the material facts of the contract or transaction are fully disclosed pursuant to Section 7233 of the California Corporations Code;

(d) Amending the Articles after approval by the Board, in accordance with*Section 7812 of the California Corporations Code*;

(e) Electing to dissolve the Association, by approval of a majority of all Members or by approval of both the Board and Members pursuant to Section 8610 of the California Corporations Code; or

(f) If the corporation has more than one class of memberships outstanding upon dissolution, approving a plan of distribution of assets which is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of those classes, pursuant to Section 8719 of the California Corporations Code.

Waiver of Notice or Consent of Absentees

Section 6.10. The transactions of any meeting of Members, however called and noticed, shall be as valid as though taken at a duly called, noticed, and held meeting, if: (1) a quorum is present either in person or by proxy and (2) either before or after the meeting, each of the Members not present in person or by proxy, signs a written waiver of notice, or a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the Minutes of the meeting. Any such wavier, consent, or approval shall be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the Minutes of the Meeting.

ARTICLE VII. VOTING RIGHTS

Voting Structure

Section 7.01. The Association shall have two classes of voting membership, as follows:

(a) All Members, other than the Declarant, shall be Class A Members. Class A membership entitles the holder to one vote for each Apartment for which the Member has a right of exclusive occupancy.

(b) The Declarant, and _____[his or her or its] successors or assigns, shall be the sole Class B Member. The Class B Member shall be entitled to three votes for each Apartment for which he or she has a right of exclusive occupancy. Class B membership shall cease and be converted to Class A membership upon the occurrence of whichever of the following is first in time:

[For a single-phase development, use:]

(1) The total outstanding votes of the Class A Members equals or exceeds the total outstanding votes of the Class B member; or

(2) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a subdivision interest following the original issuance of the final subdivision public report for the Development.

[OR]

[For a multi-phase development, use:]

(1) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a subdivision interest following the original issuance of the final subdivision public report for the most recent phase of the Development; or

(2) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the fourth anniversary of the first conveyance of a subdivision interest following the issuance of the final subdivision public report for the first phase of the Development.

[Continue with the following:]

If two classes of membership exist, any action by the Association that must have the approval of the Members before being undertaken shall require the vote or written assent of a majority of the Class B voting power as well as the vote or written assent of a prescribed majority of the Class A voting power. If one class of membership exists, any action by the Association that must have the approval of the Members before being undertaken shall require the vote or written assent of a majority of the total voting power of the Association as well as the vote or written assent of a prescribed majority of the total voting power of Members other than the Declarant.

Proxies

Section 7.02. At all meetings of Members, each Member may vote in person or by proxy. All proxies shall be in writing and filed with the Secretary of the Association. Every proxy shall be revocable and shall automatically cease upon conveyance of its maker's membership, or upon receipt of written notice by the Secretary of the maker's death or judicially declared incapacity. No proxy shall be valid after the expiration of 11 months from its date of execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. However, the maximum term of any proxy shall be three years from its date of execution. The maker of a proxy may revoke it by delivering a written revocation to the Association, by executing a subsequent proxy and presenting it to the meeting, or by attending any meeting and voting in person.

Any revocable proxy covering any of the following matters that require a vote of the Members is not valid as to those matters unless it sets forth the general nature of the matter to be voted on:

(a) Removing a Director without cause, pursuant to Section 8.03(b) of these Bylaws;

(b) Filling Director vacancies pursuant to Section 8.04 of these Bylaws;

(c) Entering into or approving a contract or transaction between the Association and one or more of the Directors, or between the Association and any entity in which one or more of the Directors has a material financial interest, when the material facts of the contract or transaction are fully disclosed pursuant to Section 7233 of the California Corporations Code;

(d) Amending the articles or bylaws to repeal, restrict, create, or expand proxy rights;

(e) Amending the Articles after approval by the Board, in accordance with Section 7812 of the California Corporations Code;

(f) Disposing of assets other than in the usual and regular course of corporate activities pursuant to Section 7911(a)(2) of the Corporations Code;

(g) Approving merger terms pursuant to Section 8012 of the Corporations Code;

(h) Adopting an amendment to a merger agreement that changes any of the principal terms pursuant to Section 8015(a) of the Corporations Code;

(i) Electing to dissolve the Association, by approval of a majority of all Members or by approval of both the Board and Members pursuant to Section 8610 of the California Corporations Code; or

(j) If the corporation has more than one class of memberships outstanding upon dissolution, approving a plan of distribution of assets which is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of those classes, pursuant to Section 8719(a) of the California Corporations Code.

ARTICLE VIII. DIRECTORS

Number and Qualification

Section 8.01. The affairs of this Association shall be managed and its duties and obligations performed by an elected Board of Directors, consisting of _____ [insert odd number of three or more] persons, who need not be Members of the Association, until conversion of Class B memberships to Class A, after which time all Directors must be Members of the Association [or who shall, with the exception of the Initial Directors appointed by the Declarant, be Members of the Association].

Term

Section 8.02. At the first meeting of the Association, the Members shall elect _____ [insert total number of directors] Directors for a term of one year; and at each annual meeting thereafter, the Members shall elect _____ [insert total number of directors] Directors for a term of one year [or provide for staggered terms]. The Members shall nominate and elect Directors in accordance with Article IX of these Bylaws.

Removal

Section 8.03. Directors may be removed as follows:

(a) The Board may declare vacant the office of a Director for any of the following causes:

(1) The Director has been declared of unsound mind by a final order of court;

(2) The Director has been convicted of a felony;

[Add if association holds assets in charitable trust:]

(3) The Director has been found by a final order or judgment of any court to have breached duties imposed by Section 7238 of the California Corporations Code on Directors who perform functions with respect to assets held in charitable trust; or

[Add if minimum attendance will be required:]

(4) The Director has failed to attend _____ [number] meetings of the Board.

(b) One or more Directors may be removed prior to the expiration of their terms, without cause, at an annual or special meeting of the Members. Any removal without cause shall be approved (1) by a majority of the total voting power of the Association for so long as the Development consists of fewer than 50 Apartments, and (2) by the vote of Members representing a majority of a quorum of Members if the Development consists of 50 or more Apartments.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, unless the entire Board is removed from office by the vote of the Members, an individual Director shall not be removed prior to the expiration of his or her term of office if the number of votes cast against the removal, or not consenting in writing to the removal, would be sufficient to elect the Director if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast (or, if the action is taken by written ballot, all memberships entitled to vote were voted) and the entire number of Directors authorized at the time of the Director's most recent election were then being elected. A Director who has been elected to office solely by the votes of Members other than Declarant, may be removed from office before the expiration of his or her term of office only by the vote of at least 51 percent of the voting power of Members other than Declarant. If a Director is removed at a meeting, a new Director may be elected at the same meeting.

Vacancies

Section 8.04. In the event of a vacancy on the Board caused by the death or resignation of a Director, the remaining Directors shall elect a successor who shallserve for the unexpired term of his or her predecessor. The Board shall not fill a vacancy on the Board created by the removal of a Director, except with the vote or written assent of a majority of each class of Members.

Compensation

Section 8.05. No Director shall receive any compensation for any service he or she may render to the Association; provided, however, that any Director may be reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Director in the performance of his or her duties.

Powers and Duties

Section 8.06. The Board's powers and duties shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(a) Enforcing the applicable provisions of the Declaration, Articles, Bylaws, and any Rules of the Association.

(b) Paying taxes and assessments that are, or could become, a lien on the Common Area or a portion thereof.

(c) Contracting for casualty, liability, and other insurance on behalf of the Association.

(d) Contracting for goods and services for the Common Area, facilities, and interests of the Association.

(e) Delegating its powers to any committees, officers, or employees of the Association that are expressly authorized by the Governing Instruments.

(f) Preparing budgets and financial statements for the Association as prescribed in the Governing Instruments.

(g) Formulating rules of operation for the Common Area and facilities owned or controlled by the Association.

(h) Initiating and executing disciplinary and termination proceedings against Members for violations of provisions of the Governing Instruments in accordance with procedures set forth in the Governing Instruments.

(i) Entering any Apartment as necessary in connection with construction, maintenance, or emergency repair for the benefit of the Common Area or the Members in the aggregate.

(j) Electing the officers of the Board of Directors.

(k) Filling vacancies on the Board of Directors, except for a vacancy created by the removal of a Director.

(l) Reviewing the following on at least a quarterly basis:

(1) A current reconciliation of the operating accounts of the Association.

(2) A current reconciliation of the reserve accounts of the Association.

(3) The actual reserve revenues and expenses for the current year compared with the budget for the current year.

(4) The most current account statements prepared by the financial institution where the Association has its operating and reserve accounts.

(5) An income and expense statement for the operating and reserve accounts of the Association.

(m) Withdrawing moneys from the Association's reserve accounts.

(n) Causing studies of the reserve account requirements of the Development to be conducted, when necessary, and reviewing those studies in accordance with Civil Code Section 1365.5(e).

(o) Performing any act reasonably necessary to resolve any dispute involving the Declaration or any other governing documents, such as Articles, Bylaws, or Operating Rules, which govern the operation of the Project or the Association, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.) by the Association's dispute resolution procedure required by Civil Code Sections 1363.810 through 1363.850 as manifested in Section 3.10 of the Declaration, and the alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590 as a prerequisite to any party filing a civil enforcement action.

(p) The authorization detailed in (o) does not require the Board to do any of the following:

(1) As a prerequisite to initiating any civil action, to conduct inspections, maintain inspection records, exhaust applicable casualty insurance coverage maintained by the Association, provide an opportunity to cure, meet with members, or obtain the consent of the members.

(2) Except in compliance with Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590, to submit civil claims of any kind to binding or non-binding alternative dispute resolution procedures.

Limitations on Powers

Section 8.07. Notwithstanding the powers set out inSection 8.06, the Board shall be prohibited from taking any of the following actions, except with the vote or written assent of a majority of each class of Members, or when Class B membership no longer exists, with the approval of a majority of the voting power of the Association residing in Members other than Declarant:

(a) Entering into a contract with a third person whereby the third person will furnish goods or services for the Common

Area or the Association for a term longer than one year, with the following exceptions:

(1) A management contract approved by the Federal Housing Administration or Veterans Administration;

(2) A contract with a public utility if the rates charged are regulated by the Public Utilities Commission, provided that the term shall not exceed the shortest term for which the utility will contract at the regulated rate;

(3) Prepaid casualty and/or liability insurance of not more than three years duration, provided that the policy provides for short-rate cancellation by the insured;

(4) Lease agreements for laundry room fixtures and equipment of not more than five years' duration, provided that the lessor under the agreement is not an entity in which the Declarant subdivider has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more;

(5) Agreements for cable television services and equipment or satellite dish television services and equipment of not to exceed five years' duration, provided that the supplier is not an entity in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more; and

(6) Agreements for the sale or lease of burglar alarm and fire alarm equipment, installation, and services for a term of up to five years, provided that the supplier or suppliers are not entities in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more.

(b) Incurring aggregate expenditures for capital improvements to the Common Area in any fiscal year in excess of 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year.

(c) Selling during any fiscal year property of the Association having an aggregate fair market value in excess of 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year.

(d) Paying compensation to Directors or to officers of the Association for services rendered in the conduct of the Association's business; provided, however, that the Board may cause a Director or officer to be reimbursed for expenses incurred in carrying on the business of the Association.

(e) Filling a vacancy on the Board of Directors created by the removal of a Director.

ARTICLE IX. NOMINATION AND ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

Nomination

Section 9.01. Nominations for election to the Board of Directors may be made by any of the following:

(a) A nominating committee appointed by the Board at least 90 days before an annual meeting of Members provided the report of the committee is received by the Board at least 30 days before the annual meeting of Members.

(b) A written petition containing the consent to serve as a Director of the person sought to be nominated, delivered to the Secretary of the Association at least 30 days before an annual meeting and signed within 11 months preceding the annual meeting by Members representing _____ percent of the "voting power" of the Association as the term "voting power" is defined in the Nonprofit Corporation Law of the State of California. [Add if applicable: If the Association has more than 500 Members, then the additional petition requirements set forth in Corporations Code Section 7521 shall be satisfied.]

(c) Any Member who is present in person, or by the proxy of any Member who is present by proxy, at the annual meeting of Members at which the Director is to be elected.

Election

Section 9.02. (a) As soon as possible after the filing of Articles of Incorporation for the Association, Declarant shall elect Initial Directors who shall serve until the first annual meeting of the Members. At the first annual meeting of the Association, the Members shall fill, by election, all positions on the Board of Directors. Subsequent elections shall also be held at the annual meetings. However, if an annual meeting is not held or does not include an election, the election may be held at a special meeting of Members called for that purpose.

(b) Voting for Directors shall be by secret written ballot. At an election, the Members or their proxies may cast, in respect to each vacancy, as many votes as they are entitled to exercise under the provisions of these Bylaws. The persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected. Each Member may cumulate his or her votes and give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of Directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which such Member is entitled, or distribute the votes on the same principle among as many candidates as that Member thinks fit. No Member shall be entitled to cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names have been placed in nomination before voting and a Member has given notice at the meeting before the voting of the Member's intention to cumulate votes. If any one Member has given this notice, all Members may cumulate their votes for candidates in nomination. The persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected.

Special Procedure

Section 9.03. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 9.02 of this Article, for so long as a majority of the voting power of the Association resides in Declarant, or so long as there are two classes of membership in the Association, at least _____ [specify number that must equal at least 20 percent of total number of directors; e.g., one in the case of five directors (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19(c)(1))] Director[s] shall have been elected solely by the votes of Members other than Declarant. If, at any election, Members other than Declarant do not have a sufficient percentage of the voting power to satisfy that requirement, [the one position on the Board or the number of positions on the Board necessary to satisfy that requirement] shall be filled by the candidate[s] who receive[s] the highest number of votes cast by Members other than Declarant. Any remaining positions on the Board shall be filled in accordance with normal voting procedures.

ARTICLE X. MEETINGS OF DIRECTORS

Regular Meetings

Section 10.01. Regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held monthly [or quarterly or other period not more infrequent than semiannually] at the place within the Project, and at the time that is fixed from time to time by resolution of the Board. Notice of the time and place of a meeting shall be communicated to the Directors not less than four days before the meeting; provided, however, that notice need not be given to any Director who has signed a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding of the meeting. Notice of the time and place of the meeting shall also be posted in a prominent place or places within the Common Area. However, if the Common Area is unsuitable for such a posting, the Board shall communicate the notice of the time and place by any means it deems appropriate.

Special Meetings

Section 10.02. Special meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held when called by written notice signed by the President of the Association or by any two Directors other than the President. The notice shall specify the time and place of the meeting and the nature of any special business to be considered. Notice of any special meeting must be given to each Director not less than _____ [specify time not less than three days] or more than _____ [specify maximum number of days, e.g., 15] days before the date fixed for the meeting; provided, however, that notice need not be given to any Director who has signed a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding of the meeting. A copy of that notice shall also be posted in a prominent place or places in the Common Area of the Project.

Emergency Meetings

Section 10.03. Emergency meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by the President of the Association, or by any two members of the Board other than the President, if there are circumstances that could not have been reasonably foreseen that require immediate attention and possible action by the Board, and that of necessity make it impracticable to provide notice as otherwise required for meetings of the Board.

Quorum

Section 10.04. A majority of the Board shall constitute a quorum and, if a quorum is present, the decision of a majority of the Directors present shall be the act of the Board.

Open Meetings

Section 10.05. Regular and special meetings of the Board shall be open to all Members of the Association. The Board must permit any Member to speak at any of the Board's meetings, except for meetings held in executive session. To this end, the Board must establish a reasonable time to allow Members to speak to the Board at its meetings.

Notice of regular and special meetings of the Board must be given to Members at least four days before the meeting. Notice may be given by posting in a prominent place or places within the Common Area, by mail or delivery to each Unit, or by Association newsletter.

Executive Session

Section 10.06. The Board may, with the approval of a majority of the Directors present at a meeting at which a quorum for the transaction of business has been established, adjourn a meeting and reconvene in executive session to discuss and vote on (1) litigation in which the Association is or may become involved, (2) matters that relate to the formation of contracts with third parties, (3) personnel matters, (4) member discipline matters, and (5) orders of business of a similar nature. In any matter relating to the disciplining of a Member, the Board shall meet in executive session if requested to do so by that Member, and the Member shall be entitled to attend the executive session. In all other cases, Members who are not on the Board may not attend an executive session. The nature of any business to be considered in executive session shall first be announced in open session. Further, any matter discussed in executive session shall be generally noted in the minutes of the Board.

Adjournment

Section 10.07. A majority of the Directors present, whether or not a quorum is present, may adjourn any meeting to another time and place. If the meeting isadjourned for more than 24 hours, notice of the adjournment shall be given, before the time of the adjourned meeting, to the Directors who were not present at the time of the adjournment.

Minutes

Section 10.08. Written minutes shall be kept of all meetings of the Board. The minutes, minutes proposed for adoption that are marked to indicate draft status, or a summary of the minutes, of any meeting of the Board, other than an executive session, shall be made available to Members within 30 days of the meeting. Further, the minutes, proposed minutes, or summary minutes shall be distributed to any Member on request. Any Member making such a request shall reimburse the Association for its costs in making that distribution. Members shall be notified in writing at the time that the pro forma budget required by Civil Code Section 1365 is distributed, or at the time of any general mailing to the entire membership of the Association, of their right to have copies of the minutes of meetings of the Board and of how and where those minutes may be obtained.

Section 10.09. The Board may take actions without a meeting if all of the Directors consent in writing to the action to be taken. If the Board resolves by unanimous written consent to take action, an explanation of the action taken shall be posted at a prominent place or places within the Common Area within three days after the written consents of all Directors have been obtained. However, if the Common Area is unsuitable for such a posting, the Board shall communicate the explanation of the action taken by any means it deems appropriate. The written consents shall be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the Board.

ARTICLE XI. OFFICERS

Enumeration

Section 11.01. The Officers of this Association shall be a President and Vice-President, who shall at all times be Members of the Board of Directors, and a Secretary and Chief Financial Officer, and any other Officers that the Board may from time to time appoint pursuant to Section 11.03 of these Bylaws.

Term

Section 11.02. The Officers of this Association, except those Officers appointed in accordance with Section 11.03 of this Article, shall be elected annually by the Board, and each shall hold office for one year unless he or she shall sooner resign or shall be removed, or otherwise become disqualified to serve.

Special Appointments

Section 11.03. The Board may appoint any other Officers that the affairs of the Association may require, each of whom shall hold office for the period, have the authority, and perform the duties that the Board may from time to time determine.

Resignation and Removal

Section 11.04. Any Officer may be removed from office either with or without cause by the Board. Any Officer may resign at any time by giving written notice to the Board, the President, or the Secretary. Resignation shall take effect at the date of receipt of notice or at any later time specified therein, and, unless otherwise specified therein, the acceptance of a resignation shall not be necessary to make it effective.

Upon resignation or removal of an Officer, the position shall be filled in the manner prescribed in these Bylaws for regular appointment to that office. The appointee to a vacated office shall serve the remainder of the term of the Officer that he or she replaces.

Multiple Offices

Section 11.05. The offices of Secretary or Assistant Secretary and Chief Financial Officer may be held by the same person. No person shall be appointed to more than one of any of the other offices except in the case of special offices created pursuant to Section 11.03 of this Article.

Compensation

Section 11.06. An Officer shall not receive any compensation for any service he or she may render to the Association; provided, however, that any Officer may be reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred in the performance of his or her duties.

ARTICLE XII. PRESIDENT

Election

Section 12.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect one of their number to act as President.

Duties

Section 12.02. The President shall:

(a) Preside over all meetings of the Members and of the Board;

(b) Sign as President all deeds, contracts, and other instruments in writing which have been first approved by the Board, unless the Board, by duly adopted resolution, has authorized the signature of a lesser Officer;

(c) Call meetings of the Board whenever he or she deems it necessary in accordance with rules and upon notice agreed upon by the Board. The notice period shall, with the exception of emergencies, in no event be less than three days;

(d) Have, subject to the advice of the Board, general supervision, direction, and control of the affairs of the Association; and

(e) Discharge any other duties required of him or her by the Board.

ARTICLE XIII. VICE-PRESIDENT

Election

Section 13.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect one of their number to act as Vice-President.

Duties

Section 13.02. The Vice-President shall:

(a) Act in the place and in the stead of the President in the event of his or her absence, inability, or refusal to act; and

(b) Exercise and discharge any other duties that are required of him or her by the Board. In connection with any such additional duties, the Vice-President shall be responsible to the President.

ARTICLE XIV. SECRETARY

Election

Section 14.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect a Secretary.

Duties

Section 14.02. The Secretary shall:

(a) Keep a record of all meetings and proceedings of the Board and of the Members;

(b) Keep the seal of the Association, if any, and affix it on all papers requiring a seal;

(c) Serve notices of meetings of the Board and the Members required either by law or by these Bylaws;

(d) Keep appropriate current records showing the Members of this Association together with their addresses; and

(e) Sign as Secretary all deeds, contracts, and other instruments in writing that have been first approved by the Board if those instruments require a second Association signature unless the Board has authorized another Officer to sign in the place and stead of the Secretary by duly adopted resolution.

ARTICLE XV. CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

Election

Section 15.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect a Chief Financial Officer.

Duties

Section 15.02. The Chief Financial Officer shall:

(a) Receive and deposit in the bank or banks that the Board may from time to time direct, all of the funds of the Association;

(b) Be responsible for and supervise the maintenance of books and records to account for those funds and other Association assets;

(c) Disburse and withdraw the funds that the Board may from time to time direct, and in accordance with prescribed procedures; and

(d) Prepare and distribute the financial statements for the Association required by the Declaration.

ARTICLE XVI. SUBORDINATE OFFICERS

Appointment

Section 16.01. The Board may appoint any subordinate Officers that it deems desirable from time to time.

Duties

Section 16.02. Subordinate Officers shall have the duties that the Board may from time to time prescribe, including the right to act in the place and stead of any Officers, other than the President, that the Board may designate.

ARTICLE XVII. BOOKS AND RECORDS

Required Records

Section 17.01. The Association shall maintain at its principal office:

(a) Copies of its Governing Instruments as last amended;

(b) Adequate and correct books and records of account;

(c) Written minutes of the proceedings of its Members, of its Board, and of committees of its Board; and

(d) A Membership Register containing the following information about each Member: name, mailing address, telephone number, and class of membership.

Right to Membership Records

Section 17.02. Any Member shall have the right to inspect the books and records listed in Section 17.01, and to copy them at any reasonable time during office hours and for a purpose reasonably related to his or her interest as a Member. This right is subject to the power of the Board to set reasonable times for inspection, notice requirements, and fees to cover the cost of making copies of the documents requested by a Member.

Inspection of Minutes and Accounts by Members

Section 17.03. The accounting books and records of the Association as well as the minutes of proceedings of its Members, of its Board, and of committees of its Board, shall be open to inspection and copying at any reasonable time by any Member, or by any Member's duly appointed representative, for any purpose reasonably related to the Member's interests as a Member of the Association on written demand made to the Association. The Board shall establish reasonable rules with respect to:

(a) The notice to be given to the custodian of the records by Members desiring to make such an inspection or copying;

(b) The hours and days of the week when such an inspection may be made; and

(c) Payment of the cost of reproducing copies of documents requested by a Member.

Inspection by Directors

Section 17.04. Every Director shall have the absolute right at any reasonable time to inspect all books, records, and documents of the Association and the physical properties owned or controlled by the Association. The right of inspection by a Director includes the right to make extracts and copies of documents.

ARTICLE XVIII. NOTICES

Method for Giving Notice

Section 18.01. Any notice permitted or required to be delivered as provided herein may be delivered either personally or by mail. If delivery is by mail, it shall be deemed to have been delivered 72 hours after a copy of the notice has been deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, addressed to a Member at the address given by that person to the Secretary of the governing body for the purpose of service of notice or to the Apartment of that person if no address has been given to the Secretary. An address may be changed from time to time by notice in writing to the Secretary.

Consent to Waiver of Notice

Section 18.02. The transactions of any meeting of the Members, however called or noticed, shall be as valid as though made at a meeting duly held after regular call and notice if a quorum is present, in person or by proxy, if either before or after the meeting each Member entitled to vote but not present thereat signs a written waiver of notice, or a consent to the holding of such meeting, or approval of the true and correct minutes thereof. All such waivers, consents, or approvals shall be filed with the corporate records and made a part of the minutes of the meeting.

ARTICLE XIX. AMENDMENTS

Amendment of Bylaws

Section 19.01. These Bylaws may be amended, at a regular or special meeting of the Members, by the affirmative vote (in person or by proxy) or written consent of Members representing a majority of a quorum of the Association which shall include a majority of the votes of Members other than Declarant, or if the two-class voting structure is still in effect, shall include a majority of a quorum of each class of Members. Notwithstanding the above, the percentage of voting power necessary to amend a specific clause or provision shall not be less than the prescribed percentage of affirmative votes required for action to be taken under that clause or provision.

Prior Approval of Commissioner

Section 19.02. In accordance with Section 11018.7 of the California Business and Professions Code, the prior written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner shall be obtained prior to submitting a proposed amendment to these Bylaws to the vote of the Members if that amendment would materially change the rights of Members, and the Developer or its successor in interest holds or directly controls as many as one-fourth of the votes that may be cast to effect that change.

[Optional]

ARTICLE XX. TAX-EXEMPT STATUS

Tax-Exempt Status

Section 20.01. The Board and Members of the Association shall conduct the business of the Association in a manner that allows the Association to qualify as an organization exempt from state income taxes pursuant to California Revenue and Taxation Code Section 23701t, as amended.

Filing

Section 20.02. The Board shall cause to be timely filed any election fortax-exempt status that may be required under state or federal law, and shall undertake to cause the Association to comply with the statutes, rules, and regulations which have been or shall be adopted by state agencies pertaining to those exemptions.

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 33C STOCK COOPERATIVES
PART IV. FORMS

16-33C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33C.204

§ 33C.204 Proprietary Lease for Stock Cooperative

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a proprietary lease for use by a tenant-stockholder of a stock cooperative. The investors in a stock cooperative, unlike those in a condominium project, do not acquire a fee interest in real property. Instead, their ownership interest in the cooperative corporation consists of stock which is tied to a proprietary lease of a specific unit of the real property [see § 33C.301[1]].

For a detailed discussion of residential leases, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases . For an example and discussion of a residential lease for an apartment in a multi-unit building or complex, see § 34B.200 in that chapter.

[b] Contents of Form

[i] In General

All leases in California must contain four "necessary elements": (1) a definite agreement as to the extent and boundary of the property leased, (2) a definite and agreed term, (3) a definite and agreed price of rental, including the time and manner of payment, and (4) the parties to the lease [see Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727 ; Losson v. Blodgett (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 13, 16, 36 P.2d 147] . Those elements are discussed in Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, § 34B.10. Various other provisions applicable to leases of stock cooperative units are discussed below.

[ii] Carrying Charges

Unlike a condominium development, a stock cooperative is subject to a blanket mortgage [see § 33C.35[1]] and real estate tax liability [see § 33C.39]. In addition, it has maintenance and operating expenses. Each tenant-stockholder is required to pay a proportionate share of those amounts, based on stock ownership, in the form of monthly "carrying charges," also called rent or maintenance. Unlike a regular lease arrangement for a fixed rental amount, the proprietary lease for a stock cooperative provides that the monthly charges will be a proportionate share of the expenses assessed by the Board of Directors [see Rohan & Reskin, Cooperative Housing Law and Practice, Ch. 2, Types of Cooperatives; Terminology and Definitions (Matthew Bender)]. The total amount paid by a tenant-stockholder may thus vary from year to year, depending on the size of the mortgage and current maintenance and preservation costs [see § 33C.204[2], P 2].

The lessor is also entitled to the costs of collecting any delinquent amount, late charges, and interest [Civ. Code § 1366(e)]. Any amounts due from thetenant-stockholder as regular or special assessments, late charges, reasonable costs of collection, and interest are debts of the tenant-stockholder at the time the sums are levied [Civ. Code § 1367.1(a)]. Those amounts constitute a lien on his or her interest in the stock cooperative from and after the time the association records a notice of delinquent assessment with the county recorder [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d); see § 33C.204[2], P 3].

The lease should include the name, telephone number, and usual street address of the person or entity to whom carrying charges are to be paid. It should also disclose the form or forms in which payments may be made [see Civ. Code §§ 1961, 1962(a)(2), (3)].

For a complete discussion of the rules governing assessments contained in the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] and in regulations of the Real Estate Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16], see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.39[1].

[iii] Security Deposit

Security deposits required by a residential lease may be used for any purpose, including the following [Civ. Code § 1950.5(b)]:

- The compensation of a landlord for a tenant's default in the payment of rent;
- The repair of damages to the premises caused by the tenant or by a guest or licensee of the tenant;
- The cleaning of the premises on termination of the tenancy necessary to return the unit to the same level of cleanliness it was in at the inception of the tenancy; or
- To remedy future defaults by the tenant in any obligation under the lease to restore, replace, or return personal property or appurtenances, if the security deposit is authorized to be applied thereto by the rental agreement.

The deposit must be returned no later than 21 calendar days after the tenant has vacated the premises, but not earlier than the time that either the landlord or the tenant provides a notice to terminate the tenancy, or not earlier than 60 calendar days before expiration of a fixed-term lease. The landlord also must furnish the tenant with a copy of an itemized statement indicating the basis for, and the amount of, any security received and the disposition of the security. Further, along with the itemized statement, the landlord must also include copies of documents showing charges incurred and deducted from the deposit to repair and clean the premises [Civ. Code § 1950.5(g); see § 33C.204[2], P 4].

The landlord may not deduct any amount from the security deposit for damages to the premises or any defective conditions that preexisted the tenancy, or for ordinary wear and tear [Civ. Code § 1950.5(e)]. This form contains a statement by the lessee that he or she has examined the premises and will give notice of any defects [see § 33C.204[2], P 7].

[iv] Repairs

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], the tenant-stockholder is responsible for maintaining (1) his or her separate interest (apartment unit) [see Civ. Code § 1351(l)(4)] and (2) exclusive use common areas [see Civ. Code § 1351(i)] that are appurtenant to that separate interest [Civ. Code § 1364; see also § 33C.31[3]]. The corporation is responsible for maintaining the common areas other than exclusive use common areas [Civ. Code § 1364; see § 33C.204[2], P 8].

[v] Right of Entry

A landlord may enter a leased dwelling unit only for specified purposes. In addition, he or she may enter only upon reasonable notice and during normal business hours, except in cases of emergency [Civ. Code § 1954; see § 33C.204[2], P 10].

[vi] Condemnation

Unless a lease provides for the rights and obligations of the parties in the event of the acquisition of all or a portion of the property for public use, the provisions of the Eminent Domain Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1230.010 et seq.] apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 1265.161; see § 33C.204[2], P 14]. For a complete discussion of that law, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 500, Introduction to the Eminent Domain Law (Matthew Bender).

Because the proprietary lease is connected to stock ownership in the corporation, it contains certain provisions concerning ownership and occupancy that do not appear in a standard rental lease [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 476, Other Developments (Matthew Bender)]. Subletting and assignment are made subject to bylaw restrictions, to insure that any transferee is financially able to assume costs and other cooperative tenant obligations [see § 33C.204[2], PP 16(a), 17(a)].

However, for a commercial bank to lend the lessee the amount necessary to purchase his or her stock in the cooperative on the security of a first security interest on stock and the assignment by way of security of the lessee's interest inthe proprietary lease or right of tenancy in the apartment [see § 33C.35[3]], the proprietary lease must provide that no sublease in excess of one year will be permitted without the prior written consent of that lender [Fin. Code § 1236; see § 33C.204[2], P 16(b)]. In addition, the lease must provide that if the lessee defaults on such a loan, the lender will have the right, without the prior consent or approval of the lessor, to sell the shares to which the lease is appurtenant upon 30-days' written notice to lessee and lessor, and to assign the lease to a purchaser who agrees to cure any defaults thereunder [Fin. Code § 1236; see § 33C.204[2], P 17(b)].

The association of a common interest subdivision may not terminate an owner's right to the full use and enjoyment of his or her interest (i.e., right of occupancy) on account of failure to comply with the governing instruments or rules, except (1) by judgment of a court or a decision arising out of arbitration, or (2) on account of a foreclosure or sale under a power of sale for failure to pay assessments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(a); see § 33C.203[1][d]]. Therefore, this form provides that a tenant-stockholder will commit a material breach of lease, and therefore become subject to loss of his or her rights as a member of the cooperative, only when he or she defaults in the payment of carrying charges or fails to own a requisite interest in the cooperative [see § 33C.204[2], P 18(a)]. Other violations of the terms of the lease or the governing instruments will be subject to disciplinary action in the form of monetary penalties or temporary suspension of rights [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26; see also § 33C.204[2], P 18(b)].

Any termination of membership or disciplinary action must provide 15 days' prior notice [Corp. Code § 7341(a); 10

Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(b); see § 33C.203[1][d]; see also § 33C.204[2], P 19].

If a lessee breaches the lease [see § 33C.204[2], P 18], the lessor may pursue monetary remedies [Civ. Code § 1951.2; see § 33C.204[2], P 21(b)]. For illustrative provisions and discussion of these various rights and remedies of a landlord, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases .

In addition, the corporate lessor of an apartment in a stock cooperative development is also a "landlord" for purposes of bringing an unlawful detainer action against a tenant-stockholder in breach of the lease [see Sun Terrace Manor v. Municipal Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 739, 744, 108 Cal. Rptr. 307 ; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1159-1179a; see also § 33C.204[2], P 21(c)]. For a discussion of unlawful detainer proceedings, see § 35B.44 in Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases.

For a complete discussion of the termination of leases in general, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases .

[x] Option to Renew Lease

This form grants the tenant-stockholder the option to renew his or her lease for an additional period under the same terms and conditions as the original lease [see § 33C.204[2], P 22(b)]. For discussion and a form for a renewal provision, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases .

A residential lease may contain an automatic renewal provision rather than an option, but such a provision is subject to several statutory requirements [see Civ. Code § 1945.5; see also Ch. 34B, Residential Leases].

[xi] Attorneys' Fees

Leases, like other contracts, frequently provide for recovery of attorneys' fees in the event of litigation between the parties [see Civ. Code § 1717; § 33C.204[2], P 26]. For a complete discussion of attorney fee provisions in leases, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

[xii] Identity of Manager and Owner

Any tenant or tenants in a dwelling structure containing one or more units and offered to the public for rent for residential purposes must be provided with the name, telephone number, and usual street address (for personal service purposes) of both of the following persons [Civ. Code §§ 1961, 1962(a)(1)]:

- Each person authorized to manage the premises; and
- The owner or person who is authorized to act on the owner's behalf.

[c] Filing

The Real Estate Commissioner requires a copy of a proposed lease or occupancy agreement to be submitted to the Commissioner with the application for a public report [see § 33C.200[2]], in order for the application to be "substantially complete" [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.2(a)(25)]. For a discussion of the requirements for issuance of a public report, see § 33C.200[1].

[2] FORM

Proprietary Lease for Stock Cooperative

PROPRIETARY LEASE

This PROPRIETARY LEASE is made and entered into this _____ day of _____[date], by and between _____[name of stock cooperative] (hereafter "Lessor"), a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation having its principal office and place of business at _____[street address, city, state, zip] and _____[name of tenant-stockholder] (hereafter "Lessee").

WHEREAS, the Lessor has been formed for the purpose of acquiring, owning, and operating a cooperative housing development ("cooperative") to be located at _____[street address, city, state, zip], with the intent that its stockholders shall have the right to occupy the apartments therein as tenants under the terms and conditions hereafter set forth; and

WHEREAS, the Lessee is the owner and holder of _____ shares of stock of the Lessor, to which this lease is appurtenant and which have been allocated to Apartment _____ [number or other identification], located at _____[address] (hereafter "Apartment");

NOW, THEREFORE, the Lessor hereby leases to Lessee, and Lessee hereby hires and takes from Lessor, Apartment _____ [number or other identification], which includes the exclusive use of [list areas designated as exclusive use common areas in the declaration], on the following terms and conditions:

Term of Lease

1. The term of the lease shall be _____ [describe term, e.g., 3 years] commencing at 12:01 A.M. on _____[date], and ending on _____[date], unless terminated earlier as herein provided. The term is renewable thereafter for successive periods under the conditions set forth in Paragraph 22(b) of this Lease.

Carrying Charges

2. (a) Commencing at the time stated in Paragraph 2(b), Lessee agrees to pay to Lessor a yearly rental sum, referred to herein as "Carrying Charges," equal to that proportion of Lessor's cash requirements for each calendar year that the number of shares of Lessor allocated to the Apartment bears to the total number of shares of Lessor issued and outstanding on the date of the assessment. The yearly carrying charges shall be payable in 12 equal monthly installments. For the calendar year beginning on January 1, _____ [year], the total Carrying Charges for the Apartment shall be $_____, or $_____ per month.

(b) After 30 days notice by Lessor to the effect that the Apartment is or will be available for occupancy, or upon acceptance of occupancy, whichever is earlier, Lessee shall make a payment for Carrying Charges covering the unexpired balance of the month. Thereafter, Lessee shall pay Carrying Charges in advance on the first day of each month.

(c) "Cash requirements" as used herein shall mean the amount that the Board of Directors determine to be necessary for the operation of the cooperative, including:

(1) The amount of principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premiums, if any, on the mortgage of the cooperative real property.

(2) The cost of all operating expenses of the cooperative, and services furnished.

(3) The cost of necessary management and administration.

(4) The amount of all taxes and assessments levied against the real property, and ground rent, if any.

(5) The cost of fire and extended coverage insurance for the cooperative, and any other insurance required by any mortgage on the cooperative property.

(6) The cost of furnishing the utilities specified in Paragraph 13 of this Lease.

(7) The estimated cost of repairs, maintenance, and replacements of the cooperative property to be made by the Lessor.

(8) Any other expenses of the Lessor approved by the Board of Directors, including operating deficiencies, if any, for prior periods.

(d) The Board shall determine Lessor's cash requirements for the next year on or before [_____ date, e.g., November 1] of the current year. However, the failure of the Board of Directors to determine Lessor's cash requirements for any year shall not be deemed a waiver or modification of the covenants and provisions hereof, or a release of Lessee from the obligation to pay Carrying Charges, but the Carrying Charges computed for the previous year shall continue until a new determination of cash requirements has been made, and written notification of that amount provided to Lessee.

(e) Payment of Carrying Charges, in the form of _____ [specify form of payment, e.g., a check], shall be paid to _____[specify name, telephone number, and address to whom payments are to be made].

Delinquent Payments

3. (a) In addition to other sums that have become or will become due pursuant to the terms of this Lease, Lessee shall pay to Lessor all of the following with respect to any Carrying Charges due from Lessee that are more than 15 days in arrears:

(1) Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent amount, including reasonable attorneys' fees;

(2) A late charge of 10 percent of the delinquent amount or $10, whichever is greater [or specify smaller amount]; and

(3) Interest on any delinquent amount, reasonable costs of collection, and late charges, at an annual percentage rate not to exceed 12 percent interest, commencing 30 days after the Carrying Charges become due.

(b) The delinquent amount plus the amount set forth in (a) shall constitute a lien on Lessee's stock in Lessor from and after the time Lessor records a notice of delinquent assessment with the county recorder. That lien shall be prior to all other liens recorded subsequent to the notice of assessment. However, if Lessee pays the sums specified in that notice, Lessor shall record a further notice stating the satisfaction and release of the lien.

Security Deposit

4. Before Lessee may take possession of the premises, Lessee shall deposit with Lessor the sum of $_____ to be held by Lessor for the faithful performance by Lessee of this Lease and for the cleaning and repairing of the premises after surrender by Lessee. The deposit shall be returned to Lessee within 21 calendar days after Lessee vacates the Apartment, less only amounts that are reasonably necessary to (a) remedy any defaults in the payment of rent by Lessee, (b) repair damages to the Apartment (exclusive of ordinary wear and tear) caused by Lessee or by any guest or licensee of Lessee, (c) clean the Apartment as necessary to return it to the same level of cleanliness it was in at the inception of the lease, or (d) remedy any defaults in the restoration, replacement, or return of personal property or appurtenances by Lessee not attributable to ordinary wear and tear. In the event that the full amount of the security deposit is not returned, Lessor shall provide Lessee with an itemized written statement of the basis for, and the amount of, any security received and the disposition of the security. Lessor shall also include copies of documents showing charges incurred and deducted from the security deposit to repair or clean the premises.

Use of Premises

5. Lessee, and any Sublessee authorized pursuant to Paragraph 16 of this Lease, shall occupy the Apartment covered by this Lease as a private dwelling unit for himself or herself, his or her immediate family, and any guests, and for no other purpose. Lessee shall not permit anything to be done or kept upon the Apartment premises which will (1) increase the rate of insurance on the building or on the contents thereof, (2) obstruct or interfere with the rights of other occupants or annoy them by unreasonable noises or otherwise, or (3) constitute a nuisance or illegal act. Lessee shall comply with all statutes, ordinances, and requirements of any governmental authorities having jurisdiction over the premises. If, by reason of the occupancy or use of the Apartment by Lessee, the rate of insurance on the building shall be increased, Lessee shall become personally liable for the additional insurance premiums.

Quiet Enjoyment

6. Lessee shall be entitled to the quiet enjoyment of the Apartment and any exclusive use common areas appurtenant to it, the use of all common areas and facilities of the cooperative, as defined in the Declaration for _____[name of cooperative] (hereafter "Declaration") recorded or to be recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, California, and an easement for ingress, egress, and support through the common areas, as defined in the Declaration.

Condition of Premises

7. Lessee acknowledges that he or she has examined the Apartment and all equipment and personal property subject to this Lease, and has accepted them in good, safe, and clean condition and repair. Lessee agrees to notify Lessor immediately of any defects, dilapidations, or dangerous conditions.

Repairs

8. (a) Lessee agrees to repair and maintain the Apartment (including its interior walls, floors, ceilings, windows, doors, and outlets), and its exclusive use common areas, at his or her own expense as follows:

(1) Any repairs or maintenance necessitated by the negligence or misuse of Lessee or Lessee's family members or guests;

(2) Any redecoration of the Apartment in accordance with Paragraph 9 of this Lease.

(b) Lessor shall provide and pay for all necessary repairs, maintenance, and replacements, except as specified in Paragraph 8(a), above. The officers and employees of Lessor shall have the right to enter the dwelling unit of Lessee only upon notice, in accordance with the provisions of Paragraph 10 of this Lease, in order to effect necessary repairs, maintenance, and replacements, and to authorize entrance for such purposes by employees of any contractor, utility company, municipal agency, or others upon notice given in accordance with the provisions of Paragraph 10. However, in the event of an emergency repair, entry may be made at any time without notice.

(c) [Add the following or an alternative allocation of responsibility for pest control costs (see Civ. Code § 1364): Lessee acknowledges that he or she is responsible for the cost of any temporary relocation of Lessee or any other occupants of Lessee's Apartment occasioned by any structural pest control work performed by or at the request of the Association for the purpose of keeping the Common Areas free of infestation by wood-destroying pests or organisms.]

(d) If Lessee fails to effect and pay for the repairs, maintenance, or replacements specified in Paragraph 8(a), above in a manner satisfactory to Lessor, Lessor may do so and add the cost thereof to Lessee's next Carrying Charge payment.

Alterations and Additions

9. Lessee shall not, without the written consent of Lessor, paint or redecorate,make any structural alterations, or install or use in his or her Apartment any _____ [insert as applicable: air conditioning equipment, washing machine, clothes drier, electric heater, power tools]. Should Lessee make any alterations or additions to the Apartment without the express written consent of Lessor, the full cost of restoring the premises to their prior condition shall be borne by Lessee and promptly paid, on written demand, to Lessor.

Lessor's Right of Entry

10. (a) Lessor and Lessor's agents may enter the Apartment only under the following circumstances:

(1) In case of emergency.

(2) To make necessary or agreed repairs, decorations, alterations, or improvements.

(3) To make an initial inspection pursuant to Section 1950.5(f) of the California Civil Code after notification of either party's intention to terminate the lease.

(4) To supply necessary or agreed services.

(5) To exhibit the Apartment to prospective or actual purchasers, mortgagees, tenants, repair personnel, or contractors.

(6) After Lessee has abandoned or surrendered the Apartment.

(7) Pursuant to court order.

(b) Except under the circumstances described in paragraph (c), below, Lessor shall give Lessee at least 24 hours written notice of Lessor's intent to enter the Apartment. Lessor and Lessor's agents and employees shall enter the Apartment only during normal business hours. Notice may be:

(1) Mailed or personally delivered to Lessee;

(2) Left with someone of suitable age and discretion at the premises; or

(3) Left on, near, or under the usual entry door of the Apartment in a manner in which a reasonable person would discover it.

(c) Twenty-four (24) hour written notice is not required:

(1) In cases of emergency.

(2) If Lessee has abandoned or surrendered the Apartment.

(3) If it is impractical to do so.

(4) If entry is for purposes of exhibiting the Apartment to prospective or actual purchasers, in which case notice is governed by paragraph (d).

(d) If entry is for purposes of exhibiting the Apartment to prospective or actual purchasers, notice may be given orally, in person or by telephone, if Lessor or Lessor's agent has notified Lessee in writing within 120 days of the oral notice that the Apartment is for sale and that Lessor or Lessor's agent may contact Lessee orally for purposes of exhibiting the Apartment to prospective or actual purchasers.

Rules and Regulations

11. Lessee's occupancy of the Apartment shall be subject to any rules and regulations now or hereafter adopted by the Board of Directors for the cooperative housing project, including rules regarding noise, odors, pets, parking, and use of common areas.

Management, Taxes, and Insurance

12. Lessor shall provide and pay for all of the following:

(a) The costs of necessary management, operation, and administration of the cooperative;

(b) All taxes or assessments levied against the cooperative; and

(c) Fire insurance and extended coverage, other insurance as required by any mortgage on the property, and any other insurance that Lessor may deem advisable on the property.

Lessor will not, however, provide insurance on Lessee's interest in the Apartment or on his or her personal property.

Utilities

13. Lessor shall provide _____[specify as applicable: water, sewer service, garbage service, electricity, gas, elevator service] to the premises. Lessee shall pay all charges and any required deposits for all other utilities directly to the supplier.

Condemnation

14. Should all or any portion of the Apartment or the building in which the premises are located be taken by any public or quasi-public agency or entity under the power of eminent domain, this lease shall terminate as of 12:01 A.M. on the date title to the portion taken by eminent domain vests, or the date actual physical possession of the portion taken by eminent domain is taken by the agency or entity exercising the eminent domain power. Any and all compensation or damages awarded for the taking by eminent domain, except that awarded Lessee for the moving of or damage to personal property owned by Lessee on the premises, shall belong to Lessor and Lessee shall have no claim against Lessor or the agency or entity exercising eminent domain for the value of the unexpired term of the lease.

Destruction of Premises

15. If any part of the Apartment or the building in which the Apartment is located is destroyed by fire, casualty, or other cause not the fault of Lessee, Lessor shall determine whether to restore the damaged premises. If Lessor determines to undertake restoration, Lessor shall promptly repair and restore the premises to their former condition at Lessor's sole cost. While the repairs and restoration work are in progress, the Carrying Charges payable under the lease shall be abated for the time and to the extent that Lessee is prevented from fully occupying the premises in Lessee's usual and normal manner; provided, however, that in lieu of making those repairs and performing that restoration work, Lessor may terminate the lease if either (a) the necessary re- pair or restoration work cannot reasonably be completed under then-applicable governmental laws and regulations within _____ [e.g., 30] working days after it is commenced, or (b) the loss is not covered by Lessor's then-existing fire and extended coverage insurance policies.

In the event Lessor decides not to restore the premises, the Carrying Charges shall cease from the date of the loss or damage. Further, Lessor shall determine the amount that shall be paid to the Lessee to redeem the common stock of the Lessee to which this Lease is appurtenant, and shall reimburse him or her for any loss as he or she may have sustained.

Subletting

16. (a) Lessee hereby agrees not to sublet his or her Apartment without the written consent of Lessor. Lessor's consent to subletting of the Apartment shall not be unreasonably withheld. However, consent to any one subletting shall not be deemed a consent by Lessor to any subsequent subletting. The liability of Lessee under this Lease shall continue, notwithstanding the fact that he or she may have sublet the Apartment with the approval of Lessor, and Lessee shall be responsible to Lessor for the conduct of his or her sublessee.

[Add if commercial bank will finance share purchase:]

(b) In accordance with Section 1236 of the Financial Code, no sublease in excess of one year may be permitted without the prior written consent of _____[name of commercial bank], which has loaned funds to Lessee to finance Lessee's purchase of the shares of stock of the Lessor to which this lease is appurtenant, and which holds a first security interest on that stock and an assignment, by way of security, of Lessee's interest in this Lease or the right of tenancy in the Apartment.

Assignment

17. (a) Lessee may only assign this lease, or transfer the shares to which it is appurtenant, in accordance with the provisions set forth in the Bylaws.

[Add if commercial bank will finance share purchase:]

(b) Notwithstanding the restrictions set forth in Paragraph 17(a) above, if Lessee defaults on that loan made by _____[name of commercial bank], described in Paragraph 16(b) of this Agreement, _____[name of commercial bank] shall have the right, in accordance with Section 1236 of the Financial Code, without the prior consent or approval of the Lessor, to sell the shares to which this lease is appurtenant at a public or private sale following at least 30 days' prior written notice to both Lessee and Lessor at the address of Lessee's Apartment, and to assign the Lease to a purchaser who agrees to cure any defaults thereunder as a condition of assignment.

Acts Constituting Breach of Lease

18. (a) Lessee shall commit a material breach of this Lease, and shall be subject to termination of his or her membership in the stock cooperative in accordance with the Bylaws, upon the occurrence of any of the following events:

(1) Lessee is in default for 15 days in the payment of Carrying Charges, as provided in Paragraph 3 of this Lease;

(2) Lessee ceases to be the owner of the shares of stock to which this Lease is appurtenant;

(3) A receiver of Lessee's property is appointed under any of the laws of the United States or of any state;

(4) Any of the shares of stock to which this Lease is appurtenant are levied upon and sold under the process of any court; or

(5) Lessee makes a general assignment for the benefit of creditors.

(b) Lessee shall be subject to disciplinary action by the Board, including suspension of voting rights or privileges for use of the Common Area, or monetary penalties, in accordance with the provisions of the Declaration, if either:

(1) Lessee defaults on the performance of any covenant herein, other than the covenant to pay Carrying Charges, and fails to cure the default within _____ days after written notice from Lessor;

(2) If Lessor determines, pursuant to an affirmative vote of 2/3 of its Board of Directors at a meeting called for that purpose, that Lessee's tenancy is undesirable due to objectionable conduct on the part of Lessee or a person dwelling or visiting at Lessee's premises; or

(3) Lessee allows any person not authorized by Paragraph 5 of this Lease to use or occupy the Apartment, and fails to cause that person to vacate the premises within 10 days after written notice from Lessor.

Notice of Termination or Disciplinary Action

19. If Lessor intends to terminate Lessee's rights as a tenant-stockholder in thecooperative housing project, or to take other disciplinary action, as a result of Lessee's breach of this Lease pursuant to Paragraph 18 of this Lease, Lessor shall first send written notice, postage prepaid, by first-class or registered mail addressed to the last address of Lessee shown on Lessor's records, stating (1) that the term of this Lease will expire, or other disciplinary action will be effective, on a date not less than 15 days after the date of mailing the notice, and (2) the reason for termination or disciplinary action. Provided, however, that upon request of Lessee delivered to Lessor at least 10 days prior to the date specified in the notice, Lessee shall have an opportunity to show cause both orally and in writing not less than five days before the date specified in the notice before the Board of Directors of Lessor why the termination or disciplinary action should not take place.

Surrender of Stock Upon Termination

20. On or before the effective termination date of Lessee's rights under this Lease pursuant to Paragraph 21 of this Lease, Lessee shall surrender to Lessor his or her stock certificates and Lease, endorsed in any manner that may be required by the Association. Whether or not the instruments are surrendered, the Lessor may thereupon at its election cancel the stock and treat the cancellation as a purchase of the retiring member's interest in the cooperative or sell the interest to a new purchaser, and pay the purchase amount less authorized deductions to the former Lessee in accordance with the Bylaws.

Lessor's Remedies for Breach of Lease

21. Lessee agrees that a landlord-tenant relationship exists between the parties to this Lease, and that in the event of a breach or threatened breach by Lessee, as provided in Paragraph 18 of this Lease, Lessor shall have the right to pursue any remedies generally available to a landlord for the breach or threatened breach of a rental agreement by a tenant, including the right to:

(a) Exercise the remedy described in California Civil Code Section 1951.4 (lessor may continue lease in effect after lessee's breach and abandonment and recover rent as it becomes due, if lessee has right to sublet or assign, subject only to reasonable limitations).

(b) Commence, in lieu of or in addition to the action provided for in (c), an action against Lessee to recover all amounts specified in Section 1951.2 of the Civil Code.

(c) Commence, in lieu of or in addition to the action described in (b), an action to reenter and regain possession of the premises in the manner provided by the laws of California governing unlawful detainer.

Expiration and Renewal

22. (a) If the option to renew set forth in (b) is not exercised, this Lease will expire on the date set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Lease. Lessee shall thereafter have no further liability under this Lease if, on or before the expiration date, he or she has taken the following actions:

(1) Endorsed his or her stock certificates for transfer in blank and deposited them with Lessor;

(2) Met all of his or her obligations and paid all amounts due under this Lease up to the time of expiration; and

(3) Vacated the Apartment, leaving it in a good state of repair.

(b) Lessee is hereby granted an option to renew this Lease for successive periods of _____ [specify period, e.g., three years] from the expiration of the term herein granted, under the same terms, covenants, and conditions as herein contained. This option shall be exercised by written notice of Lessee's election to renew delivered to Lessor at least _____ [specify period, e.g., 60 days] prior to the expiration of the then-current term.

Cooperation

23. Lessee shall preserve and promote the cooperative ownership principles on which the Lessor has been founded, abide by the Articles of Incorporation, Bylaws, rules and regulations of the Lessor, and any amendments thereto, and by his or her acts of cooperation with its other members bring about for himself or herself, and his or her co-members, a high standard in home and community conditions.

Waiver of Damages

24. Lessee hereby expressly releases Lessor from any and all liability for loss or damage to Lessee or any property of Lessee caused by water leakage, breaking pipes, theft, vandalism, or any other cause beyond the reasonable control of Lessor.

Notices

25. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein or by law, any notice to be served on either party by the other shall be in writing, and shall be deemed given when it is personally delivered to the party to whom it is directed, or when it is deposited in the mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Lessee at the address of the Apartment, or to Lessor at _____[address or location]. Either party may change his or her address for purposes of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this paragraph.

Attorneys' Fees

26. Should any litigation be commenced between the parties to this Leaseconcerning the Apartment, this Lease, or the rights and duties of either in relation thereto, the party prevailing in that litigation shall be entitled, in addition to any other relief granted, a reasonable sum as and for attorneys' fees, which shall be determined by the court or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Identity of Apartment Manager and Owner

27. Pursuant to Civil Code Section 1962:

(a) The name, telephone number, and usual street address of the person authorized to manage the premises is _____.

(b) The name, telephone number, and usual street address of the owner of the premises [or person authorized to act for and on behalf of the owner for the purposes of service of process and receipt of all notice and demands] is _____.

CHAPTER 33D PLANNED DEVELOPMENTS

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

This chapter covers the statutory and regulatory requirements governing the formation and operation of residential planned developments. The Legal Background presents an overview of applicable laws and describes the unique features of these developments. The Transaction Guide includes step-by-step procedures for compliance with planning, creation, and post-formation requirements. The forms section contains illustrative governing instruments--a declaration for the development and bylaws and articles of incorporation for the owners' association.

This chapter is designed to be used in conjunction with Ch. 34, Condominiums , which covers condominium projects. A large portion of the Legal Background and Transaction Guide in Chapter 34 is applicable to planned developments because both types of developments are generally considered "subdivisions" under the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.]. In addition, they both qualify as "common interest developments" under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.]. To avoid unnecessary repetition, this chapter contains numerous cross-references to the applicable discussions and forms in Chapter 34 that can be easily modified for use with planned developments.

This chapter also identifies relevant portions of Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation . Chapter 30 examines "standard" subdivisions, that is, those that do not contain commonly owned areas or interests.

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 33D PLANNED DEVELOPMENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.10

§ 33D.10 Overview of Planned Developments

[1] General Description

A planned development is a real estate development that contains both commonly owned property (a common area) and lots or parcels which, along with their improvements, are separately owned. Although planned developments may be devoted in whole or in part to commercial or industrial uses, they are usually exclusively residential. Consequently, this chapter covers only residential planned developments.

The separately owned lots in planned developments frequently contain detached single-family dwellings. However, in the case of "cluster" planned developments, some or all of the residential improvements consist of duplexes, town houses, or similar buildings with multiple units and shared features, such as party walls and common roofs and foundations. These common elements will be considered part of the common area or designated as exclusive use common areas [see § 33D.11[7], [8]].

The separately owned lots and residences in a planned development tend to be grouped around the common area. This area consists of open space and, in most cases, recreational facilities. In cluster planned developments, a substantial amount of open space typically is set aside to compensate for the increased density caused by the grouping of the residential structures. The open area may contain a creek, hillside, grove of mature trees, or other area or topographical feature that would be difficult, inordinately expensive, or otherwise undesirable to develop.

The owners' association [see § 33D.11[4]] usually holds title to the common area and its improvements. However, the lot owners may hold the title as tenants in common [Civ. Code § 1362; see § 33D.11[7]]. Whether or not the association owns the common area, it must either maintain and operate that area or retain a professional manager to perform these tasks [see Civ. Code § 1363(a)]. Most planned developments are professionally managed [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.207].

For the statutory definition of planned developments, see § 33D.11[1].

[2] Use of Term "Planned Unit Development"

The term "planned development" must not be confused with the term "planned unit development." As discussed throughout this chapter, "planned development" is a statutory term referring to a specific type of real estate development. Under many local zoning ordinances in California, "planned unit development" (PUD)refers to a type of zoning district or form of zoning relief. The characteristics of PUDs vary considerably from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, but generally permit the clustering of residential, commercial, and/or industrial structures in specified areas or under special circumstances (e.g., in the case of large scale developments) [see Orinda Homeowners Committee v. Board of Sup'rs, Contra Costa County (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 768, 773, 90 Cal. Rptr. 88 (upholding validity of PUDs); City of Fairfield v. Superior Court (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 768, 779-780, 122 Cal. Rptr. 543, 537 P.2d 375] . It is essential that counsel consult the local zoning ordinance as early as possible to determine whether or not the client's proposed planned development will be considered a PUD under local law.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.11

[1] Applicability and Major Requirements

The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] ("Act") regulates the creation and essential attributes of common interest developments. For these purposes, "common interest development" means any of the following: a planned development [see definition, below], a community apartment project [see Civ. Code § 1351(d)], a condominium project [see Civ. Code § 1351(f); see also Ch. 34, Condominiums], or a stock cooperative [Civ. Code § 1351(c); see Civ. Code § 1351(m); see also Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives]. The term "common interest development" should not be confused with "common interest subdivision" as that term is used under the Subdivided Lands Act [see § 33D.12[2]].

Under the Act, a planned development is a development (other than a condominium project, stock cooperative, or community apartment project) that has either or both of the following features:

> (1) The common area [see definition, below] is owned either (a) by the owners' association [see § 33D.11[4]], or (b) in common by the owners of the separate interests [see definition, below], who possess appurtenant rights to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area.
> (2) The owners' association has the power to enforce any obligation of an owner of a separate interest relating to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area by means of an assessment that may become a lien on the owner's separate interest [Civ. Code § 1351(k); see Civ. Code §§ 1367, 1367.1, 1367.4; see also § 33D.11[5]].

A "separate interest" in a planned development is a separately owned lot, parcel, area, or space (hereafter collectively referred to as the "separately owned lots") [Civ. Code § 1351(l)(3)]. The "common area" is the entire planned development other than the separately owned lots [Civ. Code § 1351(b); see § 33D.11[7], [8]]. Alternatively, if the owners' association has the power to levy an assessment against a separately owned lot to enforce an obligation of the lot's owner relating to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area [see (2), above], the common area may consist of mutual or reciprocal easement rights appurtenant to the separately owned lots [Civ. Code § 1351(b)]. An estate in a separately owned lot or in the common area may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of these [Civ. Code § 1351(b) (common area), (l) (separately owned lots)]. However, as a practical matter, the developer typically conveys fee simple estates in the lots (to individual owners) and the common area (to the owners' association).

This chapter summarizes many of the most important requirements of the Davis-Stirling Act. For further discussion of its provisions, see the detailed analysis of the statute in Ch. 34, Condominiums.

[2] Comparison With Condominium Projects

Although condominium projects and planned developments subject to the Davis-Stirling Act are similar in that they both contain separately owned areas and common areas [see Civ. Code § 1351(f), (k); see also § 33D.11[1]], there are two significant differences between these types of developments. First, ownership in a planned development typically includes not only a residential improvement, but also title to the land on which the unit sits [see Civ. Code § 1351(k), (l)(3)]. Condominium owners usually own their individual units in fee but acquire only an undivided interest in common in the land. Second, condominium projects almost always contain multi-story, multi-unit structures, while the typical planned development contains one- and two-story buildings.

Under the Davis-Stirling Act, a developer could probably change the designation of a proposed project from "planned development" to "condominium project" without altering the original plans. This classification option exists because of the similarity of the "separate interests" present in those two common interest developments under the Act. In a planned development, the separately owned interest is always a lot, parcel, area, or space [Civ. Code § 1351(l)(3)]. In a condominium project, the separate interests (called "units") are described by reference to boundaries which may be "filled" with air, earth, or water, or any combination of these elements [Civ. Code § 1351(f); see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.32]. Thus, either type of separate interest may consist of a lot, parcel, or area of real property, and/or may include airspace.

To take advantage of the above classification option, the attorney for the developer, immediately after the initial client interview, should determine whether or not the local ordinances (zoning, subdivision, or other) subject one of those two common interest developments to more stringent requirements. The Davis-Stirling Act need not be taken into account for these purposes of comparison because the additional requirements it imposes on condominium projects do notimpose substantial additional burdens on the development, developer, or individual owners [see Civ. Code §§ 1359, 1360(a), 1369, 1371; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.33]. If local law favors either form of development, the attorney should recommend selection of that form prior to drafting the development documents. The Act prohibits a development from being both a condominium project and a planned development [Civ. Code § 1351(k) (" 'Planned development' means a development other than a community apartment project, a condominium project, or a stock cooperative...")].

A planned development is created on (1) the conveyance of a separate interest in a lot and an interest in the common area or membership in the owners' association; and (2) the recordation of a final or parcel subdivision map (if required) [see § 33D.13] and a declaration [Civ. Code § 1352]. The declaration is the basic governing document for the development. It must contain specified information, including any restrictions on the use or enjoyment of any portion of the planned development that are intended to be enforceable equitable servitudes that will inure to the benefit and bind all owners of lots, parcels, or areas in the development [Civ. Code §§ 1353, 1354; see § 33D.200; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.33[3]].

[4] Owners' Association

A planned development must be managed by an association (commonly referred to as an owners' or homeowners' association) which may be either a nonprofit corporation or unincorporated association [Civ. Code § 1363(a); see Civ. Code § 1351(a)]. Whether or not it is incorporated, the association may exercise most of the powers granted to a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation unless the declaration provides otherwise [see Civ. Code § 1363(c); see also Corp. Code § 7140 (powers)]. As a practical matter, most associations are organized under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. That law imposes a number of requirements governing the operation of the owners' association which must be incorporated into the articles [see § 33D.201] and bylaws [see § 33D.202] for the association.

For a detailed discussion of the powers and duties of these associations, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.38.

[5] Assessments

The association must levy regular and special assessments unless the declaration provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1366(a)]. The Act places limitations on the imposition and amounts of assessments [see Civ. Code §§ 1366, 1367, 1367.1] and sets forth the procedures for handling delinquencies [see Civ. Code §§ 1366(e), 1367, 1367.1, 1367.4; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.39[7]]. The implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.37] impose additional requirements. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.39.

[6] Restrictions on Transfer of Separate Interest

As mentioned above, a "separate interest" in a planned development is a separately owned lot, parcel, area, or space ("lot") [Civ. Code § 1351(l)(3)]. Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of the separately owned lot must also include the undivided interest in the common areas, if any. Similarly, any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of the owner's entire estate also includes the owner's membership interest in the association [Civ. Code § 1358(c)]. However, the owner may separately transfer any exclusive use common area appurtenant to his or her separate interest [see § 33D.11[8]] if the declaration authorizes such a transfer and the transfer complies with the terms of the declaration [Civ. Code § 1358].

Restrictions on the severability of the component interests in a planned development set forth in the declaration will not be deemed conditions repugnant to the interest created, and thus will not be rendered void under Civ. Code § 711 [Civ. Code § 1358].

[7] Title to Common Areas

In the typical planned development, the common area is owned by the owners' association. It is subject to easements for ingress, egress, and support that are appurtenant to each separately owned lot, if necessary [Civ. Code § 1361(b)]. If all or a portion of the common area is owned by the owners of the separate lots, the owners hold title to that commonly owned area as tenants in common, in equal shares, one for each lot [Civ. Code § 1362]. This commonly owned area is subject to nonexclusive rights of ingress, egress, and support, if necessary, which are appurtenant to each lot [Civ. Code § 1361(a)]. Thus, all lot owners are guaranteed ingress, egress, and support to and from the common areas, when needed. Although that statutory entitlement is referred to as a "right" when the common area is owned by the lot owners and as an "easement" when the association owns the common area, this difference in terminology apparently has no significance or purpose other than to reflect the fact that lot owners cannot have an easement over land that they own in common (the common area) because an easement is an interest in the land of another [see Goble v. Dotson (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 272, 277, 21 Cal. Rptr. 769 ; see also Ch. 28A, Easements and Licenses].

An "exclusive use common area" is a portion of the common area that (1) is designated by the declaration for the exclusive use of one or more, but fewer thanall, of the owners of the lots, and (2) is or will be appurtenant to the designated lot or lots [Civ. Code § 1351(i)]. The phrase "will be appurtenant" authorizes the future allocation of exclusive use common areas. The declaration should provide for such allocations when it would be impractical to make them prior to the recordation of the declaration. For example, the developer or the owners' association may wish to allocate parking or storage spaces after lots are purchased, taking into account the number of occupants and types of improvements on each lot and the actual demand for those spaces. Obviously, the developer or association cannot take these factors into account at the time of preparation and recordation of the declaration because none of the lots will have been sold at that time.

Unless the declaration provides otherwise, the owners' association must repair, replace, and maintain the common areas, other than exclusive use common areas, while owners of lots must maintain their separate interests and exclusive use common areas [Civ. Code § 1364(a)]. Each owner of a lot is also responsible for any repairs to or maintenance of that lot occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms. However, on approval of the majority of all members of the association, the responsibility for pest control work may be delegated to the association, which will be entitled to recover the resulting costs as a special assessment [Civ. Code § 1364(b)(2)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.12

[1] Applicability and Public Report Requirement

Under the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.], no person may sell or lease, or offer to sell or lease, subdivided lands unless the Real Estate Commissioner issues a consumer-oriented disclosure document (a final public report) for the subdivision [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11018.2, 11004.5; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200]. That Act defines "subdivided lands" and "subdivision" to include a planned development [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003 (incorporating definition of "planned development" set forth in the Davis-Stirling Act); see also Civ. Code § 1351(k); § 33D.11[1]] containing five or more lots [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(a); see Civ. Code § 1351(k)].

The developer must provide every prospective purchaser or lessee with a copy of the public report (and certain other documents) and obtain an executed receipt for the report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.1(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.6]. Moreover, the developer must give a copy of the public report, upon oral or written request, to any member of the public, and must post both a notice of the right to make such a request and a copy of the report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(b)].

A preliminary public report permits a developer to solicit and accept reservations to purchase or lease lots in a proposed planned development before obtaining a final public report. The Real Estate Commissioner will issue a preliminary report if, in the Commissioner's judgment, it is reasonable to expect that the applicant will satisfy all of the requirements for issuance of a final public report in due course [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(a); see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1][i]].

For further discussion of the impact of the Subdivided Lands Act on common interest subdivisions, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.37. For additional discussion of that Act, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

[2] Regulations Applicable to "Common-Interest Subdivisions"

Under the implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq.], planned developments containing five or more lots are among the developments referred to as "common-interest subdivisions" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2705(m); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.3-2793

(regulations directly applicable to common-interest subdivisions)]. That regulatory term should not be confused with the term "common interest development," which is used in the Davis-Stirling Act [see Civ. Code § 1351(c); see also § 33D.11[1]]. The Commissioner's common interest subdivision regulations govern many of the more important aspects of common-interest subdivisions, such as the establishment of the owners' association and the contents of governing instruments for the development.

If, as is usually the case, a planned development is located entirely within a single tax code area and the entire common area (see definition below) is reserved as an appurtenance to the separately owned lots, parcels, or areas ("lots"), the county assessor will separately assess each separately owned lot for purposes of real property taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.5(b)]. Each assessment will includethe value of the lot, its improvements, and the owner's share of the value of the common area. It will also reflect the new base year value of the common area resulting from any change in ownership [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 60-68; see also Ch. 23, Agreements to Sell Real Property] or new construction [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 70-74] attributable to the owner's share of the value of the common area [Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.5(a)(1)].

If the planned development spans two or more tax code areas, the separately owned lots will be separately assessed, but the common area will be assessed as a unit. In that case, the owners of the common area will be separately assessed as joint owners [55 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 132, 133] .

The tax on each separately owned lot constitutes a lien solely on that lot and its proportionate interest in the appurtenant common area [Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.5(a)]. The lien is not on the common area itself. For purposes of property taxation, "common area" means the land and improvements within a lot, the beneficial use and enjoyment of which is reserved in whole or in part as an appurtenance to the separately owned lots, whether the common area is held in common or through ownership of shares of stock or membership in an owners' association [Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.5(a)].

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 33D PLANNED DEVELOPMENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.17

§ 33D.17 Miscellaneous Laws and Considerations

[1] Occupancy Control

Developers who discriminate in the sale of lots in planned developments may violate the federal Civil Rights Act of 1968 [42 U.S.C. § 2601 et seq.] and numerous California laws, including the Unruh Civil Rights Act [Civ. Code § 51]. One of the few permissible forms of discrimination is the establishment in California of housing developments for senior citizens [see Civ. Code § 51.3]. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.40.

[2] Phased Developments

A planned development may be developed in phases, provided the developer obtains a final public report for each phase [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2798]. Further, the annexation of real property to the development in subsequent phases must (1) substantially conform to a detailed plan of phased development submitted to the Real Estate Commissioner with the application for the public report for the first phase of the development; or (2) be approved by at least two-thirds of the total voting power of the owners' association (excluding the developer) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27(a)(1)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.44.

If a multi-phased planned development qualifies as a "master planned development" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(a) (definition)], the development may be exempt from some or all of the "reasonable arrangement regulations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.15-2792.28; § 33D.200[1][c][ii]] normally applicable to developments that are subject to the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32; Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.44[3]; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. (Act)].

Condominium projects and planned developments are usually financed in the same way; that is, with short-term construction financing that is secured by a blanket deed of trust on the entire project/development, and long-term financing on the individual units/lots. For discussion of this method of financing, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.45.

[4] Securities Regulation

Offers or sales of securities in California must be qualified with the Department of Corporations under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.] unless otherwise exempted [Corp. Code § 25100]. A security consisting of an interest in subdivided lands or a subdivision or in a real estate development is normally exempt from qualification [see Corp. Code § 25100(f)]. Planned developments, condominium projects, and other common interest developments/subdivisions usually qualify for that exemption. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.41[3].

Membership in the owners' association of a planned development probably will not be considered a security subject to the federal registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] unless the offering of lots in thedevelopment emphasizes economic benefits to the purchaser to be derived at leastin part from the efforts of others [see SEC Release No. 33-5347 (January 4, 1973)]. The factors to consider are identical to those applicable to condominium projects. For discussion of those factors, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.41[2].

1. Will owners' association:

a. Be incorporated [see § 33D.11[4]]?

b. Hold title to all or portion of common area [see § 33D.11[7]]?

2. What local requirements govern proposed development [see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits]?

3. According to local governmental officials and utility company, are adequate utilities and other necessary services available?

4. Should developer characterize development as condominium project instead of planned development [see § 33D.11[2]]?

5. Should development be constructed in phases or stages [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.44[1]; see also § 33D.143]?

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.121

§ 33D.121 Applicability of State, Federal, and Local Laws

1. For purposes of Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1351 et seq.], will proposed project have either or both of following features and therefore be considered a "common interest development" and "planned development" [see Civ. Code § 1351(c), (k); see also § 33D.11[1]]?

a. Will common area be owned by [Civ. Code § 1351(k)(1)]:
(1) Owners' association; or

(2) Owners of separately owned lots, parcels, areas, or spaces ("lots"), who also possess appurtenant rights to beneficial use and enjoyment of common area?

b. Will owners' association have authority to levy assessment against separately owned lot to enforce any obligation of lot's owner relating to beneficial use and enjoyment of common area [Civ. Code § 1351(k)(2); see Civ. Code §§ 1367, 1367.1]?

2. Will development consist of at least five lots and therefore be subject to public report and other requirements of Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(a)]?

NOTE:
The Subdivided Lands Act incorporates the definition of "planned development" set forth in the Davis-Stirling Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003; see Civ. Code § 1351(k); see also P (1)(b), above].

3. What, if any, subdivision maps must (or may) be prepared under Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] and applicable local subdivision ordinance [see § 33D.13]?

NOTE:
For a discussion of limited exceptions to the general requirements of the Act [see Gov. Code §§ 66412, 66412.2, 66412.5], see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

a. Tentative map and final map if development contains five or more lots [Gov. Code §§ 66426, 66428; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

NOTE:

Local coastal development permits issued by a local agency in conjunction with a tentative subdivision map for a planned unit development will expire no sooner than the approved tentative map, and any extension of the map must comply with any applicable local coastal program [see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits]. Any other permit that is issued by a local agency in conjunction with a tentative subdivision map for a planned unit development will expire no sooner than the approved tentative map, or any extension of the effective period of that map, whichever occurs later, unless an earlier expiration date appears on the face of the permit [Gov. Code § 65863.9]. This statute refers to planned unit developments rather than to planned developments and therefore presumably applies to only those planned developments that are considered planned unit developments under the applicable local zoning ordinance [see § 33D.121, P 5; see also § 33D.10[2]]. For a discussion of the expiration dates of tentative maps [see Gov. Code § 66452.6(a)], see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

b. Parcel map if development will contain four or fewer lots, unless local ordinance waives requirement of parcel map [Gov. Code § 66428; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

NOTE:

When the Act requires the filing of a parcel map for a particular project, then a final map [see (3)(a), above] will not be required (and vice versa) [see Gov. Code §§ 66426, 66428]. If the Act requires a parcel map for a particular development, the local ordinance may waive the requirement and/or require that a tentative map be filed. If the local ordinance does not require a tentative map when a parcel map is required under the Act, the developer has the option of submitting a tentative map or a vesting tentative map in addition to the required parcel map [Gov. Code § 66428].

c. Vesting tentative map in lieu of any tentative map required by Act, if developer wishes to obtain vested right to proceed with development in substantial compliance with existing local requirements [see Gov. Code §§ 66498.1-66498.7; see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

4. Is development subject to additional regulation under any of following?

NOTE:

For a discussion of these laws, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.121, PP 4-9.

a. Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act [15 U.S.C. § 1701 et seq.].

b. National Environmental Protection Act of 1969 (NEPA) [42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.].

c. California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.].

d. California Coastal Act of 1976 [Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.].

e. Any regional environmental regulations.

5. Will client's proposed planned development be considered "planned unit development" under local zoning ordinance [see § 33D.10[2]]?

NOTE:

The governing documents for a planned development consist of the declaration, bylaws, articles of incorporation or association, and operating rules of the owners' association [see Civ. Code § 1351(j)]. These documents must reflect the requirements of any of the following laws that are applicable to the proposed development: the Davis-Stirling Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.; see § 33D.11[1]]; the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and its implementing regulations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2792.15-2792.29]; and the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. The comments to the forms identified below discuss the applicable requirements.

1. Draft declaration [see § 33D.200].

2. If owners' association is to be incorporated, draft articles of incorporation [see § 33D.201].

3. If owners' association will not be incorporated, draft articles of association [see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations].

4. Draft bylaws [see § 33D.202].

5. If project is to be professionally managed, draft management agreement [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.207].

6. Consider drafting rules and regulations for development [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.208].

7. After drafting foregoing documents, confirm that they are internally consistent.

8. Record declaration [see Civ. Code § 1352; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][j]].

9. File articles of incorporation (if any) with Secretary of State [see Corp.Code § 7120; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.304[1][d]].

§ 33D.143 Obtaining Public Report

NOTE:

A subdivider/developer must obtain a public report from the Real Estate Commissioner prior to selling or leasing, or offering to sell or lease, any lots or parcels in a planned development containing five or more lots [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11018.2, 11004.5; see § 33D.12[1]].

1. If client wishes to take reservations for purchase or lease of lots in planned development prior to receipt of final public report, obtain preliminary public report and comply with regulatory requirements governing its use [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795; see also § 33D.143, P 1].

2. Complete official application for public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(a), (b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790.4(d); see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.200[1]].

3. Assemble supporting documents for inclusion in application package [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a), 2792(a); see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.143, P 3].

4. If project is to be developed in phases or stages, prepare detailed plan of phased development for submission to Real Estate Commissioner with application for first phase [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27; see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.143, P 6].

5. Review application package to confirm, to extent feasible, that it will be acceptable to Commissioner [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5 (required findings of Commissioner); see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.143, P 6].

6. Submit application package and filing fee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11011(b)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2790.1(a)(2), (b), 2790.1.5(a)(2), (b)] to Department of Real Estate [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790].

NOTE:

These application materials should be submitted to the appropriate subdivision district office of the Department of Real Estate. The Los Angeles district office (320 W. 4th Street, Suite 350, Los Angeles, CA 90013-1105; (213) 897-3908) has jurisdiction over subdivisions located in the following counties: Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Barbara, and Ventura. The Sacramento Office (2201 Broadway, P.O. Box 187005, Sacramento CA 95818-7005; (916) 227-0813) processes applications for projects in all other counties.

7. After obtaining public report and prior to entering into any contract or agreement for sale or lease of any lot in development, have developer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2794]:

a. Satisfy statutory duty to distribute copies of report and other project documents to prospective purchasers and lessees [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.143, PP 10, 11]; and

b. Obtain and retain receipts for final or preliminary public reports [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.143, P 12].

1. Report any proposed material change in development itself or in program for marketing development to Department of Real Estate on one of its official forms [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11012; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2800; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

NOTE:

It is unlawful for an owner, the owner's agent, or a developer to change materially the setup of a planned development after it has been submitted to the Department (i.e., at any time after submission of the application for the public report) without first notifying the Department in writing of the intended change. This requirement applies only if the developer or the developer's agent has actual or constructive knowledge of the change [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11012]. Although the Act and its implementing regulations do not define "material change," the Commissioner, by regulation, has specified numerous types of changes that are considered to be material [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2800; see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

If the material change affects the governing instruments of the development (i.e., the declaration, articles, bylaws, and any operating rules of the association) [Civ. Code § 1351(j)], the developer must comply with additional requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums*, § 34.162*, P 1].

2. If Department of Real Estate finds that reported change is material, submit required fee and await issuance of amended public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11011(b)(10); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2790.1(a)(10), (b), 2790.1.5(a)(10), (b)].

4. Have board of directors satisfy duty to review certain financial statements [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(a); see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.165].

5. Concerning association's reserve accounts, notify board of its obligation to do following:

a. Comply with requirements governing withdrawal and expenditure of reserve funds [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(b), (c); see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.165, P 2]; and

b. Have study conducted of reserve account requirements of development under certain circumstances [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(d); see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.165, P 3].

6. Have developer or developer's agent or representative furnish each prospective seller or lessee with statutory "Notice of Special Tax" if development is subject to special tax assessed under Mello-Roos Community Facilities Act of 1982 [Gov. Code § 53341.5(a); see Gov. Code § 53311 et seq. (Mello-Roos Act); see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

NOTE:

The developer must comply with this disclosure requirement when he or she sells, or leases for a term exceeding five years, a lot in the development [Gov. Code § 53341.5(a)].

7. If association adopts or has adopted policy imposing monetary penalties on members for violations of governing documents or rules of association, have board adopt and distribute to each member, by personal delivery or first-class mail, a schedule of these monetary penalties [Civ. Code § 1363(g); see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.164, P 9].

8. Each year, have board or developer provide members with summary of provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1369.510-1369.590 [Civ. Code § 1369.590; see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.164, P 10].

NOTE:

Civ. Code §§ 1369.510-1369.590 require that alternative dispute resolution (ADR) be pursued before a civil action may be filed in connection with certain disputes related to enforcement of the governing documents, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (*Civ. CHAPTER 33D PLANNED DEVELOPMENTS
PART IV. FORMS

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.200

§ 33D.200 Declaration for Planned Development

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for a planned development that has its owners' association organized as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation. The declaration is the most important governing document for any common interest development [see § 33D.11[3]].

With regard to creation and enforcement of assessment liens, this form conforms to the law applicable to assessment liens recorded on or after January 1, 2003 [see Civ. Code § 1367.1], rather than the law applicable to liens recorded before that date [see Civ. Code § 1367].

This comment lists all of the statutory and regulatory requirements that have been incorporated into this form. As a general rule, most of those requirements also apply to other types of common interest developments, including condominium projects. For a discussion of those requirements of general applicability, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1] (declaration for condominium project). The only requirements discussed in detail in this comment are those that apply solely to planned developments.

[b] Coordination With Bylaws

The provisions of this form govern all regulated aspects of a planned development except the internal operation of the owners' association and its board of directors. Those topics are covered in the bylaws contained in § 33D.202. This method of allocation is quite common [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][c]].

This form and § 33D.201[2] (articles) and § 33D.202[2] (bylaws) are compatible. Thus, the cross-references in this form to specific bylaw provisions are to the provisions of § 33D.202.

[c] Required Contents

[i] Davis-Stirling Act

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], a declaration must contain [Civ. Code § 1353(a)(1)]:

- A legal description of the planned development [see § 33D.200[2], Recital A].

- A statement that the development is a planned development [see § 33D.200[2], Recital B].

- The name of the owners' association [see § 33D.200[2], Sections 1.02, 3.01].

- The restrictions on the use or enjoyment of any portion of the development that are intended to be enforceable equitable servitudes [see Civ. Code § 1354; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][g]]. These restrictions are set forth throughout this form.

- If the property is located within an airport influence area and the declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, a statutorily-prescribed statement informing potential buyers of the possible annoyances and inconveniences associated with living near an airport [see Civ. Code § 1353(a)(2) ("airport influence area" defined)].

- If the property is within the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission's jurisdiction and the declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, it must contain a statutory notice regarding the possible impact on the use and development of the property of the Commission's regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements [Civ. Code § 1353(a)(3)].

In addition, this form adopts many of the definitions contained in the Davis-Stirling Act [see Civ. Code § 1351; § 33D.200[2], Art. I], the requirements of the Act governing assessments [see Civ. Code §§ 1366, 1367, 1367.1, 1367.4; § 33D.200[2], Art. IV; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16], the conveyance of separate interests [see Civ. Code § 1358; § 33D.200[2], Section 2.08], and statements of delinquent assessments [see Civ. Code § 1368(b); § 33D.200[2], Section 4.10].

For discussion of these requirements, Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][d][i].

[ii] Subdivided Lands Act and Its Implementing Regulations

Several of the requirements imposed by the implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] must be incorporated into the governing instruments of planned developments [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.4, 2792.8, 2792.15-2792.29; see also Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][d][ii]]. Drafters typically place the vast majority of these regulation-based provisions in the declaration, and the remainder in the bylaws [see § 33D.202[1][b][i]]. The following is a list of the regulatory topics and requirements covered in this form (including, for the attorney's convenience, citations to relevant statutory provisions) [see § 33D.200[1][c][i], [iii]]:

- Creation of the owners' association [see § 33D.200[2], Art. III];

- A description of the common interests of the lot owners or lessees [see § 33D.200[2], Sections 2.03 -2.07; see also Civ. Code §§ 1351(b), (c), (i), 1358, 1361, 1362];

- Transfer of title and/or control of common interests or of mutual and reciprocal rights of use to the owners in common or to the association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15; § 33D.200[2], Section 2.03; see also Civ. Code § 1362];

- Procedures for calculating and collecting regular assessments from owners to defray expenses attributable to the ownership, operation, or furnishing of common interests or to the enjoyment of mutual and reciprocal rights of use [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16; § 33D.200[2], Art. IV; see also Civ. Code § 1366];

- Procedures for establishing and collecting special assessments for capital improvements or for other purposes [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(e); § 33D.200[2], Art. IV; see also Civ. Code § 1366];

- Liens upon privately owned lots for assessments levied pursuant to the declaration and foreclosures for nonpayment [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(g); § 33D.200[2], Section 4.09; see also Civ. Code §§ 1367, 1367.1];

- Policies and procedures relating to the disciplining of members for failure to comply with provisions of the governing instruments [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26; § 33D.200[2], Section 3.06(d); see also Civ. Code § 1363(g)];

- Creation of the board of directors for the association [see § 33D.200[2], Section 3.08];

- Policies and procedures governing the inspection of books and records of the association by members [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(c)-(e); § 33D.200[2], Section 3.09; see also Corp. Code §§ 8320, 8330-8338];

- Amendment procedures [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; §33D.200[2], Art. XII; see also Civ. Code §§ 1355, 1355.5, 1356];

- Action to be taken and procedures to be followed in the event of condemnation, destruction, or extensive damage to the planned development [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(21); § 33D.200[2], Art. VIII (damage or destruction), IX (eminent domain); see also § 33D.200[1][d][ii]];

- Annexation of additional land to the existing development when appropriate [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27; § 33D.200[2], Section 2.02, Art. XI];

- Architectural and/or design control [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.28; § 33D.200[2], Art. VI; see also Civ. Code §§ 714, 714.1 (restrictions on solar energy systems); § 33D.200[2], Section 5.01(j)];

- Special provisions for enforcement of financial arrangements by the developer to secure performance of his or her commitment to complete common-area improvements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.4; § 33D.200[2], Section 3.07(c)]; and

- Granting of easements or use rights affecting the common areas [see § 33D.200[2], Art. II ; see also Civ. Code §§ 1351(i), 1361].

[iii] Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law

The vast majority of owners' associations for planned developments are organized as nonprofit mutual benefit corporations [see § 33D.11[4]]. Therefore, the articles and bylaws of the association must comply with the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. The declaration is not significantly affected by that law because it focuses on the development itself rather than on the internal operation of the association [see § 33D.200[1][b]]. However, the provisions of the declaration regarding membership and voting rights, and a few other miscellaneous provisions, are subject to the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 7310-7354 (members), 7610-7616 (voting of memberships)]. The provisions of that law that have been incorporated into this form are included in the list set forth in § 33D.200[1][c][ii]. For further discussion, see § 33D.202[1][b][ii].

[d] Particular Provisions of Form

[i] Easements of Ingress, Egress, and Support

If, as is usually the case, the common areas of a planned development are owned by the owners' association, there are easements for ingress, egress, and support through those areas [Civ. Code § 1361(b)]. Section 2.03(c) of this Form describes these easements. Similarly, if any portion of the common areas are owned in common by the owners of the lots, nonexclusive rights of ingress, egress, and support through the commonly owned areas are appurtenant to each lot [Civ. Code § 1361(a); see also § 33D.11[7]]. In that case, the drafter should describe the commonly owned areas and the foregoing common rights in the appropriate provisions of Article II of this Form [see § 33D.200[2], Sections 2.03, 2.04]. For an example of such provisions, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[2], Art. II.

[ii] Damage, Destruction, and Condemnation

The required provisions regarding condemnation, destruction, or extensive damage to the planned development [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(21); see also § 33D.200[1][c][ii]] must include procedures governing the use and disposition of insurance proceeds or damages payable to the association or to a trustee on behalf of the owners as a result of the condemnation, destruction, or damage [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(21)]. There are no other requirements governing the specifics of the procedures selected by the developer and drafter [see § 33D.200[2], Art. VIII (damage and destruction), IX (eminent domain) for illustrative provisions].

The owners' association of a planned development should obtain fire and casualty insurance, blanket public liability insurance, and other insurance protecting the development and its owners. The developer and attorney should discuss the specifics of such coverage with an insurance adviser.

Because lenders and carriers play a vital role in determining what insurance will be maintained by an owners' association, declarations typically set forth very general minimum requirements governing insurance coverage. This form reflects two common approaches to fire and casualty insurance. Under the first approach, which is usually used when the separately owned lots contain detached, single-family dwellings, each owner is responsible for obtaining fire and casualty insurance for his or her improvements, while the owners' association insures its improvements. The second method requires the owners' association to obtain blanket fire and casualty insurance for all improvements in the planned development and prohibits owners from obtaining their own fire and casualty insurance. This method is often used when the lots contain multi-unit structures with shared features [see § 33D.200[2], Art. VII; see also § 33D.10[1]].

The general liability insurance (also referred to as "public liability insurance") provision of the form [see [2], Section 7.02] reflects the requirements of Civ. Code § 1365.7, which places limits on the potential personal liability of volunteer officers or directors. For discussion of Section 1365.7, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][e][viii].

[iv] Parking Spaces as Exclusive Use Common Areas

An exclusive use common area is a portion of the common areas designated by the declaration for the exclusive use of one or more, but fewer than all, of the owners of the separate lots and which is or will be appurtenant to the designated owners' lots [Civ. Code § 1351(i)]. These areas are important in condominium projects where fixtures (e.g., porches and balconies) and yards are often designed to serve a particular unit [see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[2], Section 2.05

; see also § 34.202[2], Section 1.10]. Obviously, the same concerns are not present in a planned development due to the separate ownership of lots and their improvements. This form does contain a provision designating parking spaces as exclusive use common areas [see § 33D.200[2], Section 2.05] because the lots may not be large enough to accommodate cars, particularly in the case of cluster planned developments.

[v] Rights of Mortgagees

Article X of this Form lists several rights of mortgagees of lots in the planned development. Government lenders and insurers usually insist on the inclusion of mortgagee protections and dictate the contents of the provisions. Thus, rather than copying the provisions set forth in Article X of this Form, counsel should use them as a guide to the scope and complexity of the requirements typically imposed by lenders. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.202[1][e][xi].

THIS DECLARATION is made on _____[date], by _____[name of declarant] ("Declarant"), _____ [describe legal status of declarant, e.g., a California Corporation].

RECITALS

A. Declarant is the owner of that certain real property located in the City of _____, County of _____, State of California, and more particularly described _____[as Lots _____ through _____ and Lot _____ of Tract No. _____, on the Subdivision Map recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, State of California, on _____ [date], in Book _____ of Maps at Pages _____ through _____ or on Exhibit "_____" attached to and made a part of this Declaration] ("Property").

B. Pursuant to the general plan set forth in this Declaration, Declarant intends to subdivide the Property into Lots and parcels, to improve the Lots and parcels, [and] to create a planned development subject to the provisions of the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act contained in Division II, Pt. 4, Title 6 of the California Civil Code [, and to provide for the annexation of additional real property to the Property].

C. In furtherance of this intent, Declarant hereby declares that all of the Property is and shall continue to be held, conveyed, hypothecated, encumbered, leased, rented, used, occupied, and improved subject to the declarations, limitations, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, and easements set forth in this Declaration, as this Declaration may be amended from time to time, all of which are declared and agreed to be in furtherance of a general plan established for the purpose of enhancing and perfecting the value, desirability, and attractiveness of the Property. All covenants and restrictions set forth in this Declaration shall constitute covenants running with the land and enforceable equitable servitudes upon the Property, and shall be binding on and for the benefit of all of the Property and all parties having or acquiring any right, title, or interest in all or any part of the Property, including the heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns of these parties and all subsequent owners and lessees of all or any part of any Lot in the Development.

[If property is located in airport influence area and declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, include following statement. See Civ. Code § 1353(a).]

NOTICE OF AIRPORT IN VICINITY

This property is presently located in the vicinity of an airport, within what is known as an airport influence area. For that reason, the property may be subject to some of the annoyances or inconveniences associated with proximity to airport operations (for example, noise, vibration, or odors). Individual sensitivities to those annoyances can vary from person to person. You may wish to consider what airport annoyances, if any, are associated with the property before you complete your purchase and determine whether they are acceptable to you.

[If property is located within jurisdiction of San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, include following statement. See Civ. Code § 1353(a)(3).]

NOTICE OF SAN FRANCISCO BAY CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION JURISDICTION

This property is located within the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Use and development of property within the commission's jurisdiction may be subject to special regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements. You may wish to investigate and determine whether they are acceptable to you and your intended use of the property before you complete your transaction.

ARTICLE I. DEFINITIONS

"Articles"

Section 1.01. "Articles" means the Articles of Incorporation of _____[name of owners' association] and any amendments to the Articles that are or shall be filed in the Office of the Secretary of State of the State of California.

"Association"

Section 1.02. "Association" means _____[name of owners' association], a California nonprofit mutual benefit corporation.

"Board"

"Bylaws"

Section 1.04. "Bylaws" means the Bylaws of the Association and any amendments to the Bylaws that are or shall be adopted by the Board.

"Common Area"

Section 1.05. "Common Area" means those portions of the Developmentowned by the Association for the common use and enjoyment of the Owners. This Common Area includes Lots _____ on the Subdivision Map [and any other parcels designated as "Common Area" in any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to the annexation provisions of Article XI of this Declaration].

"Declarant"

Section 1.06. "Declarant" means _____[name of developer] and its successors and assigns.

"Declaration"

Section 1.07. "Declaration" means this Declaration and any amendments thereto.

"Development"

Section 1.08. "Development" means the Property, [any additional real property annexed to the Property pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration,] and all improvements on the Property.

"Exclusive Use Common Area"

Section 1.09. "Exclusive Use Common Area" means those portions of the Common Area reserved for the exclusive use of one or more of the Owners pursuant to Section 2.05 of this Declaration.

"Governing Instruments"

Section 1.10. "Governing Instruments" means this Declaration, the Articles and Bylaws of the Association, and any Rules and Regulations of the Development.

"Lot"

Section 1.11. "Lot" means any plot of land or parcel in the Development that is not a part of the Common Area, as shown on any recorded Subdivision Map for the Development [add if declaration will contain annexation provisions: or any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration].

"Manager"

Section 1.12. "Manager" means any person or entity appointed by the Board to manage the Development.

"Member"

Section 1.13. "Member" means every person or entity entitled to membership in the Association as provided in this Declaration.

"Mortgage" and "First Mortgage"

Section 1.14. "Mortgage" means a mortgage or deed of trust encumbering a Lot or any other portion of the Development. "First Mortgage" means a mortgage that has priority over all other mortgages encumbering the same Lot or other portion of the Development.

"Mortgagee," "Institutional Mortgagee," and "First Mortgagee"

Section 1.15. "Mortgagee" means a Person to whom a Mortgage is made and includes the beneficiary of a deed of trust and any guarantor or insurer of a mortgage. "Subdivision Map"

Section 1.21. "Subdivision Map" means the recorded map described in _____ [the Recitals or Exhibit _____] [and any subdivision map recorded in connection with the annexation of additional real property to the Development pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration].

ARTICLE II. THE PROPERTY

Property Subject to Declaration

Section 2.01. All the Property in the Development shall be subject to this Declaration.

Annexation of Additional Property

Section 2.02. Additional property may be annexed to the Development, but only as provided in Article XI of this Declaration.

Title to Common Areas

Section 2.03. Prior to the final closing of the first sale of a Lot in the Development, Declarant or its successors or assigns shall convey to the Association title and control of the Common Area, free of all liens and encumbrances, except current real property taxes and any reservations, easements, covenants, conditions, and restrictions of record, including those contained in this Declaration.

Use and Enjoyment of Common Area

Section 2.04. The following provisions govern the use and enjoyment of the Common Area:

(a) Subject to the provisions of this Declaration, there is an easement for ingress, egress, and support through the Common Area appurtenant to each Lot. These easements shall pass with title to the Lot.

(b) The Owners' easements over, and rights of use and enjoyment of, the Common Area shall be subject to the restrictions set forth in the Governing Instruments, including the following:

(1) The right of the Association to adopt and enforce Rules and Regulations for the use of the Common Area.

(2) The right of the Association to reasonably limit the number of guests and tenants using the Common Area.

(3) The right of the Association to assign or otherwise control the use of any unassigned parking spaces within the Common Area.

(4) The right of the Association to suspend the right of any Owner, and the Persons deriving rights from any Owner, to use and enjoy the Common Area for any period during which the Owner is delinquent in the payment of any assessment.

(5) The right of the Association to cause the construction of additional improvements in the Common Area, or to cause the alteration or removal of existing improvements in the Common Area.

(6) The right of the Association to grant, consent to, or join in the grant or conveyance of easements, licenses, or rights-of-way in, on, or over the Common Area.

(7) The right of each Owner to the exclusive use of any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Owner's Lot.

(8) The rights of Declarant as described in this Declaration.

(9) The right of the Association to reasonably restrict access to roofs, maintenance facilities or areas, landscaped areas, and similar areas of the Development.

(10) The right of the Architectural Control Committee to approve any proposed alteration or modification to the Common Area or any Lot.

(c) Declarant hereby reserves easements for common driveway purposes, for drainage and encroachment purposes, and for ingress to and egress from the Common Area. These easements may be used to complete improvements on the Common Area [and] to perform necessary repair work [add in the case of a phased development:, and for entry onto adjacent property in connection with the development of additional phases of the overall Development]. These easements shall remain in effect _____[specify reasonable limit, e.g., for three years from the date of closing of the first sale of a Lot in the Development].

(d) The Association may grant to third parties easements in, on, and over the Common Area for the purpose of constructing, installing, or maintaining necessary utilities and services, and each Owner, in accepting his or her deed to the Lot, expressly consents to these easements. However, no such easement can be granted if it would interfere with any exclusive easement, or with any Owner's use, occupancy, or enjoyment of his or her Lot or any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Lot.

(e) A Class A Owner who has sold his or her Lot to a contract purchaser or who has leased or rented the Lot shall be entitled to delegate his or her rights to use and enjoy the Common Area to any contract purchaser, tenant, or subtenant who resides in the Owner's Lot, subject to reasonable regulation by the Board. If the Owner makes such a delegation of rights, the Owner and the Owner's family, guests, employees, and invitees shall not be entitled to use and enjoy the CommonArea for so long as the delegation remains effective.

(f) Each Owner shall be liable to the Association for any damage to the Common Area or to Association-owned property, to the extent that the damage is not covered by insurance, if the damage is sustained because of the negligence, willful misconduct, or unauthorized or improper installment or maintenance of any improvement by the Owner or the Owner's family, guests, tenants, contract purchasers, tenants, or invitees. In the case of joint ownership of a Lot, the liability of the co-owners shall be joint and several, unless the co-owners and the Association have agreed in writing to an alternative allocation of liability.

Parking Spaces to Be Exclusive Use Common Areas

Section 2.05. Each Owner shall have the exclusive right to use, for parking purposes only, any parking space or spaces that _____[have been allocated to the Owner's Lot on Exhibit _____ attached to this Declaration or will be allocated to the Owner's Lot in the future]. Each parking space shall be an Exclusive Use Common Area. Additional Exclusive Use Common Areas may be designated in the future by the Association, provided that the designation is not inconsistent with the rights of any Owner. The parking lots and any other Exclusive Use Common Areas shall be for the exclusive use of the Owner of the designated Lot and shall be appurtenant to that Lot. An Exclusive Use Common Area may [not] be transferred independently of any other interest of the Owner [consider adding if exclusive use common area may be transferred independently:, but only to other Owners].

Maintenance by Owners

Section 2.06. Each Owner shall maintain his or her Lot and the improvements located on it in a clean, sanitary, and attractive condition. [Add the following or an alternative pest control maintenance scheme (see Civ. Code § 1364): This duty to maintain includes a responsibility to repair any damage to the improvements located on the Owner's Lot occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms, provided that a majority of the Owners do not vote to have the Association:

(a) Arrange for the necessary repairs; and

(b) Levy a special assessment to recover the resulting costs.]

In addition, each owner shall maintain those portions of any heating and cooling equipment and all plumbing, electrical, and gas lines, apparatus, and other equipment that are located within or that exclusively serve his or her Lot. This maintenance shall be at the Owner's expense. However, the Owner shall not take any actions that would impair or otherwise alter the structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any structural member, without the prior written approval of the Architectural Control Committee, as provided in Article VI of this Declaration. _____[The Association rather than the Owner shall be responsible for maintaining any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Owner's Lot or The Owner shall also, at his or her sole expense, maintain and keep in a reasonably good state of repair any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Owner's Lot].

Easements for Maintenance of Encroachments

Section 2.07. None of the rights and obligations of the Owners described in this Declaration or created by deed shall be altered in any way by encroachments due to settlement or shifting of structures or any other cause. There shall be valid easements for the maintenance of such encroachments so long as the encroachments exist. However, in no event shall a valid easement for encroachment be created in favor of an Owner or Owners if the encroachment occurred due to the willful conduct of the Owner or Owners.

Prohibition Against Severance of Elements of Lot

Section 2.08. Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of the Owner's entire estate shall also include the Owner's Membership interest in the Association, as provided in Section 3.02 of this Declaration. Any transfer that attempts to sever those component interests shall be void.

ARTICLE III. OWNERS' ASSOCIATION

Organization of the Association

Section 3.01. The Association is or shall be incorporated under the name of _____, as a nonprofit corporation organized under the California Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law. From the closing of the escrow for the first sale of a Lot, the Association shall be charged with the duties and invested with the powers prescribed by law and set forth in this Declaration, the Articles of Incorporation, and the Bylaws.

Membership

Section 3.02. Every Owner, upon becoming an Owner, shall automatically become a Member of the Association. Ownership of a Lot is the sole qualification for membership. Each Member shall have the rights, duties, privileges, and obligations set forth in the Governing Instruments. Membership shall automatically cease when the Owner no longer holds an ownership interest in a Lot. All memberships shall be appurtenant to the Lot conveyed, and cannot be transferred, assigned, conveyed, hypothecated, pledged, or alienated except as part of a transfer of the Owner's entire ownership interest, and then only to the transferee. Any transfer of the Owner's title to his or her Lot shall automatically transfer the appurtenant membership to the transferee.

Classes of Membership

Section 3.03. The Association shall have two classes of voting membership, as follows:

(a) All Owners, other than the Declarant, shall be Class A members. Class A membership entitles the holder to one vote for each Lot owned. When a Lot is owned by more than one person, only one vote may be cast for the Lot, as provided in Section 3.04(b) of this Declaration.

(b) The Declarant shall be the sole Class B member. The Class B member shall be entitled to three votes for each Lot owned. Class B membership shall cease and be converted to Class A membership upon the occurrence of whichever of the following is first in time:

[For a single-phase development, use:]

(1) The total outstanding votes of the Class A Owners equals or exceeds the total outstanding votes of the Class B member; or

[OR]

[For a multi-phase development, use:]

(1) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a Lot following the original issuance of the final subdivision

public report for the most recent phase of the Development; or

(2) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the fourth anniversary of the first conveyance of a Lot following the issuance of the final subdivision public report for the first phase of the Development.

[Continue with the following:]

Voting Rights

Section 3.04. All voting rights of the Owners shall be subject to the following restrictions, limitations, and requirements:

(a) Except as provided in this Article, on each matter submitted to a vote of the Owners, each Owner shall be entitled to cast one vote for each Lot owned.

(b) Fractional votes shall not be allowed. When there is more than one record Owner of a Lot ("co-owners"), all of the co-owners shall be Members, but only one of them shall be entitled to cast the single vote attributable to the Lot. Co-owners should designate in writing one of their number to vote. If no such designation is made or if it is revoked, the co-owners shall decide among themselves, by majority vote, how that Lot's vote is to be cast. Unless the Board receives a written objection in advance from a co-owner, it shall be conclusively presumed that the voting co-owner is acting with the consent of his or her co-owners. No vote shall be cast for the Lot on a particular matter if a majority of the co-owners present in person or by proxy cannot agree on a vote.

(c) Except as provided in Section 3.07(c) of this Declaration, governing the enforcement of certain bonded obligations, and Section 3.06 of the Bylaws, governing the removal of directors, as long as two classes of voting memberships exist, any provision of this Declaration, the Articles, or the Bylaws that requires the approval of a specified percentage of the voting power of the Association (rather than simply requiring the vote or written consent of a majority of a quorum) shall require the approval of the specified percentage of the voting power of each class of membership. Except as provided in Section 3.07(c) of this Declaration and Section 3.06 of the Bylaws, when the Class B membership has terminated, any provision of this Declaration, the Articles, or the Bylaws that requires the approval of a specified percentage of the voting power of the Association shall require the vote or written consent of Owners representing the specified percentage of both the total voting power of the Association and the voting power of the Association residing in Owners other than Declarant.

(d) The Board shall fix, in advance, a record date or dates for the purpose of determining the Owners entitled to notice of and to vote at any meeting of Members. The record date for notice of a meeting shall not be more than 90 or less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. The record date for voting shall not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting or before the date on which the first written ballot is mailed or solicited. The Board may also fix, in advance, a record date for the purpose of determining the Owners entitled to exercise any rights in connection with any other action. Any such date shall not be more than 60 days prior to the action.

(e) Every Owner entitled to vote at any election of the Directors may cumulate the Owner's votes and give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of Directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the Owner is entitled, or distribute the Owner's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the Owner thinks fit. No Owner shall be entitled to cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names have been placed in nomination prior to voting and an Owner has given notice at the meeting prior to the voting of the Owner's intention to cumulate votes. If any one Owner has given this notice, all Owners may cumulate their votes for candidates in nomination.

Membership Meetings

Section 3.05. Article II of the Bylaws governing meetings of the Members is hereby incorporated by reference.

General Powers and Authority

Section 3.06. The Association shall have all the powers of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation organized under the California Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, subject to any limitations set forth in this Declaration or in the Articles and Bylaws of the Association. It may perform all acts that may be necessary for or incidental to the performance of the obligations and duties imposed upon it by this Declaration or the other Governing Instruments. Its powers shall include, but are not limited to, the following:

(a) The Association shall have the power to establish, fix, levy, collect, and enforce the payment of assessments against the Owners in accordance with the procedures set out in Article IV of this Declaration.

(b) The Association shall have the power to adopt reasonable Rules and Regulations governing the use of the Common Area and its facilities, and of any other Association property. These Rules and Regulations may include, but are not limited to: reasonable restrictions on use by the Owners and their family, guests, employees, tenants, and invitees; rules of conduct; and the setting of reasonable fees for the use of recreational facilities. A copy of the current Rules and Regulations, if any, shall be given to each Owner and shall be posted at conspicuous places in the Common Area. If any provision of the Rules and Regulations conflicts with any provision of this Declaration, the Articles, or the Bylaws, the Declaration, Articles, or Bylaws shall control to the extent of the inconsistency.

(c) The Association shall have the right to institute, defend, settle, or intervene in litigation, arbitration, mediation, or administrative proceedings in its own name as the real party in interest and without joining with it the Owners, in matters pertaining to the following:

(1) Enforcement of this Declaration, the Articles, Bylaws, and Rules and Regulations.

(2) Damage to the Common Area.

(3) Damage to the Lots that the Association is obligated to maintain or repair.

(4) Damage to the Lots that arises out of, or is integrally related to, damage to the Common Area or Lots that the Association is obligated to maintain or repair.

The Association shall enforce payment of assessments in accordance with the provisions of Article IV of this Declaration.

(d) In addition to the general power of enforcement described above, the Association may discipline its Owners for violation of any of the provisions of the Governing Instruments or Rules and Regulations by suspending the violator's voting rights and privileges for use of the Common Area, or by imposing monetary penalties, subject to the following limitations:

(1) The accused Owner shall be given notice and an opportunity to be heard with regard to the alleged violation in accordance with the provisions of Corporations Code Section 7341 and Civil Code Section 1363(b).

(2) Any suspension of an Owner's association privileges shall not exceed _____ [insert number, e.g., 60] days for each violation.

(3) If the Association imposes a monetary penalty, the Board shall distribute to each Owner, by personal delivery or first-class mail, a schedule of the monetary penalties that may be assessed for those violations. [If desired, add: No monetary penalty imposed for these purposes shall exceed $ _____ for each violation.]

(4) Except as provided in Article IV of this Declaration, relating to foreclosure for failure to pay assessments, or as a result of the judgment of a court or a decision arising out of arbitration, the Association shall in no way abridge the right of any Owner to the full use and enjoyment of his or her Lot.

(e) The Association, acting through the Board, shall have the power to delegate its authority, duties, and responsibilities to its officers, employees, committees, or agents, including a professional management agent. The term of any agreement with a manager or the Declarant for the furnishing of maintenance, repair, and related services shall not exceed one year, renewable by agreement of the parties for successive one-year periods. Such an agreement shall be terminable by either party (1) for cause on 30 days' written notice, and (2) without cause or the payment of a termination fee on 90 days' written notice.

(f) The Association's agents or employees shall have the right to enter any Lot when necessary in connection with any maintenance, landscaping, or construction work for which the Association is responsible. This entry shall be made only upon notice to the Owner (except in the case of an emergency) and with as little inconvenience to the Owner as is practicable, and the Association shall repair any resulting damage at its own expense.

Section 3.07. In addition to the duties delegated to the Association or its agents and employees elsewhere in these Governing Instruments, the Association shall be responsible for the following:

(a) The Association, acting through the Board, shall operate, maintain, repair, and replace the Common Area and its improvements, [all landscaping, and the exterior surfaces of all structures in the Development,] or contract for the performance of that work, subject to the provisions of Article VIII of this Declaration relating to destruction of improvements, Article IX of this Declaration pertaining to eminent domain, [Section 2.06 of this Declaration governing damages caused by wood-destroying pests or organisms,] and Section 2.04(f) of this Declaration relating to damage caused by Owners. The foregoing areas and improvements shall be kept in a clean, sanitary, and attractive condition. The Association shall [also or not] be responsible for maintaining Exclusive Use Common Areas. The Association shall also have the exclusive right and duty to acquire and maintain any furnishings and equipment for the Common Area that it determines are necessary and proper. As a general rule, maintenance costs shall be included in the regular assessments. However, if additional work is required for a particular Lot, the expenses of that additional work shall be charged solely to the Owner of the Lot in the month in which the work is performed. [Add the following or an alternative allocation of responsibility for pest control costs (see Civ. Code § 1364): Further, the Owner of a Unit shall pay the costs of any temporary relocation of any occupant of the Unit occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms.] If the Owner does not pay for the additional work within _____ calendar days after receiving the bill, the Association shall institute appropriate collection actions and shall recover the reasonable costs of collection, including attorneys' fees and interest from the due date until paid at the rate of _____ percent per annum.

(b) The Association shall use the maintenance fund described in Section 4.01 of this Declaration to, among other things, acquire and pay for the following:

(1) Water, sewer, garbage, electrical, telephone, gas, elevator, and other necessary utility service for the Common Area and, to the extent not separately metered and charged, for the Lots;

(2) The insurance policies described in Article VII of this Declaration;

(3) The services of any personnel that the Board determines are necessary or proper for the operation of the Common Area; and

(4) Legal and accounting services necessary or proper in the operation of the Common Area or the enforcement of this Declaration.

(c) If the Association is obligee under a bond or other arrangement to secure the performance of Declarant as to any Common Area improvements that were not completed prior to the issuance of the final public report on the Development, the following procedures shall govern the initiation of action to enforce the bond:

(1) The Board of Directors of the Association shall consider and vote on the question of action by the Association to enforce the obligations under the bond with respect to any improvement for which a Notice of Completion has not been filed within 60 days after the completion date specified for the improvement in the Planned Construction Statement appended to the bond. If the Association has given an extension in writing for the completion of any Common Area improvement, the Board shall consider and vote on the above question if a Notice of Completion has not been filed within 30 days after the expiration of the extension.

(2) If the Board votes not to initiate action to enforce the obligations under the bond, or if it fails to consider and vote on the matter as required, a special meeting of the Owners of the Association shall be called for the purpose of overriding the Board's decision or for taking action on the matter, upon receipt of a petition calling for such a meeting signed by Owners representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the Association. The meeting shall be held not less than 35 days or more than 45 days after receipt of the petition by the Board. At the special meeting, only the Owners other than Declarant shall be allowed to vote on the matter. A vote by a majority of the voting power of the Association residing in Owners other than Declarant to take action to enforce the obligations under the bond shall be deemed to be the decision of the Association, and the Board shall implement this decision by initiating and pursuing appropriate action in the name of the Association.

(d) The Association shall prepare a pro forma operating budget for each fiscal year, and shall distribute a copy of the budget to each Owner not less than 45 and not more than 60 days before the beginning of the fiscal year. As an alternative to the foregoing distribution of the budget, the Association may elect to do all of the following in the manner required by statute: distribute a summary of the budget to each Owner, make the budget available for inspection at a designated location, and provide copies of the budget to Owners on request and at the expense of the Association. The budget shall contain at least the following:

(1) The estimated revenue and expenses on an accrual basis.

(2) A summary (printed in bold type) of the Association's reserves that is based on the most recent review or study conducted pursuant to Civil Code Section 1365.5. This summary shall include the following:

(i) the current estimated replacement cost, estimated remaining life, and estimated useful life of each major component that the Association is obligated to maintain (hereafter referred to as the "major components");

(ii) the current estimate, as of the end of the fiscal year for which the study is prepared, of the amount of cash reserves necessary to repair, replace, restore, or maintain the major components;

(iii) the current amount, as of the end of the fiscal year for which the study is prepared, of accumulated cash reserves actually set aside to repair, replace, restore, or maintain the major components; and

(iv) the percentage that the amount described in (iii), above, is of the amount determined for purposes of (ii), above (that is, the percentage obtained by dividing the amount described in (iii), above, by the amount described in (ii), above).

(3) A statement as to whether the Board has determined or anticipates that the levy of one or more special assessments will be required to repair, replace, or restore any major component or to provide adequate reserves for such work.

(4) A general statement addressing the procedures used for the calculation and establishment of reserves to defray the future repair, replacement, or additions to the major components.

(e) Within 120 days after the close of each fiscal year, the Association shall prepare and distribute to the Owners an annual report consisting of the following:

(1) A balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year.

(2) An operating (income) statement for the fiscal year.

(3) A statement of changes in financial position for the fiscal year.

(4) For any fiscal year in which the gross income to the Association exceeds $75,000, a copy of the review of the annual report prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles by a licensee of the California State Board of Accountancy. If this report is not prepared by an independent accountant, it shall be accompanied by the certificate of an authorized officer of the Association that the statement was prepared without independent audit or review from the books and records of the Association.

(f) Within 60 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, the Association shall prepare and distribute to the Owners a statement describing the Association's policies and practices in enforcing lien rights or other legal remedies for default in payment of assessments against Owners.

(g) The Association shall prepare a balance sheet, as of an accounting date that is the last day of the month closest in time to six months from the date of closing of the first sale of a Lot in the Development, and an operating statement for the period from the date of the first closing to the foregoing accounting date. The Association shall distribute this statement to the Owners within 60 days after the accounting date. This operating statement shall include a schedule of assessments received and receivable identified by the number of the Lot and the name of the Owner assessed.

(h) Each year, the Association must provide the Owners with a summary of the provisions of Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590. These statutes require that alternative dispute resolution be pursued before a civil action may be filed in connection with certain disputes related to enforcement of the governing documents, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.), or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.). The required summary must include a specific reference to Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590, and the statutory language set forth in Civil Code Section 1369.590(a). This summary must be provided either (1) at the time the pro forma operating budget described in Section 3.07(d) of this Declaration is distributed, or (2) in the manner specified in Corporations Code Section 5016.

(i) The Association shall provide any Owner with the following documents within 10 days of the mailing or delivery of a written request therefor:

(1) A copy of the Governing Instruments.

(2) A copy of the most recent financial statement distributed pursuant to Section 3.07(d) of this Declaration.

(3) A written statement from an authorized representative of the Association specifying (i) the amount of any assessments levied on the Owner's Lot that are unpaid on the date of the statement; and (ii) the amount of late charges, interest, and costs of collection that, as of the date of the statement, are or may be made a lien on the Owner's Lot pursuant to Section 4.09 of this Declaration. The Association may charge the Owner a reasonable fee to cover its cost to prepare and reproduce those requested items.

(j) The Association shall pay all real and personal property taxes and assessments levied against it, its personal property, the Common Area, and Exclusive Use Common Areas.

Board of Directors

Section 3.08. The affairs of the Association shall be managed and its duties and obligations performed by an elected Board of Directors, as provided in Article III of the Bylaws, which is hereby incorporated by reference.

Inspection of Books and Records

Section 3.09. Article XI of the Bylaws, governing the duty of the Associationto maintain certain books and records and the rights of Owners and Directors to obtain and inspect those books and records, is hereby incorporated by reference.

Resolution of Disputes

Section 3.10. As required by Civil Code Section 1363.820(a), the Association shall offer a fair, reasonable, and expeditious procedure for resolving any dispute between the Association and a member involving their rights, duties, or liabilities under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.), or under the Association's governing documents. This dispute resolution procedure is supplementary to the alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civil Code Section 1369.510 et seq. as a prerequisite to commencing civil action. The dispute resolution procedure shall consist of the following:

(a) Either party may initiate the procedure by making a written request to the other party to meet and confer in an effort to resolve the dispute. If the request is by the Association, the member may refuse to participate. If the request is by a member, however, the Association may not refuse to participate.

(b) Within 5 days of the written request, the Board of Directors shall designate a member of the Board to meet and confer with the other party.

(c) Within 10 days of the Board member's designation, the parties shall meet at a mutually convenient time and place, explain their positions to each other, and confer in good faith in an effort to resolve the dispute.

(d) If the parties reach agreement on a resolution of the dispute, that resolution shall be memorialized in writing and signed by the parties with the Board designee signing on behalf of the Association.

(e) An agreement reached by the parties is binding on them and may be judicially enforced provided the agreement is consistent with the authority granted by the Board of Directors to its designee, and further provided the agreement is not in conflict with law or the Association's governing documents.

(f) A member of the Association may not be charged a fee to participate in the dispute resolution procedure.

ARTICLE IV. ASSESSMENTS AND COLLECTION PROCEDURES

Covenant to Pay

Section 4.01. The Declarant covenants and agrees, for each Lot owned by it in the Development, and each Owner by acceptance of the deed to the Owner's Lot is deemed to covenant and agree, to pay to the Association the regular and special assessments levied pursuant to the provisions of this Declaration. A regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable costs of collection, and interest, as assessed in accordance with the provisions of this Article, shall be a debt of the Owner of the Lot at the time the assessment or other sums are levied. The Owner may not waive or otherwise escape liability for these assessments by nonuse of the Common Area or abandonment of the Owner's Lot.

Exemptions From Assessments

Section 4.02. The obligation to pay assessments shall be subject to the following exemptions:

(a) Any Owner (including Declarant) of a Lot in the Development that does not include a structural improvement for human occupancy shall be exempted from that portion of any assessment that is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and the use of those structural improvements. This exemption shall include, but is not limited to, the following:

(1) Roof replacement;

(2) Exterior maintenance;

(3) Walkway and carport lighting;

(4) Refuse disposal;

(5) Cable television; and

(6) Domestic water supplied to living units.

Any such exemption shall be in effect only until the occurrence of the earliest of the following events: (1) the recordation of a notice of completion of the structural improvement; (2) the occupation or use of the structural improvement; or (3) completion of all elements of the residential structures that the Association is obliged to maintain.

(b) Any Owner (including Declarant) of a Lot in the Development shall be exempted from that portion of any assessment that is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and use of a common facility that is not complete at the time the assessment commences. This exemption shall be in effect only until a notice of completion of the common facility is recorded or the common facility is placed into use, whichever occurs first.

Purpose of Assessments

Section 4.03. The assessments levied by the Association shall be usedexclusively to promote the recreation, health, safety, and welfare of the Owners, for the operation, replacement, improvement, and maintenance of the Property, and to discharge any other obligations of the Association under this Declaration. All assessment payments shall be put into a maintenance fund to be used for the foregoing purposes.

Assessment Period

Section 4.04. The fiscal year for the Association shall be a calendar year, unless the Board decides otherwise. The regular assessment period shall commence on January 1 and terminate on December 31 of each year; provided, however, that the first regular assessment period for all Lots _____ [in the Development or, if annexation is anticipated: in a phase of development] shall commence on the _____ [date of the first conveyance of a Lot in the _____ (Development or phase) or first day of the month following the conveyance of a Lot in the _____ (Development or phase)], and shall terminate on December 31 of that year.

Regular Assessments

Section 4.05. Within 60 days prior to the beginning of each fiscal year of the Association, the Board shall estimate the net charges to be paid during that year, including a reasonable provision for contingencies and replacements, with adjustments made for any expected income and surplus from the prior year's fund. The estimated cash requirement shall be assessed to each Owner according to the ratio of the number of Lots owned by the Owner assessed to the total number of Lots in the Development subject to assessment. Regular assessments for fractions of any month shall be prorated. Each Owner is obligated to pay assessments to the Board in equal monthly installments on or before the first day of each month unless the Board adopts an alternative method for payment. Declarant shall pay its full prorated share of the regular assessments on any unsold Lots subject to regular assessments.

Special Assessments

Section 4.06. If the Board determines that the amount to be collected from regular assessments will be inadequate to defray the common expenses for the year due to the cost of any construction, unexpected repairs or replacements of capital improvements upon the Common Area, or any other reason, it shall make a special assessment for the additional amount needed. [The Board shall also levy a special assessment for any pest-control work necessary to repair any damage to improvements located on a Lot in the Development occasioned by the presence on that Lot of wood-destroying organisms, as provided in Section 2.06 of this Declaration.] Special assessments shall be levied and collected in the same manner as regular assessments.

Limitations on Assessments

Section 4.07. The Board shall comply with the following requirements governing the imposition and amounts of assessments:

(a) For any fiscal year, the Board may impose a regular assessment per Lot that is as much as 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the preceding fiscal year, provided (1) the Board has distributed the pro forma operating budget described in Section 3.07(d) for the current fiscal year or (2) the increase is approved by Owners constituting a majority of the votes at a meeting or in an election of the Association conducted in accordance with Corporations Code Sections 7510-7527 and 7613.

(b) The Board may impose, for any fiscal year, a regular assessment per Lot that is more than 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the preceding fiscal year, or may levy special assessments that in the aggregate exceed 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year, provided the increase or levy is approved by Owners constituting a majority of the Owners of the Association and casting a majority of the votes at a meeting or election of the Association conducted in accordance with Corporations Code Sections 7510-7527 and 7613.

(c) The Board may, without complying with the foregoing requirements, make an assessment increase that is necessary for an emergency situation. An emergency situation is an extraordinary expense that is:

(1) Required by a court order.

(2) Necessary to repair or maintain the Development or any part of it for which the Association is responsible when a threat to personal safety in the Development is discovered.

(3) Necessary to repair or maintain the Development or any part of it for which the Association is responsible that could not have been reasonably foreseen by the Board in preparing and distributing the pro forma operating budget pursuant to Section 3.07(d).

(4) Incurred in making the first payment of the earthquake insurance surcharge pursuant to Insurance Code Section 5003.

Before the Board may impose or collect an assessment in the type of emergency situation described in (3), above, it shall pass a resolution containing written findings as to the necessity of the extraordinary expense and why the expense was not or could not have been reasonably foreseen in the budgeting process, and shall distribute the resolution to the Owners with the notice of assessment.

(d) The Board shall notify the Owners in writing of any increase in the amount of a regular or special assessment. The Board shall provide this notice byfirst-class mail not less than 30 or more than 60 days prior to the due date of the increased assessment.

Late Charges

4.08. Late charges may be levied by the Association against an Owner for the delinquent payment of regular or special assessments. An assessment is delinquent 15 days after its due date. If an assessment is delinquent the Association may recover all of the following from the Owner:

(a) Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent assessment, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

(b) A late charge not exceeding 10 percent [or specify lower rate] of the delinquent assessment or $10, whichever is greater [or specify lower charge].

(c) Interest on the foregoing sums, at an annual percentage rate of 12 percent [or specify lower rate], commencing 30 days after the assessment becomes due.

No late charge may be imposed more than once for the delinquency of the same payment. However, the imposition of a late charge on any delinquent payment shall not eliminate or supersede charges imposed on prior delinquent payments.

Enforcement of Assessments and Late Charges

Section 4.09. At least 30 days before the Association can place a lien on a Lot for a past due debt for a regular or special assessment, the Association must notify the Owner by certified mail of the following:

(a) A general description of the Association's collection and lien enforcement procedures.

(b) The method of calculation of the amount due.

(c) A statement that the Owner has the right to inspect the Association records.

(d) A statement informing the Owner that the Owner's Lot may be subject to foreclosure and sale without court action.

(e) An itemized statement of the charges owed by the Owner, including items on the statement that indicate the amount of any delinquent assessments, the fees and reasonable costs of collection, reasonable attorney's fees, and any late charges and interest.

(f) A statement that the Owner will not be liable to pay the charges, interest, and costs of collection, if it is determined the assessment was paid on time.

(g) The Owner's right to request a meeting with the Board if the Owner disputes the debt.

An Owner may dispute the debt by submitting to the Board a written explanation within 15 days of the mailing of the Association's notice. The Board must respond to an Owner's timely explanation within 15 days of the mailing of the Owner's explanation.

An Owner also may submit a written request to meet with the Board to discuss a payment plan for the debt. The request must be mailed within 15 days of the mailing of the Board's notice. The Board must then meet with the Owner in executive session within 45 days of the mailing of the Owner's request. If there is no regularly scheduled Board meeting within that time period, the Board may designate a committee of one or more members to meet with the Owner.

Any partial payments made toward the debt will first be applied to the assessments owed, and only after the principal owed is paid in full will the payments be applied to the fees and costs of collection, attorneys' fees, late charges, or interest. When an Owner makes a payment, the Owner may request a receipt and the Association shall provide it. The receipt shall indicate the date of payment and the person who received it. The Association shall provide a mailing address for overnight payment of assessments.

A debt for a delinquent regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable fees and costs of collection, reasonable attorneys' fees, and interest shall become a lien on the Lot when a notice of delinquent assessment is duly recorded and mailed as provided in Section 1367.1 of the California Civil Code.

Except as provided below regarding debts arising from delinquent assessments when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, any such lien may be enforced in any manner permitted by law, including judicial foreclosure or nonjudicial foreclosure. Any nonjudicial foreclosure shall be conducted by the trustee named in the notice of delinquent assessment or by a trustee substituted pursuant to Section 2934a of the California Civil Code, in accordance with the provisions of Sections 2924, 2924b, and 2924c of the California Civil Code.

If the sums specified in the notice of delinquent assessment are paid before the completion of any judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure, the Association shall record a notice of satisfaction and release of the lien. On receipt of a written request by the Owner, the Association shall also record a notice of rescission of any declaration of default and demand for sale.

In accordance with Section 1367.4 of the California Civil Code, a lien securing a debt arising from a delinquent regular or special assessment when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, and interest, shall not be enforced by judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure unless and until either (1) the debt equals or exceeds $1,800,excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, and interest, or (2) the debt secured by the lien is more than 12 months delinquent.

Statement Regarding Assessments

Section 4.10. The Association shall provide any Owner, upon written request, with a statement specifying (1) the amounts of the Association's current regular and special assessments and fees, and (2) the amounts of any delinquent assessments and related late charges, interest, and costs levied against the Owner's Lot, as provided in Section 4.08 of this Declaration.

ARTICLE V. USE RESTRICTIONS AND COVENANTS

General Restrictions on Use

Section 5.01. In exercising the right to occupy or use a Lot or the Common Area and its improvements, the Owner and the Owner's family, guests, employees, tenants, and invitees shall not do any of the following:

(a) Attempt to further subdivide a Lot without obtaining the prior approval of the Association.

(b) Occupy or use a Lot, or permit all or any part of a Lot to be occupied or used, for any purpose other than as a private residence. Nothing in this Declaration shall prevent an Owner from leasing or renting out his or her Lot, provided that it is not for transient or hotel purposes, is for a period of at least 60 days, and is subject to the Governing Instruments.

(c) Permit anything to obstruct the Common Area or store anything in the Common Area without the prior consent of the Board, except as otherwise provided in the Governing Instruments.

(d) Perform any act or keep anything on or in any Lot or Exclusive Use Common Area or in the Common Area that will increase the rate of insurance on the Common Area without the Board's prior written consent. Further, no Owner shall permit anything to be done or kept in his or her Lot, in any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Lot, or in the Common Area that would result in the cancellation of insurance on any Lot or Exclusive Use Common Area or on any part of the Common Area or that would violate any law.

(e) Store gasoline, kerosene, cleaning solvents, or other flammable liquids in the Common Area or on any Lot; provided, however, that reasonable amounts of these liquids may be placed in metal containers and stored in the storage spaces.

(f) Display any sign to the public view on or from any Lot or the Common Area without the prior written consent of the Board, except a sign advertising the property for sale, lease, or exchange, or advertising directions to the property, as provided in Section 712 of the California Civil Code.

(g) Raise, breed, or keep animals, livestock, or poultry of any kind on a Lot or in the Common Area, except dogs, cats, or other household pets, which may be kept on Lots, subject to the Rules and Regulations.

(h) Engage in any noxious or offensive activity in any part of the Development.

(i) Alter or modify the exterior of any improvements located on a Lot without first obtaining the written consent of the Architectural Control Committee.

(j) Install a solar energy system in a Unit owned by another without first obtaining the written consent of the Architectural Control Committee.

(k) Alter, construct, or remove anything on or from the Common Area, except upon the written consent of the Board.

(l) Park any automobile or other motor vehicle in the Common Area or in any Exclusive Use Common Area except in a space designated for the Owner by the Board or the Governing Instruments.

Damage Liability

Section 5.02. Each Owner shall be liable to the Association for all damage to the Common Area or other Association property that is sustained by reason of the negligence or willful misconduct of that Owner or his or her family, guests, employees, tenants, and invitees [add if applicable:, to the extent that the damage is not covered by the casualty insurance obtained and maintained by the Association pursuant to Section 7.01 of this Declaration. Each Owner, by accepting his or her deed, agrees to provide insurance to the extent required by Section 7.05 of this Declaration].

Exemption

Section 5.03. Declarant shall be exempt from the restrictions of Section 5.01 to the extent necessary to complete any construction work, sales activities, or additions to or affecting the Development. This exemption includes, but is not limited to, maintaining Lots as model homes, placing advertising signs on Development property, and generally using Lots and the Common Area to carry on construction activity.

Equitable Servitudes

Section 5.04. The covenants and restrictions set forth in this Declaration shall be enforceable equitable servitudes and shall inure to the benefit of and bind all Owners. These servitudes may be enforced by _____ [any Owner or by the Association or by both or set forth alternative enforcement provision].

ARTICLE VI. ARCHITECTURAL AND DESIGN CONTROL

Architectural and Design Approval

Section 6.01. No building, addition, wall, fence, or alteration shall be begun,constructed, maintained, or permitted to remain on any Lot, or on the Common Area, until complete plans and specifications of the proposed work have been submitted to and approved by the Architectural Control Committee. The Committee shall review the plans and specifications to determine whether they are compatible with the standards of design, construction, and quality of the Development and, if they are not, shall require that changes be made before approval.

Architectural Control Committee

Section 6.02. The Architectural Control Committee shall consist of [specify number, which must be at least three but not more than five] members, formed as follows:

(a) The Declarant shall appoint all of the original members and all replacements until the first anniversary of the issuance of the original final public report for the [add if development is to be developed in phases: first phase of the] Development. Further, Declarant may reserve the power to appoint a majority of the Committee until 90 percent of all Lots have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Development, whichever occurs first. After one year from the date of the issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Development, the Board shall have the right to appoint one member to the Committee, until 90 percent of the Lots have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Development, whichever occurs first. Thereafter, the Board shall have the right to appoint all of the members of the Committee.

(b) Members appointed to the Committee by the Board shall be Members of the Association. Members appointed to the Committee by the Declarant need not be Members of the Association.

(c) The term of the initial appointees shall be one year. Thereafter, members shall serve two-year terms unless it becomes necessary to remove members appointed by Declarant in order to comply with Section 6.02(a), in which case the terms of all members shall end at that time, and the Board shall appoint a new Committee. Notwithstanding the above, all members of the Committee shall serve at the will of the party that appointed them, and may be removed by that party at any time with or without cause.

(d) The Committee shall meet as often as it deems necessary to carry out the obligations imposed on it properly, unless otherwise directed by the Board.

The Board of Directors

Section 6.03. All decisions of the Architectural Control Committee are subject to review by the Board of Directors and may be appealed to the Board. The Committee shall notify the Board of all violations of this Article and of any noncompliance with its rulings or with the plans and specifications submitted to and approved by it. Thereafter, the Board shall take any actions it deems necessary, in accordance with the provisions of this Declaration.

ARTICLE VII. INSURANCE

Fire and Casualty Insurance

Section 7.01. The Association shall obtain and maintain a policy or policies of fire and casualty insurance with an extended coverage endorsement for the full insurable replacement value of the improvements in the _____ [Common Area or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: Development]. The amount of coverage shall be determined by the Board. This insurance shall be maintained for the benefit of the Association, the Owners, and their Mortgagees, as their interests may appear as named insured, subject, however, to any loss payment requirements set forth in this Declaration.

General Liability and Individual Liability Insurance

Section 7.02. The Association shall obtain and maintain one or more policies of insurance that must include coverage for (1) general liability of the Association and (2) individual liability of Officers and Directors of the Association for negligent acts or omissions in that capacity. Both of the above types of coverage shall not be less than _____ [select the appropriate provision below (see Civ. Code §§ 1365.7, 1365.9, applicable to development that is exclusively residential)]

[If development consists of 100 or fewer lots:]

$1,000,000 covering all claims for death, personal injury, and property damage arising out of a single occurrence.

[Or, if development consists of more than 100 lots:]

$3,000,000 covering all claims for death, personal injury, and property damage arising out of a single occurrence.

[Continue with the following:]

The limits and coverage shall be reviewed at least annually by the Board and increased in its discretion.

Other Association Insurance

Section 7.03. The Association shall purchase and maintain workers' compensation insurance to the extent necessary to comply with any applicable laws. The Association also shall purchase and maintain fidelity bond coverage that names the Association as an obligee, for any person or entity handling funds of theAssociation, whether or not such persons or entities are compensated for their services. This coverage shall be in an amount that is at least equal to the estimated maximum of funds, including reserve funds, in the custody of the Association [or the Manager] at any given time during the term of each bond. However, the aggregate amount of these bonds must not be less than 150 percent of each year's estimated annual operating expenses and reserves. The Association also may purchase and maintain a blanket policy of flood insurance, and demolition insurance in an amount that is sufficient to cover any demolition that occurs following the total or partial destruction of the Development and a decision not to rebuild.

Trustee for Policies

Section 7.04. The Association, acting through its Board, is hereby appointed and shall be deemed trustee of the interests of all named insureds under all insurance policies purchased and maintained by the Association. All insurance proceeds under any of those policies shall be paid to the Board as trustee. The Board shall use the proceeds for any of the purposes specified in Article VIII of this Declaration. The Board also is authorized to negotiate loss settlements with the appropriate insurance carriers, to compromise and settle any claim or enforce any claim by any lawful action, and to execute loss claim forms and release forms in connection with such settlements.

[Choose one of the following paragraphs:]

[If association will maintain blanket casualty insurance, use:]

Individual Insurance

Section 7.05. No Owner shall obtain or maintain fire and casualty insurance for the improvements on the Owner's Lot. If an Owner does so, he or she shall be liable to the Association for any resulting reduction in the insurance proceeds payable under the policy or policies of fire and casualty insurance maintained by the Association pursuant to Section 7.01. Notwithstanding the above, an Owner may separately insure his or her personal property, and may obtain and maintain personal liability and property damage liability insurance for his or her Lot, provided that the insurance contains a waiver of subrogation rights by the carrier as to the other Owners, the Association, Declarant, and the institutional First Mortgagee of the Owner's Lot.

[OR]

[If association will not maintain blanket casualty insurance, use:]

Individual Insurance

Section 7.05. Each Owner shall provide fire and casualty insurance for the improvements on his or her Lot. An Owner may separately insure his or her personal property, and may obtain and maintain personal liability and property damage liability insurance for his or her Lot, provided that the insurance contains a waiver of subrogation rights by the carrier as to the other Owners, the Association, Declarant, and the institutional First Mortgagees of the Owner's Lot.

[Continue with the following:]

Insurance Premiums

Section 7.06. Insurance premiums for any insurance coverage obtained by the Association shall be included in the regular assessments. That portion of the regular assessments necessary for the required insurance premiums shall be used solely for the payment of the premiums when due.

ARTICLE VIII. DAMAGE OR DESTRUCTION

Duty to Restore and Replace

Section 8.01. If any of the improvements in the _____ [Common Area or, if the association will maintain blanket casualty insurance over all improvements, Development] are destroyed or damaged, the Association shall restore and replace the improvements, using the proceeds of insurance maintained pursuant to Article VII of this Declaration, subject to the provisions of this Article.

Proceeds Justifying Automatic Restoration and Repair

Section 8.02. If the proceeds of any insurance maintained pursuant to Article VII of this Declaration for reconstruction or repair of the Property are equal to at least _____ [specify, e.g., 85] percent of the estimated cost of restoration and repair, the Board shall use the insurance proceeds for that purpose, shall levy a special assessment to provide the necessary additional funds, and shall have the improvements promptly rebuilt, unless the Owners by the vote or written consent of not less than _____ [specify, e.g., 75] percent of the total voting power of each class of Owners object to the restoration or repair work within _____ [specify, e.g., 60] days of the damage or destruction.

Approval by Owners of Special Assessment for Certain Restorations and Repairs

Section 8.03. If the proceeds of any insurance maintained pursuant to Article VII of this Declaration for reconstruction or repair of the Property are less than _____ [repeat percentage set forth in (a), above, e.g., 85] percent of the estimated cost of restoration and repair, any restoration and repair work must be authorized by the vote or written consent of Owners representing at least _____ [specify, e.g., 75] percent of the total voting power of each class of Owners and beneficiaries of at least _____ [specify, e.g., 75] percent of the First Mortgages on Lots in the Development. This authorization must be given within _____ [specify, e.g., 60] days of the damage or destruction and must authorizethe Board to levy a special assessment to provide the necessary funds over and above the amount of any insurance proceeds available for the work.

Section 8.04. If reconstruction or repair work is to take place pursuant to this Article, the Board shall take the following steps:

(a) Prepare the necessary documents, including an executed and acknowledged certificate stating that damage has occurred, describing it, identifying the improvement suffering the damage, the name of any insurer against whom claim is made, and the name of any insurance trustee, stating (if applicable) that the consent described in Section 8.03 has been obtained, and reciting that the certificate is recorded pursuant to this paragraph. That declaration shall be recorded with the Recorder of _____ County within _____ [specify, e.g., 90 days] from the date of the damage or destruction.

(b) Obtain firm bids (including the obligation to obtain a performance bond) from two or more responsible contractors to rebuild the Development in accordance with its original plans and specifications and, as soon as possible thereafter, call a special meeting of the voting Owners to consider the bids. If the Board fails to do so within 60 days after the casualty occurs, any Owner may obtain the bids and call and conduct the special meeting in the manner required by this paragraph. At the meeting, Owners representing at least 67 percent of the total voting power may elect to reject all of the bids and thus not to rebuild, or Owners representing at least 51 percent of the total voting power may elect to reject all bids requiring amounts exceeding the available insurance proceeds by more than $500. Failure to reject all bids shall authorize the Board to accept the unrejected bid it considers most favorable. Failure to call the special meeting or to repair the casualty damage within 12 months from the date the damage occurred shall be deemed for all purposes to be a decision not to rebuild.

(c) If a bid is accepted, the Board shall let the contract to the successful bidder and distribute the insurance proceeds to the contractor as required by the contract.

(d) Levy a special assessment to make up any deficiency between the total insurance proceeds and the contract price for the repair or rebuilding, with the assessment and all insurance proceeds, whether or not subject to liens of mortgagees, to be used solely for the rebuilding. This assessment shall be apportioned _____ [equally to each Lot or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: equally to each Lot for any damage or destruction to the Common Area. For any damage or destruction to improvements on one or more Lots, every Owner shall pay a proportionate share based on the relative square footage of the living area]. If any Owner fails to pay the special assessment within 15 days after it is levied, the Board shall enforce the assessment in the manner described in Section 4.09 of this Declaration.

Election Not to Rebuild

Section 8.05. Upon an election not to rebuild, the Board, as soon as reasonably possible and as agent for the Owners, shall execute and record a certificate stating that the Association shall not rebuild. The Board shall also sell the entire Development on terms acceptable to the Board and free from the effect of this Declaration, which shall terminate upon the sale. The net proceeds shall then be distributed to the Owners and their respective Mortgagees proportionately according to the respective fair market values of the Lots at the time of the destruction as determined by an independent appraisal. That appraisal shall be performed by an independent appraiser who shall be selected by the Association and who shall be a member of, and apply the standards of, a nationally recognized appraiser organization.

All insurance proceeds available for restoration or repair shall be distributed to the Owners _____ [equally or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance, as follows: proceeds for damage or destruction to Lots shall be distributed to the Owners of the damaged Lots according to the relative fair market value of the Lots. This value shall be as of the date immediately preceding the damage or destruction, and shall be determined by an appraisal by an independent appraiser who shall be selected in the manner described above. Any proceeds from damage or destruction to the Common Area shall be distributed to the Owners equally].

Minor Restoration and Repair Work

Section 8.06. The Association shall order restoration or repair work without complying with the other provisions of this Article whenever the estimated cost of the work does not exceed _____ [$_____ (e.g., 18,000) or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: $_____ (e.g., 15,000) for the Common Area and $_____ (e.g., 3,000) for one or more Lots]. If insurance proceeds are unavailable or insufficient, the Association shall levy a special assessment for the cost of the work. The Assessment shall be levied in the manner described in Section 4.05 of this Declaration.

ARTICLE IX. EMINENT DOMAIN

Sale to Condemning Authority

Section 9.01. If a governmental agency proposes to condemn all or a portion of the Common Area, the Association may sell all or any portion of the Common Area to the condemning authority if _____ percent of the Owners and _____ percent of all institutional First Mortgagees approve the sale in advance. Any such sale shall be made by the Association in the capacity of attorney-in-fact for the Owners, acting under an irrevocable power of attorney which each Owner grants to the Association by accepting a deed to a Lot. The sales price shall be anyamount deemed reasonable by the Board.

Distribution of Sales Proceeds

Section 9.02. The proceeds of a sale conducted pursuant to Section 9.01 shall be distributed equally to the Owners and their Mortgagees, as their interests may appear.

Taking and Condemnation Awards

Section 9.03. If there is a taking by a governmental agency of all or any portion of the Common Areas, the condemnation award shall be distributed to all Owners and their respective Mortgagees in accordance with the court judgment, if any such judgment exists. In all other cases, the proceeds shall be distributed among the Owners and their respective Mortgagees as their interests may appear.

ARTICLE X. RIGHTS OF MORTGAGEES

Warranty

Section 10.01. Declarant hereby warrants that Mortgagees of Lots in the Development shall be entitled to the rights and guaranties set forth in this Article. No amendment of this Article shall affect the rights of the holder of any First Mortgage recorded prior to the recordation of the amendment who does not join in the execution of the amendment.

Subordination

Section 10.02. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, liens created under Section 4.09 of this Declaration upon any Lot shall be subject and subordinate to, and shall not affect the rights of the holder of, the indebtedness secured by any recorded First Mortgage upon such an interest made in good faith and for value, provided that any transfer of a Lot as the result of a foreclosure or exercise of a power of sale shall not relieve the new Owner from liability for assessments that become due after the transfer. Such a transfer shall extinguish the lien of assessments that were due and payable prior to the transfer of the Lot.

Inapplicability of Right of First Refusal

Section 10.03. Should any of the Association's Governing Instruments provide for a "right of first refusal," this right shall not impair the rights of a First Mortgagee to:

(a) Foreclose or take title to a Lot pursuant to the remedies provided in the Mortgage;

(b) Accept a deed (or assignment) in lieu of foreclosure in the event of default by a Mortgagor; or

(c) Interfere with a subsequent sale or lease of a Lot so acquired by the Mortgagee.

Notice of Default

Section 10.04. A First Mortgagee, upon request, shall be entitled to written notification from the Association of any default in the performance by the Mortgagor of any obligation under the Association's Governing Instruments that is not cured within 60 days.

Unpaid Assessments

Section 10.05. Any First Mortgagee who obtains title to a Lot pursuant to the remedies provided in the Mortgage or foreclosure of the Mortgage shall not be liable for the Lot's unpaid assessments that accrue prior to the acquisition of title to the Lot by the Mortgagee.

Mortgagee Approval of Material Amendments

Section 10.06. Notwithstanding Article XII of this Declaration, any amendments governing any of the following shall require the prior written approval of at least 51 percent of the First Mortgagees and at least 67 percent of the total voting power of the Owners:

(a) Voting;

(b) Rights to use the Common Area;

(c) Reserves and responsibility for maintenance, repair, and replacement of the Common Area;

(d) Boundaries of any Lot;

(e) Owners' interests in the Common Area;

(f) Convertibility of Lots into Common Area or Common Area into Lots;

(g) Leasing of Lots;

(h) Establishment of self-management by the Association, when professional management has been previously required by any First Mortgagee or any insurer or governmental guarantor of a First Mortgage;

(i) Annexation, addition, or withdrawal of real property to or from the Development;

(j) Assessments, assessment liens, or the subordination of these liens;

(k) Casualty and liability insurance or fidelity bonds; or

(l) Any provisions expressly benefitting First Mortgagees or insurers or governmental guarantors of First Mortgages.

Notwithstanding the above, any First Mortgagee who receives a written request from the Board to approve a proposed amendment or amendments requiringconsent under this Section who does not deliver a negative response to the Board within 30 days of the receipt of the request shall be deemed to have approved the proposed amendment or amendments.

Mortgagee Approval of Other Actions

Section 10.07. Unless at least 67 percent of the First Mortgagees (based upon one vote for each First Mortgage owned), or 67 percent of the Lot Owners other than Declarant, have given their prior written approval, the Association shall not be entitled to:

(a) By act or omission, seek to abandon or terminate the Development;

(b) Change the pro rata interest or obligations of any individual Lot for either of the following purposes, unless the change is due to an annexation pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration:

(1) Levying assessments or charges, or allocating distributions of hazard insurance proceeds or condemnation awards; or

(2) Determining the pro rata share of ownership of each Lot in the Common Area and the improvements thereon.

(c) Partition or subdivide any Lot;

(d) By act or omission, seek to abandon, partition, subdivide, encumber, sell, or transfer the Common Area unless due to an annexation pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration (the granting of easements for public utilities or for other public purposes consistent with the intended use of the Common Area shall not be deemed a transfer within the meaning of this clause);

(e) Use hazard insurance proceeds for losses to any Development property (whether to Lots or to the Common Area) for other than the repair, replacement, or reconstruction of that property, except as provided by statute in case of substantial loss to the Lots and/or Common Area of the Development.

Liens

Section 10.08. All taxes, assessments, and charges that may become liens prior to the First Mortgage under local law, shall relate only to the individual Lots and not to the Development as a whole.

Priority

Section 10.09. No provision of the Governing Instruments gives any Owner, or any other party, priority over any rights of the First Mortgagee of the Lot pursuant to its Mortgage in the case of a distribution to the Lot Owner of insurance proceeds or condemnation awards for losses to, or a taking of, all or a portion of a Lot or Lots and/or the Common Area.

Reserve Fund

Section 10.10. Association assessments shall be large enough to provide for an adequate reserve fund for maintenance, repairs, and replacement of those common elements that must be replaced on a periodic basis. The reserve fund shall be funded by the regular assessments rather than by special assessments.

Management

Section 10.11. Any agreement for professional management of the Development shall not exceed three years and shall provide that either party may terminate the agreement, with or without cause and without the imposition of a termination fee, on 90 days written notice. The approval of holders of at least 75 percent of First Mortgages shall be obtained before the Association terminates a professional management agreement.

Right to Inspect Books and Records

Section 10.12. Institutional First Mortgagees, upon written request, shall have the right to (1) examine the books and records of the Association during normal business hours; and (2) require the submission of any financial data furnished to the Owners by the Association.

[Include the following provision if any part of the common area is owned by the owners' association:]

Payments by Mortgagees

Section 10.13. First Mortgagees may, jointly or severally, pay taxes or other charges that are in default and that may or have become a charge against the Common Area, and may pay any overdue premiums on hazard insurance policies, or secure new hazard insurance coverage upon the lapse of a policy, for the Common Area, and First Mortgagees making these payments shall be entitled to immediate reimbursement from the Association.

Right to Furnish Mortgage Information

Section 10.14. Each Owner hereby authorizes the First Mortgagee of a First Mortgage on the Owner's Lot to furnish information to the Board concerning the status of the First Mortgage and the loan that it secures.

ARTICLE XI. ANNEXATION OF ADDITIONAL PROPERTY

Additions by Declarant

Section 11.01. Declarant shall have the right to add all or any portion of the real property described in Exhibit [specify number of exhibit containing legal description of property to be annexed] to the Development, pursuant to a plan ofphased development submitted to the California Real Estate Commissioner along with the application for the public report for the first phase of the Development, at any time before the third anniversary of the original issuance of the most recently issued final subdivision public report for the most recent phase of the Development. This election shall be made by the recordation of a supplemental declaration ("Supplemental Declaration"). The Supplemental Declaration shall describe the real property to be annexed, and shall state that the property described in it is being annexed to the Development pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration. The Supplemental Declaration may also set forth any additional covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, and easements that Declarant deems appropriate for that phase of development.

Other Additions

Section 11.02. In addition to real property annexed by the Declarant, real property may be annexed to the Development and brought within the general plan and scheme of this Declaration by the approval by vote or written consent of at least 67 percent of the total voting power of the Association [; provided, however, that no such annexation may take place after the _____ (specify, e.g., seventh) anniversary of the recordation of this Declaration].

Rights and Obligations of Owners of Annexed Property

Section 11.03. Upon the recordation of the Supplemental Declaration, the real property described in it shall be part of the Development and subject to the provisions of this Declaration in the same manner as if it were originally covered by this Declaration. Thereafter, the rights, powers, and responsibilities of Owners of Lots within the annexed property shall be the same as if the annexed property were originally covered by this Declaration; provided, however, that their voting rights shall not commence until the date of commencement of the regular assessments for their Lots. The commencement of assessments on the annexed real property shall be governed by Section 4.07 of this Declaration.

Reciprocal Easements

Section 11.04. Declarant hereby reserves, for the benefit of and appurtenant to the Lots located in any phase of development annexed to the first phase of this Development and their respective Owners, reciprocal easements to use the Common Area (other than any buildings or Exclusive Use Common Areas) in the first phase pursuant to and in the manner set forth in this Declaration. Declarant hereby grants, for the benefit of and appurtenant to the Lots in the first phase of this Development and their Owners, a nonexclusive easement to use the Common Area (other than any buildings or Exclusive Use Common Areas) in each phase of development annexed to the first phase, pursuant to and in the manner set forth in this Declaration. These reciprocal easements shall be effective as to any annexed real property upon the first close of escrow for the sale of a Lot in the annexed property.

ARTICLE XII. AMENDMENTS

Amendment or Revocation Before Close of First Sale

Section 12.01. At any time before the close of the first sale of a Lot to a purchaser other than Declarant, Declarant and any Mortgagee of record may, by executing an appropriate instrument, amend or revoke this Declaration. [Add in the case of a phased development: Further, before the close of the first sale of a Lot in any subsequent phase of the Project to a purchaser other than Declarant, the Declarant and any Mortgagee of record may, by following the above procedure, amend or revoke any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration for that subsequent phase.] The executed instrument shall be acknowledged and recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County.

Amendments by Owners After Close of First Sale

Section 12.02. At any time after the close of the first sale of a Lot to a purchaser other than Declarant, this Declaration may be amended by the vote or written consent of Owners representing not less than _____ percent of the voting power of each class of Owners of the Association. If only one class of membership exists at the time an amendment is proposed, then it must be approved by not less than _____ [specify percentage, which must be at least 51 percent but not more than 75 percent] percent of the voting power of the Association, which shall include at least a majority of the votes residing in Owners other than Declarant. Notwithstanding any contrary provision in this Section, the percentage of the voting power necessary to amend a specific clause or provision of this Declaration shall not be less than the percentage of affirmative votes prescribed for action to be taken under that clause or provision.

An amendment becomes effective after (1) the approval of the required percentage of Owners has been given, (2) that fact has been certified in a writing executed and acknowledged by _____[an officer designated by the Association for that purpose or, if no such designation is made, by the President of the Association or set forth name and title of officer here], and (3) that writing has been recorded in _____[the county in which this Development is located or both (or each) counties (or county) in which a portion of this Development is located].

Amendments Pursuant to Court Order

Section 12.03. If this Declaration requires a proposed amendment to be approved by the affirmative vote of a specified percentage (exceeding 50 percent) of the votes in the Association or of Owners having a specified percentage (exceeding 50 percent) of the votes in more than one class (a "supermajority"), and more than 50 percent but less than the required supermajority of the votesapprove the amendment, the Association or any Owner may petition the _____[Superior Court of _____ (name of sole county in which development is located) or superior court of both (or any) of the counties in which the Development is located], subject to the requirements, limitations, and exceptions set forth in Civil Code Section 1356, for an order reducing the percentage of the affirmative votes necessary for the amendment or approving the amendment. If such an order is issued, the amendment shall be acknowledged by _____ [any person designated by the Association for that purpose or, if no such designation is made, by the President of the Association or specify other person], and that person shall have the amendment and the court order recorded in _____[name of sole county in which development is located or both (or every) counties (or county) in which the Development is located]. Upon recordation, the amended provision or provisions of this Declaration shall have the same force and effect as if the amendment were adopted in compliance with every requirement imposed by this Declaration and the other governing documents. Within a reasonable time after recordation, the Association shall mail a copy of the amendment and a statement regarding the amendment to each Owner.

Section 12.04. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, the Board may, under the circumstances described in this Section, adopt an amendment deleting from this Declaration any provision that was unequivocally designed and intended, or that by its nature could only have been designed or intended, to facilitate Declarant in completing the construction or marketing of the Development. To be subject to this amendment procedure, the provision must provide for access by Declarant over or across the Common Area for the purposes of (1) completion of construction of the Development and (2) the erection, construction, or maintenance of structures or other facilities designed to facilitate the completion of construction or marketing of Lots or improvements on them. Such an amendment may be adopted only after Declarant has completed construction of the Development, has terminated construction activities, and has terminated _____[his or her or its] marketing activities for the sale [or other authorized disposition of units] of the Lots. [Add if applicable: In the case of a provision relating to a particular construction or marketing phase of the Development, the provision may not be deleted until that construction or marketing phase has been completed.] At least 30 days prior to taking action to adopt such an amendment, the Board must mail to all Owners, by first-class mail, the following: a copy of the proposed amendment; and a notice of the time, date, and place of the meeting at which the Board will consider adoption of the amendment. All deliberations of the Board on the proposed amendment must be conducted at that meeting. The meeting must be open to all Owners, and the Owners must be given an opportunity at the meeting to comment on the proposed amendment. The Board may not adopt the amendment unless (1) a quorum is present at the meeting, (2) the meeting is conducted in accordance with certain provisions (identified in Civil Code Section 1355.5) of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, and (3) Owners casting a majority of the votes at the meeting approve the amendment. For these purposes, "quorum" means more than 50 percent of the Owners who own no more than two Lots in the Development.

Prior Approval of Commissioner

Section 12.05. When required under Business and Professions Code Section 11018.7, the written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner shall be obtained prior to submitting a proposed amendment to this Declaration to the vote of the Owners.

ARTICLE XIII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

Term

Section 13.01. The provisions of this Declaration shall continue in effect for a term of _____ years from the date of execution. Thereafter, it shall be automatically extended for successive periods of _____ years, until the membership of the Association decides to terminate it.

Nonwaiver of Remedies

Section 13.02. Each remedy provided for in this Declaration is separate, distinct, and nonexclusive. Failure to exercise a particular remedy shall not be construed as a waiver of the remedy.

Attorneys' Fees

Section 13.03. In any action to enforce this Declaration, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

Severability

Section 13.04. The provisions of this Declaration shall be deemed independent and severable, and the invalidity or partial invalidity or unenforceability of any one provision shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision.

Binding

Section 13.05. This Declaration, as well as any amendment to it and any valid action or directive made pursuant to it, shall be binding on the Declarant and the Owners and their heirs, grantees, tenants, successors, and assigns.

Interpretation

Section 13.06. The provisions of this Declaration shall be liberally construed and interpreted to effectuate its purpose of creating a uniform plan for the development and operation of a planned development. Failure to enforce anyprovision of this Declaration shall not constitute a waiver of the right to enforce that provision or any other provision of this Declaration.

Limitation of Liability

Section 13.07. The liability of any Owner for performance of any of the provisions of this Declaration shall terminate upon sale, transfer, assignment, or other divestment of the Owner's entire interest in his or her Lot with respect to obligations arising from and after the date of the divestment.

Fair Housing

Section 13.08. Neither Declarant nor any Owner shall, either directly or indirectly, forbid the conveyance, encumbrance, renting, leasing, or occupancy of the Owner's Lot to any person on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, ancestry, or national origin.

Number and Headings

Section 13.09. As used in this Declaration, the singular shall include the plural, unless the context requires the contrary. The headings are not a part of this Declaration, and shall not affect the interpretation of any provision.

PART IV. FORMS

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.201

§ 33D.201 Articles of Incorporation for Planned Development

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of articles of incorporation for the owners' association of a planned development that will be organized as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. Most owners' associations are incorporated under that law [see § 33D.11[4]].

In addition to containing provisions required by the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code §§ 7130, 7132], this form contains an amendment provision [see § 330.201[2], Art. V] that complies with the implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8(a)(18), 2792.24(b)(1)(A); see also Corp. Code § 7132(c)(5)]. For discussion of these provisions, and the applicable execution and filing requirements [see Corp. Code § 7120], see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.204[1]. For a detailed discussion of the articles of incorporation of nonprofit mutual benefit corporations in general, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.210.

In addition to the requirements of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] requires the articles of incorporation of any common interest development association filed with the Secretary of State on or after January 1, 1995, to include an additional statement that: (1) identifies the corporation as an association formed to manage a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act; (2) gives the business or corporate office of the association, if any; and, if the office is not on the development site, states the nine-digit ZIP Code, front street, and nearest cross street for the physical location of the development; and (3) gives the name and address of the association's managing agent, if any [Civ. Code § 1363.5(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11502].

If the owners' association will be an unincorporated (nonprofit) association, the attorney should draft articles of association instead [see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations, § 13A.200].

If the owners' association is an unincorporated association that is changing to corporate status, the articles must state that an existing unincorporated association, identified by name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 7121(b)]. For provisions satisfying that requirement, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.242. For further discussion, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.204[1][c][ii].

This corporation is an association formed to manage a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act. The Association's business and corporate office is located at _____[specify address and, if office is not at development site, also include nine-digit ZIP code, front street, and nearest cross street for development's physical location]. The Association's managing agent is _____[specify agent's name], whose address is _____[specify agent's address].

IV. INITIAL AGENT FOR SERVICE OF PROCESS

The corporation's initial agent for service of process in the State of California is _____[name] [add if agent is a natural person:, whose _____ (business or residence) address is _____].

V. AMENDMENTS

The classes of membership and the voting rights of Members shall be as stated in the Declaration. So long as a two-class voting system is in effect, any amendment of these Articles shall require the vote or written consent of (1) a bare majority [or specify higher percentage] of the Board of Directors of the Association, and (2) Members representing _____ [specify percentage not below 51 percent] of _____ [the voting power of each class of Members or a quorum of Members of each class]. After conversion of the Class B Membership to Class A Membership, these Articles may be amended by the vote or written consent of (1) a bare majority [or specify higher percentage] of the Board of Directors of the Association, (2) a bare majority [or specify higher percentage] of the voting power of the Members, and (3) a bare majority [or specify higher percentage] of the voting power of the Members other than the developer of the Development.

CHAPTER 33D PLANNED DEVELOPMENTS
PART IV. FORMS

16-33D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 33D.202

§ 33D.202 Bylaws for Planned Development

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of bylaws for the owners' association of a planned development. Its provisions govern the internal operation of the association, the functions and composition of its board of directors, and numerous aspects of the development itself. For provisions describing the property rights in the development and the membership and voting rights of members of the association, see the declaration set forth in § 33D.200. Although most corporations include membership and voting rights provisions in their bylaws, owners' associations for planned developments and other common interest developments usually place those provisions in their declaration instead. This form and the declaration set forth in § 33D.200 follow that practice.

This form is compatible with the forms in § 33D.200[2] (declaration) and § 33D.201[2] (articles). Consequently, the numerous cross-references in this form to particular declaration provisions are keyed to § 33D.200.

[b] Contents of Bylaws

[i] Real Estate Commissioner's Regulations

Numerous regulatory requirements promulgated by the Real Estate Commissioner must be incorporated into the bylaws, articles, or declaration of an owners' association for a planned development [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.4, 2792.8, 2792.15-2792.29]. Most of these requirements are embodied in the declaration set forth as § 33D.200 [see § 33D.200[1][c][ii]]. However, this form reflects the regulations governing the following matters [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8]:

(1) Regular (annual) and special meetings of association members [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17; § 33D.202[2], Sections 2.01-2.04, 2.08, 2.10].

(2) Procedures for the election and removal of directors and officers of the association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19

; § 33D.202[2], Sections 3.02-3.07, 5.02-5.03].

(3) Regular meetings of the board of directors [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.20; § 33D.202[2], Sections 4.01, 4.02, 4.04, 4.05, 4.07].

(4) Enumeration of the powers and duties of the directors and officers and of the limitations upon the authority of the board to act without the prior approval of members representing a majority of the voting power of the association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21; § 33D.202[2], Section 3.09, 3.10, Art. VI-X].

(5) Quorum requirements for meetings of members and of the board of directors [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17; see also § 33D.202[2], Section 2.08].

(6) Procedures for proxy voting at members' meetings [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(16); § 33D.202[2], Section 2.09].

(7) Amendment of bylaws [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; § 33D.202[2], Section 13.01].

Because this form basically tracks the regulations exactly, the attorney should not vary its provisions without consulting the relevant regulations to determine whether or not they permit the desired change. For further discussion of these regulations, see Ch. 34, Condominiums, § 34.206[1] (bylaws for a condominium project).

[ii] Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law

The articles of incorporation and bylaws for an owners' association that is organized as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation must also comply with the requirements of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. Under that law, the bylaws (or articles) must state either: (1) the number of directors of the corporation; (2) the method for determining the number of directors; or (3) that the number of directors will be not less than a stated minimum or more than a stated maximum, with the exact number to be fixed by approval of the board or members [Corp. Code § 7151(a); see § 33D.202[2], Section 3.01]. In any event, the number or minimum number of directors may be one or more [Corp. Code § 7151(a); see Corp. Code § 7151(b); see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

The bylaws may include provisions governing the management of the activities and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, provided that the provisions do not conflict with the law or the articles [see Corp. Code § 7151(c)]. For the statutory list of potential optional provisions, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.131, P 3. When they are included in the bylaws, they must conform to the requirements of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law. For a complete discussion of the requirements applicable to the optional provisions, see § 13.212 in Ch. 13. The following is a list of the optional provisions incorporated into this form [see Corp. Code § 7151(c)]:

(1) Meetings of members [Corp. Code §§ 7510-7514, 7611, 7613; § 33D.202[2], Art. II; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17].

(2) Election, term, and removal of board of directors [Corp. Code §§ 7220-7224, 7520, 7521, 7615; § 33d.202[2], Art. III; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19].

(3) Meetings of directors [Corp. Code § 7211; § 33D.202[2], Art. IVm; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.20].

(4) Selection of officers of association [Corp. Code § 7213; § 33D.202[2], Art. V].

(5) Maintaining and inspecting project records [Corp. Code §§ 7160, 8320, 8330-8334; § 33D.202[2], Art. XI; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(c)-(e)].

Some of the foregoing provisions are subject to mandatory regulatory requirements imposed by the Real Estate Commissioner [see § 33D.202[1][b]]. Fortunately, there are no conflicts between the Commissioner's regulations and the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law. Indeed, many of the Commissioner's regulations either expressly incorporate the requirements of that law [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19(b)(1) (cumulative voting requirements); Corp. Code § 7615; see also § 33D.200[2], Section 3.04(e)] or adopt requirements that are quite similar to their statutory counterparts [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23 (inspection of books and records); Corp. Code §§ 7160, 8320, 8330-8334; see also § 33D.202[2], Art. XI]. The applicable regulations have been included in the above list.

A copy of the bylaws must be filed with the Real Estate Commissioner as part of an application for a final public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(2)].

BYLAWS OF
_____ [name of association],
A California Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation

ARTICLE I. PLAN OF OWNERSHIP

Name

Section 1.01. The name of the corporation is _____ Owners' Association ("Association").

Principal Office

Section 1.02. The principal office of the Association is located at _____[street address], _____[city], California. The Board of Directors is hereby granted full power and authority to change the principal office of the Association from one location to another in [the County of _____,] California. Any such change shall be noted by the Secretary in these Bylaws, but shall not be considered an amendment of these Bylaws.

Application

Section 1.03. These Bylaws are applicable to the residential planned development known as _____ ("Development"), located at _____[address and city] in _____ County, California. These Bylaws are also applicable to all Members of the Association and all tenants, employees, and other persons who use the facilities of the Development in any manner.

Definitions

Section 1.04. Unless otherwise specified in these Bylaws, the definitions set forth in Article I of the Declaration for _____[name of development] ("Declaration") recorded or to be recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, California, apply to these Bylaws.

Membership Rights

Section 1.05. The qualification for membership provisions of Section 3.02 of the Declaration are hereby incorporated by reference.

ARTICLE II. MEETINGS OF MEMBERS

Place of Meetings

Section 2.01. All meetings of the Members shall be held at a place designated by the Board. This meeting place shall be within the Development or as close to it as possible. If no meeting place is designated, the meetings shall be held at the principal office of the Association. No meeting of the Members shall, unless unusual conditions exist, be held outside of _____ [specify county in which development is located] County, California.

Annual Meetings

Section 2.02. The first meeting of the Members of the Association shall be held within _____ [select the appropriate provision below]

[if public report authorizes sale of at least 50 lots in development (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17(a)), use:] 45 days after the close of escrow for the sale of the Lot that represents the fifty-first percentile interest authorized for sale under the first final subdivision public report issued for the Development by the California Real Estate Commissioner, or within six months after the closing of the sale of the first Lot within the Development, whichever is earlier.

[OR]

[if public report authorizes sale of fewer than 50 lots in development, use:] six months after the closing of the sale of the first Lot within the Development.

[Continue with the following:]

Thereafter, the annual meeting of the Members shall be held on _____ [specify day of week, e.g., the second Tuesday] of _____ [month] of each succeeding calendar year at the hour of _____ P.M. If the day for the annual meeting of the Members is a legal holiday, the meeting shall be held at the same hour on the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday.

Special Meetings

Section 2.03. Special meetings of the Members may be called for any lawful purpose by a majority of a quorum of the Board, the President of the Association, or by a written request signed by Members representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the Association. The special meeting shall be held not less than 35 nor more than 90 days after adoption of the resolution or receipt of the request. Only that business stated in the notice of meeting given pursuant to Section 2.04 of these Bylaws shall be transacted at the special meeting.

Notice of Meetings

Section 2.04. The Secretary of the Association shall give written notice of anyMembers' meeting to each Member of record. Except as provided below, the notice shall be given at least 10 but not more than 90 days before the meeting, by first class [or registered or certified] mail or by personal delivery. If a special meeting is called by Members pursuant to Section 2.03 of these Bylaws, the notice shall be given within 20 days after receipt of the request for the meeting. If that 20-day requirement is not satisfied, the Members who called the meeting may give the notice. Any notice of meeting shall be addressed to the Member at the address appearing on the books of the Association, or the address supplied by the Member to the Association for this purpose. If there is no such address, notice shall be given at the principal office of the Association or by publication at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office is located. The notice shall state the place, date, and time of the meeting. The notice shall also specify those matters the Board intends to present for action by the Members. In the case of a special meeting, the only matters that may be voted on are those matters that were mentioned in the notice of meeting. In the case of an annual meeting, any proper matter may be presented at the meeting for action [add if bylaws authorize a quorum of less than one third of the voting power (see Corp. Code § 7512(b)):, except as provided in Section 2.08 of these Bylaws.] If Directors are to be elected at the meeting, the notice shall include the names of all those who are nominees at the time the notice is given.

Waiver of Notice or Consent of Absentees

Section 2.05. The transactions of any meeting of Members, however called and noticed, shall be as valid as though taken at a duly called, noticed, and held meeting, if: (1) a quorum is present either in person or by proxy; and (2) either before or after the meeting, each of the Members not present in person or by proxy, signs a written waiver of notice, or a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the Minutes of the meeting. Any such waiver, consent, or approval shall be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the Minutes of the Meeting.

Voting Rights

Section 2.06. The voting of membership provision set forth inSection 3.04of the Declaration is hereby incorporated by reference.

Record Date of Membership

Section 2.07. The Board shall fix, in advance, a record date or dates for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to notice of and to vote at any meeting of Members. The record date for notice of a meeting shall not be more than 90 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. The record date for voting shall not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting or before the date on which the first written ballot is mailed or solicited. The Board may also fix, in advance, a record date for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to exercise any rights in connection with any other action. Any such date shall not be more than 60 days prior to the action.

Quorum

Section 2.08. At any meeting, the presence either in person or by proxy of Members entitled to cast at least 51 percent [or specify other percentage which must be at least 25 percent and not more than 66 2/3 percent of the total voting power of the Association] of the total voting power of the Association shall constitute a quorum for any action except as otherwise provided in the Articles, Bylaws, or this Declaration. The Members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough Members to leave less than a quorum, if the action taken, other than adjournment, is approved by at least a majority of members required to constitute a quorum. [Add if this provision authorizes a quorum of less than one third of the voting power (see Corp. Code § 7512(b)): Notwithstanding the above, whenever the quorum present at an annual meeting of Members consists of less than one third of the voting power of the Association (present in person or by proxy), then the only matters that may be voted on are those matters that were mentioned in the notice of meeting given pursuant to Section 2.04 of these Bylaws.] If a quorum is not present at any time at a duly called meeting, a majority of those Members present in person or by proxy may adjourn the meeting to a time not less than five days nor more than 30 days from the meeting date, but no other business may be transacted. An adjourned meeting may be held without written notice, provided that notice is given by announcement at the original meeting. If no such announcement is made, or if the selected date is changed after adjournment, notice of the time and place shall be given to Members in the manner provided in Section 2.04 of these Bylaws. The quorum for the adjourned meeting shall be _____ percent.

Parliamentary Procedure

Section 2.09. All meetings of the Members shall be conducted in accordance with (1) a recognized system of parliamentary procedure, or (2) any parliamentary procedures adopted by the Association.

Proxies

Section 2.10. At any meeting of Members, each Member may vote in person or by proxy. All proxies shall be in writing and filed with the Secretary of the Association. Every proxy shall be revocable and shall automatically cease upon conveyance by the Member of his or her Lot, or upon receipt of notice by the Secretary of the death or judicially declared incompetence of the Member. No proxy shall be valid after 11 months from the date of its execution unless otherwise specifically provided in the proxy. The maximum term of any proxy shall be three years from the date of its execution.

Action Taken Without a Meeting

Section 2.11. Any action that may be taken at a meeting of the Members, except for the election of Directors, may be taken without a meeting provided the following ballot requirements are satisfied:

(a) The Corporation shall distribute a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter. The ballot shall be solicited in the same manner as provided in Section 2.04 of these Bylaws for the giving of notice of meetings of Members. If the Association has 100 or more Members and the ballots are distributed to 10 or more Members, the ballot shall comply with the additional requirements set forth in Section 7514 of the California Corporations Code.

(b) The ballot shall set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot, indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement, and state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure submitted.

(c) The proposed action shall be considered approved if:

(1) The number of votes cast by ballot within the specified time period equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action; and

(2) The number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required for approval at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot.

(d) No written ballot shall be revoked.

Approval by Members Required by Statute

Section 2.12. Any approval by the Members of the following proposals, other than unanimous approval by those entitled to vote, shall be valid only if the general nature of the approved proposal was stated in the notice of meeting or any waiver of notice of meeting:

(a) Removing a director without cause pursuant to Section 7222 of the California Corporations Code;

(b) Filling vacancies on the Board pursuant to Section 7224 of the California Corporations Code;

(c) Entering into or approving a contract or transaction between the Association and one or more of the Directors, or between the Association and any entity in which one or more of the Directors has a material financial interest, pursuant to Section 7233 of the California Corporations Code;

(d) Amending the Articles pursuant to Section 7812 of the California Corporations Code;

(e) Electing to dissolve the Association pursuant to Section 8610 of the California Corporations Code; or

(f) Approving a plan of distribution in connection with the dissolution of the Association pursuant to Section 8719 of the California Corporations Code.

ARTICLE III. BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Number

Section 3.01. The affairs of this Association shall be managed and its duties and obligations performed by an elected Board of Directors, consisting of _____ [insert number] persons [add if desired: who shall be Members of the Association].

Nomination

Section 3.02. Nominations for election to the Board of Directors may be made by any of the following:

(a) A nominating committee appointed by the Board at least 90 days prior to an annual meeting of Members, provided the Board receives the committee's nomination or nominations at least 30 days prior to the annual meeting of Members.

(b) A written petition signed within 11 months preceding the annual meeting by Members representing _____ percent of the "voting power" of the Association as that term is defined in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law of the State of California. The petition shall identify the nominee, contain that person's written consent to serve as a Director, and be delivered to the Secretary of the Association at least 30 days prior to the annual meeting. [Add if potentially applicable: If the Association has more than 500 members, then the additional petition requirements set forth in Section 7521 of the California Corporations Code shall be satisfied.]

(c) Any Member who is present in person, or by the proxy of any Member who is present by proxy, at the annual meeting of Members at which the Director is to be elected.

Election

Section 3.03. Voting for Directors shall be by secret written ballot. At the first annual meeting of the Association, the Members shall fill, by election, all positions on the Board of Directors. Subsequent elections shall also be held at the annual meetings. However, if an annual meeting is not held or does not include an election, the election may be held at a special meeting of members called for that purpose. At an election the Members or their proxies may cast, in respect to each vacancy, as many votes as they are entitled to exercise under the provisions ofthese Bylaws. Each Member entitled to vote on the election may cumulate his or her votes and give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of Directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the Member is entitled, or distribute the Member's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the Member thinks fit. No Member shall be entitled to cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names have been placed in nomination prior to voting and a Member has given notice at the meeting prior to the voting of the Member's intention to cumulate votes. If any one Member has given this notice, all Members may cumulate their votes for candidates in nomination. The persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected.

Special Election Procedure

Section 3.04. Notwithstanding any other provision of these Bylaws, for so long as a majority of the voting power of the Association resides in Declarant, or so long as there are two classes of membership in the Association, at least _____ [specify number, which must equal at least 20 percent of total number of directors; e.g., one in the case of five directors (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19(c)(1))] Director(s) shall have been elected solely by the votes of Members other than Declarant. If, at any election, Members other than Declarant do not have a sufficient percentage of the voting power to satisfy that requirement, _____ [the one position on the Board or the number of positions on the Board necessary to satisfy that requirement] shall be filled by the candidate(s) who receive(s) the highest number of votes cast by Members other than Declarant. Any remaining positions on the Board shall be filled in accordance with normal voting procedures.

Term

Section 3.05. Each Director shall hold office until the election of his or her successor or until the Director's death, removal, or judicial adjudication of mental incompetence.
_____ [Provide for either concurrent or staggered terms, e.g.:

[If terms are to run concurrently: The term of office of each Director shall be _____ (specify number not exceeding four) year(s).]

[If terms are to be staggered: The term of office of the _____ (e.g., three) Directors receiving the highest number of votes at the first annual meeting shall be _____ years and the term of office of the remaining Directors shall be _____ years.]

[Continue with the following:]

Thereafter, at each annual meeting, any vacancies on the Board created by death, resignation, removal, judicial adjudication of mental incompetence, or expiration of term shall be filled. The term of office of each Director elected to fill a vacancy created by the expiration of the term of office of the preceding Director shall be the same length as his or her predecessor's term. The term of office of any Director elected or appointed to fill a vacancy created by any event other than the expiration of the predecessor Director's term shall be the balance of the unserved term of the predecessor. Any person serving as a Director may be re-elected, and there shall be no limitation on the number of terms a Director may serve.

Removal of Directors

Section 3.06. Directors may be removed as follows:

(a) The Board may declare vacant the office of a Director on the occurrence of any of the following events:

(1) The Director has been declared of unsound mind by a final order of court;

(2) The Director has been convicted of a felony;

[Add if association holds assets in charitable trust:]

(3) The Director has been found by a final order or judgment of any court to have breached duties imposed by Corporations Code Section 7238 on directors who perform functions with respect to assets held in charitable trust; or

[Add if minimum attendance will be required:]

(4) The Director has failed to attend _____ [number] meetings of the Board.

(b) One or more Directors may be removed prior to the expiration of their terms, without cause, at an annual or special meeting of the Members. Any removal without cause shall be approved (1) by a majority of the total voting power of the Association for so long as the Development consists of fewer than 50 Lots, and (2) by the vote of Members representing a majority of a quorum of Members if the Development consists of 50 or more Lots. Notwithstanding the foregoing, unless the entire Board is removed from office by the vote of the Members, an individual Director shall not be removed prior to the expiration of his or her term of office if the number of votes cast against the removal, or not consenting in writing to the removal, would be sufficient to elect the Director if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast (or, if the action is taken by written ballot, all memberships entitled to vote were voted) and the entire number of Directors authorized at the time of the Director's most recent election were then being elected. A Director who has beenelected to office solely by the votes of Members other than Declarant as required by Section 3.04 of these Bylaws, may be removed from office prior to the expiration of his or her term of office only by the vote of at least 51 percent of the voting power of Members other than Declarant. If a Director is removed at a meeting, a new Director may be elected at the same meeting.

Vacancies

Section 3.07. Any vacancy on the Board caused by the death or resignation of a Director shall be filled by the remaining Directors. The successor shall serve for the unexpired term of his or her predecessor. The Board shall not fill a vacancy on the Board created by the removal of a Director, except with the vote or written assent of a majority of each class of Members.

Compensation

Section 3.08. A Director shall not receive any compensation for any service he or she may render to the Association; provided, however, that a Director may be reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Director in the performance of his or her duties.

Powers and Duties

Section 3.09. The Board's powers and duties shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(a) Enforcement of the applicable provisions of this Declaration, the Articles, Bylaws, and any other instruments governing the ownership, management, and control of the Development.

(b) Payment of taxes and assessments that are, or could become, a lien on all or a portion of the Common Area.

(c) Contracting for casualty, liability, and other insurance on behalf of the Association.

(d) Contracting for goods and services for the Common Area, facilities, and interests of the Association, subject to the limitations set forth in Section 3.10(a) of these Bylaws.

(e) Delegation of its powers to any committees, Officers, or employees of the Association expressly authorized by the Governing Instruments.

(f) Preparation of budgets and financial statements for the Association as prescribed in the Governing Instruments.

(g) Formulating Rules and Regulations for the use and operation of the Common Area and facilities owned or controlled by the Association.

(h) Initiating and executing of disciplinary proceedings against Members for violations of provisions of the Governing Instruments in accordance with procedures set forth in the Governing Instruments.

(i) Entering any Lot or improvement on a Lot to perform necessary construction, maintenance, or emergency repair work for the benefit of the Common Area or the Members in the aggregate.

(j) Electing the Officers of the Association.

(k) Filling vacancies on the Board of Directors, except for a vacancy created by the removal of a Director.

(l) Reviewing the following on at least a quarterly basis:

(1) A current reconciliation of the operating accounts of the Association.

(2) A current reconciliation of the reserve accounts of the Association.

(3) The actual reserve revenues and expenses for the current year compared with the budget for the current year.

(4) The most current account statements prepared by the financial institution where the Association has its operating and reserve accounts.

(5) An income and expense statement for the operating and reserve accounts of the Association.

(m) Withdrawing moneys from the Association's reserve accounts.

(n) Causing studies of the reserve account requirements of the Development to be conducted, when necessary, and reviewing those studies in accordance with Civil Code Section 1365.5(e).

(o) Performing any act reasonably necessary to resolve any dispute involving the Declaration or any other governing documents, such as Articles, Bylaws, or Operating Rules, which govern the operation of the Project or the Association, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.) by the Association's dispute resolution procedure required by Civil Code Sections 1363.810 through 1363.850 as manifested in Section 3.10 of the Declaration, and the alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590 as a prerequisite to any party filing a civil enforcement action.

(p) The authorization detailed in (o) does not require the Board to do any of the following:

(1) As a prerequisite to initiating any civil action, to conduct inspections, maintain inspection records, exhaust applicable casualty insurance coverage maintained by the Association, provide an opportunity to cure,meet with members, or obtain the consent of the members.

(2) Except in compliance with Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590, to submit civil claims of any kind to binding or non-binding alternative dispute resolution procedures.

Limitations on Powers

Section 3.10. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 3.09, the Board shall be prohibited from taking any of the following actions, except with the vote or written assent of a majority of each class of Members, or when Class B membership no longer exists, with the approval of a majority of the total voting power of the Association as well as the approval of a majority of the total voting power residing in Members other than Declarant:

(a) Entering into a contract with a third person under which the third person will furnish goods or services for the Common Area or the Association for a term longer than one year, with the following exceptions:

(1) A management contract approved by the Federal Housing Administration or Veterans Administration;

(2) A contract with a public utility if the rates charged are regulated by the Public Utilities Commission, provided that the term shall not exceed the shortest term for which the utility will contract at the regulated rate;

(3) Prepaid casualty and/or liability insurance of not more than three years duration, provided that the policy provides for short-rate cancellation by the insured;

(4) Lease agreements for laundry room fixtures and equipment of not more than five years duration, provided that the lessor under the agreement is not an entity in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more;

(5) Agreements for cable television services and equipment or satellite dish television services and equipment of not to exceed five years duration, provided that the supplier is not an entity in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more; and

(6) Agreements for the sale or lease of burglar alarm and fire alarm equipment, installation, and services for a term of up to five years, provided that the supplier or suppliers are not entities in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more.

(b) Incurring aggregate expenditures for capital improvements to the Common Area in any fiscal year in excess of 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year.

(c) Selling during any fiscal year property of the Association having an aggregate fair market value in excess of 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year.

(d) Paying compensation to Directors or to Officers of the Association for services rendered in the conduct of the Association's business; provided, however, that the Board may reimburse a Director or Officer for expenses incurred in carrying on the business of the Association.

(e) Filling a vacancy on the Board of Directors created by the removal of a Director.

ARTICLE IV. MEETINGS OF DIRECTORS

Regular Meetings

Section 4.01. Regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held monthly [or quarterly or other period not more infrequent than semiannually] at a time and place within the Development fixed by resolution of the Board. Notice of the time and place of the meeting shall be communicated to the Directors not less than four days before the meeting; provided, however, that notice need not be given to any Director who has signed a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding of the meeting. Notice of the time and place of the meeting shall also be posted in a prominent place or places within the Common Area. However, if the Common Area is unsuitable for such a posting, the Board shall communicate the notice of the time and place by any means it deems appropriate.

Special Meetings

Section 4.02. Special meetings of the Board shall be held when called by written notice signed by the President of the Association or by any two Directors other than the President. The notice shall specify the time and place of the meeting and the nature of any special business to be considered. Notice of any special meeting must be given to each Director not less than [specify number not less than three] days or more than [e.g., 15] days before the date fixed for the meeting; provided, however, that notice need not be given to any Director who has signed a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding of the meeting. A copy of the notice shall also be posted in a prominent place or places in the Common Area of the Development.

Emergency Meetings

Section 4.03. Emergency meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by the President of the Association, or by any two members of the Board other than the President, if there are circumstances that could not have been reasonably foreseen that require immediate attention and possible action by the Board, and that of necessity make it impracticable to provide notice as otherwise required for meetings of the Board.

Quorum

Section 4.04. A majority of the Board shall constitute a quorum and, if a quorum is present, the decision of a majority of the Directors present shall be the act of the Board.

Open Meetings

Section 4.05. Regular and special meetings of the Board shall be open to all Members of the Association. The Board must permit any Member to speak at any of the Board's meetings, except for meetings held in executive session. To this end, the Board must establish a reasonable time to allow Members to speak to the Board at its meetings.

Notice of regular and special meetings of the Board must be given to Members at least four days before the meeting. Notice may be given by posting in a prominent place or places within the Common Area, by mail or delivery to each Unit, or by Association newsletter.

Executive Session

Section 4.06. The Board may, with the approval of a majority of the Directors present at a meeting at which a quorum for the transaction of business has been established, adjourn a meeting and reconvene in executive session to discuss and vote upon (1) litigation in which the Association is or may become involved, (2) matters that relate to the formation of contracts with third parties, (3) personnel matters, (4) member discipline matters, and (5) orders of business of a similar nature. In any matter relating to the disciplining of a Member, the Board shall meet in executive session if requested to do so by that Member, and the Member shall be entitled to attend the executive session. In all other cases, Members who are not on the Board may not attend an executive session. The nature of any business to be considered in executive session shall first be announced in open session. Further, any matter discussed in executive session shall be generally noted in the minutes of the Board.

Adjournment

Section 4.07. A majority of the Directors present, whether or not a quorum is present, may adjourn any meeting to another time and place. If the meeting is adjourned for more than 24 hours, notice of the adjournment shall be given, before the time of the adjourned meeting, to the Directors who were not present at the time of the adjournment.

Minutes

Section 4.08. Written minutes shall be kept of all meetings of the Board. The minutes, minutes proposed for adoption that are marked to indicate draft status, or a summary of the minutes, of any meeting of the Board, other than an executive session, shall be made available to Members within 30 days of the meeting. Further, the minutes, proposed minutes, or summary minutes shall be distributed to any Member on request. Any Member making such a request shall reimburse the Association for its costs in making that distribution. Members shall be notified in writing at the time that the pro forma budget required by Civil Code Section 1365 is distributed, or at the time of any general mailing to the entire membership of the Association, of their right to have copies of the minutes of meetings of the Board and of how and where those minutes may be obtained.

Action Taken Without a Meeting

Section 4.09. The Board may take actions without a meeting if all of the Directors consent in writing to the action to be taken. If the Board resolves by unanimous written consent to take action, an explanation of the action taken shall be posted at a prominent place or places within the Common Area within three days after the written consents of all Directors have been obtained. However, if the Common Area is unsuitable for such a posting, the Board shall communicate the explanation of the action taken by any means it deems appropriate.

ARTICLE V. OFFICERS

Enumeration of Officers

Section 5.01. The Officers of this Association shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Chief Financial Officer. The Board may appoint additional officers pursuant to Article X of these Bylaws. Any number of offices may be held by the same person.

Appointment and Term

Section 5.02. The Officers of this Association, except those Officers appointed in accordance with Article X of these Bylaws, shall be elected annually by the Board. Any vacancies shall be filled by the Board at any time, not necessarily on an annual basis, that it deems proper. Each Officer shall hold his or her office at the pleasure of the Board.

Resignation and Removal

Section 5.03. The Board may remove any Officer from office either with or without cause. Any Officer may resign at any time by giving written notice to the Board, the President, or the Secretary. The resignation shall take effect at the date of receipt of the notice or at any later time specified in the notice. Unless otherwise specified in the notice, acceptance of the resignation by the Board shall not be necessary to make it effective.

Compensation

Section 5.04. An Officer shall not receive any compensation for any servicehe or she may render to the Association; provided, however, that an Officer may be reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Officer in the performance of his or her duties.

ARTICLE VI. PRESIDENT

Election

Section 6.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] President.

Duties

Section 6.02. The President shall:

(a) Preside over all meetings of the Members and of the Board.

(b) Sign as President all deeds, contracts, and other written instruments that have been approved by the Board, unless the Board, by duly adopted resolution, authorizes the signature of a lesser Officer.

(c) Call meetings of the Board whenever he or she deems it necessary, in accordance with any rules and notice requirements imposed by the Board and the Governing Instruments. The notice period shall not be less than three days except in the case of emergencies.

(d) Have, subject to the advice of the Board, general supervision, direction, and control of the affairs of the Association.

(e) Discharge any other duties required of him or her by the Board.

ARTICLE VII. VICE-PRESIDENT

Election

Section 7.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] Vice-President.

Duties

Section 7.02. The Vice-President shall:

(a) Act in the place and in the stead of the President in the event of his or her absence, inability, or refusal to act; and

ARTICLE VIII. SECRETARY

Election

Section 8.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect [one of its Members to act as or a] Secretary.

Duties

Section 8.02. The Secretary shall:

(a) Keep a record of all meetings and proceedings of the Board and of the Members;

(b) Keep the seal of the Association, if any, and affix it on all papers requiring the seal;

(c) Serve all required notices of meetings of the Board and the Members;

(d) Keep current records showing the names and addresses of all Members; and

(e) Sign as Secretary all deeds, contracts, and other written instruments that have been approved by the Board, if the instruments require a second Association signature and the Board has not passed a resolution authorizing another Officer to sign in the place and stead of the Secretary.

ARTICLE IX. CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

Election

Section 9.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] Chief Financial Officer.

Duties

Section 9.02. The Chief Financial Officer shall:

(a) Receive and deposit all of the funds of the Association in any bank or banks selected by the Board;

(b) Be responsible for and supervise the maintenance of books and records to account for Association funds and other

Association assets;

(c) Disburse and withdraw Association funds in the manner specified by the Board; and

(d) Prepare and distribute the financial statements for the Association required by the Declaration.

ARTICLE X. SUBORDINATE OFFICERS

Appointment

Section 10.01. The Board may appoint, at any time, any subordinate Officers that the Association may require.

Duties

Section 10.02. The Board shall prescribe the term of office, authority, and duties of subordinate Officers. These duties may include the right to act in the place and stead of any Officer other than the President.

ARTICLE XI. BOOKS AND RECORDS

Required Books and Records

Section 11.01. The Association shall maintain at its principal office:

(a) Copies of the Governing Instruments as last amended;

(b) Adequate and correct books and records of account;

(c) Written minutes of the proceedings of its Members, of its Board, and of committees of its Board; and

(d) A Membership Register containing the following information about each Member: name, mailing address, telephone number, and class of membership.

Inspection Rights

Section 11.02. The books and records referred to in Section 11.01 shall be made available for inspection as follows:

(a) Any Member shall have the right to inspect the above books and records and copy them at any reasonable time during office hours and for a purpose reasonably related to his or her interest as a Member. This right is subject to the power of the Board to set reasonable times for inspection, notice requirements, and fees to cover the cost of making copies of the documents requested by a Member.

(b) Every Director shall have the absolute right to inspect all books, records, and documents of the Association and the physical properties owned or controlled by the Association at any reasonable time. The right of inspection by a Director includes the right to make extracts and copies of documents.

ARTICLE XII. NONLIABILITY AND INDEMNIFICATION

Definition of Agent

Section 12.01. For purposes of this Article, "Agent" means any present or former Director or Officer or any other employee or agent of the Association.

Nonliability

Section 12.02. Except as provided by law, no right, power, or responsibility conferred on the Board or the Architectural Committee by the Governing Instruments shall be construed as a duty, obligation, or disability charged upon any Agent. No Agent shall be liable to any party (other than the Association or a party claiming in the name of the Association) for injuries or damage resulting from the Agent's acts or omissions within what the Agent reasonably believed to be the scope of his or her Association duties ("Official Acts"), except to the extent that the injuries or damage result from the Agent's willful or malicious misconduct. No Agent shall be liable to the Association (or to any party claiming in the name of the Association) for injuries or damage resulting from the Agent's Official Acts, except to the extent that the injuries or damage result from the Agent's negligence or willful or malicious misconduct.

Indemnification

Section 12.03. The Association shall pay all expenses actually and reasonably incurred by, and satisfy any judgment or fine levied against, any Agent as a result of any action or threatened action against the Agent to impose liability on the Agent for his or her Official Acts, provided that:

(a) The Board determines that the Agent acted in good faith and in a manner the Agent reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Association;

(b) In the case of a criminal proceeding, the Board determines that the Agent had no reasonable cause to believe his or her conduct was unlawful; and

(c) In the case of an action or threatened action by or in the right of the Association, the Board determines that the Agent acted with the care (including reasonable inquiry) that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances.

Approval by Board

Section 12.04. Any determination of the Board required under this Article must be approved by a majority vote of a quorum consisting of Directors who are not parties to the action or threatened action giving rise to the indemnification. If the Board fails or refuses to make any such determination, the determination may be made by the vote or written consent of a majority of a quorum of the Members, provided that the Agent to be indemnified shall not be entitled to vote.

Payments

Section 12.05. Payments made pursuant to this Article shall include amounts paid and expenses incurred in settling the action or threatened action. This Article shall be construed to authorize payments and indemnification to the fullest extent now or hereafter permitted by applicable law.

Insurance

Section 12.06. The Association may purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of its Agents to the extent and under the circumstances provided in the Declaration.

ARTICLE XIII. AMENDMENTS

Amendment of Bylaws

Section 13.01. The classes of membership and the voting rights of Members shall be as stated in the Declaration. So long as a two-class voting system is in effect, any amendment of these Bylaws shall require the vote or written consent of Members representing _____ [specify percentage not below 51 percent] of _____ [the voting power of each class of Members or a quorum of Members of each class]. After conversion of the Class B Membership to Class A Membership, these Bylaws may be amended by the vote or written consent of (1) 51 percent [or specify higher percentage, but not one that would require the vote of more than a bare majority of the total voting power of the association (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)(1)(B))] of a quorum, and (2) 51 percent [or specify higher percentage] of the votes of Members other than the Declarant. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the percentage of a quorum or of the voting power of the Association or of Members other than Declarant necessary to amend a specific clause or provision in these Bylaws shall not be less than the prescribed percentage of affirmative votes required for action to be taken under that clause or provision.

Prior Approval of Commissioner

Section 13.02. When required under Section 11018.7 of the California Business and Professions Code, the prior written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner shall be obtained prior to submitting a proposed amendment to these Bylaws to the vote of the Members.

[Optional]

ARTICLE XIV. TAX-EXEMPT STATUS

Tax-Exempt Status

Section 14.01. The Board and Members of the Association shall conduct the business of the Association in such a manner that the Association shall qualify and be considered an organization exempt from federal and state income taxes pursuant to Internal Revenue Code Section 528 and California Revenue and Taxation Code Section 23701t, as amended.

Filing

Section 14.02. The Board shall file or have filed any annual election for tax-exempt status that is required under federal or state law, and shall cause the Association to comply with the federal and state statutes, rules, and regulations pertaining to those exemptions.

This chapter covers the statutory and regulatory requirements governing the formation and operation of condominium projects and the sale of condominiums in California. Among other things, this chapter discusses the following aspects of the formation-sale process: financing the project, developing the project in phases, converting an apartment building to condominiums, obtaining a public report for the project, and establishing and operating an owners' association. Because local building, zoning, and subdivision ordinances typically include additional condominium requirements, counsel should use this chapter in conjunction with any applicable ordinances of the city or county in which the condominium project is or will be located.

Condominium projects are only one of several types of real estate developments that are considered "common interest developments" or "common interest subdivisions" under California law [see § 34.33[1] and § 34.37[1]]. The other common interest developments/subdivisions discussed in this treatise are planned developments [see Ch. 33D, Planned Developments], stock cooperatives [see Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives], and time-share projects [see Ch. 33A, Time-Share Projects]. Membership camping contracts are also covered [see Ch. 33B, Membership Camping Contracts].

This chapter does not cover two common interest developments that are found in California: (1) community apartment projects [see Civ. Code § 1351(d); see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11004, 11004.5(b); California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 424, Regulation of Subdivided Land Sales , Pt. A (Matthew Bender)] and (2) limited-equity housing cooperatives [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11003.4, 11004.5(e); see also Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives].

§ 34.30 General Description of Condominium Form of Ownership

The statutory definition of condominium is broad enough to cover a variety of forms of ownership [see § 34.32]. However, under the most common form, the purchaser of a condominium owns in fee simple the airspace in which his or her particular unit is situated, has a deed to that space, gets a separate tax assessment, may apply for and acquire a title insurance policy on the property, acquires an undivided interest in common in other portions of the project, and must pay monthly assessments for the upkeep and maintenance of the common area [see California Department of Real Estate Reference Book, Ch. 20, Subdivisions and Other Public Controls, p. 531 (1984-1985 ed.)].

§ 34.31 Overview of Governing Statutes

The three most important sources of California law regulating the formation, operation, and sale of condominiums and condominium projects are (1) the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], (2) the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.], and (3) the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq. (implementing regulations)]. This chapter discusses those Acts in detail.

From a litigation and risk management perspective, the so-called "Right to Repair Act" or "Title 7" [Civ. Code § 895 et seq.] must also bear heavily on the preparation of formation documents for condominium projects. This chapter likewise discusses Title 7 [see § 34.49].

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.32

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.32 Statutory Definition of "Condominium" and "Condominium Project"

A "condominium project" is a development consisting of condominiums [Civ. Code § 1351(f)]. A "condominium" is an estate in real property, which consists of two types of ownership interests: (1) a "separate interest in space" (called a unit), the boundaries of which must be accurately described in a recorded final map, parcel map, or condominium plan [see Civ. Code §§ 783, 1351(f); see also §§ 34.33[4], [5], and 34.36], and (2) an undivided interest in common in a portion of the real property in the project. The commonly owned real property may be all of the real property in the project except for the units, or may include a particular three-dimensional portion of the property, the boundaries of which are described on a recorded final map, parcel map, or condominium plan [Civ. Code § 1351(f); see § 34.33[7]].

The area or space within the boundaries of the units (and within the boundaries of any "three-dimensional" common area described in the above manner) may be filled with air (e.g., enclosed within walls), earth (e.g., a parcel of real property) [see Bear Creek Master Assn. v. Edwards (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 1470, 1480, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 337 (definition of "condominium" does not require presence of structure or building)], water (e.g., a boat slip in a marina), or any combination of the these. It need not be physically attached to land except by easements for access and, if necessary, support [Civ. Code § 1351(f); see Civ. Code § 783]. The unit will usually consist of airspace. If the unit consists of a parcel of real property, the developer and attorney should consider the possibility of forming a planned development instead [see Ch. 33D, Planned Developments, § 33D.11[2]].

An individual condominium within a condominium project may include a separate interest in other portions of the real property [Civ. Code § 1351(f)].

A condominium may be either an estate of inheritance or perpetual estate, a life estate, an estate for years (e.g., a leasehold or a subleasehold), or any combination of those estates [Civ. Code § 783]. This comports with the Davis-Stirling Act's definition of "separate interest," which provides, in part, that an estate in a unit (or comparable separate interest in another type of common interest development) may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the these [Civ. Code § 1351(l); see § 34.33[1]]. Thus, a condominium purchaser may hold different types of interests in the project, such as a fee interest in his or her condominium unit and certain portions of the common area, plus a leasehold interest in the land.

CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.33

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.33 Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act

[1] In General

The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act ("Act") [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] contains the basic requirements governing the creation and essential attributes of common interest developments. The term "common interest development" should not be confused with "common interest subdivision" as that term is used in the regulations of the Real Estate Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2705(m); see also § 34.37[2]]. A "common interest development" is any of the following [Civ. Code § 1351(c)]:

- A condominium project [see Civ. Code § 1351(f); see also § 34.32];
- A community apartment project [see Civ. Code § 1351(d)];
- A planned development [see Civ. Code § 1351(k); see also Ch. 33D, Planned Developments]; or
- A stock cooperative [see Civ. Code § 1351(m); see also Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives].

Each of these developments consists of common areas [see Civ. Code § 1351(b); see also § 34.33[7]] and separate interests [see Civ. Code § 1351(l); see also § 34.33[5]]. The Act applies only to developments that have a "common area," as that term is defined in the Act [Civ. Code § 1374; see Civ. Code § 1351(b) (definition of "common area")].

A common interest development is created on the recordation of certain project documents [see § 34.144] and the conveyance of a separate interest (coupled with an interest in the common area or membership in the association) to a purchaser [Civ. Code § 1352]. The development must be managed by an association of owners of the separate interests [Civ. Code § 1363(a); see § 34.38[1]].

[2] Applicability to Various Types of Common Interest Developments

Most of the provisions of the Davis-Stirling Act uniformly apply to all common interest developments. To avoid unnecessary repetition, this chapter contains the principal discussion of those provisions of general applicability, and the other Parts in this chapter refer extensively to this discussion. Consequently, unless otherwise indicated, the discussions in this chapter of the Davis-Stirling Act are applicable to all types of common interest developments [see also Ch. 33A, Time-Share Projects , Ch. 33B, Membership Camping Contracts , Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives , Ch. 33D, Planned Developments].

The Act does contain a few provisions that apply to only one type of development. For example, only condominium projects are subject to the provisions of the Act governing partition actions [see Civ. Code § 1359; see also § 34.33[8]], modifications of units for handicapped occupants [see Civ. Code § 1360(a)(2); see also § 34.33[6]], mechanics' liens [see Civ. Code § 1369; see also § 34.33[10]], and presumptions regarding the boundaries of units [see Civ. Code § 1371; see also § 34.33[5]].

Certain requirements of the Act do not apply to common interest developments that are (1) expressly zoned as industrial or commercial developments and (2) limited in use to industrial or commercial purposes [Civ. Code § 1373; see § 34.121, P 1(b) NOTE (list of inapplicable requirements)]. The Legislature created these exceptions after finding that the specified requirements protect purchasers in residential common interest developments, but that they are not necessary to protect purchasers in commercial or industrial developments and would result in unnecessary burdens and costs for those types of developments [Civ. Code § 1373]. Although condominium projects may be devoted to industrial or commercial uses, they are usually exclusively residential. Consequently, this chapter focuses on residential condominium projects.

[3] Declaration and Other Governing Documents

The instruments that govern the operation of a common interest development and its owners' association (collectively termed the "governing documents") are the declaration, bylaws, operating rules of the association, and articles of incorporation or association [see Civ. Code § 1351(j)]. The declaration is the basic governing document for any common interest development [see Civ. Code § 1351(h); see also § 34.202[1][c]]. It must include (1) a legal description of the development, (2) a statement that the development is a condominium project (or community apartment project, planned development, stock cooperative, or combination thereof), (3) the name of the owners' association, and (4) any restrictions on the use or enjoyment of the development that are intended to be enforceable equitable servitudes. The declaration may also contain any other matters the developer or the condominium owners consider appropriate [Civ. Code § 1353; see § 34.202[1][g]; see also former Civ. Code §§ 1350-1370 (former Condominium Act, which governed declarations for condominium projects before 1986)]. The inclusion of restrictions and covenants in a declaration is a way of protecting the common plan of the project and providing for the upkeep of common areas [see Civ. Code § 1357].

Four sets of requirements may apply to the amendment of a declaration. First, the Real Estate Commissioner must approve a proposed amendment if the following apply: (1) it would materially change the rights of any condominium owner; and (2) it is submitted for approval while the developer or the developer's successor in interest holds or directly controls as many as 1/4th of the votes that may be cast to affect the change [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7(a)]. Second, an amendment normally must be approved by the percentage of owners specified in the declaration (or other governing documents) [see Civ. Code § 1355(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; but see Civ. Code § 1355(b) (amendment procedure when declaration is silent regarding amendments)]. Third, if the owners reject an amendment, the association or any owner of a condominium may, under certain circumstances, petition the superior court for an order approving the amendment [see Civ. Code § 1356]. Fourth, the board of directors of the owners' association may utilize a special statutory procedure to adopt an amendment deleting from the declaration certain provisions relating to the construction or marketing of the development [Civ. Code § 1355.5; see Civ. Code § 1355.5(d) (requiring approval by owners)]. For further discussion of these amendment procedures, see § 34.162.

For a discussion of statutory extensions of the term of a declaration [see Civ. Code § 1357], see § 34.202[1][l].

If a dispute arises relating to the enforcement of the declaration or the other governing documents, a related civil action for declaratory or injunctive relief cannot be filed unless at least one of the parties to the dispute has endeavored to submit the dispute to a form of alternative dispute resolution by following the procedure specified in Civ. Code §§ 1369.510-1369.590. Any party to the dispute may initiate this process by serving a Request for Resolution, containing specified information, on another party to the dispute [Civ. Code § 1355(b)]. For further discussion, see § 34.166, P 7.

[4] Condominium Plan

A condominium plan is a plan consisting of (1) a description or survey map of a condominium project that refers to or shows monumentation on the ground [see Goss v. Golinsky (1909) 12 Cal. App. 71, 74-75, 106 P. 604 (monument is natural or artificial object used to mark location on ground of boundary line or corner); see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Boundaries and Descriptions (Matthew Bender)], (2) a three-dimensional description of the project that identifies the common areas and each condominium unit, and (3) a certificate consenting to the recordation of the plan, which must be signed and acknowledged by specified persons [see Civ. Code § 1351(e); see also § 34.142, P 2]. Although the Davis-Stirling Act requires the recordation of a condominium plan as a condition to the creation of a condominium project only "if any exists" [see Civ. Code § 1352(b)], local subdivision ordinances usually require the preparation of such a plan. Obviously, condominium plans are not prepared for other types of common interest developments.

PRACTICE TIP:

Attorney's Role. An engineer or surveyor should prepare the plan since it will contain detailed descriptions of the project, its units, common area, and exclusive use common areas. The attorney should verify that these descriptions are consistent with those set forth in the declaration and the deeds.

A condominium plan will be liberally construed to facilitate the operation of the condominium project, and its provisions will be presumed to be independent and severable [Civ. Code § 1370].

[5] Separate Interests

Each of the four types of common interest developments governed by the Act has a different term for the separately owned areas, spaces, or interests in the development [see Civ. Code § 1351(l)]. "Separate interest," when used in the context of condominiums and condominium projects, means an individual unit [Civ. Code § 1351(l)(2); see Civ. Code § 1351(f) (definition of "unit"); see also § 34.32]. The estate in a separate interest may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the three [Civ. Code § 1351(l)].

Unless the declaration or condominium plan provides otherwise, if walls, floors, or ceilings are designated as the boundaries of a condominium unit (or comparable separate interest), the interior surfaces of the perimeter walls, floors, ceilings, windows, doors, and outlets located within the unit are part of the separate interest and any other portions of the walls, floors, or ceilings are part of the common area [Civ. Code § 1351(l)]. For a discussion of problems potentially arising from reliance on these statutory boundaries, see § 34.202[1][e][i].

In interpreting deeds and condominium plans, the existing physical boundaries of a condominium unit, rather than the metes and bounds expressed in the deed or condominium plan, will be conclusively presumed to be its boundaries, if those boundaries are contained within a building or the unit has been reconstructed in substantial accordance with its original plans. This presumption applies regardless of (1) settling or lateral movement of the building, or (2) minor variances between the boundaries shown on the plan or in the deed and those of the building. The presumption applies only to units in condominium projects [Civ. Code § 1371].

Owners of units must maintain their units unless the declaration provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1364(a); see § 34.33[9]]. If the boundaries of the unit are contained within a building, the owner must observe statutory limitations when making any improvements or alterations within the boundaries [Civ. Code § 1360; see § 34.33[6]].

Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of a condominium unit includes the undivided interest in the common area. Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of the owner's entire estate also includes the owner's membership interest in the owners' association [Civ. Code § 1358(b); see § 34.38]. Slightly different transfer restrictions apply to other types of common interest developments [see Civ. Code § 1358(a), (c), (d)].

Any restrictions on the severability of the component interests in real property in a condominium project that are set forth in the declaration will not be deemed conditions repugnant to the interest created, and thus rendered void, under Civ. Code § 711 [Civ. Code § 1358]. However, these restrictions cannot extend beyond the period in which the right to partition a project is suspended under Civ. Code § 1359 [Civ. Code § 1358; see § 34.33[8]].

Subject to the provisions of the governing documents and other applicable provisions of law, if the boundaries of a condominium unit (or other type of separate interest) are contained within a building, the owner of the unit may make any improvements or alterations within the boundaries of the unit that do not impair the structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any portions of the condominium project [Civ. Code § 1360(a)(1)].

In condominium projects only, the owner of a unit within a building may make modifications to his or her unit, at the owner's expense, to facilitate access for persons who are blind, visually handicapped, deaf, or physically disabled, or to alter conditions that could be hazardous to these persons. If the condominium is on the ground floor or already accessible by an existing ramp or elevator, the owner may also modify the route from the public way to the door of the unit. However, the modifications must comply with certain limitations [Civ. Code § 1360(a)(2); see § 34.165, P 2].

[7] Common Areas and Exclusive Use Common Areas

"Common area" means an entire common interest development except the separate interests (e.g., condominium units) in the development. The estate in the common area may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the three [Civ. Code § 1351(b)]. The common area of a condominium project has two features not found in the common areas of most other common interest developments. First, unless the declaration provides otherwise, the owners of units in a condominium project own the common area as tenants in common, in equal shares, one for each unit or lot [Civ. Code § 1362; see Civ. Code § 1351(f)]. Second, the common area may be all of the real property in the project, except for the units, or may include a particular three-dimensional portion of the project, the boundaries of which are described on a recorded final or parcel map or condominium plan. The area within these boundaries may be filled with air, earth, or water, or any combination, and need not be physically attached to land except by easements for access and, if necessary, support [Civ. Code § 1351(f)].

Unless the declaration provides otherwise, appurtenant to each unit in a condominium project are nonexclusive rights of ingress, egress, and support, if necessary, through the common area [Civ. Code § 1361(a)]. Slightly different access and support entitlements are present in certain other common interest developments [see Civ. Code § 1361].

An exclusive use common area is a portion of the common area that (1) is designated by the declaration for the exclusive use of one or more, but fewer than all, of the owners of the condominium units (or comparable separate interests), and (2) is or will be (see discussion, below) appurtenant to the designated unit(s) [Civ. Code § 1351(i)]. In other words, an exclusive use common area is an exclusive right (or a right shared with some but not all of the other owners) to use a designated portion of the common area. The phrase "will be appurtenant" in the above definition authorizes the allocation of exclusive use common areas after the recordation of the declaration. The developer should provide in the declaration for the future exercise of this option when allocation would be impractical prior to recordation. For example, the developer or the owners' association may wish to wait until condominiums are sold before allocating parking and storage spaces, in order to base the allocations on actual demand, size of household, or other factors.

Unless the declaration provides otherwise, any shutters, awnings, window boxes, doorsteps, stoops, porches, balconies, patios, exterior doors, door frames, related hardware, screens, windows, or other fixtures designed to serve a single unit, but located outside the boundaries of the unit, are exclusive use common areas allocated exclusively to that separate interest [Civ. Code § 1351(i)(1)].

Notwithstanding the provisions of the declaration, internal and external telephone wiring designed to serve a single condominium unit (or comparable separate interest in another type of common-interest development), but located outside the boundaries of the unit, are exclusive use common areas allocated exclusively to that unit [Civ. Code § 1351(i)(2)]. The owner of the unit is entitled to reasonable access to the common areas to maintain the wiring, but access is subject to the association's consent and to other conditions the association deems reasonable. The association's right of approval may include approval of telephone wiring on the exterior of the common areas; this approval cannot be unreasonably withheld [Civ. Code § 1364(f)].

Owners may transfer exclusive use common areas, independent of any other interest in the condominium project, if the declaration expressly authorizes such separate transfers and the transfer complies with the terms of the declaration [Civ. Code § 1358; see § 34.202[2], Section 2.05]. Under no circumstances may an owner separately transfer his or her undivided interest in the common area or membership interest in the association [Civ. Code § 1358(b); see § 34.33[5]].

[8] Partition

The common areas in a condominium project are undivided and may not be nonjudicially partitioned [14859 Moorpark Homeowner's Assn. v. VRT Corp. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1396, 1406-1407, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 712] . They may only be judicially partitioned if the owner of a separate interest maintains a partition action as to the entire project as if the owners of all the separate interests in the project were tenants in common in the entire project in the same proportion as their interests in the common areas [Civ. Code §§ 1358(b), 1359(a), (b); see 14859 Moorpark Homeowner's Assn. v. VRT Corp. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1396, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 712] . A court will order partition only by sale of the entire condominium project and only on a showing of one of the following [Civ. Code § 1359(b)]:

- The conditions for the sale set forth in the declaration have been met.

- More than three years before the filing of the action, the project was damaged or destroyed, so that a material part was rendered unfit for its prior use, and the project has not been rebuilt or repaired substantially to its state prior to the damage or destruction.

- Three-fourths or more of the project was destroyed or substantially damaged and owners of units holding in the aggregate more than a 50 percent interest in the common area oppose repair or restoration of the project.

- The project has been in existence more than 50 years and is obsolete and uneconomical, and owners of units holding in the aggregate more than a 50 percent interest in the common area oppose repair or restoration of the project.

The above restrictions on partition do not apply to the partition of a cotenancy in a condominium or to other types of common interest developments [Civ. Code § 1359].

[9] Maintenance of Components of Project

Unless the declaration provides otherwise, the owners' association [see § 34.38[1]] must repair, replace, and maintain the common areas, other than exclusive use common areas [Civ. Code § 1364(a)]. The association's responsibilities specifically include the duty to make any repairs to the common area occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms, unless the declaration provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1364(b)(1)]. The association may cause the temporary, summary removal of any occupant of the condominium project for any periods and at any times that are necessary for the prompt, effective treatment of the infestation [Civ. Code § 1364(d)(1)]. For these purposes, "occupant" means an owner, resident, guest, invitee, tenant, lessee, sublessee, or other person in possession of the unit [Civ. Code § 1364(e)]. The association must give each affected occupant and owner notice of the temporary relocation not less than 15 days nor more than 30 days before the date of the relocation. The notice must contain specified information [see Civ. Code § 1364(d)(2)] and be delivered in the required manner [see Civ. Code § 1364(d)(3)]. Finally, the costs of the relocation must be borne by the affected unit owner(s) [Civ. Code § 1364(c)].

The owner of each unit (or other separate interest) remains responsible for maintaining the unit and any exclusive use common areas appurtenant to it [Civ. Code § 1364(a)].

[10] Mechanics' Liens

In a condominium project, labor performed or services or materials furnished with the consent or at the request of an owner in the project or an owner's agent or contractor cannot be the basis for the filing of a lien against any other property of any other owner in the project, unless that other owner expressly consented to or requested the performance of the labor or furnishing of the materials or services. However, express consent will be deemed to have been given by the owner of a condominium in the case of emergency repairs to that condominium. Labor performed or services or materials furnished for the common area, if duly authorized by the association, will be deemed to be performed or furnished with the express consent of each condominium owner. The owner of any condominium may remove his or her condominium from a lien against two or more condominiums by paying the holder of the lien an amount equal to the fraction of the total sum secured by the lien that is attributable to the owner's condominium [Civ. Code § 1369].

The above limitations on mechanics' liens do not apply to common interest developments other than condominium projects [see Civ. Code § 1369].

For coverage of mechanics' liens generally, see Ch. 31, Mechanics' Liens .

[11] Inapplicability of Rule Against Perpetuities

The governing documents of a common interest development will not be invalidated by the rule against perpetuities [see Civ. Code § 1370; see also Prob. Code § 21200 et seq. (Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities); Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities].

§ 34.34 Intra-Association Dispute Resolution Procedure

[1] Rationale

The formal alternative dispute resolution (ADR) process [see § 34.35], which is a prerequisite to litigation, contemplates use of a neutral party, such as a mediator or arbitrator [see Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq.]. Although mediation or arbitration may be effective to avert litigation, they are costly remedies in the context of the nonmonetary types of disputes that frequently arise in daily interactions in a common interest development. Believing that people should be able to resolve a dispute involving ordinary living arrangements without having to engage in a formal dispute resolution process, the Law Revision Commission proposed, and the Legislature enacted, a requirement that every homeowners' association must make available a fair, reasonable, and expeditious internal dispute resolution mechanism at no cost to the membership [see Civ. Code § 1363.820(a); see also Alternative Dispute Resolution in Common Interest Developments, 33 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 703-704 (2003)]. This supplements, and does not replace, the formal ADR process that is required as a prerequisite to an enforcement action [Civ. Code § 1363.810(b)]. If an association fails to provide for an internal dispute resolution procedure, a statutorily-prescribed default procedure applies [Civ. Code § 1363.820(c); see Civ. Code § 1363.840].

[2] Disputes to Which Intra-Association Procedure Applies

The intra-association dispute resolution procedure applies to any dispute between an association and a member that involves their respective rights, duties, or liabilities under any of the following [Civ. Code § 1363.810(a)]:

- The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.];
- The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]; or
- The common interest development's or association's governing documents, which consist of the declaration and any other documents, such as bylaws, operating rules of the association, articles of incorporation, or articles of association, that govern the operation of the common interest development or association [see Civ. Code § 1351(j)].

[3] Requirements for Valid Intra-Association Procedure

The intra-association dispute resolution procedure must be fair, reasonable, and expeditious. There is a presumption affecting the burden or proof in favor of any procedure adopted by an association [Civ. Code § 1363.820(a), (b)]. To be considered "fair, reasonable, and expeditious," a dispute procedure must satisfy specified minimum requirements [see Civ. Code § 1363.830]. The "fair, reasonable, and expeditious" standard is not an objective one. It will vary from association to association, depending on such factors as size and involvement of membership. The statutory presumption is intended to avoid squabbles over procedural details and instead focus on the substance of the dispute to be resolved. If an association has a procedure in place, that procedure need not be re-adopted. The existing procedure has the benefit of the presumption [see 33 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to 2003 enactment of Civ. Code § 1363.820].

Provision for an intra-association dispute resolution procedure is included in § 34.202[2], Section 3.10 (sample form of declaration for condominium project). For further coverage, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 385, Homeowners' Associations (Matthew Bender).

CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.35 Formal Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Procedure

An association or an owner or a member of a common interest development may not file an enforcement action in the superior court unless the parties have endeavored to submit their dispute to some form of ADR, which may consist of mediation, arbitration, conciliation, or some other nonjudicial procedure that involves a neutral party in the decision making process. With the parties' consent, the form of ADR chosen may be binding or nonbinding [Civ. Code §§ 1369.510(a), 1369.520(a), (d)].

In the context of the ADR requirement, an "enforcement action" is a civil action or proceeding, other than a cross-complaint, to enforce any of the following [Civ. Code § 1369.510(b)]:

- The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.];
- The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]; or
- The common interest development's governing documents, which consist of the declaration and any other documents, such as bylaws, operating rules of the association, articles of incorporation, or articles of association, that govern the operation of the common interest development or association [see Civ. Code § 1351(j)].

The ADR requirement applies only if the enforcement action is for declaratory, injunctive, or writ relief, or for one of those forms of relief in conjunction with a claim for monetary damages not in excess of the small claims court jurisdictional limit. It does not apply to a small claims action, and, except at otherwise provided by law, it also does not apply to an assessment dispute [Civ. Code § 1369.520(b)-(d); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220, 116.221 (jurisdiction of small claims court)].

In addition to entering into formal ADR process, the owner of a separate interest who is disputing any charge or sum levied by the association, including when the disputed amount does not exceed the jurisdictional limits of small claims court, may pay the disputed amount and any other amounts levied under protest and commence an action in small claims court [Civ. Code § 1367.6(a)].

For further detailed coverage of the formal ADR process and relevant forms, see respectively California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 385, Homeowners' Associations (Matthew Bender) and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments (Matthew Bender).

§ 34.36 Subdivision Map Act

[1] Overview and Applicability to Condominiums

The Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] specifically requires local agencies to enact ordinances regulating and controlling the initial design and improvement of "common interest developments" as defined in Civ. Code § 1351 [Gov. Code § 66411; see discussion of Civ. Code § 1351 in § 34.33].

A condominium project [see Civ. Code § 1351(f)] is a "subdivision" for purposes of the Subdivision Map Act [see Gov. Code § 66424]. However, the conversion of a community apartment project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004 (defined)] or stock cooperative [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2 (defined)] to a condominium is exempt from the requirements of the Act if the conversion meets specified requirements [see Gov. Code § 66412(g), (h); see also § 34.220[1][c][i], [ii]].

For the sake of consistency, this chapter refers to the developer of a condominium project as a "developer," even though "subdivider" is the term used in the Subdivision Map Act.

This chapter discusses the requirements of the Act that apply specifically to condominium projects. For a discussion of the Act as it relates to subdivisions in general, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

[2] Maps Required

A condominium project containing five or more condominiums must have both a tentative map and a final map approved by the local legislative body (with certain limited exceptions) [Gov. Code § 66426; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.110[1]]. The tentative map must be approved first. It is essentially a rough draft which shows the design and improvement of the proposed subdivision and the existing conditions in and around the subdivision. It need not be based on an accurate or detailed final survey [Gov. Code § 66424.5(a)]. The local legislative body uses the tentative map to determine whether or not the proposed project should be approved and what changes (if any) must be made to the project. If it is approved, the final map is prepared by a registered civil engineer or licensed land surveyor, is based on a survey, and incorporates the changes demanded by the local entity [see Gov. Code §§ 66433, 66434, 66456]. After the final map is approved, the developer must record it in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the project is located [see Gov. Code § 66429].

Condominium projects that are not subject to the final map requirement (those containing four or fewer condominiums) must have a parcel map approved by the local legislative body unless the local ordinance waives the statutory parcel map requirement. When a parcel map is required, the local ordinance may also require the filing of a tentative map. If it does not do so, the developer has the option of filing a tentative map in order to take advantage of the review process discussed in the preceding paragraph [Gov. Code § 66428]. Parcel maps, like final maps, must be recorded [Gov. Code § 66429].

A developer may file a "vesting tentative map" in lieu of a "standard" tentative map [Gov. Code § 66498.1(a)]. A vesting tentative map essentially serves as a guarantee to the developer that only those local requirements in effect at the time the map is approved will apply to the development of the project [Gov. Code § 66424.5(b); see Gov. Code § 66452].

PRACTICE TIP:

Consult Local Ordinance. Because local ordinances implement and supplement the statutory requirements, it is essential that counsel consult the local subdivision ordinance before ordering the preparation of a subdivision map or taking any related steps.

CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.37

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.37 Subdivided Lands Act

[1] Applicability to Condominiums

The Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] regulates the sale of subdivided lands (see definition, below) by requiring developers to provide prospective purchasers with a state-issued disclosure document referred to as a public report [see § 34.37[3]]. The Act defines "subdivisions" and "subdivided lands" to include condominium projects containing five or more condominiums [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(c); see § 34.37[2] (listing other types of developments falling within these definitions)], and incorporates by reference the definition of "condominium" set forth in the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(c); Civ. Code §§ 783, 1351(f); see also § 34.32].

The terms "subdivided lands" and "subdivision" also include any interests or memberships in any owners' association created in connection with a condominium project (or other subdivision) and any accompanying memberships or other rights or privileges created in or in connection with a condominium project by any deeds, conveyances, leases, assignments, declarations, articles of incorporation, bylaws, or contracts applicable to these items [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(f)].

This chapter refers to the developer of a condominium project as a "developer" even though such a person or entity is referred to as a "subdivider" under the Subdivided Lands Act.

[2] Implementing Regulations

The implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq.] refer to condominium projects containing five or more condominiums and certain other types of "subdivisions" (certain planned developments, community apartment projects, stock cooperatives, and limited-equity housing cooperatives) as "common-interest" subdivisions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2705(m); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.3-2793 (regulations directly applicable to common-interest subdivisions)]. The term "common interest subdivision" should not be confused with "common interest development" as that term is used in the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code §§ 1350-1378; see § 34.33[1]].

The common interest subdivision regulations are important because they regulate, among other things, the contents of governing instruments [see § 34.37[4]], the establishment of owners' associations, and the permissible methods of levying assessments against condominium owners. The requirements of many of these regulations must be incorporated into the governing instruments [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.15-2792.29; § 34.202[1][d][ii]]. Many of these matters are also governed by the Davis-Stirling Act [see § 34.202[1][d][i]].

[3] Public Report Requirement

The Department of Real Estate and the Real Estate Commissioner implement the regulatory objectives of the Subdivided Lands Act through the use of public reports. A public report discloses important consumer information concerning a particular condominium project, including basic project information (the developer's name, the location, size, and name of the project, the nature of the interest offered, and procedures for handling monies and operating the project) and descriptions of any unusual features of the project, such as hazards, land or other use restrictions, and out-of-the-ordinary financial requirements or arrangements [see California Department of Real Estate Reference Book, Ch. 20, Subdivisions and Other Public Controls, p. 523 (1984-1985 ed.)].

Under the Subdivided Lands Act, no person may sell or lease, or offer to sell or lease, any lots or parcels in a condominium project until the Real Estate Commissioner issues a final public report for the project [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11018.2, 11004.5]. The developer must distribute copies of the report (and certain other documents) to every prospective purchaser or lessee, and obtain written receipts for the distributed reports [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11018-11018.2, 11018.6; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2795, 2795.1(a)].

Before issuing a final public report, the Commissioner may, on request, issue a preliminary public report or a conditional public report covering the project. A preliminary public report permits the developer and the developer's agent to solicit and accept reservations to purchase or lease condominiums, provided certain other requirements are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(b)]. The Commissioner will issue such a report if, in his or her judgment, it is reasonable to expect that the applicant will satisfy all of the requirements for the issuance of a final public report in due course [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(a)]. A conditional public report permits the developer to sell, lease, or offer for sale or lease condominiums in the project, provided delivery of legal title will not take place until a final public report is issued, and certain other requirements are satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(d)]. The Commissioner may issue this type of report if the developer has (among other things) submitted a "qualitatively complete" application for a final public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2], but is unable to satisfy certain additional requirements for the issuance of the final public report. These additional requirements generally involve recordation, filing, or submission of certain supporting documentation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(a)].

Any person who has purchased five or more condominiums in a condominium project from the original recipient of a public report or from a person who succeeded to the original recipient's interest in the units, may not offer those units for sale or lease until the purchaser obtains a public report expressly authorizing the sale of the units [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2801.5].

For the requirements and procedure for obtaining preliminary and final public reports, see §§ 34.143 and 34.200[1].

An applicant for a final public report must submit copies of the governing instruments as part of the application [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(2), (3); see also § 34.143, P 4]. The governing instruments are the declaration, articles, bylaws [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8], and, presumably, any operating rules of the association [see § 34.33[3]]. The Commissioner will not issue a public report for the project unless he or she finds that the governing instruments contain "reasonable arrangements" that protect the interests of condominium purchasers with respect to the management, maintenance, preservation, operation, use, right of resale, and control of the condominium units and any other areas or interests that are or will be included in the project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(e)]. These reasonable arrangements must comply with numerous regulatory requirements (the "reasonable arrangement regulations") promulgated by the Real Estate Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2792.15-2792.29; see also § 34.202[1]]. The only exception to these reasonable arrangement requirements applies to certain "master planned developments" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32; see also § 34.44[3]].

In addition to complying with the Commissioner's regulations, the attorney and developer must comply with any lender requirements for the governing instruments [see § 34.45; see also Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 8C, Financing the Residential Condominium (Matthew Bender)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.38

§ 34.38 Owners' Association

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.; see § 34.33], every condominium project (or other common interest development) must be managed by an association, which may be incorporated or unincorporated [Civ. Code § 1363(a); see Civ. Code § 1351(a) ("association" means a nonprofit corporation or unincorporated association created to manage a common interest development)]. Although these entities may be referred to as community associations [Civ. Code § 1363(a)], they are commonly referred to as owners' (or homeowners') associations. The members of the association are the owners of the condominiums (or comparable separate interests).

Whether or not it is incorporated, the association may exercise the powers granted to the association by the Act. Further, an incorporated or unincorporated association may (unless the governing documents provide otherwise) exercise the powers granted to a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code § 7140], except that an unincorporated association may not adopt or use a corporate seal or issue membership certificates in accordance with Corp. Code § 7313 [Civ. Code § 1363(c)].

The nonprofit corporation organized under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] is the preferred and most prevalent type of owners' association, except perhaps in the case of a very small project. Among other things, incorporation offers the advantages of centralized management [see Corp. Code § 7210], indemnification of directors, officers, and employees [see Corp. Code § 7237], and limited liability of members [see Corp. Code § 7350].

For further discussion of the advantages of an incorporated owners' association, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 385, Homeowners' Associations , Pt. A (Matthew Bender). For a detailed discussion of nonprofit mutual benefit corporations and unincorporated nonprofit associations, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations , and Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations , respectively.

[2] Time of Formation

The formation of an owners' association does not occur, as is commonly believed, after all of the units in a project have been sold and when the new owners of the units assemble together for the first time. Instead, the formation process takes place roughly after the recordation of the condominium plan and subdivision map for the project and before the issuance of the project's final public report. The developer generally forms the association by filing the articles and adopting the bylaws for the association after they have been reviewed by the Department of Real Estate [see § 34.205[1]].

[3] Standing to Sue

An owners' association established to manage a condominium project or other common interest development has standing to institute, defend, settle, or intervene in litigation, arbitration, mediation, or administrative proceedings in its own name as the real party in interest and without joining with it the individual owners of the project, in matters pertaining to the following [Civ. Code § 1368.3; see Civ. Code § 1363(c) (association has these powers whether or not it is incorporated)]:

- Enforcement of the governing documents.
- Damage to the common areas.
- Damage to the separate interests that the association is obligated to maintain or repair.
- Damage to the separate interests that arises out of, or is integrally related to, damage to the common areas or separate interests that the association is obligated to maintain or repair.

For further discussion of actions maintained by owners' associations, including coverage of applicable comparative fault provisions [see Civ. Code §§ 1368.3, 1368.4; see also Standard Fire Ins. Co. v. Spectrum Community Assn. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 1117, 1146-1148, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 804 (homeowners association sued for construction defect damages arising before association came into existence; court reasoned that homeowners association was first entity capable of maintaining legal claim against developers and if it did not have right court would have to conclude that no one at all held cause of action for construction defects)], see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments (Matthew Bender).

[4] Mandatory Alternative Dispute Resolution Process for Construction Defect Disputes

Beginning July 1, 2002, and continuing until July 1, 2017 [see Civ. Code § 1375(r), (s)], before an association representing a common interest development that includes 20 or more units can file a complaint for damages against a builder, developer, or general contractor based on a claim for design or construction defects in the development, the association must initiate a statutory procedure that requires the parties either to settle the matter or submit it to alternative dispute resolution [Civ. Code § 1375(a); see Civ. Code § 1375(p)(3)].

Title 7 of Part 2 of Division 2 of the Civil Code, "Requirements for Actions for Construction Defects" generally applies to litigation involving construction defects in new residences (excluding condominium conversions) that are originally sold on or after January 1, 2003 [see generally Civ. Code § 895 et seq.; see also § 34.49]. Title 7 includes owners' associations that govern common interest developments under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act as potential claimants [see Civ. Code § 895(f); see also § 34.49[2]]. Like Civ. Code § 1375, Title 7 provides for a mandatory pre-litigation procedure. Title 7's pre-litigation procedure gives the potential defendant/builder a right to attempt a repair of any alleged defect prior to litigation [see Civ. Code §§ 910-938; see also § 34.49[5]]. If an association represents a common interest development that includes 20 or more units and the parties comply with the statutory pre-litigation process for actions involving defective construction in new residential condominiums sold on or after January 1, 2003, the parties will be excused from performing this substantially similar pre-litigation dispute resolution process required by Civ. Code § 1375 [Civ. Code § 935; see § 34.49[5]].

For additional coverage of construction defect litigation generally and as it relates to associations governing common interest developments, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 104, Building Contracts (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Chs. 385, Homeowners' Associations , and 441, Consumers' Remedies (Matthew Bender).

[5] Limiting Tort Liability of Individual Owners, Officers, and Directors

Personal liability of individual owners for torts that occur on common areas, and of association volunteer officers and directors for injuries and property damage resulting from their tortious acts or omissions, is virtually eliminated if the association acquires and maintains specified insurance coverage at statutorily prescribed minimum levels [see Civ. Code §§ 1365.7, 1365.9].

To limit the liability of individual owners, the association must maintain and have in effect for a specific cause of action, one or more policies covering the association's general liability for at least $2 million if the development consists of 100 or fewer separate interests, and at least $3 million if the development is larger than 100 separate interests [Civ. Code § 1365.9(b)].

To limit the liability of volunteer officers and directors for their tortious acts and omissions, the association must maintain and have in effect at the time a claim is made the following: (1) general liability coverage for the association, and (2) individual liability coverage for association officers and directors for their negligent acts or omissions that occur when they are acting in that capacity [Civ. Code § 1365.7(a)(4)]. The minimum coverages required are less than those required to limit individual owner liability. If the development consists of 100 or fewer units, the minimum for both types of coverage is $500,000. If the development consists of more than 100 units, the minimum for both types of coverage is $1 million [Civ. Code § 1365.7(a)(4)(A), (B)]. For further discussion, see § 34.202[1][e][xiii].

[6] Status as "Business Establishment" Under Unruh Civil Rights Act

The Unruh Civil Rights Act [Civ. Code § 51] declares that all persons within the jurisdiction of California are free and equal and, regardless of their sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation, are entitled to the full and equal accommodations, advantages, facilities, privileges, or services in all business establishments of every kind whatsoever [Civ. Code § 51(b)]. An association of a condominium project possesses sufficient business like attributes to be considered a "business establishment" for purposes of the Unruh Act when the association, through a board of directors, is charged with the following: (1) employing a professional property management firm, (2) obtaining insurance for the benefit of all owners, (3) maintaining and repairing all common areas and facilities, (4) establishing and collecting assessments from owners, and (5) adopting and enforcing rules and regulations for the common good. These characteristics are typical of virtually all associations [O'Connor v. Village Green Owners Ass'n (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 790, 796-797, 191 Cal. Rptr. 320, 662 P.2d 427] .

The Unruh Civil Rights Act must be construed to prohibit a business establishment from discriminating in the sale or rental of housing based on age. However, when accommodations are designed to meet the physical and social needs of senior citizens, a business establishment may, with certain exceptions, establish and preserve the housing for senior citizens in accordance with Civ. Code § 51.3 [Civ. Code § 51.2(a); see Civ. Code § 51.2(b)]. A housing development for senior citizens constructed after 2002 is presumed to be designed to meet the physical and social needs of senior citizens if it includes elements specified by statute [see Civ. Code § 51.2(d)]. A housing development constructed before February 8, 1982, that meets all criteria for senior citizen housing specified by statute [see Civ. Code § 51.3] may continue to serve as senior citizen housing without being designed to meet physical and social needs of senior citizens [

Civ. Code § 51.2(a)]. For further discussion, see § 34.40[2].

For detailed coverage of the Unruh Civil Rights Act, including a complaint for violation of the Act and affirmative defenses, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 116, Civil Rights: Discrimination in Business Establishments (Matthew Bender).

[7] Title to Common Area

The owners of condominiums in a condominium project usually own the common area as tenants in common [see Civ. Code § 1362; see also § 34.33[7]]. However, if all or a portion of the common area and facilities in a condominium project or other type of common interest subdivision [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8] are to be owned by the owners' association, those areas and facilities must be transferred to the association or to a corporate trustee under a trust agreement acceptable to the Real Estate Commissioner before or coincident with the first transfer or conveyance of a subdivision interest by the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15(a)]. However, the developer may create a contractual right in himself or herself, or may reserve easements of limited duration, for any of the following: (1) common driveway purposes, (2) drainage and encroachment purposes, (3) ingress to and egress from the common areas for the purpose of completing improvements thereon or for the performance of necessary repair work, and (4) in the case of phased projects, for entry onto adjacent property in connection with the development of additional phases of the overall project [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15(b)].

[8] Governing Body

The governing instruments must provide for the creation of a governing body for the owners' association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(8)]. Because most owners' associations are nonprofit corporations, the governing body is usually a board of directors elected by members of the association. The governing instruments must also contain provisions relating to the election and removal of governing body members and officers of the association; the powers, duties, and limitations, if any, on the authority of the governing body; and regular meetings and quorum requirements of the governing body [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(9), (10), (14), (15)]. The Commissioner's "reasonable arrangement" regulations set forth requirements relating to all of the above [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.19-2792.21; see also § 34.37[4]].

[9] Managing Agent

Owners' associations frequently delegate some of their maintenance, management, and related responsibilities to a professional managing agent or management firm [see Civ. Code § 1363(a) (common interest development must be managed by its owners' association); see also Civ. Code § 1364(a) (unless declaration provides otherwise, association is responsible for repairing, replacing, and maintaining common areas)]. A prospective managing agent must provide the association board of directors with prescribed background information related to its qualifications before entering into a management agreement [see Civ. Code § 1363.1; see also § 34.166, P 4]. Once the parties have entered into an agreement, the managing agent is subject to statutory requirements governing the deposit and handling of association funds [see Civ. Code § 1363.2; see also § 34.166, P 5]. However, the amount of document and transfer fees charged by a managing agent in connection with the transfer of title is not limited by statute [Berryman v. Merit Property Management, Inc. (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1544, 1552, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 (although Civ. Code § 1368 prevents homeowners associations from charging inflated fees for documents and for transfer of title, the statute does not constrain the amount that a managing agent can charge)]. For coverage of various management arrangements, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 385, Homeowners' Associations (Matthew Bender).

[10] Members' Meetings

Regular meetings of members of the association must be held at least once each calendar year at a time and place prescribed by the bylaws of the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17(a)]. Further, the board of directors (or other governing body) must promptly schedule a special meeting of the members if the board votes to hold such a meeting or receives a written request for such a meeting signed by members representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17(c)]. A special meeting must also be called as a prerequisite to filing a civil suit against the developer for alleged damage to the common areas, or to specified separate interests in the development [see Civ. Code § 1368.4].

The meetings must be conducted in accordance with (1) a recognized system of parliamentary procedure, or (2) any parliamentary procedures adopted by the association [Civ. Code § 1363(d)]. Additional statutory and regulatory requirements govern meeting notices, quorum requirements, and related matters [see Civ. Code § 1363; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17].

If two or more associations have consolidated any of their functions under a joint neighborhood association or similar organization, members of each participating association must be (1) entitled to attend all meetings of the joint association other than executive sessions, (2) given reasonable opportunity for participation in those meetings, and (3) entitled to the same access to the joint association's records as they are to the participating association's records [Civ. Code § 1363(i)].

[11] Members' Voting Rights

The governing documents must specify one of two types of voting systems for the condominium project. Under the single class system, each member of the association is entitled to one vote for each unit owned. If a unit is owned by more than one person ("co-owners"), each co-owner must be a member of the association, but only one vote may be cast for the unit. This system may be used even when the assessments against owners are unequal [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.18(a); see § 34.39[3]].

The more common voting system provides, at least for a limited time, for a two-class (Class A-Class B) voting system. Initially, all unit owners except the developer are Class A members and the developer is the sole Class B member. Each Class A member is entitled to one vote for each unit owned. The Class B member is entitled to a maximum of three votes for each unit owned by him or her [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.18(b)(1), (2)].

If the two-class voting system is utilized in a single-phase project, the Class B membership must be irreversibly converted to Class A membership when the total outstanding votes held by Class A members equal the total outstanding votes held by the Class B member, or on a prescribed date that cannot be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a unit authorized by the original issuance of the public report for the development, whichever is earlier. In a multiphase development [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27 (applicable annexation requirements); see also § 34.44], the Class B membership must be irreversibly converted to Class A membership on a prescribed date that must not be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a unit authorized by the issuance of the original public report for the most recent phase of the development or the fourth anniversary of the first conveyance of a unit authorized by the issuance of the original public report for the first phase of the development, whichever is earlier [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.18(b)].

Whenever one of the Commissioner's regulations requires the approval of a prescribed majority of the voting power of members of an association other than the developer, the governing instruments must nevertheless permit the developer to cast votes for his or her units unless the proposed action relates to the enforcement of certain bonded obligations of the developer [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.4; see also § 34.202[2], Section 3.07(c)]. To assure the developer of this right, the governing instruments may specify either or both of the following for approval of action: (1) if a two-class voting system is in effect, the vote or written assent of a bare majority of the Class B voting power and the vote or written assent of a prescribed majority of the Class A voting power; and/or (2) if a single class of voting membership exists, either as originally established or after the conversion of Class B to Class A shares, the vote or written assent of a bare majority of the total voting power of the association and of a prescribed majority of the total voting power of members other than the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.18(c)].

CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.39

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.39 Assessments

[1] In General

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], an owners' association must levy regular and special assessments [Civ. Code § 1366(a)]. Further, the association must comply with statutory limitations when increasing or enforcing the assessments, as discussed below [see Civ. Code §§ 1366(b)-(d), 1367, 1367.1]. The regulations of the Real Estate Commissioner also contain requirements for assessments levied against interests in condominium projects (or other common interest subdivisions) [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16]. Most condominium projects are subject to both sets of requirements [see §§ 34.33[1], 34.37[1], 34.39[3]].

[2] Commencement of Assessments and Vesting of Voting Rights

The Commissioner requires that regular assessments against the units in a phase of a multiphase condominium project, or against all units in a single phase project, begin either on (1) the date of the first conveyance of a unit in that phase under authority of a public report, or (2) on the first day of the month following the first conveyance of a unit in the phase [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(f)(1)]. Except when there is an approved subsidization plan that provides otherwise, voting rights attributable to units must not vest until the association has levied assessments against those units [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(f)(2)].

[3] Calculating Amount of Regular Assessments

Assessments imposed under the Davis-Stirling Act may not exceed the amount necessary to defray the costs for which they are levied [Civ. Code § 1366.1]. Regular assessments to defray the expenses attributable to the ownership, operation, and furnishing of common interests by an association must ordinarily be levied against each owner according to the ratio of the number of units owned by the owner assessed to the total number of units subject to assessments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(a)]. However, in the case of a condominium offering in which it is reasonable to anticipate that any owner will derive as much as 10 percent more than any other owner in the value of common services supplied by the association, the assessment against each owner may be determined according to a formula or schedule under which the assessments against the various units bear a relationship that is equitably proportionate to the value of the common services furnished to the respective units [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(b)].

Provisions in a condominium association's declarations and bylaws under which some owners had more voting shares than others and the amount of assessments for common areas and other purposes was tied to the number of voting shares held did not violate California law, including the Davis Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Cebular v. Cooper Arms Homeowners Ass'n (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 106, 122, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 666]. In Cebular, apartment owners owned and operated their apartment building as a stock cooperative. The cooperative operated as a corporation and unit owners in the stock cooperative owned shares in the corporation. Some residents owned more shares than others. The residents voted on operating issues, and the greater the number of shares owned by a resident, the greater his or her vote mattered. When the residents converted the property to condominiums, the residents' shares in the cooperative were converted to votes per unit. Each owner paid assessments commensurate with his or her votes per unit. When a new resident sued the homeowners association alleging violations of the Davis-Stirling Act, the court upheld the association's allocation of voting rights and assessment obligations. The court found that the allocation of assessment obligations need not be tied to the value, square footage, elevation, or views of each condominium unit and was not arbitrary since it was tied to voting rights [Cebular v. Cooper Arms Homeowners Assn. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 106, 121-123, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 666] . Both Civ. Code § 1362 and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(a) and (b) contemplate that the declaration may provide for unequal ownership by condominium owners of common areas as tenants in common. As a result, neither § 1362 nor any regulation prohibit unequal assessments based on greater voting power [Cebular v. Cooper Arms Homeowners Ass'n (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 106, 122, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 666].

The developer and his or her successor in interest (if any) are owners subject to the payment of regular and special assessments against subdivision interests that they own [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(c)].

[4] Exemptions From Payment of Assessments

The governing instruments may exempt the developer and any owner of a subdivision interest that does not include a structural improvement for human occupancy from the payment of that portion of any assessment that is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and the use of structural improvements. In the case of a condominium project, that separately owned unit would have to be a parcel of real property for this exemption to be relevant [see § 34.33[5]]. The exemption may include, but need not be limited to, roof replacement, exterior maintenance, walkway and carport lighting, refuse disposal, cable television, and domestic water supplied to living units [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(c)]. Any such exemption from the payment of assessments must end on the occurrence of the earliest of the following events: (1) the recordation of a notice of completion of the structural improvement; (2) occupation or use of the dwelling unit; or (3) completion of all elements of the residential structures that the owners' association is obliged to maintain [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(c)(1)].

The governing instruments may also exempt the developer and any other owner of a subdivision interest from the payment of that portion of any assessment that is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and use of a common facility that is not complete at the time assessments commence. This exemption must terminate when a notice of completion of the common facility is recorded or the common facility is placed into use, whichever occurs first [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(c)(2)].

[5] Increases in Amount of Regular Assessments

The Davis-Stirling Act authorizes annual increases in the amount of regular assessments, subject to the following restrictions. An association may impose a regular assessment that is as much as 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the association's preceding fiscal year, provided (1) the board of directors of the association has distributed a pro forma operating budget for that fiscal year [see Civ. Code § 1365(a); see also § 34.164, P 1(a)], or (2) the increase is approved by owners constituting a quorum and casting a majority of the votes at a meeting or in an election [Civ. Code § 1366(a), (b); see Corp. Code §§ 7510-7527, 7613 (relevant voting requirements)]. For these purposes, "quorum" means more than 50 percent of the owners of an association [Civ. Code § 1366(a)].

Regular assessments may not be increased more than 20 percent per year without the approval of owners constituting a quorum and casting a majority of the votes at a meeting or in an election [Civ. Code § 1366(b); see also Corp. Code §§ 7510-7527, 7613]. The applicable definition of "quorum" [see Civ. Code § 1366(b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(h)(1)] is identical to the one governing assessment increases of 20 percent or less (discussed above). This approval requirement applies notwithstanding more restrictive limitations imposed by the governing documents [Civ. Code § 1366(b)].

The above restrictions do not apply to assessment increases necessary for emergency situations. An emergency situation is any extraordinary expense that is any of the following [Civ. Code § 1366(b)]:

- Required by a court order.

- Necessary to repair or maintain the condominium project (or other type of common-interest development) or any part of it for which the association is responsible when a threat to personal safety on the property is discovered.

- Necessary to repair or maintain the condominium project or any part of it for which the association is responsible, and that could not have been reasonably foreseen by the board in preparing and distributing the pro forma operating budget [see Civ. Code § 1365; see also § 34.164, P 1(a)].

Before imposing or collecting an assessment in the type of emergency situation described in the third item, above, the board of directors must pass a resolution containing written findings with regard to (1) the necessity of the applicable extraordinary expense, and (2) the reasons the expense was not or could not have been reasonably foreseen in the budgeting process. The resolution must be distributed to the members with the notice of assessment [Civ. Code § 1366(b)].

Special assessments may not exceed the amount necessary to defray the costs for which they are levied [Civ. Code § 1366.1]. Generally, in any fiscal year, they may not exceed 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the association for that fiscal year without the approval of owners constituting a quorum and casting a majority of the votes at a meeting or in an election [Civ. Code § 1366(b); see Corp. Code §§ 7510 et seq., 7520 et seq., 7613 (relevant voting requirements)]. A special assessment that was approved by an overwhelming majority of owners to replenish reserve funds that were depleted to pay for unanticipated repairs, as a matter of law, did not violate Civ. Code § 1366.1 merely because the costs could have been recouped incrementally over time rather than as a lump sum [Foothills Townhome Assn. v. Christiansen (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 688, 693-694, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 516 , disapproved on other grounds in Equilon Enterprises v. Consumer Cause, Inc. (2002) 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 507].

Every special assessment must be levied on the same basis as that prescribed for the levying of regular assessments [see Civ. Code § 1366(b); see also § 34.39[5]]. The emergency exceptions listed above also apply to the limits on special assessments [Civ. Code § 1366(b)(1)]. Thus, in one case the trial court properly ordered a homeowners' association to levy a special assessment to pay a civil judgment arising out of an extraordinary and unforeseeable expense necessarily incurred to repair common areas following the Northridge earthquake [James O'Toole Co. v. Los Angeles Kingsbury Court Owners Assn. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 549, 555, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 894] .

The association must provide the owners of condominiums in the project with written notice of any increase in the amount of a special assessment. The notice must be provided by first-class mail not less than 30 or more than 60 days before the due date of the increased assessment [Civ. Code § 1366(d)].

[7] Delinquencies

Regular and special assessments are delinquent 15 days after they become due, unless the declaration provides a longer time period in which case the longer time period applies [Civ. Code § 1366(e)]. If an assessment is delinquent, the association may recover all of the following [Civ. Code § 1366(e)(1)-(3)]:

- Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent assessment, including reasonable attorney's fees;

- A late charge not exceeding 10 percent of the delinquent assessment or $10, whichever is greater, unless the declaration specifies a late charge in a smaller amount, in which case any late charge imposed cannot exceed the amount specified in the declaration; and

- Interest on all sums imposed at an annual rate not exceeding 12 percent, commencing 30 days after the assessment becomes due, unless the declaration specifies a lesser rate, in which case the lesser rate applies.

[8] Collecting or Securing Debts for Delinquent Assessments Arising On or After January 1, 2006

An association is precluded from resorting to judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure proceedings to collect on a debt arising from delinquent regular or special assessments when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, or interest [Civ. Code § 1367.4(a), (b)]. Instead, the association has the following options [Civ. Code § 1367.4(b)(1)-(3)]:

- File a civil action in small claims court;

- Record a lien on the owner's separate interest and delay foreclosure until the amount of delinquent assessments, exclusive of accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, or interest, equals or exceeds $1,800 or the delinquent assessments secured by the lien are more than 12 months delinquent; or

- Any other manner provided by law, except for judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure.

If an association chooses to record a lien and delay foreclosure, it must, before recording the lien, offer the owner and, if the offer is accepted, participate in the association's dispute resolution process [Civ. Code § 1367.4(b)(2); see Civ. Code § 1368.810 et seq.].

An association that seeks to collect on a debt arising from delinquent regular or special assessments when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is at least $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, or interest, may use any option provided by law, including judicial and nonjudicial foreclosure [Civ. Code § 1367.4(c); see § 34.39[9]].

[9] Liens Recorded On or After January 1, 2003

This discussion applies to assessment liens recorded on or after January 1, 2003 [see Civ. Code § 1367.1(m)].

A regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable fees, and costs of collection, and any reasonable attorney's fees and interest, becomes a debt of a separate interest owner at the time the assessment or other sums are levied [Civ. Code § 1367.1(a)]. If the governing documents so provide, a monetary charge imposed by the association as a means of reimbursing itself for costs incurred in repairing damage to common areas and facilities for which a member or the member's guests or tenants were responsible may also become a lien on the owner's unit [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d); but see Civ. Code § 1367.1(e) (excludes monetary penalty imposed as disciplinary measure)].

At least 30 days before recording a lien on the owner's separate interest to collect a past due debt, the association must notify the owner of record in writing by certified mail. The contents of the notice are prescribed by statute [Civ. Code § 1367.1(a); see Civ. Code § 1367.1(k) (owner's right to request mailing to secondary address)].

Before recording a lien for delinquent assessments, the association must offer the owner and, if the owner accepts, participate in dispute resolution pursuant to the association's "meet and confer" program [Civ. Code § 1367.1(c)(1)(A); see Civ. Code § 1363.810 et seq.]. Before initiating an action to foreclose an assessment lien, the association must once again offer the owner, and if the owner accepts, participate in dispute resolution pursuant either to the association's "meet and confer" program, or alternative dispute resolution with a neutral third party [Civ. Code §§ 1367.1(c)(1)(B), 1367.4(c)(1); see Civ. Code § 1363.510 et seq.]. The decision to pursue either resolution process is the owner's, except that binding arbitration is not available if the association intends to judicially foreclose the lien [Civ. Code §§ 1367.1(c)(1)(B), 1367.4(c)(1)].

For liens recorded on or after January 1, 2006, the decision to record a delinquent assessment lien can only be made by the board of directors, who may not delegate the decision to an agent of the association. Approval of the decision to record must be approved by a majority of the board members at an open meeting, and the vote must be recorded in the minutes [Civ. Code § 1367.1(c)(2)].

To establish the lien, the association must record a notice of delinquent assessment in the county where the owner's unit is located. A copy of the recorded notice must be mailed to every person whose name is shown as an owner of the separate interest in the association's records [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)].

An association may not voluntarily assign or pledge its right to collect payments or assessments, or to enforce or foreclose a lien to a third party, except when the assignment or pledge is made to a federally or state chartered or licensed financial institution as security for a loan obtained by the association. However, this does not affect the association's right or ability to assign any unpaid obligations of a former member to a third party for collection purposes [Civ. Code § 1367.1(g)].

[10] Liens Recorded Before January 1, 2003

Assessment liens recorded before January 1, 2003, are governed by a different statute than those recorded on or after that date [see Civ. Code § 1367(g)]. However, the law governing recording and foreclosing assessment liens recorded before January 1, 2003, is essentially the same as that for liens recorded on or after that date except in the case of a lien recorded before January 1, 2003. For these liens there is no formalized procedure for resolving the problem before recording a lien on an owner's unit [compare Civ. Code § 1367 (governing liens recorded before January 1, 2003) with Civ. Code § 1367.1 (governing liens recorded on or after January 1, 2003)].

[11] Exemption From Execution by Judgment Creditors

Regular assessments that are imposed or collected to perform an association's obligations imposed by either the governing documents or the Condominium Law are exempt from execution by the association's judgment creditors, but only to the extent necessary for the association to perform essential services, such as paying for utilities and insurance. In determining the appropriateness of an exemption, a court must ensure that only essential services are protected [Civ. Code § 1366(c)]. The exemption does not apply to the following [Civ. Code § 1366(c)]:

- Consensual pledges, liens, or encumbrances that have been approved by the association owners, constituting a quorum, casting a majority of the votes at meeting or association election.

- Any state tax lien.

- Any lien for labor or materials supplied to the common area.

[12] Restrictions on Transfer Fees

Neither an association nor a "community service organization or similar entity," defined below, may impose or collect any assessment, penalty, or fee in connection with a transfer of title or any other interest except for an amount to cover (1) the association's actual costs to change its records, and (2) the reasonable cost of furnishing documents and assessment statements required by Civ. Code § 1368(a) and (b) [Civ. Code § 1368(c)(1)].

For these purposes, a "community service organization or similar entity" is a nonprofit entity, other than an association, that is organized to provide services to residents of the common interest development or to the public in addition to the residents, to the extent community common areas or facilities are available to the public. The term does not include an entity that has been organized solely to raise money and contribute to other nonprofit organizations that are tax exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) and that provide housing or housing assistance [Civ. Code § 1368(c)(3)].

The limitation on transfer fees does not apply to a community service organization or similar entity that was established before February 20, 2003, and that exists and operates to fund or perform environmental mitigation or to restore or maintain wetlands or native habitat, as required by the state or local government as a condition of development [Civ. Code § 1368(c)(2)(A)]. The limitation also does not apply to a community service organization or similar entity that satisfies all of the following requirements [Civ. Code § 1368(c)(2)(B)]:

- The organization or entity is not one to which Civ. Code § 1368(c)(2)(A) applies;

- The organization or entity was established and received a transfer fee before January 1, 2004; and

- On and after January 1, 2006, the organization or entity offers a purchaser the option of paying the transfer fee or charge either at the time of transfer or on an installment basis for a period of not less than seven years.

§ 34.40 Occupancy Control

[1] Overview of Statutory Restrictions

To assure a community of compatible residents, the unit owners in a condominium project may establish minimum qualifications for prospective unit purchasers, provided that the standards satisfy federal and state requirements. On the federal level, discriminatory restrictions on the sale of condominium units could violate a number of statutes, the most important of which are Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 [42 U.S.C. § 2000a et seq.] and the Fair Housing Act [42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.]. For further discussion of the federal laws prohibiting discrimination in housing, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 117, Civil Rights: Housing Discrimination (Matthew Bender).

In California, any restrictions on the ownership or use of real property that are based on sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation are void [see Civ. Code § 53]. Further, the antidiscrimination provisions of the Unruh Civil Rights Act [Civ. Code § 51] apply to the owners' association of a condominium project [see Civ. Code § 51; O'Connor v. Village Green Owners Ass'n (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 790, 796-797, 191 Cal. Rptr. 320, 662 P.2d 427 ; see also § 34.40[2]]. Two additional statutory restrictions apply to deeds. First, a provision in a deed in California is void if it purports to restrict the right of any person to sell, lease, rent, use, or occupy the real property to persons because of their race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, source of income, or disability, by providing for payment of a penalty, forfeiture, reverter, or otherwise [Civ. Code § 782(a); see Gov. Code § 12955(a), (d)]. Second, any deed or other written instrument that relates to title to real property, or any written covenant, condition, or restriction annexed to or made a part of any such deed or instrument, that contains any provision that purports to forbid, restrict, or condition the right of any person or persons to sell, buy, lease, rent, use, or occupy the property because of these same categories, will be deemed to be revised to omit that provision [Civ. Code § 782.5(a); see Gov. Code § 12955(a), (d)]. Certain housing for older persons and senior citizens is exempt from these provisions [see Civ. Code §§ 782(b), 782.5(b)].

The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act provides that the covenants and restrictions in a declaration are enforceable servitudes unless unreasonable, and inure to the benefit of and bind all owners of separate interests in the development [Civ. Code § 1354(a)]. Use and occupancy restrictions are an inherent part of any common interest development and are crucial to the stable, planned environment of any shared ownership arrangements [Colony Hill v. Masood Ghamaty (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 1156, 1164, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 247 , citing Nahrstedt v. Lakeside Village Condominium Assn. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 361, 372, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 63, 878 P.2d 1275] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Association Has Latitude in Regulating Use of Units. Unless a homeowners associations practice with regard to the occupancy and use of its members units violates the above federal and state anti-discrimination limitations, the association is given a great deal of latitude in regulating the use of residential units in its development. For example, in Colony Hill, the covenants and restrictions prohibited any use of the residential units other than for purposes of a single-family dwelling. The homeowner's association successfully defended its enforcement of the restrictions when one of its homeowners engaged in serial rental of rooms in his unit to multiple renters. The court held that the association's use restrictions were not unreasonable and therefore enforceable [Colony Hill v. Masood Ghamaty (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 1156, 1164-1166, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 247] .

When housing accommodations are designed to meet the physical and social needs of senior citizens, a business establishment (such as the owners' association of a condominium project) may establish and preserve the housing for senior citizens, under Civ. Code § 51.3 [Civ. Code § 51.2(a); see Civ. Code § 51.3(a) (legislative intent)]. This is an exception to the prohibition against age discrimination contained in the Unruh Civil Rights Act [see Civ. Code §§ 51, 51.2(a)]. The exception does not apply, however, to the extent that it is preempted by certain federal prohibitions against discrimination on the basis of familial status [see Civ. Code § 51.2(a); Pub. L. No. 100-430; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 117, Civil Rights: Housing Discrimination (Matthew Bender)].

Under the senior citizen housing provisions of Civ. Code § 51.3, "housing" or "dwelling unit" means any residential accommodation other than a mobilehome [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(5)]. The interchangeable terms "qualifying resident" and "senior citizen" mean a person 62 years of age or older, or 55 years of age or older in a senior citizen housing development [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(1)]. A "senior citizen housing development" is a residential development consisting of at least 35 dwelling units that is developed, substantially rehabilitated, or substantially renovated for senior citizens. No housing development constructed before 1985 will fail to qualify as a senior citizen housing development merely because it was not originally developed or put to use for occupancy by senior citizens [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(4); see Civ. Code § 51.3(f)]. Any senior citizen housing development that is required to obtain a public report must include in the application, if submitted after July 1, 2001, a complete statement of the occupancy restrictions that apply in the development. A statement of those restrictions must also be included in the public report itself [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.05; Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(4)].

No housing development constructed before 1985 will fail to qualify as a senior citizen housing development merely because it was not originally developed for or originally put to use for occupancy by senior citizens. To qualify as a senior citizen housing development constructed after 1984, a condominium (or stock cooperative, limited-equity housing cooperative, planned development, or multiple-family residential rental property) either (1) must have been developed for, and initially been put to use as, housing for senior citizens or (2) must have been substantially rehabilitated or renovated for, and immediately afterward put to use as, housing for senior citizens [Civ. Code § 51.3(f)].

The CC&Rs and other documents or written policy of a senior citizen housing development must set forth the limitations on occupancy, residency, or use on the basis of age. The limitations may not be more exclusive than to require that one person in residence in each dwelling unit may be required to be a senior citizen and that each other resident in the same unit may be required to be a qualified permanent resident, a permitted health care resident (both of which are defined below), or a person under age 55 who otherwise qualifies to live there [Civ. Code § 51.3(c); see Civ.

Code §§ 51.3(h), 51.4(b) (qualifying persons under 55)]. The limitations may be less exclusive but must at least require that the persons commencing any occupancy of a dwelling unit shall include a senior citizen who intends to reside in the unit as his or her primary residence on a permanent basis [Civ. Code § 51.3(c)]. The CC&Rs and other documents or written policy must permit temporary residency, whether as a guest of a senior citizen or a qualified permanent resident, by a person under 55 for periods of time, not less than 60 days in any year, that are specified in the CC&Rs or other documents or written policy [Civ. Code § 51.3(d)].

A "qualified permanent resident" is a person who both [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(2)]:

- Was residing with the qualifying resident or senior citizen before the death, hospitalization, or other prolonged absence of, or the dissolution of marriage with, the qualifying resident or senior citizen.

- Was at least 45 years of age, or was the spouse, cohabitant [see Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(6) ("cohabitants" are persons who live together either as husband and wife or as domestic partners within meaning of Fam. Code § 297)], or person providing primary physical or economic support to the qualifying resident or senior citizen.

"Qualified permanent resident" also includes a disabled person or person with a disabling illness or injury who is a child or grandchild of the senior citizen or a qualified permanent resident who needs to live in the dwelling unit because of the disability [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(3); see Civ. Code § 54(b) ("disability" defined)]. A person residing in a senior citizen housing development as a qualified permanent resident because of disability may be required by the board of directors, on six months' notice, to cease his or her residency if the disabling condition ends [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(3)(A)]. The board may also take action to prohibit or terminate a qualified permanent resident's occupancy based on a finding that the person is likely to pose a significant threat to the health or safety of others that cannot be ameliorated, provided the due process rights of the disabled person whose occupancy is being challenged are protected [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(3)(B)].

A "permitted health care resident" is a person hired to provide live-in, long-term, or terminal health care to a qualifying resident, or a family member of the qualifying resident providing that care. The care provided must be substantial in nature and must provide either assistance with necessary daily activities or medical treatment, or both. A permitted health care resident is allowed to continue his or her occupancy in the senior citizen's absence, provided a written request is submitted to the board, or the absence is due to hospitalization or medical treatment and the senior citizen expects to return to the unit [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(7), (i)].

On the death, dissolution of marriage, hospitalization, or other prolonged absence of the qualifying resident, any qualified permanent resident (but not a permitted health care resident) will be entitled to continue his or her occupancy of the dwelling unit as a permitted resident [Civ. Code § 51.3(e)].

Any declaration or other document of a condominium project (or stock cooperative, limited equity housing cooperative, planned development, or multiple family residential property) that contained age restrictions on January 1, 1984, is enforceable only to the extent permitted by Civ. Code § 51.3, notwithstanding the January 1, 1985, effective date of Civ. Code § 51.3 or lower age restrictions contained in the declaration or other document [Civ. Code § 51.3(g)]. Further, any person who had the right, on January 1, 1985, to reside in, occupy, or use housing or an unimproved lot subject to § 51.3, will not be deprived of the right to continue that residency, occupancy, or use as the result of the enactment of § 51.3 [Civ. Code § 51.3(h)].

Because of the unusually large concentration of senior communities in Riverside County, and the fact that those communities have been subjected to an unusually large number of civil enforcement actions and litigation by private parties, notwithstanding the senior communities' good faith belief that they were in compliance with the law, the legislature has exempted Riverside County from the general requirements imposed on senior-only housing, and enacted special statutes, which impose less-stringent requirements [see Civ. Code §§ 51.2(c), 51.3(j), 51.4(c), 51.10-51.12; see also 1996 Stats., ch. 1147, § 8 (explanation of legislative intent)].

A housing development for senior citizens constructed after 2000 is presumed to be designed to meet the physical and social needs of senior citizens if it meets all of the following requirements [Civ. Code § 51.2(d)]:

- Entryways, walkways, and hallways in the common areas, and doorways and paths of access to and within the housing units, must meet current legal requirements for wheelchair access in new multifamily housing construction.

- Walkways and hallways in the common areas must be equipped with standard-height railings or grab bars.

- Walkways and hallways in the common areas must be sufficiently well-lighted to assist persons who have difficulty seeing.

- All common areas and housing units must be accessible by elevator or sloped walking ramps.

- The development must be designed to encourage social contact by providing at least one common room and at least some common open space.

- Refuse collection must be provided in a manner that requires minimum physical exertion by residents.

- The development must comply with all other applicable requirements for access and design imposed by law, including the Fair Housing Act [42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.], the Americans with Disabilities Act [42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.], and California regulations related to access for persons with disabilities and handicaps.

[4] Senior Housing Constructed Before 1982

A housing development constructed before February 8, 1982, that meets all criteria for senior citizen housing specified by statute [see Civ. Code § 51.3] may continue to serve as senior citizen housing without being designed to meet physical and social needs of senior citizens [Civ. Code § 51.2(a)]. Any person who, before 1990, resided in, occupied, or used a dwelling in a senior citizen housing development that relied on this exception to the special design requirements cannot be deprived of the right to continue that residency, occupancy, or use as the result of subsequent legislative changes in those requirements [Civ. Code § 51.4(b)].

CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.41

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.41 Securities Regulation

[1] In General

The sale of condominiums is generally exempt from federal and state securities laws, particularly if the purchaser will occupy the unit. However, the sale of certain types of condominiums may be considered the sale of securities and therefore require qualification and/or registration under the securities laws when the purchaser expects a speculative return on the condominium through the efforts of another person. This is most likely to occur in the case of resort condominiums that are maintained and rented by a management agent on the owner's behalf. Although a detailed discussion of securities laws is beyond the scope of this chapter, the following discussion covers the requirements and exemptions that are most likely to apply to the sale of condominium units in California.

[2] Federal Regulation

The sale of condominiums may be subject to the registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] when the offering includes investment contracts or interests in a profit sharing agreement. An investment contract is a scheme whereby a purchaser invests money in a common enterprise with the expectation that profits will result solely from the efforts of others [see SEC v. W.J. Howey Co. (1946) 328 U.S. 293, 298-299, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244 ; see also United Housing Foundation v. Forman (1975) 421 U.S. 837, 853, 95 S. Ct. 2051, 44 L. Ed. 2d 621] . Thus, an offering of condominium units will be an offering of an investment contract if any of the following arrangements are present: (1) the condominiums, with any rental arrangement or other similar service, are offered and sold with emphasis on the economic benefits to the purchaser to be derived from the managerial efforts of the promoter, from rental of the units; (2) participation in a rental pool arrangement is offered; or (3) the purchaser is offered a rental or similar arrangement whereby the purchaser must hold his or her unit available for rental for any part of the year, must use an exclusive rental agent, or is otherwise materially restricted in his or her occupancy or rental of the unit [SEC Release No. 33-5347 (January 4, 1973); see Hocking v. Dubois (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 1449 (rental pool arrangement)]. In Hocking, the court determined whether the purchase of a condominium at the heart of the case involved a "security" within the means of the Federal Security Laws by determining whether the buyer's purchase of the condominium and rental pool was (1) an investment of money, (2) in a common enterprise, (3) with an expectation of profits produced by the efforts of others [Hocking v. Dubois (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 1449, 1455-1457] .

The Securities and Exchange Commission will not issue a no-action letter concerning the possible applicability of the federal securities laws to a particular condominium offering [see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 18, The Securities Law Implications of Condominium Marketing Programs Which Feature a Rental Agency or Rental Pool (Matthew Bender)]. Thus, the developer and his or her attorney must make their own determination concerning this matter. For further discussion of the applicability of the federal securities laws to the sale of condominiums, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 18, The Securities Law Implications of Condominium Marketing Programs Which Feature a Rental Agency or Rental Pool (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender).

[3] State Law

Offers or sales of securities in California must be qualified with the Department of Corporations under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.] unless they are otherwise exempted [see Corp. Code § 25100]. A security consisting of an interest in subdivided lands or a subdivision or in a real estate development is specifically exempt from qualification unless an investment contract is sold or offered for sale with or as part of that interest [Corp. Code § 25100(f)]. Condominiums fall within the definition of "real estate development" [see Corp. Code § 25015; see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 5, Problems Relating to Special Types of Issuers and Securities (Matthew Bender)]. Further, "subdivided lands" and "subdivision" are defined by reference to their definitions in the Subdivided Lands Act [Corp. Code § 25021; see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11000, 11004.5], and therefore include condominium projects containing five or more condominiums and the other common interest subdivisions regulated by that Act [see § 34.37[1]].

This exemption has been applied to the offer and sale of memberships in a California nonprofit corporation that was to build a condominium project [Calif. Corp. Comm. Op. No. 73/58C] and to one that was to manage and operate a condominium project in which the memberships would be appurtenant to the condominium units [Calif. Corp. Comm. Op. No. 73/116C].

As mentioned above, the exemption set forth in Corp. Code § 25100(f) does not apply when an investment contract is involved. An "investment contract" is a security [Corp. Code § 25019 ("security" defined)] consisting of any scheme in which a person invests money with the expectation of realizing profits solely, or at least primarily, from the efforts of a third party [see Calif. Corp. Comm. Ops. Nos. 73/124C, 72/138C]. An example of such a scheme would be a rental pool agreement between unit owners and a management entity under which the latter assumes responsibility for maintaining and renting participating units, with the resulting profits divided among the nonresident owners [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender)]. Thus, the offer and sale of condominium units when offered with the opportunity of joining a rental pool is an investment contract (and therefore subject to the state qualification requirements) because membership in the rental pool would result in prospective profit or income to the owners through the efforts of a management corporation [Calif. Corp. Comm. Op. No. 72/87C].

The principal federal and state environmental laws that may affect the development of condominium projects in California include the following:

- The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) [42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.; see 40 C.F.R. § 6.100 et seq.].

- The California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 15000 et seq.].

- The California Coastal Act of 1976 [Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.; see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13001 et seq.].

Condominium projects located in certain geographical areas may also be subject to further regulation by regional agencies, such as the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission [see Gov. Code § 66600 et seq.; 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 10110 et seq.] and the California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency [Gov. Code § 67000 et seq.].

For discussion of the impact of environmental laws on construction projects in general, see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits .

[1] In General

The owner of an apartment building or other multiunit residential structure may desire to convert the building to condominiums for a variety of reasons. However, the goal of most "converters" is to receive greater sales receipts from the sale of individual condominium units than they would receive from the sale of the building or complex as a whole [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender)]. From a practical standpoint, the likelihood of successfully converting a residential building to condominiums is influenced by several factors, including the conversion requirements of the local ordinance [see § 34.43[3]], the quality of construction of the existing building, the degree of renovation required for conversion, whether amenities such as parking and recreational facilities will have to be added, the location of the building, and the vacancy and tenant turnover history of the building. For further discussion, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 3A, Conversion of Existing Buildings to Condominium Status (Matthew Bender).

[2] Statutory Requirements

The statutory requirements regulating the formation and sale of a converted condominium project are essentially the same as those applicable to a newly constructed condominium project. The vast majority of these requirements are set forth in three acts. First, the public report requirements of the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and its implementing regulations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq.] apply to conversions or new construction creating condominium projects containing five or more condominium units [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11004.5(c), 11018.2; see also § 34.37[1]]. To obtain the public report, the converter must submit the standard application plus a supplemental conversion questionnaire [see DRE Form 639, available at http://www.dre.ca.gov/form500.htm.].

Second, a condominium conversion is subject to the requirements of the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] unless (1) it involves the conversion of a community apartment project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004] or stock cooperative [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2], and (2) the conversion meets certain specified requirements [see Gov. Code § 66412(g), (h); see also § 34.220[1]]. The Subdivision Map Act requires, depending on the number of condominiums in the project, the preparation and recording of either a final or parcel map [see § 34.36[2]]. That Act also requires converters to give existing tenants a series of notices regarding the proposed conversion and the tenants' exclusive 90-day right to purchase their units [see Gov. Code § 66427.1; see also § 34.145; §§ 34.220-34.226].

The third major law applicable to condominium projects, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], applies to any converted project that falls within the broad definition of "common interest development" [see Civ. Code § 1351(c); see also § 34.33[1]].

[3] Local Ordinances

Pursuant to their authority under the Subdivision Map Act, local governments may enact ordinances regulating condominium conversions [see 58 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 41] . These ordinances are extremely important because they may effectively prohibit conversions in any given area. While such ordinances vary in terms of restrictiveness, they usually deal with all or at least one of the following areas: tenant approval and notice requirements, the converter's relocation obligations, and social housing policy. For example, some ordinances require tenant approval of conversions. Local relocation assistance obligations may require the developer to help tenants find new apartments, subsidize the amount of any increased rent, and pay moving expenses. Finally, some ordinances prohibit conversions if the apartment vacancy rate in the area is less than a specified percentage or if it is determined that the project would have a significant effect on the overall rental housing market in the area [see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 3A, Conversion of Existing Buildings to Condominium Status (Matthew Bender)].

CHAPTER 34 CONDOMINIUMS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.44

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.44 Developing Project in Phases

A developer may elect to develop a condominium project or similar development in separate stages or "phases," particularly when the project involves the construction of a large number of units over a substantial period of time. Reasons for phased development include, but are not limited to: (1) insuring that there is a sufficient market demand for the units; (2) avoiding the payment of assessments on units constructed but not sold; (3) reducing financing costs by securing a separate construction loan for each phase; and (4) greater ease in satisfying the common lender requirement that at least 51 percent of the units in the project be sold before escrow can be closed on any of the units [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender); see also § 34.45[2]].

Further, by phasing a project, "the developer may also want to test the market initially and then change the design or the mix of the units based on the experience gained from selling the first phase of the project. If the project is not phased, once the developer has recorded the map and plan for a condominium project, he or she will not be able to go back and change the design of the units by resubdividing the airspace units without the consent of the purchasers. By phasing the project, the developer can change the design and mix in the later phases of the project without having to get the consent of owners in an earlier phase" [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 11.4, p. 420].

In addition, since "the Department of Real Estate requires a bond or other security for the estimated cost of completing common area facilities" and since bonding costs can be substantial, if the project is divided into phases, each one having a separate final map, the developer may be able to reduce the common area improvements that must be bonded, and therefore, reduce the bond costs. In addition, "the Department of Real Estate also requires a bond to be put up for six months' worth of association assessments." Therefore, by phasing the project, the size of the bond can be reduced, with each phase having its own separate six month bond [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 11.6, p. 421].

Phasing a project can also create unique problems that require careful attention to detail in drafting the condominium documents. For example, problems may arise because of lender reluctance to accept mortgages on units whose percentage share in the common areas may decrease with the annexation of each new phase, and because of the complexity of transferring title to the common elements from one phase to another after the annexation of each new phase. For a discussion of these problems and some suggested solutions, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 16, Construction of Enabling Legislation and Project Documentation (Matthew Bender).

Provisions in the declaration providing for the annexation of real property to an existing condominium project or other common interest subdivision must require the vote or written assent of at least two-thirds of the total voting power of the owners' association (excluding the developer), unless the proposed annexation substantially conforms to a detailed plan of phased development submitted to the Real Estate Commissioner with the application for a public report [see § 34.200[2]] for the first phase of the subdivision [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27(a)]. For a list of the required contents of the plan of phased development [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27(b)], see § 34.143, P 6.

For the Real Estate Commissioner to approve the phasing of a project, a phasing schedule must be prepared by the developer and submitted to the Real Estate Commissioner. Such phasing plan should include language that affords the developer the greatest "flexibility with respect to the future phases. This can be done by specifically reserving the right to change the number of phases, the order of the phases, or the number of subdivision interests in any phase, or, in the alternative, it can be done by describing the property to be annexed in the future in general terms, and providing that it may be divided into any number of individual phases. The latter approach poses some difficulties in predicting the changes in the budget for the project that will result from subsequent annexations" [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 11.24, p. 433].

The developer of a phased common interest subdivision must obtain a public report from the Real Estate Commissioner for each phase. A complete application package and filing fee is required for each public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2798; see § 34.200[2]].

Regular assessments against the subdivision interests in a phase of a multi-phase subdivision or against all subdivision interests in a single-phase subdivision must commence (1) on the date of the first conveyance of a subdivision interest in that phase under the authority of a public report, or (2) on the first day of the month following the first conveyance of a subdivision interest in the phase [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(f)(1)]. In addition, if the annexed property has been rented for at least one year before the closing of the first unit or lot in the annexed phase, the declarant must pay to the association appropriate amounts for reserves for replacement or deferred maintenance of common area improvements in the annexed phase [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27(b)(4)].

Voting rights attributable to subdivision interests in a phase will not vest until assessments against those interests have been levied by the association, except in subdivision offerings where there is an approved subsidization plan that provides otherwise [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(f)(2)].

[3] Master Planned Developments

There are special regulations for master planned developments. A "master planned development" is (1) a "planned development" as defined by Civ. Code § 1351(k) [see Ch. 33D, Planned Developments], (2) consisting of 500 or more separate residential interests and one or more subdivisions, (3) developed in two or more phases, and (4) managed by a community association that is responsible for maintaining and operating areas and/or facilities affecting the master planned development and enforcing the development's use restrictions. If the development meets these criteria, it will be treated differently from the smaller common interest developments. A development that does not satisfy all of these criteria may nonetheless be treated as a master planned development if the developer can demonstrate from specific facts and circumstances that it should be so treated [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(a)].

The special regulations that apply to master planned developments recognize that control by the developer over the development's governing body and architectural control committee is ordinarily necessary on a master planned development project until a reasonable portion of the project has been completed. As such, the regulations provide the developer with more latitude over association governance and architectural committees than is generally applied to other types of common interest developments. More specifically, the Department of Real Estate only requires that the governing instruments of a master planned development substantially conform to the applicable standards set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(c)-(g), which provide for [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(b)]:

- The transition of voting power from the developer to the transferors of separate interests as more and more separate interests are transferred [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(c)];

- Division of the project into geographical districts each of which is individually represented by delegates to a Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(d)];

- Relaxed quorum requirements for adjourned meetings of the Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(e)];

- Ensuring that the developer has a majority of the voting power on the Master Association in the early stages of development with that power phased out over time and ultimately ceasing to exist on the occurrence of specified events [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(f)]; and

- During the initial stages of development, the appointment of members of the Architectural Control committee, who need not be members of the Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(g)].

In addition, if the development will include any residential structure or other major special benefit facility or amenity that is to be commonly maintained or operated for the use or benefit of some but not all of the homeowners within the Master Planned Development, ordinarily one or more separate homeowners associations must be established to maintain that structure or to maintain and operate the facility or amenity under arrangements that are substantially similar to the Department of Real Estate regulations for smaller common interest developments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(h); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.4 (Enforcement of Bonded Obligations), 2792.8(a) (Governing Instruments), 2792.15 (Transfer of Common Areas and Facilities to Association), 2792.26 (Member Discipline)].

The subdivider of a Master Planned Development may enter into an arrangement with the Master Association to sell or to convey common area amenities under a lease purchase arrangement to the Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(j)]. All common area amenities subject to this arrangement must be (1) specifically identified and defined as "common area" or "future common areas" in the CC&Rs, (2) a part of the proposed Master Planned Development, (3) accessible to all homeowners who will be charged an assessment to pay for the amenity, and (4) located on a separate lot or parcel [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(j)(1)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.45

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.45 Financing

[1] Construction Financing

The developer of a condominium project or other type of common interest subdivision/development normally obtains construction financing to pay for the proposed improvements and related expenses. Construction financing almost invariably takes the form of a short-term loan secured by a blanket deed of trust on the project. The lender charges a relatively high interest rate, which is based on the lender's expenses and risks, and disburses the loan proceeds on the completion of specified stages or percentages of construction [see generally Ch. 30A, Construction Financing].

Lending institutions usually insist that a specified percentage (such as 50 percent) of the units in the project be sold and in escrow before (1) any of them may be conveyed to individual owners, and (2) the lender will issue concurrent releases from the blanket lien. If this presale requirement is not satisfied, the lender can foreclose against the entire project [see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender)].

As a further condition to making a construction loan, the lender may insist that the developer obtain a written commitment for permanent financing [see § 34.45[3]].

If the proposed project is subject to the requirements of the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.], the construction loan agreement and deed of trust must be subordinated to the requirements of the declaration [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(c); see also § 34.203]. In addition, if a portion of the common area is to be conveyed to the homeowners association, "the loan documentation also must provide for releases of the common areas of the project from the lien of the construction loan, so that such common area can be conveyed free of encumbrances to the homeowners association prior to the conveyance of the first subdivision interest in the project" [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 13.3, p. 716].

"A typical construction loan commitment letter includes the promise of the lender to make a loan for a certain percentage, usually 80 percent, of the appraised value of the completed project." Further, the loan commitment letter will typically specify (1) the term of the commitment, which is generally long enough to allow for completion of construction; (2) the term of the loan; (3) the interest rate; (4) the loan fees; and (5) a list of conditions precedent to making the loan. Counsel for the developer should assure that the commitment letter include a release clause that will allow the lien of the deed of trust to be removed from title to the individual on the payment of a prorate portion of the principal, plus accrued interest, to the lender [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 13.6, pp. 717, 719].

For further discussion of construction financing, see Ch. 30A, Construction Financing , and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 420, Financing Construction and Development (Matthew Bender).

[2] Overview of Long-Term Financing

A "permanent" or "take-out" loan is a long term loan, payable in installments over a period of several years, which is used to "take out" or pay off an interim construction loan within a short time after completion of construction. In the case of a condominium project, each purchaser of an individual condominium unit obtains financing (or makes alternative arrangements for payment) for his or her unit, independently of the other owners in the project. This financing is similar to permanent financing for single family residences, with the characteristics of the financing dependent on the lender and the liquidity of the mortgage market at the time of the mortgage contract.

The long term or permanent lender has a lien on the purchaser's unit and can foreclose only on that unit following a default. These loans are attractive to lenders because the lender does not have to assume the risk of a blanket mortgage. Further, the only financial interdependence among the unit owners is the sharing of the costs of maintaining the common area of the project. Finally, foreclosure and resale are relatively simple because each unit is a separately marketable piece of realty [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender)].

[3] Permanent Commitments

Construction lenders typically insist on a written guarantee that purchasers of condominiums in the project will be able to obtain the permanent financing they need to pay for the units and to "take out" the construction loan. A developer will usually obtain such a guarantee from a single permanent lender. The lender may agree to provide permanent financing for a large minimum number of the unsold units, or may make a standby commitment to provide permanent financing to qualified applicants who are unable to obtain alternative financing. Although required by the construction lender, the permanent commitment also benefits the developer because the availability of financing makes it easier to market the units [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender)].

In some cases, one lender will provide both the construction financing and the permanent financing (as separate loans or as a combination loan). Under that arrangement, the blanket lien on the project is converted into a lien on the individual condominiums as each unit is purchased, and the developer is released from further liability on the portion assumed by the purchaser. The purchaser of each unit may assume a proportionate share of the promissory note executed by the developer, or the parties may choose to use a new note [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 471, Condominiums (Matthew Bender)].

In other cases, a construction lender may require that another financing arrangement be established, such as a bridge loan, before it will fund its loan, or it may allow the developer to proceed without a permanent loan or a bridge loan in place [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 13.5, pp. 717-718].

[4] Overview of Lending Institutions

Institutional lenders are the principal sources of financing for construction and development projects. The entities that are most likely to make loans secured by real estate are savings and loan associations, banks, life insurance companies, mortgage companies, industrial loan companies, and real estate investment trusts. For discussion of the regulation of these entities, see Ch. 25, Real Estate Loans , and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 420, Financing Construction and Development (Matthew Bender).

The institutions that make long term loans usually fall into one of the three following categories: (1) conventional portfolio lenders, (2) conventional "pass-through" lenders, (3) and government lenders.

[5] Conventional Portfolio and Conventional "Pass Through" Lenders

Conventional portfolio lenders originate loans secured by a first deed of trust with the intent of retaining the loans as a long term investment. They are generally active in the secondary mortgage market both as buyers and sellers. These lenders are usually large institutional lenders, such as savings and loan associations and banks [see California Condominium and Planned Development Practice (Cal. CEB 1984), Ch. 5, Financing Condominiums and Planned Developments].

Conventional "pass-through" lenders originate loans secured by first deeds of trust and then sell them in the secondary market within a short period of time. Mortgage companies and small banks and savings and loans fall within this category [see California Condominium and Planned Development Practice (Cal. CEB 1984), Ch. 5, Financing Condominiums and Planned Developments].

[6] Government Lenders

Government lenders advance loans that are secured by first deeds of trust and insured or guaranteed by a federal agency. The most active agencies in this area are the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) [see California Condominium and Planned Development Practice (Cal. CEB 1984), Ch. 5, Financing Condominiums and Planned Developments].

This type of financing has not played a major role in the financing of the construction of condominium projects and the purchase of condominium units, for several reasons. First, the loans have relatively low limits. Second, those who can afford to purchase residential units are often eligible for conventional financing. Third, satisfying the requirements for these loans is difficult, expensive, and time-consuming [see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 9, Financing the Condominium (Matthew Bender)].

The requirements include prior FHA or VA approval of the organizational documents for the project. The FHA has prepared governing documents that must be used and modified, to the extent necessary, to comply with California law. The documents and relevant policies are described in FHA Handbooks 4265.1 and 4580.1 [see FHA Handbook 4135.1 (planned developments)]. The guidelines for obtaining VA approval are found in DVB Circular 26-85-27 (6/25/85). The VA regional offices in southern California have prepared model condominium documents. However, these documents are not used in northern California, and they do not include many requirements imposed by conventional lenders and the FHLMC and FNMA [see § 34.45[7]]. The Department of Real Estate has indicated that as a practical matter the FHA and VA forms are never submitted to it as the governing documents for condominium projects that are subject to the public report requirement of the Subdivided Lands Act [see § 34.37[3]].

An attorney who is attempting to satisfy FHA or VA requirements and has no prior experience in this area should initially contact the nearest regional office of the appropriate agency for information and assistance, and consider retaining someone who has experience in preparing FHA and VA loan application packages [see California Condominium and Planned Development Practice (Cal. CEB 1984), Ch. 5, Financing Condominiums and Planned Developments].

For a detailed discussion of FHA and VA requirements, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 9, Financing the Condominium (Matthew Bender).

[7] Secondary Mortgage Market

The secondary mortgage market is heavily influenced by two federally chartered private mortgage associations, the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA or "Fannie Mae") and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC or "Freddie Mac"). Both FNMA and FHLMC have established guidelines that must be followed before they will approve mortgages for purchase from primary lenders.

In the case of FHLMC, the lender offering the mortgage or deed of trust for sale must ensure that the management documents of the owners' association contain certain warranties designed to protect the interests of the holder of the first mortgage on the unit or project. The requirements for these warranties are set forth in the FHLMC Sellers' and Servicers' Guide published by FHLMC. The seller, through counsel approved by the FHLMC, must, in the case of new projects, be able to provide FHLMC with an attorney's opinion letter that warrants that all of the FHLMC requirements have been met. Because FHLMC purchases mortgages only from strictly regulated lending institutions, such as savings and loan associations, its attitude towards the purchase of mortgages is relatively liberal. On proper application to FHLMC, some of the warranties may be waived.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) participates in the secondary mortgage market in much the same fashion as FHLMC; however, because FNMA purchases mortgages from institutions that are not strictly regulated by the federal government, such as mortgage banks, its requirements are much more demanding and less subject to waiver than those of FHLMC. Most of the FNMA requirements are set forth in the FNMA Lending Guide. Like FHLMC, FNMA requires that an approved attorney draft an opinion letter which warrants that the project documents and the condominium structure itself meet all FNMA requirements. The attorney's opinion letter must be submitted to FNMA for review and approval along with all project documents before FNMA will approve the mortgage for purchase.

Many conventional lenders, particularly conventional "pass-through" lenders, supplement their own requirements with those of the FHLMC and/or FNMA.

For further discussion of FHLMC and FNMA requirements, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 9, Financing the Condominium (Matthew Bender).

§ 34.46 Taxation of Owners' Association

[1] Criteria for Tax-Exempt Status

An owners' association will, as a general rule, be treated as a tax-exempt organization under state and federal law if it satisfies the following criteria:

- It takes the form of a condominium management association, a residential real estate management association, a timeshare association [I.R.C. § 528(c)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t; Treas. Reg. § 1.528-1(a); see I.R.C. § 528(c)(2)-(4)], or, for state taxation purposes only, a cooperative housing corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(e) ("cooperative housing corporation" includes certain limited-equity housing cooperatives)].

- Substantially all of the units, lots, and buildings are used by individuals as residences, or, in the case of a timeshare, members hold a timeshare right to use, or a timeshare ownership interest in, real property constituting association property [I.R.C. § 528(c)(2), (3), (4); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(a); see Treas. Reg. § 1.528-4(a)].

- It is organized and operated to provide for the acquisition, construction, management, maintenance, and care of association property [I.R.C. § 528(c)(1)(A); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(a)].

- At least 60 percent of its gross income for the taxable year is derived from membership dues, fees, or assessments [I.R.C. § 528(c)(1)(B); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(a)(1)].

- Ninety percent or more of its expenditures for the taxable year are made for the acquisition, construction, management, and maintenance of association property [I.R.C. § 528(c)(1)(C); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(a)(2)].

- No part of its net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, except through the acquisition, construction, management, maintenance, or care of association property or through the rebate of excess membership dues, fees, or assessments [I.R.C. § 528(c)(1)(D); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(a)(3)].

"Association property" is (1) property held by the organization, (2) property commonly held by the members of the organization, (3) property within the organization privately held by the members of the organization [I.R.C. § 528(c)(5)(A)-(C); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(b)(1)-(3)], or (4) for federal taxation purposes only, property owned by a governmental unit and used for the benefit of residents of the unit [I.R.C. § 528(c)(4)(D)]. In the case of a timeshare association, "association property" includes property in which the timeshare association, or members of the association, have rights arising out of recorded easements, covenants, or other recorded instruments to use property related to the timeshare project [I.R.C. § 528(c)(5); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(b)].

Under California law, the tax-exempt association must transfer to and hold in trust any amounts received as membership dues, fees, and assessments that are not expended for association purposes during the taxable year, in order to provide for the management, maintenance, and care of association property and common areas [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(a)(4)].

Both state and federal law require the owners' association to make an election to be treated as a tax-exempt organization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t (one-time election); I.R.C. § 528(c)(1)(E) (annual election)].

[2] Exempt and Taxable Income

A qualifying owners' association is taxed on gross income, less (1) a $100 exclusion (under both state and federal law) [I.R.C. § 528(d)(2)(A); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(c)(1)]; (2) all allowable deductions directly connected with the production of gross income; and (3) its exempt function income [I.R.C. § 528(d)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(c)(1)(A), (B)]. "Exempt function income" is defined under federal law as any amount received as membership dues, fees, or assessments from the owners of condominium housing units in the case of a condominium management association, from the owners of real property in the case of a residential real estate management association, or owners of timeshare rights to use or timeshare ownership interests in, real property in the case of a timeshare association [I.R.C. § 528(d)(3)]. California law defines that term to include all amounts received as membership fees, dues, and assessments from tenant-shareholders or owners of residential units, residences, or lots, or, in the case of a timeshare association, owners of timeshare rights to use, or timeshare ownership interests in, association property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(c)(2)]. Thus, an owners' association that elects to be treated as a tax-exempt organization will be taxed only on its net income from investments and business with nonmembers [see Federal Taxes Affecting Real Estate, Ch. 16, Special Forms of Holding Real Estate (Matthew Bender)]. Federal law applies a flat rate of 30 percent to this taxable income (32 percent in the case of a timeshare association) [I.R.C. § 528(b)], while California taxes it at the corporate tax rate [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(c)].

Federal law prohibits an electing owners' association from claiming a net operating loss deduction [I.R.C. § 528(d)(2)(B)]. As a result, if the electing association's allowable deductions for membership income, plus any operating losses carried over from previous years, exceeds the membership income, the association could pay more federal tax than if it had not made the election [see Federal Taxes Affecting Real Estate, Ch. 16, Special Forms of Holding Real Estate (Matthew Bender)].

For federal income tax purposes, a condominium is treated as any other single family residence [see Rev. Rul. 64-31, 1964-1 C.B. 300]. Therefore, a condominium unit owner, like any other homeowner, may deduct interest paid or accrued on his or her deed of trust, provided the condominium is the owner's principal residence or a second residence [I.R.C. § 163(a)]. Further, the unit owner may deduct state and local real property taxes [I.R.C. § 164(a)], and qualify for the exemption from tax on gain realized on the sale of a principal residence, which generally applies to sales and exchanges occurring after May 6, 1997 [see I.R.C. § 121]. For a more detailed discussion of the federal income taxation treatment of a condominium unit owner, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 14, Income Tax Consequences of Condominiums, and Ch. 15, The Taxable Income of the Condominium as an Organization (Matthew Bender).

For purposes of California income tax, a condominium unit owner is treated essentially the same as under the federal income taxation system. Hence, the unit owner may deduct payments of interest and real property taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17201, 24344, 24345], and may be eligible for the limited exclusion from gross income available following the sale or exchange of the owner's principal residence [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17131].

For purposes of California real property tax, condominiums [see Civ. Code § 783 (relevant definition)] are separately assessed to each owner in fee. If a condominium is not owned in fee, it will still be separately assessed to either the owner of the condominium or the owner in fee or both, if the assessor agrees in writing. Any such agreement will be binding as long as the project remains divided into condominiums [Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.3]. The tax on a particular unit constitutes a lien on that unit but not on any other units [Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.3]. Before each unit can be separately assessed, the title to at least one unit must be conveyed, because a condominium, by definition, involves ownership of undivided interests by two or more persons [County of Los Angeles v. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 809, 814-815, 83 Cal. Rptr. 740] .

§ 34.48 Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

[1] Filing Requirement, Generally

If a developer intends to offer for sale or lease any lot by means of (1) instruments of transportation or communication in interstate commerce, or (2) by mail, then the developer must file documents with the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development under the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act (the "ILSFDA") [15 U.S.C. § 1702 et seq.)]. The ILSFDA includes a condominium as a "lot" [see 24 C.F.R. § 1710.1].

[2] Exceptions

The ILSFDA includes a number of exceptions, including, but not limited to, the following:

- Developments of fewer than 25 lots or units [see 15 U.S.C. § 1702(a)(1)].

- The sale or lease of lots on which there is a residential, commercial, or industrial building, or on which the seller is under a contractual obligation to erect such a building within a period of two years. This is the so-called "completed building exception," which is the one most likely to provide a residential builder with an exception. However, for the completed building exception to apply, there must be an unrestricted right to specific performance in the sales agreements with the buyers, and the sales agreement must not allow non-performance by the seller at the seller's discretion [see 15 U.S.C. § 1702(a)(2)].

- The sale or lease of lots to any person who acquires the lots for the purpose of engaging in the business of constructing residential, commercial, or industrial buildings for the purpose of resale or lease to persons engaged in such business [see 15 U.S.C. § 1702(a)(7)].

- The sale or lease of real estate that is zoned for industrial or commercial development or that is restricted to this use by a recorded declaration, if certain conditions are met [see 15 U.S.C. § 1702(a)(8)].

However, if a developer is unable to take advantage of one of the ILSFDA exceptions, then before the developer can offer a condominium unit for sale or lease, the developer must furnish each buyer with a property report meeting the requirements of the ILSFDA prior to signing any purchase agreement.

[3] Reliance on Public Report

The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has determined that if a public report is issued for a project by the California Department of Real Estate, that public report may be accepted as meeting the minimum filing requirements of the ILSFDA [see 24 C.F.R § 1710.500 et seq.]. However, to rely on the final public report as satisfying the ILSFDA requirements, the developer must indicate on DRE Form 624 (which is submitted to the California Department of Real Estate as part of the filing requirements for a public report) that the developer will file with HUD [see § 34.200 for DRE Form 624]. The developer then files a DRE Form 614D (HUD/Interstate Land Sales Fact Sheet) with the California Department of Real Estate, and mails a copy to HUD, certified mail, return receipt requested [see SPRAG Manual, §§ IV C, V, question 1M (HUD-ILSRD question)].

[4] Penalties

Penalties for failure to register a non-exempt sale include an automatic right of rescission and the right of the purchaser to sue for damages, with a three-year statute of limitations. In addition, HUD may impose a penalty of up to $1,000 per violation, with a maximum of $1 million in any one year for a knowing and material violation of ILSFDA [see 15 U.S.C. § 1717a(a)(2)].

[1] Introduction to Title 7

A significant development in the realm of California condominium law was the 2002 passage of the so-called "Right to Repair Act," commonly referred to as either "SB 800" or "Title 7," for its location in Title 7 of Part 2 of Division 2 of the Civil Code [Civ. Code § 895 et seq.]. As with its conceptual predecessor, the Calderon Act [Civ. Code § 1375 et seq.], Title 7 pertains to the requirements for the handling of construction defects. However, substantial differences exist between the Calderon Act and Title 7, and care must be taken in the preparation of Title 7 documentation for any condominium project.

Generally, Title 7 is a consumer protection and right to repair law that establishes a framework in which builders [see Civ. Code § 911 ("builder" defined); see also § 34.49[2]], owners, and homeowners associations can attempt to resolve disputes regarding alleged construction defects outside of litigation. Title 7 applies to new residential construction, including new condominiums, when the purchase agreement with the owner was entered into on or after January 1, 2003 [Civ. Code § 938]. It does not apply to condominium conversions [Civ. Code § 896].

Title 7 is organized into five chapters:

- Chapter 1, Definitions [Civ. Code § 895; see § 34.49[2]].
- Chapter 2, Actionable Defects [Civ. Code §§ 896-897; see § 34.49[3]].
- Chapter 3, Obligations [Civ. Code §§ 900-907; see § 34.49[4]].
- Chapter 4, Prelitigation Procedures [Civ. Code §§ 910-938; see § 34.49[5]].
- Chapter 5, Procedure [Civ. Code §§ 941-945.5; see § 34.49[6]; see generally Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 21:75, p. 1430].

PRACTICE TIP:

Thoroughly Read Title 7 Before Drafting Formation Documents. For purposes of the preparation of formation documents for condominium projects, Title 7 offers builders significant flexibility to comply with the law while still crafting individualized risk management procedures that will affect the rights of owners and homeowners associations. Given the prevalence of condominium-related construction defect litigation in California, a thorough reading of Title 7, in conjunction with detailed conversations with the client, is a crucial step in drafting formation documents.

[2] Definitions

As with most statutes, the "Definitions" chapter [Civ. Code § 895] is not exhaustive, but provides meanings for only a handful of the defined terms used throughout Title 7. Befitting Title 7's focus on water intrusion issues, three of the six definitions given pertain to this topic [see Civ. Code § 895(b) ("designed moisture barrier"), (c) ("actual moisture barrier"), and (d) ("unintended water")]. Also defined are the meaning of a "structure" [Civ. Code § 895(a)] and "close of escrow" [Civ. Code § 895(e)]. Finally, Title 7 provides that " '[c]laimant' or 'homeowner' includes the individual owners of single-family homes, individual unit owners of attached dwellings and, in the case of a common interest development, any association as defined in [Civ. Code § 1351(a)]" [Civ. Code § 895(f)].

Though Title 7 does assign a special definition to the term "builder," the definition is actually included in another chapter of Title 7 [Civ. Code § 911] and, as such, is addressed below [see § 34.49[5][c]].

[3] Actionable Defects

Before passage of SB 800, damages for construction defects under tort theories of negligence and strict liability were only available on a showing of "appreciable, non-speculative, present injury" [Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 646, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125] . In Aas, plaintiffs sought to recover damages for a variety of alleged construction defects, including many that had not yet resulted in any property damage [Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 634, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125] . In disallowing this category of plaintiffs' claims under a negligence theory, the California Supreme Court found that "[c]onstruction defects that have not ripened into property damage, or at least into involuntary out-of-pocket losses, do not comfortably fit the definition of 'appreciable harm'--an essential element of a negligence claim" [Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 646, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125] . Similarly, when pleading strict liability, a remedy is available "only when the defective product causes property damage or personal injury" [Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 639, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125] . In recognition of the social policy implications of the ruling, however, the Court concluded the lengthy opinion with a note that some the issues raised in the decision might be "better left to the Legislature" [Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 652, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125] .

Two years later, the California Assembly added Title 7 via passage of SB 800, and substantially revised the treatment of construction defects in the context of residential construction. In actions governed by Title 7, construction defect damages may now be sought for the violation of any of 45 enumerated "functionality standards" in Chapter 2 of Title 7 [Civ. Code § 896]. Thus, "[i]n any action seeking recovery of damages arising out of, or related to deficiencies in, the residential construction, design, specifications, surveying, planning, supervision, testing, or observation of construction, a builder, and to the extent set forth in Chapter 4 ..., a general contractor, subcontractor material supplier, individual product manufacturer, or design professional, shall, except as specifically set forth in this article, be liable for, and the claimant's claims or causes of action shall be limited to violation of, the following standards, except as specifically set forth in this title" [Civ. Code § 896]. A species of statutory strict liability therefore attaches to the functionality standards.

The standards are broken into six broad categories:

- Water issues [Civ. Code § 896(a)];
- Structural issues [Civ. Code § 896(b)];
- Soil issues [Civ. Code § 896(c)];
- Fire protection issues [Civ. Code § 896(d)];
- Plumbing and sewer issues [Civ. Code § 896(e)]; and
- Electrical system issues [Civ. Code § 896(f)].

There is also a "catch all" category that includes items ranging from hardscape to ceramic tiling [Civ. Code § 896(g)].

Of these, fully half of the body of the functionality standards is devoted to water issues [Civ. Code § 896(a)(1)-(18)], a reflection, perhaps, of the prevalence of water intrusion claims in construction defect actions.

In addition to the specifically enumerated functionality standards, Chapter 2 also includes a "catch all" provision, whereby "[t]he standards set forth in this chapter are intended to address every function or component of a structure. To the extent that a function or component of a structure is not addressed by these standards, it shall be actionable if it causes damage" [Civ. Code § 897]. Arguably, the Aas evidentiary standard for proving damage would still apply to claims brought under this catch all § 897, as no new functionality standard is assigned. However, with regard to any of the actionable defects listed in Civ. Code § 896, no such Aas showing is required [Civ. Code §§ 896, 943(b), 944; see § 34.49[6]].

Chapter 2 likewise establishes discrete statutes of limitation for certain claims brought under its purview [Civ. Code § 896]. For example, actions brought with regard to plumbing and sewer system issues must be brought no more than four years from close of escrow [Civ. Code § 896(f)], while inter-unit noise transmission claims must be brought within one year from the original occupancy of the adjacent unit [Civ. Code § 896(g)(6)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Statutes of Limitation. In the typical construction defect case when a number of claims are asserted, the claims may be subject to various statutes of limitation.

Though not addressed until later in Title 7, a builder may elect to provide protections greater than those codified in Chapter 2 [Civ. Code § 901; see § 34.49[4][b]].

[4] Obligations

[a] Issues of Concern, Generally

Chapter 3 of Title 7 ("Obligations") presents three particular issues of interest to drafters of condominium project documents, insomuch as it:

- Provides for a mandatory one year limited fit and finish warranty [Civ. Code § 900];
- Allows for the option of offering an "enhanced protection agreement" in lieu of the Chapter 2 functionality standards [Civ. Code § 901 et seq.]; and

- Addresses the role of maintenance obligations and recommendations [Civ. Code § 907 et seq.].

Each of these issues is addressed below.

[b] One Year Limited Fit and Finish Warranty

Per Civ. Code § 900, a builder under Title 7 must provide homebuyers with a minimum one year express written limited warranty that covers the "fit and finish" of seven building components: mirrors, flooring, interior and exterior walls, countertops, paint finishes, and trim. These components are not subject to the provisions of Title 7, including the Actionable Defects, Prelitigation Procedures, and Procedure provisos [Civ. Code § 900]. In the event a builder fails to supply a written warranty covering these items, the statute provides that "the warranty for these items shall be for a period of one year" [Civ. Code § 900].

PRACTICE TIP:

Builder Has Decision. As a matter of drafting formation documents, the builder will need to decide whether to craft its own one year limited fit and finish warranty to provide to homebuyers, or to opt instead to rely on the statutory default. Builders desiring to combine the warranty required by statute with an existing warranty program are advised to carefully review the existing warranty to ensure that it offers the same level of protection--for the same building components--as the statute.

[c] Enhanced Protection Agreements

If the builder chooses, he or she may offer homebuyers an express written contract that "offers greater protection or protection for longer time periods" than those contemplated by the functionality standards set forth in Chapter 2 [Civ. Code § 901]. Any such alternative set of functionality standards is denominated an "enhanced protection agreement" [Civ. Code § 901] under the statute. An election to use an enhanced protection agreement renders the functionality standards of Chapter 2 operable only insomuch as they will be the minimum bar by which the provisions of the enhanced protection agreement will be judged [Civ. Code § 902].

A builder who opts to provide an enhanced protection agreement must provide a written copy of the agreement to the homebuyer by no later than the close of escrow [Civ. Code § 903]. In the event any provision within the enhanced protection agreement is deemed unenforceable for its failure to meet the minimum standards set forth in Chapter 2, the statute allows a builder to "use this chapter [this should assumedly read "Chapter 2"] in lieu of those provisions found to be unenforceable" [Civ. Code § 903].

Builders using enhanced protection agreements must also provide buyers with a full copy of the Chapter 2 functionality standards and inform buyers that it has chosen to provide an enhanced protection agreement in lieu of the Chapter 2 standards [Civ. Code § 903]. The builder's enhanced protection agreement is subject to challenge by buyers [Civ. Code §§ 904, 905]. In the event of a successful challenge, the Chapter 2 functionality standards would govern.

PRACTICE TIP:

Preparing and Recording Enhanced Protection Agreements. In terms of document preparation and recordation, two items arise with regard to enhanced protection agreements. First, if a builder desires its enhanced protection agreement to be enforceable with regard to any nonoriginal homeowner, the builder must either (1) record the enhanced protection agreement against title, or (2) actually provide notice of the enhanced protection agreement to the nonoriginal homeowner [Civ. Code § 905]. As a matter of course, the simpler of these two options is to record the document against title. Failure to take one of these two steps will result in the Chapter 2 functionality standards controlling with regard to any nonoriginal homeowner [Civ. Code § 905]. Second, when crafting an enhanced protection agreement, care must be taken to ensure conformance between the enhanced protection agreement and any warranty program the builder may also be offering.

For a discussion regarding the potential for exposure to contractual liability that arises through use of an Enhanced Protection Agreement, see Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 2175[8], pp. 1433-1434.

[d] Maintenance Obligations and Schedules

Under Title 7, "[a] homeowner is obligated to follow all reasonable maintenance obligations and schedules communicated in writing to the homeowner by the builder and product manufacturers, as well as commonly accepted maintenance practices" [Civ. Code § 907; see Civ. Code § 912(b) (builder's duty to provide copies of maintenance recommendations)]. Having done so, the builder may cite the homeowner's failure to follow the obligations and schedules as an affirmative defense in the event the homeowner later brings a Title 7 claim [Civ. Code § 907].

PRACTICE TIP:

Provide Obligations and Schedules. Given that this requirement turns on the builder's provision of these materials to homeowners, it is to the builder's advantage to provide such materials. Unlike the enhanced protection agreement, the maintenance obligations make no express distinction between enforceability issues with regard to original and nonoriginal homeowners. It seems unlikely, however, that a court would require a nonoriginal homeowner to be bound by maintenance obligations and schedules with which it had not been provided. In addition, although this section of Title 7 fails to mention homeowners associations by name, focusing instead on the "homeowner," it would presumably apply to homeowners associations, as well. Under Civ. Code § 895(f), the definition of "homeowner" includes both individuals and "any association as defined in [Civ. Code § 1351(a)]." To the extent that a homeowners association may be responsible for maintaining improvements that differ in type from those that will be maintained by homeowners, a builder will need to provide the homeowners association with maintenance obligations and schedules pertinent to association-maintained improvements in order to take advantage of this section.

[a] Introduction

Chapter 4 of Title 7 ("Prelitigation Procedures") "establishes a nonadversarial procedure, including the remedies available under [the chapter], which, if the procedure does not resolve the dispute between the parties, may result in a subsequent action to enforce the other chapters" of the Title [Civ. Code § 914(a)]. However, a number of circumstances may either derail the Chapter 4 procedures or render them inapplicable. For example, if a builder fails to comply with the prelitigation requirements within the specified time deadlines, that builder automatically loses the protection of Chapter 4, including the right to repair [Civ. Code § 912(i)]. Of the many provisions within the chapter, perhaps the most salient for those preparing condominium documents are those pertaining to timelines to be followed in order to keep the procedures in place, and those allowing the builder to opt out of the Chapter 4 provisions entirely and replace them with "alternative non-adversarial procedures" of the builder's own [Civ. Code § 914].

[b] Notice of Claim

Under Title 7, before filing an action against a party that has allegedly violated the Chapter 2 standards, or presumably, the standards established by the builder's enhanced protection agreement, the claimant is required to follow very specific prelitigation procedures, beginning with notice of the claim to the builder [Civ. Code § 910]. The required manner of service and content of the notice is set forth in Civ. Code § 910(a). These notice requirements do not preclude a homeowner from pursuing redress through any applicable customer service procedures, warranties, or contractual obligations [Civ. Code § 910(b)]. If a homeowner elects to seek redress through such customer service measures, any such request "shall not satisfy the notice requirements of this section" [Civ. Code § 910(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Builder Should Provide Customer Service Request Form. Because a customer service claim does not satisfy the notice requirements of Civ. Code § 910, in preparing sales documents for a condominium project, a builder would be well advised to include a clearly titled "Customer Service Request" form in its documentation to homeowners and the homeowners association.

[c] Builder

Generally, under Title 7 "builder" includes "any entity or individual, including, but not limited to a builder, developer, general contractor, contractor, or originally seller, who, at the time of sale, was also in the business of selling residential units to the public for the property that is the subject of the homeowner's claim or was in the business of building, developing, or constructing residential units for public purchase for the property that is the subject of the homeowner's claim" [Civ. Code § 911(a)].

However, "builder" expressly does not include "any entity or individual whose involvement with a residential unit that is the subject of the homeowner's claim is limited to his or her capacity as general contractor or contractor and who is not a partner, member of, subsidiary of, or otherwise similarly affiliated with the builder" [Civ. Code § 911(b)]. These "nonaffiliated general contractors and nonaffiliated contractors" are instead subject to the same treatment under the statute as subcontractors, material suppliers, individual product manufacturers, and design professionals [Civ. Code § 911(b); see Civ. Code § 936 (application of Title 7 to entities involved in construction process)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Definition of "Builder." As a matter of drafting, the definition given to the "builder" in any sales documents, Title 7 documents, project documents, etc., should be made advisedly and consistently.

[d] Provision of Documents and Agent for Notice

Within 30 days of receiving a written request from a claimant, the builder must supply copies of all "relevant plans, specifications, mass or rough grading plans, final soils reports, Department of Real Estate public reports, and available engineering calculations, that pertain to a homeowner's residence specifically or as part of a larger development tract" [Civ. Code § 912(a)].

The builder is required to maintain the name and address of an agent for notice specified under Chapter 4 with the Secretary of State [Civ. Code § 912(e)]. If the builder has contracted with a third party to accept claims and act on the builder's behalf, the named individual or entity may be a third party, if the builder has provided the homeowner with written notice of the third party's name and address [Civ. Code § 912(e)]. In either instance, the builder must include the name and address of the agent for notice or third party with the original sales documentation, which must be initialed and acknowledged by the purchaser and the builder's sales representative [Civ. Code § 912(e)].

The builder is required to record notice of the existence of these Chapter 4 procedures against title to the affected property, along with a notice that "these procedures impact the legal rights of the homeowner" [Civ. Code § 912(f)]. This information, along with a full copy of Title 7, must also be (1) included with the original sales documentation and (2) initialed and acknowledged by the purchaser and the builder's sales representative [Civ. Code § 912(f), (g)]. Further, "[a]s to any documents provided in conjunction with the original sale, the builder shall instruct the original purchaser to provide those documents to any subsequent purchaser" [Civ. Code § 912(h)].

The builder's failure to timely comply with any of the requirements set forth in Civ. Code § 912 releases the homeowner, or presumably any homeowners association, as the case may be, from the prelitigation procedural requirements of Chapter 4, and allows the claimant to proceed with litigation [Civ. Code § 912(i)]. However, in these cases, the "remaining chapters of this part [this should presumably read "Title"] shall continue to apply to the action" [Civ. Code § 912(i)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Builder Must Establish and Follow In-House Procedures. As important as the drafting of condominium documents is, it is equally important to emphasize to the builder client the importance of establishing and following in-house procedures that will ensure compliance with the timelines established by Title 7. Civ. Code § 912(i) is the first of many "drop dead" provisions in Title 7 under which the builder's failure to meet strict deadlines will release the claimant from further compliance with the prelitigation procedures and allow litigation to ensue immediately.

[e] Acknowledgment of Receipt of Claim

Within 14 days of receiving a written Title 7 claim, the builder, or its representative, must acknowledge receipt of that notice in writing [Civ. Code § 913].

PRACTICE TIP:

Failure to Follow Claim Will Result in Release. Although Civ. Code § 913 does not say so, Civ. Code § 915 makes it clear that the builder's failure to acknowledge a claim within the timeline provided will release the claimant from further compliance with Chapter 4.

[f] Alternative Non-Adversarial Procedures

Buried in the middle of Chapter 4 is one of the most significant sections of Title 7, at least from the perspective of the drafter of condominium documents. Under Civ. Code § 914(a), a builder may create and "attempt to commence nonadversarial contractual provisions other than the nonadversarial procedures and remedies set forth in this chapter" that a homeowner or homeowner's association must follow before filing an action to recover damages for construction defects under Title 7. The nonadversarial procedures of Title 7, whether as set forth in Title 7 itself or in a builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures, apply to all construction defect claims covered by Title 7, but do not apply to any "fit and finish matters" covered by Title 7's mandatory one year fit and finish warranty [Civ. Code § 900].

If a builder chooses to develop and use its own alternative nonadversarial procedures, the builder cannot additionally require a homeowner or homeowners' association to follow the Chapter 4 "nonadversarial procedures and remedies ... regardless of whether the builder's own alternative nonadversarial contractual provisions are successful in resolving the dispute or ultimately deemed enforceable" [Civ. Code § 914(a)]. Chapter 4 does not prevent a builder from incorporating any or all of the statutory prelitigation procedures and remedies into its own alternative nonadversarial procedures, but does not allow a builder to require a homeowner or homeowners' association to comply with duplicative procedures.

PRACTICE TIP:

What Constitutes "Nonadversarial Procedure?" Title 7 does not specifically identify which of the provisions in Chapter 4 constitute its "nonadversarial procedure," and does not offer any direction as to the rights and/or processes a builder must include in its alternative nonadversarial procedures to ensure that they are enforceable. The void left by Title 7 as to the scope necessary to ensure enforceability of a builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures exposes a builder to the risk of having its alternative nonadversarial procedures held unenforceable, at which point a builder would lose all of its rights under Chapter 4 of Title 7, including its right to inspect and repair an alleged construction defect. However, this may be a risk well worth taking.

Whether a builder opts to provide its own alternative nonadversarial procedures or to follow the statutory prelitigation procedures set forth in Chapter 4, the builder must notify the homeowner of its election one way or the other at the time that the sales agreement is executed [Civ. Code § 914(a)]. If the builder elects to provide its own alternative nonadversarial procedures in lieu of the nonadversarial procedures and remedies contained in Chapter 4, that election is binding and effectively irreversible [Civ. Code § 914(a)]. Unlike the interplay between the optional use of a builder-created enhanced protection agreement and the Chapter 2 functionality standards, if the builder opts to use its own alternative nonadversarial procedures rather than the nonadversarial procedures and remedies contained in Chapter 4, any subsequent finding by a court, arbitrator, or other valid authority that the builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures are unenforceable will not result in the builder being able to fall back on the prelitigation procedures and remedies of Chapter 4 [Civ. Code § 914(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Use Care When Drafting Alternative Nonadversarial Procedures. If the builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures are found to be unenforceable, the builder cannot thereafter require a homeowner or homeowners' association to comply with the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedures, and forever loses its rights to pursue the statutory nonadversarial procedures and remedies, including the Chapter 4 rights to inspect and repair the alleged construction defect. Given the drastic consequences of a finding that a builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures are unenforceable, a builder needs to be very careful when drafting its alternative nonadversarial procedures to maximize the chances that they will be enforceable.

PRACTICE TIP:

Nonadversarial Procedures and Condominium Projects. Builders face the above risk in light of the fact that, for a number of reasons, the statutory nonadversarial procedures and rigid time deadlines are often unworkable in the context of a condominium project. Unlike single-family residential developments where a building component's functionality problem is frequently limited to a single home, in condominiums such problems can affect large portions of buildings and affect a significant number of or all units in the project. If a builder does not "strictly comply" with the exacting rules and rigid time deadlines set forth in Chapter 4, the builder forever loses its rights under Chapter 4, and the construction defect "claimant is released from the requirements of this chapter and may proceed with the filing an action" [Civ. Code § 920].

PRACTICE TIP:

Nonadversarial Procedures and Homeowners' Associations. This problem is especially acute with regard to issues in which the homeowners' association is involved. As the party in charge of discovering and pursuing construction defect issues with respect to the common areas and building components under its management and responsibility, which are often the most prevalent and important construction defects for a condominium project, the homeowners' association must carefully review the nonadversarial procedures that the builder has elected to use for their particular condominium project and, whether the builder elected to use the nonadversarial procedures contained in Chapter 4 or in the builder's own alternative nonadversarial procedures, the homeowners' association must become very familiar with and follow the processes in place for their condominium project to ensure the greatest benefits will be achieved from Title 7. Both Chapter 4's nonadversarial procedures and any enforceable builder-created alternative nonadversarial procedures should have written notice, inspection, offer to repair, response to repair offer, mediation, and a right to repair the construction defect before an action can be filed [see Civ. Code §§ 910, 916, 917, 918, 919, 921], as well as other helpful provisions, all of which inure to the benefit of the homeowners' association because they all focus on assessing and fixing an alleged construction defect. By knowing and following its rights and obligations under the nonadversarial procedures and remedies set forth in Title 7 or builder-created alternative nonadversarial procedures, whichever is applicable, a homeowners' association will serve its members well if and when a construction defect claim arises.

PRACTICE TIP:

Benefit of Electing Own Alternative Nonadversarial Procedures. From a builder's perspective, the opportunity to elect to create and commence its own alternative nonadversarial procedures in lieu of the statutory nonadversarial procedure can be a significant benefit. Rather than being stuck with the rigid and often too-short time deadlines set out in Chapter 4 of Title 7, a builder can create fair and balanced alternative nonadversarial procedures specifically tailored to the condominium project to which they will apply. Many suggest that a builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures borrow extensively from the prelitigation procedures and remedies established in Chapter 4 to increase the chances that the builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures will be held to be enforceable and will achieve the goals of Title 7. For example, a builder's alternative nonadversarial procedures may want to include a written notice of claim provision that includes the same specific language used in Chapter 4 stating that such written notice "shall have the same force and effect as a notice of commencement of a legal proceeding" [Civ. Code § 910(a)]. The inclusion of this language will help trigger insurance coverage for such a claim and, possibly, for the costs and fees incurred in connection with the nonadversarial process itself. Also, if a builder tailors its alternative nonadversarial procedures in consideration of the type of condominium project to which it will apply, that builder will be in a better position to justify the provisions of that alternative nonadversarial procedures if the enforceability of those procedures is ever challenged, as it will have specific reasons why those procedures differ from Chapter 4 and are necessary for the particular condominium project at issue.

Whether a builder elects to use the nonadversarial procedures of Chapter 4 or create and use its own alternative nonadversarial procedures, nothing in Title 7 is intended to affect existing statutory or case law pertaining to the applicability, viability, or enforceability of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) methods, contractual arbitration, judicial reference, or similar such procedures after the applicable nonadversarial procedures have been completed [Civ. Code § 914(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Coordinate ADR Provisions With Statutory Provisions or With Own Procedures. Nonetheless, a builder will be well-served to coordinate any ADR provisions it has in place with either the nonadversarial procedures and remedies established by Chapter 4 or its own alternative nonadversarial procedures. Those ADR provisions should not be directly impacted, positively or negatively, by Title 7, but coordinating the two will benefit all concerned.

PRACTICE TIP:

Check Annotations to Chapter 7. As of April 2007, no reported case has ruled on any aspect of Title 7. As such, when assessing an issue involving statutory nonadversarial procedures, the attorney should consider checking the annotations to Title 7 to determine if a reported case has interpreted (1) the nonadversarial procedures of Chapter 4, (2) the enforceability of any builder-created alternative nonadversarial procedures allowed thereby, or (3) any related issues.

Title 7 gives builders the right to inspect and test any "claimed unmet standards" within 14 days of the builder's acknowledgement of receipt of a Title 7 claim [Civ. Code § 916(a)]. Any costs associated with the test or inspection are to be born by the builder, who must also return the property to its pre-testing condition within 48 hours of the testing [Civ. Code § 916(a)]. Thereafter, if the builder believes a second inspection or test will be required, and documents the reasons for this inspection or test within three days following the initial inspection, the builder must be allowed to conduct a second test or inspection [Civ. Code § 916(c)]. The second test or inspection, if undertaken, must be completed within 40 days of the initial test or inspection, and all of the same requirements regarding returning the property to its pre-testing condition and allocation of costs will again apply [Civ. Code § 916(c)].

As with many of the Title 7 timelines to which the builder must adhere, failure to meet the timelines established in Civ. Code § 916 will release the claimant from compliance with the Chapter 4 requirements, leaving him or her free to proceed with litigation [Civ. Code § 916(d)]. The standards established in Chapter 2 would still apply to any such action [Civ. Code § 916(d)].

The builder must provide notice of the inspections to any subcontractor, design professional, individual product manufacturer, or material supplier that the builder intends to "hold ... responsible for its contribution to the unmet standard[s]" [Civ. Code § 916(e)]. The builder must likewise allow any such party to participate in any repair undertaken [Civ. Code § 916(e)]. This requirement is expressly inapplicable to the builder's own insurance carrier [Civ. Code § 916(e)]. If a claim is brought with regard to any repair made under this procedure, "nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to relieve a subcontractor, design professional, individual product manufacturer, or material supplier of any liability" [Civ. Code § 916(e)].

Although not obligated to do so, the builder may provide the homeowner with a written offer of repair within 30 days of the initial or secondary testing or inspection [Civ. Code § 917; see § 34.49[5][g]]. To meet the requirements of Chapter 4, any such offer must include all of the following [Civ. Code § 917]:

- A detailed identification of the standard that is claimed to have been violated and is the subject of the proposed repair;
- An explanation of the "nature, scope, and location" of the repair;
- A "reasonable" completion date for the repair;
- The names, telephone numbers, addresses, and license numbers of the contractor or contractors that the builder proposes complete the repair;
- A notice that the homeowner has the right to request that the builder provide "up to three additional contractors from which to select to do the repair" [see Civ. Code § 918 (authorization to proceed with repair)]; and
- An offer to mediate the dispute, should the homeowner choose to mediate [see Civ. Code § 919; see also § 34.49[5][j]].

Furthermore, the builder must provide "any available technical documentation, including, without limitation, plans and specifications pertaining to the claimed violation within the particular home or development tract" if the homeowner makes a written request for the same [Civ. Code § 917].

If issued, the builder's offer to repair must compensate the homeowner for all applicable damages available under Civ. Code § 944 [Civ. Code § 917; see § 34.49[6][d], [e] for discussion of damages].

[i] Homeowner Response to Offer of Repair

On receiving the builder's offer to repair, the homeowner has 30 days to either (1) authorize the builder to undertake the repair, or (2) request that the builder provide the contact and license information for "up to three alternative contractors who are not owned or financially controlled by the builder and who regularly conduct business in the county where the structure is located" [Civ. Code § 918].

The claimant's request for a list of alternate contractors will entitle the builder to a further inspection of the claimed unmet standard or standards [Civ. Code § 918]. Unlike the initial, and if, applicable, secondary inspection that preceded it, this inspection is explicitly required to be "noninvasive" [Civ. Code § 918]. Any such further inspection must take place within 20 days of homeowner's election, and the builder must provide the list of alternate contractors to the homeowner within 35 days after the request is made [Civ. Code § 918]. The claimant, in turn, has 20 days after the presentation of the alternate contractors to authorize either the builder or one of the contractors to perform the repair [Civ. Code § 918].

[j] Offer to Mediate Dispute

Along with any offer of repair, the builder must notify the homeowner that the homeowner may opt to mediate the dispute [Civ. Code § 919]. The manner of selection and payment of the mediator is set forth in detail in Title 7 [Civ. Code § 919]. However, "[i]f a builder has made an offer to repair a violation, and the mediation has failed to resolve the dispute, the homeowner shall allow the repair to be performed either by the builder, its contractor, or the selected contractor" [Civ. Code § 919].

[k] Failure to Make Timely Offer to Repair or Actual Repair

The claimant is released from compliance with the Chapter 4 requirements and may proceed with litigation if the builder either "fails to make an offer to repair or otherwise strictly comply with [Chapter 4] within the times specified," or "the contractor performing the repair does not complete the repair in the time or manner specified" [Civ. Code § 920]. In either instance, the "standards set forth in the other chapters of this part" (ostensibly, the Chapter 2 standards or the enhanced protection agreement, whichever applied) would still apply to the subsequent litigation [Civ. Code § 920].

[l] Timing and Execution of Repair

If a repair effort is made, the builder must make arrangements with the claimant to carry out the repairs to the unmet standard or standards and must "compensate the homeowner for all damages resulting therefrom free of charge to the claimant" [Civ. Code § 921(a)]. Under Civ. Code § 921(a), any such repair must begin according to the following schedule:

- Within 14 days of acceptance of the contractor;
- Within 14 days of the claimant's selection of an alternate contractor;
- Within seven days of the mediation, if a mediation takes place; or
- Within five days after a permit is obtained, if one is required.

Title 7 is explicit that any repair work be carried out "with the utmost diligence," and be "completed as soon as reasonably possible," with "[e]very effort" being made to see the work completed within 120 days of commencement [Civ. Code § 921(b)]. The builder's failure to complete the repair within the time set forth in the repair plan will release the claimant from further compliance with Chapter 4, although, once again, the provisions of Chapter 2 would still apply [Civ. Code § 925].

PRACTICE TIP:

Terms Used Interchangeably. As with many provisions in Title 7, Civ. Code § 921 seems to use "homeowner" and "claimant" interchangeably, perhaps in recognition of the definition of "homeowner" given in Civ. Code § 895(f), which includes "any association as defined in [Civ. Code § 1351(a)]."

The builder must allow the repair to be electronically recorded, video recorded, or photographed if such a request is made, and "[n]othing that occurs during the repair process may be used or introduced as evidence to support a spoliation defense by any potential party in any subsequent litigation" [Civ. Code § 922]. Similarly, the builder must provide the claimant with copies of "all correspondence, photographs, and other materials pertaining or relating in any manner to the repairs" if asked for the same [Civ. Code § 923].

In the event that the builder opts to repair less than all of the claimed unmet standards, the builder must provide the claimant with a written explanation and rationale for the builder's decision in this regard at the time the offer to repair is made [Civ. Code § 924].

[m] Availability of Releases

The builder is precluded from obtaining any release or waiver in exchange for repair work mandated by Chapter 4 [Civ. Code § 926]. A claimant is free to proceed with an action for violation of the Chapter 2 standards and/or for the inadequacy of any repair made on the completion of any such repair [Civ. Code § 926]. However, if the builder makes only a cash offer and no repair, the builder may then obtain a "reasonable" release in exchange for any cash payment accepted by the claimant [Civ. Code § 929]. If a claimant rejects a cash offer, he or she may proceed with filing an action and the "standards of the other chapters of [Title 7] shall continue to apply" [Civ. Code § 929(a)].

[n] Statute of Limitations and Extensions of Time

Title 7 extends the applicable statute of limitations for bringing a claim based on numerous scenarios. Under Civ. Code § 927, the time to file a complaint or seek another legal remedy for a Title 7 violation, or for a claim of inadequate repair, is extended from the time of the original claim by the claimant to 100 days after the repair is completed, whether or not the particular violation is the one being repaired.

Moreover, Civ. Code § 927 provides that the deadline for filing a Title 7 action is extended from the time of the original claim by the claimant to 45 days after the time for responding to the notice of claim has expired if the builder:

- Fails to acknowledge the claim within the time specified in Civ. Code § 913;
- Chooses not to follow the statutory process; or
- Fails to request an inspection within the timelines set forth in Civ. Code § 916.

Finally, if the builder "attempts to enforce" an alternative nonadversarial procedure of its own creation, rather than follow the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedure [see § 34.49[5][f]], the statute of limitations is extended to 100 days after either the latter of [Civ. Code § 927]:

- The completion of builder's alternative nonadversarial procedure; or
- One hundred days after the builder's alternative nonadversarial procedure is deemed unenforceable.

PRACTICE TIP:

Challenge to Builder's Alternative Nonadversarial Procedure. If a claimant challenges the builder's alternative nonadversarial procedure as unenforceable, the ensuing litigation to determine enforceability can be protracted, depending on the procedural methods used by each side. If the alternative nonadversarial procedure is ultimately found to be unenforceable, the claimant will still be entitled to a further 100 days to bring a claim. This can substantially add to the duration of the builder's exposure on the project, a factor to be considered when deciding whether to use an alternative nonadversarial procedure or follow the Chapter 4 process.

[o] Request for Mediation

Before filing an action, the homeowner must make a written mediation request to the builder if the builder has invoked the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedures and has completed a repair [Civ. Code § 928]. Title 7 makes provisions for the manner in which any such mediation is to be scheduled and by whom any related costs must be born [Civ. Code § 928]. In addition, if the parties attend mediation at this point, any applicable statutes of limitations are tolled from the latter of (1) the date of the request to mediate until the next court day after the mediation is completed, or (2) 100 days [Civ. Code § 928].

At various stages in the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedure, the builder's failure to strictly comply with the statutory deadlines frees the claimant to abandon the Chapter 4 process and move to litigation [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 912(i), 915, 916(d), 920, 925]. This is reaffirmed in Civ. Code § 930(a), which clarifies that "[t]he time periods and all other requirements in this chapter are to be strictly construed," and allows a claimant to move forward with an action "[i]f a builder fails to act in accordance with this section within the timeframes mandated, unless extended by the mutual agreement of the parties as evidenced by a postclaim written confirmation by the affected homeowner demonstrating that he or she has knowingly and voluntarily extended the statutory timeframe..."

Civ. Code § 930 also addresses, for the first time, the consequences of the claimant's failure to meet the Chapter 4 requirements [Civ. Code § 930(b)]. A builder faced with a noncompliant claimant may seek a stay of any court proceeding initiated by such a claimant and the court, in its discretion, is free to award the prevailing party its attorneys' fees and costs incurred in connection therewith [Civ. Code § 930(b)].

If a claim includes causes of action outside of "this part" (presumably, Title 7), the claimed Title 7 violations are to be administered according to "this part" (again, presumably Title 7), but "evidence of the property in its unrepaired condition may be introduced to support the respective elements of any such cause of action" [Civ. Code § 931]. Fraud claims are called out for special attention in this regard, with the proviso that, if the fact of any repair effort is deemed admissible, "the trier of fact shall be informed that the repair was not voluntarily accepted by the homeowner" [Civ. Code § 931].

With regard to class action claims addressing solely the incorporation of a defective component into a residence, none of the class members are bound by the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedures [Civ. Code § 931].

PRACTICE TIP:

Address Resolution of Claims. Given the likelihood of a party asserting both Title 7 and non-Title 7 claims in an action, a builder that elects to create and attempt to enforce its own alternative nonadversarial procedure may wish to take the opportunity to address the manner in which all claims are to be resolved between the parties.

[r] Subsequently Discovered Claims

Unless the parties agree otherwise, all subsequently discovered claims of unmet standards are administered separately under Title 7 [Civ. Code § 932]. There are two exceptions to this general rule:

- First, if the subsequently discovered claim is for a violation of the same standard as that already initiated by the same claimant and the subject of a currently pending action, the claimant does not need to reinitiate the process as to that standard if the residence in question is a detached single family residence [Civ. Code § 932].

- Second, with regard to attached projects, the claimant likewise need not reinitiate the process if the subsequently discovered claim (1) is for a violation of the same standard for a connected component system in the same building as has already been initiated by the same claimant and (2) is the subject of a currently pending action [Civ. Code § 932].

[s] Admissibility of Repair Efforts and Parties' Conduct

The fact of any repair effort may be introduced to the trier of fact if any enforcement of the Title 7 standards is commenced [Civ. Code § 933]. The claimant is free to introduce and argue the condition of the property before the repair to attempt to show that the repair was inappropriate, inadequate, incomplete, or that a violation still exists, and need not show that the repair caused further damage or that damage has continued to occur as a result of the violation [Civ. Code § 933].

With the exception of a mediation, in any subsequent enforcement action, evidence of the parties' conduct during the Chapter 4 prelitigation process, including any repair efforts made by the builder, may be introduced into evidence [Civ. Code § 934].

SB 800 was not the California Assembly's first attempt to bring order to the unruly world of construction defect litigation. In 1995, the Assembly passed SB 1029, adding Civ. Code § 1375 et seq., commonly referred to as "the Calderon Act" for its author, Senator Charles Calderon. Unlike Title 7, the Calderon Act applies only to homeowners associations within common interest developments [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1375(a)]. Like Title 7, it includes various prelitigation procedures that must be followed before an association may bring a lawsuit against a builder, developer, or general contractor based on a claim for alleged construction defects [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1375(b) (association's service of "Notice of Commencement of Legal Proceedings")].

Under Title 7, "[t]o the extent that provisions of this chapter are enforced and those provisions are substantially similar to provisions in Section 1375 of the Civil Code, but an action is subsequently commenced under Section 1375 of the Civil Code, the parties are excused from performing the substantially similar requirements under Section 1375 of the Civil Code" [Civ. Code § 935]. Title 7 provides no guidelines as to which of its requirements will be considered "substantially similar" to those of the Calderon Act.

PRACTICE TIP:

Compliance with Calderon Act. Title 7 is still new enough that, as of November 2009, no appellate decisions have come down to assist in understanding otherwise murky portions of the statute. While other areas of Title 7 will doubtlessly be subject to appellate review, this particular section may escape such a fate, as the Calderon Act is currently scheduled to expire on July 1, 2017, and be repealed January 1, 2018 [Civ. Code § 1375(s)]. Furthermore, to the extent the builder misses any of the deadlines set forth in Title 7, thus freeing the claimant to pursue litigation, if the claimant is a homeowners' association, the homeowners' association will still need to comply with any and all Calderon Act requirements that are not "substantially similar" to steps previously taken under Title 7.

[u] Application to Other Parties

To the extent a general contractor, subcontractor, material supplier, individual product manufacturer, and/or design profession causes, in whole or in part, a violation of a particular functionality standard as a result of "a negligent act or omission or breach of contract," that party will be subject to "each and every provision of the other chapters" of Title 7 [

Civ. Code § 936]. In other words, none of these parties will be subject to the provisions of Chapter 4. Each of these parties may thus avail themselves of the affirmative defenses provided in Chapter 5 [see Civ. Code § 945.5]. Furthermore, all actions by either a claimant or the builder to enforce an express contract or contract provision against any of said parties are preserved [Civ. Code § 936].

Civ. Code § 936 also provides that nothing in Title 7 modifies the law pertaining to joint and several liability with regard to these parties that contributes to any specific Title 7 violation. "However, the negligence standard in this section does not apply to any general contractor, subcontractor, material supplier, individual product manufacturer, or design professional with respect to claims for which strict liability would apply" [Civ. Code § 936].

[v] Certificate of Merit Still Required

Title 7 does not affect the requirement to procure a Certificate of Merit, if one is required by Civ. Code § 411.35 for a claim against a design professional, nor does Title 7 affect the liability of design professionals for claims and damages not covered by Title 7 [Civ. Code § 937].

[w] Application of Title

Title 7 "applies only to new residential units where the purchase agreement with the buyer was signed by the seller on or after January 1, 2003" [Civ. Code § 938].

PRACTICE TIP:

Dilemma for Builders. This poses an interesting dilemma for builders who have projects wherein some units were sold before the effective date of Title 7. Some builders faced with this situation have attempted to put in place alternative nonadversarial procedures [see § 34.49[5][f]] to more smoothly address the competing procedural and statutory requirements bearing on their projects.

[6] Procedure

[a] Application of Chapter 5 Provisions

Chapter 5 of Title 7 addresses both procedural and substantive measures that will apply if the parties fail to resolve any Title 7 dispute through either the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedures or the builder's alternative nonadversarial procedure.

[b] Statute of Limitations: Time Limit for Bringing Action

Neither Civ. Code § 337.1 nor Civ. Code § 337.15 apply to actions brought under Title 7 [Civ. Code § 941(d)]. However, except as otherwise set forth in Title 7, no action for Title 7 violations may be brought more than 10 years after substantial completion of the improvement and in no event later than the date of recordation of a valid notice of completion [Civ. Code § 941(a)]. In addition, Civ. Code § 941 goes to some length to address:

- Indemnity claims [see Civ. Code § 941(b)];
- The unavailability of a statute of limitations defense to any party in actual possession or control of the improvement in question [see Civ. Code § 941(c)]; and
- The effect of Title 7 on existing statutory and decisional law regarding statutes of limitations [see Civ. Code § 941(e)].

Lastly, the Title 7 time limitations do not apply to any action regarding a contract or express contractual provision, and causes of action and damages to which "this chapter" (presumably, Title 7) does not apply are not limited by this section [Civ. Code § 941(e)].

[c] Evidentiary Standard for Proving Actionable Damage

Subject to the affirmative defenses set forth in Civ. Code § 945.5 [see § 34.49[6][g]], to make a claim for violation of the Chapter 2 standards, a claimant need only show that the improvement does not meet the applicable standard [Civ. Code § 942]. Thereafter, "no further showing of causation or damages is required to meet the burden of proof" for any alleged Chapter 2 violation, "provided that the violation arises out of, pertains to, or is related to, the original construction" [Civ. Code § 942].

PRACTICE TIP:

Evidentiary Standard. This legislative rejection of the Aas evidentiary standard for proving the existence of actionable damage is one of the most significant features of Title 7 [for discussion of Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125 , see § 34.49[3]]. Four years after the passage of SB 800, which enacted Title 7, its effect on the volume of construction defect litigation is still unclear.

[d] Inapplicability of Title 7 to Other Causes of Action

Except as provided in Title 7, no other cause of action for a claim covered by this title or for damages recoverable under Civ. Code § 944 is allowed [Civ. Code § 943(a)]. Furthermore, in addition to the rights under Title 7, the "title does not apply to any action by a claimant to enforce a contract or express contractual provision, or any action for fraud, personal injury, or violation of a statute" [Civ. Code § 943(a)]. Damages awarded for the items set forth in Civ. Code § 944 in such other cause of action are to be offset by the amounts recovered under that section for violation of the Chapter 2 standards [Civ. Code § 943(a)]

[e] Measure of Damages

With regard to detached single family homes, the applicable measure of damages is the lesser of either the repair costs or the diminution in current value of the home attributable to the violation of Title 7, subject to the common law personal use exception [Civ. Code § 943(b)].

Generally, a Title 7 claimant will only be entitled to seek recovery of the following damages [Civ. Code § 944]:

- The reasonable value of repairing any Chapter 2 violation.
- The reasonable cost of repairing any damages caused by any repair that is undertaken.
- The reasonable cost of repairing and rectifying any damages resulting from the Chapter 2 violation or violations.
- The reasonable cost of removing and replacing any improper repair attempted by the builder.
- Reasonable relocation and storage expenses.
- Lost business income (if the home was used as a principal place of business licensed to be operated from the home).
- Reasonable investigative costs for each established violation.

- All other costs or fees recoverable by contract or statute.

PRACTICE TIP:

Interaction Between Civ. Code § 943(b) and Civ. Code § 944. The interaction between Civ. Code § 943(b) and Civ. Code § 944 is not entirely clear. Section 944 is not expressly limited to residences other than detached single family homes, but § 943(b) would seem to indicate that owners of such residences are restricted to seeking only the cost of repair or the diminution in value. As of April 2007, no appellate decision has been published that addresses this issue.

[f] Parties Bound by Title 7

Title 7 binds both original and subsequent purchasers [Civ. Code § 945]. Homeowners' associations and entities with the rights enumerated in Civ. Code §§ 1368.3 and 1368.4 are likewise considered "original purchasers" for purposes of Title 7, and thus have standing to enforce all Title 7 provisions [Civ. Code § 945].

[g] Affirmative Defenses

The following seven specific categories of affirmative defenses are available to builders under Title 7 [Civ. Code § 945.5]:

- Unforeseen acts of nature [Civ. Code § 945.5(a)].
- Claimant's failure to mitigate or prevent damage [Civ. Code § 945.5(b)].
- Claimant's failure to follow the builder's or manufacturer's maintenance recommendations or commonly accepted homeowner maintenance obligations [Civ. Code § 945.5(c)].
- Claimant's or third party's alterations, ordinary wear and tear, misuse, abuse, or neglect, or use of the structure for something other than its intended purpose [Civ. Code § 945.5(d)].
- Applicable statutes of limitation [Civ. Code § 945.5(e)].
- Builder's procurement of a valid release [Civ. Code § 945.5(f)].
- Builder's successful repair of a given violation [Civ. Code § 945.5(g)].

Finally, all applicable affirmative defenses are preserved with regard to causes of action to which Title 7 does not apply [Civ. Code § 945.5(h)].

[7] Planning Considerations for Title 7 Issues

Title 7 questions to consider when preparing condominium project documents include the following:

- Does the builder want to offer a customized one year fit and finish warranty or rely on the statutory default language?
- Does the builder want to use the Chapter 2 functionality standards or prepare and provide its own enhanced protection agreement?
- Does the builder want to provide written maintenance schedules and obligations to homebuyers and the homeowners association?

- Is an affiliated general contractor involved in the building, development, construction, or sale of the property?

- Does the builder want to follow the Chapter 4 prelitigation procedures or prepare and provide its own alternative nonadversarial procedures?

- Do any documents prepared with regard to Title 7 make sufficient provision for both homeowners and the homeowners association?

1. Name, address, and telephone number of owner and of any consultants, engineers, or others employed by owner for project.

2. Legal status of owner:

a. Individual.

b. Corporation.

c. Partnership.

d. Other.

3. Description of project, including:

a. Location (including street address, nearest cross streets, city, county, and state).

b. Legal description.

c. Zoning classification of project.

d. Nature of proposed construction work, i.e.:
(1) New construction.

(2) Conversion of existing building to condominiums [see § 34.43].

(3) Phased development [see § 34.44].

e. In case of conversion, condition and current use of existing building.

f. Number of condominium units in project.

g. Description of condominiums to be separately owned by purchasers, e.g.:

(1) Units consisting of:
(a) Airspace only; or

(b) Airspace plus physical boundaries (e.g., walls, floors, and ceilings).

(2) Units and parcel of real property.

(3) Boat slip or other space on water.

(4) Other.

h. Nature of proposed estates in condominiums and in common area [see Civ. Code § 1351(b), (l); see also § 34.33[5], [7]]:

(1) Fee;

(2) Life estate;

(3) Estate for years; or

(4) Any combination of above estates.

i. Description of common area, including any improvements.

j. Description of any exclusive use common areas [see § 34.33[7]], e.g.:

(1) Parking spaces.

(2) Yards.

(3) Fixtures designed to serve, but located outside boundaries of, particular unit or units, e.g.:

NOTE:
Unless the declaration provides otherwise, any fixtures (specifically including those listed below) designed to serve a single condominium unit, but located outside that unit, will be exclusive use common areas allocated exclusively to the unit [Civ. Code § 1351(i)(1)].

Notwithstanding the provisions of the declaration, internal and external telephone wiring designed to serve a single condominium unit (or comparable separate interest), but located outside the boundaries of the unit, are exclusive use common areas allocated exclusively to that unit [Civ. Code § 1351(i)(2); see Civ. Code § 1364(f); see also § 34.33[7]].

§ 34.120 General Development and Formation Considerations

1. Will owners' association be incorporated [see § 34.38[1]]?

NOTE:
Most condominium owners' associations are incorporated under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.; see § 34.38[1]].

2. Will owners of condominiums own common area as tenants in common [see Civ. Code § 1362]?

NOTE:
To be a condominium, at least a portion of the real property must be owned by the owners as tenants in common [Civ. Code § 1351(f)]. Unless the declaration provides otherwise, the condominium owners own the common area as tenants in common, in equal shares, one for each unit or lot [Civ. Code § 1362; see Civ. Code § 1351(f)].

3. What local requirements govern proposed project [see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits, § 30B.110]?

4. If proposed project involves conversion of existing residential structure, do local requirements make conversion impractical [see § 34.43[3]]?

5. According to local governmental officials and utility companies, are adequate utilities and other necessary services available?

6. If separately owned units will consist of improved parcels of real property, should developer form development as a planned development [see § 34.32]?

§ 34.121 Applicability of State and Federal Laws

1. For purposes of Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], will proposed project:

a. Be subject to Act because it consists of "condominiums," which are estates in real property consisting of following types of ownership interests [Civ. Code §§ 783, 1351(f)]:

NOTE:
Under the Act, a common interest development is any of the following: a condominium project; a community apartment project; a planned development; or a stock cooperative [Civ. Code § 1351(c)]. For these purposes, "condominium project" means a development consisting of "condominiums," as that term is defined in this Paragraph 1(a) [Civ. Code § 1351(f)]. Virtually all condominium projects in California will fall within this statutory definition [see §§ 34.32 and 34.33[1]].

(1) Separate interest in "space" (called a unit), the boundaries of which are accurately described in recorded final map, parcel map, or condominium plan; and

(2) Undivided interest in common in portion of real property in project?

b. Be exempt from certain requirements of Davis-Sterling Common Interest Development Act because [Civ. Code § 1373; see § 34.33[2]]:

(1) Property is expressly zoned as industrial or commercial development; or

(2) Project will be limited in use to industrial or commercial purposes pursuant to declaration of covenants, conditions, and restrictions that has been recorded in official records of each county in which common interest development is located?

NOTE:

The requirements of the Davis-Sterling Common Interest Development Act that do not apply to those projects within the scope of Civ. Code § 1373 consist of the following: (1) the amendment of the declaration [see Civ. Code § 1356]; (2) operating rules [see Civ. Code § 1357.100 et seq.]; (3) preparation of a budget by the association [see Civ. Code § 1363(b)]; (4) financial statements prepared by the owners' association [see Civ. Code § 1365]; (5) the duties of the board of directors [see Civ. Code § 1365.5]; (6) the imposition or collection of assessments or fees [see Civ. Code §§ 1366(b), 1366.1]; (7) the sale or transfer of title to a separate interest in the development [see Civ. Code § 1368]; (8) the distribution of certain project documents to prospective purchasers [see Civ. Code §§ 1363(b), 1368]; and (9) the procedure for obtaining association approval of physical changes to an owner's separate interest or the common area [see Civ. Code § 1378].

2. Will project consist of at least five condominiums and therefore be subject to public report and other requirements of Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(c)]?

NOTE:

The Act incorporates by reference the definition of condominium set forth in the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(c); see Civ. Code §§ 783, 1351(f); see also § 34.37].

The notice and public report requirements of the Act do not apply to nonbinding expressions of intent to purchase or lease that a converter must obtain from tenants in connection with a conversion of a building to a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.7; see § 34.200[1][b][iii]].

For a discussion of the Subdivided Lands Act in general, see § 34.37. For the procedures involved in obtaining a public report under that Act, see §§ 34.143 and 34.200[1].

In addition, a subdivider must furnish a prospective purchaser of a lot, parcel, or unit in the subdivision (or a prospective lessee, if the lease term is to exceed five years) with a "notice of special tax" if the subdivision is subject to a special tax assessed under the Mello-Roos Community Facilities Act of 1982 [Gov. Code § 53341.5(a); see Gov. Code § 53311 et seq. (Mello-Roos Act)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

3. Which of following subdivision maps (if any) must or may be prepared under Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] and applicable local subdivision ordinance [see § 34.36[2]]:

NOTE:

Although the Subdivision Map Act applies to condominium projects in general [see Gov. Code § 66424], it does not apply to the conversion of a community apartment project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004] or stock cooperative [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2] to condominiums, if the conversion meets specified requirements [see Gov. Code § 66412(g), (h); see also § 34.220[1]]. For a discussion of other limited exceptions to the Act [see Gov. Code §§ 66412, 66412.2, 66412.5], see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

a. Tentative and final map, if project will contain five or more condominiums [Gov. Code §§ 66426, 66428; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120].

b. Parcel map, if project will contain four or fewer condominiums, unless local ordinance waives requirement of parcel map [Gov. Code § 66428; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120[7], [8]].

NOTE:

If the Act requires a parcel map for a particular project, the local ordinance may require a tentative map, whether or not the local ordinance waives the requirement for a parcel map. If the local ordinance does not require a tentative map when a parcel map is required under the Act, the developer has the option of submitting a tentative map or a vesting tentative map [Gov. Code § 66428].

c. Vesting tentative map in lieu of any tentative or parcel map required by Act, if developer wishes to obtain vested right to proceed with development in substantial compliance with existing local requirements [see Gov. Code §§ 66498.1-66498.8; see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120[1]-[4]].

4. Will sale of condominium units within project be exempt from:

NOTE:

The sale of condominiums will usually be exempt from the securities laws, particularly if the purchaser will occupy the unit and does not expect a speculative return on the condominium through the efforts of another person. For further discussion, see § 34.41.

a. Registration requirements of federal Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77 et seq.]; and

b. Qualification requirements of California Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.]?

5. Must project be registered with Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration under Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act [15 U.S.C. § 1701 et seq.]?

NOTE:

This Act applies to developers who utilize the mails or any means of transportation or communication in interstate commerce to sell or lease subdivided lots [see 15 U.S.C. § 1703(a)(1)*].

6. Will National Environmental Protection Act of 1969 (NEPA) apply to project [42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.; see generally Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits, §§ 30B.31, 30B.112]?

7. Is proposed project subject to California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; see generally Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits, §§ 30B.32, 30B.112]?

8. Will project be located in coastal zone [see Pub. Res. Code § 30103] and therefore subject to California Coastal Act of 1976 [Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.]?

NOTE:

Anyone seeking to subdivide land in the coastal zone pursuant to the Subdivision Map Act must first obtain a coastal development permit [Pub. Res. Code § 30600(a)]. For a detailed discussion of this permit requirement, see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits, §

30B.222.

9. Is project subject to any regional environmental regulations [see Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building, and Environmental Entitlements and Permits, § 30B.30]?

§ 34.141 Preparation, Processing, and Recording of Subdivision Maps

NOTE:

To determine whether a tentative, vesting tentative, final, or parcel map must or may be prepared for the project under the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.], see § 34.121, P 3. For the procedures for preparing, processing, and recording subdivision maps, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120. The following discussion summarizes this material and describes the additional requirements and restrictions of the Subdivision Map Act that apply solely to condominium projects.

1. To extent required by Subdivision Map Act, have following map(s) prepared in conformance with statutory and local requirements governing form, content, and number of copies:

NOTE:

A map of a condominium project need not show the buildings or the manner in which the buildings or the airspace above the property are to be divided. The local governing body cannot refuse approval of the parcel, tentative, or final map on account of (1) the design or location of the buildings if these details do not violate local ordinances, or (2) the manner in which airspace is to be divided in conveying the condominiums. These requirements also apply to any map of a community apartment project or of the conversion of five or more existing dwelling units to a stock cooperative project [Gov. Code § 66427(a)]. A map need not include a condominium plan or plans, and the governing body may not refuse to approve a parcel, tentative, or final map on account of the absence of a condominium plan [Gov. Code § 66427(b)]. If the governing body has approved a parcel map to establish condominiums pursuant to Gov. Code § 66427, the separation of a three-dimensional portion or portions of the property from the remainder of the property or the division of that three-dimensional portion or portions into condominiums will not constitute a further subdivision under the Act, provided (1) the total number of condominiums established is not increased above the number authorized by the local agency in approving the parcel map or final map; (2) a perpetual estate or an estate for years in the remainder of the property is held by the condominium owners in undivided interests in common, or by an association, and the duration of the estate in the remainder of the property is the same as the duration of the estate in the condominiums; and (3) the three-dimensional portion or portions of the property are described on a condominium plan or plans [see Gov. Code § 66427(e)]. Unlike the remainder of Gov. Code § 66427, this provision does not apply to community apartment projects or stock cooperatives.

a. Tentative or vesting tentative map [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120[1]-[4]].

NOTE:
If a project involves the subdivision of airspace in an existing structure but not the construction or addition of new units, as in the case of a conversion, any required tentative map (or parcel map for which a tentative map was not required) need not comply with the statutory provisions requiring consistency with applicable general or specific plans [see Gov. Code §§ 66473.5, 66474, 66474.61] unless the general or specific plans contain definite objectives and policies specifically directed to the conversion of existing buildings into condominium projects or stock cooperatives [Gov. Code § 66427.2].

b. Final map [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120[5], [6]].

c. Parcel map [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.120[7], [8]].

2. Satisfy any prefiling requirements imposed by local ordinance.

3. If proposed project involves conversion of existing structure [see § 34.120, § 4], satisfy statutory notice requirements [see § 34.145, § 5].

4. File map with city or county.

NOTE:
If a project involves converting an existing apartment building into a condominium project, stock cooperative, or community apartment project, the local government can require the payment of fees in lieu of dedication, but cannot require dedication of land for local transit facilities [Gov. Code § 66475.2(b)].

§ 34.142 Drafting Project Documents

NOTE:

The following project documents must reflect the requirements of the following laws that are applicable to the proposed development: the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.; see § 34.121, P 1]; the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and its implementing regulations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2792.15-2792.29; see § 34.121, P 2]; and the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.; see the NOTE to § 34.120, P 1]. The comments to the forms identified below discuss the applicable requirements.

1. Draft declaration [see § 34.202; see also Civ. Code §§ 1352, 1353].

NOTE:

Recordation of a declaration and a final or parcel map (if otherwise required for development) [see § 34.141, P 3] is one of the requirements for the creation of a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1352; see Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.].

2. If desired or required by local ordinance, have engineer or surveyor draft condominium plan and confirm that [Civ. Code § 1351(e)]:

NOTE:

Although the Davis-Stirling Act does not specifically require the preparation of a condominium plan [see Civ. Code § 1352(b)], local subdivision ordinances usually do so. An engineer or surveyor should prepare the plan since it must contain detailed descriptions of the project, its units, common area, and exclusive use common areas. The Act requires the recordation of the condominium plan "if any exists" as a condition to the creation of a common interest development [Civ. Code § 1352(b)].

a. Plan contains the following:

(1) Description or survey map of project that refers to or shows monumentation on the ground;

NOTE:

A monument is a natural or artificial object used to mark the location on the ground of a boundary line or corner [see Goss v. Golinsky (1909) 12 Cal. App. 71, 74-75, 106 P. 604 ; see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Boundaries and Descriptions (Matthew Bender)].

(2) Three-dimensional description of project that identifies common areas and each separate interest; and

(3) Certificate consenting to recordation of plan signed and acknowledged by required persons [Civ. Code § 1351(e)(3); see P b, below].

b. Consent certificate has been signed by:

NOTE:

Owners of mineral rights, easements, rights-of-way, and other nonpossessory interests are not required to sign the condominium plan [Civ. Code § 1351(e)].

(1) Record owner of fee title to property included in plan.

(2) If project will terminate on termination of estate for years: all lessors and lessees of estate for years.

(3) If project is subject to life estate: all life tenants and holders of remainder interests.

(4) Either trustee or beneficiary of each recorded deed of trust, and mortgagee of each recorded mortgage, encumbering property.

(5) If condominium is result of conversion from community apartment project or stock cooperative: those owners, trustees, beneficiaries, and mortgagees who approved conversion.

3. Prepare either of following:

a. Articles of incorporation, if owners' association will be incorporated [see § 34.204].

b. Articles of association, if owners' association will not be incorporated.

NOTE:

For a discussion of unincorporated associations, see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations . For a form of articles of association, see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations*, § 13A.200*.

4. Draft bylaws for owners' association [see § 34.205].

5. If project will be professionally managed, draft management agreement [see § 34.207].

6. Consider drafting rules and regulations for project [see, e.g., § 34.208 (sample rules and regulations governing use of common areas).].

7. Review above documents to confirm that they are internally consistent.

8. If public report must be obtained for project, prepare copies of all of above documents for inclusion with application for report [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a), 2792(a); see also § 34.143, P 4(h), (i), (u)].

§ 34.143 Obtaining and Distributing Public Report for Project

NOTE:

An applicant for a public report must file the documents described below with the appropriate Subdivision District Office of the Department of Real Estate. The Los Angeles District Office (107 S. Broadway, Room 7001, Los Angeles, CA 90012; (213) 620-2700) processes applications for subdivisions located in Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Barbara, and Ventura counties. The Sacramento District Office (4433 Florin Road, Room 250, Sacramento, CA 95823; (916) 322-2505) has jurisdiction over all other counties. For additional information on the public report process, including links to forms and regulations, the Department of Real Estate maintains a useful website at http://www.dre.ca.gov.

1. If developer wishes to take reservations for purchase or lease of condominiums from prospective purchasers prior to receipt of final public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795]:

a. Apply for preliminary public report by submitting appropriate filing fee [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790.1.5]; see also § 34.200[1][i]] along with standard application for public report [see § 34.200].

b. After obtaining preliminary public report:
(1) Provide copy of it to each prospective purchaser.

(2) Have prospective purchaser execute each of following [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2795(b), 2795.1]:
(a) Reservation agreement [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation]; and

NOTE:
This agreement must also be signed by or on behalf of the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(b)(2)].

(b) Official receipt for preliminary public report [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

NOTE:
The prospective purchaser must execute this receipt before the developer can accept any money or other thing of value in connection with the reservation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.1(b)(1)]. The developer or developer's agent must retain each receipt for three years and must make the receipts available for inspection by the Commissioner or his or her designated representative during regular business hours [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.1(b)].

c. Prepare and execute official escrow agreement and place executed reservation instrument and any deposit taken from potential buyer into escrow depository [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(b)(2)].

2. Complete official application for public report [see § 34.200[2]; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790].

NOTE:
One of the supporting documents that must be included in the application package [see § 34.143*, P 4] is a completed subdivision questionnaire [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792(a)(2)]. The subdivision questionnaire is incorporated into the official application form [see § 34.200[1][c]*].

3. Have application executed by or on behalf of developer (or other person to whom public report is to be issued), and [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790]:

a. If executed within California, have developer either:

(1) Verify information in application and supporting documents, before notary public or other person qualified to administer oaths; or

(2) Execute written certificate that [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5(a) (model certification)]:

NOTE:
The official application for a public report contains a certification provision [see § 34.200[2]*, P 72].

(a) Recites that this information is certified to be true under penalty of perjury; and

(b) States date and place of execution and that it is certified under California law.

b. If executed outside of California, have developer either:

(1) Verify information in application and supporting documents, before person qualified to administer oaths within jurisdiction where executed; or

(2) Execute written certificate that [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5(b) (model certification)].

NOTE:

The official application for a public report contains a certification provision [see § 34.200[2], P 72].

(a) Recites that it is certified to be true under penalty of perjury; and

(b) States date of execution and that it is certified under California laws.

4. Assemble following documents for inclusion in application package [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a), 2792(a)]:

NOTE:

Most of the documents listed below are described in greater detail in the official application for a public report [see § 34.200].

The Department of Real Estate has developed alternative methods of filing the application materials required for a final public report. Two of these alternatives permit the applicant to submit the required materials in specified stages rather than all at once. For further discussion, see § 34.200[1][e]. et seq.

a. Subdivision filing fee, including fee for preliminary public report if applicable.

b. Completed subdivision questionnaire.

c. Approved tentative subdivision map, unless Commissioner found that because of processing delays, tentative subdivision map has not been approved but will be approved within reasonable time.

d. Certificate of qualification from Secretary of State if applicant is a foreign corporation.

e. Consent to service of process on Secretary of State, if applicant is a nonresident of California.

f. Current preliminary title report covering all subdivision interests for which public report is sought, which must include:

(1) Legal description of subdivided property;

(2) Nature of interest or estate covered by report;

(3) Record owner of interest or estate covered by report;

(4) All easements, liens, rights, interests, and claims disclosed by examination of indices in office or recorder of county in which property is located;

(5) Existence of encroachment of improvements over lines of record title;

(6) All mechanics' liens arising out of work completed or work in progress; and

(7) Existence of assessments or potential assessments for public improvements completed or under construction.

g. Copy of declaration [see § 34.202; see also §§ 34.142, P 1 and 34.144, P 2].

h. Coastal Commissioner permit or exemption if project is in coastal zone.

i. Evidence of availability of domestic utilities and services to project.

j. Information concerning hazards and other unusual conditions within or in vicinity of project.

k. Assessment and improvement bond information, if applicable.

l. Exemplars of all marketing, financing, and conveyancing instruments to be used in offering of condominiums.

m. Exemplar escrow instructions including at least the following:

NOTE:

Applications for final subdivision public reports must contain specified information. The regulation that lists the required information for condominium projects and other common interest subdivisions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1] requires, among other things, all of the applicable documents and information required for "standard" (non-common interest) subdivisions under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792(a). The list for common interest projects and the list for standard subdivisions conflict only in their requirements for the contents of the exemplar escrow instructions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792(a)(13) (standard subdivisions), 2792.1(a)(15) (common interest subdivisions)]. The description below sets forth the requirements applicable to common interest subdivisions because the Department of Real Estate presumably intends them to prevail over their standard subdivision counterparts when conflicts exist.

(1) Description of nature of transaction.

(2) Provision for return to buyers of funds deposited toward purchase of condominiums if escrows are not closed by date prescribed in instructions.

(3) Name and address of escrow depository to be utilized.

(4) When applicable, provision assuring compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(c) [see § 34.203].

(5) Provision for conveyance of common area to owners' association, if applicable.

n. Bond or other device to be used as a means of compliance with Bus. and Prof. Code §§ 11013.2 and 11013.4.

NOTE:

For discussion of those statutory provisions, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

o. Completed documents for reservations and reservation deposits if preliminary public report is requested.

p. Evidence of financial arrangements to assure completion of all off-site improvements included in offering.

q. Evidence of financial arrangements for any guarantee or warranty included in offering.

r. Evidence of all arrangements to assure completion, maintenance, and availability for use of any privately owned facility that will be offered as an inducement to purchase of condominiums.

s. Copy of all proposed or existing governing instruments for owners' association, including (as applicable) [see §§ 34.142, PP 3-7 and 34.144]:

(1) Articles of incorporation [see § 34.203] or association;

(2) Bylaws [see § 34.206];

(3) Management agreement [see § 34.207]; and

(4) Rules for use of common areas and recreational facilities [see § 34.208].

t. Copy of condominium plan, if any [see § 34.142, P 2].

u. Overall development plan if project is part of phased development.

v. Evidence of financial arrangements for completion of common areas and facilities.

w. Copies of all contracts or proposed contracts obligating owners' association.

x. Agreement of developer to subsidize common area maintenance and owners' association operation (when applicable).

y. Financial arrangements to assure performance of subsidization agreement as noted in Paragraph (x), above.

z. Detailed pro forma budget reflecting estimated costs of ownership, operation, and maintenance expenses and reserves for condominium project.

aa. Most recent balance sheet and annual operating statement for owners' association, if applicable.

bb. Duplicate budget package for departmental analysis of proposed budget for common area maintenance and owners' association operations.

cc. Subdivision trust agreement, if applicable.

dd. Exemplar of deed for conveyance of common area to owners' association.

ee. Permit issued by Department of Corporations if applicable to the offering.

5. If project involves conversion of existing residential building to condominiums, include supplemental questionnaire [see DRE Form 639, available at http://www.dre.ca.gov/form500.htm] in application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(16); see § 34.43].

6. If project is to be developed in phases or stages, enclose a detailed plan of phased development, which must include [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27; see § 34.44[1]]:

NOTE:

If a multi-phased development qualifies as a "master planned development" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(a) (definition), the development may be exempt from some or all of the "reasonable arrangement regulations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.15-2792.28] normally applicable to developments that are subject to the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32; § 34.44[3]; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. (Act)].

a. Proof satisfactory to Commissioner that no proposed annexation will:

(1) Result in overburdening of common facilities; or

(2) Cause substantial increase in assessments against existing owners that was not disclosed in public reports under which pre-existing owners purchased their interests.

b. Identification of land proposed to be annexed and total number of residential units currently contemplated by developer for overall project.

c. Written commitment by developer to pay to association, concurrently with closing of escrow for first sale of a condominium in an annexed phase, appropriate amounts for specified maintenance reserves.

NOTE:

These "reserves" must be for replacement or deferred maintenance of common area improvements in the annexed phase necessitated by or arising out of the use and occupancy of condominiums under any rental program conducted by the developer that has been in effect for a period of at least one year as of the date of closing of the escrow for the first sale of a condominium in the annexed phase [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27(b)(4)].

If the phased development is or will be a senior citizen housing development [see Civ. Code § 51.3; see also § 34.40[2]], the applicant must include in the application for the public report a complete statement of the restrictions on occupancy that are to apply in the development [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.05; see also § 34.200[1][b][v]].

"Although rarely utilized, if certain requirements are met, the Department of Real Estate will issue a flexible phase public report. For example, assume a 100-unit project, divided into five (5) phases of 20 units each. Under standard phasing techniques, each phase would consist of 20 numbered units. Phase 1, for example, would include units 1 through 20, phase 2, units 21 through 40, and so on. Under the flexible phase public report requirements, the same five public reports could be issued, however, phase 1 would not necessarily consist of units 1 though 20. When the report is issued, it would cover 20 units, but they would be specifically identified in the report. When the subdivider is ready to close escrow on the units in his or her first phase, he or she will then identify the 20 units in phase 1. The units are identified by preparing a Notice of Designation and forwarding it to the Department of Real Estate. The advantage of the flexible phase public report is that the developer is not locked into offering units 1 through 20 in the first phase, but can offer any of units 1 through 100 in the first phase" [Hanna & Van Atta, Hanna and Van Atta on California Common Interest Developments (Thomson West 2006) § 11.32, p. 442].

7. Before submitting application, review application and supporting documents, keeping in mind that Commissioner, to issue public report for project, must find that [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5]:

NOTE:

The Real Estate Commissioner will ordinarily consider provisions of the proposed governing instruments to satisfy the "reasonable arrangements" requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5 [see § 34.143*, P 7(a), (e), and (f)] if the provisions substantially conform to the applicable standards prescribed in the Commissioner's regulations [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.4, 2792.15-2792.29] and if they do not otherwise arbitrarily deny, limit, or abridge the right of owners with regard to management, maintenance, preservation, operation, or control of their condominiums and other interests in the project [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(b); see § 34.202[1]*].

a. Reasonable arrangements have been made to assure completion of project and all off-site improvements included in offering.

b. If condominium or premises or facilities within common area will not be completed before to issuance of final report, developer has:

(1) Specified reasonable date for completion; and

(2) Has complied with one of following financial plans prescribed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2) [see § 34.200[1]]:

(a) Arranges for lien and completion bond or bonds in an amount and subject to such terms, conditions, and coverage as Commissioner may approve to assure completion of improvements lien free.

(b) All funds from sale of lots or parcels or such portions thereof as Commissioner determines are sufficient to assure construction of improvement or improvements, must be impounded in neutral escrow depository acceptable to Commissioner until improvements have been completed and all applicable lien periods have expired; provided, however, Commissioner determines time for completion is reasonable.

(c) Amount sufficient to cover costs of construction must be deposited in neutral escrow depository acceptable to Commissioner under written agreement providing for disbursements from that escrow as work is completed.

(d) If project is condominium situated on single parcel as shown on approved final subdivision map, arrange for (i) lien and completion bond or bonds in amount sufficient to assure lien-free completion of all common area improvements not located in residential structure, and (ii) placement of all funds, or such portions thereof as Commissioner determines are sufficient, from sales of condominium interests in neutral escrow depository acceptable to Commissioner. Funds for purchase or lease of condominium interest must remain in escrow account until residential structure in which purchaser's separate unit is located has been completed, and all lien periods applicable to purchaser's separate and undivided interests in entire project arising out of work of improvement performed by either subdivider or any successor in interest to subdivider have expired or have been insured against in manner satisfactory to Commissioner.

(e) Such other alternative plan as may be approved by Commissioner.

c. Proposed deeds, conveyances, leases, subleases, or instruments of assignment are adequate to transfer to purchasers the legal interests and uses represented by owner.

d. After transfer of title to first condominium to any purchaser, provisions of project documents as last submitted to Commissioner will be binding on every purchaser and occupant of every other condominium in project.

NOTE:

These purchasers and occupants include, except with regard to a limited-equity housing cooperative, purchasers acquiring title by judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure or by deed in lieu of foreclosure, under any mortgage or deed of trust, whether or not the mortgage or deed of trust was recorded before recordation of the declaration applicable to the first condominium transferred to a purchaser [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(c)].

e. Reasonable arrangements have been made for delivery to purchasers of control over project and all off-site land and improvements included in offering.

f. Reasonable arrangements have been or will be made as to interest of each purchaser with regard to management, maintenance, preservation, operation, use, right of resale, and control of:

(1) Purchaser's condominium; and

(2) Any other areas or interests, whether or not within, or pertaining to, areas within boundaries of project, that:

(a) Have been or will be made subject to plan of control proposed by owner; and

(b) Are included in offering.

8. Submit application package and filing fee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11011(b)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790.1.5(a)] to Department of Real Estate [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790].

NOTE:

If the developer does not furnish the data required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010 [see § 34.143*; see also § 34.200[2]*] within three years from the date a notice of intention is filed, the Real Estate Commissioner may, after written notice to the developer or the developer's representative, abandon the application, provided, however, that (1) six months have elapsed since the Commissioner has given notice of deficiencies or substantive inadequacies contained in the documents that are required to make the filing substantially complete and the deficiencies and inadequacies have not been corrected by the applicant, and (2) the term of any one year extension of time in which to complete the application has elapsed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.13(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2804(a)(1)]. Under specified conditions, the Commissioner may grant the developer a one-year extension to complete the application [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2804(d)*].

9. On receipt of notice of intention and application for issuance of a public report, ensure that Department of Real Estate (DRE) reviews notice and application and notifies applicant, within 10 days after receiving notice and application, of whether notice and application are substantially complete with regard to quantitative requirements, i.e., that number and type of documents required to make filing substantially complete without regard to content of those requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(a)(1), (b)].

NOTE:

If notice and application are not substantially complete with regard to quantitative requirements, notification from DRE must specify information needed to make notice and application substantially complete [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(b)(1)]. On receipt of any resubmittal of notice and application, DRE must notify applicant, in writing, of that determination within 10 days after receiving notice and application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(b)(1)].

If DRE determines that notice and application are substantially complete with regard to quantitative requirements, DRE must provide applicant with list of all deficiencies and substantive inadequacies necessary for notice and application to be "qualitatively" complete, within 60 days after DRE determines that notice and application are substantially complete with regard to quantitative requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(b)(2)].

Qualitatively complete, for purposes of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2, means that all deficiencies and substantive inadequacies contained in the documents that were required to make the filing substantially complete have been corrected [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(a)(2)].

10. On receipt of all documents, materials, writings, and other information submitted in response to DRE's "qualitative" deficiency notice, ensure that DRE notifies applicant of whether notice and application are qualitatively complete within 30 days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(c)].

NOTE:

If application and notice are not qualitatively complete, notice must include list of any remaining deficiencies and substantive inadequacies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(c)]. On receipt of any resubmittal of documents, materials, writings, and other information in response to list of any remaining deficiencies and substantive inadequacies, DRE must provide notification within 30 days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(c)].

11. After receipt of any qualitative deficiency notice from DRE, make any changes to declaration, condominium plan, articles, and bylaws demanded by DRE.

NOTE:

DRE must issue a public report within 15 days after the notice and application are determined to be qualitatively and substantially complete, and evidence of the recording and filing of all corresponding documents are submitted to DRE [see § 34.144], along with evidence of financial arrangements required by DRE [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(d)].

12. If, after DRE determines that application is qualitatively complete [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2; § 34.200[1]], developer is unable to satisfy certain remaining conditions for issuance of public report [see NOTE, below] but wishes to commence sale or leasing of condominiums, take following steps:

NOTE:

The Commissioner may issue a conditional public report if the material elements of the setup of the offering to be made under the authority of the conditional public report have been established, and all requirements for issuance of a public report have been met except for one or more of the following: (1) a final map has not yet been recorded, (2) a condominium plan has not been recorded, (3) the CC&Rs have not been recorded, (4) a declaration of annexation has not been recorded, (5) a recorded subordination of existing liens to the CC&Rs or the declaration of annexation, or escrow instructions to effect recordation of the same prior to the first sale, are lacking, (6) filed articles of incorporation are lacking, (7) a current preliminary report of a licensed title insurance company issued after filing of the final map and recording of the declaration covering all subdivision interests to be included in the public report has not been provided, or (8) other requirements the Commissioner determines are likely to be timely satisfied by the applicant, notwithstanding the fact that the failure to meet these requirements makes the application qualitatively incomplete [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(a)(1)-(8)].

a. Apply for conditional public report by satisfying following requirements:

(1) Supply evidence that all purchase money will be deposited in compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2(a) or 11013.4(a) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(1); see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

(2) Provide evidence of compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(1), (2) (governing completion of project and offsite improvements) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(1); see § 34.200[1]].

(3) Supply description of nature of transaction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(2)].

(4) Provide for return of entire sum of money paid or advanced by purchaser if [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(3)]:
(a) Public report is not issued during term of conditional public report, or during extended term of conditional public report; or

(b) Purchaser is dissatisfied with public report because of material change in setup of offering [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11012 (material changes); see also § 34.161].

b. If Commissioner issues conditional public report, notify developer of his or her right to sell or lease, or offer for sale or lease, condominiums in project pursuant to report, provided following requirements are satisfied:

(1) As condition of sale, lease, or offer, delivery of legal title or other interest contracted for will not take place until issuance of final public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(d)].

(2) Requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e) are met [see § 34.143, P 9(a)].

(3) Each prospective purchaser is provided with copy of conditional public report and written statement that includes all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(f)]:

(a) Specification of information required for issuance of public report.

(b) Specification of information required in public report that is not available in conditional public report, along with statement of reasons why that information is not available at time of issuance of conditional public report.

(c) Statement that no person acting as principal or agent may sell, lease, or offer for sale or lease condominiums in project for which conditional public report has been issued except as provided in applicable provisions of Subdivided Lands Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. (Act); Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11010-11023 (applicable provisions)].

(d) Specification of requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e) [see § 34.143, P 9(a)].

(4) Prospective purchaser signs receipt indicating that he or she has received and read conditional public report and written statement accompanying report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(g); see § 34.143, P 3].

c. If term of conditional public report is about to expire, apply (if desired) for six-month renewal [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(h), (i)].

NOTE:

The term of a conditional public report must not exceed six months, and may be renewed for one additional term of six months if the commissioner determines that the requirements for issuance of a public report are likely to be satisfied during the renewal term [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(h)]. However, the term of a conditional public report for attached residential condominium units consisting of 25 units or more as specified on the approved tentative tract map, must not exceed 30 months and may be renewed for one additional term of six months if the Commissioner determines that the requirements for issuance of a public report are likely to be satisfied during the renewal term [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(h)].

13. Create project and association [see § 34.144].

14. After obtaining final public report, and before entering into any contract or agreement for sale or lease of any condominium in project, have developer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1]:

a. Give each prospective purchaser or lessee a copy of report and statutory statement describing common interest developments [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(c); see also § 34.201].

b. Have prospective purchaser or lessee execute official receipt for report [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.1; see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

c. Have developer, on oral or written request, give copy of public report to any member of public.

d. Have developer post in conspicuous place at any office at which sales or leases (or offers to sell or lease) are regularly made, the following documents:

(1) Copy of public report; and

(2) Statement advising that developer will provide copy of public report at any time, on oral or written request.

e. Make copies of following documents available for examination by prospective purchasers or lessees before execution of offers to purchase or lease [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.6]:

(1) Declaration.

(2) Articles of incorporation or association for owners' association.

(3) Bylaws for owners' association.

(4) Any other instrument that establishes or defines common, mutual, and reciprocal rights and responsibilities of owners or lessees of condominiums in project as members of owners' association, or otherwise.

(5) To extent available and applicable, current pro forma operating budget prepared in accordance with Civ. Code § 1365(a) [see § 34.164, P 1(a)].

(6) Statement prepared by governing body of association setting forth outstanding delinquent assessments and related charges levied by association against condominiums in project under authority of governing instruments.

15. Instruct developer or developer's agent to [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.1(b)]:

a. Retain each receipt for final or preliminary public report for three years; and

b. Make receipts available for inspection by Commissioner or Commissioner's designated representative during regular business hours.

§ 34.144 Creating Project and Association

1. Create condominium project by [Civ. Code § 1353]:

NOTE:
The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act applies and a common-interest development is created as soon as the following steps are taken [Civ. Code § 1352].

a. Recording following:
(1) Declaration [see § 34.202].

NOTE:
If a declaration for a condominium is (1) recorded before the execution of a contract of sale of any interests in the development, (2) describes the property it is to govern, and (3) states that it is to bind all purchasers and their successors, a subsequent purchaser who has constructive notice of the recorded declaration is deemed to intend and agree to be bound by, and to accept the benefits of, the common plan established by the declaration notwithstanding that the declaration is not additionally cited in a deed or other document at the time of sale to the subsequent purchaser [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

(2) Condominium plan, if required by local jurisdiction.

(3) Final map or parcel map, if required by Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.; see § 34.141].

b. Conveying following to purchaser [see § 34.240]:

(1) Condominium unit; and

(2) Interest in common area or membership in owners' association.

2. Assuming owners' association will be a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation [see NOTE to § 34.120, P 1], create association by:

a. Obtaining clearance of proposed name from Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 7122; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.111].

b. Reserving proposed name [see Corp. Code § 7122(d); see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.120, P 1].

c. Filing articles [see § 34.204] with Secretary of State [see Corp. Code § 7120(a); see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.120].

d. Having developer adopt bylaws [see § 34.142, P 4] and appoint initial directors [see § 34.205].

e. Holding initial meeting of directors, at which they should take any acts necessary to complete organization of association [see Corp. Code §§ 7211, 7213; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.121].

f. Filing annual statement within 90 days after filing original articles [see Corp. Code § 8210(a); see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.120].

g. If sale of condominiums does not qualify for exemption from state and/or federal securities laws [see § 34.121, P 4]:

NOTE:
For discussion of the general scope and application of the California and federal securities laws, and a list of the exemptions available under those laws, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . Federal exemptions are covered in greater detail in Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations. For a detailed discussion of the federal securities laws in the context of condominium development, see Rohan & Reskin, Condominium Law and Practice, Ch. 18, The Securities Law Implications of Condominium Marketing Programs Which Feature a Rental Agency or Rental Pool (Matthew Bender).

(1) File application for qualification of securities with Commissioner of Corporations [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities]; and/or

(2) If necessary, comply with registration requirements of Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.].

§ 34.145 Converting Existing Building to Condominium Project

NOTE:
With the exception of the detailed notice requirements discussed in § 34.145, P 5, the requirements governing the conversion of a building to a condominium project are basically the same as those applicable to a newly constructed condominium project [see § 34.43[2]]. Consequently, this section cross-refers to other relevant sections and focuses on the unique conversion notice requirements.

1. If local conversion ordinance exists [see § 34.120, P 3], obtain copy and satisfy its requirements.

2. Obtain required construction permits [see § 34.140].

3. Draft project documents [see § 34.142].

4. If conversion will create condominium project containing five or more condominiums, apply for public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(c); see also § 34.143].

5. If proposed project is subject to Subdivision Map Act [see Gov. Code §§ 66412(g), (h), 66424; see also § 34.121, P 3], satisfy non-conversion requirements of Act [see § 34.141] and provide each tenant of proposed condominium, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project with following written notices [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)]:

NOTE:
A local legislative body may not approve a final map for a subdivision to be created from the conversion of residential rental property into a condominium project, a community apartment project, or a stock cooperative unless that body finds that each tenant of the proposed conversion project and each person applying to rent a unit in the residential property to be converted has received or will have received all applicable notices and rights required under the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(1)]. If a rental agreement was negotiated in Spanish, Chinese, Tagalog, Vietnamese, or Korean, all required written notices regarding the conversion project must be issued in the same language [Gov. Code § 66427.1(d)].

The notice requirements are deemed satisfied if service is in accordance with the legal requirements for service by mail [Gov. Code § 66427.1(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013]. They do not diminish, limit, or expand the authority of any city, county, or city and county to approve or disapprove condominium projects [Gov. Code § 66427.1(c)].

a. Sixty day notice to existing tenants of intention to convert [see Gov. Code § 66452.18; see also § 34.220 (form)].

NOTE:
The notice must be provided at least 60 days before tentative map is filed in accordance with Gov. Code § 66452 [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(A)].

b. Ten days' notice that [see § 34.223 (form)]:

(1) Application for public report will be, or has been, submitted to DRE;

(2) Period for each tenant's right to purchase begins with issuance of the final public report; and

(3) Final public report will be available on request.

c. Notice that subdivider has received public report from DRE [see § 34.223A (form)].

NOTE:
This notice must be provided within five days after the date that the subdivider receives the public report from DRE [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(C)].

d. Written notice of approval of final map [see § 34.222 (form)].

NOTE:
This notice must be provided within 10 days after the map has been approved [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(D)].

e. Notice of intention to convert prior to termination of tenancy [see § 34.226 (form)].

NOTE:
This notice must be provided 180 days prior to termination of the tenancy due to conversion or proposed conversion, but not before the local authority has approved a tentative map for the conversion [see Gov. Code § 66452.14]. The notice will not alter or abridge the parties' rights or obligations in performing their covenants, including, but not limited to, providing services, paying rent, or the mutual statutory obligations to maintain the premises in a fit and habitable condition [see Civ. Code §§ 1941, 1941.1, 1941.2].

f. Notice of exclusive right to contract for purchase of tenant's respective unit on same or more favorable terms and conditions that unit will be initially offered to general public [see § 34.224 (form)].

NOTE:
The exclusive right to purchase must commence on the date the public report is issued [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2] and must run for at least 90 days, unless the tenant gives prior written notice of his or her intention not to exercise the right [see Gov. Code § 66452.15].

6. Commencing at date not less than 60 days prior to filing of tentative map [see Gov. Code § 66452], give notice of filing to each prospective tenant applying for rental after than date and immediately before accepting any rent or deposit [Gov. Code § 66452.17(a); see Gov. Code § 66452.17(b); see also § 34.221 (form)].

7. Create condominium project and owners' association [see § 34.144].

8. To terminate tenancies so that former rental units may be sold as condominiums:

a. Comply with eviction requirements (if any) of local ordinances.

b. Thirty or 60 days before termination, serve written termination notice on tenant [see Civ. Code §§ 1946, 1946.1]:

NOTE:
A separate termination notice will not be required if the 180-day notice of intention to convert [see § 34.145, P 2(f); see also § 34.226] sets forth the termination date.

(1) By mailing it (certified or registered mail) to tenant; or

(2) In manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 for unlawful detainer notices [see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases].

c. Comply with any additional termination provisions set forth in lease.

9. Advise developer (or other owner/seller of condominium unit) of statutory obligation to provide prospective purchasers with written disclosure of certain defects or malfunctions in condominium or common areas [see Civ. Code § 1134; § 34.164, P 7].

NOTE:

When a recorded final or parcel map contains certain errors, omissions, or outdated information, the developer must file a certificate of correction or an amending map [see *Gov. § 34.161 Reporting Material Changes in Project to Commissioner

1. If project is subject to outstanding public report, report any relevant details of proposed "material" change in project itself or in program for marketing project to Department of Real Estate (DRE) on one of its official forms [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11012; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2800; see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation], including, but not limited to:

NOTE:

Although the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and its implementing regulations do not define "material change," the Commissioner, by regulation, has specified numerous types of changes that are considered to be material [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2800; see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation (Commissioner's list)]. It is unlawful for an owner, the owner's agent, or a developer to materially change the setup of a condominium project after it has been submitted to DRE (i.e., at any time after submission of the application for the public report) without first notifying DRE in writing of the intended change. This requirement applies only if the developer or the developer's agent has actual or constructive knowledge of the change [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11012].

If the material change affects the governing instruments of the project (the declaration, articles, bylaws, and any operating rules of the association) [see Civ. Code § 1351(j)], the developer must obtain the prior written consent of DRE during the period when the developer controls as many as one-fourth of the votes that may be cast to effect that change [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7; see also the NOTE to § 34.162]. DRE will not consent to the submission of the proposed change to a vote of the owners if it finds that the change, if effected, would create a new condition or circumstance that would form the basis for denial of a public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7]. An application for consent may be filed by any interested person on a form prescribed by the DRE. A filing fee to be fixed by regulation, but not to exceed $25, must accompany each application [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7]. There shall be no official meeting of owners or members nor any written solicitation of them for the purpose of effectuating a change except in accordance with a procedure approved by DRE after the application for consent has been filed with DRE; provided, however, that the governing body of the owners association may meet and vote on the question of submission of the proposed change to the DRE [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7].

a. Sale, conveyance, including transfer of title in trust, or granting of option to another to acquire, five or more subdivision interests in subdivision other than time-share project or 12 or more time-share estates or time-share uses in time-share project.

b. Change in name or organization of subdividing entity such as incorporation, dissolution of corporation, or change in corporate or fictitious business name.

c. Change in purchase money handling procedures under Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2 or 11013.4, including, but not limited to, change in name or location of escrow or trust account depository or creation of blanket lien or encumbrance affecting lot, parcel, or unit of subdivided land being offered for sale.

d. Change in methods of marketing or conveyance of subdivision interests, including, but not limited to:

(1) Use of real property sales contracts, lease-option agreements, or similar marketing instruments.

(2) Special sales inducements involving financial commitment to purchasers by or on behalf of subdivider such as buy-back agreements, special interest rates or short-term basis and prizes, gifts, or premiums.

e. Inability of subdivider to fulfill agreements and assurances to purchasers of subdivision interests given by subdivider to commissioner in application for public report.

f. Creation or discovery of latent hazards affecting subdivisions such as adverse geologic conditions not apparent at time of issuance of subdivision's current public report.

g. Addition of common areas or common facilities for use and enjoyment of owners in subdivision that were not contemplated at time of issuance of current public report for subdivision.

h. Relocation of easements affecting unsold subdivision interests.

i. Creation of district, or annexation of subdivision into district, having power to tax or levy assessments against real property interests within subdivision.

j. Increase of 20 percent or more or decrease of 10 percent or more in regular assessment charged by association against owners in common-interest subdivision over amount of regular assessment reflected in subdivision's current public report.

k. Delinquencies in payment of regular assessments by owners within common-interest subdivision resulting in receipt by association of income that is more than 10 percent less than scheduled income from assessments.

l. Proposed change in use for which subdivision is offered as, e.g., from residential to investment or proposed change from offering of sole and exclusive use of unit in common-interest subdivision to program involving sharing of ownership or use with others as, e.g., time sharing program.

m. Changes in means for furnishing potable water, sewage disposal, and other public services to lots, parcels, or units within subdivision.

n. Any change in configuration of subdivision interest being offered for sale from configuration according to subdivision map or parcel map on which subdivision's current public report was based.

o. Amendment to CC&Rs or other governing instruments for subdivision or for association of owners of subdivision interests.

p. Failure by subdivider as owner of interests in common interest subdivision to pay regular assessments when:

(1) Assessments are payable on monthly basis and subdivider has failed to pay three or more months of assessments.

(2) Assessments are not payable on monthly basis and subdivider has failed to pay assessments within three months after assessments become due and payable.

q. Program that does not comply with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.10 in which subdivider undertakes to subsidize cost of operating and maintaining common areas and of providing services in lieu of payment of regular assessments by subdivider.

r. Affiliation by single-site time-share project as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.5 with:

(1) Other time-share projects or accommodations under contractual or membership program through mandatory reservation system; or

(2) Mandatory reservation system.

2. If Department of Real Estate finds that reported change is material, submit required fee and await issuance of amended public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790.1.5(a)].

§ 34.162 Obtaining Approval of Commissioner to Amend Governing Instruments

NOTE:

This section of the Transaction Guide covers procedures set forth in both the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] and the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.]. The requirements of the Subdivided Lands Act discussed in this chapter apply to condominium projects containing five or more condominiums and to other types of "common interest subdivisions" [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5*; see § 34.37[1]]. The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act applies to "common interest developments" [see Civ. Code § 1351(c); see § 34.33[1]*]. The vast majority of condominium projects and similar real estate developments (e.g., planned developments and stock cooperatives) are subject to both sets of requirements.

1. Ascertain whether proposed amendment to or modification of governing instrument or other project document requires prior written consent of Real Estate Commissioner because it would materially change those rights of owner, either directly or as member of owners' association, during period of time when developer or developer's successor in interest holds or directly controls as many as one-fourth of votes that may be cast to effect that change [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7(a)].

2. If Commissioner's prior written consent is required:

a. File official application for consent [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2793(a)].

NOTE:

The application form must be accompanied by (1) copies of the instrument to be amended in its present and amended forms, (2) a copy of the resolution or other authority for submitting the application if the applicant is a corporation or association, (3) a copy of the letter or notice to be given to all persons eligible to vote on the proposed change, and (4) the prescribed application fee in the form of a check or money order [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2793(b)].

The governing body of the owners' association may meet and vote on the question of whether to submit the proposed change to the Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7(b)].

b. Await Commissioner's findings on application for consent and take appropriate action as follows [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2793(c), (d)]:

(1) Submit proposed change to vote of owners or members if Commissioner finds that it will not materially change rights of any owner or member to ownership, possession, or use of interests.

(2) Give Commissioner-approved notice describing substance of proposed change to eligible voters and conduct vote at least 15 days after notice if Commissioner finds that proposed change will materially change rights of any owner or member to ownership, possession, or use of interests.

NOTE:
If an applicant fails to take the steps necessary to obtain the Commissioner's consent within 90 days after the application is filed, the application may be deemed abandoned, in which case a new application must be filed if the applicant wishes to pursue the matter [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2793(e)].

(3) Consider reapplication with modified proposal if Commissioner formally denies consent based on finding that proposed change would create new condition or circumstance that would be basis for denial of public report under Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018 or Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5 [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

3. If proposal involves amending declaration, take following steps:

NOTE:
For discussion of an alternative amendment procedure that must be followed when the proposed amendment involves the deletion, from any of the governing documents, of a provision that relates to the construction or marketing of the development [see Civ. Code § 1355.5], see § 34.162, P 5.

a. If governing documents contain provision(s) authorizing amendments, attempt to obtain approval (by vote or written assent) of percentage of owners specified in governing documents [Civ. Code § 1355(a)], which must be:

(1) In single-class voting structure [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(a)]:
(a) At least 51 percent and at most 75 percent of total voting power of association;

(b) At least bare majority of votes of members other than developer; and

(c) With respect to amendment of specific clause or provision, at least percentage of affirmative votes prescribed for action to be taken under clause or provision.

NOTE:
Under this last requirement if, for example, the declaration provides that 75 percent of the voting power must agree to an increase in the maximum annual assessment, then 75 percent of the voting power must approve an amendment to that assessment provision regardless of the percentage prescribed in the general provision pertaining to amendments of the declaration [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(a)].

NOTE:
When not specifically prohibited by the governing documents, a vote on proposed amendments to a declaration may be conducted by mail ballot in accordance with Corp. Code § 7513(a) (unless prohibited in the articles or bylaws, any action which may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting if the corporation distributes a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter). Fourth La Costa Condominium Owners Assn. v. Seith (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 563, 569-570, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 299 ; see Corp. Code § 7513.

(2) In two-class voting structure [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(d)]:

(a) Prescribed percentage of voting power of each class of membership; or

(b) Prescribed percentage of quorum of members of each class.

NOTE:
If a two-class voting structure is no longer in effect because of the conversion of one class to the other, the provisions applicable to single-class structures (discussed in § 34.162, P 3(a)(1)) must be followed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(e)].

b. If owner approval mentioned in § 34.162, P 3(a), is obtained [Civ. Code § 1355(a)]:

(1) Prepare document certifying that fact and have it executed and acknowledged by:

(a) Officer designated in declaration or by association for that purpose; or

(b) If no one is designated, by president of association.

(2) Have writing recorded in each county in which portion of project is located.

c. If declaration requires approval of "supermajority" of owners, and a majority less than required supermajority approve the amendment [Civ. Code § 1356]:

NOTE:
The term "supermajority" is not used in the statute. As used here, it refers to more than 51 percent of the votes in an association with a single-class voting structure, and to owners having more than 51 percent of the votes in more than one class in a voting structure with more than one class [see Civ. Code § 1356(a), (c)(4)].

(1) Prepare petition for court order reducing percentage of affirmative votes necessary for amendment [see Civ. Code § 1356(a); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments (Matthew Bender) (illustrative petition and related forms)].

NOTE:
The petition must be made by the association or any owner of a separate interest, and must be filed with the superior court of the county in which the project is located [Civ. Code § 1356(a)].

NOTE:
When a vote on the proposed amendment of a declaration has been conducted by mail ballot, Corp. Code § 7513(b) ("approval by written ballot pursuant to this section shall be valid only when the number of votes cast by ballot ... equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot") does not prohibit a homeowners' association or member from seeking judicial intervention under Civ. Code § 1356. There is no indication in the statute that the Legislature intended to limit the reach of section 1356 to votes taken at a regular or special meeting. If an election is held at a meeting, the governing documents may be amended only if the percentage of affirmative votes required by the governing documents is cast, or the association obtains relief under section 1356. Because there is no evidence of legislative intent to the contrary, the same rule applies to votes by mail ballot [Fourth La Costa Condominium Owners Assn. v. Seith (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 563, 571, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 299] .

(2) If court makes required findings [see Civ. Code § 1356(c)] and grants petition, have amendment acknowledged by [Civ. Code § 1356(f)]:

(a) Any person designated in declaration or by association for that purpose; or

(b) If no one is so designated, by president of association.

(3) Have amendment and court order recorded in every county in which portion of project is located, by person described in § 34.162, P 3(c)(2) [Civ. Code § 1356(f)].

(4) Within reasonable time after amendment is recorded, have association mail the following to each member of association [Civ. Code § 1356(g)]:

(a) Copy of amendment; and

(b) Statement that amendment has been recorded.

d. If declaration does not contain provision governing amendments [Civ. Code § 1355(b)]:

NOTE:
This procedure applies if the declaration does not (1) prohibit amendments, or (2) include provisions permitting its amendment at all times during its existence [Civ. Code § 1355(b)].

(1) Distribute proposed amendment to all owners by first-class mail (postage prepaid) or personal delivery not less than 15 days nor more than 60 days prior to solicitation of any approval;

(2) Obtain approval of owners representing more than 50 percent of condominiums (or comparable separate interests);

NOTE:

Civ. Code § 1355(b) requires the approval of the above percentage or of any higher percentage required by the declaration for the approval of an amendment to the declaration [Civ. Code § 1355(b)]. However, it is unlikely that the declaration will require a higher percentage, since this procedure is designed to be used when the declaration is silent regarding amendments [see the NOTE to § 34.162, P 3(d)].

(3) Prepare document certifying owners approval of amendment, and have it executed and acknowledged by officer of association;

(4) Have amendment recorded in each county in which portion of project is located; and

(5) Have copy of amendment distributed by first-class mail (postage prepaid) or personal delivery to all owners immediately on its recordation.

4. If articles or bylaws are to be amended, attempt to satisfy applicable amendment provisions of governing instruments.

NOTE:

The amendment provisions for the articles must require the approval of at least a bare majority of each of the following: the governing body; the voting power of the association; and the votes of members other than the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)(1)(A)]. The amendment provisions for bylaws must require the approval of (1) at least a bare majority of a quorum, but not more than a bare majority of the voting power of the association; and (2) at least a bare majority of the votes of members other than the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)(1)(B)].

Notwithstanding these minimum requirements, the percentage of a quorum or of the voting power of the association or of members other than the developer necessary to amend a specific clause or provision in the articles or bylaws must not be less than the prescribed percentage of affirmative votes required for action to be taken under that clause [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(c)]. Further, if a two-class voting structure is in effect, none of the governing instruments may be amended without the vote or written assent of a prescribed percentage of the voting power of each class of membership or a prescribed percentage of a quorum of members of each class [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(d)]. If the two-class voting structure becomes a single-class structure because of the conversion of one class to the other, the minimum requirements discussed above must be followed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(e)].

For discussion of an alternative amendment procedure that must be followed when the proposed amendment involves the deletion from any of the governing documents of a provision that relates to the construction or marketing of the development [see Civ. Code § 1355.5], see § 34.162, P 5.

5. If proposed amendment involves deletion from governing document of provision relating to construction or marketing of development, take following steps [see Civ. Code § 1355.5]:

NOTE:

The amendment procedure discussed in this Paragraph 5 applies notwithstanding any provision of the governing documents to the contrary [Civ. Code § 1355.5(a)].

a. Confirm that following apply:

(1) Provision was unequivocally designed and intended, or by its nature could only have been designed or intended, to facilitate developer in completing construction or marketing of development [Civ. Code § 1355.5(a)].

(2) Provision provides for access by developer over or across common area for following purposes [Civ. Code § 1355.5(b)]:
(a) Completion of construction of development; and

(b) Erection, construction, or maintenance of structures or other facilities designed to facilitate completion of construction or marketing of separate interests.

(3) Developer has done all of the following:

(a) Completed construction of development;

(b) Terminated construction activities; and

(c) Terminated his or her marketing activities for sale, lease, or other disposition of separate interests within development.

NOTE:
A provision of the governing documents relating to a particular construction or marketing phase of the development may not be deleted under the authorization of Civ. Code § 1355.5 until that construction or marketing phase has been completed [Civ. Code § 1355.5(a)].

b. Instruct board to mail, at least 30 days before taking action on proposed amendment, the following documents to all owners of separate interests in development [Civ. Code § 1355.5(c)]:

NOTE:
These documents must be sent by first-class mail [Civ. Code § 1355.5(c)].

(1) Copy of proposed amendment; and

(2) Notice of time, date, and place board will consider adoption of amendment [see § 34.162, P 5(c)].

c. Instruct board to consider adoption of amendment at meeting that is open to all owners of separate interests, and to give those owners opportunity to comment on and vote on proposed amendment [Civ. Code § 1355.5(c); see Civ. Code § 1355.5(d); see also § 34.162, P 5(d)].

NOTE:
All deliberations of the board on the proposed amendment must be conducted in such an open meeting [Civ. Code § 1355.5(c)].

d. Have board adopt amendment only if it is approved by owners casting majority of votes at meeting or election of association at which quorum is present [Civ. Code § 1355.5(d)].

NOTE:

For these purposes, "quorum" means more than 50 percent of the owners who own no more than two separate interests in the development [Civ. Code § 1355.5(d)]. The meeting must be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] governing meetings, voting, and proxies [Civ. Code § 1355.5(d); see Corp. Code §§ 7510-7527, 7613; see also §§ 34.202[1] and 34.205[1]].

§ 34.164 Providing Project Information to Members and Prospective Purchasers

1. Have board of association prepare and distribute financial and insurance statements to all members as follows:

NOTE:

The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] requires the owners' association of a common interest development to prepare and distribute certain budgets and financial statements to its members [see Civ. Code § 1365]. However, those statutory requirements only apply if the governing documents do not impose more stringent standards [Civ. Code § 1365]. The following discussion sets forth the applicable statutory and regulatory requirements.

a. Notwithstanding any contrary provision in governing documents, not less than 30 nor more than 90 days before beginning of association's fiscal year, pro forma operating budget for immediately ensuing fiscal year containing [Civ. Code § 1365(a)]:

NOTE:

If any member requests that a copy of this budget be mailed to him or her, the association must mail a copy (by first-class United States mail) to the member, at the association's expense, within five days [Civ. Code § 1365(d)].

The board may elect to distribute the following to the members in lieu of the above budget: (1) a summary of the budget; and (2) a written notice that the budget is available at the business office of the association or at another suitable location within the boundaries of the project, and that copies will be provided on request and at the association's expense. The notice accompanying the summary must be in at least 10-point bold type and appear on the front page of the summary [Civ. Code § 1365(d)]. Although no deadline is specified for the distribution of this summary [see Civ. Code § 1365(d)], counsel should instruct the board to provide the summary within the time period applicable to the distribution of the pro forma operating budget [see § 34.164, P 1(a)].

In addition to the pro forma operating budget, the board must also distribute an "Assessment and Reserve Funding Disclosure Summary," the form for which is prescribed by statute [see Civ. Code § 1365.2*.5; see also § 34.247*].

If an association or its membership contributes more than 10 percent of the annual budget of a community service organization [see Civ. Code § 1368(c)(3)* ("community service organization" defined)], the organization must prepare and distribute to the association a report that sets forth the organization's assets, liabilities, income and expenses as required by Corp. Code § 5012, and that describes in detail administrative costs and identifies the payees of those costs. If the community service organization is responsible for maintaining major components for which the association would otherwise be responsible, the organization must supply the association with the information regarding those components that the association would use to complete its disclosures and reserve reports to members [Civ. Code § 1365.3].

(1) Estimated revenue and expenses on accrual basis.

(2) Summary of association's reserves that is based on most recent review or study conducted in accordance with Civ. Code § 1365.5, based only on assets held in cash or cash equivalents [see § 34.165, PP 1 and 3] and that includes all of following:

NOTE:
This summary must be printed in bold type [Civ. Code § 1365(a)(2)]. The summary will not be admissible in evidence to show improper financial management of the association, provided that other relevant and competent evidence of the financial condition of the association is not made inadmissible by this statutory provision [Civ. Code § 1365(a)].

(a) Current estimated replacement cost, estimated remaining life, and estimated useful life of each major component.

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 1365(a)(2)(A), which requires the inclusion of the above information in the summary of the association's reserves, does not define "major component." However, Civ. Code § 1365(a)(4) [see § 34.164*, P 1(a)(4)] refers to "those major components that the association is obligated to maintain." Similarly, Civ. Code § 1365.5(f)(1) refers to "major components which the association is obligated to repair, restore, replace, or maintain" and "major components which the association is obligated to maintain" [see § 34.165*]. Clearly, § 1365(a)(2) is referring to the same types of components.

(b) As of end of fiscal year for which study is prepared, current estimate of amount of cash reserves necessary to repair, replace, restore, or maintain major components.

(c) As of end of fiscal year for which study is prepared, current amount of accumulated cash reserves actually set aside to repair, replace, restore, or maintain major components.

(d) Amount of any funds, as of end of fiscal year, received from either compensatory damage award or settlement to association from any person or entity for injuries to real or personal property, arising out of any construction or design defects, and expenditure or disposition of funds, including amounts expended for direct and indirect costs of repair of construction or design defects.

NOTE:

These items should be reported as separate line items under cash reserves. In lieu of including this information in the pro forma budget, an association that is obligated to issue a review of its financial statement as described in § 34.164, P 1(b), may include in the review a statement containing the same information related to funds received from either a compensatory damage award or settlement for real or personal property injuries arising out of construction or design defects [Civ. Code § 1365(a)(2)(A)(iii)].

(e) Percentage that amount described in § 34.164, P 1(a)(2)(c), equals of amount determined for purposes of § 34.164, P 1(a)(2)(b).

NOTE:

In other words, this amount is obtained by dividing the current amount of accumulated cash reserves actually set aside by the current estimate of the amount of necessary cash reserves.

(f) Current deficiency in reserve funding expressed on per unit basis.

NOTE:

This figure must be calculated by subtracting amount determined in § 34.164, P 1(a)(2)(c) from the amount determined in § 34.164, P 1(a)(2)(b), and then dividing the result by the number of separate interests within the association, except that if assessments vary by size or type of ownership interest, then the association must calculate the current deficiency in a manner that reflects the variation [see Civ. Code § 1365(a)(2)(D)]. In other words, this amount is obtained by dividing the current amount of accumulated cash reserves actually set aside by the current estimate of the amount of necessary cash reserves, and dividing the difference by the number of ownership interests within the association.

(3) A statement as to all of the following:

(a) Whether board has determined to defer or not undertake repairs or replacement of any major component with remaining life of 30 years or less, including justification for deferral or decision not to undertake repairs or replacement;

(b) Whether board, consistent with reserve funding plan adopted pursuant to Civ. Code § 1365.5(e), has determined or anticipates that levy of one or more special assessments will be required to repair, replace, or restore any major component or to provide adequate reserves for repairs, replacements, or restoration;

NOTE:

If so, the statement must also set out the estimated amount, commencement date, and duration of the assessment [Civ. Code § 1365(a)(3)(A)].

(c) Mechanism or mechanisms by which board will fund reserves to repair, or replace major components, including assessments, borrowing, use of other assets, deferral of selected replacement or repairs, or alternative mechanisms; and

(d) Whether association has any outstanding loans with original term of more than one year, including payee, interest rate, amount outstanding, annual payment, and when loan is scheduled to be retired.

(4) General statement addressing procedures used for calculating and establishing those reserves to defray future repair, replacement, or additions to those major components that association is obligated to maintain.

NOTE:

The report must include, but need not be limited to, reserve calculations made using the formula described in Civ. Code § 1365.2.5(b)(4), and may not assume a rate of return on cash reserves in excess of two percentabove the discount rate published by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco at the time the calculation was made [Civ. Code § 1365(a)(4)].

b. Commencing January 1, 2009, summary of reserve funding plan adopted by association's board of directors, as specified in Civ. Code § 1365.5(e)(4).

NOTE:

The summary must include notice to members that the full reserve study plan is available on request, and the association must provide the full reserve plan to any member on request [Civ. Code § 1365(b)].

c. Within 120 days after close of any fiscal year in which association's gross income exceeds $75,000, copy of review of annual financial statement prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles by licensee of California Board of Accountancy [Civ. Code § 1365(c)].

NOTE:

In lieu of complying with the reserve summary requirement for the pro forma budget described in § 34.164, P 1(a)(2)(d), which is related to funds received from either a compensatory damage award or settlement for real or personal property injuries arising out of construction or design defects, the same information may be included in the financial statement review [Civ. Code § 1365(a)(2)(A)(iii)].

d. Not less than 30 nor more than 60 days before beginning of each fiscal year, statement describing association's policies and practices in enforcing lien rights or other legal remedies for delinquent assessments [Civ. Code § 1365(e)].

NOTE:

The declaration for a common-interest development will ordinarily contain provisions governing assessments, including the methods of enforcement of assessments [see Civ. Code §§ 1367, 1367.1, 1367.4; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.16, 2792.26; see also § 34.202, art. IV]. Thus, the statement described above should simply be a restatement of the relevant provisions of the declaration.

e. Summary of association's property, general liability, fidelity, earthquake, and flood insurance policies, including following information [Civ. Code § 1365(f)(1)-(4)]:

NOTE:

The summary must be distributed not less than 30 nor more than 60 days preceding the beginning of the association's fiscal year [Civ. Code § 1365(f)(1)]. To the extent that any of this information is specified in the insurance policy declaration page, the association may meet its obligation to provide a summary by distributing copies of that page to the members [Civ. Code § 1365(f)(3)].

(1) Name of insurer;

(2) Type of insurance;

(3) Policy limits;

(4) Amount of any deductibles; and

(5) Following statement in 10-point boldface type:

This summary of the association's policies of insurance provides only certain information, as required by subdivision (f) of Section 1365 of the Civil Code, and should not be considered a substitute for the complete policy terms and conditions contained in the actual policies of insurance. Any association member may, upon request and provision of reasonable notice, review the association's insurance policies and, upon request and payment of reasonable duplication charges, obtain copies of those policies. Although the association maintains the policies of insurance specified in this summary, the association's policies of insurance may not cover your property, including personal property or real property improvements to or around your dwelling, or personal injuries or other losses that occur within or around your dwelling. Even if a loss is covered, you may nevertheless be responsible for paying all or a portion of any deductible that applies. Association members should consult with their individual insurance broker or agent for appropriate additional coverage.

NOTE:

The association must also, as soon as reasonably practicable, notify the members by first class mail if (1) there is a significant change, such as a reduction in coverage or limits, or an increase in deductible, for any of the policies; or (2) any of the policies have lapsed or been canceled, and not immediately renewed, restored, or replaced. If the association receives a notice of nonrenewal on any of these policies, it must immediately notify the members if replacement coverage will not be in effect by the date the existing coverage will lapse [Civ. Code § 1365(f)(2)].

2. Have association, within 10 days of mailing or delivery of written request, provide owner of condominium with [Civ. Code § 1368(b); see Civ. Code § 1368(a); see also § 34.164, P 4]:

NOTE:

The information may be maintained in electronic form and, if such is the case, requesting parties have the option of receiving it by electronic transmission or machine readable storage media. The association may charge a reasonable fee for providing the requested items based on the actual cost to procure, prepare, and reproduce them [Civ. Code § 1368(b)].

a. Copy of governing documents of project.

NOTE:

If the association is not incorporated, the documents provided must include a written statement from an authorized representative of the association that the association is not incorporated [see Civ. Code § 1368(a)(1)].

b. If governing documents contain restriction limiting occupancy, residency, or use of unit on basis of age, and restriction violates statutory senior citizen housing requirements [see Civ. Code § 51.3], statement that:

(1) Restriction is enforceable only to extent permitted by Civ. Code § 51.3 [see § 34.40[2]]; and

(2) Specifies applicable provisions of that section.

c. Copy of most recent documents distributed in accordance with Civ. Code § 1365 [see § 34.164, P 1].

d. Written statement obtained from authorized representative of association specifying:

(1) Amount of following:
(a) Association's current regular and special assessments and fees;

(b) Any assessments levied on owner's interest in project that are unpaid on date of statement; and

(c) Any monetary fines or penalties levied on owner's interest and unpaid as of statement date.

(2) Late charges, interest, and costs of collection that, as of date of statement, are or may be made a lien on owner's interest under Civ. Code §§ 1367, 1367.1, 1367.4.

e. Any change in association's current regular and special assessments and fees that have been approved by board of directors, but are not yet due and payable.

f. Copy or summary of any notice previously sent to owner that sets forth any alleged violation of governing documents that remains unresolved at time of request [see Civ. Code § 1363(h)].

NOTE:
The notice will not be deemed a waiver of the association's right to enforce the governing documents against the owner or prospective purchaser with respect to any violation. The obligation to supply a copy of the notice does not require the association to inspect an owner's separate interest [Civ. Code § 1368(a)(5)].

g. Regarding any dispute between association and developer involving design or construction defects, unless association and builder subsequently entered into settlement agreement or otherwise resolved matter and association complies with Civ. Code § 1375.1, copy of preliminary list of defects provided to each member of association pursuant to Civ. Code § 1375.

NOTE:
Disclosure of the preliminary list of defects does not waive any privilege attached to the information [Civ. Code §§ 1368(a)(6), 1375.1(c)].

h. Regarding any dispute between association and developer involving design or construction defects, if dispute has been settled or otherwise resolved, copy of following information [see Civ. Code § 1375.1(a)]:

(1) General description of defects that association reasonably believes, as of date of disclosure, will be corrected or replaced;

(2) Good faith estimate, as of date of disclosure, of when association believes that defects identified in (1), above, will be corrected or replaced; and

NOTE:
The association may state that the estimate may be modified [Civ. Code § 1375.1(a)(2)]:

(3) Status of claims for defects in design or construction that were not identified in (1), above.

NOTE:
The status of the claims that were not identified in clause (1), above, are required to be disclosed, whether or not they are expressed in a preliminary list of defects sent to each member of the association or otherwise claimed and disclosed to the members of the association.

Further, nothing precludes the association from amending the disclosures required in clauses (1) through (3), above, and any amendments supersede any prior conflicting information disclosed to the members of the association and retain any privilege attached to the original disclosures.

3. Apprise client of association's obligation to:

a. Beginning July 1, 2006, make "association records" and "enhanced association records" available for inspection and copying by association member or member's designated representative [Civ. Code § 1365.2(b)(1), (n)].

NOTE:
In general, association members are entitled to the same rights to access association records as those afforded to members of other nonprofit mutual benefit corporations by Corp. Code §§ 8330-8338 [Civ. Code § 1363(f); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23]. Beginning July 1, 2006 [see Civ. Code § 1365.2(n)], however, the association must make available "association records" and "enhanced association records" for inspection and copying by a member, or his or her designated representative, in accordance with statutory timeframes [Civ. Code § 1365.2(b)(1); see Civ. Code § 1365.2(i), (j), (n)]. As of that date, Corp. Code §§ 8330 and 8333 do not apply to the extent those sections are inconsistent with Civ. Code § 1365.2 [Civ. Code § 1365.2(l)].

(1) "Association records" includes [Civ. Code § 1365.2(a)(1)]:
(a) Any financial document required to be provided by Civ. Code § 1365.

(b) Any financial document or statement required to be provided by Civ. Code § 1368.

(c) Interim financial statements, interim or compiled, containing balance sheet, income and expense statement, budget comparison, or general ledger.

NOTE:

These financial statements must be prepared in accordance with an accrual or modified accrual basis of accounting [Civ. Code § 1365.2(a)(1)(C)].

(d) Executed contracts not otherwise privileged under law.

(e) Written board approval of vendor or contractor proposals or invoices.

(f) State and federal tax returns.

(g) Reserve account balances and records of payments made from reserve accounts.

(h) Agendas and minutes of meetings of members, board of directors, and board committees, excluding agendas, minutes, and other information from executive sessions of board [see Civ. Code § 1363.05(b)].

(i) Membership lists, including name, property address, and mailing address, provided member requesting list states purpose for requesting list, which must be reasonably related to requester's interest as member.

NOTE:

If the association reasonably believes that the information in the list will be used for another purpose, it may deny the member access to the list. If the request is denied, in any subsequent action brought by the member to enforce the member's right to inspect and copy the association's documents, the association has the burden of proving that the member would have allowed use of the information for purposes unrelated to his or her interest as a member [see Civ. Code § 1365.2(a)(1)(I)(ii)].

A member may opt out of appearing on the membership list by notifying the association in writing that he or she prefers to be contacted via an alternative process described in Corp. Code § 8330(c). The opt-out will remain in effect until changed by the member [Civ. Code § 1365.2(a)(1)(I)(iii)].

(j) Check registers.

(2) "Enhanced association records" are [Civ. Code § 1365.2(a)(2)]:

(a) Invoices, receipts, and canceled checks for association payments.

(b) Approved purchase orders.

(c) Statements for credit cards issued in association's name.

(d) Statements for services rendered.

(e) Reimbursement requests submitted to association.

NOTE:

The person submitting the reimbursement request is responsible for removing all personal identification information from the request [Civ. Code § 1365.2(a)(2)].

The association may bill the requesting member for the direct and actual cost of copying requested documents, and must inform the member of the amount of the copying costs before copying the documents [Civ. Code § 1365.2(b)(1)].

(3) Details of where inspection and copying will take place, and assessment of costs, are as follows [see Civ. Code § 1365.2(c)]:

(a) Association must make specified association records available for inspection and copying in association's business office within common interest development.

(b) Association must make specified association records available for inspection and copying at place that requesting member and association agree upon.

(c) If association and requesting member cannot agree on place for inspection and copying, or if requesting member submits written request directly to association for copies of specifically identified records, association may satisfy requirement to make association records available for inspection and copying by mailing copies of specifically identified records to member by first-class mail within timeframes set forth in Civ. Code § 1365.2(j).

(d) Association may bill requesting member for direct and actual cost of copying and mailing requested documents. Association must inform member of amount of copying and mailing costs, and member must agree to pay those costs, before copying and sending requested documents.

(e) In addition to direct and actual costs of copying and mailing, association may bill requesting member amount not in excess of $10 per hour, and not to exceed $200 total per written request, for time actually and reasonably involved in redacting enhanced association records. Association must inform member of estimated costs, and member must agree to pay those costs, before retrieving requested documents.

NOTE:

Requesting parties have the option of receiving specifically identified records by electronic transmission or machine-readable storage media as long as those records can be transmitted in a redacted format that does not allow the records to be altered. The cost of duplication is limited to the direct cost of producing the copy of a record in that electronic format. The association may deliver specifically identified records by electronic transmission or machine-readable storage media as long as those records can be transmitted in a redacted format that prevents the records from being altered [Civ. Code § 1365.2(h)].

The association may withhold or redact information from association records if (1) the information is reasonably likely to lead to identity theft or fraud; (2) the release would violate a privilege afforded by law, such as the attorney-client privilege, the privilege relating to ongoing or potential litigation, or the privilege afforded confidential settlement agreements; or (3) releasing the information is reasonably likely to compromise an individual member's privacy [Civ. Code § 1365.2(d)(1)(A)-(D)].

In addition, the association may withhold or redact information from association records if that information contains (1) records of a-la-carte goods or services provided to individual members of the association for which the association received monetary consideration other than assessments; (2) records of disciplinary actions, collection activities, or payment plans of members other than the member requesting the records; (3) any person's personal identification information, including without limitation, social security number, tax identification number, driver's license number, credit card account numbers, bank account number, and bank routing number; (4) agendas, minutes, and other information from executive sessions of the board of directors as described in Civ. Code § 1363.05, except for executed contracts not otherwise privileged; (5) personal records other than the payroll records concerning compensation paid to any employees, vendors, or contractors that are not subject to the attorney-client privilege; or (6) interior architectural plans, including security features, for individual homes [Civ. Code § 1365.2(d)(1)(E)].

Moreover, if requested by the requesting member, an association that denies or redacts records must provide a written explanation specifying the legal basis for withholding or redacting the requested records [Civ. Code § 1365.2(d)(4)].

(4) Make requested records available in accordance with following timeframes [Civ. Code § 1365.2(j)]:

NOTE:

Association records must be made available for the current fiscal year and for each of the previous two fiscal years [Civ. Code § 1365.2(i)(1)]. Minutes of member and board meetings must be permanently made available [Civ. Code § 1365.2(i)(2)]. If a committee has decision-making authority, the minutes of its meetings must be made available beginning January 1, 2007 [Civ. Code § 1365.2(i)(2)]. Thereafter, they must be made permanently available [Civ. Code § 1365.2(i)(2)]. The association is not liable for failing to retain records that were created before January 1, 2006 [Civ. Code § 1365.2(k)].

(a) Association records prepared during current fiscal year, within 10 business days following receipt of request.

(b) Association records prepared during previous two fiscal years, within 30 calendar days following receipt of request.

(c) Any record or statement available pursuant to Civ. Code § 1365 or 1368, within timeframe specified in those statutes.

(d) Minutes of member and board meetings, within 30 days of meeting [see Civ. Code § 1363.05(d)].

(e) Minutes of meetings of committees with decision-making authority for meetings commencing on or after January 1, 2007, within 15 calendar days following approval.

(f) Membership list, within five business days, unless association provides reasonable alternative [see Corp. Code § 8330].

NOTE:

The association has the right to injunctive relief and actual damages for misuse of requested information, including the right to attorney's fees if successful [Civ. Code § 1365.2(e)].

A member may bring an action to enforce his or her right to inspect and copy association records. If the court finds that access was unreasonably withheld, the member is entitled to reasonable costs and expenses, including attorney's fees, and the court may assess a civil penalty of up to $500 for the denial of each separate written request [Civ. Code § 1365.2(f)].

b. Permit members to inspect current version of articles and bylaws, during office hours, at principal office of association [Corp. Code § 7160].

c. Permit any director to inspect and copy the following at any reasonable time [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(f)]:

(1) All books, records, and documents of association; and

(2) All physical properties owned or controlled by association.

NOTE:
The right to inspection by a member of the board includes the right to make extracts and copies of documents [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(f)].

d. Take following steps with regard to minutes of board meetings [Civ. Code § 1363.05(d); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(d)(1)]:

(1) Make the following available within 30 days of board meeting other than executive session:

(a) Minutes of board meeting;

(b) Minutes of board meeting that are proposed for adoption and marked to indicate draft status; or

(c) Summary of meeting minutes.

(2) Distribute minutes to any member on request and on reimbursement by requesting member of association's costs in making distribution.

(3) Notify members in writing at time that pro forma budget is distributed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(d)(2); see Civ. Code § 1365; see also § 34.164, P 1(a)] or at time of any general mailing to entire membership of association, of:

(a) Members' right to obtain copies of minutes; and

(b) How and where minutes may be obtained and cost of obtaining copies.

4. If client owns and wishes to sell or lease single condominium in project that is not subject to public report requirement of Subdivided Lands Act [see § 34.121, P 2], have client, as soon as practicable before transfer of title to condominium or execution of real property sales contract, provide prospective purchaser with documents described in § 34.164, P 2 [Civ. Code § 1368(a); see Civ. Code § 2985 ("real property sales contract" defined)].

5. If client owns and wishes to sell or lease single condominium in project that is subject to public report requirement of Subdivided Lands Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.6; see also § 34B.121, P 2]:

NOTE:
For another distribution requirement that applies to some condominium projects that are subject to the Subdivided Lands Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1133, 1368(e)], see § 34.164, P 6.

a. Have client make copies of following documents:

(1) Declaration.

(2) Articles of incorporation or association for owners' association.

(3) Bylaws for owners' association.

(4) Any other instrument that establishes or defines common, mutual, and reciprocal rights and responsibilities of owners or lessees of interests in project.

(5) To extent available and applicable, current pro forma operating budget prepared in accordance with Civ. Code § 1365(a) [see § 34.164, P 1(a)].

(6) Statement by governing body of association setting forth outstanding delinquent assessments and related charges levied against interest in question.

b. Instruct client to:

(1) Make copies of above documents available for examination by prospective purchaser or lessee before execution of offer to purchase or lease; and

(2) Give copy of each document to each purchaser or lessee as soon as practicable before transfer of interest being conveyed.

6. If client owns and wishes to sell, or to lease for more than five years, a single condominium, advise client to have each prospective purchaser or lessee sign statutory notice of blanket encumbrance if [Civ. Code §§ 1133, 1368(f)]:

NOTE:

For the statutory notice and a detailed discussion of this requirement, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation.

a. Condominium is in condominium project that is subject to:

(1) Subdivided Lands Act [see § 34.121, P 2]; and

(2) Blanket encumbrance that does not contain unconditional release clause [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11013 ("blanket encumbrance" defined), 11013.1 (description of unconditional release clauses)].

b. Lease (if applicable) will be for term exceeding five years.

NOTE:

The failure of a buyer or lessee to sign the notice does not invalidate any grant, conveyance lease, or encumbrance [Civ. Code § 1133(c)]. However, any person or entity who willfully fails to deliver the notice to such buyer or lessee is liable to the buyer or lessee for actual damages, and in addition, is guilty of a public offense punishable by a fine in an amount not to exceed $500. Moreover, in any action to enforce such liability or fine, the prevailing party will be awarded reasonable attorney's fees [Civ. Code § 1133(d)].

7. If client owns condominium in project that was converted from existing structure to condominium project, have owner provide prospective purchaser with written statement that [Civ. Code §§ 1134, 1368(f); see § 34.227]:

NOTE:

For these purposes, "prospective purchaser" includes any person who makes an offer to purchase the condominium [Civ. Code § 1134(c)(3)] and any person who makes a written request for the statement [Civ. Code § 1134(c)(2)].

The owner should deliver this statement as soon as practicable before the transfer [see Civ. Code §§ 1134(a), 1368(f)]. Delivery will be deemed effected when it is delivered personally or by mail to the prospective buyer, the buyer's agent, or, unless the purchase agreement for the unit provides otherwise, to the buyer's spouse [Civ. Code § 1134(c)(2)]. If the statement is delivered after the execution of the purchase agreement, the buyer will have a limited right to rescind the agreement [see § 34.164, P 7(b)].

a. Contains either of following:

(1) List of all substantial defects or malfunctions in major systems in unit and common areas of project; or

(2) Disclaimer of knowledge of any such substantial defects or malfunctions.

NOTE:

This disclaimer cannot be delivered unless the owner has inspected the unit and common areas and has not discovered a substantial defect or malfunction that a reasonable inspection would have disclosed [Civ. Code § 1134(a)].

b. If delivered after execution of purchase agreement, notifies purchaser of right to terminate agreement, by delivery of written termination notice to owner, within:

(1) Three days after delivery of statement to person in person; or

(2) Five days after delivery of statement by deposit in mail.

8. Have developer or developer's agent or representative furnish each prospective seller or lessee with "Notice of Special Tax" if project is subject to special tax assessed under Mello-Roos Community Facilities Act of 1982 [Gov. Code § 53341.5(a); see Gov. Code § 53311 et seq. (Act); see also Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

NOTE:

This requirement applies to a "subdivision," that is, improved or unimproved land that is divided or proposed to be divided for the purpose of immediate or future sale, lease, or financing, into two or more lots, parcels, or units. This statutory definition specifically includes condominium projects, community apartment projects, stock cooperatives, and limited equity housing cooperatives [see Gov. Code § 53341.5(b)].

The developer must comply with this disclosure requirement when he or she sells, or leases for a term exceeding five years, a lot, parcel, or unit in the project [Gov. Code § 53341.5(a)].

9. If association adopts or has adopted policy imposing monetary penalties on members for violations of governing documents or rules of association, have board adopt and distribute to each member, by personal delivery or first-class mail, schedule of these monetary penalties [Civ. Code § 1363(g)].

NOTE:

Monetary penalties subject to this requirement include (1) fees, and (2) penalties relating to the activities of guests or invitees of the members. The schedule must be in accordance with the provisions in the governing documents that authorize member discipline [Civ. Code § 1363(g); see § 34.202].

The board need not distribute any additional schedules unless the adopted and distributed schedule is changed [Civ. Code § 1363(g)].

10. Each year, have board or developer provide members with summary of statutory provisions governing formal alternative dispute resolution (ADR) procedure prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq., either [Civ. Code § 1369.590]:

NOTE:

The formal ADR procedure requires the parties to disputes involving enforcement of the governing documents, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] to endeavor to submit their dispute to a form of ADR as a prerequisite to seeking judicial relief [Civ. Code § 1369.520(a)]. Such formal ADR requirement only applies to an enforcement action that is solely for declaratory, injunctive, or writ relief, or for that relief in conjunction with a claim for monetary damages not in excess of the jurisdictional limits stated in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220 and 116.221. Moreover, such formal ADR requirement does not apply to small claims actions [Civ. Code § 1369.520(b)]. The required summary must specifically reference Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq. In addition, it must include the following language: "Failure of a member of the association to comply with the alternative dispute resolution requirements of Section 1369.520 of the Civil Code may result in the loss of your right to sue the association or another member of the association regarding enforcement of the governing documents or the applicable law" [Civ. Code § 1369.590(a)].

a. At time pro forma budget is distributed [see Civ. Code § 1365; see also § 34.164, P 1(a)]; or

b. In manner specified in Corp. Code § 5016.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 5016 requires such a notice to be addressed and mailed or delivered to the members. In the case of members who are residents of the same household and who have the same address on the books of the nonprofit corporation [see § 34.38[1] (associations organized under Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law)], the notice must be addressed and mailed or delivered to one of these members, at the address appearing on the books of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5016].

11. Beginning no later than 90 days after escrow closes on first interest in development, have client deliver copies of following documents to board at association's office or at such other place as board may prescribe [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(a)]:

NOTE:

The documents must be delivered as soon as the developer can obtain them [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(a)]. The obligation to deliver these documents applies to any documents the developer obtains regardless of when they are obtained; however, the obligation terminates when either the last subdivision interest covered by a subdivision public report is conveyed or three years after the expiration of the most recent public report on the subdivision [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(a)].

Similarly, beginning no later than 90 days after the annexation of additional phases to the development, copies of the following documents applicable to those phases also must be delivered by the developer to the board at the association's office or at such other place as the board may prescribe as soon as they are readily obtainable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(b)]. In addition, the obligation to deliver these documents applies to any documents the developer obtains regardless of when they are obtained; however, the obligation terminates when either the last subdivision interest covered by a subdivision public report is conveyed or three years after the expiration of the most recent public report on the subdivision [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(b)].

a. Recorded subdivision map or maps for project.

b. Recorded condominium plan, if any, and all amendments to plan.

c. Deeds and easements executed by subdivider conveying common area or other interest to association, to extent applicable.

d. Recorded covenants, conditions, and restrictions for subdivision, including amendments and annexations.

e. Association's filed articles of incorporation, if any, and all amendments to articles of incorporation.

f. Association's bylaws and all amendments to bylaws.

g. All architectural guidelines and all other rules that association has promulgated regulating use of owner's interest in development or use of common area.

h. Plans approved by local agency or county where development is located for construction or improvement of facilities that association is obligated to maintain or repair. They need not be as-built plans; they may bear appropriate restrictions on commercial exploitation or use; and they may contain appropriate disclaimers regarding accuracy.

i. All notice of completion certificates issued for common area improvements, other than residential structures.

j. Any bond or other security device in which association is beneficiary.

k. Any written warranty being transferred to association for common area equipment, fixtures, or improvements.

l. Any insurance policy obtained for association's benefit or for benefit of its governing board or common area.

m. Any lease or contract to which association is party.

n. Association membership register, including mailing addresses and telephone numbers, books of account, and minutes of meetings of members, board, and board committees.

o. Any instrument referred to in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.6(d) but not described above that establishes or defines common, mutual, or reciprocal rights or responsibilities of association members [see § 34.143, P 11(f)]

12. Distribute written Notice of Owners' Rights and Responsibilities Regarding Assessments and Foreclosure to each association member during 60-day period immediately preceding beginning of association's fiscal year [see Civ. Code § 1365.1]

NOTE:

The text of the form is prescribed by statute [see Civ. Code § 1365.1(b); see also § 34.246].

§ 34.165 Handling Association Accounts

1. Have board of directors do the following no less frequently than quarterly [Civ. Code § 1365.5(a)]:

NOTE:
The following requirements apply unless the governing documents impose more stringent standards [Civ. Code § 1365.5(a)].

a. Cause current reconciliation of operating accounts of association to be made, and review reconciliation.

b. Cause current reconciliation of reserve accounts of association to be made, and review reconciliation.

NOTE:
For these purposes, "reserve accounts" means both (1) moneys that the board of directors of the association has identified for use to defray the future repair or replacement of, or additions to, the major components the association is obligated to maintain; and (2) the funds received and not yet expended or dispensed from either a compensatory damage award or settlement to an association from any person or entity for injuries to real or personal property arising from any construction or design defects. The funds described in clause (1) of the preceding sentence must be separately itemized from those described in clause (2) of the preceding sentence [Civ. Code § 1365.5(f)].

c. Review actual reserve revenues and expenses for current year compared with budget for current year.

d. Review most current account statements prepared by financial institution where association has its operating and reserve accounts.

NOTE:
Civ. Code § 1365.5(a)(4) does not specify that the most current account statements, prepared by the financial institution where the association has its operating and reserve accounts, must be reviewed at least quarterly. Nevertheless, to comply with Civ. Code § 1365.5(a)(4), the board should review such statements at least quarterly.

e. Review income and expense statement for operating and reserve accounts of association.

2. If money is to be withdrawn from association's reserve accounts [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(f) (definition of reserve accounts); see also § 34.165, P 1(b), NOTE], take following steps:

a. Confirm that withdrawn funds will be used as follows [Civ. Code § 1365.5(c)]:

(1) For repair, restoration, replacement, or maintenance of, or litigation involving repair, restoration, replacement, or maintenance of, major components that association is obligated to repair, replace, or maintain and for which reserve fund was established; or

(2) Temporarily transferred to association's general operating fund to meet short-term cash-flow requirements or other expenses.

NOTE:
The board must provide notice of its intent to consider the transfer in a notice of meeting. The notice must include the reasons the transfer is needed, some of the options for repayment, and whether a special assessment may be considered. If the board authorizes the transfer, it must make a written finding, which must be recorded in the minutes, explaining the reasons for the transfer and describing when and how the money will be repaid to the reserve fund [Civ. Code § 1365.5(c)(2)].

b. In case of temporary transfer to general operating fund, confirm that either of following actions is taken [Civ. Code § 1365.5(c)]:

(1) Transferred funds are restored to reserve fund within one year of date of initial transfer; or

(2) Board, after giving the same notice required for considering the transfer and making a finding supported by documentation that a temporary delay would be in best interests of project, temporarily delays restoration for period board reasonably determines to be necessary.

NOTE:
The board must exercise prudent fiscal management in maintaining the integrity of the reserve account. If necessary, the board must levy a special assessment to recover the full amount of the expended funds within the statutory time limits described above. Such a special assessment is subject to the five percent limitation specified in Civ. Code § 1366(b) [see § 34.39[6]]. The board has discretion to extend the due date for payment of any special assessment; but any extension will not prevent the board from pursuing its legal remedies to enforce and collect unpaid special assessments [Civ. Code §

1365.5(c)(2)].

c. For each withdrawal, obtain signatures of [Civ. Code § 1365.5(b)]:

(1) Two directors; or

(2) One director and one officer who is not a director.

d. If withdrawal is result of decision to temporarily transfer reserve funds to fund litigation, ensure that association notifies members of that decision in next available mailing to all members [Civ. Code § 1365.5(d); see Corp. Code § 5016].

NOTE:

The notice must inform the members of the availability of an accounting of the litigation expenses; the accounting must be updated on at least a quarterly basis and made available for inspection by members in the association's office [Civ. Code § 1365.5(d)].

3. If current replacement value of major components excluding amounts allocated to reserve account, is equal to or greater than one-half of association's gross budget for any fiscal year, take following steps [Civ. Code § 1365.5(e)]:

NOTE:

For these purposes, "reserve account requirements" means the estimated funds that the association's board of directors has determined are required to be available at a specified point in time to repair, replace, or restore those major components that the association is obligated to maintain [Civ. Code § 1365.5(g)].

a. At least once every three years, have board cause study of reserve account requirements of project to be conducted, and confirm that study includes [Civ. Code § 1365.5(e)]:

(1) Identification of major components that association is obligated to repair, replace, restore, or maintain and that, as of date of study, have remaining useful life of less than 30 years.

(2) Identification of probable remaining useful life of components described in § 34.165, P 3(a)(1), as of date of study.

(3) Estimate of cost of repair, replacement, restoration, or maintenance of components described in § 34.165, P 3(a)(1).

(4) Estimate of total annual contribution necessary to defray cost to repair, replace, restore, or maintain components described in § 34.165, P 3(a)(1), during and at end of their useful life, after subtracting total reserve funds as of date of study.

(5) Reserve funding plan that indicates how association plans to fund contribution identified in § 34.165, P 3(a)(4) to meet association's obligation for repair and replacement of major components with expected remaining life of 30 years or less, not including those components that board has determined will not be replaced or repaired. Plan must include schedule of date and amount of any change in regular or special assessments that would be needed to sufficiently fund reserve funding plan.

NOTE:
The plan must be adopted by the board of directors at an open meeting before the membership of the association. In addition, if the board determines that an assessment increase is necessary to fund the reserve funding plan, any increase must be approved in a separate action of the board [Civ. Code § 1365.5(e)(5)]

(6) Reasonably competent and diligent visual inspection of accessible areas of major components that association is obligated to repair, replace, restore, or maintain, in order to identify unusual wear and tear that may require earlier than anticipated repair or replacement.

b. Instruct board to review study annually and to consider and implement necessary adjustments to board's analysis of reserve account requirements as a result of that review [Civ. Code § 1365.5(e)].

AUTHOR: Chris Monahan Katherine Wisiniski Steven Holland Revision Authors

§ 34.166 Miscellaneous Procedures

1. If declaration specifies termination date and contains no provision for extension of that date, notify client that:

a. Term of declaration may be extended by approval of owners having [Civ. Code § 1357(b)]:
(1) More than 50 percent of votes in association; or

(2) Any greater percentage specified in declaration for amendments to declaration.

NOTE:
Under these circumstances, the term of the declaration may be extended in accordance with Civ. Code § 1356 [Civ. Code § 1357(b); see § 34.162, P 3(c)]. Any such amendment will become effective when it is recorded in accordance with Civ. Code § 1355 [Civ. Code § 1357(c); see § 34.162, P 3(b)].

b. No single extension made in above manner may exceed declaration's initial term or 20 years, whichever is less [Civ. Code § 1357(d)].

NOTE:
There is no limit on the number of extensions that may occur pursuant to Civ. Code § 1357 [Civ. Code § 1357(d)].

2. If client wishes to modify his or her condominium unit, and if boundaries of condominium unit are contained within a building, notify client of his or her right to do following (subject to provisions of governing instruments and other applicable provisions of law) [Civ. Code § 1360(a)]:

a. Make any improvements or alterations within condominium unit that do not impair structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen support of any portions of project.

b. Modify condominium, at owner's expense, to facilitate access for handicapped persons or to alter conditions that could be hazardous to those persons, provided that:

NOTE:
The modifications may include modifications of the route from the public way to the door of the unit for the above purposes if the condominium is on the ground floor or already accessible by an existing ramp or elevator [Civ. Code § 1360(a)(2)].

(1) Modifications are consistent with applicable building code requirements.

(2) Modifications are consistent with intent of applicable provisions of governing documents pertaining to safety or aesthetics.

(3) If modifications are external to unit, such modifications:
(a) Do not prevent reasonable passage by other residents; and

(b) Are removed by owner when condominium is no longer occupied by handicapped persons.

(4) Owner submits modification plans and specifications to association for review for compliance with above requirements.

NOTE:
The association may not deny approval of the proposed modifications without good cause [Civ. Code § 1360(a)(2)(D)].

3. If client wishes to amend or revoke condominium plan, prepare (or have engineer or surveyor prepare) instrument accomplishing this and [Civ. Code § 1351(e)]:

a. Have instrument executed and acknowledged by all persons whose signatures would be required to record condominium plan [see § 34.142, P 2(b)]; and

b. Record instrument in every county in which project is located [Civ. Code § 1169].

4. If association wishes to hire managing agent for project:

NOTE:
Any prospective managing agent who is neither a full-time association employee nor a regulated financial institution, but who will be compensated for exercising control over the association's assets, must provide the association's board of directors with a written statement of the agent's qualifications, as prescribed by statute. The statement should be provided as soon as practicable, but in no event more than 90 days, before entering into a management agreement [see Civ. Code § 1363.1*].

a. And term of agreement will be longer than one year, have board first obtain vote or written assent of majority of voting power of association residing in members other than developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(b)(1); but see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(b)(1)(A)-(G) (exceptions to this approval requirement); see also § 34.207[1]].

NOTE:

A contract for a term not to exceed three years that is terminable by the association after no longer than one year without cause, penalty, or other obligation on 90 days written notice of termination to the other party does not require that the board first obtain the vote or written assent of the association's members [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(b)(1)(G)].

b. If association is incorporated under Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.; see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations] and member of its board wishes to enter into management agreement or has material financial interest in proposed management entity, observe notice and approval requirements of Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 7233(a); see also Corp. Code § 7110 et seq. (Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law)].

NOTE:

Because it is unlikely that these requirements will apply, they are not discussed in this Transaction Guide. For further discussion, see § 34.207[1][c][ii].

c. Have association and manager enter into management agreement [see § 34.207].

5. If association hires managing agent, take following steps to ensure that statutory requirements governing handling of association funds are satisfied [Civ. Code § 1363.2]:

NOTE:

For these purposes, "managing agent" means a person or entity who, for compensation or in the expectation of compensation, exercises control over the assets of the association. However, the following are not managing agents: (1) a full-time employee of the association or a regulated financial institution operating within the normal course of business, or (2) an attorney acting within the scope of his or her license [Civ. Code § 1363.2(f)].

The prevailing party in an action to enforce Civ. Code § 1363.2 will be entitled to recover reasonable legal fees and court costs [Civ. Code § 1363.2(e)].

a. Instruct managing agent to deposit funds into:

(1) Interest-bearing account in bank, savings association, or credit union in California, pursuant to written request made by board of directors of association [see Civ. Code § 1363.2(b); see also § 34.166, P 5(b)];

(2) Escrow account with bank, savings association, or credit union;

(3) Account under control of association; or

(4) Trust fund account maintained by managing agent in a bank, savings association, or credit union in California.

NOTE:
The managing agent must deposit association funds into such a trust fund account unless (1) they are placed into either of the accounts described in § 34.166, P 5(a)(2) or (3) [Civ. Code § 1363.2(a)], or (2) the association has requested that they be placed in an interest-bearing account [Civ. Code § 1363.2(a); see § 34.166, P 5(a)(1)]. All funds placed in such an account must be kept in a financial institution in California [see Fin. Code § 31041 ("financial institution" defined)] that is insured by the federal govenment, and must be maintained there until disbursed in accordance with written instructions from the association [Civ. Code § 1363.2(a)].

b. If board instructs managing agent, in writing, to deposit funds into interest-bearing account [see § 34.166, P 5(a)(1)], confirm that [Civ. Code § 1363.2(b)]:

(1) Account is in name of:

(a) Association; or

(b) Managing agent as trustee for association.

(2) All funds in account are covered by insurance provided by agency of federal government.

(3) Funds in account are kept separate, distinct, and apart from funds belonging to managing agent or to any other person or entity for whom managing agent holds funds in trust.

NOTE:
Notwithstanding the above, the managing agent may commingle the funds of various associations under certain limited circumstances [Civ. Code § 1363.2(b)(3); see Civ. Code § 1363.2(d); see also § 34.166, P 5(d)].

(4) Managing agent discloses to board:

(a) Nature of account;

(b) How interest will be calculated and paid;

(c) Whether service charges will be paid to depository and by whom; and

(d) Any notice requirements or penalties for withdrawal of funds.

(5) Interest earned on funds does not inure directly or indirectly to benefit of managing agent or his or her employees.

c. Have managing agent maintain separate record of receipt and disposition of all association funds, including any interest earned on funds [Civ. Code § 1363.2(c)].

d. Notify managing agent that he or she must not commingle association funds with his or her own money or with money of others, unless all of following requirements are met [Civ. Code § 1363.2(d)]:

(1) Managing agent commingled funds of various associations on or before February 26, 1990, and has entered into written agreement with board of each of those associations obligating managing agent to maintain fidelity and surety bonds ("written agreement").

NOTE:
The bonds must be in an amount that provides adequate protection to the affected associations as agreed upon by the managing agent and the board of directors of each association [Civ. Code § 1363.2(d)(1)].

(2) Managing agent discloses in written agreement whether he or she is deriving benefits from:

(a) Commingled account; or

(b) Bank, credit union, or savings institution where moneys will be on deposit.

(3) Written agreement includes name and address of bonding companies, amount of bonds, and expiration dates of bonds.

(4) If there are any changes in bond coverage or companies providing coverage, managing agent discloses that fact to board of each affected association as soon as practical, but in no event more than 10 days after change.

(5) Bonds assure protection of association and provide for at least 10 days' notice to association prior to cancellation.

(6) Completed payments on behalf of association are deposited within 24 hours or next business day and do not remain commingled for more than 10 calendar days.

NOTE:
For these purposes, "completed payment" means funds that have been received and that clearly identify the account to which the funds are to be credited [Civ. Code § 1363.2(g)].

6. If final map has been approved for project and subdivider or subsequent owner wishes to rent condominium in project to prospective tenant, instruct subdivider or subsequent owner to take following steps:

NOTE:
The following requirements apply to rentals on or after January 1, 1993, of dwellings in condominium projects, community apartment projects, and stock cooperative projects [Gov. Code § 66459(a)]. They do not apply to an owner of four dwelling units or fewer, to certain transfers pursuant to court order, and to certain transfers by a fiduciary [see Gov. Code § 66459(g)]. For comprehensive coverage of these requirements, see § 34.244[1].

a. Deliver statutory notice regarding possible sale of condominium [see § 34.244] to prospective tenant prior to [Gov. Code § 66459(a)]:

(1) Offering condominium for sale to general public; and

(2) Execution of rental agreement.

b. Give tenant at least 90 days' written notice of intention to sell condominium to general public [Gov.

Code § 66459(c)].

c. Give tenant right of first refusal to purchase condominium on [Gov. Code § 66459(d)]:

NOTE:
The right to purchase must run for a period of 90 days from the date of the notice, unless the tenant gives written notice within the 90-day period of his or her intention not to exercise that right [Gov. Code § 66459(d)].

(1) Same terms and conditions on which condominium will be initially offered to general public; or

(2) Terms and conditions more favorable to tenant.

7. If client is party to dispute relating to enforcement of governing documents, Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], or Nonprofit Mutual Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 3110 et seq.], notify client of parties' obligations to take following steps to endeavor to resolve dispute before filing civil action:

a. Utilize intra-association dispute resolution procedure [see Civ. Code § 1363.810 et seq.].

NOTE:
The intra-association procedure supplements, and does not replace the formal alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq., which is a prerequisite to filing a civil enforcement action [Civ. Code §§ 1363.810(b), 1369.520(a); see § 34.166, P 7(b)]. The intra-association procedure may be invoked by either party to the dispute. If it is invoked by the association a member may elect not to participate. However, if the procedure is invoked by a member, the association must participate. A member may not be charged a fee for participating [Civ. Code § 1363.830]. For further coverage, see § 34.34. For sample provisions to be included in the Declaration setting forth the requirements for an intra-association dispute resolution procedure, see § 34.202.

b. If neither party requests resort to intra-association dispute resolution procedure or if that procedure fails to resolve dispute, parties must engage in formal alternative dispute resolution (ADR) procedure prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq. before filing civil enforcement action [Civ. Code § 1369.520(a)].

NOTE:
ADR is a prerequisite to an enforcement action that is solely for declaratory, injunctive, or writ relief, or for that relief in conjunction with a claim for monetary damages not in excess of the small claims court jurisdictional limit. It is not a prerequisite for a small claims action, and does not apply to an assessment dispute [Civ. Code § 1369.520(b)-(d); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220, 116.221 (jurisdiction of small claims court)]. For further coverage, see § 34.35.

8. To facilitate collection of assessments and fees on transfer of separate interests, have board of directors consider recording statement including any or all of following information [Civ. Code § 1366.2(a); see § 34.245]:

NOTE:
This type of recorded statement will assist escrow companies in collecting and prorating regular and special assessments that are due and payable when seperate interests are transferred. In particular it will alleviate the problems those companies encounter in locating the party responsible for collecting assessments when an association has changed its name or is operating under a "doing business as" designation. The county recorder is authorized to charge a recording fee based on the recorder's normal per-page recording fee [Civ. Code § 1366.2(b)].

a. Name of association as shown on conditions, covenants, and restrictions or current name of association, if different.

b. Name, address, and daytime telephone number, if any, of managing agent, association treasurer, or other person authorized to receive association assessments and fees.

c. List of separate interests subject to assessment by association, showing assessor's parcel number or legal description, or both.

d. Recording information identifying declaration or declarations of covenants, conditions, and restrictions governing association.

e. If amended statement is being recorded, include recording information identifying prior statement or statements that amendment is superseding.

8A. To facilitate collection of information on purchasers of separate interests at foreclosure sale, have board of directors consider recording request for copy of trustee's deed on foreclosure sale [see Civ. Code § 2924b(f); see also § 34.248 (form)].

9. Periodically, as required by statute, prepare incorporated or unincorporated owners' association's biennial registration form to include all of following information, and file with Secretary of State [see Civ. Code § 1363.6(a)]:

NOTE:

All owners' associations, whether or not they are incorporated, are required to file specified information with the Secretary of State. The information must to be submitted on a prescribed form with a fee, not to exceed $30 [Civ. Code § 1363.6(a)]. An incorporated association must file the form within 90 days of filing its articles of incorporation and thereafter at the same time the association files its biennial statement with the Secretary of State pursuant to Corp. Code § 8210 [Civ. Code § 1363.6(b)(1); see Corp. Code § 8810 (penalty for failure to file)]. An unincorporated association must file the form in July of 2003, and biennially in July thereafter [Civ. Code § 1363.6(b)(2)]. On and after January 1, 2006, an incorporated association that does not comply with the statement filing requirement faces the possibility of suspension and monetary penalties [see Civ. Code § 1363.6(d); see also Corp. Code § 8810]. All information in the form is available for public inspection under the Public Records Act except for the association president's daytime telephone number and e-mail address [Civ. Code § 1363.6(e); see Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.].

a. Statement that association is formed to manage common interest development under Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act;

b. Association's name;

c. Street address of association's onsite office, or if none, of responsible officer or managing agent;

d. Association president's name, address, and either his or her daytime telephone number or e-mail address, other than address, telephone number, or e-mail address of association's onsite office or managing agent;

e. If association has managing agent, agent's name, street address, and daytime telephone number;

f. County, and if development is in incorporated area, city in which development is located;

NOTE:
If the development's boundaries fall into more than one county, each county must be identified [Civ. Code § 1363.6(a)(6)].

g. If development is in unincorporated area, closest city;

h. Nine-digit ZIP Code, front street, and nearest cross street of development's physical location;

i. Type of common interest development managed by association, i.e., community apartment project, condominium project, planned development, or stock cooperative [see Civ. Code § 1351(c)]; and

j. Number of separate interests in development [see Civ. Code § 1351(l)].

10. Notify Secretary of State of any change in street address of onsite office or office of responsible officer or managing agent within 60 days of change [Civ. Code § 1363.6(c)].

NOTE:
The notification must be made on an official form and must be accompanied by a prescribed fee [Civ. Code § 1353.6(c)].

11. Ensure that board of directors complies with statutory procedures when adopting or changing operating rules dealing with board actions related to following [Civ. Code § 1357.120(a); see Civ. Code § 1357.120(b) (board actions to which procedure does not apply)]:

NOTE:
The procedure is required for operating rule changes commenced on or after January 1, 2004 [see Civ. Code § 1357.150]. To be valid and enforceable, an operating rule must be (1) in writing, (2) within the board's authority, (3) not inconsistent with governing law and the association's governing documents, (4) adopted, amended, or repealed in good faith in substantial compliance with statutory requirements, and (5) reasonable [Civ. Code § 1357.110]. Except when a rule change is proposed to address an imminent threat to public health or safety, or an imminent risk of substantial economic loss to the association [see Civ. Code § 1357.130(c), (d)], the board must provide written notice of a proposed rule change to the members at least 30 days before making the change. The notice must include the text of the proposed rule change and a description of its purpose and effect [Civ. Code § 1357.130(a)]. The board's decision must be made at a board meeting after the board has considered any comments made by association members [Civ. Code § 1357.130(b)]. As soon as possible but not more than 15 days after a non-emergency rule change is made, the board must deliver notice of the change to every member [Civ. Code § 1357.130(c)].

A special meeting may be called by association members representing at least five percent of the separate interests to reverse a non-emergency rule change [see Civ. Code § 1357.140].

a. Use of common area or exclusive use common area.

b. Use of separate interest, including aesthetic or architectural standards that govern alteration of separate interest.

c. Member discipline, including any schedule of monetary penalties for violating governing documents or procedure for imposing penalties.

d. Standards for delinquent assessment payment plans.

e. Procedures adopted for resolving disputes.

f. Procedures for reviewing and approving or disapproving proposed physical change to member's separate interest or to common area.

g. Procedures for elections adopted on or after July 1, 2006 [see Civ. Code §§ 1363.03, 1363.04; see also 2005 Stats., ch. 450, § 7].

12. Assure that association provides its members with annual notice of requirements for association approval of physical changes to member's property.

NOTE:

The notice should describe the types of changes that require association approval and must include a copy of the procedure used to review and approve or disapprove of proposed changes [see Civ. Code § 1378(c)].

§ 34.200 Application for Public Report for Common Interest Subdivision [DRE Form 624; Revised 6/05]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official Department of Real Estate (DRE) application for a public report for a condominium project, planned development, community apartment project, or undivided interest. Consequently, unless otherwise specified, "subdivision" as used in this comment refers to those four types of developments.

Under the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.], any person who intends to offer subdivided lands (as defined) [see § 34.200[1][b][i]] within California for sale or lease must file this application form with the DRE [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(a)] and obtain a public report covering the subdivision from the Real Estate Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2]. A public report contains detailed consumer information relating to a particular subdivision [see § 34.37[3]].

For a discussion of the criteria used by the Commissioner in determining whether or not to issue a final public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5], see § 34.143, P 7.

Even though the Subdivided Lands Act refers to the developer of a condominium project or other common interest subdivision as a "subdivider," this chapter uses the term "developer" because it is relevant to all aspects of the condominium development and operation processes, whereas "subdivider" only applies to matters relating to the regulation of subdivisions.

DRE forms may be printed out by visiting the forms page at DRE's website at www.dre.ca.gov/forms_sub.htm.

[b] Public Report Requirement

[i] Applicability to Common Interest Subdivisions

The Subdivided Lands Act applies to all "subdivisions" and "subdivided lands." Included within the Act's definitions of those terms are the following real estate developments, which are collectively referred to in the Real Estate Commissioner's regulations as "common interest developments" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2705(m), 2792.8]:

- Condominium projects [see Civ. Code § 783] containing five or more condominiums.
- Community apartment projects [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004] containing five or more apartments.
- Planned developments [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003; see also Ch. 33D, Planned Developments] containing five or more lots.
- Stock cooperatives [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2; see also Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives] having or intended to have five or more shareholders.
- Limited equity housing cooperatives [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.4].

For a discussion of the standard (i.e., not common interest) subdivisions that are also governed by the Subdivided Lands Act, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

[ii] Selecting and Obtaining Appropriate Application Form

The following form is for use in connection with common interest subdivisions that are subject to the Subdivided Lands Act--that is, condominium projects, community apartment projects, planned developments, and undivided interests. The Real Estate Commissioner has prepared different application forms for stock cooperatives [see Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives, § 33C.200], time-share projects [see Ch. 33A, Time-Share Projects, § 33A.200], standard subdivisions [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation], and out-of-state subdivisions [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

Subdivision applications and forms are distributed and processed by Department of Real Estate subdivision district offices located in Los Angeles and Sacramento. Each office has jurisdiction over applications originating in specified counties [see NOTE to § 34.143].

[iii] Exception for Conversions

The notice and public report requirements of the Subdivided Lands Act do not apply to nonbinding expressions of intent to purchase or lease that an owner, agent, or developer is required, either by ordinance or as a condition to the approval of a tentative or parcel map pursuant to the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.], to obtain from the tenants of units that are proposed to be converted to a condominium, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.7].

For a discussion of subdivisions that are exempt from the notice and public report requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11010.3, 11010.4, 11010.6, 11010.10, 11010.35], see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation . That discussion is not repeated here because it is extremely unlikely that a common interest subdivision would qualify for one of those exemptions.

[iv] Phased Developments

If a project is to be developed in phases, the developer must obtain a public report for each phase of the project [10 Cal.

Code Reg. § 2798]. Before additional land may be annexed for a subsequent phase of a project, the developer must comply with the Real Estate Commissioner's regulation regarding annexation [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27; see also 34.44[2]].

If a multi-phased development qualifies as a "master planned development" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(a) (definition)], the development may be exempt from some or all of the "reasonable arrangement regulations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.15-2792.28] that normally apply to developments that are subject to the Subdivided Lands Act [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32; § 34.44[3]; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. (Act)].

[v] Senior Citizen Housing Developments

A "senior citizen housing development" is a residential development consisting of at least 35 dwelling units that is developed, substantially rehabilitated, or substantially renovated for senior citizens. No housing development constructed before 1985 will fail to qualify as a senior citizen housing development merely because it was not originally developed or put to use for occupancy by senior citizens [Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(4); see Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(1) ("senior citizen" is person who is at least 55 years old)]. As discussed in the Legal Background, these developments are exempted from the Unruh Act's prohibition against age discrimination [see Civ. Code §§ 51, 51.2(a)].

Any senior citizen housing development that is required to obtain a public report must include in the application, if submitted after July 1, 2001, a complete statement of the occupancy restrictions that apply in the development. A statement of those restrictions must also be included in the public report itself [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.05; Civ. Code § 51.3(b)(4)].

Because of the unusually large concentration of senior communities in Riverside County, and the fact that those communities have been subjected to a large number of civil enforcement actions and litigation by private parties, notwithstanding the senior communities' good faith belief that they were in compliance with the law, the legislature has exempted Riverside County from the general requirements imposed on senior-only housing, and enacted special statutes, which impose less-stringent requirements [see Civ. Code §§ 51.10-51.12; see also 1996 Stats., ch. 1147, § 8 (explanation of legislative intent)].

[c] Components of Application Form

[i] Instructions

The application is in three parts. Part I consists of instructions to the applicant on how to complete the application. Part I is not submitted with the application and is not reproduced here. When relevant, the contents of the instructions are discussed in this comment. The instructions can be viewed and printed out at http://www.dre.ca.gov/forms_sub.htm.

The DRE also publishes the Subdivision Public Report Application Guide (SPRAG), which is a compilation of detailed instructions on how to apply for a public report plus and item-by-item analysis of the application form itself and the documentation that must be submitted with it. SPRAG can be ordered from the DRE. In addition, a copy of the SPRAG manual can be downloaded from DRE's website, or by visiting http://www.dre.ca.gov/pdf_docs/sprag.pdf.

PRACTICE TIP:

Including a Cover Letter. If the project for which a Notice of Intention is being submitted has unusual or noteworthy aspects, processing of the submittal may be considerably simplified, and processing time thus shortened, if a cover letter is included that describes the offering and highlights its unusual or noteworthy aspects.

[ii] Index/Quantitative Deficiency Notice

Part II, the Index/Quantitative Deficiency Notice is a list of the documents required for a substantially complete application. It is reproduced below. Part II has three functions and uses:

- The applicant uses Part II to determine which documents are required for a "minimum filing package" and for a "substantially complete application."

- The applicant also uses Part II as an index for tabbing documents that are being submitted with the application.

- DRE uses Part II as a "quantitative deficiency notice" to communicate what further documentation, if any, is required of the applicant for a substantially completed application.

After an applicant receives a quantitative deficiency notice, any additional documents required to make the application substantially complete must be submitted together with the deficiency notice on top. If documentation is submitted piecemeal, it will be returned.

[iii] Questionnaire

Part III, the Questionnaire, is reproduced below. It contains specific questions about the subdivision project and requests that various kinds of supporting documentation be submitted. All questions must be answered. The Questionnaire should not be submitted until all project plans have been finalized. If a question does not apply to the project at hand, it should be marked "NA."

[d] Filing Fees

This form must be accompanied by the appropriate filing fee [see; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790.1.5(a)(2), (b)]. A different filing fee applies when this form is used as an application for a preliminary public report [see; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790.1.5(a)(2), (b)]; see also § 34.200[1][i]].

[e] Alternative Methods of Filing Application

[i] In General

There are two methods available for filing an application for a final public report. The applicant can submit either:

- A Minimum Filing Package; or

- A Substantially Complete Application.

Both of these methods is discussed below.

[ii] Minimum Filing Package

A Minimum Filing Package (MFP) consists of all of the following:

- A completed Index (Part II);

- A completed Questionnaire (Part III);

- All supporting documentation marked with an asterisk in Parts II and III; and

- The appropriate filing fee.

In addition, all documents submitted must be legible, tabbed with the appropriate item number, and hole-punched.

If the MFP requirements are not met, the application and filing fees will be returned. If MFP requirements are met, the DRE will accept the filing as a Notice of Intention and will continue processing to determine whether the filing is substantially complete.

A preliminary public report can also be processed, if requested, after a minimum filing package is submitted. There is no statutory time limit regarding issuance of a preliminary public report. However, no further processing of a MFP for a final public report will take place until the filing is substantially complete.

[iii] Substantially Complete Application

A Substantially Complete Application (SCA) consists of all of the following:

- A MFP;

- Most other documentation required for the issuance of a final public report (matching answers in columns 2 and 3 of Pt. III will indicate what is to be included in the substantially complete application); and

- A duplicate budget package with duplicate copies of materials related to the homeowners' association budget [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(12)].

[iv] Requirements for Supporting Documentation

The DRE requires that all incoming documents, including those submitted after the original submittal, be tabbed with the item numbers shown in the Index (Pt. II), column one. Use heavy stock or fabric tabs, not plastic or paper tabs. Each tab must show the document's precise item number. The entire package must be hole-punched as shown in the Instructions (Pt. I).

[f] Where to File Application

There are two DRE Subdivision Offices. Applications for projects in Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Barbara, and Ventura counties must be filed at:

Subdivision Office--South
320 W. 4th Street, Suite 350
Los Angeles, CA 90013-1105
Telephone: (213) 576-6983

Applications for projects in all other counties must be filed at:

Subdivisions Office--North
2201 Broadway, Sacramento CA
Mailing address: P.O. Box 187005
Sacramento, CA 95818-7005
Telephone: (916) 227-0813

[g] Application Processing

Regardless of whether the applicant submits a MFP or SCA, the Commissioner has 10 days to determine whether the application is substantially complete and to notify the applicant in writing of this determination [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(b)]. If it is not complete, the notification will consist of a "quantitative deficiency notice" that will identify the missing or incomplete information. If the application is then resubmitted, the Commissioner will, within 10 days, make and submit another written determination regarding the "substantially complete" status of the application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(b)(1)].

If the Commissioner determines that the application is substantially complete with respect to quantitative requirements, he or she will take the following steps:

(1) Provide the applicant, within 60 days of the above determination, with a list of any deficiencies and substantive inadequacies that prevent the application from being qualitatively complete [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(b)(2); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(a)(2) ("qualitatively complete" defined)].

(2) Notify the applicant, within 30 days of the receipt of the information submitted in response to the list described above, whether the application is qualitatively complete. If it is not, the notification will identify the remaining deficiencies and substantive inadequacies. On receipt of any resulting resubmittal, the Commissioner will, within 30 days, determine whether the resubmittal is qualitatively complete and notify the applicant of the decision [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(c)].

(3) Issue a public report within 15 days after (a) the determination that the application is qualitatively and substantially complete, and (b) the applicant has submitted all recorded or filed instruments and evidence of financial arrangements required by the Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(d)].

The Commissioner may adopt emergency regulations providing for the extension of the above deadlines if the number of applications for subdivision public reports filed with the Department during the preceding six months has increased by more than 15 percent over the average monthly number of applications filed for the base period commencing July 1, 1983, and ending June 30, 1986 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2(g)].

[h] Deadline for Submission of Supporting Documentation

If the applicant does not furnish the data required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010 [see § 34.200[1][k]] within three years from the date the notice of intention is filed, the Real Estate Commissioner may, after written notice to the applicant or the applicant's representative, abandon the application for the public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.13(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2804(a)(1)]. Under specified conditions, the Commissioner may grant the developer a one-year extension to complete the application [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2804(d)].

[i] Preliminary Public Report

Before the issuance of a final public report, an owner, developer, or agent may accept nonbinding reservations to purchase or lease units in the subdivision if he or she obtains a preliminary public report from the Real Estate Commissioner and satisfies certain other conditions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(b); for a list of those conditions, see § 34.143, P 1]. This is an exception to the general prohibition against selling, leasing, or offering to sell or lease subdivided lots or parcels without first obtaining a final public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2]. Because the processing of an application for a final public report typically takes several months, this is an attractive option to many developers.

There are two types of preliminary public reports, referred to as the "normal" and the "short form" versions. The short form report is usually issued more quickly than its counterpart (usually within two weeks of the filing of the application). However, a short form preliminary public report requires a special application [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation] that cannot be used to obtain a final public report. In other words, after submitting the special application and obtaining the short form report, the developer must complete this form to obtain the final public report. In contrast, this form may be used to apply for a normal preliminary public report, and then may serve as the basic application for the final public report.

One disadvantage to using a preliminary public report is that any recipient who eventually purchases a unit in the subdivision will have five days after entering into the purchase contract to cancel the contract and to receive a full refund of any deposit [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation]. This right of rescission does not apply to normal public reports.

A preliminary public report expires and may not be used after the earlier of (1) issuance of a final subdivision public report covering the same subdivision, or (2) one year from the date of issuance of the preliminary public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795(c)].

[j] Conditional Public Report

[i] In General

If an application for the public report has been determined to be qualitatively complete [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.2; § 34.200[1][e][iii]] but the applicant has not satisfied certain other requirements for the issuance of the final report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12], the Real Estate Commissioner may, under certain circumstances, issue a conditional public report for the subdivision. A conditional public report permits the applicant to sell or lease, or offer for sale or lease, lots or parcels in the subdivision, provided the following conditions are met: (1) as a condition of the sale, lease, or offer, delivery of legal title or other interest contracted for will not take place until issuance of the final public report; and (2) the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e) (discussed below) are satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(d)].

[ii] Criteria for Issuance

The Commissioner may issue a conditional public report if the application for the public report has been determined to be qualitatively complete, the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e) (discussed below) are satisfied, all deficiencies and substantive inadequacies in the documents that are required to make an application for a final public report for the subdivision substantially complete have been corrected, the material elements of the setup of the offering to be made under the authority of the conditional public report have been established, and all requirements for issuance of a public report have been met except for one or more of the following, as applicable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(a)]:

- A final map has been approved under Gov. Code § 66458, but has not been recorded under Gov. Code § 66466(c) [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation].

- A condominium plan [see Civ. Code § 1351(e); § 34.33[4]] has not been recorded.

- A declaration of covenants, conditions, and restrictions [see Civ. Code § 1353; § 34.33[3]] has not been recorded.

- A declaration of annexation has not been recorded.

- A recorded subordination of existing liens to the declaration of covenants, conditions, and restrictions or declaration of annexation or escrow instruments to effect recordation before the first sale are lacking.

- Filed articles of incorporation are lacking.

- A current preliminary report of a licensed title insurance company issued after filing of the final map and recording of the declaration covering all subdivision interests to be included in the public report has not been provided.

- Other requirements the Commissioner determines are likely to be timely satisfied by the applicant, notwithstanding the fact that the failure to meet these requirements makes the application qualitatively incomplete.

As discussed above, the Commissioner will not issue a conditional public report, and such a report may not be used, unless the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e) are satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(a), (d)]. Section 11018.12(e) provides that the applicant must supply evidence that (1) all purchase money will be deposited in compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11013.2(a) or 11013.4(a) [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation], and (2) the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(1), (2) (governing completion of subdivision and offsite improvements) have been satisfied [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(1); see § 34.200[1][k][v], [vi]]. Further, the applicant must supply a description of the nature of the transaction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(2)]. Finally, provision must be made for the return of the entire sum of money paid or advanced by the purchaser if (1) a subdivision public report has not been issued within six months of the date of issuance of the conditional public report, or (2) the purchaser is dissatisfied with the public report because of a material change in the setup of the offering [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e)(3); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11012 (material changes); see also § 34.161].

If the Commissioner decides to not issue a conditional public report, he or she must notify the applicant in writing of the decision within five business days. That notice must specifically state the reasons why the report is not being issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2(c)].

[iii] Distribution of Report and Related Statement

The subdivider, principal, or his or her agent must provide a prospective purchaser with a copy of the conditional public report and a written statement including all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(f)]:

- Specification of the information required for issuance of a public report.

- Specification of the information required in the public report that is not available in the conditional public report, along with a statement of the reasons why that information is not available at the time of issuance of the conditional public report. The above references to unavailable information appear to refer to the required supporting documentation listed in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(a) (discussed above).

- A statement that no person acting as a principal or agent may sell or lease or offer for sale or lease lots or parcels in a subdivision for which a conditional public report has been issued except as provided in the applicable provisions of the Subdivided Lands Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11010-11023].

- Specification of the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(e) (discussed above).

The prospective purchaser must sign a receipt indicating that he or she has received and has read the conditional public report and the written statement described above [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(g)].

[iv] Term

The term of a conditional public report will not exceed six months. However, it may be renewed for one additional six-month term if the Commissioner determines that the requirements for issuance of a public report are likely to be satisfied during the renewal term [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(h)].

Notwithstanding the above, the term of a conditional public report for attached residential condominium units [see Civ. Code § 783], consisting of 25 units or more as specified on the approved tentative tract map, may not exceed 30 months and may be renewed for one additional term of six months if the Commissioner determines that the requirements for issuance of a public report are likely to be satisfied during the renewal term [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.12(i)].

[k] Particular Provisions of Form

[i] In General

Much of the information requested by this form is the same as that requested by the form in Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation, § 30.220 (application for public report for "standard" subdivision). This comment primarily discusses requirements applicable solely to common interest subdivisions, and does not repeat the discussions in § 30.220[1] of requirements applicable to all types of subdivisions.

[ii] Names and Addresses

If the owner and developer (subdivider) are different people or entities, this form must set forth both names [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(1), (2)].

[iii] Uses

The notice of intention must identify the use or uses to which the proposed subdivision will be put [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(7)]. In addition, the applicant must indicate the zoning of the affected lands because a failure to show that the parcels may be used for the purpose for which they are offered is grounds for the denial of a public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(f)].

[iv] Common Area Interest to Be Conveyed

If all or a portion of the common areas and facilities will be transferred to the association, those areas and facilities must be transferred to the association or to a corporate trustee under a trust agreement acceptable to the Commissioner before or coincident with the first transfer or conveyance of a subdivision interest by the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15(a)]. The developer may reserve limited easements for certain purposes, such as for completing improvements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15(b)]. The developer must provide for the conveyance in the escrow instructions submitted with this form [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(15)(E)], and must submit an exemplar of the deed for conveyance [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(14)].

[v] Completion of Improvements In General

The Commissioner will issue a public report if reasonable arrangements have been made to assure completion of the subdivision and all off-site improvements included in the offering [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(1); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(6)], and will refuse to issue a report if the applicant cannot demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made for all off-site improvements and community, recreational, or other facilities included in the offering [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(d), (e)].

[vi] On-Site Improvements

If the on-site improvements are to be completed after the issuance of the final public report, the developer must submit a reasonable date for the completion of the improvements. The developer must also provide evidence of compliance with one of the following methods of assuring completion [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2)]:

- Arrangements for a lien and completion bond, in an amount and subject to any terms, conditions, and coverage approved by the Commissioner, to assure completion of the project free of any liens [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2)(A)].

- Impound of funds from the sale of units in the subdivision, in an amount which the Commissioner determines sufficient to assure the completion of the improvements, in a neutral escrow depository until the lien periods have expired and the improvements are completed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2)(B)].

- Deposit of an amount sufficient to cover the cost of construction in a neutral escrow depository acceptable to the Commissioner under a written agreement providing for disbursements from the escrow as the work is completed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2)(C)].

- If the project is a condominium situated on a single parcel as shown on an approved final subdivision map, arrangements for: (1) lien and completion bond(s) in an amount sufficient to assure lien-free completion of all common area improvements not located in a residential structure; and (2) placement of all funds (or any portion of the funds that the Commissioner determines are sufficient) from the sales of condominiums in a neutral escrow depository acceptable to the Commissioner. These funds must remain in the escrow account until the residential structure in which the purchaser's separate unit is located has been completed, and all lien periods applicable to the purchaser's separate and undivided interests in the entire project arising out of the improvements have expired or have been insured against in a manner satisfactory to the Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2)(D)].

- Compliance by the developer with an alternative plan acceptable to the Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(2)(E)].

An undertaking may be substituted for any of the above bonds [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.190, 995.210; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq. (Bond and Undertaking Law)].

[vii] Off-Site Improvements

A developer may demonstrate that reasonable arrangements have been made to assure completion of off-site improvements after the issuance of the public report [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(a)(1); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(d); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a)(1), 2792(a)(16)] by submitting a clearance letter from the appropriate local governmental entity.

[viii] Special Tax or Assessment Districts

This form must contain a true statement or reasonable estimate of the amount of certain indebtedness that has been or is proposed to be incurred by an existing or proposed special district, entity, taxing area, community facilities district, or assessment district within the boundaries of which all or any portion of the subdivision is located. This requirement applies to any indebtedness that (1) will finance the construction or installation of any improvement or the acquisition of community or recreational facilities; and (2) will be obtained by taxes or special assessments [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(10); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a)(1), 2792(a)(11)]. Developers subject to this requirement must also submit a special district questionnaire prepared by the Department of Real Estate [see DRE Form 624C, available at http://www.dre.ca.gov/forms_sub.htm].

The public report is in part based on the above information and can be denied for failure to demonstrate, when applicable, that assessments will be used to finance improvements and community or recreational facilities [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(d), (e)].

The developer must make a showing that the parcels can be used for the purpose for which they are offered; in the case of a residential subdivision, this includes a showing that there is or will be vehicular access and a source of potable domestic water. Failure to make such a showing is grounds for denial of a public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(f)].

Several statutory provisions require the applicant to submit a very thorough analysis of soil conditions, prepared by competent engineers. Thus, the notice of intention must identify, if applicable, any soils or geologic report or reports that have been prepared specifically for the subdivision [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(14)]. Further, the notice must state whether or not fill is used, or is proposed to be used, in the subdivision and must give the name and the location of the public agency in which information concerning soil conditions in the subdivision is available [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(15)].

The notice of intention must also describe the provisions that have been made for public utilities in the proposed subdivision, including water, electricity, gas, telephone, and sewerage facilities [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(6); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a)(1), 2792(a)(9)]. If the financing of these facilities or other off-site improvements requires the creation of special assessment districts, then the notice must also indicate the amount of indebtedness that the special district is likely to incur [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(10); see § 34.200[1][k][viii]].

[x] Management Documents

If a developer intends to use the same set of management documents (articles, bylaws, and declaration) for more than one common interest project, he or she may request pre-approval of a master set of those documents by submitting the appropriate Department of Real Estate form [see DRE Forms 616, 616A, 616B, available at http://www.dre.ca.gov/forms_sub.htm] to the DRE before applying for the public report. Approved master management documents (MMDs) may be used in subsequent filings without the need for a complete review by DRE. However, the MMDs may not be used for multiphase condominium conversions or single lot phased condominiums.

[xi] Title

The notice of intention must describe the condition of the title to the land, including all encumbrances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(4)]. An inability to deliver title or any other interest contracted for is grounds for the denial of a public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(c)]. Pursuant to this policy, the owner, developer, or agent of the subdivision must submit with the questionnaire a current preliminary title report covering all subdivision interests for which a public report is sought [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a)(1), 2792(a)(6)].

[xii] Conditions of Sale or Lease

The notice of intention must state the proposed terms and conditions for the disposition of the land. Further, the developer must submit copies of any contracts intended to be used [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(5)]. It is essential that the Commissioner have copies of all documents used by the owner or developer that affect the rights of potential purchasers, because the Commissioner cannot issue a final public report if the sale or lease would constitute a misrepresentation to or a fraud or deceit on the purchasers or lessees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(b)]. To properly police these sales and lease transactions, the Commissioner requires the applicant to submit, as part of a substantially complete application, exemplars of all marketing, financing, and conveyancing instruments to be used in the offering of subdivision interests [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792(a)(12)].

[xiii] Location of Schools

For each school district serving the area in which a proposed subdivision is located, the notice of intention must include a statement from the appropriate district that indicates the location of each high school, junior high school, and elementary school serving the subdivision, or documentation indicating that this statement has been requested from the appropriate school district [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(12)(A)]. If, as of the date the notice of intention and application for a public report are otherwise deemed to be qualitatively and substantially complete, any school district serving the area has not provided the required statement, the subdivider or other person who filed the notice of intention and application must immediately provide DRE with the name, address, and telephone number of that district [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(12)(B)].

[xiv] Nearby Airports

The notice of intention must disclose the location of all existing airports, and of all proposed airports shown on the local general plan, located within two statute miles of the subdivision. If the property is located within an airport influence area, the notice must also include a statutorily-prescribed statement informing potential buyers of the possible annoyances and inconveniences associated with living near an airport [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(13)(A); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(13)(B) ("airport influence area" defined)].

[xv] San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission Jurisdiction

On or after July 1, 2005, if the property is located within the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission's jurisdiction, the notice of intention must include a statement that the property is so located and a statutory notice stating that the use and development of the property may be subject to special regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(16)].

[xvi] Notice of Supplemental Property Tax Bill

The notice of intention must include a "Notice of Your 'Supplemental' Property Tax Bill" informing the prospective purchaser that a reassessment of the property on the change of ownership may result in the issuance of one or two supplemental tax bills, payment of which will be the purchaser's responsibility, notwithstanding the fact that the purchaser has arranged with the lender to pay property taxes through an impound account [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(11); see Civ. Code § 1102.6c (text of notice); see also Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.300A].

[xvii] Notice of Right to Farm

If the property is located within one mile of a farm or ranch designated on the current county-level GIS "Important Farmland Map" issued by the Department of Conservation's Division of Land Resource Protection, the notice of intention must include a statutory Notice of Right to Farm. The notice basically warns of possible inconveniences or discomforts resulting from agricultural operations that are a normal and necessary aspect of living in a community with a strong rural character [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010(b)(17)].

[xviii] Advertising/Sales Program

The Commissioner will not issue a public report if the sale or lease of any units in the subdivision would constitute a deceit or fraud on the purchasers or lessees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018(b)]. Thus, the applicant must submit certain information concerning the statements he or she has used or will use in inducing prospective purchasers to buy into the project [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2799.1 (Commissioner's regulation pertaining to subdivision advertising)]. For further discussion of applicable advertising restrictions, see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation .

[l] Execution and Verification of Application

This application form must be executed by or on behalf of the person to whom the public report is to be issued (the developer). If executed within California, the developer must either:

- Verify the information in the application and the supporting documents before a notary public or other person qualified to administer oaths [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790]; or

- Execute a written certificate that (1) recites that this information is certified to be true under penalty of perjury, and (2) states the date and place of execution and that it is certified under the laws of California [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5(a) (model certification)]. The official application for a public report contains a certification provision.

If this form is executed outside of California, the developer must either:

- Verify the above information, before a person qualified to administer oaths within the jurisdiction in which executed; or

- Execute a written certificate that (1) recites that this information is certified to be true under penalty of perjury, and (2) states the date of execution and that it is certified under the laws of the State of California [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5(b) (model certification)].

[m] Distribution of Copies of Final Public Report

For a discussion of the required methods of distribution of public reports and related project documents [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11018.1, 11018.6; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2795, 2795.1], see § 34.143.

[n] Term of Final Public Report and Renewal

The initial term of a final subdivision public report is five years [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.3]. However, the developer may renew the report by submitting an application for renewal [see Ch. 30, Subdivision Regulation] and any additional information required by the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2795.3].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the statutory disclosure notice that an owner, developer, or agent must present to a prospective purchaser along with a copy of the public report [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(c)]. Among other things, the form describes (1) the rights and obligations of purchasers of lots or units in a common interest development, (2) the importance of the public report, (3) the significance and legal effect of the governing instruments for the project, (4) the assessment process, and (5) the role of the owners' association.

Failure to provide this statement will not be deemed a misdemeanor under the Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(c); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10185; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.]. However, the Real Estate Commissioner may issue an order prohibiting further sales or leases until the owner or developer complies with this distribution requirement [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019(a)(1)].

For a discussion of the distribution of public reports [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(a)], see § 34.143.

[2] FORM

Common Interest Development Information Form [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.1(c)]

COMMON INTEREST DEVELOPMENT GENERAL INFORMATION

The project described in the attached Subdivision Public Report is known as a common interest development. Read the public report carefully for more information about the type of development. The development includes common areas and facilities which will be owned or operated by an owners' association. Purchase of a lot or unit automatically entitles and obligates you as a member of the association and, in most cases, includes a beneficial interest in the areas and facilities. Since membership in the association is mandatory, you should be aware of the following information before you purchase:

Your ownership in this development and your rights and remedies as a member of its association will be controlled by governing instruments which generally include a Declaration of Restrictions (also known as CCandRs), Articles of Incorporation (or association) and bylaws. The provisions of these documents are intended to be, and in most cases are, enforceable in a court of law. Study these documents carefully before entering into a contract to purchase a subdivision interest.

In order to provide funds for operation and maintenance of the common facilities, the association will levy assessments against your lot or unit. If you are delinquent in the payment of assessments, the association may enforce payment through court proceedings or your lot or unit may be liened and sold through the exercise of a power of sale. The anticipated income and expenses of the association, including the amount that you may expect to pay through assessments, are outlined in the proposed budget. Ask to see a copy of the budget if the subdivider has not already made it available for your examination.

A homeowner association provides a vehicle for the ownership and use of recreational and other common facilities which were designed to attract you to buy in this development. The association also provides a means to accomplish architectural control and to provide a base for homeowner interaction on a variety of issues. The purchaser of an interest in a common interest development should contemplate active participation in the affairs of the association. He or she should be willing to serve on the board of directors or on committees created by the board. In short, "they" in a common interest development is "you." Unless you serve as a member of the governing board or on a committee appointed by the board, your control of the operation of the common areas and facilities is limited to your vote as a member of the association. There are actions that can be taken by the governing body without a vote of the members of the association which can have a significant impact upon the quality of life for association members.

Until there is a sufficient number of purchasers of lots or units in a common interest development to elect a majority of the governing body, it is likely that the subdivider will effectively control the affairs of the association. It is frequently necessary and equitable that the subdivider do so during the early stages of development. It is vitally important to the owners of individual subdivision interests that the transition from subdivider to resident-owner control be accomplished in an orderly manner and in a spirit of cooperation.

When contemplating the purchase of a dwelling in a common interest development, you should consider factors beyond the attractiveness of the dwelling units themselves. Study the governing instruments and give careful thought to whether you will be able to exist happily in an atmosphere of cooperative living where the interests of the group must be taken into account as well as the interests of the individual. Remember that managing a common interest development is very much like governing a small community ... the management can serve you well, but you will have to work for its success.

§ 34.202 Declaration

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for a condominium project. The declaration is the basic governing document for any type of common interest development/subdivision. Formerly, this document was referred to as a "declaration of covenants, conditions, and restrictions," or "CC&Rs." Because that term was somewhat deceiving (declarations rarely contain conditions and always include servitudes), the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] adopted the term "declaration" [see Rosenberry, "The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act," Real Property Law Reporter, November 1985, p. 175]. However, the Act does not require the use of this term [see Civ. Code § 1351(h) (" 'Declaration' means the document, however denominated. ...")], and the regulations of the Real Estate Commissioner [see § 34.202[1][d][ii]] continue to use the term "CCandRs." Accordingly, the attorney may wish to accommodate a client who has a strong preference for the former wording.

After the first transfer of title to a condominium in the project to any purchaser, the provisions of the declaration (and all other documents establishing, in whole or in part, the plan for use, enjoyment, maintenance, and preservation of the project) must be made binding on the purchaser of every other condominium in the project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(c); see also Recital C in this form].

With regard to creation and enforcement of assessment liens, this form conforms to the law applicable to assessment liens recorded on or after January 1, 2006 [see Civ. Code § 1367.4], rather than the law applicable to liens recorded before that date [see Civ. Code § 1367].

For compatible articles of incorporation and bylaws for the owners' association of a condominium project, see §§ 34.204 and 34.205, respectively.

[b] Applicability of Comment to Other Types of Developments

Ch. 33D, Planned Developments, and Ch. 33C, Stock Cooperatives, contain extensive cross references to Ch. 34, Condominiums, and to this comment in particular. Unless otherwise indicated, users of Ch. 33D and 33C should assume that any discussion of condominium projects in this comment also applies to other common interest developments [see Civ. Code § 1351(c); see also § 34.33[1]] and other common interest subdivisions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8, 2705(m); see also § 34.37[2]].

[c] Coordination With Bylaws

The declaration (this form) and the bylaws [see § 31.205] are the two most important governing documents for a condominium project because they contain the most comprehensive and detailed provisions governing the operation of the project and the powers, rights, duties, and obligations of the owners' association and the condominium owners. With few exceptions, the requirements governing the contents of the governing documents do not specify which document must contain a particular provision [see § 34.202[1][d][i], [ii]]. As a result, the drafter has some discretion in allocating topics between the two documents. The two forms in this chapter reflect a common method of division which, among other things, limits the scope of the bylaws to matters affecting the organization and operation of the owners' association. The declaration governs all other aspects of the condominium project, including membership and voting rights. This is a rather unique arrangement in that the bylaws for other types of organizations typically contain the provisions governing membership and voting rights.

[d] Required Contents

[i] Davis-Stirling Act

Under the Davis-Stirling Act, a declaration must contain all of the following [Civ. Code § 1353(a)(1); see former Civ. Code §§ 1350-1370 (former Condominium Act, governing declarations recorded before 1986)]:

- A legal description of the condominium project [see § 34.202[2], Recital A].

- A statement that the development is a condominium project (or community apartment project, planned development, stock cooperative, or any combination of these developments) [see § 34.202[2], Title and Recital B].

- The name of the owners' association [see § 34.202[2], Sections 1.02, 3.01].

- The restrictions on the use or enjoyment of any portion of the condominium project that are intended to be enforceable equitable servitudes [see § 34.202[1][g]].

- If the property is located within an airport influence area and the declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, a statutorily-prescribed statement informing potential buyers of the possible annoyances and inconveniences associated with living near an airport [see Civ. Code § 1353(a)(2) ("airport influence area" defined)].

- If the property is within the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission's jurisdiction and the declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, a statutory notice regarding the possible impact on the use and development of the property as a result of the Commission's regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements [Civ. Code § 1353(a)(3)].

The declaration may contain any other matters the original signatory of the declaration or the owners consider appropriate [Civ. Code § 1353(b)].

This form also incorporates the requirements of the Davis-Stirling Act that govern the following matters:

- Definitions [see Civ. Code § 1351; art. I of form].
- Exclusive use common areas [see Civ. Code § 1351(i); § 34.202[2], Sections 1.10, 2.05; see also § 34.33[7]].
- Transfers of separate interests [see Civ. Code § 1358; § 34.202[2], Section 2.08; see also § 34.33[5]].
- Partition [see Civ. Code § 1359; § 34.202[2], Section 2.04; see also § 34.33[8]].
- Rights and easements of ingress, egress, and support [see Civ. Code § 1361(a); § 34.202[2], Section 2.03(c); see also § 34.33[7]].
- Statement of delinquent assessments [see Civ. Code § 1368(b); § 34.202[2], Section 4.10].
- A statutory presumption regarding boundaries of units [see Civ. Code § 1371; § 34.202[2], Section 2.07; see also § 34.33[5]].

[ii] Subdivided Lands Act and Its Implementing Regulations

The Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.] requires a developer to obtain a public report before selling or leasing (or offering to sell or lease) subdivided lots [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2]. The numerous requirements for obtaining a public report are discussed in § 34.200[1]. Some of those requirements affect the organization and operation of the project and its owners' association, and therefore must be incorporated into the governing instruments. In fact, the Commissioner cannot issue a public report for a project unless he or she finds that "reasonable arrangements" have been or will be made to protect the interests of purchasers of condominiums in the project with respect to the management, maintenance, preservation, operation, use, right of resale, and control of the condominiums and other areas or interests in the project [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(e)]. The Commissioner has implemented this requirement by promulgating (1) a regulation that specifies the required subject matter of the governing instruments [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a); see also discussion below]; and (2) a set of "reasonable arrangement" regulations which, if substantially conformed to and reflected in the governing instruments, satisfy the "reasonable arrangement" requirement [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(b); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.15-2792.28; but see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32, discussed in § 34.202[1][d][iii]].

Drafters typically place the vast majority of the regulation-based provisions in the declaration, and the remainder in the bylaws [see § 34.202[1][c]]. Because the regulations are discussed throughout this chapter and have been incorporated into this form and the bylaws in § 34.205, they are not discussed at length in this comment. However, the following is a list of the required regulatory topics that are set forth in this form [see § 34.205[1][b][ii] (list of regulatory topics covered in compatible bylaws)], which includes citation to relevant regulations and, for the convenience of the attorney, relevant statutory provisions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8; see § 34.202[1][d][i], [iv]]:

- Creation of an organization (association) of condominium owners [see § 34.202[2], Art. III];
- A description of the common interests of the condominium owners or lessees [see § 34.202[2], Sections 2.03-2.05; see also Civ. Code §§ 1351(b), (c), (i), 1358, 1361, 1362];

- Transfer of title and/or control of common interests or of mutual and reciprocal rights of use to the owners in common or to the association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15; § 34.202[2], Section 2.03; see also Civ. Code § 1362; § 34.202[1][e][iv]];

- Procedures for calculating and collecting regular assessments from owners to defray expenses attributable to the ownership, operation, or furnishing of common interests or to the enjoyment of mutual and reciprocal rights of use [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16; § 34.202[2], Art. IV; see also Civ. Code § 1366; § 34.39];

- Procedures for establishing and collecting special assessments for capital improvements or for other purposes [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(e); § 34.202[2], Art. IV; see also Civ. Code § 1366; § 34.39[6]];

- Liens on privately owned condominiums for assessments levied pursuant to the declaration, and foreclosure of those liens for nonpayment [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.16(g); § 34.202[2], Section 4.09; see also Civ. Code § 1367.1; § 34.39[7]];

- Policies and procedures relating to the disciplining of members for failure to comply with provisions of the governing instruments [see Civ. Code § 1363(g); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26; § 34.202[2], Section 3.06(d); see also § 34.202[1][e][v]];

- Creation of a governing body for the association, which will be a board of directors if the association is incorporated [see § 34.202[2], Section 3.08; § 34.206[2], Art. III];

- Amendment procedures for those provisions of the governing instruments that relate to the ownership, management, and control of the association and/or the common interests [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; § 34.202[2], Art. XII; § 34.204[2], Art. IV; § 34.205[2], Art. XIII; see also Civ. Code §§ 1355, 1355.5, 1356; § 34.162];

- Conditions under which the condominium project may be partitioned pursuant to Civ. Code § 1359 [see § 34.202[2], Section 2.04; see also § 34.33[8]];

- Annexation of additional land to the existing project when appropriate [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.27; § 34.202[2], Art. XI; see also § 34.44[2]];

- Architectural and/or design control [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.28; § 34.202[2], Art. VI; see also § 34.202[1][e][vii]];

- Special provisions for enforcement of financial arrangements by the developer to secure performance of his or her commitment to complete common area improvements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.4; § 34.202[2], Section 3.07(c) (which sets forth the regulatory requirements in their entirety)]; and

- Granting of easements or use rights affecting the common areas [see § 34.202[2], Art. II; see also Civ. Code §§ 1351(i), 1361; § 34.33[7]].

[iii] Regulatory Exception for Master Planned Developments

Special regulatory requirements apply to master planned developments. A "master planned development" is (1) a "planned development" as defined by Civ. Code § 1351(k) [see Ch. 33D, Planned Developments], (2) consisting of 500 or more separate residential interests and one or more subdivisions, including planned developments, community apartment projects, stock cooperatives, time share projects, or other residential, recreational, commercial, or mixed residential/non-residential projects, (3) developed in two or more phases, and (4) managed by a community association that is responsible for maintaining and operating areas and/or facilities affecting the master planned development and enforcing the development's use restrictions. A development that does not satisfy all of these criteria may nonetheless be treated as a master planned development if the developer can demonstrate from specific facts and circumstances that it should be so treated [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(a)].

In recognition of the fact that control by the developer over the development's governing body and architectural control committee is ordinarily necessary until a reasonable portion of the project has been completed, the governing instruments of a Master Association must substantially conform to specified regulatory standards providing for the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(b)]:

- The transition of voting power from the developer, as a Class B member, to the transferors of separate interests, as Class A members, as more and more separate interests are transferred [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(c)];

- Division of the project into geographical districts each of which is individually represented by delegates to a Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(d)];

- Relaxed quorum requirements for adjourned meetings of the Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(e)];

- Ensuring that the developer has a majority of the voting power on the Master Association in the early stages of development with that power phased out over time and ultimately ceasing to exist on the occurrence of specified events [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(f)]; and

- Provision that, during the initial stages of development, the members of the Architectural Control committee need not be members of the Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(g)].

If the development will include any residential structure or other major special benefit facility or amenity that is to be commonly maintained or operated for the use or benefit of some but not all of the homeowners within the Master Planned Development, one or more separate homeowners' associations should be established within the development to maintain that structure or to maintain and operate the facility or amenity [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(h)].

The subdivider of a Master Planned Development may enter into an arrangement with the Master Association to sell or to convey common area amenities under a lease purchase arrangement to the Master Association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(j)]. All common area amenities subject to this arrangement must be (1) specifically identified and defined as "common area" or "future common areas" in the CC&Rs, (2) a part of the proposed Master Planned Development, (3) accessible to all homeowners who will be charged an assessment to pay for the amenity, and (4) located on a separate lot or parcel [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.32(j)(1)].

[iv] Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law

The vast majority of owners' associations for condominium projects are organized as nonprofit mutual benefit corporations [see § 34.38[1]]. The articles and bylaws of these corporations must comply with the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. Some of the "reasonable arrangement" regulations of the Real Estate Commissioner have recognized this by expressly incorporating the requirements of the Law [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19(b)(1) (cumulative voting requirements); see also Corp. Code § 7615; § 34.202[2], Section 3.04(e)] or by adopting requirements that are quite similar to their statutory counterparts [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23 (inspection of books and records); see also Corp. Code §§ 8330-8338; § 34.202[2], Section 3.09].

PRACTICE TIP:

Affect of Law on Declaration. As a practical matter, the declaration is not significantly affected by the Law because it focuses on the project itself rather than on the internal operation of the association [see § 34.202[1][c]]. However, the provisions of the declaration regarding membership and voting rights, and a few other miscellaneous provisions, are subject to the Law [see Corp. Code §§ 7310-7354 (members), 7610-7616 (voting of memberships)]. The provisions of the Law that have been incorporated into this form are included in the list set forth in § 34.202[1][d][ii]; for further discussion of the Law, see § 34.205[1].

[e] Particular Provisions of Form

[i] Boundaries of Unit

A condominium consists of an undivided interest in the common areas of the project and a "separate interest in space" (called a unit). The boundaries of the unit must be accurately described in a recorded subdivision map or condominium plan [Civ. Code § 1351(f); see § 34.32]. Unless the declaration or condominium plan provides otherwise, if walls, floors, or ceiling are designated as the boundaries, the interior surfaces of the perimeter walls, floors, ceilings, windows, doors, and outlets located within the separate interest are part of the separate interest and any other portions of the walls, floors, or ceilings are part of the common areas [Civ. Code § 1351(l)]. This form designates those interior surfaces as the boundaries of the condominium units [see § 34.202[2], Section 1.24].

If interior surfaces are utilized as boundaries, any unapproved work or act by an owner that penetrates an interior surface (e.g., hammering a nail into or denting a wall) could damage the common area beyond that surface and trigger the owners' association's obligation to repair the common area [see Rosenberry, "The Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act," Real Property Law Reporter, November 1985, p. 175]. To avoid this result, the declaration should make the owners responsible for any damage they cause to the common areas [see § 34.202[2], Section 2.03(h)].

The drafter should also make the owners responsible for maintaining the interior walls of their units, whether or not they are a part of the owners' separate interests [see § 34.202[2], Section 2.06]. This provision is authorized by Civ. Code § 1364. Under Section 1364, unless the declaration provides otherwise, the owners' association must repair, replace, and maintain the common areas, other than exclusive use common areas, while owners of separate interests must maintain their separate interests and appurtenant exclusive use common areas [Civ. Code § 1364(a); see Civ. Code § 1364(e); see also § 34.202[1][e][ii]].

The declaration should incorporate the statutory provision prohibiting owners from making any improvements or alterations within the boundaries of their separate units that would impair the structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any portion of the development [see Civ. Code § 1360(a)(1); § 34.202[2], Section 2.06].

In interpreting condominium plans, the existing physical boundaries of a unit in a condominium project, when the boundaries of the unit are contained within a building, or of a unit reconstructed in substantial accordance with its original plans, must be conclusively presumed to be its boundaries rather than the metes and bounds expressed in the deed or condominium plan, if any exists, regardless of settling or lateral movement of the building and regardless of minor variance between boundaries shown on the plan or in the deed and those of the building [Civ. Code § 1371].

[ii] Pest Control

The duty of an owners' association to repair, replace, or maintain the common areas [see Civ. Code § 1364(a); see also § 34.202[1][e][i]] specifically includes responsibility for the repair and maintenance of the common area occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms, unless the declaration provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1364(b)(1)]. The association may cause the temporary, summary removal of any occupant of the condominium project for any periods and at any times that are necessary for the prompt, effective treatment of the infestation [Civ. Code § 1364(d)(1)]. For these purposes, "occupant" means an owner, resident, guest, invitee, tenant, lessee, sublessee, or other person in possession of the unit [Civ. Code § 1364(e)].

The association must give each affected occupant and owner notice of the temporary relocation not less than 15 days nor more than 30 days before the date of the relocation. The notice must state (1) the reason for the temporary relocation, (2) the date and time of the beginning of treatment, (3) the anticipated date and time of termination of treatment, and (4) that the occupants will be responsible for their own accommodations during the temporary relocation [Civ. Code § 1364(d)(2)]. The notice must be transmitted in either of the following ways [Civ. Code § 1364(d)(3)]:

- By personal delivery of a copy of the notice to the occupants, and by sending a copy to the owners (if different than the occupants) by first-class mail (postage prepaid) at the most current address shown on the books of the association; or

- By sending a copy to the occupants at the separate interest address, and a copy to the owners (if different than the occupants) by first-class mail, postage prepaid, at the most current address shown on the books of the association.

[iii] Condemnation, Damage, and Destruction

The governing instruments must describe the action to be taken and procedures to be followed in the event of condemnation, destruction, or extensive damage to the interests in the condominium project [see § 34.202[2], Arts. VIII (damage or destruction) and IX (eminent domain)]. These procedures must include provisions governing the use and disposition of insurance proceeds or damages payable to the association or to a trustee on behalf of the owners due to the condemnation, destruction, or damage [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(21)].

[iv] Transfer of Common Area and Facilities to Association

In the vast majority of condominium projects, the owners of the condominiums own the common area as tenants in common [see Civ. Code § 1362; see also § 34.33[7]]. If all or a portion of the common area and facilities are to be transferred to the association, those areas and facilities must be transferred to the association or to a corporate trustee under a trust agreement acceptable to the Commissioner before or coincident with the first transfer or conveyance of an interest in the project by the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15(a)].

The developer may create a contractual right in himself or herself or may reserve easements of limited duration, for common driveway purposes, for drainage and encroachment purposes, and for ingress to and egress from the common areas for the purpose of completing improvements on those areas, to perform necessary repair work, and, in the case of phased projects, for entry onto adjacent property in connection with the development of additional phases of the overall project [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.15(b); see § 34.202[2], Section 2.03(e)].

[v] Disciplining of Members by Association

The governing instruments must provide for the disciplining of members by the association for failure of the members to comply with the governing instruments or the rules and regulations for the project. However, the discipline cannot consist of the forfeiture or abridgement of an owner's right to the full use and enjoyment of his or her separately owned condominium unless that disciplinary action is taken pursuant to a court judgment or an arbitrator's decision, or on account of a foreclosure or sale under a power of sale for failure to pay assessments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(a)].

The disciplinary provisions in the governing instruments must authorize the governing body to impose monetary penalties, temporary suspensions of an owner's rights as an association member, or other appropriate discipline [10 Cal.

Code Reg. § 2792.26(b)].

A monetary penalty imposed by the association as a disciplinary measure may not be characterized or treated in the governing instruments as an assessment that may become a lien against the member's interest enforceable by a sale of the interest under Civ. Code §§ 2924, 2924b, and 2924c [Civ. Code § 1367.1(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(c)]. This prohibition on nonjudicial foreclosure does not apply to reasonable late charges for delinquent assessments, and other costs incurred in collecting delinquent assessments, including attorney's fees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.26(d)]. Nor does it apply to monetary penalties assessed to reimburse the association for the cost of repairing damage to common areas and facilities for which the member or the member's guests or tenants is responsible [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)].

If the association adopts or has adopted a policy imposing any monetary penalty, including any fee, on any association member for violating the governing documents or association rules, including any monetary penalty related to guest or invitee activities, the board of directors must adopt and distribute to each member, by personal delivery or first-class mail, a schedule of the penalties that may be assessed. The schedule must be in accordance with the general authorization for member discipline contained in the governing documents [Civ. Code § 1363(g)].

When the board schedules a meeting to consider or impose discipline, the member must be notified in writing, by personal delivery or first-class mail, at least 10 days before the meeting. At a minimum, the notice must include (1) the date, time, and place of the meeting, (2) the nature of the alleged violation, and (3) a statement that the member has a right to attend and address the board at the meeting. The board must meet in executive session if the member so requests [Civ. Code § 1363(h)].

If the board imposes discipline on a member, the member must be notified of the disciplinary action in writing by personal delivery or first-class mail within 15 days following the action. Any disciplinary action will be ineffective unless the board complies with these notice and meeting requirements [Civ. Code § 1363(h); see § 34.202[2], Section 3.06(d); see also Civ. Code § 1363(j)].

[vi] Use Restrictions and Covenants

Owners' associations have the authority to formulate rules of operation of the common areas and facilities owned or controlled by the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(a)(7)]. Rules and regulations governing the use of common areas are often prepared after the owners have assumed control of the association so that the owners may impose their own use restrictions [see § 34.208[1]].

PRACTICE TIP:

Declaration Should Include Appropriate Use Restrictions. Although developers usually recognize the importance to the owners of this form of self-government, the declaration should include any use restrictions that the developer deems to be essential to the desirability and marketability of the project. Obviously, these restrictions must be tailored to fit the circumstances of a particular project [see § 34.202[2], Art. V].

[vii] Architectural and Design Control

A condominium project must have a committee for the control of structural and landscaping architecture and design [see § 34.202[2], Art. VI]. These committees are referred to in the Commissioner's regulations as Architectural Control Committees. The committee must consist of not less than three or more than five members. The developer may appoint all of the original members of the committee and all replacements until the first anniversary of the issuance of the original public report for the first (or only) phase of the project. Further, the developer may reserve the power to appoint a majority of the members of the committee until 90 percent of the condominiums in the project have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the first (or only) phase of the project, whichever occurs first [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.28(a), (b); see § 34.202[2], Section 6.02].

After one year from the date of issuance of the original public report for the first (or only) phase of the project, the board of directors of the association must have the power to appoint one member of the committee until 90 percent of all of the condominiums in the project have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the first (or only) phase of the project, whichever occurs first. Thereafter, the board must have the power to appoint all of the members of the committee [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.28(c); see § 34.202[2], Section 6.02].

If an association's governing documents require association approval before an owner of a separate interest may make a physical change to his or her interest or to the common area, then the governing documents must [Civ. Code § 1378]:

- Provide a fair, reasonable, and expeditious procedure for making its decision, which must (1) provide for prompt deadlines, and (2) state the maximum time for response to an application or a request for reconsideration by the board of directors;

- Provide that the decision on the proposed changes must be in writing and made in good faith, and may not be unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious; and

- Provide that if a proposed change is disapproved, that (1) the written decision of disapproval include both an explanation of why the proposed change is disapproved and a description of the procedure for reconsideration of the decision by the board, and (2) the applicant is entitled to reconsideration by the board at an open meeting of the board (provided, however, that reconsideration of a decision that is made by the board or a body that has the same membership as the board will not be required if the decision was rendered at a meeting that satisfies the requirements of Civ. Code § 1363.05).

[viii] Solar Energy Systems

An association may impose reasonable provisions that accomplish the following [Civ. Code § 714.1; see Civ. Code § 714]:

- Restrict the installation of solar energy systems installed in the common area to those systems approved by the association.

- Require the owner of a condominium (or comparable separate interest) to obtain the approval of the association for the installation of a solar energy system in a condominium owned by another [see § 34.202[2], Section 5.01(j); see also Civ. Code § 714(e) (discussed below)].

- Provide for the maintenance, repair, or replacement of roofs or other building components.

- Require the installer of a solar energy system to indemnify or reimburse the association or its members for loss or damage caused by the installation, maintenance, or use of the solar energy system.

Additional and alternative statutory requirements relating to solar energy systems apply to any deed, contract, security instrument, or other instrument affecting the transfer or sale of, or any interest in, real property [see Civ. Code § 714; see also Civ. Code § 714.1 (requirements discussed above governing provisions imposed by associations apply notwithstanding the general statutory requirements discussed below)]. Specifically, any covenant, restriction, or condition in any of these instruments, as well as any provision in a governing document [see Civ. Code § 1351(j)], that effectively prohibits or restricts the installation or use of a solar energy system is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 714(a); see Civ. Code § 801.5 ("solar energy system" defined)]. This requirement does not apply to provisions that impose reasonable restrictions on solar energy systems. Reasonable restrictions are those that do not "significantly" increase the cost of the system or "significantly" decrease its efficiency or specified performance, or that allow for an alternative system of comparable cost, efficiency, and energy conservation benefits [Civ. Code § 714(b)]; see Civ. Code § 714(d)(1) ("significantly" defined)].

Whenever approval is required for the installation or use of such a system, the application for approval must be processed and approved by the appropriate entity in the same manner as an application for approval of an architectural modification to the property [see § 34.202[1][e][vii]], and must not be willfully avoided or delayed [Civ. Code § 714(e)(1)]. If the approving entity is a homeowners' association, and not a public entity, the decision on an application must be in writing. If a written denial is not issued within 60 days, the application will be deemed approved, unless the delay is the result of a reasonable request for additional information [Civ. Code § 714(e)(2)].

For water heating solar energy systems, both the solar energy system and its installation must be certified by the Solar Rating Certification Corporation, which is a nonprofit third-party supported by the United States Department of Energy, or some other nationally-recognized certification agency [Civ. Code § 714(c)].

A solar energy system for producing electricity must also meet all applicable safety and performance standards established by the National Electrical Code, the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, and accredited testing laboratories such as Underwriters Laboratories and, where applicable, rules of the Public Utilities Commission regarding safety and reliability [Civ. Code § 714(c)].

A covenant, condition, or restriction is void and unenforceable if it effectively prohibits or restricts a separate interest owner from (1) installing or using a video or television antenna, including a satellite dish, that is 36 inches or less in diameter or measured diagonally; or (2) attaching that antenna or dish to a structure within the development when the antenna is not visible from any street or common area [Civ. Code § 1376(a)].

This does not preclude an association from imposing reasonable restrictions on the installation or use of an antenna or dish with a diameter or diagonal measurement of 36 inches or less [Civ. Code § 1376(a)]. "Reasonable restrictions" are restrictions that do not significantly increase the cost of the antenna or dish system or significantly decrease the efficiency and performance of the system [Civ. Code § 1376(b)]. All of the following are reasonable restrictions [Civ. Code § 1376(b)]:

- Requiring application and notice to the association before installation.

- Requiring a separate interest owner to obtain the association's approval before installing a system on a separate interest owned by another.

- Making adequate provision for maintaining, repairing, or replacing roofs or other building components necessitated by the installation and use of the system.

- Requiring the installers to indemnify or reimburse the association or its members for loss or damage caused by the installation, maintenance, or use of the system.

Applications for approval to install or use an antenna or satellite dish must be processed in the same manner as an application for approval of an architectural modification. The architectural control committee may not willfully delay issuing its decision [Civ. Code § 1376(c)]. The prevailing party is entitled to attorneys' fees in any action related to enforcement of a covenant, condition, or restriction dealing with the installation or use of television antennas and satellite dishes [Civ. Code § 1376(d)].

[x] Controls Related to Keeping Pets

Neither the declaration nor any other governing document (including the development's CC&Rs and the association's bylaws and rules and regulations) entered into, amended, or otherwise modified after 2000 may prohibit an owner of a separate interest in a common interest development from keeping at least one pet within the development, subject to any reasonable rules and regulations of the association. For these purposes, "pet" means any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept in an aquarium, or other animal as agreed-to between the association and the homeowner. If the association implements a rule or regulation restricting the number of pets an owner may keep, the new rule or regulation will not apply retroactively to prohibit an owner from continuing to keep any pet that he or she currently keeps, provided the pet otherwise conforms to any previous pet restrictions [Civ. Code § 1360.5].

[xi] Rights of Mortgagees

Article X of this form lists several rights of mortgagees of condominiums in the project. Lenders almost inevitably insist that the declaration include a set of lender-drafted mortgagee protections [see § 34.45[7]]. Thus, the attorney should not copy the provisions set forth in Article X of this form. Instead, those provisions should be used as a guide to the scope and complexity of the requirements typically imposed by lenders.

Because these mortgagee protection requirements may (and often do) conflict with the requirements of the Department of Real Estate (DRE), the developer may be forced to work out a compromise with the lender and the DRE. This should not be a particularly difficult process because most lenders have had sufficient dealings with California borrowers to know what will be acceptable to the DRE. In any event, the attorney should seek the permission of the DRE to include such provisions in the declaration before submitting the document to the Department for its approval.

[xii] General Requirements Regarding Insurance

The owners' association of a condominium project should obtain fire and casualty insurance, general liability insurance [see § 34.202[1][e][xiii]], and other insurance protecting the project and its owners. The developer and attorney should discuss the specifics of the coverage with an insurance adviser. Because lenders and carriers play a vital role in determining what insurance will be maintained by the association, declarations typically set forth very general, minimal requirements governing insurance coverage.

This form reflects two common approaches regarding the handling of fire and casualty insurance. Under the first approach, the association is required to obtain blanket fire and casualty insurance for all improvements in the project, and the owners are prohibited from obtaining their own fire and casualty insurance. This method is usually used when the project consists of a multiunit structure or structures. Under the second approach, each owner must obtain fire and casualty insurance for his or her improvements, while the owners' association insures its improvements [see § 34.202[2], Art. VII]. The attorney should use those approaches and provisions simply as a guide to the structure and scope of the declaration insurance provisions commonly dictated by lenders and carriers.

For discussion of insurance maintained by an owners' association, see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 385, Homeowners' Associations , Pt. C (Matthew Bender).

[xiii] Liability Insurance and Limitations on Liability of Volunteer Directors and Officers

General liability insurance (also referred to as "public liability" insurance) includes all forms of liability insurance except workers' compensation or employer's liability insurance [see § 34.202[2], Section 7.03 (providing for workers' compensation insurance)] and automobile liability insurance [see California Insurance Law & Practice, Ch. 41, Liability Insurance in General (Matthew Bender)]. Before drafting the general liability insurance provision, counsel should become familiar with the requirements of the Davis-Stirling Act regarding the potential personal liability of volunteer officers or directors.

The Davis-Stirling Act provides limited immunity from personal liability for a volunteer officer or volunteer director of an owners' association that manages a condominium project or other common-interest development that is exclusively residential. Specifically, the officer or director will not be personally liable in excess of the insurance coverage specified in Civ. Code § 1356.7(a)(4) (discussed below) to any person who suffers injury (including bodily injury, emotional distress, wrongful death, or property damage or loss) as a result of the tortious act or omission of the officer or director if all of the following criteria are met [Civ. Code § 1365.7(a)]:

- The act or omission was performed within the scope of the officer's or director's association duties, which include, but are not limited to, (1) whether to investigate the development for latent defects before the applicable statute of limitations expires, and (2) whether to commence a civil action against the builder for design or construction defects [Civ. Code § 1365.7(f); see Code Civ. Proc. § 337.15 (statute of limitations for latent construction defects)].

- The act or omission was performed in good faith.

- The act or omission was not willful, wanton, or grossly negligent.

- The association maintained and had in effect at the time the act or omission occurred and at the time the claim was made one or more policies of insurance that included coverage for both of the following: (1) general liability of the association; and (2) individual liability of officers and directors of the association for negligent acts or omissions in that capacity. Both types of coverage must have been in the following minimum amount (as applicable): (a) at least $500,000 if the project consists of 100 or fewer condominium units (or comparable separate interests), and (b) at least $1,000,000 if the project consists of more than 100 condominiums [see Civ. Code § 1365.7(a)(4); see also § 34.202[2], Section 7.02 (provision incorporates above requirements)].

To qualify for this statutory limitation on liability, the volunteer officer or director must be (1) an owner of no more than two condominiums in the project, or (2) a tenant of a condominium in the project [Civ. Code § 1365.7(e)]. An officer or director is not a volunteer for these purposes if, at the time of the act or omission, he or she was a declarant (that is, developer) [see Civ. Code § 1351(g) ("declarant" defined)] or received either direct or indirect compensation as an employee from the declarant or from a financial institution that purchased a condominium at a judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure of a mortgage or trust deed on real property [Civ. Code § 1365.7(c)]. However, the payment of actual expenses incurred by a director or officer in the execution of the duties of that position does not affect the director's or officer's status as a volunteer for these purposes [Civ. Code § 1365.7(b)].

These requirements of Civ. Code § 1365.7 do not limit the liability of the owners' association for its negligent acts or omissions or for negligent acts or omissions of the officers or directors of the association [Civ. Code § 1365.7(d)]. Further, Civ. Code § 1365.6 does not provide immunity for individual owners of condominium units who are not volunteer officers or directors. By its unambiguous terms, the statute is applicable only to volunteer directors and officers [Ruoff v. Harbor Creek Community Ass'n (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1624, 1629, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755] . However, liability of individual owners of separate interests can be limited if the association acquires and maintains similar specified insurance coverage as discussed in § 34.202[1][f].

[f] Limiting Tort Liability of Individual Owners of Separate Interests

If the association is willing to meet specified requirements for general liability insurance coverage, owners of separate interests will be shielded from liability stemming from tort actions that arise solely by reason of the separate owners' interests as tenants in common in the common area of the development. Specifically, the association must maintain and have in effect for a specific cause of action, one or more policies covering the association's general liability for at least $2 million if the development consists of 100 or fewer separate interests, and at least $3 million if the development is larger than 100 separate interests [Civ. Code § 1365.9(b)].

[g] Covenants and Restrictions in Declaration

The covenants and restrictions in the declaration will be enforceable equitable servitudes, unless unreasonable, and will inure to the benefit of and bind all owners of separate interests in the project [Civ. Code § 1354(a)]. The phrase "unless unreasonable" as used above places the burden of proof on any person who claims that the covenants and restrictions are unreasonable and unenforceable [see also Civ. Code § 1352.5 (prohibiting restrictive covenants that promote unlawful fair housing practices detailed in Gov. Code § 12955)]. Unless the declaration states otherwise, its servitudes may be enforced by any owner of a condominium or by the association [Civ. Code § 1354(a); see § 34.202[2], Section 5.04; see also § 34.202[1][m]]. In any action to enforce the declaration, the prevailing party will be awarded reasonable attorneys' fees and costs [Civ. Code § 1354; see § 34.202[2], Section 13.03].

If the declaration is (1) recorded before the execution of a contract of sale of any interests in the development, (2) describes the property it is to govern, and (3) states that it is to bind all purchasers and their successors, a subsequent purchaser who has constructive notice of the recorded declaration is deemed to intend and agree to be bound by, and to accept the benefits of, the common plan established by the declaration, including the covenants and restrictions, notwithstanding that the declaration is not additionally cited in a deed or other document at the time of sale to the subsequent purchaser [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

For a discussion of covenants, restrictions, and equitable servitudes, see Ch. 28C, Covenants, Conditions, and Restrictions .

[h] Liberal Construction of Declaration

Any declaration for a condominium project will be liberally construed to facilitate the operation of the project, and its provisions will be presumed to be independent and severable [Civ. Code § 1370; see § 34.202[2], Section 13.04]. The rule against perpetuities [Prob. Code § 21200 et seq. (Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities); see Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities] will not invalidate any provision of the declaration or other governing documents of a condominium project [see Civ. Code § 1370].

[i] Amendment of Declaration

Under the Subdivided Lands Act, the Real Estate Commissioner must give his or her prior consent to a proposed amendment to a declaration if the following apply: (1) the amendment would materially change the rights of the condominium owners, and (2) it is proposed when the developer or the developer's successor in interest holds or directly controls as many as one-fourth of the votes that may be cast to effect that change [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7; see also § 34.162, PP 1, 2]. Whether or not the proposed amendment is subject to that consent requirement, the implementing regulations of the Subdivided Lands Act require amendments to be approved by a certain percentage of the members [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; see also § 34.162, P 3].

The Davis-Stirling Act normally requires amendments to be approved by the percentage of owners specified in the declaration (or other governing documents) [see Civ. Code § 1355(a); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24]. However, if that approval cannot be obtained, the association or any owner of a condominium may, under certain circumstances, petition the superior court for an order approving the amendment [see Civ. Code § 1356; § 34.162, P 3]. An alternative amendment procedure must be used when the proposed amendment involves the deletion from any of the governing documents of a provision that relates to the construction or marketing of the development [see Civ. Code § 1355.5; see also § 34.162, P 5; § 34.202[2], Section 12.04]. Finally, an additional statutory procedure may be used to amend a declaration that neither prohibits nor expressly permits amendments [see Civ. Code § 1355(b); see also § 34.162, P 3].

[j] Recordation

The declaration is one of the documents that must be recorded as a prerequisite to the creation of a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Act [Civ. Code § 1352; see § 34.144, P 2 (complete list of required documents)]. Ordinarily, the declaration should not be recorded until it has been reviewed by the Real Estate Commissioner [see § 34.202[1][k]].

[k] Filing With Real Estate Commissioner

A "substantially complete" application for a final public report [see § 34.200[1][e][iii]] must include proposed or existing covenants, conditions, and restrictions for the condominium project [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792(a)(7), 2792.1(a)(1), (2)]. The Department of Real Estate urges applicants to refrain from recording the declaration until after it is reviewed by DRE [see § 34.200[2], P 66]. Regardless of the timing of this submission, the applicant must submit a copy of the final declaration bearing evidence of its recordation before DRE will issue a final public report [see § 34.200[2], PP 65, 67].

[l] Statutory Extension of Term of Declaration

This form provides for automatic extensions of its expiration date until the membership decides to terminate it [see § 34.202[2], Section 13.01]. If a declaration specifies a termination date but contains no provision for the extension of that date, the declaration may be extended by the approval of owners having more than 50 percent of the votes in the association or any greater percentage specified in the declaration for amendments. If the declaration requires that amendments be approved by owners having more than 50 percent of the votes, the term of the declaration may be extended, and the amended "term" provision of the declaration must be recorded, in accordance with the statutory provisions for amending the declaration [Civ. Code § 1357(b), (c); see Civ. Code § 1356].

Any single extension of the term of the declaration made pursuant to the above statutory procedure cannot exceed the initial term of the declaration or 20 years, whichever is less. However, there is no limit on the number of such statutory extensions [Civ. Code § 1357(d)].

[m] Disputes Relating to Enforcement of Declaration

An association must provide a fair, reasonable, and expeditious procedure for resolving, inter alia, disputes related to the declaration [Civ. Code § 1363.820(a); see generally Civ. Code § 1363.810 et seq.]. This relatively informal procedure supplements and does not replace the more formal alternative dispute resolution (ADR) procedure described below and prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq. For further coverage of the statutory requirements for the intra-association dispute resolution procedure, see § 34.34. For a procedure that meets these requirements, see § 34.202[2], Section 3.10.

If neither party requests resort to the intra-association dispute resolution procedure or if that procedure fails to resolve dispute, parties must engage in the formal ADR procedure prescribed by Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq. before filing civil enforcement action that is solely for declaratory, injunctive, or writ relief, or for that relief in conjunction with a claim for monetary damages not in excess of the small claims court jurisdictional limit. The formal ADR process is not a prerequisite for a small claims action, and does not apply to an assessment dispute [Civ. Code § 1369.520; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220, 116.221 (jurisdiction of small claims court)]. For additional discussion, see § 34.35.

THIS DECLARATION is made on_____[date], by_____[name of declarant] ("Declarant"), _____ [describe legal status of declarant, e.g., a California Corporation].

RECITALS

A. Declarant is the owner of that certain real property located in the City of _____, County of _____, State of California, and more particularly described on Exhibit "_____" attached to and made a part of this Declaration [or in that certain Condominium Plan entitled "_____," recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, State of California, on_____[date], in Book _____ of Maps at Pages _____ through _____ ("Plan") or as Tract No. _____, on the Subdivision Map recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, State of California, on_____[date], in Book _____ of Maps at Pages _____ through _____] ("Property").

B. Declarant intends to subdivide the Property into condominium estates subject to the provisions of the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act contained in Division II, Part 4, Title 6 of the California Civil Code, [and] to establish a plan of condominium ownership for the benefit of all the condominium estates created [, and to provide for the annexation of additional real property to the Property].

C. In furtherance of this intent, Declarant hereby declares that all of the Property is and shall continue to be held, conveyed, hypothecated, encumbered, leased, rented, used, occupied, and improved subject to the declarations, limitations, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, and easements set forth in this Declaration, as this Declaration may be amended from time to time, all of which are declared and agreed to be in furtherance of a plan established for the purpose of enhancing and perfecting the value, desirability, and attractiveness of the Property. All provisions of this Declaration shall constitute covenants running with the land and enforceable equitable servitudes upon the Property, and shall be binding on and for the benefit of all of the Property and all parties having or acquiring any right, title, or interest in all or any part of the Property, including the heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns of these parties and all subsequent owners and lessees of all or any part of a Condominium.

[If property is located in airport influence area and declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, include following statement. See Civ. Code § 1353(a) .]

NOTICE OF AIRPORT IN VICINITY

This property is presently located in the vicinity of an airport, within what is known as an airport influence area. For that reason, the property may be subject to some of the annoyances or inconveniences associated with proximity to airport operations (for example: noise, vibration, or odors). Individual sensitivities to those annoyances can vary from person to person. You may wish to consider what airport annoyances, if any, are associated with the property before you complete your purchase and determine whether they are acceptable to you.

[If property is located within San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission's jurisdiction and declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, include following statutory notice. See Civ. Code § 1353(a)(3).]

NOTICE OF SAN FRANCISCO BAY CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION JURISDICTION

This property is located within the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Use and development of property within the commission's jurisdiction may be subject to special regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements. You may wish to investigate and determine whether they are acceptable to you and your intended use of the property before you complete your transaction.

ARTICLE I. DEFINITIONS

"Articles"

Section 1.01. "Articles" means the Articles of Incorporation of_____[name of owners' association] and any amendments thereto that are or shall be filed in the Office of the Secretary of State of the State of California.

"Association"

Section 1.02. "Association" means_____[name of owners' association], a California nonprofit mutual benefit corporation.

"Board"

Section 1.03. "Board" means the Board of Directors of the Association.

"Bylaws"

Section 1.04. "Bylaws" means the Bylaws of the Association and amendments thereto that are or shall be adopted by the Board.

"Common Area"

Section 1.05. "Common Area" means the entire Project except all Units as defined in this Declaration or as shown on the Condominium Plan.

"Condominium"

Section 1.06. "Condominium" means an estate in real property consisting of a fee interest in a Unit, the boundaries of which are shown and described on the Condominium Plan, a fractional undivided interest as a tenant in common in the Common Area of the Project, a Membership in the Association, and any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Unit. The fractional undivided interest appurtenant to each Unit shall be an undivided _____ [specify percentage, which is commonly equal to the percent of the total living space in the project that is allocated to the owner's unit] percent interest in the Common Area.

"Condominium Plan"

Section 1.07. "Condominium Plan" means that condominium plan_____[described in Recital A of this Declaration or attached to this Declaration as Exhibit _____] and any amendments thereto.

"Declarant"

Section 1.08. "Declarant" means_____[name of developer] and its successors and assigns.

"Declaration"

Section 1.09. "Declaration" means this Declaration and any amendments thereto.

"Exclusive Use Common Area"

Section 1.10. "Exclusive Use Common Area" means those portions of the Common Area reserved for the exclusive use of one or more of the Owners pursuant to Section 2.06 of this Declaration.

"Governing Instruments"

Section 1.11. "Governing Instruments" means this Declaration, the Articles and Bylaws of the Association, and any Rules and Regulations of the Project.

"Manager"

Section 1.12. "Manager" means any person or entity appointed by the Board to manage the Project.

"Member"

Section 1.13. "Member" means every person or entity entitled to membership in the Association as provided in this Declaration.

"Mortgage" and "First Mortgage"

Section 1.14. "Mortgage" means a mortgage or deed of trust encumbering a Condominium or any other portion of the Project. "First Mortgage" means a mortgage that has priority over all other mortgages encumbering the same Condominium or other portions of the Project.

"Mortgagee" and Related Terms

Section 1.15. "Mortgagee" means a Person to whom a Mortgage is made and includes the beneficiary of a deed of trust and any guarantor or insurer of a mortgage. "Institutional Mortgagee" means a mortgagee that is a financial intermediary or depository, such as a bank, savings and loan, or mortgage company, that is chartered under federal or state law and that lends money on the security of real property or invests in such loans, or any insurance company or governmental agency or instrumentality, including the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA), the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC), and the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA). "First Mortgagee" means a mortgagee that has priority over all other mortgages or holders of mortgages encumbering the same Condominium or other portions of the Project. The term "Beneficiary" shall be synonymous with the term "Mortgagee."

"Mortgagor" and "Trustor"

Section 1.16. "Mortgagor" means a Person who mortgages his, her, or its property to another (i.e., the maker of a mortgage), and shall include the trustor of a deed of trust. The term "Trustor" shall be synonymous with the term "Mortgagor."

"Owner"

Section 1.17. "Owner" means the record holder or holders of record fee title to a Condominium, including Declarant, and any contract sellers under recorded contracts of sale. "Owner" shall not include any persons or entities who hold an interest in a Condominium merely as security for performance of an obligation.

"Person"

Section 1.18. "Person" means a natural individual, a corporation, or any other entity with the legal right to hold title to real property.

"Plan"

Section 1.19. "Plan" means the condominium plan entitled "_____" [insert name shown on condominium plan], filed in the records of _____ County, California, in Book _____ of Maps at Pages _____ through _____.

"Project"

Section 1.20. "Project" means the entire parcel of real property described on the Plan [add if declaration will contain annexation provisions: and in any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration] and all improvements thereon.

"Property"

Section 1.21. "Property" means the real property described in the Recitals [and in any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration].

"Rules and Regulations"

Section 1.22. "Rules and Regulations" means any Rules and Regulations for_____[name of project] regulating the use of the Common Area and adopted by the Association pursuant to Section 3.06(b) of this Declaration.

"Subdivision Map"

Section 1.23. "Subdivision Map" means the recorded map described in _____ [the Recitals or Exhibit _____] [and any subdivision map recorded in connection with the annexation of additional real property to the Project pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration].

"Unit"

Section 1.24. "Unit" means that portion of a Condominium that consists of a feeinterest in a Unit. "Unit" does not include the other elements of a Condominium. Each Unit shall be a separate freehold estate, as separately shown, numbered, and designated in the Condominium Plan [or any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration]. Each Unit consists of a living area space or spaces bounded by and contained within the interior unfinished surfaces of the perimeter walls, floors, ceilings, windows, and doors (including the wall coverings and floor coverings), as shown on the Condominium Plan.

ARTICLE II. THE PROPERTY

Project Subject to Declaration

Section 2.01. The entire Project shall be subject to this Declaration.

Annexation of Additional Property

Section 2.02. Additional property may be annexed to the Project, but only as provided in Article XI of this Declaration.

Common Area

Section 2.03. The following provisions govern the use and enjoyment of the Common Area:

(a) The Association shall have an easement in, to, and throughout the Common Area and its improvements to perform its duties and exercise its powers.

(b) Except as provided in this Declaration, there shall be no judicial partition of the Common Area, nor shall Declarant or any person acquiring an interest in all or any part of the Project seek any judicial partition.

(c) Subject to the provisions of this Declaration, each Owner has nonexclusive rights of ingress, egress, and support through the Common Area. These rights shall be appurtenant to and shall pass with title to every Condominium. However, these rights shall not interfere with, and shall be subordinate to, any exclusive right to use an Exclusive Use Common Area.

(d) The Members' rights of use and enjoyment of the Common Area shall be subject to the restrictions set forth in the Governing Instruments, including the following:

(1) The right of the Association to adopt and enforce Rules and Regulations for the use of the Common Area.

(2) The right of the Association to reasonably limit the number of guests and tenants using the Common Area.

(3) The right of the Association to assign or otherwise control the use of any unassigned parking spaces within the Common Area.

(4) The right of the Association to suspend the right of any Owner, and the Persons deriving rights from any Owner, to use and enjoy the Common Area for any period during which the Owner is delinquent in the payment of any assessment.

(5) The right of the Association to cause the construction of additional improvements in the Common Area, or to cause the alteration or removal of existing improvements on the Common Area.

(6) The right of the Association to grant, consent to, or join in the grant or conveyance of easements, licenses, or rights-of-way in, on, or over the Common Area.

(7) The right of each Owner to the exclusive use of any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Owner's Unit.

(8) The rights of Declarant as described in this Declaration.

(9) The right of the Association to reasonably restrict access to roofs, maintenance facilities or areas, landscaped areas, and similar areas of the Project.

(10) The right of the Architectural Control Committee to approve any proposed alteration or modification to the Common Area or any Unit.

(e) Declarant hereby reserves easements for common driveway purposes, for drainage and encroachment purposes, and for ingress to and egress from the Common Area. These easements may be used to complete improvements on the Common Area [and] to perform necessary repair work [add in the case of a phased development:, and for entry onto adjacent property in connection with the development of additional phases of the overall Project]. These easements shall remain in effect_____[specify reasonable limit, e.g., for three years from the date of closing of the first sale of a Unit in the Project].

(f) The Association may grant to third parties easements in, on, and over the Common Area for the purpose of constructing, installing, or maintaining necessary utilities and services, and each Unit Owner, in accepting his or her deed to the Unit, expressly consents to these easements. However, no such easement can be granted if it would interfere with any exclusive easement, or with any Owner's use, occupancy, or enjoyment of his or her Unit or any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Unit.

(g) A Class A Owner who has sold his or her Condominium to a contract purchaser or who has leased or rented the Condominium shall be entitled to delegate his or her rights to use and enjoy the Common Area to any contract purchaser, tenant, or subtenant who resides in the Owner's Condominium, subject to reasonable regulation by the Board. If the Owner makes such a delegation ofrights, the Owner and the Owner's family, guests, employees, and invitees shall not be entitled to use and enjoy the Common Area for so long as the delegation remains effective.

(h) Each Owner shall be liable to the Association for any damage to the Common Area or to Association-owned property, to the extent that the damage is not covered by insurance, if the damage is sustained because of the negligence, willful misconduct, or unauthorized or improper installment or maintenance of any improvement by the Owner or the Owner's family, guests, tenants, contract purchasers, or invitees. In the case of joint ownership of a Condominium, the liability of the co-owners shall be joint and several, unless the co-owners and the Association have agreed in writing to an alternative allocation of liability.

Partition

Section 2.04. There shall be no judicial partition of the Project or any part of it, nor shall Declarant or any person acquiring an interest in the Project or any part of it seek any judicial partition, except as follows:

(a) If two or more persons own any Condominium as tenants in common or as joint tenants they may maintain a partition action as to their cotenancy.

(b) The Owner of a Condominium may maintain a partition action as to the entire Project, as if all of the Owners in the Project were tenants in common in the Project in the same proportion as their interests in the Common Area, and an appropriate court shall order partition by sale of the entire Project, on a showing of any of the following:

(1) The Project has been in existence for more than 50 years and is obsolete and uneconomical, and owners holding (in the aggregate) more than a 50 percent interest in the common area oppose repair or restoration of the Project.

(2) The Project has been damaged or destroyed and the other criteria set forth in Section 8.03 of this Declaration have been satisfied.

Exclusive Use Common Areas

Section 2.05. The portions of the Common Area listed below are or shall be for the exclusive use of certain Owners of Units and shall be appurtenant to those Units. An Exclusive Use Common Area may [not] be transferred independently of any other interest of the Owner [consider adding if exclusive use common area may be transferred independently:, but only to other Owners]. Additional Exclusive Use Common Areas may be designated in the future by the Association, provided that the designation is not inconsistent with the rights of any Owner.

[Describe exclusive use common areas and specify any such areas that are not to be maintained by the owner(s), e.g.:]

(a) Each Owner shall have the exclusive right to use, for parking purposes only, any parking space or spaces that _____ (have been and/or will be) allocated to the Owner's Unit on _____ (the Condominium Plan or Exhibit _____) attached to this Declaration.

(b) Each Owner shall have the exclusive right to use, for any reasonable purpose, any backyard area that is designated as the backyard area for his or her Unit on _____ (the Condominium Plan or Exhibit _____) attached to this Declaration. The Owner shall be responsible for keeping that area in good condition and repair; provided, however, that the Association shall be responsible for maintaining any fence surrounding the area and shall add any costs of that maintenance to the Owner's regular monthly assessment.

(c) All of the following fixtures and items designed to serve a single Unit, but located outside the boundaries of the Unit, are Exclusive Use Common Areas allocated exclusively to that separate interest: _____ (list any of the following that are to be exclusive use common areas: shutters, awnings, window boxes, doorsteps, stoops, porches, balconies, patios, exterior doors, door frames, and hardware incident thereto, screens, and windows). These items are to be maintained in good condition and repair by the _____ (Owner or Association). (Add if owner is responsible for maintenance: However, the Owner shall not be responsible for periodic structural repairs, including resurfacing, sealing, caulking, replacement, or painting of the Exclusive Use Common Area unless the repairs are necessitated by the willful or negligent acts of the Owner or the Owner's family or guests.) Any maintenance costs shall be the responsibility of the Owner and shall be added to the Owner's regular monthly assessment. (The following related fixtures and items designed to serve a single Unit are not Exclusive Use Common Areas: _____ (list any of the items in the above list that are to be excluded).)

(d) All internal and external telephone wiring designed to serve a single Unit, but located outside the boundaries of the Unit, are Exclusive Use Common Areas allocated exclusively to that Unit. The Owner of the Unit shall be entitled to reasonable access to the Common Area for the purpose of maintaining this wiring, subject to the consent of the Association and to any other conditions reasonably imposed by the Association. The Association's consent shall not be unreasonably withheld.

Maintenance by Owners

Section 2.06. Each Owner shall maintain the Owner's Unit, including the equipment and fixtures in the Unit and the interior surfaces of the walls, ceilings, floors, and doors, in a clean, sanitary, and attractive condition. This maintenance shall be at the Owner's expense. However, the Owner shall not take any actions that would impair or otherwise alter the structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen the support of the Unit or any other portion of the Project, without theprior written approval of the Architectural Control Committee, as provided in Article VI of this Declaration._____[The Association rather than the Owner shall be responsible for maintaining any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Owner's Lot or The Owner shall also, at his or her sole expense, maintain and keep in a reasonably good state of repair any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Owner's

Unit].

Presumption Regarding Boundaries of Units

Section 2.07. In interpreting deeds, declarations, and plans, the existing physical boundaries of a Unit, including any Unit reconstructed in substantial accordance with the Condominium Plan and the original construction plans for the Project, shall be conclusively presumed to be its boundaries, rather than the description expressed in the deed, Condominium Plan, or Declaration. This presumption applies regardless of settling or lateral movement of the building and regardless of minor variances between boundaries, as shown on the Condominium Plan or described in the deed and Declaration, and the boundaries of the building as constructed or reconstructed.

Prohibition Against Severance of Elements

Section 2.08. Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of a Unit shall include the undivided interest in the Common Area [and any Exclusive Use Common Areas appurtenant to the Unit]. Any conveyance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of the Owner's entire estate shall also include the Owner's Membership interest in the Association, as provided in Section 3.02 of this Declaration. Any transfer that attempts to sever those component interests [, except a transfer of an Exclusive Use Common Area pursuant to Section 2.05 of this Declaration,] shall be void.

ARTICLE III. OWNERS' ASSOCIATION

Organization of the Association

Section 3.01. The Association is or shall be incorporated under the name of _____, as a nonprofit corporation organized under the California Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law. From the closing of the escrow for the first sale of a Unit, the Association shall be charged with the duties and invested with the powers prescribed by law and set forth in this Declaration, the Articles of Incorporation, and the Bylaws.

Membership

Section 3.02. Every Owner, on becoming an Owner, shall automatically become a Member of the Association. Ownership of a Unit is the sole qualification for membership. Each Member shall have the rights, duties, privileges, and obligations set forth in the Governing Instruments. Membership shall automatically cease when the Owner no longer holds an ownership interest in a Condominium. All memberships shall be appurtenant to the Condominium conveyed, and cannot be transferred, assigned, conveyed, hypothecated, pledged, or alienated except as part of a transfer of the Owner's entire ownership interest, and then only to the transferee. Any transfer of the Owner's title to his or her Condominium shall automatically transfer the appurtenant membership to the transferee.

Classes of Membership

Section 3.03. The Association shall have two classes of voting membership, as follows:

(a) All Owners, other than the Declarant, shall be Class A members. Class A membership entitles the holder to one vote for each Condominium owned. When a Condominium is owned by more than one person, only one vote may be cast for the Condominium, as provided in Section 3.04(b) of this Declaration.

(b) The Declarant shall be the sole Class B member. The Class B member shall be entitled to three votes for each Unit owned. Class B membership shall cease and be converted to Class A membership on the occurrence of whichever of the following is first in time:

[Choose one of the following alternatives:]

[For a single-phase project, use:]

(1) The total outstanding votes of the Class A members equals or exceeds the total outstanding votes of the Class B member; or

(2) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a Unit following the original issuance of the final subdivision public report for the Project.

[OR]

[For a multi-phase project, use:]

(1) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the second anniversary of the first conveyance of a Unit following the original issuance of the final subdivision public report for the most recent phase of the Project; or

(2) On a prescribed date to be established by the Board, which must not be later than the fourth anniversary of the first conveyance of a Unit following the issuance of the final subdivision public report for the first phase of the Project.

[Continue with the following:]

Voting Rights

Section 3.04. All voting rights of the Owners shall be subject to the following restrictions, limitations, and requirements:

(a) Except as provided in this Article, on each matter submitted to a vote of the Owners, each Owner shall be entitled to cast one vote for each Condominium owned.

(b) Fractional votes shall not be allowed. When there is more than one record Owner of a condominium ("co-owners"), all of the co-owners shall be Members, but only one of them shall be entitled to cast the single vote attributable to the Condominium. Co-owners should designate in writing one of their number to vote. If no such designation is made or if it is revoked, the co-owners shall decide among themselves, by majority vote, how that Condominium's vote is to be cast. Unless the Board receives a written objection in advance from a co-owner, it shall be conclusively presumed that the voting co-owner is acting with the consent of his or her co-owners. No vote shall be cast for the Condominium on a particular matter if a majority of the co-owners present in person or by proxy cannot agree on a vote.

(c) Except as provided in Section 3.06(c) of this Declaration, governing the enforcement of certain bonded obligations, and Section 3.06 of the Bylaws, governing the removal of directors, as long as two classes of voting memberships exist, any provision of this Declaration, the Articles, or the Bylaws that requires the approval of a specified percentage of the voting power of the Association (rather than simply requiring the vote or written consent of a majority of a quorum) shall require the approval of the specified percentage of the voting power of each class of membership. Except as provided in Section 3.06(c) of this Declaration and _____ [specify bylaw provision governing removal of directors, e.g., Section 3.06] of the Bylaws, when the Class B Membership has terminated, any provision of this Declaration, the Articles, or the Bylaws that requires the approval of a specified percentage of the voting power of the Association shall require the vote or written consent of Owners representing the specified percentage of both the total voting power of the Association and the voting power of the Association residing in Owners other than Declarant.

(d) The Board shall fix, in advance, a record date or dates for the purpose of determining the Owners entitled to notice of, and to vote at, any meeting of Owners. The record date for notice of a meeting shall not be more than 90 or less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. The record date for voting shall not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting or before the date on which the first written ballot is mailed or solicited. The Board may also fix, in advance, a record date for the purpose of determining the Owners entitled to exercise any rights in connection with any other action. Any such date shall not be more than 60 days prior to the action.

(e) Every Owner entitled to vote at any election of the Directors may cumulate the Owner's votes and give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of Directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the Owner is entitled, or distribute the Owner's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the Owner thinks fit. No Owner shall be entitled to cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names have been placed in nomination prior to voting and a Owner has given notice at the meeting prior to the voting of the Owner's intention to cumulate votes. If any one Owner has given such notice, all Owners may cumulate their votes for candidates in nomination.

Membership Meetings

Section 3.05. Article II of the Bylaws governing meetings of the Members is hereby incorporated by reference.

General Powers and Authority

Section 3.06. The Association shall have all the powers of a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation organized under the California Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, subject to any limitations set forth in this Declaration or in the Articles and Bylaws of the Association. It may perform all acts that may be necessary for or incidental to the performance of the obligations and duties imposed on it by this Declaration or the other Governing Instruments. Its powers shall include, but are not limited to, the following:

(a) The Association shall have the power to establish, fix, levy, collect, and enforce the payment of assessments against the Owners in accordance with the procedures set out in Article IV of this Declaration.

(b) The Association shall have the power to adopt reasonable Rules and Regulations governing the use of the Common Area and its facilities, and of any other Association property. These Rules and Regulations may include, but are not limited to: reasonable restrictions on use by the Owners and their families, guests, employees, tenants, and invitees; rules of conduct; and the setting of reasonable fees for the use of recreational facilities. A copy of the current Rules and Regulations, if any, shall be given to each Owner and shall be posted at conspicuous places in the Common Area. If any provision of the Rules and Regulations conflicts with any provision of this Declaration, the Articles, or the Bylaws, the Declaration, Articles, or Bylaws shall control to the extent of the inconsistency.

(c) The Association shall have the right to institute, defend, settle, or intervene in litigation, arbitration, mediation, or administrative proceedings in its own name as the real party in interest and without joining with it the Owners, in matters pertaining to the following:

(1) Enforcement of this Declaration, the Articles, Bylaws, and Rules and Regulations.

(2) Damage to the Common Area.

(3) Damage to the Units that the Association is obligated to maintain or repair.

(4) Damage to the Units that arises out of, or is integrally related to, damage to the Common Area or Units that the Association is obligated to maintain or repair.

The Association may enforce payment of assessments in accordance with the provisions of Article IV of this Declaration.

(d) In addition to the general power of enforcement described above, the Association may discipline its Owners for violation of any of the provisions of the Governing Instruments or Rules and Regulations by suspending the violator's voting rights and privileges for use of the Common Area, or by imposing monetary penalties, subject to the following limitations:

(1) The accused Owner shall be given notice and an opportunity to be heard with respect to the alleged violation in accordance with the provisions of Civil Code Section 1363(h).

(2) Any suspension of an Owner's association privileges shall not exceed _____ [insert number, e.g., 60] days for each violation.

(3) If the Association imposes a monetary penalty, the Board shall distribute to each Owner, by personal delivery or first-class mail, a schedule of the monetary penalties that may be assessed for those violations. [If desired, add: No monetary penalty imposed for these purposes shall exceed $_____ for each violation.]

(4) Except as provided in Article IV of this Declaration, relating to foreclosure for failure to pay assessments, or as a result of the judgment of a court or a decision arising out of arbitration, the Association shall in no way abridge the right of any Owner to the full use and enjoyment of his or her Unit.

(e) The Association, acting through the Board, shall have the power to delegate its authority, duties, and responsibilities to its officers, employees, committees, or agents, including a professional management agent. The term of any agreement with a manager or the Declarant for the furnishing of maintenance, repair, and related services shall not exceed one year, renewable by agreement of the parties for successive one-year periods. Such an agreement shall be terminable by either party (1) for cause on 30 days' written notice and (2) without cause or the payment of a termination fee on 90 days' written notice.

(f) The Association's agents or employees shall have the right to enter any Unit when necessary in connection with any maintenance, landscaping, or construction work for which the Association is responsible. This entry shall be made only on notice to the Owner (except in the case of an emergency) and with as little inconvenience to the Owner as is practicable, and the Association shall repair any resulting damage at its own expense.

Duties of the Association

Section 3.07. In addition to the duties delegated to the Association or its agents and employees elsewhere in the Governing Instruments, the Association shall be responsible for the following:

(a) The Association, acting through the Board, shall operate, maintain, repair, and replace the Common Area and its improvements, all landscaping, and the exterior surfaces of all structures and Units in the Project, or contract for the performance of that work, subject to the provisions of Article VIII of this Declaration relating to destruction of improvements, Article IX of this Declaration pertaining to eminent domain, and Section 2.03(h) of this Declaration relating to damage caused by Owners. These areas and improvements shall be kept in a clean, sanitary, and attractive condition. [Add the following or an alternative arrangement (see Civ. Code § 1364): Further, the Association shall keep the Common Areas free of infestation by wood-destroying pests or organisms. If infestation is present, the Association shall have the right to cause the temporary, summary removal of any occupant of the Project while the Association has the infestation treated. The temporary relocation must be preceded by notice provided by the Association pursuant to Civil Code Section 1364.] The Association shall _____ [also or not] be responsible for maintaining Exclusive Use Common Areas. The Association shall also have the exclusive right and duty to acquire and maintain any furnishings and equipment for the Common Area that it determines are necessary and proper. As a general rule, maintenance costs shall be included in the regular assessments. However, if additional work is required for a particular Unit, the expenses of that additional work shall be charged solely to the Owner of the Unit in the month in which the work is performed. [Add the following or an alternative allocation of responsibility for pest control costs (see Civ. Code § 1364): Further, the Owner of a Unit shall pay the costs of any temporary relocation of any occupant of the Unit occasioned by the presence of wood-destroying pests or organisms.] If the Owner does not pay for the additional work within _____ calendar days after receiving the bill, the Association shall institute appropriate collection actions and shall recover the reasonable costs of collection, including attorneys' fees and interest from the due date until paid at the rate of _____ percent per annum.

(b) The Association shall use the maintenance fund described in Section 4.03 of this Declaration to, among other things, acquire and pay for the following:

(1) Water, sewer, garbage, electrical, telephone, gas, elevator, and other necessary utility service for the Common Area and, to the extent not separately metered and charged, for the Units;

(2) The insurance policies described in Article VII of this Declaration;

(3) The services of any personnel that the Board determines are necessary or proper for the operation of the Common Area; and

(4) Legal and accounting services necessary or proper in the operation of the Common Area or the enforcement of this Declaration.

(c) If the Association is obligee under a bond or other arrangement to secure the performance of Declarant as to any Common Area improvements that were not completed prior to the issuance of the final public report on the Project, the following provisions shall govern the initiation of action to enforce the bond:

(1) The Board of Directors of the Association shall consider and vote on the question of action by the Association to enforce the obligations under the bond with respect to any improvement for which a Notice of Completion has not been filed within 60 days after the completion date specified for the improvement in the Planned Construction Statement appended to the bond. If the Association has given an extension in writing for the completion of any Common Area improvement, the Board shall consider and vote on the above question if a Notice of Completion has not been filed within 30 days after the expiration of the extension.

(2) If the Board votes not to initiate action to enforce the obligations under the bond, or if it fails to consider and vote on the matter as required, a special meeting of the Owners of the Association shall be called for the purpose of overriding the Board's decision or for taking action on the matter, on receipt of a petition calling for such a meeting signed by Owners representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the Association. The meeting shall be held not less than 35 days or more than 45 days after receipt of the petition by the Board. At the special meeting, only the Owners other than Declarant shall be allowed to vote on the matter. A vote by a majority of the voting power of the Association residing in Owners other than Declarant to take action to enforce the obligations under the bond shall be deemed to be the decision of the Association, and the Board shall implement this decision by initiating and pursuing appropriate action in the name of the Association.

(d) The Association shall prepare a pro forma operating budget for each fiscal year, and shall distribute a copy of the budget to each Owner not less than 45 and not more than 60 days before the beginning of the fiscal year. As an alternative to this distribution of the budget, the Association may elect to do all of the following in the manner required by statute: distribute a summary of the budget to each Owner, make the budget available for inspection at a designated location, and provide copies of the budget to Owners on request and at the expense of the Association. The budget shall contain at least the following:

(1) The estimated revenue and expenses on an accrual basis.

(2) A summary (printed in bold type) of the Association's reserves that is based on the most recent review or study conducted pursuant to Civil Code Section 1365.5. This summary shall include the following: (i) the current estimated replacement cost, estimated remaining life, and estimated useful life of each major component that the Association is obligated to maintain (hereafter referred to as the "major components"); (ii) the current estimate, as of the end of the fiscal year for which the study is prepared, of the amount of cash reserves necessary to repair, replace, restore, or maintain the major components; (iii) the current amount, as of the end of the fiscal year for which the study is prepared, of accumulated cash reserves actually set aside to repair, replace, restore, or maintain the major components; and (iv) the percentage that the amount described in (iii), above, is of the amount determined for purposes of (ii), above (that is, the percentage obtained by dividing the amount described in (iii), above, by the amount described in (ii), above).

(3) A statement as to whether the Board has determined or anticipates that the levy of one or more special assessments will be required to repair, replace, or restore any major component or to provide adequate reserves for such work.

(4) A general statement addressing the procedures used for the calculation and establishment of reserves to defray the future repair, replacement, or additions to the major components.

(e) Within 120 days after the close of each fiscal year, the Association shall prepare and distribute to the Owners an annual report consisting of the following:

(1) A balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year;

(2) An operating (income) statement for the fiscal year;

(3) A statement of changes in financial position for the fiscal year; and,

(4) For any fiscal year in which the gross income to the Association exceeds $75,000, a copy of the review of the annual report prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles by a licensee of the California State Board of Accountancy. If this report is not prepared by an independent accountant, it shall be accompanied by the certificate of an authorized officer of the Association that the statement was prepared without independent audit or review from the books and records of the Association.

(f) Within 60 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, the Association shall prepare and distribute to the Owners a statement describing the Association's policies and practices in enforcing lien rights or other legal remedies for default in payment of assessments against Owners.

(g) The Association shall prepare a balance sheet, as of an accounting date that is the last day of the month closest in time to six months from the date of closing of the first sale of a Unit in the Project, and an operating statement for the period from the date of the first closing to the above accounting date. The Association shall distribute this statement to the Owners within 60 days after the accounting date. This operating statement shall include a schedule of assessments received and receivable identified by the number of the Unit and the name of the Owner assessed.

(h) Each year, the Association must provide the Owners with a summary of the provisions of Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590. These statutes require that alternative dispute resolution be pursued before a civil action may be filed in connection with certain disputes related to enforcement of the governing documents, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.), or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.). The required summary must include a specific reference to Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590, and the statutory language set forth in Civil Code Section 1369.590(a). This summary must be provided either (1) at the time the pro forma operating budget described in Section 3.07(d) of this Declaration is distributed, or (2) in the manner specified in Corporations Code Section 5016.

(i) The Association shall provide any Owner with the following documents within 10 days of the mailing or delivery of a written request for the documents:

(1) A copy of the Governing Instruments.

(2) A copy of the most recent financial statement distributed pursuant to Section 3.07(d) of this Declaration.

(3) A written statement from an authorized representative of the Association specifying (i) the amount of any assessments levied on the Owner's Unit that are unpaid on the date of the statement; and (ii) the amount of late charges, interest, and costs of collection that, as of the date of the statement, are or may be made a lien on the Owner's Unit pursuant to Section 4.09 of this Declaration. The Association may charge the Owner a reasonable fee to cover its cost to prepare and reproduce those requested items.

(j) The Association shall pay all real and personal property taxes and assessments levied against it, its personal property, the Common Area, and Exclusive Use Common Areas.

Board of Directors

Section 3.08. The affairs of the Association shall be managed and its duties and obligations performed by an elected Board of Directors, as provided in Article III of the Bylaws, which is hereby incorporated by reference.

Inspection of Books and Records

Section 3.09. Article XI of the Bylaws, governing the duty of the Association to maintain certain books and records and the rights of Owners and Directors to obtain and inspect those books and records, is hereby incorporated by reference.

Resolution of Disputes

Section 3.10. As required by Civil Code Section 1363.820(a), the Association shall offer a fair, reasonable, and expeditious procedure for resolving any dispute between the Association and a member involving their rights, duties, or liabilities under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.), or under the Association's governing documents. This dispute resolution procedure is supplementary to the alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civil Code Section 1369.510 et seq. as a prerequisite to commencing civil action. The dispute resolution procedure shall consist of the following:

(a) Either party may initiate the procedure by making a written request to the other party to meet and confer in an effort to resolve the dispute. If the request is by the Association, the member may refuse to participate. However, if the request is by a member, the Association may not refuse to participate.

(b) Within 5 days of the written request, the Board of Directors shall designate a member of the Board to meet and confer with the other party.

(c) Within 10 days of the Board member's designation, the parties shall meet at a mutually convenient time and place, explain their positions to each other, and confer in good faith in an effort to resolve the dispute.

(d) If the parties reach agreement on a resolution of the dispute, that resolution shall be memorialized in writing and signed by the parties with the Board designee signing on behalf of the Association.

(e) An agreement reached by the parties is binding on them and may be judicially enforced provided the agreement is consistent with the authority granted by the Board of Directors to its designee, and further provided the agreement is not in conflict with law or the Association's governing documents.

(f) A member of the Association may not be charged a fee to participate in the dispute resolution procedure.

ARTICLE IV. ASSESSMENTS AND COLLECTION PROCEDURES

Covenant to Pay

Section 4.01. The Declarant covenants and agrees, for each Unit owned by it in the Project, and each Owner by acceptance of the deed to the Owner's Unit is deemed to covenant and agree to pay to the Association the regular and special assessments levied pursuant to the provisions of this Declaration. A regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable costs of collection, and interest, as assessed in accordance with the provisions of this Article, shall be a debt of the Owner of the Unit at the time the assessment or other sums are levied. The Owner may not waive or otherwise escape liability for these assessments by nonuse of the Common Area or abandonment of the Owner's Unit.

Exemptions From Assessments

Section 4.02. The obligation to pay assessments shall be subject to the following exemptions:

(a) Any Owner (including Declarant) of a lot in the Project that does not include a structural improvement for human occupancy shall be exempted from that portion of any assessment which is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and the use of those structural improvements. This exemption shall include, but is not limited to, the following:

(1) Roof replacement;

(2) Exterior maintenance;

(3) Walkway and carport lighting;

(4) Refuse disposal;

(5) Cable television; and

(6) Domestic water supplied to living units.

Any such exemption shall be in effect only until the occurrence of the earliest of the following events: (i) the recordation of a notice of completion of the structural improvement; (ii) the occupation or use of the structural improvement; or (iii) completion of all elements of the residential structures that the Association is obliged to maintain.

(b) Any Owner (including Declarant) of a lot in the Project shall be exempted from that portion of any assessment that is for the purpose of defraying expenses and reserves directly attributable to the existence and use of a common facility that is not complete at the time the assessment commences. This exemption shall be in effect only until a notice of completion of the common facility is recorded or the common facility is placed into use, whichever occurs first.

Purpose of Assessments

Section 4.03. The assessments levied by the Association shall be used exclusively to promote the recreation, health, safety, and welfare of the Owners, for the operation, replacement, improvement, and maintenance of the Property, and to discharge any other obligations of the Association under this Declaration. All assessment payments shall be put into a maintenance fund to be used for these purposes.

Assessment Period

Section 4.04. The fiscal year for the Association shall be a calendar year, unless the Board decides otherwise. The regular assessment period shall commence on January 1 and terminate on December 31 of each year; provided, however, that the first regular assessment period for all Condominiums _____ [in the Project or, if annexation is anticipated: in a phase of development] shall commence on the _____ (Project or phase) or first day of the month following the conveyance of a Unit in the _____ (Project or phase)], _____ [date of the first conveyance of a Unit in the _____, and shall terminate on December 31 of that year.

Regular Assessments

Section 4.05. Within 60 days prior to the beginning of each fiscal year of the Association, the Board shall estimate the net charges to be paid during that year, including a reasonable provision for contingencies and replacements, with adjustments made for any expected income and surplus from the prior year's fund. The estimated cash requirement shall be assessed to each Owner according to the ratio of the number of Units owned by that owner to the total number of Units in the Project subject to assessment. Regular assessments for fractions of any month shall be prorated. Each Owner is obligated to pay assessments to the Board in equal monthly installments on or before the first day of each month unless the Board adopts an alternative method for payment. Declarant shall pay its full prorated share of the regular assessments on any unsold Condominiums subject to regular assessments.

Special Assessments

Section 4.06. If the Board determines that the amount to be collected from regular assessments will be inadequate to defray the common expenses for the year due to the cost of any construction, unexpected repairs or replacements of capital improvements on the Common Area, or any other reason, it shall make a special assessment for the additional amount needed. Special assessments shall be levied and collected in the same manner as regular assessments.

Limitations on Assessments

Section 4.07. The Board shall comply with the following requirements governing the imposition and amounts of assessments:

(a) For any fiscal year, the Board may impose a regular assessment per Unit that is as much as 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the preceding fiscal year, provided (1) the Board has distributed the pro forma operating budget described in Section 3.07(d) for the current fiscal year or (2) the increase is approved by Owners constituting a majority of the votes at a meeting or in an election of the Association conducted in accordance with Corporations Code Sections 7510-7527 and 7613.

(b) The Board may impose, for any fiscal year, a regular assessment per Unit that is more than 20 percent greater than the regular assessment for the preceding fiscal year, or may levy special assessments that in the aggregate exceed 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year, provided the increase or levy is approved by Owners constituting a majority of the Owners of the Association and casting a majority of the votes at a meeting or election of the Association conducted in accordance with Corporations Code Sections 7510-7527 and 7613.

(c) The Board may, without complying with the above requirements, make an assessment increase that is necessary for an emergency situation. An emergency situation is an extraordinary expense that is:

(1) Required by a court order.

(2) Necessary to repair or maintain the Project or any part of it for which the Association is responsible when a threat to personal safety in the Project is discovered.

(3) Necessary to repair or maintain the Project or any part of it for which the Association is responsible that could not have been reasonably foreseen by the Board in preparing and distributing the pro forma operating budget pursuant to Section 3.07(d).

(4) Incurred in making the first payment of the earthquake insurance surcharge pursuant to Insurance Code Section 5003.

Before the Board may impose or collect an assessment in the type of emergency situation described in (3), above, it shall pass a resolution containing written findings as to the necessity of the extraordinary expense and why the expense was not or could not have been reasonably foreseen in the budgeting process, and shall distribute the resolution to the Owners with the notice of assessment.

(d) The Board shall notify the Owners in writing of any increase in the amount of a regular or special assessment. The Board shall provide this notice by first-class mail not less than 30 or more than 60 days prior to the due date of the increased assessment.

Late Charges

Section 4.08. Late charges may be levied by the Association against an Owner for the delinquent payment of regular and special assessments. An assessment is delinquent 15 days after its due date. If an assessment is delinquent the Association may recover all of the following from the Owner:

(a) Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent assessment, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

(b) A late charge not exceeding 10 percent [or specify lower rate] of the delinquent assessment or $10, whichever is greater [or specify lower charge].

(c) Interest on the above sums, at an annual percentage rate of 12 percent [or specify lower rate], commencing 30 days after the assessment becomes due.

No late charge may be imposed more than once for the delinquency of the same payment. However, the imposition of a late charge on any delinquent payment shall not eliminate or supersede charges imposed on prior delinquent payments.

Enforcement of Assessments and Late Charges

Section 4.09. At least 30 days before the Association can place a lien on a Unit for a past due debt for a regular or special assessment, the Association must notify the Owner by certified mail of the following:

(1) A general description of the Association's collection and lien enforcement procedures.

(2) The method of calculation of the amount due.

(3) A statement that the Owner has the right to inspect the Association records.

(4) A statement informing the Owner that the Owner's Unit may be subject to foreclosure and sale without court action.

(5) An itemized statement of the charges owed by the Owner, including items on the statement that indicate the amount of any delinquent assessments, the fees and reasonable costs of collection, reasonable attorney's fees, and any late charges and interest.

(6) A statement that the Owner will not be liable to pay the charges, interest, and costs of collection, if it is determined the assessment was paid on time.

(7) The Owner's right to request a meeting with the Board if the Owner disputes the debt.

An Owner may dispute the debt by submitting to the Board a written explanation within 15 days of the mailing of the Association's notice. The Board must respond to an Owner's timely explanation within 15 days of the mailing of the Owner's explanation.

An Owner also may submit a written request to meet with the Board to discuss a payment plan for the debt. The request must be mailed within 15 days of the mailing of the Board's notice. The Board must then meet with the Owner in executive session within 45 days of the mailing of the Owner's request. If there is no regularly scheduled Board meeting within that time period, the Board may designate a committee of one or more members to meet with the Owner.

Any partial payments made toward the debt will first be applied to the assessments owed, and only after the principal owed is paid in full will the payments be applied to the fees and costs of collection, attorneys' fees, late charges, or interest. When an Owner makes a payment, the Owner may request a receipt and the Association shall provide it. The receipt shall indicate the date of payment and the person who received it. The Association shall provide a mailing address for overnight payment of assessments.

A debt for a delinquent regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable fees and costs of collection, reasonable attorneys' fees, and interest shall become a lien on the Unit when a notice of delinquent assessment is duly recorded and mailed as provided in Section 1367.1 of the California Civil Code.

Except as provided below regarding debts arising from delinquent assessments when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, any such lien may be enforced in any manner permitted by law, including judicial foreclosure or nonjudicial foreclosure. Any nonjudicial foreclosure shall be conducted by the trustee named in the notice of delinquent assessment or by a trustee substituted pursuant to Section 2934a of the California Civil Code, in accordance with the provisions of Sections 2924, 2924b, and 2924c of the California Civil Code.

If the sums specified in the notice of delinquent assessment are paid before the completion of any judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure, the Association shall record a notice of satisfaction and release of the lien. On receipt of a written request by the Owner, the Association shall also record a notice of rescission of any declaration of default and demand for sale.

In accordance with Section 1367.4 of the California Civil Code, a lien securing a debt arising from a delinquent regular or special assessment when the debt arose on or after January 1, 2006, and the delinquent amount is less than $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, and interest, shall not be enforced by judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure unless and until either (1) the debt equals or exceeds $1,800, excluding accelerated assessments, late charges, fees and costs of collection, attorney's fees, and interest, or (2) the debt secured by the lien is more than 12 months delinquent.

Statement Regarding Assessments

Section 4.10. The Association shall provide any Owner, on written request, with a statement specifying (1) the amounts of the Association's current regular and special assessments and fees, and (2) the amounts of any delinquent assessments and related late charges, interest, and costs levied against the Owner's Unit, as provided in Section 4.08 of this Declaration.

ARTICLE V. USE RESTRICTIONS AND COVENANTS

General Restrictions on Use

Section 5.01. In exercising the right to occupy or use a Unit or the Common Area and its improvements, the Owner and the Owner's family, guests, employees, tenants, and invitees shall not do any of the following:

(a) Attempt to further subdivide a Unit without obtaining the prior approval of the Association.

(b) Occupy or use a Unit, or permit all or any part of a Unit to be occupied or used, for any purpose other than as a private residence. Nothing in this Declaration shall prevent an Owner from leasing or renting out his or her Unit, provided that it is not for transient or hotel purposes, is for a period of at least 60 days, and is subject to the Governing Instruments.

(c) Permit anything to obstruct the Common Area or store anything in the Common Area without the prior consent of the Board, except as otherwise provided in the Governing Instruments.

(d) Perform any act or keep anything on or in any Unit or Exclusive Use Common Area or in the Common Area that will increase the rate of insurance on the Common Area without the Board's prior written consent. Further, no Owner shall permit anything to be done or kept in his or her Unit, in any Exclusive Use Common Area appurtenant to the Unit, or in the Common Area that would result in the cancellation of insurance on any Unit or Exclusive Use Common Area or on any part of the Common Area or that would violate any law.

(e) Store gasoline, kerosene, cleaning solvents, or other flammable liquids in the Common Area or in any Unit; provided, however, that reasonable amounts of these liquids may be placed in metal containers and stored in the storage spaces.

(f) Display any sign to the public view on or from any Unit or the Common Area without the prior written consent of the Board, except a sign advertising the property for sale, lease, or exchange, or advertising directions to the property, as provided in Section 712 of the California Civil Code.

(g) Raise, breed, or keep animals, livestock, or poultry of any kind in a Unit or in the Common Area, except dogs, cats, or other household pets, which may be kept in Units, subject to the Rules and Regulations (if any).

(h) Engage in any noxious or offensive activity in any part of the Project.

(i) Alter or modify the exterior of any improvements located in a Unit without first obtaining the written consent of the Architectural Control Committee.

(j) Install a solar energy system in a Unit owned by another without first obtaining the written consent of the Architectural Control Committee.

(k) Alter, construct, or remove anything on or from the Common Area, except on the written consent of the Board.

(l) Park any automobile or other motor vehicle in the Common Area or in any Exclusive Use Common Area except in a space designated for the Owner by the Board or the Governing Instruments.

(m) Install any video or television antenna, including a satellite dish, with a diameter or diagonal measurement greater than 36 inches. Association reserves the right to impose reasonable restrictions on the installation of any video or television antenna, including a satellite dish with a diameter or diagonal measurement of 36 inches or less.

[Insert any alternative or additional restrictions that reflect the characteristics of client's project.]

Damage Liability

Section 5.02. Each Owner shall be liable to the Association for all damage to the Common Area or other Association property that is sustained by reason of the negligence or willful misconduct of that Owner or his or her family, guests, employees, tenants, and invitees, to the extent that the damage is not covered by the casualty insurance obtained and maintained by the Association pursuant to Section 7.01 of this Declaration. [Add if applicable: Each Owner, by accepting his or her deed, agrees to provide insurance to the extent required by Section 7.05 of this Declaration].

Exemption

Section 5.03. Declarant shall be exempt from the restrictions of Section 5.01 to the extent necessary to complete any construction work, sales activities, or additions to or affecting the Project. This exemption includes, but is not limited to, maintaining Units as models, placing advertising signs on the Property, and generally using Project lots and the Common Area to carry on construction activity.

Equitable Servitudes

Section 5.04. The covenants and restrictions set forth in this Declaration shall be enforceable equitable servitudes and shall inure to the benefit of and bind all Owners. These servitudes may be enforced by _____ [any Owner or by the Association or by both or set forth alternative enforcement provision].

ARTICLE VI. ARCHITECTURAL AND DESIGN CONTROL

Architectural and Design Approval

Section 6.01. No building, addition, wall, fence, or alteration shall be commenced, constructed, maintained, or permitted to remain on any lot or Unit, or on the Common Area, until complete plans and specifications of the proposed work have been submitted to and approved by the Architectural Control Committee. The Committee shall review the plans and specifications to determine whether they are compatible with the standards of design, construction, and quality of the Project and, if they are not, shall require that changes be made before approval.

Architectural Control Committee

Section 6.02. The Architectural Control Committee shall consist of _____ [specify number which must be at least three but not more than five] members, formed as follows:

(a) The Declarant shall appoint all of the original members and all replacements until the first anniversary of the issuance of the original final public report for the [add if project is to be developed in phases: first phase of the] Project. Further, Declarant may reserve the power to appoint a majority of the Committee until 90 percent of all Units have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Project, whichever occurs first. After one year from the date of the issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Project, the Board shall have the right to appoint one member to the Committee, until 90 percent of the Units have been sold or until the fifth anniversary date of the original issuance of the final public report for the [first phase of the] Project, whichever occurs first. Thereafter, the Board shall have the right to appoint all of the members of the Committee.

(b) The term of the initial appointees shall be one year. Thereafter, members shall serve two-year terms unless it becomes necessary to remove members appointed by Declarant in order to comply with Section 6.02(a), in which case the terms of all members shall end at that time, and the Board shall appoint a new Committee. Notwithstanding the above, all members of the Committee shall serve at the will of the party that appointed them, and may be removed by that party at any time with or without cause.

(c) The Committee shall meet as often as it deems necessary to properly carry out the obligations imposed on it, unless otherwise directed by the Board.

The Board of Directors

Section 6.03. All decisions of the Architectural Control Committee are subject to review by the Board of Directors and may be appealed to the Board. The Committee shall notify the Board of all violations of this Article and of any noncompliance with its rulings or with the plans and specifications submitted to and approved by it. Thereafter, the Board shall take any actions it deems necessary, in accordance with the provisions of this Declaration.

ARTICLE VII. INSURANCE

Fire and Casualty Insurance

Section 7.01. The Association shall obtain and maintain a policy or policies of fire and casualty insurance with an extended coverage endorsement for the full insurable replacement value of the improvements in the _____ [Common Area or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: Project]. The amount of coverage shall be determined by the Board. This insurance shall be maintained for the benefit of the Association, the Owners, and their Mortgagees, as their interests may appear as named insured, subject, however, to any loss payment requirements set forth in this Declaration.

General Liability and Individual Liability Insurance

Section 7.02. The Association shall obtain and maintain one or more policies of insurance that must include coverage for (1) general liability of the Association, and (2) individual liability of Officers and Directors of the Association for negligent acts or omissions in that capacity. Both of the these types of coverage shall not be less than _____ [select the appropriate provision below (see Civ. Code §§ 1365.7, 1365.9, applicable to project that is exclusively residential)]

[for a project consisting of 100 or fewer condominiums use either: $500,000 or $2,000,000] covering all claims for death, personal injury, and property damage arising out of a single occurrence.

[OR]

[for a project consisting of more than 100 condominiums use either: $1,000,000 or $3,000,000] covering all claims for death, personal injury, and property damage arising out of a single occurrence.

[Continue with the following:]

The limits and coverage shall be reviewed at least annually by the Board and increased in its discretion.

Other Association Insurance

Section 7.03. The Association shall purchase and maintain workers' compensation insurance to the extent necessary to comply with any applicable laws. The Association also shall purchase and maintain fidelity bond coverage which names the Association as an obligee, for any person or entity handling funds of the Association, whether or not such persons or entities are compensated for their services. This coverage shall be in an amount that is at least equal to the estimated maximum of funds, including reserve funds, in the custody of the Association [or the Manager] at any given time during the term of each bond. However, the aggregate amount of these bonds must not be less than 150 percent of each year's estimated annual operating expenses and reserves. The Association also may purchase and maintain a blanket policy of flood insurance, and demolition insurance in an amount that is sufficient to cover any demolition that occurs following the total or partial destruction of the Project and a decision not to rebuild.

Trustee for Policies

Section 7.04. The Association, acting through its Board, is hereby appointed and shall be deemed trustee of the interests of all named insureds under all insurance policies purchased and maintained by the Association. All insurance proceeds under any of those policies shall be paid to the Board as trustee. The Board shall use the proceeds for the repair or replacement of the property for which the insurance was carried or for the purposes described in Article VIII of this Declaration. The Board also is authorized to negotiate loss settlements with the appropriate insurance carriers, to compromise and settle any claim or enforce any claim by any lawful action, and to execute loss claim forms and release forms in connection with such settlements.

[Choose one of the following paragraphs:]

[If association will maintain blanket casualty insurance, use:]

Individual Insurance

Section 7.05. No Owner shall obtain or maintain fire and casualty insurance for the improvements in the Owner's Unit.

If any Owner does so, he or she shall be liable to the Association for any resulting reduction in the insurance proceeds payable under the policy or policies of fire and casualty insurance maintained by the Association pursuant to Section 7.01. Notwithstanding the above, an Owner may separately insure his or her personal property, and may obtain and maintain personal liability and property damage liability insurance for his or her Unit, provided that the insurance contains a waiver of subrogation rights by the carrier as to the other Owners, the Association, Declarant, and the institutional First Mortgagee of the Owner's Unit.

[OR]

[If association will not maintain blanket casualty insurance, use:]

Individual Insurance

Section 7.05. Each Owner shall provide fire and casualty insurance for the improvements in his or her Unit. An Owner may separately insure his or her personal property, and may obtain and maintain personal liability and property damage liability insurance for his or her Unit, provided that the insurance contains a waiver of subrogation rights by the carrier as to the other Owners, the Association, Declarant, and the institutional First Mortgagees of the Owner's Lot.

[Continue with the following:]

Insurance Premiums

Section 7.06. Insurance premiums for any insurance coverage obtained by the Association shall be included in the regular assessments. That portion of the regular assessments necessary for the required insurance premiums shall be used solely for the payment of the premiums when due.

ARTICLE VIII. DAMAGE OR DESTRUCTION

Duty to Restore and Replace

Section 8.01. If any of the improvements in the _____ [Common Area or, if the association will maintain blanket casualty insurance over all improvements: Project] are destroyed or damaged, the Association shall restore and replace the improvements, using the proceeds of insurance maintained pursuant to Article VII of this Declaration, subject to the provisions of this Article.

Proceeds Justifying Automatic Restoration and Repair

Section 8.02. If the proceeds of any insurance maintained pursuant to Article VII of this Declaration for reconstruction or repair of the Property are equal to at least _____ [specify, e.g., 85] percent of the estimated cost of restoration and repair, the Board shall use the insurance proceeds for that purpose, shall levy a special assessment to provide the necessary additional funds, and shall have the improvements promptly rebuilt, unless the Owners by the vote or written consent of not less than _____ [specify, e.g., 75] percent of the total voting power of each class of Owners object to the restoration or repair work within _____ [specify, e.g., 60] days of the damage or destruction.

Approval by Owners of Special Assessment for Certain Restorations and Repairs

Section 8.03. If the proceeds of any insurance maintained pursuant to Article VII of this Declaration for reconstruction or repair of the Property are less than _____ [repeat percentage set forth in Section 8.02, above, e.g., 85] percent of the estimated cost of restoration and repair, any restoration and repair work must be authorized by the vote or written consent of Owners representing at least _____ [specify, e.g., 75] percent of the total voting power of each class of Owners and beneficiaries of at least _____ [specify, e.g., 75] percent of the First Mortgages on Units in the Project. This authorization must be given within _____ [specify, e.g., 60] days of the damage or destruction, and must authorize the Board to levy a special assessment to provide the necessary funds over and above the amount of any insurance proceeds available for the work.

Ordering Reconstruction or Repair

Section 8.04. If reconstruction or repair work is to take place pursuant to this Article, the Board shall take the following steps:

(a) Prepare the necessary documents, including an executed and acknowledged certificate stating that damage has occurred, describing it, identifying the improvement suffering the damage, the name of any insurer against whom claim is made, and the name of any insurance trustee, stating (if applicable) that the consent described in Section 8.03 has been obtained, and reciting that the certificate is recorded pursuant to this paragraph. That declaration shall be recorded with the Recorder of _____ County within _____ [specify, e.g., 90 days] from the date of the damage or destruction.

(b) Obtain firm bids (including the obligation to obtain a performance bond) from two or more responsible contractors to rebuild the Project in accordance with its original plans and specifications and, as soon as possible thereafter, call a special meeting of the voting Owners to consider the bids. If the Board fails to do so within 60 days after the casualty occurs, any Owner may obtain the bids and call and conduct the special meeting in the manner required by this paragraph. At the meeting, Owners representing at least 67 percent of the total voting power may elect to reject all of the bids and thus not to rebuild, or Owners representing at least 51 percent of the total voting power may elect to reject all bids requiring amounts exceeding the available insurance proceeds by more than $500. Failure to reject all bids shall authorize the Board to accept the unrejected bid it considers most favorable. Failure to call the special meeting or to repair the casualty damage within 12 months from the date the damage occurred shall be deemed for all purposes to be a decision not to rebuild.

(c) If a bid is accepted, the Board shall let the contract to the successful bidder and distribute the insurance proceeds to the contractor as required by the contract.

(d) Levy a special assessment to make up any deficiency between the total insurance proceeds and the contract price for the repair or rebuilding, with the assessment and all insurance proceeds, whether or not subject to liens of mortgagees, to be used solely for the rebuilding. This assessment shall be apportioned _____ [equally to each Unit or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: equally to each Unit for any damage or destruction to the Common Area. For any damage or destruction to improvements on one or more Units, every Owner shall pay a proportionate share based on the relative square footage of the living area]. If any Owner fails to pay the special assessment within 15 days after it is levied, the Board shall enforce the assessment in the manner described in Section 4.09 of this Declaration.

Election Not to Rebuild

Section 8.05. On an election not to rebuild, the Board, as soon as reasonably possible and as agent for the Owners, shall execute and record a certificate stating that the Association shall not rebuild. The Board shall also sell the entire Project on terms acceptable to the Board and free from the effect of this Declaration, which shall terminate on the sale. The net proceeds shall then be distributed to the Owners and their respective Mortgagees proportionately according to the respective fair market values of the Units at the time of the destruction as determined by an independent appraisal. That appraisal shall be performed by an independent appraiser who shall be selected by the Association and who shall be a member of, and apply the standards of, a nationally recognized appraiser organization.

All insurance proceeds available for restoration or repair shall be distributed to the Owners _____ [equally or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance, as follows: proceeds for damage or destruction to Units shall be distributed to the Owners of the damaged Units according to the relative fair market value of the Units. This value shall be as of the date immediately preceding the damage or destruction, and shall be determined by an appraisal by an independent appraiser who shall be selected in the manner described above. Any proceeds from damage or destruction to the Common Area shall be distributed to the Owners equally].

Minor Restoration and Repair Work

Section 8.06. The Association shall order restoration or repair work without complying with the other provisions of this Article whenever the estimated cost of the work does not exceed _____ [$_____ (e.g., 18,000) or, if association will maintain blanket casualty insurance: $_____ (e.g., 15,000) for the Common Area and $_____ (e.g., 3,000) for one or more Units]. If insurance proceeds are unavailable or insufficient, the Association shall levy a special assessment for the cost of the work. The Assessment shall be levied in the manner described in Section 4.05 of this Declaration.

ARTICLE IX. EMINENT DOMAIN

Definition of Taking

Section 9.01. As used in this Article, "taking" means condemnation by any governmental agency having the power of eminent domain or by sale under threat of the exercise of that power.

Sale to Condemning Authority

Section 9.02. If a governmental agency proposes to condemn all or a portion of the Project, the Association may sell all or any portion of the Project to the condemning authority if all Owners and institutional Mortgagees consent in writing to the sale. Any such sale shall be made by the Association in the capacity of attorney-in-fact for the Owners, acting under an irrevocable power of attorney which each Owner grants to the Association by accepting a Condominium. The sales price shall be any amount deemed reasonable by the Board.

Total Sale or Taking

Section 9.03. A total sale or taking occurs when (1) there is a permanent taking or a sale to a condemning authority by the Association pursuant to Section 9.02 of an interest in all or part of the Common Area or of all or part of one or more Units, which substantially and adversely affects the ownership, operation, and use of the Project in accordance with the provisions of this Declaration; and (2) 120 days have passed since the effective date of the taking and the Owners whose Units remain habitable after the taking ("Remaining Units") have not by affirmative vote of a majority of their entire voting interest approved the continuation of the Project and the repair, restoration, and replacement to the extent feasible of the Common Area and the Remaining Units. Within 60 days after the effective date of any sale or taking which in the opinion of the Board would constitute a total sale or taking, the Board shall call a special meeting to determine whether or not the Owners of the remaining units will continue the Project as provided in this Section. If there is a total sale or taking, the Board shall distribute the proceeds of the total sale or taking and the proceeds of any sale pursuant to a partition action, after deducting all incidental fees and expenses related to the taking or partition, to all Owners and their Mortgagees in accordance with the court judgment or the agreement between the condemning authority and the Association, if any such judgment or agreement exists. In all other cases, the proceeds shall be distributed among the Owners and their respective Mortgagees according to the relative values of the Condominiums affected by the condemnation as determined by independent appraisal. That appraisal shall be performed by an independent appraiser who shall be selected by the Association and who shall be a member of, and apply the standards of, a nationally recognized appraiser organization.

Partial Sale or Taking

Section 9.04. A partial sale or taking occurs if there is a sale or taking that is not a total sale or taking as defined in Section 9.03. The proceeds from any sale or taking shall be disbursed in the following order of priority, which shall be incorporated into any court judgment of condemnation or agreement between a condemning authority and the Association:

(a) To the payment of related fees and expenses.

(b) To Owners of Condominiums that have been sold or taken and their respective Mortgagees, as their interests may appear, in an amount up to the fair market value of the Condominium as that value is determined by the court in the condemnation proceeding or, in the absence of such a determination, by an appraiser selected in the manner described in Section 9.03. Such a payment shall immediately terminate the recipient's status as an Owner, and the Board, acting as the attorney-in-fact of the remaining Owners, shall amend this Declaration and any other documents, as appropriate, to delete the sold or taken Condominiums from the Project and to allocate the former Owner's undivided interest in the Common Area to the remaining Owners, on the basis of their relative ownership of the Common Area. Each Owner whose interest is terminated pursuant to this Section shall, at the request of the Board and expense of the Association, execute and acknowledge any deed or other instrument that the Board deems necessary to evidence the termination.

(c) To the payment of severance damages to First Mortgagees of record of remaining units affected by the partial sale or taking, to the extent that the Mortgagees can prove that their security has been impaired by the taking.

(d) To the repair, restoration, and replacement of the Common Area and any portions of the Remaining Units that the Owners are not obligated to restore, to the extent feasible.

ARTICLE X. RIGHTS OF MORTGAGEES

Warranty

Section 10.01. Declarant hereby warrants that Mortgagees of Units in the Project shall be entitled to the rights and guaranties set forth in this Article. No amendment of this Article shall affect the rights of the holder of any First mortgage recorded prior to the recordation of the amendment who does not join in the execution of the amendment.

Subordination

Section 10.02. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, liens created under Section 4.09 of this Declaration on any Unit shall be subject and subordinate to, and shall not affect the rights of the holder of, the indebtedness secured by any recorded First Mortgage on such an interest made in good faith and for value, provided that any transfer of a Unit as the result of a foreclosure or exercise of a power of sale shall not relieve the new Owner from liability for any assessments that become due after the transfer. Such a transfer shall extinguish the lien of assessments that were due and payable before the transfer of the Unit.

Inapplicability of Right of First Refusal

Section 10.03. Should any of the Association's Governing Instruments provide for a "right of first refusal," this right shall not impair the rights of a First Mortgagee to:

(a) Foreclose or take title to a Unit pursuant to the remedies provided in the Mortgage;

(b) Accept a deed (or assignment) in lieu of foreclosure in the event of default by a Mortgagor; or

(c) Interfere with a subsequent sale or lease of a Unit so acquired by the Mortgagee.

Notice of Default

Section 10.04. A First Mortgagee, on request, will be entitled to written notification from the Association of any default in the performance by the Mortgagor of any obligation under the Association's Governing Instruments that is not cured within 60 days.

Unpaid Assessments

Section 10.05. Any First Mortgagee who obtains title to a Unit pursuant to the remedies provided in the Mortgage or foreclosure of the Mortgage shall not be liable for the Unit's unpaid assessments that accrue before the acquisition of title to the Unit by the Mortgagee.

Mortgagee Approval of Material Amendments

Section 10.06. Notwithstanding Article XII of this Declaration, any amendments governing any of the following shall require the prior written approval of at least 51 percent of the First Mortgagees and at least 67 percent of the total voting power of the Owners:

(a) Voting;

(b) Rights to use the Common Area;

(c) Reserves and responsibility for maintenance, repair, and replacement of the Common Area;

(d) Boundaries of any Unit;

(e) Owners' interests in the Common Area;

(f) Conversion of Units into Common Area or Common Area into Units;

(g) Leasing of Units;

(h) Establishment of self-management by the Association, when professional management has been previously required by any First Mortgagee or any insurer or governmental guarantor of a First Mortgage;

(i) Annexation, addition, or withdrawal of real property to or from the Project;

(j) Assessments, assessment liens, or the subordination of these liens;

(k) Casualty and liability insurance or fidelity bonds; or

(l) Any provisions expressly benefiting First Mortgagees or insurers or governmental guarantors of first mortgages.

Notwithstanding the above, any first Mortgagee who receives a written request from the Board to approve a proposed amendment or amendments requiring consent under this Section who does not deliver a negative response to the Board within 30 days of the receipt of the request shall be deemed to have approved the proposed amendment or amendments.

Mortgagee Approval of Other Actions

Section 10.07. Unless at least 67 percent of the First Mortgagees (based on one vote for each First Mortgage owned), or 67 percent of the Owners other than Declarant, have given their prior written approval, the Association shall not be entitled to:

(a) By act or omission, seek to abandon or terminate the Project;

(b) Change the pro rata interest or obligations of any individual Unit for either of the following purposes, unless the change is due to an annexation pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration:

(1) Levying assessments or charges, or allocating distributions of hazard insurance proceeds or condemnation awards, or

(2) Determining the pro rata share of ownership of each Unit in the Common Area and the improvements thereon;

(c) Partition or subdivide any Unit;

(d) By act or omission, seek to abandon, partition, subdivide, encumber, sell, or transfer the Common Area unless due to an annexation pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration (the granting of easements for public utilities or for other public purposes consistent with the intended use of the Common Area shall not be deemed a transfer within the meaning of this clause); or

(e) Use hazard insurance proceeds for losses to any Project property (whether to Units or to the Common Area) for other than the repair, replacement, or reconstruction of that property, except as provided by statute in case of substantial loss to the Units and/or Common Area of the Project.

Liens

Section 10.08. All taxes, assessments, and charges that may become liens prior to the First Mortgage under local law, shall relate only to the individual Units and not to the Project as a whole.

Priority

Section 10.09. No provision of the Governing Instruments of the Association gives any Owner, or any other party, priority over any rights of the First Mortgagee of the Unit pursuant to its Mortgage in the case of a distribution to the Owner of insurance proceeds or condemnation awards for losses to, or a taking of, all or a portion of a Unit or Units and/or the Common Area.

Reserve Fund

Section 10.10. Association assessments shall be large enough to provide for an adequate reserve fund for maintenance, repairs, and replacement of those common elements that must be replaced on a periodic basis. The reserve fund shall be funded by the regular assessments rather than by special assessments.

Management

Section 10.11. Any agreement for professional management of the Project shall not exceed three years and shall provide that either party may terminate the agreement, with or without cause and without the imposition of a termination fee, on 90 days' written notice. The approval of holders of at least 75 percent of First Mortgages shall be obtained before the Association terminates a professional management agreement.

Right to Inspect Books and Records

Section 10.12. Institutional First Mortgagees, on written request, shall have the right to (1) examine the books and records of the Association during normal business hours and (2) require the submission of any financial data furnished to the Owners by the Association.

[Add if any part of the common area is owned by the owners' association:]

Payments by Mortgagees

Section 10.13. First Mortgagees may, jointly or severally, pay taxes or other charges that are in default and that may or have become a charge against the Common Area, and may pay any overdue premiums on hazard insurance policies, or secure new hazard insurance coverage on the lapse of a policy, for the Common Area, and First Mortgagees making these payments shall be entitled to immediate reimbursement from the Association.

[Continue with the following:]

Right to Furnish Mortgage Information

Section 10.14. Each Owner hereby authorizes the First Mortgagee of a First Mortgage on the Owner's Condominium to furnish information to the Board concerning the status of the First Mortgage and the loan that it secures.

ARTICLE XI. ANNEXATION OF ADDITIONAL PROPERTY

Additions by Declarant

Section 11.01. Declarant shall have the right to add all or any portion of the real property described in Exhibit _____ [specify number of exhibit containing legal description of property to be annexed] to the Project, pursuant to a plan of phased development submitted to the California Real Estate Commissioner along with the application for the public report for the first phase of the Project, at any time before the third anniversary of the original issuance of the most recently issued final subdivision public report for the most recent phase of the Project. This election shall be made by the recordation of a supplemental declaration ("Supplemental Declaration"). The Supplemental Declaration shall describe the real property to be annexed, and shall state that the property described in it is being annexed to the Project pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration. The Supplemental Declaration may also set forth any additional covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, and easements that Declarant deems appropriate for that phase of development.

Other Additions

Section 11.02. In addition to real property annexed by the Declarant, real property may be annexed to the Project and brought within the general plan and scheme of this Declaration by the approval by vote or written consent of at least 67 percent of the total voting power of the Association [; provided, however, that no such annexation may take place after the _____ (specify, e.g., seventh) anniversary of the recordation of this Declaration].

Rights and Obligations of Owners of Annexed Property

Section 11.03. On the recordation of the Supplemental Declaration, the real property described in it shall be part of the Project and subject to all provisions of this Declaration in the same manner as if it were originally covered by this Declaration. Thereafter, the rights, powers, and responsibilities of Owners of Condominiums within the annexed property shall be the same as if the annexed property were originally covered by this Declaration; provided, however, that their voting rights shall not commence until the date of commencement of the regular assessments for their Condominiums. The commencement of assessments on the annexed real property shall be governed by Section 4.07 of this Declaration.

Reciprocal Easements

Section 11.04. Declarant hereby reserves, for the benefit of and appurtenant to the Condominiums located in any phase of development annexed to the first phase of this Project and their respective Owners, reciprocal easements to use the Common Area (other than any buildings or Exclusive Use Common Areas) in the first phase pursuant to and in the manner set forth in this Declaration. Declarant hereby grants, for the benefit of and appurtenant to the Condominiums in the first phase of this Project and their Owners, a nonexclusive easement to use the Common Area (other than any buildings or Exclusive Use Common Areas) in each phase of development annexed to the first phase, pursuant to and in the manner set forth in this Declaration. These reciprocal easements shall be effective as to any annexed real property on the first close of escrow for the sale of a Condominium in the annexed property.

ARTICLE XII. AMENDMENTS

Amendment or Revocation Before Close of First Sale

Section 12.01. At any time before the close of the first sale of a Condominium to a purchaser other than Declarant, Declarant and any Mortgagee of record may, by executing an appropriate instrument, amend or revoke this Declaration. [Add if the case of a phased development: Further, before the close of the first sale of a Condominium in any subsequent phase of the Project to a purchaser other than Declarant, the Declarant and any Mortgagee of record may, by following the above procedure, amend or revoke any Supplemental Declaration recorded pursuant to Article XI of this Declaration for that subsequent phase.] The executed instrument shall be acknowledged and recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County.

Amendments by Owners After Close of First Sale

Section 12.02. At any time after the close of the first sale of a Condominium to a purchaser other than Declarant, this Declaration may be amended by the vote or written consent of Owners representing not less than _____ percent of the voting power of each class of Owners of the Association. If only one class of membership exists at the time an amendment is proposed, then it must be approved by not less than _____ percent [specify percentage, which must be at least 51 percent but not more than 75 percent] of the voting power of the Association, which shall include at least a majority of the votes residing in Owners other than Declarant. Notwithstanding any contrary provision in this Section, the percentage of the voting power necessary to amend a specific clause or provision of this Declaration shall not be less than the percentage of affirmative votes prescribed for action to be taken under that clause or provision.

An amendment becomes effective after (1) the approval of the required percentage of Owners has been given, (2) that fact has been certified in a writing executed and acknowledged by_____[an officer designated by the Association for that purpose or, if no such designation is made, by the President of the Association or set forth name and title of officer here], and (3) that writing has been recorded in_____[the county in which this Project is located or both (or each) counties (or county) in which a portion of this Project is located].

Amendments Pursuant to Court Order

Section 12.03. If this Declaration requires a proposed amendment to be approved by the affirmative vote of a specified percentage (exceeding 50 percent) of this votes in the Association or of Owners having a specified percentage (exceeding 50 percent) of the votes in more than one class (a "supermajority"), and more than 50 percent but less than the required supermajority of the votes approve the amendment, the Association or any Owner may petition the_____[Superior Court of _____ (name of sole county in which project is located) or superior court of both (or any) of the counties in which the Project is located], subject to the requirements, limitations, and exceptions set forth in Civil Code Section 1356, for an order reducing the percentage of the affirmative votes necessary for the amendment or approving the amendment. If such an order is issued, the amendment shall be acknowledged by _____ [any person designated by the Association for that purpose or, if no such designation is made, by the President of the Association or specify other person], and that person shall have the amendment and the court order recorded in_____[name of sole county in which development is located, or both (or every) counties (or county) in which the Project is located]. On recordation, the amended provision or provisions of this Declaration shall have the same force and effect as if the amendment were adopted in compliance with every requirement imposed by this Declaration and the other governing documents. Within a reasonable time after recordation, the Association shall mail a copy of the amendment and a statement regarding the amendment to each Owner.

Deletion of Construction or Marketing Provisions

Section 12.04. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, the Board may, under the circumstances described in this Section, adopt an amendment deleting from this Declaration any provision that was unequivocally designed and intended, or that by its nature could only have been designed or intended, to facilitate Declarant in completing the construction or marketing of the Project. To be subject to this amendment procedure, the provision must provide for access by Declarant over or across the Common Area for the purposes of (1) completion of construction of the Project and (2) the erection, construction, or maintenance of structures or other facilities designed to facilitate the completion of construction or marketing of Units. Such an amendment may be adopted only after Declarant has completed construction of the Project, has terminated construction activities, and has terminated_____[his or her or its] marketing activities for the sale [or other authorized disposition of units] of the Units. [Add if applicable: In the case of a provision relating to a particular construction or marketing phase of the Project, the provision may not be deleted until that construction or marketing phase has been completed.] At least 30 days prior to taking action to adopt such an amendment, the Board must mail to all Owners, by first-class mail, the following: a copy of the proposed amendment; and a notice of the time, date, and place of the meeting at which the Board will consider adoption of the amendment. All deliberations of the Board on the proposed amendment must be conducted at that meeting. The meeting must be open to all Owners, and the Owners must be given an opportunity at the meeting to comment on the proposed amendment. The Board may not adopt the amendment unless (1) a quorum is present at the meeting, (2) the meeting is conducted in accordance with certain provisions (identified in Civil Code Section 1355.5) of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, and (3) Owners casting a majority of the votes at the meeting approve the amendment. For these purposes, "quorum" means more than 50 percent of the Owners who own no more than two Units in the Project.

Prior Approval of Commissioner

Section 12.05. When required under Business and Professions Code Section 11018.7, the prior written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner shall be obtained prior to submitting a proposed amendment to this Declaration to the vote of the Owners.

ARTICLE XIII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

Term

Section 13.01. The provisions of this Declaration shall continue in effect for a term of _____ years from the date of execution. Thereafter, it shall be automatically extended for successive periods of _____ years, until the membership of the Association decides to terminate it.

Nonwaiver of Remedies

Section 13.02. Each remedy provided for in this Declaration is separate, distinct, and nonexclusive. Failure to exercise a particular remedy shall not be construed as a waiver of the remedy.

Attorneys' Fees

Section 13.03. In any action to enforce this Declaration, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

Severability

Section 13.04. The provisions of this Declaration shall be deemed independent and severable, and the invalidity or partial invalidity or unenforceability of any one provision shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision.

Binding

Section 13.05. This Declaration, any amendment to it, and any valid action or directive made pursuant to the Declaration, shall be binding on the Declarant and the Owners and their heirs, grantees, tenants, successors, and assigns.

Interpretation

Section 13.06. The provisions of this Declaration shall be liberally construed and interpreted to effectuate its purpose of creating a uniform plan for the development and operation of a condominium project. Failure to enforce any provision of this Declaration shall not constitute a waiver of the right to enforce that provision or any other provision of this Declaration.

Limitation of Liability

Section 13.07. The liability of any Owner for performance of any of the provisions of this Declaration shall terminate on sale, transfer, assignment, or other divestment of the Owner's entire interest in his or her Unit with respect to obligations arising from and after the date of the divestment.

Fair Housing

Section 13.08. Neither Declarant nor any Owner shall, either directly or indirectly, forbid the conveyance, encumbrance, renting, leasing, or occupancy of the Owner's Unit to any person on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation.

Number and Headings

Section 13.09. As used in this Declaration, the singular shall include the plural, unless the context requires the contrary. The headings are not a part of this Declaration, and shall not affect the interpretation of any provision.

§ 34.203 Subordination Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a consent by a lender to the subordination of its deed of trust to a declaration that was recorded after that deed of trust. Under the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.], any "preexisting lender" must subordinate its lien to the declaration [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(c)].

The actual requirement is stated in rather indirect terms. The Real Estate Commissioner may not issue a final public report for a condominium project unless he or she finds that the declaration (and other governing instruments) will be binding on every purchaser and occupant of every condominium. For these purposes, "purchaser" includes purchasers acquiring title by judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure, or by deed in lieu of foreclosure, under any mortgage or deed of trust, whether or not the mortgage or deed of trust was recorded before recordation of the declaration [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5(c); see § 34.200[2], P 68].

The lender may agree to include its consent in the declaration (immediately after the acknowledgement of the declarant's signature). However, cautious lenders prefer to deposit the consent in escrow and to condition its recordation on the satisfaction of a presale requirement [see § 34.203[1][b]]. This form may be used in either way.

For a discussion of subordination agreements in general, see Ch. 25B, Subordination, Assumption, and Assignment .

[b] Consent of Lenders

In most cases, the only preexisting lenders will be construction lenders with blanket construction liens over the entire project. Some construction lenders agree to provide in their loan agreement and deed of trust for subordination to and recognition of the creation of the condominium project and the requirements of the declaration.

It is unlikely that any lender will agree to subordinate its lien without imposing a presale requirement on the project. The typical presale requirement prohibits the developer from conveying a unit in the project to a purchaser until a specified percentage (usually 50 percent or more) of the units have been sold [see § 34.45[2]].

§ 34.204 Articles of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of articles of incorporation for an owners' association of a condominium project that will be incorporated as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. If the owners' association is to be an unincorporated (nonprofit) association, the attorney should draft articles of association instead [see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations].

[b] Applicable Law

Owners' associations for condominium projects, planned developments, stock cooperatives, community associations, clubs, and similar organizations frequently are incorporated under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law ("Law") [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.; see § 34.38[1]]. This comment examines the specific requirements of the Law affecting the contents of articles of incorporation. For a general discussion of the Law, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

The Real Estate Commissioner has adopted regulations covering the contents of the governing instruments (declaration, articles, and bylaws) for a condominium project or other type of common-interest subdivision [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8; see also § 34.204[1][c][i]].

[c] Contents of Articles

[i] In General

Under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, articles of incorporation must contain the name of the corporation and the name and address in California of the corporation's initial agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 7130(a), (c)]. If the agent is a natural person, the statement must include the person's complete business or residence street address. If a corporate agent is designated, no address is required [Corp. Code §§ 7130(b), 8210(b)].

It is possible to reserve a name for the association by obtaining a certificate of reservation of any name not prohibited by Corp. Code § 7122(c). To obtain the certificate, the applicable name reservation form and the corresponding fee must be submitted to the Secretary of State. On the certificate's issuance, the name stated in the certificate must be reserved for 60 days [Corp. Code § 7122(d)].

The articles must also contain a statutory statement identifying the corporation as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation and stating in general terms the purpose of the corporation. In addition to that statement, the articles may include a further definition of the corporation's purposes [Corp. Code § 7130(b)]. For the statutory statement and an optional "further" description of a corporation's purposes, see § 34.204[2], Art. II.

In addition to the statement of purpose required by the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.] requires the articles of incorporation of any common interest development association filed with the Secretary of State on or after January 1, 1995, to include an additional statement that: (1) identifies the corporation as an association formed to manage a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act; (2) gives the business or corporate office of the association, if any; and, if the office is not on the development site, states the nine-digit ZIP Code, front street, and nearest cross street for the physical location of the development; and (3) gives the name and address of the association's managing agent, if any [Civ. Code § 1363.5(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11502].

The Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law also lists a number of provisions that may be set forth in the articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code § 7132]. For a complete list of those optional provisions, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

The Real Estate Commissioner has listed several types of provisions that must be included in one or more of the governing instruments (declaration, articles, and bylaws) for a condominium project or other type of common-interest subdivision [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8; see also § 34.202[1][d][ii]]. None of those provisions have been incorporated into this form because it is standard practice to include them in the declaration [see § 34.202] and the bylaws [see § 34.206], which are the two documents that describe the structure and operation of condominium projects in the greatest detail.

[ii] Incorporation of Unincorporated Association

If the owners' association is an unincorporated association that is changing to corporate status, the articles must contain the standard information discussed in § 34.204[1][c][i], and must comply with two additional requirements. First, the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, identified by name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 7121(b); see Arts. IV and V of § 13.210[2] in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. Second, the articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the verified statement is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 7121(c)]. For such a statement, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . For further discussion of the incorporation of an unincorporated association, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

[d] Execution and Filing

Under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, a nonprofit corporation is formed when its articles of incorporation are executed and filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 7120(a)]. Each incorporator and director named in the articles must sign and acknowledge them [Corp. Code § 7120(b); see Corp. Code § 7132(c)(1) (articles may list names and addresses of initial directors)]. Articles usually identify only the incorporator to avoid the need to obtain the signatures of the initial directors.

Because the developer must include the articles and other governing documents in the application package for a public report [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(2); see also § 34.143, P 4(g), (t)], the applicant should postpone filing the articles until after the Department has had an opportunity to review them [see § 34.143]. For the procedure for filing the articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . After the filing of articles that name an incorporator but not the initial directors, the incorporator adopts the bylaws and elects the initial directors, and may do whatever is necessary and proper to perfect the organization of the association, including the adoption and amendment of corporate bylaws [see Corp. Code § 7134; see also Corp. Code § 7211(b); § 34.205[1]; § 34.144].

If an unincorporated association is being incorporated, a certified copy of the articles must be filed in the office of the county recorder of any county in California in which any real property of the association is located. This filing evidences record ownership in the corporation of all interests of the association in and to the real property located in that county [Corp. Code § 7121(e)].

[e] Amendment of Articles

Under the Subdivided Lands Act, a proposed amendment to articles will require the prior written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner if: (1) it would materially change the rights of the condominium owners; and (2) it is proposed when the developer or the developer's successor in interest holds or directly controls as many as one-fourth of the votes that may be cast to effect that change [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7]. For a guide to the complicated approval procedure, see § 34.162, PP 1, 2. If approval is obtained or is not required, action on the proposed amendment must comply with detailed regulatory requirements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)]. For discussion of these requirements, see § 34.162, P 4.

Under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.], the board of directors of a common interest development may, by following a specified procedure, adopt an amendment deleting from any of the governing documents certain provisions relating to the construction or marketing of the development [see Civ. Code § 1355.5]. The amendment provision in this form does not mention that statutory procedure because this form does not contain construction or marketing provisions. For additional coverage of this statutory procedure, see § 34.162, P 5.

§ 34.205 Bylaws

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of bylaws for the owners' association of a condominium project. These bylaws reflect the common practices of (1) organizing the owners' association as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, (2) utilizing the bylaws to regulate the internal operation of the association and project, and (3) placing provisions governing all other aspects of the condominium project, including property and membership rights, in the declaration rather than in the bylaws [see § 34.202[1][c]].

[b] Contents of Bylaws

[i] Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law

If the owners' association for a condominium project is organized as a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation, as is usually the case [see § 34.38[1]], its articles of incorporation and bylaws are subject to the requirements of the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.]. Under that law, the bylaws (or articles) must state either: (1) the number of directors in the corporation [see § 34.205[2], Section 3.01]; (2) the method for determining the number of directors; or (3) that the number of directors will be not less than a stated minimum or more than a stated maximum, with the exact number to be fixed by approval of the board or members in the manner provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code 7151(a); see § 13.212]. In any event, the number or minimum number of directors may be one or more [Corp. Code § 7151(a); see Corp. Code § 7151(b)]. In addition, once members have been admitted, a bylaw specifying or changing a fixed number of directors or the maximum or minimum number or changing from a fixed to a variable board or vice versa may only be adopted by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 7151(b)]. If the number of directors is set in the articles, it may only be changed by amending the articles.

The bylaws may also include any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation [see Corp. Code § 7151(c)]. The following is a list of the optional provisions that have been incorporated into this form [see Corp. Code § 7151(c)]:

(1) Meetings of members [Corp. Code §§ 7510-7514, 7611, 7613; § 34.205[2], Art. II; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17].

(2) Election, term, and removal of board of directors [Corp. Code §§ 7220-7224, 7520, 7521, 7615; § 34.205[2], Art. III; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19].

(3) Meetings of directors [Corp. Code § 7211; § 34.205[2], Art. IV; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.20].

(4) Selection of officers of association [Corp. Code § 7213; Civ. Code § 1365.5; § 34.205[2], Art. V].

(5) Maintenance and inspection of project records [Corp. Code §§ 7160, 8320, 8330-8334; § 34.205[2], Art. XI; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.23(c)-(e)].

Some of these provisions are also subject to requirements imposed by the Real Estate Commissioner [see § 34.205[1][b][ii]].

[ii] Real Estate Commissioner's Regulations

Numerous regulatory requirements promulgated by the Real Estate Commissioner must be incorporated into the bylaws, articles, or declaration of a condominium owners' association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.4, 2792.8, 2792.15-2792.29]. Most of these requirements are embodied in the declaration set forth in § 34.202 [see § 34.202[1][d][ii]]. However, this form reflects regulations governing the following matters:

- Regular (annual) and special meetings of association members (including notice requirements) [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17; § 34.205[2], Art. II; see also § 34.38[10]].

- Procedures for the election and removal of governing body members and officers of the association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19; § 34.205[2], Sections 3.02-3.07, 5.02-5.03].

- Regular meetings of the governing body (including notice requirements) [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.20; § 34.205[2], Art. IV].

- Enumeration of the powers and duties of the governing body and officers and of the limitations on the authority of the governing body to act without the prior approval of members representing a majority of the voting power of the association [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.8(a)(26), 2792.21; § 34.205[2], Sections 3.09 (complete regulatory list of powers of governing body), 3.10 (complete regulatory list of limitations on powers of governing body); § 34.205[2], Arts. VI-X].

- Amendment of bylaws [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24; § 34.205[2], Art. XIII; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7, Civ. Code § 1355.5; § 34.205[1][f]].

- Quorum requirements for meetings of members of the association and of the governing body [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17; § 34.205[2], Section 2.08].

- Procedures for proxy voting at members' meetings [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(16); § 34.205[2], Section 2.09]. Although one of the Commissioner's regulations requires that the governing instruments contain such a proxy provision [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.8(a)(16)], the regulations do not specify the contents of that provision or impose any other proxy requirements. Consequently, the only requirements that must be incorporated into the provision are the ones set forth in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 7613; § 34.205[1][b]; see also Corp. Code §§ 7510(d), 7514, 7612].

[c] Fiscal Responsibilities of Board

The powers and duties of the board of directors set forth in this form include the board's obligation to perform the following tasks: (1) review certain financial statements [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(a); § 34.205[2], Section 3.09(l)]; (2) comply with limitations governing the withdrawal of moneys from the association's reserve accounts [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(b)-(d); § 34.205[2], Section 3.09(m)]; and, (3) under certain circumstances, study the reserve account requirements of the project [see Civ. Code § 1365.5(e); § 34.205[2], Section 3.09(n); see also Civ. Code § 1365.5(g)]. These duties do not apply when the project does not have a common area [Civ. Code § 1365.5(h)].

[d] Adoption

If the articles do not name initial directors, the incorporator(s) (that is, the developer) may adopt and amend the bylaws until the directors are elected [Corp. Code § 7134]. Developers of condominium projects typically adopt the bylaws [see § 34.206[1]].

[e] Filing

A copy of the bylaws must be filed with the Real Estate Commissioner as part of an application for a final public report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(2)]. Consequently, the applicant should postpone the adoption of the bylaws until after the Commissioner reviews them [see § 34.144].

[f] Amendment of Bylaws

Under the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.], a proposed amendment to bylaws will require the prior written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner if: (1) it would materially change the rights of the condominium owners; and (2) it is proposed when the developer or the developer's successor in interest holds or directly controls a specified percentage of the votes [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.7]. For a guide to the complicated approval procedure, see § 34.162, PP 1, 2. If approval is obtained or is not required, action on the proposed amendment must comply with detailed regulatory requirements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)]. For a discussion of these requirements, see § 34.162, P 4.

The board of directors of a common interest development may utilize a special statutory procedure to adopt an amendment deleting from any of the governing documents any provision that is unequivocally designed and intended, or that by its nature could only have been designed or intended, to facilitate the developer in completing the construction or marketing of the development [see Civ. Code § 1355.5(a)]. This procedure applies only to provisions that provide for access by the developer over or across the common area for purposes of (1) completing construction of the development, and (2) erecting, constructing, or maintaining structures or other facilities designed to facilitate the completion of construction or marketing the separate interests in the development [Civ. Code § 1355.5(b)]. Because this form does not include these provisions, further coverage of the statutory procedure is beyond the scope of this comment. For additional discussion, see § 34.162, P 5.

ARTICLE I. PLAN OF CONDOMINIUM OWNERSHIP

Name

Section 1.01. The name of the corporation is _____ OWNERS' ASSOCIATION ("Association").

Principal Office

Section 1.02. The principal office of the Association is located at_____[street address],_____[city], California. The Board of Directors is hereby granted full power and authority to change the principal office of the Association from one location to another in [the County of _____,] California. Any such change shall be noted by the Secretary in these Bylaws, but shall not be considered an amendment of these Bylaws.

Application

Section 1.03. These Bylaws are applicable to the residential condominium project known as _____ ("Project"), located at_____[address and city] in _____ County, California. These Bylaws are also applicable to all Members of the Association and all tenants, employees, and other persons who use the facilities of the Project in any manner.

Definitions

Section 1.04. Unless otherwise specified in these Bylaws, the definitions set forth in Article 1 of the Declaration for_____[name of project] ("Declaration") recorded or to be recorded in the Office of the Recorder of _____ County, California, apply to these Bylaws.

Membership Rights

Section 1.05. The qualification for membership provisions of Section 3.02 of the Declaration are hereby incorporated by reference.

ARTICLE II. MEETINGS OF MEMBERS

Place of Meetings

Section 2.01. All meetings of the Members shall be held at a place designated by the Board. This meeting place shall be within the Project or as close to it as possible. If no meeting place is designated, meetings shall be held at the principal office of the Association. No meeting of the Members shall, unless unusual conditions exist, be held outside of _____ [specify county in which project is located] County, California.

Annual Meetings

Section 2.02. The first meeting of the Members of the Association shall be held within _____ [select the appropriate provision below]

[if public report authorizes sale of at least 50 units in project (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.17(a)), use:] 45 days after the close of escrow for the sale of the Unit that represents the fifty-first percentile interest authorized for sale under the first final subdivision public report issued for the Project by the California Real Estate Commissioner, or within six months after the closing of the sale of the first Unit within the Project, whichever is earlier.

[OR]

[if public report authorizes sale of fewer than 50 units in project, use:] six months after the closing of the sale of the first Unit within the Project.

[Continue with the following:]

Thereafter, the annual meeting of the Members shall be held on _____ [specify day of week, e.g., the second Tuesday] of _____ [month] of each succeeding calendar year at the hour of _____ P.M. If the day for the annual meeting of the Members is a legal holiday, the meeting shall be held at the same hour on the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday.

Special Meetings

Section 2.03. Special meetings of the Members may be called for any lawful purpose by a majority of a quorum of the Board, the President of the Association, or by a written request signed by Members representing at least 5 percent of the total voting power of the Association. The special meeting shall be held not less than 35 or more than 90 days after adoption of the resolution or receipt of the request. Only that business stated in the notice of meeting given pursuant to Section 2.04 of these Bylaws shall be transacted at the special meeting.

Notice of Meetings

Section 2.04. The Secretary of the Association shall give written notice of any Members' meeting to each Member of record. Except as provided below, the notice shall be given at least 10 but not more than 90 days before the meeting, by first class [or registered or certified] mail or by personal delivery. If a special meeting is called by Members pursuant to Section 2.03 of these Bylaws, the notice shall be given within 20 days after receipt of the request for the meeting. If that 20-day requirement is not satisfied, the Members who called the meeting may give the notice. Any notice of meeting shall be addressed to the Member at the address appearing on the books of the Association, or the address supplied by the Member to the Association for this purpose. If there is no such address, notice shall be given at the principal office of the Association or by publication at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office is located. The notice shall state the place, date, and time of the meeting. The noticeshall also specify those matters the Board intends to present for action by the Members. In the case of a special meeting, the only matters that may be voted on are those matters that were mentioned in the notice of meeting. In the case of an annual meeting, any proper matter may be presented at the meeting for action [add if bylaws authorize a quorum of less than one third of the voting power (see Corp. Code § 7512(b)):, except as provided in Section 2.08 of these Bylaws.] If Directors are to be elected at the meeting, the notice shall include the names of all those who are nominees at the time the notice is given.

Waiver of Notice or Consent of Absentees

Section 2.05. The transactions of any meeting of Members, however called and noticed, shall be as valid as though taken at a duly called, noticed, and held meeting, if: (1) a quorum is present either in person or by proxy; and (2) either before or after the meeting, each of the Members not present in person or by proxy signs a written waiver of notice, or a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the Minutes of the meeting. Any such waiver, consent, or approval shall be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the Minutes of the Meeting.

Voting Rights

Section 2.06. The voting of membership provision set forth in Section 3.04 of the Declaration is hereby incorporated by reference.

Record Date of Membership

Section 2.07. The Board shall fix, in advance, a record date or dates for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to notice of and to vote at any meeting of Members. The record date for notice of a meeting shall not be more than 90 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. The record date for voting shall not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting or before the date on which the first written ballot is mailed or solicited. The Board may also fix, in advance, a record date for the purpose of determining the Members entitled to exercise any rights in connection with any other action. Any such date shall not be more than 60 days prior to the action.

Quorum

Section 2.08. At any meeting, the presence either in person or by proxy of Members entitled to cast at least 51 percent [or specify another percentage, which must be at least 25 percent and not more than 662/3 percent of the total voting power of the association] of the total voting power of the association shall constitute a quorum for any action except as otherwise provided in the Articles, Bylaws, or this Declaration. The Members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough Members to leave less than a quorum, if the action taken, other than adjournment, is approved by at least a majority of members required to constitute a quorum. [Add if this provision authorizes a quorum of less than one third of the voting power (see Corp. Code § 7512(b)): Notwithstanding the above, whenever the quorum present at an annual meeting of Members consists of less than one third of the voting power of the Association (present in person or by proxy), then the only matters that may be voted on are those matters that were mentioned in the notice of meeting given pursuant to Section 2.04 of these Bylaws.] If a quorum is not present at any time at a duly called meeting, a majority of those Members present in person or by proxy may adjourn the meeting to a time not less than five days nor more than 30 days from the meeting date, but no other business may be transacted. An adjourned meeting may be held without written notice, provided that notice is given by announcement at the original meeting. If no such announcement is made, or if the selected date is changed after adjournment, notice of the time and place shall be given to Members in the manner provided in Section 2.04 of these Bylaws. The quorum for the adjourned meeting shall be _____ percent.

Parliamentary Procedure

Section 2.09. All meetings of the Members shall be conducted in accordance with (1) a recognized system of parliamentary procedure, or (2) any parliamentary procedures adopted by the Association.

Proxies

Section 2.10. At all meetings of Members, each Member may vote in person or by proxy. All proxies shall be in writing and filed with the Secretary of the Association. Every proxy shall be revocable and shall automatically cease on conveyance of its maker's membership, or on receipt of written notice by the Secretary of the maker's death or judicially declared incapacity. No proxy shall be valid after the expiration of 11 months from its date of execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. However, the maximum term of any proxy shall be three years from its date of execution. The maker of a proxy may revoke it by delivering a written revocation to the Association, by executing a subsequent proxy and presenting it to the meeting, or by attending any meeting and voting in person.

Any revocable proxy covering any of the following matters that require a vote of the members is not valid as to those matters unless it sets forth the general nature of the matter to be voted on:

(a) Removing a director without cause, pursuant to Section 3.06(b) of these Bylaws;

(b) Filling director vacancies pursuant to Section 3.07 of these Bylaws;

(c) Entering into or approving a contract or transaction between the Association and one or more of the Directors, or between the Association and any entityin which one or more of the Directors has a material financial interest, when the material facts of the contract or transaction are fully disclosed pursuant to Section 7233 of the California Corporations Code;

(d) Amending the articles or bylaws to repeal, restrict, create, or expand proxy rights;

(e) Amending the Articles after approval by the Board, in accordance with Section 7812 of the California Corporations Code;

(f) Disposing of assets other than in the usual and regular course of corporate activities pursuant to Section 7911(a)(2) of the California Corporations Code;

(g) Approving merger terms pursuant to Section 8012 of the California Corporations Code;

(h) Adopting an amendment to a merger agreement that changes any of the principal terms pursuant to Section 8015(a) of the California Corporations Code;

(i) Electing to dissolve the Association, by approval of a majority of all members or by approval of both the Board and Members pursuant to Section 8610 of the California Corporations Code; or

(j) If the corporation has more than one class of memberships outstanding on dissolution, approving a plan of distribution of assets which is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of those classes, pursuant to Section 8719(a) of the California Corporations Code.

Action Taken Without a Meeting

Section 2.11. Any action that may be taken at a meeting of the Members, except for the election of Directors, may be taken without a meeting provided the following ballot requirements are satisfied:

(a) The Corporation shall distribute a written ballot to every Member entitled to vote on the matter. The ballot shall be solicited in the same manner as provided in Section 2.04 of these Bylaws for the giving of notice of meetings of Members. If the Association has 100 or more Members and the ballots are distributed to 10 or more Members, the ballot shall comply with the additional requirements set forth in Section 7514 of the California Corporations Code.

(b) The ballot shall set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot, indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement, and state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure submitted.

(c) The proposed action shall be considered approved if:

> (1) The number of votes cast by ballot within the specified time period equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action; and
> (2) The number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required for approval at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot.

(d) No written ballot shall be revoked.

Approval by Members Required by Statute

Section 2.12. Any approval by the Members of the following proposals, other than unanimous approval by those entitled to vote, shall be valid only if the general nature of the approved proposal was stated in the notice of meeting or any waiver of notice of meeting:

(a) Removing a director without cause pursuant to Section 3.06(c) of these Bylaws;

(b) Filling vacancies on the Board pursuant to Section 3.07 of these Bylaws;

(c) Entering into or approving a contract or transaction between the Association and one or more of the Directors, or between the Association and any entity in which one or more of the Directors has a material financial interest, when the material facts of the contract or transaction are fully disclosed pursuant to Section 7233 of the California Corporations Code;

(d) Amending the Articles after approval by the Board, in accordance with Section 7812 of the California Corporations Code;

(e) Electing to dissolve the Association, by approval of a majority of all members or by approval of both the Board and Members pursuant to Section 8610 of the California Corporations Code; or

(f) If the corporation has more than one class of memberships outstanding on dissolution, approving a plan of distribution of assets which is not in accordance with the liquidation rights of those classes, pursuant to Section 8719 of the California Corporations Code.

Title 7 Decisions

Section 2.13. Declarant shall not cast any votes in any decision submitted to Members regarding (a) whether to file a claim against Declarant under Title 7, Part 2 of Division 2 of the California Civil Code (Section 895 et seq.), or (b) the prosecution or resolution of such a claim once it is filed, including any decision to institute mandatory binding arbitration relating to any alleged violation of the standards set forth in California Civil Code Sections 895 through 897 (collectively, a "Title 7 Decision"). Any such decision may be approved only by Members other than Declarant.

ARTICLE III. BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Number

Section 3.01. The affairs of this Association shall be managed and its duties and obligations performed by an elected Board of Directors, consisting of _____ [insert number] persons [add if desired: who shall, with the exception of the Initial Directors elected pursuant to Section 3.03 of these Bylaws, be Members of the Association].

Nomination

Section 3.02. Except in the case of Initial Directors, nominations for election to the Board of Directors may be made by any of the following:

(a) A nominating committee appointed by the Board at least 90 days prior to an annual meeting of Members, provided the Board receives the committee's nomination or nominations at least 30 days before the annual meeting of Members.

(b) A written petition signed within 11 months preceding the annual meeting by Members representing _____ percent of the "voting power" of the Association as that term is defined in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law of the State of California. The petition shall identify the nominee, contain that person's written consent to serve as a Director, and be delivered to the Secretary of the Association at least 30 days before the annual meeting. [Add if potentially applicable: If the Association has more than 500 Members, then the additional petition requirements set forth in Corporations Code Section 7521 shall be satisfied.]

(c) Any Member who is present in person, or by the proxy of any Member who is present by proxy, at the annual meeting of Members at which the Director is to be elected.

Election

Section 3.03. As soon as possible after the filing of Articles of Incorporation for the Association, Declarant shall elect Initial Directors who shall serve until the first annual meeting of the Members. All such Initial Directors, as well as any subsequently elected Director who is a director, officer, employee, or agent of Declarant, shall also be referred to herein as "Declarant Related Directors," while a person elected to the Board who is not a Declarant Related Director shall be referred to as a "Homeowner Director." At the first annual meeting of the Association, the Members shall fill, by election, all positions on the Board of Directors. Subsequent elections shall also be held at the annual meetings. However, if an annual meeting is not held or does not include an election, the election may be held at a special meeting of members called for that purpose. Voting for Directors shall be by secret written ballot. At an election the Members or their proxies may cast, in respect to each vacancy, as many votes as they are entitled to exercise under the provisions of these Bylaws. Each Member entitled to vote on the election may cumulate his or her votes and give one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of Directors to be elected multiplied by the number of votes to which the Member is entitled, or distribute the Member's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the Member thinks fit. No Member shall be entitled to cumulate votes for a candidate or candidates unless the candidate's name or candidates' names have been placed in nomination before voting and a Member has given notice at the meeting before the voting of the Member's intention to cumulate votes. If any one Member has given this notice, all Members may cumulate their votes for candidates in nomination. The persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected.

Special Election Procedure

Section 3.04. Notwithstanding any other provision of these Bylaws, for so long as a majority of the voting power of the Association resides in Declarant, or so long as there are two classes of membership in the Association, at least _____ [specify number which must equal at least 20 percent of total number of directors; e.g., one in the case of five directors (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.19(c)(1))] Director(s) shall have been elected solely by the votes of Members other than Declarant. If, at any election, Members other than Declarant do not have a sufficient percentage of the voting power to satisfy that requirement, _____ [the one position on the Board or the number of positions on the Board necessary to satisfy that requirement] shall be filled by the candidate[s] receiving the highest number of votes cast by Members other than Declarant. Any remaining positions on the Board shall be filled in accordance with normal voting procedures.

Term

Section 3.05. Each Director shall hold office until the election of his or her successor or until the Director's death, removal, or judicial adjudication of mental incompetence. _____ [Provide for either concurrent or staggered terms, e.g.:

[If terms are to run concurrently: The term of office of each Director shall be _____ (specify number not exceeding four) year(s).]

[If terms are to be staggered: The term of office of the _____ (e.g., three) Directors receiving the highest number of votes at the first annual meeting shall be _____ years and the term of office of the remaining Directors shall be _____ years.]

[Continue with the following:]

Thereafter, at each annual meeting, any vacancies on the Board created bydeath, resignation, removal, judicial adjudication of mental incompetence, or expiration of term shall be filled. The term of office of each Director elected to fill a vacancy created by the expiration of the term of office of the preceding Director shall be the same length as his or her predecessor's term. The term of office of any Director elected or appointed to fill a vacancy created by any event other than the expiration of the predecessor Director's term shall be the balance of the unserved term of the predecessor. Any person serving as a Director may be re-elected, and there shall be no limitation on the number of terms a Director may serve.

Removal

Section 3.06. Directors may be removed as follows:

(a) The Board may declare vacant the office of a Director on the occurrence of any of the following events:

(1) The Director is declared of unsound mind by a final order of court;

(2) The Director is convicted of a felony;

[Add if association holds assets in charitable trust:]

(3) The Director is found by a final order or judgment of any court to have breached duties imposed by Section 7238 of the California Corporations Code on directors who perform functions with respect to assets held in charitable trust; or

[Add if minimum attendance will be required:]

(4) The Director has failed to attend _____ [number] meetings of the Board.

(b) One or more Directors may be removed before the expiration of their terms, without cause, at an annual or special meeting of the Members. Any removal without cause shall be approved (1) by a majority of the total voting power of the Association for so long as the Development consists of fewer than 50 Lots, or (2) by the vote of Members representing a majority of a quorum of Members if the Development consists of 50 or more Lots. Notwithstanding the above, unless the entire Board is removed from office by the vote of the Members, an individual Director shall not be removed prior to the expiration of his or her term of office if the number of votes cast against the removal, or not consenting in writing to the removal, would be sufficient to elect the Director if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast (or, if the action is taken by written ballot, all memberships entitled to vote were voted) and the entire number of Directors authorized at the time of the Director's most recent election were then being elected. A Director who has been elected to office solely by the votes of Members other than Declarant as required by Section 3.04 of these Bylaws may be removed from office before the expiration of his or her term of office only by the vote of at least 51 percent of the voting power of Members other than Declarant. If a Director is removed at a meeting, a new Director may be elected at the same meeting.

Vacancies

Section 3.07. Any vacancy on the Board caused by the death or resignation of a Director shall be filled by the remaining Directors. The successor shall serve for the unexpired term of his or her predecessor. The Board shall not fill a vacancy on the Board created by the removal of a Director, except with the vote or written assent of a majority of each class of Members.

Compensation

Section 3.08. No Director shall receive any compensation for any service he or she may render to the Association; provided, however, that a Director may be reimbursed for actual out of pocket expenses incurred by the Director in the performance of his or her duties.

Powers and Duties

Section 3.09. The Board's powers and duties shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(a) Enforcing the applicable provisions of this Declaration, the Articles, Bylaws, and any other instruments governing the ownership, management, and control of the Project.

(b) Paying taxes and assessments that are, or could become, a lien on all or a portion of the Common Area.

(c) Contracting for casualty, liability, and other insurance on behalf of the Association.

(d) Contracting for goods and services for the Common Area, facilities, and interests of the Association, subject to the limitations set forth in Section 3.10(a) of these Bylaws.

(e) Delegating its powers to any committees, Officers, or employees of the Association expressly authorized by the Governing Instruments.

(f) Preparing budgets and financial statements for the Association as prescribed in the Governing Instruments.

(g) Formulating Rules and Regulations for the use and operation of the Common Area and facilities owned or controlled by the Association.

(h) Initiating and executing disciplinary proceedings against Members for violations of provisions of the Governing Instruments in accordance with procedures set forth in the Governing Instruments.

(i) Entering any Unit to perform necessary construction, maintenance, or emergency repair work for the benefit of the Common Area or the Members in the aggregate.

(j) Electing the Officers of the Association.

(k) Filling vacancies on the Board of Directors, except for a vacancy created by the removal of a Director.

(l) Reviewing the following on at least a quarterly basis:

(1) A current reconciliation of the operating accounts of the Association.

(2) A current reconciliation of the reserve accounts of the Association.

(3) The actual reserve revenues and expenses for the current year compared to the budget for the current year.

(4) The most current account statements prepared by the financial institution where the Association has its operating and reserve accounts.

(5) An income and expense statement for the operating and reserve accounts of the Association.

(m) Withdrawing moneys from the Association's reserve accounts.

(n) Causing studies of the reserve account requirements of the Project to be conducted, when necessary, and reviewing those studies in accordance with Civil Code Section 1365.5(e).

(o) Performing any act reasonably necessary to resolve any dispute involving the Declaration or any other governing documents, such as Articles, Bylaws, or Operating Rules, which govern the operation of the Project or the Association, the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Civil Code Section 1350 et seq.), or the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law (Corporations Code Section 7110 et seq.) by the Association's dispute resolution procedure required by Civil Code Sections 1363.810 through 1363.850 as manifested in Section 3.10 of the Declaration, and the alternative dispute resolution procedure prescribed by Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590 as a prerequisite to any party filing a civil enforcement action.

(p) The authorization detailed in (o) does not require the Board to do any of the following:

(1) As a prerequisite to initiating any civil action, to conduct inspections, maintain inspection records, exhaust applicable casualty insurance coverage maintained by the Association, provide an opportunity to cure, meet with members, or obtain the consent of the members.

(2) Except in compliance with Civil Code Sections 1369.510 through 1369.590, to submit civil claims of any kind to binding or non-binding alternative dispute resolution procedures.

Limitations on Powers

Section 3.10. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 3.09, the Board shall be prohibited from taking any of the following actions, except with the vote or written assent of a majority of each class of Members, or when Class B membership no longer exists, with the approval of a majority of the total voting power of the Association as well as the approval of a majority of the total voting power residing in Members other than Declarant:

(a) Entering into a contract with a third person under which the third person will furnish goods or services for the Common Area or the Association for a term longer than one year, with the following exceptions:

(1) A management contract approved by the Federal Housing Administration or Veterans Administration;

(2) A contract with a public utility if the rates charged are regulated by the Public Utilities Commission, provided that the term shall not exceed the shortest term for which the utility will contract at the regulated rate;

(3) Prepaid casualty and/or liability insurance of not more than three years duration, provided that the policy provides for short rate cancellation by the insured;

(4) Lease agreements for laundry room fixtures and equipment of not more than five years duration, provided that the lessor under the agreement is not an entity in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more;

(5) Agreements for cable television services and equipment or satellite dish television services and equipment for a term of up to five years, provided that the supplier is not an entity in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more; and

(6) Agreements for the sale or lease of burglar alarm and fire alarm equipment, installation, and services for a term of up to five years, provided that the supplier or suppliers are not entities in which the Declarant has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more.

(b) Incurring aggregate expenditures for capital improvements to the Common Area in any fiscal year in excess of 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year.

(c) Selling during any fiscal year property of the Association having anaggregate fair market value in excess of 5 percent of the budgeted gross expenses of the Association for that fiscal year.

(d) Paying compensation to Directors or to Officers of the Association for services rendered in the conduct of the Association's business; provided, however, that the Board may reimburse a Director or Officer for expenses incurred in carrying on the business of the Association.

(e) Filling a vacancy on the Board of Directors created by the removal of a Director.

In addition, the Board is prohibited from approving any decision to institute mandatory binding arbitration relating to any alleged violation of the standards set forth in California Civil Code Sections 895 through 897, except with the approval of a majority of the total voting power of the Association residing in Members other than the Declarant.

ARTICLE IV. MEETINGS OF DIRECTORS

Regular Meetings

Section 4.01. Regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held monthly [or quarterly or other period not more infrequent than semiannually] at a time and place within the Development fixed by resolution of the Board. Notice of the time and place of the meeting shall be communicated to the Directors not less than four days before the meeting; provided, however, that notice need not be given to any Director who has signed a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding of the meeting. Notice of the time and place of the meeting shall also be posted at a prominent place or places within the Common Area. However, if the Common Area is unsuitable for such a posting, the Board shall communicate the notice of the time and place by any means it deems appropriate.

Special Meetings

Section 4.02. Special meetings of the Board shall be held when called by written notice signed by the President of the Association or by any two Directors other than the President. The notice shall specify the time and place of the meeting and the nature of any special business to be considered. Notice of any special meeting must be given to each Director not less than _____ [specify number not less than three] days or more than _____ [e.g., 15] days before the date fixed for the meeting; provided, however, that notice need not be given to any Director who has signed a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding of the meeting. A copy of the notice shall also be posted in a prominent place or places in the Common Area of the Project.

Emergency Meetings

Section 4.03. Emergency meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by the President of the Association, or by any two members of the Board other than the President, if there are circumstances that could not have been reasonably foreseen that require immediate attention and possible action by the Board, and that of necessity make it impracticable to provide notice as otherwise required for meetings of the Board.

Quorum

Section 4.04. A majority of the Board shall constitute a quorum and, if a quorum is present, the decision of a majority of the Directors present shall be the act of the Board. It is expressly intended that after the Declarant Related Directors leave a meeting as required by Section 4.10:

(a) The Homeowner Directors shall have the right to transact business relating to Title 7 Decisions; and

(b) The decision of both Homeowner Directors if there are only two Homeowner Directors, or of a majority of the Homeowner Directors if there are more than two Homeowner Directors, shall constitute a proper and valid action of the Board.

Open Meetings

Section 4.05. Regular and special meetings of the Board shall be open to all Members of the Association. The Board must permit any Member to speak at any of the Board's meetings, except for meetings held in executive session. To this end, the Board must establish a reasonable time to allow Members to speak to the Board at its meetings.

Notice of regular and special meetings of the Board must be given to Members at least four days before the meeting. Notice may be given by posting in a prominent place or places within the Common Area, by mail or delivery to each Unit, or by Association newsletter.

Executive Session

Section 4.06. The Board may, with the approval of a majority of the Directors present at a meeting at which a quorum for the transaction of business has been established, adjourn a meeting and reconvene in executive session to discuss and vote on (1) litigation in which the Association is or may become involved, (2) matters that relate to the formation of contracts with third parties, (3) personnel matters, (4) member discipline matters, and (5) orders of business of a similar nature. In any matter relating to the disciplining of a Member, the Board shall meet in executive session if requested to do so by that Member, and the Member shall be entitled to attend the executive session. In all other cases, Members who are not on the Board may not attend an executive session. The nature of any business to be considered in executive session shall first be announced in opensession. Further, any matter discussed in executive session shall be generally noted in the minutes of the Board.

Adjournment

Section 4.07. A majority of the Directors present, whether or not a quorum is present, may adjourn any meeting to another time and place. If the meeting is adjourned for more than 24 hours, notice of the adjournment shall be given, prior to the time of the adjourned meeting, to the Directors who were not present at the time of the adjournment.

Minutes

Section 4.08. Written minutes shall be kept of all meetings of the Board. The minutes, minutes proposed for adoption that are marked to indicate draft status, or a summary of the minutes, of any meeting of the Board, other than an executive session, shall be made available to Members within 30 days of the meeting. Further, the minutes, proposed minutes, or summary minutes shall be distributed to any Member on request. Any Member making such a request shall reimburse the Association for its costs in making that distribution. Members shall be notified in writing at the time that the pro forma budget required by Civil Code Section 1365 is distributed, or at the time of any general mailing to the entire membership of the Association, of their right to have copies of the minutes of meetings of the Board and of how and where those minutes may be obtained.

Action Taken Without a Meeting

Section 4.09. The Board may take actions without a meeting if all of the Directors consent in writing to the action to be taken. If the Board resolves by unanimous written consent to take action, an explanation of the action taken shall be posted at a prominent place or places within the Common Area within three days after the written consents of all Directors have been obtained. However, if the Common Area is unsuitable for such a posting, the Board shall communicate the explanation of the action taken by any means it deems appropriate.

Title 7 Decisions

Section 4.10. All Declarant Related Directors are hereby declared to have a conflict of interest and are hereby expressly prohibited from voting or participating in any discussions related to any Title 7 Decision. In addition, the Declarant Related Directors are required to leave any meeting in which a Homeowner Director announces that such Director would like to begin discussions or a vote on a Title 7 Decision. Any vote on any Title 7 Decision shall require the approval of a majority of the Homeowner Directors present at the meeting, but not less than two (a majority of a quorum). The discussion and voting on the Title 7 Decision shall be conducted after all other business either scheduled for that meeting or which any Director intends to present to the Board for discussion or decision (other than a Title 7 Decision) has been completed. After the Declarant Related Directors have left the meeting, the Homeowner Directors may discuss or decide Title 7 Decisions; however, no other business shall be transacted until the Declarant Related Directors are notified of their right to re-enter the meeting and participate in all discussions and voting on other than Title 7 Decisions.

ARTICLE V. OFFICERS

Enumeration of Officers

Section 5.01. The Officers of this Association shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Chief Financial Officer. The Board may appoint additional officers pursuant to Article X of these Bylaws. Any number of offices may be held by the same person.

Appointment and Term

Section 5.02. The Officers of this Association, except those Officers appointed in accordance with Article X of this Article, shall be elected annually by the Board. Any vacancies shall be filled by the Board at any time, not necessarily on an annual basis, that it deems proper. Each Officer shall hold his or her office at the pleasure of the Board.

Resignation and Removal

Section 5.03. The Board may remove any Officer from office either with or without cause. An Officer may resign at any time by giving written notice to the Board, the President, or the Secretary. The resignation shall take effect at the date of receipt of the notice or at any later time specified in the notice. Unless otherwise specified in the notice, acceptance of the resignation by the Board shall not be necessary to make it effective.

Compensation

Section 5.04. An Officer shall not receive any compensation for any service he or she may render to the Association; provided, however, that any Officer may be reimbursed for actual out of pocket expenses incurred by the Officer in the performance of his or her duties.

ARTICLE VI. PRESIDENT

Election

Section 6.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] President.

Duties

Section 6.02. The President shall:

(a) Preside over all meetings of the Members and of the Board.

(b) Sign as President all deeds, contracts, and other written instruments that have been approved by the Board, un- less the Board, by duly adopted resolution, authorizes the signature of a lesser Officer.

(c) Call meetings of the Board whenever he or she deems it necessary, in accordance with rules and notice requirements imposed by the Board and the Governing Instruments. The notice period shall not be less than three days except in the case of emergencies.

(d) Have, subject to the advice of the Board, general supervision, direction, and control of the affairs of the Association.

(e) Discharge any other duties required of him or her by the Board.

ARTICLE VII. VICE-PRESIDENT

Election

Section 7.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] Vice-President.

Duties

Section 7.02. The Vice-President shall:

(a) Act in the place and in the stead of the President in the event of his or her absence, inability, or refusal to act; and

(b) Exercise and discharge any other duties required of him or her by the Board. In connection with any such additional duties, the Vice-President shall be responsible to the President.

ARTICLE VIII. SECRETARY

Election

Section 8.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] Secretary.

Duties

Section 8.02. The Secretary shall:

(a) Keep a record of all meetings and proceedings of the Board and of the Members;

(b) Keep the seal of the Association, if any, and affix it on all papers requiring the seal;

(c) Serve all required notices of meetings of the Board and the Members;

(d) Keep current records showing the names and addresses of all Members; and

(e) Sign as Secretary all deeds, contracts, and other written instruments that have been approved by the Board, if the instruments require a second Association signature and the Board has not passed a resolution authorizing another Officer to sign in the place and stead of the Secretary.

ARTICLE IX. CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

Election

Section 9.01. At the first meeting of the Board immediately following the first annual meeting of the Members, the Board shall elect _____ [one of its Members to act as or a] Chief Financial Officer.

Duties

Section 9.02. The Chief Financial Officer shall:

(a) Receive and deposit all of the funds of the Association in any bank or banks selected by the Board;

(b) Be responsible for and supervise the maintenance of books and records to account for Association funds and other Association assets;

(c) Disburse and withdraw Association funds in the manner specified by the Board; and

(d) Prepare and distribute the financial statements for the Association required by the Declaration.

ARTICLE X. SUBORDINATE OFFICERS

Appointment

Section 10.01. The Board may appoint, at any time, any subordinate Officers that the Association may require.

Duties

Section 10.02. The Board shall prescribe the term of office, authority, and duties of subordinate Officers. These duties may include the right to act in the place and stead of any Officer other than the President.

ARTICLE XI. BOOKS AND RECORDS

Required Books and Records

Section 11.01. The Association shall maintain at its principal office:

(a) Copies of the Governing Instruments as last amended;

(b) Adequate and correct books and records of account;

(c) Written minutes of the proceedings of its Members, of its Board, and of committees of its Board; and

(d) A Membership Register containing the following information about each Member: name, mailing address, telephone number, and class of membership.

Inspection Rights

Section 11.02. The above books and records shall be made available for inspection as follows:

(a) Any Member shall have the right to inspect the Governing Instruments at the principal office of the Association, at any reasonable time during office hours.

(b) Any Member shall have the right to inspect the books and records described in Section 11.01(b)-(d) and to copy them at any reasonable time and for a purpose reasonably related to his or her interest as a Member. This right is subject to the power of the Board to set reasonable times for inspection, notice requirements, and fees to cover the cost of making copies of the documents requested by a Member.

(c) Every Director shall have the absolute right to inspect all books, records, and documents of the Association and the physical properties owned or controlled by the Association at any reasonable time. The right of inspection by a Director includes the right to make extracts and copies of documents.

ARTICLE XII. NONLIABILITY AND INDEMNIFICATION

Definition of Agent

Section 12.01. For purposes of this Article, "Agent" means any present or former Director or Officer or any other employee or agent of the Association.

Nonliability

Section 12.02. Except as provided by law, no right, power, or responsibility conferred on the Board or the Architectural Committee by the Governing Instruments shall be construed as a duty, obligation, or disability charged upon any Agent. No Agent shall be liable to any party (other than the Association or a party claiming in the name of the Association) for injuries or damage resulting from the Agent's acts or omissions within what the Agent reasonably believed to be the scope of his or her Association duties ("Official Acts"), except to the extent that the injuries or damage result from the Agent's willful or malicious misconduct. No Agent shall be liable to the Association (or to any party claiming in the name of the Association) for injuries or damage resulting from the Agent's Official Acts, except to the extent that the injuries or damage result from the Agent's negligence or willful or malicious misconduct.

Indemnification

Section 12.03. The Association shall pay all expenses actually and reasonably incurred by, and satisfy any judgment or fine levied against, any Agent as a result of any action or threatened action against the Agent to impose liability on the Agent for his or her Official Acts, provided that:

(a) The Board determines that the Agent acted in good faith and in a manner the Agent reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Association;

(b) In the case of a criminal proceeding, the Board determines that the Agent had no reasonable cause to believe his or her conduct was unlawful; and

(c) In the case of an action or threatened action by or in the right of the Association, the Board determines that the Agent acted with the care (including reasonable inquiry) that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances.

Approval by Board

Section 12.04. Any determination of the Board required under this Article must be approved by a majority vote of a quorum consisting of Directors who are not parties to the action or threatened action giving rise to the indemnification. If the Board fails or refuses to make any such determination, the determination may be made by the vote or written consent of a majority of a quorum of the Members, provided that the Agent to be indemnified shall not be entitled to vote.

Payments

Section 12.05. Payments made pursuant to this Article shall include amounts paid and expenses incurred in settling the action or threatened action. This Article shall be construed to authorize payments and indemnification to the fullest extent now or hereafter permitted by applicable law.

Insurance

Section 12.06. The Association may purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of its Agents to the extent and under the circumstances provided in the Declaration.

ARTICLE XIII. AMENDMENTS

Amendment of Bylaws

Section 13.01. So long as a two-class voting system is in effect, any amendment of these Bylaws shall require the vote or written consent of Members representing _____ [specify percentage not below 51 percent] of_____ [the voting power of each class of Members or a quorum of Members of each class]. After conversion of the Class B Membership to Class A Membership, these Bylaws may be amended by the vote or written consent of (1) 51 percent [or specify higher percentage, but not one that would require the vote of more than a bare majority of the total voting power of the association (see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.24(b)(1)(B))] of a quorum, and (2) 51 percent [or specify higher percentage] of the votes of Members other than the Declarant. Notwithstanding the above, the percentage of a quorum or of the voting power of the Association or of Members other than Declarant necessary to amend a specific clause or provision in these Bylaws shall not be less than the prescribed percentage of affirmative votes required for action to be taken under that clause or provision.

Prior Approval of Commissioner

Section 13.02. When required under Section 11018.7 of the California Business and Professions Code, the prior written consent of the Real Estate Commissioner shall be obtained prior to submitting a proposed amendment to these Bylaws to the vote of the Members.

[Optional article:]

ARTICLE XIV. TAX-EXEMPT STATUS

Tax-Exempt Status

Section 14.01. The Board and Members of the Association shall conduct the business of the Association in such a manner that the Association shall qualify and be considered an organization exempt from federal and state income taxes pursuant to Section 528 of the Internal Revenue Code and Section 23701t of the California Revenue and Taxation Code, as amended.

Filing

Section 14.02. The Board shall file or have filed any annual election for tax-exempt status that is required under federal or state law, and shall cause the Association to comply with the federal and state statutes, rules, and regulations pertaining to those exemptions.

§ 34.206 Minutes Adopting Bylaws

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a set of minutes that may be used by the developer of a condominium project to elect the initial directors of the owners' association and to adopt the bylaws of the association. If the developer has organized the association under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 7110 et seq.] and has signed the articles of incorporation as the sole incorporator [see § 34.204[1]], he or she may adopt and amend the bylaws, elect the directors and officers, and do whatever else is necessary and proper to perfect the organization of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7134].

The developer should elect initial directors as soon as possible after the filing of the articles, so that those initial directors can perform various organizational tasks on behalf of the association (such as authorizing the payment of the expenses of corporate formation) that need to be carried out before the members meet for the first time and elect their own directors. For a list of such tasks, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.131.

The initial directors and developer should hold an organizational meeting as soon as possible after the election of the directors and the adoption of the bylaws. Before the meeting is held, the initial directors should waive (in writing) the statutory notice requirements for the meeting [see Corp. Code § 7211(a)(3); see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.245]. The association must keep written minutes of that meeting [see Corp. Code § 8320; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.247].

For a procedural guide to incorporation of an owners' association, see § 34.144, P 3.

§ 34.207 Management Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement between a condominium owners' association and a professional manager or management firm. The agreement delegates authority, within specified limits, to an agent/manager to carry on the day-to-day affairs of the condominium project. The board has authority to delegate the management of an association's activities to a management company; provided, however, that the activities and affairs of the association must be managed, and all corporate powers must be exercised under, the ultimate direction of the board [Corp. Code § 7210]. Developers and owners' associations of relatively large projects often elect to retain professional managers because the successful management of multiunit projects is time-consuming and difficult.

If the project will be professionally managed, the governing instruments for the project should authorize the board to delegate its project management duties to a professional manager or management firm [see § 34.202[2], Section 3.06(e)].

A copy of any proposed or existing management agreement (or other contract obligating the owners' association) must be included in a "substantially complete" application for a public report [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.1(a)(7); see § 34.200[1][e][iii]].

For a discussion of real property management in general, see Ch. 38, Real Property Management .

[b] Prospective Agent's Statement of Qualifications

As a prerequisite to entering into a management agreement, any prospective managing agent who is neither a full-time association employee nor a regulated financial institution, but who will be compensated for exercising control over the association's assets, must provide the association's board of directors with a written statement of the agent's qualifications, as prescribed by statute. The statement should be provided as soon as practicable, but in no event more than 90 days, before entering into a management agreement [see Civ. Code § 1363.1].

[c] Miscellaneous Limitations

[i] Term of Agreement

The governing body of an owners' association may not enter into a contract under which a third person will furnish goods or services for the common area or the owners' association for a term longer than one year, unless the board first obtains the vote or written assent of a majority of the voting power of the association residing in members other than the developer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(b)(1)]. However, that approval need not be obtained for the following agreements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(b)(1)(A)-(G)]:

- A management contract approved by the Federal Housing Administration or Veterans Administration;

- A contract with a public utility if the rates charged are regulated by the Public Utilities Commission, provided that the term does not exceed the shortest term for which the utility will contract at the regulated rate;

- Prepaid casualty and/or liability insurance with a term of up to three years, provided that the policy provides for short-rate cancellation by the insured;

- Lease agreements for laundry room fixtures and equipment for a term of up to five years, provided that the lessor under the agreement is not an entity in which the developer has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more;

- Agreements for cable television services and equipment or satellite dish television services and equipment for a term of up to five years, provided that the supplier is not an entity in which the developer has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more;

- Agreements for the sale or lease of burglar alarm and fire alarm equipment, installation, and services not to exceed five years duration, provided that the supplier or suppliers are not entities in which the subdivider has a direct or indirect ownership interest of 10 percent or more; and

- A contract for a term not to exceed three years that is terminable by the association after no longer than one year without cause, penalty, or other obligation on 90 days' written notice to the other party.

[ii] Interested Director

If a member of the board of directors of an owners association wishes to enter into a management agreement with the association or has a material financial interest in the proposed management entity [see Corp. Code § 7233(a) (mere common directorship does not constitute material financial interest); see also discussion of Corp. Code § 7233(b) (requirements applicable to common directorships), below], three sets of alternative requirements apply. The first set requires disclosure to the board of the material facts of the proposed transaction and the board's approval of that transaction [Corp. Code § 7233(a)(2)]. The second set requires disclosure to the members of the material facts regarding the transaction and the director's interest, and the members' approval of the contract or transaction [Corp. Code § 7233(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 5034 ("approval ofmembers" defined)]. The third set, which applies to transaction not otherwise approved, requires the person asserting the validity of the transaction, which is usually the association itself, to sustain the burden of proving that the transaction was just and reasonable as to the association at the time it was authorized, approved, or ratified [Corp. Code § 7233(a)(3)].

If a director of the association is also the director of the entity that is to serve as the management entity and the director does not have a material financial interest in the proposed management entity, the requirements of Corp. Code § 7233(b) apply. That section requires:

- The disclosure of material facts and the approval of the board or a committee of the board (by a vote sufficient without counting the vote of the common director or directors);
- The approval of the members; or
- For transactions not otherwise approved, that the transaction be just and reasonable as to the association at the time it is authorized, approved, or ratified.

For comprehensive discussion of the approval required for transactions involving interested directors, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, Nonprofit Corporations and Organizations (Matthew Bender).

Management Agreement

MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT FOR
_____ [name of project]

This Agreement is made on_____[date], between the_____[name of owner's association] ("Association"), a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation [or other description], whose principal office is located at_____[address], and_____[name of manager or management firm] ("Manager"), whose principal office is located at_____[address].

In consideration of the terms, conditions, and covenants contained in this instrument, the parties to this Agreement mutually agree as follows:

ARTICLE I. GENERAL

Declaration and Definitions

Section 1.01. A copy of that certain declaration filed in the Office of the Recorder of the County of _____, on_____[date], in Book _____, at Pages _____ and following ("Declaration"), is attached to this Agreement as Exhibit A and hereby incorporated by reference. Unless otherwise indicated, all definitions set forth in the Declaration shall apply to this Agreement.

Appointment

Section 1.02. The Board of Directors, on behalf of the Association, hereby appoints the Manager, and the Manager hereby accepts appointment, on the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement, as the exclusive manager of the condominium project known as _____ and located in the County of _____, State of California ("Project").

Authority and Duties

Section 1.03. The Manager fully understands that the function of the Association is the operation and management of the Project. The Manager agrees, notwithstanding the authority given to the Manager in this Agreement, to confer fully and freely with the Directors of the Association in the performance of its duties under this Agreement and to attend membership or Directors' meetings at any time or times requested by the Association. It is further understood and agreed that the authority and duties conferred on the Manager by this Agreement are confined to the Common Areas and facilities and the Exclusive Use Common Areas and facilities. The Manager's authority and duties shall not include supervision or management of individual Condominiums except as directed by the Association.

Engagement

Section 1.04. This agreement is entered into pursuant to Section [or Article or other] _____ of the Declaration. The Manager agrees to be bound by the terms of the Declaration and the other governing instruments of the Project. [The Manager shall serve the Association solely in the capacity of an independent contractor. No other employment relationship is created by this Agreement.]

Indemnity

Section 1.05. The Association agrees to indemnify the Manager and hold it harmless for all contracts entered into on behalf of and on the instructions of the Association. The Association also agrees to indemnify the Manager for all legal and accounting fees contracted by the Manager on behalf of the Association. This includes reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in defending a suit brought against the Association.

Documents Furnished to Manager

Section 1.06. To facilitate efficient operation, the Association shall furnish the Manager with a complete set of the plans and specifications of the improvements for the Project and with copies of any guaranties and warranties pertinent to the construction of the Project. Further, the Association shall provide copies of the following Project and Association documents to the Manager at the time of execution of this Agreement: the Declaration attached as Exhibit A to this Agreement; the Articles of Incorporation; the Bylaws; a sample deed; [a sample ground lease agreement;] the current budget of the Association; and the tax records of the Association.

Hiring of Employees by Manager

Section 1.07. The Manager shall hire in its own name all managerial personnel necessary for the efficient discharge of the duties of the Manager under this Agreement. Compensation for the services of those employees shall be the responsibility of the Manager. _____ [Those employees of the Manager who handle or are responsible for the handling of the Association's monies shall, without expense to the Association, be bonded by a fidelity bond acceptable to both the Manager and the Association or The Association shall secure a fidelity bond to cover all persons who handle or are responsible for the handling of the Association's monies, and the Manager shall reimburse the Association for that portion of the cost of the bond covering the Manager and its employees.]

ARTICLE II. SERVICES AND DUTIES

Duties of Manager

Section 2.01. The Manager shall render services and perform duties as follows:

(a) Investigate, hire, pay, supervise, and discharge the personnel necessary to be employed in order to properly maintain and operate the Project. The Association shall have the right to approve job standards and wage rates and to approve or disapprove any personnel hired by the Manager. However, those employees shall in every instance be in the employ of the Manager and not the Association. Compensation for the services of those employees (as evidenced by certified payrolls) shall be considered an operating expense of the Project.

(b) Immediately ascertain the general condition of the property and take an inventory of all furniture, office equipment, maintenance tools, and supplies.

(c) Coordinate the plans of Owners of Condominiums in the Project for moving their personal effects into or out of the Project, in order to minimize any resulting inconveniences to other Owners.

(d) Maintain businesslike relations with the Owners [and assist the Board in developing Rules and Regulations for the Project]. Complaints of a serious nature shall, after thorough investigation, be reported to the Association with appropriate recommendations.

(e) Demand and collect all fees, regular and special assessments due from the Owners, all rents or payments due from users or lessees of facilities located in the Common Area, and any other charges that may at any time become due to the Association. The Manager shall take, in the name of the Association, any action necessary to enforce collection, except that before to taking any action against an Owner to collect fees or assessments, the Manager shall obtain the approval of the Board. The Manager shall furnish the Board with an itemized list of all delinquent accounts immediately following the tenth of each month.

(f) Inspect and maintain the grounds and facilities of the Common Area according to standards acceptable to the Association, including cleaning, painting, plumbing, wiring, carpentry, and any other normal maintenance and repair work that becomes necessary. Major repairs and other outlays costing in excess of $_____ shall require prior approval of the Board unless an emergency exists that involves manifest danger to life or property or that threatens to interrupt vital services to dwellings. In an emergency situation the Manager has discretion to act but should, if at all possible, first consult with the Board.

(g) Receive, consider, and record maintenance requests under a standard procedure acceptable to the Association, and take the necessary steps to resolve them.

(h) After obtaining the approval of the Board, take any action that may be necessary to comply promptly with any and all orders, notices, or requirements affecting the Project issued by any federal, state, county, or municipal authority, and orders of the Board of Fire Underwriters or similar bodies. However, the Manager shall not take any action under this Section as long as the Association is contesting or has affirmed its intention to contest any such order, notice, or requirement. The Manager shall promptly, and in no event later than 72 hours from the time of their receipt, notify the Association in writing of all such orders, notices, or requirements.

(i) After obtaining the approval of the Board, enter into contracts for water, electricity, gas, telephone, vermin extermination, and other necessary services. The Manager shall also place orders for any equipment, tools, appliances, materials, and supplies that are necessary to properly maintain the Project. These contracts and orders shall be made in the name of the Association and shall be subject to the limitations set forth in the Declaration and in Section 2.01(f) of this Agreement. When taking bids or issuing purchase orders, the Manager shall act at all times under the direction of the Association, and shall be under a duty to secure for and credit to the latter any discounts, commissions, or rebates obtainable as a result of the purchases.

(j) Assist the Board in obtaining and maintaining all forms of insurance needed to adequately protect the Association, its Members, Directors, Officers, employees, and the Mortgagees, as their respective interests may appear (or as required by law), including workers' compensation insurance, public liability insurance, fidelity bond coverage, errors and omissions insurance, fire and extended coverage insurance, and burglary and theft insurance, in accordance with the requirements of the Declaration. The Manager shall promptly investigate and make a full written report as to all accidents or claims for damage relating to the management, operation, and maintenance of the Project, including any damage or destruction to the Project and the estimated cost of repair, and shall cooperate with and make any and all reports required by the insurance company.

(k) From the funds collected and deposited in the special account described in Section 2.01(r) of this Agreement, cause to be disbursed regularly and punctually: (1) salaries and any other compensation due and payable to the employees of the Association; (2) the taxes payable under Section 2.01(l) of this Agreement; (3) fire and other property insurance premiums payable under _____ [e.g., Article VII] of the Declaration; (4) the amount specified in the annual budget for allocation to the appropriate maintenance fund of the Association; and (5) sums otherwise due and payable by the Association as operating expenses authorized to be incurred under the terms of this Agreement, including the Manager's Commission.

(l) Working in conjunction with an accountant, prepare for execution and filing by the Association all forms, reports, exemption requests, and returns required by law in connection with unemployment insurance, workers' compensation insurance, disability benefits, Social Security, franchise tax, income tax, and other similar taxes now in effect or hereafter imposed.

(m) Maintain a comprehensive system of office records, books, and accounts in a manner satisfactory to the Association. Those records shall be subject to examination by their authorized agents at all reasonable hours. As a standard practice, the Manager shall render to the Association by not later than the tenth of each succeeding month a statement of receipts and disbursements as of the end of every month. The Manager shall also cause an annual report to be prepared, pursuant to _____ [e.g., Section 3.07(g)] of the Declaration, at the cost of the Association.

(n) Prepare or assist the Board in preparing a pro forma operating budget setting forth the information listed in _____ [e.g., Section 3.07(d)] of the Declaration. Each such budget shall be submitted to the Board in final draft form at least 30 days prior to the commencement of the annual period for which it has been made. Following its adoption by the Association, copies of the approved budget shall be distributed in the manner required in Section _____ [e.g., Section 3.07(g)] of the Declaration. The budget shall serve as a supporting document for the schedule of regular assessments proposed for the new fiscal year.

(o) On the request of the Owner of a Condominium, serve as a broker or agent in the sales or rentals of individual family units, and shall be entitled to compensation for such sales or rentals in an amount _____ [specify, e.g., equal to 6 percent of the sales price or to be agreed on by the Manager and the Seller].

(p) Maintain a membership record from information supplied by the Association, and handle all ordinary correspondence of the Association.

(q) Inform all Members of record of all rules, regulations, and notices that may be promulgated by the Association from time to time. The Manager shall refer all violations of the rules and regulations to the Board for appropriate action, and shall assist the Association in enforcing the rules and regulations.

(r) Establish and maintain, in a bank, savings association, or credit union located in this State, _____ [a trust fund account or an interest-bearing account or other account authorized by Civ. Code § 1363.2] for the deposit of the moneys of the Association. The Manager shall confirm that all funds in the account are covered by insurance provided by an agency of the federal government, and that the requirements of Civil Code Section 1363.2 governing the account and the funds are satisfied. The Manager shall have the authority to draw on that account for any payments to be made by the Manager to discharge any liabilities or obligations incurred pursuant to this Agreement, and for the payment of the Manager's fee. All such payments shall be subject to the limitations in this Agreement.

(s) Perform any other acts and deeds that are reasonable, necessary, and proper in the discharge of the Manager's duties under this Agreement.

Standard of Performance

Section 2.02. It shall be the duty of the Manager at all times during the term of this Agreement to perform the above services and duties according to the highest standards achievable consistent with the overall plan of the Association.

ARTICLE III. COMPENSATION AND EXPENSES

Compensation to Manager

Section 3.01. The sole compensation that the Manager shall be entitled to receive for all services performed under this Agreement shall be a fee computed and payable monthly in an amount equivalent to _____ percent of gross collections, exclusive of all surcharges [or specify dollar amount]. The first payment of the Manager's fee shall be payable on_____[date]. Thereafter, the Manager's fee shall be payable in advance monthly on or before the _____ day of each month during the term of this Agreement.

Overhead and Expenses of Manager

Section 3.02. The Manager shall pay its overhead expenses, including the salaries, office expenses, and other expenses of the officers and employees of the Manager who do not work exclusively at the Project. The salaries of the staff (as evidenced by certified payrolls) of the Association, the Association office expenses, and other expenses of the Association shall be paid by the Association and shall not be considered the Manager's overhead expenses. The Association shall also pay legal fees, [independent contractor expenses,] and other expenses incurred for the exclusive benefit of the Association. Everything done by the Manager under the provisions of Article II of this Agreement shall be done as the Manager of the Association, and all obligations or expenses authorized and incurred under this Agreement, except as otherwise provided in this Article, shall be for the account, on behalf of, and at the expense of, the Association. The Association shall pay all postage for special mailings, all photocopy costs, all delivery costs, all travel costs, and any and all other reasonable and necessary expenses incurred by the Manager on behalf of the Association.

ARTICLE IV. TERM OF AGREEMENT

Term

Section 4.01. Unless canceled pursuant to the other Sections of this Article, this Agreement shall be in effect for a term of one year from the date of execution. At the end of the initial term, this Agreement may be amended by written agreement of the parties for successive one-year terms.

Termination

Section 4.02. This Agreement may be terminated _____ [by mutual consent of the parties or unilaterally by either party to this Agreement, without cause and without payment of a termination fee, on 30 days' prior written notice].

Bankruptcy

Section 4.03. In the event a petition in bankruptcy is filed by or against the Manager, or in the event that it makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors or takes advantage of any insolvency act, either party to this Agreement may terminate this Agreement without notice to the other.

Accounting on Termination

Section 4.04. On termination, the contracting parties shall account to each other with respect to all matters outstanding as of the date of termination.

ARTICLE V. MISCELLANEOUS

Entire Agreement

Section 5.01. This Agreement shall constitute the entire Agreement between the contracting parties, and hereby supersedes all prior agreements.

Modification

Section 5.02. No variance or modification of this Agreement shall be valid unless made pursuant to a written instrument executed and approved by both parties.

Governing Laws

Section 5.03. This Agreement shall be construed under the laws of the State of California.

Assignment

Section 5.04. This agreement shall not be assigned by either party without the written consent of the other party. The successors and assigns of the parties to this Agreement shall be bound by the terms of this Agreement.

The parties to this Agreement have executed it in_____[city], California, effective the day and year first written above.

16-34 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34.208

§ 34.208 Rules and Regulations Governing Use of Common Areas

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a set of rules and regulations governing the use of common areas in a condominium project. Under the Commissioner's regulations, owners' associations have the authority to formulate rules of operation of the common areas and facilities owned or controlled by the association [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2792.21(a)(7)]. Rules and regulations are often prepared after the owners have assumed control of the association so that they may impose owner oriented regulations that supplement the declaration and other governing instruments prepared on the developer's behalf. If the use of rules and regulations is anticipated, they should be mentioned in the declaration [see § 34.202[2], Section 3.06(b)].

The provisions of this form are not exhaustive and should be used selectively to fit the needs of a particular condominium project.

[2] FORM

Rules and Regulations Governing Use of Common Areas

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR
_____ [name of project]

This set of Rules and Regulations applies to that condominium project ("Project") located in the City of _____, County of _____, State of California, and more particularly described in the declaration ("Declaration") filed in the Office of the Recorder of the County of _____, on_____[date], in Book _____, at Page _____ and following. All definitions set forth in that Declaration shall apply to these Rules and Regulations.

In order to provide for the protection of the value and environment of the Project and its individual Units, the use of the Project shall be restricted to, and in accordance with, the following provisions:

Obstructions

1. The sidewalks, entrances, passages, courts, public halls, elevators, vestibules, corridors, stairways, and fire exits of the Project shall not be obstructed or used for any other purpose than ingress to and egress from the Units in the Project.

Hanging Displays

2. No article shall be placed in any of the halls or on any of the staircase or tower landings. Nothing shall be hung or shaken from the doors, windows, or terraces, or placed on the window sills of the Project.

Use of Common Area by Children

3. Children shall not play in the halls, elevators, vestibules, stairways, fire towers, or any of the exterior landscaped areas.

Decorating Common Areas

4. No public hall or elevator vestibule of the Project shall be decorated or furnished by any Owner in any manner.

State of Maintenance

5. Each Owner shall keep his or her Unit and any Exclusive Use Common Areas appurtenant to the Unit in good condition. No Owner shall sweep or throw (or permit the sweeping or throwing of) any dirt or other substance from the windows, doors, or terraces of his or her Unit and appurtenant Exclusive Use Common Area or Areas.

Window Coverings

6. No shades, venetian blinds, awnings, or window guards shall be used in or about any Unit unless they have been approved in writing by the Board of Directors or Manager. This approval may be granted or refused in the sole discretion of the Board or Manager.

Signs and Exterior Attachments

7. No awning or radio or television aerial shall be attached to or hung from the exterior of the Project or terraces. Further, no sign, notice, advertisement, or illumination shall be displayed to the public view on or from any window, terrace, or other part of the Project without the prior written consent of the Board; provided, however, that a sign of reasonable dimensions and design advertising the property for sale, lease, or exchange, or advertising directions to the property, may be displayed as provided in Section 712 of the California Civil Code.

Ventilation and Air-Conditioning Systems

8. No ventilator or air-conditioning device shall be installed in any Unit without the prior written approval of the Board or Manager as to the type, location, and manner of installation of the device. This approval may be granted or refused in the sole discretion of the Board or Manager. Each Owner shall keep any ventilator or air-conditioning device that protrudes from the window of his or her Unit in good appearance and mechanical repair. Further, the Owner shall not permit a ventilator or air-conditioning device to leak condensation, or to make any noise that may unreasonably disturb or interfere with the rights, comforts, or conveniences of any other occupant of the Project. If the device becomes rusty or discolored, the Owner shall have it painted in a good and workmanlike manner in a standard color selected by the Board for the Project. If the Owner fails to keep the device in good order and repair and properly painted, the Board or Manager, in their discretion, may remove the device from the window. The Owner shall pay the cost of removal and shall not replace the device until it has been put in proper condition and the Board has consented in writing to the replacement.

Electric Equipment

9. All radio, television, or other electrical equipment of any kind or nature installed or used in each Unit shall fully comply with all the rules, regulations, requirements, and recommendations of the local fire authorities and the insurance underwriters. The Owner shall be liable for any damage or injury caused by any radio, television, or other electrical equipment in the Owner's Unit.

Lightweight Vehicles

10. No bicycles, scooters, motorcycles, or similar vehicles shall be taken into or from the Project through the main entrance or be allowed in any of the elevators other than the elevator designated by the Board or Manager for that purpose. No baby carriages or any of the above-mentioned vehicles shall be allowed to stand in the public halls, passageways, courts, or other public areas of the Project.

Noise

11. No Owner shall make or permit any disturbing noises in the Project, or do or permit anything to be done in the Project that will interfere with the rights, comforts, or conveniences of other Owners. No Owner shall play, or permit the playing of, any musical instrument, or operate or permit to be operated a phonograph, radio, television set, or similar device, in the Owner's Unit between the hours of 11:00 p.m. and 7:00 a.m., if that would disturb or annoy other occupants of the Project. In addition, no Owner shall practice or permit the practicing of either vocal or instrumental music for more than two hours in any day or between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and the following 9:00 a.m.

Animals

12. No bird, reptile, or animal shall be permitted, kept, or harbored in the Project unless it is expressly permitted in writing by the Board or Manager. That consent, if given, shall be revocable by the Board or Manager in their sole discretion and at any time. In no event shall any bird, reptile, or animal be permitted (1) in any elevators other than the elevator designated by the Board or Manager for that purpose; (2) in any of the public portions of the Project unless carried or on a leash; or (3) in any grass or garden plot under any circumstances. Large dogs shall be carried only in the elevator designated by the Board or Manager for that purpose.

Solicitors and Servants

13. Servants, messengers, and tradespeople shall use only the elevator designated by the Board or Manager for that purpose. Nurses employed by Owners or their guests or tenants are not subject to this restriction.

Deliveries

14. Supplies, goods, and packages of every kind are to be delivered to the Units only through the service entrance of the Project and by the elevator designated by the Board or Manager for that purpose. Trunks and heavy baggage shall be taken in or out of the Project by the elevator designated by the Board for that purpose and through the service entrance only.

Garbage

15. No refuse from the Units shall be sent to the basement of the Project except at the times and in the manner specified by the Board or Manager.

Water Outlets

16. Water closets and other water apparatus in the Project shall not be used for any purpose other than those for which they were designed. Sweepings, rubbish, rags, and other articles shall not be thrown into them. Any damage resulting from misuse of any water closets or other apparatus in a Unit shall be repaired and paid for by the Owner of the Unit.

Use of Project Employees

17. No occupant of the Project shall send any employee of the Board or Manager out of the Project on any private business.

Pest Inspection

18. The agents of the Board or Manager, and any contractor or other person authorized by the Board or Manager, may, on 24 hours' notice, enter any room or Unit in the Project at any reasonable hour of the day to inspect the room or Unit for the presence of any vermin, insects, or other pests and to take any measures necessary to control or exterminate vermin, insects, or other pests.

Cooking on Terraces or Balconies

19. No cooking shall be permitted on any terrace or balcony of the Project or in any Unit not specially constructed and equipped for that purpose.

Passkeys

20. The Board or Manager may retain a passkey to each Unit. The Owner shall not alter any lock or install a new lock on any door leading to his or her Unit without the written consent of the Board or Manager. If consent is given, the Owner shall give the Board or Manager a copy of the new key.

Parking

21. No vehicle belonging to an Owner or to a relative, guest, tenant, or employee of an Owner shall be parked in a manner that would impede or prevent ready access to any entrance to or exit from the Project by another vehicle.

Storage Space

22. The Board or Manager may from time to time curtail or relocate any space devoted to storage or service purposes in the basement of the Project.

Complaints

23. Complaints regarding the service of the Project shall be made in writing to the Board or Manager.

Amendments

24. Any consent or approval given under these Rules and Regulations may be added to, amended, or replaced at any time by resolution of the Board.

Laundry Room

25. The laundry and drying apparatus in the laundry room in the Project shall be used in the manner and at the times specified by the Board or Manager. Clothes and other articles shall not be dried or aired on the roof or on or from a terrace or any other part of the Common Area.

Unsightly Displays

26. No garbage cans, ice, milk bottles, mats, or other articles shall be placed in the halls or on the staircase landings. Nothing shall be hung from the windows, terraces, or balconies, or placed on the window sills. In addition, no linens, cloths, clothing, curtains, rugs, or mops shall be shaken or hung from or on any of the windows, doors, balconies, or terraces.

Garbage Chutes

27. Owners shall observe the following procedures when using the garbage chutes:

(a) Wrap dust, floor, and powdered waste in compact packages before depositing;

(b) Thoroughly drain and wrap in paper all garbage before depositing;

(c) Refrain from forcing large bundles into the chute;

(d) Crush into tight bundles all loose papers before depositing in the chute door;

(e) Cause all bundles of waste to slide out of the hopper into the chute; and

(f) Refrain from depositing waste of an explosive nature into the chute.

Use of Roof

28. Owners, their relatives, guests, servants, employees, agents, visitors, or licensees shall not at any time or for any reason whatsoever enter on or attempt to enter on the roof of the Project.

Decorating Exclusive Use Common Areas

29. No Exclusive Use Common Area shall be enclosed, decorated, landscaped, or covered by any awning or other device without the written consent of the Board or Manager.

Inflammables

30. No Owner or any of his or her agents, servants, employees, licensees, or visitors shall at any time bring into or keep in the Owner's Unit any flammable, combustible, or explosive fluid, material, chemical, or substance, unless it is intended for normal household use.

Entrusting Keys

31. If any key or keys are entrusted by an Owner or by his or her relative, agent, servant, employee, licensee, or visitor to an employee of the Board or Manager, whether for the Owner's Unit or an automobile, trunk, or other item of personal property, the entrusting of the key shall be at the sole risk of the Owner, and neither the Board or Manager shall be liable for injury, loss, or damage of any nature whatsoever, directly or indirectly resulting from or connected with that act.

Bathing Suits

32. Persons in bathing attire shall use only elevators and service entrances designated for that purpose by the Board or Manager. No persons in wet bathing suits shall use any of the corridors or elevators of the Project. Persons under 15 years of age shall not be permitted to use the swimming pool unless accompanied by an adult.

§ 34.220 60-Day Notice to Existing Tenants of Intention to Convert [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(A), 66452.18].

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the statutory notice of intention to convert, which the converter must give to each tenant of residential real property that will be converted to a condominium, stock cooperative project of five or more units, or community apartment project, at least 60 days before the tentative map for the conversion is filed [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(A), 66427.18]. The notice should be served by mail [see Gov. Code § 66427.1(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013].

This is the first of a series of notices that the converter must give to his or her tenants and prospective tenants under the Subdivision Map Act [see Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2), 66427.17-66427.20]. The others are set forth in §§ 34.221-34.226. For a step-by-step procedural guide to the conversion process, see § 34.145. For an overview of condominium conversions, see § 34.43.

[b] Projects Subject to Notice Requirements

The conversion notice requirements of the Subdivision Map Act discussed in this comment and in §§ 34.221[1]-34.226[1] only apply to the conversion of residential real property into a condominium project [see § 34.36[1]; but see discussion of Gov. Code § 66412(g), (h) in § 34.220[1][c][i], [ii]], community apartment project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004], or stock cooperative project consisting of at least five units [Gov. Code §§ 66424, 66427.1; see Gov. Code § 66426; Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2]. Thus, conversions creating stock cooperative projects of fewer than five units, planned developments, limited equity housing cooperatives, and time-share projects are not subject to these requirements even though they are considered common interest developments and/or common interest subdivisions for other purposes.

[c] Exemptions From Statutory Conversion Requirements

[i] Stock Cooperatives

If a parcel or final map was approved by the legislative body of a local agency, the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] will apply to the conversion of a stock cooperative to a condominium project if all of the following requirements are met [Gov. Code § 66412(h)]:

- The property was subdivided before January 1, 1982, as evidenced by a recorded deed creating the community apartment project.

- A person renting a unit in a cooperative is entitled to all tenant rights in state or local law, including but not limited to rights respecting first refusal, and displacement and relocation benefits at the time of the conversion.

- Subject to compliance with Civ. Code § 1351(e), which specifies the requirements for the condominium plan, all conveyances and other documents necessary to effectuate the conversion must be executed by the required number of owners in the project as specified in the bylaws or other organizational documents. If the bylaws or other organizational documents do not expressly specify the number of owners necessary to execute the conveyances and other documents, a majority of owners in the project must execute the conveyances or other documents. The executed conveyances and other documents will be binding on and affect the interests of all parties in the project.

- If the property was subdivided after January 1, 1980, (1) a final or parcel map was approved and recorded with all conditions of that map remaining in effect after the conversion, and (2) no more than 49 percent of the units were owned by any one person, including an incorporator or director of the community apartment project, on January 1, 1982.

- The local agency certifies that the requirements above were satisfied if the local agency, by ordinance, provides for that certification.

[ii] Community Apartment Projects

If a parcel or final map was approved by the legislative body of a local agency, the conversion of a community apartment project to a condominium project will be subject to the Subdivision Map Act if all of the following requirements are met [Gov. Code § 66412(g)]:

- The property was subdivided before January 1, 1982, as evidenced by a recorded deed creating the community apartment project.

- Subject to compliance with Civ. Code § 1351(e), which specifies the requirements for the condominium plan, all conveyances and other documents necessary to effectuate the conversion must be executed by the required number of owners in the project as specified in the bylaws or other organizational documents. If the bylaws or other organizational documents do not expressly specify the number of owners necessary to execute the conveyances and other documents, a majority of owners in the project must execute the conveyances or other documents. The executed conveyances and other documents will be binding on and affect the interests of all parties in the project.

- If the property was subdivided after January 1, 1964, (1) a final or parcel map was approved and recorded with all conditions of that map remaining in effect after the conversion, and (2) no more than 49 percent of the units were owned by any one person, including an incorporator or director of the community apartment project, on January 1, 1982.

- The local agency certifies that the requirements above were satisfied if the local agency, by ordinance, provides for that certification.

[d] Approval by Owners in Stock Cooperative or Community Apartment Project

A stock cooperative or a community apartment project subject to the requirements of the Subdivision Map Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11003.2, 11004] cannot be converted to a condominium project unless the required number of owners and trustees or beneficiaries of each recorded deed of trust and mortgagees of each recorded mortgage, as specified in the bylaws, or other organizational documents, have voted in favor of the conversion [Gov. Code § 66412(g), (h)]. If the organizational documents do not expressly specify the number of votes necessary to execute the conveyances or other documents, a majority vote of the owners, trustees or beneficiaries, and mortgagees in favor of the conversion is required [Gov. Code § 66452.10].

Subject to the requirement that only those owners, trustees, beneficiaries, and mortgagees who approved the conversion are required to execute the condominium plan [see Civ. Code § 1351(e)], all conveyances and other documents necessary to effectuate the conversion must be executed by the required number of owners in the cooperative or project as specified in the bylaws or other organizational documents. If the organizational documents are silent on this matter, a majority of owners in the cooperative or project must execute the necessary documents. Once executed, the conveyances and other documents are binding on and affect the interests of all parties in the cooperative or project [Gov. Code § 66452.10].

Each violation of the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] by a person who is the subdivider or a record owner, at the time of the violation, of property involved in the violation is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for up to one year or in the state prison, by a fine not exceeding $10,000, or by both fine and imprisonment. Every other violation of the Act is a misdemeanor [Gov. Code § 66499.31]. However, Gov. Code § 66499.31 does not apply to violations of the above approval requirements [Gov. Code § 66452.10].

§ 34.221 Notice to Prospective Tenants of Intention to Convert [Gov. Code § 66452.8]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory notice to prospective tenants of a residential building that the owner of the building plans to file, or has filed, a tentative map to convert the building to either a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project of at least five units [see Gov. Code § 66424]. The converter (or converter's agent) must give this notice immediately before accepting any rent or deposit from any prospective tenant who applies for a rental unit in the building at any time after the date that is 60 days before the filing of the tentative map for the conversion [Gov. Code § 66452.17(a); see Gov. Code § 66452.17(b) (statutory form)].

[b] Effect of Failure to Give Notice

Failure by a converter to give this notice to prospective tenants is not a ground for denial of the conversion. However, following such a violation, if a person who was entitled to this notice becomes a tenant and decides not to purchase his or her unit pursuant to Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(F) [see § 34.224[1]], the converter must pay that person the following [Gov. Code § 66452.17(c)].

(1) Actual moving expenses, up to $1,100, incurred when moving from the subject property; and

(2) The first month's rent (up to $1,100) on the tenant's new rental unit, if any.

These penalties are a minimum standard imposed on the converter, and local governments may impose greater penalties [Gov. Code § 66452.17(d)].

No units may be sold in this building unless the conversion is approved by the_____[City or County or City and County] and until after a public report is issued by the Department of Real Estate. If you become a tenant of this building, you shall be given notice of each hearing for which notice is required pursuant to Sections 66451.3 and 66452.5 of the Government Code, and you have the right to appear and the right to be heard at any such hearing.

§ 34.223 Notice of Submission of Application for Public Report [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(B)]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice to tenants that an application for public report will be, or has been, submitted to the Department of Real Estate. The notice must be given within 10 days, i.e., within the period beginning 10 days before and ending 10 days after the application is submitted. In addition to notifying the tenant of the submission, the notice must also inform the tenant that his or her right to purchase their unit begins with the issuance of the final public report and that the report will be available on request [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(B)]. Notifying the tenant of the future right to purchase is important because the issuance of the public report automatically triggers the 90-day right to purchase and tenants who wish to exercise that right may need more than 90 days to obtain financing and otherwise prepare to make the purchase [see Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(F); see also § 34.224[1]]. The notice should be served by mail [see Gov. Code § 66427.1(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013].

§ 34.224 Notice of Exclusive Right to Contract for Purchase of Unit [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(F), 66427.12]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This statutory form is a notice to a tenant of the exclusive right to contract for the purchase of his or her unit on the same, or more favorable, terms and conditions that the unit will be initially offered to the general public. The exclusive right to purchase commences on the date the final report is issued by the Department of Real Estate [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2], and runs for not less than 90 days, unless the tenant gives prior written notice of his or her intention to waive the right [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(F)]. The statute requiring issuance of this notice does not specify when the notice must be given; nor does it require notice that the DRE has issued the final report. (Though it does require notice to the tenant that the converter has received the report and that it is available on request [see Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(C); see also § 34.223A]).

The notice should be served by mail [see Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(F), 66427.15].

§ 34.226 180-Day Notice of Intention to Convert Property Prior to Termination of Tenancy [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(E), 66427.14]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This statutory form is a notice to tenants of intention to convert. A converter must give the notice to a tenant at least 180 days before terminating his or her tenancy due to conversion or proposed conversion [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(E), 66427.14]. This notice is different from, and should not be confused with, the 60-day notice to existing tenants of intention to convert set forth in § 34.220 [see Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(A)].

This notice does not alter or abridge the rights or obligations of the parties with respect to the performance of their covenants, including the provision of services, payment of rent, or the obligations imposed on landlords and tenants by Civ. Code §§ 1941-1941.2 [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2)(E)]. For coverage of those covenants, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, § 34B.224[1].

§ 34.227 Disclosure Regarding Condition of Newly Converted Condominium

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice concerning the condition of a unit in a structure that has been converted to a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative. As explained in more detail below, the notice must either list substantial defects or malfunctions in the unit or appurtenant common areas or disclaim any knowledge of substantial defects or malfunctions. The notice must be given to every prospective buyer of the unit by the converter/developer/subdivider ("converter") [Civ. Code § 1134]. Further, an owner of a converted unit ("owner") must give this notice to any subsequent transferee [Civ. Code § 1368(f)].

For these purposes, "prospective buyer" includes any person who makes an offer to purchase the unit [Civ. Code § 1134(c)(3)] and any person who makes a written request for this notice [see Civ. Code § 1134(c)(2)]. "Project" as used throughout the remainder of this comment refers to condominium projects, community apartment projects, and stock cooperatives.

The use of this notice will not abridge or limit any other disclosure obligation that is either created by another law or required to avoid fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation in the transaction [Civ. Code § 1134(g)].

[b] Contents of Statement

This notice must list any substantial defects or malfunctions in the major systems in the unit and common areas of the project [Civ. Code § 1134(b)]. "Major systems" includes the roof, walls, floors, heating, air conditioning, plumbing, electrical systems or components of a similar or comparable nature, and recreational facilities [Civ. Code § 1134(c)(1)]. Alternatively, if the converter or owner has inspected the unit and the common areas and has not discovered any substantial defects or malfunctions that a reasonable inspection would have disclosed, this notice must contain a statement disclaiming knowledge of any of the above substantial defects or malfunctions [See Civ. Code § 1134(a)].

If the notice is delivered after the execution of an agreement for the purchase of the unit, it must also contain a statement describing the buyer's right to rescind within specified time frames [see Civ. Code § 1134(b); see § 34.227[1][d]].

[c] Delivery

The converter must deliver this notice to a prospective purchaser as soon as practicable before transfer of title for the first sale of the unit [Civ. Code § 1134(a)]. Apparently, an owner must deliver the notice as soon as practicable before any transfer of title to the unit [see Civ. Code §§ 1134(a), 1368(f)]. As mentioned earlier, if the notice contains a disclaimer of knowledge of substantial defects or malfunctions, the converter or owner must inspect the unit before delivering the notice [Civ. Code § 1134(a); see § 34.227[1][b]].

Delivery of this notice will be deemed effected when delivered personally or by mail to: (1) the prospective buyer/transferee; (2) his or her agent; or (3) unless the purchase agreement (if any) provides to the contrary, his or her spouse [Civ. Code § 1134(c)(2)]. Violation of the delivery requirements may create a right of rescission in the buyer, or allow other remedies available under other provisions of law [see Civ. Code § 1134(b), (e); see also § 34.227[1][d]] and will make the converter or owner liable for actual damages suffered by the buyer [see Civ. Code § 1134(d); see also § 34.227[1][e]].

[d] Right to Rescind

If this notice is delivered after the execution of a purchase agreement for the unit, the buyer will have the right to rescind the purchase agreement. The rescission period is triggered by the delivery of this notice [see § 34.227[1][c]] and lasts for three days in the case of personal delivery and five days if delivery is by mail. To rescind, the buyer must deliver a written termination notice to the converter or owner [Civ. Code § 1134(b)].

[e] Violation of Disclosure Requirement

Any person who willfully fails to comply with the disclosure requirements discussed in this comment will be liable in the amount of actual damages suffered by the buyer [Civ. Code § 1134(d)].

Any violation of this disclosure requirement will not, in and of itself, invalidate any transfer of title to the unit [Civ. Code § 1134(f)]. The injured party may pursue any remedy available under any other provision of law [Civ. Code § 1134(e)].

§ 34.240 Grant Deed

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a grant deed for a condominium located in a project that is subject to the requirements of the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act [Civ. Code § 1350 et seq.; see § 34.33[1]].

For a discussion of grant deeds in general, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

[b] Provisions of Form

[i] Ownership of Unit (Parcel A)

The provision of this form labeled "Parcel A" grants a separate interest in a condominium unit, the boundaries of which are described elsewhere (in a recorded condominium plan or subdivision map). This ownership interest and method of description reflect the definition of "condominium" set forth in the Davis-Stirling Act [see Civ. Code § 1351(f), (l) ; see also §§ 34.32, 34.33[5]].

[ii] Undivided Interest in Common Area (Parcel D)

The provision of this form designated as "Parcel D" describes the undivided interest that the grantee will receive in the common area of the condominium project. A "condominium" consists of such an undivided interest plus a unit [see Civ. Code § 1362; see also §§ 34.33[7], 34.240[1][b][i]].

[iii] Exclusive Use Common Areas (Parcels B and C)

This form provides the drafter with the opportunity to describe any exclusive use common areas that are appurtenant to the conveyed unit [see Civ. Code § 1351(i); Parcels B and C of Form; see also § 34.33[7]].

[c] Recordation of Deed

A deed should be recorded in order to provide the grantee with priority over subsequent purchasers or mortgagees of the same property [see Civ. Code §§ 1107, 1214, 1215; see also Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording]. Before a deed can be recorded, it must be acknowledged [Civ. Code § 1170]. Consequently, this form provides for the insertion of an acknowledgment.

[d] Filing With Real Estate Commissioner

The developer must submit exemplars of all conveyancing instruments to be used in the proposed offering, such as a model grant deed, along with the application for the public report [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2792.1(a)(1), 2792(a)(12)].

§ 34.241 Notice of Owner's Rights and Responsibilities Regarding Delinquent Assessment

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of an owner's rights and responsibilities regarding a delinquent assessment. It is required to be sent by certified mail to an owner at least 30 days before the association records a Notice of Delinquent Assessment [see § 34.242], which will create a lien on the owner's separate interest to collect a debt that is past due for a regular or special assessment and any late charges, reasonable fees and collection costs, reasonable attorneys' fees, and interest due [see Civ. Code § 1367.1(a)].

[b] Contents of Form

The notice must include all of the following information [Civ. Code § 1367.1(a)(1)-(6)]:

- A general description of the association's collection and lien enforcement procedures;
- The method of calculation of the amount due;
- A statement that the separate interest owner has the right to inspect the association records pursuant to Corp. Code § 8333;
- A statement warning the owner that foreclosure of the lien may result in sale of the owner's separate interest without court action;
- An itemized statement of the charges owed by the owner, including items on the statement that indicate the amount of any delinquent assessments, the fees and reasonable costs of collection, reasonable attorney's fees, and any late charges and interest;

- A statement that the owner will not be liable to pay the charges, interest, and costs of collection, if it is determined the assessment was paid to the association on time;

- The owner's right to request a meeting with the board to discuss a payment plan for the amount owed [Civ. Code § 1367.1(c)(3)];

- The owner's right to dispute the assessment debt by submitting a written request for dispute resolution to the association pursuant to the association's "meet and confer" program [see Civ. Code § 1363.810 et seq.]; and

- The owner's right to request alternative dispute resolution with a neutral third party before the association initiates foreclosure proceedings, except that binding arbitration is not available if the association intends to foreclose judicially [see Civ. Code § 1369.510 et seq.].

Notice of Owner's Rights and Responsibilities Regarding Delinquent Assessment

NOTICE OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES REGARDING DELINQUENT ASSESSMENT

IMPORTANT NOTICE: IF YOUR SEPARATE INTEREST IS PLACED IN FORECLOSURE BECAUSE YOU ARE BEHIND IN YOUR ASSESSMENTS, IT MAY BE SOLD WITHOUT COURT ACTION

This Notice is given to you as an Owner of Unit _____ [number or other designation of Unit] in_____[name of project] who is delinquent in payment of [special and/or general assessment(s)] levied by the_____[name of Association] (Association). The Notice is provided in accordance with Section 1367.1(a) of the California Civil Code, and Section [or Article or similar heading] _____ of the Declaration for_____[name of project] (Declaration). In accordance with the above, you are informed of the following:

(1) The Association maintains the following collection and lien enforcement procedures: _____ [describe procedures].

(2) The total amount you owe the Association is $_____. That amount was calculated by _____ [method of calculation], and consists of the following items: _____ [itemize charges owed, including amount of delinquent assessment(s), and any fees and reasonable collection costs, reasonable attorneys' fees, late charges, and interest].

(3) You have the right, on written request, to inspect the accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of the Association at any reasonable time.

(4) You may submit to the Board of Directors a written request to meet to discuss a payment plan for the amount due. Your request must be mailed within 15 days of the postmark of this Notice. The Board shall then meet with you in executive session within 45 days of the postmark of your request. If there is no regularly scheduled Board meeting within that time, the Board may designate a committee of one or more members to meet with you.

(5) You may dispute the assessment debt by submitting a written request to resolve the dispute to the Association pursuant to the Association's "meet and confer" program required by Section 1363.820(a) of the California Civil Code and Section [or Article or similar heading] _____of the Declaration.

(6) You may request alternative dispute resolution with a neutral third party pursuant to Section 1369.510 et seq. of the California Civil Code before the Association may initiate foreclosure proceedings against your Unit, except that binding arbitration will not be available if the Association intends to initiate a judicial foreclosure.

(7) You will not be liable to pay the amount due if it is determined that the assessment was paid on time.

§ 34.242 Notice of Delinquent Assessment

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of delinquent assessment to be used before recording an assessment lien on or after January 1, 2003 [see Civ. Code § 1367.1(d), (m)]. Regular and special assessments are delinquent 15 days after they become due, unless the declaration provides a longer time period, in which case the longer time period will apply [Civ. Code § 1366(e)]. The amount of the assessment, plus any costs of collection, late charges, and interest [see § 34.242[1][c]] become a lien on the owner's separate interest when the association records this form with the county recorder of the county in which the separate interest is located [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)]. Before the association can record this notice, however, it must first notify the owner by certified mail of the delinquent assessment and related costs, and the association's settlement and enforcement procedures [see Civ. Code § 1367.1(a); see also § 34.241].

For a discussion of the requirements of the Davis-Stirling Act governing assessments, see § 34.39[1].

[b] Required Contents

The notice of delinquent assessment must contain all of the following information [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)]:

- The amount of the assessment and other sums imposed in accordance with Civ. Code § 1366 [see § 34.242[1][c]];

- A legal description of the owner's separate interest in the condominium project against which the assessment and other sums are levied;

- The name of the record owner of the owner's separate interest in the project against which the lien is imposed; and

- For the lien to be enforced by nonjudicial foreclosure [see Civ. Code § 1367.1(g); see also § 34.242[1][d]], the name and address of the trustee authorized by the association to enforce the lien by sale.

The notice must be signed by the person designated in the declaration or by the association for that purpose, or if no one is designated, by the president of the association [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)]. An itemized statement of the charges owed by the owner [see Civ. Code § 1367.1(a)(2)] must be recorded together with the notice [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)].

No later than 10 days after recording, a copy of the recorded notice must be mailed by certified mail to every person whose name is shown in the association's records as an owner of the separate interest [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)]. On receipt of the owner's written request identifying a secondary address for purposes of collection notices, the association must send additional copies of the notice to the secondary address provided [Civ. Code § 1367.1(k)].

Because an instrument must be acknowledged before it can be recorded [see Civ. Code § 1170], this form provides for the insertion of an acknowledgment.

[c] Related Costs

If an assessment is delinquent, the association may recover all of the following in addition to the amount of the assessment [Civ. Code § 1366(e)]:

- Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent assessment, including reasonable attorneys' fees [see Brown v. Professional Community Management, Inc. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 532, 539, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 617 (homeowners' association properly passed on to delinquent homeowners charges assessed by association's management company for collection services)].

- A late charge not exceeding 10 percent of the delinquent assessment or $10, whichever is greater, or any smaller amount specified in the declaration.

- Interest on the above sums and on the delinquent assessment, at an annual rate not exceeding 12 percent, commencing 30 days after the assessment becomes due, unless the declaration specifies that interest may be recovered at a lesser rate, in which case the lesser rate will apply [see Civ. Code § 1366(f) (exempting owners' associations from the interest rate (usury) limitations imposed by Cal. Const. art. XV)].

[d] Enforcement of Lien

A lien for a delinquent assessment will be prior to all other liens recorded after the notice of assessment unless the declaration provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1367.1(f)]. Thirty days after the lien is recorded, it may be enforced in any manner permitted by law. Any sale by the trustee designated in the notice of delinquent assessment must comply with Civ. Code §§ 2924, 2924b, and 2924c applicable to the exercise of powers of sale in mortgages and deeds of trust [Civ. Code § 1367.1(g); see Ch. 25D, Foreclosure]. The "one form of action rule" of Code Civ. Proc. § 726 [see Ch. 25D, Foreclosure, § 25D.13] does not apply, and the association may take a deed in lieu of foreclosure [Civ. Code § 1367.1(h)].

On payment of the sums specified in the notice, the association must record a notice of satisfaction and release of the lien [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)].

§ 34.243 Notice of Satisfaction and Release of Condominium Assessment Lien

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice of satisfaction and release of a lien against a condominium for delinquent assessments and related costs. The owners' association of the condominium project (or other type of common interest development) must record such a notice on payment of the sums specified in the notice of delinquent assessment [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d); see § 34.242[1]]. This notice, like the notice of assessment, must be recorded with the recorder of the county in which the condominium is located [Civ. Code § 1367.1(d)]. The recordation of this notice discharges the lien.

§ 34.244 Notice to Prospective Tenant of Approval of Final Map

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory notice that must be provided to a prospective tenant of a dwelling in a project covered by a final map. Specifically, if a final map has been approved for a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project (hereafter collectively referred to as a "project"), and the subdivider or subsequent owner of the project wishes to rent a condominium (or comparable dwelling) in that project to a tenant, the subdivider or subsequent owner must deliver a statutory notice (this form) to the prospective tenant before (1) offering the condominium (or comparable separate interest) for sale to the general public and (2) the execution of the rental agreement. The notice must be printed in at least 14-point bold print [Gov. Code § 66459(a) (applicable to rentals occurring on or after January 1, 1993)].

[b] Related Requirements

[i] References to Project

The project must not be referred to in a lease or rental agreement as an "apartment" or "apartments" on or after the date of the approval by the local agency of the final map for the project [Gov. Code § 66459(b) (applicable when final map was approved on or after January 1, 1993)].

[ii] Notice of Intention to Sell Unit

Any tenant of the project must be given at least 90 days' written notice of the intention to sell the tenant's rental unit to the general public. This requirement will not alter or abridge the rights or obligations of the parties in the performance of their covenants, including the provision of services, payment of rent, or other obligations imposed by the following statutes: Civ. Code §§ 1941 (requiring landlord to keep building fit for occupancy), 1941.1 (specifying characteristics necessary for occupancy), and 1941.2 (governing violations by tenants of affirmative obligations relating to condition of premises) [Gov. Code § 66459(c)]. For coverage of these statutes, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases .

[iii] Right of First Refusal

Any tenant who lawfully resides in the project must be given a right of first refusal by the subdivider or subsequent owner of the project for the purchase of his or her rental unit on (1) the same terms and conditions that the unit will be initially offered to the general public, or (2) terms and conditions more favorable to the tenant. This right to purchase must run for a period of 90 days from the date of the notice, unless the tenant gives written notice within the 90-day period of his or her intention not to exercise that right [Gov. Code § 66459(d)].

[iv] Exceptions and Violations

The requirements discussed in this comment do not apply to any of the following [Gov. Code § 66459(g)]:

- An owner of four dwelling units or less.

- Transfers pursuant to court order, including (a) transfers ordered by a probate court in the administration of an estate, (b) transfers by any foreclosure sale after default, (c) transfers by any foreclosure sale after default in an obligation secured by a mortgage, (d) transfers by a sale under a power of sale after a default in an obligation secured by a trust deed or by any other instrument containing a power of sale, and (e) any subsequent transfer by a mortgagor or beneficiary of a trust deed who accepts a deed in lieu of foreclosure or purchases the property at a foreclosure sale.

- Transfers by a fiduciary in the course of the administration of a decedent's estate, guardianship, conservatorship, or trust. For these purposes, a "fiduciary" is a state- or federally-chartered bank, trust company, savings association, savings bank, credit union, or industrial loan company.

A failure to comply with Gov. Code § 66459 will not invalidate a transfer of title to real property [Gov. Code § 66459(e)]. Nor will a failure to give the notice be grounds to deny the conversion. However, such a failure will render the subdivider liable to each prospective tenant who becomes a tenant and entitled to notice but does not purchase his or her unit for up to $1,100 in moving expenses and up to an additional $1,100 toward the tenant's first month's rent in a new rental unit [Gov. Code § 66459(f)].

§ 34.245 Recorded Statement of Association Information

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form identifies information about an association that is relevant to the collection of association assessments and fees. When recorded, it will assist escrow companies in collecting and prorating regular and special assessments that are due and payable when special interests are transferred. In particular, it will alleviate the problems those companies encounter in locating the party responsible for collecting assessments when an association has changed its name or is operating under a "doing business as" designation. The statement may include any or all of the following information [Civ. Code § 1366.2(a)]:

- The association's name as it appears in the declaration, or the association's current name, if different.
- The name and address of a managing agent, association treasurer, or other individual or entity authorized to receive assessments and fees imposed by the association.
- If available, a daytime telephone number of the person or entity identified in the second item, above.
- A list of separate interests subject to assessment by the association, showing the assessor's parcel number, legal description, or both, of each separate interest.
- The recording information identifying the association's declaration.
- If an amended statement is being recorded, the recording information identifying the prior statement or statements that the amendment is superseding.

The county recorder is authorized to charge a recording fee based on the recorder's normal per-page recording fee [Civ.

Code § 1366.2(b)].

§ 34.246 Notice to All Owners of Owners' Rights and Responsibilities Regarding Assessments and Foreclosure

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This statutory form outlines some of the rights and responsibilities of owners of property in common interest developments and the associations that manage them; in particular, the owners' responsibility for paying assessments and the association's procedures for dealing with delinquent payments. The notice must be printed in at least 12-point type. The association must distribute the notice to each member during the 60-day period immediately preceding the beginning of the association's fiscal year. If a member provides a secondary address, the association must send the notice to both the primary and the secondary addresses. Associations for time-share projects need not include the portion of the notice regarding meetings and payment plans [see Civ. Code § 1365.1].

[2] FORM

Notice to All Owners of Owners' Rights and Responsibilities Regarding Assessments and Foreclosure

NOTICE ASSESSMENTS AND FORECLOSURE

This notice outlines some of the rights and responsibilities of owners of property in common interest developments and the associations that manage them. Please refer to the sections of the Civil Code indicated for further information. A portion of the information in this notice applies only to liens recorded on or after January 1, 2003. You may wish to consult a lawyer if you dispute an assessment.

ASSESSMENTS AND FORECLOSURE

Assessments become delinquent 15 days after they are due, unless the governing documents provide for a longer time. The failure to pay association assessments may result in the loss of an owner's property through foreclosure. Foreclosure may occur either as a result of a court action, known as judicial foreclosure or without court action, often referred to as nonjudicial foreclosure. For liens recorded on and after January 1, 2006, an association may not use judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure to enforce that lien if the amount of the delinquent assessments or dues, exclusive of any accelerated assessments, late charges, fees, attorney's fees, interest, and costs of collection, is less than one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800). For delinquent assessments or dues in excess of one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) or more than 12 months delinquent, an association may use judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure subject to the conditions set forth in Section 1367.4 of the Civil Code. When using judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure, the association records a lien on the owner's property. The owner's property may be sold to satisfy the lien if the amounts secured by the lien are not paid. (Sections 1366, 1367.1, and 1367.4 of the Civil Code)

In a judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure, the association may recover assessments, reasonable costs of collection, reasonable attorney's fees, late charges, and interest. The association may not use nonjudicial foreclosure to collect fines or penalties, except for costs to repair common areas damaged by a member or a member's guests, if the governing documents provide for this. (Sections 1366 and 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

The association must comply with the requirements of Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code when collecting delinquent assessments. If the association fails to follow these requirements, it may not record a lien on the owner's property until it has satisfied those requirements. Any additional costs that result from satisfying the requirements are the responsibility of the association. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

At least 30 days prior to recording a lien on an owner's separate interest, the association must provide the owner of record with certain documents by certified mail, including a description of its collection and lien enforcement procedures and the method of calculating the amount. It must also provide an itemized statement of the charges owed by the owner. An owner has a right to review the association's records to verify the debt. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

If a lien is recorded against an owner's property in error, the person who recorded the lien is required to record a lien release within 21 days, and to provide an owner certain documents in this regard. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

The collection practices of the association may be governed by state and federal laws regarding fair debt collection. Penalties can be imposed for debt collection practices that violate these laws.

PAYMENTS

When an owner makes a payment, he or she may request a receipt, and the association is required to provide it. On the receipt, the association must indicate the date of payment and the person who received it. The association must inform owners of a mailing address for overnight payments. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

An owner may, but is not obligated to, pay under protest any disputed charge or sum levied by the association, including, but not limited to, an assessment, fine, penalty, late fee, collection cost, or monetary penalty imposed as a disciplinary measure, and by so doing, specifically reserve the right to contest the disputed charge or sum in court or otherwise.

An owner may dispute an assessment debt by submitting a written request for dispute resolution to the association as set forth in Article 5 (commencing with Section 1368.810) of Chapter 4 of Title 6 of Division 2 of the Civil Code. In addition, an association may not initiate a foreclosure without participating in alternative dispute resolution with a neutral third party as set forth in Article 2 (commencing with Section 1369.510) of Chapter 7 of Title 6 of Division 2 of the Civil Code, if so requested by the owner. Binding arbitration shall not be available if the association intends to initiate a judicial foreclosure. An owner is not liable for charges, interest, and costs of collection, if it is established that the assessment was paid properly on time. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

[The following may be omitted if the association governs a timeshare development]

MEETINGS AND PAYMENT PLANS

An owner of a separate interest that is not a timeshare may request the association to consider a payment plan to satisfy a delinquent assessment. The association must inform owners of the standards for payment plans, if any exist. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code) The board of directors must meet with an owner who makes a proper written request for a meeting to discuss a payment plan when the owner has received a notice of a delinquent assessment. These payment plans must conform with the payment plan standards of the association, if they exist. (Section 1367.1 of the Civil Code)

§ 34.247 Assessment and Reserve Funding Disclosure Summary [Civ. Code § 1365.2.5]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

After July 1, 2005, each pro forma operating budget or budget summary that is delivered to members pursuant to Civ. Code § 1365(a) must be accompanied by the statutory Assessment and Reserve Funding Disclosure Summary in the form illustrated below [Civ. Code § 1365.2.5(a); see 2004 Stats., ch 766, § 6]. The summary may be supplemented or modified to clarify the information delivered so long as the minimum information set out in the form is provided [Civ. Code § 1365.2.5(b)(3)]. For purposes of the summary, the amount of reserves needed to be accumulated for a component to a given time is computed as the current repair or replacement cost multiplied by the number of years the component has been in service divided by the component's useful life. However, the board is not required to use this calculation to fund reserves [Civ. Code § 1365.2.5(b)(4)].

Assessment and Reserve Funding Disclosure Summary [Civ. Code § 1365.2.5]

Assessment and Reserve Funding Disclosure Summary

(1) The current regular assessment per ownership interest is $_____ per _____.

Note: If assessments vary by the size or type of ownership interest, the assessment applicable to this ownership interest may be found on page _____ of the attached summary.

(2) Additional regular or special assessments that have already been scheduled to be imposed or charged, regardless of the purpose, if they have been approved by the board and/or members:

Date assessment is due:	Amount per ownership interest per month (If assessments are vari-	Purpose of the assessment:

able, see note immediately below):

Total:

Note: If assessments vary by the size or type of ownership interest, the assessment applicable to this ownership interest may be found on page _____ of the attached report.

(3) Based upon the most recent reserve study and other information available to the board of directors, will currently projected reserve account balances be sufficient at the end of each year to meet the association's obligation for repair and/or replacement of major components during the next 30 years?

Yes _____ No _____

(4) If the answer to (3) is no, what additional assessments or other contributions to reserves would be necessary to ensure that sufficient reserve funds will be available each year during the next 30 years that have not yet been approved by the board or the members?

Approximate date assessment will be due:	Amount per ownership interest per month:

Total:

(5) All major components are included in the reserve study and are included in its calculations.

(6) Based on the method of calculation in paragraph (4) of subdivision (b) of Section 1365.2.5 of the Civil Code, the estimated amount required in the reserve fund at the end of the current fiscal year is $_____, based in whole or in part on the last reserve study or update prepared by _____ as of _____ (month), _____ (year). The projected reserve fund cash balance at the end of the current fiscal year is $_____, resulting in reserves being _____ percent funded at this date. If an alternate, but generally accepted, method of calculation is also used, the required reserve amount is $_____. (See attached explanation.)

(7) Based on the method of calculation in paragraph (4) of subdivision (b) of Section 1365.2.5 of the Civil Code, the estimated amount required in the reserve fund at the end of each of the next five budget years is $_____, and the projected reserve fund case balance in each of those years, taking into account only assessments already approved and other known revenues, is $_____, leaving the reserve at _____ percent funding. If the reserve funding plan approved by the association is implemented, the projected reserve fund cash balance in each of those years will be $_____, leaving the reserve at _____ percent funding.

Note:

The financial representations set forth in this summary are based on the best estimates of the preparer at that time. The estimates are subject to change. At the time this summary was prepared, the assumed long-term before-tax interest rate earned on funds was _____ percent per year, and the assumed long-term inflation rate to be applied to major component repair and replacement costs was _____ percent per year.

§ 34.248 Association Request for Copy of Trustee's Deed on Sale of Separate Interest

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a request by a homeowners' association that any mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to record a notice of default on any separate interest governed by the association mail to the association a copy of any trustee's deed concerning the sale of such a separate interest. To be effective, the completed form must be filed with the county recorder in any county in which the separate interests are located and recorded before the filing of a notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)].

The request must include a legal description or the assessor's parcel number of the separate interests as well as the association's name and address and a statement that it is a homeowners' association [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)].

The mortgagee, trustee, or other authorized person must mail the requested information to the association within 15 business days following the date the trustee's deed is recorded. Failure to mail the request will not affect title to the property, however [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)].

This chapter discusses the legal requirements and provides forms relating to documents which may or must precede the drafting and execution of a real property lease. It includes discussion of the statutory requirements and forms pertaining to prepaid rental listing services. A prepaid rental listing service (PRLS) is a business in which a real estate broker or a person specifically licensed by the Department of Real Estate charges a fee for providing a prospective tenant with addresses of available rental property.

Specifically, this chapter covers all of the following issues:

- Corporate and unincorporated association resolutions authorizing lease;
- Powers of attorney (relating to the execution of a lease);
- Offers to lease real property;
- Options to lease real property; and
- Prepaid Rental Listing Services.

In contrast to corporations and unincorporated associations, partnerships and limited liability companies customarily do not engage in any formal prelease authorization procedures. The authority of a general partner or a member (or manager) of a limited liability company (LLC) to execute a lease, or an offer or option to lease, on behalf of the partnership or LLC, is granted in the organizational documents for the partnership or LLC [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , Ch. 15, General Partnerships , and Ch. 15A, Formation of Limited Partnerships].

Contracts authorizing or employing a real estate broker or agent to lease real property are covered in Ch. 21, Agreements With Real Estate Brokers and Agents . Complete leases are contained in Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, Ch. 34D, Ground Leases, and Ch. 34E, Shopping Centers: Leasing and Operation. Options to purchase rather than lease real property are covered in Ch. 22, Options to Purchase Real Property .

§ 34A.10 Resolutions Authorizing Lease

[1] Corporate Resolutions

[a] Corporation's Power to Lease

A California corporation organized under or subject to the General Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 100 et seq.], or organized under or subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5000 et seq.], has all of the powers of a natural person in carrying out its activities, including the power, with certain limitations, to enter into contracts [see Corp. Code §§ 207(g), 5140(i) (nonprofit public benefit corporations), 7140(i) (nonprofit mutual benefit corporations), 9140(i) (nonprofit religious corporations)]. Implicit in these broad statutory corporate powers is the power of a corporation to lease real and personal property in that a lease is both a conveyance and a contract [see Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor and Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 675, 104 P.2d 507 ; see also Sarmento v. Bay City Land & Cattle Co. (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 343, 347, 210 P.2d 754 (citing former Corp. Code §§ 802, 803, substantially reenacted as Corp. Code §§ 207, 208)].

If the lease contemplated by the corporation is all or substantially all of its assets, the principal terms of the lease must satisfy the following criteria [Corp. Code § 1001(a)]:

- It must be approved by the board; and

- Unless the transaction is in the usual and regular course of its business, it must be approved by the outstanding shares, either before or after approval by the board and before or after the transaction.

[b] Exercise of Corporation's Power

The powers of a corporation organized under or subject to the General Corporation Law must be exercised by or under the direction of the board of directors, subject to any limitation in the articles requiring that an action be approved by some or all of the shareholders [Corp. Code § 300(a)]. A statutory close corporation, however, may modify this traditional pattern of corporate control and allocate the management of corporate affairs ordinarily exercised by the board to the shareholders or other corporate officials through use of a shareholders' agreement [see Corp. Code § 300(d); see also Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements].

The powers of a nonprofit corporation organized under or subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law must also be exercised by or under the direction of the board of directors, subject to any limitation in the articles or bylaws requiring approval of an action by the members or a majority of all of the members [Corp. Code §§ 5210 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7210 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9210 (nonprofit religious corporation)].

Therefore, the board of directors usually is the body that must adopt the resolution authorizing the corporation to execute the lease, although corporate articles or bylaws may require that the members or shareholders initially adopt the resolution or approve the board's adoption of the resolution.

General resolutions by directors and shareholders of corporations organized under the General Corporation Law are covered respectively in Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions, and Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements. For full discussion of nonprofit corporations, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

[c] Purpose of Lease

[i] Corporations Organized Under General Corporation Law

Most corporations organized under or subject to the General Corporation Law may engage in any business activity, subject to any limitation contained in the articles and to compliance with any other applicable laws [Corp. Code § 206]. Corporations subject to the Banking Law [Fin. Code § 99 et seq.; see Corp. Code § 163] or professional corporations may engage in any business activity not prohibited by the respective statutes and regulations which govern it, subject to any limitation contained in their articles and to compliance with any other applicable laws [Corp. Code § 206].

Therefore, a corporation engaged in carrying on business authorized by its articles or the law under which it is organized may make all contracts which are essential to the transaction of its ordinary affairs, or which are an appropriate means by which it may reasonably expect that its business will be advanced, or which tend directly to promote its authorized business [Simpson v. Bergmann (1932) 125 Cal. App. 1, 7, 13 P.2d 531] . It follows then that the purpose of a lease entered into by a corporation should be within the scope of the corporation's purpose. Even if the articles limit the purposes or powers of the corporation, however, a lease made with a third party and which is not within the scope of the corporation's purposes or powers will bind the corporation if either of the following occurs [see Corp. Code § 208(b)]:

- It is authorized or ratified by the board of directors; or

- It is made within the actual or apparent authority conferred by the board or within the agency power of the executing officer, except as the board's authority is limited by law.

[ii] Corporations Organized Under Nonprofit Corporation Law

Corporations organized under or subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law must have one of several purposes prescribed by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 5111 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7111 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9111 (nonprofit religious corporation)]. The articles of incorporation may further limit these purposes [Corp. Code §§ 5131 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7131 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9131 (nonprofit religious corporation)].

A lease with a third party should be within the scope of the corporation's purpose; however, even if the lease is not within this scope, ordinarily it will bind the corporation if either of the following occurs [Corp. Code §§ 5141 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7141 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9141 (nonprofit religious corporation)]:

- It is authorized or ratified by the board; or

- It is made within the scope of actual or apparent authority conferred by the board or within the agency power of the officer executing it, except as the board's authority is limited by law.

An exception to this rule exists if a breach of a charitable trust (for nonprofit public benefit or nonprofit mutual benefit corporations) or a breach of a trust under which any of the assets of the corporation are held (for nonprofit religious corporations) is involved. In this event, certain specified persons having an interest in the corporation may obtain a rescission or injunction of the contract [see Corp. Code §§ 5142 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7142 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9142 (nonprofit religious corporation)].

[2] Unincorporated Association Resolutions

[a] Association's Power to Lease

An unincorporated association may, in its name, acquire, hold, manage, encumber, or transfer an interest in real property [Corp. Code § 18105]. The law formerly required a lease of real property owned or held by an unincorporated fraternal or benevolent association or a labor organization to be authorized by a resolution of the association or organization and then executed by the presiding officer and recording secretary under the seal of the association or organization [see former Corp. Code § 20002]. In 2004, amendments to the Corporations Code [2004 Stats., ch. 178] deleted the requirement of a resolution and made the provisions governing unincorporated associations inapplicable to labor organizations, labor federations, labor councils, or labor committees governed by a constitution or bylaws [Corp. Code § 18055(e)]. The law now provides that the acquisition, transfer, or encumbrance of an interest in real property by an unincorporated association must be executed by (1) its president and secretary or other comparable officers, (2) a person specifically designated by a resolution adopted by the association, or (3) a committee or other body or person authorized to act by the governing principles of the association [Corp. Code § 18115].

PRACTICE TIP:

Unincorporated Association as Tenant. Note that the statutory requirements discussed above pertain to property owned or held by the unincorporated association. In contrast, when an unincorporated association desires to lease real property as a tenant, there is no statute specifying the officers who must execute a lease. However, the articles or bylaws may contain a provision concerning either or both of these matters. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

[b] Limitations on Power to Lease

The laws and regulations of the organization, such as the articles of association or the constitution, may impose limitations or restrictions on the organization's power to lease.

PRACTICE TIP:

Restrictions on Association's Power to Lease. Examples of restrictions contained in the articles of association include (1) a requirement that any lease approved by the governing body must also be approved by a certain percentage of the members, and (2) establishing maximum permissible lease terms and rent which may be paid or minimum rent which must be received for association property. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

[c] Liability of Association

The Legislature has attempted to limit the potential tort and contractual liability of an unincorporated association and its members by enacting several statutory provisions concerning this matter [see Corp. Code § 18605 et seq.]. For discussion of this subject, see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations .

§ 34A.11 Powers of Attorney to Lease

[1] Governing Law

Powers of attorney are governed by the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.] to the extent provided in that law [Civ. Code § 2400]. Except when the Power of Attorney Law provides a specific rule, the general law of agency [see Civ. Code §§ 2019-2022, 2295 et seq.] also applies to powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4051].

For extended coverage of powers of attorney, including circumstances under which a power is or may be terminated or revoked, and reasons for using a power of attorney, see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney .

[2] Definitions

A "power of attorney" is a written instrument, however denominated, that is executed by a natural person having the power to contract and that grants authority to an attorney-in-fact [Prob. Code § 4022].

The "principal" is a natural person who executes a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4026]. An "attorney-in-fact" is a person granted authority to act for the principal in a power of attorney, regardless of whether the person is known as an attorney-in-fact or agent, or by some other term [Prob. Code § 4014(a)].

[3] Formal Requirements

A power of attorney is legally sufficient under the Power of Attorney Law if it meets all of the following requirements [Prob. Code § 4121]:

- It contains the date of its execution;

- It is signed either by the principal or in the principal's name by some other person in the principal's presence and at the principal's direction; and

- It is either acknowledged before a notary public or signed by a least two witnesses who satisfy the statutory requirements for witnesses [see Prob. Code § 4122 for witness requirements].

PRACTICE TIP:

Power of Attorney May Be Recorded. Although there is no statutory requirement that a power of attorney affecting real property must be recorded to be effective, if a document (for example, a lease or memorandum of lease) executed by the attorney-in-fact is recorded, it is customary practice to also record the power of attorney. If a leasehold title insurance policy is being obtained at the inception of the lease, the title insurance company generally will require that the power of attorney be recorded with a memorandum of lease. For a sample memorandum of lease, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.203. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

A natural person having the capacity to contract may execute a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4120]. Similarly, only a person having the capacity to contract is qualified to act as an attorney-in-fact [Prob. Code § 4200].

For discussion and a form of a power of attorney to execute a lease for either a landlord or tenant, see § 34A.210. For discussion and a form of a power of attorney to execute a lease for the landlord spouse of community property, see § 34A.211.

[4] Scope of Authority

In a power of attorney, a principal may grant authority to an attorney-in-fact to act on the principal's behalf with regard to all lawful subjects and purposes or with regard to one or more express purposes [Prob. Code § 4123(a)]. If a power of attorney grants general authority to an attorney-in-fact and is not limited to one or more express actions, subjects, or purposes, the attorney-in-fact has all the authority to act as a person having the capacity to contract [Prob. Code § 4261].

With regard to property matters, a power of attorney may grant authority to make decisions concerning all or part of the principal's real and personal property, whether owned by the principal at the time of the power of attorney's execution or thereafter acquired or whether located in California or elsewhere. The power of attorney need not contain a description of each item or parcel of property [Prob. Code § 4123(b)].

[5] Revocation of Power of Attorney

A principal may revoke a power of attorney in accordance with its terms or by a writing [Prob. Code § 4151(a); see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney , for discussion of the revocation of authority of the attorney-in-fact].

Furthermore, if a power of attorney affecting real property has been recorded, any instrument containing a revocation of the power must also be acknowledged or proved, certified, and recorded in the same office in which the instrument containing the power was recorded for the revocation to be effective [Civ. Code § 1216].

§ 34A.12 Offers and Proposals to Lease

[1] Offer to Lease

[a] Contents of Offer

Since a lease is a contract as well as a conveyance [Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor & Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 675, 104 P.2d 507] , an offer to lease real property is governed by general contract principles [see Civ. Code §§ 1580-1589 (offer and acceptance rules) and Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. The offer should contain all the essential terms of the prospective lease [see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases , for discussion of essential terms] including the following:

- The names of the offeror and offeree;
- A description of the property to be leased;
- The term of the prospective lease and its commencement date;
- The amount of rent and manner of payment;
- All covenants and conditions the offeror wants included in the lease; and
- The offeror's signature.

For further discussion of the essential terms of a lease, see Chs. 34B, Residential Leases , 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases , 34D, Ground Leases , and 34E, Shopping Centers: Leasing and Operation .

PRACTICE TIP:

Offer to Lease a Precursor to Serious Negotiations. Most parties can expect to have many additional terms in mind, other than the essential terms of the lease. In those circumstances, it may not make sense to proceed by way of an offer to lease, short of completely drafting the lease that one expects to sign. Essential terms should be nailed down early in the negotiations; the foregoing list is but a precursor to serious negotiations on a plethora of clauses. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[b] Acceptance

The manner in which the offer may be accepted, such as through the United States mail or by telephone, may be prescribed in the offer. Any conditions concerning the communication of an acceptance of the offer must be followed for the acceptance to be binding. If the offer does not specify a mode for acceptance, then any reasonable and usual mode may be used by the offeree [Civ. Code § 1582; see Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 500, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097 (ordinary mail is a "reasonable and usual mode" of acceptance)]. In this event, if the offer is not accepted within a reasonable time, it is deemed to be revoked [Civ. Code § 1587(2); see [c], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Receipt of Acceptance Should Be Required. To avoid expensive litigation over whether an offer was accepted by a "reasonable" mode within a "reasonable" time, the offer should specify that it may be accepted only on the offeror's receipt of a written acceptance at a specified place, no later than a specified date and time [see §§ 34A.220[2], 34A.221[2]]. By Myron Moskovitz.

Acceptance is deemed communicated when the offeree puts his or her acceptance in the course of transmission to the offeror in conformity with the provisions of Civ. Code § 1582 [Civ. Code § 1583; see Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 500-501, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097 (deposit of written notice in mail complies with requirements of Civ. Code § 1583)]. The acceptance must be absolute and unqualified [Civ. Code § 1585]. If the offeree makes his or her acceptance conditional on the offeror's changing or adding some term or condition in the offer, the acceptance is ineffective as such and constitutes a new offer [Civ. Code § 1585; Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 851, 855-856, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] .

[c] Revocation of Offer

An offer unsupported by consideration [see § 34A.13[2] for discussion of the distinction between an offer and an option supported by consideration] may be revoked by the offeror at any time before its acceptance is communicated to the offeror [Civ. Code §§ 1586, 1587(1); T.M. Cobb Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 273, 282, 204 Cal. Rptr. 143, 682 P.2d 338] . In addition, such an offer is revoked by the death or insanity of the offeror [Civ. Code § 1587(4)]. An offer is also revoked by the lapse of the time prescribed in the offer for its acceptance, or, if no time is prescribed, by the lapse of a reasonable time without communication of the acceptance [Civ. Code § 1587(2)], or by the failure of the offeree to fulfill a condition precedent to acceptance [Civ. Code § 1587(3)].

[d] Offer to Lease Through Agent

An agreement authorizing or employing an agent, broker, or other person to lease real estate for a longer period than one year, for compensation or a commission, is invalid unless it, or some note or memorandum of it, is in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged or by the party's agent [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(4); see Civ. Code § 2309]. Agreements with brokers and agents, including those authorizing or employing a broker or agent to lease real property, are covered in Ch. 21, Agreements With Real Estate Brokers and Agents .

[2] Proposal to Lease

A prospective tenant may want to open negotiations for a lease without making a formal offer that will bind him or her if accepted by the landlord. In this instance, the tenant may submit a proposal to lease to the landlord, which is often done in the form of a "letter of intent" [see § 34A.225].

A letter of intent or a proposal to lease does not bind either party since it is neither an formal offer [see [1], above], nor an option agreement [see § 34A.13]. Furthermore, parties entering negotiations for a lease are not subject to any implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing absent an existing contract [Racine & Laramie, Ltd. v. Department of Parks & Recreation (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1026, 1031-1034, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] . However, if the parties agree, by a letter of intent or otherwise, to negotiate in good faith, failure to do so is actionable [Racine & Laramie, Ltd. v. Department of Parks & Recreation (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1026, 1034, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] .

Finally, in the course of negotiations it is possible for a party to so mislead another by promises or representations, on which the second party detrimentally relies, as to bring into play the traditional concept of promissory estoppel [Racine & Laramie, Ltd. v. Department of Parks & Recreation (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1026, 1035, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335 ; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts (Matthew Bender)]. Absent the existence of these special circumstances or conditions, however, there is no obligation to bargain for a lease or a contract in good faith [Racine & Laramie, Ltd. v. Department of Parks & Recreation (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1026, 1035, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] .

§ 34A.13 Option Agreement to Lease

[1] Definitions

An option agreement has a dual nature: on the one hand it is an irrevocable offer, which on acceptance ripens into a bilateral contract. On the other hand, it is a unilateral contract which binds the "optionor" (the person giving the option) to perform an underlying agreement on the "optionee's" (the person to whom an option is given) performance of a condition precedent. The creation of the final bilateral contract requires no promise or other action by the optionor. The contract is completed by the acceptance of the optionor's irrevocable offer by the optionee [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 502-503, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097] .

As a unilateral contract, an option agreement must satisfy all the requirements for a valid contract [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions].

[2] Offer and Option Distinguished

An option unsupported by consideration is not a contract [see Civ. Code § 1550], but simply an offer that is revocable at any time before its acceptance [Thomas v. Birch (1918) 178 Cal. 483, 489, 173 P. 1102 ; Henry v. Lake Mill Lumber Co. (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 620, 622, 293 P.2d 909 ; Bard v. Kent (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 449, 451, 122 P.2d 8 (death of optionor as revoking option); see Civ. Code § 1587(4)]. It contemplates only one contract, the one that comes into existence after it is exercised [Torlai v. Lee (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 854, 858, 76 Cal. Rptr. 239] .

An option based on consideration, however, is itself a binding contract within the traditional and accepted sense [Torlai v. Lee (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 854, 858, 76 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; see Civ. Code §§ 1549, 1550]. An option agreement is a contract distinct from the contract to which the option relates [T.M. Cobb Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 273, 282, 204 Cal. Rptr. 143, 682 P.2d 338 ; see [1], above]. As such, an option agreement relating to the lease of land is not a lease of property, but rather a sale of the right to lease [see Warner Bros. Pictures v. Brodel (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 766, 772, 192 P.2d 949] .

An option supported by consideration is irrevocable and may not be terminated without the consent of the optionee during the time for which it is given [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 499-500, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097] , and is binding on the successors in interest of the optionor after his or her death [Bard v. Kent (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 449, 452, 122 P.2d 8] .

For illustrative examples of the distinctions between an offer and an option, see the forms set forth in §§ 34A.220[2] and 34A.221[2] (unilateral offers by the offeror, unsupported by consideration), and in §§ 34A.222[2] and 34A.223[2] (option agreements supported by consideration and binding on optionee).

[3] Consideration

A promise by the optionee to do something he or she is already bound to do for the optionor's benefit does not constitute consideration within the statutory meaning of good consideration [Henry v. Lake Mill Lumber Co. (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 620, 622, 293 P.2d 909 ; see Civ. Code § 1605]. On the other hand, if the option is in writing, consideration is presumed [see Civ. Code § 1614; Dawson v. Goff (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 310, 316, 273 P.2d 1] , although the true consideration or lack of it may always be shown [Spielberg v. Granz (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 283, 289, 8 Cal. Rptr. 190] .

Statutory law governing consideration is set forth in Civ. Code §§ 1605-1615.

[4] Writing Required

An option to execute a contract which under the statute of frauds must be in writing, must also be in writing [Pac. Etc. Dev. Corp. v. Western Pac. R.R. Co. (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 62, 66, 301 P.2d 825 (option to purchase real property)]. It follows then that since a lease of real property for a period longer than one year must be in writing [Civ. Code §§ 1091, 1624(a)(3); Code Civ. Proc. § 1971], an option for such a lease must also be in writing.

[5] Termination of Option

Whether or not supported by consideration, an option is automatically revoked, that is, terminated, by the lapse of the time prescribed in the option for its acceptance, or, if no time is prescribed, by the lapse of a reasonable time without communication of the acceptance [see Civ. Code § 1587(2)]. An option, therefore, is of no force for any purpose if not accepted within the time limit [Wilson v. Ward (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 390, 394, 317 P.2d 1018 ; Transamerica Corp. v. Parrington (1953) 115 Cal. App. 2d 346, 352, 252 P.2d 385].

[6] Exercise of Option

[a] Manner of Exercise

The exercise of an option is the communicated election of the optionee to accept the option. The manner in which the election is communicated is subject to the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1582 and 1583 [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 501, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097 ; see § 34A.12[1][b] for discussion of statutory requirements].

It is well settled that when the provisions of an option agreement prescribe the particular manner in which the option is to be exercised, they must be strictly followed [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 498, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097] . However, if the option agreement does not specify the mode of acceptance, any reasonable and usual mode may be adopted [Civ. Code § 1582], such as exercising the option by ordinary mail, in which case it is effective at the time that written notice of acceptance is deposited in the mail [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 500-501, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097] .

Exercise of an option must be unconditional and in accordance with its terms. An attempt to exercise it on terms varying from those offered is tantamount to a rejection of the original offer and the making of a counteroffer [Landberg v. Landberg (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 742, 752, 101 Cal. Rptr. 335 ; see Civ. Code § 1585]. Disputes about whether the option has been validly exercised are decided by reference to the rules of offer and acceptance--which means the terms of the exercise must ordinarily be identical to terms of the offer [Arden Group, Inc. v. Burk (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1414, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Consider Attaching Lease Document as Exhibit to Option Agreement. Because there are many material terms of a lease other than the essential terms of the identity of the parties, description of the premises, lease term, and rental rate, it may be wise to attach the proposed lease as an exhibit to the option agreement. That would reduce disputes relating to the terms of the lease that is the subject of the option agreement. By Benjamin Kaplan.

If not required by statute to be in writing, the acceptance may be oral [Lawrence v. Settle (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 386, 388, 6 Cal. Rptr. 49 (involving option for sale of real property)] unless the option provides otherwise [see Civ. Code § 1583].

[b] Time Period

If the option agreement is silent as to the period of the option, it must be exercised within a reasonable time under the circumstances [Southern Christian Leadership Conference v. Al Malaikah Auditorium Co. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 207, 222, 281 Cal. Rptr. 216] . The holder of a formal option loses the right to exercise it once it has communicated a formal rejection, and this is so even though the purported exercise occurs within the time specified in the option agreement [Beverly Way Associates v. Barham (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 49, 55, 276 Cal. Rptr. 240] .

[c] Exercise as Creating Lease

Exercise of an option to lease real property may create either an executory contract to make a lease or a lease itself, depending on the intention of the parties. If a written option sets forth all the terms and conditions on which the optionor offers to lease the property, or includes an attached form of lease to be executed, written exercise of the option by the optionee may, without further action by either party, create a lease. In this event, the statute of frauds with regard to a lease for a period of more than one year is satisfied by the fact that the option agreement is in writing signed by the optionor and the exercise of the option is in writing signed by the optionee [see Gavina v. Smith (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 501, 503-504, 154 P.2d 681] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 34A.14 Prepaid Rental Listing Services

[1] Definitions and Governing Law

Prepaid rental listing services are governed by Article 2.3 of the Business and Professions Code (PRLS statute) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167 et seq.]. A "prepaid rental listing service" (PRLS) means the business of supplying prospective tenants with listings of residential real properties for tenancy under an arrangement whereby prospective tenants are required to pay a fee in advance of, or contemporaneously with, the supplying of the listings. A PRLS does not otherwise involve the negotiation of rentals by the person conducting the service [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167(a)]. The listings may be supplied by publication or otherwise; however, a newspaper of general circulation is not a PRLS [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10167(a), 10167.1]. "Prepaid rental listing service" does not include the business of providing roommate referral information [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167(a)].

A PRLS "licensee" is a person licensed to conduct a PRLS or a person engaged in the business of a PRLS under a real estate broker license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167(b)]. A "designated agent" is the person in charge of the business of a PRLS at a given location [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167(d)]. A "location" means the place, other than the main or branch office of a real estate broker, where a PRLS is conducted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167(c)].

Furthermore, the provisions of Chapter 1 (General Provisions) of the Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.] and Chapter 2 (Administration) of the Real Estate Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10050 et seq.] apply to persons licensed under the PRLS statute [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.16]. Certain other provisions of the Real Estate Law relating to nonresident applicants, the issuance of restricted licenses, payment of application fees, and the renewal of licenses after the expiration date may apply to persons licensed under the PRLS statute [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.17].

The PRLS statute applies only to the provision of listings of residential real properties for tenancy by prepaid rental listing services. Unless the statute expressly provides otherwise, its requirements do not apply to any other goods or services sold by a PRLS, if all of the following requirements are met [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.2(b)]:

- The purchase of those goods or services is not required to obtain the listings;
- The purchase is not included in the contract to provide the listings;
- The contract to provide those listings clearly specifies that the purchase of any other goods and services is optional; and
- The price charged for any other goods and services is fair and reasonable.

In an action alleging that the price charged for any other goods and services is not fair and reasonable, the burden is on the commissioner to demonstrate that the price charged unreasonably exceeds the fee customarily charged for the same or comparable goods or services in the community in which the prepaid rental listing service operates [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.2(b)].

[2] License Requirements

[a] Separate License Required

Any person engaged in the business of a PRLS must be licensed either in that capacity or as a real estate broker [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.2(a)]. A person who already has a real estate broker license and who wishes to operate a PRLS under that license is exempt from the separate PRLS licensing requirements; however, the business must be conducted under the immediate supervision of the broker or of a real estate salesperson licensed to, and acting on behalf of, the broker [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.3(b)].

[b] Application for License

A separate application for a license as a PRLS must be made in writing for each location to be operated by a licensee other than a real estate broker. Each application must be on forms supplied by the Department of Real Estate (DRE) and must be accompanied by a $100 application fee for the first location and a $25 application fee for each additional location [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.3(a)].

Before authorizing the issuance of a license for a location, the Commissioner of Real Estate may require proof as is deemed advisable concerning the honesty and truthfulness of the following persons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.4]:

- Any applicant for a license as a prepaid rental listing service;
- The applicant's designated agents;
- The officers, directors, and any persons owning 25 percent or more of the shares of any corporation making the application; and
- Any person owning or controlling a beneficial ownership interest of 25 percent or more in the entity making application.

To assist in this determination, the fingerprinting of every original applicant including officers, directors, and persons owning 25 percent or more of the shares of the corporate applicant is required, and the Commissioner may also hold an adjudicatory hearing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.4]. Additionally, the proposed PRLS contract form to be used by the licensee must be approved by the Commissioner before the license is issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(c); see [5][b], below].

Every applicant for a PRLS license who is not a resident of California must file with the application an irrevocable consent that in any action commenced against the applicant in California arising out of the activities of the PRLS, the applicant may be served by delivering the process to the Secretary of State if personal service cannot be made in California in the exercise of due diligence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.6].

[c] Duration of PRLS License

A prepaid rental listing service license issued by the Department of Real Estate is generally valid for a period of two years [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.13] unless suspended or revoked during that time [see [d], below] or unless the license expires due to the unavailability of the designated agent [see [4], below].

[d] Suspension, Denial, or Revocation of License

The Real Estate Commissioner, after an adjudicatory hearing, may suspend, deny, or revoke the license of a PRLS [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.12]. A license may be suspended, denied, or revoked for violation of the governing statute by a licensee or a licensee's employee, agent, or designated agent, or on conviction of the licensee, or an officer, director, or owner of 25 percent or more of the shares of a corporate licensee, of a crime that is substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a PRLS licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.12(a)].

[3] Bond Requirements

A bond is required of each licensee except the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.8]:

- A person exempt from the payment of federal and state income taxes;
- An agency of the federal, state, or local government; and
- A real estate broker conducting a PRLS under a real estate license.

Every other licensee must provide to the Department of Real Estate, and at all times maintain in force, a bond of $10,000 for each location. This bond may be in the form of either a corporate surety bond or a cash deposit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.7].

[4] Operation of PRLS Business

The PRLS business at a licensed location must be conducted under the immediate supervision of the licensee or a designated agent who is not a designated agent at any other location [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.5]. Whenever a designated agent ceases permanently to be a designated agent at any location because of death, termination of employment, or any other reason, the licensee must notify the Department of Real Estate of that fact in writing within five days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.5].

A license issued for a particular location automatically expires 60 days after the time the business conducted at that location ceases for any reason to be under the charge of and managed by the designated agent of record with the Department of Real Estate, unless within the 60-day period the licensee submits written notice of the new designated agent to the Department of Real Estate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.5]. A designated agent of the licensed service may serve as designated agent for the location in question as well as for the location for which he or she is the designated agent of record during the 60-day period [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.5].

[5] Written Contract

[a] Required Contents of Contract

Before accepting a fee from a prospective tenant, a licensee must provide the prospective tenant with a written contract. The contract must include all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(a)]:

- The name of the licensee and the addresses and telephone numbers of the principal office or location of the licensee;
- The location, or branch office of a real estate broker, providing the listing to the prospective tenant;
- Acknowledgment of receipt of the fee, including the amount;
- A description of the service to be performed by the licensee, including significant conditions, restrictions, and limitations if applicable;
- The prospective tenant's specifications for the rental property, including, but not limited to, (1) type of structure, (2) locations acceptable to the tenant, (3) furnished or unfurnished, (4) number of bedrooms required, and (5) maximum acceptable monthly rental;
- The contract expiration date, which must not be later than 90 days from the date of execution of the contract;
- A clause setting forth the right to a full or partial refund of the fee paid in advance as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(c) for exact language to be used, unless different language is approved by the Department of Real Estate];
- The signature and printed full name of the licensee or of the designated agent, real estate salesperson, or employee acting on behalf of the licensee (the signature of any person, including the prospective tenant, may be provided in any electronic form that provides a reasonable method of indicating that the individual whose signature is required authorized the contract to be signed in that form);
- A clause in bold type letters outlining the small claims court remedy available to the prospective tenant; and
- A clause in bold type letters clearly stating that the purchase of any goods and services other than the provision of listings of residential real properties for tenancy is optional.

The provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10, which grant the prospective tenant the right to a partial or full refund of the advance fee, do not apply to those persons who are purchasing rental information for purposes other than that of locating a rental unit for their personal use or the use of a designated person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(d)].

A contract for prepaid rental listing services executed in electronic form, and signed in any electronic form that provides a reasonable method of indicating that the individual whose signature is required authorized the contract to be signed in electronic form, is valid to the same extent as an executed written contract. On request by the customer, the licensee must deliver an executed paper copy to the customer within five working days of receiving the request [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(d)].

[b] Filing and Retention of Contract

The form of the PRLS contract proposed to be used by a licensee must be filed with the Department of Real Estate for approval before it is used by the licensee. Any modification of a previously filed form, including a change in the name or business address of the licensee, must also be filed before it is used by the licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(c)]. The Department of Real Estate must withhold the issuance or renewal of a license until it has approved the contract. The Department must communicate disapproval of a proposed modification or contract provision to the licensee in writing within 15 working days of the filing of the contract provision or modification, accompanied by a written justification of why the modification or contract provision is contrary to the requirements of the PRLS statute. A proposed modification to a contract will be deemed approved if it has not been approved or disapproved within 15 working days of being filed with the Department [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(c)].

The original of each PRLS contract, any separate contracts for required goods or services, refund claims, receipts, and any other relevant documents must be retained by the licensee for at least three years from the date of termination of the contract. During this period, the contract is subject to examination by an authorized representative of the Real Estate Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(b)]. Records that are stored in the ordinary course of business in digital media must, on request of a duly authorized representative of the commissioner, be provided on diskette, CD-ROM, or similar portable digital storage medium. For these purposes, the "original" of a contract executed in electronic form is either the copy of the contract stored in digital media or a paper printout of that contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(b)(1)]. Retained documents must be disposed of by shredding or other appropriate means so that the identity of the prospective tenant cannot be determined from the disposed information alone or in combination with other publicly available information [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(b)(2)].

[6] Refund of Advance Fee

[a] Licensee's Obligation to Refund Fee

A licensee must fully refund the advance fee paid by a prospective tenant if, within five days after the execution of the contract, the licensee does not supply at least three rental properties then available to the prospective tenant and meeting the specifications of the contract, unless the prospective tenant obtains a rental through the services of the licensee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(a)(1)]. A demand for the return of the fee must be made by or on behalf of the prospective tenant within 10 days following the expiration of the five-day period. The demand must be delivered or mailed by registered or certified mail to the address of the location or branch office of a real estate broker set forth in the contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(a)(2)].

A licensee must refund any fee in excess of a $50 service charge to the prospective tenant if, during the term of the contract, the prospective tenant either obtains a rental other than through the licensee's services or does not obtain a rental, provided that the prospective tenant demands the refund within 10 days after the contract expires. The refund must be made within 10 days of receipt of the demand [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(b)(1)]. To obtain a refund, the prospective tenant must either [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(b)(2)]:

- Provide to the licensee reasonable documentation of the prospective tenant's new rental or of the fact that the prospective tenant did not move, such as a lease, rental agreement, or utility bill, with sufficient information to verify that the new rental was not obtained through the services of the licensee or that the prospective tenant did not move; or

- Fill out and sign a written statement on a form supplied by the licensee [see § 34A.231A].

[b] Exception to Licensee's Duty to Refund Fee

The obligation of a licensee to refund the advance fee, as discussed in [a], above, does not apply to a person purchasing rental information for a purpose other than that of locating a rental unit for personal use or the use of a designated person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(d)].

[c] Damages for Failure to Refund Fee

If the licensee fails to make the refund and if the denial or delay in making the refund is found to have been done in bad faith, a court of appropriate jurisdiction, including a small claims court, may award damages to the plaintiff in an amount not to exceed $1000 in addition to actual damages sustained by the plaintiff [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(e)]. If the licensee refuses or is unable to pay the damages awarded by the court, the award may be satisfied out of the bond discussed in [3], above [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(e)].

[7] Violations of PRLS Statute

[a] Misdemeanor Actions

It is a misdemeanor for any licensee (or a licensee's employee or agent) to make, or cause to be made, any false, misleading, or deceptive advertisements or representations concerning the services that the licensee will provide to prospective tenants [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10167.11(a), 10167.15]. It is also a misdemeanor for any of those persons to refer a property to a prospective tenant knowing or having reason to know the following [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10167.11(b), 10167.15]:

- The property does not exist or is unavailable for tenancy;

- The property has been described or advertised by or on behalf of the licensee in a false, misleading, or deceptive manner;

- The licensee has not confirmed the availability of the property for tenancy during the four-day period immediately preceding dissemination of the listing information. However, property may be referred to a prospective tenant during a period of five to seven days after the most recent confirmation of the property's availability for rental if the licensee has made a good faith effort to confirm availability within the four-day period and the most recent date of confirmation is set forth in the referral; or

- The licensee has not obtained written or oral permission to list the property from the property owner, manager, or other authorized agent.

[b] Injunctive Relief

Whenever a person has engaged or threatens to engage in any acts or practices which constitute, or would constitute, a violation of the PRLS statute, the superior court of the county in which the acts or practices have taken place, or are about to take place, on complaint of the Real Estate Commissioner, the attorney general, district attorney, or city attorney, may enjoin these acts or practices by an appropriate order [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.14].

§ 34A.110 Resolutions Authorizing Lease

1. Determine purpose of lease, including whether that purpose is within lawful purpose or scope of corporation or association [see §§ 34A.10[1][c] and 34A.10[2][a] for discussion of lawful purpose].

2. Review corporation's articles of incorporation or association's articles of association to determine whether articles further limit purpose of corporation or association.

3. Ascertain corporation's or association's power to lease by reviewing articles of incorporation or of association and bylaws to determine whether they contain a provision limiting or restricting the power of corporation or association to enter the lease [see § 34A.10[1][a], [2][a] for discussion of corporation's and association's power to enter into lease].

4. Verify with Secretary of State that corporation is currently active and in good standing.

5. Review corporation's or associations articles and bylaws to determine if they require a certain group to adopt the resolution.

6. Determine which group(s) within corporation or association has authority to adopt resolution, for example:

a. Board of directors of corporation usually exercises powers of corporation [see § 34A.10[1][b]].

b. Shareholders of nonprofit corporation may be required by articles of incorporation to approve lease [see § 34A.10[1][b]].

c. If unincorporated association owns or holds real property to be leased and governing documents require resolution authorizing lease, ascertain whether members or other authorized body must adopt resolution [see § 34A.10[2][a]].

7. Determine which persons or officials will be or are authorized to execute lease, for example:

a. For unincorporated association that owns or holds property to be leased [Corp. Code § 18115]:
(1) President, secretary, or other comparable officer.

(2) Person specifically designated by resolution adopted by association.

(3) Committee or other body or person authorized to act by association's governing principles.

b. For corporation:

(1) Bylaws may provide for either of the following [see Ch. 4, Bylaws]:
(a) Specify persons authorized to execute lease.

(b) Direct Board of Directors to authorize certain persons to execute lease in adopted resolution.

(2) Lease executed by the following corporate officials is not invalidated by lack of authority of signing officers if other party lacks actual knowledge of lack of authority [Corp Code §§ 313, 5214 (nonprofit public benefit corporations), 7214 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporations), 9214 (nonprofit religious corporations)]:

(a) Chairman of the board, president, or any vice-president, and

(b) Secretary, any assistant secretary, chief financial officer, or any assistant treasurer.

§ 34A.113 Prepaid Rental Listing Services

[1] PRLS Contract

1. Determine factual information required to be included in PRLS contract (in addition to facts already obtained as set forth in § 34A.103), including [see § 34A.14[5][a] for required contents of contract]:

a. Services to be performed by licensee, including significant conditions, restrictions, and limitations, if applicable.

b. Prospective tenant's specifications for rental property, including, but not limited to:
(1) Type of structure.

(2) Locations acceptable to tenant.

(3) Furnished or unfurnished.

(4) Number of bedrooms required.

(5) Maximum acceptable monthly rental.

c. Contract expiration date, not to exceed 90 days from date of execution of contract.

2. Determine whether any information, in addition to that required by law, will be included in contract, for example:

a. Renewal provision.

b. Statement concerning PRLS's:

(1) Area(s) of specialization.

(2) Geographical territory.

c. Advance fee amount to be charged to prospective tenant.

d. Type of services to be performed by licensee, such as:

(1) List of rental addresses, including:
(a) Initial written list.

(b) Additional or updated lists.

(2) Telephone call-in service.

(3) Other.

e. If contract will be renewable:

(1) Period of renewal.

(2) Renewal fee.

f. Other.

[2] Refund of Advance Fee

1. Determine whether prospective tenant meets following requirements for partial refund (total amount of advance rental fee paid, less maximum allowable $50 service charge) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(b)]:

a. Prospective tenant either:
(1) Obtains rental other than through licensee's services during term of contract; or

(2) Does not obtain a rental.

b. Prospective tenant has provided documentation or a written statement supporting request for partial refund.

c. Demand for refund is made within 10 days following expiration of contract.

2. Determine whether prospective tenant meets following requirements for full refund (total amount, including $50 service charge) of fee paid [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(a)]:

a. Licensee has not, within five days after execution of contract, supplied at least three rental properties then available and meeting contract specifications.

b. Demand for refund is made within 10 days following expiration of five-day period, by delivery or registered or certified mail to address set forth in contract.

3. Verify that prospective tenant did not obtain rental through services of licensee.

a. Review list of addresses supplied to prospective tenant.

b. Question prospective tenant about whether subsequent addresses were furnished by licensee by telephone or otherwise.

§ 34A.120 Prepaid Rental Listing Services

1. Before using Prepaid Rental Listing Service (PRLS) contract, file proposed contract form with Department of Real Estate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(c)].

NOTE:
Any contract which is modified after its original filing with and approval by the Real Estate Commissioner must also be filed with the Commissioner before it is used [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(c)].

2. If PRLS licensee is not a resident of California, file irrevocable consent for service of process on Secretary of State with Department of Real Estate [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.6].

3. Post bond with Department of Real Estate, if required, as follows:

a. Bond is not required if PRLS is operated by any of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.8]:
(1) Person exempt from payment of state and federal income taxes.

(2) Agency of federal, state, or local government.

(3) Real estate broker conducting PRLS under a real estate license.

b. All other licensees must provide bond of $10,000 for each location in the form of corporate surety bond or cash deposit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.7].

4. Advise client that original PRLS contract, any separate contracts for required goods or services, refund claims, receipts, and any other relevant documents must be retained by licensee for at least three years from date of termination of contract, subject to inspection of Real Estate Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(b)].

a. Names of offeror and offeree.

b. Description of property to be leased.

c. Term and commencement date of prospective lease.

d. Amount of rent and manner of payment.

e. Covenants and conditions to be included in lease.

f. Expiration date of offer and manner of acceptance.

g. Signature of offeror.

2. Draft option agreement, including:

NOTE:
An option for the lease of real property for a period longer than one year must be in writing [Civ. Code §§ 1091, 1624(a)(3)].

a. Names of optionor and optionee.

b. Description of property to be leased (include legal description if option agreement will be recorded).

c. Term and commencement date of prospective lease.

d. Amount of rent and manner of payment.

e. Covenants and conditions to be included in lease.

NOTE:
If a written option agreement sets forth (either on its face or in an attached form of lease) all of the terms and conditions on which the optionor offers to lease the property, written exercise of the option by the optionee may, without further action by either party, constitute a lease [see § 34A.13[6][c]].

f. Consideration.

NOTE:
An option not supported by consideration is not a contract, but simply an offer that is revocable at any time before it is accepted [see § 34A.13[2] for discussion of distinction between offer and option agreement].

g. Term of option.

h. Manner of exercise.

NOTE:
Unless the contract specifies otherwise, the optionee may exercise the option by any usual and reasonable method [Civ. Code § 1582].

i. Signature of:

(1) Optionor.

(2) Optionor's spouse, if option proposes to lease community real property for period of more than one year.

(3) Optionee, if he or she is to perform any future acts as consideration for option.

3. Draft letter of intent and proposal of tenant, including:

a. Description of premises.

b. Agreement to enter into exclusive negotiations for lease in good faith.

c. Tenant's proposed terms, including:

(1) Initial and option term(s) of lease.

(2) Rental amounts.

17-34A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34A.200

AUTHOR: by Linda Breen Pierce Myron Moskovitz Benjamin Kaplan Practice Consultants

§ 34A.200 Corporate Resolution Authorizing Lease and Certificate of Secretary

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a corporate resolution authorizing the corporation to enter into a lease of real property as either a tenant or a landlord. It is appropriate for use by the group authorized to adopt the resolution (board of directors, shareholders, or members) for a corporation organized under or subject to the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 100 et seq.], or organized under or subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 5000 et seq.]. For further discussion of the powers of a corporation to enter into a lease, see § 34A.10[1].

For forms of a resolution to enter into a lease to be used by an unincorporated association, see §§ 34A.201 and 34A.202.

[b] Certification

This form sets forth a Certificate to be executed by the secretary of the corporation. The original or a copy of any resolution adopted by the board of directors must be certified by the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation to be prima facie evidence of the resolution [Corp. Code §§ 314, 5215 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7215 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9215 (nonprofit religious corporation)]. A certified copy may be in writing or in any other form capable of being converted into a clearly legible tangible form [Corp. Code §§ 314, 5215 (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7215 (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9215 (nonprofit religious corporation)].

Furthermore, a board resolution certified by the appropriate officer and authenticated by the corporate seal is presumptively the act of the corporation [Purser v. Eagle Lake L. & I. Co. (1896) 111 Cal. 139, 141-142, 43 P. 523] . However, whereas the corporation has the power to use a corporate seal, the failure to affix a seal does not affect the instrument's validity [Corp. Code §§ 207(a), 5140(a) (nonprofit public benefit corporation), 7140(a) (nonprofit mutual benefit corporation), 9140(a) (nonprofit religious corporation)]. For further discussion of the use of a corporate seal, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

AUTHOR: by Linda Breen Pierce Myron Moskovitz Benjamin Kaplan Practice Consultants

§ 34A.201 Resolution Authorizing Lease by Members of Unincorporated Association or Other Organization

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a resolution of the members of an unincorporated association or other organization authorizing the execution of a lease. The articles of association and bylaws should be reviewed to determine if all or a certain percentage of the members are required to adopt the resolution, or if the governing or other board of the association is authorized to adopt the resolution [see § 34A.202 for form] with or without the accompanying approval resolution of the members [see § 34A.203 for form]. This form may be modified to include any restrictions or limitations on the organization's power to lease [see discussion of limitations in § 34A.10[2][b]].

If the association is leasing property as a tenant, a resolution is not required by statute [see § 34A.10[2][a]], but the articles or bylaws may require a resolution. For further discussion of the power of an unincorporated association to lease property, see § 34A.10[2][a].

For discussion of unincorporated associations generally, see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations .

§ 34A.202 Resolution Authorizing Lease by Governing Board or Other Authorized Body of Unincorporated Association or Other Organization

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a resolution of the board of directors or other body authorized by the articles of association or bylaws of an unincorporated association, authorizing the association to enter into a lease of real property. The articles of association and bylaws should be reviewed to determine if all or a certain percentage of the members are required to adopt the resolution [see § 34A.201 for form], or if the governing or other board of the association is authorized to adopt the resolution with or without the accompanying approval resolution of the members [see § 34A.203 for form]. This form may be modified to include any restrictions or limitations on the organization's power to lease [see discussion of limitations in § 34A.10[2][b]].

If the association is leasing property as a tenant the articles or bylaws may require a resolution. For further discussion of the power of an unincorporated association to lease property, see § 34A.10[2][a].

§ 34A.203 Resolution of Approval of Members of Unincorporated Association or Other Organization

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is designed for use when a resolution of the governing body of an unincorporated association authorizing execution of a lease is required to be approved by the members of the association. For a form of resolution of the governing body, see § 34A.202. A form of resolution of the members of an unincorporated association authorizing a lease is set forth in § 34A.201. The law concerning unincorporated association resolutions to lease is discussed in § 34A.10[2].

AUTHOR: by Linda Breen Pierce Myron Moskovitz Benjamin Kaplan Practice Consultants

§ 34A.210 Power of Attorney to Execute Lease for Landlord or Tenant

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a power of attorney to execute a lease that may be used to empower an attorney-in-fact to negotiate and execute a lease or leases of property in the landlord's or tenant's name and to collect or pay rent on the property. The powers granted by this form may be further expanded or limited as given situations require. For a power of attorney authorizing the execution of a lease of community real property, see § 34A.211. For discussion of the statutory requirements for a valid power of attorney, see § 34A.11.

[b] Recording Practices

In practice, powers of attorney to execute a lease are often presented for recording concurrently with the lease, especially when the lease is for a term exceeding one year. For an instrument to be recorded, it must be acknowledged or proved, and certified [Gov. Code § 27287; see discussion in the Legal Background in Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney].

§ 34A.211 Power of Attorney to Execute Lease for Landlord Spouse of Community Real Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a power of attorney that may be used when a married person wishes to authorize an attorney-in-fact to execute a lease of community real property in the married person's name. This type of power is usually given to the person's spouse, although it may be given to a third party. For a general power of attorney to lease, as tenant or landlord, see § 34A.210. For discussion of general requirements for a power of attorney, see § 34A.11. Powers of attorney are covered fully in Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney.

[b] Leasing of Community Property

Both spouses, either personally or through an agent, must execute any instrument by which community property or an interest in the property is leased for a period longer than one year. This joint execution requirement does not apply to a lease between the spouses [Fam. Code § 1102(a), (b)].

Notwithstanding the above, if record title to community property is held in the name of one spouse, and that spouse leases the property or any interest in it to a good faith tenant who has no knowledge of the marriage relation, the lease is presumed valid. This presumption applies to leases executed on or after January 1, 1975. A similar presumption applies to leases of community property executed by the husband before that date [Fam. Code § 1102(c)].

§ 34A.221 Offer by Tenant to Lease Real Property Through Landlord's Agent

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an offer by a prospective tenant to lease real property through a real estate agent or broker employed or authorized by a landlord to lease the property. The form is substantially identical to a form printed by, and used with the permission of, Hanford-Freund & Company, San Francisco Realtors, and illustrates an offer to lease form that many real estate companies devise for their own use. It may be modified to reflect the unique facts and circumstances of each situation and or an addendum may be added to set forth the proposed terms of the lease in more detail.

[2] FORM

Offer by Tenant to Lease Real Property Through Landlord's Agent

OFFER TO LEASE

[Name and address of agent]

The undersigned hereby offers and agrees to lease, through you as agent, those certain premises described as follows: [set forth description], for a term of [number] years and [number] months commencing on the _____ day of [month and year], at a monthly rental of $_____, payable monthly in advance.

The premises are to be used exclusively for the purpose(s) of conducting [set forth uses of property].

The undersigned herewith deposits with you the sum of $_____, which is to be applied on the first rental due under the terms of the lease, on execution of the lease.

You are to have [number] days from the date of this offer within which to obtain the acceptance of this proposal. If not accepted within this time, then, at any time thereafter before acceptance, on written notice from the undersigned, this proposal and offer shall become null and void and of no effect, and the deposit made herewith shall be forthwith returned to the undersigned. The owner of the premises may accept this offer to lease by signing and dating the acceptance form appearing at the end of this letter and returning it, together with this letter, to the undersigned personally or by United States mail, postage prepaid, sent to the undersigned at _____[street address, city and state or my address as set forth above]. This offer will be deemed to be accepted only on receipt by the undersigned of the acceptance form below in the manner prescribed in this paragraph.

Within [e.g., five] days from receipt of written notification of the acceptance of this offer, the undersigned does hereby agree to execute a lease, on the terms provided in this offer, on the general lease form used by you, and does further agree to pay the sum of $_____ as security for the full and faithful performance of the undersigned's obligation under the terms of the lease. In the event of the faithful performance of the terms and conditions of the lease by the undersigned, the amount of such security shall be applied by the landlord to the payment of the last month's rental due under the lease.

§ 34A.222 Option Agreement for Lease of Real Property to Be Executed by Both Parties

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an option agreement for a lease of real property. In this form, the option is given by a landlord of real property and the contract is to be executed by both the optionor and optionee. For an option agreement that is executed by the optionor-landlord only, see § 34A.223. For discussion of the law pertaining to an option agreement to lease real property, see § 34A.13.

To establish the terms and conditions of the lease that is the subject of the option, Paragraph 1 of this form refers to and incorporates by reference the lease that will be executed by the parties if the option is exercised. As an alternative, the terms and conditions of the lease may be set forth in the option agreement itself. For illustrative lease provisions, see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases , Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases , Ch. 34D, Ground Leases , and Ch. 34E, Shopping Centers: Leasing and Operation .

For discussion of options to purchase real property, and for forms for additional or alternative provisions that may be adapted for use in this form, see Ch. 22, Options to Purchase Real Property .

[b] Execution of Option

An option agreement supported by consideration is a unilateral contract in which the optionor makes a unilateral promise to perform the obligations of the contract, or execute the conveyance, to which the option relates [see § 34A.13[1] for discussion of the nature of an option agreement]. As a unilateral contract, the option may be contained in a writing executed solely by the optionor [see § 34A.223 for form]. However, if the optionee undertakes to perform future acts in consideration of the option, such as to make periodic payments [see, e.g., Holiday Inns of America v. Knight (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 327, 328, 74 Cal. Rptr. 722, 450 P.2d 42 (option to purchase real property)], it is advisable for both parties, as in this form, to execute the option agreement.

If the property to be leased is owned by a partnership, corporation, or limited liability company, the option agreement should be signed by the same persons who would a execute a lease [see the Transaction Guide to Ch. 34B, Residential Leases, for coverage of the execution requirements].

If the option is to lease community real property of the optionor and his or her spouse for a period of more than one year, the option must be signed by both spouses [see Fam. Code § 1102(a)], and the body of the following contract modified accordingly.

[2] FORM

Option Agreement for Lease of Real Property to Be Executed by Both Parties

OPTION AGREEMENT

Preamble

This agreement is made this _____ day of [month], _____ year], at _____, California, between _____[name], hereinafter called Optionor, and _____[name], hereinafter called Optionee.

Recitals

WHEREAS, Optionor is the owner of the following described real [and personal] property (the "property"), located at _____[street address and city], _____ County, California and described as follows: [describe property to be leased, e.g., 3,000 square feet of office space, identified as Suite 104 on the map attached as Exhibit A hereto]; and

WHEREAS, Optionee desires to acquire the exclusive right to lease the property at an agreed rental and under specified terms and conditions without becoming obligated to do so;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is agreed as follows:

Grant of Option

1. Optionor hereby grants to Optionee the exclusive right to lease the property for the term of [specify term, e.g., five years or 18 months or other], commencing on [month and day], [year], [or commencing on the exercise of this option], and ending on [month and day], [year] [or other provision], at the rental and under the terms and conditions set forth in the lease to be executed by the parties on exercise of this option, a copy of which lease is attached to this agreement and made a part of this agreement [or at the total rental of $_____, payable _____ (specify), and on the following terms and conditions: _____ (set forth lease terms and conditions)].

Exercise of Option

2. This option shall be exercised only by notice in writing signed and delivered by Optionee to Optionor in the manner described in Paragraph 6, below, no later than [time], [month and day], [year], at which time, if not exercised, this option shall automatically terminate without notice.

Consideration

3. This option is granted in consideration of the sum of $_____, payable [specify terms of payment, e.g., by a certified (or cashier's or personal) check drawn to the order of Optionor within _____ (e.g., five) days after the date of this option agreement (or receipt of which[, subject to collection,] is hereby acknowledged), and the further sum of $_____ payable in [number] equal installments of $_____ on _____ (set forth each date on which an installment is to be paid). Time is of the essence and failure on the Optionee's part to make timely payments as herein provided shall result in the automatic termination of this option without notice (or other provision if payments for option are not timely made)].

Assignment

4. This option is nonassignable and any attempted assignment of it by Optionee is void [and shall cause this agreement automatically to terminate without notice].

[OR]

4. Optionee may assign _____[his or her] rights under this agreement [on condition that _____(specify)], and any such assignment shall become effective [specify, e.g., on written notice to Optionor].

Retention of Consideration

5. In the event that this option is not exercised within the time specified in Paragraph 2, above[, or on other termination of this agreement as provided in this Option Agreement], all sums paid for this option shall be retained by Optionor as consideration for the granting of this option.

Notices

6. Notices required to be given to Optionor by Optionee shall be given either personally or by registered or certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to Optionor at _____[his or her] address set forth below, and, if given by mail, shall be deemed to be delivered only on actual receipt by Optionor.

Entire Agreement

7. This agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties relating to the option granted in this agreement. Any oral representations or modifications made before or after this agreement concerning the option shall be of no force and effect, provided, however, that this agreement may be altered in the future by written agreement of the parties.

Attorneys' Fees

8. In any action that may be brought to enforce the provisions of this agreement, the prevailing party in such action shall be entitled to recover from the other reasonable attorneys' fees in addition to _____[his or her] costs and necessary disbursements.

Binding Effect

9. This agreement shall bind and inure to the benefit of the heirs, personal representatives, successors, and assigns of Optionor, but shall terminate on the death or legal incapacity of Optionee, on _____[his or her] insolvency, on the commencement of voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against [him or her], or as otherwise provided in this agreement.

[OR]

9. This agreement shall bind and inure to the benefit of the respective heirs, personal representatives, successors, and assigns of the parties to this agreement.

Execution of Lease

10. On the timely exercise of this option by Optionee as provided in this option agreement, Optionor shall cause the lease to be prepared in conformance with the terms and provisions of this agreement [or in conformance with the copy of the lease attached to this agreement], and said lease shall be executed and acknowledged by Optionor, as Landlord, and executed by Optionee, as Tenant, whenever required by either party after the date of the exercise of the option; and from that date, the parties agree to be bound by all the terms, covenants, and conditions contained in the lease.

Executed on _____[date], in _____ County, California.

§ 34A.224 Abstract of Option Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

A person who holds an option to lease property may want to record his or her interest for the same reasons a tenant may want to record a lease. Recording an option agreement gives constructive notice of its contents to subsequent tenants, purchasers, and mortgages of the affected property from the time it is filed with the recorder [see Civ. Code § 1213; see also Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.203].

However, the parties may be reluctant to record the entire option agreement to avoid making all of the terms of the agreement public or because of the expense of recording a lengthy agreement (in the event the full lease is attached as an exhibit to the option agreement). If this is the case, they may prepare and record an abstract of the agreement. The essential requirements for recording an abstract of an option agreement are that it must affect title to real property [Gov. Code § 27280], be acknowledged or proved [Gov. Code §§ 27287, 27288], and contain the essentials of which parties to be put on constructive notice must be aware. Basically, this means that the instrument must describe the real property and the duration of the option to lease. For a complete discussion of the requirements for recording a document that affects title to property, see the Memorandum of Lease form in Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases [§ 34C.203].

This form is a sample that may be used in a simple option to lease transaction. It may be used for an option agreement that is executed by the optionor only [see § 34A.223 for illustrative option agreement], or an agreement executed by both the optionor and optionee [see § 34A.222 for illustrative option agreement]. This form may be modified to reflect the terms of an option agreement requiring additional payments by the optionee or other conditions affecting the length of the option.

§ 34A.225 Letter of Intent to Lease

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form sets forth a letter of intent to lease property. It includes a proposal of tenant which is designed to be attached to the letter of intent. The purpose of the letter of intent is to recite the parties' agreement to enter into exclusive negotiations to lease the property, and to negotiate the terms of the lease in good faith. The letter of intent does not bind either party to the lease [see § 34A.12[2]].

[2] FORM

Letter of Intent to Lease

LETTER OF INTENT TO LEASE

[Name and address of owner, or owner's agent, or owner's attorney]

This "Letter of Intent" sets forth the preliminary terms and conditions on which _____[name of prospective tenant] ("Tenant"), [status of tenant, e.g., a sole proprietorship], will lease the herein referenced premises (the "Premises") from _____[name of landlord] ("Landlord"), [status of landlord, e.g., California Limited Partnership].

Property

1. Tenant and Landlord hereby express their intent to enter into immediate negotiations to execute a [describe type of lease, e.g., office building lease or retail shopping center lease] ("the Lease") for the leasing of the Premises, which Premises are located at _____[street address and city], California. [The Premises are in a building commonly known as _____ (name of building or center)].

Exclusivity

2. Landlord and Tenant agree to work exclusively and in good faith to negotiate and execute a Lease prior to _____[date]. Until such date, Landlord agrees not to actively solicit, accept, or consider any other offers for the Premises, nor to engage any Broker to list or to market the Premises. If a Broker has already been engaged, then the Broker shall be informed that during the period that Tenant and Landlord are in negotiations, that the Broker shall not solicit, consider, or entertain any other offers for the Premises. Tenant and Landlord agree not to disclose the contents of this Letter of Intent, the negotiations, and/or any resulting agreement to any unrelated third parties, including any Broker, now or in the future.

Binding Effect

3. Tenant and Landlord acknowledge that they do not intend this Letter of Intent to be construed as a Lease or to be bound by its terms except for the period while negotiations are taking place to implement this Letter of Intent. A Lease will not exist unless and until the parties have executed a formal written agreement containing all terms approved by their respective representatives and containing all essential items of the agreed-on transaction. The parties acknowledge that they have neither set forth herein nor agreed upon all essential terms relating to the Lease of the Premises, including without limitation, covenants, conditions, warranties and representations, conditions precedent, conditions subsequent, indemnities, insurance provisions, assignment and subletting, and other anticipated terms, and that all such essential terms will be the subject of further negotiations. Tenant and Landlord further acknowledge that it would be imprudent and unreasonable to rely upon the expectation of entering a Lease regarding the Premises. Further, efforts by either party to complete due diligence, negotiate, and obtain the services of design and construction consultants, computer installation specialists, or other associated experts and specialists on office design and improvements, or to prepare the Lease shall not be considered as evidence of intent by either party to be bound by the terms of this Letter of Intent.

Finally, the performance of either party, prior to execution of a formal written Lease, of any of the obligations which may be included in a Lease between the parties when negotiations are completed, shall not be considered as evidence of intent by either party to be bound by the terms of this Letter of Intent.

If the foregoing letter accurately reflects our present understanding with respect to the commencement of negotiations which may lead to the leasing of the Premises, please execute the duplicate original of this letter and return it to the undersigned at your earliest convenience.

PROPOSAL OF TENANT

Tenant _____[name of tenant] proposes to enter into a Lease for a term of years for the Premises as above described upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The initial monthly lease payment (base rent) payable on the first day of each single calendar month shall be the sum of $_____ subject to a cost of living increase based upon an agreed index with a stipulated cap. The first cost of living increase in the base rent shall occur on the Third Year of the Lease and shall not be cumulative.

2. The term of the Lease shall be an initial five year term [or specify other initial term] with a five-year option period [or specify other option period(s)]. The base rent for the [first] option period shall be the last month's rent charged for the fifth year of the Lease, or the fair market value of the Premises less 15 percent, (whichever is less), and which amount shall be either agreed upon by the parties, or determined by an arbitrator, which arbitrator's decision shall be binding on the parties. [If more than one option period, specify rental for subsequent option periods.]

3. Tenant shall renovate and refurbish the premises at Tenant's sole expense except that [describe contemplated improvements to be made by landlord, e.g., if in-house services are available to the management of the building that painting and minor repairs may be performed by Landlord as may be agreed in the Lease]. Tenant agrees to accept the Premises in its current configuration, subject to Tenant's right to change the configuration of the Premises in the future, subject only to Landlord's written approval which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld. _____[Describe improvements tenant intends to make, e.g., Tenant currently contemplates moving no more than three walls, and/or installing no more than three walls, with the object of creating at least one fully enclosed, and/or partially enclosed, additional space, and to move such interior doors or interior entrance areas as are necessary to accomplish such purposes, all this (including, but without limitation, any fees, permit fees, expenses, plans, advice, or preparation) at the sole expense of Tenant].

4. As a sign of "good faith" prior to the execution of the Lease, Tenant tenders a check in the sum of $_____, which check may be negotiated by Landlord upon the execution of the agreed Lease. This $_____ represents both the first month's rent and the prepaid last month's rent under the proposed Lease.

5. There shall be no change permitted by the Landlord of the current configuration of the Premises by the current occupant thereof, nor shall the Landlord permit the current occupant to remove any fixtures, trade fixtures affixed to the Premises, or other appurtenances affixed to the Premises, unless such fixtures are movable without the removal of any screws, nuts, bolts, wires, or other affixing elements and then only if those fixtures were brought onto the Premises by the occupant. There shall be no tampering with the wiring, removal of the wiring, or other destruction of the infrastructure of the premises by the current occupants after the date of the Letter of Intent if a Lease is thereafter signed. Any failure of the current occupant to abide by those provisions is the sole responsibility of Landlord. Tenant acknowledges that Landlord may give to the current occupant of the premises, which current occupant is represented by Landlord to be on a month-to-month tenancy (and without any first right of refusal or similar right), as much as 60 days notice to vacate after the execution of the contemplated Lease with Tenant.

6. Tenant has not engaged the services of any real estate brokerage or other representative in connection with this Letter of Intent and/or proposed Lease, and agrees not to engage any such real estate brokerage during the course of the contemplated transaction in relation to the Premises.

§ 34A.230 Prepaid Rental Listing Service Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a prepaid rental listing service (PRLS) contract. Before accepting a fee from a prospective tenant, any person who furnishes rental information to the prospective tenant for a fee must provide the prospective tenant with a written contract which discloses the services he or she will provide to the prospective tenant and the tenant's specifications for the desired rental [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(a); see also § 34A.14[5][a] for discussion of the specific required contents of contract].

PRACTICE TIP:

Length of Term of PRLS Contract. The term of a PRLS contract may not exceed 90 days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(a)(5)], but is generally for a term of 30 days. If the prospective tenant is unable to find a suitable rental within the term of the contract, licensees generally permit a renewal period for a small portion of the initial fee. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

This form may also be used as the proposed contract form to be submitted to the Department of Real Estate for approval before a license is issued [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.9(c) and § 34A.14[5][b]].

[b] Refund Provisions of Contract

The contract must contain provisions setting forth the prospective tenant's right to a full or partial refund of the advance fee. The exact language prescribed by statute must be used, unless different language is approved in writing by the Real Estate Commissioner before the contract is used [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(c)]. A refund provision stating from whom and in what manner a refund may be obtained must appear in full caps, in 12-point type or greater, and in boldface or italics in the contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(c); see form in [2], below].

In consideration of the payment by Registrant (the prospective tenant) of the sum of $_____, receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned Licensee agrees to use its reasonable best efforts to provide rental housing accommodations from rental housing listings compiled and to be compiled in Licensee's files.

Conditions of Service

Licensee agrees to furnish Registrant with listings of housing accommodations, which shall be available for viewing, renting, and ultimate occupancy as indicated by file listings; listings shall be of the type set forth above. Listings may be obtained from Licensee's office by telephone during telephone service hours.

File Information

Registrant is entitled to all listings meeting his or her general requirements as set forth above. It is understood that file information regarding listings, specifications, and availability is received from owners and managers and is not based on the personal knowledge of Licensee or its employees. Constant efforts are maintained to provide listings that are accurate and current.

Procedure for Obtaining Rentals

To avoid inconvenience and disappointment, Registrant is requested to contact the managers and/or owners before inspecting individual listings and to make and keep telephone appointments. Registrant is requested to notify Licensee immediately on acceptance of a rental. Registrant is requested to make regular and periodic calls for listings.

[The following provision must be used by a licensee unless different language is approved in writing by the Department of Real Estate before the contract is used; the provision must appear in full caps, in 12-point type or greater, and in boldface or italics (Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(c))]

RIGHT TO REFUND

IF THE PROSPECTIVE TENANT OBTAINS A RENTAL OTHER THAN THROUGH THE SERVICES OF THE LICENSEE DURING THE TERM OF THIS CONTRACT OR IF THE PROSPECTIVE TENANT DOES NOT OBTAIN A RENTAL THROUGH THE SERVICES OF THE LICENSEE DURING THE TERM OF THE CONTRACT, THE LICENSEE SHALL REFUND THE FEE RECEIVED IN EXCESS OF A FIFTY DOLLAR ($50) SERVICE CHARGE TO THE PROSPECTIVE TENANT WITHIN 10 DAYS AFTER RECEIPT BY THE LICENSEE OF THE DEMAND FOR REFUND.

TO BE ENTITLED TO A REFUND IN EXCESS OF THE SERVICE CHARGE, THE PROSPECTIVE TENANT MUST MAIL OR DELIVER THE DEMAND FOR REFUND NOT LATER THAN 10 DAYS AFTER EXPIRATION OF THIS CONTRACT.

[The following provision must appear in bold type:]

Court-Awarded Damages

If the Licensee fails to make a refund as provided in the RIGHT TO REFUND provision above and if the denial or delay in making the refund is found to have been done in bad faith, a court of appropriate jurisdiction, including a small claims court, shall be empowered to award damages to the Registrant in an amount not to exceed $1,000 in addition to actual damages sustained by the Registrant. If the Licensee refuses or is unable to pay the damages awarded by the court, the award may be satisfied out of the security required under Business and Professions Code Section 10167.7.

THIS CONTRACT EXPIRES ON _____[specify date not later than 90 days after contract execution date].

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF AGREEMENT

Registrant hereby agrees that he or she has read and understood the above agreement and all the terms and conditions contained therein before paying the above fee, and that his or her entitlement hereunder is to a rental listing service on the terms set forth.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a letter requesting a partial refund of an advance fee paid to a prepaid rental listing services licensee. A licensee receiving this request must refund the fee, minus a $50 service charge, to the prospective tenant if the prospective tenant has not obtained a rental or has obtained a rental other than through the licensee's services during the term of the contract, provided that the refund demand is made within 10 days after the contract expires. The refund must be made within 10 days of receipt of a timely demand [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(b)].

In lieu of documentation supporting the request for a partial refund, the client may submit a signed statement in statutorily-mandated form to be provided by the licensee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(b)(2)(B)]. A copy of this form is set forth in § 34A.231A.

§ 34A.232 Request for Full Refund of Advance Fee

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a letter requesting a full refund of an advance fee, including the $50 service charge (which is the maximum charge permitted), paid by a prospective tenant to a prepaid rental listing services licensee. This refund must be paid by any licensee who does not provide a prospective tenant with at least three rental properties that are available and meet the specifications of the contract, within five days after the execution of the contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(a)]. The licensee is deemed to have supplied the required information if the information supplied meets the contract specifications with regard to the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(a)(2)]:

- Type of structure;
- Designated geographical area;
- Furnished or unfurnished rental;
- Number of bedrooms;
- Maximum rental amount; and
- Any other specification expressly set forth in the contract.

A demand for the return of the fee must be made by or on behalf of the prospective tenant within 10 days following the expiration of the five-day period after the execution of the contract. The demand may be delivered or mailed by registered or certified mail to the address of a location, or branch office of a real estate broker, set forth in the contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10167.10(a)(2)].

For a request for a partial refund of an advance fee, see § 34A.231. A statement in support of a refund request is set forth in § 34A.231A. For discussion of the statutory requirements pertaining to refunds of advance fees, see § 34A.14[6].

REQUEST FOR FULL REFUND OF ADVANCE FEE

Date: _____

_____[name of addressee]
_____[name of licensee]
_____[street address]
_____[city, state, zip]

Dear _____:

This letter is written on behalf of _____[name of prospective tenant and client], who entered into a prepaid rental listing service contract with _____[name of licensee, designated agent, real estate salesperson, or employee acting on behalf of licensee], of your office, on [date of contract].

We [or I] request a return of $[specify full amount of advance fee], which is the full advance fee, including the $50 service charge, paid to _____[name of licensee], of your office by our [or my] client. [He or She] was not supplied, within five days after the execution of the contract, with at least three rental properties then available to _____[name of prospective tenant/client] and meeting the specifications of the contract. [State or enclose a copy of the information supplied and specify why it does not meet the specifications of the contract]. Therefore, _____[name of client] is entitled to a full refund of _____[his or her] advance fee of $[specify same amount as above], in accordance with California Business and Professions Code Section 10167.10(a), and as provided in the prepaid rental listing service contract[, a copy of which is enclosed].

Please make the refund check payable to _____[specify name of client or names of both attorney and client] and send the refund to _____[specify street address, city, state, and zip code where refund should be sent].

This chapter covers residential leases. It provides complete lease forms for an apartment lease, a lease of a single-family residence, and a residential lease or month-to-month rental agreement (prepared by the California Association of Realtors). Discussion of the law applicable to these leases is included in the Legal Background and in the comments to the forms.

This chapter also includes discussion and forms for alternative and additional provisions to be used in residential leases. Optional provisions are provided for the parties' names and status, variations in the term, including a lease renewal or extension, security deposits and other charges, repairs, utilities, assignment and subletting, use restrictions, damages, and termination.

Further, this chapter includes discussion and forms relating to residential leases, including a tenant's inspection sheet, a notice of a former ordnance location, and an application for rental.

The income tax implications of leasing real property from both the landlord's and the tenant's point of view are beyond the scope of this chapter. For a thorough discussion of these issues, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 190, Taxation of Landlords , and Ch. 191, Taxation of Tenants (Matthew Bender).

Nonresidential leases are covered in Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases , and Ch. 34E, Shopping Centers: Leasing and Operation . Other types of leases are covered in Ch. 34D, Ground Leases , Ch. 36, Oil and Gas Rights and Leases , and Ch. 37, Farm Leases . For discussion and forms related to leases, see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms , Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests , Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases , and Ch. 38, Real Property Management . For discussion and forms relating to unlawful detainer proceedings, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender).

This chapter does not cover the landlord-tenant relationship between a mobilehome park owner or the mobilehome park management and a mobilehome owner. For extensive coverage of that relationship, see Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks .

From 1966-1967, he was the directing attorney of the Marysville Office of California Rural Legal Assistance and between 1968 and 1972 served as the Chief Attorney for the National Housing Law Project.

Professor Moskovitz is the author of several publications including Winning an Appeal (Michie 1985), California Eviction Defense Manual (Cal. C.E.B. 1992), and Cases and Problems in Criminal Procedure(Matthew Bender 1995). He has litigated cases at both the trial and appellate level, including the California and United States Supreme Court.

(n45)Footnote . Benjamin Kaplan received his law degree from Hastings College of Law in 1968. He has been in private practice since that time with an office in San Francisco. He has served as the tenant's attorney for the Berkeley Tenants Union and as the lead attorney for the Haight-Ashbury Legal Project and the Tenant's Action Group. He was the first instructor in landlord-tenant law at the People's Law School in San Francisco.

Mr. Kaplan's practice has been primarily devoted to real estate and business litigation with a pronounced concentration in landlord-tenant and lease litigation. Since 1971, he has primarily represented the legal interests of landowners and lessors. He is a lecturer for the Continuing Education of the Bar and The Rutter Group in landlord-tenant law. He was also the first landlord's Chairperson of the State Bar Landlord-Tenant Committee of the Real Property Law Section of the State Bar and was subsequently a member of the Executive Committee of the Real Property Law Section.

§ 34B.10 Terminology

[1] "Landlord" and "Tenant"

This chapter uses the terms "landlord" and "tenant," rather than "lessor" and "lessee," to refer to the parties to a lease. In a strict sense, the terms "lessor" and "lessee" should be used only to refer to the parties to a formal lease and not to the parties to a tenancy at will or oral rental agreement. However, the terms have come to be used almost interchangeably with "landlord" and "tenant" [see Stone v. City of Los Angeles (1931) 114 Cal. App. 192, 199, 299 P. 838] .

Some practitioners use "landlord" and "tenant" to avoid confusion and potential clerical error. Furthermore, there is a judicial preference to use the terms "landlord" and "tenant." As one court explained, "when there are only a few letters which differentiate key terms, it is generally better to use easily differentiated synonyms" [SDC/Pullman Partners v. Tolo Inc. (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 37, 42 n.5, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62] .

[2] "Lease"

Although a statute enacted in 1872 uses the term "hiring" to refer to the contract by which one gives to another the temporary possession and use of property [see Civ. Code § 1925; see also Civ. Code §§ 1926-1936 (other statutes governing hiring)], many California statutes use the term "lease" to refer to these agreements [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1945.5]. Others refer to both leases and rental agreements, and appear to use the two terms interchangeably [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 1632, 1953].

Neither "lease" nor "rental agreement" is defined by statute. The courts have defined "lease" as an agreement whereby the relation of landlord and tenant is created. It imports the giving, for a consideration by the greater estate's owner, of the possession and use of a lesser estate in his or her property with a reversion to the greater estate's owner at the term's end [Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. v. Bluvshtein (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316, 281 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; see § 34B.12[1]].

Because many cases provide that one of the essential elements of a lease is a definite and agreed term [see § 34B.15[1] for discussion of required elements of lease], it can be argued that "lease" refers only to an agreement creating a tenancy for years, which is a tenancy for a fixed term [see § 34B.14[2] for discussion of tenancy for years]. Indeed, the term "rental agreement" is sometimes used to refer to agreements creating periodic tenancies [see, e.g., § 34B.202 (form of Residential Lease or Month-to-Month Rental Agreement [emphasis added])], which have indefinite terms [see, e.g., Miller & Desatnik Management Co. v. Bullock (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 13, 17, 270 Cal. Rptr. 600 ; see also § 34B.14[1] for discussion of periodic tenancies]. However, most cases use the term "lease" to refer to all agreements creating the landlord-tenant relationship [see, e.g., Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 622-629, 11 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168 (discussion of changes in concept of residential landlord-tenant relationship)], and this chapter adopts that definition.

PRACTICE TIP:

Use "Rental Agreement" for Heading of Month-to-Month Tenancy Agreements. Because many lay persons believe that a "lease" is for a fixed term, it is advisable to use the heading "Rental Agreement" (rather than "Lease") at the top of a month-to-month tenancy agreement. By Myron Moskovitz.

[3] "Nonresidential Lease"

The term "nonresidential lease," as used in this chapter, refers collectively to retail, industrial, and office leases. For detailed coverage of nonresidential leases, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

§ 34B.11 Creation of Leasehold Interest

[1] By Written Agreement

A tenancy in real property is usually created by a written lease. A lease need not contain particular legal terminology, provided it shows the intention to establish the relationship of landlord and tenant [Beckett v. City of Paris Dry Goods Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 633, 636, 96 P.2d 122 ; see Baranov v. Scudder (1918) 177 Cal. 458, 460, 170 P. 1122 (lease need not use any particular language or words, such as "let" or "demise")]. Likewise, the fact that the written agreement between the parties contains terms such as "lessor," "lessee," and "demise and lease" is not conclusive on the issue of whether the parties entered into a lease [Golden West Baseball Co. v. City of Anaheim (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 11, 31, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378] . For further coverage of the essential elements of a lease, see § 34B.15.

[2] By Oral Agreement

The agreement may be oral, unless it is subject to the statute of frauds [see § 34B.15[3] for discussion of requirement that a lease be in writing]. However, the relationship of landlord and tenant is not created by an oral agreement when the parties intend that they not be bound until the oral agreement is reduced to writing and executed [Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 639-641, 198 P.2d 1 , overruled on other grounds, Flores v. Arroyo (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 492, 497, 15 Cal. Rptr. 87, 364 P.2d 263] .

[3] By Operation of Law

The relationship of landlord and tenant may also come into existence by operation of law without an enforceable agreement between the parties [Pacific Coast Etc. Land Bank v. Jones (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 8, 13-14, 92 P.2d 390] . For example, one may become a tenant at will or a periodic tenant under an invalid lease, or without any lease at all, by occupying the premises with the owner's consent [Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor & Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 675, 104 P.2d 507 ; see Parkmerced Co. v. San Francisco Rent Stabilization & Arbitration Bd. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 490, 494, 263 Cal. Rptr. 617] . Whether consent and acceptance of rent creates a landlord-tenant relationship depends on the particular circumstances of each case [Getz v. City of West Hollywood (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 625, 630, 284 Cal. Rptr. 631] .

§ 34B.12 Lease of Real Property

[1] Definition of Leasehold Interest

A lease is an agreement by which the relationship of landlord and tenant is created [Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. v. Bluvshtein (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316, 281 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; Stone v. City of Los Angeles (1931) 114 Cal. App. 192, 198, 299 P. 838] . A lease grants to the tenant the exclusive use and possession of the premises for a definite period of time, in return for consideration. The landlord retains the fee interest in the property. During the lease's term, the tenant's present possessory interest is good against the whole world, including the landowner [Howard v. County of Amador (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 962, 972, 269 Cal. Rptr. 807] . For example, an agreement that grants only sporadic use of the premises, with shared control by the owner during each use, cannot be deemed possession and control "exclusive" of the owner's possession and is therefore not a lease [Golden West Baseball Co. v. City of Anaheim (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 11, 33, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378 (baseball team owner's possession and control of stadium premises on approximately 81 dates, with city concurrently operating all concession and parking facilities and providing security did not create leasehold interest)]. When the tenancy created by the lease terminates, the right of use and possession reverts back to the landlord [Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. v. Bluvshtein (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316, 281 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; Stone v. City of Los Angeles (1931) 114 Cal. App. 192, 199, 299 P. 838] .

[2] Dual Character of Lease

[a] Nature of Dual Character

A lease has a dual character. It is primarily a conveyance to the tenant of an interest in the real property, but it is also a contract between the landlord and tenant. Because of this dual character, a lease creates two distinct sets of rights and obligations. One set is based on "privity of estate" and arises out of the landlord-tenant relationship created by the conveyance, while the other is based on "privity of contract" and results from the express provisions of the lease [Medico-Dental etc. Co. v. Horton & Converse (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 411, 418, 132 P.2d 457 ; Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor & Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 675, 104 P.2d 507] . As a conveyance, the provisions of a lease "run with the land" and, therefore, are binding on successors to the original landlord and tenant. If the lease were only a contract, the provisions would bind only the original parties [see Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor & Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 675, 104 P.2d 507] .

[b] As a Conveyance

A lease is considered to be primarily a conveyance because it conveys an interest in land to the tenant [Evans v. Faught (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 698, 709-710, 42 Cal. Rptr. 133 ; see Civ. Code § 761(3) (estate for years is an estate in real property)]. The interest conveyed by the lease is called the "tenancy" or "leasehold" [Stone v. City of Los Angeles (1931) 114 Cal. App. 192, 200, 299 P. 838] . The term "estate for years" is another name for a leasehold estate [Howard v. County of Amador (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 962, 972, 269 Cal. Rptr. 807] . It is a present interest and estate in the land owned by the landlord [Chandler v. Hart (1911) 161 Cal. 405, 413, 119 P. 516] . The leasehold interest is carved out of the fee owner's greater estate, and belongs to the tenant subject to the covenants of the lease [Kolstad v. Ghidotty (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 228, 231, 28 Cal. Rptr. 123] . The leasehold gives the tenant the right to occupy the land and hold it in his or her own right against the landlord (subject to the landlord's rights) and all other persons [Howard v. County of Amador (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 962, 972, 269 Cal. Rptr. 807 ; Kolstad v. Ghidotty (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 228, 231, 28 Cal. Rptr. 123] .

Under California law an estate for years is not real property at all but rather a chattel real--a form of personalty--even though the substance of the estate, being land, is real property [Pacific Southwest Realty Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 155, 162, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536, 820 P.2d 1046 ; see Civ. Code § 765 (estates for years are chattels real)], regardless of the term's duration [Bachenheimer v. Palm Springs Etc. Corp. (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 580, 592-593, 254 P.2d 153] . For example, the sale or assignment by a tenant of his or her leasehold interest is the transfer of a personal property interest [see Dabney v. Edwards (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 1, 9, 53 P.2d 962 ; Callahan v. Martin (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 110, 118, 43 P.2d 788] . Similarly, if a tenant assigns his or her leasehold interest as security for payment of a debt, the security interest created is one in personal property and subject to regulation under the Uniform Commercial Code [see, e.g., Security Pacific Nat. Bank v. Casavant (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 127, 132, 252 Cal. Rptr. 175 (lease assignment as security not considered "purchase money" mortgage)].

As a conveyance, a lease is not effective until it is delivered unconditionally to the tenant [see § 34B.15[4]]. It also must be in writing if it is for a term longer than one year [see § 34B.15[3]].

[c] As a Contract

Because a lease is a contract, the basic rules of contract interpretation are applicable to the construction of leases [Wu v. Interstate Consolidated Industries (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1511, 1515, 277 Cal. Rptr. 546 ; see [3], below]. In addition, contract remedies are applicable by statute to specific lease situations [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1951.2 (recovery of damages by landlord on lease's termination)].

California courts have increasingly recognized the largely contractual nature of contemporary lease agreements and have frequently analyzed the terms of a lease in accordance with contractual principles [see Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 624, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168] . The application of contract principles, including the mutual dependency of covenants [see § 34B.20 for discussion of nature of covenants in leases], is particularly appropriate in dealing with residential leases of urban dwelling units. Consistent with this reasoning, the California Supreme Court has held the following [Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 635, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168 ; see § 34B.26[3]]:

- There is an implied warranty of habitability in residential leases in California;
- The landlord's implied warranty of habitability and the tenant's covenant to pay rent are dependent covenants; and

- A breach of the implied warranty of habitability excuses the tenant from his or her duty to pay rent.

[3] Interpretation and Construction of Leases

Because a lease is a contract as well as a conveyance [see [2][a], above], it is subject to the statutory rules for interpretation and construction of contracts [Wu v. Interstate Consolidated Industries (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1511, 1515, 277 Cal. Rptr. 546 ; see Medico-Dental Etc. Co. v. Horton & Converse (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 411, 418-419, 132 P.2d 457 ; see also Civ. Code §§ 1635-1662]. For example, the following rules of interpretation and construction apply to leases:

- A lease must be interpreted so as to give effect to the parties' mutual intention as it existed when the lease was executed [Civ. Code § 1636; Medico-Dental Etc. Co. v. Horton & Converse (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 411, 418-419, 132 P.2d 457] ;

- A lease must receive an interpretation that would make it a reasonable agreement, so long as that interpretation does not violate the parties' intent [Civ. Code § 1641; Wu v. Interstate Consolidated Industries (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1511, 1515, 277 Cal. Rptr. 546] ;

- A lease should be read as a whole so that each clause aids in the interpretation of the others [Civ. Code § 1641; Wu v. Interstate Consolidated Industries (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1511, 1515, 277 Cal. Rptr. 546] ; and

- Any ambiguities in a lease must be interpreted most strongly against the party who caused the uncertainty to exist. This rule may be used only if the other rules of construction are not able to resolve the issue of interpretation [Civ. Code § 1654; see Cooper v. Mart Associates (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 108, 116, 37 Cal. Rptr. 145] .

Further, if a condition involves a forfeiture of the leasehold interest, it must be strictly interpreted against the party for whose benefit it was created [Civ. Code § 1442; see McNeece v. Wood (1928) 204 Cal. 280, 283-284, 267 P. 877] . The burden is on the party claiming the forfeiture to show that forfeiture was the unmistakable intention of the instrument. If the agreement can be reasonably interpreted so as to avoid forfeiture, it should be [Sanders v. East Bay Mun. Utility Dist. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 125, 130, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] .

For extensive coverage of the interpretation and construction of leases, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender). The statutory rules for the construction of contracts are discussed in Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

PRACTICE TIP:

Anticipate Disputes Which Could Lead to Litigation. To minimize the likelihood of expensive litigation down the road, the attorney must draft lease terms as clearly as possible, taking into account the particular needs of the parties and the issues which are most likely to lead to disputes. By Myron Moskovitz.

§ 34B.13 Lease Distinguished From License

An agreement for the use and occupancy of land or other premises may be either a lease or a license. A lease gives exclusive possession of the premises against all other persons, including the owner, to the tenant [Kaiser Co. v. Reid (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 610, 619, 184 P.2d 879 ; Regency Outdoor Advertising, Inc. v. Carolina Lanes, Inc. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1323, 1330, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] . Thus, the test for determining whether an agreement for the use of land is a lease or a license is as follows: if the contract gives exclusive possession of the premises against all the world, including the owner, it is a lease; however, if it merely confers a privilege to occupy under the owner, it is a license [O'Shea v. Claude C. Wood Co. (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 903, 909, 159 Cal. Rptr. 125] .

The question of whether an instrument is a lease or merely conveys a license is a question of law that must be determined from the instrument itself [Kaiser Co. v. Reid (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 610, 619, 184 P.2d 879] . For further discussion of the distinctions between leases and licenses, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 150, Types of Tenancies (Matthew Bender).

§ 34B.14 Types of Tenancies

[1] Periodic Tenancy

[a] Term

[i] Duration

A periodic tenancy, also referred to as a week-to-week, month-to-month, or year-to-year tenancy, has an indefinite term, in contrast to a tenancy for years [see § 34B.14[2]], which has a fixed term. A rental of a dwelling for an unspecified term is presumed to be for the length of time that the parties adopt for the estimation of rent. For example, a rental at a monthly rate of rent is presumed to be for one month [Civ. Code § 1944].

[ii] Termination

A periodic tenancy continues for successive periods of time of the same length unless either party gives written notice of termination in the manner prescribed by statute [Civ. Code §§ 1945, 1946, 1946.1; Renner v. Huntington Etc. Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 102, 244 P.2d 895] . For example, a month-to-month tenancy can be terminated only by written notice given 30 days in advance [Civ. Code § 1946; Wallace v. Daley (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1039, 270 Cal. Rptr. 85 (tenant's acquisition of one-third interest in property did not terminate tenancy)]. A notice terminating a month-to-month tenancy may be served at any time during the monthly term to take effect 30 days thereafter. There is no need to serve a 30-day notice terminating a tenancy co-terminus with the tenancy itself. Rent would be owing from the date due to the date of the tenancy's termination [see Civ. Code § 1946].

In addition, special notice requirements apply to the termination of periodic tenancies when the tenant has lived in the dwelling for a year or more. In these cases, an owner must give notice at least 60 days (not 30 days) before the proposed date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(a)-(c)]. Furthermore, in a rent control jurisdiction, the landlord may not be able to terminate a periodic (or other type) tenancy by simply complying with the statutory notice requirements since some of those jurisdictions permit evictions only for certain enumerated "grounds" [see § 34B.23 for discussion of rent control].

A tenant may notify the landlord that he or she or a household member was a victim of an act that constitutes an act of domestic violence [see Fam. Code § 6211], sexual assault [see Pen. Code §§ 261, 261.5, 262, 286, 288a, 289], or stalking [Civ. Code § 1708.7] and that the tenant intends to terminate the tenancy [Code Civ. Proc. § 1946.7(a)]. A tenant who provides a notice of termination under Civ. Code § 1946.7 is responsible for payment of rent for 30 days following the giving of the notice, or within the appropriate period as described in Civ. Code § 1946, and thereafter is released from any rent payment obligation under the rental agreement without penalty [Code Civ. Proc. § 1946.7(d)].

A significant distinction between a periodic tenancy and a tenancy for years [see § 34B.14[2] for discussion of tenancy for years] is that the former requires notice to terminate while the latter does not [Camp v. Matich (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 660, 665, 197 P.2d 345] . For detailed coverage of the statutory requirements governing the termination of a periodic tenancy, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases .

[iii] Tenant's Death

In the event of a tenant's death, there is an exception to the rule requiring a specific notice of termination of a periodic tenancy [see [ii], above]. In this event, a periodic tenancy is terminated by a notice of the tenant's death under the provisions of Civ. Code § 1934 (a "hiring" is terminated by the death of a party) and no further notice, such as the termination notice under Civ. Code § 1946, is required [Miller & Desatnik Management Co. v. Bullock (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 13, 18, 270 Cal. Rptr. 600] . In the event of a tenant's death under a month-to-month tenancy, the tenancy is terminated as of the 30th day following the tenant's last payment of rent before the tenant's death [Miller & Desatnik Management Co. v. Bullock (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 13, 18, 270 Cal. Rptr. 600] .

[b] Creation of Tenancy

A periodic tenancy may be created in several ways. In residential leases, it is often created by an express provision of the lease stating that the tenancy will be month-to-month or year-to-year. For a form to create a periodic tenancy, see § 34B.220.

A periodic tenancy may also be created by a lease for an indefinite term that provides for monthly payments of rent [Wallace v. Daley (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1039, 270 Cal. Rptr. 85 (agreement for monthly rent created month-to-month tenancy)]. A periodic tenancy is also created when a tenant pays rent under a void lease [Kingston v. Colburn (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 623, 625, 293 P.2d 805] or when the tenant continues to pay rent after a lease has been extinguished by foreclosure proceedings [Dover Mobile Estates v. Fiber Form Products, Inc. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1494, 1550-1551, 270 Cal. Rptr. 183] .

For additional coverage, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 150, Types of Tenancies (Matthew Bender).

[2] Tenancy for Years

A tenancy for years, also referred to as a tenancy for a fixed term or an estate for years, is one for a definite period [Chandler v. Hart (1911) 161 Cal. 405, 410, 119 P. 516] , the duration of which must be capable of exact computation when it becomes possessory [Camp v. Matich (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 660, 665-666, 197 P.2d 345] . The term may be of any length [Guy v. Brennan (1923) 60 Cal. App. 452, 456, 213 P. 265 ; see Stoppelkamp v. Mangeot (1871) 42 Cal. 316, 323 (tenancy with specified term of one month was tenancy for years and not month-to-month tenancy)]. Unlike a periodic tenancy or a tenancy at will, a tenancy for years terminates at the end of the stated term without any requirement of notice [Camp v. Matich (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 660, 665-666, 197 P.2d 345] . However, if a tenant holds over after expiration of the lease's term and the landlord thereafter accepts rent from the tenant, the parties are presumed to have renewed the lease on the same terms and for the same length of time (not exceeding one month when the rent is payable monthly, or one year in any case) [Civ. Code § 1945].

The complete lease forms in § 34B.200[2] (apartment lease) and § 34B.201[2] (lease of single-family residence) each provide for a tenancy for years. For additional discussion of tenancies for years, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 150, Types of Tenancies (Matthew Bender).

[3] Tenancy at Will

A tenancy at will is an estate that confers, with the landlord's consent, a right to possession of the premises leased for an indefinite period of time, with no express provision for rent [Covina Manor, Inc. v. Hatch (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 790, 793-794, 284 P.2d 580 ; Elias Blum v. J. R. Robertson (1864) 24 Cal. 127, 145] . The tenancy may be created by an express or implied agreement [see Carteri v. Roberts (1903) 140 Cal. 164, 167, 73 P. 818 (implied); Elias Blum v. J. R. Robertson (1864) 24 Cal. 127, 145 (express)]. A tenancy at will may arise under a variety of circumstances, such as an entry on land with the owner's permission (1) under a void parol contract, (2) under a void lease, or (3) pending unexecuted negotiations for a written lease [Covina Manor, Inc. v. Hatch (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 790, 793, 284 P.2d 580] .

A tenancy at will may be terminated by either party "at will" [Covina Manor, Inc. v. Hatch (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 790, 793-794, 284 P.2d 580] . The landlord must comply with the statutory notice requirements for terminating a tenancy at will [see Civ. Code § 789; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1161, 1162]. It appears from the wording of Civ. Code § 789 that notice is required only when the landlord seeks to terminate the tenancy at will. The statute is silent as to any notice requirement when the tenant wishes to terminate the relationship [Miller & Desatnik Management Co. v. Bullock (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 13, 18, 270 Cal. Rptr. 600] .

Furthermore, a tenancy at will is terminated when it is converted to a periodic tenancy by the tenant's payment, and the landlord's acceptance, of periodic rent payments [see Civ. Code §§ 1943-1945; Redevelopment Agency v. Superior Court (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 561, 570, 91 Cal. Rptr. 886 ; Palmer v. Zeis (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 859, 862, 151 P.2d 323] .

For coverage of these termination requirements, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases . For additional coverage of tenancies at will, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 150, Types of Tenancies (Matthew Bender).

[4] Tenancy at Sufferance

A tenancy at sufferance arises when a person who entered the property lawfully holds over without any rightful title and without the landlord's consent [see Hull v. Laugharn (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 310, 314, 39 P.2d 478 ; Gartlan v. C. A. Hooper & Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 414, 425-426, 170 P. 1115] . For example, a tenancy at sufferance arises when the tenant under a lease for a fixed term holds over on the expiration of the lease and the landlord does not reenter or give notice to quit [Uridias v. Morrell (1864) 25 Cal. 31, 32, 35 ; Kuhn v. Smith (1899) 125 Cal. 615, 617, 58 P. 204] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Rent Control Ordinances or Lease Provisions May Change Tenancy at Sufferance. Although the common law result of a given situation may be a tenancy at sufferance, any controlling local rent control ordinance should always be consulted to determine the possibility of a different result. For example, a rent control provision may treat a tenant under this set of circumstances as a periodic tenant, rather than as a tenant at sufferance. Or, rent contol ordinances often define "tenant" to include "a person entitled by sufferance to occupy a residential dwelling unit" [see, e.g., San Francisco Rent Stabilization and Arbitration Act § 37.2(t) (emphasis added)]. Also, some leases may provide that the tenant becomes a periodic tenant, subject to payment of a specified amount of rent, which may be an amount different from or the same as the amount specified in the original lease. By Benjamin Kaplan and Publisher's Editorial Staff.

The feature that distinguishes a tenancy at sufferance from a tenancy at will is the absence of consent by the landlord; a tenancy at will is always by right and by permission of the landlord [Hull v. Laugharn (1934) 3 Cal. App. 2d 310, 314, 39 P.2d 478] . A tenancy at sufferance also differs from a tenancy at will or a periodic tenancy in that no notice to surrender possession is required to terminate a tenancy at sufferance [Renner v. Huntington Etc. Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 102, 244 P.2d 895] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Termination May Be Restricted by Local Rent Control Ordinance. Check your local rent control ordinances. If a tenancy at sufferance is subject to local eviction controls, then notice with appropriate "good cause to evict" may be required to terminate the lease. By Benjamin Kaplan.

A tenant at sufferance has only "naked possession" of the premises. The tenant does not stand in privity to the landlord and therefore is not liable for rent [McLeran v. Benton (1887) 73 Cal. 329, 340, 14 P. 879] . The tenant may be liable, however, for the reasonable value of the use of the premises without regard to previous rental rates [Colyear v. Tobriner (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 735, 742, 62 P.2d 741] .

A tenant at sufferance is guilty of unlawful detainer, and the landlord may commence an action against the tenant under Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(1) without serving a notice to quit [Ryland v. Appelbaum (1924) 70 Cal. App. 268, 270, 233 P. 356] . Further, the landlord may bring an ejectment action to remove the tenant without serving a notice to quit [Moon v. Marker (1938) 26 Cal. App. 2d 33, 36-37, 78 P.2d 460] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Local Rent Control Ordinances May Require a Notice to Quit. If there is a local rent control ordinance, a notice to quit may be required to evict a tenant at sufferance. By Benjamin Kaplan.

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 34B RESIDENTIAL LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

17-34B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34B.15

AUTHOR: by Linda Breen Pierce Myron Moskovitz Benjamin Kaplan Practice Consultants

§ 34B.15 Formal Requirements for Lease

[1] Required Elements

[a] Dual Character

Since a lease is both a contract and a conveyance [Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor and Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 675, 104 P.2d 507 ; Medico-Dental Etc. Co. v. Horton & Converse (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 411, 418, 132 P.2d 457 ; see § 34B.12[2]], it must, as a general rule, comply with the requirements applicable to both.

[b] As a Contract

As a contract, a valid lease requires all of the following:

- Parties capable of contracting [Civ. Code §§ 1550(1), 1556 (incapacity), 1558 (identifiable parties); see [2][a], [b], below];

- Consent of the parties [Civ. Code § 1550(2); see Civ. Code §§ 1565-1590 (consent)];

- A lawful object [Civ. Code § 1550(3); see Civ. Code §§ 1595-1599 (object), 1667-1670.5 (unlawful contracts)]; and

- Sufficient cause or consideration [Civ. Code § 1550(4); see Civ. Code §§ 1614 (written instrument is presumptive evidence of consideration), 1605-1615 (consideration); see also § 34B.18].

For additional coverage of basic contract law, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

[c] As a Conveyance

As a conveyance (or "grant," as it is called in the Civil Code [Civ. Code § 1053]), a lease is not effective until it is delivered unconditionally [see [4], below]. Further, it must be in writing if it is for a term longer than one year [see [3], below].

The necessary elements of a lease are as follows [Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. v. Bluvshtein (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316, 281 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727] :

- A designation of the parties [see [2][a], below];
- A description of the premises [see § 34B.16];
- The rent to be paid [see § 34B.18[2]];
- The time and manner of payment [see § 34B.18[2]]; and
- The term for which the tenant will rent the property [see § 34B.17].

Although the above elements are necessary to the existence of a lease, they are not sufficient alone to create a lease unless the parties so intend [City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727 ; see Back v. New York Merchandise Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 434, 442, 16 Cal. Rptr. 591] . A lease instrument must show an intention to establish the relationship of landlord and tenant [Beckett v. City of Paris Dry Goods Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 633, 636, 96 P.2d 122 ; Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. v. Bluvshtein (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316-317, 281 Cal. Rptr. 298] . Whether or not the instrument shows this intention must be determined by a construction of the instrument in light of the circumstances surrounding its execution [Back v. New York Merchandise Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 434, 442, 16 Cal. Rptr. 591 ; City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53-54, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727] .

[d] Lease Terminology

No particular legal terminology is required in the making of a lease [Beckett v. City of Paris Dry Goods Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 633, 636, 96 P.2d 122] . The parties need not characterize the agreement as a lease, but such a characterization is some evidence that the parties intended that the instrument operate as a lease [Sherwin v. Bogosian (1931) 112 Cal. App. 359, 364, 296 P. 641 ; but see Golden West Baseball Co. v. City of Anaheim (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 11, 31, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378 (terms such as "lessor," "lessee," and "demise and lease" used in agreement did not prove that lease was created)].

[2] Parties to Lease

[a] Identification

A lease must set forth the parties' names [Frey v. Corbin (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 536, 539, 191 P.2d 21 ; see Civ. Code § 1558 (parties must be identifiable for valid contract)]. The full name of each party should be used, and counsel should verify the spelling. If the property is owned by more than one person or entity, each should be named as landlord under the lease [see [d][ii], below]. Likewise, if several tenants will be assuming possession of the property, each tenant should be named in the lease [see [d][i], below].

The legal status of each landlord and tenant should also be recited in the introductory paragraphs of the lease [see § 34B.210 for a form illustrating recitals of names and status of various individuals and entities]. Additional descriptive information, such as an address or the nature of the party's interest in the property, should be included if necessary to clearly identify the party. For further discussion of the legal status of the parties, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 152, Drafting Basic Lease Provisions (Matthew Bender).

A person who takes title in one name and then has his or her name changed must, in any subsequent lease or other conveyance of the real property, set forth the name under which he or she received title. If the lease does not comply with this requirement, it will be valid between the parties and those with notice, but the recordation of the instrument will not impart constructive notice of its contents to subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers [Civ. Code § 1096]. See § 34B.211 for optional language to be used for this purpose.

[b] Capacity

[i] Capacity to Lease

The parties to the lease, as with any other contract, must be capable of contracting [Civ. Code § 1550(1)]. All persons are capable of contracting except the following [Civ. Code § 1556]:

- Minors [see [ii], below];
- Persons of unsound mind [see [iii], below]; and
- Persons deprived of civil rights.

[ii] Minors

A minor (that is, a person under 18 years of age) [Fam. Code § 6500] cannot make a contract relating to real property [Civ. Code § 1556; Fam. Code § 6701(b); Sparks v. Sparks (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 129, 137, 225 P.2d 238 (contract is void)], unless he or she is an "emancipated minor" [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(3)]. An emancipated minor is a person under 18 years of age who meets one of the following criteria [Fam. Code § 7002]:

- He or she has entered into a valid marriage (whether or not the marriage has been dissolved);
- He or she is on active duty with the armed forces of the United States; or
- He or she has received a declaration of emancipation under Fam. Code § 7122.

An emancipated minor will be considered to be an adult for purposes of the minor's capacity to enter into a binding contract or to lease an interest in real property [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(2), (3)].

A court-appointed guardian may lease property owned by an unemancipated minor [Prob. Code § 2550]. A court order is required [Prob. Code §§ 2550, 2553(a); see Prob. Code § 2554 (terms of lease to be included in order)] unless the transaction is to the estate's advantage and either of the following conditions exist [Prob. Code § 2555]:

- The rental does not exceed $5,000 a month and the term does not exceed two years; or
- The lease is from month-to-month, regardless of the amount of the rental.

For further discussion, see Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors .

[iii] Persons of Unsound Mind

A person of unsound mind who is entirely without understanding has no power to make a contract of any kind [Civ.

Code § 38]. If a person of unsound mind who is not entirely without understanding makes a contract before his or her incapacity has been judicially determined, the contract is subject to rescission [Civ. Code §§ 39, 1689(b)(7)]. After an adjudication of incapacity, a person of unsound mind cannot make any contract until restored to capacity [Civ. Code § 40(a)].

A court-appointed conservator may lease real property owned by an incompetent person [Prob. Code § 2550]. A court order is required [Prob. Code §§ 2550, 2553(a); see Prob. Code § 2554 (terms of lease to be included in order)] unless the transaction is to the estate's advantage and (1) the rental does not exceed $5,000 a month and the term does not exceed two years, or (2) the lease is from month-to-month, regardless of the amount of the rental [Prob. Code § 2555].

For further discussion, see Ch. 66, Guardianship and Conservatorship Planning .

[c] Married Persons

Both spouses, either personally or through an agent, must execute any instrument by which community property or any interest in the property is leased for a period longer than one year. This joint execution requirement does not apply to a lease between the spouses [Fam. Code § 1102(a), (b)].

If record title to community property is held in the name of one spouse, and that spouse leases the property or any interest in it to a good faith tenant who has no knowledge of the marriage relation, the lease is presumed valid. This presumption applies to leases executed on or after January 1, 1975. A similar presumption applies to leases of community property executed by the husband before that date [Fam. Code § 1102(c)].

For extensive coverage of community property, see Ch. 120, Complete Marital Settlement Agreements .

[d] Joint Tenants and Tenants in Common

[i] As Tenant Under Lease

When several tenants take possession of real property, they hold as tenants in common of the leasehold interest. The possession of one cotenant is possession for all of them [Schmitt v. Felix (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 642, 646, 321 P.2d 473] . When several tenants sign a lease, their obligation is presumed to be joint and several unless the lease provides otherwise [Wood v. Longyear (1925) 197 Cal. 723, 728-729, 242 P. 932 ; see Civ. Code § 1659].

[ii] As Landlord Under Lease

A single joint tenant or tenant in common, by executing a lease, may confer on a third party the same right of possession that the cotenant himself or herself has [Atlantic Oil Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 602, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006 ; Verdier v. Verdier (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 348, 352, 313 P.2d 123 ; see [c], above, for discussion of property owned by married persons]. Consequently, a cotenant has no right to oust a person who holds possession with the consent of another cotenant [Lee Chuck v. Quan Wo Chong & Co. (1891) 91 Cal. 593, 598-599, 28 P. 45 ; Verdier v. Verdier (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 348, 352, 313 P.2d 123] .

If only one joint tenant leases the joint tenancy property to a third party and the joint tenant dies during the lease's term, the lease expires on the landlord's death and the surviving joint tenant takes the property unencumbered by the lease [Tenhet v. Boswell (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 150, 158-159, 133 Cal. Rptr. 10, 554 P.2d 330] . During the existence of the joint tenancy, however, a lease to all of the joint property by one joint tenant is a valid and supportable contract insofar as the landlord's interest in the joint property is concerned [Swartzbaugh v. Sampson (1936) 11 Cal. App. 2d 451, 458, 54 P.2d 73] .

If one cotenant, as landlord, executes a lease with the knowledge of the other cotenants, and the other cotenants fail to object, they have ratified the lease [Halsey v. Robinson (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 476, 482, 122 P.2d 11] . Acceptance of benefits under the lease also constitutes ratification [Atlantic Oil Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 585, 602, 72 Cal. Rptr. 886, 446 P.2d 1006] .

[e] Personal Representatives

The executor or administrator of a decedent's estate may lease the decedent's real property [Prob. Code §§ 9941, 9942; see Prob. Code §§ 9940-9948]. A court order is required [Prob. Code § 9942(a)], unless the transaction is to the estate's advantage and either of the following conditions exist [Prob. Code § 9941]:

- The rental does not exceed $5,000 a month and the term does not exceed one year; or
- The lease is from month-to-month, regardless of the amount of the rental.

Similarly, the guardian of a minor [see Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.] or the conservator of an incompetent adult [see Prob. Code § 1800 et seq.] may lease real property of the minor [see § 34B.15[2][b][ii]] or incompetent adult [see § 34B.15[2][b][iii]].

Detailed coverage of executors and administrators is set forth in Ch. 65, Executors .

[f] Corporations

A corporation has all the powers of a natural person in carrying out its business activities, subject to any limitation in its articles of incorporation and in applicable statutes and regulations [Corp. Code § 207]. Specifically, it has the power to acquire and convey real property [Corp. Code § 207(g)]. Consequently, a corporation that is permitted to own real estate has the statutory right to lease property, even if its articles of incorporation do not expressly authorize leasing [Stockton Harbor Indus. Co. v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (9th Cir. 1954) 216 F.2d 638, 655 (citing former Corp. Code §§ 802, 803, which were substantially reenacted as Corp. Code §§ 207, 208), cert. denied, 349 U.S. 904 (1955) ; see Sarmento v. Bay City Land & Cattle Co. (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 343, 347, 210 P.2d 754 (also citing former Corp. Code §§ 802, 803)].

If the leased premises constitutes all, or substantially all, of the corporation's assets, the principal terms of the lease must be as follows [Corp. Code § 1001(a)]:

- Approved by the board of directors; and
- Unless the transaction is in the usual and regular course of its business, approved by the outstanding shares, either before or after approval by the board and before or after the transaction.

As a general rule, the business affairs of every corporation are managed and all corporate powers are exercised by or under the direction of the board of directors [see Corp. Code § 300(a)]. For a corporate resolution authorizing a lease transaction, see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms, § 34A.200.

[g] Partnerships

A partnership can acquire real property in the partnership name or in the name of one or more of the partners [see Corp. Code § 16204; see also Corp. Code § 16111 (Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 provisions applicable to partnerships formed on or after January 1, 1997 and to all partnerships beginning January 1, 1999)]. When, as is usually the case, title to partnership real property is held in the partnership name, the property can be leased or otherwise conveyed only in that name [Corp. Code § 16302(a)(l)]. Subject to any limitation in a statement of partnership, any partner in a general partnership, and a general partner in a limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15643(a) (repealed January 1, 2010); Corp. Code §§ 15901.13, 15904.06(b)(2), 15912.06 (applicable to limited partnerships formed on and after January 1, 2008, limited partnerships formed before that date that elect to be subject to Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.], and all limited partnerships after January 1, 2010)], can lease or otherwise convey property held in the partnership name by a lease executed in that name [Corp. Code §§ 16302(a)(1), 16303(a)(1)(D)].

However, in the case of a limited partnership, the affirmative vote of a majority of limited partners is required to lease property owned by the partnership when that property is all, or substantially all, of the partnership's assets, and the transaction is other than in the ordinary course of its business [Corp. Code § 15636(f)(1)(B) (repealed January 1, 2010)]. A unanimous vote is required for limited partnerships formed on and after January 1, 2008, limited partnerships formed before that date that elect to be subject to Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.], and all limited partnerships after January 1, 2010 [Corp. Code §§ 15904.06(b)(2), 15912.06].

For further discussion, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships , Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, and Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

[h] Limited Liability Companies

Generally, a limited liability company (LLC) may engage in any lawful business activity (subject to any limitations contained in its articles of organization and to compliance with any other applicable laws), whether or not for profit, except the banking business, the business of issuing policies of insurance and assuming insurance risks, or trust company business [Corp. Code § 17002]. In carrying out its business activities, an LLC has all of the powers of a natural person, subject to any limitations contained in its articles of organization and subject to compliance with applicable laws [Corp. Code § 17003]. These powers include the power to lease real and personal property [see Corp. Code § 17003(f)].

Unless the articles of organization provide that an LLC will be managed by one or more managers [see Corp. Code § 17151(b)], every member is an agent of the LLC for the purpose of its business and affairs [Corp. Code § 17157(a)]. The act of any member for the apparent purpose of carrying on in the usual way the LLC's business and affairs binds it, unless the member has no actual authority to act for it in the particular matter and the person with whom the member is dealing actually knows that the member does not have this authority [Corp. Code § 17157(a)]. A member acting in contravention of a restriction on authority cannot bind the LLC to persons actually knowing of the restriction [Corp. Code § 17157(c)]. If the LLC is managed by one or more managers, then no member, acting solely as a member, is an agent of the LLC or can bind or act for the LLC [Corp. Code § 17157(b)(1)].

For detailed coverage of limited liability companies, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

[i] Unincorporated Associations

An unincorporated association may, in its name, acquire, hold, manage, encumber, or transfer an interest in real property [Corp. Code § 18105]. The law formerly required a lease of real property owned or held by an unincorporated fraternal or benevolent association or a labor organization to be authorized by a resolution of the association or organization and then executed by the presiding officer and recording secretary under the seal of the association or organization [see former Corp. Code § 20002]. In 2004, amendments to the Corporations Code deleted the requirement of a resolution and made the provisions governing unincorporated associations inapplicable to labor organizations, labor federations, labor councils, or labor committees governed by a constitution or bylaws [Corp. Code § 18055(e)]. In the case of other unincorporated associations, the conveyance must be executed by one of the following [Corp. Code § 18115]:

- The president or the secretary, or other comparable officer;

- Other persons specifically designated by a resolution adopted by the association; or
- A committee or other body or person authorized to act by the governing principles of the association.

An unincorporated association may record a statement that designates those officers or persons who are authorized to execute conveyances on its behalf [Corp. Code § 18120; see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].

[j] Agents and Attorneys-in-Fact

A lease need not be executed by the actual parties to the lease; it may instead be executed by the agent or attorney-in-fact for one or more of the parties [see Civ. Code §§ 2304, 2305 (authority of agents); Prob. Code §§ 4123(a), (b), 4261 (authority of attorney-in-fact); County of Los Angeles v. Stuyvesant Ins. Co. (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 428, 431, 38 Cal. Rptr. 713 (authority of attorney-in-fact); see also Civ. Code § 2295 ("agent" defined); Prob. Code § 4014(a) ("attorney-in-fact" defined); Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney].

An attorney-in-fact who executes an instrument transferring an estate in real property must sign both the principal's name and his or her own name as attorney-in-fact [Civ. Code § 1095]. An agent or attorney-in-fact may also be empowered by a landlord or a tenant to negotiate a lease or to collect or pay rent [see Civ. Code §§ 2304, 2305; Prob. Code §§ 4123(a), (b), 4261; Holwick v. Walker (1935) 6 Cal. App. 2d 669, 672-673, 45 P.2d 374] .

[3] Requirement That Lease Be in Writing

[a] Statutory Provisions

Three separate statutory provisions require that a lease of real property for a period longer than one year be in writing and signed by the landlord [see Civ. Code §§ 1091, 1624(a)(3); Code Civ. Proc. § 1971; see also Dameshghi v. Texaco Refining & Marketing, Inc. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 1262, 1283, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 515 , disapproved on other grounds, Trope v. Katz (1995) 11 Cal. 4th 274, 286, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 241, 902 P.2d 259] .

Under the first provision, an estate in real property, other than an estate at will or for a term not exceeding one year, can be transferred only by operation of law or by a written instrument signed by (1) the transferor, or (2) the transferor's agent, provided the transferor first authorizes that act in writing [Civ. Code § 1091].

The second provision, which is part of the general statute of frauds, provides in part that an agreement for the leasing of an interest in real property for a term exceeding one year, or some note or memorandum of the agreement, must be in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged or by the party's agent. An agent cannot sign the agreement unless the principal first authorizes that act in writing [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(3)].

The third provision states that no estate or interest in real property may be created, granted, assigned, surrendered, or declared, other than by operation of law or by a conveyance or other instrument in writing subscribed by the party creating, granting, assigning, surrendering, or declaring the estate or interest, or by the party's lawful agent pursuant to a written authorization. Leases with terms not exceeding one year are exempt from this requirement [Code Civ. Proc. § 1971].

To satisfy the above statutes and create an enforceable lease, the written instrument must contain all of the essential and material parts of a lease [see [1], above], and particularly must contain the following essential elements [see Enlow v. Irwin (1926) 80 Cal. App. 98, 101, 251 P. 658] :

- A description of the premises;

- A specified term; and
- An amount and time and manner of payment of the rent.

A writing that omits any of these three essential elements does not satisfy the statutes or create an enforceable lease [Dusold v. Johnston (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 907, 909-910, 225 P.2d 536] .

For the effect of part performance of an oral lease on the statutes of frauds, see [b], below. For additional coverage of the statute of frauds, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds (Matthew Bender).

[b] Part Performance Exception

Part performance of an oral agreement to execute a lease for a period longer than one year may take the case out of the operation of the statute of frauds [Schubert v. Lowe (1924) 193 Cal. 291, 295, 223 P. 550 ; Sutton v. Warner (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 415, 422, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632] . Thus, when a tenant obtains possession of premises under an oral lease agreement and performs the applicable provisions of the oral lease, equity may grant specific performance of the oral agreement to make a lease [Schubert v. Lowe (1924) 193 Cal. 291, 296, 223 P. 550] . However, to constitute part performance, the tenant's occupation of the premises must be in accordance with the oral agreement [Sutton v. Warner (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 415, 422, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632] . Occupation under a prior lease is not part performance of the oral agreement or lease and does not avoid application of the statute of frauds [Paul v. Layne & Bowler Corp. (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 561, 564-565, 71 P.2d 817] .

The fact that an oral lease is not enforceable does not necessarily preclude the finding of a valid tenancy. When the tenant enters into possession of the premises with the landlord's consent, but with no provisions for rent or term, a tenancy at will is created [Covina Manor, Inc. v. Hatch (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 790, 793, 284 P.2d 580 ; see § 34B.14[3] for discussion of tenancy at will]. When the landlord then accepts rent for specific, designated periods of time, for example, monthly, the tenancy becomes a periodic one [see Civ. Code §§ 1944, 1945; see also § 34B.14[1] for discussion of periodic tenancies].

For further discussion of part performance, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds (Matthew Bender).

[4] Delivery and Acceptance

A lease must be delivered to and accepted by the tenant before it will bind him or her [Civ. Code § 1054; Walker v. Dorn (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 118, 121, 49 Cal. Rptr. 362] . As a contract, the lease takes effect only on its delivery to the party in whose favor it is made, or to his or her agent [Civ. Code § 1626; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1933 (execution of instrument does not occur until it is subscribed and delivered)].

As a grant or conveyance, a lease is presumed to be delivered as of the date of the lease [Civ. Code § 1055]. However, delivery of the lease must be unconditional to be effective [Civ. Code § 1056].

Whether or not an instrument has been delivered is a question of fact. Actual manual delivery is not necessary, and retention of the lease by the landlord is not conclusive evidence of its nondelivery. If the landlord's retention is with the tenant's consent and the parties understand that it has been executed and is in operation, the lease must be considered as delivered [Handley v. Guasco (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 703, 710, 332 P.2d 354 ; see Kreling v. Walsh (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 821, 833, 176 P.2d 965 ; see also Civ. Code § 1059(1)]. However, a lease is not delivered and is not effective if the landlord retains it and does not intend that it become effective until it is delivered [Vizzone v. Selsor (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 509, 510, 344 P.2d 795] , or if the landlord retains it and the tenant never sees it and never agrees to its terms [Vavuris v. Pinelli (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 390, 393, 305 P.2d 149] .

The tenant's acceptance can be inferred from entry into possession and payment of rent [Dodd v. Pasch (1907) 5 Cal. App. 686, 689, 91 P. 166] or from other circumstances or actions indicating acceptance [Canal Oil Co. v. National Oil Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 524, 536, 66 P.2d 197 ; Munford v. Humphreys (1924) 68 Cal. App. 530, 535, 229 P. 860] . Although the landlord must sign a written lease [Munford v. Humphreys (1924) 68 Cal. App. 530, 535, 229 P. 860] , the tenant need not, as a general rule, sign the lease if the delivery and acceptance requirements are satisfied [Walker v. Dorn (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 118, 121, 49 Cal. Rptr. 362 ; see Watkins v. McCartney (1922) 57 Cal. App. 643, 644, 207 P. 909] . The tenant's signature is required, however, if the statute of frauds is applicable [see [3], above], or if a special covenant in the lease is to bind the tenant [see Walker v. Dorn (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 118, 121, 49 Cal. Rptr. 362] .

For additional coverage of delivery and acceptance, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender).

[5] Recording a Residential Lease

Any instrument affecting the title to or possession of real property may be recorded [Gov. Code § 27280] with the county recorder of the county in which the affected property is located [Civ. Code § 1169]. A lease may be recorded, since it is both a contract and a conveyance of an estate or interest in real property [Howard v. County of Amador (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 962, 978, 269 Cal. Rptr. 807 ; see § 34B.12[2] for discussion of dual character of lease]. Every conveyance of real property or an estate for years in the property that is acknowledged (or proved and certified) and recorded gives constructive notice of its contents to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees of the affected property from the time it is filed with the recorder [Civ. Code § 1213].

Conversely, every conveyance of real property or an estate for years in the property (other than a lease for a term not exceeding one year) is void as against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees of the same property who act in good faith and for a valuable consideration unless it is recorded before their subsequent purchase or mortgage is recorded [Civ. Code § 1214 (emphasis added)]. However, it should be noted that a subsequent purchaser (or mortgagee) who has actual notice of possession by the tenant will not be deemed to be acting as a bona fide purchaser. In this situation, the fact that a lease or rental agreement is not recorded does not make it any less enforceable against a subsequent purchaser, for the recording acts protect the subsequent purchaser who gives value before he or she has any notice, actual or constructive, of prior claims [see First Fidelity Thrift & Loan Assn. v. Alliance Bank (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1433, 1441-1443, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 295] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Residential Leases Rarely Recorded. As a practical matter, it is rare for a residential lease to be recorded, unless it is for a long term. Nonresidential leases, however, are commonly recorded. Typically, a memorandum or short form of the lease is recorded to protect the confidentiality of many of the terms contained in the lease. For an illustrative memorandum of lease and additional discussion, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases . By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

§ 34B.16 Description of Premises

[1] Extent and Boundary of Property

A lease is required to contain a definite agreement as to the extent and boundary of the property to be leased [Beckett v. City of Paris Dry Goods Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 633, 637, 96 P.2d 122 ; City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727] . Street addresses (and apartment numbers, if applicable) are usually sufficient for residential leases [see Baranov v. Scudder (1918) 177 Cal. 458, 460, 170 P. 1122 ; see also California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 155, Drafting Residential Leases (Matthew Bender)].

The extent of the leased premises, when ambiguous, may be established by the parties' conduct [Golden West Baseball Co. v. City of Anaheim (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 11, 41 n.32, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378] . For example, an ambiguous or uncertain description may be cured by the tenant's taking possession and paying the stipulated rent when the parties' actions relate to particular premises [Beckett v. City of Paris Dry Goods Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 633, 637, 96 P.2d 122 ; see Cal-Am Corp. v. Department of Real Estate (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 453, 458, 163 Cal. Rptr. 729] . Furthermore, parol evidence is admissible to determine the amount of land subject to the lease when a lease is silent about the quantity of land the tenant is entitled to occupy, as is often the case when the premises are described simply by their street address [Guttman v. Berry (1948) 83 Cal. App. 2d 507, 510, 189 P.2d 41] . However, if the lease fails entirely to describe the property, parol evidence may not be used to supply the necessary description, notwithstanding the fact that the tenant has taken possession [Kingston v. Colburn (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 623, 624, 293 P.2d 805] .

[2] Appurtenances and Easements

As a general rule, everything that belongs to or is used with, and appurtenant to, the leased premises and is "reasonably essential to their enjoyment" passes as incident to them, unless specifically reserved [Owsley v. Hamner (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 710, 717, 227 P.2d 263 ; Froomer v. Drollinger (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 90, 96-98, 19 Cal. Rptr. 891 (phrase "reasonably essential to their enjoyment" is crucial part of general rule)]. The appurtenance need not be absolutely necessary to the tenant's enjoyment or a critical element in making the property tenantable [Owsley v. Hamner (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 710, 718, 227 P.2d 263] . A lease of an entire house or building is a lease of the land on which the building stands, at least as far as needed for its support. A lease of an entire house or building also includes the adjacent land belonging to the landlord that is used with the building as necessary to its proper occupation for the purpose for which it was intended [Bachenheimer v. Palm Springs Etc., Corp. (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 580, 588, 254 P.2d 153] . A thing is deemed to be incidental or appurtenant to land when it is by right used with the land for its benefit, as in the case of a way or watercourse, or of a passage for light, air, or heat from or across the land of another [Civ. Code § 662].

Rights of ingress and egress pass to the tenant, even though they are not specifically mentioned in the lease and the word "appurtenances" is not included as part of the description of the leased premises [Mayer v. Hazzard (1935) 10 Cal. App. 2d 1, 3, 51 P.2d 189] . For example, a driveway on an adjoining lot was held to be a necessary appurtenance to the lease of a building and a shed behind it when the driveway was the most practical method of obtaining access to the shed for deliveries [Ng v. Warren (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 54, 61-62, 179 P.2d 41] . When a lease does not expressly create an easement, one may pass to the tenant by implication either from reasonable necessity or from the manifest intention of the parties [Sierad v. Lilly (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 770, 774, 22 Cal. Rptr. 580 (parties' actions evidenced intent to include adjacent parking spaces)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Lease Should Clearly Describe Appurtenances and Easements. To avoid disputes over which rights are included, by implication, in the lease as reasonably essential to the enjoyment of the premises, the lease should clearly set forth both the appurtenances and easements, if any, intended to pass, and the appurtenances and easements, if any, that are excepted or reserved. For example, the lease should describe any fixtures (such as operable air conditioning), furnishings, parking stalls or garages, storage areas, porches or patios, and use of swimming pools that are to be included in the lease. Conversely, the lease should specify any items that are located on or appurtenant to the leased premises but that are to be excluded from the lease. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

§ 34B.17 Term of Lease

[1] Required Element of Lease

A lease must set forth the term for which the property is leased [City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727] . The term is the period granted for the tenant to occupy and possess the leased premises [see Taylor v. Terry (1886) 71 Cal. 46, 48, 11 P. 813] . If the lease does not set forth a specific term, certain statutory presumptions may establish the term as a periodic tenancy [see § 34B.14[1] for discussion of periodic tenancy].

The lease should specify not only the term but also the commencement and, if applicable, termination dates. The term is adequately stated if it is to commence on the completion of construction (or other improvement) of the premises; any uncertainty about the beginning of the term is removed by the completion of the work [City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 53, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727] .

A residential lease usually creates either a tenancy for years or a periodic tenancy. The most important difference between the two types of tenancies is the method of termination; a tenancy for years terminates at the end of the stated term without any requirement of notice [see § 34B.14[2] for discussion of tenancy for years], whereas a month-to-month or other periodic tenancy is automatically renewed for each successive period unless either party gives written notice of termination in the manner prescribed by statute [Civ. Code § 1946; see § 34B.14[1]].

PRACTICE TIP:

Choosing Between Fixed Term and Periodic Tenancy. The choice between a fixed term and a periodic tenancy depends on several factors. Traditionally, periodic tenancies were considered to offer more flexibility in changing the terms of the lease, while fixed term leases were regarded as providing certainty and security because of the stated term. Rent control ordinances have altered the traditional analysis of this issue, however. For example, these ordinances frequently impose strict limitations on the landlord's right to evict a tenant who is not in default, thereby lessening the importance of the stability offered by a fixed term tenancy [see § 34B.23 for discussion of rent control]. Further, if the ordinance permits a landlord to terminate a periodic tenancy if the landlord wishes to personally occupy the premises, he or she may prefer a periodic tenancy [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 155, Drafting Residential Leases (Matthew Bender)]. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

PRACTICE TIP:

One Year Term Followed by Month-to-Month Tenancy Is Good Business Practice. If the rental market is already quite high, there is still an interest in maintaining the stability of tenancies. A good business practice would be to commence the tenancy with an initial one year lease which thereafter reverts to month-to-month, regardless of whether the unit is subject to rent control. Also, in most jurisdictions, "new construction" (that is, rental units located in a structure for which a certificate of occupancy was first issued after the effective date of the ordinance) are exempted from rent control. Therefore, one should not assume that all buildings or tenancies are subject to rent or eviction control. By Benjamin Kaplan.

The forms set forth in §§ 34B.200[2] (apartment lease) and 34B.201[2] (lease of single-family residence) provide for a fixed term. Language for a month-to-month or other form of periodic tenancy is provided in § 34B.220[2]. For discussion and a form for an automatic renewal or extension of the lease, see § 34B.222. For an option to renew or extend the lease, see § 34B.224. For discussion and form for a holdover provision, see § 34B.221.

[2] Rule Against Perpetuities

Before January 1, 1992, when the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities became operative in California [see Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.], a lease that was to commence in the future was subject to the common law rule against perpetuities. Under this rule, if the leasehold interest was "nonvested," it was invalid unless, at the time the lease was created, the leasehold was certain to either vest or terminate within 21 years after the death of some person alive at the time of creation, or alternatively within 60 years after the creation [see former Civ. Code §§ 715.2, 715.6 (repealed Jan. 1, 1992); see also Wong v. Di Grazia (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 525, 535-541, 35 Cal. Rptr. 241, 386 P.2d 817] . For purposes of applying this rule, an interest was "nonvested" if it was subject to an unsatisfied condition precedent and "vested" if it was owned free of all conditions precedent [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2552-2553 (1990); Black's Law Dictionary 1563 (6th ed. 1990)].

Under the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, however, most leases are not subject to the rule against perpetuities. This is because the Uniform Statutory Rule excludes most "nondonative" transfers from its application [see Prob. Code § 21225(a)]. For this purpose, a "nondonative" transfer is a commercial-type transaction that is supported by consideration, for example, the typical commercial lease, an option to renew a lease, and a right of first refusal to purchase the property [Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 571, 576, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] . A "donative" transfer, in contrast, is generally a transfer that is not supported by consideration [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2594-2595 (1990)].

It should be noted that a lease may be a "nondonative" transfer for purposes of the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities even though it is classified as a "noncommercial" lease for other purposes. Leases are commonly classified as either "commercial" or "residential" depending on whether the property is leased for commercial or residential purposes. For perpetuities purposes, however, the classification of a lease as "commercial" or "donative" is based on whether the lease is supported by consideration. "Nondonative" (that is, "commercial") transfers are generally transfers that are supported by consideration, while "donative" transfers are not supported by consideration [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2595 (1990)]. Thus, a residential lease will be classified as a "nondonative" transfer for purposes of the statutory rule if it calls for the payment of rent or other consideration. Any lease that calls for the payment of rent is thus excluded from the operation of the statutory rule against perpetuities.

For a detailed discussion of the rule against perpetuities in California, see the Legal Background to Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities.

[3] Other Statutory Restrictions

Although leases supported by rent are not subject to the rule against perpetuities [see [2], above], many leases are subject to other time limitations. For example, under Civ. Code § 718, any lease of a town or city lot for which the term exceeds 99 years, including options to renew the lease, is invalid [Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 576, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] . If the property is owned or controlled by the municipality, generally the term will be limited to 55 years or less [see Gov. Code § 37380; Civ. Code § 718].

Every lease that is to commence at a time certain or on the happening of a future event becomes invalid if its term does not actually commence in possession within 30 years after its execution [Civ. Code § 715]. The effect of this section is to place a 30-year limit on leases that might have been voidable future interests under the old common law rule against perpetuities [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2552 (1990); see also former Civ. Code § 715.2 (repealed Jan. 1, 1992)]. It should be noted, however, that the old rule against perpetuities required that an interest either vest or terminate within the applicable period. Civ. Code § 715, in contrast, requires that the lease actually commence in possession within 30 years. Thus, a lease may be invalid because it does not commence in possession within the statutory period even though the lease is fully vested within that period.

For further coverage of these restrictions, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender).

DIVISION II: REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 34B RESIDENTIAL LEASES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

17-34B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34B.18

AUTHOR: by Linda Breen Pierce Myron Moskovitz Benjamin Kaplan Practice Consultants

§ 34B.18 Consideration

[1] Required Element of Lease

As a contract [see § 34B.12[2][c]], a valid lease must be based on consideration [see Civ. Code § 1550(4); see also § 34B.15[1][b]]. In an ordinary lease, there is mutual consideration in that the landlord impliedly warrants quiet enjoyment by the tenant and the tenant promises to pay rent [Blackman v. Dalton's Etc. Loans (1942) 51 Cal. App. 2d 14, 18, 124 P.2d 123] . There are other acceptable forms of consideration. For example, a tenant's promise to repair the premises in lieu of paying rent is sufficient consideration to bind the landlord to his or her promise to lease the premises [Riner v. Vernon (1933) 132 Cal. App. 178, 184, 22 P.2d 255] .

For additional coverage of consideration, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender).

[2] Rent

Rent is the consideration paid by a tenant to the landlord for the tenant's use and possession of the property [Silveira v. Ohm (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 272, 276, 201 P.2d 387 ; Smith v. State Bd. of Equalization (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 331, 336, n.5, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 604] . The obligation to pay rent may arise from the terms of the lease or from the tenant's mere occupancy of the premises in the absence of an express agreement [Samuels v. Ottinger (1915) 169 Cal. 209, 211, 146 P. 638] .

If a lease's term does not exceed one year and there is no usage or contractual requirement to the contrary, rent is payable at the end of the term. If the lease term is by the day, week, month, quarter, or year, rent is payable at the termination of the respective periods, as it successively becomes due [Civ. Code § 1947]. Under most residential leases, rent is a fixed sum payable monthly. If the rent must be paid at the beginning of the period for which it is due, as is most often the case, the lease must so provide, since otherwise rent is not payable in advance, as discussed above. See § 34B.234 for discussion and a form for the landlord's right to demand a special form of rental payment if the tenant is late in making rent payments.

For additional coverage, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 171, Rent and Rent Control (Matthew Bender).

[3] Other Payments

Payment of a security deposit by the tenant to a landlord for residential property is governed by Civ. Code § 1950.5. The specific statutory requirements and form language for security deposit provisions in leases are covered in §§ 34B.230-34B.232.

Late charges may be imposed by a landlord for the tenant's failure to make timely rental payments under a lease or rental agreement. The law applicable to late charges and a form for a late charge provision is included in § 34B.233.

A screening fee may also be charged to a tenant under certain circumstances [see § 34B.19].

For a lease provision requiring the tenant to make certain utility payments, see § 34B.263.

§ 34B.19 Tenant/Application Screening Fees

[1] Application Screening Fee Defined

"Application screening fee" means any nonrefundable payment of money charged by a landlord or his or her agent to an applicant, the purpose of which is to purchase a consumer credit report and to validate, review, or otherwise process an application for the rental or lease of residential rental property [Civ. Code § 1950.6(h)]. The fee is not an "advance fee" as that term is used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 10026 (advance fee rental agreements), nor is it a "security" as that term is used in Civ. Code § 1950.5 (security deposits) [Civ. Code § 1950.6(j)]. See § 34B.280 for an Application to Rent and Receipt of Deposit form prepared by the California Association of Realtors.

[2] Landlord's Right to Charge Screening Fee

When a landlord (defined as an owner of residential property [see Civ. Code § 1950.6(g)]) or his or her agent receives a request to rent a residential property, the landlord or agent may charge the applicant (and his or her guarantor or cosigner, if any) an application screening fee to cover the costs of obtaining information about the applicant [Civ. Code § 1950.6(a), (i)]. The information requested and obtained by the landlord may include, but is not limited to, personal reference checks and consumer credit reports. The landlord may, but is not required to, accept and rely on a consumer credit report presented by an applicant [Civ. Code § 1950.6(a)]. In cases when the landlord or his or her agent knows or should have known that no rental unit is available or will be available in a reasonable period of time, the landlord may not charge an application screening fee unless the applicant agrees in writing [Civ. Code § 1950.6(c)].

The landlord must provide the applicant, either personally or by mail, a receipt for the fee paid. The receipt must itemize the out-of-pocket expenses and time spent by the landlord or his or her agent to obtain and process the information about the applicant [Civ. Code § 1950.6(d)]. If the landlord or his or her agent does not perform a personal reference check or does not obtain a consumer credit report, the landlord or his or her agent must return to the applicant any amount of the screening fee that is not used for the authorized purposes [Civ. Code § 1950.6(e)]. If an applicant who has paid an application screening fee requests a copy of his or her consumer credit report from the landlord, the landlord or his or her agent must provide a copy of the report to the applicant [Civ. Code § 1950.6(f)].

The statutory provisions for an application screening fee do not preempt any provisions or regulations that govern the collection of deposits and fees under federal or state housing assistance programs [Civ. Code § 1950.6(k)].

[3] Amount of Fee

The application screening fee may not exceed the actual out-of-pocket costs of gathering information concerning the applicant, including, but not limited to, the cost of using a tenant screening service or a consumer credit reporting service, and the reasonable value of time spent by the landlord or his or her agent in obtaining information on the applicant. In no case may the amount of the fee charged by the landlord or his or her agent be greater than $30.00 per applicant, except that the fee may be adjusted annually commensurate with an increase in the Consumer Price Index, beginning on January 1, 1998 [Civ. Code § 1950.6(b)].

§ 34B.20 Covenants

[1] Nature of Covenants

A lease may contain either or both express or implied covenants. Either the landlord or the tenant may be the obligor or covenantor under a particular covenant [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy (Matthew Bender)].

In California, only covenants specified by statute (and those incidental thereto) run with the land [Civ. Code § 1461; Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 353, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 889 P.2d 536] . In general, covenants made for the direct benefit of the property, or some part of it in existence when the covenant is made, run with the property [see Civ. Code §§ 1460, 1462]. For example, a covenant to pay rent runs with the land [Civ. Code §§ 1462, 1463; Ellingson v. Walsh, O'Connor & Barneson (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 673, 676, 104 P.2d 507] . Likewise, a covenant to arbitrate, like a covenant to pay rent, touches and concerns and therefore runs with the land [Melchor Investment Co. v. Rolm Systems (1994) 3 Cal. App. 4th 587, 592-593, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] .

Covenants in a lease are construed to be dependent or independent based on the intentions of the parties [Medico-Dental Etc. Co. v. Horton & Converse (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 411, 418-419, 132 P.2d 457] . Traditionally, courts have held that covenants to pay rent are independent from covenants by the landlord to repair, and that the failure to repair does not justify a refusal by the tenant to pay rent [Hosang v. Minor (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 269, 271-272, 22 Cal. Rptr. 794] . However, in the case of a residential lease, the covenant to pay rent is mutually dependent on the landlord's fulfillment of his or her implied warranty of habitability [Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 635, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168 ; see § 34B.26[3]].

For additional coverage, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender), and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy (Matthew Bender).

[2] Covenant of Quiet Enjoyment

A covenant of quiet enjoyment and possession is implied in every lease and is binding on the landlord during the continuation of the lease [Civ. Code § 1927; Baranov v. Scudder (1918) 177 Cal. 458, 462, 170 P. 1122 ; Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 503, 512, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 572] . This covenant insulates the tenant against any act or omission on the part of the landlord, or anyone claiming under the landlord, that interferes with the tenant's right to use and enjoy the premises for the purposes contemplated by the tenancy [Petroleum Collections Inc. v. Swords (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 841, 846, 122 Cal. Rptr. 114] . The covenant runs with the land [Civ. Code § 1463; see Civ. Code § 1462].

For further discussion of this covenant, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 151, Predrafting Legal Considerations (Matthew Bender).

§ 34B.21 Use of Premises

[1] Permitted Uses

A lease may limit the tenant's use of leased premises [Chandler v. Hart (1911) 161 Cal. 405, 413, 119 P. 516] . If a lease does not restrict the tenant's use of the leased premises, the tenant can generally use the leased premises for any lawful purpose not materially different from the ordinary use of the premises or for which the premises are adapted or were constructed [Davidson v. Goldstein (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 909, 910, 136 P.2d 665] .

If the premises are leased for a particular purpose, the tenant cannot generally use the premises for any other purpose. If the tenant does so, the landlord may recover damages or rescind the lease [Civ. Code § 1930; Keating v. Preston (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 110, 115, 108 P.2d 479] . However, incidental activities necessary to complete enjoyment of the premises for the purposes for which they were leased are permitted [DeLong v. Black's Package Co. (1927) 86 Cal. App. 80, 83, 260 P. 392] . Furthermore, the fact that the lease states that the premises are leased for a particular use does not necessarily imply that the premises cannot be used for other purposes [see Keating v. Preston (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 110, 115, 108 P.2d 479] .

For a provision restricting the tenant's use of one or more parking spaces, see § 34B.241. For discussion and a provision setting forth the tenant's rights to use a waterbed in the dwelling, see § 34B.240. A general provision prohibiting the tenant's use in any manner that would increase the existing insurance rates or result in a termination of insurance is set forth in § 34B.242.

[2] Illegal Uses

Various uses of property are made illegal by statute, city or county ordinance, and zoning and building codes. For example, a person who knowingly permits gambling in premises owned or leased by him or her is guilty of a misdemeanor [Penal Code § 331]. Use by a tenant of leased premises for an unlawful purpose constitutes grounds for termination of the lease and for an unlawful detainer action by the landlord [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(4)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Illegal Use Refers to Purpose, Not to the Dwelling. As noted above, illegal use means that the premises are being used to accomplish some unlawful purpose, not that the premises are themselves "unlawful" as being a non-conforming unit (illegal unit), or a unit in which there are code violations. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[3] Nuisance and Waste

A "nuisance" is anything that is injurious to health, including, but not limited to, the illegal sale of controlled substances, or is indecent or offensive to the senses, or an obstruction to the free use of property that interferes with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property. It is also anything that unlawfully obstructs the free passage or use, in the customary manner, of any navigable lake, river, bay, stream, canal, or basin, or any public park, square, street, or highway [Civ. Code § 3479].

"Waste" is an unlawful act or omission of duty by the tenant that results in permanent injury to the premises [Southern Pacific Land Co. v. Kiggins (1930) 110 Cal. App. 56, 60-61, 293 P. 708] . Waste occurs when the market value of property is substantially or permanently diminished or depreciated [Dieterich Internat. Truck Sales, Inc. v. J. S. & J. Services, Inc. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 1601, 1609, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388] .

The commission of waste or maintenance of a nuisance is grounds for termination of the lease termination and the basis of an action for unlawful detainer [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(4)]. A person who commits an offense relating to controlled substances, unlawful weapons or ammunition, or uses the premises to further the purposes of that offense is deemed to have committed a nuisance on the premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(4); see Civ. Code § 3485 (nuisance caused by illegal conduct involving an unlawful weapons or ammunition purpose on real property, repealed January 1, 2014); Civ. Code § 3486 (until January 1, 2014, city prosecutor or city attorney in cities of Los Angeles, Long Beach, Palmdale, San Diego, Oakland and Sacramento may file action for unlawful detainer against any person in violation of nuisance or illegal purpose provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(4) with regard to a controlled substance; after that date, the authorization will apply only to the City of Los Angeles and only if the city has previously filed specified reports). In addition, if a person commits an act of domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking [see Civ. Code § 1708.7; Fam. Code § 6211; Pen. Code §§ 261, 261.5, 262, 286, 288a, 289 (definitions)] against another tenant or subtenant on the premises, there is a rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of proof that the person has committed a nuisance upon the premises. However, the presumption does not apply if the victim of the act of domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking, or a household member of the victim, other than the perpetrator, has not vacated the premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(4) (in effect until January 1, 2012)]. For further discussion of waste and nuisance, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 320, The Law of Nuisance , and Ch. 384, Trespass and Waste (Matthew Bender).

§ 34B.22 Agreement to Execute Lease

If a landlord and tenant agree in writing on the essential terms of a lease, there is a binding lease, even though a formal instrument will be drafted and executed later [Gavina v. Smith (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 501, 504, 154 P.2d 681 ; Levin v. Saroff (1921) 54 Cal. App. 285, 289-291, 201 P. 961] . However, an agreement to lease in the future will not be construed as a present lease if it can be shown that the parties did not intend the agreement to be a present lease [Potter v. Mercer (1879) 53 Cal. 667, 672-674 , overruled on other grounds, Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 608, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; Regalia v. Mariani (1929) 100 Cal. App. 1, 5-6, 279 P. 455] or if the agreement is too uncertain and incomplete (for example, if it lacks a date for commencement or a specified term) [Martin v. Hall (1933) 219 Cal. 334, 338-339, 26 P.2d 288] .

Whether an instrument is a present lease or an agreement to execute a lease in the future is largely a question of the intention of the parties [Levin v. Saroff (1921) 54 Cal. App. 285, 289-290, 201 P. 961] . Possession by the tenant and payment of rent by the tenant are indications that a present lease was intended [City of Santa Cruz v. MacGregor (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 45, 54, 2 Cal. Rptr. 727 (possession); Pacific Improvement Co. v. Jones (1912) 164 Cal. 260, 264, 128 P. 404 (possession and payment of rent)].

§ 34B.23 Rent Control

A municipality has the power to enact a residential rent control ordinance [Birkenfeld v. City of Berkeley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 129, 140, 130 Cal. Rptr. 465, 550 P.2d 1001 ; Fisher v. City of Berkeley (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 644, 679-684, 209 Cal. Rptr. 682, 693 P.2d 261] . Rent control for residential tenancies is a proper exercise of a city's police power if the regulation is reasonably calculated to eliminate excessive rents and, at the same time, provide landlords with a just and reasonable return on their property [Birkenfeld v. City of Berkeley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 129, 165, 130 Cal. Rptr. 465, 550 P.2d 1001] . In contrast, the Legislature has enacted a strict prohibition against rent control for nonresidential leases [see Civ. Code § 1954.27(a); see also Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases].

To the extent not superseded by applicable federal or state law [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 1954.50-1954.535 (Costa-Hawkins Rental Housing Act)], a local rent control ordinance supersedes a residential lease with regard to rent increases, the permissible grounds for eviction, and any other aspects of the landlord-tenant relationship legitimately regulated by the ordinance [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 155, Drafting Residential Leases (Matthew Bender)]. For comprehensive coverage of rent control, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 171, Rent and Rent Control (Matthew Bender), and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 335, Landlord and Tenant: Rent Control (Matthew Bender).

§ 34B.24 Disclosure Requirements

[1] Address for Personal Service

[a] Disclosure in Lease or Rental Agreement

When one or more units in a dwelling structure are offered to the public for rent or for lease for residential purposes, certain disclosures must be made by any owner of the structure or by any party signing a rental agreement or lease on behalf of the owner [Civ. Code §§ 1961, 1962(a)]. Specifically, the owner or other party must disclose the name, telephone number, and usual street address for purposes of personal service of each person who is authorized to manage the premises, and each person who is (1) an owner of the premises or (2) authorized to act for and on behalf of the owner for the purpose of service of process and for the purpose of receiving and receipting all notices and demands [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(1)]. The reference to "an owner of the premises" is to the record owner, not the beneficial owner [People ex rel. Sepulveda v. Highland Fed. Savings & Loan (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1692, 1719-1720, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 (lender was not subject to disclosure requirements)].

The lease or rental agreement must also disclose the name, telephone number, and address of the person or entity to whom rent payments must be made and, if payment may be made personally, the lease or rental agreement must disclose the usual days and hours that the person will be available to receive payment [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(2)]. Alternatively, the lease or rental agreement may disclose the name and street address and account number at a financial institution into which payment may be made, provided that the financial institution is located within five miles of the rental property, or furnish the information necessary to establish an electronic funds transfer procedure for paying the rent [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(2)]. In addition, the rental agreement must disclose the form or forms in which rental payments must be made [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(3)].

The owner of the premises or the owner's agent must provide a copy of the rental agreement or lease to the tenant within 15 days of its execution by the tenant and must provide a copy once each calendar year thereafter, on request by the tenant [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(4)]. If the owner or owner's agent does not possess the original or a copy of the rental agreement or lease, the owner or owner's agent must instead furnish the tenant with a written statement stating that fact and containing the information required to be disclosed [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(4)]. In the case of an oral rental agreement, the owner or owner's agent must furnish the tenant, within 15 days of the agreement, with a written statement containing the information required to be disclosed and must provide an additional copy of the statement once each calendar year thereafter, within 15 days after request by the tenant [Civ. Code § 1962(b)].

If the address provided by the owner does not allow for personal delivery, it will be conclusively presumed that on the mailing of any rent or notice to the owner by the tenant to the name and address provided, the notice or rent is deemed receivable by the owner on the date posted if the tenant can show proof of mailing to that name and address [Civ. Code § 1962(f)].

[b] Posting Alternative

In lieu of furnishing the required disclosures concerning personal service [see Civ. Code § 1962(a)(1)] in a written rental agreement or statement, the owner or owner's agent may post the information in at least two conspicuous places in the structure. If the structure is multiunit and contains an elevator, the elevator must be one of those two "conspicuous places" [Civ. Code § 1962.5(a)].

[c] Updating and Revising Information

The information provided in accordance with Civ. Code § 1962 must be kept current. Any successor owner or manager must comply with these disclosure requirements within 15 days after succeeding the previous owner or manager [Civ. Code § 1962(c)].

[d] Violations

If an owner, successor owner, manager, or agent fails to comply with the disclosure requirements relating to service of process, discussed in [a]-[c], above, any service of process by a tenant relating to a dispute arising out of the tenancy may be made by registered or certified mail sent to the address at which rent is paid. In that case, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 regarding the method of service and extensions of time limitations will apply [Civ. Code § 1962.7; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers (Matthew Bender)].

If a party who enters into a rental agreement on behalf of the owner fails to comply with these disclosure requirements, he or she is deemed an agent of the owner for the purposes of service of process, receiving and receipting notices and demands, and performing the obligations of the owner under the law and under the rental agreement [Civ. Code § 1962(d)]. That party is also deemed an agent of the owner for the purpose of receiving rental payments, which may be made in cash, by check, by money order, or in any form previously accepted by the owner or owner's agent, unless the form of payment has been specified in the oral or written agreement or the tenant has been notified by the owner in writing that a particular form of payment is unacceptable [Civ. Code § 1962(d)(3)].

[2] Foreign Language Translation

Special disclosure requirements apply to any person engaged in a trade or business who negotiates primarily in Spanish, Chinese, Tagalog, Vietnamese, or Korean, either orally or in writing, in the course of entering into a lease, sublease, rental contract, rental agreement, or other term or tenancy contract or agreement, when the term of the agreement is longer than one month and the agreement covers a dwelling, an apartment, a mobilehome, or another dwelling unit normally occupied as a residence [see Civ. Code § 1632]. In that case, the person must furnish the other party (usually the tenant) with an unexecuted foreign-language translation of the lease or other agreement before the instrument is executed [Civ. Code § 1632(b)].

The above-mentioned statutory requirement does not apply if the other party negotiates the terms of the lease through his or her own interpreter [Civ. Code § 1632(h)].

In addition, at the time and place that the parties enter into the lease, the landlord must also provide the tenant with a "notice" in any of the required languages (Spanish, Chinese, Tagalog, Vietnamese, and Korean) [Civ. Code § 1632(d)]. Civ. Code § 1632 does not describe the contents of the notice that must be given to a tenant. However, the statute does specify the contents of the notice that must be provided when the parties are negotiating certain agreements other than leases [see Civ. Code § 1632(b)(1), (2), (f)]. Basically, that notice must inform the recipient of the other party's obligation to provide the recipient with an unexecuted foreign-language translation of the agreement that is the subject of the negotiations [see Civ. Code § 1632(f)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Contents of Foreign-Language Notice. In light of the fairly ambiguous requirement regarding a foreign-language notice in the context of a lease agreement, it is recommended that counsel prepare a notice similar to that required for other types of agreements [see Civ. Code § 1632(f)] to demonstrate a good faith effort to comply with the notice requirements applicable to leases. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

If a person subject to these statutory requirements fails to comply with them, the aggrieved person may rescind the lease [Civ. Code § 1632(k)].

[3] Real Estate Transfer Disclosure Statement

The transferor of any real property containing at least one but not more than four dwelling units must, under certain circumstances, deliver to the prospective transferee a written statutory disclosure statement setting forth detailed information concerning the property [see Civ. Code §§ 1102, 1102.3, 1102.6]. When the transfer is in the form of a lease, this disclosure requirement applies only in the following situations [Civ. Code § 1102]:

- The lease contains an option to purchase [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases for discussion and forms for an option to purchase]; or

- The lease is a ground lease that is coupled with improvements [see Ch. 34D, Ground Leases].

Further, a city or county may require that a second disclosure form be used in conjunction with the above statutory disclosure statement [see Civ. Code § 1102.6a]. For further discussion and the statutory disclosure forms, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

[4] Former Ordnance Locations

[a] Disclosure Requirements

The landlord of a residential dwelling who has actual knowledge of any "former federal or state ordnance location" in the "neighborhood area" [see [b], below] of the residential premises must give written notice to a prospective tenant of that knowledge before execution of a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 1940.7(b); see § 34B.282 for form of notice]. In the case of a tenancy in existence on January 1, 1990, the landlord must give this written notice to the tenant or tenants as soon as practicable [Civ. Code § 1940.7(b)].

[b] Definitions

For these purposes, "former federal or state ordnance location" means an area identified by an agency or instrumentality of the federal or state government as an area once used for military training purposes and that may contain potentially explosive munitions [Civ. Code § 1940.7(c)(1)]. "Neighborhood area" means the area within one mile of the residential dwelling [Civ. Code § 1940.7(c)(2)].

[c] Legislative Intent

In enacting this disclosure legislation, the Legislature declared that a 1983 explosion of munitions in a residential area that was formerly a military ordnance location, which resulted in a loss of life, demonstrated the following [Civ. Code § 1940.7(a)]:

- The unique and unknown risk that there are other live munitions in former ordnance locations in California;
- That there is a need for federal, state, or local authorities to identify those former ordnance locations; and
- That the people living in the neighborhood of those former ordnance locations should be notified of their existence.

The resulting legislation was "solely warranted and limited" by the following factors [Civ. Code § 1940.7(a)]:

- The fact that the former ordnance locations cannot be readily observed or discovered by landlord and tenants; and
- The ability of a landlord who has actual knowledge of a former ordnance location within the neighborhood of his or her rental property to disclose this information for the tenant's safety.

[5] Lead-Based Paint Disclosure

If premises were constructed before 1978, federal law requires that the landlord make certain disclosures, and provide certain information, to the tenant regarding lead-based paint [see 42 U.S.C. § 4852d; 24 C.F.R. § 35.80 et seq.; 40 C.F.R. § 745.100 et seq.]. In addition, a disclosure form containing certain information and signatures must be attached to the lease [see 24 C.F.R. § 35.88; 40 C.F.R. § 745.107]. For further discussion of the law surrounding lead-based paint disclosures and a form for these purposes, see § 34B.284.

In March 2008, EPA issued new rules for contractors who renovate or repair housing, child-care facilities or schools built before 1978 to further protect children from exposure to lead-based paint [73 Fed. Reg. 21692 (April 22, 2008) ; amending 40 C.F.R. Part 745]. The "Lead: Renovation, Repair and Painting Program" rule, which will take effect in April 2010, prohibits work practices creating lead hazards [for further discussion see § 34B.26[4]].

[6] Natural Hazards Disclosure

The transferor of any real property containing at least one but not more than four dwelling units must, under certain circumstances, deliver to the prospective transferee a written statutory disclosure statement indicating whether the property is located in certain hazardous areas, including all of the following [see Civ. Code §§ 1103(a), (c), 1103.1(a)]:

- A special flood hazard area;
- An area of potential flooding;
- A very high fire hazard severity zone;
- A wildland area with substantial forest fire risk;

- An earthquake fault zone; and
- A seismic hazard zone.

When the transfer is in the form of a lease, this disclosure requirement applies only in the following situations [Civ. Code § 1103(a)]:

- When the lease contains an option to purchase [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases , for discussion and forms for an option to purchase]; and
- When the lease is a ground lease that is coupled with improvements [see Ch. 34D, Ground Leases].

For further discussion and the statutory disclosure form, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .

[7] Duty to Provide Notice of Pest Control Work

A registered structural pest control company must provide the property owner or owner's agent and the tenant of premises for which pest control work is to be done with clear written notice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538(b) (timing and method of notice)]. The notice must describe the pest to be controlled, as well as the pesticide or pesticides proposed to be used and the active ingredient or ingredients [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538(a)]. The notice must also contain a specified warning regarding pesticides [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538(a)(3) (prescribed warning)]. Notice is only required to be provided at the time of the initial treatment if a contract for periodic service has been executed. However, if the pesticide to be used is changed, another notice is required [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538(b)]. A violation of these requirements is a misdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538(c)].

The landlord has a duty to provide each new tenant of a residential dwelling unit with a copy of the notice if a contract for periodic pest control service has been executed [Civ. Code § 1940.8].

[8] Release of Illegal Controlled Substances

Before execution of a rental agreement, the owner of a residential dwelling unit must give prospective tenants written notice of the presence of a release of an illegal controlled substance which the owner knows about. The owner's knowledge of the condition is established by the receipt of a notice from law enforcement or any other entity, such as the Department of Toxic Substances Control, the county health department, the local environmental health officer, or a designee, advising the owner of the release on the property, or by actual knowledge of the condition from a source independent of the notice that a release has come to be located on or beneath the dwelling unit [Civ. Code § 1940.7.5(b)(1), (2)]. "Illegal controlled substance" means a drug, substance, or immediate precursor listed in any schedule contained in Health & Safety Code §§ 11054, 11055, 11056, 11057, or 11058, or an emission or waste material resulting from the unlawful manufacture or attempt to manufacture an illegal controlled substance, but does not include marijuana [Civ. Code § 1940.7.5(a)(1)].

The written notice may be given by providing the tenant a copy of any notice received by the owner from law enforcement or any other entity, such as the Department of Toxic Substances Control, the county health department, the local environmental health officer, or a designee, advising the owner of the release on the property [Civ. Code § 1940.7.5(b)(1)]. Failure to provide written notice to a prospective tenant subjects the owner to actual damages and any other remedies provided by law. In addition, if the owner had actual knowledge of the presence of any release of an illegal controlled substance and knowingly and willfully failed to provide written notice to the renter, the owner will be liable for a civil penalty of up to $5,000 for each separate violation, in addition to any other damages provided by law [Civ. Code § 1940.7.5(b)(4)].

These provisions are repealed on January 1, 2006, unless a later-enacted statute deletes or extends that date [Civ. Code § 1940.7.5(c)].

[9] Toxic Mold Protection Act

[a] Development of Exposure Limits and Guidelines

The Toxic Mold Protection Act of 2001 [Health & Safety Code § 26101.7] requires the Department of Health Services to convene a task force to advise the Department on the development of permissible exposure limits to mold, standards for assessment of molds in indoor environments, and standards for identification and remediation of mold [Health & Safety Code § 26101.7]. If the Department determines that it is feasible, the Department must adopt permissible exposure limits to mold for indoor environments that avoid adverse health effects [Health & Safety Code § 26103]. The Department is required to report its progress on developing permissible exposure limits for molds by July 1, 2003 [Health & Safety Code § 26103(d)]. The Department is also required to develop guidelines for the identification of molds [Health & Safety Code §§ 26120-26125] and remediation guidelines [Health & Safety Code §§ 26131-26134].

[b] Written Disclosure Requirements

The Act imposes disclosure requirements on residential landlords, commencing on the January 1 or July 1 that occurs at least six months after the Department adopts the requisite standards and guidelines [Health & Safety Code § 26147]. After that date, residential landlords must provide written disclosure to prospective and current tenants of affected units when the residential landlord knows, or has reasonable cause to believe, that mold, both visible and invisible or hidden, is present that affects the unit or the building and the mold either exceeds permissible exposure limits to molds or poses a health threat according to guidelines developed by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 26147(a)]. The written notice must be provided to prospective tenants before entering into the lease or rental agreement, and to current building occupants in affected units or buildings as soon as is reasonably practical [Health & Safety Code § 26147(c)]. However, residential landlords are exempt from providing written disclosure to prospective tenants if the presence of mold was remediated according to mold remediation guidelines developed by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 26147(d)].

Before entering into a lease or rental agreement, residential landlords must also provide prospective tenants written disclosure of the potential health risks and the health impact that may result from exposure to mold. Landlords may meet this requirement by distributing a consumer oriented booklet developed and disseminated by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 26148].

Disclosure requirements imposed under the Act are inapplicable to properties where the tenant is contractually responsible for maintenance, including any remedial action [Health & Safety Code § 26144].

[c] Enforcement

Public health officers, code enforcement officers, environmental health officers, city attorneys, and any other appropriate government entities may respond to complaints about mold [Health & Safety Code § 26154]. They may enforce both the standards and residential disclosure requirements adopted by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 26154]. Local authority to enforce disclosure requirements will not apply until the first January 1 or July 1 that occurs at least six months after the Department adopts disclosure enforcement guidelines for compliance with Health & Safety Code §§ 26147 and 26148 [Health & Safety Code § 26154].

The disclosure enforcement guidelines established by the Department must include development of a form for disclosure and the penalties, if any, that may be imposed for failure to disclose. A penalty may not be assessed against an owner for failure to disclose under Health & Safety Code § 26147 if the owner provides disclosure to the tenants in a form that substantially conforms to the disclosure form developed by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 26154].

[10] Duty to Disclose Application for Permit to Demolish Residential Unit

The owner of a residential dwelling unit or the owner's agent who applies to any public agency for a permit to demolish the unit must give written notice of that fact to a prospective tenant before the occurrence of any of the following actions by the owner or the owner's agent [Civ. Code § 1940.6(a)(1)]:

- Entering into a rental agreement with a prospective tenant.
- Requiring or accepting payment from the prospective tenant for an application screening fee.
- Requiring or accepting any other fees from a prospective tenant.
- Requiring or accepting any writings that would initiate a tenancy.

The owner or owner's agent must also give written notice to current tenants before applying to the public agency for the permit to demolish the residential dwelling unit. This requirement includes tenants who have entered into a rental agreement but not yet taken possession of the dwelling unit [Civ. Code § 1940.6(a)(2)]. The notice must include the earliest possible approximate date on which the owner expects the demolition to occur and the approximate date on which the owner will terminate the tenancy. The demolition may not occur before the earliest possible approximate date noticed [Civ. Code § 1940.6(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Disclosing Date of Demolition and Termination. This legislation, enacted in 2002, provides that the landlord's written notice disclosing the demolition of a building must include the "earliest possible approximate date on which the owner expects the demolition to occur and the approximate date on which the owner will terminate the tenancy" [Civ. Code § 1940.6(b)]. However, it is not clear from the legislation how the timing of this notice relates to the statutory requirement to provide 30 or 60 days' notice to terminate a tenancy [see Civ. Code §§ 1946, 1946.1]. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

A tenant may bring an action if the landlord fails to comply with the notice requirements or demolition takes place before the earliest date in the notice [Civ. Code § 1940.6(c)]. The court may order remedies including the actual damages suffered, moving expenses, and a civil penalty of up to $2,500 to be paid by the landlord to the tenant [Civ. Code § 1940.6(c)]. The prevailing party is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees [Civ. Code § 1940.6(c)(3)]. These remedies are cumulative to other remedies available under law [Civ. Code § 1940.6(d)].

For a form of notice, see § 34B.285. For sample notices terminating a tenancy, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases, §§ 35B.240 and 35B.241.

§ 34B.25 Landlord's Right of Access to Leased Premises

[1] Circumstances Under Which Landlord May Enter

A landlord may enter a dwelling unit leased to a tenant only under the following circumstances [Civ. Code § 1954(a)(1)-(4)]:

- In case of emergency;
- To make necessary or agreed repairs, decorations, alterations, or improvements, supply necessary or agreed services, exhibit the dwelling unit to prospective or actual purchasers, mortgagees, tenants, workers, or contractors, or to make a preliminary inspection before termination of the lease or rental agreement [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(f); § 34B.230[1][g][iii]];
- When the tenant has abandoned or surrendered the premises; or
- In accordance with a court order.

The landlord must not abuse the right of access or use it to harass the tenant. Except in cases of emergency or when the tenant has abandoned or surrendered the premises, the landlord may enter only during normal business hours unless the tenant consents at the time of entry [Civ. Code § 1954(b), (c)].

[2] Notice Requirement

The landlord must give the tenant reasonable written notice of his or her intent to enter. The notice must include the date, approximate time, and purpose of the entry. Notice may be personally delivered to the tenant, left with someone of a suitable age and discretion at the premises, or, left on, near, or under the usual entry door of the premises in a manner in which a reasonable person would discover the notice [Civ. Code § 1954(d)(1)]. Twenty-four hours is presumed to be reasonable notice in the absence of evidence to the contrary. The notice may also be mailed to the tenant. Mailing of the notice at least six days before an intended entry is presumed reasonable notice in the absence of evidence to the contrary [Civ. Code § 1954(d)(1)]. If the purpose of the entry is to exhibit the dwelling unit to prospective or actual purchasers, the notice may be given orally, in person, or by telephone, if the landlord or his or her agent has notified the tenant in writing within 120 days of the oral notice that the property is for sale and that the landlord or agent may contact the tenant orally for the purpose of showing the property. Twenty-four hours is presumed reasonable notice in the absence of evidence to the contrary. At the time of entry, the landlord or agent must leave written evidence of the entry inside the unit [Civ. Code § 1954(d)(2)].

The tenant and the landlord may agree orally to an entry to make agreed repairs, in which case the landlord is not required to provide the tenant with written notice. Such an agreement must include the date and approximate time of the entry, which must be within one week of the agreement [Civ. Code § 1954(d)(3)].

The requirement of reasonable notice does not apply in the following circumstances [Civ. Code § 1954(e)]:

- In cases of emergency;
- When the tenant has abandoned or surrendered the premises; or
- When it is impracticable to give reasonable notice.

[3] Waiver of Right Is Void

Any provision of a lease or rental agreement of a dwelling under which the tenant agrees to modify or waive his or her rights under Civ. Code § 1954 is void as against public policy [Civ. Code § 1953(a)(1)].

[4] Entry for Purpose of Providing Information Regarding Tenant's Rights

Any person who enters residential real property on the invitation of an occupant, during reasonable hours or because of emergency circumstances, for the purpose of providing information regarding tenants' rights or to participate in a tenants' association will not be liable in any criminal or civil action for trespass [Civ. Code § 1942.6].

§ 34B.26 Repairs and Maintenance

[1] Governing Law for Landlord's Obligations

The rights and responsibilities of a landlord regarding the repair and maintenance of residential real property are governed by three main sources. First, Civ. Code § 1941 requires the landlord to put the premises into a condition fit for human occupancy, and to repair all subsequent dilapidations of the premises that render the premises untenantable [see [2], below]. Second, case law implies a warranty of habitability, under which the landlord covenants that the premises will be maintained in a habitable state for the lease's duration [Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 631, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168 ; see [3], below]. Third, the lease may provide that the landlord promises or covenants to make repairs [see, e.g., § 34B.200[2], P 8(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Check Local Rent Control Ordinances. Local rent control ordinances might also come into play here. Many such ordinances permit the tenant to apply to a rent control board for permission to pay a reduced rent where the landlord fails to comply with certain habitability standards or reduces services which were provided at the outset of the tenancy. By Myron Moskovitz.

[2] Landlord's Statutory Duty to Repair and Maintain

[a] Tenantable Dwelling

A landlord of a building intended for human occupancy must, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, put it into a condition fit for that occupation, and repair subsequent dilapidations of the building that render it untenantable. This duty to repair does not extend to deterioration or injuries to the premises caused by the tenant's want of ordinary care [Civ. Code § 1941; see Civ. Code § 1929].

A dwelling is deemed untenantable for these purposes if it meets the definition of "substandard building" set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17920.3, contains lead hazards as set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17920.10, or substantially lacks any of the following affirmative standard characteristics [Civ. Code § 1941.1]:

- Effective waterproofing and weather protection of roof and exterior walls, including unbroken windows and doors;

- Plumbing or gas facilities that conformed to applicable law in effect at the time of installation, maintained in good working order;

- Either of the following: (1) a water supply that has been approved under applicable law, is under the tenant's control, and is capable of producing hot and cold running water; or (2) a system that is under the landlord's control, produces hot and cold running water, is furnished to appropriate fixtures, and is connected to a sewage disposal system approved under applicable law;

- Heating facilities that conformed with applicable law at the time of installation, maintained in good working order;

- Electrical lighting, with wiring and electrical equipment that conformed with applicable law at the time of installation, maintained in good working order;

- Premises (specifically, the building, grounds, and appurtenances) that, at the time of the commencement of the lease or rental agreement, are in every part clean, sanitary, and free from all accumulations of debris, filth, rubbish, garbage, rodents, and vermin;

- Landlord-controlled areas that are kept clean, sanitary, and free from all accumulations of debris, filth, rubbish, garbage, rodents, and vermin;

- An adequate number of appropriate receptacles for garbage and rubbish that are in clean condition and good repair at the time of the commencement of the lease or rental agreement [see Civ. Code § 1941.1(g) (this standard also requires the landlord to provide appropriate serviceable receptacles after the commencement of the lease or rental agreement, and to be responsible for the clean condition and good repairs of the receptacles under his or her control)];

- Floors, stairways, and railings maintained in good repair; or

- A locking mail receptacle provided for each residential unit in a residential hotel, as required by Health & Safety Code § 17958.3 [Civ. Code § 1941.1(i), effective July 1, 2008].

PRACTICE TIP:

Local Conditions May Expand Scope of Habitability Requirement. Although the Civil Code might not include such items as "swimming pools" or operable "air conditioning" as requirements for habitability, the reality of modern life in desert or arid regions is that they are necessities. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[b] Excuse for Violation of Tenant's Statutory Duties

The landlord has no statutory duty to repair conditions rendering the property untenantable [see [a], above] if the tenant is in substantial violation of any of the following affirmative obligations, provided the tenant's violation contributes substantially to the existence of the dilapidation or other condition or interferes substantially with the landlord's statutory obligation to effect necessary repairs [Civ. Code § 1941.2(a)]:

- To keep that part of the premises that the tenant occupies and uses as clean and sanitary as the condition of the premises permits;

- To dispose of all rubbish, garbage, and other waste from his or her dwelling unit in a clean and sanitary manner;

- To properly use and operate all electrical, gas, and plumbing fixtures and keep them as clean and sanitary as their condition permits;

- To not willfully or wantonly destroy, deface, damage, impair, or remove any part of the structure or dwelling unit or the facilities, equipment, or appurtenances of the structure or dwelling unit, and to not permit any person on the premises, with the tenant's permission, to do the same; or

- To occupy the premises as his or her abode, only using portions of the premises for living, sleeping, cooking, or dining purposes that were respectively designed or intended to be used for these purposes.

The tenant need not satisfy the first two bulleted items described above if the landlord has expressly agreed in writing to perform those acts [Civ. Code § 1941.2(b)].

For coverage of other responsibilities of the tenant relating to repairs and maintenance, see [4], below.

[c] Penalties for Collecting Rent on Untenantable Dwelling

[i] Conditions Justifying Penalties

Any landlord who demands or collects rent, issues a notice of a rent increase, or issues a three-day notice to pay rent or quit [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)], is liable to the tenant for the actual damages sustained by the tenant and for special damages in an amount not less than $100 nor more than $5,000 [Civ. Code § 1942.4(b)]; see McNairy v. C.K. Realty (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1500, 1506, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 429 ("actual damages" as used in Civ. Code § 1942.4(b)(1) includes damages for emotional distress). However, all of the following conditions must exist [Civ. Code § 1942.4(a)]:

- The rental dwelling substantially lacks any of the affirmative standard characteristics listed in Civ. Code § 1941.1, violates Health & Safety Code § 17920.10 (lead hazards), or is declared substandard as set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17920.3 because conditions listed in that section exist to an extent that endangers the life, limb, health, property, safety, or welfare of the public or the occupants of the dwelling [see [a], above];

- A public officer or employee who is responsible for the enforcement of any housing law, after inspecting the premises, has notified the landlord or the landlord's agent in writing of his or her obligations to abate the nuisance or repair the substandard conditions;

- The conditions have existed and have not been abated 35 days beyond the date of service of the notice from the public officer or employee and the delay is without good cause; and

- The conditions were not caused by an act or omission of the tenant or lessee in violation of Civ. Code § 1929 or 1941.2.

Service of the notice from the public officer or employee is deemed complete at the time of deposit in the U.S. mail [Civ. Code § 1942.4(a)(3)].

[ii] Order to Abate Nuisance and to Make Repairs

Any court that awards damages under Civ. Code § 1942.4(a) may also order the landlord to abate any nuisance at the rental dwelling and to repair any substandard conditions of the rental dwelling, as defined in Civ. Code § 1941.1 [see [a], above], which significantly or materially affect the health or safety of the occupants of the rental dwelling and are uncorrected. If the court orders repairs or corrections, or both, the court's jurisdiction continues over the matter for the purpose of ensuring compliance [Civ. Code § 1942.4(c)].

[iii] Other Matters Pertaining to Court Action

The tenant is under no obligation to undertake any other remedy before exercising his or her rights under Civ. Code § 1942.4 [Civ. Code § 1942.4(d)]. Any action under this section may be maintained in small claims court if the claim does not exceed the jurisdictional limit of that court [Civ. Code § 1942.4(e); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220(a) (jurisdiction of small claims court generally limited to claims of $5,000 or less), 116.221 (in addition to jurisdiction conferred by Code Civ. Proc. § 116.220, small claims court has jurisdiction in action brought by natural person if amount of demand does not exceed $7,500)].

In any action based on a violation of Civ. Code § 1942.4, the prevailing party is entitled to recover the allowable costs of suit and reasonable attorney's fees in an amount fixed by the court [Civ. Code § 1942.4(b)].

The remedy provided by Civ. Code § 1942.4 may be utilized in addition to any other remedy provided by the rental agreement, lease, or other applicable statutory or common law [Civ. Code § 1942.4(f)].

[d] Locks and Keys

[i] Dead-Bolt Locks

A landlord of a residential lease must install and maintain an operable dead-bolt lock on each main swinging entry door of a dwelling unit. The dead-bolt lock must be installed in conformance with the manufacturer's specifications and must comply with applicable state and local codes including, but not limited to, those provisions relating to fire and life safety and accessibility for the disabled. When in the locked position, the bolt must extend a minimum of 13/16 of an inch in length beyond the strike edge of the door and protrude into the doorjamb [Civ. Code § 1941.3(a)(1)].

The dead-bolt requirement does not apply to horizontal sliding doors. Existing dead bolts of at least one-half inch in length must satisfy the dead-bolt requirement until the lock requires repair or replacement, at which time it must be replaced with a dead bolt at least 13/16 of an inch in length. Existing locks with a thumb-turn deadlock that have a strike plate attached to the doorjamb and a latch bolt that is held in a vertical position by a guard bolt, a plunger, or an auxiliary mechanism must also satisfy the dead-bolt requirement until the lock requires repair or replacement, at which time it must be replaced with a dead bolt at least 13/16 of an inch in length [Civ. Code § 1941.3(a)(1)].

Existing doors that cannot be equipped with dead-bolt locks must satisfy the dead-bolt requirement if the door is equipped with a metal strap affixed horizontally across the midsection of the door with a dead bolt which extends 13/16 of an inch in length beyond the strike edge of the door and protrudes into the doorjamb [Civ. Code § 1941.3(a)(1)].

Furthermore, locks and security devices, other than those described above, that are inspected and approved by an appropriate state or local government agency as providing adequate security must satisfy the requirements of Civ. Code § 1941.3 [Civ. Code § 1941.3(a)(1)].

[ii] Window Security

A landlord of a residential lease must install and maintain operable window security or locking devices for windows that are designed to be opened. Excluded from this requirement are louvered windows, casement windows, and all windows more than 12 feet vertically or 6 feet horizontally from the ground, a roof, or any other platform [Civ. Code § 1941.3(a)(2)].

[iii] Exterior Doors

A landlord of a residential lease must install locking mechanisms that comply with applicable fire and safety codes on the exterior doors that provide ingress or egress to common areas with access to dwelling units in multifamily developments. This requirement does not require the installation of a door or gate where none exists on January 1, 1998 [Civ. Code § 1941.3(a)(3)].

[iv] Tenant's Notice Obligations

A tenant is responsible for notifying the landlord (or his or her authorized agent) when the tenant becomes aware of an inoperable dead-bolt lock or window security or locking device in the dwelling unit. The landlord, or his or her authorized agent, will not be liable for a violation of the duties described in [i]-[iii], above, unless he or she fails to correct the violation within a reasonable time after he or she either has actual notice of a deficiency or receives notice of a deficiency [Civ. Code § 1941.3(b)].

[v] Tenant's Rights and Remedies

The rights and remedies of a tenant for a violation of Civ. Code § 1941.3 by the landlord include all of the following [Civ. Code § 1941.3(c)]:

- The tenant's rights and remedies under Civ. Code § 1942 (repair and deduct or vacate) [see [f], below];
- The tenant's rights and remedies under Civ. Code § 1942.4 (penalties for collecting rent on untenantable dwelling) [see [c], above];
- The tenant's rights and remedies under Civ. Code § 1942.5 (remedies for landlord retaliation) [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.28[5] (Matthew Bender)];
- An action for breach of contract; and
- An action for injunctive relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 526.

Additionally, in an unlawful detainer action, after a default in the payment of rent, a tenant may raise the violation of Civ. Code § 1941.3 as an affirmative defense and has a right to the remedies provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.2 [Civ. Code § 1941.3(c)].

[vi] Additional Security Requirements

Nothing in Civ. Code § 1941.3 will be construed to affect any authority of any public entity that may otherwise exist to impose any additional security requirements on a landlord [Civ. Code § 1941.3(e)].

[vii] Buildings Exempted From Security Requirements

The provisions of Civ. Code § 1941.3 do not apply to any building which has been designated as historically significant by an appropriate local, state, or federal governmental jurisdiction [Civ. Code § 1941.3(f)]. In addition, the requirements described in [i]-[iv], above, do not apply to any building intended for human habitation which is managed, directly or indirectly, and controlled by the Department of Transportation [see Civ. Code § 1941.3(g)].

[e] Telephone Wiring

The landlord of a residential lease is responsible for the following repairs and improvements with regard to telephone wiring and jacks [Civ. Code § 1941.4]:

- Installing at least one usable telephone jack;
- Placing and maintaining the inside telephone wiring in good working order;
- Ensuring that the inside telephone wiring meets the applicable standards of the most recent National Electrical Code as adopted by the Electronic Industry Association; and
- Making any required repairs.

Further, the landlord is not permitted to restrict or interfere with access by the telephone utility to its telephone network facilities up to the demarcation point separating the inside wiring [Civ. Code § 1941.4]. "Inside telephone wiring" means that portion of the telephone wire that connects the telephone equipment at the leased premises to the telephone network at a demarcation point determined by the telephone corporation in accordance with orders of the Public Utilities Commission [Civ. Code § 1941.4].

[f] Tenant's Right to Repair and Deduct or Vacate

If the tenant notifies the landlord or the landlord's agent [see Civ. Code § 1962(a)] orally or in writing of dilapidations that render the premises untenantable and that the landlord "ought" to repair [see Civ. Code § 1941.1; see also [2][a], above], and the landlord fails to repair the conditions within a reasonable time, the tenant may make the necessary repairs or vacate the premises, subject to the limitations discussed below [Civ. Code § 1942(a)].

The tenant may make the repairs if the cost of the repairs does not exceed the equivalent of one month's rent. The tenant may then deduct the cost from the rent when due [Civ. Code § 1942(a)]. If the tenant repairs and deducts after the 30th day following the notice, the tenant is presumed to have acted after a reasonable time. The tenant may, however, repair and deduct after a shorter period if the circumstances require shorter notice [Civ. Code § 1942(b)].

If the tenant vacates the premises, he or she is discharged, as of the date of vacating, from further payment of rent or the performance of any other conditions [Civ. Code § 1942(a)].

The tenant's remedies to repair and deduct are not available more than twice in any 12-month period [Civ. Code § 1942(a)]. Further, they are not available if the condition was caused by either of the following [Civ. Code § 1942(c)]:

- The tenant's want of ordinary care [see Civ. Code § 1929]; or
- The tenant's violation of any of the affirmative obligations set forth in Civ. Code § 1941.2 [see [2][b], above].

These remedies are in addition to any other remedy provided by the lease or other applicable statutory or common law [Civ. Code § 1942(d)].

[g] Arbitration of Disputes

The landlord and tenant may, in a written agreement, set forth the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1941-1942.1 and provide for the following [Civ. Code § 1942.1]:

- Any controversy relating to a condition of the premises claimed to make them untenantable may by application of either party be submitted to arbitration, in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2 (California Arbitration Act) [for coverage of the Act, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]; and

- The costs of the arbitration will be apportioned by the arbitrator between the parties.

For lease language that sets forth the above agreement, see § 34B.261[2].

One court of appeal has stated that to be enforceable, an agreement to arbitrate issues concerning the rights and obligations of a landlord and tenant, including tenantability issues, must be contained in a separate agreement and not in the lease itself [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . The court's reasoning was based on Civ. Code § 1953(a)(4), which precludes a residential lease agreement from including any modification or waiver of a tenant's "procedural rights in litigation in any action involving his rights and obligations as a tenant" [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 403-404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . However, the court did not decide the issue because it found that the agreement failed to meet other statutory requirements and was unconscionable [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . In light of Jaramillo, the form set forth in § 34B.261[2] contains an alternative clause that may be used as a separate agreement to arbitrate issues of tenantability.

[h] Waiver of Rights

Any agreement by a tenant waiving or modifying the tenant's rights under Civ. Code § 1941 or 1942 is void as contrary to public policy with regard to any condition that renders the premises untenantable. Notwithstanding the above, the landlord and tenant may agree that the tenant will undertake to improve, repair, or maintain all or stipulated portions of the dwelling as part of the consideration for rental [Civ. Code § 1942.1].

[3] Implied Warranty of Habitability

There is an implied warranty of habitability in residential leases in California [Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 631, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168] . Under the implied warranty, a residential landlord covenants that the premises he or she leases for living quarters will be maintained in a habitable state for the duration of the lease. This warranty does not require that a landlord ensure that the leased premises are in perfect, aesthetically pleasing condition, but it does mean that "bare living requirements" must be maintained. In most cases, substantial compliance with applicable building and housing code standards that materially affect health and safety will suffice to meet the landlord's obligations under the common law implied warranty [Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 637, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168] . Further, the standards of tenantability set out in Civ. Code § 1941.1 [see [2][a], above], although not strictly applicable in this context, may provide some guidance in determining whether a landlord has satisfied the common law warranty of habitability [Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 637 n.23, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168] .

For detailed coverage of the implied warranty of habitability, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer (Matthew Bender).

[4] Lead-Safe Renovation

In March 2008, EPA issued new rules for contractors who renovate or repair housing, child-care facilities or schools built before 1978 to further protect children from exposure to lead-based paint [73 Fed. Reg. 21692 (April 22, 2008) ; amending 40 C.F.R. Part 745]. The "Lead: Renovation, Repair and Painting Program" rule, which will take effect in April 2010, prohibits work practices creating lead hazards. Under the new rules, workers must follow lead-safe work practice standards to reduce potential exposure to dangerous levels of lead during renovation and repair activities.

Requirements under the rule include implementing lead-safe work practices and certification and training for paid contractors and maintenance professionals. To foster adoption of the new measures, EPA will conduct an extensive education and outreach campaign to promote awareness of these new requirements. The rule covers all rental housing and non-rental homes where children under six and pregnant mothers reside. The requirements apply to renovation, repair or painting activities where more than six square feet of lead-based paint is disturbed in a room or where 20 square feet of lead-based paint is disturbed on the exterior. The affected contractors include builders, painters, plumbers and electricians. Trained contractors must post warning signs, restrict occupants from work areas, contain work areas to prevent dust and debris from spreading, conduct a thorough cleanup, and verify that cleanup was effective. For further information see http://www.epa.gov/lead/pubs/renovation.htm.

[5] Tenant's Duties to Repair and Maintain Premises

The tenant has certain affirmative, statutory obligations regarding the maintenance and use of the premises; a tenant's violation of these statutory duties will excuse the landlord from his or her duty to maintain the premises in a tenantable condition [see Civ. Code § 1941.2 and [2][b], above].

Other than these statutory obligations, and in the absence of contrary provisions in the lease, a tenant only has the duty to use ordinary care to keep the premises in safe and good condition [see Civ. Code § 1928] and to repair all deteriorations or injuries to the premises caused by the tenant's want of ordinary care [see Civ. Code § 1929]. Otherwise, a tenant has no general duty to repair the premises or correct defective conditions [Glenn R. Sewell Sheet Metal, Inc. v. Loverde (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 666, 671-672, 75 Cal. Rptr. 889, 451 P.2d 721] .

A tenant may covenant in a lease to repair the premises [see Western Motors Corp. v. Land Dev. Etc. Co. (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 509, 513, 313 P.2d 927] or to return the premises in as good a condition as they were when leased [Dicker v. West (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 55, 61, 330 P.2d 106] . A tenant's covenant to repair generally will be interpreted to avoid placing any unwarranted burden of improvement of the landlord's premises on the tenant [see, e.g., ASP Properties Group, L.P. v. FARD, Inc. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1257, 1271-1272, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343 (lease provision and amendment requiring tenant of commercial property to maintain and repair premises, including "make any improvement, correct any condition, or otherwise comply with any written notice" from city or landlord regarding defects, did not require tenant to replace roofs on premises)].

§ 34B.27 Alterations by Tenant

A tenant's right to make alterations to leased premises depends on the lease's specific terms [see Spring Street Realty Co. v. Trask (1932) 126 Cal. App. 765, 768, 15 P.2d 195] . Absent an express provision in the lease permitting or requiring alterations, the tenant may not make material alterations to the leased premises without the landlord's consent [see Metzler v. Thye (1912) 163 Cal. 95, 98-99, 124 P. 721 ; Briggs v. Sherman (1924) 65 Cal. App. 249, 251-252, 223 P. 581] . It is not common for a tenant of a residential property to make material alterations to the premises. For lease language granting the tenant the right to make material alterations, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

On the other hand, a tenant may make minor changes to the leased premises without violating a lease specifically prohibiting alterations by the tenant [see Briggs v. Sherman (1924) 65 Cal. App. 249, 251-252, 223 P. 581] .

§ 34B.28 Antidiscrimination and Fair Housing Laws

Federal and state laws prohibit discrimination against prospective and current tenants on the basis of specified characteristics, including sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation. These laws apply to the initial selection of tenants and to leasing and rental practices in general. Applicable state laws include the Unruh Civil Rights Act [Civ. Code § 51; see Civ. Code §§ 51.2-53] and the California Fair Employment and Housing Act [Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.]. The federal laws include the Fair Housing Act of 1983 [42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.] and the Civil Rights Act of 1866 [42 U.S.C. § 1981 et seq.]. For complete coverage of these antidiscrimination laws as they apply to leasing, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 214, Government Regulation and Enforcement (Matthew Bender).

§ 34B.29 State Building Requirements

The State Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq.] establishes minimum construction and occupancy requirements for buildings used for human habitation. Its implementing regulations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1 et seq.] apply to, among other things, the occupancy and use of apartment houses, hotels, motels, and dwellings [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1(a)].

The California Building Standards Law [Health & Safety Code § 18901 et seq.] requires the California Building Standards Commission to codify and publish all state building standards in a single California Building Standards Code [Health & Safety Code § 18931(b); see Health & Safety Code § 18910 ("Code" defined); see also Health & Safety Code § 18920 (California Building Standards Commission)]. The California Building Standards Code is set forth in Title 24 of the California Code of Regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18902].

§ 34B.30 Public Housing

The rights of low-income tenants in public housing owned and administered by local housing authorities are governed to a large extent by rules and regulations promulgated by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) [see 42 U.S.C. § 1437 et seq. (United States Housing Act of 1937)]. HUD assists local housing authorities in the production of housing, and establishes minimum requirements that the local housing authorities must satisfy. In many cases, the applicable requirements must be incorporated into the leases for the public housing units.

(b) Date and place of marriage.

f. If an entity:

(1) Type of entity.

(2) Full legal name.

(3) Address of main office or principal place of business.

(4) Address of branch or office at which matters relating to this transaction will be handled.

(5) Name, address, and title of persons to whom communications should be directed.

(6) Name, address, and title of person authorized to bind entity.

2. Name, telephone number, and usual street address (for purposes of personal service) of owner of premises [see Civ. Code § 1962(a)(1); see also § 34B.24[1]].

3. Name, telephone number, and address of person or entity to whom rent payments must be made [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(2); see § 34B.24[1]]:

a. If payment may be made personally, usual days and hours that person will be available to receive payment;

b. Name and street address and account number at financial institution into which payment may be made, provided that financial institution is located within five miles of rental property; or

c. Information necessary to establish electronic funds transfer procedure for paying rent.

NOTE:

The form or forms in which rental payments must be made must also be provided [Civ. Code § 1962(a)(3)].

4. If applicable, name and usual street address of each person who is authorized to act for and on behalf of landlord for purposes of the following [see Civ. Code § 1962(a); see also § 34B.24[1]]:

a. Service of process.

b. Receiving and receipting all notices and demands.

c. Receiving rental payments.

5. If corporation is party to transaction [see § 34B.15[2][f]]:

a. Date and state of its incorporation.

b. Date on which board of directors or shareholders approved or will approve transaction.

NOTE:

For a corporate resolution authorizing a lease transaction, and further discussion, see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms .

6. If partnership is party to transaction [see § 34B.15[2][g]]:

a. And partnership holds title to property being leased in partnership name, names of partners authorized to sign lease.

b. And title is or will be held in name of one or more of partners, names of those partners.

7. If limited liability company (LLC) is party to transaction [see § 34B.15[2][h]]:

a. Name in which LLC holds title.

b. Name of members of LLC.

c. If manager has been appointed to manage business of LLC, name of manager.

8. If unincorporated association is party to transaction [see § 34B.15[2][i]]:

a. Type of entity, such as:

(1) Unincorporated fraternal or benevolent association.

(2) Labor organization.

(3) Other.

b. Date on which resolution authorizing transaction was or will be adopted (if applicable) [see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms].

9. If an estate is party to transaction [see § 34B.15[2][b][ii], [iii], [e]]:

a. Name of guardian, conservator, executor, or administrator of estate.

b. Name of attorney for guardianship, conservatorship, or probate.

c. Name and location of court with jurisdiction over estate.

§ 34B.104 Documents Pertaining to Landlord and Tenant

1. Deed or other document by which landlord derived title, for example, by court order.

PRACTICE TIP:

Copy of Deed Does Not Guarantee Vesting. Simply having a deed is no guarantee that it is the last deed in the chain of title. Unless some effort is made to do a chain of title search and confirm the vesting with the County Recorder's office, there can be no assurance that you are in fact dealing with the correct person or entity. Many clients will state that they own the property when in fact it is held by a limited partnership of which they are the general partner or when title is in the name of a family or revocable trust. The holding of title may have significant implications on what remedies or actions may be taken. By Benjamin Kaplan.

2. Any agreement creating easement burdening or benefiting property.

3. Landlord or tenant's power of attorney, if any.

4. Any agreement to enter into lease, or other correspondence between parties.

5. If party is corporation and resolution approving transaction has already been adopted, certified copy of that resolution [see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms].

6. If landlord is partnership holding title in its name, certified copy of statement of partnership recorded in county where land is located (if any) [see Ch. 15, General Partnerships].

7. If party is limited liability company (LLC), copy of Articles of Organization filed with Secretary of State.

8. If party is unincorporated association and resolution authorizing transaction has already been adopted, certified copy of that resolution [see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms].

9. If landlord is an estate or trust, copy of will or trust instrument naming executor or trustee.

10. If landlord is an estate, copy of Letters of Administration and certified copy of Register of Action of probate.

11. Copy of any rules or regulations for building.

12. Insurance policy and cover sheet (face sheet/Declarations Page) covering property.

§ 34B.110 Capacity and Authority of Parties

1. If either party is corporation, determine the following:

a. Whether board of directors adopted resolution authorizing corporation to enter into lease [see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms].

b. If property owned by corporation is being leased, ascertain the following:
(1) Whether property represent all or substantially all of corporation's assets.

(2) Whether transaction is in usual and regular course of business.

NOTE:
Statutory approval requirements apply to the leasing of all or substantially all of the assets of a corporation [see Corp. Code § 1001(a); see also § 34B.15[2][f]].

2. If either party is unincorporated association, determine the following [see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms]:

a. Whether articles of association or bylaws require resolution by authorizing board and/or approval by association's members.

b. If so, whether association has adopted resolution authorizing transaction.

3. If landlord is general partnership, ascertain whether statement of partnership authorizing specified partners to execute instruments on behalf of partnership has been signed by all partners and recorded [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].

4. If landlord is limited partnership, determine the following:

a. Whether certified copy of certificate of limited partnership has been recorded in county where real property is located [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].

b. Whether property to be leased is all, or substantially all, of partnership's assets, and if so, whether affirmative vote of majority of limited partners has been obtained for lease transaction [see § 34B.15[2][g]].

5. If landlord is limited liability company (LLC), determine the following [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies]:

a. Whether certified copy of LLC's articles of organization have been recorded in county in which real property is located [Corp. Code § 17052(f); see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies].

b. Whether member(s) or manager(s) of LLC have authority to bind LLC to lease, as indicated in articles of organization.

6. If executor or administrator of decedent's estate is leasing decedent's real property, ascertain whether transaction meets following criteria and therefore does not require court order [Prob. Code § 9941]:

a. Transaction is to advantage of estate; and

b. Either of following apply:

(1) Rental will not exceed $5,000 a month and term will not exceed one year; or

(2) Lease will be from month-to-month, regardless of amount of rental.

7. If either party is minor, determine the following [see § 34B.15[2][b][ii]]:

a. Whether minor is emancipated and capable of entering into binding lease.

b. If minor is not emancipated, whether guardian has been appointed.

c. Whether transaction meets following criteria, allowing court-appointed guardian to enter into lease without court order [Prob. Code § 2555]:

(1) Transaction is to advantage of estate; and

(2) Either of following apply:
(a) Rental will not exceed $5,000 a month and term will not exceed two years; or

(b) Lease will be from month-to-month, regardless of amount of rental.

8. If either party has been adjudicated incompetent, ascertain the following [see § 34B.15[2][b][iii]:

a. Whether conservator has been appointed to represent incompetent person.

b. If conservator of incompetent person is leasing property of ward, determine whether transaction meets following criteria, allowing conservator to enter into lease without court order [Prob. Code § 2555]:

(1) Transaction is to advantage of estate; and

(2) Either of following apply:
(a) Rental will not exceed $5,000 a month and term will not exceed two years; or

(b) Lease will be from month-to-month, regardless of amount of rental.

§ 34B.111 Terms of Lease

1. Determine type of tenancy, for example:

NOTE:
A residential lease usually creates a periodic tenancy or a tenancy for years.

a. Periodic tenancy [see §§ 34B.14[1], 34B.220].
(1) Month-to-month.

(2) Year-to-year.

(3) Week-to-week.

(4) Other.

b. Tenancy for years [see §§ 34B.14[2], 34B.200[2], 34B.201[2]].

c. Tenancy at will [see § 34B.14[3]].

d. Tenancy at sufferance [see § 34B.14[4]].

2. Ascertain basic facts concerning term, such as:

a. Commencement date.

b. If fixed term lease:

(1) Length of term.

(2) Termination date.

c. If periodic tenancy, length of successive periods.

3. Determine whether there will be automatic renewal or extension of lease [see § 34B.222] or whether tenant will have option to renew or extend lease [see § 34B.224]

4. Ascertain basic facts concerning rent [see § 34B.18]:

a. Amount.

b. Person to whom rent must be paid.

c. Form of payment (for example, cashiers check, money order or personal check).

d. Method of delivery.

e. Intervals at which rent is to be paid.

f. When rent is to be due.

g. Amount or method of determination of any penalties to be assessed for late payments.

h. Obligation of tenant to pay last month's rent at beginning of tenancy, if applicable.

i. Penalties, if any, to be assessed in event of late payment of rent or tendering check with insufficient funds.

5. Determine amount of security deposit to be paid by tenant, subject to following maximum amounts [Civ. Code § 1950.5(c); see § 34B.230]:

a. Total amount equal to two months rent if premises are unfurnished.

b. Total amount equal to three months rent if premises are furnished.

6. Ascertain whether premises are subject to local rent control ordinance.

NOTE:
A municipality has the power to enact a rent control ordinance which may regulate permissible rent increases, grounds for eviction, and other aspects of the landlord-tenant relationship [see § 34B.23*].

§ 34B.112 Condition of Dwelling

1. Determine whether premises are tenantable, that is, that premises do not come within definition of "substandard building" set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17920.3, do not contain lead hazards as set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17920.10, and possess or include following characteristics [Civ. Code § 1941.1; see § 34B.26[2][a]]:

NOTE:
A landlord of a building intended for human occupancy must, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, put the building into a condition fit for that occupation, and repair subsequent dilapidations of the building that render it untenantable [Civ. Code § 1941; see § 34B.26[2][a]].

a. Effective waterproofing and weather protection of roof and exterior walls (including unbroken windows and doors).

b. Plumbing or gas facilities that conformed to applicable law in effect at time of installation, maintained in good working order.

c. Approved and functioning water supply.

NOTE:
Specifically, the premises must contain either of the following: (1) a water supply that has been approved under applicable law, is under the tenant's control, and is capable of producing hot and cold running water; or (2) a system that is under the landlord's control, produces hot and cold running water, is furnished to appropriate fixtures, and is connected to a sewage disposal system approved under applicable law [Civ. Code § 1941.1(c)].

d. Heating facilities that conformed with applicable law at time of installation, maintained in good working order.

e. Electrical lighting, with wiring and electrical equipment that conformed with applicable law at time of installation, maintained in good working order.

f. Grounds, appurtenances, and building that, at time of commencement of lease, are in every part clean, sanitary, and free from all accumulations of debris, filth, rubbish, garbage, rodents, and vermin.

g. Landlord-controlled areas that are clean, sanitary, and free from all accumulations of debris, filth, rubbish, garbage, rodents, and vermin.

h. Appropriate receptacles for garbage and rubbish that are in clean condition and good repair at time of commencement of lease.

NOTE:

The landlord is also required to provide appropriate serviceable receptacles after the commencement of the lease, and to be responsible for the clean condition and good repair of the receptacles under his or her control [Civ. Code § 1941.1(g)].

i. Floors, stairways, and railings maintained in good repair.

j. A locking mail receptacle provided for each residential unit in a residential hotel, as required by Health & Safety Code § 17958.3 [Civ. Code § 1941.1(i), effective July 1, 2008].

2. Determine whether landlord will be making any repairs or improvements to premises either before commencement date or within a time certain after lease commences.

3. Determine whether premises conform to requirements of Civ. Code § 1941.3 for dead-bolt locks, window security, and exterior doors [see § 34B.26[2][d]].

4. Determine whether premises conform to requirements of Civ. Code § 1941.4 for telephone wiring [see § 34B.26[2][e]].

§ 34B.120 Representation of Both Parties to Lease

1. If requested to represent both parties to transaction:

a. Recommend that one party obtain separate counsel.

b. Determine whether or not potential for conflict exists.

2. If potential clients do not withdraw their request and do not appear to have conflicting or potentially conflicting interests, take both of following steps [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310; Klemm v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 893, 899, 142 Cal. Rptr. 509] :

a. Make full disclosure to each party of nature of representation of other party.

b. Obtain written consent from both parties to arrangement before accepting employment.

PRACTICE TIP:
Be Sensitive to Potential Conflicts of Interest. One has to be sensitive to conflicts of interest even if it appears that one person is in control of the various entities. In one recent transaction a family limited partnership was the seller. The general partner of the limited partnership was a family trust. The trustee of the trust was Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones, as an individual, was also the lender. A conflict of interest waiver was required of both entities and one individual. By Benjamin Kaplan.

1. If desired, obtain standardized inspection checklist [see § 34B.281] and arrange for inspection of premises and completion of checklist by tenant.

2. If rental application is used [see § 34B.280]:

a. Have tenant complete and sign application.

b. Instruct tenant to pay deposit described on application form.

c. If landlord does not approve tenant's application within number of days specified on application form, confirm that landlord returns tenant's deposit.

§ 34B.122 Use of Standardized Lease Form

1. Assist client in completing standardized agreement and any related rental application [see §§ 34B.202 (residential lease), 34B.280 (applicant to rent)].

2. Review drafting guide in Part D of this Transaction Guide to determine whether additional or alternative provisions should be included in standardized agreement.

3. If desired, modify provision(s) of standardized agreement by [see § 34B.202[1][b]]:

a. Preparing supplement describing all modifications;

b. Attaching supplement to lease; and

c. Incorporating attached supplement into lease [see § 34B.202[2], P 40].

PRACTICE TIP:
Tenant Changes Noted on Lease Form. A landlord will often find it advantageous to have numerous changes made by a tenant all noted on the form. This tends to dispel the idea that negotiations were "one-sided" or that the rental agreement was an "adhesion agreement." By Benjamin Kaplan.

4. If any marks or other modifications are made on form, have both parties initial each modification.

§ 34B.123 Use of Lease Drafted by Other Party

1. Assist client in negotiations with other party.

2. If client is presented with proposed lease prepared by another attorney, review lease to ensure that it is:

    a. Consistent with client's stated goals.

    b. Otherwise acceptable to client.

    c. Legally sufficient.

    NOTE:
    For a checklist of provisions that must or should be included in leases, see Part D of this Transaction Guide.

3. Negotiate any desired changes with other party's attorney.

4. For each requested change that is not acceptable to other party, determine whether client wishes:

    a. To drop request for change;

    b. To terminate negotiations and transaction if other party does not reconsider; or

    c. To compromise on stated terms and conditions.

5. For requested changes that are approved by other party, confer with other party's attorney for mechanics of implementing change.

NOTE:

The drafting attorney may agree to draft the proposed change or request the other attorney to submit a draft of the proposed change. Alternatively, the attorneys may jointly draft a proposed change, by phone or otherwise.

6. Obtain client's approval of final version of lease.

PRACTICE TIP:

Client Should Take Some Responsibility for Reviewing Leases Drafted by Other Party. There is a general consensus in the business community that an attorney cannot resist changing or modifying another attorney's product. Whether this is the case or the perception, it is important when confronted by a lease drafted by the other party or the other party's attorney to get some things understood with your client, regarding the purview of your activity.

- First, your client should read the lease. The attorney reading the lease is not a substitute for the client reading the lease.

- Second, if the client does not understand the lease or particular provisions of the lease, the attorney should explain them.

- Third, the client should articulate to the attorney which terms the client regards as the most critical terms, "make or break," and the lease should be examined from the viewpoint of whether such terms are set forth or adequately covered by the document.

- Fourth, the lease should be examined by the client for those terms that the client believes are incompatible with its interests. For example, it may be necessary for the attorney to call to the client's attention that certain clauses that do not appear as money clauses are in fact money clauses, and the open ended nature of any such clauses should be explained to the client. The client must clearly understand what dollars are being tabled, now and in the future, and what events may trigger significant or monumental expenditures, such as ADA compliance, code compliance, or reassessment on change of ownership.

- Lastly, the client should be informed of what each part and step of the review is likely to cost. The best idea is to deal with all the make or break points first and then decide if it is even worthwhile negotiating the other points. By Benjamin Kaplan.

§ 34B.124 Drafting Custom Lease

1. If retained to draft lease, proceed with the following:

a. Review Part D of this Transaction Guide for checklist of items to be included in lease;

b. Complete agreement set forth in this chapter [see §§ 34B.200 (apartment lease), 34B.201 (house lease)]; and

c. Incorporate additional or alternative provisions also included in this chapter, as appropriate [see §§ 34B.210-34B.284].

PRACTICE TIP:
Drafting Custom Lease Is Expensive. Despite the growing excellence of available forms, drafting is a laborious and thus expensive task. It is best to have a clear understanding from the client as to what clauses or provisions need intensive drafting, and what provisions can well afford to be left to "off-the-shelf utilization." By Benjamin Kaplan.

2. Conduct negotiations in manner described in § 34B.123.

3. If negotiations are successful, obtain client's approval of final version of lease.

§ 34B.125 Execution of Lease

1. Instruct landlord and tenant (and their spouses, if applicable) to execute lease.

NOTE:

Under the Statute of Frauds, an agreement for the leasing of an interest in real property for a term exceeding one year, or some note or memorandum of the agreement, must be in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged or by the party's agent [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(3); see Civ. Code § 1091; Code Civ. Proc. § 1971; see also § 34B.15[3]]. Both spouses (either personally or by a duly authorized agent) must execute any instrument by which community real property is sold or otherwise conveyed [Fam. Code § 1102; see § 34B.15[2][c]].

2. If agent has been authorized in writing to sign lease on behalf of landlord or tenant [see § 34B.15[2][j]]:

a. If agent is attorney-in-fact, have agent first subscribe principal's name, and then agent's own name as attorney-in-fact [Civ. Code § 1095].

b. Otherwise, have agent sign as landlord or tenant's agent.

3. If landlord is partnership, have lease executed by:

a. All partners; or

b. Partners expressly authorized to sign by statement of partnership of general partnership.

4. If landlord is limited liability company (LLC), obtain signatures of:

a. Manager(s) appointed by members of LLC, if authorized in articles of organization; or

b. One or more members of LLC (refer to articles of organization to determine authority).

5. If landlord is corporation, obtain signatures of [see Corp. Code § 313]:

a. Chairman of the board, president, or any vice-president; and

b. Secretary, assistant secretary, chief financial officer, or assistant treasurer.

6. If landlord is unincorporated association, have lease executed by [Corp. Code § 18115; see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms]:

a. President, secretary, or other comparable officer;

b. Person specifically designated by resolution adopted by association; or

c. Committee or other body or person authorized to act by association's governing principles.

§ 34B.127 Disclosures by Landlord

NOTE:
This section covers disclosures made by the landlord other than in the lease itself. For additional disclosures that must be or usually are set forth in the lease, see Part D of this Transaction Guide.

1. If any person, while engaging in trade or business, is negotiating (orally or in writing) primarily in Spanish (or, as of July 1, 2004, Chinese, Tagalog, Vietnamese, or Korean) in course of entering into lease, instruct that person to [Civ. Code § 1632(b); see § 34B.24[2]]:

NOTE:
These requirements apply to leases for a period of longer than one month that cover dwellings, apartments, mobilehomes, or other dwelling units normally occupied as residences [Civ. Code § 1632(b)]. They do not apply if the other party negotiates the terms of the lease through his or her own interpreter [Civ. Code § 1632(h)].

a. Furnish other party with unexecuted translation of lease before lease is executed; and

b. Provide other party with foreign-language notice of disclosure requirement at time and place that parties enter into lease.

2. If landlord is leasing real property containing at least one but not more than four dwelling units and lease is to include option to purchase, instruct landlord to [see Civ. Code § 1102; see also § 34B.24[3]; Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements]:

a. Complete real estate transfer disclosure statement [see Civ. Code § 1102.6 (official form)].

b. Deliver form to prospective tenant as soon as practicable before execution of lease [Civ. Code § 1102.3(b)].

c. Indicate compliance with these requirements on lease, any addendum attached to lease, or separate document [Civ. Code § 1102.3].

d. If required by local ordinance [Civ. Code § 1102.6a]:
(1) Complete additional "local option" real estate transfer disclosure statement; and

(2) Deliver it to prospective tenant.

3. If landlord has actual knowledge of any former federal or state ordnance locations within one mile of premises, have landlord give written notice to prospective tenant of that knowledge before execution of lease [Civ. Code § 1940.7(b), (c); see §§ 34B.24[4], 34B.282].

4. If landlord is leasing property constructed before 1978, provide lead-based paint disclosures to tenant before lease is signed [see § 34B.284], as follows:

a. Give tenant Environmental Protection Agency-approved lead hazard information pamphlet.

b. Complete and attach disclosure form to lease [see § 34B.284[2]].

5. If landlord is leasing residential property for which contract for periodic pest control has been executed, instruct landlord to [Civ. Code § 1940.8; see § 34B.24[7]]:

a. Ensure he or she has copy of notice provided by pest control service [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 8538].

b. Provide each new tenant of residential dwelling unit with copy of notice provided to landlord by pest control service.

6. If landlord is proposing to apply to any public agency for permit to demolish unit, give written notice of that fact to prospective tenant before [Civ. Code § 1940.6(a)(1); see §§ 34B.24[10], 34B.285]:

a. Entering into rental agreement;

b. Requiring or accepting payment for application screening fee;

c. Requiring or accepting any other fees; or

d. Requiring or accepting any writings that would initiate tenancy.

NOTE:
Regarding current tenants, including tenants who have entered into a lease but have not yet taken possession, the landlord must give written notice of an intent to demolish before applying for the permit to demolish [Civ. Code § 1940.6(a)(2)].

NOTE: This Part is a checklist of provisions that the attorney should or may include in a residential lease that memorializes the previous negotiations of the parties. If counsel is reviewing a standardized lease or a custom-drafted lease prepared by another attorney, he or she may use this list to evaluate the sufficiency and scope of the lease.

§ 34B.130 Introductory Provisions and Description of Premises

1. Prepare introductory preamble setting forth [see preambles in forms in §§ 34B.200[2], 34B.201[2]]:

a. Date of execution of lease.

b. Information regarding parties as follows [see § 34B.210 (alternative provisions setting forth names and status of parties)]:
(1) Full names.

NOTE:
If the landlord took title to the premises in one name, and then changed his or her name, the lease should set forth both names [see § 34B.211].

(2) Status and capacity, for example:

(a) California corporation.

(b) California general or limited partnership.

(c) Limited liability company.

(d) Husband and wife.

(e) Unmarried man or woman.

c. Agreement of parties to lease real property.

2. Describe premises to be leased, as follows [see § 34B.16]:

a. Set forth address (including apartment number, if applicable).

b. Describe any easements or appurtenances to be included with leased premises, such as:

(1) Parking spaces or garage.

(2) Driveways extending over adjacent property, if applicable.

(3) Storage units.

§ 34B.131 Term of Lease

1. Indicate whether lease:

    a. Is for fixed term (tenancy for years) [see § 34B.14[2]]; or

    b. Will continue for successive periods of time of same specified length (periodic tenancy) [see § 34B.14[1]].

2. For fixed term lease, prepare provisions regarding [see, e.g., § 34B.200[2], P 1]:

    a. Commencement date.

    b. Length of term.

    c. Termination date.

    d. Whether or not tenant has right to extend term.

    e. Consequences if tenant holds over, that is, remains in possession of leased premises after expiration of term [see § 34B.221].

3. For periodic tenancy, specify [see § 34B.220]:

    a. Commencement date.

b. Length of recurring term as month, year, week, or other term.

c. When written notice of termination must be given [Civ. Code §§ 1946, 1946.1; see § 34B.220[1][b]]:
(1) For month-to-month tenancy:
(a) Thirty days in advance; or

(b) Any time not less than seven days before end of month.

(2) For month-to-month tenancies after tenant has lived in dwelling for one year or more [Civ. Code § 1946.1]:

(a) Sixty days in advance for notice given by the landlord; or

(b) Thirty days in advance if given by tenant.

(3) For other type of periodic tenancy [see § 34B.220[1][c]]:

(a) As long before expiration of one of its terms as term itself (not exceeding 30 days in any case); or

(b) Any time not less than seven days before expiration of recurring term.

d. Specify method of delivery of notice of termination [Civ. Code §§ 1946, 1946.1], for example:

(1) In manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 [see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases];

(2) By sending copy by certified or registered mail addressed to other party; or

(3) If tenant is giving notice, by:

NOTE:
This option is in addition to the first two described above [see Civ. Code § 1946].

(a) Sending copy by certified or registered mail addressed to landlord's agent to whom tenant has paid rent for month before date of notice; or

(b) Delivering copy to agent personally.

PRACTICE TIP:
Timing of Service of Notice May Be Critical. If a rental agreement provides for notice of termination to be served "not less than seven days" before expiration of a recurring term, the timing of the service is critical. Additionally, one must take into consideration the actual mode of service. By Benjamin Kaplan.

§ 34B.132 Rent, Security Deposit, and Other Charges

1. Include following information regarding rent:

    a. Amount.

    b. Person to whom rent must be paid.

    c. Form of payment (for example, cashiers check, money order, or personal check).

    d. Method of delivery.

    e. Intervals at which rent is to be paid.

    f. When rent is due.

    g. Whether rent is to be paid at beginning or end of period for which it is due.

    NOTE:
    If the lease (or local usage) does not require advance payments, the rent is payable at the end of the term [Civ. Code § 1947].

2. Include acknowledgment of landlord's receipt of first month's rent.

3. If desired, add clause providing for imposition of fee for late payment of rent [see § 34B.233].

4. Consider including provision giving landlord right to insist on payment by cash or other specified means if rent check is returned by tenant's bank [see § 34B.234].

NOTE:

A landlord or a landlord's agent may not demand or require cash as the exclusive form of payment of rent [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(1)]. However, there is an exception when the tenant has previously attempted to pay the rent with a check drawn on insufficient funds or has instructed a drawee to stop payment. In such circumstances, the landlord may demand or require cash as the exclusive form of payment for a period not exceeding three months [see § 34B.234*].

PRACTICE TIP:

Landlord May Not Require Tenant to Pay Rent by Specific Means Absent Lease Provision. In the absence of a provision requiring payment of rent by cashiers check or any specific other method, the fact that a tenant has previously provided checks with insufficient funds in the checking account to cover them does not permit the landlord to impose an additional contractual liability. By Benjamin Kaplan.

5. Set forth following information regarding security deposit [see § 34B.230]:

a. Amount of deposit.

b. Rights and obligations of landlord regarding use and handling of deposit.

c. Whether or not landlord will pay tenant interest on deposit.

d. Whether or not portion of deposit will serve as last month's rent [see § 34B.231].

e. If desired, obligation of tenant to restore any amount used by landlord during term of lease [see § 34B.232].

§ 34B.133 Utilities

1. Allocate responsibility for payment of utilities, for example:

a. Require tenant to pay all utilities, and to make payments directly to utility companies [see § 34B.201[2], P 4].

b. Provide that [see § 34B.200[2], P 4]:
(1) Landlord will pay for water and garbage disposal; and

(2) Tenant will pay for electricity, gas, and telephones, and will make payments directly to utility companies.

2. If meter for unit in multiunit building provides gas or electrical service for that unit and for area outside that unit, include clause that [see § 34B.263]:

a. Discloses that condition to tenant; and

b. Provides that:

(1) Tenant will pay cost of all gas or electrical services provided through tenant's meter; or

(2) Sets forth alternative arrangement, for example:
(a) Landlord will become customer of record for tenant's meter.

(b) Landlord will arrange for separate metering and will become customer of record for area outside tenant's unit.

(c) Tenant will pay specified portions of costs and landlord will pay balance.

§ 34B.134 Use and Occupancy of Leased Premises

1. State that tenant must use premises only as his or her living quarters [see § 34B.200[2], P 6].

2. Describe any restrictions on use, such as prohibitions against:

a. Waste or nuisance [see § 34B.200[2], P 6].

b. Insurance hazards [see § 34B.242].

c. Interfering with rights of:
(1) Other tenants or occupants of apartment building [see § 34B.200[2], P 6]; or

(2) Occupants of neighboring buildings [see § 34B.200[2], P 6].

d. Use of premises for any improper, unlawful, or objectionable purpose [see § 34B.200[2], P 6].

e. Violations of applicable laws [see § 34B.200[2], P 6].

f. Use of parking spaces for [see § 34B.241]:

(1) Parking of specified types of vehicles (for example, campers or mobilehomes); or

(2) Washing or disassembling of vehicles.

3. For multitenant building with rules and regulations, include clause that [see § 34B.200[2], P 7]:

a. Requires tenant to comply with rules and regulations;

b. States that copy of rules and regulations is attached to lease; and

c. Incorporates rules and regulations by reference.

4. Add provision limiting permanent occupancy to tenant(s) [see § 34B.200[2], P 5] and any children of tenant(s) [see § 34B.201[2], P 5].

5. Impose restrictions on (or prohibit) occupancy of premises by guests [see § 34B.200[2], P 5], for example:

a. Limit number of guests that tenant may have at any one time.

b. Define guest to mean person who occupies leased premises for specified numbers of consecutive and total days in year.

6. Prohibit pets [see § 34B.200[2], P 6] or impose restrictions on tenant's right to keep them on premises [see § 34B.201[2], P 6].

7. If desired, set forth statutory requirements governing tenant's use of waterbed [see § 34B.240].

8. If desired, add provision that insurance for tenant's personal property is to be provided by tenant [see § 34B.265].

9. If desired, describe circumstances under which landlord may enter premises [see § 34B.200[2], P 10].

10. Require tenant to provide landlord with copy of new key if tenant changes or adds lock [see § 34B.200[2], P 11].

§ 34B.135 Condition of Premises, Repairs, and Alterations

1. If desired, include provision reflecting landlord's statutory duty to put premises into condition fit for human occupancy and to repair all subsequent dilapidations of premises that render them untenantable [see § 34B.26[2][a]; see also § 34B.200[2], P 8(a)].

2. If desired, provide for arbitration in event of dispute over whether or not leased premises are tenantable [see § 34B.261].

3. State that tenant must repair, at tenant's own cost and expense, any deteriorations or injuries to premises caused by tenant's lack of ordinary care [see § 34B.26[2][a]; see also § 34B.200[2], P 8(a)].

4. State that tenant has inspected leased premises and add the following:

a. Tenant agrees that premises are in satisfactory condition and working order, except as noted on inspection checklist that has been completed by tenant and is attached to lease and incorporated by reference [see § 34B.200[2], P 8(b), first alternative];

b. Tenant will complete and deliver to landlord inspection checklist within certain time period after lease commencement date [see § 34B.200[2], P 8(b), second alternative]; or

c. Tenant agrees that premises are in satisfactory condition and working order, except as set forth in lease itself [see § 34B.264].

5. If premises do not conform to statutory requirements for dead-bolt locks, window security, and exterior doors [see Civ. Code § 1941.3; see also § 34B.26[2][d]], add provision requiring landlord to make required repairs and additions.

6. If premises do not conform to statutory requirements for telephone wiring [see Civ. Code § 1941.4; see also § 34B.26[2][e]], add provision requiring landlord to make required repairs and additions.

7. Regarding any repairs landlord has agreed to make to premises:

a. Describe repairs and specify dates by which they will be completed [see §§ 34B.200[2], P 8(b), 34B.264].

b. If repairs are crucial to tenant's use of premises, grant tenant right to cancel lease or to continue it in effect with abatement of rent if they are not completed on time [see § 34B.264].

8. Indicate whether or not tenant may make alterations or improvements to leased premises [see § 34B.200[2], P 9(a); see also § 34B.201[2], P 8(a) (requiring tenant to obtain landlord's prior written consent before making alterations)].

9. Describe status of tenant's improvements or alterations (if any) on termination of lease [see § 34B.200[2], P 9(a)], for example:

a. At landlord's option, will become landlord's property.

b. At landlord's option, must be removed by tenant at tenant's sole cost.

10. Consider including repair clause that [see § 34B.200[2], P 9(b)]:

a. Requires tenant to notify landlord of any dilapidations or other defective conditions on premises.

b. Grants landlord right to repair defective condition within reasonable time (not exceeding 30 days) [see Civ. Code § 1942(b)].

c. States that tenant may make repairs and deduct cost from rent, provided it does not exceed equivalent of one month's rent.

NOTE:
A tenant has the right to repair dilapidations that render the premises untenantable and to deduct the cost (up to the equivalent of one month's rent) if (1) the tenant notifies the landlord or the landlord's agent of the condition, and (2) the landlord fails to perform the work within a reasonable time after notification [see Civ. Code § 1942]. Although 30 days is presumed to be a reasonable time for these purposes, the tenant may repair and deduct after a shorter period if the circumstances require shorter notice [Civ. Code § 1942(b)]. Landlords commonly include in the lease a repair provision that grants them 30 days to perform nonemergency repair work so that they can control the quality and cost of that work. Of course, the provision does not alter the statutory rights and obligations regarding repair work and therefore would not preclude the tenant from acting sooner in accordance with his or her statutory rights.

§ 34B.136 Default and Termination

1. If applicable rent control ordinance permits evictions only for material breaches, recite that all (or specified) covenants and conditions of lease are material [see § 34B.200[2], P 13].

2. Set forth landlord's remedies for tenant's breach, for example:

a. Terminate lease and recover damages [see § 34B.251].

b. Continue lease in effect [see § 34B.252].

NOTE:
If the landlord is to have the remedy of continuing the lease in effect (1) the lease must permit (or not prohibit) subletting or assignments, (2) the landlord must not terminate the tenant's right to possession, and (3) the lease must provide for this remedy [see § 34B.252*].

3. Describe actions landlord must take to terminate lease, for example, providing tenant with written notice [see § 34B.200[2], P 13].

NOTE:
The landlord cannot continue a lease in effect following a breach if the landlord has terminated the tenant's right to possession [Civ. Code § 1951.4]. For this reason, among others, the lease should require the landlord to take an affirmative act to evidence his or her intention to terminate the lease to avoid claims of termination when one was not intended. Typically, a lease will require that the landlord provide three days' written notice because that is the notice requirement imposed by the unlawful detainer statute for termination of a tenancy. Likewise, it is wise to specify which actions will not constitute a termination of the lease [see § 34B.252*].

4. If parties agree that additional events other than breaches by tenant will give either party right to terminate lease before its expiration [see § 34B.253]:

a. Describe events, for example:

(1) Sale of premises by landlord.

(2) Tenant's loss of main source of income.

b. State method required to terminate lease.

5. If desired, provide that landlord's acceptance of rent following breach, with or without knowledge of breach, will not constitute waiver of landlord's right to enforce any provision of lease [see § 34B.200[2], P 16].

6. If desired, include liquidated damages provision [see § 34B.250].

§ 34B.137 Renewal or Extension

1. If parties want to include clause providing for automatic renewal or extension of lease [see § 34B.222]:

NOTE:
If an automatic renewal or extension clause appears in a printed lease, special notice and type requirements apply. Because this Drafting Guide focuses on the preparation of a custom-drafted lease, those requirements are not discussed here. For discussion of these requirements, see §§ 34B.222, 34B.223.

a. Specify whether clause provides for renewal or extension of lease.

b. Describe event(s) triggering automatic renewal or extension, for example:
(1) Failure of tenant to vacate and surrender leased premises before expiration of lease.

(2) Failure of tenant to give landlord notice of tenant's election not to exercise option granted by lease to renew or extend it.

2. If desired, add clause that grants tenant option to renew or extend lease and include the following [see § 34B.224]:

a. Specify whether clause permits renewal or extension.

b. Describe manner and time in which option is to be exercised.

c. If desired, require tenant to pay higher amount of rent during extended term.

d. If clause provides for rent increase, set forth specific amount of increased rent or formula or standard by which it will be determined.

§ 34B.138 Miscellaneous Provisions

1. Insert assignment and subletting clause that provides for one of following provisions [see § 34B.260]:

a. Prohibits assignment and subletting outright.

NOTE:
If landlord is to have the option of continuing the lease in effect following tenant's breach of the lease and abandonment of the leased premises, the lease must not prohibit subletting or assignment [see § 34B.252*].

b. Permits subletting or assignment, subject to reasonable standards or conditions.

c. Permits subletting or assignment with landlord's consent, and:

(1) Provides that landlord's consent may not be unreasonably withheld [see § 34B.200[2], P 12]; or

(2) Imposes one or more additional standards or conditions.

2. Disclose name and usual street address (for purposes of personal service) of [see §§ 34B.24[1], 34B.200[2], P 14]:

a. Each person who is authorized to manage premises.

b. Each person who is:

(1) An owner of premises; or

(2) Authorized to act for and on behalf of owner for purposes of service of process and of receiving and receipting all notices and demands.

3. Draft arbitration provisions, if desired:

a. In event of dispute over whether or not leased premises are tenantable [see § 34B.261].

b. For other disputes arising under lease [see § 34B.262].

4. Set forth miscellaneous provisions regarding:

a. Delivery of notices [see § 34B.200[2], P 15].

PRACTICE TIP:
Notice Provisions in Residential Leases. Although there is some latitude in altering statutory notice provisions respecting commercial leases, as contained in the Civil Code and the Code of Civil Procedure, the same latitude is not accorded residential leases. The drafter should conform notice requirements in the residential lease to standards not less than those provided by statutory law [see § 34B.200[1][p]]. By Benjamin Kaplan.

b. Waiver provision [see § 34B.200[2], P 16].

c. Estoppel certificate [see § 34B.200[2], P 17].

d. Attorneys' fees [see § 34B.200[2], P 18].

e. Binding effect of agreement [see § 34B.200[2], P 19].

f. Time for performance ("time is of the essence" provision) [see § 34B.200[2], P 20].

g. Status of contract as entire agreement between parties [see § 34B.200[2], P 21].

§ 34B.200 Apartment Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease for an apartment in a multiunit building or complex. It creates a tenancy for years, that is, a tenancy for a definitely described term beginning and ending on specified dates [see § 34B.14[2]]. It may be modified to provide for a month-to-month or other periodic tenancy by replacing Paragraph 1 with one of the alternative provisions in § 34B.220[2].

A standardized lease form prepared by the California Association of Realtors is set forth in § 34B.202. For a lease of a single-family residence, see § 34B.201. Other residential lease provisions that may be inserted into any of the complete leases in this chapter are set forth in § 34B.210 through § 34B.284.

For a complete list of provisions that should be considered for inclusion in a residential lease, see the Transaction Guide. The Legal Background discusses the laws governing residential leases, including the formal requirements for a valid lease.

[b] Description of Premises

A lease must contain a definite description of the property to be leased [Beckett v. City of Paris Dry Goods Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 633, 637, 96 P.2d 122 ; see § 34B.16]. In the case of an apartment lease, the street address and apartment number are usually sufficient [see Baranov v. Scudder (1918) 177 Cal. 458, 460, 170 P. 1122 ; see also preamble of form in [2], below].

A lease passes with it not only the described premises but also all appurtenances that are reasonably necessary to the tenant's enjoyment of the property, unless the lease provides otherwise [see Owsley v. Hamner (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 710, 717, 227 P.2d 263 ; see also § 34B.16[2]]. To avoid confusion, the lease should specify any additional items or spaces to be included in the leased premises, such as fixtures, furnishings, storage spaces, parking spaces, or porches [see preamble of form in [2], below (description of the premises includes a storage space and a parking place); see also preamble to form in § 34B.201[2] (description includes garage)]. If any of the these items are located on or appurtenant to the leased premises but are to be excluded from the lease, the instrument should state that fact [see preamble to form in § 34B.201[2] (description excludes tool and storage shed)].

[c] Term of Lease

Most residential leases create a tenancy for years or a periodic tenancy. As mentioned in [a], above, the form in [2], below, creates a tenancy for years, which is a tenancy for a definite and fixed duration that terminates at the end of the stated term without any requirement of notice [see § 34B.14[2]]. For a lease provision creating a periodic tenancy, see § 34B.220. For discussion of the various types of tenancies, see § 34B.14.

[d] Rent

This form specifies the amount of the monthly rent [see § 34B.18[2] for lease requirements for rent], and acknowledges the receipt by the landlord of the first month's rent. Further, it provides that the rent is payable in advance on or before the first day of the month [see P 2 of form in [2], below]. If the lease (or usage) does not require advance payments, the rent is payable at the end of the term [Civ. Code § 1947].

For a clause providing for the imposition of a fee for the late payment of rent, see § 34B.233. For a provision giving the landlord the right to insist on payment by cash or other specified means if a rent check is returned by the tenant's bank, see § 34B.234.

[e] Security Deposit

This form sets forth a security deposit clause [see P 3 of form in [2], below] that reflects the requirements of Civ. Code § 1950.5. That statute limits the amount of any security deposit that may be demanded by a landlord of residential property, and regulates the handling of the deposit. For complete coverage of the requirements of Civ. Code § 1950.5, see § 34B.230[1].

The security deposit clause in this form is favorable to the landlord in that it designates the entire amount of the deposit as a security deposit, rather than allocating a portion of the deposit as the last month's rent. This allows the landlord to use the entire amount of the deposit for any of the purposes set forth in Civ. Code § 1950.5 [see § 34B.230[1][c]]. For additional coverage and a clause that requires the payment of last month's rent and a security deposit, see § 34B.231.

A landlord or a landlord's agent may not demand or require cash as the exclusive form of a security deposit [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(1)]. However, there is an exception when the tenant has attempted to pay with a check drawn on insufficient funds or has instructed a drawee to stop payment. In such circumstances, the landlord may demand or require cash as the exclusive form of payment. The landlord must give the tenant a written notice stating that the payment instrument was dishonored and informing the tenant that the tenant must pay in cash. The landlord must attach a copy of the dishonored instrument to the notice [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(2)]. Waiver of these provisions is contrary to public policy, and void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 1947.3(c)].

As used in Civ. Code § 1950.5, the definition of "security deposit" includes any amount used for the cleaning of the premises on termination of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 1950.5(b)(3)]. To avoid disputes regarding the meaning of this general statutory wording, this form includes an optional clause defining the term "cleaning."

Note that for tenancies as to which the tenant's right to occupy begins after January 1, 2003, the statute provides that the security deposit may be used for cleaning of the premises "necessary to return the unit to the same level of cleanliness it was in at the inception of the tenancy" [Civ. Code § 1950.5(b)(3)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Be Specific About Tenant's Cleaning Obligations. There are probably more disputes over security deposits than any other feature of a residential lease. To minimize these disputes, spell out in the lease exactly what duties the tenant must fulfill to get back the security deposit. Instead of saying only that the tenant must "clean the premises," specify whether or not the tenant must shampoo the carpets, dry-clean the drapes, or clean the oven. By Myron Moskovitz.

California law does not require landlords to pay tenants interest on security deposits [see § 34B.230[1][f]], and the form in [2], below, provides that the landlord will not be required to pay interest. However, a local ordinance may require the landlord to do so. For a security deposit provision designed to include locally imposed interest requirements, see § 34B.231[2].

PRACTICE TIP:

Check Local Ordinances for Requirements to Pay Interest. A number of local jurisdictions have provided that landlords must pay tenants specified interest on security deposits. It is a common mistake to think that this only occurs in jurisdictions that have rent or eviction controls, or that it only applies to those units subject to rent or eviction controls. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[f] Utilities

Although a landlord of residential premises is responsible for furnishing the utilities necessary to render the premises tenantable [see Civ. Code §§ 1941, 1941.1; see also § 34B.26[2][a]], he or she is not obligated to pay for the utilities. Consequently, the responsibility for payment should be negotiated, and the lease should specify which party will pay for each utility.

If the tenant must pay for some or all of the utilities, the lease should indicate whether payment is to be made to the landlord or directly to the utility company. The form in [2], below, obligates the landlord to pay for water and garbage disposal services. Further, it requires the tenant to pay for electricity, gas, and telephone service, and to make the payments directly to the utility companies [see P 4 of form in [2], below]. This is a common arrangement. For a provision obligating the tenant of a detached single-family dwelling to pay all utilities, see § 34B.201[2], P 4.

If a multiunit building does not provide separate gas and electrical meters for each unit, and gas or electrical service provided through the tenant's meter serves an area outside the tenant's unit, certain statutory requirements apply [see Civ. Code § 1940.9]. For discussion and an illustrative lease provision reflecting those requirements, see § 34B.263. For additional discussion of utilities, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 155, Drafting Residential Leases (Matthew Bender).

[g] Occupancy by Tenant and Guests

This form limits occupancy to the named tenant [see P 5 of form in [2], below]. A landlord will typically insist on some control over the identity of the tenants, particularly when there are multiple tenants sharing the leased premises. For a clause permitting occupancy by more than one tenant and providing that the tenants will be jointly and severally liable for all obligations imposed by the lease, see § 34B.201[2], P 5.

This form also permits the tenant to have guests, but places limits on the number of guests and the length of their stays [see P 5 of form in [2], below]. These restrictions are designed to prevent tenants from abusing or circumventing the above restrictions on occupancy. They are not imposed by law and consequently may be the subject of negotiations.

[h] Use of Premises

The law applicable to the tenant's right to use the premises is discussed in § 34B.21. This form provides that the tenant may use the leased premises only as his or her living quarters. It also prohibits the tenant from (1) keeping pets on the premises, (2) obstructing or interfering with the rights of other tenants or occupants, or (3) violating applicable laws [see P 6 of form in [2], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Tenant's Use of Premises for Home Office. In recent years, there has been an increase in the number of people working out of their residences, either as a telecommuting employee, or in an entrepreneurial business such as consulting. If a tenant intends to work out of his or her apartment, counsel for the tenant may want to negotiate a broader use provision than what is provided in P 6 of the form in [2], below. A home office use may be acceptable to a landlord, especially if the tenant's business use will not include (1) meetings with clients at the residence and (2) frequent deliveries to the residence or (3) the storage or manufacture of products on the premises. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

This form also prohibits the tenant from maintaining any nuisance or committing any waste [see P 6 of form in [2], below; see also § 34B.21[3] for discussion of the law applicable to nuisance and waste].

[i] Rules and Regulations

Owners of apartment buildings sometimes prepare rules and regulations governing the tenants' use of the leased premises, particularly the common areas. Any applicable rules and regulations should be attached to the lease. Further, the lease should (1) incorporate them by reference, and (2) require the tenant and his or her guests to comply with them. Two sets of illustrative rules and regulations (one for a complex in general, and one for a swimming pool) appear at the end of this form and are incorporated by reference into the lease [see P 7 of form in [2], below].

[j] Condition of Leased Premises

This form contains a general provision requiring the landlord to maintain the premises in a safe and sanitary condition and to comply with all applicable laws regarding the condition of the leased premises [see P 8(a) of form in [2], below]. It does not recite the landlord's statutory duties to put the premises in a tenantable condition because these duties are binding on the landlord whether or not they are set forth in the lease [see Civ. Code § 1941; see also § 34B.26[2][a]]. Likewise, it does not recite the landlord's statutory duties relating to locks and keys [see § 34B.26[2][d]] or telephone wiring [see § 34B.26[2][e]] because these duties are binding on the landlord whether or not they are set forth in the lease.

[k] Inspection and Agreement to Repair

The landlord of residential property often requires the tenant to inspect the condition of the premises before occupancy. Frequently, the landlord provides the tenant with a checklist that the tenant must use to note any damage or other defects. The checklist is then attached to and incorporated into the lease. This form provides for the use of a checklist [see P 8(b) of form in [2], below]. For an illustrative checklist, see § 34B.281.

An alternative to using a checklist is a lease provision that indicates that the tenant has inspected the premises (including all furnishings, fixtures, and appliances) and found them to be in good condition and working order, with the exception of any defects that are listed in the provision [see § 34B.264].

If the landlord, before the lease's execution, agrees to make specified repairs to the premises, those repairs should be described in the lease. The parties may wish to state the date by which the landlord must complete the repairs [see P 8(b) of form in [2], below; see also § 34B.264].

[l] Alterations and Repairs by Tenant

Absent an express provision in the lease permitting or requiring alterations, the tenant may not make material alterations to the leased premises without the landlord's consent [see Metzler v. Thye (1912) 163 Cal. 95, 98-99, 124 P. 721 ; Briggs v. Sherman (1924) 65 Cal. App. 249, 251-252, 223 P. 581 ; see also § 34B.27]. This form requires the tenant to obtain the landlord's written consent before making any alterations [see P 9(a) of form in [2], below]. It also provides that any fixtures [see Civ. Code §§ 658, 660 ("fixtures" defined)] installed as a part of approved alteration work will, at the landlord's option, become the landlord's property on the expiration or termination of the lease [see Civ. Code § 1013 (when a person affixes his or her property to the land of another, the thing belongs to the landowner unless he or she agrees otherwise)]. For coverage of fixtures, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

A tenant has the right to perform certain maintenance or repair work (and to deduct the cost of the work, provided it does not exceed one month's rent) if the landlord fails to perform the work within a reasonable time after being notified of the condition [see Civ. Code § 1942; see also § 34B.26[2][f]]. If the tenant waits until 30 days have elapsed from the giving of the notice and then performs the necessary repair or maintenance work, the tenant is presumed to have acted after a reasonable time. However, the tenant may act sooner if all of the circumstances require shorter notice [Civ. Code § 1942(b)]. Of course, if the landlord makes the repairs, he or she will be able to control the cost and quality of the work. Consequently, a landlord will frequently insist on a lease provision that (1) gives him or her the right to perform nonemergency repairs and maintenance before the expiration of the 30-day statutory period, and (2) grants the tenant the right to repair and deduct if the landlord has not performed within the stated time period [see P 9(b) of form in [2], below]. This type of provision would not preclude a tenant from acting sooner in accordance with his or her statutory rights.

[m] Landlord's Right of Access

A landlord may enter a dwelling unit leased to a tenant only under the circumstances specified by statute [see § 34B.25]. Although those circumstances are a matter of law and need not be included in the lease, it is advisable to do so to inform both parties of their respective rights and obligations regarding entries by the landlord. Consequently, P 10 of the form in [2], below, sets forth the statutory circumstances justifying entry.

[n] Locks and Keys

A landlord may have difficulty exercising his or her right to enter a leased dwelling [see [m], above] if the tenant has changed or added a lock and failed to give the landlord a copy of the new key. Consequently, this form requires the tenant to (1) obtain the landlord's consent to change the locks and (2) give the landlord a key for any new or added lock [see P 11 of form in [2], below].

[o] Assignment and Subletting

Most residential leases include a provision governing subletting and assignment. This form contains a provision authorizing assignments and subletting with the prior written consent of the landlord. It also provides optional language that the landlord's consent will not be arbitrarily or unreasonably withheld [see P 12 of form in [2], below]. This restriction on the landlord's consent must be included if the landlord wants the option to continue the lease in effect after the tenant's breach [see § 34B.252].

For discussion of the law pertaining to the tenant's right to assign or sublet, and alternative provisions governing assignments and subletting, see § 34B.260 and Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interest .

[p] Tenant's Default

Many rent control ordinances [see § 34B.23] limit the landlord's right to evict a tenant to breaches that are considered material or substantial. If a rent control ordinance applies to the lease transaction, the lease should recite that all (or certain identified) covenants and conditions are material provisions of the lease [see P 13 of form in [2], below]. Of course, the landlord cannot be certain that a court would find a particular covenant or condition to be material, even when the lease contains this recitation.

Leases frequently provide that termination will occur only on written notice by the landlord. Because unlawful detainer is the most commonly used method for evicting tenants who hold over after expiration of the lease or continue in possession after breaching the lease, this form sets forth the three-day notice requirement of the unlawful detainer statute for the termination of a tenancy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3), (4); see also Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases].

A landlord of real property may continue the lease in effect following a breach and abandonment by the tenant if the following conditions apply [Civ. Code § 1951.4(a), (b); see § 34B.252 for discussion and illustrative clause]:

- The lease provides for this remedy;
- The landlord does not terminate the tenant's right of possession; and
- The lease permits subletting or assignment.

A landlord may recover certain statutory damages on the tenant's breach. For discussion of the statutory requirements and an illustrative clause, see § 34B.251.

For discussion of a waiver of a breach, see [r], below.

[q] Disclosure Requirements

[i] Name and Address of Landlord

A residential lease must include a disclosure of the name and address of the landlord or the landlord's agent for the purpose of service of process and of receiving notices and demands under the lease [see § 34B.24[1]]. This form sets forth the required disclosure for this purpose [see P 14 of form in [2], below], and a standard notice provision [see P 15 of form in [2], below].

[ii] Lead-Based Paint Disclosure

If the leased premises were constructed before 1978, the landlord must make certain disclosures, and provide certain information, to the tenant [see § 34B.284[1]]. In addition, a disclosure form containing certain information and signatures must be attached to the lease [see § 34B.284[2] for illustrative disclosure form]. If the landlord is subject to these requirements, a paragraph should be added to the lease which refers to the attached disclosure form and incorporates the form by reference.

[r] Waiver

A waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right (for example, the right to declare a forfeiture) after knowledge of the facts giving rise to a breach [see Karbelnig v. Brothwell (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 333, 341, 53 Cal. Rptr. 335] . A waiver may be express or implied, and may be implied from conduct inferentially manifesting an intention to waive the breach [Salton Community Services Dist. v. Southard (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 526, 532-533, 64 Cal. Rptr. 246] . For example, a landlord who accepts rent from the tenant, with full knowledge of a breach by the tenant of a condition of the lease, is generally deemed to have waived the breach, and is precluded from declaring a forfeiture of the lease by reason of the breach [Kern Sunset Oil Co. v. Good Roads Oil Co. (1931) 214 Cal. 435, 440,

6 P.2d 71 ; see Group Property Inc. v. Bruce (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 549, 555-556, 248 P.2d 761] . However, HUD housing assistance payments do not constitute rent for this purpose, and a landlord's acceptance of HUD housing assistance payments on the tenant's behalf with knowledge of the tenant's breach does not constitute a waiver of the breach [Savett v. Davis (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th Supp. 13, 17, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 550] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Consider No Waiver Provision in Lease. If there is a provision in the lease that permits the landlord to accept rent without waiving the breach, that provision is enforceable, and no waiver should be found [see P 16 of form in [2], below]. However, be cognizant that an anti-waiver provision may not prevent the tenant from asserting that the landlord is "estopped" from taking a certain position respecting the breach. By Benjamin Kaplan.

Furthermore, waiver of a breach is always a matter of intent [Karbelnig v. Brothwell (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 333, 342, 53 Cal. Rptr. 335] . Consequently, although an intent to waive may be inferred from the acceptance of rent, the inference may be rebutted. For example, the inference is rebutted when, by prior agreement of the parties, the rent was paid and accepted without prejudice [Karbelnig v. Brothwell (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 333, 342, 53 Cal. Rptr. 335] . The form in [2], below, includes a provision stating that the acceptance of rent by the landlord following a breach, with or without the landlord's knowledge of the breach, will not constitute a waiver of the landlord's right to enforce any provision of the lease [see P 16 of form in [2], below].

[s] Estoppel Certificate

In this form, the tenant agrees to execute and deliver an estoppel certificate, in a form provided by the landlord, if requested to do so by the landlord [see P 17 of form in [2], below]. An estoppel certificate is a statement of the tenant about the current status of its lease. Normally, the certificate recites the term of the lease, the amount of the rent, and the amount of any security deposit or prepaid rent. Further, the certificate usually requests the tenant to confirm the existence of the lease, to state whether any modifications or additions have been made to the original lease, and to describe any claims the tenant has against the landlord. For a form of estoppel certificate, see Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests, § 35A.222.

PRACTICE TIP:

Tenant Has No Obligation to Execute Estoppel Certificate Absent Lease Provision. In the absence of a provision requiring a tenant to sign an estoppel certificate, a tenant cannot be compelled to do so. Sometimes landlords utilize such forms as a precursor to an eviction action to narrow the potential issues in a case. A tenant who is presented with an estoppel certificate when not required by the rental agreement should question the landlord about its purpose, and perhaps then seek legal advice. By Benjamin Kaplan.

PRACTICE TIP:

Landlord's Use of Estoppel Certificate to Bind Tenant in Future. There has been no definitive determination as to how far an estoppel certificate can actually bind a tenant in a landlord-tenant situation not involving the lender. There has been increasing use by residential landlords to use estoppel certificates as a method of binding or limiting the tenant from asserting certain rights in the future. It is unlikely that estoppel certificates can be used as a sword, particularly in rent and eviction control jurisdictions that have "anti-waiver" provisions in ordinances. By Benjamin Kaplan.

Estoppel certificates are commonly required by a prospective buyer before a sale of the leased premises by the landlord, or by a lender when the landlord is applying for a loan secured by the leased property. The purpose is to permit the buyer or lender to confirm that the leases encumbering the property are enforceable, and to estop each tenant from denying the truth of the statements contained in the certificate in any future litigation arising under the lease [see Evid. Code § 623].

For an alternative estoppel certificate clause, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.261. That provision describes the contents of the estoppel certificate to be executed by the tenant. Further, unlike this form, it does not provide that a failure to execute and deliver a certificate will be deemed an acknowledgment by the tenant that the certificate as submitted by the landlord is true and correct.

[t] Miscellaneous Provisions

This form contains several miscellaneous provisions that are routinely included in leases, including the following provisions:

- Attorneys' fee provision [see P 18 of form in [2], below];

PRACTICE TIP:
Landlords May Prefer to Eliminate Attorneys' Fee Provision. Some sophisticated landlords are requesting that attorneys' fees clauses be omitted from certain leases. When there is a significant disparity between the landlord and tenant in regard to financial resources, some landlords believe that an attorneys' fees clause merely serves to encourage litigation, permitting tenants to engage counsel in ventures that seek to make the landlord a target defendant. By Benjamin Kaplan.

- Binding on successors provision [see P 19 of form in [2], below];
- "Time is of the essence" clause [see P 20 of form in [2], below]; and
- Sole and only agreement provision [see P 21 of form in [2], below].

[2] FORM

Apartment Lease

RESIDENTIAL LEASE

Preamble

This lease is entered into on _____[date], by and between _____[name or names], [legal status, e.g., a California corporation] ("Landlord"), and _____[name or names], [legal status, e.g., a single woman] ("Tenant").

Landlord hereby leases to Tenant those premises known as _____[specify, e.g., Apartment A at 12345 Chestnut Street, San Francisco, California] (the "leased premises"). [The leased premises also include the following: _____ (specify, e.g., Storage Space A in the basement of the building, and Parking Stall A in the parking garage adjacent to the west side of 12345 Chestnut Street, San Francisco, California)].

Term

1. This lease shall be for a term of [specify, e.g., one year] commencing at 12:01 A.M. on _____[date] (the "Commencement Date"), and ending at 12:01 A.M. on _____[date] (the "Original Term"), unless terminated earlier under the provisions of this lease.

Rent

2. Tenant agrees to pay to Landlord as rent for the use and occupancy of the leased premises the sum of $_____ per month. The rent is payable in advance on or before the first day of each month, commencing on _____[date], at the address specified in this lease for the service of notices on Landlord or at any other place designated by Landlord in a written notice served on Tenant. Landlord acknowledges receipt of the sum of $_____ as the first month's rent.

Security Deposit

3. On execution of this lease, Tenant shall deposit with Landlord, in addition to the first month's rent of $_____, a security deposit of $_____[specify amount, not to exceed a total of two months' rent for unfurnished premises, or three months' rent for furnished premises]. Landlord will hold this security deposit for the faithful performance by Tenant of _____[his or her] obligations under this lease and for the cleaning and repairing of the leased premises after surrender by Tenant. Landlord agrees to hold the security deposit for Tenant, free from the claim of any creditor of Landlord. Before the end of the lease term, Landlord will notify Tenant of Tenant's right to request an initial inspection of the premises. On Tenant's request, and no earlier than two weeks before the end of the lease date, Landlord will make an initial inspection of the premises and provide Tenant with an itemized statement specifying the repairs and cleaning proposed to be deducted from the security. Tenant will have the opportunity to remedy the identified deficiencies before the end of the lease date to avoid the deductions from the security. Landlord will return to Tenant the full amount of the deposit within 21 calendar days after Tenant has vacated the leased premises, less any amounts that are reasonably necessary to remedy any defaults in the payment of rent by Tenant, to repair damages to the leased premises caused by Tenant or Tenant's guests (other than ordinary wear and tear), and to clean the leased premises. [Cleaning of the leased premises shall include sweeping, vacuuming, oven cleaning, and rug shampooing.] At the time Landlord returns the deposit to Tenant, Landlord will furnish Tenant with an itemized written statement of the amount of the security deposit received, the charges made by Landlord against the security deposit, and the disposition made or to be made of the security deposit.

Utilities

4. Landlord agrees to pay all charges for water and garbage disposal furnished to the leased premises. Tenant agrees to pay for electricity, gas, and telephones used in or on the leased premises. Tenant shall make payments for these utilities directly to the utility companies.

Occupancy of Leased Premises

5. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, only Tenant will occupy the leased premises. Tenant may have up to [specify, e.g., two] guests on the leased premises at any one time. A person shall be considered a "guest" for these purposes if he or she occupies the leased premises for [specify period or periods, e.g., 20 or fewer consecutive days or for a total of fewer than 30 calendar days in a year]. No other person shall be permitted to occupy the leased premises except with the prior written approval of Landlord.

Use of Leased Premises

6. Tenant agrees that the leased premises are to be used exclusively as the living quarters of Tenant and shall not be used for any other purpose. Tenant shall not keep any pet, or permit any pet to be kept, on the leased premises. Tenant shall not do or permit anything to be done in or about the leased premises that will in any way obstruct or interfere with the rights of other tenants or occupants of the building or injure or annoy them or use or allow the leased premises to be used for any improper, unlawful, or objectionable purpose. Further, Tenant shall not cause, maintain, or permit any nuisance in, on, or about the leased premises, or commit any waste in or on the leased premises. Finally, Tenant shall not put the leased premises to any use that violates local zoning ordinances or any other law applicable to the leased premises.

Rules and Regulations

7. Tenant and Tenant's guests shall obey the rules and regulations governing the building, as they currently exist and as they may be amended in the future. A copy of the rules and regulations is attached to this lease and hereby incorporated by reference.

Condition of Leased Premises

8. The rights and responsibilities of Landlord and Tenant relating to the condition of the leased premises are as follows:

(a) Landlord will, at Landlord's own cost and expense, put and maintain the leased premises in a safe and sanitary condition and shall comply with all laws, ordinances, and regulations pertaining to the condition of the leased premises. Tenant shall remedy, at Tenant's own cost and expense, any deteriorations of or injuries to the leased premises occasioned by Tenant's lack of ordinary care.

[Choose one of the following:]
[First alternative, if tenant has inspected the premises.]

(b) Tenant acknowledges that _____ [he or she] has inspected the leased premises [, including all furnishings, fixtures, appliances, and other personal property subject to this lease, or specify other inspected fixtures, etc.] and agrees that they are in satisfactory condition and good working order, except as noted by Tenant on the "Inspection Sheet" attached to this lease and hereby incorporated by reference. [describe any repairs landlord has agreed to make unless they are set forth on the inspection sheet, e.g., Landlord agrees that the _____ (e.g., dishwasher) shall be repaired, at Landlord's sole expense, not later than two weeks after Tenant takes possession of the leased premises.]

[Second alternative, if tenant will provide inspection sheet at a later date.]

(b) Tenant acknowledges that _____ [he or she] has inspected the leased premises [, including all furnishings, fixtures, appliances, and other personal property subject to this lease, or specify other inspected fixtures, etc.]. Tenant agrees to complete and deliver to Landlord the "Inspection Sheet" form attached to this lease, setting forth any items which are damaged or not in operable condition within _____ [specify, e.g., three] days after the Commencement Date as an acknowledgment of the condition of the premises. Landlord shall not be obligated to repair any items specified by Tenant on the Inspection Sheet unless otherwise required to do so under this Lease.

Alterations and Repairs by Tenant

9. The parties agree that the following provisions govern all alterations and repairs of the leased premises by Tenant:

(a) Tenant shall make no alterations to the leased premises[, including _____ (e.g., painting or wallpapering)] without the prior written consent of Landlord. Any alteration made to the leased premises by Tenant after that consent has been given, and any fixtures installed as a part of that work, will at Landlord's option become the Landlord's property on the expiration or earlier termination of this lease, provided, however, that Landlord shall have the right to require Tenant to remove any fixtures at Tenant's cost on termination of this lease.

(b) Tenant shall notify Landlord of any dilapidations or other defective conditions on the leased premises that require repairs. If Landlord fails to repair or arrange for the repair of the condition within a reasonable time (not exceeding 30 days), Tenant may make the repairs or arrange for them to be made and deduct the cost of the repairs, provided Tenant does not deduct more than the equivalent of one month's rent.

Entry by Landlord

10. Landlord may enter the leased premises only under the following circumstances:

(a) In case of emergency.

(b) To make necessary or agreed repairs, decorations, alterations, or improvements; supply necessary or agreed services; or exhibit the leased premises to prospective or actual purchasers, mortgagees, tenants, workers, or contractors.

(c) If Tenant abandons or surrenders the leased premises.

(d) Pursuant to court order.

Landlord will give Tenant at least 24 hours' notice of Landlord's intent to enter unless (1) an emergency exists, (2) Tenant has abandoned or surrendered the leased premises, or (3) it is impracticable to do so. Further, Landlord will enter only during the hours of [specify, e.g., Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.] unless (1) an emergency exists, (2) Tenant has abandoned or surrendered the leased premises, or (3) Tenant consents, at the time of an entry that is not during normal business hours, to the entry.

Locks and Keys

11. Tenant may not change or add any lock to Tenant's apartment, storage space, or garage, without obtaining Landlord's prior written consent and without providing Landlord with a key to the changed or added lock.

Assignment and Subletting

12. Tenant may assign this lease or sublet all or any portion of the leased premises, provided Tenant first obtains the written consent of Landlord. [Landlord's consent to any assignment or subletting shall not be arbitrarily or unreasonably withheld]. The consent of Landlord to any one assignment or subletting shall not be deemed to be a consent by Landlord to any subsequent assignment or subletting. Any assignment or subletting without Landlord's prior written consent shall be void and shall, at Landlord's option, terminate this lease.

Default by Tenant

13. Landlord and Tenant agree that every condition, covenant, and provision of this lease is material and reasonable. Any breach by Tenant of a condition, covenant, or provision of this lease will constitute a material breach. For any material breach by Tenant, Landlord may provide Tenant with a written three-day notice that describes the breach and demands that Tenant cure the default (if a cure is possible). If Tenant does not cure the default within the three days, or if a cure is not possible, this lease will be terminated. Termination of this lease for a breach by Tenant will not occur unless the events described in this paragraph occur.

Name and Address of [Agent of] Owner [and Manager]

14. The owner of the leased premises [or The person authorized to act for and on behalf of the owner of the leased premises for the purpose of service of process and for the purpose of receiving and receipting all notices and demands] is _____[name]. _____[His or Her] usual street address is _____. [Add if applicable: The person who is authorized to manage the leased premises is _____ (name). _____ (His or Her) usual street address is _____].

Notices

15. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party to this lease by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed to be served when personally delivered to the party to whom the notice is directed or, in lieu of personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Tenant at _____[address of leased premises, e.g., 12345 Chestnut Street, Apartment A, San Francisco, California], or to Landlord at _____[street address, city, state, zip]. Either party to this lease may change _____[his or her or his or her] address for purposes of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this paragraph.

Waiver

16. The waiver by Landlord of any breach by Tenant of any of the provisions of this lease shall not constitute a continuing waiver or a waiver of any subsequent breach by Tenant either of the same or of another provision of this lease. Landlord's acceptance of rent following a breach by Tenant of any provision of this lease, with or without Landlord's knowledge of the breach, will not be deemed to be a waiver of Landlord's right to enforce any provision of this lease.

Estoppel Certificate

17. Tenant agrees to sign and deliver to Landlord an estoppel certificate, in a form provided by Landlord, within [specify, e.g., three] days of receipt. The estoppel certificate acknowledges that (1) this Lease is in full force and effect and is unmodified (except as specifically set forth), and (2) Tenant has no claims against Landlord (except as specifically set forth). Failure to comply with this requirement shall be deemed to be an acknowledgment by Tenant that the facts set forth in the estoppel certificate are true, and may be relied on by a purchaser or lender.

Attorneys' Fees

18. If any legal action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this lease is brought by either party to this lease, the prevailing party shall be entitled to receive from the other party, in addition to any other relief that may be granted, the reasonable attorneys' fees, costs, and expenses incurred in the action or proceeding by the prevailing party.

Binding on Heirs and Successors

19. This lease shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns of Landlord and Tenant; provided, however, that nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as a consent by Landlord to any assignment of this lease or any interest in it by Tenant.

Time of Essence

20. Time is expressly declared to be of the essence in this lease.

Sole and Only Agreement

21. This instrument is the full, complete, sole, final, and exclusive agreement of the parties concerning the matters covered by this agreement and the rights granted and duties undertaken as between the parties. There is no other agreement between the parties respecting the subject matter of this agreement or the rights, duties, promises, and undertakings of the parties. Any statement, representation, promise, or undertaking made prior to or contemporaneously with the execution of this agreement shall be void and of no effect, or to be held to have merged or been superseded by the terms and conditions of this agreement. Any statement, promise, or representation made to or by any party, or made to or by an employee, attorney, servant, agent or representative of any party, respecting the matters set forth in this agreement shall not be valid or binding as to these parties unless it is specifically contained in this agreement. Any oral representation, modification, or change concerning this agreement, or the terms or conditions of this agreement, shall be of no force and effect, except for a subsequent modification being reduced to a writing and signed by the parties to this agreement.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Noise and Other Disturbances

1. In consideration of others, no tenant or guest of a tenant may engage in any conduct in the building that may reasonably be determined to constitute a substantial annoyance to other tenants. Further, no tenant shall permit or do anything that will otherwise interfere with the rights, comforts, or conveniences of other tenants.

Animals

2. Animals, whether owned by tenants or guests, are not permitted on or in the leased premises at any time without the express written consent of the landlord.

Antenna and Related Equipment

3. A master television antenna, with outlets in each apartment, is provided. Tenants shall not erect any equipment for television or radio reception without obtaining the landlord's prior written approval.

Balconies and Terraces

4. All outside balconies and terraces must be kept clear of all items other than outdoor furniture and outside plants. A balcony or terrace may not be used for drying laundry, beating rugs, shaking dust mops, or hanging any article. Cigarettes, trash, and other material must not be thrown from any balcony or terrace. Charcoal barbecues are permitted only on balconies and terraces.

Garbage

5. Garbage is to be placed inside the designated containers. Items too large to fit into a trash chute must be placed in the lower level trash rooms or containers. No volatile or highly inflammable materials shall be deposited in the chutes, trash rooms, or trash containers.

Plumbing Fixtures and Other Water Apparatus

6. The bathtubs, basins, sinks, garbage disposals, and other plumbing fixtures and water apparatus shall not be used for any purpose other than that for which they were constructed. Among other things, these fixtures and apparatus may not be used for the disposal of rubbish, rags, sweepings, matches, and similar improper articles. Any damage or expense resulting from the misuse of these fixtures and apparatus must be borne by the tenant causing the damage or on whose premises the damage was caused.

Nails, Fasteners, and Affixed Articles

7. No nails, screws, or other fasteners may be driven, screwed, or otherwise placed in the walls, woodwork, or any other part of any apartment without the prior written consent of the landlord. Any article affixed to the walls of an apartment by a tenant must be removed by the tenant when he or she vacates the unit.

Window Coverings

8. The landlord provides draperies for all apartments. A tenant must obtain the landlord's prior written consent before removing and replacing those draperies.

Signs and Notices

9. No sign, advertisement, poster, foil, notice, doorplate, or similar device may be inscribed, painted, engraved, or affixed to any part of the inside or the outside of the premises, or placed in any window.

Common Areas

10. The halls, entranceways, paths, sidewalks, parks, parking areas, and other common areas must not be obstructed.

Appliances

11. Each tenant will receive a copy of the manufacturer's instructions for using each kitchen appliance covered by the tenant's lease. The appliances must be used according to these instructions. Installation of heavy electrical appliances other than those provided by the landlord will not be permitted.

Storage Compartments

12. Each tenant shall have the right to use the storage compartment assigned to that tenant in his or her lease. The landlord shall not be responsible or held liable for any loss or damage to the property stored in these compartments. Possessions that might create a fire hazard or other problems must not be placed in those compartments.

Parking Spaces

13. Each tenant shall park only in the parking space assigned to tenant by his or her lease or in the area designated for visitor parking. All vehicles, including motorcycles and other motor-propelled vehicles, are subject to this requirement. No vehicle may be left unattended on jacks or blocks. The tenant will be responsible for assuring that his or her guests park only in the area designated for visitor parking. The landlord will have a vehicle towed if it is parked in an unauthorized area, and the owner of the vehicle will be solely responsible for retrieving the vehicle and paying any related charges. No items may be stored in parking areas without the prior written consent of the landlord.

Goods and Packages

14. Any goods and packages of any kind left at entrances to apartments [or at the management office] will be the responsibility of the tenant to whom they belong, and the landlord will have no responsibility for their safekeeping.

Guests

15. Each tenant is responsible for the conduct of his or her guests, who must abide by all of these rules and regulations. Every guest who resides in an apartment for a period exceeding 72 hours must register with the landlord.

Locks and Keys

16. Each tenant will be given duplicate keys to the tenant's apartment and mailbox. A tenant may, at his or her own expense, install a special lock or deadbolt on the tenant's entry door, if the tenant obtains the prior consent of the landlord and gives the landlord a key for the new lock or deadbolt. A tenant may, at his or her own expense, install a door chain, but must leave the chain intact when he or she vacates the apartment. All keys to the tenant's apartment and mailbox must be returned to the landlord when the tenant vacates the apartment. A charge of $_____ will be made if this is not done.

The undersigned tenant received these Rules and Regulations (pages _____ through _____) on _____[date].

RULES GOVERNING USE OF BUILDING SWIMMING POOL

Hours

1. The pool may be used between 10 A.M. and 9 P.M., every day of the week.

Use by Tenants, Guests, and Children

2. The pool is reserved for the exclusive use of tenants and their guests. A tenant shall have no more than two guests in the pool area at any given time. Children may use the pool. All children under 14 years of age must be accompanied and supervised by an adult.

Assumption of Risk

3. NO LIFEGUARD WILL BE ON DUTY. Accordingly, persons using pool facilities do so at their own risk and the landlord assumes no responsibility for accident or injury. No one is permitted to swim alone.

Prohibited and Restricted Activities

4. Running and loud noise in the pool area are prohibited. The volume of any radio or other electronic device must be kept at a level so as not to interfere with the quiet enjoyment of other tenants or guests using the pool or residing in units adjacent to the pool area. Intoxicated persons are not permitted in the pool area.

Beverages and Containers

5. No alcoholic beverages are permitted in the pool area. Nonalcoholic beverages may be served at poolside in plastic or metal containers. Positively no glass bottles or other glass containers are permitted.

Personal Effects

6. Tenants are responsible for removing all personal effects from the pool area, including towels and trash.

A. Complete Residential Leases

17-34B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 34B.201

AUTHOR: by Linda Breen Pierce Myron Moskovitz Benjamin Kaplan Practice Consultants

§ 34B.201 Lease of Single-Family Residence

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease for a single-family residence. It specifies that the premises may be used only as a residence [see P 6 of form in [2], below] and creates a tenancy for years (that is, a tenancy for a fixed term) [see § 34B.14[2]]. This form may be modified to provide for a periodic tenancy by replacing Paragraph 1 with one of the alternative provisions in § 34B.220[2]].

An apartment lease is set forth in § 34B.200[2]. The laws governing residential leases are discussed at length in the Legal Background and in § 34B.200[1]. That discussion is, for the most part, applicable to this form as well. All provisions of this form that do not appear in § 34B.200[2] are discussed in [b], below.

For a comprehensive list of provisions that may be included in a residential lease, see the Transaction Guide. For a standardized lease published by the California Association of Realtors, see § 34B.202. Finally, for additional and alternative clauses that may be inserted into this form, see § 34B.210 through § 34B.284.

[b] Distinguished From Apartment Lease

This form differs from § 34B.200[2] in several ways. This form assumes that the tenants will be a husband and wife, and collectively refers to them as "the Tenant" [see preamble of form in [2], below]. Both tenants must sign the lease, and are jointly and severally responsible for the obligations imposed by the lease [see P 5 of form in [2], below; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions , for discussion of joint and several obligations]. This form permits the tenants' minor children to occupy the premises [see P 5 of form in [2], below].

The leased premises include the house and a garage [see [c], below]. An optional provision permits the parties to exclude items (for example, a tool shed) from the leased premises [see preamble of form in [2], below; see also § 34B.200[2]]. The tenants must use the house as a single-family residence [see P 6 of form in [2], below]. They may own pets, provided they obtain the landlord's prior written consent [see P 6 of form in [2], below]. Further, they must pay for all utilities [see P 4 of form in [2], below].

[c] Description of Leased Premises

A lease of an entire house or building is a lease of (1) the land on which the building stands, at least as far as the land is needed for the support of the building, and (2) adjacent land belonging to the landlord that is used with the building and is necessary to its proper occupation for the intended purpose [Bachenheimer v. Palm Springs Etc. Corp. (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 580, 588, 254 P.2d 153 ; see § 34B.16[2]]. Although the lease should mention any "adjacent land" covered by the lease [see § 34B.200[1][b]], there is no need to mention the land on which the structure stands.

[2] FORM

Lease of Single-Family Residence

RESIDENTIAL LEASE

Preamble

This lease is entered into on _____[date], by and between _____[name or names], [legal status, e.g., a single woman] (hereafter referred to as "Landlord"), and _____[name or names], [legal status, e.g., husband and wife] (hereafter collectively referred to as "Tenant"). Landlord hereby leases to Tenant the single-family house located at _____[street address and city], California, hereafter called the "leased premises." The "leased premises" shall also include [specify, e.g., the garage attached to the house], but shall not include _____[specify, e.g., the tool and storage shed located in the backyard, which Landlord shall retain for his or her own use during the term of this lease].

Term

1. This lease shall be for a term of [specify, e.g., one year] commencing at 12:01 A.M. on _____[date] (the "Commencement Date"), and ending at 12:01 A.M. on _____[date] (the "Original Term"), unless sooner terminated under the provisions of this lease.

Rent

2. Tenant agrees to pay to Landlord as rent for the use and occupancy of the leased premises the sum of $_____ per month. The rent is payable in advance on or before the first day of each month, commencing on _____[date], at the address specified in this lease for the service of notices on Landlord or at any other place designated by Landlord in a written notice served on Tenant. Landlord acknowledges receipt of the sum of $_____ as the first month's rent.

Security Deposit

3. On execution of this lease, Tenant shall deposit with Landlord, in addition to the first month's rent of $_____, a security deposit of $_____[specify amount, not to exceed a total of two months' rent for unfurnished premises, or three months' rent for furnished premises]. Landlord will hold this security deposit for the faithful performance by Tenant of _____[his or her] obligations under this lease and for the cleaning and repairing of the leased premises after surrender by Tenant. Landlord agrees to hold the security deposit for Tenant, free from the claim of any creditor of Landlord. Before the end of the lease term, Landlord will notify Tenant of Tenant's right to request an initial inspection of the premises. On Tenant's request, and no earlier than two weeks before the end of lease date, Landlord will make an initial inspection of the premises and provide Tenant with an itemized statement specifying the repairs and cleaning proposed to be deducted from the security. Tenant will have the opportunity to remedy the identified deficiencies before the end of lease date to avoid the deductions from the security. Landlord will return to Tenant the full amount of the deposit within 21 calendar days after Tenant has vacated the leased premises, less any amounts that are reasonably necessary to remedy any defaults in the payment of rent by Tenant, to repair damages to the leased premises caused by Tenant or Tenant's guests other than ordinary wear and tear, and to clean the leased premises. At the time Landlord returns the deposit to Tenant, Landlord will furnish Tenant with an itemized written statement of the amount of the security deposit received, the charges made by Landlord against the security deposit, and the disposition made or to be made of the security deposit.

Utilities

4. Tenant agrees to pay all charges for all utilities, including electricity, gas, water, garbage disposal, and telephones, used in or on the leased premises during the term of this lease. Tenant shall make payments for these utilities directly to the utility companies.

Occupancy of Leased Premises

5. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, only those persons collectively referred to in this lease as "Tenant" (and their minor children) will occupy the leased premises. The persons collectively referred to as "Tenant" shall execute this lease. It is expressly understood that this lease is between Landlord and each Tenant signatory individually and severally. In the event of default by any one signatory, the remaining signatory shall be responsible for timely payment of rent and all other provisions of this lease. Tenant may have up to [specify number, e.g., two] guests on the leased premises at any one time. A person shall be considered a "guest" for these purposes if he or she occupies the leased premises for [specify period or periods, e.g., 20 or fewer consecutive days or for a total of fewer than 30 calendar days in a year]. No other person shall be permitted to occupy the leased premises except with the prior written approval of Landlord.

Use of Leased Premises

6. Tenant agrees that the leased premises are to be used exclusively as a single-family residence. Tenant must obtain Landlord's prior written consent before keeping pets (or permitting pets to be kept) on the leased premises. Tenant shall not do or permit anything to be done in or about the leased premises that will in any way obstruct or interfere with the rights of occupants of neighboring buildings or injure or annoy them or use or allow the leased premises to be used for any improper, unlawful, or objectionable purpose. Tenant shall not cause, maintain, or permit any nuisance in, on, or about the leased premises, or commit any waste in or on the leased premises. Further, Tenant shall not do or permit anything to be done in or about the leased premises or bring or keep anything in the leased premises that will in any way increase the existing rate of or affect any fire or other insurance on the house or any of its contents, or cause a cancellation of any insurance policy covering the house or any part of it or any of its contents. Finally, Tenant shall not put the leased premises to any use that violates local zoning ordinances or any other law applicable to the leased premises.

Condition of Leased Premises

7. The rights and responsibilities of Landlord and Tenant relating to the condition of the leased premises are as follows:

(a) Landlord will, at Landlord's own cost and expense, put and maintain the leased premises in a safe and sanitary condition and shall comply with all laws, ordinances, and regulations pertaining to the condition of the leased premises. Tenant shall remedy, at Tenant's own cost and expense, any deteriorations of or injuries to the leased premises occasioned by Tenant's lack of ordinary care.

[First alternative, if tenant has inspected the premises.]

(b) Tenant acknowledges that _____ [he or she] has inspected the leased premises[, including all furnishings, fixtures, appliances, and other personal property subject to this lease, or specify other inspected fixtures, etc.] and agrees that they are in satisfactory condition and good working order, except as noted by Tenant on the "Inspection Sheet" attached to this lease and hereby incorporated by reference. [Describe any repairs landlord has agreed to make unless they are set forth on the inspection sheet, e.g., Landlord agrees that the _____ (e.g., dishwasher) shall be repaired, at Landlord's sole expense, not later than two weeks after Tenant takes possession of the leased premises.]

[Second alternative, if tenant will provide inspection sheet at a later date.]

(b) Tenant acknowledges that _____ [he or she] has inspected the leased premises [, including all furnishings, fixtures, appliances, and other personal property subject to this lease, or specify other inspected fixtures, etc.]. Tenant agrees to complete and deliver to Landlord the "Inspection Sheet" form attached to this lease, setting forth any items which are damaged or not in operable condition within _____ [specify, e.g., three days] after the Commencement Date as an acknowledgment of the condition of the premises. Landlord shall not be obligated to repair any items specified by Tenant on the Inspection Sheet unless otherwise required to do so under this Lease.

Alterations and Repairs by Tenant

8. The parties agree that the following provisions govern all alterations and repairs of the leased premises by Tenant:

(a) Tenant shall make no alterations to the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord. Any alteration made to the leased premises by Tenant after that consent has been given, and any fixtures installed as a part of that work, will at Landlord's option become the Landlord's property on the expiration or earlier termination of this lease, provided, however, that Landlord shall have the right to require Tenant to remove any fixtures at Tenant's cost on termination of this lease.

(b) Tenant shall notify Landlord of any dilapidations or other defective conditions on the leased premises that require repairs. If Landlord fails to repair or arrange for the repair of the condition within a reasonable time (not exceeding 30 days), Tenant may make the repairs or arrange for them to be made and deduct the cost of the repairs, provided Tenant does not deduct more than the equivalent of one month's rent.

Entry by Landlord

9. Landlord may enter the leased premises only under the following circumstances:

(a) In case of emergency.

(b) To make necessary or agreed repairs, decorations, alterations, or improvements; supply necessary or agreed services; or exhibit the leased premises to prospective or actual purchasers, mortgagees, tenants, workers, or contractors.

(c) If Tenant abandons or surrenders the leased premises.

(d) Pursuant to court order.

Landlord will give Tenant at least 24 hours' notice of Landlord's intent to enter unless (1) an emergency exists, (2) Tenant has abandoned or surrendered the leased premises, or (3) it is impracticable to do so. Further, Landlord will enter only during normal business hours unless (1) an emergency exists, (2) Tenant has abandoned or surrendered the leased premises, or (3) Tenant consents, at the time of an entry that is not during normal business hours, to the entry.

Locks and Keys

10. Tenant may not change or add any lock to the leased premises without obtaining Landlord's prior written consent and without providing Landlord with a key to the changed or added lock.

Assignment and Subletting

11. Tenant may assign this lease or sublet all or any portion of the leased premises, provided Tenant first obtains the written consent of Landlord. [Landlord's consent to any assignment or subletting shall not be arbitrarily or unreasonably withheld.] The consent of Landlord to any one assignment or subletting shall not be deemed to be a consent by Landlord to any subsequent assignment or subletting. Any assignment or subletting without Landlord's prior written consent shall be void and shall, at Landlord's option, terminate this lease.

Default by Tenant

12. [Landlord and Tenant agree that every condition, covenant, and provision of this lease is material and reasonable.] Any breach by Tenant of a condition, covenant, or provision of this lease will constitute a material breach. For any material breach by Tenant, Landlord may provide Tenant with a written three-day notice that describes the breach and demands that Tenant cure the default (if a cure is possible). If Tenant does not cure the default within the three days, or if a cure is not possible, this lease will be terminated. Termination of this lease for a breach by Tenant will not occur unless the events described in this paragraph occur.

Name and Address of [Agent of] Owner [and Manager]

13. The owner of the leased premises [or The person authorized to act for and on behalf of the owner of the leased premises for the purpose of service of process and for the purpose of receiving and receipting all notices and demands] is _____[name]. _____[His or Her] usual street address is _____. [

Add if applicable: The person who is authorized to manage the leased premises is _____ (name). _____ (His or Her) usual street address is _____.]

Notices

14. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any and all notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party to this lease by the other party shall be in writing and shall be deemed to be served when personally delivered to the party to whom the notice is directed or, in lieu of personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Tenant at _____[address of leased premises], or to Landlord at _____[street address, city, state, zip]. Either party to this lease may change _____[his or her] address for purposes of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this paragraph.

Waiver

15. The waiver by Landlord of any breach by Tenant of any of the provisions of this lease shall not constitute a continuing waiver or a waiver of any subsequent breach by Tenant either of the same or of another provision of this lease. Landlord's acceptance of rent following a breach by Tenant of any provision of this lease, with or without Landlord's knowledge of the breach, will not be deemed to be a waiver of Landlord's right to enforce any provision of this lease.

Estoppel Certificate

16. Tenant agrees to sign and deliver to Landlord an estoppel certificate, in a form provided by Landlord, within [specify, e.g., three] days of receipt. The estoppel certificate acknowledges that (1) this Lease is in full force and effect and is unmodified (except as specifically set forth), and (2) Tenant has no claims against Landlord (except as specifically set forth). Failure to comply with this requirement shall be deemed to be an acknowledgment by Tenant that the facts set forth in the estoppel certificate are true, and may be relied on by a purchaser or lender.

Attorneys' Fees

17. If any legal action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this lease is brought by either party to this lease, the prevailing party shall be entitled to receive from the other party, in addition to any other relief that may be granted, the reasonable attorneys' fees, costs, and expenses incurred in the action or proceeding by the prevailing party.

Binding on Heirs and Successors

18. This lease shall be binding on and shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns of Landlord and Tenant; provided, however, that nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as a consent by Landlord to any assignment of this lease or any interest in it by Tenant.

Time of Essence

19. Time is expressly declared to be of the essence in this lease.

Sole and Only Agreement

20. This instrument is the full, complete, sole, final, and exclusive agreement of the parties concerning the matters covered by this agreement and the rights granted and duties undertaken as between the parties. There is no other agreement between the parties respecting the subject matter of this agreement or the rights, duties, promises, and undertakings of the parties. Any statement, representation, promise, or undertaking made prior to or contemporaneously with the execution of this agreement shall be void and of no effect, or to be held to have merged or been superseded by the terms and conditions of this agreement. Any statement, promise, or representation made to or by any party, or made to or by an employee, attorney, servant, agent or representative of any party, respecting the matters set forth in this agreement shall not be valid or binding as to these parties unless it is specifically contained in this agreement. Any oral representation, modification, or change concerning this agreement, or the terms or conditions of this agreement, shall be of no force and effect, except for a subsequent modification being reduced to a writing and signed by the parties to this agreement.

§ 34B.202 Residential Lease or Month-to-Month Rental Agreement (CAR)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the California Association of Realtors (CAR) standard form for a Residential Lease or Month-to-Month Rental Agreement [CAR Form LR, displayed/reprinted with permission, CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS(R) endorsement not implied]. This form may be used for either a tenancy for years, which is a tenancy for a fixed term or a month-to-month tenancy, which is a periodic tenancy [see P 2 of form in [2], below]. This form may be used to lease any type of residential unit or structure, including an apartment in a multiunit building or a single-family residence.

CAR also publishes an "Application to Rent Screening Fee," which may be used in conjunction with the residential lease [see § 34B.280]. For a CAR inspection sheet that may be used by a tenant to document the condition of the premises before and after occupancy, see § 34B.281.

PRACTICE TIP:

Getting in Touch With the California Association of Realtors. The California Association of Realtors has offices throughout California. Their headquarters are located at 525 South Virgil Ave., Los Angeles, CA. 90020, (213) 739-8200, www.car.org. Generally, the Association will sell their forms in packages to both members and non-members. Some local Associations, however, will not sell to non-members. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

For complete, custom-drafted leases, see §§ 34B.200 (apartment lease) and 34B.201 (lease for single-family residence). The discussion in the Legal Background and in § 34B.200[1] covers many significant laws governing residential leases, and should be used in conjunction with this comment and form. The discussion, below, focuses on those provisions which are unique to this form and were not previously discussed in the Legal Background or § 34B.200[1]. This chapter also contains numerous additional and alternative lease provisions [see §§ 34B.210-34B.286].

PRACTICE TIP:

Benefits of Printed Forms. Printed lease forms are frequently used in residential transactions. They are particularly useful in smaller transactions because they provide an inexpensive method of setting forth lease provisions. Further, they are often used by landlords of multitenant buildings to eliminate the need to draft a new lease for each tenant and to minimize discrepancies among the various leases. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

PRACTICE TIP:

: Attorney's Role in Printed Lease Transaction. The attorney's role in a transaction involving the use of a printed lease normally will be limited. Counsel may be asked to review the completed form before either or both parties have signed it, or to interpret or determine the sufficiency of the completed form. In any event, counsel should evaluate the legal sufficiency of the form, determine whether or not it accurately expresses the intent of the parties, and consider whether or not the form includes all necessary or advisable provisions. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

PRACTICE TIP:

Consider Local Ordinances and Unique Attributes of Premises. As part of the attorney's role to determine whether the printed lease contains all provisions, particular consideration should be given to any unique attributes of the premises, and any local ordinances which may govern its use, occupancy, control, or termination of tenancy. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[b] Modifications to Form

Counsel may wish to consider making certain modifications to this form. The "Other Terms and Conditions; Supplements" provision in this form [see P 40 of form in [2], below] does not provide a sufficient amount of space for lengthy or numerous revisions. However, the form also provides for the option of attaching and incorporating a supplement to the lease [see P 40 of form in [2], below]. Each page of the supplement should be signed or initialed by both parties. Attached supplements are incorporated into the main lease agreement and can include CAR Form KLA (Keysafe/Lockbox Addendum) and CAR Form FLD (Lead-Based Paint and Lead-Based Paint Hazards Disclosure) [see § 34B.284]. For an illustrative addendum that may be easily modified for use as a supplement to the lease, see Ch. 30D, Construction Contracts and Subcontracts, § 30D.230. When an item on the attached supplement deletes or changes a particular provision of this form, the item should begin by identifying the affected provision, for example, "Paragraph _____ is modified as follows:".

Changes should not be made on the face of this form, except when an entire provision is being deleted or modified. In that case, the provision should be lined out and the change discussed on the attached document. Those marks and any other interlineations, deletions, or modifications appearing on the form itself should be initialed by both parties.

[c] Security Deposit

This form requires the tenant to pay a security deposit [see P 4 of form in [2], below]. It reflects the provisions of Civ. Code § 1950.5, which regulates the amount and handling of security deposits [see § 34B.230].

This form provides that the security deposit must not be used by the tenant in lieu of paying the last month's rent [see P 4B of form in [2], below]. This allows the landlord to use all of the funds for any of the purposes specified in Civ. Code § 1950.5(b) [see § 34B.230[1][c]]. For a provision that provides for the payment by the tenant of last month's rent and a security deposit, see § 34B.231.

This form also requires the tenant to reinstate any portion of the security deposit that is used toward rent or damages during the term of the tenancy [see P 4B of form in [2], below]. For discussion of this provision, see § 34B.232.

For detailed coverage of Civ. Code § 1950.5 and an alternative security deposit provision, see § 34B.230. Unlike this form, § 34B.230[2] contains optional language that should be included if an applicable local ordinance requires the landlord to pay the tenant interest on the security deposit.

[d] Parking and Storage

This form sets forth alternative provisions for permitting or prohibiting parking and/or storage on the premises by the tenant [see PP 7, 8 of form in [2], below]. For discussion and an alternative provision for the tenant's parking rights, see § 34B.241.

[e] Late Charges and "Non-Sufficient Fund" Checks

This form requires the tenant to pay an additional sum as a late charge if the landlord does not receive an installment of rent within a specified number of calendar days after its due date [see P 6 of form in [2], below]. It also provides that the tenant pay $25.00 as a "non-sufficient funds" (NSF) fee for the first returned check and $35.00 as a NSF fee for each additional returned check to the landlord [see P 6A of form in [2], below]. For discussion and an alternative provision for late charges, see § 34B.233.

[f] Neighborhood Conditions

This form advises the tenant to satisfy himself or herself as to the neighborhood and area conditions [see P 12 of form in [2], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Transfer Disclosure Not Required for Residential Lease. A transfer disclosure statement is not required for the transfer of a leasehold interest that does not include an option to purchase [see Civ. Code § 1102 et seq.; see also Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements]. This provision reminds the tenant that he or she is responsible to inquire into the suitability of the neighborhood and not to rely on the landlord or the broker to review and disclose those issues to the tenant. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

[g] Occupants

This form provides that the leased premises are to be used solely as a personal residence, and only by the persons named in the lease [see P 1B of the form in [2], below]. This is a common limitation. However, unlike this form, many leases also set forth restrictions regarding occupancy of the premises by guests of the tenant [see, e.g., § 34B.200[2], P 5].

[h] Lead-Based Paint Disclosure

This form includes an optional provision that attaches a disclosure form warning the tenant of the possible exposure to lead-based paint [see P 22 of form in [2], below]. For discussion of the law on this requirement and an illustrative disclosure form, see § 34B.284.

[i] Temporary Relocation

This form provides for the tenant to temporarily vacate the premises, on the landlord's demand, for purposes of fumigation or other repairs to the premises [see P 29 of form in [2], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Caution: Temporary Relocation Is Open-Ended. The above-mentioned provision is slanted in favor of the landlord. There are no advance notice requirements for the tenant to vacate, nor are there any time limitations on the period the tenant is required to vacate the premises. The provision merely provides that the tenant agrees to temporarily vacate the premises for a "reasonable period." Since this provision includes not only fumigation but also repairs, the time period could be lengthy. For example, if the landlord wanted to undertake a major remodel on the premises, it could be argued that this provision would require the tenant to vacate the premises for a period of weeks or perhaps even months. If this is an issue for the tenant, counsel for the tenant may wish to modify this provision to provide some protection for the tenant. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

PRACTICE TIP:

: Check Local Ordinances for Restrictions on Temporary Relocation. In several jurisdictions, temporary displacement is governed by local law if the premises are subject to rent or eviction controls. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[j] Damages to Premises

This form provides that if the premises are destroyed through no fault of the tenant, rendering the premises totally or partially uninhabitable, either party may terminate the lease by giving the other party written notice. If the lease is not terminated, the landlord is required to "promptly" repair the premises, and the rent is reduced based on the extent to which the damage interferes with the tenant's reasonable use of the premises [see P 30 of form in [2], below]. In the absence of this type of provision, the destruction of the premises would automatically terminate the lease [see Civ. Code § 1933(4)].

§ 34B.210 Names and Status of Parties

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form sets forth alternative methods of stating the names and status of the parties to a lease. It includes provisions for individuals, multiple parties, entities, and political subdivisions. They may be inserted into either of the complete custom-drafted lease agreements in this chapter [see §§ 34B.200 (apartment lease), 34B.201 (lease of single family residence)].

For alternative descriptions that may be used when the landlord's name has changed since he or she acquired title to the leased premises, see § 34B.211. For coverage of the capacity of the types of persons and entities identified in this form to enter into contracts, see § 34B.15[2].

[b] Identifying Parties

Counsel should confirm that the lease contains the full names of the parties and that the names are spelled correctly. Additional identifying information should be included, if necessary, to distinguish one party from another (for example, when a father and son have the same name).

The name of an entity should be taken from one of the following sources, as appropriate:

- For a corporation, its articles of incorporation;
- For an unincorporated association, its articles of association or bylaws;

- For a partnership, its partnership agreement or fictitious name certificate; and
- For a limited liability company, its articles of organization.

If a party to the lease is an individual, his or her marital status (single, married, or widowed) should be stated. When a legal entity is a party, the type of entity (corporation, unincorporated association, partnership, limited partnership, limited liability company, municipal corporation, political subdivision of the state, or other) should be included, as well as the name of the state or county of organization, if appropriate.

§ 34B.211 Landlord's Title in Name Other Than Landlord's Current Name

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative descriptions of a landlord that may be used in lieu of the description of the landlord in the preamble to the forms set forth in §§ 34B.200 (apartment lease) and 34B.201 (lease of single-family residence) when the landlord wishes to lease property under a name other than the name in which he or she derived title. This form may also be modified to be used in the CAR standard lease form in § 34B.202[2].

Any person who takes title to real property in one name, and then changes his or her name must, in any lease or other conveyance of the property, set forth the name under which he or she received title. If the lease does not comply with the requirement, it will be valid between the parties and those with notice, but the recordation of the instrument will not impart constructive notice of its contents to subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers [Civ. Code § 1096].

The alternatives in this form may be used when the landlord is an individual or a corporation. They may be easily modified for use with other types of landlords.

§ 34B.220 Periodic Tenancy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternative lease provisions creating a periodic tenancy. The first alternative creates a month-to-month periodic tenancy, and the second one creates a year-to-year or week-to-week periodic tenancy. Either provision may be substituted for § 34B.200[2], P 1 (apartment lease) or for § 34B.201[2], P 1 (lease of single-family residence). Unless modified in this manner, those forms will create tenancies for years.

For further discussion of the law applicable to a periodic tenancy, see § 34B.14[1]. The most significant difference between a periodic tenancy and a tenancy for years [see § 34B.14[2] for discussion of tenancy for years] is that the former requires notice to terminate while the latter does not [Camp v. Matich (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 660, 665, 197 P.2d 345 ; see [b], [c], below].

[b] Termination of Month-to-Month Tenancy

A tenancy from month-to-month may be terminated at any time by a 30-day written notice from one party, landlord or tenant, to the other [Civ. Code § 1946; see first alternative of form in [2], below]. When the tenancy is terminated by a 30-day notice given other than 30 days before the end of any month term, the tenancy terminates at the end of the 30 days specified in the notice, and rent is due and payable up to and including the date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946].

Notwithstanding the above, the parties to the tenancy may agree at the time the tenancy is created that it may be terminated by a notice given at any time not less than seven days before a recurring term of the tenancy expires [Civ. Code § 1946; see optional provision in first alternative in form in [2], below]. For discussion and forms for a notice to terminate a month-to-month tenancy, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases .

PRACTICE TIP:

Timing of Service of Notice May Be Critical. If a rental agreement provides for notice of termination to be served "not less than seven days" before expiration of a recurring term, the timing of the service is critical. Additionally, one must take into consideration the actual mode of service. By Benjamin Kaplan.

Notwithstanding Civ. Code § 1946, an owner must give notice at least 60 days (not 30 days) before the proposed date of termination of a periodic tenancy if the tenant has been living in the dwelling for at least one year [Civ. Code § 1946.1(a)-(c)]. In any case, a tenant must give notice for a period at least as long as the term of the periodic tenancy before the proposed date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(b), (e)]. Notice must be sent by certified or registered mail or given in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 [Civ. Code § 1946.1(f)].

The 60-day notice requirement for longer term renters does not apply if (1) the dwelling or unit is alienable separate from the title to any other dwelling unit; (2) the owner has contracted to sell the dwelling or unit to a bona fide purchaser for value, and has established an escrow with a licensed escrow agent or a licensed real estate broker; (3) the purchaser is a natural person or persons; (4) the notice is given no more than 120 days after escrow is established; (5) notice was not previously given to the tenant in accordance with Civ. Code § 1946.1; and (6) the purchaser in good faith intends to reside in the property for at least one full year after the tenancy's termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(d)]. These provisions do not affect the authority of a public entity to regulate or monitor the basis for eviction [Civ. Code § 1946.1(g)].

[c] Termination of Other Periodic Tenancies

Any periodic tenancy other than a month-to-month tenancy, such as a year-to-year or a week-to-week tenancy, may be terminated unilaterally only at the end of one of its recurring terms [Civ. Code § 1946; see second alternative of form in [2], below]. In the absence of an agreement between the parties, the notice required to terminate a periodic tenancy, other than one from month-to-month, must be given either 30 days before one of the recurring terms expires or as long before expiration as one of the terms as the term itself [Civ. Code § 1946]. For example, in the absence of an agreement between the parties, a year-to-year tenancy may be terminated only by a written notice given at least 30 days before the end of one of its yearly terms and a week-to-week tenancy may be terminated only by a written notice given at least one week before the end of one of its weekly terms [see Civ. Code § 1946].

An owner must give notice at least 60 days before the proposed date of termination if the tenant has been living in the dwelling for at least one year. The tenant must give notice for a period at least as long as the term of the periodic tenancy before the proposed date of termination [Civ. Code § 1946.1(b), (g); see [b], above].

Notwithstanding the above, the parties to any type of periodic tenancy may agree at the time the tenancy is created that it may be terminated by a notice given at any time not less than seven days before a recurring term of the tenancy expires [Civ. Code § 1946]. The second alternative of the form in [2], below, provides for this method of termination. For discussion and forms for a notice to terminate a periodic tenancy, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases .

§ 34B.221 Holdover Provision

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a clause that provides that a tenant will, at the landlord's option, become a month-to-month tenant if he or she remains in possession of the leased premises after expiration of the original term of the lease. Optional language states that the tenant must also fail to exercise an option granted in the lease to renew or extend the lease to become a month-to-month tenant [for an option provision, see § 34B.224]. The clause essentially states the applicable statutory presumption that would apply in the absence of this provision [see Civ. Code § 1945; see also § 34B.14[2]], and is intended to notify the tenant of this method of creation of a month-to-month tenancy. Both this provision and the statutory presumption protect the tenant from an unnoticed unlawful detainer action [see [c], below].

For a clause providing for the automatic renewal or extension of a lease, see § 34B.222.

[b] Effect of Clause

The creation of a month-to-month tenancy protects the tenant from an unnoticed action [see [c], below], since notice to quit is necessary to terminate a month-to-month tenancy [Renner v. Huntington Etc. Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 102, 244 P.2d 895] . The tenancy is deemed to be renewed each month until one of the parties gives a 30-day written notice to the other of his or her intention to terminate the tenancy [Civ. Code § 1946; Renner v. Huntington Etc. Oil & Gas Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 102, 244 P.2d 895 ; see § 34B.220[1][b]].

[c] Absence of Clause

Absent a holdover or other renewal or extension provision in a lease, if the tenant remains in possession after the expiration of the lease, and the landlord accepts rent from the tenant, the parties are presumed to have renewed the lease on the same terms and for the same length of time (not exceeding one month if the rent is payable monthly, or one year in any case) set forth in the original lease [Civ. Code § 1945]. Thus, if a tenant holds over and the landlord accepts monthly rent payments in the amount that the tenant had been making under the lease, the tenant becomes a tenant from month to month [Renner v. Huntington Etc. Oil & Gas. Co. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 93, 102, 244 P.2d 895] . However, the presumption in Civ. Code § 1945 is rebuttable [Miller v. Stults (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 592, 598-599, 300 P.2d 312 (presumption rebutted when parties executed different agreement after expiration of original lease); Black v. Black (1926) 77 Cal. App. 82, 85, 246 P. 90] .

In the absence of a holdover provision, a tenant is guilty of unlawful detainer in the following circumstances [see Civ. Code § 1945]:

- If the tenant holds over after expiration of a fixed term lease [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(1)]; and
- The landlord does not continue to accept rent from the tenant.

Unlike other cases of unlawful detainer, a tenant who holds over under these circumstances is not entitled to any form of notice to quit the premises [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161]. Rather, the landlord may immediately file a complaint in unlawful detainer to regain possession of the premises and damages, without providing the tenant with any type of notice [Ryland v. Appelbaum (1924) 70 Cal. App. 268, 270, 233 P. 356] . For additional discussion, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer (Matthew Bender).

If Tenant fails to vacate and surrender the leased premises on or before the expiration date of this lease, [add if lease grants tenant an option to renew or extend: and fails to exercise the option to _____ (renew or extend) this lease in the manner required by P _____ of this lease,] the tenancy shall, at Landlord's option, be deemed a tenancy from month to month, until the tenancy is terminated in a manner prescribed by law.

§ 34B.222 Automatic Renewal or Extension of Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative clauses providing for the renewal or extension of a lease. The first alternative provides for an automatic renewal or extension if the tenant does not vacate and surrender the leased premises before the expiration of the lease. The second alternative provides for automatic renewal or extension, but only if the tenant fails to give the landlord notice of the tenant's election not to renew or extend. If the clause will appear in a printed lease, special notice and type requirements apply [Civ. Code § 1945.5; see [c], below].

As an alternative to automatic renewal or extension, the parties may wish to provide that a holding over with the consent of the landlord will result in the creation of a month-to-month tenancy [see § 34B.221]. In the absence of a holdover or renewal or extension clause, a renewal will be presumed if the landlord continues to accept rent from the tenant [Civ. Code § 1945]. If the lease does not contain this clause and the landlord does not consent to the tenant's continuing possession, the tenant is guilty of unlawful detainer [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(1)].

For a clause granting the tenant the option to renew or extend the lease, see § 34B.224.

[b] Distinction Between Renewal and Extension

A renewal of a lease creates a new and distinct tenancy and involves the execution of a new instrument, whereas an extension of a lease is a continuation of the term of an existing lease for an additional period [Oryx Energy Co. v. County of Kern (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 48, 59, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 221 ; Howell v. City of Hamburg Co. (1913) 165 Cal. 172, 177, 131 P. 130] . However, the terms "renewal" and "extension" do not have a definite and fixed legal significance [Erickson v. Boothe (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 266, 273, 179 P.2d 611] .

When difficulty occurs in determining whether a lease provides for an extension or a renewal, a court will, if possible, ascertain the intention of the parties by a consideration of the entire document or sets of documents, the surrounding circumstances, and the conduct of the parties [Smith v. Arthur D. Little, Inc. (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 391, 399, 81 Cal. Rptr. 140] . In the absence of an express provision that a new lease was intended to be executed, the presumption is that no new lease was intended and that the tenant is to continue to hold under the original lease [Erickson v. Boothe (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 266, 275, 179 P.2d 611] . The lease must clearly show that the making of a new lease was intended, and this must appear from the express language of the parties [see Erickson v. Boothe (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 266, 275, 179 P.2d 611] . If a tenant exercises an option to renew that does not contain express language requiring the execution of a new lease, the action will be regarded as an extension of the original lease for an additional term [Leonhardi-Smith, Inc. v. Cameron (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 42, 47, 166 Cal. Rptr. 135 ; Schmitt v. Felix (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 642, 645, 321 P.2d 473] .

[c] Automatic Renewal in Printed Lease Forms

Statutory requirements apply to any printed residential lease that provides for the automatic renewal or extension of the lease if the tenant (1) remains in possession after the expiration of the lease [see first alternative of form in [2], below] or (2) fails to give notice of his or her intent not to renew or extend before expiration of the lease [see second alternative of form in [2], below]. A printed lease is voidable by the party who did not prepare it unless the renewal or extension clause appears in at least eight-point boldface type and a notice regarding the clause appears immediately above the tenant's signature block [Civ. Code § 1945.5; see § 34B.223].

As mentioned above, the statutory type and notice requirements apply to a clause in a printed lease that provides for an automatic renewal or extension if the tenant fails to give notice of his or her intent not to renew or extend [Civ. Code § 1945.5; see second alternative of form in [2], below]. Normally the tenant would be required to give this notice only if the lease also granted the tenant the option to renew or extend the lease. For an option provision, see § 34B.224.

§ 34B.223 Notice Regarding Inclusion of Automatic Renewal or Extension Clause in Lease

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an example of the type of recital that must appear in any printed residential lease that includes an automatic renewal or extension provision [see § 34B.222]. To trigger the recital requirement, the renewal or extension provision must provide for the automatic renewal or extension of the lease for all or part of the full term of the lease if the tenant remains in possession after the expiration of the lease, or fails to give notice of his or her intent not to renew or extend before the expiration of the lease.

The provision will be voidable by the party who did not prepare the lease unless the following conditions are met [Civ. Code § 1945.5]:

- The automatic renewal or extension provision appears in at least 8-point boldface type in the body of the lease agreement [see § 34B.222[2]]; and

- A recital of the fact that the provision is contained in the body of the agreement appears in at least 8-point boldface type immediately before the place where the tenant executes the lease [see form in [2], below].

As mentioned above, these statutory requirements apply only to printed leases [Civ. Code § 1945.5]. The Legislature apparently felt that automatic renewal clauses were easier to hide in a printed form and that unsophisticated residential tenants were more likely to be misled by printed forms than by typed, custom-drafted leases. Any waiver of the above statutory requirements is void as against public policy [Civ. Code § 1945.5].

If a printed form residential lease fails to satisfy the above requirements, then the presumption in Civ. Code § 1945 applies [Civ. Code § 1945.5]. Under Civ. Code § 1945, if a tenant of real property remains in possession after expiration of the lease and the landlord accepts rent from the tenant, the parties are presumed to have renewed the lease on the same terms and for the same length of time (not exceeding one month when the rent is payable monthly, or one year in any case) [Civ. Code § 1945].

§ 34B.224 Option to Renew or Extend Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a clause granting a tenant the option to renew or extend the term of a fixed lease. For discussion and forms for automatic renewals and extensions, see § 34B.222.

[b] Effect of Option to Renew Lease

A provision in a lease giving the tenant the option to extend or renew a lease creates only a contractual right [Klepper v. Hoover (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 460, 463-464, 98 Cal. Rptr. 482 ; Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 64, 338 P.2d 1005] . An option is simply an offer by which a promisor binds himself or herself in advance to make a contract if the optionee accepts the offer on the terms and within the time designated in the option [Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 67, 338 P.2d 1005 ; Hayward Lbr. & Inv. Co. v. Const. Prod. Corp. (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 221, 229, 255 P.2d 473] . It does not transfer any interest in the leased land until it is exercised [Dougherty v. California Kettleman, Etc. (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 58, 78, 69 P.2d 155 ; Klepper v. Hoover (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 460, 463-464, 98 Cal. Rptr. 482] .

Once the option to extend or renew the lease is exercised, the promise to renew ceases to be a mere personal covenant and becomes a covenant running with the land [Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 64-65, 338 P.2d 1005] . Because it is a covenant running with the land, the legal successors of the tenant as well as the legal successors of the landlord are entitled to the benefits and are burdened with the duties and obligations the covenant conferred and imposed on the original parties to the lease [Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 65, 338 P.2d 1005] .

Thus, when a tenant has exercised an option to renew or extend a lease, the tenant and his or her successors' rights to possession of the premises for the renewed or extended term of the lease cannot be defeated by any actions of the landlord or a successor of the landlord [Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 65, 338 P.2d 1005] . The tenant or the tenant's successor in interest is entitled to specific performance of the covenant to renew or extend the lease [Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 65, 338 P.2d 1005] .

[c] Exercise of Option

Because the optionor, the landlord, is bound by the offer contained in the option, but the optionee, the tenant, is free to accept the offer or not as the tenant chooses [see [b], above], the courts are strict in holding an optionee to exact compliance with the terms of the option [Hayward Lbr. & Inv. Co. v. Const. Prod. Corp. (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 221, 229, 255 P.2d 473] .

The courts are equally strict in enforcing the notice requirements for an option to renew the lease. The specification of a time period or deadline by which notice of exercise by the tenant of an option to renew the lease must be given is universally considered to be a condition precedent to the exercise of the option [Simons v. Young (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 170, 179, 155 Cal. Rptr. 460 ; see Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 494, 502, 113 Cal. Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097] .

When a lease containing an option for renewal or extension does not contain any provision as to the manner and time in which the option is to be exercised, the tenant may exercise the option before expiration of the original lease term by any act or course of conduct indicating to the landlord the tenant's intent to renew [Alhandy v. Genchi (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 806, 810, 21 Cal. Rptr. 167 ; Cicinelli v. Iwasaki (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 58, 67-68, 338 P.2d 1005] . For further discussion of an option to renew, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.212.

This form sets forth a specific notice procedure for the exercise of the option.

[d] Increased Rent

Whenever an option to renew or extend requires payment of an increased rent during the renewed or extended term, the specific amount or the formula or standard by which the amount of rent is to be determined must be included in the lease [see Ablett v. Clauson (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 280, 284-286, 272 P.2d 753 ; Etco Corp. v. Hauer (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1161, 208 Cal. Rptr. 118] . In residential leases, the rent increase is typically based on a stated fixed amount [see form in [2], below]. For alternative clauses providing for the use of a specified formula or standard to compute the increased rent, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.212.

Option to Renew or Extend Lease

Option to _____ [Renew or Extend] Lease Term

_____. Landlord grants to Tenant a one-time option to [renew or extend] this lease for a period of [e.g., one year] (hereafter referred to as the "extended term") from the original expiration date of this lease. The extended term of this lease, if any, shall be subject to all of the terms and conditions contained in this lease, except that the rent to be paid by Tenant to Landlord for the extended term shall be increased to the sum of $_____ per month. To exercise this option, Tenant must not be in default of any of the provisions of this lease and must deliver written notice of its exercise of the option to Landlord _____[specify, e.g., before expiration of the term of this lease or _____ (number) days before expiration of the term of this lease or on or before _____ (date), but not earlier than _____ (date)].

§ 34B.230 Security Deposit

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease provision that requires the tenant to post a security deposit for the faithful performance of the lease by the tenant and specifies how the landlord will handle the deposit. It reflects the requirements of Civ. Code § 1950.5 (discussed throughout this comment), which places limits on the amount of security deposits collected by landlords of residential property and regulates the handling of the deposits. This form also contains optional language that may be used when a local ordinance requires the landlord to pay the tenant interest on the deposit [see [g], below].

For a lease provision requiring the tenant to pay the last month's rent and a security deposit, see § 34B.231. For an alternative provision that obligates the tenant to replace the security deposit if it is used by the landlord during the tenancy, see § 34B.232.

[b] Scope of Civ. Code § 1950.5

[i] Relationship to Local Laws

Although the Legislature has defined and regulated the use of security deposits in Civ. Code § 1950.5, nothing in this statute shows an legislative intent to fully and completely occupy the field of security deposits. Therefore, a local law governing the rate of increases in security deposits is not preempted by Civ. Code § 1950.5 [People v. Tannenbaum (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th Supp. 6, 9-10, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 534 (Los Angeles City Rent Control Ordinance limiting increases in security deposits was not preempted by Civ. Code § 1950.5)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel Should Review Rent Control Ordinances. As noted in the case of People v. Tennenbaum, above, local ordinances may provide for additional or greater protection for the tenant. Counsel should review any ordinances carefully when advising clients. For example, Chapter 49 of the San Francisco Administrative Code contains provisions regarding security deposits for residential rental property, the payment of interest on security deposits, and the remedies afforded to tenants if interest is not paid. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[ii] Persons Subject to Statutory Requirements

The landlord's obligations to hold and return a security deposit to the tenant also applies to the landlord's agent. Civ. Code § 1950.5 does not focus on who collects the security and does not create any exception for entities who are not landlords. Rather, one court of appeal found that so long as a fee collected from a tenant constitutes a security, the statute would then apply to anyone who collects the security [Kraus v. Trinity Management Services, Inc. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 709, 723, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210 , reversed on other grounds, Kraus v. Trinity Management Services, Inc. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 116, 139-142, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 485, 999 P.2d 718] .

[c] Definitions

Civ. Code § 1950.5 applies to security for a rental agreement for residential property. For these purposes, residential property is property used as the dwelling of a tenant [Civ. Code § 1950.5(a)].

Under Civ. Code § 1950.5, "security" means any payment, fee, deposit, or charge, including, but not limited to, any payment, fee, deposit, or charge, except for an application screening fee [see Civ. Code § 1950.6] that is imposed at the beginning of the tenancy to be used to reimburse the landlord for costs associated with processing a new tenant or that is imposed as an advance payment of rent, used or to be used for any purpose, including, but not limited to, any of the following purposes [Civ. Code § 1950.5(b)]:

- To compensate a landlord for a tenant's default in the payment of rent;
- To repair damages to the premises (exclusive of ordinary wear and tear) caused by the tenant or the tenant's guest or licensee;
- To clean the premises on termination of the tenancy (for tenancies as to which the tenant's right to occupy begins after January 1, 2003, the security deposit may be used for cleaning of the premises "necessary to return the unit to the same level of cleanliness it was in at the inception of the tenancy"); or
- To remedy future defaults by the tenant in any obligation under the rental agreement to restore, replace, or return personal property or appurtenances, exclusive of ordinary wear and tear, if the rental agreement authorizes the application of the security deposit in this manner.

This statutory definition of "security" is intended to be broadly defined; the examples of the purposes for which a security deposit may be required as set forth in Civ. Code § 1950.5(b) are not exclusive [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(b); Kraus v. Trinity Management Services, Inc. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 709, 720-721, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210 , reversed on other grounds, Kraus v. Trinity Management Services, Inc. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 116, 139-142, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 485, 999 P.2d 718] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Check Definitions in Local Ordinances. In jurisdictions in which there are security deposit interest ordinances, the prepayment of a last month's rent or an amount specified as being on account of the last month's rent is most probably a security deposit [see, e.g., San Francisco Administrative Code § 49.1, referring to "any payment, fee, deposit, or charge"]. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[d] Form of Security Deposit

A landlord or a landlord's agent may not demand or require cash as the exclusive form of a deposit of security [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(1)]. However, there is an exception when the tenant has attempted to pay with a check drawn on insufficient funds or has instructed a drawee to stop payment. In such circumstances, the landlord may demand or require cash as the exclusive form of payment. The landlord must give the tenant a written notice stating that the payment instrument was dishonored and informing the tenant that the tenant must pay in cash. The landlord must attach a copy of the dishonored instrument to the notice [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(2)]. For purposes of these requirements, the issuance of a money order or a cashier's check is direct evidence only that the instrument was issued [Civ. Code § 1947.3(b)]. Waiver of these provisions is contrary to public policy, and void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 1947.3(c)].

[e] Maximum Amount

Except as provided in Civ. Code § 1940.5 (waterbeds) [see § 34B.240[1][b][vi]], a landlord of residential property may not demand or receive any security deposit, however denominated, that exceeds an amount equal to two months' rent in the case of unfurnished residential property, or three months' rent in the case of furnished residential property. However, the landlord may demand or receive, in addition to the security deposit, the rent for the first month of the tenancy before or at the time the tenant takes initial occupancy. Further, the landlord may insist on an advance payment of not less than six months' rent when the term of the lease is six months or longer [Civ. Code § 1950.5(c)].

The above-mentioned statutory limitations on the amount of the security deposit do not prohibit an agreement in which the landlord, at the request of the tenant and for a specified fee or charge, is to make structural, decorative, furnishing, or similar alterations, if the alterations do not involve cleaning or repairing for which the landlord may charge the previous tenant [Civ. Code § 1950.5(c); see Civ. Code § 1950.5(e) (permissible cleaning and repairing charges against previous tenant)].

[f] Last Month's Rent

Because the definition of "security" extends to any advance payment of rent [Civ. Code § 1950.5(b); see [c], above], the last month's rent falls within the scope of Civ. Code § 1950.5. For a provision that prohibits the tenant from using the security deposit for his or her last month's rent, see § 34B.202[2], P 4B. For a lease provision that requires the tenant to pay last month's rent and a security deposit, see § 34B.231.

[g] Interest on Security Deposit

A landlord is not required by law to pay interest to tenants on security deposits [Korens v. R. W. Zukin Corp. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1054, 1058-1059, 261 Cal. Rptr. 137] . However, the lease may provide that interest be paid on a security deposit [see Chinese Hosp. Foundation Fund v. Patterson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 627, 635-636, 81 Cal. Rptr. 795] . In addition, a local ordinance may require the payment of interest and may also specify a minimum return, establish the frequency of payments, or impose other related requirements [see People v. Tannenbaum (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th Supp. 6, 9-10, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 534] . The form in [2], below, includes optional language providing for the inclusion of any interest requirements imposed by local ordinance.

For further discussion of interest on security deposits, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 203, Security Deposits (Matthew Bender).

[h] Landlord's Handling of Deposit

[i] Deposit Held for Tenant's Benefit

Any security deposit made by a residential tenant must be held for the tenant by the landlord. The tenant's claim to the deposit is prior to the claim of any creditor of the landlord [Civ. Code § 1950.5(d)]. The fact that the lease calls the security deposit a "cleaning fee" or some other name does not excuse the landlord from holding it for the tenant who signed the lease [see Bauman v. Islay Investments (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 752, 756-757, 106 Cal. Rptr. 889] . However, there is no specific statutory requirement that security deposit funds be held by the landlord in a trust account [Sternlieb v. State Bar (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 317, 330 n.6, 276 Cal. Rptr. 346, 801 P.2d 1097] .

[ii] Permissible Deductions From Deposit

The landlord may claim (that is, deduct) only amounts from the security deposit that are reasonably necessary to accomplish the purposes specified in Civ. Code § 1950.5(b) [see [c], above]. The landlord may not assert a claim against the tenant or the security for [Civ. Code § 1950.5(e)]:

- Damages to the premises or any defective conditions that existed before the tenancy;
- Ordinary wear and tear or its effects (whether the wear and tear existed before the tenancy or occurred during the tenancy); or
- The cumulative effects of ordinary wear and tear occurring during any one or more tenancies.

For a provision obligating the tenant to replace deducted amounts during the term of the tenancy, see § 34B.232.

[iii] Initial Inspection

Within a reasonable time after notification of either party's intention to terminate the tenancy, or before the end of the lease term, the landlord must notify the tenant in writing of his or her option to request an initial inspection and of his or her right to be present at the inspection [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(1)]. The purpose of the initial inspection is to allow the tenant an opportunity to remedy identified deficiencies in order to avoid deductions from the security. If the tenant chooses not to request an initial inspection, the landlord's duties with regard to that inspection are discharged [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(1)]. The landlord must give at least 48 hours prior written notice of the date and time of the inspection if either a mutual time is agreed on or if a mutually agreed time cannot be scheduled but the tenant still wishes an inspection. The tenant and landlord may agree to forgo the 48-hour prior written notice by both signing a written waiver. The landlord may proceed with the inspection whether the tenant is present or not, unless the tenant previously withdrew his or her request for the inspection [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(1)]. For a form of notice, see § 34B.286.

Based on the initial inspection, the landlord must give the tenant an itemized statement specifying repairs or cleaning that are proposed to be the basis of any deductions from the security. This statement must include the text of Civ. Code § 1950.5(b)(1)-(4) concerning the permissible uses of the security deposit [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(2)]. The tenant must be given the opportunity during the period following the initial inspection until termination of the tenancy to remedy the identified deficiencies in order to avoid deductions from the security [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(3)]. These provisions do not prohibit a landlord from using the security for any permissible purpose that occurs between completion of the initial inspection and termination of the tenancy or that was not identified during the initial inspection due to the presence of a tenant's possessions [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(5)].

The initial inspection requirements do not apply when the tenancy is terminated pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2), (3) or (4) (unlawful detainer) [Civ. Code § 1950.5(f)(1); see § 35B.44 for discussion of unlawful detainer proceedings].

[iv] Return of Deposit

No later than 21 calendar days after the tenant has vacated the premises, but not earlier than the time that either the landlord or the tenant provides a notice to terminate the tenancy under Civ. Code §§ 1946 or 1946.1, Code Civ. Proc. § 1161, or not earlier than 60 calendar days before the expiration of a fixed-term lease, the landlord must furnish the tenant with an itemized written statement indicating the basis for and amount of any security deposit received and of the disposition of the deposit. At the same time, the landlord must return any remaining portion of the security deposit to the tenant [Civ. Code § 1950.5(g)(1)]. Along with the itemized statement, the landlord must also include copies of documents showing charges incurred and deducted by the landlord to repair or clean the premises [Civ. Code § 1950.5(g)(2)]. If a repair to be done by the landlord cannot reasonably be completed within 21 calendar days after the tenant has vacated the premises, or if the documents from a person or entity providing services, materials, or supplies are not in the landlord's possession within that period, the landlord may deduct the amount of a good faith estimate of the charges that will be incurred and provide that estimate with the itemized statement. The landlord must provide the itemized statement and documents within 14 calendar days of completing the repair or receiving the documentation [Civ. Code § 1950.5(g)(3)]. The landlord is not required to provide documents showing itemized charges if the deductions for repairs and cleaning together do not exceed $125 or the tenant waived those rights [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(g)(4) (requirements for waiver)]. In any event, the landlord must provide the documentation if the tenant so requests within 14 calendar days after receiving the itemized statement. The landlord must provide the documentation within 14 calendar days of receiving the request [Civ. Code § 1950.5(g)(5)].

[v] Alternative Remedy of Damages

A landlord who has failed in good faith to take advantage of the summary nonjudicial deduct-and-retain procedure allowed under Civ. Code § 1950.5(g), may nevertheless recover damages for unpaid rent, repairs, and cleaning (permitted under Civ. Code § 1950.5(e)) in a subsequent judicial proceeding. To recover these damages, the landlord must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that he or she has suffered the damages and that the amount claimed is reasonable, as provided in Civ. Code § 1950.5(l) [Granberry v. Islay Investments (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 738, 749-750, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650, 889 P.2d 970] .

[i] Transfer of Landlord's Interest

[i] Duties Before Transfer

Before voluntarily transferring his or her interest in the premises, a landlord must deliver to his or her successor in interest a written statement setting forth the following [Civ. Code § 1950.5(i); see Civ. Code § 1950.5(h)]:

- The security remaining after any lawful deductions are made;
- An itemization of any lawful deductions from any security received; and
- The landlord's selection of one of the two statutory procedures for handling any portion of the security remaining after those lawful deductions [see [ii], below].

However, a violation of this requirement will not affect the validity of title to the real property transferred [Civ. Code § 1950.5(i)].

[ii] Transfer or Return of Deposit

If the landlord's interest in the leased premises terminates for any reason, the landlord will be relieved of further liability with regard to the security deposit if, within a reasonable time after the termination, the landlord or the landlord's agent follows either of the two procedures discussed below for the transfer or return of the security [Civ. Code § 1950.5(h)].

Under the first procedure, the landlord (or agent) must transfer the portion of the security deposit remaining after any lawful deductions [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(b), (e)] to the landlord's successor in interest. Thereafter, the landlord or agent must notify the tenant by personal delivery or first-class mail (postage prepaid) of the transfer, of any claims made against the security, of the amount of the security deposited, and of the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the successors in interest [see Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests, § 35A.223 for notice form]. If the notice is personally served, the tenant must acknowledge receipt of the notice and sign his or her name on the landlord's copy of the notice [Civ. Code § 1950.5(h)(1)]. When this procedure is followed, the successor in interest, on receiving the security, has all of the rights and obligations of a landlord holding the security with regard to the security [Civ. Code § 1950.5(k)].

Under the second procedure, the landlord or agent must return to the tenant the portion of the security remaining after any lawful deductions. The security must be accompanied by the required written accounting [Civ. Code § 1950.5(h)(2); see Civ. Code § 1950.5(b), (e) (lawful deductions), (g) (written accounting); see also [h][iv], above].

[iii] Effect of Noncompliance

If, following the termination of the landlord's interest in the dwelling, the landlord (or landlord's agent) does not comply with the applicable transfer or refund requirements [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(h); see also [ii], above], the landlord's successors in interest will be jointly and severally liable with the landlord for repayment of the security, or that portion of it to which the tenant is entitled, when and as provided in the laws governing the handling of security deposits following the termination of a tenancy [Civ. Code § 1950.5(j); see Civ. Code § 1950.5(e), (g); see also [h][iv], above].

[iv] Obligations of Landlord's Successor in Interest

A landlord's successor in interest may not require the tenant to post any security to replace the amount not transferred by the landlord to the tenant or successors in interest in the required manner [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(h); see also [ii], above], unless and until the successor in interest does either of the following [Civ. Code § 1950.5(j)]:

- Returns the portion of the initial security to which the tenant is entitled as provided in Civ. Code § 1950.5(h)(2) [see [ii], above]; or

- Provides the tenant with a written accounting as provided in Civ. Code § 1950.5(g); see [h][iv], above].

Notwithstanding the above, if on inquiry and reasonable investigation a landlord's successor in interest has a good faith belief that the lawfully remaining security has been properly transferred to him or her or returned to the tenant, the successor in interest will not be liable for the damages applicable to bad faith claims or retentions [see Civ. Code § 1950.5(l); see also [k], below], or for any security not transferred by the landlord in the required fashion [Civ. Code § 1950.5(j)].

Furthermore, a successor in interest may recover from the tenant compensatory damages that exceed the security received from the landlord for that tenant (that is, security previously paid by that tenant to the landlord and passed on, after lawful deductions, to the successor in interest) [Civ. Code § 1950.5(j)].

[j] Prohibition Against Nonrefundable Deposits

No residential lease or rental agreement may contain any provision characterizing any security as "nonrefundable" [Civ. Code § 1950.5(m)]. For example, in a case involving leases that provided for a nonrefundable $65 move-in fee and a nonrefundable $50 charge for changing apartments in the same complex, the court found as follows [People ex rel. Smith v. Parkmerced Co. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 683, 690-691, 244 Cal. Rptr. 22] :

- The fees were used to cover administrative and related costs and were not considered rent by the landlord or the tenants;

- The charges fell within the broad definition of "security" set forth in Civ. Code § 1950.5(b); and

- Neither fee was used for any of the purposes permitted by Civ. Code § 1950.5(b) [see [c], above, for permitted purposes].

Accordingly, the court concluded that the charges had to be refunded to the tenants under Civ. Code § 1950.5(e) [People ex rel. Smith v. Parkmerced Co. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 683, 690-691, 244 Cal. Rptr. 22 ; see [h][ii], above, for discussion of Civ. Code § 1950.5(e)].

[k] Damages for Bad Faith Claim or Retention of Deposit

The bad faith claim or retention by a landlord or the landlord's successors in interest of all or a portion of the security deposit, in violation of Civ. Code § 1950.5, or the bad faith demand of a replacement security deposit in violation of Civ. Code § 1950.5(j) [see [h][ii], [iv], [i][iv], above], may subject the landlord or the landlord's successors in interest to statutory damages of up to twice the amount of the security, in addition to actual damages. The court may award damages for bad faith whenever the facts warrant an award, regardless of whether the injured party has specifically requested relief [Civ. Code § 1950.5(l)]. In an action for bad faith damages, the landlord or the landlord's successors in interest will have the burden of proof as to the reasonableness of the amounts claimed or the authority to demand additional security deposits [Civ. Code § 1950.5(l)].

However, the landlord may still be entitled to set-offs. The California Supreme Court has held that even when a landlord has abjectly not complied at all with accounting procedures, the landlord was still entitled to full and complete set-offs should the tenant choose to sue the landlord. The Court specifically held that a landlord could be acting in good faith even when he or she had not at all provided the accounting [Granberry v. Islay Investments (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 738, 741-742, 749-750, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650, 889 P.2d 970] .

[l] Relevant Litigation Matters

[i] Jurisdiction

Any action under Civ. Code § 1950.5 may be maintained in small claims court if the damages claimed, whether actual or statutory or both are within the jurisdictional amount allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 116.220 or 116.221 [Civ. Code § 1950(n); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220(a)(1) (jurisdictional limit of small claims court is $5,000), 116.221 (in addition to jurisdiction conferred by Code Civ. Proc. § 116.220, small claims court has jurisdiction in action brought by natural person if amount of demand does not exceed $7,500)].

For an illustrative complaint for the return of money deposited as security under Civ. Code § 1950.5, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Claims for Damages (Matthew Bender).

[ii] Proof of Existence and Amount of Security Deposit

Proof of the existence and amount of a security deposit may be established by any credible evidence. For these purposes, credible evidence includes a cancelled check, a receipt, a lease indicating the requirement and amount of a deposit, prior consistent statements or actions of the landlord or tenant, or a statement under penalty of perjury that satisfies the credibility requirements set forth in Evid. Code § 780 [Civ. Code § 1950.5(o)].

[m] Waiver of Tenant's Rights

Any provision in a lease or rental agreement for a dwelling by which the tenant agrees to modify or waive his or her rights or remedies under Civ. Code § 1950.5 is void as contrary to public policy [Civ. Code § 1953(a)(1)].

§ 34B.231 Last Month's Rent and Security Deposit

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease provision that requires the tenant to pay the last month's rent and a security deposit on execution of the lease. It includes optional language that may be used when the landlord, in accordance with a local ordinance or the agreement of the parties, will pay the tenant interest on these amounts.

For a security deposit clause that does not require the payment of last month's rent, see § 34B.230. For an alternative clause that requires the tenant to replace the security deposit if it is used by the landlord during the tenancy, see § 34B.232.

[b] Applicability of Statutory Restrictions

This form incorporates the restrictions on security deposits imposed by Civ. Code § 1950.5. Because Civ. Code § 1950.5 defines "security" to mean any payment, fee, deposit, or charge, including an advance payment of rent, used or to be used for any purpose [Civ. Code § 1950.5(b)], the last month's rent is subject to the requirements of that statute. Under Civ. Code § 1950.5, the landlord may not demand or receive any security deposit that exceeds an amount equal to two months' rent in the case of unfurnished property, or three months' rent in the case of furnished property [Civ. Code § 1950.5(c)]. Thus, the total of the last month's rent and any other security deposit demanded by the landlord must not exceed this statutory maximum. Civ. Code § 1950.5 also regulates the handling of the deposit. For complete coverage of that statute, see § 34B.230.

PRACTICE TIP:
Effect of Classification of Payment to Landlord and Tenant. It is preferable from the landlord's perspective to label all amounts subject to Civ. Code § 1950.5 as a security deposit because that will permit the funds to be used for any of the purposes specified in Civ. Code § 1950.5(b) [see § 34B.230[1][c], [g]]. Designating a portion of those funds as "last month's rent" would mean that the designated funds could be used by the landlord only for that purpose. However, a prospective tenant may object to a security deposit in an amount equal to two (or three) months' rent when no portion of it will be used as last month's rent. In that case, the landlord may agree to use this form. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

PRACTICE TIP:

Be Careful of Using Term "Last Month's Rent." As a landlord, never specify an amount as being the "last month's" rent. If you do, it is a "contractual" obligation, and if the rent being paid by the tenant has otherwise increased--perhaps twice or several times from the original amount--the last month's rent will remain that which was originally contracted for. Thus, if there is any specification pertaining to the last month, it should be that a specified amount must be "applied to and on account of the last month's rent" [see form in [2], below]. It is wise only to specify a specific amount or the entire entire security deposit may have to be so applied leaving the landlord with little or no protection from damage to the premises after the tenant has moved. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[Landlord shall not be required to pay Tenant interest on these amounts or state any local requirements relating to interest earned on these amounts, e.g., Landlord shall place these amounts in an interest-bearing account, separate and apart from Landlord's general funds.] Before the end of the lease term, Landlord shall notify Tenant of Tenant's right to request an initial inspection of the premises. § 34B.232 Security Deposit: Tenant Obligated to Replace Amounts Deducted During Tenancy

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a security deposit provision that reflects the requirements of Civ. Code § 1950.5 and includes a provision under which the tenant is obligated to replace or replenish any amount of the security deposit that is used by the landlord during the term of the tenancy. As discussed in more detail in § 34B.230[1], Civ. Code § 1950.5 regulates the amount and handling of security deposits. In addition to incorporating the requirements of Civ. Code § 1950.5, this clause requires the tenant to reinstate or replace any amounts deducted by the landlord during the tenancy (1) to remedy a default by the tenant in the payment of rent or (2) to repair damages caused by the tenant or the tenant's guest or licensee.

Counsel should be aware, however, that Civ. Code § 1950.5 is silent regarding any obligation on the part of the tenant to replace amounts deducted during the tenancy, and reported decisions have yet to comment on the validity of a requirement of this nature. Nevertheless, this type of provision is commonly included in residential leases [see, e.g., § 34B.202[2], P 4B].

Security Deposit: Tenant Obligated to Replace Amounts Deducted During Tenancy

Security Deposit

_____. The following provisions govern the security deposit that Tenant is to furnish under this lease:

(a) Tenant shall, on execution of this lease, deposit with Landlord the sum of $_____ [specify amount, not to exceed a total of two months' rent for unfurnished premises, or three months' rent for furnished premises], receipt of which is hereby acknowledged by Landlord, to be held by Landlord as a security deposit for the faithful performance of this lease by Tenant. _____ [Landlord shall not be required to pay Tenant interest on the deposit or state any local requirements relating to interest earned on deposit, e.g., Landlord shall place the deposit in an interest-bearing account, separate and apart from Landlord's general funds.]

(b) Landlord may deduct from the deposit only amounts that are reasonably necessary (1) to remedy any defaults in the payment of rent by Tenant; (2) to repair damages to the leased premises (exclusive of ordinary wear and tear) caused by Tenant or by any guest or licensee of Tenant; [or] (3) to clean the leased premises on termination of the tenancy governed by this lease [add if rental agreement obligates tenant to restore, replace, or return personal property or appurtenances:; or (4) to remedy any defaults in the restoration, replacement, or return of personal property or appurtenances by Tenant not attributable to ordinary wear and tear].

(c) If Landlord, under subparagraph (b), above, deducts all or any portion of the deposit to remedy a default by Tenant in the payment of rent or to repair the leased premises, Landlord may provide Tenant with a written notice notifying Tenant of the deduction and of the reason or reasons for it and demanding that Tenant replace the deducted amounts within _____ [specify, e.g., 10 days] of the receipt of the notice. If Tenant fails to comply with the notice within that _____ [specify same time period, e.g., 10-day] period, Landlord shall have the option of terminating this lease in the manner described in paragraph _____ of this lease.

(d) Before the end of the lease term, Landlord shall notify Tenant of Tenant's right to request an initial inspection of the premises. On Tenant's request, and no earlier than two weeks before the end of the lease date, Landlord shall make an initial inspection of the premises and provide Tenant with an itemized statement specifying the repairs and cleaning proposed to be deducted from the security. Tenant shall have the opportunity to remedy the identified deficiencies before the end of the lease date in order to avoid the deductions from the security.

(e) The full amount of the deposit shall be returned to Tenant within 21 calendar days after Tenant has vacated the leased premises, less only amounts that are deducted under subparagraph (b), above. At the time specified in this subparagraph (e) for returning the deposit to Tenant, Landlord shall [if applicable, provide for return of interest, e.g., pay to Tenant all interest earned on the deposit and shall] furnish Tenant with an itemized written statement indicating the basis for and the amount of the security deposit received, copies of documents showing charges incurred and deducted for the repair or cleaning of the premises, and the disposition made or to be made of the security deposit.

§ 34B.233 Late Charge

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease clause that provides that the tenant will be charged a fee for the late payment of rent. A late charge clause in a home loan contract is considered to be a liquidated damages provision [Garrett v. Coast & Southern Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 731, 740, 108 Cal. Rptr. 845, 511 P.2d 1197] . Consequently, it must satisfy the statutory requirements governing liquidated damages [see Civ. Code § 1671]. Although there is no statutory or case law specifying that a late charge in a residential lease is a form of liquidated damages, presumably a similar conclusion would be reached [see Civ. Code § 1671].

There is also no statute or case law specifying the precise amount that would be considered reasonable for a late charge on rent under a lease. Under Civ. Code § 1671(d), a late charge provision in a lease would be void unless it could be established that it would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix the actual damage from the tenant's breach of failing to make a timely rental payment. The form in [2], below, includes a recital that the parties agree that it would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix the actual damage in that event.

PRACTICE TIP:
Advise Landlord Not to Be Greedy About Late Charges. The landlord might want to include a high late charge to "encourage" tenants to pay rent on time. But, a late charge that is not a reasonable estimate of the actual cost caused by the late payment is an invalid penalty. If the landlord includes such charges in a three-day notice to pay or quit, he or she is inviting a defense to a subsequent unlawful detainer action. By Myron Moskovitz.

[b] Unlawful Detainer

A tenant is guilty of unlawful detainer when the tenant continues in possession after (1) defaulting in the payment of rent and (2) being served and failing to comply with a three-day written notice that requires payment of the rent or surrender of possession [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(2)]. This form refers to that notice. For additional coverage of three-day notices, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases .

PRACTICE TIP:

Grace Period Does Not Extend Due Date. Tenants often believe that, if there is a so-called grace period to pay rent before a late payment penalty is due, that the rent is not due until the last day of that grace period. Such is not the case. Rent is due on the first day of each single month if the lease so provides regardless of any grace period. Although this may initially appear to be a somewhat minor consideration, in those rent or eviction control jurisdictions where "habitual late payment of rent" is a ground for eviction then it is a material consideration. By Benjamin Kaplan.

[2] FORM

Late Charge

Late Charge

_____. If Landlord has not received any rent payment within [specify period, e.g., five days] after it is due under Paragraph _____ of this lease, Tenant shall pay a late charge of $_____ for every day that the rent is not paid following its due date. Landlord and Tenant agree that it is and will be impracticable and extremely difficult to fix the actual damages suffered by Landlord in the event Tenant makes a late payment of rent, and that the above charge represents a reasonable approximation of the damages Landlord is likely to suffer from a late payment. Landlord and Tenant further agree that this provision does not establish a grace period of the payment of rent, and that Landlord may give Tenant a three-day written notice to pay or quit the premises in accordance with Code of Civil Procedure Section 1161(2) at any time after the payment is due.

§ 34B.234 Right to Demand Special Form of Payment

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease provision that gives the landlord the right to require the payment of rent by a cashier's check or money order if a rent check has been returned by the tenant's bank for insufficient funds. It also provides that the landlord will give the tenant at least 30 days' notice of the landlord's election to exercise this right. The provision may be set forth as a separate provision, or may be added to the primary rent clause [see §§ 34B.200[2], P 2, 34B.201[2], P 2]. For other provisions anticipating defaults in the payment of rent, see §§ 34B.250 (liquidated damages clause) and 34B.233 (late charge provision). For a provision that charges the tenant a fee for tendering a check with insufficient funds, see § 34B.202[2], P 6.

[b] Payment in Cash

A landlord or a landlord's agent may not demand or require cash as the exclusive form of payment of rent [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(1)]. However, there is an exception when the tenant has previously attempted to pay the rent with a check drawn on insufficient funds or has instructed a drawee to stop payment. In such circumstances, the landlord may demand or require cash as the exclusive form of payment for a period not exceeding three months. The landlord must give the tenant a written notice stating that the payment instrument was dishonored and informing the tenant that the tenant must pay in cash for the period determined by the landlord. The landlord must attach a copy of the dishonored instrument to the notice [Civ. Code § 1947.3(a)(2)]. For purposes of these requirements, the issuance of a money order or a cashier's check is direct evidence only that the instrument was issued [Civ. Code § 1947.3(b)]. Waiver of these provisions is contrary to public policy, and void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 1947.3(c)].

Payments Following Default

_____. If Tenant pays the rent required under this lease with a check that is returned by the bank for insufficient funds, Landlord may elect to require Tenant to pay rent for the next three months in cash and/or all subsequent rent with a cashier's check or a money order. Landlord shall notify Tenant of this election at least 30 days before the date Tenant is to make the first payment by cash, cashier's check, or money order.

§ 34B.240 Waterbed

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of long and short form versions of a lease provision that sets forth various statutory requirements governing a tenant's use of a waterbed [see Civ. Code § 1940.5]. Although these requirements apply whether or not they are incorporated into a lease or otherwise disclosed to a tenant, a landlord may wish to use this provision to notify the tenant of the existence of the restrictions.

The long version sets forth all the statutory requirements and requires an increased security deposit [see [b][vi], below]. It may be advisable to use this provision when the landlord is concerned about the ability of the structure to accommodate the added weight of a waterbed or the effect of leakage on the floor and floor covering. The short version merely requires compliance with the statute and describes the statutory insurance requirements in detail because of their importance. It does not require an additional security deposit.

[b] Statutory Requirements

[i] Landlord's Rights and Restrictions

An owner or agent may not refuse to rent a dwelling unit in a structure that received its certificate of occupancy after January 1, 1973, to an otherwise qualified prospective tenant, or refuse to continue renting to an existing tenant, solely because the tenant has a waterbed or other bedding with liquid filling material, as long as the tenant complies with the statutory requirements in Civ. Code § 1940.5 [Civ. Code § 1940.5].

An owner's or agent's failure to exercise any of the statutory rights under Civ. Code § 1940.5 will not constitute grounds for denial of an insurance claim [Civ. Code § 1940.5(h)].

[ii] Insurance

The tenant or prospective tenant who wants to use a waterbed must obtain a waterbed insurance policy or certificate of insurance for property damage that provides at least $100,000 coverage. The policy must be (1) issued by an insurer that is licensed in California and that possesses a Bests Insurance Report rating of "B" or higher, and (2) maintained in full force until the bedding is permanently removed from the premises. It must cover, up to the policy limits, the replacement value of all property damage, including loss of use, incurred by the rental property owner or any other person, caused by or arising out of the ownership, maintenance, use, or removal of the waterbed on the rental premises, except for (1) any damage caused intentionally or at the direction of the insured, and (2) any damage caused by or resulting from fire [Civ. Code § 1940.5(a)].

The owner may require the tenant to produce evidence of insurance at any time. Every policy application must contain the information regarding the landlord (or landlord's agent) and manager required by Civ. Code §§ 1962(a)-(c) and 1962.5 [see § 34B.24[1]]. The carrier must give the owner 10 days' notice of cancellation or nonrenewal [Civ. Code § 1940.5(a)].

[iii] Floor Load Capacity

The filled bed must conform to the pounds-per-square-foot weight limitation and placement dictated by the floor load capacity of the residential structure. The weight must be distributed on a pedestal or frame that is substantially of the same dimensions as the mattress itself [Civ. Code § 1940.5(b)]. Similarly, any new waterbed installation must conform to the owner's or agent's reasonable structural specifications for placement within the residential property and must be consistent with the floor capacity of the rental unit [Civ. Code § 1940.5(d)].

[iv] Installation, Maintenance, and Removal

The tenant must install, maintain, and remove the bed according to all standard methods of installation, maintenance, and removal prescribed by the manufacturer, retailer, or state law, whichever provides the highest degree of safety [Civ. Code § 1940.5(c)]. In addition, the tenant must comply with the minimum component specification list prescribed by the manufacturer, retailer, or state law, whichever provides the highest degree of safety [Civ. Code § 1940.5(e)].

The tenant must deliver to the owner or agent 24 hours' advance written notice of intent to install, remove, or move the waterbed. Further, if the installation or move is performed by any person other than the tenant, the tenant must deliver to the owner or agent a written installation receipt stating the installer's name, address, and business affiliation when appropriate. The owner or agent has the right to be present at the time of installation, removal, or movement [Civ. Code § 1940.5(c)].

[v] Inspection and Violations

Subject to the notice of entry requirements of Civ. Code § 1954 [see § 34B.25], the owner or agent has the right to inspect the waterbed installation on completion, and periodically thereafter, to ensure that it conforms to these requirements. If the installation or maintenance violates the requirements, the owner may serve the tenant with a written notice of breach of the rental agreement and give the tenant three days either to bring the installation into conformity with those standards or to remove the bed. However, if there is an immediate danger to the structure, the landlord may insist on immediate corrective action [Civ. Code § 1940.5(f)].

[vi] Security Deposit and Fees

Notwithstanding the standard limitations on security deposits set forth in Civ. Code § 1950.5 [see § 34B.230[1][d]], an owner or agent may increase the security deposit on a dwelling unit that contains or will contain a waterbed by an amount equal to one half of one month's rent. The owner or agent may also charge a tenant or subtenant a reasonable fee to cover related administrative costs [Civ. Code § 1940.5(g)].

Waterbed

[Short form:]

_____. Tenant agrees to comply with all requirements and conditions of Civil Code Section 1940.5 in connection with the use of a waterbed or other bed containing a liquid filling material on the leased premises. In addition to imposing installation, maintenance, inspection, and use requirements, Civil Code Section 1940.5 permits Landlord to require, and Landlord hereby does require, that Tenant obtain, before installation of a waterbed or other bed with liquid filling material, a valid waterbed insurance policy or certificate of insurance for property damage. This policy shall be issued by a company licensed to do business in California and possessing a Bests Insurance Report rating of "B" or higher. The policy shall be written for no less than $100,000 of coverage, shall be maintained in full force and effect until the waterbed is permanently removed from the leased premises, and shall cover (up to the limits of the policy) the replacement value of all property damage, including loss of use, incurred by Landlord or any other person or entity and caused by or arising out of the ownership, maintenance, use, or removal of the waterbed, except for any damage caused intentionally or at the direction of Tenant or caused by or resulting from fire. Landlord may require Tenant to produce evidence of insurance at any time. The carrier must give Landlord 10 days' prior written notice of cancellation or nonrenewal of insurance, and Tenant must provide the carrier with the name and usual street address of Landlord [or the person authorized to act for and on behalf of Landlord for the purpose of service of process and for the purpose of receiving and receipting all notices and demands] [add, if applicable: and of the manager of the leased premises].

[OR]

[Long form:]

_____. Tenant agrees to comply with the following requirements in connection with the use of a waterbed or other bed with liquid filling material (hereafter referred to as a "waterbed") on the leased premises:

(a) Tenant shall furnish to Landlord, before installation of any waterbed, a valid waterbed insurance policy or certificate of insurance for property damage. This policy shall be issued by a company licensed to do business in California and possessing a Bests Insurance Report rating of "B" or higher. The policy shall be written for no less than $100,000 of coverage, shall be maintained in full force and effect until the waterbed is permanently removed from the leased premises, and shall cover (up to the limits of the policy) the replacement value of all property damage, including loss of use, incurred by Landlord or any other person or entity and caused by or arising out of the ownership, maintenance, use, or removal of the waterbed, except for any damage caused intentionally or at the direction of Tenant or caused by or resulting from fire. Landlord may require Tenant to produce evidence of insurance at any time. The carrier must give Landlord 10 days' prior notice of cancellation or nonrenewal, and Tenant must provide the carrier with the name and usual street address of Landlord [or the person authorized to act for and on behalf of Landlord for the purpose of service of process and for the purpose of receiving and receipting all notices and demands] [add, if applicable: and of the manager of the leased premises].

(b) The waterbed shall conform to the pounds-per-square-foot weight limitation and placement dictated by the floor load capacity of the leased premises, and its weight shall be distributed on a pedestal or frame that is substantially the dimensions of the mattress itself. Any new waterbed installation shall conform to reasonable structural specifications for placement within the leased premises specified by Landlord or Landlord's agent and shall be consistent with the floor capacity of the leased premises.

(c) Tenant shall install, maintain, and remove the waterbed according to all standard methods of installation, maintenance, and removal prescribed by the manufacturer, retailer, or state law, whichever provides the highest degree of safety. In addition, Tenant shall comply with the minimum component specification list prescribed by the manufacturer, retailer, or state law, whichever provides the highest degree of safety.

(d) Tenant shall give Landlord or Landlord's agent 24 hours' advance written notice of Tenant's intent to install, remove, or move a waterbed. If the installation or move is performed by any person other than Tenant, Tenant shall deliver to Landlord or Landlord's agent a written installation receipt stating the installer's name, address, and business affiliation when appropriate. Landlord or Landlord's agent has the option and right to be present at the time of installation, removal, or movement.

(e) Landlord or Landlord's agent shall have the right to inspect the waterbed installation on completion, and periodically thereafter, to ensure its conformity with applicable requirements. If the installation or maintenance violates these requirements, Landlord may serve Tenant with a written notice of breach of the rental agreement, and may give Tenant three days either to bring the installation into conformity with those standards or to remove the waterbed. If there is an immediate danger to the leased premises, Landlord may require immediate corrective action.

(f) If Tenant installs a waterbed or has a waterbed installed on the leased premises, Tenant agrees to pay a security deposit of $_____ [specify sum that does not exceed one half of one month's rent] in addition to any other deposit required under any other provision of this lease. In addition, Tenant agrees to pay a nonrefundable charge of $_____ [specify reasonable amount] to cover Landlord's related administrative costs.

§ 34B.241 Restrictions on Tenant's Parking Rights

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a lease provision that may be used to restrict the use by the tenant of one or more parking spaces appurtenant to leased premises. The provision limits the size of vehicles that may be parked in a specific space or designated area and prohibits the tenant from washing or disassembling any motor vehicles on the premises without the landlord's consent. If the lease covers an apartment in a multiunit building, the landlord may wish to insert parking restrictions in the rules and regulations for the complex, and incorporate them by reference into the lease, in lieu of using this type of lease clause [see § 34B.200[2], Rules and Regulations, P 13].

PRACTICE TIP:

Consider Automobile Insurance Requirement. If the tenant's vehicle is being garaged with other tenants' vehicles, a requirement of liability insurance might reasonably be required. By Benjamin Kaplan.

If the parking space or area adjoins the leased premises (as is usually the case in a multitenant apartment building), and if the area is and has been used for the reasonable enjoyment of the premises, it probably passes to the tenant as an easement appurtenant to the leased premises [see Owsley v. Hamner (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 710, 717, 227 P.2d 263 ; see also § 34B.16[2]]. To avoid confusion, the lease should describe any parking spaces and similar items or spaces to be included in the leased premises [see, e.g., preamble of the form in § 34B.201[2]].

[2] FORM

Restrictions on Tenant's Parking Rights

Parking Privileges

_____. Tenant agrees to use the [parking space described in the preamble to this lease or areas designated as parking spaces, or areas reserved for vehicular parking on the leased premises] only for the parking of motor vehicles, including automobiles, motorcycles, and pickup trucks, but excluding, without the prior written consent of Landlord, trailers of any kind, mobilehomes, campers, buses, or trucks larger than three quarters of a ton, and excluding any motor vehicles not owned and registered or rented by tenant in the tenant's name. Further, Tenant agrees not to wash or disassemble any motor vehicles of any kind in, on, or near the leased premises without the prior written consent of Landlord.

§ 34B.242 Insurance Hazards

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a lease provision prohibiting the tenant from committing or permitting the commission of acts that will increase insurance rates or cause the cancellation of insurance policies covering the leased premises. It is designed for use when, as is usually the case with a residential lease, the landlord will be procuring and maintaining all casualty and liability insurance coverage on the property.

For an alternative provision placing similar restrictions on acts affecting insurance and imposing additional limitations on the use of a single-family residence, see § 34B.201[2], P 6. For detailed provisions for insurance coverage of leased premises for nonresidential leases, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

_____. Tenant shall not commit or permit the commission of any act or acts in or on the leased premises, or use or permit the leased premises to be used in any manner, that will increase the existing fire, liability, and other insurance rates on the leased premises or that will cause a cancellation of any insurance policy covering the leased premises.

§ 34B.250 Liquidated Damages

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease clause that provides for liquidated damages if the landlord terminates the lease for cause or if the tenant breaches the lease and abandons the leased premises. It may be used when it would be impractical or extremely difficult to fix the actual damages resulting from a termination or abandonment [see Civ. Code §§ 1671(d), 1951.5].

For a late charge clause, which may also be considered to be a liquidated damages provision, see § 34B.233.

[b] Statutory Requirements

Statutory requirements govern a liquidated damages clause in a lease of real property to be used as a dwelling by a party or those dependent on the party for support [see Civ. Code §§ 1671(c)(2), (d), 1951.5]. A liquidated damages provision is void unless the parties to the lease agree in the lease on an amount that will be presumed to be the amount of damage sustained by a breach of the lease, when, from the nature of the case, it would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix the actual damages [Civ. Code §§ 1671(d), 1951.5].

These rules apply to all leases executed on or after July 1, 1978 [see Civ. Code § 1671 (amended effective July 1, 1978; Stats. 1977, ch. 198, § 5); former Civ. Code § 1670 (repealed effective July 1, 1978; Stats. 1977, ch. 198, § 2)]. For leases executed before July 1, 1978, liquidated damages provisions are generally invalid [see 9 Cal. Law Rev. Comm. 170, 419 (1969)]. For further discussion of those pre-1978 rules, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 152, Drafting Basic Lease Provisions (Matthew Bender).

[c] Reasonable Relationship to Actual Damages

In addition to the statutory requirements that a valid liquidated damages provision must be based on (1) an agreement by the parties fixing an amount to be considered as liquidated damages for a breach of the contract, and (2) the fact that it would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix the amount of actual damages [see [b], above], the amount of liquidated damages should represent the result of a reasonable endeavor by the parties to estimate a fair average compensation for any loss that may be sustained.

[2] FORM

Liquidated Damages

Liquidated Damages

_____. It is and will be impracticable and extremely difficult to fix the actual damages suffered by Landlord in the event Landlord terminates this lease for cause or Tenant breaches this lease and abandons the leased premises. Therefore, Landlord and Tenant fix the sum of $_____ as the amount of liquidated damages that Tenant agrees to pay to Landlord in the event of a termination or breach and abandonment. This sum represents a reasonable approximation of the damages Landlord is likely to suffer from a termination or breach and abandonment.

§ 34B.251 Landlord's Damages on Termination of Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form sets forth a provision for a landlord's recovery if the lease is terminated due to the tenant's breach. That recovery is prescribed by Civ. Code § 1951.2 which states that certain damages are recoverable only if the lease provides for them. A lease that provides for statutory damages in the event the lease is terminated [see form in [2], below] may also contain a provision that permits the landlord to continue a lease in effect after the tenant abandons the property and breaches the lease [see § 34B.252].

For full coverage of abandonment and termination, see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases .

[b] Statutory Damages

Except when a lease provides that a landlord may continue the lease in effect after a breach and abandonment by the tenant [see Civ. Code § 1951.4; see also § 34B.252], if a tenant breaches the lease and abandons the property before the end of the lease term, or if the tenant's right to possession is terminated by the landlord because of a breach of the lease, the lease terminates [Civ. Code § 1951.2]. On termination, the landlord may recover from the tenant four basic types of damages [see Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)].

First, the landlord may recover the worth at the time of the award of the unpaid rent that had been earned at the time of the termination [Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(1)]. This language means unpaid rent earned up to the time of termination of a lease pursuant to abandonment or an unlawful detainer action; the statutory language "at the time of award" refers to the time of an award for damages under the statute and not to the time of an unlawful detainer award [California Safety Center, Inc. v. Jax Car Sales (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 992, 998-999, 211 Cal. Rptr. 39] . The "worth at the time of award" is computed by allowing interest at the rate specified in the lease or, if no rate is specified, at the legal rate [Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(1), (b)].

Second, the landlord may recover the worth at the time of the award of the amount by which the unpaid rent that would have accrued between the time of termination and the time of the award exceeds the amount of rental loss that the tenant proves the landlord could have reasonably avoided [Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(2); see [d], below, for discussion of landlord's duty to mitigate]. This standard for damages covers unpaid rent accruing between the lease's termination and the time of a judgment for damages under Civ. Code § 1951.2 [California Safety Center, Inc. v. Jax Car Sales (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 992, 998-999, 211 Cal. Rptr. 39] . The "worth at the time of award" is computed by allowing interest at the rate specified in the lease or, if no rate is specified, at the legal rate [Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(1), (b)].

Third, the landlord may recover the worth at the time of the award of the amount by which the unpaid rent for the balance of the term after the time of the award exceeds the amount of rental loss that the tenant proves could be reasonably avoided [Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(3), (c); see [d], below, for discussion of landlord's duty to mitigate]. "Worth at the time of the award" of future damages is computed by discounting the amount of the award at the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco at the time of the award plus 1 percent [Civ. Code § 1951.2(b)].

Finally, the landlord may recover any other amounts necessary to compensate him or her for all the damages proximately caused by the tenant's failure to perform his or her lease obligations or that, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result from the tenant's failure to perform [Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(4)].

[c] Effect of Unlawful Detainer Action or Tenant Remaining in Possession

The landlord's right to recover damages for loss of the benefits of the lease under Civ. Code § 1951.2 is independent of his or her right to bring an action for unlawful detainer to recover the possession of the property. The damages are recoverable in a separate action in addition to any damages recovered as part of the unlawful detainer action [Walt v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1667, 1672-1673, 1678, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278 ; Danner v. Jarrett (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 164, 166-167, 192 Cal. Rptr. 535] .

Likewise, if the landlord allows the tenant to remain in possession after the lease's forfeiture, the landlord may still recover damages for loss of the benefits of the lease. The language of Civ. Code § 1951.2 does not require a termination of actual possession for the landlord to recover damages. All that is required is the tenant's breach and a termination of the tenant's right of possession [Walt v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1667, 1678, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278] .

[d] Landlord's Duty to Mitigate

[i] Nature of Duty

A landlord has the duty to mitigate damages for unpaid rent accruing after the time a lease is terminated, that is, rent accruing from the time of termination until the time of a damages award [see Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(2)] or from the time of termination through the lease term's balance [see Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(3), (c)]. The tenant is entitled to offset against the damages otherwise recoverable by the landlord, amounts the landlord has received or will receive from a reletting and amounts the tenant proves could have been obtained by the landlord in a good faith and reasonable effort to relet the leased premises [Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 392, 396, 67 Cal. Rptr. 796] . Although a landlord has a duty to mitigate damages, the tenant has the burden of proving any claimed offset [see Civ. Code § 1951.2(a)(2), (3)]. Efforts by the landlord to mitigate the damages caused by the tenant's breach of the lease do not waive the landlord's right to recover damages provided for by statute [Civ. Code § 1951.2(d); see [b], above].

[ii] Notice of Reletting the Premises

Under limited circumstances, a landlord is required to give a tenant notice that the landlord has relet the premises. The notice is required by statute only if all the following occur [see Civ. Code § 1951.7(b); see also Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases, §§ 35B.243, 35B.244]:

- The tenant has made an "advance payment," that is, a prepayment of rent or a deposit to secure faithful performance of the lease's terms, or another substantially equivalent payment, but excluding any payment that does not exceed the amount of one month's rent [see Civ. Code § 1951.7(a)];

- The lease is terminated in accordance with Civ. Code § 1951.2 (termination on tenant's breach);

- The tenant has made a written request to the landlord that the tenant be given notice of reletting; and

- The amount of rent due and unpaid at the time of termination does not exceed the amount of the advance payment [see Civ. Code § 1951.7(c)].

The contents of the notice and its required method of delivery are prescribed by statute [see Civ. Code § 1951.7(c)].

[iii] Sale of Property

Following abandonment, the landlord's sale of the property does not constitute breach of the duty to mitigate, provided the trier of fact finds the sale to be a reasonable means to avoid further loss of rental revenue [Millikan v. American Spectrum Real Estate Services California Inc. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 1094, 1100, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459] . The landlord retains the right to claim rental loss accruing after the date of sale, except to the extent the breaching tenant can prove the rental loss was avoidable, together with consequential damages including the landlord's selling expenses [Millikan v. American Spectrum Real Estate Services California Inc. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 1094, 1104, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459] .

[e] Other Remedies

Civ. Code § 1951.2 does not affect the right of the landlord to equitable relief, when appropriate [Civ. Code § 1951.8], or to valid liquidated damages [see Civ. Code §§ 1671, 1951.5; see also § 34B.250]. Subject to certain limitations for double recovery, Civ. Code § 1951.2 also does not affect actions for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, and forcible detainer [Civ. Code § 1952]. The subject of unlawful detainer is covered in California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender).

[2] FORM

Landlord's Damages on Termination of Lease

Termination and Remedy in Damages

_____. If Tenant breaches this lease and abandons the property before the end of the term, or if Tenant otherwise breaches this lease, Landlord shall have the right to terminate this lease by giving written notice of termination to Tenant. On termination, Landlord may recover the following from Tenant:

(a) The worth at the time of award of the unpaid rent that had been earned at the time of termination;

(b) The worth at the time of award of the amount by which the unpaid rent that would have been earned after termination until the time of award exceeds the amount of rental loss that Tenant proves could have been reasonably avoided;

(c) The worth at the time of award of the amount by which the unpaid rent for the balance of the term after the time of award [or designate shorter period] exceeds the amount of rental loss for that period that Tenant proves could have been reasonably avoided; and

(d) Any other amount necessary to compensate Landlord for all the detriment proximately caused by Tenant's failure to perform the obligations under this lease, or that in the ordinary course of things would be likely to result therefrom.

Measure of Damages

_____. The "worth at the time of award" of the amounts referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of Paragraph [number of preceding paragraph] of this lease shall be computed by allowing interest at the rate of _____ percent [insert a lawful rate or state: at the then-legal rate]. The "worth at the time of award" of the amount referred to in subparagraph (c) of Paragraph [number of preceding paragraph] is computed by discounting that amount at the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco at the time of award plus 1 percent.

§ 34B.252 Landlord's Right to Continue Lease in Effect

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form sets forth provisions granting a landlord the right to continue a lease in effect and collect rent as it becomes due after a tenant's breach and abandonment. This remedy is available to a landlord only if the lease provides for it [Civ. Code § 1951.4(a); see [b], below]. Otherwise, the lease terminates after the abandonment and breach, and the landlord is entitled to recover statutory damages from the tenant [Civ. Code § 1951.2; see § 34B.251].

The availability of the remedy of continuing the lease in effect after breach and abandonment depends not only on its inclusion in the lease, but is also subject to the following two other conditions [see Civ. Code § 1951.4]:

- The landlord may not terminate the tenant's right to possession [see [d], below]; and
- The tenant must have the right to assign the lease or sublet the premises, subject only to reasonable limitations [see [c], below].

[b] Provision for Remedy

If a landlord is to have the statutory remedy of continuing a lease in effect and recovering rent as it becomes due after a breach and abandonment, the lease must contain a provision providing for this remedy [Civ. Code § 1951.4(a)]. The provision may be of any type that describes the remedy. In addition, a provision in the lease in substantially the following form satisfies the requirement [Civ. Code § 1951.4(a)]:

The lessor has the remedy described in California Civil Code Section 1951.4 (lessor may continue lease in effect after tenant's breach and abandonment and recover rent as it becomes due, if tenant has right to sublet or assign, subject only to reasonable limitations).

This statutory language has been incorporated, with minor stylistic modifications, into the form in [2], below.

[c] Tenant's Right to Assign or Sublet

The remedy of continuing a lease in effect after a tenant's breach and abandonment is not available unless at least one of the following conditions is satisfied:

- The lease permits (or does not prohibit or otherwise restrict) subletting, assignment, or both [Civ. Code § 1951.4(b)(1)];

- The lease permits subletting, assignment, or both, subject to express standards or conditions, provided the standards and conditions are reasonable at the time the lease is executed [see Civ. Code § 1951.4(b)(2) (an express standard or condition is presumed to be reasonable, and this presumption affects the burden of proof)] and the landlord does not require compliance with any standard or condition that has become unreasonable at the time the tenant seeks to sublet or assign [Civ. Code § 1951.4(b)(2)]; or

- The lease permits subletting, assignment, or both with the landlord's consent, and the lease either provides that the consent will not be unreasonably withheld or includes a standard implied by law that consent will not be unreasonably withheld [Civ. Code § 1951.4(b)(3)].

The provisions for assignment and subletting based on these statutory provisions are set forth in § 34B.260[2].

[d] Continuation of Right of Possession

The remedy of continuing a lease in effect after a tenant's breach and abandonment is conditioned, among other requirements, on the landlord's not terminating the tenant's right to possession [see Civ. Code § 1951.4(b)]. Even though a tenant has breached the lease and abandoned the property, the lease continues in effect for as long as the landlord does not terminate the tenant's right to possession, and the landlord may enforce all the landlord's rights and remedies under the lease, including the right to recover the rent as it becomes due under the lease, provided the lease contains this remedy [see [b], above] and permits, subject only to reasonable limitations, the tenant to assign or sublet [Civ. Code § 1951.4(b); see [c], above].

For this purpose, none of the following acts constitute a termination of the tenant's right to possession [Civ. Code § 1951.4(c)]:

- Acts of maintenance or preservation;

- Efforts to relet the property;

- The appointment of a receiver on initiative of the landlord to protect the landlord's interest under the lease; and

- Withholding consent to a subletting or assignment, or terminating a subletting or assignment, if the withholding or termination does not violate the tenant's rights to sublet or assign.

[e] Inconsistent Remedies as Not Incompatible

The remedy of terminating the lease for abandonment and breach [see Civ. Code § 1951.2; see also § 34B.251[1]] and the alternative remedy of the landlord's continuing the lease in effect [see Civ. Code § 1951.4] are inconsistent, but may be contained within the same lease [see Walt v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1667, 1671-1672, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278] . In that event, the landlord has a choice about how to handle the tenant's abandonment and breach. A statutory procedure for determining that the tenant has in fact abandoned the premises, and for terminating the lease, is set forth in Civ. Code § 1951.3 [see Ch. 35B, Modification and Termination of Leases].

[f] Other Remedies

Neither of the remedies in Civ. Code § 1951.2 (terminating lease and recovering damages) or 1951.4 (continuing the lease) prevents a landlord from obtaining equitable relief, if appropriate [Civ. Code § 1951.8]. The landlord may also bring actions for forcible entry or detainer, or unlawful detainer [Civ. Code § 1952]. However, if the landlord obtains possession of the property under a judgment for restitution of the premises [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1174], he or she is no longer entitled to continue the lease in effect [see Civ. Code § 1951.4] unless the tenant thereafter petitions for and obtains restoration to the premises [see Civ. Code § 1952(c); Code Civ. Proc. § 1179].

[2] FORM

Landlord's Right to Continue Lease in Effect

Landlord's Right to Continue Lease in Effect

_____. If Tenant breaches this lease and abandons the leased premises, Landlord shall have the right to continue this lease in effect for as long as Landlord does not terminate Tenant's right to possession of the leased premises, and Landlord may enforce all of Landlord's rights and remedies under this lease, including the right to recover the rent as it becomes due.

Nonterminating Actions

_____. No action by Landlord, except a written notice of termination given to Tenant, shall be deemed a termination of this lease. Specifically, the following do not constitute a termination of Tenant's right to possession:

(a) Landlord's acts of maintenance or preservation of the property.

(b) Landlord's efforts to relet the property.

(c) The appointment of a receiver on Landlord's initiative to protect Landlord's interest under this lease.

(d) Landlord's withholding of consent to a subletting or assignment, or terminating a subletting or assignment, if the withholding or termination does not violate Tenant's rights to sublet or assign as specified in this lease.

§ 34B.253 Cancellation of Lease

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of two lease provisions authorizing the landlord and the tenant to cancel the lease before the expiration of its term on the occurrence of specified conditions. The landlord may cancel the lease if the landlord sells the leased premises. The provision for cancellation by the tenant permits cancellation for "good cause," and provides the parties with the opportunity to define that term.

A lease provision authorizing the landlord or tenant to cancel the lease on the occurrence of certain conditions does not negate the existence of a lease or create a mere tenancy at will [Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Roberts (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 614, 616, 2 Cal. Rptr. 568] . As a practical matter, most cancellation provisions are found in nonresidential leases. For further discussion and several alternative cancellation provisions relating primarily to nonresidential transactions, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

[2] FORM

Cancellation of Lease

Cancellation by Landlord

_____. Landlord hereby reserves the right to cancel or terminate this lease before the expiration of its original term [or any extended term] if Landlord sells the leased premises to a third party. To exercise this right, Landlord shall give Tenant written notice of Landlord's intention to sell the leased premises and terminate this lease. The notice shall prescribe the date by which Tenant is required to vacate and surrender the leased premises (the "termination date"). The termination date must be at least [specify, e.g., 30 days] after the date of the notice. Tenant agrees to vacate and surrender the leased premises on or before the specified termination date. This lease shall be null and void as of the termination date set forth in the notice.

Cancellation by Tenant

_____. Tenant hereby reserves the right to cancel or terminate this lease before the expiration of its original term [or any extended term] for good cause. For these purposes, "good cause" includes, but is not limited to, _____[specify, e.g., the loss by Tenant of the main source of income Tenant uses to pay the rent under this lease.] To exercise this right, Tenant shall give Landlord written notice of Tenant's intention to cancel this lease. The notice shall specify the reason or reasons for cancellation and shall prescribe the date by which Tenant will vacate and surrender the leased premises (the "termination date"). The termination date must be at least [specify, e.g., 30 days] after the date of the notice. Tenant agrees to vacate and surrender the leased premises on or before the specified termination date. This lease shall be null and void as of the termination date set forth in the notice.

§ 34B.260 Assignment and Subletting

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of a series of alternative provisions that forbid or permit (subject to various conditions) a tenant of residential property to sublease or assign his or her leasehold interest. Most residential leases include a provision governing subletting and assignment. However, unlike nonresidential leases, residential leases are not subject to statutory transfer restrictions [see Civ. Code § 1995.010 et seq. (nonresidential restrictions); see also Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.260[1][b]]. Consequently, the parties to a residential lease are relatively free to negotiate the terms of a transfer provision [see Civ. Code § 1044 (property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by statute); see also [b], below]. However, if the landlord is to have the right to continue the lease in effect following a breach by the tenant, the lease must permit (or not prohibit) subletting or assignment and satisfy other statutory requirements [see § 34B.252[1]].

For comprehensive coverage of assignments and subleases, see Ch. 35A, Assignment and Sublease of Leasehold Interests , and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 172, Assigning and Subletting of Leasehold Interests (Matthew Bender). For assignment and subletting provisions that are tailored for use in ground leases, see Ch. 34D, Ground Leases . For transfer provisions that may be used in nonresidential leases, see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases .

[b] Prohibition Against Assignment or Subletting

Although no statutes or reported decisions have expressly considered the transferability of interests in residential leases, a few statutes appear to implicitly recognize the right of a residential landlord to prohibit those transfers [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1951.4(b)(1); Code Civ. Proc. § 1161(3)]. Consequently, this form contains a provision prohibiting assignments and subletting [see first alternative provision of form in [2], below]. If that prohibition is adopted, however, the landlord will not be able to continue the lease in effect following the tenant's breach of the lease and abandonment of the leased premises [see Civ. Code § 1951.4(a); see also § 34B.252[1]].

[2] FORM

Assignment and Subletting

Assignment or Sublease

[First alternative; transfers not permitted.]

_____. Tenant shall not assign _____[his or her] interests under this lease or sublet the leased premises.

[Second alternative; standards or conditions (other than landlord's consent) imposed.]

_____. Tenant may assign _____[his or her] interests under this lease or sublet the leased premises, provided that _____[specify standard or condition, e.g., Tenant shall pay to Landlord (1) one half of all rents received from the subtenant in excess of the rent payable by Tenant to Landlord under this lease; or (2) one half of any sums to be paid by any assignee of Tenant in consideration of the assignment of this lease]. Any assignment or subletting that does not comply with the provisions of this paragraph shall be void and shall, at Landlord's option, terminate this lease.

[Third alternative; landlord's consent required and may not be unreasonably withheld.]

_____. Tenant shall not assign _____[his or her] interests under this lease or sublet the leased premises without obtaining Landlord's prior written consent, provided that (1) Landlord shall not unreasonably withhold _____[his or her] consent to the assignment or subletting; and (2) a consent to one assignment or subletting by Landlord shall not be deemed a consent to any subsequent assignment or subletting. Any assignment or subletting without the prior written consent of Landlord shall be void and shall, at the option of Landlord, terminate this lease.

[Fourth alternative; landlord's consent required and additional express standard or condition imposed.]

_____. Tenant may sublet the leased premises or assign _____[his or her] interests under this lease, on the following terms and conditions:

(a) Tenant must first obtain the written consent of Landlord to the assignment or subletting, provided that (1) Landlord shall not unreasonably withhold _____ [his or her] consent to the assignment or subletting; and (2) a consent to one assignment or subletting by Landlord shall not be deemed a consent to any subsequent assignment or subletting. Any assignment or subletting without the prior written consent of Landlord shall be void and shall, at the option of Landlord, terminate this lease.

(b) _____ [Specify one or more additional standards or conditions, e.g., Tenant shall pay to Landlord (1) one half of all rents received from the subtenant in excess of the rent payable by Tenant to Landlord under this lease; or (2) one half of any sums to be paid by any assignee of Tenant in consideration of the assignment of this lease].

§ 34B.261 Arbitration Regarding Tenantable Condition of Dwelling

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains a clause that may be included in a lease or other agreement between a residential landlord and tenant if the parties want to provide for arbitration in the event of a dispute over whether or not the leased premises are tenantable for purposes of Civ. Code §§ 1941-1942.1. For detailed coverage of the "tenantable condition" statutes, see § 34B.26[2].

One court of appeal has suggested that to be enforceable, an agreement to arbitrate issues concerning the rights and obligations of a residential landlord and tenant, including tenantability issues, must be contained in a separate agreement and not in the lease itself [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . The court's reasoning was based on Civ. Code § 1953(a)(4), which precludes a residential lease agreement from including any modification or waiver of a tenant's "procedural rights in litigation in any action involving his rights and obligations as a tenant" [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 403-404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . However, the court did not decide the issue because it found that the agreement failed to meet other statutory requirements and was unconscionable [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . In light of Jaramillo, this form contains an alternative clause that may be used as a separate agreement to arbitrate issues of tenantability.

For a binding arbitration provision that covers other types of disputes between a landlord and tenant, see § 34B.262.

[b] Agreement to Arbitrate Disputes

The landlord and tenant may agree to arbitrate disputes over conditions that are claimed to make the premises untenantable. Specifically, the parties may enter into a written agreement that provides for the following [Civ. Code § 1942.1]:

- That any controversy relating to a condition of the premises claimed to make them untenantable may by application of either party be submitted to arbitration, in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq. (California Arbitration Act) [for coverage of the Act, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions];

- That the costs of the arbitration will be apportioned by the arbitrator between the parties; and

- That the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1941-1942.1 are set forth in the agreement [see discussion below].

In this form, the basic agreement is set forth as a lease provision or separate agreement. However, it is not practical to include the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1941-1942.1 in the lease provision because they are lengthy. Consequently, this form (1) assumes that the provisions will be set forth in a separate document [see § 34B.283], (2) provides for the attachment of that document to the lease or to the separate arbitration agreement, and (3) incorporates by reference the provisions of that separate document.

Arbitration Regarding Tenantable Condition of Dwelling

Tenantable Condition of Leased Premises and Related Arbitration Agreement

_____. Landlord shall put and maintain the leased premises in a tenantable condition in accordance with the provisions of Civ. Code Sections 1941-1942.1. A copy of those statutory provisions is attached to this lease and incorporated by reference. If any controversy relating to the tenantable condition of the leased premises arises between Landlord and Tenant, the controversy shall, on application of either Landlord or Tenant, be submitted to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure Sections 1280-1294.2 (the California Arbitration Act). The costs of the arbitration will be apportioned by the arbitrator between Landlord and Tenant.

[Or, if separate agreement:]

This agreement is entered into on _____[date], by and between _____[name/names], [legal status, e.g., a California corporation] ("Landlord"), and _____[name/names], [legal status, e.g., a single woman] ("Tenant"). Landlord hereby agrees that _____[he/she/it] shall put and maintain the premises known as _____[specify, e.g., Apartment A at 12345 Chestnut Street, San Francisco, California] (the "leased premises") in a tenantable condition in accordance with the provisions of Civil Code Sections 1941-1942.1. A copy of those statutory provisions is attached to this agreement and incorporated by reference. If any controversy relating to the tenantable condition of the leased premises arises between Landlord and Tenant, the controversy shall, on application of either Landlord or Tenant, be submitted to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure Sections 1280-1294.2 (the California Arbitration Act). The costs of the arbitration will be apportioned by the arbitrator between Landlord and Tenant.

§ 34B.262 Arbitration Provision

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a binding arbitration provision that may be included in a lease, and a statutory heading and notice that must accompany the provision under certain circumstances [see [e], below]. The arbitration provision incorporates by reference the rules of the American Arbitration Association. For further discussion of arbitration and an alternative arbitration clause that provides for the use of the rules set forth in the California Arbitration Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2], see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements , and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 152, Drafting Basic Lease Provisions (Matthew Bender).

[b] Content of Form

A lease may provide for the arbitration of disputes arising under it [Sawday v. Vista Irrigation Dist. (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 833, 836, 52 Cal. Rptr. 1, 415 P.2d 816] . A general arbitration agreement is independently enforceable, and has a life of its own outside the judicial system. The rules pertaining to the selection of arbitrators and the conduct of the hearings are matters almost entirely subject to the mutual desires of the parties [In re Marriage of Assemi (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 896, 917-918, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265, 872 P.2d 1190 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1282.2 (conduct of arbitration hearings)]. If the agreement to arbitrate does not set forth the procedure for initiating and conducting the arbitration, then statutory provisions govern these matters [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1282-1284.3].

The arbitration provision in the form in [2], below, provides that the parties will submit all controversies relating to the lease to binding arbitration to be conducted in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association. Alternatively, the parties may agree that only specific matters designated in the lease will be submitted to arbitration.

The form in [2], below, provides that each party is required to select an arbitrator and the two arbitrators are then required to select a third arbitrator. The decision of two of the three arbitrators is binding on the parties. The arbitrators are also granted the power to apportion the costs and expenses of the arbitration between the parties.

As discussed in [e], below, if a lease containing an option to purchase or a ground lease coupled with improvements contains an arbitration provision, that provision must conform to statutory requirements for the heading and type size of the provision. The lease must also contain a notice required by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(c); see also form in [2], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Using a General Arbitration Provision. If the attorneys include a general arbitration provision--requiring arbitration of all disputes--this will delay any filing of an unlawful detainer action until all arbitration proceedings are completed. The landlord's attorney should thus be sure to advise his or her client of this, before the lease is executed. By Myron Moskovitz.

[c] Enforceability

Arbitration has traditionally been praised by courts as an expeditious and economical method of relieving overburdened civil calendars [see Madden v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 699, 706-707, 131 Cal. Rptr. 882, 552 P.2d 1178] . However, in cases not involving leases, contract clauses requiring mandatory arbitration have been held to be invalid adhesion contracts when one party's bargaining strength was clearly less than the other [see Spence v. Omnibus Industries (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 970, 973-974, 119 Cal. Rptr. 171 (home remodeling contract); Wheeler v. St. Joseph Hospital (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 345, 356-357, 133 Cal. Rptr. 775 (hospital admission contract)]. Arbitration provisions in commercial contracts that provide for an arbitrator closely connected with one party have also been criticized or held invalid as unconscionable [see Graham v. Scissor-Tail, Inc. (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 807, 821-824, 826-828, 171 Cal. Rptr. 604, 623 P.2d 165 ; Hope v. Superior Court (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154-155, 175 Cal. Rptr. 851 , cert. denied, 456 U.S. 910 (1982)] .

An agreement providing for the settlement of disputes by arbitration is specifically enforceable by either party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1281.2; Kustom Kraft Homes v. Leivenstein (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 805, 810, 92 Cal. Rptr. 650] . However, if a party to an arbitration agreement can establish that he or she was induced to sign the arbitration agreement through the misrepresentation or fraud of the other party, arbitration may be denied [see Engalla v. Permanente Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 951, 974-981, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 938 P.2d 903] . If the agreement provides that the decision of the arbitrator will be final, a submission to and determination by the arbitrator is contractually binding on the parties [Silva v. Mercier (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 704, 708, 204 P.2d 609] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Enforcement of Arbitration Agreement. One court of appeal has suggested that to be enforceable, an agreement to arbitrate issues concerning the rights and obligations of a residential landlord and tenant must be contained in a separate agreement and not in the lease itself [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . The court's reasoning was based on Civ. Code § 1953(a)(4), which precludes a residential lease agreement from including any modification or waiver of a tenant's "procedural rights in litigation in any action involving his rights and obligations as a tenant" [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 403-404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . However, the court did not decide the issue because it found that the agreement failed to meet other statutory requirements and was unconscionable [Jaramillo v. JH Real Estate Partners, Inc. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525] . In light of Jaramillo , practitioners drafting residential leases may wish to provide the arbitration agreement below in a separate document. By Publisher's Editorial Staff.

[d] Waiver

The right to arbitration granted under a contract may be waived when the party seeking to compel arbitration does any of the following:

- Takes steps inconsistent with an intent to invoke arbitration [see, e.g., Case v. Kadota Fig Assn. (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 596, 604-606, 220 P.2d 912 ; Titan Enterprises, Inc. v. Armo Construction, Inc. (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 828, 832, 108 Cal. Rptr. 456] ;

- Causes unreasonable delays undertaking the procedure [see, e.g., Sawday v. Vista Irrigation Dist. (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 833, 836-837, 52 Cal. Rptr. 1, 415 P.2d 816] ; or

- Acts in bad faith or with willful misconduct [Davis v. Blue Cross of Northern California (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 418, 425-426, 158 Cal. Rptr. 828, 600 P.2d 1060] .

The right may also be waived by a repudiation or denial of the lease in which the arbitration clause is contained [Bertero v. Superior Court (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 213, 218, 30 Cal. Rptr. 719] .

Whether there has been a waiver of a right to arbitrate is ordinarily a question of fact [Engalla v. Permanente Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 951, 983, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 938 P.2d 903] . To establish a waiver of the right to arbitration based on unreasonable delay, the delay must be substantial, unreasonable, and in spite of the claimant's own reasonable diligence. The burden is on the one opposing the arbitration agreement to prove that the other party's dilatory conduct rises to such a level of misfeasance as to constitute a waiver and a waiver is not to be lightly inferred [Engalla v. Permanente Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 951, 984, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 938 P.2d 903] .

[e] Statutory Requirements for Certain Leases

The statutory requirements discussed below apply to a lease that grants the tenant an option to purchase [see Ch. 34C, Retail, Industrial, and Office Leases, § 34C.263] or a ground lease that includes improvements [see Ch. 34D, Ground Leases] if the lease or ground lease contains a provision for binding arbitration of any dispute between the landlord and tenant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1298.8 (requirements are applicable only to contracts or agreements entered into on or after July 1, 1989); see also Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements]. For those leases, the following requirements must be satisfied:

- The arbitration provision must be clearly titled "ARBITRATION OF DISPUTES" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(a)];

- The statutory arbitration notice [see form in [2], below] must appear immediately before the line or space provided for the parties to indicate their assent or nonassent to the arbitration provision, and immediately following that arbitration provision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(c)]; and

- Both the statutory notice and the arbitration provision must be set out in capital letters if the contract is typed. If the contract is printed, the provision must be set out in at least 8-point bold type or in contrasting red in at least 8-point type, and the notice must be set out in at least 10-point bold type or in contrasting red in at least 8-point bold type [Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(a), (c)].

These requirements also apply to a variety of other contracts that convey or are contemplated to convey real property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1298(a)]. For further discussion of these requirements and other affected contracts, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements .
