Governing Law

Section 10.01. The validity of this agreement and of any of its terms or provisions, as well as the rights and duties of the parties under this agreement, shall be construed pursuant to and in accordance with the laws of _____[specify jurisdiction, e.g., the state of California].

Section Headings

Section 10.02. Section headings are for convenience of reference only. They are not construed as part of this Agreement and do not limit or define the meaning of any provision in this Agreement.

Remedies Cumulative

Section 10.03. All rights and remedies conferred on Franchisor by this Agreement and by law are cumulative of each other, and neither the exercise nor the failure to exercise any right or remedy precludes the exercise of any other right or remedy.

Nonwaiver

Section 10.04. No waiver of any condition or covenant contained in this Agreement, or failure to exercise a right or remedy, by either of the parties to the Agreement will be considered to imply or constitute a further waiver by the party of the condition or covenant in the Agreement or any other condition, covenant, right, or remedy. No express waiver by Franchisor of any provision or performance under this Agreement or of any default by Franchisee will be construed as a waiver of any other or future provision, performance, or default.

Execution of Documents

Section 10.05. Each party to this Agreement will from time to time, on request by the other party, execute, acknowledge, and deliver to the other party a written statement certifying that this Agreement has not been modified and is in full force and effect (or, if there have been modifications, that they are in full force and effect and stating the modifications). Each party to this Agreement will also, from time to time, on request by the other party, execute any additional documents that may reasonably be required to effectuate the purposes of this Agreement.

Successors and Assigns

Section 10.06. The provisions of this Agreement inure to the benefit of and are binding on the parties and their respective representatives, successors, and assigns.

Invalidity and Severability

Section 10.07. If any provision of this Agreement is held invalid, illegal, or unenforceable by any tribunal in a final decision from which no appeal is or can be taken, either in its entirety or by virtue of its scope or application to given circumstances, that provision will be deemed modified to the extent necessary to render the same valid, as not applicable to the given circumstances, or to be excised from this Agreement, as the situation may require. This Agreement will be construed and enforced as if that provision had been included in this Agreement as so modified in scope or application, or had not been included in this Agreement, as the case may be. The remaining provisions of this Agreement shall not be affected by the modification. It is the stated intention of the parties that had they known of any invalidity or unenforceability at the time of entering into this Agreement, they would have nevertheless contracted on the terms contained in this Agreement, either excluding those provisions, or including those provisions only to the maximum scope and application permitted by law, as the case may be. If the total or partial invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this Agreement exists only with respect to the laws of a particular jurisdiction, this section operates on that provision only to the extent that the laws of that jurisdiction are applicable to that provision.

Entire Agreement

Section 10.08. This Agreement represents the entire agreement between Franchisor and Franchisee, and supersedes all prior negotiations, representations, or agreements, either written or oral. This Agreement may be amended only by a written instrument signed by Franchisor and Franchisee.

Notices

Section 10.09. All notices under this Agreement must be in writing and may be given by personal delivery or by mailing by _____ [specify type] mail, addressed to Franchisor at _____ [address] or to Franchisee at _____ [address], or at any other address as either party may designate in a notice to the other party given in such manner. This form contains two alternative types of exclusive area provisions that are designed for use when the parties have agreed that the franchise granted to the franchisee is to be exercised within a given area or territory to the exclusion of any other franchisee. The first alternative contains a promise that the franchisor will neither operate nor enfranchise any other business bearing the franchise name within a specified radius of the franchisee's location, describing the method by which the radius is to be determined. The second alternative does not contain a positive promise by the franchisor but, rather, grants to the franchisee a specifically described territory. The location or area or territory may be described in terms of a given portion of a state, a city or county, a neighborhood, a ZIP code zone, or other geographic designation.

D. Premises Clauses

21-51 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51.230§ 51.230 Lease of Premises by Franchisee From Third Party After Execution of Franchise Agreement[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains lease of premises provisions that may be inserted in a franchise agreement when, at the time the franchise agreement is executed, the franchisee does not have premises from which the franchise business will be conducted and the parties contemplate that the franchisee will lease, rather than construct, those premises. This form provides for execution of a lease within a specified time after execution of the franchise agreement, and for the assistance of the franchisor in selecting the premises and the negotiation of the lease. The form also requires that the property owner must approve of the franchisor as a prospective assignee under the lease. It also provides for a further period following execution of the lease, during which the franchisee is required to complete the preparation of the premises in accordance with the franchisor's plans and specifications. The form also provides for time extensions, as well as the results of the franchisee's failure to make timely performance.

For provisions requiring construction of the franchisee's premises to the franchisor's specifications, see § 51.211[2], Sections 4.01, 4.07, and § 51.231[2].

The franchise service fee or royalty provision set forth below may be used when the parties desire to specify that the payments made by the franchisee to the franchisor during the term of their franchise agreement are attributable to or in consideration for the franchisor's ongoing services to the franchisee rather than merely for the right to continue the operation of the franchise. This provision specifies periodic payments computed as a percentage of some figure, for example, gross receipts or net revenue. For a provision defining "net revenue," see § 51.210[2], Section 6.02.

This form also provides for the payment of the service fee at a time following the receipt of the revenue that forms the basis for computation of the fee. For a provision requiring payment of a royalty in advance of a royalty period, see § 51.241[2]. PART IV. FORMS

F. Miscellaneous Provisions

§ 51.250 Arbitration Clause

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains a comprehensive arbitration agreement for use in a franchise agreement. The form provides for the selection of an arbitrator, the sharing of costs, provisions of notice, a request that discovery be as limited as possible to the dispute that is the subject of the arbitration, and limitations on the arbitrator's authority.

Providing for arbitration as a means of dispute resolution is particularly important in the context of franchise arrangements. First, as distinct from most conventional commercial relationships, the nature of franchising means that the franchisor's association with the franchisee will significantly increase the latter's potential for success. Second, as a quid pro quo for the first, the franchisee, although nominally independent, must rely to a large extent on public recognition of the franchisor's goods and services and must adhere to prescribed methods of operating the franchised business. Third, the franchisee's capital investment provides the franchisor with low-cost capital for use in the rapid development of a distribution network. As a result, the financial future of both parties is significantly tied together and litigation may cause more damage to the franchise relationship than just its expense.

Franchise agreements can also attempt to avoid litigation through alternative means such as providing for mediation, discussing problems with franchise associations, and grievance procedures. Venue and governing law provisions can also be used to limit the prospect of litigation, as can limitations on the filing of claims and provisions for attorneys' fees.

To the extent that a franchise agreement is a contract of adhesion, it may be subject to the California Supreme Court's holding in Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 148, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 76, 113 P.3d 1100, which held that, in some cases in California, class action waivers in consumer contracts of adhesion are unenforceable, whether the consumer is being asked to waive the right to class-action litigation or the right to class-wide arbitration. Therefore, in an appropriate case, a ban on class-wide arbitration under a franchise agreement may be unenforceable [Independent Assn. of Mailbox Center Owners, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 396, 410-411, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 659] .

For additional discussion of contractual arbitration provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.100. For detailed coverage of arbitration procedures and proceedings, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration, Ch. 33, Contractual Arbitration: Appointment of Arbitrator and Conduct of Proceeding, and Ch. 34, Contractual Arbitration: Judicial Review (Matthew Bender).

[b] Deadlock Provision

This form also contains a less formal deadlock provision under which the franchisor may select a mutually acceptable unrelated and independent individual to resolve the deadlocked matter. If the franchisor and franchisee cannot agree on the selection of such an individual, either may request that an official of the local office of the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") appoint such an individual. The form includes qualification requirements for the selection of such an individual.

[2] FORM

Arbitration Clause

Deadlock

_____. If the Franchisor and Franchisee are deadlocked on any matter or any decision, the Franchisor must promptly select a mutually acceptable unrelated and independent individual who, after good faith discussions with the Franchisor and Franchisee, will resolve the deadlocked matter (including, if necessary, by causing his or her vote in favor of a proposed resolution).

If the Franchisor and Franchisee cannot agree on the selection of such an individual, the Franchisor or Franchisee may request that an official of the local office of the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") appoint such an individual. The Franchisor or Franchisee will promptly give written notice to the other that such a request has been made. The AAA official will be instructed to use his or her best efforts to appoint an individual who (1) is of good reputation and possesses _____ [specify requisite experience, e.g., a minimum of five years experience as a senior executive of a retail company], and (2) has no prior relationship with either the Franchisor, the Franchisee, or other franchisees of the Franchisor. The appointed individual, after good faith discussions with the Franchisor and Franchisee, will resolve the deadlocked matter (including, if necessary, by causing his or her vote in favor of a proposed resolution in the event that no consensus can be reached on the conclusion of these discussions).

Arbitration

_____. The parties further agree to submit any claim arising out of, relating to, or regarding the validity of, this Agreement in excess of the then current limitation for a small claims matter in California, to binding arbitration administered by the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") pursuant to the Commercial Rules of the AAA and California law in the County of _____, with all expenses being shared equally by the Franchisor and Franchisee. This arbitration clause, however, does not deprive the parties of any right they may otherwise have to seek provisional injunctive relief from a court of competent jurisdiction.

Notice of demand for arbitration must be filed in writing with the AAA and the other party to this Agreement. The notice must set forth the demanding party's position as to the matter or matters in dispute, the amount of damages being sought, and any other relief sought.

The arbitration will commence at a time noticed by the AAA, even if a party fails or refuses to participate. The arbitration will be conducted by a single arbitrator who will be _____ [specify requisite experience, e.g., an attorney with a minimum of seven years experience in business law and no prior relationships with either the Franchisor or the Franchisee]. The arbitrator will be chosen by mutual agreement of the parties, but if the parties fail to agree within _____ [specify, e.g., 10] days of service of the demand for arbitration, the arbitrator will be chosen by _____ [e.g., the AAA].

The parties will ask the arbitrator to limit discovery to the greatest extent possible consistent with basic fairness. The parties will demand that the arbitrator conclude the hearing and render an award within _____ [specify, e.g., 90] days of its commencement. The arbitrator will have no power to assess punitive or special damages, legal costs, attorneys' fees, or the fees of expert witnesses, unless the arbitrator finds a party to have acted in bad faith. The arbitrator will not make any award that extends, modifies, or suspends any lawful term of this Agreement. The arbitrator must provide a written arbitration award setting forth the arbitrator's findings of fact and conclusions of law. Judgment on any AAA award may be entered in any court having competent jurisdiction. Any costs incurred in the enforcement of the arbitration award will be paid by the party against whom enforcement is sought.

F. Miscellaneous Provisions

§ 51.251 Insurance Clause

[1] Comment--Use of Form

Most franchise agreements require the franchisee to carry commercial liability insurance with adequate limits to cover personal injury, property damage, and product liability. This form requires the franchisee to secure these insurances, in specified amounts with insurance companies satisfactory to the franchisor, naming the franchisor as an additional insured. Similarly, most agreements require the franchisee to maintain workers' compensation insurance.

The insurance provision is usually accompanied by an indemnification provision requiring the franchisee to hold the Franchisor harmless from all third parties claims.

For discussion of liability insurance in general, see California Insurance Law and Practice, Ch. 41, Liability Insurance In General, and Ch. 49, Business General Liability Policies (Matthew Bender).

[2] FORM

Insurance Clause

Insurance

_____. Franchisee must obtain insurance, with franchisor as named insured, and hold franchisor harmless from all contractual and damage claims. Franchisee agrees to secure and pay the insurance premium, at Franchisee's sole expense, for the term of this Franchise Agreement, as follows:

(a) A Comprehensive General Liability Policy, including products liability, in _____[specify, e.g., the amount of $500,000/$500,000 bodily injury liability, and $100,000 property damage liability or such other amounts as Franchisor may reasonably request] for the operation on the premises. Franchisee agrees to name Franchisor in this policy as additional named insured, and the policy must stipulate that Franchisor will receive 30 days written notice of cancellation. Franchisee will promptly furnish original or duplicate copies of all insurance policies to Franchisor, together with proof of payment. All policies must be renewed and evidence of renewal mailed to Franchisor before their expiration date.

(b) A workers' compensation insurance policy as required by state law.

(c) Franchisee is responsible for all loss or damage and contractual liabilities to third persons originating in or in connection with the operation of the Franchise and for all claims or demands for damages to property or for injury, illness, or death of persons directly or indirectly resulting from franchise operations.

(d) Franchisee agrees to defend, indemnify, and hold Franchisor harmless of, from, and with respect to any claims, loss, liability, or expense of any kind whatsoever, from fire (with extended coverage indorsement), personal injury, death, property damage, and other such occurrences, arising out of, or in connection with, the condition, operation, use, or occupancy of the Franchise or the surrounding premises.

(e) Franchisee's obligations to secure and maintain insurance, and to list Franchisor as an additional insured, may not be interpreted to mean that Franchisee is in any way the agent of Franchisor.

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.10

§ 51A.10 Franchise Investment Law

[1] Registration Requirement

The Franchise Investment Law, which is administered under rules promulgated by the Corporations Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 31502; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.002 et seq.], requires the registration of all offers of franchises that are offered or sold in California, unless the offer has been exempted by statute or by rule of the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 31110].

[2] Purpose

The Franchise Investment Law is a registration and disclosure law. It is intended to provide each prospective franchisee with the information necessary to make an intelligent decision regarding franchises being offered. Furthermore, by conferring certain powers on the Commissioner of Corporations, the Franchise Investment Law empowers the Commissioner to prohibit the sale of franchises if the sale would lead to fraud, or a likelihood that the franchisor's promises would not be fulfilled. The Franchise Investment Law also protects franchisors and franchisees by providing a better understanding of their business relationship to franchisees [Corp. Code § 31001; see Wimsatt v. Beverly Hills Weight Etc. Int'l Inc. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 1511, 1513, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 (construing legislative intent to protect California franchisees from substantial losses due to lack of information regarding investment)]. In contrast, the Franchise Relations Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20000 et seq.] primarily regulates the substantive terms of franchise agreements, specifically with respect to the termination and nonrenewal of franchises, offers to repurchase inventories, and the use of binding arbitration. However, the regulations, releases, guidelines and interpretive opinions of the Commissioner under the Franchise Investment Law regarding whether or not an agreement constitutes a "franchise" within the meaning of that law constitute prima facie evidence of the scope and extent of coverage of the definition of "franchise" under the Franchise Relations Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20009]. Franchise agreements are discussed in Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements.

[3] "Franchise" Defined

[a] Basic Characteristics

The Franchise Investment Law defines "franchise" as a contract or agreement, either expressed or implied and either written or oral, between two or more persons that contains the following three elements [Corp. Code § 31005(a)]:

- The franchisee is granted the right to engage in the business of offering, selling, or distributing goods or services under a marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial part by a franchisor [see Gentis v. Safeguard Bus. Sys. (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1303-1305, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122 (Corp. Code § 31005(a)(1) construed liberally; parties who could not enter into binding contracts or pass title to goods nonetheless held to be franchisees)];
- The operation of the franchisee's business pursuant to the franchisor's plan or system is substantially associated with the franchisor's trademark, service mark, trade name, logotype, advertising, or other commercial symbol designating the franchisor or its affiliate [see Kim v. Servosnax, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1356-1358, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 422 ("substantially associated" even though customers never see corporation's mark, name, or symbol used in association with operation of business)]; and
- The franchisee is required to pay, directly or indirectly, a franchise fee.

Neither the Franchise Investment Law nor any decision of the Commissioner of Corporations defines or interprets the phrase "offering, selling, or distributing goods or services" in the first element of the definition [see Corp. Code § 31005(a)(1)]. One court has construed this phrase liberally, finding that it evidences an intention to designate alternative or separate categories. The court held that parties who could not enter into binding contracts or pass title to goods nonetheless were franchisees. By operating independent businesses through which they solicited orders, demonstrated products, solved customer problems, installed the franchisor's systems, maintained contact with existing customers, generated new business, and provided ongoing service to customers, they were more than simply sales representatives [Gentis v. Safeguard Business Systems (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1304-1305, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122].

The franchise law defines a franchise fee as a fee paid for the right to do business. A person is not a franchisee if the person does not invest anything in return for the right to enter into business with or for a so-called franchisor, makes no required contribution of capital, makes no unrecoverable investment in the so-called franchisor, is not required to purchase any inventory, is not required to purchase services from the so-called franchisor in order to become a dealer, and places none of his or her own funds, even the de minimis amounts required under the franchise law, at risk in exchange for a dealership. Ordinary business expenses paid during the course of business cannot be counted as a franchise fee [Thueson v. U-Haul Int'l, Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 664, 676, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 669].

Although fairly unambiguous, the three characteristics of a franchise that are listed above have been the subject of a number of opinions of the Commissioner of Corporations. In any situations other than those in which it is clear-cut that a franchise is the contemplated business arrangement, each element of the definition should be examined in the light of the Commissioner's interpretations [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Appendix C-1 (Matthew Bender)]. The Transaction Guide sets forth some pertinent questions that will help to determine whether a franchise is being offered [see § 51A.110].

[b] Petroleum Companies, Distributors, and Dealers

Apart from the basic elements listed in [a], above, a franchise is any contractual agreement between a petroleum corporation or distributor and a gasoline dealer, or between a petroleum corporation and distributor, under which the petroleum distributor or the gasoline dealer is granted the right to use a trademark, trade name, service mark, or other identifying symbol or name owned by the other party to the agreement. The term "franchise" also includes any agreement between a petroleum corporation or distributor and a gasoline dealer, or between a petroleum corporation and a distributor, that involves the right to occupy premises owned, leased, or controlled by the other party to the agreement for the purpose of engaging in retail sales of petroleum and other products of the other contracting party [see Corp.

Code § 31005(b)(1); see also § 51A.110, P 1].

The term "franchise" also includes any contract between a refiner and a petroleum distributor, between a refiner and a petroleum retailer, between two petroleum distributors, or between a petroleum distributor and a petroleum retailer, under which a refiner or petroleum distributor authorizes or permits the use of a trademark. The trademark must be owned or controlled by the authorizing refiner or by a refiner that supplies fuel to the petroleum distributor authorizing the use. The use of the trademark must be by a petroleum retailer or distributor and must be in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of gasoline, diesel, gasohol, or aviation fuel [Corp. Code § 31005(b)(2); see also § 51A.110, P 2].

[c] Exclusion for Nonprofit Organizations

Any nonprofit organization operated on a cooperative basis by and for independent retailers that wholesales goods and services primarily to its member retailers is excluded from the definition of "franchise" under the Franchise Investment Law, if it meets all of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 31005(c)]:

- Control and ownership of each member is substantially equal;
- Membership is limited to those who will avail themselves of the services furnished by the organization;
- Transfer of ownership is limited or prohibited;
- Capital investment receives no return;
- Substantially equal benefits pass to the members on the basis of patronage of the organization;
- Members are not personally liable for obligations of the organization in the absence of a direct undertaking or authorization by them;
- Services of the organization are furnished primarily for the use of the members;
- Each member and prospective member is provided with a disclosure document that complies with the specifications of Corp. Code § 31111; and
- No part of the receipts, income, or profit of the organization is paid to any profit making entity, except for arms-length payments for necessary goods and services, and members are not required to purchase goods or services from the designated profit making entity.

For further discussion of nonprofit organizations, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . For further discussion of cooperative organizations, see Ch. 14, Consumer Cooperative Corporations and Ch. 14A, Agricultural Nonprofit Cooperative Associations .

[4] Exemptions from Registration

Although a franchise is being offered in California, it may be exempted from registration under the Franchise Investment Law, either by statute or by the Commissioner's rule. Generally, the following franchise-related transactions are exempt from the registration requirement of the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31100 et seq.; see Corp. Code § 31110]:

- The offer or sale of a franchise by a franchisee or the offer or sale of the entire area franchise owned by a subfranchisor for his or her own account if the sale is not effected by or through a franchisor [Corp. Code § 31102; see § 51A.112, P 1a];
- Transactions related to a bank credit card plan [see Corp. Code § 31103; see also § 51A.112, P 1b];
- Offers or sales of franchises by franchisors qualifying as "exempt large franchisors" [see Corp. Code § 31101; see also § 51A.112, P 1c];
- Offers or sales of franchises dealing in petroleum products [see Corp. Code § 31104; see also § 51A.112, P 1d];
- Offers, sales, or other transfers of franchises to nonresidents, under specified conditions [see Corp. Code § 31105; see also § 51A.112, P 1e];
- Offers, sales, or other transfers of franchises to certain experienced franchisees [see Corp. Code § 31106; see also § 51A.112, P 1f];
- Offers, but not sales, of franchises by a franchisor while an application for renewal is pending, under certain specified conditions [see Corp. Code § 31107; see also § 51A.112, P 1g];
- Offers or sales of franchises, if the franchise involves the adding of a new product or service line to the existing business of a prospective franchisee [see Corp. Code § 31108; see also § 51A.112, P 2];
- Offers or sales of franchises to specified purchasers, if certain conditions are met [see Corp. Code § 31109; see also § 51A.112, P 3];
- Offers or sales of franchises registered under Corp. Code § 31111, 31121, or 31123, on terms different from the terms of the registered offer, if specified conditions are met [see Corp. Code § 31109.1; see also § 51A.112, P 4]; and
- Franchise-related transactions exempted from registration under rulings of the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 31100; see also § 51A.112, P 5].

However, the California exemptions have no bearing on the franchisor's obligation under Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Rule 436 [16 C.F.R. pt. 436] to provide full disclosure to the franchisee, normally in the form prescribed by the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document [see [5], below]. Consequently, the California exemptions, apart from relieving the franchisor of the necessity of registration, do not lessen his or her disclosure burdens under the FTC Rule. On the other hand, to the extent that materials filed with the Corporations Commissioner become public records, a franchisor who is not required to register can avoid unnecessary disclosure of what may be regarded as trade secrets or other business information that the franchisor would otherwise disclose only to potential franchisees.

Offers or sales of a franchise on terms other than those in a registered offer, otherwise known as a negotiated sale, are also exempt from the registration requirement. However, several specified conditions must be met to qualify for this exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)]. For further discussion of the conditions and a form for the additional required disclosures that must be made to qualify for the exemption, see § 51A.213 [see also § 51A.254 (notice of negotiated sale)].

[5] Registration Procedure

Franchises are registered in California (and in other states that have adopted the form) by submitting the Uniform Franchise Registration Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111; see § 51A.200]. Subfranchisors, who are persons granted the right to sell franchises within a given area [see Corp. Code §§ 31008.5, 31009], must also use the Uniform Franchise Registration Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.1].

The Uniform Franchise Registration Application was adopted to comply with the registration requirements of the Federal Trade Commission's "Franchise Rule" [16 C.F.R. pt. 436]. That rule was amended in 2007 (effective July 1 (2008)) for the first time since 1978, when it was first enacted [16 C.F.R. pt. 436, as amended 72 Fed. Reg. 15444 (2007)]. The California Corporations Commissioner requires that franchises registered in this state follow the federal rule, modified in certain respects to comply with California law [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111]. The Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document is reproduced and discussed in § 51A.209, below. Basic disclosure requirements and preemption are covered in § 51A.11[2], below. The scope of the federal rule and its exemptions are discussed in § 51A.115.

[6] Escrow or Impound of Franchise Fees

Whenever the Commissioner determines that it is necessary and appropriate for the protection of prospective franchisees or subfranchisors because the applicant has failed to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made to fulfill the franchisor's obligations to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items included in the offering, the Commissioner may by rule or order require the escrow or impound of franchisee fees and other funds paid by the franchisee or subfranchisor until those obligations have been satisfied as a condition of registration [Corp. Code § 31113; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113]. At the option of the franchisor, the franchisor may furnish a surety bond as provided by rule of the commissioner [Corp. Code § 31113].

When an impound condition is imposed in connection with the registration of a franchise offering, one hundred percent of franchisee fees and all other funds paid by the franchisees or subfranchisors for any purpose must be placed with the depository within 48 hours after receipt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.1; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.3 ("depository" defined)]. The funds will be held by the depository until the Commissioner takes further action [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.1; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4]. When an impound condition is imposed, the franchisor must deliver to each franchisee or subfranchisor, a purchase receipt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2].

For further discussion, see § 51A.141 and §§ 51A.230-51A.232.

[7] Liability for Violations

[a] Civil Liability

Any person who offers or sells a franchise in violation of the exemption for large franchisors [see Corp. Code § 31101], the registration requirements [see Corp. Code § 31110] and disclosure requirements [see Corp. Code §§ 31119, 31200, 31202] of the Franchise Investment Law, or in violation of any provision of the Franchise Investment Law that provides an exemption from the disclosure and registration provisions of Corp. Code § 31110 et seq., is liable to the franchisee (or subfranchisor) for damages suffered from the violation [Corp. Code § 31300]. If the violation is willful, the franchisee may also sue for rescission [Corp. Code § 31300]. However, in the case of a violation of the rules governing applications and exempt offerings by large franchisors [see Corp. Code §§ 31200, 31202], there is no liability if the defendant proves that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission, or that the defendant exercised reasonable care and did not know, or, if the defendant had exercised reasonable care, would not have known, of the untruth or omission [Corp. Code § 31300].

Any person who violates the rule barring misrepresentations in offers and sales [see Corp. Code § 31201] is liable for damages to any person not knowing or having cause to believe that a statement was false or misleading and who purchased a franchise in reliance on the statement, unless the defendant proves that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission or that the defendant exercised reasonable care and did not know (or if the defendant had exercised reasonable care would not have known) of the untruth or omission [Corp. Code § 31301].

Liability for the registration and disclosure violations extends to persons directly or indirectly controlling the violator, as well as every employee who materially aids in the act or transaction constituting the violation. Thus, for example, every partner in a firm so liable, every principal executive officer or director of a corporation so liable, every person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, every employee of a person so liable who materially aids in the act or transaction constituting the violation, are also liable jointly and severally with and to the same extent as that person, unless the other person who is so liable had no knowledge of or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence of the facts by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist [Corp. Code § 31302]. However, these violations do not have the effect of continuing the franchise. Therefore, although the franchisee may be entitled to damages, the franchisor may terminate the franchise or lease of the franchised premises, unless special statutes have been adopted to prevent that terminations, as in the case of service station lease franchises [Mobil Oil Corp. v. Handley (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 956, 963-964, 143 Cal. Rptr. 321] .

Any person who violates the franchisee's rights of association [see Corp. Code § 31220] may be sued for temporary and permanent injunctive relief, any damages, and the costs of suit including reasonable attorneys' fees [Corp. Code § 31302.5(a) (suit filed in superior court in county where defendant resides or where franchise affected by violation does business)]. A plaintiff will not be required to allege or prove that actual damages have been suffered in order to obtain injunctive relief [Corp. Code § 31302.5(a)]. However, no action may be maintained to enforce any such liability unless brought before the earlier of (1) the expiration of two years after the violation on which the suit is based or (2) the expiration of one year after the plaintiff discovers the facts constituting the violation [Corp. Code § 31302.5(b)].

[b] Civil Actions by Commissioner

Whenever it appears to the Commissioner that any person has engaged or is about to engage in any act or practice constituting a violation of any provision of the Franchise Investment Law or any rule or order under the Franchise Investment Law, the Commissioner has discretion to bring an action, or request the Attorney General to bring an action in the name of the people of the State of California, in the superior court to enjoin the acts or practices or to enforce compliance with the Franchise Investment Law and any rule or order under the Franchise Investment Law. On a proper showing, a permanent or preliminary injunction, restraining order, or writ of mandate will be granted and a receiver or conservator may be appointed for the defendant or the defendant's assets [Corp. Code § 31400(a)]. If the Commissioner determines it is in the public interest, the Commissioner may include in any action authorized by Corp. Code § 31400(a) a claim for ancillary relief, including, but not limited to, a claim for restitution or disgorgement or damages on behalf of the persons injured by the act or practice constituting the subject matter of the action. The court has jurisdiction to award that additional relief [Corp. Code § 31400(b)].

The Commissioner has broad investigative and judicial powers [see Corp. Code § 31401]. The Commissioner has discretion to make public or private investigations within or outside California as necessary to determine whether any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of the Franchise Investment Law, or to aid in the enforcement of the Franchise Investment Law or the prescribing of rules and forms under the Franchise Investment Law. Further, the Commissioner has discretion to publish information concerning the violation of the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31401(a), (b)].

If the Commissioner believes that the offer of any franchise is subject to registration under the Franchise Investment Law and it is being, or it has been, offered for sale without the offer first being registered, the Commissioner may order the franchisor or offeror of that franchise to desist and refrain from the further offer or sale of that franchise unless and until the offer has been duly registered under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31402]. If a request for a hearing is filed in writing within 60 days from the date of service of the order by the person to whom the order was directed, the Commissioner will hold a hearing [see Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.]. Unless that hearing is commenced within 15 business days after the request is made, or the person affected consents to a later date, the Commissioner's order will be deemed rescinded. If the target of the order fails to file a written request for a hearing within 60 days from the date of service of the order, the order will be deemed a final order of the Commissioner and will not be subject to review by any court or agency [Corp. Code § 31402].

If the Commissioner believes that the offer of any franchise exempt from registration under the Franchise Investment Law is being or has been offered for sale without complying with the applicable statutes [see Corp. Code §§ 31101, 31201], or any other provision of the Franchise Investment Law that provides an exemption from the disclosure and registration provisions of Corp. Code § 31110 et seq., the Commissioner may order the franchisor or offeror of that franchise to desist and refrain from the further offer or sale of the franchise unless and until the offer is made in compliance with the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31403]. If a request for a hearing is filed in writing within 60 days from the date of service of the order by the person to whom the order was directed, the Commissioner will hold a hearing [see Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.]. Unless that hearing is commenced within 15 business days after the request is made, or the person affected consents to a later date, the Commissioner's order will be deemed rescinded. If the target of the order fails to file a written request for a hearing within 60 days from the date of service of the order, the order will be deemed a final order of the Commissioner and will not be subject to review by any court or agency [Corp. Code § 31403].

Any person who violates any provision of the Franchise Investment Law, or any rule or order made under the Franchise Investment Law, will be liable for a civil penalty not to exceed $10,000 for each violation. The penalty will be assessed and recovered in a civil action brought in the name of the people of the State of California by the Commissioner in any court of competent jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 31405(a)]. As applied to the penalties for acts in violation of the Franchise Investment Law, the remedies provided by this statute and by other Franchise Investment Law statutes are not exclusive, and may be sought and employed in any combination to enforce the provisions of the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31405(b)]. However, no action may be maintained to enforce any such liability unless the action is brought before the expiration of four years after the act or transaction constituting the violation [Corp. Code § 31405(c)].

Finally, the Commissioner may refer any available evidence concerning any violation of the Franchise Investment Law to the district attorney of the county in which the violation occurred. The district attorney, with or without a reference, may institute appropriate criminal proceedings under this law. On the district attorney's request, the Commissioner and the counsel, deputies, or assistants of the Commissioner may assist the district attorney in presenting the law or facts at the trial [Corp. Code § 31404; see [c], below].

[c] Criminal Liability

Criminal penalties of up to $10,000, or imprisonment, or both, apply to any person who willfully violates any rule or order under, or any provision (except that pertaining to the right of free association) of, the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31410; see Corp. Code § 31220]. The same criminal penalties apply to willful acts or schemes which are deceitful or fraudulent in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of any franchise [Corp. Code § 31411]. Nothing in the Franchise Investment Law limits the power of the state to punish any person for any conduct that constitutes a crime under any other statute [Corp. Code § 31412].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.11

§ 51A.11 The FTC Rule

[1] Disclosure Requirements

The disclosure requirements applicable to franchising appear in 16 C.F.R. pt. 436 [16 C.F.R. § 436.1 et seq.] and are referred to in this chapter as the "FTC rule." The basic disclosure requirement provides that in connection with the offer or sale of a franchise to be located in the United States of America or its territories, it is an unfair or deceptive act or practice [see 15 U.S.C. § 15 (definition)] for any franchisor to fail to furnish a prospective franchisee with a copy of the franchisor's current disclosure document or to alter unilaterally and materially the terms and conditions of the basic franchise agreement or any related agreements attached to the disclosure document without furnishing the prospective franchisee with a copy of each revised agreement [see 12 C.F.R. § 436.2(a), (b); see also 16 C.F.R. § 436.8 (exemptions)]. The federal "Franchise Disclosure Document" [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.3(a)] is the analogue of the disclosure document required under California law [see Corp. Code § 31114].

For further discussion and a form of the federal disclosure document cover sheet, see § 51A.208[2].

[2] Preemption of State Law

[a] State Laws Preempted to Extent Inconsistent With FTC Rule

The FTC rule attempts to create a minimum federal standard of disclosure applicable to all franchise and business opportunity offerings, and, at the same time, permits state and local authorities to provide additional concurrent protection. State laws are preempted only to the extent that they are "inconsistent" with the FTC rule, that is, that they provide less protection than that provided by the rule [16 C.F.R. § 436.10(b)]. In other words, a state law is not inconsistent with the rule if the protection it affords to any prospective franchisee is equal to or greater than that provided by the rule [16 C.F.R. pt. 436, Note 2; see 72 Fed. Reg. 15537 (2007) (noting that revised 16 C.F.R. § 436.10 retains the original Rule's preemption statement found at Note 2)]. Thus, state laws or regulations providing for registration, escrow, and bonding requirements, regulation of termination practices, contract provisions or financing arrangements, and requiring more disclosure than that required by the FTC rule are all examples of nonpreempted state regulation of franchises [44 Fed. Reg. 49971 (1979)].

The major areas of preemption of state law include [see 16 C.F.R. pt. 436; 44 Fed. Reg. 49971 (1979)] :

- The scope of the FTC rule [see [b], below].
- The timing of disclosures [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(a), (b); cf. Corp. Code § 31119].
- The persons covered by the FTC rule [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(l), (j), (k)].
- The contracts that must be executed [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2].
- Prohibited practices [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.9].

[b] Scope of Federal Rule

Disclosure under the FTC rule must be made in all cases governed by it, regardless of the fact that state law would not require disclosure. An obvious example of the discrepancy between state and federal law is the exemptions from registration available under the Franchise Investment Law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 31101; see also § 51A.10[4]] that are not available under the federal rule. More subtle distinctions are found in the key definitions under the federal rule, most notable among them the definition of "franchise" which, although it contains the same basic elements as the California definition [see § 51A.10[3]], is probably broader [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h)]. Therefore, it is quite possible that an agreement may not be subject to registration as a "franchise" under the Franchise Investment Law, but nonetheless may be subject to federal disclosure requirements. Moreover, the federal rule covers so-called "business opportunity ventures" (which also come under the FTC's definition of "franchise"); most commonly distributorships, rack jobbing, and vending machine routes. Although these business ventures have some elements in common with franchises under California law, the absence of a federal requirement that the business be substantially associated with the franchisor's mark or commercial symbol [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(a)(1)(ii), (2)] means that while it might not be a "franchise" within the Franchise Investment Law definition of that term [see § 51A.10[3]], it could only be offered or sold in compliance with FTC disclosure requirements.

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

§ 51A.100 Facts

NOTE:

Frequently, the attorney who plans the offer and sale of a franchise will have participated in all phases of the transaction, including the drafting of the franchise agreement [see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements]. The attorney's familiarity with the essential facts concerning the franchise operation means that most of the basic information needed for registration of a franchise in California and/or compliance with the Federal Trade Commission rule will already be part of the client's file. However, the following list of facts and documents is intended as a recapitulation of the basic data the attorney will need to (1) determine whether the franchise is subject to California and/or federal regulation, and (2) complete the Uniform Franchise Registration Application [see §§ 51A.200-51A.210] with respect to matters other than the disclosure document. Although the terms "franchise" and "franchisor" are used in the following list, they are used for the sake of brevity alone; the determination as to whether a "franchise" is being offered can only be made after analysis of the legal definition of "franchise" is applied to the facts of a particular business relationship. Note also that the division into categories of "facts" and "documents" is somewhat misleading since much of the attorney's analysis of registration requirements will be based on facts contained in documents, chiefly the franchise agreement.

1. Name, address, telephone number, and fax number of franchisor.

2. Form of business organization:

- a. Corporation or S corporation.
- b. General or limited partnership.
- c. Limited liability company.

d. Sole proprietorship.

3. Name under which franchisor is doing or intends to do business.
4. Franchisor's principal business address.
5. Name, address, telephone number, and fax number of franchisor's agent in California who is authorized to receive process.
6. Name, address, telephone number, and fax number of any sub-franchisors in California.
7. Name, address, telephone number, and fax number of person to whom communications regarding franchisor's application for registration should be directed.
8. States in which franchise is currently registered, or for which application for registration is on file.
9. States in which franchisor proposes to register franchise.
10. States that have denied registration of franchise and file number and date of order or other document relating to that denial.
11. States in which right to offer franchise has been suspended and name of agency involved, date of order, grounds for suspension, and, if applicable, details as to any reinstatement.
12. States in which franchisor has withdrawn its application for registration, date of withdrawal, and reasons for withdrawal.
13. Total projected financing required by franchisor to fulfill its obligations to prospective franchisees to be established during next fiscal year for real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, and all other items included in offering.
14. Capitalization sources from which all required funds will be derived.
15. Net worth of franchisor and any corporation having 80 percent or more control of franchisor.
16. Number of years that franchisor or corporation controlling franchisor has been conducting franchise business.
17. Number of franchisees that franchisor or corporation controlling franchisor has had and period during which franchises have been in operation.
18. If salespersons who are not licensed in California as either real estate brokers or salespersons or as securities broker-dealers will be engaged in effecting franchise sales, their occupation and litigation histories.

NOTE:

This information can appear either in a Sales Agent Disclosure Form [see § 51A.201] or included in the disclosure document under Items 2 and 3 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.210(a)].

19. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and fax numbers of any other advisors or consultants, including franchisor's accountant or accounting firm.

20. Rights granted under proposed franchise, e.g., to engage in selling foods or services, or to sell franchises to others.

21. Degree to which commodities or services sold under agreement will be identified or substantially associated with franchisor's trademark, service mark, trade name, advertising, or other commercial symbol.

22. Extent to which franchisor will prescribe marketing plan or otherwise exert control over or extend assistance to franchisee in connection with marketing plan or business organization of franchisee.

23. Amount and consideration for any payment required to be made by franchisee pursuant to franchise agreement.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

NOTE:

The question of whether the business arrangement proposed by the client is in fact a statutory "franchise" and therefore, absent an exemption, subject to registration under the Franchise Investment Law, may prove more problematic than the simplicity of the statutory definition would suggest. This issue, along with whether the offer or sale is made in California [see § 51A.111] and whether an exemption is available [see § 51A.112], may not be resolvable without recourse to an official opinion on the matter on which the attorney can legally rely. The Franchise Investment Law provides for obtaining opinions from the Corporations Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 31510]. Therefore, if it is not clear from the following outline of preliminary determinations whether the contemplated business transaction is subject to registration in California, the procedure for requesting a Commissioner's opinion should be followed [see § 51A.113; see also Dep't of Corp. Release 3-F (rev.'d 1994); Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Appendix C-1 (Matthew Bender) (annotated opinions of Commissioner of Corporations)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

§ 51A.110 Existence of Franchise

NOTE:

For the Corporations Commissioner's guidelines for determining whether an agreement constitutes a "franchise," see Dep't of Corp. Release 3-F, When Does an Agreement Constitute a "Franchise" (rev.'d 1994).

1. Determine whether all of following statutory components of "franchise" are present in agreement [Corp. Code § 31005; see Dep't of Corp. Release 3-F (rev.'d 1994)]:

a. Oral or written agreement granting right to engage in business of offering, selling, or distributing goods or services.

NOTE:

Neither the Franchise Investment Law nor any decision of the Commissioner of Corporations defines or interprets the phrase "offering, selling, or distributing goods or services" [see Corp. Code § 31005(a)(1)]. One court has construed this phrase liberally, finding that it evidences an intention to designate alternative or separate categories. Thus, the court found that parties who could not enter into binding contracts or pass title to goods nonetheless were franchisees. By operating independent businesses through which they solicited orders, demonstrated products, solved customer problems, installed the franchisor's systems, maintained contact with existing customers, generated new business, and provided ongoing service to customers, they were more than simply sales representatives [Gentis v. Safeguard Business Systems (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1304-1305, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122] .

(1) Fact that franchisee is already engaged in particular line of business does not negate existence of "franchise."

(2) Right to engage in business includes right to engage in business of soliciting others to engage in franchised business.

b. Right is granted to engage in business under marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial part by franchisor, including:

NOTE:

The key term here is "substantial." Whether a plan is prescribed in a "substantial part" can only be ascertained from examining the entire agreement. Therefore, the following examples are not intended to be inclusive, nor is the presence of any one of them in the agreement conclusive of the issue of whether a franchise exists.

(1) Control over terms of payment by customers, credit practices, warranties, and representations to customers.

(2) Furnishing or prescribing sales literature or sales aids.

(3) Required adherence to sales policies and business ethics.

(4) Training of sales personnel.

(5) Conducting seminars or periodic meetings to enhance sales.

(6) Right of franchisor to inspect premises and/or take corrective actions for deviations from suggested "norms."

(7) Franchisor's approval of locations or fixtures and equipment.

(8) Requirements contracts and/or agreements not to sell competing products.

(9) Assignments of exclusive territories.

(10) Giving detailed directions and advice concerning operating techniques.

(11) Presenting all businesses to public as unified marketing concept.

c. Operations of franchisee's business is substantially associated with advertising or other commercial symbol designating franchisor or affiliate of franchisor, such as trademark, service mark, trade name, or logotype.

NOTE:

An agreement is not a franchise, even though it prescribes a detailed marketing plan or system for the operation of the business, if that business is not substantially associated with a commercial symbol of the franchisor or its affiliate. In general, a franchisee's business is "substantially associated" with the franchisor's commercial symbol if the franchisee is granted the right to use the symbol, regardless of whether he or she is required to use it. Fundamentally, "substantially associated" means communicated to the customers of the franchisee.

The objective of the Franchise Investment Law is to deal with a multiplicity of business arrangements presented to the public as a unit or marketing concept operated pursuant to a uniform marketing plan and under a common symbol. Therefore, if the franchisee is granted the right to use the franchisor's symbol, that part of the franchise definition is satisfied even if the franchisee is not obligated to display the symbol. Moreover, in line with the Franchise Investment Law's objective, for the operation of the franchisee's business to be substantially associated with the symbol, it must be communicated to the customers of the franchisee. A commercial symbol that a supplier of goods or services only uses on invoices or in its advertising to distributors, but that the supplier does not permit the distributors to show in dealing with their customers, is not in the eyes of the public substantially associated with the operation of the supplier. However, when the trademark is communicated to the customers of the supplier, the appearance of a unified operation is established and it is immaterial whether the advertising containing the trademark is originated, distributed, or paid for by the supplier or by the distributor. In determining whether there is substantial association between the licensee's business and the licensor's commercial symbol, it is necessary to consider whether that commercial symbol is brought to the attention of the licensee's customers to such an extent that the customers regard the licensee's establishment as one in a chain identified with the licensor. For example, in one case, the shape devised by a franchisor for the franchisees' restaurants amounted to a commercial symbol. In another case, the various manufacturing plants with which the franchisor entered into service contracts with, and that were later assigned to the franchisees, were considered "customers" of the franchisees. Since the franchisor communicated its name to these customers as a result of negotiating the service contracts and by being a named party to the service contracts, it was concluded that the franchisees' businesses were substantially associated with the commercial symbol of the franchisor [Dep't of Corp. Release 3-F, When Does an Agreement Constitute a "Franchise" (rev.'d 1994)].

d. Franchisee agrees or is required to pay, directly or indirectly, "franchise fee," i.e., any fee or charge for right to enter into business under franchise agreement, including, but not limited to, any payment for goods or services [see Corp. Code § 31011] and:

NOTE:

The following examples are found in Department of Corporations Release No. 3-F (rev.'d 1994) and are taken from various Commissioner's Opinions on the question of what constitutes a "franchise fee." In fact, this issue is very frequently the subject of interpretive opinion requests directed to the Commissioner. However, the Commissioner will not respond to questions concerning whether the payment or fee is simply payment on the account of the purchase of goods in an amount not exceeding the bona fide wholesale price, which payments are expressly excluded from the definition of "franchise fee" [see Corp. Code § 31011]. Whether a payment amounts to the "bona fide wholesale price" is a factual question and the Commissioner may only provide interpretive opinions on questions of law. For further discussion of this exclusion and related exemptions from registration, see § 51A.112.

A franchise fee may be payable in a lump sum or in installments. The amount of the installment payments may be made to depend on gross receipts or net profits in the form of a royalty, or it may be charged on units of merchandise ordered or sold by the franchisee. Thus, the franchise fee may be contained in the price charged by the franchisor or an affiliate of the franchisor for goods or services supplied to the franchisee or in the rental fee payable by the franchisee for business premises or equipment rented from the franchisor or an affiliate of the franchisor. Whether or not a fee or charge is "required" and whether it is made "for the right to enter into a business," is a mixed question of fact and law [Dep't of Corp. Release 3-F, When Does an Agreement Constitute a "Franchise" (rev.'d 1994)].

(1) Performance guaranties or deposits.

- (2) Initial set-up fees.
- (3) Fees for advertising.
- (4) Bookkeeping charges.
- (5) Payment for training school.
- (6) Royalty or percentage of gross receipts.
- (7) Charges for sales kits, brochures, and programs.
- (8) Rental fees or payments for services.

2. Determine whether, independently of requisite four elements [see P 1(a)-(d), above], agreement constitutes "franchise" because agreement [Corp. Code § 31005(b)]:

a. Constitutes contractual agreement between petroleum corporation or distributor and gasoline dealer, or between petroleum corporation and distributor, that grants distributor or gasoline dealer right to:

NOTE:

"Petroleum distributor" means any person or affiliate who purchases fuel for sale, consignment, or distribution to another, or who receives fuel on consignment for consignment or distribution to his or her own fuel accounts or to accounts of his or her supplier. However, the term does not include common carriers or their employees providing transportation services [Corp. Code § 31005.5(d)]. "Petroleum corporation" means any corporation or person owning, managing, or controlling the exploration, production, processing, transportation, or sale of crude or refined petroleum or any petroleum product [Corp. Code § 31005.5(l)].

(1) Use trademark, trade name, service mark, or other identifying symbol or name owned by other contracting party; or

(2) Occupy premises owned, leased, or controlled by other contracting party for purpose of engaging in retail sale of petroleum and other products of other contracting party.

b. Constitutes contract between refiner and petroleum distributor, between refiner and petroleum retailer, between petroleum distributors, or between petroleum distributor and petroleum retailer, under which refiner or petroleum distributor authorizes or permits petroleum retailer or petroleum distributor to use, in connection with sale, consignment, or distribution of gasoline, diesel, gasohol, or aviation fuel, trademark that:

NOTE:

"Refiner" means any person engaged in the refining of crude oil produce fuel, including any affiliates of that person [Corp. Code § 31005.5(c)]. "Petroleum retailer" means any person who purchases fuel for sale to the general public for ultimate consumption [Corp. Code § 31005.5(e)].

(1) Is owned or controlled by refiner; or

(2) Is owned or controlled by refiner that supplies fuel to petroleum distributor that authorizes or permits that use.

c. Constitutes contract under which petroleum retailer or petroleum distributor is authorized or permitted to occupy leased marketing premises in connection with sale, consignment, or distribution of fuel under trademark owned or controlled as described in P b, above.

d. Constitutes contract pertaining to supply of fuel that is to be sold, consigned, or distributed:

(1) Under trademark owned or controlled by refiner; or

(2) Under contract that has existed continuously since May 15, 1973, and pursuant to which, on May 15, 1973, fuel was sold, consigned, or distributed under trademark owned and controlled by refiner on that date.

e. Any unexpired portion of any franchise included in PP a-d, above, that is transferred as permitted by provisions of franchise agreement or by state law [see Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements].

3. Determine whether agreement creates "subfranchise" [see Corp. Code § 31008.5].

NOTE:

"Subfranchise" is defined as any contract or agreement between a franchisor and a subfranchisor that grants the subfranchisor the right, in return for consideration given in whole or in part for that right, to sell or negotiate franchises in the name or on behalf of the franchisor. However, a franchise does not become a subfranchise merely because the agreement gives a person the right to receive compensation for referrals to the franchisor or subfranchisor or for acting as a salesperson on the franchisor or subfranchisor's behalf [Corp. Code § 31008.5].

Subfranchises are generally subject to the provisions governing other franchises [see Corp. Code § 31010]. Nonetheless, Corp. Code § 31115(b), regarding the issuance of stop orders denying the effectiveness of a franchise registration when a major inducement to prospective franchisees is fees or other compensation for participation in the sale of additional franchises, does not apply to subfranchises [Corp. Code § 31115(b)].

4. Determine whether agreement creates "area franchise" [see Corp. Code § 31008].

NOTE:

An "area franchise" is any franchise between a franchisor and a franchisee granting the franchisee the right to operate more than one franchise unit within a specified geographical area [Corp. Code § 31008]. Area franchises are generally subject to the provisions governing other franchises [see Corp. Code § 31010]. An entire area franchise sold by a subfranchisor for his or her own account is exempted from registration requirements if the sale is not effected by or through a franchisor [Corp. Code § 31102; see Corp. Code § 31009 ("subfranchisor" defined); see also § 51A.112 P 1a, below].

5. Determine whether business arrangement meets all of following criteria, and is thereby exempt from definition of "franchise" [see Corp. Code § 31005(c)]:

- a. Business is nonprofit cooperative organization operated by and for independent retailers;

NOTE:

The nonprofit organization is subject to an action for rescission or damages [see Civ. Code § 3343.7] if the organization fraudulently induce the plaintiff to join the organization [Corp. Code § 31005(d)].

- b. Organization wholesales goods and services primarily to its member retailers;
- c. Control and ownership of each member is substantially equal;
- d. Membership is limited to those who will avail themselves of services furnished by organization;
- e. Transfer of ownership is limited or prohibited;
- f. Capital investment receives no return;
- g. Substantially equal benefits pass to members on basis of patronage of organization;
- h. Members are not personally liable for obligations of organization in absence of direct undertaking or authorization by them;
- i. Services of organization are furnished primarily for use of members;
- j. Each member and prospective member is provided with a disclosure document that complies with specifications of Corp. Code § 31111; and
- k. No part of receipts, income, or profit of organization is paid to any profit making entity, except for arms-length payments for goods and services, and members are not required to purchase goods or services from designated profit making entity.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.111

§ 51A.111 Existence of Offer or Sale in California

1. Determine whether following transactions (constituting, respectively, offer and sale) will take place:

a. Attempts to offer to dispose of, or solicitations of offers to buy, franchise or interest in franchise for value [Corp. Code § 31018(b)].

b. Contracts or agreements of sale, contracts to sell, or any disposition of franchise or any interest in franchise for value [Corp. Code § 31018(a)].

NOTE:

"Offer" and "sale" do not include the renewal or extension of an existing franchise if there is no interruption in the operation of the franchised business by the franchisee.

However, a material modification of an existing franchise, whether on renewal or otherwise, constitutes a "sale" [Corp. Code § 31018(c); see § 51A.132].

2. Determine, under following rules, whether offer or sale will be made in California [Corp. Code § 31013].

a. Offer to sell is made in California, occurring when offer either originates from California or is directed by offeror to California and is received at place to which it is directed [Corp. Code § 31013(a), (b); see Dollar Sys. v. Avcar Leasing Sys. (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 171-172 (sale of franchise to nonresident franchisee to operate entirely outside California was sold in California because negotiations took place, agreement was executed, and payments were made in California)].

b. Offer to buy is accepted in California, when acceptance is communicated to offeror in California, i.e., when offeree directs acceptance to offeror reasonably believing offeror to be in California and it is received at place to which it is directed [Corp. Code § 31013(a), (b)].

c. Franchisee is domiciled in California and franchised business is or will be operated in California [Corp. Code § 31013(a)].

3. Determine whether particular mode of advertising is excluded from offers and sales made in California merely because either of following is true [Corp. Code § 31013(c)]:

a. It appears in bona fide newspaper or other publication of general, regular, and paid circulation with more than two thirds of its circulation outside of California during past 12 months; or

NOTE:

For purposes of the two-thirds requirement, if the newspaper or other publication has a separate edition for California that carries different advertising from the publication's other editions, the California edition is considered a separate publication [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.013].

b. It is heard or seen on radio or television program originating outside of California but received in California.

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.112

§ 51A.112 Exemptions From Registration

1. Determine whether one of following statutory exemptions from registration is available:

a. Offer or sale of franchise by franchisee for franchisee's own account, or offer or sale of entire area franchise owned by subfranchisor for subfranchisor's own account, if sale is not effected by or through franchisor [Corp. Code § 31102].

NOTE:

A sale is not effected by or through a franchisor merely because the franchisor has a right to approve or disapprove of the sale [see Corp. Code § 31102]. When the franchisor's participation in the franchisee's sale of the franchise is limited to furnishing information, referring prospective purchasers, or approving purchasers, that participation does not meet the "by or through" test and does not defeat the exemption under Corp. Code § 31102 [see Fox v. Ehrmantraut (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 127, 141-142, 167 Cal. Rptr. 595, 615 P.2d 1383].

b. Any transaction relating to a bank credit card plan [Corp. Code § 31103; see Civ. Code § 1747.02(a)].

c. Offers or sales of franchises by franchisor, commonly referred to as "exempt large franchisors," meeting following requirements [Corp. Code § 31101]:

NOTE:

The exemption for "large franchisors" is available only if the franchisor files a notice of exemption and the appropriate fee with the Commissioner of Corporations before an offer or a sale of a franchise in California during any calendar year in which one or more franchises are sold, excluding any material modification [Corp. Code § 31101(d); see Corp. Code § 31500(f) (filing fee); see also § 51A.240].

(1) Franchisor has minimum net worth of at least [Corp. Code § 31101(a)]:

NOTE:

Net worth must be determined according to the franchisor's audited financial statement, and, when necessary, the audited financial statement of the corporation owning at least 80 percent of the franchisor. The financial statements must be for the fiscal year just ended. However, when necessary, the franchisor and its parent corporation may rely upon the immediately preceding fiscal year's audited financial statement for 15 months from that fiscal year end date [Corp. Code § 31101(a)]. For these purposes, a "parent" corporation is one owning at least 80 percent of the franchisor [see Corp. Code § 31101(a)].

(a) Five million dollars on consolidated basis according to its audited financial statement;

(b) One million dollars and its parent has net worth of at least five million dollars according to its audited financial statements of franchisor and parent respectively; or

(c) One million dollars according to its unaudited financial statement and its parent has net worth on consolidated basis of at least five million dollars according to its audited financial statement.

NOTE:

Under this alternative qualification, the parent corporation must absolutely and unconditionally guarantee to assume the duties and obligations of the franchisor under the franchise agreement if the franchisor becomes unable to perform them [Corp. Code § 31101(a)(3)].

(2) Franchisor has franchising experience as follows [Corp. Code § 31101(b)]:

NOTE:

The franchisor or its parent corporation (owning at least 80 percent of franchisor) must comply with one of the listed conditions throughout the five-year period immediately preceding the offer and sale of the franchise. Alternatively, this requirement may be met through compliance with one of the following listed conditions during part of the period and one or more of the following conditions during the balance of the period [Corp. Code § 31101(b)].

(a) Has had at least 25 franchisees conducting business that is subject of franchise;

(b) Franchisor itself has conducted business that is subject of franchise;

(c) Parent corporation has had at least 25 franchisees conducting business that is subject of franchise;
or

(d) Parent corporation has conducted business that is subject of franchise.

(3) Franchisor furnishes abbreviated disclosure statement to each prospective franchisee at least 10 business days before either execution of any agreement or receipt of any consideration [Corp. Code § 31101(c)].

NOTE:

The disclosures that must be made are listed in the statute [see Corp. Code § 31101(c)(1)]. They are not repeated here because neither the abbreviated disclosure statement nor the time specified for its delivery complies with the standards established by the Federal Trade Commission [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2]. In other words, the large franchisor exemption, while relieving the franchisor of the burdens of California registration, does not excuse the franchisor from complying with the FTC's rule and, in particular, the legal requirement that a disclosure document be prepared and delivered to prospective franchisees in the same manner as would be required if the California exemption did not exist.

d. Offers or sales of franchise by franchisor who [Corp. Code § 31104(a)]:

(1) Is petroleum corporation or distributor who is wholesale distributor or marketer of petroleum products not engaged in production or refining of petroleum.

(2) Has been doing business continuously for past five years.

(3) Does not require advance of funds in nature of fee or lease for franchise agreement.

NOTE:

An "advance of funds" means a fee or lease for the agreement, but does not mean rent for the possession or use, or both, of the premises or property, the purchase of inventory for resale or supplies, utility deposits, and other consideration or expenditures for the formation or operation, or both, of a wholesale distributor or marketer entity [Corp. Code § 31104(c)(2)].

(4) Makes disclosures required of franchisors for whom large franchisor exemption is available [see P 1(c)(3), above].

NOTE:

As discussed above with respect to the large franchisor exemption, the relaxed disclosure requirements are meaningless if the business arrangement is a "franchise" within the meaning of FTC rule 436 [16 C.F.R. pt. 436]. In the case of marketers or wholesale distributors for whom the exemption from California registration is available, federal disclosure requirements will probably apply, because even if no right to use a trademark or trade name is granted along with the right to occupy premises or property, the arrangement could still be a "franchise" in the nature of a business opportunity venture [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h)(1)]. The FTC rule includes in the definition of "franchise" the requirement that a franchise fee be paid [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h)(3)], but, unlike the California exemption, the FTC's interpretation of "required payment" includes virtually every source of revenue received by the franchisor pursuant to the agreement, including rents [see "Final Guides to the Franchising and Business Opportunity Ventures Trade Regulation Rule," 44 Fed. Reg. 166, p. 49967 (1979)].

e. Offers, sales, or other transfers of franchise (or any interest in franchise) to resident of another state, territory, or foreign country if all locations from which sales, leases, or other transactions between franchise and its customers are made, or goods and services distributed, are physically located outside California [Corp. Code § 31105].

f. Offers, sales, or other transfers of franchise (or any interest in franchise), provided that transaction meets requirements in (1) and (2), below [Corp. Code § 31106]:

(1) Any of following conditions apply:

(a) One or more of owners of prospective franchisee owning at least 50 percent interest in prospective franchisee meet both of following:

(i) Owner or owners have had, within seven years before date of sale or other transaction, at least 24 months' experience being responsible for financial and operational aspects of business offering products and services substantially similar to those offered by franchise.

(ii) Owner or owners are not controlled by franchisor.

(b) One or more owners of prospective franchisee owning at least 50 percent interest in franchisee meet both of following:

(i) Owner or owners are, or have been within 60 days before sale or other transaction, an officer, director, managing agent, or owner of at least 25 percent interest in franchisor for at least 24 months.

(ii) Owner or owners are not controlled by franchisor.

(c) Offer, sale, or other transfer is of additional franchise either to existing franchisee of franchisor, or to entity, one or more of officers, directors, managing agents or owners of at least 25 percent interest of which is existing franchisee of franchisor; provided that in either case, for 24 months or more, franchisee or qualifying person has engaged in business offering products or services substantially similar to those to be offered by franchise being sold or otherwise transferred.

(2) Franchisor files notice of exemption with Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 31106(b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.101; see also § 51A.241] and pays fee prescribed by Corp. Code § 31500(f) not later than 15 calendar days after sale of franchise in California.

g. Offers, but not sales, by franchisor of franchise while application for renewal or amendment is pending, if prospective franchisee receives all of following [Corp. Code § 31107]:

(1) Disclosure document and its exhibits [see Corp. Code § 31114], as filed with Commissioner of Corporations with application for renewal or amendment [Corp. Code § 31107(a)].

(2) Written statement from franchisor that [Corp. Code § 31107(b)]:

(a) Filing has been made, but is not effective;

(b) Information in disclosure document and its exhibits [see Corp. Code § 31114] has not been reviewed by Commissioner of Corporations; and

(c) Franchisor will deliver to prospective franchisee disclosure document and exhibits showing all material changes from disclosure document and exhibits received by prospective franchisee under Corp. Code § 31107(a) [see P (1), above], at least 10 business days before earlier of:

(i) Prospective franchisee's execution of binding agreement, or

(ii) Payment of any consideration to franchisor or any person affiliated with franchisor.

(3) Disclosure document and exhibits in accordance with Corp. Code § 31107(b)(3) [see P (2)(c), above].

2. Determine whether transaction is exempt from registration because franchise involves addition of new product or service line to existing business of prospective franchisee and all of following is true [see Corp. Code § 31108; see also Dep't of Corp. Release No. 3-F (rev.'d 1994)]:

- a. For at least last 24 months before date of sale of franchise, prospective franchisee, or, if prospective franchisee is not natural person, existing officer, director, or managing agent of prospective franchisee who has held that position with prospective franchisee for at least last 24 months, has been engaged in business offering products or services substantially similar or related to those to be offered by franchised business;
- b. New product or service is substantially similar or related to product or service being offered by prospective franchisee's existing business;
- c. Franchised business will be operated from same business location as prospective franchisee's existing business;
- d. Parties anticipated, in good faith, when agreement establishing franchise relationship was reached, that sales resulting from franchised business will not represent more than 20 percent of total sales in dollar volume of franchisee on annual basis;
- e. Prospective franchisee is not controlled by franchisor; and
- f. Franchisor files notice of exemption with Commissioner and pays required fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(f)] before offer or sale of franchise in California during any calendar year in which one or more of those franchises are sold.

3. Determine whether transaction is exempted from registration because each purchaser is one of following persons or entities and meets following specified requirements [Corp. Code § 31109]:

NOTE:

No franchisor or any of its officers, directors, employees, or agents may form, organize, engage, or assist any person to purchase a franchise for resale or distribution to avoid the registration requirements of Corp. Code § 31110 et seq. [Corp. Code § 31109(f)].

a. Each purchaser is either:

- (1) Partner, executive officer, or director of franchisor, or executive officer of its corporate general partner if franchisor is partnership, or manager if franchisor is limited liability company [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(1)].
- (2) Natural person whose net worth, or joint net worth with that person's spouse, exceeds $1,000,000 at time of purchase of franchise, excluding aggregate value of that person's personal residence and all retirement or pension plan accounts or benefits, home furnishings, and automobiles [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(3)].
- (3) Natural person whose gross income exceeded $300,000 per year in each of the two most recent years, or whose joint gross income with that person's spouse exceeded $500,000 per year in each of those years, and who reasonably expects to reach same income level in current year [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(4)].

(4) Entity with total assets exceeding $5,000,000, according to its most recent financial statements, which was not specifically formed for purpose of acquiring franchise that is offered [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 31109(a)(2)(A), (B) (requirements for financial statements)].

NOTE:

In this context, an "entity" is either an organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), a corporation, a Massachusetts or similar business trust, a limited liability company, or a partnership [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(2)].

(5) Entity in which each equity owner is person or entity described in preceding four paragraphs [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(5)].

b. Each purchaser has knowledge and experience in financial and business matters, such that franchisor reasonably believes, based on reasonable inquiry before sale, that each purchaser can evaluate merits and risks of, and protect own interests in, franchise investment [Corp. Code § 31109(b)].

NOTE:

The source of a purchaser's knowledge and experience in financial matters may be professional advisors if they are not affiliated with, and not directly or indirectly compensated by, the franchisor or an affiliate or selling agent of the franchisor [Corp. Code § 31109(b)].

c. Each purchaser purchases franchise for purchaser's own account, or trust account if purchaser is trustee, for purpose of conducting business as franchise and not for sale in connection with any resale or distribution of franchise or any franchise interest [Corp. Code § 31109(c)].

d. Immediate cash payment required from purchaser who is natural person, on purchase of franchise, does not exceed 10 percent of that person's net worth or joint net worth with that person's spouse, exclusive of that person's personal residence, any retirement or pension accounts or benefits, home furnishings, and automobiles [Corp. Code § 31109(d)].

e. Franchisor files notice of exemption with Commissioner and pays prescribed fee before any offer or sale [see Corp. Code § 31109(e); see also Corp. Code § 31500(f) (fee)].

4. Determine whether transaction is exempted from registration because it involves offer or sale of franchise on terms different from terms of offer registered under Corp. Code §§ 31111, 31121, or 31123, if following requirements are met:

a. Initial offer is offer registered under Corp. Code § 31111, 31121, or 31123 [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(1)].

b. Prospective franchisee receives all of following in separate written appendix to disclosure document [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(2)]:

NOTE:

The franchisor must provide a copy of the negotiated terms described in Corp. Code § 31109.1(a) [see PP (1)-(3), below] to the prospective franchisee within five business days following a request by the franchisee [Corp. Code § 31109.1(b)]. The franchisor must maintain copies of all material negotiated terms for which this exemption is claimed for a period of five years from the effective date of the first agreement containing the relevant negotiated term [see Corp. Code § 31109.1(c); see also Corp. Code § 31109.1(d)].

("material" means that reasonable franchisee would view terms as important in negotiating franchise)].

(1) Summary description of each material negotiated term that was negotiated by franchisor for California franchise during 12-month period ending in calendar month immediately preceding month in which negotiated offer or sale is made under Corp. Code § 31109.1.

(2) Statement indicating that copies of negotiated terms are available on written request.

(3) Name, telephone number, and address of franchisor's representative to whom request for copy of negotiated terms may be made.

c. Franchisor certifies or declares in appendix to its application for renewal that all requirements of Corp. Code § 31109.1 have been met [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(3)].

d. Negotiated terms confer additional benefits on franchisee [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(4)].

5. Determine whether transaction is exempted from registration by rules of Corporations Commissioner as not being within purposes of law and registration of which would be unnecessary or appropriate in public interest or for protection of investors [see Corp. Code § 31100], such as following:

a. Offers or sales of franchise that would be subject to registration solely because franchisee is required to pay, directly or indirectly, franchise fee that, on annual basis, does not exceed sum of $500 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.011].

NOTE:

This exemption for "nominal franchise fees" is much narrower than its federal counterpart [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(a)(3)(iii); see also § 51A.115, P 3]. Consequently, franchisors may be exempt from satisfying any federal disclosure requirements, including the timing of prospectus delivery, but remain obliged to meet all California requirements.

b. Offers or sales of franchise that would be subject to registration solely because franchisee by agreement must pay franchisor, in addition to any annual franchise fee not exceeding $500, sum not exceeding $1,000 annually on account of purchase price or rental of fixtures, equipment, or other tangible property utilized in and necessary for operation of franchised business when price or rental so charged does not exceed cost franchisee would incur in acquiring items from other persons or on open market [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.011.1; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.011].

NOTE:

This expansion of the "nominal franchise fee" exemption would not excuse the franchisor from compliance with federal disclosure requirements unless the franchisee's payments are less than $500 for the period from six months before until six months after the franchise has commenced operation [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(a)(3)(iii)]. Payments made after six months have elapsed from commencement of operations are not counted towards the $500 minimum.

c. Any offer or sale of a franchise on terms different from the terms of the offer registered under Corp. Code § 31111, 31121 or 31123, if all following conditions are met [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2]:

(1) Initial offer is offer registered under Corp. Code §§ 31111, 31121 or 31123.

(2) When prospective franchisee receives disclosure document, he or she also receives copies of all Notices of Negotiated Sale of Franchise filed with Commissioner within last 12 months, if any [see § 51A.254].

(3) Before selling another franchise, franchisor amends its registered offer to disclose the following:

"The terms of Item(s) _____ of this Disclosure Document have been negotiated with other franchisees. A copy of all Negotiated Sales Notices filed in California in the last twelve months is attached as Exhibit _____."

NOTE:

The above disclosure should be made in the UFDD Item that was negotiated or in an appendix to the UFDD. This disclosure must be made if the negotiated sale occurred within 12 months of the offering being made. An amendment making only this disclosure is effective when filed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(3)].

(4) A Notice of Negotiated Sale of Franchise is filed with Commissioner within 15 business days after negotiated sale is consummated [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(b); see also § 51A.254].

(5) Franchisor certifies or declares in appendix to its application for renewal that all required notices have been filed with Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.100.2(a)(4), 310.122].

d. Any offer to sell franchise ("Internet Offer") communicated through Internet, World Wide Web, or any other similar proprietary or common carrier electronic delivery system, provided as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.3(a)]:

NOTE:

Reliance on an exemption from registration under this rule does not preclude a franchisor from relying on any other exemption provided under the Franchise Investment Law or the rules promulgated that law [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.3(b)].

(1) Internet Offer indicates, directly or indirectly, that franchise is not being offered to residents of California;

(2) Internet Offer is not otherwise directed to any person in California by or on behalf of franchisor or anyone acting with franchisor's knowledge; and

(3) No franchises are sold in California by or on behalf of franchisor until offering has been registered under Franchise Investment Law and declared effective, and Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD) has been delivered to offeree before sale and in compliance with Franchise Investment Law.

6. If transaction is exempt from registration under Corp. Code § 31101, 31104, 31106, 31108, complete and file Notice of Exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.101; see also §§ 51A.240, 51A.241].

NOTE:

Notice of Exemption forms for use when the transaction is exempt from registration under Corp. Code §§ 31109 or 31109.1 had not been printed as of December 2004. Questions should be directed to the department attorney on call to handle questions related to California franchise law, at 1-866-275-2677 or 1-213-576-7500.

B. Preliminary Determinations

§ 51A.113 Obtaining Interpretive Opinion

NOTE:

If there is uncertainty concerning the Corporations Commissioner's jurisdiction over a transaction pursuant to the provisions of the Franchise Investment Law, counsel should request an interpretive opinion from the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12(a); Corp. Code § 31510]. If an interpretive opinion is issued, acts done or omitted in good faith in reliance on the opinion cannot result in liability under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31511; Dep't of Corp. Release No. 61-C (revised 1999), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. A-4 (Matthew Bender); see also Dep't of Corp. Release No. 7-F (June 25, 1980), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. C-4 (Matthew Bender)].

1. Prepare written request for interpretive opinion from Commissioner stating [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12(a); Dep't of Corp. Release No. 61-C (revised 1999), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. A-4 (Matthew Bender); see also Dep't of Corp. Release No. 7F (June 25, 1980), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. C-4 (Matthew Bender); see § 51A.251]:

- a. That interpretive opinion is requested.
- b. Names of principal parties to proposed transaction, including identification of those who may rely on opinion (e.g., "possible franchisor").
- c. Questions presented and facts and circumstances of transaction in full, with significant documents attached.

NOTE:

Whether the price that the franchisee is required to pay under the agreement for goods exceeds their bona fide wholesale price (or exceeds it by an amount in excess of that allowed by Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.011 or 310.011.1 is a question of fact. Similarly, whether the quantity of goods the franchisee is required to purchase or pay for exceeds what a reasonable business person normally would purchase as a starting inventory or supply, or to maintain a going inventory or supply is also a question of fact. The Commissioner will not resolve these questions in an interpretive opinion since these opinions are limited to the interpretation and determination of legal questions arising under the Franchise Investment Law [Dep't of Corp. Release No. 3-F (revised 1994); see Dep't of Corp. Release No. 61-C (revised 1999)].

d. Attorney's views with respect to questions presented.

NOTE:

Although attorneys are not required to state their views, the Department "strongly urges" attorneys to set forth their views with respect to the questions presented in a request for an interpretive opinion. The Department advises attorneys, in so doing, to review applicable law and regulations, previous opinions issued by the Commissioner of Corporations, and significant state and federal court decisions reflecting similar factual situations. A request containing a discussion of the applicable law, with appropriate citations, will often result in a more expeditious response [Dep't of Corp. Release No. 61-C (revised 1999), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. A-4 (Matthew Bender); see also Dep't of Corp. Release No. 7F (June 25, 1980), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. C-4 (Matthew Bender)].

e. If confidential treatment of request is desired, facts supporting that treatment [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10].

NOTE:

An interpretive opinion and the request for the opinion are ordinarily available for public inspection [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.9.1(e)]. However, confidential treatment is available on request [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.10, 250.10.5]. Confidential information held by the Commissioner is not disclosed unless state or federal agencies lawfully request the information, an investigation requires its disclosure, or the Commissioner determines confidential treatment is no longer justified [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5(a)(3)]. Requests for confidential treatment are also available for public inspection [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(b)(7)].

2. Mail request for interpretive opinion to:

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.114

§ 51A.114 Existence of Franchise for Purposes of Federal Disclosure Requirements

1. Determine whether contemplated agreement has following characteristics that will make it a franchise [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h)]:

NOTE:

The federal rule covers business format and product franchises. The name given to the business arrangement is irrelevant in determining whether it is covered. A business arrangement described as a "franchise" will not be covered unless it meets the three definitional elements in 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h). Similarly, a self-described "distributorship" will be covered only if the three definitional elements are satisfied [http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

a. Franchisor will promise to provide a trademark or other commercial symbol.

NOTE:

The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks, but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol [http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

b. Franchisor will promise to exercise significant control or provide significant assistance in the operation of the business.

NOTE:

"Significant control" or "assistance" includes site approval; requirements covering design or appearance, hours, production techniques, accounting, personnel policies and practices, promotional campaigns; and customer, location, and territorial restrictions. Controls deemed insignificant include health and safety requirements prescribed by law and financing assistance. [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

- c. Franchisor will require a minimum payment of at least $500 during first six months of operations.

NOTE:

All sources of revenue flowing from franchisee to the franchisor are "required payments," even if they are not denominated as a "franchise fee." Thus, rents, charges for advertising assistance, training costs, and payments for required equipment and supplies are included. However, "required payment" do not include any payments made by a person at a bona fide wholesale price for reasonable amounts of merchandise for resale. "Reasonable amounts" means those not in excess of the amounts which a reasonable businessman normally would purchase as a starting inventory or supply or to maintain a going inventory or supply [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

2. Determine whether relationship to be created is represented, either orally or in writing, to be franchise, as defined above [16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h); see § 1, above].

NOTE:

The definition of "franchise" covers relationships that are represented either orally or in writing as having the characteristics specified in 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h), regardless of whether the representations are, in fact, true or can be fulfilled. Accordingly, if a seller of a business arrangement represents that it licenses its trademark, promises to provide significant assistance in the buyer's business operations, and charges a minimum payment of at least $500, the arrangement will be covered by the Rule even if, for example, the seller, in fact, has no trademark or has no means to provide any assistance to buyers [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

3. Determine whether business relationship is one that is not covered by federal franchise law, for example [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))]:

- a. Business opportunity ventures [see 16 C.F.R. pt. 437].
- b. Franchises that will be located outside of the United States and its territories.

NOTE:

As a matter of policy, the franchise rule reaches only the offer or sale of franchises to be located in the United States and its territories. Accordingly, the rule does not apply, for example, to the sale of a franchise to an American citizen living in Paris (or in Chicago), or to a French citizen in Paris, when the outlet will be located in Europe [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

§ 51A.115 Exemptions From Federal Disclosure Requirements

1. Determine whether contemplated franchise is exempt as "fractional franchise" because [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(2); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))]:

NOTE:

The "fractional franchise" exemption does not exist under California's Franchise Investment Law; however, one of the other California exemptions may be available.

a. It is franchise [see pt. § 51A.114] in which franchisee or any of its current directors or executive officers has been in type of business represented by franchise relationship for more than two years; and

b. Parties to relationship anticipated, or should have anticipated, at time agreement establishing franchise was reached, that sales arising from relationship would represent no more than 20 percent of sales in dollar volume of franchisee.

2. Determine whether arrangement is exempt as concession or leased department in lessor's premises [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(3); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

NOTE:

A "leased department" is an arrangement in which an independent retailer sells its own goods and services from premises leased from a larger retailer in the larger retailer's store. This exemption is available only if the independent retailer is not required directly or indirectly to purchase its goods or services from either the larger retailer or from suppliers required or approved by the larger retailer. These arrangements usually occur in the merchandising of footwear, optometry, tobacco, cosmetics, and jewelry [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

3. Determine whether contemplated franchise is exempt because total franchise payments (amount franchisee will be required to pay as condition of obtaining or commencing franchise) to be made before or within six months after commencement of operations by franchisee will be less than $500 [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(1); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

NOTE:

A franchise commences operation when it first makes goods or services available for sale. A commitment entered into during the first six months that requires a payment later than six months after commencing operation (such as a promissory note or that portion of lease payments made after six months) is not counted towards the $500 minimum [<http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

4. Determine whether contemplated franchise is exempt because no material term or aspect of relationship or arrangement will be evidenced by writing [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(7); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

NOTE:

California's Franchise Investment Law includes both oral and written agreements in its definition of "franchise" [Corp. Code § 31005(a)]. However, even under the federal rule, it is doubtful that oral franchises would constitute more than an infinitesimal amount of the franchise relationships entered. This is especially true when one considers that the FTC takes the view that the exemption is unavailable if any writing, even if unsigned, exists as to a material term, such as a purchase order for goods [see <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

5. Determine whether contemplated franchise is exempt because it is petroleum marketer and reseller covered by Petroleum Marketing Practices Act (15 U.S.C. § 2801) [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(4); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

NOTE:

The most common types of franchises falling under this exemption are gasoline station franchises <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

6. Determine whether contemplated franchise is exempt because initial investment is at least $1 million, excluding the cost of unimproved land and any franchisor (or affiliate) financing [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(5); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

7. Determine whether contemplated franchise is exempt because it is offered to officers, directors, general partners, managers (collectively "officers"), and owners of franchisor [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(6); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

NOTE:

To take advantage of the exemption, an officer must seek to purchase at least a 50% ownership interest in the franchise being offered for sale. In addition, the officer must have at least two years of experience with the franchisor as an officer, director, general partner, or manager. Further, the prior experience must be recent: the officer must currently be associated with the franchisor or have been associated with the franchisor within 60 days of the proposed franchise sale [see 16 C.F.R. 436.8(a)(6); <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/business/franchise/bus70.pdf> (Federal Trade Commission Franchise Rule Compliance Guide (2008))].

8. Determine whether business may petition for exemption from any FTC rule defining unfair or deceptive practice or act on ground that application of rule to business or to class of which it is member is unnecessary to prevent unfair or deceptive practice or act [15 U.S.C. § 57a(g)].

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.130

§ 51A.130 Preparing and Filing Application for Registration Under Franchise Investment Law

NOTE:

Large franchisors who are exempt from registration must file a notice of exemption with the Commissioner of Corporations and pay the required fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(f)] before the offer or sale of a franchise in California [Corp. Code § 31101(d); see also P 8, below]. Franchisors seeking exemption under Corp. Code §§ 31104, 31106, or 31108 similarly must file a notice of exemption and pay the required fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(f)] before the offer or sale of a franchise in California [see Corp. Code §§ 31104(b), 31106(b), 31108(f); see also P 8, below].

1. Obtain, from Department of Corporations, that agency's "Guidelines for Franchise Registration" (Department of Corporations Packet 310.111), which consists of following forms:

NOTE:

The Franchise Investment Law application rules [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.000 et seq.] prescribe use of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD) as adopted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc., as the form of Uniform Franchise Registration Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.111, 310.114.1]. Packet 310.111 contains the required forms, instructions for their completion, modification required for use in California, and filing instructions. The latest edition of this packet is available on the Internet at <http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/pdf/ufoc.pdf>.

- a. Facing page and supplemental information page of UFDD [see § 51A.200].
- b. Sales agent disclosure form [see § 51A.201].
- c. Uniform Consent to Service of Process [see § 51A.202].

- d. Certification page [see § 51A.203].
- e. Customer authorization of disclosure of financial records [see § 51A.204].
- f. Guarantee of performance [see § 51A.205].
- g. Body of UFDD, consisting of cover page, table of contents, and body of form [see § 51A.209].
- h. If applicable, include preface or appendix to UFDD containing disclosures regarding negotiated sale of franchise [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2; see also § 51A.213].

NOTE:

For discussion of the additional disclosures required for a negotiated sale of a franchise, see § 51A.213. For a form for the required notice of the negotiated sale of a franchise, see § 51A.254.

- i. If applicable, include power of attorney or corporate resolution authorizing person other than officer or general partner to sign application [see § 51A.210].
 - j. Two copies of any advertising to be used [see § 51A.140].
2. Together with client and accountants, assemble information needed to complete registration application and UFDD.

NOTE:

The "Requirements for Preparation of a Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document" [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration" (Department of Corporations Packet 310.111)] is an itemized list of topics that must be covered in the completed UFDD [see § 51A.209 (requirements)]. This list may be used as a check sheet as the necessary information is compiled.

3. Have application signed by officer or general partner of applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.203].

NOTE:

The application may be signed by a person holding a power of attorney from the applicant, in which case a copy of the power of attorney or corporate resolution authorizing the person to sign must be attached as an exhibit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.210 (form for corporate resolution)].

4. Obtain manually signed consent of auditor for use of audited financial statements appearing in UFDD [see § 51A.206].

5. Obtain check payable to "California Commissioner of Corporations" in amount necessary to cover filing fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(b)].

NOTE:

Although the regulations state that checks should be made payable to the "Department of Corporations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15], the franchise registration guidelines state that checks should be made payable to the "California Commissioner of Corporations" [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

6. Prepare transmittal letter [see § 51A.211].

7. File Uniform Franchise Registration Application and related documents with Department of Corporations at one of following addresses [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111 at <http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/pdf/ufoc.pdf>]:

a. CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS 320 WEST 4th STREET, SUITE 750 LOS ANGELES, CA 90013-2344

b. CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS 71 STEVENSON STREET, SUITE 2100 SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94105-2908

c. CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS 1515 K STREET, SUITE 200 SACRAMENTO, CA 95814-4052

8. If client is franchisor who is exempt from registration, in lieu of application for registration, advise client to file following with Commissioner of Corporations:

NOTE:

If the exemption is based on Corp. Code §§ 31101, 31104, or 31108, the notice and fee must be filed before the offer or sale of franchise in California during any calendar year in which one or more franchises are sold, excluding any material modification [Corp. Code §§ 31101(d), 31104(b), 31108(f); see § 51A.10[4]; see also § 51A.112, P 1c]. If the exemption is based on Corp. Code § 31106, the notice and fee must be filed no later than 15 calendar days after the sale of a franchise in California [Corp. Code §31106(b)].

a. Notice of exemption.

b. Applicable filing fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(f)].

§ 51A.131 Amending Application for Registration

1. Determine whether there has been any material change in information contained in registration application as originally submitted, amended, or renewed [Corp. Code § 31123].

NOTE:

The Commissioner of Corporations may define by rule what constitutes a "material change" and the circumstances under which a revised disclosure document must accompany the application for an amended registration [Corp. Code § 31123]. However, no such rule has been adopted, so common sense should govern when the issue of materiality is concerned. The safest and recommended course is to file an amendment to the application whenever the information shown on it is changed. Although the information on the application proper (the facing page, supplemental information, sales agent's disclosure form, and consent to service) is not repeated to a significant extent in the disclosure document, the document is part of the application and should be amended without fail each time the information in it becomes obsolete.

2. If so, completely fill in facing page of Uniform Franchise Registration Application [see § 51A.200], indicating at heading whether amendment is pre-effective or post-effective [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.123].

NOTE:

A post-effective amendment must be carefully distinguished from a "material modification of an existing franchise" [see Corp. Code § 31125; see also § 51A.142]. A post-effective amendment is appropriate when either (1) registration of the franchise has become effective, but no franchises have been sold; or (2) registration is effective and franchises have been sold, but the amendment to the registration does not affect the terms of the franchise agreement; for example, if an additional salesperson is employed by the franchisor [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

3. Complete only items of registration application or exhibits to application that are being amended and indicate changes from original text by underscoring or other appropriate method [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.122.1, 310.123].

4. Obtain check payable to "California Commissioner of Corporations" in amount necessary to cover filing fee [Corp. Code § 31500(d)].

NOTE:

Although the regulations state that checks should be made payable to the "Department of Corporations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15], the franchise registration guidelines state that checks should be made payable to the "California Commissioner of Corporations" [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. The filing fee is required only for a post-effective amendment; there is no fee for a pre-effective amendment [Corp. Code § 31500(d); Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

5. Prepare transmittal letter that includes either of following:

a. If pre-effective amendment, request for accelerated effective date of registration, if desired.

NOTE:

Unless the Commissioner specifies an earlier time, a registration will not become effective until 12:00 noon of the 15th business day after the filing of the last amendment to the application, provided no stop order is in effect [Corp. Code § 31116(a); see Corp. Code § 31115 (stop orders)].

b. If post-effective amendment affects method, disclosures, or terms of offering, statement of facts supporting effectiveness of amendment by particular date.

NOTE:

The Commissioner is empowered, having due regard for the public interest and the protection of franchisees, to fix the effective date of a post-effective amendment [Corp. Code § 31124]. When time is of the essence in a franchise offering, it may be a good idea to supply the Commissioner with all information regarding changes affecting the offering in order to hasten the review process.

6. File amendment in office of Commissioner in which original registration application is on file [see § 51A.130, P 7 (addresses)].

§ 51A.140 Advertising Franchises

NOTE:

An "advertisement" is any written or printed communication or any communication by means of recorded telephone messages or spoken on radio, television, or similar communications media, published in connection with an offer or sale of a franchise [Corp. Code § 31003]. To "publish" means publicly to issue or circulate by newspaper, mail, radio, or television, or otherwise to disseminate to the public [Corp. Code § 31016].

1. Determine whether advertisement to be disseminated would be excluded from requirement that it be filed with Commissioner at least three business days before its first publication [Corp. Code § 31156] because:

a. Advertisement has already been filed along with application for registration of franchise [see § 51A.209].

b. Matter to be published is excluded from definition of "advertisement" by Commissioner's rule because it is published after registration is effective and its contents are in nature of "tombstone advertisement" confined to statement of name and address of person or persons from whom disclosure document may be obtained, legend concerning registration under Franchise Investment Law [see § 51A.250], and any one or more of following items of information [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.2(a)]:

(1) Name of franchisor.

(2) Brief description of type of franchise being offered.

(3) Brief description of type of business to be conducted by franchisee.

(4) Total dollar investment (including all obligations) required to be made on franchise purchase, or if amount of investment varies, method of its determination or probable price range.

(5) City and/or state in which franchises are offered.

(6) Name and address of sender of communication.

c. "Advertisement" is disclosure document, which may be used immediately on effective date of registration of franchise regardless of how long it has been on file in its final form [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156].

d. Advertisement is Internet advertising in connection with offer or sale of franchise that complies with all of following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3(a)]:

NOTE:

An "internet advertisement" is any communication made in connection with an offer or sale of a franchise posted on a website on the Internet [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3(a)].

(1) Franchisor files written notice with Commissioner that includes:

NOTE:

The notice is effective from the date it is filed with the Commissioner until the end of the franchisor's then-currently effective registration period [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.120]. The exemption may be renewed for additional periods of one year by submitting to the Commissioner no later than the end of the franchisor's then-currently effective registration period, an additional written notice that complies with the statutory requirements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3(b)].

(a) URL address or similar address identifying location of any Internet advertisement.

(b) Statement that franchisor, or anyone acting with the franchisor's knowledge, agrees to comply with California Franchise Investment Law and its rules, when posting any Internet advertisement on website.

(c) Franchisor's name, address, telephone number, and contact person.

NOTE:

The notice must be executed by an officer or general partner of the franchisor having direct responsibility for the conduct of the franchisor's activities, and verified in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3(a)(1)]. The following heading (in large bold type) may be inserted at the top of the filed notice, to assist staff in identifying the claim of exemption:

"NOTICE OF EXEMPTION FOR INTERNET ADVERTISEMENT SECTION 310.156.3 OF TITLE 10, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS"

(2) Internet advertisement is not directed to any person in California by or on behalf of the franchisor or anyone acting with the franchisor's knowledge.

NOTE:

For the purposes of this requirement, "directed to any person in the State of California," means directed to a specifically named person, or group of persons, and not to the public generally, and includes, but is not limited to, non-passive forms of communication such as e-mail, instant messages, or other similar modes of communication [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3(a)(2)].

(3) Preface, exhibit or appendix of franchisor's disclosure document includes:

(a) URL address of the franchisor's website.

(b) Statement, prescribed by statute, in clear readable type, of not less than 12-point size.

NOTE:

The required statement is [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3(a)(3)]:

"OUR WEBSITE HAS NOT BEEN REVIEWED OR APPROVED BY THE CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS. ANY COMPLAINTS CONCERNING THE CONTENT OF THIS WEBSITE MAY BE DIRECTED TO THE CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS at www.corp.ca.gov."

2. If advertisement is one not previously filed with Commissioner and is not exempt from filing requirements, determine whether proposed advertisement conforms to Commissioner's standards.

NOTE:

The Commissioner is empowered to issue a stop order without prior hearing on determining that an advertisement contains any statement that is false or misleading or omits statements that would be necessary to make the advertisement not misleading [Corp. Code § 31157]. These standards for advertisements are amplified in the regulations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1]. See § 51A.250[1] for discussion of these standards.

3. Determine whether advertisement will contain projection of future earnings and must therefore conform to federal standards in addition to California standards [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(e); see also § 51A.250[1]].

NOTE:

The Federal Trade Commission's rules regarding the content of earnings claims will not apply as long as earnings claims are made in conformity with Item 19 of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document; that is, they appear in the disclosure document only [FTC Rule and Guides, p. 14; see 58 Fed. Reg. 69233 (1993) ; see also § 51A.209[2]]. However, with respect to the printed text of advertisements generally disseminated, an earnings claims disclosure in accordance with FTC Rule 436.1(e) [16 C.F.R. § 436.1(e)] will have to be prepared. However, the federal format will have to be augmented if any representation is made concerning California registration of the franchise [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1; see also § 51A.250[1]].

4. If advertisement is subject to filing requirement, prepare transmittal letter and, if desired, include request for order accelerating time when advertisement may be used.

NOTE:

A true copy of the advertisement must be on file in the office of the Commissioner at least three business days before its first publication, or within any shorter period as the Commissioner orders. The Commissioner will shorten the time during which the advertisement must be on file on an appropriate showing of need [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156].

5. File true copy of advertisement with office of Department of Corporations where registration application is on file [see § 51A.130, P 7 (addresses)].

6. Do not publish advertisement until three business days have elapsed from date on which advertisement was filed.

NOTE:

"Business days" are all days other than Saturdays, Sundays, and days specified as holidays in the Government Code [Corp. Code § 31003.5]. The Commissioner will not issue a "no-action" letter if the advertisement is not disapproved [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156].

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.141

§ 51A.141 Selling Under Impound Condition

NOTE:

Regardless of any impound of franchise fees ordered by the Commissioner of Corporations, it is a separate violation of federal law to fail to return any funds to a franchisee when such a refund is promised in the disclosure document [16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h); FTC Rule and Guides, p. 16].

1. On imposition of impound condition under Corp. Code § 31113 by Commissioner of Corporations, obtain copy of order imposing impound condition to determine exact nature of restriction.

NOTE:

When an applicant has failed to show that adequate financial arrangements have been made to fulfill obligations to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items included in the offering, the Commissioner may impose an impoundment of the franchise fees and other funds paid by a franchisee or subfranchisor, as a condition of registration, to be held until those obligations have been satisfied [Corp. Code § 31113; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113].

2. Determine whether, in lieu of impound condition, it would be desirable for franchisor to post surety bond in amount set by Commissioner, conditioned on completion by franchisor of its obligations under franchise contract to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items included in offering [Corp. Code § 31113; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.5; see § 51A.205 (guarantee of performance)].

NOTE:

The bond must be issued by a corporate surety admitted to transact business in the State of California. When more than one franchise is sold at the same time but left unopened, the amount of the bond must equal the aggregate liability to all franchises in California [

Corp. Code § 31113; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.5].

3. If surety bond is not posted, select depository that will agree to hold funds to be received from franchisees and subfranchisors in separate trust account [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.3].

NOTE:

The depository must be a national bank located in California or a California bank or trust company [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.3].

4. Obtain written consent of depository to act in that capacity [see § 51A.231].

5. File written consent of depository with Commissioner of Corporations at office where application is on file [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.3].

6. Prepare purchase receipts to be given to franchisees [see § 51A.230] and obtain approval of Commissioner for their use [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2].

NOTE:

When an impound condition is imposed, the franchiser must deliver a purchase receipt to each franchisee or subfranchisor. Purchase receipt forms must be consecutively numbered and prepared in triplicate. The original copy is to be given to the purchaser. The duplicate copy is to be retained by the franchisor. The triplicate copy is to be provided to the depository along with the payment involved 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2].

7. Ensure that full amount of franchise fees and all other funds paid by franchisees or subfranchisors together with statement showing full name and address of each franchisee or subfranchisor and amount deposited by him or her are delivered to depository for deposit in trust account within 48 hours after receipt [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.1].

8. Issue consecutively numbered purchase receipts in triplicate and distribute as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2]:

- a. Original to franchisee or subfranchisor.
- b. Duplicate retained by franchisor.
- c. Triplicate to depository with payment.

9. Ensure that all checks from franchisees are made payable to depository [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.1].

10. When franchisor has fulfilled its obligations to franchisee under franchise agreement, obtain signed statement to that effect from franchisee and statement from depository as to amount of funds in trust account in name of franchisee [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4].

NOTE:

The impound may also be lifted when, for other reasons, the impound is no longer required to protect franchisees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4].

11. Prepare and submit to Commissioner of Corporations verified request for order authorizing release of impound funds of this franchisee to franchisor [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4; see § 51A.232].

NOTE:

Any request for an order of the Commissioner authorizing the release of impounds to the franchiser must contain, among other things, a statement signed by the franchisee or subfranchisor that the information in the statement is correct [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4].

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

D. Related and Subsequent Procedures

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.142

§ 51A.142 Registering Material Modification of Existing Franchises

NOTE:

A material modification of existing franchises differs from a post-effective amendment to an application for registration [see Corp. Code § 31123; see also § 51A.131] in that a material modification affects the contractual obligations of the franchisor and/or the franchisee after the franchise has been sold [see Corp. Code § 31125].

1. Determine whether proposed modification is "material."

NOTE:

Neither the Franchise Investment Law nor the rules of the Commissioner of Corporations indicate what sort of modification is considered "material." However, a material modification of an existing franchise is a "sale" of the franchise [Corp. Code § 31018]; therefore, it would be prudent, in order to avoid liability for the failure to register a sale, to regard any modification of the terms of the franchise agreement as "material."

2. Obtain from any office of Department of Corporations [see § 51A.130, P 7] Facing Page for Uniform Franchise Registration Application, and instructions for completing remainder of application for registration of material modification [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125; see also § 51A.212].

3. Following instructions for registering material modification, assemble necessary information and documents, including [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125]:

- a. Copy of item(s) of Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD), complying with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1, if information is changed [see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 1].

- b. Statement of existing arrangement and new arrangement regarding proposed items to be modified [see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 1].

c. Statement on cover of UFDD of following [see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 1]: "The changes set forth herein are voluntary. If a franchisee does not receive the attached disclosure at least five business days prior to the execution of a binding agreement, the franchisee may, by written notice, mailed or delivered to the franchisor or (specify agent of franchisor), within five business days following the execution of the agreement rescind the agreement to the modifications."

d. Description of proposed modifications, including [see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 1]:

(1) Identification of section of franchise contract or document being modified;

(2) Nature of modification;

(3) Whether additional cost will accrue to franchisee, and if so, estimate of additional cost; and

(4) Effect on franchisee who accepts change and on franchisee who does not accept change.

e. Copy of franchise contract or document that embodies modification(s) [see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 2].

f. Statement of following [see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 3]:

(1) Number of franchises presently operating;

(2) Number of these franchises presently operating in California;

(3) Number of franchises proposed to be modified; and

(4) Number of franchises proposed to be modified in California.

g. Consent to service of process when required, if not previously filed [see Corp. Code § 31155; see § 51A.212[2], Exhibit 4].

4. If application for registration of material modification is being filed in conjunction with renewal of current registration [see § 51A.143], indicate on facing page that application is both for registration of offer or sale and for registration renewal; and

a. Incorporate by reference any documents already on file with Department of Corporations if not more than four years old and currently accurate [Corp. Code § 31152].

b. Attempt to integrate requirements of two applications to extent possible.

NOTE:

A renewal application is made on the same form as an original application to register a franchise [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122(a)]. It appears that simultaneous registration of a renewal and a material modification can be expeditiously accomplished by concentrating on the requirements of the Uniform Franchise Registration Application, being careful to indicate the proposed modification of the franchise in both a cover letter and the relevant documents attached to the renewal application. The problems faced when attempting to integrate two applications reinforces the argument that the applicant need only prepare a "written disclosure," not a full disclosure document, with respect to the franchises being modified, and, for the renewal application, a separate disclosure document in the UFDD format embodying the modifications but without the explanation of their effect, an explanation that would be superfluous as far as prospective franchisees are concerned.

5. Have application signed and verified by officer or general partner of applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.203].

NOTE:

The application may be signed by a person holding a power of attorney from the applicant, in which case a copy of the power or of the corporate resolution authorizing the person to sign must be attached as an exhibit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.210 (form for corporate resolution)].

6. Obtain check payable to "California Commissioner of Corporations" in amount necessary to cover filing fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(e)].

NOTE:

Although the regulations state that checks should be made payable to the "Department of Corporations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15], the franchise registration guidelines state that checks should be made payable to the "California Commissioner of Corporations" [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

7. File application with office of Department of Corporations where original or most recent renewal registration is on file [see § 51A.130, P 7 (addresses)].

NOTE:

A franchise offering is deemed registered for a period of one year from the effective date of registration, unless the Commissioner by order or rule specifies a different period [Corp. Code § 31120].

1. Obtain from any office of Department of Corporations copy of Uniform Franchise Registration Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122].
2. Complete application in same manner as for original registration application [see § 51A.130], except that:
 - a. Any documents filed with Department of Corporations within past four years and that are currently accurate may be incorporated by reference in application for renewal [Corp. Code § 31152].

NOTE:

The facing page and the supplemental information page [see § 51A.200] should not be incorporated by reference, and, although it is legally permissible to do so, the copy of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document currently in use by the franchisor should not be incorporated by reference even though it has been unchanged. The Department recommends this procedure to expedite review of the renewal application [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

- b. If renewal application alters text of disclosure document, or if any item, exhibit, or other document previously filed, changes in text must be indicated by means of underscoring or in some other appropriate manner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122.1].

c. Appropriate space on facing page must be checked to indicate that application is for renewal of registration.

3. If franchisor has effected any negotiated sales exempt from registration [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2], attach appendix containing required statement [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122; see § 51A.214].

NOTE:

For discussion of negotiated sales, see § 51A.213[1].

4. Have application signed by officer or general partner of applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.203].

NOTE:

The application may be signed by a person holding a power of attorney from the applicant, in which case a copy of the power of attorney or corporate resolution authorizing the person to sign must be attached as an exhibit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.210 (form for corporate resolution)].

5. Obtain manually signed consent of auditor for use of audited financial statements appearing in disclosure document [see § 51A.206].

6. Obtain check payable to "California Commissioner of Corporations" in amount necessary to cover filing fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(c)].

NOTE:

Although the regulations state that checks should be made payable to the "Department of Corporations" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15], the franchise registration guidelines state that checks should be made payable to the "California Commissioner of Corporations" [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

7. Prepare transmittal letter [see § 51A.211].

8. File application with office of Department where original registration is on file [see § 51A.130, P 7 (addresses)] no later than 15 business days before expiration of current registration unless that period is waived by order of Commissioner [Corp. Code § 31121].

NOTE:

The renewed registration becomes effective, assuming no stop order is in effect, at 12:00 noon on the date on which the current registration is to expire. On renewal, the registration is effective for one year unless the Commissioner specifies a different period by rule or order [Corp. Code § 31121].

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

§ 51A.200 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Facing Page and Supplemental Information Page [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the application-facing page and supplemental information page of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD). It contains information required from the applicant in accordance with the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document Guidelines, as adopted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(b)]. The UFDD, prescribed by the California Commissioner of Corporations, is the sole means of applying for registration of a franchise in California [Corp. Code § 31111(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.111(a), 310.114.1]. When an application is filed using the UFDD, the applicant must include the required information set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1 in appropriate corresponding sections of the UFDD [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(c)]. For purposes of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1, when filing the UFDD, the term "offering circular" means "disclosure document" and "UFOC" means "UFDD" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(c)].

The facing page and supplemental information page are also used to register a material modification of an existing franchise, in conjunction with special instructions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125; see §§ 51A.142, 51A.212]. In addition, the entire registration form is used to renew the registration of a franchise [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122; see §§ 51A.143, 51A.214].

The Uniform Franchise Registration Application consists of numerous parts [see [b], below]. If an impound condition is imposed, a guarantee of performance [see § 51A.205] must also be included [see [e], below].

All forms comprising the registration package may be obtained from any office of the Department of Corporations. For a list of those offices, see § 51A.130. Forms are also available on the Internet at the website of the Department of Corporations, at <http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/securities.asp#fl>. For a list of steps to be taken to complete and file the application, see § 51A.130.

[b] Contents of Application

An application for registration of the offer and sale of a franchise must include the following, all of which must be verified by means of the prescribed signature page [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]:

- A cover page [see § 51A.208].
- A facing page (this form).
- A supplemental information page (this form).
- A sales agent disclosure form for each person offering and selling the franchise in California, unless the person is named in Item 2 of the disclosure document [see § 51A.201].
- One copy of the disclosure document, including a table of contents, in the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD) format as presented in Department of Corporations Packet 310.111. The information in the disclosure document must be presented in a clear, concise fashion that is readily understandable by a person unfamiliar with the franchise business. Specified pronouns must be used to refer to the franchisor and the franchisee [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1(b); see § 51A.209].
- A certification page [see § 51A.203] and, if applicable, an accompanying power of attorney or corporate resolution [see § 51A.210].
- A consent to service of process form (not required for California corporations, California limited partnerships, or California limited liability companies) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.155; Corp. Code § 31155; see § 51A.202].
- A customer authorization of disclosure of financial records [see § 51A.204].

In addition, the applicant must include the required fee [see Corp. Code § 31500] and all of the following [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]:

- The franchisor's audited financial statement. Compilation report financial statements and review report balance sheets are accepted in lieu of an audit in some situations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2; see also § 51A.206[1][b]].
- A manually signed consent of the independent public accountant for the use of the financial statements in the disclosure document [see § 51A.206].
- A cover letter, giving the date of the end of the franchisor's fiscal year, and an acknowledgment that the initial registration will end 110 days after the date of its next fiscal year [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.120; see also § 51A.211].
- Two copies of any advertising to be used to offer the franchise in California [see Corp. Code § 31156; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.156-310.156.2; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3 (exception for Internet advertising in connection with offer or sale of franchise)].

[c] Signing Application

The application must be signed by an officer or general partner of the applicant or by a person holding a power of attorney from the applicant for that purpose [see § 51A.203]. If signed under a power of attorney, the application must include a copy of the power of attorney or corporate resolution authorizing the person signing to act on behalf of the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see Corp. Code § 31112; see also § 51A.210].

[d] Subfranchisors

When the person filing the application for registration is a subfranchisor [see Corp. Code § 31009 ("subfranchisor" defined)], the application must also include the same information concerning the subfranchisor as is required from the franchisor [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.1].

[e] Impound and Bond

If the registration applicant has failed to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made to fulfill the franchisor's obligations to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items in the offering, the Commissioner may require the escrow or impound of franchise fees until those obligation have been satisfied. At the option of the franchisor, he or she may furnish a surety bond in lieu of impoundment [Corp. Code § 31113; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.113-310.113.5]. For further discussion, see § 51A.141 and § 51A.230 et seq. For a form for a guarantee of performance, see § 51A.205.

[f] Amendment to Registration Application

[i] Amendment Required for Material Changes in Submitted Information

A franchisor must promptly notify the Commissioner in writing, by an application to amend the registration, of any material change in the information contained in an application as originally submitted, amended, or renewed [Corp. Code § 31123; see § 51A.212]. An application can be amended before the effective date of registration ("pre-effective amendment") or after the effective date of registration ("post-effective amendment").

[ii] Pre-Effective Amendments

A pre-effective amendment is used to amend a pending application when there has been a material change. The application must include a facing page (this form) and a certification page [see § 51A.203]. Changes from previous documents must be shown by underscoring or by some other appropriate manner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122.1]. The guidelines for registration state that changes from previous filings should be underlined in red and that only one redlined copy (and no unmarked copies) should be submitted. There is no filing fee for a pre-effective amendment [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

[iii] Post-Effective Amendments

A post-effective amendment is submitted after a registration is effective, and must be made when there is a material change in the information last registered or when a sales agent is being added [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. The Guidelines provide that a post-effective amendment application includes a completed cover page and a certification page [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. By statute, a post-effective amendment must be made on the form used for the original application with the appropriate heading checked on the facing page [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111]. The facing page must be completely filled in, and only those other items of the applicable form being amended must be included [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.123].

Changes from previous documents must be shown by underscoring or by some other appropriate manner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122.1]. The guidelines for registration state that changes from previous filings should be underlined in red.

Only the marked copy indicating the changes, and no unmarked copies, should be submitted [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

[g] Period of Registration

A franchise offering is deemed registered for a period of one year from the effective date of the registration, unless the Commissioner specifies a different period [Corp. Code § 31120].

[h] Renewal

Registration may be renewed for an additional one-year period (unless the Commissioner specifies a different period) by submitting a renewal application no later than 15 business days before the expiration of the current registration unless that period is waived by order of the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 31121]. The renewal application must be submitted in the same format as the original application [see Corp. Code § 31122; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122(a)]; the franchisor's financial statement must be certified as an audit [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. The application must show any changes from the previous filing by underscoring or by some other appropriate manner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122.1]. The registration guidelines state that changes should be underlined in red [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. For a form for the registration renewal statement, see § 51A.214.

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.201

§ 51A.201 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Sales Agent Disclosure Form [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.111, 310.21]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of Form E--Sales Agent Disclosure Form. The form may be used to comply with the Franchise Investment Law's requirement that, unless a person effecting sales of franchises is either licensed as a real estate broker or salesperson by the Real Estate Commissioner, or licensed as a securities broker-dealer by the Commissioner of Corporations, he or she must be identified in the franchise registration application or in an amendment to the application [Corp. Code § 31210]. In the alternative, the identification requirement may be satisfied by including sales agents in the disclosures made under Item 2 (Identity and Business Experience of Persons Affiliated With the Franchisor) and Item 3 (Litigation) of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.210(a); see § 51A.209].

Although this form is essentially the one drafted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc., Item 2A has been modified by rule of the Commissioner so that it will not violate the California prohibition against public agencies asking applicants to reveal a record of arrest that did not result in a conviction or a nolo contendere plea [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.114.1(c)(2); 310.210(a)(2); Bus. & Prof. Code § 461].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the Form D--Uniform Consent to Service of Process, which is used to comply with the Franchise Investment Law requirement that all franchise registration applicants who are not California corporations, California limited partnerships, or California limited liability companies, appoint the Commissioner of Corporations as the franchisor's agent for the purpose of receiving service of process in any noncriminal action arising under the Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code § 31155; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.155]. However, regardless of whether a consent is filed, any person who engages in conduct prohibited or made actionable by the Franchise Investment Law is deemed by that conduct to have appointed the Commissioner as his or her attorney to receive service if personal jurisdiction cannot otherwise be obtained in California [Corp. § 51A.203 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Certification Page [Corp. Code § 31112; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.111, 310.112]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is Form C--Certification, which is part of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD), prescribed as the Uniform Franchise Registration Application in California. This form is provided in the franchise registration packet available from the Department of Corporations. It is also available on the Internet at the website of the Department of Corporations, at <http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/securities.asp#fl>. This form provides several alternate acknowledgment clauses for use in different situations. The first acknowledgment clause is for use by a corporation; the second is for use by an individual or partnership; the last acknowledgment is the statutory acknowledgment provided by Civ. Code § 1189(a).

Although the acknowledgment contained in the UFDD may be used in California because it has been prescribed by the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111], it does not exactly comply with either Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5, governing the form of declarations under penalty of perjury, or provisions of the Civil Code governing acknowledgments [see Civ. Code §§ 1188-1190]. As to the acknowledgment, any inconsistency with California law is irrelevant because there is no point in obtaining acknowledgment of a declaration under penalty of perjury, which is itself a substitute for a sworn statement. The statute [Corp. Code § 31112] specifically requires verification in the same manner as pleadings, leaving no doubt that a declaration under penalty of perjury is all that is required. However, as an extra measure of protection, a statutory acknowledgment is provided as the last clause of this form [see Civ. Code § 1189(a)].

The form of certification illustrated in this form should be used. It is the form found on all applications prepared by the Department of Corporations [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125 (application for registration of a material modification of an existing franchise)] and contains the information required from the applicant in accordance with the UFDD Guidelines, as adopted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(b)]. This form has been adopted by the Commissioner of Corporations as the official form of franchise registration application. The instructions for completing the UFDD contain no indication that the certification should be altered to conform with California law [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

[b] Who Must Sign

The application for registration ordinarily must be signed and verified by an officer or general partner of the applicant. It may also be signed by a person holding a power of attorney for that purpose from the applicant. If the application is signed on behalf of the applicant pursuant to a power of attorney, the application must include a copy of the power of attorney or a copy of the corporate resolution authorizing the person signing to act on behalf of the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112; see § 51A.210 (form for corporate resolution)].

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.204

§ 51A.204 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records [Corp. Code § 31111(b)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a customer authorization allowing the disclosure to the Department of Corporations of financial records of the franchise registrant concerning the sale of the franchise. The franchise applicant must submit the authorization with the completed registration application [Corp. Code § 31111(b)]. The Department of Corporations uses the authorization to inspect financial records relating to the sale of the franchise. The form is included in the franchise registration packet available from the Department of Corporations [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. The form is also available on the Internet at the website of the Department of Corporations, at <http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/securities.asp#fl>. The official instructions are reproduced here along with the actual form.

[b] Effect of Authorization

This authorization allows the Department of Corporations to obtain financial records of the franchise applicant pertaining to the sale of the franchise from any financial institution [Corp. Code § 31111(b)]. A government agency or department may not request or receive copies of, or the information contained in, financial records of customers of financial institutions unless the records are described with particularity, the records are consistent with the scope and requirements of the investigation giving rise to the request, and the customer has authorized disclosure to the agency [Gov. Code § 7470(a)]. A customer may authorize disclosure if those seeking disclosure furnish to the financial institution a signed and dated statement by which the customer (1) authorizes the disclosure for a period set forth in the authorization statement; (2) specifies the name of the agency or department to which disclosure is authorized, and, if applicable, the statutory purpose for which the information is to be obtained; and (3) identifies the financial records that are authorized to be disclosed [Gov. Code § 7473(a)].

The records may pertain to current accounts, closed accounts, or accounts to be opened in the future. The authorization is effective from the date of execution, and remains in effect until five years after the expiration or revocation of the franchise registration, including renewals. The authorization may not be revoked [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111].

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.205

§ 51A.205 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Guarantee of Performance [Corp. Code § 31113]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is Form F--Guarantee of Performance, to be used to avoid an impound of franchise fees when the franchisor has failed to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made to fulfill its obligations. Whenever an impound or escrow condition is imposed by the Commissioner, the franchisor has the option to furnish a surety bond [Corp. Code § 31113].

This form should be completed by the security company providing the franchisor with a surety bond, and it should be returned with the completed application. The form is part of the franchise registration packet available from the Department of Corporations [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. The form is also available on the Internet at the website of the Department of Corporations, at <http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/securities.asp#fl>. For coverage of requirements for surety bonds in general, see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity .

[b] Grounds for Impound

If the applicant has failed to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made to fulfill the franchisor's obligations to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items in the offering, the Commissioner may require the escrow or impound of franchise fees and other funds paid by the franchisee or subfranchisor until the obligation has been satisfied [Corp. Code § 31113]. The impounded funds are placed in a separate trust account with an approved depository [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.113.1, 310.113.3]. For forms and discussion relating to impoundment, see §§ 51A.230-51A.232.

[c] Bond in Lieu of Impound

In lieu of the imposition of an impound condition, the franchisor may post a surety bond in an amount required by the Commissioner. The bond must be issued by a corporate surety admitted to transact business in California, conditioned on the completion by the franchisor of its obligations under the franchise contract to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items in the offering. When more than one franchise is sold at the same time but one or more is left unopened, the amount of the bond must equal the aggregate liability to all those franchises in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.5; see Corp. Code § 31113].

Under the 1982 Bond and Undertaking Law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.], an undertaking may be given in place of a bond required by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.210(a)].

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.206

§ 51A.206 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Auditor's Consent [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This is a form for consent to the use of audited financial statements appearing in the franchise disclosure document. It must accompany applications for registration of a franchise and must be manually signed by the public accountant(s) who prepared the audited statements. A photocopy is acceptable [see Instructions for Filing a Uniform Franchise Registration Application, reproduced in § 51A.209[2]].

[b] Audited Financial Statements

A franchisor must file a balance sheet as of a date within 90 days before the date of the application. This balance sheet need not be audited. However, if this balance sheet is not audited, the franchisor must file an audited balance sheet as of the end of the franchisor's last fiscal year unless that fiscal year ended within 90 days of the date of the application. In that case, the franchisor must file an audited balance sheet as of the end of the franchisor's next preceding fiscal year [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(b)]. The use of unaudited financial statements does not relieve the applicant or any person from any liability for false and misleading statements contained in the financial statements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(e)].

The franchisor must file a profit and loss statement for each of the three fiscal years preceding the date of the balance sheet; if there is any period between the close of the last fiscal year and the date of the balance sheet, the franchisor must also file a profit and loss statement for that period. Profit and loss statements must be audited up to the date of the last audited balance sheet filed, if any [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(b)].

Financial statements required to be filed must be prepared according to generally accepted accounting principles. If required to be audited, they should be audited by either an independent certified public accountant or independent public accountant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(a)].

If a franchisor owns directly or indirectly more than 50 percent of the outstanding voting securities of any other corporation, the financial statements required to be filed normally should reflect, on a consolidated basis, the financial condition of the franchisor and each of its subsidiaries [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(c)].

[c] Waiver of Audited Statements

In extraordinary cases, the Commissioner may waive the requirement for audited statements if (1) the statements have been prepared by an independent certified public accountant or independent public accountant and (2) the Commissioner is otherwise satisfied as to the reliability of the statements and as to the ability of the franchisor to perform future commitments. A waiver ordinarily will be granted only on a showing that [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(d)]:

- The franchisor has not had prior audited statements;
- The close of the most recent or current fiscal year is so near the time of filing of the application that it would be unreasonably costly or impractical to provide audited statements with the application; and
- Audited statements will be furnished within a reasonable time after the end of the most recent or current fiscal year.

In such a situation, the Commissioner may impose an impound condition and any other conditions and restrictions as in the Commissioner's discretion may be appropriate [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2(d)].

This form is the cover sheet that must be carried by all franchise offering circulars distributed by franchisors subject to the Federal Trade Commission's "Disclosure Requirements and Prohibitions Concerning Franchising" [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.3]. For a discussion of which franchises are subject to the FTC rule and which are exempt from the rule, see §§ 51A.114 and 51A.115.

In connection with the offer or sale of a franchise to be located in the United States of America or its territories, it is an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45, for the franchisor to [16 C.F.R. § 436.2(a), (b); see 16 C.F.R. § 436.8 (exemptions)]:

- To fail to furnish a prospective franchisee with a copy of the franchisor's current disclosure document [see 16 C.F.R. §§ 436.3-436.7], at least 14 calendar-days before the prospective franchisee signs a binding agreement with, or makes any payment to, the franchisor or an affiliate in connection with the proposed franchise sale.
- To alter unilaterally and materially the terms and conditions of the basic franchise agreement or any related agreements attached to the disclosure document without furnishing the prospective franchisee with a copy of each revised agreement at least seven calendar-days before the prospective franchisee signs the revised agreement. Changes to an agreement that arise out of negotiations initiated by the prospective franchisee do not trigger this seven calendar-day period.

For these purposes, the franchisor has furnished the documents by the required date if [16 C.F.R. § 436.2(c)]:

- A copy of the document was hand-delivered, faxed, emailed, or otherwise delivered to the prospective franchisee by the required date;

• Directions for accessing the document on the Internet were provided to the prospective franchisee by the required date; or

• A paper or tangible electronic copy (for example, computer disk or CD-ROM) was sent to the address specified by the prospective franchisee by first-class United States mail at least three calendar-days before the required date.

In addition to the disclosures contained in [2], below, franchisors may include additional disclosures on the cover page, on a separate cover page, or on an addendum to comply with state pre-sale disclosure laws [16 C.F.R. § 436.3(g)].

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.209

§ 51A.209 Uniform Franchise Registration Application--Requirements for Body of Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a guide to the requirements for preparing a Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD). It contains information required from the applicant in accordance with the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document Guidelines, as adopted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(b)]. This form, prescribed by the California Commissioner of Corporations, is the sole means of applying for registration of a franchise in California [Corp. Code § 31111(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.111(a), 310.114.1]. When an application is filed using the UFDD, the applicant must include the required information set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1 in appropriate corresponding sections of the UFDD [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(c)]. For purposes of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1, when filing the UFDD, the term "offering circular" means "disclosure document" and "UFOC" means "UFDD" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(c)].

This form contains, in the body of the form, a description of the items of information needed [see 16 C.R.R. § 436.5 (disclosure items)]. Appendices A-F provide sample answers to specific items of information. The form is provided by the Department of Corporations, as 310.111 UFDD PACKET, Guidelines for Franchise Registration. For a list of the components that make up a complete application, see § 51A.200[1][b].

To be used in California, the UFDD must be modified to meet the requirements of the California Commissioner of Corporations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1(a)]. The required modifications are listed in [b], below. These modifications have not been included in the text of the form because this form is an illustration of the provided official form. When completing an offering circular, the franchisor must include all of the required California modifications [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1(c)].

The information in the offering circular must be presented in a clear, concise fashion that is readily understandable by a person unfamiliar with the franchise business. Specified pronouns must be used to refer to the franchisor and the franchisee [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1(b)]. One copy of the disclosure document must accompany the application for registration [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations 310.111 UFDD PACKET].

[b] California Instructions for Completing Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document

The Commissioner of Corporations requires the following modifications to the UFOC [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1(c)]. Because this form is an illustration of the official model form, which does not contain the California modifications, these modifications are not included in the text of the following form. The required modifications are as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1(c)]:

- A preface, exhibit, or appendix to the UFDD, stating: "THE CALIFORNIA FRANCHISE INVESTMENT LAW REQUIRES THAT A COPY OF ALL PROPOSED AGREEMENTS RELATING TO THE SALE OF THE FRANCHISE BE DELIVERED TOGETHER WITH THE OFFERING CIRCULAR."
- Withholding of information from Item 3A (and the sales agent disclosure form (see § 51A.201)) relating to pending action involving arrest that did not result in conviction or plea of no contest.
- In addition to the information required by Item 3C, addition of a statement whether the franchisor, any person, or franchise broker listed in Item 2 is subject to any currently effective order of any national securities association or national securities exchange suspending or expelling the person from membership in that association or exchange. This information may be included in Item 3 or in a preface, exhibit, or appendix, which is part of the offering circular. If the information is in a preface, exhibit, or appendix, a reference to the preface, exhibit, or appendix must be prominently set forth in Item 3.
- If the initial franchise fee can vary, inclusion of a mathematical formula in Item 5 that allows the franchisee to calculate franchise fee.
- Inclusion of an additional paragraph in Item 17 or in a preface, exhibit, or appendix concerning statutory rights relating to termination or nonrenewal of a franchise [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20000 et seq.]. If the additional paragraph is in a preface, exhibit, or appendix, then a reference to the preface, exhibit, or appendix must be prominently set out in Item 17.
- If applicable, inclusion of additional paragraphs in Item 17 or in a preface, exhibit, or appendix warning prospective franchisees of provisions in the franchise agreement concerning termination on bankruptcy, noncompetition covenants, liquidated damages, binding arbitration, and application of another jurisdiction's laws. If the additional paragraphs are in a preface, exhibit, or appendix, then a reference to the preface, exhibit, or appendix must be prominently set out in Item 17.
- If any earnings claim is made, and the earnings claim figures do not include either costs of sales or operating expenses, then, in addition to the information required by Item 19, inclusion of the following statement: "The earnings claims figure(s) does (do) not reflect the costs of sales, operating expenses, or other costs or expenses that must be deducted from the gross revenue or gross sales figures to obtain your net income or profit. You should conduct an independent investigation of the costs and expenses you will incur in operating your (franchised business). Franchisees or former franchisees, listed in the offering circular, may be one source of this information."

The modifications to Items 17 and 19 may be included in the items themselves or may be included in a preface, exhibit, or appendix. If presented in a preface, exhibit, or appendix, a reference to the preface, exhibit, or appendix must be prominently set forth in Item 17 or Item 19.

The "State of California Special Instructions" is included in [2], below, following the application.

This form is a resolution by a corporation or partnership authorizing a person other than the corporation's officer or partnership's general partner to sign a franchise registration application. This type of resolution is required by the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD), drafted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc., and adopted by the Commissioner of Corporations as the mandatory method of applying for registration [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111]. This resolution should be formally adopted by the corporation or partnership before applying to register the franchise [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations Packet 310.111]. For further discussion of resolutions, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions.

Ordinarily, an officer or general partner should sign the franchise registration application [see § 51A.203]. However, the application may be signed by a person holding a power of attorney for that purpose. If signed under a power of attorney, the franchise registration application should include a copy of the power of attorney or corporate resolution authorizing the person signing to act on behalf of the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112].

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.211

§ 51A.211 Transmittal Letter to Accompany Application to Register Franchise

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a transmittal letter used to accompany an initial application for registration of a franchise. It may be modified for use in renewal of a franchise registration [see Corp. Code §§ 31121, 31122; see also §§ 51A.143, 51A.214], a material modification of an existing franchise [see Corp. Code § 31125; see also §§ 51A.142, 51A.212], or an amendment to a registration application [see Corp. Code §§ 31123, 31124; see also § 51A.131]. The letter should give the date of the end of the franchisor's fiscal year, and an acknowledgment that the initial registration will end 110 days after the date on which its next fiscal year ends [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations 310.111 UFDD PACKET; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.120]. The letter should list the application documents required to be submitted [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations, 310.111 UFDD PACKET].

The letter should be addressed to the Commissioner of Corporations at the office where the registration package will be filed. Filing is permitted at any office of the Department of Corporations; these offices are listed in § 51A.130, P 7. The check for the filing fee should be made payable to the "California Commissioner of Corporations" [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations 310.111 UFDD PACKET].

[b] Confidential Treatment of Application

If confidentiality is desired, a request for confidential treatment of the application and any or all related documents filed with the Commissioner should be submitted along with the application. All applications, and the files of which they are a part, ordinarily are open to public inspection during business hours of the Department of Corporations [Corp. Code § 31504; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.9, 250.9.1]. However, the Commissioner will withhold material from public inspection, on request, provided that inspection is not determined to be necessary to the public interest, or for the purpose of the law under which the material is filed, and is reasonably shown to meet any of the following requirements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10]:

- The information is of a proprietary business nature and is in fact confidential including, but not limited to, trade secrets;
- The information is of a confidential business nature and is in fact confidential, and the release of the information would be damaging or prejudicial to the business;
- The information relates to the name of any potential investor in connection with certain specified securities filings [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues]; or
- A public interest is served by withholding the information.

A request for confidential treatment of any information received in connection with any application or report should accompany the submission of that information. The information that is subject to the request for confidentiality must be separated from other parts of the filing and marked "Confidential Treatment Requested" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(b)].

If the request for confidentiality is denied, the material for which confidential treatment was requested will not be considered, and may be withdrawn unless the Commissioner has already taken official action on the information before receiving the request, or unless the Commissioner determines that withdrawal is otherwise contrary to the public interest [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(c)]. Under some circumstances the Commissioner has discretion to release, on request or on the Commissioner's own motion, information that has previously been granted confidential treatment [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5].

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.212

§ 51A.212 Application for Registration of Material Modification of Existing Franchises [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the body of the application for registration of a material modification of existing franchises. It must be used in conjunction with the facing page of the Uniform Franchise Registration Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125; see § 51A.200] whenever there is a material modification of existing franchises (that is, franchise agreements already in force) [Corp. Code § 31125(a)]. According to the statute [see Corp. Code § 31125], an application for a material modification may be included with an original application (although how there could be an existing franchise, absent a violation of the law, before registration of the offer is not clear) or with an application for renewal of a franchise registration [see Corp. Code §§ 31121, 31122]. Coordinating renewal with modification is covered in § 51A.142, P 4.

[b] What Constitutes a Material Modification

Neither the statute nor the regulations define the term "material modification." However, Corp. Code § 31018(c) defines the sale of a franchise to include a material modification of an existing franchise, and Exhibit 1 of this form suggests that modifications that will increase costs to the franchisee, may constitute a material modification.

[c] Required Disclosure of Modification to Franchisee

As this form indicates in Exhibit 1, the application must have attached to it "a copy of the item(s) of the Uniform Franchise Offering Circular, complying with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1, if the information is changed" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125]. The items of the franchise agreement that are the subject of the proposed modification therefore must be listed in a separate document in the same fashion as the disclosures contained in the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1]. The existing arrangement must be stated along with the proposed new arrangement and must contain the specified descriptive elements of the proposed modification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.125].

Because the material modification of an existing franchise agreement is a "sale" [Corp. Code § 31018(c)], it follows that no sale can be made until the modification is registered with the Department of Corporations. Furthermore, with specified exceptions, the proposed disclosure, identifying the proposed modification, must be delivered to the franchisee either five business days before execution of any binding agreement by the franchisee to the modification, or must contain a statement that the franchisee may, by written notice mailed or delivered to the franchisor or a specified agent of the franchisor within five business days after execution of the agreement, rescind the modification agreement [Corp. Code § 31125(b)].

Any modification of a franchise agreement with an existing franchisee is exempt from the provisions of Corp. Code § 31110 et seq., if all of the following are met

- The franchisee receives the complete written modification at least five business days before the execution of a binding agreement, or the franchisee may, by written notice to the franchisor or its agent within not less than five business days following the execution of the agreement, rescind the agreement to the material modification, provided (in either case) that (1) the agreement is not executed within 12 months after the date of the franchise agreement, and (2) the modification does not waive any right the franchise has under the California Franchise Relations Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20000 et seq.]. However, the modification may include a general release of all known and unknown claims by a party to the modification [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(1)].
- The modification meets one of the following requirements [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(2)]:
 - It is in connection with the resolution of a bona fide dispute between the franchisor and the franchisee or the resolution of a claimed or actual default by either party, and the modification is not applied on a franchise- systemwide basis at or about the time the modification is executed [see Corp. Code 31125(c)(2)(A) (when modification is not deemed to be systemwide)].
 - It is offered on a voluntary basis to fewer than 25 percent of the franchisor's California franchises within any 12-month period, provided each franchisee is given a right to rescind the modification agreement if the modification is not made in compliance with Corp. Code § 31125(c)(1), discussed above [see Corp. Code § 31125(e) ("California franchise" defined); see also Corp. Code § 31125(f) (forbidding modifications in consecutive years to evade 25- percent requirement)].

Any modification of a franchise agreement with an existing franchisee is also exempt from the provisions of Corp. Code § 31110 et seq. if the modification is offered on a voluntary basis and does not substantially or adversely impact the franchisee's rights, benefits, or responsibilities under the agreement [Corp. Code § 31125(d)].

For a further description of an application for registration of a material modification, see § 51A.142.

[d] Signing and Filing

The application should be signed and verified by an officer or general partner of the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.112], and filed with the office of the Department where the current registration is on file. The signed application must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(e)]. For a form for this certification, see § 51A.203.

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.213

§ 51A.213 Disclosure Clause for Negotiated Sale of Franchise

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory clause disclosing the nature of items of a Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD) that have been, or that may be, negotiated. This form is intended to give notice to subsequent franchisees that items in a UFDD have been negotiated with previous franchisees. If this form is used and specified requirements are met, an offer or sale is exempted from registration requirements [see [b], below; see also Corp. Code § 31100]. This form may be incorporated into a negotiated item in a UFDD or may be added in an appendix to that document [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(3)]. This disclosure must be made if the negotiated sale occurred within 12 months of the offering being made. An amendment making only this disclosure is effective when filed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(3)].

In the event of the negotiated sale of a franchise, a notice of the sale must be sent to the Commissioner of Corporations within 15 days after the date of the sale [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(4); see § 51A.254]. Additionally, if applicable, the franchisor must certify or declare in an appendix to an application for renewal of the existing franchise registration that all required notices of a negotiated sale of a franchise have been filed with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(5); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(4) (notice requirement); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122 (notice form); see also § 51A.143].

[b] Registration of Negotiated Sale of Franchise--Qualifying for Exemption

An offer or sale of a franchise on terms other than those in a registered offer [see Corp. Code §§ 31111, 31121, 31123] is exempt from the franchise registration requirement [see Corp. Code § 31100] if all of the following conditions are met [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a); see §§ 51A.200-51A.211]:

- The initial offer is the offer registered under Corp. Code § 31111, 31121, or 31123.
- When the prospective franchisee receives the disclosure document, he or she also receives copies of all Notices of Negotiated Sales [see § 51A.254] filed with the Commissioner of Corporations within the last 12 months.

- Before selling another franchise, the franchisor amends its registered offer to include the statement required by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(3) (this form). This disclosure should be made in the UFDD item that was negotiated or in an appendix to the UFDD. This disclosure must be made if the negotiated sale occurred within 12 months of the offering being made. An amendment making only this disclosure is effective when filed.

- The Notice of Negotiated Sale of Franchise [see § 51A.254] is filed with the Commissioner of Corporations within 15 business days after the negotiated sale is consummated.

- The franchisor certifies or declares in an appendix to its application for renewal that all notices have been filed with the Commissioner of Corporations as required by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2(a)(4).

CHAPTER 51A FRANCHISE REGISTRATION

PART IV. FORMS

A. Franchise Registration

21-51A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 51A.214

§ 51A.214 Registration Renewal Statement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a registration renewal statement that must be attached as an appendix to the Uniform Franchise Registration Application to renew a franchise offering registration if the franchisor has effected any negotiated sales exempt from registration under 10 Cal. Code Reg. 310.100.2 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122(b)]. For discussion of negotiated sales and a disclosure clause for negotiated sales, see § 51A.213. For a notice of negotiated sale, see § 51A.254.

Applications for renewal of a franchise registration must be made on the same format as the original application, the Uniform Franchise Registration Application [Corp. Code § 31122; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(b); see also § 51A.209]. The Commissioner of Corporations has adopted the Uniform Franchise Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD), drafted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc., as the mandatory method of renewing a franchise registration [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111]. The renewal application must include one complete updated copy of the UFDD and exhibits, and all documents required for an initial registration. If a document is revised, one copy of the changed pages, with the changes marked, must be submitted. Changes from the previous filing must be marked, but not highlighted in color. Extra copies should not be sent [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations 310.111 UFDD PACKET].

For an application for registration of a material modification of a franchise registration, see § 51A.212. For coverage of coordinating renewal and modification, see § 51A.142, P 4.

A franchise offering ordinarily is deemed registered for one year from the effective date of registration [Corp. Code § 31120]. The registration may be renewed for additional periods of one year by submitting the prescribed registration renewal statement and the required fee [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111; Corp. Code § 31500(c)] If no stop order or other order is in effect, registration of the offer of franchises automatically becomes renewed effective at 12:00 noon, California time, on the date on which the prior registration is due to expire, or at any earlier time determined by the Commissioner [Corp. Code §§ 31121, 31222; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.122].

By statute, the registration renewal statement must be submitted for filing no later than 15 business days before the expiration of the registration unless that period is waived by order of the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 31121]. A renewal application is filed at least 15 business days before the expiration of the registration automatically becomes renewed effective 12:00 p.m., California time, of the date on which the prior registration is due to expire [Corp. Code § 31121]. If the renewal application is filed less than 15 business days before expiration of the registration, this automatic effectiveness provision does not apply, but the application is still treated as a RENEWAL. If filed after the expiration of a previous registration, the applicant should check "REGISTRATION OF AN OFFER AND SALE OF FRANCHISES" on the application-facing page and pay the filing fee for a franchise application, rather than for a renewal application [see Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations 310.111 UFDD PACKET].

The franchisor may not offer or sell franchises in California in the interim period between expiration and renewal except that a franchisor may make an offer (but not a sale) of a franchise under Corp. Code § 31107 [Guidelines for Franchise Registration, Department of Corporations 310.111 UFDD PACKET; see § 51A.112].

PART IV. FORMS

B. Selling Under Impound Condition

§ 51A.230 Purchase Receipt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a purchase receipt which is used in connection with an impound condition [see [c], below]. When an impound condition has been imposed by the Commissioner of Corporations in connection with the registration of a franchise offering, the franchisor is required to furnish each franchisee or subfranchisor from whom money is received with a purchase receipt, which must be in a form prescribed by the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2]. This form is in the required format [see [b], below].

[b] Contents and Form of Purchase Receipt

The purchase receipt form must provide space for at least all of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2]:

- The complete names and addresses of the purchaser.
- The complete name of the individual receiving the payment.
- The general location of the franchise involved and the total purchase price.
- The amount of the payment received.
- The complete name and address of the depository with whom the payment will be placed.
- The date of the payment.

Purchase receipts must be consecutively numbered and prepared in triplicate. The original is to be given to the purchaser, the duplicate is to be retained by the franchisor, and the triplicate is to be provided to the depository together with the payment received [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.2].

[c] Operation of Impound Condition

An impound condition is imposed when the Commissioner of Corporations determines that the applicant for franchise registration has not demonstrated that adequate financial arrangements have been made to fulfill obligations to franchisees to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items included in the offering [Corp. Code § 31113]. When an impound condition has been imposed, the franchisor must deposit all franchise fees and other funds obtained from franchisees and subfranchisors within 48 hours after their receipt in a separate trust account with a depository [Corp. Code § 31113; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.113.1, 310.113.3]. The depository must be a national bank located in California or a California bank or trust company. The depository's written consent to act in that capacity must be filed with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.3; see § 51A.231].

For a guide to selling under an impound condition, see § 51A.141.

A franchisor may avoid an impound if an increase in the franchisor's capital shows the financial ability to meet proposed obligations. An impound may also be avoided by an adequate guarantee of performance, together with the guarantor's audited financial statements [see [e], below; see also § 51A.205 (form for guarantee of performance)].

[d] Release of Impound

Funds applicable to a particular franchisee or subfranchisor held in impound may be released on a showing that the franchisor has fulfilled its obligations to that franchisee or subfranchisor under the franchise agreement [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4]. A franchisor with funds held under an impound condition may obtain a release of the funds by filing with the Commissioner of Corporations a request for an order authorizing the release of the impound funds [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4]. For a release request and coverage of the contents of the request, see § 51A.232.

[e] Surety Bond in Lieu of Impound

In lieu of the imposition of an impound condition, a franchisor may post a surety bond in an amount set by the Commissioner and conditioned on the completion by the franchisor of its obligations under the franchise contract to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items included in the offering. The bond must be issued by a corporate surety admitted to transact business in the State of California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.5; see Corp. Code § 31113]. For a form for a guarantee of performance for use in avoiding an impound condition, see § 51A.205.

Under the 1982 Bond and Undertaking Law [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.010 et seq.], an undertaking may be given in place of a bond required by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.210(a)].

§ 51A.232 Request for Order Authorizing Release of Impound Funds to Franchisor [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request for an order to release funds held by a depositary under an impound condition imposed by the Commissioner of Corporations. If an impound condition has been imposed, funds are ordinarily held in impound until the franchisor can demonstrate that it has completely performed its obligations to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items to a particular franchisee or subfranchisor, or until, for other reasons, the impound is no longer required to protect franchisees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4; see Corp. Code § 31113].

Funds are released from impound by filing a request with the Commissioner of Corporations for an order authorizing the release of funds applicable to a particular franchisee or subfranchisor on a showing that all obligations have been performed, or that, for other reasons, the impound is no longer required [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4]. For coverage of the contents of the request for an order, see [b], below.

For a more detailed discussion of the impound condition, see § 51A.230[1].

[b] Contents of Request for Order

A request for an order of the Commissioner authorizing the release of impound funds to the franchisor must contain all of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.113.4]:

- The franchisor's statement that all required proceeds from the sales of franchises have been placed with the depositary in accordance with the impound condition.
- The depositary's statement signed by an appropriate officer of the depositary setting forth the aggregate amount of impound funds placed with the depositary.

■ The name of each franchisee or subfranchisor and the amount held in impound for the account of each franchisee or subfranchisor.

■ A showing that the franchisor, with respect to each franchise for which funds are sought to be released, has completely performed all obligations to provide real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items.

■ Other information that the Commissioner may require in a particular case.

■ A statement signed by the franchisee or subfranchisor that the information is correct.

§ 51A.250 Legend That Must Appear on Certain Franchise Advertisements [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.156.1, 310.156.2]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a required legend that must appear in any advertisement that refers to the registration of franchises under the Franchise Investment Law. The legend, in capital letters of not less than 10-point type, must appear in two types of advertisements. The first type, which must be filed with the Commissioner before their use, must carry this legend if the advertisement refers to registration of the franchise under the Franchise Investment Law [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1(c)]. The second type, referred to as a "communication" because it is expressly excluded from the statutory definition of advertisement [see Corp. Code §§ 31003, 31156], must bear the legend in all cases [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.2]. For the distinction between these two types of franchise advertisements, see § 51A.140, P 1.

Internet advertising in connection with the offer or sale of a franchise is exempt from the requirements of Corp. Code § 31156 for filing advertisements with the Commissioner, if the franchisor files the required notice with the Commissioner and the Internet advertisement meets certain specifications [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.3]. For a complete discussion of these requirements, see § 51A.140 P 1(d).

Any advertisement of a franchise should disclose fairly and accurately the relevant facts concerning the franchise, its terms and conditions, and the material rights and liabilities created under the franchise in such a manner that the advertisement will not be misleading. Specifically, there should be no statement or inference that the franchise is a safe investment, that failure is unlikely or impossible, or that earnings or profits are assured [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1(a)]. Earnings claims must conform to Item 19 of the offering circular prescribed by the Uniform Franchise Registration Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1(b); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111(b); see also § 51A.209[2]].

In addition, if the advertisement contains any endorsement or recommendation of the franchises by any public figure, whether express or implied, full disclosure must be made of any compensation or other benefit given or promised by the franchisor or any person associated with the franchisor to that person, directly or indirectly. These disclosures must be made in the same document, or as part of the same radio or television program without any intermission or other intervening material, in which the advertisement appears [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1(e)]. Any advertisement ordinarily should contain the name and address of the person placing the advertisement [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1(d)]. If the advertisement refers to a tax exemption or tax reduction, the statement should be based on an opinion of counsel and that person's name should be stated in the advertisement [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.156.1(f)].

[c] Federal Requirements for Earnings Claims

The FTC's Franchise Rule [26 C.F.R. pt. 436] permits a franchisor to provide information about the actual or potential financial performance of its franchised and/or franchisor-owned outlets, if there is a reasonable basis for the information, and if the information is included in the disclosure document [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)]. Financial performance information that differs from that included in Item 19 of the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (UFDD) [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s); see § 51A.209[2]] may be given only if a franchisor [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(1)]:

- Provides the actual records of an existing outlet you are considering buying; or
- Supplements the information provided in Item 19, for example, by providing information about possible performance at a particular location or under particular circumstances.

If a franchisor does not provide any financial performance representation, as required in Item 19, the franchisor must also state [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(2)]:

We do not make any representations about a franchisee's future financial performance or the past financial performance of company-owned or franchised outlets. We also do not authorize our employees or representatives to make any such representations either orally or in writing. If you are purchasing an existing outlet, however, we may provide you with the actual records of that outlet. If you receive any other financial performance information or projections of your future income, you should report it to the franchisor's management by contacting [name, address, and telephone number], the Federal Trade Commission, and the appropriate state regulatory agencies.

If the franchisor makes any financial performance representation to prospective franchisees, the franchisor must have a reasonable basis and written substantiation for the representation at the time the representation is made and must state the representation in the Item 19 disclosure [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(3)]. The franchisor must also disclose additional specified information [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(3); see 16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(4) (exception)].

In addition to the financial performance information provided in UFDD, the franchisor may deliver to a prospective franchisee a supplemental financial performance representation about a particular location or variation, apart from the disclosure document [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(5)]. The supplemental representation must [16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(5)(i)-(iii)]:

- Be in writing.
- Explain the departure from the financial performance representation in the disclosure document.
- Be prepared, as specified [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(3)(i)-(iv)].

Additionally, it is an unfair or deceptive act or practice [see 15 U.S.C. § 45 (definition)], to disseminate any financial performance representations to prospective franchisees unless the franchisor has a reasonable basis and written substantiation for the representation at the time the representation is made, and the representation is included in Item 19 of the franchisor's disclosure document [16 C.F.R. § 436.9(c)]. In conjunction with a financial performance representation, the franchise seller must also disclose additional specified information [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.5(s)(3)(ii)(B), (E)], if the representation relates to the past performance of the franchisor's outlets, and include a clear and conspicuous admonition that a new franchisee's individual financial results may differ from the result stated in the financial performance representation [16 C.F.R. § 436.9(c)].

Finally, it is an unfair or deceptive act or practice [see 15 U.S.C. § 45 (definition)], to fail to make available to prospective franchisees, and to the Federal Trade Commission on reasonable request, written substantiation for any financial performance representations made in UFDD, Item 19 [16 C.F.R. § 436.9(d)].

§ 51A.251 Request for Interpretive Opinion [Corp. Code §§ 31510, 31511; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request for issuance of an interpretive opinion from the Commissioner of Corporations, that may be granted in the Commissioner's discretion [Corp. Code § 31510]. Interpretive opinions are issued through the Office of Policy to provide a procedure by which members of the public can protect themselves against liability for acts done or omitted in good faith in reliance on the determination of the Commissioner with respect to an interpretation of the Franchise Investment Law or the rules adopted under the Law. Interpretive opinions are applicable only to the specific transaction identified and may not be relied on in connection with any other transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12(a)]. These opinions are issued only when the Commissioner does not assert jurisdiction over a particular transaction. When the Commissioner does assert jurisdiction with respect to a particular instance or determines that a legal requirement is applicable to a specific set of circumstances, the letter containing that advice is not an interpretive opinion, and cannot be relied on by the requesting party [Dep't of Corp. Release No. 61-C (revised Sept. 30, 1999), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. A-4 (Matthew Bender); see also Dep't of Corp. Release No. 7-F (June 25, 1980), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. C-4 (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Contents of Request

The request must be addressed in writing to the Commissioner of Corporations at the Department of Corporations and should state that an interpretive opinion is requested. A request must contain all the relevant information needed for issuance of an opinion and should present the views of the attorney making the request with respect to the legal questions presented [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12; Dept. of Corp. Release No. 61-C (revised Sept. 30, 1999), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. A-4 (Matthew Bender); see also Dept. of Corp. Release No. 7-F (June 25, 1980), reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, App. C-4 (Matthew Bender)].

[c] Indexing and Availability of Opinions

The names of the persons concerning whom an interpretive opinion is requested are indexed in the Central Index of the Department of Corporations located in the Los Angeles office [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12(b)]. Interpretive opinions, unless held confidential [see [d], below], are among the records that are subject to public inspection and copying during the Department's regular business hours [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.9, 250.9.1(e)]. Copies of published interpretive opinions relating to franchise investment law are reproduced in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Appendix C-4, (Matthew Bender).

Annotations of the Commissioner's opinions may be found in Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws (Matthew Bender).

[d] Confidential Treatment of Requests and Replies

An interpretive opinion and the request for the opinion are normally available for public inspection [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.9, 250.9.1(e)]. However, the Commissioner may afford confidential treatment to certain information on request if, in the Commissioner's opinion, the public inspection of the information is not necessary, and if the requesting party can reasonably show that the information meets specified requirements [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.10(a), 250.12(c); see § 51A.211[1][b]]. Confidential information held by the Commissioner will not be disclosed unless a state or federal agency lawfully requests the information, an investigation requires its disclosure, or the Commissioner determines confidential treatment is no longer justified [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5(a)].

REQUEST FOR AN INTERPRETIVE OPINION

PURSUANT TO CORP. CODE § 31510 [AND FOR THE CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT OF THIS REQUEST AND THE REPLY]

1. Names of Interested Persons

The persons concerning whom an interpretive opinion is requested are as follows: _____ [include names of all natural persons and entities involved in the proposed transaction, along with identification of those who may rely on the interpretation, e.g., possible franchisor].

2. Facts and Circumstances

_____ [State fully, e.g., Gasohol Corporation, a California Corporation, has developed an automobile service system that provides for "while-you-wait" warranted automotive tuneup and emissions control services emphasizing convenience to the customer. This system is contained in a series of copyrighted shop manuals and is designated "Super Tune," a name protected by registration with the United States Patent Office.

Gasohol Corporation proposes to franchise its service station dealers, affording them an opportunity to specialize in the performance of services under the "Super Tune" system. As now structured, the service concept is intended to be separate from the relationship of petroleum supplier/retailer dealer presently existing between Gasohol Corporation and its service station dealers.

Gasohol Corporation is currently exempted by the provisions of Corp. Code § 31101 from having to register its petroleum agreements with service station franchisees. Gasohol will continue to provide prospective franchisees with the disclosures required by Corp. Code § 31101(c), including disclosures concerning "Super Tune." According to its most recent audited financial statement, Gasohol Corporation has a net worth in excess of $5 billion. Gasohol has had at least 25 franchisees conducting business during the past five years.]

3. Legal Question

[E.g., Is the offer and sale of the "Super Tune" system described above by Gasohol Corporation a franchise exempt from registration under the Franchise Investment Law because the transaction satisfies all the conditions of Corp. Code § 31101, in particular the experience requirement of subdivision (b) of that Section?]

4. Opinion of Counsel

_____[E.g., It is my opinion that the proposed offer and sale of the "Super Tune" franchise system by Gasohol Corporation is exempt from registration because the franchisor satisfies all conditions of Corp. Code § 31101. In particular, subdivision (b) of that Section, which sets forth the scope of operations test, permits that test to be satisfied by the franchisor either having had at least 25 franchisees conducting business at all times during the five-year period immediately preceding the offer or sale or having conducted the business that is the subject of the franchise continuously for not less than five years preceding the offer or sale. Since the Legislature omitted any requirement in the first alternative that the franchisees must have conducted the business which is the subject of the proposed franchise, it must be assumed that the Legislature intended that five years of franchising experience was sufficient to meet the scope of operations test.]

[Optional]

5. Request for Confidential Treatment

[State facts that would justify confidential treatment (see § 51A.211[1][b]).]

§ 51A.252 Notice of Franchisor's Registration Violation of Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31303; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of violation of the Franchise Investment Law to be given to a franchisee by a franchisor to shorten the time within which the franchisee may bring an action, when the franchisor has violated Corp. Code § 31110 or 31200 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303; see Corp. Code § 31303]. The form also contains a mandatory introductory letter to the Commissioner of Corporations, seeking approval of the notice of violation.

Corp. Code § 31110 makes it unlawful for any person to offer or sell a franchise in California unless the offer of the franchise has been registered under the Franchise Investment Law or is exempt from registration [Corp. Code § 31110]. Corp. Code § 31200 makes it unlawful for any person to willfully make an untrue statement of a material fact in an application, notice, or report filed with the Commissioner of Corporations under the Franchise Investment Law or to willfully omit to state a material fact in any application, notice, or report [Corp. Code § 31200]. A franchisor who sells a franchise in violation of either statute is liable to the franchisee for the damages caused by the violation. If the violation is willful, the franchisee may also sue for rescission [Corp. Code § 31300].

The purpose of this notice is to shorten to 90 days the time period within which the franchisee may bring an action to enforce remedies for the violation. In the absence of the giving of a proper notice of the violation to the franchisee, the franchisee may bring action within four years after the act or transaction constituting the violation or within one year after discovery of the fact constituting the violation, whichever is shorter [Corp. Code § 31303; see People ex rel. Department of Corporations v. Speedee Oil Change Systems, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 709, 723-725, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497 (claims for violations of Corp. Code § 31300 were barred by four-year statute; Corp. Code § 31306 constitutes express statement of unequivocal legislative intent that statute of limitations provisions in Corp. Code § 31303 are to be sole controlling limits on time for filing suit under Franchise Investment Law, and therefore delayed discovery or tolling rules did not apply to franchisees' causes of action)].

[b] Form and Contents of Notice

To obtain approval of a notice of violation, a franchisor must file an application for approval with the Commissioner of Corporations in letter form. The franchisor must attach to the application as an exhibit a form of the written notice for which the Commissioner's approval is requested [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303]. This form contains the introductory letter to the Commissioner as well as the required notice of violation.

The notice of violation must contain all of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303]:

- A prescribed legend, in capital letters of not less than 10-point type and printed in a contrasting color or type, that the notice of violation has been approved by the Commissioner only as to form [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303(a)].
- The name and address of each party to whom the notice is to be directed. An attached list of names may be used.
- A statement regarding how the violation of Corp. Code § 31303 occurred, including identification of the transaction involved and the relevant parties, identification of the specific Corporations Code section violated, and an explanation of the liability of the franchisor and/or subfranchisor to the franchisee under that section.
- Information regarding the franchisor that is material and pertinent to the franchisee [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303(d)].
- A statement indicating the franchisee's right of action, if any, under Corp. Code § 31300, together with the statement that no action may be brought later than 90 days after delivery of the notice.
- A complete statement setting forth the text of Corp. Code § 31303.
- The notice must not be subject to any condition not authorized by Corp. Code § 31303.

The franchisor sending this notice should provide for a means of delivery that will allow for ascertaining the time of delivery to the franchisee. When the notice is submitted to the Commissioner for approval, the applicant should indicate the method of delivery that will be used [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.303].

§ 51A.253 Notice of Franchisor's Misrepresentation Violation of Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31304; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of violation of the Franchise Investment Law to be given to a franchisee by a franchisor to shorten the time within which the franchisee may bring an action, when the franchisor has violated Corp. Code §§ 31201 or 31202 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304; see Corp. Code § 31304]. The form also contains a mandatory introductory letter to the Commissioner of Corporations, seeking approval of the notice of violation.

Corp. Code § 31201 makes it unlawful for any person to offer or sell a franchise in California by means of a written or oral communication not listed in Corp. Code § 31200 that includes an untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary to make the statements not misleading [Corp. Code § 31201]. Corp. Code § 31202 makes it unlawful for any person willfully to make an untrue statement of a material fact in a statement required to be disclosed in writing under Corp. Code § 31101, or willfully to omit to state in any such statement any material fact that is required to be stated [Corp. Code § 31201]. A franchisor who sells a franchise in violation of Corp. Code § 31202 is liable to the franchisee for the damages caused by the violation and, if the violation is willful, the franchisee may also sue for rescission [Corp. Code § 31300]. A franchisor who violates Corp. Code § 31201 is liable for damages to any person who, while relying on the untruth or omission, purchased a franchise, unless the franchisor proves that the injured party knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission or that the franchisor exercised reasonable care and did not know of the untruth or omission [Corp. Code § 31301].

The purpose of this notice is to shorten to 90 days the time within which the franchisee may bring an action to enforce remedies for the violation. In the absence of the giving of a proper notice of the violation to the franchisee, the franchisee may bring action within two years after the act or transaction constituting the violation or within one year after discovery of the fact constituting the violation, whichever is shorter [Corp. Code § 31304; see People ex rel. Department of Corporations v. Speedee Oil Change Systems, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 709, 723-725, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497 (claims for Corp. Code § 31201 violations were barred by two-year statute; Corp. Code § 31306 constitutes express statement of unequivocal legislative intent that statute of limitations provisions in Corp. Code § 31304 are to be sole controlling limits on time for filing suit under Franchise Investment Law, and therefore delayed discovery or tolling rules did not apply to franchisees' causes of action)].

To obtain approval of a notice of violation, a franchisor must file an application for approval with the Commissioner of Corporations in letter form. The franchisor must attach to the application as an exhibit a form of the written notice for which the Commissioner's approval is requested [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304]. This form contains the introductory letter to the Commissioner as well as the required notice of violation.

The notice of violation must contain all of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304]:

- A prescribed legend, in capital letters of not less than 10-point type and printed in a contrasting color or type, that the notice of violation has been approved by the Commissioner only as to form [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304(a)].
- The name and address of each party to whom the notice is to be directed. An attached list of names may be used.
- A statement regarding how the violation of Corp. Code § 31304 occurred, including identification of the transaction involved and the relevant parties, identification of the specific Corporations Code section violated, and an explanation of the liability of the franchisor and/or subfranchisor to the franchisee under that section.
- Information regarding the franchisor that is material and pertinent to the franchisee [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304(d)].
- A statement indicating the franchisee's right of action, if any, under Corp. Code § 31301, together with the statement that no action may be brought later than 90 days after delivery of the notice.
- A complete statement setting forth the text of Corp. Code § 31304.

The notice must not be subject to any condition not authorized by Corp. Code § 31304 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304(g)].

The franchisor sending this notice should provide for a means of delivery that will allow for ascertaining the time of delivery to the franchisee. When the notice is submitted to the Commissioner for approval, the applicant should indicate the method of delivery that will be used [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.304].

CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers the sale of goods under Article 2 of the Uniform Commercial Code ("UCC") as enacted in California [see Com. Code § 2101 et seq.]. The scope of Article 2 of the UCC is limited to transactions in goods. It does not apply to transactions intended to operate as security transactions [Com. Code § 2102; see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions].

The Legal Background of this chapter is intended to provide a broad overview of the statutory framework governing sales. More specific discussions of the provisions governing particular transactions appear in the comments to the forms covering those transactions. In this chapter the term "Uniform Commercial Code" ("UCC") refers to the model legislation, while the term "Commercial Code" refers to the California version of that model legislation.

This chapter does not discuss the specific disclosures that must be made with respect to consumer credit sales, or the statutes that govern those sales. The federal Truth in Lending Act [15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.] and the Unruh Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.] are covered in Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales. Disclosures required in motor vehicle sales, including those required under the Rees-Levering Act [see Civ. Code §§ 2981-2984.4], are discussed in Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.10

§ 52.10 Nature of the Uniform Commercial Code

The Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) has been adopted in all states except Louisiana. It regulates most commercial transactions under a comprehensive scheme that is basically consistent throughout the United States, although most states have amended the uniform law slightly [Taylor, Uniformity of Commercial Law and State-by-State Enactment: A Confluence of Contradictions, 30 Hastings L.J. 337, 341 (1978); see, e.g., Com. Code § 2326 (which adds a P (4) regarding consumer goods which is not part of UCC § 2326)].

The UCC is a "code" in the strict sense. That is, it is intended to be preemptive, comprehensive, and systematic. It is assumed to carry within it the answers to all questions concerning the types of commercial transactions governed by its provisions [see Hart & Willier, Forms and Procedures Under the UCC, Article 1, General Provisions, Part 2, Effect of Article I Upon Commercial Transactions, PP 12.01, 12.02 (Matthew Bender); Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 1, Introduction, § 1.01 (Matthew Bender); Gilmore, Legal Realism: Its Cause and Cure 70 Yale L.J. 1037, 1043 (1961)]. The Commercial Code is a general act intended as a unified coverage of its subject matter. [Com. Code § 1104] As a true code, the Commercial Code contains general safety-valve provisions [see, e.g., Com. Code § 1304 (obligation of good faith in performance or enforcement of contracts and duties under Code)] as well as more specific provisions. The different Articles (called Divisions in the California Commercial Code) are integrated, and reference back and forth between Articles may be necessary to fully understand some situations. For example, the Article 9 [see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions] security interest claims of creditors against goods in the hands of an insolvent buyer must be weighed against the Article 2 reliance-based claims of the seller [see Com. Code § 2702; for further discussion, see Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 1, Introduction, § 1.01; Ch. 13, Remedies of the Seller, § 13.03[4] (Matthew Bender)].

§ 52.11 Purpose and Construction of the Uniform Commercial Code

The UCC is to be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies [Com. Code § 1103(a)]. Those purposes and policies are as follows [Com. Code § 1103(a)(1)-(3)]:

- To simplify, clarify, and modernize the law governing commercial transactions.
- To allow the continued expansion of commercial practices through custom, usage, and agreement of the parties.
- To standardize the law among the different jurisdictions.

Parties to transactions governed by the Commercial Code may agree to vary the effects of the Code unless there is a specific provision to the contrary [Com. Code § 1302(a)]. While the obligations of good faith, diligence, reasonableness, and care may not be disclaimed by agreement, the parties may, by agreement, determine the standards by which the performance of those obligations will be measured, provided those standards are not manifestly unreasonable [Com. Code § 1302(b)].

§ 52.12 Applicable Law in California

Article 2 of the UCC has been enacted in California as Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801]. The full title of that division is "Uniform Commercial Code-Sales" [Com. Code § 2101].

Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801] applies to "transactions in goods" [Com. Code § 2102]. It does not apply to any transaction intended to operate as a security transaction [see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions], even if that transaction is in the form of a present sale or an unconditional contract to sell. It does not limit any statute regulating sales to consumers, farmers, or other specified classes of buyers [Com. Code § 2102].

§ 52.13 Definitions

[1] Importance of Definitions

Because the Commercial Code is a comprehensive statutory scheme for dealing with the sale of goods, it must be consulted for all aspects of sales, including definitions of the terms appearing in its provisions. Effective use of the Code and of this chapter is impossible without close attention to these definitions. For example, to fully understand the definition of "goods" discussed in [2], below, it is necessary to look up several defined terms, among them "identification," defined in Com. Code § 2501 [see § 52.284[1]].

[2] "Sale," "Goods," and "Contract for Sale"

For purposes of the Commercial Code, a "sale" exists when the title to goods passes from the seller to the buyer for a price [Com. Code § 2106(1)]. In Division 2 of the Commercial Code, the definitions of "contract" and "agreement" are limited to contracts or agreements for the sale of goods. A "contract for sale" includes both a present sale of goods and a contract to sell goods at a future time. A "present sale" is a sale that is accomplished by the making of the contract (as opposed to a contract that does not presently accomplish a sale but merely agrees that there will be a sale in the future) [Com. Code § 2106(1)].

The term "goods" means all things (including specially manufactured goods) that are movable at the time of identification [see Com. Code § 2501; see also § 52.284[1]] to the contract for sale other than the money in which the price is to be paid, investment securities, and things in action [Com. Code § 2105(1)]. "Goods" also includes the unborn young of animals, growing crops, and other identified things attached to realty as described in Com. Code § 2107 [Com. Code § 2105(1)], such as minerals, structures and materials, timber, and other items that may be severed from realty without material harm to it [Com. Code § 2107].

Goods must be both existing and identified before any interest in them can pass [Com. Code § 2105(2)]. Goods that are not both existing and identified are "future" goods. A purported present sale of future goods or of any interest in them operates as a contract to sell (as opposed to a present sale) [Com. Code § 2105(2)].

[3] "Buyer" and "Seller"

A "buyer" is a person who buys or contracts to buy goods [Com. Code § 2103(1)(a)], and a "seller" is a person who sells or contracts to sell goods [Com. Code § 2103(1)(d)]. A "person in the position of a seller" is anyone who holds a security interest or other right in goods similar to that of a seller. With respect to a principal, this includes an agent who has paid or become responsible for the price of goods on behalf of his or her principal [Com. Code § 2707(1)].

The special rules governing sales involving merchants illustrate the importance of correctly understanding Commercial Code terminology before beginning to apply its provisions. Many times, which rule applies to a particular transaction depends on whether the parties are merchants. For example, whether a sale is "between merchants" [Com. Code § 2104(1)] determines whether additional terms in an acceptance to an offer require an answer of objection in order to be effectively rejected [Com. Code § 2207].

A "merchant" is a person who deals in goods of the kind or who otherwise by occupation holds himself or herself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to the practices or goods involved in the transaction, or to whom that knowledge or skill may be attributed by his or her employment of an agent or broker or other intermediary who by occupation holds himself or herself out as having that knowledge or skill [Com. Code § 2104(1)]. A transaction is "between merchants" if both parties are chargeable with the knowledge or skill of merchants [Com. Code § 2104(3)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.14

§ 52.14 Formation of Contracts

[1] In General

The Commercial Code takes a practical and informal approach toward the question of when a binding contract is formed, and the statutory scheme reflects business practice. A contract for the sale of goods may be made in any manner sufficient to show agreement (subject to the statute of frauds) [see Com. Code § 2201; see also [3], below], including conduct by both parties that recognizes the existence of a contract [Com. Code § 2204(1)]. An agreement sufficient to constitute a contract for sale may be found to exist although the precise time at which it was made is undetermined [Com. Code § 2204(2)]. Thus, for example, if the parties' correspondence does not disclose exactly when their deal was closed, but their actions show that a binding obligation has been undertaken, a contract exists [Com. Code § 2204, comment 2].

Even though one or more terms are left open, a contract for sale does not fail for indefiniteness if the parties have intended to make a contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for giving an appropriate remedy [Com. Code § 2204(3)]. A contract that meets this requirement is not made invalid because it leaves particulars of performance to be specified by one of the parties [Com. Code § 2311(1); see § 52.15[8]; see also §§ 52.223, 52.224, and 52.264].

[2] Parol Evidence

If the confirmatory memoranda of the parties agree on certain terms, or if those terms are set forth in a writing intended by the parties as a final expression of their agreement on the included terms, then those terms may not be contradicted by evidence of any prior agreement or of a contemporaneous oral agreement. However, these terms may be explained or supplemented by:

- Course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade [Com. Code § 2202(a); see Com. Code § 1303 (definitions and application); e.g., Mohave Valley Irrigation & Drainage v. Norton (9th Cir. 2001) 244 F.3d 1164, 151 L. Ed. 2d 539 (minutes of board of directors meeting was not evidence of course of mutual conduct, trade usage, or performance, and thus could not be considered to interpret contract)].
- Consistent additional terms, unless the court finds the writing was intended as a complete and exclusive statement of terms of the agreement [Com. Code § 2202(b)].

To ensure a finding that the writing was intended as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement, it is advisable to include a merger (or integration) clause. An integrated agreement is one adopted by the parties as a final, complete, and exclusive statement of the terms of their agreement [Restatement (Second) of Contracts §§ 209(1), 210(1)]. An express statement of integration is called a "merger clause" or an "integration clause." A merger clause agreed to by both parties is generally conclusive on the issue of integration [Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 216 comment e]. For further discussion and a representative merger or integration clause that excludes parol evidence, see § 52.354 (form).

[3] Statute of Frauds

If applicable to a transaction governed by the Commercial Code, the statute of frauds operates informally and in conformity with business practice. Generally, a contract for the sale of goods for the price of $500 or more is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless there is some writing sufficient to indicate that a contract for sale has been made between the parties and signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought, or by his or her authorized agent or broker [Com. Code § 2201(1); see Com. Code § 1201(b)(37) "signed" defined; Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 277-278, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (car dealership's printed name appearing in newspaper advertisement constituted signature satisfying statute of frauds); see also Com. Code § 2201(4) (exception for qualified financial contract); Civ. Code § 1624(b)(2) ("qualified financial contract" defined)]. However, the writing need only contain the term of the agreement mentioning the quantity of goods [Com. Code § 2201(1)]. All other terms may be omitted from the writing [Com. Code § 2201, comment 1].

Special rules apply between merchants [see Com. Code § 2201 (definition); see also § 52.13[4]]. Even without a writing signed by the party to be charged, the statute of frauds is satisfied if, within a reasonable time from the date on which an agreement was reached, a writing in confirmation of the contract and sufficient against the sender is received and the party receiving it has reason to know its contents, unless the receiving party gives written notice of objection to the contents of the confirmation within 10 days after it is received [Com. Code § 2201(2)].

A contract that is not in writing but is otherwise valid is enforceable in the following situations:

- The goods are to be specially manufactured for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business, and the seller, before notice of repudiation is received and under circumstances which reasonably indicate that the goods are for the buyer, has either made substantial commitments toward procuring those goods or has substantially commenced their manufacture [Com. Code § 2201(3)(a)].
- Payment for the goods has been made and accepted or the goods have been received and accepted [Com. Code § 2201(3)(c)].

[4] Offers

The Commercial Code also brings legal concepts into conformity with business practices with respect to offers. At common law, offers could be revoked unless supported by consideration [Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 3, Offer and Acceptance: Conflicting Terms in Responsive Document, § 3.01 (Matthew Bender); Keyes, Cause and Consideration in California--A Re-Appraisal, 47 Cal. L. Rev. 74, 83-84 (1959)]. This principle was out of step with the business world, in which a merchant must rely on another's promise that an offer will remain open. Accordingly, Com. Code § 2205(a) provides that a merchant's offer to buy or sell goods is not revocable for lack of consideration if the offer is in a signed writing and if the offer by its terms gives assurance that it will be held open. An offer so made is not revocable for lack of consideration during the time stated, or if no time is stated, for a reasonable time. In no event may the period of irrevocability exceed three months [see discussion in § 52.220[1][b]-[d]].

An oral or written offer by a merchant to supply goods to a licensed contractor is irrevocable if the merchant has actual or imputed knowledge that the contractor is licensed and that the contractor will rely on the offer in submitting a bid for a construction contract. No consideration is necessary. The offer will be held open for 10 days after the contract is awarded to the prime contractor, but not for more than 90 days after the merchant made the offer. An oral offer for a price of $2500 or more must be confirmed in writing by the contractor or the contractor's agent within 48 hours. The statutory duration requirements for offers to licensed contractors do not bar a merchant from providing that an offer will be held open for less than the time required by statute [Com. Code § 2205(b)].

[5] Acceptances

Com. Code § 2206 provides that, unless otherwise restricted, offers may be accepted in any reasonable manner and by any reasonable medium (by either a return promise or by performance) [see § 52.221 (form)]. The problems created by acceptances that contain additional or differing terms from the offers are governed by Com. Code § 2207. As a general rule, definite and seasonable acceptance or a written confirmation sent within a reasonable time operates as an acceptance even if it states terms additional to or different from those offered or agreed on, unless acceptance is expressly conditioned on assent to the additional or different terms [Com. Code § 2207(1); see, e.g., PMC Inc. v. Porthole Yachts Ltd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 882, 888-889, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 832 (no acceptance found under Com. Code § 2207(1) because of timing of addendum to agreement sent on last day to accept, contents of addendum containing new term, and cover letter emphasizing conditional nature of acceptance); Textile Unlimited, Inc. v. A..BMH and Co. Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 240 F.3d 781, 787-788 (contract containing new terms, including arbitration clause, not formed under Com. Code § 2207(1) when no specific and unequivocal assent was given to supplemental conditions)]. The additional terms are to be construed as proposals for additions to the contract. Whether particular terms become part of the contract depends on whether the transaction is between merchants [Com. Code § 2207(2); see § 52.222[1][b], [c]].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.15

§ 52.15 Obligations of Parties and Interpretation of Contract

[1] In General

In a sale of goods governed by the Commercial Code, the parties are charged with specific statutory obligations. The seller is obligated to transfer title to the goods and to deliver them in accordance with the terms of the contract. The buyer is obligated to accept those goods and pay for them in accordance with the terms of the contract [Com. Code § 2301]. To determine what is "in accordance with the contract," course of performance, course of dealing, usage of trade, and the general background of circumstances must be given due consideration in conjunction with the lay meaning of the words used to define the scope of the conditions and duties [Com. Code § 2301, comment].

The parties' obligations under specific types of Commercial Code transactions are discussed in the comments to the forms relating to those transactions. For example, output and requirement contracts, including those for exclusive dealing, are discussed in §§ 52.204[1] and 52.205[1]; warranties are discussed in §§ 52.290[1]-52.297[1]; and the Code provisions concerning sales on approval and sales or returns [see Com. Code §§ 2326, 2327] are discussed in § 52.282[1].

[2] Course of Performance, Course of Dealing, Usage of Trade

Terms contained in the parties' final agreement or in the parties' confirmatory memoranda may not be contradicted by evidence of any prior agreement or of a contemporaneous oral agreement [Com. Code § 2202(a); see § 54.14[2]]. However the final agreement or confirmatory memoranda may be explained or supplemented by course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade [Com. Code § 2202(a); see Com. Code § 1303(a)-(c) (definitions)].

A course of performance or course of dealing between the parties, or usage of trade in the vocation or trade in which the parties are engaged (or of which they are or should be aware), is relevant in ascertaining the meaning of the parties' agreement [Com. Code § 1303(d); see, e.g., Insurance Co. of No. Am. v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115 (under former Com. Code § 1205(1), now Com. Code § 1303(a), receipt of 47 identical invoices for 47 separate transactions was sufficient to constitute course of dealing, modifying shipping agreement)]. A course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade may give particular meaning to specific terms of the agreement, and may supplement or qualify the terms of the agreement [Com. Code § 1303(d); see Com.

Code § 2202(a)]. Localized usage of trade may give particular meaning to a part of performance under the agreement that occurs in that place [Com. Code § 1303(d)].

With limited exceptions [see Com. Code § 1303(f)], the express terms of an agreement and any applicable course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade must be construed whenever reasonable as consistent with each other [Com. Code § 1303(e)]. If that construction is unreasonable, the following rules apply [Com. Code § 1303(e)(1)-(3)]:

- Express terms prevail over course of performance, course of dealing, and usage of trade.
- Course of performance prevails over course of dealing and usage of trade.
- Course of dealing prevails over usage of trade.

Subject to Com. Code § 2209 governing modification or rescission, a course of performance is relevant to show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with the course of performance [Com. Code § 1303(f)]. For further discussion of modification and waiver, see § 52.16.

Evidence of a relevant usage of trade offered by one party is not admissible unless that party has given the other party notice that the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise to the other party [Com. Code § 1303(g)].

[3] Allocation of Risk

When the Commercial Code allocates a risk or burden between the parties "unless otherwise agreed" [see, e.g., Com. Code § 2509 (risk of loss in the absence of breach of contract)], the agreement may not only shift the allocation, but may also divide the risk or burden [Com. Code § 2303]. However, the right of the parties to shift, divide, or allocate the risk is subject to the provisions of the Civil Code on unconscionability of contracts [Com. Code § 2303, comment 1; see Civ. Code § 1670.5 (court may deny or limit enforcement of contract found to be unconscionable as a matter of law)].

[4] Price

The contract price of goods may be made payable in money or otherwise, including goods or realty. If the price is payable in whole or part in goods, then each party is deemed to be a "seller" of the goods he or she is to transfer [Com. Code § 2304(1); see § 52.13[3]]. If all or part of the price is payable by an interest in realty, the transfer of the goods and the seller's obligations concerning the goods are governed by Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Commercial Code §§ 2101-2801], but the transfer of the realty is not covered, nor are the transferor's obligations in connection with that transfer [Com. Code § 2304(2)]. The parties may conclude a contract for sale even when the price is not settled [Com. Code § 2305(1)]. For discussion of setting the contract price, see § 52.230[1]. For discussion of the time for payment under the contract, see [7], below.

[5] Delivery

Com. Code §§ 2307-2310 define the delivery obligations of parties by specifying delivery provisions when the parties do not otherwise agree. In general, these sections make the following provisions for delivery:

- All goods called for by a contract for sale must be tendered in a single delivery, and payment is due only on that tender [Com. Code § 2307].
- The place for delivery is the seller's place of business, or if he or she has none, his or her residence [Com. Code § 2308(a)].

- The time for shipment or delivery will be a reasonable time [Com. Code § 2309(1)].

The parties are free, of course, to vary these provisions by contracting otherwise. One way to specify delivery requirements is with standard shipping terms and abbreviations, such as "F.O.B.," discussed in [6], below.

Under Civ. Code § 1722, if a contract for the sale of merchandise to a consumer by a retailer with 25 or more employees requires the presence of the consumer at the time of delivery, the delivery must be made within a designated four-hour period [Civ. Code § 1722(a)(1)]. Failure to deliver within the specified time gives rise to an action for the buyer's damages in small claims court [see Civ. Code § 1722(a)(2)]. For further discussion of time of delivery in general and contract clauses addressing the effect of Civ. Code § 1722, see § 52.250[1].

For discussion of delivery and payment in single or several installments, see § 52.234[1]. For discussion of the place for delivery of goods, see § 52.251[1]. For discussion of shipments under reservation of a security interest [see Com. Code § 2310(b)], see § 52.265[1].

[6] Shipping Terminology

Contracts covering commercial sales transactions often use certain standard shipping terms and abbreviations to specify delivery arrangements. Com. Code §§ 2319-2324 define shipping terms such as F.A.S. [see Com. Code § 2319 (delivery free alongside)] and C.I.F. [see Com. Code § 2320 (lump sum price includes cost of goods, insurance, and freight to named destination)], and explain the requirements attaching to the use of these terms. For discussion of these definitions and requirements, see § 52.124 PP 3, 4, and §§ 52.253[1]-52.259[1].

[7] Time Provisions

The Commercial Code sections governing time provisions [see, e.g., Com. Code §§ 2309, 2310], like the sections on delivery obligations [see [5], above], provide certain rules that apply unless the parties agree otherwise. For example, the time for shipment or delivery or any other action under a contract will be a reasonable time unless otherwise agreed or otherwise provided in Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2309(1); see § 52.250]. A contract of indefinite duration that provides for successive performances will remain in effect for a reasonable time but may be terminated at any time by either party [Com. Code § 2309(2)]. However, termination of a contract by one party requires reasonable notice, except when the termination is on the happening of an agreed event [Com. Code § 2309(3); see § 52.232[1]; see also § 52.474[1]].

Similar rules apply to time of payment. For example, unless otherwise agreed, payment is due at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive the goods, even though the place of shipment is the place of delivery [Com. Code § 2310(a)]. However, if delivery is authorized and made by way of documents of title, then payment is due, regardless of where the goods are to be received, either (1) at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive delivery of the tangible documents or (2) at the time the buyer is to receive delivery of the electronic documents and at the seller's place of business or, if none, the seller's residence, unless the parties otherwise agree [Com. Code § 2310(c)]. For coverage of the special rule that applies to the tender of documents of title when goods are shipped under reservation [Com. Code § 2310(b); see Com. Code § 2505 (shipment by seller with reservation of security interest in goods)], see § 52.265[1].

A contract that is otherwise sufficiently definite [see Com. Code § 2204(3); § 52.14[1]] to be a contract is not made invalid because it leaves particulars of performance to be specified by one of the parties. However, the specification of the particulars of performance must be made in good faith and within limits set by commercial reasonableness [Com. Code § 2311(1); see § 52.223[1]]. Unless otherwise agreed, specifications relating to assortment of the goods are to be determined by the buyer and, except for certain shipments F.A.S. or F.O.B. [see Com. Code § 2319; see also § 52.124

PP 3, 4; § 52.253], specifications or arrangements relating to shipment are to be determined by the seller [Com. Code § 2311(2)]. For a discussion of remedies available for the failure to seasonably specify or the failure to seasonably provide necessary cooperation [Com. Code § 2311(3)], see § 52.440[1].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.16

§ 52.16 Modification, Rescission, and Waiver

An agreement modifying a contract that is governed by Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801] needs no consideration to be binding [Com. Code § 2209(1)]. A signed agreement that excludes modification or rescission except by a signed writing cannot be otherwise modified or rescinded; but, except when the transaction is one between merchants [see Com. Code § 2104; see also § 52.13[4]], the writing evidencing the rescission or modification must be separately signed by the other party [Com. Code § 2209(2)]. In addition, a contract modification must satisfy the statute of frauds [see Com. Code § 2201; § 52.14[3]] if the contract as modified is within its provisions [Com. Code § 2209(3)].

If an attempted modification does not meet these requirements, it may still operate as a waiver of the contract terms sought to be modified [Com. Code § 2209(4)]. Moreover, a course of performance may be relevant to show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with that course of performance [Com. Code § 1303(f)]. A party who has waived an executory portion of the contract may retract the waiver by reasonable notification, received by the other party, that strict performance of the waived terms will be required [see § 52.430 (form)]. However, a waiver may not be retracted if the retraction would be unjust due to a material change of position in reliance on the waiver [Com. Code § 2209(5)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.17

§ 52.17 Title, Creditors, and Good Faith Purchasers

[1] Passing of Title

The provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 2101-2801] that govern the rights, obligations, and remedies of buyers, sellers, and third parties apply irrespective of title to the goods, unless the provision at issue refers to the title [Com. Code § 2401]. That is, the Commercial Code deals with the issues between buyer and seller in terms of step-by-step performance or nonperformance under the contract of sale and not in terms of whether title to the goods has passed. This means that the title rules provided in Com. Code § 2401 in no way alter the rights declared elsewhere in the Code [Com. Code § 2401, comment 1].

Insofar as situations are not covered by the other provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2101 et seq.] and matters concerning title become material, the following rules apply [Com. Code § 2401]:

- Title to goods cannot pass under a contract prior to their identification to the contract [see Com. Code § 2501(1)], and, unless otherwise explicitly agreed, the buyer acquires by their identification a special property as limited by the Commercial Code.
- Any retention or reservation by the seller of the title in goods shipped or delivered to the buyer is limited in effect to a reservation of a security interest.
- Subject to the two preceding rules, and to the provisions of Division 9-Secured Transactions [see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions], title to goods passes from the seller to the buyer in any manner and on any condition explicitly agreed on by the parties.
- Unless otherwise explicitly agreed, title passes to the buyer at the time and place at which the seller completes performance of the physical delivery of the goods, despite any reservation of a security interest and even though a document of title is to be delivered at a different time or place.
- In particular and despite any reservation of a security interest by the bill of lading, if the contract requires or authorizes the seller to send the goods to the buyer, but does not require the seller to deliver them at destination, title passes to the buyer at the time and place of shipment, but if the contract requires delivery at destination, title passes on tender there.

- Unless otherwise explicitly agreed, when delivery is to be made without moving the goods, if the seller is to deliver a tangible document of title, title passes at the time and place the document of title is delivered, or if the seller is to deliver an electronic document of title, title passes when the seller delivers the document. However, if the goods are already identified at the time of contracting and no documents are to be delivered, title passes at the time and place of contracting.

- A rejection or other refusal by the buyer to receive or retain the goods, whether or not justified, or a justified revocation of acceptance, reverts title to the goods in the seller. This reversion occurs by operation of law and is not a "sale."

[2] Rights of Seller's Creditors

Except as noted below, the rights of unsecured creditors of the seller with respect to goods that have been identified to a contract for sale [see Com. Code § 2501 (definition); see also § 52.284[1]] are subject to the buyer's rights to recover the goods [Com. Code § 2402(1); see Com. Code §§ 2502, 2716 (buyer's right of recovery)]. A creditor may treat a sale or identification [see Com. Code § 2501 (time and manner of identification of goods to contract); see also § 52.284[1]] of goods to a contract for sale as void if, as against that creditor, a retention of possession by the seller is fraudulent under any rule of law of the state where the goods are situated. Retention of possession in good faith and current course of trade by a merchant-seller [see § 52.13[4]] for a commercially reasonable time after a sale or identification is not fraudulent [Com. Code § 2402(2)].

Nothing in Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2101 et seq.] will be deemed to impair the rights of the creditor of the seller under the provisions of Division 9 on secured transactions [Com. Code § 2402(3)(a); see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. The rights of the seller's creditors enjoy the same protection when identification to the contract or delivery is made not in the current course of trade, but in satisfaction of or as security for a pre-existing claim for money, security, or the like and is made under circumstances that under the law of the state where the goods are situated would, apart from Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2101 et seq.], make the transaction a fraudulent transfer or voidable preference [Com. Code § 2402(3)(b)].

[3] Power to Transfer

A purchaser of goods acquires all title that the transferor had or had power to transfer, except that a purchaser of a limited interest acquires rights only to the extent of the interest purchased. A person with voidable title has power to transfer a good title to a good faith purchaser for value. When goods have been delivered as part of a purchase [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(29) ("purchase" includes any voluntary transaction creating an interest in property)], the purchaser has the same power even in the following situations [Com. Code § 2403(1)]:

- The transferor was deceived as to the identity of the purchaser.
- The delivery was in exchange for a check that is later dishonored.
- It was agreed that the transaction was to be a "cash sale".
- The delivery was procured through fraud punishable as larcenous under the criminal law [see, e.g., Penal Code § 484 (theft defined)].

Any "entrusting" of possession of goods to a merchant [see Com. Code § 2104 (definition); see also § 52.13[4] ("merchants" defined)] who deals in goods of that kind gives the merchant power to transfer all rights of the entruster to a buyer in the ordinary course of business [Com. Code § 2403(2); see Gordon v. Hamm (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1324, 1330-1332, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (owners' entrustment of used motor home to dealer did not constitute "disposition" for purposes of former Com. Code § 9306(2); now see Com. Code § 9315(a)(1) which governs creditor's lien; buyers took motor home subject to original owners' lenders' perfected security interest) (decided under prior law)]. "Entrusting" includes any delivery and any acquiescence in retention of possession for the purpose of sale, obtaining offers to purchase, locating a buyer, or the like. This is true regardless of any condition expressed between the parties to the delivery or acquiescence and regardless of whether the procurement of the entrusting or the possessor's disposition of the goods has been larcenous under the criminal law [Com. Code § 2403(3); see Pen. Code § 484 et seq.]. The rights of other purchasers of goods and of lien creditors are governed by Commercial Code Division 9 covering secured transactions [see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; see also Ch. 42, Secured Transactions], Division 6 covering bulk transfers [see Com. Code § 6101 et seq.; see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice], and Division 7 covering documents of title [Com. Code § 2403(4); see Com. Code § 7101 et seq.].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.18

§ 52.18 Remedies

[1] In General

Remedies for the breach of a contract for the sale of goods under the Commercial Code are covered by Com. Code §§ 2701-2725. The provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2101 et seq.] do not impair the remedies for the breach of any obligation or promise collateral or ancillary to a contract for the sale of goods [Com. Code § 2701].

Specific remedies are discussed with the relevant forms in the comments to forms at §§ 52.350[1]-52.358[1] and §§ 52.470[1]-52.482[1]. For further discussion, see §§ 52.133 and 52.150.

[2] Seller's Remedies

When the buyer wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods, or fails to make a payment due on or before delivery, or repudiates a part or the whole contract, then with respect to any goods directly affected and, if the breach is of the whole contract [see Com. Code § 2612 (breach of part of installment contract is breach of whole contract if breach substantially impairs value of whole contract); see also § 52.333[1]], then with respect to the whole undelivered balance the aggrieved seller may do any of the following [Com. Code § 2703]:

- Withhold delivery of the goods [see § 52.478 for a notice of withholding goods].
- Stop delivery by any bailee as provided in Com. Code § 2705 [see § 52.480].
- Identify goods to the contract or resell them under Com. Code § 2704 [see § 52.350].
- Resell the goods and recover the difference between the resale price and the contract price as provided in Com. Code § 2706 [see §§ 52.351 and 52.482].
- Recover damages for nonacceptance [see Com. Code § 2708], or, in a proper case, the price of the goods [see Com. Code § 2709].

- Cancel the contract [see § 52.479 for a notice of cancellation].

[3] Buyer's Remedies

When the seller fails to make delivery or repudiates, or the buyer rightfully rejects or justifiably revokes acceptance, then with respect to any goods involved, and with respect to the whole contract if the breach goes to the whole contract [see Com. Code § 2612 (breach of part of installment contract is breach of whole contract if breach substantially impairs value of whole contract); see also § 52.333[1]], the buyer may cancel the contract [Com. Code § 2711(1)]. Whether or not the buyer cancels, in addition to recovering as much of the price as has been paid, the buyer also may do either of the following:

- Cover [see Com. Code § 2712(1) ("cover" means to make a good faith, reasonable purchase or contract to purchase substitute goods)] and seek the damages allowed after cover [see Com. Code § 2712(2) (damages available to covering buyer after seller's breach include the difference between cost of cover and contract price plus any incidental or consequential damages, minus expenses saved by seller's breach)] as to all the goods affected whether or not they have been identified to the contract [Com. Code § 2711(1)(a)]; or
- Recover damages for nondelivery as provided in Com. Code § 2713 [Com. Code § 2711(1)(b)].

When the seller fails to deliver or repudiates the contract, the buyer may also reach the goods themselves by choosing either of two remedies. If the goods have been identified [see Com. Code § 2501; see also § 52.284], the buyer may recover them as provided in Com. Code § 2502 [Com. Code § 2711(2)(a)]. If the goods are unique, or in other proper circumstances, the buyer may get specific performance of the contract [Com. Code §§ 2716(1), (2), 2711(2)(b)]. If the buyer cannot effect cover, or if the goods were shipped under reservation of a security interest and satisfaction of that interest has been made or tendered, the buyer has a right of replevin for the goods [Com. Code §§ 2716(3), 2711(2)(b)]. In the case of goods brought for personal, family, or household purposes, the buyer's right of replevin vests on the acquisition of a special property, even if the seller had not then repudiated or failed to deliver [Com. Code § 2716(3)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.19

§ 52.19 Discrimination in Sale of Goods

No one in California may be excluded from a business transaction on the basis of a policy expressed in any document or writing and imposed by a third party if that policy requires discrimination against that person on the basis of any characteristic listed in Civ. Code § 51(b) or defined in Civ. Code § 51(e) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16721(a); see Civ. Code § 51(b)] ("All persons within the jurisdiction of this state are free and equal, and no matter what their sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation..."). It is an unlawful trust and an unlawful restraint of trade for a person to enter into transactions for the sale of goods when the contract or other documents involved require such discrimination, and it is similarly unlawful to refuse to grant or accept a letter of credit or other document, or to refuse to enter into a contract for the exchange of goods or services on the ground that the letter, contract, or document does not contain a discriminatory provision [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16721.5(a)(2)].

California's anti-discrimination statutes [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16721(a), 16721.5] are interpreted and applied so as not to conflict with federal law with respect to transactions in the interstate or foreign commerce of the United States to the extent, if any, not preempted by the Export Administration Act of 1969 [50 U.S.C. App. §§ 2401-2413] and any regulations promulgated under that act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16721.6].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.110

§ 52.110 Practical Considerations

1. Determine type of document required by client.

a. Simple contract for sale of goods [see § 52.200].

NOTE:

A simple contract for the sale of goods, like memoranda of sale or bills of sale, is appropriate for use by parties who wish only to specify the basic terms of their agreement (identity of parties, date of delivery, etc.) in a writing and who are willing to let the applicable provisions of the Commercial Code operate to supply the other terms.

b. Memorandum of sale or purchase [see § 52.201].

c. Contract for sale of goods with detailed provisions [see § 52.202].

NOTE:

A contract for the sale of goods with detailed provisions should be used if the parties define most aspects of their transaction and do not rely on the gap-filling provisions of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2305-2311; see also § 52.200[1]].

d. Bill of sale [see § 52.203].

e. Output and requirements contracts [see §§ 52.204, 52.205].

NOTE:

Output contracts measure the quantity of goods to be sold by the output of the seller. Requirements contracts measure the quantity of goods to be purchased by the requirements of the buyer. An output contract is appropriate when it is necessary or important for the seller to be sure that it has a buyer, and a requirements contract is appropriate when the buyer wants to insure a reliable supply of goods.

- f. Contract for sale on consignment with factor [see § 52.206].

NOTE:

A contract for sale on consignment is to be used when the seller wants the actual sale to be handled by an agent.

2. Ascertain client's business needs.

- a. Does potential seller require immediate cash in order to maintain production of goods?

NOTE:

The parties' respective cash requirements may dictate the payments provisions that should be included in the sales contract [see §§ 52.230-52.235].

- b. Does buyer need to make credit arrangements [see §§ 52.231, 52.233]?

- c. Do uncertainties of market require buyer to insure that it will be supplied [see § 52.205] or seller to insure that it will have buyer [see § 52.204]?

- d. Is seller so busy or so inexperienced in the particular market that it wants agent to sell goods [see § 52.206]?

- e. Do choices open to buyer make option more desirable than firm offer [see § 52.220]?

- f. Does pressure to deliver goods to customer require quick reply to offer by specific method?

NOTE:

When the offeror wants to control the manner of indicating acceptance and the medium through which acceptance must be communicated, the offer should so specify. Otherwise, any reasonable manner or medium of acceptance, including performance, may be effective [Com. Code § 2206(1); see § 52.221].

- g. Do uncertainties of market or transaction require some particulars to be left for future specification [see §§ 52.223, 52.224]?

- h. Does structure of buyer's business or location of its premises require particular means or time of delivery [see §§ 52.250-52.265, 52.460-52.462]?

- i. Is client financially unable to bear risk of loss [see §§ 52.280-52.284]?

- j. Does state of the art in client's technical field or financial needs of client require particular warranty to be offered or disclaimed [see §§ 52.290-52.297]?

- k. Do client's business needs suggest special problems for inspection of goods [see §§ 52.310, 52.311]?

(1) Does technical nature of product require tests to see if goods conform to specifications?

(2) Does nature of client's manufacturing process require that inspection include right to install and operate machinery?

(3) Does client's present cash flow require an agreement to allocate expenses of inspection?

NOTE:

Expenses of inspection must be borne by the buyer [Com. Code § 2513(2)], but the parties may vary this rule by agreement [Com. Code § 2513, comment 4; see § 52.311[1]].

l. Does potential financial impact of litigation require provision for arbitration or other limitation or specification of remedies [see §§ 52.350-52.358, 52.470-52.482]?

1. Determine whether articles to be sold are "goods" by considering following factors [see Com. Code § 2105(1) (definition of "goods"); see also § 52.13[2]]:

NOTE:

Com. Code §§ 2101-2801 apply only to transactions in goods [Com. Code § 2102].

a. Be sure articles to be sold are things (including specially manufactured goods) that are movable at time of identification to contract for sale [see Com. Code § 2501; see also § 52.284[1]].

b. Be sure articles to be sold are not:

- (1) Money in which price is to be paid;
- (2) Investment securities; or
- (3) Things in action.

c. Determine whether articles are among those specifically listed as "goods":

(1) Unborn young of animals.

(2) Growing crops and other identified things attached to realty that may be severed from it without material harm, such as [Com. Code § 2107]:

(a) Minerals.

(b) Structures and materials.

The parties may guard against supplementation or qualification of their agreement by including a merger or integration clause [see § 52.354].

a. Course of performance.

b. Course of dealing [*see, e.g., Insurance Co. of No. Am. v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115 (under former Com. Code § 1205(1), now Com. 4. Determine whether express or implied warranties may be disclaimed [see Com. Code § 2316; see also §§ 52.292, 52.295].

5. Determine whether it will be advisable to shift allocation of risk or burden of risk [see Com. Code §§ 2509, 2510; see also §§ 52.15[3], 52.280, 52.281].

6. Determine whether it is advisable to shift terms of payment [see Com. Code §§ 2305, 2307, 2511; see also §§ 52.15[4], 52.230, 52.232, 52.234].

7. Determine advisability of changing place, time, or amount of delivery from those provided by Commercial Code if parties do not agree otherwise [see Com. Code §§ 2307-2309; see also §§ 52.15[5], 52.250, 52.251].

8. Determine whether assignment of rights or delegation of duties should be prohibited [see Com. Code § 2210; §§ 52.356, 52.431].

NOTE:

A party may want to prohibit assignment or delegation when it is relying on the personal performance of the other party, as in transactions in which the judgment, craftsmanship, reputation, or credit of the other party is an important part of the bargain.

9. Determine nature of goods to be sold.

a. Determine whether goods to be sold are "consumer goods" by considering following factors [see Civ. Code § 1791(a); see also §§ 52.128 P 6 and 52.129 P 3]:

(1) Are goods new products or parts of new products used, bought, or leased for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes (except for clothing and consumables)?

(2) Are goods new or used assistive devices sold at retail?

NOTE:

An assistive device is a device used or intended to be used to assist the physically disabled. Prescription lenses and ophthalmic goods do not qualify unless sold or dispensed to the blind [Civ. Code § 1791(s); see Civ. Code § 1793.02].

b. Determine whether goods to be sold are "consumer products" by considering following factors [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(1); see also § 52.128 P 7]:

(1) Is product tangible personal property?

(2) Is it distributed in commerce?

(3) Is it normally used for personal, family, or household purposes?

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.120

§ 52.120 Offer and Acceptance

1. Reduce terms of offer to sell or buy to a writing and either:

a. Include terms of offer in sales contract, or

NOTE:

A written sales contract that includes an offer to buy or sell must also include all other provisions that the parties intend to govern their transaction, particularly if they wish the details of that transaction to vary from the gap-filling provisions of the Commercial Code.

b. Submit written offer to other party.

2. Specify time offer is to remain open [see § 52.220].

3. Specify whether offer is firm (i.e., irrevocable) or revocable at will [Com. Code § 2205; § 52.220].

NOTE:

An offer by a merchant to buy or sell goods in a signed writing that gives assurance that it will be held open is not revocable for lack of consideration during the time stated. If no time is stated, the offer is irrevocable for a reasonable time, but in no event may the period of irrevocability exceed three months [Com. Code § 2205(b)]. Any term of assurance on a form supplied by the offeree must be separately signed by the offeror [Com. Code § 2205(a)]. Offers by nonmerchants require consideration in order to be binding. Even firm offers by merchants require consideration or renewal if they are to last more than three months. For further discussion, including discussion of the irrevocability of a material supplier's offer to a contractor, see § 52.220[1].

4. Specify manner and medium for acceptance [Com. Code § 2206; see § 52.221], such as:

NOTE:

Unless specified, the offer will be construed as inviting acceptance in any manner and by any medium reasonable in the circumstances [Com. Code § 2206(1)(a)]. In addition, unless specified, an order or other offer to buy goods for prompt or current shipment will be construed as inviting acceptance either by a prompt promise to ship or by the prompt or current shipment of conforming or nonconforming goods [Com. Code § 2206(1)(b)].

- a. Return promise.
- b. Performance followed by notice.
- c. Mail.
- d. Telegram.
- e. Email or other electronic communication.

5. If desired, include provision regulating effect of additional or different terms in acceptance [Com. Code § 2207; see, e.g., PMC Inc. v. Porthole Yachts Ltd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 882, 888-889, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 832 (no acceptance found under Com. Code § 2207 due to timing of addendum to agreement sent on last day to accept, contents of addendum which contained new term, and cover letter emphasizing conditional nature of acceptance); see also § 52.222 (clauses controlling effect of additional terms in acceptance)].

NOTE:

Additional or different terms are construed as proposals for addition to the contract [Com. Code § 2207(2)]. Between merchants, those terms become part of the contract unless (1) the offer expressly limits acceptance to the terms of the offer; (2) they materially alter it; or (3) notification of objection to the terms has already been given or is given within a reasonable time after notice of them is received [Com. Code § 2207(2)(a)-(c)].

A decision as to which of the following approaches to adopt depends on the importance, in the offeror's business, of acceptance on exact terms, as opposed to businesses which anticipate that the customer will add his or her individual requirements.

- a. Say nothing as to effect of additional or different terms, and stand prepared to object to undesirable terms; or
- b. Say nothing as to effect of additional or different terms except to disclaim in advance anticipated terms that would be entirely unacceptable; otherwise, stand prepared to object to undesirable terms; or
- c. Limit power of acceptance to exact terms of offer.

For a complete simple contract for the sale of goods, see § 52.200. For a complete detailed contract, see § 52.202.

1. Specify date of contract.
2. Include following information on parties:
 - a. Names.
 - b. Addresses.
 - c. Status (e.g., partnership, corporation, limited liability company, or joint venture).
 - d. Character (e.g., buyer, seller, or factor).
3. Include recitation of seller's agreement to sell and deliver and buyer's agreement to pay and accept delivery of goods.

NOTE:

Under the Commercial Code, the obligation of the seller is to transfer and deliver, and that of the buyer is to accept and pay in accordance with the contract [Com. Code § 2301].

§ 52.122 Goods

1. Specify goods subject to contract, including [see Com. Code § 2311(1), (2); §§ 52.223, 52.224]:

- a. Description of amount and variety, or
- b. Identity of party who will be entitled to later designate amount and variety.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, specifications relating to assortment of the goods are at the buyer's option [Com. Code § 2311(2)]. However, the parties may leave open the particulars of performance, such as assortment of goods, to be designated later by one of the parties [Com. Code § 2311(1)].

2. If any description of goods is not to be part of basis of bargain, make express disclaimer [see § 52.292].

3. If desired, specify that amount of goods is to be determined by output of seller or requirements of buyer [see §§ 52.204, 52.205].

C. Procedural Guide to Contracts for Sale of Goods

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.123

§ 52.123 Price or Payment

1. Set amount of purchase price, or means for later determining purchase price [§ 52.230].

NOTE:

The parties may conclude a contract for sale even though the price is not settled. In that case, the implied price generally is a reasonable price at the time for delivery [Com. Code § 2305(1)]. For further discussion, see § 52.230[1].

2. Determine when payment is due [§§ 52.231, 52.234].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, tender of payment is a condition to the seller's duty to tender and complete delivery [Com. Code § 2511(1)], and actual payment at the contract rate is due on acceptance [Com. Code §§ 2301, 2607(1)] at the time and place where the buyer is to receive the goods even though the place of shipment is the place of delivery [Com. Code § 2310(a)]. When the seller is required or authorized to ship the goods on credit, the credit period runs from the time of shipment, but postdating the invoice or delaying its dispatch will correspondingly delay the start of the credit period [Com. Code § 2310(d)].

3. Specify required medium of payment [§ 52.232].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 1302(a)], tender of payment is sufficient when made by any means or in any manner current in the ordinary course of business unless the seller demands payment in legal tender and gives any extension of time reasonably necessary to procure it [Com. Code § 2511(2)]. Payment by check is conditional. Between the parties, a payment by check is defeated if the check is not honored when presented for payment [Com. Code § 2511(3)].

4. If payment is to be by letter of credit, include provision to that effect, along with any other details that may be agreed on, such as [Com. Code § 2325; see § 52.233]:

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, the term "letter of credit" or "banker's credit" in a contract for sale means an irrevocable credit issued by a financing agency of good repute and, when the shipment is overseas, of good international repute [Com. Code § 2325(3)]. For discussion of the law governing letters of Credit, see Ch. 56, Letters of Credit and Electronic Fund Transfers .

a. Bank approved of or required by seller.

b. "Confirmed credit" required.

NOTE:

The term "confirmed credit" means that the credit must also carry the direct obligation of a financing agency of good repute that does business in the seller's financial market [Com. Code § 2325(3)]. That is, if the credit is issued by a bank or other agency that does not do direct business in the seller's financial market, it should be confirmed by one that does [Com. Code § 2325, comment 3].

c. Time by which credit must be established.

d. Amount that letter of credit must cover.

5. If delivery of payment and purchase price are to be apportioned, specify manner of apportionment, such as [see § 52.234]:

a. Delivery in equal monthly installments.

b. Size and number of deliveries at seller's option, with all goods to be delivered by given date.

c. Delivery of all or any part of goods as buyer may demand from time to time within period of delivery set by contract.

d. Payment with each installment.

e. Payment of only a fixed percentage of price for each installment, with remainder to be paid along with full price of last installment.

f. Payment of a set percentage of total purchase price on first of month until total is paid; e.g., 20 percent for five months.

6. If substituted means or manner of payment would be unsatisfactory, include provision prohibiting substitutions [see § 52.235].

NOTE:

If the agreed means or manner of payment fails because of domestic or foreign governmental regulation, the seller may withhold or stop delivery unless the buyer provides a means or manner of payment that is commercially a substantial equivalent. If delivery has already been taken, payment by the means or in the manner provided by the regulation discharges the buyer's obligation unless the regulation is discriminatory, oppressive, or predatory [Com. Code § 2614(2)].

§ 52.124 Shipment

NOTE:

For general discussion of the shipment of goods, see Ch. 54, Shipment of Property.

1. Fix time of delivery [see § 52.250]; either:

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, the time for shipment or delivery or any other action under a contract is a reasonable time [Com. Code § 2309(1)].

a. Omit term governing time of delivery, in which case delivery must be within a reasonable time [Com. Code § 2309(1)].

b. Specify delivery date.

c. Provide that date of delivery is to be specified later by buyer.

NOTE:

Parties may leave particulars of performance to be specified later by one of the parties [Com. Code § 2311(1); see § 52.223]. Specifications or arrangements concerning shipment are usually at the seller's option unless the parties agree otherwise [Com. Code § 2311(2); see § 52.264].

2. Fix place and obligations of delivery; either:

- a. Omit contract provisions covering delivery.

NOTE:

If no agreement as to place of delivery is made, the rules provided by Com. Code § 2308 apply. For discussion of these rules see § 52.251[1]. In most cases it is unwise to leave delivery terms unexpressed [see § 52.251].

- b. If carrier will not make delivery, specify details, such as [see § 52.263]:

- (1) Delivery to be made by seller.
- (2) Pick-up of goods by buyer.
- (3) Delivery by transfer of documents of title.

- c. Use either of following:

- (1) Shipment contract [Com. Code § 2504; see §§ 52.250, 52.252]:

NOTE:

A "shipment contract" is a contract requiring or authorizing the seller to send goods to the buyer but without requiring delivery at a particular destination [Com. Code § 2504; see §§ 52.250, 52.252].

- (a) Specify desired details for tender of delivery; or
- (b) Do the following:
 - (i) Put goods in possession of carrier and make reasonable agreement for their transportation;
 - (ii) Get and promptly deliver or tender any necessary documents; and
 - (iii) Promptly notify buyer of shipment.

- (2) Destination contract [§§ 52.252, 52.262].

NOTE:

A destination contract is a contract requiring the seller to deliver at a particular destination [Com. Code § 2503(3)]. Time, place, and manner for tender of delivery are determined by the contract and by Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801], especially Com. Code § 2503, which requires, for example, tender at a reasonable hour and the furnishing by the buyer of facilities reasonably suited to the receipt of the goods [Com. Code § 2503(3); see also §§ 52.262[1] and 52.263[1]]. The primary difference between shipping and destination contracts is that the buyer bears the risk of loss during transit under a shipping contract, and the seller bears the risk of loss during transit under a destination contract [Com. Code § 2509(1); Com. Code § 2503, comment 5].

- d. If appropriate, leave some details of shipping arrangement open to be later specified by one of parties, such as the following [§ 52.264]:

(1) Designation of carrier.

(2) Designation of local carrier after goods arrive in buyer's area by ship or train.

(3) Time of shipment.

3. Use the following mercantile shipping terms to determine related obligations for shipment contracts [§§ 52.253, 52.254].

NOTE:

Even after the determination that the basic delivery terms will involve a shipment or a destination contract, there are related obligations that must also be set, such as the cost of freight. The parties must therefore articulate these related obligations. This can be done explicitly or by use of mercantile shipping terms.

For additional discussion, see Ch. 54, Shipment of Property .

a. If parties want seller to bear expense and risk of putting goods into possession of carrier, then send goods F.O.B. point of shipment (e.g., "F.O.B. San Francisco," when shipment is from San Francisco to Los Angeles) [Com. Code § 2319].

NOTE:

"F.O.B." means "free on board" [Com. Code § 2319(1); see § 52.253].

b. If parties want seller to bear expense and risk of putting goods into possession of carrier and expense and risk of loading goods on board, send goods F.O.B. point of shipment, vessel, car, or other vehicle [Com. Code § 2319(1)(c)].

NOTE:

If the shipment is to be F.O.B. vessel, and overseas shipment is contemplated, then the seller must obtain a negotiable bill of lading [see Com. Code §§ 2319(1)(c), 2323(1)].

c. If parties want seller to deliver goods alongside vessel at his or her own risk and expense in manner usual in that port or on dock designated and provided by buyer, send goods F.A.S. vessel at a named port [Com. Code § 2319(2)].

NOTE:

"F.A.S." means "free alongside." The seller must obtain and tender a receipt for the goods in exchange for which the carrier is under a duty to issue a bill of lading [Com. Code § 2319(2); see § 52.253].

d. If parties want price to include in lump sum cost of goods, insurance, and freight to destination, send goods C.I.F. place of destination [Com. Code § 2320].

e. If parties want price to include in lump sum cost of goods and freight to destination, send goods C. & F. place of destination [Com. Code § 2320].

NOTE:

The terms "C.I.F." and "C. & F." designate "shipment" contracts even though they are used with the point of destination because the buyer bears the risk of loss during transit [Com. Code § 2320, comment 1]. For discussion of the obligations imposed by "C.I.F." and "C. & F." terms, see § 52.254[1].

f. If parties decide on shipment under reservation, have seller either:

(1) Procure a negotiable bill of lading to his or her own order [Com. Code § 2505(1)(a)];
or

(2) Procure a nonnegotiable bill of lading to himself or herself or to his or her nominee [Com. Code § 2505(1)(b)].

4. Use mercantile shipping terms to determine related obligations for destination contracts [see §§ 52.253, 52.257, 52.259].

NOTE:

Related delivery obligations must be defined even when a shipment or a destination contract is used. These related obligations can be expressly stated or implied by the use of mercantile shipping terms.

a. If parties want seller to bear expense and risk of transporting goods to destination, then send goods F.O.B. destination (e.g., "F.O.B. Los Angeles," if shipment is from San Francisco to Los Angeles) [see Com. Code § 2319(1)].

NOTE:

"F.O.B." means "free on board" [Com. Code § 2319(1)]. A seller making a delivery F.O.B. destination must tender delivery of the goods at the named destination in the manner provided by Com. Code § 2503 [see §§ 52.262, 52.263]. For further discussion of deliveries F.O.B. destination, see § 52.253.

b. If parties want seller to bear expense and risk of transporting goods to destination and expense and risk of loading goods on board, send goods F.O.B. destination, vessel, car, or other vehicle [Com. Code § 2319(1)(c)].

NOTE:

If delivery is to be F.O.B. vessel, and overseas shipment is contemplated, then the seller must obtain a negotiable bill of lading [see Com. Code §§ 2319(1)(c), 2323(1)].

c. If parties wish seller to deliver from ship that has reached a place at named port of destination where goods of the kind are usually discharged, send goods ex-ship [Com. Code § 2322(1); § 52.257].

NOTE:

Delivery of goods "ex-ship" means from the carrying vessel, not restricted to a particular ship [Com. Code § 2322(1); Com. Code § 2322, comment 2]. The seller must discharge all liens arising out of the carriage and furnish the buyer with a direction that puts the carrier under a duty to deliver the goods [Com. Code § 2322(2)(a)].

d. If parties want seller to ship conforming goods, and, if they arrive by any means, to tender them on arrival, but without assuming any obligation that the goods will arrive, send goods "no arrival, no sale" [Com. Code § 2324(a); see § 52.259].

NOTE:

The exemption of the seller from liability for non-arrival under a "no arrival, no sale" term does not apply if the seller caused the goods not to arrive [Com. Code § 2324(a)]. If, without fault of the seller, the goods are lost in part, or have so deteriorated as no longer to conform to the contract, or arrive after the contract time, the buyer may proceed as if there had been a casualty to identified goods [Com. Code § 2324(b); see § 52.132 P 2].

5. Resolve remaining shipping details not covered by mercantile terminology, such as the following:

- a. How goods are to be packaged [see § 53.202[2] P 6, § 52.256[2]].
- b. What type of carrier is to be used [see §§ 52.253, 52.264].
- c. Which specific carrier is to be used [see §§ 52.253, 52.257].

6. If seller is not to be allowed to ship under reservation, provide exclusion in contract [§ 52.260].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, a seller who is authorized to send the goods may ship them under reservation, tendering documents of title, although buyer still may inspect before payment [Com. Code § 2310(b)]. This allows the seller under a shipment contract to retain an interest in the goods even after shipment.

7. If substituted methods of delivery would be unsatisfactory, even when permitted by the Commercial Code, include contract provision prohibiting substituted methods of delivery [see § 52.234].

NOTE:

When, without fault of either party, the agreed berthing, loading, or unloading facilities fail or an agreed type of carrier becomes unavailable, or the agreed manner of delivery otherwise becomes commercially impractical but a commercially reasonable substitute is available, this substitute performance must be tendered and accepted [Com. Code § 2614(1)] in the absence of specific agreement to the contrary [Com. Code § 2614, comment 1].

8. If parties wish to vary terms on which delays in delivery or nondelivery are excused by the Code, include contract provision specifying grounds, if any, for excuse [Com. Code § 2615; see § 52.320].

9. Specify when documents against which draft is drawn are to be delivered to drawee [§ 52.261].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, documents against which a draft is drawn must be delivered to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than three days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment [Com. Code § 2514].

§ 52.125 Risk of Loss

1. Fix time when risk of loss passes from seller to buyer if there is no breach of contract [see § 52.280]; either:

a. Omit coverage of risk of loss in absence of breach, in which case Com. Code § 2509 governs [see § 52.280[1][b] for discussion].

b. Vary terms of Com. Code § 2509 by specifying in contract when risk of loss passes if there is no breach of contract [Com. Code § 2509(4)].

2. Fix time when risk of loss passes from seller to buyer in event of breach [see § 52.281], either:

a. Omit any coverage of when risk of loss passes in event of breach, in which case Com. Code § 2510 governs.

b. Vary terms of Com. Code § 2510 by specifying in contract when risk of loss passes if there is breach of contract.

3. If desired, include provision defining when identification of goods to contract will occur, such as the following:

NOTE:

The buyer obtains a special property and an insurable interest in goods by identification of existing goods as goods to which the contract refers. Identification can be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by the parties. In the absence of explicit agreement, the time of identification is controlled by Com. Code § 2501(1) [see § 52.284].

- a. Identification occurs when seller places goods in hands of carrier for delivery [see § 52.284[2], first alternative].
- b. Identification occurs when buyer receives notice from seller that goods are ready for shipment [see § 52.284[2], second alternative].
- c. Identification occurs when buyer receives goods [see § 52.284[2], third alternative].

4. If buyer will have option to return goods, specify type of option [see § 52.282].

- a. Sale on approval.

NOTE:

In a sale on approval, the goods are delivered primarily for use [Com. Code § 2326(1)(a)]. Unless otherwise agreed, although the goods are identified to the contract, the risk of loss and the title do not pass to the buyer until acceptance. After due notification of election to return, the return is at the seller's risk and expense, but a merchant buyer must follow any reasonable instructions [Com. Code § 2327(1)(c)]. Goods held on approval are not subject to the claims of the buyer's creditors until acceptance [Com. Code § 2326(2); see § 52.282[1][d] for discussion of exception to rule].

- b. Sale or return.

NOTE:

In a sale or return, the goods are delivered primarily for resale [Com. Code § 2326(1)(b)]. Unless otherwise agreed, the option to return extends to the whole or any commercial unit of the goods while in substantially their original condition, but must be exercised seasonably. The return is at the buyer's risk and expense [Com. Code § 2327(2)]. In a sale or return the risk of loss is on the buyer [Com. Code § 2327, comment 3]. Goods held on sale or return are subject to the claims of the buyer's creditors while in the buyer's possession [Com. Code § 2326(2)].

- c. Retail sellers must post refund or return policy.

NOTE:

A retailer selling to the public who has a policy of not giving full cash or credit refunds, of not allowing equal exchanges, or any combination of these, for at least seven days following purchase, must conspicuously post its policy [Civ. Code § 1723(a)].

NOTE:

See § 52.250.

1. Fix time for performance.
 - a. Specify time for performance; or
 - b. Set no time for performance, in which case time for any action under contract is reasonable time [Com. Code § 2309(1)].
2. Fix duration of contract.
 - a. Specify duration of contract; or

§ 52.128 Express Warranties

NOTE:

See §§ 52.290-52.294.

1. If seller intends to make no express warranties as to goods other than "consumer goods" [see P 6, below], advise seller to do the following [Com. Code § 2313(1)(a)]:

NOTE:

The provisions of the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.7] do not affect rights and obligations under the Commercial Code except when the two conflict. In that case, the former prevails [Civ. Code § 1790.3]. For discussion of the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.7], see P 6, below.

a. Avoid making, and advise all agents and salespeople to avoid making, any oral or written affirmations of facts or promises.

NOTE:

Warranties are easily created by simply making a promise or affirming a fact to be true. It is not necessary that formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" be used or that there be a specific intention to make a warranty [Com. Code § 2313(2)].

b. Disclaim all express warranties, or all express warranties other than those agreed on by parties [see §§ 52.291-52.293].

NOTE:

Disclaiming all express warranties after making certain express warranties will have no effect on warranties actually made [Com. Code § 2316(1)].

- c. Include integration or merger clause to prevent later proof of oral warranties [see § 52.354].
 - d. Include clause denying authority of agents or salespeople to make any representations not included in written contract [see § 52.292].
2. If seller intends to make one or more express warranties, advise seller to use precautions listed in Paragraph 1, above, to protect against false assertions that other warranties were made.
 3. If description of goods is not intended by seller to be part of basis of bargain and an express warranty [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(b)], provide that description does not create express warranty [see Com. Code § 1302].
 4. If seller does not intend model or sample to become part of basis of the bargain and an express warranty [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(c)], provide that model or sample does not create express warranty [see Com. Code § 1302].
 5. If buyer expects to rely on express warranties by seller, advise buyer to do the following:
 - a. Determine express warranties on which bargain is based.
 - b. If possible, have all express warranties that are to be relied on included in written agreement.
 - c. Make sure express warranties are orally understood as part of basis of bargain, and that sales agreement does not have merger or integration clause [see Com. Code § 2202; § 52.354], or clause that denies authority of person dealing with buyer to create warranties.
 - d. Make sure sales agreement does not disclaim any express warranties relied on by the parties in reaching their agreement [see Com. Code § 2316(1)].
 6. Comply with requirements of Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.7] if goods are "consumer goods."

NOTE:

The rights and obligations of parties determined under the Commercial Code are not affected by the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.7] except in case of conflict, in which case the Song-Beverly Act prevails over the Commercial Code [Civ. Code § 1790.3].

- a. Following are consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1791(a)]:
 - (1) Any new product or part thereof that is used, bought, or leased for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, except for clothing and consumables.
 - (2) New and used assistive devices sold at retail.

NOTE:

An assistive device is a device used or intended to be used to assist the physically disabled. Prescription lenses and ophthalmic goods do not qualify unless sold or dispensed to the blind [Civ. Code § 1791(s); see Civ. Code § 1793.02].

b. Create express warranties by [Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)]:

NOTE:

Express warranty provisions must set forth the warranties in readily understood language and must clearly identify the party making the express warranties. The language of the warranties must comply with the federal warranty disclosure standards set forth in the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 2301-2312; see P (9), below] and applicable regulations [Civ. Code § 1793.1(a)(1); see 16 C.F.R. §§ 700.1-703.8].

(1) Providing written statement arising out of sale to consumer of consumer good under which manufacturer, distributor, or retailer undertakes to preserve or maintain utility or performance of consumer good or provide compensation if there is failure in utility or performance; or

(2) Statement that goods conform to sample or model.

c. If providing warranty or product registration card or form (or electronic online warranty or registration card) to be completed and returned by buyer, ensure that card or form informs buyer that it is for product registration and that failure to return card does not diminish buyer's warranty rights [see Civ. Code § 1973.1(a)].

d. Do not attempt to limit application of any implied warranty guaranteed by Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.] to sale of consumer goods if express warranties are made [see Civ. Code § 1793; see also § 52.129 P 3].

7. If warranties are made to "consumer," comply with requirements of Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act [15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.; see § 52.290].

NOTE:

The Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act [15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.] gives consumers the right to sue suppliers, warrantors, or service contractors for breach of a warranty or service contract or violation of the Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)(1); see, e.g., Milicevic v. Fletcher Jones Imports, Ltd. (2005) 402 F.3d 912, 914 (purchaser of automobile sued auto dealer and manufacturer for breach of written warranty under Act)]. For purposes of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, a "consumer" is a buyer or other qualified transferee of a consumer product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(3)]. A "consumer product" is any tangible personal property distributed in commerce and normally used for personal, family, or household purposes [15 U.S.C. § 2301(1)].

a. Make sure written warranty for consumer product actually costing consumer more than $15 clearly and conspicuously discloses in single document, in simple and readily understood language, all of following [16 C.F.R. § 701.3; see 15 U.S.C. § 2302(a) (disclosures FTC may require to be included in warranties for consumer goods actually costing consumer more than $5)]:

(1) Identity of parties to whom written warranty is extended, if enforceability of written warranty is limited to original consumer purchaser or is otherwise limited to persons other than every consumer owner during term of warranty.

(2) Clear description and identification of products, parts, characteristics, components, or properties covered by, and when necessary for clarification, excluded from, warranty.

(3) Statement of what warrantor will do in event of defect, malfunction, or failure to conform with written warranty, including items or services warrantor will pay for or provide, and when necessary for clarification, those that warrantor will not pay for or provide.

(4) Point in time or event on which warranty term commences, if different from purchase date, and time period or other measurement of warranty duration.

(5) Step-by-step explanation of procedure that consumer should follow to obtain performance of any warranty obligation, including persons or class of persons authorized to perform warranty obligations.

NOTE:

This includes name of warrantor, mailing address of warrantor, and/or name or title and address of any employee or department of warrantor responsible for performance of warranty obligations, and/or telephone number that consumers may use without charge to obtain information on warranty performance.

(6) Information concerning availability of any informal dispute settlement mechanism elected by warrantor in compliance with 16 C.F.R. Part 703.

(7) Any limitations on duration of implied warranties, disclosed on face of warranty as provided in 15 U.S.C. § 2308, accompanied by following statement: "Some States do not allow limitations on how long an implied warranty lasts, so the above limitation may not apply to you."

(8) Any exclusions of or limitations on relief such as incidental or consequential damages, accompanied by following statement, which may be combined with statement required by Paragraph (7), above: "Some States do not allow the exclusion or limitation of incidental or consequential damages, so the above limitation or exclusion may not apply to you."

(9) Statement in following language: "This warranty gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from State to State."

b. Do not condition written warranty on consumer using any article or service (other than one provided without charge under terms of warranty) that is identified by brand, trade, or corporate name (unless requirement has been waived by Federal Trade Commission) [see 15 U.S.C. § 2302(c)].

c. Specify whether written warranty will be "full" or "limited."

NOTE:

A product may be sold with both full and limited warranties provided they are clearly and conspicuously differentiated [15 U.S.C. § 2305].

(1) If warranty meets federal minimum standards for written warranty, then it must be designated "full (statement of duration) warranty" [15 U.S.C. § 2303(a)(1); see Paragraph 7(d), below; see also § 52.290[2], first alternative].

(2) If warranty does not meet federal minimum standards for written warranty, it must be conspicuously designated "limited warranty" [15 U.S.C. § 2303(a)(2)].

d. Make sure warranty complies with following federal minimum standards for written warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)]:

NOTE:

The warrantor may not impose any duty other than that of giving notice on any consumer as a condition of securing the remedy of any nonconforming consumer product, unless he or she can demonstrate that the duty is reasonable. However, the warrantor can require that the nonconforming product be made available free and clear of liens and encumbrances except as otherwise provided by the Federal Trade Commission [15 U.S.C. § 2304(b)]. The performance of duties under the federal minimum standards for a warranty will not be required of a warrantor if he or she can show that the nonconformance was caused by damage (not resulting from a defect or malfunction) while in the possession of the consumer, or unreasonable use (including the failure to provide reasonable and necessary maintenance) [15 U.S.C. § 2304(c)].

(1) Warrantor must, at minimum, remedy consumer product involved within reasonable time and without charge in event that there is defect, malfunction, or failure to conform with warranty (i.e., when there is nonconforming product).

(2) Warrantor may not impose any limitation on duration of any implied warranty on product.

(3) Warrantor may not exclude or limit consequential damages for breach of any written or implied warranty on product, unless limitation conspicuously appears on face of warranty.

(4) If product (or component part) contains defect or malfunction after reasonable number of attempts by warrantor to remedy it, warrantor must permit consumer to elect either refund or replacement without charge.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Contracts for Sale of Goods

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.129

§ 52.129 Implied Warranties-Merchantability and Fitness for Particular Use

1. Inform seller of warranties that will be implied by law under Commercial Code.
 - a. If seller is a merchant with respect to goods sold, in order to be deemed "merchantable," goods must [Com. Code § 2314(1), (2); see § 52.294[2], first alternative]:
 - (1) Pass without objection in the trade under contract description.
 - (2) If fungible, be of fair, average quality within description.
 - (3) Be fit for ordinary purposes for which the goods are used.
 - (4) Run, within variations permitted by contract, of even kind, quality, and quantity within each unit and among all units involved.
 - (5) Be adequately contained, packaged, and labeled as contract requires.
 - (6) Conform to any promises or affirmations of fact made on container or label.
 - b. Course of dealing or usage of trade may create other implied warranties [Com. Code § 2314(3)].
 - c. If seller at time of contracting has reason to know particular purpose for which goods are required and that buyer is relying on seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods, there is implied warranty that goods will be fit for that purpose [Com. Code § 2315; see § 52.294[2], second alternative].
2. Exclude implied warranties on nonconsumer goods if warranty is not intended by seller.

NOTE:

There is no implied warranty with regard to defects that an examination ought in the circumstances to have revealed if the buyer, before entering into the contract, examines the goods or the sample or model as fully as he or she desires or refuses to examine the goods [Com. Code § 2316(3)(b)].

a. To exclude or modify implied warranty of merchantability, mention merchantability and, in written disclaimers, mention merchantability in conspicuous writing [Com. Code § 2316(2); see § 52.295].

b. Exclude or modify implied warranty of fitness by conspicuous writing, e.g., "THERE ARE NO WARRANTIES THAT EXTEND BEYOND THE DESCRIPTION ON THE FACE OF THIS CONTRACT" [Com. Code § 2316(2); see § 52.295].

c. To exclude any implied warranty, use expressions like "as is," "with all faults," or other language which in common understanding calls buyer's attention to exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty [Com. Code § 2316(3)(a); see § 52.296].

d. Exclude or modify implied warranty by course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade [Com. Code § 2316(3)(c)].

3. If goods to be sold are consumer goods, comply with requirements of Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.].

NOTE:

The Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.] applies to consumer goods [see Civ. Code § 1791.2(a)]. The act [Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.7] does not affect rights and obligations of parties determined under Commercial Code except in case of conflict [Civ. Code § 1790.3]. Any buyer of consumer goods injured by a breach of the implied warranty of merchantability or fitness may bring an action for damages under or seek any other remedy provided by Com. Code §§ 2601-2725, and in that action reasonable attorneys' fees must be awarded to a prevailing buyer [Civ. Code § 1791.1(d); see Civ. Code § 1794(d)].

a. If warranty of merchantability is not desired, expressly disclaim it.

NOTE:

Every retail sale of consumer goods in California is accompanied by the manufacturer's and the seller's implied warranty that the goods are merchantable, unless this warranty is properly disclaimed [Civ. Code § 1792]. The retail seller has the right of indemnity against the manufacturer [Civ. Code § 1792]. "Implied warranty of merchantability" means that the consumer goods pass without objection in the trade under the contract description; are fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used; are adequately contained, packaged, and labeled; and conform to the promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label [Civ. Code § 1791.1(a); see Mocek v. Alfa Leisure, Inc. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 402, 406-408, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 546 (giving overview of implied warranty of merchantability and holding that buyer is not required to give seller opportunity to repair before rescinding purchase when implied warranty is breached)].

b. To disclaim implied warranties on consumer goods, do the following:

(1) Sell goods on "as is" or "with all faults" basis [Civ. Code §§ 1792.3, 1792.5]; and

(2) Attach conspicuous writing to goods clearly informing buyer prior to sale in simple and concise language of each of following [Civ. Code § 1792.4(a); see § 52.296[2], third and fourth alternatives];

NOTE:

If the transaction is a retail sale of consumer goods by a manufacturer, retailer, or distributor, warranty of fitness for particular purpose will be implied if seller had reason to know at time of sale that (1) the goods are required for a particular purpose, and (2) the buyer is relying on the manufacturer's, retailer's, or distributor's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods [Civ. Code §§ 1792.1, 1792.2(a)].

Every retail sale of assistive device in California is accompanied by seller's implied warranty that device is specifically fit for particular needs of buyer [Civ. Code § 1792.2(b)]. An "assistive device" is a device used or intended to be used to assist the physically disabled. Prescription lenses and ophthalmic goods do not qualify unless sold or dispensed to the blind [Civ. Code § 1791(s); see Civ. Code § 1793.02].

A manufacturer, distributor, or retailer in transacting a sale in which express warranties are given may not limit, modify, or disclaim the implied warranties guaranteed by the Act to the sale of consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1793].

(a) Goods are being sold on "as is" or "with all faults" basis.

(b) Entire risk as to quality and performance is on buyer.

(c) If goods prove defective after purchase, only buyer assumes entire cost of necessary service or repair.

c. If sale is by mail order catalog, disclaim implied warranties by putting required statements in catalog for each item offered, in lieu of requirement of notice prior to sale [Civ. Code § 1792.4(b)].

4. Advise warrantor that Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 2301-2312; see § 52.128 P 7] affects implied warranties in following manner:

a. Warranty that limits duration of implied warranty or excludes or limits consequential damages without disclosing this on its face is limited warranty [see 15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)(2), (3)] and must be designated as "limited warranty" [15 U.S.C. § 2303(a)(2)].

b. No supplier may disclaim or modify any implied warranty to consumer with respect to consumer product if [15 U.S.C. § 2308(a)]:

NOTE:

A "supplier" is any person in the business of making a consumer product available to consumers, whether directly or indirectly [15 U.S.C. § 2301(4)].

(1) He or she makes any written warranty.

(2) At time of sale, or within 90 days thereafter, he or she enters into service contract with consumer that applies to product.

c. Rule against disclaimer or modification of implied warranty does not prohibit limitation of its duration to duration of written warranty of reasonable duration, provided that [15 U.S.C. § 2308(b)]:

(1) Limitation must be conscionable.

(2) Limitation must be set forth in clear and unmistakable language and prominently displayed on face of warranty.

5. Advise buyer to consider making all important implied warranties as express warranties in contract of sale.

6. Make sure any implied warranty on which client is relying is not disclaimed [Com. Code § 2316(2), (3)].

- a. Title conveyed is good.
- b. Transfer of title is rightful.

§ 52.132 Breach, Repudiation, and Excuse

1. If parties wish to vary circumstances under which delay in delivery or nonperformance is excused under Commercial Code due to impracticability, insert appropriate provision [see Com. Code § 2615(a); § 52.320].

a. Provide for excuse of buyer as well as seller [see § 52.320[2], first, second, fifth, and sixth alternatives].

b. Require notice of claim of excuse for nonperformance [see § 52.320[2], first and second alternatives].

c. List specific events that will excuse performance [see § 52.320].

d. Provide buyer with option to terminate or to accept delayed performance [see § 52.320[2], third alternative].

2. If parties wish to vary, by agreement, effect of casualty to identified goods, insert appropriate provision [see Com. Code § 2613; § 52.321].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, the result of a casualty to identified goods without fault of either party before the risk of loss passes to the buyer, or, in a proper case, under a "no arrival, no sale" term [see Com. Code § 2324], is to avoid the contract if the loss is total. If the loss is partial or the goods no longer conform to the contract, the buyer has the option to avoid the contract or accept the goods with due allowance from the contract price [Com. Code § 2613].

- a. Provide that seller is not excused, and must tender substitute goods [see § 52.321[2], second alternative].
- b. Provide that seller is not excused, but has additional time to effect delivery [see § 52.321[2], first alternative].
- c. Provide that seller is excused even if goods are destroyed due to seller's negligence [see § 52.321[2], third alternative].
- d. Provide that buyer has no right to accept conforming goods [see § 52.321[2], fourth alternative].

3. If seller desires, restrict buyer's right to partial acceptance [see Com. Code § 2601; § 52.322].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, if the goods or the tender of delivery fail in any respect to conform to the contract, the buyer may reject the whole, accept the whole, or accept any commercial unit or units and reject the rest [Com. Code § 2601].

- a. Require timely return of rejected goods to seller at risk and expense of buyer [see § 52.322[2], first alternative].
- b. Provide that any partial acceptance cancels credit terms of contract [see § 52.322[2], second alternative].
- c. Require partial acceptance to include a minimum specified portion (e.g., 50 percent) of shipment [see § 52.322[2], third alternative].

4. If desired, specify [see § 52.323]:

NOTE:

In the absence of more exact agreement, rejection of goods must be within a reasonable time after their delivery or tender and is ineffective unless the buyer seasonably notifies the seller [Com. Code § 2602(1)]. Contract provisions limiting the time for rejection are effective only if the time set gives the buyer a reasonable time for discovery of defects [Com. Code § 2602, comment 1].

- a. Exact time limitations on rejection, and
- b. Exact manner of notification of seller.

5. If desired, specify merchant buyer's duties as to rightfully rejected goods, or restrict buyer's right to resell [see Com. Code §§ 2603, 2604; §§ 52.324, 52.326].

NOTE:

Com. Code §§ 2603 and 2604 specify the duties of the merchant buyer with respect to rightfully rejected goods [see § 52.324[1] for list].

- a. Provide that buyer is only required to notify seller and hold goods, and that buyer has no duty to resell rejected goods [see § 52.324[2], second alternative].

b. Provide that buyer is to resell rejected goods immediately without awaiting instructions from seller [see § 52.324[2], third alternative].

c. Provide that buyer must reship rejected goods to seller express collect within 24 hours after rejection [see § 52.324[2], fourth alternative].

d. Forbid buyer to salvage by reselling rejected goods [see § 52.326].

6. If desired, include clause relieving buyer from waiver of objections to goods by virtue of failure to particularize certain defects on rejection.

NOTE:

Com. Code § 2605 enumerates situations under which failure to specify a defect relied on for rejecting goods becomes a waiver of the defect. For discussion, see § 52.325[1].

7. If buyer does not want seller to have right to cure improper tender of nonconforming goods, include clause prohibiting cure of improper tender [see Com. Code § 2508; § 52.327].

8. If, by reason of circumstances of transaction, buyer or seller wants to fix a specific means of acceptance in variance of Com. Code § 2606, include clause specifying what constitutes acceptance of goods [see § 52.328].

a. If sale is installment sale, provide that retention of goods by buyer for specified period (e.g., 10 days) constitutes acceptance [see § 52.328[2], first alternative].

b. If goods are stored in warehouse, provide that removal of goods from warehouse by buyer constitutes acceptance [see § 52.328[2], second alternative].

c. If goods are perishable, specify that acceptance must be by written notice within specified period (e.g., eight hours) after delivery [see § 52.328[2], third alternative].

9. If seller wants acceptance once made to be final, advise seller to include clause restricting buyer from revoking acceptance [see § 52.329].

NOTE:

In the absence of a clause restricting revocation, the buyer may, under certain circumstances, revoke acceptance of goods whose nonconformity substantially impairs their value [see Com. Code § 2608(1); see also § 52.329[1]].

10. If parties are concerned about assuring performance, include clause dealing with adequate assurance of performance [see Com. Code § 2609; see also § 52.330].

a. Specify conditions under which demand for assurance of performance is proper, such as [see § 52.330]:

(1) Delivery is later than a specified period (e.g., three days late).

(2) Quantity of goods delivered is more than a specified percentage (e.g., 25 percent) below contract amount.

- (3) Buyer is delinquent in making any payment for a specified period (e.g., five days).
- (4) Buyer fails to meet its obligations with other suppliers as they occur.
- (5) A judgment is entered against buyer in excess of a specified amount (e.g., $5,000) in any court of competent jurisdiction.
- (6) There is work stoppage of more than a specified period (e.g., five days) at buyer's factory.
- (7) Any product sold by buyer is subject of action by Food and Drug Administration.

b. Specify what types of assurance will constitute adequate assurance, such as [see § 52.330]:

- (1) Posting of performance bond, with sureties.
- (2) Posting liquid collateral to be held in escrow.
- (3) Statement in writing that each shipment complies with all applicable laws, regulations, and ordinances.

11. Advise seller to consider requiring clause containing representations by buyer with respect to solvency [Com. Code § 2702; see § 52.331]

NOTE:

A written misrepresentation of solvency to the seller within three months before delivery extends the time the seller has to reclaim goods on discovering that the buyer has received goods on credit while insolvent [Com. Code § 2702].

12. Specify how contract may be terminated [Com. Code § 2309(3); § 52.332]

a. Determine conditions on which one of parties may terminate the agreement, such as:

- (1) Bankruptcy of buyer.
- (2) Increased or reduced duties.
- (3) Failure to insure.
- (4) Poor quality of goods.
- (5) Noncompliance with law.

b. Specify required notice, if any, to be given with termination.

NOTE:

Termination of a contract by one party, except on the happening of an agreed event, requires that reasonable notification be received by the other party. An agreement dispensing with notification is invalid if its operation would be unconscionable [Com. Code § 2309(3)].

13. If contract is "installment contract" [see Com. Code § 2612(1) (definition)], specify when nonconforming delivery constitutes breach of entire agreement [see § 52.333].

NOTE:

Com. Code § 2612(3) provides that whenever nonconformity or default with respect to one or more installments substantially impairs the value of the whole contract, there is a breach of the whole. It is prudent to specify in advance what type or what percentage of nonconformity or default constitutes a substantial impairment.

14. If agreement involves repeated performances, advise buyer to consider stating in advance that his or her failure to object to any nonconforming performance cannot be construed as acquiescence in or acceptance of performance [Com. Code § 1302(a), (d); § 52.334].

C. Procedural Guide to Contracts for Sale of Goods

§ 52.133 Remedies

1. Include provision defining right of aggrieved seller to identify goods after breach [see § 52.350], unless parties wish aggrieved seller to have following options:

NOTE:

The remedies afforded an aggrieved seller under the Commercial Code are intended to allow the seller the more ascertainable measure of damages associated with identified goods rather than just a cause of action for damages.

a. Identify to contract conforming goods not already identified if, at time he or she learns of breach, they are in his or her possession or control [Com. Code § 2704(1)(a)].

b. Treat as subject of resale goods that have demonstrably been intended for particular contract, even though those goods are unfinished [Com. Code § 2704(1)(b)].

c. If goods are unfinished, either [Com. Code § 2704(2)]:

(1) Complete manufacture and wholly identify goods to contract, or

(2) Cease manufacture and resell for scrap and salvage value or proceed in any other reasonable manner.

2. If buyer wants to restrict seller's right to resell goods on buyer's breach, include a limiting provision [see Com. Code § 2706; § 52.351].

3. If seller wants to restrict buyer's right to "cover" [see Com. Code § 2712; see also § 52.352[1][b]] or require buyer to cover, include provision restricting or requiring cover [see § 52.352].

4. If parties want to modify or restrict buyer's statutory remedies, include provision modifying or restricting these remedies [see § 52.353].

NOTE:

The parties have the right to provide for remedies in addition to or in substitution for those provided by Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 2101-2725] and may limit or alter the measure of damages otherwise recoverable by statute [Com. Code § 2719(1)].

5. Regulate use of parol evidence [see § 52.354].

NOTE:

There is no assumption that a written agreement is final as to all of its terms [Com. Code § 2202, comment 1]. Unless the court finds the writing to be complete and exclusive, as well as final, evidence of consistent additional terms is admissible [Com. Code § 2202(b)]. Even terms found to be final are subject to explanation or supplementation by course of dealing or usage of trade or by course of performance [Com. Code § 2202(a)]. Commercial practice and the parties' prior dealings become an element of the meaning of the words used unless carefully negated [Com. Code § 2202, comment 2].

a. If writing evidencing agreement is intended to be final between parties both as to its items and as to additional terms, then advise client to do following:

(1) Be sure contract contains all necessary terms.

(2) Clearly state that contract is intended by both parties to be complete and exclusive expression of parties' agreement.

b. If it is desirable to minimize use of parties' course of dealing or usage of trade or course of performance to supplement or explain terms of agreement, include provision expressly negating these items as guides to meaning of contract.

6. If parties want to impose writing requirement and consideration requirement on any waiver of executory performance, include writing requirement or consideration requirement [see § 52.355].

7. If parties want either to prohibit or to expressly permit assignment or delegation, include provision prohibiting or permitting assignment or delegation [see Com. Code § 2210; § 52.356].

a. If assignment or delegation is permitted, specify conditions, if any, that must accompany or precede the act, such as:

(1) Notice.

(2) Written permission of other party.

(3) Specific demands for assurances.

(4) Waiver of specific demands for assurances.

b. If assignment or delegation or both are prohibited, consider specifying effects of violation, such as:

(1) Agreement becomes void.

(2) Damages.

(3) Liquidated damages.

8. If parties want to fix liquidated damages, include liquidated damages provision [see § 52.357].

NOTE:

Damages for breach by either party may be liquidated in the contract, but only at an amount that is reasonable in the light of (1) the anticipated or actual harm caused by the breach; (2) the difficulties of proof of loss; and (3) the inconvenience or nonfeasibility of otherwise obtaining an adequate remedy. A liquidated damages clause fixing unreasonably large liquidated damages is void as a penalty [Com. Code § 2718(1)].

In the absence of a liquidated damage provision, a seller may keep from the deposit or advance payment of a defaulting buyer 20 percent of the value of the total performance for which the buyer is obligated under the contract, or $500, whichever is smaller [Com. Code § 2718(2)(b)].

9. Specify which forum's law will apply to transaction [§ 52.358].

NOTE:

With some exceptions [see Com. Code § 1301(c)], when a transaction bears a reasonable relation to California and also to another state or nation, the parties may agree that the law either of California or of that other state or nation will govern their rights and duties [Com. Code § 1301(a)]. In the absence of agreement, the California Commercial Code applies to transactions bearing an "appropriate relation" to California [Com. Code § 1301(b)].

§ 52.142 Offeree's Alternatives in Accepting Offer or Order

1. Accept offer exactly according to its terms, taking care to note whether offer calls for acceptance by [see § 52.120]:

- a. Return promise, or
- b. Performance.

2. If offer did not specify manner of acceptance, accept by any reasonable manner or medium.

NOTE:

For example, an order or offer to buy goods for prompt shipment can be accepted either by a promise to ship or by actual shipment accompanied by notice to the buyer [Com. Code § 2206; see § 52.381 for notice of acceptance after commencement of performance].

3. Accept offer adding varying or additional terms.

NOTE:

An acceptance with varying or additional terms will act as a counteroffer, or as an automatic addition to the contract if not objected to, depending on whether the parties are merchants [see Com. Code § 2207; see also PMC Inc. v. Porthole Yachts Ltd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 882, 888-889, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 832 (no acceptance found under Com. Code § 2207 due to timing of addendum to agreement sent on last day to accept, contents of addendum which contained new term, and cover letter emphasizing conditional nature of acceptance)].

4. Accept offer, making acceptance conditional on offeror's acceptance of additional or varying terms [see § 52.382].

5. If offeree-seller does not have conforming goods, do one of following [see § 52.383 and Com. Code § 2206]:

a. Ship nonconforming goods, thus accepting offer and becoming liable for breach of contract.

b. Offer nonconforming goods as accommodation [§ 52.383].

6. Always verify that response is in accord with and not in violation of terms of offer or order, unless there is clear reason for variance.

1. Review acceptance carefully to see whether it is conditional, qualified, adds new terms, or varies terms of offer.
2. If acceptance adds new terms or varies terms of offer, note following:
 - a. Offeror who is not merchant may consider offer as accepted and additions or variations as new proposals for additions to contract [Com. Code § 2207(2); see § 52.142 P 3].
 - b. Offeror who is merchant must send notice of objection to additions [§ 52.384] unless he or she accepts them, or unless his or her offer excluded qualified or varying acceptances [Com. Code § 2207(2); see § 52.142 P 3].

§ 52.144 Rescission or Modification of Contract

NOTE:

For additional discussion of rescission or modification of contracts, and forms that may be adapted for UCC contracts, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations .

1. If client wants to rescind contract, advise client of following [see § 52.401]:
 - a. Rescission of written contract must be in writing [Com. Code § 2209(2); see § 52.401].
 - b. No consideration is necessary for effective rescission [Com. Code § 2209(1)].
 - c. Rescission of contract does not imply renunciation or discharge of any claim in damages for antecedent breach unless parties so specify [see Com. Code § 2720].
2. If client wants to modify contract, advise that [see § 52.420]:
 - a. Modification must be in writing if original contract was in writing [Com. Code § 2209(2)] or if contract as modified is within statute of frauds [Com. Code §§ 2209(3), 2201].
 - b. No consideration is necessary [Com. Code § 2209(1)].
 - c. Fully executed modification may negate writing requirement [Com. Code § 2209(2)].
3. If client wants to retract waiver affecting executory portion of contract, advise client to give reasonable notification to other party that strict performance of waived term will be required [Com. Code

§ 2209(5); see § 52.430].

NOTE:

Rescissions or modifications that fail because they are not in writing may still operate as waivers [Com. Code § 2209(4)]. Notice of retraction of a waiver is not effective if the retraction would be unjust in view of a material change of position in reliance on the waiver [Com. Code § 2209(5)].

§ 52.145 Delegation of Performance; Assignment of Rights

1. If client wishes to assign rights or delegate duties under contract, advise client of following:

a. Contract must be reviewed to see if it prohibits assignment or delegation.

NOTE:

If the contract prohibits assignment of "the contract," this bars only delegation of duties, not assignment of rights [Com. Code § 2210(4)].

b. If contract is silent, review Com. Code § 2210 to see if that section permits assignment or delegation of this type of contract [see § 52.356[1]].

c. If assignment or delegation is permissible, under law and contract, review contract to see if it calls for any simultaneous acts (e.g., contract may require assignee to provide specific assurances).

2. Notify other party of assignment or delegation [see § 52.431], whether or not required by contract, and observe any contractual requirements for time and manner of notice.

2. If client begins to doubt performance of other party, advise client of following:
 - a. When reasonable grounds for insecurity arise with respect to performance of either party, other party may in writing demand adequate assurance of due performance [Com. Code § 2609(1); see § 52.441].
 - b. Contract should be reviewed as to whether it specifies grounds for insecurity or what will be considered adequate assurance.
 - c. Between merchants, reasonableness of grounds for insecurity and adequacy of assurance offered is determined according to commercial standards [Com. Code § 2609(2)].
 - d. After receipt of justified demand, failure to provide adequate assurance of due performance within a reasonable time not exceeding 30 days is a repudiation of contract [Com. Code § 2609(4)].

2. If client is repudiating party who wishes to retract repudiation, advise client of following [see § 52.451]:
 - a. Repudiation is not available if aggrieved party has, since repudiation, canceled or materially changed his or her position or otherwise indicated that he or she considers repudiation final [Com. Code § 2611(1)].
 - b. Retraction must be made before repudiating party's next performance is due [Com. Code § 2611(1)].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.149

§ 52.149 Acceptance or Rejection of Goods

1. If goods or tender of delivery fails to conform to contract, advise buyer/client that he or she may do any of the following [Com. Code § 2601; see § 52.403]:

NOTE:

Buyer may reject goods if material delay or loss results from seller's failure to notify buyer of shipment or to make a proper contract for transportation [see § 52.404; Com. Code § 2504(c)]. In that case, the buyer must make the rejection within a reasonable time after delivery or tender, and must seasonably notify seller [Com. Code § 2602].

- a. Reject the whole;
- b. Accept the whole; or
- c. Accept any commercial unit or units and reject remainder.

2. If buyer wishes to rely on defect to justify rejection or to establish breach, advise buyer that he or she must particularize reasons for rejection [Com. Code § 2605(1)]:

- a. When seller could have cured defect if stated seasonably; or
- b. When, between merchants, seller has after rejection made request in writing for full and final written statement of all defects on which buyer proposes to rely [see § 52.405 (form for demand by seller)].

3. To cure nonconforming delivery, do one of following:

NOTE:

Notice to the buyer of intent to cure must be seasonably given [Com. Code § 2508(1), (2)].

a. Notify buyer of intention to cure before time for performance expires [see § 52.461], then make conforming delivery within contract time [Com. Code § 2508(1)].

b. If buyer rejects nonconforming tender that seller had reasonable grounds to believe would be acceptable [Com. Code § 2508(2)]:

(1) Notify buyer; and

(2) Substitute conforming tender within reasonable time.

4. Advise client that if buyer rejects goods, seller may notify buyer of shipping instructions [see § 52.462], which, if reasonable, are binding on merchant buyer [Com. Code § 2603(1)].

5. Advise client that buyer is deemed to have accepted goods if any of following occurs [Com. Code § 2606(1)]:

NOTE:

If the buyer accepts any part of a commercial unit of goods, he or she is deemed to have accepted the entire unit [Com. Code § 2606(2)].

a. After reasonable opportunity to inspect goods, buyer signifies to seller that goods are conforming or that he or she will take or retain them in spite of their nonconformity; or

b. Buyer fails to make effective rejection after he or she has had reasonable opportunity to inspect goods; or

c. Buyer performs any act inconsistent with seller's ownership.

6. If buyer wishes to revoke acceptance of goods, advise client of following:

NOTE:

If the buyer has accepted nonconforming goods, or after acceptance discovers a nonconformity but cannot or chooses not to revoke the acceptance, the buyer must within a reasonable time after he or she discovers or should have discovered any breach notify the seller [see § 52.386] of breach or be barred from any remedy [Com. Code § 2607(3)(a)].

a. Buyer can revoke acceptance [see § 52.385] of lot or commercial unit if [Com. Code § 2608(1)]:

(1) Nonconformity of lot or unit substantially impairs its value to buyer, and

(2) Buyer has accepted it either:

(a) On reasonable assumption that its nonconformity would be cured and it has not been seasonably cured; or

(b) Without discovery of nonconformity if buyer's acceptance was reasonably induced by difficulty of discovery before acceptance or by seller's assurances.

b. Revocation of acceptance must occur within reasonable time after buyer discovers or should have discovered ground for it and before any substantial change in condition of goods not caused by their own defects [Com. Code § 2608(2)].

c. Revocation of acceptance is not effective until buyer notifies seller [see § 52.385; see also Com. Code § 2608(2)].

d. Buyer who revokes acceptance has same rights and duties with regard to goods involved as if he or she had rejected them [Com. Code § 2608(3)].

7. If merchant buyer has elected to return goods bought on approval, comply with any reasonable instructions from seller for return of goods [Com. Code § 2327(1)].

NOTE:

After due notification from the buyer of his or her election to return, the return is at the seller's risk and expense, but a merchant buyer must follow any reasonable instructions from the seller for the return of the goods [Com. Code § 2327(1)].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.150

§ 52.150 Actions and Remedies

1. If client is buyer sued by third party for infringement, advise client to notify seller of suit [see § 52.470] within reasonable time after receiving notice of litigation.

NOTE:

If a buyer sued by a third party for infringement fails to notify seller within a reasonable time after receiving notice of the litigation, that buyer will be barred from any remedy over for liability established by the litigation [Com. Code § 2607(3)(b)].

2. If buyer is sued for breach of warranty or other obligation for which his or her seller is liable to buyer, advise client of following [Com. Code § 2607(5)]:

a. Buyer may give seller notice of litigation [see § 52.471].

NOTE:

The notice may state that the seller may come in and defend, and that if the seller does not do so he or she will be bound in any action against him or her by the buyer by any determination of fact common to the two litigations. If the notice contains this statement, then the seller will be bound after seasonable receipt of the notice unless he or she does come in and defend [Com. Code § 2607(5)(a)].

b. If claim is one for infringement, original seller may demand in writing [see § 52.472] that buyer turn over to him or her control of litigation, including settlement, or else be barred from any remedy against seller [Com. Code § 2607(5)(b)].

3. To preserve rights and avoid acquiescence to modification, notify other party of objections to performance not in accord with contract, especially if contract calls for repeated performances [Com. Code § 1302(a), (d); see § 52.473].

4. To terminate contract, do the following:

- a. If termination is desirable, review contract to determine terms on which termination is permissible.
- b. If termination is permissible, either because of contract terms or by law, draft and send notice of termination [see § 52.474], unless [Com. Code § 2309(3)]:

- (1) Agreement eliminates notice requirement and results are not unconscionable, or
- (2) Termination is based on happening of agreed event.

5. To inspect, test, or sample goods for purpose of ascertaining facts and preserving evidence, give reasonable notice of test or inspection to other party [Com. Code § 2515(a); see § 52.475].

6. To establish binding third-party inspection or survey to determine conformity or condition of goods, enter into agreement that findings will be binding in subsequent litigation [Com. Code § 2515(b); see § 52.476].

7. To reclaim goods received on credit by insolvent buyer, instruct seller to demand goods within 10 days after goods received by buyer [see § 52.477 (form for seller's demand)].

NOTE:

If a misrepresentation of solvency has been made to the particular seller in writing within three months before delivery, the 10-day limitation does not apply [Com. Code § 2702(2)].

8. If buyer wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods, fails to make payment due on or before delivery, or repudiates contract, then advise aggrieved seller that he or she may either:

- a. Withhold delivery of goods [Com. Code § 2703(a); see § 52.478]; or
- b. Cancel [Com. Code § 2703(f); see § 52.479].

9. If seller wishes to stop delivery to insolvent buyer of goods in possession of carrier or other bailee [see § 52.480 (form for notice to carrier)] or to stop delivery of carload, truckload, planeload, or larger shipments of express or freight when for any other reason seller has right to withhold or reclaim goods, advise seller that seller must give sufficient notice to enable bailee by reasonable diligence to prevent delivery of goods [Com. Code § 2705(1), (3)].

NOTE:

If the original buyer sells the goods while they are in transit and orders the carrier to change the originally issued waybills to show the original buyer as the shipper and the new buyer as the new consignee with a new destination, that order constitutes a reshipment [see Com. Code § 2705(2)(c)], fixes the rights of the parties as of the time of the order, and protects the buyer against the original seller's right to stop delivery of the goods [Butts v. Glendale Plywood Co. (9th Cir. 1983) 710 F.2d 504, 505-506] .

10. If buyer wishes to deduct damages resulting from breach of contract from any part of price still due, advise buyer that buyer may do so on notifying seller [Com. Code § 2717; see § 52.481].

NOTE:

The plain meaning of Com. Code § 2717 is that the buyer may not set off a contractual claim against a debt on a separate contract. Moreover, the statute pre-empts the common law right of equitable set-off, in situations in which the statute applies [see AmerisourceBergen Corp. v. Dialysist West, Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 445 F.3d 1132, 1135-1136 (construing Arizona statute identical to Com. Code § 2717)].

11. If seller, or a person in position of a seller [see Com. Code § 2707], is holding sale of contract goods pursuant to Com. Code § 2706 as result of breach by buyer, advise client that seller must:

a. Give buyer reasonable notice of intention to resell if sale is private [Com. Code § 2706(3); see § 52.482].

b. Give buyer reasonable notice of time and place of resale if sale is public, unless goods are perishable or threaten to speedily decline in value [Com. Code § 2706(4)].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.151

§ 52.151 Telephone, Mail Order, Catalog, or Internet Sales

1. Have client comply with early correspondence requirement [see P 2, below] if client is either [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a)]:

- a. Person who sells or leases goods or services or offers them for sale or lease, and who accepts payment from or for buyer.
- b. Person who advertises mailing address or telephone number in connection with sale or lease described in P 1(a), above, and who accepts payment from or for buyer.

2. If early correspondence requirement applies, then do not allow 30 days to pass without doing one of following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a)]:

- a. Shipping, mailing, or providing goods or services ordered.
- b. Mailing full refund.
- c. If payment was made by transfer from an account, either crediting account in full amount of debit, or, if third party is creditor, issuing credit memorandum to third party, who must promptly credit account in full amount of debit.
- d. Sending written notice to buyer stating length of expected delay or proposing substitution of goods or services of equivalent or superior quality, and offering to make full refund if buyer so requests.

NOTE:

The notice must include a toll-free telephone number or other cost-free way for the buyer to communicate a refund request. If substitution is proposed, the vendor must describe the substitute goods or services, stating in full how they differ from the goods ordered [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a)(3)].

e. Shipping, mailing, or providing substitute goods or services of equivalent or superior quality, if buyer is given chance to return substitutes and vendor promises refund on return.

NOTE:

Goods or services are of "equivalent or superior" quality only if they are substantially similar to those ordered, fit for the usual purposes for which the goods or services ordered are used, and normally offered by the vendor at a price equal to or greater than the price of those ordered [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(b)].

(1) Accompany substitute goods or services with notice that [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a)(4)]:

(a) Informs buyer of substitution;

(b) Explains how substitutes differ from what was ordered (obvious nontechnical differences, such as color, need not be explained); and

(c) Discloses the buyer's right to reject the substitutes and obtain a full refund.

(2) If desired, omit description of how substitute goods or services differ if notice in (1), above, otherwise complies with the statutory requirements and vendor complies with all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a)(4)(C)]:

(a) Vendor maintains at least 100 retail outlets in at least 20 California counties where catalog goods are sold to the public during normal business hours.

(b) Vendor maintains a toll-free telephone number and provides to each buyer, at the time of the buyer's call, a complete description of how substitute goods or services differ from those ordered.

(c) If buyer picks up substitute goods or services from vendor's retail outlet, required notice must be placed on exterior of package containing the goods or handed to buyer.

(d) Notice contains a reference number or other means of identification of ordered goods or services and substitute goods or services.

(e) Notice contains vendor's toll-free number and instructions that buyer may call that number to obtain a complete description of how substitute goods or services differ from those ordered.

3. Do not comply with 30-day response period if [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a)]:

a. Advertisement or offering conspicuously states that the requirement does not apply; or

b. Shorter time is clearly communicated by person conducting sale or lease.

4. Respond within 50 days if buyer makes initial application for open-end credit plan [see 15 U.S.C. § 1682 (definition)] at same time goods or services are ordered, and goods or services are to be bought on credit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(c)].

NOTE:

For discussion of open-end credit plans, see Ch. 46, Credit Cards and Other Open-End Credit Transactions.

5. If client is vendor conducting business through Internet or any other electronic means of communications, instruct client to comply with following disclosure requirements:

a. Before accepting or processing any payment, disclose to buyer in writing or by electronic means [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d)(1)]:

(1) Vendor's return and refund policy.

(2) Legal name under which vendor conducts business.

(3) Vendor's complete street address at which business is actually conducted [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d)(3) (exceptions to this disclosure requirement)].

b. If disclosure of legal name and address is made by on-screen notice, do all of following [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d)(2)]:

(1) Disclose information on first screen displayed, or screen on which goods or services are offered, or screen on which buyer may place order or enter payment information.

NOTE:

For nonbrowser based technologies, the information must be disclosed in a manner that gives the user a reasonable opportunity to review the information [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d)(2)(A)]. The communication of this disclosure must not be structured to be smaller or less legible than the text of the offer of the goods or services [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d)(2)(A)].

(2) Accompany disclosure with adjacent statement describing how buyer may receive this information at buyer's e-mail address.

NOTE:

The vendor must provide the disclosure information to the buyer at the buyer's e-mail address within five days of receiving the buyer's request [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d)(2)(B)].

(3) Until vendor meets requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(a) as discussed in PP 1-3, above, in connection with all buyers of vendor's goods or services, make on-screen access to required disclosure information available to buyer and any person or entity who may enforce Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538.

6. Determine whether goods or services involved fit within one of following exceptions to early correspondence requirement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538.3; see P 1, above]:

NOTE:

The early correspondence requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538 [see P 1, above] do not apply to the exceptions enumerated in Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538.3 [see PP a-e, below], except that Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(d) (required disclosure of Internet vendors return and refund policy, legal name and address, and other specified information) and Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538(e) (requirement that vendor who offers return and refund policy allowing return of goods or cancellation of services to process and send to buyer any refund due within 30 days or to otherwise arrange to credit buyer's account) apply to Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538.3(a)-(d) [PP a-d, below].

a. If following requirements relating to advertising are met, one of required events described in P 2, above, must occur no later than expiration of period specified in advertisement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17538.3(a)]:

(1) All advertising for goods or services contains notice as to each thing offered that delay may be expected for specified period.

(2) In printed advertisements, notice must be in type at least as large as that showing price.

b. Goods or services, such as quarterly magazines, that by nature are not ready for use or consumption until future date and that for this reason cannot be stocked at time of order.

c. Installments (other than the first installment) of goods, such as magazine subscriptions, ordered for serial delivery.

d. Any telecommunication goods and services sold by telecommunications companies, except those purchased for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.

e. Financial services offered in ordinary course of business by supervised bank, national banking association, bank holding company, state or federal savings and loan association, state or federal credit union, or subsidiary or affiliate of any of these, or by authorized industrial loan company, licensed personal property broker, licensed consumer finance lender, licensed commercial finance lender, or persons licensed under the Real Estate Law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.].

f. Delay in delivery of goods or services caused by United States Postal Service, act of God, or labor strike by vendor's employees.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.152

§ 52.152 Unsolicited Sales

1. Do not offer goods for sale in offer that includes voluntary and unsolicited sending of items not actually ordered or requested by recipient [Civ. Code § 1584.5].

NOTE:

The receipt of unsolicited items is deemed an unconditional gift to the recipient, who may use or dispose of the goods or materials in any manner he or she sees fit without any obligation on his or her part to the sender. If the recipient is later billed or receives requests for payment, he or she may bring an action to enjoin this conduct, in which action reasonable attorneys' fees and costs may be awarded to the prevailing party [Civ. Code § 1584.5].

2. To avoid ban on unsolicited sales, set up contractual plan or arrangement under which seller periodically provides consumer with form or announcement card that he or she may use to instruct seller not to ship offered merchandise [Civ. Code § 1584.5(a)].

NOTE:

Other exceptions from the unsolicited merchandise requirements are continuity plans, subscription arrangements, standing order arrangements, and supplements and series arrangements under which the seller periodically ships merchandise to a consumer who has consented in advance to receive it on a periodic basis [Civ. Code § 1584.5(b)].

a. Comply with following requirements for form [Civ. Code § 1584.5(a)]:

(1) Specify date by which form must be mailed by consumer ("mailing date") or received by seller ("return date") to prevent shipment of offered merchandise.

(2) Seller must meet one of following requirements:

NOTE:

Whichever system the seller chooses for mailing, the system must be calculated to afford the consumer at least 10 days in which to mail the form [Civ. Code § 1584.5(a)].

(a) Mail form at least either:

(i) 25 days prior to return date, or

(ii) 20 days prior to mailing date; or

(b) Provide mailing date of at least 10 days after receipt by consumer.

b. On membership contract or application form, or on same page and immediately adjacent to contract or form, and in clear and conspicuous language, disclose material terms of plan or arrangement, including all of following [Civ. Code § 1584.5(a)]:

(1) Aspect of plan under which subscriber must notify seller, in manner provided for by seller, if he or she does not wish to purchase or receive selection.

(2) Any obligation assumed by subscriber to purchase a minimum quantity of merchandise.

(3) Right of a contract-complete subscriber to cancel membership at any time.

(4) Whether billing charges will include amount for postage and handling.

3. If sending or causing to be sent unsolicited advertising by e-mail, include following in all documents to allow recipient to notify sender not to e-mail further unsolicited documents:

NOTE:

The federal Controlling the Assault of Non-Solicited Pornography and Marketing Act of 2003 (popularly referred to as the CAN-SPAM Act of 2003) [15 U.S.C. § 7701 et seq., Pub. L. 108-187, 117 Stat. 2699] took effect on January 1, 2004. The Act generally requires unsolicited commercial e-mail messages to be labeled (though not by any standard method) and to include opt-out instructions and the sender's physical address. The law prohibits the use of deceptive subject lines and false headers in those messages [see 15 U.S.C. § 7704(a); but see 15 U.S.C. § 7710(b) (FTC may not require inclusion of specific words, characters, marks, or labels in commercial e-mail messages)]. The law preempts state laws that require labels on unsolicited commercial e-mail or prohibit those messages entirely; however, state laws merely addressing falsity and deception remain in effect [see 15 U.S.C. § 7707(b)]. Advertisement or transmission of sexually oriented material is subject to additional requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 7704(d)].

For more detailed discussion of the CAN-SPAM legislation, see Ch. 50, Advertising and Promotion, § 50.11[6][b].

a. Functioning return e-mail address, clearly and conspicuously displayed, that recipient may use to submit reply e-mail requesting no further solicitation [see 15 U.S.C. § 7704(a)(3)].

- b. Clear and conspicuous identification that the message is advertisement or solicitation [15 U.S.C. § 7704(a)(5)].
- c. Clear and conspicuous notice of opportunity to decline to receive further commercial electronic mail messages from the sender [15 U.S.C. § 7704(a)(5)].
- d. Sender's valid physical postal address [15 U.S.C. § 7704(a)(5)].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Complete Form

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.200

§ 52.200 Simple Contract for Sale of Goods

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete simple contract for the sale of goods. It is "simple" in that the parties set out only the basic parts of their agreement and rely on the Commercial Code to define all other rights and obligations. The Commercial Code was intended to allow the enforcement of this type of simple contract as long as the parties intended to contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for giving an appropriate remedy [Com. Code § 2204(3); see § 52.14[1]]. Thus, for example, Com. Code §§ 2305-2311 provide gap-filling rules that apply in the absence of agreement to the contrary. For discussions of these rules, see §§ 52.15, 52.204[1] (output contracts), 52.223[1] (leaving particulars to be specified by one party), 52.230[1] (setting price), 52.234[1] (delivery or payment in installments), 52.250[1] (time for delivery), 52.251[1] (place of delivery), 52.258[1] (oversees shipment bill of lading requirements), 52.259[1] ("no arrival, no sale" clauses), and 52.260[1] (delivery of documents of title against which drafts have been drawn).

[b] Basic Terms of Contract

The "basic terms" of the contract are those terms necessary or advisable to include in all contracts, even when relying on the gap-filling provisions of the Commercial Code. Although a contract for sale may leave one or more terms open, the terms that are provided must be sufficiently definite [Com. Code § 2311(1)] to give a reasonably certain basis for an appropriate remedy [Com. Code § 2204(3)]. Thus it is always advisable to date the contract, identify the parties, and have the seller agree to sell and deliver and the buyer to accept and pay for specified goods [see Com. Code § 2301 (basic obligation of parties is for seller to transfer and deliver and buyer to accept and pay for goods in accordance with contract)]. The parties would also be well-advised to consider stating what law governs the transaction, especially if more than one state or nation will be involved [see Com. Code § 1301; see also § 52.358[1]].

At a minimum, even under the liberal formation rules of the Commercial Code, a contract must include a mutual assent to the transfer of goods for a consideration [see Zamore v. Whitten (Me. 1978) 395 A.2d 435, 25 U.C.C. Rep. 1245; Hart & Willier, Forms and Procedures Under the UCC, Article 2: Sales, Part 1, General, P 21.01 (Matthew Bender)]. A contract for the sale of goods for a price of $500 or more is unenforceable under the statute of frauds unless it is in writing, evidences a contract for the sale of goods, is signed, and has a quantity term [Com. Code § 2201(1), comment 1; see Com. Code § 1201(b)(37) "signed" defined; Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 277-278, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (car dealership's printed name appearing in newspaper advertisement constituted signature satisfying statute of frauds); see also § 52.14[3]].

Exactly which other terms should be considered "basic" enough to be included depends on the nature of the transaction and the wishes of the parties. For example, a price term is clearly a very important term even though Com. Code § 2305 expressly permits it to be left open [see § 52.230[1]]. However, the nature of a particular industry or the overall economy may make it difficult or unwise to try to set a fixed price if, for example, the seller is a manufacturer whose costs may be subject to sudden steep increases, or if the parties expect significant fluctuations in the market price of the goods.

For a further discussion of contracts for the sale of goods, see § 52.202[1]. For a discussion of general contract principles, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Complete Form

§ 52.201 Memorandum of Sale or Purchase[1] Comment--Use of Form

These forms are memoranda of a sale or purchase. A memorandum is used for simple, straightforward transactions or in any other situation in which a formal contract would be unnecessary or inappropriate--for example, when the time or expense of drafting a formal contract would be a problem. A memorandum can be useful even if the parties plan to draft a more complex and formal agreement at a later time, because some simple record of the parties' agreement may be necessary to avoid a bar to enforcement of the agreement under the applicable statute of frauds [see Com. Code § 2201; see also § 52.14[3]].

A memorandum resembles a simple contract in that it states only the essential parts of the agreement. This structure makes the memorandum the appropriate model on which to base purchase orders, sales orders, and other standardized forms that are designed to be filled out immediately after an oral agreement has been reached. The three alternatives illustrated in this form are: (1) a general memorandum; (2) a memorandum used by sales personnel to take orders; and (3) a memorandum of a purchase order. In the case of the last two, the agreement is not complete until accepted by the other party.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
 CHAPTER 52 SALES OF GOODS UNDER THE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Complete Form

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.202

§ 52.202 Contract for Sale of Goods With Detailed Provisions

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete contract for the sale of goods. Its provisions are more detailed than those of the form in § 52.200[2]. In this contract, the parties define most aspects of their transaction and do not rely on the gap-filling provisions of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2305-2311; see also § 52.200[1]]. If it is necessary or desirable to vary a particular provision in this form, it may be modified by adding any of the optional or alternative provisions illustrated in this chapter.

[b] "Agreement" and "Contract" Defined

"Agreement" means the bargain of the parties in fact as found in their language or by implication from other circumstances, including course of dealing, usage of trade, and course of performance as provided in the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 1201(b)(3); see Com. Code §§ 1303, 2202 (implication of agreement from circumstances), including course of dealing or performance or trade usage); see, e.g., Insurance Co. of No. Am. v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115 (under former Com. Code § 1205(1), now Com. Code § 1303(b), receipt of 47 identical invoices for 47 separate transactions was sufficient to constitute course of dealing, modifying shipping agreement); see also § 52.15[2]]. Whether an agreement has legal consequences is determined by the Commercial Code if applicable, and otherwise by the law of contracts [Com. Code § 1201(b)(3); see Com. Code § 1103(b) (contract law supplements Commercial Code unless displaced by particular provisions)].

"Contract" means the total legal obligation that results from the parties' agreement as affected by the Commercial Code and any other applicable rules of law [Com. Code § 1201(b)(12)]. The statutory rules generally applicable to contracts are contained in Civ. Code § 1549 et seq. For discussion of these rules, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

[c] Formation and Definiteness

A contract for the sale of goods may be made in any way that suffices to show agreement, including conduct by both parties that recognizes the existence of the contract [Com. Code § 2204(1)]. Even if one or more terms are left open, a contract for sale does not fail for indefiniteness if the parties intended to make a contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for giving an appropriate remedy [Com. Code § 2204(3); see § 52.14]. An agreement for sale that is otherwise sufficiently definite to be a contract is not invalid because it leaves particulars of performance to be specified by one of the parties. However, the specification must be made in good faith and within the limits of commercial reasonableness [Com. Code § 2311(1)].

[d] Warranties, Samples, and Models

This contract includes a disclaimer of express warranties [see P 9], including a disclaimer of any warranty that the goods will conform to any sample or model, and a disclaimer of implied warranties [see P 10]. For discussion of express warranties, see § 52.290[1]. For discussion of the disclaimer of express warranties, see §§ 52.291[1] and 52.292[1]. For discussion of the dominance of express warranties over implied in the sale of nonconsumer goods, see § 52.293[1]. For discussion of implied warranties, see § 52.294[1]. For discussion of the disclaimer of implied warranties, see § 52.295[1].

[e] Reducing Time for Bringing Action

Com. Code § 2725(1) provides that an action for the breach of any contract for the sale of goods must be begun within four years after the cause of action accrues. By their original agreement the parties may reduce the period of limitation to not less than one year, but they may not extend it [Com. Code § 2725(1)]. A cause of action accrues when the breach occurs, regardless of the aggrieved party's lack of knowledge of the breach. A breach of warranty occurs when tender of delivery is made, except that when a warranty explicitly extends to future performance of the goods and discovery of the breach must await the time of that performance, the cause of action accrues when the breach is or should have been discovered [Com. Code § 2725(2); see Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 131-133, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5 (seller's promise that product would work for 50,000 cycles did not fall within future-performance exception in Com. Code § 2725(2) because it did not specify date or time in future, nor did it pertain to time period that could be determined by reference to external source, and buyer could have discovered defect at any time without waiting for completion of 50,000 cycles; additionally, both parties were large and sophisticated companies and could have drafted their agreement to explicitly state duration of warranty so as to ensure that limitation period would extend beyond four years, if that had been their intent); Carrau v. Marvin Lumber and Cedar Co. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 281, 290-292, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869 (generalized assertions in advertisements and literature do not rise to the level of a warranty explicitly extending to "future performance"; plaintiff thus did not meet exception to four-year limitation period)].

Paragraph 21 of this form contains a provision specifying the period within which an action under the contract must be commenced.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.203

§ 52.203 Bill of Sale

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a bill of sale designed to be used when a sale of goods is to be consummated by immediate transfer rather than executory promises. This is a contract of sale reflecting an immediate transfer of title. Although an ordinary contract of sale could be used for an immediate transfer, a simple bill of sale may be all that is needed, because, unless otherwise agreed, title to goods passes to the buyer when the seller completes delivery [Com. Code § 2401(2)].

Bills of sale are governed by Civ. Code §§ 1052-1072. A transfer in writing is called a "grant," "conveyance," or "bill of sale" [Civ. Code § 1053]. A grant effectively vests the interest to be transferred only on its delivery by the grantor [Civ. Code § 1054]. A grant duly executed is presumed to have been delivered on the date it was executed [Civ. Code § 1055]. Except as provided in Civ. Code §§ 1066-1072, a grant is to be interpreted in the same way as any other contract [Civ. Code § 1066; see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions].

 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Complete Form

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.204

§ 52.204 Output Contracts

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains two alternative output contracts, the first long and detailed, the second short and simple. The first alternative may be used if the parties want a relatively detailed contract, with provisions covering such points as the ownership of patents and inventions, a noncompetition (exclusive dealing) clause, a hold harmless (or indemnity) clause, access to records, authority to buy raw materials, spare parts, and designs and specifications. The second alternative may be used when the parties need only a simple output contract providing little beyond price, term of agreement, and a description of the goods.

The more detailed first alternative is basically designed to be used in transactions involving the manufacture of complex goods such as heavy machinery. Accordingly, it contains provisions such as Paragraph 6 governing dies, jigs, patterns, and tools, and Paragraph 7 relating to engineering quarters. If this first alternative is to be used for contracts for the sale of other kinds of goods, it must be carefully and thoroughly revised.

[b] Nature of Output Contracts

Output contracts measure the quantity of goods to be sold by the output of the seller. In an output contract, "output" means the actual good faith production of the seller [Com. Code § 2306(1)]. This good faith requirement makes an output contract sufficiently definite to be binding [Com. Code § 2306, comment 2].

Even though the quantity term may remain indefinite, no quantity unreasonably disproportionate to any stated estimate, or in the absence of a stated estimate, to any normal or otherwise comparable prior output, may be tendered or demanded [Com. Code § 2306(1)]. If an output agreement calls for the buyer and seller to buy and sell the kind of goods concerned only to and from each other, it imposes an obligation on the seller to use his or her best efforts to supply the goods and on the buyer to use his or her best efforts to promote their sale, unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 2306].

[c] Noncompetition Clauses

The first alternative output contract contains a noncompetition or exclusive dealing clause [see P 9]. Although Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600 provides that, except as otherwise provided by statute, every contract by which anyone is restrained from engaging in a lawful profession, trade, or business is to that extent void, it does not bar an output or requirements contract from requiring that the parties deal exclusively with one another. An agreement of this kind is customary, reasonable, and not contrary to the public interest [Corbin on Contracts (West 1963), vol. 6A, § 1412]. An exclusive dealings agreement is not intended to restrain business, but rather to promote it. If the public interest is not harmed and the restraint on one party is not greater than protection to the other requires, the contract will be sustained even though it may in some degree restrain trade [Great Western Etc. v. J. A. Wathen D. Co. (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 442, 445-446, 448-450, 74 P.2d 745 ; see Dayton Time Lock Service, Inc. v. Silent Watchman Corp. (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6-7, 124 Cal. Rptr. 678 (exclusive dealing contracts unlawful only if performance will foreclose competition in a substantial share of the affected line of commerce)].

For agreements by employees not to compete with employers, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, §§ 85.470-85.473. For noncompetition provisions to be included in a contract for the sale of a business, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business, §§ 17.213 and 17.261.

[d] Hold Harmless Clause

The first alternative includes a hold harmless provision. A hold harmless or indemnity provision is one by which a party engages to save another from a legal consequence of the conduct of one of the parties or of some other person [Civ. Code § 2772]. An agreement to indemnify against a subsequent act is void if the actor knows at the time of the act that it is illegal [Civ. Code § 2773]. For further discussion, see "Definitions of Indemnity and Insurance" in the Legal Background to Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity.

The first alternative also includes a warranty clause in which the manufacturer agrees to extend to the buyer the same warranty that the buyer is providing to the user of the goods. The specific terms of the warranty are left blank for the parties to fill in as appropriate to the circumstances of the transaction. For examples of warranty clauses and a discussion of express warranties, see § 52.290. For disclaimers of implied warranties, see § 52.295[2].

OUTPUT CONTRACT

THIS CONTRACT is entered into by _____, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, hereinafter referred to as the "Company," and _____ Manufacturing Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____, hereinafter referred to as "Manufacturer," in consideration of the mutual promises and conditions expressed below.

Purpose of Contract

1. The Company is about to undertake the sale of _____ [e.g., tractors] like or substantially like its _____ [e.g., Model B], as shown by the _____ [e.g., tractor] in the possession of the Company and by the preliminary plans and specifications that have been delivered by the Company to the Manufacturer. The Company needs a source of manufacture that will assure the prompt and regular manufacture and delivery of the Company's _____ [e.g., Model B tractors] in the quantities that may be necessary to fill all orders which the Company may obtain.

Quantity

2. The Company shall buy from the Manufacturer, and the Manufacturer shall manufacture and sell to the Company, all of the _____ [e.g., tractors] to be manufactured within _____ years from the date of this contract or during the term of this contract, and the minimum number of _____ [e.g., Model B tractors] shall be constructed in accordance with the final detailed plans and specifications to be delivered by the Company to the Manufacturer. These plans shall be identified by the signature of the parties and marked as Exhibits A and B. The _____ [e.g., tractors] are to be delivered as follows: During the _____ month after the date of this contract, _____ [number] _____ [e.g., tractors]; during the _____ month, _____ [number] _____ [e.g., tractors]; during the _____ month, _____ [number] _____ [e.g., tractors]. The rate of delivery during subsequent months shall be specified in orders given at least _____ days before the date when delivery is required.

Payment

3. The Company shall pay to the Manufacturer the sum of $ _____ for each _____ [e.g., Model B tractor] manufactured and delivered under the terms of this contract. On the completion of the manufacture and assembly of the _____ [e.g., tractors] and their test, which shall commence within _____ days after notice of completion and acceptance by the Company, the Manufacturer must submit invoices for each _____ [e.g., tractor]. The Company shall pay the invoices within _____ days following submission of those invoices.

Specifications

4. The Company shall furnish to the Manufacturer all designs, working drawings, and specifications. The Company shall specify all materials and parts necessary or desirable to the manufacture of its _____ [e.g., Model B tractor]. The Company's decision on specifications shall be final, but the Company shall specify materials and parts that are readily obtainable. It is understood and agreed that as between the parties, their successors and assigns, the Company is the owner of and has the sole exclusive right to the possession and use of all plans, specifications, drawings, tracings, blueprints, and designs used in the manufacture of the _____ [e.g., Model B tractors].

Assembly

5. The Manufacturer agrees to buy all raw materials and parts and to manufacture and assemble the _____ [e.g., Model B tractors] complete, in accordance with the plans and specifications marked as Exhibits A and B, as explained or modified by any further plans and specifications that the Company may later deliver to the Manufacturer. If a modification increases the Manufacturer's cost of producing any _____ [e.g., Model B tractor], it is agreed that the amount of the increased cost shall be added to the purchase price of each tractor affected.

Dies, Jigs, Patterns, and Tools

6. The necessary dies, jigs, patterns, and tools, other than machine tools, to be used in the manufacture of the _____ [e.g., tractors] shall be manufactured or purchased by the Manufacturer under the directions of the Company or its representatives. The cost of these items to the Manufacturer shall be reimbursed by the Company in the same manner as payment is made for the _____ [e.g., tractors]. The calculation of the cost shall be based on the out-of-hand payments for labor and materials plus _____ percent on direct labor. The total reimbursement, however, may not exceed the sum of $ _____. On payment the dies, jigs, patterns, and tools become the Company's property, but the Manufacturer may use them to carry out this contract.

Engineering Quarters

7. The Manufacturer shall furnish to the Company and its representatives suitable quarters for the convenience of the Company's engineering department at the place of manufacture.

Trademarks, Trade Names, and Designs

8. The Company, its successors and assigns shall have the exclusive right to use all designs, trademarks, and trade names that have been or may be used on or in connection with the sale of _____ [e.g., tractors] by the Company, its predecessors, successors, assignors, and assigns, including, in particular, the trade name "_____", and agrees that it shall not use or cause to be used any of these designs, trademarks, or trade names except as permitted by the Company, its successors and assigns.

Noncompetition Provision

9. The Manufacturer agrees that during the period of this contract it shall not manufacture or sell, except for and to the Company, any _____ [e.g., tractor] bearing the name "_____", or any _____ [e.g., tractor] like or substantially like _____ [e.g., Model B tractor], or any other _____ [e.g., tractor] the sale of which is in competition with _____ [e.g., Model B tractor] or any other _____ [e.g., tractor] manufactured or sold by the Company.

Patents

10. The Manufacturer, for itself, its officers, agents, and employees, agrees to transfer to the Company, its successors or assigns any improvements or inventions which, during the term of this contract, shall be made by the Manufacturer or any of its employees on the _____ [e.g., Model B tractor], or which may be suitable for use with or on that _____ [e.g., tractor]. The Manufacturer further agrees immediately on the invention or discovery of any improvement or invention by it or its employees during the term of the contract to disclose that improvement or invention to the Company. At the request of the Company, the Manufacturer shall cause the inventor or inventors of these improvements or inventions to execute, assign, and deliver to the Company any patent applications for the inventions or improvements that the Company prepares for that purpose. The Manufacturer further agrees to give all the assistance and information that the Company may need or desire in the prosecution of the applications. The Company agrees to pay all fees and expenses connected with these applications and to take complete charge of the preparation and prosecution of the patent applications. The parties agree that any patents on any improvements or inventions shall be assigned to the Company. The Manufacturer admits the priority and validity of any patents that may be issued on United States Patent Applications Serial Numbers _____, _____, and _____, filed _____ [date], and of any other patents that the Company may obtain on the structure or design of _____ [e.g., the Model B tractor]. The Company agrees to hold the Manufacturer harmless from all liability under any patent by reason of the manufacture for or sale to the Company of _____ [e.g., Model B tractors], or any other _____ [e.g., tractors] that the Company may order from the Manufacturer, provided the Manufacturer gives prompt notice to the Company of any claim that the manufacture, use, or sale of these _____ [e.g., tractors] constitutes an infringement of any patent, and of any suit or action that may be commenced because of an alleged infringement. It is agreed that on the receipt of notice of this type of claim or action the Company, at its own expense, shall employ counsel and defend the action or do whatever else may be necessary to hold the Manufacturer harmless.

Access to Records

11. The Company and its representatives shall have full access during business hours to all records of the Manufacturer showing the character, quantity, and price of all materials purchased, and labor performed, and to all other records pertaining to this contract or to the performance of this contract.

Spare Parts

12. The spare parts that are or may be necessary for repairs or replacements on _____ [e.g., tractors] sold under this contract shall be manufactured and carried in stock by the Manufacturer (on the order of the Company) in sufficient quantity to meet, without delay, all reasonable requirements for spare parts. The Company agrees to pay semiannually the carrying charge on the money involved in the actual cost of the completed parts at the rate of _____ percent per annum. The Manufacturer shall furnish the necessary room for the storage of the spare parts and the Company shall make sales and shipments from that stock and shall pay for the spare parts shipped from the plant of the Manufacturer in the same manner as payment is made for the _____ [e.g., tractors], and at the prices later agreed on between the parties; provided, however, that if the parties cannot agree on a price the Company shall have the right to get the needed spare parts from any source it may desire.

Warranty

13. The Manufacturer understands that the Company intends to deliver to the user of the _____ [e.g., tractors] a guaranty in the exact form set forth below. The Manufacturer hereby makes to the Company the same guaranty as to faults of materials or labor: _____ [set forth exact wording of warranty; see § 52.290[2]].

Limited License to Use Patents and Inventions

14. The Company hereby agrees that for the purpose of performing this contract, but not otherwise, the Manufacturer is licensed to use in the manufacture of _____ [e.g., Model B tractors] sold to this Company all inventions and patents that the Company owns or controls, including patents or inventions that the Company is licensed by others to use, provided that the Manufacturer conforms to the terms of those licenses and affixes to the _____ [e.g., Model B tractors] all notices of patents and patents pending that the Company requires. It is understood, however, that the Manufacturer will not be required to pay any license fee or royalty by reason of that use.

Replacement of Nondefective Parts

15. In the event that the Company desires, as a matter of policy, to replace in the finished _____ [e.g., tractors] any parts that are not defective, the Manufacturer shall supply the replacement parts at cost.

Termination or Cancellation

16. The Manufacturer agrees to deliver to the Company on the termination or cancellation of this contract or on the order of the Company all plans, specifications, blueprints, designs, drawings, tracings, and models used in the manufacture of the _____ [e.g., Model B tractor], or delivered to the Manufacturer by the Company, and also all dies, jigs, patterns, and tools that the Company has paid for or ordered, or spare parts that may be manufactured or in process, as provided in Paragraph 12 of this contract.

It is agreed that the estimate of output capabilities of the Manufacturer with respect to the _____ [e.g., tractors] is _____ per month. This estimate is based on data supplied by the Manufacturer to the Company's industrial engineer.

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative requirements contracts. A "requirements" contract measures the quantity of goods to be purchased by the requirements of the buyer. In other words, the buyer promises to purchase from the seller all the goods of a specific type that the buyer requires in his or her business [Com. Code § 2306(1); see Varilease Technology Group, Inc. v. U.S. (Fed. Cir., 2002) 289 F.3d 795, 799 (distinguishing indefinite delivery, indefinite quantity ("ID/IQ") contract from requirements contract)]. This good faith requirement makes a requirements contract sufficiently definite to be binding [Com. Code § 2306, comment 2].

The first alternative is designed to be used when the parties want a relatively detailed contract, with provisions covering such points as manufacturing facilities, packaging requirements, future cooperation, warranties, the buyer's right to return defective goods, indemnity [see § 52.204[1][d]] and insurance, risk of loss [see Com. Code §§ 2509, 2510; see also §§ 52.280 and 52.281] and governing law [see Com. Code § 1301; see also § 52.358]. The second alternative is designed to be used when the parties need only a simple requirements contract providing little beyond price, term of agreement, and a description of the goods.

Both contracts provide an integration clause [see § 52.354]. Both set limits on the dealings of the parties in goods of the kind covered by the contract. For a discussion of the validity of restrictions on the right to deal in goods that are the subject of an output or requirements agreement, see § 52.204[1][c].

The specific terms of the manufacturer's warranty required by Paragraph 9 of the first alternative are left blank for the parties to fill in as appropriate to the circumstances of the transaction. For examples of warranty clauses and a discussion of express warranties, see § 52.290. For disclaimers of implied warranties, see § 52.295.

[b] Quantity Term

Even though the quantity term remains indefinite, no quantity unreasonably disproportionate to any stated estimate, or in the absence of a stated estimate, to any normal or otherwise comparable prior requirements, may be tendered or demanded [Com. Code § 2306(1)]. If an output [see § 52.204] or requirements contract provides for exclusive dealing in the kind of goods concerned, it imposes an obligation on the seller to use best efforts to supply the goods and on the buyer to use best efforts to promote their sale, unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 2306]. Paragraph 12 of the first alternative does vary this obligation somewhat by calling for "reasonable" efforts.

[c] Allocation of Production

When the occurrence of a contingency not contemplated by the parties affects a portion of the seller's ability to perform under a sales contract, including a requirements sales contract, the seller must allocate production and delivery among customers in a manner that is fair and reasonable [Com. Code § 2615(b); see § 52.320[1][c]]. Thus during the gasoline shortage of 1973, oil companies that had requirements contracts with their service station dealers were able to allocate gasoline and petroleum products among those dealers according to the amount sold by each dealer in preceding years [see Terry v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 962, 966, 971, 140 Cal. Rptr. 510].

REQUIREMENTS CONTRACT

THIS CONTRACT is entered into this _____ day of _____ [month, year], by _____ [name], a California corporation with its principal place of business at _____ [address], hereinafter referred to as "Seller," and _____ [name], _____ [principal address], hereinafter referred to as "Buyer," in consideration of the mutual promises and conditions expressed below.

Purpose of Contract

1. Buyer is in the _____ [e.g., retail household merchandise business] with a number of large consumer outlets, and Seller has acquired exclusive patent rights on a certain _____ [e.g., electric carving knife] known as "_____" and referred to in this contract as the _____ [e.g., "knife"]. A copy of the letters patent is attached to and made a part of this contract. Buyer wants to market the _____ [e.g., knife] in its retail outlets at a price that will be lower than that of the major competitors, and Seller wants to manufacture substantial quantities of the _____ [e.g., knife].

Manufacturing Facilities

2. Seller shall immediately undertake to tool up and arrange the necessary industrial facilities to manufacture the _____ [e.g., knife] by means of mass production. Buyer shall advance to Seller the sum of $ _____ to help defray the cost of this mechanization, on the execution of this contract, receipt of which is hereby acknowledged as an advance payment and not as a loan. The advance payment shall be applied to the price of the initial deliveries until it has been absorbed. Seller represents that it has title to the realty located in _____ County where its plant is located, and that these facilities will be used for the manufacture of the _____ [e.g., knife]. Seller may, at its option, at any time cause these facilities to be relocated or build or acquire new or additional facilities, provided that the estimated production schedules and projected delivery schedules in this contract are not interrupted or impaired.

Quantity

3. Seller shall manufacture and deliver and Buyer shall accept and buy all of the _____ [e.g., knives] that may be required by Buyer in its business. The parties agree that this item is new and that any projections or estimates in this contract are subject to change. It is agreed that Buyer estimates that it will require approximately _____ [number] _____ [e.g., knives] every year for the duration of this contract. Seller estimates that it will be able to manufacture the amount of _____ [e.g., knives] Buyer will require and that it will be able, after some experience and time for experimentation, to increase the production schedule. The term of this contract shall be for a period of _____ years from its date.

Price

4. Buyer agrees to pay to Seller $ _____ for each _____ [specify pricing unit, e.g., gross of or box of 100] _____ [e.g., knives]. Payment is due _____ [specify time for payment, e.g., within 30 days after Buyer receives the goods]. If Seller reduces manufacturing costs by more than _____ percent through the reasonable efforts to improve production procedures required by Paragraph 12 of this contract, then the price per _____ [unit] to Buyer must be reduced by a percentage equal to the percentage of reduction in manufacturing costs.

Increase in Requirements

5. If Buyer requires more than _____ [number] _____ [e.g., knives], Buyer shall pay in advance an amount equal to _____ [e.g., one-third] of the price for the additional _____ [e.g., knives] needed for the ensuing _____ [e.g., six] months after written notice to Seller of an increase in requirements. Seller agrees to use the advance funds for the sole purpose of making the necessary arrangements to increase the production to meet Buyer's additional requirements.

Delivery

6. The approximate initial delivery date shall be _____ months from the date of this contract. Seller shall, on or before that date, deliver the _____ [e.g., knives], contained in _____ [e.g., corrugated individual packaging] and ready for immediate retail marketing. Thereafter, Seller shall deliver to Buyer all of the _____ [e.g., knives] required by Buyer as indicated by Buyer in writing to Seller. Seller shall deliver the _____ [e.g., knives] on Buyer's written request to the particular warehouse, storage facility, or retail outlet requested by Buyer.

Sale of Goods to Other Parties

7. It is agreed that Seller will not sell, deliver, or in any way place the _____ [e.g., knives] in the hands of any other party without the prior written consent of Buyer. If Buyer does consent, Buyer shall be entitled to a commission of _____ percent on each and every sale of the _____ [e.g., knives] to a third party by Seller. Seller agrees to deliver the _____ [e.g., knives], on the written request of Buyer to the particular warehouse, storage facility, or retail outlet designated by Buyer.

Cooperation

8. Seller agrees to provide the necessary cooperation and assistance to the advertising agent of Buyer and Seller agrees to permit photographs, films, and other reproductions to be taken in its plant at _____ [address], and to supply any data, on reasonable request, for advertising purposes, including the submission of the _____ [e.g., knife] to any tests conducted for the purpose of enhancing its sale. Buyer agrees to use all reasonable efforts to promote and sell the _____ [e.g., knife] at its retail outlets. It is understood, however, that Buyer has already made commitments with respect to competing merchandise and it is understood that Buyer will continue to market competing merchandise. It is the intent of Buyer to market the _____ [e.g., knives] sold under this contract at a lower price than any competing instrument, but Buyer is under no obligation to continue to sell the _____ [e.g., knives] at this lower cost. Seller agrees to continue to make reasonable efforts to improve the _____ [e.g., knife] and to improve production procedures so as to reduce manufacturing costs, and Buyer agrees to use reasonable efforts to promote and sell the _____ [e.g., knife] and to attempt to sell it at a lower cost than competing _____ [e.g., knives] to the purchasing public.

Inclusion of Manufacturer's Warranty

9. Seller agrees to place the following manufacturer's warranty, in writing, in each package sold: _____ [insert the exact wording of the warranty; see § 52.290[2]].

Return of Defective Goods to Seller

10. Seller agrees to accept all defective _____ [e.g., knives] returned and to credit Buyer with the cost of these _____ [e.g., knives].

Indemnity and Insurance

11. Seller agrees to hold Buyer harmless and to defend any and all actions, claims, suits, or proceedings that may subject Buyer to liability for defects in the _____ [e.g., knives]. Seller represents that it now has in force a valid comprehensive liability insurance policy in the amount of $ _____ with _____ [name of insurance company], and that the policy covers the risk of liability for defects in the _____ [e.g., knives]. If this insurance coverage should change or lapse, Seller agrees that Buyer may pay the insurance premiums and deduct this expenditure from the payment due on the _____ [e.g., knives], beginning with the first shipment of _____ [e.g., knives] following the expenditure.

Reasonable Efforts

12. Seller shall continue to make reasonable efforts to improve the _____ [e.g., knives] and to improve production methods in order to reduce manufacturing costs. Buyer shall use reasonable efforts to promote and sell the _____ [e.g., knives] and to try to sell them at a lower cost to the public than competing _____ [e.g., knives].

Risk of Loss

13. All goods shall be shipped at the expense and risk of Seller until receipt of the goods by Buyer as set out in Paragraph 4 of this contract.

Termination

14. If Seller determines, at any time, that some unavoidable occurrence will prevent the continuing production of the _____ [e.g., knives] at the rate specified in this contract, Seller shall immediately notify Buyer of that fact and state its best estimate of the reduced schedule and the projected date on which production will be resumed at the previous rate. If the estimated rate or production falls below _____ percent and continues for a period of _____ months, Buyer may, at its option and without liability, notify Seller in writing of its decision to terminate this Agreement. If the reduced production is due to the neglect or fault of the Seller, termination of this contract will not be deemed a waiver of any damages for breach or of any other right or remedy. If Seller is not negligent or at fault, and notifies Buyer in writing as soon as it discovers the circumstances necessitating a reduced production rate, the termination of this contract shall not entitle Buyer to any damages.

Modification

15. The parties shall, from time to time, meet and reappraise the estimated schedule, costs, design, and production of the _____ [e.g., knife] with a view toward enhancing its marketability and reducing its cost.

Governing Law

16. This contract shall be governed by and interpreted according to California law.

Integration Clause

17. This instrument is the entire contract and exclusively determines the rights and obligations of the parties, any prior course of dealing, custom or usage of trade, or course of performance notwithstanding.

In witness of the mutual promises made above, Buyer and Seller have executed this contract this _____ day of _____ [month, year].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Complete Form

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.206

§ 52.206 Contract for Sale on Consignment With Factor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract for sales on consignment with a factor. It may be used as a model for drafting factor's, jobber's, distributor's, and wholesaler's agreements. For a discussion of these types of agreements, see Ch. 91, Contracts With Sales Representatives. For more detailed coverage of factoring arrangements, see Ch. 44, Accounts Receivable Financing and Factoring.

[b] Factors

A "factor" is an agent who, in the pursuit of an independent calling, is employed by another to sell property for him or her, and is vested by him or her with the possession or control of the property, or authorized to receive payment for the property from the buyer [Civ. Code § 2026.]

[c] Consignment Sales and Creditors' Rights

Unless otherwise agreed, if delivered goods may be returned by the buyer even though they conform to the contract, the transaction is a "sale or return" if the goods are delivered primarily for resale [Com. Code § 2326(1)(b)]. If the goods are delivered primarily for use, the transaction is a "sale on approval" [Com. Code § 2326(1)(a)]. Goods held on approval are not subject to the claims of the buyer's creditors until acceptance. Goods held on sale or return are subject to these claims while in the buyer's possession [Com. Code § 2326(2)]. Creditors of a business dealing in goods held on sale or return who have a priority security interest in those goods have an interest in the proceeds of their sale; that is, Com. Code § 2326(2) does not apply only to "goods" in the "possession" of the business [Bank of California v. Thornton-Blue Pacific Inc. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 841, 850-852, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 90 (sale of flowers and termination of security interest in them resulted in creditor holding security interest in sale proceeds under former Com. Code § 9306(2)--decided under prior law; now see Com. Code § 9315(a)(1), dealing with secured party's rights on disposition of collateral and in proceeds)].

If a person delivers or consigns for sale goods that the person used or bought for use for personal, family, or household purposes, these goods do not become the property of the deliverer or consignee unless the deliverer or consignee purchases and fully pays for the goods. However, the deliverer or consignee may act as the deliverer's agent to transfer title to these goods to a buyer who pays the full purchase price. Any payment received by the deliverer or consignee from a buyer of these goods, minus any amount which the deliverer expressly agreed could be deducted from the payment for commissions, fees, or expenses, is the property of the deliverer and is not be subject to the claims of the deliverer's or consignee's creditors [Com. Code § 2326(4)].

§ 52.207 Offer to Sell Goods[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form illustrates an offer to contract for the sale of goods. It is intended to be used as a model for the structure of an offer to sell, with particulars to be filled in from specific forms and clauses elsewhere in this chapter as indicated in the bracketed directions in the form. The specific terms and conditions are not filled in because a model offer with specific terms would merely repeat material already contained in the other complete contract forms. This is because the terms and conditions of the offer become the terms and conditions of the contract.

For specific clauses identifying the offer as firm, revocable, or one kept open for consideration, see § 52.220[2]. The drafter may also insert particular provisions to condition the acceptance of the offer [see § 52.221[2]] or control the effect of additional terms [see § 52.222[2]]. It is even possible to leave certain particulars to be specified later [see Com. Code § 2311; see also §§ 52.223, 52.224]. For a general discussion of offers to contract for the sale of goods, see § 52.14[4].

B. Alternative and Optional Clauses
1. Offer and Acceptance

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.220

§ 52.220 Firm Offers, Revocable Offers, and Options

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains clauses to insert in three alternative types of offers for the sale of goods. The type of clause that should be used depends on whether the offeror wants the offer to be revocable. Whichever clause is used, it must be included within a complete offer to contract, such as the form in § 52.207[2].

[b] Firm Offers

The first group of alternative clauses presented in this form is intended to provide "assurance" within the meaning of Com. Code § 2205. That section provides that an offer by a merchant to buy or sell goods in a signed writing which by its terms gives assurance that it will be held open may not be revoked for lack of consideration during the time stated or, if no time is stated, for a reasonable time. The period of irrevocability may not exceed three months in any case. If the form containing the offer is supplied by the offeree, the firm offer clause must be separately signed by the offeror in order to be effective [Com. Code § 2205(a)].

[c] Firm Offers by Contractors

Special rules apply to firm offers made to contractors. An offer by a merchant to supply goods to a licensed contractor [see Ch. 30D, Construction Contracts and Subcontracts, § 30D.21] is irrevocable for a limited time without consideration if the merchant has actual or imputed knowledge that the contractor is licensed and that the contractor will rely on the offer in bidding for a construction contract with a third party. This rule applies whether the offer is oral or written. The offer relied on will be irrevocable for 10 days after the awarding of the contract to the prime contractor, but in no event for more than 90 days after the merchant's offer. An oral offer for more than $2500 must be confirmed in writing by the contractor or the contractor's agent within 48 hours or the merchant is released from the offer. A merchant may vary these rules by providing that the offer will be held open for less than the time provided in this statute

[Com. Code § 2205(b)].

[d] Revocable Offers

The second group of alternatives in this form protects the offeror's right to revoke, preventing the offeror from unintentionally making a firm or irrevocable offer within the meaning of Com. Code § 2205.

[e] Options

The third group of alternatives is clauses to be included in offers that are irrevocable because they are supported by consideration, i.e., options [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.13]. They are designed for use when offer periods in excess of three months are desired [see Com. Code § 2205] or when consideration has in fact been given for an offer.

PART IV. FORMS
B. Alternative and Optional Clauses
1. Offer and Acceptance

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.221

§ 52.221 Clauses Conditioning the Acceptance of Offers

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of clauses that set conditions on the way an offer may be accepted. One of these clauses may be included in an offer when it is desirable to restrict acceptance of the offer to the method specified in that clause. For example, a retailer under pressure to deliver goods to a customer might need to know quickly that the wholesaler had accepted its offer and could deliver the necessary goods within the time set by the offer. This retailer might want to use the alternative below that provides for acceptance by return telegram.

When the offeror wants to control the manner of indicating acceptance and the medium through which acceptance must be communicated, the offer should so specify. Otherwise, any reasonable manner or medium of acceptance, including performance, may be effective [Com. Code § 2206(1); see § 52.14[5]].

B. Alternative and Optional Clauses
1. Offer and Acceptance

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.222

§ 52.222 Clauses Controlling the Effect of Additional Terms in Acceptances

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form sets out clauses that allow the offeror to control the effect of additional terms in an acceptance. The form contains three alternatives. These alternatives allow the offeror to control the effect of a qualified acceptance either by making it inoperative as an acceptance [see first alternative]; by rejecting in advance its modifications of or additions to the offer [see second alternative]; or by rejecting the addition of any terms and conditions without specific written assent [see third alternative]. In the absence of a clause controlling the effect of additional terms in an acceptance, a definite and seasonable acceptance operates as an acceptance even though it states terms additional to or different from those offered, unless acceptance is expressly made conditional on assent to the additional or different terms [Com. Code § 2207(1); see, e.g., PMC Inc. v. Porthole Yachts Ltd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 882, 888-889, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 832 (no acceptance found under Com. Code § 2207(1) due to timing of addendum to agreement sent on last day to accept, contents of addendum which contained new term, and cover letter emphasizing conditional nature of acceptance); Textile Unlimited, Inc. v. A..BMH and Co. Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 240 F.3d 781, 787-788 (contract containing new terms, including arbitration clause, not formed under Com. Code § 2207(1) when no specific and unequivocal assent was given to supplemental conditions)].

[b] Construction and Effect of Additional Terms

The additional terms are construed as proposals for addition to the contract [Com. Code § 2207(2)]. Between merchants, the additional terms become part of the contract unless (1) the offer expressly limits acceptance to terms of the offer; (2) they materially alter it; or (3) notification of objection to them has already been given or is given within a reasonable time after notice of them is received [Com. Code § 2207(2)]. If the terms of the offer and acceptance differ, the terms of the offer become part of a contract between merchants if the offer expressly limits acceptance to its own terms or if the varying terms of acceptance materially alter the terms of the offer [Steiner v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 90, 94, 141 Cal. Rptr. 157, 569 P.2d 751 ; see Lockheed Electronics Co. v. Keronix, Inc. (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 304, 311-313, 170 Cal. Rptr. 591] .

If the writings of the parties are not sufficient to establish a contract, a contract is still established if the conduct of both parties recognizes the existence of a contract. In that case, the contract terms consist of those terms on which the writings of the parties agree, plus any other terms incorporated under any provision of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2207(3); see Steiny and Company, Inc. v. California Electric Supply Co. Inc. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 285, 294-296, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 920 (when conduct by subcontractor and seller showed that contract had been formed despite materially differing terms of purchase order and invoice, trial court's failure to instruct jury on Com. Code § 2207 was prejudicial error); see also Textile Unlimited, Inc. v. A..BMH and Co. Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 240 F.3d 781, 787-788 (because under Com. Code § 2207(3) disputed additional terms on which parties do not agree drop out from contract, disputed arbitration clause did not become part of contract; UCC does not contain "gap-filler" provision providing for arbitration)].

[c] Cautionary Note

The attorney should be cautious in incorporating a provision, such as the first alternative, that totally rejects a qualified acceptance. This type of provision is generally inadvisable because the standard forms used in commercial transactions usually contain differing terms and conditions. However, use of a provision rejecting qualified acceptance will not preclude the existence of a contract between the parties if their course of conduct is sufficient to establish existence of a contract [Com. Code § 2207(3)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Controlling the Effect of Additional Terms in Acceptances

Rejection of Qualified Acceptances

Acceptance of this offer must be made on its exact terms. If additional or different terms are proposed by the offeree, the offeree's response shall constitute a counteroffer, and no contract shall come into existence without the offeror's assent to the counteroffer.

[OR]

Rejection of Additional Term of Acceptance

Acceptance of this offer is limited to its terms. Acceptances or confirmations that state additional or differing terms from this [offer or order] shall be operative as acceptances; provided, however, that all additional or differing terms shall be deemed material alterations within the meaning of Commercial Code 2207(2)(b), and notice of objection to them pursuant to Commercial Code Section 2207(2)(c) is hereby given.

[OR]

Written Assent to Additional Terms Required

This offer is subject to acceptance only on the terms and conditions stated in this offer. Any additional or different terms and conditions proposed by [Seller or Buyer] are hereby rejected, and shall be of no force or effect unless expressly assented to in writing by [Buyer or Seller]. There shall be no contract except on the terms and conditions provided in this offer.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.223

§ 52.223 Provisions Leaving Particulars of Performance to Be Specified by One Party

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains provisions that do not fix the particulars of performance, but leave them to be specified by one party. The specifications must be made in good faith and within the limits of commercial reasonableness [Com. Code § 2311(1)]. A contract containing this type of provision is not invalid for indefiniteness, because the requirement of good faith and commercial reasonableness prevents surprise and limits the range of permissible variation [Com. Code § 2311(1)]. For further discussion, see § 52.15[8]. For clauses providing for the subsequent specification by one party of the assortment of the contract goods, see § 52.224[2].

The alternative provisions in this form are, of necessity, purely illustrative. The range of possible provisions is as broad and varied as commerce itself, because Com. Code § 2311(1) sets no restrictions on the areas of performance that may be left for future specification. The first alternative is broadly written and is appropriate for use whenever the parties decide to leave the specifics of packaging to the seller. The other two are more narrowly written, and are suitable for use only when the particular point, e.g., the design of the dispenser for the goods, is at issue in the contract. The provisions may be inserted into an offer, an acceptance, or a contract, and should be placed wherever the particular of performance at issue is or should be mentioned in the writing.

§ 52.224 Clauses Allowing Subsequent Specification by One Party of Assortment of Goods

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses that give one party the right to specify the assortment or variety of the goods to be sold under a contract of sale. Unless the parties agree otherwise, this option belongs to the buyer [Com. Code § 2311(2); see § 52.122]. For discussion of the power of the parties to leave particulars of performance to be specified later, see § 52.15[8]; for additional discussion on the use of this type of provision, see § 52.223[1]. The use of the second alternative clause below, which provides for shipments according to consumer demand, will require a provision in the contract that explains how consumer demand is to be quantified.

2. Price and Payment Provisions

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.230

§ 52.230 Provisions Setting the Contract Price

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative price provisions for a contract for the sale of goods. Most of these provisions leave the price to be fixed later, either by agreement of the parties or by some method that is explained in the provision. For examples of price provisions that give a set price per unit of goods, see the price provisions in the complete contracts in §§ 52.200[2], 52.201[2], 52.204[2], and 52.205[2]. The alternatives fit into four groups:

- Those that express an intent not to be bound unless the price is fixed.
- Those that express an intent to be bound.
- Those that provide a method for fixing the price.
- Those that provide a method for adjusting a stated price.

Which group of alternatives will best fit the needs of the parties will depend on how the parties want Com. Code § 2305 (covering open price terms) to apply to their transaction. Which particular provision in a group the parties should use depends on which provision most closely fits the facts of the transaction and the wishes of the parties.

[b] Open Price Term--Intent to Be Bound

Parties who intend to make a binding agreement can conclude a contract for sale even when the price is not settled [Com. Code § 2305(1)]. If the price is not settled, the price is a reasonable price at the time for delivery if (1) nothing is said as to price; (2) the price is left to be agreed on by the parties and they fail to agree; or (3) the price is to be fixed in terms of some agreed market or other standard as set or recorded by a third person or agency and it is not so set or recorded [Com. Code § 2305(1)].

The question left by Com. Code § 2305(1) is how to determine whether the parties intended to be bound. The Code provides only that the issue is generally a question for the trier of fact [Com. Code § 2305, comment 2]. The best and safest way is to expressly state in the contract whether or not the parties intend to be bound if the price remains unsettled. This is the purpose of the first and second groups of alternatives, and the parties are advised not to leave the price open without clearly stating their intent [see Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 4, The Code and Contract Principles, § 4.03[1][a] (Matthew Bender)].

If the parties do not state whether they intend to be bound if the price remains unsettled, their intent will be determined by the rules that apply to the interpretation of any contract for the sale of goods. The trier of fact will consider the words of the agreement, the course of performance under it, and any applicable prior course of dealing or usage of trade [see Com. Code §§ 1303, 2202]. For example, a contract for the sale of citrus without a price term was held to be valid because contracts with open price terms are common in the citrus industry. The nature of an industry that deals in the sale of future crops will require some terms to be left open [Bornstein v. Somerson (Fla. App. 1977) 341 So. 2d 1043, 1047-1048, cert. denied, 348 So. 2d 944 (1977)]. Furthermore, the more terms a party leaves open, the less likely it is that they intended to make a binding agreement, but the actions of the parties may often be conclusive on this issue despite omissions [Com. Code § 2205, comment].

[c] Good Faith; Failure to Fix Price Through Fault of Party

When an agreement leaves the price to be fixed by the seller or the buyer, the price must be fixed in good faith [Com. Code § 2305(2)]. When a price left to be fixed otherwise than by agreement of the parties fails to be fixed through the fault of one party, the other may at his or her option treat the contract as canceled or fix a reasonable price [Com. Code § 2305(3)].

[d] Intent Not to Be Bound Unless Price Is Fixed

If the parties intend not to be bound unless the price is fixed or agreed on, and it is not fixed or agreed on, there is no contract. If this happens, the buyer must return any goods already received or, if unable to do so, must pay their reasonable value at the time of delivery, and the seller must return any portion of the price paid on account [Com. Code § 2305(4)]. The alternatives in the first group express the intent of the parties not to be bound if the price remains open.

[e] Method for Determining Price or Adjusting Stated Price

The alternatives in the third group each provide a method for determining an open price term. The alternatives in the fourth group provide a method for adjusting a stated price, although the stated price is not included in the provision [see forms at §§ 52.200[2], 52.201[2], 52.204[2], and 52.205[2] for price provisions stating a set price per unit of goods]. Although it is generally true that it is advisable to state directly whether the parties intend to be bound if the price cannot be settled [see [b], above], most of the alternatives in groups three and four should not pose a problem on this point, because most of them provide expressly what is to be done if the parties cannot agree on a price or an adjusted price.

[2] FORM

[Use the following clauses if the parties do not intend to be bound unless the price of the goods is fixed:]

Notwithstanding any other provision to the contrary, the parties agree that in the event a price for the goods sold is not definitely and precisely fixed and agreed on by them before the first delivery, then this agreement shall be void and of no effect.

[OR]

The parties do not intend to be bound by it if they cannot agree on the price to be charged for the goods sold under this agreement. If the parties fail to agree on the price, there is no contract, and Buyer shall return all goods received. If Buyer is unable to return any of these goods, Buyer shall pay the reasonable value of the unreturned goods. The value of the unreturned goods is to be determined as of the date of their delivery.

[OR]

The parties shall agree on the price of the goods at least _____ [e.g., five] days prior to the date of delivery. If they fail to agree by that time, neither will be bound by this agreement.

[OR]

[Use the following clauses if the parties intend to be bound even though the price of goods is not fixed:]

The parties intend to enter into a binding contract even if they fail to agree on a price for the goods. The parties agree that if they fail to agree on a price, the price shall be a reasonable price at the time of delivery.

[OR]

The parties shall agree as to the price of the goods within _____ [e.g., five] days after the goods are delivered. If the parties are unable to agree, then the Buyer shall pay the prevailing market price for the goods.

[OR]

[Use the following clauses to provide for determination of price at a future time:]

The parties shall agree on the price of the goods at least _____ [e.g., five] days prior to the date of delivery. If the parties cannot agree, the price shall be the average market price of goods of like kind and quality sold in _____ [specify locality] during the week of _____ [date(s)] as reported in the _____ [specify authoritative trade journal in common use].

[OR]

If at any time during the term of this contract Buyer is able to get a specific amount of any goods covered by this contract of equal quality from another manufacturer at a lower price than that set by this contract, and if, after notice in writing, Seller is unwilling to meet this lower price, Buyer shall have the right to buy that specific amount and apply it against this contract.

[OR]

Buyer shall pay for _____ [specify goods] whatever price is fixed by an appraisal of the goods by Seller and Buyer. If Buyer and Seller cannot agree on the appraisal, each shall select one person, and the two selected shall together name a disinterested person. The three so named shall then make an appraisal of the property, and Buyer shall pay the price fixed by these three as the fair and reasonable value of the goods sold.

[OR]

Buyer shall pay as a price the unit cost of each item sold under this contract as it appears on Seller's price list on the date of shipment multiplied by the number of units shipped.

[OR]

The price of the goods shall be Seller's cost of production, including a reasonable allowance for overhead, plus _____ [e.g., 10] percent.

[OR]

The price stated in _____ [identify clause stating price, e.g., Paragraph _____] may be increased to the extent that Seller's cost for the goods sold under this contract is increased by (1) any agreements, codes, or legislative enactments made or enacted in pursuance of federal, state, or municipal legislation; (2) an increase in the costs of labor, raw materials, or overhead; (3) taxes or other charges imposed by governmental authority on the production or sale of the goods or of materials used in their manufacture; or (4) the increase of existing freight rates. If Buyer is unwilling to accept the increase as computed by Seller, Buyer shall have the right to purchase in open market, and any quantities so purchased shall be deducted from the total amount of the goods [or products] to be sold under this contract.

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains six alternative provisions for the payment of goods on credit. Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer's duty to pay for the goods arises on tender of delivery by the seller [Com. Code § 2507(1)]. For additional discussion of the time for payment, see §§ 52.15[7] and 52.123 P 2. For an explanation of the law governing promissory notes, see Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments.

[b] Application of Usury Law

If a credit or finance charge is to be made for overdue payments, that charge may constitute interest on a loan, subjecting the contract to the California usury law in Article XV, Section 1 of the California Constitution [see Crestwood Lumber Co. v. Citizens Sav. & Loan Assn. (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 819, 824-825, 148 Cal. Rptr. 129].

§ 52.232 Clauses Providing for Manner of Tender of Payment[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses covering the time when payment for goods must be made and the form in which that payment must be made. Unless the parties agree otherwise, tender of payment is a condition to the seller's duty to tender and complete any delivery [Com. Code § 2511(1)], and payment is due at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive the goods [Com. Code § 2310(a)].

The tender of payment is sufficient when made by any means or in any manner current in the ordinary course of business unless the seller demands payment in cash and gives any extension of time reasonably necessary to procure it [Com. Code § 2511(2)]. A payment by check is conditional and is defeated as between the parties if the check is not honored when presented for payment [Com. Code § 2511(3)]. The phrase "by check" includes not only the buyer's own check but also any check that does not effect a discharge under Com. Code § 3310 [see Com. Code § 3310; see also Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments]. If a buyer's check is dishonored, Com. Code §§ 2507(2) and 2511(3), construed together, evidence a legislative intent that the buyer cannot retain, and, conversely, that the seller has the right to reclaim, goods sold in a cash transaction. The unpaid cash seller prevails over an attaching lien creditor [Citizens Bank of Roseville v. Taggart (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 318, 321-326, 191 Cal. Rptr. 729] .

§ 52.233 Provisions Requiring Payment for Goods by Letter of Credit

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains two provisions requiring letters of credit as the means of payment for goods. Unless otherwise agreed, the term "letter of credit" or "banker's credit" in a contract for sale means an irrevocable credit issued by a financing agency of good repute and, when the shipment is overseas, of good international repute. The term "confirmed credit" means that the credit must also carry the direct obligation of a financing agency of good repute that does business in the seller's financial market [Com. Code § 2325(3)]. That is, if the credit is issued by a bank or other agency that does not do direct business in the seller's financial market, it should be confirmed by one that does [Com. Code § 2325, comment 3]. The delivery of a proper letter of credit to the seller suspends the buyer's obligation to pay. If the letter of credit is dishonored, the seller may, on seasonable notification to the buyer, require payment directly from the buyer [Com. Code § 2325(2)]. The failure of the buyer seasonably to furnish an agreed letter of credit is a breach of the contract for sale [Com. Code § 2325(1)]. An action is taken "seasonably" when it is taken at or within the time agreed or, if no time is agreed on, at or within a reasonable time [Com. Code § 1205(b)].

For detailed coverage of letters of credit, see Ch. 56, Letters of Credit and Electronic Fund Transfers.

§ 52.234 Clauses Providing for Delivery and Payment in Single or Several Installments

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The alternatives in this form are different types of delivery and time of payment clauses. These clauses should be used to clarify the rights between the parties with respect to delivery in a single lot or in installments and with respect to when payment is due. These clauses do this with groups of alternatives that provide for delivery in single lots, delivery in multiple lots, delivery at the option of the seller or buyer, and delivery in installments required in time of payment clauses. Unless the parties agree otherwise, all goods called for by a contract for sale must be tendered in a single delivery, and payment is due only when this single delivery is tendered. However, when circumstances give either party the right to make or demand delivery in lots, the price may be demanded for each lot if the price can be apportioned [Com. Code § 2307].

[2] FORM

Clauses Providing for Delivery and Payment in Single or Several Installments

Delivery in Single Lot

It is agreed, notwithstanding any prior dealings or usage of trade to the contrary, that all of the goods referred to in this contract shall be delivered as provided in _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____ or Section _____] in a single delivery.

[OR]

The goods sold under the terms of this shall be delivered in a single lot.

[OR]

Delivery in Multiple Lots

On or before the _____ day of each month during the term of this contract, Seller shall deliver an installment of the goods described in _____ [specify relevant portion of agreement, e.g., Paragraph _____] equal to _____ percent of the total amount of the described goods.

[OR]

The goods to be sold by Seller to Buyer shall be delivered to Buyer in approximately equal monthly installments not to vary more than _____ [specify, e.g., 15] percent on the _____ day of each month, the final installment of the goods to be delivered not later than the _____ day of _____ [month, year].

[OR]

Delivery at Option of Buyer or Seller

Seller has the right to deliver all of the goods at one time or to deliver the goods in portions from time to time, but delivery must be made before the date provided in _____ [specify relevant portion of agreement, e.g., Paragraph _____].

[OR]

Buyer has the right to demand all of the goods at one time or in portions from time to time within the time of delivery provided in this contract.

[OR]

Each installment of goods that is to be delivered under this contract shall be deemed to be sold under a separate contract. In the event of Seller's default in any such delivery, the party in default shall be liable in damages only for failure to deliver that installment.

[OR]

Payment for Installment Deliveries

Seller shall have no right to demand payment on the delivery of each installment of the goods. Payment shall be due and owing only at the time the last shipment of goods under this contract is received by Buyer.

[OR]

Buyer shall pay _____ [e.g., 85] percent of the price of the goods delivered under each installment of this contract at the time of delivery. The remaining _____ [e.g., 15] percent, along with the entire price of the final shipment, shall be due and owing at the time the last shipment is received by Buyer.

[OR]

At the time of each shipment under this contract Seller shall prepare an invoice showing the price of the goods shipped. Buyer shall pay the amount of this invoice at the time of delivery.

[OR]

Irrespective of the amount of goods to be shipped in each installment under this contract, Buyer shall pay Seller _____ [e.g., 20] percent of the total purchase price each month on the first day of the month for the _____ [e.g., five] months following the date of this contract.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.235

§ 52.235 Clauses Prohibiting or Restricting Substitute Manner of Payment

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative contract clauses to be used to prohibit or restrict the right to substitute a substantially equivalent means or manner of payment. If the agreed means or manner of payment fails because of domestic or foreign governmental regulation, the seller may withhold or stop delivery unless the buyer provides a means or manner of payment that is, commercially, a substantial equivalent [Com. Code § 2614(2)]. The parties may bar or restrict the effect of this statute by agreeing otherwise [see Com. Code § 1302 (except as otherwise provided, Com. Code provisions may be varied by agreement)]. If the buyer has already taken delivery, payment by the means or in the manner provided by the regulation discharges the buyer's obligation unless the regulation is discriminatory, oppressive, or predatory [Com. Code § 2614(2)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Prohibiting or Restricting Substitute Manner of Payment

No Substitute Manner of Payment

It is agreed that under no circumstances will Seller be required to accept payment other than by the means and manner set forth in this contract. If, for any reason, payment cannot be made in accord with terms of this contract, Buyer must immediately notify Seller in writing of this fact and the reasons why payment in the agreed manner is impossible. Seller then shall have the option of either canceling this contract without penalty, or accepting the proposed manner of payment.

[OR]

The method of payment specified in this contract is of the essence. If the agreed method of payment fails for any reason, including prohibition by government regulation, Seller may withhold or stop delivery even though Buyer provides a means or manner of payment that is, commercially, a substantial equivalent. If delivery has already been taken, payment by means or in the manner provided by the regulation may be made. If delivery has not been taken, and Seller withholds or stops delivery under this paragraph, that withholding or stopping of delivery shall terminate this contract.

3. Shipment or Delivery

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.250

§ 52.250 Clauses Specifying Time for Delivery

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains nine alternative clauses, each of which fixes the time for delivery of the contract goods. The first two alternatives address the effect of Civ. Code § 1722 [see [b], below]. The third through fifth alternatives set a specific time for delivery. The remaining four give the buyer the right to specify the shipping instructions later [see Com. Code § 2311(1), (2) (subsequent specifications of shipping arrangements); see also § 52.264], but require that this be done on or before a certain time. This form includes clauses for shipments F.O.B. [see Com. Code § 2319(1)(c); see also § 52.253] and installment shipments.

The final two alternatives are the most complex. One provides for the giving of shipping instructions not later than the "shipping date," a term defined by the clause. Both allow for contract extensions if the instructions are late, and both provide for the payment of carrying charges on the extensions.

[b] Time of Delivery

Under Civ. Code § 1722, if a consumer and a retailer with more than 25 employees have entered into a contract for the sale of merchandise that is to be delivered by the retailer or the retailer's agent at a later date, and the contract requires the presence of the consumer at the time of delivery, the retailer and the consumer must agree, at the time of sale or at a later date before delivery, on a four-hour period within which delivery will be made [Civ. Code § 1722(a)(1)]. Unexcused failure to deliver the goods within the specified time gives rise to an action for the buyer's damages in small claims court [see Civ. Code § 1722(a)(2)]. Any provision included in the contract in which the consumer or subscriber agrees to modify or waive these rights is void as against public policy [Civ. Code § 1722(d)].

The first alternative clause in this form acknowledges the necessity of the consumer's presence at the time of delivery and specifies a four-hour time period for delivery. The second alternative clause acknowledges the necessity of the consumer's presence at the time of delivery and stipulates that time of delivery will be agreed to at a later date.

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying Time for Delivery

Time of Delivery

The goods will be delivered on _____ [date] between the hours of _____ and _____ [specify four-hour time period]. Buyer must be present to accept delivery of goods.

[OR]

Buyer will be present at the time of delivery of the goods sold under this Agreement. Time of delivery will be agreed to at a later time, but in no event will the agreed-on time of delivery exceed a four-hour period.

[OR]

The goods described in _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____ or Section _____] will be delivered F.O.B. at _____ [place] on or before _____ [date]; otherwise, Seller may cancel this contract.

[OR]

The goods described in _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____] are to be shipped by freight and delivered F.O.B. at _____ [place], on or about _____ [date].

[OR]

On or before the _____ day of each month during the term of this contract, Manufacturer will deliver to Buyer at _____ [address] an installment of the goods described at _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____ or Section _____] equal to _____ percent of the total amount of those goods.

[OR]

Buyer will furnish Seller with written instructions for the shipment and delivery of the goods at _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____] of this contract. Buyer must receive these instructions _____ [specify time, e.g., on or before _____ [date] or _____ days before the first shipment]. The instructions will state the times and places of delivery and the quantity to be delivered in each shipment.

[OR]

Buyer will have the right to specify the time of delivery, but Buyer will not require that the goods be delivered before _____ [date] or after _____ [date].

[OR]

Buyer will notify Seller of the date on which the goods are shipped. That date will not be later than the shipping date. The "shipping date" means the date specified in this contract for shipment of the goods or, if this contract specifies a shipping period, then "shipping date" means a date no later than the last day of the shipping period or of any mutually agreed on extension of the shipping period. If this contract does not specify a time for shipment, then the _____ [e.g., 60th] day from the date of this contract will be the shipping date. Buyer will pay to Seller for all extensions of time to furnish shipping directions a sum (herein referred to as "carrying charges") equal to $ _____ for each day, or fraction thereof, that the shipping date is extended. These carrying charges are due on demand. Any carrying charges accrued on the date of any shipment may be included in the draft for that shipment. Seller will have the option of granting an extension. Shipping directions will not bind Seller unless received at its _____ [region or place, e.g., Baltimore] office in writing before _____ [time of day] on the shipping date or on the last day of the extension of the shipping date, if any, unless Seller sees fit to act on those directions. Seller will not ship under any circumstances until it has received shipping directions as provided in this paragraph.

[OR]

If Buyer fails to furnish complete shipping instructions to Seller at its _____ [region or place, e.g., Baltimore] office by _____ days before the date for any shipment specified in this contract, then the provisions of this contract in respect to that shipment will be automatically extended without notice from day to day until Buyer furnishes complete shipping instructions or notifies Seller that it does not want that shipment, or until Seller exercises its right to terminate this contract. For each day during which the contract is automatically extended in this way, Buyer will pay Seller carrying charges at the rate of $ _____ per day.

PART IV. FORMS
B. Alternative and Optional Clauses
3. Shipment or Delivery

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.251

§ 52.251 Clauses Specifying Place of Delivery of Goods

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of clauses specifying the place for delivery of goods under a contract of sale. Unless the parties agree otherwise, the place for delivery of goods is the seller's place of business, or if the seller has no place of business, his or her residence [Com. Code § 2308(a)]. However, if the contract is one for the sale of identified goods that the parties know at the time of contracting to be in some place other than the seller's place of business or residence, then that other place is the place for their delivery [Com. Code § 2308(b)]. Documents of title may be delivered through customary banking channels [Com. Code § 2308(c)].

The alternatives in this form allow the parties to overcome the effect of Com. Code § 2308 by providing in the contract for a place of delivery. One alternative leaves the place of delivery to be specified by the buyer. Com. Code § 2311 permits the parties to leave some particulars of performance to be specified later [see § 52.223[1]]. If the parties want the subsequent specification of place of delivery to be at the buyer's option, this must be expressly stated as it is here, because shipping specifications are generally at the seller's option unless otherwise agreed [Com. Code § 2311(2); see § 52.264]. Another provides that the contract goods have been bailed [see Ch. 102, Bailments] with a warehouse company, and that the buyer will receive delivery from there. For discussion of the seller's right to stop delivery of goods in the possession of a bailee under Com. Code § 2705, see § 52.480[1].

[b] Documents of Title and Warehouse Receipts

The final two alternatives in this form provide for delivery, respectively, by negotiation of a negotiable warehouse receipt and by transfer of a nonnegotiable document of title. A "warehouse receipt" is a receipt issued by a warehouse [Com. Code § 1201(b)(42)], that is, a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire [Com. Code § 7102(a)(13) (definition)]. If goods, including distilled spirits and agricultural commodities, are stored under a statute requiring a bond against withdrawal or a license for the issuance of receipts in the nature of warehouse receipts, a receipt issued for the goods is deemed to be a warehouse receipt, even if issued by a person that is the owner of the goods and is not a warehouse [Com. Code § 7201(b)]. A "document of title" includes a bill of lading, dock warrant, dock receipt, warehouse receipt, or order for the delivery of goods, and any other document that, in the regular course of business or financing, is treated as adequately evidencing that the person in possession of it is entitled to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. To be a document of title, a document must purport to be issued by or addressed to a bailee and purport to cover goods in the bailee's possession which either are identified or are fungible portions of an identified mass [Com. Code § 1201(b)(16); see Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(18), 7102(a)(1) ("fungible" and "bailee" defined)].

The difference between a negotiable document of title and a nonnegotiable document of title lies in the effect of negotiability on who is entitled to delivery of goods under the document. A negotiable document that calls for delivery of the goods to a named person is negotiated by his or her indorsement and delivery of the document [Com. Code § 7501(a)(1)]. A negotiable document of title that calls for delivery of the goods to the bearer is negotiated by delivery alone [Com. Code § 7501(a)(2)], as is a negotiable document of title running to the order of a named person that has been indorsed in blank or to bearer [Com. Code § 7501(a)(3)]. The result is that the person entitled to delivery under a negotiable document of title is the holder of the document, but the person entitled to delivery under the nonnegotiable document of title is the person to whom delivery is to be made by the terms of or pursuant to instructions in that document [Com. Code § 7102(a)(4)].

For discussion of warehouse receipts and a general form for a nonnegotiable warehouse receipt, see Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods. For discussion of the delivery of documents of title against which a draft has been drawn, see § 52.261[1].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.252

§ 52.252 Clauses to Vary Statutory Duties of Seller Who Is Authorized or Required to Ship Goods

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of clauses to be used when the seller is required or authorized to send the goods to the buyer but is not required to deliver them at a particular destination. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the seller must do three things. First, the seller must put the goods in the possession of a carrier and make a contract for their transportation. The carrier chosen and the contract made must be reasonable considering the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case. Second, the seller must obtain and promptly deliver or tender in due form any documents necessary to enable the buyer to obtain possession of the goods or otherwise required by the agreement or by usage of trade. Third, the seller must promptly notify the buyer of the shipment. Failure to notify the buyer of the shipment or make a proper contract for transportation of the goods is a ground for rejection of the goods only if a material delay or loss ensues [Com. Code § 2504].

The alternative clauses in this form can be used to vary the statutory result. For example, in the third alternative, buyer and seller agree that failure by the seller to notify buyer will be a ground for rejecting the goods even if no material delay or loss ensues.

[2] FORM

Clauses to Vary Statutory Duties of Seller Who Is Authorized or Required to Ship Goods

Duties of Seller With Respect to Shipment

Seller agrees to arrange for shipment of the goods to Buyer at _____ [location]. In arranging for the shipment, Seller shall contract with the following common carrier: _____. The goods shall be routed as follows: _____. The goods shall be shipped via the fastest means available from the named carrier. If refrigeration, protection against cold, or the like is required to preserve the goods, Seller shall arrange with the carrier for the necessary protection.

[OR]

In arranging for the shipment of the goods, Seller shall agree to a limited valuation with the carrier and procure insurance from a reliable insurance company of Seller's choosing covering the goods during the shipment in the amount of their price under this contract.

[OR]

Seller shall notify Seller of the shipment by telegram immediately on making the contract with the carrier and delivering the goods to the point of shipment. Failure by the Seller to notify Buyer shall be a ground for rejecting the goods even if no material delay or loss ensues.

[OR]

Seller shall be responsible for loading the goods on the carrier. Any cost involved shall be paid by Seller and the risk of loss shall not pass to Buyer until the goods are properly loaded.

[OR]

Seller shall pay any expense incurred in loading the goods on the carrier, but the risk of loss shall pass to Buyer as soon as the goods are deposited with the carrier.

3. Shipment or Delivery

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.253

§ 52.253 "F.O.B." and "F.A.S." Terms

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternatives using the shipping terms "F.O.B." and "F.A.S." in clauses to be placed in contracts for the sale of goods. Com. Code §§ 2319-2324 fix the definitions of commonly used mercantile shipping terminology [see § 52.124 PP 3, 4].

[b] Definitions

"F.O.B." means "free on board" [Com. Code § 2319(1)]. "F.A.S." means "free alongside" [Com. Code § 2319(2)].

[c] Requirements Applicable to Sales of Goods "F.O.B."

Unless the parties agree otherwise, the term F.O.B. at a named place is a delivery term, even if it is used only in connection with the stated price. Under this delivery term, the following requirements apply [Com. Code § 2319(1)]:

- If the term is "F.O.B. the place of shipment" [see first alternative clause], the seller must ship the goods at that place in the manner required by Com. Code § 2504 [see § 52.252[1]] and bear the expense and risk of putting them into the possession of the carrier.
- If the term is "F.O.B. the place of destination" [see second alternative clause], the seller, at his or her own expense and risk, must transport the goods to that place and there tender delivery of the goods in the manner required by Com. Code § 2503 [see §§ 52.262[1] and 52.263[1]].
- If the term is either "F.O.B. the place of shipment" or "F.O.B. the place of destination," and it is also "F.O.B. vessel" (or car or other vehicle), the seller must also load the goods on board at his or her own expense and risk. If the term is "F.O.B. vessel," the buyer must name the vessel and, in an appropriate case, the seller must comply with the requirements of Com. Code § 2323 [see § 52.258[1]] on the form of the bill of lading [Com. Code § 2319(1)].

[d] Requirements Applicable to Sales of Goods "F.A.S."

Unless the parties agree otherwise, the term "F.A.S. vessel" at a named port is a delivery term, even if it is used only in connection with the stated price. Under this delivery term, the seller, at his or her own expense and risk, must deliver the goods alongside the vessel in the manner usual in that port or on a dock designated by the buyer, and obtain and tender a receipt for the goods in exchange for which the carrier is under a duty to issue a bill of lading [Com. Code § 2319(2)].

[e] Instructions

In the case of an F.A.S. term or an F.O.B. term other than "F.O.B. the place of destination," the buyer must, unless otherwise agreed, seasonably give any needed instructions for making delivery, including the loading berth of the vessel and its name and sailing date. The seller may treat the failure of needed instructions as a failure of cooperation under Com. Code § 2311 [Com. Code § 2319(3); for discussion of cooperation under Com. Code § 2311, see §§ 52.15[8], 52.223[2], and 52.264[1]; for discussion of the consequences of failure to cooperate, see § 52.440[1]].

[f] Tender of Documents

Unless the parties agree otherwise, when the terms "F.O.B. vessel" or "F.A.S." are used in a contract of sale, the buyer must make payment against tender of the required documents and the seller may not tender, nor the buyer demand, delivery of the goods in substitution for the documents [Com. Code § 2319(4)].

Code § 2320(1)*; see also [b], below].

[b] Definitions

"C.I.F." stands for "cost, insurance, and freight." The term means that the price includes in a lump sum the cost of the goods, insurance, and freight to the named destination. "C. & F." stands for "cost and freight." The term means that the price includes cost and freight to the named destination. [Com. Code § 2320(1)].

[c] Requirements of C.I.F. and C. & F. Agreements

The terms "C.I.F." and "C. & F." impose the same obligations on the seller except the obligation as to insurance [Com. Code § 2320(3)]. With that one difference, the use of either term, unless otherwise agreed, requires the seller to do the following at his or her own expense and risk:

- Put the goods into the possession of a carrier at the port for shipment and obtain a negotiable bill or bills of lading covering the entire transportation to the named destination [Com. Code § 2320(2)(a)].
- Load the goods and obtain a receipt from the carrier (which may be contained in the bill of lading) showing that the freight has been paid or provided for [Com. Code § 2320(2)(b); see Mitsui O.S.K. Lines, Ltd. v. Dynasea Corp. (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 208, 209-211, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (when seller prepaid freight with check that was dishonored, carrier could not enforce payment from buyer)].

■ For C.I.F., but not C. & F., obtain a policy or certificate of insurance, including any war risk insurance, of a kind and on terms then current at the port of shipment in the usual amount, in the currency of the contract, shown to cover the same goods covered by the bill of lading and providing for payment of loss to the order of the buyer or for the account of whom it may concern. The seller may add to the price the amount of the premium for any such war risk insurance [Com. Code § 2320(2)(c)].

■ Prepare an invoice of the goods and procure any other documents required to effect shipment or to comply with the contract [Com. Code § 2320(2)(d)].

■ Forward and tender with commercial promptness all the documents in due form and with any endorsement necessary to perfect the buyer's rights [Com. Code § 2320(2)(e)].

These requirements apply even if the C.I.F. or C. & F. term is used only in connection with the stated price and destination [Com. Code § 2320(2)]. Unless the parties agree otherwise, the buyer must make payment against tender of the required documents and the seller may not tender, nor the buyer demand, delivery of the goods in substitution for the documents [Com. Code § 2320(4)].

[d] Application to Mail Order and Internet Sales

As a general rule, a contract containing no provision that explicitly allocates the risk of loss is a "shipment contract" rather than a "destination contract." Under a shipment contract, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier [Com. Code § 2509(1); Wilson v. Brawn of California, Inc. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 549, 555, 556 n.4, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 769; see § 52.280[1][c]]. The use of "C.I.F." in the contract has the same effect. In a standard C.I.F. contract, the buyer bears the risk of loss in transit even though the cost of insurance is rolled into the purchase price and is in fact paid by the seller. While "C.I.F." is not commonly used in consumer mail order or internet sales, the same result would follow from the practice of expressly requiring the buyer to pay for transit insurance as part of the total price for the sale [Wilson v. Brawn of California, Inc. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 549, 556-557, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 769] .

§ 52.255 "Net Landed Weights" Terms

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternative "net landed weights" clauses. These clauses are designed to be used in sales contracts providing for prices based on, or adjusted according to, "net landed weights" or similar terms [see Com. Code § 2321(1)]. If the second alternative clause is used, arrangements will have to be made for a bank representative to tender the documents of title as called for in that provision.

[b] Payment of Estimated Price

Under a contract containing a term C.I.F. or C. & F. [see Com. Code § 2320; see also § 52.254], if the contract price is based on or is to be adjusted according to "net landed weights," "delivered weights," "out turn" quantity or quality, or a similar term, then, unless the parties agree otherwise, the seller must reasonably estimate the price. The payment due on tender of the documents called for by the contract is the estimated amount, but after final adjustment of the price a settlement must be made with commercial promptness [Com. Code § 2321(1)]. For discussion of who bears the risk of deterioration under this type of agreement, see § 52.256[1].

[2] FORM

Net Landed Weights

The price of the goods sold under this contract is $ _____ per pound, C.I.F., and it is agreed that the "net landed weights" shall be actual gross weights. It is further agreed that the goods shall be weighed at Seller's expense as soon as practicable after landing and that they shall be weighed in whatever lots the Buyer may request, if the request is made in writing before the goods are landed.

[OR]

The price to be paid for the goods by Buyer is $ _____ per pound, C.I.F. net landed weights, _____ [city and state]. As soon as the goods are unloaded, they shall be weighed by Buyer at Buyer's expense and in the presence of _____, or _____'s agent. Any deficiency or overage shown by this weighing shall be promptly reported to Seller and an adjustment will be made to the price. The price estimated by Seller shall be payable on tender of the documents of title. Documents shall be tendered by and at the _____ Bank.

§ 52.256 Risk of Deterioration[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of a clause designed to modify the risk of deterioration of goods. A contract with a C.I.F. or C. & F. term [see Com. Code § 2320(1) (definition, set forth at § 52.254[1][b])] which provides that the price is to be based on or adjusted according to "net landed weights" or a similar term [see Com. Code § 2321(1); see also § 52.255[1]] places on the seller the risk of ordinary deterioration, shrinkage, and the like in transportation, but has no effect on the place or time of identification to the contract for sale or delivery [see Com. Code § 2501; see also § 52.284[1]] or on the passing of the risk of loss [see Com. Code § 2321(2)]. The parties may modify that risk by simple agreement [see Com. Code § 1302 (effect of Commercial Code provisions may be varied by agreement except as otherwise provided)] in a clause like the one provided in this form. The parties may not agree to shift the burden to the buyer, however, because this would simply cancel out the requirement of a payment adjusted according to "net landed weights." This form also includes an estimated price provision as required by Com. Code § 2321(1) [see § 52.255[1][b]]. The estimated price provision and the risk of deterioration clause should be included together in a contract or offer.

[2] FORMRisk of Deterioration*Estimated Price

Seller estimates that the price of each shipment shall be $ _____. This estimate is based on a shipment of _____ [number of units] units of _____ [number of cartons] cartons containing _____ [e.g., 15 ounces] per carton at $ _____ per ounce.

Risk of Deterioration

The price stated in this contract is C.I.F., _____[city and state], to be adjusted according to net landed weights. The goods sold under this contract shall be delivered in packages conforming to established trade custom. Even though the price is to be adjusted according to net landed weights, no allowance in price shall be made for a shortage of average weights that is [less than _____ (e.g., one) percent or more than _____ (e.g., three) percent]. The average weight of a shipment is to be ascertained and certified by a public weigher on a weighing for gross of not less than _____ [e.g., 50] percent of that shipment. The goods will average _____ [e.g., 15 ounces] net per carton when packed.

§ 52.257 "Ex-Ship" Terms

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses with "ex-ship" terms. The first alternative is merely a simple statement of an "ex-ship" term. The second and third alternatives should be used to vary the ordinary effects of a term for delivery of goods "ex-ship."

[b] Definition and Delivery From a Particular Vessel

Delivery "ex-ship" means delivery from the carrying vessel. Unless the parties agree otherwise, a term for delivery of goods "ex-ship" or in equivalent language is not restricted to a particular ship and requires delivery from a ship that has reached a place at the named port of destination where goods of the kind are usually discharged [Com. Code § 2322(1)]. The second alternative below varies this provision by requiring delivery by a particular vessel. Under an ex-ship term, unless the parties agree otherwise, the seller must discharge all liens arising out of carriage and furnish the buyer with a direction that puts the carrier under a duty to deliver the goods [Com. Code § 2322(2)(a)]. Unless otherwise agreed, the risk of loss does not pass to the buyer until the goods leave the ship's tackle or are otherwise properly unloaded [Com. Code § 2322(2)(b)].

[c] Documents of Title

A contract fixing a price "ex-ship" with payment "cash against documents" calls only for those documents that are appropriate to the contract. The seller is not required to tender a bill of lading as a document of title or to insure the goods for the buyer's benefit [Com. Code § 2322, comment 4]. The third alternative in this form avoids the language "cash against documents" and expressly requires documents of title.

[2] FORM

[OR]

Goods shall be delivered by Seller "ex-ship" in _____ Harbor. Goods must be shipped on the _____ [name of ship], a vessel owned by the _____ Shipping Company, in order for Seller to make a proper tender under this contract.

[OR]

Goods shall be delivered by Seller "ex-ship," _____ Harbor. Seller must send negotiable documents of title covering the goods to Buyer as soon as the goods are delivered to the shipper at the port of origin. Failure to conform with this provision shall constitute a breach of this contract.

§ 52.258 Overseas Shipment Bill of Lading Requirements

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of two clauses that vary the statutory duty of the seller in overseas shipment agreements.

Com. Code § 2323(1) requires that if a contract contemplates overseas shipment and contains a term C.I.F. or C. & F. [see Com. Code § 2320; see also § 52.254[1]] or F.O.B. vessel [see Com. Code § 2319; see also § 52.253[1]], the seller, unless the parties agree otherwise, must obtain a negotiable bill of lading stating that the goods have been loaded on board, or, in the case of a term C.I.F. or C. & F., received for shipment. The alternatives in this form should be used to vary this requirement by agreement. Depending on the terms of the bill of lading, the seller (consignor) may have rights under it even if it is obtained by the buyer. For instance, an overseas bill of lading with a "surrender-on-delivery" clause, indicating that the cargo is not to be turned over to the buyer (consignee) unless the consignee produces an endorsed bill of lading, will provide the basis for an action for misdelivery by the seller against the carrier if the carrier surrenders the cargo without the endorsed bill of lading [see Lite-On Peripherals v. Burroughs Aire Express (9th Cir. 2001) 255 F.3d 1189, 1191, 1194-1196 ; C-Art, Ltd. v. Hong Kong Islands Line America, S.A. (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 530, 533] .

§ 52.259 "No Arrival, No Sale" Terms

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of two clauses varying the duty of the seller under "no arrival, no sale" terms. Com. Code § 2324 provides two rules that apply to contracts with a "no arrival, no sale" term unless the parties otherwise agree. First, the seller must properly ship conforming goods and, if they arrive by any means, he or she must tender them on arrival, but the seller assumes no obligation that the goods will arrive unless he or she has caused the non-arrival [Com. Code § 2324(a)]. Second, the buyer may proceed as if there had been casualty to identified goods when, without fault of the seller, (1) part of the goods is lost; (2) the goods have so deteriorated that they no longer conform to the contract; or (3) the goods arrive after the contract time [Com. Code § 2324(b)]. A buyer's options after a casualty to identified goods are set out in Com. Code § 2613 [for discussion, see § 52.321[1]].

[2] FORM

"No Arrival, No Sale" Terms

Liability for Failure of Goods to Arrive

The goods shall be shipped as provided in this contract on a "no arrival, no sale" basis. However, it is specifically understood that any other provision contained in this contract to the contrary notwithstanding, Seller shall not be liable for loss occasioned by the non-arrival of the goods whether or not the non-arrival is the fault of Seller.

[OR]

It is agreed that the goods described in _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____] shall be forwarded "no arrival, no sale"; it is expressly agreed that the sole remedy of the Buyer in the event the goods do not arrive, whether or not as a result of the fault of Seller, shall be the right to cancel the contract on notice to Seller in writing.

This form is a clause to be used to protect the buyer from the seller's right to reserve a security interest in goods identified by or before shipment. When this type of clause is not included in a sales agreement, the methods by which the seller may reserve a security interest are contained in Com. Code § 2505. § 52.261 Provisions Requiring Delivery of Documents of Title Against Which Drafts Have Been Drawn

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses to regulate the delivery of documents of title against which a draft has been drawn. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, documents against which a draft is drawn are to be delivered to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than three days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment [Com. Code § 2514].

The alternative clauses in this form provide for the delivery of a negotiable bill of lading, a nonnegotiable warehouse receipt, a bill of lading, and documents of title in general. The first two alternatives are designed to avoid any delays on account of the draft drawn against the negotiable bill of lading or the nonnegotiable warehouse receipt. The first alternative provides that delivery will not be withheld on account of any draft, and the second provides for issuance of the nonnegotiable warehouse receipt when the goods are delivered. The last two alternatives provide that delivery is to be withheld until the dependent draft is paid in full.

[b] Definitions

A "draft" is a negotiable instrument that is an order [Com. Code § 3104(b), (e)]. A "negotiable instrument" is an unconditional promise or order to pay a fixed amount of money, with or without interest or other charges, that complies with all of the following [Com. Code § 3104(a)]:

- It is payable to bearer or to order at the time it is issued or first comes into the holder's possession.
- It is payable on demand or at a definite time.
- It does not state any other undertaking or instruction by the person promising or ordering payment, with limited exceptions [see Com. Code § 3104(a)(3)].

An "order" is a written instruction to pay money signed by the person giving the instruction. The instruction may be addressed to anyone [Com. Code § 3103(a)(6)].

A "bill of lading" is a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods [Com. Code § 1201(b)(6); see Com. Code § 7102(a)(9) (definition of "persons entitled under the document"); see also § 52.251[1][b]]. For definition and discussion of "document of title" and "warehouse receipt," and for discussion of the difference between a negotiable and nonnegotiable document of title, see § 52.251[1][b].

§ 52.262 Provisions for Tender of Delivery

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of tender of delivery clauses. The alternatives in this form are examples of tenders of delivery by sellers whose contractual obligations do not require delivery at a particular destination. The seller is required to put and hold conforming goods at the buyer's disposition and to give the buyer any notification [see § 52.460] reasonably necessary to enable him or her to take delivery [Com. Code § 2503(1)]. The manner, time, and place for tender are determined by the contract and by Com. Code §§ 2101-2801. Tender must be at a reasonable hour, and any goods tendered must be kept available as long as reasonably necessary for the buyer to take possession. Thus the five days suggested in this form as the time within which the buyer must pick up the goods may have to be extended if five days is not as long as the buyer reasonably needs to take possession. It is up to the buyer to furnish suitable facilities for the receipt of the goods [Com. Code § 2503(1)].

If the seller is not delivering the goods, but shipping them, then the seller must comply with Com. Code § 2504 [Com. Code § 2503(2); see § 52.252]. If the goods are in the possession of a bailee and are to be delivered without being moved, then the seller must comply with Com. Code § 2503(4) [see § 52.263[1]].

The first and second alternative clauses below both provide for the buyer to receive delivery at the seller's place of business. They differ in two ways. First, the first clause provides for tender of delivery when the goods are ready, with notice of tender to the seller, but the second calls for the goods to be available on a certain date, and this contract date is the buyer's only notice of tender. The second clause also provides that failure to call for the goods within the time allowed is a repudiation of the agreement. The third alternative, like the second, also sets a specific date for the goods to be ready and omits any other notice of tender to the buyer. It differs from both other alternatives in not specifying where the buyer is to receive delivery and by requiring the buyer to give the seller notice before demanding delivery.

[2] FORM

§ 52.263 Provisions for Tender of Delivery When Bailee Holds Goods

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The form contains alternative clauses specifying the manner of tender of delivery when the goods are in the hands of a bailee and are to be delivered without being moved. Unless the parties agree otherwise, tender of goods so held requires that the seller either tender a negotiable document of title covering the goods or get the bailee to acknowledge the buyer's right to possession [Com. Code § 2503(4)(a)]. However, tender to the buyer of a nonnegotiable document of title or of a record directing the bailee to deliver is sufficient tender unless the buyer seasonably objects [Com. Code § 2503(4)(b)]. A refusal by the bailee to honor this latter type of tender defeats the tender [Com. Code § 2503(4)(b)].

If Seller obtains a document of title to the goods and desires to effectuate tender by delivery of the document, the document shall be sent to Buyer at the address that appears with Buyer's name below.

Seller shall obtain a negotiable [or nonnegotiable] bill of lading covering the goods and tender it to Buyer at _____ [address or place, e.g., Buyer's office] during regular business hours no later than _____ [e.g., three] days before the expected time of arrival of the goods.

§ 52.264 Provisions for Subsequent Specification of Shipping Arrangements by One Party

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses that designate the party who has the right to arrange or specify the means of shipping or certain particulars connected with shipping. Unless otherwise agreed and except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 2319(1)(c), (3) [For discussion of Com. Code § 2319, which applies to agreements to ship F.O.B. or F.A.S., see § 52.253[1]], specifications or arrangements relating to shipping are at the seller's option [Com. Code § 2311(2)].

The first of the two alternatives provided in this form is very simple and very general. It may be used to designate either the buyer or the seller as the party who has the right to specify shipping arrangements. The only restriction is that the specification must be made in writing before the first shipment. If any particular detail of the shipment arrangements is crucial to the feasibility of the transaction, as, for example, a particular means of shipment for fragile or perishable goods, that point can and should be added to this first alternative and agreed on in advance, with the remaining details of the shipping arrangements left to be specified by the buyer or the seller.

The second alternative is much more specific. It provides for delivery by the seller to the buyer's warehouse, with the buyer having the right to specify shipping arrangements from the rail depot to the warehouse. This alternative is suitable for use only when it fits the facts of the transaction at hand, although the parties may look to it for some of the points to be considered in agreeing on a clause providing for the future specification of shipment arrangements. For example, the parties must consider which party will have the right to make the specification, who will make the necessary arrangements for shipping, who will pay the transportation charges, which points should be left to future specification, and which should be agreed on at the time the contract is entered into.

§ 52.265 Provisions Specifying Whether Seller May Ship Under Reservation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses allowing or prohibiting the seller from shipping goods under a reservation of security interest. In the absence of any agreement, a seller who is authorized to ship goods may ship them under reservation, tendering documents of title, although the buyer may inspect before payment unless inspection is inconsistent with the terms of the contract [Com. Code § 2310(b)]; see Com. Code § 2513(3) (times when buyer is not entitled to inspect before payment); see also § 52.311[1]].

Shipment under reservation allows the buyer to inspect the goods before paying for them, while it also protects the seller. The seller is not required to give up possession of the goods until he or she has been paid for them, unless the contract allows the buyer to purchase on credit [Com. Code § 2310, comment 2]. Two of the alternative clauses in this form determine the issue of shipment under reservation without express mention of it by addressing the underlying purposes of this type of shipment. One provides that the buyer is entitled to possession even if he or she does not pay for the goods on delivery. In the other, the seller agrees not to withhold possession of the goods to assure payment.

For a clause to be used to protect the buyer from the seller's right to reserve a security interest in goods identified by or before shipment, see § 52.260. For discussion of security interests under Division 9 of the Commercial Code, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions.

4. Risk of Loss

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.280

§ 52.280 Clauses Specifying Risk of Loss in Absence of Breach

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains seven alternative clauses, six of which specify when the risk of loss of the goods passes from the seller to the buyer. The seventh provides that the parties will bear equally any loss not covered by insurance that occurs before the goods reach the buyer. The risk of loss cannot pass before the goods are identified to the contract [see Hart & Willier, Forms and Procedures Under the UCC, Article 2, Sales, Part 2, Obligations of Seller, P 22.07A[3] (Matthew Bender)]. The time for the passing of the risk of loss varies under these alternatives; the earliest specified time is the time the goods are identified to the contract, while the latest is when the buyer has actually received the goods. The best alternative in any given transaction depends on the facts of the transaction and the wishes of the parties. In choosing an alternative, the parties should consider the value of the goods, the likelihood that a loss will occur, and whether insurance will cover any loss. For valuable perishable goods, the seller may want the risk of loss to pass to the buyer as soon as possible, while the buyer may want to delay assumption of that risk until the goods are actually in his or her possession.

[b] General Rules Governing Risk of Loss Absent Breach

Unless the transaction involves a contract that requires or authorizes the seller to ship the goods by carrier [see [c], below] or goods held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved [see [d], below], the risk of loss passes to the buyer on his or her receipt of the goods if the seller is a merchant [Com. Code § 2509(3); see Com. Code § 2104 (definition); see also § 52.13[4]]. Otherwise, the risk passes to the buyer on tender of delivery [Com. Code § 2509(3)].

[c] Risk of Loss When Contract Requires or Authorizes Seller to Ship Goods by Carrier

If the contract requires or authorizes the seller to ship the goods by carrier, and does not require the seller to deliver them at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier even if the shipment is under reservation [Com. Code § 2509(1)(a); see § 52.124 P 3(f) regarding indicia of shipments under reservation]. If, however, the contract requires the seller to deliver the goods at a particular destination and the goods are tendered at that destination while in the carrier's possession, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are tendered there, to enable the buyer to take delivery [Com. Code § 2509(1)(b)].

[d] Goods Held by Bailee

When the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the buyer [Com. Code § 2509(2); see § 52.263]:

- On his or her receipt of possession or control of a negotiable document of title covering the goods; or
- On acknowledgment by the bailee of the buyer's right to possession of the goods; or
- After the buyer's receipt of possession or control of a nonnegotiable document of title or other direction to deliver in a record, as provided in Com. Code § 2503(4)(b).

[e] Exceptions

The statutory rules governing risk of loss in the absence of breach are subject to the contrary agreement of the parties and to the provisions of Com. Code § 2327 regarding sale on approval. For a discussion of sales on approval, see § 52.282[1]. For a discussion of the effect of breach on the risk of loss under Com. Code § 2510, see § 52.281[1].

4. Risk of Loss

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.281

§ 52.281 Clauses Specifying Risk of Loss in Event of Breach

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses that provide for the effect of breach on risk of loss. In the absence of such a provision, the rules specified in Com. Code § 2510 apply. Under that statute, if a tender or delivery of goods so fails to conform to the contract as to give a right of rejection, the risk of their loss remains on the seller until cure or acceptance [Com. Code § 2510(1)]. If the buyer rightfully revokes acceptance, then the buyer, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as having rested on the seller from the beginning [Com. Code § 2510(2)]. If the buyer repudiates or is otherwise in breach as to conforming goods already identified to the contract for sale [see Com. Code § 2501 (when goods are identified to the contract); see also § 52.284] before risk of their loss has passed to that buyer, then the seller may to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage treat the risk of loss as having rested on the buyer for a commercially reasonable time [Com. Code § 2510(3)].

Risk of loss in the absence of breach is governed by Com. Code § 2509, which is discussed at § 52.280[2][b].

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying Risk of Loss in Event of Breach

Risk of Loss in Event of Breach

Buyer, at Buyer's own expense, shall independently seek adequate insurance coverage for the goods sold under this contract. The risk of loss shall pass to Buyer on the signing of this contract. Buyer shall not look to Seller for any deficiency in insurance coverage, notwithstanding the fact that Buyer may have the right of rejection, or that Seller may be in breach of this agreement.

[OR]

Seller shall secure, at its own expense, adequate insurance coverage for the goods sold under this contract. If the goods are lost or damaged, the party then bearing the risk of loss under applicable law shall look to the insurance proceeds for full satisfaction, regardless of the adequacy of those proceeds and without regard to a breach by either party.

[OR]

Buyer, at Buyer's expense, shall secure adequate insurance against loss with respect to the goods sold under this contract. The parties agree that in the event of calamity or disaster, their sole remedy shall be that insurance coverage, without regard to a breach or default and without regard to the adequacy of the recovery of insurance proceeds.

[OR]

The risk of loss shall not be altered by the fact that the conduct of either party may constitute a default or breach.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.282

§ 52.282 Provisions for Sale on Approval and Sale or Return

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative provisions for sales under arrangements called "sale on approval" and "sale or return." If delivered goods may be returned by the buyer even though they conform to the contract, the transaction is a "sale on approval" if the goods are delivered primarily for use; or a "sale or return" if the goods are delivered primarily for resale [Com. Code § 2326(1)].

This form illustrates four "sale on approval" alternatives and three "sale or return" alternatives. Three of the four sale on approval provisions state the number of days within which the buyer must accept or reject the goods. The third sale on approval provision shifts the risk of loss to the buyer [see Com. Code § 2327(1)(a); see also [b], below]. The fourth provides that the time set for notice of the election to return the goods held on approval is of the essence.

The first sale or return alternative provides that the goods held by the buyer are to be returned on demand of the seller, and that the buyer, or consignee, assumes the obligation of an absolute insurer with respect to the goods until they are received by the seller. The second alternative varies the rule that the return is at the buyer's expense [see Com. Code § 2327(2)(b); see also [b], below] by providing that the seller will pick up any returned goods from the buyer's place of business. The final sale or return alternative requires the buyer to prove that the goods are insured against fire and theft.

The right to return, risk of loss, and creditors' rights rules that apply to the goods depend on whether they were sold on approval or on sale or return. For a discussion of the consequences of sales on approval and sales or returns, see [b] and [e], below.

[b] Right to Return and Risk of Loss; Sale on Approval

Unless the parties agree otherwise, under a sale on approval the risk of loss and the title do not pass to the buyer until acceptance of the goods, even though they are identified [Com. Code § 2327(1)(a)]. Use of the goods consistent with the purpose of trial is not acceptance, but the failure to seasonably notify [see [c], below] the seller of the election to return the goods constitutes an acceptance of those goods [Com. Code § 2327(1)(b)]. If all of the goods involved in a sale on approval conform to the contract, acceptance of any part of the goods is acceptance of all of them unless the parties agree otherwise [Com. Code § 2327(1)(b)]. Acceptance of part of the goods falls outside the normal intent of the parties in a sale on approval. A case in which the buyer takes home two items in order to select one commonly involves two distinct contracts. If not, it is covered by the right of the parties to agree otherwise [Com. Code § 2327, comment 1].

After a buyer gives due notice [see [c], below] to the seller that he or she has elected to return the goods, the seller must assume the risk and expense of that return. However, if the buyer is a merchant, he or she must follow the seller's reasonable instructions regarding the return [Com. Code § 2327(1)(c)].

[c] Sale or Return

Unless the parties agree otherwise, under a sale or return the option to return extends to the whole or any commercial unit of the goods while in substantially their original condition, but must be exercised seasonably [Com. Code § 2327(2)(a)]. The return is at the buyer's risk and expense [Com. Code § 2327(2)(b)]. In a sale or return, the risk of loss remains on the buyer throughout [Com. Code § 2327, comment 3].

[d] "Seasonable" Notice or Exercise Defined; "Due" Notice Distinguished

Both the notice of election to return goods held on sale on approval [Com. Code § 2327(1)(b); see [b], above] and the exercise of the option to return goods held on sale or return must be "seasonable" [Com. Code § 2327(2)(a); see [c], above]. A thing is done "seasonably" if it is done at or within the time agreed on, or, if no time is agreed on, at or within a reasonable time [Com. Code § 1205(b)].

What constitutes due notification as required in sales on approval [see Com. Code § 2327(1)(c); see also [b], above] is governed by the Commercial Code provisions on good faith and notice. "Good faith" means honesty in fact in the conduct or transaction concerned [Com. Code § 7102(a)(6)]. A person "notifies" or "gives" a notice or notification to another by taking the steps that are reasonably required to inform the other in ordinary course, whether or not the other actually comes to know of it [Com. Code § 1202(d)].

[e] Creditors' Rights in Goods Sold on Approval or Return

Goods held on approval are not subject to the claims of the buyer's creditors until acceptance, but goods held on sale or return are subject to those claims while the goods are in the buyer's possession [Com. Code § 2326(2)]. Creditors of a business dealing in goods held on sale or return who have a priority security interest in those goods have an interest in the proceeds of their sale; that is, Com. Code § 2326(2) does not apply only to "goods" in the "possession" of the business [Bank of California v. Thornton-Blue Pacific Inc. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 841, 850-852, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 90 (sale of flowers and termination of security interest in them resulted in creditor's holding security interest in sale proceeds under former Com. Code § 9306(2) [decided under prior law; now see Com. Code § 9315(a)(1), dealing with secured party's rights on disposition of collateral and in proceeds)]].

If a person delivers or consigns for sale goods that were used or bought for use for personal, family, or household purposes, the goods do not become the retailer's property unless the retailer buys and pays for them in full. The retailer may act as the deliverer's agent to transfer title to a buyer who pays the full purchase price. However, the net proceeds are the property of the deliverer and are not subject to the retailer's creditors [Com. Code § 2326(4)].

[f] No Application to Ordinary Retail Sales

Retail sales often are made on the basis of, or are accompanied by, the seller's statement to the effect that the buyer has a specified right to return the goods and receive a partial or full refund of the amount paid. This is not the kind of transaction contemplated by Com. Code §§ 2326 and 2327. In particular, the sale is not a "sale on approval" to which those code sections apply [Wilson v. Brawn of California, Inc. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 549, 558-559, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 769] .

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.283

§ 52.283 Clauses Prohibiting or Restricting Substitute Tender of Delivery

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains clauses prohibiting or restricting the right to substitute a commercially reasonable manner of delivery. In the absence of some restrictive agreement [see Com. Code § 1302 (Commercial Code provisions may be varied by agreement, except as otherwise provided)], Com. Code § 2614(1) provides that when without fault of either party the agreed berthing, loading, or unloading facilities fail or an agreed type of carrier becomes unavailable or the agreed manner of delivery otherwise becomes commercially impractical but a commercially reasonable substitute is available, the substitute performance must be tendered and accepted.

Both alternative clauses in this form restrict performance by a substituted means of delivery, and both provide for termination of the contract. The two differ in that the first alternative does allow the seller the option of choosing an alternate carrier, if the seller agrees to bear the expense of shipment and to assume the risk of loss in shipment [see Com. Code §§ 2509 (risk of loss in absence of breach), 2510 (risk of loss in event of breach); see also §§ 52.280, 52.281 (risk of loss clauses)]. In addition, the only requirement the first alternative imposes on the means of shipment is that it must be by truck, whereas the second clause makes the agreed loading, berthing, or unloading facilities and the agreed type of carrier essential requirements of the contract. Thus, the first alternative should be used to limit substitutions while still allowing some flexibility, and the second clause should be used to insist strictly on compliance with all delivery requirements.

[2] FORM

Clauses Prohibiting or Restricting Substitute Tender of Delivery

Substitute Tender of Delivery

If the goods sold under this contract cannot be shipped by _____ [e.g., truck] as provided in _____ [specify relevant portion of contract, e.g., Paragraph _____] for any reason whatsoever, Buyer shall not be required to accept any alternate mode of shipping. However, Seller has the option of choosing an alternate carrier if Seller agrees to bear the expense of shipping and agrees to assume the risk of loss until the goods are received by Buyer. If Seller elects to exercise this option, _____[he or she] must give written notice of the details of the alternative shipment to Buyer prior to shipment. If the option is not exercised by Seller, this contract shall be deemed null and void without liability to either party.

[OR]

The method of tender, including the agreed loading, berthing, or unloading facilities and the agreed type of carrier, is of the essence, and no substitution shall operate to satisfy Seller's obligations even if it is commercially reasonable and the agreed method of tender is made commercially impractical. If the agreed method of tender becomes commercially impractical, and no tender is made by Seller, this contract shall automatically terminate.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative identification of goods clauses. By using these or similar clauses, the parties can agree to fix the time at which goods will be identified to the contract. Unless the parties explicitly agree otherwise, the provisions of Com. Code § 2501 determine when identification of goods to a contract occurs.

The buyer obtains a special property interest and an insurable interest in goods by identification of existing goods as goods to which the contract refers, even if the identified goods are nonconforming and even if the buyer has an option to return or reject them. This identification can be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by the parties. In the absence of explicit agreement, identification occurs [Com. Code § 2501(1)]:

- When the contract is made, if it is for the sale of goods already existing and identified.
- If the contract is for the sale of future goods other than those next described, when goods are shipped, marked, or otherwise designated by the seller as goods to which the contract refers.
- If the contract is for the sale of unborn young or future crops, when the crops are planted or otherwise become growing crops or the young are conceived.

§ 52.290 Express Warranties and Disclaimers

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form consists of three alternatives to be used in making express warranties. The first alternative is a detailed "full warranty" provision within the meaning of the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 2303(a)(1)]; see also discussion under [k][vi], below. This alternative should be used to provide a full warranty for consumer goods. The other two alternatives are short, simple statements of a particular express warranty.

The attorney must study the applicable statutory provisions [see § 52.294[1]] in order to be familiar with the implied warranties that govern in the absence of a contrary agreement. The attorney then must ensure that any rights desired by the client that differ from the Commercial Code are embodied in the agreement. The alternative clauses in this form illustrate how an attorney can provide for nonstatutory rights.

For express warranties with disclaimers, see § 52.291. For disclaimers of express warranties, see § 52.292. For provisions expressing the dominance of express warranties over implied warranties, see § 52.293. For implied warranties that are made express, see § 52.294. For disclaimers of implied warranties, see § 52.295. For sales "as is" or "with all faults," see § 52.296. For warranties of title or against infringement, see § 52.297. For a checklist of considerations applicable to the making of express warranties, see § 52.128.

[b] Creation of Warranty

Express warranties by the seller may be created in any of several ways. Any affirmation of fact or promise made by the seller to the buyer which relates to the goods and becomes part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the affirmation or promise [Com. Code § 2313(1)(a)]. Any description of the goods which is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the description [Com. Code § 2313(1)(b)]. If a sample or model is made part of the basis of the bargain, this creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the sample or model [Com. Code § 2313(1)(c)].

Warranties are easily created. It is not necessary to the creation of an express warranty that formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" be used or that there be a specific intention to make a warranty. However, a mere affirmation of the value of the goods or a statement purporting to be only the seller's opinion or commendation of the goods does not create a warranty [Com. Code § 2313(2)].

[c] Basis of the Bargain

The creation of an express warranty under Com. Code § 2313(1) [see [b], above] requires an affirmation of fact or promise by the seller to the buyer that relates to the goods and "becomes part of the basis of the bargain" [Com. Code § 2313(1)(a)] or a description of the goods or a sample or model that is "made part of the basis of the bargain" [Com. Code § 2313(1)(b), (c)]. For a discussion of the similar requirement under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 2301-2312; see also [k], below] for a "written warranty," see the discussion under [k][ii], below.

[d] Definition; The Reliance Requirement

If an express warranty requires that the affirmation, promise, description, sample, or model be a "part of the basis of the bargain" [see Com. Code § 2313(1); 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6)], then the question is whether something is a "part of the basis of the bargain." More specifically, there is a question whether the change in language from the Uniform Sales Act to the Uniform Commercial Code means that the reliance required by Section 12 of the Uniform Sales Act is no longer a necessary element of an express warranty. Section 12 of the Uniform Sales Act, which was the predecessor to the Uniform Commercial Code-Sales [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801], provided that an affirmation of fact or promise by the seller relating to the goods created an express warranty if the natural tendency of the promise or affirmation was to "induce" the buyer to buy the goods, and if the buyer bought the goods "relying" on the affirmation or promise. Further, the predecessor to Com. Code § 2313, former Civ. Code § 1732, required "an affirmation of fact or promise by the seller and reliance thereon by the buyer."

The Commercial Code does not define the phrase "basis of the bargain" [see Com. Code § 2313(1)], and commentators say that it is unclear [Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 6, Express Warranties, § 6.01 (Matthew Bender); Williston on Sales (4th ed. 1974, LCP), vol. 3, § 17-5] and has no generally understood legal meaning [1 New York Law Revision Commission Report, Study of the U.C.C., p. 393; White & Summers, Hornbook on the Uniform Commercial Code (2d ed., West 1980), § 9-4]. Courts [see, e.g., Alan Wood Steel Co. v. Capital Equip. Enter. Inc. (Ill. App. 1976) 349 N.E.2d 627, 635 (reliance required); Massey-Ferguson, Inc. v. Laird (Ala. 1983) 432 So. 2d 1259, 1261 (reliance not required)] and commentators [see, e.g., White & Summers, Hornbook on the Uniform Commercial Code (2d ed., West 1980), § 9-4 (reliance required); Note, "Basis of the Bargain"--What Role Reliance? 34 U. Pitt. L. Rev. 145, 150-152 (1972) (reliance not required)] have divided over whether "reliance" is still part of the test for the creation of an express warranty.

There are several apparent indications that reliance is no longer required for an express warranty under the "basis of the bargain" test. Two of the strongest are the following:

- First, the Commercial Code omits any mention of reliance in favor of the "basis of the bargain" requirement for express warranties [Com. Code § 2313(1)], but the reliance requirement is retained for an implied warranty of fitness of purpose [see Com. Code § 2315; see also § 52.294[1][e]]. This indicates that the removal of the reliance requirement from the express warranty provisions was deliberate, done with the intent to modify pre-Uniform Commercial Code Law [see Note, "Basis of the Bargain"--What Role Reliance? 34 U. Pitt. L. Rev. 145, 150-151 (1972)].
- Second, California Code comment 3 to Com. Code § 2313 states, in effect, that the requirements for an express warranty under Com. Code § 2313(1)(a) are broader than under Former Civ. Code § 1732 with its reliance requirement because "no particular reliance on [affirmations of fact] need be shown"

On the other hand, there are also strong indications that reliance is still required under the "basis of the bargain" test. For one thing, the great majority of both courts [see, e.g., Slyman v. Pickwick Farms (Ohio App. 1984) 472 N.E.2d 380, 384, 15 Ohio B. 47; Alan Wood Steel Co. v. Capital Equip. Enter. Inc. (Ill. App. 1976) 349 N.E.2d 627, 635] and commentators [see, e.g., Henson, The Law of Sales (ALI/ABA 1985), § 6.04; White & Summers, Hornbook on the Uniform Commercial Code (2d ed., West 1980), § 9-4] favor this position. Perhaps the strongest argument is that it is hard to say what making a thing part of the "basis of the bargain" means if it does not mean relying on it [see 1 New York Law Revision Commission Report, Study of the U.C.C., p. 393 (reliance is used for lack of any other meaningful standard)].

One commentator has concluded that "for all practical purposes it is suggested that no great change was wrought by the [Uniform Commercial] Code. Whether one speaks of reliance or basis of the bargain, little difference exists between the two. In neither case should the statement be required to have been the sole factor leading the buyer to purchase. In either case, the statement should, at least, be one of such factors. What is really crucial is whether the statement was made as an affirmation of fact, the goods did not live up to the statement, and the defect was not so apparent that the buyer could not be held to have discovered it for himself" [Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 6, Express Warranties, § 6.01, fn. 4] (Matthew Bender)].

The official comments provide that express warranties rest on "dickered" aspects of the individual bargain [Com. Code § 2313, comment 1]. No particular reliance on any affirmation of fact need be shown. In fact, it is presumed that any affirmation of fact [Com. Code § 2313, comment 3] or any model or sample involved in the transaction is intended to become a basis of the bargain [Com. Code § 2313, comment 6]. The question is whether the language, samples, or models are fairly to be regarded as part of the contract [Com. Code § 2313, comment 7].

It appears that California courts have generally adopted the position that the change of language from former law to that in Com. Code § 2313 modifies both the degree of reliance and the burden of proof in express warranties under the code. The seller's representation need only be part of the basis of the bargain, or merely a factor or consideration inducing the buyer to enter into the bargain. A warranty statement made by a seller is presumptively part of the basis of the bargain, and the burden is on the seller to prove that the resulting bargain does not rest at all on the representation [Keith v. Buchanan (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 13, 23, 220 Cal. Rptr. 392 (citing UCC Comment 2-313, Comment 3, and out-of-state authority); see Ibrahim v. Ford Motor Co. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 878, 890, 263 Cal. Rptr. 64 (defendant, not plaintiff, had burden of proof on issue of reliance); see also Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 116-117, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Thiokol Corp. (9th Cir. 1997) 124 F.3d 1173, 1176 (relying on Keith v. Buchanan, above)].

[e] Violation of Law

A clear and conspicuous provision limiting a seller's liability for breach of an express warranty that the goods have been labeled by him or her as required by a federal or state statute has been held invalid. Civ. Code § 1668 prohibits as against public policy any contract that seeks to exempt a person from responsibility for his or her willful or negligent violation of law. Thus Civ. Code § 1668 makes the statement of limitation of liability, as it pertains to the express warranty that the goods have been labeled as required by law, void as against public policy [Agr. Services Ass'n. Inc. v. Ferry-Morse Seed Co. (5th Cir. [Tenn.] 1977) 551 F.2d 1057, 1066-1067 (applying California law)].

[f] Effect of Assignment

The acceptance of an assignment of a purchase agreement containing a warranty provision that includes an exculpatory clause barring negligence actions, the validity of which is not contested, constitutes agreement on the part of the assignee to be bound by the exculpatory clause [Aeronaves de Mexico, S.A. v. McDonnell Douglas (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1982) 677 F.2d 771, 773 ; see Com. Code § 2210(5) (assignment of contract is delegation of duties unless words or situation indicate otherwise)].

[g] Getting the Right Warranty

The buyer should insist, if possible, that all express warranties on which he or she relies in buying the goods be stated in the contract. At the very least, the buyer should take care that any warranty relied on has been created in a way recognized by Com. Code § 2313 [see [b], above]. If a warranty is oral, it is important to be sure that proof of it will not be hindered by a merger clause or the parol evidence rule [see § 52.354[1]]. The buyer must also carefully review the sale documents or announcements accompanying the goods to see if any of the relied on warranties are being disclaimed.

The seller should disclaim warranties that are or might be associated with this type of transaction but are not in fact extended in this particular transaction, or that might have been inferred from the seller's opinions of or puffing related to the goods, but were not intended as warranties [see Com. Code § 2313(2) (mere opinion or commendation of goods not a warranty)]. The seller should include general disclaimers [see §§ 52.291, 52.292], a denial of authority of agents to make warranties, and a merger clause [see § 52.354] to prevent later allegations of warranties not intended by the seller. The seller must realize, however, that he or she cannot extend and then disclaim express warranties. The seller cannot warrant in one clause of the contract that the material is fit for use in the manufacture of shirts, and then in a later clause disclaim all express warranties. Com. Code § 2316(1) provides that a disclaimer is inoperative to the extent it cannot be construed as consistent with an express warranty.

[h] Disclaimers

For a discussion of Com. Code § 2316 and the exclusion or modification of warranties, see § 52.295[1].

[i] Cumulation or Conflict of Express or Implied Warranties

Sometimes the accumulation of warranties in a contract covering a single transaction results in contradictions and ambiguities. This can happen if, for example, the seller provides a sample of the goods that is made part of the basis of the bargain [see Com. Code § 2313(1)(c) (sample made part of basis of bargain creates express warranty)], and the contract includes an inconsistent description of the goods with which the goods are warranted to comply. In a situation like this, the warranties, whether express or implied, must be construed as consistent with each other and as cumulative unless that construction is unreasonable, in which case the intention of the parties determines which warranty is dominant. In ascertaining that intention, the following rules apply [Com. Code § 2317]:

- Exact or technical specifications displace an inconsistent sample or model or general language of description.
- A sample from an existing bulk displaces inconsistent general language of description.
- Express warranties displace inconsistent implied warranties other than an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose.

[j] Consumer Product Warranty Statutes

Both California and the federal government have enacted consumer product warranty laws to protect the buying public. The federal law is the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.; see 16 C.F.R. §§ 700.1-703.8 (implementing regulations)], discussed under [k], below. The California law is the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.], discussed under [l], below.

[k] Federal Consumer Warranty Statute[i] Warranty Requirement; Minimum Standards

Under the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.], there is no requirement that a warranty be given with respect to a consumer product. However, when a warranty is actually offered to a consumer, the warranty and certain services connected with it must meet certain specifications [see, e.g., 15 U.S.C. § 2304 (minimum federal standard for written warranties)]. For discussion of the requirements of the Act applicable to express warranties, see § 52.128 P 7. For discussion of the requirements applicable to implied warranties, see § 52.129 P 4.

[ii] Written Warranties

The Magnuson-Moss Act provides two definitions of the term "written warranty":

- First, a "written warranty" is any written affirmation of fact or written promise made in connection with the sale of a consumer product by a supplier to the buyer that relates to the nature of the material or workmanship and affirms or promises that the item is free of defects or will meet a specified level of performance over a specified period of time.
- Second, a "written warranty" is an undertaking in writing in connection with the sale by a supplier of a consumer product to refund, repair, replace, or take other remedial action with respect to the product if it fails to meet the specifications set forth in the undertaking.

Either type of warranty becomes part of the basis of the bargain between a supplier and buyer for purposes other than resale of the product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(6); see, e.g., Milicevic v. Fletcher Jones Imports, Ltd. (2005) 402 F.3d 912, 914 (purchaser of automobile sued auto dealer and manufacturer for breach of written warranty under Act)]. To be "part of the basis of the bargain," a written warranty must be conveyed at the time of the sale of the consumer product, and the consumer must not give any consideration beyond the purchase price of the consumer product [16 C.F.R. § 700.11(b)]. An agreement that fails to qualify as a written warranty only because it is not part of the basis of the bargain is a service contract [see [viii], below].

[iii] Implied Warranties

An "implied warranty" under the Magnuson-Moss Act is one arising under state law in connection with the sale by the supplier of the consumer product [15 U.S.C. § 2301(7)]. The Act does not create any new implied warranties, but does modify local law by prohibiting warrantors from disclaiming implied warranties and restricting their right to limit the duration of an implied warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2308].

[iv] Non-Warranties

Warranties should be distinguished from statements or representations which are similar to expressions of general policy concerning customer satisfaction and which are not subject to specific limitations. These matters are not subject to the disclosure or warranty content provisions of the federal warranty law [15 U.S.C. § 2303(b)].

[v] Disclosure of Terms and Conditions of Warranty

Any written warranty for a consumer product actually costing the consumer more than $15 must clearly and conspicuously disclose in a single document, in simple and readily understood language, all of the following [16 C.F.R. § 701.3(a); see 15 U.S.C. § 2302(a) (disclosures FTC may require to be included in warranties for consumer goods actually costing consumer more than $5)]:

- The identity of the parties to whom the written warranty is extended, if the enforceability of the written warranty is limited to the original consumer purchaser or is otherwise limited to persons other than every consumer owner during the term of the warranty.
- A clear description and identification of products, parts, characteristics, components, or properties covered by, and where necessary for clarification, excluded from, the warranty.
- A statement of what the warrantor will do in the event of a defect, malfunction, or failure to conform with the written warranty, including the items or services the warrantor will pay for or provide, and when necessary for clarification, those that the warrantor will not pay for or provide.
- The point in time or event on which the warranty term commences, if different from the purchase date, and the time period or other measurement of warranty duration.
- A step-by-step explanation of the procedure that the consumer should follow to obtain performance of any warranty obligation, including the persons or class of persons authorized to perform warranty obligations. This includes the name of the warrantor, the mailing address of the warrantor, and/or the name or title and the address of any employee or department of the warrantor responsible for the performance of warranty obligations, and/or a telephone number that consumers may use without charge to obtain information on warranty performance.
- Information concerning the availability of any informal dispute settlement mechanism elected by the warrantor in compliance with 16 C.F.R. Part 703.
- Any limitations on the duration of implied warranties, disclosed on the face of the warranty as provided in 15 U.S.C. § 2308, accompanied by the following statement: "Some States do not allow limitations on how long an implied warranty lasts, so the above limitation may not apply to you."
- Any exclusions of or limitations on relief such as incidental or consequential damages, accompanied by the following statement, which may be combined with the required statement in the preceding item, above: "Some States do not allow the exclusion or limitation of incidental or consequential damages, so the above limitation or exclusion may not apply to you."
- A statement in the following language: "This warranty gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from State to State."

In general, the seller or warrantor of a consumer product with a written warranty, actually costing the consumer more than $15, must make the text of the warranty available for examination by the prospective buyer before purchase [16 C.F.R. § 702.3(a), (b)]. The FTC will not prescribe durations of warranties, although some adjustments may be allowed for tolling warranty periods during times of product dysfunction [15 U.S.C. § 2302(b)].

Warrantors may not require that consumers pay for prescribed trade name products to use in association with the guaranteed product unless the FTC is first satisfied that the warranted product will function properly only if the identified article or service is used [15 U.S.C. § 2302(c)]. A warrantor may not condition the continued validity of a warranty on the use of only authorized repair service and/or authorized replacement parts for non-warranty service and maintenance. However, a warrantor may exclude itself from or deny liability for defects or damage caused by "unauthorized" articles or service [16 C.F.R. § 700.10(c)].

Under a limited warranty that provides only for replacement of defective parts and no portion of labor charges, the warrantor may not require that the consumer use only labor identified by the warrantor to install the parts. A warrantor or its representative may not provide parts under the warranty in a manner that impedes the consumer's choice in deciding who will install the parts [16 C.F.R. § 700.10(b)].

[vi] "Full" or "Limited" Warranties

Warranted products costing more than $10 [15 U.S.C. § 2303(d)] must in all relevant instances be clearly and conspicuously labeled as carrying either a "full _____ (term, e.g., 10-year) warranty," or a "limited warranty." The full warranty is one that meets the federal minimum standards [15 U.S.C. § 2303(a)]. However, the FTC may determine when the label need not be applied [15 U.S.C. § 2303(c)]. For a warranty to qualify as a full warranty, the warrantor must do all of the following [15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)]:

- Remedy the product within a reasonable time and without charge.
- Not impose time limits on the warranty.
- Unless conspicuously noting otherwise, not limit consequential damages for breach of warranty.
- Allow the customer to elect a refund or free replacement after failure of a reasonable number of repair attempts.

Normally the consumer need only notify the warrantor of the problem or defective condition of the product to obtain warranty care. The warrantor is entitled to show that the defect complained of resulted from unreasonable use or improper care [15 U.S.C. § 2304(c), (d)].

A consumer product may carry both full and limited warranties when they are clearly and conspicuously distinguished [15 U.S.C. § 2305].

[vii] Disclaimer or Modification of Implied Warranties

A supplier may not disclaim or modify an implied warranty if it either makes a written warranty to the consumer on the product or either at the time of sale or within 90 days thereafter enters into a service contract with the consumer as to the product. However, an implied warranty may be limited to the time period of the written warranty if the latter is of reasonable duration and the limitation is conscionable and set forth in clear and unmistakable language, and if it is prominently displayed on the face of the warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2308]. However, the latter limitation is available as a practical matter only in the case of limited warranties [see 15 U.S.C. § 2304(a)(2)].

[viii] Service Contracts; Representatives of Warrantors

A supplier or warrantor may enter into a service contract with the consumer in addition to or in lieu of a written warranty, but the contract must fully, clearly, and conspicuously disclose its terms and conditions in simple and readily understood language [15 U.S.C. § 2306(b)]. The FTC may undertake to spell out the requirements of service contract conditions [15 U.S.C. § 2306(a)].

An agreement that would be a written warranty except that it is not "part of the basis of the bargain" [see [ii], above; see also [c], above] is a service contract. For example, an otherwise qualified agreement that calls for a consideration in addition to the purchase price is a service contract [16 C.F.R. § 700.11(c)]. While warrantors may designate representatives to perform duties under warranties, they may not be relieved of their direct responsibilities to the consumer, nor may they make the representative a co-warrantor [15 U.S.C. § 2307].

The Act contains detailed provisions for resolving disputes. Warrantors are formally encouraged to establish informal settlement mechanisms [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(1)], and the FTC has set minimum standards [see 16 C.F.R. §§ 703.1-703.8] for settlement mechanisms that are incorporated into written warranties governed by the Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(2)]. Detailed provisions for individual or class actions are set forth in the Act [15 U.S.C. § 2310(d)], although consumers may not be able to bring a civil action without first having tried the approved settlement procedures provided for in the warranty [15 U.S.C. § 2310(a)(3)].

[x] Preemption of State Law

In general, the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act does not invalidate or restrict any right or remedy of a consumer under state or federal law [15 U.S.C. § 2311(b)(1)]. However, state laws that are in conflict with 15 U.S.C. §§ 2302-2304 do not apply to written warranties that are in compliance with the requirements of those sections [15 U.S.C. § 2311(c)(1)], but the FTC will allow state law to apply when the state law affords greater protection to the consumer without unduly burdening interstate commerce [15 U.S.C. § 2311(c)(2)].

[l] California Consumer Warranty Statute

The Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.] applies to sales of new and used consumer goods [Civ. Code §§ 1791(a), 1795.5]. This Act, coupled with the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.; see [k], above], affords maximum protection to the consumer. For a discussion of the requirements of the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act applicable to express and implied warranties, see § 52.128 P 6 and § 52.129 P 3. The Act also affects service and repair responsibilities, and requires the inclusion of specific language in work orders and repair invoices for warranty repairs [Civ. Code §§ 1793.1, 1793.2, 1794.4; see Ch. 92, Service Contracts, § 92.50 et seq.].

The Song-Beverly Act specifically allows the creation of express warranties, but provides that those warranties may not limit, modify, or disclaim the implied warranties that are guaranteed by the Act to purchasers of consumer goods [Civ. Code § 1793]. Express warranties must be fully set forth in simple, readily understood language, and must clearly identify the party making the warranties (that is, whether the express warranty is made by the manufacturer, the distributor, or the retailer) [Civ. Code § 1793.1(a)(1)]. Unless disclaimed in the prescribed manner, consumer goods sold at retail in California must be accompanied by the manufacturer's and retail seller's implied warranty that the goods are merchantable [Civ. Code §§ 1792, 1792.4; see Com. Code § 2314(2) ("merchantable goods" defined); see also § 52.129 P 1(a)]. In addition, every retail sale of consumer goods in California by a manufacturer who has reason to know at the time of the sale that the goods are required for a particular purpose and that the buyer is relying on the manufacturer's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods must be accompanied by the manufacturer's implied warranty of fitness for that purpose [Civ. Code § 1792.1]. A similar requirement is applicable to retailers and distributors [see Civ. Code § 1792.2]. No implied warranty of merchantability or (when applicable) fitness may be waived, except in the case of a sale on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis [Civ. Code § 1792.3; see Civ. Code § 1792.4; see also § 52.296].

Further, if a manufacturer, distributor, or retailer provides a warranty or product registration card or form (or electronic online warranty or registration card) to be completed and returned by buyer, that card or form must inform the buyer that it is for product registration and that failure to return card does not diminish buyer's warranty rights [see Civ. Code § 1973.1(a)].

Nothing in the Song-Beverly Act prevents the sale of service contracts to buyers in addition to or in lieu of express warranties if the terms, conditions, and exclusions are fully and conspicuously disclosed in simple and readily understood language [Civ. Code § 1794.4(a) (not applicable to home protection contracts)]. Specific provisions must be included in the service contract [see Civ. Code § 1794.4(c)].

A special provision applicable to vehicle manufacturers [see Veh. Code § 672(a) (definition of "vehicle manufacturer")] who alter new vehicles into housecars requires that those manufacturers assume, in addition to any new product warranty, any warranty responsibility of the original vehicle manufacturer for any and all components of the finished product which are, by virtue of any act of the alterer, no longer covered by the warranty issued by the original vehicle manufacturer [Civ. Code § 1793.05]. For discussion of specific Song-Beverly Act provisions concerning motor vehicles, see Ch. 92, Service Contracts, § 92.50 et seq.

[m] Preemption by Federal Drug and Medical Device Laws

If a prescription or over-the-counter drug has been approved by the FDA, state warranty claims regarding it are preempted by the Food & Drug Modernization Act of 1997 [21 U.S.C. § 379r(a)], even claims that the statements on the label are no longer true and the product is no longer effective because the parasites the drug was intended to treat have become resistant since FDA approval [Kanter v. Warner-Lambert Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 780, 797, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72] . Similarly, no claim for such a drug can be stated under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act (15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.), because Magnuson-Moss is expressly inapplicable to any written warranty the making or content of which is otherwise governed by another federal law [15 U.S.C. § 2311(d)] and by definition, drugs, devices, and cosmetics are not consumer products within the meaning of Magnuson-Moss [Kanter v. Warner-Lambert Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 780, 797-798, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72] .

A medical device that has received premarket approval from the FDA in accordance with the Medical Device Amendments (1976) to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act is insulated from state law claims because approval indicates the device had been shown to be safe and effective for use as recommended in the submitted label [21 U.S.C. § 360k(a); see Steele v. Collagen Corp. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1474, 1480, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 879] .

§ 52.291 Express Warranties With Disclaimers

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of express warranties with disclaimers. Each of the four alternative provisions offers an express warranty while disclaiming any other express warranties. The seller must realize, however, that he or she cannot extend and then disclaim express warranties. The seller cannot warrant in one clause of the contract that the material is fit for use in the manufacture of shirts, and then in a later clause disclaim all express warranties. Com. Code § 2316(1) provides that a disclaimer is inoperative to the extent it cannot be construed as consistent with an express warranty. This statutory provision is meant to deal with sales contract clauses that seek to exclude "all warranties, express or implied," and to protect a buyer from unexpected and unbargained language of disclaimer by denying effect to such language when it is inconsistent with language of express warranty [Com. Code § 2316, comment 1]. Thus a specific bargained-for disclaimer that is not unexpected should be effective [see Forms & Procedures Under the UCC, Article 2, Sales, § 22.33[3] (Matthew Bender)].

The first alternative in this form leaves the express warranty to be filled in, while disclaiming any warranties by description, sample, or model, or any other express warranties except the one given. This provision is for that rare case in which the buyer will agree that he or she is not even entitled to a warranty that the goods will be as described. Indiscriminate use of this broad disclaimer is unwise. If it is used when the buyer would normally expect the description to be a warranty, the court will probably hold the disclaimer to be inoperative under either Civ. Code § 1670.5 [see Civ. Code § 1670.5 (court may deny or limit enforcement of contract found to be unconscionable as a matter of law); see also § 52.295[1][d]] or Com. Code § 2316(1).

Each of the other three alternatives provides a specific express warranty while disclaiming all others. The warranties provided are that the goods are as described; that the goods are free from defects in workmanship or materials for a set time; or that the goods will be basically as described, but the seller may modify certain details. In each case, it is important to use one of these provisions only when it is bargained for and fits the facts of the transaction [see Com. Code § 2316, comment 1].

For discussion of express warranties, see § 52.290[1]. For disclaimers of express warranties not accompanied by the giving of an express warranty, see § 52.292. For disclaimers of implied warranties when express warranties are given in the sale of nonconsumer goods, see § 52.293. For disclaimers of implied warranties, see § 52.295.

Express Warranties With Disclaimers

Any description of the goods contained in this contract is for the sole purpose of identifying them, is not part of the basis of the bargain, and does not constitute a warranty that the goods will conform to that description. The use of any sample or model in connection with this contract is for illustrative purposes only, is not part of the basis of the bargain, and is not to be construed as a warranty that the goods will conform to the sample or model. No affirmation of fact or promise made by Seller, whether or not in this contract, will constitute a warranty that the goods will conform to the affirmation or promise [except that Seller does expressly warrant that _____ (include any warranties given by seller)].

[OR]

Seller warrants that the goods are as described in this contract, but no other express warranty is made concerning the goods. If any model or sample was shown to Buyer, that model or sample was used merely to illustrate the general type and quality of the goods and not to represent that the goods would necessarily be of that type or nature.

[OR]

The goods sold under this contract are warranted to be free from defects in workmanship and materials for _____ [e.g., 90] days. No other express warranty is given and no affirmation of Seller, by words or action, will constitute a warranty.

[OR]

Seller agrees that the goods will be basically as described in this contract. However, Seller retains the right to modify or change the composition, design, color, and appearance of the goods if in Seller's judgment this is advisable. There are no express warranties other than those contained in this contract, and all representations or affirmations made were for illustrative purposes only.

§ 52.292 Disclaimers of Express Warranties

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains two alternative clauses for the disclaimer of express warranties. It is to be used only to disclaim express warranties. To make one or more express warranties while disclaiming other express warranties, see § 52.291. To provide in a sale of goods other than consumer goods that the express warranty dominates any implied warranties, see § 52.293. To disclaim implied warranties, see § 52.295.

[b] Inconsistent Disclaimers

A disclaimer that conflicts with words or conduct that tend to create an express warranty is inoperative to the extent that it is unreasonable to construe the two as consistent [Com. Code § 2316(1)]. For further discussion of this statutory provision and its implications for disclaimers, see § 52.291[1].

[c] Implied Warranties

Both seller and buyer must be aware of warranties that will be implied by law-the seller, to disclaim those not bargained for; the buyer, to evaluate what he or she is giving up if he or she accepts a disclaimer. For a detailed discussion of implied warranties, see §§ 52.294[1] and 52.295[1].

[2] FORM

Disclaimers of Express Warranties

Disclaimers

No agent, employee, or representative of Seller has any authority to bind Seller to any affirmation, representation, or warranty concerning the goods sold under this contract, and unless an affirmation, representation, or warranty made by an agent, employee, or representative is specifically included within this contract, it will not be enforceable by Buyer.

[OR]

It is the intent of the parties to provide in this contract an effective disclaimer of all express warranties with respect to the goods sold under this contract. Both parties are represented by competent counsel and have reduced the entire agreement of the parties to this writing. No statement of fact, promise, representation, affirmation, or other indication has been made with respect to the quality of the goods other than those which appear in this written contract. The description of the goods contained in this contract is the sole basis for the agreement of the parties, and no statements or representations other than those embodied herein have been made or relied on. Any sample or model that has been referred to in this contract was not intended as a basis for this contract and Buyer acknowledges that the model or sample was used for the purposes of approximate illustration only and that no reliance was placed on it in arriving at the terms of this contract. It is agreed that any opinions or statements of Seller as to the value or quality of the goods sold under this contract do not form a basis for this contract, and unless the statements or opinions are specifically embodied in this writing, they do not, in any way, constitute a warranty. Any modification of this contract that relates in any way to a warranty must be in writing and signed by Seller; otherwise the purported modification will be null and void.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.293

§ 52.293 Clauses Providing for the Dominance of an Express Warranty in a Sale of Nonconsumer Goods

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of five alternative clauses providing for the dominance of express warranties in a sale of nonconsumer goods. The use of this form must be limited to nonconsumer goods because of the state and federal consumer warranty statutes [see [b], below]. By saying that the express warranty dominates, it is meant that an express warranty is provided while implied warranties, and in some cases all other express warranties, are disclaimed. The language disclaiming implied warranties in these alternatives is shown in all capitals or in all capitals and boldface because language disclaiming implied warranties of merchantability or fitness must be "conspicuous" [Com. Code § 2316(2); see [c], below].

Each of the alternatives in this form disclaims the implied warranties of fitness and merchantability [see Com. Code § 2314 (merchantability); Com. Code § 2315 (fitness for purpose); see also § 52.294[1][b], [e]]. The main difference between the alternatives is the nature of the express warranty provided and the language of disclaimer, if any, for express warranties other than the one stated. Thus, for example, the first alternative provides that the goods will be free from defects in workmanship or materials and that the seller warrants only that he or she will repair or replace nonconforming goods. The second states that the warranty is on the reverse side of the agreement and that it is the exclusive and only warranty on the contract goods. For this alternative and the third, which provides for replacement and repair in accord with the stated warranty, it will be necessary to consult the express warranty alternatives in § 52.290[2] and the express warranty disclaimers in § 52.291[2] to see if any of the warranties stated fit the facts of the transaction or can serve as a model. Alternatives two through four disclaim all other warranties, including express warranties. The attorney or other drafter must remember that a disclaimer that conflicts with words or conduct that tend to create an express warranty is inoperative to the extent that it is unreasonable to construe the two as consistent [Com. Code § 2316(1)]. For further discussion of this statutory provision and its implications for disclaimers, see § 52.291[1].

[b] Consumer Warranty Statutes

Consumer product warranties are regulated by the federal government under the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.; see also § 52.290[1][j]] and by California under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [see Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.; see also § 52.290[1][l]]. The California statute forbids the disclaimer of the implied warranties provided under the Act, except in a sale "as is" or "with all faults" [Civ. Code §§ 1792.3, 1793]. The federal statute prohibits the disclaimer of implied warranties if the supplier has made any written warranty [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6) ("written warranty" defined); see also § 52.290[1][k][ii]] on the same consumer product or enters into a service contract on that product within 90 days of the sale [15 U.S.C. § 2308(a)].

[c] "Conspicuous" Defined

A term or clause is "conspicuous" when it is written, displayed, or presented so that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to notice it [Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)]. Conspicuous terms include (1) a heading in capitals equal to or greater in size than the surrounding text, or in contrasting type, font, or color compared to the surrounding text of the same or lesser size, and (2) language in the body of a record or a display in larger type than the surrounding text, or in contrasting type, font, or color compared to the surrounding text of the same size, or set off from surrounding text of the same size by symbols or other marks that call attention to the language [Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)(A), (B)]. Whether a term is conspicuous is a decision for the court [Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)], because subjecting conspicuousness to fact-finding would introduce too much uncertainty into the drafting process [In re Bassett (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 882, 885].

A term is not necessarily conspicuous because it is in capitals. It is entirely possible for text to be conspicuous without being in capitals [In re Bassett (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 882, 886]. Conversely, a term in capitals can still be inconspicuous if it is hidden on the back of a contract in small type [see, e.g., Sierra Diesel Injection Service, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 108, 114 (warranty exclusions in 7 point type and not bold face)], if it is in hard-to-read type, or buried deep in a long paragraph that is all in capitals. Formatting matters, but conspicuousness ultimately turns on the likelihood that a reasonable person would actually see a term in an agreement. Brevity promotes conspicuousness [In re Bassett (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 882, 886-887]. In In re Bassett, the term at issue was on the first page of a two page agreement, the second page of which was an attorney's statement. Roughly the top three-fourths of the first page contained blanks to be filled in to identify the transaction. The term in question was the first sentence following those blanks. There were only three sentences in the agreement. The last one, the one directly above the buyer's signature was in capitals. The fact that nearby language was in capitals and the term in question was not did not render that term inconspicuous [In re Bassett (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 882, 885-887].

[2] FORM

Clauses Providing for the Dominance of an Express Warranty in a Sale of Nonconsumer Goods

Dominance of Express Warranty

Seller warrants that the goods sold under this contract will be free from defects in material and workmanship for a period of _____ months, and this warranty will be limited to the repair and replacement of parts and the necessary labor and services required to repair the goods. IT IS EXPRESSLY AGREED THAT THIS WARRANTY WILL BE IN LIEU OF ALL WARRANTIES OF FITNESS AND IN LIEU OF THE WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY.

[OR]

The warranty of Seller appears on the reverse side of this contract, and it is agreed that this warranty is the exclusive and only warranty to pass with the goods under this contract and THAT WARRANTY IS IN PLACE AND LIEU OF

ALL WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY AND FITNESS.

[OR]

It is the intent of the parties to this contract to fully and completely state the rights and obligations of the parties in this contract, and Seller has specifically set forth in this contract the extent and nature of the warranty on the goods to be sold. Therefore, it is expressly agreed that the liability of Seller will be limited to the replacement and repair of the goods in accord with the stated warranty, and there are no other warranties or representations with respect to the nature and quality of the goods. Any other warranty is agreed to be inconsistent with the stated warranty, and it is the intent of the parties to specifically DISCLAIM THE WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY AND THE WARRANTY OF FITNESS.

[OR]

It is agreed that although Buyer has been shown a sample from the stock of Seller, Seller warrants that the goods sold under this contract will comply with the description of the goods contained in this contract, even though the description may be deemed general language. It is the intent of the parties to rely on the description of the goods contained in this contract rather than rely on the sample, and therefore there are no other warranties other than those appearing in writing in this contract, INCLUDING THE WARRANTIES OF FITNESS AND MERCHANTABILITY, and it is agreed that any other purported warranties, express or implied, will be deemed inconsistent with Seller's warranty by description in this contract.

§ 52.294 Implied Warranties Made Express

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The alternatives in this form are clauses that make implied warranties express. These clauses reflect what the Commercial Code would provide in the absence of agreement. It is prudent for the parties to state warranties on which they are relying, both to provide notice and to avoid problems of proof, such as the chance that they will be contradicted by parol evidence [see § 52.354[1]]. As in any drafting of documents to which the Commercial Code applies, the attorney must study the applicable provisions in order to be familiar with the warranties that would be implied in the absence of a contrary agreement.

[b] Implied Warranties In General

Both seller and buyer must be aware of warranties that will be implied by law into the sale-the seller so that he or she may disclaim those not bargained for; the buyer to evaluate what is being given up if he or she accepts a disclaimer. For a discussion of disclaimers of implied warranties and a selection of disclaimer clauses, see § 52.295. The creation of implied warranties is governed by Com. Code §§ 2314 and 2315.

[c] Merchantability

A warranty that the goods will be merchantable is implied, unless duly excluded or modified [see Com. Code § 2316; see also § 52.295[1]], in a contract for their sale, if the seller is a merchant with respect to goods of that kind [Com. Code § 2314(1)]. For a discussion of merchantability [see Com. Code § 2314(2) (definition)], see § 52.129 P 1(a).

[d] Course of Dealing or Usage of Trade

Course of dealing or usage of trade [see § 52.15[2]] may create implied warranties [Com. Code § 2314(3)] unless those warranties are duly excluded or modified [see Com. Code § 2316; see also § 52.295[1]]. A typical example of this situation is the obligation to provide pedigree papers in the sale of a pedigreed animal [Com. Code § 2314, UCC comment 12].

[e] Fitness for Purpose

When the seller at the time of contracting has reason to know any particular purpose for which the goods are required, and that the buyer is relying on the seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods, there is, unless duly excluded or modified [see Com. Code § 2316; see also § 52.295[1]], an implied warranty that the goods will be fit for that purpose [Com. Code § 2315].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.295

§ 52.295 Disclaimer of Implied Warranties

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The alternatives in this form are clauses that disclaim implied warranties. For a discussion of implied warranties, see § 52.294[1][b]. For a discussion of sales "as is" or "with all faults," see § 52.296[1].

[b] Written Disclaimers

Implied warranties are excluded by expressions like "as is," "with all faults," or other language which in common understanding calls the buyers' attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty [Com. Code § 2316(3)(a); see § 52.296]. In addition to this type of exclusion, to exclude or modify the implied warranty of merchantability or any part of it, the language must mention merchantability, and, if the disclaimer is in writing, the language must be conspicuous. To exclude or modify any implied warranty of fitness, the exclusion must be in writing and must be conspicuous [Com. Code § 2316(2); see Com. Code § 1201(b)(10) ("conspicuous" defined); see also discussion in § 52.293[1][c]]. Language to exclude all implied warranties of fitness is sufficient if it states, for example: "There are no warranties that extend beyond the description on the face hereof" [Com. Code § 2316(2)].

[c] Disclaimer by Conduct, Including Course of Dealing, Course of Performance, or Usage of Trade

Implied warranties may also be excluded by conduct. When the buyer before entering into the contract has examined the goods or the sample or model as fully as he or she desires or has refused to examine the goods, there is no implied warranty with regard to defects that an examination ought in the circumstances to have revealed to the buyer [Com. Code § 2316(3)(b); e.g., Garlock Sealing Techs., LLC v. NAK Sealing Techs. Corp. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 937, 952, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 (substantial evidence supported trial court's finding that abrasiveness of oil-seal lips was not defect that buyer ought to have discovered)]. This exclusion of implied warranties by examination or for refusal to examine has four aspects that need to be stressed. First, the examination or refusal to examine must occur before the buyer enters into the contract. Second, the examination must be as full and thorough as the buyer wants it to be [Com. Code § 2316(3)(b)]. Third, before there can be a refusal to examine there must be a demand by the seller that the buyer examine the goods. It is not enough that the goods are available for inspection. The demand serves to put the buyer on notice that he or she is assuming the risk of any defects that the examination ought to reveal [Com. Code § 2316, UCC comment 8]. Fourth, the examination or the refusal to examine excludes implied warranties only as to those defects that the examination ought to have revealed to the buyer under the circumstances [Com. Code § 2316(3)(b)].

An implied warranty can also be excluded or modified by course of dealing or course of performance or usage of trade [Com. Code § 2316(3)(c)]. For a definition and discussion of "course of performance," "course of dealing," and "usage of trade," [see Com. Code §§ 1303, 2202], see § 52.15[2].

[d] Unconscionability

Although the California Legislature did not adopt UCC § 2-302 (on unconscionability) as part of the California Commercial Code, an unconscionable disclaimer of express and implied warranties may be denied enforcement despite technical compliance with the requirements of Com. Code § 2316 [A & M Produce Co. v. FMC Corp. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 473, 483-485, 186 Cal. Rptr. 114 ; see Civ. Code § 1670.5 (applying unconscionability provisions like those in UCC § 2-302 to contracts in general)].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.296

§ 52.296 Provisions for Sales "As Is" or "With All Faults"

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains four alternative clauses providing for the sale of goods "as is" or "with all faults." These clauses may be used to disclaim implied warranties [see § 52.295]. Implied warranties are excluded by expressions such as "as is," "with all faults," or other language [see Com. Code § 2316, UCC comment 7 (other language includes "as they stand")] which in common understanding calls the buyers' attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty [Com. Code § 2316(3)(a)]. The words "as is" or "with all faults" should be conspicuous when reduced to writing [see [c], below].

[b] Disclaimers in Compliance With Consumer Warranty Statutes

The final two alternatives in this form are intended to be used to disclaim implied warranties as to consumer goods when no express warranties have been given. This is necessary to comply with the Magnuson-Moss Consumer Warranty Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 2301 et seq.; see also § 52.290[1][j]], which prohibits the disclaimer of implied warranties on a consumer product [see 15 U.S.C. § 2101(1) ("consumer product" defined)] when the supplier gives a written warranty or enters into a service contract within 90 days of the sale [15 U.S.C. § 2308(a); see § 52.293[1][b]].

The final two alternatives are also designed to comply with the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.], which prohibits the waiver of an implied warranty of merchantability or an applicable implied warranty of fitness unless the sale is on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis [Civ. Code § 1792.3]. To be effective, the disclaimer must be by means of a conspicuous writing attached to the goods that clearly informs the buyer before sale in simple and concise language of each of the following [Civ. Code § 1792.4(a)]:

- The goods are being sold on an "as is" or "with all faults" basis.

- The entire risk as to quality and performance is on the buyer.
- If the goods prove defective after purchase, the buyer alone assumes the entire cost of all necessary servicing or repair.

Because the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.] requires all of these statements to be conspicuous, the third and fourth alternatives include more language in boldface and all capitals than the other alternatives.

[c] Conspicuous Written Disclaimers

Although Com. Code § 2316(3) does not require "as is" or "with all faults" to be conspicuous when written, it has been held that the requirement of conspicuous language for the disclaimer of an implied warranty of merchantability or fitness [see Com. Code § 2316(2); see also § 52.295[1][b]] should be read to apply to the writing or printing of "as is" or "with all faults" when used to disclaim these types of warranties [Osborne v. Genevieve (Fla. App. 1974) 289 So. 2d 21, 23 ; Gindy Mfg. Corp. v. Cardinale Trucking Corp. (N.J. Super. 1970) 111 N.J. Super. 383, 268 A.2d 345, 350-353]. For discussion of what constitutes a conspicuous [see Com. Code § 1201(10) ("conspicuous" defined)] term or clause of an agreement, see § 52.293[1][c]. The Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.] requires disclaimer by a conspicuous writing attached to the goods [see [b], above].

5. Warranties

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.297

§ 52.297 Warranties of Title or Against Infringement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains clauses that create, disclaim, or limit warranties of title or warranties against infringement. If the parties do not agree on their own warranties or disclaimers, warranties of title [see [b], below] and warranties against infringement [see [c], below] are governed by Com. Code § 2312.

This form includes a warranty of title, a warranty against infringement, and a promise by the buyer to hold the seller harmless against infringement claims arising out of the seller's compliance with specifications furnished by the buyer. Each of these clauses is under its own separate heading and each merely confirms the rights that Com. Code § 2312 provides to the parties in the absence of agreement.

This form also includes six more clauses, two alternatives under each heading, that vary the effects of Com. Code § 2312 by agreement. The first two of these alternatives provide that the goods are sold subject to a security interest. This seems like a disclaimer of the warranty of title, but it is not. The warranty of title includes a warranty that the goods are not subject to security interests of which the buyer has no knowledge [see Com. Code § 2312(1); see also [b], below]. Recognizing the existence of a security interest in the contract of sale means that the buyer knows about it, and therefore no warranty exists to be disclaimed. There are also alternative disclaimers of both warranties against infringement and warranties of title.

[b] Warranties of Title

In the absence of disclaimer, there is in a contract for sale a warranty that (1) the title conveyed will be good and its transfer rightful; and (2) the goods will be delivered free from any security interest or other lien or encumbrance of which the buyer has no knowledge at the time of contracting [Com. Code § 2312(1)]. Rightful transfer of good title means that the buyer will not be subjected to a lawsuit in order to protect the title [Com. Code § 2312, UCC comment

1]. For a lien or encumbrance not to be covered by the warranty of good title, the buyer must have actual knowledge of it, not mere notice [Com. Code § 2312, comment 1].

The warranty of good title may be excluded or modified only by specific language or by circumstances which give the buyer reason to know that the seller does not claim title or is purporting to sell only whatever right or title the seller or a third person may have [Com. Code § 2312(2)]. For example, sales by sheriffs, executors, foreclosing lienors, and those similarly situated are so out of the ordinary commercial course that the limited nature of the rights sold is immediately apparent to the buyer, and no personal obligation is imposed on the seller [Com. Code § 2312, comment 5]. The warranty of good title is not designated an implied warranty and may not be disclaimed in the manner of an implied warranty, as, for example, by a sale "as is" or "with all faults" [Com. Code § 2312, comment 6; see also §§ 52.295 and 52.296].

[c] Warranties Against Infringement

Unless otherwise agreed, a seller who is a merchant regularly dealing in goods of the kind warrants that the goods will be delivered free of the rightful claim of any third person by way of infringement or the like, but a buyer who furnishes specifications to the seller must hold the seller harmless [see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty and Indemnity] against any claim that arises out of compliance with these specifications [Com. Code § 2312(3)].

A "rightful claim" under Com. Code § 2312(3) is not synonymous with a claim that ultimately will prove successful in litigation. Rather, it is a nonfrivolous claim of infringement that has any significant and adverse effect on the buyer's ability to make use of the goods [Pacific Sunwear of Cal., Inc. v. Olaes Enters., Inc. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 466, 470, 481, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 182] .

[d] Meaning of "Infringement or the Like"

The warranty against infringement is described as a warranty by the seller that the goods will be delivered free of rightful claims of "infringement or the like" [Com. Code § 2312(3)]. This raises the questions of (1) what type of infringement is being referred to; and (2) what is "the like."

Com. Code § 2312, comment 3 clarifies the first question somewhat by stating that when the warranty applies it is the seller's duty to see that "no claim of a patent or trademark infringement by a third party will mar the buyer's title." The Commercial Code and comments do not mention copyright infringement. It has been argued that literary property rights are not covered by the warranty against infringement because they are not "goods" [see Com. Code § 2105(1) ("goods" defined); see also § 52.13[2]]. However, the warranty expressly covers patent and trademark infringement even though patents and trademarks, like literary property rights, are general intangibles [Com. Code § 2312, comment 3]. Further, what is being protected (at least with respect to patents and trademarks) is not the intangible interest that may exist in the goods themselves, but rather the possibility that the goods may infringe on similar interests held by third parties [see Com. Code § 2312, comment 3]. Accordingly, whether the warranty against infringement protects the buyer of goods from third party claims that the goods infringe on copyrighted materials must be regarded as an open question in the absence of case law to the contrary.

With respect to the second question, there is no indication of what the drafters of the UCC meant by "the like." Perhaps this is merely a cautious legalism, with the drafters qualifying the term "infringement" even though they had nothing specific in mind. In any case, if the parties believe that the goods in their transaction might give rise to a claim similar to infringement that would mar the buyer's title [see Com. Code § 2312], then they may include a warranty against that type of claim irrespective of whether or not it is or may be covered by the UCC. For example, the parties may fear that a third party might claim that the sale of the goods was unfair competition [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 565, Unfair Competition]. Otherwise, the parties should simply provide a warranty against infringement, and leave it at that.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.310§ 52.310 Provisions Requiring Payment by Buyer Before Inspection[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative provisions requiring the buyer to pay the purchase price before inspecting the goods. In the absence of such a provision, the buyer will have the right to inspect the goods prior to payment or acceptance [Com. Code § 2513(1); see § 52.311[1]]. The essence of a contract requiring the buyer to pay before inspection is the intention of the parties to shift to the buyer the risks that would usually be on the seller. The advantage to the seller is obvious--the buyer must pay first and litigate any defects later [Com. Code § 2512, comment 1], because nonconformity of the goods does not excuse the buyer from paying before the inspection. The only times the buyer does not need to pay before inspection are (1) when the nonconformity appears without inspection and (2) when, despite tender of the required documents, the circumstances justify injunction against honor under Com. Code § 5109(b) (issuer's obligations to customer) [Com. Code § 2512(1)].

From the buyer's perspective, there seems to be no possible advantage to such a provision. It would seem that the buyer would accept this type of clause only when the seller enjoys some significant advantage in bargaining power, as, for example, when only the seller makes the article that the buyer needs.

[b] Acceptance; Buyer's Rights and Remedies

Payment prior to inspection does not constitute an acceptance of the goods, nor does it impair any of the buyer's remedies [Com. Code § 2512(2)]. The buyer still has the right to reject the goods by revoking his or her acceptance [see Com. Code § 2608; see also § 52.385[1]] after inspection. The exercise of this right is merely delayed, along with the inspection, until after payment. There is, however, no fast or easy way for the buyer to get back the money paid. This is the main risk assumed by the buyer in agreeing to pay before inspection [see former Com. Code § 2512, comment 1 (essence of contract providing for payment before inspection is intent to shift to buyer risks usually borne by seller)].

The parties could, of course, agree that the buyer is entitled to immediate return of the payment if inspection reveals the goods to be nonconforming, but this would still leave the buyer to sue for the money if the seller does not cooperate. The only solution would be to agree to a mechanism that would insure fast return of the payment, such as payment before inspection to a third party with return of the payment to the buyer on his or her demand after inspection. The difficulty is that a provision of this nature leaves the agreement to pay before inspection worthless, and it is hard to see the value to either party of an agreement containing both provisions.

If the buyer knows or suspects that the goods are nonconforming, the buyer may refuse to pay. Although the seller can bring an action for the buyer's breach of the agreement, the suit should be futile if the goods are indeed defective, because the seller will not be able to show any damages. For discussion of the remedies available to a rejecting buyer, see § 52.18[3].

[c] Legal Effect of Contract

The requirements of Com. Code § 2512 apply not only when the contract requires payment before inspection by the express agreement of the parties, but also when payment before inspection is required because of the effect in law of the contract. For that reason, Com. Code § 2512 should be considered in conjunction with Com. Code § 2513(3) [Com. Code § 2512, comment 6]. For discussion of Com. Code § 2513(3), see § 52.311[1][c].

6. Inspection

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.311

§ 52.311 Clauses Providing for Inspection of Goods by Buyer

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of 12 alternative clauses delineating the buyer's right of inspection prior to payment or acceptance of the goods under Com. Code § 2513. Most of these alternatives are fairly specific, and the parties should use the one that best fits the intentions of the parties and the facts of the transaction. If, for example, the parties want to vary the statutory rule that expenses of inspection are to be borne by the buyer [see Com. Code § 2513(2); see also [d], below], they should use the tenth alternative.

[b] Buyer's Right of Inspection

Unless the parties agree otherwise, and subject to certain exceptions [see [c], below], when goods are tendered or delivered or identified to the contract for sale, the buyer has a right before payment or acceptance to inspect the goods at any reasonable place and time and in any reasonable manner [Com. Code § 2513(1)]. If the seller is required or authorized to send the goods to the buyer, the inspection may be after their arrival [Com. Code § 2513(1)]. The exceptions to buyer's rights to inspect goods before payment or acceptance are documentary sales, C.O.D. deliveries [Com. Code § 2513(3)] and certain aspects of C.I.F. deliveries [Com. Code § 2321(3); see § 52.254[1]].

[c] Circumstances Under Which Buyer Does Not Have Right of Inspection

When a sales contract contains certain delivery and payment provisions, the buyer loses the right to inspect the goods before payment unless the parties specifically agree otherwise. Absent an agreement to the contrary, the buyer has no right of inspection when the sales contract requires that payment be made against documents of title, except when that payment is due only after the goods are available for inspection [Com. Code § 2513(3)(b)]. Likewise, the buyer has no right to inspect goods when the sales contract includes a provision specifying that delivery will be made "C.O.D." or on similar terms [Com. Code § 2513(3)(a)]. However, unless the parties agree otherwise, if the contract provides for delivery of goods "C.I.F." and requires payment on or after arrival of the goods, the seller must allow a preliminary inspection; but if the goods are lost, the documents must be delivered and payment must be made when the goods should have arrived [Com. Code § 2321(3); see Com. Code § 2513(1)].

For a discussion of "C.I.F." delivery provisions and representative clauses, see § 52.254.

[d] Expenses of Inspection

The buyer must bear the expenses of inspection, but is entitled to recover these expenses from the seller if he or she rightfully rejects the goods for failure to conform to the contract [Com. Code § 2513(2)]. The parties may agree to allocate the expenses of inspection differently [Com. Code § 2513, comment 4], as, for example, in the tenth alternative in this form.

[e] Exclusive Place or Method of Inspection; Avoidance of Contract

A place or method of inspection fixed by the parties is presumed to be exclusive, but unless the parties expressly agree otherwise, fixing a place or method of inspection does not postpone the identification of goods to the contract [see Com. Code § 2501; see also § 52.284] or shift the place for delivery [see Com. Code § 2308; see also § 52.251] or for passing the risk of loss [see Com. Code §§ 2509, 2510; see also §§ 52.280, 52.281]. If compliance with the agreed place or method becomes impossible, inspection will be as provided for in the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2513], unless the place or method agreed to was clearly intended as an indispensable condition the failure of which avoids the contract [Com. Code § 2513(4)].

Clauses Providing for Inspection of Goods by Buyer

Inspection by Buyer

Buyer shall have the right, and shall be given an opportunity, to inspect the goods as soon as they are ready for shipment. Inspection shall be at Seller's plant and shall be made within _____ [e.g., three] days after Seller gives Buyer written notice that the goods are ready for shipment. Failure to inspect the goods at that time shall constitute a waiver of Buyer's right of inspection.

[OR]

Buyer shall inspect the goods as soon as Buyer is informed in writing that they have arrived in the city of destination. Inspection shall be made while the goods are still in the hands of the carrier and before they have been unloaded from the cars. Any charges made by the carrier in connection with Buyer's inspection, including charges for demurrage, shall be paid by Buyer. Failure to inspect within _____ [e.g., five] days after notice of their arrival shall be deemed an acceptance of the goods.

[OR]

The goods shall be inspected on tender to Buyer. Failure to inspect within _____ [e.g., five] days after tender shall constitute a waiver of Buyer's rights of inspection and shall be equivalent to acceptance of the goods.

[OR]

Buyer shall have the right to inspect the goods on tender by Seller. If Buyer receives the goods or takes possession of them without inspection, this shall constitute a waiver of Buyer's right to inspect.

[OR]

Buyer shall have the opportunity, at the time and place of inspection, to run adequate tests to determine whether the goods tendered conform to the specifications of this contract. Use of a portion of the goods for the purpose of testing shall not constitute an acceptance of the goods. However, if the goods are rejected, Buyer shall recompense Seller, at the contract price, for all goods used in testing.

[OR]

Buyer shall have the right to install and operate for _____ [e.g., five] days the machinery sold under this contract before either accepting it or paying for it. During this period of _____ [e.g., five] days, suitable tests may be run to determine whether the machinery conforms to the description and warranties expressed in this contract.

[OR]

If, on inspection, Buyer determines that the goods do not conform to the description in this contract, Buyer shall have the right to preserve and keep a small sample of the goods tendered for the purpose of having evidence of the tendered goods' kind and quality.

[OR]

Buyer shall have the right to make a visual inspection of the goods, but no testing requiring use of the goods shall be conducted prior to acceptance and payment.

[OR]

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this contract, Buyer shall have the right to inspect the goods prior to payment and acceptance.

[OR]

Any expense incurred in the inspection of the goods shall be borne equally by Seller and Buyer, whether or not the goods are rejected as nonconforming.

[OR]

As soon as the goods are ready for shipment, Seller shall notify _____ [name of third party], _____ [address and firm affiliation, if applicable], who shall inspect the goods at Seller's plant within _____ [e.g., three] days after notification and submit a written report to Buyer and Seller. This inspection shall be fully and finally determinative of whether the goods conform to this contract. Defects that are not noted and brought to the attention of Seller at this time shall not constitute the basis of any claim or defense under this contract. Buyer shall have no other right of inspection before accepting and paying for the goods.

[OR]

As soon as the goods are ready for shipment Seller shall notify _____ [name of third party], _____ [address and firm affiliation, if applicable], hereafter referred to as "Inspector." Inspector shall arrange to take samples of the goods, which shall be analyzed to determine whether they meet the standards of quality, strength, and purity set forth in this contract. The results of these tests shall be forwarded to both Seller and Buyer as soon as available, and these results shall be final and conclusive unless either Seller or Buyer objects within _____ [e.g., three] days after receiving notice of them.

§ 52.320 Clauses Specifying Situations in Which Parties Excused

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains seven alternative clauses that specify when performance may be excused or modified. If the parties do not provide such a clause, excuse of performance due to a failure of presupposed conditions is governed by Com. Code § 2615.

The first, second, and sixth alternatives allow both parties to be excused. The third, fourth, and seventh alternatives excuse only the seller, while the fifth excuses only the buyer. Notice of the claimed excuse for nonperformance is required from both parties in the first alternative, from the seller in the third, and from the buyer in the second and fifth alternatives.

The terms of excuse in the first alternative are substantially similar to those provided in Com. Code § 2615, except that the permissible causes are specified and the buyer as well as the seller may be excused. The other alternatives differ more sharply from Com. Code § 2615, with alternatives three and five contrasting most sharply. Alternative three allows the seller to be excused from delivering the contract goods if the seller receives so many other orders that it cannot deliver the goods from excess production. Alternative five excuses the buyer if it determines after a market survey that marketing the goods in question would not be profitable for it. Because the buyer is required to give the seller notice of this determination by a certain date, alternative five should not be so unreasonable [see Com. Code § 1302(b)] (obligation of reasonableness may not be disclaimed by agreement)] or unconscionable [see Civ. Code § 1670.5 (court may refuse to enforce unconscionable contract)] as to be invalid.

[b] Force Majeure

The term "force majeure" used in the final alternative in this form is French for "superior strength." It is a term for a supervening impossibility of performance that serves as a defense to nonperformance [Corbin on Contracts (West 1962), Ch. 74, § 1324; see Ch 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.65].

[c] Unforeseen Contingencies

Com. Code § 2615(a) provides that, except so far as a seller has assumed a greater obligation, delay in delivery or nondelivery is not a breach of the seller's contractual duty if the agreed performance is now impracticable due to the occurrence of a contingency the nonoccurrence of which was a basic assumption of the contract or due to good faith compliance with a foreign or domestic governmental regulation or order. The test is "commercial impracticability," not "impossibility" or "frustration of performance" [Com. Code § 2615, comment 3]. Thus increased cost alone does not excuse performance unless the increase is caused by an unforeseen contingency that alters the essential nature of the performance [Com. Code § 2615, comment 4]. Com. Code § 2615 applies when a particular source of supply is exclusive [see § 52.205] under the agreement and fails through casualty [Com. Code § 2615, comment 5].

[d] Allocations; Notice

If only part of the seller's capacity to perform is affected by the unforeseen contingency, he or she must allocate production and deliveries among customers in a fair and reasonable manner [Com. Code § 2615(b)]. The seller must notify the buyer seasonably of any delay or nondelivery and of the estimated quota under any required allocation [Com. Code § 2615(c)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying Situations in Which Parties Excused

Situations in Which Parties Excused

Seller shall not be liable for any delay or failure to deliver any or all of the goods if that delay or failure is caused by labor disputes, strikes, war, riots, insurrection, civil commotion, fire, flood, accident, storm or any act of God, failure of crops or supplies, or other causes beyond Seller's control. Buyer shall not be liable for failure to take delivery of the goods attributable to any of the causes specified in this paragraph if they render it commercially impractical for Buyer to receive the goods. If only a part of Seller's or Buyer's capacity to perform is excused under this paragraph, that party must allocate production, deliveries, or receipt of deliveries among that party's various customers or suppliers, as the case may be, then under contract for similar goods. The allocation must be in a commercially fair and reasonable manner. When either Seller or Buyer claims an excuse for nonperformance under this paragraph, the party claiming the excuse must give seasonable notice to the other party. When an allocation has been made of the estimated quota made available for each Buyer, the Seller must give notice of this allocation.

[OR]

Seller shall not be held responsible for any delivery or failure to make delivery of all or any part of the merchandise purchased under this contract if that failure is due to any cause, contingency, or circumstance not subject to its control that prevents or hinders the manufacture or delivery of the merchandise, including federal, state, or municipal action, statute, ordinance, or regulation; strike or other labor trouble; fire damage to or destruction in whole or in part of merchandise or manufacturing plant; or the lack of or inability to obtain raw materials, labor, fuel, or supplies. Seller shall be released from Seller's obligations under this contract under any of the circumstances specified in this paragraph. Buyer shall be released under like circumstances if notice of the circumstances is given to Seller before shipment is made.

[OR]

Seller has granted a reduced price to Buyer in anticipation that Seller will be able to fill this order from Seller's excess production. If Seller accepts other orders which require full use of Seller's usual production capacity, Seller shall give notice to Buyer that Seller cannot deliver the goods under this contract. Buyer shall have the option to terminate this contract or to agree to accept the goods when Seller can deliver them from excess production. If no election is made by Buyer within _____ [e.g., 10] days after receiving notice under this paragraph, this contract shall be automatically terminated.

[OR]

It is understood and agreed that shipment is to be made under this contract by ship or ships from the City of _____ to the City of _____. Seller shall furnish to Buyer the names of the ship or ships in which the goods are shipped. Should the ship or ships fail to arrive at the port of destination for any cause, Seller is relieved of responsibility and not liable under this contract for any goods shipped by the ship or ships.

[OR]

If Buyer determines after a suitable testing of the market that it is inadvisable to offer the _____ [identify goods] for sale, Buyer shall be excused from all obligations imposed by this contract on timely notice to Seller. The notice to Seller is timely only if Seller receives the notice during regular business hours at its _____ [specify location, e.g., main office at 111 Morgan Street, Reno, Nevada or factory in the Jack London Industrial Park, Oakland, California] no later than _____ [give time with precision, e.g., 5:00 P.M. on ____ (date)].

[OR]

Neither party shall be held responsible for any losses resulting if the fulfillment of any terms or provisions of this contract is delayed or prevented by an excusing cause, including revolutions or other disorders, wars, acts of enemies, strikes, fires, floods, or acts of God. Without limiting any of the listed causes, the term "excusing causes" also includes any other cause not within the control of the party whose performance is interfered with that this party is unable to prevent by the exercise of reasonable diligence, whether it is one of the listed causes or not.

[OR]

Seller shall not be responsible for delay, nondelivery, or default in shipment in whole or in part if occasioned by strike, war, riot, or revolutions, or for any delay in transportation due to demands or embargoes of the United States Government or any other government, or nondelivery or delays through fire, floods, droughts, accidents, insurrections, lockouts, breakdown of machinery, commandeering of vessels carrying goods, or for loss or damage in transit, or detention of or delay in vessels resulting directly or indirectly from acts of God, perils of the sea, stoppage of labor, shortage of carriers, or refusal of any necessary license or government restrictions considered as "force majeure," or any other unavoidable cause other than Seller's own negligence at any stage of the transit of goods beyond Seller's control. In no case shall Seller be responsible after delivery of goods in good order or condition to the carrier or carriers at the point of shipment.

§ 52.321 Provisions Specifying Rights and Duties When There Is a Casualty to Identified Goods

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains four alternative clauses that specify the rights and duties of the parties when there is a casualty to identified goods. In the absence of agreement, Com. Code § 2613 is controlling. If the contract requires for its performance goods identified when the contract is made, and the goods suffer casualty without fault of either party before the risk of loss passes to the buyer, or in a proper case under a "no arrival, no sale" term [see Com. Code § 2324; see also § 52.259], then the contract is avoided if the loss is total. If the loss is partial or the goods have so deteriorated that they no longer conform to the contract, the buyer may nevertheless demand inspection and at his or her option either treat the contract as avoided or accept the goods with due allowance from the contract price for the deterioration or the deficiency in quantity, but without further right against the seller [Com. Code § 2613].

The time at which the risk of loss passes to the buyer is a pivotal point under Com. Code § 2613 and the last two alternatives in this form. In the absence of breach, the general rule is that the risk of loss passes to the buyer on its receipt of the goods if the seller is a merchant; otherwise the risk passes to the buyer on tender of delivery [Com. Code § 2509(3)]. Different rules apply if the contract requires or authorizes the seller to ship the goods by carrier [see Com. Code § 2509(1)] or if the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved [see Com. Code § 2509(2)]. For discussion of risk of loss in the absence of breach, see § 52.280[1]. For discussion of risk of loss in the event of breach, see § 52.281[1].

Provisions Specifying Rights and Duties When There Is a Casualty to Identified Goods

Casualty to Identified Goods

Seller represents that the goods referred to in this contract are in existence and available for immediate shipment. If the goods are lost or destroyed before shipment for any reason, and regardless of fault, Seller shall undertake to deliver in accordance with the terms of this contract, but shall be allowed an additional _____ days for delivery.

[OR]

Seller shall not be excused from performing Seller's obligations under this contract if the goods identified are destroyed. Seller shall tender substitute goods of equal quantity and quality.

[OR]

If the goods covered by this contract are destroyed before the time the risk of loss passes to Buyer, Seller shall be excused from performing Seller's obligations under this contract and the contract shall be avoided. This provision shall apply whether or not the goods are destroyed through the negligence of Seller.

[OR]

If the goods covered by this contract are destroyed, in whole or in part, before the time the risk of loss passes to Buyer, this contract shall be avoided and Seller excused from all obligations hereunder. If the loss is partial, Buyer shall have no right to accept that portion of the goods which conforms to the contract.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.323

§ 52.323 Clauses Limiting Time Within Which to Give Notice of Rejection

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains six alternative clauses limiting the buyer's right to reject nonconforming goods. Unless the parties agree otherwise [Com. Code § 1302 (effect of code provisions may be varied by agreement except as otherwise provided)], the time, manner, and effect of a rightful rejection are governed by Com. Code § 2602 [see [b], below]. The first four alternatives require written notice of rejection within a stated number of days or hours. The last two provide, respectively, that keeping the goods for a stated period or failing to make a claim for damage, errors, or shortages within a stated time amounts to an irrevocable acceptance of the goods. In deciding what time limit to put on the right to reject goods, it is vital to remember that contract provisions limiting the time for rejection are effective only if the time set gives the buyer a reasonable time for discovery of defects [Com. Code § 2602, comment 1].

[b] Time, Manner, and Effect of Rejection

Even a wholly nonconforming tender or delivery of goods under a contract of sale requires affirmative action by the buyer to avoid acceptance [Com. Code § 2602, comment 1]. Goods must be rejected within a reasonable time after they are delivered or tendered. The rejection is ineffective unless the buyer seasonably notifies the seller [Com. Code § 2602(1)]. A thing is done "seasonably" if it is done at or within the time agreed on, or, if no time is agreed on, at or within a reasonable time [Com. Code § 1205(b); see also Com. Code §§ 1202 (specifying what constitutes notice), 2602, comment 1]. For discussion of what "notifies" means, see § 52.282[1][d].

After rejection, any exercise of ownership over the goods by the buyer is wrongful as against the seller. The buyer is under a duty after rejection to hold the goods with reasonable care at the seller's disposition for a time sufficient to permit the seller to remove them, unless the buyer has a security interest in the goods under Com. Code § 2711(3) [Com. Code § 2602(2)(b)]. These duties are subject to the buyer's options to salvage rightfully rejected goods under Com. Code § 2604 [see § 52.326[1]]. For the rules that apply to goods rejected by merchant buyers, see § 52.324[1]. For the form for an actual notice of rejection, see § 52.403[2].

[c] Rightful Rejection

The provisions of Com. Code § 2602 apply only to a rightful rejection by the buyer. If the seller's tender conforms in all respects to the contract, then the buyer has a positive duty to accept, and failure to do so is a wrongful rejection that gives the seller immediate remedies for breach [Com. Code § 2602, comment 3; see § 52.18[2]].

[2] FORM

Clauses Limiting Time Within Which to Give Notice of Rejection

Time Limit for Rejection Notice

As soon as the goods are delivered to Buyer, Buyer shall inspect them. Notice in writing shall be given within _____ [e.g., 24] hours after receipt of goods of any defects or omissions. Failure to give notice within _____ [e.g., 24] hours after receipt shall constitute an irrevocable acceptance of the goods.

[OR]

Buyer shall have _____ [e.g., 24] hours after receipt of the goods to inspect and either accept or reject them. If Buyer does reject the goods, then Buyer must give Seller written notice of the rejection, and this notice must arrive no later than _____ [e.g., 48] hours after Buyer receives the goods.

[OR]

The parties agree that a reasonable time for notification of rejection shall be the _____ [e.g., fifth] business day following receipt by Buyer of the bill of lading. Any attempted notification of rejection thereafter shall be null and void.

[OR]

Any notices pertaining to rejection or claims of nonconformity must be made in writing specifying in detail the objections of Buyer, and those notices must be forwarded within _____ [e.g., seven] calendar days after delivery of the goods.

[OR]

If Buyer retains the goods in Buyer's possession for a period in excess of _____ [e.g., 48] hours after delivery of them to Buyer's place of business, this shall be regarded as an irrevocable acceptance by Buyer of the goods delivered.

[OR]

All claims for damages, errors, or shortage in goods delivered by Seller to Buyer under this contract must be made by Buyer in writing within a period of _____ [e.g., two] days after the goods are delivered to Buyer. Failure to make any claim within [e.g., two] days shall constitute an irrevocable acceptance of the goods and an admission that they fully comply with all terms, conditions, and specifications of this contract.

§ 52.324 Clauses Specifying Duties of Merchant Buyer With Respect to Rejected Goods

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative provisions that define the obligations of a merchant buyer to the seller of goods when those goods are rejected. In the absence of agreement, and subject to any security interest in the buyer under Com. Code § 2711(3), when the seller has no agent or place of business at the market of rejection, a merchant buyer who has rightfully rejected goods that are in his or her possession or control has a duty to follow any reasonable instructions from the seller about the goods. In the absence of instructions from the seller about the goods, the merchant buyer has a duty to make reasonable efforts to sell them for the seller's account if they are perishable or threaten to decline in value speedily [Com. Code § 2603(1)]. If the buyer demands indemnity for expenses, the seller's instructions are not reasonable unless they include the indemnity [Com. Code § 2603(1)].

When a buyer sells rejected goods for the seller's account, he or she is entitled to reimbursement from the seller or out of the proceeds of the sale for reasonable expenses of caring for and selling them. If the expenses include no selling commission, then the buyer is entitled to the commission that is usual in the trade, or, if there is none, to a reasonable sum not to exceed 10 percent of the gross proceeds [Com. Code § 2603(2)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying Duties of Merchant Buyer With Respect to Rejected Goods

Duties With Respect to Rejected Goods

It is agreed that Buyer, on rejecting any goods delivered under this contract, shall hold the goods at Buyer's place of business until Seller has been notified in writing of the rejection and has had a reasonable opportunity to arrange for suitable transportation.

[OR]

It is agreed that if Buyer rejects any of the goods sold pursuant to this contract, Buyer's only duty shall be to seasonably notify Seller of this rejection and hold the goods for the disposition of Seller. It is further agreed that under no circumstances shall Buyer be required to resell the rejected goods.

[OR]

Seller has no agent or place of business located at or near Buyer's place of business. The goods sold under this contract are perishable. Buyer represents that Buyer is a merchant, and agrees to sell immediately the goods for Seller's account on rejection of any delivery. In the event of a resale after a rightful rejection, Buyer shall be entitled to a commission of _____ [e.g., 10] percent, which commission shall include all costs and expenses of the sale. Buyer may sell any rejected goods before or after notification of rejection to Seller, but the notice must be made in writing within _____ [e.g., two] business days after rejection. Buyer need not await instructions from Seller with respect to a rejection, but may immediately dispose of the goods.

[OR]

If Buyer rejects any tender of goods under this contract, Buyer shall reship the goods to the Seller, express collect, within _____ [e.g., 24] hours after rejection.

[OR]

If Buyer rejects any goods tendered under this contract, Buyer shall resell them for Seller's account in the _____ market as soon as is practical. In no event shall Buyer accept any price for the goods that is more than _____ [e.g., 20] percent below the price stated in this contract. If no sale can be made in accordance with this provision, Buyer shall immediately inform Seller by telephone and follow whatever instructions are given. In the event of a sale by Buyer for Seller's account, Seller agrees to pay the reasonable expenses of the sale including a commission of _____ [e.g., 5] percent to the Buyer, provided that the rejection was proper.

§ 52.325 Clauses Relieving Buyer From Waiver Due to Failure to Particularize Basis for Rejection of Goods

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses which provide generally that a buyer who rejects goods does not waive reliance on an alleged defect by failing to particularize the basis of the rejection. In the absence of such a provision, a rejecting buyer's failure to specify a defect discoverable by reasonable inspection precludes the buyer from relying on that defect to justify or to establish breach when the seller could have cured it if stated seasonably [see Com. Code § 1205(b) ("seasonably" defined); see also § 52.282[1]]. Between merchants, the buyer may not rely on an unstated defect when the seller, after rejection, makes a written request for a full and final written statement of all defects on which the buyer proposes to rely [Com. Code § 2605(1)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Relieving Buyer From Waiver Due to Failure to Particularize Basis for Rejection of Goods

No Liability for Failure to Specify Defects

The failure of Buyer to specify a defect that is a cause of any rejection shall not preclude Buyer from relying on the unstated defect to justify rejection or to establish a breach.

[OR]

The failure of Buyer to seasonably specify any defects in rejected goods shall not prevent Buyer from relying on the defect to establish a breach, even though Seller could have cured the defect on proper notification.

[OR]

Notwithstanding any other provision in this contract to the contrary, Buyer shall in no event be penalized or precluded from establishing a defect in rejected goods by reason of any failure to particularize the defects.

If a sales contract does not contain this type of clause, the seller may cure a nonconforming tender within the contract time, or within a reasonable time if the seller had reasonable grounds to believe that the nonconforming goods would be acceptable, as long as the buyer is given seasonable [*see Com. Seller understands that the specifications for the goods must be fully met and that no variation from the specifications is permitted. Any tender of goods that does not meet the specifications shall constitute a breach of this contract, and Seller shall have no right to substitute a conforming tender.

- After a reasonable opportunity to inspect the goods, signifies to the seller that the goods are conforming or that he or she will take or retain them in spite of their nonconformity.
- Fails to make an effective rejection after having a reasonable opportunity to inspect the goods.

Restriction of Revocation of Acceptance

The parties agree that the inspection provisions of this contract are adequate to protect Buyer. Buyer shall either accept or reject the goods, and after accepting them shall not be entitled to revoke that acceptance.

[OR]

Any attempt by Buyer to revoke acceptance for any reason whatever after Buyer has accepted any shipment shall constitute a breach of this contract.

[OR]

If Buyer accepts goods tendered under this contract, Buyer's acceptance shall be final and irrevocable. No attempted revocation shall have any effect whatsoever.

[OR]

It is agreed that by reason of the nature of the goods sold under this contract, _____ days is a reasonable time for Buyer to discover any latent defects after acceptance. Revocation of acceptance must be made within that time, in writing. Any revocation after that time shall be void and of no effect.

[OR]

Once Buyer accepts goods tendered under this contract, Buyer shall have no right to revoke that acceptance after _____ days. Acceptance of the goods shall automatically become irrevocable on the expiration of _____ days from the date of acceptance.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.330

§ 52.330 Clauses Setting Conditions Under Which Demand for Assurance of Performance Is Proper

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses that allow the parties to fix the conditions under which a demand for assurance of performance is proper.

In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, Com. Code § 2609 defines the conditions under which one party may demand assurance of performance from the other party. A contract of sale imposes on each party an obligation not to impair the other party's expectation of receiving due performance. Any party who has reasonable grounds for insecurity concerning the performance of the other may make a written demand for adequate assurance of due performance. Until the party demanding assurance receives it, he or she may, if commercially reasonable, suspend any performance for which he or she has not yet received the agreed return [Com. Code § 2609(1); see § 52.146 P 2]. Failure to provide adequate assurance of due performance within a reasonable time (not to exceed 30 days) after receipt of a justified demand is a repudiation of the contract [Com. Code § 2609(4)].

Between merchants [see § 52.13[4] (definition)], the reasonableness of grounds for insecurity and the adequacy of any assurance offered will be determined according to commercial standards [Com. Code § 2609(2)]. This means that the grounds for the insecurity need not arise from or be directly related to the contract in question. For example, a buyer who falls behind in his or her account with the seller impairs the seller's expectation of due performance, even though the items involved have to do with separate and legally distinct contracts [Com. Code § 2609, comment 3].

For provisions specifying or negating the assignment of rights or the delegation of duties (including clauses waiving the right to demand assurance or requiring specific assurances), see § 52.356[2].

[2] FORM

Clauses Setting Conditions Under Which Demand for Assurance of Performance Is Proper

Demand for Assurance of Performance

If any of the deliveries provided for in this contract are more than _____ days late or if the quantity of any delivery drops by _____ percent or more below the quantity set for each delivery, Buyer shall have the right to demand assurance of performance with respect to ensuing deliveries. Seller agrees to give as assurance a performance bond with sufficient sureties in the amount of $ _____, conditioned on the proper, timely, and full delivery of all of the ensuing deliveries called for in this contract. The bond shall be furnished within _____ days after receipt of the demand for assurance by Seller, at the address stated _____ [above or below].

[OR]

Seller shall have the immediate right to demand assurance of full payment from Buyer if any of the following events occur:

- (a) Buyer is delinquent in making any payment hereunder for a period of _____ days.
- (b) Buyer fails to meet Buyer's obligations with Buyer's other suppliers as they occur.
- (c) A judgment is entered against Buyer in excess of $ _____ in any court of competent jurisdiction, whether or not the judgment is stayed pending appeal.
- (d) By reason of a labor dispute or otherwise, there is a work stoppage of more than _____ days at Buyer's _____ factory.

On proper demand for assurance by Seller, Buyer shall within _____ days after receipt of that demand furnish, in an amount sufficient to secure the full payment of the balance due under this contract on the purchase price, a penalty bond issued by any competent surety company, or shall post securities or other liquid collateral to be held in escrow by _____ [name of escrow holder] to secure payment of the purchase price.

[OR]

If any of Seller's products, whether or not of the type described in this contract, are the subject of an action by the Federal Food and Drug Administration, Buyer shall have the right to demand assurance that all goods to be delivered under this contract meet all applicable federal and state standards and do not violate any federal, state, or local law, regulation, or ordinance. If Buyer makes this demand, Seller shall furnish assurance within _____ [e.g., 10] days of the demand. When Buyer has a right to assurances under this provision, Seller shall (1) state in writing at the time of each shipment under this contract that the shipment complies with all federal, state, and local laws, regulations, and ordinances; and (2) furnish Buyer with a guaranty or undertaking in accordance with Title 21, Section 333(c) of the United States Code.

§ 52.331 Representations by Buyer With Respect to Solvency

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses in which the buyer represents to the seller that the buyer is solvent. The seller may want to include this type of provision as protection against an insolvent buyer.

[b] "Insolvency" Defined

A person is "insolvent" if any of the following is true [Com. Code § 1201(b)(23)]:

- The person has generally ceased to pay debts in the ordinary course of business, other than as a result of bona fide dispute.
- The person cannot pay his or her debts as they become due.
- The person is insolvent within the meaning of the federal bankruptcy law [see 11 U.S.C. §§ 1-1330; see also Ch. 78, Creditors' Agreements: Nonbankruptcy Alternatives].

[c] Seller's Remedies on Discovery of Buyer's Insolvency

Ordinarily, the seller has only two remedies on discovering that the buyer is insolvent. If the goods have not yet been delivered, the seller may refuse delivery except for cash. This right extends to stopping delivery of goods in the hands of a carrier [Com. Code § 2702(1); see Com. Code § 2705 (seller's stoppage of delivery); see also § 52.480[1]]. If the seller discovers the insolvency after the buyer has already received the goods on credit, the seller may reclaim the goods, but only if he or she makes a demand for reclamation within 10 days after buyer's receipt of the goods [Com. Code § 2702(2)]. Use of the provisions in this form should enable the seller to reclaim goods beyond the otherwise applicable 10-day period, because Com. Code § 2702(2) states that the 10-day limit does not apply if the buyer has misrepresented his or her solvency to the seller in writing within three months before delivery. However, a seller who is entitled to reclaim goods after the 10-day limit should act promptly, because the right to reclamation is subject to the rights of a buyer in ordinary course or other good faith purchaser [Com. Code § 2702(3)]. A person with voidable title has power to transfer a good title to a good faith purchaser for value [Com. Code § 2403(1); see § 52.17[3]]. A "buyer in ordinary course of business" is a person who buys in ordinary course from a person in the business of selling goods of that kind. The purchase must be in good faith and without knowledge that the sale violates a third party's ownership rights in the goods purchased. A pawnbroker is not a buyer in ordinary course of business [Com. Code § 1201(b)(9)]. "Good faith" means honesty in fact and the observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing [Com. Code § 1201(b)(20)].

[2] FORM

Representations by Buyer With Respect to Solvency

Solvency of Buyer

Buyer represents that Buyer is able to pay Buyer's debts as they become due, is in fact now paying Buyer's debts in the ordinary course of business, and is not insolvent within the meaning of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. Buyer makes these representations with full knowledge that Seller is relying on them in extending credit under this contract.

[OR]

Buyer, for the purpose of inducing Seller to extend credit, represents that Buyer is not insolvent as that term is defined in applicable state or federal statutes.

[OR]

Buyer represents by signing this contract that Buyer is not insolvent as that term is defined in Commercial Code Section 1201(b)(23). If Buyer becomes insolvent before delivery of the goods, Buyer shall notify Seller. A failure to notify Seller shall be construed as a reaffirmation of Buyer's solvency at the time of delivery.

[OR]

Buyer shall furnish to Seller a statement in writing at the time each delivery is tendered that Buyer is not insolvent as that term is defined in Commercial Code Section 1201(b)(23). Seller shall not be obligated to deliver possession of the goods to Buyer until Buyer has provided Seller with a statement of solvency.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.332

§ 52.332 Termination and Accompanying Notice

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses providing for termination of a sales contract on the occurrence of a specified event or events. The alternatives in this form provide for termination on various events, such as violations of applicable law, bankruptcy, and the failure to get and maintain insurance. The parties should choose the alternative that best fits their intentions and the facts of their transaction. The parties, if they wish to provide for termination on the happening of more than one event or type of event, may include more than one of these alternatives.

[b] Notice Requirement

The termination of a contract by one party, except on the happening of an agreed event, requires that the other party receive reasonable notification [Com. Code § 2309(3)]. This normally requires a notification of termination that will give the other party a reasonable time to seek a substitute arrangement [Com. Code § 2309, comment 8]. A person has "notice" of a fact if the person either [Com. Code § 1202(a); see Com. Code § 1202(d) (giving notice)]:

- Has actual knowledge of it;
- Has received a notice or notification of it; or
- Has reason to know that it exists, from all facts and circumstances known to the person at the time in question.

[c] Unconscionability

An agreement dispensing with notification is invalid if its operation would be unconscionable [Com. Code § 2309(3)]; see Civ. Code § 1670.5 (court may deny enforcement to unconscionable contract or clause)]. Unconscionability is generally recognized to include an absence of meaningful choice on the part of one party together with contract terms unreasonably favorable to the other party [Chretien v. Donald L. Bren Co. (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 385, 389, 198 Cal. Rptr. 523 ; Williams v. Walker-Thomas Furniture Company (D.C. Cir. 1965) 350 F.2d 445, 449] . Absence of meaningful choice is indicated by lack of knowledge and lack of voluntariness [Duesenberg & King, Sales and Bulk Transfers Under the U.C.C., Ch. 4, The Code and Contract Principles, § 4.08[2][c][ii] (Matthew Bender)]. The basic test is whether, in light of the general background and the needs of the particular case, the contract or clause involved is so one-sided as to be unconscionable under the circumstances existing when the contract was made. The purpose is to prevent oppression and unfair surprise [Legislative Committee Comment, Civ. Code § 1670.5]. For example, a confession of judgment clause is not per se unconscionable. But a confession of judgment clause does operate in a one-sided way, and if it is placed in the body of a contract in a deceptive manner, this constitutes unfair surprise and the clause is unconscionable [Architectural Cabinets, Inc. v. Gaster (Del. Super. 1971) 291 A.2d 298, 300-301] .

[2] FORM

Termination and Accompanying Notice

Termination On Noncompliance With Applicable Law

Buyer shall strictly observe and comply with all federal, state, and local laws, ordinances, and regulations that govern the manufacture, sale, handling, and disposal of any products covered by this contract. If Buyer violates any such laws, ordinances, or regulations, or is officially charged with a violation to the detriment or damage of Seller, Seller in its sole discretion may immediately terminate this contract and any other existing agreements with Buyer and may refuse to make any further deliveries.

[OR]

Termination On Bankruptcy

If Buyer becomes bankrupt or insolvent during the period covered by this contract, Seller may immediately terminate the same on written notice to Buyer. This termination shall not prejudice Seller's rights to the amounts then due under this contract.

[OR]

Termination On Failure to Obtain and Maintain Insurance Covering Goods

During the term of this contract and until full payment for all the goods has been made by Buyer, Buyer shall keep the goods insured against loss by fire, with the insurance proceeds, if any, payable to Seller as its interest may appear. The insurance shall be in the sum of not less than $ _____. Buyer shall promptly pay all premiums due or to become due on the insurance and shall keep it in full force and effect. If Buyer fails to obtain insurance or fails to keep the insurance in full force or effect, Seller may take out the insurance and pay the premium, and the amount so paid shall be repaid to Seller by Buyer, or Seller may, at its option, terminate this contract by written notice.

[OR]

Termination On Imposition of Duties and Tariffs

If any additional duty is imposed on any of the contract goods by the United States Government between the date of this contract and the date of the arrival of the goods at a port of entry into the United States, Seller shall have the right to terminate this contract by mailing promptly to Buyer a written notice stating that all shipments due or to become due on or after the effective date of the change have been canceled.

[OR]

If the United States enters into any agreement that reduces the existing tariff duty on any of the goods covered by this contract, Buyer shall have the right to terminate this contract by written notice to Seller within _____ days after execution of the tariff reduction agreement, unless within _____ days after the receipt of the notice of cancellation Seller agrees in writing to reduce the selling price of the goods by an amount equal to the reduction in the existing tariff duty.

[OR]

Quality of Goods

It is an essential condition of this contract that the goods sold under it by Seller must be of the quality represented by Seller. If the goods or any part of them fail to comply with Seller's representations, Buyer shall have the right to reject the goods or to terminate this contract, at Buyer's option, and on written notice to Seller.

§ 52.333 Clauses Specifying When a Nonconforming Installment Delivery Is Breach of Entire Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses defining the circumstances under which the seller's delivery of a nonconforming installment will constitute a breach of the entire sales contract.

[b] Breach Resulting From Delivery of Nonconforming Installment

In an installment contract, whenever nonconformity or default with respect to one or more installments substantially impairs the value of the whole contract, there is a breach of the whole. However, the aggrieved party reinstates the contract if he or she accepts a nonconforming installment without giving seasonable [see Com. Code § 1205(b)] (action is seasonable if taken at or within time agreed or if no time is agreed at or within reasonable time)] notice of cancellation; brings an action with respect only to past installments; or demands performance of future installments [Com. Code § 2612(3)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying When a Nonconforming Installment Delivery Is Breach of Entire Agreement

Nonconforming Installment Delivery

If any installment delivery under this contract contains nonconforming goods to the extent of _____ percent of the shipment in question, Buyer, on proper notification, may treat the nonconformity as a breach of the entire contract unless more than _____ [e.g., 90] percent of all shipments provided for in this contract have been made.

[OR]

It is agreed that Buyer is paying an additional price for the described goods, and Seller is placed on notice that it is essential to Buyer that all installment shipments be of the exact quantity called for in each delivery, and that all of the goods conform exactly to the specifications set forth _____ [e.g., in Paragraph _____] of this contract. If any installment is more than _____ hours late, or if the goods in any installment fail to conform for any reason whatsoever, Buyer has the right to treat the variance in quantity or the nonconformity as a breach of the entire contract.

[OR]

Notwithstanding any other provision of this contract, it is the intent of the parties to treat any nonconforming installment delivery as a breach of the entire contract whether or not the nonconforming delivery may be seasonably cured.

[OR]

Nothing in this contract shall be construed as restricting or limiting Buyer's right to demand exact performance with respect to each and every installment delivery. If Buyer rightfully rejects any installment shipment as nonconforming, for any reason, Seller shall be deemed to have breached the entire contract.

[OR]

Buyer has the right to treat any nonconforming installment shipment as a breach of the entire contract.

§ 52.334 Clause Reserving Rights on Failure to Object

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a clause that reserves the buyer's right to object to a course of performance in the future, despite the buyer's failure to make a present objection. It is intended to protect a buyer from being deemed, by failure to object to a course of performance, to have accepted a nonconforming performance or waived any objection to that performance.

In the absence of such a provision, the effect of a party's failure to object to a course of performance is governed by Com. Code § 1303(d).

[b] Course of Performance

The protection provided by this form is necessary to vary the effect of Com. Code §§ 1303, 2202, which provides that a course of performance accepted or acquiesced in without objection may be relevant to show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with that course of performance [Com. Code §§ 1303(a), (d), 2202(a)].

For further discussion of course of performance, see § 52.15[2]. For a discussion of modification and waiver, see § 52.16.

Clause Reserving Rights on Failure to Object

Reservation of Rights

The failure of Buyer to object to the manner of performance of any of the terms of this contract shall not be considered a waiver of any rights or remedies, past, present, or future. The failure of Buyer to object to a nonconforming performance shall not be construed as an acceptance of or acquiescence in the performance. Buyer reserves the right to insist on strict compliance with this contract at all times.

§ 52.350 Clauses Limiting Right of Seller to Identify Goods to Contract After Buyer's Breach

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of clauses limiting the seller's right to identify goods to the contract after the buyer's breach. For discussion of the identification of goods to the contract, see § 52.284[1].

[b] Seller's Right to Identify Goods to Contract after Buyer's Breach

If the parties do not agree otherwise [see Com. Code § 1302 (effect of code provisions may be varied by agreement except as otherwise provided)], the seller's right to identify goods to the contract after a breach is governed by Com. Code § 2704. Specifically, an aggrieved seller [see Com. Code § 2703 (aggrieved seller may pursue certain remedies after breach of all or part of contract); see also § 52.18[2]] may do either of the following [Com. Code § 2704(1)]:

- Identify to the contract conforming goods not already identified if, when the seller learns of the breach, the goods are in his or her possession or control.
- Resell any goods demonstrably intended for the particular contract even if the goods are unfinished.

[c] Unfinished Goods

When the goods are unfinished, an aggrieved seller has two choices. The choice must be made in the exercise of reasonable commercial judgment, for the purpose of avoiding loss and of effective realization. The seller may either complete the manufacture and wholly identify the goods to the contract or cease manufacture and resell the goods for scrap and salvage value. The seller may also "proceed in any other reasonable manner" [Com. Code § 2704(2)]. The effect of these rights is to allow the seller the more ascertainable measure of damages associated with identified goods rather than just a cause of action for damages.

[2] FORMClauses Limiting Right of Seller to Identify Goods to Contract After Buyer's Breach*Seller's Right to Identify Goods After Breach

Under no circumstance shall Seller identify goods to the contract after the time of any breach or other cause for modification or termination of this contract, without the express written consent of Buyer.

[OR]

If Buyer wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods or fails to make a payment due on or before delivery or repudiates with respect to any goods covered by this contract, Seller shall have no right to identify any goods to the contract after learning of the rejection, revocation, breach, or repudiation.

[OR]

Seller hereby waives any rights that Seller may acquire to identify goods to the contract after a breach by Buyer.

[OR]

If there is any dispute or grievance under the terms of this contract, whether or not it is caused by a breach, Seller agrees not to complete unfinished goods for the purpose of identifying them to the contract, and Seller agrees not to sell any unfinished goods for scrap or salvage.

[OR]

Seller waives any and all right to finish or resell any goods after a breach by Buyer.

[OR]

If Buyer wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods, or fails to make payment due on or before delivery, or repudiates with respect to any goods covered by this contract, Seller shall have no right to complete or resell any goods unfinished at the time Seller learns of the rejection, revocation, breach, or repudiation.

§ 52.351 Clauses Specifying Method of Resale on Breach

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses that place advance limitations and specifications on the seller's right to resell goods that have been wrongfully rejected by the buyer. The second alternative provides for sale by an auctioneer [see [c], below] and the third for sale by consignment to a third party with instructions to sell. For discussion of sale by consignment, see "Essential Elements of Consignment" in the Legal Background to Ch. 91, Contracts With Sales Representatives.

[b] Right of Resale After Breach

In the absence of agreement, the right of resale is subject to Com. Code § 2706, which provides that, under the conditions stated in Com. Code § 2703 regarding seller's remedies [see § 52.18[2]], the seller may resell the goods concerned or the undelivered balance of the goods. If the resale is made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, the seller may recover the difference between the resale price and the contract price together with any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 2710, minus expenses saved by the breach [Com. Code § 2706(1)]. Unless otherwise agreed, the resale may be either public or private [Com. Code § 2706(2)], but if it is private the seller must give the buyer reasonable notice of his or her intent to sell [Com. Code § 2706(3)]. Every aspect of the sale must be commercially reasonable [Com. Code § 2706(2)].

If the resale is a public sale, the following requirements apply [Com. Code § 2706(4)]:

- Only identified goods can be sold unless there is a recognized market for public sale of futures in goods of the kind.
- It must be held at a usual place or market for public sale if one is reasonably available and, unless the goods are perishable or threaten to decline quickly in value, the seller must give the buyer reasonable notice of the time and place of resale.

- If the people at the sale will not be able to see the goods, the notification of sale must state where the goods are located and provide for reasonable inspection by prospective bidders.

- The seller may bid and buy.

[c] Auction Sales

The sale of goods by auction is subject to special rules under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801]. First, if the goods are put up for sale in lots, each lot is the subject of a separate sale [Com. Code § 2328(1)]. Second, a sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces completion by the fall of the hammer or in some other customary manner. If a bid is made while the hammer is falling to accept an earlier bid, the auctioneer may reopen the bidding or declare the goods sold on the earlier bid [Com. Code § 2328(2)]. Third, the sale of goods by auction is with reserve unless the goods are explicitly put up without reserve. In an auction with reserve the auctioneer may withdraw the goods at any time until he or she announces that the sale is complete. If the auction is without reserve, an article or lot cannot be withdrawn once the auctioneer calls for bids, unless no bid is made within a reasonable time. In either case, a bidder may retract a bid until the auctioneer announces that the sale is complete, but the retraction does not revive any previous bid [Com. Code § 2328(3)]. Finally, unless the sale is a forced sale, if bids by or on behalf of the seller are to be allowed, notice must be given that liberty for such bidding is reserved. Otherwise, if the auctioneer knowingly receives a bid on the seller's behalf or the seller makes or procures such a bid, the buyer has the option to either avoid the sale or take the goods at the price of the last good faith bid [Com. Code § 2328(4)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying Method of Resale on Breach

Resale

If Seller has the right to resell the goods under the relevant provisions of the Commercial Code, the resale must be public and conducted in accordance with those Commercial Code provisions.

[OR]

If Seller has a right to resell the goods under the Commercial Code, the resale must be public, in accord with those provisions, and in accord with the following additional requirements:

- (a) _____ [name], Auctioneer, of _____ [firm], shall be engaged to hold the sale;
- (b) The sale shall be advertised in the ordinary and usual manner of Auctioneer and shall be held at Auctioneer's place of business;
- (c) The sale shall be with reserve and no bid shall be accepted that is more than _____ [e.g., 10] percent below the price of the goods stated in this contract;
- (d) Any profit realized from any individual item shall be credited to Buyer against the total damages claimed by Seller.

[OR]

If Seller has a right to resell the goods under the Commercial Code, Seller may exercise that right only by consigning the goods to _____, Consignee, with instructions to sell the goods for Seller at a price of no more than _____ [e.g., 15] percent less than the price stated in this contract. The amount received from this sale is to be credited to Buyer's account with Seller. Consignee is to be given not more than _____ [e.g., 30] days to effectuate a sale.

[OR]

If Seller elects to resell the goods in accordance with Seller's rights under the Commercial Code, Seller shall give notice to Buyer by registered or certified mail at least _____ [e.g., 10] days before the date of the sale, whether it is public or private.

§ 52.352 Clauses Specifying Whether Buyer May or Must "Cover"

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains four alternative clauses that specify remedies afforded the buyer in limitation of the remedies generally available under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2101-2801] as provided in Com. Code § 2711. These alternatives should be used by parties who want to limit the remedies otherwise available under the Commercial Code. Specifically, these alternatives either require or forbid the buyer to "cover" by getting substitute goods [see Com. Code § 2712]. For discussion of "cover," see [b], below.

Com. Code § 2719 specifically grants the right to limit or modify the remedies otherwise provided under Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 2101-2801]. For discussion of Com. Code § 2719, and for examples of forms that modify or limit remedies other than the right to "cover" by obtaining substitute goods [see Com. Code § 2712; see also [b], below], see § 52.353.

For discussion of the remedies provided in Com. Code § 2711, see § 52.18[3].

[b] Cover

After a breach of the contract by the seller that is within the scope of Com. Code § 2711 [see § 52.18[3]], the buyer may "cover" by making any reasonable purchase of goods or any reasonable contract to purchase goods in substitution for the goods due from the seller. The purchase or contract to purchase must be made in good faith and without unreasonable delay [Com. Code § 2712(1)]. The test of proper cover is whether at the time and place the buyer acted in good faith and in a reasonable manner. It is immaterial that hindsight may later prove that the method of cover used was not the cheapest or most effective [Com. Code § 2712, comment 2].

A buyer who gets substitute goods may recover from the seller as damages the difference between the cost of cover and the contract price, plus any incidental or consequential damages, but minus any expenses saved by the seller's breach [Com. Code § 2712(2)]. The failure to effect cover does not bar the buyer from any other remedy [Com. Code § 2712(3)]. Cover is not a mandatory remedy. The buyer is free to choose between cover and damages for non-delivery or repudiation under Com. Code § 2713. However, failure to effect cover may affect the recovery of consequential damages [see Com. Code § 2715(2) (consequential damages limited to losses that could not reasonably be prevented by cover)] and the availability of the remedies of strict performance [see Com. Code § 2716(1) (specific performance available for unique goods and in other proper circumstances); Com. Code § 2716, comment 2 (inability to cover is strong evidence of "other proper circumstances") and replevin [Com. Code § 2712, comment 3; see Com. Code § 2716(3) (replevin limited to cases in which cover not available and goods have been identified to the contract)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Specifying Whether Buyer May or Must "Cover"

Remedies of Buyer

The parties acknowledge that the raw materials used in the manufacture of the goods specified in this contract are not readily available and are difficult to obtain. Accordingly, Buyer waives all rights to damages in any form whatsoever, except the costs incurred in the rental of suitable storage facilities from the date of the initial delivery provided for in this contract until Seller notifies Buyer in writing that Seller is unable to procure the raw materials after the exercise of a good faith effort. Nothing in this provision or elsewhere in this contract shall be construed as relieving Seller of any liability for any breach of this contract other than a breach occasioned by the lack of the raw materials.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall be entitled to no damages unless Buyer effectuates "cover" as that term is defined in Commercial Code Section 2712. Incidental and consequential damages are included within the meaning of "damages" as used in this paragraph.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall be entitled to recover only incidental and consequential damages unless Buyer effectuates "cover" by contracting for substitute goods.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer's right to damages shall be limited to the difference between the contract and market price of the goods, and Buyer shall not have the right to "cover" and fix damages by contracting for substitute goods.

[OR]

If Seller breaches this contract, Buyer's sole right to damages shall be to the difference between the contract price and the market price. Buyer shall have no right to cover by procuring substitute goods, and no right to incidental or consequential damages.

PART IV. FORMS

8. Remedies

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.353

§ 52.353 Clauses Limiting Damages or Remedies

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses modifying or limiting damages or remedies pursuant to Com. Code § 2719.

[b] Contractual Modification or Limitation of Remedy

Com. Code § 2719 provides that an agreement may provide for remedies in addition to or in substitution for those provided in Division 2 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 2101 et seq.] and may alter or limit the measure of damages recoverable under Division 2. For example, an agreement may limit the buyer's remedies to the return of the goods and a refund of the purchase price or to repair and replacement of nonconforming goods or parts [Com. Code § 2719(1)(a)]. Resort to a remedy provided by agreement of the parties is optional unless the contract expressly states that the remedy is exclusive. In that case, the remedy agreed to is the sole remedy [Com. Code § 2719(1)(b)].

[c] Consequential Damages

Consequential damages may be limited or excluded unless the limitation or exclusion is unconscionable [Com. Code § 2719(3)]. For discussion of unconscionability, see § 52.332[1][c]. Limitation of consequential damages for a personal injury caused by consumer goods [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(23)] ("consumer goods" are those used or bought for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes)] is invalid unless it is proved that the limitation is not unconscionable. If the loss is commercial, such a limitation is valid unless proved to be unconscionable [Com. Code § 2719(3)]. The purpose of this provision is to allocate the burden of proving the validity of provisions limiting consequential damages [Law Revision Commission Comment, Com. Code § 2719]. In one case, for example, a provision limiting consequential damages for commercial loss in a contract between an oil company and a dealer was held unconscionable. The key factors included the following [Johnson v. Mobil Oil Corp. (E.D. Mich. 1976) 415 F. Supp. 264, 266-269] :

- The dealer's eighth grade education and poor reading skills.
- The failure of the oil company's representative to point out or explain the limitation of damages clause.
- The oil company's representative's lack of authority to vary the terms of the standard printed contract.
- The immense bargaining power of the oil company.
- The fact that the dealer did not read the contract before signing it.

[d] Failure of Essential Purpose

When circumstances cause an exclusive or limited remedy established by a contract of sale to fail in its essential purpose, the parties are still entitled to the remedies provided by the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2719(2)]. That is, when circumstances cause an apparently fair and reasonable clause to fail in its purpose or to deprive either party of the value of the bargain, that clause must give way to the general remedy provisions of Division 2 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2719, comment 1].

This restoration of Commercial Code remedies when the essential purpose of a limited or exclusive remedy fails has caused some confusion when a clause limiting or excluding remedies for breach of warranty is included with a clause excluding consequential damages. The standard measure of damages for breach of warranty in the sale of goods is the difference at the time and place of acceptance between the value of goods accepted and the value they would have had if they had been as warranted [Com. Code § 2714(2)], but this is not intended as an exclusive measure of damages [Com. Code § 2714, comment 3]. Consequential damages include any injury to person or property proximately resulting from any breach of warranty [Com. Code § 2715(2)(b)].

Thus, when a manufacturer in its sales agreement limited the buyer's remedy for breach of warranty to repair and replacement of nonconforming goods or parts, and expressly excluded the recovery of all consequential damages for the breach, the manufacturer's inability to repair the machine, despite a good faith attempt, posed a difficult question. It was clear that the inability to fix the machine was a failure of the essential purpose of the limited warranty. This failure invalidated that limitation and made the usual Commercial Code remedy for breach of warranty available to the buyer [S.M. Wilson & Co. v. Smith Intern., Inc. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1978) 587 F.2d 1363, 1375 ; see Com. Code § 2719(2)]. The difficult question was whether the failure of purpose due to the inability to repair also invalidated the disclaimer of consequential damages for breach of warranty. It did not, in that case, for two reasons. First, placement of the risk of consequential damages on the buyer was a negotiated allocation of the risk of loss bargained for by parties of relatively equal bargaining power. Second, the failure of the repair remedy in the contract was due to inability, not a willful refusal to repair [S.M. Wilson & Co. v. Smith Intern., Inc. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1978) 587 F.2d 1363, 1375, 1376] .

This result seems reasonable because the buyer can still be compensated for any direct loss [see Com. Code § 2714(2) (usual measure of damages for breach of warranty)]. Furthermore, the seller, who is guilty of no wrongdoing, is not deprived of the bargained for allocation of risk [see Eddy, On the 'Essential' Purposes of Limited Remedies: The Metaphysics of UCC Section 2-719(2) , 65 Calif. L. Rev. 28, 86-88 (1977)]. If the failure to repair is deliberate, however, the exclusion of consequential damages is also invalidated [Jones & McKnight Corp. v. Birdsboro Corporation (N.D. Ill. 1970) 320 F. Supp. 39, 43-44 ; see Eddy, On the 'Essential' Purposes of Limited Remedies: The Metaphysics of UCC Section 2-719(2) , 65 Calif. L. Rev. 28, 86 (1977)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Limiting Damages or RemediesLimitation of Damages or Remedies

The parties acknowledge that it is difficult to obtain the raw materials essential to the production of the goods sold under this contract, and that the supply of those materials is uncertain. Therefore, it is agreed that if Seller is unable after a good faith effort to get enough raw materials to manufacture _____ percent of the goods required under the terms of this contract, Buyer's exclusive remedy shall be the return of any money paid on account of the price. Nothing in this contract shall be construed to limit Buyer's rights to any applicable remedy or damages if Seller fails to properly perform any other obligation under this contract.

[OR]

Because the machinery needed to produce the goods is highly complicated and of relatively new design, Buyer agrees to accept all nonconforming deliveries and Seller agrees to replace or repair all defective or nonconforming goods or parts without any expense whatsoever on the part of Buyer. Replacement and repair shall be the sole remedy of Buyer with respect to any nonconforming goods and parts and shall be in lieu of any other remedy available under applicable law. The provisions of this contract with respect to limitation of remedies shall not apply to a failure by Seller to deliver the goods.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall not be entitled to recover any incidental damages as that term is defined in Commercial Code Section 2715.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall be entitled to recover as incidental damages, in addition to those provided for in the Uniform Commercial Code, the following:

- (a) Any finder's fee paid to anyone who procured this contract for Buyer.
- (b) A reasonable rental charge for goods leased while Buyer effectuates a purchase elsewhere.
- (c) Any expenses incurred in leasing substitute goods for use until Buyer procures goods elsewhere.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall not be entitled to any consequential damages as defined in the Uniform Commercial Code except that if the goods sold are "consumer goods," personal injuries shall be recoverable.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall be entitled to recover as consequential damages, in addition to all other rights granted by the Uniform Commercial Code, any profit lost on a contract to resell the goods if Buyer is unable to recover.

[OR]

If Seller breaches or repudiates this contract, Buyer shall not be entitled to any consequential damages in excess of $ _____. This limitation shall not apply, however, to damages for injury to the person.

§ 52.354 Merger or Integration Clause; Parol or Extrinsic Evidence

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative merger clauses designed to be included in sales contracts. In a "merger" or "integration" clause, the parties agree that the contract is complete, final, and integrated in order to prevent the use of extrinsic evidence to contradict, explain, or supplement the terms of the written contract. In the absence of a merger or integration clause, there is no assumption that a written agreement is final as to all of its terms, unless a court expressly makes that finding, and even terms found to be final are subject to explanation or supplementation by course of dealing, usage of trade, or course of performance [Com. Code § 2202]. For further discussion of the parol evidence rule, see § 52.14[2].

[2] FORM

Merger or Integration Clause; Parol or Extrinsic Evidence

Finality of This Writing

The parties intend this writing to be the final expression of their agreement and it is intended also as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of their agreement. No course of prior dealings between the parties and no usage of the trade shall be relevant to supplement or explain any term used in this contract. Acceptance or acquiescence in a course of performance rendered under this contract shall not be relevant to determine the meaning of this contract even when the accepting or acquiescing party has knowledge of the nature of the performance and opportunity for objection.

[OR]

This writing constitutes the entire contract between the parties and exclusively determines the rights and obligations of the parties, any prior course of dealing, custom or usage of trade, or course of performance notwithstanding.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a clause intended to prevent waivers of executory portions of a sales contract unless based on a writing and on consideration. If the parties do not agree otherwise [see Com. Code § 1302 (effect of code provisions may be varied by agreement except as otherwise provided)], oral executory waivers are possible without consideration; as, for example, when the parties have attempted an ineffective modification [Com. Code § 2209(4); see § 52.16]. It is doubtful, however, that this form can prevent a waiver that leads to a detrimental reliance [Com. Code § 2209(5); Hart & Willier Forms and Procedures Under the UCC, Article 2: Sales, Part 1, General, P 21.07[4] (Matthew Bender); see § 52.430[1]].

§ 52.356 Provisions Covering Assignment of Rights and Delegation of Performance

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative provisions that provide for or negate the assignment of rights or the delegation of duties under a sales contract.

Unless the parties agree otherwise, they may discharge their duties under a sales contract in either of two ways. A party's duties may be performed by a delegate unless the other party has a substantial interest in having the original promisor perform or control the acts required by the contract [Com. Code § 2210(1)]. Alternatively, except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9406, a party may assign his or her rights unless that assignment would materially change the duty of the other party or materially increase the burden or risk imposed on the other party by the contract [Com. Code § 2210(2)]. The creation, attachment, perfection, or enforcement of a security interest in the seller's interest under a contract is not a transfer that materially changes the duty of or increases materially the burden or risk imposed on the buyer or impairs materially the buyer's chance of obtaining return performance unless, and then only to the extent that, enforcement actually results in a delegation of material performance of the seller [see Com. Code § 2210(3)]. Even if the desires of the parties concerning the delegation and assignment of their contractual duties are reflected in Com. Code § 2210, it is always prudent to specify them in the contract.

[b] Effect of Right to Demand Assurance

The drafter should consider the right of the nondelegating party to demand assurance [see Com. Code § 2609; see also §§ 52.330, 52.441] from the assignee. In the absence of agreement, Com. Code § 2210(6) provides for this right. This form provides alternatives both for waiving of this right and for setting out specific assurances and methods of assurance that may be demanded. The alternatives that prohibit assignment, or delegation, or both, provide different penalties and effects for the making of prohibited assignments and delegations.

[c] Alternative Provisions in Form

There are 11 alternative clauses under eight headings in this form. The first group contains three clauses, each permitting both assignment and delegation. The second group contains two alternatives, each requiring written consent for both assignment and delegation. The remaining six alternatives are each under a different heading. The first two of these remaining alternatives, under the third and fourth headings, provide for damages. The clause under the third heading provides for damages if an assignment or delegation is made without the written permission of the other party. The clause under the fourth heading provides liquidated damages for any assignment or delegation in violation of the contract. The next two alternatives, under the fifth and sixth headings, require consent. The clause under the fifth heading requires consent for assignment of rights. The clause under the sixth heading requires consent for a delegation of duties. The final two alternatives provide for the effect of delegation of duties on the right to demand assurance of performance [see § 52.441]. The clause under the seventh heading provides that a delegation constitutes a waiver of the right to demand assurances. The final clause establishes a right to demand a performance bond as assurance that delegated duties will be performed.

[d] Effect of Assignment

An assignment of "the contract" or "all my rights under the contract" (or assignments containing similar general terms) is an assignment of rights and, unless the language or the circumstances indicate the contrary, it is a delegation of performance of the assignor's duties. Its acceptance by the assignee amounts to a promise by him or her to perform those duties [Com. Code § 2210(5)]. The acceptance of an assignment of a purchase agreement containing a warranty provision that includes an exculpatory clause barring negligence actions, the validity of which is not contested, constitutes agreement on the part of the assignee to be bound by the exculpatory clause [Aeronaves de Mexico, S.A. v. McDonnell Douglas (9th Cir. 1982) 677 F.2d 771, 773] .

[2] FORMProvisions Covering Assignment of Rights and Delegation of Performance*Assignment and Delegation

Either party to this contract may assign that party's rights under this contract in whole or in part and may delegate that party's duties under this contract in whole or in part.

[OR]

Either party to this contract may assign that party's rights under this contract in whole or in part and may delegate that party's duties under this contract in whole or in part. If any assignment is made, notice must be given to the nonassigning party at least _____ [e.g., five] days before the assignment and the nonassigning party will receive credit for any payments or deliveries made to the assignor. If any delegation is made, notice must be given to the nondelegating party at least _____ [e.g., five] days before the delegation, and the delegator shall remain fully liable for performance of the delegated duties.

[OR]

Seller intends to assign Seller's rights and delegate Seller's duties under this contract, and Buyer agrees to this assignment. Notwithstanding any assignment or delegation by Seller, Seller shall remain fully responsible to Buyer for any obligation under this contract.

[OR]

Consent to Assignment or Delegation

No right or interest in this contract may be assigned by either Buyer or Seller without the written permission of the other party, and no delegation of any obligation owed by either Buyer or Seller may be made without the written permission of the other party. Any attempted assignment or delegation shall be wholly void and totally ineffective for all purposes.

[OR]

This contract shall not be assignable or delegable by either party without the written consent of the other. This written consent shall not be unreasonably withheld.

[OR]

Assignor Liable for Damages

The power of either Buyer or Seller to assign rights and delegate duties acquired or imposed under this contract is not limited. However, if any assignment or delegation is made without the written permission of the other party, the assignor shall be liable for any damages caused the other party by the assignment or delegation.

[OR]

Liquidated Damages

If either Buyer or Seller assigns rights or delegates duties in violation of this contract, the party making the assignment shall be liable in the amount of $ _____. The parties agree that this sum is a reasonable approximation of the actual damages which they presently anticipate would result from an assignment or delegation, and that it is inserted here not as a penalty but for the sole purpose of avoiding the difficulties of proof of the actual damages.

[OR]

Consent Required for Assignment

No right or interest in this contract may be assigned by either Buyer or Seller without the written permission of the other party, and any attempted assignment shall be wholly void and totally ineffective for all purposes. This paragraph is intended to prohibit assignment of rights only, and the right to delegate duties is in no way impaired by reason of this provision.

[OR]

Consent Required for Delegation

No delegation of any duty owed by either Buyer or Seller may be made without the written permission of the other party. Any attempted delegation shall be wholly void and totally ineffective for all purposes. However, no permission is necessary with respect to any assignment of rights under this contract.

[OR]

Waiving Right to Demand Assurances On Delegation

Either party may delegate that party's duties under this contract in whole or in part and whether or not in conjunction with an assignment of rights. If a delegation of duties is made, the other party shall have no right to assurances from the delegatee-assignee, and the right to those assurances is hereby waived.

[OR]

Bond Required as Assurance of Performance On Delegation

If Seller [or Buyer or either Seller or Buyer] delegates any obligations imposed by this contract, or assigns rights and delegates performance, the other party shall have the right to demand that the assignee-delegatee [or assignor-delegator] post bond in the amount of $ _____ to assure performance of this assignment. Until the bond is posted, the other party may, if commercially reasonable, suspend any performance for which that party has not been paid. If the assignee-delegatee [or assignor-delegator] refuses or fails to post bond in this amount within _____ days, the other party may treat the refusal or failure as a repudiation of this contract.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.357

§ 52.357 Liquidated Damages Clauses

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses that set liquidated damages as permitted by Com. Code § 2718. The last alternative in this form is appropriate for use when the goods covered by the sales contract are machine components.

For a liquidated damages clause that applies when the buyer or the seller assigns rights or delegates duties in violation of the contract of sale, see § 52.356[2].

[b] Amount of Liquidated Damages for Breach

The Commercial Code allows the parties to set liquidated damages to be imposed in event of a breach. The liquidated damages set must be in an amount that is reasonable in light of (1) the anticipated or actual harm caused by the breach; (2) the difficulties of proof of loss; and (3) the inconvenience or nonfeasibility of otherwise obtaining an adequate remedy. A liquidated damages clause fixing unreasonably large liquidated damages is considered a penalty and is therefore void [Com. Code § 2718(1)].

[c] Buyer's Right to Restitution

When the seller justifiably withholds delivery because of the buyer's breach, the buyer is entitled to restitution of any amount by which the sum that he or she has paid exceeds the amount to which the seller is entitled as liquidated damages under an agreement in accordance with Com. Code § 2718(1) [Com. Code § 2718(2)(a)]. If there are no liquidated damages provisions, then the buyer is entitled to restitution of any amount by which the sum that he or she has paid exceeds 20 percent of the value of the total performance for which the buyer is obligated under the contract, or $500, whichever is smaller [Com. Code § 2718(2)(b)]. In either case, the buyer's right to restitution is subject to offset to the extent that the seller establishes a right to recover damages other than liquidated damages under Commercial Code §§ 2701-2725 and to the extent that the seller establishes the amount or value of any benefits received by the buyer by reason of the contract [Com. Code § 2718(3)].

[2] FORM

Liquidated Damages Clauses

Liquidated Damages

If Buyer wrongfully refuses to accept the goods, Buyer must pay to Seller, in lieu of the enforcement of this contract, as liquidated damages, the sum of $ _____, and, if shipment has been made, Buyer must also reimburse Seller for all costs of shipment.

[OR]

Buyer shall have the right to terminate this contract by giving notice to Seller before the goods are shipped, provided that Buyer tenders to Seller _____ [e.g., one-third] of the purchase price with _____ [his or her] notice of termination. The sum of _____ [e.g., one-third] of the purchase price shall constitute liquidated damages, and shall be the exclusive remedy of Seller when notice of termination is properly given. The liquidated damages are assessed to cover Seller's usual costs of processing this contract (including payment of sales commission), recordkeeping, and profit.

[OR]

If Seller fails to deliver goods conforming to this contract, Seller shall pay Buyer the sum of $ _____ as liquidated damages.

[OR]

Because the goods sold under this contract are to be specially manufactured by Seller and are not readily available on the open market, and because the goods sold are to become part of machinery to be manufactured by Buyer, any failure to deliver the goods as required by this contract will delay Buyer's manufacturing operations and result in substantial damages. For this reason, and because of the difficulty of accurately proving loss and the nonfeasibility of Buyer's obtaining an adequate remedy, Seller agrees to pay as liquidated damages the following amounts: For each day's delay in delivery Seller agrees to pay $ _____ up to a maximum of _____ [e.g., 15] days. If at the end of _____ [e.g., 15] days subsequent to the time of delivery Buyer has not received the goods, Seller shall pay in addition to the per diem amounts the sum of $ _____. If Seller notifies Buyer that the goods will not be delivered as provided in this contract, and if Buyer can obtain the goods elsewhere before the expiration of _____ days after the time of delivery provided in this contract, then Seller shall pay as liquidated damages the per diem rate for the time of the resulting delay plus the difference between the contract price and the amount Buyer pays to buy the goods from another source.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative provisions that enable the parties to choose, to the extent permitted by Com. Code § 1301(c), the law they wish to apply to the transaction. With certain exceptions [see, e.g., Com. Code § 2402 (rights of seller's creditors against sold goods)], when a transaction bears a reasonable relation to California and also to another state or nation, the parties may agree that the law either of California or of the other state or nation will govern their rights and duties [Com. Code § 1301(a)]. If the parties make no agreement on this point, the Commercial Code will apply to transactions bearing an appropriate relation to California [Com. Code § 1301(b)].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a follow-up letter to a client. An attorney who has advised a client on the drafting or accepting of a sales transaction may be called on to further advise the client on situations that develop during the life of the contract, such as the appropriate course of action if the other side delays performance. The conscientious attorney will advise the client when to call for legal advice in the course of the transaction. This advice may be given simply and generally, as in this form, or the attorney may provide the client with detailed checklists based on the client's particular transaction.

Dear _____:

Now that your sales contract with _____ has been consummated, I enclose my bill for professional services rendered.

There are several important points that you should keep in mind during the life of the contract. First, always inspect shipments on arrival to determine whether the goods conform to specifications. If they do not, call me for further advice.

Second, as a general rule, whenever delivery or other details of performance are not as you expected, do not simply acquiesce to the change or otherwise proceed on your own, but contact me immediately for advice.

The reason for this caution is that if you proceed on your own incorrectly, you may give up valuable rights that might have been protected.

Sincerely,

This form consists of alternative acceptances, each of which is conditioned on the other party's consent to additional or differing terms. § 52.383 Notice by Seller That Nonconforming Goods Are Offered as Accommodation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice by the seller that nonconforming goods are offered as accommodation. The alternative notices presented in this form are designed to allow a seller to ship nonconforming goods in response to an order or offer without being deemed to have accepted that order or offer.

Unless the seller provides a notice that nonconforming goods are offered as an accommodation, he or she will be deemed to have accepted the buyer's offer by the shipment of nonconforming goods [Com. Code § 2206(1)(b)] and may be liable for breach of contract [Com. Code § 2206, comment 4]. The shipment of nonconforming goods does not constitute an acceptance if the seller seasonably notifies the buyer that the shipment is offered only as an accommodation to the buyer [Com. Code § 2206(1)(b)].

Sellers who cannot fill orders often feel that the needs of the buyer will be better satisfied by the nonconforming goods than by no goods at all. Thus the necessity for the notice provided in this form arises frequently in commercial transactions. The effect of shipping nonconforming goods along with this notice is to create a new offer that may be rejected by the buyer.

§ 52.385 Notice of Revocation of Acceptance[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative notices from the buyer to the seller that the buyer's acceptance of goods is revoked.

The buyer may have the right to revoke acceptance of a lot or commercial unit whose nonconformity substantially impairs its value to the buyer. The buyer has the right to reject the goods if he or she has accepted the goods on the reasonable assumption that the nonconformity would be cured and this has not been done seasonably [see Com. Code § 1205(b); (a thing is done "seasonably" if it is done at or within the time agreed on, or, if no time is agreed on, at or within a reasonable time)]. The buyer also has the right to revoke a nonconforming lot or commercial unit when he or she has accepted it without discovery of the nonconformity if the acceptance was reasonably induced either by the difficulty of discovery before acceptance or by the seller's assurances [Com. Code § 2608(1)].

Revocation of acceptance must occur through notification to the seller within a reasonable time after the buyer discovers or should have discovered the ground for it, and before any substantial change occurs in condition of the goods that is not caused by their own defects [Com. Code § 2608(2)].

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.386

§ 52.386 Notice of Breach Discovered After Acceptance[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains two alternative notices of breach discovered after acceptance. These notices are designed to be given under Com. Code § 2607 by a buyer who has already accepted goods and discovers a breach. A buyer is barred from pursuing any remedies if he or she fails to notify the seller of a breach within a reasonable time after he or she discovers, or should have discovered, that breach [Com. Code § 2607(3)(a); see Fieldstone Co. v. Briggs Plumbing Prods., Inc. (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 357, 370-371, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 701 (delay of three years barred recovery on claims of breach of express warranty); Davidson v. Herring H. M. Safe Co. (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 874, 877, 280 P.2d 549 (delay of 15 months unreasonable as matter of law); Ice Bowl, Inc. v. Spalding Sales Corp. (1943) 56 Cal. App. 2d 918, 921-922, 133 P.2d 846 (delay of four months unreasonable as matter of law)].

The buyer has the burden of proving reasonable notice. The question whether notice was properly given must be determined from the particular circumstances, and where but one inference can be drawn from undisputed facts, the issue may be determined as a matter of law [Cardinal Health 301, Inc. v. Tyco Electronics Corp. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 116, 135-136, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] .

§ 52.420 Modification of Contract of Sale

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative agreements to modify a contract for the sale of goods. No consideration is required to support the modification of sales contracts [Com. Code § 2209(1)]. Nevertheless, modifications must meet the test of good faith. The extortion of a "modification" without good commercial reason is ineffective because it violates this duty of good faith [Com. Code § 2209, comment 2]. For this reason, a writing evidencing a modification not supported by consideration should incorporate the commercial reasons behind its making, negating extortion or duress. A mere technical consideration will not support a modification made in bad faith [Com. Code § 2209, comment 2].

For a further explanation of Com. Code § 2209, including the matter of whether a modification need be in writing, see the discussion under § 52.16. For discussion of the common law rules governing modification of contracts, and additional forms that can be adapted for transactions governed by the Commercial Code, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations.

Modification of Contract of Sale

MODIFICATION AGREEMENT

_____, "Seller," and _____, "Buyer," parties to a sales contract dated _____, agree that it is in their mutual interests to modify that contract. Buyer and Seller agree and affirm that neither party exercised any duress or made any unreasonable demands in the negotiations preceding this modification, and each agrees and affirms that the other observed reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing in the trade during the negotiations leading to this modification. This modification has become necessary because _____ [specify reason for modification].

Therefore, Seller and Buyer agree as follows _____ [specify, e.g.,:

- (1) That the price of the goods under their previous contract will be increased by 10 percent.
- (2) That the quantity of the goods under their previous contract will be decreased by 20 percent.
- (3) That the goods will be delivered to Buyer at Buyer's Sacramento office, _____ (address), instead of the address indicated in their contract. Cost of transportation and risk of loss will remain as in the prior contract.].

This modification applies to all goods covered by the original contract.

All terms of the prior contract between Seller and Buyer that are not specifically changed by this modification will remain binding and legally enforceable.

This modification agreement is to be construed in, and governed by, the Commercial Code as enacted and in force in the State of California on the date of this agreement.

A waiver of an executory portion of a contract may be retracted on reasonable notice that strict performance of any waived term will be required. However, an attempt to retract a waiver is ineffective if a retraction would be unjust because of a material change in position made in reliance on the waiver [Com. Code § 2209(5)].

This form consists of two alternative demands for assurances of performance pursuant to Com. Code § 2609 [see § 52.330[1]]. The first alternative is a very general demand, usable in a wide range of circumstances. The reasons for the insecurity and the type of assurance to be demanded are left blank to be filled in as the situation requires. The second alternative is more specific. It is a demand for assurance of payment by posting collateral or a performance bond.

Each alternative includes optional bracketed language that may be used if the sales contract at issue provides specific grounds on which a party may demand assurance [see § 52.330]. For provisions specifying or negating the assignment of rights or the delegation of duties (including clauses waiving the right to demand assurance or requiring specific assurances), see § 52.356.

This form consists of two alternative notices that may be sent to the aggrieved party to retract an anticipatory repudiation. The alternatives included here provide for retraction in very specific situations. The first alternative gives notice that the anticipatory repudiation is being retracted because local authorities have consented to the use of certain premises as a warehouse. The second provides for retraction because a temporary restraining order has been lifted. These two alternatives are so fact-specific that for most transactions they will serve only as illustrations or as models that must be adapted to fit the facts of the drafter's situation.

Until the repudiating party's next performance is due, that party can retract his or her repudiation unless the aggrieved party has, since the repudiation, canceled or materially changed position or otherwise indicated that he or she considers the repudiation final [*Com. The agreement between the parties should be reviewed to see whether it calls for a specific form of notice or eliminates notice.

Because this statutory requirement of notification [see Com. Code § 1302 (effect of code provisions may be varied by agreement except as otherwise provided)], the contract of sale must be reviewed to see if it requires a specific form of notice or otherwise modifies or even eliminates the notice requirement.

§ 52.461 Seller's Notice of Intent to Cure Improper Tender[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice of intent to cure an improper tender. It may be used when a seller, pursuant to Com. Code § 2508, is attempting to cure an improper tender of nonconforming goods.

When any tender or delivery by the seller is rejected as nonconforming, and the time for performance has not yet expired, the seller may seasonably notify the buyer of its intention to cure and may then make a conforming delivery within the contract time [Com. Code § 2508(1)]. When the buyer rejects a nonconforming tender, the seller may have a further reasonable time to substitute a conforming tender if two conditions are met [Com. Code § 2508(2)]:

- First, the seller must have had reasonable grounds to believe that the nonconforming tender would be acceptable (with or without a money allowance).
- Second, the seller must seasonably [see Com. Code § 1205(b)] (thing is done "seasonably" if it is done at or within the time agreed on, or, if no time is agreed on, at or within a reasonable time)] notify the buyer that he or she plans to substitute a conforming tender [see Com. Code § 1202(d)] (giving notice means taking the steps reasonably required to inform in ordinary course)].

§ 52.470 Notice to Seller of Infringement Suit Against Buyer[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative notices to the seller of an infringement suit against the buyer. After a tender has been accepted, a buyer sued for infringement or the like [see discussion in § 52.297[1][d]] must notify the seller of the suit within a reasonable time after receiving notice of the litigation. [b] Assumption of Control by Seller

The seller may demand in writing that the buyer turn over control of the litigation or be barred from any remedy over against the seller. If the seller agrees to bear all expense and to satisfy any adverse judgment, the buyer will be barred from any remedy if the buyer fails to surrender control after seasonable receipt of the seller's demand [Com. § 52.474 Notice of Termination of Contract[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains two alternative notices terminating a contract. A contract of indefinite duration that provides for successive performances will remain in effect for a reasonable time but may be terminated at any time by either party [Com. Code § 2309(2)]. However, termination of a contract by one party, except on the happening of an agreed event, requires that reasonable notification be received by the other party. In fact, an agreement dispensing with notification is invalid if its operation would be unconscionable [Com. Code § 2309(3)]. See § 52.402, for a form for notice of termination for use by a buyer who has the right to terminate a contract under Com. Code §§ 2615, 2616(1)(a) after receiving notice of a justified delay or allocation.

Before drafting a notice of termination the attorney should always consult the agreement because it may dictate the required form and procedure. For discussion of what it means to "receive" notice see § 52.332[1][b] [see also Com. Code § 1202(d)]. 21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.479

§ 52.479 Seller's Notice of Cancellation by Reason of Buyer's Breach

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of cancellation that may be used by the seller to indicate that he or she is canceling the contract pursuant to Com. Code § 2703(f) because the buyer has breached the contract. For discussion of the kinds of breach that give rise to this breach, see § 52.478[1].

[b] Necessity for Notice of Cancellation

The Commercial Code does not expressly require notice in order to cancel a contract for sale of goods, as it does for termination [see Com. Code § 2309(2); see also § 52.332[1]]. Com. Code § 2703(f), which states the seller's right to cancel, says nothing about whether notice is required, nor do any of the comments to that section. Cancellation is clearly different from termination, and the definition of "cancellation" in Com. Code § 2106(4) says nothing about a notice requirement [see [c], below].

Despite this lack of positive authority for a notice requirement, it could be inferred from the obligation of good faith imposed on every contract under the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 1304] that notice is required as a matter of good faith performance. "Good faith" always requires honesty in fact and the observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing [Com. Code § 1201(b)(20)].

One court has said in dictum that cancellation of a sales contract under Com. Code § 2703(f) does not require notice [see Intern. Therapeutics, Inc. v. McGraw-Edison Co. (5th Cir. 1983) 721 F.2d 488, 491-492]. Another court has said that notice of cancellation is significant in determining the validity of a cancellation [Goldstein v. Stainless Processing Company (7th Cir. 1972) 465 F.2d 392, 395]. It has also been suggested that the requirement in Com. Code § 2612(3) of seasonable notice of cancellation to avoid reinstatement of a contract on the acceptance of a nonconforming installment [see § 52.333[1]] "implies" that there must be a seasonable notice [see California UCC Sales and Leases (Cal. CEB 2002), Ch. 17, Prelitigation Remedies, § 17.50(c)]. Because it is not clear whether notice is a requirement of a valid cancellation, it is advisable to assume that a notice of cancellation is required and give notice.

[c] "Termination" and "Cancellation" Distinguished

For purposes of the Commercial Code, "termination" occurs when either party (pursuant to a power created by agreement or by law) ends the contract for some reason other than the breach of that contract. On termination, all obligations that are still executory on both sides are discharged, but any right based on a prior breach or a prior performance survives the termination [Com. Code § 2106(3)]. "Cancellation" occurs when either party ends the contract because of a breach by the other. It has the same effect as termination except that the canceling party also retains any remedy for breach of the whole contract or any unperformed balance of the contract [Com. Code § 2106(4)].

The Commercial Code definitions of "cancellation" and "termination" differ from the meaning of those terms at common law. For discussion and contrast between the common law and UCC definitions, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, § 77.23 et seq. Ch. 77 also contains cancellation and termination forms for use with respect to contracts not subject to the Commercial Code.

21-52 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 52.480

§ 52.480 Notice to Carrier by Aggrieved Seller to Stop Goods in Transit

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative notices to a carrier to stop delivery of goods subject to a sales contract. These alternatives may be used by the seller, or a person in the position of a seller, [see Com. Code § 2707] to stop the delivery of goods in the possession of a carrier or other bailee when he or she discovers that the buyer is insolvent [see Com. Code §§ 2702, 2705(1)]. The seller may also stop delivery of carload, truckload, planeload, or larger shipments of express or freight when the buyer repudiates or fails to make a payment due before delivery, or if the seller has a right to withhold or reclaim the goods for any other reason [Com. Code § 2705(1)].

The first alternative notice to the carrier includes a provision that the seller will indemnify and hold the carrier harmless for any claims resulting from the nondelivery of the goods. For a discussion of indemnity, see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty and Indemnity .

[b] Surrender of Documents of Title

Both alternatives in this form provide for the surrender of the bill of lading under which the goods were shipped. This provision is included because a bailee need not obey a notification to stop the delivery of goods until surrender of possession or control of the document of title issued for the goods, if the document of title is negotiable [Com. Code § 2705(3)(c)]. Accordingly, this provision may be omitted if the bills of lading or other documents of title are nonnegotiable. For the definition of "bill of lading," see § 52.261[1][b]. For definition and discussion of "document of title" and the difference between a negotiable and nonnegotiable document of title, see § 52.251[1][b].

[c] Effect of Reshipment

If the original buyer of goods in transit sells the goods while they are in transit and orders the carrier to change the originally issued waybills to show the original buyer as the shipper and the current buyer as the new consignee with a new destination, that order constitutes a reshipment [see Com. Code § 2705(2)(c)]. It also fixes the rights of the parties as of the time of the order and protects the new buyer against the original seller's right of stoppage in transit [Butts v. Glendale Plywood Co. (9th Cir. [Ore.] 1983) 710 F.2d 504, 505].

§ 52.481 Notice of Intention to Deduct Damages From Purchase Price[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of two alternative notices which the buyer may send to the seller to indicate that the buyer is deducting his or her damages from the price still due under the contract. The buyer has this right, but must notify the seller of his or her intention [Com. Code § 2717]. This notice refers to a notice of breach that the buyer has sent earlier. For a form of notice of breach, see § 52.386[2].

The plain meaning of Com. Code § 2717 is that the buyer may not set off a contractual claim against a debt on a separate contract. Moreover, the statute preempts the common law right of equitable set-off, in situations in which the statute applies [see AmerisourceBergen Corp. v. Dialysist West, Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 445 F.3d 1132, 1135-1136 (construing Arizona statute identical to Com. Code § 2717)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers the leasing of personal property, including various kinds of property leased for either commercial or household uses. The Legal Background discusses the basic forms of personal property leases and distinguishes leases from security interests and sales. It examines personal property leasing transactions under the California Commercial Code, the Federal Consumer Leasing Act, and other applicable state and federal laws. It covers relevant federal and state tax considerations, including tax considerations relevant to sale-leaseback transactions. Although the subject matter of the chapter is primarily concerned with the chattel aspects of personal property, the chapter also includes some discussion of the real property concept of "fixtures" and "accessions."

The Transaction Guide lists considerations in choosing the appropriate type of lease. It includes a drafting guide to personal property leases and provides guidance in obtaining consents, orders, and authorizations.

Forms include a complete general commercial equipment lease form, a complete finance lease form, and numerous specific lease provisions, including provisions related to offer and acceptance, warranties, breach and remedies, and maintenance and service. Also included are disclosure and notice forms, including a federal Consumer Leasing Act Disclosure Statement (Furniture Leases), as well as a lease commitment letter, a personal guaranty, a lessor's financial survey, and a corporate resolution authorizing a lease. A provision for use in sale-leaseback transactions is also included.

For detailed coverage of automobile leases, including forms, see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing . DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.10

§ 53.10 Common Forms of Personal Property Leases

[1] "Personal Property" Defined

Personal property leasing encompasses a vast number of commercial and consumer arrangements in which goods are provided on a periodic basis with minimal capital outlay by lessees. These arrangements range from fairly simple and straightforward flat-rate leases between two parties to complex leveraged leases in which many parties and large amounts of funds may be involved. However, all personal property leasing transactions that are first made or that first become effective after January 1, 1990, are commonly related by the application of the Uniform Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 10600; see also § 53.285 (agreement allowing governance of existing lease contract by Commercial Code)].

"Personal property" is generally considered movable property that is not real property [see Civ. Code §§ 657, 663]. The term "personal property" includes money, goods, chattels, things in action, and evidences of debt [Civ. Code § 14(3); see Estate of Dodge (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 311, 319, 98 Cal. Rptr. 801, 491 P.2d 385]. The application of Division 10 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600], however, is largely limited to leases of "goods," which are defined as movable things, fixtures [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(1) (when goods are fixtures)], and the unborn young of animals, but not money, documents, instruments, accounts, chattel paper, general intangibles, or minerals or oil and gas before extraction [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(8); see also § 53.12 (personal property leasing transactions under the Commercial Code)].

[2] Finance Leases

A "finance lease" allows a lessee to directly solicit suppliers of the goods sought for lease and then obtain the goods by arranging for a lessor to obtain title to them [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7); Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (California Comment); see, e.g., § 53.201 (sample finance lease); see also Com. Code § 10103(a)(24) ("supplier" defined)]. Under the Commercial Code, a finance lease is one with respect to which [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]:

- The lessor does not select, manufacture, or supply the goods;
- The lessor acquires the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods in connection with the lease; and

- One of the following occurs:

- The lessee receives a copy of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods before signing the lease contract.

- The lessee's approval of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods is a condition to effectiveness of the lease contract.

- The lessee, before signing the lease contract, receives an accurate and complete statement designating the promises and warranties, and any disclaimers of warranties, limitations or modifications of remedies, or liquidated damages, including those of a third party (such as the manufacturer of the goods), provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods.

- The lessor, before the lessee signs the lease contract, informs the lessee in writing (1) of the identity of the person supplying the goods to the lessor, unless the lessee has selected that person and directed the lessor to acquire the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods from that person; (2) that the lessee is entitled under the Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.] to the promises and warranties, including those to any third party, provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods; and (3) that the lessee may communicate with the person supplying the goods to the lessor and receive an accurate and complete statement of those promises and warranties, including any disclaimers and limitations of them or of remedies.

Counsel involved in the drafting of finance leases should be aware of potential problems arising from the characterization of lease transactions as sales or security interests [see Puritan Leasing Co. v. August (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 451, 461-462, 128 Cal. Rptr. 175, 546 P.2d 679 (upholding lease as express agreement of parties, providing for lessor's right to terminate lease and repossess and resell equipment on lessee's default, contrary to lessee's contention that this action was invalid attempt to provide for liquidated damages)]. For discussion of the distinction between leases and sales or security interests, see § 53.11.

[3] Operating Leases

Operating leases are commonly used in transactions in which the rental term is far less than the useful life of the property. The lessor generally anticipates the subsequent rental of the property in order to recover the full cost of the property. The lessor may bear a significant risk of depreciation in market value of the property and therefore often makes substantial provision in the lease contract for protecting the condition of the leased property.

For example, the lessor may include a lease provision requiring the lessee to pay a deposit to offset the costs that the lessor incurs in maintaining the leased property [see, e.g., § 53.200[2]]. In the case of motorized vehicle or machinery leases, the lessor may include mileage limitations or a limit on the total hours of operation [see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing]. Further, the lessor may call for other provisions requiring strict maintenance and recordkeeping of the maintenance [see, e.g., § 53.250].

[4] Flat-Rate and Full-Service Leases

Other forms of simple leases include flat-rate and full-service leases. In a flat-rate lease arrangement, the lessor obtains a fixed sum in the form of periodic rental payments that reflect the cost of the property to the lessor minus depreciation. In this normally short-term lease arrangement the lessee generally assumes responsibility for repairs, maintenance, replacement parts, operating expenses, insurance, license fees, and taxes.

Under a full-service lease, also known as a maintenance lease, the cost of all service and repairs, replacement parts, and insurance is generally on the lessor. The lessee often assumes responsibility for operating expenses, personal property taxes (unless the term is very short), and a deductible amount chargeable for certain types of damage to the property. For further discussion and a form for a full-service lease, see § 53.250.

[5] Leveraged Leases

The leveraged lease is a more complex form of personal property leasing. A leveraged lease transaction normally involves three parties: a lessor, a lessee, and a lender to the lessor. In general, leveraged leases are net leases (leases in which lessee pays, in addition to rent, the taxes, insurance, and maintenance charges), the lease term covers a substantial part of the useful life of the leased property, and the lessee's payments to the lessor are sufficient to discharge the lessor's payments to the lender [Rev. Proc. 75-21 , § 1, 1975-1 C.B. 715 ; see, e.g., Rev. Rul. 82-61, 1982-1 C.B. 13 (undivided interest in electric generating facility is property interest that can be separately leased in leveraged lease transaction)].

Leveraged leases may provide significant benefits to both the lessor and the lessee by the lessor's use of the lender's capital funds to purchase the leased goods. When properly structured, leveraged leases assist the lessor in obtaining maximum leverage (return on investment) by financing a substantial portion of the cost of the leased property. The lessor acquires tax benefits from property ownership, such as depreciation and the ability to deduct interest paid to the lender as a business expense [see I.R.C. § 167(a) (depreciation), I.R.C. § 163 (interest)]. Coincidentally, a lessee reduces its net cost of the leased property by allowing the lessor to receive those same tax benefits in exchange for a lower effective cost than would be required if the lessee had purchased the leased property.

The Internal Revenue Service scrutinizes leveraged lease transactions to determine whether they constitute true leases or are merely devices that have no economic substance other than the tax benefits accruing to the lessor through its legal ownership of the leased property. To facilitate the proper use of leveraged leases, the Internal Revenue Service has issued guidelines that should be followed in formulating requests for rulings on leveraged lease transactions [see Rev. Proc. 75-21 , § 4, 1975-1 C.B. 715 ; Rev. Proc. 75-28 , §§ 3-5, 1975-1 C.B. 752 ; see also Rev. Proc. 76-30, 1976-2 C.B. 647 (advance ruling is not obtainable when property is "limited use property"); Rev. Proc. 79-48, 1979-2 C.B. 529 ; § 53.20[12]].

For further discussion and sample forms that may be used in completing a leveraged lease, see Fritch et al., Equipment Leasing--Leveraged Leases (3d ed., N.Y. Practising Law Institute 1988).

[6] Sale and Leaseback Transactions

In a sale and leaseback transaction, an asset is sold with the express intent that the buyer will immediately lease the asset back to the seller. This arrangement provides the owner of the asset with a method of raising working capital, and it may have advantages over other forms of debt or equity financing. For example, lenders typically limit the amount of available financing to a specified percentage of the value of the property used as collateral, whereas in a sale-leaseback transaction, the seller-lessee may be able to convert the full value of the property in question into working capital. Thus, the use of sale-leaseback financing to acquire needed equipment may require less capital than traditional financing. Leases typically are structured so that the initial rent payments on the leased-back property are low.

A sale and leaseback transaction also will provide income tax benefits for both parties (usually more for the seller/lessee) if it is structured with tax qualification in mind. For discussion of income tax qualification, see § 53.21. For a guide to determining whether a sale and leaseback transaction would be beneficial, see § 53.118. For general discussion of the tax consequences of personal property leases, see § 53.20.

For further discussion of sale and leaseback, see Contino, Handbook of Equipment Leasing: A Deal Maker's Guide (N.Y. American Management Ass'n 1989). For discussion of sale and leaseback transactions involving real property, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.11

§ 53.11 Leases Distinguished From Other Transactions

[1] Security Interests

Whether a transaction creates a lease or a security interest is determined by the facts of each case [Com. Code § 1203(a)]. However, a transaction in the form of a lease creates a security interest if the consideration paid by the lessee to the lessor for the right to possession and use of the goods is an obligation for the term of the lease that is not subject to termination by the lessee, and any of the following conditions apply [Com. Code § 1203(b); see also Matter of Marhoefer Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 674 F.2d 1139, 1141-1146] :

- The original term of the lease is not less than the remaining economic life of the goods [see Com. Code § 1203(e) (determination of "remaining economic life")].
- The lessee is required to renew the lease for the remaining economic life of the goods or is required to become the owner of the goods.
- The lessee has an option to renew the lease for the remaining economic life of the goods for no additional consideration or nominal additional consideration on compliance with the lease [see Com. Code § 1203(d) (discussion of "additional consideration")].
- The lessee has an option to become the owner of the goods for no additional consideration or nominal additional consideration on compliance with the lease agreement [see Com. Code §§ 1203(d)(1), (2) (when additional consideration is not nominal), 10103(a)(11) ("lease agreement" defined)].

A transaction does not create a security interest merely because [Com. Code § 1203(c)]:

- The present value of the consideration the lessee is obligated to pay for the right to possession and use of the goods is substantially equal to or greater than the fair market value of the goods at the time the lease is entered into [see Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(28), 10103(a)(21) ("present value" defined)].

- The lessee assumes the risk of loss of the goods, or agrees to pay taxes, insurance, filing, recording, or registration fees, or service or maintenance costs.
- That the lessee has an option to renew the lease or become the owner of the goods.
- The lessee has an option to renew the lease for a fixed rent that is equal to or greater than the reasonably predictable fair market rent for the use of the goods for the term of the renewal at the time the option is to be performed [see Com. Code § 1203(e) (determination of "reasonably predictable")].
- The lessee has an option to become the owner of the goods for a fixed price that is equal to or greater than the reasonably predictable fair market value of the goods at the time the option is to be performed [see Com. Code § 1203(e) (determination of "reasonably predictable")].
- In the case of a motor vehicle or a trailer that is not used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, that the amount of rental payments may be increased or decreased by reference to the amount realized by the lessor on sale or disposition of the vehicle or trailer [see Veh. Code §§ 415 ("motor vehicle" defined), 630 ("trailer" defined)].

Counsel engaged in the drafting of personal property leases should be aware of potential problems in having a lease transaction subsequently characterized as a security interest. If a purported lease transaction creates a security interest, the interest is generally subject to Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 9110, 9203(c); see Com. Code § 9110 (UCC Comment) (application to Division 10); former Com. Code § 10103(1)(j), renumbered without substantive change, Com. Code § 10103(a)(10) (California Comment)]. Failure to comply with those provisions may subject the lessor or secured party to a risk of losing the property to a subsequent claimant [see Com. Code § 9301 et seq. (rules of priority); Com. Code § 9401 et seq. (rights of third parties)]. However, to the extent that and for so long as the debtor does not have, or does not lawfully obtain, possession of the goods, no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable and no filing is required to perfect the security interest [see Com. Code § 9110]. Further, the rights of the secured party on default by the debtor are governed by Division 10 [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.] in the case of a security interest arising solely under that division, rather than under Division 9 [Com. Code § 9110(3); see Com. Code § 10303(e)(1) (when transfer is made which results in default, party to lease contract not making transfer has rights and remedies available under Com. Code §§ 10501-10507; Com. Code § 10303(e)(2) (other available relief); see also Com. Code § 10501(b); § 53.15].

The term "security interest," as used in Com. Code § 10303, includes the sale of a lease contract, since a lease contract constitutes chattel paper [Com. Code § 10303(a); see Com. Code § 10303(a) (California Comment); Com. Code § 9109(a)(3); Com. Code § 9102(a)(11) ("chattel paper" defined); see also [2], below (consequences of having purported lease characterized as sale)].

Although there is no requirement for filing a lease [see Harris, The Interface Between Articles 2A and 9 Under the Official Text and the California Amendments, 22 U.C.C.L.J. 99, 103 (1989)], lessors who are concerned about whether a purported lease transaction creates a lease or a security interest may file a protective informational financing statement [see Com. Code § 10301 (California Comment); see Com. Code § 9505 (financing statements covering leased goods)]. For discussion of financing statements and a sample form, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.211[2] (Financing Statement, Form UCC-1). For discussion of the creation and regulation of secured interests, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions. For further discussion of the distinctions between leases and security interests, see Coogan and Boss, Bender's Uniform Commercial Code Service, Ch. 4.3, Uniform Commercial Code Treatment For All Leases (Matthew Bender).

[2] Sales

Lease transactions that are found to be sales, conditional or otherwise, may subject the parties to additional unanticipated tax liability, and also may subject the transaction to scrutiny under Division 2 of the California Commercial Code (Sales) [see Com. Code § 2101 et seq.; see also Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code]. The Internal Revenue Service has established guidelines for determining when an purported lease transaction will be considered a sale. The IRS will presume that a sale was intended if the total of the rental payments and any optional purchase price approximate the price for which the property could have been purchased outright plus interest and carrying charges [Rev. Rul. 55-540 , § 4.05, 1955-2 C.B. 39]. The IRS may also presume that a sale was intended, even though there is no express passage of title, when the rent payable over a relatively short period of the expected life of the goods approximates the purchase price of the goods and the lessee may continue to use the property for the approximate remaining life of the equipment at a nominal or token rate [Rev. Rul. 55-540 , § 4.06, 1955-2 C.B. 39].

For further discussion of the factors the IRS considers in determining when an intended lease transaction should be recharacterized as a sale, refer to § 53.20[11]. For discussion of the federal and state tax consequences of that recharacterization, see § 53.20[11] and § 53.19[1], respectively.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.12

§ 53.12 Personal Property Leasing Transactions Under the Commercial Code

[1] Governing Law

[a] Applicable Statutes

Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.], adopted in California in 1988 [see Stats. 1988, ch. 1359], is the California version of UCC Article 2A governing personal property leases. Division 10 was adopted with minor changes to conform the UCC model to existing California law. For example, UCC Section 2A-108, governing remedies for unconscionable lease contracts, was not enacted in California because it duplicates protections afforded by Civ. Code § 1670.5.

As adopted in California, the Uniform Commercial Code division governing leases of personal property [see Com. Code § 10101] applies to any transaction, regardless of form, that creates a lease [Com. Code § 10102]. Under the California Commercial Code, a "lease" means a transfer of the right to possession and use of goods for a term in return for consideration, but a sale (including a sale on approval or a sale on return), or retention or creation of a security interest, is not a lease. Unless the term clearly indicates otherwise, "lease" includes a sublease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(10); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(14) (lessee means person who acquires right to possession and use of goods under lease, including sublease, unless context clearly indicates otherwise); Com. Code § 10103(a)(16) (lessor means person who transfers right to possession and use of goods under lease, including sublease, unless context clearly indicates otherwise)].

For all lease contracts entered into on or after January 1, 1990, for those contracts that first become effective between the parties on or after that date, and for those contracts entered into before that date and subsequently modified in writing by the parties to allow governance by the Commercial Code, Division 10 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] governs the rights, obligations, and remedies under the lease contract [Com. Code § 10600; see Com. Code § 10103(a)(12) ("lease contract" defined); see also [2], below].

All leases governed by the provisions of the California Commercial Code are also subject to the following [Com. Code § 10104(a)]:

- Certificate of title statutes of California concerning motor vehicle and boat registration [see Veh. Code §§ 4450 et seq., 9840 et seq.; Health & Safety Code § 18075 et seq.].
- Certificate of title statutes of another jurisdiction [see Com. Code § 10105];
- Consumer law of California, both decisional and statutory, including, to the extent applicable to consumer lease transactions, statutes regulating unfair competition, false advertising, and obligations arising from particular transactions [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200 et seq., 17500 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1738 et seq.].

With limited exceptions, in the case of a conflict between Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] and any law referred to immediately above, that specified law will control [Com. Code § 10104(b); see Com. Code §§ 10105, 10304(c), 10305(c) (exceptions)]. The failure to comply with an applicable law has only the effect specified in that law [Com. Code § 10104(c)].

Additional statutory regulation of personal property leasing relating to vehicles is found in the Vehicle Leasing Act [see Civ. Code §§ 2985.7-2990] and the Automobile Sales Finance Act [see Civ. Code §§ 2981-2984.4]. Civ. Code § 1936 contains restrictions on the renting of automobiles for terms of less than 30 days. For further discussion of these statutory schemes, see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

[b] Inapplicable Statutes

Transactions governed by the Commercial Code division on personal property leasing are exempt from certain specified statutes insofar as those statutes pertain to leases. The following statutes exempt lease transactions governed by the UCC division on personal property leasing:

- Civ. Code § 1624, the California Statute of Frauds [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions].
- Civ. Code § 3308, governing the damages formula available to lessors on breach by a lessee [see Ch. 34B, Residential Leases; Ch. 34C, Commercial, Industrial, and Office Leases; Ch. 34D, Ground Leases].
- Civ. Code §§ 3440.1 and 3440.9, creating exclusions to the statutory chapter governing conveyances of personal property without delivery (including sales and leasebacks).
- Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.610, 697.730, and 697.740, governing the survivability of judgment and execution liens.

[2] Leases Executed Before January 1, 1990

A personal property lease executed before January 1, 1990, is governed by the existing laws pertaining to a lease of personal property at the time the lease contract was executed. However, the parties to a lease contract first made or that first became effective before January 1, 1990, may specifically agree in writing that the lease contract will be governed by the provisions of Division 10 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10600; see § 53.285].

Generally, the law governing leases of personal property in existence before the enactment of the UCC provisions is found in the California Civil Code and the decisional law of California courts. Civ. Code § 1925 defines "hiring" (leasing) as a contract by which one gives to another the temporary possession and use of property, other than money, for reward, and the party receiving the property agrees to return the property to the lessor at a future time. A lease contract entered into before January 1, 1990, is subject to the following statutory rules:

- A lease contract binds the lessor to secure to the lessee the quiet possession of the leased property during the term of the lease [Civ. Code §§ 1927, 1955].
- The lessee of property must use ordinary care for its preservation in safety and in good condition [Civ. Code § 1928].
- The lessee must repair all deterioration or injuries caused by the failure to use ordinary care [Civ. Code §§ 1929, 1956].
- If the property is let for a particular purpose, the lessee is liable for all damages caused by the use of the property for other than the specified purpose; alternatively the lessor may treat the contract as rescinded [Civ. Code § 1930].

The lessor of property may terminate the lease and reclaim the leased property when the lessee uses, or allows the use of the property in other than the agreed manner or when the lessee does not, within a reasonable time after request, make required repairs on the leased property [Civ. Code § 1931]. The lessee of property may terminate the lease if the lessor fails, within a reasonable time after request, to fulfill the lessor's obligations, if any, in maintaining the lessee's quiet possession of the property or putting the leased property in good condition or repair. The lessee may also terminate when the greater part of the leased property which was the material inducement to the lessee to enter the lease perishes from any cause other than the lessee's failure to use ordinary care [Civ. Code § 1932].

A lease terminates at the end of the agreed term, by the mutual consent of the parties, by the lessee's acquiring title to the leased goods superior to that of the lessor, or on the destruction of the leased property [Civ. Code § 1933]. If the lease is terminable at the option of one of the parties, it is terminated by notice to the other of that party's death or incapacity to contract [Civ. Code § 1934]. At the expiration of the lease term, the lessee must return the property to the place contemplated by the parties at the time of leasing, or if no place has been designated, to the place that the property was at the time of leasing [Civ. Code § 1958].

[3] Importance of Commercial Code Definitions

The Commercial Code definitions are important in construing Commercial Code requirements and drafting lease contracts according to those provisions. For example, various forms of leases (e.g., "finance leases") are defined according to their purpose and are subject to different treatment under the Commercial Code. The definitions in the Commercial Code provide interpretive assistance.

In addition to the general definition of a "lease" [see § 53.12[1]], the Commercial Code includes definitions of various forms of specific leases of "goods" [see Com. Code §§ 10103(a)(5) ("consumer lease" means a lease that a lessor regularly engaged in the business of leasing or selling makes to a lessee who is an individual and who takes under the lease primarily for a personal, family, or household purpose), (7) ("finance lease"), (9) ("installment lease contract"), (23) ("sublease")]. "Goods" are defined as all things that are movable at the time of "identification to the lease contract" [see Com. Code § 10217 (when identification occurs)], or are "fixtures," or the unborn young of animals, but not money, documents, instruments, accounts, chattel paper, general intangibles, or minerals, including oil and gas before extraction [Com. Code § 10103(a)(8); see Com. Code § 10309(a)(1) (fixtures)].

Goods are "identified to the lease contract" in the manner explicitly agreed on by the parties. In the absence of an express agreement, identification occurs as follows [Com. Code § 10217]:

- When the lease contract is made, if the lease contract is for a lease of goods that are existing and identified;

- When the goods are shipped, marked, or otherwise designated by the lessor as goods to which the lease contract refers, if the lease contract is of goods that are not existing and identified; or
- When the young are conceived, if the lease contract is of the unborn young of animals.

[4] Formation and Interpretation of Lease Contracts Under the Commercial Code

The Commercial Code provisions governing formation of lease contracts, like those governing contracts for the sale of goods [see Com. Code § 2101 et seq.], are generally permissive. Subject to the Commercial Code statute of frauds [see Com. Code § 10201; [5], below], a lease contract may be made in any manner sufficient to show agreement, including conduct by both parties that recognizes the existence of a lease contract [Com. Code § 10204(a)]. Significantly, except as otherwise provided, the effect of any of the Commercial Code's provisions may be varied by an agreement between the parties [see Com. Code § 1302].

An agreement may be sufficient to constitute a lease contract, even if the time of formation cannot be determined [Com. Code § 10204(b)]. Although one or more terms are left open, a lease contract does not fail for indefiniteness if the parties have intended to make a lease contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for a court to fashion an appropriate remedy in fulfilling the parties' intent [Com. Code § 10204(c); see also Com. Code § 2204 (UCC Comment) (contract formation in general)].

Unless the language or circumstances of an offer to make a lease contract unambiguously indicate otherwise, the offer will be construed as allowing acceptance in any manner and by any means that are reasonable under the circumstances [Com. Code § 10206(a)]. When the beginning of the requested performance constitutes a reasonable mode of acceptance, the offeree must notify the offeror when he or she commences performance. An offeror who is not notified of acceptance within a reasonable time may treat the offer as having lapsed before acceptance [Com. Code § 10206(b); see § 53.267].

A merchant's offer to lease goods to or from another person in a signed writing that by its terms gives assurance it will be held open is not revocable for lack of consideration. The offer must remain open for the time stated in the writing, or, if no time is stated, for a reasonable time not to exceed three months [Com. Code § 10205; see Com. Code § 2104(1) ("merchant" defined)]. For further discussion, and forms containing clauses governing the manner and medium of making and accepting offers, see §§ 53.210 and 53.211.

If the parties agree to terms in a confirmatory memorandum, or in a writing intended by the parties to be a final expression of their agreement, those terms may not be contradicted by evidence of any prior agreement or of a contemporaneous oral agreement [Com. Code § 10202]. Those terms, however, may be explained or supplemented by either or both [Com. Code § 10202]:

- Course of dealing or usage of trade or by course of performance [see Com. Code §§ 1303, 2202; see, e.g., Insurance Co. of No. Am. v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115 (under former Com. Code § 1205(1), now Com. Code § 1303(a), receipt of 47 identical invoices for 47 separate transactions was sufficient to constitute course of dealing, modifying shipping agreement)]; and
- Evidence of consistent additional terms, unless the court finds the writing to have been intended also as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement.

[5] Enforceability of Valid Lease Contracts Under the Commercial Code Statute of Frauds

A lease contract is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless, in a lease contract other than a consumer lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) ("consumer lease" defined); [3], above], the total payments to be made under the contract are less than $1000. In calculating the total payments figure, amounts paid for options to renew or buy are excluded [Com. Code § 10201(a)(1)]. Alternatively, a lease contract is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless it is in writing and signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought, or by that party's authorized agent. The contract must contain sufficient detail to indicate that a lease contract has been made between the parties and to describe the leased goods and lease term [Com. Code § 10201(a)(2)].

A writing satisfies the sufficiency requirement [see Com. Code § 10201(a)(2)], whether or not it is specific, if it reasonably identifies what is described [Com. Code § 10201(b)]. A writing is not insufficient because it omits or incorrectly states an agreed-on term [Com. Code § 10201(c)]. A lease contract is not enforceable under Com. Code § 10201(a)(2), however, beyond the lease term and the quantity of goods shown in the writing [Com. Code § 10201(c)].

Certain lease contracts not in compliance with either alternative under Com. Code § 10201(a) are enforceable if valid in other respects. These specified contracts are as follows [Com. Code § 10201(d); see Com. Code § 10201(e) (lease terms for these contracts)]:

- A contract for the lease of goods that are to be specially manufactured or obtained for the lessee and not suitable for lease or sale to others in the ordinary course of the lessor's business, if the lessor has substantially begun their manufacture or made commitments for their procurement, before receiving notice of repudiation and under circumstances that reasonably indicate that the goods are for the lessee;
- A lease contract under which a party against whom enforcement is sought admits in that party's pleading, testimony, or otherwise in court that a lease contract was made, but is otherwise unenforceable under Com. Code § 10201 beyond the quantity of goods admitted; or
- A lease contract under which the lessee has received and accepted the goods.

[6] Modification or Rescission of Existing Lease Agreement

An agreement modifying a lease contract that is governed by Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] needs no consideration to be binding [Com. Code § 10208(a)]. A signed lease agreement that excludes modification or rescission except by a signed writing may not be otherwise modified or rescinded [Com. Code § 10208(b)]. When this requirement is included in a form lease contract provided by a merchant, the separate signature of the lessee is required on the form unless the lessee is also a merchant [Com. Code § 10208(b)].

If an attempted modification or rescission does not meet the signed writing requirement, it may still operate as waiver of the lease contract terms sought to be modified or rescinded [Com. Code § 10208(c)]. A party who has waived an executory portion of a lease contract may retract the waiver by a reasonable notification, received by the other party, that strict performance will be required of any term waived. A waiver may not be retracted, however, if the retraction would be unjust due to a material change of position in reliance on the waiver [Com. Code § 10208(d); see § 53.265].

[7] Choice of Law Governing Lease Contract

The choice of law by the parties to a consumer lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) ("consumer lease" defined); see also [3], above] is not enforceable if the law chosen is that of a jurisdiction other than one (1) in which the lessee resides at the time the lease agreement becomes enforceable or within 30 days of that date, (2) in which the goods are to be used, or (3) in which the lease is executed by the lessee [Com. Code § 10106(a); see, e.g., § 53.200[2] (provisions governing designation of jurisdiction in which lease contract is executed and choice of jurisdiction under which any disagreement will be governed)).

Additionally, the choice of judicial forum by the parties to a consumer lease is unenforceable if it is [Com. Code § 10106(b)]:

- A county other than the county in which the lessee actually signed the lease;
- A county other than the county in which the lessee resides at the commencement of the judicial action;
- A county other than the county in which the lessee resided at the time the lease contract became enforceable; or
- A county other than the county in which the goods are permanently stored.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.13

§ 53.13 Warranties in Lease Agreement

[1] Parties' Intention May Determine Dominant Warranty

Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] provides extensive interpretive and supplemental assistance for analyzing warranty provisions in personal property lease agreements [see Com. Code §§ 10210-10215]. Warranties, whether express or implied, must be construed as consistent with each other and as cumulative, but if that construction is unreasonable, the intention of the parties determines which warranty is dominant [Com. Code § 10215; see [2]-[3], below]. The parties' intention is determined according to the following rules [Com. Code § 10215(1)-(3)]:

- Exact or technical specifications will prevail over an inconsistent sample or model or general language of description.
- A sample from an existing bulk displaces inconsistent general language of description.
- Express warranties displace inconsistent implied warranties other than an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose.

For further discussion of warranties, and various forms providing for limitation and modification of warranties, see §§ 53.220 53.222.

[2] Creation of Express Warranties

A lessor of personal property may create express warranties by the following methods [Com. Code § 10210(a)]:

- Any affirmation of fact or promise made to the lessee that relates to the goods and becomes part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the affirmation or promise.
- Any description of the goods that is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods will conform to the description.

- Any sample or model that is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the whole of the goods will conform to the sample or model.

The lessor does not need to use formal words, such as "warrant" or "guarantee," to create an express warranty [Com. Code § 10210(b)]. Furthermore, the lessor need not have a specific intention to create a warranty. An express warranty is not created, however, by an affirmation merely of the value of the goods or a statement purporting to be merely the lessor's opinion or commendation of the goods [Com. Code § 10210(b)].

[3] Creation of Implied Warranties

Except in a finance lease [see § 53.10[2]], a warranty of merchantability is implied in a lease contract if the lessor is a merchant with respect to goods of the kind leased [Com. Code § 10212(a)]. The minimum standard of merchantability must be met as follows [Com. Code § 10212(b)]:

- The goods must pass without objection in the trade under the description in the lease agreement;
- In the case of fungible goods, the goods must be of fair average quality within the description [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(18) ("fungible" defined)];
- The goods must be fit for the ordinary purposes for which goods of that type are used;
- The goods must run, within the variation permitted by the lease agreement, of even kind, quality, and quantity within each unit and among all units involved;
- The goods must be adequately contained, packaged, and labeled as the lease agreement may require; and
- The goods must conform to any promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label.

Other implied warranties also may arise from course of dealing or usage of trade [Com. Code § 10212(c)].

Except in a finance lease [see § 53.10[2]], an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose may be found in a lease of personal property. This warranty is implied if the lessor, at the time the lease contract is entered into, has reason to know of any particular purpose for which the goods are required and that the lessee is relying on the lessor's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods [Com. Code § 10213].

In every personal property lease contract, there is a warranty that no person holding a claim or interest that arose from an act or omission of the lessor, except for infringement or the like, will interfere with the lessee's use and enjoyment of the goods for the lease term [Com. Code § 10211(a)]. Except in a finance lease [see § 53.10[2]], a lease contract by a merchant lessor [see Com. Code § 2104(1) ("merchant" defined)] who regularly deals in goods of that type contains a warranty that the goods are delivered free of the rightful claim of any person by way of infringement or the like [Com. Code § 10211(b)].

A lessee who furnishes specifications to a lessor or a supplier must hold the lessor and the supplier harmless against any claim by way of infringement or the like that arises out of compliance with the specifications [Com. Code § 10211(c); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(24) ("supplier" defined)].

[4] Exclusion and Modification of Warranties

Lease contracts may contain provisions limiting or modifying warranties [see Com. Code § 10214; see, e.g., §§ 53.220-53.222]. Words or conduct relevant to the creation of an express warranty and words or conduct tending to negate or limit a warranty must be construed as consistent with each other whenever reasonable [Com. Code § 10214(a)]. Subject to the Code rules on parol or extrinsic evidence [see Com. Code § 10202; [3], above], negation or limitation of a warranty is inoperative to the extent that the construction is unreasonable [Com. Code § 10214(a)].

Unless the circumstances indicate otherwise, all implied warranties are excluded by expressions like "as is," or "with all faults." Additionally, implied warranties are excluded by other language that in common understanding calls the lessee's attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty. In either case, the exclusionary language must be in writing and must be conspicuous [Com. Code § 10214(c)(1); see, e.g., § 53.221].

Unless otherwise restricted by law, the implied warranty of merchantability may be excluded or modified by a conspicuous writing that mentions "merchantability" [Com. Code § 10214(b)]. Further, unless the law states otherwise, an exclusion or modification of the implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose must be in a conspicuous writing. Exclusions of the implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose are sufficient if they are written, are conspicuous, and state, for example, "There is no warranty that the goods will be fit for a particular purpose" [Com. Code § 10214(b); see [2]-[3], above].

To exclude or modify a warranty against interference or against infringement [see Com. Code § 10211; [3], above], or any part of it, the language must be specific, in writing, and conspicuous. If, however, the circumstances, including course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade, give the lessee reason to know that the goods are being leased subject to a claim or interest of any person, these requirements are waived [Com. Code § 10214(d)].

If the lessee has examined the goods, sample, or model as fully as desired, or has refused to examine the goods before entering into the lease contract, there is no implied warranty with regard to defects that an examination under the circumstances would have revealed [Com. Code § 10214(c)(2)].

An implied warranty may also be excluded or modified by course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade [Com. Code § 10214(c)(3); see Com. Code § 1303 (when course of performance or practical construction is relevant to determine meaning of lease agreement)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.14

§ 53.14 Passage of Risk of Loss

Unless otherwise agreed by the parties [see Com. Code § 1302 (variation by agreement)], and except in the case of a finance lease [see § 53.10[2]], the risk of loss is retained by the lessor and does not pass to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a)]. Subject to the rules governing the effect of default on risk of loss [see Com. Code § 10220], if risk of loss will pass to the lessee and the time of passage of the risk is not stated in the contract, the following rules apply:

- If the lease contract requires or authorizes the goods to be shipped by carrier and it does not require delivery at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier; but if the lease contract does require delivery at a particular destination, and the goods are tendered there while in the carrier's possession, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are made available at that destination for the lessee to take delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(1)].
- If the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on acknowledgment by the bailee of the lessee's right to possession of the goods [Com. Code § 10219(b)(2)].
- In any case not covered under Com. Code § 10219(b)(1), (2), above, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on the lessee's receipt of the goods if the lessor (or in the case of a finance lease, if the supplier) is a merchant; otherwise the risk passes to the lessee on tender of delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(3)].

Regarding instances of default under the lease contract, if the risk of loss is to pass to the lessee and the time of passage of the risk is not stated, the following rules apply:

- If a tender or delivery of goods fails to conform to the lease contract as to give a right of rejection, the risk of loss remains with the lessor (or in the case of a finance lease, with the supplier) until cure or acceptance [Com. Code § 10220(a)(1)].
- If the lessee rightfully revokes acceptance, he or she, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as having remained with the lessor (or in the case of a finance lease, with the supplier) from the beginning [Com. Code § 10220(a)(2)].

Whether or not risk of loss is to pass to the lessee, if the lessee repudiates conforming goods already identified to the lease contract or is otherwise in default under the lease contract, the lessor (or the supplier in the case of a finance lease), to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as resting on the lessee for a commercially reasonable time [Com. Code § 10220(b)].

If a lease contract requires goods to be identified when the lease contract is made, and the goods suffer casualty without fault of the lessee, the lessor, or the supplier before delivery, or the goods suffer casualty before the risk of loss passes to the lessee pursuant to the lease agreement or pursuant to the risk of loss rules found in Com. Code § 10219, then [Com. Code § 10221]:

- If the loss is total, the lease contract is avoided; and
- If the loss is partial or the goods have so deteriorated as to no longer conform to the lease contract, the lessee may nevertheless demand inspection and at his or her option either treat the lease contract as avoided or, except in a finance lease, accept the goods with due allowance from the rent payable for the balance of the lease term for the deterioration or the deficiency in quantity but without further right against the lessor.

For discussion of the application of the rules covering the passage of risk of loss to finance leases, see § 53.13[1].

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.15

§ 53.15 Default Under Personal Property Leases

[1] In General

Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] governs the instances and consequences of a default in a lease contract when the contract omits sufficient coverage of default [see Com. Code §§ 10501-10532; see also Com. Code § 1302 (variation by agreement)]. The lease agreement and the provisions of Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] determine whether a lessee or lessor is in default under a lease contract [Com. Code § 10501(a); see Com. Code § 10506 (statute of limitations)]. Except as otherwise restricted by the provisions of the Commercial Code governing default, a lease agreement may include rights and remedies for default in addition to or in substitution for those provided in the Commercial Code and may limit or alter the Commercial Code's measure of damages [Com. Code § 10503(a)].

If the lessor or lessee is in default under the lease contract, the party seeking enforcement has rights and remedies as provided in the Commercial Code, and except as otherwise limited by the Commercial Code, as provided in the lease agreement [Com. Code § 10501(b)]. In the instance of a default by either party, the party seeking enforcement may reduce that claim to judgment, or otherwise enforce the lease contract by self-help or any available judicial or nonjudicial procedure. These procedures may include administrative proceeding, arbitration, or similar methods of resolution in accordance with the Commercial Code provisions governing default [Com. Code § 10501(c)]. Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 1305(a) (remedies to be liberally construed), or as otherwise provided under Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.], or in the lease agreement, these rights and remedies are cumulative [Com. Code § 10501(d)].

If the lease agreement covers both real property and goods, the party seeking enforcement may proceed under the Commercial Code as to the goods, or under other applicable law as to both the real property and the goods in accordance with that party's rights and remedies relating to the real property [Com. Code § 10501(e)]. If the party seeking enforcement of the contract proceeds in the manner described above, the provisions of the Commercial Code governing default do not apply [Com. Code § 10501(e)]. For a discussion of the judicial remedies for a breach of contract, including forms for effecting those remedies, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts (Matthew Bender).

The provisions of Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] do not impair the rights or remedies for the breach of any obligation or promise that is collateral or ancillary to a lease contract [Com. Code § 10503(d)].

Any claim or right arising out of an alleged default (or breach of warranty) may be discharged in whole or in part without consideration by a written waiver or renunciation signed and delivered by the aggrieved party [Com. Code § 10107; see § 53.13 (warranties)].

For additional discussion of the inclusion of specific contractual provisions relating to damages [see Com. Code §§ 10503(c) (consequential damages), 10504 (liquidation of damages; restitution), 10507 (damages based on market rent), 10530 (lessor's incidental damages)], see §§ 53.231 and 53.232. For a discussion of the effect of default on the passage of risk of loss, see § 53.14.

[2] Lessee's Remedies

If the lessor fails to deliver the leased goods in conformity with the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10509] or repudiates the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10402 (anticipatory repudiation)], or if the lessee rightfully rejects or revokes acceptance of the goods [see Com. Code §§ 10509, 10517], the lessor is in default under the lease contract [Com. Code § 10508(a)]. In the event of the lessor's default, with respect to the goods involved, and to all of the goods, if under an installment lease contract the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired, [see Com. Code § 10510], the lessee may [Com. Code § 10508(a)]:

- Cancel the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10505(a) (cancellation)].
- Recover the rent and security that has been paid and is just under the circumstances.
- Cover and recover damages as to all goods affected whether or not they have been identified to the lease contract, or recover damages for nondelivery [see Com. Code §§ 10518-10520 (cover by lessee; damages)].
- Exercise any other rights or pursue any other remedies provided in the lease contract.

On the lessee's rightful rejection or justifiable revocation of acceptance of the goods, the lessee acquires a security interest in the goods possessed for any rent and security paid and any related reasonably incurred expenses, and may hold and dispose of them in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 10508(e); see Com. Code §§ 10509-10516 (rejection and acceptance of goods)]. The lessee must, however, account to the lessor for any excess over the amount of the lessee's security interest [Com. Code § 10508(e); see Com. Code § 10527(e) (accounting for sale proceeds)].

In addition, if the lessor fails to deliver the goods in conformity with the lease contract, or repudiates the lease contract, the lessee may either [Com. Code § 10508(b)]:

- Recover the goods, if they have been identified [see Com. Code § 10522 (recovery by lessee in case of lessor's insolvency)]; or
- If appropriate, obtain specific performance of the lease contract or replevy the goods [see Com. Code § 10521 (specific performance and replevin)].

If the lessor is otherwise in default under a lease contract, the lessee also may exercise the rights and pursue the remedies provided in the lease contract [Com. Code § 10508(c)]. These rights and remedies may include those enumerated in Com. Code § 10519(c) (measure of damages for nonconforming tender or delivery or other default by lessor) and the right to cancel the lease [Com. Code § 10508(c)].

Generally, a lessee, on notifying the lessor of his or her intention to do so, may deduct all or any part of the damages resulting from any default under the lease contract for any part of the rent still due under the same lease contract [Com. Code § 10508(f); see Com. Code § 10407(a) (exception for finance leases)]. For further discussion and a form illustrating the proper method of notice for this purpose, see § 53.266.

If a lessor has breached an express or implied warranty, the lessee may recover damages [Com. Code § 10508(d); see § 53.13 (warranties)].

[3] Lessor's Remedies

Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] includes specified instances of a lessee's default under a lease contract [see Com. Code § 10523(a)]. These specified acts and omissions are intended to supplement those that the parties may agree on and include in the provisions of a lease agreement [see Bayer, Personal Property Leasing: Article 2A of the Uniform Commercial Code, 43 Bus. Law. 1491, 1508 (1988)].

A lessee has committed a statutory default under a lease contract if he or she wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of the leased goods, fails to make payment when due, or repudiates with respect to a part or the whole of the lease contract. Under one of these instances of a lessee's default, with respect to any goods involved, and with respect to all of the goods if, under an installment lease contract, the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired, the lessor may [Com. Code § 10523(a)]:

- Cancel the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10505(a) (cancellation)].
- Proceed respecting goods not identified to the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10524 (proceedings)].
- Withhold delivery of the goods and take possession of goods previously delivered [see Com. Code § 10525 (taking possession of goods)].
- Stop delivery of the goods by any bailee [see Com. Code § 10526 (stoppage of goods in possession of bailee)].
- Either dispose of the goods and recover damages, retain the goods and recover damages, or recover rent if appropriate [see Com. Code §§ 10527-10529].
- Exercise any other rights or pursue and any other remedies provided in the lease contract.

Additionally, after the lessee's statutory default under Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1), or, if agreed, after other default by the lessee, the lessor may [Com. Code § 10524(a)(1), (2)]:

- Identify to the lease contract conforming goods previously unidentified if at the time the lessor learned of the default the goods were in the lessor's (or supplier's) possession or control; and
- Dispose of those goods that demonstrably have been intended for the particular lease contract, even if those goods are unfinished [see Com. Code § 10527(a) (disposal of goods); see also Com. Code § 10524(b) (disposal of unfinished goods)].

If the lessor does not fully exercise a right or obtain a remedy available under Com. Code § 10523(a), the lessor may recover the loss resulting in the ordinary course of events from the lessee's default as determined in any reasonable manner [Com. Code § 10523(b)]. The lessor is also entitled to incidental damages, minus expenses saved in consequence of the lessee's default [Com. Code § 10523(b)].

If the lessee is otherwise in default under a lease contract, the lessor may exercise the rights and pursue the remedies provided in the lease contract [Com. Code § 10523(c)]. These rights and remedies may include a right to cancel the lease. In addition, unless otherwise provided in the lease contract, the lessor may [Com. Code § 10523(c)]:

- Exercise the rights and remedies provided in Com. Code § 10523(a), (b), discussed above, if the default substantially impairs the value of the lease contract to the lessor; or
- Recover as provided in Com. Code § 10523(b), discussed above, if default does not substantially impair the value of the lease contract to the lessor.

If a lessor discovers the lessee to be insolvent, the lessor may refuse to deliver the goods [Com. Code § 10525(a)].

The lessor has the right to take possession of the goods after the lessee's statutory default under Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1), or, if agreed, after other default by the lessee [Com. Code § 10525(b)]. The lessor may require the lessee to assemble the leased goods and make them available to the lessor at a place to be designated by the lessor that is reasonably convenient to both parties, if such a provision is included in the lease contract [Com. Code § 10525(b)]. Without removal, the lessor may render unusable any goods employed in a trade or business, or may dispose of the goods on the lessee's premises [Com. Code § 10525(b)]. The lessor may take possession of the goods under Com. Code § 10525(b) without judicial process, as described above, if that can be done without breach of the peace, or the lessor may commence an action to recover them [Com. Code § 10525(c)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.16

§ 53.16 Rights of Third Parties in Personal Property Lease Transactions

[1] Lease Contract Is Generally Enforceable Against Third Parties

Generally, a lease contract is effective and enforceable according to its terms between the parties, against purchasers of the goods, and against creditors of the parties [Com. Code § 10301]. The provisions of Division 10 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600] apply whether the lessor or a third party has title to the goods, and whether the lessor, the lessee, or a third party has possession of the goods, notwithstanding any statute or rule of law that possession or the absence of possession is fraudulent [Com. Code § 10302; see Com. Code § 10531 (standing to sue third parties for injury to goods)].

[2] Transfers of Interests or Rights Under Lease

With specified exceptions [see Com. Code § 10303(c), (d)], a provision in a lease agreement that (1) prohibits the voluntary or involuntary transfer [see Com. Code § 10303(f) (transfer generally means delegation of duties by transferor to transferee)] (including a transfer by sale, sublease, creation or enforcement of a security interest [see § 53.11[1]], or attachment, levy, or other judicial process) of a party's interest under the lease contract, or of the party's residual interest in the goods, or (2) makes such a transfer an event of default, gives rise to the rights and remedies provided in Com. Code § 10303(e) [Com. Code § 10303(b); see Com. Code § 10303(e); see also § 53.15]. However, a transfer that is prohibited or is an event of default under the lease agreement is otherwise effective [Com. Code § 10303(b); see Com. Code § 10303(h) (language of prohibition in lease contract must be specific, by writing, and conspicuous)].

Although lease contract prohibitions on voluntary transfers generally are valid [see Com. Code § 10303(b)], there is an important exception in the case of transfers consisting of the grant of a security interest by the lessor [see Com. Code § 10303(c); Com. Code § 1201(b)(35); § 53.11[1]]. A provision in a lease agreement that (1) prohibits the creation or enforcement of a security interest in a party's interest under the lease contract (or in the lessor's residual interest in the goods), or (2) makes such a transfer an event of default, is not enforceable unless, and then only to the extent that, there is an actual transfer by the lessee of the lessee's right of possession or use of the goods in violation of the lease provision or an actual delegation of a material performance of either party to the lease contract in violation of the provision [Com. Code § 10303(c)].

Neither the granting nor the enforcement of a security interest in either the lessor's interest under the lease contract or the lessor's residual interest in the goods is a transfer that materially impairs the prospect of obtaining return performance by, materially changes the duty of, or materially increases the burden or risk imposed on, the lessee with regard to the rights and remedies available under Com. Code § 10303(e), unless, and then only to the extent that, there is an actual delegation of a material performance of the lessor [Com. Code § 10303(c)].

Additionally, a provision in a lease agreement that (1) prohibits a transfer of a right to damages for default with respect to the whole lease contract or of a right to payment arising out of the transferor's due performance of the transferor's entire obligation, or (2) makes this transfer an event of default, is not enforceable [Com. Code § 10303(d)]. Moreover, such a transfer is not a transfer that materially impairs the prospect of obtaining return performance by, material changes of duty of, or materially increases the burden or risk imposed on, the other party to the lease contract within the purview of the provision providing for rights and remedies on default [Com. Code § 10303(d); see Com. Code § 10303(e) (rights and remedies when transfer is event of default)]; see also § 53.15].

[3] Creditors of Lessee or Lessor

If a person in the ordinary course of business provides services and materials with respect to goods subject to a lease contract, he or she obtains specified rights relating to liens on those goods in his or her possession. A lien given by statute or rule of law on leased goods in the possession of the service or material provider for those services or materials takes priority over any interest of the lessor or lessee under the lease contract or Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10306; see Com. Code § 10103(a)(18) ("lien" defined)]. This priority may be limited by language contained in the statute or rule of law creating the lien [Com. Code § 10306].

Generally, a creditor of a lessee takes subject to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10307(a); see Com. Code § 10306 (exception)]; [1], above].

With limited exceptions, a creditor of a lessor takes subject to the lease contract, unless the creditor holds a lien attached to the goods before the lease contract became enforceable; [see Com. Code § 10307(b)].

Except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 9317 (persons who take priority over, or take free of, security interest), Com. Code § 9321 (licensee under nonexclusive license and lessee in ordinary course of business take free of certain security interests), and Com. Code § 9323 (governing future advances), a lessee takes a leasehold interest [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(13) ("leasehold interest" means interest of lessor or lessee under lease contract)] subject to a security interest held by the creditor of the lessor [Com. Code § 10307(c)].

A creditor of a lessor in possession of goods subject to a lease contract may treat the lease contract as void if, as against the creditor, retention of possession by the lessor is fraudulent or void under any statute or rule of law. Notwithstanding this rule, retention of possession in good faith and current course of trade by the lessor for a commercially reasonable time after the lease contract becomes enforceable is not fraudulent or void [Com. Code § 10308(a); see Com. Code § 10308(c) (when retention is not fraudulent with respect to sale-leaseback transactions)]. However, no provision of Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.] impairs the rights of creditors of a lessor if the lease contract is made under circumstances which, under any statute or rule of law apart from that division, would render the transaction a fraudulent transfer or voidable preference [Com. Code § 10308(b); see, e.g., Civ. Code § 3439 et seq. (Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act)].

The lien provision found in Com. Code § 10306 also applies to creditors of lessors in relation to taking subject to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10307(b); see [1], above].

[4] Fixtures

[a] Commercial Code Rules

Com. Code § 10309 provides special treatment for priority determinations relating to "fixtures" [see Com. Code § 10309(c) (Division 10 does not prevent creation of lease of fixtures pursuant to real estate law)]. Goods are "fixtures" when they become so related to particular real estate that an interest in them arises under real estate law [Com. Code § 10309(a)(1); see Com. Code § 10309(b) (specifying that no lease exists under Division 10 for ordinary building materials incorporated into improvement on land)].

[b] Circumstances Under Which Lessor's Interest Takes Priority Over Encumbrancer or Owner

The interest of a lessor of fixtures takes priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real estate if one of the following conditions is met [Com. Code § 10309(d)]:

- The lease is a purchase money lease [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(3)], the conflicting interest of the encumbrancer or the owner arises before the goods become fixtures, a fixture filing [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(2)] covering the fixtures is filed before the goods become fixtures or within 20 days thereafter, and the lessee has a recorded interest in the real estate or is in possession of the real estate [Com. Code § 10309(d)(1)]; see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.211[2] (Financing Statement, Form UCC-1);
- A fixture filing [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(2)] covering the fixtures is filed before the interest of the encumbrancer or owner is recorded, the lessor's interest has priority over any conflicting interest of a predecessor in title of the encumbrancer or owner, and the lessee has a recorded interest in the real estate or is in possession of the real estate [Com. Code § 10309(d)(2)]; see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.211[2] (Financing Statement, Form UCC-1);
- The fixtures are readily removable factory or office machines, readily removable equipment that is not primarily used or leased for the operation of the real estate, or readily removable replacements of domestic appliances that are goods subject to a consumer lease [Com. Code § 10309(d)(3)];
- The conflicting interest is a lien on the real estate obtained by legal or equitable proceedings after the lease contract is enforceable [Com. Code § 10309(d)(4)];
- The encumbrancer or owner has consented in writing to the lease or has disclaimed an interest in the goods as fixtures [Com. Code § 10309(d)(5); see § 53.281]; or
- The lessee has a right to remove the goods as against the encumbrancer or owner. However, if the lessee's right to remove terminates, the priority of the interest of the lessor continues for a reasonable time [Com. Code § 10309(d)(6)].

Except for purchase money lease transactions [see Com. Code § 10309(d)(1)], but otherwise subject to the priority provisions of Com. Code § 10309(d)(2)-(5), the interest of a lessor of fixtures, including the lessor's residual interest, is subordinate to the conflicting interest of an encumbrancer [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(5) ("encumbrance" defined)] of the real estate under a construction mortgage [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(4) ("construction mortgage" defined)] recorded before the goods become fixtures, if the goods become fixtures before the completion of the construction [Com. Code § 10309(e)]. To the extent given to refinance a construction mortgage, the conflicting interest of an encumbrancer of the real estate under a mortgage has this priority to the same degree as the encumbrancer of the real estate under the construction mortgage [Com. Code § 10309(e)]. For a detailed discussion of the priority of mortgages, Ch. 25B, Subordination, Assumption, and Assignment, Part A.

[c] Lessor's or Lessee's Right to Remove Fixtures

If the interest of a lessor of fixtures, including the lessor's residual interest, has priority over all conflicting interests of all owners and encumbrancers of the real estate, the lessor or the lessee, on default, expiration, termination, or cancellation of the lease agreement, but subject to the lease agreement and Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600], may remove the goods from the real estate, free and clear from all conflicting interests of all owners and encumbrancers of the real estate. Further, if the lessor has this priority, a lessee or lessor may exercise this right of removal when necessary to enforce his or her other rights and remedies under Division 10 [Com. Code § 10309(g)].

However, the lessor or lessee must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the lessee and who has not otherwise agreed to the cost of repair of any physical injury, but not for any diminution in the value of the real estate caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them [Com. Code § 10309(g)]. A party entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove the goods until the party seeking removal gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation [Com. Code § 10309(g)].

[d] Priority in Other Cases

In cases not covered by the specific priority provisions of Com. Code § 10309(a)-(e), priority between the interest of a lessor of fixtures, including the lessor's residual interest, and the conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the lessee is determined by the priority rules governing conflicting interests in real estate [Com. Code § 10309(f); see, e.g., Civ. Code § 2898 (priority of mortgage or deed of trust)].

[5] Accessions

The Commercial Code provides specific rules of priority relating to goods that are deemed to be "accessions." Goods are "accessions" when they are installed in or affixed to other goods [Com. Code § 10310(a)]. With specified exceptions, the interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract entered into before the goods became accessions is superior to all interests in the whole [Com. Code § 10310(b); see Com. Code § 10310(d) (exceptions)]. With specified exceptions, the interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract entered into at the time or after the time the goods became accessions is superior to all subsequently acquired interests in the whole, but is subordinate to interests in the whole existing at the time the lease contract was made unless the holders of those interests in the whole have in writing consented to the lease or disclaimed an interest in the goods as part of the whole [Com. Code § 10310(c); see Com. Code § 10310(d) (exceptions)].

Under both types of transactions described above, the interest of a lessor or a lessee under a lease contract is subordinate to the interests of the following [Com. Code § 10310(d)]:

- A buyer in the ordinary course of business or a lessee in the ordinary course of business of any interest in the whole acquired after the goods became accessions; or
- A creditor with a security interest in the whole perfected before the lease contract was made to the extent that the creditor makes subsequent advances without knowledge of the lease contract.

If a lessor or a lessee of accessions holds an interest that is superior to all interests in the whole (as determined under Com. Code § 10310(b)-(d)), the lessor or the lessee may remove the goods from the whole, free and clear of all interests in the whole (1) on default, expiration, termination, or cancellation of the lease contract by the other party, but subject to the provisions of the lease contract and Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 10101-10600], or (2) if necessary to enforce his or her other rights and remedies under that division [Com. Code § 10310(e)]. However, he or she must reimburse any holder of an interest in the whole who is not the lessee and who has not otherwise agreed to the cost of repair of any physical injury, but not for any diminution in the value of the whole caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity of replacing them [Com. Code § 10310(c); see Com. Code § 10309(g) (removal rights)]. A party entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove the goods until the party seeking removal gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation [Com. Code § 10310(e)].

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.17

§ 53.17 Leased Property in Bankruptcy

The implications of the initiation of a bankruptcy proceeding by or against the lessee require special consideration. Subject to approval by the court, the bankruptcy trustee may assume or reject an unexpired personal property lease [11 U.S.C. § 365(a)]. The trustee may also assume and then assign the lease if adequate assurance of future performance by the assignee is provided [11 U.S.C. § 365(f)(2)].

Assumption obligates the trustee to perform under the terms of the lease [see 11 U.S.C. § 365(b)(1)]. Rejection constitutes a breach of the lease agreement, considered to have accrued immediately before the date of the filing of the petition [11 U.S.C. § 365(g)(1)]. Rejection places the lessor in the position of a creditor of the bankruptcy estate entitled to assert a claim for damages arising from the breach [11 U.S.C. § 502(g)(1)]. Nonetheless, actual recovery depends on the presence of assets for distribution in the bankruptcy estate.

If the debtor/lessee is in default at the time of the assumption, the trustee generally must cure the default or provide adequate assurance that the default will be cured, compensate the lessor for any actual pecuniary loss resulting from the default or provide adequate assurance of compensation, and provide adequate assurance of future performance [11 U.S.C. § 365(b)(1)]. The trustee generally does not have to cure a default that is a breach of a provision relating to the satisfaction of any provision (other than a penalty rate or penalty provision) relating to a default arising from any failure to perform nonmonetary obligations under an unexpired lease of real property, if it is impossible for the trustee to cure that default by performing nonmonetary acts at and after the time of assumption. However, if that default arises from a failure to operate in accordance with a nonresidential real property lease, then that default must be cured by performance at and after the time of assumption in accordance with that lease, and pecuniary losses resulting from that default must be compensated [11 U.S.C. § 365(b)(1)(A)].

The standard contract provision (often referred to as an ipso facto clause) that declares that the lessor may automatically consider the initiation of any bankruptcy proceeding an event of default entitling the lessor to terminate the lease is expressly invalid under the federal Bankruptcy Code [11 U.S.C. § 365(e)]. Thus the lessor should be made aware that, if the lessee files for relief under the federal Bankruptcy Code, there is a real possibility that the obligation to lease property will continue.

The lessor whose agreement is subject to possible assumption has a right to a clear determination of status. In a liquidation proceeding under Chapter 7, if the trustee does not make an election to assume or reject the lease agreement within 60 days of the order for relief, the lease is deemed rejected [11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(1)]. In a business reorganization or wage earner plan under Chapters 11 and 13, the trustee may assume an unexpired lease at any time before the confirmation of a plan, but the court, on the lessor's request, may order the trustee to determine within a specified period of time whether to assume or reject the lease [11 U.S.C. § 365(d)(2)].

A lease may be assumed pursuant to a reorganization plan that later proves unsuccessful and is converted to a liquidation proceeding. If the lease is subsequently rejected, the lease is deemed breached immediately before the conversion if the lease was assumed before the conversion, or at the time of the rejection if the lease was assumed after the conversion [11 U.S.C. § 365(g)(2)]. This rejection entitles the lessor to have damages treated as an administrative expense necessary to preserve the estate [11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1); see also Collier On Bankruptcy, Ch. 365 (Matthew Bender); Collier Bankruptcy Manual, Ch. 503 (Matthew Bender)].

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.18

§ 53.18 Federal Consumer Leasing Act

The federal Consumer Leasing Act ("Act") regulates specified transactions involving leases of personal property [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 1667-1667f]. "Personal property" means any property that is not real property under the laws of the state where the property is situated at the time offered or otherwise made available for lease [15 U.S.C. § 1667(4)]. The primary focus of the Act is to ensure that consumers receive meaningful disclosure of lease terms that enable them to compare lease terms with other leases, to limit the amount of balloon payments in consumer lease transactions, and to require accurate disclosure of lease terms in advertising [12 C.F.R. § 213.1(b)]. The Act applies to all leases of personal property ("consumer leases") in which all of the following are true [15 U.S.C. § 1667(1); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1)]:

- The lessee is a natural person and not an organization [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(k) (natural person does not include organization)];
- The property is to be used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes (leases for agricultural, business, or commercial purposes and leases to an organization are excluded) [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(2); see also 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(j) ("organization" defined)];
- The total contractual obligation does not exceed $25,000, whether or not the lessee has the option to purchase or otherwise become the owner of the property on the expiration of the lease; and
- The lease term exceeds four months.

Lease transactions that meet the definition of a credit sale found in Regulation Z are exempted from the provisions of the Act [12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(2); see 12 C.F.R. § 226.2(a)(16) ("credit sale" defined)]. The Act also does not apply to lease transactions of personal property that are incidental to the lease of real property and which provide that [12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(3)]:

- The lessee has no liability for the value of the property at the end of lease term except for abnormal wear and tear; and

- The lessee has no option to purchase the leased property.

An automobile lease is the most common type of consumer lease covered by the Act. However, furniture leases are also commonly covered [see § 53.260 (disclosure statement for furniture leases)]. Automobile leases and lease forms are covered in detail in Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

The Act preempts California law to the extent that any California law is inconsistent with the Act's provisions [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667e; 12 C.F.R. § 213.9]. The California Vehicle Leasing Act [see Civ. Code §§ 2985.7-2990] duplicates the coverage of the federal Act, as it applies to motor vehicle leases and services incidental to those leases, and requires further disclosures not inconsistent with the federal Act. For further discussion of the California Vehicle Leasing Act, refer to Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

The purposes of the federal Act are implemented through the use of disclosure documents [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667a; 12 C.F.R. § 213.3]. The Federal Reserve System has published several model disclosure forms that may be used for specific leasing transactions, including Model Open-End or Finance Vehicle Lease Disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-1], Model Closed-End or Net Vehicle Lease Disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-2], and Model Furniture Lease Disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-3]. Notwithstanding the use of the model disclosure forms, the required disclosures may be made in a lease contract to be signed by the lessee [15 U.S.C. § 1667a]. For further discussion of the specific disclosures required by the Act, see § 53.260 (furniture leases). For detailed discussion of vehicle leases, including coverage of open-end and closed-end vehicle lease clauses, see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.19

§ 53.19 Applicability of California Sales and Use Taxes to Personal Property Leasing

[1] In General

Leases of personal property have tax consequences under the California Sales and Use Tax Law [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.]. For state tax purposes, the term "lease" includes rental, hire, and license [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.3; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(a)]. "Lease" includes a contract under which a person secures for a consideration the temporary use of tangible personal property which, although not on the person's premises, is operated by, or under the direction and control of, the person or his or her employees [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6016-6016.5 ("tangible personal property" defined)].

"Lease" does not include a use of tangible personal property for a period of less than one day for a charge of less than $20 when the property may be used only at the premises or business location of the grantor of the use [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.3; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(a); see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(e)]. Furthermore, a transaction is regarded as a sale under a security agreement and not a lease if an agreement designated as a lease for a fixed term (1) allows the lessee, on completion of the required payment, to obtain title to the leased property at the conclusion of the lease term; or (2) gives the purported lessee the option to purchase the property for a nominal consideration on the conclusion of the term [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006.3; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(a)]. The option price is regarded as nominal if it does not exceed $100 or one percent of the total contract price, whichever is less [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(a)].

[2] Leases as "Sales" and "Purchases"

In general, a lease of tangible personal property is considered a taxable sale and purchase subject to taxation [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(b)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006(g) (sale), Rev. & Tax. Code § 6010(e) (purchase); see also Preston v. State Board of Equalization (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 197, 211, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407, 19 P. 3d 1148 (temporary transfers of tangible artwork determined to be taxable transfers of tangible property; because agreements transferred artwork for use in manufacturing process performed outside taxpayer's premises, they fell within statutory definition of taxable lease)]. However, leases of the following types of tangible personal property are specifically exempt from the application of sales and use taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6006(g), 6010(e)]:

- Motion pictures or animated motion pictures, including television, film, and tapes.
- Linen supplies and similar articles, when an essential part of the lease agreement is the furnishing of recurring laundering or cleaning the articles.
- Household furnishings, if leased with the living quarters in which they are to be used.
- Certain mobile transportation equipment, including qualified mobile homes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6023 ("mobile transportation equipment" defined); see Health & Safety Code §§ 18008, 18211 ("mobilehome" defined); see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(d)(8)].
- Tangible personal property leased in substantially the same form as acquired by the lessor or lessee in substantially the same form as acquired by a transferor, as to which the lessor or transferor had paid sales tax reimbursement or has paid use tax measured by the purchase price of the property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6006(g)(5) ("transferor" defined)].

Rentals or leases of video cassettes, video tapes, and video discs are considered sales and purchases for purposes of applying the sales and use taxes. This classification, however, is applicable only if these items are rented or leased for private use, and if the lessee or renter does not acquire the right to license, broadcast, exhibit, or reproduce the video cassette, video tape, or video disc [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6006(g)(7), 6010(e)(7); see also 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(d)(2)].

Effective for acquisition sale and leaseback arrangements executed on or after January 1, 1991 [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6010.65(c)], the terms "sale" and "purchase" do not include any transfer of title to, or any lease of, tangible personal property pursuant to an acquisition sale and leaseback. An "acquisition and leaseback" is a sale by a person and leaseback to that person of tangible personal property when (1) that person has paid sales tax reimbursement or use tax with respect to that person's purchase of the property and (2) the acquisition sale and leaseback is made within 90 days of that person's first functional use of the property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6010.65(a)].

[3] Applicable Tax

If a lease is deemed to be a taxable sale and purchase, the tax on the transaction is measured by the rentals payable. Generally, the applicable tax is a use tax on the use in California of the property by the lessee [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(c)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6201 (imposition and rate of use tax)]. The lessor must collect the tax from the lessee at the time the rentals are paid by the lessee under the lease and must give the lessee a receipt evidencing the payment [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6203; see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1686 (required form for receipt)]. The lessee is not relieved from the liability for the tax until given a receipt by the lessor or until the tax is paid to the state [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(c)(1)].

When the lessee is not subject to the use tax, the sales tax applies [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(c)(1); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051 (imposition and rate of sales tax); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 6390 (exemption from sales tax for rentals payable under personal property lease subject to use tax)]. The sales tax is levied on the lessor and is measured by the rentals payable [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(c)(1)]. Neither the sales tax nor the use tax applies to leases of property to the United States and its instrumentalities, unless federal law permits the tax [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(c)(1); see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1614 (Sales tax to United States and its instrumentalities)].

The rentals subject to the tax include any payments required by the lease, including amounts paid for personal property taxes on the leased property, whether assessed directly against the lessee or against the lessor. Amounts paid for the following, however, are excluded [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 1660(c)(1)(A)-(G)]:

- Collection costs, including attorneys' fees, court costs, repossession charges, and storage fees (but tax does apply to delinquent rental payments, including those collected by court action).
- Insuring, repairing, or refurbishing the leased property following a default.
- Costs incurred in defending a court action or paying a tort judgment arising out of the lessee's operation of the leased property, or any premiums paid on insurance policies covering these court actions or tort judgments.
- Costs incurred in disposing of the leased property at expiration or earlier termination of the lease.
- Late charges, including interest paid on those charges, for failing to make timely payment of the rentals.
- Separately stated optional insurance charges, maintenance or warranty contracts.
- Personal property taxes assessed against personal property when a bank or financial corporation is the lessor.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.20

§ 53.20 Federal Tax Consequences for Personal Property Leasing

[1] Potential Tax Benefits

Often persons who otherwise would have no interest in entering a personal property leasing transaction may do so for tax reasons. Frequently, a lessor is willing to transfer the property to the lessee without regard to its eventual return for future use, but would like to retain the tax benefits of cost recovery [see I.R.C. §§ 167, 168; see also [8], below]. The lessee may also benefit from allowing the lessor to retain nominal ownership of the property. For example, the lessee may value cost recovery less than the ability to take all payments as a deduction from income in the year expended or accrued [see I.R.C. § 162(a)(3); see also [2], below]. In exchange for the retained tax benefits, the lessor may be willing to lower the cost of the property or to transfer possession without a down payment. By leasing rather than purchasing the property, the lessee may also be able to show less debt obligation for accounting purposes.

Notwithstanding the parties' attempt to create a valid leasing arrangement, the Internal Revenue Service may treat the transaction as a sale for tax purposes. In this case, the lessor will be deemed to be the seller and the lessee the purchaser of the property. For discussion of the tax consequences of leasing transactions treated as sales, see [11], below.

[2] Effect on Gross Income

The inclusion of lease payments in the gross income of the lessor is expressly provided by statute. "Gross income" means all income from whatever source derived, including gains derived from dealing in property and rents [I.R.C. § 61(a)(3), (5)]. Generally, lease payments are taxable to a cash basis lessor on receipt and to an accrual basis lessor at the time of accrual or on receipt, whichever first occurs [Commissioner of Internal Revenue v. Lyon (9th Cir. [T.C.] 1938) 97 F.2d 70, 73 ; Hyde Park Realty v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (2d Cir. [B.T.A.] 1954) 211 F.2d 462, 463] . However, a lessor must treat advance rent payments received and any payment received from the lessee in consideration for the lessor's cancellation of the lease as income for the year in which those payments are received, regardless of what accounting method the lessor uses [Treas. Reg. § 1.61-8(b)].

The lessee may take a deduction from current income for rentals or other payments required to be made as a condition to continued use or possession, for the purposes of the trade or business, of property to which the taxpayer has not taken or is not taking title, or in which the taxpayer has no equity [I.R.C. § 162(a)(3); Alden B. Oakes v. Commissioner (1965) 44 T.C. 524, 530-532]. The lessee must deduct advance rent payments in the taxable year to which they apply, regardless of the lessee's accounting method. Thus the lessee must amortize the advance payments over the term of the lease and may only deduct payments attributable to the lessee's current taxable year in that year [Rev. Rul. 55-540, § 6.01, 1955-2 C.B. 39; Norman Baker Smith v. Commissioner (1968) 51 T.C. 429, 440]. Payments that are in fact installments of a purchase price are not deductible except through depreciation or cost recovery even though they are designated as rent by the parties [Norman Baker Smith v. Commissioner (1968) 51 T.C. 429, 438-439; see Rev. Rul. 55-540, § 6.02, 1955-2 C.B. 39].

[3] Payment of Lessor's Expenses by Lessee

Rental agreements often contain a provision requiring the lessee to pay taxes, insurance premiums, and similar costs to or for the benefit of the lessor [see, e.g., § 53.200[2]]. The lessee can deduct these rent-related expenses [Treas. Reg. § 1.162-11(a); see Rev. Rul. 64-327, 1964-2 C.B. 56], provided that the lessee uses the property in a trade or business or holds it for the production of income [I.R.C. §§ 162, 212]. Taxes paid by the lessee for the benefit of the lessor are taxable as rental income to the lessor, who is also permitted a deduction for the payments if they would constitute deductible items if paid directly by the lessor [Treas. Reg. § 1.162-11(a); see Old Colony Trust Co. v. Commissioner (1929) 279 U.S. 716, 729].

When property taxes are imposed on the owner of property, the year of deduction for the lessee is controlled by the terms of the lease rather than the time the owner becomes liable for the tax. However, if the lease provides that the lessee must pay taxes "charged, laid, levied or assessed during the term of the lease when due," an accrual basis lessee must take a business expense deduction only in the year the taxes become payable by the lessor, not in an earlier year when the lessor's liability becomes fixed [Consolidated-Hammer Dry Plate & Film Co. (1967) 49 T.C. 153, 169-171, aff'd, 409 F.2d 1077 (7th Cir. [T.C.] 1969)]. The lessor may deduct personal property taxes in the year when paid or accrued under the lessor's accounting method [I.R.C. § 164(a)(2)].

[4] Restoration of Property by Lessee

The lessee may be permitted a deduction from income for expenses incurred for the restoration of property at the termination of the lease. Likewise, the lessee may deduct any payments made to the lessor in lieu of restoration [Frank & Seder Co. v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (3d Cir. [B.T.A.] 1930) 44 F.2d 147, 149; Atlantic Coastline R.R. Co. v. Commissioner, 31 B.T.A. 730, 739-740, aff'd, 81 F.2d 309 (4th Cir. [B.T.A.] 1936)].

[5] Repair and Maintenance Expense Paid by Lessee

The lessee may deduct from current income any expenses that the lessee has paid for repairs and replacement. Deductions are also allowable for recurring purchases of replacement assets with a relatively short life, provided these replacements are required by the lease [Manger Hotel Corp. v. Commissioner (1948) 10 T.C. 520, 522-523; see Hotel Kingkade v. Commissioner (1949) 12 T.C. 561, 564-565, aff'd, 180 F.2d 310 (10th Cir. [T.C.] 1950)]. Likewise, payments incident to a lease obligation to replace machinery and equipment are currently deductible even though additional acquisitions must be capitalized by the lessee [Journal-Tribune Pub. Co. v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (8th Cir. [T.C.] 1954) 216 F.2d 138, 141-143].

[6] Payments by Lessee for Improvements to Lessor's Property

The cost to a lessee of making permanent improvements on property of the lessor is a capital investment and is not deductible as a business expense [Treas. Reg. § 1.162-11(b)]. In determining the amount allowable to a lessee for any taxable year for amortization under I.R.C. §§ 167 and 179 (deduction for depreciation; election to expense certain depreciable business assets) with respect to any cost of acquiring the lease, the term of the lease is treated as including all renewal options (and any other period for which the parties reasonably expect the lease to be renewed) if less than 75 percent of that cost is attributable to the term of the lease remaining on the date the lease is acquired [I.R.C. § 178(a)].

Any period for which the lease may subsequently be renewed, extended, or continued pursuant to an option exercisable by the lessee is excluded from the calculation of the duration of the term of the lease remaining on the date of acquisition [I.R.C. § 178(b)].

[7] At-Risk Limitation on Losses

In the case of individuals and personal holding companies (i.e., corporations in which more than one half of the stock is owned by five or fewer individuals [see I.R.C. § 542(a)(2) (definition)]), the allowable income tax deduction for losses from certain activities is limited to the degree to which the taxpayer is "at-risk" in the activity [I.R.C. § 465(a)(1)]. Under this limitation, a taxpayer may only deduct losses from an activity equal to the amount of money and adjusted basis of other property contributed to the activity, and the amount borrowed for use in the activity which the taxpayer is personally liable to repay [I.R.C. § 465(b)]. Amounts borrowed from any person who has an interest in the activity (other than a shareholder of the borrowing corporation or a creditor) or from a related person having such an interest are not considered to be at risk [I.R.C. § 465(b)(3)].

The at-risk limitation specifically applies to the leasing of any personal property and to certain other property subject to the allowance for depreciation [I.R.C. § 465(c)(1)(C) (at-risk limitation applies to leasing Section 1245 property); see I.R.C. § 1245(a)(3) ("Section 1245 property" defined)]. Thus to the extent that a covered taxpayer's loss (the excess of allowable deductions over income) from equipment leasing for any taxable year exceeds the taxpayer's amount at risk in equipment leasing, no loss deduction will be allowed [see I.R.C. § 465(a)].

Personal holding companies actively engaged in equipment leasing are not subject to the at-risk limitation with respect to their equipment leasing losses [I.R.C. § 465(c)(4)(A)]. A personal holding company is considered to be actively engaged in equipment leasing if 50 percent or more of its gross receipts for the taxable year are attributable to equipment leasing [I.R.C. § 465(c)(4)(B)].

[8] Cost Recovery or Depreciation of Property

[a] In General

The owner of property used in a trade or business or held for the production of income is entitled to a deduction for the depreciation in value from the exhaustion and wear and tear of the property [I.R.C. § 167(a)]. The lessor of property, as its owner, is generally entitled to take this deduction. However, if the lease requires the lessee to maintain the property and return it at the end of the term, the question arises whether the lessor has really suffered any economic loss from exhaustion or wear and tear. The Internal Revenue Service has recognized that a lessor may be entitled to some depreciation on leased property even though the lessee has agreed to preserve, replace, renew, and maintain the property so that at the termination of the lease the property is in at least as good condition as at its beginning. Nonetheless, no depreciation is allowable if the lessee's obligation is to "return property or its equivalent in value" to the lessor [Rev. Rul. 62-8, 1962-1 C.B. 31].

An attorney handling a lease transaction should understand the following basic rules relating to depreciation of property. For a detailed discussion of this topic, see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 45, Depreciation (Matthew Bender).

[b] Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS) for Post-1986 Property

When the lease transaction involves property placed in service after December 31, 1986 (or, by the taxpayer's election, after July 31, 1986), the depreciation deduction for tangible personal property is determined by the Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS) [Pub. L. No. 99-514, § 203(a)(1)(A); see I.R.C. § 168]. MACRS mandates a three-step process. To determine the allowable depreciation deduction under MACRS for a given asset, the taxpayer must apply the applicable recovery period, the applicable depreciation method, and the applicable convention [

I.R.C. § 168(a)].

The recovery period applicable to an asset depends on the class to which the asset belongs. MACRS assigns property to one of several classes, based on the property's "class life" [I.R.C. § 168(e); see I.R.C. § 168(i)(1) ("class life" defined)]. In most cases, the name of the class reflects the applicable recovery period [see I.R.C. § 168(c)]: 3-year property, 5-year property, 7-year property, 10-year property, 15-year property, 20-year property, residential rental property (27.5 years), nonresidential real property (39 years), and railroad gradings and tunnel bores (50 years). Certain specified kinds of property, however, are assigned to a class without regard to their class lives [see I.R.C. § 168(e)(3)]. Race horses that are two years old or younger, for example, are assigned a 3-year class life [see I.R.C. § 168(e)(3)]. The class to which an asset belongs determines the applicable depreciation method and the applicable convention to be used in computing the depreciation deduction.

For most classes of personal property, the applicable method is the 200 percent declining-balance method, switching to the straight-line method when that will yield a larger allowance [I.R.C. § 168(b)(1)]. For 15-year property, 20-year property, property used in farming, and property for which the taxpayer has so elected, the 150 percent declining balance method is used [I.R.C. § 168(b)(2)]. The straight-line method is applicable to nonresidential real property, residential rental property, any railroad grading or tunnel bore, property for which the taxpayer elects the application of that method, certain nut- and fruit-bearing plants, and water utility property, including any municipal sewer [I.R.C. § 168(b)(3)].

The applicable convention for most personal property is the half-year convention [I.R.C. § 168(d)(1)]. The half-year convention treats all property placed in service during any taxable year as placed in service at the midpoint of that year [I.R.C. § 168(d)(4)(A)]. Special rules apply, which reduce the depreciation allowed, when substantial property is placed in service during the last three months of the taxable year [see I.R.C. § 168(d)(3)].

MACRS does not apply to certain kinds of property. The system does not apply to any property if the taxpayer elects to exclude that property from its application and certain conditions are met [I.R.C. § 168(f)(1)]. In addition, MACRS does not apply to certain public utility property, films, videotapes, sound recordings, and certain property placed in service in churning transactions [I.R.C. § 168(f)(2)-(5)].

[c] Alternative Depreciation System (ADS) for Certain Types of Property

An alternative depreciation system (ADS) is mandated for tangible property used predominantly outside the United States, certain property leased to tax-exempt entities [see I.R.C. § 168(h)(1) ("tax-exempt use property" defined)], tax-exempt bond financed property, certain imported property, and for property for which the taxpayer elects to apply the alternative system [I.R.C. § 168(g)(1)]. This system uses the straight-line method, and applies different periods and conventions from those applicable under MACRS [see I.R.C. § 168(g)(2)]. The election to use ADS is irrevocable [see I.R.C. § 168(g)(1)(E), (7)(B)].

[d] Additional First Year Depreciation Deduction

An additional first-year depreciation deduction is available for qualified property acquired after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010 [I.R.C. § 168(k)(1), (2)(A)(iii)]. The additional deduction is equal to 50 percent of the property's adjusted basis [I.R.C. § 168(k)(1)(A)]. The additional depreciation deduction is allowed for both regular tax and alternative minimum tax purposes for the taxable year in which the property is placed in service [I.R.C. § 168(k)(1)(A), (2)(G)]. The basis of the property and the depreciation allowances in the year of purchase and later years must be appropriately adjusted to reflect the additional first-year depreciation deduction [I.R.C. § 168(k)(1)(B)]. A taxpayer may elect not to have the additional first-year depreciation apply with respect to any class of property for any taxable year [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(D)(iii); see Rev. Proc. 2002-33, 2002-1 C.B. 963 (explanation of how to make an election not to deduct additional first-year depreciation); see also I.R.C. § 168(k)(4) (election to accelerate the AMT and research credits in lieu of bonus first year depreciation)]. Depreciable property qualifies for the additional first-year depreciation deduction only if the property is one of the following [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(A)(i)]:

- Property with a recovery period of 20 years or less [see I.R.C. § 168(c)];
- Water utility property [see I.R.C. § 168(e)(5)];
- Computer software (as defined in I.R.C. § 167(f)(1)(B), for which a deduction is allowable under I.R.C. § 167(a), without regard to this subsection);
- Certain aircraft; or
- Qualified leasehold improvement property.

Qualified leasehold improvement property includes an improvement to an interior portion of a building that is nonresidential real property if the following requirements are met [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(A)(i)(IV), (3)(A)]:

- The improvement is made under or pursuant to a lease between unrelated persons by either the lessee or the lessor;
- That portion is to be occupied exclusively by the lessee (or sublessee) of that portion; and
- The improvement is placed in service more than 3 years after the date the building was first placed in service.

Certain improvements cannot qualify as qualified leasehold improvement property, including expenditures attributable to the enlargement of a building, any elevator or escalator, any structural component benefiting a common area, or the internal structural framework of the building [I.R.C. § 168(k)(3)(B)].

In order to be qualified property, the original use of the property generally must commence with the taxpayer after December 31, 2007 [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(A)(ii)]. A special rule applies in the case of certain leased property. In the case of any property that is originally placed in service by a person and that is sold to the taxpayer and leased back to that person by the taxpayer within three months after the date that the property was placed in service, the property is treated as originally placed in service by the taxpayer not earlier than the date that the property is used under the leaseback [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(E)(ii)].

In addition, property qualifies for the additional first-year deduction only if the taxpayer purchases (or begins construction of) the property (1) after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010, if no written binding contract for the acquisition was in effect before January 1, 2008, or (2) pursuant to a written binding contract entered into after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010 [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(A)(iii)]. In either case, the property must be placed in service by the taxpayer before January 1, 2009, or, in the case of certain property described I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(B), (C) before January 1, 2011 [I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(A)(iv)].

[e] Bonus Depreciation for Qualified Disaster Property

There is a bonus 50 percent depreciation deduction available to "qualified disaster assistance property" [I.R.C. § 168(n)(1)]. "Qualified disaster assistance property" is any property described in I.R.C. § 168(k)(2)(A)(i) [see [d], above] or nonresidential real property or residential rental property in a disaster area with respect to a federally declared disaster occurring before January 1, 2010 [I.R.C. § 168(n)(2)(A)(i)-(ii)]. To qualify, the property must (1) be used by the taxpayer in an active trade or business, (2) rehabilitate property damaged, or replace property destroyed or condemned, as a result of the federally declared disaster, and (3) meet other specified qualifications [see I.R.C. § 168(n)(2)(A)(iv)-(vi); see also I.R.C. § 168(n)(2)(B) (exceptions)].

[f] Treatment of Pre-1987 Property

For property placed in service after December 31, 1980 and before January 1, 1987, the depreciation deduction is governed by the Accelerated Cost Recovery System (ACRS) [see former I.R.C. § 168]. ACRS operates in essentially the same manner as MACRS, but recovery property is allocated into fewer classes [see former I.R.C. § 168(b)] and the property is depreciated by an accelerated formula [see former I.R.C. § 168(b)(1)] or by the straight-line method [see former I.R.C. § 168(b)(3)]. ACRS generally employs the half-year convention for personal property [see former I.R.C. § 168(d)].

Under transitional rules, certain types of property placed in service after 1986 are subject to ACRS rather than MACRS [see Pub. L. No. 99-514, § 203(b)]. The changes brought about by MACRS have no effect on transactions occurring before its enactment [Pub. L. No. 101-508, § 11821(b)].

Any property placed in service by a taxpayer before 1981 is not recovery property and cannot be depreciated under ACRS or MACRS [see former I.R.C. § 168(c)(1)]. The cost of that property is recovered over the useful life of the property, using one of several acceptable depreciation methods [Pub. L. No. 101-508, § 11812(c)(2), (3); see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.167(b)-0-1.167(b)-4 (depreciation methods for other than ACRS/MACRS property)].

[9] Investment Tax Credit

The investment tax credit is calculated to determine the amount of the general business tax credit allowed for any taxable year [see I.R.C. § 38]. The credit may apply to some personal property transactions. For example, the investment credit includes the credit for energy property [I.R.C. § 48(a)]. "Energy property" means, among other categories, depreciable equipment that uses solar or geothermal energy [I.R.C. § 48(a)(3)]. The energy credit for any taxable year is the energy percentage of the basis of each energy property placed in service during the taxable year [I.R.C. § 48(a)(1); see I.R.C. § 48(d)(1)(B), (2)(B), (3)(B), (4)(B) (exceptions)]. With respect to investments in personal property qualifying as energy property, the energy percentage varies, depending on the type of energy property [see I.R.C. § 48(a)(2)(A)].

In addition to the energy credit, the amount of the investment credit determined under I.R.C. § 46 for any taxable year is the sum of [I.R.C. § 46]:

- The rehabilitation credit.
- The qualifying advanced coal project credit.
- The qualifying gasification project credit.
- The qualifying advanced energy project credit.

Under former law, whether the investment tax credit could (and should) be taken by the lessee, rather than the lessor [see former I.R.C. § 48(d); Treas. Reg. § 1.48-4], or under what circumstances the investment tax credit was available to noncorporate lessors [see former I.R.C. § 46(e)(3)] were important considerations in drafting personal property leases. However, investment tax credit considerations relating to preexisting categories arise now, if at all, only as tax reporting issues (as investment tax credit carryforwards, for example), not as preliminary determinations to drafting a lease or as drafting issues. For a detailed discussion of the application of investment tax credit rules under former law, see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 45A, Investment Tax Credit (Matthew Bender).

[10] Minimum Tax for Tax Preference Items[a] Nature and Importance of Alternative Minimum Tax

An alternative minimum tax is imposed on both corporate and noncorporate taxpayers [I.R.C. §§ 55-59A]. This taxing mechanism can represent a significant burden on the taxpayer, although its impact is somewhat mitigated by allowance of a related credit. A taxpayer having a minimum tax liability that exceeds the regular tax liability may carry forward the excess (or part of it, depending on whether the taxpayer had exclusion preferences such as tax-exempt interest income [see I.R.C. § 57 (items of tax preference)]) as a credit in a subsequent year when the taxpayer's regular tax liability exceeds the minimum tax liability [see I.R.C. § 53].

Alternative minimum tax considerations are important in drafting a lease because a portion of the taxpayer's (either the lessor's or lessee's) deduction for accelerated depreciation, which serves to reduce the taxpayer's regular taxable income, is added back into income in calculating any alternative minimum tax liability. Thus, a basic understanding of the alternative minimum tax is important for any attorney drafting personal property leases. However, tax computations and tax planning become quite complex when the alternative minimum tax is involved. What follows is a brief sketch of the rules, designed to alert the attorney to the existence of the alternative minimum tax, in cases in which counsel's clients have unusually large deductions or exclusions. For a detailed discussion of the alternative minimum tax, see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 1, The Individual, and Ch. 2, The Corporation (Matthew Bender).

[b] Computation of Tax

The alternative tax is based on the taxpayer's "alternative minimum taxable income" (AMTI), which is the regular taxable income (1) adjusted by inclusion and exclusion of various items [see I.R.C. §§ 56, 58] and (2) increased by "items of tax preference" [I.R.C. § 55(b)(2); see I.R.C. §§ 57 (items of tax preference), 59(h) (coordination with limitations in I.R.C. §§ 465, 704(d), 1366(d), concerning at-risk limitation on deductions, partner's share of losses, and losses deductible by shareholder of S corporation)].

Adjustments in computing alternative minimum taxable income for all taxpayers relate to [I.R.C. § 56(a)]:

- Depreciation on property placed in service after 1986.
- Mining exploration and development costs paid or incurred after 1986 [see I.R.C. § 59(e) (election for 10-year write-off)].
- Long-term contracts entered into on or after March 1, 1986.
- Alternative net operating loss deduction [see I.R.C. § 56(d) (definition)].
- Pollution control facilities placed in service after 1986.

Additional adjustments for individuals relate to itemized deductions (certain deductions are more limited than in the case of computing regular tax liability, or are not allowed), circulation, research, and experimental expenditures, and incentive stock options [see I.R.C. § 56(b); see also I.R.C. § 59(e) (election for three-year or 10-year write-off of circulation or research and experimental expenditures)].

The alternative minimum taxable income of any corporation must be increased by 75 percent of the excess of the corporation's adjusted current earnings over its alternative minimum taxable income, determined without regard to this requirement or the alternative tax net operating loss deduction [I.R.C. § 56(g); Pub. L. No. 101-508, § 11801(c)(2)(B), 104 Stat. 1388-523; see I.R.C. § 56(d) (alternative tax net operating loss deduction)]. This requirement replaced the former "book income adjustment," which applied for tax years that began in 1987, 1988, or 1989 [see former I.R.C. § 56(c)(1)(A), (f)]. Although the book income adjustment provisions have been repealed, the former rules apply to any transaction occurring before the effective date of the repeal if that transaction affected tax liability for periods after the enactment date [Pub. L. No. 101-508, § 11821(b), 104 Stat. 1388-558].

In addition, income eligible for the "United States possessions" tax credit [see I.R.C. § 936 (credit for tax due on portion of income earned in Puerto Rico and possessions of United States)] may be excluded in the calculation of a corporation's AMTI [I.R.C. § 59(b)].

There are additional adjustments relating to a noncorporate taxpayer's losses from tax-shelter farm activities and any taxpayer's other passive-activity losses [see I.R.C. § 469], with special rules relating to losses by insolvent taxpayers or disposition of a tax-shelter farm activity [see I.R.C. § 58].

Items of tax preference relate to depletion allowances, intangible drilling costs [see I.R.C. § 59(e) (election for 10-year write-off)], tax-exempt interest, accelerated depreciation or amortization on certain property placed in service before 1987, and exclusion for gains on sale of certain small business stock under I.R.C. § 1202 [see I.R.C. § 57(a)].

After the adjustments and increases for items of tax preference, the AMTI is reduced by an exemption allowance; then the "tentative minimum tax" is calculated as 20 percent (or for most noncorporate taxpayers, 26 percent of taxable income not exceeding $175,000, plus 28 percent of taxable income exceeding $175,000) of the AMTI thus reduced, minus the "alternative minimum tax foreign tax credit" for the taxable year [see I.R.C. §§ 55(a), (b)(1), 59(a)]. If the tentative minimum tax exceeds the regular tax [see I.R.C. § 55(c) (definition)], the taxpayer owes the excess, in addition to the regular tax [I.R.C. § 55(a)].

[c] Threshold Amounts for Application of Tax

Noncorporate and corporate taxpayers are exempt from the alternative minimum tax if the total of the adjustments and increases is less than a specified threshold amount. The threshold amount depends on filing status and taxable income. The alternative minimum tax exemption changes each year [see I.R.C. § 55(d)(1), (3) (noncorporate taxpayers); I.R.C. § 55(d)(2), (3), (e) (corporations)].

[11] Leases Treated as Sales

The Internal Revenue Service may treat a leasing transaction as a sale for tax purposes. In this case, the lessor will be deemed to be the seller and the lessee the purchaser of the property. The seller will lose the right to cost recovery and will most likely have taxable gain resulting from the sale. The purchaser will be able to deduct "lease" payments only to the extent that the payments can be characterized as interest in the year they were made [Rev. Rul. 72-408, 1972-2 C.B. 86].

There is no single statute, regulation, ruling, procedure, or decision that clearly defines when a lease is truly a sale. However, even though each transaction turns on its own facts and circumstances, court cases and revenue rulings reveal some guidelines. The form of a transaction will not be disregarded solely because it bestows favorable tax benefits on the parties [Frank Lyon Co. v. United States (1978) 435 U.S. 561, 580, 98 S. Ct. 1291, 55 L. Ed. 2d 550 ; see Peat Oil & Gas Assocs. v. Commissioner, (1993) 100 T.C. 271, 283 (leveraged equipment leasing transactions require only nominal profit objective); Rev. Proc. 75-21]. However, to be treated as a lease, the transaction must have a bona fide business purpose, defined as a reasonable expectation of profits by the lessor apart from the tax benefits, and the lessor must retain substantial burdens and benefits of ownership [Carol W. Hilton v. Commissioner (1980) 74 T.C. 305, 364 , aff'd, 671 F.2d 316 (9th Cir. 1982) ; Rev. Rul. 55-540, 1955-2 C.B. 39 (collecting cases)].

The Internal Revenue Service will use the following factors in determining whether a lease will be treated as a sale for tax purposes [Rev. Rul. 55-540 , § 4.01, 1955-2 C.B. 39]:

- Whether portions of the periodic payments are made specifically applicable to an equity to be acquired by the lessee;
- Whether the lessee will acquire title on the payment of a stated amount of "rentals" required under the contract;
- Whether the total amount that the lessee is required to pay for a relatively short period of use constitutes an inordinately large portion of the total sum required to be paid to secure the transfer of title;
- Whether the agreed "rental" payments materially exceed the current fair rental value, indicating that the payments include an element other than compensation for the use of the property;
- Whether the property may be acquired under a purchase option at a price that is nominal in relation to the value of the property at the time when the option may be exercised, as determined at the time of entering into the original agreement, or which is a relatively small amount when compared with the total payments that are required to be made; and
- Whether some portion of the periodic payments is specifically designated as interest or is otherwise readily recognizable as the equivalent of interest.

The fact that the lease agreement makes no provision for the transfer of title or specifically precludes the transfer of title does not, of itself, prevent the contract from being held to be a sale of an equitable interest in the property. Nor is the recording of or the failure to record the agreement controlling insofar as the essential nature of the contract is concerned for federal tax purposes [Rev. Rul. 55-540 , § 4.02, 1955-2 C.B. 39].

If the attempted lease transaction is treated as a sale, that sale will be deemed to have occurred when the lessee/purchaser takes possession of the goods. The time of taking possession will be used to determine the lessor/seller's holding period of the property for capital gains, recapture, and other purposes. The amounts received by the lessor/seller will be considered to be payments on the sale price to the extent that the payments are not interest or other charges. These payments will likely result in taxable gain to the lessor/seller [Rev. Rul. 72-408, 1972-2 C.B. 86].

In addition, the lessee/purchaser will acquire the lessor/seller's rights to claim depreciation on the goods. To the extent the investment tax credit is applicable [see § 9], above], the lessee/purchaser may take the credit on qualification. The lessee/purchaser will not be entitled to a deduction for the rent expense, but may deduct the portion of the payment that represents interest [Rev. Rul. 72-408, 1972-2 C.B. 86].

[12] Factors Considered in Making Determination of Valid Leveraged Leases

A leveraged lease is a three-party transaction in which the lessor borrows from a lender to acquire the property leased to the lessee [see § 53.10[5]]. The Internal Revenue Service has issued revenue procedures that parties to a leveraged lease may use to obtain an advance ruling regarding tax treatment of the lease [see Rev. Proc. 75-28, 1975-1 C.B. 752]. The IRS will consider the lessor to be the owner of the property and the transaction a valid lease if all of the following conditions are met [Rev. Proc. 75-21, 1975-1 C.B. 715]:

- The lessor must have a minimum, unconditional at-risk investment of 20 percent of the cost of the property at the beginning of the lease, at all times during the term of the lease, and at the end of the lease.

The minimum investment must be an equity investment which includes only consideration paid and personal liability incurred by the lessor to purchase the property. The net worth of the lessor must be sufficient to satisfy any such personal liability;

- The lessee must not have a right to purchase the property at a price less than the fair market value of the property when the purchase right is exercised, nor may the lessor be able to compel the purchase of the property by the lessee or any other party;
- The lessee may not provide any part of the cost of the property or any part of the cost of any improvements or additions to the property, unless the improvements are readily removable without material damage to the property and are not subject to a purchase option or contract between the lessor and lessee at a price other than their fair market value;
- The lessee may not lend to the lessor any of the funds necessary to acquire the property or guarantee any of the lessor's indebtedness created in acquisition of the property;
- The lessor must demonstrate to the IRS that the lessor expects to realize a profit from the lease aside from the tax benefits resulting by virtue of the lease. This requirement is met if the aggregate amount required to be paid by the lessee to or for the lessor over the lease term plus the value of the residual investment exceeds an amount equal to the sum of the aggregate disbursements required to be paid by or for the lessor in connection with the ownership of the property and the lessor's equity investment in the property; and
- Subject to certain general guidelines, uneven rental payments resulting in prepaid or deferred rent will not prejudice the transaction.

The IRS will not issue an advance ruling if the property is "limited use property." Limited use property is property for which there probably will be no potential buyers or lessees, other than the current lessee, at the end of the lease term [see Rev. Proc. 76-30, 1976-2 C.B. 647].

If the parties stay within the above guidelines, the IRS will treat the transaction as a lease for tax purposes, unless other facts and circumstances indicate a contrary intent. Failure to satisfy these guidelines, however, will not automatically disqualify the transaction as a lease, if all the facts and circumstances of the case indicate that the transaction is indeed a lease.

DIVISION III: COMMERCIAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.21

§ 53.21 Income Tax Qualification of Equipment Sale and Leaseback

[1] In General

An arrangement in sale and leaseback form will be honored, for income tax purposes, when it is a genuine two-party transaction with economic substance that is compelled or encouraged by business or regulatory realities, is imbued with tax-independent considerations, and is not shaped solely by tax-avoidance features that have meaningless labels attached [Frank Lyon Co. v. United States (1978) 435 U.S. 561, 583-584, 98 S. Ct. 1291, 55 L. Ed. 2d 550 ; Rev. Rul. 83-47, 1983-1 C.B. 63 ; see Rev. Rul. 72-543, 1972-2 C.B. 87 (shipping corporation sold vessel under purported sale and leaseback arrangement to unrelated corporation, and beneficial ownership remained in seller while buyer held legal title, but substance of transaction when viewed in its entirety was financing arrangement, not sale and leaseback)]. The fact that equipment is sold and leased back by the seller does not of itself bar the sale from being closed for tax purposes [see, e.g., Emershaw v. Commissioner (1990) 59 T.C.M. 621, T.C. Memo. 1990-246 , aff'd, 949 F.2d 841 (6th Cir. 1991) (computer equipment was sold and leased back to seller, subject to existing end-user leases); see also May Department Stores Co. v. Commissioner (1951) 16 T.C. 547 (department store was sold and leased back for 20 years without renewal privilege); Standard Envelope Mfg. Co. v. Commissioner (1950) 15 T.C. 41 , acq., 1950-2 C.B. 4 (manufacturing plant was sold and leased back for 25 years)].

Whether a transaction is a tax-qualified sale and leaseback depends, first and mainly, on the existence of a sale. Whether the purported sale is actually a sale (as opposed to either a lease or a mere financing arrangement) will depend on whether the benefits and burdens of ownership have passed to the purported buyer [Larsen v. Commissioner (1987) 89 T.C. 1229 , aff'd sub nom. Casebeer v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1990) 909 F.2d 1360] . The Tax Court uses eight factors to determine whether the benefits and burdens of ownership have passed in a transaction, along with four additional factors to test the validity of the leaseback [see § 53.118]. Some of those factors are discussed in [2]-[6], below.

If the transaction is tax-qualified, the seller will have the tax status of a lessee, and the buyer will have the tax status of a lessor. For discussion of the income tax consequences for the parties, see § 53.20.

[2] Economic Substance in Transaction

A sale and leaseback transaction must have economic substance to have the intended tax effect [Frank Lyon Co. v.

United States (1978) 435 U.S. 561, 583-584, 98 S. Ct. 1291, 55 L. Ed. 2d 550] . The following example illustrates a situation in which the economic substance test was found to have been satisfied.

EXAMPLE:

Taxpayers bought solar water heating systems with cash payments of 20 percent of the price, along with recourse and nonrecourse notes. They leased the equipment to a third party under a seven-year lease and held an option to require the lessee to buy the equipment at the end of the seven-year term, for a price equal to the amount of their outstanding debt owed to the seller. The seller and the lessee had common officers, and the seller unconditionally guaranteed the lessee's performance under the lease. The Tax Court held that the fact that the lease was part of a package containing tax benefits and other contractual rights did not preclude a finding that a lease existed, as long as there were substantial nontax interests. Despite the put option, the taxpayers retained rights to the equipment and, at the end of the lease term, might have leased it again or used it in any other way. Moreover, the taxpayers expected energy prices to rise during the lease term, so that the taxpayers would get higher rentals after the equipment was returned to them [Cooper v. Commissioner (1987) 88 T.C. 84] .

The cases also provide numerous examples of transactions that failed the economic-substance test [see, e.g., Roth v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1963) 321 F.2d 607, 608-609 ; Hilton v. Commissioner (1980) 74 T.C. 305 , aff'd, 671 F.2d 316 (9th Cir. 1982) , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 907 ; Perrett v. Commissioner (1980) 74 T.C. 111 , aff'd mem., 679 F.2d 900 (9th Cir. 1982) ; Erhard v. Commissioner (1991) 62 T.C.M. 1, T.C. Memo. 1991-290 , supplemental opinion, 64 T.C.M. 10, T.C. Memo. 1992-376 , supplemental opinion, 65 T.C.M. 1786, T.C. Memo. 1993-25 , aff'd, 46 F.3d 1470 (9th Cir. 1995) ; Howard v. Commissioner (1988) 56 T.C.M. 669, T.C. Memo. 1988-531 , aff'd, 931 F.2d 578 (9th Cir. 1991)] .

[3] Factors Indicating Economic Substance

[a] Price and Fair Market Value

A sale and leaseback transaction may be considered as having economic substance if the sale price approximates the fair market value at the time of the sale [Mukerji v. Commissioner (1986) 87 T.C. 926] .

EXAMPLE:

In a sale and leaseback of solar water heaters, which had economic substance even though it was promoted as a tax shelter, the buyer/lessor paid approximately at the middle of the range of prices for other solar water heaters that were being sold directly to homeowners at retail. Factors demonstrating that the buyer/lessor's deal had genuine economic effects, and was not a sham, were that the buyer/lessor's personal obligation to pay the price was genuine, he paid fair market value, the tax benefits would have existed for someone, either the buyer/lessor or the seller/lessee, so the transaction shifted them but did not create them from thin air, the business of putting solar water heaters on homeowners' roofs was genuine, and the business consequences of a rise or fall in energy prices and solar energy devices were genuinely shifted to the buyer/lessor by the transaction [Sacks v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1995) 69 F.3d 982, 988] .

[b] Business Purpose

A valid business purpose for entering into a sale and leaseback transaction tends to indicate that the transaction has economic substance [Frank Lyon Co. v. United States (1978) 435 U.S. 561, 583-584, 98 S. Ct. 1291, 55 L. Ed. 2d 550 ; see Goldwasser v. Commissioner (1988) 56 T.C.M. 606, T.C. Memo. 1988-523 (failure to investigate equipment being purchased was evidence of lack of business purpose); accord Casebeer v. Commissioner (1987) 54 T.C.M. 1432, T.C. Memo. 1987-628 , aff'd, 909 F.2d 1360 (9th Cir. 1990) (buyer/lessor failed to determine anticipated revenue from lease renewals of computer equipment or from residual sale value)]. This business-purpose test is subjective, while the economic-substance test is objective.

EXAMPLE:

The taxpayers wanted to diversify their business investments to partially offset the cyclical nature of their oil business by means of a long-term investment outside the oil industry. They approached the decision to enter into the transaction in a businesslike manner and participated only after they were convinced that the investment had a reasonable possibility of profit. Experienced advisors thoroughly investigated the financial aspects and were convinced that the investments would provide a steady income and an opportunity for profit. The advisors turned down several offerings. In this case, diversification of investment was a valid business purpose for entering into the sale and leaseback transaction [Levy v. Commissioner (1988) 91 T.C. 838] .

EXAMPLE: A lawyer who was also a C.P.A. had a valid business purpose for investing in a sale and leaseback of computer equipment. Before he made the investment, he independently investigated the soundness of the investment by studying the offering memorandum and contacting an independent appraiser who concurred with the offering memorandum's prediction of profitability. The fact that some or all of the information that he received was inaccurate was irrelevant; he had reasonably attempted to ascertain the profit potential of the transaction [Shea v. Commissioner (1991) 62 T.C.M. 1027, T.C. Memo. 1991-518] .

[c] Business Purpose in Related-Party Transaction

A sale and leaseback transaction between an individual and a corporation of which the individual was the sole shareholder served a valid business purpose because, in one case, the transfer improved the individual's bonding capacity [Carroll v. Commissioner (1978) 37 T.C.M. 736, T.C. Memo. 1978-173] , and in another case, the corporation was created to provide an alternative source of income to the individual [Peck v. Commissioner (1982) 43 T.C.M. 291, T.C. Memo. 1982-17 , aff'd, 752 F.2d 469 (9th Cir. 1985)] . On the other hand, when a corporation transferred property to a partnership owned by the controlling shareholder's children, then leased the property from the partnership, the transaction was a sham because the parent controlled the partnership's affairs (even though the parent was not a partner) [Cirelli v. Commissioner (1984) 82 T.C. 335] .

[4] Favorable Tax Consequences

The fact that favorable tax consequences were taken into account is no reason for disallowing those consequences, if the transaction had economic substance apart from the tax consequences and was not intended solely for tax avoidance [Frank Lyon Co. v. United States (1978) 435 U.S. 561, 583-584, 98 S. Ct. 1291, 55 L. Ed. 2d 550] .

EXAMPLE:

A partner with a one-unit interest costing $57,500 would have realized aggregate tax savings of $22,700 from a computer equipment-leasing transaction if tax savings from the initial years of the transaction were invested in a sinking fund paying 7-percent interest. There was economic substance in the transaction [Emershaw v. Commissioner (1990) 59 T.C.M. 621, T.C. Memo. 1990-246 , aff'd, 949 F.2d 841 (6th Cir. 1991)] .

If the transaction has economic substance, the transaction does not become a sham merely because it is likely to be unprofitable on a pre-tax basis. If the buyer/lessor has significant risks and benefits of ownership and is the one whose capital is committed, based on cash or negotiable full-recourse promissory notes, then the possible imprudence of the investment does not disqualify the buyer/lessor from taking depreciation deductions and tax credits arising from the transaction [Sacks v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1995) 69 F.3d 982, 991 (taxpayer claimed depreciation deductions and tax credits for solar heating units that he bought and leased back to seller, who rented them to homeowners; Congress intended to generate investment in alternative energy technologies that would not otherwise be made because of their low profitability, and IRS could not use Congressional purpose in creating tax benefits as ground for denying them)].

[5] Taxpayer's Characterization of Transaction

A taxpayer's characterization of a transaction as a financing arrangement was not persuasive and a valid sale and leaseback was found, when the governing documents provided for a sale and leaseback [Sanborn v. Commissioner (1983) 46 T.C.M. 1435, T.C. Memo. 1983-579] . On the other hand, a power company's characterization of an agreement as a financing agreement rather than a sale and leaseback of nuclear fuels was accepted because the company presented strong proof that it retained the burdens and benefits of ownership of the fuel [Illinois Power Co. v. Commissioner (1986) 87 T.C. 1417, acq. in part, 1990-2 C.B. 1].

Generally, a taxpayer is bound by the form the taxpayer chooses for a transaction, in the absence of strong proof that another transaction was intended. However, the IRS privately ruled, in the case of a taxpayer asserting that a sale and leaseback transaction should be taxed in accord with its substance rather than its form (in other words, should not be treated as a sale and leaseback), that the taxpayer need not show strong proof that the other transaction was intended, except as noted below. In determining the treatment of sale and leaseback transactions for tax purposes, ownership of the property depends on who bears the balance of the benefits and burdens of ownership of the property in question [see generally § 53.118]. A taxpayer may lack one or more of those benefits and burdens (for example, legal title) yet be treated as the owner for tax purposes [Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9748005 ; see, e.g., Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9802002 (company properly reported its sale and leaseback of aircraft as financing transaction in which company remained owner of aircraft and received taxable payment from buyer/lessor)].

The strong-proof standard does apply, however, when a taxpayer attempts to disavow the form of a sale and leaseback transaction involving both U.S. and foreign parties. In that case, the taxpayer must produce strong proof of having the benefits and burdens of ownership as required under U.S. legal standards [Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9748005 (taxpayer had presented adequate proof that purported sale and leaseback of four aircraft by U.S. taxpayer to foreign corporation should be treated, for tax purposes, as financing arrangement)].

[6] Buyer/Lessor's Equity Stake and Risk of Loss

The extent to which the buyer/lessor has an equity stake and risks losing it in the transaction is a factor in evaluating the economic substance of the transaction [Mukerji v. Commissioner (1986) 87 T.C. 926 ; Thomas Est. v. Commissioner (1985) 84 T.C. 412 ; L.W. Hardy Co. v. Commissioner (1987) 52 T.C.M. 1540, T.C. Memo. 1987-63] .

EXAMPLE:

A buyer/lessor of aircraft had purchased the aircraft with a combination of its own funds (25 percent of the price) and borrowed funds, giving it a 25-percent equity interest in the aircraft. It then leased the aircraft back to the seller/lessee, giving the seller/lessee an option to buy the aircraft at the end of the lease term. Simultaneously, the seller/lessee paid a third party to assume its payment obligations under the lease, and effectively exercised the buy option. The seller/lessee was obligated to insure the aircraft and replace them if they were destroyed. As a result, the buyer/lessor's investment shifted from the aircraft to the payment stream under the lease (to be paid by the third party). Moreover, because the buy-back option had effectively been exercised, the buyer/lessor parted with the right to realize any potential appreciation in the value of the aircraft. The buyer/lessor was thus guaranteed a stated rate of return on the aircraft and was assured that ownership of the aircraft would revert to the seller/lessee without regard to any decline in the fair market value of the aircraft. The buyer/lessor lacked any effective equity interest in the aircraft and thus had no real risk of losing the so-called investment in the aircraft. The transaction was not a sale and leaseback for tax purposes [Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9748005].

The cases provide numerous other examples of situations in which a taxpayer did not have sufficient benefits and burdens of ownership [see, e.g., Stiebling v. Commissioner (1994) 67 T.C.M. 3006, T.C. Memo. 1994-233, aff'd mem., 113 F.3d 1242 (9th Cir. 1997) (taxpayer purportedly bought mobile homes but failed to make balloon payment on note when it came due, never took title to or possession of mobile homes and had no responsibility for them, never had positive pre-tax cash flow from mobile homes, and made no interest payments after third year of seven-year term of deferred-payment obligation); Coleman v. Commissioner (1989) 57 T.C.M. 493, T.C. Memo. 1989-248 (taxpayer gave nonrecourse note for 92 percent of price of computer equipment having residual value less than final balloon payment due on note); Pacific Gamble Robinson & Affiliated Cos. v. Commissioner (1987) 54 T.C.M. 915, T.C. Memo. 1987-533 (theoretical possibility of gain that would have been minimal in relation to amounts involved in transaction did not show that transaction had economic substance)].

[7] Buyer/Lessor's Depreciation Deduction on Equipment

[a] Seller/Lessee's Right to Substitute Equipment

In equipment leasing transactions, especially computer leasing, the seller/lessee may have the option to buy back (or sell on behalf of the buyer/lessor) the equipment at the end of the lease and the right to substitute--on notice and approval by the buyer/lessor--other equipment for the leased equipment if, for example, the seller/lessee cannot maintain the equipment in operation or cannot effectively market it at the end of the lease, or an end user (sublessee) exercises an option to buy the equipment. The IRS position has been that the seller/lessee's right to substitute equipment on specified market conditions precludes the buyer/lessor from having an ownership interest in the leased equipment and, therefore, precludes the buyer/lessor from claiming the depreciation deduction with respect to the leased equipment. The Tax Court holds, however, that the substitution of equipment is not contrary to the buyer/lessor's ownership of the equipment [L.W. Hardy Co. v. Commissioner (1987) 52 T.C.M. 1540, T.C. Memo. 1987-63]. In fact, a substitution provision is common in the computer-leasing business, is included to protect an end user (sublessee) from obsolescence and other risks, and is subject to specified contractual conditions not under the unilateral control of the seller/lessee [Offermann v. Commissioner (1988) 55 T.C.M. 955, T.C. Memo. 1988-236].

[b] Requirement of Business Purpose

A sale and leaseback had the requisite business purpose when the transaction transferred the depreciable interest to the buyer/lessor in one case because projections of anticipated revenues from lease renewals were made by independent third parties, were realistic, and were based on fair market values [Moser v. Commissioner (1989) 56 T.C.M. 1604, T.C. Memo. 1989-142, aff'd, 914 F.2d 1040 (8th Cir. 1990); Emershaw v. Commissioner (1990) 59 T.C.M. 621, T.C. Memo. 1990-246, aff'd, 949 F.2d 841 (6th Cir. 1991)] .

On the other hand, no business purpose, nor any economic substance, was found in a sale and leaseback transaction when the buyer/lessor not only claimed an immoderate depreciation deduction of many times the cash investment but also had, for example, failed to determine anticipated revenues from lease renewals or from the residual sale value [Larsen v. Commissioner (1987) 89 T.C. 1229, aff'd sub nom. Casebeer v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1990) 909 F.2d 1360; Casebeer v. Commissioner (1987) 54 T.C.M. 1432, T.C. Memo. 1987-628, aff'd, 909 F.2d 1360 (9th Cir. 1990); Sturm v. Commissioner (1987) 54 T.C.M. 1394, T.C. Memo. 1987-625, aff'd sub nom. Casebeer v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1990) 909 F.2d 1360; Moore v. Commissioner (1987) 54 T.C.M. 1407, T.C. Memo. 1987-626, aff'd sub nom. Casebeer v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1990) 909 F.2d 1360] or failed to perform a cost-benefit analysis [Smoot v. Commissioner (1991) 61 T.C.M. 2897, T.C. Memo. 1991-268] .

No depreciable interest was acquired in sale and leaseback transactions involving computer programs or equipment when the buyer/lessor had no reasonable expectation of profit from the transaction, apart from tax benefits [Casebeer v. Commissioner (1987) 54 T.C.M. 1432, T.C. Memo. 1987-628, aff'd, 909 F.2d 1360 (9th Cir. 1990); Smoot v. Commissioner (1991) 61 T.C.M. 2897, T.C. Memo. 1991-268; Mele v. Commissioner (1988) 56 T.C.M. 1, T.C. Memo. 1988-409] . No depreciable interest was acquired with the acquisition of a nonexclusive license to enhance and sell a computer program for tax-return preparation when the nonrecourse note used to finance the acquisition was not intended to be paid and was not shown to be realistic [Hagler v. Commissioner (1986) 86 T.C. 598 , aff'd mem. sub nom. Dahlmeier v. Commissioner (11th Cir. 1987) 822 F.2d 63] .

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.110

§ 53.110 Choice of Lease or Purchase

NOTE:

The final decision--whether to buy or lease--ordinarily is based on a comparison of the net costs of each method of acquisition. An examination of the advantages and disadvantages of leasing facilitates this decision. Although the advantages and disadvantages of each personal property lease must be evaluated in the context of the specific lessee's needs and financial circumstances, the factors enumerated below provide general guidelines for consideration. Some of the determinations listed below often are made directly by the client, or by the client and attorney in conjunction with the client's accountant or other business advisors. Even when the attorney is not the primary decision-maker, however, it is important that the attorney be aware of these factors, because they are likely to influence the structure and terms of the transaction.

In general, for a lease to be financially viable, it must offer cost savings that exceed the earning capacity of the funds that would otherwise be devoted to the purchase of the prospective leased goods.

1. Determine which of following advantages of leasing may benefit client:
 - a. Preservation of working capital, which:
 - (1) Avoids large down payments compared to conditional sales.
 - (2) Frees funds that would otherwise be tied up in low-yielding capital assets.
 - b. Preservation of existing lines of credit.
 - c. Availability of alternative source of funding when traditional financing is unavailable.

NOTE:

For a smaller business, leasing may be the only alternative to borrowing purchase price money. Apart from tax considerations, leasing may represent a cost savings by allowing the lessee to obtain a partial advantage of the lower interest rates payable by third-party lessors who have their own capital, borrow funds on favorable terms, or buy directly from the manufacturer and then lease to users.

- d. Extension of new credit line by use of master lease covering multiple transactions.

NOTE:

A "master lease" is a lease transaction in which a single agreement is entered into that controls a series of leasing arrangements. Supplementary schedules are added as the lessee requires new or different equipment [see, e.g., § 53.200[2]].

- e. Avoiding risk of equipment obsolescence.

NOTE:

This risk is particularly important with computer and other electronic equipment. Manufacturers continually produce new equipment that makes older models technologically outdated. Obsolete equipment may remain serviceable for the purchaser's use, but its resale value may be reduced considerably, committing the purchaser to the equipment investment for its entire useful life. In contrast, lessees are free to acquire updated equipment at the expiration of the lease term [see also Ch. 57, Computer-Related Transactions].

- f. Availability of flexible payment plans, e.g.:

- (1) Even or uneven rental payments.
- (2) Accelerated or decelerated rental payments.
- (3) Payments based on cash flow or on property's productivity curve.

- g. Improved appearance of lessee's financial records.

NOTE:

Generally, future lease obligations are not reflected as liabilities on the lessee's balance sheet.

- h. Responsibility for maintenance may be lessor's [see § 53.10[4] (flat-rate and full-service leases)].

- i. Favorable tax treatment [see § 53.19 (applicability of California sales and use taxes to personal property leasing); § 53.20 (federal tax consequences)].

2. Determine which of the following disadvantages of leasing may harm client:

- a. Higher total expenditure than outright cash purchase.
- b. Fixed periodic payments.

c. Restricted use of property, e.g.:

NOTE:

Lease conditions often restrict a lessee's free use of leased property.

- (1) Prohibitions against subleasing.
- (2) Prohibitions against transfer of property from one location to another.
- (3) Restrictions on operation of property with respect to:
 - (a) Mileage.
 - (b) Hours of operation.

d. Imposition of severe penalties for default, e.g.:

- (1) Accelerated rental payments.
- (2) Immediately repossession of property by lessor.

e. Characterization of transaction as sale rather than lease, causing unfavorable tax treatment [see §§ 53.11[2] (leases distinguished from sales), 53.20[11] (tax consequences of leases characterized as sales)].

3. Determine each of the following costs of leasing:

a. Net cash outlay:

- (1) Calculate cash outlay required for leasing, minus tax savings.
- (2) Calculate cash outlay required for purchase, minus tax savings.
- (3) Compare results.

b. Lease payments:

- (1) Calculate amount of periodic payment.
- (2) Determine term of periodic payment.

c. Security deposit:

- (1) Determine whether security deposit is required.
- (2) If so, determine amount of deposit.
- (3) Determine whether additional security will be required.

NOTE:

Corporate lessees, for example, may be required to maintain a specific net worth throughout the lease term.

d. Insurance [see Com. Code § 10218 (insurance and proceeds)]:

(1) Determine whether one or more of parties has obligation to obtain and pay for insurance covering any leased goods.

(2) Determine beneficiary of any insurance proceeds.

e. Determine desired period of use.

f. Calculate estimated useful life of property.

g. Estimate depreciation during period of use.

h. Estimate financing cost.

i. Estimate resale value of item at end of use period.

j. Determine feasibility of financing out of current earnings.

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.111

§ 53.111 Appropriate Type of Lease

1. Determine whether to structure transaction as flat-rate or full-service lease [see § 53.10[4] (flat-rate and full-service leases)].

NOTE:

Under a flat-rate lease, the lessor obtains a fixed sum in the form of periodic rental payments that reflect the cost of the property to the lessor minus depreciation. Under this normally short-term lease the lessee generally assumes responsibility for repairs, maintenance, replacement parts, operating expenses, insurance, license fees, and taxes.

Under a full-service lease, also known as a maintenance lease, the cost of all service and repairs, replacement parts, and insurance is generally on the lessor. The lessee often assumes responsibility for operating expenses, personal property taxes (unless the term is very short), and a deductible amount chargeable for certain types of damage to the property.

a. Determine whether lessee has sufficient resources to maintain property as required under flat-rate lease:

(1) Do lessee or lessee's employees have skills required to perform maintenance and repairs?

(2) Does lessee have shop facility and tools required for maintenance and repairs?

(3) Can lessee afford cash outlay required for independent contracting for maintenance and repairs?

NOTE:

If the equipment is central to the lessee's business operation, and the lessee will require outside repair services on equipment failure, the lessee must have the immediate ability to provide payment for those services. Contrast this situation with a full-service lease, under which the lessor will assume the entire cost of the repairs.

b. Determine whether proposed full-service agreement contains incentive for lessee's acceptance:

(1) Does complexity of leased equipment requires lessor's specialized knowledge for maintenance and repair?

NOTE:

Repairs of high technology systems, including, for example, computers, copiers, and medical devices, often require skills beyond those normally held by lessees. Because the technical training required by the lessee or the lessee's employees' to repair these systems is often uneconomical, lessors of these devices ordinarily lease only on a full-service basis.

(2) Is cost savings of full-service agreement likely to be significant over full lease term?

NOTE:

If the potential for breakdown is significant and the cost of parts and repairs is high, the lessee may avoid the risk of unanticipated expenses by opting for a full-service lease.

2. Determine whether or not to structure transaction as a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]:

NOTE:

A finance lease allows a lessee to directly solicit suppliers of the goods sought for lease and then obtain the goods by arranging for a lessor to obtain title to them [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (statutory definition)]. For further discussion of finance leases, see §§ 53.10[2] and 53.201[1].

a. Does lessee have specifications for property to be leased that may be filled only by supplier not engaged in leasing?

NOTE:

If a lessee has a need for specially manufactured goods and the manufacturer of those goods will not provide them on a lease basis, a finance lease arrangement will allow the lessee to obtain the goods from the manufacturer/supplier and to enter a lease agreement with the lessor.

b. Does lessor wish to limit exposure to claims with respect to goods?

c. Does lessor have capital resources to commit to purchase of property to be leased?

NOTE:

Under a finance lease, there must be a party with sufficient capital willing to pay the supplier for the goods and then lease them to the lessee.

3. Determine whether to structure transaction as leveraged lease [see § 53.10[5]; see also see Fritch et al., Equipment

Leasing--Leveraged Leases (N.Y. Practicing Law Institute 3d ed. 1988)]:

- a. Can third party lender commit funds to lessor for property acquisition, thus making leveraged lease possible?
- b. Does lessor wish to obtain tax advantages from property ownership under leveraged lease?
- c. Does lessee seek lowered net cost of leased property by foregoing ownership benefits to lessor under leveraged lease?

4. Determine whether transaction should be structured as sale and leaseback:

NOTE:

A "sale and leaseback" is a lease transaction by which an asset is sold to a party with the express intent that the purchaser immediately lease the same asset back to the seller [see § 53.10[6]]. For general discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of sale and leaseback transactions, see Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements.

- a. Does seller/lessee of property need to generate capital obtained through sale of property?
- b. Does seller/lessee seek to remain in possession of property through leaseback?
- c. Is purchaser/lessor willing to lease back property to seller/lessee?
- d. Does purchaser/lessor seek benefits of ownership of property?

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.112

§ 53.112 Capacity of Parties to Contract

1. Determine whether parties are of sufficient age and mental capacity to enter into lease agreement [see Civ. Code §§ 1556, 1557 (minors and persons of unsound mind); see also Civ. Code §§ 38-41 (persons with unsound mind); Fam. Code § 6500 et seq. (minors)].

NOTE:

In general, a person "entirely without understanding" has no power to make a contract of any kind [Civ. Code § 38]. With limited exceptions, a minor (that is, a person under 18 years of age [see Fam. Code § 6500]) may make a contract in the same manner as an adult, subject to the power of disaffirmance [Fam. Code § 6700; see Fam. Code §§ 302, 6701, 6710-6713 (exceptions; limitations on authority; disaffirmance)].

For a discussion of the capacity to contract, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions and Ch. 100B, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors.

2. If lessor is a married individual:

a. Is property separate or community property?

b. If property is community property, has lessor's spouse given consent, or will he or she give consent, to lease [see Fam. Code § 1100 (management and control of community property)]?

NOTE:

One spouse may not dispose of community personal property for less than fair and reasonable value without the written consent of the other spouse. Written consent is not required for gifts mutually given by both spouses to third parties or for gifts given by one spouse to the other spouse [Fam. Code § 1100(b)]. In addition, one spouse may not convey community personal property used as the family dwelling, or the furniture, furnishings, or fittings of the home, or the clothing or wearing apparel of the other spouse or minor children, without the written consent of the other spouse [Fam. Code § 1100(c)].

3. If either party is corporation:

- a. Do articles of incorporation limit leasing activity [see Corp. Code § 207]?
 - b. Has board of directors passed resolution authorizing lease arrangement [see § 53.283]?
 - c. Has the corporation obtained a leasehold interest in the property?

4. If either party is partnership:

- a. Does partnership agreement forbid or restrict making lease in question in course of partnership business?
 - b. Has partnership filed or recorded any statement or certificate that explicitly or implicitly forbids or restricts making lease in question in course of partnership business?
 - c. Has the partnership obtained a leasehold interest in the property?

5. If either party is limited liability company (LLC):

- a. Is leasing activity normally within scope of company's affairs [see Corp. Code § 17002]?
 - b. Have leases been authorized, assumed, or assigned by company [see Corp. Code § 17002; see also Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies]?
 - c. Has the LLC obtained a leasehold interest in the property?

6. If lessor is personal representative, or guardian or conservator of estate, determine whether court administering estate or supervising guardianship or conservatorship has granted order authorizing lease of estate's real property, or whether lease is within exception not requiring court authorization [Prob. Code §§ 2553-2555, 9941, 9942].

NOTE:

If it is to the advantage of the estate, the personal representative, guardian, or conservator may lease, as lessor, real property of the estate without authorization of the court if (1) the rental does not exceed $5,000 a month and the term does not exceed a specified term (one year for a personal representative; two years for a guardian or conservator), or (2) the lease is from month to month, regardless of the amount of the rental [Prob. Code §§ 2555, 9941].

7. If agent is acting for lessor or lessee in execution of lease required to be in writing, determine whether agent has written authority to act in that capacity [see Civ. Code § 2309; see also Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.113

§ 53.113 Applicability of Division 10 of the Commercial Code

NOTE:

In addition to the parties' capacity to contract [see § 53.112], the status of the party as a lessee or lessor, supplier, and merchant or consumer affects issues such as choice of governing jurisdiction, warranty rights, and firm offers [see Com. Code §§ 10106, 10205, 10209].

1. Determine whether party leasing goods meets Commercial Code definition of "lessee."

NOTE:

A "lessee" is a person who acquires the right to possession and use of goods under a lease. Unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term includes a sublessee [Com. Code § 10103(a)(14); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(g) (lessee means natural person who enters into or is offered consumer lease)].

2. Determine whether party leasing goods meets Commercial Code definition of "lessor."

NOTE:

A "lessor" is a person who transfers the right to possession and use of goods under a lease. Unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term includes a sublessor [Com. Code § 10103(a)(16); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(h) (lessor means person who regularly leases, offers to lease, or arranges for lease of personal property under consumer lease)].

3. Determine whether party involved in leasing goods meets Commercial Code definition of "merchant."

NOTE:

A "merchant" is a person who deals in goods of the kind, or otherwise by occupation holds himself or herself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to the practices or goods involved in the transaction, or by a person's employment of an agent or broker who holds himself or herself out in a similar manner [Com. Code § 2104(1)].

4. Determine whether party involved in leasing goods is "consumer."

NOTE:

A "consumer" is a natural person who leases goods primarily for a personal, family, or household purpose [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1), (k) (definitions)].

5. Determine whether party involved in lease transaction is "supplier."

NOTE:

A "supplier" is a person from whom a lessor buys or leases goods to be leased under a finance lease [Com. Code § 10103(a)(24) (definition); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) ("finance lease" defined)]. For further discussion of finance leases, see §§ 53.10[2] and § 53.111, P 2]. Counsel should be aware, however, that under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, the term "supplier" means any person engaged in the business of making a consumer product directly or indirectly available to consumers [15 U.S.C. § 2301(4)]. Unless stated otherwise, the term "supplier" in this chapter has the meaning given in the Commercial Code.

6. Determine whether articles to be leased are "goods" by considering following factors [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(8) (definition); see also § 53.12[3]].

NOTE:

Division 10 of the Commercial Code applies only to lease transactions involving goods [see Com. Code §§ 10102, 10103(a)(8)].

a. Are articles to be leased things that are movable at time of identification to lease contract [see Com. Code § 10217 (identification); see also comment to § 53.252]?

b. Are articles to be leased:

NOTE:

The following articles are expressly excluded from the Commercial Code definition of "goods" [Com. Code § 10103(a)(8)].

(1) Money?

(2) Documents [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(30) (definition)]?

(3) Instruments [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(47) (definition)]?

(4) Accounts [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(2) (definition)]?

(5) Chattel paper [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(11) (definition)]?

(6) General intangibles [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(42) (definition)]?

(7) Minerals?

NOTE:

Minerals include oil and gas, before extraction [Com. Code § 10103(a)(8)].

c. Are articles to be leased among those specifically listed as "goods," i.e.,

(1) Fixtures [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(1); see also § 53.16[3]].

(2) Unborn young of animals [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(8)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.114

§ 53.114 Applicability of Commercial Code Rules Governing Written Contracts, Interpretation, Warranties, and Risk

1. Determine whether Commercial Code statute of frauds applies [see § 53.12[5]]:

NOTE:

Generally, leases subject to the statute of frauds must be in writing [see Com. Code § 10201(a)].

a. Is lease commercial lease involving total of payments greater than $1,000, excluding payments for options to renew or buy [Com. Code § 10201(a)(1)]?

b. Is lease consumer lease [see Com. Code §§ 10201(a)(2), Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) ("consumer lease" defined); see also Com. Code § 10201 (California Comment--Report of the Assembly Committee on the Judiciary)]?

2. Determine likelihood that lease contract will be subject to interpretation, supplementation, or qualification by any of following [see Com. Code §§ 1303, 2202 (course of dealing, course of performance, usage of trade, practical construction); see also § 53.12[4]]:

NOTE:

The following factors are relevant to show the meaning of the lease agreement. However, the express terms of the agreement will be construed, whenever reasonable, as consistent with each other [Com. Code § 1303(d)]. If this construction is unreasonable, express terms control course of performance, course of performance controls both course of dealing and usage of trade, and course of dealing controls usage of trade [Com. Code § 1303(e)].

a. Course of performance?

b. Course of dealing [see, e.g., Insurance Co. of No. Am. v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115 (under former Com. Code § 1205(1), now Com. Code § 1303(a)), receipt of 47 identical invoices for 47 separate transactions was sufficient to constitute course of dealing, modifying shipping agreement)]?

c. Usage of trade?

3. Determine whether express or implied warranties will be disclaimed [see Com. Code § 10214; see also §§ 53.220-53.222].

NOTE:

The lessor may exclude or modify warranty rights for a variety of reasons. For example, in a transaction structured as a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (definition)], the lessee looks almost entirely to the supplier, rather than the lessor, for representations, covenants, and warranties, due to the limited function usually performed by the lessor [see § 53.10[2]]. A limited warranty also may be appropriate if the leased goods have been previously leased.

4. Determine whether it will be advisable to shift allocation of risk or burden of risk [see Com. Code §§ 10219, 10220; see also §§ 53.234, 53.235].

NOTE:

The parties may wish to shift the allocation or burden of risk of damage to or loss of the goods. The shift may be based on a demand for an unusual shipping method, or the fact that the destination of the leased goods is remote or hazardous.

B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.115

§ 53.115 Applicability of Federal Consumer Leasing Act

NOTE:

The federal Consumer Leasing Act [15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.; 12 C.F.R. § 213.1 et seq. (Regulation M)] is intended to ensure that consumers receive meaningful disclosure of lease terms that enable them to compare lease terms with other leases, limit the amount of balloon payments in consumer lease transactions, and require accurate disclosure of lease terms in advertising [12 C.F.R. § 213.1(b)].

For further discussion of the federal Consumer Leasing Act, see §§ 53.18 and 53.260.

The California Vehicle Leasing Act [Civ. Code §§ 2985.7-2990] parallels the coverage of the federal Consumer Leasing Act. However, it is specifically limited to leases of motor vehicles and services incidental to those leases. For further discussion of the California Vehicle Leasing Act, see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

1. Determine whether all of following conditions exist [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667; 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1)].

NOTE:

Except as provided in P 2, below, the federal Consumer Leasing Act will apply if all of the following conditions are met [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1)].

- a. Does transaction involve consumer lease [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667(1), (2); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1)], that is:

NOTE:

Transactions deemed to be "credit sales" under the federal Truth in Lending Act are specifically exempt from the Act's coverage [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 1602(g), 1667(1); 12 C.F.R. §§ 213.2(e)(2), 226.2(a)(16)].

(1) Is lessee a natural person and not an organization [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(g) (definition); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(k) (natural person does not include organization)];

(2) Is object to be leased for personal, family, or household use;

NOTE:

Leases of personal property for business, agricultural, or commercial purposes or leases to an organization are specifically exempt from the Act's coverage [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667(1); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(2); see also 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(j) ("organization" defined)].

(3) Does term of lease exceed four months; and

(4) Is total contractual obligation less than or equal to $25,000?

b. Does lessor, in ordinary course of business, regularly lease, offer to lease, or arrange for leasing of personal property [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667(3); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(h) ("lessor" defined)]?

2. Determine whether transaction otherwise subject to federal Consumer Leasing Act is exempt from Act because it involves lease of personal property incident to lease of real property [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(3)]:

NOTE:

The Act does not apply to a lease of personal property incident to the lease of real property which provides that the lessee has no liability for the value of the personal property at the end of lease term except for abnormal wear and tear; and the lessee has no option to purchase leased property.

a. Does lessee have any liability for value of property at end of lease term except for abnormal wear and tear; and

b. Does lessee have option to purchase leased property?

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.116

§ 53.116 Treatment of Lease as Credit or Conditional Sale

NOTE:

Under some conditions, transactions structured as leases will be considered credit or conditional sales under the federal Truth in Lending Act [15 U.S.C. § 1602(g) "credit sale" defined]; see 15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq. (Truth in Lending Act)]. In the event of that designation, the credit sale provisions of that Act will apply, and the federal Consumer Leasing Act will not apply [15 U.S.C. § 1667(1); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(2)].

Counsel should ensure careful analysis and planning to prevent characterization of a lease as a sale for federal tax purposes [see P 2, below].

1. Determine whether lease will be treated as credit sale under federal Truth in Lending Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 1602(g)]:

NOTE:

If the lessee's obligation conforms to the following conditions, the lease is a credit sale that must conform to the federal Truth in Lending Act requirements. For discussion of those requirements as applied to vehicle sales, see the Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing. For discussion of those requirements as applied to sales other than vehicle sales, see Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales .

a. Is lessee required to pay, as compensation for use, sum substantially equivalent to or in excess of aggregate value of property and services involved?

b. Does lessee has option to become owner of property for no other or nominal consideration on full compliance with contractual obligations?

c. Does lessee has right to terminate lease at any time without penalty [see 12 C.F.R. § 226.2(a)(16)]?

NOTE:

If lessee has the right to terminate the lease at any time without penalty, the lease will not be considered a credit sale even if it complies with the requirements in (a) and (b), above [12 C.F.R. § 226.2(a)(16)].

2. Determine whether proposed lease is subject to characterization as sale for tax purposes.

NOTE:

Attempted lease transactions deemed to be sales will have serious tax consequences for the parties; for further discussion of the applicable issues, see § 53.11[2] (distinguishing leases from sales) and § 53.20[11] (federal tax consequences of leases treated as sales).

a. Does transaction have bona fide business purpose, that is:

NOTE:

Affirmative responses to both of the following implies a bona fide business purpose [see Hilton v. Commissioner (1980) 74 T.C. 305, 364 , aff'd, 671 F.2d 316] .

(1) Does lessor have reasonable expectation of profit apart from tax benefits?

(2) Does lessor propose to retain substantial benefits and burdens of ownership?

b. Does transaction reflect sale characteristics, including:

NOTE:

The following factors will be considered by the Internal Revenue Service in determining when a lease will be considered a sale [see Rev. Rul. 55-540 , § 4.01, 1955-2 C.B. 39]. For additional factors relative to the Internal Revenue Service's characterization of leveraged leases in particular, see § 53.20[12].

(1) Will portions of periodic payments be credited to equity to be acquired by lessee?

(2) Will lessee acquire title on payment of stated amount of rentals required under contract?

(3) Is proposed sum that lessee will pay over short period an inordinately large portion of total required to transfer title?

(4) Do proposed rental payments materially exceed current fair rental value?

(5) Does proposed agreement includes purchase option in which:

(a) Property may be acquired at price that is nominal in relation to value of property; or

(b) Amount to be paid is relatively small when compared with total rental payments?

(6) Will some portion of periodic payment be credited as interest or as readily recognizable equivalent of interest.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.117

§ 53.117 Treatment of Lease as Security Interest

NOTE:

If a purported lease transaction creates a security interest [see Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(35), 1203], the transaction will be subject to scrutiny under Division 9 [Com. Code § 9101 et seq.] of the Commercial Code [Com. Code §§ 9110, 9203(c); see Com. Code § 9110 (UCC Comment) (application to Division 10); former Com. Code § 10103(1)(j), renumbered without substantive change, Com. Code § 10103(a)(10) (California Comment)]. Failure to comply with these provisions may subject the lessor/secured party to a risk of losing the property to a subsequent claimant [see Com. Code § 9301 et seq.]. For further discussion of security interests, see § 53.11[1].

1. Determine whether lease contains outright grant of security interest.

NOTE:

A "security interest" is an interest in personal property or fixtures that secures payment or performance of an obligation [Com. Code § 1201(b)(35); see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions].

2. Determine whether lease agreement implicitly creates a security interest [Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(35), 1203(b); see Com. Code § 1203(c) (enumerated factors which do not necessarily create security interest); see also § 53.11[1]]:

a. Is consideration paid by lessee to lessor for right to possession and use of goods an obligation for term of lease that is not subject to termination by lessee?

b. If answer to (a), above, is yes, then do any of following conditions apply [see Com. Code § 1203(b)(1)-(4)]?

(1) Is original term of lease equal to or greater than remaining economic life of goods [see Com. Code § 1203(e) (determination of "remaining economic life")]?

(2) Is lessee required to renew lease for remaining economic life of goods or required to become owner of goods [see Com. Code § 1203(e)]?

(3) Does lessee have option to renew lease for remaining economic life of goods for no additional consideration or nominal additional consideration on compliance with lease agreement [see Com. Code § 1203(d) (discussion of "additional consideration")]?

(4) Does lessee have option to become owner of goods for no additional consideration or nominal additional consideration on compliance with lease agreement [see Com. Code § 1203(d)]?

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.118

§ 53.118 Analysis of Equipment Sale and Leaseback

[1] Determination of Benefits of Transaction

1. Determine whether equipment sale and leaseback would present needed business benefits for seller/lessee, such as:

- a. Extraction of working capital from assets, which then can be used for purposes other than equipment acquisition.
- b. Possible improvement of balance sheet, depending on circumstances and past accounting practices.
- c. Cash flow management because costs of leased equipment can be fixed and predicted.
- d. Easy and usually cost-free replacement of equipment that becomes obsolete or deteriorated (because buyer/lessor bears related risk).
- e. Possibility of hedging costs against inflation.

2. Determine whether buyer/lessor would receive benefit from equipment purchase and leaseback to seller, such as:

- a. Possibility of recovering entire investment during lease term, and receiving property with positive value after lease term; and
- b. Long-term investment, in some cases with relatively low risk of loss.

[2] Determination of Tax Qualification and Benefits

1. Determine whether sale portion of sale and leaseback transaction [see § 53.21] can present all or most of factors that Tax Court uses to conclude that benefits and burdens of ownership have passed to buyer/lessor [see Grodt & McKay Realty, Inc. v. Commissioner (1981) 77 T.C. 1221, 1237-1238 ; Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9802002]:

NOTE:

No single factor is dispositive of the issue of whether a sale has taken place. The facts and circumstances determine the importance of each factor [Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9802002]. Whether a transaction is a sale, a lease, or a financing arrangement is a question of fact, which must be determined from the intent of the parties as evidenced by their written agreements read in light of the attending facts and circumstances [Haggard v. Commissioner (1955) 24 T.C. 1124, 1129 , aff'd, 241 F.2d 288 (9th Cir. 1957)] .

- a. Will legal title pass?
- b. Will parties treat transaction as sale?
- c. Will buyer/lessor acquire equity interest in equipment?
- d. Will sale contract create seller/lessee's obligation to deliver equipment (along with title documents, if any), and buyer/lessor's obligation to pay price?
- e. Will buyer/lessor be vested with right of possession?
- f. Will buyer/lessor pay any property taxes due after transaction?
- g. Will buyer/lessor bears risk of economic loss or physical damage to equipment?
- h. Will buyer/lessor receive profit, if any, from operation, retention, and sale of equipment?

2. Determine whether leaseback portion of transaction can present all or most of factors that Tax Court uses to conclude that lease is genuine [see Torres v. Commissioner (1987) 88 T.C. 702, 720-721 ; Estate of Thomas v. Commissioner (1985) 84 T.C. 412 ; Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9802002]:

NOTE:

In addition to the eight factors listed above, the following four additional factors must be analyzed because they are specifically relevant in the context of sale-leaseback transactions [Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9802002].

- a. Existence of useful life of equipment in excess of leaseback term (so that something of value can be returned to buyer/lessor);

NOTE:

A rule in the financing business is that a leveraged lease [see § 53.10[5]] should be structured so that the term-end useful life of the equipment will be at least one year and at least 20 percent of the originally projected useful life.

- b. Existence of term-end buy-back option at fair market value (instead of discounted price);

NOTE:

The seller/lessee may have a term-end option, but must not have an obligation, to buy back the equipment, at a price that should be not less than the fair market value. (For a leveraged lease [see § 53.10[5]], the projected term-end fair market value must be at least 20 percent of the original cost of the equipment [see § 53.20[12]].)

- c. Renewal rentals at term-end set at fair market value rate; and

- d. Reasonable possibility that buyer/lessor can recoup investment in equipment from income-producing potential and residual value of equipment.

3. Determine whether seller/lessee's tax benefits from equipment sale and leaseback (for example, deduction of lease payments as business expenses) [see § 53.20] would be more useful than tax consequences of continuing to own equipment in question (for example, depreciation deductions).

4. Determine whether buyer/lessor's tax benefits from equipment purchase and leaseback to seller (for example, depreciation deductions) would be more useful than tax consequences of some other investment.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.130

§ 53.130 Establishing Basic Elements of Lease Arrangement

1. Contact party or parties who will begin lease negotiations, if appropriate.

NOTE:

Counsel may provide assistance to parties negotiating a lease agreement in a variety of ways. For example, the attorney may analyze the tax advantages and disadvantages of the proposed lease, explain the legal consequences for failing to fulfill contractual obligations, and negotiate the lease on terms that are most favorable to counsel's client.

2. Review lessee's specifications for proposed leased property, if any.

NOTE:

If the lessee has a list of particular specifications for the proposed leased property, counsel should understand those specifications before drafting the agreement.

3. Draft lease commitment letter [see § 53.280], if applicable.

NOTE:

A commitment letter in leasing transactions is used principally to hold the parties to the promise to lease the property and to set forth the main terms of the lease arrangement. A letter is frequently used when the lessor's primary function is to provide the funds to purchase the property. A letter is also used by a dealer or manufacturer if the potential lessee has requested bids from several sources. For further discussion and a form illustrating this type of letter, see § 53.280.

4. Complete or obtain completed lessor's financial survey [see § 53.284].

5. Draft or obtain personal guaranty of lessee [see § 53.282].
6. Draft or obtain consent and waiver by real property owner, landlord, or mortgagee [see § 53.281], if applicable.
7. Draft lease [see §§ 53.140-53.146; see, e.g., §§ 53.200-53.201].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.131

§ 53.131 Obtaining Consents, Orders, and Authorizations

1. If representing corporate party, obtain or have client obtain resolution authorizing lease [see Corp. Code § 207; § 53.283].

2. If lessor is guardian or conservator of estate, obtain court order authorizing lease [see Prob. Code § 2553 (execution of leases); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 290A, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Asset Management and Investment, §§ 290A.16[2], 290A.83 (Matthew Bender)].

NOTE:

An order authorizing the execution of a lease must include the minimum rental or royalty. Additionally, the order must set out the lease term, which must be for the time authorized by the court [Prob. Code § 2554(a)]. The order may include other terms and conditions [see Prob. Code § 2554(b)].

a. Include following in petition seeking court authorization [see Prob. Code § 2553(b)]:

(1) General description of property to be leased.

(2) Term, rental, and general conditions of proposed lease.

(3) Advantage to estate to accrue from granting order authorizing lease.

b. If lease is for proposed term greater than 10 years, include facts showing need for longer lease and its advantage to estate [Prob. Code § 2553(b)].

3. If lessor is personal representative operating under Independent Administration of Estates Act, draft notice of proposed action, including [Prob. Code § 10585 (form and contents of notice); see Prob. Code §§ 10532 (entrance into contracts), 10536(c) (leasing personal property), 10580 et seq. (notice procedure)]:

NOTE:

A personal representative administering estate property under the Independent Administration of Estates Act must give a notice of a proposed lease of personal property if the lease will not be fully performed within two years. However, if the personal representative has the unrestricted right under the lease to terminate the lease within two years, the notice requirement does not apply [Prob. Code §§ 10532(b), 10536(c)]. The notice may be given using the most current Notice of Proposed Action form prescribed by the Judicial Council [Prob. Code § 10585(b)]. If that form is not used, the notice must be in substantially the same form as that prescribed by the Judicial Council [Prob. Code §§ 10585(c)]. For further discussion of the Independent Administration of Estates Act, see Ch. 65, Executors .

§ 53.160 General Procedures and Notices Concerning Lease

1. Give notice on parties' behalf to supplier of finance lease contract [see § 53.264].

NOTE:

Under Com. Code § 10209, any modification or rescission of a supply contract by the supplier and the lessor is effective between the supplier and the lessee unless, before the modification or rescission, the supplier has received notice that the lessee has entered into a finance lease related to the supply contract [Com. Code § 10209(c)]. For further discussion and a form for giving this notice, see § 53.264.

- a. Complete execution of finance lease transaction [see § 53.201].
- b. Draft notice, including:
 - (1) Name and address of supplier.
 - (2) Name of lessor.
 - (3) Date of finance lease.
 - (4) Statement that lessee has entered into finance lease with lessor.
- c. Serve notice.

2. Give lessee's notice of delivery, installation, and acceptance to lessor [see § 53.261].

NOTE:

Generally, under the terms of a finance lease, the lessee is required to provide the lessor with notice of his or her acceptance of the leased goods provided by the supplier [see § 53.10[2]].

a. Ascertain date of proper delivery, installation and acceptance.

b. Draft notice, including:

(1) Name and address of lessor and lessee.

(2) Date of delivery, installation, and acceptance.

c. Serve notice.

3. Give offeree's notice of acceptance to offeror after beginning of performance [see § 53.267]:

NOTE:

When the beginning of the requested performance constitutes a reasonable mode of acceptance, the offeree must notify the offeror when he or she begins performance. An offeror who is not notified of acceptance within a reasonable time may treat the offer as having lapsed before acceptance [Com. Code § 10206(b)]. For further discussion and a form for the notice, see § 53.267.

a. Determine completeness of offer.

b. Ascertain whether beginning of performance constitutes reasonable mode of acceptance.

c. Draft notice, including:

(1) Name and address of offeror.

(2) Statement of acceptance of offer.

(3) Statement of performance of acts constituting acceptance.

d. Serve notice.

4. Give party's notice of retraction of waiver of executory performance [see § 53.265].

NOTE:

A waiver of an executory portion of a contract may be retracted on reasonable notice that strict performance of any waived term will be required. However, an attempt to retract a waiver is ineffective if a retraction would be unjust because of a material change of position made in reliance on the waiver [Com. Code § 10208(d)]. For further discussion and a form for the notice, see § 53.265.

a. Ascertain whether party has waived executory portion of lease.

b. Ascertain whether nonwaiving party has made material change of position in reliance on waiver.

c. Draft notice, including:

E. Related and Subsequent Procedures

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.161

§ 53.161 Procedures and Notices Concerning Default Under Lease

1. If applicable, give party's demand for assurances [see § 53.286].

NOTE:

A lease contract imposes an obligation on each party not to impair the other's expectation of receiving due performance [Com. Code § 10401(a)]. If reasonable grounds for insecurity arise with respect to the performance of either party, the insecure party may make a written demand for adequate assurance of due performance. Until the insecure party receives that assurance, if commercially reasonable, the insecure party may suspend any performance for which he or she has not already received the agreed return [Com. Code § 10401(b)]. For further discussion and a form illustrating a demand for assurances, see § 53.286.

- a. Determine whether sufficient grounds for insecurity exist.

NOTE:

Common events creating insecurity include the death or incapacity of either party, the lessee's insolvency or equivalent, and the damage or destruction of the premises where the property is kept.

"Equivalents of bankruptcy" include assignments for the benefit of creditors and other creditors' agreements. For discussion, see Ch. 78, Creditors' Agreements: Nonbankruptcy Alternatives .

- b. Draft demand, including:

- (1) Name and address of party to whom demand is directed.
- (2) Grounds for demanding assurance of lease performance.
- (3) Specification of means for providing assurance to demanding party.
- (4) Date on which contract is considered repudiated.

NOTE:

A repudiation of the lease contract occurs if assurance of due performance adequate under the circumstances of the particular case is not provided to the insecure party within a reasonable time, not to exceed 30 days after receipt of a demand by the other party [Com. Code § 10401(c)].

c. Serve notice.

2. Give notice of lessee's intent to deduct damages [see § 53.266].

NOTE:

Subject to the Commercial Code provisions governing finance leases that are not consumer leases [see Com. Code § 10407; § 53.10[2]], a lessee has the right to deduct damages resulting from any default under the lease contract. The lessee must notify the lessor of his or her intent to do so and then may deduct all or part of the damages from any part of the rent still due under the same lease contract [Com. Code § 10508(f)]. For further discussion and a form for the notice, see § 53.266. For discussion of lessee's additional remedies on the lessor's default, see § 53.15[2] (lessee's remedies).

a. Ascertain whether lessor is in default for any of following reasons [see Com. Code § 10508(a)]:

- (1) Lessor has failed to deliver goods in conformity with lease contract [see Com. Code § 10509].
- (2) Lessor has repudiated lease contract [see Com. Code § 10402].
- (3) Lessee has rightfully rejected the goods [see Com. Code § 10509].
- (4) Lessee has justifiably revoked acceptance of the goods [see Com. Code § 10517].

b. Ascertain amount of rent still owing under lease contract.

c. Draft notice, including:

- (1) Name and address of lessor.
- (2) Statement of lessee's intent to deduct damages from outstanding rent obligation.
- (3) Amount of deduction.

d. Serve notice.

3. Give lessee's notice of default discovered after acceptance [see § 53.270].

NOTE:

In a lease other than a consumer lease [see Com. Code § 10516(f)], if a tender of leased goods has been accepted, within a reasonable time after the lessee discovers or should have discovered any default, the lessee must notify the lessor and the supplier, if any, of the default, or be barred from any remedy against the party not notified [Com. Code § 10516(c)(1)]. For further discussion and a form illustrating this notice, see § 53.270.

a. Ascertain extent of default.

b. Draft notice, including:

(1) Name and address of lessor or supplier.

(2) Cause of default [see Com. Code § 10508(a); see also (2)(a), above].

(3) Statement that lessee was not aware of condition of default at time of acceptance.

c. Serve notice.

4. Give lessee's notice of rejection of goods [see § 53.268].

NOTE:

Generally, if the goods or the tender or delivery fail in any respect to conform to the lease contract, the lessee may reject or accept the goods, or accept any commercial unit or units and reject the remainder of the goods [Com. Code § 10509(a); see Com. Code § 10510 (nonconformity and default under installment lease contract)]. In order to effectively reject the goods, a lessee must do so within a reasonable time after tender or delivery of the goods. In addition, the lessee must seasonably notify the lessor [Com. Code § 10509(b)]. For further discussion and a form illustrating this notice, see § 53.268.

a. Determine whether goods or tender or delivery fail to conform to lease contract.

b. Determine whether to accept or reject nonconforming goods.

c. If rejecting nonconforming goods, draft notice of rejection, including:

(1) Name and address of lessor.

(2) Statement of lessee's rejection of goods.

(3) Cause for rejection.

NOTE:

In rejecting goods, a lessee's failure to state a particular defect that is ascertainable by reasonable inspection precludes the lessee from relying on the defect to justify rejection or to establish default (1) if, stated seasonably, the lessor or supplier could have cured the default [see Com. Code § 10513 (cure; replacement)]; or (2) between merchants, if the lessor or supplier after rejection has made a request in writing for a statement of all defects on which the lessee intends to rely [Com. Code § 10514(a); see § 53.269].

(4) Request for return shipping or disposition instructions [see § 53.269; see (5), below].

d. Serve notice.

5. Give lessor's notice of request for statement of defects on which lessee intends to rely in rejecting goods [see § 53.288].

NOTE:

Between merchants, when the lessor or supplier makes a request in writing for a full and final written statement of all defects on which the lessee proposes to rely to justify rejection or to establish breach, the lessee must comply on penalty of waiver of the alleged unspecified defects [see Com. Code § 10514(a)(2)].

a. Determine whether lessee has rejected goods.

b. Determine whether lease transaction is between merchants [see Com. Code § 2104(3) ("between merchants" defined)].

c. Draft demand, including:

(1) Name and address of lessee.

(2) Statement requesting lessee's justification for rejection of goods.

d. Serve notice.

6. Give notice to rejecting lessee of lessor's shipping instructions [see § 53.269].

NOTE:

On receipt of a lessee's notice of rejection of leased goods, a lessor must provide disposition instructions within a reasonable time. Failure to provide instructions allows the lessee several options for disposition of the goods [see Com. Code §§ 10511, 10512(a)]. For further discussion and a form illustrating this notice, see § 53.269.

a. Determine appropriate manner of return shipping or disposition of rejected goods.

b. Draft notice, including:

(1) Name and address of lessee.

(2) Date of receipt of rejection notice.

(3) Specific instructions for return shipping, including:

(a) Address of return shipment location.

(b) Name or type of carrier to handle shipping.

(4) Statement that instructions do not imply admission of fault.

c. Serve notice.

§ 53.162 Procedures and Notices Concerning Modification of Lease Contract

1. Make modification of lease contract [see § 53.287].

NOTE:

No consideration is required to support the modification of personal property lease contracts [Com. Code § 10208(a)]. A signed lease agreement that forbids modification except by a signed writing may not be otherwise modified. However, except in transactions between merchants, a requirement for modification only by a signed writing on a form supplied by a merchant must be separately signed by the other party [Com. Code § 10208(b)]. For further discussion of modification, see § 53.12[6]. For a notice that may be used to modify a lease contract, see § 53.287.

- a. Ascertain need for modification of original lease agreement.
- b. Determine if original lease agreement restricts modification.

NOTE:

A signed lease agreement that forbids modification except by a signed writing may not be otherwise modified. However, except in transactions between merchants, a requirement for modification only by a signed writing on a form supplied by a merchant must be separately signed by the other party [Com. Code § 10208(b)].

- c. Draft modification agreement, including:

- (1) Names and addresses of lessee and lessor.

(2) Statement of reason(s) for modification.

(3) Modified and/or additional terms.

d. Execute and provide copies of agreement, as appropriate.

2. Give lessor's or supplier's notice of material or indefinite delay [see § 53.262].

NOTE:

Notice of a delay, nondelivery, or allocation must be given by the lessor or, in the case of a finance lease, the supplier [Com. Code § 10405(3)]. Proper compliance with the notification requirement will prevent the lessor's or supplier's default for delay or nondelivery under specified circumstances [see Com. Code § 10405(1)]. For further discussion and a form for giving notice, see § 53.262.

a. Ascertain reasons for delay or nondelivery.

(1) Occurrence of contingency, the nonoccurrence of which was basic assumption on which lease was made.

(2) Good faith compliance with applicable government regulation or order.

b. Ascertain if partial performance is possible.

NOTE:

If a lessor's or supplier's ability to perform is only partially affected, he or she must fairly and reasonably allocate production and deliveries among his or her customers and notify the customers of the allocation [Com. Code § 10405(2), (3)].

c. Draft notice, including:

(1) Name and address of lessee and/or lessor to whom notice is directed.

(2) Grounds for notice:

(a) Delay.

(b) Nondelivery.

(3) Cause for delay or nondelivery [see (a), above].

(4) If applicable, extent of allocation.

d. Serve notice [see Com. Code § 10405(3)].

(1) If finance lease, supplier must serve both lessor and lessee.

(2) If other lease, lessor must serve lessee.

3. Give lessee's notice of termination or modification [see § 53.263].

NOTE:

In response to a notice of delay, nondelivery, or allocation, a lessee may terminate the agreement as to the goods involved, or (except in a finance lease) modify the agreement by accepting the allocation [see Com. Code § 10406]. For further discussion and a notice complying with the statutory requirements, see § 53.263.

a. Ascertain specific purpose of notice received.

(1) Material delay or nondelivery.

(2) Allocation.

b. Determine appropriate response.

(1) Termination.

(2) Modification by acceptance of allocation.

c. Draft response notice, including:

(1) Name and address of lessor.

(2) Manner of response:

(a) Termination as to goods involved [see Com. Code § 10505(b)].

NOTE:

If termination is being elected under an installment lease contract, the lessee may terminate with respect to all of the goods under the contract if the the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired [Com. Code § 10406(a)].

(b) Modification by acceptance of allocation.

d. Serve notice on lessor.

NOTE:

A lessor of personal property who is concerned about whether the transaction creates a lease or a security interest may file a protective financing statement (in case the transaction is later deemed a secured transaction disguised as a lease) [see Com. Code § 10301 (California Comment); § 53.117].

Leases of "fixtures" [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(1) (definition)] may require the filing of a financial statement (fixture filing) to secure the lessor's priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of real estate [see Com. Code § 10309(d)].

For further discussion of the UCC Official Financing Statement, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.211[2] (Financing Statement, Form UCC-1). For general discussion of official financing statements and secured transactions, also see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

1. Determine whether financing statement is necessary:
 - a. To protect lessor's interest; or
 - b. Because leased goods are fixtures.
2. Obtain and complete financing statement [see Com. Code § 9502 (formal requisites of financing statements)].
3. File financing statement with appropriate office [see Com. Code § 9501 (place of filing)].

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Complete Lease Forms

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.200

§ 53.200 General Commercial Equipment Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form includes standard lease provisions which generally apply to all types of personal property used in a commercial setting. The form is designed to be used with a separate attached schedule that contains the provisions likely to vary from transaction to transaction [see [c], below]. By executing additional schedules, a lessee may lease equipment on a continuing basis without having to enter into a new lease agreement. The attached schedule specifies when the lease term ends for each individual leased item.

This lease is designed to provide maximum protection for the lessor, although several lessee-oriented alternative provisions are provided [see, e.g., P 12.01 of form]. Counsel for the lessee should keep in mind that leases are contracts subject to negotiation. Often, commercial lessees will have significant bargaining power that can be reflected in the lease. For example, the lessee may be able to insist on meaningful warranties that will pass with the lease to any subsequent holder.

[b] Application of Commercial Code Division Governing Leases of Personal Property

All leases first made or that first become effective between the parties on or after January 1, 1990, are subject to Division 10 of the California Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10600; see Com. Code §§ 10101-10600]. Subject to the Commercial Code Statute of Frauds [see Com. Code § 10201], a lease contract may be made in any manner sufficient to show agreement, including conduct by both parties that recognizes the existence of a lease contract [Com. Code § 10204(a)]. The Commercial Code's provisions will serve to interpret the parties' agreement when the agreement fails to adequately establish their intent. For further discussion of Commercial Code provisions specifically applicable to personal property leasing transactions, see § 53.12.

[c] Contractual Validity of Incorporated Schedule

This form includes a separate schedule that contains specific information concerning the terms of the lease. Additional documents may be incorporated into a contract by reference. Although the incorporated document does not need to be physically attached to the contract [King v. Larsen Realty, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 349, 357, 175 Cal. Rptr. 226], the incorporating reference must be clear and unequivocal, and the terms of the incorporated document must be known or easily available to the parties [Williams Constr. Co. v. Standard-Pacific Corp. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 442, 454, 61 Cal. Rptr. 912]. For further discussion of incorporation by reference, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

[d] Statement of Parties' Intent to Create Lease

Article 4 of this form states that the lessor is the owner of the property and the parties have no intention of effecting an installment sale of the leased property or of creating a security interest in it. Because the intent of the parties is one factor to be considered in determining whether a transaction is a lease or a sale, the inclusion of this clause is recommended [see Rev. Rul. 55-540 , § 4.04, 1955-2 C.B. 39]. However, if the transaction strays too far from the guidelines established under the Commercial Code or by the Internal Revenue Service, the recital will not save the lease [see § 53.11].

[e] Subordination

The subordination provision contained in Paragraph 4.03 may be required by the holder of a security interest in the property other than the lessor, usually a party who provided the financing that allowed the lessor to acquire the property. If the property is currently unencumbered in the hands of the lessor, the lessee may wish to include a provision prohibiting the lessor from creating a security interest in the property for the duration of the lease term. For further discussion of the rights of creditors and subordination of third party interests, see § 53.16.

[f] Expenses and Taxes

Articles 5 and 6 place the burden of operating expenses, repairs, and maintenance on the lessee. For a form provision allowing for the conversion of this form to a full-service lease in which the lessor assumes these obligations, see § 53.250.

Article 10 places the obligation to pay personal property taxes, sales taxes, and other fees and charges on the lessee. If that obligation will be placed on the lessor, this article should be modified accordingly.

[g] Accessions

Paragraph 6.02 contains a provision governing "accessions." Goods are "accessions" when they are installed in or affixed to other goods [Com. Code § 10310(a)]. For further discussion of accessions, see § 53.16[5].

[h] Warranties

Article 9 contains a provision for the assignment of any manufacturer, dealer, or supplier warranties possessed by the lessor to the lessee. The lessor may also wish to disclaim any warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose in this article [see Com. Code § 10214; see also § 53.221]. If the lessee selects the property to be leased from a third-party supplier, as is usually the case in a finance lease transaction, the implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose will not apply [see Com. Code §§ 10212, 10213; see also § 53.10[2]]. For discussion and an example of warranty disclaimer provisions, see §§ 53.220 and 53.221.

[i] Assignability

Article 15 provides for the free assignability of the lease by the lessor. Under this provision, the lessee agrees not to raise any claim or defense that the lessee may have against the lessor in an action for unpaid rent by the lessor's assignee. The waiver of defenses by the lessee will enable the lessor to assign the lease more freely. In many situations, the waiver of defenses may be a requirement of the lender who advanced the funds to the lessor to purchase the leased equipment. The assignment is the lender's security for repayment of the loan by the lessor. This clause does not prevent the lessee from seeking redress directly from the lessor.

[j] Default

Article 16 specifies the acts and omissions that will constitute the lessee's default. Clause 2, making the initiation of bankruptcy or other insolvency proceedings an event of default, will not be recognized by a court under a federal bankruptcy proceeding [see 11 U.S.C. § 365(e); see also § 53.17 (leased property in bankruptcy)]. However, these clauses continue to be used partly due to their traditional use, and also to assure protection for the lessor in the event the law is changed.

[k] Choice of Law

This form contains a clause designating the jurisdiction in which the agreement is created and under which the agreement will be interpreted [see Article 23]. The choice of law by the parties to a consumer lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) (consumer lease defined as one for personal, family, or household purpose)] is not enforceable if the law chosen is that of a jurisdiction other than one in which (1) the lessee resides at the time the lease agreement becomes enforceable or within 30 days of that date, (2) the goods are to be used, or (3) the lease is executed by the lessee [Com. Code § 10106(a)].

In many business lease transactions it is not unusual for the parties and leased property to be situated in different states. Although this form is drafted solely under California law and presumes the parties and leased property to be located in California, unless the Commercial Code provides otherwise, it may be modified to conform to the law of any state to which the parties agree. For further discussion of the jurisdictional rules in the Commercial Code, see § 53.12[7].

[2] FORM

General Commercial Equipment Lease

LEASE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

_____ [name(s)] (Lessor), located at _____ [address], leases to _____ [name(s)] (Lessee), _____ [address], the following [general description of equipment, e.g., machinery or furnishings] ("the property") on the following terms and conditions:

ARTICLE 1: DESCRIPTION OF EQUIPMENT LEASED

2.01. The initial term of this Lease is stated in the attached Schedule A.

ARTICLE 3: PAYMENTS BY LESSEE

Rental Payments

3.01. The total amount of monthly rental payments is stated in the attached Schedule A. Lessee will make rental payments at Lessor's address as set forth above or at any other place that may be designated by Lessor or its assignees (see Paragraph 20.01 of the Lease regarding change of address). All rental payments are due and payable in advance on the [specify, e.g., first] day of each month after the execution of this Lease during the term of this Lease. Any rental payment not made by Lessee within [specify, e.g., ten] days of its due date will be subject to a late charge of [specify, e.g., five] percent of the amount due.

Security Deposit

3.02. As security for the prompt and full payment of rent and the faithful and timely performance of all provisions of this Lease, Lessee will pledge and deposit with Lessor the amount set forth in the attached Schedule A (the Security Deposit). If any default by Lessee occurs in the performance of any covenants in this Lease, Lessor will have the right, but will not be obligated, to apply the Security Deposit to the curing of the default. This application by Lessor will not be a defense to any action by Lessor arising out of the default. On demand, Lessee will restore the Security Deposit to the full amount set forth in Schedule A. On the expiration or earlier termination of this Lease, provided Lessee has paid all of the required rent and fully performed all of the other provisions of this Lease, Lessor will return to Lessee any remaining balance of the Security Deposit.

ARTICLE 4: OWNERSHIP

No Sale or Security Interest Intended

4.01. This agreement constitutes a lease or bailment of the property described and is not a sale or the creation of a security interest. Lessee will not have, or at any time acquire, any right, title, or interest in the property, except the right to possession and use as provided for in this Lease. Lessor will at all times be the sole owner of the property.

Labels

4.02. Lessor will have the right to place and maintain on the exterior or interior of each piece of property covered by this Lease the following inscription: [specify inscription showing lessor's ownership]. If this Lease is assigned by Lessor, the assignee will have the same right. Lessee will not remove, obscure, or deface the inscription or permit any other person to do so.

Subordination

4.03. The rights of Lessee under this Lease will be subject to and subordinate to certain security interests in the property held by _____ [name of any party holding prior security interest in the property].

ARTICLE 5: OPERATING EXPENSES

5.01. Lessee will be responsible for all expenses, including but not limited to [specify expenses], and all other charges in connection with the operation of the property.

ARTICLE 6: MAINTENANCE AND REPAIRS

Lessee's Responsibility

6.01. Lessee will assume all obligation and liability with respect to the possession of the property, and for its use, condition, and storage during the lease term. Lessee will, at Lessee's own expense, maintain the property in good mechanical condition and running order, allowing for reasonable wear and tear. The rent on any item will not be prorated or abated while the property is being serviced or repaired. Lessor will not be under any liability or obligation in any manner to provide service, maintenance, repairs, or parts for the leased property.

Accessions

6.02. All installations, replacements, and substitutions of parts or accessories with respect to any of the property will constitute accessions and will become part of the property and will be owned by Lessor.

ARTICLE 7: USE OF PROPERTY

Rights of Lessee

7.01. Lessee will be entitled to the absolute right to the use, operation, possession, and control of the leased property during the term of this Lease, provided Lessee is not in default of any provision of this Lease or subject to any security interest Lessor may have given or may give to any third party during the term of this Lease. Lessee will employ and have absolute control, supervision, and responsibility over any operators or users of the property.

Duties of Lessee

7.02. Lessee will use the leased property in a careful and proper manner and will not permit any leased property to be operated or used in violation of any applicable federal, state, or local statute, ordinance, rule, or regulation relating to the possession, use, or maintenance of the property. Lessee agrees to reimburse Lessor in full for all damage to the property arising from any misuse or negligent act by Lessee, its employees, and its agents. Lessee will indemnify and hold Lessor harmless from any liabilities, forfeitures, or penalties for violations of any federal, state, or local statute, rule, or regulation.

Commercial Use Limitation

7.03. Lessee warrants that the leased property will be used for commercial or business purposes only.

ARTICLE 8: LESSOR'S RIGHT OF INSPECTION AND REPAIR

Inspection and Repair

8.01. Lessor, at its discretion during Lessee's regular business hours and with _____ days [or hours] prior notice to Lessee, will have the right to enter, for the purpose of inspection, the premises where the property is located or used. If, in the sole opinion of Lessor, any property covered by this Lease is not being properly maintained, Lessor will have the right, but not the obligation, to have it repaired or maintained at a service facility at the expense of Lessee.

ARTICLE 9: ASSIGNMENT OF LESSOR'S WARRANTIES

Warranty Assignment

9.01. Lessor will assign to Lessee all manufacturer, dealer, or supplier warranties applicable to the property to enable Lessee to obtain any warranty service available for the property. Lessor appoints Lessee as Lessor's attorney-in-fact for the purpose of enforcing any warranty. Any enforcement by Lessee will be at the expense of Lessee and will in no way render Lessor responsible to Lessee for the performance of any of the warranties.

ARTICLE 10: TAXES AND OTHER CHARGES

Taxes

10.01. Lessee will be liable for and pay on or before their due dates, all sales taxes, use taxes, personal property taxes, business personal property taxes, and assessments, or other direct taxes or governmental charges imposed on the property, levied against it, or assessed in connection with the lease. The term "direct taxes" excludes the Lessor's income taxes and franchise taxes, but includes all other taxes imposed by any governmental authority. Lessee will promptly notify Lessor and send Lessor copies of any notices, reports, or inquiries received by Lessee from taxing authorities concerning delinquent taxes or other assessments.

Other Charges

10.02. Lessee will be liable for any fees for licenses, registrations, permits, and other certificates that may be required for the lawful operation of the equipment. All certificates of title will initially be applied for in the State of California and will be issued and maintained in the name of Lessor, as owner. They will be delivered to Lessor, and Lessee will pay all expenses in relation to them.

Taxes Paid by Lessor

10.03. If any taxing authority requires that a tax, as set forth in Paragraph 10.01 of this Lease, be paid to the taxing authority directly by Lessor, Lessee will, on notice from Lessor, pay to Lessor the amount of the tax, at the time the next rent installment is due.

Contested Taxes

10.04. Lessee will have the right at Lessee's own expense to contest the validity or amount of any tax referred to in Paragraph 10.01 of this Lease. Lessee will pay the tax demanded by the taxing authority before initiating any legal proceedings. If taxes are reduced or cancelled, Lessee will be entitled to the refund for any taxes previously paid by Lessee, provided that Lessee is not in default under any of the terms and conditions of this Lease.

ARTICLE 11: LESSEE'S INSPECTION

Inspection by Lessee

11.01. Lessee will inspect the property within _____ days after its receipt. Unless Lessee within that time gives written notice to Lessor, specifying any defect in or other proper objection to the property, Lessee agrees that it will be conclusively presumed, as between Lessor and Lessee, that Lessee has fully inspected the property and acknowledged that the property is in good condition and repair, and that Lessee is satisfied with and has accepted the property in that good condition and repair.

ARTICLE 12: INSURANCE

[If lessor will obtain and maintain insurance, include the following P 12.01, and omit PP 12.02 and 12.03, below:]

Lessor's Duty to Insure

12.01. Prior to the beginning of this lease, Lessor will procure, and then maintain, sufficient property and liability insurance coverage to protect Lessor and Lessee from public liability and property damage on the leased property. Lessee will not commit or permit the commission of any acts on the leased property or use or permit the use of the leased property in any manner that will increase the existing rates for or cause the cancellation of any insurance policy on the leased property or the property's improvements. Lessee, at Lessee's own cost and expense, will comply with any requirements of Lessor's insurance carriers necessary for the continued maintenance, at reasonable rates, of reasonable fire and liability insurance on the leased premises and its crops, if any.

[Or, if lessee has duty to insure, include the following PP 12.01 through 12.03:]

Lessee's Duty to Insure

12.01. Lessee agrees at its own expense to maintain [insert if applicable: public liability and] property damage insurance issued by companies satisfactory to Lessor, insuring the interest of Lessor, Lessee, and their authorized agents and employees. The policy will be for primary coverage and will have limits of no less than:

$ _____ per person.

$ _____ per accident.

$ _____ property damage.

[Add if appropriate: Plus excess liability umbrella coverage in the amount of $ _____.]

For all property covered by this Lease, Lessee will also provide comprehensive, fire, theft, and additional combined insurance coverage at Lessee's own cost and expense, naming Lessor as additional insured. Coverage will be in the form and amounts directed by Lessor from time to time. Lessee is also responsible for any workers' compensation insurance that may be required under state law.

Insurance Certificate

12.02. Lessee will have insurer provide Lessor, no less than [specify, e.g., five] days before the date on which the property is delivered to Lessee and no less than [specify, e.g., five] days before the expiration date of existing insurance, a certificate evidencing the required coverage. The policy will provide that the insurer will not cancel or materially modify the insurance except on [specify, e.g., 30] days' advanced written notice to Lessor. If Lessee fails to procure, maintain, or renew the insurance, Lessor may, but is not obligated to, obtain insurance for Lessee without prejudice to any other rights that Lessor may have.

Excess Liability Indemnity

12.03. Lessee will indemnify and hold Lessor, its agents, and employees, harmless against all loss, liability, and expense, including reasonable attorneys' fees, in excess of the provided limits of liability insurance for bodily injury (including death) or property damage caused by or arising out of the ownership, maintenance, or use of the leased property. Lessee will further indemnify and hold harmless Lessor, its agents, and employees, from loss, liability, and expense, including reasonable attorneys' fees, because of Lessee's failure to comply with any provisions of any insurance policy insuring Lessor and Lessee, or because of Lessee's failure to comply with the provisions of this article.

[Continue with following:]

ARTICLE 13: INDEMNIFICATION AND LIABILITY

All Liability Assumed by Lessee

13.01. Lessee assumes all risk and liability for the loss of or damage to the equipment, for the death of or injury to any person or property, and for all other risks and liabilities arising from the use, condition, possession, or storage of the leased property. Nothing in this Lease will authorize Lessee or any other person to operate any of the property so as to impose any liability or other obligation on Lessor.

Lessee's Duty to Indemnify

13.02. Lessee will indemnify, defend, and hold harmless Lessor, its agents, and employees from all claims, loss, or damage Lessor may sustain or suffer for any of the following reasons:

- (a) Loss of or damage to any of the leased property for any cause;
- (b) Injury to or death of any person including but not limited to agents or employees of Lessee; or
- (c) Damage to any property arising from the use, condition, possession, or storage of any leased property.

Lessee will reimburse Lessor for all expenses, losses, liabilities, and claims of any type, including reasonable attorneys' fees, imposed on or incurred by Lessor because of Lessee's use or operation of any leased property, or because of the failure by Lessee to perform any of the Lease terms. Lessee will also pay interest at the rate of [specify rate] percent per [specify, e.g., month] from the day payment is made by Lessor through the day Lessor is reimbursed by Lessee.

Obligations Survive Lease Term

13.03. The indemnities and assumptions of risk, liabilities, and obligations by Lessee arising under the Lease during the Lease's term will continue in effect after the termination of Lease, regardless of the reason for termination.

ARTICLE 14: ACCIDENT, LOSS OF PROPERTY, OR DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

Notification to Lessor

14.01. If any property covered by this Lease is damaged, lost, stolen, or destroyed, or if any person is injured or dies, or if any property is damaged as a result of its use, maintenance, or possession, Lessee will promptly notify Lessor of the occurrence, and will file all necessary accident reports, including those required by law and those required by insurers of the property.

Cooperation in Defense of Claims

14.02. Lessee, its employees, and agents will cooperate fully with Lessor and all insurers providing the insurance under this Lease in the investigation and defense of any claims. Lessee will promptly deliver to Lessor any documents served on or delivered to Lessee, its employees, or its agents in connection with any claim or proceeding at law or in equity begun or threatened against Lessee, Lessor, or both, concerning the leased property.

Stipulated Loss Value

14.03. If any property is lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged beyond repair, Lessee will pay Lessor in cash the "Stipulated Loss Value" as set forth in Schedule A, minus any net proceeds of insurance for the property received by Lessor. On payment, this Lease will terminate with respect to that item of property and Lessee will become entitled to the property on an "as-is" basis, without warranty, express or implied, for any matter whatsoever.

ARTICLE 15: ASSIGNMENTAssignment by Lessor

15.01. Lessor may assign this Lease or any rights under it at any time without Lessee's consent. In the event of any assignment, Lessor's Assignee will have all the rights and remedies of Lessor set forth in this Lease.

Waiver of Defenses

15.02. Lessee agrees not to raise any claim or defense against Lessor arising out of this Lease as a defense, counterclaim, or offset to any action by any Assignee for the unpaid balance of rentals due under the Lease or for possession of the leased property.

Assignment or Subletting by Lessee

15.03. Lessee will not assign this Lease or any property described in it, or assign any interest in the Lease or property, or sublet any of the leased property without the express written consent of Lessor.

ARTICLE 16: ACTIONS CONSTITUTING DEFAULTLessee in Default

16.01. Lessor, at its option, may by written notice to Lessee declare Lessee in default on the occurrence of any of the following:

- (a) Failure by Lessee to make payments or perform any of its obligations under this Lease;
- (b) Institution by or against Lessee of any proceeding in bankruptcy or insolvency, or the reorganization of Lessee under any law, or the appointment of a receiver or trustee for the goods and chattels of Lessee, or any assignment by Lessee for the benefit of creditors;
- (c) Expiration or cancellation of any insurance policy to be paid for by Lessee as provided for under the terms of this Lease; or
- (d) Involuntary transfer of Lessee's interest in this Lease by operation of law.

ARTICLE 17: RIGHTS, REMEDIES, AND OBLIGATIONS ON DEFAULT

Lessor's Rights and Remedies

17.01. After the default of Lessee, and on notice from Lessor that Lessee is in default, Lessor will have the following options:

- (a) To terminate the Lease and Lessee's rights under the Lease;
- (b) To declare the balance of all unpaid rent and all other charges of any kind required of Lessee under the Lease to be payable immediately, in which event Lessor will be entitled to the balance due together with interest at the rate of _____ [specify rate] percent per _____ [specify, e.g., month] from the date of notification of default to the date of payment;
- (c) To repossess the property without legal process free of all rights of Lessee to the property. Lessee authorizes Lessor or Lessor's agent to enter on any premises where the property is located and repossess and remove it. Lessee specifically waives any right of action Lessee might otherwise have arising out of the entry and repossession, and releases Lessor of any claim for trespass or damage caused by reason of the entry, repossession, or removal.

Lessee's Obligation for Lessor's Costs

17.02. After default, Lessee will reimburse Lessor for all reasonable expenses of repossession and enforcement of Lessor's rights and remedies, together with interest at the rate of [specify rate] percent per [specify, e.g., month] from the date of payment. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this Lease, if Lessor places all or any part of Lessor's claim against Lessee in the hands of an attorney for collection, Lessee will pay Lessor an attorneys' fee, which Lessee acknowledges is reasonable, as follows: [specify amount or rate of fee].

Lessor's Remedies Are Cumulative

17.03. The remedies of Lessor will be cumulative to the extent permitted by law, and may be exercised partially, concurrently, or separately. The exercise of one remedy will not be deemed to preclude the exercise of any other remedy.

Effect of Forbearance

17.04. No failure on the part of Lessor to exercise any remedy or right and no delay in the exercise of any remedy or right will operate as a waiver. No single or partial exercise by Lessor of any remedy or right will preclude any other or further exercise of that remedy or right or the exercise of any other rights or remedies. No forbearance by Lessor to exercise any rights or privileges under this Lease will be construed as a waiver, but all rights and privileges will continue in effect as if no forbearance had occurred. Acceptance by Lessor of rent or other payments made by Lessee after default will not be deemed a waiver of Lessor's rights and remedies arising from Lessee's default.

Forfeiture of Lessee's Interest on Default

17.05. Upon default, for any reason, Lessee and Lessee's successor in interest will have no right, title or interest in the leased property, its possession, or its use. Lessor will retain all rents and other payments of any kind made by Lessee under this Lease.

ARTICLE 18: RETURN OF PROPERTY ON EXPIRATION

Lessee's Return of Property

18.01. Upon the expiration date of this Lease with respect to any or all of the property, Lessee will return the property to Lessor, together with all accessories, free from all damage and in the same condition and appearance as when received by Lessee, allowing for ordinary wear and tear. If Lessee fails or refuses to return the equipment to Lessor, Lessor will have the right to take possession of the property and for that purpose to enter any premises where the property is located without being liable in any suit, defense, or other proceedings to Lessee.

ARTICLE 19: LIENS

Encumbrances or Liens; Notice

19.01. Lessee will not pledge, encumber, create a security interest in, or permit any lien to become effective on any leased property. If any of these events takes place, Lessee will be deemed to be in default at the option of Lessor. Lessee will promptly notify Lessor of any liens or other encumbrances of which Lessee has knowledge. Lessee will promptly pay or satisfy any obligation from which any lien or encumbrance arises, and will otherwise keep the property and all title and interest free of any liens and encumbrances. Lessee will deliver to Lessor appropriate satisfactions, waivers, or evidence of payment.

ARTICLE 20: NOTICES

Service of Notice

20.01. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any notices or other communications required or permitted by this lease or by law to be served on or given to either party by the other party will be in writing and will be deemed duly served or given when personally delivered to [any member of or the designated agent of] the party to whom they are directed, or in lieu of personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Lessee at _____[address] or to Lessor at _____[address]. Either party may change its address for the purpose of this Paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this Paragraph.

ARTICLE 21: AMENDMENT AND MODIFICATIONMethod of Amendment or Modification

21.01. Additional property may from time to time be added as the subject matter of this Lease as agreed on by the parties. Any additional property will be added to the attached Schedule A in an amendment describing the property, the monthly rental, the term of the leasing period, security deposit, and stipulated loss value of additional property. All amendments to any attached Schedule(s) must be in writing and signed by both parties. Other than by this amendment procedure, this Lease may not be amended, modified, or altered in any manner except in writing signed by both parties.

ARTICLE 22: ENTIRE AGREEMENTIncorporation by Reference

22.01. This Lease and any attached Schedule[s], which [is or are] incorporated by reference and made an integral part of the lease, constitute the entire agreement between the parties. No agreements, representations, or warranties other than those specifically set forth in this Lease or in the attached Schedule[s] will be binding on any of the parties unless set forth in writing and signed by both parties.

ARTICLE 23: GOVERNING LAWChoice of Law

23.01. This Lease will be deemed to be executed and delivered in [specify jurisdiction, e.g., California] and governed by the laws of [specify jurisdiction, e.g., California].

ARTICLE 24: EFFECT ON HEIRS AND SUCCESSORSHeirs and Successors

24.01. This Lease and each of its provisions will be binding on and will inure to the benefit of the respective heirs, executors, administrators, trustees, successors and assigns of the parties to this Lease. Nothing contained in this Paragraph will be construed as a consent by Lessor to any assignment of this Lease or any interest in this Lease by Lessee except as provided in Paragraph 15.01 of this Lease.

ARTICLE 25: TIME OF ESSENCETime

25.01. Time is of the essence in this Lease.

ARTICLE 26: MANDATORY ARBITRATIONArbitration

26.01. Any controversy or claim, including any claim of misrepresentation, arising out of or related to this Lease or breach of this Lease will be settled by arbitration. The arbitration will be conducted by a single arbitrator under the then current rules of the American Arbitration Association [add, if desired:, provided that the arbitrator will be chosen from a panel of persons knowledgeable in the business of _____ (specify business related to leased property)]. The decision and award of the arbitrator will be final and binding and any award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction. The arbitration will be held and the award will be deemed to be made in [specify location], California.

ARTICLE 27: SEVERABILITY CLAUSE

Agreement Survives Partial Invalidity

27.01. If any provision of this Lease or the application of any of its provisions to any party or circumstance is held invalid or unenforceable, the remainder of this Lease, and the application of those provisions to the other parties or circumstances, will remain valid and in full force and effect.

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING

PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Lease Forms

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.201

§ 53.201 Finance Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a finance lease that provides that the lessee selects the equipment and the supplier. The equipment is ordered by the lessor, who will be the owner (or the person with the right to possession and use), and delivered by the supplier to the lessee's place of business. Although the lease begins when the lessor orders the equipment, rent is not due until the equipment is delivered to and accepted by the lessee.

The amount initially specified as rent is an estimate. The actual rent is adjusted by the lessor, based on the actual cost of the equipment. The lease provides that the lessee may cancel if the actual cost exceeds a specified percent of the estimate and that the lessor may cancel if the equipment is not delivered and accepted within a stated period after the lessor's commitment. The lessee may renew the lease on a year-to-year basis at a specified fair market rent. If the renewal option is not exercised, the lease continues on a month-to-month basis at the original rent.

This form is designed to be used with a commitment request letter, in which the lessee presents the basic structure of the transaction to the lessor and requests the lessor's commitment to the lease [see § 53.280].

[b] Finance Lease Defined

A "finance lease" allows a lessee to directly solicit suppliers of the goods sought for lease and then obtain the goods by arranging for a lessor to obtain title to them [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) and California Comment; see, e.g., § 54.201 (sample finance lease); see also Com. Code § 10103(a)(24) ("supplier" defined)]. Under the Commercial Code, a finance lease is one with respect to which [Com. Code § 10103(a)(7)]:

- The lessor does not select, manufacture, or supply the goods;
- The lessor acquires the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods in connection with the

lease; and

- One of the following occurs:

- The lessee receives a copy of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods before signing the lease contract.

- The lessee's approval of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods is a condition to effectiveness of the lease contract.

- The lessee, before signing the lease contract, receives an accurate and complete statement designating the promises and warranties, and any disclaimers of warranties, limitations or modifications of remedies, or liquidated damages, including those of a third party (such as the manufacturer of the goods), provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods.

- The lessor, before the lessee signs the lease contract, informs the lessee in writing (1) of the identity of the person supplying the goods to the lessor, unless the lessee has selected that person and directed the lessor to acquire the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods from that person; (2) that the lessee is entitled under Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10101 et seq.] to the promises and warranties, including those to any third party, provided to the lessor by the person supplying the goods in connection with or as part of the contract by which the lessor acquired the goods or the right to possession and use of the goods; and (3) that the lessee may communicate with the person supplying the goods to the lessor and receive an accurate and complete statement of those promises and warranties, including any disclaimers and limitations of them or of remedies.

[c] Supply Contracts and Lessee's Warranty Rights

Generally, a "supply contract" is entered into coincidentally to the formation of a finance lease. "Supply contract" means a contract under which a lessor buys or leases goods to be leased [Com. Code § 10103(a)(25)]. The supply contract may have a significant effect on the rights, remedies, and liabilities of the lessee.

The benefits of the supplier's promises to the lessor under a supply contract and of any express or implied warranties under a supply contract, including those of any third party provided in connection with or as part of the supply contract, extend to the lessee to the extent of the lessee's leasehold interest under a finance lease related to the supply contract [Com. Code § 10209(a); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(24) ("supplier" defined)]. However, the lessee's rights under the finance lease are subject to the terms of the warranty and of the supply contract and all defenses or claims arising from them [Com. Code § 10209(a)]. The extension of the benefit of a supplier's promises and warranties to the lessee does not (1) modify the rights and obligations of the parties to the supply contract, whether arising from the contract or not; nor (2) impose any duty or liability on the lessee under the supply contract [Com. Code § 10209(b)].

Any modification or rescission of the supply contract by the supplier and the lessor is effective between the supplier and the lessee unless, before the modification or rescission, the supplier has received notice that the lessee has entered into a finance lease related to the supply contract [Com. Code § 10209(c); see § 53.264 (notice to supplier)]. If the modification or rescission is effective between the supplier and the lessee, the lessor is deemed to have assumed, in addition to the obligations of the lessor to the lessee under the lease contract, promises of the supplier to the lessor and warranties that were so modified or rescinded as they existed and were available to the lessee before modification or rescission [Com. Code § 10209(c)].

In addition to the extension of the benefit of the supplier's promises and of warranties to the lessee under Com. Code § 10209(a), the lessee retains all rights that the lessee may have against the supplier which arise from an agreement between the lessee and the supplier or under other law [Com. Code § 10209(d)].

[d] Passage of Risk of Loss

In the case of a finance lease, risk of loss passes to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a); see § 53.14 (passage of risk of loss rules for other types of leases)]. Subject to the rules governing the effect of default on risk of loss [see Com. Code § 10220; [e], below], if the time of passage of the risk is not stated in the contract, the following rules apply [Com. Code § 10219(b)]:

- If the lease contract requires or authorizes the goods to be shipped by carrier, and (a) it does not require delivery at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier; but (b) if the lease contract does require delivery at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are made available at that destination for the lessee to take delivery.
- If the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on acknowledgment by the bailee of the lessee's right to possession of the goods [Com. Code § 10219(b)(2)].
- In any case not covered under the first two rules, above, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on the lessee's receipt of the goods if the supplier is a merchant. Otherwise the risk passes to the lessee on tender of delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(3)].

[e] Effect of Default on Risk of Loss

If the risk of loss is to pass to the lessee and the time of passage of the risk is not stated, the following rules apply [Com. Code § 10220(a)]:

- If a tender or delivery of goods fails to conform to the lease contract so as to give a right of rejection, the risk of loss remains with the supplier until cure or acceptance.
- If the lessee rightfully revokes acceptance, he or she, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as having remained with the lessor from the beginning.

If the lessee, as to conforming goods already identified to the lease contract, repudiates or is otherwise in default under the lease contract, the supplier, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as resting on the lessee for a commercially reasonable time [Com. Code § 10220(b)].

[f] Effect of Casualty to Identified Goods

If a lease contract requires the goods to be identified when the lease contract is made, and the goods suffer casualty without fault of the lessee, lessor, or supplier before delivery, or the goods suffer casualty before the risk of loss passes to the lessee in accordance with the lease agreement or the passage of risk rules contained in Com. Code § 10219, then [Com. Code § 10221]:

- If the loss is total, the lease contract is avoided; and
- If the loss is partial or the goods have so deteriorated as to no longer conform to the lease contract, the lessee may nevertheless demand inspection and at his or her option treat the lease contract as avoided.

[2] FORM

Finance Lease

EQUIPMENT LEASE

Identification of Parties

1. This Lease is made on _____[date], between _____[name(s)] (Lessor), [status, e.g., a California corporation or a California limited liability company or a sole proprietor], _____[address or principal place of business in California], and _____[name(s)] (Lessee), [status, e.g., a California corporation or a California limited liability company or a sole proprietor], _____[address or principal place of business in California].

Purpose of Lease

2. Under the conditions enumerated in this Lease, Lessor leases to Lessee the personal property described in the attached Schedule A (the Equipment).

No Warranties by Lessor

3. Lessee has selected both the Equipment and the Supplier from whom Lessor is to purchase the Equipment.

[The following provision, excluding warranty rights, must be conspicuously printed (see Com. Code § 10214(b), (c)):]
LESSOR MAKES NO WARRANTY, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, AS TO ANY MATTER WHATSOEVER, INCLUDING THE CONDITION OF THE EQUIPMENT, ITS MERCHANTABILITY, OR ITS FITNESS FOR ANY PARTICULAR PURPOSE, [Continue with the following:] and as to Lessor, Lessee leases the Equipment "AS IS."

Claims Against Supplier

4. If the Equipment is not properly installed, does not operate as represented or warranted by Supplier, or is unsatisfactory for any reason, Lessee will make any claim solely against Supplier, but will continue to pay Lessor all rent payable under this Lease. Lessor will require, as a condition of its purchase order, Supplier's agreement that all warranties, agreements, and representations, if any, made by Supplier to Lessee or to Lessor may be enforced by Lessee in its own name. Lessor agrees to assign to Lessee, solely for the purpose of making and prosecuting any claim, all of the rights that Lessor has against the Supplier for breach of warranty or other representation respecting the Equipment.

Supplier Is Not an Agent

5. Lessee understands and agrees that neither Supplier, nor any employee or other agent of Supplier, is an agent of Lessor. No employee or agent of Supplier is authorized to waive or alter any condition of this Lease, and no representation as to the Equipment or any other matter by Supplier will in any way affect Lessee's duty to pay the rent and perform its other obligations as set forth in this Lease.

Noncancellable Lease

6. This Lease cannot be cancelled or terminated except as expressly provided by its terms.

Adjustment of Rent

7. Lessee acknowledges that the amounts of Rent and Renewal Rent, as shown in the Commitment Request and Schedule A, are based on the total equipment cost shown in Schedule A, and that the total cost is an estimate. Lessee agrees that if the actual cost to Lessor of purchasing the Equipment, including transportation, installation, taxes, and other expenses, differs from the total equipment cost shown in Schedule A, or if there is a tax or increase in tax imposed on or measured by the Rent and Renewal Rent, then the Rent and Renewal Rent will be adjusted proportionately, and Lessor will prepare and deliver to Lessee an amended Schedule A showing the amount of the adjusted Rent and Renewal Rent.

If Lessor's actual cost of purchasing the Equipment, or any part of that cost, differs from the total equipment cost initially shown on Schedule A by more than [specify percentage, e.g., 10] percent, Lessee, at its option, may terminate the Lease. The option to terminate will be exercised by giving written notice to Lessor within [specify number, e.g., 15] days of the date the notice of the adjusted rent is given.

Ordering Equipment

8. Lessor will order the Equipment from the Supplier on the conditions of the purchase order initiated by Lessee. Lessee will arrange for the delivery of the Equipment so that it can be accepted in accordance with Paragraph 9 of this Lease within [specify number, e.g., 90] days after the date Lessor accepts Lessee's offer to enter into this Lease.

Lessor is authorized to enter the date Lessor accepts Lessee's offer to enter into this Lease as the "Commitment Date" in the Commitment Request.

Lessor is authorized to enter on Schedule A the serial numbers and other identification data of Equipment when they are determined by Lessor.

Acceptance

9. On Lessor's request, Lessee will give Lessor a written statement (1) acknowledging receipt of the Equipment in good condition and repair, and (2) accepting it as satisfactory in all respects for the purposes of this Lease.

The date of receipt and acceptance of the Equipment (or any later date that Lessor chooses) will be the date on which rent begins. Whether or not Lessee has given Lessor a written statement as described above, Lessee will, by making the first rent payment after delivery of the Equipment, be deemed to have acknowledged receipt and acceptance of the Equipment on the date set forth in Lessor's invoice for the first Rent payment.

Termination by Lessor

10. If after [specify number, e.g., 90] days following the commitment date, the Equipment has not been delivered to and accepted by Lessee as provided in Paragraph 9 of this Lease, Lessee will give written notice to Lessor of this nondelivery. Lessor may, at its option, terminate this lease and all obligations arising from it. If Lessor elects to exercise this option, Lessor will give Lessee written notice within [specify number, e.g., 10] days after its receipt of Lessee's notice of nondelivery.

Term

11. The term of this Lease begins on the date on which Lessor issues its purchase order for the Equipment, notwithstanding that rent payments will begin as provided in Paragraph 12 of this Lease. The term ends on the expiration of [specify number of (years or months)] after the date rent began, as specified in Paragraph 12, and as shown in Schedule A.

Rent

12. Lessee will make the rent payments, as shown in Schedule A. The first rent payment will be due as specified in Paragraph 9, and subsequent payments will be due on the same day of each succeeding [month or other calendar period indicated in Schedule A]. Rent payments will be due whether or not Lessee has received any notice that the payments are due. All rent payments will be made to Lessor at its address set forth above or as otherwise directed by Lessor in writing.

Lessor is authorized to enter the date on which rent begins on Schedule A.

Renewal

13. If at any time before the expiration of the initial term of this Lease the parties agree on an amount that represents the expected fair market rental value of the Equipment at the end of the initial term of this Lease, they will enter this amount on Schedule A as the "Renewal Rent." Lessee will then have the option to renew this Lease on the same terms and conditions from year to year for a maximum period of [specify number] years, including the initial term shown in Schedule A.

Lessee must give Lessor written notice of its intention to exercise this option together with payment of the renewal rent at least [specify number, e.g., 30] days before expiration of the initial Lease term. If Lessee fails to notify Lessor of its intent to exercise the option, or fails to return the Equipment in accordance with Paragraph 16 of this Lease, the lease term will be extended on a month-to-month basis until either Lessee returns the Equipment to Lessor, or Lessor terminates the Lease on [specify, e.g., 30] days' notice to Lessee. If this Lease is extended on a month-to-month basis, Lessee will continue to pay Lessor monthly rent as shown in Schedule A.

Location, Inspection, Labels

14. The Equipment will be delivered to and will not be removed from the Equipment Location shown in Schedule A, or if none is specified, from Lessee's billing address, without Lessor's prior written consent. Lessor will have the right to inspect the Equipment at any reasonable time with prior notice to Lessee. If Lessor supplies Lessee with labels stating that the Equipment is owned by Lessor, Lessee will affix the labels to the Equipment in a prominent place.

Repairs, Use, Alteration

15. Lessee, at its own expense, will keep the Equipment in good condition and working order, will use the Equipment lawfully, and will not alter the Equipment without Lessor's prior written consent.

Surrender

16. On expiration of the term of this Lease, or on demand by Lessor in accordance with Paragraph 24 of this Lease, Lessee, at its expense, will return the Equipment by delivering it to a place, or packed for shipping on board a carrier, as Lessor specifies, in the same condition as when delivered to Lessee, allowing for reasonable wear and tear.

Loss or Damage

17. Lessee will bear the entire risk of loss, theft, destruction, or damage of the Equipment from any cause whatsoever. No incident of loss or damage will relieve Lessee of the obligation to pay rent or of any other obligation under this Lease. If any loss or damage occurs, Lessor may require Lessee to perform one of the following options:

- (a) To repair and restore the Equipment in good condition;
- (b) To replace the Equipment with like equipment in good condition with clear title in Lessor; or
- (c) To pay to Lessor the total of the following amounts:
 - (1) The total rent due and owing at the time of the payment; plus
 - (2) The amount estimated by Lessor to be the present value of all rent and other amounts payable by Lessee for the Equipment from date of the payment to date of expiration of the then current term of this Lease, calculated at _____ [specify percentage, e.g., 9] percent per year simple interest discount; plus
 - (3) The reversionary value of the Equipment, which will be equal to _____ [specify percentage, e.g., 15] percent of the total rent as set forth in Paragraph 10.

After Lessee has complied with the conditions set forth above, Lessee will be entitled to receive and retain all insurance payments made because of any loss of or damage to the Equipment. Lessee, Lessee's insurer, or both will then be entitled to Lessor's interest in the Equipment for salvage purposes, AS IS in both condition and location, without warranty, express or implied.

Insurance

18. Lessee will obtain, pay for, and maintain the following: (1) insurance against the loss or theft of or damage to the Equipment, for its full replacement value, and (2) public liability and property damage insurance naming Lessor as an additional insured. All insurance will be in the form and amounts and with companies satisfactory to Lessor, and will contain the insurer's agreement to give [specify number, e.g., 30] days written notice to Lessor before cancellation or material change of any policy of insurance. On Lessor's request, Lessee will deliver the policies, copies of the policies, or certificates of insurance to Lessor.

Taxes and Liens

19. As directed by Lessor, Lessee will pay all charges and taxes (local, state, and federal) now owing or later imposed on the sale, purchase, ownership, leasing, possession, or use of the Equipment, excluding, however, all taxes on or measured by Lessor's net income. Lessee will keep the Equipment free and clear of all levies, liens, and encumbrances.

Lessor's Payment

20. If Lessee fails to provide or maintain insurance as required in Paragraph 18 of this Lease, or to pay any charges and taxes as required by Paragraph 19 of this Lease, or to discharge any levies, liens, and encumbrances as required by Paragraph 19 of this Lease, Lessor will have the right, but will not be obligated, to obtain insurance, pay any charges or taxes, or effect discharge of any lien or encumbrance. If Lessor exercises that right, Lessee will repay to Lessor its cost incurred with the next rent payment.

Indemnity

21. Lessee will indemnify Lessor against and hold Lessor harmless from any claim, damages, and costs, including, but not limited to, reasonable attorneys' fees and liens, (including any claim, damages, and costs arising without Lessor's fault or negligence, or under the doctrine of strict liability) arising out of the purchase, lease, use, possession, selection, delivery, or disposition of the Equipment. Lessee will assume full responsibility for the defense of any action against Lessor for any claim, damages, and costs arising as stated above. The provisions of this Paragraph will survive termination of this Lease as to any matter arising during the term of this Lease.

Assignment and Offset

22. Without Lessor's prior written consent, Lessee will not (1) assign, sublet, transfer, or otherwise dispose of this Lease, the Equipment, or any interest in the Lease or Equipment; or (2) lend the Equipment or permit it to be used by anyone other than Lessee and Lessee's employees and agents.

Lessor may assign this Lease, give a security interest in the Equipment, or both, in whole or in part, without notice to Lessee. If Lessee is given notice of any assignment, Lessee agrees to acknowledge receipt in writing. Any assignee or secured party will have all of the rights but none of the obligations of Lessor under this Lease, the obligations remaining with Lessor. Lessee will not assert against an assignee or secured party any defense, counterclaim, or offset that Lessee may have against Lessor. Notwithstanding any assignment, Lessor warrants that Lessee will quietly enjoy the use of the Equipment subject to the terms and conditions of this Lease. Subject to these conditions, this Lease inures to the benefit of and is binding on the heirs, personal representatives, successors, and assigns of the parties.

Service Charge and Interest

23. If Lessee fails to pay when due any rent or other amount required to be paid to Lessor, Lessee will pay to Lessor a service charge of [specify percentage, e.g., 5] percent of each delinquent amount, or $ _____, whichever is greater, plus interest on the delinquent rent or other amount from the due date until the date of payment, at the maximum rate allowed by law.

Default

24.(a) The following are instances of default under this Lease, which rise to specific remedies as provided by this Lease or as provided under applicable law:

- (1) Lessee fails to pay when due any rent or other amount required to be paid by Lessee.
- (2) Lessee fails to perform any other required provision within _____ [number, e.g., 10] days of Lessor's written demand for performance.
- (3) Lessee for any reason makes a bulk transfer of furniture, furnishings, fixtures, or other equipment or inventory.
- (4) Lessee makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors, whether voluntary or involuntary.
- (5) Lessee has a petition filed by or against it under the Bankruptcy Act.
- (6) Lessee has breached any other lease or agreement between Lessor and Lessee.

(b) Upon the occurrence of any of the instances of default enumerated in Paragraph 24(a), Lessor may exercise any one or more of the following remedies:

- (1) Recover from Lessee all rent and other amounts then due and amounts that subsequently become due.
- (2) Take possession of any items of Equipment, wherever located, without demand or notice, without any court order or other process of law, and without liability to Lessee for any damage occasioned by taking of possession. Any taking of possession will not constitute a termination of this Lease.
- (3) Recover from Lessee, with respect to any items of Equipment, and with or without repossessing Equipment, the sum of (1) all rent and other amounts due and to become due, minus a prepayment credit for rent not yet due at the time of payment or judgment, whichever is earlier, equal to the product of the number of months remaining in the current term of this Lease at that time, multiplied by _____ [specify percentage, e.g., 0.2] percent; and (2) the reversionary value of the Equipment at the end of the current term, which for purposes of this Paragraph, will be _____ [specify percentage, e.g., 15] percent of the total rent as set forth in Paragraph 12 of this Lease.
- (4) Lessor may pursue any other remedy at law or in equity.

On repossession or surrender of the Equipment, Lessor may sell or otherwise dispose of the Equipment, with or without notice and on public or private bid, and apply the net proceeds (after deducting all expenses, including attorneys' fees, incurred in connection with the disposition) to the sum of Paragraphs 24(b)(1) and (b)(2), above. If Lessor is unable to sell or otherwise dispose of the Equipment within a reasonable time, Lessor may recover from Lessee an amount not less than the sum of the rent and other amounts set forth in Paragraphs 24(b)(1), as well as all expenses, including attorneys' fees, incurred in taking possession of the Equipment.

(c) No right or remedy conferred on Lessor is exclusive of any other right or remedy provided by this Lease or by law or equity.

Termination on Default

25. On the occurrence of any of the events stated in Paragraph 24 of this Lease, Lessor may elect to terminate this Lease. A termination will occur only on written notice by Lessor to Lessee and only with respect to those items of Equipment which Lessor specifically elects to terminate in the notice. This Lease will continue in full force with regard to other items that are not included in the notice of termination; and Lessee will be obligated to perform all acts and pay all rents and other amounts required under this Lease. As to any items of Equipment for which this Lease is terminated by Lessor, Lessor may recover from Lessee the excess, if any, of the amount of Rent due for the item for the balance of the term over the reasonable rental value of the item for the same period of time.

Costs and Expenses of Enforcement

26. Lessee will pay Lessor all costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, the fees of collection agencies, and other expenses such as telephone and fax charges, incurred by Lessor in enforcing any of the provisions of this lease. If legal action is required to interpret or enforce any provision of this Lease, the prevailing party will recover from the other all costs incurred in the action, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

Ownership

27. The Equipment is, and will at all times remain, the property of Lessor, and Lessee will have no right, title, or interest in it except as expressly set forth in this Lease. The Equipment is, and will at all times remain, personal property notwithstanding that the Equipment or any part of it may be or become affixed in any manner to real property or any improvements on real property.

Notices

28. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, any notices or other communications to either party by the other party relating to this Lease will be in writing and will be deemed duly served or given when personally delivered to [any member of or the designated agent of] the party to whom they are directed, or in lieu of that personal service, when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Lessee at _____[address] or to Lessor at _____[address]. Either party may change its address for the purpose of this Paragraph by giving written notice of the change to the other party in the manner provided in this Paragraph.

Purchase Option

29. At any time during the term of this Lease, as long as Lessee is not in default, Lessee will be entitled, at its option, on written notice to Lessor at least [specify number, e.g., 30] days before the end of the initial term or any renewal term, to purchase the Equipment from Lessor. The purchase price will be equal to the then fair market sales value of the Equipment as determined by Lessor. On the date of the purchase, Lessee will pay to Lessor the purchase price for the Equipment and Lessor will sell the Equipment, AS IS, at its location at that time.

Entire Agreement

30. This Lease and the attached Schedule[s], which [is or are] incorporated by reference and made an integral part of the lease, constitute the entire agreement between the parties. The execution of the commitment request by Lessee, and its acceptance by Lessor, incorporates the terms and conditions of this Lease. No agreements, representations, or warranties other than those specifically set forth in this Lease or in the attached Schedule[s] will be binding on any of the parties unless set forth in writing and signed by both parties.

Governing Law

31. This lease will be deemed to be executed and delivered in [specify jurisdiction, e.g., California] and governed by the laws of [specify jurisdiction, e.g., California].

Effect on Heirs and Successors

32. This Lease and each of its provisions will be binding on and will inure to the benefit of the respective heirs, executors, administrators, trustees, successors and assigns of the parties to this Lease. Nothing contained in this Paragraph will be construed as a consent by Lessor to any assignment of this Lease or of any interest in this Lease by Lessee, except as provided in Paragraph 22 of this Lease.

Time of Essence

33. Time is of the essence in this Lease.

Mandatory Arbitration

34. Any controversy or claim, including any claim of misrepresentation, arising out of or related to this Lease or breach of this Lease will be settled by arbitration. The arbitration will be conducted by a single arbitrator under the then current rules of the American Arbitration Association [add, if desired:, provided that the arbitrator will be chosen from a panel of persons knowledgeable in the business of _____ (specify business related to leased property)]. The decision and award of the arbitrator will be final and binding and any award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction. The arbitration will be held and the award will be deemed to be made in [specify location], California.

Severability Clause

35. If any provision of this Lease or the application of any of its provisions to any party or circumstance is held invalid or unenforceable, the remainder of this Lease, and the application of those provisions to the other parties or circumstances, will remain valid and in full force.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.210

§ 53.210 Firm Offers, Revocable Offers, and Options

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains clauses that may be inserted in a lease contract to designate the transaction as an offer. This type of clause is ordinarily placed either immediately following the clause identifying the parties or immediately preceding the space for the parties' execution. Alternate provisions in [2], below, make the offer revocable, irrevocable, or an option. Whichever offer clause is used, it must be included within a complete lease agreement to be effective [see §§ 53.200 and 53.201 (complete lease agreements)].

[b] Firm Offers

The first group of alternative clauses presented in this form is intended to provide "assurance" within the meaning of Com. Code § 10205. In accordance with that provision, an offer by a merchant to lease goods to or from another person, in a signed writing that by its terms gives assurance that it will be held open, may not be revoked for lack of consideration during the time stated or, if no time is stated, for a reasonable time. The period of irrevocability, however, may not exceed three months. If the form containing the assurance is supplied by the offeree, the firm offer clause must be separately signed by the offeror [Com. Code § 10205].

[c] Revocable Offers

The second group of alternative clauses in this form protects the offeror's right to revoke, preventing the offeror from unintentionally making a firm or irrevocable offer within the meaning of Com. Code § 10205.

[d] Options

The third group of alternatives in this form contains clauses that may be included in offers that are irrevocable because they are supported by consideration (that is, options) [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. These clauses are designed to be used for offer periods in excess of three months [see Com. Code § 10205] or when actual consideration has been paid for the offer.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.211

§ 53.211 Clauses Conditioning the Acceptance of Offers

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains clauses setting conditions on the manner by which an offer may be accepted. This type of clause is for use when either the lessor or lessee wants to restrict acceptance of the offer to a specified method. For example, a lessee under pressure to perform work requiring leased equipment may need to know quickly that the lessor has accepted the lessee's offer and can deliver the leased goods within the time set by the offer. Under these circumstances, the lessee might want to use the alternative below that provides for acceptance by return telegram or fax.

When the offeror wants to control the manner of indicating acceptance and the medium by which acceptance must be communicated, the offer should specify the manner and medium. Otherwise, any reasonable manner or medium of acceptance, including performance, will be effective [Com. Code § 10206(a); see § 53.12[4]].

These clauses may be incorporated into either of the complete lease forms contained in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. This type of clause ordinarily is inserted in the lease agreement immediately following an offer clause. For discussion and a form containing alternative clauses for creating offers, see § 53.210. For a form for a notice of acceptance that may be used to satisfy the requirement for notice as provided for in the second alternative below, see § 53.261.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.220

§ 53.220 Clauses for Exclusion of Express Warranties

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains two alternative clauses for the exclusion of express warranties. These clauses may be used in either of the complete lease forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, either clause may be substituted for the warranty provisions in § 53.200, Article 9 or 53.201, Paragraph 3. However, if that substitution is made, counsel must be careful to remove any contradictory language, including language tending to create an express warranty [see [b], below; see, e.g., § 53.200, P 9.01]. Counsel should also pay careful attention to the possible need to modify or exclude any implied warranties and warranties against infringement or interference. For discussion of the creation of express and implied warranties, see § 53.13.

For discussion and form clauses relating to the exclusion and modification of implied warranties, see § 53.221. For discussion and form clauses pertaining to warranties against interference and infringement, including pertinent disclaimers of those warranties, see § 53.222.

[b] Inconsistent Exclusion of Warranties

Words or conduct relevant to the creation of an express warranty and words or conduct tending to negate or limit a warranty must be reasonably construed as consistent with each other [Com. Code § 10214(a)]. However, subject to the Commercial Code provision governing parol or extrinsic evidence [see Com. Code § 10202; § 53.12[4]], negation or limitation of an express warranty is inoperative to the extent that the construction is unreasonable [Com. Code § 10214(a)].

[2] FORM

Clauses for Exclusion of Express Warranties

EXCLUSION OF EXPRESS WARRANTIES

[Choose one of the following paragraphs:]

[EITHER]

____ [specify paragraph number]. No agent, employee, or representative of Lessor has any authority to bind Lessor to any affirmation, representation, or warranty concerning the goods leased under this Agreement; and unless an affirmation, representation, or warranty made by an agent, employee, or representative is specifically included within this Agreement, it will not be enforceable by Lessee.

[OR]

____ [specify paragraph number]. It is the intent of the parties to provide in this Agreement an effective agreement of all express warranties with respect to the goods leased under this Agreement. Both parties are represented by counsel and have reduced the entire agreement to this writing. The description of the goods contained in this Agreement is the sole basis for the parties' agreement. No statement of fact, promise, representation, or other indication has been made with respect to the quality of goods outside of this Agreement. Thus, any sample or model referred to in the Agreement was not intended as a basis for the Agreement and was not relied on in arriving at its terms, but was used for purposes of illustration only. Further, any opinions or statements of Lessor as to the value or quality of the goods leased under this Agreement do not form a basis for this Agreement, and unless the statements are specifically embodied in this writing, they do not in any way constitute a warranty. Any modification of this Agreement that relates in any way to a warranty must be in writing and signed by Lessor; otherwise the purported modification will be void.

B. Specific Lease Provisions
2. Warranties

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.221

§ 53.221 Clauses for Exclusion or Modification of Implied Warranties

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses for the exclusion or modification of implied warranties that arise under Division 10 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 10212, 10213]. These clauses may be used in either of the complete lease forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, any of the clauses may be substituted for the warranty provisions in § 53.200, Article 9, or 53.201, Paragraph 3. However, if that substitution is made, counsel must be careful to remove any contradictory language, including language tending to create an express warranty [see e.g., § 53.200, P 9.01]. For discussion of the creation of express and implied warranties, see § 53.13.

For discussion and form clauses relating to the exclusion of express warranties, see § 53.220. For discussion and form clauses pertaining to warranties against interference and infringement, including pertinent disclaimers of those warranties, see § 53.222.

[b] Exclusion or Modification of Implied Warranties

Unless the circumstances indicate otherwise, all implied warranties are excluded by expressions like "as is," or "with all faults." Additionally, implied warranties are excluded by other language that in common understanding calls the lessee's attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty. In either case, the exclusionary language must be in writing and must be conspicuous [Com. Code § 10214(c)(1); see, e.g., [2], below].

If the lessee has examined the goods, sample, or model as fully as desired or has refused to examine the goods before entering into the lease contract, there is no implied warranty with regard to defects that an examination under the circumstances would have revealed [Com. Code § 10214(c)(2)].

An implied warranty may also be excluded or modified by course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade [

Com. Code § 10214(c)(3); see Com. Code § 1303(d) (when course of performance or practical construction is relevant to determine meaning of lease agreement)]. For further discussion of the exclusion or modification by conduct, or by course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade, see Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code .

To exclude or modify any implied warranty of fitness, the exclusion must be in writing and conspicuous. Language to exclude all implied warranties of fitness is sufficient if it is in writing, is conspicuous, and states, for example, "There is no warranty that the goods will be fit for a particular purpose." [Com. Code § 10214(b); see Com. Code § 10213].

To exclude or modify an implied warranty of merchantability, the exclusion or modification must be conspicuously stated in writing and must mention "merchantability" [Com. Code § 10214(b)].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.222

§ 53.222 Clauses Governing Warranties Against Interference or Against Infringement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains clauses that create, disclaim, or limit warranties against interference or warranties against infringement. If the parties do not agree on their own warranties or disclaimers, warranties against interference and warranties against infringement are governed by Com. Code § 10211 [see Com. Code § 10214(d)].

This form includes a warranty against interference, a warranty against infringement, and a promise by the lessee to hold the lessor harmless against infringement claims arising out of the lessor's compliance with specifications furnished by the lessee. These clauses confirm the rights that Com. Code § 10211 provides to the parties in the absence of an express agreement otherwise.

This form also includes additional clauses that vary the effects of Com. Code § 10211 by agreement.

These form clauses may be used in either of the applicable complete forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, any of the clauses may be substituted for the warranty provisions contained in § 53.200, Article 9 or in § 53.201, Paragraph 3. However, if that substitution is made, counsel should pay careful attention to the possible need to modify or exclude any express or implied warranties. For discussion of the creation of express and implied warranties, see § 53.13.

[b] Warranties Against Interference

In the absence of disclaimer [see Com. Code § 10214(d); see [d], below], there is in a lease contract a warranty that for the duration of the lease no person holds a claim to or interest in the goods that arose from an act or omission of the lessor that will interfere with the lessee's enjoyment of the leasehold interest. However, a claim by way of infringement or the like may still be brought under this statutory warranty against interference [Com. Code § 10211(a)].

[c] Warranties Against Infringement

Except in a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (definition); see § 53.201 (form)], and unless modified or excluded by the parties [see Com. Code § 10214(d); see also [d], below], there is in a lease contract by a merchant lessor who regularly deals in the goods covered by the lease a warranty that the goods are delivered free of the rightful claim of any person by way of infringement or the like [Com. Code § 10211(b)]. For a discussion of the meaning of "infringement or the like," see Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code .

However, a lessee who furnishes specifications to a lessor or a supplier must hold the lessor and the supplier harmless against any claim by the way of infringement or the like that arises out of compliance with those specifications [Com. Code § 10211(c)]. For a discussion of the issues concerning this type of indemnity, refer to Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity.

[d] Exclusion or Modification of Warranties Against Interference or Infringement

To exclude or modify a warranty against interference or against infringement or any part of it, the language of exclusion or modification must be in writing and must be specific and conspicuous. However, an exception to this requirement exists if the circumstances, including course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade, give the lessee reason to know that the goods are being leased subject to a claim or interest of any person [Com. Code § 10214(d)]. For further discussion of the exclusion and modification of warranties, see § 53.13[4].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.230

§ 53.230 Clauses Specifying Whether Lessee May or Must "Cover"

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses specifying the limited remedies generally available to a lessee under Division 10 of the Commercial Code as provided in Com. Code § 10508. These clauses are for use in either of the applicable complete lease forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201] by parties who want to limit the remedies otherwise available under the Commercial Code. These clauses either require or forbid the lessee to "cover" by obtaining substitute goods [see Com. Code § 10518; [b], below].

Com. Code § 10503 specifically permits the lease agreement to limit or modify the remedies otherwise provided under Division 10 of the Commercial Code. For discussion of that provision and for examples of form clauses that modify or limit remedies other than the right to "cover" by obtaining substitute goods, see § 53.231.

For discussion of the remedies provided under Com. Code § 10508, see § 53.15[2] (lessee's remedies).

[b] Lessee's Election to Cover

After the lessors' statutory default under the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10508(a)] or, if agreed, after other default by the lessor, the lessee may elect to "cover" by contracting to purchase or lease, or making any purchase or lease, of goods in substitution for those due from the lessor [Com. Code § 10518(a); see Com. Code § 10508(a)].

A lessee who obtains substitute goods may recover damages from the lessor under specified circumstances. Except when the lease agreement provides for liquidated damages [see Com. Code § 10504; § 53.232], or when otherwise agreed to by the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302, 10503], statutory damages are available if the lessee's "cover" is by a lease agreement substantially similar to the original lease. The new lease agreement must be made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 10518(b)].

When available, the lessee may recover from the lessor as damages [Com. Code § 10518(b)]:

- The present value, as of the date of the commencement of the term of the new lease agreement, of the rent under the new lease agreement applicable to that period of the new lease term that is comparable to the then remaining term of the original lease agreement minus the present value as of the same date of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement; and
- Any incidental or consequential damages minus expenses saved by the lessee as a consequence of the lessor's default.

If the lessee's "cover" is by lease agreement that for any reason does not qualify for recovery damages under Com. Code § 10518(b), or is by purchase or otherwise, the lessee may recover from the lessor as if the lessee had elected not to cover. In this case, Com. Code § 10519 governs [Com. Code § 10518(c); see [c], below].

[c] Lessee's Alternative Remedy to Election to "Cover"

Except when the lease agreement provides for liquidated damages [see Com. Code § 10504; see § 53.232], or when otherwise agreed to by the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302, 10503], if a lessee elects not to "cover" or elects to "cover" and the "cover" is by lease agreement, that for any reason does not qualify for treatment under Com. Code § 10518(b) [see [b], above], or is by purchase or otherwise, the measure of damages is prescribed by statute [see Com. Code § 10519(a)]. Under these circumstances, the measure of damages for nondelivery or repudiation by the lessor, or for rejection or revocation of acceptance by the lessee, is the present value, as of the date of the default, of the then market rent minus the present value as of the same date of the original rent [Com. Code § 10519(a); see Com. Code § 10519(b) (market rent)]. This amount is computed for the remaining lease term of the original lease agreement, together with incidental and consequential damages, minus expenses saved as a consequence of the lessor's default [Com. Code § 10519(a)].

Clauses Specifying Whether Lessee May or Must "Cover"

Remedies of Lessee

[Choose among the following paragraphs, as required:]

[If lessee's damages will be limited to costs incurred in storage rental, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. The parties to this Lease Agreement acknowledge that certain materials necessary for the manufacture of the goods to be leased under this Agreement are not readily available and may be difficult to obtain. These materials include _____ [specify materials]. Accordingly, Lessee waives all rights to damages in any form whatsoever, except the costs incurred in the additional rental of suitable storage facilities from the date of the initial delivery provided for in this Agreement until Lessor notifies Lessee in writing that _____ [he or she] is unable to procure the materials after the exercise of a good faith effort. Nothing in this provision or elsewhere in this Lease will be construed as relieving the Lessor of any liability for any breach of this Agreement other than a breach occasioned by the lack of the materials specified in this paragraph.

[If lessee is entitled to damages, including incidental and consequential damages, only if lessee covers as provided in Com. Code § 10518, use:]

[EITHER]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor fails to deliver goods in conformity with this contract or repudiates this contract, Lessee will not be entitled to damages unless _____ [he or she] "covers" by making the purchase or lease of or a contract to purchase or lease goods in substitution for those due from Lessor. Incidental and consequential damages are included within the meaning of "damages" as used in this Paragraph.

[OR]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor fails to deliver goods in conformity with this contract or repudiates this contract, Lessee will be entitled to recover only incidental and consequential damages unless _____ [he or she] "covers" within the meaning of Commercial Code Section 10518 by contracting for substitute goods.

[If lessee is entitled to damages, but will not have the right to cover as provided in Com. Code § 10518, use:]

[EITHER]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor fails to deliver goods in conformity with this contract or repudiates this contract, Lessee's right to damages for nondelivery or repudiation by the lessor, or for rejection or revocation of acceptance by the lessee, will be limited to the present value, as of the date of the default, of the then market rent minus the present value as of the same date of the original rent, computed for the remaining lease term of the original lease agreement, together with incidental and consequential damages, minus expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default, and Lessee will not have the right to "cover" within the meaning of Commercial Code Section 10518.

[OR]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor fails to deliver goods in conformity with this contract or repudiates this contract, Lessee's right to damages for nondelivery or repudiation by the lessor, or for rejection or revocation of acceptance by the lessee, will be limited to the present value, as of the date of the default, of the then market rent minus the present value as of the same date of the original rent, computed for the remaining lease term of the original lease agreement, minus expenses saved in consequence of the lessor's default. Lessee will have no right to "cover" within the meaning of Commercial Code Section 10518 by procuring substitute goods, and no right to incidental or consequential damages.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.231

§ 53.231 Clauses Limiting Damages or Remedies

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses modifying or limiting damages or remedies in accordance with Com. Code § 10503. These clauses may be used in the complete lease forms provided in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, any of these clauses may be added to the remedy provisions contained in § 53.200, Article 17 or in § 53.201, Paragraph 24. For discussion and alternative form clauses pertaining to the concept of "cover," see § 53.230. For discussion of remedies in general, see § 53.15.

[b] Contractual Modification or Limitation of Remedies Generally

Except as otherwise provided in Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10101-10600], a lease agreement may provide for remedies in addition to or in substitution for those provided in that Division. The agreement also may limit or alter the measure of damages recoverable [Com. Code § 10503(a)]. Resort to a remedy provided under the Commercial Code or in the lease agreement is optional unless the remedy is expressly agreed to be exclusive. If circumstances cause an exclusive or limited remedy to fail in its essential purpose, or if the provision for an exclusive remedy is unconscionable, remedy may still be had as provided in Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10503(b); see also Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code].

Division 10 of the Commercial Code does not impair any rights or remedies on default by a lessee or lessor with respect to any obligation or promise collateral or ancillary to the lease contract [Com. Code § 10503(d)]. Defaults with respect to obligations or promises collateral or ancillary to the lease contract are governed by other law [see Com. Code § 10503 (California Comment)].

[c] Consequential Damages

Consequential damages arising from a lessor's default include any loss resulting from general or particular requirements and needs of which the lessor at the time of contracting had reason to know and which could not reasonably be prevented by cover or otherwise [Com. Code § 10520(b)(1)]; see Com. Code § 10518 (cover); see also § 53.230[1]. Additionally, personal injuries and property damage proximately resulting from any breach of warranty may be recoverable as consequential damages [Com. Code § 10520(b)(2)].

Consequential damages may be liquidated [see Com. Code § 10504 (liquidation)], or may be otherwise limited, altered, or excluded unless the limitation, alteration, or exclusion is unconscionable [Com. Code § 10503(c)]; see § 53.232 (liquidated damages)]. The limitation, alteration, or exclusion of consequential damages for personal injury in the case of consumer goods is prima facie unconscionable. However, the limitation, alteration, or exclusion of damages in the context of a commercial loss is not prima facie unconscionable [Com. Code § 10503(c)].

[2] FORM

Clauses Limiting Damages or Remedies

Limitation of Damages or Remedies

[Choose among the following paragraphs, as required:]

[If lessee's remedies will be limited because raw materials required under lease are difficult to obtain, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. The parties to this Agreement acknowledge that obtaining the raw materials essential to the production of the goods leased under this Agreement is difficult, and that the supply of those materials is uncertain. [These raw materials include the following: _____ (specify materials)]. Therefore, it is agreed that if the Lessor is unable after a good faith effort to obtain enough raw materials to properly manufacture _____ percent of the goods required under the terms of this Agreement, Lessee's exclusive remedy will be the return of any money paid on account of the rental amount due for the goods, including any security deposit or advance fee. Nothing in this Agreement will be construed to limit Lessee's rights to any applicable remedy or damages if Lessor fails to properly perform any other obligation under this Agreement.

[If lessee remedies for nonconforming goods or parts will be limited because leased machinery is new and its performance uncertain, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. Because the machinery required in the production of the goods to be leased under this Agreement is complicated and of relatively new design, Lessee agrees to accept all nonconforming deliveries and Lessor agrees to replace or repair all defective or nonconforming goods or parts without any expense whatsoever on the part of Lessee. Replacement and repair will be the sole remedy of Lessee with respect to any nonconforming goods and parts and will be in lieu of any other remedy available under applicable law. The provisions of this Agreement with respect to limitation of remedies will not apply to a failure by Lessor to deliver the goods.

[Regarding incidental damages, choose one of the following, as required:]

[EITHER]

[If lessee will not be entitled to incidental damages, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor breaches or repudiates this Agreement, Lessee will not be entitled to recover any incidental damages as that term is defined in Commercial Code Section 10520.

[OR]

[If lessee will be entitled to incidental damages in addition to statutory incidental damages, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor breaches or repudiates this Agreement, Lessee will be entitled to recover as incidental damages, in addition to those provided for under Division 10 of the Commercial Code, the following:

- (a) Any finder's fee paid to anyone who procured this Agreement for Lessee.
- (b) Any expenses incurred in leasing substitute goods beyond those incurred in effectuating this Agreement.

[Regarding consequential damages, choose one of the following, as required:]

[EITHER]

[If lessee generally will not be entitled to consequential damages, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor breaches or repudiates this Agreement, Lessee will not be entitled to any consequential damages as defined in Division 10 of the Commercial Code, except that if the goods leased are "consumer goods," proven damages for personal injuries caused by the non-negligent operation or use of the leased goods by Lessee will be recoverable.

[OR]

[If lessee will be entitled to consequential damages in addition to other statutory rights, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor breaches or repudiates this Agreement, Lessee will be entitled to recover as consequential damages, in addition to all other rights granted by the Commercial Code, any profit lost on a contract to sublease the goods if Lessee is unable to recover.

[OR]

[If lessee's consequential damages generally will be limited, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor breaches or repudiates this Agreement, Lessee will not be entitled to any consequential damages in excess of $_____. This limitation, however, will not apply to proven damages for personal injuries caused by the leased goods not involving the negligent operation or use of the leased goods by Lessee.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.232

§ 53.232 Liquidated Damages Clauses

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses that may be used to establish liquidated damages as permitted by Com. Code § 10504. Any of these clauses may be used in either of the complete lease forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, any of the clauses may be added to the remedy provisions contained in § 53.200, Article 17, or in § 53.201, Paragraph 24.

For discussion and form provisions pertaining to "cover" as a remedy, see § 53.230. For discussion and form clauses relating to the modification or limitation of damages and remedies other than by "cover," see § 53.231.

[b] Validity of Liquidated Damages Clauses

The parties may provide in the lease agreement that the damages payable by either party for default or "any other act or omission" may be liquidated. The phrase "any other act or omission" includes indemnity for loss or diminution of anticipated tax benefits, or loss or damage to the lessor's residual interest [Com. Code § 10504(a)]. The liquidated damages clause is subject to and must comply with Civ. Code § 1671 [Com. Code § 10504(a); but see [c], below].

The Civil Code sets two standards for determining the validity of liquidated damages provisions [see Civ. Code § 1671]. A liquidated damages provision in a contract for the rental of personal property or services, primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [see Civ. Code § 1671(c)(1)] is void unless the parties state an amount that will be presumed to be the amount of damage sustained by a breach of the contract when, from the nature of the case, it would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix the actual damage [Civ. Code § 1671(d)].

In other contracts, except certain transactions relating to the leasing of real property [see Civ. Code § 1671(c)(2)], a liquidated damages provision for the breach of the contract is valid unless the party seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code § 1671(b)].

[c] Liquidated Damages Under the Commercial Code

When a lessor justifiably withholds or stops delivery of the leased goods because of the lessee's default or insolvency [see Com. Code §§ 10525, 10526], the lessee is entitled to restitution of any amount by which the sum of his or her payments exceeds the amount to which the lessor is entitled as liquidated damages under an agreement in accordance with the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10504(c)(1); see Com. Code § 10504(a) (allowing liquidated damages)]. If there are no liquidated damages provisions, then the lessee is entitled to restitution of 20 percent of the then present value of the total rent the lessee was obligated to pay for the balance of the lease term, or, in the case of a consumer lease, the lesser of that amount or $500 [Com. Code § 10504(c)(2); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) ("consumer lease" defined)].

In either case, the lessee's right to restitution is subject to offset to the extent the lessor establishes a right to recover damages other than liquidated damages and to the extent the lessor establishes the amount or value of any benefits received by the lessee by reason of the lease contract [Com. Code § 10504(d)].

If the lease agreement provides for liquidation of damages and the lease provision does not comply with Com. Code § 10504(a) [see [b], above], the aggrieved party may seek a remedy under Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10504(b)].

[d] Liquidated Damages Formulas

A number of common liquidated damages clauses are used in lease agreements. One formula provides that the sum of the (1) past due lease payments; (2) accelerated future lease payments; and (3) the lessor's estimated residual interest, minus the net proceeds of disposition (whether by sale or release) of the leased goods equals the lessor's damages. This formula may also include tax indemnities, costs, interest, and attorneys' fees. A second common formula uses a periodic depreciation allocation as a credit to the amount computed under the first formula, above. Other formulas include the use of a fixed number of periodic payments or of stipulated loss schedules as a means of liquidating damages [see Com. Code § 10504 (California Comment)]. For an example of a stipulated loss schedule, see the Schedule in § 53.200.

[2] FORM

Liquidated Damages Clauses

Liquidated Damages

[Choose among the following paragraphs, as required:]

[If lease covers goods generally available on the open market, use:]

[EITHER]

____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessee wrongfully refuses to accept the goods, _____ [he or she] must pay to Lessor, in lieu of the enforcement of this Lease, as liquidated damages and not as a penalty, the sum of $ _____. In addition, if shipment has been made, Lessee must also reimburse Lessor for all costs of shipment.

[OR]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. Lessee will have the right to terminate this Lease by giving notice to Lessor in accordance with Paragraph _____ of this Lease before the goods are shipped, provided that Lessee tenders to Seller _____ [e.g., one third] of the balance of rental payments due with _____ [his or her] notice of termination. The sum of _____ [e.g., one third] of the balance of rental payments will constitute liquidated damages and not a penalty, and will be the exclusive remedy of Lessor when notice of termination is properly given. The liquidated damages are assessed to cover Lessor's usual costs of processing this contract (including payment of lease commission), recordkeeping, and profit.

[OR]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. If Lessor fails to deliver leased goods conforming to this contract, _____ [he or she] will pay Lessee the sum of $ _____ as liquidated damages and not as a penalty.

[If leased goods will be specifically manufactured by lessor for lessee, use:]

_____ [specify paragraph number]. Because the goods leased under this Lease are to be specially manufactured by Lessor and are not readily available on the open market, [add as required: and because the goods are to become part of the machinery operated by Lessee], any failure to deliver the goods as required by this Lease will delay Lessee's manufacturing operations and result in substantial damages. For this reason, and because of the difficulty of accurately proving loss and the nonfeasibility of Lessee's obtaining an adequate remedy, Lessor agrees to pay as liquidated damages and not as a penalty the following amounts:

(a) For each day's delay in delivery Lessor agrees to pay $ _____ up to a maximum of _____ [specify number, e.g., 15] days;

(b) If at the end of _____ [specify number, e.g., 15] days subsequent to the time of delivery, Lessee has not received the goods, Lessor will pay in addition to the per diem amounts the sum of $ _____; and

(c) If Lessor notifies Lessee in accordance with Paragraph _____ of this Lease that the goods will not be delivered as provided in this Lease, and if Lessee can obtain the goods elsewhere before the expiration of _____ [specify number] days after the time of delivery provided in this Lease, then the Lessor will pay as liquidated damages the per diem rate for the time of the resulting delay, plus the difference between the rental rate in the Lease and the amount Lessee pays to lease the goods from another source.

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses limiting the lessor's right to identify goods to the lease contract after the lessee's default. Any of these clauses may be used in either of the complete lease forms contained in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, any of the clauses may be added to the description of goods provision contained in § 53.201, Article 1. When added to one of the complete lease forms, the paragraphs following the inserted provision will require renumbering. For discussion of the identification of goods, see § 53.252[1].

[b] Lessor's Right to Identify Goods to Contract After Lessee's Default Generally

Unless otherwise agreed [see Com. Code § 1302 (variation of Commercial Code provisions)], the lessor's right to identify goods to the lease contract after a default is governed by Com. Code § 10524. An aggrieved lessor may (1) identify to the lease contract conforming goods not already identified if, at the time the seller learns of the default, the goods are in the lessor's (or supplier's) possession or control; and (2) dispose of any goods that demonstrably have been intended for the particular lease contract even if the goods are unfinished [Com. Code § 10524(a); see Com. Code §§ 10523(a), (c)(1) (statutory instances of default), 10527(a) (disposition of goods); see also § 53.15[3] (lessor's remedies)].

[c] Unfinished Goods

When a default occurs and the leased goods are unfinished, an aggrieved lessor or supplier may choose his or her remedy in identifying the goods to the contract. The parties may avoid loss and realize their intent by exercising reasonable commercial judgment when selecting the remedy. The lessor or supplier may either (1) complete manufacture and wholly identify the goods to the lease contract; (2) cease manufacture and lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of the goods for scrap or salvage value; or (3) proceed in any other reasonable manner [Com. Code § 10524(b)].

The effect of these rights is to allow the lessor or supplier the more ascertainable measure of damages associated with identified goods rather than a general cause of action for damages [see Com. Code §§ 10527 (lessor's right to dispose of goods), 10528 (damages); see also Com. Code § 2704 (UCC Comment) (seller's right to salvage unfinished goods)].

§ 53.234 Clauses Specifying Risk of Loss in Absence of Breach

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses specifying when the risk of loss passes from the lessor to the lessee. It also includes a clause providing that the parties will share any loss occurring before the goods reach the lessee, to the extent not covered by applicable insurance policies. Designation of the time for the passing of the risk of loss varies under these alternatives. The earliest specified time is the time the goods are identified to the lease contract; the latest is when the lessee has actually received the goods.

The best alternative in any given transaction depends on the circumstances surrounding the transaction, and the parties' desires. In choosing an alternative, the parties should consider the value of the goods to be leased, the likelihood that a loss will occur, and whether insurance will cover any loss. For goods that are subject to increased risk of loss (such as sensitive computer equipment), the lessor may want the risk of loss to pass to the lessee as soon as possible, while the lessee may want to delay assumption of the risk until the goods are actually in his or her possession.

For discussion and alternative provisions regarding the risk of loss in the event of breach, see § 53.235. For further discussion of the passage of the risk of loss, see § 53.14.

[b] Risk of Loss Absent Breach

Unless otherwise agreed to by the parties [see Com. Code § 1302 (variation by agreement)], the risk of loss generally remains with the lessor and does not pass to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a)]. However, in the case of a finance lease, the risk of loss passes to the lessee [Com. Code § 10219(a); see § 53.201[1]].

If the risk of loss is to pass to the lessee and the time of passage is not set, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on his or her receipt of the goods if the lessor (or, in the case of a finance lease, the supplier) is a merchant [Com. Code §

10219(b)(3); see Com. Code §§ 2104(1) ("merchant" defined), 10103(a)(24) ("supplier" defined)]. Under those same conditions, if the lessor or supplier is not a merchant, the risk passes to the lessee on tender of delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(3)]. These rules do not apply if the transaction involves a lease contract that requires or authorizes the goods to be shipped by carrier [see Com. Code § 10219(b)(1); [c], below] or involves goods held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved [see Com. Code § 10219(b)(2); [d], below].

[c] Risk of Loss If Contract Requires or Authorizes Lessor to Ship Goods by Carrier

If the lease contract requires or authorizes the goods to be shipped by carrier, and does not require the lessor to deliver them at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier [Com. Code § 10219(b)(1)(A)]. If, however, the lease contract requires the lessor to deliver the goods at a particular destination, and the goods are tendered at that destination while in the carrier's possession, the risk of loss passes to the lessee when the goods are tendered there, enabling the lessee to take delivery [Com. Code § 10219(b)(1)(B)].

[d] Risk of Loss If Goods Are Held by Bailee

When the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the lessee on acknowledgment by the bailee of the lessee's right to possession of the goods [Com. Code § 10219(b)(2); for discussion of bailments, see Ch. 102, Bailments].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.235

§ 53.235 Clauses Specifying Risk of Loss in Event of Breach

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses that specify the effect of breach on risk of loss. If the risk of loss is to pass to the lessee and the time of passage of the risk is not stated, the rules specified in Com. Code § 10220 apply [see Com. Code § 10220(a)]. If a tender or delivery fails to conform to the contract so as to give a right of rejection, the risk of loss pertaining to the goods under the lease contract remains on the lessor (or the supplier, in the case of a finance lease) until cure or acceptance [Com. Code § 10220(a)(1)]. If the lessee rightfully revokes acceptance, he or she, to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage, may treat the risk of loss as having remained with the lessor from the beginning [Com. Code § 10220(a)(2)].

Whether or not the risk of loss is to pass to the lessee, if the lessee repudiates or is otherwise in default as to conforming goods already identified to the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10217 (identification)], the lessor (or the supplier, in the case of a finance lease) to the extent of any deficiency in his or her effective insurance coverage may treat the risk of loss as resting on the lessee for a commercially reasonable time [Com. Code § 10220(b)].

For discussion and alternative provisions regarding the risk of loss absent breach, see § 53.234. For further discussion of the passage of the risk of loss, see § 53.14.

3. Breach and Remedies

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.236

§ 53.236 Clauses Specifying Method of Disposal on Breach

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative clauses that place limitations and specifications on the lessor's right to dispose of goods after a default by the lessee. These clauses may be used in either of the complete lease forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, any of the clauses may be added to the remedy provisions contained in § 53.200, Article 17 or to the default provision contained in § 53.201, Paragraph 24. If a clause is added, the paragraphs in the lease that follow the clause will require renumbering.

[b] Right of Disposal After Breach

In the absence of agreement to the contrary [see Com. Code § 10503], after a default by the lessee [see Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1)], after the lessor rightfully refuses to deliver or takes possession of the goods [see Com. Code §§ 10525, 10526], or, if agreed, after other default by the lessee, the lessor may dispose of the goods concerned or the undelivered balance of those goods by lease, sale, or otherwise [Com. Code § 10527(a)].

A subsequent buyer or lessee who in good faith and for value buys or leases goods from the lessor as a result of a disposition under Com. Code § 10527 takes the goods free of the original lease contract and any rights of the original lessee. This protection applies even though the lessor failed to comply with one or more requirements of Division 10 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 10527(d)].

The lessor is not accountable to the lessee for any profit made on any disposition [Com. Code § 10527(e)].

[c] Recoverable Damages

A lessor who disposes goods under Com. Code § 10527 may recover damages from the lessee under specified circumstances. Except when the lease agreement provides for liquidated damages [see Com. Code § 10504 (liquidation); see also § 53.232], or when otherwise agreed to by the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302, 10503], statutory damages are available if the lessor's disposition is by a lease agreement substantially similar to the original lease. The new lease agreement must be made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 10527(b)].

When available, the lessor may recover the following from the lessee as damages [Com. Code § 10527(b)]:

- Accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of the commencement of the term of the new lease agreement.
- The present value, as of the same date, of the total rent for the then remaining lease term of the original lease agreement, minus the present value, as of the same date, of the rent under the new lease agreement applicable to that period of the new lease term that is comparable to the then remaining term of the original lease agreement.
- Any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, minus expenses saved by the lessor as a consequence of the lessee's default.

If the lessor's disposition is by lease agreement that for any reason does not qualify for recovery damages under Com. Code § 10527(b), or is by sale or otherwise, the lessor may recover from the lessee as if the lessor had elected not to dispose of the goods [Com. Code § 10527(c)]. In this case, Com. Code § 10528 (providing for lessor's measure of damages) governs [Com. Code § 10527(c)].

Except when the lease agreement provides for liquidated damages [see Com. Code § 10504; see also § 53.232], or when otherwise agreed to by the parties [see Com. Code §§ 1302, 10503], if a lessor elects to retain the goods or a lessor elects to dispose of the goods and the disposition is by lease agreement that for any reason does not qualify for treatment under Com. Code § 10527(b) (discussed above), or is by sale or otherwise, the measure of damages for a statutory default [see Com. Code § 10523(a), (c)(1)], or, if agreed, for other default by the lessee, is set by the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 10528]. Under these circumstances, the measure of damages available to the lessor on default by the lessee is [Com. Code § 10528(a)]:

- Accrued and unpaid rent as of the date of default if the lessee has never taken possession of the goods, or, if the lessee has taken possession of the goods, as of the date the lessor repossesses the goods or an earlier date on which the lessee makes a tender of the goods to the lessor;
- The present value (as of the date determined under the preceding item, above) of the total rent for the then remaining term of the original lease agreement, minus the present value as of the same date of the market rent at the place where the goods are located computed for the same lease term; and
- Any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, minus expenses saved by the lessor as a consequence of the lessee's default.

If the measure of damages provided under Com. Code § 10528(a) is inadequate to put the lessor in as good a position as performance would have, the lessor is entitled to an alternative damage formula. Under the alternative formula, the measure of damages is the present value of the profit (including reasonable overhead) the lessor would have made from full performance by the lessee, together with any incidental damages allowed under Com. Code § 10530, with allowance for costs reasonably incurred and credit for payments or proceeds of disposition [Com. Code § 10528(b)].

§ 53.250 Maintenance and Service Provision

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains an alternative provision to establish the lessor's responsibility for the maintenance and service of the leased property. It is designed to be substituted for Article 6 of the general lease form in § 53.200[2]. Using this provision converts that lease into a full service or maintenance lease. The lessor undertakes the duty to provide all maintenance, repairs, and parts for the leased property. The lessee agrees to properly use the property and to give notice to the lessor of any need for service. If the property requires regular maintenance services, a schedule may be attached to the lease specifying the intervals and services to be provided by the lessor.

For further discussion of full service leases, see § 53.10[4].

Lessor agrees, at its own cost and expense (unless otherwise provided in this Lease or any attached Schedule) to provide regular inspection, all required maintenance and repairs, and all replacement services and parts for the leased property. Lessor agrees to provide these services on the premises of Lessee unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

[Optional: Regular maintenance and service will be provided according to the attached Schedule

Lessee's Responsibilities

6.02. Lessee agrees to provide Lessor with entry and access to any facility where the leased property is located for the purposes of providing regular service and repair. In the event any equipment for any reason becomes disabled, Lessee will immediately advise Lessor of the disability, specifying where the equipment is located, the nature of the disability, and any known cause. Lessee agrees that it will not make any repairs or adjustments to the equipment without Lessor's prior consent, and will abide by Lessor's decision concerning the time and place at which any repairs will be made.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an optional lease provision for use in the event that the lease term begins before the lessee is able to obtain the insurance certificate that is usually required by the lease. In this form, the lessee authorizes the lessor to insure the property at lessee's expense. If the lessor does not obtain insurance, the burden of any loss is on the lessee.

This provision is intended to be inserted as Paragraph 12.04 of the general lease form in § 53.200[2]. It may also be renumbered and adapted for use in § 53.201[2] [see § 53.201, P 18].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.252

§ 53.252 Clauses Establishing When Identification of Goods Occurs

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternative clauses fixing the time at which the goods are identified to the lease contract. Any of these clauses may be used in either of the complete lease forms in this chapter [see §§ 53.200, 53.201]. For example, the appropriate clause may be added to the description of goods provision in § 53.200, Article 1. If a clause is added, the paragraphs in the lease that follow the clause will require renumbering.

Establishing the precise time at which the goods are identified to the contract is important for determining the parties' rights and liabilities. These clauses may be modified to express the specific needs and circumstances of the parties. However, the supplementing provisions of Division 10 of the Commercial Code will remedy the omission of an identification provision [see [b], below].

For alternative clauses that may be used to limit the right of the lessor to identify goods to the contract after a default by the lessee, see § 53.233. For discussion of remedies available to either party in the event of default, see § 53.15.

[b] Determining When Identification Occurs

Identification of goods as goods to which a lease contract refers may be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by the parties. In the absence of explicit agreement, identification occurs [Com. Code § 10217]:

- When the lease contract is made, if it is for the lease of goods that are existing and identified;
- When the goods are shipped, marked, or otherwise designated by the lessor as goods to which the lease contract refers, if the lease contract is for a lease of goods that are not existing and identified; or

- When the young are conceived, if the lease is for the unborn young of animals.

[c] Insurable Interest as a Result of Identification

When existing goods are identified to a lease contract, a lessee obtains an insurable interest in the goods even if the identified goods are nonconforming and the lessee has an option to reject them [Com. Code § 10218(a)]. If a lessee has an insurable interest solely due to the lessor's identification of the goods, the lessor, until default or insolvency or notification to the lessee that the identification is final, may substitute other goods for those identified [Com. Code § 10218(b)].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.260

§ 53.260 Federal Consumer Leasing Act Disclosure Statement: Furniture Leases

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the model form issued by the Federal Reserve System pursuant to authority found in the Truth in Lending Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.; see also 15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq. (Consumer Leasing Act); 12 C.F.R. pt. 213 (Regulation M)]. The Federal Reserve System has published three model disclosure forms that may be used for specific leasing transactions. This form provides for the disclosure of specific information relating to a lease of furniture by a consumer [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-3 (Model Furniture Lease Disclosures); [2], below]. Other forms include Model Open-End or Finance Vehicle Lease Disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-1] and Model Closed-End or Net Vehicle Lease Disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-2].

Although Regulation M [12 C.F.R. pt. 213] applies to leases of all types of personal property such as furniture, much of the focus of the regulation is on motor vehicle leasing. Because regulatory issues have most often arisen in that context, Regulation M limits some of its disclosure, formatting, and advertising requirements to leases for motor vehicles [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I]. Therefore, although this form may be adapted to other qualifying personal property lease transactions, it should not be used for vehicle leasing transactions. Detailed discussion of vehicle leases, including coverage of open-end and closed-end vehicle lease clauses, is contained in Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

Notwithstanding the model disclosure form, the required disclosures may be made in a lease contract to be signed by the lessee [15 U.S.C. § 1667a; see [d], below (general form for disclosures)]. The form contained in § 53.200[2] may be adapted accordingly [see 12 C.F.R. 213.4 (content of disclosures); [d], [f], [g], below]. More commonly, however, the model form is used as a separate disclosure document, and other lease documents are used to provide additional information, if applicable, on such items as early termination, purchase options and maintenance responsibilities, warranties, late and default charges, and any security interest [see 12 C.F.R. 213.3(a); see also 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, app. A-3 (Model Furniture Lease Disclosures); [2], below (Other Important Terms)].

[b] Application of Federal Consumer Leasing Act

The federal Consumer Leasing Act (CLA) [15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.] applies to all leases of personal property ("consumer leases") for a period of greater than four months, for a total contractual obligation of not greater than $25,000. The property leased must be primarily intended for personal, family, or household purposes. Whether or not the lessee has the option to purchase the property at the end of the lease term is not a factor. Leases for agricultural, business, or commercial purposes, or to a governmental agency or instrumentality, or to an organization, are excluded from the Act's coverage [15 U.S.C. § 1667(1); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1)].

Lease transactions that meet the definition of a credit sale found in Regulation Z are exempted from the Act [12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(2); see 12 C.F.R. § 226.2(a)(16) ("credit sale" defined)]. The Act also is inapplicable to lease transactions of personal property that are incidental to the lease of real property and provide that (1) the lessee has no liability for the value of the property at the end of lease term except for abnormal wear and tear; and (2) the lessee has no option to purchase the leased property [12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(3)].

For further discussion of the application of the federal Consumer Leasing Act, see § 53.18.

[c] Effect of California Law

The federal Consumer Leasing Act [15 U.S.C. § 1667 et seq.] preempts California law to the extent that any California law is inconsistent with the Act's provisions [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667e; 12 C.F.R. § 213.9].

The California Vehicle Leasing Act [see Civ. Code §§ 2985.7-2990] duplicates the coverage of the federal Act, as it applies to motor vehicle leases and services incidental to those leases, and requires further disclosures not inconsistent with the federal Act. For further discussion of the California Vehicle Leasing Act, see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing.

All other personal property lease transactions that meet the federal definition of a consumer lease [see [b], above] must comply with the disclosure and advertising requirements of the federal Consumer Leasing Act.

[d] Form of Disclosures

A lessor must make the applicable required disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4; [i], below] clearly and conspicuously in writing, in a form the consumer may keep [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)].

The required disclosures must be given to the lessee together in a dated statement that identifies the lessor and the lessee [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(1)]. The disclosures may be made either in a separate statement that identifies the consumer lease transaction or in the contract or other document evidencing the lease [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(1)]. Alternatively, the disclosures required to be segregated from other information [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(2); [f], below] may be provided in a separate dated statement that identifies the lease, and the other required disclosures may be provided in the lease contract or other document evidencing the lease [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(1)]. In a lease of multiple items, the property description [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(a); [f], below] may be given in a separate statement that is incorporated by reference in this required disclosure statement [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(1)].

[e] Electronic Disclosures

The disclosures required by Regulation M [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4; [1][b], [c], above] may be provided to the lessee in electronic form, subject to compliance with the consumer consent and other applicable provisions of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (E-Sign Act) (15 U.S.C. § 7001 et seq.) [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)]. For an advertisement accessed by the consumer in electronic form, the required disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.7] may be provided to the consumer in electronic form in the advertisement, without regard to the consumer consent or other provisions of the E-Sign Act [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)].

The disclosures must be made clearly and conspicuously in writing in a form the consumer may keep [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)]. Electronic disclosures are subject to this requirement [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a); see also 12 C.F.R. § 213.3(b)-(e) (form of disclosures, segregation of certain disclosures, timing, and language); [d], above].

[f] Segregation of Certain Disclosures

The following disclosures relating to consumer leases must be segregated from other information [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(2); see [i], below (specific disclosure requirements)]:

- Amount due at lease signing [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(b)].
- Payment schedule and total amount of periodic payments [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(c)].
- Other charges [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(d)].
- Total of payments [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(e)].
- Payment calculation [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(f)].
- Early termination notice [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(g)(2)].
- Notice of wear and use standard [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(h)(3)].
- Purchase option, if any, and purchase price at end of lease term [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(i)(1)].
- Statement referencing nonsegregated disclosures [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(j)].
- Liability at end of lease term, based on residual value, of rent and other incidental charges [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(m)(1)].

In addition to being segregated, these disclosures must contain only directly related information; and their headings, content, and format must be provided in a manner substantially similar to the model form [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(2); see [2], below].

[g] Timing of Disclosures

A lessor must provide the disclosures to the lessee before the consummation of the consumer lease [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(3)].

[h] Language of Disclosures

The disclosures required by 12 C.F.R. § 213.4 (content of disclosures) may be made in a language other than English provided that they are made available in English on the lessee's request [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(4)].

[i] Specific Disclosure Requirements

In any lease transaction subject to regulation by the federal Consumer Leasing Act [15 U.S.C. § 1667-1667f], the following items, as applicable, must be disclosed [see, e.g., [2], below (model furniture lease disclosures)]:

- A brief description or identification of the leased property [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(1); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(a)].
- The amount due at lease signing [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(2); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(b)].
- The amount paid or payable by the lessee for official fees, registration, certificate of title, license fees, or taxes [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(3); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(n)].
- The amount of other charges payable by the lessee not included in the periodic payments; a description of the charges and that the lessee will be liable for the differential, if any, between the anticipated fair market value of the leased property and its appraised actual value at the termination of the lease, if the lessee has that liability, excluding any liability between residual and realized values [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(4); 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(d); see 12 C.F.R. §§ 213.4(k) (liability between residual and realized values), 213.4(t) (end term liability for non-motor vehicle open-end leases); see also 15 U.S.C. § 1667b(a) (lessee's liability on expiration or termination of lease; presumptions)].
- A statement of the amount or method of determining the amount of any liabilities the lease imposes on the lessee at the end of the term [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(5); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(d) (other charges)], and whether or not the lessee has the option to purchase the leased property and at what price and time [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(5); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(i) (purchase option)].
- A statement identifying all express warranties and guarantees made by the manufacturer or lessor with respect to the leased property [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(6); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(p) (warranties or guarantees)], and identifying the party responsible for maintaining and servicing the leased property, together with a description of the responsibility [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(6); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(h) (maintenance responsibilities)].
- A brief identification of insurance provided or paid for by the lessor, or required of the lessee, including the types and amounts of coverages and costs [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(7); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(o) (insurance)].
- A description of any security interest held or to be retained by the lessor in connection with the lease and a clear identification of the property to which the security interest relates [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(8); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(r) (security interest)].
- The number, amount, and due dates or periods of payments scheduled under the lease and the total amount of those periodic payments [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(9); see 12 C.F.R. §§ 213.4(c) (payment schedule and total amount of periodic payments), 213.4(e); (total payments); see also 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(f); (payment calculation)].
- When the lease provides that the lessee will be liable for the anticipated fair market value of the property on expiration of the lease, the fair market value of the property at the inception of the lease, the aggregate cost of the lease on expiration, and the differential between them [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(10); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(k) (liability between residual and realized values); see also 12 C.F.R. §§ 213.2(m) ("realized value" defined), 213.2(n) ("residual value" defined)].
- A statement of the conditions under which the lessee or lessor may terminate the lease before the end of the term [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(11); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(g) (early termination)], and the amount or method of determining any penalty or other charge for delinquency, default, late payments, or early termination [15 U.S.C. § 1667a(11); see 15 U.S.C. § 1667b(b) (penalties for early termination, default, delinquency); 12 C.F.R. §§ 213.4(g)(1) (early termination conditions and disclosure of charges), 213.4(q) (penalties and other charges for delinquency)].

- If the lessee's liability at early termination or at the end of the lease term is based on the realized value of the leased property, a statement that the lessee may obtain, at the lessee's expense, a professional appraisal, which will be final and binding, of the value that could be realized at the sale of the leased property [15 U.S.C. § 1667b(c); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(k)(1) (right of appraisal)].

- A statement referencing nonsegregated disclosures [12 C.F.R. § 213.4(j); cf. 12 C.F.R. § 213.3(a)(2) (segregated disclosures) and 12 C.F.R. § 213.4 (disclosures generally)].

The lessor may provide additional information with any disclosure except those required to be segregated [see 12 C.F.R. 213.3(a)(2); [f], above]. However, additional information may not be stated, used, or placed so as to mislead the lessee or contradict, obscure, or detract attention from any required disclosure [12 C.F.R. 213.3(b)]. The lessor may also use a reasonable estimate if an amount or other item needed to comply with a required disclosure is unknown or unavailable, as long as the estimate is based on the best information available to the lessor, is clearly identified as an estimate, and is not used to circumvent or evade any required disclosure [12 C.F.R. 213.3(d)].

When a transaction involves more than one lessor, only one lessor is required to make the necessary disclosures. When a lease involves more than one lessee, the disclosures may be made to any lessee who is primarily liable on the lease [12 C.F.R. § 213.3(c)].

[j] Restrictions on Advertising

The federal Consumer Leasing Act governs advertising of consumer lease transactions [see 15 U.S.C. § 1667c; 12 C.F.R. § 213.7; see also 15 U.S.C. § 1667(1); 12 C.F.R. § 213.2(e)(1) ("consumer lease" defined); [b], above]. The general rule is that an advertisement for a consumer lease may state that a specific lease of property at specific amounts or terms is available only if the lessor usually and customarily leases or will lease the property at those amounts or terms [12 C.F.R. § 213.7(a)].

The advertising rules related to consumer leases [12 C.F.R. § 213.7] specify the manner in which two types of disclosures may not be made. First, except for the statement of a periodic rate, any reference to a charge that is part of the total amount due at lease signing or delivery may not be more prominent than the disclosure of the total amount due at lease signing or delivery [12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)(1)]. Second, if the lessor provides a percentage rate (lease rate) in an advertisement, the rate must not be more prominent than any of the disclosures specified in 12 C.F.R. § 213.4 [see [i], above], with the exception of the notice required to accompany the percentage rate of the lease [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(s) (notice and limitations on rate information)]. Further, the lessor must not use the term "annual percentage rate," "annual lease rate," or an equivalent term [12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)(2)].

Additionally, the advertising rules specify certain terms that "trigger" additional disclosures [see 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(d)]. An advertisement that states the amount of any payment, or any capitalized cost reduction, or other payment required before or at consummation or by delivery (if delivery occurs after consummation) must also contain the following disclosures [15 U.S.C. § 1667c; 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(d); see 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(e), (f) (alternative disclosures for merchandise tags and television or radio advertisements)]:

- That the transaction advertised is a lease.
- The total amount due before or at consummation or delivery (if delivery occurs after consummation).

- The number, amounts, due dates or periods of scheduled payments under the lease.
- A statement of whether or not a security deposit is required.
- A statement that an extra charge may be imposed at the end of the lease term if the lessee's liability (if any) is based on the difference between the residual value of the leased property and its realized value at the end of the lease term.

Required disclosures must be made clearly and conspicuously [12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)]. For example, very fine print in a television advertisement or detailed and rapidly stated information in a radio advertisement does not meet the clear and conspicuous requirement if consumers cannot see and read or comprehend all of the information required to be disclosed [12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I].

For advertisements using electronic communication, to satisfy the prominence rule in 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)(1), both the triggering terms and the required disclosures must appear in the same location so that they can be viewed simultaneously [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I, comment 7(c)-2]. The notice required, under 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)(2), to accompany a percentage rate stated in an advertisement must be placed in close proximity to the rate without any other intervening language or symbols [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I, comment 7(b)-2]. For example, a lessor may not place an asterisk next to the rate and place the notice elsewhere in the advertisement [12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I, comment 7(b)-2]. In addition, with the exception of the notice required by 12 C.F.R. § 213.4(s) (notice and limitations on rate information), the rate cannot be more prominent than any other Section 213.4 disclosure stated in the advertisement [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I, comment 7(b)-2; 12 C.F.R. § 213.4; see also [I], above (Section 213.4 disclosure requirements)]. For advertisements using electronic communication, to comply with proximity rule in 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)(2), both the rate and the accompanying notice must appear in the same location so that they can be viewed simultaneously. The prominence rule in 12 C.F.R. § 213.7(b)(2) is not met if the disclosures can be viewed only by use of a link that connects the consumer to the information appearing at another location [see 12 C.F.R. pt. 213, supp. I, comment 7(c)-2].

This form is a notice from the lessee to the lessor that the property to be leased has been delivered, installed, and accepted. This notice is generally required in a finance lease transaction [see § 53.201]. Under the terms of most leases, the delivery of the property to the lessee by the supplier is the event that triggers the lessee's obligation to make rent payments.

CHAPTER 53 PERSONAL PROPERTY LEASING
PART IV. FORMS
C. Disclosure and Notice Forms

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.262

§ 53.262 Notice of Material or Indefinite Delay

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of the material or indefinite delay of the lessor's (or in the case of a finance lease, a supplier's) performance under a personal property lease. Notice of a delay, nondelivery, or allocation [see Com. Code § 10405(2)] (allocation); [b], below] must be given by the lessor (or supplier, in a finance lease) [Com. Code § 10405(3)]. Proper compliance with the notification requirement will prevent the lessor's or supplier's default for delay or nondelivery under specified circumstances [Com. Code § 10405(1); see [c], below].

For a form for a lessee's response to this notice concerning the termination or modification of the underlying lease, see § 53.263.

[b] Notification In General

Delay in delivery, nondelivery in whole or in part, or allocation by a lessor or supplier is not a default under the lease contract in certain situations. The lessor or supplier is not in default if performance as agreed has been made impracticable by the occurrence of a contingency not contemplated under the contract or by good faith compliance with any applicable foreign or domestic governmental regulation or order. However, the lessor or supplier must comply with Commercial Code requirements for allocated performance and notification [Com. Code § 10405(1); see Com. Code § 10405(2), (3)].

The lessor must seasonably notify the lessee and, in the case of a finance lease, the supplier must seasonably notify the lessor and the lessee, if known, that there will be delay or nondelivery [Com. Code § 10405(3); see Com. Code § 1205(b)] (actions seasonably taken)]. If the lessor's or supplier's capacity to perform is only partially affected, he or she must fairly and reasonably allocate production and deliveries among his or her customers and notify the customer of the allocation [Com. Code § 10405(2)].

[c] Effect of Notification on Lessee

If the lessee receives notification of a material or indefinite delay or an allocation justified under Com. Code § 10405 (excused performance) [see [b], above], the lessee may pursue a number of alternative remedies. On written notice to the lessor as to any goods involved, and with respect to all of the goods if, under an installment lease contract, the value of the whole lease contract is substantially impaired [see Com. Code § 10510 (installment lease contract defaults)], the lessee may [Com. Code § 10406(a)]:

- Terminate the lease contract [see Com. Code § 10505(b) (termination)]; or
- Except in a finance lease, modify the lease contract by accepting the available quota in substitution, with due allowance from the rent payable for the balance of the lease term for the deficiency but without further right against the lessor.

If, after receipt of a notification from the lessor pursuant to Com. Code § 10405 [see [b], above], the lessee fails to modify the lease agreement within a reasonable time not exceeding 30 days, the lease contract lapses with respect to any deliveries affected [Com. Code § 10406(b)]. For a form for the lessee's response to a notice of delay or nondelivery, see § 53.263.

[d] Substituted Performance

The rules relating to delivery and notification of delay or allocation are subject to a provision governing substituted performance [see Com. Code §§ 10404, 10405]. If without fault of the lessee, the lessor, and the supplier, the agreed methods of carriage and delivery fail, become unavailable, or otherwise become commercially impracticable and a commercially reasonable substitute is available, the substitute performance must be tendered and accepted [Com. Code § 10404(a)].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.263

§ 53.263 Notice of Termination or Modification

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of the lessee's intent to terminate or modify the lease under Com. Code § 10406 (procedure on excused performance). It may be used in response to the receipt of a notice of material or indefinite delay or an allocation in the delivery of leased goods [see Com. Code § 10405]. For a sample form for that notice, see § 53.262.

The Commercial Code provides for different remedial treatment of installment lease contracts and other lease contracts [see Com. Code § 10406(a); see also Com. Code § 10510 (installment contracts)]. This form contains an alternative provision for termination of an installment lease contract.

[b] Termination or Modification of Lease Contract Following Notice of Allocation

On receipt of a notice of material or indefinite delay or an allocation in accordance with Com. Code § 10405, a lessee may terminate the lease [Com. Code § 10406(a)(1)]. Alternatively, except in a finance lease [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(7) (definition)], a lessee may modify the lease contract by accepting the available quota in substitution for the agreed delivery, with allowance for the rent payable for the balance of the lease term for the deficiency [Com. Code § 10406(a)(2)]. In these circumstances, however, the lessee will have no further right against the lessor [Com. Code § 10406(a)(2)]. The lessee must modify the lease contract within a reasonable period not exceeding 30 days after receipt of the notice of delay. Failure to modify causes the lease contract to lapse with respect to any deliveries affected [Com. Code § 10406(b)]. For further discussion of the lessee's rights regarding delays in delivery, see § 53.262[1].

For further discussion of the modification of lease contracts, see § 53.287[1].

This form is a notice to a supplier that the lessee has entered into a finance lease related to a supply contract. The form may be completed by either the lessee or the lessor and delivered to the supplier. For further discussion of supply contracts and finance leases in general, see § 53.201[1].

Any modification or rescission of the supply contract by the supplier and the lessor is effective between the supplier and the lessee unless, before the modification or rescission, the supplier has received notice that the lessee has entered into a finance lease related to the supply contract. If the modification or rescission is effective between the supplier and the lessee, the lessor is deemed to have assumed (in addition to the lessor's obligations to the lessee under the lease contract) all the promises of the supplier to the lessor and the warranties that were so modified or rescinded as they existed and were available to the lessee before the modification or rescission [*Com. § 53.266 Notice of Lessee's Intent to Deduct Damages

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of the lessee's intent to deduct damages under Com. Code § 10508. It may be used in conjunction with the lessee's other remedial measures in the event of a default by the lessor. For further discussion of the lessee's remedies, see § 53.15[2].

[b] Deduction of Damages

Subject to the provisions of Com. Code § 10407 governing finance leases that are not consumer leases [see Com. Code § 10407 (irrevocable promises)], a lessee has the right to deduct damages resulting from any default under the lease contract from any part of the rent still due under the contract.

The lessee must notify the lessor of his or her intent to do so and then may deduct all or part of the damages from any part of the rent still due under the same lease contract [Com. Code § 10508(f)].

If the lease is a finance lease that is not also a consumer lease, the lessee's promises under the lease contract become irrevocable and independent once the lessee has accepted the goods [Com. Code § 10407(a); see Com. Code § 10103(a)(5) ("consumer lease" defined), (7) ("finance lease" defined)]. This provision precludes the lessee from invoking the deduction remedy in this type of transaction [see Com. Code § 10508(f)].

For further discussion of the remedies available in personal property lease transactions, see § 53.15.

This form is a notice of acceptance by performance. Unless otherwise unambiguously indicated by the language or the circumstances, an offer to make a lease contract must be construed as inviting acceptance in any manner and by any medium reasonable in the circumstances [Com. Code § 10206(a)]. When the beginning of the requested performance constitutes a reasonable mode of acceptance, the offeree must notify the offeror when he or she begins performance. An offeror who is not notified of acceptance within a reasonable time may treat the offer as having lapsed before acceptance [Com. Code § 10206(b)]. 21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.268

§ 53.268 Notice of Rejection of Goods

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides alternative notices of rejection of leased goods by the lessee. These alternatives are for use by the lessee in order to effectively reject nonconforming goods [see [b], below].

For discussion of the statutory remedies available to parties involved in lease transactions, see § 53.15.

[b] Lessee's Right of Rejection Generally

If the goods or the tender or delivery fail in any respect to conform to the lease contract, the lessee may reject or accept the goods. If applicable, the lessee may accept any commercial unit or units and reject the rest of the goods [Com. Code § 10509(a)]. In order to effectively reject the goods, a lessee must do so within a reasonable time after tender or delivery of the goods. In addition, the lessee must seasonably [see Com. Code § 1205(b) (definition)] notify the lessor [Com. Code § 10509(b)].

In rejecting goods, a lessee's failure to state a particular defect that is ascertainable by reasonable inspection precludes the lessee from relying on the defect to justify rejection or to establish default (1) if, stated seasonably, the lessor or supplier could have cured the defect; or (2) between merchants, if the lessor or supplier after rejection has made a request in writing for a statement of all defects on which the lessee intends to rely [Com. Code § 10514(a); see § 53.288].

Once accepted, leased goods generally may not be rejected by a lessee [see Com. Code § 10516(b)]. For discussion of a lessee's rights relating to defects discovered after acceptance of leased goods and a notice for informing the lessor or supplier of those defects, see § 53.270.

[c] Installment Lease Contracts

Under an installment lease contract, a lessee may reject any delivery that is nonconforming if the nonconformity substantially impairs the value of that delivery and cannot be cured or the nonconformity is a defect in the required documents. However, if the nonconformity does not constitute a default in the whole and the lessor or supplier gives adequate assurance of its cure, the lessee must accept that delivery [Com. Code § 10510(a)]. A default with respect to the whole occurs if the nonconformity or default with respect to one or more deliveries substantially impairs the value of the installment lease contract as a whole. However, if the aggrieved party accepts a nonconforming delivery without seasonably notifying the lessor of cancellation, brings an action with respect to only past deliveries, or demands performance as to future deliveries, the aggrieved party reinstates the installment lease contract as a whole [Com. Code § 10510(b)].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.269

§ 53.269 Notice To Rejecting Lessee of Shipping Instructions

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice from a lessor or supplier to a lessee providing shipping instructions for the return of rejected leased goods. Use of this form will satisfy the requirements of Com. Code §§ 10511 and 10512 [see [b], below]. For discussion of rejection of goods and a form for a notice of rejection, see § 53.268. For discussion of a lessee's remedies on default by the lessor, see § 53.15[2].

[b] Shipping Instructions Concerning Rejected Goods Generally

After proper rejection of leased goods in the lessee's possession, the lessee must hold them with reasonable care at the supplier's or lessor's disposition for a reasonable time after the lessee's notice of rejection [Com. Code § 10512(a)(1)]. When the lessor or the supplier gives no disposition instructions within a reasonable time after notification of rejection of leased goods, the lessee may store the rejected goods for the lessor's or supplier's account. In addition, the lessee may ship them to the lessor or supplier or dispose of them for the lessor's or supplier's account with reimbursement in the manner provided in the Code [Com. Code § 10512(a)(2); see Com. Code § 10511(b) (reimbursement)]. The holding, storing, shipping, or disposing of goods [see Com. Code § 10512(a)] does not constitute acceptance or conversion [Com. Code § 10511(c)]. The lessee has no further obligations with regard to goods rightfully rejected [Com. Code § 10512(a)(3)].

[c] Merchant Lessees

Subject to any security interest of a lessee [see Com. Code § 10508(e)], if a lessor or supplier has no agent or place of business in the locale of the rejection, a merchant lessee, after rejection of goods in his or her possession or control, must comply with reasonable instructions received from the lessor or supplier pertaining to the return of the goods. In the absence of shipping instructions, a merchant lessee must make reasonable efforts to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of the goods for the lessor's account if the goods are subject to a rapid decline in value. Shipping instructions are deemed unreasonable if on demand the lessee is not indemnified for expenses incurred for return shipping [Com. Code § 10511(a)].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.270

§ 53.270 Notice of Default Discovered After Acceptance

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains alternative notices of default discovered after acceptance of leased goods. These notices are designed to be given to the lessor and supplier, if any, under Com. Code § 10516 by a lessee who has already accepted leased goods and discovers an instance of default [see Com. Code § 10508(a)].

For discussion of the remedies available to a lessee on breach by the lessor, see § 53.15[2].

[b] Lessee's Right of Rejection After Acceptance Generally

A lessee must pay rent for goods accepted in accordance with the lease contract, with due allowance for goods rightfully rejected or not delivered [Com. Code § 10516(a)]. A lessee's acceptance of goods precludes rejection of the goods accepted. An acceptance, if made with knowledge of a nonconformity, may not be revoked because of the nonconformity unless the acceptance was on the reasonable assumption that the nonconformity would be seasonably cured. Acceptance does not of itself impair any other remedy provided by Division 10 of the Commercial Code or the lease agreement for nonconformity [Com. Code § 10516(b)].

If a tender of leased goods has been accepted, within a reasonable time after the lessee discovers or should have discovered any default, the lessee must notify the lessor, or supplier, if any, or be barred from any remedy against the party not notified [Com. Code § 10516(c)(1); see Com. Code § 10516(c)(2) (notice requirements after lessee receives notice of litigation for infringement); see also Com. Code § 10211 (infringement)]. In an action against the lessor or supplier, if any, of leased goods, the burden is on the lessee to establish any default [Com. Code § 10516(c)(3)]. These requirements do not apply to consumer leases [Com. Code § 10516(f)].

[c] Finance Leases

In the case of a finance lease, other than a consumer lease in which the supplier assisted in the preparation of the lease contract or participated in negotiating the terms of the lease contract with the lessor, an acceptance of the leased goods by the lessee cannot be revoked if the lessee had knowledge of the nonconformity at the time of acceptance [Com. Code § 10516(b)].

If the lessee has accepted a tender of leased goods, the lessee must notify the lessor and the supplier within a reasonable time after the lessee discovers or should have discovered any default or be barred from any remedy against the party not notified [Com. Code § 10516(c)(1); see Com. Code § 10516(c)(2) (notice requirements after lessee receives notice of litigation for infringement); see also Com. Code § 10211 (infringement)]. In an action against the lessor or supplier of leased goods, the burden is on the lessee to establish any default [Com. Code § 10516(c)(3)]. These requirements do not apply to a consumer lease [Com. Code § 10516(f)].

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.280

§ 53.280 Lease Commitment Letter

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a lease commitment letter. A commitment letter in leasing transactions is used principally to hold the parties to the promise to lease the property and to set forth, or to incorporate by reference, the main terms of the lease arrangement. A letter is frequently used when the lessor's primary function is to provide the funds to purchase the property. It is also used by a dealer or manufacturer if the potential lessee has requested bids from several sources. The intended lessee may require a commitment letter to allow time for budgeting or internal approvals of the lease, or for anticipated delays in the delivery of the property.

[b] Contents

The commitment letter must state the expiration date of the commitment, and the commitment fee. The letter should contain a description of the property sufficient to identify it. This description may include the property model and serial or identification number, the manufacturer, the location of the property at the time of the letter, and the purchase price. If a written lease agreement has not yet been drafted and made a part of the commitment letter, the letter should contain the significant terms of the arrangement, including, as applicable, the amount and time of payment of rent, the term of the lease, responsibility for payment of taxes, responsibility for maintenance, options to renew or purchase, and required insurance coverage.

The commitment ordinarily is conditioned on the absence of any substantial adverse changes in the proposed lessee's financial condition, and on the truth of representations contained in a specified financial statement and other documents. The commitment letter also usually specifies that any modifications must be written. Each party should sign and date the letter.

The lessee normally pays a fee, usually equal to a percentage of the cost of the leased property, at the time the commitment is issued. The fee, in this lease, is paid over the term of the lease but will be retained by the lessor, either in whole or in part, if the lease is not executed or fully carried out. If other fee arrangements are desired, the form should be modified accordingly.

If the equipment to be leased is not delivered to and accepted by the lessee before the expiration date of the commitment, and there are no objections to the lease, the letter provides that the commitment period may be mutually extended on the same terms as those specified in the commitment letter.

D. Miscellaneous Related Forms

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.281

§ 53.281 Consent and Waiver by Real Property Owner, Landlord, or Mortgagee

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a waiver for use to obtain the consent of an owner, landlord, or mortgagee of real property to the placement of leased goods on the property. If leased personal property is to be affixed to a building or other real property, or used by a lessee who is also a lessee of real property, the equipment lessor may want to obtain a consent and waiver from the persons with ownership or security interests in the real estate. Otherwise, the leased personal property may be deemed to be fixtures.

For discussion of fixture filings that may be made by a lessor to protect an interest in fixtures, see § 53.16[4].

[b] Leased Goods as Fixtures

In some cases, personal property affixed to a building or other real property may change its character and become a fixture [see Com. Code § 10309(a)(1)]. A fixture is considered part of the real property and will pass with the real property to a holder of a lien or other claim against the real property [see Civ. Code §§ 660, 1013]. In addition, a landlord may levy against a lessee's personal property on the leased premises if the lessee fails to pay rent or otherwise perform the real property lease [see Civ. Code § 1861a].

A lessor of fixtures may obtain priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of real estate if the encumbrancer or owner has consented in writing to the lease or has disclaimed an interest in the leased goods as fixtures [Com. Code § 10309(d)(5)].

[c] Form Provisions

This form, signed by the real property owner, the landlord, or the mortgagee, includes a waiver of claims against the leased equipment and an acknowledgment that the equipment lessor's claims to the equipment are superior. In addition, the signer consents to the equipment lessor's entry on the real property to repossess the leased equipment and acknowledges that the equipment is personal property, that is, that it does not become part of the real property. Consent is also given to any extensions in payment or performance that the equipment lessor may grant to the equipment lessee. The consent and waiver applies not only to the equipment described in the form, but to leased items that may already be on the premises or that will be leased and used there in the future.

[2] FORM

Consent and Waiver by Real Property Owner, Landlord, or Mortgagee

CONSENT AND WAIVER

THIS CONSENT AND WAIVER is made by the undersigned [Owner or Landlord or Mortgagee] of real estate (Undersigned), to _____ [name of lessor of personal property to be attached to realty] (Lessor).

The Undersigned is the [Owner or Landlord or Mortgagee] of the premises located at _____ [address] (Premises), and [has leased all or part of or holds a mortgage on] the Premises leased to _____ [name of lessee] (Lessee).

In accordance with a Lease Contract between Lessor and Lessee dated _____ (Lease), and incorporated by reference, Lessee has leased or will lease from Lessor the following property (Property):

[insert description of leased property].

To induce Lessor to enter into the Lease and for other valuable consideration, receipt of which is acknowledged, the Undersigned agrees as follows:

Superior Claim of Lessor

1. The Undersigned acknowledges that any claim that Lessor or its assignees may have with respect to the Property is superior to any lien or claim that the Undersigned has or may have with respect to the Property by law, agreement, or other cause.

Waiver

2. All rights that the Undersigned has or may have under any law, or by agreement, currently in effect or executed in the future by Undersigned or Lessee, to levy for rent, in arrears or in advance, or both, or to claim title to the Property leased by Lessor is expressly waived.

Character as Personal Property

3. The Property will remain personal property regardless of the manner of its attachment to the Premises and will not become a fixture.

Application to All Leased Property

4. This Agreement will also apply to any of the Property above described that is already on the Premises, or that, in the future, may be delivered or installed there or may become subject to the Lease.

Agreements by which one party assumes the debts of another party are governed by the California laws of suretyship [see Civ. Code §§ 2787-2856]. If the suretyship obligation is entered into at the same time as the original obligation, as is usually the case with guaranties such as the one illustrated in this form, no consideration is necessary [Civ. Code § 2792]. The agreement must be in writing [Civ. Code § 2793].

For further discussion of suretyship, including guaranties, see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity .

§ 53.283 Corporate Resolution Authorizing Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

If the lessee is a corporation, the lessor should be certain that the persons executing the lease and other relevant documents are acting within the authority vested in them by the corporation. To be authorized by the lessee corporation, the corporation's board of directors should approve the transaction by resolution, and the lessor should receive a copy of the resolution. This form is an example of such a corporate resolution.

This form refers to a "lease commitment letter." A "lease commitment letter" usually contains the terms of the lease agreement and serves as a blueprint for the formal agreement between the parties. For further discussion and a sample of that form, see § 53.280.

[b] Corporation's Powers to Enter Into Lease Contract

A California corporation organized or subject to the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 100 et seq.] or organized or subject to the Nonprofit Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 5000 et seq.], has all the powers of a natural person in carrying out its activities, including the power to enter into contracts [see Corp. Code §§ 207, 5140(i), 7140(i), 9140(i)]. For further discussion of a corporation's power to enter into a lease agreement and the requirement for a resolution authorizing the arrangement, see Ch. 34A, Prelease Forms .

§ 53.285 Agreement That Pre-1990 Lease Will Be Governed by Provisions of Commercial Code

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement that the Commercial Code provisions will be applicable to a pre-1990 lease contract. It is to be used when the parties agree to have their existing agreement governed by the Commercial Code provisions in effect as of January 1, 1990 [see Com. Code §§ 10101-10600]. Counsel preparing this form should advise the client of the effect of the Commercial Code provisions on his or her rights, liabilities, and remedies under the existing agreement. For a discussion of the effect of Division 10 of the California Commercial Code on personal property lease transactions, see § 53.12.

[b] Application of Commercial Code to Leases in Existence Before January 1, 1990

Division 10 of the California Commercial Code applies to all lease contracts that are first made or that first become effective between the parties on or after January 1, 1990. Lease contracts that are first made or that first become effective before January 1, 1990 are not governed by those provisions unless the parties to the lease contract specifically agree in writing that the lease contract will be governed by those provisions. This optional application of the Commercial Code may apply to any lease contract, including an extension, amendment, modification, renewal, or supplement of the lease contract [Com. Code § 10600].

§ 53.286 Demand for Assurances

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of alternative demands for assurances of performance in accordance with Com. Code § 10401. The first alternative is a general demand, in which the reasons for the insecurity and the type of assurance demanded are left blank, to be filled in as the situation requires. The second alternative contains a demand for assurance of payment by the posting of collateral or a performance bond. Each alternative includes optional bracketed language that may be used if the lease contract at issue provides specific grounds on which a party may demand assurance.

[b] Right to Demand Assurance

A lease contract imposes an obligation on each party that the other's expectation of receiving due performance will not be impaired [Com. Code § 10401(a)]. If reasonable grounds for insecurity arise with respect to the performance of either party, the insecure party may make a written demand for adequate assurance of due performance. Until the insecure party receives that assurance, if commercially reasonable, the insecure party may suspend any performance for which he or she has not already received the agreed return [Com. Code § 10401(b)].

A repudiation of the lease contract occurs if assurance of due performance adequate under the circumstances of the particular case is not provided to the insecure party within a reasonable time, not to exceed 30 days after receipt of a demand by the other party [Com. Code § 10401(c)].

Between merchants [see Com. Code § 2104(3) (definition)], the reasonableness of grounds for insecurity and the adequacy of any assurance offered must be determined according to commercial standards [Com. Code § 10401(d)].

Acceptance of any nonconforming delivery or payment does not prejudice the aggrieved party's right to demand adequate assurance of future performance [Com. Code § 10401(e)].

§ 53.287 Modification of Lease Contract[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of alternative agreements to modify an existing lease contract. No consideration is required to support the modification of personal property lease contracts [Com. Code § 10208(a)]. Nevertheless, modifications must meet the test of good faith. The demand for a "modification" without good commercial reason is ineffective because it violates this duty of good faith [see Com. Code § 2209 (Uniform Commercial Code Comment 2)]. For this reason, a writing evidencing a modification should incorporate the commercial reasons for the making of the modification, thus negating a party's bad faith. A mere technical consideration will not support a modification made in bad faith [see Com. Code § 2209 (Uniform Commercial Code Comment 2)].

A signed lease agreement that forbids modification except by a signed writing may not be otherwise modified. However, except in transactions between merchants [see Com. Code § 2104(3) (definition)], a requirement for modification by a signed writing on a form supplied by a merchant must be separately signed by the other party [Com. Code § 10208(b)].

For further discussion of the modification and rescission of lease contracts, see § 53.12[6]. For discussion of the common law rules governing modification of contracts, and additional forms that can be adapted for transactions governed by the Commercial Code, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations. _____, (Lessor), _____ [address], and _____ (Lessee), _____ [address], parties to a lease contract (underlying contract) dated _____ and attached to this Agreement, agree that it is in their mutual interests to modify that contract as stated in this Agreement. Lessor and Lessee agree that neither party exercised any duress or made any unreasonable demands in the negotiations preceding this modification, and each agrees that the other observed reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing during the negotiations leading to this modification.

This modification has become necessary because [specify reason(s) for modification].

Therefore, Lessor and Lessee agree as follows: _____ [specify elements of modification, e.g.:

- (1) That the rental rate for the goods leased under the underlying contract will be increased by 10 percent.
- (2) That the lease term as specified in the underlying contract will be modified by cancelling the one-year lease term and substituting a month-to-month lease term.
- (3) That the leased goods will be delivered to Lessee at _____ (address), instead of the address indicated in the underlying contract. Costs of transportation and risk of loss will remain as in the underlying contract.]

This modification applies to all leased goods covered by the underlying contract.

All terms of the underlying contract between Lessor and Lessee that are not specifically changed by this modification will remain binding.

21-53 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 53.289

§ 53.289 Equipment Sale Contract Provision for Leaseback

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision that may be inserted into an equipment sale contract when the sale is intended to be the first part of a sale and leaseback transaction. This provision embodies a special agreement of the parties to the sale contract that they will simultaneously execute a related lease of the equipment, under which the seller will become the lessee and the buyer to become the lessor, and that they will forthwith and faithfully carry out both agreements as parts of one transaction.

A basic sale-leaseback transaction involves two separate but interrelated parts. First, the owner of the subject property enters into an agreement to sell the property to the purchaser. The purchaser, in turn, enters into agreement to lease the property back to the original seller. The first of these two steps--the initial sale of the property--may be accomplished by means of a standard agreement for sale of the property. For sales contracts in this publication that can be adapted for use in a sale-leaseback transaction, see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing, Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code, and Ch. 57, Computer-Related Transactions. A provision such as the one in this form should be included to make the sale contingent on the subsequent leaseback of the property. The terms and conditions of the transaction obviously will vary substantially depending on the type of property involved and the ways in which the parties wish to structure the transaction. The following general principles apply:

- Usually, the seller/lessee wants, and the buyer/lessor expects, a cash sale with a single payment. However, installment payments can be arranged if the parties have a reason to do so, without jeopardizing the tax qualification of the transaction [cf. Hudspeth v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1975) 509 F.2d 1224, 1227 (parents sold real property to children subject to mortgage then leased it back; children received rental income to cover portion of children's mortgage payments to parents)].
- The sale contract typically will not contain a provision for actual delivery of the equipment to the buyer, since the purpose of the entire sale and leaseback transaction is to leave the seller in possession of the equipment (albeit as a lessee instead of an owner). The contract should provide, however, that the buyer is vested with the right of possession. This right, of course, will not be exercised.

For the second part of the transaction--the lease back to the seller--an appropriate lease agreement should be used. A lease form such as the one appearing in § 53.200[2] may be used for this purpose. For additional and alternative forms and discussion, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, ch. 4A, Equipment Leasing (Matthew Bender).

_____ [specify paragraph number]. This sale contract is executed as part of a sale and leaseback transaction. The parties agree as follows:

- (a) At the time of executing this sale contract, the parties shall also execute the lease attached as Exhibit _____ (the Equipment Lease), under which Seller shall become the lessee, and Buyer shall become the lessor, of [the Equipment or other reference to equipment that is being sold and leased back].
- (b) On executing the Equipment Lease, the parties shall forthwith and in good faith carry out their obligations under this sale contract and the Equipment Lease.
- (c) With respect to each party's taxable years ending before or after or concurrently with the termination of the Equipment Lease, each party shall treat this sale contract and the Equipment Lease as part of a single sale and leaseback transaction for all purposes related to the party's income tax liability under the Internal Revenue Code and all applicable state laws.

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter is designed to aid the attorney in advising intrastate and interstate carriers with regard to shipments of property, including household goods and commercial property. The chapter also provides guidance to shippers in securing reimbursement for losses incurred as a result of the carriage of their goods.

The Legal Background and Forms are divided into four subparts:

- Intrastate shipment of used property under the Household Goods Carriers Act [see §§ 54.10 et seq., 54.200 et seq.].
- Intrastate shipment of commercial property--that is, goods other than those covered by the Household Goods Carriers Act [see §§ 54.30 et seq., 54.230 et seq.].
- Interstate shipment of household goods [see §§ 54.40 et seq., 54.240 et seq.].
- Interstate shipment of commercial property [see §§ 54.50 et seq., 54.250 et seq.].

This chapter does not cover the storage of household goods, except for the storage of these goods in transit as an incident to the transportation of the goods within California. "Permanent" storage of household goods within California is discussed in Chapter 54A, Storage of Goods .

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.10

§ 54.10 Household Goods Carriers Act

[1] Scope of Act

The transportation of used property, including household goods and personal effects, by motor vehicle over California public highways is governed exclusively by the Household Goods Carriers Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5112; see Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq.]. Household goods carriers must operate in accordance with the Act [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5131, 5139]. Conflicting provisions of the Public Utilities Act do not apply to a household goods carrier [Pub. Util. Code § 5112].

The Act does not apply to interstate or foreign commerce, except as such regulation is not prohibited by the Constitution or federal law [Pub. Util. Code § 5111].

[2] Regulation by Public Utilities Commission

[a] Authority of Public Utilities Commission

The administration of the Household Goods Carriers Act is vested in the California Public Utilities Commission ("PUC"). The PUC is authorized to establish rules for the performance of any service of the type furnished or supplied by household goods carriers. Every carrier must observe those rules, and the failure to do so is unlawful [Pub. Util. Code § 5139].

The PUC has specific statutory authority to regulate carriers of household goods [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5131-5140, 5245, 5281-5286]: to require a permit for the transportation of household goods and personal effects entirely within California [Pub. Util. Code §§ 5133(a)(1), 5140; see § 54.11], to require the display of vehicle identification [Pub. Util. Code §§ 5132, 5140; see § 54.12], and to require carriers to maintain liability protection and cargo insurance [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5140, 5161, 5229; see also § 54.13]. The PUC also requires carriers to complete and retain specific types of records and reports [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5221-5230].

The PUC is also authorized to establish or approve rates that may be charged by household goods carriers [see Pub.

Util. Code § 5191]. The PUC's rules regulating the transportation of household goods are set forth in its Maximum Rate Tariff 4 (MAX-4) [see [b], below].

A valid operating authority issued by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration is required for the transportation of household goods and personal effects into or out of California [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(a)(2)].

[b] Maximum Rate Tariff 4

The PUC has adopted Maximum Rate Tariff 4 (MAX-4) pursuant to its authority under the Household Goods Carriers Act. MAX-4 sets forth the maximum fixed rates that apply to the transportation of commodities by household goods carriers [MAX-4, item 8]. The definition of "commodities" covers the same used property as the Household Goods Carriers Act [see [3][a], below], but the definition is more detailed. MAX-4 applies to the following types of used property [MAX-4, items 8, 12(1)]:

- Household goods; that is, household or personal effects such as furniture, furnishings, clothing, radios, musical instruments, stoves, and refrigerators.
- Office and store fixtures and equipment; that is, furniture, furnishings, and equipment as are used in an office, store, hospital, library, museum, place of learning, or other institution.

By its own terms, MAX-4 does not apply to the following types of property [MAX-4, items 8, 12(2)]:

- Property transported from, to, or between the place or places of business of a dealer in or auctioneer of property otherwise covered by the tariff.
- Property of the United States, state, county, or municipal governments, or property transported under an agreement between the governmental entity and a carrier.
- Baggage, except when transported in mixed shipments [see MAX-4, item 56].
- Property shipped to or from producers of motion pictures or television programs when transported subject to specified rates, rules, and regulations [see MAX-4, item 12(2)(d)].
- Property transported for a displaced person when a public entity bears the cost of transportation [see Gov. Code § 7262].
- Disaster supplies.
- The contents of trailer coaches and campers, or furniture and other personal effects for use outside of a trailer coach when transported in conjunction with the vehicle.

MAX-4 is also inapplicable to transportation by independent contractor subhaulers when they perform the service for other carriers. "Independent contractor subhaulers" are carriers that render services for a principal carrier, for specific compensation, a specific result, under the control of the principal carrier as to the result of the work only and not the means by which the services are accomplished. However, this exception does not exempt from the tariff the carriers for whom the independent contractors perform services [MAX-4, item 8(2)].

[3] Definitions

[a] Household Goods Carrier

The term "household goods carrier" includes every corporation or person, their lessees, trustee, receivers or trustees appointed by a court, engaged in the transportation for compensation or hire as a business by means of a motor vehicle or motor vehicles used in the transportation of used household goods and personal effects over any public highway within California [Pub. Util. Code § 5109; see MAX-4]. "Corporation" is broadly defined to include a corporation, company, association, and joint stock association [Pub. Util. Code § 5105]. "Person" is broadly defined as an individual, firm, or partnership [Pub. Util. Code § 5109].

[b] Motor Vehicle

The term "motor vehicle" means every motor truck, tractor, or other self-propelled vehicle used for transportation of property over the public highways, other than on fixed rails or tracks. The term includes any trailer, semitrailer, dolly, or other vehicle drawn by a motor vehicle [Pub. Util. Code § 5108].

[c] Public Highway

The term "public highway" includes every highway in California, as well as every public street and road in the state [Pub. Util. Code § 5108].

[d] Owner

With respect to a motor vehicle used in the transportation of property for compensation by a household goods carrier, "owner" means the corporation or person who is registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles as the owner of the vehicle, or who has a legal right to possession of the vehicle pursuant to a lease or rental agreement. [Pub. Util. Code § 5110.5].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.11

§ 54.11 Household Goods Carrier Permits

[1] Permit Required

Household goods carriers must be licensed. A permit issued by the PUC is required for the transportation of household goods and personal effects entirely within California [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(a)(1)]. A valid operating authority issued by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration is required for the transportation of household goods and personal effects into or out of California [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(a)(2)].

Without a permit from the PUC or a valid operating authority issued by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration, a household goods carrier may not engage, or attempt to engage, in the business of transporting used household goods and personal effects, by motor vehicle over any public highway in California, including advertising, soliciting, offering, or entering into an agreement [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(a)]. A household goods carrier without a permit or a valid operating authority may not enforce any security interest or bring an action to recover any money, property, or other relief from any consignor, consignee, or owner of household goods or personal effects for services rendered [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(b)]. A person using the services of an unpermitted and unauthorized household goods carrier may bring an action to recover all compensation paid to the household goods carrier [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(b)].

The operation of a motor vehicle without a permit or authorization constitutes a public nuisance [see Pub. Util. Code § 5133(c)]. Any person having possession or control of used household goods or personal effects, who knows, or through the exercise of reasonable care should know, that a household goods carrier transported those household goods or personal effects in violation of that permit or valid operating authority requirement must release the household goods and personal effects on the request of the consignor or consignee [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(d); see Pub. Util. Code § 5142(k)(1), (2) ("consignor," "consignee" defined)]. If the person in possession or control fails to release the household goods and personal effects, a peace officer is authorized to take custody of the household goods and personal effects and release them to the consignor or consignee [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(d); see Pub. Util. Code § 5133(c); Penal Code § 830 et seq. ("peace officer" defined)]. In addition, any carrier that operates without a valid household goods carrier permit and willfully and knowingly advertises that it operates as a household goods carrier is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine [Pub. Util. Code § 5314.5]. After a hearing, carriers operating or holding themselves out as household goods carriers without a valid permit are subject to a significantly more substantial fine [Pub. Util. Code § 5313.5; see Pub. Util. Code § 5314.5; see § 54.19].

In addition, it is unlawful for the owner of a household goods-carrier motor vehicle who employs or otherwise directs the driver of the vehicle to permit the operation of the vehicle on any public highway for compensation without a valid permit, or without satisfying vehicle identification requirements [see Pub. Util. Code § 5132; see § 54.12] and liability insurance requirements [Pub. Util. Code § 5140; see Pub. Util. Code § 5161; see also § 54.13]. Applicants must meet financial responsibility and competence requirements [see Pub. Util. Code § 5135; see also [2], below]. The PUC may only issue a permit to those applicants that the PUC finds to have demonstrated sufficient knowledge, ability, integrity, and financial resources and responsibility to perform the service within the scope of the application [Pub. Util. Code § 5135(g)].

Applicants for a household goods carrier permit must meet three basic qualification:

- Ability to operate as a household goods carrier [Pub. Util. Code § 5135(a)].
- Reasonable financial responsibility [Pub. Util. Code § 5135(a); see Pub. Util. Code § 5135.6].
- California residency [Pub. Util. Code § 5135(h)].

As a precondition to issuing a permit, the applicant may be required to procure a performance bond sufficient to facilitate the collection of fines, penalties, and restitution related to enforcement actions that can be taken against the applicant [Pub. Util. Code 5135(e)].

[2] Sale, Transfer, or Assignment of Permit

In general, a household goods carrier permit may be transferred to another qualified applicant under an order from the PUC and payment of the transfer fee [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5136, 5284; see Pub. Util. Code § 5136]. However, no permit may be sold, leased, assigned, or otherwise transferred or encumbered by its holder without first securing an order authorizing the transfer or encumbrance from the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 5284]. The PUC will only authorize a sale, lease, assignment or other transfer of a valid permit to a transferee who is qualified as a household goods carrier [Pub. Util. Code § 5284.5; see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5135, 5284; see also § 54.11].

[3] Lapse

A permit remains in effect until suspended [see § 54.19] or terminated. Any permit that is not exercised for a period of one year, including all periods of suspension, lapses and terminates [Pub. Util. Code § 5284].

Every household goods carrier must display on each vehicle operated by it an identification symbol in the form and in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the PUC. For motor vehicles first registered in California on or after January 1, 1985, the identifying symbol must be displayed on both the left and right doors of the cab of the vehicle [*Pub. Util. CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.13

§ 54.13 Insurance Requirements

[1] Liability Insurance

Household goods carriers must maintain adequate protection against liability imposed by law on carriers for the payment of damages for personal bodily injuries, including death, and property damage. The recovery of each person for bodily injury or death is subject to the limitations specified by statute [Pub. Util. Code § 5161(a)]. An applicant must procure, and continue in effect during the life of the permit, protection against liability for bodily injuries and death in the following amounts [Pub. Util. Code § 5161(a)]:

- At least $250,000 on account of bodily injuries to or death of one person.
- At least $500,000 on account of bodily injuries to or death of more than one person as a result of any one accident.
- At least $100,000 for one accident resulting in damage to or destruction of property, other than property being transported by the carrier for any shipper or consignee, whether it is the property of one or more than one claimant.
- At least $600,000 on account of bodily injuries to, or death of, one or more persons and damage to or destruction of property, other than property being transported by the carrier for any shipper or consignee, whether it is the property of one or more than one claimant, in any one accident.

The PUC may increase these levels of liability if necessary to provide adequate protection [Pub. Util. Code § 5161(b)].

The applicant also must procure and continue in effect cargo insurance in the amount of at least $20,000. However, the PUC may authorize a lesser amount if it finds that a lesser amount adequately protects the public [Pub. Util. Code § 5161(c)].

It is unlawful for the owner of a household goods carrier motor vehicle who employs or otherwise directs the driver of the vehicle to permit the operation of the vehicle on any public highway for compensation without satisfying these liability insurance requirements [Pub. Util. Code § 5140; see Pub. Util. Code § 5161].

[2] Vehicle Insurance

All household goods carriers must maintain insurance on all vehicles that are used in transportation for compensation during the preceding year [see Pub. Util. Code § 5229]. If, after the filing and transmittal of the annual vehicle report [see § 54.14[1][b]], the household goods carrier's insurer informs the PUC that the carrier has failed to obtain insurance coverage for any vehicle reported on the list, the PUC may, in addition to any other applicable penalty, for a first occurrence, suspend the carrier's permit or impose a fine, or both, and for a second or subsequent occurrence may suspend or revoke the permit or impose a fine, or both. [Pub. Util. Code § 5229(b); see § 54.18].

[3] Proof of Insurance

Carriers must prove the requisite insurance coverage by depositing any of the following with the PUC covering each vehicle [Pub. Util. Code § 5162]:

- An insurance policy issued by a company licensed to write such insurance in California, or by nonadmitted insurers subject to Ins. Code § 1763, if the policies satisfy PUC requirements.
- A bond of a surety company licensed to write surety bonds in California.
- Any other evidence of the qualification of the household goods carrier as a self-insurer authorized by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 5162].

[4] Penalties for Failure to Obtain or Retain Insurance

If a carrier fails to obtain insurance, the PUC may impose fines and/or suspensions, and may revoke the carrier's permit for a second or subsequent failure to obtain insurance [Pub. Util. Code § 5229(b); see § 54.19].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.14

§ 54.14 Operating Requirements

[1] Records and Reports

[a] Maintenance of Records

Household goods carriers that maintain an office or place of business in California and offer intrastate service must maintain all books, accounts, papers, and records required by the PUC in California [Pub. Util. Code § 5221]. Carriers performing intrastate services that do not maintain an office or place of business within California must maintain all books, accounts, papers, and records pertaining to that intrastate service available to the PUC at its request at a place designated in California for examination by the PUC or, alternatively, reimburse the PUC for the actual expense of examining the books, accounts, papers, or records at the place outside of California where the records are kept [Pub. Util. Code § 5221]. The rules reports, records, and inspections [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5221-5226; see also [b]-[d], below] apply, to the extent necessary to the PUC, to persons having direct or indirect control over, or affiliated with, any household goods carrier [Pub. Util. Code § 5227].

[b] Filing Reports and Contracts

Household goods carriers must file annual, periodic, or special reports as prescribed by the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 5221; see Pub. Util. Code § 5222]. For example, every household goods carrier must annually furnish the PUC a list, prepared under oath, of all vehicles used in transportation for compensation during the preceding year [Pub. Util. Code § 5229(a)]. Every household goods carrier earning over $350,000 in annual gross operating revenue must annually file, under oath, a report stating the number, classification, and compensation of all employees and owner-operator drivers hired or engaged during the reporting period [Pub. Util. Code § 5230].

[c] Form of Accounts, Records, and Memoranda

Accounts, records, and memoranda, including those pertaining to the movement of traffic and the receipt or expenditure of money, required by the PUC must be kept in the prescribed form [Pub. Util. Code §§ 5223, 5224]. Most of the rules regarding the form and content of shipping documents and the duration of record maintenance requirements are set forth in MAX-4 [see §§ 54.120 (drafting guide for forms), 54.200-54.205].

[d] PUC Inspections

PUC employees, representatives, and inspectors may inspect and examine any land, buildings, equipment, accounts, books, records, and memoranda, including all documents, papers, and correspondence kept or required to be kept by household goods carriers [Pub. Util. Code § 5226; see Pub. Util. Code § 5225].

[2] Compliance With Rate Requirements

[a] PUC Must Set Rates

The PUC is required by statute to establish or approve just, reasonable, and nondiscriminatory maximum or minimum or maximum and minimum rates to be charged by household goods carriers for the transportation of used household goods and seasonal effects and related accessorial services [Pub. Util. Code § 5191(a)]. A minimum rate may not be established or approved if that rate is not sufficient to allow safe operation of the carrier on California highways and accounts for the cost of trained drivers and other reasonable operation expenses [Pub. Util. Code § 5191(c)]. When the PUC establishes or approves maximum rates [see § 54.10[2][b]], the PUC must adjust the rates at least annually based on the market, and may adjust the maximum rates when deemed reasonable to allow for extraordinary changes in household goods carrier costs [Pub. Util. Code § 5191(d)].

Currently, the PUC prescribes only maximum rates in MAX-4 [see [c], below].

A household goods carrier may not advertise, quote, or charge a rate or an amount for the transportation of used household goods and personal effects that is based on the amount of cubic feet or other volumetric unit measurement of those household goods and effects [Pub. Util. Code § 5192]. In addition to any other remedy, a household goods carrier that violates this rule will not be entitled to any compensation for the transportation of the household goods and effects and must make restitution to the shipper of any compensation collected [Pub. Util. Code § 5192].

[b] Seeking Higher Than Maximum Rates

Under specific procedures approved by the PUC in its Decision 92-05-028, any household goods carrier may charge or collect a greater rate than the maximum rate established in MAX-4 [Pub. Util. Code § 5193; see also 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 3.2 (authority to increase rates)]. Any person or entity may file a protest opposing an application for a rate deviation [see 20 Cal. Code Reg. § 2.6 (protests)].

[c] Prohibition Against Commissions and Refunds

No household goods carrier may directly or indirectly pay any commission to a shipper, consignee, or an employee of either, or to the payer of the transportation charges, or refund, or remit to those persons, in any manner or by any device any portion of the rates or charges specified in the shipping documents in accordance with MAX-4, except under the authority of the PUC [Pub. Util. Code § 5196].

[d] Prohibition Against Falsification to Avoid Prescribed Rates

Household goods carriers (or their officers, agents, or employees) may not knowingly use any false billing, classification system, false weight reports, or other devices to permit any shipper to obtain transportation of property at less than the authorized minimum rates or more than the authorized maximum rates [Pub. Util. Code § 5197]. Other parties are similarly prohibited from obtaining or seeking to obtain transportation at rates other than those established by the PUC [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5198, 5199].

[3] Subhauling Agreements

No household goods carrier may transport household goods under a subhauling agreement unless [Pub. Util. Code § 5243]:

- The subhauler is licensed by the PUC to transport household goods and complies with the requirements of the Household Goods Carriers Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq.].
- The household goods carrier and subhauler are jointly and severally liable for any loss or damage caused by the subhauler.

These provisions do not apply to a subhauling agreement when the subhauler is not otherwise subject to the Household Goods Carrier Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq.] for activity related to the subhauling agreement [Pub. Util. Code § 5244.5].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.15

§ 54.15 Delay

[1] Notification Requirements

When a carrier agrees with a shipper to pick up a shipment on a specified date and/or time, and the carrier is unable to fulfill that commitment, the carrier must notify the shipper or the shipper's designee by telegram, telephone, or fax, at carrier's expense. This notice must be given as soon as it becomes apparent that the commitment will not be met [MAX-4, item 100(1); see Pub. Util. Code § 5138].

Similarly, if a carrier agrees with a shipper to make delivery on a specified date or during a specified period, the carrier must notify the shipper or the shipper's designee by telegram, telephone, or fax, at the carrier's expense. This notice ordinarily must be given at least 24 hours before the delivery date or period originally promised. However, if the circumstances causing the delay occur during that 24-hour period, the notice must be given as soon as possible, but in no event more than 24 hours after the delay causing occurrence. In any event, if the carrier is unable to obtain an address or telephone number from the shipper, the carrier need not give notice of the delay [MAX-4, item 100(2); see Pub. Util. Code § 5138].

When delays in pick up or delivery occur due to the carrier's negligence, the shipper may file a written claim for reimbursement for damages [see MAX-4, item 100(3)]. On receipt of a written claim, the carrier must acknowledge receipt of the claim in writing within 30 days after receipt of the claim [MAX-4, item 92(15)] and follow the loss and damage claims procedures [see MAX-4, item 92; see also § 54.16].

[2] Penalty for Noncompliance With Scheduled Dates

When a carrier agrees, on written request by a shipper, to pick up shipment on an agreed date and to deliver within a span of two consecutive agreed dates, the carrier must pay penalty of $100 per day for each day of delay. The shipper must make a written claim for payment of the delay penalty within 30 days of delivery [MAX-4, item 100(4)]. This penalty is in addition to the reimbursement requirement discussed above [see MAX-4, items 92(15), 100(3)]. However, this penalty does not apply to shipments weighing less than 5,000 pounds, or shipments that are transported less than 75 constructive miles [MAX-4, item 100(4); see Pub. Util. Code § 5138].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.16

§ 54.16 Claims Procedures

[1] Claims for Loss or Damage

Whenever a claimant (often the shipper) asserts a claim for loss or damage to shipped goods, the claimant must file a written claim with the carrier [MAX-4, item 92(1); see MAX-4, item 92(2) (contents of claim)] within nine months after delivery or, if no delivery has been made, within nine months after a reasonable time for delivery elapses, unless the claimant and the carrier agree to a shorter period [MAX-4, item 92(1); see § 54.120[3]]. Suit must be instituted within two years and one day from the date that notice of disallowance of the claim is given by the carrier to the claimant [MAX-4, item 92(14)].

On receipt of a written claim for loss or damage, the carrier must acknowledge receipt of the claim in writing to the claimant within 30 calendar days after receipt. The carrier must also record the date of receipt at the time that the claim is received [MAX-4, item 92(15)].

Within 60 days after receipt of the claim, the carrier must, in writing, pay the claim, decline to pay, or make a firm settlement offer to the claimant. If the carrier declines to pay or offers less than the amount sought, the carrier must state, in writing, the basis for the denial or reduction. However, if the claim cannot be processed and disposed of within the 60-day period for reasons beyond the carrier's control, the carrier must, at the end of that period and at the expiration of each 30-day period while the claim remains pending, advise the claimant in writing of the status of the claim and the reasons for the delay. The carrier must send a copy of the letter to the California Public Utilities Commission, Compliance and Enforcement Branch, 505 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco, California 94102 [MAX-4, item 92(15)].

The claims procedures that the carrier must follow for lost or damaged goods are outlined in § 54.110[2]. The claims procedures that the shipper must follow to seek reimbursement for loss or damage are outlined in § 54.110[3]. However, it is important to note that no claim against a household goods carrier for loss or damage of goods may be denied solely because the lost or damaged goods were not noted at the time of delivery. Whenever a household goods carrier requires a signed statement acknowledging delivery and receipt of goods, the statement may not include any representation that the goods were delivered in satisfactory condition; rather, the statement must include a notice that the shipper may file a claim with the carrier for lost or damaged goods [Pub. Util. Code § 5241].

[2] Limitation of Liability

In general, the extent of the carrier's liability is determined by the agreement for services [see MAX-4, item 136]. However, if a claim for loss or damage is not properly filed (or suit is not instituted within the prescribed time) [see [1], above; see also § 54.110[3]], the carrier is not liable for the loss or damage [MAX-4, item 92(14)].

In general, the risk of loss or damage shifts away from the carrier as of proper delivery. Stated differently, carriers are not liable for any loss or damage that occurs after the property is delivered to or receipted for by the consignee or the shipper or their agent [MAX-4, item 92(10)]. However, when a carrier is directed to unload or deliver property or to render services at the place where the consignee or his or her agent is not present, the risk shifts to the property owner after unloading or delivery [MAX-4, item 92(10)]. When the carrier is directed to load property from, or render services at, a place where the consignor or agent is not present, property is at the risk of owner before packing and loading [MAX-4, item 34(11)].

Whenever damage occurs to one or more of a pair or matched set of goods, the carrier's liability is limited to the repair or replacement of the lost or damaged piece or pieces only. Liability does not extend to the repair, replacement, or recovery of the entire set [MAX-4, item 92(12)].

For further discussion of the limitations applicable to the carrier's liability for loss or damage, see § 54.110[2].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.17

§ 54.17 Lien Procedures

With specified exceptions, a household goods carrier has a lien on used household goods and personal effects to secure payment for transportation and additional services ordered by the consignor [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(a); see Pub. Util. Code § 5142(k)(1) ("consignor" defined)]. No lien attaches to food, medicine, or medical devices, items used to treat or assist an individual with a disability, or items used for the care of a minor child [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(a)].

The existence and amount of the lien are conditioned on providing the consignor with a specified notice that clearly and conspicuously specifies the dollar amount for transportation and additional services [see Pub. Util. Code § 5142(b)(1)]. This dollar amount may not be preprinted on any form [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(b)(2)]. Rather, it must be estimated in good faith based on the specific circumstances and must be just and reasonable [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(b)(2)]. On tender to the household goods carrier of the amount specified in the notice, the lien is extinguished and the household goods carrier must release all household goods and personal effects to the consignee [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(c); see Pub. Util. Code § 5142(f) (release of goods based on reasonable knowledge); see also Pub. Util. Code § 5142(k)(2) ("consignee" defined)].

A household goods carrier may enforce a lien on household goods and personal effects (except with regard to any goods the carrier voluntarily delivers or unjustifiably refuses to deliver) in accordance with Pub. Util. Code § 5142 and Com. Code § 9601 et seq., governing secured transactions [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(d); see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions]. Every act required in connection with enforcing the lien must be performed in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 5142(d)]. A household goods carrier must provide notification of disposition to each consignor and consignee at least 30 days before any disposition [Com. Code § 5142(e); see Pub. Util. Code § 5142(k)(1), (2) ("consignor," "consignee" defined)]. Notification methods are prescribed by statute [see Com. Code § 5142(e)]. The carrier must provide to the consignors any surplus funds from the disposition and an accounting, without charge, of the proceeds of the disposition, within 14 days after disposition [Com. Code § 5142(e)].

These provisions do not affect any rights of a household goods carrier to claim additional amounts, on an unsecured basis, or of a consignor or consignee to make or contest any claim [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(g)]. Tender of payment of the amount specified in the lien notice [see Pub. Util. Code § 5142(b)(1) (amount secured by lien)] is not a waiver of claims by the consignor or consignee [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(g)].

Any person injured by a violation of these requirements may bring an action for recovery of the greater of $1,000 or actual damages, injunctive or other equitable relief, reasonable attorney's fees and costs, and exemplary damages of not less than three times the amount of actual damages for a willful violation [Pub. Util. Code § 5142(h)].

For further discussion of lien procedures, see § 54.110[4].

§ 54.18 Abandonment of Property

If the PUC determines that a household goods carrier (or any officer, director, or agent) has abandoned, or is abandoning stored household goods or property of any shipper under contract with the carrier, the PUC may commence proceedings to have a court appoint a receiver or PUC staff to identify the property, take possession, and to arrange its return to the proper owners [Pub. Util. Code § 5259.5(a); see Pub. Util. Code § 5259.5(b) (filing procedure)]. The court may also appoint a receiver to manage the business of the carrier and return stored goods on a satisfactory showing that the real or threatened abandonment jeopardizes the property or funds of others in the custody or control of the carrier [*Pub. CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Intrastate Shipment of Used Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.19

§ 54.19 Enforcement Mechanisms

[1] Penalties for Noncompliance

Extensive penalty provisions in the Household Goods Carrier Act permit the PUC to regulate household goods carriers and ensure compliance with all statutory requirements [see, e.g., Pub. Util. Code §§ 5229, 5311-5313.5, 5314.5, 5315]. Every violation of the Act, or of any PUC requirement, by any corporation or person is a separate and distinct offense; for continuing violations each day's continued violation is a separate and distinct offense [Pub. Util. Code § 5315]. The act, omission, or failure of any officer, agent, or employee of any person or corporation, acting within the scope of his or her official duties or employment, constitutes the act, omission, or failure of the employing person or corporation [Pub. Util. Code § 5104].

All remedies and penalties accruing under the Act are cumulative to each other and to the remedies and penalties available under any other law, and a suit for the recovery of one remedy or penalty does not bar or affect the recovery of any other remedy or penalty or forfeiture or bar any criminal prosecution against any person or corporation, or any officer, director, agent, or employee, or any other corporation or person, or bar the exercise by the PUC of its power to punish for contempt [Pub. Util. Code § 5316; see Pub. Util. Code § 5318].

[2] Suspension, Amendment, and Revocation of Permit

[a] Request of Permit Holder

Any household goods carrier may request that the PUC suspend the operating permit. The permit may be suspended, without a hearing, for a definite period of time during which it is unlawful for the carrier to conduct any operations as a household goods carrier [Pub. Util. Code § 5281]. Further, a permit holder may apply to have the permit amended or revoked, in whole or in part [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(b)].

[b] Action by PUC After Notice Without Hearing

The PUC may suspend the right to operate under any household goods carrier permit, on reasonable notice of not less than 15 days to the holder, without hearing or other proceedings, for failure to comply, and until compliance, with insurance requirements [see Pub. Util. Code § 5161; see also § 54.13[1]], or with any PUC order, rule, or regulation [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(b)].

[c] Action by PUC After Notice and Hearing

After notice and an opportunity to be heard, the PUC may suspend, change, or revoke, in whole or in part, any household goods carrier permit, on complaint or on the PUC's own initiative, for providing false or misleading information on an application for a permit or for failure to comply with the Household Goods Carrier Act, or any PUC order, rule, or regulation, or with any term, condition, or limitation of the permit [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(b); see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5281, 5285, 5285.6]. A household goods carrier that requests a hearing within 30 days after the date of receiving the notice and opportunity to be heard must be granted a hearing [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(b)]. As an alternative to cancellation, revocation, or suspension, the PUC may impose a fine of not more than $30,000 on the permit holder [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(c)].

Grounds for cancellation, suspension, or revocation include:

- A carrier's knowing and willful filing of a false report that understates revenues and fees is [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(a)].
- A carrier's misdemeanor conviction under the Act, or a felony conviction, as specified, of the carrier or any officer [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(d)]. For these purposes, felony convictions are limited to robbery, burglary, any form of theft, any form of fraud, extortion, embezzlement, money laundering, forgery, false statements, an attempt to commit any of the offenses described in the Household Goods Carrier Act, aiding and abetting or conspiring to commit any of the offenses described in the Household Goods Carrier Act, or intentional dishonesty for personal gain [Pub. Util. Code § 5285(d); see Pub. Util. Code § 5285(e) ("convicted of a prescribed felony" defined)].
- Filing a false statement regarding the workers' compensation insurance that the carrier is required to carry, or for failing to comply with applicable safety standards [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 5285.5, 5285.6; see also Labor Code §§ 3616.2, 3710.1, 3716.2, 3717].
- Written recommendation from the Department of the California Highway Patrol to suspend the permit pending a hearing [Pub. Util. Code § 5285.6(a)].

[d] Effect of Suspension, Cancellation, or Revocation

During the period of suspension, and after the cancellation or revocation of a permit, a household goods carrier may not conduct any operations as such a carrier. The PUC may either grant or deny an application for a new permit whenever it appears that a prior permit of the applicant has been canceled or revoked [see Pub. Util. Code § 5285], or whenever it appears, after hearing, that as a prior permit holder, the applicant engaged in any of the unlawful activities [see Pub. Util. Code § 5285] for which the permit might have been canceled or revoked [Pub. Util. Code § 5286].

When a permit is suspended, the vehicle identification symbols must be removed [Pub. Util. Code § 5282]. After the end of the period of suspension, the PUC will restore the carrier's operating permit. The carrier must again place on all vehicles the identifying symbols removed pursuant to the suspension [Pub. Util. Code § 5283].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Intrastate Commercial Transportation

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.30

§ 54.30 Governing Law

[1] Division 7 of California Commercial Code

The transportation of property within California, other than property subject to the Household Goods Carriers Act [see § 54.10 et seq.], is governed by Division 7 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code §§ 7101 et seq.] and by provisions of the Civil Code [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 2174 et seq.]. The document of title used in the carriage of these "commercial goods" is termed a "bill of lading" [see [2], below].

Bills of lading used in the interstate transportation of commercial goods are governed by the Federal Bills of Lading Act [see 49 U.S.C. § 801 et seq.; see also § 54.50 et seq.].

[2] Definitions

[a] Bill of Lading

A bill of lading is a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods and which, by its terms, evidences the intention of the issuer that the person entitled under the document has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. Designation of the document by the issuer as a "bill of lading" is conclusive evidence of that intention. "Bill of lading" includes an airbill. "Airbill" means a document serving for air transportation as a bill of lading does for marine or rail transportation; the term includes an air consignment note or air waybill [Com. Code § 1201(b)(6)].

A bill of lading is negotiable if:

- By its terms, the goods covered by it are to be delivered to the bearer or to the order of a named person [Com. Code § 7104(a)]; and
- When it was issued, it did not have a conspicuous legend, however expressed, that it is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(c)].

Any other bill of lading is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(b)].

A nonnegotiable bill of lading may be called a "straight" bill of lading in the transportation industry. For a form for a straight bill of lading, see § 54.230. A negotiable bill of lading may be known as an "order" bill of lading; for a form for an order bill of lading, see § 54.231.

A nonnegotiable bill of lading is transferable, subject to outstanding equities [Com. Code § 7504]. The failure to mark a nonnegotiable bill conspicuously as "nonnegotiable," on the other hand, may allow a holder to treat it as negotiable [Com. Code § 7104(c); see, e.g., BII Finance Co. v. U States Forwarding Services Corp. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 111, 121-123, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 312 (shipper's assignee purchased bills of lading for value and elected to treat them as negotiable; thus, carrier had same liabilities as if bills of lading had been negotiable)]. Furthermore, the insertion in negotiable bill of the name of a person to be notified of arrival of the goods does not limit its negotiability or constitute notice of the listed person's rights in the goods [Com. Code § 7501(d)].

[b] Related Terms

To be a document of title, a bill of lading must purport to be issued by or addressed to a "bailee" and purport to cover goods in the bailee's possession that either are identified or are fungible portions of an identified mass [Com. Code § 1201(b)(16)]. With respect to a bill of lading, the bailee is the person who, by the bill of lading, acknowledges possession of the goods and contracts to deliver them. The person who issues the bill of lading is the "carrier" [Com. Code § 7102(a)(1), (2)].

The person who enters into the contract of transportation with the carrier is the "shipper" [Com. Code § 7102(a)(12)]. The "consignee" is the person named in the bill of lading to whom, or to whose order, the bill of lading promises delivery. The "consignor" is the person named in the bill of lading as the person from whom the goods have been received for shipment [Com. Code § 7102(a)(3), (4)].

A "person entitled under the document"--a term used in various sections of Division 7--is [Com. Code § 7102(a)(9)]:

- The holder, in the case of a negotiable document of title; or
- The person to whom delivery of the goods is to be made by the terms of, or pursuant to instructions in a record under, a nonnegotiable document of title.

The "record" is information that is inscribed on a tangible medium or that is stored in an electronic or other medium and is retrievable in perceivable form [Com. Code § 7102(a)(10)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Intrastate Commercial Transportation

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.31

§ 54.31 Bills of Lading

[1] Issuance

The carrier usually issues a bill of lading to the consignor at the place of shipment. Instead of issuing a bill of lading to the consignor at the place of shipment, a carrier, at the request of the consignor, may procure the bill to be issued at the destination or at any other place designated in the request [Com. Code § 7305(a)]. On the request of any person entitled as against the carrier to control the goods while in transit, and on surrender of possession or control of any outstanding bill of lading or other receipt covering the goods, the issuer, subject to controlling provisions of Division 7 [see [3], below], may procure a substitute bill to be issued at any place designated in the request [Com. Code § 7305(b)].

For a detailed discussion of the contents of bills of lading, see § 54.121.

[2] Contents

[a] Terms Limiting Liability for Loss or Damage

Damages may be limited by a term in the bill of lading (or in a transportation agreement) that the carrier's liability may not exceed a value stated in the bill of lading or agreement if all of the following conditions have been satisfied [Com. Code § 7309(b)]; but see Dictor v. David & Simon, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 238, 249-250, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 588 (plaintiff's claim under Com. Code § 7309 is preempted by 49 U.S.C. § 14706 when case arises out of interstate shipment)]:

- The carrier's rates are dependent on value;
- The consignor is afforded an opportunity to declare a higher value; and
- The consignor is advised of the opportunity.

However, such a limitation is not effective with respect to the carrier's liability for conversion to its own use [Com.

Code § 7309(b)].

This rule applies equally to the carrier's liability as an insurer and the carrier's liability based on negligence [see Com. Code § 7309, U.C.C. Comment; see also Civil Code §§ 2174-2178 (contractual limitations), 2194 (strict liability for loss or damage to freight)].

[b] Terms Specifying Claims Procedures

Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and commencing actions based on the shipment may be included in the bill of lading (or in a transportation agreement) [Com. Code § 7309(c)].

[3] Substitute Bills of Lading

[a] Tangible Document Superseded by Electronic Document

On request of a person entitled under a tangible bill of lading, the issuer may issue an electronic bill of lading as a substitute for the tangible document if the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 7105(c)]:

- The person entitled under the tangible document surrenders possession of the document to the issuer; and
- The electronic document when issued contains a statement that it is issued in substitution for the tangible document.

On issuance of an electronic bill of lading in substitution for a tangible bill of lading [Com. Code § 7105(d)]:

- The tangible document ceases to have any effect or validity.
- The person that procured issuance of the electronic document warrants to all subsequent persons entitled under the electronic document that the warrantor was a person entitled under the tangible document when the warrantor surrendered possession of the tangible document to the issuer.

[b] Electronic Document Superseded by Tangible Document

On request of a person entitled under an electronic bill of lading, the issuer may issue a tangible bill of lading as a substitute for the electronic document if the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 7105(a)]:

- The person entitled under the electronic document surrenders control of the document to the issuer; and
- The tangible document when issued contains a statement that it is issued in substitution for the electronic document.

On issuance of a tangible bill of lading in substitution for an electronic bill of lading [Com. Code § 7105(b)]:

- The electronic document ceases to have any effect or validity; and
- The person that procured issuance of the tangible document warrants to all subsequent persons entitled under the tangible document that the warrantor was a person entitled under the electronic document when the warrantor surrendered control of the electronic document to the issuer.

[c] Control of Electronic Document

A person has control of an electronic bill of lading if a system employed for evidencing the transfer of interests in the electronic document reliably establishes that person as the person to whom the electronic document was issued or transferred [Com. Code § 7106(a)]. A system meets that requirement, and a person is deemed to have control of an electronic bill of lading, if the document is created, stored, and assigned in such a manner that all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 7106(b)]:

- A single authoritative copy of the document exists which is unique and identifiable.
- The authoritative copy identifies the person asserting control as either the person to whom the document was issued or, if the authoritative copy indicates that the document has been transferred, the person to whom the document was most recently transferred.
- The authoritative copy is communicated to and maintained by the person asserting control or that person's designated custodian.
- The authoritative copy is unalterable, except as otherwise allowed by the conditions stated below.
- Copies or amendments that add or change an identified assignee of the authoritative copy can be made only with the consent of the person asserting control.
- Each copy of the authoritative copy and any copy of a copy is readily identifiable as a copy that is not the authoritative copy.
- Any amendment of the authoritative copy is readily identifiable as authorized or unauthorized.

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Intrastate Commercial Transportation

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.32

§ 54.32 Duties and Obligations of Carriers

[1] Nondiscrimination

A common carrier must, if able, accept and carry whatever is offered to it at a reasonable time and place, provided that the property is the kind of property that the carrier undertakes or is accustomed to carry [Civ. Code § 2169]. No common carrier may give any preference in time, price, or in any other way, to any shipper other than the state or federal government [Civ. Code §§ 2170, 2171].

[2] Delivery

In general, a carrier is required to make delivery to the consignee or the consignee's agent in accordance with the bill of lading [see Com. Code § 7303(a); see also Civ. Code §§ 2118, 2119]. Unless the bill of lading provides to the contrary, the carrier may deliver the goods to a person or destination other than that stated in the bill, or may otherwise dispose of the goods, without liability for misdelivery, on instructions from any of the following [Com. Code § 7303(a); see Civ. Code § 2115]:

- The holder of a negotiable bill.
- The consignor on a nonnegotiable bill, notwithstanding contrary instructions from the consignee.
- The consignee on a nonnegotiable bill, absent contrary instructions from the consignor, if the goods have arrived at the billed destination or if the consignee is in possession of the tangible bill or in control of the electronic bill.
- The consignee on a nonnegotiable bill, if the consignee is entitled as against the consignor to dispose of the goods.

However, in the case of a negotiable bill of lading, the holder in due course can hold the carrier to the original terms unless these instructions are noted on the bill [Com. Code § 7303(b)].

If, for any reason, the carrier does not deliver freight to the consignee or its agent personally [see Civ. Code § 2119], the carrier must notify the consignee of the arrival of the freight and maintain the goods in safety with the responsibilities of a warehouse [see Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods] until the consignee has had a reasonable time to remove them. If the consignee refuses to accept and remove the freight within a reasonable time after the carrier has made delivery or offered to do so, the carrier may exonerate itself from further liability by storing it in a suitable warehouse on the account of the consignee and giving notice to the consignee [Civ. Code § 2121].

[3] Duty of Care

A carrier, after issuing a bill of lading, whether negotiable or nonnegotiable, must exercise the degree of care in relation to the goods that a reasonably careful person would exercise under similar circumstances. However, this duty does not affect any statute, regulation, or rule of law that imposes liability on a common carrier for damages not caused by its negligence [Com. Code § 7309(a)].

B. Intrastate Commercial Transportation

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.33

§ 54.33 Liability Under Bill of Lading

[1] Carrier's Liability for Misdating, Nonreceipt, or Misdescription

A consignee of a nonnegotiable bill of lading who has given value in good faith, or a holder to whom a negotiable bill of lading has been duly negotiated, relying on the description of the goods in the bill or on the date shown in the bill, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the misdating of the bill or the nonreceipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the bill indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, such as when the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown," "said to contain," "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import, if that indication is true [Com. Code § 7301(a)].

When goods are loaded by the issuer of a bill of lading, the issuer must count the packages of goods if shipped in packages and ascertain the kind and quantity if shipped in bulk. Words in a bill of lading such as "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import indicating that the description was made by the shipper, are ineffective except as to goods concealed in packages [Com. Code § 7301(b)].

If bulk goods are loaded by a shipper who makes available to the issuer of a bill of lading adequate facilities for weighing those goods, the issuer must ascertain the kind and quantity within a reasonable time after receiving the shipper's request in a record to do so [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(10) (definition of "record"); § 54.30[2][b]]. In that case, "shipper's weight" or words of similar import are ineffective in a bill of lading [Com. Code § 7301(c)]. The issuer of a bill of lading, by including in the bill the words "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import, may indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper; and if that statement is true, the issuer is not liable for damages caused by the improper loading. However, omission of such words does not imply liability for damages caused by improper loading [Com. Code § 7301(d)].

[2] Shipper's Liability for Errors in Shipper's Description of Goods

The shipper guarantees, to the issuer of the bill of lading, the accuracy, at the time of shipment, of the description, marks, labels, number, kind, quantity, condition, and weight, as furnished by the shipper. The shipper must indemnify the issuer against damage caused by inaccuracies in those particulars. This right of indemnity does not limit the issuer's responsibility or liability under the contract of carriage to any person other than the shipper [Com. Code § 7301(e)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Intrastate Commercial Transportation

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.34

§ 54.34 Carrier's Lien

[1] Scope of Lien

The carrier has a lien on the goods covered by the bill of lading (or on the proceeds in the carrier's possession) for charges after the date of the carrier's receipt of the goods for storage or transportation, including demurrage and terminal charges, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to their transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. However, against a purchaser for value of a negotiable bill of lading, the carrier's lien is limited to charges stated in the bill or the applicable tariffs or, if no charges are stated, a reasonable charge [Com. Code § 7307(a)].

The carrier may satisfy the lien from the proceeds of any lien enforcement sale [see [4], below] but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom the carrier would have been bound to deliver the goods [Com. Code § 7308(e)].

[2] Persons Affected

The carrier's lien on goods that the carrier was required by law to receive for transportation is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to those charges and expenses. In any other case, the carrier's lien is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods, unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked authority [Com. Code § 7307(b)].

[3] Loss of Lien

The lien is lost if the carrier voluntarily delivers the goods or unjustifiably refuses to deliver them [Com. Code § 7307(c)].

[4] Enforcement

[a] Sale After Notice

The carrier's lien on goods may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods, in bulk or in packages, at any time or place and on any terms that are commercially reasonable, after the carrier has notified all persons known to claim an interest in the goods [see Com. Code § 1202(d) (what constitutes notification)]. The notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale, and the time and place of any public sale [Com. Code § 7308(a)].

The carrier sells goods in a commercially reasonable manner if the carrier sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market for the goods, sells at the price current in that market at the time of the sale, or otherwise sells in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold [Com. Code § 7308(a)].

Unless the carrier proceeds as described above, a sale of more goods than apparently should be necessary to be offered so as to ensure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable [Com. Code § 7308(a)].

The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a method different from that selected by the carrier is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 7308(a)].

The carrier may buy at any public sale [Com. Code § 7308(c)].

The carrier's rights provided by Com. Code § 7308 are in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against a debtor [Com. Code § 7308(f)].

[b] Alternative Procedure: Sale After Notice and Advertisement

As an alternative to the procedure described in [a], above, the carrier may enforce the lien by the procedure prescribed for enforcement of a warehouse's lien [Com. Code § 7308(g)]. A procedural guide to enforcement of a warehouse's lien by sale following notice and advertisement [see Com. Code § 7210(b)] is provided in Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods, § 54A.130.

[c] Effect of Payment Before Sale

Before the lien enforcement sale, any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred in complying with the lien enforcement procedure. In that event, the goods may not be sold but must be retained by the carrier, subject to the terms of the bill of lading and Division 7 [Com. Code § 7308(b)].

[d] Effect of Improper Sale

A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce the carrier's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against which the lien was valid, despite the carrier's noncompliance with the lien enforcement procedure [Com. Code § 7308(d)]. The carrier is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under Com. Code § 7308 and, in case of willful violation, is liable for conversion [Com. Code § 7308(h)].

[1] Federal Law

The federal Department of Transportation and the Surface Transportation Board are charged with regulating the operations of household goods carriers in interstate commerce [see 49 U.S.C. §§ 13101, 13102, 14104(a)]. The general purpose of this regulatory authority is to promote reasonable rates, safe transportation of property, satisfy the needs of shippers, receivers, and consumers, and enable carriers to earn adequate profits [49 U.S.C. § 13101(a)(2)].

The Secretary and Board have jurisdiction over the transportation by motor carrier to the extent that property is transported [49 U.S.C. § 13501; but see 49 U.S.C. §§ 13502-13506 (exemptions), 13507, 13508 (limited exemptions)]:

- Between two states.
- Between one state and another place in that state through another state.
- Between two places in the United States through another country [see 49 U.S.C. § 13502].
- Between places in United States territories or possessions.
- Between the United States and a place in another country to the extent the transportation is within the United States.
- On a reservation under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States or on a public highway.

The Secretary and Board also have similar jurisdiction over freight forwarders [49 U.S.C. § 13531].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.41

§ 54.41 Definitions

[1] "Household Goods"

The term "household goods," includes the following [49 U.S.C. § 13102(10); 49 C.F.R. § 375.103(4)]:

- Personal effects.
- Property used or to be used in a dwelling when those items are a part of the equipment or supply of the dwelling.
- Similar property if the transportation is arranged and paid for by the householder, including transportation of property from a factory or store when the property is purchased by the householder with intent to use in his or her dwelling, or by another party.

Only these types of goods are covered by the regulations governing the interstate transportation of household goods [49 C.F.R. § 375.103]. Other property, such as the effects of stores, offices, museums, institutions, hospitals, or other establishments when the items are part of their stock, equipment, or supply [see former 49 U.S.C. § 10102(11)(B)], and objects of art, displays, and exhibits that, because of their unusual nature of value, require specialized handling and equipment of the type usually employed in moving household goods [see former 49 U.S.C. § 10102(11)(C)] are not covered [49 C.F.R. § 375.103].

Under California law, specifically the California Household Goods Carriers Act, the term "used property" covers used household goods and personal effects [Pub. Util. Code § 5109; see MAX-4; see also § 54.10[3][a]].

[2] Related Definitions

A "motor carrier" is a person providing commercial motor vehicle transportation for compensation [49 U.S.C. § 13102(14)]. "Freight forwarders" are persons who hold themselves out to the general public (other than as a pipeline, rail, motor, or water carrier) to provide transportation of property for compensation and who, in the ordinary course of business, (1) assemble and consolidate, or provide for the assembly or consolidation of, shipments and perform or provide for break bulk and distribution operations of the shipments; (2) assume responsibility for transportation of shipments; and (3) use a carrier covered by the Act [49 U.S.C. § 13102(8)]. "Household goods freight forwarders" are freight forwarders who transport household goods, unaccompanied baggage, or used automobiles [49 U.S.C. § 13102(11)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.44

§ 54.44 Shipping Rates

[1] Reasonable Rates Required; Notice to Shipper

Motor carriers of household goods must charge reasonable rates [49 U.S.C. § 13701; see 49 U.S.C. § 13704], which must be set forth in a published tariff [49 U.S.C. § 13702(a)(2)]. The tariff must be held available for inspection by the shipper on reasonable request [49 U.S.C. § 13702(c)(1)], and the carrier must notify the shipper that the tariff is available for inspection or otherwise give actual notice that the shipper's shipment is subject to a tariff [49 U.S.C. § 13702(c)(2)]. Absent publication and notification of the tariff, the tariff cannot be enforced against an individual shipper [49 U.S.C. § 13702(c)(3)].

When presenting a document for payment to the person responsible for payment [see [3], below], the carrier or agent must disclose the actual rates, charges, or allowances for the transportation service, as well as whether and to whom any allowance or reduction is made [49 U.S.C. § 13708; see 49 U.S.C. § 13710(a)].

[2] Effect of Payment

In general, the carrier must surrender possession of the goods at the destination on payment for the transportation [49 U.S.C. § 13707(a); see 49 U.S.C. § 13707(b)].

[3] Liability for Payment

[a] Consignee

When a shipper or consignor instructs the motor carrier to deliver the goods to a consignee that is an agent that does not hold beneficial title to the goods, the consignee is liable for the payment of rates billed at the time of delivery. The consignee is not liable for additional rates that may be found to be owing after delivery if the consignee gives written notice to the delivering carrier before delivery of the following [49 U.S.C. § 13706(a); see C.A.R. Transportation v. Darden Restaurants, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 213 F.3d 474 (transportation broker sued shipper under § 13706 to recover freight charges)]:

- The fact of the agency and the lack of beneficial title.
- The name and address of the beneficial owner of the property if it is reconsigned or diverted to a place other than that specified in the original bill of lading.

However, the consignee will be liable for the additional rates if the consignee incorrectly identifies the beneficial owner of the property [49 U.S.C. § 13706(b)].

[b] Beneficial Owner

The beneficial owner is liable for payment of all rates when the property is reconsigned or diverted by an agent but is refused or abandoned at the ultimate destination, provided that the agent notified the carrier of the agency and the name and address of the beneficial owner in the reconsignment or diversion order. The beneficial owner also is liable for any additional rates incurred when the consignee is only liable for rates assessed at the time of delivery and the property is reconsigned or diverted. If the property was not reconsigned or diverted, the consignor or shipper is liable for these extra charges [49 U.S.C. § 13706(b)].

§ 54.45 Liability of Carriers

Motor carriers are liable for any actual loss or injury to the shipped goods [see 49 U.S.C. § 14706(a)(1)]. Although carriers engaged in the transportation of household goods are required to issue a receipt or bill of lading [49 U.S.C. § 14706(a); see § 54.42], the carrier remains liable for actual loss or injury to the shipped goods, regardless of whether or not the carrier issued a receipt or bill of lading [49 U.S.C. § 14706(a)(1)].

Carriers may limit liability to a declared value established by the written declaration of the shipper or by written agreement [see 49 U.S.C. § 14706(f)].

The Carmack Amendment [49 U.S.C. § 14706] provides the exclusive cause of action for interstate shipping contract claims, and it completely preempts state law claims alleging delay, loss, failure to deliver, and damage to property. The Carmack Amendment also preempts a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress to the extent that it arises from the same conduct as the claims for delay, loss, or damage to shipped property [White v. Mayflower Transit, L.L.C. (9th Cir. 2008) 543 F.3d 581, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19350, at *3, *8] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.46

§ 54.46 Resolution of Disputes Between Household Goods Shippers and Carriers

[1] Offer of Arbitration Required for C.O.D. Shipments

In the case of C.O.D. shipments of household goods, carriers must agree to offer neutral arbitration as a means of settling disputes between carrier and shippers concerning loss or damage to the shipped household goods [49 U.S.C. § 14708(a), (b)(1); see 49 U.S.C. § 14708(b)(4); see also 49 U.S.C. §§ 13092, 13903 (registration)]. Carriers must provide adequate notice of the availability of arbitration before the goods are tendered for transport [49 U.S.C. § 14708(b)(2)]; however, the carrier may not require the shipper to agree to use arbitration before a dispute arises [49 U.S.C. § 14708(b)(6)]. The notice must contain a concise, easy-to-read, accurate summary of the arbitration procedure, any applicable costs [see 49 U.S.C. § 14708(b)(5)], and disclosure of the legal effects of an election to use arbitration [49 U.S.C. § 14708(b)(2)]. In addition, a carrier, on request of a shipper, must promptly provide forms and any information necessary to initiate an arbitration action [49 U.S.C. § 14708(b)(3)].

[2] Attorneys' Fees in Court Action Based on C.O.D. Shipments

[a] Shipper's Award

A shipper may bring a court action to resolve a dispute over the shipment of the shipper's household goods. If the shipper prevails in the action, reasonable attorneys' fees will be awarded under the following circumstances [49 U.S.C. § 14708(d); Campbell v. Allied Van Lines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2005) 410 F.3d 618, 623 ("Congress unambiguously authorized the awarding of attorney's fees to shippers of household goods who meet three express conditions. None of those conditions require a shipper to first invoke arbitration.")]:

- The shipper submits the claim to the carrier within 120 days after the later of (1) the date on which the shipment is delivered or (2) the date that delivery was scheduled.
- No decision was rendered through arbitration within the prescribed 60-day period and any extensions, or the court proceeding is a suit to enforce an arbitration decision filed after time for compliance with the arbiter's decision has elapsed.

[b] Carrier's Award

In a suit to resolve a dispute between a shipper and a carrier, the carrier may be awarded reasonable attorneys' fees only when the shipper brought the action in bad faith in either of the following situations [49 U.S.C. § 14708(e)]:

- The suit was brought after the resolution of the dispute through arbitration under an existing dispute settlement program.
- The suit was brought after the institution of an arbitration proceeding by the shipper but before a decision is rendered or before the end of the 30-day time period for a decision (including any applicable extensions) [49 U.S.C. § 14708(e)].

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.50

§ 54.50 Governing Law

[1] Federal Bills of Lading Act

The interstate transportation of property other than household goods [see § 54.40 et seq.] is governed by the Federal Bills of Lading Act [see 49 U.S.C. § 80101 et seq.]. The document of title used in the carriage of these "commercial goods" is termed a bill of lading. The contents of bills of lading are prescribed by 49 C.F.R. pt. 1035.

The Act applies to bills of lading issued by a common carrier for the transportation of goods [49 U.S.C. § 80102]:

- Between a place in the District of Columbia and another place in the District of Columbia.
- Between places in United States territories or possessions.
- Between two states.
- Between one state and another place in that state through another state.
- Between two places in the United States through another country [see 49 U.S.C. § 13502].
- Between the United States and a place in a foreign country.

[2] Definitions

[a] Nonnegotiable Bill of Lading

A "nonnegotiable bill of lading," formerly referred to as a straight bill of lading, is one that states that the goods are consigned to a specific person, the consignee [49 U.S.C. § 80103(b)(1); see 49 U.S.C. § 80101(1); see also C.A.R. Transportation v. Darden Restaurants, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 213 F.3d 474 (parties adapted straight bill of lading for their use; transportation broker sued shipper to recover freight charges)]. An indorsement on a nonnegotiable bill of lading neither makes the bill negotiable [see [b], below], nor confers additional rights to the transferee. As a nonnegotiable bill, a household goods bill of lading must have placed plainly on its face the wording "not negotiable" or "nonnegotiable" [49 U.S.C. § 80103(b)(2)].

[b] Negotiable Bill of Lading

A "negotiable bill of lading," formerly referred to as an "order bill of lading" is a bill that states that the goods are consigned to the order of a person named in the bill and does not contain an agreement on the face of the bill that the bill is not negotiable [49 U.S.C. § 80103(a)(1)]. Inserting the name of a person to be notified on the arrival of the goods does not limit the negotiability of the bill and does not constitute notice to the purchaser of the goods of any right of the named person to the goods [49 U.S.C. § 80103(a)(2)].

[c] Goods

The term "goods" means merchandise or personal property that is or will be transported under a bill of lading [49 U.S.C. § 80103(a)(1)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

D. Interstate Shipment of Commercial Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.51

§ 54.51 Carrier's Delivery Obligation

[1] Demand Required

In general, a common carrier must deliver goods covered by a bill of lading on demand of the consignee named in a nonnegotiable bill or the holder of a negotiable bill when the consignee or holder [49 U.S.C. § 80110(a)]:

- Offers in good faith to satisfy the carrier's lien on the goods [see § 54.54].
- Has possession of the bill and, if negotiable, offers to indorse and give the bill to the carrier.
- Agrees to sign a receipt for delivery, if requested by the carrier.

Ordinarily, a common carrier may deliver the goods to any of the following [49 U.S.C. § 80110(b); but see 49 U.S.C. § 80111; see also [2], below]:

- A person entitled to possession of the goods.
- The consignee named in a nonnegotiable bill.
- A person in possession of a negotiable bill if the goods are deliverable to the order of that person, or the bill has been properly indorsed to that person or in blank by the consignee or other indorsee.

The assertion of title or right to the goods by a third person is not a defense to an action brought by the consignee named in a nonnegotiable bill or the holder of a negotiable bill against the carrier for failure to deliver the goods on demand unless enforced by legal process [49 U.S.C. § 80110(f); but see [3], below].

[2] Carrier's Claim to Goods as Excuse for Nondelivery

When a common carrier claims title to the goods or their right of possession, that claim is an excuse for nondelivery only when the claim is derived from a transfer by the consignor or consignee after the shipment, or the carrier's lien [49 U.S.C. § 80110(c); see § 54.54].

[3] Effect of Adverse Claims

If anyone other than the consignee or person holding a bill of lading claims title to or possession of the goods, and the carrier knows of the claim, the carrier need not deliver the goods to the claimant until the carrier has had a reasonable time to either decide the validity of the adverse claim or institute an interpleader action [49 U.S.C. § 80110(d); see 49 U.S.C. § 80110(e) (interpleader)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

D. Interstate Shipment of Commercial Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.52

§ 54.52 Liability Under Bills of Lading

[1] Misdelivery

A common carrier is liable for damages to a person having title to, or the right to possess, the goods under the following circumstances [49 U.S.C. § 80111(a)]:

- The carrier delivers the goods to a person not entitled to possession [but see 49 U.S.C. § 80110(b)(2), (3); see § 54.51].
- The carrier delivers to the consignee or holder of a negotiable bill after being requested by the person having title to, or the right to possess, the goods not to deliver the goods.
- The carrier has information the time of delivery that the carrier is delivering the goods to someone who is not entitled to possession.

In the latter two situations, the request or information is only effective if an officer or agent of the carrier (whose acting or apparent authority includes taking this action) receives the request or information and has had time, exercising reasonable diligence, to stop delivery [49 U.S.C. § 80111(b)].

[2] Failure to Deliver

A common carrier ordinarily is liable for refusing to deliver the goods on demand [see 49 U.S.C. § 80110; see also § 54.51]. However, the carrier is not liable for failing to deliver the goods to the consignee or owner of the goods or a holder of a negotiable bill in any of the following circumstances [49 U.S.C. § 80111(d)]:

- The carrier delivers the goods under a negotiable bill without taking and canceling the bill [see § 54.53[3]] when the delivery was compelled by legal process.
- The goods are lawfully sold to satisfy the carrier's lien.

- The goods have not been claimed.
- The goods are perishable or hazardous.

[3] Misdating, Nonreceipt, or Misdescription

In general, a common carrier issuing a bill of lading is liable for damages caused by nonreceipt by the carrier of any part of the goods by the delivery date shown in the bill or by the failure of the goods to correspond to the description in the bill. The carrier is liable to the owner of the goods under a nonnegotiable bill (subject to the right to stop transit), or to the holder of a negotiable bill if the holder gave value in good faith reliance on the description in the bill or on the shipment being delivered on the delivery date [49 U.S.C. § 80113(a)]. However, the carrier is not liable under this rule when all of the following apply [49 U.S.C. § 80113(b)]:

- When the shipper loads the goods;
- When the bill describes the goods in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown," "said to contain," "shipper's weight, load and count" or the like.
- To the extent that the carrier does not know whether any part of the goods were received or conform to the description.

When the shipper loads the goods, the carrier is not liable for damages caused by improper loading if the bill contains the words "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words of similar import [49 U.S.C. § 80113(c)].

When bulk freight is loaded by a shipper who provides adequate facilities to the carrier for weighing the freight, the carrier must ascertain the kind and quantity of the freight within a reasonable time after receiving the written request of the shipper to do so. In this situation, "shipper's weight" or similar language are ineffective [49 U.S.C. § 80113(d)(1)].

When goods are loaded by a common carrier, the carrier must count the packages of goods if package freight, and ascertain the kind and quantity if bulk freight. In these cases, "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words indicating that the shipper described or loaded the goods are ineffective except as to freight concealed by packages [49 U.S.C. § 80113(d)(2)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

D. Interstate Shipment of Commercial Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.53

§ 54.53 Additional Liability Under Negotiable Bills of Lading

[1] Bills Issued in Parts and Sets

Negotiable bills of lading issued in one state for transport to another state other than Alaska, Hawaii, or the District of Columbia, may not be issued in parts or sets. A carrier issuing a bill in violation of this prohibition is liable for failure to deliver the goods to a purchaser of one part for value in good faith, even if the purchase occurs after the carrier delivered the goods to a holder of one of the other parts [49 U.S.C. § 80112(a)].

[2] Duplicate Bills

When two or more negotiable bills of lading are issued in one state to transport the same goods to another state other than Alaska, Hawaii, or the District of Columbia, the word "duplicate" (or other word indicating that the bill is not an original) must appear plainly on the face of each bill other than the original. A carrier issuing a bill in violation of this requirement is liable for damages to a purchaser of the bill for value in good faith as an original bill, even though the purchase occurs after the carrier delivered the goods to a holder of the original bill [49 U.S.C. § 80112(b)].

[3] Failure to Take and Cancel Bills

If a common carrier delivers goods under a negotiable bill of lading without taking and canceling the bill, the carrier is liable in damages for that failure to the person purchasing the bill for value in good faith. The carrier is liable regardless of whether the purchase was made before or after delivery, and even if delivery is made to the person entitled to the goods. The carrier is similarly liable for partial deliveries without taking or canceling the bill, or plainly noting the partial delivery and generally describing the goods kept by the carrier on the bill [49 U.S.C. § 80111(c)]. However, the carrier is not liable for delivering the goods under a negotiable bill without taking and canceling the bill when the delivery was compelled by legal process [49 U.S.C. § 80111(d)(1); see 49 U.S.C. § 80115 (limitations on judicial process)].

[4] Lost, Stolen, or Destroyed Bills

When a negotiable bill is lost, stolen, or destroyed, a court may order the carrier to deliver the goods to the person claiming them if that person gives a surety bond to indemnify the carrier or any person injured by delivery under the original bill. The court may also order the payment of reasonable costs and attorneys's fees to the carrier [49 U.S.C. § 80114(a)]. However, delivery under court order does not relieve a common carrier from liability to the person to whom the negotiable bill has been or is negotiated for value without notice of the court proceeding or of the delivery of the goods [49 U.S.C. § 80114(b); see 49 U.S.C. §§ 80104, 80105(a)].

A voluntary bond executed without court order binds the parties to the bond [49 U.S.C. § 80114(a)].

B. Procedural Guide

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.110

§ 54.110 Intrastate Transportation of Used Property Under Household Goods Carriers Act

[1] General Operating Procedures

1. Before engaging in business of transporting household goods and personal effects, by motor vehicle over any public highway in California, including advertising, soliciting, offering, or entering into agreement regarding transportation of these goods, do both of following:

- a. Obtain permit from PUC for transportation of household goods and personal effects entirely within California [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(a)(1); see § 54.11].
- b. Obtain valid operating authority issued by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration, for interstate transportation [Pub. Util. Code § 5133(a)(2); see § 54.11].

2. If carrier will do business under one or more fictitious names:

- a. File fictitious business name statement with clerk of the county in which carrier has principal place of business [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17915].
- b. File certified copies of fictitious business name statements and any required affidavits of publication with PUC [MAX-4, item 88(1)].
- c. On abandonment of fictitious business name, file statement of abandonment with PUC [MAX-4, item 88(2)].

3. Advise carrier to show following on all stationary, shipping documents, and related forms [MAX-4, item 88(3)]:

- a. All real and fictitious names used by carrier in conducting operations.
- b. Address of principal place of business (designated as such) and of any local office that conducts business with public.
- c. When more than one name is listed, identification of name under which particular transportation is performed.
- d. Carrier's T file number issued by PUC, as follows: ".U.C. T-_____."

NOTE:

The carrier's T file number must also be included in all advertising [MAX-4, item 88(7); see P 4, below].

4. With respect to advertising, advise carrier that:

- a. Listing more than one name in classified section of telephone directory requires cross-referencing each name to all others listed [MAX-4, item 88(5)].
- b. Rates may not be advertised in telephone directory [MAX-4, item 88(6)].
- c. All printed advertising matter, including handbills, newspaper advertisements, and telephone book listings, must show carrier's "T file number," as follows: ".U.C. T-_____" [MAX-4, item 88(7)].
- d. Carrier may not misrepresent rates or scope of services to public [MAX-4, item 88(8)]:

(1) Carrier may not advertise or otherwise represent itself under name that is different from that on its PUC permit.

NOTE:

Carriers who are duly authorized agents for highway common carriers [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 201-2115] (intrastate commerce), or for motor carriers acting under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Transportation (interstate commerce), may advertise and represent themselves as such agents [MAX-4, item 88(8)(a)].

(2) Carrier must clarify to customer whether carrier is acting on its own authority or as agent for another carrier.

(3) Carrier may not advertise or otherwise represent that operations are conducted at addresses or locations at which carrier or its duly authorized agent does not maintain place of business.

NOTE:

A telephone answering service does not constitute a place of business [MAX-4, item 88(8)(c)].

- (4) Advertising may not contain any misleading descriptions or displays of nonexistent facilities or equipment.
- (5) Carrier may not willfully quote or estimate lower rates or charges while knowing that actual rates or charges will exceed quote or estimate.

5. Advise carrier to maintain books of account in form that will show separately revenues derived from operations conducted under each name used by carrier [MAX-4, item 88(4)].

6. Advise carrier to furnish to each prospective shipper of household goods a copy of information specified in MAX-4, item 470, a booklet entitled Important Information for Shippers (Within California), as follows [see MAX-4, item 88(9)]:

NOTE:

The individual carrier may select the most convenient format in which to transmit this information, provided that all specified information is included in readable form. If the prospective shipper receives this information, from any source, this requirement is satisfied. For these purposes, the prospective shipper is the owner of the tendered goods, regardless of who actually pays the freight charges [MAX-4, item 88(9)].

If a carrier transporting used goods [see MAX-4, item 12] fails to comply with these requirements in their entirety, the carrier must pay the shipper $100 on completion of the move [MAX-4, item 88(9)(e)].

a. Furnish informational material to prospective shipper at time of first in-person contact between carrier's personnel and shipper or shipper's representative.

b. If move is arranged and confirmed by mail or telephone (and no in-person contact with prospective shipper occurs before day of move, mail copy to prospective shipper before moving day if sufficient time remains by registered mail, return receipt requested.

c. Obtain shipper's signature on agreement for service [see §§ 54.203, 54.205] before move begins that shipper received informational material from carrier or other source.

d. Retain this receipt for information for three-year period.

NOTE:

All receipts must include the name of the shipper, the bill of lading number, date, and signature of the shipper [MAX-4, item 88(9)(d)]. These requirements are met by the agreement for service.

7. If requested by shipper or desired by carrier, provide shipper with Estimated Cost of Services [see MAX-4, items 108, 420; see also § 54.201].

NOTE:

The issuing carrier must retain the original of this form, subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from either (1) the date of the freight bill and shipping order; or (2) the date of this estimate if the carrier does not perform the transportation and shipment [MAX-4, item 108(1)(f)].

8. Advise carrier to complete Basis for Carrier's Estimate Cost of Services (with Table of Measurements on reverse) [see § 54.200] after visual inspection of goods by its estimator and before determining estimated cost of services [see MAX-4, items 112, 400, 410].

NOTE:

This form must be signed by the shipper or the shipper's representative and a duplicate must be given to the shipper [MAX-4, item 112(1)]. The issuing carrier must retain the original of this form and preserve it, subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from either (1) the date of the freight bill and shipping order; or (2) the date of this basis for estimate if the carrier does not perform the transportation and shipment [MAX-4, item 112(3)].

9. If shipper requests additional services, or adds articles to shipment, not covered in Basis for Carrier's Estimated Cost of Services [see P 8, above] or "not to exceed price" on Agreement for Services [see § 54.203; see also P 10, below], advise carrier to issue change order [see MAX-4, items 120, 440; see also § 54.202].

NOTE:

A duplicate of all change orders must be retained and preserved by the issuing carrier, subject to inspection, for at least three years from the date delivered [MAX-4, item 120(2)].

10. Complete agreement for services [see MAX-4 Items 128, 450; see also § 54.203] and shipping order and freight bill [see § 54.204] and have shipper sign documents.

NOTE:

The agreement for services and the shipping order may be combined into a single document [see MAX-4, items 128(3), 132(2); see also §§ 54.203[1][b], 54.204[1][b]]. A combined document is set forth in § 54.205[2]. These documents must be signed by the carrier and the shipper or the shipper's representative before the move.

The issuing carrier must retain and preserve the original or duplicate of the agreement for services, including any master agreement, for PUC inspection, for at least three years from the date of issuance [MAX-4, item 128(4)].

The issuing carrier must retain and preserve a duplicate of each shipping document, freight bill, accessorial service document, weighmaster's certificate, written instructions, written agreement, written request, master agreement, or any other document supporting the assessed rates and charges that the carrier is required to issue, receive, or retain under Maximum Rate Tariff 4 for any transportation or accessorial service. These documents must be retained in California, for PUC inspection, for at least three years from the date of issuance. The carrier must also give a copy of each document to the shipper when the charges are collected [MAX-4, item 132(3)].

11. Advise carrier to adhere to quoted rates [see MAX-4, item 28]:

a. If carrier issued estimated cost of services, observe rates quoted in estimate, basis for carrier's estimate, table of measurements, and any change order [MAX-4, item 28(1)].

b. If carrier did not issue estimate, assess maximum charge as lower of following [MAX-4, item 28(2)]:

(1) "Not to exceed price" set forth in agreement [see §§ 54.203, 54.205], plus any charges noted on change order [see § 54.202] completed after agreement is signed.

(2) Charges as calculated based on rate and charges specified in agreement [see §§ 54.203, 54.205], plus any charges for service noted on change order [see § 54.202] completed after agreement is signed.

c. If carrier did not issue agreement, or if agreement fails to describe transportation and accessorial services or quoted rates for those services, assess charges no greater than 45 percent below maximum rate published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [MAX-4, item 28(3)].

d. If carrier issued agreement, but agreement fails to include not to exceed price, carrier's signature, or shipper's signature, assess charges no greater than lowest of following [MAX-4, item 28(3)]:

- (1) 45 percent below maximum rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4.
- (2) Rates quoted in estimate.
- (3) Rates quoted in agreement.

12. If carrier is unable to make delivery, advise carrier to:

a. When carrier is unable to locate consignee [MAX-4, item 96(1)]:

- (1) Notify consignee, consignor, or owner, in writing by mail, telegraph, or fax, or personally deliver written notice at premises where actual delivery was to be effected or to other notifying address.
- (2) Place shipment in nearest warehouse of carrier, or, at carrier's option, in public warehouse.

NOTE:

On placement of the goods in a warehouse, the carrier's liability ceases; thereafter, liability will be that of the warehouser in possession [MAX-4, item 96(1)].

b. When consignee is unable to take delivery, or declines to accept delivery, or when shipment remains in carrier's possession under instructions from shipper or consignee and is not stored in transit [see MAX-4, item 160], place shipment in nearest warehouse of carrier, or, at carrier's option, in public warehouse [MAX-4, item 96(2)].

NOTE:

On placement of the goods in a warehouse, the carrier's liability ceases; thereafter, liability will be that of the warehouser in possession [MAX-4, item 96(2)].

c. When subsequent delivery is made, assess charges for that delivery based on rates applicable from carrier's warehouse, or public warehouse, to point of destination [MAX-4, item 96(3)].

13. If carrier agrees with shipper to pick up shipment on specified date and/or time and is unable to fulfill that commitment, advise carrier to:

- a. Notify shipper or shipper's designee by telegram, telephone, or fax, at carrier's expense, as soon as it becomes apparent that promise will not be met [MAX-4, item 100(1)].
- b. Respond to claims for damages from shipper [MAX-4, item 100(3); see MAX-4, item 92(15); see also § 54.15[1]].
- c. Record date of receipt of written claim from shipper [MAX-4, item 92(15); see § 54.15[2]].

14. If carrier agrees to make delivery on specified date or during specified period, advise carrier to:

- a. Notify shipper or shipper's designee by telegram, telephone, or fax, at carrier's expense, of new delivery date [MAX-4, item 100(2)].

NOTE:

This notice must be given not less than 24 hours before originally promised date or period except when circumstances causing delay occur during that 24-hour period. In the latter situation, notice must be given as soon as possible, but in no event more than 24 hours after the occurrence that caused the delay. However, no notice need be given when the carrier is unable to obtain an address or telephone number from the shipper for that notification [MAX-4, item 100(2)].

b. Respond to claims for damages for delay from shipper [MAX-4, item 100(3); see MAX-4, item 92(15); see also § 54.15[1]].

c. Record date of receipt of written claim from shipper [MAX-4, item 92(15); see § 54.15[2]; see also [2], below].

15. Advise carrier that when, on written request by shipper, carrier agrees to pick up shipment on agreed date and deliver within span of two consecutive agreed dates, carrier must pay penalty of $100 per day for each day of delay [MAX-4, item 100(4)].

NOTE:

The shipper must make a written claim for payment of the delay penalty within 30 days of delivery [MAX-4, item 100(4)]. This penalty is in addition to the reimbursement requirement [see MAX-4, items 92(15), 100(3)]. However, this penalty does not apply to shipments weighing less than 5,000 pounds or that are transported less than 75 constructive miles [MAX-4, item 100(4)].

16. Advise carrier that split pickup may be provided but charge for composite shipment must be paid by one party [MAX-4, item 148(1)].

17. Advise carrier that split delivery may be accorded, but charge for composite shipment must be paid by one party [MAX-4, item 152(1)].

18. Advise carrier that split pickup and split delivery may be accorded if [MAX-4, item 156(1), (2)]:

a. Entire shipment must be picked up within 24 hours and be comprised of at least 4 component parts.

b. Charge for composite shipment must be paid by one party.

19. Advise carrier that shipments may be stored in transit once for period not to exceed 90 days from date of unloading at storage point [MAX-4, item 160].

20. Advise carrier that it may transport household goods under subhauling agreement only if [Pub. Util. Code § 5243]:

a. Subhauler is licensed by PUC to transport household goods and complies with the requirements of Household Goods Carriers Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq.]; and

b. Carrier and subhauler are jointly and severally liable for any loss or damage caused by the subhauler.

NOTE:

These restrictions do not apply to a subhauling agreement when the subhauler is not otherwise subject to the Household Goods Carrier Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq.] for activity related to the subhauling agreement [Pub. Util. Code § 5244.5].

[2] Handling Claims for Loss or DamageNOTE:

Regardless of the procedures for handling claims for loss or damage [see MAX-4, item 92; see also § 54.15[2]], no claim against a household goods carrier may be denied solely because the lost or damaged goods were not noted at the time of delivery [Pub. Util. Code § 5241]. Whenever a household goods carrier requires a signed statement acknowledging delivery and receipt of goods, the statement may not include any representation that the goods were delivered in satisfactory condition. Rather, the statement must include a notice that the shipper may file a claim with the carrier for lost or damaged goods [Pub. Util. Code § 5241].

1. Advise household goods carrier to establish and maintain claim register for each written claim for cargo loss or damage received, showing following [MAX-4, item 92(16)]:

NOTE:

The carrier must enter each claim received in the register. Each claim should be supported by the complete file of claim papers. However, if the original claim papers are retained by insurers, connecting carriers, or others, the carrier must place copies of all documents in the file, together with an acknowledgment from the party retaining the claim file that the original papers are in its possession [MAX-4, item 92(16)].

- a. Claim number.
- b. Date claim received [see MAX-4, item 92(15)].
- c. Amount claimed.
- d. Shipping order or freight bill number and date.
- e. Claimant's name.
- f. Kind of commodity.
- g. Date claim was paid and total amount paid.
- h. Date claim was disallowed and the reasons for denial.
- i. Amount of any salvage recovered [see MAX-4, item 92(17)].
- j. Amounts reimbursed by insurers, connecting carriers, or others.
- k. Amount absorbed by the carriers.

2. Advise carrier that it need not voluntarily pay claim for loss or damage unless claim is filed in writing [MAX-4, item 92(1); see § 54.220]:

NOTE:

The suit must be instituted within two years and one day from the date that the carrier gives written notice that the claim is disallowed. In the absence of a filed claim or suit following a disallowed claim, the carrier is not liable and the claim will not be paid [MAX-4, item 92(1)].

a. With receiving or delivering carrier, carrier issuing shipping document, or carrier on whose line alleged loss or damage occurred.

b. Within following time limits [MAX-4, item 92(14)]:

(1) Within nine months after delivery to consignee as shown on delivery document.

(2) Within nine months after reasonable time for delivery elapses when no delivery occurs.

3. Advise carrier of minimum requirements applicable to contents of claim for loss or damage [MAX-4, item 92(2)]:

NOTE:

Bad order reports, appraisal reports of damage, notations of shortage and/or damage on freight bills, delivery receipts, or inspection reports issued by carriers or their inspection agencies, may not be filed in lieu of a written claim. This rule is true regardless of whether or not the document indicates the extent of the loss or damage in dollars. However, these document may be used to support a written claim [MAX-4, item 92(3)].

a. Facts sufficient to identify shipment or shipments involved.

b. Assertion of liability for alleged loss or damage.

c. Claim for payment of specified or determinable amount of money.

4. When claim is filed for uncertain amount, such as "$100, more or less," advise carrier to determine condition of shipment at time of delivery and ascertain as nearly as possible extent of loss or damage for which it may be responsible [MAX-4, item 92(4)].

NOTE:

Carrier need not voluntarily pay a claim stating an uncertain amount unless and until a proper written claim for a specified or determinable amount of money is filed [MAX-4, item 92(4); see PP (3), (4), above].

5. If claim investigation reveals multiple claims on same shipment, made against other carriers, advise investigating carrier to communicate with other carriers and, before settlement [MAX-4, item 92(5)]:

a. Notify all claimants of receipt of conflicting or overlapping claims.

b. Require further substantiation on part of each claimant as to claimant's title to property or right as to claim.

6. If carrier is notified of concealed damage or shortage promptly after discovery and afforded reasonable opportunity to inspect shipment and packing, advise carrier to promptly and thoroughly investigate claim and establish claim file [MAX-4, item 92(6); see P 1, above].

7. Advise carrier that on receipt of claim, carrier must:

- a. Record date of receipt on claim [MAX-4, item 92(1)].
- b. Acknowledge receipt of claim, in writing, to claimant within 30 calendar days after its receipt by carrier or its agent [MAX-4, item 92(15)].
- c. Enter claim in claim register [MAX-4, item 92(16); see P (1), above].

8. When necessary for an investigation, advise carrier that each claim must be supported by [MAX-4, item 92(7)]:

- a. Duplicate shipping document.
- b. Either original paid bill for transportation services or a copy.
- c. For each article claimed:
 - (1) Description of nature and extent of damage.
 - (2) Statement of basis for amount claimed (i.e., date on which article was purchased, its original cost, amount of depreciation, actual cash value at time of loss or damage, and, in case of damage, repair estimate).

9. When claim for loss of entire package or entire shipment cannot be otherwise authenticated by investigation, advise carrier to obtain from consignee certified written statement that property has not been received from any other source [MAX-4, item 92(8)].

10. Advise carrier to adhere to the following settlement procedures:

- a. Pay, decline, or make firm compromise settlement in writing to claimant within 60 days after receipt of claim by carrier or its agent [MAX-4, item 92(15)].
- b. If carrier declines to pay, or offers less than amount sought, carrier must state basis for denial or reduction in writing.
- c. If, for reasons beyond carrier's control, claim cannot be processed or disposed of within 60-day period, carrier must, at that time and at expiration of each succeeding 30-day period while the claim remains pending, [MAX-4, item 92(15)]:
 - (1) Advise claimant in writing of status of claim and reasons for delay in making final disposition.
 - (2) Send copy of letter to the California Public Utilities Commission, Compliance and Enforcement Branch, 505 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco, California 94102.
- d. Carrier may satisfy claim by repairing or replacing property lost or damaged with materials of like kind, quality, and condition as of the time accepted for transportation [MAX-4, item 92(9)].

11. Advise carrier of following rules of liability:

- a. Carrier is not liable for loss or damage that occurs after property is delivered or receipted for by consignee or shipper or their agent [MAX-4, item 92(10)].
- b. When carrier is directed to unload or deliver property or render services at place at which consignee or agent is not present, risk shifts to owner after unloading or delivery [MAX-4, item 92(10)].
- c. When carrier is directed to load property from, or render services at, place at which consignor or agent is not present, property is at risk of owner before packing and loading [MAX-4, item 34(11)].
- d. Liability for pairs or sets is limited to repair or replacement of lost or damaged piece or pieces only, may not extend to repair, replacement, or recovery of entire set, and may not exceed limits of liability set forth in MAX-4, item 136 [MAX-4, item 92(12)].
- e. When liability is to be measured by weight and article involved is packed in interior shipping container, absent specific evidence to contrary, container is deemed to have weight set forth in MAX-4 [see MAX-4, item 92(13)].

[3] Presentation of Claim for Loss or Damage

1. Advise claimant to inspect shipped goods within reasonable time after delivery.

NOTE:

No claim against a household goods carrier may be denied solely because the lost or damaged goods were not noted at the time of delivery [Pub. Util. Code § 5241]. A signed statement acknowledging delivery and receipt of goods may not include any representation that the goods were delivered in satisfactory condition. Rather, the statement must notify the shipper of his or her rights to file a claim with the carrier for lost or damaged goods [Pub. Util. Code § 5241].

- a. Note any damage to individual items.
- b. If damage is discovered, request claim form from carrier.

NOTE:

Most carriers require claimants to file claims on their printed forms. These forms ordinarily include "instructions" for completing the form [see § 54.220], which must be carefully followed.

- c. If damage is concealed and delay is feasible, afford carrier reasonable opportunity to inspect shipment and packing.

2. Complete claim form, including following information [see § 54.220]:

NOTE:

A carrier is not required to pay a claim for loss or damage unless the claim is filed in writing [MAX-4, item 92(1)]. Bad-order reports, damage appraisal reports, notations of shortage or damage on freight bills, delivery receipts, or other documents, or inspection reports, standing alone, are not sufficient to comply with the claim filing requirements [MAX-4, item 92(3)].

a. Facts sufficient to identify shipment of property involved, e.g.,:

- (1) Claimant's name, address, and telephone number.
- (2) Shipper's name, address, and telephone number.
- (3) Bill of lading number.
- (4) Shipping order or freight bill number and date.
- (5) Date shipment loaded and unloaded.
- (6) Address where shipment loaded and unloaded.

b. Assertion of liability for loss or damage:

- (1) State that carrier is liable for specified amount of loss or damage.
- (2) State that claimant owns lost or damaged property.
- (3) State that claimant did not cause or contribute to loss or damage.
- (4) If claim is for breakage, state following if known:
 - (a) Identify by name packer and unpacker.
 - (b) Date shipment unpacked and/or date loss or damage discovered.
 - (c) Identify person who discovered damage.

§ 54.122 Shipping Documents Used in Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

[1] Estimates of Charges

[a] Non-Binding Estimates

NOTE:

Carriers of household goods must provide estimates of the approximate costs that will be charged to prospective shippers [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(A)]. The estimate may be either binding or non-binding. The estimate must be submitted in writing, and must indicate whether it is binding or non-binding [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(C)(i)]. Carriers that do not provide a binding estimate [see § 54.122[1][b]] must provide a non-binding written estimate to the individual shipper [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(a)].

1. Include carrier's reasonably accurate estimate of approximate costs that individual shipper should expect to pay for transportation and services of shipment, as follows [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(1)]:

- a. Provide reasonably accurate non-binding estimates based on estimated weight or volume of shipment and services required.
- b. If estimate is based on volume that will later be converted to a weight based rate, provide written explanation of formula used to calculate conversion to weight.

2. Clearly describe on face of estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(6)]:

- a. The entire shipment.
- b. All services that carrier is providing.

3. Clearly indicate on face of estimate that [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(5)]:
 - a. Estimate is not binding on carrier.
 - b. Charges shown are approximate charges to be assessed for the services identified in estimate.
 - c. Shipper may not be required to pay more than 110 percent of estimate at time of delivery.
4. Explain to individual shipper that [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(2); see 49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(C)(iii)]:
 - a. Final charges calculated for shipments moved on non-binding estimates will be those appearing in carrier's tariffs applicable to transportation.
 - b. Final charges may exceed the approximate costs appearing in estimate.
5. Furnish estimate in writing to individual shipper or other person responsible for payment of freight charges [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(3)].
6. Do not impose a charge for providing a non-binding estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(3); see 49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(C)(iii)].
7. Provide shipper with following informational publications [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(2)]:
 - a. At time of providing estimate, provide shipper with copy of Department of Transportation publication FMCSA-ESA-03-005 (or its successor publication) entitled "Ready to Move?"
 - b. Before execution of contract for service, provide shipper with copy of Department of Transportation publication OCE 100, entitled "Your Rights and Responsibilities When You Move" [see 49 C.F.R. § 375.213].
8. Retain a copy of each non-binding estimate as an attachment to be made an integral part of the bill of lading contract [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(3)].
9. Enter the estimated charges on order for service and on bill of lading [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(c)].
10. If it appears shipper has tendered additional household goods or requires additional services not identified in estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(7)]:
 - a. Carrier is not required to honor estimate.
 - b. If agreement cannot be reached as to price or service requirements for the additional goods or services, carrier is not required to service shipment.
 - c. If carrier elects to service shipment, carrier must do either of following before loading shipment:
 - (1) Reaffirm carrier's non-binding estimate; or

(2) Negotiate a revised written non-binding estimate listing any additional household goods or services.

NOTE:

Once the carrier loads a shipment, failure to execute a new non-binding estimate signifies that the carrier has reaffirmed the original non-binding estimate. The carrier then may not collect more than 110 percent of the amount of the original non-binding estimate at the destination [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(8)].

11. If carrier believes additional services are necessary to properly service shipment after household goods are in transit, carrier must [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(9)]:

- a. Inform individual shipper what additional services are before performing those services.
- b. Allow shipper at least one hour to determine whether he or she wants the additional services performed.
- c. If individual shipper agrees to pay for the additional services:
 - (1) Execute written attachment to be made an integral part of bill of lading contract; and
 - (2) Have individual shipper sign written attachment via fax transmissions, e mail, overnight courier, or certified mail with return receipt requested.
 - (3) Bill individual shipper for the additional services after 30 days from delivery.
- d. If individual shipper does not agree to pay for additional services:
 - (1) Perform only those additional services that are required to complete the delivery; and
 - (2) Bill individual shipper for those additional services after 30 days from delivery.

12. If individual shipper requests additional services after household goods are in transit [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(10)]:

- a. Inform individual shipper additional charges will be billed.
- b. Require full payment at destination of no more than 110 percent of original non-binding estimate.
- c. Bill shipper for balance of any remaining charges after 30 days after delivery.

13. Retain copy of non-binding estimate for at least one year from the date carrier made estimate, and keep it as an attachment to be made an integral part of the bill of lading contract [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(d)].

[b] Binding Estimates

NOTE:

Carriers of household goods may discharge their obligation to provide estimates of the approximate costs that will be charged to prospective shippers [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(A)] by providing a guaranteed binding estimate of the total shipment charges to the individual shipper, as long as it is provided for in the carrier's tariff [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(a)]. The estimate must be submitted in writing in writing to the individual shipper or other person responsible for payment of the freight charges [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(1), and must indicate whether it is binding or non-binding [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(C)(i)]. Carriers that do not provide a binding estimate must provide a non-binding written estimate to the individual shipper [49 C.F.R. §§ 375.403(b); 375.405(a); see § 54.122[1][a]].

1. Clearly describe binding estimate shipments and all services carrier is providing [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(4)].
2. Clearly indicate on face of binding estimate that [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(a)(3)]:
 - a. Estimate is binding upon carrier and individual shipper [see 49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(C)(ii)].
 - b. Charges shown are charges being assessed for only those services specifically identified in estimate.
3. Fee may be imposed for providing binding estimate [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(1)(C)(ii)].
4. Provide shipper with following informational publications [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(2)]:
 - a. At time of providing estimate, provide shipper with copy of Department of Transportation publication FMCSA-ESA-03-005 (or its successor publication) entitled "Ready to Move?"
 - b. Before execution of contract for service, provide shipper with copy of Department of Transportation publication OCE 100, entitled "Your Rights and Responsibilities When You Move" [see 49 C.F.R. § 375.213].
5. Retain a copy of each binding estimate as an attachment to be made an integral part of bill of lading contract [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(2)].
6. If it appears an individual shipper has tendered additional household goods or requires additional services not identified in binding estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(5)]:
 - a. Carrier is not required to honor estimate.
 - b. If agreement cannot be reached as to price or service requirements for the additional goods or services, carrier is not required to service shipment.
 - c. If carrier elects to service shipment, it must do one of following before loading shipment:

NOTE:

Once a carrier loads a shipment, failure to execute a new binding estimate or a non-binding estimate signifies that the carrier has reaffirmed the original binding estimate. The carrier may not collect more than the amount of the original binding estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(6)].

(1) Reaffirm carrier's binding estimate; or

(2) Negotiate revised written binding estimate listing additional household goods or services.

(3) Agree with individual shipper, in writing, that both carrier and shipper will consider original binding estimate as a non-binding estimate [see § 54.122[1][a]].

7. If carrier believes that additional services are necessary to properly service a shipment after household goods are in transit, carrier must [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(7)]:

a. Inform individual shipper what the additional services are before performing those services.

b. Allow shipper at least one hour to determine whether shipper wants the additional services performed.

c. If individual shipper agrees to pay for the additional services:

(1) Execute written attachment to be made an integral part of bill of lading contract.

(2) Have individual shipper sign the written attachment via fax transmission, e mail, overnight courier, or certified mail with return receipt requested.

(3) Bill individual shipper for the additional services after 30 days from delivery.

d. If individual shipper does not agree to pay for additional services:

(1) Carrier should perform only those additional services that are required to complete the delivery; and

(2) Bill individual shipper for the additional services after 30 days from delivery.

8. If individual shipper requests additional services after household goods are in transit, carrier must [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(8)]:

a. Inform shipper of additional charges that will be billed.

b. Require full payment at destination of original binding estimate only.

c. Bill for payment of balance of any remaining charges for additional services no sooner than 30 days after date of delivery.

9. Relinquish possession of shipment upon shipper's offer to pay amount of binding estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(9)].

NOTE:

Failure to relinquish possession of a shipment upon an individual shipper's offer to pay the binding estimate amount constitutes a failure to transport a shipment with "reasonable dispatch" and subjects the shipper to cargo delay claims under 49 C.F.R. Part 370 [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(b)(9)].

10. Retain copy of estimate for at least one year from date carrier made estimate, and keep it as an attachment to be made an integral part of the bill of lading contract [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(c)].

[2] Order for Service

NOTE:

Every carrier must prepare an order for service before receipt of the household goods from an individual shipper [49 C.F.R. 375.501(a)]. A copy of the completed order for service must be furnished to the shipper when the order is executed [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(c)].

1. Draft order for service [see § 54.243] containing following minimum information [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(a)]:

- i. Maximum amount carrier will demand at time of delivery to obtain possession of shipment, when shippers transports on a collect-on-delivery basis.

j. Surface Transportation Board's required released rates valuation statement, and the charges, if any, for optional valuation coverage.

NOTE:

The released rates may be increased annually by the carrier based on the Department of Commerce's Cost of Living Adjustment [49 C.F.R. § 375.501[(a)(10)].

k. Complete description of any special or accessorial services ordered and minimum weight or volume charges applicable to shipment, subject to following conditions:

(1) Carrier that provides service for individual shippers on rates based on transportation of a minimum weight or volume must indicate on order for service minimum weight- or volume-based rates and minimum charges applicable to the shipment.

(2) If carrier fails to indicate minimum rates and charges, carrier's tariff must provide that it will compute final charges relating to such a shipment based upon actual weight or volume of shipment.

l. Any identification or registration number carrier assigns to shipment.

m. If non-binding estimate was given, following information in accordance with estimate [see § 54.243[2], P 12]:

(1) Amount of estimated charges.

(2) Terms of payment.

o. Whether shipper requests notification of charges before delivery, and if so, telephone number or address at which this notice will be received.

2. Provision that parties may agree in writing to amend order before loading [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(f); see § 54.243[2], P 14].

3. Have order signed by shipper who ordered service [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(c)].

4. Have order signed by carrier or carrier's agent [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(c)].

5. Provide dated copy of order for service to individual shipper at time carrier signs order [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(c)].

[3] Bill of Lading

1. Draft bill of lading or receipt for interstate shipment of household goods to include following minimum information [see 49 C.F.R. 375.505(b); see also § 54.244[2], pt. I]:

- a. Name and address of motor carrier issuing bill of lading.
- b. Names and addresses of any other motor carrier, if known, that will participate through interline in transportation.
- c. Name, address, and telephone number of carrier's office that should be contacted in relation to shipment.
- d. Form of payment carrier and carrier's agents will honor at delivery.

NOTE:

The payment information must be the same that was entered on the estimate and order for service [49 C.F.R. § 375.505(b)(4)].

e. If transportation is on C.O.D. basis:

- (1) Name, address, and, if furnished, telephone number, fax number, or e-mail address of person to whom notification of charges should be given [see 49 C.F.R. 375.505(b)(5)].
- (2) Maximum amount carrier will demand at time of delivery to obtain possession of shipment [49 C.F.R. § 375.505(b)(11)].

f. For non-guaranteed service:

NOTE:

These date or periods entered on the bill of lading must conform to the dates or periods on the order for service [49 C.F.R. 375.505(b)(1); see § 54.243].

Unless accepted for shipment on guaranteed basis, the shipment must be transported with reasonable dispatch [49 C.F.R. 375.601]. "Reasonable dispatch" means transportation (other than transportation under tariff provisions requiring guaranteed delivery) in a timely manner. If the carrier cannot deliver the goods with reasonable dispatch, the carrier must notify the shipper as soon as it becomes apparent that the service cannot comply with the order for service [see 49 C.F.R. 375.605(a)].

- (1) Agreed date or period of time for pickup.
- (2) Agreed date or period of time for delivery.

- (1) The binding or non-binding estimate.
- (2) The order for service.
- (3) The inventory.

2. Set forth terms and conditions of contract between carrier and shipper [49 C.F.R. § 375.505(a) (bill of lading must contain terms and conditions of the contract and may be combined with order for service)], e.g.:

NOTE:

The bill of lading contains on its back side certain general provisions that apply to the document. These provisions will be titled "Contract Terms and Conditions" or similar wording. The Contract Terms and Conditions stated in the various bill of lading forms used by the various carriers are all substantially the same, although format and wording differ.

- a. Specify shipper's obligation to pay all charges applicable under carrier's tariff or bill of lading [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(A)(1)].
- b. State shipper's promise to indemnify carrier against loss or damage caused by inclusion of explosives or dangerous articles in shipment [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(A)(2)].
- c. State scope of carrier's liability for loss or damage [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(B)]:

- (1) Carrier is not liable for certain specified types of loss or damages.
- (2) Carrier's maximum liability is determined by shipper's release value declaration.

NOTE:

This maximum liability may be $.60 per pound of the weight of the lost or damaged article or $1.25 times the weight in pounds of the entire shipment or the lump sum released value [see 49 C.F.R. §§ 375.201(b)].

- d. Describe carrier's liability for delay in delivering shipment [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(C)].

subject to lien for all accrued charges [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(D)].

f. Specify that if shipper or consignee of shipment fails or refuses to accept delivery, carrier has right to sell goods to pay accrued charges [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(E)].

g. Provide that for claims for loss or damage [see § 54.244[2], pt. II(F)]:

(1) Shipper or consignee must immediately notify carrier of all claims.

(2) Shipper must give carrier reasonable opportunity to inspect damage.

(3) All claims must be in writing.

NOTE:

For a claim of loss form to be completed by the shipper, see § 54.220.

(4) State that carrier's liability for damaged article cannot exceed cost of repair or replacement.

(5) Provide that carrier is not liable for loss or damage occurring after delivery.

(6) When carrier is directed to unload property where consignee or agent is not present, provide that risk of loss shifts to owner after unloading.

PART IV. FORMS

A. Intrastate Shipment of Household Goods

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.200

§ 54.200 Basis for Carrier's Estimated Cost of Services; Table of Measurements [MAX-4 Items 112, 400, 410]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a Basis for Carrier's Estimated Cost of Services, and includes the table of measurements [MAX-4, item 400; see [c], below]. Carriers may use this form to indicate to prospective shippers of household goods the types of services available, and to have prospective shippers indicate the services requested or not requested. Use of this form is not required, and some carriers may simply use a written estimate [see § 54.201]. When this form is used, the information provided in the completed form will be used in preparing the written estimate.

The carrier must complete this basis for estimate only after the person giving the estimate visually inspects the goods prior to determining the estimated cost of the requested services. The form must be signed by the shipper or the shipper's representative, and a duplicate must be given to the shipper [MAX-4, item 112(1)].

This form contains all the information required by the Public Utilities Commission [see MAX-4, items 112(2), 400]. The words "Basis for Carrier's Estimated Cost of Services" must be printed across the top of the form in red letters at least one-eighth of an inch high [MAX-4, item 112(2)]. The form must also contain two shipper statements [see MAX-4, item 400], imprinted in letters at least 10-point bold, universe or Gothic [MAX-4, item 112(2)].

Household goods carriers must observe all rules and regulations controlling the estimates to be given to shippers of the rates and charges assessed for services. Noncompliance is unlawful [Pub. Util. Code § 5245].

[b] Recordkeeping

The issuing carrier must retain the original of this form and preserve it, subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from either (1) the date of the freight bill and shipping order; or (2) the date of this basis for estimate if the carrier does not perform the transportation and shipment [MAX-4, item 112(3)].

[c] Table of Measurements

The Table of Measurements and Estimate illustrated in this form is set forth as prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission [see MAX-4, items 116(2), 410]. The table indicates the articles to be shipped, the cubic footage assigned to each type of article by the Public Utilities Commission, the number of pieces of each type of article, the total cubic footage, and the estimated total weight of the proposed shipment. The reverse side of this basis for carrier's estimated cost of services must include this table [MAX-4, item 116(3)] unless the goods being shipped are used office equipment, used store fixtures, and equipment used in offices, stores, hospitals, libraries, museums, places of learning, and other institutions [MAX-4, items 12(1)(b), 116].

The carrier must complete this table when estimating charges on any shipment that includes service for which rates in MAX-4 are based on weight or cubic feet [MAX-4, item 116(1)]. The table must be in the prescribed form, or on an electronic form containing all of the required information [see MAX-4, items 116(2), 410]. When determining the total approximate weight in pounds, the total cubic footage determined under the table must be multiplied by seven [MAX-4, item 116(4)].

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.201

§ 54.201 Estimated Cost of Services [MAX-4, Items 108, 420]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the carrier's Estimated Cost of Services. It is drafted to satisfy the requirements of Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [see MAX-4, items 108, 420]. A carrier of household goods may give an estimate of costs for proposed services to the shipper, but is not required to do so [MAX-4, item 108(1)(a)]. When given, however, the estimate must be in writing, and may be given only after a visual inspection of the goods to be moved [MAX-4, item 108(1)(a)].

This form is set forth as prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission [see MAX-4, items 108, 420] and contains all the required information [see MAX-4, item 108(1)(b)]. The words "Estimated Cost of Services" must be printed across the top of the form in red letters at least one-eighth of an inch high [MAX-4, item 108(1)(b)]. The form must also contain an important notice [see MAX-4, item 420], imprinted in letters at least 10-point bold, universe or Gothic [MAX-4, item 108(1)(b)].

The form must be signed by the carrier's estimator, and a duplicate must be given to the shipper [see MAX-4, item 108(1)(d)].

Household goods carriers must observe all rules and regulations controlling the estimates to be given to shippers of the rates and charges assessed for services. Noncompliance is unlawful [Pub. Util. Code § 5245].

[b] Completion of Form

The carrier's estimator must base the estimated cost of services on the information, including the articles listed and the services requested, in the basis for carrier's estimated cost of services and, if the charges are based on weight, the table of measurements and estimate [MAX-4, item 108(1)(c)(1); see § 54.200]. All factors that affect the move at the point of origin, such as the number of flights of stairs, the existence of any long carries, the presence of elevators, and the amount of hoisting and lowering, must be considered [MAX-4, item 108(1)(c)(2)]. In arriving at an estimate, the estimator must use cubic measurements no less than those shown for each article involved on the table of measurements and estimate [MAX-4, item 108(1)(c)(4); see § 54.200]. When determining the total approximate weight of the shipment in pounds, the total cubic footage determined under the table must be multiplied by seven [MAX-4, item 108(1)(c)(4)]. If the total charges calculated in the estimate exceed the total charges calculated using the maximum fixed rate, the estimator must note the difference in total charges on the estimate [MAX-4, item 108(1)(e)].

[c] Maximum Charges When Estimate Issued at Least 3 Days Before Move

When an estimate is issued at least three days before the day of the move, the maximum charge is ordinarily the lesser of the following [MAX-4, item 108(2)(a)]:

- The amount of the estimate, plus any charges on a change order, which may exceed the charges calculated using the maximum fixed rate.
- The charges calculated using the rates quoted in the agreement for services, multiplied by the actual units of measurement.

However, if the carrier and the shipper agree that the amount of the estimate is both the maximum and minimum amount due for the services described in the estimate, then the amount charged is the amount of the estimate. Such an agreement must be noted on both the estimate and the agreement by the carrier applying minimum weights, hours, or dollar amounts producing a price equal to the total estimated cost of services. In this case, weighing the load or recording hours is not required [MAX-4, item 108(2)(a)].

In addition, rates quoted on a change order may exceed maximum fixed rates when both the change order and the estimate are issued at least three days before the day of the move [MAX-4, item 108(2)(a)].

"At least three days before the move" means on or before the third day before the move. For example, if Saturday is the day of the move, the estimate (and any change order) must be given on or before Wednesday in order to exceed the maximum fixed rates [see MAX-4, item 108(2)].

[d] Maximum Charges When Estimate Issued Less Than 3 Days Before Move

When an estimate is issued less than three days before the day of the move, the maximum charge is the lesser of the following [MAX-4, item 108(2)(b)]:

- The amount of the estimate, plus any charges on a change order, which may not exceed the charges calculated using the maximum fixed rate.
- The charges calculated using the rates quoted in the agreement for services, multiplied by the actual units of measurement.

"At least three days before the move" means on or before the third day before the move. For example, if Saturday is the day of the move, the estimate (and any change order) must be given on or before Wednesday in order to exceed the maximum fixed rates [see MAX-4, item 108(2)].

[e] Recordkeeping

The issuing carrier must retain the original of this form, subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from either (1) the date of the freight bill and shipping order; or (2) the date of this estimate if the carrier does not perform the transportation and shipment [MAX-4, item 108(1)(f)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Intrastate Shipment of Household Goods

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.203

§ 54.203 Agreement for Services [MAX-4 Items 128, 450]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an Agreement for Services between a carrier and a shipper. It is drafted in accordance with Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [see MAX-4, items 128(3), 450]. For a guide to the prescribed contents of the form, see § 54.120[4]. The carrier may select the most convenient format for the agreement [MAX-4, item 128(3)]; thus, the format of this form has been modified to some extent from the one appearing in MAX-4.

The carrier must prepare an agreement for services for all shippers who provide information in sufficient detail for the carrier to complete the agreement, regardless of whether or not the shipper commits to engage the carrier's services [MAX-4, item 128(1)]. The agreement must be complete in all details, including the carrier's initial signature binding the carrier to the quoted rates [MAX-4, item 128(1)]. The agreement must be signed by the shipper and the carrier before beginning any services specified under the agreement [MAX-4, item 128(2)]. The "not to exceed price" and the carrier's final signature must be added no later than the day of the move, but before the performance of any service in the commencement of the move [MAX-4, item 128(1)].

[b] Use of Combined Agreement and Shipping Document

The agreement for services may also be combined with the shipping document [see § 54.204] into a single document if [MAX-4, item 128(3)]:

- The single document and its issuance satisfies the requirements applicable to both agreements and shipping orders.
- The single document is properly identified as to what the document purports to be.

- The carrier maintains a copy of the signed agreement separate from the shipping document.

This agreement and the shipping order and freight bill [see § 54.204] may be combined into a single document if the above requirements are satisfied.

[c] Delivery Requirements

The carrier must deliver an original or copy of this agreement to the shipper, by mail or other convenient means, at least three days before the move, regardless of whether or not the shipper commits to engage the carrier's services [MAX-4, item 128(1)]. "At least three days before the move" means on or before the third day before the move. For example, if Saturday is the day of the move, the estimate (and any change order) must be given on or before Wednesday in order to exceed the maximum fixed rates [see MAX-4, item 128(1)].

This rule is subject to three exceptions. First, if the shipper's first contact with the carrier is less than three days before the move, the agreement may be completed on the day of the move. Second, shippers may waive the three-day advance notice at any time before the move; however, in this situation, the carrier must still complete the agreement before the move begins even though the shipper has waived delivery. Third, for multiple or repeat shippers, the carrier may use a master agreement to cover all moves for that shipper [MAX-4, item 128(1)].

Finally, the carrier must deliver a signed original or duplicate of this agreement to the shipper at or before the time service is begun [MAX-4, item 128(2)].

[d] Rate Limitations for Noncompliance

If the carrier fails to properly issue and deliver the agreement, then the rates used in determining charges for services not described or for rates not quoted must be 45 percent below the maximum fixed rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [MAX-4, items 28(3), 128(1)].

If the carrier fails to complete the agreement by omitting the description of the transportation and accessorial services to be provided under the agreement or the rates quoted for the service, then the rates used in determining charges for services not described or for rates not quoted must be 45 percent below the maximum fixed rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [MAX-4, items 28(3), 128(1)].

If the carrier fails to complete the agreement by omitting the description of the "not to exceed price," or the signatures of either the carrier or the shipper, then the rates used in determining charges for all transportation and accessorial services performed is the lowest of (1) 45 percent below the maximum fixed rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4, (2) rates quoted in the estimate, or (3) rates quoted in the agreement [see MAX-4, items 28(3), 128(1)].

The "Not To Exceed" amount is the maximum total dollar amount for which the consignor may be liable for the transportation of household goods and personal effects and any additional services ordered by the consignor (including any bona fide change order permitted under the PUC's rules and tariffs) and agreed to by the consignor, before any goods or personal effects are moved from their location or any other services are performed [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(d); see § 54.206].

[e] Recordkeeping

The issuing carrier must retain and preserve the original or a duplicate of this agreement, including any master agreement [see [c], above], subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from the date that the agreement is issued [MAX-4, item 128(4)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Intrastate Shipment of Household Goods

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.204

§ 54.204 Shipping Order and Freight Bill [MAX-4 Items 132, 460]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a shipping order and freight bill for use in the shipment of used household goods and related articles. The form is substantially the same as that set forth in MAX-4, item 460.

[b] Use of Combined Agreement and Shipping Document

The shipping order and freight bill may also be combined with the agreement for service [see § 54.203] into a single document if [MAX-4, items 128(3), 132(2)]:

- The single document and its issuance satisfies the requirements applicable to both agreements and shipping orders.
- The single document is properly identified as to what the document purports to be.
- The carrier maintains a copy of the signed agreement separate from the shipping document.

The agreement for services [see § 54.203] and this shipping order and freight bill may be combined into a single document if these requirements are satisfied.

[c] Completion of Form

When filling in the description of shipment table, the deductions noted should show any time that is not chargeable, such as for time for meals [MAX-4 Item 460]. When completing the space for computing charges for driving time, the driving time should be doubled unless more than one shipment is transported on a single unit of equipment; in the latter situation, the driving time must be not less than the actual number of minutes used [MAX-4, item 460]. When completing the space for "Other Services and Charges," each charge should be identified and explained separately [MAX-4, item 460].

[d] "Not to Exceed" Amount

The "Not To Exceed" amount set forth and the agreement for services between the household goods carrier and the consignor is the maximum total dollar amount for which the consignor may be liable for the transportation of household goods and personal effects and any additional services ordered by the consignor (including any bona fide change order permitted under the PUC's rules and tariffs) and agreed to by the consignor, before any goods or personal effects are moved from their location or any other services are performed [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(d); see § 54.206].

[e] Recordkeeping

The issuing carrier must retain and preserve a duplicate of each shipping document, freight bill, accessorial service document, weighmaster's certificate, written instructions, written agreement, written request, master agreement, or any other document supporting the assessed rates and charges that the carrier is required to issue, receive, or retain under Maximum Rate Tariff 4 for any transportation or accessorial service. The carrier must retain these documents at a location within California, subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from the date issued. The carrier must also give a copy of each document to the shipper when the charges are collected [MAX-4, item 132(3)].

PART IV. FORMS

A. Intrastate Shipment of Household Goods

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.205

§ 54.205 Agreement for Services and Shipping Order and Freight Bill [MAX-4 Items 128, 132, 450, 460]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a combined Agreement for Services and Shipping Order and Freight Bill to be signed by the carrier and the shipper. This form is drafted in accordance with Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [see MAX-4, items 128(3), 132, 450, 460]. For a guide to the prescribed contents of the form, see § 54.120[5], [6]. The carrier may select the most convenient format for the agreement [MAX-4, item 128(3); see also [b], below].

The carrier must prepare an agreement for services for all shippers who provide information in sufficient detail for the carrier to complete the agreement, regardless of whether or not the shipper commits to engage the carrier's services [MAX-4, item 128(1)]. The agreement must be complete in all details, including the carrier's initial signature binding the carrier to the quoted rates [MAX-4, item 128(1)]. The agreement must be signed by the shipper and the carrier before beginning any services specified under the agreement [MAX-4, item 128(2)]. The "not to exceed price" and the carrier's final signature must be added no later than the day of the move, but before the performance of any service in the commencement of the move [MAX-4, item 128(1)].

[b] Use of Combined Agreement and Shipping Document

The agreement for service [see § 54.203] may be combined with the shipping document [see § 54.204] into a single document under the following circumstances [MAX-4, items 128(3), 132(2)]:

- The single document and its issuance satisfies the requirements applicable to both agreements and shipping orders.
- The single document is properly identified as to what the document purports to be.

- The carrier maintains a copy of the signed agreement separate from the shipping document.

This combined agreement and shipping order and freight bill satisfies the first two of these requirements.

[c] Delivery Requirements

The carrier must deliver an original or copy of this agreement to the shipper, by mail or other convenient means, at least three days before the move, regardless of whether or not the shipper commits to engage the carrier's services [MAX-4, item 128(1)]. "At least three days before the move" means on or before the third day before the move. For example, if Saturday is the day of the move, the estimate (and any change order) must be given on or before Wednesday in order to exceed the maximum fixed rates [see MAX-4, item 128(1)].

This rule is subject to three exceptions. First, if the shipper's first contact with the carrier is less than three days before the move, the agreement may be completed on the day of the move. Second, shippers may waive the three-day advance notice at any time before the move; however, in this situation, the carrier must still complete the agreement before the move begins even though the shipper has waived delivery. Third, for multiple or repeat shippers, the carrier may use a master agreement to cover all moves for that shipper [MAX-4, item 128(1)].

Finally, the carrier must deliver a signed original or duplicate of this agreement to the shipper at or before the time service is begun [MAX-4, item 128(2)].

[d] Rate Limitations for Noncompliance

If the carrier fails to properly issue and deliver the agreement, then the rates used in determining charges for services not described or for rates not quoted must be 45 percent below the maximum fixed rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [MAX-4, items 28(3), 128(1)].

If the carrier fails to complete the agreement by omitting the description of the transportation and accessorial services to be provided under the agreement or the rates quoted for the service, then the rates used in determining charges for services not described or for rates not quoted must be 45 percent below the maximum fixed rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4 [MAX-4, items 28(3), 128(1)].

If the carrier fails to complete the agreement by omitting the description of the "not to exceed price," or the signatures of either the carrier or the shipper, then the rates used in determining charges for all transportation and accessorial services performed is the lowest of (1) 45 percent below the maximum fixed rates published in Maximum Rate Tariff 4; (2) rates quoted in the estimate; or (3) rates quoted in the agreement [see MAX-4, items 28(3), 128(1)].

The "Not To Exceed" amount is the maximum total dollar amount for which the consignor may be liable for the transportation of household goods and personal effects and any additional services ordered by the consignor (including any bona fide change order permitted under the PUC's rules and tariffs) and agreed to by the consignor, before any goods or personal effects are moved from their location or any other services are performed [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(d); see § 54.206].

[e] Recordkeeping

The issuing carrier must retain and preserve the original or duplicate of the agreement for services, including any master agreement [MAX-4, item 128(4)]. The issuing carrier must retain and preserve a duplicate of each shipping document, freight bill, accessorial service document, weighmaster's certificate, written instructions, written agreement, written request, master agreement, or any other document supporting the assessed rates and charges that the carrier is required to issue, receive, or retain under Maximum Rate Tariff 4 for any transportation or accessorial service [MAX-4, item 132(3)]. The carrier must retain these documents at a location within California, subject to inspection by the PUC, for at least three years from the date issued [MAX-4, items 128(4), 132(3)]. However, the carrier must maintain a copy of the signed combined agreement separate from the shipping document. [MAX-4, items 128(3), 132(2)]. The carrier must also give a copy of each document to the shipper when the charges are collected [MAX-4, items 128(4), 132(3)].

GENERAL CONTRACT TERMS

Ownership of Goods

1. The Shipper represents and warrants that Shipper is lawfully possessed of the listed property and has the authority to ship and/or store this property in accordance with the terms of this Agreement. Shipper agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Carrier ("Company") in the event of any adverse claim, or in the event it is made a party of any litigation by reason of having any of the listed property transported or stored, and to pay attorneys' fees and any court costs incurred in connection with the property. The Company's lien secures all costs and expenses in addition to its transportation, storage, and other charges.

LiabilityGeneral

2(a). All references in this Agreement to "Company" apply to the carrier or warehouser in possession of all or any of the property listed in this Agreement. It is agreed that this property will be moved, packed, stored, shipped, forwarded, or otherwise handled at Shipper's risk with respect to loss, damage, or delay caused by acts of God, the acts of public authority, quarantine, war, insurrection, strikes, labor troubles, riots, earthquake, liquefaction, deterioration by time, moth, termite, vermin, rodent, leakage, and heat, perils of navigation, occurrence in customs warehouses, the act or default of the shipper or owner, nature of property, or defect or inherent vice. Except in case of its negligence, the Company is neither liable for the loss or damage of any of this property nor responsible for its condition, operation, or functioning, whether or not the property is packed, or unpacked, by the Shipper or its agents, or by the Company or its agents. Except in case of negligence, the Company is not liable for damage to or loss of contents of pieces of furniture, crates, bundles, cartons, boxes, barrels, or other containers unless those containers are open for the Company's inspection and then only for those articles specifically listed by the Shipper.

Storage

(b) In storing the listed property, the Company is liable only for its failure to use ordinary care. In the event of loss or damage from fire or theft, the Company is only liable if the loss or damage occurred by reasons of its own negligence. The burden of proving negligence or failure to use the care required by law is on the Shipper. The Company is not responsible for loss of or damage to fragile or breakable articles that are not packed and unpacked by its employees and the Shipper assumes the full risk for such loss or damage. Fragile or breakable articles include paintings, statuary, works of art, antiques, dishes, glassware, lamp shades, etc. This property may be stored in any Company depository. The Company may, without notice to the Shipper, transfer the goods, or any part of the goods, from one depository to another and may move same from one location within a building to another.

Transportation

(c) The provisions of Maximum Rate Tariff 4, issued by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California, are incorporated in this agreement and are incorporated by reference.

Terms

(d) The terms "Declared Value," "Agreed Value," and "Released Valuation" as used in various tariffs, laws, and regulations, and this Agreement, are intended to have the same meaning. As used in this Agreement, these terms fix the value of the listed property for the purpose of this Agreement, regardless of their actual value, and the limit of the maximum amount of the Company's liability, under all conditions, as rates and charges are based on that declared and agreed value. In the event that the weight of the goods or any item is not known or cannot be ascertained, it is agreed that the weight will be computed on the basis of seven pounds per cubic foot.

Additions

(e) All applicable terms and conditions in this Agreement apply to any property of Shipper added to storage, and also when that property is ordered out of storage or is ordered shipped or moved.

Buildings, Fire, Watchman

3. The Company does not represent or warrant that its buildings are fireproof or that the contents of its buildings, including the listed property, cannot be destroyed by fire. The Company is not required to maintain a watchman.

Additional Charges

4. Additional charges for storage, extra handling, and transportation will accrue if the goods are not received by Shipper/consignee in accordance with the arrangements described in this Agreement.

Additional Services Automatically Authorized

5. Customer authorizes carrier, at its option, to place the property in storage in transit at destination in the event delivery cannot be made on arrival. Customer warrants that in accordance with the applicable tariff, mechanical appliances (refrigerators, radios, television sets, washers, clocks, and similar appliances) will be properly serviced for movement before storage. This order authorizes the advancing of any dock or other charge made by any warehouser for the account of the shipper, owner, or other person.

Notice Concerning Rates

6. The quoted rates are in accordance with the maximum rates prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission as published in its Maximum Rate Tariff 4. These rates are to be applied to the number of hours involved in providing service, to the actual weight, or to the actual number of other units of measurement, subject to the designated maximum provisions, unless in conflict with the maximum rates, rules, and regulations of that tariff.

Charges

7. All charges including transportation, first month's storage, and advances are due and payable on completion of the transportation or receipt for storage. Thereafter storage bills are payable monthly in advance. A charge will be made for warehouse labor in and out of regular storage and for necessary wrapping, packing, and accessorial services. Payments must be by cash or certified check. Storage rates may be changed on 30 days' written notice to the depositor and will be changed on the actual receipt by the Company of written notice from the depositor.

Interest on Unpaid Charges

8. Charges remaining unpaid 7 days after the receipt of a freight bill are subject to "FINANCE CHARGES" at a periodic rate of [specify, e.g., one and one-half (1 1/2) percent per month, 18 percent "ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE"]] on the unpaid previous balance.

General Lien for Charges

9. The Company has a general lien on any and all property now or subsequently delivered to or deposited with the Company by the Shipper for the following:

- All charges for transportation, storage, preservation of the property, and the performance of other services.
- All lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, labor, weighing, coopering, wrapping, and other charges in relation to the listed property.
- All charges and expenses for notice and advertisement of sale and for sale of the property when there has been a default in satisfying the Company's lien.
- All court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in collecting these charges and enforcing its lien, or defending itself in the event that it is made a party to any litigation concerning the listed property while the same is in its possession.

The Company may bring suit for delinquent charges without first foreclosing its lien.

Time for Filing Claim for Damages

10. The Company is not liable for the loss of, destruction of, or damage to the goods, or any part the goods unless, after the date on which the goods are delivered or a demand for the goods is refused or the date on which written notice of loss of or damage to the goods is mailed to the Shipper at the Shipper's last known address, whichever date is earlier, the Shipper files a written claim. The Shipper's claim is timely if made: (1) within 9 months after the delivery or demand date, the Shipper presents a claim for damages in writing to the Company accompanied by paid bill or receipt for charges; and (2) within 2 years and 1 day after that date (excluding the time during which a claim is pending in arbitration), the Shipper (or other person entitled to sue) files suit. Company may require a certified or sworn statement of claim.

Arbitration

11. The Company may, but need not, require that any dispute or claim arising out of or for the breach of this Agreement or in connection with the property shipped or stored under it, whether founded in tort or contract, be settled by arbitration under the arbitration laws of the State of California and the rules of the American Arbitration Association. However, if the event of arbitration, the arbitrator or arbitrators may not vary, modify, or disregard the provisions, contained in this Agreement, including those respecting the declared value of the goods, the limitation of liability of the Company, and the burden of proof. If the Company desires arbitration, it must notify Shipper by written demand mailed to Shipper at Shipper's last known address at any time after filing of a claim, but no later than 30 days after service of summons on the Company. If the Company does not demand arbitration, the right to require arbitration is waived. When arbitration is required, the award of the arbitrator may be entered as a judgment of a court of record in the county where the award is made. The Shipper and the Company share equally the cost of arbitration. While arbitration is pending, the Shipper may not file suit and no further proceeding may be taken by the Shipper in any suit previously filed.

Costs of Suit and Attorneys' Fees

12. The Shipper is liable for costs of suit and attorneys' fees in the event of any suit or adverse claims by or against the Company, or interpleader, involving title or possession of Shipper's goods or charges for services rendered.

Warranty Against Dangerous Materials

13. The Shipper represents and warrants that the listed property includes no dangerous, hazardous, combustible, or inflammable material.

Notices

14. All notices required or permitted to be given under this Agreement must be personally served or mailed by certified United States mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid.

Nonwaiver

15. Failure of either party to enforce any provision of this Agreement is not construed as a waiver of that provision or of either party's right to enforce that provision or any other provision of this Agreement.

Severability

16. If any term of this Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the remainder of this Agreement remains in full force and effect.

Time of the Essence

17. Time is of the essence of this Agreement.

Entire Agreement

18. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between Carrier and Shipper with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement. Any prior agreements, promises, or negotiations, whether oral or written, that are not expressly set forth in this Agreement are of no force or effect.

Modification

PART IV. FORMS

A. Intrastate Shipment of Household Goods

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.206

§ 54.206 "Not to Exceed" Notice

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the "not to exceed" notice that must be provided to each consignor by a household goods carrier engaged in the business of transporting used household goods and personal effects by motor vehicle over any public highway in California [see Pub. Util. Code § 5143(b)]. The form and content of the notice are prescribed by statute [see Pub. Util. Code § 5143(e), [c], below].

[b] Definitions

The "not to exceed" amount set forth in the notice and the agreement for services [see §§ 54.203[2]-54.205[2]] between the household goods carrier and the consignor is the maximum total dollar amount for which the consignor may be liable for the transportation of household goods and personal effects and any additional services ordered by the consignor (including any bona fide change order permitted under the PUC's rules and tariffs) and agreed to by the consignor, before any goods or personal effects are moved from their location or any other services are performed [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(d)].

For purposes of these notice requirements, "consignor" means the person named in the bill of lading as the person from whom the household goods and personal effects have been received for shipment and that person's agent [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(a)(1)]. "Consignee" means the person named in the bill of lading to whom or to whose order the household goods carrier is required to make delivery as provided in the bill of lading and that person's agent [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(a)(2)].

[c] Form and Content

A household goods carrier may provide the required notice either as a separate document or by including it as the centerfold of the informational booklet entitled "Important Information for Persons Moving Household Goods" that the household goods carrier is required to provide the consignor under the commission's tariffs [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(e); §§ 54.203[2], 54.205[2] (references to informational booklet)]. If the household goods carrier provides the notice as part of the informational booklet, the booklet must contain a tab that extends beyond the edge of the booklet at the place where the notice is included. The statement "Important Notice" must be printed on the tab in at least 12-point boldface type [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(e)]. In addition, the statement "Customer Must Read And Sign The Important Notice In The Middle Of This Booklet Before A Move Can Begin" must be set forth in 14-point boldface type on the front cover of the booklet [Pub. Util. Code § 5143(e)]. The notice provided the consignor must be in the form prescribed by statute [see Pub. Util. Code § 5143(f); [2], below].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Intrastate Shipment of Household Goods

1. Shipping Documents

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.207

§ 54.207 Intrastate Check List

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an intrastate check list, referred to by some carriers as a "receipt and bill of lading check list." The check list is used primarily for three purposes:

- To check each article of the shipment every time that the shipment is loaded or unloaded to reduce the chances of losing or misplacing any of the articles.
- To establish the condition of those articles that, when first received by the carrier, were not in good condition.
- To indicate the condition of each of the articles at the time of delivery at the point of destination.

Carriers can use this check list when the charges are based on weight or time. This type of check list can be particularly useful when the shipper requires more detailed information, such as might be the case with a corporate shipper.

When this type of form is used, each article in the shipment is tagged with a number beginning with "1." The bill of lading number for the shipment is also stated on each tag. This form is designed to accommodate an unlimited number of articles, simply by using additional forms. The letters "A," "B," "C," "D," and "E" are intended to designate the occasion for checking each item on the check list. In the majority of instances, this inspection is done on only two occasions: (1) when the shipment is loaded at the point of origin; and (2) when it is unloaded at the point of destination. However, this inspection may be done at other times, such as when the shipment is moved into a warehouse for in-transit storage and again when the shipment is taken out of the warehouse and loaded onto a second van for delivery to the point of destination. The form has spaces, to be filled in below each letter, to describe the time and place when each of the articles were checked against the check list.

[b] Effect of Statement Concerning Condition of Goods

No claim against a household goods carrier for lost or damaged goods will be denied solely because the lost or damaged goods were not noted at the time of delivery. Whenever the carrier requires a signed statement acknowledging delivery and receipt of goods, that statement must not contain any representation that the goods were received in satisfactory condition. The statement must contain a notice that the shipper may file a claim with the carrier for lost or damaged goods [Pub. Util. Code § 5241].

A written claim for loss or damage must be filed with the carrier within nine months after delivery of the goods to the consignee, or, if delivery is not made, within nine months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. Suit must be instituted against the carrier within two years and one day from the date that the carrier notifies the claimant in writing that the claim has been disallowed. If a claim is not timely filed or a suit is not timely brought, the carrier is not liable for any loss of or damage to the goods [MAX-4, item 92(14)].

[c] Exception and Location Symbols

The condition of each article that is not in good condition when received by the shipper at the point of origin, and when delivered at the point of destination, is noted on this check list by the use of symbols. The meaning of the symbols is set forth in the form. Letter symbols are used to designate the nature of the defect. The numerical symbols indicate the location of the defect on the article.

[d] Signatures at Point of Origin

As the various articles in the shipment are loaded onto the moving van, the driver of the van lists each article on the check list, noting any defective conditions opposite each article. After the loading is complete and the list filled in, the driver signs the check list and requests the shipper or the shipper's representative to sign. By signing, the shipper acknowledges that (1) the listed goods were in the condition noted on the check list when received by the carrier and (2) that shipper has received from the carrier a copy of "Important Information for Shippers of Household Goods (Within California)."

[e] Signature of Consignee at Point of Destination

After the goods are unloaded at the point of destination, the carrier's representative (usually the driver of the van) will request the consignee (who in the majority of instances is also the shipper) to sign the check list. By signing the form, the consignee acknowledges that all of the articles in the shipment were received, except as noted on the check list. However, the receipt may not contain any representation that the goods were received in satisfactory condition [Pub. Util. Code § 5241].

2. Claim Forms

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.220

§ 54.220 Claim for Loss or Damage

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a claim for loss or damage to used property that was moved (or stored) by a carrier. Typically, a carrier requires a claimant to file a claim on its printed form. This form illustrates the type of claim form used by carriers; however, each carrier uses a slightly different form. This form may be used for either intrastate or interstate shipments. However, some carriers use separate forms for intrastate and interstate shipments.

Claim forms used by carriers ordinarily include "instructions" for completing the form. This form similarly contains completion instructions. The instructions stated on the printed form of the carrier with whom the claim is to be filed should be carefully followed.

[b] Filing Requirements

A claim for loss or damage must be filed in writing with the receiving or delivering carrier, the carrier that issued the shipping document, or the carrier on whose line the alleged loss or damage occurred [MAX-4, item 92(1)]. The claim must be filed within the time limit specified in MAX-4, by law, the terms of the shipping document or other contract of carriage, and all applicable tariff provisions [MAX-4, item 92(1)].

Under MAX-4, a claim for loss or damage must be filed within nine months after delivery of the property to the consignee or, if delivery is not made, within nine months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. Further, suit must be instituted within two years and one day from the date that notice of disallowance of the claim is given by the carrier to the claimant. If a claim is not filed or suit is not instituted in accordance with these requirements, the carrier is not liable [MAX-4, item 92(14)].

[c] Acknowledgment of Receipt and Settlement

A household goods carrier that receives a written claim for loss or damage must acknowledge receipt of the claim in writing to the claimant within 30 calendar days after receipt by the carrier or its agent. The carrier must also record the date of receipt at the time that the claim is received [MAX-4, item 92(15)].

Within 60 days after receipt of the claim, the carrier must, in writing, pay the claim, decline to pay, or make a firm settlement offer to the claimant. If the carrier declines to pay or offers less than the amount sought, the carrier must state, in writing, the basis for the denial or reduction. However, if the claim cannot be processed and disposed of within the 60-day period for reasons beyond the carrier's control, the carrier must at the end of that period and at the expiration of each 30-day period while the claim remains pending, advise the claimant in writing of the status of the claim and the reasons for the delay. The carrier must send a copy of the letter to the California Public Utilities Commission, Compliance and Enforcement Branch, 505 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco, California 94102 [MAX-4, item 92(15)].

[d] Contents of Claim Form

A claim for loss or damage must contain the following information [MAX-4, item 92(2)]:

- Facts sufficient to identify the shipment of property involved.
- Assertion of liability for the alleged loss or damage.
- A claim for payment of a specified or determinable amount of money.

Bad-order reports, damage appraisal reports, notations of shortage or damage on freight bills, delivery receipts, or other documents, or inspection reports, standing alone, are not sufficient to comply with these minimum claim filing requirements [MAX-4, item 92(3)].

Any insurer who reproduces or furnishes a claim form in connection with any insurance contract must include, on the face of the form or on a rider attached to the form, in comparative prominence with the other contents of the form, the following statement: "Any person who knowingly presents false or fraudulent claim for the payment of a loss is guilty of a crime and may be subject to fines and confinement in state prison." This statement must be preceded by the words "For your protection California law requires the following to appear on this form," or other explanatory words of similar meaning [Ins. Code § 1871.2]. This preamble and the required statutory language are reproduced in this form.

[e] False Claims

The Public Utilities Code prohibits individuals, corporations, and their agents and employees from making false statements, using false documentation, or misrepresenting the value or extent of damage, in connection with damage claims growing out of the transportation of used property subject to the Household Goods Carriers Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5199]. No specific penalty is imposed for violation of these provisions, but violators are subject to the general penalty provisions of the Act [see Pub. Util. Code § 5111 et seq.], which provide, among other things, for a fine of $1,000 and three months' imprisonment for persons other than household goods carriers who knowingly violate any provision of the Act [Pub. Util. Code § 5312]. The Act's remedies and penalties are cumulative to each other and to the remedies and penalties available under any other law, and do not bar or affect the availability of any other remedy or penalty or criminal prosecution [Pub. Util. Code § 5316]. Thus, in appropriate cases, the filing of a false claim can also be prosecuted under appropriate provisions of the Insurance Code and/or Penal Code.

[f] Effect of Statement Concerning Condition of Goods

No claim against a household goods carrier for loss or damage of goods may be denied solely because the lost or

Any person who knowingly presents false or fraudulent claim for the payment of a loss is guilty of a crime and may be subject to fines and confinement in state prison.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Please read the terms and conditions of the agreement for services and the shipping order and freight bill or the bill of lading.

2. Claims must be filed within nine months after the date of delivery. No claim will be considered as filed until the carrier has received a completed Claim for Loss or Damage signed by the claimant.

3. All claims in excess of [specify amount, e.g., $200] must be notarized. The carrier reserves the right to require notarization of any other claims.

4. Please note under the following headings:

Check List No. If a check list was prepared, each item in your shipment carries a tag stating the number of the freight bill or bill of lading and the check list number for that particular item. If you cannot identify the check list number from the tag, do so from your copy of the check list.

Description of Article. Carefully describe each article. Identify contents of containers as completely and accurately as possible. If articles are claimed to be missing, identify by size, color, model number, brand name or manufacturer, and similar data.

Description of Loss or Damage. If the article was damaged, state the type, severity, and location of the damage.

Approximate Weight. The weight of each item should be indicated to the best of your ability.

Month and Year of Purchase. If the article was purchased used, so indicate. If you received the article as a gift, so state, giving the month and year in which it was received.

Original Cost. State this to the best of your ability. Attempt to locate the original of the sales slip and show it to our representative when the representative contacts you.

Present Value. Depreciation should be taken into consideration.

Amount Claimed. If the article was lost or damaged beyond repair, this amount is the same as Present Value. If the article was damaged, this amount should be the cost of reasonable repair.

5. Estimate to the best of your ability the full actual value of your entire shipment as of the time it was tendered to us for moving. Present-day replacement cost less depreciation must be considered in determining actual value.

6. The carrier reserves the right to inspect within a reasonable time any articles claimed to be damaged. Do not repair or replace any listed article until we have had the opportunity to review your completed Claim for Loss or Damage and to determine the course of action necessary.

PART IV. FORMS

B. Intrastate Shipment of Commercial Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.230

§ 54.230 Straight Bill of Lading (Nonnegotiable)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a uniform straight bill of lading for use in the intrastate transportation of commercial goods; that is, goods other than used property subject to the Household Goods Carriers Act [see § 54.10 et seq.]. A straight bill of lading is nonnegotiable; the form is uniform in the sense that it generally complies with the content and format prescribed by federal regulations for use in interstate commerce [see 49 C.F.R. § 1035.1; see also 49 C.F.R. pt. 1035, apps. A, B].

A bill of lading is a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods and which, by its terms, evidences the intention of the issuer that the person entitled under the document has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. Designation of the document by the issuer as a "bill of lading" is conclusive evidence of that intention [Com. Code § 1201(b)(6)]. Bills of lading used for transporting goods within California are governed by Division 7 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 7101 et seq.].

A bill of lading is negotiable if:

- By its terms, the goods covered by it are to be delivered to the bearer or to the order of a named person [Com. Code § 7104(a)]; and
- When it was issued, it did not have a conspicuous legend, however expressed, that it is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(c)].

Any other bill of lading is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(b)].

A nonnegotiable bill of lading may be called a "straight" bill of lading in the transportation industry. (A negotiable bill of lading may be known as an "order" bill of lading; for a form for an order bill of lading, see § 54.231.)

[b] Completion of Form

When goods are loaded by the issuer of a bill of lading, the issuer must count the packages of goods if shipped in packages and ascertain the kind and quantity if shipped in bulk. Words in a bill of lading such as "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import indicating that the description was made by the shipper, are ineffective except as to goods concealed in packages [Com. Code § 7301(b)].

If bulk goods are loaded by a shipper who makes available to the issuer of a bill of lading adequate facilities for weighing those goods, the issuer must ascertain the kind and quantity within a reasonable time after receiving the shipper's request in a record to do so [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(10) (definition of "record"); § 54.30[2][b]]. In that case, "shipper's weight" or words of similar import are ineffective in a bill of lading [Com. Code § 7301(c)].

The shipper guarantees, to the issuer of the bill of lading, the accuracy at the time of shipment of the description, marks, labels, number, kind, quantity, condition, and weight, as furnished by the shipper. The shipper must indemnify the issuer against damage caused by inaccuracies in those particulars. This right of indemnity does not limit the issuer's responsibility or liability under the contract of carriage to any person other than the shipper [Com. Code § 7301(e)].

The terms and conditions of this bill are based on 49 C.F.R. pt. 1035, app. B. However, the language and format has been modified.

[c] Carrier's Lien

The carrier has a lien on the goods covered by the bill of lading (or on the proceeds in the carrier's possession) for charges after the date of the carrier's receipt of the goods for storage or transportation, including demurrage and terminal charges, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to their transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. However, against a purchaser for value of a negotiable bill of lading, the carrier's lien is limited to charges stated in the bill or the applicable tariffs or, if no charges are stated, a reasonable charge [Com. Code § 7307(a)].

The carrier's lien on goods that the carrier was required by law to receive for transportation is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to those charges and expenses. In any other case, the carrier's lien is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods, unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked authority [Com. Code § 7307(b)].

The carrier loses its lien on any goods that it voluntarily delivers or unjustifiably refuses to deliver [Com. Code § 7307(c)].

[d] Carrier's Liability for Loss or Damage

After issuing a nonnegotiable bill of lading, a carrier must exercise the degree of care in relation to the goods that a reasonably careful person would exercise under similar circumstances. However, this duty does not affect any statute, regulation, or rule of law that imposes liability on a common carrier for damages not caused by its negligence [Com. Code § 7309(a)].

Damages may be limited by a term in the bill of lading (or in a transportation agreement) that the carrier's liability may not exceed a value stated in the bill of lading (or transportation agreement), if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 7309(b); but see Dictor v. David & Simon, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 238, 249-250, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 588 (plaintiff's claim under Com. Code § 7309 is preempted by 49 U.S.C. § 14706 when case arises out of interstate shipment)]:

- The carrier's rates are dependent on value;
- The consignor is afforded an opportunity to declare a higher value; and
- The consignor is advised of the opportunity.

However, such a limitation is not effective with respect to the carrier's liability for conversion to its own use [Com. Code § 7309(b)].

[e] Carrier's Liability for Errors in Bill of Lading

A consignee of a nonnegotiable bill of lading who has given value in good faith, relying on the description of the goods in the bill or on the date shown in the bill, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the misdating of the bill or the nonreceipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the bill indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, such as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown," "said to contain," "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import, if that indication is true [Com. Code § 7301(a)].

[f] Carrier's Liability for Goods Loaded by Shipper

The issuer of a bill of lading, by including in the bill the words "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import, may indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper; and if that statement is true, the issuer is not liable for damages caused by the improper loading. However, omission of such words does not imply liability for damages caused by improper loading [Com. Code § 7301(d)].

CONTRACT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

General Liability

1. (a) The carrier or party in possession of any of the property described in this bill is liable as at common law for any loss of or damage to the property, except as provided below.

Limitation of Liability

(b) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property described in this bill is liable for any loss or damage or delay caused by the act of God, the public enemy, the authority of law, or the act or default of the shipper or owner, or for natural shrinkage. The carrier's liability is that of a warehouseman only, for loss, damage, or delay caused by fire occurring after the expiration of the free time allowed by tariffs lawfully on file (as free time is computed in the tariff) after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination, or tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it, has been made. Except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession (and the burden to prove freedom from negligence is on the carrier or party in possession), the carrier or party in possession is not be liable for loss, damage, or delay occurring while the property is stopped and held in transit upon the request of the shipper, owner, or party entitled to make such request, or resulting from a defect or vice in the property, or for country damage to cotton, or from riots or strikes.

Quarantine Conditions

(c) In case of quarantine, the property may be discharged at the risk and expense of the owners into quarantine depot or elsewhere, as required by quarantine regulations or authorities, or for the carrier's dispatch at nearest available point in carrier's judgment, and in any such case carrier's responsibility ceases when property is so discharged, or property may be returned by carrier at owner's expense to shipping point, earning freight both ways. Quarantine expenses of whatever nature or kind on or in respect to property will be borne by the owners of the property or be a lien on the property. The carrier is not liable for loss or damage occasioned by fumigation or disinfection or other acts required or done by quarantine regulations or authorities even though the same may have been done by carrier's officers, agents, or employees, nor for detention, loss, or damage of any kind occasioned by quarantine or the enforcement thereof. No carrier is liable, except in case of negligence, for any mistake for inaccuracy in any information furnished by the carrier, its agents, or officers, as to quarantine laws or regulations. The shipper will hold the carriers harmless from any expense they may incur, or damages they may be required to pay, by reason of the introduction of the property covered by this contract into any place against the quarantine laws or regulations in effect at that place.

General Transport Conditions

2. (a) No carrier is bound to transport the listed property by any particular train or vessel, or in time for any particular market or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier has the right in case of physical necessity to forward the property by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination. In all cases not prohibited by law, when a lower value than actual value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been agreed on in writing as the released value of the property as determined by the classification or tariffs on which the rate is based, the lower value plus freight charges if paid are the maximum amount to be recovered, whether or not that loss or damage occurs from negligence.

Filing of Claims and Suits

(b) Claims for loss, damage, or injury to property must be made in writing to the originating or delivering carrier or carriers issuing this bill of lading within nine months after delivery of the property (or, in case of export traffic, within nine months after delivery at port of export) or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within nine months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. However, if the loss, damage, or injury was due to delay or damage while being loaded or unloaded, or damaged in transit by carelessness or negligence, then no notice of claim nor filing of claim is required as a condition precedent to recovery.

Suits for loss, damage, injury, or delay must be instituted within two years and one day after delivery of the property, or in case of failure to make delivery, then within two years and one day after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. If the claim on which the suit is based was made in writing within nine months (whether or not filing of the claim is required as a condition precedent to recovery), suit must be instituted not later than two years and one day after notice in writing is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts of the claim specified in the notice.

Insurance

(c) Any carrier or party liable on account of loss of or damage to any of the listed property shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected on or on account of that property, to the extent that this does not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance: provided, that the carrier reimburse the claimant for the premium paid on the insurance.

Accessory Costs

3. Except when service is required as the result of carrier's negligence, all property is subject to necessary cooperage and baling at owner's cost. Each carrier over whose route cotton or cotton linters is to be transported under this bill has the privilege, at its own cost and risk, of compressing the same for greater convenience in handling and forwarding, and will not be held responsible for deviation or unavoidable delays in procuring compression. Grain in bulk consigned to a point where there is a railroad, public or licensed elevator, may (unless otherwise expressly noted, and then if it is not promptly unloaded) be there delivered and placed with other grain of the same kind and grade without respect to ownership (and prompt notice must be given to the consignor), and if so delivered is subject to a lien for elevator charges in addition to all other charges under this bill.

Storage at Delivery Time

4. (a) Property not removed by the party entitled to receive it within the free time allowed by tariffs, lawfully on file (as computed in the tariff), after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination has been made, may be kept in vessel, car, depot, warehouse, or place of delivery of the carrier, subject to the tariff charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouseman, only, or at the option of the carrier, may be removed to and stored in a public or licensed warehouse at the place of delivery or other available place, at the cost of the owner, and held there without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all freight and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage.

Disposal of Nonperishable Goods

(b) When nonperishable property that has been transported to destination under this bill is refused by consignee or the party entitled to receive it, or the consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it within 15 days after notice of arrival has been duly sent or given, the carrier may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, at a place designated by the carrier: Provided, that the carrier must first mail, send, or give to the consignor notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed, as the case may be, and that it will be subject to sale under the terms of the bill of lading if disposition is not arranged for, and publish notice containing a description of the property, the name of the party to whom consigned, or, if shipped "order notify," the name of the party to be notified, and the time and place of sale, once a week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation at the place of sale or nearest place where that newspaper is published; provided that 30 days have elapsed before publication of notice of sale after the notice that the property was refused or remains unclaimed was mailed, sent, or given.

Disposal of Perishable Goods

(c) When perishable property that has been transported under this bill to destination is refused by consignee or party entitled to receive it, or the consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it promptly, the carrier may, in its discretion, to prevent deterioration or further deterioration, sell the same to the best advantage at private or public sale; provided that if time serves for notification to the consignor or owner of the refusal of the property or the failure to receive it and request for disposition of the property, this notification must be given, in the manner as the exercise of due diligence requires, before the property is sold.

Other Lawful Disposition of Goods

(d) When the procedure provided for in the two paragraphs last preceding is not possible, it is agreed that nothing contained in those paragraphs shall be construed to abridge the right of the carrier at its option to sell the property under the circumstances and in the manner as may be authorized by law.

Application of Proceeds From Sales

(e) The proceeds of any sale made under the preceding paragraphs must be applied by the carrier to the payment of freight, demurrage, storage, and any other lawful charges and the expense of notice, advertisement, sale, and other necessary expense and of caring for and maintaining the property, if proper care of the same requires special expense. If any balance remains, it must be paid to the owner of the property sold under this bill.

Risk on Unattended Delivery

(f) Property destined to or taken from a station, wharf, or landing at which there is no regularly appointed freight agent is entirely at risk of owner after unloaded from cars or vessels or until loaded into cars or vessels, and, except in case of carrier's negligence, when received from or delivered to those stations, wharves, or landings is at owner's risk until the cars are attached to and after they are detached from locomotive or train or until loaded into and after unloaded from vessels.

Unrated Shipments

5. No carrier under this bill is liable in any way for any documents, specie, or for any articles of extraordinary value not specifically rated in the published classifications or tariffs unless a special agreement to do so and a stipulated value of the articles are endorsed on this bill.

Hazardous Commodities

6. Every party, whether principal or agent, shipping explosives or dangerous goods, without previous full written disclosure to the carrier of their nature, shall be liable for and indemnify the carrier against all loss or damage caused by the goods, and the goods may be warehoused at owner's risk and expense or destroyed without compensation.

Payment of Charges

7. The owner or consignee must pay the freight and average, if any, and all other lawful charges on the listed property; but except in those instances when it may lawfully be authorized to do so, no carrier by railroad shall deliver or relinquish possession at destination of the property covered by this bill of lading until all tariff rates and charges have been paid. The consignor is liable for the freight and all other lawful charges, except that if the consignor stipulates, by signature, in the space provided for that purpose on the face of this bill of lading that the carrier may not make delivery without requiring payment of the charges and the carrier, contrary to such a stipulation, must make delivery without requiring payment, the consignor is not liable for the charges. Nothing in this bill limits the right of the carrier to require at time of shipment the prepayment or guarantee of the charges. If on inspection it is ascertained that the articles shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the freight charges must be paid on the articles actually shipped.

Substitute Bills

8. If this bill of lading is issued on the order of the shipper, or agent, in exchange or in substitution for another bill of lading, the shipper's signature to the prior bill of lading as to the statement of value or otherwise, or election of common law or bill of lading liability, in or in connection with that prior bill of lading, must be considered a part of this bill of lading as fully as if it were written or made in or in connection with this bill of lading.

Related Water Carriage

9. (a) If all or any part of the listed property is carried by water over any part of said route, that water carriage shall be performed subject to all the terms and provisions of, and all the exemptions from liability contained in, the Act of the Congress of the United States, approved on February 13, 1893, and entitled "An Act relating to the navigation of vessels, etc.," and of other statutes of the United States according carriers by water the protection of limited liability, and to the conditions contained in this bill of lading not inconsistent therewith or with this paragraph.

Fire Liability

(b) No carrier by water is liable for any loss or damage resulting from any fire happening to or on board the vessel, or from explosion, bursting of boilers or breakage of shafts, unless caused by the design or neglect of that carrier.

Other Peril

(c) If the owner exercised due diligence in making the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, no carrier will be liable for any loss or damage resulting from the perils of the lakes, seas, or other waters, or from latent defects in hull, machinery, or appurtenances whether existing before, at the time of, or after sailing, or from collision, stranding, or other accidents of navigation, or from prolongation of the voyage. And, when for any reason it is necessary, any vessel carrying any or all of the property described in this bill is at liberty to call at any port or ports, in or out of the customary route, to tow and be towed, to transfer, transship, or lighter, to load and discharge goods at any time, to assist vessels in distress, to deviate for the purpose of saving life or property, and for docking and repairs. Except in case of negligence the carrier is not responsible for any loss or damage to property if it is necessary or is usual to carry the same on deck.

Loss Payment

(d) General average is payable according to York-Antwerp Rules, 1924, and, as to any matter not therein provided for, according to the law and usage of the port of New York. If the owners shall have exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped and supplied, it is agreed that in case of danger, damage, or disaster resulting from faults or errors in navigation, or in the management of the vessel, or from any latent or other defects in the vessel, machinery, or appurtenances, or from unseaworthiness, whether existing at the time of shipment or at the beginning of the voyage (provided the latent or other defects or the unseaworthiness was not discoverable by the exercise of due diligence), the shippers, consignees or owners of the cargo must nevertheless pay salvage and any special charges incurred in respect of the cargo, and must contribute with the shipowner in general average to the payment of any sacrifices, losses or expenses of a general average nature that may be made or incurred for the common benefit or to relieve the adventure from any common peril.

Modification by Tariff

(e) If the property is being carried under a tariff that provides that any carrier or carriers party is liable for loss from perils of the sea, then as to that carrier or carriers the provisions of this paragraph must be modified in accordance with the tariff provisions, which shall be regarded as incorporated into the conditions of this bill of lading.

Exclusions From Coverage

(f) The term "water carriage" in this paragraph will not be construed as including lighterage in or across rivers, harbors, or lakes, when performed by or on behalf of rail carriers.

Alterations

10. Any alteration, addition, or erasure in this bill of lading that is made without the special notation of the agent of the carrier issuing this bill of lading, is without effect, and this bill of lading is enforceable according to its original terms.

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

B. Intrastate Shipment of Commercial Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.231

§ 54.231 Order Bill of Lading (Negotiable)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a uniform order bill of lading for use in the intrastate transportation of commercial goods; that is, goods other than household goods [see § 54.10 et seq.]. An order bill of lading is negotiable; the form is "uniform" in the sense that it generally complies with the format required by federal regulations for use in interstate commerce [see 49 C.F.R. § 1035.1; see also 49 C.F.R. pt. 1035, apps. A, B].

A bill of lading is a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods and which, by its terms, evidences the intention of the issuer that the person entitled under the document has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. Designation of the document by the issuer as a "bill of lading" is conclusive evidence of that intention [Com. Code § 1201(b)(6)]. Bills of lading used for transporting goods within California are governed by Division 7 of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 7101 et seq.].

A bill of lading is negotiable if:

- By its terms, the goods covered by it are to be delivered to the bearer or to the order of a named person [Com. Code § 7104(a)]; and
- When it was issued, it did not have a conspicuous legend, however expressed, that it is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(c)].

Any other bill of lading is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(b)].

A negotiable bill of lading may be called an "order" bill of lading in the transportation industry. (A nonnegotiable bill of lading may be known as a "straight" bill of lading; for a form for a straight bill of lading, see § 54.230.)

[b] Completion of Form

When goods are loaded by the issuer of a bill of lading, the issuer must count the packages of goods if shipped in packages and ascertain the kind and quantity if shipped in bulk. Words in a bill of lading such as "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import indicating that the description was made by the shipper, are ineffective except as to goods concealed in packages [Com. Code § 7301(b)].

If bulk goods are loaded by a shipper who makes available to the issuer of a bill of lading adequate facilities for weighing those goods, the issuer must ascertain the kind and quantity within a reasonable time after receiving the shipper's request in a record to do so [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(10) (definition of "record"); § 54.30[2][b]]. In that case, "shipper's weight" or words of similar import are ineffective in a bill of lading [Com. Code § 7301(c)].

The shipper guarantees, to the issuer of the bill of lading, the accuracy at the time of shipment of the description, marks, labels, number, kind, quantity, condition, and weight, as furnished by the shipper. The shipper must indemnify the issuer against damage caused by inaccuracies in those particulars. This right of indemnity does not limit the issuer's responsibility or liability under the contract of carriage to any person other than the shipper [Com. Code § 7301(e)].

[c] Carrier's Lien

The carrier has a lien on the goods covered by the bill of lading (or on the proceeds in the carrier's possession) for charges after the date of the carrier's receipt of the goods for storage or transportation, including demurrage and terminal charges, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to their transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. However, against a purchaser for value of a negotiable bill of lading, the carrier's lien is limited to charges stated in the bill or the applicable tariffs or, if no charges are stated, a reasonable charge [Com. Code § 7307(a)].

The carrier's lien on goods that the carrier was required by law to receive for transportation is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to those charges and expenses. In any other case, the carrier's lien is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods, unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked authority [Com. Code § 7307(b)].

The carrier loses its lien on any goods that it voluntarily delivers or unjustifiably refuses to deliver [Com. Code § 7307(c)].

[d] Carrier's Liability for Loss or Damage

A carrier, after issuing a negotiable bill of lading, must exercise the degree of care in relation to the goods that a reasonably careful person would exercise under similar circumstances. However, this duty does not affect any statute, regulation, or rule of law that imposes liability on a common carrier for damages not caused by its negligence [Com. Code § 7309(a)].

Damages may be limited by a term in the bill of lading (or in a transportation agreement) that the carrier's liability may not exceed a value stated in the bill of lading (or transportation agreement), if all of the following conditions are satisfied Com. Code § 7309(b); but see Dictor v. David & Simon, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 238, 249-250, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 588 (plaintiff's claim under Com. Code § 7309 is preempted by 49 U.S.C. § 14706 when case arises out of interstate shipment)]:

- The carrier's rates are dependent on value;

- The consignor is afforded an opportunity to declare a higher value; and
- The consignor is advised of the opportunity.

However, such a limitation is not effective with respect to the carrier's liability for conversion to its own use [Com. Code § 7309(b)].

[e] Carrier's Liability for Errors in Bill of Lading

A holder to whom a negotiable bill of lading has been duly negotiated, relying on the description of the goods in the bill or on the date shown in the bill, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the misdating of the bill or the nonreceipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the bill indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, such as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown," "said to contain," "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import, if that indication is true [Com. Code § 7301(a)].

[f] Carrier's Liability for Goods Loaded by Shipper

The issuer of a bill of lading, by including in the bill the words "shipper's weight, load, and count," or words of similar import, may indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper; and if that statement is true, the issuer is not liable for damages caused by the improper loading. However, omission of such words does not imply liability for damages caused by improper loading [Com. Code § 7301(d)].

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.232§ 54.232 Notice of Satisfaction of Carrier's Lien[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice of satisfaction of a carrier's lien. It may be used by a shipper, or any other person claiming a right or interest in the shipment, to notify the carrier that the person is paying the lien amount and redeeming the goods.

A carrier's lien on goods may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods, in bulk or in packages, at any time or place and on any terms that are commercially reasonable, after the carrier has notified all persons known to claim an interest in the goods [Com. Code § 7308(a)]. For discussion, see § 54.34[4]. Before the lien enforcement sale, any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred in complying with the lien enforcement procedure. In that event, the goods may not be sold but must be retained by the carrier, subject to the terms of the bill of lading and Division 7 [Com. Code § 7308(b)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.240

§ 54.240 Non-Binding Estimate of Charges

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used by a carrier to give a prospective shipper a non-binding estimate of the charges that will be made for the transportation of the shipper's household goods in interstate commerce. Carriers of household goods must provide estimates of the approximate costs that will be charged to prospective shippers [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b); 49 C.F.R. § 375.401(a)]. Non-binding estimates must be furnished without charge and in writing to the shipper or other person responsible for payment of the freight charges. The estimate must be retained by the carrier as an addendum to the bill of lading [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(3), (4)].

Non-binding estimates must be reasonably accurate. These estimates do not bind the carrier; the final charges for shipments moved on non-binding estimates are determined in accordance with the rates that appear in the carrier's tariff applicable to the transportation [49 C.F.R. § 305.405(a)(1), (2)].

All non-binding estimates must clearly indicate on their face the facts that [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(5)]:

- The estimate is not binding on the carrier; and
- The charges shown are the approximate charges that will be made for the services specified in the estimate.

In addition, these estimates must clearly describe the shipment and all services to be provided [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(b)(6)].

When a carrier gives a non-binding estimate, the carrier must enter the estimated charges on the order for service (if an order for service is required [see § 54.242]) and on the bill of lading [49 C.F.R. § 375.405(c); see § 54.243].

At the time that a motor carrier provides the written estimate, the motor carrier must provide the shipper a copy of the Department of Transportation publication FMCSA-ESA-03-005 (or its successor publication) entitled "Ready to Move?". Before the execution of a contract for service, the motor carrier must provide the shipper with a copy of the Department of Transportation publication OCE 100, entitled "Your Rights and Responsibilities When You Move," required by 49 C.F.R. § 375.213 (or any successor regulation) [49 C.F.R. § 14104(b)(2)].

For a binding estimate, see § 54.241.

[b] Table of Measurements

The rate charged for transportation, which generally accounts for most of the cost involved in an interstate shipment of household goods, is based, in most cases, on the weight of the shipment. Because actually weighing the goods is impracticable at the time an estimate is given, the weight must be estimated. The accuracy of the estimate of the total charges depends in great part on the accuracy of the weight estimation.

The estimate form contains a Table of Measurements, which specifies the number of cubic feet considered to be occupied by each of the various types of articles commonly included in shipments of household goods. By the use of this table, the total cubic feet involved in the proposed shipment is then estimated. In fact, the estimate is made only after a visual inspection of the goods by the estimator, and the estimate of total cubic feet is then multiplied by a weight factor of seven pounds per cubic foot; this numerical factor is used because it best represents the average weight of one cubic foot of household goods.

[c] Two Methods of Using Estimate

The first and most common method of using the estimate form is for the representative of the carrier to visually inspect all of the goods, fill in the proper blanks on the table of measurements, and then compute the total estimated weight by multiplying the total number of cubic feet by seven. The representative then executes the rest of the form as appropriate in the particular situation, and determines the total estimated cost. The original, or a legible copy of the estimate, is then given to the shipper.

The second method is for the carrier's representative to give the prospective shipper a copy of the estimate form so that the shipper may make his or her own estimate. Before giving the shipper the form, the representative will note on it the rates applicable to the particular services involved.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

This estimate covers only the articles and services listed. It is a reasonably accurate estimate; the charges shown are the approximate charges that will be assessed for the services specified. This estimate is non-binding, that is, it is not a guarantee that the actual charges will not exceed the amount of the estimate. Common carriers must, by law, collect transportation and other incidental charges computed on the basis of rates shown in their lawfully published tariffs, regardless of prior rate quotations or estimates made by the carrier or its agents. Exact charges for loading, transporting, and unloading are based on the weight of the goods transported, and those charges may not be determined before the goods are loaded on the van and weighed. Charges for additional services will be added to the transportation charges.

PART IV. FORMS

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.241

§ 54.241 Binding Estimate of Charges

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a carrier to give a prospective shipper a binding estimate of the charges that the shipper will be required to pay for the services included in the estimates for the transportation of the shipper's household goods in interstate commerce. Carriers of household goods may provide in their tariffs for the preparation and furnishing of binding estimates of the costs that will be charged to prospective shippers for the services described in the estimate [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(a)]. When given, the estimate must be furnished in writing to the shipper or other person responsible for payment of the freight charges [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(a)(1)]. A copy of each estimate must be retained by the carrier as an attachment to the bill of lading [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(a)(2)].

All binding estimates must clearly indicate on their faces that the estimate is binding on the carrier and that the charges shown are the charges that will be assessed for the services identified in the estimate. In addition, binding estimates must clearly describe the shipment and all of the services to be provided [49 C.F.R. § 375.403(a)(3);(a)].

At the time that a motor carrier provides the written estimate, the motor carrier must provide the shipper a copy of the Department of Transportation publication FMCSA-ESA-03-005 (or its successor publication) entitled "Ready to Move?". Before the execution of a contract for service, the motor carrier must provide the shipper with a copy of the Department of Transportation publication OCE 100, entitled "Your Rights and Responsibilities When You Move," required by 49 C.F.R. § 375.213 (or any successor regulation) [49 U.S.C. § 14104(b)(2)].

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.242

§ 54.242 Order for Service

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an order for service for interstate shipment of household goods [see 49 C.F.R. 375.501(a)]. This document is used to initiate all interstate shipments of household goods by common carriers; in effect, this form is a contract between a shipper and the carrier under which the shipper requests the specified services and the carrier agrees to perform them.

Every carrier must prepare an order for service before receipt of the household goods from an individual shipper [49 C.F.R. 375.501(a)]. A copy of the completed order for service must be furnished to the shipper when the order is executed [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(c)].

For detailed coverage of the information that must be set forth in the order for service, and the signatures required by regulation [49 C.F.R. § 375.501(c)], see § 54.122[2].

[b] Information for Shippers

Before executing an order for service for the shipment of household goods, every carrier must ensure that the prospective individual shipper receives certain publications [see 49 C.F.R. 375.213]. An "individual shipper" is any person who is the consignor or consignee of a household goods shipment and who is so identified in the bill of lading and who owns the goods being transported [49 C.F.R. 375.103(4)]. These publications include [49 C.F.R. 375.213]:

- Publication, Your Rights and Responsibilities When You Move.
- A concise, easy-to-read, accurate, and officially approved summary of any dispute settlement program in which the carrier participates [see 49 U.S.C. § 14708 (dispute settlement program); see also 49 U.S.C. §§ 13902, 13903 (registration)].

- A written description of the customer complaint and inquiry handling procedures maintained by the carrier, including a telephone number that the shipper may use to communicate with the carrier and a clear and concise statement concerning who is responsible for the costs of these calls.
- A concise, easy-to-read, accurate estimate of the carrier's charges.
- A notice of the availability of the applicable sections of the carrier's tariff for the estimate of charges.

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

C. Interstate Shipment of Household Goods

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.243

§ 54.243 Nonnegotiable Bill of Lading (Household Goods)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a nonnegotiable bill of lading for use by a motor common carrier of household goods [see 49 C.F.R. § 375.505(a)] to evidence the receipt of household goods and the contract for interstate or foreign carriage for the goods. Every motor common carrier must issue a receipt or bill of lading ("bill of lading") for the property that the carrier receives for transportation [see 49 C.F.R. §§ 375.505(a); see also 49 U.S.C. § 80101 et seq.].

The carrier must also furnish the shipper with a complete copy of the bill of lading before beginning to load the shipment [49 C.F.R. § 375.505(a)]. In addition, a copy of the bill of lading (or receipt) must accompany the shipment at all times while the goods are in the carrier's possession. When the shipment is loaded onto a vehicle, the driver responsible for the shipment must have a copy of the bill [49 C.F.R. § 375.505(c)].

[b] Contents of Bill of Lading for Household Goods

A bill of lading for household goods must include the terms and conditions of the contract between the parties [49 C.F.R. § 375.505]. Many of these terms and conditions are as set forth in the tariff filed by the carrier with the ICC. A bill of lading must also include certain minimum information and the signatures of the parties [49 C.F.R. § 375.505, (b); see also § 54.122[3]].

Bills of lading used by motor common carriers of household goods in interstate commerce are typically nonnegotiable. A "nonnegotiable bill of lading," formerly referred to as a straight bill of lading, is one that states that the goods are consigned to a specific person [49 U.S.C. § 80103(b)(1)]. Nonnegotiable bills of lading are contrasted with "negotiable bills of lading," formerly referred to as order bills of lading, which state that the goods are consigned to the order of a person named in the bill and do not contain an agreement on the face of the bill that the bill is not negotiable [49 U.S.C. § 80103(a)(1)]. As a nonnegotiable bill, a household goods bill of lading must have placed plainly on its face the wording "not negotiable" or "nonnegotiable" [49 U.S.C. § 80103(b)(2)].

RELEASED VALUE OF SHIPMENT--LIMITATION OF CARRIER'S LIABILITY

Unless the shipper expressly releases the shipment to a value of 60 cents per pound per article, the carrier's maximum liability for loss and damage is either the lump sum value declared by the shipper or an amount equal to $1.25 for each pound of weight in the shipment, whichever is greater.

The shipment will move subject to the rules and conditions of the carrier's tariff. Shipper releases the entire shipment to a value not exceeding $____ [person signing below must specify declaration of actual value of the shipment or the words "60 cents per pound per article"].

NOTICE: The shipper signing this contract must insert in the space above, in his or her own handwriting, either a declaration of the actual value of the shipment, or the words "60 cents per pound per article." Absent this provision, the shipment will be deemed released to a maximum value equal to $1.25 times the weight of the shipment in pounds.

II. CONTRACT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

This contract is subject to all the rules, regulations, rates, and charges, in carrier's currently effective applicable tariffs currently on file including, but not limited to, the following terms and conditions:

A. Liability of Shipper

The Shipper:

1. Is liable for any and all charges applicable under carrier's tariffs; and must pay the charges as provided in those tariffs; and
2. Indemnify carrier against loss or damage caused by the inclusion in the shipment of explosives or dangerous articles or goods.

B. Liability of Carrier for Loss or Damage

1. The carrier is liable for physical loss of or damage to any articles from external cause while being carried or held in storage-in-transit:

EXCEPT for the condition or flavor of perishable articles;

EXCEPT for documents, currency, money, jewelry, watches, precious stones or articles of extraordinary value that are not specifically listed on the bill of lading; and

EXCEPT loss or damage caused by or resulting:

- a. From an act, omission or order of the shipper;
- b. From insects, moths, vermin, and ordinary wear and tear;
- c. From defect or inherent vice of the article, including susceptibility to damage because of atmospheric conditions, such as temperature and humidity or changes in those conditions;

- d. From (1) hostile or warlike action in time of peace or war, including action in hindering, combating or defending against an actual, impending or expected attack by any government or sovereign power; by any authority maintaining or using military, naval, or air forces; or by an agent of any government, power, authority, or forces; (2) any weapon of war employing atomic fission or radioactive force whether in time of peace or war; (3) insurrection, rebellion, revolution, civil war, usurped power, or action taken by governmental authority in hindering, combating, or defending against such an occurrence, seizure, or destruction under quarantine or customs regulations, confiscation by order of any government of public authority, or risks of contraband or illegal transportation or trade;
- e. From strikes, lockouts, labor disturbances, riots, civil commotions, or the acts of any person or persons taking part in any such occurrence or disorder;
- f. From acts of God when the shipper releases the value of each article in the shipment to a value not exceeding 60 cents per pound per article; or
- g. From breakage of china, glassware, bric-a-brac, or similar articles of a brittle or fragile nature unless packed by the carrier or unless that breakage results from negligence of the carrier when the shipper has released the value of each article in the shipment to a value not exceeding 60 cents per pound per article.

2. In addition to the foregoing, the carrier's liability is further limited as follows:

The carrier's maximum liability is either:

- a. The amount of the actual loss or damage not exceeding $1.25 times the actual weight (in pounds) of the shipment, or the lump sum declared value, whichever is greater; or
- b. The actual loss or damage not exceeding 60 cents per pound of the weight of any lost or damaged article when the shipper has released the shipment to carrier, in writing, with liability limited to 60 cents per pound per article.

C. Liability of Carrier for Delay

The carrier is not liable for delay caused by highway obstruction, or faulty or impassable highways, or lack of capacity of any highway, bridge, or ferry, or caused by breakdown or mechanical defect of vehicles or equipment, or from any cause other than negligence of the carrier; nor is the carrier bound to transport by any particular schedule, means, vehicle or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier has the right in case of physical necessity to forward the shipment by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination.

D. Inability to Deliver

If for any reason other than the fault of carrier, delivery cannot be made at address shown on the face of this bill, or at any changed address of which carrier has been notified, the carrier, at its option, may cause the articles contained in shipment to be stored in a warehouse selected by it at the point of delivery or at other available points, and held there without liability on the part of the carrier, at the cost of the owner, and subject to a lien for all accrued tariff and other lawful charges.

E. Refusal or Failure to Receive or Claim Shipment

If the consignee refuses to accept the shipment at the destination, or if shipper, consignee, or owner of property fails to receive or claim it within 15 days after written notice by United States mail addressed to shipper and consignee at post office addresses shown on face of this bill, or if shipper fails or refuses to pay lawfully applicable charges in accordance with carrier's applicable tariff, carrier may sell the property at its option, either (1) on notice in the manner authorized by law; or (2) at public auction to highest bidder for cash at a public sale to be held at a time and place named by carrier, after 30 days notice is given in writing to shipper and consignee, and after advertisement of the sale is published at least once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation at or near the place of sale. This notice of sale must contain a description of the property as described in the bill of lading and the names of the consignor and consignee. The proceeds of the sale will be applied toward the payment of the lawful charges applicable to shipment and toward the expenses of notice, advertising and sale, and of storing, caring for and maintaining the property before sale. Any balance will be paid to owner of property; PROVIDED that any perishable articles contained in this shipment may be sold at public or private sale without notices, if, in the opinion of carrier, this action is necessary to prevent deterioration or further deterioration.

F. Claims

1. Any claim for loss, damage, or overcharge must be in writing. As a condition precedent to any claim adjustment or payment, the claim must be accompanied by the original paid bill for transportation and original bill of lading, if not previously surrendered to the carrier. Carrier may require certified or sworn statement of claim.
2. Carrier must be immediately notified of all claims for concealed and/or external damage and must be given reasonable opportunity to inspect the alleged external damage or concealed damage in original package.
3. The carrier's liability may not exceed the cost of repairing or replacing the property lost or damaged with materials of like kind and quality not exceeding the actual cash value of the property at time and place of loss, with due allowance for depreciation or deterioration, but in no event to exceed the released value.
4. The carrier is not liable for loss or damage occurring after the property has been delivered to or receipted for by the consignee or shipper, or the authorized agent of either. When the carrier is directed to unload or to deliver property (or render any services) at a place or places at which the consignee or its agent is not present, the property is at the risk of the owner after unloading or delivery.
5. When the carrier is directed to load property from (or render any services at) a place or places at which the consignor or its agent is not present, the property is at the risk of the owner before loading.
6. The carrier's liability with regard to sets or matched pieces is limited to repair or replacement of the lost or damaged piece or pieces only and does not extend to repair, replacement, or recovering of the entire set, but in no event to exceed the released value.

G. Limitation of Time Within Which Claims Can Be Filed and Suits Instituted

As a condition precedent to recovery, a claim for any loss or damage, injury, or delay, must be filed in writing with carrier within 9 months after delivery to consignee as shown on face of this bill, or in case of failure to make delivery, then within 9 months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. Suit must be instituted against carrier within 2 years and 1 day from the date when notice in writing is given by carrier to the claimant that carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts of the claim specified in the notice. Whenever a claim is not filed or suit is not instituted in accordance with these requirements, the carrier is not liable and the claim will not be paid.

§ 54.250 Nonnegotiable Bill of Lading (Commercial Property)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a nonnegotiable bill of lading used to ship commercial or non-household goods in interstate commerce [see 49 C.F.R. § 1035.1]. A "nonnegotiable bill of lading," formerly referred to as a "straight bill of lading," is one that states that the goods are consigned to a specific person [49 U.S.C. § 80103(b)(1); see C.A.R. Transportation v. Darden Restaurants, Inc. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 2000) 213 F.3d 474 (parties adapted straight bill of lading for their use; transportation broker sued shipper to recover freight charges)]. For a negotiable bill of lading form, see § 54.251.

This form is drafted in accordance with 49 C.F.R. pt. 1035, apps. A and B. The front portion of the bill, based on Appendix A, may deviate from the prescribed language, provided that (1) the deviation conforms to approved national standards; (2) the deviation does not affect the shipper's obligation to provide information without the shipper's consent; and (3) the deviation does not alter any rights or obligations conferred by statute or regulation on either carriers or shippers with respect to the preparation or issuance of a bill of lading [49 C.F.R. § 1035.2].

The reverse portion of the bill strictly conforms to the requirements of Appendix B. The regulations do not permit deviation from the prescribed language [see 49 C.F.R. § 1035.2]. Therefore, legalese and gender specific language remains in that portion of the form.

[b] Effect of Alterations and Additions

Any alteration or addition to a bill of lading after its issuance made without authorization from the carrier in writing or noted on the bill is void. The attempted alteration or addition does not affect the efficacy of the original bill, which remains enforceable according to its original terms [49 U.S.C. § 80108].

CONTRACT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Sec. 1. (a) The carrier or party in possession of any of the property herein described shall be liable as at common law for any loss thereof or damage thereto, except as hereinafter provided.

(b) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for any loss thereof or damage thereto or delay caused by the act of God, the public enemy, the authority of law, or the act or default of the shipper or owner, or for natural shrinkage. The carrier's liability shall be that of warehouse, only, for loss, damage, or delay caused by fire occurring after the expiration of the free time allowed by tariffs lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided) after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination, or tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it, has been made. Except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession (and the burden to prove freedom from such negligence shall be on the carrier or party in possession), the carrier or party in possession shall not be liable for loss, damage, or delay occurring while the property is stopped and held in transit upon the request of the shipper, owner, or party entitled to make such request, or resulting from a defect or vice in the property, or for country damage to cotton, or from riots or strikes.

(c) In case of quarantine the property may be discharged at risk and expense of owners into quarantine depot or elsewhere, as required by quarantine regulations or authorities, or for the carrier's dispatch at nearest available point in carrier's judgment, and in any such case carrier's responsibility shall cease when property is so discharged, or property may be returned by carrier at owner's expense to shipping point, earning freight both ways. Quarantine expenses of whatever nature or kind upon or in respect to property shall be borne by the owners of the property or be a lien thereon. The carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage occasioned by fumigation or disinfection or other acts required or done by quarantine regulations or authorities even though the same may have been done by carrier's officers, agents, or employees, nor for detention, loss, or damage of any kind occasioned by quarantine or the enforcement thereof. No carrier shall be liable, except in case of negligence, for any mistake for inaccuracy in any information furnished by the carrier, its agents, or officers, as to quarantine laws or regulations. The shipper shall hold the carrier harmless from any expense they may incur, or damages they may be required to pay, by reason of the introduction of the property covered by this contract into any place against the quarantine laws or regulations in effect at such place.

Sec. 2. (a) No carrier is bound to transport said property by any particular train or vessel, or in time for any particular market or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier shall have the right in case of physical necessity to forward said property by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination. In all cases not prohibited by law, where a lower value than actual value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been agreed upon in writing as the released value of the property as determined by the classification or tariffs upon which the rate is based, such lower value plus freight charges if paid shall be the maximum amount to be recovered, whether or not such loss or damage occurs from negligence.

(b) As a condition precedent to recovery, claims must be filed in writing with the receiving or delivering carrier, or carrier issuing this bill of lading, or carrier on whose line the loss, damage, injury, or delay occurred, within nine months after delivery of the property (or, in case of export traffic, within nine months after delivery at port of export) or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within nine months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed; and suits shall be instituted against any carrier only within two years and one day from the day when notice in writing is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts thereof specified in the notice. Where claims are not filed or suits are instituted thereon in accordance with the foregoing provisions, no carrier hereunder shall be liable, and such claims will not be paid.

(c) Any carrier or party liable on account of loss of or damage to any of said property shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected upon or on account of said property, so far as this shall not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance: Provided, that the carrier reimburse the claimant for the premium paid thereon.

Sec. 3. Except where such service is required as the result of carrier's negligence, all property shall be subject to necessary cooperage and baling at owner's cost. Each carrier over whose route cotton or cotton linters is to be transported hereunder shall have the privilege, at its own cost and risk, of compressing the same for greater convenience in handling and forwarding, and shall not be held responsible for deviation or unavoidable delays in procuring such compression. Grain in bulk consigned to a point where there is a railroad, public or licensed elevator, may (unless otherwise expressly noted herein, and then if it is not promptly unloaded) be there delivered and placed with other grain of the same kind and grade without respect to ownership (and prompt notice thereof shall be given to the consignor), and if so delivered shall be subject to a lien for elevator charges in addition to all other charges hereunder.

Sec. 4. (a) Property not removed by the party entitled to receive it within the free time allowed by tariffs, lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided), after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination has been made, may be kept in vessel, car, depot, warehouse, or place of delivery of the carrier, subject to the tariff charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouse, only, or at the option of the carrier, may be removed to and stored in a public or licensed warehouse at the place of delivery or other available place, at the cost of the owner, and there held without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all freight and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage.

(b) Where nonperishable property which has been transported to destination hereunder is refused by consignee or the party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it within 15 days after notice of arrival shall have been duly sent or given, the carrier may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, at such place as may be designated by the carrier: Provided, that the carrier shall have first mailed, sent, or given to the consignor notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed, as the case may be, and that it will be subject to sale under the terms of the bill of lading if disposition be not arranged for, and shall have published notice containing a description of the property, the name of the party to whom consigned, or, if shipped order notify, the name of the party to be notified, and the time and place of sale, once a week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation at the place of sale or nearest place where such newspaper is published: Provided, that 30 days shall have elapsed before publication of notice of sale after said notice that the property was refused or remains unclaimed was mailed, sent, or given.

(c) Where perishable property which has been transported hereunder to destination is refused by consignee or party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it shall fail to receive it promptly, the carrier may, in its discretion, to prevent deterioration or further deterioration, sell the same to the best advantage at private or public sale: Provided, that if time serves for notification to the consignor or owner of the refusal of the property or the failure to receive it and request for disposition of the property, such notification shall be given, in such manner as the exercise of due diligence requires, before the property is sold.

(d) Where the procedure provided for in the two paragraphs last preceding is not possible, it is agreed that nothing contained in said paragraphs shall be construed to abridge the right of the carrier at its option to sell the property under such circumstances and in such manner as may be authorized by law.

(e) The proceeds of any sale made under this section shall be applied by the carrier to the payment of freight, demurrage, storage, and any other lawful charges and the expense of notice, advertisement, sale, and other necessary expense and of caring for and maintaining the property, if proper care of the same requires special expense, and should there be a balance it shall be paid to the owner of the property sold hereunder.

(f) Property destined to or taken from a station, wharf, or landing at which there is no regularly appointed freight agent shall be entirely at risk of owner after unloaded from cars or vessels or until loaded into cars or vessels, and, except in case of carrier's negligence, when received from or delivered to such stations, wharves, or landings shall be at owner's risk until the cars are attached to and after they are detached from locomotive or train or until loaded into and after unloaded from vessels.

Sec. 5. No carrier hereunder will carry or be liable in any way for any documents, specie, or for any articles of extraordinary value not specifically rated in the published classifications or tariffs unless a special agreement to do so and a stipulated value of the articles are endorsed hereon.

Sec. 6. Every party, whether principal or agent, shipping explosives or dangerous goods, without previous full written disclosure to the carrier of their nature, shall be liable for and indemnify the carrier against all loss or damage [caused] by such goods, and such goods may be warehoused at owner's risk and expense or destroyed without compensation.

Sec. 7. The owner or consignee shall pay the freight and average, if any, and all other lawful charges on said property; but except in those instances where it may lawfully be authorized to do so, no carrier by railroad shall deliver or relinquish possession at destination of the property covered by this bill of lading until all tariff rates and charges thereon have been paid. The consignor shall be liable for the freight and all other lawful charges, except that if the consignor stipulates, by signature, in the space provided for that purpose on the face of this bill of lading that the carrier shall not make delivery without requiring payment of such charges and the carrier, contrary to such stipulation, shall make delivery without requiring such payment, the consignor (except as hereinafter provided) shall not be liable for such charges. Provided, that where the carrier has been instructed by the shipper or consignor to deliver said property to a consignee other than the shipper or consignor, such consignee shall not be legally liable for transportation charges in respect of the transportation of said property (beyond those billed against him at the time of delivery for which he is otherwise liable) which may be found to be due after the property has been delivered to him, if the consignee (a) is an agent only and has no beneficial title in said property, and (b) prior to delivery of said property has notified the delivering carrier in writing of the name and address of the beneficial owner of said property; and, in such cases the shipper or consignor, or, in the case of a shipment so reconsigning or diverted, the beneficial owner, shall be liable for such additional charges. If the consignee has given to the carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such consignee shall himself be liable for such additional charges. On shipments reconsigning or diverted by an agent who has furnished the carrier in the reconsigning or diversion order with a notice of agency and the proper name and address of the beneficial owner, and where such shipments are refused or abandoned at ultimate destination, the said beneficial owner shall be liable for all legally applicable charges in connection therewith. If the reconsignor or diverter has given the carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such reconsignor or diverter shall himself be liable for all such charges.

If a shipper or consignor of a shipment of property (other than a prepaid shipment) is also the consignee named in the bill of lading and, prior to the time of delivery, notifies, in writing, a delivering carrier by railroad (a) to deliver such property at destination to another party, (b) that such party is the beneficial owner of such property, and (c) that delivery is to be made to such party only upon payment of all transportation charges in respect of the transportation of such property, and delivery is made by the carrier to such party without such payment, such shipper or consignor shall not be liable (as shipper, consignor, consignee, or otherwise) for such transportation charges but the party to whom delivery is so made shall in any event be liable for transportation charges billed against the property at the time of such delivery, and also for any additional charges which may be found to be due after delivery of the property, except that if such party prior to such delivery has notified in writing the delivering carrier that he is not the beneficial owner of the property, and has given in writing to such delivering carrier the name and address of such beneficial owner, such party shall nevertheless be liable for such additional charges. If the shipper or consignor has given to the delivering carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such shipper or consignor shall himself be liable for such transportation charges, notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph and irrespective of any provisions to the contrary in the bill of lading or in the contract of transportation under which the shipment was made. The term "delivering carrier" means the line-haul carrier making ultimate delivery.

Nothing herein shall limit the right of the carrier to require at time of shipment the prepayment or guarantee of the charges. If upon inspection it is ascertained that the articles shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the freight charges must be paid upon the articles actually shipped.

Where delivery is made by a common carrier by water the foregoing provisions of this section shall apply, except as may be inconsistent with part III of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Sec. 8. If this bill of lading is issued on the order of the shipper, or his agent, in exchange or in substitution for another bill of lading, the shipper's signature to the prior bill of lading as to the statement of value or otherwise, or election of common law or bill of lading liability, in or in connection with such prior bill of lading, shall be considered a part of this bill of lading as fully as if the same were written or made in or in connection with this bill of lading.

Sec. 9. (a) If all or any part of said property is carried by water over any part of said route, and loss, damage, or injury to said property occurs while the same is in the custody of the carrier by water the liability of such carrier shall be determined by the bill of lading of the carrier by water (this bill of lading being such bill of lading if the property is transported by such water carrier thereunder) and by and under the laws and regulations applicable to transportation by water. Such water carriage shall be performed subject to all the terms and provisions of, and all the exemptions from liability contained in, the Act of the Congress of the United States, approved on February 13, 1893, and entitled "An Act relating to the navigation of vessels, etc.," and of other statutes of the United States according carriers by water the protection of limited liability as well as the following subdivisions of this section: and to the conditions contained in this bill of lading not inconsistent with this section, when this bill of lading becomes the bill of lading of the carrier by water.

(b) No such carrier by water shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from any fire happening to or on board the vessel, or from explosion, bursting of boilers or breakage of shafts, unless caused by the design or neglect of such carrier.

(c) If the owner shall have exercised due diligence in making the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, no such carrier shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from the perils of the lakes, seas, or other waters, or from latent defects in hull, machinery, or appurtenances whether existing prior to, at the time of, or after sailing, or from collision, stranding, or other accidents of navigation, or from prolongation of the voyage. And, when for any reason it is necessary, any vessel carrying any or all of the property herein described shall be at liberty to call at any port or ports, in or out of the customary route, to tow and be towed, to transfer, transship, or lighter, to load and discharge goods at any time, to assist vessels in distress, to deviate for the purpose of saving life or property, and for docking and repairs. Except in case of negligence such carrier shall not be responsible for any loss or damage to property if it be necessary or is usual to carry the same upon deck.

(d) General average shall be payable according to the York-Antwerp Rules of 1924, sections 1 to 15, inclusive, and section 17 to 22, inclusive, and as to matters not covered thereby according to the laws and usages of the port of New York. If the owners shall have exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped and supplied, it is hereby agreed that in case of danger, damage or disaster resulting from faults or errors in navigation, or in the management of the vessel, or from any latent or other defects in the vessel, her machinery or appurtenances, or from unseaworthiness, whether existing at the time of shipment or at the beginning of the voyage (provided the latent or other defects or the unseaworthiness was not discoverable by the exercise of due diligence), the shippers, consignees and/or owners of the cargo shall nevertheless pay salvage and any special charges incurred in respect of the cargo, and shall contribute with the shipowner in general average to the payment of any sacrifices, losses or expenses of a general average nature that may be made or incurred for the common benefit or to relieve the adventure from any common peril.

(e) If the property is being carried under a tariff which provides that any carrier or carriers party thereto shall be liable for loss from perils of the sea, then as to such carrier or carriers the provisions of this section shall be modified in accordance with the tariff provisions, which shall be regarded as incorporated into the conditions of this bill of lading.

(f) The term "water carriage" in this section shall not be construed as including lighterage in or across rivers, harbors, or lakes, when performed by or on behalf of rail carriers.

Sec. 10. Any alteration, addition, or erasure in this bill of lading which shall be made without the special notation hereon of the agent of the carrier issuing this bill of lading, shall be without effect, and this bill of lading shall be enforceable according to its original tenor.

CHAPTER 54 SHIPMENT OF PROPERTY

PART IV. FORMS

D. Interstate Shipment of Commercial Property

22-54 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54.251

§ 54.251 Negotiable Bill of Lading

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a negotiable bill of lading used to ship commercial or non-household goods in interstate commerce [see 49 C.F.R. § 1035.1]. A "negotiable bill of lading," formerly referred to as an "order bill of lading" is a bill that states that the goods are consigned to the order of a person named in the bill and does not contain an agreement on the face of the bill that the bill is not negotiable [49 U.S.C. § 80103(a)(1)]. For a nonnegotiable bill of lading form, see § 54.250.

This form is drafted in accordance with 49 C.F.R. pt. 1035, apps. A and B. The front portion of the bill, based on Appendix A, may deviate from the prescribed language, provided that (1) the deviation conforms to approved national standards; (2) the deviation does not affect the shipper's obligation to provide information without the shipper's consent; and (3) the deviation does not alter any rights or obligations conferred by statute or regulation on either carriers or shippers with respect to the preparation or issuance of a bill of lading [49 C.F.R. § 1035.2].

The reverse portion of the bill, "Contract Terms and Conditions," must strictly conform to the requirements of Appendix B. The regulations do not permit deviation from the prescribed language [see 49 C.F.R. § 1035.2]; therefore, legalese and gender specific language remains in that portion of the form. This portion of the form is the same as that set forth in § 54.250[2] and is not repeated here.

[b] Effect of Alterations and Additions

Any alteration or addition to a bill of lading after its issuance made without authorization from the carrier in writing or noted on the bill is void. The attempted alteration or addition does not affect the efficacy of the original bill, which remains enforceable according to its original terms [49 U.S.C. § 80108].

Scope

Scope

This chapter discusses the storage of commercial, noncommercial, and household goods. It covers storage in warehouses and storage in self-service storage facilities. With respect to the storage of noncommercial and household goods in warehouses, it discusses the functions of storage companies under the Commercial Code, including the warehouse's duty to care for and deliver stored goods and the procedures under which a warehouse may terminate storage and assert a lien for unpaid storage charges [see § 54A.20 et seq.]. As it relates to storage of personal property in self-service storage facilities, it discusses the rights and duties under the California Self-Service Storage Facility Act [see § 54A.30 et seq.]

Storage of goods while the goods are in transit, which is an incident of the shipment of goods, is covered in Ch. 54, Shipment of Property . Bailment of personal property other than household goods, and the availability of liens against this property, are covered in Ch. 102, Bailments . For other related topics, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions , Ch. 102A, Personal Property Liens , and Ch. 102D, Registration and Transfer of Vehicles, Vessels, and Aircraft .

A. Governing Law

22-54A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54A.10

§ 54A.10 Storage of Goods in California

The storage of commercial, noncommercial, and household goods may be variously governed by general provisions of the Civil Code dealing with deposits of property [see Civ. Code § 1813 et. seq.], provisions of the Commercial Code relating to warehouse receipts and other documents of title [see Com. Code § 7101 et seq.; see also § 54A.20 et seq.], and provisions of the Business and Professions Code relating to self-service storage facilities [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21700 et seq.; see also § 54A.30 et seq.]. As a general rule, the law governing the warehousing of property within California does not distinguish between household and other noncommercial types of goods.

"Storage" is the deposit of property for hire. Persons or entities who accept personal property for storage for hire are variously referred to as "warehousemen," "storage companies," "depositories for hire," and "bailees." The Civil Code describes one who accepts a deposit of personal property as a "depository" [Civ. Code § 1814] and one who accepts a deposit that is not gratuitous as a "depository for hire" [Civ. Code § 1851]. The Commercial Code refers to one who, by a warehouse receipt or other document of title, acknowledges possession of goods and contracts to deliver them, as a "bailee"; a "warehouse" is a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire [Com. Code § 7102(a)(1), (13)]. Under the California Self-Service Storage Facility Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21700 et seq.], the person or company accepting goods for storage is the "owner" and the person renting storage space is referred to as the "occupant" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(b), (c)]. For purposes of convenience, this chapter will refer to a person or company who stores property for another for hire as a "warehouse" or "depository," or an "owner," and a person who stores property with another for hire is a "depositor" or "occupant," depending on the context.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Governing Law

22-54A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54A.11

§ 54A.11 Storage of Goods in California While in Transit

[1] California Law

Strictly speaking, the storage of household goods in California is "regulated" only while the goods are in transit over California highways. Provisions of the Public Utilities Code relating to household goods carriers [see Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq.] apply only to the transportation of used property, including household goods and personal effects, over public highways within California [Pub. Util. Code § 5112]. Goods are deemed to be in transit and thus subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission under its Minimum Rate Tariff 4 (generally referred to as "MAX 4") on the first occasion that the goods are stored incidental to their transportation, and then only for a period not in excess of 90 days from the date they are unloaded at the storage point [see MAX 4, Item 160]. For further discussion, see Ch. 54, Shipment of Property .

[2] Federal Law

When household goods are shipped in interstate commerce and are stored in transit, they are subject to federal regulation [see 49 U.S.C. § 14104; 49 C.F.R. § 375.101 et seq.]. For further discussion, see Ch. 54, Shipment of Property .

B. Warehouse Storage

22-54A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54A.20

§ 54A.20 Storage of Goods Under Uniform Commercial Code

The storage of goods in California is governed by Division 7 of the Uniform Commercial Code--Documents of Title [see Com. Code § 7101 et seq.] unless the good are being stored while in transit [see § 54A.11] or are stored in a self-service storage facility [see § 54A.30 et seq.]. Under Division 7, goods are defined as all things that are treated as movable for the purposes of a contract of storage or transportation [Com. Code § 7102(a)(7)], and a warehouse is any person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(13)].

CHAPTER 54A STORAGE OF GOODS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Warehouse Storage

22-54A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 54A.21

§ 54A.21 Warehouse Receipts

[1] Issuance

On receipt of property for storage, a warehouse issues a warehouse receipt [see Com. Code § 7201(a)]. A warehouse receipt is a document that evidences the receipt of goods for storage and that, by its terms, states the intention of the issuer that the person entitled under the document has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers [Com. Code § 1201(b)(42)].

A warehouse receipt is negotiable if:

- By its terms, the goods covered by it are to be delivered to the bearer or to the order of a named person [Com. Code § 7104(a)]; and
- When it was issued, it did not have a conspicuous legend, however expressed, that it is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(c)].

Any other warehouse receipt is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(b)]. In practice, warehouse receipts usually are nonnegotiable.

[2] Form and Content

A warehouse receipt need not be in any particular form [Com. Code § 7202(a)]. Unless a warehouse receipt provides for each of the items listed in Com. Code § 7202(b)(1)-(9), the warehouse is liable for damages caused to a person injured by the omission [Com. Code § 7202(b)]. A warehouse may insert in its receipt any terms that are not contrary to the provisions of the Commercial Code and do not impair the warehouse's obligation of delivery [see Com. Code § 7403; § 54A.22[4]] or its duty of care [see Com. Code § 7204; § 54A.22[2]]. Any contrary provision is ineffective [Com. Code § 7202(c)]. For a drafting guide for a warehouse receipt, see § 54A.120. For a warehouse receipt form, see § 54A.200.

[3] Substitute Warehouse Receipts

[a] Tangible Document Superseded by Electronic Document

On request of a person entitled under a tangible warehouse receipt, the issuer may issue an electronic warehouse receipt as a substitute for the tangible document if [Com. Code § 7105(c)]:

- The person entitled under the tangible document surrenders possession of the document to the issuer; and
- The electronic document when issued contains a statement that it is issued in substitution for the tangible document.

On issuance of an electronic warehouse receipt in substitution for a tangible warehouse receipt [Com. Code § 7105(d)]:

- The tangible document ceases to have any effect or validity.
- The person that procured issuance of the electronic document warrants to all subsequent persons entitled under the electronic document that the warrantor was a person entitled under the tangible document when the warrantor surrendered possession of the tangible document to the issuer.

[b] Electronic Document Superseded by Tangible Document

On request of a person entitled under an electronic warehouse receipt, the issuer may issue a tangible warehouse receipt as a substitute for the electronic document if [Com. Code § 7105(a)]:

- The person entitled under the electronic document surrenders control of the document to the issuer; and
- The tangible document when issued contains a statement that it is issued in substitution for the electronic document.

On issuance of a tangible warehouse receipt in substitution for an electronic warehouse receipt [Com. Code § 7105(b)]:

- The electronic document ceases to have any effect or validity.
