The court has discretion to fix the amount of the bond [Prob. Code § 8482(a)]. In the usual case, the amount of the bond may not be more than the sum of the estimated value of the personal property plus the probable annual gross income of the estate [Prob. Code § 8482(a)(1), (2)]. If, however, the executor is granted authority to administer real property in the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592; see §§ 65.32, 65.45], the estimated net value of the real property must be added to the estimated value of the personal property and the probable annual gross income of the estate to determine the amount [Prob. Code § 8482(a)]. If the bond is given by personal sureties rather than an admitted surety insurer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.120 ("admitted surety insurer" defined), 995.610-995.660 (bond and undertaking requirements for admitted surety insurers); Ins. Code § 105 (surety insurance)], the amount of the bond must be twice the amount fixed by the court under the foregoing rules [Prob. Code § 8482(c)].

A different rule applies when the personal representative has deposited property of the estate in an insured account in a financial institution on condition that the property, including any earnings on the property, not be withdrawn except on authorization of the court [Prob. Code § 8483(a); see Prob. Code § 8401 (deposit of money, securities, or other personal property); see also Prob. Code §§ 9700-9705 (deposit of money and personal property with financial institutions)]. If the personal representative produces a receipt showing that property has been so deposited, the court may (either at the time the personal representative is appointed or thereafter) exclude the property in determining the amount of the required bond, or reduce the amount of the bond to an amount the court determines is reasonable [Prob. Code § 8483(b)].

[3] Increases and Decreases

The court may reduce the amount of the bond if the personal representative produces a receipt showing that property of the estate has been deposited in an insured account in a financial institution [see Prob. Code §§ 8401 (deposit of money, securities, or other personal property), 8483 (reduction of bond when property deposited)]. It must increase the amount of the bond whenever it confirms a sale of real property, treating the expected proceeds of the sale as personal property [Prob. Code § 8482(d)]. When the court orders preliminary distribution of all or a portion of a devisee's share of the estate [see Prob. Code §§ 11620-11624 (preliminary distribution); see also § 65.41[9]], an additional bond may be required. If preliminary distribution is ordered before four months have elapsed after letters were first issued to the executor, the court must require an additional bond in the amount of the distribution [Prob. Code § 11622(a)]. If preliminary distribution is ordered after four months have elapsed, the court may require a bond in any amount it deems proper [Prob. Code § 11622(b)].

If the circumstances of the estate are such that the full amount of the existing bond is not required, the representative may request that the amount be reduced. A petition for a reduction of the bond must include an affidavit setting forth the condition of the estate [Prob. Code § 8484; see Prob. Code § 1220 (notice of hearing)].

[4] Bond and Undertaking Law

The Bond and Undertaking Law [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.010-996.560] sets forth detailed rules relating to the execution, filing, approval, form, sufficiency, cancellation, and enforcement of bonds. This law applies broadly to any bond or undertaking executed, filed, posted, furnished, or otherwise given as security pursuant to any California statute, except to the extent that another statute prescribes a different rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.020(a)]. It applies to all proceedings for administration of decedents' estates, except to the extent that the Probate Code provisions governing administration are inconsistent [Prob. Code § 8487]. For coverage of the Bond and Undertaking Law, see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity, § 79.50 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview

94 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.41§ 65.41 Duties of Executors[1] In General

Executors, like administrators, trustees, guardians, conservators, and other legal representatives, are fiduciaries [Prob. Code § 39 ("fiduciary" defined); see Prob. Code § 9601(a) (measure of liability for breach of fiduciary duty)]. Every executor has fiduciary duties to the estate and the persons interested in it [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)] and is bound to the utmost good faith in his or her transactions with the devisees and heirs [ Larrabee v. Tracy (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 645, 651, 134 P.2d 265 ].

Executors, like other personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)], are legally charged with the duty of managing and controlling the estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a)]. This duty includes the duty of preserving and protecting the assets of the estate [see 65.41[2]], satisfying and discharging debts and claims against the decedent or the estate [see § 65.41[6]], and distributing the assets to the persons entitled to receive them [see § 65.41[9]]. In the discharge of that duty, the executor is required to use ordinary care and diligence [Prob. Code § 9600(a)]. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence will be determined by all of the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a); see Prob. Code § 9600(b) (duty to exercise or not to exercise power)].

[2] Collecting and Preserving Estate Assets

The executor has a general duty to take possession or control of all estate property, including debts due the decedent or the estate [Prob. Code § 9650(a)(1); Estate of King (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 354, 358, 121 P.2d 716 ]. However, this duty is subject to other statutory provisions governing possession of the estate [see Prob. Code § 9650(a); see also Recommendations Relating to Probate Law, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 49 (1988)]. Thus the executor need not take possession of the family dwelling or household furniture of the decedent if they are occupied and used by the decedent's surviving spouse and minor children [see Prob. Code §§ 6500, 6501]. The executor is not required to take possession of personal property if the cost of collecting, maintaining, and safeguarding the property would exceed its fair market value, unless the property has been specifically devised [Prob. Code § 9780; see Prob. Code § 9782 (notice of proposed disposition or abandonment of property)]. Further, the executor may properly leave real or tangible personal property with the person presumptively entitled to it until its possession is necessary for administration purposes [Prob. Code § 9650(c)]. When the executor determines that possession of the property is necessary, the person holding it is required to surrender it to the executor [Prob. Code § 9650(c)].

The executor also has a duty to preserve estate property [ Estate of King (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 354, 358, 121 P.2d 716 ]. To that end, he or she must pay all taxes on the property and take all steps reasonably necessary for the protection and preservation of property in his or her possession [Prob. Code § 9650(b)]. Although an executor does not ordinarily have any power before he or she is appointed by the court [Prob. Code § 8400(a)], a person named as executor in the will may, before appointment, pay funeral expenses and take necessary measures for the maintenance and preservation of the estate [Prob. Code § 8400(b)].

[3] Filing Inventory and Appraisal

Unless the court allows further time, the executor must file an inventory and appraisal of all property to be administered in the estate within four months after letters are first issued [Prob. Code §§ 8800(a), (b), 8850(a)]. The inventory must particularly specify certain kinds of property [see Prob. Code § 8850(b) (property that must be particularly specified)] and show, to the extent ascertainable by the executor, the portions that are community, quasi-community, and separate property [Prob. Code § 8850(c)]. The executor is generally required to appraise items consisting of cash or cash equivalents [see Prob. Code § 8901 (money and other cash items, checks issued after death, accounts in financial institutions, cash deposits and money market funds, insurance proceeds, and certain retirement plans and annuities)], while the probate referee designated by the court is required to appraise other items [Prob. Code § 8902(b); see Prob. Code §§ 400-453 (probate referees)] unless the court, for good cause, waives appraisal by the probate referee [Prob. Code § 8903]. Unique, artistic, unusual, or special items of tangible personal property that would otherwise be appraised by the probate referee may, at the election of the executor, be appraised by an independent expert [Prob. Code § 8904(a)].

Whether property is appraised by the executor, the probate referee, or an independent expert, the executor is responsible for filing the appraisal with the court within the permitted time. An executor who refuses or negligently fails to file may be removed from office [Prob. Code § 8804(b)] or ordered to reimburse the estate or interested persons for resulting injury and attorney fees [Prob. Code § 8804(c); see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)].

[4] Investing

The executor has a duty to keep all cash in his or her possession (except such cash as is reasonably necessary for orderly administration of the estate) invested in interest-bearing accounts or other investments authorized by law [Prob. Code § 9652(a)]. However, the will may relieve the testator of this duty [Prob. Code § 9652(c); see Prob. Code § 9732 (investment of money as provided in will)].

[5] Recovering Property

If there are insufficient estate assets to pay all creditors, any creditor of the decedent or the estate may request that the executor sue to recover any property of which the decedent made a gift in contemplation of death [Prob. Code § 9653(a)(2)], or that was the subject of a fraudulent transfer [Prob. Code § 9653(a)(1); see Civ. Code §§ 3439-3439.12 (Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act)]. On receiving such a request, the executor has a duty to commence and prosecute an action for recovery of the property [Prob. Code § 9653(a)]. However, a creditor requesting such a suit may be required to pay a part of the costs and attorneys' fees incurred in the suit [Prob. Code § 9653(b)]. If the property is recovered, it must be sold and the proceeds (after payment of attorneys' fees and costs) applied to payment of the decedent's debts [Prob. Code § 9653(c)].

[6] Paying Debts

The executor is required to pay certain debts [see Prob. Code § 11401 ("debt" defined)] without the necessity of first obtaining a court order [Prob. Code § 11421]. As soon as he or she has sufficient funds (after retaining sufficient funds to pay expenses of administration and debts owed to the state or federal governments that are legally entitled to preference), the executor must pay the following debts [Prob. Code § 11421]:

- Funeral expenses;
- Expenses of the decedent's last illness;
- Any family allowance [see Prob. Code §§ 6540-6545]; and
- Wage claims [see Prob. Code § 11402 ("wage claim" defined)].

The executor is obligated to pay other debts only if their payment has been ordered by the court [Prob. Code § 11422(a); see Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 (creditor claims)].

For circumstances under which executors may be personally liable to creditors of the estate for payment of debts, see § 65.43[6].

[7] Filing Tax Returns and Paying Taxes

The executor must file federal and state income and estate tax returns for both the decedent and the estate [I.R.C. §§ 6012(b)(1) (federal income tax return for decedent), (4)(federal income tax return for estate), 6018(a), before amendment by Pub. Law 107-16 (federal estate tax return); Rev. & Tax. Code § 18505(a)(4) (state income tax return for estate), (7)(state income tax return for decedent)]. In addition, the executor has the duty of paying any taxes due [I.R.C. §§ 641(b) (payment of federal income tax), 2002 (payment of federal estate tax); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17731 (federal law relating to taxation of estates applicable to state income tax)] when there are sufficient estate assets for that purpose [County of Los Angeles v. Morrison (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 368, 372-373, 101 P.2d 470 ; Estate of Gerber (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 96, 114, 140 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; Estate of Harvey (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 555, 557, 36 Cal. Rptr. 788 ].

For estates of decedents dying after 2009, a return related to certain large transfers at death must be filed [I.R.C. § 6018; see I.R.C. § 6716 (penalty if return is not filed)].

For the personal liability of executors for unpaid taxes, see § 65.43[5].

[8] Accounting

Executors, like other personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)] are required to render accounts. The duty to account is inherent in the nature of the representative's fiduciary capacity and expressed in various statutes [see Prob. Code §§ 10900-11052 (accounts of personal representatives)]. An executor's account may be a final account or an interim account, as explained below.

Every executor is required to file at least one account, generally denominated a "final account" [see Prob. Code § 10951 (duty to file final account on final distribution)]. The final account must be filed (with the executor's petition for an order for final distribution) when the estate is in a condition to be closed [Prob. Code § 10951] or earlier, if the executor's authority is terminated before final distribution [Prob. Code § 10952]. If the executor resigns or is removed from office, or if the executor's authority is otherwise terminated, the account must be filed not later than 60 days after termination of the authority, unless the court extends the time [Prob. Code § 10952]. If the executor dies or becomes incapacitated, the executor's legal representative, if any, must file the account in his or her behalf [Prob. Code § 10953(b)]. If no legal representative has been appointed for the executor, or if the executor absconds, the court may compel the executor's attorney to file the account [Prob. Code § 10953(c); see Prob. Code § 10953(d) (accounting duty of attorney or legal representative of executor)].

Interim accounts are accounts that are filed before final distribution. Interim accounts are required, not as a matter of course, but when demanded by the court or an interested person [Prob. Code § 10950; Recommendation Relating to Accounts, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports (1988) p. 882; see Prob. Code § 48(a) ("interested person" defined)]. The court, on its own motion or on petition of an interested person, may require an interim account at any time [Prob. Code § 10950(a)]. It must order an account to be filed if an interested person petitions for an account and if more than one year has passed since the last account was filed or, if no previous account has been filed, if more than one year has passed since letters were issued [Prob. Code § 10950(b)].

No account (final or interim) is required if each person entitled to distribution from the estate has executed and filed a written waiver of account, or a written acknowledgment that the person's interest has been satisfied [Prob. Code § 10954(a)(1); see Prob. Code § 10954(b) (formal requirements of waiver or acknowledgment)]. Similarly, no account is required if adequate provision has been made to fully satisfy each person's interest [Prob. Code § 10954(a)(2)]. A creditor whose claim has not been satisfied may, however, petition for an account even if all the devisees under the will have waived the account [Prob. Code § 10954(c)(2); Recommendation Relating to Accounts, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports (1988) p. 882].

If a final account is not required because it has been waived or because all of the distributees have acknowledged that their interests have been satisfied, the executor is nevertheless required to file a final report of administration at the time the final account would otherwise have been required [Prob. Code § 10954(c)(1)]. The final report must include the amount of the fees and commissions paid or payable to the executor and the executor's attorney and set forth the basis for determining the amount [Prob. Code § 10954(c)(1)].

Related to the duty to account is the duty to keep and, when necessary, produce supporting documents (sometimes called vouchers). On court order, or on request of an interested person filed with the clerk and served on the executor, the executor must produce for inspection and audit by the court or interested persons any documents specified in the order or request that support an account [Prob. Code § 10901].

[9] Distributing Assets

The executor is responsible for distributing the property in the estate in compliance with the terms of the court order for distribution [Prob. Code § 11750(a)]. Distribution may be preliminary [see Prob. Code §§ 11620-11624 (preliminary distribution)] or final [see Prob. Code §§ 11640-11642 (final distribution)]. In either case, distribution is proper only after a petition has been filed, notice has been given, and the court has entered an order of distribution [Prob. Code §§ 11600 (petition for distribution), 11601 (notice of hearing), 11603 (hearing and order)].

An order for preliminary distribution of all or a portion of a particular devisee's share in the estate may be made if at least two months have passed since letters were first issued [Prob. Code § 11620 (petition must be filed after elapse of two months)] and the court finds that distribution may be made without loss to creditors or injury to the estate or any interested person [Prob. Code § 11621(a); see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)]. If the court orders preliminary distribution before four months, it must require a bond in the amount of the distribution [Prob. Code § 11622(a)]. If it orders preliminary distribution after four months have elapsed, it may require a bond in any amount it deems proper [Prob. Code § 11622(b)].

In the ordinary case, the executor must petition for an order for final distribution of the estate within one year after letters were issued (if a federal estate tax return is not required) or within 18 months (if a federal estate tax return is required) [Prob. Code § 12200]. Final distribution may be ordered when all debts have been paid or adequately provided for and the estate is in a condition to be closed [Prob. Code § 11640(a)]. If the estate is insolvent, final distribution may be ordered whenever the estate is in a condition to be closed [Prob. Code § 11640(a)]. If the executor determines that final distribution may not be made within the required one year or 18 months, as the case may be, the executor must file a report of status of administration showing the condition of the estate, the reasons why the estate cannot be distributed and closed, and an estimate of the time needed to close administration [Prob. Code §§ 12200, 12201].

When an order settling a final account and ordering distribution is entered, the executor may immediately distribute the property in the estate to the persons entitled to distribution without further notice or proceedings [Prob. Code § 11641; but see Prob. Code §§ 7240 (appealable orders), 7241 (appeal stays operation and effect of order)]. When the executor has complied with the terms of the order for final distribution and has filed the appropriate receipts (or the court has excused the filing of a receipt), the court must, on ex parte petition, make an order discharging the personal representative from all liability incurred thereafter [Prob. Code § 12250].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Accounting
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Appraisals & Inventories
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Distribution
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Fiduciary Responsibilities

95 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.42

§ 65.42 Powers of Executors

[1] Investment

The executor has the power to make certain investments without prior court approval [see Prob. Code § 9730] and others only on court order [see Prob. Code §§ 9731-9737].

Court orders are not required to invest estate assets in any of the following:

- Direct obligations of the United States or the State of California maturing in one year or less [Prob. Code § 9730(a)];
- Money market mutual funds or any of certain collective investments, such as common trust funds maintained by banks, and retirement, pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or other trust funds [Prob. Code § 9730(b)]; see 12 C.F.R. § 9.18; and
- Units of certain common trust funds [Prob. Code § 9730(c)]; see Fin. Code § 1564.

Investments in other government securities (state or federal) are permitted only after court order permitting the investment and only on a showing that the investment is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9731].

If the will authorizes specific investments not authorized by statute, the court may order that estate money be invested as authorized by the will, but only if the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 9732(a)]:

- The time for filing claims has expired;
- The court is satisfied that all debts [see Prob. Code § 11401 ("debt" defined)] have been or will be paid; and
- The estate is not in a condition to be finally distributed.

If the will directs the executor to purchase an annuity [see Prob. Code § 6154(e) ("annuity" defined)] or makes other provisions for periodic payments to a devisee, the executor may purchase an annuity from an insurer authorized to do business in California, but only after the court has found good cause for the purchase [Prob. Code § 9733; for will provisions for annuities, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, §§ 63.508-53.510]. The executor may exercise options [Prob. Code § 9734] and subscription rights [Prob. Code § 9737] belonging to the estate, and may purchase any securities or commodities required to perform an incomplete contract made by the decedent [Prob. Code § 9735], but only after court authorization.

[2] Operation of Businesses

The executor has limited power to continue the operation of any unincorporated business or venture in which the decedent was engaged or which was wholly or partly owned by the decedent at the time of his or her death [Prob. Code § 9760(b)]. If it is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of those interested in it, the executor may operate the business, with or without court order, for six months after letters are first issued [Prob. Code § 9760(b)]. Operation beyond six months requires a showing of advantage to the estate and benefit to the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9760(c)] and a court order authorizing the operation [Prob. Code § 9760(d)(1)].

The executor has power to continue to participate in a partnership in which the decedent was a general partner at the time of his or her death only if the court authorizes continued participation [Prob. Code § 9762(a)]. Such an order may be granted only on a showing of advantage to the estate and the persons interested in it [Prob. Code § 9762(a)]. If there is a written partnership agreement permitting the decedent's personal representative to participate as a partner, the personal representative has all of the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided in the agreement [Prob. Code § 9762(b)]. If there is no written agreement, the executor's rights, powers, duties, and obligations must be specified by the court [Prob. Code § 9762(c)]. Whether or not there is a written agreement, the court may specify any terms and conditions of the personal representative's participation as a partner that the court determines are to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9762(a), (b)]. However, any court-imposed terms and conditions that are inconsistent with the partnership agreement are subject to the written consent of all of the surviving partners [Prob. Code § 9762(a), (b); see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships, § 15.255 (provision allowing deceased partner's personal representative to continue as partner during administration of estate)].

The executor has full power to exercise all of the decedent's rights in managing any limited partnership interests owned by the decedent at the time of his or her death [Prob. Code § 9763(b); see Corp. Code § 15675 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010); now see Corp. Code § 15907.04 (ULPA '08)].

[3] Commencing and Defending Legal Actions

The executor has power to commence and maintain actions and proceedings for the benefit of the estate [Prob. Code § 9820(a)] and to defend actions and proceedings against the decedent, the executor, or the estate [Prob. Code § 9820(b)].

If the decedent leaves an undivided interest in any property, the executor may bring an action against the other cotenants for partition of the property [Prob. Code § 9823(b)]. Similarly, an action for partition of the property may be brought against the executor as defendant [Prob. Code § 9823(a)]. If the decedent was a general partner in a business, the executor has power to commence and maintain any action against the surviving partner that the decedent could have commenced and maintained [Prob. Code § 9763(a)].

In any legal actions or proceedings, the executor may assert the decedent's attorney-client privilege [Evid. Code § 953(c); HLC Properties, Ltd. v. Superior Court (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 54, 61, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 199, 105 P.3d 560 (only personal representative may claim attorney-client privilege in case of deceased client)].

[4] Borrowing Money and Encumbering Estate Property

The executor has power to borrow money or encumber estate property (real or personal) only if authorized by the court [Prob. Code § 9800]. The court may authorize borrowing or encumbering only if it would be to the advantage of the estate to do so [Prob. Code § 9800(a); see Prob. Code § 9802 (petition for order)]. The proceeds of any loan so obtained must be used for one or more of the following purposes:

- Paying debts of the decedent or the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(1)].
- Paying devises, expenses of administration, or charges against the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(1)].
- Paying, reducing, extending, or renewing a security interest, lien, mortgage, or deed of trust already existing on estate property [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(2)].
- Improving, using, operating, or preserving property in the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(3)].

When the decedent's surviving spouse has elected to have his or her share of the community real property administered in the decedent's estate, the executor may encumber real property in the estate only with the written consent of the spouse [Prob. Code § 9800(c)].

[5] Settling Claims

The executor has broad power to compromise and settle claims, actions, or proceedings in favor of or against the decedent, the executor, or the estate [see Prob. Code §§ 9830-9839]. Subject to exceptions noted below, the power may be exercised whenever it is to the advantage of the estate to do so [Prob. Code § 9830(a)] and with or without court order [Prob. Code § 9830(a), (b)]. For this purpose, the power to compromise and settle includes the power to extend, renew, or modify the terms of obligations [Prob. Code § 9830(a)(2)] and the power to release, in whole or in part, any uncollectible claim that belongs to the estate [Prob. Code § 9830(a)(3)].

The executor does not have the power to compromise or settle claims if the court has limited his or her authority to do so [Prob. Code § 9830(c)]. In any event, the power can be exercised only on court order in any of the following circumstances:

- Before the time for filing creditor's claims has expired [Prob. Code § 9831].
- When the compromise affects title to real estate or an interest in, lien or encumbrance on, or option to purchase real estate [Prob. Code § 9832(a)].
- When the compromise or settlement requires the transfer or encumbrance of property of the estate, or the creation of an unsecured liability, in an amount or value in excess of $25,000 [Prob. Code § 9833].
- When the claim being settled is against the executor or the executor's attorney (whether or not the claim arises out of administration of the estate) [Prob. Code § 9834(a)].
- When the compromise requires an extension, renewal, or modification of the terms of a debt or similar obligation of the executor or the executor's attorney that is owed to or in favor of the estate [Prob. Code § 9834(b)].
- When the claim is for the wrongful death of or injury to the decedent [Prob. Code § 9835].

The executor has power to accept a deed to property that is subject to mortgage or deed of trust in lieu of foreclosure of the mortgage or sale under the deed of trust, on a showing of advantage to the estate and a court order authorizing the acceptance [Prob. Code § 9850].

[6] Contracts

The executor has broad power to make contracts for the estate. This power is related to and supportive of other more specific powers vested in personal representatives, such as the power to make investments [see § 65.42[1]], the power to continue the operation of the decedent's business [see § 65.42[2]], the power to sell [see § 65.42[8]], lease [see § 65.42[9]], and exchange [see § 65.42[10]] estate property, the power to grant and exercise options [see § 65.42[11]], the power to procure insurance for the estate and the executor [see § 65.42[7]], and the power to employ attorneys, accountants, and other persons to assist the executor in the administration of the estate. Whether the executor should make a contract is generally determined by the rule of ordinary care and diligence [see Prob. Code § 9600(a); see also § 65.43[1]]. That is, the executor should make a contract if ordinary care and diligence require that the contract be made [Prob. Code § 9600(b)(1)] and should not make a contract if ordinary care and diligence require that it not be made [Prob. Code § 9600(b)(2)].

An executor cannot generally bind the estate by contract unless the contract is authorized by statute or by the decedent's will [ Nason v. Granz (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 761, 763-764, 35 Cal. Rptr. 876 ; Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 105, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110 ]. If, however, the executor acts pursuant to statute or under direction of the probate court, the estate is bound, and the executor is relieved of personal liability under the contract [ Estate of Lucas (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 454, 464-465, 144 P.2d 340 (compromise of claim pursuant to court order); Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 106, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110 ].

The executor's power to perform executory contracts under which the decedent was obligated derives from at least two sources. If the contract obligated the decedent to pay money to a third party (or if the third party's claim is otherwise reducible to a claim for money), that party is a creditor of the estate and entitled to claim payment of his or her debt [see Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 (creditor claims); see also § 65.41[6], see, e.g., Estate of Roberson (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1201, 1206-1207, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238 (support and property agreement between cohabitants is enforceable against estate when one party dies; estate breaches agreement by rejecting surviving cohabitant's claim)]. If the contract obligated the decedent to convey property to a third party, the executor has power to convey the property to the third party only if the contract was specifically performable and only if the court authorizes the conveyance [see Prob. Code § 9860(a)(1), (2)].

The executor or any interested person may file a petition requesting that the court order the executor to convey or transfer property to a third person in any of the following cases:

- If decedent made a contract to convey or transfer property but died before performing it, and the decedent, if living, could have been compelled to make the conveyance or transfer [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)(A)].
- If decedent made a contract to convey or transfer property on or after his or her death, and the contract is one that can be specifically enforced [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)(B)].
- If decedent died in possession of, or holding title to, property, and the property or an interest therein is claimed to belong to another [Prob. Code § 850(a)(2)(C)].

The executor may not be compelled to transfer or convey property to a third party pursuant to a contract unless the third party has a clear right to specific performance of the contract [ Estate of Roche (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 295, 298, 20 Cal. Rptr. 775 ; see Civ. Code §§ 3384-3395 (specific performance of obligations)]. If the right to specific performance is not clear, the third party has the right to bring an independent action on the contract for specific performance [ Estate of Roche (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 295, 297-298, 20 Cal. Rptr. 775 ] or any other relief to which he or she may be entitled.

[7] Insurance

The executor has the power to insure the property of the estate against damage or loss and to insure himself or herself against liability to third persons [Prob. Code § 9656]. This power, like other powers conferred on the executor, must be exercised to the extent that ordinary care and diligence require its exercise and must not be exercised to the extent that ordinary care and diligence require that it not be exercised [see Prob. Code § 9600(b); see also § 65.43[1]]. For example, when the estate includes improved real property, the executor will ordinarily be required to maintain a reasonable amount of insurance on the improvements and may also insure himself or herself against personal liability arising out of the ownership or management of the property [Recommendation Relating to Supervised Administration of Decedent's Estate, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports (1988) p. 57].

[8] Sales

Personal representatives have broad powers to sell estate property [see Prob. Code §§ 10000-10382]. Thus the executor may sell property belonging to the estate in any of the following circumstances [Prob. Code § 10000]:

- When sale is necessary to pay debts, devisees, family allowances, expenses of administration, or taxes.
- When sale is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons.
- When the will directs or grants authority for sale of the property.

If the will provides how the property is to be sold, or specifies particular property that must be sold, the executor has a duty to comply with the will provisions [Prob. Code § 10002(a)], unless the court determines that it would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons to relieve the executor of the duty to comply with the will provisions [Prob. Code § 10002(b)]. If the court relieves the executor of that duty, it must specify the mode, terms, and conditions of the sale, or the particular property to be sold, or both [Prob. Code § 10002(b)].

Subject to statutory rules on abatement of devises [see Prob. Code §§ 21400-21406 (abatement)] and any directions in the will respecting the mode of sale or the particular property to be sold [see Prob. Code § 10002], the executor may use discretion as to which property to sell first [Prob. Code § 10003(a)]. Subject to the same rules and directions, the executor may also use discretion in deciding whether the entire interest of the estate in a piece of property, or only a partial interest in that property, should be sold [Prob. Code § 10003(b)], and whether the property should be sold privately or at public auction [Prob. Code § 10003(c)].

If property is sold for more than its appraised value, the executor must account for the full amount of the proceeds, including the excess over the appraised value [Prob. Code § 10005(a)]. If property is sold for less than its appraised value, the executor is not responsible for the loss, providing the sale was made in accordance with law [Prob. Code § 10005(b)].

The executor generally must give notice of sale before any property may be sold [see Prob. Code §§ 10250 (personal property), 10300 (real property)]. However, notice of sale of real or personal property need not be given if the will directs that particular property be sold [Prob. Code §§ 10252(a) (personal property), 10303(a)(real property)] or if it gives the executor authority to sell property [Prob. Code §§ 10252(b) (personal property), 10303(b)(real property)]. However, notice of sale of personal property need not be given under any of the following circumstances:

- If the property is perishable, will depreciate in value if not disposed of promptly, or will incur loss or expense by being kept [Prob. Code § 10252(c)]; or

- If sale of the property is necessary to provide for payment of a family allowance [see Prob. Code §§ 6540-6545] pending receipt of other sufficient funds [Prob. Code § 10252(d)].

[9] Leases

If it is to the advantage of the estate, the executor has power to lease real property belonging to the estate without authorization if the term does not exceed one year and the rental does not exceed $5,000 a month [Prob. Code § 9941(a)], or if the lease is from month to month only, regardless of the amount of the rental [Prob. Code § 9941(b)]. In other cases, property may be leased only on a showing of advantage to the estate [Prob. Code § 9943(a)(3)] and order of the court [Prob. Code § 9942(a)]. The court has discretion to fix the term of the lease [Prob. Code § 9947(a)]. However, if any heir or devisee who has an interest in the property to be leased objects, the lease cannot be for longer than 10 years [Prob. Code § 9947(b)].

[10] Exchanges

The executor has power to exchange property of the estate for other property if it is to the advantage of the estate to do so and if the court authorizes the exchange [Prob. Code § 9920]. When making an order authorizing an exchange, the court has power to set terms and conditions under which the exchange will be executed, including the payment or receipt of part of the amount in cash by the executor [Prob. Code § 9920].

[11] Options

The executor has power to grant options to purchase real property of the estate for periods within or beyond the period of administration, but only if the court authorizes the grant [Prob. Code § 9960]. The court will authorize the grant of an option only if there is good reason to grant the option and granting the option would be to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9964(a)(1)]. Further, the purchase price specified in the option must be at least 90 percent of the appraised value of the real property (as shown in an appraisal made not more than one year before the hearing on the petition for authority to grant the option) [Prob. Code § 9962], and it must not appear that a higher price [Prob. Code § 9964(a)(2); see Prob. Code § 10311 (overbid)] or a better offer [Prob. Code § 9964(a)(3)] could be obtained. Options granted by an executor under provisions of the Probate Code are subject to rules relating to unexercised options set forth in the Civil Code [Prob. Code § 9965; see Civ. Code §§ 884.010-884.030].

If an asset of the estate consists of an option right, the executor may exercise the option after authorization by the court on a showing that the exercise would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9734(a)]. Any estate funds or property may be used to acquire the property covered by the option [Prob. Code § 9734(a)].

[12] Coexecutors

The powers of joint personal representatives are subject to special rules set forth in the Probate Code. These rules [see Prob. Code §§ 9630, 9631] are applicable when there are coexecutors. However, they are also applicable in other cases when there are two or more representatives (e.g., a domiciliary executor and an ancillary executor, or an executor and an administrator with the will annexed).

Under the Probate Code rules, when there are two personal representatives, both must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 9630(a)(1)], and when there are more than two, a majority must concur [Prob. Code § 9630(a)(2)]. If one of the joint personal representatives dies, is removed, or resigns, his or her powers and duties continue in the remaining representatives as if they were the only representatives, until further appointment is made by the court [Prob. Code § 9630(b)]. When joint personal representatives have been appointed and one or more are (1) absent from the state and unable to act, (2) otherwise unable to act, or (3) legally disqualified from serving, the court may authorize the remaining representatives to act as to any matters it specifies [Prob. Code § 9630(c)].

Joint personal representatives have the power, acting alone or jointly, to oppose petitions made by other representatives [Prob. Code § 9630(d)(1)] and to petition the court for orders requiring the others to take (or not to take) specific actions for the benefit of the estate [Prob. Code § 9630(d)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust

Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Fiduciary Responsibilities Estate, Gift & Trust

Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Sales of Assets

96 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.43

§ 65.43 Liability of Executors

[1] Standard of Care

The Probate Code requires all personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58(a)] ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.35[1]] to use ordinary care and diligence in the management and control of their estates [Prob. Code § 9600(a)]. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence is determined by all of the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a)].

This statutory formulation is consistent with court decisions imposing liability on executors and administrators for failure to act with prudence and diligence. The Supreme Court has stated that the standard of care generally applicable to executors is "that degree of prudence and diligence which a man of ordinary judgment would be expected to bestow upon his own affairs of a like nature" [ Estate of Moore (1892) 96 Cal. 522, 525, 31 P. 584 ; Estate of Beach (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 623, 631, 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1046 ] ; and the Court of Appeal has stated that administrators are required to "exercise the degree of care and prudence that an ordinary person would employ in handling his or her own affairs" [ Lobro v. Watson (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 180, 189, 116 Cal. Rptr. 533 ] . A professional representative may, however, be held to a higher standard of care than a lay representative [Recommendation Relating to Supervised Administration of Decedent's Estate, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Rep. 1, 35 (1988)]. If, for example, the representative is a trust company [see § 65.36[6]] and thus in the business of acting as a fiduciary for trusts and estates, it can be required to exercise the skill and knowledge ordinarily possessed by professional fiduciaries [ Estate of Beach (1975) 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994 ; Gagne v. Bertran (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 481, 489, 275 P.2d 15 ] .

[2] Breach of Fiduciary Duty

Executors, like other personal representatives, may be held liable for breach of their fiduciary duties [Prob. Code § 9601(a); see Prob. Code §§ 58(a)] ("personal representative" defined), 16440 (liability of trustee); see also Recommendation Relating to Supervised Administration of Decedent's Estate, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Rep. 1, 37 (1988)(liability of personal representative consistent with liability of trustee)]. Since a breach of duty generally consists of any failure to discharge a duty imposed by law, it may be shown by a variety of facts.

Clearly, an executor who misappropriates estate funds [ Estate of Elizalde (1920) 182 Cal. 427, 435, 188 P. 560 ; Estate of McSweeney (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 787, 792-793, 268 P.2d 107] is guilty of a breach of fiduciary duty. However, breach may also consist in failure to exercise care to protect estate assets [ Estate of Guiol (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 818, 825, 105 Cal. Rptr. 35 (administratrix turned over estate funds to attorney, who embezzled them); Estate of Barreiro (1932) 125 Cal. App. 752, 773, 14 P.2d 786 (executor acquiesced in attorney's retention of estate funds)], failure to rent property belonging to the estate [ Estate of Pardue (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 918, 920-921, 135 P.2d 394] , failure to collect debts owing to the estate [ Sanchez v. Forster (1901) 133 Cal. 614, 615, 65 P. 1077] , or failure to file timely tax returns and elections [ Estate of Gerber (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 96, 112, 140 Cal. Rptr. 577] .

The measure of liability for a breach of fiduciary duty is set forth in Prob. Code § 9601. Under that section, the personal representative is chargeable with any of the following that may be appropriate under the circumstances:

- Any loss or depreciation in value of the decedent's estate resulting from the breach of duty, with interest [Prob. Code § 9601(a)(1)];
- Any profit made by the personal representative through the breach of duty, with interest [Prob. Code § 9601(a)(2)]; or
- Any profit that would have accrued to the decedent's estate if the loss of profit is the result of the breach of duty [Prob. Code § 9601(a)(3)].

[3] Tort Liability

The executor is personally liable for any torts that he or she commits in the administration of the estate [ Johnston v. Long (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 54, 59, 181 P.2d 645 ; Rapaport v. Forer (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 271, 278, 66 P.2d 1242] . In addition, the executor is personally liable (under the doctrine of respondeat superior) for torts committed by persons employed by the executor in the administration of the estate [ Johnston v. Long (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 54, 61-62, 181 P.2d 645] . However, the executor has a right of reimbursement from the assets of the estate when he or she is personally without fault [ Johnston v. Long (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 54, 62, 181 P.2d 645] .

The estate is not generally liable for a tort committed by the personal representative [ Rapaport v. Forer (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 271, 278, 66 P.2d 1242 ; see Nickals v. Stanley (1905) 146 Cal. 724, 727, 81 P. 117] .

[4] Contract Liability

The executor is personally liable on all contracts made in the course of estate administration unless, by special agreement, the creditors agree to look to the estate only for payment [ Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 105, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110] . However, the executor may be entitled to reimbursement out of estate assets if the contract is found to be necessary [ Byrne v. Harvey (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 92, 105, 27 Cal. Rptr. 110 ; Moss v. Boyle (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 410, 413, 112 P.2d 657] .

[5] Tax Liability

The executor may become personally liable for the payment of taxes under limited circumstances. By federal statute, a representative of an estate who pays any debt of the estate before paying a claim of the federal government is liable to the extent of the payment for claims of the government [31 U.S.C. § 3713(b)]. Income taxes are claims of the government within the meaning of this statute [ Viles v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (6th Cir. [T.C.] 1956) 233 F.2d 376, 379] . However, an executor will be personally liable for unpaid taxes only if the executor knew or should have known that the taxes were due and unpaid [ United States v. Vibradamp Corporation (S.D. Cal. 1966) 257 F. Supp. 931, 935-936 ; Livingston v. Becker (E.D. Mo. 1929) 40 F.2d 673, 675] .

An executor who fails to file timely tax returns, to make timely tax elections, or to pay taxes due when sufficient funds are on hand for payment [see § 65.41[7]], may also be liable to the estate for interest and penalties incurred as a result of the failure [see Estate of Gerber (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 96, 113-115, 140 Cal. Rptr. 577 (failure to make elections and to claim refunds)].

[6] To Creditors of Estate

Executors may be personally liable to creditors of the estate under certain circumstances. If the court has ordered payment of a creditor's claim, and if the executor has sufficient funds on hand (after payment of priority claims) to pay the claim, his or her failure to pay the claim will result in personal liability to the creditor [Prob. Code § 11424(a)]. In addition, the executor will be liable on his or her bond, if any [Prob. Code § 11424(a)].

[7] To Devisees and Heirs

The executor is responsible for distributing property in accordance with the terms of the court order for distribution [Prob. Code § 11750(a); see § 65.41[9]]. When the court makes an order of distribution, it must determine the persons entitled to distribution and specify their shares [Prob. Code § 11705(a)]. A distributee may demand, sue for, and recover from the executor (or any other person in possession) any property to which the distributee is entitled [Prob. Code § 11750(b)]. A suit against an executor to recover a distributive share is a suit against the executor individually and not against the estate [ Rafferty v. Mitchell (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 491, 494, 41 P.2d 563 ; St. Mary's Hospital v. Perry (1907) 152 Cal. 338, 340, 92 P. 864 ], since the distributee's rights against the estate are conclusively determined by the decree of distribution [Prob. Code § 11705(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Claims By & Against
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
Fiduciary Responsibilities

97 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.44

§ 65.44 Liability of Coexecutors

Special rules determine when personal representative [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.35[1]] may be held liable for a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another personal representative. These rules are usually applied to coexecutors, though they may also be applied in other cases where there are two or more personal representatives.

The general rule is that one personal representative is not liable for a breach of fiduciary duty by another [Prob. Code § 9631(a)]. However, liability may be imposed on a representative under any of the following circumstances [Prob. Code § 9631(b); but see Prob. Code § 9631(c) (liability for breach before July 1, 1988, governed by prior law)]:

- (1) If the representative participates in a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another representative;
- (2) If the representative improperly delegates the administration of the estate to another representative;
- (3) If the representative approves, knowingly acquiesces in, or conceals a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another representative;
- (4) If the representative's negligence enables another representative to commit a breach of fiduciary duty; or
- (5) If the representative knows or has reason to know of a breach by another representative and fails to take reasonable steps to compel the other representative to redress the breach.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Claims By & Against Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Fiduciary Responsibilities

98 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.45

§ 65.45 Independent Administration of Estates Act

[1] In General

As an alternative to supervised administration, the Probate Court authorizes certain personal representatives to administer estates with a minimum of court supervision under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592; see § 65.32]. The Act provides that some actions may be taken only after giving notice to heirs, devisees, and persons who have requested special notice [see Prob. Code §§ 10510-10519 (powers exercisable only after giving notice), 10530-10538 (powers that require notice under some circumstances), 10580-10592 (notice of proposed action procedure)] and other action may be taken without notice or any court authorization [see Prob. Code §§ 10550-10564 (powers that do not require notice)]. Authority to administer an estate under the Act affords the personal representative greater flexibility and freedom than is available under the more restrictive procedures of supervised administration [see § 65.31].

Any personal representative may petition the court for authority to administer an estate under the Act [Prob. Code § 10450(a)]. However, the petition will not be granted if the decedent's will provides that the estate is not to be administered under the Act [Prob. Code § 10404; for a testamentary direction against independent administration, see § 65.421]. Further, a special administrator may be granted authority under the Act only if he or she has been granted the powers of a general administrator [Prob. Code § 10405; see Prob. Code § 58(b) ("general personal representative" excludes special administrator unless granted general parties)].

Taking action under the Independent Administration of Estates Act is optional. A personal representative who has authority to take action without court supervision is not required to do so. The personal representative may elect to act under court supervision even when independent administration authority has been granted [Prob. Code § 10500(b)].

The court may limit the representative's authority by providing that he or she has all of the powers authorized by the Act except the power to [Prob. Code §§ 10403, 10452, 10501(b)]:

(1) Sell real property;

- (2) Exchange real property;
- (3) Grant an option to purchase real property; or
- (4) Borrow money with the loan secured by an encumbrance on real property.

If the petition to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act is granted, the letters must include a notation that the executor has authority under the Act and indicate whether the authority includes or excludes the authority to sell, exchange, grant options to purchase real property belonging to the estate, or borrow money with the loan secured by an encumbrance upon real property [Prob. Code § 8405(c)].

Any interested person may petition the court for an order revoking or limiting the representative's authority under the Act [Prob. Code § 10454(a)]. If good cause is shown, the court must revoke or limit the representative's authority under the Act, and new letters must be issued, either without a notation of authority under the Act or with a notation showing how the authority has been limited [Prob. Code § 10454(d), (e); see Prob. Code § 8405(c)].

[2] Bonds

When a personal representative is granted authority to act under the Independent Administration of Estates Act, the representative must post a bond, unless he or she is exempt from the requirement [Prob. Code § 10453; for bond requirements and exemptions, see § 65.40]. If the representative has full authority under the Act, the court must fix the amount of the bond at not more than the estimated value of the personal property, the estimated net proceeds of real property authorized to be sold under the Act, and the estimated value of the probable annual gross income of all of the property belonging to the estate; or, if the bond is to be given by personal sureties, at not less than twice that amount [Prob. Code § 10453(a)]. If the personal representative's authority is limited, the court has discretion to fix the amount of the bond at not more than the estimated value of the personal property and the estimated value of the probable annual gross income of all the property belonging to the estate, or, if the bond is to be given by personal sureties, at not less than twice that amount [Prob. Code § 10453(b)].

[3] Supervision Required When Representative Has Conflict of Interest

The Act requires the representative to obtain court authorization for certain actions with respect to which the representative is deemed to have a conflict of interest [see Recommendation Relating to Independent Administration of Estates Act, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports (1988) pp. 213-214]. The representative is required to obtain court supervision for any of the following actions [Prob. Code § 10501(a)];

- Allowance of the personal representative's compensation;
- Allowance of compensation of the attorney for the personal representative;
- Settlement of accounts;
- Preliminary and final distributions and discharge;
- Any sale of estate property to the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney;
- Any exchange of estate property for property of the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney;
- Grant of an option to purchase property of the estate to the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney;

- Allowance, payment, or compromise of any claim of the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney against the estate;
- Compromise or settlement of any claim, action, or proceeding by the estate against the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney; or
- Any extension, renewal, or modification of the terms of a debt or other obligation owed to the estate by the personal representative or the personal representative's attorney.

The personal representative is not prohibited from taking any of the last five actions mentioned above if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 10501(c)]:

- The personal representative is the sole beneficiary of the estate, or all of the known heirs or devisees have consented to the transaction;
- The time for filing creditors' claims has expired;
- No request for special notice is on file, or all persons who have requested special notice have consented to the transaction; and
- The claim of each creditor who filed a claim has been paid, settled, or withdrawn, or the creditor has consented to the transaction.

[4] Notice of Proposed Action

The Act authorizes the personal representative to take certain actions only after all interested persons have been given notice of the proposed action [see Prob. Code §§ 10510-10519 (powers exercisable only after notice of proposed action is given), 10530-10538 (actions for which notice of proposed action required under some circumstances), 10580-10592 (notice of proposed action procedure)]. For purposes of giving notice of proposed action, interested persons are heirs and devisees whose interest in the estate is affected by the proposed action, persons who have filed requests for special notice, and the State of California if any portion of the estate is to escheat to the state and its interest is affected by the proposed action [Prob. Code § 10581]. Failure to give notice when required will subject the personal representative to removal from office [Prob. Code § 10592]. However, notice need not be given to any person who consents to the action [Prob. Code § 10582] or waives notice of it [Prob. Code § 10583]. Consents and waivers may be revoked in writing [Prob. Code § 10584].

[5] Objections

Any person entitled to notice may object to the proposed action [Prob. Code § 10587(a)] or apply to the court for an order restraining the representative from proceeding with it without court supervision [Prob. Code § 10588(a)]. If the proposed action is one that would require court supervision absent the special authority granted under the Independent Administration of Estates Act, the representative may then proceed only under court supervision [Prob. Code § 10589(a)]. If the proposed action would not require court supervision absent the special authority, the representative must then request instructions from the court [Prob. Code § 10589(b)].

A person who receives notice of a proposed action and fails to object within the permitted time [see Prob. Code § 10587(c) (time for making objection)] ordinarily cannot object to the action after it has been taken [Prob. Code § 10590(a)]; but see Prob. Code § 10590(c) (limited exception for review on motion of heir or devisee)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbateGeneral Overview

99 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.46-65.99

[Reserved]

§§ 65.46[Reserved]

100 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

NOTE:

The attorney will need detailed personal and financial information about his or her client to draft a will that adequately disposes of the client's estate in accordance with the client's testamentary plan. For a work sheet that may be used as a guide to the personal and financial information that will be needed to formulate an estate plan and prepare the appropriate documents, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.200.

101 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.100

§ 65.100 Individual Executors

1. Determine whether prospective executor is willing to serve.

NOTE: A person nominated as executor may decline to serve or, after accepting appointment, resign the office [see Prob. Code §§ 8001 (waiver of right to appointment by failure to petition for appointment), 8520 (vacancy occurs when personal representative resigns), 10952 (duty to account after resignation)].

2. Determine whether prospective executor is legally capable of serving.

a. Will prospective executor be at least 18 years of age when testator dies?

NOTE: A person under the age of 18 is not competent to act as executor [Prob. Code § 8402(a)(1); see Fam. Code § 6502 (age of majority); Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)]. A person under 18 when the will is executed (or even when the testator dies) may, however, qualify for appointment upon later attaining the age of majority [Prob. Code § 8424 (minor named as executor); see § 65.36[2]].

b. Is prospective executor subject to a conservatorship or otherwise incapable or unfit?

NOTE: A person who is subject to a conservatorship of the estate or is otherwise incapable of executing or unfit to execute the duties of the office is not competent to act as executor [Prob. Code § 8402(a)(2); see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.36[3]]. A conservator of the estate may be appointed for any adult who is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or to resist fraud or undue influence [Prob. Code §§ 1800, 1801].

c. Would prospective executor be subject to removal from office if appointed?

NOTE: A person is not competent to act as executor if the person would be subject to removal from the office under Prob. Code § 8502 [Prob. Code § 8402(a)(3); see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)]. Grounds for removal under Prob. Code § 8502 generally consist of conduct that would be injurious to the estate or the persons interested in it, such as committing a fraud on the estate or wrongfully neglecting the estate or its affairs. For a discussion of these grounds, see § 65.36[4]. Although grounds for removal may not exist before the executor is appointed, a person who is likely to commit a fraud on the estate or wrongfully neglect the estate or its affairs clearly should not be nominated.

d. Is prospective executor a resident of California?

NOTE: Although a person who is not a resident of the United States is generally disqualified from appointment as personal representative [Prob. Code § 8402(a)(4); see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)], this rule does not apply to a person named as executor or successor executor in the decedent's will [Prob. Code § 8402(b)]. There is no requirement that any personal representative be a resident of California [ Estate of Kelley (1920) 182 Cal. 81, 82, 186 P. 1041 ], or even that the executor's oath of office be executed in the state [ Adams v. Sharp (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 775, 778, 40 Cal. Rptr. 255, 394 P.2d 943 ]. Executors who do not reside in California are, however, subject to rules that do not apply to residents [see Prob. Code §§ 8571 (discretion of court to require bond of nonresident executor), 8572 (Secretary of State as attorney for service of process on nonresident executor), 8573 (duty of nonresident to file statement of permanent address)]. For a discussion of these rules, see § 65.36[5]. A resident executor who, after appointment, moves his or her residence outside California is subject to the same rules and requirements as a person who is a nonresident when appointed [Prob. Code § 8570 (rule applicable to personal representatives generally)].

3. Determine whether prospective executor is actually capable of serving.

NOTE: The duties of an executor are diverse. They include, among other things, collecting and preserving the assets of the estate, filing the inventory and appraisal, making investments, paying debts, filing tax returns and paying taxes, accounting, and distributing assets [see § 65.41]. At the minimum, an executor should be an intelligent person in good physical health who has sufficient time and energy to devote to the affairs of the estate. Business knowledge or experience may be helpful, although an executor without business knowledge or experience can properly look to his or her attorney (and other advisers, if necessary) to make up for his or her own deficiencies in this regard.

4. Determine whether there is likely to be a conflict of interest between prospective executor and persons interested in estate.

NOTE: Although the existence of an actual or potential conflict of interest between a prospective executor and the persons interested in the estate will not, in itself, disqualify a prospective executor [see Prob. Code § 8402 (qualifications of executor)], facts showing grounds for removal under Prob. Code § 8502 may also show a conflict of interest and, if they do, the prospective executor is not qualified [Prob. Code § 8402(a)(3)]. For a general discussion of Prob. Code § 8502, see P 2(c), above, and the discussion in § 65.36[4]. Whether or not a conflict of interest can be shown, antagonism or hostility toward the estate or the persons interested in it may severely hamper the effectiveness of the prospective executor and lead to costly and time-consuming disputes.

5. Determine whether attorney should be nominated as executor.

a. Has testator requested attorney to serve as executor?

NOTE: Although attorneys are competent to serve as executors [see Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 616-617, 328 P.2d 1 ; Estate of Crouch (1966) 240 Cal. app. 2d 801, 802, 49 Cal. Rptr. 926] , special ethical problems arise whenever an attorney draws a will naming himself or herself as executor. Such a will raises questions of both conflict of interest and undue influence [see §§ 65.200[1][c]; see also 65.39[5]]. To avoid charges of unethical conduct, an attorney should, at the least, refrain from soliciting a nomination as executor. If the attorney is to be nominated, the intention to nominate should clearly be that of the testator and not the attorney.

- b. Does testator repose special confidence in ability, judgment, and integrity of attorney?
- c. Are there other more natural candidates for nomination, such as relatives, friends, or business associates?
- d. Are heirs or devisees likely to object to attorney's nomination?
- e. Is attorney personally convinced his or her nomination would, under all circumstances, be fair and equitable both to testator and to devisees under testator's will?

- f. Are both testator and attorney willing to submit will to independent counsel for review?

NOTE: Before executing the will, the client must be given a reasonable opportunity to seek the advice of independent counsel of the client's choice [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-300 (avoiding adverse interests)]. In addition, a prudent attorney will insist (even when the client is reluctant to seek independent counsel) that independent counsel review the will and the propriety of the nomination [see Magee v. State Bar (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 423, 433, 24 Cal. Rptr. 839, 374 P.2d 807 (attorney has duty to send testator to independent counsel before drafting will in which attorney is residuary devisee); see also § 65.200[1][c]].

- g. Is attorney willing to serve in two capacities while receiving compensation for only one?

NOTE: An attorney cannot claim compensation both as executor and as attorney for the executor [ Estate of Parker (1926) 200 Cal. 132, 137, 251 P. 907 ; see § 65.39[5]] unless the will expressly authorizes dual compensation [ Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 616-617, 328 P.2d 1 ; Estate of Crouch (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 801, 802, 49 Cal. Rptr. 926 ; for will provision authorizing an attorney to receive compensation both as executor and as attorney, see § 65.445]. A will authorizing an attorney to receive dual compensation should be submitted to independent counsel for review [see (f), above]. However, an attorney may receive compensation for services as executor and the attorney's law firm may receive compensation for legal services for the executor on proof that they have agreed that the executor will not share in any part of the attorney fees [ Estate of Parker (1926) 200 Cal. 132, 137, 251 P. 907] .

6. Determine whether will should waive executor's bond [see Prob. Code §§ 8480(a) (general requirement that bond be given), 8481(a)(1)(bond not required of executor if waived in will); see also § 65.40[1]].

- a. Does testator repose complete confidence in prospective executor's ability, judgment, and integrity?

NOTE: A bond will protect the devisees and creditors against the executor's misconduct. Accordingly, a bond should be waived only when the testator is confident that the executor will discharge the duties of his or her office competently and honestly.

- b. Is prospective executor sole devisee under will?

NOTE: If a bond is given, it will be for the benefit of "interested persons," e.g., heirs, devisees, and creditors [Prob. Code § 8480(b)]; see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)]. If the prospective executor is the sole devisee, there is little reason to require a bond, since the bond will inure primarily to the executor's own benefit.

c. Does testator wish to save cost of bond premium?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Appointment

102 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.101

§ 65.101 Trust Companies

1. Determine whether prospective executor is qualified trust company.

NOTE: A trust company is an entity that has qualified to act as executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, conservator, trustee, or other fiduciary in California [Prob. Code § 83 ("trust company" defined); see Fin. Code §§ 106 ("trust business" defined), 107 ("trust company" defined)]. A trust company may be appointed to act as an executor in the same manner as an individual [Prob. Code § 300; see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)]. Certain large commercial banks, industrial banks, and title insurance companies in California are qualified trust companies [see discussion in § 65.36[6]].

2. Determine whether trust company is willing to serve.

- a. Does estate meet trust company's minimum asset requirements, if any?

NOTE: A trust company will generally decline to serve as executor of a very small estate [see § 65.36[6]]. Before nominating a corporate executor, the attorney should ascertain whether the trust company has a minimum asset requirement and, if so, what the minimum is.

- b. Will estate require close personal management or supervision?

NOTE: Trust companies often refuse to serve as executors of estates that require close personal supervision or management. An estate that includes a sole proprietorship business that the executor will be required to operate may thus be unacceptable to a trust company.

3. Determine whether estate would benefit from trust company's professional skill and experience.

a. Does estate need professional management?

NOTE: Trust companies usually have professional staffs who are experienced in estate administration and trained in such matters as investment and accounting. Because they are "professional fiduciaries," they are held to a higher standard of care and diligence than lay fiduciaries [ Estate of Beach (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 623, 631, 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994 ; see Recommendation Relating to Supervised Administration of Decedent's Estate, 19 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports (1988) p. 35].

b. Does testator have history of business relations with that is also a qualified trust company?

NOTE: A bank or trust company may effectively serve as executor for a testator who has a history of business with it. In such a case, the bank may be expected to be familiar with the assets of the estate, encumbrances on real property, and other matters of importance to an executor.

c. Does trust company have offices near estate assets?

NOTE: A trust company cannot effectively administer assets that are far distant from its offices. If the assets are not close enough to the trust company's offices, it may decline to act as executor.

d. Would estate benefit from savings of bond premium?

NOTE: A trust company that is appointed as executor may not be required to give a bond, even if a bond is required by the will [Prob. Code § 301(a); see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.36[6]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Appointment

103 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.102

§ 65.102 Coexecutors

1. Determine whether estate would benefit from appointment of coexecutors.

a. Does testator wish to name more than one executor to avoid appearance of favoring one devisee over another?

NOTE: Many testators wish to treat their devisees with complete equality. Nominating one child to serve as executor to the exclusion of other children may give the appearance of favoritism. In such a case, the testator may wish to nominate all of his or her children to serve as coexecutors.

b. Would estate benefit from knowledge, judgment, and experience of more than one executor?

NOTE: The skill and experience of one coexecutor may complement that of another. For example, one coexecutor may be experienced in investment matters, another in the management of real estate, and yet another in business accounting. If the estate includes assets that would benefit from diverse skills and experience, coexecutors may be indicated.

c. Would coexecutors work together harmoniously?

NOTE: Coexecutors should be able to work together effectively and without conflict. When there are two executors, both must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 9630(a)(1)]; and when there are more than two a majority must concur [Prob. Code § 9630(a)(2)]; see §§ 65.42[12], 65.44.

d. Should powers of executor be shared by individual executor and trust company?

NOTE: The will may name both an individual and a trust company as executor. In such a case, the trust company will usually insist on having possession of all money and other personal property of the estate and keeping all records and accounts [see §§ 65.403[1][b]].

e. Would appointment of coexecutors delay administration of estate?

NOTE: Appointment of coexecutors may unnecessarily delay or hinder the efficient administration of the estate. If the coexecutors do not live in close proximity, it may take time to bring them together to make decisions. Further, multiple signatures may be needed on estate documents, such as petitions, notices, and accounts. It will almost inevitably require additional time to secure the additional signatures. Finally, family rivalries and other personal or financial conflicts may make it difficult for the coexecutors to work together. Disagreement among coexecutors may necessitate frequent and repeated petitions for instructions, thus adding to the expense of administration and delaying the eventual settlement of the estate.

2. Determine whether will should waive bond for coexecutors.

NOTE: If coexecutors are appointed, the court may require either a separate bond from each or a joint and several bond. If a joint bond is furnished, the liability on the bond is joint and several [Prob. Code § 8480(a)], unless one of the coexecutors is a trust company [Prob. Code § 301(a)] or the will waives the requirement of a bond [Prob. Code § 8481(a)(1)]. For considerations respecting the waiver of bonds, see § 65.100, P 6.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Appointment

104 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.103

§ 65.103 Alternate and Successor Executors

NOTE:

The will should nominate one or more alternate and successor executors to serve in the event the person named as executor fails to qualify or ceases to serve as executor. If the will does not name a successor or alternate, the court must appoint an administrator with the will annexed [Prob. Code §§ 8440 (appointment of administrator with will annexed), 8522(a)(duty of court to appoint successor); see § 65.35[5]]. Although it is not strictly necessary to name alternate and successor executors when a trust company has been nominated to act as executor [see § 65.201[1]], such a nomination is nevertheless prudent, since a trust company may decline to serve as executor or may resign [see Prob. Code §§ 8001 (waiver of right to appointment by failure to petition for appointment), 8520 (vacancy occurs when personal representative resigns), 10952 (duty to account after resignation)].

1. Determine who should be nominated as alternate and successor executor(s).

NOTE: The selection of alternate and successor executors should be governed by the same considerations as the selection of executors. For discussion, see generally § 65.100.

2. Determine whether will should waive bond for alternate and successor executor(s).

NOTE: An alternate or successor executor, like a primary executor, will be required to post a bond [Prob. Code § 8480(a)] unless the alternate or successor executor is a trust company [Prob. Code § 301(a)] or the will waives the requirement of a bond [Prob. Code § 8481(a)]. For considerations respecting the waiver of bond, see § 65.100, P 6.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal

RepresentativesAppointment

105 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.104

§ 65.104 Ancillary Executors

1. Determine whether executor has assets outside California.

NOTE: Ancillary administration is generally necessary when a testator leaves property in a state in which he or she is not domiciled [see Prob. Code §§ 12501 ("ancillary administration" defined), 12505 ("nondomiciliary decedent" defined), 12510-12542 (ancillary administration in California of estates of nondomiciliary decedents); see also § 65.34]. Since the authority of personal representatives does not ordinarily extend beyond the jurisdiction of the government from which they derive their authority [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(b)], domiciliary executors ordinarily have no authority over assets located outside the domiciliary jurisdiction.

2. Determine whether will should nominate separate ancillary executor.

a. Will it be difficult or impossible for domiciliary executor to take charge of and manage ancillary estate?

NOTE: A domiciliary executor may also petition for and receive appointment as ancillary executor. However, the expense and time necessary for travel to another jurisdiction will make it nearly impossible for many domiciliary executors to act effectively as ancillary executors. In addition, a trust company [see Prob. Code § 83, Fin. Code § 107 ("trust company" defined); see also § 65.36[6]]; for considerations in the selection of a trust company as executor, see § 65.101] usually cannot transact any business beyond the borders of the jurisdiction in which it is authorized to do business.

b. Does testator know some qualified and competent person where ancillary estate is located who could serve as ancillary executor?

3. Determine whether will should waive bond for ancillary executor [for considerations respecting the waiver of bond, see § 65.100, P 6].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbateAncillary ProceedingsEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesGeneral
OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesAppointment

106 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.105

§ 65.105 Delegating Authority to Nominate Executors

1. Determine whether will should authorize third party to nominate executor.

NOTE: The will may confer on one or more persons the power to designate an executor, coexecutor, or successor executor or coexecutor [Prob. Code § 8422(a); see § 65.220].

a. Is it difficult for testator to make selection of executor at present?

NOTE: It may be difficult for some testators to select an executor, particularly when the executor is not expected to act until many years after he or she is nominated. A single parent with minor children and no other close relatives may, for example, be unwilling to commit the administration of the estate to a relative stranger to the family, and trust company may be unwilling to accept appointment because the estate is small. In such a situation, the testator could authorize the attorney to nominate an executor after the testator's death.

b. Does testator repose confidence and trust in third party who could select executor after testator's death?

c. Does testator wish occupant of particular office or position (regardless of identity) to serve as executor?

NOTE: A testator who wishes his or her estate to be administered by a particular officer whose name cannot be known at the time the will is executed may properly delegate the authority to nominate the executor to another person. For example, a testator who wishes his or her estate to be administered by the president of a college and cannot predict who the president will be when the will is offered for probate, may choose to authorize a third person to nominate the president by name [see Comment, "Administration of Estates; designation of executor," 4 Pacific L.J. 231 (1973)].

2. Determine whether will should authorize third party to nominate alternate and successor executor.

NOTE: Alternate and successor executors should be named to serve in the event that the principal executor fails to qualify or ceases to serve as executor [see § 65.103]. Since the failure of the principal executor to serve may be more or less unforeseeable at the time the will is executed, it may be difficult for the testator to prepare for the failure by naming alternate and successor executors. A third party may be authorized to select the alternate and successor executors if and when the eventuality occurs.

3. Determine whether will should authorize third party to nominate executor from class of persons.

NOTE: A delegation of authority to nominate an executor may limit the authority to nominate to a designated class of persons, such as persons related to the testator by blood [see § 65.222].

4. Determine whether will should authorize executor to nominate ancillary executor.

NOTE: Ancillary administration may be necessary if the testator owns assets located in a nondomiciliary state [see § 65.104]. It may be difficult at the time the will is executed to predict whether the testator will own such assets at the time of death. In appropriate circumstances, it may make sense to authorize the domiciliary executor to nominate an ancillary executor.

5. Determine whether executor nominated by third party should be relieved of obligation to post bond [see Prob. Code § 8422(a) (will may provide that person designated as executor or coexecutor by third person may serve without bond); for considerations respecting the waiver of bond, see § 65.100, P 6].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Appointment

107 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Preliminary Determinations for Selection and Nomination of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.106-65.119

[Reserved]

§§ 65.106[Reserved]

108 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.120

§ 65.120 Investment

1. Determine whether will should include special provisions for executor's investment powers.

a. Is estate likely to require that executor make investment decisions?

(1) Small estates will not ordinarily require any investment decisions.

NOTE: Unless the will provides otherwise [Prob. Code § 9652(c)], executors are required to keep all cash (except cash that is reasonably necessary for the orderly administration of the estate) invested in interest-bearing accounts or other investments authorized by law [Prob. Code § 9652(a), (b)]. This kind of investment will ordinarily be all that is required during a short period of administration.

(2) If estate will have large amounts of cash on hand, and if administration is expected to be prolonged, investment decisions may be necessary.

NOTE: Final distribution is not required sooner than one year in estates not required to file a federal estate tax return, and 18 months in estates for which a federal estate tax return is required [see Prob. Code § 12200 (executor must file petition for distribution or verified report of status of administration)].

(3) If estate will have unique assets (e.g., sole proprietorship business that must be sold after testator's death or real property subject to option) that are expected to be converted into cash, investment decisions may be called for.

b. Does testator repose confidence in executor's investment ability and judgment?

NOTE: Special investment powers should not be conferred on a testator who is unable to exercise the powers properly or to the benefit of the estate. If the executor lacks business knowledge and experience, it will ordinarily be more prudent to limit the investor to the investment powers conferred on executors by statute.

c. Is executor likely to require assistance of investment adviser in making investment decisions?

(1) If executor has limited investment knowledge or experience, adviser may be necessary to help executor make investment decisions.

(2) If estate is large and administration expected to be prolonged, investment adviser may be called.

2. If will should include special provisions for executor's investment powers, determine what those provisions should be.

a. Should executor be given broad power to invest?

NOTE: A broad grant of power will allow the executor maximum flexibility in making investment decisions.

b. Should executor be given power to make specified investment?

NOTE: Power to make a specified investment (e.g., to purchase shares of the stock of a particular corporation) may be included if the testator particularly favors the investment. However, the testator should be reminded that no investment is right for all times and all circumstances. Since the executor's investment decisions will not be made until some time in the future, an investment that seems particularly attractive or safe when the will is executed may seem unattractive or unsafe when the estate is being administered.

c. Should will provide that grant of investment power does not require that power to be exercised?

NOTE: So that the executor will have the flexibility necessary to make decisions based on current conditions, an investment power should not be equated with an investment duty. The will should make it clear that the grant of a power to invest does not require exercise of the power [see § 65.262].

d. Should executor be given power to retain investment counsel [see § 65.120, P 1(c)]?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
Fiduciary Responsibilities

109 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.121

§ 65.121 Asset Management

1. Determine whether executor should be given power to sell estate assets.

a. Will estate have sufficient cash to pay all claims, expenses, and taxes?

NOTE: If there is insufficient cash on hand to pay all claims, expenses, and taxes, estate assets may have to be sold. Sale of assets for the purpose of paying claims, expenses, and taxes may be ordered by the court, even in the absence of a will provision authorizing sale [Prob. Code § 10001(a)(1)].

b. Will sale of assets be necessary to satisfy devisees?

NOTE: Sale of estate assets may be ordered by the court when necessary to satisfy devisees [Prob. Code § 10001(a)(1)]. Sale may be particularly appropriate if the devisees are in fractional or undivided shares, as division or allocation may then be difficult [for a power to allocate and distribute property in kind, see § 65.380].

2. Determine whether executor should be given power to lease assets.

a. Does estate include property that is typically leased?

NOTE: Some property is typically leased (e.g., agricultural acreage or oil-producing property). If the estate includes any such property, a power to lease may be beneficial.

b. Will estate require income from leased property to pay claims, expenses, taxes, or devisees?

NOTE: Lease payments may produce cash to pay claims, expenses, taxes, or devisees. In some circumstances, leasing may obviate the necessity for selling assets to raise necessary cash.

3. Determine whether executor should be given power to retain assets.

a. Will estate include assets that should not be retained under "ordinary care and diligence" rule?

NOTE: Because they have the potential to lose value quickly, some assets (e.g., shares of stock of a small corporation, or shares of a corporation that is currently operating at a loss) may not be suitable for holding under the "ordinary care and diligence rule" [see Prob. Code § 9600(a)]; see also discussion in § 65.43[1].

b. Does testator wish executor to retain those assets?

NOTE: A will provision authorizing the executor to retain assets that could not otherwise be held under the "ordinary care and diligence" rule will be one of the "circumstances" that may be considered in determining whether the trustee has acted with ordinary care and diligence [see Prob. Code § 9600(a)] (what constitutes "care and diligence" is determined by all circumstances of particular estate); see also § 65.283[1].

4. Determine whether executor should be given power to continue operation of business after testator's death [for considerations in determining whether business should be liquidated after testator's death, see § 65.125, P 2].

a. Will estate include business operated by testator as sole proprietor or general partner?

b. Does testator wish business to be continued after his or her death?

NOTE: If it is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [see Prob. Code § 48] ("interested person" defined), the executor may continue the operation of a business owned by the decedent as a sole proprietor for a period of six months from the date letters are first issued Prob. Code § 9760(b). Operation of a business beyond six months is permissible only if a court order has been obtained authorizing continued operation [Prob. Code § 9760(b)]; see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.461[1][b]. Although a will provision will probably be ineffective to authorize operation beyond six months without a court order [see § 65.284[1][b][iii]], it will clearly state the testator's intentions with respect to operation, thereby helping to resolve disputes as to the propriety of the executor's decision and strengthening a petition for court authority.

5. Determine whether executor should be given power to purchase assets of estate for executor's own account.

NOTE: Executors and their attorneys are generally forbidden to purchase, directly or indirectly, any property of or claim against the estate [Prob. Code § 9880]; see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.285].

a. Is estate likely to need cash to pay claims, expenses, taxes, or devises [see §§ 65.120-65.124?

b. Is executor business associate of testator?

NOTE: Business associates of the testator are sometimes chosen to serve as executors. Because they know the testator's business and are familiar with the testator's assets, they are sometimes in a better position than other persons to take over those assets. In appropriate circumstances, an executor who is also a business associate of the testator may wish to purchase business assets held by the estate.

c. Will estate include assets that cannot readily be sold on open market?

NOTE: Some assets cannot readily be sold on the open market (e.g., stock in small corporations, limited partnership interests, and sole proprietorship businesses that depend for their success on the close personal supervision of an experienced manager). If the estate is likely to be illiquid, purchase of those assets by a friend or business associate of the testator who is familiar with them and willing to purchase them for his or her own account may be to the advantage of the estate.

- d. Does testator wish to give executor power to purchase assets for executor's own account?

NOTE: If the will authorizes the executor (or the executor's attorney) to purchase property of the estate, the court may make an order authorizing the purchase [Prob. Code § 9882; see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.285].

6. Determine whether executor should be given power to make expenditures to collect foreign assets.

- a. Will estate include out-of-state property?

b. Can out-of-state property be collected without ancillary administration in other state [see § 65.104; see also § 65.286]?

7. Determine whether administrator with will annexed [see Prob. Code §§ 8440-8442; see also § 65.35[5]] should be given same powers as executor.

- a. Does will confer discretionary power on executor?

NOTE: An administrator with the will annexed will generally have the same authority over the estate as an executor named in the will [Prob. Code § 8442(a)]. If, however, the will confers a discretionary power or authority on an executor that is not conferred by law and does not extend the power or authority to other personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)], the power or authority is not deemed to be conferred on an administrator with the will annexed [Prob. Code § 8442(b)] although the court, in its discretion, may authorize an administrator with the will annexed to exercise it [Prob. Code § 8442(b)].

- b. If executor fails to qualify or ceases to act, does testator wish administrator with will annexed to have same powers as executor?

NOTE: The will may provide that an administrator with the will annexed will have all of the powers of the executor [see Prob. Code § 8442(b) (will may provide that discretionary powers exercisable by executor also exercisable by administrator with will annexed); see also § 65.360].

- c. Does will nominate alternate and successor executors?

NOTE: If the will names sufficient alternate and successor executors, appointment of an administrator with the will annexed will not be necessary and there will be no need for will to confer any powers on administrator with will annexed [see § 65.203; for preliminary determinations in the selection and nomination of alternate and successor executors, see § 65.103].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Claims By & Against Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties &

PowersFiduciary Responsibilities

110 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.122

§ 65.122 Borrowing

1. Determine whether executor should be given power to borrow money on behalf of estate.
  - a. Is estate likely to need cash to pay claims, expenses, or taxes?
  - b. Does testator wish executor to avoid selling estate property to raise cash?
NOTE: The court may order estate assets sold if there is insufficient cash on hand to pay claims, expenses, and taxes [Prob. Code § 10001(a)(1)]. Borrowing may enable the executor to avoid sale.
  - c. Will estate include business that executor will operate [see § 65.121, P 4] and that is likely to need cash during administration?
2. Determine whether executor should be given power to encumber estate assets.
  - a. Does will empower executor to borrow money on behalf of estate [see (1), above]?
  - b. Is power to encumber estate assets necessary to facilitate exercise of power to borrow money?
NOTE: Many (if not most) large loans are secured. A power to borrow money without a power to encumber estate assets is likely to be ineffectual.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview

111 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.123

§ 65.123 Taxes

1. Determine whether executor should be given power to take particular actions without regard to tax consequences.
2. Determine whether executor should be given power to allocate expense deductions between income tax and estate tax.

NOTE: In discharge of his or her duty to file tax returns for the estate and for the decedent [see § 65.41[7]], the executor has the power to make various tax elections. If these elections affect the distributive shares of different devisees in different ways, the court may compel adjustments on distribution [Estate of Bixby (1956) 140 Cal. app. 2d 326, 339-340, 295 P.2d 68]. A will provision may relieve the executor of the obligation to make such adjustments [see § 65.320[1][b]].

- a. Is estate likely to require executor to make tax elections?
- b. Will estate have several devisees whose distributive shares may be affected in different ways by executor's tax elections?
- c. Does testator wish executor to have maximum freedom to make tax elections without regard to effect on devisees' distributive shares?
- d. Does testator wish executor to ensure that devisees' distributive shares will be neither augmented nor diminished by any tax decisions?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview

112 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.124

§ 65.124 Distribution

1. Determine whether executor should be given power to divided property on distribution and to allocate and distribute property in kind.

a. Does will make gifts to two or more devisees in fractional shares?

b. Will allocation of particular assets to particular devisees be difficult?

NOTE: If an estate does not consist entirely of cash, problems may arise as to how the estate should be distributed, particularly if the residue includes assets (e.g., furniture, jewelry, or works of art) that cannot readily be divided into separate interests.

c. Would testator prefer that executor rather than court allocate and divide property?

NOTE: If the will does not give the executor power to divide property on distribution, the court must determine what property will be distributed to each devisee and whether property should be partitioned [Prob. Code § 11603(b)(1)]; see Prob. Code §§ 11950-11956 (procedure for division by court)]. The court may order property sold when sale would be more equitable than partition and the property cannot conveniently be allotted to any one party [Prob. Code § 11953]. Costs of the partition proceedings must be paid by the parties entitled to distribution, but each must pay his or her own attorney fees [Prob. Code § 11955].

The testator will often prefer that the executor divide the property, since the executor will frequently have a better understanding of the testator's wishes and the needs of the devisees. Further, court petitions can be costly, delay the ultimate closing of the estate, and produce discord among the interested persons.

2. Determine whether executor should be given power to pay devises to third parties for benefit of minor or incompetent devisees.

a. Does will make gifts to devisees who may be minors at time of distribution?

NOTE: Although minors are capable of owning property, they are not capable of contracting with respect to the property [Fam. Code § 6701(b); see § 65.381[1][b]]. For this reason, it is generally necessary for a minor's property to be held for the minor by some other person legally empowered to do so [see (c) and (d), below; see also § 65.381].

b. Does will make gifts to adults subject to disabilities?

c. Does minor or disabled adult devisee have guardian of estate, conservator, or trustee who could hold property for that devisee?

NOTE: Property may be held for minors by (1) guardians of the estate [see Prob. Code § 2401(a)], (2) trustees [see Prob. Code §§ 15000-18201 (the Trust Law)], (3) custodians under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [Prob. Code §§ 3900-3925], or (4) parents, if the minor's "total estate" does not exceed $5,000 [Prob. Code §§ 3400, 3401; see § 65.381[1][b]]. Property may be held for disabled adults by (1) trustees or (2) conservators [Prob. Code §§ 1800, 1801, 2401(a); see § 65.381[1][c]].

d. Should will designate custodian for minor under California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act?

NOTE: A will may nominate a custodian under the Act [Prob. Code § 3903(a)].

3. Determine whether executor should be given power to pay costs of distribution of estate assets.

a. Are costs of distributing property to devisees likely to be more than nominal?

NOTE: Costs of distributing estate assets can include such items as recording fees (for real property), transfer and registration fees (for securities), and storage and freight charges (for tangible personal property). If the assets of the estate are substantial, or if the devisees reside some distance from the executor, these costs can be substantial.

b. Will provision authorizing executor to pay costs of distribution will help establish that costs are expenses of administration and thus deductible for federal estate tax purposes?

NOTE: Expenses of administering the estate are deductible for federal estate tax purposes, but only to the extent that they are actually and necessarily incurred in collecting assets, paying debts, and distributing property to the persons entitled to it [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3]. A will provision authorizing the executor to pay distribution costs may help to establish that the costs are properly deductible expenses [see § 65.382].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Distribution

113 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.125

§ 65.125 Directions

1. Determine whether executor should be directed to pay a specific debt or debts.

a. Does testator feel moral obligation to pay legally uncollectible debt?

b. Does testator have reason to believe creditor may be unable or unwilling to file claim for payment of legally collectible debt?

c. Does testator wish particular debt to be paid out of specific fund or property?

NOTE: If necessary to pay debts and expenses of administration, estate assets must abate (i.e., be reduced, eliminated, or even sold) according to a statutory schedule of priorities [see Prob. Code § 21402(a)] (order of abatement); see also Prob. Code § 10000(a) (executor may sell assets when necessary to pay debts, devisees, family allowance, expenses of administration, or taxes). The will may, however, provide a different order of abatement [Prob. Code § 21400; see Ch. 61, Will Provisions, § 61.416].

d. Could provision have effect of reviving a barred debt?

NOTE: Although the executor cannot properly pay a debt that is barred by the statute of limitations [Prob. Code § 9253], an otherwise barred debt may be revived by a writing signed by the party to be charged [Code Civ. Proc. § 360]. A will provision requiring the executor to pay a specified debt may be deemed such a writing [see § 65.400].

2. Determine whether executor should be directed to liquidate business [for considerations in determining whether business should be continued after testator's death, see § 65.121, P 4].

a. Will estate include business operated by testator as sole proprietorship or general partnership?

- b. Does success of business depend largely on testator's personal management?

NOTE: Many businesses (particularly small businesses operated as sole proprietorships or general partnerships) depend greatly on the knowledge, experience, skill, and energy of a single manager. If that manager is the testator, the business may suffer greatly as a result of the testator's death.

- c. Does testator wish business to be liquidated after his or her death?

3. Determine whether will should direct executor as to sequence of sales of estate property.

- a. Is it likely executor will have to liquidate estate assets to pay claims, expenses, or taxes?

- b. Does testator wish property of estate to be resorted to for payment of claims, expenses, and taxes only in certain order?

NOTE: The will may direct that particular property of the estate be sold [Prob. Code §§ 10000(c), (d), 10002(a)] or give directions about the "mode of selling" estate property [Prob. Code § 10002(a); see § 65.402[1]].

4. Determine whether will should provide that trust company nominated as coexecutor will have custody of personal property of estate and maintain all estate records and accounts.

- a. Does will nominate individual and trust company as coexecutors [see § 65.102, P 1]?

- b. Will individual coexecutor acquiesce in trust company's demand [see § 65.102, P 1 see also § 65.403[1]] to have possession of all moneys and other personal property of estate and keep all records and accounts?

5. Determine whether will should direct ancillary executor to deliver residue of ancillary estate to domiciliary executor.

- a. Does will nominate ancillary executor [see § 65.104]?

- b. Does testator wish all assets (of both ancillary and domiciliary estates) to be distributed by domiciliary executor under terms of will?

NOTE: The assets of an ancillary estate are usually delivered to the domiciliary executor to be distributed with other assets of the estate according to the law of the domiciliary state. However, the laws of some states (including California) permit the court, in its discretion, to order distribution directly to the devisees under the will [see Estate of Lathrop (1913) 165 Cal. 243, 249, 131 P. 752 ; see also Prob. Code §§ 12540(a) (court may order distribution to domiciliary representative if in best interest of estate or interested persons), 12542 (court may order distribution to domiciliary representative if domiciliary estate insolvent)]. A will provision directing the ancillary executor to distribute the residue of the ancillary estate to the domiciliary executor will help to prevent direct distribution [see § 65.404[1][b]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationClaims Against EstatesGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesDuties

& PowersGeneral Overview

114 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.126

§ 65.126 Independent Administration

1. Determine whether independent administration [see § 65.45[1]] would be to advantage of estate.

NOTE: The Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592] generally affords the personal representative greater flexibility and freedom than is available under the more restrictive procedures of supervised administration [see § 65.31]. Under the Act, certain action may be taken only after notice of proposed action is given to heirs, devisees, and persons who have requested special notice, while other action may be taken without notice or any court authorization [see § 65.45[4]].

a. Is testator's confidence in ability, judgment, and integrity of executor and alternate and successor executor(s) such that he or she would be willing to permit administration without close judicial supervision?

b. Is testator content to dispense with many formal aspects of supervised administration?

c. Would supervised administration be preferable to independent administration because persons interested in estate are likely to quarrel over provisions of will or disagree about steps to be taken in administration of estate?

2. Determine whether will should include direction permitting or prohibiting independent administration.

NOTE: If the will is silent on the question of independent administration, the executor may petition for authority to administer the estate under the Act [Prob. Code § 10450], but persons interested in the estate may object [Prob. Code § 10452]. The court must grant the petition unless good cause has been shown why independent administration should not be permitted [Prob. Code § 10452]. It may, however, order limited independent administration in appropriate circumstances [Prob. Code § 10452].

a. Does testator feel strongly that estate should not be administered under Independent Administration of Estates Act?

NOTE: The court cannot permit independent administration if the decedent's will provides that the estate is not to be administered under the Act [Prob. Code § 10404; see § 65.420[1]].

b. Does testator wish to permit independent administration subject to stated exceptions [see § 65.420[1][c][ii]]?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbateGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesGeneral Overview

115 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.127

§ 65.127 Compensation

1. Determine whether will should make special provision for compensation of executor.

a. Is testator satisfied with statutory compensation?

NOTE: Unless the will provides otherwise, the compensation of an executor will be determined by statute [see Prob. Code §§ 10800, 10802]. Because the statutory compensation is easy to compute and understand, it usually gives persons interested in the estate little cause for argument or dispute.

b. Does testator wish to allow executor greater or lesser compensation than that permitted by statute?

2. If will should make special provision for compensation of executor, determine what provision it should make.

a. Should executor's compensation be fixed amount [see § 65.440[1]]?

(1) Fixed amount will avoid disputes among persons interested in estate and avoid court proceedings to fix compensation.

(2) Fixed amount may overcompensate or undercompensate executor for actual services rendered, since time and effort required for administration may not be anticipated at time will is executed.

b. Should executor's compensation be "reasonable"?

(1) Provision for reasonable compensation will avoid rigidity of statutory fee schedules.

(2) Provision for reasonable compensation will assure that compensation received bears reasonable relation to actual services rendered.

(3) Provision for reasonable compensation will require court order to fix amount of compensation [see § 65.441[1][b]].

c. Should executor receive devise in lieu of compensation?

(1) Does testator wish executor's compensation to be deductible for federal estate tax purposes?

(2) Would executor prefer to avoid income tax on compensation?

NOTE: Compensation paid to the executor for services rendered in the administration of the estate will be deductible for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2053(a)(2) (administration expenses); Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3(b)(1) (commissions of executor or administrator)] and taxable as income to the executor [I.R.C. § 61(a)(1) (gross income defined)]. In contrast, a devise is neither deductible for federal estate tax purposes nor subject to income tax in the hands of the recipient [I.R.C. § 102(a)]. However, a devise to an executor that is conditioned on the rendition of services will, for both estate and income tax purposes, be treated as compensation for services and not a devise [ Ream v. Bowers (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1927) 22 F.2d 465, 468 ; for discussion, see §§ 65.442[1][c][i], 65.442[1][c][ii]].

d. Should trust company be compensated as if it were sole executor and individual executor receive no (or merely nominal) compensation?

NOTE: When one of the coexecutors is an individual and another is a trust company, the trust company almost invariably has custody of all personal property and maintains all records and accounts for the estate [see § 65.403[1]]. Since, under those circumstances, trust companies can be expected to perform the bulk of the work of administration, they frequently expect the same compensation that a sole executor would receive [see § 65.443[1][c]].

e. Should compensation of trust company and individual coexecutors be divided according to fractional formula?

(1) Fractional formula will avoid necessity for court to divide fees among or between coexecutors.

(2) Fractional formula will assure that each coexecutor will receive part of compensation.

(3) Fractional formula may or may not match compensation to actual services rendered, since it will be difficult when will is executed to anticipate actual services rendered by each coexecutor.

f. Should attorney receive compensation both as executor and as attorney?

NOTE: Notwithstanding any provision in the decedent's will, an executor who is the attorney may receive the executor's compensation, but is not entitled to compensation for services as the attorney for the executor unless the court grants prior approval and finds that the arrangement is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the decedent's estate [ Prob. Code § 10804; see also [ In re Estate of Parker (1926) 200 Cal. 132, 137, 251 P. 907 ; Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 616-617, 328 P.2d 1 ; Estate of Crouch (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 801, 802, 49 Cal. Rptr. 926 ; see also § 65.39[5]].

(1) Does testator repose special confidence in ability, judgment, and integrity of attorney?

(2) Are heirs or devisees likely to object to dual compensation for attorney?

(3) Are both attorney and testator willing to submit will to independent counsel for review?

NOTE: Ethical problems that arise whenever an attorney draws a will naming himself or herself as executor [see § 65.100, P 5] will also be encountered when the attorney draws a will authorizing himself or herself to receive dual compensation. Thus, independent review of such a will before its execution may be appropriate in light of the requirement that the court must give prior approval of a dual compensation arrangement [see Prob. Code § 10804; see also §§ 65.200[1][c], 65.445[1][b][iii]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Compensation

116 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.128

§ 65.128 Exculpatory Provisions

1. Determine whether will should include provision relieving executor of liability.

NOTE: The effectiveness of will provisions relieving executors of liability is unsettled. It is likely, however, that such a provision will be effective to relieve an executor of liability to the estate and the devisees under the estate but not to third parties [see § 65.460[1][c][ii]]. In any event, a provision relieving a fiduciary of liability must be strictly construed [Corbett v. Benioff (1932) 126 Cal. app. 772, 776, 14 P.2d 1028].

a. Does testator repose trust and confidence in ability, judgment, and integrity of prospective executor and alternate executor?

b. Is it likely executor or alternate executor would decline to serve without some relief from liability?

NOTE: Unless the estate is small, its administration is likely to be complex and demanding. The grounds on which executors may be held liable for acts or omissions of agents and employees (and for their own acts and omissions) are numerous [see § 65.43]. Many persons are reluctant to serve in any fiduciary capacity without some protection against personal liability.

(1) Are devisees likely to quarrel about will provisions or steps to be taken in administration of estate?

(2) Are prospective executor and alternate executor also principal devisees under will?

c. Will prospective executor and alternate executor be adequately protected against personal liability by liability insurance?

NOTE: The executor's best protection against personal liability is liability insurance. In California, every executor has the power to insure the property of the estate against damage or loss and to insure himself or herself against liability to third persons [Prob. Code § 9656; see § 65.42[7]]. Some executors, however, may wish to have additional protection against personal liability.

2. If will should include provision relieving executor of liability, determine what provision it should include.

a. Should will relieve executor of liability for acts and omissions of agents and attorneys?

(1) Will executor require assistance of agents and employees?

(2) Does testator feel executor should not be personally liable for acts or omissions of agents, employees, and attorneys?

NOTE: A will may relieve the executor of liability for acts or omissions of agents, employees, and attorneys, provided reasonable care was used in their selection [see § 65.460].

b. Should will relieve executor of liability for own acts and omissions [see § 65.461 and comment]?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Claims By & Against Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Fiduciary Responsibilities

117 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations for Powers, Duties, and Compensation of Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.129-65.139

[Reserved]

§§ 65.129[Reserved]

118 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

NOTE:

All of the forms in this chapter are designed to be used as part of complete wills. They should be used only in conjunction with other will provisions set forth in Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, Ch. 62, Codicils, Ch. 63, Will Provisions, Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions, Ch. 64A, Testamentary Trusts: Trustee Provisions, and Ch. 64B, Testamentary Trusts: Administrative Provisions.

119 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.140

§ 65.140 Nominations

1. To nominate one executor only, use one of following forms:
  - a. § 65.200 to nominate individual executor [see § 65.100].
  - b. § 65.201 to nominate trust company [see § 65.101].
2. To nominate coexecutors [see § 65.102], use § 65.202.
3. To nominate alternate and successor executors [see § 65.103], use § 65.203.
4. To nominate ancillary executor [see § 65.104], use § 65.204.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsGeneral Overview

120 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.141

§ 65.141 Delegations of Authority to Nominate

1. To delegate authority to nominate executor [see § 65.105, P 1], use § 65.220.
2. To delegate authority to nominate alternate and successor executor [see § 65.105, P 2], use § 65.221.
3. To delegate authority to nominate executor from a class of persons [see § 65.105, P 3], use § 65.222.
4. To authorize executor to nominate ancillary executor [see § 65.105, P 4], use § 65.223.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

121 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.142

§ 65.142 Bonds

1. To waive bond for individual executor [see § 65.100, P 6], use § 65.240.

2. To waive bond for coexecutors [see §§ 65.100, P 6, 65.102, P 2], use § 65.241.

NOTE: No waiver is necessary if a trust company is nominated as the executor [see § 65.101], since trust companies are exempt from bond requirements [Prob. Code § 301(a); see § 65.101, P 3(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

122 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.143

§ 65.143 Powers

1. To grant executor investment powers [see § 65.120], use:
  - a. § 65.260 for broad grant of investment powers [see § 65.120, P 2(a)].
  - b. § 65.261 for power to make specified investments [see § 65.120, P 2(b)].
2. To provide that grant of investment power does not require exercise of power [see § 65.120, P 2(c)], use § 65.262.
3. To grant executor power to retain investment counsel [see § 65.120, P 2(d)], see § 65.263.
4. To grant executor power to sell estate property [see § 65.121, P 1], use:
  - a. § 65.280 for general power of sale.
  - b. § 65.281 for power to sell assets in foreign jurisdiction.
  - c. § 65.340 to grant ancillary executor power to sell, lease, and borrow.
5. To grant executor power to lease estate property [see § 65.121, P 2], use:
  - a. § 65.282 to grant executor power to lease.
  - b. § 65.340 to grant ancillary executor power to sell, lease, and borrow.

6. To grant executor power to retain particular asset or assets [see § 65.121, P 3], use § 65.283.
7. To grant executor power to continue operation of business or partnership interest [see § 65.121, P 4], use § 65.284.
8. To grant executor power to purchase estate assets for executor's own account [see § 65.121, P 5], use § 65.285.
9. To grant executor power to make expenditures to collect foreign assets [see § 65.121, P 6], use § 65.286.
10. To grant executor power to borrow money and encumber property [see § 65.122], use:
  - a. § 65.300 to grant executor power to borrow money and encumber property.
  - b. § 65.340 to grant ancillary executor power to sell, lease, and borrow.
11. To grant executor special tax powers [see § 65.123], use:
  - a. § 65.320 for power to take particular actions without regard to their tax consequences.
  - b. § 65.321 for power to allocate expense deductions between income tax and estate tax.
12. To grant administrator with will annexed same powers as executor [see § 65.121, P 7], use § 65.360.
13. To grant executor special distribution powers [see § 65.124], use:
  - a. § 65.380 to grant executor power to allocate and distribute property in kind [see § 65.124, P 1].
  - b. § 65.381 to grant executor power to pay devise for benefit of minor or incompetent devisees [see § 65.124, P 2].
  - c. § 65.382 to grant executor power to pay for costs of distributing estate assets [see § 65.124, P 3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Distribution Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Sales of Assets

123 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.144

§ 65.144 Directions

1. To direct executor to pay debt [see § 65.125, P 1], use § 65.400.
2. To direct executor to liquidate business [see § 65.125, P 2], use § 65.401.
3. To direct executor as to the sequence of sales of estate property [see § 65.125, P 3], use § 65.402.
4. To provide that trust company is to have custody of all money and personal property of estate and maintain all records and accounts for estate [see § 65.125, P 4], use § 65.403.
5. To direct ancillary executor to deliver residue of ancillary estate to domiciliary executor [see § 65.125, P 5], use § 65.404.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estate Administration
Claims Against Estates
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview

124 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.145

§ 65.145 Independent Administration

1. To direct that estate may be administered under Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592; see § 65.126], use § 65.421.

2. To direct that the estate may not be administered under Independent Administration of Estates Act, use § 65.420.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbateGeneral Overview

125 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.146

§ 65.146 Compensation

1. To make special provision for executor's compensation [see § 65.127], use:
  - a. § 65.440 to establish executor's compensation at fixed amount [see § 65.127, P 2(a)].
  - b. § 65.441 to provide that executor is to receive reasonable compensation [see § 65.127, P 2(b)].
  - c. § 65.442 to make devise to executor in lieu of compensation [see § 65.127, P 2(c)].
2. To make special provision for coexecutors' compensation, use:
  - a. § 65.443 to provide that trust company is to be compensated as if it were sole executor and individual executor is to receive no (or merely nominal) compensation [see § 65.127, P 2(d)].
  - b. § 65.444 to require a fractional division of commissions between trust company and individual coexecutor [see § 65.127, P 2(e)].
3. To authorize attorney to receive compensation both as executor and as attorney for executor [see § 65.127, P 2(f)], use § 65.445.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Compensation

126 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.147

§ 65.147 Exculpatory Provisions

1. To relieve executor of liability for acts and omissions of agents and attorneys [see § 65.128, P 2(a)], use § 65.460.
2. To relieve executor of liability for own acts and omissions [see § 65.128, P 2(b)], use § 65.461.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Claims By & Against Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Fiduciary Responsibilities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

127 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Drafting Guide to Will Provisions for Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.148-65.199

[Reserved]

§§ 65.148[Reserved]

128 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Nominations

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.200

§ 65.200 Nomination of Individual Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to nominate an individual as executor. For a nomination of a trust company as executor, see § 65.201. For a nomination of coexecutors, see § 65.202. For nomination of alternate and successor executors, see § 65.203. For nomination of an ancillary executor, see § 65.204.

[b] Executors

An executor is a personal representative [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.35[1]] who is nominated by the will of a decedent and appointed by the court to carry out the provisions of the decedent's will and dispose of the decedent's property according to law [see Prob. Code §§ 8400(a) (no power to administer estate until appointed), 8420 (appointment of person named as executor in will); Black's Law Dictionary 511 (5th ed. 1979)]. On appointment and qualification, an executor is entitled to the issuance of letters testamentary [see Prob. Code § 52 ("letters" defined)].

For functions and characteristics of the office of executor, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[c] Attorney as Executor

An attorney is competent to serve as executor of a client's will [see Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 616-617, 328 P.2d 1; Estate of Crouch (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 801, 802, 49 Cal. Rptr. 926]. Testators who repose special trust and confidence in their attorneys sometimes ask those attorneys to act as their executors. These requests raise special ethical problems. Any dealing between an attorney and a client whereby the attorney benefits will be strictly scrutinized for unfairness [Ritter v. State Bar (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 595, 221 Cal. Rptr. 134, 709 P.2d 1303; Clancy v. State Bar (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 140, 146, 77 Cal. Rptr. 657, 454 P.2d 329]. An attorney who acts as executor of a decedent's estate is held to the high standards of the legal profession, even when not acting in the capacity of attorney. While acting as executor, the attorney must maintain proper books and records and must not commingle funds. Failure to provide proper accounting for entrusted funds is cause for professional discipline, whether or not financial loss results [ Ridge v. State Bar (1989) 47 Cal. 3d 952, 961, 254 Cal. Rptr. 803, 766 P.2d 569 ]. In addition, the Rules of Professional Conduct prohibit every attorney from knowingly acquiring a pecuniary interest adverse to a client unless each of the following requirements has been satisfied [ Cal. Rules of Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-300 ]:

- (1) The acquisition and its terms are fair and reasonable to the client and are fully disclosed and transmitted in writing to the client in a manner which should reasonably have been understood by the client;
- (2) The client is advised in writing that the client may seek the advice of an independent lawyer of the client's choice and is given a reasonable opportunity to seek that advice; and
- (3) The client thereafter consents in writing to the terms of the acquisition.

An inference of undue influence may be drawn when an attorney drafts a will from which he or she will profit personally [ see Magee v. State Bar (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 423, 429, 24 Cal. Rptr. 839, 374 P.2d 807 (inference of undue influence when attorney receives gift from client under circumstances that reasonably suggest such influence); Estate of Lind (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1424, 1430, 257 Cal. Rptr. 853 (when elderly testator executed will naming attorney as executor and giving him one-half of entire estate, presumption of undue influence arose, shifting burden to attorney to show no undue influence)]. An attorney should accept nomination as executor only if the attorney is personally convinced that his or her acceptance of the nomination would be fair and reasonable to the client under all the circumstances and only if, before executing the will, the client has been given a reasonable opportunity to seek the advice of independent counsel of the client's choice [ see Magee v. State Bar (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 423, 433, 24 Cal. Rptr. 839, 374 P.2d 807 (residuary gift to attorney)]. Review of the will by independent counsel is particularly important if the will makes a devise to the attorney. In addition, when the will authorizes the attorney to receive compensation both as executor and as attorney for the executor, obtaining independent counsel may be appropriate because, notwithstanding any provision in the decedent's will, the court must approve a dual compensation arrangement and find that the arrangement is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the decedent's estate [ see Prob. Code § 10804; see also 65.445[1]].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Individual Executor

Executor

I nominate _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my husband], _____ [name] , of _____ [place] , as Executor of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

129 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Nominations

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.201

§ 65.201 Nomination of Trust Company as Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to nominate a trust company as executor. For a nomination of an individual executor, see § 65.200. For a nomination of coexecutors, see § 65.202. For nomination of alternate and successor executors, see § 65.203. For nomination of an ancillary executor, see § 65.204.

For functions and characteristics of the office of executor, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[b] Trust Company as Executor

A trust company may be appointed to act as an executor in the same manner as an individual [Prob. Code § 300; see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also Fin. Code § 107, Prob. Code § 83 ("trust company" defined)]. In addition to their exemption from bond requirements [see Prob. Code § 301(a) (trust company appointed to act as personal representative may not be required to give a bond)], trust companies present other advantages. They are professional fiduciaries and have professional staffs who are experienced in estate administration and such matters as investment and accounting. Moreover, trust companies have a measure of permanence and stability that individuals executors do not have. If the will nominates a trust company as executor and the trust company later sells its business and assets to another trust company, the court may (and to the extent required by Division 1 of the Banking Law [Fin. Code §§ 99-3904] it must) appoint the successor trust company as executor [Prob. Code § 8423]. The same rule applies when the trust company nominated in the will consolidates or merges with another trust company or is in any other manner provided by law succeeded by another trust company [Prob. Code § 8423]. If the trust company or its assets are sold, consolidated, or merged after it has been appointed as executor, the successor trust company succeeds by operation of law and without further transfer to the executorship and all rights and duties under it [Fin. Code § 2073]. Although it is not strictly necessary to nominate a successor to a trust company [for nomination of successor and alternative executors, see § 65.203], it is advisable to do so, since any executor may decline to serve [see Prob. Code § 8001].

(waiver of right to appointment by failure to petition for appointment)] or, after accepting appointment, resign the office [see Prob. Code §§ 8520 (vacancy occurs when personal representative resigns), 10952 (duty to account after resignation)].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Trust Company as Executor

Executor

I nominate _____ [full name of qualified trust company], of _____ [place] , or its successors or assigns, as Executor of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

130 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Nominations

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.202

§ 65.202 Nomination of Coexecutors

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to nominate coexecutors. For nomination of an individual executor, see § 65.200. For nomination of a trust company as executor, see § 65.201. For nomination of alternate and successor executors, see § 65.203. For a direction that a trust company serving as coexecutor have custody of all personal property and maintain all records for the estate, see § 65.403. For provisions apportioning compensation among coexecutors, see § 65.443 and 65.444.

For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[b] Coexecutors

When there are two executors, both must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 9630(a)(1)]; and when there are more than two, a majority must concur [Prob. Code § 9630(a)(2)]. The powers and duties of coexecutors are subject to special rules set forth in the Probate Code [see Prob. Code §§ 9630 (authority of joint personal representatives to act), 9631 (liability of joint personal representative for breach of duty by another personal representative)]. For a general consideration of these rules, see §§ 65.42[12], 65.44.

[2] FORM

Nomination of Coexecutors

Coexecutors

I nominate _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my brother], _____ [name] , of _____ [place] , and _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my sister], _____ [name] , of _____ [place] , as coexecutors of this will. As used in this will, the term "Executor" includes coexecutors and any other personal representative or representatives of my estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

131 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Nominations

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.203

§ 65.203 Nomination of Alternate and Successor Executors

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to nominate alternate and successor executors. For a nomination of an individual executor, see § 65.200. For a nomination of a trust company as executor, see § 65.201. For nomination of coexecutors, see § 65.202. For nomination of an ancillary executor, see § 65.204. For a provision authorizing the executor named in the will to nominate an alternate and successor executor, see the second alternative provision to § 65.400.

For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[b] Alternate and Successor Executors

The will should nominate one or more alternate and successor executors to serve in the event the person named as executor fails to qualify or ceases to serve as executor. If the will does not name a successor or alternate, the court must appoint an administrator with the will annexed [see Prob. Code §§ 8440 (appointment of administrator with will annexed if all executors named in will are unwilling or unable to act), 8522(a)(duty of court to appoint successor when office of personal representative is vacant); see also Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)]. Persons are generally entitled to appointment as administrator with the will annexed in the same order of priority as in the appointment of administrators [Prob. Code § 8441(a)]. A person who takes under the will has priority over a person who does not, although the court in its discretion may give priority to a person who does not take under the will if the person is entitled to a statutory interest that is a substantially greater portion of the estate than the devise to the person who takes under the will and the priority appears appropriate under the circumstances [Prob. Code § 8441(b)]; see § 65.35[5]].

Like other personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)], alternate and successor representatives are required to post bonds [Prob. Code § 8480] unless a bond is waived in the will or by all of the beneficiaries [Prob. Code § 8481(a); see § 65.40[1]].

Although it is not strictly necessary to nominate alternate or successor executors when a trust company has been nominated as the principal executor [for nomination of trust company as executor, see § 65.201], it is advisable to do so, since any executor may decline to serve [see Prob. Code § 8001 (waiver of right to appointment by failure to petition for appointment)] or, after accepting appointment, resign the office [see Prob. Code §§ 8520 (vacancy occurs when personal representative resigns), 10952 (duty to account after resignation)].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Alternate and Successor Executors

Alternate and Successor Executor(s)

[First alternative: use if only one executor is named in nomination clause:]

If, for any reason, _____ [name of person nominated as executor] fails to qualify or ceases to act as Executor, I nominate _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my brother], _____ [name], of _____ [place], as Executor of this will.

[Second alternative: use if coexecutors are named in nomination clause:]

If, for any reason, either of the coexecutors _____ [named in this will or named in Paragraph _____ of this will] fails to qualify or ceases to act as coexecutor, I nominate the other coexecutor as sole Executor of this will. If both of the coexecutors fail to qualify or cease to act as coexecutor or executor, I nominate _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my nephew], _____ [name], as Executor of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

132 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Nominations

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.204

§ 65.204 Nomination of Ancillary Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to nominate an ancillary executor. For nomination of an individual executor, see § 65.200. For nomination of a trust company as executor, see § 65.201. For nomination of coexecutors, see § 65.202. For nomination of alternate and successor executors, see § 65.203. For a provision authorizing the executor to nominate an ancillary executor, see § 65.223. For a provision directing the ancillary executor to deliver the residue of the ancillary estate to the domiciliary executor, see § 65.404.

For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[b] Ancillary Executors

[i] In General

Ancillary administration is administration of a decedent's estate in a state in which the decedent left property but in which he or she was not domiciled at the time of death [Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed., 1979), p. 78; see Prob. Code § 12501 ("ancillary administration" defined)]. Ancillary administration is made necessary by the existence of property belonging to a decedent in a nondomiciliary state, and it is ordinarily governed by the law of the nondomiciliary state [see § 65.34[1]]. An executor appointed to administer assets located in a nondomiciliary state is referred as an ancillary executor.

Administration of property owned by a nondomiciliary decedent [see Prob. Code § 12505 ("nondomiciliary decedent" defined)] is called "ancillary" only to distinguish it from the administration of property owned by a domiciliary decedent. Ancillary administration is wholly independent of any administration in the domiciliary state and proceeds according to the same rules as the administration of other estates [Richards v. Blaisdell (1909) 12 Cal. app. 101, 110, 106 P. 732 ; see Prob. Code §§ 12524 (will admitted to probate under ancillary administration provisions of Probate Code has same force and effect as will of domiciliary), 12530 (ancillary administration of nondomiciliary's estate in California subject to all estate administration provisions of Probate Code)].

Ancillary administration proceedings in California are governed by rules set forth in the Probate Code [see Prob. Code §§ 12510-12542]. Under those rules, the will of a nondomiciliary decedent that is admitted to probate in California has the same force and effect as the will of a person who dies while domiciled in the state [Prob. Code § 12524]. If the nondomiciliary decedent left a will that has been admitted to probate in another state or country, the will is entitled to automatic recognition in California [see Prob. Code § 12521; see also discussion, below] if the requirements of Probate Code Sections 12520-12524 are satisfied [see § 65.34[2]]. California does not, however, recognize the authority of executors appointed in other states or countries unless they have also been appointed in California [Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(b) (authority of personal representative does not extend beyond jurisdiction of government under which representative was invested with authority); see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)].

[ii] Nominations

The executor nominated in a California will may be appointed as ancillary executor in another state. Thus it is not necessary to name a different ancillary executor. However, a California executor may experience difficulty in administering the ancillary estate. If the value of the estate is not large, travel to and from the other state may be prohibitively expensive. Further, a California executor may be unfamiliar with the business practices and laws of the other state. In almost all cases, local counsel will have to be retained to assist the executor in the ancillary administration. Some California testators may have friends, relatives, or business associates in other states who would be competent to undertake the responsibilities of ancillary administration. Under all of the circumstances, the testator may find it prudent to nominate a different person as ancillary executor.

[2] FORM

Nomination of Ancillary Executor

Ancillary Executor

If, at the time of my death, I have an ancillary estate, I nominate _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my cousin], _____ [name] , of _____ [place] , as Ancillary Executor of this will, to take charge of and administer my ancillary estate according to the terms of this will. I give my Executor, in my Executor's sole and absolute discretion, the power, right, and authority to cause ancillary administration to be commenced, carried on, and completed; to determine what assets, if any, are to be sold by the Ancillary Executor; to advance funds from my domiciliary estate for the payment of (or to pay directly) any and all claims, taxes, costs, and expenses of administration (including compensation of the Ancillary Executor and attorneys' fees) incurred in or by reason of the administration of my ancillary estate. As used in this will, "ancillary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration outside the State of California, and "domiciliary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration in California.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbateAncillary ProceedingsEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsGeneral Overview

133 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Nominations

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.205-65.219

[Reserved]

§§ 65.205[Reserved]

134 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Delegations of Authority to Nominate

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.220

§ 65.220 Provision Delegating Authority to Nominate Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to delegate authority to nominate an executor. For a provision delegating authority to nominate an alternate and successor executor, see § 65.221. For a provision delegating authority to nominate an executor from a designated class of persons, see § 65.222. For basic will provisions nominating executors, see § 65.200-65.202.

For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[b] Delegation of Authority to Nominate Executor

The will may confer on one or more persons the power to designate an executor, coexecutor, or successor executor [Prob. Code § 8422(a)]. The will may also provide that the person designated may serve without bond [Prob. Code § 8422(a)].

Unless the will provides otherwise, two or more holders of the power to designate an executor must make a unanimous selection [Prob. Code § 8422(b)]. If, however, one of the designators is unable or unwilling to act, the remaining designator or designators may act in his or her absence [Prob. Code § 8422(b)]. Unless the will confers the power of designation on the executor, an executor has no power to designate a coexecutor or successor executor [Prob. Code § 8422(c)].

A testator who wishes his or her estate to be administered by a particular officer whose name cannot be known at the time the will is executed may properly designate the authority to nominate the executor to another person. If, for example, the testator wishes his or her estate to be administered by the president of a college and cannot predict who the president will be after his or her death may choose to authorize a third person to nominate the president by name [see

Comment, "Administration of Estates; Designation of Executor," 4 Pacific L.J. 231 (1973)].

When the will has authorized some person or persons to designate an executor, the designation must be in writing and filed with the court [Prob. Code § 8422(b)].

[2] FORM

Provision Delegating Authority to Nominate Executor

Nomination of Executor

I hereby confer on _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my cousin], _____
[name] , of _____ [place] , the power to nominate the Executor of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Appointment
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General Overview

135 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Delegations of Authority to Nominate

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.221

§ 65.221 Provision Delegating Authority to Nominate Alternate and Successor Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to delegate authority to nominate an alternate and successor executor. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first may be used to authorize a named person to nominate an alternate and successor executor. The second may be used to nominate an executor and to authorize that executor to nominate an alternate and successor executor.

For a basic will provision nominating alternate and successor executors, see § 65.203. For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36.

[b] Delegation of Authority to Nominate Alternate and Successor Executor

The will may authorize one or more persons to designate a successor executor or coexecutor [Prob. Code § 8422(a)]. For a general discussion of delegations of authority to nominate executors, coexecutors, and successors executors, see the comment to § 65.220.

[2] FORM

Provision Delegating Authority to Nominate Alternate and Successor Executor

[First alternative: named person to nominate alternate and successor executor:]

Alternate and Successor Executor

I hereby confer on _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my cousin], _____ [name], of _____ [place], the power to nominate an alternate or successor Executor to serve in the event that _____ [person nominated as primary executor] shall, for any reason, fail to qualify or cease to act as Executor. As used in this will, "Executor" includes any alternate and successor Executor nominated by _____ [name] pursuant to the authority conferred by this paragraph.

[Second alternative: executor to nominate alternate and successor executor:]

Executor

I nominate _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my husband], _____ [name], of _____ [place], as Executor of this will. If, for any reason, _____ [he or she] fails to qualify or ceases to act as Executor, I authorize _____ [him or her] to nominate a successor and alternative Executor. If, for any reason, _____ [he or she] shall fail to nominate an alternate or successor executor, then I nominate _____ [name] as Executor of this will. As used in this will, "Executor" includes any successor or alternative executor, whether nominated by _____ [name of executor named first above] pursuant to the authority conferred by this paragraph, or by me.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

136 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

B. Delegations of Authority to Nominate

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.222§ 65.222 Provision Delegating Authority to Nominate Executor From Class of Persons[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to delegate authority to nominate an executor from a designated class of persons. For a provision delegating authority to nominate an executor without designating the class of persons from which the nomination is to be made, see § 65.220. For a provision delegating authority to nominate an alternate and successor executor, see § 65.221.

For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36. For a general discussion of delegations of authority to nominate executors, coexecutors, and successors executors, see § 65.220[1].

[2] FORM*Provision Delegating Authority to Nominate Executor From Class of Persons

Nomination of Executor

I hereby confer on _____ [state relationship, if any, e.g., my cousin], _____
 [name], of _____ [place], the power to nominate the Executor of this will from among _____ [designate class, e.g., persons related to me by blood or my issue] who are legally qualified to act as an executor. _____ [name] shall not have the power to nominate an Executor who is not _____ [e.g., related to me by blood or my issue].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal
Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

137 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Delegations of Authority to Nominate

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.223

§ 65.223 Provision Authorizing Executor to Nominate Ancillary Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to nominate an ancillary executor. For a will provision nominating an ancillary executor, see § 65.204. For provisions delegating authority to nominate an executor, see § 65.220 and 65.222. For a provision delegating authority to nominate an alternate and successor executor, see § 65.221. For will provisions relating to the powers of ancillary executors, see § 65.340 and 65.341. For a provision directing the ancillary executor to deliver the residue of the ancillary estate to the domiciliary executor, see § 65.404.

For the functions and characteristics of executors, see § 65.35[2]. For requisites of a valid nomination, see § 65.37. For qualifications of executors, see § 65.36. For a general discussion of delegations of authority to nominate executors, coexecutors, and successors executors, see the comment to § 65.220. For a general consideration of ancillary administration, see § 65.34.

[2] FORM

Provision Authorizing Executor to Nominate Ancillary Executor

Nomination of Ancillary Executor

If, at the time of my death, I have an ancillary estate, I confer on my Executor the power to designate an Ancillary Executor to take charge of and administer my ancillary estate according to the terms of this will. I give my Executor, in my Executor's sole and absolute discretion, the power, right, and authority to cause ancillary administration to be commenced, carried on, and completed; to determine what assets, if any, are to be sold by the Ancillary Executor; to advance funds from my domiciliary estate for the payment of (or to pay directly) any and all claims, taxes, costs, and expenses of administration (including compensation of the Ancillary Executor and attorneys' fees) incurred in or by reason of the administration of my ancillary estate. As used in this will, "ancillary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration outside the State of California, and "domiciliary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration in California.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Ancillary Proceedings Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

138 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

B. Delegations of Authority to Nominate

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.224-65.239

[Reserved]

§§ 65.224[Reserved]

139 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Bonds

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.240

§ 65.240 Waiver of Bond--Individual Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to relieve an individual executor of the obligation to post a bond. For a will provision relieving coexecutors of the obligation to post bonds, see § 65.241.

[b] Executors' Bonds

Executors, like other personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)], are required to give bonds (or undertakings) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.210(a)] (undertaking may be given in place of bond) conditioned on the faithful execution of the duties of their office according to law [Prob. Code § 8480(a), (b)]. If the executor fails to give the required bond, letters may not be issued [Prob. Code § 8480(c); see Prob. Code § 52 ("letters" defined)].

A bond is not required in any of the following circumstances:

- (1) If the executor is a trust company [Prob. Code § 301(a); see Prob. Code § 83, Fin. Code § 107 ("trust company" defined)];
- (2) If all beneficiaries waive in writing the requirement of a bond and the written waivers are attached to the petition for the appointment of a personal representative [Prob. Code § 8481(a)(2); see Prob. Code § 24 ("beneficiary" defined)];
- (3) If the will waives the requirement of a bond [Prob. Code § 8481(a)(1)].

Notwithstanding the waiver of a bond by the will or by all of the beneficiaries, the court may require that a bond be given, either before or after issuance of letters, if it finds good cause to require one [Prob. Code § 8481(b)].

Since a provision waiving bond will save the expense of bond premiums, it is common to include such a provision in the will. If the executor is the sole devisee under the will or if the executor is a person in whom the testator reposes confidence and trust, waiving bond is ordinarily advisable. In other circumstances, however, careful consideration should be given to waiving bond. If the executor is young and inexperienced in business matters, or if the executor is not a member of the testator's family while the principal devisees are relatives, a bond may serve the useful function of insulating the devisees against any risk of loss in the course of administration.

For further consideration of executors' bonds, see § 65.40.

[3] FORM

Waiver of Bond--Individual Executor

Waiver of Bond

[First alternative: no bond required of executor nominated in will:]

No bond shall be required of any Executor named in this will.

[Second alternative: no bond required of executor, whether nominated in will or pursuant to delegation of authority to nominate:]

No bond shall be required of my Executor, whether nominated in this will or nominated pursuant to any authority conferred by this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

140 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Bonds

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.241

§ 65.241 Waiver of Bond--Coexecutors

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to relieve coexecutors of the obligation to post bonds. For a provision relieving an individual executor of the obligation to post a bond, see § 65.240. For a will provision nominating coexecutors, see § 65.203.

For a general consideration of executors' bonds and will provisions waving the requirement of a bond, see discussions under §§ 65.40 and 65.240[1][b].

[2] FORM

Waiver of Bond--Coexecutors

Waiver of Bond

No bond shall be required of any Executor named in this will, whether acting jointly or severally in the administration of my estate. As used in this will, the word "Executor" includes coexecutors, whether nominated in this will or nominated pursuant to authority conferred by this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Appointment Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

141 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Bonds

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.242-65.259

[Reserved]

§§ 65.242[Reserved]

142 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

1. Investment

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.260

§ 65.260 Power to Invest--General Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to confer investment powers on the executor. For a provision authorizing the executor to invest in a specified investment, see § 65.261. For a provision stating that the grant to the executor of a power of investment does not require the executor to exercise the power, see § 65.262. For a power to retain investment counsel, see § 65.263.

[b] Investments by Executors

[i] Statutory Powers

Every executor has the duty to keep all cash in his or her possession invested in interest-bearing accounts or other investments authorized by law [Prob. Code § 9652(a)]. However, this requirement does not apply to the amount of cash that is reasonably necessary for the orderly administration of the estate [Prob. Code § 9652(b)]; nor does it apply if the will provides otherwise [Prob. Code § 9652(c)].

The executor has the power to make certain investments without prior court approval [see Prob. Code § 9730] and others only on court order [see Prob. Code §§ 9731-9737]. Court orders are not required to invest estate assets in any of the following:

- Direct obligations of the United States or the State of California maturing not later than one year from the date of making the investment [Prob. Code § 9730(a)];
- Money market funds or any of certain collective investments, such as common trust funds maintained by banks, and retirement, pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, and other trust funds [Prob.

Code § 9730(b); see 12 C.F.R. § 9.18]; and

- Units of certain common trust funds [Prob. Code § 9730(c); see Fin. Code § 1564].

Investments in other government securities (state or federal) are permitted only with a court order and only on a showing that the investment is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9731].

[ii] Will Provisions

If the will authorizes specific investments not authorized by statute, the court may order that estate money be invested as authorized by the will, but only if the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 9732(a)]:

- The time for filing claims has expired;
- The court is satisfied that all uncontested claims have been or will be paid, either because there is sufficient cash in the estate (other than the cash proposed to be invested) to pay them, or because the claims are secured, or otherwise; and
- The estate is not in a condition to be finally distributed.

[iii] Purchase of Annuity

If the will directs the executor to purchase an annuity [see Prob. Code § 6154(e) ("annuity" defined)] or makes other provisions for periodic payments to a devisee, the executor may purchase an annuity from an insurer authorized to do business in California, but only after the court has found good cause for the purchase [Prob. Code § 9733; for will provisions for annuities, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, §§ 63.508-63.510]. The executor may exercise options [Prob. Code § 9734] and subscription rights [Prob. Code § 9737] belonging to the estate, and may purchase any securities or commodities required to perform an incomplete contract made by the decedent [Prob. Code § 9735], but only after court authorization.

[2] FORM

Power to Invest--General Form

Investments

I authorize my Executor to invest and reinvest any property forming part of my estate in any kind of property, real, personal, or mixed, and in any kind of investment, specifically including (but not by way of limitation) obligations of every kind, stocks (common or preferred), and bonds. When investing, reinvesting, purchasing, acquiring, exchanging, selling, and managing property of my estate, my Executor shall act with the care, skill, prudence, and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing (including but not limited to the general economic conditions and the anticipated needs of the estate and its beneficiaries) that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of like character and with like aims to accomplish the purposes set forth in this will. In the course of investing and reinvesting pursuant to this power, my Executor shall consider individual investments as part of an overall investment strategy.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal

Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

143 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

1. Investment

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.261

§ 65.261 Power to Invest--Specified Investment

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to make a specified investment. For rules relating to the investment powers of executors, see §§ 65.260[1][b][i], 65.260[1][b][ii].

For a general provision conferring investment powers on the executor, see § 65.260. For a provision stating that the grant to the executor of a power of investment does not require the executor to exercise the power, see § 65.262. For a power to retain investment counsel, see § 65.263.

[2] FORM

Power to Invest--Specified Investment

Investments

I authorize my Executor to invest and reinvest any property belonging to my estate in _____ [specify investment, e.g., shares of the common stock of American Telephone and Telegraph Company].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

144 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

1. Investment

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.262

§ 65.262 Power to Invest--Grant of Power Does Not Require Exercise of Power

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to state that the grant to the executor of a power of investment does not require the executor to exercise the power. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first is designed to constitute a separate paragraph of the will. The second is designed to be incorporated into and form a part of the investment paragraph of the will. The form makes it clear that the grant to the executor of a power to invest does not require the executor to exercise the power. So that the executor will have the flexibility necessary to make decisions based on current conditions, an investment power should not be equated with an investment duty.

For rules relating to the investment powers of executors, see §§ 65.42[1], 65.260[b][i] and succeeding headings in § 65.260[1]. For a general provision conferring investment powers on the executor, see § 65.260. For a provision authorizing the executor to invest in a specified investment, see § 65.261. For a power to retain investment counsel, see § 65.263.

[2] FORM

Power to Invest--Grant of Power Does Not Require Exercise of Power

[First alternative provision: separate paragraph:]

Grant of Power Does Not Require Exercise of Power

Notwithstanding the investment power conferred on my Executor in [Paragraph _____ of] this will, the grant of that power shall not be deemed to require my Executor to exercise the power.

[Second alternative provision: part of investment paragraph:]

However, the grant of this power [to invest] shall not be deemed to require my Executor to exercise the power.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

145 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

1. Investment

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.263

§ 65.263 Power to Retain Investment Counsel

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to retain professional investment counsel and to pay his or her fees as expenses of administration. For rules relating to the investment powers of executors, see §§ 65.42[1], 65.260[b][i] and succeeding headings in § 65.260[1]. For will provisions conferring investment powers on the executor, see §§ 65.260 and 65.31. For a provision stating that the grant to the executor of an investment power does not require exercise of the power, see § 65.262.

[b] Investment Counsel

Unless the will provides otherwise [see Prob. Code § 9652(c)], the executor's only investment duties are to keep all cash (except such cash as is necessary for the orderly administration of the estate) invested in interest-bearing accounts or other investments authorized by law [Prob. Code § 9652(a), (b)]. If the will directs the executor to make other investments, a provision authorizing the executor to employ investment counsel may serve a useful purpose.

Investment counsel will not generally be necessary unless it is expected that the estate will include a large amount of cash (or cash equivalents) that will have to be invested during the period of administration and the person chosen to serve as executor does not have sufficient investment knowledge or experience to make large investments without professional advice. For this purpose, a "cash equivalent" is an asset that is likely to be converted into cash before the estate is closed. Assets that can be considered cash equivalents are thus short-term money market instruments, such as United States Treasury bills, United States Treasury notes or bonds that are expected to mature while the estate is in administration, and other similar security instruments.

[2] FORM

Power to Retain Investment Counsel

I authorize my Executor, with or without court approval, to employ professional investment counsel to assist _____ [him or her] in the investment of assets of my estate. The fees of any investment counsel employed by my Executor shall be expenses of the administration of my estate. However, the grant of this power to my Executor shall not be deemed to require _____ [him or her] to exercise it.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

146 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

1. Investment

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.264-65.279

[Reserved]

§§ 65.264[Reserved]

147 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.280

§ 65.280 Power of Sale--General Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to sell estate property. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first may be used to authorize the executor to sell all or any property belonging to the estate. The second alternative may be used to authorize the executor to sell a specified asset or assets only.

For a power to sell estate assets located in a foreign jurisdiction, see § 65.281. For a power to lease estate property, see § 65.282. For a provision directing the testator to sell assets in a specified order, see § 65.402. For a general consideration of the powers of executors to sell estate property, see § 65.42[8].

[b] Power to Sell Estate Property

[i] In General

Executors have broad authority to sell estate property, even in the absence of will provisions conferring that authority. Thus an executor may sell property whenever sale is necessary to pay debts, devisees, family allowances, expenses of administration, or taxes [Prob. Code § 10000(a)] or when sale is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 10000(b)]. In addition, property may be sold whenever the will directs [Prob. Code § 10000(c)] or authorizes [Prob. Code § 10000(d)] its sale.

[ii] Will Provisions

While not strictly necessary, a will provision empowering an executor to sell property may serve a useful purpose. First, such a provision will make the intentions of the testator respecting sales clear and help to avoid disputes about the propriety of any proposed sale. Second, it will relieve the executor of the obligation to show necessity or advantage as a prerequisite to a sale [Prob. Code § 10000(c), (d); see Prob. Code § 10000(a), (b)]. Finally, it will excuse the executor from the obligation of giving notice of sale [see Prob. Code §§ 10250 (personal property), 10300, 10301 (real property)]. When the will directs or authorizes sale, the executor may sell property with or without notice, as the executor sees fit [Prob. Code § 10252(a), (b) (personal property); Prob. Code § 10303(a), (b) (real property)].

[c] Directing Sale of Specific Asset or Assets

A will provision empowering the executor to sell a specified asset or assets may be desirable in certain circumstances. If a single asset (e.g., the testator's residence) constitutes a major part of the estate and if the testator has reason to believe that there will be insufficient cash on hand to pay claims, expenses, and taxes without selling that asset, the testator may empower the executor to sell that asset only, and may direct that other assets not be sold.

[2] FORM

Power of Sale--General Form

Power of Sale

[First alternative: power to sell any property of estate:]

I authorize my Executor to sell, at either public or private sale and with or without notice, [add if desired, and to grant options to purchase,] any property belonging to my estate, subject only to any confirmation of court required by law.

[Second alternative: power to sell specific asset(s) of estate:]

I authorize my Executor to sell, at either public or private sale and with or without notice, [add if desired, and to grant options to purchase,] the following asset(s) of my estate: _____ [describe asset(s) to be sold, e.g., my residence, consisting of the house and lot generally known as 101 Shadylawn Avenue, Smalltown, California 00001, and my 1988 Chrysler Eagle automobile]. [To direct executor not to sell other assets, add, I direct my Executor not to sell any other assets of my estate.]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Sales of Assets Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

148 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.281

§ 65.281 Power of Sale-- Assets in Foreign Jurisdiction

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to sell estate assets located in a foreign jurisdiction. For a general power of sale, see § 65.280. For a power to lease estate property, see § 65.282. For a will provision directing the testator to sell assets in a specified order, see § 65.402.

[b] Power to Sell Assets in Foreign Jurisdiction

A will provision empowering the executor to sell assets in a foreign jurisdiction may be effective to avoid ancillary administration of property located in that jurisdiction [see § 65.34; see also § 65.204[1]]. Whether property in a foreign jurisdiction can be sold by an executor in California without the necessity of ancillary administration depends on the law of the foreign jurisdiction.

California law does not permit an executor appointed in a foreign jurisdiction to sell property located in California [Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(b) (authority of foreign executor or administrator does not extend beyond jurisdiction of government under which he or she was invested with authority)]. However, some states permit sales of property by foreign executors under various circumstances.

[2] FORM

Power of Sale--Assets in Foreign Jurisdiction

I authorize my Executor to sell, at either public or private sale and with or without notice, [add if desired, and to grant options to purchase,] any property belonging to my estate situated outside the State of California, to the extent that the law of the jurisdiction of situs does not prevent such sale [or option]. The proceeds of any sale [or option] of assets situated outside the State of California shall be distributed by my Executor in accordance with the provisions of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Sales of Assets Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

149 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.282

§ 65.282 Power to Lease

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to lease real property belonging to the estate. For a power to sell estate assets, see § 65.280. For a power to sell estate assets located in a foreign jurisdiction, see § 65.281. For a will provision directing the testator to sell assets in a specified order, see § 65.402.

[b] Leases

[i] In General

If it is to the advantage of the estate, the executor has power to lease real property belonging to the estate without authorization when [Prob. Code § 9941]:

- (1) The term does not exceed one year and the rental does not exceed $5,000 a month; or
- (2) The lease is from month to month, regardless of the amount of the rental.

In all other cases, the executor may lease estate property only on a showing of advantage to the estate [Prob. Code § 9943(a)(3)] and order of the court [Prob. Code § 9942(a); see § 65.42[9]].

[ii] Effect of Will Provision Granting Authority

A will provision authorizing the executor to lease property will probably add little to the authority granted to executors by statute. The statutes do not authorize leases for terms longer than one year and with rentals exceeding $5,000 a month without court approval, even when the will grants the executor power to lease [see Prob. Code § 9941; see also § 65.42[9]]. However, a will provision empowering the executor to lease property may help to show advantage to the estate and thus strengthen any petition for a court order.

[2] FORM

Power to Lease

I authorize my Executor to lease all or any part of the real or personal property belonging to my estate on such terms as my Executor deems proper, subject only to any confirmation of court required by law.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

150 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.283

§ 65.283 Power to Retain Assets

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to retain estate assets. For power to continue the operation of businesses (or interests in businesses) owned by the testator, see § 65.284.

[b] Retaining Estate Assets

Executors may incur liability for losses resulting from improper retention of estate assets. Every executor has the duty to take reasonable steps to preserve the assets of the estate and, if necessary, to take affirmative steps to prevent deterioration in value [ Estate of Beach (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 623, 639, 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994, cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1046; Estate of King (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 354, 358, 121 P.2d 716 ]. In discharging this duty, as in discharging other duties, the executor is required to act with ordinary care and diligence [Prob. Code § 9600(a); see § 65.41[1]]. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence must be determined by all the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a)].

If the testator wishes the executor to retain a particular asset (e.g., shares of stock of a particular corporation) that might decline in value during administration, a will provision authorizing the executor to retain the assets will protect the executor from liability if the assets do in fact decline. Such a will provision is one of the "circumstances" that may be considered in determining when the trustee has acted with ordinary care and diligence [see Prob. Code § 9600(a)].

[2] FORM

Power to Retain Assets

I authorize my Executor to retain any property of my estate for as long as my Executor considers proper. My Executor shall not be liable for any loss resulting from any property so retained.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

151 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.284

§ 65.284 Power to Continue Business or Partnership Interest

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to continue the operation of a business owned by the testator. It includes two alternatives. The first may be used if the executor is to operate a sole proprietorship business only. The second may be used if the executor is to have authority both to operate a sole proprietorship business and to continue as partner in a business held in partnership form. For a contract provision permitting a deceased partner's personal representative to become a new general partner and continue the decedent's interest in the partnership during administration of the estate, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships, § 15.255.

For a general consideration of the power of executors to operate businesses and continue partnerships interests owned by estates, see § 65.42[2]. For a will provision directing the executor to liquidate a business, see § 65.401.

[b] Power to Continue Operation of Business

[i] Sole Proprietorships

If it is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [see Prob. Code § 48 ("interested person" defined)], the executor may continue the operation of a business owned by the testator as a sole proprietor for a period of six months from the date letters are first issued [Prob. Code § 9760(b)]. Operation of a business beyond six months is permissible only if a court order has been obtained authorizing continued operation [Prob. Code § 9760(b); see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.461].

[ii] Partnership Interests

The Probate Code empowers the executor to continue as a general or limited partner in any partnership in which the testator was a general partner at the time of death, but only after court order on a showing that it would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the interested persons [Prob. Code § 9762(a)]. If there is a written partnership agreement permitting the executor to participate as a partner, the executor will have the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided in the agreement, except as otherwise ordered by the court [Prob. Code § 9762(b); see Prob. Code § 9762(a) (power of court to specify terms and conditions of executor's participation); see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships, § 15.255[1][b]]. If there is no written partnership agreement, the court must specify what rights, powers, duties, and obligations the executor will have [Prob. Code § 9762(c)].

[iii] Will Provisions

A will provision is probably ineffective to authorize operation of a business beyond six months (or to authorize continuation of a partnership interest for any period) without court order. Under former Prob. Code § 572 (repealed effective July 1, 1988), an executor could, with or without court order, continue the operation of a business owned by the estate without risking personal liability if the will authorized him or her to do so [Estate of Ward (1932) 127 Cal. app. 347, 353-354, 15 P.2d 901 ; see California Emp. etc. Com. v. Hansen (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 767, 770 ; Estate of Burke (1926) 198 Cal. 163, 166, 244 P. 340 (discussing personal liability of executor)]. However, Prob. Code § 9760 now expressly requires a court order for any operation of a sole proprietorship business beyond six months. Similarly, Prob. Code § 9762 requires a court order for any continuation of a partnership interest, whether within or beyond six months. Neither section authorizes the testator to relieve the executor of the necessity of obtaining a court order.

As a practical matter, it is doubtful that any executor would be willing to operate a business or to continue as partner in a partnership business without express statutory or court authority to do so. A will provision authorizing the executor to operate a business may nevertheless serve a useful purpose by clearly stating the testator's intentions in the matter. A clear statement of the testator's intentions may help to resolve any disputes as to propriety of a particular decision by the executor and strengthen any petition for court authority.

[2] FORM

Power to Continue Business or Partnership Interest

[First alternative: sole proprietorship business only:]

I authorize my Executor to continue the operation of any business owned by my estate for the time and in the manner that my Executor considers advisable and in the best interests of my estate, or to sell or to liquidate the business at the time and on the terms and conditions that my Executor considers advisable and in the best interests of my estate. Any operation, sale, or liquidation by my Executor, in good faith, shall be at the risk of my estate and without liability on the part of my Executor for any resulting losses.

[Second alternative: sole proprietorship and interest in partnership:]

I authorize my Executor to continue the operation of any business owned by my estate, and to continue as a general partner in any business in which I may be a general partner at the time of my death, for the time and in the manner that my Executor considers advisable and in the best interests of my estate; or, in my Executor's discretion, to sell or to liquidate the business or partnership interest at the time and on the terms and conditions that my Executor considers advisable and in the best interests of my estate. Any operation, continuation, sale, or liquidation by my Executor, in good faith, shall be at the risk of my estate and without liability on the part of my Executor for any resulting losses.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust

LawWillsGeneral Overview

152 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.285

§ 65.285 Power to Purchase Estate Assets

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to purchase assets of the estate.

[b] Purchase of Estate Assets by Executor

[i] General Prohibition

Since executors are fiduciaries, they are generally prohibited from engaging in any self-dealing with the estates they represent [ Estate of Boggs (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 324, 333, 121 P.2d 678 (executrix); see Wickersham v. Crittenden (1892) 93 Cal. 17, 29, 28 P. 788 (director of corporation); see also Prob. Code § 39 ("fiduciary" defined)]. Accordingly, the Probate Code prohibits personal representatives (and attorneys for personal representatives) from directly or indirectly purchasing any property of or claim against the estate [Prob. Code § 9880; see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)]. When a personal representative is forbidden by law to engage in self-dealing, the courts will not permit any investigation into the fairness or unfairness of the transaction, or allow the representative to show that the dealing was for the best interest of the devisees [ Estate of Boggs (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 324, 333, 121 P.2d 678 ; Wickersham v. Crittenden (1892) 93 Cal. 17, 29, 28 P. 788 ].

[ii] Permitted When All Heirs and Devisees Consent

The Probate Code authorizes the executor to purchase property of the estate if all of the following requirements are satisfied:

(1) A written consent to the purchase signed by each known heir and each known devisee whose interest in the estate is affected by the proposed purchase is filed with the court [Prob. Code § 9881(a), (b)];

- (2) The purchase is shown to be to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 9881(c)]; and
- (3) The court makes an order authorizing the purchase [Prob. Code § 9881; see Prob. Code § 9883 (petition for order)].

[iii] Permitted When Will Authorizes Purchase

If the will authorizes the executor (or the executor's attorney) to purchase property of the estate, the court may make an order authorizing the purchase [Prob. Code § 9882]. Notice of hearing on a petition for an order authorizing such a sale must be given to all heirs and devisees whose interests are affected by the proposed purchase [Prob. Code § 9883(c)]. If the court is satisfied that the purchase should be authorized, it must make an order authorizing the purchase on the terms and conditions specified in the order [Prob. Code § 9883(d)]. Unless the will or the order provides otherwise, the sale must be in the same manner as other estate property of the same nature.

[iv] Permitted When Pursuant to Specifically Enforceable Contract

The executor (or executor's attorney) may purchase property of the estate when the purchase is pursuant to a written contract made during the decedent's lifetime, but only if the contract is specifically enforceable [Prob. Code § 9884; see Prob. Code §§ 850-859 (transfer of property claimed to belong to decedent or others)]. For a general consideration of specific performance of contracts, see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 74, Buyer's Remedies in Actions Involving Agreements of Sale, and California Forms of Pleading & Practice, Ch. 528, Specific Performance.

[v] Permitted When Pursuant to Exercise of Option Given in Will

The executor (or the executor's attorney) may purchase property of the estate by exercising an option to purchase given in the will [Prob. Code §§ 9885, 9980]. For a provision granting a named person (who may be the executor) an option to purchase estate property, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.446[1][b].

[2] FORM

Power to Purchase Estate Assets

Power to Purchase Assets

I authorize my Executor to purchase for my Executor's own account any asset, or any interest in an asset, belonging to my estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

153 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.286

§ 65.286 Power to Make Expenditures to Collect Foreign Assets

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to make expenditures to collect property of the testator situated outside of California. For a will provision nominating an ancillary executor, see § 65.204. For will provisions relating to the powers and duties of ancillary executors, see §§ 65.340, 65.341, and 65.114.

[b] Collection of Foreign Assets

[i] Executor's Duty

Every executor has the duty to take possession or control of all of the testator's property to be administered in the testator's estate [Prob. Code § 9650(a)(1)]. This duty may even include the duty to collect assets in a foreign jurisdiction, if the law of the foreign jurisdiction permits such collection [ In re Ortiz (1890) 86 Cal. 306, 313, 24 P. 1034 ]. The Probate Code invests executors with authority to take various steps that will facilitate collection of the estate, such as maintaining actions and proceedings for the benefit of the estate [Prob. Code § 9820(a)], suing former personal representatives on their bonds [Prob. Code § 9822; see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined)], and suing cotenants for partition of any property in which the testator left an undivided interest [Prob. Code § 9823(b)].

In discharging the duty to collect estate assets, as in discharging other duties, the executor is required to act with ordinary care and diligence [Prob. Code § 9600(a); see § 65.41[1]]. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence must be determined by all the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 9600(a)].

[ii] Assets Outside California

California executors do not ordinarily have any authority over real property located outside California. They may, however, have authority over personal property belonging to the estate of a California domiciliary. In any event, when a California executor has in fact taken possession of assets in a foreign jurisdiction, the probate court in California may hold the executor accountable for the assets [ Estate of Barreiro (1932) 125 Cal. App. 752, 767, 14 P.2d 786 ] .

[iii] Deductibility of Expenses

Expenses of administering the estate are deductible for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2053(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-1], but only to the extent that the expenses are actually and necessarily incurred in collecting assets, paying debts, and distributing property to the persons entitled to it [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3]. By authorizing the executor to make any expenditures to collect, preserve, or protect out-of-state property, this form will help to establish that any expenditures made for that purpose are properly deductible.

[2] FORM

Power to Make Expenditures to Collect Foreign Assets

Expenditures for Property Outside California

I authorize my Executor to make any expenditures out of my estate that my Executor may deem proper and in the interest of my estate as a whole in order to collect, preserve, or protect any property belonging to my estate situated outside the State of California. Any such expenditures shall be expenses of the administration of my estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General Overview

154 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

2. Asset Management

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.287-65.299

[Reserved]

§§ 65.287[Reserved]

155 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

3. Borrowing

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.300

§ 65.300 Power to Borrow Money and Encumber Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that authorizes the executor to borrow money and encumber estate property.

[b] Executor's Borrowing Power

[i] Statutory Rules

Under the Probate Code, the power of the executor to borrow money and encumber estate property is subject to control of the court. Borrowing and encumbering always requires specific court authorization [Prob. Code § 9800(a)]. The court may authorize these acts only on a showing of advantage to the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)], and only for one or more of the following purposes:

- (1) To pay debts of the decedent or the estate, devises made in the decedent's will, expenses of administration or charges against the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(1)];
- (2) To pay, reduce, extend, or renew a security interest, lien, mortgage, or deed of trust already existing on property of the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(2)]; or
- (3) To improve, use, operate, or preserve property in the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)(3)].

When money has been borrowed under the foregoing rules, the proceeds must be applied to the purposes stated above, in the order in which they are stated [Prob. Code § 9800(b)].

[ii] Debt and Security Instruments

When the court has authorized the executor to borrow money, the loan may, as specified by the court, be on an unsecured note, on a note secured by a security interest in personal property of the estate, or on a note secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on real property of the estate [Prob. Code § 9800(a)].

[iii] When Surviving Spouse Has Elected to Have Community Property Administered

If the surviving spouse has elected to have his or her share of the community real property administered in the decedent's estate [see Prob. Code § 13502 (surviving spouse's election to have community property administered in estate of deceased spouse); see also Ch. 60, Estate Planning ], the executor may borrow money to be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on real property of the estate only with the written consent of the surviving spouse [Prob. Code § 9800(c)].

[iv] Will Provisions

The Probate Code does not authorize borrowing without court order, even when it is authorized by the testator's will. Thus court authorization is required whether or not the will authorizes borrowing [see § 65.300[1][b][i]]. Accordingly, will provisions authorizing borrowing or encumbering are usually neither necessary nor advisable. If, however, the testator anticipates that the estate will not be liquid and that borrowing will be necessary to pay debts, expenses, or devises, and if the testator wishes the executor to borrow money to pay those debts, expenses, or devises, a will provision may serve a useful purpose by making the testator's intentions in the matter clear. This, in turn, may help resolve disputes about the propriety of a particular decision by the executor and strengthen a petition for court authorization.

[2] FORM

Power to Borrow Money and Encumber Property

I authorize my Executor, in my Executor's discretion, to borrow money on behalf of my estate, and to pledge, hypothecate, or otherwise encumber property of my estate, real or personal, as security for any sums so borrowed.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General Overview

156 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

3. Borrowing

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.301-65.319

[Reserved]

§§ 65.301[Reserved]

157 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

4. Taxes

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.320§ 65.320 Power to Take Actions Without Regard to Tax Consequences[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to take certain actions without regard to their tax consequences. For a will provision empowering the executor to allocate expense deductions between income tax and estate tax, see § 65.321.

[b] Effect of Tax Elections on Distributive Shares

In the discharge of his or her duty to file tax returns and pay taxes both for the estate and for the decedent [see § 65.41[7]], the executor has discretion to make various tax elections. For example, expenses of administration [I.R.C. § 2053(a)(2), (b)] and losses [I.R.C. § 2054] may be deducted for federal estate tax purposes or, at the executor's election, be taken as deductions in computing the taxable income of the estate [I.R.C. § 642(g); Treas. Reg. § 1.642(g)-1]. The executor's decision to take a deduction for one purpose and not another may, however, require adjustment among the distributive shares of different devisees. If an election favors one devisee at the expense of another, the court may compel the distributive shares of the devisees to be adjusted [ Estate of Bixby (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 326, 339-340, 295 P.2d 68 ]. The provision set forth below is designed to provide the executor maximum freedom to make tax elections without considering the effect of those elections on distributive shares and without exposing the estate to time-consuming and expensive court proceedings to compel adjustments.

[2] FORM*Power to Take Actions Without Regard to Tax Consequences

I authorize my Executor, in my Executor's sole discretion, regardless of the resulting effect on any other provision of this will or on any person interested in my estate, to make the following choices or elections, to the extent that the law permits:

- (a) To choose a valuation date for estate tax purposes;
- (b) To choose the methods to pay estate taxes;
- (c) To elect to treat or use any item for state or federal estate or income tax purposes as an income tax deduction or an estate tax deduction;
- (d) To disclaim all or any portion of any interest in property passing to my estate at or after my death;
- (e) To join with my spouse or my spouse's estate in filing joint income or gift tax returns for me or my estate;
- (f) To consent to any gifts made by my spouse as being made one-half by me for gift tax purposes; and
- (g) To determine when an item is to be treated as taken into income or used as a tax deduction.

No person interested in my estate shall have the right to any reimbursement, recoupment, or adjustment for any choice or election made by my Executor under the authority granted in this provision, nor shall my Executor be required to make any adjustment between income and principal or in the amount of any property passing under this will as a result of any such choice or election.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
Fiduciary Responsibilities
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General Overview

158 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

4. Taxes

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.321§ 65.321 Power to Allocate Expense Deductions Between Income Tax and Estate Tax[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to allocate expense deductions between income tax and estate tax. For a will provision empowering the executor to take particular actions without regard to their tax consequences, see § 65.320.

For the effect of tax elections on the distributive shares of devisees, see § 65.320[1][b].

[2] FORM*Power to Allocate Expense Deductions Between Income Tax and Estate Tax

I authorize my Executor, in my Executor's sole discretion, regardless of the resulting effect on any other provision of this will or on any person interested in my estate, to determine whether any or all of the expenses of administration of my estate shall be used as deductions for federal estate tax or federal income tax purposes. No person interested in my estate shall have the right to any reimbursement, recoupment, or adjustment for any such choice or election made by my Executor; nor shall my Executor be required to make any adjustment between income and principal or in the amount of any property passing under this will as a result of any such choice or election.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Accounting Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Fiduciary Responsibilities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

159 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

4. Taxes

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.322-65.339

[Reserved]

§§ 65.322[Reserved]

160 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

5. Ancillary Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.340

§ 65.340 Provision Investing Ancillary Executor With Power to Sell, Lease, and Borrow

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to give an ancillary executor the power to sell, lease, and borrow. For a general consideration of ancillary administration and ancillary executors, see § 65.34; see also § 65.204[1].

For nomination of an ancillary executor, see § 65.204. For a provision authorizing the domiciliary executor to nominate an ancillary executor, see § 65.223. For a provision investing an ancillary executor with the same powers as a domiciliary executor, see § 65.341. For a provision directing the ancillary executor to deliver the residue of the ancillary estate to the domiciliary executor, see § 65.404.

[b] Powers of Ancillary Executors

Ancillary administration is administration of a decedent's estate in a state in which the decedent left property but in which he or she was not domiciled at the time of death [Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed., 1979), p. 78; see Prob. Code § 12501 ("ancillary administration" defined)]. In California, the powers of an ancillary executor are identical to the powers of domiciliary executors [see Prob. Code §§ 12524 (will admitted to probate under ancillary administration provisions of Probate Code has same force and effect as will of domiciliary), 12530 (ancillary administration in California subject to other estate administration provisions of Probate Code, including provisions relating to estate management)]. Thus, ancillary executors in California may sell, lease, and borrow in the same circumstances as domiciliary executors. For powers of domiciliary executors to sell estate property, see §§ 65.42[8], 65.280[1]. For powers of domiciliary executors to lease estate property, see §§ 65.42[9], 65.282[1]. For powers to borrow and to encumber estate property, see §§ 65.42[4], 65.300[1].

Since ancillary administration is made necessary by the existence of property belonging to a decedent in a nondomiciliary state, it is ordinarily governed by the law of the nondomiciliary state [see § 65.34[1]]. Whether an ancillary executor in another state administering property belonging to the estate of a California domiciliary can effectively exercise testamentary powers to sell, lease, borrow, or encumber estate property will ultimately be determined by the law of the other state.

[2] FORM

Provision Investing Ancillary Executor With Power to Sell, Lease, and Borrow

Powers of Ancillary Executor

I authorize my Ancillary Executor to do any of the following things, on such terms and for such consideration as my Ancillary Executor shall, in my Ancillary Executor's discretion, deem proper and to the advantage of my estate:

- (a) Sell any property, and any interest in any property, belonging to my ancillary estate;
- (b) Lease any property belonging to my ancillary estate;
- (c) Borrow money by unsecured note or by note secured by mortgage, deed of trust, or other security instrument, on any property of my ancillary estate.

As used in this will, "ancillary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration outside the State of California.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbateAncillary ProceedingsEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesDuties & PowersGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesForeign RepresentativesEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsGeneral Overview

161 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

5. Ancillary Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.341

§ 65.341 Provision Investing Ancillary Executor With Same Powers as Domiciliary Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to invest an ancillary executor with the same powers as the domiciliary executor. For a general consideration of ancillary administration and ancillary executors, see § 65.34; see also § 65.204[1].

For nomination of an ancillary executor, see § 65.204. For a provision authorizing the domiciliary executor to nominate an ancillary executor, see § 65.223. For a provision authorizing the ancillary executor to sell, lease, and borrow, see § 65.340. For a provision directing the ancillary executor to deliver the residue of the ancillary estate to the domiciliary executor, see § 65.404.

[b] Powers of Ancillary Executors

In California, the powers of ancillary executors are identical to the powers of domiciliary executors [see Prob. Code §§ 12524 (will admitted to probate under ancillary administration provisions of Probate Code has same force and effect as will of domiciliary), 12530 (ancillary administration in California subject to other estate administration provisions of Probate Code, including provisions relating to estate management); see also § 65.34[1]]. The powers of an ancillary executor in a state other than California will, however, be determined by the law of the other state. This form will therefore be effective only to the extent that it is sanctioned by the law of the state in which the ancillary administration will be carried out.

[2] FORM

Provision Investing Ancillary Executor With Same Powers as Domiciliary Executor

Powers of Ancillary Executor

With respect to the administration of my ancillary estate, the Ancillary Executor shall, in addition to the rights, powers, privileges, and discretions conferred on ancillary executors by law, have all the rights, powers, privileges, and discretions conferred on my Executor by terms of this will. As used in this will, "ancillary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration outside the State of California.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Ancillary Proceedings Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

162 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

5. Ancillary Executors

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.342-65.359

[Reserved]

§§ 65.342[Reserved]

163 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

6. Administrators With Will Annexed

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.360

§ 65.360 Provision Investing Administrator With Will Annexed With Same Powers as Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to invest an administrator with the will annexed with the same powers as the executor.

[b] Administrators With the Will Annexed

[i] In General

An administrator with the will annexed is an administrator [see Prob. Code §§ 8460-8468 (administrators); see also § 65.35[3]] who is appointed to take charge of the estate of a testate, rather than intestate, decedent. An administrator with the will annexed must be appointed if a person dies with a will that does not name an executor, or if the sole executor or all of the executors named in the will waive the right to appointment or for any reason are unwilling or unable to act [Prob. Code § 8440; see Prob. Code § 8522(a)] (duty of court to appoint successor personal representative when vacancy occurs and there are no other personal representatives); see also § 65.35[5]. On appointment and qualification, an administrator with the will annexed is entitled to the issuance of letters of administration with the will annexed [see Prob. Code § 8405 (form of letters)].

[ii] Powers

An administrator with the will annexed ordinarily has the same administrative and management powers as an executor named in the will [Prob. Code § 8442(a)]. If, however, the will confers a discretionary power or authority on an executor that is not conferred by law and the will does not extend the power or authority to other personal representatives, the power or authority will not be deemed to be conferred on an administrator with the will annexed unless the court in its discretion authorizes the exercise of the power or authority [Prob. Code § 8442(b)].

[iii] Will Provision

A will provision stating that an administrator with the will annexed will have all of the powers of the executor will assure that the administrator with the will annexed is able to exercise all of the executor's powers, whether conferred by will or statute [see Prob. Code § 8442(b) (will may provide that discretionary powers exercisable by executor are also exercisable by administrator with will annexed)]. An even better means of ensuring that the personal representative will be able to exercise all of the executor's powers is to nominate alternative and successor executors to serve in the event the executor fails to qualify or ceases to act as executor. If sufficient alternate and successor executors are nominated, it will not be necessary to appoint an administrator with the will annexed. For nomination of alternate and successor executors, see § 65.203.

[2] FORM*Provision Investing Administrator With Will Annexed With Same Powers as Executor*Powers of Administrator With Will Annexed

If, at any time, it becomes necessary to appoint an administrator with the will annexed to administer or to continue administration of my estate, I direct that the administrator with the will annexed shall have, in addition to all the rights, powers, privileges, and discretions conferred on administrators with the will annexed by law, all of the rights, powers, privileges, and discretions conferred on my Executor by terms of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

164 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

6. Administrators With Will Annexed

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.361-65.379

[Reserved]

§§ 65.361[Reserved]

165 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

7. Distribution

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.380

§ 65.380 Power to Allocate and Distribute Property in Kind

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision authorizing the executor to distribute property in kind, or partly in kind and partly in cash, or entirely in cash. When included in the will, this provision will give the executor flexibility in determining which assets should be allocated to satisfy the shares of different distributees. The form includes a basic provision and an optional provision that may be included if the testator wishes the executor to have the power to consider the tax consequences of distributions.

[b] Distribution

[i] Executor's Duties

The executor has the duty to distribute estate assets to the person or persons legally entitled to distribution under the decedent's will [Prob. Code § 11750(a)]. However, distribution must follow a court order determining that distribution is proper and specifying the persons to whom assets will be distributed [Prob. Code § 11750(a); see Prob. Code §§ 11600-11642 (order for distribution), 11700-11705 (determination of persons entitled to distribution); see § 64.41[9]].

[ii] Power to Allocate and Distribute in Kind

Wills frequently provide that the residue of the estate is to be distributed in fractional shares to two or more devisees. If an estate does not consist entirely of cash, problems may arise over how the estate should be distributed, particularly if the residue includes assets (e.g., furniture, jewelry, or works of art) that cannot readily be divided into separate interests. In such cases, devisees are frequently unable to agree among themselves about an appropriate division.

If the will does not give the executor power to divide property on distribution, the court must determine what property will be distributed to each devisee and whether property should be partitioned [Prob. Code § 11603(b)(1); see Prob. Code §§ 11950-11956 (procedure for division by court)]. The court may order property sold when sale would be more equitable than partition and the property cannot conveniently be allotted to any one party [Prob. Code § 11953(b)]. Costs of the partition proceedings must be paid by the parties entitled to distribution, but each must pay his or her own attorney fees [Prob. Code § 11955].

The testator will often prefer that the executor divide the property, since the executor will frequently have a better understanding of the testator's wishes, of the needs of the devisees, and of the composition of the estate. This form is intended to give the executor broad discretion to allocate and divide property on distribution. If appropriate, the form may be modified to confer a more narrow discretion in this regard.

[2] FORM

Power to Allocate and Distribute Property in Kind

Powers of Distribution

On any partial or final distribution of my estate, my Executor shall have the power, in my Executor's sole and absolute discretion, to divide, allocate, and distribute property of my estate (including undivided interests in property) in kind, partly in kind and partly in cash, or entirely in cash, and to determine what property shall be allocated to the shares or devises to be distributed. Any division, allocation, or distribution by my Executor pursuant to the terms of this paragraph, made in good faith, shall be binding on all of the distributees.

[Optional provision; add if executor is to have power to consider tax consequences of distribution:]

My Executor, in my Executor's discretion, shall have the further power to make adjustments to shares, or devises to compensate for the tax consequences of any distribution that my Executor believes may have the effect, directly or indirectly, of favoring one distributee or group of distributees over another.

[Continue with the following:]

Notwithstanding the powers conferred on my Executor in this paragraph, my Executor shall in no event be required to exercise any or all of these powers.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Distribution
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

166 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

7. Distribution

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.381

§ 65.381 Power to Pay Devises for Benefit of Minor or Incompetent Devises

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to distribute property for the benefit of minors, incompetents, and other persons who the executor believes are unable to manage the property properly.

[b] Distribution to Minors

In California, minors are capable of acquiring and holding property, both real and personal [ In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 405, 155 Cal. Rptr. 671, 595 P.2d 105, cert. denied, 444 U. S. 973 (1979) (parent may not consent to warrantless search of toolbox owned by minor child); In re Guardianship of Yano (1922) 188 Cal. 645, 649, 206 P. 995]. However, the right of minors to deal with and manage their own property is subject to severe restrictions. Minors may not contract with respect to their real property under any circumstances, and they may not contract with respect to their personal property unless the property is in their immediate possession or control [Fam. Code § 6701(b)]. For this reason, it is usually necessary to entrust control of a minor's property to some person other than the minor. Further, because the parents of a minor, in their capacity as parents, have "no control" over the property of a minor [see Civ. Code § 202], the person entrusted with control of the minor's property may not generally be a parent unless the parent is acting in some other legally recognized capacity.

Property may be held for a minor:

- By a trustee [see Prob. Code §§ 15000-18201 (the Trust Law); see also Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions, and Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms, and Ch. 72, Irrevocable Trusts];
- By a guardian of the minor's estate [see Prob. Code § 2401(a); see also Ch. 66, Guardianship and

Conservatorship Planning, § 66.15[2]];

- By a custodian designated to hold property for the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [Prob. Code §§ 3900-3925; see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.40]; or
- By a parent, if the minor's "total estate" [see Prob. Code § 3400] does not exceed $5,000 [Prob. Code § 3401; see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors, § 100A.21[2]].

By authorizing the executor to distribute property to the legally appointed guardian of a minor, to a custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, to the parent of a minor, if the parent is legally capable of holding the distributed property for the minor, or to the trustee of any trust established for the benefit of any beneficiary, the form set forth below will give the executor wide latitude in determining the proper person to receive a distribution for a minor.

[c] Distribution to Incompetents and Other Disabled Persons

Like minors, certain adults may be legally (or actually) incapable of dealing with their own property. Adults for whom conservators have been appointed will generally fall into this category. A conservator of the estate may be appointed for an adult who is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or to resist fraud or undue influence [Prob. Code §§ 1800, 1801]. A conservator has the power of management and control of the conservatee's estate [Prob. Code § 2401(a)]. Other adults, although not represented by conservators, may be beneficiaries of trusts. By authorizing the executor to distribute property to both conservators and trustees, the form set forth below will give the executor wide latitude in determining the proper person to hold distributed assets for a disabled adult.

[2] FORM

Power to Pay Devises for Benefit of Minor or Incompetent Devisees

Distributions for Benefit of Minors and Others

If, on any partial or final distribution of my estate, any beneficiary under this will is a minor, under any other legal disability, or, in my Executor's judgment, unable by reason of physical or mental disability or illness properly to hold and manage the property to be distributed, my Executor may distribute the property to some other person or persons for the benefit of that beneficiary. Distributions pursuant to this paragraph may be made to a legally appointed guardian of a minor, to a legally appointed conservator of a conservatee, to a custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act for the benefit of a minor, to a trustee of any trust established for the benefit of any beneficiary, or to the parent of a minor, if the parent is legally entitled to hold the property distributed for the benefit of the minor. If a distribution should, by terms of this will, be made to a minor beneficiary, my Executor may designate a custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act to accept and hold the distribution for the minor. My Executor is authorized to accept the receipt of any distributee to whom property is distributed pursuant to this paragraph in full satisfaction and discharge of the distribution. Any distribution by my Executor pursuant to the terms of this paragraph, made in good faith, shall be binding on all of the distributees.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Testamentary Guardians
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Distribution
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

167 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

7. Distribution

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.382

§ 65.382 Power to Pay Costs of Distribution

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to authorize the executor to pay out of estate assets any costs relating to the distribution of estate property.

[b] Costs of Distribution

Expenses of administering the estate are deductible for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2053(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-1], but only to the extent that the expenses are actually and necessarily incurred in collecting assets, paying debts, and distributing property to the persons entitled to it [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3]. Expenditures not essential to the proper settlement of the estate, but incurred for the individual benefit of devisees, may not be deducted [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3(a), (d)]. By authorizing the executor to pay storage, freight, shipping, delivery, packing, insurance, and other costs related to the distribution of estate property, this form will establish that expenses of distribution are properly deductible.

[2] FORM

Power to Pay Costs of Distribution

Costs of Distribution

I authorize my Executor, in my Executor's discretion, to pay from my estate any and all storage, freight, shipping, delivery, packing, insurance, and other costs related to the distribution of any property of my estate. Any expenses paid by my Executor pursuant to this paragraph shall be expenses of my estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
Distribution
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Procedures in Probate
Costs & Expenses
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General Overview

168 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

D. Powers

7. Distribution

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.383-65.399

[Reserved]

§§ 65.383[Reserved]

169 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

E. Directions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.400

§ 65.400 Provision Directing Executor to Pay Debt

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to direct the executor to pay a debt of the decedent. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first alternative provision may be used to direct payment of the debt without specifying the property or fund from which payment is to be made. The second may be used to direct payment of the debt only out of a specified fund or property.

[b] Payment of Debts

[i] In General

Executors have a duty to pay debts of the decedent and of the estate [see § 65.41[6]; see also Prob. Code § 11401 ("debt" defined)]. The executor must pay certain debts without obtaining a court order for payment [Prob. Code § 11421], while others must be paid only if their payment has been ordered by the court [Prob. Code § 11422(a)]. The duty to pay debts never depends on will provisions authorizing or directing their payment.

[ii] Will Provisions

A will provision directing the executor to pay a particular debt may be desirable in certain circumstances. If the debt is barred by the statute of limitations, or if the testator believes that the creditor may be unwilling or unable to file a claim for payment [see Prob. Code §§ 9000-9399 (creditor claims)], and if the testator feels a moral obligation to pay the debt, a will provision directing the executor to pay may be appropriate. Will provisions directing the payment of debts should be used with caution, however, and blanket directions [e.g., "I direct my Executor to pay all of my debts" or "My Executor shall pay all of my just debts"] should not be used.

If a debt is barred by the statute of limitations, the executor is forbidden to allow the debt, and the court cannot approve it [Prob. Code § 9253]. However, an otherwise barred debt may be revived by a writing signed by the party to be charged [Code Civ. Proc. § 360]. Although no reported California cases have been found in which a will provision directing the executor to pay a debt has been held to satisfy the requirement of such a writing, cases decided outside California have so held [ Perkins v. Seigfried's Adm'r (1899) 97 Va. 444, 34 S.E. 64 (will provision directing payment of particular debt revives debt); but see McNeal v. Pierce (1905) 73 Ohio St. 7, 75 N.E. 938 (will provision directing executor to pay a devise to creditor does not revive barred debt)].

[iii] Specifying Source of Payment

Estate debts must be paid out of estate assets. If necessary to pay debts, assets must abate (i.e., be reduced, eliminated, or even sold) according to a statutory schedule of priorities [see Prob. Code § 21402(a) (order of abatement); see also Prob. Code § 10000(a) (executor may sell assets when necessary to pay debts, devises, family allowance, expenses of administration, or taxes)]. The will may, however, provide a different order of abatement [Prob. Code § 21400; see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.416]. A will provision specifying the property or fund out of which a debt is to be paid will have the effect of exempting other assets from any obligation to contribute to the payment and, to that extent, alter the statutory order of abatement.

[2] FORM

Provision Directing Executor to Pay Debt

Payment of Debt

[First alternative: source of payment not specified:]

I direct my Executor to pay my debt to _____ [relationship, if any, e.g., my brother], _____ [name], of _____ [place], in the principal amount of $_____, incurred on or about _____ [date], _____ [plus or without] interest on that principal.

[Second alternative: payment out of specified source:]

I direct my Executor to pay my debt to _____ [relationship, if any, e.g., my sister],
 _____ [name], of _____ [place], in the principal amount of $_____, incurred on or about _____ [date], _____ [plus or without] interest on that principal. The payment is to be made out of _____ [description of property or fund, e.g., the sale of my residence located at 100 Broad Street, Smalltown, California or money held by me in the Smalltown branch of the Bank of America, National Trust & Savings Association, Smalltown, California, at the date of my death], to the extent that the same is sufficient for that purpose. If that _____ [money or property or fund] is not sufficient for that purpose, my Executor shall not resort to any other property or assets of my estate for payment.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estate Administration
 Claims Against Estates
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust
 Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General
 Overview

170 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

E. Directions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.401

§ 65.401 Provision Directing Executor to Liquidate Business

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to direct the executor to liquidate a business owned by the testator. For will provisions empowering the executor to continue the operation of businesses (or interests in businesses) owned by the testator, see § 65.284.

[b] Liquidation of Business

Executors have broad statutory power (with the approval of the superior court) to continue the operation of businesses owned by testators and to continue as partners in partnerships in which the testator was interested [see § 65.284[1]]. Wills may reinforce that authority by specifically empowering the executor to operate a business or continue as a partner [see § 65.284].

The operation of a business, however, will sometimes subject an estate to unwarranted risks. This may be particularly true if the business depended in large measure on personal direction from the testator. A business that is profitable in one person's hands may quickly become unprofitable in the hands of another. If the testator believes that operation of a particular business would subject other assets of the estate to risk, a will provision directing liquidation of the business may be appropriate.

[2] FORM

Provision Directing Executor to Liquidate Business

Liquidation of Business

I direct my Executor to liquidate my business known as _____ [name] , located at _____ [place or address], as soon as my Executor, in my Executor's discretion, deems liquidation practicable and advisable. The time of liquidation, as well as the terms and price under which the business is liquidated, shall be determined by my Executor in my Executor's discretion. Until liquidation is complete, my Executor is authorized (but not required) to continue the operation of the business at the sole risk of my estate and without any liability on the part of my Executor for any resulting losses.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General Overview

171 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

E. Directions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.402§ 65.402 Provision Directing Executor as to Sequences of Sales[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to direct the executor to sell assets in a specified order if sale is necessary to pay debts, expenses, or devises. The form includes a principal provision and an optional provision. The optional provision may be included if the testator wishes to forbid the executor to sell specified assets.

[b] Will Provisions Directing Mode of Sale of Estate Property

The will may direct that particular assets of the estate be sold [Prob. Code §§ 10000(c), (d), 10002(a)] or give directions as to the mode of selling estate property [Prob. Code § 10002(a)]. The executor has a duty to comply with those directions [Prob. Code § 10002(a); see Prob. Code § 10001(a)(3) (court order compelling sale when sale directed by will)] unless the court determines that it would be to the advantage of the interested persons to relieve the executor of that duty [Prob. Code § 10002(b)].

[2] FORM*Provision Directing Executor as to Sequences of Sales

Sale of Assets

If, for any reason, it should become necessary to sell assets of my estate to pay debts or expenses of administration or satisfy devises, or for any other purpose or purposes, I direct my Executor to sell the following assets in the order listed:

(1) _____ [description]

(2) _____ [description]

(3) _____ [description]

[Optional provision: add if executor is not to sell specified properties:]

I direct my Executor not to sell any of the following assets under any circumstances:

(1) _____ [description]

(2) _____ [description]

(3) _____ [description]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Sales of Assets Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

172 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

E. Directions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.403

§ 65.403 Provision Directing That Trust Company Serving as Coexecutor Take Custody of Personal Property and Maintain Records

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision directing that a trust company serving as coexecutor take custody of all personal property and maintain all records and accounts for the estate. For a will provision nominating a trust company as executor, see § 65.201. For a provision nominating coexecutors, see § 65.202.

[b] Custody of Personal Property and Records

Because of the obligations imposed on them under state and federal statutes and regulations, trust companies [see Prob. Code § 83, Fin. Code § 107 ("trust company" defined)] that serve as coexecutors usually insist that they alone have custody of personal property belonging to the estate and keep all records and accounts. The form set forth below will clearly apprise all persons interested in the estate of the corporate coexecutor's powers in this regard.

[2] FORM

Provision Directing That Trust Company Serving as Coexecutor Take Custody of Personal Property and Maintain Records

Personal Property and Records

During any time that _____ [full name of corporate coexecutor] is acting as executor or coexecutor, it alone shall have custody of all money, securities, and other personal property belonging to my estate; and it alone shall maintain all records and accounts, receive all receipts, and make all necessary payments, disbursements, and distributions for the estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

173 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS
PART IV. FORMS
E. Directions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.404

§ 65.404 Provision Directing Ancillary Executor to Deliver Ancillary Residue to Domiciliary Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to direct an ancillary executor to deliver the residue of the ancillary estate to the domiciliary executor. For nomination of an ancillary executor, see § 65.204. For a provision authorizing the domiciliary executor to nominate an ancillary executor, see § 65.223. For a provision authorizing an ancillary executor to sell, lease, and borrow, see § 65.340. For a provision investing an ancillary executor with the same powers as the domiciliary executor, see § 65.341.

[b] Delivery of Ancillary Estate to Domiciliary Executor

On completion of ancillary administration [see Prob. Code §§ 12510-12542 (ancillary administration in California); see also § 65.34], the residue of the ancillary estate is usually distributed to the domiciliary personal representative for final settlement and distribution under the laws of the domiciliary state [ McCully v. Cooper (1896) 114 Cal. 258, 261 ; Estate of Patmore (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 416, 423, 296 P.2d 863] . The probate codes of some jurisdictions require ancillary executors to transmit the ancillary residue to the domiciliary representative to be distributed in accordance with the will (if there is one) or the laws of intestate succession of the domiciliary estate [see Estate of Patmore (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 416, 424, 296 P.2d 863 (probate code of Kansas)]. In California, the Probate Code authorizes the court to order distribution to the domiciliary representative, but only if such distribution is in the best interest of the estate or interested persons [Prob. Code § 12540(a)] or if the domiciliary estate is insolvent [Prob. Code § 12542]. This rule has been interpreted as giving the court discretion to determine whether distribution should be to the domiciliary representative or directly to the devisees under the will [ Estate of Lathrop (1913) 165 Cal. 243, 249, 131 P. 752 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1667)]. Although distribution will ordinarily be made to the domiciliary representative, the court may deny distribution if it would violate some policy of California law [ Estate of Lathrop (1913) 165 Cal. 243, 249, 131 P. 752 (distribution of more than one-third of estate to charity then contrary to California law)].

A domiciliary representative who comes into possession of foreign assets must account for them in the domiciliary administration [In re Ortiz (1890) 86 Cal. 306, 313-314, 24 P. 1034; Estate of Patmore (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 416, 423, 296 P.2d 863].

By clearly stating the testator's intention that the ancillary residue should be distributed to the domiciliary executor, this form will help to assure that some other distribution is not made. It should be remembered, however, that the validity and construction of this provision will depend on the law of the jurisdiction in which the ancillary administration is conducted.

[2] FORM

Provision Directing Ancillary Executor to Deliver Ancillary Residue to Domiciliary Executor

Residue of Ancillary Estate

I direct the Ancillary Executor, immediately on completion of the administration of my ancillary estate, [if any,] to distribute, transfer, and deliver the residue of that estate to my Executor, to be distributed by my Executor under the terms of this will. It is my intention that my ancillary and domiciliary estates be administered as a unit and that my domiciliary Executor supervise and control administration of my ancillary estate to the fullest extent permissible under applicable law. If, however, my ancillary estate includes real property, or any interest in real property, administration of my ancillary estate may be continued until such time as the property can conveniently be sold or liquidated. As used in this will, "ancillary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration outside the State of California, and "domiciliary estate" means any property owned by me at the time of my death and requiring administration in California. "Domiciliary executor" means my Executor as nominated in Paragraph _____ of this will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbateAncillary ProceedingsEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesDuties & PowersGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesForeign RepresentativesEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsGeneral Overview

174 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

E. Directions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.405-65.419

[Reserved]

§§ 65.405[Reserved]

175 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

F. Independent Administration

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.420

§ 65.420 Independent Administration of Estates Act Applicable

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to provide that the testator's estate is to be administered under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592]. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first alternative may be used to permit independent administration without exceptions. The second may be used to permit independent administration but to state exceptions to the executor's independent administration authority. For a provision that the estate is not to be administered under the Act, see § 65.421.

[b] Independent Administration of Estates Act

As an alternative to supervised administration [see Prob. Code § 10401 ("court supervision" defined); see also § 65.31], the Probate Court permits executors to administer estates with a minimum of court supervision under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592]. Under the Act, certain actions may be taken only after giving notice of the proposed action to heirs, devisees, and persons who have requested special notice [see Prob. Code §§ 10510-10519 (powers exercisable only after notice is given), 10530-10538 (powers that require notice under some circumstances), 10580-10592 (notice of proposed action procedure)]. Other actions may be taken without notice or any court authorization [see Prob. Code §§ 10550-10564 (powers that do not require notice)]. Authority to administer an estate under the Act affords the personal representative greater flexibility and freedom than is available under the more restrictive procedures of supervised administration.

For a general consideration of independent administration, see discussions under § 65.420[1][b][1].

[c] Effect of Will Provision

[i] In General

Any personal representative [see Prob. Code § 58(a) ("personal representative" defined); see also § 65.35[1]] may petition the court for authority to administer an estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code § 10450(a)]. The petition will not be granted, however, if the decedent's will provides that the estate is not to be administered under the Act [Prob. Code § 10404].

Whether or not the will should include a provision precluding independent administration should be decided by the testator and the testator's attorney after consideration of the advantages and disadvantages of independent administration. A testator who fears that persons interested in the estate will quarrel over provisions of the will or disagree about steps to be taken in the administration of the estate may prefer that the estate be administered under close judicial supervision. Similarly, a testator who does not repose full and complete confidence in the business ability or prudence of the executor may wish to ensure that the executor will work under judicial supervision. A will provision precluding independent administration will achieve that purpose.

[ii] Specifying Exceptions to Independent Administration

The testator may wish to allow independent administration but to require the executor to seek judicial approval for certain actions. A will provision listing exceptions to actions that the executor may take under the Independent Administration of Estates Act will achieve that goal. For example, the testator may list as exceptions any actions that the Act permits the executor to take without giving notice of proposed action [see Prob. Code §§ 10550-10564], such as actions on claims against the estate [Prob. Code § 10552] or the payment of taxes, assessments, and expenses [Prob. Code § 10556]. Exceptions might also be created for any of the actions for which the Act requires notice of proposed action only under certain circumstances [Prob. Code §§ 10530-10538], such as investing estate money [Prob. Code § 10533] or continuing the operation of a business owned by the testator [Prob. Code § 10534].

[2] FORM

Independent Administration of Estates Act Applicable

Independent Administration

[First alternative: independent administration with no exceptions]

My estate may be administered under the California Independent Administration of Estates Act.

[Second alternative: independent administration with exceptions]

My estate may be administered under the California Independent Administration of Estates Act, except that my Executor shall not exercise any of the following powers without court approval or authorization:

(a) _____

(b) _____

(c) _____

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estate Administration
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Duties & Powers
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Procedures in Probate
General

OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbateSmall Estates

176 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

F. Independent Administration

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.421

§ 65.421 Independent Administration of Estates Act Not Applicable

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to provide that the estate is not to be administered under the Independent Administration of Estates Act [Prob. Code §§ 10400-10592]. The court may not grant the executor authority to administer the estate under the Act if the will provides that the estate is not to be administered under the Act [Prob. Code § 10404]. For a will provision permitting administration under the Act, see § 65.420.

For a general consideration of administration under the Independent Administration of Estates Act, see § 65.45. For a discussion of will provisions granting (or precluding) authority to administer the estate under the Act, see § 65.420[1].

[2] FORM

Independent Administration of Estates Act Not Applicable

No Independent Administration

My estate shall not be administered under the California Independent Administration of Estates Act, or any successor of that Act.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estate Administration General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Procedures in Probate General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Small Estates

177 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

F. Independent Administration

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.422-65.439

[Reserved]

§§ 65.422[Reserved]

178 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.440

§ 65.440 Fixed Amount as Compensation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision stating that the executor will receive a fixed amount as compensation for his or her services. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first may be used if the will nominates only a single executor, and the second if the will nominates coexecutors.

For a provision that the executor will receive reasonable compensation, see § 65.441. For a devise to the executor in lieu of compensation, see § 65.442. For will provisions relating to the compensation of coexecutors, see §§ 65.443-65.444. For a provision stating that an attorney who is nominated as executor will receive compensation both as executor and as attorney, see § 65.445.

[b] Compensation of Executors

[i] In General

Executors typically receive statutory compensation for their services [see Prob. Code § 10800 and § 65.39[1]]. Except in the case of very large estates [see Prob. Code § 10800(a)(6)], the statutory compensation is based on a fixed percentage of the estate accounted for [Prob. Code § 10800(a); but see Prob. Code § 10801 and § 65.440[1][b][iii]].

[ii] Will Provisions

Because statutory compensation is determined by an objective standard, will provisions specifying the executor's compensation are rare. However, the Probate Code explicitly authorizes the testator to provide for the compensation of the executor [see Prob. Code § 10802(a)].

When the will provides for the executor's compensation, the compensation provided for in the will will ordinarily be the executor's full and only compensation [Prob. Code § 10802(a)]. However, the executor may petition the court to be relieved from a will provision setting his or her compensation [Prob. Code § 10802(b)]; and, if the court determines that it is to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the persons interested in the estate, the court may make an order authorizing greater compensation than the will allows [Prob. Code § 10802(d)].

[iii] Extraordinary Compensation

If the will specifies the executor's compensation, and if the executor performs extraordinary services in the course of administration, the executor must ordinarily choose between the compensation provided in the will and extraordinary compensation as provided by statute [ Estate of Runyon (1899) 125 Cal. 195, 196-197, 57 P. 783 ]. This is because it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence of a contrary intention, that the testator intended the amount provided for in the will to be ample compensation for all services to be rendered in the administration of the estate [see Prob. Code § 10802(a); Estate of Runyon (1899) 125 Cal. 195, 196-197, 57 P. 783 ].

However, the will may authorize the executor to claim extraordinary compensation for extraordinary services. In such a case, the amount specified in the will covers ordinary services only, and the executor may apply to the court for additional compensation for any extraordinary services rendered. If the testator wishes to permit the executor to claim extraordinary compensation, the bracketed word "ordinary" in the first sentence of the form should be included and the bracketed reference to "extraordinary compensation for any extraordinary services" should be included. If, however, the testator wishes to limit the executor to a specified compensation for both ordinary and extraordinary services, the bracketed word and reference should be excluded.

[2] FORM

Fixed Amount as Compensation

[If will nominates a single executor:]

Compensation of Executor

For all [ordinary] services rendered as executor of this will, my Executor shall be entitled to receive the sum of $_____, and no more, in lieu of any statutory commissions or compensation to which my Executor might otherwise be entitled. [Add, if testator wishes executor to receive additional compensation for extraordinary services, However, my Executor shall be entitled to extraordinary compensation for any extraordinary services rendered in the administration of my estate, in an amount to be determined by the court.]

[Or, if will nominates coexecutors:]

Compensation of Coexecutors

For all [ordinary] services rendered as coexecutors of this will, my Coexecutors shall be entitled to receive the sum of $_____, and no more, in lieu of any statutory commissions or compensation to which they might otherwise be entitled. [Add, if testator wishes coexecutors to receive additional compensation for extraordinary services, However, they shall be entitled to extraordinary compensation for any extraordinary services rendered in the administration of my estate, in an amount to be determined by the court.] All compensation, whether for ordinary or extraordinary services, shall be apportioned _____ [among or between] the coexecutors according to the services rendered by each.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Compensation
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General
Overview

179 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.441

§ 65.441 Reasonable Compensation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to provide that the executor will receive reasonable compensation for administering the estate. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first may be used if the will nominates only a single executor, and the second if the will nominates coexecutors.

For a general consideration of the compensation of executors, see § 65.39. For discussion of will provisions relating to executors' compensation, see §§ 65.39[3], 65.440[1].

For a provision that the executor will receive a fixed amount as compensation, see § 65.440. For a devise to the executor in lieu of compensation, see § 65.442. For will provisions relating to the compensation of coexecutors, see §§ 65.443 and 65.444. For a provision that an attorney who is nominated as executor will receive compensation both as executor and as attorney, see § 65.445.

[b] Reasonable Compensation

A will provision limiting the executor to reasonable compensation will avoid the rigidity of the statutory fee schedules [see Prob. Code § 10800(a); see also § 65.39[1]]. An executor who knows that he or she will be adequately compensated regardless of the amount of the estate accounted for may have greater incentive to serve the best interests of the estate. Further, when the statutory compensation is clearly excessive compared to the time and effort that must be devoted to administration, reasonable compensation may result in a savings to the estate.

However, provisions calling for reasonable compensation may be a source of uncertainty and even dispute. If the executor and the other persons interested in the estate cannot agree as to what is reasonable, a contested hearing may result. In any event, a will provision limiting the executor to reasonable compensation will require that the court determine reasonableness. What constitutes reasonable compensation varies according to the circumstances of each case, and the court has wide discretion to determine the amount [ Estate of McLaughlin (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 462, 467-468, 274 P.2d 868 (trustees)].

[2] FORM

Reasonable Compensation

[If will nominates a single executor:]

Compensation of Executor

For all [ordinary] services rendered as executor of this will, my Executor shall be entitled to receive reasonable compensation, in an amount to be determined by the court. This compensation shall be in lieu of any statutory commissions or compensation to which my Executor might otherwise be entitled. [Add, if testator wishes executor to receive additional compensation for extraordinary services, However, my Executor shall be entitled to extraordinary compensation for any extraordinary services rendered in the administration of my estate, in an amount to be determined by the court.]

[Or, if will nominates coexecutors:]

Compensation of Coexecutors

For all [ordinary] services rendered as coexecutors of this will, my Coexecutors shall be entitled to receive reasonable compensation, in an amount to be determined by the court, in lieu of any statutory commissions or compensation to which they might otherwise be entitled. [Add, if testator wishes coexecutors to receive additional compensation for extraordinary services, However, they shall be entitled to extraordinary compensation for any extraordinary services rendered in the administration of my estate, in an amount to be determined by the court.] All compensation, whether for ordinary or extraordinary services, shall be apportioned _____ [among or between] the coexecutors according to the services rendered by each.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Compensation
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

180 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.442§ 65.442 Devise in Lieu of Compensation[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to make a devise to the executor in lieu of compensation. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first should be used if the devise is to be conditioned on services rendered in the administration of the estate. If this provision is used, the devise will be subject to income tax in the hands of the executor and deductible to the estate for federal estate tax purposes [see §§ 65.442[1][c][i], [ii]]. The second alternative may be used if the devise is not to be conditioned on services rendered in the administration of the estate. If the second alternative is used, the devise will not be subject to income tax in the hands of the executor, nor will it be deductible to the estate for federal estate tax purposes [see §§ 65.442[1][c][i], [ii]].

For a provision that the executor will receive a fixed amount as compensation, see § 65.440. For a provision that the executor will receive reasonable compensation, see § 65.441. For will provisions relating to the compensation of coexecutors, see §§ 65.443 and 65.444. For a provision that an attorney who is nominated as executor will receive compensation both as executor and as attorney, see § 65.445.

For a general consideration of the compensation of executors, see § 65.39. For discussion of will provisions relating to executors' compensation, see § 65.440[1].

[b] Devise to Executor

The will may make a devise to a person nominated as executor. In the absence of evidence of a different intention, it is presumed that a devise to an executor is not conditioned on service as executor [ United States v. Merriam (1923) 263 U.S. 179, 187, 44 S. Ct. 69, 68 L. Ed. 240 ; see Restatement (Second) of Trusts, § 242, comment f (devise to trustee); see also Ch. 64B, Testamentary Trusts: Administrative Provisions, § 64B.365[1]]. The will may, however, condition the devise on actual rendition of services, or on satisfactory completion of the administration of the estate [see United States v. Merriam (1923) 263 U.S. 179, 187, 44 S. Ct. 69, 68 L. Ed. 240 ; Ream v. Bowers (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1927) 22

F.2d 465, 468 ].

[c] Tax Considerations

[i] Federal Income Tax

Tax considerations may affect a testator's decision to make a devise to an executor and whether to make the devise conditional on service as executor. A gift, devise, or inheritance is not subject to income tax [I.R.C. § 102(a)], whereas compensation received for personal services is taxable [I.R.C. § 61(a)(1) (gross income defined)]. If the will conditions a devise on performance of services, the devise will be deemed compensation for personal services and thus subject to income tax [ Ream v. Bowers (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1927) 22 F.2d 465, 468 ]. If, however, the devise is conditioned merely on qualifying to serve as executor and not on actual rendition of services, the devise is not compensation for personal services and not subject to income tax [ United States v. Merriam (1923) 263 U.S. 179, 187, 44 S. Ct. 69, 68 L. Ed. 240 ]. The test is whether the devisee has to perform the services in order to earn the devisees [Bank of New York v. Helvering (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1943 132) F.2d 773, 774].

[ii] Estate Tax

Compensation paid to a personal representative is a deduction for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2053(a)(2) (administration expenses); Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3(b)(1) (commissions of executor or administrator)], while devisees are not [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3(b)(2)]. If the will fixes the executor's compensation for services to be rendered in the administration of the estate, a federal estate tax deduction may be taken to the extent that the amount fixed does not exceed the compensation allowable by local law or practice [Treas. Reg. § 20.2053-3(a)(2)]. A devise to an executor that is conditioned on actual rendition of services therefore will reduce the size of the taxable estate, while an unconditional devise will not. For further discussion of the taxable consequences of devisees to fiduciaries (whether executors or trustees), see Ch. 64B, Testamentary Trusts: Administrative Provisions , § 64B.295[1][c].

[2] FORM

Devise in Lieu of Compensation

[First alternative: use if devise is to be conditioned on services rendered in administration of estate:]

Devise in Lieu of Compensation

I give _____ [describe gift, e.g., the sum of $10,000] to _____ [name of executor as set forth in nomination paragraph]. This devise is conditioned upon _____ [his or her] satisfactory completion of the administration of my estate and is in lieu of any compensation to which my Executor would otherwise be entitled as executor of this will.

[Second alternative: use if devise is to be unconditional:]

Devise to Executor

I give _____ [describe gift, e.g., the sum of $10,000] to _____ [name of executor as set forth in nomination paragraph]. This devise is unconditional.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Probate
Personal Representatives
Compensation
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General
Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
Bequests & Devises

181 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.443

§ 65.443 Trust Company Serving as Coexecutor to Be Compensated as if It Were Sole Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to provide that a trust company serving as coexecutor will be compensated as if it were the sole executor and that an individual coexecutor will receive no (or merely a nominal) compensation. For a provision dividing compensation between a trust company serving as coexecutor and an individual coexecutor on a fractional basis, see § 65.444. For nomination of coexecutors, see § 65.202. For a direction that a trust company serving as coexecutor have custody of all personal property and maintain all records and accounts for the estate, see § 65.403.

For a general consideration of the compensation of executors, see § 65.39. For discussion of will provisions relating to executors' compensation, see §§ 65.39[3], 65.440[1].

[b] Apportionment of Compensation Between Coexecutors

[i] In General

When there are coexecutors, the executor's compensation must be apportioned among them [Prob. Code § 10805; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.704(a)]. If the coexecutors cannot agree among themselves how the compensation should be apportioned, the court will apportion it for them [Prob. Code § 10805; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.704(a)]. Apportionment is required for extraordinary compensation as well as statutory compensation [Prob. Code § 10805; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.704(a)]; see Dobbins v. Title Guar. & Trust Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 64, 67, 136 P.2d 572].

However, the will may make provisions for the executor's compensation; when it does, the compensation set by the will shall be the "full and only compensation" allowed [Prob. Code § 10802(a)]. Although no reported California case has been found sustaining a will clause apportioning compensation among coexecutors, it seems likely that such a provision would be upheld as a will provision setting the "full and only compensation." It should be noted, however, that any will provision setting compensation may be set aside if an executor petitions the court to be relieved from the provision and if the court determines that it would be to the advantage of the estate and in the best interest of the persons interested in the estate to allow greater compensation [Prob. Code § 10802(b), (d)].

[c] When One Coexecutor Is Individual and One Is Trust Company

Problems of apportionment frequently arise when one of the coexecutors is an individual and another is a trust company [see § 65.36[6]]. In such a case, the trust company almost invariably has custody of all personal property and maintains all records and accounts for the estate [see § 65.403[1]]. Since under those circumstances the trust company can be expected to perform the bulk of the work of administration, it will frequently expect the same compensation that a sole executor would receive. Some trust companies strongly suggest that wills include provisions entitling them to such compensation.

[2] FORM

Trust Company Serving as Coexecutor to Be Compensated as if It Were Sole Executor

Compensation of Coexecutors

For its services as coexecutor of this will, _____ [full name of trust company as set forth in nomination paragraph] shall receive the same compensation that it would receive if acting as sole executor of this will.
 _____ [Name of individual coexecutor as set forth in nomination paragraph] shall receive _____ [no compensation or set forth nominal sum, e.g., the sum of $100] for _____
 [his or her] services as coexecutor.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Compensation
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

182 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.444

§ 65.444 Fractional Division of Compensation Between Trust Company and Individual Coexecutor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This provision that may be used to provide for a fractional division of compensation between a trust company serving as coexecutor and an individual coexecutor. For a provision providing that a trust company serving as coexecutor will be compensated as if it were the sole executor and that an individual coexecutor will receive no compensation, see § 65.443. For a nomination of coexecutors, see § 65.202.

For a general discussion of the compensation of executors, see § 65.39. For discussion of will provisions relating to executors' compensation, see §§ 65.39[3], 65.440[1]. For apportionment of compensation among or between coexecutors, see § 65.443[1].

[2] FORM

Fractional Division of Compensation Between Trust Company and Individual Coexecutor

Compensation of Coexecutors

For its services as coexecutor, _____ [full name of trust company as set forth in nomination paragraph] shall receive a sum equal to _____ [specify fractional amount, e.g., one half or two thirds] of the total executor's commission and, for its services as coexecutor, _____ [full name of individual coexecutor as set forth in nomination paragraph] shall receive the balance.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Overview

Probate
Personal Representatives
Compensation

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Wills
General

183 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.445

§ 65.445 Attorney to Receive Compensation Both as Executor and as Attorney for Executor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision stating that an attorney who serves as executor will receive compensation both as executor and as attorney for the executor. For a nomination of an individual as executor, see § 65.200.

[b] Attorneys as Executors

[i] In General

An attorney who serves as executor of a will cannot generally claim compensation both as executor and as attorney for the executor [see Prob. Code § 10804; In re Estate of Parker (1926) 200 Cal. 132, 137, 251 P. 907; see also § 65.39[5]]. However, a personal representative who is an attorney may receive the personal representative's compensation as well as compensation for services as the attorney for the personal representative if the court specifically approves the right to compensation in advance and finds that the arrangement is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 10804]. In addition, an executor who is an attorney may properly employ another attorney to act as his or her attorney in matters relating to administration of the estate, but if the representative elects to act as his or her own attorney, the general rule is that he or she is not entitled to double compensation and must forfeit attorneys' fees in the matter unless prior court approval is obtained [see Prob. Code § 10804; Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 614-615, 328 P.2d 1; Estate of Parker (1926) 200 Cal. 132, 135-136, 251 P. 907]. An attorney may receive compensation for services as personal representative and the attorney's law firm may receive compensation for legal services for the representative on proof that they have agreed that the personal representative will not share in any part of the attorneys' fees [ Estate of Parker (1926) 200 Cal. 132, 137, 251 P. 907; see § 65.39[5]].

[ii] Effect of Will Provision

The will may expressly authorize an attorney to act in the dual capacities of executor and attorney and to receive compensation in both capacities [ Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 616-617, 328 P.2d 1 ; Estate of Crouch (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 801, 802, 49 Cal. Rptr. 926 ]. However, notwithstanding any provision in the decedent's will, the court must grant prior approval of a dual compensation arrangement and must find that the arrangement is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the decedent's estate [Prob. Code § 10804]. This statutory requirement appears consistent with earlier case law holding that a dual compensation provision will be upheld on the theory that the testator has expressed special confidence in the attorney and that, in the absence of a statutory provision or compelling policy reason to the contrary, the testator's clear intentions should be given effect [ Estate of Thompson (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 613, 615-617, 328 P.2d 1 (construing law before enactment of statutory requirement that court must approve dual compensation arrangement)].

[iii] Ethical Considerations

Special ethical problems arise whenever an attorney drafts a will from which he or she will personally profit. If the attorney is to receive compensation that would otherwise go to members of the testator's family, a conflict of interest may arise and an inference of undue influence may be drawn. For a discussion of steps that an attorney must take before drafting any will in which he or she is named as executor, see § 65.200[1][c].

[2] FORM

Attorney to Receive Compensation Both as Executor and as Attorney for Executor

Compensation of Executor and Attorney

If _____ [full name of attorney as set forth in nomination paragraph] elects to act both as my Executor and _____ [his or her] own attorney in the course of administration of my estate, _____ [he or she] shall be entitled to receive both _____ [his or her] statutory commissions as executor and _____ [his or her] commissions as attorney, plus any extraordinary compensation to which _____ [he or she] may be entitled by law.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Compensation Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

184 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

G. Compensation

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 65.446-65.459

[Reserved]

§§ 65.446[Reserved]

185 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

H. Exculpatory Provisions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.460

§ 65.460 Provision Relieving Executor of Liability for Acts and Omissions of Agents and Attorneys

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to relieve an executor of liability for acts or omissions of agents and attorneys employed by the executor in the administration of the estate. For a provision relieving the executor of liability for the executor's own acts or omissions, see § 65.461.

[b] Liability of Executors

An executor may incur personal liability in the course of administration of the estate. An executor's personal liability may be based on the executor's own acts or omissions or on the acts or omissions of agents and employees employed by the executor as executor. When an executor is personally liable, the executor may be liable to persons interested in the estate (e.g., to devisees under the will) or to third persons. For a general consideration of the liability of executors, see § 65.43.

[c] Exculpatory Provisions

[i] In General

The executor's best protection against personal liability is liability insurance. In California, every executor has the power to insure the property of the estate against damage or loss, and to insure himself or herself against liability to third persons [Prob. Code § 9656; see § 65.42[7]].

Some executors, however, may wish to have additional protection against personal liability. In most estates, the executor must employ various persons to assist him or her in the administration of the estate. Attorneys, accountants, and financial advisers are frequently employed to perform tasks and to give the executor advice. A prospective executor may reasonably expect to be protected from personal liability for any act or omission of an agent or employee as well as from any act or omission of the executor that results from good faith reliance on the advice of an attorney, accountant, or financial adviser.

[ii] Trustees

The Trust Law [Prob. Code §§ 15000-18201] explicitly sanctions exculpatory provisions in trust instruments. Under the Trust Law, an exculpatory provision in a trust instrument is effective to relieve a trustee of liability for breach of trust [Prob. Code § 16461(a)], provided the breach is not committed intentionally, with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with reckless indifference to the interests of the beneficiaries [Prob. Code § 16461(b)(1)], and provided further that the trustee does not derive any profit from the breach [Prob. Code § 16461(b)(2)]. Since a breach of trust consists of a violation of a duty that the trustee owes to a beneficiary and not to a third party [Prob. Code § 16400], it follows that an exculpatory provision in a trust instrument will not be effective to relieve the trustee of any liability the trustee may have to a third party.

No similar statute authorizes exculpatory clauses for the purpose of relieving executors of liability. However, the powers and duties of executors are analogous to those of trustees. For this reason, it may be assumed that the courts will look to the Trust Law for guidance in determining the validity of exculpatory clauses relating to executors. Thus it may be assumed that an exculpatory provision will be effective to relieve an executor of liability to the estate and the devisees under the will, but not to third parties, and that the executor will not be relieved of liability resulting from intentional misconduct, gross negligence, bad faith, or reckless indifference to the interests of the devisees, or from any misconduct from which the executor has derived a profit.

[iii] Strictly Construed

Before enactment of the Trust Law, the courts established the general principal that exculpatory clauses must be construed strictly [ Estate of Collins (1977) 139 Cal. Rptr. 644 ] and that an exculpatory provision, even if valid, will not be effective to relieve a fiduciary of liability unless the act or omission giving rise to the liability comes squarely within the terms of the exculpatory provision [, 14 P.2d 1028 ].

[2] FORM

Provision Relieving Executor of Liability for Acts and Omissions of Agents and Attorneys

Liability of Executor

In the course of administration of my estate, my Executor shall be entitled to rely on information or advice given by any custodian, investment adviser, accountant, attorney, or other agent or adviser employed by my Executor for the purpose of assisting my Executor in the proper management and administration of my estate. My Executor shall not be personally liable for any neglect, omission, or wrongdoing of any agent or adviser so employed, provided that reasonable care was exercised in his or her selection.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Claims By & Against
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Probate
 Personal Representatives
 Duties & Powers
 Fiduciary Responsibilities
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Wills
 General Overview

186 of 186 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 65 EXECUTORS

PART IV. FORMS

H. Exculpatory Provisions

24-65 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 65.461

§ 65.461 Provision Relieving Executor of Liability for Own Acts and Omissions

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to relieve an executor of liability for the executor's own acts and omissions. The form includes two alternative provisions. The first may be used to relieve the executor of liability for any act or omission that is not committed intentionally, with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with reckless indifference to the interests of persons interested in the estate, and from which the executor does not derive a profit. The second alternative may be used to relieve the executor of liability for any act or omission that results from good faith reliance on the opinions of attorneys consulted by the executor. Whereas § 65.460 relieves the executor of imputed or vicarious liability for the acts and omission of agents or advisers (providing reasonable care was used in their selection), the second alternative of this form relieves the executor of liability for his or her own acts or omissions resulting from good faith reliance on advice of attorneys.

For a general discussion of the liability of executors, see §§ 65.43 and 65.460[1]. For a will provision relieving the executor of liability for acts or omissions of agents, see § 65.460.

[2] FORM

Provision Relieving Executor of Liability for Own Acts and Omissions

Limitation on Liability of Executor

[First alternative: executor not liable unless act or omission is committed intentionally, with gross negligence, in bad faith, or unless executor derives profit:]

My Executor shall not be liable to my estate or to any person interested in it for any act or omission of my Executor, except an act or omission that is committed intentionally, with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with reckless indifference to the interests of persons interested in my estate, or an act or omission from which my Executor derives a profit.

[Second alternative: executor not liable for act or omission resulting from good faith reliance on advice of attorneys:]

In the course of the administration of my estate, my Executor shall be entitled to rely on information or advice given by any attorney or attorneys employed by my Executor in connection with the administration.

If reasonable care was used in the selection of those attorneys, their opinions shall be full and complete authorization and protection to my Executor for any acts or acts taken or not taken in reliance on them. My Executor shall not be liable to my estate or to any person interested in it for any act or omission of my Executor that results from good faith reliance on and is in accord with any such opinion(s).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Claims By & Against Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers Fiduciary Responsibilities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

1 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide 66.syn

§ 66.syn Synopsis to Chapter 66: GUARDIANSHIPS

§ 66.01 California Sources

[1] Statutes

[2] California Rules of Court

§§ 66.02-66.04 [Reserved]

§ 66.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

§ 66.06 Annotations

§ 66.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

[2] Additional Text References

§§ 66.08-66.09 [Reserved]

§ 66.10 Governing Law

§ 66.11 Fiduciary Relationship of Guardian to Ward

§ 66.12 Types of Guardianships

[1] In General

[2] Authorized by Statute

[3] Guardian De Facto

[4] Guardian De Son Tort

[5] Natural Guardian

[6] Guardian Ad Litem

§ 66.13 Nomination of Guardian

[1] For Person or Estate or Both of Minor

[2] For Property of Minor

[3] Time and Effect

§ 66.14 Appointment of Guardian

[1] Requirement of Necessity or Convenience

[2] Applicability of Child Custody Standards to Guardian of Person

[3] Considerations for Guardian of Estate or Property

[4] Unrelated, Nonprofit Charitable Corporation, and Temporary Guardians

[5] Private Professional Guardians

§ 66.15 Powers and Duties

[1] Guardian of Person

[2] Guardian of Estate

[3] Guardian of Property

[4] Annual Status Report

§ 66.16 Compensation

[1] Of Guardian and Attorney

[2] Restrictions on Right to Receive Attorney Fees and Compensation

§ 66.17 Removal or Resignation of Guardian

§ 66.18 Appointment of Successor Guardian

§ 66.19 Termination of Guardianship

[1] Events Terminating Guardianship

[2] Judicial Declaration of Emancipation

[3] Court-Ordered Termination

[4] Final Account

[5] Termination by Juvenile Court in Dependency Proceeding

[6] Visitation Rights of Guardian

§ 66.20 Use of Guardianships

[1] Protective Nature

[2] In Estate Planning

§ 66.21 Vexatious Litigant Determination in Guardianship Proceeding

§ 66.22 Professional Fiduciaries

[1] Professional Fiduciary

[2] Professional Fiduciaries Bureau

[3] Licensing Requirements

[4] Qualifications for Licensure

[5] License Renewal

[6] Initial and Annual Statement

[7] Suspension, Revocation, Denial and Disciplinary Action

§ 66.23 Guardian's Subsequent Adoption of Minor

§§ 66.24-66.99 [Reserved]

§ 66.100 Facts

Scope

§ 66.101 Documents

Scope

§§ 66.103-66.109 [Reserved]

§ 66.110 Determining Type of Guardian to Nominate

Scope

§ 66.111 Selecting Guardian Nominees

Scope

§§ 66.113-66.119 [Reserved]

§ 66.120 Guardianship of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

Scope

§ 66.121 Guardianship for Property of Minor

Scope

§§ 66.122-66.199 [Reserved]

§ 66.200 Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Will of Parent

[1] Comment

- [a] Use of Form
- [b] Authorization for Nomination
- [c] Effective Date of Nomination
- [d] Appointment of Guardian In General
- [e] Guardianship of Person
- [f] Role of Child's Preference
- [g] Multiple Guardians or Wards
- [h] Nonprofit Charitable Corporation
- [i] Trust Company as Guardian of Estate
- [j] Powers and Duties of Guardian of Person
- [k] Powers and Duties of Guardian of Estate
- [l] Bond Requirements
- [m] Nomination of Alternative Guardians

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Will of Parent

§ 66.201 Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Deed of Parent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Legal Effect of Deed to Nominate Guardian

[c] Common-Law Requirement of Delivery

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Deed of Parent

§ 66.202 Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent

§ 66.203 Consent of One Parent to Other Parent's Nomination of Guardian for Minor [Prob. Code § 1500]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] Form

Consent of One Parent to Other Parent's Nomination of Guardian for Minor

§§ 66.204-66.209 [Reserved]

§ 66.210 Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Parent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Effective Time of Nomination

[c] Appointment of Guardian for Particular Property

[d] Powers and Duties of Guardian

[e] Bond Requirements

[f] Nomination of Successor Guardian

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Parent

§ 66.211 Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Nonparent

[1] Comment

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Nonparent

§ 66.212 Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent or Nonparent

[1] Comment

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent or Nonparent

§§ 66.213-66.219 [Reserved]

§ 66.220 Provision Waiving Bond Requirement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] General Bond Requirement

[c] Bond and Undertaking Law

[d] Exemption for Trust Company

[e] Amount of Bond

[f] Bonds For Joint Guardians

[g] Cautionary Note

[2] FORM

Provision Waiving Bond Requirement

§ 66.221 Provision Nominating Alternate or Successor Guardian

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Provision Nominating Alternate or Successor Guardian

§ 66.222 Provision for Temporary Guardian of Person or Estate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Temporary Guardianship Statutes

[2] FORM

Provision for Temporary Guardian of Person or Estate

§ 66.223 Provisions for Compensation of Guardian and Payments on Behalf of Ward

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Procedure for Obtaining Compensation

[c] Order for Periodic Payment of Services

[d] Payments for Maintenance, Support, and Education of Ward

[2] FORM

Provisions for Compensation of Guardian and Payments on Behalf of Ward

§ 66.224 Provision Conditioning Nomination on Continued Personal or Business Position

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] Form

Provision Conditioning Nomination on Continued Personal or Business Position

§ 66.225 Provision That Particular Individual Has Not Been Nominated as Guardian

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] Form

Provision That Particular Individual Has Not Been Nominated as Guardian

§§ 66.226-66.229 [Reserved]

§ 66.230 Provision Explaining Parent's Selection of Nominee

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] Form

Provision Explaining Parent's Selection of Nominee

§ 66.231 Provision for Joint Guardians of the Person

[1] Comment

- [a] Use of Form
- [b] Appointment of Joint Guardians
- [c] Authority to Act
- [d] Modification or Limitation of Guardian's Statutory Responsibilities

[2] Form

Provision for Joint Guardians of the Person

§§ 66.232-66.239 [Reserved]

§ 66.240 Will Provision Granting Guardian Specific Powers [Prob. Code § 2108(b)]

[1] Comment

- [a] Use of Form
- [b] Authorization for Provision Granting Right to Exercise Powers
- [c] Enumerated Powers
- [d] Grant of Right to Exercise Powers When Form Is Not Used
- [e] Statement of Terms or Powers in Letters of Guardianship

[2] Form

Will Provision Granting Guardian Specific Powers

§ 66.241 Provision for Joint Guardians of the Estate

[1] Comment

- [a] Use of Form
- [b] Appointment and Authority
- [c] Statutory Basis for Division of Authority
- [d] Liability

[2] Form

Provision for Joint Guardians of the Estate

§ 66.242 Provision for Burial Arrangements for Ward

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Last Illness and Disposition of Remains

[c] Liquidation When Value of Estate Not More Than $100,000

[2] Form

Provision for Burial Arrangements for Ward

2 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers guardianship planning, with a focus on the nomination of a guardian for a minor. The Legal Background discusses the following:

- Types of guardianships.
- Powers and duties of guardians.
- Removal or resignation of guardians.
- Termination of a guardianship.

The Transaction Guide lists the facts, documents, determinations, and procedures for nominating a guardian. The forms include forms for the nomination of a guardian, consent by a non-nominating parent to a nomination by the other parent, and various alternative provisions that may be included in a nominating instrument.

This chapter does not discuss court appointment or supervision of a guardian except to the extent that those matters affect the nomination of the guardian. For discussion of those matters, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 280 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

3 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE

A. Primary Sources

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.01

§ 66.01 California Sources

[1] Statutes

Professional Fiduciaries Act Bus. & Prof. Code § 6530 et. seq.

When guardian, conservator, or guardian ad litem must appear in court for minor, incompetent, or conservatee. Code Civ. Proc. § 372.

Bond and Undertaking Law. Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.

Parental entitlement to custody and services of minor. Fam. Code §§ 3010, 7500.

Determination of best interests of a child. Fam. Code § 3011.

Child custody award order of preference. Fam. Code § 3040.

Minor defined. Fam. Code § 6500.

Parental lack of control over child's property. Fam. Code § 7502.

Trust company as guardian of estate. Fin. Code §§ 106, 107, 1500 et seq.; Prob. Code §§ 300, 301.

Procedure for obtaining court order permitting guardian of estate to release power of appointment held by minor donee. Prob. Code § 662.

Appointment of guardian ad litem. Prob. Code § 1003.

Appeals in proceedings under Probate Code. Prob. Code § 1300 et seq.

Appeals with respect to orders in guardianships, conservatorships, and other protective proceedings. Prob. Code § 1301.

Effect of appeal. Prob. Code § 1310.

Reversal of order appointing fiduciary. Prob. Code § 1311.

Guardianship, conservatorship, and other protective proceedings. Prob. Code § 1400 et seq.

Authority of person who petitions for appointment as guardian or conservator to seek any power or authority that guardian or conservator could seek. Prob. Code § 1455.

General notice requirements. Prob. Code § 1460 et seq.

Appointment of legal counsel. Prob. Code § 1470 et seq.

Transitional provisions. Prob. Code § 1488 et seq.

Nomination of guardian. Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.

Appointment of guardian generally. Prob. Code § 1510 et seq.

Nonrelative guardianship requirements. Prob. Code § 1540 et seq.

Termination of guardianship. Prob. Code §§ 1600, 1601.

General provisions regarding appointment of guardians and conservators. Prob. Code § 2100 et seq.

Nonprofit charitable corporation as guardian. Prob. Code § 2104.

Jurisdiction and venue provisions. Prob. Code § 2200 et seq.

Temporary guardians and conservators. Prob. Code § 2250 et seq.

Bond, letters of guardianship, and oath of guardian. Prob. Code § 2300 et seq.

Powers and duties of guardian of person. Prob. Code § 2350 et seq.

Powers and duties of guardian of estate. Prob. Code § 2400 et seq.

Inventory and account requirements. Prob. Code § 2600 et seq.

Compensation of guardians and attorneys. Prob. Code § 2640 et seq.

Removal or resignation of guardians. Prob. Code § 2650 et seq.

Appointment of successor guardian. Prob. Code § 2670.

Requests for special notice. Prob. Code § 2700 et seq.

Transfer of assets out of state. Prob. Code § 2800 et seq.

Guardianship estates with less than $5,000 value. Prob. Code §§ 3400 et seq., 3412(d).

Procedures when sole asset of guardianship estate is money. Prob. Code §§ 3410-3412.

Procedures when minor has no guardian of estate and there is money belonging to minor. Prob. Code § 3413.

Removal of nonresidents' property in state to place of residence of nonresident guardian. Prob. Code § 3800 et seq.

California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act. Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.

Dissolution or annulment of marriage revokes will provision nominating former spouse as guardian. Prob. Code § 6122(a)(3).

Termination of domestic partnership revokes will provision nominating former domestic partner as guardian. Prob. Code § 6122.1(a)(3).

[2] California Rules of Court

General probate rules. Cal. Rules Ct., Rules 7.1 et seq.

Judicial Council forms required. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.101.

Title of account, petition, or other pleading and of proposed order must clearly and completely identify nature of all of relief sought or granted. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.102.

Bonding of personal representatives, guardians, conservators, trustees. Cal. Rules Ct., Rules 7.201 et seq.

Requirement that inventory and appraisal show sufficiency of bond. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.501.

Petitions for order allowing compensation for guardians and their attorneys. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.751.

Order for accounting before or at time petition is filed or heard. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.752.

Contingency fee agreements in guardianships. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.753.

Use of paralegals in performance of legal services for guardian. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.754.

Advance payments prohibited. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.755(a).

Periodic payments on showing of ongoing need for legal services. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.755(b).

Requirement that screening form be submitted with petition for guardianship. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.1001.

Requirement that before court issues letters, guardian execute and file acknowledgment of receipt of Duties of Guardian (Judicial Council Form GC-248) Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.1002.

Confidential guardianship status report form. Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1003.

Termination of guardianship. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1004.

Service of final account or report after guardian's resignation or removal. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1005.

Service of final account on termination of guardianship. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1006.

Settlement of accounts and release by former minor. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1007.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Guardians Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Conservators General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Guardians for Minors Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Testamentary Guardians

4 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE

A. Primary Sources

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.02-66.04

[Reserved]

§§ 66.02[Reserved]

5 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE

B. Secondary Sources

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.05

§ 66.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

Federle, Children's Rights and the Need for Protection, 34(3) Fam. L.Q. 421 (2000).

Calhoun & Basinger, Right to Counsel in Guardianship Proceedings, 33 (5-6) Clearinghouse Rev. 316 (1999).

Rozmus, Representing Families Affected by HIV/AIDS: How the Proposed Federal Standby Guardianship Act Facilitates Future Planning in the Best Interests of the Child and Family, 6 Am. U. J. Gender & L. 299 (1998).

Haines & Campbell, Defects, Due Process and Protective Proceedings: Are Our Probate Codes Unconstitutional? 33 Real Prop. Prob. & Tr. J. 215 (1998).

Haralambie, In Whose Best Interest, 34(6) Trial 42 (1998).

Friedman, Grossman & Guthrie, Guardians: A Research Note, 40 Am. J. Legal Hist. 146 (1996).

Minow, Guardianship of Phillip Becker [Superior Ct. of Santa Clara, California, No. 101981 (1981)], 74 Tex. L. Rev. 1257 (1996).

English, Minors' Guardianship in an Age of Multiple Marriage, 29 Inst. on Est. Plan. 5.1 (1995).

Schlesinger, A Guardianship Questionnaire for Clients, 41 Prac. Law. 75 (1995).

Brink, New Realities in Guardianship Selection, 41(4) Prac. Law. 15 (1995).

Podell, The Role of the Guardian Ad Litem, 25 Trial 30 (April 1989).

Note, Stability in Child-Parent Relations: Modifying Guardianship Law, 33 Stan. L. Rev. 905 (1981).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Guardians Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians General
Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Conservators General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust
Law Conservators & Guardians Guardians for Minors Family Law Guardians General Overview

6 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE

B. Secondary Sources

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.06

§ 66.06 Annotations

Annot., Ademption or Revocation of Specific Devise or Bequest by Guardian, Committee, Conservator, or Trustee of Mentally or Physically Incompetent Testator, 84 A.L.R.4th 462 (1991) .

Annot., Necessity or Propriety of Appointment of Independent Guardian for Child Who Is Subject of Paternity Proceedings, 70 A.L.R.4th 1033 (1989) .

Annot., Validity of Inter Vivos Gift by Ward to Guardian or Conservator, 70 A.L.R.4th 499 (1989) .

Annot., Guardian's Authority, Without Seeking Court Approval, to Exercise Ward's Right to Revoke Trust, 53 A.L.R.4th 1297 (1987) .

Annot., Tolling of Statute of Limitations on Account of Minority of Injured Child as Applicable to Parent's or Guardian's Right of Action Arising Out of Same Injury, 49 A.L.R.4th 216 (1986) .

Annot., Validity of Guardianship Proceeding Based on Brainwashing of Subject by Religious, Political, or Social Organization, 44 A.L.R.4th 1207 (1986) .

Annot., Judgment in Guardian's Final Accounting Proceedings as Res Judicata in Ward's Subsequent Action Against Guardian, 34 A.L.R.4th 1121 (1984) .

Annot., Resignations or Removal of Executor, Administrator, Guardian, or Trustee, Before Final Administration or Before Termination of Trust, as Affecting His Compensation, 96 A.L.R.3d 1102 (1979) .

Annot., Guardian's Position as Joint Tenant of or Successor to Property in Ward's Estate as Raising Conflict of Interest, 69 A.L.R.3d 1171 (1976) .

Annot., Who Is Minor's Next of Kin for Guardianship Purposes, 63 A.L.R.3d 813 (1975) .

Annot., Amount of Attorneys' Compensation in Matters Involving Guardianship and Trusts, 57 A.L.R.3d 550 (1974) .

Annot., Termination of Continuing Guaranty by Appointment of Guardian or Conservator for Guarantor, 55 A.L.R.3d 344 (1974) .

Citizenship of Ward or of Guardian, Conservator, Curator, or Next Friend, as Test of Diversity of Citizenship for Purpose of Jurisdiction of Federal District Court under 28 U.S.C. § 1332, 8 A.L.R. Fed. 550 (1971).

Annot., Guardian's Power to Make Lease for Infant Ward Beyond Minority or Term of Guardianship, 6 A.L.R.3d 570 (1966) .

Annot., Capacity of Guardian to Sue or to Be Sued Outside State Where Appointed, 94 A.L.R.2d 162 (1964) .

Annot., Construction and Effect of Provision for Service of Process Against Minor on a Parent, Guardian or Other Designated Person, 92 A.L.R.2d 1336 (1963) .

Annot., Sufficiency of Delivery of Deed Where Grantor Retains, or Recovers, Physical Possession, 87 A.L.R.2d 787 (1963) .

Annot., Propriety of Service of Process in an In Personam Action on Resident Minor Defendant Whose Only Guardian Is a Nonresident and Cannot Be Served Validly Either Within or Without State, 86 A.L.R.2d 1183 (1962) .

Annot., Appointment of Guardian for Incompetent or for Infant as Affecting Running of Statute of Limitations, 86 A.L.R.2d 965 (1962) .

Annot., Right of Infant to Select His Own Guardian, 85 A.L.R.2d 921 (1962) .

Annot., Guardian's Liability for Interest on Ward's Funds, 72 A.L.R.2d 757 (1960) .

Annot., Function, Power and Discretion of Court Where There is Testamentary Appointment of Guardian of Minor, 67 A.L.R.2d 803 (1959) .

Annot., Power of Court to Confirm Sale of Ward's Property Over Objection of Guardian, 43 A.L.R.2d 1445 (1955) .

Annot., Guardian's Authority to Make Agreement to Drop or Compromise Will Contest or Withdraw Objections to Probate, 42 A.L.R.2d 1361 (1955).

Annot., Right of Foreign Personal Representative or Guardian to Vote Stock Owned by Estate or Ward, 41 A.L.R.2d 1082 (1955) .

Annot., What Constitutes Change of Position by Payee-Guardian so as to Preclude Recovery of Payment Made Under Mistake, 40 A.L.R.2d 1011 (1955) .

Annot., Doctrine of Natural Guardianship, 32 A.L.R.2d 863 (1953) .

Annot., Guardian De Facto or De Son Tort of Minor, 25 A.L.R.2d 752 (1952) .

Annot., Consideration and Weight of Religious Affiliations in Appointment or Removal of Guardian for Minor Child, 22 A.L.R.2d 696 (1952) .

Annot., Estoppel of or waiver by parties or participants regarding irregularities or defects in execution or judicial sale, 2 A.L.R.2d 6 (1948) .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesGuardiansEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral
OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust
LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

7 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE

B. Secondary Sources

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.07

§ 66.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

California Forms of Pleading and Practice (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians.

Ch. 282, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Temporary Guardians and Conservators.

Ch. 283, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Bonds.

Ch. 284, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Notice.

Ch. 285, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Care of Ward or Conservatee.

Ch. 286, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Inventory and Appraisal.

Ch. 287, Guardianship and Conservatorship: General Management Powers.

Ch. 288, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Independent Exercise of Powers.

Ch. 290, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Maintenance of Ward or Conservatee.

Ch. 290A, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Asset Management and Investment.

Ch. 290C, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Actions and Disputed Claims.

Ch. 290D, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Actions Against Guardians, Conservators, and Sureties.

Ch. 290E, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Accounts.

Ch. 290F, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Compensation of Guardian or Conservator.

Ch. 290G, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Removal or Resignation of Guardians and Conservators.

Ch. 290H, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships.

Ch. 291, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Guardians Ad Litem.

California Legal Forms (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, §§ 61.201, 61.210-61.214.

Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors, § 100.202 (notice of change of minor's residence).

Ch. 100A, Minors' Personal Affairs, §§ 100A.230 (receipt for funds if guardianship estate is less than $5,000), 100A.240 (release of minor's tort claim against third person).

Ch. 100B, Minors' Contracts & Employment, §§ 100B.230 (release of minor's disputed contract claim against third person), 100B.250 (notice of guardian's claim on wages of minor).

California Wills & Trusts, Ch. 37, Nomination of Guardians for Minor Children (Matthew Bender).

California Wills & Trusts Forms, § 80 et seq., Guardian (Matthew Bender).

California Probate Practice (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 1, Client Interview and Preliminary Assistance, § 1.15 (custody of minor children).

Ch. 3, General Procedure in Probate Proceedings, §§ 3.10, 3.11 (appointment of guardian ad litem).

Ch. 4, Transfer of Property Without Administrations, §§ 4.30 et seq. (collection of small estate without administration); 4.40 et seq. (passing property to spouse without administration).

Ch. 25, Distribution and Discharge, § 25.11 (distribution of estate to minor).

[2] Additional Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 10, Parent and Child, §§ 510-518, 729-973; vol. 14, Wills and Probate, §§ 903-930, 960-1053 (10th ed. 2005).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Guardians Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Conservators General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Guardians for Minors Family Law Guardians General Overview

8 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.08-66.09

[Reserved]

§§ 66.08[Reserved]

9 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.10

§ 66.10 Governing Law

Except as otherwise expressly provided by statute, guardianships in California are covered by Divisions 3 and 4 of the Probate Code [Prob. Code § 2100; see Prob. Code § 1000 et seq. (Division 3, covering general provisions of procedural nature); see also Prob. Code § 1400 et seq. (Division 4, covering guardianship, conservatorship, and other protective proceedings)]. If no specific provision of Division 4 is applicable, provisions of the Probate Code applicable to the administration of decedents' estates govern insofar as they apply to like situations [Prob. Code § 2100]. Most of the provisions of Divisions 3 and 4 apply both to guardianships and conservatorships, although a few apply only to one or the other type of proceeding.

The statutes governing guardianships were substantially revised effective January 1, 1981 [see Stats. 1979, ch. 726]. Generally, guardianships and nominations of guardians in existence before January 1, 1981, continue in existence and are governed by the provisions of Division 4 [see Prob. Code § 1488 et seq. (transitional provisions)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Guardians Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Conservators General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Guardians for Minors Family Law Guardians General Overview

10 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.11

§ 66.11 Fiduciary Relationship of Guardian to Ward

The relationship between a guardian and a ward is a fiduciary relationship that is governed by the law of trusts, except as provided in Probate Code Sections 1400 et seq. [Prob. Code § 2101; see Prob. Code § 15000 et seq. (Trust Law)]; see also Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions, § 64.30[1]. A guardian is subject to the regulation and control of the court in the performance of his or her duties [Prob. Code § 2102]. Guardians exercise a trust demanding the highest degree of good faith and confidence, and the law is scrupulously careful in protecting the interests of wards [ Clark v. State Bar (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 161, 166, 246 P.2d 1; Guardianship of Carlton (1941) 43 Cal. App. 2d 204, 208, 110 P.2d 488].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians General Overview Family Law Guardians General Overview

11 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.12

§ 66.12 Types of Guardianships

[1] In General

The guardianship statutes provide for three types of guardians of minors, which are covered in detail in this chapter [see Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1501 (nomination of guardian), 1510 et seq. (appointment of guardian), 2350 et seq. (powers of guardian of the person), 2400 et seq. (powers of guardian of the estate); see also discussion under §§ 66.13- 66.15, below ]:

- Guardians of the person.
- Guardians of the estate.
- Guardians of the person and estate.

Three types of guardians are not authorized by statute, but are recognized as existing outside of the appointment procedure:

- Guardians de facto [see discussion under [3], below].
- Guardians de son tort [see discussion under [4], below].
- Natural guardians [see discussion under [5], below].

These types of guardianships are briefly described below but are not otherwise covered in this chapter.

[2] Authorized by Statute

The guardianship statutes authorize three types of guardianships for minors. Minors are all persons under the age of 18 [Fam. Code § 6500]:

- A guardian may be appointed for the person of a minor [Prob. Code § 1514].
- A guardian may be appointed for the estate of a minor [Prob. Code § 1514]. A combined guardian of the person and estate of a minor is also possible [Prob. Code § 1514].
- A guardian may be appointed for property that a minor has or will receive, or is receiving, from or by designation of a nominator [Prob. Code § 1501].

The guardianship statutes specifically do not apply to minors who are married or whose marriage has been dissolved [Prob. Code § 1515]. They do apply, however, to a minor whose marriage has been adjudged a nullity [Prob. Code § 1515].

[3] Guardian De Facto

A guardian de facto is one who acts with bona fides as a guardian of the person or estate, often before actual appointment as guardian, in taking care of the ward or the ward's estate. If the court recognizes the person as a guardian de facto, he or she is subject to all the duties and liabilities of a guardian [ Guardianship of Giambastiani (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 639, 645, 37 P.2d 142 ], and is entitled to an allowance for proper disbursements for the benefit of the ward or the ward's estate [ Guardianship of Jacobson (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 312, 320, 182 P.2d 537 (benefit of estate); Guardianship of Giambastiani (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 639, 645, 37 P.2d 142 (benefit of ward)].

[4] Guardian De Son Tort

A guardian de son tort is one who wrongfully meddles with or assumes authority over the property of a minor. The guardian de son tort acquires none of the rights of a guardian, but must render an account as if he or she were an appointed guardian [ Aldrich v. Willis (1880) 55 Cal. 81, 85 ], and may be required to give specific relief with respect to the particular fund or property over which authority was assumed [ Stull v. Benedict (1909) 10 Cal. App. 619, 622, 102 P. 961 ].

[5] Natural Guardian

The term "natural guardian" refers to the parents of a minor. Parents are entitled to the custody, services, and earnings of an unemancipated minor child, and if either parent is dead, unable or refuses to take custody, or abandons the child, the other parent is entitled to the custody, services, and earnings of the minor [Fam. Code §§ 3010, 7500]. However, the parent, as such, has no control over the child's property [Fam. Code § 7502]. The distinction between a parent's control over the person of a minor as against the property of the minor has led to the proposition that natural guardianships, also known as guardianship by nature, extend only to the custody of the person and not to the estate of the ward [see Kendall v. Miller (1858) 9 Cal. 591, 592 ; see also Fam. Code § 7502 (parent as such has no control over property of child)].

[6] Guardian Ad Litem

A guardian ad litem is a guardian appointed for the special purpose of representing a minor or incompetent person in a judicial proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a)]. The guardian or conservator of the estate or the guardian ad litem appearing for a minor, incompetent person, or person for whom a conservator has been appointed has power, with the approval of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending, to do any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a); County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1311, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 471 (guardian ad litem is officer and agent of appointing court, whose duty it is to protect minor's rights)]:

- Compromise the action.

- Agree to the order or judgment to be entered for or against the ward or conservatee.
- Satisfy any judgment or order in favor of the ward or conservatee or release or discharge any claim of the ward or conservatee pursuant to a compromise.

If a guardian ad litem is needed in any proceeding, the judge in that proceeding has power to appoint the guardian ad litem [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a)]. When a person who has need of a guardian ad litem has previously nominated a guardian or conservator (as in the case of a nomination by an adult prior to the time the adult became incompetent), the person so nominated is presumptively entitled to appointment as guardian ad litem if and when the appointment becomes necessary [ In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1151-1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46 ; see Prob. Code §§ 1810 (nomination of conservator by proposed conservatee), 4126(b) (effect of nomination of guardian or conservator)].

In an action prosecuted by a guardian ad litem, the minor is the real party; judgment may not be rendered for or against the guardian, but only for or against the minor [ First Security Bank of Cal. v. Paquet (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 468, 475, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 ] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

12 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.13

§ 66.13 Nomination of Guardian

[1] For Person or Estate or Both of Minor

A parent may nominate a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor child in either of the following cases [Prob. Code § 1500]:

- The other parent nominates or consents in writing to the nomination of the same guardian for the same child.
- At the time the petition for appointment of the guardian is filed, either the other parent is dead or lacks legal capacity to consent to the nomination, or the consent of the other parent would not be required for an adoption of the child.

A guardian of the person cannot be appointed for a minor who is married or whose marriage has been dissolved, unless the marriage is adjudged a nullity [Prob. Code § 1515; Guardianship of Melissa W. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1293, 1300, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42]. However, a conservator of the person may be appointed for a minor who is married or whose marriage has been dissolved, if the need for a conservator is established to the court's satisfaction [Prob. Code § 1800.3(a)(2); see § 66A.12[1]].

[2] For Property of Minor

A parent or any other person may nominate a guardian for property that a minor receives from or by designation of the nominator including, but not limited to, property received by the minor by gift, deed, trust, will, succession, insurance, or benefits of any kind [Prob. Code § 1501]. The property may have been received before, at the time of, or after the nomination [Prob. Code § 1501].

[3] Time and Effect

A nomination may be made in the petition for appointment of the guardian or at the hearing on the petition [Prob. Code § 1502(a)]. The nomination may also be made in a writing signed before or after the petition for appointment is filed [

Prob. Code § 1502(a)].

The nomination is effective when made, except that a writing nominating a guardian may provide that the nomination will become effective only on the occurrence of conditions specified in the writing, including such conditions as the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the person making the nomination [Prob. Code § 1502(b)].

Unless the nomination expressly provides otherwise, it remains effective notwithstanding the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the person making the nomination [Prob. Code § 1502(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansTestamentary GuardiansFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

13 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.14

§ 66.14 Appointment of Guardian

[1] Requirement of Necessity or Convenience

If it appears necessary or convenient, the court may appoint a guardian of the person, a guardian of the estate, or a guardian of both the person and estate [Prob. Code § 1514(a)]. However, the requirement of necessity or convenience is applied differently in a proceeding for appointment of a guardian of the estate than in a proceeding for appointment of a guardian of the person. Since a parent, as such, has no control over the child's property [Fam. Code § 7502], the fact that a minor owns property ordinarily is sufficient to support a finding that appointment of a guardian of the estate is necessary or convenient [ Guardianship of Kentera (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 639, 643, 262 P.2d 317 ]. Appointment of a guardian of the person of a minor, on the other hand, occurs most frequently when both parents of the child are dead [see Guardianship of Hall (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 508, 19 Cal. Rptr. 426 ]. In other situations, the courts generally will defer to alternative proceedings, such as an adoption or a grant of custody in a dissolution proceeding. For discussion of adoption see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law, 2nd Ed., Ch. 170 et seq. (Matthew Bender); for discussion of child custody, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law, 2nd Ed., Ch. 33, Custody and Visitation Orders (Matthew Bender).

[2] Applicability of Child Custody Standards to Guardian of Person

When the court appoints a guardian of the person of a minor, it must be guided by the Family Code provisions relating to custody of a minor [Prob. Code § 1514(b); see Fam. Code § 3020 et seq.]. Under those provisions, the court must determine custody according to the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 3040(a)]. In considering the best interests of the child, the court must consider, among any other factors it finds relevant, all of the following [Fam. Code § 3011; see Fam. Code § 6203 ("abuse" defined), Pen. Code § 11165.6 ("child abuse" defined)]:

- The health, safety, and welfare of the child.
- Any history of abuse by one parent or any other person seeking custody against any of the following [Fam. Code § 3011(b)]. "Abuse against a child" means "child abuse" as defined in Pen. Code § 11165.6 and abuse against any of the other persons described below means "abuse" as defined in Fam. Code § 6203:

- Any child to whom the person is related by blood or affinity or with whom he or she has had a caretaking relationship, no matter how temporary.
- The other parent.
- A parent, current spouse, or cohabitant, of the parent or person seeking custody, or a person with whom the parent or person seeking custody has a dating or engagement relationship.

As a prerequisite to considering allegations of abuse, the court may require substantial independent corroboration, including, but not limited to, written reports by any of the following:

- Law enforcement agencies.
  - Child protective services or other social welfare agencies.
  - Courts.
  - Medical facilities.
  - Other public agencies or private nonprofit organizations providing services to victims of sexual assault or domestic violence.
- The nature and amount of contact with both parents.
  - The habitual or continual illegal use of controlled substances or habitual or continual abuse of alcohol by either parent. "Controlled substances" has the same meaning as defined in the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act [see Health & Safety Code § 11000 et seq.]. Before considering these allegations, the court may first require independent corroboration, including, but not limited to, written reports by any of the following:
    - Law enforcement agencies.
    - Courts.
    - Probation departments.
    - Social welfare agencies.
    - Medical facilities.
    - Rehabilitation facilities.
    - Other public agencies or nonprofit organizations providing drug and alcohol abuse services.

If the child is of sufficient age and capacity to form an intelligent preference as to custody, the court must consider and give due weight to the child's wishes [Fam. Code § 3042(a)].

Fam. Code § 3040 sets forth an order of preference that should be followed in awarding custody. Subject to the general rule that the best interests of the child are controlling, preference should first be given to both parents jointly, or to either parent [Fam. Code § 3040(a)(1); see Fam. Code §§ 3040(b) (no preference for or against joint custody or sole custody), 3080 et seq. (joint custody of minor child)]. In ordering custody to either parent, the court must consider, among other factors and subject to the best interest of the child, which parent is more likely to allow the child frequent and continuing contact with the noncustodial parent. The court must not prefer a parent as custodian because of that parent's sex [Fam. Code § 3040(a)(1); see Fam. Code §§ 3011, 3020]. If neither parent is awarded custody, the court should award custody to any person or persons in whose home the child has been living in a wholesome and stable environment [Fam. Code § 3040(a)(2)]. If there is no such person, then custody may be awarded to any other person or persons deemed by the court to be suitable and able to provide adequate and proper care and guidance for the child [Fam. Code § 3040(a)(3)]. Before a court may make any order awarding custody to someone other than a parent over a parent's objection, it must make a finding that an award to a parent would be detrimental to the child and that award to a nonparent is required to serve the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 3041(a)]. If a court finds that granting custody to a parent would be detrimental and granting custody to a nonparent would be in the child's best interests, the court may grant custody to the nonparent without further balancing the parent's constitutionally protected interest in an opportunity to form a relationship with the child [ Adoption of Daniele G. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1392, 1408, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341 ].

"Detriment to the child" includes the harm of removal from a stable placement of a child with a person who has assumed, on a day-to-day basis, the role of the child's parent, fulfilling both the child's physical needs and the child's psychological needs for care and affection, and who has assumed that role for a substantial period of time [Fam. Code § 3041(c)]. A finding that parental custody would be detrimental to the child must ordinarily be supported by clear and convincing evidence [Fam. Code § 3041(b)]. However, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the person to whom custody may be given is a person described in Fam. Code § 3041(c), this finding is deemed a finding that the custody is in the child's best interest and that parental custody would be detrimental to the child absent a showing by a preponderance of the evidence to the contrary [Fam. Code § 3041(d)].

When the child is an Indian child, before making an order granting custody to a person or persons other than a parent over the objection of a parent, the court is required to apply special evidentiary standards, and placement preferences and standards, specified in the federal Indian Child Welfare Act [see 25 U.S.C. §§ 1912 (d), (e), (f) (evidentiary standards), 1922 (placement)] and California law [Fam. Code § 3041(e); see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 224.6, 361.7 (evidentiary standards), 361.31 (placement)].

[3] Considerations for Guardian of Estate or Property

The court must appoint a person nominated as guardian of the estate by a parent [see Prob. Code § 1500; see also Prob. Code § 1502], or by the owner of property governed by the nomination [see Prob. Code § 1501], unless the court determines that the nominee is unsuitable [Prob. Code § 1514(c), (d); see Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1501 (nomination of guardians)]. In determining the suitability of a nominee, the court must be guided by what appears to be in the best interest of the proposed ward [Prob. Code § 1514(e)(1)]. The proposed guardian's ability to manage and preserve the estate and his or her concern for and interest in the welfare of the proposed ward are to be taken into account [Prob. Code § 1514(e)(1)].

If the proposed ward is of sufficient age to form an intelligent preference as to the person to be appointed guardian, the court must give consideration to that preference in making the appointment [Prob. Code § 1514(e)(2)].

[4] Unrelated, Nonprofit Charitable Corporation, and Temporary Guardians

Special requirements apply when a proposed guardian of the person (or of the person and estate) is unrelated to the proposed ward [Prob. Code § 1540(a), (b); see Prob. Code § 1540 et seq.]. Public guardians and certain officials of public welfare agencies are exempt from these requirements [see Prob. Code § 1540(c)-(f); see also Health & Safety Code § 416 et seq.]. The special requirements include submission of additional material in the petition for appointment of a guardian [see Prob. Code § 1541] and the filing of an investigative report with respect to the suitability of the proposed guardian [see Prob. Code § 1543].

Appointment of a nonprofit charitable corporation as guardian of the person or estate or both is governed by Prob. Code § 2104. Prob. Code § 2104 also governs the compensation allowed the corporation as guardian.

Special provisions govern the appointment and performance of a temporary guardian [see Prob. Code § 2250 et seq.]. The petition for a temporary guardian may be filed on or after filing for appointment of a guardian [Prob. Code § 2250(a)(1)].

[5] Private Professional Guardians

If a guardian acts as a guardian for two or more persons at the same time who are not related to the guardian or to each other by blood, adoption, marriage, or registered domestic partner, and if the guardian is not a bank, trust company, broker-dealer, or public officer or agency, the guardian is a "professional fiduciary" and is subject to licensure under the Professional Fiduciaries Act [Bus. & Prof. Code 6501 (f), Prob. Code § 60.1(b), see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq ("Professional Fiduciaries Act")]. To be licensed as a professional fiduciary, an applicant must meet the qualifications, including, but not limited to, being at least 21 years of age and meeting specified education requirements, as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533(a)-(k)]. For a detailed discussion on the Professional Fiduciaries Act, and the licensing requirements of professional fiduciaries, see § 66.22.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Family Law
 Guardians Appointment

14 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.15

§ 66.15 Powers and Duties

[1] Guardian of Person

The general powers and duties of guardians of the person are set forth in Prob. Code § 2350 et seq. A guardian of the person is responsible for the care, custody, control, and education of the ward [Prob. Code § 2351(a)]. In exercising his or her duties, however, a guardian may not hire or refer business to an entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of the interest to the court [Prob. Code § 2351(d)].

The guardian may fix the ward's residence, although court permission is required if the place is not inside California [Prob. Code § 2352(a)]. Guardians generally have the same right as parents to consent to medical treatment for their wards and to require the wards to receive treatment [Prob. Code § 2353(a); see Prob. Code § 2357 (medical treatment for existing or continuing condition); see also Prob. Code § 2353(b) (limitations on surgery when ward is 14 or older)]. They also have authority to institute proceedings for placing their wards in mental health facilities [Prob. Code § 2356(a); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 6000(b) (requirements for minor's admission to state mental hospital)].

A guardian nominated by will and appointed by the court must be granted the same authority as a parent having legal custody, except as limited by the will or by the court for good cause [Prob. Code § 2108(a)]. The guardian may exercise the authority without notice, hearing, court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation, in the same manner as if the authority were exercised by a parent having legal custody of a child [Prob. Code § 2108(a)].

Except as otherwise limited by court order, a guardian of the person of a nonresident ward has the same powers and duties as a guardian of a resident ward while the nonresident is in California [Prob. Code § 2107(a)].

[2] Guardian of Estate

The general powers and duties of guardians of the estate are set forth in Prob. Code § 2400 et seq. A guardian of the estate has the management and control of the ward's estate and, in managing that estate, is required to use ordinary care and diligence [Prob. Code § 2401(a)]. What constitutes ordinary care and diligence is determined by all the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 2401(a)]. A guardian of the estate is required to exercise a power to the extent that ordinary care and diligence require that the power be exercised [Prob. Code § 2401(b)(1)] and is forbidden to exercise it to the extent that ordinary care and diligence require that it not be exercised [Prob. Code § 2401(b)(2)]. In exercising his or her duties, however, a guardian may not hire or refer business to an entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of the interest to the court [Prob. Code § 2401(c)].

The Probate Code contains detailed rules prescribing the powers and duties of guardians of the estate with respect to such matters as the following:

- The ward's support and maintenance [see Prob. Code § 2420 et seq.].
- Payment of debts and expenses [see Prob. Code §§ 2430, 2431].
- Estate management [see Prob. Code § 2450 et seq.].
- Compromise of claims and actions [see Prob. Code § 2500 et seq.].
- Transfers of property [see Prob. Code §§ 850-859].
- Sales [see Prob. Code § 2540 et seq.].
- Notes, mortgages, leases, conveyances, and exchanges [see Prob. Code § 2550 et seq.].
- Investments and purchase of property [see Prob. Code § 2570 et seq.].

The Probate Code also sets forth rules under which the court, in its discretion, may grant the guardian certain "powers" [see Prob. Code § 2590 et seq.]. The court may, in its discretion, make an order granting the guardian any one or more or all of the powers specified in Prob. Code § 2591 if the court determines that, under the circumstances, it would be to the advantage, benefit, and best interest of the estate to do so [Prob. Code § 2590(a)]. The guardian may exercise the powers granted without notice, hearing or court authorization, subject only to the limitations as expressly provided in the order granting the powers [Prob. Code § 2590(a)]. A guardian does not have any powers as provided by Prob. Code § 2591 without authorization by a court [Prob. Code § 2590(b)]. If a guardian of the estate is nominated under Prob. Code § 1500 or Prob. Code § 1501 and appointed by the court, he or she must, to the extent provided in the nomination, be granted the right to exercise any one or more powers, provided in Prob. Code § 2591 except that for a guardian nominated under Prob. Code § 1501, the additional authority is limited to the property covered by the nomination [Prob. Code § 2108(b)].

Within 90 days after appointment (or later, if the court allows further time), a guardian of the estate must file an inventory and appraisal of the estate with the clerk of the court [Prob. Code § 2610(a)]. The inventory and appraisal must be made as of the date of the guardian's appointment [Prob. Code § 2610(a)]. The guardian must file an account one year after appointment and, unless otherwise ordered by the court, further accounts every two years thereafter [Prob. Code § 2620(a); see Prob. Code § 2620(c)-(e) (accounting requirements)].

A guardian may be appointed for the estate of a nonresident ward. In that case, the guardian has the same powers and duties as a guardian of the estate of a resident ward, except that the guardian's powers extend only to the ward's property within California [Prob. Code § 2107(b)]. The responsibility of a guardian of the estate of a nonresident ward with regard to inventory, accounting, and disposal of the estate is limited to property that comes into the guardian's hands in California [Prob. Code § 2107(b)].

[3] Guardian of Property

A guardian may be appointed for particular property [see Prob. Code § 1514(d)] (appointment of guardian nominated under Prob. Code § 1501); see also Prob. Code § 1501 (nomination of guardian for property minor received from or by designation of nominator)]. A guardian appointed for particular property has the same powers and duties as a guardian of the estate, except that the powers and duties extend only to the particular property [Prob. Code § 2109(a)]. The responsibility of a guardian of particular property with regard to inventory, accounting, and disposal of the estate is limited to the property covered by the appointment [Prob. Code § 2109(a)].

If both a guardian of the estate and a guardian of particular property have been appointed, the guardian appointed for particular property manages and controls that property, and the guardian of the estate manages and controls the balance of the ward's estate [Prob. Code § 2109(b)(1)]. In that case, either guardian may petition the court for instructions concerning how their duties are to be allocated [Prob. Code § 2109(b)(2)]; see Prob. Code § 2403 (petition for instruction or confirmation of acts)].

[4] Annual Status Report

To the extent resources are available, courts must implement procedures to ensure that every guardian completes and returns to the court an annual status report [Prob. Code § 1513.2(a)]; see Judicial Council Form GC-251, Confidential Guardianship Status Report]. The report must include information about the status of the guardianship, including the guardian's present address, the name and birth date of the child under guardianship, the name of the school in which the child is enrolled, and information about the person with whom the child is residing if the child is not in the guardian's home and why the child was moved [Prob. Code § 1513.2(b)]. It is a misdemeanor for a guardian to submit willfully any material information required by the form that the guardian knows to be false [Prob. Code § 1513.2(a)].

A guardian must file the completed and signed report no later than one month after the anniversary date of the order appointing him or her as guardian. Co-guardians may sign and file reports jointly [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1003(a)].

At least one month before the date the guardian is required to return the status report, the clerk of the court must mail to the guardian a notice informing the guardian that he or she is required to complete and return the report to the court [Prob. Code § 1513.2(a)]. The clerk must enclose a blank status report form for the guardian to complete and return by mail for each child under guardianship in the same case [Prob. Code § 1513.2(a)]; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1003(b) (clerk must fill in due date for report)]. If the guardian does not complete and return the status report, or if the court finds after the guardian has returned the report that further information is needed, the court must attempt to obtain this information from the guardian or other sources [Prob. Code § 1513.2(a)]. If the court is unable to obtain this information within 30 days after the date the status report is due, the court must either order the guardian to make himself or herself available to the court's investigator for purposes of investigation of the guardianship or to show cause why the guardian should not be removed [Prob. Code § 1513.2(a)].

The status report is confidential and may only be made available to persons who have been served in the proceedings or their attorneys [Prob. Code § 1513.2(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Duties & Rights
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Family Law
 Guardians
 Duties & Rights

15 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.16

§ 66.16 Compensation

[1] Of Guardian and Attorney

At any time after the filing of the inventory and appraisal, but not earlier than 90 days after letters are issued, or after any other period of time that the court for good cause orders, a guardian may petition the court for an order fixing and allowing compensation to the guardian and the attorney for the guardian [Prob. Code §§ 2640(a), 2641(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.751]. After holding a hearing, the court must allow just and reasonable compensation, which will become a charge against the estate [Prob. Code §§ 2640(c), 2641(b)].

[2] Restrictions on Right to Receive Attorney Fees and Compensation

Special rules restrict the right of an attorney to receive attorneys' fees from the estate if the attorney is also the guardian [see Prob. Code § 2645]. An attorney who is also the guardian may not receive any compensation from the estate for services performed for the guardian unless the court specifically approves the right to the compensation and finds that it is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the ward [Prob. Code § 2645(a)]. Similar rules restrict the right of relatives, partners, shareholders, or employees of the guardian to receive compensation from the estate. No parent, child, siblings, or spouse of a person who is guardian, and no law partnership or corporation whose partner, shareholder, or employee is serving as guardian, may receive any compensation for legal services performed for the guardian unless the court specifically approves the right to compensation and finds that it is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the ward [Prob. Code § 2645(b)].

An attorney who seeks compensation under these rules must show that his or her representation, as opposed to legal representation otherwise available, benefitted the conservatorship estate [ Brown v. Brown (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 117, 122-123, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755 (conservatorship; same rules applicable to guardianship)]. It is not sufficient merely to show that the ward or the estate derived some benefit from the representation [ Brown v. Brown (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 117, 119-120, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755 (conservatorship; same rules applicable to guardianship)].

Neither the rules restricting the right of an attorney who is also a guardian, or the specified relatives, partners, or employees of a guardian, to receive legal fees from the guardianship estate apply if the guardian or conservator is related by blood or marriage to, or is a cohabitant with, the ward [Prob. Code § 2645(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Guardians for Minors
Family Law
Guardians
General Overview

16 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.17

§ 66.17 Removal or Resignation of Guardian

A guardian may be removed for cause or may resign [see Prob. Code § 2650 et seq.]. A guardian may be removed for any of the following reasons [Prob. Code § 2650(a)-(c)]:

- Failure to use ordinary care and diligence in the management of the estate.
- Failure to file an inventory or render an account on time.
- Continued failure to perform duties or incapacity to perform duties suitably.

Other causes for removal of a guardian include [Prob. Code § 2650(d)-(f)]:

- Conviction of a felony, whether before or after appointment as a guardian.
- Gross immorality.
- Having an interest adverse to the faithful performance of duties which creates an unreasonable risk that the guardian will not faithfully perform his or her duties.

A guardian of the person may be removed if he or she violates the law governing placement of a ward in a mental health treatment facility and consenting to the administration of prohibited drugs and treatment [see Prob. Code § 2650(g); see also Prob. Code § 2356]. A guardian of the estate may be removed for insolvency or bankruptcy of the guardian [Prob. Code § 2650(h)]. A guardian may also be removed if the court determines that removal is in the best interests of the ward, taking into account the fact that the guardian was appointed under Prob. Code §§ 1500 or 1501 [Prob. Code § 2650(i)].

A guardian may file a petition at any time tendering his or her resignation [Prob. Code § 2660]. Prob. Code § 2660 sets forth the procedure and conditions under which the court may allow the resignation.

When the court grants a petition removing the guardian of a minor ward (or tendering the guardian's resignation), and does not immediately appoint a successor guardian, the court must at the same time appoint a responsible adult to make educational decisions for the minor until it appoints a successor [Prob. Code § 2662]. Likewise, if the court suspends or limits the guardian's powers to make educational decisions for the minor, it must at the same time appoint a responsible adult to make these decisions until the guardian is again authorized to do so [Prob. Code § 2662]. An individual who has a conflict of interest in representing the minor may not be appointed to make educational decisions [Prob. Code § 2662]. This means a person that has any interests which might restrict his or her ability to make educational decisions, including, but not limited to, the conflicts of interest prohibited by Gov. Code § 1126, and the receipt of compensation or attorneys' fees for providing services under this section [Prob. Code § 2662]. A foster parent is not considered to have a conflict of interest solely because he or she receives compensation for providing services under this section [Prob. Code § 2662].

A guardian of the estate who resigns or is removed must serve a copy of the final account or report and petition for its settlement with the notice of hearing that must be served on the successor guardian of the estate under Prob. Code § 1460(b)(1), unless the court dispenses with service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1005].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Removal & Termination
Family Law
Guardians
Removal & Termination

17 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.18

§ 66.18 Appointment of Successor Guardian

If a vacancy in the office of guardian occurs for any reason, the court may appoint a successor guardian after notice and hearing in the same manner as for the original appointment of a guardian [Prob. Code § 2670].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsRemoval & TerminationFamily LawGuardiansAppointmentFamily LawGuardiansRemoval & Termination

18 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.19

§ 66.19 Termination of Guardianship

[1] Events Terminating Guardianship

A guardianship of the person or estate or both terminates when the ward attains majority or dies [Prob. Code § 1600(a)]. A guardianship of the person terminates on the adoption of the ward or on the emancipation of the ward under Fam. Code § 7002 [Prob. Code § 1600(b)]. The guardianship in these cases terminates by operation of law, and the guardian need not file a petition for termination [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1004(a)].

A person under the age of 18 years will be emancipated under Fam. Code § 7002 in any of the following circumstances [Fam. Code § 7002]:

- If the person enters into a valid marriage, even if the marriage is later dissolved.
- If the person is on active duty with the armed forces of the United States.
- If the person obtains a judicial declaration of emancipation under Fam. Code § 7122.

[2] Judicial Declaration of Emancipation

A minor who meets all of the following requirements may obtain a judicial declaration of emancipation under Fam. Code § 7122 upon petition [Fam. Code §§ 7120(b), 7122]:

- The minor is at least 14 years of age.
- The minor is willingly living separate and apart from his or her parents or guardian with the consent or acquiescence of the parents or guardian.
- The minor is managing his or her own financial affairs. As evidence of this, the minor must complete and attach to the petition a declaration of income as expenses as provided in Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150.

- The source of the minor's income is not derived from any activity declared to be a crime by the laws of California or the United States.

[3] Court-Ordered Termination

A guardian, a parent, or the ward may petition the court for an order terminating the guardianship [Prob. Code § 1601]. If the court determines that it is in the ward's best interest to terminate the guardianship, the court may make an order terminating the guardianship [Prob. Code § 1601; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1004(a)]. The best interest of the child is the sole criterion for terminating a guardianship [see Guardianship of L.V. (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 481, 490, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 894 (because parents were not participating in day-to-day parenting of minor, they were not entitled to constitutional protection afforded to parents acting in that role)].

[4] Final Account

A guardian of the estate whose administration is terminated by operation of law or court order must file and obtain the court's approval of a final account or report of administration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1004(c)]. The guardian must serve a copy of the final account and petition for its settlement on the minor, unless the court dispenses with service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1006(a)]. If the minor is deceased, the guardian must serve a notice of hearing and a copy of the final account and petition for its settlement on the personal representative of the deceased minor's estate, unless the court dispenses with service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1006(b)]. If there is no personal representative, service must be made on the persons entitled to succeed to the estate, unless the court dispenses with service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1006(c)].

A ward who has reached majority may settle accounts with the guardian of his or her estate and may give the guardian a valid release if the court determines, at the time of the hearing on the final account, or on the final report and petition for termination on waiver of account, that the release has been obtained fairly and without undue influence. The release is not effective to discharge the guardian until one year after the ward has reached majority [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1007(a)]. The court may require the ward's personal appearance at the hearing on the final account or report [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1007(b)].

[5] Termination by Juvenile Court in Dependency Proceeding

The juvenile court may terminate a guardianship of the person of a minor previously established under the Probate Code if the minor is the subject of dependency proceedings under Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 300, 601, or 602 [Welf. & Inst. Code § 728(a)]. The juvenile court must inform the probate court of the pending termination of the guardianship [Welf. & Inst. Code § 728(b)]. The court has the authority to terminate the guardianship at any stage of the dependency proceedings, including at the detention hearing or the jurisdictional hearing [ In re Merrick V. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 235, 248, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 490 ]. Reunification services need not be offered to the guardian in the juvenile court proceedings before that court may terminate the guardianship [ In re Merrick V. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 235, 243, 249, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 490 ].

[6] Visitation Rights of Guardian

A court may grant reasonable visitation rights to a person who previously served as the legal guardian of a child if the court determines that such visitation is in the child's best interest [Fam. Code § 3105(b)]. A guardian may request the court to order visitation at the time of termination of the guardianship, either in the guardian's petition for termination, or in the guardian's objections or other pleading filed in response to the petition of another party for termination [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1008(a)].

In the absence of a court order granting or denying visitation between a former legal guardian and his or her former minor ward, and if a dependency proceeding is not pending, the former guardian may maintain an independent action under the Family Code for visitation with the former ward [Fam. Code § 3105(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1008(b)(1)]. If the child does not have a least one living parent, visitation may not be determined in a proceeding under the Family Code, but must instead be determined in a guardianship proceeding under the Probate Code that may be initiated for that purpose [Fam. Code § 3105(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1008(b)(2)].

A guardian or former guardian who is requesting visitation must file Judicial Council Form FL-105/GC-120, Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA), with his or her request for visitation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1008(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Removal & Termination
Family Law
Guardians Removal & Termination

19 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.20

§ 66.20 Use of Guardianships

[1] Protective Nature

A guardian stands in the position of a protector [ Fox v. Minor (1867) 32 Cal. 111, 117 ]. The protective nature of a guardianship is one of its distinguishing features. In accordance with this protective nature, court supervision of guardians surpasses the supervision extended over other fiduciaries, such as trustees or executors. With regard to the estate of a minor, the close supervision by the court is either a clear advantage or disadvantage from the position of estate planners and would-be nominators of guardians.

[2] In Estate Planning

In the estate planning situation, the alternatives for handling the estate of a minor are to establish either a guardianship of the estate or a trust for the estate. When tax consequences are a consideration, a trust is used in an overwhelming majority of situations. When tax consequences are not significant, or if the use of a trust is not desired or feasible, guardianship may be preferred.

It is no longer necessary for the nomination of a guardian to be made only by will or deed [see former Prob. Code §§ 1402, 1403]. Since a nomination need only be made by a signed writing [see Prob. Code § 1502], the possibility now exists for nomination outside the confines of a will but still within the scope of a planned estate. For example, if provision for guardian of the person or estate of a minor is overlooked at the time of making a will, the nomination may be made by a separate document that does not have the stilted features of a deed. In other instances, the testator may want to separate the will and the nomination of a guardian; this may now be accomplished in a separate document which is not a deed.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for
 Minors
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Missing & Undetermined Heirs Family

LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

20 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.21

§ 66.21 Vexatious Litigant Determination in Guardianship Proceeding

A person who files a petition for visitation, termination of the guardianship, or instruction to the guardian that is unmeritorious, or intended to harass or annoy the guardian, and who has previously filed pleadings in the guardianship proceedings that were unmeritorious or intended to harass or annoy the guardian, may be determined to be a vexatious litigant for the purposes of the vexatious litigant statutes (Code Civ. Proc. § 391 et seq.) [Prob. Code § 1611].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureSanctionsBaseless FilingsVexatious LitigantsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

21 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.22

§ 66.22 Professional Fiduciaries

[1] Professional Fiduciary

A professional fiduciary is a person who acts as a conservator or guardian for two or more persons at the same time who are not related to the professional fiduciary or to each other by blood, adoption, marriage, or registered domestic partnership [Bus. & Prof. Code 6501 (f)]. A professional fiduciary is also a person who acts as a trustee, agent under a durable power of attorney for health care, or agent under a durable power of attorney for finances, for more than three people or more than three families or a combination of people and families that totals more than three, at the same time, who are not related to the professional fiduciary by blood, adoption, marriage or registered domestic partnership [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6501(f), see Qualifications for Licensure, § 66.22[4]].

However, the following are exempted from the definition of professional fiduciary, and are not required to obtain a professional fiduciary license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6501(f)(4)]:

- (1) A trust company, as defined by Prob. Code § 83;
- (2) An FDIC-insured institution, or its holding companies, subsidiaries or affiliates;
- (3) Any public agency, including the public guardian, public conservator, or other agency of the State of California or of a county of California or any regional center for persons with developmental disability as defined in Welf. & Inst. Code § 4620;
- 4) A person who is employed by a trust company, an FDIC-insured institution or its holding companies, subsidiaries or affiliates, or a public agency who is acting in the course and scope of that employment, and in the instance of a public officer of a public agency, acting in the course and scope of official duties;
- (5) Any person whose sole activity as a professional fiduciary is as a broker-dealer, broker-dealer agent, investment adviser representative registered and regulated under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.], the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. 80b-1 et seq.], or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. 78a et seq.], or involves serving as a trustee to a company regulated by the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. 80a-1 et seq.].

[2] Professional Fiduciaries Bureau

The Professional Fiduciaries Bureau ("Bureau") is created under the Professional Fiduciaries Act and has the duty of enforcing and administering the Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6510]. Even though the Bureau is set to become inoperative as of July 1, 2011 and repealed as of January 1, 2012 (unless later statutes deletes or extends the dates on inoperability and repeal), upon repeal, the responsibilities and jurisdiction of the Bureau will be transferred and vested in the existing Professional Fiduciaries Advisory Committee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6511]. The Bureau is responsible for administering the licensing and regulatory program established under the Act, approving classes for prelicense and continuing education, and preparing and administering licensing exams [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6518]. The Bureau has adopted a Professional Fiduciaries Code of Ethics ("Code of Ethics") which is provided on the Bureau's internet website and to any person requesting an application for license [see www.fiduciary.ca.gov].

[3] Licensing Requirements

No person may act or hold themselves out to the public as a professional fiduciary unless he or she is licensed as a professional fiduciary under the Professional Fiduciaries Act [Prob. Code § 60.1(b), see Professional Fiduciaries Act Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq.]. A superior court may not appoint a person to carry out the duties of a professional fiduciary unless he or she holds a valid, unexpired, unsuspended license as a professional fiduciary under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq. [Prob. Code § 2340]. A court may appoint a person to be a professional fiduciary without a professional fiduciary license if they are exempt from the definition of "professional fiduciary" under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6501, or are exempt from the licensing requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6530 [Prob. Code § 2340]. Furthermore, every person previously required to register with the statewide registry under Prob. Code § 2850 et seq. prior to January 1, 2007, and every person required to file information with the clerk of the court under Prob. Code § 2340 et seq. is required to obtain a license as a professional fiduciary under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq.

Licensing requirements do not apply to [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6530(b)-(d)]:

- 1) A licensed attorney;
- 2) A licensed certified public accountant;
- 3) An Internal Revenue Service agent acting within the scope of practice.

All applications for a professional fiduciary license can be obtained online, through the California Department of Consumer Affairs, at <http://www.fiduciary.ca.gov/> [see Qualifications for Licensure, § 66.22[4]].

[4] Qualifications for Licensure

The Bureau reviews all applications and they will approve those applications that meet the required qualifications [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6536]. The Bureau may also investigate an applicant's qualifications [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6536]. To receive a license as a professional fiduciary, an applicant must meet the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533(a)-(k)]:

- (a) Be at least 21 years old;
- (b) Be a United States citizen or be legally admitted to the United States;

- (c) Have not committed any acts that are grounds for denial of a license under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 480, 6536 [see below];
- (d) Submit fingerprints as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533.5 in order to obtain criminal offender record information;
- (e) Have completed 30 hours of prelicensing education as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6538;
- (f) Have passed the licensing exam under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6539;
- (g) Have a least one of the following:
  - a. A BA or BS degree from a college or university;
  - b. An AA/AS degree from a college or university and at least five (5) years experience with substantive fiduciary responsibilities working as a professional fiduciary, public agency, or financial institution acting as a conservator, guardian, trustee, personal representative, or agent under a power of attorney; or
  - c. Experience of not less than three (3) years, prior to July 1, 2008, with substantive fiduciary institution acting as a conservator, guardian, trustee, personal representative, or agent under a power of attorney.
- (h) Agree to adhere to the Professional Fiduciaries Code of Ethics [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6520] and to all statutes and regulations;
- (i) Consent to the bureau conducting a credit check;
- (j) File a completed application;
- (k) Submit a nonrefundable application fee.

The Bureau will not issue a license to any applicant who [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6536(a)-(e)];

- (a) Does not meet the qualifications for licensure [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533(a)-(k)];
- (b) Has been convicted of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a fiduciary;
- (c) Has engaged in fraud or deceit in applying for a license;
- (d) Has engaged in dishonesty, fraud, or gross negligence in performing the functions or duties of a fiduciary;
- (e) Has been removed as a fiduciary by a court for breach of trust committed intentionally, with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with reckless indifference, or has demonstrated a pattern of negligent conduct, including a removal prior to January 1, 2009, and all appeals have been taken, or the time to file an appeal has expired.

[5] License Renewal

A license is valid for one year and will expire one year after it was issued on the last day of the month in which it was issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6541(a)]. A license may be renewed by filing a renewal application, submitting the annual statement, as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6561 [see § 66.22[6]], submitting proof of compliance with continuing education requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6538(b)] (15 hours of approved courses each year), and payment of the renewal fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6541(b)]. Conduct that would result in a refusal of a license renewal includes [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6541(b)]:

- (1) Conviction of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a fiduciary;
- (2) Fraud or deceit in obtaining a license;
- (3) Dishonesty, fraud, or gross negligence in performing the functions or duties of a professional fiduciary;
- (4) Removal by a court as a fiduciary for breach of a fiduciary duty.

[6] Initial and Annual Statement

A licensee is required to keep complete and accurate records of client accounts and must make them available for audit by the bureau [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6560]. A licensee must file, initially and annually thereafter, a statement which contains the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6561(a)]:

- (1) His or her business address, phone and fax number;
- (2) Whether or not he or she has been removed as conservator, guardian, trustee or personal representative for cause;
- (3) The case names, court locations and case numbers for all matters where the licensee has been appointed by the court;
- (4) Whether he or she has been found by a court to have breached a fiduciary duty;
- (5) Whether he or she has reassigned or settled a matter in which a complaint has been filed, along with the case number and a statement of the issues and facts pertaining to the allegations;
- (6) Any licenses or professional certificates held;
- (7) Any ownership or beneficial interests in any businesses or other enterprises held by the licensee or by a family member that receives or has received payment from a client of the licensee;
- (8) Whether the licensee has ever filed for bankruptcy or held a controlling financial interest in a business that filed for bankruptcy;
- (9) The name of any persons or entities that have an interest in the licensee's professional fiduciary business;
- (10) Whether the licensee has been convicted of a crime.

The annual statement must be filed with the Bureau 60 days prior to the expiration of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code §

6562].

[7] Suspension, Revocation, Denial and Disciplinary Action

The Bureau has authority to investigate the actions of any professional fiduciary [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6580(a)]. Sanctions may include administrative citations and fines, license suspension, probations or revocation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6580(b)]. A license may be suspended, revoked, denied or other disciplinary action may be imposed for one or more of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6584]:

- (a) Conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, if the misdemeanor is substantially related to the functions and duties of a professional fiduciary;
- (b) Failure to notify the bureau of a conviction pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 6561(a)(10);
- (c) Fraud or misrepresentation in obtaining a license;
- (d) Fraud, dishonesty, corruption, willful violation of duty, gross negligence or incompetence in practice, or unprofessional conduct in, or related to, the practice of a professional fiduciary;
- (e) Failure to comply with, or to pay a monetary sanction imposed by a court for failure to provide timely reports;
- (f) Failure to pay a civil penalty relating to the licensee's professional fiduciary duties;
- (g) The revocation of, suspension of, or other disciplinary action against, any other professional license by the State of California or by another state;
- (h) Violation of this Bus. Prof. Code § 6500 et seq., Probate Code § 4000 et seq., Probate Code § 4600 et seq., Probate Code § 5000 et seq., or any of the statutes, rules, or regulations pertaining to the duties or functions of a professional fiduciary.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Family Law
Guardians
General Overview

22 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.23

§ 66.23 Guardian's Subsequent Adoption of Minor

A proceeding to have a child declared free from the custody and control of one or both parents may be brought in the guardianship proceeding under Fam. Code § 7800 et seq., if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 1516.5(a)]:

- Neither parent has legal custody of the child.
- The child has been in the guardian's physical custody for at least two years.
- The court finds that the child would benefit from being adopted by the guardian. In making this determination, the court must consider all factors relating to the child's best interest, including, but not limited to, the nature and extent of the relationship between the child and the birth parent, the child and the guardian (and the guardian's family members), and the child and any siblings or half-siblings.

The court must appoint a court investigator or other qualified professional to investigate each of these factors, and the investigator's or professional's findings on these issues must be included in the written report required by Fam. Code § 7851 [Prob. Code § 1516.5(b)].

The rights afforded a parent, including the rights to notice and counsel, provided by Fam. Code § 7800 et seq., apply in the proceeding [Prob. Code § 1516.5(c)].

These provisions do not apply if the child is a dependent of the juvenile court [Prob. Code § 1516.5(d)].

Despite challenges to the constitutionality of Prob. Code § 1516.5, the California Supreme Court has upheld the statute as facially constitutional and consistent with due process [ Guardianship of Ann S., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1110, 1118, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701, 202 P.3d 1089 , and In re Charlotte D., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1140, 1142-1143, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724, 202 P.3d 1109] . A showing of current unfitness is not necessary when a court terminates parental rights under Prob. Code § 1516.5 based on the child's best interest, but parents may challenge the constitutionality of the statute as applied to them individually [ In re Charlotte D., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1140, 1147, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724, 202 P.3d 1109] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Guardians for Minors
Family Law
Adoption
Procedures
General
Overview
Family Law
Guardians
General Overview

23 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.24-66.99

[Reserved]

§§ 66.24[Reserved]

24 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.100

§ 66.100 Facts

1. Client and spouse:

- a. Name.
- b. Address.
- c. Telephone number.
- d. Relationship to proposed ward.

2. Each proposed ward:

- a. Name.
- b. Address.
- c. Telephone number.
- d. Birthdate.
- e. Whether married or had marriage dissolved or nullified.
- f. Sex.

3. Parents of proposed ward, if not same as client and his or her spouse:

- a. Name.
- b. Address.
- c. Telephone number.

4. Possible nominees and alternates:

- a. Name.
- b. Address.
- c. Telephone number.
- d. Relationship to proposed ward, if any.
- e. Conditions or factors making person desirable candidate, if appropriate.
- f. Whether candidate knows proposed ward and has formed enduring relationship with ward.
- g. Whether ward would express or presently express preference for candidate to be guardian.
- h. Indication, if any, of willingness to act.
- i. General financial level and stability.
- j. If candidate is nonprofit charitable corporation:
  - (1) Whether corporation is incorporated in California.
  - (2) Whether corporate articles of incorporation specifically authorize corporation to accept appointment as guardian.
  - (3) Whether corporation is, has been, or will provide care, counseling, or financial assistance to ward under supervision of California certified registered social worker.

5. Type of guardianship client thinks is desired:

- a. For person of minor.
- b. For estate of minor.
- c. For person and estate of minor.
- d. For particular property that minor has or will receive from client.

6. If property is involved:

a. If guardianship for particular property is involved:

- (1) Description and location of property.
- (2) Manner by which proposed ward will or has received, or is receiving, property, if appropriate.
- (3) Approximate value of personal property.
- (4) Probable value of annual rents, issues, and profits of all property.

b. If general estate of minor is involved:

- (1) Location and type of assets, such as:
  - (a) Residence.
  - (b) Bank and savings account deposits.
  - (c) Securities.
  - (d) Business interests.
  - (e) Insurance policy benefits.
  - (f) Other personal property.
  - (g) Other real property.
- (2) Approximate value of personal property.
- (3) Probable value of annual rent, issues, and profits of all property to be in estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

25 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.101

§ 66.101 Documents

1. Prior nomination documents, if any.
2. Nomination documents by other persons for a guardianship for particular property for proposed ward, if any.
3. If nonprofit charitable corporation is candidate for nomination, articles of incorporation.
4. Will(s) of nominating parent(s), if appropriate.
5. Trust documents affecting proposed ward.
6. If minor has been married but is no longer married, decree dissolving or nullifying minor's marriage.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

26 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.103-66.109

[Reserved]

§§ 66.103[Reserved]

27 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.110

§ 66.110 Determining Type of Guardian to Nominate

1. Nominate guardian of person of minor child when it is desired to have person to assume following statutory powers, duties, and authority:

a. Care, custody, and control of ward [Prob. Code § 2351(a)].

b. Charge of education of ward [Prob. Code § 2351(a)].

c. Authority to fix residence of ward at [Prob. Code § 2352]:

(1) Any place within California without permission of court.

(2) Any place outside of California if permission of court is first obtained.

d. Right, same as parent having legal custody of child, to give consent to medical treatment performed on ward and to require ward to receive medical treatment [Prob. Code § 2353], subject to following limitations:

(1) Ward of 14 years of age or older must also consent to surgery performed on himself or herself, or court order authorizing surgery must be obtained.

(2) In emergency case in which ward faces loss of life or serious bodily injury if surgery is not performed, guardian alone may consent to surgery and require ward to receive surgery.

(3) Consent of guardian for medical or surgical treatment for ward is not required if ward alone may consent to that treatment.

2. Nominate guardian of estate of minor child when it is desired to have person or entity to assume following statutory powers, duties, and authority:

a. Management and control of estate [Prob. Code § 2401(a)], subject to following rules:

(1) Guardian must use ordinary care and diligence in managing and controlling estate.

NOTE:

What constitutes use of ordinary care and diligence is determined by circumstances of each estate [Prob. Code § 2401(a)].

(2) Guardian must exercise or not exercise a power to extent that ordinary care and diligence requires that power should or should not be exercised.

(3) Guardian must not hire or refer business to entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of interest to court.

b. Responsibility for applying estate income and assets to support and maintenance of ward [see Prob. Code § 2420 et seq.].

c. Duty to pay from principal and income of estate [Prob. Code § 2430]:

(1) Debts incurred by ward before creation of guardianship.

(2) Reasonable debts incurred by ward during guardianship to provide necessaries of life to ward and his or her dependents.

(3) Debts reasonably incurred by conservatee during conservatorship to provide basic living expenses [see Fam. Code § 297] to conservatee's domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37 ("domestic partner" defined)].

(4) Reasonable expenses incurred in the collection, care, and administration of estate.

NOTE:

Court authorization is required for payment of compensation to the guardian, to the attorney for the guardian, or to the attorney for the ward or the estate [Prob. Code § 2430(a)(4)].

d. Power to perform general estate management functions, such as the following, without court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation [see Prob. Code § 2450]:

(1) Collection of debts due to ward [Prob. Code § 2451].

(2) Contract, perform outstanding contracts, and bind the estate [Prob. Code § 2451.5(a)].

(3) Purchase tangible personal property [Prob. Code § 2451.5(b)].

(4) Employ an attorney to advise and represent the guardian, subject to Prob. Code § 2640 et seq. [Prob. Code § 2451.5(c)].

- (5) Employ and pay the expense of accountants, investment advisers, agents, depositories, and employees [Prob. Code § 2451.5(d)].
  - (6) Operate for a period of 45 days after issuance of letters, at the risk of the estate, a business, farm, or enterprise [Prob. Code § 2451.5(e)].
  - (7) Cashing checks payable to ward [Prob. Code § 2452].
  - (8) Deposit of checks, funds, personal property, or securities in authorized companies [see Prob. Code § 2452 et seq.].
  - (9) Maintenance of dwelling of ward [Prob. Code § 2457].
  - (10) Preparation of tax returns and payment of taxes [Prob. Code § 2461].
  - (11) Commencing and maintaining actions and proceedings for benefit of ward, unless guardian ad litem is appointed [Prob. Code § 2462(a)].
  - (12) Defending actions and proceedings against ward, guardian, or estate [Prob. Code § 2462(b)].
  - (13) Disposal or abandonment of valueless property [Prob. Code § 2465].
  - (14) Continued duty of custody and conservation of estate after death of ward, until delivery to personal representative of ward's estate [Prob. Code § 2467].
- e. Authority to compromise claims and actions, and to extend, renew, or modify obligations [see Prob. Code § 2500 et seq.].
- f. Authority to petition court for authority to convey or transfer property claimed to belong to ward [see Prob. Code §§ 850-859].
- g. Power, generally, to sell, without court authorization, confirmation, or direction:
- (1) Securities sold on established stock or bond exchange, securities sold through registered broker-dealer on NASDAQ, and securities to be directly redeemed by issuer [Prob. Code § 2544(a)].
  - (2) Tangible personal property of estate, if aggregate sales or exchanges do not exceed $5,000 per year; and for personal effects, furniture, or furnishings used for personal purposes, when ward, if 14 years of age or over, consents to sale or exchange [Prob. Code § 2545].
- h. Power to sell real or personal property of estate, subject to court supervision [see Prob. Code § 2540].

NOTE:

The sale of real or personal property of the estate is specifically authorized if the income of the estate is insufficient for the comfortable and suitable support, maintenance, and education of the ward; the personal property of the estate and income from real property of the estate are insufficient to pay certain debts; or the sale is for the advantage, benefit, and best interest of the ward, the estate, or the ward and those who are legally dependent on the ward [Prob. Code § 2541].

i. Power, after authorization by the court, to encumber, lease, convey, or exchange estate property [see Prob. Code § 2550 et seq.].

NOTE:

The guardian may lease real property without court authorization, however, when the rental is $5,000 or less a month and the term does not exceed two years, or, regardless of the amount of the rental, when the lease is from month to month [Prob. Code § 2555].

j. Power, with court authorization, to make investments and purchase property [see Prob. Code § 2570 et seq.], except that the following generally may be invested in without such authorization [see Prob. Code § 2574(a)(1)-(6)]:

NOTE:

Prob. Code § 2574(b) requires the guardian, in making and retaining investments, to consider the circumstances of the estate, indicated cash needs, and, if reasonably ascertainable, the date of the prospective termination of the guardianship [Prob. Code § 2574(b)].

(1) Direct obligations of the United States or of California, having a maturity date of not more than five years from time of making investment.

(2) United States Treasury bonds redeemable at par value on death of holder for payment of federal estate taxes, regardless of maturity date.

(3) Securities listed on established stock or bond exchange, if purchased on the exchange.

(4) Eligible securities for investment of surplus state funds [see Gov. Code § 16430].

NOTE:

These securities include, among others, federal government bonds and obligations, bonds and interest-bearing notes guaranteed by a federal agency, California state government bonds, qualifying commercial paper of "prime" quality, and negotiable certificates of deposit issued by a federal or state-chartered bank [see Gov. Code § 16430].

(5) Federally registered money market mutual funds [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 80a-1-80a-64], or mutual funds having portfolios limited to United States government obligations maturing not later than five years from date of investment, and repurchase agreements fully collateralized by United States government obligations.

(6) Units of common trust fund described in Fin. Code § 1564 when common trust fund has as its objective investment primarily in short-term fixed income obligations and permitted to value investments at cost pursuant to regulations of appropriate regulatory authority.

l. Guardian may be granted powers to do any one or more of the following, if court determines that it would be to advantage, benefit, and best interest of estate [Prob. Code §§ 2590, 2591]:

NOTE:

Subject to limitation by court order, the guardian may exercise these powers without notice, hearing, court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation [see Prob. Code § 2590].

(1) Operate for a period of longer than 45 days at estate risk business, farm, or enterprise that is estate asset.

- (2) Grant and take options.
- (3) Sell at public or private sale real or personal property of estate.
- (4) Create easements or servitudes.
- (5) Borrow money and give security for repayment of loans.
- (6) Purchase real or personal property.
- (7) Alter, improve, and repair or raze, replace, and rebuild estate property.
- (8) Let or lease estate property, or extend, renew or modify a lease of real property, for which the monthly rental or lease term exceeds the maximum specified in Prob. Code § 2501 and Prob. Code § 2555 for any purpose and any period, including term to begin at future time.
- (9) Lend money on adequate security.
- (10) Exchange estate property.
- (11) Sell estate property on credit if unpaid portion of selling price is adequately secured.
- (12) Commence and maintain action for partition.
- (13) Exercise stock rights and stock options.
- (14) Participate in and become subject to and consent to provisions of voting trust and of reorganization, consolidation, merger, dissolution, liquidation, or other adjustment affecting estate property.
- (15) Pay, collect, compromise, arbitrate, or otherwise adjust claims, debts, or demands on guardianship.

m. Responsibility for inventory and appraisal of estate and for presenting account of guardian to court for settlement and allowance.

- (1) Guardian must file inventory and appraisal of estate within 90 days after appointment, or such further time as court for reasonable cause may allow on ex parte petition. [Prob. Code § 2610].

NOTE:

Any property of the ward not included in the original inventory that is subsequently discovered or received must be reported by the guardian in a supplemental inventory and appraisal, with the appraisal made as of the date the property was discovered or received [Prob. Code § 2613].

- (2) Guardian must present account to court, unless court otherwise orders [Prob. Code § 2620(a)]:
  - (a) At end of one year from time of appointment; and

(b) Thereafter, at least biennially.

3. Nominate guardian for particular property of minor child when it is desired to have person or entity to assume following statutory powers, duties, and authority:

a. Powers and duties of nominee appointed guardian for particular property minor receives from nominator, with respect to that property, are same as guardian for estate [see Prob. Code § 2109; see also P (b)(1), above].

b. Nominee appointed guardian for property has responsibilities for inventory and appraisal of the particular property, and presenting account of guardian to court for settlement and allowance [Prob. Code § 2109; see P (b)(2), above].

c. Guardian for property nominated by person from whom minor receives property has same right, with respect to the particular property, to exercise enumerated powers and under same conditions as guardian of estate [Prob. Code § 2108(b); see Prob. Code § 1501 (nomination by person from whom minor receives property); see also P (b)(3), above].

4. Determine type of guardian desired, taking into consideration family situation revealed in client interview.

a. Guardian of person.

b. Guardian of estate.

c. Guardian of person and estate.

d. Guardian of person and guardian of estate.

e. Guardian for property.

5. Determine whether client may make nomination for types of guardian desired:

a. Parent of minor child may nominate:

NOTE:

If nominated by a parent pursuant to Prob. Code § 1500, and to the extent provided in the nomination (except if the court for good cause determines otherwise), a guardian of the person must be granted the same authority with respect to the person of the ward as a parent having legal custody of a child [see Paragraph 1, above], and may exercise that authority without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation, in the same manner as if the authority were being exercised by a custodial parent [Prob. Code § 2108(a)]:

Similarly, a guardian estate, if nominated by a parent, and to the extent provided in the nomination (except if the court for good cause determines otherwise), must be granted the right to exercise any one or more of the powers enumerated in Paragraph 2, above, and may exercise the rights granted without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation, and in the same manner as the ward could do if the ward had legal capacity [Prob. Code § 2108(b); see Prob. Code § 1500 (nomination by parent)].

(1) Guardian of person.

(2) Guardian of estate.

(3) Guardian for property.

b. Nonparent may only nominate guardian for property.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

28 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.111

§ 66.111 Selecting Guardian Nominees

NOTE:

Although a guardian may be nominated, actual appointment is by the court, which is required to appoint the person nominated as guardian of the estate or for property, if the person is suitable, but is not required to appoint the person nominated as guardian of the person [see Prob. Code § 1514]. Thus, careful consideration should be given to the statutory rules and preferences to avoid a situation in which the nomination will be disregarded by a court.

1. Review prospective ward's personal and/or financial needs.
  - a. For guardian of the person, consider ward's personal, medical, and educational needs, including any special care requirements that might impose particular difficulties or hardships on guardian.
  - b. For guardian of the estate, consider:
    - (1) Overall size of guardian's estate.
    - (2) Nature of assets in guardian's estate and any special expertise that might be necessary to properly manage those assets.
2. Compile list of potential guardians, including:
  - a. Close relatives.
  - b. Trusted friends.

- c. Nonprofit charitable corporations [Prob. Code § 2104(a)].
- d. Trust companies (for guardian of estate but not of person) [Prob. Code § 300].

3. Determine which potential guardians are best suited to manage ward's personal and/or financial needs, considering the following:

- a. Age and health during period when person might be called upon to act as guardian.

NOTE:

The statutes do not state any age limitations for the nominee. However, common sense dictates that the nominee should be of an age appropriate to the task, and in sufficient mental and physical health to be able to handle the duties and responsibilities that would be imposed. For example, if grandparents of the prospective ward are being considered as nominees, consideration should be given to the fact that a guardianship may take effect or continue many years after the date when the nomination is made, depending on the age of the prospective ward. The court, of course, has the right to reject any nominee if it determines that doing so would serve the best interests of the prospective ward [Prob. Code § 1514(b),(e); Fam. Code §§ 3020 et seq., 3040 et seq.].

- b. Location of residence.

NOTE:

Relocating to a distant location where a guardian of the person resides may have a traumatic personal effect on a ward. In some cases, depending on the nature of the assets in the ward's estate (such as real property or business interests), financial management also may be more difficult if the guardian of the estate resides in a distant location.

- c. Honesty and reliability.
- d. For guardian of person, ability to provide good home for ward, including:
  - (1) Experience in caring for and raising minor children.
  - (2) Compatibility of personal lifestyle with duties and responsibilities of guardianship.
  - (3) General environment in which ward would be living.

- e. For guardian of estate, ability to manage and conserve ward's estate, including:

- (1) General financial and business experience.
- (2) Whether prospective nominee has any special skills that may be required to properly manage ward's assets.

4. Determine whether ward would have objection to appointment of any of the potential guardians.

NOTE:

If the proposed ward is of sufficient age to form intelligent preference as to person to be appointed guardian, the court must give consideration to that preference in determining the person to be appointed [

Fam. Code § 3042(a) (guardian of person); Prob. Code § 1514(e)(2) (guardian of estate)]. Even aside from the statutory requirement, nominating a person whom the prospective ward strongly dislikes obviously could be a source of problems later.

5. Determine whether consent of other parent to nomination of guardian by nominating parent is required or desired.

a. Consent may be required or desired for nomination of guardian of person or estate or both of minor.

b. Effective nomination by parent of guardian of person or estate or both of minor requires that either [Prob. Code § 1500]:

(1) Other parent also nominates, or consents in writing to nomination of, same guardian for same child; or

(2) At time petition for appointment of guardian is filed:

(a) Other parent is dead or lacks legal capacity to consent to nomination; or

(b) Consent of other parent would not be required for adoption of child.

c. Consent of other parent is not required for nomination of guardian for property [see Prob. Code § 1501].

6. Contact probable nominees to ascertain whether nomination would be accepted.

7. Determine who will be primary nominee or nominees.

NOTE:

One guardian may be appointed for several wards [Prob. Code § 2106].

a. Consider statutory preferences for appointment of guardians:

(1) For guardian of person, court is governed by Family Code provisions and preferences relating to custody of child [Prob. Code § 1514(b); see Fam. Code § 3040].

(a) Court must consider and give due weight to nomination of guardian by parent [Fam. Code § 3043].

(b) If child is of sufficient age and capacity to reason so as to form intelligent preference, court must consider and give due weight to wishes of child [Fam. Code § 3042(a); see Paragraph 4, above].

(c) Order of preference for award of custody according to best interests of child is to [Fam. Code § 3040(a)]:

NOTE:

Fam. Code § 3040(a) requires that custody be determined according to the best interests of the child as provided in Fam. Code § 3040(a). Factors the court must consider in determining custody are specified in Fam. Code §§ 3011, 3020 and discussed under § 66.14[2], above.

In addition, Fam. Code § 3040(b) provides that Fam. Code § 3040(a) establishes neither a preference nor a presumption for or against joint legal custody, joint physical custody, or sole custody, but allows the court and the family the widest discretion to choose a parenting plan that is in the best interests of the child or children.

(i) Both parents jointly or to either parent without regard to the parent's gender.

(ii) Person in whose home child has been living in a wholesome and stable environment.

(iii) Any other person deemed by court to be suitable and able to provide adequate and proper care and guidance for child.

(d) When custody award will be to a nonparent over a parent's objection, court must find that award of custody to a parent would be detrimental to child and award of custody to nonparent is in child's best interests [Fam. Code § 3041].

(2) For guardian of estate or for property:

(a) Court must appoint person nominated pursuant to statutes governing nomination of guardian of estate or for property [Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1501], unless court determines nominee is unsuitable [Prob. Code § 1514(c), (d)].

(b) When court does not appoint nominee as guardian, court must do what appears to be in best interests of proposed ward, taking into account [Prob. Code § 1514(e)(1)]:

(i) Proposed guardian's ability to manage and preserve estate; and

(ii) Proposed guardian's concern for interest in welfare of proposed ward.

(c) When court does not appoint nominee as guardian, court must consider preference of proposed ward, if proposed ward is of sufficient age to form intelligent preference as to person to be appointed guardian [Prob. Code § 1514(e)(2)].

b. If nonprofit charitable corporation is under consideration as potential guardian of person or estate, determine whether it complies with following requirements [Prob. Code § 2104(a)]:

NOTE:

If appointed, such a corporation may be allowed compensation only for services actually rendered [Prob. Code § 2104(c)].

(1) Corporation is incorporated in California.

(2) Articles of incorporation specifically authorize corporation to accept appointments as guardian.

(3) At time of appointment, corporation has been providing care, counseling, or financial assistance to proposed ward under supervision of registered social worker certified by state Board of Behavioral Science Examiners.

c. If trust company is under consideration as guardian of estate, verify that it complies with applicable requirements.

NOTE:

A trust company may be appointed to act as guardian of the estate but not of the person [Prob. Code § 300].

A trust company is an entity that has qualified to engage in and conduct a trust business in California [Fin. Code § 107; Prob. Code § 83]. The trust business is the business of acting as executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, or conservator of estates, assignee, receiver, depository, or trustee under the appointment of any court or by authority of any state or federal law [Fin. Code § 106]. Certain large commercial and industrial banks maintain trust departments that qualify as trust companies [see Fin. Code § 1500.1 (commercial or industrial bank engaging in trust business)].

d. If appointment of joint guardians is being contemplated [Prob. Code § 2105(a)].

(1) Verify that each will be able to qualify as guardian [Prob. Code § 2105(b)].

(2) Inform nominator that act of a majority of joint guardians is valid [see Prob. Code § 2105(c)].

(3) Determine nominator's preference in case one of persons nominated as joint guardians is unwilling or unable to assume that task at time guardianship takes effect.

e. Determine whether or not to waive bond [for discussion, see § 66.220[1]].

NOTE:

A trust company that is appointed guardian of an estate may not be required to give a bond [Prob. Code § 301(a)]. Trust companies are subject, however, to special requirements as to liability, oaths, and affidavits set forth in the Financial Code [Prob. Code § 301(b); see Fin. Code §§ 1540 et seq., 1587].

8. Determine who will be alternate nominees.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

29 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.113-66.119

[Reserved]

§§ 66.113[Reserved]

30 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Nomination of Guardian

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.120

§ 66.120 Guardianship of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

1. Select most appropriate form of nomination.

- a. Nomination by will of parent [see § 66.200].
- b. Nomination by deed of parent [see § 66.201].
- c. Nomination by signed writing of parent [see § 66.202].

2. Consider including following provisions, as appropriate.

- a. General purpose provisions.
  - (1) Waiver of bond [see §§ 66.112, 66.220].
  - (2) Nomination of successor guardian [see § 66.221].
  - (3) Request for nominee to seek temporary guardianship appointment [see § 66.222].
  - (4) Compensation of guardian [see § 66.223].
  - (5) Conditions on which nominee is nominated [see § 66.224].
  - (6) Statement that particular individual is intentionally not nominated [see § 66.225].

b. Provisions for guardian of person:

(1) Will provision granting nominee authority of a custodial parent as to person of minor [see § 66.200].

(2) Explanation of selection of nominee [see § 66.230].

(3) Joint guardians with divided responsibilities [see § 66.231].

c. Provisions for guardian of estate:

(1) Will provision granting right to exercise enumerated powers without court supervision [see § 66.240].

(2) Arrangement for contingency of ward's burial [see § 66.242].

(3) Joint guardians with divided responsibilities [see § 66.241].

3. Draft document nominating guardian.

4. If necessary, secure consent of non-nominating parent to nomination [see § 66.111, Paragraph 5, above] and draft consent to nomination [see § 66.203] for execution by non-nominating parent.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Family Law
Guardians
General Overview
Family Law
Guardians
Appointment

31 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Nomination of Guardian

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.121

§ 66.121 Guardianship for Property of Minor

1. Select most appropriate form of nomination.
  - a. Nomination by will of parent [see form at § 66.210].
  - b. Nomination by will of nonparent [see form at § 66.211].
  - c. Nomination by signed writing of parent or nonparent [see § 66.212].
2. Consider including following provisions, as appropriate:
  - a. Bond waiver [see § 66.220].
  - b. Will provision granting right to exercise enumerated powers without court supervision [see form at § 66.240].
  - c. Conditions on which nominee is nominated [see § 66.224].
3. Draft document nominating guardian.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansTestamentary GuardiansFamily LawGuardiansAppointmentFamily LawGuardiansDuties & Rights

32 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Nomination of Guardian

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.122-66.199

[Reserved]

§§ 66.122[Reserved]

33 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.200

§ 66.200 Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Will of Parent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a provision for use in the will of a parent to nominate a guardian of the person or estate or both of his or her minor child. It includes optional provisions for nomination of a successor guardian and for waiver of a bond.

A guardian may be nominated by a writing signed either before or after the petition for appointment of the guardian is filed [Prob. Code § 1502(a)].

Alternative provisions for the nomination of a guardian by a parent are set forth in the forms in § 66.201 (nomination by deed) and 66.202 (nomination by signed writing). For nomination by a parent of a guardian for particular property, see the forms in § 66.210 et seq.

[b] Authorization for Nomination

A parent may nominate a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor child if the other parent nominates, or consents in writing to the nomination of, the same guardian for the same child [Prob. Code § 1500(a)]. Alternatively, a parent may nominate a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor child if, at the time the petition for appointment of the guardian is filed, either (1) the other parent is dead or lacks legal capacity to consent to the nomination, or (2) the consent of the other parent would not be required for an adoption of the child [Prob. Code § 1500(b); see Fam. Code §§ 8604-8606].

The person or persons nominated by a parent will not automatically be appointed as guardians. The court must take into account various considerations to determine the suitability of the proposed guardian [see Prob. Code § 1514; see also Fam. Code §§ 3040-3043 and discussion under [d], below]. The criteria for appointment of a guardian [see Prob. Code § 1514(e); Fam. Code §§ 3040-3043] should be reviewed and discussed with the client before the final choice of nominees is made.

[c] Effective Date of Nomination

A nomination of a guardian under Prob. Code §§ 1500 or 1501 becomes effective when made [Prob. Code § 1502(b)]. However, the effective date may be made contingent on the occurrence of a specified condition or conditions by express direction in the writing [Prob. Code § 1502(b)]. The express conditions may include, but are not limited to, the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the nominator [Prob. Code § 1502(b)]. Unless the writing provides otherwise, a nomination remains effective notwithstanding the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the nominator [Prob. Code § 1502(c)].

[d] Appointment of Guardian In General

On hearing of a duly filed and noticed petition, the court may appoint a guardian of the person or estate or both if it appears necessary or convenient [Prob. Code § 1514(a)]. The court must appoint the nominee of a parent as guardian insofar as the nomination relates to guardianship of the estate, unless the court determines that the nominee is unsuitable [Prob. Code § 1514(c)]. For guardian of the person, however, the choice of the court is governed by the considerations and preferences prescribed in Fam. Code § 3020 et seq. [Prob. Code § 1514(b)].

[e] Guardianship of Person

Under Fam. Code § 3040, the court is required to award guardianship according to the best interests of the child. If custody will be awarded to a nonparent, which is the case in a guardianship, the court must consider and give due weight to the nominee under Prob. Code § 1500 [see Fam. Code § 3043]. If the child is old enough, and has sufficient reasoning capacity to form an intelligent preference as to custody, the court must consider and give due weight to the wishes of the child [Fam. Code § 3042(a)]. The order of preference for custody prescribed by Fam. Code § 3040 is as follows [Fam. Code § 3040(a)]:

- (1) To both parents or to either parent.
- (2) To the person in whose home the child has been living in a wholesome and stable environment.
- (3) To any other person or persons deemed by the court to be suitable and able to provide adequate and proper care and guidance for the child.

For further discussion of the application of Fam. Code § 3040 to guardianship proceedings, see § 66.14[2], above.

If a minor is married or had a marriage that has been dissolved, no guardian may be appointed for the person of the minor [Prob. Code § 1515]. However, a guardian of the person is not prohibited from being appointed for a minor whose marriage has been adjudged a nullity [Prob. Code § 1515].

[f] Role of Child's Preference

When appointing a guardian of the person of a minor, the court must consider and give due weight to the wishes of the minor regarding custody if the minor is old enough and has sufficient reasoning capacity to form an intelligent preference [Prob. Code § 1514(b); Fam. Code § 3042(a)]. However, the court will not consider the child's preference for guardian of the estate if the parent has nominated a guardian of the estate, unless the court determines the parent's nominee is unsuitable [Prob. Code § 1514(c)]. Nevertheless, the preference of the child for guardian of the estate may be explored and considered at the time of nomination [Prob. Code § 1514(e)].

[g] Multiple Guardians or Wards

The court has the discretion to appoint two or more guardians for the person or the estate or both [Prob. Code § 2105(a)]

]. The court also has the discretion to appoint one guardian for several wards [Prob. Code § 2106].

[h] Nonprofit Charitable Corporation

A nonprofit charitable corporation may be appointed as guardian of the person or estate or both if three requirements are met [Prob. Code § 2104(a)]:

- The corporation must be incorporated in California.
- The articles of incorporation must specifically authorize the corporation to accept appointments as guardian.
- The corporation must have been providing, at the time of appointment, care, counseling, or financial assistance to the proposed ward under the supervision of a registered social worker certified by the state Board of Behavioral Science Examiners.

If the corporation is appointed as guardian, its compensation as guardian will be allowed only for services rendered [Prob. Code § 2104(c)(1)].

[i] Trust Company as Guardian of Estate

A trust company may be appointed to act as guardian of an estate but not of a person [Prob. Code § 300]. A trust company is an entity that has qualified to engage in and conduct a trust business in California [Fin. Code § 107; Prob. Code § 83]. The trust business is the business of acting as executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, or conservator of estates, assignee, receiver, depository, or trustee under the appointment of any court or by authority of any state or federal law [Fin. Code § 106]. Certain large commercial banks maintain trust departments that qualify as trust companies [see Fin. Code § 1500.1 (commercial bank engaging in trust business)].

Before nominating a commercial bank as guardian, the attorney should contact the bank and determine whether it maintains a trust department and, if so, whether the trust department accepts guardianship appointments. Most banks will refuse to accept fiduciary responsibilities for an estate that does not meet their minimum value requirements. Minimum value requirements are typically set high enough to ensure that the bank will be adequately compensated for its services.

A trust company that is appointed as guardian of an estate may not be required to give a bond [Prob. Code § 301(a)]. Trust companies are, however, subject to special requirements as to liability, oaths, and affidavits set forth in the Financial Code [Prob. Code § 301(b); see Fin. Code §§ 1540 et seq., 1587].

[j] Powers and Duties of Guardian of Person

A guardian of the person is responsible for the care, custody, control, and education of the ward [Prob. Code § 2351(a)], except as limited by court order [Prob. Code § 2351(b)]. In exercising his or her duties, however, a guardian of the person may not hire or refer business to an entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of the interest to the court [Prob. Code § 2351(d)].

The guardian has the power to fix the residence of the ward and to consent to certain types of medical treatment for the ward [see Prob. Code §§ 2352-2357]. Additionally, if it is provided in a nomination by will of the parent and to the extent provided in the will, a nominee appointed as guardian of the person usually will be granted the same authority over a ward as a custodial parent and may exercise the authority without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation in the same manner as if the authority were exercised by a parent having legal custody of the child [Prob. Code § 2108(a)]. The nomination in this form includes an optional provision for a grant of this type of authority over the proposed ward.

[k] Powers and Duties of Guardian of Estate

A guardian of the estate has management and control of the estate and must use ordinary care and diligence in managing and controlling it [Prob. Code § 2401(a)]. All the circumstances of the particular estate determine what constitutes use of ordinary care and diligence [Prob. Code § 2401(a)]. Ordinary care and diligence also determine the extent to which a power is to be exercised or not exercised [Prob. Code § 2401(b)]. In exercising his or her duties, a guardian of the estate may not hire or refer business to an entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of the interest to the court [Prob. Code § 2401(c)].

A guardian of the estate is subject to close judicial supervision. The guardian should expect to be required to petition the court for authorization or other orders for matters including the following:

- Investments [see Prob. Code § 2570 et seq.].
- Encumbrances on or conveyances of property [see Prob. Code § 2550 et seq.].
- Sales of real or personal property [see Prob. Code § 2540 et seq.].

Usually only a few routine matters, such as cashing or depositing checks for the ward, may be exercised without court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation [see Prob. Code § 2450 et seq.]. However, if provided for in a nomination by a parent, and to the extent provided in the nomination, a nominee appointed guardian of the estate usually will be granted the right to exercise any one or more of certain powers [see Prob. Code §§ 2590, 2591] without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation in the same manner as the ward could do if possessed of legal capacity [Prob. Code §§ 2108(b), 2590]. For a provision covering the powers enumerated in Prob. Code § 2591, see the form in § 66.240.

For further discussion of the powers and duties of guardians, see § 66.15.

[l] Bond Requirements

An appointed guardian may be required to file a bond. The general requirement is that every guardian must furnish a bond in the amount fixed by the court [Prob. Code § 2320(a)(2)]. However, one appointed only as guardian of the person need not file a bond unless required by the court [Prob. Code § 2322]. Additionally, if the nominator waives the filing of the bond, a guardian nominated under the law governing nominations [Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1501] need not file a bond unless required by the court [Prob. Code § 2324]. For a clause waiving bond, and discussion, see § 66.220[1][g]. The law governing the bond requirements for guardians is further discussed in § 66.220.

[m] Nomination of Alternative Guardians

Nomination of alternative guardians is a wise practice. The initial choice for guardian may become unavailable or decline to act or, even if appointed, be unable to continue to act.

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Will of Parent NOMINATION OF GUARDIAN

In the event that a guardian of the person [or estate or person and estate] should be necessary for any minor child of mine, I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian [or if more than one identified, joint guardians] of the person [or estate or person and estate] of my child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children], _____ [name(s)] [or I nominate _____ (name), _____ (street, address, city, state, zip) as guardian of the person of my child (or son(s) or daughter(s) or children) and _____ (name), _____ (street address, city, state, zip or, for bank: _____ [full and exact name of bank]), as guardian of the estate of my child (or son(s) or daughter(s) or children) _____ (names)], so long as [, with respect to any such child,] that child remains a minor [if parent is alive and not consenting, add:, and only in the event that the mother (or father) of that child, _____ (name of other parent), fails to survive me or lacks the legal capacity to consent to this nomination or that the consent of the mother (or father) is not required for an adoption of that child].

[Optional will provision for guardian of person]

Authority of Guardian of Person

The nominee for guardian of the person [or person and estate] shall have the same authority with respect to my child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children] as I have [or the following authority with respect to my child (or son(s) or daughter(s) or children): _____ describe extent of authority to be given to nominee].

[Add appropriate optional provisions:]

Successor Guardian

In the event that _____ [the or any] nominee is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian of the person [or estate or person and estate], then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian.

[OR]

In the event that _____ [name of nominee for guardian of person] is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian of the person, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian of the person.

In the event that _____ [name of nominee for guardian of estate] is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian of the estate, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian of the estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

34 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.201

§ 66.201 Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Deed of Parent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a deed for use by a parent to nominate a guardian for the person or estate or both of a minor child. Parental nomination of a guardian by the deed of a parent is a traditional device of English statutory law and was specifically authorized under the former guardianship statutes [see former Prob. Code § 1403]. The present guardianship statutes require only that a parental nomination of a guardian for the person or estate or both of a minor be by signed writing [see Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1502]. A nomination by deed is seldom used today; however, it may be used when a client refuses to make a will or prefers a separate nomination of a guardian from other matters covered in a will.

A form for the nomination of a guardian by the will of a parent is set forth in § 66.200[2]. See § 66.200[1] for a discussion of the law governing nomination by a parent of a guardian of the person or estate of a minor. For a nomination by a signed writing of the parent, see § 66.202[2].

[b] Legal Effect of Deed to Nominate Guardian

Although the use of a deed to nominate a guardian was previously specifically authorized by statute [see former Prob. Code § 1403] and is still permissible [see Prob. Code § 1502], the substantive effect of this type of nominating instrument does not fall within the usual meaning of a deed, which is a written instrument transferring title to real property [see Brusseau v. Hill (1927) 201 Cal. 225, 228, 256 P. 419]. The deed in this form merely nominates a person to act in the capacity of a guardian. No substantive transfer of title to real property affected by this instrument occurs on a valid execution and effective delivery of the instrument as a deed.

[c] Common-Law Requirement of Delivery

The deed in this form comes within the common-law tradition of a deed, as simply "an instrument in writing, sealed, and delivered" [ Barr v. Schroeder (1867) 32 Cal. 609, 616 ]. Because the use of a seal is no longer necessary [see

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1932, 1933], only the writing and delivery of the deed to the grantee are required. Therefore, the deed should be delivered to the nominee prior to or at the time of the desired effective date of the nomination.

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Deed of Parent

DEED NOMINATING GUARDIAN OF THE PERSON [or ESTATE or PERSON AND ESTATE]

I, _____ [name of nominating parent], by this deed nominate _____ [name of guardian], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] [or, where bank is nominated as guardian of estate: _____ (full and exact name of bank)], guardian [or if more than one identified, joint guardians] of the person [or estate or person and estate] of _____ [name(s)], my child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children], so long as [, with respect to any such child,] that child remains a minor [if other parent alive and not consenting, add: and only in the event that the mother (or father) of that child, _____ (name of other parent) fails to survive me or lacks the legal capacity to consent to this nomination or that the consent of the mother (or father) is not required for an adoption of that child].

[For optional clauses to be added, see § 66.220 et seq.]

Executed on _____ [date], at _____ [city and state].

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

[If other parent is consenting, the consent may be placed here; see § 66.203.]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

35 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.202§ 66.202 Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an instrument nominating a guardian of the person, estate, or both of a minor child by his or her parent. It is an alternative to a nomination by will [see § 66.200] or by deed [see § 66.201]. Former guardianship statutes required a parent to appoint (nominate) a guardian by will or by deed [see former Prob. Code § 1403]. That requirement had the effect of usually making the appointment (nomination) testamentary in nature. In contrast with the former law, the present guardianship statutes only require that a written nomination of guardian by a parent be made in a writing signed before or after the petition for guardianship is filed, or in the petition itself [Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1502]. Thus, while a nomination by will or by deed still is appropriate for testamentary nominations, a nomination by signed writing may be more appropriate when the nominating parent desires the nomination to be effective when made, or desires to separate the nominating document from the provisions of the will in order to avoid using a document having the stilted features of a deed.

For the law governing nomination of a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor, see § 66.200[1]. For a consent by a non-nominating parent, see § 66.203.

[2] Form*Nomination of Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent

NOMINATION OF GUARDIAN

I, _____ [name], the undersigned parent [or father or mother] of _____ [name(s) of proposed ward(s)], who _____ [is a minor or are minors], hereby nominate a guardian of the _____ [person or estate or person and estate or person and a guardian of the estate] of _____ [that or those minor(s)], as follows:

[EITHER:]

1. In the event that a guardian of the _____ [person or estate or person and estate] should be necessary for any minor child of mine, I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street, address, city, state, zip], as guardian [or if more than one identified, as joint guardians] of the _____ [person or estate or person and estate] of my child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children], _____ [name(s)]

[OR:]

1. I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian of the person of my child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children] and _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip or for a bank, full and exact name of bank], as guardian of the estate of my child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children], _____ [name(s) of minor(s)], so long as [, with respect to any such child,] that child remains a minor [if other parent is alive and not consenting, add: and only in the event that the mother (or father) of that child, _____ (name of other parent), fails to survive me or lacks legal capacity to consent to this nomination or that the consent of the mother (or father) is not required for an adoption of that child].

[Continue with the following:]

[Add optional provisions, as appropriate:]

Successor Guardian

2. In the event that _____ [the or any] nominee is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian of the person [or estate or person and estate], then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian.

[OR]

2. (a) In the event that _____ [name of nominee for guardian of person] is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian of the person, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian.

(b) In the event that _____ [name of nominee for guardian of estate] is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian of the estate, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian.

Dated: _____

_____ [signature of parent]

[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

36 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.203§ 66.203 Consent of One Parent to Other Parent's Nomination of Guardian for Minor [Prob. Code § 1500][1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a consent by one parent of a minor child to the nomination of a guardian for the minor by the other parent. The form may be used to secure consent to a nomination by will [see § 66.200], by deed [see § 66.201], or by signed writing [see § 66.202]. When a parent of a minor child nominates a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor child, a surviving parent must consent to the nomination, unless incapable of consenting or unless the parent's consent would not be required for the adoption of the child [see Fam. Code § 8604 et seq.] in order for the nomination to be effective [Prob. Code § 1500]. The consent appears to be required even if the surviving parent is no longer married to the decedent [see In re Arkle (1928) 93 Cal. App. 404, 409-410, 269 P. 689].

The consent should be appended to the nominating instrument. If the consent is not obtained at the time of execution of the nominating instrument, it apparently may be given at any time up to the appointment of a guardian [see Prob. Code § 1500; see also In re Guardianship of Baker (1908) 153 Cal. 537, 540-541, 96 P. 12 (interpreting former Civ. Code § 241 as permitting consent of surviving parents after death of nominating parent)]. However, the better practice is to obtain the consent at the time of execution of the nominating instrument, or as soon thereafter as is possible.

[2] Form*Consent of One Parent to Other Parent's Nomination of Guardian for Minor

CONSENT TO NOMINATION OF GUARDIAN

I, _____ [name], the _____ [mother or father] of _____ [name(s) of proposed ward(s)], consent to the nomination by _____ [name], the _____ [father or mother] of the child [or children],

[Select the appropriate alternative; either:]

of _____ [name(s)], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian [or joint guardians] of the _____ [person or estate or person and estate] of that child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children]

[Or, if different persons are being nominated as guardians of person and estate:]

of _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian of the person of that child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children], and _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip or, for bank, give full and exact name of bank]), as guardian of the estate of that child [or son(s) or daughter(s) or children]

[Continue with the following:]

, as long as [, with respect to any such child,] that child remains a minor. [If appropriate, add: I also consent to the similar nomination of _____ (name(s)) as successor guardians(s).]

Executed on _____ [date], at _____ [city and state].

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

37 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Guardian of Person or Estate or Both of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.204-66.209

[Reserved]

§§ 66.204[Reserved]

38 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Guardian for Particular Property of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.210

§ 66.210 Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Parent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision for nomination of a guardian for particular property to be received by a minor child of the nominator. A parent may nominate a guardian for property that a minor receives from or by designation of the parent (whether before, at the time of, or after the nomination) including, but not limited to, property received by the minor by virtue of a gift, deed, trust, will, succession, insurance, or benefits of any kind [Prob. Code § 1501]. A written nomination must be by a writing signed before or after the petition for the appointment of the guardian is filed, or in the petition itself [Prob. Code § 1502]. Although the governing statutes authorize nomination of a guardian for particular property to occur at any time, including after the property is received by the minor, the type of nomination in this form; that is, by will provision, is most appropriate for use when the given property is to be received by the minor at the time of the death of the nominating parent.

This form is also appropriate for use when the parent desires to grant the nominee certain powers which, if the court appoints the nominee as guardian, the nominee may exercise without notice, hearing, or other court supervision [see discussion under [d], below]. If a more general form of nomination of a guardian for particular property of a minor is desired, the form in § 66.212 may be used.

For a nomination by a nonparent of a guardian for particular property, see § 66.211. For nomination of a guardian of the estate of a minor, rather than of particular property of the minor, see §§ 66.200-66.202.

[b] Effective Time of Nomination

A nomination of a guardian is effective when made, except that a writing nominating a guardian may provide that the nomination becomes effective only on the occurrence of stated specified condition or conditions, including the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the person making the nomination [Prob. Code § 1502(b)]. The nomination remains effective, unless the writing making the nomination expressly provides otherwise, notwithstanding the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the nominator [Prob. Code § 1502(c)].

In contrast with a nomination by a parent of a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor [see Prob. Code § 1500], the other parent need not consent to the nomination of a guardian for particular property [see Prob. Code § 1501].

[c] Appointment of Guardian for Particular Property

The court must appoint the nominee for guardianship for particular property as guardian of the property covered by the nomination unless the court determines that the nominee is unsuitable [Prob. Code § 1514(d)]. The letters of guardianship must indicate if the appointment is only as guardian of the property covered by the nomination [Prob. Code § 1514(d)].

[d] Powers and Duties of Guardian

The powers and duties of a guardian of the estate [see Prob. Code § 2400 et seq.] also apply to a nominee appointed guardian for particular property, with respect to that property [Prob. Code § 2109(a)]. Responsibility with regard to inventory, accounting, and disposal of the estate is confined to the property covered by the nomination [Prob. Code § 2109(a)].

If both a guardian of the estate and a guardian for particular property are appointed, the guardian for particular property manages and controls only the particular property [Prob. Code § 2109(b)(1)]. Either guardian may petition the court for instructions concerning how the duties imposed by law on the guardian of the estate are to be allocated [Prob. Code § 2109(b)(2)].

Except to the extent the court for good cause determines otherwise, if provided in a nomination by a parent and to the extent provided in the nomination, a nominee appointed as guardian for particular property must be granted the right to exercise any one or more of certain powers [see Prob. Code §§ 2590, 2591] without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation, in the same manner as the ward could exercise over the property if possessed of legal capacity [Prob. Code §§ 2108(b), 2590]. A provision covering the powers enumerated in Prob. Code § 2591 is set forth in § 66.240.

[e] Bond Requirements

The general requirement is that every guardian must furnish a bond in the amount fixed by the court [Prob. Code § 2320(a), (b)]. However, if the nominator waives the filing of the bond, a guardian nominated as guardian for particular property need not file a bond unless required by the court [Prob. Code § 2324]. For discussion, see § 66.220[1][g]. For further discussion of the bond requirements for a guardian, and a provision waiving bond, see § 66.220.

[f] Nomination of Successor Guardian

Nomination of a successor guardian is a wise practice. The initial choice for guardian may become unavailable or decline to act or, even if appointed, be unable to continue to act.

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Parent

NOMINATION OF GUARDIAN FOR PARTICULAR PROPERTY

I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian [or, if more than one is nominated, joint guardians] for any and all property [or that certain property, as hereinafter described,] of my child [or children], _____ [name(s) of proposed ward(s)], which that child [or those children] shall receive from me either by will or succession [if appropriate, add: or gift or deed or trust or insurance or benefits of any kind], so long as [, with respect to any such child,] that child remains a minor [if particular property is to be described, add: _____ (describe property to be received)].

[Add any optional provisions, such as:]

Successor Guardian

I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian in the event that _____ [the or any] nominee is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian.

Special Qualification

This nomination is made and subsequent court appointment as guardian is to be retained only on the condition that _____ [condition, e.g., _____ (name) continue in the employ of _____ (e.g., bank) and process all guardianship investments and management through its facilities].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Testamentary Guardians
 Family Law
 Guardians
 General Overview

39 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Guardian for Particular Property of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.211

§ 66.211 Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Nonparent

[1] Comment

This form is a will provision for a person, other than a parent, who desires to nominate a guardian for particular property which the person leaves to or designates for a minor child. Under Prob. Code § 1501, a parent or any other person may nominate a guardian for property that a minor receives from or by designation of the nominator (whether before, at the time of, or after nomination) including, but not limited to, property received by the minor by virtue of a deed, trust, will, succession, insurance, or benefits of any kind. The nomination may be made in a writing signed before or after the petition for appointment of the guardian is filed, or in the petition itself [Prob. Code § 1502]. The breadth of these provisions of the guardianship laws contrasts sharply with prior law, which authorized a nonparent to "appoint," rather than "nominate," the guardian by will alone and only for property that the minor receives by the will [see former Prob. Code § 1402].

The nomination provision in this form is most appropriate for use when the given property is to be received by the minor at the time of the death of the nominator. The form also is appropriate for use when the nominator desires to grant the nominee certain powers which, if the court appoints the nominee as guardian, the nominee may exercise without notice, hearing, or other court supervision [see discussion under § 66.210]. For a more general form of nomination by a nonparent of a guardian for property, see § 66.212.

A will provision for nomination by a parent of a guardian for property is included in § 66.210. The law governing nomination of a guardian for particular property is discussed in § 66.210[1]. Forms for nomination of a guardian of the person or estate or both of a minor are set forth in §§ 66.200-66.202.

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Will of Nonparent

I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], the _____ [relationship to minor, if any, e.g., father or aunt] of _____ [name of minor]

beneficiary], as guardian [or joint guardians] for any and all property [or describe property with reference to other provisions of will] of _____ [name of minor beneficiary], minor child of _____ [name(s) of parent(s)], which that child may take from me by this will [if appropriate, add: gift, deed, trust, succession, insurance, or benefits of any kind], as long as that child remains a minor.

[Add any desired optional provisions, such as:]

Successor Guardian

I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian in the event that _____ [the or any] nominee is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian.

Special Qualification

This nomination is made and subsequent court appointment as guardian is to be retained only on the condition that _____ [condition, e.g., _____ (name) continues to reside and primarily to be engaged in business within a one hundred mile radius of the city of _____].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Testamentary Guardians
 Family Law
 Guardians
 General Overview

40 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Guardian for Particular Property of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.212

§ 66.212 Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent or Nonparent

[1] Comment

This form is an written instrument nominating a guardian. It is for use when a parent or nonparent desires to nominate a guardian for property by an instrument other than a will. A parent or any other person may nominate a guardian for property that a minor receives from or by designation of the nominator (whether before, at the time of, or after the nomination) including, but not limited to, property received by the minor by virtue of a gift, deed, trust, will, succession, insurance, or benefits of any kind [Prob. Code § 1501]. The nomination may be made in a writing signed before or after the petition itself, or at the hearing on the petition [Prob. Code § 1502(a)].

While a nomination of a guardian for property still may be made by the will of a parent or nonparent, a nomination by a signed writing may be more appropriate for use when the nominator desires the nomination to take effect immediately [see Prob. Code § 1502(b)] or desires to make a nomination that is separate from the will.

For nomination of a guardian for property by the will of a parent or nonparent, see §§ 66.210, 66.211. The law governing nomination and appointment of a guardian for property is discussed in § 66.210[1].

[2] Form

Nomination of Guardian for Particular Property of Minor--By Signed Writing of Parent or Nonparent
NOMINATION OF GUARDIAN FOR PROPERTY

I, _____ [name], the undersigned parent [or father or mother or state other relationship] of _____ [name(s) of minor(s)], hereby nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian [or joint guardians] for any and all property [or that certain property, as hereinafter described,] of my child [or children], _____ [names of minor(s)]

[Either:]

[Or:]

_____ [name(s) of minor(s)], minor child [or children] of _____ [name(s) of parent(s)], which that child [or those children] may take [or _____ (has or have) taken] from me by _____ [specify, e.g., gift, deed, trust, will, succession, insurance, or benefits of any kind], so long as [, with respect to any such child,] that child remains a minor [if property is to be described, add: _____ (name each minor and describe property given to such child)].

[Continue:]

[Add any desired optional provisions, such as:]

Successor Guardian

I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as guardian in the event that the [or any] nominee is unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian.

Dated: _____

_____ [signature of nominator]

[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Family Law
 Guardians Appointment

41 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

B. Guardian for Particular Property of Minor

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.213-66.219

[Reserved]

§§ 66.213[Reserved]

42 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.220

§ 66.220 Provision Waiving Bond Requirement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a waiver of bond. It is designed to relieve a guardian nominated by a parent or by a person from whom a minor receives property of the statutory obligation to post a bond for the benefit of the ward and other persons interested in the guardianship estate. When used, it should be added to the instrument (whether a will, a deed, or some other writing) by which the guardian is nominated. For nominating instruments for guardians, see §§ 66.200 and 66.210 (nomination by will of parent), 66.201 (nomination by deed of parent), 66.211 (nomination for particular property by will of nonparent), and 66.202 and 66.212 (nomination by signed writing of parent).

[b] General Bond Requirement

Except as otherwise provided by statute, every guardian must give a bond, conditioned on the faithful execution of the duties of the office according to law, to protect the ward and all persons interested in the guardianship estate [Prob. Code §§ 2320(a), (b)]. If, however, a parent or other person from whom a minor receives property nominates the guardian and if, in the nominating instrument, the parent or other person waives the filing of a bond, the guardian need not file a bond unless required by the court [Prob. Code § 2324; see Prob. Code §§ 1500 (nomination by parent), 1501 (nomination from person from whom minor receives property)]. In any case, a person appointed as guardian of the person (and not also as guardian of the estate) need not file a bond unless required by the court [Prob. Code § 2322].

[c] Bond and Undertaking Law

Rules relating to the execution, filing, approval, form, sufficiency, cancellation, and enforcement of bonds (and other rules relating to bonds and undertakings) are set forth in the Bond and Undertaking Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.]. For discussion of the Bond and Undertaking Law, see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity.

[d] Exemption for Trust Company

A trust company [see Fin. Code § 107; Prob. Code § 83 ("trust company" defined); see also § 66.200[1]] nominated as guardian of the estate will be unaffected by the use or lack of use of this form, since trust companies are never required to post bonds [Prob. Code § 301(a)]. If, however, a trust company nominated as guardian is unwilling to act in that capacity, this provision may become important, since it will then apply to the successor nominee.

[e] Amount of Bond

A guardian's bond may be given by an admitted surety insurer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.120(a) ("admitted surety insurer" defined), 995.610 et seq. (bond and undertaking requirements for admitted surety insurers); Ins. Code § 105 (surety insurance)] or by a personal surety. When the guardian's bond is given by an admitted personal surety insurer, the amount must be equal to the sum of the following [Prob. Code § 2320(c)]:

- The value of the personal property of the estate.
- The probable annual gross income of all of the property of the estate.
- The probable annual gross payments from public entitlement programs such as Social Security, California public aid, and California medical assistance.
- On and after January 1, 2008, the reasonable amount for the cost of recovery to collect on the bond, including attorney's fees and costs. However, any attorney's fees and costs incurred in a successful action for surcharge against a conservator or guardian for breach of his or her duty will be a surcharge against the conservator or guardian, and, if unpaid, will be recovered against surety on the bond [Prob. Code § 2320(c)(4)].

If the bond is given by a personal surety, it must be twice the amount required of an admitted surety insurer [Prob. Code § 2320(d)].

Whether the bond is given by an admitted surety insurer or a personal surety, the court must fix the amount of the bond in accordance with the statutory requirements [Prob. Code §§ 2320(c), (d)].

If a guardian has knowledge of facts from which he or she knows or should know that the bond posted is less than the amount required by statute, the guardian, and the attorney, if any, are required to make an ex parte application for an order increasing the bond to the required amount [Prob. Code § 2320.1].

If the court requires additional bond upon hearing the account, the additional bond must be filed before the order approving the account and related matters, including fees, is filed by the court and becomes effective [Prob. Code § 2320.2].

[f] Bonds For Joint Guardians

If joint guardians are appointed, the court may require the guardians to furnish separate bonds, a joint bond, or a combination of joint and separate bonds [Prob. Code § 2326(a)]. If a joint bond is furnished, the liability on the bond will be joint and several [Prob. Code § 2326(b)].

[g] Cautionary Note

Careful consideration to the effects of this provision should be given before including a waiver of bond. A waiver of bond may result in a savings to the guardianship estate, since the bond premiums will be charged against it [see Prob. Code § 2623(a)] (when filing account, guardian is entitled to allowance out of estate for cost of any surety bond furnished)]. Although the idea of saving the expense of a bond may appeal to many clients, however, it is important for them to bear in mind that waiving bond also dispenses with the important protection that a bond provides to the minor. If bond is waived and a loss subsequently occurs, the minor may find himself or herself without recourse to obtain needed funds for his or her maintenance or education. For this reason, it is suggested that in most cases the security provided by a bond may be well worth the expense.

Clients often believe that the individuals whom they nominate as guardians (or other fiduciaries) are eminently trustworthy and can be absolutely relied on to exercise their powers and duties in the best interests of those with whom they stand in a fiduciary relationship. However, the case law is replete with examples of instances in which fiduciaries, including close relatives, did not measure up to this standard of conduct. Moreover, losses suffered by guardianship estates can also result from honest mistakes committed by inexperienced individuals as well as from intentional malfeasance. Recognizing this, probate courts are generally reluctant to excuse individual guardians from the obligation of posting a bond. The testator may require a bond simply by not waiving one. In most cases (even when the testator has confidence in the honesty and integrity of the proposed guardian), requiring a bond will serve the best interests of the minor and the guardianship estate.

[2] FORM

Provision Waiving Bond Requirement Waiver of Bond

The guardian(s) of the person [or estate or person and estate or for the property] is [or are] not to be required to give bond of any kind.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansTestamentary GuardiansFamily LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

43 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.221§ 66.221 Provision Nominating Alternate or Successor Guardian[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to nominate an alternate or successor guardian to serve in the event the person nominated as guardian is unwilling or unable to serve (or continue to serve) in that capacity. It is advisable to nominate an alternate or successor guardian, since any person nominated to serve as guardian may decline to serve in that capacity or, after accepting appointment, resign the office [Prob. Code § 2660]. In addition, the court may refuse to appoint a person nominated as guardian [see Prob. Code § 1514 (appointment of guardian)] or may remove a guardian from office after appointment [Prob. Code § 2650].

The same considerations that govern the selection of a guardian should govern the selection of an alternate or successor guardian. For discussion of the considerations governing the selection of a guardian, see § 66.110 et seq.

[2] FORM

Provision Nominating Alternate or Successor Guardian
Alternate or Successor Guardian

[If a single successor is being nominated:]

If _____ [name of nominee, e.g., Jane R. Smith] is unable or unwilling to serve or continue as guardian of the _____ [person, estate, or person and estate or person or estate], I nominate _____ [name of nominee and relationship, if any, to testator, e.g., my friend, Thomas W. Jones,] to serve as guardian of the _____ [person, estate, or person and estate or person or estate].

I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], as successor guardian of the person [or estate or person and estate or for the property of the minor] as described above, to serve only in the event that the original nominee is not [or that none of the prior original or substitute nominees is] appointed or remains qualified to serve.

[Or, if several successors are to be named in order of priority:]

If _____ [name of nominee, e.g., Jane R. Smith] is unable or unwilling to serve or continue as guardian of the _____ [person, estate, or person and estate or person or estate], I nominate the following individuals, in the order of priority listed below, to serve as guardian of the _____ [person, estate, or person and estate or person or estate]:

First, _____ [name and relationship; e.g. my sister, Bertha Jones];

Second, _____ [name and relationship; e.g. my niece, Anne Smith];

Third, _____ [name and relationship; e.g. my uncle, John Jones].

[Continue as necessary for each additional person whom the nominator believes will make a suitable successor guardian.]

[Continue with the following:]

Any successor guardian is to act under all of the powers and duties described above for that position, except as follows _____ [state any additional or different powers, duties and restrictions, which will apply to successor guardians].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Family Law
 Guardians Appointment

44 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.222§ 66.222 Provision for Temporary Guardian of Person or Estate[1] Comment*[a] Use of Form

This form is a provision directing the nominee for guardian of the person or estate to petition the court for appointment as temporary guardian, if required for the immediate care, maintenance, and support of the proposed ward, or for the immediate conservation and protection of the estate of the proposed ward from loss and injury. Any person entitled to petition for appointment of a guardian may file a petition for the appointment of a temporary guardian of the person or estate or both, on or after the filing of a petition for appointment of a guardian [Prob. Code § 2250(a)(1)]. On a showing of good cause, the court is authorized to appoint a temporary guardian of the person or estate or both, to serve pending the final determination of the petition for appointment of the guardian [Prob. Code § 2250(b)]. The requirements and procedure for appointment, and other provisions concerning the powers and duties of the temporary conservator and the duration of his or her powers, are set forth in Prob. Code § 2250 et seq.

The provisions in this form may be used when the nominating parent foresees that the person or estate of the proposed ward will require special immediate care before the final determination on the petition for guardianship, and when the nominating parent desires the nominee for guardian to seek the powers and duties of temporary guardian until that final determination. For example, a temporary guardian of the person may be desirable if the nominating parent foresees that the minor child may require medical treatment for which the consent of a guardian is required. Former law cited several specific situations in which a temporary guardian of the person is desirable and authorized an order for temporary custody. Included are those situations in which the proposed ward would be imperiled if he or she was allowed to remain in the custody of those having his or her care, or in which there was reason to believe the proposed ward would be taken out of the state [see former Prob. Code § 1442]. Although the present guardianship statutes do not recite these situations, there are instances in which a temporary guardianship of the person may be desirable.

[b] Temporary Guardianship Statutes

The appointed temporary guardian has only the powers and duties of a guardian necessary to provide for the temporary care, maintenance, and support of the ward and those necessary to conserve and protect the property of the ward from loss or injury [Prob. Code § 2252(a)]. The temporary guardian also may have any additional powers and duties that may be ordered by the court in the order of appointment or by subsequent order [Prob. Code § 2252(c)].

Unless the court otherwise orders, the temporary guardian of the person has the same powers and duties to consent to medical treatment of the ward as the guardian [Prob. Code § 2252(b)(1); see Prob. Code § 2353]. Unless the court orders otherwise, a temporary guardian of the estate also may marshal assets and establish accounts at financial institutions [Prob. Code § 2252(b)(3)].

The letters of temporary guardian must indicate the termination date of the appointment [Prob. Code § 2251]. However, the powers of the temporary guardian may terminate prior to this date [see Prob. Code § 2257].

A temporary guardian is subject to the same requirements for taking oaths and filing a bond [Prob. Code § 2300 et seq.] as a guardian [Prob. Code § 2251]. Therefore, if the nominating party will impose special bond requirements on the nominee or will waive bond [see § 66.220], the nominating document should include a consistent bond provision for both the nomination of the guardian and the provision in this form.

[2] FORM

Provision for Temporary Guardian of Person or Estate Temporary Guardian of the Person

If at the time of filing a petition for appointment as guardian of the person, or any time thereafter before a guardian is appointed, the care, maintenance, and support of the ward(s) so requires, the nominee for guardian of the person is to petition the Superior Court which is to hear proceedings on this guardianship to provide for the temporary custody of the ward with that nominee as temporary guardian immediately, pending the final determination of the Court on the petition for appointment of a guardian of the person.

[OR]

Temporary Guardian of the Estate

If at the time of filing a petition for appointment as guardian of the estate or any time thereafter before a guardian is appointed, the conservation and protection of the estate of the ward from loss or injury so requires, the nominee for guardian of the estate is to petition the Superior Court which is to hear proceedings on this guardianship to provide for the temporary guardianship of the estate of the ward with that nominee as temporary guardian immediately, pending the final determination of the Court on the petition for appointment of a guardian of the estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Guardians for Minors
Family Law
Guardians
Appointment

45 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.223

§ 66.223 Provisions for Compensation of Guardian and Payments on Behalf of Ward

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains provisions for compensation of the guardian of the person and the guardian of the estate of a minor child, and for payments to be made from the estate for the maintenance, support, and education of the minor. It may be used by a person who is nominating a guardian and wishes to establish a "just and reasonable" amount for the guardian's compensation, especially for services to be rendered on an ongoing basis. The court will not be bound by the amount set forth in this form, but it may consider it along with other factors it deems material in determining the guardian's compensation.

[b] Procedure for Obtaining Compensation

A guardian's compensation will be established by the court after the guardian has filed a petition for an order fixing and allowing compensation. A petition may be filed by a guardian of the estate [Prob. Code § 2640(a)] or a guardian of the person [Prob. Code § 2641(a)].

When a petition is filed by a guardian of the estate, the court may be asked to fix and allow compensation for the guardian of the estate, the guardian of the person, or the attorney for either (or both) [Prob. Code § 2640(a)]. When a petition is filed by a guardian of the person, the court may be asked to fix and allow compensation only for the guardian of the person [Prob. Code § 2641(a)].

On hearing the petition, the court will determine a "just and reasonable" amount for the compensation of the guardian (or guardians) and a "reasonable" amount for the compensation of the attorney (or attorneys) [Prob. Code §§ 2640(c), 2641(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.751(b)]. The compensation ordinarily will be for services rendered to the guardian or the guardianship estate up to that time [Prob. Code §§ 2640(a), 2641(a)]. However, the court has discretion to include compensation for services rendered before the date of the order appointing the guardian [Prob. Code §§ 2640(c)].

2641(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.751(a)]. Furthermore, the guardian or conservator will not be compensated from the estate for any costs or fees that the guardian or conservator incurred in unsuccessfully opposing a petition or other action by or on behalf of the ward or conservatee, unless the court determines that the opposition was made in good faith based on the best interests of the ward or conservatee [Prob. Code §§ 2640(d), 2641(c)].

Legal services for which the attorney may be compensated include any services rendered by a paralegal under the direction and supervision of the attorney [Prob. Code § 2640(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.754].

The compensation allowed by the court (whether for the guardian of the estate, the guardian of the person, or the attorney for either) will be charged against the estate [Prob. Code §§ 2640(c), 2641(b)].

Special procedures apply in dual compensation circumstances when, for example, legal services are performed by an attorney who is also serving as guardian [see Prob. Code § 2645].

[c] Order for Periodic Payment of Services

On petition of a guardian of the estate, a guardian of the person, or both, the court may authorize periodic payments on account to any guardian or attorney for a guardian. A petition for periodic payments must describe the services to be rendered on a periodic basis and the reason why authority to make period payments is requested [Prob. Code § 2643(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.755(b)].

In fixing the amount of periodic payments, the court must take into account the services to be rendered on a periodic basis and their reasonable value [Prob. Code § 2643(c)]. The guardian may make the periodic payments authorized by the court only if the services described in the petition are actually rendered, and the payments are subject to review by the court on the guardian's next succeeding account to determine that the services were rendered and that the amount paid on account was not unreasonable. If the court determines that the amount paid on account was either excessive or inadequate in view of the services actually rendered, it must make an appropriate order [Prob. Code § 2643(c)].

[d] Payments for Maintenance, Support, and Education of Ward

The income from the estate of the minor must be applied to the comfort and suitable support, maintenance, and education of the ward and of those legally entitled to support, maintenance, or education from the ward [Prob. Code § 2420(a)]. The guardian of the estate must take into account the value of the estate and the condition of life of the persons required to be furnished support, maintenance, or education [Prob. Code § 2420(a)]. If the income is insufficient, the guardian of the estate may sell or give a security interest in or other lien on any personal property of the estate, or sell or mortgage or give a deed of trust on any real property of the estate, in accordance with the guardianship laws [Prob. Code § 2420(b)].

[2] FORM

Provisions for Compensation of Guardian and Payments on Behalf of Ward Guardian of Person

The guardian of the estate is to pay the guardian of the person [or The guardian is to receive] each month the amount of $_____ [for the first year of the guardianship, with a _____ percent increase in each succeeding year] for the ordinary maintenance, support, and education of the ward. The guardian [of the person] is to set aside up to _____ percent of this amount each month as _____ [his or her] own just and reasonable compensation for serving the ward in this capacity. _____ [He or She] may turn over to the ward from time to time, as befits the age of the ward at any certain time, such sums of money from these amounts as _____ [he or she] deems appropriate toward complementing and completing the guardianship arrangement.

Guardian of Estate

The guardian of the estate is to receive $ _____ per month [or year] for the first year of the guardianship [with an increase of _____ percent of the income produced by the estate in each succeeding year of the guardianship] as just and reasonable compensation for managing the ward's property, including rendering all required inventories and accounting to the superior court. _____ [He or She] is to favorably entertain, whenever possible, the requests of the guardian of the person for payments for special or unusual purchases on behalf of the ward, which payments are to be made directly by the guardian of the estate to the selling sources, whenever convenient. Such extraordinary requests may consist of, but are not limited to, the following _____ [list representative requests, e.g., complete seasonal wardrobe, part-week or multiweek vacation away from residence, special sports or hobby equipment, any type of vehicle of transportation or longer journey travel arrangements, any audio-visual, communications, musical, professional, artistic, or heavy-duty mechanical equipment, medical or dental expenses of specific treatments, etc.]. Any request of the guardian of the person for a single purchase for the ward likely to cost $ _____ or over, or any series of items to be purchased at one time and related by nature or purpose collectively totaling in likelihood $ _____ or over is automatically to be considered in the category of requests for special or unusual purchases.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

46 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.224§ 66.224 Provision Conditioning Nomination on Continued Personal or Business Position[1] Comment--Use of Form

The provision in this form conditions the nomination of a guardian on the continued existence of the nominee's personal or business status. Although the parent usually selects a guardian, particularly one of the person of a minor, on the basis of the person or business status of the nominee at the time of and until the nomination, the nominee's personal business situation must be expected to change with time. However, if certain features of the nominee's life are the fundamental criteria by which the nominating parent selected him to be the guardian, the parent may desire to make one or more of these features express conditions of the continued nomination of the nominee.

If this form is used, the nominating parent should also nominate successor guardians in the event that the situation of the original nominee changes and he or she no longer meets the conditions stated in this provision.

[2] Form*Provision Conditioning Nomination on Continued Personal or Business Position

Condition(s) of Nomination

The above named guardian of the person is nominated to serve as guardian only so long as the following conditions exist:

_____ [He or She] remains [married to and] living in a household relationship with _____ [name or a woman (or man) of adequate maturity, education, and understanding of and compassion for children, who will be close to the home situation and be an accessible and dependable _____ (mother-figure or father-figure) for my child];

_____ [He or She] remains employed in _____ [his or her] present field [or occupational place or position or other];

_____ [He or She] continues to reside in California [or the city or the county of _____]; and

_____ [He or She] continues to be a member of the _____ [name] Church.

[Add any other desired conditions]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral Overview

47 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.225§ 66.225 Provision That Particular Individual Has Not Been Nominated as Guardian[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision by which the nominating parent may state that he or she has intentionally not nominated a particular individual as guardian of the minor child. Although it may be used in connection with the nomination of a guardian of the person or a guardian of the estate, the form probably will be used most frequently in connection with the guardian of the person since the court has considerably more discretion in the appointment of this type of guardian [see Prob. Code § 1514(b)-(d)].

The statement in this form may include the reasons why the particular individual is not desired as a guardian. This statement can influence the court's determination of what is in the best interests of the child [see Fam. Code § 3040(a)]. If used, the statement of reasons should be drafted with care so that no libel is committed and so that it is logical and clear. The bare statement of intentional omission of nomination, without supporting reasons, is a clear indication of the nominator's thinking. As an alternative, the nominating party may state his or her reasons for not nominating the individual as guardian in a separate letter delivered to the nominee or proposed executor, with instructions not to open or publish the contents unless a challenge by the particular individual arises.

[2] Form*Provision That Particular Individual Has Not Been Nominated as Guardian

Negation of Nomination of Individual

I intentionally do not nominate [my _____ (relationship, if any)], _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip], to act as guardian of the person [or estate or person and estate] of my child [or children], and desire that _____ [name] not be appointed guardian in the event that the above-named nominees are unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as guardian. [*Optional: My reasons for desiring that _____ (name) not be appointed under any circumstances to act as guardian of the person (or estate or person and estate) are _____ (state reasons).*]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for MinorsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawGuardiansAppointment

48 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

1. General Provisions

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.226-66.229

[Reserved]

§§ 66.226[Reserved]

49 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART IV. FORMS
 C. Optional Provisions
 2. Provisions for Guardian of the Person

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.230

§ 66.230 Provision Explaining Parent's Selection of Nominee

[1] Comment--Use of Form

The provision in this form permits the nominating parent to express his or her reasons for selecting the candidate nominated as guardian of the person. This type of provision is not needed in a nomination of a guardian of the estate or for property because the court must appoint the person nominated for these positions, unless the nominee is unsuitable [see Prob. Code § 1514(c), (d)]. For a guardian of the person, however, the court is required to follow the child custody provisions of the Family Code and appoint a guardian according to the best interests of the child [Prob. Code § 1514(b); see Fam. Code § 3020 et seq.]. Under Fam. Code § 3043, the court must consider and give due weight to the nomination of a guardian of the person of the child by his or her nominating parent. The provision in this form will aid the court in giving due weight to the nominee, and may be determinative in selecting the guardian if a challenge for the position of guardian is raised by a relative or friend.

[2] Form

Provision Explaining Parent's Selection of Nominee

Explanation of Nomination

My nomination of _____ [name] as guardian [of the person] is based on what I believe would be for the best interest of my child. Some of the factors I considered in the selection are as follows: _____ [reasons, e.g., _____ (he or she) has children of similar age to my child and could comfortably accommodate another into _____ (his or her) household; _____ (he or she) has always been solicitous of the welfare of my child, has formed a good working relationship with _____ (him or her) based on affection and understanding, and has the trust and interest of my child; _____ (his or her) lifestyle and that of _____ (his or her) household would pose no psychological problems or pressures for my child beyond the minimum unavoidable in any family relationship; _____ (his or her) own interests are in the area of those of my child, and _____ (he or she) would be of continuing inestimable value in guiding my child to develop and to gauge _____ (his or her) own talents and abilities; etc.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Guardians for
Minors
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Testamentary Guardians
Family Law
Guardians
General
Overview

50 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
 PART IV. FORMS
 C. Optional Provisions
 2. Provisions for Guardian of the Person

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.231

§ 66.231 Provision for Joint Guardians of the Person

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides for the appointment of joint guardians of the person, and illustrates one possible method of dividing the guardianship responsibilities among joint guardians. For a provision nominating joint guardians of a minor's estate, see § 66.241.

[b] Appointment of Joint Guardians

The court, in its discretion, may appoint joint guardians of the person, joint guardians of the estate, or joint guardians of the person and estate [Prob. Code § 2105(a)]. When joint guardians are appointed, each must qualify in the same manner as a sole guardian [Prob. Code § 2105(b)].

If a custodial parent has been diagnosed with a terminal condition, the court may appoint the custodial parent and a person nominated by the custodial parent as joint guardians of the minor's person [Prob. Code § 2105(f); see Fam. Code § 3041, Prob. Code § 1419.5]. However, this appointment cannot be made over the objection of a noncustodial parent without a finding that the noncustodial parent's custody would be detrimental to the minor [Prob. Code § 2105(f); see Fam. Code § 3041]. A "terminal condition" is an incurable and irreversible condition that, without the administration of life-sustaining treatment, will, within reasonable medical judgment, result in death [Prob. Code § 2105(f)]. It must be evidenced by a declaration executed by a licensed physician [Prob. Code § 2105(f)].

[c] Authority to Act

Ordinarily, if there are two guardians, they must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 2105(c)(1)]. If there are more than two guardians, a majority must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 2105(c)(2)]. It is not entirely clear whether and to what extent an individual who nominates a guardian can modify these statutory requirements for exercise of authority [see [d], below].

If one joint guardian dies, is removed, or resigns, the powers and duties continue in the remaining joint guardians until the court appoints a new joint guardian [Prob. Code § 2105(d)]. If one or more joint guardians is absent from California and unable to act, legally disqualified from serving, or unable to act for any other reason, the court may authorize the remaining joint guardians to act as to all matters within its order. The court may make the order with or without notice [Prob. Code § 2105(e)].

[d] Modification or Limitation of Guardian's Statutory Responsibilities

This form specifies a division of responsibilities between two joint guardians. It provides that the ward will reside alternately with each joint guardian during specified months of the year, and that the joint guardian with whom the ward resides is to have sole responsibility for the ward while the ward resides with that guardian. This constitutes, in effect, a modification of the statutory requirement that the guardians must concur to exercise a power [see Prob. Code § 2105(c); see also [c], above]. The extent to which a nominating instrument may modify or limit the statutory powers and duties of a guardian of the person is not entirely clear, although there is a distinction between nominations made in wills and nominations made in other instruments.

If the nomination for a guardian of the person is made by the parent of the proposed ward, and the nominee is appointed by the court, the guardian will be granted, "to the extent provided in the will," the same authority over the ward as a parent having legal custody of a child [Prob. Code § 2108(a)]. The words of limitation imply that the parent may limit or restrict the powers of the guardian [see Norris v. Harris (1860) 15 Cal. 226, 255-256 (existence of testamentary power to modify statutory powers of guardians confirmed by early case involving guardianship of estate; testamentary authorization to sell property of ward without direction of probate court, as required under law then in effect)]. The court has authority, however, to depart from the statutory guidelines for good cause [Prob. Code § 2108(a)]. Given the court's general duty to consider the best interests of the ward in appointing a guardian of the person [see Prob. Code § 1514(b); Fam. Code §§ 3011, 3040(a)], it is unlikely that any attempted modification of the guardian's powers and responsibilities would be recognized if the court concluded that it was inconsistent with the ward's best interests.

It is unclear whether the court has the unilateral power to modify the statutory powers of a guardian of the person. While Prob. Code § 2351(b) specifically permits the court to limit the powers and duties of a conservator of the person, it extends no similar authority to modify the statutory powers of guardians of the person. However, in appointing a guardian of the person, the court is governed by Fam. Code § 3040 et seq. [Prob. Code § 1514(b)], which provides, among other things, that custody is to be awarded according to the best interests of the child [see Fam. Code § 3040(a); see also Fam. Code § 3011 (factors considered in determining "best interest" of child)]. It is arguable that the court could modify or limit the powers of a guardian of the person on a finding that such a modification would be in the ward's best interest.

In any case, the court does have the power, with the consent of the guardian, to include in its order conditions that would not otherwise be obligatory. These conditions may provide for the care, treatment, education, and welfare of the ward or conservatee. The performance of these conditions becomes a part of the guardian's duties for which the guardian may be held responsible [Prob. Code § 2358]. Thus, although a provision such as this one, when included in a nominating instrument, is not binding on the court, it nevertheless may serve to inform all interested parties regarding the parent's wishes. If these wishes are agreeable to the court and the proposed guardians, they may be embodied in the court's order and the letters of guardianship [see Prob. Code § 2358].

[2] Form

Provision for Joint Guardians of the Person

Joint Guardians of the Person

_____ [name], the first joint guardian of the person, is to be solely responsible as guardian of the ward's person when the ward resides at _____ [name of first town or county]; and _____ [name], the second joint guardian of the person, is to be solely responsible as guardian of the ward's person when the ward resides at _____ [name of second town or county; continue on for other locations]. The ward is to reside with the first joint guardian approximately from _____ [date] to _____ [date] of each year [or, e.g., during the school months], and to reside with the second joint guardian _____ [e.g., approximately from _____ (date) to _____ (date) or, e.g., during the remainder of the year or during school vacations and holidays of approximately a week or more]. The joint guardians are to confer as often as they desire, in person or by letter or telephone, but at least on the occasions of the transfer of the ward's residence, on the general program of the ward's upbringing, and on any details of his transference between residences.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Family Law
 Guardians
 Appointment

51 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

2. Provisions for Guardian of the Person

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66.232-66.239

[Reserved]

§§ 66.232[Reserved]

52 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Optional Provisions
3. Provisions for Guardian of the Estate

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.240

§ 66.240 Will Provision Granting Guardian Specific Powers [Prob. Code § 2108(b)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision granting the nominee the right to exercise certain enumerated powers without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation. The provision is authorized by Prob. Code § 2108(b) and specifically applies for both guardians of the estate and guardians for property.

[b] Authorization for Provision Granting Right to Exercise Powers

If a person nominated pursuant to the statutes governing nomination of a guardian of the estate or for property [Prob. Code §§ 1500, 1501] is appointed guardian, the guardian must be granted the right to independently exercise any one or more of certain powers [Prob. Code §§ 2590, 2591], except to the extent the court for good cause determines otherwise [Prob. Code § 2108(b)]. A grant of the right permits the guardian to exercise the powers without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instructions, approval, or confirmation, in the same manner as the ward could do if possessed of legal capacity [Prob. Code §§ 2108(b), 2590]. For a guardianship of particular property [see Prob. Code § 1501], the right granted applies only with respect to the property covered by the nomination [Prob. Code § 2108(b)].

[c] Enumerated Powers

The enumerated powers referred to in Prob. Code § 2108(b) and listed in Prob. Code § 2591 are the following:

- To operate for a period longer than 45 days at the risk of the estate a business, farm, or enterprise constituting an asset of the estate.
- To grant and take options.

- To sell at public or private sale real or personal property of the estate.
- To create by grant or otherwise easements and servitudes.
- To borrow money and give security for its repayment.
- To purchase real or personal property.
- To alter, improve, and repair, or raze, replace, and rebuild the property of the estate.
- To let or lease property of the estate, or extend, renew or modify a lease of real property, for which the monthly rental or lease term exceeds the maximum specified in Prob. Code § 2501 and Prob. Code § 2555 for any purpose (including exploration for and removal of gas, oil, and other minerals and natural resources) and for any period, including a term commencing at a future time.
- To lend money on adequate security.
- To exchange property of the estate.
- To sell property of the estate on credit if any unpaid portion of the selling price is adequately secured.
- To commence and maintain an action for partition.
- To exercise stock rights and stock options.
- To participate in and become subject to and consent to the provisions of a voting trust and of a reorganization, consolidation, merger, dissolution, liquidation, or other modification or adjustment affecting estate property.
- To pay, collect, compromise, arbitrate, or otherwise adjust claims, debts, or demands upon the guardianship.

[d] Grant of Right to Exercise Powers When Form Is Not Used

A guardian of the estate or for property may be granted the right to independently exercise one or more of the powers, separate and apart from the use of this form. Prob. Code § 2590 authorizes a court, in its discretion, to make an order granting any one or more of the powers if the court determines that, under the circumstances of the particular guardianship, it would be to the advantage, benefit, and best interest of the estate to do so. However, since the grant is to be made on a case-by-case basis, is only for powers as determined by the court, and must be petitioned for by the guardian [see Prob. Code § 2592], a guardian would probably prefer to be granted a power or powers pursuant to Prob. Code § 2108(b) rather than Prob. Code § 2590.

[e] Statement of Terms or Powers in Letters of Guardianship

The right to exercise the powers provided in the nomination must be granted in the order of appointment, and the terms of these granted powers must be included in the letters of guardianship [Prob. Code § 2108(b), (c)]. If any of the powers are granted pursuant to Prob. Code § 2590 rather than Prob. Code § 2108, the letters of guardianship must state the powers granted and the restrictions, conditions, or limitations, if any, prescribed in the order, and must refer to the laws governing the grant [Prob. Code § 2594(a)]. When any powers are granted by a subsequent order, new letters must be issued in this described form [Prob. Code § 2594(b)].

[2] Form

Will Provision Granting Guardian Specific Powers

Additional Powers of Guardian

The guardian of the estate [or for property] nominated by this will shall be granted the right to exercise the powers described hereinafter, without notice, hearing, or court authorization, instruction, approval, or confirmation, in the same manner as my minor child could do if possessed of legal capacity: _____ [list power(s) from Prob. Code § 2591 and any requirements, conditions, or limitations on right to exercise such power(s) to be granted to guardian].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Duties & Rights
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Guardians for Minors
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Testamentary Guardians
Family Law
Guardians
Duties & Rights

53 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS

PART IV. FORMS

C. Optional Provisions

3. Provisions for Guardian of the Estate

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.241

§ 66.241 Provision for Joint Guardians of the Estate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a provision for a division of responsibilities between joint guardians of the estate of a minor. Joint guardians of the estate of the ward may be desirable if different kinds of assets of the ward require specific expertise from different managers, or if separate managers already have been handling these particular investments. The device is also useful if the properties are located at remote locations, or if they require supervision at far ends of the state or in different states. In other instances, as illustrated in this form, division of responsibility along lines of real property management and personal property administration may be practical. When this provision is used, the nominating parent should specify which guardian will handle the ordinary financial needs of the ward.

[b] Appointment and Authority

The court, in its discretion, may appoint joint guardians of the estate, or joint guardians of the person and estate [Prob. Code § 2105(a)]. When joint guardians are appointed, each must qualify in the same manner as a sole guardian [Prob. Code § 2105(b)].

Ordinarily, if there are two guardians, they must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 2105(c)(1)]. If there are more than two guardians, a majority must concur [Prob. Code § 2105(c)(2)]. For additional discussion of the authority of joint guardians, see § 66.231[1][c], [d].

[c] Statutory Basis for Division of Authority

No statutory authority specifically permits a division of the guardianship function precisely in the manner provided in this form. However, Prob. Code § 2108(b) does provide that a guardian of the estate who is nominated by a parent may be granted the right to exercise any or all of the statutory powers specified in Prob. Code § 2591 without further court authorization [see § 66.240[1][c]] "to the extent provided in the nomination," unless the court for good cause determines otherwise [Prob. Code § 2108(b)]. Since the nominator may limit a guardian's ability to exercise some or all statutory powers without court authorization, it seems to follow that the right to apportion or allocate authority among joint guardians should also exist.

A substantially similar result can be achieved simply by dividing the minor's estate into specific parts in the manner illustrated in this form, and then appointing a separate guardian of property (rather than joint guardians) for each part [see Prob. Code §§ 1501, 1514(d), 2109; see also § 66.15[3], above].

[d] Liability

When there is more than one guardian of the estate, one guardian is not liable for a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another guardian [Prob. Code § 2105.5(a)], except when the former guardian does any of the following [see Prob. Code § 2105.5(b)(1)-(5)]:

- Participates in the breach.
- Improperly delegates the administration of the estate to the other guardian.
- Approves, acquiesces in, or conceals a breach committed by the other guardian.
- Negligently enables the other guardian to commit a breach.
- Knows or has information from which he or she reasonably should have known of the breach by the other guardian and fails to take reasonable steps to compel the other guardian to redress the breach.

The liability of a guardian or conservator for a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another guardian or conservator before July 1, 1988, is governed by prior law and not by Prob. Code § 2105.5 [Prob. Code § 2105.5(c)].

[2] Form

Provision for Joint Guardians of the Estate

Joint Guardians of the Estate

_____ [name], the first joint guardian of the estate, is to have sole responsibility for the property of the ward in the form of real estate, including all unimproved lots or acreage and all parcels containing homes, apartment buildings, commercial buildings, industries, or the like, including all relationships with the occupants of those properties, including leasing, selling, trading, and the like [or responsibility for _____ (all or the) property of the ward located in _____ (e.g., California or specify other location)]. [The first joint guardian will keep on hand and manage the amount of $ _____ (or a reasonable amount) from proceeds for expenses of management, and forward the remainder periodically to the second joint guardian.]

_____ [name], the second joint guardian of the estate, is to have sole responsibility for _____ [specify extent of responsibility; e.g., the property of the ward in the form of personal property, including all cash, deposits in financial institutions, valuable objects and possessions, stock and bonds, and the like, including all relationships with persons coming into dealing with that property or _____ (all or the) property of the ward located in _____ (location)].

Each joint guardian will be separately responsible for inventorying and accounting for property under his or her sole management, to be presented as a joint account [under the auspices of the second joint guardian]. The joint guardians will confer periodically and as often as necessary on reconciliation of accounts and problems of joint management as well as allocation of responsibility for determining and meeting the needs of the ward in special instances. However, the needs of the ward will be addressed to and accommodated by the individual joint guardians in the first and normal instances as follows [or solely by the second joint guardian]:

The second joint guardian will be responsible for _____ [e.g., the ward's daily needs of maintenance, food, clothing, and short personal expenses, etc.]. The first joint guardian will be responsible for _____ [e.g., the ward's school tuition, vacation and holiday traveling expenses, and purchases of special single objects of a value of $_____ or more].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Guardians for Minors
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Testamentary Guardians
 Family Law
 Guardians Appointment

54 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66 GUARDIANSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Optional Provisions
3. Provisions for Guardian of the Estate

25-66 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66.242

§ 66.242 Provision for Burial Arrangements for Ward

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a provision directing the guardian to contract and pay for the ward's last illness and the disposition of the ward's remains. When used, it should be added to the instrument (whether a will, a deed, or some other writing) by which the guardian is nominated. For nominating instruments for guardians, see §§ 66.200 and 66.210 (nomination by will of parent), 66.201 (nomination by deed of parent), and 66.202 and 66.212 (nomination by signed writing of parent).

The form includes two alternative provisions. The first may be used to specify that payment for the last illness and disposition of the ward's remains will be made only from a specified fund or property. The second may be used to specify that payment may be made from any property of the ward under the guardian's control, except real property or an interest in real property. The form also includes an optional provision which may be added to the principal provision to specify details of, and set a limit on the total cost of, the ward's funeral and burial.

[b] Last Illness and Disposition of Remains

On the death of the ward, the guardian may contract for and pay a reasonable sum for the expenses of the ward's last illness and the disposition of his or her remains [Prob. Code § 2631(a)]. The guardian may also contract for and pay any unpaid and court-approved attorneys' fees or guardianship expenses [Prob. Code § 2631(a)]. These payments may be made in full or in part from any personal property of the deceased ward which is under the guardian's control [Prob. Code § 2631(a)].

[c] Liquidation When Value of Estate Not More Than $100,000

If, after payment of the expenses for the ward's last illness and disposition of the remains described under [b], above, the value of the remaining estate of the ward does not exceed $100,000, the guardian may petition the court for an order permitting the guardian to liquidate the estate [Prob. Code § 2631(b)]. The guardian may petition for an order even if there is a will, providing the will does not appoint an executor or, if it does so, the named executor refuses to act [Prob. Code § 2631(b)]. If the order is granted, the guardian may sell personal property of the ward, withdraw money of the ward in an account in a financial institution, and collect debts, claims, or insurance proceeds owed to the ward or the ward's estate [Prob. Code § 2631(b)].

If, after payment of all expenses, the value of the remaining property of the ward or conservatee in California does not exceed $100,000 [see Prob. Code § 13100], it may be transferred to the persons who would be entitled to it under the Probate Code provisions for the transfer of small estates without administration [Prob. Code § 2631(c); see Prob. Code § 13000 et seq. (collection or transfer of small estate without administration)]. To determine whether the value of the remaining property qualifies for transfer under these provisions, it is necessary to exclude all of the property described in Prob. Code § 13050.

[2] Form

Provision for Burial Arrangements for Ward

Last Illness and Disposition of Remains

[First alternative: use if payment is to be made out of specified fund or property only:]

Should the ward die during the guardianship, the _____ [guardian or guardian of the estate] shall contract and pay for the last illness of the Ward and for the disposition of _____ [his or her] remains. Payment shall be made from the following _____ [fund or property] only: _____ [describe fund or property from which payment is to be made, e.g.: money held for the ward in a bank, savings and loan association, or other financial institution]. No payment shall be made from any real property (or any interest in real property) belonging to the ward or the guardianship estate.

[OR]

[Second alternative: use if no restriction is to be made as to which property or funds may be used for payment:]

Should the ward die during the guardianship, the _____ [guardian or guardian of the estate] shall contract and pay for the last illness of the Ward and for the disposition of _____ [his or her] remains. Payment shall be made from any property of the ward or the guardianship estate then under the control of the _____ [guardian or guardian of the estate], other than real property or an interest in real property.

[If desired, add specifications with respect to funeral and burial, such as the following:]

The funeral services are to be nondenominational. The casket is to be made of wood, or a comparable material, and the plot is to be of standard dimensions, marked by a stone, and located in the City Cemetery in Smalltown, California. The total cost of the funeral, casket, cemetery, burial, and related expenses is not to exceed $_____.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Duties & Rights
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators &

Guardians Guardians for Minors Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Testamentary Guardians Family
Law Guardians General Overview

55 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide 66A.syn

§ 66A.syn Synopsis to Chapter 66A: CONSERVATORSHIPS

§ 66A.01 California Sources

[1] Statutes

[2] California Rules of Court

§§ 66A.02-66A.04 [Reserved]

§ 66A.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

§ 66A.06 Annotations

§ 66A.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

[2] Additional Text References

§§ 66A.08-66A.09 [Reserved]

§ 66A.10 Governing Law

§ 66A.11 Nomination of Conservator

[1] Who May Nominate

[2] Who May Be Nominated

[3] Time and Form of Nomination

[4] Effective Duration of Nomination

[5] Legal Effect of Nomination

§ 66A.12 Persons for Whom Conservator May Be Appointed

[1] In General

[2] Inability to Provide Properly for Personal Needs

[3] Inability to Manage Finances or to Resist Fraud or Undue Influence

[4] Developmentally Disabled Adult

[5] Person Who Voluntarily Requests Conservator

§ 66A.13 Fiduciary Relationship of Conservatorship

§ 66A.14 Requirements and Procedure for Establishing Conservatorship

§ 66A.15 Order of Preference for Appointing Conservator

§ 66A.16 Nonprofit Charitable Corporation as Conservator

§ 66A.17 Private Professional Conservators

§ 66A.18 Temporary Conservator

§ 66A.19 Information Package for Conservators

§ 66A.20 Legal Capacity of Conservatee

[1] In General

[2] To Bind or Obligate the Conservatorship Estate

[3] To Give Informed Consent to Medical Treatment

[4] To Marry or Register as Domestic Partner

[5] To Vote

§ 66A.21 Powers and Duties

[1] Conservator of the Person

[2] Conservator of the Estate

§ 66A.22 Periodic Review of Conservatorship

§ 66A.23 Compensation

[1] Conservator and Attorney

[2] Restrictions on Compensation When Conservator Is Attorney or Family Member

§ 66A.24 Removal or Resignation of Conservator

§ 66A.25 Appointment of Successor Conservator

§ 66A.26 Termination of the Conservatorship

§ 66A.27 Professional Fiduciaries

[1] Professional Fiduciary

[2] Professional Fiduciaries Bureau

[3] Licensing Requirements

[4] Qualifications for Licensure

[5] License Renewal

[6] Initial and Annual Statement

[7] Suspension, Revocation, Denial and Disciplinary Action

§§ 66A.28-66A.29 [Reserved]

§ 66A.30 In General

§ 66A.31 Persons Subject to LPS Conservatorship

§ 66A.32 Recommendation by Treatment or Evaluation Professional

§ 66A.33 Appointment of Conservator

§ 66A.34 Procedure

§ 66A.35 Investigation

§ 66A.36 Powers of Conservator

§ 66A.37 Termination of Conservatorship

§§ 66A.38-66A.39 [Reserved]

§ 66A.40 In General

§ 66A.41 Procedures for Determination and Enforcement of Support

§§ 66A.42-66A.99 [Reserved]

§ 66A.100 Facts

Scope

§ 66A.101 Documents

Scope

§§ 66A.102-66A.109 [Reserved]

§ 66A.110 Determining Whether Conservator Is Needed

Scope

§ 66A.111 Determining Whether Nomination Should Be Made

Scope

§ 66A.112 Determining Whom To Nominate

Scope

§ 66A.113 Determining Whether Client Has Legal Capacity to Make Nomination

Scope

§ 66A.114 Determining When Nomination Should Be Made

Scope

Scope

§§ 66A.115-66A.119 [Reserved]

§ 66A.120 Preparation of Nominating Instrument

Scope

§ 66A.121 Execution and Storage of Nominating Instrument

Scope

§§ 66A.122-66A.199 [Reserved]

§ 66A.200 Nomination of Conservator of Person

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Optional Provisions

[c] Formal Requisites

[2] FORM

Nomination of Conservator of Person

§ 66A.201 Nomination of Conservator of Estate [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Nomination of Conservator of Estate

§ 66A.202 Nomination of Conservator of Person and Estate

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Nomination of Conservator of Person and Estate

§ 66A.203 Nomination of Separate Conservators of Person and Estate

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Nomination of Separate Conservators of Person and Estate

§ 66A.204 Nomination of Individual as Conservator of Person and Trust Company as Conservator of Estate

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Nomination of Individual as Conservator of Person and Trust Company as Conservator of Estate

§ 66A.205 Nomination of Joint Conservators [Prob. Code § 2105]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Powers of Joint Conservators

[c] Formal Requisites

[2] FORM

Nomination of Joint Conservators

§§ 66A.206-66A.209 [Reserved]

§ 66A.210 Provision Stating Reasons for Nomination

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Provision Stating Reasons for Nomination

§ 66A.211 Provision Stating That Specific Person Is Not Nominated

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Provision Stating That Specific Person Is Not Nominated

§ 66A.212 Waiver of Bond

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] General Requirements for Conservator's Bond

[c] Exemption for Trust Company

[d] Amount of Bond

[e] Bond For Joint Conservators

[f] Reduction, Addition, or Substitution

[g] Cautionary Note

[2] FORM

Waiver of Bond

56 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers conservatorship planning and focuses on the nomination of conservators. The Legal Background, covers conservatorships governed by the Probate Code conservatorship statutes effective January 1, 1981, and only briefly discusses conservatorship statutes in effect before that date. Also covered are conservatorships for gravely disabled persons (known generally as Lanterman-Petris-Short Act conservatorships). The Transaction Guide, lists the facts, documents, determinations, and procedures for nominating a conservator. The forms include nomination forms and optional provisions for nominating instruments.

Nomination of a conservator may precede, accompany, or follow the filing of a petition for judicial appointment of a conservator. Coverage of the judicially-regulated proceedings of a conservatorship is beyond the scope of this chapter. However, effective conservatorship planning requires that both the attorney and the client have a clear understanding of the proceedings and how they may affect the proposed conservatee's legal rights and obligations. A client's planning will be affected, for example, by the knowledge that certain constitutional rights will be altered by a conservatorship and that the court will not only supervise the conservatee but, to an extent, determine and review the legal rights and capacity of a conservatee as well.

It is also important for the attorney and the client to know how and under what circumstances a conservator may be nominated. Although a nomination is never a condition precedent to the appointment of a conservator (and, indeed, many conservatorship proceedings are commenced and successfully terminated without a nomination ever having been made), a nomination may be made in various circumstances, at various times, and by various persons. An understanding of those circumstances, times, and persons will help the attorney and the client to plan effectively for the eventuality of judicial proceedings.

For comprehensive coverage of the judicial proceedings relating to conservatorships, including illustrative forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Chs. 281 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

57 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.01

§ 66A.01 California Sources

[1] Statutes

Professional Fiduciaries Act. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6530 et. seq.

Effect of judicial determination that person of unsound mind lacks capacity. Civ. Code § 40.

Bond and Undertaking Law. Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.

Affidavit of voter registration. Elec. Code § 2150.

Disqualification of mentally incompetent conservatees from voting. Elec. Code §§ 2201, 2208-2211.

Review of conservatee's capability to complete voter registration affidavit. Elec. Code § 2209.

Trust company as conservator of estate. Fin. Code §§ 106, 107, 107.5, 1500 et seq.; Prob. Code §§ 300, 301.

"Domestic partner" defined. Prob. Code § 37.

Appeals in proceedings under Probate Code. Prob. Code § 1300 et seq.

Appealable orders in guardianships, conservatorships, and other protective proceedings. Prob. Code § 1301.

Effect of appeal. Prob. Code §§ 1310, 1311.

Guardianship, conservatorship, and other protective proceedings. Prob. Code § 1400 et seq.

"Developmental disability" defined. Prob. Code § 1420.

Appointment of legal counsel. Prob. Code § 1470 et seq.

Guardianships. Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.

Conservatorships. Prob. Code § 1800 et seq.

General provisions of law common to guardianships and conservatorships. Prob. Code § 2100 et seq.

Nonprofit charitable corporation as conservator. Prob. Code § 2104.

Jurisdiction and venue. Prob. Code § 2200 et seq.

Temporary guardians and conservators. Prob. Code § 2250 et seq.

Oaths, letters, and bonds. Prob. Code § 2300 et seq.

Powers and duties of guardian or conservator of person. Prob. Code § 2350 et seq.

Powers and duties of guardian or conservator of estate. Prob. Code § 2400 et seq.

Inventory and accounts. Prob. Code § 2600 et seq.

Compensation of guardians, conservators, and attorneys. Prob. Code § 2640 et seq.

Removal or resignation of guardians and conservators. Prob. Code § 2650 et seq.

Appointment of successor conservators. Prob. Code § 2680 et seq.

Requests for special notice. Prob. Code § 2700 et seq.

Transfer of assets out of state. Prob. Code § 2800 et seq.

Public guardians as guardians and conservators. Prob. Code § 2900 et seq.

Management or disposition of community property when spouse lacks legal capacity. Prob. Code § 3000 et seq.

Capacity determinations and health care decisions for adult without conservator. Prob. Code § 3200 et seq.

Money or property belonging to minors. Prob. Code § 3400 et seq.

Compromise by parent of minor's disputed claim. Prob. Code § 3500.

Money or property paid or delivered pursuant to compromise or judgment for minor or incompetent person. Prob. Code § 3600 et seq.

Procedure to set aside personal property of absent federal personnel. Prob. Code § 3700 et seq.

Dissolution or annulment of marriage revokes will provision nominating former spouse as conservator. Prob. Code § 6122(a)(3).

Termination of domestic partnership revokes will provision nominating former domestic partner as conservator. Prob. Code § 6122(a)(3).

"Gravely disabled" defined. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5008(h).

Conservatorships under Lanterman-Petris-Short Act. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350 et seq.

Procedure for appointment of conservator. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350.

Temporary conservators. Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5352.1, 5353.

Designation of conservator. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5355.

Capabilities of conservatee. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5357.

Powers of conservator. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5357.

Placement of conservatee in facility for treatment. Welf. & Inst. Code § 5358.

Filing fee may not be charged in appellate proceedings under Lanterman-Petris-Short Act. Gov. Code § 68926.

[2] California Rules of Court

General probate rules. Cal. Rules Ct., Rules 7.1 et seq.

Judicial Council forms required. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.101.

Title of account, petition, or other pleading and of proposed order must clearly and completely identify nature of all of relief sought or granted. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.102.

Bonding of personal representatives, guardians, conservators, trustees. Cal. Rules Ct., Rules 7.201 et seq.

Requirement that inventory and appraisal show sufficiency of bond. Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 7.501.

Petitions for order allowing compensation for conservators and their attorneys. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.751.

Order for accounting before or at time petition is filed or heard. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.752.

Contingency fee agreements in conservatorships. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.753.

Use of paralegals in performance of legal services for conservator. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.754.

Advance payments prohibited. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.755(a).

Periodic payments on showing of ongoing need for legal services. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.755(b).

Termination of conservatorship. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1052.

Service of final account of removed or resigned conservator. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1053.

Service of final account after termination of conservatorship. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1054.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust

LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators &

GuardiansConservatorsDuties & RightsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsRemoval &

Termination

58 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.02-66A.04

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.02[Reserved]

59 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.05

§ 66A.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

Bernstein, Eroding Roulette [ In re Conservatorship of Roulette, 590 P.2d 1 (Cal. 1979)] : How the Courts Ignore a Landmark in California Civil Commitment Hearings, 33(1) U.S.F. L. Rev. 59 (1998).

Wade, Recent Developments in Representing Disabled Clients, 136 Tr. & Est. 35 (1997).

Dembicki, What You Should Know About Adult Guardianships, 42 Prac. Law. 73 (1996).

Friedman & Starr, Losing It in California: Conservatorship and the Social Organization of Aging, 73 Wash. U. L.Q. 1501 (1995).

Friedman & Savage, Taking Care: The Law of Conservatorship in California, 61 S. Cal. L. Rev. 273 (1988).

Alexander, Premature Probate: A Different Perspective on Guardianship for the Elderly, 31 Stan. L. Rev. 1003 (1979).

Comment, To Keep Them Out of Harm's Way? Temporary Conservatorships and Religious Sects, 66 Cal. L. Rev. 845 (1978).

Morris, Conservatorship for the "Gravely Disabled": California's Nondeclaration of Nonindependence, 15 San Diego L. Rev. 201 (1978).

Zillgitt, Planning for Incompetency & Possibilities and Practices Under the Conservatorship Law, 37 So. Cal. L. Rev. 181.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust
LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators &
GuardiansConservatorsDuties & RightsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsRemoval &
Termination

60 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.06

§ 66A.06 Annotations

Annot., Ademption or Revocation of Specific Devise or Bequest by Guardian, Committee, Conservator, or Trustee of Mentally or Physically Incompetent Testator, 84 A.L.R.4th 462 (1991) .

Annot., Validity of Inter Vivos Gift by Ward to Guardian or Conservator, 70 A.L.R.4th 499 (1989) .

Annot., Validity of Guardianship Proceeding Based on Brainwashing of Subject by Religious, Political, or Social Organization, 44 A.L.R.4th 1207 (1986) .

Annot., Priority and Preference in Appointment of Conservator or Guardian for an Incompetent, 65 A.L.R.3d 991 (1975) .

Annot., Right of Guardian or Committee of Incompetent to Incur Obligations So As to Bind Incompetent or His Estate, or to Make Expenditures, Without Prior Approval by Court, 63 A.L.R.3d 780 (1975) .

Annot., Termination of Continuing Guaranty by Appointment of Guardian or Conservator for Guarantor, 55 A.L.R.3d 344 (1974) .

Annot., Citizenship of Ward or of Guardian, Conservator, Curator, or Next Friend, as Test of Diversity of Citizenship for Purpose of Jurisdiction of Federal District Court under 28 U.S.C. § 1332, 8 A.L.R. Fed. 550 (1971).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Duties & Rights
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Removal &

Termination

61 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.07

§ 66A.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

California Legal Forms, Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, § 104.220 et seq. (authorizations, consents, and refusals to give informed consent to medical treatment)(Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators.

Ch. 282, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Temporary Guardians and Conservators.

Ch. 283, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Bonds.

Ch. 284, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Notice.

Ch. 285, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Care of Ward or Conservatee.

Ch. 286, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Inventory and Appraisal.

Ch. 287, Guardianship and Conservatorship: General Management Powers.

Ch. 288, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Independent Exercise of Powers.

Ch. 289, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Management of Community Property.

Ch. 290, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Maintenance of Ward or Conservatee.

Ch. 290A, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Asset Management and Investment.

Ch. 290B, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Substituted Judgment.

Ch. 290C, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Actions and Disputed Claims.

Ch. 290D, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Actions Against Guardian or Conservator.

Ch. 290E, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Accounts.

Ch. 290F, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Compensation of Guardian or Conservator.

[2] Additional Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 14, Wills and Probate, §§ 932-1061 (10th ed. 2005).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust
LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators &
GuardiansConservatorsDuties & RightsEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsRemoval &
Termination

62 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.08-66A.09

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.08[Reserved]

63 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.10

§ 66A.10 Governing Law

By its adoption of the Conservatorship Law in 1957, the California Legislature created the legal framework for a new and (in this state) previously unfamiliar legal relationship. While similar in many respects to the old law governing guardians and wards, the new law of conservators and conservatees was free of the stigmatizing label of "incompetency," which had previously caused many persons to shun guardianships. Effective January 1, 1981, California's guardianship and conservatorship statutes were brought into a new and comprehensive statutory scheme, under which guardianship was reserved for minors and conservatorship (with minor exceptions) reserved for adults. While the substance of the old law of guardianship and conservatorship was in large part continued under the current scheme, procedural rules common to both guardianships and conservatorships were consolidated, and minor and technical changes and improvements were incorporated into the new law.

Under the current statutory scheme, many rules and concepts are common to both guardianships and conservatorships. Thus, guardianships and conservatorships are governed by common rules relating to the following:

- Appeals [Prob. Code §§ 1301, 1310 et seq.].
- Jurisdiction and venue [Prob. Code § 2200 et seq.].
- Temporary guardians and conservators [Prob. Code § 2250 et seq.].
- Oaths, letters and bonds [Prob. Code § 2300 et seq.].
- Powers and duties of guardians and conservators of the person [Prob. Code § 2350 et seq.].
- Powers and duties of guardians and conservators of the estate [Prob. Code § 2400 et seq.].
- Inventories and accounts [Prob. Code § 2600 et seq.].

- Compensation of guardians, conservators, and attorneys [Prob. Code § 2640 et seq.].
- Removal and resignation of guardians and conservators [Prob. Code § 2650 et seq.].
- Appointment of successor guardians and conservators [Prob. Code § 2670 et seq.].
- Requests for special notice [Prob. Code § 2700 et seq.].
- Transfer of assets outside the state [Prob. Code § 2800 et seq.].

Other provisions apply only to conservatorships. These include rules relating to the following:

- Persons for whom a conservator may be appointed [Prob. Code § 1800 et seq.].
- Nomination and order of preference for appointment of conservators [Prob. Code § 1810 et seq.].
- Conservatees who are "absentees" [Prob. Code § 1840 et seq.] or "missing persons" [Prob. Code § 1845 et seq.].
- Periodic review of conservatorships [Prob. Code § 1850 et seq.].
- Termination of conservatorships [Prob. Code § 1860 et seq.].
- Legal capacity of conservatees [Prob. Code § 1870 et seq.].
- Disqualification of conservatees from voting [Prob. Code § 1910].

Apart from the statutes listed above, special provisions relate to the management or disposition of community property when either spouse is substantially unable to manage or control the community property, lacks the legal capacity to join in or consent to a transaction involving the community property, or has a conservator [Prob. Code § 3000 et seq.]. For a discussion of these provisions, see §§ 66A.40, 66A.41, below .

To deal with the affairs of persons who are gravely disabled as a result of mental disorder or impairment by chronic alcoholism, the Legislature in 1967 enacted the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.]. This Act provides special rules governing conservatorships for gravely disabled persons (including gravely disabled minors) [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350 et seq.]. For a more detailed discussion of these rules and their practice implications, see § 66A.30 et seq., below.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Family Law
 Guardians
 General Overview

64 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.11

§ 66A.11 Nomination of Conservator

[1] Who May Nominate

The proposed conservatee may nominate a conservator if he or she has sufficient capacity at the time to form an intelligent preference, as may a spouse, domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)], parent, adult child, or brother or sister of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811].

The spouse of a proposed conservatee may not petition for the appointment of a conservator of his or her spouse, nor be appointed as conservator of the person or estate of his or her spouse, unless the petitioner alleges, and the court finds, that the spouse is not a party to any action or proceeding for legal separation of the parties, dissolution of marriage, or adjudication of nullity of the marriage [Prob. Code § 1813(a)]. However, if the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that the spouse of a proposed conservatee is a party to such an action or proceeding, or has obtained a judgment in any of these proceedings, and that appointment of the spouse is in the best interests of the proposed conservatee, the court may appoint the spouse. Before the appointment, the court must appoint counsel to consult with and advise the conservatee, and to report to the court his or her findings regarding the suitability of appointing the spouse as conservator [Prob. Code § 1813(a)]. Further, the spouse of a conservatee must disclose to the conservator or, if the spouse is the conservator, to the court, the filing of any action or proceeding against the conservatee for legal separation of the parties, dissolution of marriage, or adjudication of nullity of marriage, within 10 days of the filing of the action or proceeding. Disclosure is made by filing a notice with the court and serving the notice according to statutory notice procedures. If the spouse is the conservator, the court may set the matter for hearing on an order to show cause why the appointment of the spouse as conservator should not be terminated and a new conservator appointed by the court [Prob. Code § 1813(b)].

Similar rules limit the petition by and appointment of a domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)] as conservator unless the court finds that the domestic partner has not terminated and is not intending to terminate the domestic partnership [Prob. Code § 1813.1; see Fam. Code § 299 (termination of domestic partnerships)].

[2] Who May Be Nominated

Any natural person is eligible to be nominated and appointed as a conservator [see Prob. Code § 1812 (selection of conservator)]. In addition, special statutory provisions permit the nomination and appointment of qualifying nonprofit charitable corporations [Prob. Code § 2104], trust companies [Prob. Code § 300], and public guardians [Prob. Code §§ 2920, 2922].

A nonprofit charitable corporation may be appointed as a conservator of the person or estate, or both, if it meets all of the following requirements [Prob. Code § 2104]:

- The corporation must be incorporated in the State of California.
- The articles of incorporation must specifically authorize the corporation to accept appointments as conservator.
- At the time of the appointment, the corporation must have been providing care, counseling, or financial assistance to the proposed conservatee under supervision of a registered social worker certified by the Board of Behavioral Science Examiners of the State of California.

In counties with a public guardian [see Prob. Code § 2900 et seq. (public guardian)], the public guardian may act as the conservator of the person or estate (or of the person and estate) of any person domiciled in the county who requires a guardian and for whom no other person is qualified and willing to act [see Prob. Code §§ 2920 (application for appointment), 2922 (letters, oath, and bond)]. Before appointment, the public guardian may take possession or control of the property of any person domiciled in the county that is subject to loss, injury, waste, or misappropriation if the public guardian determines that the requirements for appointment of a guardian or conservator of the estate are satisfied and the public guardian intends to apply for appointment [Prob. Code § 2900].

A trust company may be appointed to act as conservator of an estate but not of a person [Prob. Code § 300; see Fin. Code § 107; Prob. Code § 83 ("trust company" defined); see also § 66A.17]. Although a trust company appointed as conservator of an estate may not be required to give a bond [Prob. Code § 301(a)], trust companies are subject to special requirements as to liability, oaths, and affidavits set forth in the Financial Code [Prob. Code § 301(b); see Fin. Code §§ 1540 et seq., 1587].

The statutes specifically authorize the court to appoint two or more joint conservators of the person or estate, or both [Prob. Code § 2105(a)], and to appoint one conservator for several conservatees [Prob. Code § 2106].

There is no requirement that a conservator be a California resident [ Guardianship of Mosier (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 164, 176, 54 Cal. Rptr. 447 ; Guardianship of Boutz (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 644, 647, 76 P.2d 154] . However, the courts have indicated that a California resident is to be preferred over a nonresident [ Guardianship of Mosier (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 164, 177, 54 Cal. Rptr. 447] . The residence of the proposed conservator will be considered insofar as it bears on the best interests of the proposed conservatee [ Guardianship of Brown (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 326, 336, 128 Cal. Rptr. 10, 546 P.2d 298] .

[3] Time and Form of Nomination

The proposed conservatee may nominate a conservator in the petition for appointment of a conservator or in a writing signed before or after the petition is filed [Prob. Code § 1810]. An adult child or a brother or sister of the proposed conservatee may nominate a conservator in the petition for appointment or at the hearing on the petition [Prob. Code § 1811(a)]. A spouse, domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)], or parent of the proposed conservatee may nominate a conservator in the petition for appointment [Prob. Code § 1811(a)], at the hearing on the petition [Prob. Code § 1811(a)], or in a writing signed before or after the petition is filed [Prob.

Code § 1811(b)].

If desired, the proposed conservatee may make the nomination in the form of a durable power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4126(a)]. A durable power of attorney is a power of attorney designed to survive the principal's incapacity. For a detailed discussion of durable powers of attorney, see Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management .

[4] Effective Duration of Nomination

In general, the statutes do not specify how long a nomination will be effective, the consequences of revocation of a nomination, or the effect of a subsequent nomination on an earlier nomination. With respect to nominations made by the proposed conservatee, Prob. Code § 1810 provides only that the court "shall appoint the nominee as conservator unless the court finds that the appointment of the nominee is not in the best interests of the proposed conservatee." A nomination made by the spouse, domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)], or a parent of the proposed conservatee in a writing signed either before or after the petition is filed remains effective notwithstanding the subsequent legal incapacity or death of the spouse or parent [Prob. Code § 1811(b)]. With respect to a nomination made by a power of attorney, unless the power of attorney states a time of termination, the authority of the attorney-in-fact is exercisable notwithstanding any lapse of time since execution of the power [Prob. Code § 4127].

Although Prob. Code §§ 4124 and 4125 provide that a nomination made in the form of a durable power of attorney will not be affected by the subsequent incapacity of the nominator (or "principal"), the same result necessarily applies to a nomination made in any other form. If the proposed conservatee becomes incapacitated after the nomination is made (a typical occurrence in any conservatorship context), the court must still give effect to the nomination under Prob. Code § 1810. A nomination made in the form of a durable power of attorney may be superseded by a subsequent nomination, whether or not made in the form of a durable power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4126(b)].

If the spouse of a conservatee files an action or proceeding against the conservatee for legal separation of the parties, dissolution of marriage, or adjudication of nullity of marriage, the court may set the matter for hearing on an order to show cause why the appointment of the spouse as conservator should not be terminated and a new conservator appointed by the court [Prob. Code § 1813(b)].

[5] Legal Effect of Nomination

Subject to special rules applying to nominations by the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1810; see [1], above] and to nominations of the spouse of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1813; see [1], above], the selection of a conservator rests in the sound discretion of the court. The court's exercise of its discretion must in all cases be based on what appears to be in the best interests of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1812(a)]. A finding that a particular individual should be appointed as conservator necessarily includes a finding that the appointment is in the conservatee's best interests; no separate finding is required [ Conservatorship of Ramirez (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 390, 400-401, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 581 ] . All other things being equal, preference for appointment must be given in the order prescribed by Prob. Code § 1812(b) [see discussion in § 66A.15].

The court must appoint the nominee of the proposed conservatee unless it finds that the appointment would not be in the best interests of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1810].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators &

Guardians Testamentary Guardians

65 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.12

§ 66A.12 Persons for Whom Conservator May Be Appointed

[1] In General

In appropriate circumstances, the court may appoint a conservator of the person, a conservator of the estate, or a conservator of both the person and estate of an adult [Prob. Code § 1800.3(a)(1)]. The court may also appoint a conservator of the person of a minor who is married or whose marriage has been dissolved [Prob. Code § 1800.3(a)(2)].

It should be noted that no conservatorship of the person or of the estate will be granted unless the court makes an express finding that the granting of the conservatorship is the least restrictive alternative needed for the protection of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1800.3(b)].

A conservatorship of the person may be established for a person who is not a resident of California [see Prob. Code § 1800.3(a)]. Prior to January 1, 2001, special rules applied to the establishment of a conservatorship of the person of a nonresident for whom a conservatorship has been established in another state [see Prob. Code § 1800.3(b)]. However, those rules became inoperative on January 1, 2001.

A guardian, rather than a conservator, may be appointed for the estate of a married minor [see Prob. Code §§ 1514, 1515; see also Prob. Code § 1800.3(a)(2) (conservator of person may be appointed for minor who is married or whose marriage has been dissolved; no authorization for appointment of conservatorship of estate, unlike adults for whom Prob. Code § 1800.3(a)(1) specifically authorizes such an appointment)]. Guardianship, not conservatorship, is also the proper proceeding for a minor whose marriage has been judged a nullity [see Prob. Code § 1515]. For discussion of guardianships, see Ch. 66, Guardianships .

[2] Inability to Provide Properly for Personal Needs

A conservator of the person may be appointed for a person who is unable to provide properly for his or her personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter [Prob. Code § 1801(a); see Prob. Code § 1828.5(c),(d) (limited conservatorship for developmentally disabled adult)]. The need for a conservator is clear when an individual is completely unable to care for his or her needs, independent of help from others [see Conservatorship of Harvey

(1970) 3 Cal. 3d 646, 91 Cal. Rptr. 510, 477 P.2d 742 (conservator appointed for unconscious and comatose person); Guardianship of Brown (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 326, 337, 128 Cal. Rptr. 10, 546 P.2d 298 (conservatee required intensive care and assistance in regard to physical needs and could perform only simple tasks without assistance)]. In other cases, when the issue is whether the proposed conservatee is properly caring for his or her needs, the court may require a showing that the proposed conservatee is physically unhealthy, or actually deprived of or unable to secure food, clothing, or shelter, to support a determination that a conservator is needed [see Katz v. Superior Court (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 952, 981, 141 Cal. Rptr. 234 (court vacated order granting temporary conservatorship to parents for purpose of deprogramming adult children from ideas inculcated by religious cult)].

[3] Inability to Manage Finances or to Resist Fraud or Undue Influence

A conservator of the estate may be appointed for a person who is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence [Prob. Code § 1801(b); see Prob. Code § 1828.5 (limited conservatorship for developmentally disabled adult)]. Substantial inability may not be proved solely by isolated incidents of negligence or improvidence [Prob. Code § 1801(b)].

[4] Developmentally Disabled Adult

A limited conservator of the person or of the estate, or both, may be appointed for a developmentally disabled adult [Prob. Code § 1801(d)]. A developmental disability is a disability that originates before an individual is 18 years old, can be expected to continue indefinitely, and constitutes a substantial handicap for the individual [Prob. Code § 1420]. Examples of developmental disabilities include mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, and autism [Prob. Code § 1420].

A limited conservator may be appointed only when necessary to promote and protect the conservatee's well-being and only to the extent necessitated by the conservatee's proven mental and adaptive limitations [Prob. Code § 1801(d)]. Limited conservatorships must be designed to encourage the conservatee's self-reliance and independence [Prob. Code § 1801(d)]. When a limited conservatorship is established, the conservatee is not presumed incompetent; he or she retains all legal and civil rights, except those that the court has designated as legal disabilities and specifically granted to the limited conservator [Prob. Code § 1801(d)].

[5] Person Who Voluntarily Requests Conservator

A conservator of the person, a conservator of the estate, or a conservator of both the person and estate may be appointed for a person who requests the appointment and who, to the satisfaction of the court, establishes good cause for the appointment [Prob. Code § 1802; see Prob. Code § 1800.3]. In discussing "good cause" in the context of a petition for appointment of a temporary conservator, one court stated that good cause is relative, that what constitutes good cause depends largely on the circumstances of a case, and that the concept calls for a factual exposition of a reasonable ground for the order [ Conservatorship of Gray (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 513, 521, 90 Cal. Rptr. 776, superseded by statute on other grounds, Brown v. Brown (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 117, 122, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755].

It should be noted that no conservatorship of the person or of the estate will be granted unless the court makes an express finding that the granting of the conservatorship is the least restrictive alternative needed for the protection of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1800.3(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust
 Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment

66 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.13

§ 66A.13 Fiduciary Relationship of Conservatorship

A conservator is subject to the regulation and control of the superior court in the performance of the duties of office [Prob. Code §§ 2102, 2200]. The relationship between a conservator and a conservatee is a fiduciary relationship that is governed by the law of trusts [Prob. Code § 2101].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Duties & Rights

67 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.14

§ 66A.14 Requirements and Procedure for Establishing Conservatorship

A petition for appointment of a conservator may be filed by a wide range of persons, including the proposed conservatee, his or her spouse, registered domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)], or other relative, any interested person or friend, or an interested state or local entity [see Prob. Code § 1820]. If the proposed conservatee does not file the petition, the clerk must issue the proposed conservatee a citation that sets forth the time and place of the hearing, states the legal standards by which the need for a conservator is determined [see Prob. Code § 1801], and states the substance of a prescribed list of information [Prob. Code § 1823]. The information that must be included in the citation includes a list of the proposed conservatee's rights that may be affected by the adjudication and statements that the proposed conservatee has the right to appear at the hearing, to oppose the petition, to be represented by legal counsel, and to have a jury trial [Prob. Code § 1823(b)]. Notice of the hearing must also be sent to certain other persons, including the spouse or domestic partner of the proposed conservatee [see Prob. Code § 1822].

The proposed conservatee generally must appear at the hearing [Prob. Code § 1825] and must be informed by the court of the nature and effect of the proceedings [see Prob. Code §§ 1828, 1828.5]. However, in some circumstances, the proposed conservatee may not be required to attend the hearing [see Prob. Code § 1825(a), see Conservatorship of John L. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1102; 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 393 (holding that conditions of Prob. Code § 1825 (a) were satisfied when the trial court permitted counsel to communicate the conservatee's waiver of his presence in a LPS proceeding)]. Regardless of whether the proposed conservatee attends the hearing, a court investigator must interview the proposed conservatee personally, inform the proposed conservatee of the contents of the citation, make a series of determinations, and report to the court [Prob. Code § 1826; see Conservatorship of Christopher A. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 604, 610, 613; 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 427 (before accepting stipulation for appointment, court was required to consult with the conservatee on the record to instruct conservatee on consequences of stipulation and obtain conservatee's express consent to it.)]. In addition to the proposed conservatee, the spouse, registered domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)], or any friend or relative of the proposed conservatee, or any other interested person, may appear at the hearing to support or oppose the petition [Prob. Code § 1829].

A conservator may be appointed in a proceeding under the Probate Code only if there is "clear and convincing" proof of the statutory grounds for appointment [Prob. Code § 1801(e); Conservatorship of Sanderson (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 611, 620, 165 Cal. Rptr. 217; see Prob. Code § 1800 et seq.; for discussion of persons for whom a conservator may be appointed, see § 66A.12]. This standard of proof, which requires greater proof than the "preponderance of the evidence" standard applicable in most civil actions, is applicable because the appointment of a conservator stigmatizes the conservatee and results in a substantial deprivation of liberty [ Conservatorship of Sanderson (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 611, 618-620, 165 Cal. Rptr. 217]. However, the "clear and convincing proof" standard is less rigorous than the "evidence beyond a reasonable doubt" standard that is applicable in conservatorship proceedings under the Lanterman-Petris-Short (LPS) Act [ Conservatorship of Sanderson (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 611, 618-620, 165 Cal. Rptr. 217; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq. ( LPS Act); Conservatorship of Roulet (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 219, 235, 152 Cal. Rptr. 425, 590 P.2d 1 (proof beyond reasonable doubt required before conservator can be appointed under LPS Act); for discussion of Lanterman-Petris-Short Act conservatorships, see § 66A.30 et seq.].

Additional requirements must be met if the proposed conservatee is an absentee [see Prob. Code § 1840 et seq.] or a missing person [see Prob. Code § 1845 et seq.].

Further, if appointed counsel in a conservatorship appeal fails to discover an arguable issue, the Court of Appeal must independently review the record under People v. Wende (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 436, 158 Cal. Rptr. 839, 600 P.2d 1071 [ Conservatorship of Margaret L. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 675, 682, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 542].

If a conservator other than a bank, trust company, or public officer such as the public guardian or public conservator acts as a conservator for two or more conservatees at the same time, and if the conservator is not related to the conservatees by blood or marriage, the conservator is deemed a "professional fiduciary" and is subject to licensing requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code 6501 (f), Prob. Code § 60.1(b), see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq. ("Professional Fiduciaries Act")]. For discussion, see § 66A.27.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust
 Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Duties & Rights

68 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.15

§ 66A.15 Order of Preference for Appointing Conservator

If the proposed conservatee has nominated a conservator in the petition or in a signed writing, the court must appoint the nominee unless it finds that the appointment is not in the best interests of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1810]. Otherwise, the selection of a conservator is solely in the discretion of the court and, in making the selection, the court must be guided by the best interests of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1812(a)]. In choosing among equally qualified persons, the court is generally required to give preference to the following persons, in the following order [Prob. Code § 1812(b); see Prob. Code § 1811 (nomination by relatives)]:

- (1) The spouse or domestic partner of the proposed conservatee, or a nominee of the spouse or domestic partner. Note that for these purposes, "domestic partner" does not simply mean any person who is cohabiting with the proposed conservatee. Rather, the term is specifically defined to mean one of two persons who have filed a Declaration of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State pursuant to Fam. Code § 297 et seq., provided that the domestic partnership has not been terminated pursuant to Fam. Code § 299 [Prob. Code § 37(a); for discussion, see Ch. 110, Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements and Related Transactions, §§ 110.50 et seq., 110.220 et seq.].
- (2) An adult child of the proposed conservatee, or a nominee of an adult child.
- (3) A parent of the proposed conservatee, or a nominee of a parent.
- (4) A brother or sister of the proposed conservatee, or a nominee of a brother or sister.
- (5) Any other person eligible for appointment as a conservator under the Probate Code or the Welfare and Institutions Code.

The preference for any nominee of an adult child, parent, brother, or sister is subordinate to the preference for any other parent, child, brother, or sister in the same class [Prob. Code § 1812(c)].

The court may not appoint the spouse of a proposed conservatee as conservator of the person or estate, unless the petitioner alleges, and the court finds, that the spouse is not a party to any action or proceeding for legal separation of the parties, dissolution of marriage, or adjudication of nullity of the marriage [Prob. Code § 1813(a)]. However, if the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that the spouse of a proposed conservatee is a party to such an action or proceeding, or has obtained a judgment in any of these proceedings, and that appointment of the spouse is in the best interests of the proposed conservatee, the court may appoint the spouse. Before the appointment, the court must appoint counsel to consult with and advise the conservatee, and to report to the court his or her findings regarding the suitability of appointing the spouse as conservator [Prob. Code § 1813(a)].

There is no statutory bar to appointment of a nonresident conservator. A resident, however, is usually preferred to a nonresident unless very strong reason for the appointment of a nonresident is presented. That evidence must clearly demonstrate that it would be in the proposed conservatee's best interest to move to another state [see Guardianship of Brown (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 326, 339, 128 Cal. Rptr. 10, 546 P.2d 298].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

69 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.16

§ 66A.16 Nonprofit Charitable Corporation as Conservator

A nonprofit charitable corporation may be appointed as conservator of the person or estate, or both, if all of the following requirements are met [Prob. Code § 2104(a)]:

- The corporation is incorporated in California.
- The articles of incorporation specifically authorize the corporation to accept appointments as guardian or conservator, as the case may be.
- At the time of appointment, the corporation has been providing care, counseling, or financial assistance to the proposed conservatee under the supervision of a registered social worker certified by the California Board of Behavioral Science Examiners.

A responsible officer of the corporation must be designated to act for the corporation with respect to the conservatorship. The officer must be named in the petition for appointment. If, at some subsequent time, the officer ceases to act with respect to the conservatorship, the corporation must file the name of the successor officer with the court [Prob. Code § 2104(b)]. The corporation's compensation as conservator, and any fees allowed an attorney for the corporation, must be for services actually rendered [Prob. Code § 2104(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

70 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.17

§ 66A.17 Private Professional Conservators

If a conservator acts as a conservator for two or more persons at the same time who are not related to the conservator or to each other by blood, adoption, marriage, or registered domestic partner, and if the conservator is not a bank, trust company, broker-dealer, or public officer or agency, the conservator is a "professional fiduciary" and is subject to licensure under the Professional Fiduciaries Act [Bus. & Prof. Code 6501 (f), Prob. Code § 60.1(b), see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq ("Professional Fiduciaries Act")]. To be licensed as a professional fiduciary, an applicant must meet the qualifications, including, but not limited to, being at least 21 years of age and meeting specified education requirements, as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533(a)n-(k)]. For a detailed discussion on the Professional Fiduciaries Act, and the licensing requirements of professional fiduciaries, see § 66A.27.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment

71 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.18

§ 66A.18 Temporary Conservator

On or after the filing of a petition for appointment of a conservator, any person entitled to petition for appointment as the conservator may petition for appointment as temporary conservator of the person or estate or both [Prob. Code § 2250(a)]. The requirements and procedure for appointment, and other provisions concerning the powers and duties of the temporary conservator and the duration of his or her powers, are set forth in Prob. Code § 2250 et seq.

A proposed conservatee is entitled to notice of any application for a temporary conservatorship in accordance with Prob. Code § 2250(e) [ Edward W. v. Lamkins (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 516, 521-525, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (notice may be dispensed with only on showing of good cause, i.e., individualized showing of exigent circumstances)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Duties & Rights

72 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.19

§ 66A.19 Information Package for Conservators

Every superior court is required to provide all private conservators with written information concerning a conservator's rights, duties, limitations, and responsibilities under the conservatorship statutes [Prob. Code § 1835(a)]. To help courts meet this requirement, the Judicial Council is required to develop and periodically update an information package [Prob. Code § 1835(c), (e)]. Courts may charge each private conservator up to $20 to cover the costs of providing the written information [Prob. Code § 1835(f)], which must include all of the following [Prob. Code § 1835(b)]:

- The rights, duties, limitations, and responsibilities of a conservator.
- The rights of a conservatee.
- How to assess the needs of the conservatee.
- How to use community-based services to meet the needs of the conservatee.
- How to ensure that the conservatee is provided with the least restrictive environment possible.
- The court procedures and processes relevant to conservatorships.
- The procedures for inventory and appraisal, and the filing of accounts.

Before letters are issued, every conservator other than a trust company or a public conservator must file an acknowledgment of receipt of both the required information package and a statement of the duties and liabilities of the office of conservator. The acknowledgment and statement must be in the form prescribed by the Judicial Council [Prob. Code § 1834(a)]. However, a court's failure to provide a conservator with the required package will not relieve the conservator of his or her statutory duties, nor will it make the court or any agent or employee of the court, personally or officially liable for damages suffered by a conservatee, conservator, or any other person or entity [Prob. Code § 1835(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Duties & Rights

73 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.20

§ 66A.20 Legal Capacity of Conservatee

[1] In General

The conservatorship statutes set forth the capacity of a conservatee to exercise certain rights, or to bind or obligate the estate during the conservatorship:

- Prob. Code § 1870 et seq. cover the capacity of the conservatee to bind the conservatorship estate [see [2], below].
- Prob. Code §§ 1880 et seq. and 2354 et seq. cover the conservatee's capacity to give an informed consent to medical treatment [see [3], below].
- Prob. Code §§ 1900 and 1901 govern the conservatee's capacity to marry or to enter into a registered domestic partnership.

The conservatee's capacity to vote is also governed by Prob. Code §§ 1865 and 1910.

[2] To Bind or Obligate the Conservatorship Estate

In general, the appointment of a conservator of the estate is an adjudication that the conservatee lacks the legal capacity to enter into or make any transaction that binds or obligates the conservatorship estate [Prob. Code § 1872(a)]. The appointment of a limited conservator does not limit the legal capacity of the limited conservatee, except as provided in the court order appointing the limited conservator [Prob. Code § 1872(b)].

The term "transaction" includes, but is not limited to, any of the following [Prob. Code § 1870]:

- Making a contract, sale, transfer, or conveyance.
- Incurring a debt or encumbering property.

- Making a gift.
- Delegating a power.
- Waiving a right.

After his or her incapacity has been judicially determined, a person of unsound mind can make no conveyance or other contract, or delegate any power or waive any right, until his or her restoration to capacity. Establishment of a conservatorship under the Probate Code is a judicial determination of the incapacity of the conservatee for these purposes [Civ. Code § 40]. These two rules, however, are subject to the exceptions discussed below.

The capacity of a conservatee with regard to several specific rights or transactions is clearly described by statutes. A conservatee retains the right to control allowances received from the conservator of the estate for the personal use of the conservatee, to make a will, and, unless otherwise ordered by the court, to control his or her wages and salary [Prob. Code § 1871(a)-(c)]. The conservatee retains the right to enter into reasonable transactions to provide the necessities of life to the conservatee and his or her spouse and minor children and to provide the basic living expenses [see Fam. Code § 297] to the conservatee's domestic partner [Prob. Code § 1871(d); see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)]. Further, any person who enters into a transaction affecting the conservatee's real property will be unaffected by the conservatorship or any order made in the conservatorship proceedings if he or she entered into the transaction in good faith, for a valuable consideration, and without knowledge of the establishment of the conservatorship, unless a notice of the establishment of the conservatorship is recorded prior to the transaction in the county in which the property is located [Prob. Code § 1875].

Apart from the rights and transactions described above, the court may by order authorize the conservatee, subject to general principles of law and equity relating to transactions, to enter into transactions or types of transactions that may be appropriate for the particular conservatee and conservatorship estate, and may set conditions or limitations on this authorization [see Prob. Code § 1873]. This permits the court to give the conservatee the right to enter into transactions affecting the conservatorship estate which, but for the order, the conservatee would not have. For example, the court might permit the conservatee to enter into specified types of transactions or into transactions not exceeding specified amounts.

[3] To Give Informed Consent to Medical Treatment

Statutory provisions relating to a conservatee's capacity to give an informed consent to medical treatment [Prob. Code §§ 1880 et seq., 2354 et seq.] were enacted in response to judicial development of the right of an adult to give an informed consent to medical treatment [see Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229]. These provisions clarify uncertainties over when a conservator of the person may give an informed consent on behalf of a conservatee, which were not addressed by former statutory law [see 60 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 375 (1977)].

On petition and after a hearing at which, with prescribed exceptions, the presence of the conservatee is required [see Prob. Code § 1891 et seq.], the court determines whether there is any form of medical treatment for which the conservatee has the capacity to give an informed consent. If the court determines that the conservatee lacks this capacity, the court must by order give the conservator of the person the exclusive authority make health care decisions for the conservatee that the conservator, in good faith based on medical advice, determines to be necessary. In making health care decisions for the conservatee, the conservator must act in accordance with the conservatee's individual health care instructions, if any, and other wishes to the extent known to the conservator. Otherwise, the conservator must make the decision in accordance with the conservator's determination of the conservatee's best interest, considering the conservatee's personal values to the extent known to the conservator. The conservator may require the conservatee to receive the health care, whether or not the conservatee objects. In such a case, the health care decision of the conservator alone is sufficient and no person is liable because the health care is administered to the conservatee without the conservatee's consent [Prob. Code §§ 1880, 2355(a)]. For this purpose, health care decisions include the selection and discharge of health care providers and institutions, approval or disapproval of diagnostic tests, and directions to provide, withhold, or withdraw artificial nutrition and hydration and all other forms of health care, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation [Prob. Code § 4617(c)]. The conservator's exclusive authority to make health care decisions for the conservatee is restricted, however, if the conservatee, before the conservatorship, adhered to a religion whose tenets and practices call for reliance on prayer alone for healing [see Prob. Code § 2355(b)], if the conservatee opposes being placed in a mental health treatment facility, or if the conservatee is to be given experimental drugs or convulsive treatment, is to be sterilized, or has issued a directive pursuant to the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 2356; see Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.]. The effective period of the order terminates at the time, if any, specified in the order, or the time the order is modified or revoked, or the time the conservatorship is terminated [Prob. Code § 1897; see Prob. Code § 1898 (modification or revocation of order on petition)].

If the conservatee is not judged to be lacking the capacity to give informed consent to medical treatment, the consent of the conservatee, with or without the additional consent of the conservator, is generally sufficient for treatment, and the consent of the conservator alone is insufficient if the conservatee objects to the treatment [Prob. Code § 2354(a)]. However, in cases of emergency, or if the conservator obtains a court order specifically authorizing treatment for an existing or continuing medical condition, the conservator may require the conservatee to receive medical treatment [see Prob. Code §§ 2354(b), (c), 2357]. As an alternative to this procedure, there is a separate procedure for obtaining judicial authorization to make health care decisions for a person with an existing or continuing medical condition who is unable to give an informed consent to the treatment [see Prob. Code § 3200 et seq.].

A conservator claiming statutory authority for withholding life-sustaining treatment in accordance with a conscious conservatee's wishes must present clear and convincing evidence of the conservatee's wishes [ Conservatorship of Wendland (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 519, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 28 P.3d 151] .

[4] To Marry or Register as Domestic Partner

The capacity of the conservatee to marry or to enter into a registered domestic partnership is not affected by the appointment of a conservator of the person or estate or both [Prob. Code § 1900]. However, a judicial determination whether the conservatee has this capacity may be obtained [see Prob. Code § 1901].

[5] To Vote

The conservatee may be ordered disqualified from voting if the court determines the conservatee is not capable of completing an affidavit of voter registration [Prob. Code § 1910; see Elec. Code § 2150]. The capacity or incapacity of a conservatee to complete a voter registration affidavit is reviewed by the court investigator during each periodic review of the conservatorship [Prob. Code § 1851(a); see discussion in § 66A.22]. The investigator must determine whether the conservatee is capable of completing the affidavit and must inform the court of his or her determination [Elec. Code § 2209].

If the investigator determines that the status of the capability of the conservatee changes, that is, if he or she finds that the conservatee has become capable after having been determined to be incapable or has become incapable after not having been found to be incapable of completing the affidavit, the court must hold a hearing to determine the capability or incapability of the conservatee to complete the affidavit [Elec. Code § 2209(b), (c)]. If the capability of the conservatee is found to have changed, the court must give an appropriate notification to the county clerk of the county where the conservatee resides [Elec. Code § 2209(b), (c); see Elec. Code § 2208(c)].

If the right is not restored sooner, on termination of the conservatorship the court must notify the clerk of the court in the county in which the former conservatee resides that the former conservatee's right to register to vote is restored [

Prob. Code § 1865].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

74 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.21

§ 66A.21 Powers and Duties

[1] Conservator of the Person

In general, a conservator, except a limited conservator, of the person has the care, custody, and control of, and has charge of the education of, the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2351(a)].

The limited conservator has the care, custody, and control of the limited conservatee, except that the limited conservator does not have control over the conservatee's residence, education, social relationships, and certain other areas unless the court specifies otherwise [Prob. Code § 2351.5(b)]. The limited conservator must secure such habilitation, treatment, training, education, medical and psychological services, and social and vocational opportunities as are appropriate for and will assist the limited conservatee in the development of maximum self-reliance and independence [Prob. Code § 2351.5(a)(2)].

If the court determines that it is appropriate under the circumstances of a particular estate, the court has the discretion to limit these powers and duties [Prob. Code § 2351(b)]. If the powers and duties are to be limited, the court will issue an order either stating the specific powers that the conservator does not have with respect to the person of the conservatee and reserving the specified powers to the conservatee, or stating the specific powers and duties the conservator has with respect to the person of the conservatee and reserving to the conservatee all other rights with respect to his or her person that the conservator otherwise would have [Prob. Code § 2351(b)]. The order may be included in the order appointing the conservator of the person, or may be made, modified, or revoked on a petition subsequently filed when notice of the hearing on the petition has been given as required [Prob. Code § 2351(c)].

In exercising his or her duties, a conservator may not hire or refer business to an entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of the interest to the court [Prob. Code § 2351(d)].

If the court does not order that the conservatee retain the power to fix his or her own residence, the conservator of the person has the power to fix the residence of the conservatee at any place within California [Prob. Code § 2352(a), (b)].

The guardian or conservator must select the least restrictive appropriate residence that is available and necessary to meet the needs of the ward or conservatee, and that is in the best interests of the ward or conservatee [Prob. Code §§ 2352 (a), (b)]. If permission of the court is first obtained, the conservator may also fix the residence of the conservatee at a place outside California [Prob. Code § 2352(c)]. It will be presumed that the personal residence of the conservatee is the least restrictive appropriate residence for the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2352.5]. Furthermore, a conservator seeking an order authorizing a sale of the conservatee's personal residence must demonstrate that the terms of the sale are in the best interests of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2591.5].

The conservator of the person also may obtain the authority to give informed consent to medical treatment for the conservatee as the court may order [see discussion in § 66A.20[3]].

For nonresident conservatees, the conservator has the same powers and duties as a conservator of a resident conservatee while the conservatee is in California, unless the court otherwise limits the conservator [Prob. Code § 2107(a)].

[2] Conservator of the Estate

The conservator of the estate, and limited conservator to the extent specifically and expressly provided in the appointing court's order, has the management and control of the estate and, in managing and controlling the estate, must use ordinary care and diligence. What constitutes use of ordinary care and diligence is determined by all the circumstances of the particular estate [Prob. Code § 2401(a)]. The conservator is to exercise or not exercise a power to the extent required by ordinary care and diligence [Prob. Code § 2401(b)]. In exercising his or her duties, however, a conservator may not hire or refer business to an entity in which he or she has a financial interest, as defined, except with court authorization after written disclosure of the interest to the court [Prob. Code § 2401(c)].

The powers and duties of a conservator of the estate are detailed by statutes [Prob. Code § 2400 et seq.], which are divided into 11 articles, including separate articles for each of the following:

- The conservator's powers and duties to support and maintain the conservatee and the persons legally entitled to support and maintenance from the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2420 et seq.].
- The conservator's powers and duties to pay debts and expenses incurred by the conservatee [Prob. Code §§ 2430, 2431].
- General estate management powers [Prob. Code § 2450 et seq.].
- The conservator's powers and duties to compromise claims and actions for the benefit of, or against, the conservatee, and to extend, renew, or modify obligations owing to or running in favor of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2500 et seq.].
- The conservator's powers and duties to convey or transfer property claimed to belong to the conservatee [Prob. Code § 850 et seq.].
- The conservator's powers and duties related to sales of the conservatee's real or personal property [Prob. Code § 2540 et seq.].
- The conservator's powers and duties with regard to borrowing or lending money, notes, mortgages, leases, conveyances and exchanges of the estate property [Prob. Code § 2550 et seq.].
- The conservator's powers and duties to invest the property of the estate [Prob. Code § 2570 et seq.].

- Additional powers the conservator may be authorized to exercise independent of court supervision [Prob. Code § 2590 et seq.].

The conservator may also petition the court for authority to take certain actions the conservatee would have taken if competent to act [Prob. Code § 2580]. In this proceeding, the court has discretion to authorize or require a conservator to take a variety of different actions affecting the conservatee's estate. The court, in essence, is permitted to substitute its judgment for that of the conservatee. The question in a substituted-judgment proceeding is not what the conservatee would do but what a reasonably prudent person in the conservatee's position would do [ Conservatorship of McDowell (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 659, 665, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 10 ].

The powers and duties of a conservator of the estate apply to property owned by a husband and wife as community property, but only to the extent authorized by a separate set of statutory provisions [see Prob. Code § 3000 et seq. (management or disposition of community property when spouse lacks legal capacity); see also §§ 66A.40, 66A.41].

Within 90 days after appointment (or later, if the court allows further time), a conservator of the estate must file an inventory and appraisal of the estate with the clerk of the court [Prob. Code § 2610(a)]. The inventory and appraisal must be made as of the date of the conservator's appointment [Prob. Code § 2610(a)]. The conservator must file an account one year after appointment and, unless otherwise ordered by the court, further accounts every two years thereafter [Prob. Code § 2620(a)]. As part of these accountings, a conservator must submit original account statements from any institution [see Prob. Code § 2890 ("institution" defined)], or any financial institution [see Prob. Code § 2892 ("financial institution" defined)], in which estate money or other assets are held or deposited, as of the close of the period of the court accounting [Prob. Code § 2620(c)(2)]. If the court accounting is the first one of the conservatorship, the conservator must also provide the account statement for the account balance immediately before the date the conservator was appointed and the account statement or statements for the account through the closing date of the first court accounting [Prob. Code § 2620(c); see Prob. Code §§ 2890-2893 (statements required to be submitted by institutions and financial institutions)]. If any document filed with the court contains the conservatee's social security number or any other personal information that would not ordinarily be disclosed in a court accounting, inventory and appraisal, or other nonconfidential pleadings, the account statement must be attached to a separate affidavit describing the character of the document, captioned "CONFIDENTIAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT". Except as otherwise ordered by the court, the clerk of the court must keep the document confidential and may disclose the document only upon court order [Prob. Code § 2620(c)(7)]. Additionally, courts may provide by local rule that the court shall retain all documents lodged with it until the court's determination of the guardian's or conservator's account has become final, at which time the supporting documents will be returned to the depositing guardian or conservator or delivered to any successor appointed by the court [Prob. Code § 2620(c)(8)].

The powers and duties of a conservator of the estate of a nonresident conservatee are the same as the powers and duties of a conservator of the estate of a resident, but only with respect to the property of the nonresident within California [Prob. Code § 2107(b)]. The responsibility of a conservator of the estate of a nonresident with regard to inventory, accounting, and disposal of the estate is confined to property that comes into his or her hands as conservator in California [Prob. Code § 2107(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Duties & Rights

75 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.22

§ 66A.22 Periodic Review of Conservatorship

The court must review every conservatorship at the expiration of six months after the initial appointment of the conservator [Prob. Code 1850(a)(1)], again one year after the appointment of the conservator, and annually thereafter [Prob. Code 1850(a)(2)]. At the review conducted one year after the appointment of the conservator, the court may set the next review in two years if the court determines that the conservator is acting in the best interests of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1850(a)(2)]. In addition, the court, on its own motion or on request by any interested person, may take appropriate action, including ordering a review of the conservatorship and ordering the conservator to present an accounting of the assets of the estate [Prob. Code § 1850(b)]. These requirements do not apply to conservatorships for absentees or conservatorships of the estate for nonresidents when the conservatee is not present in California [Prob. Code § 1850]. Conservatorships of an absentee conservator [see Prob. Code § 1403 ("absentee" defined)] or of a conservatee who is not a resident of California and who is not present in the state are not subject to this requirement, however [Prob. Code § 1850(d)].

The court must review each limited conservatorship for a developmentally disabled adult [see Prob. Code § 1801(d)] one year after the appointment of the conservator, and biennially thereafter [Prob. Code § 1850.5(a)]. In addition, the court, on its own motion or on request by any interested person, may take appropriate action, including ordering a review of the limited conservatorship [Prob. Code § 1850.5(b)].

When court review is required, a court investigator must visit the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1851(a)]. This visit must be without prior notice to the conservatee, except as ordered by the court for necessity or to prevent harm to the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1851(a)]; for a form for an order appointing court investigator, see § 281.104]. The investigator must inform the conservatee personally that the conservatee is under a conservatorship, and must give the conservatee the name of the conservator. The investigator must determine whether the conservatee wishes to petition the court for termination of the conservatorship, whether the conservator is acting in the best interests of the conservatee, and whether the conservatee is capable of completing an affidavit of voter registration. In determining whether the conservator is acting in the best interests of the conservatee, the court investigator's evaluation must include an examination of the conservatee's placement, the quality of care, and the conservatee's finances [Prob. Code § 1851(a)]. If the court has made an order regarding the legal capacity of the conservatee under Prob. Code § 1870 et seq., the court investigator must determine whether the condition of the conservatee is such that the terms of the order should be modified or the order revoked [Prob. Code § 1851(a)]. On request of the court investigator, the conservator must make available to the court investigator during the investigation, for inspection and copying all books and records, including receipts and any expenditures, of the conservatorship [Prob. Code § 1850(a)].

At the time of periodic review, the court investigator also may visit the conservator and other persons if necessary to determine whether the conservator is acting in the best interests of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1851(d)]. The investigator's report must be confidential and can be made available only to the parties, the persons to whom a copy of the report is required to be mailed [see Prob. Code § 1851(b), referenced below], persons given notice of the petition who have requested the report or who have appeared in the proceeding, their attorneys, and the court. However, the court has discretion to release the report at any other time if it would serve the interest of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1851(e)].

At least 15 days before the date of review, the investigator must certify his or her findings to the court [Prob. Code § 1851(b)]. In the case of a limited conservatee, the investigator also must recommend whether the conservatorship should be continued or terminated [Prob. Code § 1851(c)]. Confidential medical information and confidential information from the California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System shall be in a separate attachment to the report and shall not be provided in copies sent to the conservatee's spouse or registered domestic partner, the conservatee's relatives in the first degree, and, if there are no such relatives, to the next closest relative.

A copy of the report must be mailed to the conservatee's spouse or registered domestic partner, the conservatee's relatives in the first degree, and if there are no such relatives, to the next closest relative, unless the court determines that the mailing will result in harm to the conservatee [Prob. Code § 1851(b)].

Each court shall coordinate investigations with the filing of accountings so that investigators may review accountings before visiting the conservatee, if feasible [Prob. Code § 1851.2].

If the investigator cannot locate the conservatee, the court will order the conservator to show cause why the conservatorship should not be terminated [Prob. Code § 1853(a)]. If the conservatee is not made available within the time prescribed and if good cause for continuing the conservatorship is not shown, the court must terminate the conservatorship and order the conservator to file an accounting and to surrender the estate to the person legally entitled to it [Prob. Code § 1853(b)].

At the close of each fiscal year the State Controller determines the statewide average cost for investigations by court investigators. Each county must annually assess the estate of each conservatee in the county for any investigation or review conducted by a court investigator at county expense [Prob. Code § 1851.5(a)]. The court may order reimbursement to the county for the costs of the investigations required by statute unless the court finds that the assessment would pose a hardship to the estate [Prob. Code § 1851.5(a)]. There is a rebuttable presumption that the assessment would impose a hardship if the conservatee is receiving Medi-Cal benefits [see Prob. Code § 1851.5(a) (reference to "ward" rather than "conservatee" probably inadvertent)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Removal & Termination

76 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.23

§ 66A.23 Compensation

[1] Conservator and Attorney

At any time after the filing of the inventory and appraisal, but not earlier than 90 days after letters are issued, or after any other period of time that the court for good cause orders, a conservator may petition the court for an order fixing and allowing compensation to the conservator and the attorney for the conservator [Prob. Code §§ 2640(a), 2641(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.751]. At the hearing, the court must allow just and reasonable compensation, which will become a charge against the estate [Prob. Code §§ 2640(c), 2641(b)].

[2] Restrictions on Compensation When Conservator Is Attorney or Family Member

An attorney who is also the conservator may not receive any compensation from the estate for services performed for the conservator unless the court specifically approves the right to the compensation and finds that it is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2645(a)]. Similarly, a parent, child, sibling, or spouse of a person who is conservator, or a law partnership or corporation whose partner, shareholder, or employee is serving as conservator, may not receive any compensation for legal services performed for the conservator unless the court specifically approves the right to compensation and finds that it is to the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2645(b)].

An attorney who seeks compensation under these rules must show that his or her representation, as opposed to representation otherwise available, benefitted the conservatorship estate [ Brown v. Brown (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 117, 122-123, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755 ] . It is not sufficient merely to show that the conservatee or the estate derived some benefit from the representation [ Brown v. Brown (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 117, 120, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755 ] .

Neither the rules restricting the right of an attorney who is also a conservator, or the specified relatives, partners, or employees of a conservator, to receive legal fees from the conservatorship estate apply if the conservator or conservator is related by blood or marriage to, or is a cohabitant with, the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2645(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral Overview

77 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.24

§ 66A.24 Removal or Resignation of Conservator

A conservator may be removed for cause or may resign [see Prob. Code § 2650 et seq.]. The specific causes for which a conservator may be removed include the following:

- Failure to use ordinary care and diligence in the management of the estate [Prob. Code § 2650(a)].
- Failure to file a timely inventory or account [Prob. Code § 2650(b)].
- Continued failure or incapacity to perform duties suitably [Prob. Code § 2650(c)].
- Conviction of a felony before or after appointment as conservator [Prob. Code § 2650(d)].
- Gross immorality [Prob. Code § 2650(e)].
- An adverse interest that creates an unreasonable risk that the guardian will not faithfully perform his or her duties [Prob. Code § 2650(f)].
- For a conservator of the person, violating the law governing placement of a conservatee in a mental health treatment facility or the prohibitions against administration to the conservatee of certain drugs and treatment [Prob. Code § 2650(g); see Prob. Code § 2356].
- For a conservator of the estate, insolvency or bankruptcy [Prob. Code § 2650(h)].
- If the court, in its discretion, determines that removal is in the conservatee's best interests [Prob. Code § 2650(i)].

A conservator may resign at any time by filing a petition with the court [Prob. Code § 2660]. The court must allow the resignation when it appears proper, to take effect at the time the court fixes [Prob. Code § 2660]. The court may make any order necessary to deal with the conservatorship before a new conservator is appointed and the resigning conservator's accounts are settled [Prob. Code § 2660].

When the court grants a petition removing the conservator of a minor conservatee (or tendering the conservator's resignation), and does not immediately appoint a successor conservator, the court must at the same time appoint a responsible adult to make educational decisions for the minor until it appoints a successor [Prob. Code § 2662]. Likewise, if the court suspends or limits the conservator's powers to make educational decisions for the minor, it must at the same time appoint a responsible adult to make these decisions until the conservator is again authorized to do so [Prob. Code § 2662]. An individual who has a conflict of interest in representing the minor may not be appointed to make educational decisions [Prob. Code § 2662]. This means a person that has any interests which might restrict his or her ability to make educational decisions, including, but not limited to, the conflicts of interest prohibited by Gov. Code § 1126, and the receipt of compensation or attorneys' fees for providing services under this section [Prob. Code § 2662]. A foster parent is not considered to have a conflict of interest solely because he or she receives compensation for providing services under this section [Prob. Code § 2662].

A conservator of the estate who resigns or is removed must serve a copy of the final account and petition for its settlement with the notice of hearing that must be served on the successor conservator of the estate under Prob. Code § 1460(b)(1), unless the court dispenses with notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1053].

In a conservatorship proceeding in which the court denied a petition by the conservatee's wife for the removal of the conservator, the court violated the wife's right to due process by reading and considering a report prepared by the conservatee's appointed counsel, but refusing to allow the wife or her attorney to review the report [ Conservatorship of Schaeffer (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 159, 165, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 547 ] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Removal & Termination

78 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.25

§ 66A.25 Appointment of Successor Conservator

The court may appoint a successor conservator if a vacancy in the conservatorship occurs for any reason [Prob. Code § 2680]. A petition for appointment of a successor conservator may be filed by any of the following persons [Prob. Code § 2681]:

- The conservatee.
- The conservatee's spouse or domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)].
- A relative of the conservatee.
- Any state or local entity or officer.
- Any other interested person or friend of the conservatee.

The petition must contain specified information [see Prob. Code § 2682], and applicable notice requirements must be observed [see Prob. Code § 2683]. Unless the petition states that the conservatee will be personally present at the hearing, the court investigator must do all of the following [Prob. Code § 2684(a)-(e)]:

- Personally interview the conservatee in advance of the hearing.
- Inform the conservatee of the nature of the proceeding.
- Determine whether the conservatee has any objections to the proposed successor.
- Determine whether the conservatee is, wishes to be, or should be represented by legal counsel.

The investigator must report the findings to the court, with copies to the attorneys and any other parties the court orders, at least five days before the hearing [Prob. Code § 2684(f), (g)]. The court will determine who is to be appointed as successor conservator in accordance with the criteria for order of preference for appointing a conservator, discussed in § 66A.15 [Prob. Code § 2688].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Appointment
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Removal & Termination

79 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.26

§ 66A.26 Termination of the Conservatorship

A conservatorship continues until terminated by the death of the conservatee or by order of the court [Prob. Code § 1860(a)]. A conservatorship may be terminated by court order when the court determines that it is no longer required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1052(a)]. A conservatorship of the person terminates by operation of law when the conservatee dies, and the conservator need not file a petition for termination [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1052(b)]. A conservatorship for a married minor does not terminate if the marriage is dissolved or adjudged a nullity [Prob. Code § 1860(b)]. Procedural requirements for termination of a conservatorship are set forth in Prob. Code § 1861 et seq.

A limited conservatorship is terminated by any of the following:

- The death of the limited conservatee or conservator [Prob. Code § 1860.5(a)(1), (2)].
- A court order appointing a conservator of the former limited conservatee [Prob. Code § 1860.5(a)(3)].
- A court order terminating the limited conservatorship on the ground that it is no longer necessary for the limited conservatee [Prob. Code § 1860.5(a)(4)].

A conservator of the estate whose administration is terminated by operation of law or by court order must file and obtain the court's approval of a final account of administration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1052(c)]. After termination of the conservatorship, the conservator must serve copies of the final account and petition for its settlement with the notices of hearing that must be served on the former conservatee and on the spouse or domestic partner of the former conservatee under Prob. Code § 1460(b)(2) and (3), unless the court dispenses with service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.1054].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Conservators Removal & Termination

80 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.27

§ 66A.27 Professional Fiduciaries

[1] Professional Fiduciary

A professional fiduciary is a person who acts as a conservator or guardian for two or more persons at the same time who are not related to the professional fiduciary or to each other by blood, adoption, marriage, or registered domestic partnership [Bus. & Prof. Code 6501 (f)]. A professional fiduciary is also a person who acts as a trustee, agent under a durable power of attorney for health care, or agent under a durable power of attorney for finances, for more than three people or more than three families or a combination of people and families that totals more than three, at the same time, who are not related to the professional fiduciary by blood, adoption, marriage or registered domestic partnership [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6501(f), see Qualifications for Licensure, § 66A.27[4]].

However, the following are exempted from the definition of professional fiduciary, and are not required to obtain a professional fiduciary license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6501(f)(4)]:

- (1) A trust company, as defined by Prob. Code § 83;
- (2) An FDIC-insured institution, or its holding companies, subsidiaries or affiliates;
- (3) Any public agency, including the public guardian, public conservator, or other agency of the State of California or of a county of California or any regional center for persons with developmental disability as defined in Welf. & Inst. Code § 4620;
- (4) A person who is employed by a trust company, an FDIC-insured institution or its holding companies, subsidiaries or affiliates, or a public agency who is acting in the course and scope of that employment, and in the instance of a public officer of a public agency, acting in the course and scope of official duties;
- (5) Any person whose sole activity as a professional fiduciary is as a broker-dealer, broker-dealer agent, investment adviser representative registered and regulated under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [

Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.], the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. 80b-1 et seq.], or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. 78a et seq.], or involves serving as a trustee to a company regulated by the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. 80a-1 et seq.].

[2] Professional Fiduciaries Bureau

The Professional Fiduciaries Bureau ("Bureau") is created under the Professional Fiduciaries Act and has the duty of enforcing and administering the Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6510]. Even though the Bureau is set to become inoperative as of July 1, 2011 and repealed as of January 1, 2012 (unless later statutes deletes or extends the dates on inoperability and repeal), upon repeal, the responsibilities and jurisdiction of the Bureau will be transferred and vested in the existing Professional Fiduciaries Advisory Committee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6511]. The Bureau is responsible for administering the licensing and regulatory program established under the Act, approving classes for prelicense and continuing education, and preparing and administering licensing exams [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6518]. The Bureau has adopted a Professional Fiduciaries Code of Ethics ("Code of Ethics") which is provided on the bureau's Internet Web site and to any person requesting an application for license [see www.fiduciary.ca.gov].

[3] Licensing Requirements

No person may act or hold themselves out to the public as a professional fiduciary unless he or she is licensed as a professional fiduciary under the Professional Fiduciaries Act [Prob. Code § 60.1(b)], see Professional Fiduciaries Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq.]. A superior court may not appoint a person to carry out the duties of a professional fiduciary unless he or she holds a valid, unexpired, unsuspended license as a professional fiduciary under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq. [Prob. Code § 2340]. A court may appoint a person to be a professional fiduciary without a professional fiduciary license if they are exempt from the definition of "professional fiduciary" under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6501, or are exempt from the licensing requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 6530 [Prob. Code § 2340]. Furthermore, every person previously required to register with the statewide registry under Prob. Code § 2850 et seq. prior to January 1, 2007, and every person required to file information with the clerk of the court under Prob. Code § 2340 et seq. is required to obtain a license as a professional fiduciary under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6500 et seq.

Licensing requirements do not apply to [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6530(b)-(d)]:

- 1) A licensed attorney;
- 2) A licensed certified public accountant;
- 3) An Internal Revenue Service agent acting within the scope of practice.

All applications for a professional fiduciary license can be obtained online, through the California Department of Consumer Affairs, at <http://www.fiduciary.ca.gov/> [see Qualifications for Licensure, § 66A.27[4]].

[4] Qualifications for Licensure

The Bureau reviews all applications and they will approve those applications that meet the required qualifications [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6536]. The Bureau may also investigate an applicant's qualifications [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6536]. To receive a license as a professional fiduciary, an applicant must meet the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533(a)-(k)]:

- (a) Be at least 21 years old;
- (b) Be a United States citizen or be legally admitted to the United States;

- (c) Have not committed any acts that are grounds for denial of a license under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 480, 6536 [see below];
- (d) Submit fingerprints as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533.5 in order to obtain criminal offender record information;
- (e) Have completed 30 hours of prelicensing education as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6538;
- (f) Have passed the licensing exam under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6539;
- (g) Have at least one of the following:
  - a. A BA or BS degree from a college or university;
  - b. An AA/AS degree from a college or university and at least five (5) years experience with substantive fiduciary responsibilities working as a professional fiduciary, public agency, or financial institution acting as a conservator, guardian, trustee, personal representative, or agent under a power of attorney; or
  - c. Experience of not less than three (3) years, prior to January 1, 2009, with substantive fiduciary institution acting as a conservator, guardian, trustee, personal representative, or agent under a power of attorney.
- (h) Agree to adhere to the Professional Fiduciaries Code of Ethics [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6520] and to all statutes and regulations;
- (i) Consent to the bureau conducting a credit check;
- (j) File a completed application;
- (k) Submit a nonrefundable application fee.

The Bureau will not issue a license to any applicant who [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6536(a)-(e)];

- (a) Does not meet the qualifications for licensure [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6533(a)-(k)];
- (b) Has been convicted of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a fiduciary;
- (c) Has engaged in fraud or deceit in applying for a license;
- (d) Has engaged in dishonesty, fraud, or gross negligence in performing the functions or duties of a fiduciary;
- (e) Has been removed as a fiduciary by a court for breach of trust committed intentionally, with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with reckless indifference, or has demonstrated a pattern of negligent conduct, including a removal prior to July 1, 2008, and all appeals have been taken, or the time to file an appeal has expired.

[5] License Renewal

A license is valid for one year and will expire one year after it was issued on the last day of the month in which it was issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6541(a)]. A license may be renewed by filing a renewal application, submitting the annual statement, as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6561 [see § 66A.27[6]], submitting proof of compliance with continuing education requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6538(b) (15 hours of approved courses each year)], and payment of the renewal fee [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6541(b)]. Conduct that would result in a refusal of a license renewal includes [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6541(b)]:

- (1) Conviction of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of a fiduciary;
- (2) Fraud or deceit in obtaining a license;
- (3) Dishonesty, fraud, or gross negligence in performing the functions or duties of a professional fiduciary;
- (4) Removal by a court as a fiduciary for breach of a fiduciary duty.

[6] Initial and Annual Statement

A licensee is required to keep complete and accurate records of client accounts and must make them available for audit by the bureau [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6560]. A licensee must file initially and annually thereafter, a statement which contains the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6561(a)]:

- (1) His or her business address, phone and fax number;
- (2) Whether or not he or she has been removed as conservator, guardian, trustee or personal representative for cause;
- (3) The case names, court locations and case numbers for all matters where the licensee has been appointed by the court;
- (4) Whether he or she has been found by a court to have breached a fiduciary duty;
- (5) Whether he or she has reassigned or settled a matter in which a complaint has been filed, along with the case number and a statement of the issues and facts pertaining to the allegations;
- (6) Any licenses or professional certificates held;
- (7) Any ownership or beneficial interests in any businesses or other enterprises held by the licensee or by a family member that receives or has received payment from a client of the licensee;
- (8) Whether the licensee has ever filed for bankruptcy or held a controlling financial interest in a business that filed for bankruptcy;
- (9) The name of any persons or entities that have an interest in the licensee's professional fiduciary business;
- (10) Whether the licensee has been convicted of a crime.

The annual statement must be filed with the Bureau 60 days prior to the expiration of the license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6562].

[7] Suspension, Revocation, Denial and Disciplinary Action

The Bureau has authority to investigate the actions of any professional fiduciary [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6580(a)]. Sanctions may include administrative citations and fines, license suspension, probations or revocation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6580(b)]. A license may be suspended, revoked, denied or other disciplinary action may be imposed for one or more of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6584]:

- (a) Conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, if the misdemeanor is substantially related to the functions and duties of a professional fiduciary;
- (b) Failure to notify the bureau of a conviction pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 6561(a)(10);
- (c) Fraud or misrepresentation in obtaining a license;
- (d) Fraud, dishonesty, corruption, willful violation of duty, gross negligence or incompetence in practice, or unprofessional conduct in, or related to, the practice of a professional fiduciary;
- (e) Failure to comply with, or to pay a monetary sanction imposed by a court for failure to provide timely reports;
- (f) Failure to pay a civil penalty relating to the licensee's professional fiduciary duties;
- (g) The revocation of, suspension of, or other disciplinary action against, any other professional license by the State of California or by another state;
- (h) Violation of this Bus. Prof. Code § 6500 et seq., Probate Code § 4000 et seq., Probate Code § 4600 et seq., Probate Code § 5000 et seq., or any of the statutes, rules, or regulations pertaining to the duties or functions of a professional fiduciary.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust
 Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Duties & Rights

81 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Conservatorships in General

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.28-66A.29

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.28[Reserved]

82 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.30

§ 66A.30 In General

The Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) authorizes the establishment of conservatorships for persons who are "gravely disabled" as a result of mental disorder or chronic alcoholism [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350; see § 66A.31 for discussion of "gravely disabled"]. LPS was designed to provide short-term, intensive treatment at community based treatment facilities for gravely disabled persons [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5150 (72-hour treatment and evaluation), 5250 (14-day intensive treatment)]. Conservatorships established under LPS are usually, although not always, preceded by short periods of detention at community-based mental health treatment facilities.

Although conservators are generally appointed for adults and guardians are generally appointed for minors [see § 66A.10], LPS makes no distinction between minors and adults. Thus an LPS conservatorship may be established for a gravely disabled minor as well as a gravely disabled adult [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment

83 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.31

§ 66A.31 Persons Subject to LPS Conservatorship

A person may become subject to an LPS conservatorship by reason of a "mental disorder" or "impairment by chronic alcoholism" [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350]. In either case, however, the person's condition must be such that the person is "gravely disabled." A person may be found to be "gravely disabled" by a mental disorder or chronic alcoholism if, as a result of that condition, the person is unable to provide for his or her basic personal needs for food, clothing, or shelter [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5008(h)(1)(A), (2)]. Grave disability as a result of a mental disorder may also be shown if the person has been charged with a crime and has been declared mentally incompetent to stand trial [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5008(h)(1)(B); see Pen. Code § 1370]. A person is not "gravely disabled" for LPS purposes merely because the person is mentally retarded [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5008(h)(3)]. Grave disability must be established by proof beyond a reasonable doubt and, if a jury trial on the issue has been requested, by a unanimous verdict [Conservatorship of Margaret L. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 675, 679, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 542 (verdict of only nine out of twelve jurors is sufficient to find person is not gravely disabled)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment

84 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.32

§ 66A.32 Recommendation by Treatment or Evaluation Professional

An LPS conservatorship can be initiated only when the professional in charge of treating or evaluating the proposed conservatee determines that the proposed conservatee is "gravely disabled" as a result of mental disorder or impairment by chronic alcoholism and cannot or will not accept voluntary treatment [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5352; see § 66A.31 for discussion of "gravely disabled"]. When this determination is made, the professional in charge may recommend an LPS conservatorship to the county officer in charge of conservatorship investigations in the county in which the disabled person resided before entering the treatment facility [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5352]. The determination of whether a proposed conservatee is gravely disabled as a result of mental disorder and amendable to treatment under the LPS Act is solely in the conservator's discretion, and a court can order the investigation for a conservatorship but cannot require that a petition for an LPS conservatorship be filed [ People v. Karriker (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 763, 782 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 412 ].

Although LPS conservatorships are usually reserved for inpatients in treatment facilities, an LPS conservatorship may be established for a person who is not an inpatient if the professional in charge (or another person designated by the professional) has examined the prospective conservatee and determined that he or she is "gravely disabled" and that future examination on an inpatient basis is not necessary to make that determination [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5352]. If the county officer in charge of conservatorship investigations concurs with the recommendation, he or she will petition the superior court to establish the LPS conservatorship [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5352].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust
 Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment

85 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.33

§ 66A.33 Appointment of Conservator

The court has a measure of discretion in selecting and appointing a conservator under LPS [Prob. Code § 1812(a); Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350]. Unless the conservatorship investigator recommends another person, however, if the persons entitled to appointment appear to the court to be equally qualified, preference should be given to the same persons who would be entitled to preference in the appointment of a conservator under the Probate Code [Prob. Code § 1812(b); Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(b)(1); see § 66A.15]. In most cases, the court should be guided by the best interests of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1812(a); Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350]. However, if the proposed conservatee has been charged with a crime and has been declared mentally incompetent to stand trial, the court must consider the purposes of protection of the public and treatment of the proposed conservatee [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(b)(2); see Pen. Code § 1370; Welf. & Inst. Code § 5008(h)(1)(B)].

A conservator of the estate cannot be established under LPS if a conservatorship or guardianship of the estate already exists under the Probate Code [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(c)]. However, if a conservator of the person has been appointed under the Probate Code, a conservator of the person may also be appointed under LPS. The LPS conservatorship will not terminate the Probate Code proceedings but will be "superior" to those proceedings [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(c)]. The court may appoint the existing guardian or conservator of the person or some other person as the LPS conservator [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Appointment

86 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.34

§ 66A.34 Procedure

LPS conservatorships are subject to many of the same procedural rules as Probate Code conservatorships and guardianships [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350; see Prob. Code § 1400 et seq. (guardianship, conservatorship, and other protective proceedings)]. For example, a proposed conservatee is entitled to notice of any application for a temporary conservatorship, in accordance with Prob. Code § 2250(e) [ Edward W. v. Lamkins (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 516, 541-545, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (notice may be dispensed with only on showing of good cause, i.e., individualized showing of exigent circumstances)]. However, the general statutory provisions governing the petition [see Prob. Code § 2250], attendance of the conservatee at the hearing [see Prob. Code § 2250.4], and the duties of the court investigator [see Prob. Code § 2250.6], do not apply to LPS temporary conservatorship proceedings [Prob. Code § 2250.8].

A proposed LPS conservatee has the right to demand a court or jury trial on the issue of whether he or she is gravely disabled [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(d); see Prob. Code § 1827 (right to demand jury trial in Probate Code conservatorship)]. Alternatively, the proposed conservatee's attorney may meet in person with the proposed conservatee and sign an affidavit attesting to the conservatee's agreement to the establishment of the conservatorship without a hearing [see Conservatorship of Tian L. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 1022, 1031-1032 (proposed conservatee had received all required statutory notices, including copy of petition which included physicians' declaration, notice of intended placement in locked facility, and precise nature of proposed disabilities, as well as two written notices of her right to a hearing and a jury trial, and attorney had met with her in person and discussed these matters); compare Conservatorship of Christopher A. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 604, 610-613, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 427 (court violated conservatee's due process rights by accepting stipulated judgment submitted by attorneys without first consulting conservatee on consequences of agreement; stipulated judgment approved by conservatee's attorney and adopted by court after no formal hearing on issues of placement, disabilities, and powers of conservator is not a constitutionally sound safeguard against error)].

A demand for a court or jury trial must be made within five days after the hearing on the conservatorship petition. The trial must begin within 10 days of the date of the demand unless counsel for the proposed conservatee requests a continuance, in which case the court may order that the trial be continued for up to 15 days [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350(d)].

The court must appoint the public defender or other attorney for the proposed conservatee within five days after the date of the petition [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5365]. A proposed conservatee does not have a constitutional right under the Sixth Amendment or a statutory right under Welf. & Inst. Code § 5350 to represent himself or herself in the civil commitment proceedings, but the court has the discretion to permit self-representation [ Conservatorship of Joel E. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 429, 438-442, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 704 ] . Additionally, a proposed conservatee who requests substitute appointed counsel must be given a full opportunity to state the reasons for his or her requests [ Conservatorship of David L. (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 701, 712, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 530 ] . A court's failure to afford a proposed conservatee a full opportunity to state his or her reasons for requesting substitute counsel violates his or her right to due process of law [ Conservatorship of David L. (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 701, 712, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 530 ] .

However, there are notable differences between Probate Code conservatorships and LPS conservatorships. The most notable difference is that an LPS conservatorship can be established only on recommendation of the professional in charge of the treatment or evaluation agency and only on petition of the county officer in charge of conservatorship investigations [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5352; see § 66A.32].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust

LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointment

87 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.35

§ 66A.35 Investigation

Before an LPS conservator is appointed, the officer charged with the duty of making conservatorship investigations must investigate the proposed conservatorship and file a written report with the court. The report must include all relevant aspects of the proposed conservatee's medical, psychological, financial, family, vocational, and social conditions, as well as information obtained from family members, friends, social workers, and therapists. It must also include information concerning the proposed's conservatee's property. The court may receive the report in evidence and read and consider it when making its judgment [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5354; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5008(g) ("conservatorship investigation" defined)].

The investigating officer can recommend the conservatorship to the court only if no suitable alternatives are available. If the officer recommends against conservatorship, he or she must set forth all of the available alternatives [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5354].

The exclusionary rule, under which evidence seized in violation of the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution must be suppressed, does not apply to a conservatorship action under LPS. The exclusionary rule is enforced in criminal proceedings to deter unreasonable searches and seizures. Adoption of the rule in proceedings under LPS would not have a deterrent effect, since the first concern of a mental health worker is likely to be securing treatment for a gravely disabled person and not ensuring the admissibility of evidence in a subsequent hearing [Conservatorship of Susan T. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 1005, 1019-1020, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40, 884 P.2d 988].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust
 Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Appointment

88 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.36

§ 66A.36 Powers of Conservator

LPS conservators have extensive powers. All conservators of the estate will have the powers specified in the general power provisions of the Probate Code [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5357; see Prob. Code § 2400 et seq. (powers and duties of guardian or conservator of estate)]. These powers generally may be exercised only after the court has authorized their exercise. However, the court may give the conservator authority to exercise certain powers without notice or court authorization [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5357; see Prob. Code § 2590 et seq. (independent exercise of powers)]. The court may also authorize the conservator to place the conservatee in a medical, psychiatric, or nursing facility, in a hospital operated by the University of California or the United States government, or, in cases of chronic alcoholism, in a county alcoholic treatment center [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5358(a)(2)].

When a conservatee is incapable of making routine medical decisions, the court must designate the least restrictive alternative placement for a conservatee upon the establishment of a conservatorship [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5358(c)(1); Conservatorship of Amanda B. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 342, 351-352 ; 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901 (trial court's designation of least restrictive placement may not be an "either/or" designation of multiple levels of care; court must set a single level of placement as least restrictive placement)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Duties & Rights

89 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.37

§ 66A.37 Termination of Conservatorship

An LPS conservatorship will automatically terminate one year after the court has appointed the conservator. On request of the conservatee, any facility in which a conservatee has been placed must release the conservatee when the conservatorship terminates [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5361].

The authority of a conservator of the estate may continue after the conservatorship is terminated, but only for a reasonable time, only if continued action by the conservator is necessary to wind up certain affairs of the conservatorship, and only if the court authorizes the continued authority [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5361]. Thus the court may authorize the conservator to collect assets or income that accrued during the conservatorship but were uncollected on the date of termination, to pay expenses which accrued before the termination, or to complete real property sales when the only act remaining at the date of termination is the actual transfer of title [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5361].

If, upon termination of the conservatorship, the conservator determines that it is still required, he or she may petition the court for reappointment for another one-year period. A petition for reappointment must include the opinions of two physicians or licensed psychologists with doctoral degrees in psychology and at least five years of postgraduate experience that the conservatee is still gravely disabled as a result of mental disorder or impairment by chronic alcoholism. If the conservatee is unable to obtain the opinions of two qualified physicians or psychologists, he or she may request that the court appoint them [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5361].

The conservator has discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(1) to voluntarily dismiss the petition to reestablish the conservatorship for a further one-year period at any time before the commencement of trial [ Conservatorship of Martha P. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 857, 865-869, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 142 (request for dismissal granted on finding that conservatee was no longer gravely disabled)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 Removal & Termination

90 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (LPS) Conservatorships

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.38-66A.39

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.38[Reserved]

91 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Management of Community Property When Spouse Lacks Legal Capacity

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.40

§ 66A.40 In General

The legislature has enacted specific provisions concerning the management, control, and disposition of community property when one or both spouses lack legal capacity [see Prob. Code § 3000 et seq.]. For this purpose, community property is defined to mean community real property and community personal property, including, but not limited to, a community property business that is or was under the primary management and control of one of the spouses [Prob. Code § 3002; see Fam. Code § 761].

The right of a spouse to manage, control, and dispose of community property is not affected by the lack of legal capacity of the other spouse [Prob. Code § 3051(a)]. When one spouse has legal capacity and the other has a conservator, the spouse with legal capacity has the exclusive management, control, and power to dispose of the community property, subject to situations in which joinder or consent would be required for a transaction if both spouses had legal capacity [see Prob. Code § 3071], and the community property is not part of the conservatorship estate [Prob. Code § 3051(b)]. The spouse with legal capacity may consent, however, by a writing filed in the proceeding, to have all or part of the community property managed, controlled, and disposed of as part of the conservatorship estate [Prob. Code § 3051(c)]. The standard for determining whether a spouse lacks legal capacity is prescribed in Prob. Code § 3012(b).

If both spouses have conservators, the community property interest of each spouse is to be managed, controlled, and disposed of as part of the conservatorship estate of that spouse [Prob. Code § 3051(d)]. When authorized by the court in which any of the proceedings is pending, the conservators may agree in writing that all or specific parts of the community property be included in the conservatorship estate on one of the spouses and, subject to consent of joinder requirements [see Prob. Code § 3071] will be managed, controlled, and disposed of as part of the conservatorship estate of that spouse [Prob. Code § 3051(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators &

GuardiansConservatorsDuties & Rights

92 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Management of Community Property When Spouse Lacks Legal Capacity

*25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.41§ 66A.41 Procedures for Determination and Enforcement of Support

Prob Code § 3080 et seq. establish rules for the determination and enforcement of support when one spouse has a conservator and the other spouse has the management and control of the community property. In this situation, the conservator, the conservatee, a relative or friend of the conservatee, or any other interested person may petition the court in which the conservatorship proceeding is pending for an order requiring the spouse who has the management and control of the community property to apply the principal and/or income from the community property to the support and maintenance of the conservatee spouse [Prob. Code § 3080]. The court will hold a hearing on the petition, and may examine the spouse who has the management and control of the community property on matters relevant to the petition [Prob. Code § 3082; see Prob. Code § 3081 (notice)]. The spouse having management and control must also file and serve a current income and expense declaration and a current property declaration [Prob. Code § 3084].

The court may determine whether property is separate or community property if that issue is raised [Prob. Code § 3087], and may prescribe the amounts, times, and manner of support payments, taking into account the same factors used in determining spousal support in a dissolution action [Prob. Code § 3088]. The paying spouse may be ordered to make assignments from earnings to cover support payments, and the court's order will operate as an assignment and be binding on any employer on whom a copy of the order is served [see Prob. Code § 3088(e)]. The court also has the power to order temporary support payments during the pendency of the proceeding [Prob. Code § 3083]. It may issue ex parte orders with respect to the use and distribution of community property funds while the action remains pending, and may require prior court approval for all extraordinary expenditures [Prob. Code § 3085]. The court retains jurisdiction to modify or vacate any order made with respect to support [Prob. Code § 3088(f)].

If the spouse who has management and control of the community property refuses to comply with any order relating to the support of the conservatee spouse, the court, on petition, may divide the community and quasi-community property, as it exists at the time of division, in the same manner as in a dissolution of marriage, and order that portion awarded to the conservatee spouse to be managed, controlled, and disposed of as part of the conservatorship estate [Prob. Code § 3089]. However, such a division has no effect on after-acquired property [Prob. Code § 3089].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Duties & Rights
Family Law
Family Protection & Welfare
Cohabitants & Spouses
General Overview
Family Law
Marital Duties & Rights
Duty of Support

93 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Management of Community Property When Spouse Lacks Legal Capacity

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.42-66A.99

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.42[Reserved]

94 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.100

§ 66A.100 Facts

1. Name, address, and telephone number of each of the following:
  - a. Proposed conservatee.
  - b. Client, if different from proposed conservatee.
  - c. Spouse of proposed conservatee.
  - d. Possible nominees for conservator and alternates.
2. If client is not proposed conservatee:
  - a. Relationship of client to proposed conservatee.
  - b. Whether proposed conservatee or any of his relatives are known to have nomination of conservator for proposed conservatee.
3. Date of birth of proposed conservatee.
4. If proposed conservatee is minor:
  - a. Whether minor is or has been married.
  - b. If minor has been married, whether marriage was dissolved or nullified.

5. For proposed conservatee:
  - a. General physical condition.
  - b. If under any existing or continuing conditions of infirmity, description of these conditions.
  - c. If under care of physician, physician's:
    - (1) Name.
    - (2) Address.
    - (3) Telephone number.
6. For possible conservator nominees and alternates:
  - a. Relationship to proposed conservatee, if any.
  - b. Conditions or factors making the person a desirable candidate.
  - c. Indication, if any, of willingness to act, if appointed.
  - d. If candidate is nonprofit charitable corporation:
    - (1) Whether corporation is incorporated in California.
    - (2) Whether corporate articles of incorporation specifically authorize corporation to accept appointment of conservator.
    - (3) Whether proposed conservatee is, has been, or will receive care or counseling or financial assistance from corporation under supervision of California certified, registered social worker.
7. For proposed conservatee's property:
  - a. General description of conservatee's estate.
    - (1) Location and types of assets, such as:
      - (a) Residence.
      - (b) Bank and savings account deposits.
      - (c) Securities.
      - (d) Business interests.
      - (e) Insurance policy benefits.
      - (f) Other personal property.

(g) Other real property.

(2) Value of personal property.

(3) Probable value of annual rents, issues, and profits of all estate property.

b. If proposed conservatee is married:

(1) Extent to which described property is owned as community property.

(2) For property held as community property, whether spouse or proposed conservatee desires to manage and control property or has considered consenting to having conservator manage, control, and dispose of property as part of conservatorship estate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral Overview

95 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.101

§ 66A.101 Documents

1. Prior nominations of conservator for proposed conservatee, if any.
2. If nonprofit charitable corporation is candidate for nomination as conservator, corporate articles of incorporation.
3. If proposed conservatee is previously married minor, order dissolving or nullifying marriage.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral Overview

96 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.102-66A.109

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.102[Reserved]

97 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.110

§ 66A.110 Determining Whether Conservator Is Needed

1. Is there present need for conservator of person, or is it likely such a need will arise in future?
  - a. Is proposed (or potential) conservatee presently unable to provide properly for his or her personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter [Prob. Code § 1801(a)]?
  - b. If not presently unable, is it likely proposed (or potential) conservatee will become unable in future [Prob. Code § 1801(a)]?
2. Is there present need for conservator of estate, or is it likely such a need will arise in future?
  - a. Does proposed (or potential) conservatee have substantial financial resources?

NOTE:

In determining whether the proposed (or potential) conservatee has substantial financial resources, his or her wages or salary should not ordinarily be taken into account. Unless otherwise ordered by the court, any wages or salary earned by the conservatee during the conservatorship will be paid directly to the conservatee and will be subject to the conservatee's control to the same extent as if the conservatorship did not exist [Prob. Code §§ 1871(b), 2601].

- b. If proposed (or potential) conservatee has substantial financial resources, is he or she substantially unable to manage those resources, or to resist fraud or undue influence [Prob. Code § 1801(b)]?
- c. If not presently unable, is it likely proposed (or potential) conservatee will become unable in future [Prob. Code § 1801(b)]?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview

98 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.111

§ 66A.111 Determining Whether Nomination Should Be Made

NOTE:

The nomination of a conservator (except in a petition for appointment) is always optional and never mandatory. Whether a conservator should be nominated will depend on the circumstances of the case and the attorney's and the client's resolution of the preliminary determinations outlined herein.

1. Is petition for appointment of conservator pending or anticipated?
2. If there is a petition, is person named as conservator in petition acceptable to client?
3. Is there a specific person whom client wishes to have act as conservator?
4. Are there any close relatives whom client specifically does not wish to have act as conservator?

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview

99 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.112

§ 66A.112 Determining Whom To Nominate

1. Is there a person or entity acceptable to client who is now or will in future be capable of acting as conservator?

a. Is person legally qualified for appointment?

NOTE:

As a general rule, any natural person is eligible to be nominated and appointed as a conservator [see § 66A.11[2], above].

b. Is person qualified by ability and experience to act as conservator?

NOTE:

While it is essential to select a person who is legally qualified to accept appointment, it is equally important to select a person who is actually capable of shouldering the responsibilities of the conservatorship. In the case of a conservatorship of the person, those duties will necessarily require making personal decisions for the conservatee, exercising a degree of control over the conservatee, and providing for his or her care. In the case of a conservatorship of the estate, the conservator's duties will include making financial decisions, collecting, preserving, and accounting for assets of the conservatorship estate, and, when appropriate, making investment decisions.

2. Is preferred nominee willing to assume responsibilities and duties of a conservator?

NOTE:

The proposed conservator's willingness to shoulder these responsibilities is no less important than his or her legal qualifications and ability. The conservator's tasks are often thankless, and, unless the conservatorship assets are considerable, compensation may be meager. Although trust companies and certain nonprofit charitable corporations may be legally qualified to accept appointment as conservators [see discussion in § 66A.11[2], above], they are often unwilling to do so unless the conservatee's assets are sufficient to assure they will be adequately compensated. There is no legal requirement that a conservator be a California resident [see discussion in § 66A.11[2], above]. If the proposed conservatee lives in California, however, selection of a nonresident as conservator may present practical problems.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

100 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.113

§ 66A.113 Determining Whether Client Has Legal Capacity to Make Nomination

1. If client is proposed (or potential) conservatee, does he or she have sufficient capacity to form an intelligent preference [Prob. Code § 1810]?

NOTE:

If the client presently has such capacity but fears that at some time in the future he or she may lack it, a nomination may be made now, to take effect only in the event of incapacity.

2. If client is not proposed (or potential) conservatee, is he or she among those persons legally entitled to make nomination [Prob. Code § 1811]?

- a. Spouse.
- b. Domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)].
- c. Adult child.
- d. Parent.
- e. Brother or sister.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

101 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.114

§ 66A.114 Determining When Nomination Should Be Made

1. Is petition for appointment of conservator pending?

NOTE:

The nomination of a conservator may precede, accompany, or follow the filing of a petition for appointment of a conservator [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]. If the client has filed a petition for appointment of a conservator, or if a petition has been filed by some other person and the conservator named in the petition is acceptable to the client, it will not be necessary to prepare a separate nominating instrument. If, however, the person named in the petition is objectionable, or if there is a specific person whom the client wishes to serve as conservator, a nomination may be made in a writing signed after the petition is filed [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]. If the client is a spouse, domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37; Fam. Code § 297 ("domestic partnership" defined)], or parent of the proposed conservatee, the nomination also may be made at the hearing [Prob. Code § 1811(a)].

2. If no petition is pending, should one be filed?

NOTE:

A conservator may be nominated in the petition for appointment [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811(a)]. In that case, no separate nominating instrument is required.

3. If no petition is pending or anticipated, should a separate nominating instrument be prepared?

NOTE:

A conservator may be nominated in a writing signed before or after the petition is filed [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]. In cases in which there is no petition pending (and there is no immediate necessity for filing one), the client may nevertheless wish to prepare for the possibility that the potential conservatee may at some time in the future need conservatorship protection. In that case, the client may wish to prepare a written nomination to take effect if and when the need for a conservatorship arises.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

102 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide for Nominating Conservator

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

NOTE:

The following guide deals only with the procedures for nominating conservators. It does not deal with the procedures by which conservators are actually appointed. Those procedures are beyond the scope of this chapter. For detailed discussion of the procedures for appointment of conservators, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators (Matthew Bender).

103 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide for Nominating Conservator

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.115-66A.119

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.115[Reserved]

104 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide for Nominating Conservator

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.120

§ 66A.120 Preparation of Nominating Instrument

1. Select most appropriate type of nominating instrument.

a. Separate nominating instrument:

(1) Nomination of conservator of person [see § 66A.200].

(2) Nomination of conservator of estate [see § 66A.201].

(3) Nomination of conservator of person and estate [see § 66A.202].

(4) Nomination of separate conservators of person and estate [see § 66A.203].

(5) Nomination of individual as conservator of person and trust company as conservator of estate [see § 66A.204].

(6) Nomination of joint conservators [see § 66A.205].

b. Nomination as part of durable power of attorney.

NOTE:

A nomination by a proposed (or potential) conservatee may be made as part of a durable power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4126(a)]. A durable power of attorney is a power of attorney designed to survive the principal's incapacity. If conservatorship proceedings are subsequently commenced in California, and if the proposed conservatee has sufficient capacity at the time to form an intelligent preference, the court must appoint the nominee as conservator unless the court finds that the appointment of the nominee is not in the best interests of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 4126(b)]. The court must give effect to the most recent writing executed in accordance with Prob. Code § 1810 (discussed in the preceding sentence), whether or not the writing is a durable power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4126(b)].

For a detailed discussion of durable powers of attorney for property management, see Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management for detailed coverage of durable powers of attorney for health care, also known as advance health care directives, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives .

c. Nomination as part of petition for appointment of conservator [see discussion under § 66A.200[1]]; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators (Matthew Bender)].

2. If desired, include optional provisions:

a. Provision stating reasons for nomination [see § 66A.210].

b. Provision stating that specific person is not nominated [see § 66A.211].

c. Waiver of bond [see § 66A.212].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansTestamentary Guardians

105 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide for Nominating Conservator

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.121

§ 66A.121 Execution and Storage of Nominating Instrument

1. Have instrument executed by person making nomination.

NOTE:

There is no requirement that the nomination of a conservator be either witnessed or acknowledged. A nomination made in a writing other than a petition for appointment of a conservator need only be signed by the person making the nomination [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]. If a nomination is in the form of a durable power of attorney, however, and if it is contemplated that the attorney-in-fact named in the power will enter into transactions affecting the title to real property standing in the name of the proposed (or potential) conservatee or execute any documents that must be recorded, it may be advisable to have the signature acknowledged. Generally, before an instrument can be recorded, its execution must be acknowledged [Gov. Code § 27287; for general acknowledgement, see Civ. Code § 1189].

Even if it is not contemplated that the attorney-in-fact (conservator) will enter into transactions affecting title to real property, and even if the nomination is not in the form of a durable power of attorney, an acknowledgement will enhance the evidentiary value of the nomination. If executed in the proper form [see Civ. Code § 1180 et seq.], a certificate of the acknowledgment of a writing other than a will, or a certificate of the proof of such a writing, is prima facie evidence of the facts recited in the certificate and of the genuineness of the signature of each person by whom the writing purports to have been signed [Evid. Code § 1451].

In the case of a nomination by the proposed (or potential) conservatee, if it is contemplated that the capacity of the proposed (or potential) conservatee to form an intelligent preference may be challenged, it may be advisable to arrange for a witness or witnesses to the nomination who will be able to testify in the event of such a challenge.

2. Make arrangements for storage of original instrument (if nomination is made other than in connection with a pending petition for conservatorship) and production of copies.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Testamentary Guardians
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Powers of Attorney
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Powers of Attorney
Surrogate Decisions

106 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide for Nominating Conservator

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.122-66A.199

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.122[Reserved]

107 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.200

§ 66A.200 Nomination of Conservator of Person

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used when a potential or proposed conservatee, or an eligible relative of a proposed conservatee, wishes to nominate an individual to act as conservator of the person. For the nomination of a conservator of the estate, see § 66A.201. For the nomination of a conservator of the person and estate, see § 66A.202. For the nomination of separate conservators of the person and estate, see § 66A.203. For the nomination of an individual as conservator of the person and a trust company as conservator of the estate, see § 66A.204. For the nomination of joint conservators, see § 66A.205. For the legal rules governing the nomination and appointment of conservators, see discussion under § 66A.11.

[b] Optional Provisions

The following optional provisions may be added to or substituted for the provisions in this form:

- Provision Stating Reasons for Nomination [§ 66A.210].
- Provision Stating That Specific Person Is Not Nominated [§ 66A.211].
- Waiver of Bond [§ 66A.212].

[c] Formal Requisites

The nomination of a conservator may be made in any of the following ways:

- In the petition for appointment of a conservator [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811].
- In a writing signed before or after the petition is filed [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811].

- In the form of a durable power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4126; see Prob. Code § 4659].

With the exception of a nomination made in the form of a durable power of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4126; see also Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management ], the nomination need not be witnessed or executed with the formalities required of a will. If the nomination is made in the petition, it may be attached as Attachment 3c to Judicial Council Form No. GC-310(81), "Petition for Appointment of a Conservator." If the nomination is made after the petition is filed, it should be captioned like the pleading filed in the proceeding.

In Los Angeles County, when a document relates to a matter already set for hearing, local rules require that the department number and date of hearing be placed immediately below the case number on the first page [Los Angeles Prob. Pol. Mem. § 2.03].

For a detailed discussion of the procedure for appointment and qualification of conservators (with illustrative forms), see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 281 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

[2] FORM

Nomination of Conservator of Person

NOMINATION OF CONSERVATOR OF PERSON

Introductory Paragraph

1. I, _____ [name], residing at _____ [street address, city, state, zip], [if nomination is by a relative, add: the _____ (state relationship, e.g., brother) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], wish to nominate a conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] [if nomination is to take place at some time in the future, add: to act in the event that _____ (I am or he is or she is) unable to provide for _____ (my or his or her) personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter, or in the event that a court of competent jurisdiction shall, for any other reason, determine that such a conservator should be appointed].

Revocation of Former Nominations

2. I hereby revoke all former instruments nominating conservators [if nomination by relative, add: for _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] executed by me.

Nomination of Conservator

3. I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Nomination of Alternate Conservator

4. If the nominee named in Paragraph 3 shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Executed at _____, California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]
[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

108 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.201

§ 66A.201 Nomination of Conservator of Estate [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used when a potential or proposed conservatee, or an eligible relative of a proposed conservatee, wishes to nominate an individual to act as conservator of the estate [see Prob. Code §§ 1810, 1811]. For the nomination of a conservator of the person, see § 66A.200. For the nomination of a conservator of the person and estate, see § 66A.202. For the nomination of separate conservators of the person and estate, see § 66A.203. For the nomination of an individual as conservator of the person and a trust company as conservator of the estate, see § 66A.204. For the nomination of joint conservators, see § 66A.205.

For the legal rules governing the nomination and appointment of conservators, see discussion under § 66A.11 et seq.

For discussion of optional provisions that may be added to this form if desired, and discussion of the formal requisites of an instrument nominating a conservator, see § 66A.200[1].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Conservator of Estate

NOMINATION OF CONSERVATOR OF ESTATE

Introductory Paragraph

1. I, _____ [name], residing at _____ [street address, city, state, zip], [if nomination is by a relative, add: the _____ (state relationship, e.g., brother) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], wish to nominate a conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] [if nomination is to take place at some time in the future, add: to act in the event that _____ (I am or he is or she is) unable to provide for _____

(my or his or her) personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter, or, in the event that a court of competent jurisdiction shall, for any other reason, determine that such a conservator should be appointed].

Revocation of Former Nominations

2. I hereby revoke all former instruments nominating conservators [if nomination is by a relative, add: for _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] executed by me.

Nomination of Conservator

3. I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Nomination of Alternate Conservator

4. If the nominee named in Paragraph 3 shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Executed at _____, California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]
[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Appointment

109 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.202

§ 66A.202 Nomination of Conservator of Person and Estate

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used when a potential or proposed conservatee, or an eligible relative of a proposed conservatee, wishes to nominate a conservator of the person and estate. For the nomination of a conservator of the person, see § 66A.200. For the nomination of a conservator of the estate, see § 66A.201. For the nomination of separate conservators of the person and estate, see § 66A.203. For the nomination of an individual as conservator of the person and a trust company as conservator of the estate, see § 66A.204. For the nomination of joint conservators, see § 66A.205.

For the legal rules governing the nomination and appointment of conservators, see discussion under § 66A.11 et seq.

For discussion of optional provisions that may be added to this form if desired, and discussion of the formal requisites of an instrument nominating a conservator, see § 66A.200[1].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Conservator of Person and Estate

NOMINATION OF CONSERVATOR OF PERSON AND ESTATE

Introductory Paragraph

1. I, _____ [name], residing at _____ [street address, city, state, zip], [if nomination is by a relative, add: the _____ (state relationship, e.g., brother) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], wish to nominate a conservator of _____ [my person and estate or the person and estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] [if nomination is to take place at some time in the future, add: to act in the event that _____ (I am or he is or she is) unable properly to provide for _____ (my or his or her) personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter, and _____ (am or is) substantially unable to manage _____ (my or his or her) own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence, or in the event that a court of competent jurisdiction shall, for any other reason, determine that such a conservator should be appointed].

Revocation of Former Nominations

2. I hereby revoke all former instruments nominating conservators [if nomination by relative, add: for _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] executed by me.

Nomination of Conservator

3. I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person and estate or the person and estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Nomination of Alternate Conservator

4. If the nominee named in Paragraph 3 shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator, then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person and estate or the person and estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Executed at _____, California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]
[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Appointment

110 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.203

§ 66A.203 Nomination of Separate Conservators of Person and Estate

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used when a potential or proposed conservatee, or an eligible relative of a proposed conservatee, wishes to nominate separate conservators of the person and of the estate. For the nomination of a conservator of the person, see § 66A.200. For the nomination of a conservator of the estate, see § 66A.201. For the nomination of a conservator of the person and estate, see § 66A.202. For the nomination of an individual as conservator of the person and a trust company as conservator of the estate, see § 66A.204. For the nomination of joint conservators, see § 66A.205.

For the legal rules governing the nomination and appointment of conservators, see discussion under § 66A.11 et seq.

For discussion of optional provisions that may be added to this form if desired, and discussion of the formal requisites of an instrument nominating a conservator, see § 66A.200[1].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Separate Conservators of Person and Estate

NOMINATION OF SEPARATE CONSERVATORS OF PERSON AND ESTATE

Introductory Paragraph

1. I, _____ [name], residing at _____ [street address, city, state, zip], [if nomination is by a relative, add: the _____ (state relationship, e.g., brother) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], wish to nominate separate conservators of _____ [my person and estate or the person and estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] [if nomination is to take place at some time in the future, add: to act in the event that _____ (I am or he is or she is) unable properly to provide for _____ (my or his or her) personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter, and _____ (am or is) substantially unable to manage _____ (my or his or her) own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence, or in the event that a court of competent jurisdiction shall, for any other reason, determine that such a conservator should be appointed].

Revocation of Former Nominations

2. I hereby revoke all former instruments nominating conservators [if nomination by relative, add: for _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] executed by me.

Nomination of Conservator

3. I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] and _____ [name] of _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Nomination of Alternate Conservator

4. If _____ [name of person nominated in Paragraph 3 as conservator of the person] shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)]. If _____ [name of person nominated in Paragraph 3 as conservator of the estate] shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Executed at _____, California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]
[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

111 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.204

§ 66A.204 Nomination of Individual as Conservator of Person and Trust Company as Conservator of Estate

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used when a potential or proposed conservatee, or an eligible relative of a proposed conservatee, wishes to nominate an individual as conservator of the person and a trust company as conservator of the estate.

A corporation or association that is authorized to conduct the business of a trust company in California [see Fin. Code § 107; Prob. Code § 83 ("trust company" defined)] may serve as conservator of an estate but not of a person [Prob. Code § 300]. As defined in the Financial Code, the "trust business" includes, among other things, the business of acting as conservator of estates under the appointment of any court or the authority of any state or federal law [Fin. Code § 106].

Before a trust company is nominated to act as a conservator, the attorney should determine whether the company would be willing to serve in that capacity. In the selection of a proposed conservator, willingness to shoulder the responsibilities of the conservatorship is no less important than legal qualification and ability. Unless the conservatorship assets are considerable, the conservator's compensation may be meager. Although trust companies and certain nonprofit charitable corporations are legally qualified to accept appointment as conservators [see discussion under § 66A.11[2], above], they are often unwilling to do so unless the conservatee's assets are sufficient to assure that they will be adequately compensated for their efforts.

For the nomination of a conservator of the person, see § 66A.200. For the nomination of a conservator of the estate, see § 66A.201. For the nomination of a conservator of the person and estate, see § 66A.202. For the nomination of separate conservators of the person and estate, see § 66A.203. For the nomination of joint conservators, see § 66A.205. For discussion of the legal rules governing the nomination and appointment of conservators, see discussion under § 66A.11 et seq.

For discussion of optional provisions that may be added to this form and the formal requisites of an instrument nominating a conservator, see § 66A.200[1].

[2] FORM

Nomination of Individual as Conservator of Person and Trust Company as Conservator of Estate

NOMINATION OF INDIVIDUAL AS CONSERVATOR OF PERSON AND TRUST COMPANY AS CONSERVATOR OF ESTATE

Introductory Paragraph

1. I, _____ [name], residing at _____ [street address, city, state, zip], [if nomination is by a relative, add: the _____ (state relationship, e.g., brother) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], wish to nominate conservators of _____ [my person and estate or the person and estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] [if nomination is to take place at some time in the future, add: to act in the event that _____ (I am or he is or she is) unable properly to provide for _____ (my or his or her) personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter, and _____ (am or is) substantially unable to manage _____ (my or his or her) own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence, or in the event that a court of competent jurisdiction shall, for any other reason, determine that such a conservator should be appointed].

Nomination of Conservator

2. I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] and _____ [full and exact name of trust company], or any successor thereof, as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Nomination of Alternate Conservator

3. If _____ [name of person nominated in Paragraph 2 as conservator of the person] shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my person or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)]. If _____ [exact name of trust company], or any successor thereof, shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], then I nominate _____ [name], _____ [street address, city, state, zip] as conservator of _____ [my estate or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Executed at _____, California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]
[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators
Appointment

112 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.205

§ 66A.205 Nomination of Joint Conservators [Prob. Code § 2105]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used when a potential or proposed conservatee, or an eligible relative of a proposed conservatee, wishes to nominate joint conservators of the person, of the estate, or of the person and estate [see Prob. Code § 2105].

For the nomination of a conservator of the person, see § 66A.200. For the nomination of a conservator of the estate, see § 66A.201. For the nomination of a conservator of the person and estate, see § 66A.202. For the nomination of separate conservators of the person and estate, see § 66A.203. For the nomination of an individual as conservator of the person and a trust company as conservator of the estate, see § 66A.204.

For discussion of optional provisions that may be added to this form if desired, and discussion of the formal requisites of an instrument nominating a conservator, see § 66A.200[1].

[b] Powers of Joint Conservators

The court may, in its discretion, appoint two or more joint conservators of the person [Prob. Code § 2105(a)(1)], of the estate [Prob. Code § 2105(a)(2)], or of the person and estate [Prob. Code § 2105(a)(3)]. When joint conservators are appointed, each must qualify in the same manner as a sole conservator [Prob. Code § 2105(b)].

If two joint conservators are appointed, they must concur to exercise a power [Prob. Code § 2105(c)(1)]. When more than two are appointed a majority must concur [Prob. Code § 2105(c)(2)]. For a discussion of the liability of a joint conservator of the estate for the breach of a fiduciary duty by another joint conservator [see Prob. Code § 2105.5].

[c] Formal Requisites

For the legal rules governing the nomination and appointment of conservators, see discussion under § 66A.11 et seq.

[2] FORM*Nomination of Joint Conservators

NOMINATION OF JOINT CONSERVATORS

Introductory Paragraph

1. I, _____ [name], residing at _____ [street address, city, state, zip], [if nomination is by a relative, add: the _____ (state relationship, e.g., brother) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)], wish to nominate joint conservators of _____ [my person or my estate or my person and estate or the person of _____ (name of proposed conservatee) or the estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee) or the person and estate of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] [if nomination is to take place at some time in the future, add (as appropriate):, to act in the event that _____ (I am or he is or she is) unable properly to provide for _____ (my or his or her) personal needs for physical health, food, clothing, or shelter, _____ (and or or) _____ (am or is) substantially unable to manage _____ (my or his or her) own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence, or in the event that a court of competent jurisdiction shall, for any other reason, determine that such a conservator should be appointed].

Revocation of Former Nominations

2. I hereby revoke all former instruments nominating conservators [if nomination by relative, add: for _____ (name of proposed conservatee)] executed by me.

Nomination of Conservators

3. I nominate _____ [names and addresses] as joint conservators of _____ [my _____ (person or estate or person and estate) or the _____ (person or estate or person and estate) of _____ (name of proposed conservatee)].

Nomination of Alternate Conservators

4. If any one or more of the persons nominated in Paragraph 3 shall for any reason be unable or unwilling to act or to continue to act as joint conservator or joint conservators, I nominate the persons named below, in the order of priority listed, to fill the resulting vacancy or vacancies:

First: _____ [name and full address of first alternate nominee].

Second: _____ [name and full address of second alternate nominee].

[List any other additional nominees in order of priority of nomination.]

Executed at _____, California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust

LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointment

113 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
A. NOMINATING INSTRUMENTS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 66A.206-66A.209

[Reserved]

§§ 66A.206[Reserved]

114 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. OPTIONAL PROVISIONS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.210

§ 66A.210 Provision Stating Reasons for Nomination

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to state the reasons for a nomination. If the proposed conservatee has nominated a conservator (and subject to the rule that the proposed conservatee must at the time of the nomination have sufficient capacity to form an intelligent preference), the court must appoint the nominee unless it finds that appointment of the nominee is not in the best interests of the proposed conservatee. If the nomination is made by someone other than the proposed conservatee, the court may or may not appoint the nominee, depending upon whether the appointment would serve the best interests of the proposed conservatee [Prob. Code § 1812(a)].

Since the best interests of the proposed conservatee are controlling in all cases, it may be useful to state the reasons for the nomination. The statement may be of assistance to the court in making its findings, and it may help to sustain those findings against subsequent attack. The statement may also serve to explain the nomination to family members. If, for example, a person other than a relative of the proposed conservatee is the nominee, a statement of the reasons for the nomination may help to explain the nomination to relatives who would otherwise question it.

[2] FORM

Provision Stating Reasons for Nomination

Reasons for Selection of Nominee

My nomination of _____ [name of nominee] is made because _____ [state reasons, e.g., for many years I have had the benefit of _____ (his or her) assistance in managing my investments and in preparing my tax returns; because of this relationship and the further fact that _____ (he or she) has managed _____ (his or her) own affairs extremely well, I have great confidence in _____ (his or her) ability to handle well all fiduciary duties on my behalf].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust

LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointment

115 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
B. OPTIONAL PROVISIONS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.211

§ 66A.211 Provision Stating That Specific Person Is Not Nominated

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to state that a specific person is intentionally not nominated as conservator. Since the best interests of the proposed conservatee must always govern the appointment of a conservator [Prob. Code § 1812(a)], the court may be influenced by such a statement (although the statement will never be controlling). If the person making the nomination wishes to exclude a particular relative from acting as conservator, the statement may help to explain why some person other than that relative is nominated [see discussion under § 66A.210[1]].

[2] FORM

Provision Stating That Specific Person Is Not Nominated

Provision Stating That Specific Person Is Not Nominated

Specific Person Not Nominated

I have intentionally failed to nominate _____ [full name and relationship, if any, to person making nomination] as conservator. It is my specific intention and wish that _____ [he or she] shall not, under any circumstances, act as conservator of my person or estate. [If desired, add statement of reasons, e.g.:
_____ (name) and I have not spoken to each other for many years, and I have no confidence in _____ (his or her) ability to properly care for either my person or my estate. Further, there appears to be a fundamental personality clash between us that would prevent _____ (him or her) from properly caring for my person or estate.]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Appointment
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust
Law
Conservators & Guardians
Conservators Appointment

116 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 66A CONSERVATORSHIPS
PART IV. FORMS
B. OPTIONAL PROVISIONS

25-66A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 66A.212

§ 66A.212 Waiver of Bond

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a waiver of bond. It is designed to relieve a conservator of the statutory obligation to post a bond for the benefit of the conservatee and other persons interested in the conservatorship estate. When used, it should be added to the instrument by which the conservator is nominated.

Although the statutes do not explicitly authorize a person who nominates a conservator to waive the requirement of a bond, they give the court discretion to require (or dispense with the requirement of) a bond in various circumstances [see [b], below]. A waiver by the person making the nomination may, in appropriate cases, be considered by the court in deciding whether or not to require a bond.

For nominating instruments for conservators, see §§ 66A.200 (nomination of conservator of person), 66A.201 (nomination of conservator of estate), 66A.202 (nomination of conservator of person and estate), 66A.203 (nomination of separate conservators of person and estate), 66A.204 (nomination of individual as conservator of person and trust company as conservator of estate), and 66A.205 (nomination of joint conservators).

[b] General Requirements for Conservator's Bond

Except as otherwise provided by statute, every conservator must give a bond, conditioned on the faithful execution of the duties of the office according to law, to protect the conservatee and all persons interested in the conservatorship estate [Prob. Code § 2320(a), (b)]. This general rule is, however, subject to the following exceptions:

- A person appointed as conservator of the person only need not file a bond unless a bond is required by the court [Prob. Code § 2322]. Since the court has discretion to require (or not require) a bond of a conservator of the person, a waiver by the person making the nomination may, in appropriate cases, help to persuade the court that a bond need not be required.

- If a conservatee subject to a conservatorship of the estate has sufficient capacity to waive the bond and elects to do so, the court in its discretion may permit the filing of a bond in a reduced amount [Prob. Code § 2321; for amount of bond, see [d], below]. Since, under these circumstances, the court has discretion to reduce the amount of a bond, a waiver by the person making the nomination may help to persuade the court that a reduced bond will adequately protect the conservatee.

- If it appears likely that the estate will satisfy the conditions of Prob. Code § 2628(a) for its duration, the court may dispense with the requirement of a bond [Prob. Code § 2323(a)].

An estate will satisfy the requirements of Prob. Code § 2628(a) if the net value of the estate (exclusive of the conservatee's residence) is less than $15,000, the monthly income (exclusive of public benefit payments) is less than $2,000, and all income, if not retained, is spent for the benefit of the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2628(a)]. If it appears at any time that the estate does not satisfy the conditions of Prob. Code § 2628(a), the court may require a bond. Since, under these circumstances, the court has discretion whether to require a bond, a waiver by the person making the nomination may similarly help to persuade the court that a bond need not be required, or that a reduced bond will adequately protect the conservatee.

[c] Exemption for Trust Company

A trust company [see Fin. Code § 107, Prob. Code § 83 ("trust company" defined); see also § 66A.11[2]] nominated as conservator will be unaffected by a provision waiving bond, since trust companies are never required to post bonds [Prob. Code § 301(a)]. If, however, a trust company nominated as conservator is unwilling to act in that capacity, this provision may become important, since it will then apply to the successor nominee.

[d] Amount of Bond

A conservator's bond may be given by an admitted surety insurer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.120(a) ("admitted surety insurer" defined), 995.610 et seq. (bond and undertaking requirements for admitted surety insurers), Ins. Code § 105 (surety insurance)] or by a personal surety. If the bond is given by an admitted surety insurer, it must be equal to the sum of the following [Prob. Code § 2320(c)]:

- The value of the personal property of the estate;
- The probable annual gross income of all the property of the estate;
- The probable annual gross payments receivable by the conservatee from state and federal public entitlement programs [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 11000 et seq. (aid and medical assistance); Welf. & Inst. Code § 16100 et seq. (services for care of children); Welf. & Inst. Code § 17000 et seq. (county aid and relief to indigents); 42 U.S.C. § 401 et seq. (federal old age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits); 42 U.S.C. § 1382 et seq. (determination of benefits under federal Supplemental Security Income program for aged, blind, and disabled); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 995.610 et seq. (admitted surety insurers)]; and
- As of January 1, 2008, the reasonable amount for the costs or recovery to collect on the bond. However, any attorney's fees and costs incurred in a successful action for surcharge against a conservator or guardian for breach of his or her duty will be a surcharge against the conservator or guardian, and, if unpaid, will be recovered against surety on the bond [Prob. Code § 2320 (c)(4)].

If the bond is given by a personal surety, it must be twice the amount required for a bond given by an admitted surety insurer [Prob. Code § 2320(d); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.510, 995.520 (personal sureties)].

If a conservator has knowledge of facts from which he knows or should know that the bond posted is less than the amount required by statute, the conservator, and the attorney, if any, are required to make an ex parte application for an order increasing the bond to the required amount [Prob. Code § 2320.1]. If the court requires additional bond upon hearing the account, the additional bond must be filed before the order approving the account and related matters, including fees, is filed by the court and becomes effective [Prob. Code § 2320.2].

[e] Bond For Joint Conservators

If joint conservators are appointed, the court may require the conservators to furnish separate bonds, a joint bond, or a combination of joint and separate bonds [Prob. Code § 2326(a)]. If a joint bond is furnished, the liability on the bond will be joint and several [Prob. Code § 2326(b)].

[f] Reduction, Addition, or Substitution

The conservatorship statutes contain provisions governing reductions or additions to the amount of required bonds [see Prob. Code §§ 2320.1, 2328-2330, 2334].

[g] Cautionary Note

Careful consideration should be given before including a waiver of bond. Bonds provide important protection to a conservatee and that protection may be lost if bond is waived. For discussion, see Ch. 66, Guardianships, § 66.220[1][g].

[2] FORM

Waiver of Bond

Waiver of Bond

I hereby waive the filing of a bond or other undertaking by any conservator or conservators nominated by me.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Conservators & Guardians
 Conservators Appointment

117 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide 67.syn

§ 67.syn Synopsis to Chapter 67: FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES

§ 67.01 California Statutes

§ 67.02 Federal Statutes

§§ 67.03-67.04 [Reserved]

§ 67.05 Law Reviews

§ 67.06 Annotations

§ 67.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

[2] Additional Text References

§§ 67.08-67.09 [Reserved]

§ 67.10 Interest in Property

[1] In General

[2] Real Property

[3] Personal Property

§ 67.11 Present Interest in Real Property

[1] In General

[2] Fee Simple

[3] Defeasible Fee

[4] Life Estate

§ 67.12 Future Interest in Real Property

[1] In General

[2] Reversionary Interests

[a] Reversion

[b] Possibility of Reverter; Right of Reentry

[c] Power of Termination

[d] Requirements for Exercising Power of Termination

[e] Duration of Power of Termination

[f] Expiration of Obsolete Power of Termination

[g] Effect of Expiration of Power of Termination

[3] Remainder

[a] Definition

[b] Vested Remainder

[c] Contingent Remainder

[4] Executory Interest

§ 67.13 Condition on Present or Future Interest

[1] In General

[2] Condition Depending on Wrongful Act

[3] Condition Restraining Marriage

[4] Condition Restraining Alienation

[5] Racial, National, or Ethnic Restriction

§ 67.14 Termination of Future Interest

§ 67.15 Transfer of Future Interest

§ 67.16 California Rule Against Perpetuities

- [1] Purpose and Background
- [2] Common Law Rule
- [3] Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP)
- [4] Retroactive Application of Rule
- [5] Application in Particular Cases
  - [a] Nonvested Future Interest
  - [b] Power of Appointment
  - [c] Accumulation of Income
- [6] 90-Year Wait-and-See Rule
- [7] Time of Creation of Interest
- [8] Measuring Life
- [9] Gift Over to Beneficiary's Spouse
- [10] Posthumous Children
- [11] Exclusions
  - [a] Interest Valid Under Court Order or Settlement
  - [b] Interest Arising Out of Nondonative Transfer
  - [c] Fiduciary Power
  - [d] Charitable Gift or Gift to Government
  - [e] Interest Not Subject to Common Law Rule
- [12] Reformation of Otherwise Invalid Disposition

§ 67.17 Perpetuity Saving Clause

- [1] In General
- [2] "Later of" Provision
- [3] Effect of USRAP on Perpetuity Saving Clause

[4] Alternative Distribution Provision

§ 67.18 Other Time Limitations

[1] Lease of Real Property

[2] Honorary Trust

[3] Termination of Trust at End of Perpetuity Period

§ 67.19 Estate Tax Treatment of Future Interests

[1] In General

[2] Marital Deduction

[3] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

§ 67.20 Gift Tax Treatment of Future Interests

[1] In General

[2] Annual Gift Tax Exclusion

[3] Marital Deduction

§ 67.21 Income Tax Treatment of Future Interests

§§ 67.22-67.99 [Reserved]

§ 67.100 Facts

Scope

§ 67.101 Documents

Scope

§§ 67.102-67.109 [Reserved]

§ 67.110 Use of Future Interest Provisions

Scope

§ 67.111 Selecting Appropriate Present and Future Interests

Scope

§§ 67.112-67.119 [Reserved]

§ 67.120 General Drafting Rules

Scope

§ 67.121 Description of Beneficiaries

Scope

§ 67.122 Drafting Condition on Present or Future Interest

Scope

§ 67.123 Avoiding Violation of Rule Against Perpetuities

Scope

§§ 67.124-67.199 [Reserved]

§ 67.200 Simple Testamentary Gift of Life Estate and Remainder

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Tax Considerations

[2] FORM

Simple Testamentary Gift of Life Estate and Remainder

§ 67.201 Life Estate Measured by Life of Person Other Than Life Tenant

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Life Estate Measured by Life of Person Other Than Life Tenant

§ 67.202 Successive Life Estates

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Successive Life Estates

§ 67.203 Life Estate With Remainder to Class of Children

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Determining Members of Class

[c] Rule Against Perpetuities

[d] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Remainder to Class of Children

§ 67.204 Life Estate With Remainder to Grandchildren

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Rule Against Perpetuities

[c] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Remainder to Grandchildren

§ 67.205 Life Estate With Power of Sale in Executor

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Power of Sale in Executor

§ 67.206 Life Estate With Power of Sale in Life Tenant

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Power of Sale in Life Tenant

§ 67.207 Life Estate With Alternative Contingent Remainder

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Alternative Contingent Remainder

§ 67.208 Life Estate With Vested Remainder to Shift on Condition Subsequent

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Vested Remainder to Shift on Condition Subsequent

§ 67.209 Life Estate to Surviving Spouse and Direction to Elect Estate Tax Marital Deduction

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Availability of Marital Deduction

[c] Amount of Marital Deduction

[d] Requirements for Qualified Terminable Interest Property

[e] Election of Marital Deduction

[f] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

[2] FORM

Life Estate to Surviving Spouse and Direction to Elect Estate Tax Marital Deduction

§ 67.210 Surviving Spouse to Have Use of Property Until Death or Remarriage

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Condition in Restraint of Marriage

[2] FORM

Surviving Spouse to Have Use of Property Until Death or Remarriage

§§ 67.211-67.219 [Reserved]

§ 67.220 Future Interest to Take Effect on Specified Condition

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Future Interest to Take Effect on Specified Condition

§ 67.221 Fee Simple Subject to Condition Subsequent (Power of Termination)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Drafting Considerations

[c] Duration of Power of Termination

[d] Estate Tax Consequences

[2] FORM

Fee Simple Subject to Condition Subsequent (Power of Termination)

§§ 67.222-67.229 [Reserved]

§ 67.230 Testamentary Gift of Existing Future Interest

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Testamentary Gift of Existing Future Interest

§ 67.231 Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will Without Trust

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities

[c] Purpose of Perpetuity Saving Clause

[d] Perpetuity Period

[e] Reformation of Disposition

[2] FORM

Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will Without Trust

§ 67.232 Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will With Trust

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will With Trust

§ 67.233 Perpetuity Saving Clause for Inter Vivos Trust Instrument

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Perpetuity Saving Clause for Inter Vivos Trust Instrument

118 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers future-interest provisions in wills and trust instruments. The legal background discusses the various types of present and future interests and estates that may be created. It also discusses conditions that govern present and future interests, along with rules governing the termination and transfer of future interests. It includes a discussion of the rule against perpetuities, including the common law rule, the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, the use of perpetuity saving clauses, and special perpetuities limitations. Also discussed are estate tax, gift tax, and income tax consequences of future interests. The transaction guide provides checklists for drafting provisions to create present and future interests in property. The forms include forms for granting a life estate with remainder, for granting a future interest to take effect on the occurrence of a specified condition, and for granting a fee simple interest subject to a power of termination. The forms also include perpetuity saving clauses that may be used in a will without a trust, a will with a trust, or an inter vivos trust instrument.

119 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.01

§ 67.01 California Statutes

Interests in property.

Present and future interests. Civ. Code §§ 689, 690.

Perpetual and limited interests. Civ. Code §§ 691, 692.

Creation of alternative future interests. Civ. Code § 696.

Transfer of future interests. Civ. Code § 699.

Conditions of property ownership.

Conditions precedent and subsequent. Civ. Code § 708.

Illegal conditions. Civ. Code § 709.

Restraints on alienation. Civ. Code § 711.

Termination of future interests. Civ. Code § 739 et seq.

Estates and interests in real property.

Types of estates. Civ. Code § 761.

Reversion defined. Civ. Code § 768.

Remainder defined. Civ. Code § 769.

Rights of life tenants. Civ. Code § 818.

Obligations of life tenants. Civ. Code § 840.

Notice and rules for preservation of power of termination. Civ. Code § 880.310 et seq.

Powers of termination.

Defined. Civ. Code § 885.010.

Abolition of fee simple determinable and possibility of reverter. Civ. Code § 885.020.

Duration of powers of termination. Civ. Code § 885.030.

Expiration of obsolete powers. Civ. Code § 885.040.

Exercise of power within five years after breach. Civ. Code § 885.050.

Unenforceability of expired power. Civ. Code § 885.060.

Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP).

Application of USRAP to power of appointment. Prob. Code § 690.

Effect of USRAP on trust provision prohibiting termination of trust. Prob. Code § 15413.

Termination of trust following expiration of perpetuity period provided under USRAP. Prob. Code § 15414.

Application of USRAP to nonvested interest or unexercised power of appointment. Prob. Code § 21202.

General rule against perpetuities. Prob. Code § 21205.

Rule against perpetuities for powers of appointment. Prob. Code §§ 21206, 21207.

Perpetuity-saving clause. Prob. Code § 21209.

Time of creation of interest. Prob. Code § 21210 et seq.

Reformation of disposition. Prob. Code § 21220.

Exclusions from USRAP. Prob. Code § 21225.

Measuring lives. Prob. Code § 21230.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust

Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Executory Interests Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts
& Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview

120 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.02

§ 67.02 Federal Statutes

Future interests subject to estate tax. I.R.C. § 2033.

Property transferred during decedent's lifetime in which decedent retained right to possession or enjoyment is included in decedent's taxable estate. I.R.C. § 2036(a).

Property transferred inter vivos is included in transferor's taxable estate if transferor retained reversionary interest valued in excess of 5 percent of value of property. I.R.C. § 2037.

Availability of marital deduction for gifts of future interests. I.R.C. § 2056(b)(1), (5), (7), (8).

Gift of future interest does not qualify for annual gift tax exclusion. I.R.C. § 2503(b)(1).

Gift of future interest may be subject to federal gift tax. I.R.C. § 2511(a).

Gift tax treatment of disposition of life interest for which marital deduction was previously elected. I.R.C. § 2519.

Availability of marital deduction for gift of future interests. I.R.C. § 2523(b), (e)-(g).

Optional postponement of estate tax attributable to reversionary or remainder interest until six months after termination of preceding interests. I.R.C. § 6163.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Marital Deduction (IRC secs. 2056, 2523)General OverviewTax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesGifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524)Annual ExclusionsTax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesTaxable PropertyGeneral Overview

121 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.03-67.04

[Reserved]

§§ 67.03[Reserved]

122 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.05

§ 67.05 Law Reviews

Dukeminier & Krier, The Rise of the Perpetual Trust, 50 U.C.L.A. L. Rev. 1303 (2003).

Comment, Dynasty Trusts and the Rule Against Perpetuities, 116 Harvard L. Rev. 2588 (2003).

Hackl, Gifts of Interests in an LLC Constitute Gifts of Future Interests in Property, 80 Taxes 17 (July 2002).

Chester, Modification and Termination of Trusts in the 21st Century: The Uniform Trust Code Leads a Quiet Revolution, 35 Real Prop., Prob., & Tr. J. 697 (2001).

Dobris, The Death of the Rule Against Perpetuities, or the RAP Has No Friends--An Essay, 35 Real Prop., Prob., & Tr. J. 601 (2000).

Graber, Choosing the Chosen: The Validity of Racial Restrictions on the Alienation of Property in Israel and the United States, 73 S. Cal. L. Rev. 437 (2000).

Vallario, Death by a Thousand Cuts: The Rule Against Perpetuities, 25 J. Legis. 141 (1999).

Jordan, The Present State of Sales of Future Interests, 88 J. Tax'n 336 (1998).

Kalinka, Should the Gift of a Limited Partnership Interest Constitute a Future Interest? 76 Taxes 12 (1998).

Cunningham, The Hazards of Tinkering With the Common Law of Future Interests: The California Experience, 48 Hastings L.J. 667 (1997).

Horowitz, Economic Reality in Estate Planning: The Remainder Interest Sale--Revitalized and Ready for Action, 75 Taxes 291 (1997).

Dukeminier, The Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities and the GST Tax: New Perils for Practitioners and New Opportunities, 30 Real Prop., Prob., & Tr. J. 185 (1995).

Halbach, USRAP Perpetuities Reform: Cy Pres and Wait-and-See Benefits With No Need to Revise Existing Documents or Practices, 13 CEB Estate Planning & California Probate Reporter 96-98 (December 1991).

Bloom & Dukeminier, Perpetuities Reformers Beware: The USRAP Tax Trap, 25 Real Prop., Prob. & Tr. J. 203 (Spring 1990).

Coskran, Assignment and Sublease Restrictions: The Tribulations of Leasehold Transfers, 22 Loyola L.A. L.Rev. 405 (1989).

Dukeminier, Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities: Ninety Years in Limbo, 34 U.C.L.A. L. Rev. 1023 (1987).

Dukeminier, A Modern Guide to Perpetuities, 74 Calif. L. Rev. 1867 (1986).

Waggoner, The Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 21 Real Prop., Prob., and Tr. J. 569 (1986).

Bird, Trust Termination: Unborn, Living, and Dead Hands, 36 Hastings L.J. 563 (1985).

Comment, The Approval Clause in a Lease: Toward a Standard of Reasonableness, 17 U.S.F. L. Rev. 681 (1983).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 General Overview
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

123 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.06

§ 67.06 Annotations

Annot., Duty as Between Life Tenant and Remainderman With Respect to Cost of Improvements or Repairs Made Under Compulsion of Governmental Authority, 48 A.L.R.4th 1012 (1986) .

Annot., Life Tenant's Death as Affecting Rights Under Lease Given by Him, 14 A.L.R.4th 1054 (1982).

Annot., Wills: Gift to Persons Individually Named but Also Described in Terms of Relationship to Testator or Another as Class Gift, 13 A.L.R.4th 978 (1982).

Annot., Duty to Pay Real-Property Taxes as Affected by Time of Commencement or Termination of Life Estate, 8 A.L.R.4th 643 (1981).

Annot., Relinquishment of Interest by Life Beneficiary in Possession as Accelerating Remainder of Which There Is Substitutional Gift in Case Primary Remainderman Does Not Survive Life Beneficiary, 7 A.L.R.4th 1084 (1981).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
General Overview
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

124 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.07

§ 67.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

California Legal Forms(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording.

Ch. 60, Estate Planning.

Ch. 60A, Gifts.

Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms.

Ch. 63, Will Provisions.

Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms.

Ch. 72, Irrevocable Trusts.

California Real Estate Law & Practice(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 340, Estates in Real Property.

Ch. 341, Invalid Restraints and Perpetuities.

California Wills and Trusts(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 24, Devises--General Considerations.

Powell On Real Property(Matthew Bender)

Ch. 11- 16 (present interests).

Ch. 19-33 (future interests).

Ch. 71-75A (perpetuities).

[2] Additional Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 12 Real Property, §§ 9-31 (present estates), 127-170 (future interests), 171-186 (perpetuities), 190-203 (conditions and restraints) (10th ed. 2005).

Restatement of Property (American Law Inst. 1936), §§ 14-152 (present interests), 153-314 (future interests), 370-403 (perpetuities), 404-438 (restraints on alienation).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview Real Property Law Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

125 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.08-67.09

[Reserved]

§§ 67.08[Reserved]

126 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.10

§ 67.10 Interest in Property

[1] In General

Every interest in property is either a present interest or a future interest [Civ. Code § 688(1)]. The owner of a present interest is entitled to immediate possession of the property [Civ. Code § 689], while the owner of a future interest is entitled to possession only at a future time [Civ. Code § 690]. A mere possibility, such as the expectancy of an heir apparent, is not an interest of any kind [Civ. Code § 700].

Every interest in property is also either perpetual or limited [Civ. Code § 688(2)]. A perpetual interest has a duration equal to that of the property [Civ. Code § 691], while a limited interest has a duration less than that of the property [Civ. Code § 692].

[2] Real Property

Interests in real property are referred to as estates and are specifically classified in Civ. Code § 761 et seq. [Civ. Code § 701; see §§ 67.11-67.18].

[3] Personal Property

The Civil Code does not classify interests in personal property in the same way that it classifies interests in real property. The names and classifications for real property interests apply to personal property interests only as expressly provided in the code [Civ. Code § 702]. Courts have, nevertheless, recognized the validity and enforceability of life estates and remainder interests in trusts of personal property [see, e.g., Randall v. Bank of America (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 249, 255, 119 P.2d 754 (remainder interest in certificate of deposit)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A bequest of personal property typically creates a present interest in the property. A future interest is most commonly created in real property. Although it is legally possible to create a future interest in personal property by a will, such a bequest is generally impractical and not recommended. The impracticality arises from the difficulty of tracing ownership of personal property and enforcing the

127 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.11

§ 67.11 Present Interest in Real Property

[1] In General

Four types of present interests in real property are recognized in California. They are [Civ. Code § 761]:

- Estates of inheritance or perpetual estates (fees) [see [2], below].
- Life estates [see [4], below].
- Estates for years, which have a duration fixed in terms of one or more years [see Restatement of Property, § 19].
- Estates at will, which are terminable solely at the will of the transferor, subject to certain restrictions imposed by statute [see Civ. Code § 789; Restatement of Property, § 21].

As their names imply, the four recognized estates are classified according to the period of enjoyment.

Estates of inheritance and life estates are freehold estates [Civ. Code § 765]. Freehold estates are distinguished from other forms of estates in that they are of indeterminate duration [ Pacific Southwest Realty Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 155, 162, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536, 820 P.2d 1046 ]. Estates for years are chattels real [Civ. Code § 765], that is, they are treated as personal property even though the substance of the estate is real property [ Pacific Southwest Realty Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 155, 162, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536, 820 P.2d 1046 ]. Estates at will are chattel interests [Civ. Code § 765], that is, personal property.

[2] Fee Simple

Every estate of inheritance is a fee simple (or absolute fee) unless it is defeasible or conditional [Civ. Code § 762; see [3], below]. The owner of a fee simple interest in real property has absolute dominion over the property and may use or dispose of it at will, subject only to the general laws [Civ. Code § 679].

The common law estate tail (or fee tail), which restricts ownership to the grantee's direct descendants, does not exist in California but, if attempted, is deemed to be a fee simple absolute, unless limited by a valid remainder [Civ. Code § 763]. A remainder in fee limited on an estate that would be an estate tail under the common law is valid as a contingent limitation on the fee. It vests in possession on the death of the first taker without issue living at the time of the taker's death [Civ. Code § 764].

[3] Defeasible Fee

At common law, there are two types of defeasible fees: a fee simple determinable with a possibility of reverter, and a fee simple subject to a condition subsequent with a right of reentry [see Restatement of Property §§ 44, 45]. These types of defeasible fee do not exist in California, but an attempt to create such an estate will be treated as creating a fee simple subject to a condition subsequent with a power of termination [see Civ. Code §§ 885.010, 885.020; see also § 67.11[4]].

EXAMPLE:

A grant of real property to a city on the condition that the property be used solely for a specified purpose, otherwise the property will pass to another person or revert to the grantor or the grantor's successors in interest, constitutes a grant of a fee simple subject to a condition subsequent [ see City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 620-623, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859 ; Walton v. City of Red Bluff (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 117, 121, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 275] . Unless and until the transferee of such an estate breaches the conditions imposed by the transferor, the transferee is in the same position as an owner in fee simple absolute [ City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 621, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859] .

[4] Life Estate

A life estate is an estate lasting for the duration of a life or lives in being at the creation of the estate [see Restatement of Property, § 18]. It is usually measured by the life of the holder of the estate but may be measured also by the life of another [see Civ. Code § 766; Restatement of Property, § 18, comment (a)].

A life estate may be created by a will [see Estate of Giacomelos (1961) 192 Cal. App. 2d 244, 245, 13 Cal. Rptr. 245] and is deemed to be created on the testator's death [see Civ. Code § 749]. No particular words are necessary to create a life estate in real property; any language that adequately expresses the intention to create a life estate is sufficient [ Estate of Nichols (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 783, 795, 19 Cal. Rptr. 93 ; see, e.g., Estate of Bernatas (1958) 162 Cal. App. 2d 693, 695, 328 P.2d 539 (language in will by which testator left her home to her niece, but stated that her husband could "live in at as long as he wishes while he is alone," created life estate in husband with remainder in niece)]. A devise providing that the property must go to another person on the death of the initial devisee transfers only a life estate, even when the words "life estate" are not used [ Estate of Mulholland (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 392, 397, 97 Cal. Rptr. 617] .

The owner of a life estate may use the property in the same manner as the owner of a fee simple but must not take any action that would harm the property [see Civ. Code § 818]. The life tenant must repair any structures on the property and must pay all taxes and other annual charges as well as a just proportion of extraordinary assessments benefiting the property as a whole [see Civ. Code § 840]. A life tenant cannot transfer the property or dispose of it by will [ Estate of Mulholland (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 392, 397, 97 Cal. Rptr. 617] .

Some life estates are absolute, meaning that the owner of the life estate can do almost anything with his or her interest other than commit waste. Other life estates are determinable or contingent because of limitations placed on them; for example, a life estate that exists only as long as the life tenant resides on the property is a determinable or contingent life estate [ Forrest v. Elam (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 164, 170, 151 Cal. Rptr. 591] .

PRACTICE TIP:

A testator should not make a devise creating a life estate without first considering the disadvantages of such a devise. Legal life estates are generally inflexible arrangements. The rights of the life tenant and the remainder beneficiary are prescribed by law and not by the will. The life tenant's right to reasonable use of the property, coupled with the duty not to commit waste, is an invitation to conflict between the life tenant and the remainder beneficiary. Life estates are particularly unsuitable if there is any likelihood that the property subject to the life estate will be sold. A testator might wish to give his or her surviving spouse the right to use the family residence for life; however, if the residence is sold while the surviving spouse is still alive, difficult questions as to the proper use and disposition of the sale proceeds may arise.

Circumstances under which a life estate might appeal to a client will almost always indicate the desirability of creating a trust. A trust will satisfy the purposes of a life estate while providing greater flexibility in the use of the property. The trust instrument will typically provide for contingencies, such as the illness of the life tenant. If the subject property is the family residence, the trust instrument can state the circumstances under which the residence can be sold, the use that can be made of the proceeds of the sale, and whether the proceeds can be reinvested in another residence. Even if the trust instrument does not specifically provide for a particular contingency, it will be much easier to invoke the court's aid in fashioning an appropriate response to a contingency when the property is held in trust rather than in a life estate.

If the client is reluctant to use a trust (believing, perhaps, that a trust will be too complex), a life estate may be appropriate for property that is likely to be retained in the family during the lifetime of the life tenant (such as a family farm).

Although trusts are most commonly used to qualify transfers to a surviving spouse for the estate tax marital deduction [see I.R.C. § 2056; see also § 67.19[2]], a transfer of a legal life estate to a surviving spouse may qualify for the marital deduction, as qualified terminable interest property (QTIP) under I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Estates in Fee
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Life Estates
 General Overview
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Present Estates
 General Overview
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Present Estates
 Fee Simple Estates
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Present Estates
 Life Estates

128 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.12

§ 67.12 Future Interest in Real Property

[1] In General

A future interest in property is an interest that is not, but may become, a present interest [Restatement of Property, § 153, comment (b); Estate of Sigourney (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 593, 604, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 274]. There are three types of future interests at common law:

- A reversionary interest, including a power of termination, is an interest in favor of the transferor or the transferor's successors in interest [see Restatement of Property, § 154(a); see also [2], below].
- A remainder is an interest in favor of someone other than the transferor or the transferor's successors in interest, which will become a present interest on the expiration of all prior interests created simultaneously [see Restatement of Property, § 156; see also [3], below].
- An executory interest is any other interest in favor of someone other than the transferor or the transferor's successors in interest [see [4], below].

The only future interests recognized by law in California are those set forth in the Civil Code [Civ. Code § 703]. A future interest is not void merely because of the improbability of the contingency on which it is limited to take effect [Civ. Code § 697]. Two or more future interests may be created to take effect in the alternative, so that if the first in order fails to vest, the next in succession may be substituted for it and take effect accordingly [Civ. Code § 696]. A future interest can be limited to successors, heirs, issue, or children; in that case, a posthumous child is entitled to take in the same manner as if living at the parent's death [Civ. Code § 698]. Future interests pass by succession, will, and transfer, in the same manner as present interests in property [Civ. Code § 699].

[2] Reversionary Interests

[a] Reversion

A reversion is the residue of an estate left by operation of law in the grantor or the grantor's successors, or in a testator's successors, on the termination of the estate that was granted or devised [see Civ. Code § 768].

At common law, a reversionary interest is any future interest in favor of the transferor or the transferor's successors in interest [see Restatement of Property, § 154(1)]. When a transferor transfers less than his or her entire interest in the property, the untransferred segment of ownership is a reversionary interest if it includes either the certainty or the possibility that the transferor may again become entitled to a present interest in the property when the transferred interest ends [see Restatement of Property, § 154, comment (a)].

[b] Possibility of Reverter; Right of Reentry

At common law, a possibility of reverter or right of reentry is a future interest created in conjunction with a defeasible fee [see § 67.10(3)]. In the case of a possibility of reverter, the present interest automatically reverts to the transferor on the occurrence of a specified condition, without any action by the transferor [see Restatement of Property, § 154(3)]. In the case of a right of reentry, the transferor may recover the present interest by affirmatively exercising that right [see Restatement of Property, § 155].

These future interests do not exist in California. Every interest that would be classified as a possibility of reverter at common law is classified and enforceable as a power of termination [Civ. Code § 885.020; see [c], below]. A right of reentry also is deemed to be a power of termination under California law [see Civ. Code § 885.010(c)].

[c] Power of Termination

A power of termination is the power to terminate a fee simple estate on the occurrence of a condition subsequent to which the estate is subject. It makes no difference whether the power is characterized in the instrument that creates or evidences it as a power of termination, a possibility of reverter, a right of reentry, or otherwise [Civ. Code § 885.010(a)(1)].

A power of termination includes the power created in a transferee to terminate a fee simple estate in order to enforce a restriction on the use of the property, which is in the form of a limitation or a condition subsequent to which the estate is subject. It makes no difference whether the power is characterized in the instrument that creates or evidences it as an executory interest, an executory interest preceded by a fee simple determinable, an executory limitation, or otherwise [Civ. Code § 885.010(a)(2)].

[d] Requirements for Exercising Power of Termination

A power of termination can be exercised only by notice or civil action. If the power is of record, the exercise must also be of record. The notice must be given, or the civil action must be commenced, within five years after breach of the condition to which the fee simple estate is subject, unless the parties have agreed to a longer period by a waiver or extension recorded before the expiration of the five-year period [Civ. Code § 885.050].

[e] Duration of Power of Termination

A power of termination expires 30 years after the date the instrument reserving, transferring, or evidencing it is recorded [Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(1)]. The duration of a power may be extended until 30 years after the date a notice of intent to preserve the power is recorded, if the notice is recorded before the power would otherwise expire [Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(2); see Civ. Code § 880.310 et seq.]. It may be preserved for successive 30-year periods by recording a notice before the expiration of each preceding notice [see Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(3)].

These provisions concerning expiration of a power of termination apply notwithstanding any contrary provision in the instrument reserving, transferring, or evidencing the power (or in another recorded document), unless the instrument (or other document) provides for an earlier expiration date [Civ. Code § 885.030(b)].

Although recordation of a notice of intent to preserve a power of termination does not preclude a court from determining that it has been abandoned or is otherwise unenforceable, it does create a presumption (affecting the burden of proof) that the person who claims the power has not abandoned it and does not intend to abandon it [Civ. Code § 880.310(b)]. The form for the notice of intent is prescribed by statute [Civ. Code § 880.340; see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].

[f] Expiration of Obsolete Power of Termination

A power of termination expires if it becomes obsolete [Civ. Code § 885.040(a)]. A power becomes obsolete if either [Civ. Code § 885.040(b)]:

- The restriction to which the fee simple estate is subject is of no actual and substantial benefit to the holder of the power.
- Enforcement of the power would not effectuate the purpose of the restriction to which the estate is subject.
- It is otherwise inequitable to enforce the power because of changed conditions or circumstances [e.g., Walton v. City of Red Bluff (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 117, 135, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 275 (noting cases holding that right of reentry, now called power of termination, may be lost if neighborhood conditions change)].

However, a power of termination granted, without consideration, to a public entity or a tax-exempt organization cannot expire during the life of the grantor by reason of becoming obsolete [Civ. Code § 885.040(c)].

[g] Effect of Expiration of Power of Termination

Expiration of a power of termination makes the power unenforceable and is equivalent for all purposes to a termination of the power of record and a quitclaim of the power to the owner of the fee simple estate. Recording a termination or quitclaim is not necessary to terminate or evidence the termination of the power [Civ. Code § 885.060(a)].

Expiration of a power terminates the restriction to which the fee simple estate is subject and makes the restriction unenforceable by any other means, including injunction and damages [Civ. Code § 885.060(b)]. This does not apply, however, to a restriction that also is an equitable servitude enforceable by injunction; that restriction will remain enforceable by injunction and other available remedies but is not enforceable by a power of termination [Civ. Code § 885.060(c)].

[3] Remainder

[a] Definition

A remainder is a future estate, other than a reversion, that is dependent on a preceding estate [Civ. Code § 769]. At common law, a remainder is any future interest that is limited in a transferee's favor in such a manner that it can become a present interest on the expiration of all prior interests created simultaneously, and which cannot divest any interest except an interest left in the transferor [Restatement of Property, § 156(1)].

Remainders are classified as vested or contingent. A vested remainder is a present, fixed right of future enjoyment. A contingent remainder is an inchoate right of enjoyment, which can become a present, fixed right in the future under specified circumstances [see Powell On Real Property, P 274 (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Vested Remainder

Although California cases generally characterize remainders simply as vested or contingent, the courts have recognized the common law categories of vested remainders--indefeasibly vested, vested subject to open, and vested subject to complete defeasance [see Restatement of Property, § 157; e.g., Estate of Ferry (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 776, 783, 13 Cal. Rptr. 180, 361 P.2d 900 (vested subject to defeasance); Estate of Stanford (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 120, 125, 315 P.2d 681 (vested subject to open); Bochte v. Chess (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 321, 325, 268 P.2d 493 (indefeasibly vested)].

- A remainder is indefeasibly vested if the remainder beneficiary or the remainder beneficiary's successors in interest are certain to acquire a present interest at some future date and are also certain to be entitled to retain that interest permanently [see Restatement of Property, § 157, comment (f)].

- A remainder is vested subject to open if the remainder beneficiary or the remainder beneficiary's successors in interest are certain to acquire a present interest in some part of the property at some future date and are also certain to be entitled to retain that interest permanently, but the amount or proportion of the share to which the remainder beneficiary will be entitled may increase or decrease before the date it becomes a present interest [see Restatement of Property, § 157, comment (l)]. A common example of this type of interest is a remainder to an indeterminate class of children.

- A remainder is vested subject to complete defeasance when there is a person who would take the interest if all prior interests were to end immediately, but who has no certainty of retaining that present interest, and who in most cases has no certainty of ever acquiring a present interest [see Restatement of Property, § 157, comment (p)]. Stated differently, a remainder interest is vested, subject to complete defeasance if the holder of the remainder is in existence and ascertained, and his or her interest is not subject to a condition precedent, although his or her right to possession or enjoyment on the expiration of the prior interests is subject to termination, such as by the exercise of a power of appointment [ Ammco Ornamental Iron, Inc. v. Wing (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 409, 418, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564]. For example, persons in existence who are specifically designated in a trust instrument to take in default of the exercise of a power of appointment by the holder of the preceding estate, are beneficiaries of the trust and have vested remainder interests in it, although their interests are subject to complete defeasance [ Ammco Ornamental Iron, Inc. v. Wing (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 409, 418-419, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564; see Civ. Code § 781 (power of appointment does not prevent vesting of future estate limited to take effect if power is not executed)].

The remainder interest after a life estate vests on the death of the person whose life is the measuring life (usually the life tenant) and cannot be accelerated by any other event [see Civ. Code § 780; Estate of Hoiby (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 233, 237, 197 Cal. Rptr. 682].

[c] Contingent Remainder

It is not the uncertainty of actual enjoyment, but the uncertainty of the right to enjoyment, that make a remainder contingent [ Estate of Lawrence (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 1, 8, 108 P.2d 893]. A contingent remainder (also called a remainder subject to a condition precedent) exists when it is impossible to point to any person who would take if all prior interests were to end immediately [see Restatement of Property, § 157, comment (u)]. It is a remainder limited to take effect on an event that may never happen, or may not happen until after the preceding estate ends, or is limited to a person not in being or ascertained [see Powell On Real Property, PP 274, 278 (Matthew Bender)].

A remainder is not void merely because of the improbability of the contingency on which it is limited to take effect [Civ. Code § 697]. However, the law favors vested remainders over contingent remainders. Any doubt will be resolved in favor of vesting, and an interest will be found to be contingent only if it is clearly shown that this was the transferor's intent [see Estate of Stanford (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 120, 124-125, 315 P.2d 681 ; Estate of Woodworth (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 936, 940, 942-946, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 676].

[4] Executory Interest

At common law, all future interests in favor of anyone other than the transferor or the transferor's successors in interest, with the exception of remainders [see [3], above], were classified as executory interests (also known as executory limitations or conditional limitations) [see Restatement of Property, §§ 25, 158(2)]. A springing executory interest would operate to defeat an interest in the transferor's favor, such as a transfer to take effect only if and when the transferee attains a specified age. A shifting executory interest would operate to defeat an interest held by a third person, such as a gift over to a third person if a remainder beneficiary died without issue [see Restatement of Property, § 25, comment (e)].

In California, a common law executory interest falls within the broad statutory definition of a remainder because it is a future estate, other than a reversion, dependent on a preceding estate [see Civ. Code § 769]. A future interest may commence at a future day, without the intervention of a preceding estate or on the termination of a preceding estate by lapse of time or otherwise [Civ. Code § 767].

Moreover, a fee may be limited on a fee, on a contingency that, if it should occur, must occur within the period of the rule against perpetuities [Civ. Code § 773]. A remainder may be limited on a contingency that, if it occurs, will operate to abridge or determine the preceding estate; and such an interest is deemed a conditional limitation [Civ. Code § 778].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Future Interests
 Executory Interests
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Future Interests
 Remainder Interests
 General Overview
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 Executory Interests
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 Remainders
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 Reverter & Reversions

129 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.13

§ 67.13 Condition on Present or Future Interest

[1] In General

An interest in property is conditional if the time when enjoyment of the property is to begin or end depends on events [Civ. Code § 707]. Conditions are either precedent or subsequent. Conditions precedent fix the beginning of the right, and conditions subsequent fix the ending of the right [Civ. Code § 708].

Conditions subsequent are not favored because they tend to destroy estates [see City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 622, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859]. There are also statutory limitations on the duration of a power to terminate a fee simple estate in order to enforce a condition subsequent [see § 67.12[2][e], [ff]]. However, if the creating instrument clearly provides that the transferee will forfeit the property or that the transferor or the transferor's successor in interest may enter the property on breach of the condition, then the transfer will be upheld as a transfer of a fee simple subject to a condition subsequent [ City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 622, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859].

As a general rule, a transferor may condition a transfer of property on whatever conditions the transferor desires [see, e.g., City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 620-626, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859 (property transferred to city on condition that it be used solely as a desert wildlife preserve)]. There are, however, several categories of impermissible conditions [see [2]-[5], below].

[2] Condition Depending on Wrongful Act

If a condition precedent requires the performance of a wrongful act, the instrument containing the condition is void. If the condition precedent requires the performance of an act that is not wrongful in and of itself but is otherwise unlawful, the instrument takes effect, but the condition is void [Civ. Code § 709].

[3] Condition Restraining Marriage

Conditions imposing restraints on marriage, except the marriage of a minor, are void [Civ. Code § 710]. For example, a bequest of trust income to a surviving spouse for her lifetime or until her remarriage or cohabitation was void as a restraint on marriage, when the testimony showed that the testator was extremely jealous and did not intend to provide for his wife if she formed another relationship [ Estate of Guidotti (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1407, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 674] .

This prohibition does not extend to limitations that are not intended to forbid marriage but only to give use of the property until marriage [Civ. Code § 710]. Thus, a devise to a surviving spouse "during widowhood," or words to that effect, ordinarily will be upheld [see Estate of Horgan (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 618, 620-621, 205 P.2d 706 (testator's intent, ascertained from entire will, determines how devise will be construed)].

[4] Condition Restraining Alienation

Conditions restraining the alienation of property are void if they are repugnant to the interest created [Civ. Code § 711]. This statute codifies the common law prohibition against unreasonable restraints on alienation [ Carma Developers (California), Inc. v. Marathon Development California, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 342, 355, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467, 826 P.2d 710] . Reasonable restrictions on alienation have been held to be consistent with the statute [ City of Oceanside v. McKenna (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1420, 1427, 264 Cal. Rptr. 275] .

Reasonableness is determined by comparing the justification for the particular restraint on alienation with the quantum of restraint actually imposed by it. The greater the restraint, the stronger the justification must be to support it [ Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 948-949, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970] .

Restraints on alienation in the transfer of a fee estate generally are considered repugnant to the interest created because they tend to defeat the very purpose of that interest [ Carma Developers (California), Inc. v. Marathon Development California, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 342, 358-359, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467, 826 P.2d 710 ); see Taormina Theosophical Community Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 973-974, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38 (invalidating restriction on sale of property to anyone other than theosophist at least 50 years of age); but see Zlotoff v. Tucker (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 988, 993, 201 Cal. Rptr. 692 (upholding liquidated damages provision in property sale agreement requiring buyer to pay extra $20,000 on reselling property to named individual, which was limited in time)].

When the interest created is a leasehold, a restriction on alienation is less likely to be considered repugnant, because a lease, by its very nature, is limited in duration and scope and is therefore already less alienable than a fee estate [ Carma Developers (California), Inc. v. Marathon Development California, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 342, 358-359, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467, 826 P.2d 710 ; see Kendall v. Ernest Pestana, Inc. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 488, 498-500, 220 Cal. Rptr. 818, 709 P.2d 837 (finding no justification for giving lessor unrestricted right to disapprove proposed assignee absent express lease provision giving lessor that right)]. In addition, any restriction on alienation of a lessee's interest is less detrimental to the overall free flow of property than a comparable restriction on a fee estate; and restrictions on alienation of a leasehold interest, particularly a commercial interest, do not implicate an owner's right to transfer property to those the owner chooses, such as heirs, or concern over present owners tying up property indefinitely [ Carma Developers (California), Inc. v. Marathon Development California, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 342, 359, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 467, 826 P.2d 710] .

[5] Racial, National, or Ethnic Restriction

Any provision in any deed of real property in California that purports to restrict the right of any person to sell, lease, rent, use, or occupy the property to persons of a particular racial, national, or ethnic group, by providing for payment of a penalty, forfeiture, reverter, or otherwise, is void [Civ. Code § 782]. Any deed or other written instrument relating to title to real property, or any written covenant, condition, or restriction annexed to that deed or instrument or made a part of it, by reference or otherwise, which purports to forbid, restrict, or condition the right of any person to sell, buy, lease, rent, use, or occupy the property, because of the race or color of the person, is deemed to be revised to omit that provision [Civ. Code § 785.2(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests Contingent Remainders Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Real Property Law Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

130 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.14

§ 67.14 Termination of Future Interest

A future interest may be defeated in any manner or by any act or means authorized by the person creating the interest at the time of creating the interest [Civ. Code § 740]. If a future interest is contingent on the death of a specified person without successors, heirs, issue, or children, the interest is defeated by the birth of that person's posthumous child who is capable of taking by succession [Civ. Code § 739].

A future interest cannot be defeated or barred by any act of the owner of a preceding interest, or by the destruction of the preceding interest by forfeiture, surrender, merger, or otherwise [Civ. Code § 741]. Nor can a future interest that is valid at its creation be defeated by the termination of the preceding interest before the happening of the contingency on which the future interest is limited to take effect [Civ. Code § 742]. If the contingency occurs later, the future interest takes effect in the same manner and to the same extent as if the preceding interest had continued until its normal termination [Civ. Code § 742].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Future Interests
General Overview
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
Reverter & Reversions

131 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.15

§ 67.15 Transfer of Future Interest

Future interests are transferable by succession, will, or inter vivos transfer, in the same manner as present interests [Civ. Code § 699]. The transferability of a future interest is not affected by its classification as a vested or contingent interest [Estate of Ferry (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 776, 13 Cal. Rptr. 180, 361 P.2d 900].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Energy & Utilities Law
Conveyances
Rule Against Perpetuities
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Future Interests
General Overview
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
General Overview

132 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.16

§ 67.16 California Rule Against Perpetuities

[1] Purpose and Background

The rule against perpetuities is designed to promote the free transferability of property by limiting the property owner's power to control its disposition after his or her death. Although the rule is of ancient origin, it applies to a broad range of modern property interests, including personal property as well as real property and equitable interests as well as legal estates [see Reagh v. Kelley (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1096, 89 Cal. Rptr. 425 ; see also Strong v. Theis (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 913, 920, 232 Cal. Rptr. 272 (options and preemptive rights are property interests subject to rule against perpetuities)]. The rule applies only to the vesting of future interests, not to vested present interests [ Reagh v. Kelley (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1097, 89 Cal. Rptr. 425 ] . Because the rule is based on public policy rather than private convenience, it cannot be waived [ United California Bank v. Bottler (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 610, 616, 94 Cal. Rptr. 227 ] .

California adopted a statutory formulation of the common law rule against perpetuities in 1951 [see former Civ. Code § 715.2]. In 1992, that was replaced with the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP) [see Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.].

[2] Common Law Rule

The California codification of the common law rule against perpetuities as stated in former Civ. Code § 715.2 was that no interest in real or personal property shall be good unless it must vest, if at all, not later than 21 years after some life in being at the creation of the interest and any period of gestation involved in the situation to which the limitation applies.

At common law, the validity of a future interest is determined as of the time of its creation. If there was then any conceivable possibility that the interest would not vest or terminate within the time limits of the rule, the entire interest is invalid [ Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 572, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595 ; Strong v. Theis (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 913, 920, 232 Cal. Rptr. 272 ; see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2511 (1990)]. Whether vesting or termination within the statutory period was likely, or whether disposition appeared reasonable or unreasonable under the circumstances, was immaterial [see Estate of Grove (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 355, 361-362, 138 Cal. Rptr. 684].

[3] Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP)

The Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP) [see Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.] supersedes the common law rule against perpetuities [Prob. Code § 21201]. This rule provides, in essence, that a future interest is valid if it either satisfies the common law rule against perpetuities or actually vests or terminates within 90 years after creation of the interest [see Prob. Code § 21205].

The fundamental difference between USRAP and the common law rule is that USRAP does not automatically invalidate an interest from its inception. Under the common law rule, the validity of a future interest is determined as of the time of its creation [see [7], below]. If there was any conceivable possibility that the interest would not vest or terminate within the time limits of the rule (21 years plus a life in being at the creation of the interest) [see former Civ. Code § 715.2], then the interest was invalid from the moment of its creation [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2511 (1990)].

In contrast, USRAP focuses on what actually happens to a future interest after it is created. An interest that would be invalid under the common law rule because, at the time the interest was created, it was conceivable that it might vest or terminate more than 21 years after the death of a person alive when the interest was created, is valid under USRAP if it actually vests or terminates within 90 years after it is created. During the 90-year period, persons with a potential interest in the property wait to see whether the interest, in fact, vests or terminates. By grafting this 90-year wait-and-see rule onto the common law rule, USRAP eliminates the harsh potential of the common law rule for total invalidation of an interest from the moment of its creation [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2552 (1990)].

USRAP applies to three general types of future interests:

- Nonvested future interests [see Prob. Code §§ 21202(a), 21205; see also [5], below];
- Powers of appointment [see Prob. Code §§ 21202(a), 21206, 21207; see also [6], below]; and
- Accumulations of income [see Civ. Code §§ 722, 724(a); see also [7], below].

Certain interests are specifically excluded from USRAP [see Prob. Code §§ 21202(b), 21225; [13]-[17], below].

[4] Retroactive Application of Rule

USRAP applies to all nonvested future interests and unexercised powers of appointment, whether they were created on, before, or after January 1, 1992, the operative date of USRAP in California [Prob. Code § 21202(a)]. It does not apply to vested interests [Prob. Code §§ 21202(a), 21205].

The adoption of USRAP does not require the revision, reexecution, or republication of instruments in existence before January 1, 1992, because USRAP does not invalidate perpetuity saving clauses that were valid under the common law rule [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2519 (1990)].

[5] Application in Particular Cases

[a] Nonvested Future Interest

A nonvested future interest is invalid unless one of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 21205]:

- When the interest was created, it was certain to vest or terminate no later than 21 years after the death of an individual then alive.

- The interest either vests or terminates within 90 years after its creation.

The first rule is sometimes called the "validating side" of the common law rule against perpetuities. USRAP does not include the so-called invalidating side of the common law rule--it does not invalidate an interest merely because it might vest or terminate more than 21 years after the death of an individual alive when the interest is created. Under USRAP, an interest that is not valid under the common law rule because, at the time of its creation, it was not certain to vest or terminate within 21 years after the death of an individual then alive may still be validated under the 90-year wait-and-see rule [Prob. Code § 21205(b); see [6], below].

A future interest is "nonvested" in this context if it is subject to an unsatisfied condition precedent, or is "vested" if it is owned free and clear of conditions precedent [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2552 (1990)]. A nonvested interest may be created when a devise is made to a class of persons. If that class could include persons not yet born when the devise takes effect, their interests are nonvested because they are subject to the unsatisfied condition precedent of being born. All class gifts that are subject to open are regarded as nonvested interests for purposes of USRAP [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2552-2553 (1990)].

[b] Power of Appointment

USRAP applies to powers of appointment [Prob. Code § 690]. A general power of appointment that is not presently exercisable because of a condition precedent is in valid unless one of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 21206]:

- When the power is created, the condition precedent is certain to be satisfied or become impossible to satisfy no later than 21 years after the death of an individual then alive.

- The condition precedent either is satisfied or becomes impossible to satisfy within 90 years after its creation.

A nongeneral power of appointment or a general testamentary power of appointment is invalid unless one of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 21207]:

- When the power is created, it is certain to be irrevocably exercised or otherwise to terminate no later than 21 years after the death of an individual then alive.

- The power is irrevocably exercised or otherwise terminates within 90 years after its creation.

[c] Accumulation of Income

Dispositions of income to accrue and be received in the future are governed by the rules applicable to future interests [Civ. Code § 722]. Although an accumulation of income may be directed by any valid will, trust, or transfer in writing, an accumulation of income generally cannot extend beyond the time permitted for the vesting of future interests under the rule against perpetuities [Civ. Code § 724(a)]. If a will or trust instrument requires that income be accumulated for a longer time, the requirement is void insofar as it applies to the longer period, but such a requirement will not affect the validity of any other provision of the will or trust [Civ. Code § 725].

A trust that forms part of a profit-sharing or retirement plan may accumulate income until the trust fund is sufficient, in the trustor's opinion, to accomplish the purposes of the trust, whether or not the accumulation exceeds the limits of the rule against perpetuities [Civ. Code § 724(b)].

[6] 90-Year Wait-and-See Rule

The 90-year wait-and-see rule of USRAP shifts the perpetuities focus from what might happen to an interest as viewed at the time of its creation to what actually happens to the interest within 90 years after its creation [see Prob. Code §§ 21205(b), 21206(b), 21207(b)]. The period of 90 years is an approximation of the common law period of lives in being plus 21 years [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2513 (1990)]. This 90-year wait-and-see rule can validate an otherwise invalid interest but cannot invalidate a valid interest.

PRACTICE TIP:

Any interest that remains unvested and untermiated on expiration of the 90-year period is invalid and terminates. In actual practice, any person who has a potential interest in an unvested or untermiated interest or power of appointment will most likely become concerned about the interest or appointment as the end of the 90-year period approaches. If vesting or termination before expiration of the period is impossible (or even unlikely), this person may seek reformation of the interest under Prob. Code § 21220 [see [12], below].

[7] Time of Creation of Interest

The time of creation of an interest or a power is generally determined by statutes other than USRAP or under general principles of property law [Prob. Code § 21210]. The time allowed for vesting or termination of an interest or power of appointment under USRAP begins at the time of the creation of the interest or power. For example, an interest or power created by an inter vivos trust generally is created on the date that the trust property is irrevocably transferred to the trustee, because an inter vivos trust is generally effective only on the irrevocable transfer of property to the trustee to be held subject to the trust instrument [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2579-2580 (1990)].

However, there are three exceptions to the general rule that the time of creation is to be determined under other applicable statutes or general principles of property law.

- If there is a person who alone can exercise a power to become the unqualified beneficial owner of a nonvested future interest, a general power of appointment not presently exercisable because of a condition precedent, a nongeneral power of appointment, or a general testamentary power of appointment, then the interest or power is created when the power to become the unqualified beneficial owner terminates [Prob. Code § 21211(a); see Prob. Code §§ 21206, 21207; see also Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2580-2585 (1990)].

- A joint power with respect to community property held by individuals who are married to each other is a power that is exercisable by one person alone [Prob. Code § 21211(b); see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2580-2585 (1990)].

- A nonvested future interest or power of appointment arising from a transfer of property to a previously funded trust or other existing property arrangement is created when the nonvested interest or power in the original contribution was created [Prob. Code § 21212; see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2585-2586 (1990)].

[8] Measuring Life

Under the common law rule against perpetuities, the validity of a nonvested interest or power of appointment is determined by measuring off 21 years after the death of a person alive at the time of the creation of the interest. Under the former California codification of the common law rule, the period was stated to be 21 years after some life in being at the creation of the interest [see former Civ. Code § 715.2]. Under USRAP's restatement of the common law rule, the period is stated to be 21 years after the death of an individual then alive [Prob. Code §§ 21205(a), 21206(a), 21207(a)].

The life in being at the creation of the interest or the individual then alive is frequently referred to as the measuring life. The measuring life must be the life of some person who is alive at the time of creation of the interest or power of appointment. The person may be the survivor of a designated group or class of persons. However, when multiple lives are selected to govern the time of vesting, the persons designated must not be so numerous or so situated that evidence of their deaths is likely to be unreasonably difficult to obtain [Prob. Code § 21230].

[9] Gift Over to Beneficiary's Spouse

USRAP includes a special rule designed to validate a future interest that follows a gift over to the spouse of a named beneficiary [see Prob. Code § 21231]. The following example illustrates this rule:

EXAMPLE:

Mr. Brown devises property to his son for life, then to his son's wife for life, with the remainder to the son's then-surviving issue. It is conceivable that the son's wife might not be alive at the time of Mr. Brown's death, yet the remainder to the son's issue is conditional on their survival of the wife. The wife's life cannot be the measuring life, because she might not be an individual alive at the time of creation of the remainder [ see Prob. Code §§ 21205(a), 21206(a), 21207(a); see also [10], below ]. Because the wife might die more than 21 years after the death of either the son or Mr. Brown, it is conceivable that the remainder would not vest in the issue until more than 21 years after the death of the survivor of Mr. Brown or his son. Therefore, the remainder would violate the rule against perpetuities.

To eliminate this kind of violation, USRAP provides that, in determining the validity of a nonvested future interest, an individual described as the spouse of an individual alive at the commencement of the perpetuity period is deemed to be an individual alive when the interest is created, whether or not the individual so described was actually then alive [Prob. Code § 21231].

[10] Posthumous Children

In determining whether a nonvested future interest or a power of appointment is valid under USRAP, the possibility that a child will be born to an individual after the individual's death is disregarded [Prob. Code § 21208]. This rule gives the same result as the common law rule under which the perpetuity period of 21 years was extended by the human gestation period of nine months [see Restatement (Second) of Property, Donative Transfers, § 1.3, comment (h)].

Unlike the common law rule, however, Prob. Code § 21208 takes into account modern medical advances such as sperm banks, frozen embryos, and artificial insemination, enabling a child to be born more than nine months after a parent's death. That possibility will not invalidate a gift under the rule against perpetuities. Because of the language of Prob. Code § 21208, it is unnecessary to extend the statutory period of 21 years by an additional nine months when drafting a dispositive instrument.

The statute applies only to perpetuity questions. It does not apply to questions of whether an after-born child qualifies as the taker of a beneficial interest or as a member of a class [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2573 (1990); see also Civ. Code §§ 698, 739 (rights of posthumous child in future interest; future interest defeated by birth of posthumous child); Prob. Code §§ 249.5-249.8, 6407, 6453(c) (inheritance rights of child conceived after decedent's death; inheritance rights of after-born heirs; parent-child relationship for inheritance purposes in case of posthumously conceived child)].

[11] Exclusions

[a] Interest Valid Under Court Order or Settlement

USRAP does not apply to any future interest or power of appointment when the validity of that interest or power has been determined in a judicial proceeding or by a settlement among interested persons [Prob. Code § 21202(b)].

[b] Interest Arising Out of Nondonative Transfer

USRAP generally does not apply to nonvested future interests and powers of appointment arising out of nondonative transfers. A nondonative transfer is commonly a commercial transaction, such as an option, right of first refusal, commercial lease, or easement [see Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 571, 574, 576, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595 ; see also Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2595 (1990)]. Whether a transfer is donative or nondonative is generally determined by whether it is supported by consideration. However, this is not always the case. If a transfer is essentially gratuitous in nature, it is to be regarded as donative even if it is supported by consideration [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2595 (1990)].

Nondonative transfers that are exempt from the provisions of USRAP may, nevertheless, be limited in duration by other statutes [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 715 et seq. (limiting duration of specified types of commercial leases); Shaver v. Clanton (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 568, 571, 574, 576, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595 (lease amendment giving lessees series of five-year options to renew lease was exempt from USRAP, but total term of lease was limited to 99 years by Civ. Code § 718); see also § 67.18[1]].

USRAP specifically applies to certain nondonative transactions that arise from domestic situations, even when the transactions are supported by substantial consideration. Transactions that fall into this category include premarital and postmarital agreements, dissolution settlements, contracts to make or not to revoke a will, and transfers made in satisfaction of a duty of support [Prob. Code § 21225(a); see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2595 (1990)]. Reciprocal transfers are also subject to USRAP, whether or not they are supported by consideration [Prob. Code § 21225(a)(8); see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2596 (1990)]. A reciprocal transfer is a transfer of property to a trust in exchange for another transfer of property to a trust of which the original transferor is the lifetime beneficiary. Assets transferred to a trust as part of a reciprocal transfer are included in the gross estate of the original transferor on the original transferor's death [see United States v. Estate of Grace (1969) 395 U.S. 316, 89 S. Ct. 1730, 23 L. Ed. 2d 332].

[c] Fiduciary Power

Fiduciary powers generally are subject to USRAP [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2595 (1990)]. However, the following fiduciary powers are specifically excluded from USRAP:

- A fiduciary's power relating to the administration or management of assets, including the power of a fiduciary to sell, lease, or mortgage property, and the power of a fiduciary to determine principal and income [Prob. Code § 21225(b)].

- A power to appoint a fiduciary [Prob. Code § 21225(c)].
- A discretionary power of a trustee to distribute principal before termination of a trust to a beneficiary having an indefeasibly vested interest in the income and principal [Prob. Code § 21225(d)].

[d] Charitable Gift or Gift to Government

USRAP does not apply to a nonvested future interest held by a charity, government, or governmental agency or subdivision, if that interest is preceded by an interest held by another charity, government, or governmental agency or subdivision [Prob. Code § 21225(e)]. This treatment of charitable and governmental gifts is substantially identical to the treatment of these gifts under the common law rule against perpetuities [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2516, 2597-2598 (1990)].

If a nonvested future interest given to a charity is preceded by a charitable gift, the nonvested future interest is not subject to the rule against perpetuities. However, if the nonvested future interest given to a charity is preceded by a private, noncharitable gift, the gift to the charity is subject to the rule [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2598 (1990)]. The practical effect of this rule is to exempt charitable interests from the application of the rule against perpetuities only when all interests in the property are donated to charity. When the transfer is of a split-interest, such as a charitable remainder trust with an income interest transferred to a private, noncharitable beneficiary and the remainder donated to a charity, the charitable remainder is invalid unless it complies with the rule.

[e] Interest Not Subject to Common Law Rule

USRAP does not apply to future interests, powers of appointment, or arrangements that were not subject to the common law rule against perpetuities, or that are excluded by other statutes [Prob. Code § 21225(g)]. Because possibilities of reverter, rights of entry and reentry, and powers of termination are all excluded from the operation of the common law rule, they are similarly excluded from the operation of USRAP [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2599 (1990)].

[12] Reformation of Otherwise Invalid Disposition

A disposition that would otherwise be invalid under USRAP may be validated by judicial reformation. USRAP includes specific rules governing judicial reformation of invalid dispositions [see Prob. Code § 21220]. These rules operate in much the same way that the cy pres rule formerly applied to interests that violated the rule against perpetuities [see former Civ. Code § 715.5; Estate of Grove (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 355, 362-365, 138 Cal. Rptr. 684; see also Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2515-2516 (1990)], although the USRAP rules are somewhat more explicit.

Under USRAP, any person may petition the court to reform a disposition in the manner that most closely approximates the transferor's manifested plan of distribution and is within the 90-year wait-and-see rule [Prob. Code § 21220; see [6, above]]. The court must reform the disposition when one of the following conditions exists:

- A nonvested future interest or a power of appointment becomes invalid under USRAP [Prob. Code § 21220(a)].
- A class gift is not, but might become, invalid under USRAP and the time has arrived when the share of any class member is to take effect in possession or enjoyment [Prob. Code § 21220(b)].

■ A nonvested future interest that is not valid under the "validating side" of USRAP's codification of the common law rule against perpetuities [see Prob. Code § 21205(a); see also [5][a], above] can vest, but not within 90 years after its creation [Prob. Code § 21220(c)].

In most cases it will not be necessary to reform a disposition under USRAP because the 90-year wait-and-see rule validates most interests that do not meet the strict test of the common law rule [see Prob. Code §§ 21205(b), 21206(b), 21207(b)]. Because a disposition will not be invalidated until the expiration of the 90-year period, reformation generally will not be necessary until the expiration of that period. However, reformation may be possible before the expiration of 90 years in the case of a class gift when a member of the class is entitled to enjoyment of a share before 90 years have expired [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2515 (1990)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

133 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.17

§ 67.17 Perpetuity Saving Clause

[1] In General

A perpetuity saving clause is a provision in a will, trust, or other instrument that is designed to prevent an inadvertent violation of the rule against perpetuities. It is sometimes also called a termination clause [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2575 (1990)].

Perpetuity saving clauses are typically used to override other provisions of an instrument. A perpetuity saving clause is not part of the dispositive provisions of the instrument but operates independently. It provides that all interests created under the instrument must vest no later than a specified future time, and also typically provides that a trust must terminate at the end of the specified time [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2575 (1990)].

Perpetuity saving clauses typically provide that property interests that have not vested earlier, and powers of appointment that have not been exercised earlier, will terminate 21 years after the death of a specified person (who may be the survivor of a specified class) alive at the time of creation of the interests or powers. These clauses override other provisions of the governing instrument by placing an upper limit of 21 years on vesting or termination [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2575 (1990); see also § 67.32].

[2] "Later of" Provision

Before the enactment of USRAP, the California rule against perpetuities validated a nonvested interest if it was certain to vest or terminate within 60 years after its creation [see former Civ. Code § 715.6]. Under this 60-year alternative rule, some perpetuity saving clauses limited the time for vesting or termination to the later of the traditional 21-year period or the alternative 60-year period.

USRAP accommodates "later of" perpetuity saving clauses. If language in a governing instrument seeks to disallow the vesting or termination of an interest or trust beyond the "later of" a period not exceeding 21 years or another period that exceeds or might exceed 21 years after the death of a person alive at the creation of the trust or other arrangement, that language is inoperative to the extent that it produces a period that exceeds 21 years after a life in being at the creation of the interest or seeks to operate in any similar fashion [Prob. Code § 21209(a)].

In effect, this limits "later of" language to 21 years after a life in being at the creation of the interest, thus transforming a "later of" clause into a traditional 21-year perpetuity saving clause. Therefore, under USRAP, there is no longer any reason to include a "later of" saving clause in an instrument [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2527, 2575-2576 (1990)].

Although USRAP generally applies to nonvested future interests and unexercised powers of appointment regardless of when they were created, the "later of" provisions of Prob. Code § 21209(a) apply only to governing instruments executed on or after January 1, 1992 [Prob. Code § 21209(b)].

[3] Effect of USRAP on Perpetuity Saving Clause

A perpetuity saving clause may be used in any instrument that creates a future interest: for example, a will creating a trust or an instrument creating an inter vivos trust. However, it may be appropriate to include a perpetuity saving clause in a will that does not create a trust if the will creates a power of appointment, a remainder to take effect after the expiration of a life estate, or another interest or power that may vest or be exercised at some time in the future.

The 90-year wait-and-see rule [see Prob. Code §§ 21205(b), 21206(b), 21207(b); see also § 67.16[6]] has greatly reduced the dangers of violating the rule against perpetuities. Because it is improbable that a perpetuities violation will actually occur under USRAP, the question arises whether it is still desirable to include a saving clause or whether reliance on the 90-year wait and see rule is sufficient. Although the likelihood that an interest created in California will be invalidated on perpetuities grounds is now remote, if, after executing a will or trust in California, the testator or settlor moves to a state that has not adopted USRAP, the risk of a perpetuities violation, and the value of a saving clause, could increase dramatically. Even if the testator or settlor does not move to another state, if the will or trust creates an interest that remains nonvested and unterminated at the end of the 90-year waiting period, a problem might arise at that time. Although a court can reform the interest so that it will not violate the rule against perpetuities [see Prob. Code § 21220; see also § 67.16[12]], a judicial proceeding is not an ideal solution to a potential problem that could be avoided by careful drafting.

[4] Alternative Distribution Provision

Every perpetuity saving clause should include an alternative distribution provision that specifies what is to happen if the interest terminates because of the rule against perpetuities. If a trust is terminated because of the saving clause, the trustee should have directions as to how the trust property is to be distributed. As a general rule, the alternative distribution plan should approximate the original distribution plan. The best result will usually be reached by requiring the trustee to distribute the trust property to the income beneficiaries in the same proportion that they are entitled to receive income immediately before the termination. If that proportion is not fixed by the trust instrument, then the instrument can require the trustee to distribute the property to the income beneficiaries as a class.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Energy & Utilities Law
 Conveyances
 Rule Against Perpetuities
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

134 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.18

§ 67.18 Other Time Limitations

[1] Lease of Real Property

Leases of real property are subject to the following time limitations:

- A lease that is to commence at a certain time or on the occurrence of a future event becomes invalid if its term does not actually commence in possession within 30 years [Civ. Code § 715].
- Agricultural leases are limited to a term of 51 years [Civ. Code § 717].
- Leases of municipal property and oil and gas leases are limited to a term of 99 years [Civ. Code §§ 718, 718f].

[2] Honorary Trust

A trust for a noncharitable corporation or unincorporated society, or for a lawful noncharitable purpose, may be performed by the trustee for only 21 years [Prob. Code § 15211]. Although the explicit terms of Prob. Code § 15211 apply to any trust created for a lawful noncharitable purpose, the Law Revision Commission notes indicate the intention to limit this section to honorary trusts [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2518, 2539 (1990)]. When a person transfers property for a stated purpose but without designating a beneficiary, an honorary trust is created. An example of an honorary trust is a devise of property for the erection or maintenance of tombstones, the care of graves, and the saying of masses [see Estate of Hamilton (1919) 181 Cal. 758, 771, 186 P. 587; Estate of Holtermann (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 460, 473, 23 Cal. Rptr. 685].

Another type of honorary trust is a trust for the care and maintenance of pets. A trust for the care of a designated domestic or pet animal may be performed by the trustee for the life of the animal [Prob. Code § 15212]. The trust will terminate on the animal's death [see Prob. Code § 15212, see also Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2540 (1990)].

These time limitations apply whether or not there is a beneficiary who can seek enforcement or termination of the trust, and whether or not the terms of the trust contemplate a longer duration [Prob. Code §§ 15211, 15212].

[3] Termination of Trust at End of Perpetuity Period

Neither the common law rule against perpetuities nor USRAP requires the termination of a trust that continues beyond the permissible perpetuities period. Because the rule against perpetuities applies only to nonvested interests, it has no application to a trust in which all interests are vested [see § 67.16[5][a]].

However, Prob. Code § 15414 sets forth a procedure for discretionary termination of a trust that continues in existence for more than 21 years after the death of a person alive at the time of creation of the trust, or for more than 90 years after the creation of the trust, whichever period is longer [see Recommendation Relating to Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2501, 2541 (1990)]. If a trust continues in existence after the longer of those two periods, a court may terminate the trust on petition of the attorney general or any person who would be affected by the termination, but only if the court finds that the termination would be in the public interest or in the best interest of a majority of the persons who would be affected by the termination [Prob. Code § 15414(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Energy & Utilities Law
Conveyances
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Future Interests
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Trusts
General Overview
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
General Overview
Real Property Law
Oil & Gas

135 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.19

§ 67.19 Estate Tax Treatment of Future Interests

[1] In General

Because a future interest is an interest in property [Civ. Code § 688(1)], it is included in the gross estate of the owner for estate tax purposes [see I.R.C. §§ 2031, 2033 (definition of gross estate; inclusion of property in which decedent had interest)]. A future interest may be included in the gross estate of the transferor or the transferee depending on the nature and extent of the interest transferred or retained. If a future interest is created by a will or trust, the testator or settlor may retain some interest in the property that requires inclusion of the property in the testator's or settlor's estate for estate tax purposes. For example:

- Retained life estate. Property transferred during the decedent's lifetime in which the decedent retained a right to possession or enjoyment is included in the decedent's taxable estate [I.R.C. § 2036(a)]. If a decedent made a lifetime transfer of a remainder interest in property and retained a life estate in all the transferred property, the entire value of the property ordinarily is included in the decedent's taxable estate [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2036-1(a)].
- Reversionary interest. The value of the decedent's gross estate will include the value of all property in which the decedent retained a reversionary interest if, immediately before the decedent's death, the reversionary interest was valued in excess of 5 percent of the value of the whole property and if possession or enjoyment of the property by others could be obtained only by surviving the decedent [I.R.C. § 2037(a); Treas. Reg. § 20.2037-1(c)(2)].
- General power of appointment. The value of all property over which a decedent held a general power of appointment at the time of death is included in the decedent's gross estate [I.R.C. § 2041(a)(2)]. A general power of appointment is a power that is exercisable in favor of the decedent, the decedent's estate, the decedent's creditors, or the creditors of the decedent's estate [I.R.C. § 2041(b)(1)]. It includes all powers that are in substance and effect powers of appointment, regardless of the nomenclature used in creating them and regardless of local property law connotations [Treas. Reg. § 20.2041-(b)(1)].

- Vested remainder. The value of a vested remainder interest owned by a decedent is included in the decedent's gross estate even if the remainder may be defeasible [see Rev. Rul. 67-370, 1967-2 C.B. 324].

- Power of termination. A contingent remainder or power of termination, when defeated by the decedent's death, is not included in the decedent's gross estate [see Rev. Rul. 55-438, 1955-2 C.B. 601].

Future interests included in a decedent's taxable estate are valued at their fair market value on the date of death [Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-1(b), 20.2031-9]. Remainders, reversions, life estates, and terms for years are valued for federal estate and gift tax purposes at values established in the IRS valuation tables [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-10(f)].

Payment of the portion of the estate tax attributable to a reversionary or remainder interest may, at the executor's election, be postponed until six months after termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property [I.R.C. § 6163(a)]. This provision for an extension of time is limited to cases in which reversionary or remainder interests are included in the decedent's gross estate as such, and does not apply to cases in which the decedent created future interests by his or her own testamentary act [Treas. Reg. § 20.6163-1(a)]. After the expiration of the six-month period of postponement, an extension may be granted for reasonable cause for a reasonable period of up to three years [I.R.C. § 6163(b)].

[2] Marital Deduction

Generally a devise of a life estate or other terminable estate to the testator's surviving spouse does not qualify for the estate tax marital deduction [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(1); Treas. Reg. § 20.2056(b)-1(b)]. However, there are three significant exceptions to this rule.

One exception applies if the surviving spouse is given an income interest followed by a general power of appointment [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(5); see Ch. 71, Marital Deduction Trust Provisions, §§ 71.13[5], 71.231]. Another exception applies to spousal interests in charitable remainder trusts [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(8)]. For discussion, see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts .

The most significant exception in current estate planning practice applies to life estates composed of qualified terminable interest property (QTIP), that is, property as to which the surviving spouse is entitled to all of the income for life, payable annually or at more frequent intervals, and which no person has a power to appoint to anyone other than the surviving spouse during the spouse's lifetime [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)]. The typical life estate in real property will qualify for the marital deduction under this second exception if the executor elects to qualify it, because the surviving spouse ordinarily would be entitled to all of the income by statute [Civ. Code § 732; see Civ. Code § 748]. For additional discussion, see Ch. 71, Marital Deduction Trust Provisions .

Whether an interest fails to qualify for the marital deduction because it is a terminable interest is determined by reference to the property interest that actually passed from the decedent. Subsequent conversions of the property are immaterial. For example, if a husband left his entire estate to his wife for life with remainder to their children, the interest that passes to the wife is a nondeductible, terminable interest, even if the wife agrees with the children to take a fractional share of the estate in fee in place of the life interest, or sells the life estate for cash, or acquires the children's remainder interest by purchase or gift [Treas. Reg. § 20.2056(b)-1(e)(3)].

[3] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

Arrangements involving life estates and remainders, or estates for years, may have generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax consequences. For purposes of the GST tax, these arrangements are included in the definition of a trust [I.R.C. § 2652(b)(1)]. If an interest in property held in trust terminates, whether by death, lapse of time, release of a power, or otherwise, in favor of a beneficiary who is assignable to a generation that is two or more generations below that of the transferor, then the transfer is a taxable termination [I.R.C. § 2612(a)(1)]. For example, if a father gives his child a life estate in property with remainder to grandchildren, the tax will be imposed on the value of the property when the child dies and the property passes to the grandchildren [see I.R.C. §§ 2601, 2611, 2612(a)]. However, any remaining portion of a transferor's GST tax exemption [see I.R.C. § 2631(a), (c)] may be used to offset the tax.

Under current law, the GST tax is repealed for generation-skipping transfers after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2264].

For general discussion of the GST tax, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Future Interests
General Overview
Real Property
Law
Estates
Future Interests
General Overview
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
Definition of Gross Estate
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
Taxable Property
General Overview
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
Taxable Property
Property Held at Death (IRC secs. 2033, 2044)
General Overview

136 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.20

§ 67.20 Gift Tax Treatment of Future Interests

[1] In General

Inter vivos gifts of present and future interests, like other gifts of property, are subject to federal gift tax in appropriate instances [see I.R.C. § 2511(a)]. Generally, when a donor transfers less than his or her entire interest in the property, the gift tax is applicable to the interest transferred. However, if the donor's retained interest cannot be measured on the basis of generally accepted valuation principles, the gift tax is applied to the entire value of the property. For example, if a 67-year-old donor transfers a life estate to a 25-year-old donee, with remainder to the donee's issue, or in default of issue, with reversion to the donor, the entire value of the property will be subject to the gift tax [Treas. Reg. § 25.2511-1(e)].

The value of a gift of a future interest is its value at the date of the gift [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-1]. It is not discounted to the present worth of the right to receive the gift at a future time [ Allen v. Commissioner (1944) 3 T.C. 1224, 1231-1232 ].

[2] Annual Gift Tax Exclusion

Gifts of future interests do not qualify for the annual gift tax exclusion [I.R.C. § 2503(b)(1); Treas. Reg. § 25.2503-3(a)]. The entire value of a gift of a future interest must be included in the total amount of taxable gifts for the calendar year in which the gift was made [Treas. Reg. § 25.2503-1]. The Treasury Regulations state that a "future interest" is a legal term, and includes reversions, remainders, and other interests or estates, whether vested or contingent, and whether or not supported by a particular interest or estate, which are limited to commence in use, possession, or enjoyment at some future date [Treas. Reg. § 25.2503-3(a)].

An income interest in property transferred in trust qualifies for the exclusion if it takes effect at the inception of the transfer, but only the income interest qualifies [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2503-3(b)]. For example, if A transfers property in trust, with income to B and remainder to C, the value of the transfer must be divided into the portion allocable to the income interest and the portion allocable to the remainder. This allocation is made according to standard tables [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-5(f)]. The annual exclusion applies only against the value of the income interest so measured, even if the income beneficiary and the remainder beneficiary are the same person.

Special rules apply with respect to gifts to minors. An outright gift to a minor is treated as a present interest, whether or not a guardian has been appointed. Limitations placed on the minor or the guardian by state law are disregarded. Only limitations on present enjoyment created by the form of the gift (as in a transfer in trust) raise the question of the existence of a future interest [ Rev. Rul. 54-500 ]. Even when a trust is created, the transfer may be treated as an outright gift if the powers of the trustee are the same as those of a legal guardian [ Rev. Rul. 59-78 ]. If the trustee's powers exceed those of a guardian, the income interest may qualify as a present interest even if the remainder interest does not [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2503-4(c)]. A transfer for the benefit of a minor will not be treated as a gift of a future interest (and therefore will qualify for the annual exclusion) if the following conditions exist [Treas. Reg. § 25.2503-4(a)]:

- Both the property and the income from the property may be expended by the minor or for the minor's benefit before the minor reaches majority.
- Any portion of the property and the income from the property not expended by the minor or for the minor's benefit will pass to the minor when the minor reaches majority.
- If the minor dies before reaching majority, any portion of the property or its income not disposed of for the minor's benefit will be payable either to the minor's estate or as the minor may appoint in a general power of appointment.

Transfers to trusts that meet these requirements will qualify for the annual exclusion. The entire amount of the transfer, not just the portion allocable to the income interest, qualifies. In effect, transfers to qualifying trusts are treated as an outright gift to the minor if both income and principal are paid as required. An income interest alone that meets these requirements qualifies for the exclusion, even if the remainder interest does not [ Commissioner v. Herr (3d Cir. 1962) 303 F.2d 780, 782 ; Rev. Rul. 68-670, 1968-2 C.B. 413 ].

[3] Marital Deduction

If the income from property is payable to the donor or another individual for life or a term of years, with remainder to the donor's spouse or to the estate of the donor's spouse, a gift tax marital deduction is allowed for the present value of the remainder [Treas. Reg. § 25.2523(a)-1(d), (e)].

The marital deduction is allowed for a spouse's vested indefeasible interest in trust principal and a fixed portion of trust income to be accumulated and paid on termination of the trust, if the spouse's interest would survive as an asset of his or her estate if the spouse dies before termination [ Rev. Rul. 54-470, 1954-2 C.B. 320 ].

If a donor wishes to give his or her spouse a life interest or an income interest for a term of years in property, and at the same time wishes to sell the remainder, the donor may obtain a gift tax marital deduction with respect to the life estate or income term transferred to the spouse if he or she sells the entire remainder first [I.R.C. § 2523(b)(1)].

A donor cannot claim a marital deduction for the gift of a terminable interest to his or her spouse if (1) the donee also transferred an interest in the same property to any person other than his or her spouse (or the spouse's estate) for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, and (2) the other person may thereby possess or enjoy any part of the property after the termination or failure of his or her spouse's interest [I.R.C. § 2523(b)(1); Treas. Reg. § 25.2523(b)-1(b)(1)]. The following terminable interests do not qualify for the marital deduction [Treas. Reg. § 25.2523(b)-1(b)(6)(I), (ii)]:

- A gift of property to the donor's spouse for life, with the remainder interest to the donor's children.

- A gift of property for the benefit of the donor's spouse and the donor's son or daughter, when the income is payable to the spouse for life, and on his or her death the principal is to be distributed to the son or daughter or his or her descendants, but if the son or daughter should die without descendants leaving the spouse surviving, then the principal is to be distributed to the spouse.

It makes no difference for the disallowance of the marital deduction whether the succeeding interest is given to the person other than the donee spouse simultaneously with the transfer to the spouse or at an earlier time [Treas. Reg. § 25.2523(b)-1(b)(2)].

For further discussion, see Ch. 60A, Gifts .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) General Overview Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) Annual Exclusions Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) Completed Gifts Retention of Power Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) Elements Transfers Among Family Members Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) Valuation

137 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.21

§ 67.21 Income Tax Treatment of Future Interests

For income tax purposes, the settlor of a trust is treated as the owner of any portion of a trust in which the settlor has a reversionary interest in either the principal or the income if, as of the inception of that portion of the trust, the value of the reversionary interest exceeds 5 percent of the value of the portion [I.R.C. § 673(a)]. However, the settlor will not be treated as the owner under this rule if the reversionary interest takes effect only on the death of a lineal descendant of the settlor before the descendant reaches age 21 [I.R.C. § 673(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Taxpayer GroupsIncome Taxation of Estates, Trusts & BeneficiariesGrantor Trusts (IRC secs. 671-679)

138 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.22-67.99

[Reserved]

§§ 67.22[Reserved]

139 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.100

§ 67.100 Facts

1. Information about client.
  - a. Name and address.
  - b. Age.
  - c. Marital status; if married, name of spouse.
2. Information about property to be transferred.
  - a. Real property.
    - (1) Street address.
    - (2) Legal description.
  - b. Personal property.
    - (1) Description.
    - (2) Location.
  - c. Nature of client's interest in property (such as fee simple, life estate, or remainder).
  - d. Whether property is separate or community property.

e. If title is held by more than one person:

(1) Form in which title is held (such as tenancy in common, joint tenancy, or other form).

(2) Name, address, and relationship to client of each other person holding title.

(3) Whether interest being transferred is total ownership interest in property or only client's interest (if client owns only partial interest).

f. Whether any deed, will, trust, or other instrument imposes any restriction on client's power to transfer or otherwise dispose of property.

3. Form of transfer.

a. Testamentary or inter vivos.

b. Outright or in trust.

c. Gift or transfer for consideration.

4. Information about transferees.

a. Name and address of each individual who will or could receive interest in property, and type of interest.

b. If transferees are class of individuals, such as children or grandchildren:

(1) Description of class.

(2) Names and birth dates of presently living class members.

5. How transaction will be structured.

a. Time, event, or conditions on which transfer will take effect.

b. Persons entitled to immediate present possession of property when transfer takes effect.

c. Time, events, or conditions on which these persons' interest in property will or may terminate (such as death or other stated event).

d. Persons who will come into possession of property on termination of preceding interest.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Present Estates General Overview

140 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.101

§ 67.101 Documents

1. Deed to real property.
2. Documents evidencing title to personal property.
3. Copy of any will, trust, or other instrument transferring interest in property to client.
4. Copy of any contract or other instrument restricting or otherwise affecting client's right to transfer property.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Deeds General Overview Real Property Law Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview

141 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.102-67.109

[Reserved]

§§ 67.102[Reserved]

142 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.110

§ 67.110 Use of Future Interest Provisions

1. If transfer of personal property is contemplated, determine whether using future interest provision is best method of accomplishing client's goal.

NOTE:

Future interests are most often used in connection with real property and trusts. Although there is nothing prohibiting gifts of future interests in personal property, such gifts are ordinarily impractical. Because it is far more difficult to keep track of personal property than real property, it is difficult to ensure that the property will actually be disposed of in the precise manner intended by the client [see § 67.10[3]].

2. Determine what conditions and limitations, if any, are required to make gift or bequest in manner intended by client.

NOTE:

The client may desire dispositions or conditions that are legally impossible or practically unfeasible, or that attempt to exercise an unreasonable amount of control over the subsequent disposition of the estate. The client should be advised of the undesirability of any such contemplated course of action. For a discussion of illegal conditions, see § 67.13.

a. Conditions precedent, such as:

(1) Prior estate of less than fee simple that must terminate before property vests in beneficiary.

NOTE:

Successive life estates are an example of prior estates that must terminate [see § 67.202].

- (2) Gift dependent on occurrence of some event before property will vest in beneficiary.

NOTE:

An example of such an executory devise is a gift to a child provided he or she completes four years of college by a certain date and, if not, to another child.

- b. Conditions subsequent, such as:

- (1) Provision that if property is not used for specified purpose, title passes to another beneficiary.

NOTE:

An example is a gift of property to a city for as long as it is used for a park [see § 67.221].

- (2) Provision that unless certain events occur, title passes to another beneficiary.

NOTE:

An example is a gift to a child, but if the child has no children living at his or her death, then to another.

- c. Conditions expanding or restricting life tenant's use of property, such as:

- (1) Conditional power to sell, lease, mortgage, or transfer property based on factors such as health, income, or educational requirements.

- (2) Requirement for beneficiary to occupy residential property or operate business.

3. Consider whether there are any unfavorable tax considerations that would preclude use of future interests [see §§ 67.19-67.21].

4. Determine whether proposed disposition complies with rule against perpetuities [see § 67.16].

5. Consider whether alternative methods of disposition are preferable to use of future interests.

NOTE:

Complex future interest provisions are disfavored by courts and tend to be difficult to draft. In addition, these provisions may have undesirable tax consequences [see §§ 67.19-67.21], often create a lack of needed flexibility in dealing with the property, and (in general) tend to result in litigation and to create other difficulties for the recipients. In view of statutory limitations on duration [see § 67.12[3][c]] and judicial rules of construction, these interests may not produce the desired effects. Alternative methods of disposition, therefore, should be considered.

- a. Unconditional transfers.

NOTE:

Unconditional transfers will not provide a transferor with the same measure of control as future interests. However, they are usually more advantageous in almost every other respect. The client should be advised to consider whether a condition is of such importance as to warrant dealing with the problems noted above.

b. Trusts.

NOTE:

Trusts provide a measure of management and control over property and can be used to accomplish most of the same purposes as outright gifts of future interests, while providing more flexibility in many cases. Estate planners often prefer trusts when a large estate is involved. Future interest provisions may be more practical for small estates.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Executory Interests Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Executory Interests

143 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.111

§ 67.111 Selecting Appropriate Present and Future Interests

1. Confirm that planned disposition will dispose of transferor's entire interest (both present interest and future interest) in property.

NOTE:

Except in unusual instances when the transferor intentionally retains an interest in the transferred property, any transfer should dispose of the transferor's entire interest, including the rights to both present and future enjoyment.

2. Determine appropriate present interest.

a. If client wishes to make transfer unconditional and of infinite duration, transfer should be made in fee simple [see § 67.11[2]].

b. If client wishes transfer to be of potentially infinite duration but to terminate on occurrence of particular event or contingency, transfer may be made in fee simple subject to power of termination [see §§ 67.11[3], 67.12[2][c], 67.221].

NOTE:

There are statutory restrictions on the duration of a power of termination [see Civ. Code § 885.010 et seq.; see also § 67.12[2][e]].

c. If client desires property to be used by one or more individuals for life, transfer should be made as one or more life estates followed by one or more remainder interests [see §§ 67.11[4], 67.201-67.209].

3. Determine appropriate future interest.

a. If client wants currently living person to be entitled to possession and enjoyment of property on termination of immediately preceding interest, transferee should be given vested remainder [see §§ 67.12[3][b], 67.200].

b. If client wants currently living person to be entitled to possession and enjoyment of property only on occurrence of particular event, remainder may be made contingent on occurrence of that event [see §§ 67.12[3][c], 67.207].

(1) Transferee's interest may be conditioned on surviving until specified time.

(2) Transferee may be required to perform specified act (if not illegal or harmful).

c. If client wants to transfer property to one transferee, but have ownership shift to another transferee if specified contingency occurs, transfer should be made as shifting executory interest [see §§ 67.12[4], 67.208].

d. If client wants to retain present interest or leave present interest in his or her heirs, but transfer property to qualifying transferee at later date, transfer should be made as springing executory interest [see §§ 67.12[4], 67.220].

4. If client holds preexisting future interest such as reversion following prior inter vivos transfer, provision for disposition of that interest should be made in client's will [see § 67.230].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Executory Interests Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview

144 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.112-67.119

[Reserved]

§§ 67.112[Reserved]

145 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Drafting Guide

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.120

§ 67.120 General Drafting Rules

1. In drafting transfer of present or future interest:

- a. Include language creating desired estates or interests.
- b. Identify beneficiaries.
- c. Specify any conditions or limitations on estates or interests.

2. In drafting future interest provisions, verify that interest created does not violate rule against perpetuities [see §§ 67.16-67.18], and observe following rules:

- a. Reversions arise by operation of law and express language is not required.
- b. Remainders can be created merely by use of "then to" or "with remainder to" or like words.
- c. Powers of termination are created by same language used in creating fee.
- d. Other future interests, such as executory interests, can be created merely by using "then to" or like words.
- e. To avoid uncertainty, precise nature of intended interest should be specified.

3. To create life estate, specify following:

- a. Whether estate will endure for life tenant's life or for life of another specified individual [see § 67.201].
- b. Any special powers granted to or limitations imposed on life tenant [see § 67.206].
- c. Successive life tenants, if desired [see § 67.202].
- d. Any conditions precedent or subsequent [see § 67.13].

4. If client insists on creation of defeasible fee (fee simple subject to power of termination), observe following rules:

- a. Specify that transferor will hold property for "as long as" it is used for desired purpose, or "on condition that" specified condition exists or does not exist [see § 67.221].

NOTE:

At common law, each of the above phrases creates a different defeasible estate. However, by statutory modification of the common law rules, in California use of either of the above alternatives will create a fee simple subject to a power of termination [see Civ. Code §§ 885.010, 885.020].

- b. Grant holder of power right to terminate interest on occurrence of specified condition.
- c. State that transferor intends to create power of termination.
- d. Consider limiting power by:

- (1) Limiting time for exercising power after occurrence of condition.
- (2) Fixing right to exercise power in certain individuals that can be determined.
- (3) Ensuring that power does not vest in large class of persons under legal disability.

NOTE:

Although there are statutory limitations on the duration of powers of termination [see Civ. Code §§ 885.030, 885.040], a transferor is not prohibited from further restricting the scope or duration of the power [see Civ. Code § 885.030(b)]. Depending on the reasons for creating the power, it may be desirable, for flexibility, to limit the duration and scope of the power to the greatest extent not inconsistent with its purpose.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Future Interests
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Future Interests
 Remainder Interests
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities
 Real Property Law
 Estates
 Future Interests
 General Overview

146 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Drafting Guide

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.121

§ 67.121 Description of Beneficiaries

1. If identities of beneficiaries are known, specifically describe them by:
  - a. Stating each beneficiary's full name.
  - b. Stating each beneficiary's relationship to transferor.
  - c. Providing address or other identifying information for beneficiary whose name is common in family or frequently encountered.

2. If identities of all beneficiaries are not known and they constitute class, describe class as specifically as possible by:
  - a. Giving beneficiaries' parentage by full names of father and mother.
  - b. Describing parent as spouse of known parent if one parent is as yet unidentified.
  - c. Confining description of unknown spouse to particular time or location if limitation on class of potential spouses is desired.
  - d. Ascertaining whether any class members have predeceased client and deciding whether any of these members should be expressly included or excluded.
  - e. Describing class by subclasses if class may be broken into subclasses.

NOTE:

For example, grandchildren may be described as the children of specifically named children of the testator ("the children of my son Jason Michael Smith").

3. If there are multiple transferees, specify how property will be apportioned among them; either:

- a. Specified fractional shares [see, e.g., Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.550 (residuary clause in will)]; or
- b. Class gift.

NOTE:

When a will, trust, or other instrument that expresses no contrary intention provides for "issue" or "descendants" to take without specifying the manner in which they are to take, the property will be distributed in the manner provided in Prob. Code § 240. For discussion of this statutory pattern of distribution, see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.15[6][d]. If the drafter of the instrument does not want the property distributed in this manner, it is important to specify an alternative method of distribution. For additional discussion of the alternative patterns of distribution specified in the Probate Code, and advice on drafting remainders to members of a class, see § 67.204; see also Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.15[6][d], and Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.551.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Beneficiaries General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Remainders

147 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Drafting Guide

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.122

§ 67.122 Drafting Condition on Present or Future Interest

1. Ensure that wording of any condition cannot be construed as creating anything other than conditional gift.

NOTE:

Carelessly worded conditions may be construed as creating a covenant, trust, or easement instead of a condition. Conditions should not be stated in precatory language (using words such as "wish" or "desire") because these terms may be construed as a nonbinding request rather than a command [see Estate of Collias (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 587, 589-590, 233 P.2d 554].

2. Draft complete conditions that do not require judicial construction or interpretation.

- a. Include complete information concerning all individuals involved.
- b. Specify occurrence or event relating to condition.
- c. Specify where, when, and how condition must be fulfilled.
- d. State why condition is being imposed.

3. Specify any requirement of survivorship.

NOTE:

Contingencies such as survivorship have significant tax consequences for the transferees. If the condition has not occurred before the transferee's death, the interest is not taxable to his or her estate. If the transferee must survive to take the interest, the interest is not included in his or her estate if he or she does not survive [I.R.C. § 2033].

4. State whether condition must occur before transferee is entitled to possession of property.

5. If condition will cause beneficiary's right to possession to terminate after it has taken effect, draft condition to occur after transfer has taken effect.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Estates in Fee Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests Contingent Remainders Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Interpretation

148 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Drafting Guide

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.123

§ 67.123 Avoiding Violation of Rule Against Perpetuities

1. Select one or more persons as measuring lives for purposes of rule against perpetuities, observing following rules:

a. Persons must be "in being" at time transfer takes effect.

b. Persons should have some relevant involvement in dispositive scheme, although they need not take interest themselves.

(1) Measuring life may take interest, as in gift to individual with remainder to each of that individual's children.

(2) Measuring life may be nontaker, as in gift to children of living individual who is not personally made beneficiary.

c. Number of lives in being may be specified, with transfer of final interest to occur on death of youngest life in being or up to 21 years thereafter.

(1) To maximize permissible period, group of young children may be made measuring lives.

(2) Group should not be so numerous or so situated that evidence of members' deaths is likely to be unreasonably difficult to obtain.

(3) If measuring lives are described as members of class, rather than by name as individuals, verify that class cannot expand after gift takes effect.

NOTE:

A violation of the rule against perpetuities most often arises when grandchildren are used as the measuring lives. Because the class of grandchildren can expand after the transferor's death, a disposition using the class of grandchildren (without any limitation) as the measuring lives violates the rule. To avoid problems, it is recommended that the measuring lives be limited to those class members who are alive when the transfer takes effect or to specifically named individual class members who are alive when the instrument is drafted.

2. Ensure that interest must vest no later than 21 years after death of measuring life [Prob. Code §§ 21205(a), 21206(a), 21207(a)].

a. 21-year period need not relate to minority of persons who are to take on attaining age of majority.

b. 21-year period must follow, not precede, measuring lives.

3. If instrument makes class gift or calls for some other complex property distribution (for instance, creates trust), include perpetuity-saving clause [see §§ 67.17, 67.231-67.233].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Energy & Utilities Law
Conveyances
Rule Against Perpetuities
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities
Real Property Law
Estates
Future Interests
Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

149 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Drafting Guide

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.124-67.199

[Reserved]

§§ 67.124[Reserved]

150 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.200

§ 67.200 Simple Testamentary Gift of Life Estate and Remainder

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used when the testator intends to give a life estate in real property, followed by a remainder to one or more individuals, all of whom are living when the will is drafted. For a discussion of the features and limitations of life estates, see § 67.11[4].

If all of the remainder beneficiaries are living at the time of the gift, the remainder is vested and thus is not subject to the rule against perpetuities [see § 67.16[5][a]].

[b] Tax Considerations

If any intended beneficiary is assignable to a generation that is two or more generations below that of the testator, the generation-skipping transfer tax may apply to the transfer [see I.R.C. § 2601 et seq.; see also § 67.19[3]].

If the life estate is given to the surviving spouse and the testator wants the gift to qualify for the marital deduction as a gift of qualified terminable interest (QTIP) property, the form in § 67.209 may be used in place of this form. For discussion of the marital deduction, see § 67.19[2].

[2] FORM

Simple Testamentary Gift of Life Estate and Remainder

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my sister Jane Brown] for life, with remainder to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification; if two or more individuals are to share in remainder, specify proportions (such as "equally")] on the death of _____ [name of life tenant], the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Remainders Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

151 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.201

§ 67.201 Life Estate Measured by Life of Person Other Than Life Tenant

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used when a testator intends to give an individual a life estate measured by the life of another individual (sometimes known as a life estate per autre vie). Such an estate is permitted in California by statute [Civ. Code § 766]. For a discussion of the features and limitations of life estates, see § 67.11[4].

If all of the remainder beneficiaries are living at the time of the gift, the remainder is vested and thus is not subject to the rule against perpetuities [see § 67.16[5][a]].

[2] FORM

Life Estate Measured by Life of Person Other Than Life Tenant

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my sister Jane Brown] for the life of _____ [name of measuring life and relationship to testator or other means of identification], with remainder to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification; if two or more individuals are to share in remainder, specify proportions (such as "equally")] on the death of _____ [name of measuring life], the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

152 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.202

§ 67.202 Successive Life Estates

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a will provision that gives two or more individuals successive life estates in real property. For a discussion of the features and limitations of life estates, see § 67.11[4].

If all of the remainder beneficiaries are living at the time of the gift, the remainder is vested and thus is not subject to the rule against perpetuities [see § 67.16[5][a]].

[2] FORM

Successive Life Estates

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of first life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my sister Jane Brown] for life, then to _____ [name of second life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification] for life, with remainder to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification; if two or more individuals are to share in remainder, specify proportions (such as "equally")] on the death of _____ [name of second life tenant], the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

153 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.203

§ 67.203 Life Estate With Remainder to Class of Children

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complex will provision that may be used to give a life estate in real property followed by a remainder to a class of children, some or all of whom may not yet be in existence at the testator's death. It avoids problems in complying with the rule against perpetuities by limiting the time of distribution to the maximum period permitted by the rule [see § 67.16]. It provides that the remainder interest will be divided into shares on the death of the life tenant, and illustrates two alternative ways for distributing the remainder. The first alternative provides that each class member will receive his or her share at age 21. The second alternative provides that distribution will be postponed until all class members have reached age 21.

To avoid problems with complying with the rule against perpetuities, this form excludes children born after the life tenant's death. It also provides that the issue of any child who predeceased the life tenant will receive that child's share.

Provisions involving class gifts are more often used in trusts of personal property than in dispositions of real property. Although there is nothing to prevent their use in dispositions of real property, they are often undesirable because they make it difficult to dispose of the property if it becomes desirable to do so.

A variety of trust distribution provisions making class gifts can be found in Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions, and in Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms, as well as in Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms.

[b] Determining Members of Class

Unless the will provides otherwise, a devise of a future interest to a class includes all persons answering the class description at the time the devise is to take effect in enjoyment [Restatement (Second) of Property, §§ 26.1-26.2]. The class can grow after the testator's death and before the devise takes effect in enjoyment [ Estate of Grove (1977) 70

Cal. App. 3d 355, 361, 138 Cal. Rptr. 684 . It can also shrink when a potential class member dies before the future interest vests [ Estate of Haney (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 1, 14-15, 344 P.2d 16 ] .

The appeal of a class gift lies in the fact that it automatically takes into account any increase or decrease in the category of individuals whom the testator wishes to benefit.

[c] Rule Against Perpetuities

A class gift in a will has the potential for violating the rule against perpetuities. If persons not yet born when the testator dies are entitled to participate in a class gift under the will, their interests are subject to the condition precedent of being born. They are thus nonvested interests and therefore subject to the rule against perpetuities [Prob. Code § 21205; see § 67.16[5][a]].

The risk of violating the rule has been greatly reduced by the enactment in California of the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP) [Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.]. Under USRAP, a nonvested future interest is valid, even if it does not meet the strict test of the common law rule against perpetuities, if it actually vests or terminates within 90 years after its creation [Prob. Code § 21205(b); see § 67.16[6]].

USRAP has not completely eliminated the need to consider perpetuity questions. The possibility of a perpetuity violation must still be considered whenever a complex disposition of property to take effect at some future time is planned. Perpetuity violations are most likely to occur when property is disposed of (either outright or in trust) in such a way that full and unconditional ownership of all interests in the property is not to be determined until a long time after the testator's death. When that is the case, the attorney should include a perpetuity-saving clause in the will or trust instrument [see §§ 67.17 (discussion of perpetuity-saving clauses), 67.231-67.233 (sample clauses)].

For a detailed discussion of USRAP, see § 67.16.

[d] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

Giving a remainder interest in property to a class may have generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax consequences. For a discussion of the GST tax, see § 67.19[3].

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Remainder to Class of Children

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of life tenant who is a person living at time gift takes effect, and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my brother John Brown], for life, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description], with remainder to be divided into as many shares as there are children of [name of parent or parents and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my brother John Brown] who are living at the termination of the above-described life estate or who died before termination of the life estate leaving issue surviving at the termination of the life estate. Each living child will receive one share, to be held as a tenant in common, and the issue of each deceased child will take in equal shares the share set aside on account of that deceased child.

[EITHER]

[For distribution to each individual on reaching age 21:]

If any person entitled to all or part of any share has not reached age 21 on termination of the life estate, the share or part of a share to which that person would be entitled must be held in trust by _____ [name of trustee], as Trustee. The income therefrom must be [paid to that person annually or accumulated], and the share, along with [any unpaid income or the accumulated income], must be distributed to that person when he or she reaches age 21.

[OR]

[To postpone distribution until all individuals reach age 21:]

If any person entitled to all or part of any share has not reached age 21 on termination of the life estate, all shares must be held in trust by _____ [name of trustee], as Trustee. The income therefrom must be [paid to each person entitled thereto annually in proportion to each person's respective share or accumulated]. Each person or each deceased person's heirs at law must receive outright the share or part of a share to which that person is entitled, along with [any unpaid income or the accumulated income] attributable to that share, when all living persons for whom a share or part of a share was set aside on termination of the life estate have reached age 21, or when the last living person for whom a share or part of a share was set aside on termination of the life estate dies without having reached age 21.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates Rule in Shelley's Case Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Remainders Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

154 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.204

§ 67.204 Life Estate With Remainder to Grandchildren

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to grant successive life estates to the testator's spouse and children followed by a remainder in favor of the testator's grandchildren who survive the death of the testator's last child to die. It assumes at least one grandchild living at the time the provision is drafted. It grants a share to each of the testator's other grandchildren, ensuring that all grandchildren who meet the survivorship requirement will receive a share, whether or not they are alive when the provision is drafted.

The appeal of a class gift lies in the fact that it automatically takes into account any increase or decrease in the category of individuals whom the testator intends to benefit. For example, if the number of grandchildren might increase after the will is drafted, a class gift to the grandchildren as a class would not require modifying the will each time a new grandchild is born. If a devise is made to persons as a class, the right of persons to take the devise will depend on whether they answer the class description at the time of the testator's death or, in the case of a future interest, at the time the devise is to take effect in enjoyment [see Prob. Code § 21101].

It is possible that a grandchild will fail to meet the survivorship requirement but still leave issue (great-grandchildren). This form accommodates that possibility by providing that issue of any deceased grandchild will receive that grandchild's share on the death of the testator's last child to die, in one of the following ways:

- Under Prob. Code § 240--which requires division into as many equal shares as there are living members of the nearest generation of issue then living, and deceased members of that generation who leave issue then living--each living member of the nearest generation of issue then living would receive one share, and the share of each deceased member of that generation that leaves issue then living would be divided in the same manner among his or her then-living issue.
- Under Prob. Code § 246--which requires division into as many equal shares as there are living children of the designated ancestor, if any, and deceased children who leave issue then living--each living child of the designated ancestor would be allocated one share, and the share of each deceased child who leaves issue then living would be divided in the same manner.

■ Under Prob. Code § 247--which requires division into as many equal shares as there are living members of the nearest generation of issue then living and deceased members of that generation who leave issue then living--each living member of the nearest generation of issue then living would be allocated one share, and the remaining shares, if any, would be combined and then divided and allocated in the same manner among the remaining issue as if the issue already allocated a share and their descendants were then deceased.

Those three options embody stirpital distribution, that is, per stirpes (according to family branching). The alternative is distribution per capita, by which the distributees would take in equal shares and in their individual rights, without reference to their family branches or the right of representation [see Estate of Edwards (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1366, 1372, 250 Cal. Rptr. 779].

[b] Rule Against Perpetuities

Perpetuity problems may arise in two situations. First, if this provision is modified to give a remainder interest to grandchildren of someone other than the testator (such as issue of a brother of the testator), it is possible that not all of the children of that person will be in existence at the time of the testator's death, and thus may not be lives in being for purposes of the rule against perpetuities. Second, if the testator wants to delay distribution beyond the death of his or her last child and until the occurrence of some other stated event, such as until the youngest grandchild reaches age 35, it is possible that all interests might not vest until more than 21 years after a life in being at the creation of the interest.

In either of these situations, the problem may be addressed by using named grandchildren as the measuring lives, since at least one of them can be expected to be living at the time of the testator's death, and by further providing that all interests must vest not later than 21 years after the death of the last-surviving grandchild specifically named in the will. Alternatively, in the first situation described above, the class may be limited to the grandchildren of those children who are alive at the testator's death, thereby permitting the lives of the surviving children to be used as measuring lives. To avoid difficulties, however, it is recommended that this type of provision be avoided.

[c] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

Arrangements involving life estates and remainders, or estates for years, may have generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax consequences. For purposes of the GST tax, this provision creates an interest that is included within the definition of a trust [I.R.C. § 2652(b)(1)]. If an interest in property held in trust terminates, whether by death, lapse of time, release of a power, or otherwise, in favor of a beneficiary who is assignable to a generation that is two or more generations below that of the transferor, then the transfer is a taxable termination [I.R.C. § 2612(a)(1)]. Thus, the property is subject to the tax when the children's life interests terminate in favor of the grandchildren [see I.R.C. §§ 2601, 2611, 2612(a)]. Any remaining portion of the transferor's GST tax exemption [see I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2631(a), (c)] may be used to offset the tax.

For further discussion of the GST tax, see § 67.19[3].

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Remainder to Grandchildren

[paragraph number]. I give to my spouse _____ [name of testator's spouse], for life, then to my children _____ [names of children], for life only, with cross-remainders for life only, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]; remainder equally to my grandchildren _____ [names of all living grandchildren], and to each of my other grandchildren surviving the last of my children to die. If any grandchild, whether or not specifically named in this will, does not survive the death of the last of my children to die, and leaves issue surviving, the share to which that grandchild would have been entitled had he or she survived the death of my last child to die must be distributed to his or her issue _____ [in the manner provided in Probate Code Section _____ (240 or 246 or 247) or per capita and not per stirpes, the issue to take in equal shares, whether or not of the same generation].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Remainders Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

155 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.205

§ 67.205 Life Estate With Power of Sale in Executor

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form creates a life estate in residential property, with a power in the executor to sell the property at the direction of the life tenant and reinvest the proceeds in other residential property that the life tenant wants to occupy. This type of provision gives a measure of flexibility to the disposition and ensures that the life tenant will be able to change residence if desired or if the circumstances so require.

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Power of Sale in Executor

[paragraph number]. I give to _____ [name of life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my child Jane Brown], for life or for as long as he/she wishes to occupy the property as his/her residence, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]. In the event that _____ [name of life tenant] decides not to reside on the property and indicates this intention in writing to my executor or his/her successor, I authorize my executor or his/her successor to sell the property and to apply the proceeds of the sale to the purchase of any other residential property that _____ [name of life tenant] elects to occupy. On the death of _____ [name of life tenant], the above-described property, or any proceeds from the sale thereof together with any property purchased with the proceeds, must be given to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

156 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.206

§ 67.206 Life Estate With Power of Sale in Life Tenant

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to provide a surviving spouse or other individual with a life estate and the power to sell or dispose of all or part of the property. This form places no limitation on that power but may be modified to add limitations, such as to require the assent of a third person or to require a particular disposition of the proceeds.

A number of considerations may dictate granting a life tenant the power to sell the property, particularly when the purpose of the devise is to provide for the life tenant's care, support, and maintenance. Economic conditions, property deterioration, and increased financial burdens may make it worthwhile for the testator to permit a sale at the discretion of the life tenant.

This devise does not amount to a grant of a fee simple estate to the life tenant. The remainder beneficiaries retain their remainder interest subject to the life tenant's power of sale [see Civ. Code §§ 740, 741; see also § 67.14].

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Power of Sale in Life Tenant

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my wife Jane Brown], for life, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]. I authorize him/her to sell and convey this property at any time and subject to whatever conditions he/she deems suitable. I also authorize him/her to invest and reinvest the proceeds from any such sale in any manner and for any purposes that he/she deems proper, without being required to account to any person or court for any part of this property or any part of the proceeds of sale. On the death of _____ [name of life tenant], the above-described property, or any proceeds from the sale thereof together with any property purchased with the proceeds, must be given to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
Life Estates
General Overview
Real Property
Law
Estates
Present Estates
Life Estates

157 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.207

§ 67.207 Life Estate With Alternative Contingent Remainder

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form creates a life estate with remainder to take effect on a specified condition, with an alternative disposition in the event the specified condition fails. Additional alternative dispositions may be created if desired, so that if the first in order fails, the next can be substituted. Thus it is possible to construct a series of alternative contingent remainders so that the testator can control the disposition of the property in the event that one or more of the contingencies fails. This device is specifically authorized by statute in California [see Civ. Code § 696].

The usual type of contingent remainder will vest in both right and enjoyment on a condition precedent. A condition precedent is one that fixes the beginning of the right to possession of the interest [Civ. Code § 708]. Because the interest does not vest until the condition occurs, a contingent remainder is subject to the rule against perpetuities [see § 67.16].

For further discussion of contingent remainders, see § 67.12[3][c].

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Alternative Contingent Remainder

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my son John Brown], for life, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]; remainder to _____ [name of first remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification] on condition that _____ [specify condition which must occur within period permitted by rule against perpetuities, e.g., he/she survives the life tenant], but if this condition should fail, then to _____ [name of alternative remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests Contingent
Remainders Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property
Law Estates Future Interests Remainders Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

158 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.208

§ 67.208 Life Estate With Vested Remainder to Shift on Condition Subsequent

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This provision creates a life estate with vested remainder, subject to divestment on a condition subsequent. The condition subsequent is typically the death of the vested remainder beneficiary without issue. If the vested remainder beneficiary should die without surviving issue, his or her interest in the property terminates in favor of an alternative beneficiary. At common law, the alternative beneficiary's interest is characterized as a shifting executory interest. Such an interest is within California's broad statutory definition of a remainder [see Civ. Code § 769; see also § 67.12[4]].

[2] FORM

Life Estate With Vested Remainder to Shift on Condition Subsequent

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of life tenant and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my son John Brown], for life, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]; remainder to _____ [name of vested remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification], but if _____ [s pecify condition subsequent, e.g., he/she dies without surviving issue], then to _____ [name of alternative beneficiary who will take remainder and relationship to testator or other means of identification].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Remainder Interests Vested
Remainders Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Life Estates General Overview Real Property
Law Estates Future Interests Remainders Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Life Estates

159 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.209

§ 67.209 Life Estate to Surviving Spouse and Direction to Elect Estate Tax Marital Deduction

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that gives the testator's surviving spouse a life estate in real property, with remainder to the testator's children. It is intended for use when the testator wants the gift to qualify for the estate tax marital deduction [see I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7); see also § 67.19[2]].

This form contains a statement that the testator intends that the interest will constitute a qualifying income interest for life for purposes of the estate tax marital deduction under I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7). The interest would qualify for the deduction without this statement, but it is included to alert the executor, who must affirmatively elect the deduction [see I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(B)(v)].

This provision is unnecessary in the case of property held by the spouses in joint tenancy, because such property will pass by operation of law to the surviving spouse on the testator's death.

[b] Availability of Marital Deduction

A transfer will not qualify for the marital deduction if the property passes in the form of a nondeductible terminable interest [I.R.C. § 2056(a), (b)]. For purposes of this rule, a terminable interest is generally an interest that will terminate or fail on the lapse of time or the occurrence or nonoccurrence of some contingency [I.R.C. § 2056(b); Treas. Reg. § 20.2056(b)-1(b)]. Life estates and estates for years are terminable interests [Treas. Reg. § 20.2056(b)-1(b)].

A life estate in property that passes to a surviving spouse is not a nondeductible terminable interest if all of the following conditions exist [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)]:

- The surviving spouse is given the right to receive all of the income from the property, payable at least annually.

- No person has a power to appoint any part of the property to any person other than the surviving spouse during the surviving spouse's lifetime.
- The deceased spouse's executor elects to treat the property on the deceased spouse's estate tax return as qualified terminable interest property (QTIP).

Although this type of interest is most often associated with QTIP trusts [see Ch. 71, Marital Deduction Trusts ], there is nothing in the statute making it inapplicable to other types of life interests as long as they meet all applicable requirements.

[c] Amount of Marital Deduction

A marital deduction is available for the full value of a transfer of qualified terminable interest property [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(A)(I), (ii)]. In the case of a gift of a life estate in a family residence to a surviving spouse, with remainder to the testator's children, the testator's estate can claim an estate tax marital deduction for the full value of the residence, not merely the value of the spouse's life estate. However, the remainder interest does not escape taxation entirely. Instead, the full value of the residence will be taxable in the estate of the surviving spouse on his or her death [I.R.C. § 2044].

Whether the election of the marital deduction will be advantageous, or whether it would be preferable to have the property taxed in the estate of the testator rather than the estate of the spouse, will depend on the economic situations of the spouse and the remainder beneficiaries, the relative sizes of the estates of the testator and the spouse, and the spouse's probable life expectancy.

[d] Requirements for Qualified Terminable Interest Property

In order for a transfer to qualify as qualified terminable interest property, the surviving spouse must have a qualifying income interest for life in the property [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(B)(I)(II)]. The surviving spouse has a qualifying income interest for life if (1) he or she is entitled to all of the income from the property payable annually or at more frequent intervals, and (2) no person has a power to appoint any part of the property to any person other than the surviving spouse (except a power exercisable only at or after the surviving spouse's death) [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(B)(ii)]. In California, an ordinary life estate in real property will qualify for the marital deduction because, by statute, the life tenant is entitled to all of the income [Civ. Code §§ 732, 748].

[e] Election of Marital Deduction

The executor must affirmatively elect to have the marital deduction apply to gifts of qualified terminable interest property [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(B)(I)(III)]. The election is made on the estate's federal tax return and, once made, is irrevocable [I.R.C. § 2056(b)(7)(B)(v)].

This form contains a provision permitting the executor to waive the election if it appears, at the time the estate tax return is filed, that it would be more advantageous to have the gift taxed in the testator's estate rather than in the estate of the surviving spouse.

[f] Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

If the holders of the remainder interest are the testator's grandchildren or other beneficiaries assignable to a generation two or more levels below the testator's generation, the generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax may apply [see I.R.C. §§ 2601, 2611, 2612(a), 2652(b)(1)]. For further discussion of the GST tax, see § 67.19[3].

[2] FORM*Life Estate to Surviving Spouse and Direction to Elect Estate Tax Marital Deduction

[paragraph number]. I give to my spouse, _____ [name of spouse], for life, with remainder to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification; if two or more individuals are to share in remainder, specify proportions (such as "equally")] on the death of _____ [name of spouse], the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]. It is my intent that this life interest to my spouse will constitute a qualifying income interest for life for purposes of the estate tax marital deduction. I direct my executor to elect to have the estate tax marital deduction apply to this gift unless my executor determines, in the exercise of his/her best judgment that sufficient funds to provide for the care, support, and maintenance of my spouse for life in his/her accustomed lifestyle will be available to my spouse without the tax savings that would result from the election, and that a failure to make the election will result in a net tax savings when the probable tax consequences of the election on my spouse's estate are taken into account.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 Estates Created by Trusts & Wills
 Life Estates
 General Overview
 Real Property
 Law
 Estates
 Present Estates
 Life Estates
 Tax Law
 Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
 Deductions
 Marital Deduction (IRC secs. 2056, 2523)
 General Overview

160 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.210

§ 67.210 Surviving Spouse to Have Use of Property Until Death or Remarriage

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that gives the testator's surviving spouse the use of specified real property for life or until remarriage. On the death or remarriage of the surviving spouse, the property will pass outright to specified individuals in fee simple. This type of provision is typically used when the testator wants to ensure that his or her spouse will have a residence for life but expects that this protection will not be necessary if the surviving spouse remarries. The recipients of the property on the death or remarriage of the surviving spouse will typically be the testator's children.

This provision is ineffective respecting property held by the spouses in joint tenancy, because such property will pass by operation of law to the surviving spouse on the testator's death.

[b] Condition in Restraint of Marriage

In drafting this type of provision, the attorney must ensure that the provision is not an illegal restraint on marriage. Conditions imposing restraints on marriage, except on the marriage of a minor, are void [Civ. Code § 710]. For a discussion of the considerations in drafting such a provision, see § 67.13[3].

[2] FORM

Surviving Spouse to Have Use of Property Until Death or Remarriage

[paragraph number]. I give to my spouse _____ [name of spouse], for life or until he/she remarries, the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]. On the death or remarriage of my spouse, this property shall go to _____ [name of remainder beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification]. The intent and purpose of this provision is to provide for my spouse by giving

161 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS

A. Provisions Granting Life Estates and Remainders

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.211-67.219

[Reserved]

§§ 67.211[Reserved]

162 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Other Types of Future Interests

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.220

§ 67.220 Future Interest to Take Effect on Specified Condition

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This provision makes a gift that will take effect only on a specified condition, without the intervention of a preceding estate. At common law, such an interest is called a springing executory interest. Such an interest is within California's broad statutory definition of a remainder [see Civ. Code § 769; see also § 67.12[4]].

This type of transfer is most commonly made inter vivos, such as a gift to a child conditioned on marriage or completion of a college education. If it is made as a testamentary disposition, the testator need not dispose of the preceding estate at the time the interest is created [see Civ. Code §§ 767, 771]. In such a case, the present interest normally remains in the testator's heirs or residuary beneficiaries. As a practical matter, a testamentary trust is likely to be a more desirable method of accomplishing the same result.

In this type of disposition, there is no assurance that the specified condition will ever occur. The testator may wish to consider this eventuality and limit the time for occurrence of the condition, with an alternative disposition if the condition does not occur within the designated period.

[2] FORM

Future Interest to Take Effect on Specified Condition

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of recipient and relationship to donor or other means of identification, e.g., my son John Brown] at the time [specify condition, e.g., he is graduated from college or he first marries], the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust
Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests Executory Interests Real Property Law Estates Future
Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Executory Interests Real Property Law Estates Future
Interests Reverter & Reversions

163 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Other Types of Future Interests

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.221

§ 67.221 Fee Simple Subject to Condition Subsequent (Power of Termination)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This provision creates a fee simple estate that may terminate on a specified condition. Under California law, this interest is classified as a fee simple subject to a condition subsequent [Civ. Code § 885.020]. The right to terminate the fee simple on the occurrence of the condition is known as a power of termination and is a future interest [Civ. Code § 885.020]. When the condition occurs, the fee simple does not revert automatically to the holder of the power; instead, the holder must affirmatively exercise the power by notice or civil action within five years after the occurrence of the condition [Civ. Code § 885.050].

Any estate that would be characterized at common law as a fee simple determinable is deemed enforceable as a fee simple subject to a condition subsequent [Civ. Code § 885.020]. Any future interest that would be classified at common law as a right of reentry or possibility of reverter is enforceable as a power of termination [Civ. Code §§ 885.010, 885.020]. For further discussion of powers of termination, see § 67.12[2][c].

[b] Drafting Considerations

Because they divest an estate on the occurrence of a condition subsequent, powers of termination must be drafted with great care. Conditions subsequent are not favored because they tend to destroy estates, and a provision will not be construed to create a condition subsequent if the language of the provision will bear any other reasonable construction [Hawley v. Kafitz (1905) 148 Cal. 393, 394, 83 P. 248].

PRACTICE TIP:

Defeasible fees may also be undesirable because they place excessive restrictions on the use of the property and create difficulties in alienating it. The attorney should advise the client to seriously consider whether a condition subsequent is of such importance that it should cause termination of the interest. In most cases, a trust can be used to accomplish the same goals while providing considerably more flexibility.

[c] Duration of Power of Termination

Unlike the common law right of reentry or possibility of reverter, a power of termination does not have a potentially infinite duration. The holder of the power must take steps to preserve it every 30 years, otherwise the power will expire [Civ. Code § 883.030; see § 67.12[2][e]].

[d] Estate Tax Consequences

A transfer of a defeasible fee for a charitable purpose subject to a condition that may defeat that purpose will still qualify for the estate tax charitable deduction if the likelihood of the condition's occurring appears to be negligible at the time of the testator's death [Treas. Reg. § 25.2055-2(b)].

[2] FORM

Fee Simple Subject to Condition Subsequent (Power of Termination)

[paragraph number]. I give to _____ [name of recipient, e.g., the City of Paradise], on condition that [state condition, e.g., the property is used as a public park], the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description]. If [restate condition in the negative, e.g., the property is no longer being used as a public park], then my heirs and successors have the power to terminate all of the right, title, and interest in the property granted by this provision, in the manner provided by law for the exercise of a power of termination, and shall thereupon have and enjoy this property as if this gift had not been made.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Estates in Fee Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Right of Entry Real Property Law Estates Present Estates General Overview Real Property Law Estates Present Estates Fee Simple Estates

164 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Other Types of Future Interests

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 67.222-67.229

[Reserved]

§§ 67.222[Reserved]

165 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
C. Miscellaneous Provisions

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.230

§ 67.230 Testamentary Gift of Existing Future Interest

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to make a testamentary gift of an existing future interest. In California, future interests are transferable by succession, will, and inter vivos transfer in the same manner as present interests [Civ. Code § 699]. There is no distinction between vested interests, contingent interests, and executory interests in this regard [ Estate of Ferry (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 776, 785, 13 Cal. Rptr. 180, 361 P.2d 900 ] .

[2] FORM

Testamentary Gift of Existing Future Interest

[paragraph number]. I give to [name of beneficiary and relationship to testator or other means of identification, e.g., my son John Brown] _____ [specify interest, e.g., my power of termination under the will of _____ (specify)] in the real property situated in _____ County, California, commonly known as _____ [address] and more particularly described as follows: [description].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Future Interests General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills Bequests & Devises Real Property Law Estates Future Interests General Overview

166 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
C. Miscellaneous Provisions

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.231

§ 67.231 Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will Without Trust

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a perpetuity saving clause for use in a will that does not create a trust but makes a class gift or otherwise makes a complex distribution of property to vest some time in the future. It is designed to ensure that all dispositions made under the will comply with the rule against perpetuities [see § 67.16]. (A perpetuity saving clause generally is not necessary in a simple will.)

[b] Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities

Since the enactment of the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities [Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.] and its 90-year wait-and-see rule [Prob. Code §§ 20205(b), 21206(b), 21207(b); see § 67.16[6]], the risk of violating the rule against perpetuities in California has become negligible. It is still advisable, however, to include a perpetuity saving clause in any instrument that provides for a complicated disposition of property to take effect at some time in the future.

[c] Purpose of Perpetuity Saving Clause

A perpetuity saving clause is a provision in an instrument that is designed to guard against the inadvertent violation of the rule against perpetuities by setting an overall limit on the time within which interests created under the instrument must vest or terminate [see § 67.17[1]]. A perpetuity saving clause is not part of the dispositive provisions of the instrument but overrides those provisions.

[d] Perpetuity Period

This form states that every disposition made in the will must vest in interest no later than 21 years after the death of a named person, whose life is to be the measuring life [see § 67.16[8]]. To achieve the maximum permissible duration, the measuring life is generally described as the last survivor of the issue of the testator living when the will takes effect.

The chosen period is 21 years. It is not extended by any period of gestation because, in determining whether a nonvested property interest or a power of appointment is valid, the possibility that a child will be born to an individual after the individual's death is to be disregarded [Prob. Code § 21208; see § 67.16[10]].

[e] Reformation of Disposition

This form includes language designed to guide the court should it become necessary to construe or reform a provision in or disposition made by the will. When a court undertakes to reform a provision or disposition, it must be guided by the transferor's manifested plan of distribution [see Prob. Code § 21220; see also § 67.16[12]].

[2] FORM

Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will Without Trust

[paragraph number]. Notwithstanding any other provision of this will, every disposition made in this will must vest in interest (although not necessarily in possession) no later than 21 years after the death of [designate measuring life, e.g., the last survivor of my issue or the last survivor of my spouse and my issue] living at the time of my death. It is my purpose and intent that all dispositions that I have made in this will must vest within the period of the rule against perpetuities and that no interest created or passing under this will may be construed so as to be invalid under that rule.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

167 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
C. Miscellaneous Provisions

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.232

§ 67.232 Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will With Trust

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a perpetuity saving clause that may be used in a will that creates a trust. It provides that any trust created by the will, or by the exercise of any power of appointment created by the will, must terminate no later than 21 years after the death of the last survivor of a designated person alive at the date of the testator's death. The clause is designed to ensure that no power of appointment, income accumulation, spendthrift clause, or other provision of any trust created by the will can be invalidated for failure to comply with the rule against perpetuities.

Since the enactment of the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities [Prob. Code § 21200 et seq.] and its 90-year wait-and-see rule [Prob. Code §§ 20205(b), 21206(b), 21207(b); see § 67.16[6]], the risk of violating the rule against perpetuities in California has become negligible. It is still advisable, however, to include a perpetuity saving clause in any instrument that creates a trust or otherwise provides for a complicated disposition of property to take effect at some time in the future.

Although the rule against perpetuities does not require the termination of a trust within the perpetuity period if all interests in the trust either vest or terminate within that period, it is generally advisable to require the termination of the trust on the expiration of that period. This will ensure that all interests and powers created by the trust will either vest or terminate within the applicable period.

A perpetuity saving clause in a trust instrument should include an alternative distribution provision. If the trust is terminated under the saving clause, the trustee should have directions as to how the trust property is to be distributed. An alternative distribution provision will give the trustee appropriate directions in this regard [see § 67.17[4]].

[2] FORM

Perpetuity Saving Clause for Will With Trust

[paragraph number]. Notwithstanding any other provision of this will, every trust created by this will [add, if applicable: or by the exercise of any power of appointment created by this will] must terminate no later than 21 years after the death of [designate measuring life, e.g., the last survivor of my issue or the last survivor of my spouse and my issue] living at the time of my death. If a trust is terminated under this paragraph, the trustee must distribute all of the principal and undistributed income of the trust to the income beneficiaries of the trust in the proportion in which they are entitled (or eligible, in the case of discretionary payments) to receive income immediately before the termination. If that proportion is not fixed by the terms of this will, the trustee must distribute all of the trust property to the persons then entitled or eligible to receive income from the trust _____ [specify pattern of distribution, e.g., outright in a manner that, in the trustee's opinion, will give effect to my intent in creating the trust, the trustee's decision to be final and incontestable by anyone or as a class, in the manner provided in California Probate Code Section _____ (240 or 246 or 247) or in equal shares, regardless of whether all of these persons are members of the same generation].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Testamentary Trusts Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills General Overview

168 of 168 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 67 FUTURE INTERESTS AND PERPETUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
C. Miscellaneous Provisions

25-67 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 67.233

§ 67.233 Perpetuity Saving Clause for Inter Vivos Trust Instrument

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a perpetuity saving clause that may be used in an inter vivos trust instrument. It provides that the trust created by the instrument, or by the exercise of any power of appointment created by the instrument, must terminate no later than 21 years after the death of a designated person alive at the date of execution of the instrument. The clause is designed to ensure that no power of appointment, income accumulation, spendthrift clause, or other provision of any trust created by the instrument will be invalidated for failure to comply with the rule against perpetuities.

The perpetuity saving clause in this form limits the vesting of interests or the duration of trusts to 21 years after the death of a named person, whose life is to be the measuring life [see § 67.16[8]]. To achieve the maximum permissible duration, the measuring life is generally described as the last survivor of the issue of the settlor who are living when the instrument takes effect. In the case of an inter vivos trust this will be the date of creation of the trust. However, the date of creation of the trust will depend on whether the trust is initially revocable or irrevocable. If the trust is irrevocable from the outset, the date of creation of the trust for perpetuity purposes is the date the trust is funded. If the trust is initially revocable, the date of creation of the trust for purposes of the perpetuity saving clause should not be the date the trust is funded or the trust instrument is executed but should be the date the trust becomes irrevocable.

In the usual case, it will serve no useful purpose to determine the measuring life until the trust becomes irrevocable. For example, if a married settlor with two living children executes a revocable living trust instrument, and later has two additional children, it is unlikely that the settlor would wish to measure off the perpetuity period from the date the trust instrument was executed, because that would exclude the third and fourth children from the group of measuring lives. It is far more probable that the settlor would want to include all of the children as measuring lives.

[2] FORM

Perpetuity Saving Clause for Inter Vivos Trust Instrument

[paragraph number]. Notwithstanding any other provision of this instrument, any trust created by this instrument or by a power of appointment created by this instrument that has not terminated earlier must terminate no later than 21 years after the death of the last survivor of _____ [name individuals, e.g., the settlor and the issue of the settlor living on the date of execution of this instrument or describe class of persons whose lives are to be measuring lives, e.g., the beneficiaries of the trust who are living on the date of execution of this instrument]. If a trust is terminated because of the preceding sentence, the trustee must distribute the principal and undistributed income of the trust to the income beneficiaries of the trust in the same proportion that they are entitled to receive income immediately before the termination. If that proportion is not fixed by the terms of this instrument, distribution must be to the persons entitled to receive income immediately before the termination [specify distribution plan, e.g., in the manner provided in California Probate Code Section 240]. If there is no person who is entitled to receive income immediately before the termination, the trustee must distribute the principal and undistributed income to [name distributees or specify class, e.g., the issue of the settlor then surviving in the manner provided in California Probate Code Section 240].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Irrevocable Living Trusts Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Revocable Living Trusts

1 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide 68.syn

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.syn Synopsis to Chapter 68: DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

§ 68.01 California Statutes

§ 68.02 Federal Statutes

§§ 68.03-68.04 [Reserved]

§ 68.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

§ 68.06 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

[2] Additional Text References

§§ 68.07-68.09 [Reserved]

§ 68.10 Durable Power of Attorney

[1] Definition

[2] Governing Law

[a] Power of Attorney Law

[b] General Law of Agency

[3] Types

[a] Powers for Property Management

[b] Powers for Personal Care

[c] Powers for Health Care

[d] General Powers

[e] Special Powers

[f] Immediately Effective Powers

[g] Springing Powers

[h] Powers Executed on Printed Forms

[i] Statutory Form Powers

[j] Attorney-Drafted Powers

[4] Purposes

[5] Uses in Estate Planning

[a] As Complements of Wills and Trusts

[b] Advantages

[c] As Substitute for Conservatorship

[d] As Substitute for Revocable ("Living") Trust

§ 68.11 Creation

[1] Execution

[2] Acknowledgment

[3] Witnesses

[4] Date

[5] Words Showing Durability

[6] Capacity to Create Power of Attorney

§ 68.12 Qualifications of Attorney in Fact

[1] Capacity to Contract

[2] Age

[3] Sound Mind

[4] Effect of Designating Unqualified Person

§ 68.13 Selection of Attorney in Fact

[1] Importance

[2] Ability and Willingness to Act

[3] Maturity

[4] Knowledge of Principal's Affairs

[5] When Power of Attorney Has Short Duration

[6] Trustworthiness

[7] Artificial Entity

§ 68.14 Authority of Attorney in Fact

[1] Scope

[2] Authority That May Not Be Granted

[a] Acts That Require Principal's Personal Attention

[b] Authority to Commit Fraud on Principal

[c] Wills

[3] Authority That Must Be Specifically Granted

[4] Revocation of Authority

[a] Revocation by Principal

[b] Revocation by Principal's Legal Representative

[c] Protection From Liability After Revocation

[d] Revocation by Dissolution or Annulment of Marriage

[5] Modification of Authority

[a] By Principal

[b] Protection From Liability After Modification

[6] Termination of Authority

- [a] As Provided in Power of Attorney
- [b] By Extinction of Subject or Fulfillment of Purpose
- [c] On Occurrence of Specified Events

[7] Delegation of Authority

[8] Inconsistent Authority

§ 68.15 Duties of Attorney in Fact

- [1] Duty to Follow Principal's Instructions
- [2] Duty to Act
- [3] Duty to Keep Records and Account
- [4] Duty to Keep Principal's Property Separate and Distinct
- [5] Duty to Deliver Possession of Property on Termination of Authority
- [6] Duty to Avoid Conflicts of Interest
- [7] Duty to Observe Standard of Care

§ 68.16 Relations of Attorney in Fact With Third Parties

- [1] Third Persons Required to Respect Authority
- [2] Reliance on Attorney in Fact's Authority
- [3] Affidavit of Good Faith
- [4] Certified Copy of Power
- [5] Special Rule for Financial Institutions

§ 68.17 Compensation of Attorney in Fact

- [1] Legal Authority for Reasonable Compensation
- [2] Rarely Paid in Practice
- [3] Estate Planning Advantages of Compensation
- [4] Reimbursement for Expenses

§ 68.18 Multiple Attorneys in Fact

- [1] Statutory Authorization
- [2] Authority of Remaining Attorney in Fact When Vacancy Occurs
- [3] Liability

§ 68.19 Successor Attorneys in Fact

- [1] Statutory Authorization
- [2] Liability

§ 68.20 Resignation of Attorney in Fact

- [1] Notice to Principal or Conservator
- [2] Written Agreement With Designated Successor
- [3] Court Order
- [4] No Limitation in Power of Attorney

§§ 68.21-68.99 [Reserved]

§ 68.100 Facts

§ 68.101 Documents

Scope

§§ 68.102-68.109 [Reserved]

§ 68.110 Conflicts of Interest

Scope

§ 68.111 Client's Personal and Financial Situation

Scope

§ 68.112 Potential Attorneys in Fact

Scope

§ 68.113 When Power of Attorney Will Become Effective

Scope

§ 68.114 Duration of Power

Scope

§ 68.115 Powers of Attorney in Fact

Scope

§ 68.116 Compensation of Attorney in Fact

Scope

§§ 68.117-68.129 [Reserved]

§ 68.130 Execution of Durable Power of Attorney

Scope

§ 68.131 Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney

Scope

§§ 68.132-68.139 [Reserved]

§ 68.140 Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management

Scope

§§ 68.141-68.199 [Reserved]

§ 68.200 Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Other Personal Affairs (Long Form)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Powers From Uniform Statutory Form

[c] Power Over Specific Item or Class of Property

[d] Power to Create, Modify, or Revoke Trust

[e] Gifts

[f] Nomination of Conservator

[g] Restrictions on Property Management Powers

[h] Restrictions on Power to Make Gifts

[i] Restrictions on Power to Deal With Insurance Policies

[j] Restrictions on Powers Over Irrevocable Trust Created by Attorney in Fact

[k] Determination of Incapacity

[l] Compensation

[m] Exculpation of Attorney in Fact

[n] Power to Petition Court

[o] Governing Law

[p] Execution

[q] Acknowledgment

[r] Recording Fact of Attorney's Advice

[2] Form

Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Other Personal Affairs (Long Form)

§ 68.201 Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Personal Affairs (Short Form)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Powers

[c] Power Over Specific Item or Class of Property

[d] Gifts

[e] Determination of Incapacity

[f] Compensation

[g] Exculpation of Attorney in Fact

[h] Power to Petition Court

[i] Governing Law

[j] Execution and Acknowledgment

[k] Recording Fact of Attorney's Advice

[2] Form

Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Personal Affairs (Short Form)

§§ 68.202-68.209 [Reserved]

§ 68.210 Notice of Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Principal's Right to Revoke Power of Attorney

[c] Revocation by Incapacitated Principal

[d] Revocation by Conservator or Guardian

[e] Revocation of Attorney in Fact's Authority

[f] Notice of the Revocation

[g] Recordation

[2] Form

Notice of Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney

§ 68.211 Transmittal Letter for Notice of Revocation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Effect of Giving Notice

[2] Form

Transmittal Letter for Notice of Revocation

§ 68.212 Statement Warning Principal of Legal Consequences of Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Warning Regarding Legal Consequences of Power

[2] Form

Statement Warning Principal of Legal Consequences of Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management

§ 68.213 Principal's Statement Regarding Warning

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Statement Regarding Warning

[2] Form

Principal's Statement Regarding Warning

Reviewed by Albert G. Handelmann*

FOOTNOTES:

(n122)Footnote *. Mr. Handelman is a member of the State Bar of California and a partner in the law firm of Merrill, Arnone & Handelman in Santa Rosa, California. He received his B.S. degree, cum laude, from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, and his J.D. degree from the University of Southern California. Mr. Handelman is a certified specialist in Probate, Estate Planning, and Trust Law (California State Board of Legal Specialization), and a Fellow of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel. He has frequently written and spoken throughout California for both professional and industry groups on a variety of subjects in the field of estate planning and administration. He is an officer and a director of the Redwood Empire Estate Planning Council.

2 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelmann

Scope

Reviewed by Albert G. Handelmann* Scope

This chapter covers durable powers of attorney for property management. It is designed as an introduction to the subject and a practical guide to the proper use of these devices.

The Legal Background discusses the rules of agency that apply to durable powers of attorney for property management, with emphasis on the comprehensive set of statutes known as the Power of Attorney Law. It describes how durable powers of attorney for property management are used in modern estate planning practice. It includes a detailed discussion of rules governing the creation of durable powers of attorney and the qualifications, selection, authority, duties, and resignation of attorneys in fact. It also discusses the relations of attorneys in fact with third parties, the compensation of attorneys in fact, and rules governing multiple and successor attorneys in fact. The Transaction Guide provides checklists for a variety of purposes relating to durable powers of attorney.

The Forms part of the chapter includes complete forms for the creation of durable powers of attorney for property management. It also includes statements that may be used to warn the principal of the legal consequences of signing a durable power of attorney, as well as forms that may be used to revoke a power of attorney.

Durable powers of attorney for property management are powerful and flexible devices. They are widely used by modern estate planners to complement the more traditional estate planning tools, wills and trusts. An attorney who prepares a durable power of attorney for a client should explore the client's need for other estate planning services. Recognizing that durable powers of attorney are but one weapon in the attorney's estate planning arsenal, the attorney should familiarize himself or herself with the broad principles of estate planning discussed elsewhere in this publication.

A durable power of attorney for property management is an integral part of many estate plans, and as such, its provisions must be coordinated with the client's other estate planning documents. For example, a living trust may authorize the trustee to cooperate in specified ways with an attorney in fact acting under a durable power of attorney. Knowledge of those provisions is essential if the planner is to properly tailor the power of attorney to dovetail with the living trust.

Ch. 60, Estate Planning, is an introduction to the subject of estate planning and a guide to other chapters in this publication that cover particular aspects of that subject, such as wills, trusts, lifetime gifts, and contracts that affect wills and trusts.

For coverage of nondurable powers of attorney, see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney .

Durable powers of attorney for health care are now classified as a species of "advance health care directive" under California law, and, as such, are governed by the provisions of the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.] rather than the Power of Attorney Law. Advance health care directives, including powers of attorney for health care, are now covered in Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives .

FOOTNOTES:

(n123)Footnote *. Mr. Handelman is a member of the State Bar of California and a partner in the law firm of Merrill, Arnone & Handelman in Santa Rosa, California. He received his B.S. degree, cum laude, from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, and his J.D. degree from the University of Southern California. Mr. Handelman is a certified specialist in Probate, Estate Planning, and Trust Law (California State Board of Legal Specialization), and a Fellow of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel. He has frequently written and spoken throughout California for both professional and industry groups on a variety of subjects in the field of estate planning and administration. He is an officer and a director of the Redwood Empire Estate Planning Council.

3 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.01

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.01 California Statutes

General rules of agency.

Definition of agency. Civ. Code §§ 2295-2300.

Authority of agents. Civ. Code §§ 2304-2326.

Obligations of principal to persons dealing with agent. Civ. Code §§ 2330-2339.

Obligations of agents to third persons. Civ. Code §§ 2342-2345.

Delegation of agency. Civ. Code §§ 2349-2351.

Termination of agency. Civ. Code §§ 2355-2357.

Natural Death Act. Health & Safety Code §§ 7185-7194.5.

Power of Attorney Law.

Definitions and general provisions. Prob. Code §§ 4000-4054.

Powers of attorney generally. Prob. Code §§ 4100-4310.

Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney. Prob. Code §§ 4400-4465.

Judicial proceedings concerning powers of attorney. Prob. Code §§ 4500-4545.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Agents Distinguished General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

4 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.02

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.02 Federal Statutes

Federal estate tax.

Imposition and rate of tax. I.R.C. § 2001.

Unified credit against estate tax. I.R.C. § 2010.

Transfers with retained life estate. I.R.C. § 2036.

Transfers taking effect at death. I.R.C. § 2037.

Revocable transfers. I.R.C. § 2038.

Powers of appointment. I.R.C. § 2041.

Proceeds of life insurance. I.R.C. § 2042.

Marital deduction. I.R.C. § 2056.

Federal gift tax.

Imposition of tax. I.R.C. § 2501.

Rate of tax. I.R.C. § 2502.

Taxable gifts. I.R.C. § 2503.

Unified credit against gift tax. I.R.C. § 2505.

Transfers in general. I.R.C. § 2511.

Gifts to spouse. I.R.C. § 2523.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes General Overview

5 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.03-68.04

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.03[Reserved]

6 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.05

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

Sturgul, Financial Durable Powers of Attorney (With Form), 41(5) Prac. Law. 21 (1995).

Berry & Kesterson, Your Tax Practice and Durable Powers of Attorney, 7 Prac. Tax Law. 23 (Spring 1993).

Montgomery & Wright, Beware the Hidden Dangers of Durable Power of Attorney, Pt. 2, 105 L.A. Daily J. 7 (Dec. 17, 1992).

Montgomery & Wright, Beware the Hidden Dangers of Durable Power of Attorney, Pt. 1, 105 L.A. Daily J. 7 (Dec. 16, 1992).

Montgomery & Wright, Durable Power of Attorney Can Be Used in Tax Planning, 105 L.A. Daily J. 7 (Dec. 16, 1992).

Schlenger, et al, Gifts Made Under a Durable Power of Attorney Are Ruled Revocable, 9 Est. Plan. 370 (1992).

Schlesinger & Scheiner, Estate Planning Using Powers of Attorney, 131 Tr. & Est. 38(7) (1992) .

McGovern, Trusts, Custodianships, and Durable Powers of Attorney, 27 Real Prop., Prob. & Tr. J. 1 (1992).

Grobe, Planning for Incapacity: Use of Durable Powers of Attorney and Other Devices, 22 Beverly Hills B. Ass'n J. 311 (Fall 1988).

Lombard, 10 Reasons Why You Should Be Recommending the Durable Power of Attorney to Clients, 1 Prob. & Prop. 28 (1987).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

7 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.06

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.06 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

California Legal Forms(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

Ch. 60A, Gifts.

Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms .

Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney .

Ch. 106, Anatomical Gifts .

California Wills and Trusts(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 3, Selecting the Proper Estate Planning Devices.

Ch. 151, Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management.

Modern Estate Planning(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 36, Estate Planning Goals.

Ch. 37, Using Revocable Living Trusts.

[2] Additional Text References

California Durable Power of Attorney Handbook (Cal. C.E.B. 1995).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

8 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.07-68.09

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.07[Reserved]

9 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.10

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.10 Durable Power of Attorney

[1] Definition

A durable power of attorney is a written instrument by which one person authorizes another to act as his or her agent notwithstanding (or as a result of) the first person's subsequent incapacity [see Prob. Code §§ 4022 ("power of attorney" defined), 4124 ("durable power of attorney" defined)]. The person who confers the authority is the "principal" [Prob. Code § 4026], and the person on whom the authority is conferred is known as the "attorney in fact" [Prob. Code § 4014].

The fact that a durable power of attorney is exercisable when the principal is incapacitated is its distinguishing characteristic. When a nondurable power of attorney is created, the authority of the attorney in fact generally terminates if and when the principal loses the capacity to contract [Prob. Code § 4155(a); see § 68.11[6] (capacity to contract)], although the attorney in fact may have ostensible authority to act under a nondurable power when a third person who has no actual knowledge of the principal's incapacity acts in good faith under the power [Prob. Code § 4304(b)]. Under a durable power of attorney, in contrast, acts done by the attorney in fact while the principal is incapacitated have the same effect as if the principal were not incapacitated; that is, they inure to the benefit of, and bind, both the principal and the principal's successors in interest in the same way that they would have if the principal had full capacity [Prob. Code § 4125].

[2] Governing Law

[a] Power of Attorney Law

In California, powers of attorney are subject to a special set of statutes known as the Power of Attorney Law, which became operative on January 1, 1995 [Civ. Code § 2400; Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.]. This law restructured the former power of attorney statutes [see former Civ. Code §§ 2400-2514, repealed Jan. 1, 1995, by Stats. 1994, ch. 307] and relocated them in the Probate Code. The Power of Attorney Law was located in the Probate Code to emphasize the estate planning characteristics of the durable power of attorney and to assist attorneys and the general public in distinguishing powers of attorney executed for personal reasons from powers of attorney used in business transactions [Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 120-121 (1994)].

For the effect of a power of attorney provision making a power subject to the Power of Attorney Law, see § 68.200[1][o].

[b] General Law of Agency

All powers of attorney, both durable and nondurable, are forms of the agency relationship [see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 121 (1994)] and, as such, subject to the general rules governing agents and agency set forth in the Civil Code [see Civ. Code §§ 2019-2022 (agents), 2295-2400 (agency)]. These rules apply to powers of attorney in all cases except those in which the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code §§ 4000-4948; see also [a], above] provides a specific rule [Prob. Code § 4051].

[3] Types

[a] Powers for Property Management

A durable power of attorney that gives the attorney in fact authority to make decisions relating to the principal's property is described as a durable power of attorney for property management [see Prob. Code § 4123(b)]. Durable powers of attorney for property management are widely used in California and elsewhere to provide for the management of property that the principal cannot, or chooses not to, manage personally. When a durable power for property management is also a "springing power," it provides a mechanism whereby the principal's property may be managed by the attorney in fact at some future time or in the event of a future contingency, such as the principal's disability or incapacity [see Prob. Code § 4030; see also [g], below].

A durable power of attorney that gives the attorney in fact authority with regard to the principal's property may grant authority to make decisions concerning all or part of the principal's real property, personal property, or both; it may confer authority over property owned by the principal at the time the power of attorney is executed or property that is not acquired until a later time; and it may confer authority over property that is located outside California, as well as that located within the state [Prob. Code § 4123(b)].

When a power of attorney grants authority with regard to all the principal's property, there is no need to describe each item or parcel of property as to which authority is granted [Prob. Code § 4123(b)].

[b] Powers for Personal Care

A durable power of attorney that gives the attorney in fact authority to make decisions relating to the personal care of the principal is described as a durable power of attorney for personal care [see Prob. Code § 4123(c)]. Decisions that the attorney in fact may make pursuant to a durable power of attorney for personal care include determining where the principal will live, providing meals, hiring household employees, providing transportation, handling mail, and arranging recreation and entertainment for the principal [Prob. Code § 4123(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Prob. Code § 4123(c), regarding durable powers of attorney for personal care, is new and its provisions are not yet fully understood. For example, an attorney in fact acting under a durable power of attorney for property management may need to handle business-related mail, although only the section on the durable power of attorney for personal care specifically mentions handling mail. That section probably refers only to handling personal mail, not business-related mail. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

A durable power of attorney for personal care is similar in some respects to a power of attorney for health care, but should be distinguished from it. While a durable power of attorney for personal care authorizes the attorney in fact to make many decisions of a personal nature, it does not authorize the attorney in fact to make health care decisions for the principal unless it contains specific authority to that effect, and unless the power of attorney meets the special requirements for powers of attorney for health care [ see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives ].

[c] Powers for Health Care

Powers of attorney for health care allow a designated agent to make health care decisions for the principal to the same extent that the principal could make health care decisions if the principal had the capacity to do so [Prob. Code § 4683(a)]. The agent is also authorized by statute to make decisions that may be effective after the principal's death, including making dispositions under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7150 et seq.; see Ch. 106, Anatomical Gifts ], authorizing an autopsy [see Health & Safety Code § 7113], and directing the disposition of the principal's remains [Prob. Code § 4683(b); see Health & Safety Code § 7100 et seq.]. These powers are subject to any limitations contained in the durable power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4683]. Powers of attorney for health care are an important personal planning tool for clients and should be discussed with every client in connection with preparation of the client's estate plan.

Prior to July 1, 2000, durable powers of attorney for health care, like other durable powers of attorney, were governed by the general provisions of the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4100 et seq.], augmented by special provisions applicable specifically to durable powers of attorney for health care [former Prob. Code § 4600 et seq., repealed eff. July 1, 2000]. Effective July 1, 2000, however, powers of attorney for health care are no longer governed by the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4050(a)(1)]. Instead, they are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.; see Prob. Code § 4680], which incorporates the Uniform Health Care Decisions Act [Prob. Code § 4670 et seq.].

The Health Care Decisions Law uses the term "power of attorney for health care" rather than "durable power of attorney for health care." Under the Health Care Decisions Law, powers of attorney for health care are treated as a species of "advance health care directive" [Prob. Code § 4605], a term that also includes any written or oral direction by a patient concerning a health care decision by that patient, including selection and discharge of health care providers, approval or disapproval of medical treatments and procedures, and directions to provide or withhold all forms of health care [see Prob. Code §§ 4605, 4617, 4623 (applicable definitions)]. Under the Uniform Health Care Decisions Law, a power of attorney is legally sufficient if it satisfies the requirements for an advance health care directive under Prob. Code § 4673 [Prob. Code § 4680]. These requirements are discussed in Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, which also contains a form for "advance health care directive" that includes a power of attorney for health care. Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, also contains discussion of the use of powers of attorney for health care in estate planning.

Even when powers of attorney for health care were governed by the Power of Attorney law, the standard practice was to create a separate instrument for a durable power of attorney for health care, rather than combining it with a durable power of attorney for property management. Since these two types of powers are now governed by completely different statutes, the use of separate instruments is essential.

The Health Care Decisions Law applies to all powers of attorney for health care, regardless of whether they were executed before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(a)]. However, the Health Care Decisions Law does not affect the validity of any durable power of attorney for health care executed before July 1, 2000, as long as it was valid under prior law [Prob. Code § 4665(d)]. Similarly, any durable power of attorney executed on a printed form that was valid under prior law is also valid, regardless of whether it was executed before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(e)].

Proceedings concerning durable powers of attorney for health care commenced before July 1, 2000, are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law unless the court determines that application of a particular provision of that law would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the proceedings or the rights of the parties and other interested persons, in which case the particular provision does not apply, and prior law instead applies [Prob. Code § 4665(c)]. All proceedings involving durable powers of attorney for health care commenced after July 1, 2000, are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4665(b)].

[d] General Powers

A power of attorney that gives the attorney in fact authority to act on behalf of the principal with respect to all lawful subjects and purposes, and that does not limit the attorney in fact's authority to a particular act, subject, or purpose, is generally referred to as a "general" power [see Prob. Code § 4123(a)]. When a principal creates a general power of attorney, the attorney in fact has all the authority to act that a person having the capacity to contract may carry out through an attorney in fact specifically authorized to take the action [Prob. Code § 4260; see Civ. Code § 1556 (capacity to contract); see also § 68.11[6]].

It is theoretically possible for a general power of attorney to be a durable power. In practice, however, general powers of attorney are almost always nondurable, and durable powers are almost always "special" [see [e], below]. Although durable powers of attorney for property management often confer very broad authority on the attorney in fact, such a power of attorney, by definition, limits the attorney in fact's authority to the management of the principal's property and, if uncoupled with other authority, would thus be classified as a special power [see Prob. Code § 4262; see also [e], below].

For coverage of nondurable powers of attorney, see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney .

[e] Special Powers

A power of attorney that limits the authority of the attorney in fact to particular acts, subjects, or purposes, is described as a "special" power of attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4123(a), 4262]. When a power of attorney limits the attorney in fact's authority in this way, the attorney in fact has the authority granted in the power, as limited in the power, and the authority incidental, necessary, or proper to carry out the granted authority [Prob. Code § 4262]. As already noted [see [d], above], durable powers of attorney are almost always special powers.

[f] Immediately Effective Powers

A power of attorney may, by its terms, become effective on execution. When a power of attorney is drafted in this way, it is referred to as an "immediately effective" power, to distinguish it from a "springing" power [see [g], below]. An immediately effective power of attorney may be either durable or nondurable.

[g] Springing Powers

A power of attorney is described as a "springing" power if, by its terms, it is to become effective at a specified future time or on the occurrence of a specified future event or contingency, such as the subsequent incapacity of the principal [Prob. Code § 4030]. Although a springing power may be either durable or nondurable [Prob. Code § 4030], powers of this kind are usually durable. Many prospective principals feel that, although they are currently quite capable of conducting their own affairs, they may need the assistance of another person at some time in the future; such people will often wish to authorize an attorney in fact to perform acts or make decisions for them only at such time as they are unable to do those acts or make those decisions personally. A springing power may be an attractive estate planning vehicle for people of this kind [see [5], below (estate planning uses for durable powers of attorney)].

Despite its inherent attractiveness, the springing power of attorney has traditionally been viewed with some suspicion by estate planners. Springing powers are not authorized in all states, and in particular cases it may be difficult to determine when the "triggering" event described in the power (typically the principal's incapacity) has occurred. For this reason, third parties have in the past been hesitant to rely on the authority of an attorney in fact designated in a springing power [see Recommendations Relating to Powers of Attorney, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 401, 410 (1989)].

In California, the Power of Attorney Law addresses this problem by providing that in a springing power the principal may designate one or more persons who, by a written declaration under penalty of perjury, have the power to determine conclusively whether the specified event or contingency has occurred [Prob. Code § 4129(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

It is not clear from the statute whether the person or persons holding this power must be named or may simply be described by the role they play. For example, can the durable power of attorney simply make reference to the principal's treating physician, or must a specific doctor be named? Caution suggests specifically naming the person or persons to hold the power in cases where that is possible. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

The power to make this designation may be conferred on the attorney in fact named in the power or some other person, and it may authorize the designated person to make the determination either alone or jointly with other persons [Prob. Code § 4129(a)]. However, the Power of Attorney Law also provides that this method is not the exclusive method for determining when the attorney in fact's authority becomes exercisable [Prob. Code § 4129(d)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Although this authority must be used cautiously, its availability greatly enhances the usefulness of springing powers, and makes their increased use more likely. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[h] Powers Executed on Printed Forms

Although durable powers of attorney are important documents with potentially far-reaching consequences, many durable powers are executed on printed forms without the assistance of attorneys. Recognizing this, the Power of Attorney Law requires that, when a printed form is used to execute a durable power of attorney for property management (other than the statutory form power of attorney) and the principal does not have the advice of legal counsel, the form must contain a special notice printed in not less than 10-point boldface type [Prob. Code § 4128(a)]. This notice contains warnings regarding the nature of a durable power of attorney, the scope of the attorney in fact's authority under it, and the importance of carefully reading and understanding the document before signing it [Prob. Code § 4128(a)]. The text of the required notice is set forth in Prob. Code § 4128(a) and reproduced in full in § 68.212[2].

Similar (but not identical) notices are required on statutory form powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4401; see [i], below].

[i] Statutory Form Powers

The Power of Attorney Law includes the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney Act [see Prob. Code §§ 4400-4465], which includes the text of a complete power of attorney for property management [see Prob. Code § 4401; see also Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney ]. When this form is properly completed and the principal's signature is acknowledged, the form is legally sufficient for all of the purposes stated in it [Prob. Code §§ 4401, 4402]. The text of the statutory form power of attorney is presented in Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney.

The Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney includes a list of powers that may be conferred on (or withheld from) the attorney in fact by simply initialing (or not initialing) spaces on the form [Prob. Code § 4401]. The Uniform Act contains a set of statutory provisions construing the powers that may be granted under the statutory power [see Prob. Code §§ 4450-4465]. One of those provisions describes the general powers that are conferred on the attorney in fact when the statutory form is used [see Prob. Code § 4450], while additional provisions construe particular items in the list of powers set forth on the form [see Prob. Code §§ 4451-4463]. This provides the statutory form with both certainty and precision, and is one of its advantages. However, the listed powers, together with the statutory provisions construing those powers, may also be copied into an attorney-drafted form and thus achieve the same certainty and precision while permitting custom tailoring of the document [for an attorney-drafted form that adopts this approach, see § 68.200[2]].

The Uniform Statutory Form has the advantages of simplicity and ease of use. However, it shares the disadvantages of most other printed forms, in that it is somewhat rigid and does not offer the same opportunities as an attorney-drafted power for tailoring the language of the power to the client's individual needs and preferences.

Before January 1, 1991, the text of a statutory "short form" power of attorney was set forth in the Civil Code [see former Civ. Code §§ 2450-2473, as enacted by Stats. 1984, ch. 602, amended by Stats. 1985, ch. 403, and repealed by Stats. 1990, ch. 986]. Notwithstanding this repeal, the Power of Attorney Law includes a provision validating powers of attorney executed under the old "short forms." If a form complied with the repealed sections, a power of attorney executed on the old form will be as valid if executed after the repeal as it would have been if executed before [Prob. Code § 4409(a)]. This rule is designed to protect persons who unwarily use forms printed before the date of the repeal without knowledge that the supporting statutes have been repealed [Recommendations Relating to Powers of Attorney, 20 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 401, 457 (1990)].

[j] Attorney-Drafted Powers

A durable power of attorney, like a nondurable power of attorney, may be drafted by an attorney and specially tailored to the client's particular needs and desires. When an attorney drafts a durable power of attorney, however, it is not always necessary for the attorney to draft an entirely original form. Many of the provisions of the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4400-4465; see also [i], above] are carefully crafted and quite useful. In many cases, these provisions may profitably be incorporated into attorney-drafted forms.

In all cases, a principal who executes a power of attorney prepared by an attorney will (or at least should) have the advantage of the attorney's advice and counsel to make sure that the power meets the principal's needs and desires and is drafted and executed in compliance with all of the statutory formalities.

[4] Purposes

A power of attorney may be created for any lawful purpose or purposes [Prob. Code § 4123(a)]. The Power of Attorney Law specifically provides that an attorney in fact may be granted authority with regard to the principal's property, personal care, or any other matter [Prob. Code § 4123(a)].

[5] Uses in Estate Planning

[a] As Complements of Wills and Trusts

Durable powers of attorney are widely used in modern estate planning practice. Indeed, many estate planners consider durable powers of attorney essential complements of wills and trusts in the completion of effective and complete estate plans.

[b] Advantages

The advantages of durable powers of attorney lie in their versatility, their flexibility, and the comparative ease with which they can be used. A client who executes one or more durable powers of attorney may rest secure in the knowledge that, in the event of a life-threatening illness or injury, his or her wishes regarding the management of his or her affairs will be respected.

[c] As Substitute for Conservatorship

A client who executes a durable power of attorney for personal care [see Prob. Code § 4123(c); see also [3][b], above], or a durable power of attorney for property management [see Prob. Code § 4123(b); see also [3][a], above], may also have some assurance that, in the event the client becomes disabled, it will not be necessary to apply to the court for the protection of a conservator. Conservatorships are cumbersome, slow, sometimes demeaning, and often very costly judicial proceedings. They have the potential not only of seriously depleting the client's financial resources, but also of violating the client's privacy and fomenting disputes among the client's family members.

[d] As Substitute for Revocable ("Living") Trust

A properly executed durable power of attorney for property management may also make it unnecessary for a client to establish a revocable ("living") trust. While a living trust may be effective to provide for the management of trust property if the client later becomes incapacitated, a living trust will be effective for that purpose only as to property that has been properly transferred to the trustee. The trustee will have no authority over property that has not been formally subjected to the trust. In contrast, a properly drafted durable power of attorney will be effective to give the attorney in fact authority over all of the client's property, or any portion of the property specified in the power. There is no need to formally transfer any property to the attorney in fact; rather, the attorney in fact may exercise authority over the property at the time and on the terms and conditions specified by the client in the power. For detailed coverage of revocable ("living") trusts, see Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms .

A client who wishes to execute both a living trust and a durable power of attorney for property management may do so. The client may wish, for example, to create a living trust for the principal purpose of avoiding probate of the trust assets after death. The client may wish to retain title to some assets, while transferring others to the trustee under the trust. If the client later becomes incapacitated, the trustee (or successor trustee, if the client was the original trustee) will have authority to manage the trust assets, and the attorney in fact will have authority to manage the client's other assets. In appropriate case, the same person may act both as trustee (or successor trustee) and attorney in fact.

Such an arrangement need not be regarded as superfluous or redundant, since the formalities required for transferring assets to the trustee will be different than the formalities required for subjecting assets to the authority of the attorney in fact, even when one person is acting in both capacities. Similarly, the terms, conditions, and times under which the attorney in fact's authority will be effective may differ markedly from those under which the trustee's (or successor trustee's) authority will be effective. This will be particularly true if the durable power of attorney is a "springing power" [see Prob. Code § 4030; see also [3][g], above]. When that is the case, the attorney in fact will have no authority over the client's assets until occurrence of the "triggering" event (for example, the client's incapacity). In contrast, the trustee must normally be given authority over trust assets before such a triggering event occurs (that is, before the client becomes incapacitated). However, a durable power may in appropriate cases give the attorney in fact authority to transfer some or all of the client's assets to a trust after such an event has occurred [see Prob. Code § 4264(b)], or even to create a trust and fund it with the client's property [see Prob. Code § 4264(a), (c); see also Prob. Code § 4401 (uniform statutory form power of attorney)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Only in unusual situations will a client make a conscious decision to not put important assets into his or her living trust. However, in some cases, this will happen. For example, when the client is about to sell or refinance a piece of real property, the decision may be made to omit that asset from the initial funding of the trust, waiting to put the replacement property into the trust, or waiting until the refinancing transaction has been completed. The chance that the client may become incapacitated before the funding occurs (or may forget to put the asset into the trust) makes this power an important one. In other cases, the trust may be executed before all of the formal funding documents are completed and executed. Again, the attorney in fact's power to fund the trust can salvage the estate plan in the event that the principal should become incapacitated before the trust is formally funded. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

10 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.11

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.11 Creation

[1] Execution

Every durable power of attorney must be signed [Prob. Code § 4121(b)]. If the principal is able to sign personally, he or she should do so. If the principal is unable to sign personally, however, the power may be signed by some other person in the principal's presence and at the principal's direction [Prob. Code § 4121(b)].

[2] Acknowledgment

Every durable power of attorney must be acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two qualified witnesses [Prob. Code § 4121(c)]. Acknowledgment is not required unless the statutory witness requirements [see [3], below] are not satisfied. In many cases, however, it will be easier to acknowledge the instrument before a notary public than to comply with the statutory requirements for witnesses. For the statutory form for a certificate of acknowledgment, see Civ. Code § 1189 and §§ 68.200[2], 68.201[2], and 68.202[2].

PRACTICE TIP:

Although the law clearly makes a witnessed durable power of attorney as valid as one that has been acknowledged before a notary public, many third parties will more readily honor the acknowledged document. For this reason, many planners insist that every durable power of attorney be notarized, even if it is unlikely to ever be offered for recording. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[3] Witnesses

If the power of attorney is signed by witnesses and not acknowledged before a notary public [see Prob. Code § 4121(c); see also [2], above], there must be two witnesses [Prob. Code § 4121(c)]. Both of the witnesses must be adults [see Fam. Code § 6501 (adult as person 18 years of age or older)], and neither may be the attorney in fact designated in the power [Prob. Code § 4122(a), (b)]. Further, each witness must witness either the signing of the instrument by the principal or the principal's acknowledgment of the signature or the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4122(c)].

The term "acknowledgment, used with respect to powers of attorney in Prob. Code §§ 4121 and 4122, is not defined. These statutes also do not state that the principal must show the power of attorney to the witnesses. Therefore, nothing in these statutes precludes a principal from acknowledging the document orally [ Estate of Rabinowitz (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 635, 638-639, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 ] .

The statute also does not specify when the witnesses must sign the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4121(c); Estate of Rabinowitz (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 635, 639, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 ] . In Estate of Rabinowitz [ Estate of Rabinowitz (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 635, 639, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 ] , the court held that attestations made after the decedent's death by the decedent's mother and cousin that decedent had made an acknowledgment of a power of attorney naming his brother as his attorney in fact satisfied the Probate Code requirement of signatures by two witnesses, when the brothers exercise of the power of attorney benefited charity and there was no evidence of fraud in the witnesses post-death signatures [ Estate of Rabinowitz (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 635, 639-642, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 ] .

[4] Date

Every power of attorney must contain the date of its execution [Prob. Code § 4121(a)]. The date may be essential to establish when the power of attorney became effective or, in the case of a power of attorney that terminates at the end of a specified term, to determine when the power terminates.

[5] Words Showing Durability

A durable power of attorney must contain some words showing the intent of the principal that the authority conferred on the attorney in fact will be exercisable notwithstanding the principal's subsequent incapacity [see Prob. Code § 4124]. While this intention is typically shown by a statement that the power of attorney "shall not be affected by subsequent incapacity of the principal" or "shall become effective upon the incapacity of the principal" [Prob. Code § 4124(a), (b); see § 68.10[3][g]], any similar words will be sufficient to create a durable power [Prob. Code § 4124(c)].

[6] Capacity to Create Power of Attorney

Under the Power of Attorney Law, any natural person having the capacity to contract may execute a power of attorney and thus act as a "principal" [Prob. Code § 4120; see Prob. Code §§ 4022, 4026]. In California, all persons are capable of contracting, except minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons deprived of civil rights [Civ. Code § 1556]. A minor is generally any person who is under the age of 18 years [Fam. Code § 6500; see Fam. Code § 6701].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

11 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.12

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.12 Qualifications of Attorney in Fact

[1] Capacity to Contract

Any person having the capacity to contract is qualified to act as an attorney in fact in California [Prob. Code § 4200]. This includes artificial entities such as corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies, and associations, as well as natural persons [see Prob. Code § 56 ("person" defined); see also Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 126 (1994)].

[2] Age

Although the Power of Attorney Law does not explicitly require that an attorney in fact be an adult, it implicitly imposes this requirement on any natural person selected to act as an attorney in fact by requiring that the attorney in fact have the capacity to contract [see Prob. Code § 4200]. Minors (unemancipated persons under the age of 18 years) are not capable of contracting in California [Civ. Code § 1556; see § 68.11[6]].

[3] Sound Mind

A natural person selected to serve as attorney in fact must also be of sound mind [see Prob. Code § 4200 (capacity to contract); Civ. Code § 1556 (persons of unsound mind incapable of contracting)].

[4] Effect of Designating Unqualified Person

If a principal designates an unqualified person as attorney in fact, neither the designation nor any acts of that attorney in fact will affect the immunities of third persons provided for in the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4201; see Prob. Code §§ 4300-4310 (rules governing relations of attorneys in fact with third persons); see also § 68.16]. Similarly, such a designation will not relieve the unqualified person of any applicable duties to the principal or the principal's successors [Prob. Code § 4201; see Prob. Code §§ 4230-4238 (duties of attorneys in fact); see also § 68.15].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

12 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.13

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.13 Selection of Attorney in Fact

[1] Importance

The selection of an appropriate attorney in fact is essential if the principal is to derive all of the anticipated benefits of the durable power of attorney.

[2] Ability and Willingness to Act

An attorney in fact must be both able and willing to act on the principal's behalf.

PRACTICE TIP:

While it should go without saying, before signing a durable power of attorney the client should discuss with each potential attorney in fact his or her willingness to act in that capacity. Having the initial named attorney in fact sign the durable power of attorney shows his or her willingness to act. However, caution should be exercised, when appropriate, to avoid unintentionally imposing on the attorney in fact the duty to act in a given situation under the provisions of Prob. Code § 4230(c) [ see § 68.15[2]]. Possibly just as important, having that person's signature appear on the document may help to convince a third party to honor the durable power of attorney when it is first presented by the attorney in fact. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

If the attorney in fact is to be a natural person, a person who has a genuine interest in the principal's welfare and who can be trusted to assume responsibility for important decisions regarding the principal's personal and business affairs will be most suitable. It is also important to select a person who has the ability to assume responsibility of the type called for under the power of attorney. A person who has some experience in managing property or making financial decisions ordinarily will be preferable to a person who has no such experience.

[3] Maturity

Maturity is often a desirable quality in an attorney in fact. However, the principal should not lose sight of the time period during which the attorney in fact will be called on to act. Decisions under some durable powers of attorney may have to be made at distant times in the future. This will often be the case if the power is a "springing" power [see Prob. Code § 4030; see also § 68.10[3][g]] under which the attorney in fact's authority will be exercisable only after the principal has become incapacitated. In cases of this kind, the age and health of the prospective attorney in fact should be considered. It will often be desirable to select an attorney in fact who is no older than the principal, or perhaps quite a few years younger, rather than one who is considerably older than the principal, as an older person may be unable to carry out the duties called for under the power after the "triggering" event has occurred.

[4] Knowledge of Principal's Affairs

All other things being equal, a person who has an intimate knowledge of the principal's affairs will often be the best choice for attorney in fact. A spouse or an adult child will often satisfy this requirement. If there is no spouse or adult child, a close relative or trusted friend may be a good choice, providing that the relative or friend is both willing and able to act as attorney in fact.

PRACTICE TIP:

The selection and "education" of an attorney in fact should be handled in the same way one would treat the selection of any fiduciary. First, the individual's permission to be named, and his or her consent to the appointment should be obtained. Second, the principal should explain to the attorney in fact his or her goals, attitudes about money and his or her family, and personal situation. There is a side benefit to encouraging one's clients to have such a conversation with potential appointees. Because this discussion may take place years before the attorney in fact will ever be called on to act, and, because such personal topics will be discussed, the client will be required to think carefully about the person he or she will select to fill this role. This enhances the likelihood that the client will select an appropriate individual to act as attorney in fact. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[5] When Power of Attorney Has Short Duration

If the power of attorney is a "special" power [see Prob. Code §§ 4123(a), 4262; see also § 68.10[3][e]] and it is not contemplated that the attorney in fact's duties will be of long duration (for example, when the power authorizes the attorney in fact to carry out a single transaction, or a relatively short series of transactions, such as the sale of a house or some other piece of property), the choice of a suitable attorney in fact may be somewhat less onerous than it would be when the power of attorney is "open-ended" and the attorney in fact's duties may extend over a long period of time. Even in cases of this kind, however, it is essential to choose an attorney in fact who is both willing and able to act in that capacity.

[6] Trustworthiness

Trustworthiness is always an essential characteristic of any attorney in fact, while a conflict of interest between the attorney in fact and the principal should always be regarded as a disqualifying factor [see Prob. Code § 4232 (attorney in fact's duty to avoid conflicts of interest); see also § 68.15[6]].

[7] Artificial Entity

In rare cases, a principal may select an artificial entity to act as attorney in fact. For example, a bank or trust company (perhaps one that has also agreed to serve as trustee under a trust created by the principal) may in some cases be willing to act as attorney in fact under a durable power of attorney. When an artificial entity is selected, however, ability and willingness to serve are no less important than when a natural person is selected.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

13 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.14

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.14 Authority of Attorney in Fact

[1] Scope

Under general agency rules, an attorney in fact may be authorized to do any acts that the principal might do, except those requiring the principal's personal attention [Civ. Code § 2304; see [2][a], below (acts requiring principal's personal attention)]. Under the Power of Attorney Law, a principal may grant authority to an attorney in fact to act on the principal's behalf with respect to all lawful subjects and purposes, or with respect to one or more express subjects or purposes [Prob. Code § 4123(a)]. The attorney in fact may be granted authority with regard to the principal's property, personal care, or any other matter [Prob. Code § 4123(a)].

Once appointed, an attorney in fact has authority to do everything necessary or proper and usual, in the ordinary course of business, to effect the purpose of the agency [Civ. Code § 2319].

[2] Authority That May Not Be Granted

[a] Acts That Require Principal's Personal Attention

The general rules of agency set forth in the Civil Code contain rules that limit the exercise of authority by an agent and, hence, by an attorney in fact. The first of these rules is that an agent cannot be authorized to do any acts to which the principal "is bound to give his personal attention" [Civ. Code § 2304]. Acts to which the principal is required to give personal attention are generally acts that require the principal's knowledge, consent, or judgment [Restatement (Second) of Agency § 17]. Thus the principal may not generally authorize an agent to create a work of art that the principal is required to create, to give testimony or an affidavit that requires the principal's personal knowledge, to enter into a marriage contract on the principal's behalf, or to cast the principal's vote in a public election [see Restatement (Second) of Agency § 17, Illustrations, cmts. b, c].

[b] Authority to Commit Fraud on Principal

The Civil Code rules also provide that an attorney in fact can never have authority to do an act that constitutes a "fraud upon the principal" [Civ. Code § 2306]. Acts that fall within the terms of this proscription include taking the principal's funds under false pretenses, making secret profits from transactions entered into as the principal's agent, refusing to account for the principal's funds, withholding information from the principal, and converting the principal's property to the agent's own uses [ Kinert v. Wright (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 919, 925, 185 P.2d 364 ].

[c] Wills

The Power of Attorney Law forbids the principal from authorizing the attorney in fact to make, publish, declare, amend, or revoke the principal's will [Prob. Code § 4265(a)]. Note that this same restriction does not apply to dealings with a trust created by or to be created for the principal. Indeed, such powers are frequently granted [see [3], below].

[3] Authority That Must Be Specifically Granted

The Power of Attorney Law includes a rule limiting the authority that a principal may give an attorney in fact to act with respect to trusts, gifts, disclaimers, and certain other matters. This rule does not expressly prohibit a principal from granting the specified authority; rather it provides that the attorney in fact may not perform specified acts unless the power of attorney expressly authorizes the attorney in fact to do so. Acts that fall within the scope of this rule are the following [Prob. Code § 4264]:

- Creating, modifying, or revoking a trust.
- Funding a trust with the principal's property if the trust was not created by the principal or by a person authorized to create a trust on the principal's behalf.
- Making or revoking a gift of the principal's property in trust or otherwise [see Estate of Stephens (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 665, 672, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 358, 49 P.3d 1093 (this provision prohibits attorneys in fact from making gifts of principal's property to themselves); Estate of Huston (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1721, 1726, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217 (power of attorney conferring authority to sell, exchange, transfer, or convey property for principal's benefit does not authorize conveyance as gift or without substantial consideration; conveyance outside scope of conferred power is void)].
- Exercising the right to make a disclaimer on the principal's behalf (although this rule does not limit the attorney in fact's authority to disclaim a detrimental transfer to the principal with the approval of the court).
- Creating or changing survivorship interests in the principal's property or in any property in which the principal may have an interest.
- Designating or changing the designation of beneficiaries to receive any property, benefit, or contract right on the principal's death [see Schubert v. Reynolds (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 100, 106, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285 (attorney in fact who executed trust providing life estate in the decedent's residence to herself with remainder to decedent's grandchildren attempted to change beneficiary designation in violation of Prob. Code § 4264(f))].
- Making a loan to the attorney in fact.

[4] Revocation of Authority

[a] Revocation by Principal

A principal may revoke the authority of the attorney in fact in accordance with the terms of the power of attorney (if it includes any terms relating to revocation) or simply by informing the attorney in fact orally or in writing that the attorney in fact's authority is revoked, or when and under what circumstances it is revoked [Prob. Code § 4153(a)]. The right of the principal to revoke the attorney in fact's authority in writing may not be limited by any provision of the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4153(a)(2)].

The principal may also revoke the attorney in fact's authority by revoking the power itself, either in accordance with its own terms (if it includes any terms relating to revocation) or simply by a writing stating that the power is revoked [Prob. Code § 4151(a)]. The right of the principal to revoke a power of attorney by a writing cannot be limited by any terms of the power of attorney itself [Prob. Code § 4151(a)(2)]. For further discussion, see § 68.210[1][b].

[b] Revocation by Principal's Legal Representative

If, after a principal executes a durable power of attorney, a court of the principal's domicile appoints a conservator or guardian of the principal's estate, or some other fiduciary charged with the management of the principal's property, the conservator, guardian, or other fiduciary may revoke the attorney in fact's authority by a writing advising the attorney in fact that his or her authority is revoked, or when and under what circumstances it is revoked [Prob. Code § 4153(a)(3)]. However, such a revocation is effective only when it is approved by the court [Prob. Code § 4206]. For further discussion, see § 68.210[1][c], [d].

[c] Protection From Liability After Revocation

The revocation of a power of attorney or of the attorney in fact's authority under a power is apparently effective when made. However, third persons (and possibly also attorneys in fact) who do not have notice of such a revocation have some protection from liability. Prob. Code §§ 4151(b) and 4153(b) provide that an attorney in fact or third person who does not have notice that the power or the attorney in fact's authority under the power has been revoked is protected from liability as provided in Prob. Code §§ 4300-4310. By their terms, however, Prob. Code §§ 4300-4310 apply only to third persons. For example, Prob. Code § 4303(a) provides that a third person who acts in good faith reliance on a power of attorney is not liable to the principal or any other person for so acting if the power of attorney is presented to the third person by the attorney in fact designated in the power, if the power appears on its face to be valid, and if it includes a notary public's certificate of acknowledgment [ see § 68.11[2]] or is signed by two witnesses [ see § 68.11[3]]. Prob. Code §§ 4300-4310 contain no similar protection for an attorney in fact who acts in good faith reliance on a power of attorney without notice that it, or the attorney in fact's authority under it, has been revoked. Notwithstanding this, it may be successfully argued that the general language of Prob. Code §§ 4151(b) and 4153(b) described above provides some protection for the attorney in fact in cases of this kind.

PRACTICE TIP:

Because there is only limited protection for the principal in the event that the attorney in fact continues to act after the power has been revoked, caution dictates that written notice of the revocation be delivered to all third parties with whom the principal believes the attorney in fact might do business. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[d] Revocation by Dissolution or Annulment of Marriage

If a principal designates his or her spouse as attorney in fact and, after executing the power, the principal's marriage to the attorney in fact is dissolved or annulled, the principal's designation of the former spouse as an attorney in fact is revoked [Prob. Code § 4154(a)]. However, if the principal later remarries the attorney in fact, the attorney in fact's authority will be revived [Prob. Code § 4154(b)].

[5] Modification of Authority

[a] By Principal

A principal may modify a power of attorney in accordance with its terms (if it contains any terms relating to modification) or by executing an instrument in the same manner as the original power [Prob. Code § 4150(a); see Estate of Huston (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1721, 1727, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217 (principal's oral assent to unauthorized transaction by attorney in fact is not sufficient to ratify transaction; because power of attorney must be in writing, any act agent performs acting under power of attorney must be ratified in writing to be valid)].

[b] Protection From Liability After Modification

The modification of a power of attorney, like the revocation of a power [see [4], above], apparently is effective when made, but the attorney in fact and third persons are protected from liability for acting in good faith reliance on the power when they have no notice that it has been modified. This protection is set forth in Prob. Code § 4150(b), which provides that an attorney in fact or third person who does not have notice of the modification is protected from liability as provided in Prob. Code §§ 4300-4310. These sections include a provision explicitly protecting third persons from liability when specified conditions have been met [see Prob. Code § 4303; see also [4][c], above], but no similar provision protecting the attorney in fact from liability. Notwithstanding this, it may be successfully argued that the general language of Prob. Code § 4150(b) described above provides some protection for the attorney in fact in cases of this kind.

[6] Termination of Authority*[a] As Provided in Power of Attorney

The Power of Attorney Law provides that the authority of an attorney in fact may be terminated "in accordance with the terms of the power of attorney" [Prob. Code § 4152(a)(1)]. Under this rule, the attorney in fact's authority will terminate if, for example, the power of attorney specifies a term, and the term has expired, or if the power specifies that the authority extends only to a specific transaction, or may be exercised only with respect to particular property, and the transaction is completed or the principal divests himself or herself of the property.

[b] By Extinction of Subject or Fulfillment of Purpose

The Power of Attorney Law also provides that the authority of the attorney in fact is terminated by "extinction of the subject or fulfillment of the purpose of the power of attorney" [Prob. Code § 4152(a)(2)]. This rule is closely related to the rule under which the attorney in fact's authority terminates in accordance with the terms of the power of attorney [see [a], above]. Like that rule, this rule would terminate the attorney in fact's authority if, for example, the power of attorney limited the attorney in fact's authority to a particular transaction and that transaction was completed, or if the power conferred authority only with respect to specific property owned by the principal and the principal later divested himself or herself of that property. Other similar circumstances would also result in the termination of the attorney in fact's authority under this rule [see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 136-137, 176-177 (1994)].

[c] On Occurrence of Specified Events

The Power of Attorney Law also provides that the attorney in fact's authority will terminate on the happening of specified events [Prob. Code § 4152(a)(3)-(9); see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 136-137, 176-177 (1994)]:

- Revocation of the attorney in fact's authority in accordance with the rules specified in Prob. Code § 4153 [see [4], above].

- The death of the principal, except as to specific authority permitted by statute to be exercised after the principal's death [see, e.g., Prob. Code §§ 4304(a) (good faith reliance on attorney in fact's authority after principal's death), 4305(a) (good faith reliance on attorney in fact's authority after issuance of affidavit); see also [4][c], above; § 68.16[2], [3]].
- Removal of the attorney in fact, either by the principal or by a court.
- Resignation of the attorney in fact.
- Incapacity of the attorney in fact (except that a temporary incapacity suspends the attorney in fact's authority only during the period of the incapacity).
- Dissolution or annulment of the marriage of the attorney in fact and principal (although the attorney in fact's authority will be revived if the attorney in fact and principal later remarry) [see Prob. Code § 4154(b); see also [4][a], above].
- Death of the attorney in fact.

[7] Delegation of Authority

An attorney in fact may delegate authority to perform mechanical acts to one or more persons qualified to exercise the delegated authority [Prob. Code § 4205(a)]. However, any authority delegated pursuant to this rule may also be revoked at the option of the attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4205(a)].

The delegation of authority by an attorney in fact does not relieve the attorney in fact of any responsibility or duty to the principal [ see § 68.15 (duties of the attorney in fact)]. On the contrary, an attorney in fact who delegates authority remains fully responsible to the principal for the exercise or nonexercise of the delegated authority [Prob. Code § 4205(b)].

[8] Inconsistent Authority

If a principal grants inconsistent authority to one or more attorneys in fact [ see § 68.18 (multiple attorneys in fact)] in two or more powers of attorney, the authority granted last controls to the extent of the inconsistency [Prob. Code § 4130(a)]. This rule cannot be limited or varied by any term in a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4130(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActTypes of AuthorityEstate, Gift & Trust LawPowers of AttorneyGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawPowers of AttorneyDurable PowersEstate, Gift & Trust LawPowers of AttorneyInterpretation

14 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.15

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.15 Duties of Attorney in Fact

[1] Duty to Follow Principal's Instructions

To the extent reasonably practicable under the circumstances, an attorney in fact has a duty to keep in regular contact with the principal, to communicate with the principal, and to follow the principal's instructions [Prob. Code § 4234(a)]. In appropriate circumstances, the attorney in fact may disobey the principal, but only with court approval [Prob. Code § 4234(b)].

If the principal becomes wholly or partially incapacitated, or if there is a question concerning the principal's capacity to give instructions to and supervise the attorney in fact, the attorney in fact may consult with a person previously designated by the principal for this purpose, and may also consult with and obtain information needed to carry out the attorney in fact's duties from the principal's spouse, physician, attorney, or accountant, or from a member of the principal's family, or any other person, business entity, or government agency, with respect to matters to be undertaken on the principal's behalf and affecting the principal's personal affairs, welfare, family, property, and business interests [Prob. Code § 4235].

A person from whom information is requested has a duty to disclose relevant information to the attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4235].

[2] Duty to Act

Under the Power of Attorney Law, a person who is designated as attorney in fact generally has no duty to exercise the authority granted in the power of attorney, even when the principal has become incapacitated, is missing, or is otherwise unable to act [Prob. Code § 4230(a); Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 126-128 (1994)]. This is true even if the attorney in fact has acted under the power of attorney in the past, as the Power of Attorney Law expressly provides that the fact that a person may have acted as attorney in fact in one or more transactions does not obligate the person to act in subsequent transactions [Prob. Code § 4230(b)].

When it recommended this rule, the Law Revision Commission stated that it was intended to facilitate the use of powers of attorney in California. The Commission noted that, in the usual case, the principal seeks a person who has the ability to act if action becomes necessary, but would rarely expect to impose a duty to act on an attorney in fact who chooses not to act, and that a potential attorney in fact may be reluctant to accept the designation if he or she believes that there is a legal duty to act [Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 128 (1994)]. Under this rule, the attorney in fact may refuse to act because of personal inconvenience, because he or she believes others are in a better position to act for the principal, because he or she believes that the situation warrants the appointment of a court-supervised guardian or conservator, or for any other reason. In some cases, the attorney in fact may simply choose to wait until a situation arises before deciding whether or not to act under the power of attorney [Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 128 (1994)].

The rule is otherwise, however, if the attorney in fact has already commenced a transaction. In that case, the attorney in fact has a duty to complete the transaction and to observe the standard of care required of all fiduciaries [Prob. Code § 4230(b); Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 128 (1994); see [7], below (discussion of standard of care)].

The attorney in fact also has a duty to act if he or she has expressly agreed in writing to act for the principal. Under those circumstances, the attorney in fact has a duty to act pursuant to the terms of the agreement, and the agreement can be enforced against the attorney in fact regardless of whether there is any consideration to support a contractual obligation [Prob. Code § 4230(c)].

[3] Duty to Keep Records and Account

An attorney in fact has a duty to keep records of all transactions entered into on behalf of the principal [Prob. Code § 4236(a)]. Although an attorney in fact does not have a general duty to make an account of transactions entered into on behalf of the principal, a duty to do that arises in the following circumstances [Prob. Code § 4236(b)]:

- When the principal requests an account.
- When the power of attorney requires the attorney in fact to account and specifies to whom the account is to be made.
- If the principal is still living, when a conservator of the principal's estate requests an account.
- If the principal is deceased, when the principal's personal representative or successor in interest requests an account.
- When the court orders an account.

Termination of an attorney in fact's authority does not relieve the attorney in fact of any duty to render an account of actions taken as attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4238(c)]. When an attorney in fact's authority is terminated, the attorney in fact has a duty to deliver copies of any records relating to transactions undertaken on the principal's behalf that are requested by the person or persons to whom possession or control of the principal's property is delivered [Prob. Code § 4238(b); see Prob. Code § 4238(a) (duty to deliver principal's property); see also [5], below].

[4] Duty to Keep Principal's Property Separate and Distinct

An attorney in fact has a duty to keep the principal's property separate and distinct from other property in a manner adequate to identify the property clearly as belonging to the principal [Prob. Code § 4233(a)]. An attorney in fact may comply with this rule by holding the principal's property either in the principal's name or in the name of the attorney in fact as attorney in fact for the principal [Prob. Code § 4233(b)].

[5] Duty to Deliver Possession of Property on Termination of Authority

On termination of an attorney in fact's authority, the attorney in fact has a duty to promptly deliver possession or control of the principal's property to the person or persons entitled to delivery [Prob. Code § 4238(a)]. If the principal is not incapacitated, the property must be turned over to the principal, or as directed by the principal [Prob. Code § 4238(a)(1)]. If the principal is incapacitated, the property must be turned over to the following persons with the following priority [Prob. Code § 4238(a)(2)]:

- A qualified successor attorney in fact.
- As to any community property, to the principal's spouse.
- To the conservator or guardian of the principal's estate.
- If the principal is deceased, to the principal's personal representative, if any, or the principal's successors.

[6] Duty to Avoid Conflicts of Interest

An attorney in fact has a duty to act solely in the interest of the principal and to avoid conflicts of interest [Prob. Code § 4232(a)]. However, an attorney in fact is not in violation of this rule solely because the attorney in fact also benefits from acting for the principal, has conflicting interests in relation to the property, care, or affairs of the principal, or acts in an inconsistent manner regarding the respective interests of the principal and the attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4232(b)].

[7] Duty to Observe Standard of Care

When dealing with the principal's property, the attorney in fact has a duty to observe the standard of care that would be observed by a prudent person dealing with the property of another [Prob. Code § 4231(a)]. This is the familiar "prudent person" rule to which trustees and other fiduciaries are subject [see Prob. Code § 16040(b)]. For a discussion of the prudent person rule, see Ch. 64A, Testamentary Trusts: Trustee Provisions, § 64A.39[7].

Beyond the prudent person rule, the attorney in fact is not limited by any other statute restricting investments by fiduciaries [Prob. Code § 4231(a)]. If the attorney in fact has special skills or expertise, however, or was selected on the basis of representations of special skills or expertise, the attorney in fact has a duty to observe the standard of care that would be observed by others with similar skills or expertise [Prob. Code § 4231(c)]. An attorney in fact with special skills has a duty to apply the full extent of those skills [Prob. Code § 4237].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Interpretation

15 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.16

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.16 Relations of Attorney in Fact With Third Parties

[1] Third Persons Required to Respect Authority

The Power of Attorney Law requires that third persons accord an attorney in fact acting pursuant to the provisions of a power of attorney the same rights and privileges that would be accorded the principal if the principal were personally present and seeking to act [Prob. Code § 4300]. This rule recognizes that the attorney in fact acts in place of the principal and that, when the attorney in fact is acting within the scope of the power of attorney, he or she must be treated as if the principal were acting [Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 195 (1994)].

However, this rule does not require third persons to honor the attorney in fact's authority or conduct business with the attorney in fact if the principal could not require the third party to act or conduct business in the same circumstances [Prob. Code § 4300], nor does it require a third person to engage in any transaction with an attorney in fact if the attorney in fact has previously breached any agreement with the third person [Prob. Code § 4309].

[2] Reliance on Attorney in Fact's Authority

Third persons are entitled to rely on, contract with, and deal with an attorney in fact with respect to the subjects and purposes encompassed or expressed in the power of attorney without regard to whether the power of attorney expressly authorizes the specific act, transaction, or decision by the attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4301].

When requested to engage in transactions with an attorney in fact, however, a third person may ask the attorney in fact to provide identification, specimens of the signatures of the principal and the attorney in fact, and any other information reasonably necessary or appropriate to identify the principal and the attorney in fact and to facilitate the actions of the third person in transacting business with the attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4302]. If these things are not provided, the third person has no duty to comply with the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4302]. The third person may also require the attorney in fact to provide the current and permanent residence addresses of the principal before agreeing to engage in a transaction with the attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4302].

A third person who acts in good faith reliance on a power of attorney is not liable to the principal or to any other person for so acting if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 4303(a)]:

- The power of attorney is presented to the third person by the attorney in fact designated in the power of attorney.
- The power of attorney appears on its face to be valid.
- The power of attorney is signed by two witnesses or includes a notary public's certificate of acknowledgment; see Kaneko v. Yager (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 970, 980-981, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183 (this immunity is inapplicable if third person relied on power of attorney that did not contain notary public's certificate of acknowledgment or signatures of two witnesses).

The fact that the third person acted in good faith in reliance on the power of attorney does not, by itself, provide a complete defense to the principal's complaint [ Kaneko v. Yager (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 970, 981, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183 ]. The foregoing rule is not intended to imply that a third person is liable for acting in reliance on a power of attorney in other circumstances [Prob. Code § 4303(b)].

A third person may even be entitled to rely on the authority of an attorney in fact after the principal has died if the third person has no knowledge of the principal's death and acts in good faith under the power [Prob. Code § 4304(a)]. Any action taken under these circumstances binds the principal's successors in interest, unless it is invalid or unenforceable under some other rule of law [Prob. Code § 4304(a)].

[3] Affidavit of Good Faith

The Power of Attorney Law authorizes the attorney in fact to execute an affidavit stating that, at the time the power was exercised, the attorney in fact did not have actual knowledge of the principal's death or of the termination of the power of attorney or the attorney in fact's authority under it. If any person acts in good faith reliance on the power, an affidavit of this kind will be conclusive proof that the power had not been revoked or terminated at the time the power was exercised [Prob. Code § 4305(a)]. If exercise of the power of attorney requires the execution and delivery of any recordable instrument, the affidavit will also be recordable when it has been authenticated [Prob. Code § 4305(a)]. However, an affidavit of this kind will be effective only if the power has been terminated by the principal's death or by express revocation or termination of the attorney in fact's authority; it will not be effective if the power has expired at a specified time or on the occurrence of a specified event other than express revocation or a change in the principal's capacity [Prob. Code § 4305(b)].

If a third person refuses to accept the attorney in fact's authority after the attorney in fact has furnished an affidavit of this kind, and if it thereafter becomes necessary to commence an action or proceeding to confirm the attorney in fact's authority or qualifications, the third person will be liable for attorney's fees incurred in the action or proceeding, unless the court determines that the third person believed in good faith that the attorney in fact was not qualified or was attempting to exceed or improperly exercise the attorney in fact's authority [Prob. Code § 4306(a)].

[4] Certified Copy of Power

The Power of Attorney Law authorizes attorneys at law, notary publics, and certain state and local officials to certify that a copy of a power of attorney is a true and correct copy of an original and thereby invest the copy with the same force and effect as the original [Prob. Code § 4307]. The certification must state that the certifying person (who may be an attorney authorized to practice law in California, a notary public in the state, or an official of a state or political subdivision who is authorized to make certifications) has examined the original power and the copy and that the copy is a true and correct copy of the original [Prob. Code § 4307(b), (c)]. This rule applies to powers of attorney executed outside California as well as those executed in this state, and is designed to facilitate the use in California of powers executed in other jurisdictions [Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 200-201 (1994)].

[5] Special Rule for Financial Institutions

The Power of Attorney Law does not require a financial institution to open a deposit account for a principal at the request of an attorney in fact if the principal is not currently a depositor of the financial institution; nor does it require a financial institution to lend money to the attorney in fact on the principal's behalf if the principal is not currently a borrower of the financial institution [Prob. Code § 4310; see Prob. Code § 40 ("financial institution" defined)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Third Parties Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

16 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.17

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.17 Compensation of Attorney in Fact

[1] Legal Authority for Reasonable Compensation

Before January 1, 1995, California law neither required a principal to compensate an attorney in fact for services rendered under a power of attorney nor prohibited an attorney in fact from receiving compensation for those services [see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 134 (1994)]. The Power of Attorney Law, which became operative on that date, provides that an attorney in fact is entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered to the principal as attorney in fact, and to reimbursement for reasonable expenses incurred as a result of acting in that capacity [Prob. Code § 4204]. However, the Power of Attorney Law makes it clear that the principal may limit the application of this provision by providing otherwise in the power [Prob. Code § 4101(a); see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 123 (1994)].

[2] Rarely Paid in Practice

Before the adoption of the Power of Attorney Law, compensation was rarely paid to attorneys in fact. This was attributable more to the fact that attorneys in fact are typically friends or family members who act as an accommodation to the principal than to the absence of any legal provision for compensation. There is no reason to expect that attorneys in fact will in the future seek compensation when they are acting out of a sense of family duty or affection. However, the Power of Attorney Law makes it more important than before to address the issue of compensation in the power itself.

Compensation ordinarily will not be called for unless the attorney in fact is a stranger, a professional fiduciary, or an artificial entity such as a corporation. Under these circumstances, the attorney in fact will almost always expect compensation as a precondition to rendering services.

When deciding whether to compensate the attorney in fact, the principal should remember that a person who has been designated as an attorney in fact is typically under no duty to exercise the authority granted in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4230(a); see § 68.15[2]]; and, if the designated attorney expects compensation for serving, the principal should either provide for compensation or select another attorney in fact.

[3] Estate Planning Advantages of Compensation

Compensation may be appropriate, even when the attorney in fact is to be a close friend or family member and would be willing to act without compensation. Compensation may in appropriate circumstances be a means of removing funds from the principal's estate and avoiding estate taxation of those funds on the principal's death. While any compensation paid to the attorney in fact for services rendered under the power of attorney will be subject to income tax in the hands of the attorney in fact, the income tax rates will in many cases be less than the rates at which the same funds would be subject to estate tax if they were not removed from the principal's estate. The principal's age, health, and overall financial condition, as well as the relation of the prospective attorney in fact to the principal and the identities of any other persons who would be the natural objects of the principal's bounty, should be considered before any decision is made in this regard.

[4] Reimbursement for Expenses

Whether or not the power of attorney provides for compensation for the attorney in fact, it would seem to be reasonable in almost every case to provide that the attorney in fact be reimbursed for reasonable expenses incurred while acting as attorney in fact.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Compensation Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

17 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.18

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.18 Multiple Attorneys in Fact

[1] Statutory Authorization

A principal may designate more than one attorney in fact in one or more powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4202(a)]. When authority is granted to two or more attorneys in fact, it can only be exercised by their unanimous act, unless the power of attorney itself provides otherwise [see Prob. Code §§ 4101(a) (power of principal to vary statutory rules), 4202(b) (unanimous action)]. However, if an attorney in fact is unavailable because of absence, illness, or other temporary incapacity, the other attorneys in fact may exercise authority under the power as if they were the only attorneys in fact when necessary to accomplish the purposes of the power or to avoid irreparable injury to the principal's interests [Prob. Code § 4202(d)].

[2] Authority of Remaining Attorney in Fact When Vacancy Occurs

If there are two or more attorneys in fact and a vacancy occurs, the remaining attorneys in fact may exercise the authority conferred as if they were the only attorneys in fact [Prob. Code § 4202(c)].

[3] Liability

An attorney in fact is not liable for the actions of other attorneys in fact, unless the attorney in fact participates in, knowingly acquiesces in, or conceals a breach of fiduciary duty committed by another attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4202(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Authority to Act General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

18 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.19

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.19 Successor Attorneys in Fact

[1] Statutory Authorization

A principal may designate one or more successor attorneys in fact to act if the authority of a predecessor attorney in fact terminates [Prob. Code § 4203(a); see § 68.14[6] (termination of authority)]. Further, a principal who creates a durable power of attorney for personal care or property management may authorize a third person to designate one or more successor attorneys in fact at any time [Prob. Code § 4203(b)]. Any qualified person, including the initial attorney in fact or any successor, may be given the authority to do this; however, the third person must be designated by name, by office, or by function [Prob. Code § 4203(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

There can be some benefit to allowing any acting attorney in fact to nominate successors to serve when the list of named alternates provided in the durable power of attorney itself has been exhausted. Often, the durable power of attorney will not be utilized until many years after it is drafted, and named alternates can die or become impossible to locate. The ability of the acting attorney in fact to name an available, qualified successor makes it more likely that there will be no gap in service under the instrument. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[2] Liability

A successor attorney in fact is not liable for any action of the predecessor attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4203(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Revocation & Termination

19 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.20

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.20 Resignation of Attorney in Fact

[1] Notice to Principal or Conservator

Under the Power of Attorney Law, an attorney in fact may resign by giving notice to the principal, if the principal is competent [Prob. Code § 4207(a)(1)]. If a conservator has been appointed for the principal, the attorney in fact must give notice of resignation to the conservator [Prob. Code § 4207(a)(2)].

[2] Written Agreement With Designated Successor

If a successor attorney in fact has been designated in the power of attorney, or pursuant to the terms of the power [see Prob. Code § 4203(a); see also § 68.19], the attorney in fact may resign by written agreement with that successor [Prob. Code § 4207(a)(3)].

[3] Court Order

In any case, the attorney in fact may resign by court order [Prob. Code § 4207(a)(4)].

[4] No Limitation in Power of Attorney

The right of the attorney in fact to resign as provided in the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4207(a); see also [1]-[3], above] is not subject to limitation in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4207(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Revocation & Termination

20 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.21-68.99

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.21[Reserved]

21 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.100

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.100 Facts

NOTE:

A durable power of attorney is usually prepared as part of a complete estate plan. Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.200[2], is a client interview checklist designed to be used by an estate planning attorney at the initial client interview. This checklist includes questions designed to elicit all of the personal and financial information necessary to begin the preparation of an estate plan.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Interpretation

22 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.101

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.101 Documents

NOTE:

If the originals of any of the documents listed below are not available to the client or if, by reason of their special value or other considerations, they should not be turned over to the attorney, copies may be furnished. For a discussion of the rules governing the deposit of estate planning documents with an attorney for safekeeping, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.18.

1. Any power of attorney previously executed by client.
2. Any will previously executed by client.
3. Any trust instrument previously executed by client.
4. Any contract affecting client's power to authorize attorney in fact to act on client's behalf, including premarital and other marital property agreements.
5. Deeds to real property.
6. Deeds of trust or mortgages.
7. Certificates for stocks, bonds, or other securities.
8. Life insurance policies owned by client or on client's life.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable
Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Interpretation

23 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.102-68.109

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.102[Reserved]

24 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.110

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.110 Conflicts of Interest

1. If clients are husband and wife, determine if their interests are subject to actual or potential conflicts or interests arising from:

- a. Previous marriages;
- b. Children by previous marriages.
- c. One spouse with substantially larger estate than other.
- d. Interest expressed by either or both spouses in transmuting some or all of their property from community to separate or separate to community.
- e. Interest expressed by either spouse in transferring property to someone other than other spouse.
- f. Previous attorney-client relationship between attorney and one spouse.

NOTE:

Conflicts of interest may arise in the preparation of durable powers of attorney in much the same way that they would arise in connection with other estate planning services. Conflicts of interest are most likely to arise when the attorney is asked to represent clients who are husband and wife. For further consideration of this important preliminary question, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.110.

2. If there are conflicts of interest, determine whether clients would be willing:

- a. To waive conflict; and
- b. To give attorney written authorization to proceed with dual representation.

NOTE:

The attorney cannot ethically represent a husband and wife with conflicting interests without first explaining the facts giving rise to the conflict and obtaining written authorization from both clients to proceed with the dual representation [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310(B), (C)]. For a conflict of interest disclosure for dual representation, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.201[2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Agents Distinguished Fiduciary Relationships General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview

25 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.111

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.111 Client's Personal and Financial Situation

NOTE:

Because powers of attorney are usually prepared as part of an overall estate plan, the attorney should know as much about the client's personal and financial situation when preparing a durable power of attorney for property management as he or she would know when preparing a will or trust instrument.

1. Review and become thoroughly familiar with client's personal situation, including:

- a. Client's age and health.
- b. Client's marital status.
- c. Identity, age, and health of client's spouse, if any.
- d. Client's children, grandchildren, and other close relatives.

2. Review and become thoroughly familiar with client's financial situation, including:

- a. Approximate value of all of client's property.
- b. Whether client's property is separate, community, or mixed.
- c. Location of client's property.

d. Whether client has any business interests and, if so:

- (1) Whether client is personally engaged in management of business.
- (2) In what form business is owned (such as sole proprietorship, corporation, partnership, or limited liability company).
- (3) Identities of any other persons with interests in client's business.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

26 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.112

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.112 Potential Attorneys in Fact

1. Determine if any of following are potential candidates for attorney in fact:

- a. Client's spouse.
- b. Client's adult children or grandchildren.
- c. Other relatives.
- d. Friends.
- e. Business associates.
- f. Artificial entity.

NOTE:

In rare cases, a bank or trust company may be willing to act as attorney in fact under a durable power of attorney. When an artificial entity is selected, however, ability and willingness to serve are no less important than when a natural person is selected, and compensation will almost always be expected [ see § 68.13[7]].

2. Determine if potential attorney in fact is legally qualified to serve because he or she is [Prob. Code § 4200; see Civ. Code § 1556]:

- a. At least 18 years of age;

- b. Of sound mind; and
- c. Not deprived of civil rights.

NOTE:

For discussion of the legal qualifications of an attorney in fact, see § 68.12.

3. Determine if potential attorney in fact is actually qualified to serve because he or she is:
- a. Personally acquainted with client and client's personal and financial affairs.
  - b. Trusted by client.
  - c. In good health.
  - d. Experienced in management of money and/or property.
  - e. Mature and dependable.

NOTE:

For a discussion of the factors that will make a potential attorney in fact a good choice, see § 68.13.

4. Determine if potential attorney in fact is willing to accept power of attorney in writing.

NOTE:

Although acceptance by the attorney in fact is not essential to the validity of a durable power of attorney, it is good practice to seek the attorney in fact's acceptance when the power is executed, as the attorney in fact may otherwise fail or refuse to act at some time in the future, and it may then be too late to appoint another attorney in fact [ see § 68.200[1][p]]. An attorney in fact does not have a duty to act unless he or she has agreed to do so, or unless he or she has already begun a transaction, in which case there is a duty to complete the transaction [see Prob. Code § 4230; see also § 68.15[2]].

5. Determine if there should be multiple attorneys in fact.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

27 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.113

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.113 When Power of Attorney Will Become Effective

1. Determine whether power should become effective:

- a. On execution; or
- b. Only on client's incapacity.

NOTE:

A power of attorney that is to become effective on the occurrence of a specified future event or contingency, such as the subsequent incapacity of the principal, is a type of "springing" power [Prob. Code § 4030]. "Springing" powers are widely used by estate planners, since many clients feel that they will not need the services of an attorney in fact until such time as they are no longer able to manage their own affairs [ see § 68.10[3][f], [g]].

2. If power is to become effective on client's incapacity, determine if client's incapacity should be determined:

- a. By written declaration under penalty of perjury signed by two physicians.

NOTE:

Prob. Code § 4129(a) authorizes the principal to designate one or more persons who, by a written declaration under penalty of perjury, have the power to determine conclusively when the "triggering" event or contingency in a "springing" power of attorney has occurred [ see § 60.200[1][k]].

PRACTICE TIP:

It is not clear from the statute whether the person or persons holding this power must be named or may simply be described by the role they play. For example, can the durable power of attorney simply make reference to the principal's treating physician, or must a specific doctor be named? Caution suggests specifically naming the person or persons to hold the power in cases where that is possible. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

- b. By court order.
- c. By written declaration under penalty of perjury signed by two physicians or by court order.
- d. In some other way.

NOTE:

It is essential to provide in a "springing" power of attorney some clear and practical method for determining when the "triggering" event or contingency has occurred. For further discussion, see § 68.200[1][k].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable
Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Interpretation

28 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.114

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.114 Duration of Power

1. Determine whether power should:

a. Specify termination date;

NOTE:

Durable Powers of attorney do not usually specify a termination date, though it is legally possible to include a provision doing so.

b. Be of indefinite duration; or

c. Apply only during specified periods (for example, when principal is out of country).

2. If power is to have specified termination date, determine if date should be:

a. Date certain; or

b. Specified period of months or years after execution.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Revocation & Termination

29 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.115

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.115 Powers of Attorney in Fact

1. Determine whether durable power of attorney should:

a. Include detailed specification of attorney in fact's powers taken from Prob. Code §§ 4450-4463; or

NOTE:

These are powers that may be incorporated by reference into the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4400-4465]. They are generally well-crafted provisions and suitable for inclusion in most attorney-drafted durable powers of attorney for property management. The long-form durable power of attorney for property management in § 68.200 [2] includes a detailed specification of these powers.

b. Summarize statutory powers.

NOTE:

The powers in Prob. Code §§ 4450-4463 may be summarized. The short-form durable power of attorney for property management in § 68.201[2] summarizes these powers.

2. Determine whether durable power of attorney should give attorney in fact power to:

a. Create, modify, or revoke a trust.

b. Fund a trust with principal's property if trust was not created by principal or by person authorized to create trust on principal's behalf.

- c. Make or revoke gift of principal's property in trust or otherwise.
- d. Exercise right to make disclaimer on principal's behalf.
- e. Create or change survivorship interests in principal's property.
- f. Designate or change designation of beneficiaries to receive any property, benefit, or contract right on principal's death.
- g. Make loan to attorney in fact.

NOTE:

The powers in PP a through g, above, may not be exercised by an attorney in fact unless the power of attorney expressly authorizes the attorney in fact to do so [Prob. Code § 4264; see § 68.14[3]]. All of these powers (except the power to make a loan to the attorney in fact) are important estate planning powers. They should be granted to the attorney in fact only after carefully considering their estate planning implications and only if the attorney and client are both satisfied that the powers are consistent with other aspects of the client's estate plan. For general estate planning considerations, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

3. Determine whether durable power of attorney for property management should give attorney in fact power to make gifts.

NOTE:

The power to make gifts can be an important enhancement to a client's estate plan. If the client is incapacitated, and if it is in the client's interest to reduce the total size of the client's taxable estate, it may be in the client's interest to authorize the attorney in fact to make gifts. The planner should also consider whether the principal has personally engaged in a regular giving program. However, the power to make gifts may have adverse estate tax implications unless it is appropriately restricted. For general coverage of gifts, see Ch. 60A, Gifts . For the advantages of giving the attorney in fact the power to make gifts, see § 68.200[1][e]. For restrictions that may be placed on the power to make gifts, see § 68.200[1][h].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Interpretation Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Limited Powers

30 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.116

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.116 Compensation of Attorney in Fact

1. Determine whether attorney in fact should:

- a. Be expected to serve as accommodation to principal and without compensation; or
- b. Receive compensation for services rendered under power of attorney.

NOTE:

Unless the power of attorney provides otherwise, the attorney in fact will be entitled to reasonable compensation [Prob. Code § 4204]. In practice, however, most attorneys in fact probably act as an accommodation to the principal and without any expectation of compensation [ see §§ 68.17, 68.200[1][1]].

2. If attorney in fact is to receive compensation for services rendered under power, determine:

- a. If attorney in fact should receive "reasonable" compensation.
- b. If attorney in fact should receive compensation according to hourly rate.
- c. If attorney in fact's compensation should be subject to "cap."

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Compensation Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of

AttorneyGeneral Overview

31 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.117-68.129

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.117[Reserved]

32 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.130

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.130 Execution of Durable Power of Attorney

1. Arrange for execution of durable power for property management in attorney's office or, if client is unable to visit attorney's office, in client's home, office, hospital, or elsewhere.
2. Before asking client to execute durable power for property management, present all of following to client:
  - a. Original durable power of attorney for property management.
  - b. Original statement in § 68.212[2] warning client of legal consequences of executing durable power of attorney for property management.
  - c. Original statement in § 68.213[2] by which client will acknowledge that he or she has been fully advised regarding legal consequences of signing power of attorney and has been shown and read statement in § 68.212[2].
3. Ask client to read all documents in P 2a-c, above.
4. After client has read all documents in P 2a-c, above, ask client to sign them.

NOTE:

The client should sign personally. If he or she is unable to do so, however, the power may be signed by some other person in the client's presence and at the client's direction [Prob. Code § 4121(b); see § 68.11[1]]. If the power of attorney is to be signed by witnesses (rather than acknowledged before a notary public), the witnesses should be present and personally observe the client's signature; if this is not possible, however, the client may acknowledge to the witnesses that he or she signed the power [Prob. Code § 4122(c)]. For witness requirements, see P 6b, below.

5. If attorney in fact has agreed to sign acceptance, procure attorney in fact's signature.

NOTE:

Obtaining the attorney in fact's acceptance when the power is executed may avoid later problems [ see § 68.112, P 5].

6. To comply with statutory requirements for acknowledgment or witnesses [see Prob. Code §§ 4121(c), 4122], do one of following:

- a. Have client's signature acknowledged before notary public; or
- b. Have power of attorney signed by at least two witnesses, both of whom must be adults and neither of whom may be attorney in fact designated in power of attorney.

NOTE:

Every durable power of attorney must be acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two qualified witnesses [Prob. Code § 4121(c); see Prob. Code § 4122 (witness requirements); see also § 68.11[3]]. Acknowledgment is generally preferable to witnesses, since it may be necessary to record the power of attorney if the attorney in fact deals with real property, and acknowledgment before a notary public is a prerequisite to recording [Gov. Code § 27287]. Acknowledgment may also help to secure acceptance of the power of attorney by third parties.

7. Sign lawyer's certificate at end of power [ see § 68.201[1][j]].

8. Provide for storage of durable power of attorney as follows:

- a. Have client keep an original.
- b. Retain an original.
- c. When appropriate, deliver an original to first named attorney in fact.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

33 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.131

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.131 Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney

1. Arrange for execution of notice of revocation of durable power of attorney [ see § 68.210[2]] in attorney's office or, if client is unable to visit attorney's office, in client's home, office, hospital, or elsewhere.
2. Before asking client to execute notice of revocation, present original of notice to client and ask client to read it.
3. After client has read notice of revocation, ask client to sign it.
4. Have client's signature acknowledged before notary public.

NOTE:

There is no legal requirement that a notice of revocation of a power of attorney be acknowledged or even witnessed [see Prob. Code § 4151(a)(2)]. If the power of attorney was recorded, however, acknowledgment or other certified proof of execution will be necessary before the notice of revocation can be recorded [see Gov. Code § 27287]. As in the case of the power itself, acknowledgment may also help to secure acceptance of the revocation by third parties.

5. Send copy of notice of revocation with cover letter to attorney in fact and all other interested parties.

NOTE:

Although the Power of Attorney Law does not require that a written revocation of a power of attorney be communicated to the attorney in fact to be effective [see Prob. Code §§ 4151, 4152], the attorney in fact and third parties will not be liable for acts taken in good faith reliance on a power of attorney without notice that it has been revoked [see Prob. Code §§ 4151(b), 4152(b), 4153(b), 4305(a); see also § 68.14[4][c]]. For a transmittal letter, see § 68.211[2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable
Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Revocation & Termination

34 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.132-68.139

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.132[Reserved]

35 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
D. Drafting Guide

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.140

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.140 Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management

1. If client wishes to give attorney in fact broad authority to manage client's property and to specify attorney in fact's powers and duties in detail, select long-form durable power of attorney in § 68.200[2].

NOTE:

The form in § 68.200[2] contains a wide variety of alternative provisions and may be tailored to the client's individual needs and preferences. Those alternatives are discussed in § 68.200[1].

2. If client wishes to give attorney in fact broad authority to manage principal's property but does not wish to include detailed specification of powers in long-form durable power of attorney, select short-form durable power of attorney for property management in § 68.201[2].

NOTE:

The form in § 68.201[2] contains a wide variety of alternative provisions and may be tailored to the client's individual needs and preferences. Those alternatives are discussed in § 68.201[1].

3. To establish written record that client was fully advised as to consequences of executing durable power of attorney for property management, prepare:

a. Statement in § 68.212[2] warning client of legal consequences of executing power; and

b. Statement in § 68.213[2] by which principal will acknowledge that he or she has been fully advised and has been shown and has read warnings in statement in § 68.212[2].

NOTE:

Although this procedure is not required by law, it is good practice and will establish a written record that the client was duly advised and received the warning statement in § 68.212[2]. For discussion, see § 68.212[1].

PRACTICE TIP:

Query, though, whether use of the statement in § 68.212[2] may increase the planner's liability. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable
Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Limited Powers

36 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
D. Drafting Guide

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.141-68.199

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.141[Reserved]

37 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.200

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.200 Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Other Personal Affairs (Long Form)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a durable power of attorney for property management and other personal affairs. It is the most comprehensive and flexible of the durable power of attorney forms in this chapter. It may be used whenever the principal wishes to create a durable power of attorney for property management and to specify the attorney in fact's powers and duties in detail.

[b] Powers From Uniform Statutory Form

The powers granted to the attorney in fact by Sections 1.01 through 1.15 of this form are taken from Prob. Code §§ 4450-4464, which state powers that may be incorporated by reference into the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4400-4465]. These provisions contain detailed descriptions of the powers of the attorney in fact to act with regard to the principal's property and other related matters. They are generally well-crafted provisions and suitable for inclusion in most attorney-drafted durable powers of attorney for property management. If the principal objects to one or more of these provisions, however, Sections 1.01 through 1.15 should be modified to meet the objections.

[c] Power Over Specific Item or Class of Property

This form may be used to give the attorney in fact power and authority over all of the principal's property, or only part of the property. The introductory section of the form includes an optional provision that may be used if the principal chooses to limit the attorney in fact's power and authority to a specific item or items, or to a defined class, of the principal's property.

When the principal chooses to limit the attorney in fact's authority to something less than all of the principal's property, the principal will have the authority conferred and no more. Although many of the provisions of the form give the attorney in fact power over various types of property (for example, real property, personal property, securities, insurance policies, and business interests), the attorney in fact's power to act with respect to these various types of property will be strictly limited if the attorney in fact's authority is limited only to a specific item, items, or class of the principal's property.

When the principal wishes to restrict the attorney in fact's authority in this way, the property over which the attorney in fact is to have authority should be described with sufficient particularity so there will be no doubt which property is to be included within the scope of the power and which is to be excluded.

[d] Power to Create, Modify, or Revoke Trust

The Power of Attorney Law includes a rule limiting the authority that a principal may give an attorney in fact to affect trusts created by the principal, or in which the principal has any of specified interests. Under this rule, an attorney in fact may not create, modify, or revoke a trust, or use the principal's property to fund a trust not created by the principal or a person authorized to create a trust on the principal's behalf, unless the power of attorney expressly authorizes the attorney in fact to do so [Prob. Code § 4264(a), (b)]. Under the same rule, the attorney in fact may not designate or change the designation of beneficiaries to receive any property, benefit, or contract right on the principal's death, unless authorized to do so in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4264(f)]. Thus, when an attorney-in-fact executed a trust providing a life estate in the decedent's residence to herself with the remainder to the decedent's grandchildren, she attempted to change the beneficiary designation from that provided in the decedent's will or the laws of intestate succession, and therefore violated the provisions of Prob. Code § 4264(f) [ Schubert v. Reynolds (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 100, 106, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285 ] .

If the principal wishes to give the attorney in fact power to do any of the actions mentioned above, the power of attorney must include a provision so stating.

Section 1.16 of this form specifies whether the attorney in fact will have power to do any of these things and, if so, whether the attorney in fact's power will be limited in any way.

PRACTICE TIP:

The planner may want to suggest to the client including a limitation, possibly precatory, describing the estate planning goals to be achieved. This could take the form of specific goals that the client would like to have the attorney in fact consider, or it could simply be an admonition to have any change further the estate planning goals evidenced by the principal's other estate planning documents at the time the power is exercised. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

This section is optional. If it is not included in the power of attorney, the attorney in fact will not have the power to do any of the things specified in the rule. For further discussion, see § 68.14[3].

[e] Gifts

Properly used, lifetime gifts can be very useful estate planning tools. Making gifts after the principal has become incapacitated can be an excellent means of reducing the size of the principal's estate and reducing the estate taxes that will be due on the death of the principal or the principal's spouse.

Section 1.20 of this form is a provision designed to provide for suitable lifetime gifts to be made on the principal's behalf by the attorney in fact. It is an optional provision and need not be included in every durable power of attorney for property management. When it is desirable to reduce estate taxes, however, a provision of this type, properly tailored to the principal's individual needs, may serve a useful purpose.

A well-drafted provision empowering an attorney in fact to make lifetime gifts must address three concerns:

- Who will be designated as the permissible donees of the gifts.
- Whether all donees are to be treated equally, or whether one or more donees will (or may) have preferences over others.
- What limits should be placed on the amount of the gifts.

The first two choices should be made by the principal. While the third choice must also be made by the principal, the attorney should carefully counsel the principal as to the important legal consequences of that choice.

It may be desirable, for example, to limit the amount of the gifts in one calendar year to the amount of the annual gift tax exclusion [see I.R.C. § 2503(b)]; for discussion of the annual exclusion and the applicable exclusion amounts, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4]. This will avoid any gift tax liability and guard against erosion of the "applicable exclusion amount" of the unified credit against gift and estate taxes [see I.R.C. § 2010(c)] (table of graduated amounts) and discussion in § 60.13[5][b] available to the donor. However, a limitation of this kind would not apply to gifts that incur no gift tax, such as gifts to the principal's spouse, which qualify for the unlimited marital deduction [see I.R.C. § 2056; see also Ch. 71, Marital Deduction Trust Provisions ].

It may also be desirable to limit the attorney in fact's power to make gifts to himself or herself. This may be done by completely prohibiting gifts to the attorney in fact or by authorizing them, but limiting the amount of the gifts in some appropriate way.

Gifts to the attorney in fact may be limited to amounts necessary for the attorney in fact's support, medical care, and education [see [2], Section 1.20(d), below (first alternative)]. When this is done, the attorney in fact's power will be limited by an "ascertainable standard" and the attorney in fact will not be deemed to have a general power of appointment over the principal's property, which would make the property subject to gift and estate tax in the hands of the attorney in fact [see I.R.C. §§ 2041(b)(1)] (general power of appointment for estate tax purposes), 2514(c) (general power of appointment for gift tax purposes); see also Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.13[1][g]].

Gifts to the attorney in fact may also be limited to the greater of $5,000 or 5 percent of the assets subject to the power [see [2], below, Section 1.20(d) (second alternative)]. This limitation will also prevent the attorney in fact's power to make gifts to himself or herself from being deemed a general power of appointment. However, a so-called "5 or 5" power is effective only for gift tax purposes [see I.R.C. §§ 2041(b)(2), 2514(e)]. Unlike the "ascertainable standard" limitation, it is not effective for estate tax purposes [see Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions , § 64.302[1][b]].

[f] Nomination of Conservator

A durable power of attorney may be used to nominate a conservator of the principal's person or estate [Prob. Code § 4126(a)]. While such a nomination is not binding on the appointing court, the court is required to appoint the nominee unless it finds that the appointment would not be in the principal's best interests [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 4126(b)]; see Conservatorship of Ramirez (2000) 90 Cal. App. 4th 390, 401-403, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 581 ; see also In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1151-1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46 (attorney in fact may bring action on principal's behalf only as a guardian ad litem; rebuttable presumption exists in favor of appointment of designated attorney in fact and conservator nominee as guardian ad litem)].

A conservator usually will not be necessary if the principal has an attorney in fact appointed under a durable power of attorney for property management and an attorney in fact appointed under a durable power of attorney for health care, especially if one of these instruments includes powers for personal care [ see § 68.10[5][c]]. However, the creation of durable powers of attorney does not guarantee that the court will never appoint a conservator. Conditions may change after the durable powers of attorney are executed, and the need for one or more conservatorships may later become apparent.

It is good practice to provide for the possibility that a conservator may eventually become necessary by nominating a conservator in the power of attorney. Section 1.21 of this form is a provision nominating conservators both of the principal's person and the principal's estate. The same person may be nominated for both of these positions, or different persons, at the principal's option.

The person nominated to serve as conservator may be the same person designated as attorney in fact. If a conservator is appointed, the attorney in fact must account to the conservator [Prob. Code § 4206(a)]. If the person chosen to act as attorney in fact is capable and trustworthy, it will often make sense to have the same person serve as conservator. If after appointment of the attorney in fact it becomes evident that the person selected to act in that capacity does not possess these qualities, the court will probably appoint some other person to serve as conservator [see Prob. Code §§ 1810, 4126(b)].

The nomination of a conservator in a durable power of attorney may be superseded by a later written nomination [Prob. Code §§ 1810, 4126(b)]. This guarantees that, so long as the principal is competent, he or she will retain the right to change his or her mind at any time.

PRACTICE TIP:

Durable powers of attorney are often explained to clients as the final means by which the necessity for imposition of a conservatorship may be avoided. Indeed, they may well fill that role in actual practice. However, the planner should focus on the fact that there are two distinct types of probate conservatorships: conservatorships of the person, and conservatorships of the estate. A power of attorney for health care [ see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives ], especially when coupled with a durable power of attorney for personal care, largely replaces a conservatorship of the person. A durable power of attorney for property management essentially obviates the need for a conservatorship of the estate.

Accordingly, many planners believe that the use of a durable power of attorney to nominate conservators should take into account this natural alignment. Thus, a power of attorney for health care would include a nomination of conservators of the person only, and a durable power of attorney for property management would include a nomination of conservators of the estate only. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

For detailed discussion of the use of powers of attorney for health care, and their governing statute, the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.], see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives .

[g] Restrictions on Property Management Powers

If the attorney in fact should die before the principal, and if the attorney in fact holds certain powers over the principal's estate at the time of his or her death, all or part of the principal's property could be included in the attorney in fact's estate for federal estate tax purposes. To avoid this result, the power of attorney should include provisions negating some of the potentially unfavorable aspects of the attorney in fact's powers over the principal's property.

[h] Restrictions on Power to Make Gifts

Under I.R.C. § 2041, the value of the gross estate of a decedent includes the value of all property over which the decedent holds a general power of appointment at the time of death [I.R.C. § 2041(a)(2)]. A power to affect the beneficial enjoyment of property will be deemed a general power of appointment if it can be exercised in favor of the holder of the power, the holder's estate or creditors, or creditors of the holder's estate [I.R.C. § 2041(b)(1)]. Whether a power of appointment is a general power for estate tax purposes must always be determined by examining the substance of the power and not merely its form [Treas. Reg. § 20.2041-1(b)(1)]. If the attorney in fact has unlimited power to make gifts of the principal's property to himself or herself, or to his or her creditors, the attorney in fact will be deemed to hold a general power of appointment over the principal's property; and, if the power is held at the time of the attorney in fact's death, the property would be included in the attorney in fact's estate for federal estate tax purposes.

To avoid this result, the power of the attorney in fact to make gifts to himself or herself may be limited or absolutely prohibited. If the power is limited, it may be limited by an "ascertainable standard" relating to the attorney in fact's health, education, support, or maintenance. When a power is limited to such an "ascertainable standard," it is not a general power of appointment for estate tax purposes, and property subject to the power will not be included in the holder's estate for estate tax purposes [see I.R.C. § 2041(b)(1)(A); see also [e], above]. For a provision limiting the attorney in fact's power to make gifts to himself or herself to an "ascertainable standard," see Section 1.20(d) of this form (first alternative).

The power of the attorney in fact to make gifts to himself or herself may also be limited to the greater of $5,000 or 5 percent of the value of the property subject to the power. When a power is limited to the "5 or 5" amount, it is not deemed a general power of appointment for federal gift tax purposes (but not for estate tax purposes) [I.R.C. § 2514(e)]. For a provision limiting the attorney in fact's power to make gifts to himself or herself to the "5 or 5" amount, see Section 1.20(d) of this power (second alternative).

The power may also be limited to the greater of the "5 or 5" amount or the amount of the annual exclusion [see I.R.C. § 2503(b); see also Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.14[2]]. This will assure that the power will not be deemed a general power of appointment for gift tax purposes, and also assure that no gift tax will be due on any gifts made under the power, although it will not remove the danger that the power will be considered a general power of appointment for estate tax purposes. For a provision limiting the attorney in fact's power to make gifts to himself or herself in this way, see Section 1.20(d) of this form (third alternative).

Perhaps the easiest way of avoiding the potential estate tax dangers of giving the attorney in fact power to make gifts to himself or herself is simply to prohibit gifts to the attorney in fact or to any person to whom the attorney in fact owes an obligation of support. For a provision doing this, see Section 1.20(d) of this form (fourth alternative).

[i] Restrictions on Power to Deal With Insurance Policies

Under I.R.C. § 2042, the value of a decedent's gross estate includes the proceeds of any insurance policy on the decedent's life if, at the time of the decedent's death, the decedent possessed any "incidents of ownership" in the policy [I.R.C. § 2042(2)]. For estate tax purposes, "incidents of ownership" include the power to change the beneficiary of the policy, to surrender or cancel the policy, to assign the policy, to pledge the policy for a loan, and to exercise certain other rights and powers over the policy [Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(c)(2); see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.13[1][h]].

If the principal owns a life insurance policy on the life of the attorney in fact, and if the attorney in fact has power to exercise "incidents of ownership" in the policy, the policy could be included in the attorney in fact's estate for estate tax purposes. This could happen, for example, if the principal is a married woman who owns a life insurance policy on her husband's life. If the principal's husband is designated as attorney in fact, and if the power of attorney gives the attorney in fact power to deal with the insurance policy, the proceeds of the policy could be included in the attorney in fact's estate on the attorney in fact's death. To avoid this result, the power may prohibit the attorney in fact from exercising any "incidents of ownership" over life insurance policies on the attorney in fact's life. For a provision doing this, see Section 1.22(c) of this form.

[j] Restrictions on Powers Over Irrevocable Trust Created by Attorney in Fact

Under I.R.C. § 2036, the gross estate of a decedent includes the value of all property as to which the decedent has made a transfer, by trust or otherwise, under which the decedent has retained the possession or enjoyment of the property, or the right to receive the income from the property, for any period not ascertainable without reference to the decedent's death, or that does not in fact end before the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2036(a)]. Under I.R.C. § 2038, the gross estate of a decedent includes the value of all property as to which the decedent has made a transfer, by trust or otherwise, under which he or she has retained the power to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate the transfer [I.R.C. § 2038(a)(1)]. If the power of attorney gives the attorney in fact power over a trust created by the attorney in fact, there is a possibility that the trust property might be included in the attorney in fact's estate under either or both of these provisions.

Assume, for example, that a husband created a trust and that he made the trust irrevocable so that the trust assets would not be included in his estate for federal estate tax purposes. Assume further that he appointed his wife as trustee of the trust. If the wife thereafter executes a durable power of attorney under which the husband is attorney in fact, and if the terms of the power of attorney can be construed to give the attorney in fact the power to exercise the wife's authority as trustee of the irrevocable trust, the trust assets might be included in the attorney in fact's estate for federal estate tax purposes, contrary to his wishes. To avoid this result, the power of attorney may simply prohibit the attorney in fact from acting as trustee of an irrevocable trust as to which he or she is also the settlor. For a provision doing this, see Section 1.22(a) of this form.

PRACTICE TIP:

More to the point, an attorney in fact shouldn't--and arguably cannot--be permitted to exercise any powers held by the principal as trustee of any trust (except, perhaps, those non-discretionary, ministerial duties which might be delegated to the attorney in fact by the principal/trustee under a specific power of delegation contained in the trust). A trust should never be drawn to allow an incapacitated trustee's attorney in fact to exercise powers as trustee as a matter of right. Similarly, a trust should never be drawn to allow a fit trustee's attorney in fact under a non-springing power to raise any claim of right to exercise the trustee's powers as a matter of right. Not only will this accord with the generally understood inability of a trustee to delegate discretionary acts, but it will also eliminate any concern about possible inadvertent estate tax inclusion problems for the attorney in fact under I.R.C. §§ 2036 and 2038.
Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[k] Determination of Incapacity

If the power of attorney provides that it will be effective only on the principal's incapacity, it is a type of "springing" power [see Prob. Code § 4030; see also § 68.10[3][g]] and should contain some provision specifying how it will be determined if the principal has become incapacitated; and, if the principal becomes incapacitated, how it will be determined if and when the principal regains his or her capacity.

The Power of Attorney Law provides one method by which these determinations can be made. Prob. Code § 4129(a) authorizes the principal to designate one or more persons who, by a written declaration under penalty of perjury, have the power to determine conclusively when the "triggering" event or contingency in a springing power of attorney has occurred. The section permits the principal to authorize the attorney in fact or some other person to perform this function, either alone or jointly with other persons [Prob. Code § 4129(a)]. When the designated person or persons make the written declaration under penalty of perjury, third persons may act in reliance on the declaration without liability to the principal or to any other person, regardless of whether the specified event or contingency has actually occurred [Prob. Code § 4129(b)].

Prob. Code § 4129(a) does not provide the exclusive method for determining when the principal has become incapacitated [Prob. Code § 4129(d)]. It does provide a practical method, however; and, since the statute protects third persons who rely on the written declaration under penalty of perjury, it is good practice to follow the method suggested by the statute.

Section 2.01 of this form adopts that method, but also provides that the principal may be determined to have become incapacitated by court order. A court order may in some circumstances make more sense than a written declaration under penalty of perjury, and third persons who rely on court orders will have equally good protection from liability.

Section 2.02 provides a similar method for determining if and when the principal regains his or her capacity.

[l] Compensation

Unless the power of attorney provides otherwise, the attorney in fact will be entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered as attorney in fact, and to reimbursement for reasonable expenses incurred as a result of acting in that capacity [Prob. Code § 4204; see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 134 (1994); see also § 68.17].

In practice, most attorneys in fact probably act as an accommodation to the principal and without any expectation of compensation. In particular cases, however, compensation may not only be justified, but demanded. This is most likely to be the case when an artificial entity is designated as attorney in fact [ see § 68.13[7]], or when the principal's property and affairs are extensive and it would require considerable time and effort over a long period of time to adequately manage them.

It is important in all cases to address the issue of compensation, either by providing that the attorney in fact will not receive compensation, or by providing some means of determining how the attorney in fact will be compensated. Section 2.03 of this form provides various alternative provisions for addressing this issue.

[m] Exculpation of Attorney in Fact

The duties of the attorney in fact are spelled out in some detail in the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code §§ 4230-4238; see also § 68.15]. An attorney in fact who fails to carry out his or her duty in some respect may be liable, not only to the principal, but also to third parties.

Many prospective attorneys in fact will expect some kind of protection against this risk. Attorneys in fact who are close friends or relatives of the principal and who do not receive compensation for serving as attorney in fact will often be reluctant to serve without some assurance that they will not be held liable for inadvertent or merely technical breaches of their statutory duties. Section 2.07 of this form is a provision that will relieve the attorney in fact of all liability for actions taken or not taken in good faith, except willful misconduct and gross negligence. It is an optional provision, and should be included in the power of attorney only when appropriate under all of the circumstances.

It is never wise to give the attorney in fact complete freedom from liability for breaches of the attorney in fact's duties. In particular cases, it may be unwise to include any exculpatory provision in the power of attorney. If, for example, the attorney in fact is to be an artificial entity [ see § 68.13[7]] or a professional fiduciary, and if the attorney in fact is to receive adequate compensation for serving as attorney in fact, it may be quite reasonable to hold the attorney in fact to strict compliance with the statutory duties. Any risk of liability on the part of such an attorney in fact can be guarded against by acquiring liability insurance.

[n] Power to Petition Court

The Power of Attorney Law permits the principal, the attorney in fact, and certain other persons to petition the court for various orders relating to a power of attorney for property management and the attorney in fact's duties and powers under the power [Prob. Code §§ 4540-4545]. Orders may be sought, among other things, determining whether the power of attorney is in effect or has terminated, passing on the acts or proposed acts of the attorney in fact, compelling the attorney in fact to submit accounts or reports, and, in appropriate circumstances, revoking the attorney in fact's authority under the power [Prob. Code § 4541].

The Power of Attorney Law also permits the principal by express provision in the power of attorney to eliminate the authority of certain persons (but not the principal, the principal's conservator, or the public guardian) to petition the court [Prob. Code § 4503(a)]. However, this may be done only if the principal is represented by a duly licensed attorney when the power is executed and the attorney signs a certificate stating that he or she advised the principal concerning his or her rights in connection with the power of attorney and the applicable law and, after being so advised, the principal executed the power [Prob. Code § 4503].

It is not good practice to totally eliminate the power to petition the court, since the statutory petition procedure provides valuable protection against misuse of the power of attorney. In particular cases, however, it may be desirable to eliminate the right of selected persons to petition, particularly if the principal has reason to suspect that those persons might attempt to frustrate the purposes of the power through court proceedings.

In some cases, it may also be desirable to eliminate the power of some persons to petition the court while other persons are living and competent. For example, the power may provide that, while the principal's spouse is living and competent, the principal's children will not have the power to petition the court. In appropriate circumstances this may protect the spouse from undesirable judicial challenges mounted by the principal's children.

Section 2.09 of this form is a provision that may be used to eliminate the authority of a specified person or persons to petition the court. When this provision is used, the power of attorney must include the lawyer's certificate required by Probate Code § 4503(a)(2). For the form for this certificate, see the Lawyer's Certificate that follows the Certificate of Acknowledgment in this form.

[o] Governing Law

If a power of attorney provides that the California Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.; see also § 68.10[2][a]] governs the power, or if it otherwise indicates the principal's intention that the power is to be governed by the Power of Attorney Law, the Law governs the power and applies to acts and transactions of the attorney in fact, whether inside or outside of California, when any of the following conditions is satisfied [Prob. Code § 4052(a)]:

- The principal or attorney in fact was domiciled in California when the principal executed the power of attorney.
- The authority conferred on the attorney in fact relates to property, acts, or transactions in California.
- The acts or transactions of the attorney in fact occurred or were intended to occur in California.
- The principal executed the power of attorney in California.
- There is a reasonable relationship between California and the subject matter of the power of attorney.

If the power does not provide that it will be governed by the Power of Attorney Law, that Law will nevertheless govern the power and apply to the acts and transactions of the attorney in fact in California if the principal was domiciled in California when the power of attorney was executed or if the principal executed the power in California [Prob. Code §

4052(b)].

If the Power of Attorney Law is applicable to a power of attorney under any of the rules described above, the power will remain subject to the law even if the principal or attorney in fact later change their domiciles or if property that was subject to the law is removed from the state [Prob. Code § 4052(c)].

The Power of Attorney Law is a modern and comprehensive statute. When any of the bases for application of the law described above are present, it is probably good practice to provide that the law will govern the power. Section 3.03 of this form is a provision that may be used to do this.

[p] Execution

A durable power of attorney must be signed, either by the principal personally or by some other person in the principal's presence and at the principal's direction [Prob. Code § 4121(b)].

There is no requirement that the attorney in fact sign the power. However, procuring the attorney in fact's signature will help to assure that the designated attorney in fact is willing to serve. Under the Power of Attorney Law, a person designated as attorney in fact has no duty to exercise the authority granted by the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4230(b); see § 68.15[2]], and some attorneys in fact may wait until a situation arises before deciding whether to act under the power [see Comprehensive Power of Attorney Law, 24 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 111, 128 (1994)]. This form includes space for the principal's signature and a separate space for the attorney in fact's acceptance.

[q] Acknowledgment

Every durable power of attorney for property management or personal care must be acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two qualified witnesses [Prob. Code § 4121(c); see Prob. Code § 4122 (witness requirements); see also § 68.11[3]]. Although acknowledgment may be avoided, it will rarely make sense to do so. If the attorney in fact is to deal with the principal's real property, it may be necessary to record the power of attorney, and acknowledgment or other certified proof of execution is a prerequisite to recording [Gov. Code § 27287]. Acknowledgment may also help to secure acceptance of the power of attorney by third parties.

[r] Recording Fact of Attorney's Advice

The Power of Attorney Law requires that a warning be included on all printed durable power of attorney forms sold or otherwise distributed for use in California by persons who do not have the advice of legal counsel [see Prob. Code § 4128(a)]. The warning is intended to apprise persons who use the forms without legal assistance that they are important legal documents and that serious consequences will result from their use.

Although there is no requirement that the statutory warning be included in an attorney-drafted power, some attorneys believe that it is good practice to do so. When the warning is in the power, the principal will be required to read it when he or she reads the power of attorney; and the principal's signature at the end of the power will acknowledge that the principal has been put on notice as to the contents of the warning.

The statutory warning is not in every respect suitable for inclusion in the power itself, since some terms of the warning may be interpreted as varying or modifying other terms of the power. Instead, it is recommended that the statutory warning be given to the principal in a separate document, that the principal be asked to read and initial the document, and that a third document stating that the principal was duly advised by the attorney and that the principal received the written warning be presented to the principal for signature at the same time as the power of attorney. In this way, the principal will be clearly warned, and a written record that the principal was warned will be established. For further discussion, see §§ 68.205[1], 68.206[1], and 68.207[1].

[2] Form*Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Other Personal Affairs (Long Form)
DURABLE POWER OF ATTORNEY FOR MANAGEMENT OF PROPERTY AND PERSONAL AFFAIRS

[To appoint attorney(s) in fact and successor, if any, select one of following three alternatives:]

[First alternative--to appoint one attorney in fact and one successor:]

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], hereby appoint _____ [name of attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorney in fact. If _____ [name of attorney in fact] dies, resigns, or is unwilling or unable to act because of incapacity or otherwise, I appoint _____ [name of successor attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorney in fact. All references in this document to "my attorney in fact" refer to the attorney in fact acting at the pertinent time.

[Second alternative--to appoint two attorneys in fact and require them to act unanimously, except in case of vacancy:]

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], hereby appoint _____ [name of first attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], and _____ [name of second attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorneys in fact. These two persons must act unanimously in all matters referred to in this power of attorney, and when so acting they will be referred to as "my attorney in fact." Whenever a signature is required of my attorney in fact, both of these persons will be required to sign. If either of these persons dies, resigns, or is unable or unwilling to act because of incapacity, or any other reason, however, the remaining person must act alone and, when so acting, will be referred to as "my attorney in fact."

[Third alternative--to appoint two attorneys in fact and authorize them to act separately:]

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], hereby appoint _____ [name of first attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], and _____ [name of second attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorneys in fact. Each of these persons, acting alone, has full power and authority to act on my behalf under the terms of this power of attorney, and either, when so acting, will be referred to as "my attorney in fact."

[Continue as follows:]

I intend by this power of attorney to create a durable power of attorney pursuant to the California Power of Attorney Law, but specifically not including the provisions of that law relating to durable powers of attorney for health care. This power of attorney will be effective _____ [immediately on its execution and will not be affected by my subsequent incapacity or on my incapacity as determined in accordance with Section 2.01 of this power or specify date certain, e.g., on July 31, 2000, and will not be affected by my subsequent incapacity].

[If power is to become effective on principal's incapacity, add:]

If, after it has been determined in accordance with Section 2.01 that I have become incapacitated, it should be determined in accordance with Section 2.02 of this power that I have regained my capacity, the powers granted to my attorney in fact in this power will forthwith cease.

[Optional; insert following provision only if power is to have specified termination date:]

Unless this power is sooner revoked, my attorney in fact will have and may exercise the powers granted in this durable power of attorney until _____ [specify date, e.g., December 31, 2001], on which date this power will terminate.

[Optional: insert following provision if attorney in fact is to have power only over specific item or items, or a specific class, of property, and not over all of the principal's property:]

This power deals only with my interest in _____ [describe property, e.g., the dwelling house and lot at 120 Shady Lane, Smalltown, California, and particularly described as Lot 14, Block 20, Map of Shady Acres, County of Pacific, California]. Notwithstanding any other provision of this power, the powers that I give to my attorney in fact in this power will extend to that interest, and to the full extent of that interest; but they will not extend to, and my attorney in fact will have no power or authority over, any other interest that I may have in any other property, except only to the extent that the management of the property described above will necessarily affect the other interest.

[Continue as follows:]

I give my attorney in fact the powers specified in this power of attorney with the understanding that they will be exercised for my benefit, on my behalf, and solely in a fiduciary capacity.

ARTICLE ONE POWERS

Section 1.01. Construction of Powers Generally. Except as otherwise limited or extended in this power of attorney, I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

- (a) Demand, receive, and obtain by litigation or otherwise, money or other things of value to which I am, may become, or claim to be entitled, and conserve, invest, disburse, or use anything so received for the purposes intended.
- (b) Contract in any manner with any person on terms agreeable to my attorney in fact, to accomplish a purpose of a transaction, and perform, rescind, reform, release, or modify the contract or another contract made by me or on my behalf.
- (c) Execute, acknowledge, seal, and deliver a deed, revocation, mortgage, lease, notice, check, release, or other instrument my attorney in fact considers desirable to accomplish a purpose of a transaction.
- (d) Prosecute, defend, submit to arbitration, settle, and propose or accept a compromise with respect to a claim existing in my favor or against me or intervene in litigation relating to the claim.
- (e) Seek on my behalf the assistance of a court to carry out an act authorized by this power of attorney.
- (f) Engage, compensate, and discharge an attorney, accountant, expert witness, or other assistant.

(g) Keep appropriate records of each transaction, including an accounting of receipts and disbursements.

(h) Prepare, execute, and file a record, report, or other document my attorney in fact considers desirable to safeguard or promote my interest under a statute or governmental regulation.

(i) Reimburse my attorney in fact for expenditures properly made by my attorney in fact in exercising the powers granted by this power of attorney.

(j) In general, do any other lawful act.

Section 1.02. Real Property Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Accept as a gift or as security for a loan, reject, demand, buy, lease, receive, or otherwise acquire an interest in real property or a right incident to real property.

(b) Sell, exchange, convey with or without covenants, quitclaim, release, surrender, mortgage, encumber, partition, consent to partitioning, subdivide, apply for zoning, rezoning, or other governmental permits, plat or consent to platting, develop, grant options concerning, lease, sublease, or otherwise dispose of an interest in real property or a right incident to real property.

(c) Release, assign, satisfy, and enforce by litigation or otherwise a mortgage, deed of trust, encumbrance, lien, or other claim to real property that exists or is asserted.

(d) Do any act of management or of conservation with respect to an interest in real property, or a right incident to real property, owned, or claimed to be owned, by me, including all of the following:

(1) Insuring against a casualty, liability, or loss.

(2) Obtaining or regaining possession, or protecting the interest or right, by litigation or otherwise.

(3) Paying, compromising, or contesting taxes or assessments, or applying for and receiving refunds in connection with them.

(4) Purchasing supplies, hiring assistance or labor, and making repairs to or alterations in the real property.

(e) Use, develop, alter, replace, remove, erect, or install structures or other improvements on real property in or incident to which I have, or claim to have, an interest or right.

(f) Participate in a reorganization with respect to real property or a legal entity that owns an interest in or right incident to real property and receive and hold shares of stock or obligations received in a plan of reorganization, and act with respect to them, including all of the following:

(1) Selling or otherwise disposing of them.

(2) Exercising or selling an option, conversion, or similar right with respect to them.

(3) Voting them in person or by proxy.

(g) Change the form of title of an interest in or right incident to real property.

(h) Dedicate to public use, with or without consideration, easements or other real property in which I have, or claim to have, an interest or right.

Section 1.03. Tangible Personal Property Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Accept as a gift or as security for a loan, reject, demand, buy, receive, or otherwise acquire ownership or possession of tangible personal property or an interest in tangible personal property.

(b) Sell, exchange, convey with or without covenants, release, surrender, mortgage, encumber, pledge, hypothecate, create a security interest in, pawn, grant options concerning, lease, sublease to others, or otherwise dispose of tangible personal property or an interest in tangible personal property.

(c) Release, assign, satisfy, or enforce by litigation or otherwise, a mortgage, security interest, encumbrance, lien, or other claim on behalf of the principal, with respect to tangible personal property or an interest in tangible personal property.

(d) Do an act of management or conservation with respect to tangible personal property or an interest in tangible personal property on my behalf, including all of the following:

(1) Insuring against casualty, liability, or loss.

(2) Obtaining or regaining possession, or protecting the property or interest, by litigation or otherwise.

(3) Paying, compromising, or contesting taxes or assessments or applying for and receiving refunds in connection with taxes or assessments.

(4) Moving from place to place.

(5) Storing for hire or on a gratuitous bailment.

(6) Using, altering, and making repairs or alterations.

Section 1.04. Stock and Bond Transactions. With respect to any stocks and bonds, mutual funds, and other securities, or any interest therein, that I now own or that may hereafter be acquired by or for me, I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Buy, sell, and exchange stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and all other types of securities and financial instruments [optional: except commodity futures contracts and call and put options on stocks and stock indexes].

(b) Receive certificates and other evidences of ownership with respect to securities.

(c) Exercise voting rights with respect to securities in person or by proxy, enter into voting trusts, and consent to limitations on the right to vote.

[Optional provision:]

Section 1.05. Commodities and Option Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Buy, sell, exchange, assign, settle, and exercise commodity futures contracts and call and put options on stocks and stock indexes traded on a regulated option exchange.

(b) Establish, continue, modify, and terminate option accounts with a broker.

[Continue with the following:]

Section 1.06. Transactions With Banks and Financial Institutions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

- (a) Continue, modify, and terminate an account or other banking arrangement made by me or on my behalf.
- (b) Establish, modify, and terminate an account or other banking arrangement with a bank, trust company, savings and loan association, credit union, thrift company, industrial loan company, brokerage firm, or other financial institution selected by my attorney in fact.
- (c) Hire or close a safe deposit box or space in a vault.
- (d) Contract to procure other services available from a financial institution as the attorney in fact considers desirable.
- (e) Withdraw by check, orders, or otherwise money or property of mine deposited with or left in the custody of a financial institution.
- (f) Receive bank statements, vouchers, notices, and similar documents from a financial institution and act with respect to them.
- (g) Enter a safe deposit box or vault and withdraw or add to the contents.
- (h) Borrow money at an interest rate agreeable to my attorney in fact and pledge as security personal property of mine necessary in order to borrow, pay, renew, or extend the time of payment of a debt of mine.
- (i) Make, assign, draw, endorse, discount, guarantee, and negotiate promissory notes, checks, drafts, and other negotiable or nonnegotiable paper of mine, or payable to me or my order, receive the cash or other proceeds of those transactions, and accept a draft drawn by a person on me and pay it when due.
- (j) Receive for me and act on a sight draft, warehouse receipt, or other negotiable or nonnegotiable instrument.
- (k) Apply for and receive letters of credit, credit cards, and traveler's checks from a financial institution, and give an indemnity or other agreement in connection with letters of credit.
- (l) Consent to an extension of the time of payment with respect to commercial paper or a financial transaction with a financial institution.

Section 1.07. Business Operating Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

- (a) Operate, buy, sell, enlarge, reduce, and terminate a business interest.
- (b) To the extent that an agent is permitted by law to act for a principal and subject to the terms of the partnership agreement,
  - (1) Perform a duty or discharge a liability and exercise a right, power, privilege, or option that I have, may have, or claim to have, under a partnership agreement, whether or not I am a partner.
  - (2) Enforce the terms of a partnership agreement by litigation or otherwise.
  - (3) Defend, submit to arbitration, settle, or compromise litigation to which I am a party because of membership in the partnership.

(c) Exercise in person or by proxy, or enforce by litigation or otherwise, a right, power, privilege, or option I have or claim to have as the holder of a bond, share, or other instrument of similar character, and defend, submit to arbitration, settle, or compromise litigation to which I am a party because of a bond, share, or similar instrument.

(d) With respect to a business owned solely by me,

(1) Continue, modify, renegotiate, extend, and terminate a contract made with an individual or a legal entity, firm, association, or corporation by me or on my behalf with respect to the business before execution of this power of attorney.

(2) Determine the policy of the business as to (A) the location of its operation, (B) the nature and extent of its business, (C) the methods of manufacturing, selling, merchandising, financing, accounting, and advertising employed in its operation, (D) the amount and types of insurance carried, and (E) the mode of engaging, compensating, and dealing with its accountants, attorneys, and other agents and employees.

(3) Change the name or form of organization under which the business is operated and enter into a partnership agreement with other persons or organize a corporation to take over all or part of the operation of the business.

(4) Demand and receive money due or claimed by me or on my behalf in the operation of the business, and control and disburse the money in the operation of the business.

(e) Put additional capital into a business in which I have an interest.

(f) Join in a plan of reorganization, consolidation, or merger of the business.

(g) Sell or liquidate a business or part of it at the time and on the terms my attorney in fact considers desirable.

(h) Represent me in establishing the value of a business under a buy-out agreement to which I am a party.

(i) Prepare, sign, file, and deliver reports, compilations of information, returns, or other papers with respect to a business that are required by a governmental agency or instrumentality or that my attorney in fact considers desirable, and make related payments.

(j) Pay, compromise, or contest taxes or assessments and do any other act that my attorney in fact considers desirable to protect me from illegal or unnecessary taxation, fines, penalties, or assessments with respect to a business, including attempts to recover, in any manner permitted by law, money paid before or after the execution of this power of attorney.

Section 1.08. Insurance and Annuity Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Continue, pay the premium or assessment on, modify, rescind, release, or terminate any contract procured by me or on my behalf that insures or provides an annuity to me or another person, whether or not I am a beneficiary under the contract.

(b) Procure new, different, and additional contracts of insurance and annuities for me and my dependents, and select the amount, type of insurance or annuity, and mode of payment.

(c) Pay the premium or assessment on, modify, rescind, release, or terminate a contract of insurance or annuity procured by my attorney in fact.

(d) Designate the beneficiary of the contract, _____ [including or not including] the power to designate _____ [himself or herself or themselves] as the _____ [beneficiary or beneficiaries] of the contract, or an extension, renewal, or substitute for the contract, regardless of whether the contract was procured by me or by my attorney in fact.

(e) Apply for and receive a loan on the security of the contract of insurance or annuity.

(f) Surrender and receive the cash surrender value.

(g) Exercise an election.

(h) Change the manner of paying premiums.

(i) Change or convert the type of insurance contract or annuity as to any insurance contract or annuity to which I have or claim to have a power described in this section.

(j) Change the beneficiary of a contract of insurance or annuity, _____ [including or but not including] the power to designate _____ [himself or herself or themselves] as the _____ [beneficiary or beneficiaries], regardless of whether the contract of insurance or annuity was procured by me or by my attorney in fact.

(k) Apply for and procure government aid to guarantee or pay premiums of a contract of insurance on my life.

(l) Collect, sell, assign, hypothecate, borrow on, or pledge my interest in a contract of insurance or annuity.

(m) Pay from proceeds or otherwise, compromise or contest, and apply for refunds in connection with, a tax or assessment levied by a taxing authority with respect to a contract of insurance or annuity or its proceeds or liability accruing by reason of the tax or assessment.

Section 1.09. Estate, Trust, and Other Beneficiary Transactions. In all matters that affect a trust, probate estate, guardianship, conservatorship, escrow, custodianship, or other fund in or from which I am, may become, or claim to be entitled, as a beneficiary, to a share or payment, I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Accept, reject, disclaim, receive, receipt for, sell, assign, release, pledge, exchange, or consent to a reduction in or modification of a share in or payment from the fund.

(b) Demand or obtain by litigation or otherwise money or any other thing of value to which I am, may become, or claim to be entitled by reason of the fund.

(c) Initiate, participate in, and oppose litigation to ascertain the meaning, validity, or effect of a deed, will, declaration of trust, or other instrument or transaction affecting my interest.

(d) Initiate, participate in, and oppose litigation to remove, substitute, or surcharge a fiduciary.

(e) Conserve, invest, disburse, and use anything received for an authorized purpose.

(f) Transfer an interest of mine in real property, stocks, bonds, accounts with financial institutions, insurance, and other property to the trustee of a revocable trust created by me as settlor.

(g) Convey or release any contingent or expectant interests in property, including marital property rights, and any rights of survivorship incident to joint tenancy or tenancy by the entirety.

(h) Make any election or election and agreement referred to in California Probate Code Section 13502 or 13503.

Section 1.10. Claims and Litigation. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Assert and prosecute before a court or administrative agency a claim, claim for relief, cause of action, counterclaim, cross-complaint, or offset, and defend against an individual, a legal entity, or government, including suits to recover property or any other thing of value, to recover damages sustained by me, to eliminate or modify tax liability, or to seek an injunction, specific performance, or other relief.

(b) Bring an action to determine adverse claims [optional]; intervene in litigation, and act as amicus curiae].

(c) In connection with litigation,

(1) Procure an attachment, garnishment, libel, order of arrest, or other preliminary, provisional, or intermediate relief, and use any available procedure to effect, enforce, or satisfy a judgment, order, or decree.

(2) Perform any lawful act, including acceptance of tender, offer of judgment, admission of facts, submission of a controversy on an agreed statement of facts, consent to examination before trial, and bind me in litigation.

(d) Submit to arbitration, settle, and propose or accept a compromise with respect to a claim or litigation.

(e) Waive the issuance and service of process on me; accept service of process; appear for me; designate persons on whom process directed to me may be served; execute and file or deliver stipulations on my behalf; verify pleadings; seek appellate review; procure and give surety and indemnity bonds; contract and pay for the preparation and printing of records and briefs; receive and execute and file or deliver a consent, waiver, release, confession of judgment, satisfaction of judgment, notice, agreement, or other instrument in connection with the prosecution, settlement, or defense of a claim or litigation.

(f) Act for me with respect to bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings, whether voluntary or involuntary, concerning me or some other person, or with respect to a reorganization proceeding, or with respect to an assignment for the benefit of creditors, receivership, or application for the appointment of a receiver or trustee, that affects an interest of mine in property or any other thing of value.

(g) Pay a judgment against me or a settlement made in connection with litigation, and receive and conserve money or any other thing of value paid in settlement of or as proceeds of a claim or litigation.

Section 1.11. Personal and Family Maintenance. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following, subject to Section 1.20(d):

(a) Do the acts necessary to maintain my usual standard of living, [if principal wishes to include spouse or other family members, add: the usual standard of living of my _____ (describe family members, e.g., wife and children or husband, children, and grandchildren)], and the usual standard of living of any other individuals customarily or legally entitled to my support, including providing living quarters by purchase, lease, or other contract, or paying the operating costs, including interest, amortization payments, repairs, and taxes, on premises owned by me.

(b) Provide for the individuals described in subsection (a) all of the following:

(1) Normal domestic help.

(2) Usual vacations and travel expenses.

(3) Funds for shelter, clothing, food, appropriate education, and other current living costs.

(c) Pay for the individuals described in subsection (a) necessary medical, dental, and surgical care, hospitalization, and custodial care.

(d) Continue any provision made by me, for the individuals described in subsection (a), for automobiles or other means of transportation, including registering, licensing, insuring, and replacing them.

(e) Maintain or open charge accounts for the convenience of the individuals described in subsection (a) and open new accounts my attorney in fact considers desirable to accomplish a lawful purpose.

(f) Continue payments incidental to my membership in or affiliation with a church, club, society, order, or other organization and continue contributions to those organizations.

Section 1.12. Government Benefits Transactions. With respect to benefits from Social Security, Medicare, Medi-Cal, or other governmental programs, or from civil or military service, I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Execute vouchers in my name for allowances and reimbursements payable to me by the United States or a foreign government or by a state or subdivision of a state, including allowances and reimbursements for my transportation and transportation of my _____ [wife or husband], my children, and other individuals customarily or legally entitled to my support, and for shipment of our household effects.

(b) Take possession and order the removal and shipment of my property from a post, warehouse, depot, dock, or other place of storage or safekeeping, either governmental or private; and execute and deliver a release, voucher, receipt, bill of lading, shipping ticket, certificate, or other instrument for that purpose.

(c) Prepare, file, and prosecute my claim to a benefit or assistance, financial or otherwise, to which I claim to be entitled under a statute or governmental regulation.

(d) Prosecute, defend, submit to arbitration, settle, and propose or accept a compromise with respect to any benefits I may be entitled to receive.

(e) Receive the financial proceeds of a claim of the type described in this section; conserve, invest, disburse, or use anything received for a lawful purpose.

Section 1.13. Retirement Plan Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Select payment options under any retirement plan in which I participate, including plans for self-employed individuals, _____ [including or but not including] the power to designate _____ [himself or herself or themselves] as the _____ [beneficiary or beneficiaries].

(b) Designate beneficiaries under retirement plans and change existing designations, _____ [including or but not including] the power to designate _____ [himself or herself or themselves] as the _____ [beneficiary or beneficiaries].

(c) Make voluntary contributions to retirement plans.

(d) Exercise the investment powers available under any self-directed retirement plan.

(e) Make rollovers of plan benefits into other retirement plans.

(f) If authorized by the plan, borrow from, sell assets to, and purchase assets from the plan.

(g) Waive my right to be a beneficiary of a joint or survivor annuity if I am a spouse who is not employed.

Section 1.14. Tax Matters. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Prepare, sign, and file federal, state, local, and foreign income, gift, payroll, FICA returns, and other tax returns, claims for refunds, requests for extension of time, petitions regarding tax matters, and any other tax-related documents, including receipts, offers, waivers, consents (including consents and agreements under Internal Revenue Code Section 2032A or any successor section), closing agreements, and any power of attorney required by the Internal Revenue Service or other taxing authority with respect to a year beginning with and including the year _____ and ending with and including the year _____.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is important that the years be exactly specified for which this power is to be effective. The Internal Revenue Service insists on its own power of attorney forms that specific years (or quarters in the case of quarterly taxes) be set forth [ see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney ]. This can be a broad range of years, e.g., 1990 through 2030, but simply saying "all years" will not suffice in the Service's view. Indeed, in the Service's own forms, note only the types of taxes must be enumerated, but the exact form numbers of each return must be listed, such as 709, 1040, etc. If the planner believes that tax powers are likely to be important, review of the instructions accompanying the Service's own power of attorney, Form 2848, should be seriously considered. These instructions explain the rules limiting who is entitled to represent any taxpayer before the Service, and would deny that power to an attorney in fact who does not fit into one of the listed categories of representatives. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

(b) Pay taxes due, collect refunds, post bonds, receive confidential information, and contest deficiencies determined by the Internal Revenue Service or other taxing authority for any of the taxes and tax periods specified above.

(c) Exercise any election I may have under federal, state, local, or foreign tax law.

(d) Act for me in all tax matters before the Internal Revenue Service and any other taxing authority for any of the taxes and tax periods specified above.

Section 1.15. Property Acquired After Execution and Property Located and Powers Exercised Outside State. The powers granted to my attorney in fact in this power of attorney are exercisable equally with respect to an interest I have when this power of attorney is executed or one that I acquire later, whether or not the property is located in California, and whether or not the powers are exercised or the power of attorney is executed in this state.

[Optional; to specify attorney in fact's power to affect trust created by principal, select one of two following provisions:]

[First alternative--power to create, modify, or revoke trust:]

Section 1.16. Creation, Modification, or Revocation of Trust. I give my attorney in fact the power to establish any trust with my assets for _____ [my sole benefit or my benefit and the benefit of my _____ (wife or husband) or my benefit, the benefit of my _____ (wife or husband), and the benefit of my dependents] on such terms as my attorney in fact determines are necessary or proper; to transfer any asset in which I have an interest to any such trust or to any trust that I have created; and to exercise in whole or in part, release, or let lapse any power I may have as an individual and not as a fiduciary under any trust, whether or not created by me, including any power of appointment, amendment, revocation, or withdrawal, but subject to the limitation that a trust that I have created may be modified or revoked by my attorney in fact only if it is expressly permitted by the trust instrument. My attorney in fact _____ [may or may not] be the trustee of any trust established by _____ [him or her or them].

[Second alternative--power to modify, revoke, or transfer assets to existing trust:]

Section 1.16. Modification, Revocation, or Transfer of Assets to Existing Trust. I give my attorney in fact the power to transfer any asset in which I have an interest to the trustee then acting under the trust instrument executed by me on _____ [date], and exercise in whole or in part, release, or let lapse, any power I may have as settlor under that instrument, including any power of appointment, amendment, revocation, withdrawal of assets, voting or directing the voting of shares of stock, managing or directing the investments subject to the trust, borrowing assets from the trust, and removing the trustee, but subject to the limitation that the trust may be modified or revoked by my attorney in fact only if it is expressly permitted by the terms of the trust instrument that are in effect at the time the modification or revocation is to be made.

PRACTICE TIP:

The planner may want to suggest to the client including a limitation, possibly precatory, describing the estate planning goals to be achieved. This could take the form of specific goals that the client would like to have the attorney in fact consider, or it could simply be an admonition to have any change further the estate planning goals evidenced by the principal's other estate planning documents at the time the power is exercised. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Optional; power to provide for religious or spiritual needs:]

Section 1.17. Religious or Spiritual Needs. I give my attorney in fact the power to provide, in connection with my care, and in accordance with my established beliefs and customary activities, for the presence and involvement of church persons, clergy, or other persons to attend to my spiritual needs and permit them access to me, maintain or arrange for my membership in religious organizations, and permit my access to their activities and publications, including books, tapes, and similar materials.

[Optional; power to care for pets:]

Section 1.18. Pets. I give my attorney in fact the power to house, or arrange for the housing, support, and maintenance of, any animals that I own or have custody of and to pay reasonable boarding, kenneling, and veterinary fees for such animals [optional provision for disposal of animal:, or if the support and maintenance of any such animal becomes unreasonably expensive, to dispose of the animal in a humane fashion, preferably by finding another home for the animal].

[Optional; power to make funeral and burial arrangements:]

Section 1.19. Funeral and Burial Arrangements. I give my attorney in fact the power to arrange for my funeral or other memorial service and for burial or cremation of my remains, including the purchase of a burial plot or other place for interment of my remains or ashes.

PRACTICE TIP:

Extreme caution should be exercised before including a provision such as this in a durable power of attorney for property management. Most often, a provision dealing with this exact subject matter will be included in a power of attorney for health care, and the attorney in fact acting under each power may not be the same person. In order to avoid a conflict regarding this very sensitive power, the planner should carefully review other documents which the client has already executed to determine whether a problem might arise by use of this provision. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Optional; power to make gifts:]

Section 1.20. Gifts. I give my attorney in fact the power to make gifts, grants, or other transfers without consideration, of cash or other property, either outright or in trust, including the forgiveness of indebtedness, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(a) Gifts may be made to _____ [designate permissible donees, e.g., my wife, my issue, and any of my dependents or my husband and my children].

[If gifts to be made to charitable donees, add:]

(b) Gifts may be made to any charitable organization _____ [that my attorney in fact may in my attorney in fact's discretion select or to which I have contributed in the five years preceding the date that this power becomes effective]. My attorney in fact may complete any charitable pledges of mine that have not been completed at the time that this power becomes effective.

[If gifts may be made for medical or educational expenses of designated persons, add:]

(c) Amounts may be paid on behalf of _____ [designate persons, e.g., my wife, my children, and my grandchildren or my husband and any of my issue] directly to providers of educational services and medical care within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code Section 2503(e).

[Optional; to limit or prohibit gifts to attorney in fact, select one of four following provisions:]

[First alternative--gifts limited by "ascertainable standard":]

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, my attorney in fact may make gifts to _____ [himself or herself or themselves], but only if _____ [he is or she is or they are] in need of funds to meet the reasonable expenses of the following: (1) support in accordance with _____ [his or her or their] accustomed manner of living; (2) medical, dental, hospital, and nursing services, and other costs relating to the health care of my attorney in fact; or (3) the education of my attorney in fact.

[Second alternative--gifts limited to "5 or 5" amount:]

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, my attorney in fact may make gifts to _____ [himself or herself or themselves], but any such gifts in any calendar year may not exceed the greater of $5,000 or 5 percent of the assets subject to this power.

[Third alternative--gifts limited to "5 or 5" amount, but not more than annual exclusion:]

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, my attorney in fact may make gifts to _____ [himself or herself or themselves], but any such gifts in any calendar year may not exceed the greater of $5,000 or 5 percent of the assets subject to this power; however, if a gift made pursuant to the 5 percent provision would cause the imposition of a federal gift tax on the principal because the aggregate amount of any gifts made in any one calendar year to my attorney in fact would, but for this limitation, exceed the amount that may be made free of federal gift tax to _____ [him or her or them], then the amount of any gifts in any calendar year to my attorney in fact must not exceed the amount that may be made free of federal gift tax to _____ [him or her or them].

[Fourth alternative--no gifts to attorney in fact:]

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, my attorney in fact may not make any gift to _____ [himself or herself or themselves] or to any person to whom my attorney in fact owes an obligation of support.

[Optional; to require substantially equal gifts to principal's descendants add:]

(e) If my attorney in fact makes any gift to any descendant of mine, a gift of substantially equal value must be made to any other descendant of mine of the same generation.

PRACTICE TIP:

This provision should be included only after fully discussing its impact with the client. Typically, a power such as this will be designed for use as a "sprinkling power," rather than one requiring equal gifts to members of specific classes. In such cases, this provision could undermine the client's estate planning goals, either causing unwanted "balancing" distributions to be made, or convincing the attorney in fact to avoid making any distributions at all, including those the principal would have wanted to be made.

Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Optional; to give directions as to payment of gift taxes, select one of two following alternatives:]

[First alternative--attorney in fact to pay gift tax:]

(f) My attorney in fact may pay any gift tax that may arise by reason of any gift made.

[Second alternative--no gift tax because gifts limited to annual gift tax exclusion:]

(f) Any gifts made pursuant to this section will not be future interests within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code Section 2503, and the aggregate amount of any gifts made in any one calendar year to an individual must not exceed the amount that may be made free of federal gift tax to a person. The limitations in the preceding sentence will not apply to any gifts that incur no federal gift tax, such as, for example, gifts that qualify for the unlimited federal marital gift tax deduction or the charitable deduction.

[Continue as follows:]

(g) My attorney in fact may consent to the splitting of gifts under Internal Revenue Code Section 2513 or successor sections if my _____ [wife or husband] makes gifts to any one or more of my descendants or to a charitable institution.

[Optional: to nominate conservator, select one of two following provisions:]

PRACTICE TIP:

Durable powers of attorney are often explained to clients as the final means by which the necessity for imposition of a conservatorship may be avoided. Indeed, they may well fill that role in actual practice. However, the planner should focus on the fact that there are two distinct types of probate conservatorships: conservatorships of the person, and conservatorships of the estate. A power of attorney for health care [ see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives ], especially when coupled with a durable power of attorney for personal care, largely replaces a conservatorship of the person. A durable power of attorney for property management essentially obviates the need for a conservatorship of the estate.

Accordingly, many planners believe that the use of a durable power of attorney to nominate conservators should take into account this natural alignment. Thus, a power of attorney for health care would include a nomination of conservators of the person only, and a durable power of attorney for property management would include a nomination of conservators of the estate only. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[First alternative--one nominee as conservator of both person and estate:]

Section 1.21. Conservator. If at any time proceedings are initiated for the appointment of a conservator of my person or my estate or both, I hereby nominate _____ [name of nominee], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as conservator of both my person and my estate. I hereby waive the requirement of a bond if _____ [name of nominee] is appointed as conservator of my estate. I request that, if _____ [he or she] is appointed conservator of my estate by a court of this state, the court make an order granting _____ [him or her] all or as many of the independent powers listed in California Probate Code Section 2591 as the court finds appropriate.

[Second alternative--different nominees for conservator of person and conservator of estate:]

Section 1.21. Conservator. If at any time proceedings are initiated for the appointment of a conservator of my person, I nominate _____ [name], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as conservator of my person. If at any time proceedings are initiated for the appointment of a conservator of my estate, I nominate _____ [name], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as conservator of my estate. [Add if applicable: I hereby waive the requirement of a bond if _____ [name] is appointed as conservator of my estate.] I request that, if _____ [name of person nominated as conservator of estate] is appointed conservator of my estate by a court of this state, the court make an order granting to such person all or as many of those independent powers listed in California Probate Code Section 2591 as the court finds appropriate.

[Third alternative--attorney in fact authorized to nominate conservators of person and estate:]

Section 1.21. Power to Nominate Conservator. If at any time proceedings are initiated for the appointment of a conservator of my person or my estate or both, I authorize my attorney[s] in fact to nominate whomever _____ [he or she or they], in _____ [his or her or their] discretion, believe[s] appropriate as conservator of my estate, [but not] including the power to nominate _____ [himself or herself or themselves], and whomever _____ [he or she or they], in _____ [his or her or their] discretion, believe[s] appropriate as conservator of my person, [but not] including the power to nominate _____ [himself or herself or themselves]. I authorize my attorney[s] in fact to waive the requirement of a bond for any person so appointed, if my attorney[s] in fact, in _____ [his or her or their] discretion, believe[s] that such a waiver is appropriate.

[Continue as follows:]

Section 1.22. Restrictions on Property Management Powers. Notwithstanding any other provision of this power, my attorney in fact will not have any of the following powers related to property management:

(a) To use my property to discharge the legal obligations of my attorney in fact, including but not limited to the support of the dependents of my attorney in fact, except for those dependents to whom I also, along with my attorney in fact, owe a duty of support.

(b) To exercise any incident of ownership over any insurance policy that I own and that insures the life of my attorney in fact.

ARTICLE TWO AMPLIFYING PROVISIONS

[If power of attorney becomes effective only on principal's incapacity, add:]

Section 2.01. Determination of Incapacity. For all purposes under this power, I will be deemed to be incapacitated at such time as _____ [specify name(s) of person(s) who will make determination], by written declaration under penalty of perjury, certify that I am unable properly to care for myself or for my person or property; or, when a court of competent jurisdiction, by order so determines. The original declaration, or a certified copy of the court order, as the case may be, made or issued in accordance with this section, must be attached to the original of this power of attorney and may be recorded in any county or counties in which the original has been recorded. Any person may act in reliance on a written declaration or court order made or issued in accordance with this section, without the necessity of inquiring as to whether I am in fact incapacitated as provided in this section.

[If power of attorney becomes effective only on principal's incapacity, add:]

Section 2.02. Determination of Regained Capacity. After a determination of incapacity in accordance with Section 2.01, I will be deemed to have regained capacity at such time as _____ [specify name(s) of person(s) who will make determination], by written declaration under penalty of perjury, certify that I have regained the capacity to properly care for myself or for my person or property; or, when a court of competent jurisdiction, by order so determines. The original declaration, or a certified copy of the court order, as the case may be, made or issued in accordance with this section, must be attached to the original of this power of attorney and may be recorded in any county or counties in which the original has been recorded. Any person may act in reliance on a written declaration or court order made or issued in accordance with this section, without the necessity of inquiring as to whether I am in fact incapacitated as provided in this section.

[To provide for attorney in fact's compensation, or to prohibit compensation, select one of four following provisions:]

[First alternative--no compensation:]

Section 2.03. No Compensation. My attorney in fact will not be entitled to compensation for any services rendered as attorney in fact under this power.

[Second alternative--reasonable compensation:]

Section 2.03. Compensation. My attorney in fact will be entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered as attorney in fact under this power of attorney. Factors that should be considered in determining the amount of the compensation are: the time expended by my attorney in fact, the value of the property over which my attorney in fact exercises control and management, and the complexity of the transactions entered into by my attorney in fact. My attorney in fact may pay the compensation from my assets once each _____ [time period of payment, e.g., month or year], and must keep records of the services performed, the time spent in performing them, and the date and amount of each payment. [To place overall limit on amount of compensation, add: The amount of the compensation to which my attorney in fact will be entitled under this section will in no event exceed _____ (specify limit, e.g., 2 percent of the fair market value of the property over which my attorney in fact exercises control and management, determined on an annual basis or the sum of $100 per month or the sum of $1,000 per year).] [To require attorney in fact to give third party notice of compensation, add: My attorney in fact must, once each _____ (time period, e.g., month or year), provide _____ (name and address of third party) with a written notice showing the total time spent in performing the services, a description of the services performed, and the amount of compensation paid to _____ (himself or herself or themselves) for each such time period.] [If compensation is to be divided between two attorneys in fact, add: The two persons serving as my attorney in fact must divide the total amount of compensation between them in proportion to the work done and the attention given to the assets subject to their management by each of them.]

PRACTICE TIP:

The age of the principal at the time of execution of the document should be considered before including specific dollar amount limits. What may seem to be a reasonable fee at the time of execution could be viewed as paltry 30 years later, when the attorney in fact is spending significant time managing the principal's affairs. While this problem could be avoided with the inclusion of a cost-of-living escalator clause, such clauses tend to be rather lengthy, and the amount of space devoted to such a clause might seem out of place in relation to the purpose of the durable power of attorney. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Third alternative--reasonable compensation based on corporate trustee's fees:]

Section 2.03. Compensation. My attorney in fact will be entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered as attorney in fact. The amount of compensation will be determined in accordance with the fees of corporate trustees for inter vivos trusts in effect during the period of management in the city where the largest part of the assets subject to this power of attorney are located. My attorney in fact may pay the compensation from my assets once each _____ [time period of payment, e.g., month or year], and must keep records of the services performed, the time spent in performing them, the fee schedule consulted to determine the amount of the compensation, and the date and amount of each payment. [To place overall limit on amount of compensation, add: The amount of the compensation to which my attorney in fact will be entitled under this section will in no event exceed _____ (specify limit, e.g., 2 percent of the fair market value of the property over which my attorney in fact exercises control and management, determined on an annual basis or the sum of $100 per month or the sum of $1,000 per year).] [To require attorney in fact to give third party notice of compensation, add: My attorney in fact must, once each _____ (time period, e.g., month or year), provide _____ (name and address of third party) with a written notice showing the amount of time spent in performing the services, a description of the services performed, the fee schedule consulted to determine the amount of the compensation, and the date and amount of each payment.] [If compensation is to be divided between two attorneys in fact, add: The two persons serving as my attorney in fact must divide the total amount of compensation between them in proportion to the work done and the attention given to the assets subject to their management by each of them.]

PRACTICE TIP:

The age of the principal at the time of execution of the document should be considered before including specific dollar amount limits. What may seem to be a reasonable fee at the time of execution could be viewed as paltry 30 years later, when the attorney in fact is spending significant time managing the principal's affairs. While this problem could be avoided with the inclusion of a cost-of-living escalator clause, such clauses tend to be rather lengthy, and the amount of space devoted to such a clause might seem out of place in relation to the purpose of the durable power of attorney. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Fourth alternative--compensation according to hourly rate:]

Section 2.03. Compensation. My attorney in fact will be entitled to compensation for services rendered as attorney in fact under this power at the rate of _____ [specify amount, e.g., $20] per hour. My attorney in fact may pay the compensation from my assets once each _____ [time period of payment, e.g., month or year], and must keep records of the services performed, the time spent in performing them, and the date and amount of each payment. [To place overall limit on amount of compensation, add: The amount of the compensation to which my attorney in fact will be entitled under this section will in no event exceed _____ (specify limit, e.g., 2 percent of the fair market value of the property over which my attorney in fact exercises control and management, determined on an annual basis or the sum of $100 per month or the sum of $1,000 per year).] [To require attorney in fact to give third party notice of compensation, add: My attorney in fact must, once each _____ (time period, e.g., month or year), provide _____ (name and address of third party) with a written notice showing the amount of time spent in performing the services, a description of the services performed, the fee schedule consulted to determine the amount of the compensation, and the date and amount of each payment.] [If compensation is to be divided between two attorneys in fact, add: The two persons serving as my attorney in fact must divide the total amount of compensation between them in proportion to the work done and the attention given to the assets subject to their management by each of them.]

PRACTICE TIP:

The age of the principal at the time of execution of the document should be considered before including specific dollar amount limits. What may seem to be a reasonable fee at the time of execution could be viewed as paltry 30 years later, when the attorney in fact is spending significant time managing the principal's affairs. While this problem could be avoided with the inclusion of a cost-of-living escalator clause, such clauses tend to be rather lengthy, and the amount of space devoted to such a clause might seem out of place in relation to the purpose of the durable power of attorney. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Continue as follows:]

Section 2.04. Reimbursement for Costs and Expenses. My attorney in fact will be entitled to reimbursement from my property for expenditures properly made in performing the services conferred by me in this power. My attorney in fact must keep records of any such expenditures and reimbursement.

Section 2.05. Reliance by Third Parties. To induce third parties to act in accordance with the powers granted to my attorney in fact in this document, I represent and warrant:

(a) If this document is revoked or amended for any reason, I, my estate, my heirs, successors, and assigns will hold any third party harmless from any loss suffered, or liability incurred, by the third party in acting in accordance with this document before the third party's receipt of written notice of termination or amendment.

(b) Subject to any other provisions of this power, the powers conferred on my attorney in fact may be exercised alone, and my attorney in fact's signature or act under the authority granted in this document may be accepted by third parties as fully authorized by me and with the same force and effect as if I were personally present, competent, and acting on my own behalf.

(c) No person who acts in reliance on any representation of my attorney in fact as to the scope of my attorney in fact's authority granted under this document will incur any liability to me, my estate, my heirs, successors, or assigns for permitting my attorney in fact to exercise any such power, nor will any person who deals with my attorney in fact be responsible to determine or ensure the proper application of funds or property.

(d) All third parties from whom my attorney in fact may request information regarding my personal affairs or my physical or mental health, including medical, dental, and hospital records, are hereby authorized to provide such information to my attorney in fact without limitation and are released from any legal liability whatsoever to me, my estate, my heirs, successors, or assigns for complying with those requests. I authorize in advance all physicians, dentists, psychiatrists, and psychologists who have treated me, and all other providers of health care, including hospitals, to release to my attorney in fact all information or photocopies of any records that my attorney in fact may request. If I am able to confirm this authorization at the time of the request, third parties may seek such confirmation from me, but this authorization will not be conditional on that confirmation. Physicians, hospitals, and other providers of health care must treat the request of my attorney in fact as that of a legal representative of an incompetent patient (as contemplated by California Civil Code Section 56.11(c)(2), or any successor section) and must honor that request on that basis. I waive any privilege applicable to such information and records, and to any communication pertaining to me and made in the course of a physician-patient or psychiatrist-patient relationship.

Section 2.06. Ratification. I ratify and confirm all that my attorney in fact does or causes to be done under the authority granted in this power. All contracts, promissory notes, checks, or other bills of exchange, drafts, other obligations, stock powers, instruments, and other documents signed, endorsed, drawn, accepted, made, executed, or delivered by my attorney in fact will bind me, my estate, my heirs, successors, and assigns.

[Optional; insert only if principal wishes to relieve attorney in fact of liability for acts other than willful misconduct or gross negligence:]

Section 2.07. Exculpation of Attorney in Fact. My attorney in fact will not be liable to me or any of my successors in interest for any action taken or not taken in good faith, but will be liable for any willful misconduct or gross negligence.

[Continue as follows:]

Section 2.08. Revocation and Amendment. I revoke any and all durable powers of attorney for property management and personal care (but not durable powers of attorney for health care) that I have executed before executing this power of attorney. I retain the right to revoke or amend this power and to substitute other attorneys in fact in place of my attorney in fact. Amendments to this power of attorney must be made in writing by me personally (not by my attorney in fact). They must be attached to the original of this document and, if the original is recorded, must be recorded in the same county or counties as the original, although failure to record any amendment will not alter its affect.

[Optional; to eliminate power of specific person(s) to petition court:]

Section 2.09. Power to Petition Court. I expressly eliminate, pursuant to California Probate Code Section 4503(a), the authority of _____ [name(s) or description, e.g., my son, Robert J. Green or my children or grandchildren] to petition the court under California Probate Code Sections 4540 et seq., or any successor sections [if desired, add further specification, e.g., so long as my wife is living and competent].

ARTICLE THREE
GENERAL PROVISIONS

[To specify form of attorney in fact's signature, select one of following provisions:]

[First alternative--one attorney in fact:]

Section 3.01. Signature of Attorney in Fact. My attorney in fact must use the following form when signing on my behalf pursuant to this power: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact."

[Second alternative--two attorneys in fact, required to act unanimously:]

Section 3.01. Signature of Attorney in Fact. My attorney in fact must use the following form when signing on my behalf pursuant to this power: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of first attorney in fact] and _____ [name of second attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact."

[Third alternative--two attorneys in fact, with power to act alone:]

Section 3.01. Signature of Attorney in Fact. _____ When signing on my behalf pursuant to this power, [name of first attorney in fact] must use the following form: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of first attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact." When signing on my behalf pursuant to this power, _____ [name of second attorney in fact] must use the following form: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of second attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact."

[Continue as follows:]

Section 3.02. Severability. If any of the provisions of this power are found to be invalid for any reason, that invalidity will not affect any of the other provisions of this power, and all invalid provisions will be wholly disregarded.

Section 3.03. Governing Law. This power of attorney is executed according to the provisions of the Power of Attorney Law of California, and all questions relating to the validity, interpretation, and administration of this power will be determined in accordance with that law.

This Durable Power of Attorney is executed by me on _____ [month, day], _____ [year], at _____, California.

_____ [signature]

[name of principal]

ACCEPTANCE BY ATTORNEY IN FACT

Dated: _____.

[EITHER, for one attorney in fact:]

_____ [signature]

[name of attorney in fact]

[OR, for two attorneys in fact:]

_____ [signature]

[name of first attorney in fact]

_____ [signature]

[name of second attorney in fact]

PRACTICE TIP:

A prospective attorney in fact may be reluctant to sign a durable power of attorney if he or she will be legally obligated to act under it at some unspecified time in the possibly distant future. The planner may wish to include a statement that will make Probate Code Section 4230(c) inapplicable, even though the attorney in fact has signed the durable power of attorney. Such a provision could read as follows: "In signing this durable power of attorney, the attorney in fact acknowledges and accepts _____ [his or her] appointment as attorney in fact; provided, however, that this acknowledgment and acceptance is not meant to indicate that the attorney in fact agrees to act under this durable power of attorney at any particular time, under any particular circumstances, or regarding any particular transaction, and the provisions of Prob. Code § 4230(c) shall not apply to this durable power of attorney despite the attorney in fact's execution of this acknowledgment and acceptance." Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

[Acknowledgments taken in California must be in the following form (Civ. Code § 1189(a)):]

State of California )
County of _____ )
 )
 )

On _____ [date], before me, _____ [name and title of officer taking acknowledgment], personally appeared _____ [name(s) of person(s) signing instrument], _____ who proved to me on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person[s] whose name[s] _____ [is or are] subscribed to the within instrument and acknowledged to me that _____ [he or she or they] executed the same in _____ [his or her or their] authorized _____ [capacity or capacities], and that by _____ [his or her or their] signature[s] on the instrument the person[s], or the entity upon behalf of which the person[s] acted, executed the instrument.

I certify under PENALTY OF PERJURY under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

WITNESS my hand and official seal.

Signature _____ [Seal]

[Include lawyer's certificate required by Prob. Code § 4503(a)(2) if power of attorney includes provision in Section 2.09 limiting authority to petition court:]

LAWYER'S CERTIFICATE

(Prob. Code § 4503(a)(2))

I am a lawyer authorized to practice law in the state where this power of attorney was executed, and the principal was my client at the time this power of attorney was executed. I have advised my client concerning _____ [his or her] rights in connection with this power of attorney and the applicable law and the consequences of signing or not signing this power of attorney, and my client, after being so advised, has executed this power of attorney.

Dated: _____

_____ [signature]

[name of attorney]

Law Firm: _____ [firm name]

Address: _____

Telephone Number: _____

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable
 Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Limited Powers

38 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.201

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.201 Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Personal Affairs (Short Form)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a short-form durable power of attorney for property management and other personal affairs. It contains many of the same provisions of the long-form durable power of attorney for property management in § 68.200. It may be used, for example, to designate one attorney in fact, or two attorneys in fact. It may be used to empower the attorney in fact to make gifts, and to place appropriate limitations on that power. Other provisions of this form, however, have been simplified and shortened.

This form may be suitable for use when the principal wishes to give the attorney in fact broad discretion to manage the principal's property but does not wish to include the detailed specification of powers found in the long-form durable power of attorney for property management in § 68.200.

[b] Powers

Most of the powers conferred on the attorney in fact in this form are taken from Prob. Code §§ 4450-4464, which state powers that may be incorporated by reference into the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4400-4465]. Unlike the long-form durable power of attorney in § 68.200[2], however, this form summarizes the statutory powers, rather than restating them verbatim.

[c] Power Over Specific Item or Class of Property

This form may be used to give the attorney in fact power and authority over all of the principal's property, or only part of the property. The introductory section of the form includes an optional provision that may be used if the principal chooses to limit the attorney in fact's power and authority to a specific item or items, or to a defined class, of the principal's property. For a discussion of this optional provision and its use in a durable power of attorney, see § 68.200[1][c].

[d] Gifts

This form may be used to give the attorney in fact the power to make gifts on the principal's behalf [see [2], Section 1.18, below ]. It may also be used to place limits on that power to avoid potentially unfavorable tax results that might otherwise result from the power. For the tax consequences of giving the attorney in fact unlimited gift-making power, see § 68.200[1][e].

[e] Determination of Incapacity

If the power of attorney is to become effective only on the principal's incapacity, it is a type of "springing" power [see Prob. Code § 4030; see also § 68.10[3][g]] and should contain some provision specifying how it will be determined if the principal has become incapacitated. The Power of Attorney Law provides a reasonable and practical method for making this determination [see Prob. Code § 4129(a); see also § 68.200[1][k]]. However, the method provided by the Power of Attorney Law is not exclusive, and the principal may provide for other methods in the power of attorney. For a provision adopting the statutory method, but also allowing a determination of incapacity to be made by court order, see Section 2.01 of this form. For further discussion of the issues raised by incapacity when a durable power of attorney provides that it will become effective only on the principal's incapacity, see § 68.200[1][k].

[f] Compensation

This form offers various alternative provisions regarding compensation of the attorney in fact [see [2], Section 2.03, below ]. Unless the power of attorney provides otherwise, the attorney in fact is entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered as attorney in fact [Prob. Code §§ 4101(a), 4204].

In some cases, reasonable compensation may be appropriate; in others, however, the attorney in fact will be a close family member or friend and will be willing to act as an accommodation to the principal and without any compensation. For discussion of the compensation of attorneys in fact, and appropriate power of attorney provisions relating to that subject, see §§ 68.17 and 68.200[1][l].

[g] Exculpation of Attorney in Fact

The power of attorney may contain a provision relieving the attorney in fact of liability for acts taken or not taken in good faith under the power of attorney [see [2], Section 2.07, below ]. An exculpatory provision may in some cases may be helpful in inducing an otherwise unwilling person to agree to act as attorney in fact. In other cases, however, an exculpatory provision will not only be unnecessary, but should be avoided. For a general discussion of durable power of attorney provisions exculpating the attorney in fact of liability, see § 68.200[1][m].

[h] Power to Petition Court

A durable power of attorney may limit (or absolutely prohibit) the right of third persons to petition the court for various orders relating to the power and the attorney in fact's duties and powers under the power [see Prob. Code §§ 4540-4545]. Although it is inadvisable to totally prohibit court petitions, it may be desirable in particular cases to limit the right of specified individuals to petition the court. For a discussion of court petitions, see § 68.200[1][n]. For a durable power of attorney provision that may be used to limit the right of specified persons to petition the court, see Section 2.09 of this form.

[i] Governing Law

If a durable power of attorney indicates the principal's intention that it be governed by the California Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.], and if there are certain minimum contacts between the principal, the attorney in fact, or the power and the State of California [see Prob. Code § 4052(a); see also § 68.200[1][o]], the Power of Attorney Law will govern the power and apply to all acts and transactions of the attorney in fact, whether inside or outside of California. Since the Power of Attorney Law is a modern and comprehensive set of statutes, it is ordinarily good practice to provide in the power that the law will govern the power. For a provision doing this, see Section 3.03 of this power. For further discussion of the Power of Attorney Law and provisions applying it to powers of attorney, see §§ 68.10[2][a] and 68.200[1][o].

[j] Execution and Acknowledgment

The durable power of attorney must be signed, either by the principal personally or by some other person in the principal's presence and at the principal's direction [Prob. Code § 4121(b)]. Although acknowledgment is not mandatory, acknowledgment or other certified proof of execution is a prerequisite to recordation [see Gov. Code § 27287] and may help to secure acceptance of the power of attorney by third parties [ see § 68.200 [1][p], [q]].

[k] Recording Fact of Attorney's Advice

The Power of Attorney Law requires that a warning be included on all printed durable power of attorney forms sold or otherwise distributed for use in California by persons who do not have the advice of legal counsel [see Prob. Code §§ 4128(a) (durable power for property management), 4703(a) (durable power for health care)]. This warning is intended to apprise persons who use the forms without legal assistance that they are important legal documents and that serious consequences will result from their use.

Although there is no requirement that the statutory warning be included in an attorney-drafted power, some attorneys believe that it is good practice to do so. When the warning is in the power, the principal will be required to read it when he or she reads the power of attorney; and the principal's signature at the end of the power will acknowledge that the principal has been put on notice as to the contents of the warning.

The statutory warning is not in every respect suitable for inclusion in the power itself, since some terms of the warning may be interpreted as varying or modifying other terms of the power. Instead, it is recommended that the statutory warning be given to the principal in a separate document, that the principal be asked to read and initial the document, and that a third document stating that the principal was duly advised by the attorney and that the principal received the written warning be presented to the principal for signature at the same time as the power of attorney. In this way, the principal will be clearly warned, and a written record that the principal was warned will be established. For further discussion, see §§ 68.205[1], 68.206[1], and 68.207[1]

[2] Form

Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management and Personal Affairs (Short Form)

DURABLE POWER OF ATTORNEY FOR MANAGEMENT OF PROPERTY AND PERSONAL AFFAIRS

[To appoint attorney(s) in fact and successor, if any, select one of the following alternatives:]

[First alternative: to appoint one attorney in fact and one successor:]

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], hereby appoint _____ [name of attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorney in fact. If _____ [name of attorney in fact] dies, resigns, or is unwilling or unable to act because of incapacity or otherwise, I appoint _____ [name of successor attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorney in fact. All references in this document to "my attorney in fact" refer to the attorney in fact acting at the pertinent time.

[Second alternative--to appoint two attorneys in fact and require them to act unanimously, except in case of vacancy:]

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], hereby appoint _____ [name of first attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], and _____ [name of second attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorneys in fact. These two persons must act unanimously in all matters referred to in this power of attorney, and when so acting they will be referred to as "my attorney in fact." Whenever a signature is required of my attorney in fact, both of these persons will be required to sign. If either of these persons dies, resigns, or is unable or unwilling to act because of incapacity, or any other reason, however, the remaining person must act alone and, when so acting, will be referred to as "my attorney in fact."

[Third alternative--to appoint two attorneys in fact and authorize them to act separately:]

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], hereby appoint _____ [name of first attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], and _____ [name of second attorney in fact], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], as my attorneys in fact. Each of these persons, acting alone, will have full power and authority to act on my behalf under the terms of this power of attorney, and either, when so acting, will be referred to as "my attorney in fact."

[Continue as follows:]

I intend by this power of attorney to create a durable power of attorney pursuant to the California Power of Attorney Law, but specifically not including the provisions of that law relating to durable powers of attorney for health care. This power of attorney will be effective _____ [immediately on its execution and will not be affected by my subsequent incapacity or on my incapacity as determined in accordance with Section 2.01 of this power or specify date certain, e.g., on July 31, 2000, and will not be affected by my subsequent incapacity.]

[If power is to become effective on principal's incapacity, add:]

If, after it has been determined in accordance with Section 2.01 that I have become incapacitated, it should be determined in accordance with Section 2.02 of this power that I have regained my capacity, the powers granted to my attorney in fact in this power will forthwith cease.

[Optional provision; insert only if power is to have specified termination date:]

Unless this power is sooner revoked, my attorney in fact will have and may exercise the powers granted in this power until _____ [specify date, e.g., December 31, 2001], on which date this power will terminate.

[Optional; insert following provision if attorney in fact is to have power only over specific item or items, or a specific class, of property, and not over all of the principal's property:]

This power deals only with my interest in _____ [describe property, e.g., the dwelling house and lot at 120 Shady Lane, Smalltown, California, and particularly described as Lot 14, Block 20, Map of Shady Acres, County of Pacific, California]. Notwithstanding any other provision of this power, the powers that I give to my attorney in fact in this power extend to that interest, and to the full extent of that interest; but they do not extend to, and my attorney in fact will have no power or authority over, any other interest that I may have in any other property, except only to the extent that the management of the property described above will necessarily affect the other interest.

[Continue as follows:]

I give my attorney in fact the powers specified in this power of attorney with the understanding that they will be exercised for my benefit, on my behalf, and solely in a fiduciary capacity.

ARTICLE ONE POWERS

Section 1.01. Construction of Powers Generally. Except as otherwise limited or extended in this power of attorney, I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

- (a) Demand, receive, and obtain by litigation or otherwise, money or other things of value to which I am, may become, or claim to be entitled, and conserve, invest, disburse, or use anything so received for the purposes intended.
- (b) Contract in any manner with any person on terms agreeable to my attorney in fact, to accomplish a purpose of a transaction, and perform, rescind, reform, release, or modify the contract or another contract made by me or on my behalf.
- (c) Execute, acknowledge, seal, and deliver a deed, revocation, mortgage, lease, notice, check, release, or other instrument my attorney in fact considers desirable to accomplish a purpose of a transaction.
- (d) Prosecute, defend, submit to arbitration, settle, and propose or accept a compromise with respect to, a claim existing in my favor or against me or intervene in litigation relating to the claim.
- (e) Seek on my behalf the assistance of a court to carry out an act authorized by this power of attorney.
- (f) Engage, compensate, and discharge an attorney, accountant, expert witness, or other assistant.
- (g) Keep appropriate records of each transaction, including an accounting of receipts and disbursements.
- (h) Prepare, execute, and file a record, report, or other document my attorney in fact considers desirable to safeguard or promote my interest under a statute or governmental regulation.
- (i) Reimburse my attorney in fact for expenditures properly made by my attorney in fact in exercising the powers granted by this power of attorney.
- (j) In general, do any other lawful act.

Section 1.02. Real and Personal Property. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable for the management or maintenance of any real or personal property in which I own an interest when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an interest, including the power to acquire, sell, and convey ownership of property; control the manner in which property is managed, maintained, and used; change the form of title in which property is held; satisfy and grant security interests and other encumbrances on property; obtain and make claims on insurance policies covering risks of loss or damage to property; accept or remove tenants; collect proceeds generated by property; ensure that any needed repairs are made to property; exercise rights of participation in real estate syndicates or other real estate ventures; make improvements to property; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Sections 4451 and 4452, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.03. Securities. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable with respect to any securities that I own when this power becomes effective, or that are acquired thereafter, including the power to purchase and sell securities; exercise voting rights with respect to securities; collect dividends, interest, and any other proceeds generated by securities; transfer title to securities; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4453, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power. For purposes of this section, the term "securities" includes stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and all other types of securities and financial instruments [optional], except commodity futures contracts and call and put options on stocks and stock indexes].

[Optional provision:]

Section 1.04. Commodity Futures and Options. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable with respect to any commodity futures contracts and options that I own when this power becomes effective, or that are acquired thereafter, including the power to purchase, sell, or exercise commodity futures contracts and options; establish, modify, and terminate option accounts with a broker; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4454, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power. For purposes of this section, the term "options" means call and put options on stocks and stock indexes traded on a regulated option exchange.

[Continue with the following:]

Section 1.05. Financial Institutions. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable in connection with any financial institution in which I have an account or an interest in an account when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an account or an interest in an account, including the power to continue, modify, or terminate existing accounts; open new accounts; draw, endorse, and deposit checks, drafts, and other negotiable instruments; prepare, receive, and deliver financial statements; establish, maintain, or close safe deposit boxes; borrow money; apply for and receive traveler's checks and letters of credit; extend payment periods with respect to commercial paper; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4455, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power. For purposes of this section, the term "financial institution" includes, but is not limited to, banks, trust companies, savings banks, commercial banks, building and loan associations, savings and loan companies or associations, credit unions, industrial loan companies, thrift companies, and brokerage firms.

Section 1.06. Business Operations. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable in connection with any business venture in which I have an interest when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an interest, including the power to execute and enforce my obligations and rights as a partner in any general or limited partnership to the extent permitted by law and any applicable partnership agreement; enforce my rights as the holder of a bond or similar instrument issued by any business in which I have an interest; discharge my duties and enforce my rights in any sole proprietorship; expand, recapitalize, or reorganize any business to the extent my interest in that business allows; collect proceeds generated by any business in which I have an interest and to which I am entitled; sell or liquidate my interest in a business; and perform any other acts described in California

Probate Code Section 4456, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.07. Insurance and Annuities. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable with respect to any insurance or annuity contracts in which I have an interest when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an interest, including the power to acquire additional insurance coverage of any type or additional annuities; continue existing insurance or annuity contracts; agree to modifications in the terms of insurance or annuity contracts in which I have an interest; borrow against insurance or annuity contracts in which I have an interest, to the extent allowed under the contract terms; change beneficiaries under existing contracts and name beneficiaries under new contracts, _____ [including or but not including] the power to designate _____ [himself or herself or themselves] as the _____ [beneficiary or beneficiaries]; receive dividends, proceeds, and other benefits generated by the contracts; transfer interests in insurance or annuity contracts to the extent permitted under the terms of those contracts; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4457, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.08. Estate, Trust, and Other Beneficiary Transactions. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable in order to act, to the extent an agent is permitted to do so by law and by any controlling instrument, with respect to any estate or trust in which I have an interest when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an interest, including the power to receive payments to which I am entitled from any estate or trust; participate in all proceedings concerning any estate or trust in which I have an interest; execute disclaimers of any interests I may have in any estate or trust; convey or release any contingent interests I may have in any estate or trust; [optional: make any election available to a surviving spouse under California Probate Code Section 13502 or 13503;] and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4458, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power. For purposes of this section, the term "estate or trust" means all matters that affect a trust, probate estate, guardianship, conservatorship, escrow, custodianship, or other fund in or from which I am, may become, or claim to be entitled, as a beneficiary, to a share or payment. The powers described in this section do not include the power to create, modify, or revoke trusts.

Section 1.09. Claims and Litigation. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable with respect to any claim that I may have or that has been asserted against me and with respect to any legal proceeding in which I have an interest when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an interest, including the power to institute, prosecute, and defend legal proceedings and claims on my behalf; file actions to determine adverse claims, intervene in litigation, and act as amicus curiae in any proceedings affecting my interests; seek preliminary, provisional, or intermediate relief on my behalf; apply for the enforcement or satisfaction of judgments that have been rendered in my favor; participate fully in the development of claims and proceedings; submit any dispute in which I have an interest to arbitration; submit and accept settlement offers and participate in settlement negotiations; handle all procedural aspects, such as service of process, filing of appeals, stipulations, verifications, waivers, and all other matters in any way affecting the process of any claim or litigation; fully participate in any voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy proceeding involving me or in which I am a claimant; satisfy judgments that have been rendered against me; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4459, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.10. Personal and Family Maintenance. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable in order to effectively conduct my personal affairs and to discharge any and all obligations I may owe to myself and to family members and other third persons who are customarily or legally entitled to my support when this power is executed, or that are undertaken thereafter, including the power to take steps to ensure that our usual standard of living is maintained; arrange for medical and dental care; continue existing charge accounts, open new charge accounts, and make payments thereon; provide for transportation; maintain correspondence; prepare, maintain, and preserve personal records and documents; maintain membership in any social, religious, or professional organization and make contributions thereto; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4460, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power, subject to

Section 1.18.

[If I have granted my agent under my _____ (durable power of attorney for health care or advance health care directive) the power to make certain decisions and exercise certain powers regarding my personal life and medical care, my attorney(s) in fact must make any payments relating to those decisions or exercise of those powers as directed by my health care agent, and _____ (is or are) hereby released from any and all liability for making these payments.]

Section 1.11. Government Benefits. With respect to any government benefits either existing when this power is executed or accruing thereafter, whether in this state or elsewhere, I give my attorney in fact the power to take all actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable, including the power to execute and deliver vouchers related to government benefits; take possession of and store property as allowed under any government benefit program in which I have an interest; prepare and submit claims for government benefits to which I may be entitled; collect proceeds due to me under any government benefit plan; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4461, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power. For purposes of this section, the term "government benefits" means benefits from Social Security, Medicare, Medi-Cal, or other governmental programs, or from civil or military service.

Section 1.12. Retirement Plans. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any actions that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable in order to maintain or participate in any retirement plan in which I have an interest when this power is executed, or in which I later acquire an interest, including the power to select the manner in which benefits under the plan are to be paid; designate beneficiaries under the plan, _____ [including or but not including] the power to designate _____ [himself or herself or themselves] as the _____ [beneficiary or beneficiaries]; make voluntary contributions to the plan; make rollovers from one plan into another; to the extent authorized by the plan, borrow from the plan and sell the assets of the plan; and perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4462, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.13. Tax Matters. I give my attorney in fact the power to do all of the following:

(a) Prepare, sign, and file federal, state, local, and foreign income, gift, payroll, FICA returns, and other tax returns, claims for refunds, requests for extension of time, petitions regarding tax matters, and any other tax-related documents, including receipts, offers, waivers, consents (including consents and agreements under Internal Revenue Code Section 2032A or any successor section), closing agreements, and any power of attorney required by the Internal Revenue Service or other taxing authority with respect to a year beginning with and including the year _____ and ending with and including the year _____.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is important that the years be exactly specified for which this power is to be effective. The Internal Revenue Service insists on its own power of attorney forms that specific years (or quarters in the case of quarterly taxes) be set forth [ see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney ]. This can be a broad range of years, e.g., 1990 through 2030, but simply saying "all years" will not suffice in the Service's view. Indeed, in the Service's own forms, note only the types of taxes must be enumerated, but the exact form numbers of each return must be listed, such as 709, 1040, etc. If the planner believes that tax powers are likely to be important, review of the instructions accompanying the Service's own power of attorney, Form 2848, should be seriously considered. These instructions explain the rules limiting who is entitled to represent any taxpayer before the Service, and would deny that power to an attorney in fact who does not fit into one of the listed categories of representatives. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

(b) Pay taxes due, collect refunds, post bonds, receive confidential information, and contest deficiencies determined by the Internal Revenue Service or other taxing authority for any of the taxes and tax periods specified above.

(c) Exercise any election I may have under federal, state, local, or foreign tax law.

(d) Act for me in all tax matters before the Internal Revenue Service and any other taxing authority for any of the taxes and tax periods specified above.

(e) Perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4463, except acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.14. Property Acquired After Execution and Property Located and Powers Exercised Outside State. The powers granted to my attorney in fact in this power of attorney are exercisable equally with respect to an interest I have when this power of attorney is executed or one that I acquire later, whether or not the property is located in California, and whether or not the powers are exercised or the power of attorney is executed in this state.

Section 1.15. Power to Create, Modify, and Revoke Trusts. I give my attorney in fact the power to take any action that my attorney in fact considers necessary or desirable with respect to trusts that exist when this power is executed or that are established thereafter (other than powers that I hold in a fiduciary capacity or solely by virtue of being a beneficiary of any trust), including the power to establish trusts for my benefit or the benefit of [my _____ (wife or husband),] my issue, and any other of my dependents; contribute or transfer assets to any trust in which I have an interest; and exercise any power I may have as an individual (not as a fiduciary), other than as a trust beneficiary, such as borrowing trust assets, amending or revoking a trust agreement, and voting shares of stock, but subject to the limitation that any trust I have created may be modified or revoked by my attorney in fact only if expressly permitted by the trust instrument. This section must not be construed as limiting the authority of my attorney in fact to exercise any power, with respect to trusts, that I may hold in a fiduciary capacity or as a trust beneficiary, to the extent that such authority is specifically given elsewhere in this power.

Section 1.16. Pets. I give my attorney in fact the power to house, or arrange for the housing, support, and maintenance of, any animals that I own or have custody of and to pay reasonable boarding, kenneling, and veterinary fees for such animals [optional provision for disposal of animal:, or if the support and maintenance of any such animal becomes unreasonably expensive, to dispose of the animal in a humane fashion, preferably by finding another home for the animal].

[First alternative--power to make funeral and burial arrangements if no similar provision appears in principal's durable power of attorney for health care:]

Section 1.17. Funeral and Burial Arrangements. I give my attorney in fact the power to arrange for my funeral or other memorial service and for burial or cremation of my remains, including the purchase of a burial plot or other place for interment of my remains or ashes.

[Second alternative--power to make funeral and burial arrangements if similar provision appears in principal's durable power of attorney for health care:]

Section 1.17. Funeral and Burial Arrangements. I give my attorney in fact the power to arrange for my funeral or other memorial service and for burial or cremation of my remains, including the purchase of a burial plot or other place for interment of my remains or ashes, as directed by my agent under my _____ [durable power of attorney for health care or advance health care directive], for which payments my attorney in fact is hereby released from any and all liability.

[Continue as follows:]

Section 1.18. Gifts. I give my attorney in fact the power to make gifts, grants, or other transfers without consideration, of cash or other property, either outright or in trust, including the power to forgive indebtedness and consent to gift splitting under Internal Revenue Code Section 2513 or successor sections. The powers granted under this section must be exercised, if at all, in favor of _____ [designate permissible donees, e.g., my wife, my issue, and any of my dependents or my husband and my children]. Any gifts made under this section must not be future interests within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code Section 2503, and the aggregate amount of any gifts made in any one calendar year to any one individual must not exceed the amount that may be made free of federal gift tax to a person. The limitations in the preceding sentence do not apply to any gifts that incur no federal gift tax, such as, for example, gifts that qualify for the unlimited federal gift tax marital deduction or charitable deduction.

[To limit or prohibit gifts to attorney in fact, select one of the following provisions:]

[First alternative--gifts to attorney in fact in accordance with "ascertainable standard":]

Section 1.19. Gifts to Attorney in Fact Limited to Ascertainable Standard. Notwithstanding any other provision in this power, my attorney in fact may make gifts in amounts not to exceed the annual federal gift tax exclusion to _____ [himself or herself or themselves], but only if _____ [he is or she is or they are] in need of funds to meet the reasonable expenses of the following: (1) support in accordance with _____ [his or her or their] accustomed manner of living; (2) medical, dental, hospital, and nursing services, and other costs relating to the health care of my attorney in fact; and (3) the education of my attorney in fact.

[OR]

[Second alternative--no gifts to attorney in fact:]

Section 1.19. No Gifts to Attorney in Fact. Notwithstanding any other provision in this power, my attorney in fact must not make any gift to _____ [himself or herself or themselves] or to any person to whom my attorney in fact owes an obligation of support [add if applicable: unless I also owe that person an obligation of support].

[OR]

[Third alternative--unlimited gifts to attorney in fact:]

Section 1.19. Gifts to Attorney in Fact. Notwithstanding any other provision in this power, I authorize my attorney[s] in fact in fact to make gifts to _____ [himself or herself or themselves].

[Continue with the following:]

[First alternative--nomination of conservator:]

Section 1.20. Nomination of Conservator. If proceedings are initiated for the appointment of a conservator of my person or my estate or both, I nominate _____ [name of nominee], of _____ [address], as conservator of my person, estate, or person and estate. I waive the requirement of a bond if _____ [name of nominee] is appointed as conservator of my estate. I request that, if the person named above is appointed conservator of my estate, the court make an order granting to that person all or as many of those independent powers listed in California Probate Code Section 2591 as the court deems appropriate.

[OR]

[Second alternative--attorney in fact authorized to nominate conservators of person and estate:]

Section 1.20. Power to Nominate Conservator. If proceedings are initiated for the appointment of a conservator of my person or my estate or both, I authorize my attorney[s] in fact to nominate whomever _____ [he or she or they], in _____ [his or her or their] discretion believe[s] appropriate as conservator of my person or my estate or both, [but not] including _____ [himself or herself or themselves]. I authorize my attorney[s] in fact to waive the requirement of a bond for any person appointed, if _____ [he or she or they] believe[s] a waiver is appropriate.

[Continue with the following:]

Section 1.21. Other Matters. Except for those actions that conflict with or are limited by another provision in this power, I give my attorney in fact the power to act as my alter ego with respect to all matters and affairs that are not included in the other provisions of this power, to the extent that a principal can act through an agent. This section does not authorize my attorney in fact to make health care decisions, as defined in California Probate Code Section 4617.

Section 1.22. Incidental Powers. In connection with the exercise of any of the powers described in the preceding sections, I give my attorney[s] in fact full authority, to the extent that a principal can act through an agent, to take all actions that _____ [he believes or she believes or they believe] necessary, proper, or convenient, to the extent that I could take these actions myself, including the following powers:

- (a) To prepare, execute, and file documents and maintain records;
- (b) To enter into contracts;
- (c) To hire, discharge, and pay reasonable compensation to attorneys, accountants, expert witnesses, or other assistants;
- (d) To engage in litigation regarding a claim in favor of or against me;
- (e) To execute, acknowledge, seal, and deliver any instrument; and
- (f) To perform any other acts described in California Probate Code Section 4450, except those acts that conflict with or are limited by a more specific provision in this power.

Section 1.23. Restrictions on Property Management Powers. Notwithstanding any other provision of this power, my attorney in fact does not have any of the following powers related to property management:

- (a) To use my property to discharge the legal obligations of my attorney in fact, including but not limited to the support of the dependents of my attorney in fact, except for those dependents to whom I also, along with my attorney in fact, owe a duty of support.

(b) To exercise any incident of ownership over any insurance policy that I own and that insures the life of my attorney in fact.

(c) To exercise the powers of a trustee under an irrevocable trust of which my attorney in fact is the settlor and of which I am a trustee.

ARTICLE TWO
AMPLIFYING PROVISIONS

[If power of attorney becomes effective only on principal's incapacity, add:]

Section 2.01. Determination of Incapacity. For all purposes under this power, I will be deemed to be incapacitated at such time as _____ [specify name(s) of person(s) who will make determination], by written declaration under penalty of perjury, certify that I am unable properly to care for myself or for my person or property; or, when a court of competent jurisdiction, by order so determines. The original declaration, or a certified copy of the court order, as the case may be, made or issued in accordance with this section, must be attached to the original of this power of attorney and may be recorded in any county or counties in which the original has been recorded. Any person may act in reliance on a written declaration or court order made or issued in accordance with this section, without the necessity of inquiring as to whether I am in fact incapacitated as provided in this section.

[If power of attorney becomes effective only on principal's incapacity, add:]

Section 2.02. Determination of Regained Capacity. After a determination of incapacity in accordance with Section 2.01, I will be deemed to have regained capacity at such time as _____ [specify person(s) who will make determination, e.g., two physicians licensed to practice under the laws of the state in which I am then domiciled], by written declaration under penalty of perjury, certify that I have regained the capacity to properly care for myself or for my person or property; or, when a court of competent jurisdiction, by order so determines. The original declaration, or a certified copy of the court order, as the case may be, made or issued in accordance with this section, must be attached to the original of this power of attorney and may be recorded in any county or counties in which the original has been recorded. Any person may act in reliance on a written declaration or court order made or issued in accordance with this section, without the necessity of inquiring as to whether I am in fact incapacitated as provided in this section.

[To provide for attorney in fact's compensation, or to prohibit compensation, select one of the following provisions:]

[First alternative--no compensation:]

Section 2.03. No Compensation. My attorney in fact will not be entitled to compensation for any services rendered as attorney in fact under this power.

[OR]

[Second alternative--reasonable compensation:]

Section 2.03. Compensation. My attorney in fact will be entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered as attorney in fact under this power of attorney. Factors that should be considered in determining the amount of the compensation are: the time expended by my attorney in fact, the value of the property over which my attorney in fact exercises control and management, and the complexity of the transactions entered into by my attorney in fact. My attorney in fact may pay the compensation from my assets once each _____ [time period of payment, e.g., month or year], and must keep records of the services performed, the time spent in performing them, and the date and amount of each payment. [To place overall limit on amount of compensation, add: The amount of the compensation to which my attorney in fact is entitled under this section must in no event exceed _____ (specify limit, e.g., 2 percent of the fair market value of the property over which my attorney in fact exercises control and management, determined on an annual basis or the sum of $100 per month or the sum of $1,000 per year).] [To require attorney in fact to give third party notice of compensation, add: My attorney in fact must, once each _____ (time period, e.g., month or year), provide _____ (name and address of third party) with a written notice showing the total time spent in performing the services, a description of the services performed, and the amount of compensation paid to _____ (himself or herself or themselves) for each such time period.] [If compensation is to be divided between two attorneys in fact, add: The two persons serving as my attorney in fact must divide the total amount of compensation between them in proportion to the work done and the attention given to the assets subject to their management by each of them.]

PRACTICE TIP:

The age of the principal at the time of execution of the document should be considered before including specific dollar amount limits. What may seem to be a reasonable fee at the time of execution could be viewed as paltry 30 years later, when the attorney in fact is spending significant time managing the principal's affairs. While this problem could be avoided with the inclusion of a cost-of-living escalator clause, such clauses tend to be rather lengthy, and the amount of space devoted to such a clause might seem out of place in relation to the purpose of the durable power of attorney. Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

[Continue with the following:]

Section 2.04. Reimbursement for Costs and Expenses. My attorney in fact will be entitled to reimbursement from my property for expenditures properly made in performing the services conferred by me in this power. My attorney in fact must keep records of any such expenditures and reimbursement.

Section 2.05. Reliance by Third Parties. To induce third parties to rely on the provisions of this power, I, for myself and on behalf of my heirs, successors, and assigns, hereby waive any privilege that may attach to information requested by my attorney in fact in the exercise of any of the powers described herein. Moreover, on behalf of my heirs, successors, and assigns, I hereby agree to hold harmless any third party who acts in reliance on this power for damages or liability incurred as a result of that reliance.

Section 2.06. Ratification. I ratify and confirm all that my attorney in fact does or causes to be done under the authority granted in this power. All contracts, promissory notes, checks, or other bills of exchange, drafts, other obligations, stock powers, instruments, and other documents signed, endorsed, drawn, accepted, made, executed, or delivered by my attorney in fact will bind me, my estate, my heirs, successors, and assigns.

Section 2.07. Exculpation of Attorney in Fact. My attorney in fact will not be liable to me or any of my successors in interest for any action taken or not taken in good faith, but will be liable for any willful misconduct or gross negligence.

Section 2.08. Revocation and Amendment. I revoke any and all durable powers of attorney for property management and personal care (but not durable powers of attorney for health care) that I have executed before executing this power of attorney. I retain the right to revoke or amend this power and to substitute other attorneys in fact in place of my attorney in fact. Amendments to this power of attorney must be made in writing by me personally (not by my attorney in fact). They must be attached to the original of this document and, if the original is recorded, must be recorded in the same county or counties as the original, although failure to record any amendment will not alter its affect.

[Optional; to limit power of specific person(s) to petition court:]

Section 2.09. Power to Petition Court. I expressly eliminate, pursuant to California Probate Code Section 4503(a), the authority of _____ [name(s) or description, e.g., my son, Robert J. Green or my children or grandchildren] to petition the court under California Probate Code Section 4540 et seq. or any successor sections [if desired, add further specification, e.g., so long as my wife is living and competent].

[Continue with the following:]

ARTICLE THREE GENERAL PROVISIONS

[To specify form of attorney in fact's signature, select one of the following provisions:]

[First alternative--one attorney in fact:]

Section 3.01. Signature of Attorney in Fact. My attorney in fact must use the following form when signing on my behalf pursuant to this power: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact."

[OR]

[Second alternative--two attorneys in fact, required to act unanimously:]

Section 3.01. Signature of Attorney in Fact. My attorney in fact must use the following form when signing on my behalf pursuant to this power: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of first attorney in fact] and _____ [name of second attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact."

[OR]

[Third alternative--two attorneys in fact, with power to act alone:]

Section 3.01. Signature of Attorney in Fact. _____ When signing on my behalf pursuant to this power, [name of first attorney in fact] must use the following form: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of first attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact." When signing on my behalf pursuant to this power, _____ [name of second attorney in fact] must use the following form: " _____ [name of principal] by _____ [name of second attorney in fact], _____ [his or her] attorney in fact."

[Continue with the following:]

Section 3.02. Severability. If any of the provisions of this power are found to be invalid for any reason, that invalidity will not affect any of the other provisions of this power, and all invalid provisions will be wholly disregarded.

Section 3.03. Governing Law. This power of attorney is executed according to the provisions of the Power of Attorney Law of California, and all questions relating to the validity, interpretation, and administration of this power will be determined in accordance with that Law.

This Durable Power of Attorney is executed by me on _____ [month, day], _____ [year], at _____, California.

_____ [signature]

[name of principal]

ACCEPTANCE BY ATTORNEY IN FACT

Dated: _____.

[EITHER, if only one attorney in fact:]

_____ [signature]

[name of attorney in fact]

[OR, if two attorneys in fact:]

_____ [signature]

[name of first attorney in fact]

_____ [signature]

[name of second attorney in fact]

PRACTICE TIP:

A prospective attorney in fact may be reluctant to sign a durable power of attorney if he or she will be legally obligated to act under it at some unspecified time in the possibly distant future. The planner may wish to include a statement that will make Prob. Code § 4230(c) inapplicable, even though the attorney in fact has signed the durable power of attorney. Such a provision could read as follows: "In signing this durable power of attorney, the attorney in fact acknowledges and accepts _____ [his or her] appointment as attorney in fact; provided, however, that this acknowledgment and acceptance is not meant to indicate that the attorney in fact agrees to act under this durable power of attorney at any particular time, under any particular circumstances, or regarding any particular transaction, and the provisions of Probate Code Section 4230(c) shall not apply to this durable power of attorney despite the attorney in fact's execution of this acknowledgment and acceptance." Commentary by Albert G. Handelman.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

[Acknowledgments taken in California must be in the following form (Civ. Code § 1189(a)):]

State of California )
County of _____ )
 )
 )

On _____ [date], before me, _____ [name and title of officer taking acknowledgment], personally appeared _____ [name(s) of person(s) signing instrument], _____ who proved to me on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person[s] whose name[s] _____ [is or are] subscribed to the within instrument and acknowledged to me that _____ [he or she or they] executed the same in _____ [his or her or their] authorized _____ [capacity or capacities], and that by _____ [his or her or their] signature[s] on the instrument the person[s], or the entity on behalf of which the person[s] acted, executed the instrument.

I certify under PENALTY OF PERJURY under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

WITNESS my hand and official seal.

Signature _____ .....[Seal]

[Include lawyer's certificate required by Probate Code Section 4503(a)(2) if power of attorney includes provision in Section 2.09 limiting authority to petition court:]

LAWYER'S CERTIFICATE
(Prob. Code § 4503(a)(2))

I am a lawyer authorized to practice law in the state where this power of attorney was executed, and the principal was my client at the time this power of attorney was executed. I have advised my client concerning _____ [his or her] rights in connection with this power of attorney and the applicable law and the consequences of signing or not signing this power of attorney, and my client, after being so advised, has executed this power of attorney.

Dated: _____

_____ [signature]

[name of attorney]

Law Firm: _____ [firm name]

Address: _____

Telephone Number: _____

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Limited Powers

39 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Durable Powers of Attorney for Property Management

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68.202-68.209

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

[Reserved]

§§ 68.202[Reserved]

40 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
PART IV. FORMS
B. Ancillary Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.210

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.210 Notice of Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of revocation of a durable power of attorney. When completed, it should be delivered to the attorney in fact [see [f], below].

This form may be used to revoke any durable power of attorney executed by the principal, whether the power is for property management, personal care, or both. It identifies the power of attorney to be revoked by stating the date on which it was executed, the attorney in fact acting under it, and, if the power was recorded, the date and place of recordation. It then states that the power of attorney and all power and authority granted under it are revoked.

[b] Principal's Right to Revoke Power of Attorney

Under the Power of Attorney Law, the principal may revoke a power of attorney at any time [Prob. Code § 4151(a)]. The revocation may be accomplished by a writing stating that the power is revoked or, if the power of attorney itself specifies some other manner of revocation, by complying with the terms of the power [Prob. Code § 4151(a)]. The right of the principal to revoke a power of attorney by a writing cannot be limited by any terms of the power of attorney itself [Prob. Code § 4151(b)].

[c] Revocation by Incapacitated Principal

The Power of Attorney Law does not explicitly require that the principal be competent at the time of the revocation [compare Prob. Code § 4120 (natural person having "capacity to contract" may execute power of attorney) with Prob. Code § 4151(a) (principal "may revoke" power of attorney--no requirement of capacity to contract)]. It may be persuasively argued, however, that an attempted revocation by an incapacitated principal will be ineffective.

The statutory warning that is required to be included in every printed form of durable power of attorney sold or otherwise distributed in California for use by a person who does not have the advice of legal counsel advises the principal that "You have the right to revoke or terminate this durable power of attorney at any time, so long as you are competent" [Prob. Code § 4128(a); see § 68.212[2] (full text of statutory warning)]. Since the attorney in fact has a duty to act in the principal's best interests [see Prob. Code § 4232(a); see also § 68.15[6]], the attorney in fact cannot simply acquiesce in the principal's attempted revocation if the attorney in fact has doubts as to the principal's capacity. Instead, the attorney in fact should first inquire into the wording, if any, of the power of attorney respecting revocation. (The durable power of attorney forms in this chapter simply state that the principal retains the right to revoke or amend the power and to substitute other attorneys in fact in place of the designated attorney in fact.) If the attorney in fact is satisfied that the revocation is effective according to the terms of the power, the attorney in fact should attempt to ascertain the principal's capacity. In this regard, the attorney in fact may consult third persons, such as the principal's spouse, other relatives, friends, physicians, attorneys, or accountants [see Prob. Code § 4235; see also § 68.15 [1]]. If the attorney in fact still has doubts as to the principal's capacity, the attorney in fact should seek legal counsel, or even petition the court for an order determining whether the revocation is effective [see Prob. Code §§ 4540, 4541(a)].

[d] Revocation by Conservator or Guardian

If a conservator, guardian, or other fiduciary has been appointed for the principal, the right of the principal to revoke the power of attorney passes to the conservator, guardian, or other fiduciary [Prob. Code § 4153(a)(3)]. However, any revocation by such a fiduciary will be effective only after it has been approved by the court [Prob. Code § 4206].

[e] Revocation of Attorney in Fact's Authority

The principal may revoke the attorney in fact's authority without revoking the power of attorney by simply informing the attorney in fact orally or in writing that the attorney in fact's authority is revoked, or when and under what circumstances it is revoked [Prob. Code § 4153(a)]. The right of the principal to revoke the attorney in fact's authority may not be limited by any provision of the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4153(a)(2)]. Although the Power of Attorney Law does not explicitly require that the principal be competent to revoke the attorney in fact's authority, the principal's power to do this should be subject to the same limitations as the principal's power to revoke the power of attorney, as discussed in [c], above.

[f] Notice of the Revocation

The Power of Attorney Law does not require that a written revocation be communicated to the attorney in fact to be effective [see Prob. Code §§ 4151, 4152]. However, the Law protects the attorney in fact and third parties from liability for acts taken in good faith reliance on a power of attorney without notice that it has been revoked [see Prob. Code §§ 4151(b), 4152(b), 4153(b), 4305(a); see also § 68.14[4][c]]. For this reason, notice should always be given to the attorney in fact and other interested parties when the power is revoked. Notice should also be given to the attorney in fact when the attorney in fact's authority (but not the power itself) is revoked [see [e], above]. For a cover letter that maybe used to transmit a notice of revocation, see § 68.211.

[g] Recordation

This document should be acknowledged before a notary public. If the power of attorney was recorded, the notice of revocation should also be recorded. Acknowledgment or other certified proof of execution is a prerequisite to recordation [Gov. Code § 27287].

[2] Form

Notice of Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney

NOTICE OF REVOCATION OF DURABLE POWER OF ATTORNEY

I, _____ [name of principal], currently a resident of _____ [county and state], executed a durable power of attorney for _____ [property management or personal care or property management and personal care] on _____ [date], under which _____ [name(s) of attorney(s) in fact] _____ [was or were] empowered to act as my attorney[s] in fact _____ [if durable power is known to be recorded, add:, and which was recorded on _____ (date) in _____ (record location, e.g., Volume 199, at page 1324, Official Records of the County of Pacific, State of California]. I hereby declare that that power of attorney and all power and authority granted under it are immediately revoked and withdrawn.

This Notice of Revocation of Durable Power of Attorney is executed by me on _____ [date], at _____ [city and state].

_____ [signature]
[name of principal]

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

[Acknowledgments taken in California must be in the following form (Civ. Code § 1189(a)):]

State of California )
County of _____ )
 )

On _____ [date], before me, _____ [name and title of officer taking acknowledgment], personally appeared _____ [name(s) of person(s) signing instrument], _____ who proved to me on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person[s] whose name[s] _____ [is or are] subscribed to the within instrument and acknowledged to me that _____ [he or she or they] executed the same in _____ [his or her or their] authorized _____ [capacity or capacities], and that by _____ [his or her or their] signature[s] on the instrument the person[s], or the entity upon behalf of which the person[s] acted, executed the instrument.

I certify under PENALTY OF PERJURY under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

WITNESS my hand and official seal.

Signature _____ .....[Seal]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers
Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Revocation & Termination

41 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Ancillary Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.211

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.211 Transmittal Letter for Notice of Revocation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a cover letter that may be used to transmit a notice of revocation of a durable power of attorney [ see § 68.210] to the attorney in fact and other interested parties. It consists of a single paragraph that identifies the revoked power, informs the recipient of the revocation, and refers the recipient to the enclosed copy of the notice of revocation.

[b] Effect of Giving Notice

Although the Power of Attorney Law does not require that a written revocation be communicated to the attorney in fact to be effective [see Prob. Code §§ 4151, 4152], the attorney in fact and third parties will not be liable for acts taken in good faith reliance on a power of attorney without notice that it has been revoked [see Prob. Code §§ 4151(b), 4152(b), 4153(b), 4305(a); see also § 68.14[4][c]]. Notice should thus be given whenever a power is revoked.

[2] Form

Transmittal Letter for Notice of Revocation

_____ [date]
 _____ [Name of recipient]
 _____ [Street address]
 _____ [City, state, and zip code]

Re: Durable Power of Attorney for _____ [Property Management or Personal Care or Property Management and Personal Care] of _____ [name of principal], executed on _____ [

date]

Dear _____:

Enclosed is a copy of a Notice of Revocation of the above-referenced durable power of attorney. The enclosed Notice was duly executed by the principal, _____ [name of principal], on _____ [date]. Please be advised that the agency relationship established in the power of attorney is terminated for all purposes.

Sincerely,

_____ [attorney's signature]

[typed name]

cc: _____ [name of principal]

_____ [names of third parties with whom attorney in fact may do business] enclosure[s]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Revocation & Termination

42 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Ancillary Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.212

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.212 Statement Warning Principal of Legal Consequences of Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statement warning the principal of the legal consequences of signing a durable power of attorney for property management. It consists of the exact wording of the statutory warning in Prob. Code § 4128(a). If this form is to be given to the principal separate from the durable power of attorney, its language should be slightly revised to indicate exactly which durable power it applies to [see [b], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Practitioners will want to consider whether to use the statutory warning in an attorney-drafted durable power of attorney for property management [see Prob. Code § 4128(a)]. Some practitioners feel that such a warning may add to the attorney's potential liability by having the client sign a document implying that the attorney has told the client everything he or she needs to know before signing a durable power of attorney. In any event, if included in an attorney-drafted power of attorney, the statutory warning can be tailored to the facts of the particular case [see [b], below].

[b] Warning Regarding Legal Consequences of Power

The Power of Attorney Law requires that every printed form of durable power of attorney sold or otherwise distributed in California for use by a person who does not have the advice of legal counsel (other than a durable power of attorney for health care) contain a warning statement in not less than 10-point boldface type, or a reasonable equivalent, explaining the power of attorney and the legal consequences of executing it [Prob. Code § 4128(a), (c)].

Although there is no requirement that the statutory warning be included in an attorney-drafted power, some attorneys believe that it is good practice to do so. When the warning is in the power, the principal will be required to read it when he or she reads the power of attorney; and the principal's signature at the end of the power will also acknowledge that the principal has been put on notice as to the contents of the warning.

However, the statutory warning is not in every respect suitable for inclusion in the power itself. Some terms of the warning may be interpreted as varying or modifying other terms of the power. For this reason, it is recommended that the statutory warning be given to the principal in a separate document. This form is that document.

When this form is used, it should be presented to the principal at the same time as the power of attorney. The principal should be asked to read the form at the same time as the power of attorney, and to affix his or her initials in the space provided at the end. The principal should also be asked to sign a separate statement acknowledging receipt of the statutory warning and stating that he or she was fully advised by the attorney.

[2] Form

Statement Warning Principal of Legal Consequences of Durable Power of Attorney for Property Management

NOTICE TO PERSON EXECUTING DURABLE POWER OF ATTORNEY

Probate Code Section 4128(a)

A durable power of attorney is an important legal document. By signing the durable power of attorney, you are authorizing another person to act for you, the principal. Before you sign this durable power of attorney, you should know these important facts:

Your agent (attorney in fact) has no duty to act unless you and your agent agree otherwise in writing.

This document gives your agent the powers to manage, dispose of, sell, and convey your real and personal property, and to use your property as security if your agent borrows money on your behalf. This document does not give your agent the power to accept or receive any of your property, in trust or otherwise, as a gift, unless you specifically authorize the agent to accept or receive a gift.

Your agent will have the right to receive reasonable payment for services provided under this durable power of attorney unless you provide otherwise in this power of attorney.

The powers you give your agent will continue to exist for your entire lifetime, unless you state that the durable power of attorney will last for a shorter period of time or unless you otherwise terminate the durable power of attorney. The powers you give your agent in this durable power of attorney will continue to exist even if you can no longer make your own decisions respecting the management of your property.

You can amend or change this durable power of attorney only by executing a new durable power of attorney or by executing an amendment through the same formalities as an original. You have the right to revoke or terminate this durable power of attorney at any time, so long as you are competent.

This durable power of must be dated and must be acknowledged before a notary public or signed by two witnesses. If it is signed by two witnesses, they must witness either (1) the signing of the power of attorney or (2) the principal's signing or acknowledgment of his or her signature. A durable power of attorney that may affect real property should be acknowledged before a notary public so that it may easily be recorded.

You should read this durable power of attorney carefully. When effective, this durable power of attorney will give your agent the right to deal with property that you now have or might acquire in the future. The durable power of attorney is important to you. If you do not understand the durable power of attorney, or any provision of it, then you should obtain the assistance of an attorney or other qualified person.

_____ [principal's initials]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

43 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68 DURABLE POWERS OF ATTORNEY FOR PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Ancillary Documents

25-68 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68.213

AUTHOR: Reviewed by Albert G. Handelman

§ 68.213 Principal's Statement Regarding Warning

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statement reciting that the attorney has fully advised the principal regarding the legal consequences of signing the durable power of attorney and that the principal has been shown and has read the warning in Prob. Code § 4128(a). For the text of the statutory warning, see § 68.212[2].

[b] Statement Regarding Warning

The warning in Prob. Code § 4128(a) is required to be included in all printed forms of durable power of attorney for property management sold or otherwise distributed in California for use by a person who does not have the advice of counsel. It is discussed in § 68.211.

Although this warning is not required to be included in attorney-drafted durable powers of attorney, it is good practice to furnish the principal with a copy of the warning whenever a durable power of attorney is executed. The client should be requested to initial the statutory warning and to sign a separate statement acknowledging that the attorney has fully advised the client concerning the client's rights and that the client has read the warning.

[2] Form

Principal's Statement Regarding Warning

STATEMENT OF _____ [name of principal]

I, _____ [name of principal], am the principal under a durable power of attorney for property management, which _____ [was or were] prepared for me by _____ [name of attorney] and which I am executing at the same time that I am executing this statement. _____ [Name of attorney] has advised me fully concerning my rights in connection with _____ [this or these] durable power[s] of attorney and explained the applicable law and the consequences of signing or not signing _____ [this or these] durable power[s] of attorney. I have been shown and have read the warnings contained in California Probate Code Section 4128(a), _____ [a copy of which is or copies of which are] attached and which I have initialed.

Executed on _____ [date], at _____ [city and state].

_____ [signature]

[name of principal]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Powers of Attorney Durable Powers

44 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide 68A.syn

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.syn Synopsis to Chapter 68A: USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING

§ 68A.01 California Sources

[1] Statutes

[2] Rules of Professional Conduct

§ 68A.02 Federal Sources

[1] Statutes

[2] Regulations

§§ 68A.03-68A.04 [Reserved]

§ 68A.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

§ 68A.06 Annotations

§ 68A.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

[2] Additional Text References

§§ 68A.08-68A.09 [Reserved]

§ 68A.10 Family Business Defined

§ 68A.11 Characteristics of Family Businesses

- [1] Multigenerational Aspects
- [2] Family Business as Active Trade or Business
  - [a] Concentrated Ownership and Management
  - [b] Long-Term Perspective
  - [c] Shared Family Interests and Values
- [3] Family Business for Asset Management

§ 68A.12 Ownership Structure

- [1] Entities Most Commonly Used in Family Businesses
  - [a] In General
  - [b] Partnerships
  - [c] Limited Liability Companies
- [2] Effect of Structure on Personal Liability
  - [a] General Partners
  - [b] Limited Partners
  - [c] Limited Liability Company Members
- [3] Effect of Structure on Transferability

§ 68A.13 Impact of Family Dynamics

- [1] Family Relationships May Affect Strategic Planning
- [2] Use of Nonlegal Advisors

§ 68A.14 Management Issues

- [1] Types of Management Structures
- [2] Succession Problems Unique to Family Businesses
  - [a] Overview
  - [b] Restricted Pool of Successors

[c] Age, Gender, and Generational Issues

[d] Effect of Subsequent Generational Transfers

§ 68A.15 Difficulties in Continuing Family Businesses and Critical Need for Planning

§ 68A.16 Ethical Considerations in Advising Family Businesses

[1] Counsel's Degree of Involvement in Family Matters

[2] Avoiding Conflicts of Interest

[a] Conflicts in Family Business Context

[b] Assess Potential for Conflicts and Inform Parties

[c] Identify Business Entity as Client

§§ 68A.17-68A.29 [Reserved]

§ 68A.30 Partnership Tax Treatment

§ 68A.31 Purchase or Gift of Interest in Family Partnership; Income Splitting

§§ 68A.32-68A.39 [Reserved]

§ 68A.40 Gift Valuation

[1] General Rule: Fair Market Value as of Date of Gift

[2] Special Valuation Rules

[a] Valuation of Transferred and Retained Senior Interests Required

[b] Valuation of Preferred Corporate Stock and Partnership Interests in Freeze Transactions

[c] Valuation of Intra-Family Retained and Transferred Interests in Trust

[d] Valuation of Options and Interests Subject to Buy-Sell Agreement

[e] Treatment of Certain Lapsing Rights and Restrictions

§ 68A.41 Annual Gift Tax Exclusion

§ 68A.42 Effect of Transfers Within Three Years of Death

§ 68A.43 Effect of Estate Tax on Family Businesses

§ 68A.44 Deduction for Qualified Family-Owned Business Interests

[1] "Qualified Family-Owned Business Interest" Defined

[a] In General

[b] Interests Not Qualifying as QFOBIs

[c] Interests Not Included in QFOBI Calculation

[2] Eligibility for Deduction

[3] Maximum Amount of Deduction; Coordination With Unified Credit

[4] Recapture of Estate Tax Savings

[5] Deduction Inapplicable to Gift and Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

[6] Detailed Planning Required to Use Deduction

§ 68A.45 Tax-Free Redemption of Stock to Pay Estate Taxes

[1] Section 303 Redemption Treated as Sale or Exchange

[2] Qualifications for Tax-Free Redemption

[a] Qualifying Percentage Requirements

[b] Qualifying Dollar Limitations

[c] Inclusion in Gross Estate

[3] Effect of Gifts Within Three Years of Death

[4] Redemption of Generation-Skipping Stock

§ 68A.46 Extension of Estate Tax Payments Attributable to Closely Held Business Interests

[1] Thirty-Five Percent Rule Permits Deferral and Installment Payments

[2] Additional Qualifications for Election

[3] Acceleration of Deferred Tax

[a] Disposition of 50 Percent of Interest

[b] Section 303 Redemptions Not Treated as Distribution

[c] Nonpayment or Late Payment of Taxes

[4] Installment Payment of Certain Generation-Skipping Transfer Taxes

[5] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Before Seeking Declaratory Relief With Respect to Election

§§ 68A.47-68A.59 [Reserved]

§ 68A.60 Effect of Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax on Family Businesses

[1] Imposition of Tax

[a] Transfers on Which Tax Is Imposed

[b] Rate of Tax

[2] Exemptions and Exclusions From Tax

[a] GST Exemption

[b] Other Exclusions or Exemptions

§§ 68A.61-68A.69 [Reserved]

§ 68A.70 Property Tax

§ 68A.71 Documentary Transfer Tax

§ 68A.72 Inheritance Taxes

§§ 68A.73-68A.79 [Reserved]

§ 68A.80 Assessing Client's Risk Tolerance

§ 68A.81 Coordinating Succession, Family, and Estate Planning

[1] Minimizing Separation of Management and Ownership

[2] Avoiding Conflicts in Succession

[3] Use of Buy-Sell Agreements

[4] Balancing Conflicting Goals of Retaining Control, Financial Security, and Minimizing Taxes

[5] Use of Family Limited Partnerships and Limited Liability Companies

[a] Family Limited Partnerships

[b] Family Limited Liability Companies

[c] Planning to Avoid I.R.C. § 2701 Valuation Rules

[d] Planning to Avoid I.R.C. § 2704 Valuation Rules

[e] Using GRATs and GRUTs

§ 68A.82 Using Valuation Discounts

[1] Effect of Valuation Discounts

[2] Primary Factors Affecting Valuation

[a] Limited Control

[b] Marketability and Liquidity

[c] Restrictions on Transferability

[3] Documentation of Basis for Valuation Discounts

[a] Selection of Appraisers

[b] Organizational or Operating Agreement

[c] Documentation Guidelines

[4] Avoiding Step Transaction Characterization

[5] Use of Assignee's Interest

[6] Penalty for Substantial Undervaluation of Property

[7] Balancing Maximum Discounts and Business Purposes

§ 68A.83 Avoiding Gain on Formation

§ 68A.84 Appropriate Assets for Contribution to Family Business

[1] Selecting Appropriate Assets

[2] Effect of Retention of Possession or Enjoyment of Transferred Assets

§ 68A.85 Selling the Family Business

§§ 68A.86-68A.99 [Reserved]

§ 68A.100 Facts for Family Limited Partnership

Scope

§ 68A.101 Facts for Family Limited Liability Company

Scope

§ 68A.102 Documents for Family Limited Partnership or Family Liability Company

Scope

§§ 68A.103-68A.109 [Reserved]

§ 68A.110 Using Family Business for Estate Planning Purposes

Scope

§ 68A.111 Evaluating Family Dynamics and Existing Management Structure; Preparing for Succession

Scope

§§ 68A.112-68A.119 [Reserved]

§ 68A.120 Forming Family Limited Partnership

Scope

§ 68A.121 Forming Family Limited Liability Company

Scope

§ 68A.122 Checklist for Establishing and Maintaining Separate Character of Business

Scope

§§ 68A.123-68A.129 [Reserved]

§ 68A.130 Procedures After Family Business Organized

Scope

§§ 68A.131-68A.199 [Reserved]

§ 68A.200 Family Limited Partnership Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Variation of ULPA '08 Provisions

[c] Provisions Affecting Valuation Discounts

[d] Formation of Limited Partnerships

[e] Allocation of Profit and Loss

[f] Removal of General Partner

[g] Dissolution of Partnership

[2] FORM

Family Limited Partnership Agreement

§ 68A.201 Family Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement--Manager-Managed

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Contents of Agreement

[c] Conversion to Single Member-Managed Agreement

[2] FORM

Family Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement--Manager-Managed

§§ 68A.202-68A.209 [Reserved]

§ 68A.210 General Partner Compensation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

General Partner Compensation

§ 68A.211 General Partner Succession

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

General Partner Succession

§ 68A.212 General Partner Has Absolute Distribution Authority

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

General Partner's Absolute Distribution Authority

§ 68A.213 Limitations on Authority of General Partners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Limitations on Authority of General Partners

§ 68A.214 Limited Partner Acknowledgment That Cash Distributions May Not Cover Tax Liability

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Limited Partner Acknowledgment that Cash Distributions May Not Cover Tax Liability

§ 68A.215 Limited Partners May Engage in Competing Activities

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Limited Partners May Engage in Competing Activities

§ 68A.216 Transfers From Custodianships

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Gifts to Minors

[c] When Transferor Should Not Act as Custodian

[2] FORM

Transfers From Custodianships

§ 68A.217 Consent of Spouse

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Consent of Spouse

§ 68A.218 Buy-Out as Consequence of Marital Dissolution

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Buy-Out as Consequence of Marital Dissolution

§ 68A.219 Provision Requiring Prenuptial Agreements for Limited Partners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Provision Requiring Prenuptial Agreements for Limited Partners

§ 68A.220 Grant of Special Power of Attorney

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Grant of Special Power of Attorney

§ 68A.221 Determination of Fair Market Value

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Determination of Fair Market Value

§ 68A.222 Waiver of Right to Seek Dissolution Not Required by Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Waiver of Right to Seek Dissolution Not Required by Agreement

§§ 68A.223-68A.239 [Reserved]

§ 68A.240 Client Letter Summarizing Use of Family Limited Partnerships

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Reviewing Letter

[2] FORM

Client Letter Summarizing Use of Family Limited Partnerships

§ 68A.241 Client Letter Emphasizing Need for Estate and Business Succession Planning

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Reviewing Letter

[2] FORM

Client Letter Emphasizing Need for Estate and Business Succession Planning

Steven M. Goldberg*
Practice Consultant

FOOTNOTES:

(n125)Footnote *. Steven M. Goldberg is a partner in the Santa Rosa office of FRIEDEMANN GOLDBERG LLP, specializing in estate planning, including the formation of limited partnerships.

45 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS

CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

Scope

Steven M. Goldberg*
Practice Consultant Scope

This chapter covers the use of family businesses in estate planning. It is designed as an introduction to this subject, describing the unique problems faced by estate planners in this area. The chapter includes an extensive discussion in Legal Background of important tax rules and hazards that must be considered whenever a family limited partnership, family limited liability company, or other family business entity is being considered. These include federal estate tax, gift tax, income tax, and generation-skipping transfer tax rules, as well as California property tax issues. The Legal Background concludes with a discussion of planning strategies to achieve the best possible family, family business, and estate tax results.

The Transaction Guide includes a client interview checklist and procedural guides for advising clients in the formation of family limited partnerships and family limited liability companies. The forms in the chapter include a complete family limited partnership agreement, a complete family limited liability company agreement, miscellaneous alternative provisions, and client letters.

For analysis of the most appropriate entity structure, see Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity. Ch. 15, General Partnerships, covers general partnerships; Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, covers the formation and operation of limited partnerships. Chs. 60- 74 cover estate planning, including chapters on wills, trusts, lifetime gifts, durable powers of attorneys, and contracts that affect wills and trusts.

FOOTNOTES:

(n126)Footnote *. Steven M. Goldberg is a partner in the Santa Rosa office of FRIEDEMANN GOLDBERG LLP, specializing in estate planning, including the formation of limited partnerships.

46 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.01

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.01 California Sources

[1] Statutes

Ownership of property as tenants in partnership. Civ. Code §§ 682(2), 684.

Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008. Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.

Definitions. Corp. Code § 15901.02.

Formation. Corp. Code § 15902.01 et seq.

Limited partners. Corp. Code § 15903.01 et seq.

General partners. Corp. Code § 15904.01 et seq.

Contributions and distributions. Corp. Code § 15905.01 et seq.

Transferable interests; rights of transferees and creditors. Corp. Code § 15907.01 et seq.

Dissolution. Corp. Code § 15908.01 et seq.

Conversion and merger. Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq.

Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act. Corp. Code § 17000 et seq.

General provisions. Corp. Code § 17000 et seq.

Formation. Corp. Code § 17050 et seq.

Members. Corp. Code § 17100 et seq.

Management. Corp. Code § 17150 et seq.

Finance. Corp. Code § 17200 et seq.

Distributions and withdrawals. Corp. Code § 17250 et seq.

Interests and assignment of interests. Corp. Code § 17300 et seq.

Dissolution. Corp. Code § 17350 et seq.

Foreign limited liability companies. Corp. Code § 17450 et seq.

Class actions and derivative actions. Corp. Code § 17500 et seq.

Merger. Corp. Code § 17550 et seq.

Dissenting members' rights. Corp. Code § 17600 et seq.

Miscellaneous provisions. Corp. Code § 17650 et seq.

Fee provisions. Gov. Code § 12190.

Rights and obligations during marriage. Fam. Code §§ 700-1620.

Property rights. Fam. Code §§ 750-755.

Characterization of marital property. Fam. Code §§ 760-853.

Division of property on dissolution of marriage or legal separation. Fam. Code § 2500 et seq.

Distribution of property among heirs or beneficiaries. Prob. Code §§ 240-247.

Disclaimers of interests under wills and trusts. Prob. Code §§ 260-295.

Wills. Prob. Code § 6100 et seq.

Creation and validity of trusts. Prob. Code § 15200 et seq.

Transfer of ownership interests not transfer for reassessment purposes unless transfer involves change of control or majority interest. Rev. & Tax. Code § 64.

Documentary transfer tax. Rev. & Tax. Code § 11901 et seq.

California's pick-up estate tax. Rev. & Tax. Code § 13302.

Minimum franchise tax on limited partnerships. Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935.

Minimum franchise tax and fees on limited liability companies. Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942, 23153.

Requirement that limited liability companies file California tax return. Rev. & Tax. Code § 18633.5.

[2] Rules of Professional Conduct

Avoiding adverse interests. Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-300.

Avoiding representation of adverse interests. Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-310.

Communication. Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-500.

Fees for legal services. Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 4-200.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
 General Partnerships
 General Overview
 Business & Corporate Law
 Limited Partnerships
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 General Overview

47 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.02

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.02 Federal Sources

[1] Statutes

Tax-free redemption of stock to pay estate taxes. I.R.C. § 303.

Limitation on losses and credits from passive activities. I.R.C. § 469.

Income taxation of partners and partnership. I.R.C. § 701 et seq.

Income of partners. I.R.C. § 702.

Taxable year of partner and partnership. I.R.C. § 706.

Continuation or termination of partnerships. I.R.C. § 708.

Liquidating distribution. I.R.C. § 731.

Optional adjustment to basis of partnership property. I.R.C. §§ 732-734, 743, 754.

Gain on unrealized receivables and inventory items. I.R.C. §§ 735, 751.

Sale or exchange. I.R.C. § 741.

Method of electing adjustment to basis of partnership property. I.R.C. § 754.

Basis of property. I.R.C. § 1012.

Imposition and rate of estate tax. I.R.C. § 2001.

Unified credit against estate tax. I.R.C. § 2010.

Gifts within three years of death. I.R.C. § 2035.

Transfers for insufficient consideration. I.R.C. § 2043.

"Qualified family-owned business interest" deduction. I.R.C. § 2057.

Gift valued as of date of gift. I.R.C. §§ 2501, 2512.

Gifts by husband or wife to third party. I.R.C. § 2513.

Gifts to spouse. I.R.C. § 2523.

Generation-skipping transfer tax. I.R.C. § 2601 et seq.

Generation-skipping transfer defined. I.R.C. § 2611.

Taxable terminations, taxable distributions, and direct skips. I.R.C. § 2612.

Generation-skipping transfer tax exemption. I.R.C. §§ 2631, 2632.

Special valuation rules. I.R.C. §§ 2701-2704.

Gift tax returns. I.R.C. § 6019.

Partnership information income tax return. I.R.C. §§ 6031, 6072.

Deferring estate tax payments. I.R.C. § 6166.

[2] Regulations

Income taxation of partners and partnerships. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.701-1.771.

Taxable year of partner and partnership. Treas. Reg. § 1.706-1.

Liquidating distribution. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.731-1, 1.736-1.

Election to adjust basis of partnership property. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.732-1, 1.732-2, 1.733-1, 1.734-1, 1.734-2, 1.743-1, 1.754-1.

Gain on unrealized receivables and inventory items. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.735-1, 1.751-1.

Sale or exchange. Treas. Reg. § 1.741-1.

Filing partnership information tax returns. Treas. Reg. § 1.6031-1.

Definition of gross estate; valuation of property. Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-1.

Valuation of business interests subject to buy-sell agreements. Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-2(h), 20.2031-3(c).

Valuation of partnership interests for federal estate tax purposes. Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-3.

Transfers with retained life estate. Treas. Reg. § 20.2036-1.

Transfers taking effect at death. Treas. Reg. § 20.2037-1.

Revocable transfers. Treas. Reg. § 20.2038-1.

Valuation of gift of partnership interest to family member for estate tax purposes; treatment of unpaid qualified payments at death of transferor or applicable family member. Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2701-1-25.2701-8.

Valuation of partnership interest subject to option, contract to purchase, or other agreement for estate tax purposes. Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2703-1, 25.2703-2.

Estate tax effect of (1) transfer of interest in family partnership through lapse of voting and liquidation rights, and (2) restrictions on liquidation of interest in family partnership. Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2704-1-25.2704-3.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
General Partnerships
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
Limited Partnerships
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
General Overview
Tax Law
Federal Taxpayer Groups
Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships
General Overview

48 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.03-68A.04

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.03[Reserved]

49 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.05

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.05 Law Reviews and Periodicals

Montgomery, California Estate Tax: California Offers Deferral in Conformity With I.R.C. § 6166, 5(2) Cal. Tr. & Est. Q. 4 (Summer 1999).

Grassi, How the 1997 and 1998 Tax Acts Affect Family Business Owners (With Drafting Suggestions for Estate Planners), 44(6) Prac. Law. 57 (Sept. 1998).

Jurinski & Zwick, Solving Problems in Succession Planning for Family Businesses, 44(5) Prac. Law. 51 (July 1998).

Marcus, Private Annuities and Self-Cancelling Installment Notes: Underused Alternatives to Intrafamily Gift-Giving (With Forms), 44(6) Prac. Law. 23 (Sept. 1998).

Maydew, The Qualified Family-Owned Business Interest Deduction: TRA 98 Clears Up Some of the Confusion, 76 Taxes 12 (Oct. 1998).

Oh-Willeke, Planning to Use the Family-Owned Business Exclusion, 27 Colo. Law. 77 (1998).

Oshins, Protecting and Preserving Wealth Into Next Millennium, 137 Tr. & Est. 52 (1998).

Stephanson, How to Establish a Successful Family Limited Partnership, 44(7) Prac. Law. 41 (Sept. 1998).

Teitell, Lack of Qualified Appraisal Fatal to Deduction, 137 Tr. & Est. 65 (Fall 1998).

Tiernan, TRA 97 is Not the Only Reason to Review Existing Estate Plans Involving Closely Held Stock, 72 Fla. B.J. 99 (Oct. 1998).

Bonn, Acquiring or Disposing of an S Corporation, 49 Major Tax Plan. 7.1 (1997).

Case & Garre, Effecting Capital Gain Treatment on Disposition of a Partnership Interest, 49 Major Tax Plan. 13.1 (1997).

Delaney, How Small Businesses Really Fared Under Estate Tax Provisions of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997, 17 Va. Tax Rev. 245 (1997).

Horowitz, Of FLPs and Family LLCs and Cabbages and Kings, 75 Taxes 187 (Apr. 1997).

Pennell, Recent Wealth Transfer Tax Developments, 49 Major Tax Plan. 21.1 (1997).

Rapkin, Subchapter S and the Estate Planner, 75 Taxes 274 (May 1997).

Rose, Creative Partnership Exit Strategies, 49 Major Tax Plan. 12.1 (1997).

Winthrow, Integrating Family Business Systems in Succession Planning, 43 Prac. Law. 81 (Apr. 1997).

Zitelman, Valuation of Interests in Closely Held Companies (With Valuation Analysis), 43(1) Prac. Law. 39 (1997).

Gevurtz, California's New Limited Liability Company Act: A Look at the Good, the Bad, and the Ambiguous, 27 Pac. L.J. 261 (1996).

Goodman, Marketing Estate Planning Services to the Small Business Client, 42(1) Prac. Law. 15 (1996).

Goodman, The Art of the Buy-Sell Agreement (With Valuation Analysis and Diagram), 42(6) Prac. Law. 63 (July 1996).

Lane, Dashew, Bork & Jaffe, Working With Family Businesses: A Guide for Professionals, 42(6) Prac. Law. 83 (July 1996).

Young & Chevalier, A Model Anti-Nepotism Policy (With Form), 42(2) Prac. Law. 75 (1996).

Blattmachr, Split Purchases and Other Ways to Live With Section 2702, 29 U. Miami Inst. on Est. Plan., Ch. 10 (1995).

Fischer, Representing Partnerships: Who Is/Are the Client(s), 26 Pac. L.J. 961 (1995).

Mezzullo, Estate Planning With Limited Partnerships and Limited Liability Companies, 53 N.Y.U. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 8 (1995).

Spudis, LLCs and LLPs: Take the L Train, 53 N.Y.U. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 9 (1995).

Walsh, Accounting for Book-Tax Differences of Property Contributed to a Partnership, 26 Tax Adviser 195 (1995).

Fischer, Representing Partnerships: Who Is/Are the Client? 26 Pac. L.J. 96 (1994).

McMahan, What, Me Worry?--Limited Liability for the Operation of Family Businesses Without Extra Tax Costs--A Comparison of Limited Liability Companies, Family Partnerships, and Corporations, 28 U. Miami Inst. on Est. Plan., Ch. 12 (1994).

Blattmachr, Adventures in Partial Interest Transfers: Avoiding the Legacy of Zero Valuation Under Section 2702, 45 Major Tax Plan.--U. S. Cal. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 13 (1993).

Norman, A Practical Primer on the Business Law and Tax Aspects of Using a Limited Liability Company, 27 Bev. Hills B. Ass'n J. 82 (Spring 1993).

Aucutt, Corporate and Partnership Freezes Under Section 2701, 26 U. Miami Inst. on Est. Plan., Ch. 11 (1992).

David, Guiding Your Client Through the Estate Planning Process, 38(12) Prac. Law. 13 (Dec. 1992).

Frankel, Planning for the Family Business Under New I.R.C. Section 2701, 50 N.Y.U. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 16 (1992).

Gamble, Buy-Sell Agreements, Transfer Restrictions and Section 2703: Have Buy-Sells Gone Bye-Bye? 50 N.Y.U. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 19 (1992).

Gamble, Will Chapter 14 Freeze Buy-Sell Agreements Make Lapsing Rights Disappear? 26 U. Miami Inst. on Est. Plan., Ch. 13 (1992).

Sederbaum, Lapse of Voting and Liquidation Rights in the Family Business: I.R.C. § 2704, 50 N.Y.U. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 15 (1992).

Gutman & Schneider, A Preliminary Analysis of Chapter 14 of the Internal Revenue Code and Its Effect on Family Businesses, 43 Major Tax Plan.--U. S. Cal. Ann. Inst. on Fed. Tax'n, Ch. 16 (1991).

Maydew, Material Participation--The Court's Interpretation, J. Agric. Tax'n and Law (Winter 1986).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
 General Partnerships
 General Overview
 Business & Corporate Law
 Limited Partnerships
 General Overview
 Estate, Gift & Trust Law
 General Overview
 Tax Law
 Federal Taxpayer Groups
 Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships
 General Overview

50 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.06

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.06 Annotations

Annot., Liability of limited partner arising from taking part in control of business under Uniform Limited Partnership Act, 79 A.L.R.4th 427 (1990) .

Annot., Inability of partnership to operate at profit as justification for court-ordered dissolution, 20 A.L.R.4th 122 (1983) .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawLimited PartnershipsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawGeneral Overview

51 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.07

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.07 Text References

[1] Matthew Bender Sources

Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships.

Ch. 26, Income Taxation of Partnerships.

Martin, Attorney' S Handbook of Accounting, Auditing and Financial Reports, Ch. 10, Partnership Accounting (Matthew Bender 4th ed.).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 404, Partnerships: Actions Between Limited Partners and Partnership.

Ch. 405, Partnerships: Actions Between Limited Partners or Partnerships and Third Parties.

Ch. 406, Partnerships: Dissolution.

California Legal Forms(Matthew Bender).

Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business.

Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity.

Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies.

Ch. 15, General Partnerships.

Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships.

Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice.

California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 24, Drafting and Analyzing Agreements and Certificates of Limited Partnership (Matthew Bender).

[2] Additional Text References

Savage, Don't Let the IRS Destroy Your Small Business: 76 Mistakes to Avoid (Addison-Wesley 1998).

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 9, Partnership (10th ed. 2005).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
Closely Held Corporations
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
Corporations
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
General Partnerships
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
Limited Partnerships
General Overview
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
General Overview

52 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.08-68A.09

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.08[Reserved]

53 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.10

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.10 Family Business Defined

A "family business" is an enterprise that is owned or controlled by members of the same family. The term refers to the actual dollars and cents ownership of the business, rather than its legal structure. The term alerts business people to the hybrid psychological dimensions of businesses and family dynamics. However, many entrepreneurs may be uncomfortable with the term because of negative connotations related to nepotism, as well as a perception that a family business is somehow not as professional as a nonfamily business.

Businesses owned by families account for approximately 90 percent of businesses in the United States. Although family businesses range from small sole proprietorships to Fortune 500 companies, most are relatively small. Nevertheless, they share many characteristics, challenges, and problems unique to family businesses [see § 68A.11]. The fact that many family businesses share similar problems can be useful in encouraging family members to face their conflicts. Issues tend to arise when the family component [see § 68A.13] conflicts with the business ownership and management components, resulting in potentially conflicting goals and operations.

Family businesses are frequently set up not to operate an active trade or business, but to manage other family investments, from rental real property to securities. This use of a family business has tax and nontax estate planning aspects [see § 68A.11[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

54 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.11

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.11 Characteristics of Family Businesses

[1] Multigenerational Aspects

An important characteristic of family businesses is their entrepreneurial nature: Typically an individual funds, organizes, and manages the business and assumes the business risks. Thus, management is centralized, streamlined, and accountable. This entrepreneurial characteristic often imports creativity and dynamism into the business. However, problems often result when succeeding generations are not so entrepreneurially inclined, or when the founder is unwilling to transfer management authority.

The discussion in Part A of this chapter will primarily be of interest to a family business entity that is an active trade or business. However, the tax discussion, beginning with § 68A.30, and the estate planning discussion, beginning with § 68A.80, should also be consulted.

[2] Family Business as Active Trade or Business

[a] Concentrated Ownership and Management

Ordinarily, family business ownership and management are concentrated in a single individual or a small number of family members, and the business is managed for the benefit of the family. This concentration tends to preserve resources and focus operations. This concentrated ownership and management sharply contrasts with a publicly held corporation, in which professionals manage the business for shareholders who are not involved in business operations. In a publicly held corporation, professional managers have individual interests in preserving and enhancing their position and authority, while shareholders often have a greater interest in securing immediate economic benefits in the form of dividends rather than long term business planning.

As family businesses are passed to or shared among succeeding generations, this confluence of ownership and management tends to dissipate. For example, senior generations may retire and younger generations may not want to participate actively in the business. Business advisors should be alert to this possibility and be prepared to devise strategies to minimize the separation of ownership from management and, recognizing the unique dynamics of the family, reduce the risk of family conflict over the distribution of the value of the business.

Inactive business assets such as real estate, life insurance policies, and unrelated investment assets may be used to equalize the economic value of assets passing to participating and nonparticipating family members. However, the distribution of nonbusiness assets must be considered in light of the continued viability and vitality of the business itself.

[b] Long-Term Perspective

Family businesses tend toward a long-term perspective in terms of business goals, and make decisions focusing on the long-term benefits to the business. In contrast, publicly held corporations often look to the short term and may make business decisions based on quarterly balance sheet concerns to the arguable detriment of long term growth.

[c] Shared Family Interests and Values

Because family businesses tend to involve a group of people who share similar interests and goals, they are often managed under a structure that emphasizes those shared values and goals. This characteristic may provide for business continuity and singularity of purpose.

When a family is committed to the long-term success of the business, the business has a much better chance of surviving the transfer to the next generation. Absent a shared commitment, divergent family interests may seriously hinder the successful transfer of the business. In this situation, alternatives such as an outright sale, merger, or nonfamily management should be considered.

PRACTICE TIP:

In determining whether the business should be transferred within the family or sold outright, a key factor is often the degree of involvement of the younger generation (or close family relatives) in the day-to-day business operations. Business owners are more likely to retain the business if family members are dependent on the business for their livelihood. Further, these family members may find it difficult to obtain commensurate employment outside the family business, particularly if they are senior employees who have little experience outside the family business. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[3] Family Business for Asset Management

Rather than being established for the purpose of operating an active trade or business, many family business entities are created to manage passive assets. For these entities, some business aspects are of little consequence; the estate planning issues are often the primary focus, and the entity exists mainly as a means of controlling the assets, providing for proper management over a long period of time, and reducing or eliminating income, gift, and estate taxes. This type of family business entity typically has as its centerpiece the "crown jewels" of the family, typically a significant piece of real property, or valuable other property such as securities, or both. Although this type of family business can be classified as an estate planning tool, it is important to recognize that it can and usually does satisfy many non-tax-related estate planning goals. In fact, it will generally be unwise to enter into a family business solely for the purpose of reducing taxes.

For these types of entities, the discussion of tax issues, beginning with § 68A.30, and estate planning issues, beginning with § 68A.80, will be most important.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

55 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.12

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.12 Ownership Structure

[1] Entities Most Commonly Used in Family Businesses

[a] In General

Family businesses may take any of the following forms:

- Sole proprietorships
- General or limited partnerships
- C and S corporations
- Limited liability companies

For estate planning purposes, the most commonly used entities are limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and S corporations. For considerations in selecting a form of business entity generally, see Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity.

[b] Partnerships

The choice of a general or a limited partnership in the context of a family business and partnership estate tax freeze is essentially dictated by nontax considerations, such as retention of control and exposure to liability, because both entities enjoy similar tax treatment [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(b)]. General partnerships are ordinarily easier and cheaper to form and dissolve than the more complicated limited partnerships. However, limited partnerships provide the advantage of limited liability, although the business owner typically retains a major capital interest and participates as general partner. The additional advantage of control that the general partner enjoys in a limited partnership has made the limited partnership far more common for estate planning purposes.

For discussion of general partnerships generally, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships ; for discussion of considerations in forming limited partnerships generally, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships .

[c] Limited Liability Companies

The use of a limited liability company (LLC) may be a viable planning alternative to a partnership. LLCs are designed to provide the owners and members with protection against personal liability for the debts and obligations of the LLC while being taxed in the same manner as a partnership. Protection from liability is the primary advantage of an LLC over a partnership, when some or all of the partners may be subject to unlimited liability. However, because most estate tax issues in the LLC context have yet to be addressed by either the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) or courts or appraisers, estate planners must carefully assess whether the LLC is the proper choice of a business entity for estate planning purposes. For discussion of LLCs generally, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

PRACTICE TIP:

The IRS has issued several private letter rulings indicating that gifts of a limited partnership interest qualify for the gift tax annual exclusion as a gift of a present interest [see Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9415007, 9131006, 8611004 ; but cf. TAM 97-51-003 (if partnership agreement contains no distribution provisions, there is no present interest, and, therefore, gift does not qualify for annual exclusion)]. There is no reason to believe the IRS would take a contrary position with regards to an LLC, so long as the LLC articles of organization contain distribution provisions. Thus, consistent with the primary estate planning objective of transferring assets out of an estate, taxpayers may make gifts of LLC membership interests to use the annual gift exclusions and lifetime transfer exemptions. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Effect of Structure on Personal Liability

[a] General Partners

General partners, like sole proprietors, are personally liable for the obligations and liabilities of the business, even in excess of the amount invested. Thus, not only are business assets vulnerable, but personally owned assets are also subject to the risks of the business [Corp. Code §§ 16305, 16306(a); for discussion of liability of general partners generally, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships ].

[b] Limited Partners

In contrast to general partners [see [a], above], the liability of limited partners ordinarily is limited to their capital contributions, any commitments for future contributions, and, when partnership assets are insufficient to satisfy partnership liabilities, any distributions received from the partnership [Corp. Code §§ 15903.03, 15905.09(b)]; for discussion of liability of limited partners generally, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships ]. However, limited liability status may be lost if the proper formalities are not observed in the formation of the limited partnership or if the limited partner participates in the management and control of the partnership [Corp. Code §§ 15903.03, 15903.06].

[c] Limited Liability Company Members

Members of LLCs are not ordinarily personally liable for any debt, obligation, or liability of the LLC arising in contract, tort, or otherwise solely by virtue of that membership [Corp. Code § 17101(a)]. Effective January 1, 2000, members are subject to liability under the common law governing alter ego liability [Corp. Code § 17101(b), as amended by Stats. 1999, ch. 490]. However, members may agree to be obligated personally for any or all of the LLC's debts, obligations, and liabilities, as long as that agreement meets certain requirements [Corp. Code § 17101(e)]. For discussion of the liability of members of LLCs generally, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

[3] Effect of Structure on Transferability

The legal structure of the family business often affects the transferability and marketability of the business interests, and the manner in which the business owners restrict the transferability of those interests. Most commonly, buy-sell agreements are used to restrict the transfer of business interests to nonfamily members. However, as the business ages, buy-sell agreements may also need to restrict or limit transfers of ownership interests to family members who do not actively participate in the business. For discussion of the use of buy-sell agreements, see § 68A.81[3]. Family members may have an interest in restricting transferability and marketability of business interests to obtain the greatest valuation discounts for estate and gift tax purposes [see § 68A.40].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawClosely Held CorporationsGeneral
OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawLimited Liability CompaniesGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawLimited
PartnershipsGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawSole Proprietorships

56 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.13

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.13 Impact of Family Dynamics

[1] Family Relationships May Affect Strategic Planning

Attorneys advising family businesses must identify the internal dynamics or culture of the family, particularly dynamics that may affect or override business operations and issues related to succession. The psychological history of the family, emotional conflicts, relationship issues, and attitudes and goals regarding the business can complicate the resolution of an otherwise straightforward legal or tax problem. This complication results from the intersection of the family and business operating structures and conflicting family and business goals.

The most meticulously crafted, coordinated, and beneficial family business financial, succession, and estate planning may have ruinous results for the family if the intrafamily dynamics are not carefully analyzed during the strategic planning process. The best way to avoid family business conflicts is to identify the following:

- The goals of the business.
- The business owners.
- The family members.
- The leadership potential and business abilities of members of the next generation.
- Any existing conflicts and rivalries within the family.

All of these factors must then be incorporated into the business and estate plans [see § 68A.71].

Family issues and problems may exist regarding the children. For example, an adult child may be economically dependent on the parents or the family business. This dependency may cause resentment in the other children, particularly when the parents delay transferring control. Further, if the child is employed by the business but becomes disenchanted with its direction or designated successor, the child may not be able to secure a sufficiently similar position outside the family business.

It is not uncommon for a business entrepreneur to fear the loss of control over the business. Even more commonly, a surviving spouse with limited "hands on" experience with the business may be deterred by the complexity of combined business and estate planning strategies. Further, a family business owner may be apprehensive about whether the family members can cooperate and get along with each other.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is possible that the business owner and the family may be so embroiled in family matters that business operations and planning suffer. To deal with these potential problems, counsel is often well-advised to associate professionals trained in dealing with family problems, such as a psychologist or family business consultant [see [2], below]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Use of Nonlegal Advisors

The determination of whether a family limited partnership is the most advantageous vehicle for the family, as well as resolution of issues related to partnership formation, typically involves a team of advisors, which may include certified public accountants, bankers, financial planners, business organization advisors, and legal counsel. Attorneys specializing in business transactions or trust and estate litigation may be required to assist the estate planner.

When serious and divisive conflicts exist within the family structure or business, counsel should consider suggesting that the client consult a family business consultant, psychologist, mediator, or other nonlegal advisor on ways to handle the conflict. Clients should be advised that timely assistance is likely to be the best course for the business and family, and may be significantly less costly.

The more common approach is for the client or family, and not the attorney, to retain the family business consultant. However, the attorney should be prepared to assist in finding a suitable consultant if the client requests that help.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawClosely Held CorporationsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawGeneral Overview

57 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.14

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.14 Management Issues

[1] Types of Management Structures

As with other businesses, family business management runs the gamut from sole owner and manager, managing partner or member, or consultant to decision-making by consensus.

A solely owned and managed business typically involves a single family member, usually a parent or grandparent, as the key decision-maker. This type of business may also employ junior family members in the business, but they usually lack decision-making and planning authority and experience. As the business and the owner age, the owner may begin to train the next generation with an eye toward delegating significant management roles to junior family members. This stage is often the most critical, as the owner may be loath to transfer power in time to adequately train the successors. After the successful transfer of business authority to the next generation, the former sole owner and manager often continues involvement as a business advisor or consultant.

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should identify the management structure of the family business. The management structure is often distinct from and is not necessarily determined by the legal structure of the business (such as sole proprietor, partnership, corporation, or limited liability company). Counsel should consider whether the existing structure is appropriate for the existing state of the business, as well as whether that structure is likely to survive the full transfer of authority to the next generation. When multiple successors are available, some form of shared authority must be devised that incorporates the existing family dynamics, including sibling rivalry. Typically, the need for shared authority is served by a partnership structure, such as a family limited partnership or limited liability company, which can also be used to minimize taxes. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Succession Problems Unique to Family Businesses

[a] Overview

Succession issues represent the bulk of the problems facing family businesses. The issues of management succession, family leadership, personal financial security and business ownership are all intertwined. However, a carefully conceived succession plan will not only help the business prosper, but can also help keep family relationships in harmony.

In a typical situation, the parent-business owners will pass some assets to their children in some form of joint ownership. Thus, the family business moves from one or two individuals having authority and power to run the business to a group of siblings. The siblings must learn to work together, share authority, and optimize the business, while preserving healthy family relationships [see generally, Lane, Dashew, Bork & Jaffe, Working With Family Businesses: A Guide for Professionals, 42(6) Prac. Law. 83 (1996)].

Another problem in family businesses is the emotional or psychological component involved in passing the business to the next generation and sharing authority, as distinct from a business issue. The parent-business owner(s) may have a strong emotional attachment to the business, and be reluctant to pass ownership to untried children. The business may have taken on the role of a demanding child that the owner cannot trust someone else to manage. Further, running the business may be a source of personal pride, identity, and self esteem for the owner, so that detachment from the active management of the business may cause fears of loneliness and lack of purpose and power. Counsel should not rush the transfer process, but should take every opportunity to ameliorate and smooth the transfer. If the owner remains unable to let go of business control, the best succession and estate planning will fail.

PRACTICE TIP:

In addition to the inherent reluctance to deal with the consequences of death and estate taxation, the business owner may be unwilling to face his or her own retirement or the question of the identity of the successor. However, family members will tend to develop their own expectations if the succession issues are not handled; it may be more difficult to deal with those expectations in the future than facing them in the present. Counsel is well-advised to encourage a client to prepare and install a succession plan.

Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[b] Restricted Pool of Successors

When family business owners wish to keep the business within the family, determining the best successors to manage the business can be difficult given the limited pool of successors. The successor must have both business and personal skills to address and resolve business issues and family conflicts. Counsel should attempt to identify the leaders within the family, as well as those members with the necessary financial acumen and experience to lead the business. The timing of the business transfer may require the appointment of an interim manager (often a key employee); further, family rivalries may require the appointment of an external manager [see generally, Jurinski & Zwick, Solving Problems in Succession Planning for Family Businesses, 44(5) Prac. Law. 51 (1998)].

[c] Age, Gender, and Generational Issues

Family businesses encounter myriad age, gender, and generational issues. A generation gap may exist between current management and the designated successors that requires the appointment of an interim manager. A professional gap also often exists between generations; while one generation is in the process of retiring, the next generation is still receiving education and training in managing the business. Further, the family culture may retain some gender bias, with control most likely passed to the eldest male child without regard to ability and talent.

The business owner may also have trouble letting go of the control of the business for personal reasons, even when capable successors are ready to take control. The owner may have great personal attachment to the managerial role and fear the boredom of retirement. The owner may be relying on the business to fund retirement, and fear that the transfer of managerial responsibilities may lead to the failure of the business.

[d] Effect of Subsequent Generational Transfers

Succession issues become even more complicated when the business is passed to subsequent generations. Most commonly, the separation between management and ownership becomes increasingly acute. Further, just as siblings had to find some common business ground to allow them to work together, the addition of a new generation of family members can exacerbate conflicts and require new conflict resolution techniques.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
Closely Held Corporations
Management Duties & Liabilities
Business & Corporate Law
Corporations
Directors & Officers
Management Duties & Liabilities
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
General Partnerships
Management Duties & Liabilities
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
Limited Liability Companies
Management Duties & Liabilities
Business & Corporate Law
Limited Partnerships
Management Duties & Liabilities

58 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.15

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.15 Difficulties in Continuing Family Businesses and Critical Need for Planning

Many of the unique characteristics of family businesses discussed in § 68A.14 create hazards that affect the continuity of the family business. Statistically, a majority of family businesses do not survive the transfer to succeeding generations. Therefore, advance planning can be critical to the survival and prosperity of the business, as well as to the success or failure of the client's other estate planning goals.

Each client's financial, business, and family situations are unique. After examining the facts and circumstances of the family, the family business, and the client's goals, it may be clear that family cohesiveness is likely to make the transfer of the business relatively smooth. Alternatively, it may become clear that the best plan to preserve the family is to sell the business outright to family members, key employees, or on the open market. However, the decision to sell the family business may be complicated by those same family business characteristics. For example, a business owner may have a strong emotional attachment to the business, might not want to foreclose the dream of passing the business to the heirs, and may have a tendency to overvalue his or her life's work. When a client is leaning toward selling the business, counsel should determine whether that decision is based on an actual desire to dispose of the business, or is considered to be the simplest way to ameliorate family conflict.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability
 Companies General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

59 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.16

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.16 Ethical Considerations in Advising Family Businesses

[1] Counsel's Degree of Involvement in Family Matters

When advising an existing family business (or assisting in the organization or purchase of a business for a family), counsel should assess how comfortable he or she is with working for these types of clients. Specifically, counsel needs to determine the degree to which he or she is willing to be involved in family crisis management in the context of legal representation. As discussed in preceding sections, attorneys can completely ignore family issues to the detriment of business and estate planning. Nevertheless, counsel may establish the scope of the legal representation, and make concerted efforts to remain within those limits.

[2] Avoiding Conflicts of Interest

[a] Conflicts in Family Business Context

Advising family businesses can result in myriad conflict of interest issues. Particular cases likely to give rise to conflict issues include the following:

- Whether the attorney should draft a buy-sell agreement for a group of family shareholders who claim there is no conflict, but the attorney perceives that a conflict will arise in the future.
- The sale of the business.
- When shares in the business will be given as gifts to other family members.

In addition to the responsibility of representing the business owners (and the business), counsel may be perceived as a counselor to individual family business members who may have interests that diverge from the interests of the business and each other. For example, if a couple has a business they want to convert into a family limited partnership or limited liability company and begin passing assets to their children who will be active in the business, identifying the client and avoiding providing legal advice to other participants can be complicated. Counsel may also face conflict of interest issues when drafting a buy-sell or other transfer restriction agreement; the business owner may want more restrictions than the minority interest holders, and the parties may disagree on the valuation of the business interests. Conflict issues also arise in the estate planning context when the goals of the parents, such as personal financial security and retirement income, are not seen as in the best interests of the next generation (or the business itself).

For further discussion of conflict of interest, see Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business. Forms addressing conflicts of interest and dual representation are set forth in Ch. 1A and Ch. 60, Estate Planning.

[b] Assess Potential for Conflicts and Inform Parties

Because the family members are unlikely to secure independent and individualized legal assistance, counsel must assess the potential for a conflict of interest. Absent serious conflicts between family members, counsel may represent clients with potentially conflicting interests. To provide multiple representation, counsel must fully disclose the potential pitfalls of multiple representation in writing and secure each party's written and informed consent [see Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-310(C)]. Counsel must give written disclosure of the relevant circumstances and any actual or reasonably foreseeable adverse consequences to the joint representation [Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-310(A), (C)]. In giving disclosure, counsel must exercise caution in determining whether disclosure of a particular matter is appropriate [see, e.g., Bus & Prof. Code § 6068(e) (duty of counsel to maintain client's confidences inviolate)]. If the potentially conflicting interests result in actual conflict, counsel must obtain an additional written informed consent [see Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-310(C)(2) (discussion)].

Some conflicts exist for which disclosure is insufficient to permit continued representation [see, e.g., Woods v. Superior Court (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 931, 197 Cal. Rptr. 185; Klemm v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 893, 142 Cal. Rptr. 509]. In those situations, it is appropriate to recommend that independent counsel be retained.

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel may address potential conflict issues in an engagement letter that outlines the scope of the proposed representation, identifying the client as the business owner [see [c], below] and advising other parties to obtain separate representation. The scope of representation may be reiterated in subsequent client letters that further outline the scope of representation. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[c] Identify Business Entity as Client

When representing the business entity, counsel must tailor the representation to the concept that the organization itself (operating through its highest authorized officer or controlling body) is the client [Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-600(A)]; see ABA Model Code of Professional Responsibility § 5-18]. Counsel must inform other participants in the business that the entity is the client whenever it becomes apparent that the entity's interests are or may become adverse any of those participants [Cal. Rules Prof. Cond., Rule 3-600(D)].

PRACTICE TIP:

When advisable, counsel should consider securing acknowledgments of nonrepresentation and confidentiality waivers from individual family members. Counsel may also suggest the use of other professionals, such as accountants and insurance agents, who are not subject to the same ethical restrictions as attorneys. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
General Overview
Legal Ethics
Client Relations
Accepting Representation

60 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Family Business Entities

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.17-68A.29

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.17[Reserved]

61 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 a. Income Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.30

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.30 Partnership Tax Treatment

Properly constituted limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and S corporations, the entities most commonly used in the family business context, are subject to or can elect partnership tax treatment and avoid income taxation at the entity level [see I.R.C. §§ 701 et seq., 1361 et seq.]. These are separate tax-reporting entities for income tax purposes, and must file an informational return that details income and deductions [I.R.C. § 6031(a)], but are not separate taxable entities [I.R.C. § 701]. Items of income, losses, deductions, and credits flow through to individual partners, LLC members, or S corporation shareholders, who report and pay any tax due on their individual income tax returns [I.R.C. §§ 701, 702, 704, 1366]. In contrast, a C corporation is a separate tax-paying entity for federal and state tax purposes [I.R.C. § 11; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23038, 23151].

Limited partnerships, LLCs and S corporations must pay a tax--that is not deductible for state tax purposes--for the privilege of doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851.5, 17935, 17941, 17948, 23153]. LLCs must pay a graduated entity level fee based on total income from all sources derived from or attributable to California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17942 (fee applicable to income of $250,000 or more), 23038(b)(2)(B)(iii)]. However, an LLC that is exempt from taxes and fees under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x and that is not taxed as a corporation for California tax purposes is not subject to the annual minimum franchise tax, and thus not subject to this annual fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941(d), 23701h(b), 23701x(b); see also I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (25) (title holding companies)].

The income taxation of partners and partnerships is notoriously complex on numerous issues, including the following:

- Allocation of income and/or deductions not in proportion to the partners' interests.
- Contribution of appreciated property.

- Purchase or sale of partnership interests.
- Basis adjustments at death.
- Treatment of inventory or other ordinary income items.

For discussion of partnership taxation generally, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships .

The sole proprietorship, partnership, and LLC forms of business entities do not offer participants the option of retaining income in the business entity for tax purposes. A sole proprietor is taxed on 100 percent of net income [I.R.C. §§ 61(a), 62(a)(1) (business losses may be deducted on proprietor's individual return)], while each partner or LLC member must include his or her share of income (and other items) in personal income and pay tax accordingly, regardless of whether the items, or their cash equivalent, were actually distributed [I.R.C. §§ 701, 702(a), 704(b)]. Like partners in a partnership, S corporation shareholders report their proportionate share of income on their individual tax returns [I.R.C. § 1366(a)]. Only a C corporation, which first pays a corporate level tax on its earnings [I.R.C. § 11(b)], may choose not to distribute its earnings to shareholders as dividends, but risks a substantial penalty tax if earnings are accumulated above reasonable business needs for the purpose of avoiding the income tax imposed on shareholders [I.R.C. §§ 531-537].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships General Overview

62 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
     1. Federal Taxation
         a. Income Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.31

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.31 Purchase or Gift of Interest in Family Partnership; Income Splitting

By giving a family member a partnership interest in a family partnership or an LLC membership in a family LLC, or by having a family member buy the partnership interest or LLC membership, partnership or limited liability company income may be split among family members if certain requirements are met [I.R.C. § 704(c), (e)]. For these purposes, "family" means an individual's spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants, and trusts for the primary benefit of those persons [I.R.C. § 704(e)(3)]. However, although income splitting may be accomplished among family members [see I.R.C. § 704(e); Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1], it has spawned an enormous amount of litigation, particularly among family members in partnerships, resulting in stringent Internal Revenue Code requirements.

In general, a family member is recognized as a legitimate partner or limited liability company member if he or she owns a partnership or membership (capital) interest in an entity in which capital is a material income-producing factor, regardless of whether that interest was derived by purchase or gift [I.R.C. § 704(e)(1)]. This capital requirement eliminates the possibility of income splitting in most personal service businesses in which the owner provides the principal service of the business and capital is not an income-producing factor [see Payton v. United States (5th Cir. 1970) 425 F.2d 1324, cert. denied, 400 U.S. 957 (1970)].

If minor children become partners or LLC members, a fiduciary must be appointed unless the minor child is competent to manage property on an equal basis with adults [see Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(e)(2)(viii)]. The unearned income of children under the age of 18 may be taxed at rates applicable to the parents rather than the child [I.R.C. § 1(g)], which reduces the incentive to shift income to minor children.

A family member receiving a gift of a partnership or LLC membership interest is taxed on his or her distributive share of partnership or LLC income according to the partnership or LLC operating agreement, except to the extent that both of the following are true [I.R.C. § 704(e)(2); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(e)(3)(I)(a), (c)]:

- The share is determined without allowance of reasonable compensation for services rendered to the entity by the donor.
- The portion of the share attributable to donated capital is proportionately greater than the share of the donor attributable to the donor's capital.

An interest purchased by one family member from another is considered created by gift from the seller. The fair market value of the purchased interest is considered to be donated capital [I.R.C. § 704(e)(3)].

For further discussion of partnership taxation, see Ch. 15, Part B, Dissolution of General Partnerships .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships General Overview Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships Family Partnerships (IRC sec. 704)

63 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
1. Federal Taxation
a. Income Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.32-68A.39

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.32[Reserved]

64 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.40

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.40 Gift Valuation

[1] General Rule: Fair Market Value as of Date of Gift

In general, gift tax is imposed on the fair market value of a gift at the date of the gift [see I.R.C. §§ 2501, 2512]. A gift is deemed to occur for tax purposes if the value of the transferred property exceeds the value in money or money's worth of any consideration given; consideration that is not reducible to a value in money or money's worth is disregarded [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-8].

"Fair market value" is the price at which the property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither being under any compulsion to buy or to sell, and both having reasonable knowledge of relevant facts. Most commonly, this amount is the retail value of the property [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-1 (it is irrelevant to gift tax valuation that donee of personal property could not resell it at its retail value)]. However, the fair market value of transferred real property may be based on the objective, realistic potential use of the property, and factors such as a change in zoning must be taken into consideration for purposes of gift tax valuation [ Frazee v. Commissioner (1992) 98 T.C. 554 ].

The regulations provide many examples of the valuation of different types of property and property interests. For example, stocks and bonds are ordinarily valued at their prices on the stock exchange or over-the-counter market at the mean between the highest and lowest selling prices on the date of the gift; if no sales occurred on the date of the gift, the fair market value will be a "weighted average" of the means between the highest and lowest sales on the nearest days before and after the gift, if those days were within a reasonable time of the sale [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-2(b)]. The valuation of an interest in a business is its net value determined by all relevant factors, including a fair appraisal on the date of the gift of all tangible and intangible business assets and factors relating to the valuation of corporate stock [ Rev. Rul. 59-60, 1959-1 C.B. 237 ].

PRACTICE TIP:

The same principles that govern the valuation of property for estate tax purposes also apply to the valuation of gifts. However, there is no alternative valuation date or special use valuation for gifts as there is for estates [see [2], below]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Special Valuation Rules*[a] Valuation of Transferred and Retained Senior Interests Required

Congress enacted rules in 1990 designed to curtail an individual's ability to make lifetime transfers to family members of future appreciation in property. These rules, found in I.R.C. §§ 2701 through 2704 (Chapter 14 of Subtitle B of the Internal Revenue Code), replaced the anti-estate-tax-freeze rules of former I.R.C. § 2036(c) [former I.R.C. § 2036(c), repealed by Pub. L. No. 101-508, 101st Cong., 2d Sess., § 11601 (Nov. 5, 1990)]. The current valuation rules are effective as to transfers occurring after October 8, 1990.

Prior to the enactment of the current version of I.R.C. § 2036(c), a common estate planning strategy was to create junior and senior interests in a business entity or other property, with the junior interests receiving the rights to future appreciation and little else. The subsequent transfer by gift of the junior interest produced a very favorable valuation for those junior rights, allowing future appreciation to be transferred with little transfer tax cost. Congress and the IRS perceived this strategy as a problem.

Thus, the 1990 legislation directly addressed the perceived problem by valuing any retained interest other than a "qualified interest" at zero, unless the retained interest meets specified exceptions, thereby causing the gift of the junior interest to equal the gift of the entire entity. As of October 8, 1990, any gift of a junior interest that does not meet the special rules in Chapter 14 will have disastrous transfer tax effects. Chapter 14 goes well beyond simply addressing senior and junior interests, however, and, as intended, can dramatically affect the valuation of gifts of partnership interests owned by families.

The special valuation rules focus on four distinct issues:

- I.R.C. § 2701 provides for the valuation of preferred corporate stock and partnership interests in freeze transactions [see [b], below].
- I.R.C. § 2702 deals with valuation in the context of a transfer in trust or the retention of a term interest in property that operates similar to a trust [see [c], below].
- I.R.C. § 2703 covers options and buy-sell agreements [see [d], below].
- I.R.C. § 2704 deals with the effect of lapsing rights on valuation [see [e], below].

In general, the current special valuation rules accept a present gift and focus on the valuation of that gift. Structuring partnerships and corporations without preferred interests is one of the most common ways of avoiding I.R.C. § 2701. However, even partnerships and corporation with only one class of equity ownership are still subject to the valuation rules of I.R.C. §§ 2703 and 2704.

PRACTICE TIP:

IRS challenges to valuations discounts asserted in connection with transferred partnership interests have in recent years focused on the interpretation and implementation of I.R.C. §§ 2703 and 2704. A thorough understanding of those I.R.C. sections and applicable state partnership or corporate law is essential to the professional advisor seeking to aid the aggressive client who wishes to obtain the valuation discounts.

Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[b] Valuation of Preferred Corporate Stock and Partnership Interests in Freeze Transactions

Special valuation rules apply when an interest in a corporation or partnership is transferred to (or for the benefit of) a family member and the transferor retains an applicable retained interest [see I.R.C. § 2701]. The rules are used both to determine whether the transfer is a gift and to determine the value of the gift and the rights retained after the transfer [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(1)].

In general, an "applicable retained interest" is any interest in an entity with respect to which there is either of the following [I.R.C. § 2701(b)(1)(A), (B)]:

- A distribution right where the family controls the entity prior to the transfer.
- A liquidation, put, call, or conversion right.

A "distribution right" is the right to receive distributions with respect to an equity interest. The term does not include any of the following [I.R.C. § 2701(c)(1); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(b)(3), (4)(iii)]:

- A right to receive distributions with respect to an interest that is junior to the rights of the transferred interest.
- Any extraordinary payment right.
- Any right of a partner to receive fixed guaranteed payments.

Unlike a liquidation, put, call or conversion right, a distribution right is valued under Chapter 14 only if the family controls the entity before the transfer.

Liquidation, put, call or conversion rights are collectively referred to in the Regulations as an "extraordinary payment right," all of which are valued at zero when held by the transferor [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-1(a)(2)(i)]. Essentially, an extraordinary payment right is any right the exercise or nonexercise of which affects the value of the transferred interest, with the exception of mandatory payment rights, liquidation participation rights, nonlapsing conversion rights, and fixed guaranteed payments under I.R.C. § 707(c) [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(b)(1), (2); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(b)(4)].

Since the transfer must be to a "family member" and, in the case of a distribution right, the entity must have been in the control of the "family" before the transfer for I.R.C. § 2701 to apply, the definitions of these terms are important to the application of the special valuation rules. A "family member" includes the transferor's spouse and the lineal descendants (and their spouses) of the transferor or the transferor's spouse [I.R.C. § 2701(e)(1)]. For purposes of determining control, "applicable family member" includes any lineal descendant of any parent of the transferor or the transferor's spouse [I.R.C. § 2701(b)(2)(C)]. A transferor is treated as owning any interest held indirectly through a corporation, partnership, trust, or other entity, with the result that multiple attributions are possible [I.R.C. § 2701(e)(3); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-1(b)(2)(ii)].

Once it is determined that an applicable retained interest exists, Chapter 14 provides methods for determining the value of the interest, provided the retained interest does not qualify for one or more of the specified exceptions to the application of these special valuation rules.

PRACTICE TIP:

I.R.C. § 2701 applies to transfers of interests after October 8, 1990, not to the creation of the interests.

Thus, a pre-1990 corporate recapitalization could involve a post-1990 transfer of an interest. The post-1990 transfer may be covered by the current valuation rules even through the recapitalization itself predated the October 8, 1990, effective date. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Under I.R.C. § 2701, a four-step subtraction method is used to determine the value of an individual's gift [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3]. Under this method, the amount of the transfer is determined by subtracting the value of all family-held equity interests senior to the transferred interest from the fair market value of all family-held interests in the entity determined immediately before the transfer. Thus, if an applicable retained interest is the only senior equity interest, the junior interest will be charged with the entire value of all interests held in the entity by the family. Family-held senior equity interests other than applicable retained interests are valued at their fair market value and subtracted from the value of the total family interest. The balance is then appropriately allocated among the transferred interests and other family-held subordinate equity interests [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(a)(1)]. An equity interest is a "senior equity interest" if it carries a right to distributions of income or capital that is preferred to the rights of the transferred interest [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(a)(2)(ii)]. If a senior equity interest is also an applicable retained interest that meets none of the exceptions in I.R.C. § 2701, it will, of course, be valued at zero. Finally, certain discounts and other appropriate reductions are permissible.

More specifically, the four-step process is applied as set forth in the regulations:

- First, the fair market value of family-held interests must be determined as if held by a single individual using a consistent set of assumptions [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(a)(2)(i), (b)(1)].
- Second, this amount is reduced by the sum of the fair market value of family-held senior equity interests (not including applicable retained interests) and the value of applicable retained interests held by the transferor or applicable family members subject to special adjustment [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(b)(2)]. A special adjustment avoids attributing value to a transferred interest in excess of the family interest percentage. For this purpose, the family interest percentage is the highest ownership percentage of family-held interests in any class of subordinate equity or in all classes of subordinate equity taken in the aggregate [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(b)(5)].
- Third, the tentative amount of the gift is determined by allocating the amount determined in the second step among the transferred interests and other family-held subordinate equity interests beginning with the most senior class of subordinate equity [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(b)(3)].
- Fourth, the amount allocated to transferred interests in the third step is reduced by minority and similar discounts [see § 68A.72], the value of a retained interest under I.R.C. § 2702 [see [c], below], and any consideration received by the transferor [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(b)(4)].

A special minimum value rule applies in valuing junior equity interests [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(4); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(c)]. "Junior equity interests" are common stock, or in the case of a partnership, any partnership interest under which the rights to income and capital (or, to the extent provided in regulations, the rights as to either income or capital) are junior to the rights of all other classes of partnership interests [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(c)(2)]. The minimum value that can be assigned to a junior equity interest may not be less than its pro rata portion of 10 percent of the sum of the total value of all equity interests in the entity, plus any debt the entity owes to the transferor or applicable family members determined without regard to certain guarantees and qualified deferred compensation [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(4); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(c)(1)]. For this purpose, indebtedness incurred to pay current operating expenses, and a lease of property for which adequate lease payments are made on a current basis, are not treated as indebtedness [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(c)(3)(i)(A), (ii)].

Case activity in this area provides further guidance. The Second Circuit held that, in principle, an adjustment in stock price for a potential tax liability should be taken into account in valuing stock, even when no actual liquidation of the entity is planned. The same is true when no sale or distribution of assets is planned by the entity [see Irene Eisenberg v. Commissioner (1998) 155 F.3d 50, acq. AOD CC-1999-001, 1999-4 I.R.B. 4]. The IRS has acquiesced in this holding. Further, in a case involving shares burdened by corporate tax liability, but if no liquidation or asset sale is contemplated as of the valuation date, the Tax Court held it is inappropriate for the full amount of the tax to be allowed at a discount [see Estate of Artemus D. Davis v. Commissioner (1998) 110 T.C. No 35, 110 T.C. 530].

Senior family members often wish to secure a stream of regular, guaranteed income after forming a family business entity and transferring assets to the business. The transferor may be planning for retirement, or may simply wish to continue receiving the benefits of his or her life work. The special valuation rule of I.R.C. § 2701 applies to partnership interests when the transferring partner retains a preference regarding distributions or extraordinary payment rights. The application of I.R.C. § 2701 results in the value of the applicable retained senior equity interest (a preferred distribution right) being valued at zero [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(1), (3), (c); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(a)(2)].

However, if the distribution right constitutes a qualified payment, the retained interest is not valued at zero [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(1), (3), (c)(1)(B)(iii); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(a)(2); see I.R.C. § 707(c)]. A "qualified payment" right is a right to receive any of the following distributions [I.R.C. § 2701(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(b)(6), (c)(2)]:

- A dividend payable on a periodic basis (but at least annually) under any cumulative preferred stock, to the extent it is determined at a fixed rate.
- Any other cumulative distribution payable on a periodic basis (but at least annually) with respect to an equity interest, to the extent determined at a fixed rate or fixed amount.
- Any distribution right for which an election has been made to treat the distribution as a qualified payment.

This special valuation rule does not apply in several situations, including the following:

- If market quotations are readily available on an established securities exchange for either the transferred or the retained interest [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(1), (2)(A)].
- When the transferor's retained interest is of the same class as the transferred interest [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(2)(B); see Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9229028], such as when the transferor makes a gift of common stock to a family member and retains rights only in that class of common stock. Using a single class of equity ownership is probably the most common way that a partnership or closely held corporation avoids the application of I.R.C. § 2701.
- If the rights in a retained interest are the same as all of the rights in the transferred interests in the business entity, other than nonlapsing differences in voting power or, in the case of a partnership, nonlapsing differences with respect to management and limitations on liability [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(2)(C)]. Thus, the valuation rule would not apply if a transferor made a gift of a partnership interest when all the partnership interests share proportionally in all items of income, loss, deduction and gain. For example, I.R.C. § 2701 does not apply if the retained and transferred interests both consisted of two classes of common stock that shared in all liquidations, distributions, and other rights in a two-to-one ratio. However, the valuation rule would apply in the case of a partnership interest when the transferor or an applicable family member has the right to change the liability of the transferee of the transferred property [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(2)(C)].
- An individual transfers to a member of the individual's family equity interests to the extent that the transfer results in a proportionate reduction of each class of equity interest held before the transfer by the transferor and all applicable family members in the aggregate [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-1(c)(4); Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9248026, 9226063].

- An applicable retained interest confers a distribution right consisting of a right to a qualified payment but has no liquidation, put, call, or conversion rights [I.R.C. § 2701(c)(2)(C)].

Differences between classes of partnership interests attributable to nonlapsing provisions necessary to comply with partnership allocation requirements [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 704(b)] are treated as nonlapsing differences with respect to limitations on liability [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-1(c)(3)]. Any difference that lapses due to a state or federal law is considered to be a nonlapsing difference [I.R.C. § 2701(a)(2)].

[c] Valuation of Intra-Family Retained and Transferred Interests in Trust

Under I.R.C. § 2702, the value of an interest transferred in trust is determined by suppressing the value of the retained interest and increasing the value of the transferred interest. While I.R.C. § 2702 will not generally apply to family business entities, it is nevertheless useful in planning to avoid Chapter 14 for a business to understand the fundamentals of I.R.C. § 2702.

To determine whether a transfer of an interest in trust to or for the benefit of a member of the transferor's family is a gift, and the value of that transfer, the value of any trust interest retained by the transferor or an applicable family member is zero unless the retained interest is a qualified interest [I.R.C. § 2702(a)(1), (2)(A); see Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-2(a)(6); see also I.R.C. § 2701(e)(2) ("applicable family member" defined); the rules governing trust and term interests are effective for transfers made after October 8, 1990]. Stated differently, the value of a gift of an interest in trust to a family member is equal to the value of the transferred property less the value of any interest retained by the transferor or an applicable family member. All retained interests other than qualified interests are valued at zero [I.R.C. § 2702(a)(1), (2)(A); see Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-2(a)(6)].

The retention of a term interest (such as a life estate) in property is considered to be a retention of an interest in trust [I.R.C. § 2702(c)(1)]. An interest is deemed to be retained by the transferor or an applicable family member only if it is held by the same individual both before and after the transfer [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-2(a)(3)].

A "qualified interest" means a qualified annuity interest, a qualified unitrust interest, or a qualified remainder interest [I.R.C. § 2702(b); Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-3(b)(1), (4), (e)], and is any of the following:

- Any interest that contains a right to receive fixed amounts payable at least annually.
- Any interest that includes a right to receive fixed amounts that are payable at least annually and are a fixed percentage of the fair market value of the trust property (determined annually).
- Any noncontingent remainder interest if all of the other interests in the trust are payments as described in the two preceding paragraphs.

Payment of a qualified interest cannot be subject to any contingency other than the holder's survival until the commencement (or throughout the term) of the holder's interest, or the settlor's right to revoke the spouse's interest in the case of a revocable spousal interest [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-3(d)(2)]. The term of the interest also must be fixed and ascertainable at the creation of the trust. The term must be for the life of the holder, for a specified term of years, or for the shorter of those two periods [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-3(d)(4)]. A spouse's interest is a qualified interest if the term of the interest is fixed and ascertainable at the creation of the trust and the spouse's right to receive the annuity is contingent only on his or her survival and his or her spouse's power to revoke [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-3(e), Ex. (8)]. A spouse's interest is not a qualified interest, however, if his or her annuity is a contingent interest that is payable only if the settlor dies before the end of the trust term [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-3(e), Ex. (9)].

Qualified interests are valued according to the usual rules for valuing trust interests. A member of the family, for purposes of valuing transfers of interests in trusts, includes any of the following [I.R.C. §§ 2702(e), 2704(c)(2)]:

- The transferor's spouse.
- Any ancestor or lineal descendent of the transferor or the transferor's spouse.
- Any sibling of the transferor.
- Any spouse of the transferor's siblings, ancestor or lineal descendants.

EXAMPLE:

Smith transfers property to an irrevocable trust, retaining the right to receive the income of the trust for 10 years. On the expiration of the 10-year term, the trust terminates and the trust corpus is to be paid to Smith's child. However, if Smith dies during the 10-year term, the entire trust corpus is to be paid to Smith's estate at that time. The interests retained by Smith are valued at zero because neither is a qualified interest. Thus, the amount of Smith's gift is the fair market value of the property transferred to the trust [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-2(d), Ex. (1)]. I.R.C. § 2702 effectively eliminates the "grantor retained income trust" as a planning option, except for use in connection with personal residences, as discussed below.

Special valuation rules apply to joint purchases of property with multiple term interests, which include property acquired in one transaction or in a series of related transactions [I.R.C. § 2702(c); Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2702-2(c), 25.2702-4].

PRACTICE TIP:

As with all gifts, the gift tax statute of limitations regarding transfers subject to the valuation rules governing trust interests, preferred interests in business entities, and increases in taxable gifts only runs if the transfer is adequately disclosed on a gift tax return. This requirement began with transfers subject to the special valuation rules and has now been expanded to cover the valuation of all gifts. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

The special valuation rules do not apply to the following:

- Incomplete gifts [I.R.C. § 2702(a)(3)(A)(i)]. An "incomplete gift" is any transfer that would not be treated as a gift whether or not consideration was received for the transfer [I.R.C. § 2702(a)(3)(B)]. However, an "interest" includes a power if the retention of the power prevents the transfer of an interest in property from being a completed gift [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-2(a)(4)].
- Transfers in which the sole trust property is a personal residence inhabited by persons holding term interests, or transfers in which a personal residence and a limited amount of cash are placed in qualified personal residence trust [I.R.C. § 2702(a)(3)(A)(ii); Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-5(c)]. For discussion of qualified personal residence trusts generally, see Ch. 72, Irrevocable Trusts .
- The assignment of a remainder interest if the only retained interest of the transferor or an applicable family member is as a permissible recipient of distributions of income in the sole discretion of an independent trustee [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-1(c)(6)].

- The transfer of an interest in trust if the only interest in the trust, other than the remainder interest or a qualified annuity or unitrust interest, is an interest qualifying for a charitable deduction [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-1(c)(5)].
- Transfers of an interest in trust to a family member if the remainder interest in the trust qualifies for the gift tax charitable remainder contribution deduction [Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-1(c)(3)].

[d] Valuation of Options and Interests Subject to Buy-Sell Agreement

In general, I.R.C. § 2703 requires the value of property to be determined for purposes of gift and estate tax valuation without regard to any option, agreement, or other right to acquire or use the property at a price less than its fair market value (determined without regard to the option, agreement or right). Property value is also determined without regard to any restriction on the right to sell or use the property [I.R.C. § 2703(a)]. The effect of a restriction is unaffected by whether the restriction is in the partnership agreement or in a separate agreement; a restriction may also be implicit in the entity's capital structure [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2703-1(a)(3)].

The rule disregarding transfer restrictions does not apply if the option, agreement, right, or restriction meets the following requirements [see I.R.C. § 2703(b)]:

- The agreement is a bona fide business arrangement [see St. Louis County Bank v. United States (8th Cir. 1982) 674 F.2d 1207 (maintenance of family control in and of itself is not sufficient reason to respect buy-sell agreement that does not approximate bona fide business standard)].
- The agreement is not a device to transfer property to members of the decedent's family for less than full and adequate consideration.
- The agreement has terms comparable to similar arrangements entered into by persons in an arm's-length transaction [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2703-1(b)(3), (4)(ii)].

The third requirement above does not mean that a buy-sell agreement must have been made at arm's length, only that the terms could have been negotiated at arm's length. The requirement is met if terms of the right or restriction could have been obtained in a fair bargain between unrelated parties dealing with each other at arm's length in the same business. The requirement may be met by showing that the arrangement conforms to the general practice among unrelated parties under negotiated agreements in the same business [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2703-1(b)(4); Estate of Blount, TC Memo 2004-116 (taxpayer must produce evidence of agreements actually negotiated by persons at arm's length, under similar circumstances, and in similar businesses that are comparable to terms of challenged agreement)].

Each of these three requirements must be tested independently and pass the test for a right or restriction to be respected for valuation purposes. Similarly, each right or restriction must be tested separately [Treas. Reg. § 25.2703-1(b)(2), (5)]. Meeting these three requirements will generally be difficult and is likely to require expert testimony.

EXAMPLES:

A mandatory buy-sell agreement entered into, granted, or substantially modified after October 8, 1990, is not taken into account for valuation purposes unless the agreement meets all of the above requirements [see I.R.C. § 2703]. Further, an agreement calling for mandatory sale at death has no effect on valuation if the decedent can freely transfer his or her interest during lifetime. Finally, the agreement must not be an illegal restraint or alienation under local law [Citizens Fidelity Bank & Trust Co v. United States (W.D. Ky. 1962) 209 F. Supp. 254].

The rule generally requiring that transfer restrictions be ignored for valuation purposes [see I.R.C. § 2703] does not apply if 50 percent of the entity or property subject to the restriction is owned by someone other than the transferor's family, and the outside owners are subject to the same restriction [Treas. Reg. § 25.2703-1(b)(3)].

Agreements entered into before October 8, 1990, are not subject to I.R.C. § 2703. Thus, great care should be taken whenever any amendment to an agreement entered into before October 8, 1990, is contemplated [Treas. Reg. § 25.2703-1(c)]. Despite not being subject to I.R.C. § 2703, a grandfathered buy-sell agreement must still meet the tests set forth by the courts that existed prior to the enactment of I.R.C. § 2703 to be honored for estate tax purposes.

I.R.C. § 2703 has been used repeatedly by the IRS to challenge asserted valuation discounts in connection with family limited partnerships. Specifically, the IRS has attempted to invalidate partnership agreements that establish valuation of partnership interests. For discussion of the need to adequately support and document valuation discounts, see § 68A.82[3].

In 1997, the IRS issued four letter rulings relating to partnerships created when the parent/transferor was dying. In each case, the partnership interest and local applicable state law provided restrictions with regard to a partner's (transferee's) ability to sell or use the property. In each case, the decedent's estate claimed that the "property" transferred was the partnership interest and the only restriction on the right to sell the partnership interest was the requirement of consent by the general partner to any sale or transfer. However, the IRS disagreed, concluding that it was the underlying partnership assets that were transferred. The steps of the transactions were viewed as a single continuous and integrated scheme. The rulings merged the transaction of the transfers into one with the result being deemed a transfer of the assets and not just a partnership interest. Further, all of the transfers were deemed to be a means or device to transfer property for less than full and adequate consideration, and none could be classified as bona fide, arms' length business arrangements [see Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9719006, 9723009, 9725002, 9730004].

The IRS approach has been widely criticized as ignoring concepts of property law under state laws. In each ruling, it was clearly a partnership interest, a recognized form of property, that was being transferred. The IRS argument appears more suited to a step transaction doctrine because the rulings all included so-called "death bed" transfers. Full adoption of the IRS argument would also apply I.R.C. § 2703 in an arguably overbroad manner that would disallow virtually all valuation adjustments for any family owned business.

PRACTICE TIP:

The language and reasoning in all four letter rulings were nearly identical and clearly indicate the IRS's strong and continued opposition to valuation discounts taken in connection with family limited partnerships. It remains to be seen whether the courts will apply the IRS argument. In the meantime, many practitioners have reported that they are still forming partnerships and believe that appropriate discounts for minority interests or lack of control or marketability should still be taken [see § 68A.72].
Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

In two 1997 technical advice memoranda related to similar "death bed" family limited partnerships (FLPs), the IRS successfully asserted the step-transaction theory [see § 68A.82[4]; see TAM 97-19-006, 97-19-009]. The IRS also argued that the FLPs were essentially created at death for reasons other than a bona fide business arrangement and that restrictions on the right to sell or use the underlying assets should not be recognized for valuation purposes. Because no bona fide business purpose supported the FLPs and they were merely a means of transferring property for less than adequate consideration and avoiding estate taxes, the IRS ignored the partnership agreement for valuation purposes. Invalidating the entity structure resulted in the disallowance of any valuation discounts [see TAM 97-19-006, 97-19-009]. The IRS's theory rests on traditional tax doctrine that economic substance can be asserted over the form that taxpayers choose to use [see Gregory v. Helvering (1935) 293 U.S. 465, 55 S. Ct. 266, 79 L. Ed. 596].

PRACTICE TIP:

As a result of the private letter rulings and technical advice memoranda discussed above, many practitioners continue to believe that the many valid nontax purposes for forming family limited partnerships or other business entities should be fully explored with the client and documented in the file and in the entity's records. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[e] Treatment of Certain Lapsing Rights and Restrictions

For estate and gift tax purposes, the lapse of a voting or liquidation right in a family-controlled partnership or corporation is treated as a transfer by gift, or, if the lapse occurs at the holder's death, a transfer that is includable in the gross estate of the decedent [I.R.C. § 2704(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(a); see Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(a)(2)(iv), (v) ("voting rights" and "liquidation rights" defined)]. A lapse occurs when the right is restricted or eliminated; however, a liquidation right does not lapse when an interest conferring the right is transferred [Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(b), (c)(1)].

The right to liquidate an entity can have a significant effect on the value of the interest in the entity. For example, a discount for lack of marketability may not apply if the person can liquidate the entity and receive a share of the underlying assets. In that event, the person's estate may be valued by looking at the entity's underlying assets instead of the property interest in the entity.

I.R.C. § 2704(a) seeks to prevent the lapse of a right that is the subject of a transfer from reducing the value of the person's estate or the value of the gift. If, however, the lapse of the right results from a transfer but is not caused by the transfer, I.R.C. § 2704(a) will not apply [Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(f), Ex. 4].

EXAMPLE:

If a 70 percent shareholder transfers a 30 percent interest in the corporation and loses the right to liquidate because the interest falls below 50 percent, I.R.C. § 2704 will not apply.

The value of the transfer is the excess of the value of the interests in the entity held by the individual holding the rights immediately before the lapse over the sum of the value of those same interests immediately after the lapse (as if they were held by one individual) [Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(d)]. The prelapse value is determined as if the voting and liquidation rights were nonlapsing [I.R.C. § 2704(a)(2)].

Certain restrictions on liquidation are disregarded in making valuations under I.R.C. § 2704(b). A professional advising clients in connection with family limited partnerships should closely scrutinize I.R.C. § 2704(b). If a restriction on liquidation is ignored, the transferor may have the right to liquidate the entity and the underlying assets of the entity (or the transferor's pro rata share of those assets) are what will be valued rather than the interest in the entity.

Under I.R.C. § 2704(b), any "applicable restriction" created after October 8, 1990, that effectively limits the ability of a corporation or partnership to liquidate (or the ability of a partner or shareholder to withdraw and liquidate his or her ownership interest) is disregarded in valuing a transfer among family members if both of the following are true [I.R.C. § 2704(b)(1), (2); Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-2(a), (b); see Pub. L. No. 101-508, § 11602(e)]:

- The transferor and family members control the corporation or partnership immediately before the transfer [see I.R.C. §§ 2701(b)(2), 2704(c)(1); Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-2(b)(5) ("control" defined)].
- The restriction either lapses in whole or in part after the transfer or can be removed by the transferor or members of his or her family, either alone or collectively [see I.R.C. § 2704(c)(2); Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-2(a)(1) ("member of the family" defined)].

If an applicable restriction is disregarded, the transferred interest is valued as if the restriction does not exist, looking only to the rights of the transferor under the state law that would apply but for the restrictions [Treas. Reg. §

25.2704-2(c)].

The term "applicable restriction" does not include any of the following, which therefore will not be disregarded for purposes of the above rules [I.R.C. § 2704(b)(3); Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-2(b)]:

- A commercially reasonable restriction that arises as part of financing by the corporation or partnership with a person who is not related to the transferor or transferee, or a member of the family of either.
- Any restriction imposed or required by federal or state law.
- An option, right to use property, or agreement that is subject to I.R.C. § 2703.

The most important of these exceptions are the restrictions otherwise applicable under state law, discussed in more detail below.

The Treasury Secretary is authorized to provide that other restrictions may be disregarded if they have the effect of reducing the value of the transferred interest for purposes of estate and gift taxation, but do not ultimately reduce the value of the interest to the transferee [I.R.C. § 2704(b)(4)]. Although regulations clarify that I.R.C. § 2704 does not apply to certain lapses of liquidation rights that occur because of changes in state law, or that would result in double taxation [Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(c)(2)(ii), (iii)], regulations explaining the application of I.R.C. § 2704 to other lapsing rights are reserved, and have not been issued [see Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-1(e)].

An "applicable restriction" includes a limitation in the governing instruments of an entity, on the ability to wholly or partially liquidate the entity that is more restrictive than the otherwise applicable provisions of state law. Stated differently, a restriction will be disregarded to the extent that the restrictions on a corporation's or partnership's ability to liquidate are more restrictive than the limitations that would otherwise apply under state law [I.R.C. § 2704(b)(3)(B); Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-2(b); see Kerr v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (5th Cir. 2002) 292 F.3d 490 (if restrictions fail removability requirement, they cannot be "applicable restrictions" and it is irrelevant whether restrictions are more restrictive than state law)]. The IRS has focused many of its recent challenges to FLPs in this area [see, e.g., Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9919009; TAM 97-30-004, 97-36-004].

EXAMPLES:

If a family limited partnership agreement bars the taxpayer from withdrawing and liquidating the ownership interests, but state law would otherwise permit the taxpayer to withdraw and receive fair value for the liquidated interest after six months written notice, the restriction is an applicable restriction that must be ignored for valuation purposes. Alternatively, if state law permits a limited partner to withdraw and liquidate his or her ownership interest, the argument supporting a lack of marketability discount is jeopardized [see § 68A.82].

As a result, state law regarding the liquidation of an entity is extremely important in the proper structuring of a family business. For example, in California, Corp. Code § 15908.01(b) states that a limited partnership can be dissolved by the consent of all general partners and of limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective. A partnership that wanted to provide assurance to its minority limited partners that dissolution would not occur might wish to provide for more than one general partner and adhere to the state rules regarding dissolution. This structure should also have the effect of preventing a majority limited partner from having the ability to unilaterally liquidate the partnership. If a majority limited partner cannot unilaterally dissolve the partnership, valuation adjustments for lack of marketability would be appropriate. Furthermore, since the restrictions on the ability to liquidate are not more restrictive than state law, I.R.C. § 2704(b) should not apply.

The Fifth Circuit has upheld a marketability discount for family partnership interests for gift tax purposes based on liquidation and withdrawal restrictions because of the required consent of a non-family limited partner. The restriction could not be removed solely by family members and therefore did not constitute an applicable restriction that would be disregarded for purposes of gift tax valuation. The court held that I.R.C. § 2704(b)(2)(ii) provides no exception permitting courts to disregard the presence of non-family limited partners, even when the non-family limited partner stipulated to its probable consent to the removal of the restriction. Thus, even though the non-family limited partner stipulated that it would convert its interests into cash as soon as possible (so long as the transaction was in the partner's best interest and that the partner would receive fair market value for its interests) and had no reason to oppose the removal of the partnership restrictions, these restrictions could not be treated as removable by family members after the transfer [ Kerr v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (5th Cir. 2002) 292 F.3d 490 ] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) General Overview Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) Valuation

65 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.41

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.41 Annual Gift Tax Exclusion

For calendar years 2002-2005, a donor may make gifts of up to $11,000 per donee per year without being subject to federal gift tax [ Rev. Proc. 2004-71, 2004-50 I.R.B. 970 (2005 exclusion amount); Rev. Proc. 2003-85, § 3.26(1), 2003-49 I.R.B. 1184 (2004 exclusion amount); Rev. Proc. 2002-70, § 3.24(1), 2002-46 I.R.B. 845 (2003 exclusion amount); Rev. Proc. 2001-59, § 3.19(1), 2001-52 I.R.B. 623 (2002 exclusion amount); see I.R.C. § 2503(b) (annual inflation adjustments to amount of annual exclusion)]. (For gifts made before 2002, the annual gift tax exclusion was $10,000 [ Rev. Proc. 2001-13, § 3.17, 2001-3 I.R.B. 337 ].) The exclusion for each donee applies without regard to the total number of donees [see I.R.C. § 2503(b)(1)]. However, the exclusion is available only for gifts of a present interest [I.R.C. § 2503(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A donor need not file a gift tax return if no gifts in excess of the annual exclusion amount are made [I.R.C. § 6019]. However, with gifts of partnership interests, it may be advisable to file a gift tax return even if the value gifted would qualify for the annual gift tax exclusion to start the statute of limitations running in regard to the value of the gift. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

If the donor is married and both spouses make gifts, the maximum tax-free amount for a joint gift is twice the exclusion amount per donee, or $22,000 per donee per year (for gifts made in calendar years from 2002 through 2005) [see discussion above]. The same "double" exclusion is available when only one spouse makes a gift to a person other than the donor's spouse, provided that the donor's spouse consents to split the gift [see I.R.C. § 2513(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

With advance planning, a senior family member can use the annual gift tax exclusion to shield gifts to junior family members before forming the family business (or converting the business into a family business entity for estate planning purposes) to fund capital contributions or purchases of entity interests by junior family members. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

For more detailed discussion of the gift tax annual exclusion, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Gifts (IRC secs. 2035, 2501-2524) Annual Exclusions

66 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.42

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.42 Effect of Transfers Within Three Years of Death

Gifts made during the lifetime of the donor ordinarily are not included in the gross estate of the donor [see I.R.C. § 2035(a), (d)]. However, certain transfers made within three years of the death of the donor are added back to the estate [see I.R.C. § 2035(a)], unless the transfer was a bona fide sale for adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth [I.R.C. § 2035(d)]. For example, if a life insurance policy is transferred within three years of death, the policy proceeds are fully includable in the donor's estate, even if no gift tax return was required for the transfer [I.R.C. §§ 2035(a), (c), 2042].

Transfers with retained life estates [I.R.C. § 2036], transfers taking effect at death [I.R.C. § 2037], and revocable transfers [I.R.C. § 2038] are included in the gross estate if made within three years of death [I.R.C. § 2035(a)]. Further, any gift tax paid by the donor or the estate on all gifts made by the donor or the donor's spouse (to account for gift-splitting) within three years of the donor's death is included in the donor's gross estate, regardless of whether the value of the gift is added back to the estate [I.R.C. § 2035(b)]; see Rev. Rul. 81-229, 1981-2 CB 176; see also Estate of Gamble v. Commissioner, 69 T.C. 942 (1978), acq., 1981-2 C.B. 1; Rev. Rul. 81-302, 1981-2 C.B. 170 (state gift taxes paid within three years of death are not includable in federal gross estate)].

The amount included in the gross estate because of the three-year rule is the value of the transferred property on the date of death or alternate valuation date, if elected. It is irrelevant that the donee of the property has sold or otherwise disposed of it within the three-year period [ Rev. Rul. 72-282, 1972-1 C.B. 306 ]. Gifts included in the gross estate under the three-year rule are entitled to a step-up (or step-down) in basis [I.R.C. § 1014; for decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis rule generally applies, so a step-up basis does not apply (I.R.C. § 1022); see Ch 60, Estate Planning, for a detailed discussion].

PRACTICE TIP:

All gifts made within three years of death are included in the donor's gross estate for purposes of determining the estate's qualification for I.R.C. § 303 stock redemptions [see I.R.C. § 303; see also § 68A.45], special use valuations [I.R.C. § 2032A], and deferral of estate tax payment for closely held businesses [see I.R.C. § 6166; see also § 68A.46]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Gifts, other than gifts of life insurance, for which no gift tax return was required to be filed because of the annual exclusion (or the unlimited exclusion for qualified tuition and medical expense payments), are specifically excluded from the gifts within three years of death rules [I.R.C. §§ 2035(c)(3), 2503(b), (e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Definition of Gross Estate Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Taxable Property Lifetime Transfers (IRC secs. 2035-2038) Gifts Within Three Years of Death

67 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
1. Federal Taxation
b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.43

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.43 Effect of Estate Tax on Family Businesses

Without significant advance estate planning, estate tax can have a crippling effect on family businesses. Even with reduced estate and gift tax rates [see I.R.C. §§ 2001(c), 2502], a family business faces enormous financial challenges. Cash and other assets needed for the survival of the business may have to be diverted to meet tax obligations, and the estate and business may have serious liquidity problems.

Although the federal estate tax has been repealed effective for decedents dying after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2210(a)], for the time being, at least, it remains in effect. Moreover, it is likely that significant changes will be made to the estate tax law before 2010. Estate tax planning after 2001 involves to some degree guessing how long a client will live. For clients who die in 2010, there will be no estate tax due [I.R.C. § 2210(a)]. For clients who are likely to live past 2010, estate tax planning for larger estates will involve many of the same considerations and planning techniques as the law before the 2001 legislation because, in the absence of further legislation between now and then, the law will be the same prior to enactment of the 2001 legislation [I.R.C. § 2210(a)]. For decedents dying between now and before 2011, estate planning may require year-to-year refinements tailored to each client, as transitional increases in the estate tax unified credit, estate tax rate decreases, and other changes take effect [see I.R.C. §§ 2001(c), 2010(c), 2505]. For a more detailed discussion of the prospective estate tax repeal, see § 60.112A.

Most family businesses do not survive the transfer to the next generation. Only proper estate and succession planning can ensure that the business owners have the optimal use of their assets during their lifetimes and maximum after-tax distribution of those assets to their heirs after death. Planning for the estate involves maximizing wealth by minimizing income, gift, and estate taxes. However, the business owner's objectives are crucial to a meaningful, coordinated estate plan [see § 68A.71].

PRACTICE TIP:

Many family business owners become more amenable to succession and estate planning when they are aware of the potential consequences of the estate tax and of the failure to arrange for the transfer of the business. The earlier the planning, the more likely it is that the business owner's overall, combined objectives may be met. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

For further discussion, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesGeneral Overview

68 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.44

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.44 Deduction for Qualified Family-Owned Business Interests

[1] "Qualified Family-Owned Business Interest" Defined

[a] In General

For estates of decedents dying before 2004, an estate is allowed a limited deduction for family-owned business interests [I.R.C. § 2057]. The deduction is repealed for estates of decedents dying after 2003 [I.R.C. § 2057(j)].

A "qualified family-owned business interest" (QFOBI) is any interest as a proprietor in a trade or business carried on as a proprietorship by the decedent or the decedent's family [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(1)(A)]. A QFOBI also is any interest in any entity, regardless of the form in which it is held, with a principal place of business in the United States, if ownership is held at least 50 percent by the decedent and members of the decedent's family, 70 percent by two families, or 90 percent by three families. However, the decedent's family must own at least 30 percent of the trade or business [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(1)(B), (2)]. The term "interest in an entity" means an equity or ownership interest in the entity; therefore, promissory notes issued by a family-owned business cannot be deducted as QFOBIs [Letter Rul. 200410002].

For purpose of the QFOBI, a decedent is treated as engaged in a trade or business if any member of the decedent's family is engaged in that trade or business [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(1)]. Specific rules apply for determining the percentage ownership of corporations, partnerships, and tiered entities [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(3)].

[b] Interests Not Qualifying as QFOBIs

The term "qualified family-owned business interest" does not include any of the following interests in a trade or business:

- If its principal place of business is outside the United States [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(A)].
- If the stock or debts of the business (or a controlled group of which the entity was a member) were readily tradable on an established securities market or a secondary market at any time within three years of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(B); see I.R.C. § 267(f)(1)].
- If more than 35 percent of the adjusted ordinary gross income of the business for the year of the decedent's death would qualify as personal holding company income if the business were a corporation [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(C); see I.R.C. § 543(a)].

[c] Interests Not Included in QFOBI Calculation

The value of a QFOBI does not include any of the following:

- That portion of an interest in a trade or business attributable to cash or marketable securities in excess of the reasonably expected day-to-day working capital needs of the company [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(D)(i); see Bardahl Mfg Corp. v. Commissioner (1965) 24 T.C.M. 1030, T.C. Memo. 1965-200 (working capital analysis using historical average)].
- Any passive assets, such as assets producing certain dividends, rents, royalties, interest, and similar income, that produce or are held for the production of personal holding company income [see I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(C)] or foreign personal holding company income [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(D)(ii); see I.R.C. § 954(c)(1)]. However, with regard to property leased by the decedent to a member of the decedent's family on a net cash basis, income from the lease is not treated as personal holding company income or an asset producing personal holding company income, if the income would not be so treated if the lessor had engaged directly in the activities in which the lessee engaged with respect to that property [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Documenting working capital needs, ordinarily required to avoid the accumulated earnings tax, is critical to maximizing the QFOBI deduction. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Eligibility for Deduction

To be eligible for the QFOBI deduction, an estate must satisfy five requirements:

- The decedent must have been a United States citizen or resident at the time of death [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)].
- The aggregate value of the decedent's QFOBIs passed to qualified heirs must exceed 50 percent of the decedent's adjusted gross estate (the "50-percent liquidity test") [I.R.C. § 2057(b)]. The 50-percent liquidity test is applied by adding all transfers of QFOBIs by the decedent to qualified heirs at the time of the decedent's death, plus lifetime gifts of QFOBIs after 1976 to members of the decedent's family that were continuously held until the date of death, and comparing this total to the decedent's adjusted gross estate [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(3); see I.R.C. § 2057(c) ("adjusted gross estate" defined)]. To the extent a decedent held QFOBIs in more than one trade or business, all those interests are aggregated for purposes of applying the 50-percent liquidity test [I.R.C. § 2057(b)-(d)].
- The decedent (or a member of the decedent's family) must have owned and materially participated in the trade or business for at least five of the eight years preceding the decedent's death [I.R.C. §

2057(b)(1)(D)]. Further, each qualified heir (or member of the qualified heir's family) must materially participate in the trade or business for at least five years of any eight-year period within 10 years following the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2057(f)(1)(A); see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(6)(B)]. "Material participation" is defined in terms that are both complex and vague [see I.R.C. § 2032A(e)(6)].

- The executor must elect to apply the QFOBI deduction on the decedent's estate tax return [see I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(B)]. In addition to making the election, the executor must file a written recapture agreement, signed by each person who has an interest in any property designated in the agreement, in which each person consents to the application of additional estate tax if a recapture event occurs [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(B), (h)].

- The decedent must die before January 1, 2004 [I.R.C. § 2057(j)].

[3] Maximum Amount of Deduction; Coordination With Unified Credit

An estate may deduct the adjusted value of a decedent's QFOBI for estate tax purposes if those interests comprise more than 50 percent of the decedent's estate and certain other requirements are met [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(1), (b); see [2], above]. The maximum deduction that may be taken is $675,000 [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(2)]. The deduction is repealed for estates of decedents dying after 2003 [I.R.C. § 2057(j)].

Use of the QFOBI deduction can significantly reduce the decedent's gross estate, and hence, estate taxes. However, if the QFOBI deduction is taken, the applicable exclusion amount with respect to the unified credit is maximized at $625,000 regardless of the amount of the unified credit in effect [see I.R.C. § 2010(c)], subject to an increase if the QFOBI deduction taken is less than $675,000, but not above the maximum applicable exclusion in effect [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(3); see I.R.C. § 2010(c)].

EXAMPLE:

Taxpayer dies in year 2003 with an estate of $1.4 million, including a "qualified family owned business" with an adjusted value of $800,000. The applicable exclusion amount for the year 2003 is $1 million [see I.R.C. § 2010(c)]. The estate elects and qualifies for a $675,000 QFOBI deduction. The estate can thus shield $1.3 million of assets from the estate tax, i.e. the $675,000 QFOBI deduction plus the $625,000 applicable exclusion amount [I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2057(a)(2), (3)(A)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Reducing the taxable estate by using the QFOBI deduction reduces the maximum amount of the federal credit for state death taxes paid [see I.R.C. § 2011, repealed for estates of decedent dying after 2004 (I.R.C. § 2011(f))]. If the state imposes something other than a "pick-up" tax, as does California [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13302; see also § 68A.72], there may be additional financial consequences to the use of the deduction, particularly if the state inheritance laws do not track the federal definition of the taxable estate. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[4] Recapture of Estate Tax Savings

The benefit of the QFOBI deduction is subject to recapture through imposition of an additional estate tax if, within 10 years of the decedent's death and before the qualified heir's death, one of the following recapture events occurs [I.R.C. § 2057(f), (g)]:

- A qualified heir ceases to meet the material participation requirements.
- A qualified heir disposes of any portion of his or her interest in the family-owned business, other than by a disposition to a member of the qualified heir's family or through a conservation contribution [

see I.R.C. § 170(h)].

- The principal place of business of the trade or business ceases to be located in the United States.
- A qualified heir loses American citizenship and does not transfer the QFOBI in a qualifying trust or other security arrangement [see I.R.C. § 2057(g)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The estate tax savings stemming from the use of the QFOBI election benefits the residuary beneficiaries of the estate. If the recapture tax is triggered, the liability for the recapture tax falls on the family members who inherit the business. Those family members should be made aware of the possibility of their liability for the recapture tax before agreeing to the QFOBI election. In addition, the repeal of the estate tax does not eliminate these compliance requirements in order to avoid recapture of the estate tax. Thus, a qualified heir must continue to materially participate in the family owned business interest for which the deduction under I.R.C. § 2057 is claimed for at least 10 years following the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2057(f)]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

The QFOBI recapture rules are not as strict as those applied to special use valuations, and are phased out over the 10-year period [see I.R.C. § 2057(f)(2)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should advise clients operating QFOBIs to document the purposes of nonroutine sales of inventory or fixed assets to avoid the possibility of triggering the recapture tax by a nonroutine sale. For example, a decision to sell and lease back business machinery should be documented with the business reasons supporting the disposition. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[5] Deduction Inapplicable to Gift and Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

The QFOBI deduction is not available for purposes of the gift tax or the generation-skipping transfer tax [I.R.C. § 2057(a)(1)]. Therefore, any gift tax or generation-skipping transfer tax is imposed on the full value of the business.

[6] Detailed Planning Required to Use Deduction

The use of the QFOBI deduction can be an important estate planning tool for owners of family businesses. However, the intricacies of the rules and the potential for recapture may deter them from its use. Maximizing the deduction requires careful and intricate planning during the decedent's life, the administration of the estate, and the 10-year period following the decedent's death and the transfer of the family business to the qualified family members.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions General Overview

69 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
1. Federal Taxation
b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.45

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.45 Tax-Free Redemption of Stock to Pay Estate Taxes

[1] Section 303 Redemption Treated as Sale or Exchange

When a substantial portion of a client's estate will likely hold closely held stock in a C corporation, a "Section 303 redemption" may become an integral part of the estate plan. This special redemption allows an estate to avoid dividend treatment when redeeming stock to raise funds for death taxes and funeral and administration expenses. Stated differently, this type of stock redemption is treated as a sale or exchange, provided that certain qualifications are met [see [2], below; see also I.R.C. § 303]. If the redemption is treated as a sale, the basis is subtracted to determine the taxable amount. With dividends, basis is not subtracted, which results in a higher taxable amount.

[2] Qualifications for Tax-Free Redemption

[a] Qualifying Percentage Requirements

To qualify for a tax-free "Section 303" redemption, the value of the decedent's closely held stock must exceed 35 percent of the value of the decedent's adjusted gross estate. A decedent's adjusted gross estate is the decedent's gross estate reduced by the estate's allowable deductible administration expenses and debts [I.R.C. § 303(b)(2)(A); see I.R.C. §§ 2053, 2054].

For purposes of this percentage test, all stock of the corporation or corporations includable in the decedent's estate is considered, even if the estate redeems only one class of stock [Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(c)], including stock the decedent did not own at the time of death. For example, stock transferred by a decedent before death is considered under the percentage test if it is included in the decedent's estate [ Rev. Rul. 84-76, 1984-1 C.B. 91 ]. Further, a decedent's gross estate includes stock that was part of the decedent's spouse's estate that had not been distributed at the time of the decedent's death, but was available for distribution. The amount of stock included in the decedent's gross estate is a percentage of the stock equal to the percentage of the estate to which the decedent was entitled [ Rev. Rul. 69-616, 1969-2 C.B. 45 ].

PRACTICE TIP:

If a shareholder anticipates that Section 303 redemption will be part of the estate plan, the shareholder should ensure that the stock interest meets the 35-percent test [I.R.C. § 303(b)(2)(A)]. To meet this test, the shareholder could make inter vivos gifts of property other than stock, or transfer property other than stock to the corporation in return for stock. Ordinarily, if the shareholder controls the corporation immediately after the transfer, no gain or loss is recognized by the shareholder [see I.R.C. §§ 351(a), 368(c)]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Under certain circumstances, the stock of two or more corporations may be used for the purpose of meeting the 35-percent requirement. Specifically, the stock of two or more corporations may be used to meet the 35-percent requirement if the value of the stock of each corporation included in the decedent's gross estate exceeds 20 percent of the value of the outstanding stock of that corporation [I.R.C. § 303(b)(2)(B)]. Stock owned by the decedent and the decedent's surviving spouse as joint tenants, tenants in common, tenants by the entirety or as community property is considered to be owned by the decedent for purposes of the 20-percent rule. This spousal attribution rule applies only for purposes of determining which corporations to aggregate under the 20-percent rule and not for assessing whether the 35-percent requirement is met [I.R.C. § 303(b)(2)(B)]. However, stock owned through a beneficial interest or by attribution may not be used to meet the percentage requirements [ Estate of Byrd v. Commissioner (5th Cir. 1967) 388 F.2d 223, aff'g 46 T.C. 25 (1966) ].

[b] Qualifying Dollar Limitations

A distribution of property in redemption of stock qualifies for Section 303 treatment only to the extent that the amount of the distribution does not exceed the sum of the following [I.R.C. § 303(a)]:

- Federal estate and state inheritance taxes imposed because of decedent's death.
- All interest collected with respect to the taxes imposed because of decedent's death.
- All administration expenses allowable as estate tax deductions, including executor's and attorneys' fees, plus allowable funeral and administration expenses.

The taxes considered in this calculation include state and federal estate, inheritance, legacy, and succession taxes [I.R.C. § 303(a)(1)]. The amount taken into account is the net tax liability after the allowance of any credit, relief, discount, refund, remission or reduction of tax [Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(h)]. In addition, a distribution in redemption of a shareholder's stock is only eligible for Section 303 treatment to the extent that estate and inheritance taxes reduce the shareholder's interest in the estate [I.R.C. § 303(b)(3)].

[c] Inclusion in Gross Estate

The redeemed stock must be includable in the decedent's gross estate for Section 303 treatment [I.R.C. § 303(a)]. For purposes of determining whether stock is includable in the decedent's gross estate, "gross estate" means the gross estate as computed in accordance with I.R.C. § 2031 or, in the case of a nonresident alien, in accordance with I.R.C. § 2106 [Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(b)]. Stock subject to tax as a result of a generation-skipping transfer occurring at or after death is deemed included in the individual's gross estate and is eligible for Section 303 treatment [I.R.C. § 303(d)].

The redeemed stock must have been actually owned by the decedent as of the date of death. A redemption of stock not owned by a decedent at death does not qualify for Section 303 treatment even when the stock is included in the decedent's gross estate as a transfer within three years of death [ Rev. Rul. 84-76, 1984-1 C.B. 91 ; see § 68A.42]. Stock not owned at the date of death that is includable in the decedent's gross estate is, however, taken into account in determining the percentage requirements [see [a], above].

Even though stock is "Section 306" stock, a Section 303 redemption can take place if the Section 303 requirements are otherwise met [Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(d); see I.R.C. § 306].

Stock with a basis determined with reference to the basis of stock that was included in decedent's gross estate is also eligible for Section 303 treatment [I.R.C. § 303(c)]. The stock need not be redeemed by the executor or administrator of an estate to qualify. When stock included in an estate is exchanged for new stock, the basis of which is determined by reference to the basis of the old stock, the new stock qualifies for a Section 303 redemption just as if the old stock had been redeemed [Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(d)]. Examples of "new" stock that qualify for Section 303 treatment include the following:

- Stock received in a spin-off [see Rev. Rul. 77-377, 1977-2 C.B. 111 ; see also I.R.C. § 355].
- Stock received in a reorganization [see I.R.C. § 368].
- Stock received in an exchange [see I.R.C. § 1036 (tax free exchange of common stock for common stock in same corporation and tax free exchange of preferred stock for preferred stock in same corporation)] or distribution to which I.R.C. § 305(a) applied. I.R.C. § 305(a) deals with tax-free stock dividends, such as common stock dividends issued with respect to the common stock of the same corporation.

I.R.C. § 303 applies to redemptions of stock jointly owned by a decedent and another party [see I.R.C. § 2040], provided that the stock was included in the decedent's gross estate [see Treas. Reg. § 1.303-2(f)]. Transferred stock whose voting rights were retained by the transferor would in all likelihood also be eligible for Section 303 treatment if included in the transferor's gross estate [see I.R.C. § 2036(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The transfer of closely held stock to a revocable trust should not affect the eligibility of the estate for an I.R.C. § 303 redemption. A revocable trust to which the stock has been assigned will be fully includable in the gross estate. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[3] Effect of Gifts Within Three Years of Death

Gifts made within three years of death are included in decedents' gross estates for purposes of determining qualification for I.R.C. § 303 redemptions, even if the gift is not otherwise includable in the decedent's gross estate [see § 68A.42; I.R.C. § 2035(c)(1)]. For most other purposes, transfers within three years of a decedent's death are not includable in the gross estate, except for the following [see I.R.C. § 2035(a)]:

- Transfers of life insurance.
- Transfers with retained life estates.
- Transfers taking effect at death.
- Revocable transfers.
- Transfers under power of appointment.

Transfers to a spouse that qualify for the unlimited gift tax marital deduction are includable in the gross estate for purposes of determining qualification for I.R.C. § 303 redemptions [I.R.C. § 2035(c)(1), (3)]. The only gifts that are not includable for this purpose are gifts that qualify for the annual gift tax exclusion [see § 68A.41; see also Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4]] and the unlimited exclusion for qualified tuition and medical expense payments [I.R.C. §§ 2035(c)(3), 2503(b), (e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Substantial predeath transfers can be made that qualify for the annual gift tax and qualified tuition and medical expense payment exclusions, and effectively reduce the value of the gross estate for purposes of meeting the Section 303 percentage requirements. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[4] Redemption of Generation-Skipping Stock

Stock subject to a generation-skipping transfer may be redeemed under I.R.C. § 303 to pay generation-skipping transfer taxes, provided the generation-skipping transfer occurs at or as a result of the death of an individual, and the 35-percent test [see [2][a], above] is applied solely with respect to the generation-skipping transfer rather than that transfer plus the estate [I.R.C. § 303(d)]. However, the time period within which the redemption must be made and the limitation on the amount of stock that can be redeemed are applied by reference to the date of the generation-skipping transfer, as opposed to the date of death [I.R.C. § 303(d)(3)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
Closely Held Corporations
General Overview
Business & Corporate Law
Corporations
Finance
Dividends & Reacquisition of Shares
Cancellation & Redemption
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
General Overview
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
Estate Tax Returns
Payments

70 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.46

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.46 Extension of Estate Tax Payments Attributable to Closely Held Business Interests

[1] Thirty-Five Percent Rule Permits Deferral and Installment Payments

When the value of a decedent's interest in one or more interests in a closely held business includable in the decedent's gross estate exceeds 35 percent of the decedent's adjusted gross estate, the executor may elect to pay all or part of the federal estate tax attributable to that interest in two to 10 equal annual installments [I.R.C. § 6166(a)(1)]. The election permits deferral over a 14-year period because the deferred payments begin on a date selected by the executor not more than five years after the original due date of the tax. Annual interest payments are made for five years, followed by 10 annual installments of principal and interest. In essence, the last year of interest and the first year of principal overlap [I.R.C. § 6166(a)(1), (3); see I.R.C. § 6151(a)].

For purposes of deferral and installment payments, "interest in a closely held business" means any of the following [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(1)]:

- An interest as a proprietor in the trade or business carried on as a proprietorship.
- An interest as a partner in a partnership carrying on a trade or business, if either of the following is true:
  - Twenty percent or more of the total capital interest in the partnership is included in determining the gross estate of the decedent, or
  - The partnership had 45 or fewer partners (15 or fewer partners for decedents dying before 2002).

- Stock in a corporation carrying on a trade or business if either of the following is true:
  - Twenty percent or more in value of the voting stock of the corporation is included in determining the gross estate of the decedent, or
  - The corporation had no more than 45 shareholders (no more than 15 shareholders for decedents dying before 2002).

PRACTICE TIP:

The definition of what constitutes a trade or business is the subject of significant interest on the part of the IRS. For partnerships holding rental real estate, a partnership constitutes a trade or business if the partnership provides services. A taxpayer can secure a determination if the partnership qualifies under I.R.C. § 6166. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

In determining the estate tax value of a closely held corporation, the executor should consider the total tax picture. For example, in certain cases, the business should be valued at a high enough level to meet the 35-percent test [see I.R.C. §§ 303, 6166]. In other situations, it may be more advisable to use the alternate valuation date or a special use valuation to arrive at the lowest valuation for the business. If either the estate or the recipients of the business assets have a liquidity problem, the business should be valued, if possible, at a level high enough to qualify for the deferral under I.R.C. § 6166.

The maximum amount of tax that may be paid in installments is the portion of tax due bearing the same ratio to the total estate tax as the ratio of the value of the closely held business to the total adjusted gross estate [I.R.C. § 6166(a)(2)]. The estate must pay interest on the deferred estate taxes. A favorable 2-percent rate applies to the amount of deferred estate tax attributable to the first $1 million in taxable value of the closely held business. The interest rate imposed on the amount of the deferred estate tax attributable to the taxable value of the closely held business in excess of $1 million is reduced to an amount equal to 45 percent of the rate applicable to underpayment of taxes [I.R.C. § 6166(j)(1), (2)]. The $1 million figure is subject to annual inflation adjustments after 1998. For decedents dying in 2005, for example, the figure is $1,170,000 [ Rev. Proc. 2004-71, 2004-50 I.R.B. 970 ]. Interest paid on deferred estate taxes is not deductible for estate or income tax purposes [I.R.C. §§ 163(k), 2053(a)(2), (c)(1)(D)].

Although the election ordinarily permits deferral over a 14-year period, as discussed above, when the decedent's estate meets the 20-percent ownership requirement only because interests held by family members are treated as owned by the decedent [I.R.C. §§ 267(c)(4), 6166(b)(2)(D)], and the interest in the closely held business is a partnership or stock that is not readily tradable, the five-year deferral is unavailable. Therefore, the estate tax payments may be spread over only 10 years, and the 2-percent interest rate that applies to a portion of the unpaid estate tax under the deferral election [see I.R.C. § 6601(j)] is not available [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(7)(A); see I.R.C. § 6166(b)(7)(B) ("non-readily traceable stock" defined)].

An estate with a qualifying property interest held through holding companies that claims installment payment of estate tax must make all installment payments of estate tax (which will include both principal and interest) relating to a qualifying property interest held through holding companies over five years [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(8)(B)(ii), effective for decedents dying after 2001]. The estate of a decedent with an interest in a qualifying lending and financing business [see I.R.C. § 6166(b)(10)(B) for a definition of businesses that qualify] may pay the installments over five (rather than 10) years, and the 5-year deferral for principal is not allowed. The payments (which include both principal and interest) must begin on the due date of the estate tax return (without regard to extensions) [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(10)(A)(ii), (iii), effective for decedents dying after 2001].

In determining whether a closely held business meets the 35-percent requirement [see I.R.C. § 6166(a)(1)], the value of corporate passive assets is not considered [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(9)(A), (B)]. Stock in a holding company therefore ordinarily would not qualify for estate tax deferral [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(9)(B)(ii)]. Under a statutory exception, however, tax deferral is permitted for holding company stock to the extent of the portion of the stock that represents directly ownership by the holding company in a closely held corporation carrying on a trade or business [I.R.C. §§ 6166(b)(8), 6166(b)(9)(B)(ii)]. This rule for holding companies applies, however, only if the stock is non-readily-tradable stock [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(8)(B); see I.R.C. § 6166(b)(7)(B)]. If this requirement is not met, but all the stock of each holding company taken into account is non-readily-tradable, then installment payments are permitted, but only over five years [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(8)(B)(ii), effective for decedents dying after 2001].

PRACTICE TIP:

To increase the chances that the deferral and installment payment options may be available to the estate, it may be appropriate to reduce the other assets of estate by attempting to make lifetime gifts more than three years before death. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Additional Qualifications for Election

For the estate to elect to extend payment of estate taxes for closely held business interests, both the following must also be true:

- The decedent must have been a United States citizen or resident at the date of death [I.R.C. § 6166(a)(1), (3); see I.R.C. § 6151(a)].
- The business must have been actively carrying on a trade or business [I.R.C. § 6166(b)(1)(A), (B), (9)].

[3] Acceleration of Deferred Tax

[a] Disposition of 50 Percent of Interest

The installment payment election is terminated, and the deferred estate tax payments are accelerated, on any subsequent sale, exchange, or other distribution of 50 percent or more of the value of the decedent's interest in a closely held business. Similarly, acceleration is triggered when 50 percent or more of the value of the trade or business is withdrawn [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(A)].

On disposition or withdrawal of 50 percent, the unpaid installments must be paid on notice and demand by the IRS. Dispositions and withdrawals are aggregated to determine the applicability of the acceleration rules [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(A)]. Certain exchanges of stock, recapitalizations, and other neutral changes in the identity or form of doing business do not accelerate the payment of estate taxes [see I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(C)].

Transfers by the estate of an interest in a closely held business to a beneficiary, trustee, or heir of the decedent is not a distribution for purposes of acceleration of deferred payments [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(D)]. However, a subsequent transfer by the beneficiary, trustee, or heir will trigger acceleration of deferred payments unless the transfer is made by reason of the death of the transferor and the transferee is a member of the transferor's family [I.R.C. §§ 267(c)(4), 6166(g)(1)(D)].

Acceleration of payment of deferred tax is subject to different rules for holding companies. A disposition of any interest in holding company stock or the withdrawal of money or other property from such a holding company is treated as a disposition or withdrawal that can trigger acceleration [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(E)]. In addition, any disposition of any interest in the stock, money or property of the underlying corporation can trigger acceleration [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(F)].

[b] Section 303 Redemptions Not Treated as Distribution

When closely held business stock is redeemed to pay estate taxes [I.R.C. § 303; see § 68A.45], the redemption of the stock and the withdrawal of money and other property distributed from the business in the redemption is not treated as a distribution or withdrawal for purposes of accelerating the payment of the deferred taxes [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(B)]. However, an amount equal to the redemption distribution must be paid toward the estate tax due on or before the earlier of the first installment due date following the redemption or within one year of the redemption. To determine whether future withdrawals or dispositions exceed the 50 percent limitation, the value of the interest in the closely held business is reduced by the value of the stock redeemed [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(1)(B)(ii); see Rev. Rul. 86-54, 1986-1 C.B. 356].

[c] Nonpayment or Late Payment of Taxes

Acceleration of deferred taxes is also ordinarily triggered by a failure to pay or a delinquent payment of tax or interest [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(3)(A)]. However, a late payment does not trigger acceleration if the full amount of the delinquent payment is paid within six months of the payment's due date [I.R.C. § 6166(g)(3)(B)].

[4] Installment Payment of Certain Generation-Skipping Transfer Taxes

When the deferral election is made, any generation-skipping transfer tax [see I.R.C. § 2601 et seq.; see also § 68A.60] imposed on an interest in a closely held business transferred in a direct skip [see I.R.C. § 2612(c)] occurring at the same time as, and as a result of, the decedent's death is treated as an additional estate tax. As such, the generation-skipping tax is also payable in installments [I.R.C. § 6166(i)].

[5] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Before Seeking Declaratory Relief With Respect to Election

An executor who has made an election to extend the time for payment of estate tax with respect to an interest in a closely held business under I.R.C. § 6166 may request a declaratory judgment from the tax court if the IRS has done any of the following [I.R.C. § 7479]:

- Determined that the election cannot be made with respect to the estate or property included in the estate.
- Failed to make a determination with respect to the estate or any property included in the estate within 180 days after the executor filed the election.
- Made a determination that the extension of time for payment no longer applies with respect to the estate or any property included in the estate.

A declaratory judgment may not be issued, however, unless the executor has exhausted all administrative remedies [I.R.C. § 7479(b)]. To exhaust administrative remedies, an executor must [ Rev. Proc. 2005-33, 2005-24 I.R.B. 1231 ]:

- Timely file a Form 706, United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return on behalf of the estate and attach the election to extend the time to pay under I.R.C. § 6166(a).
- For a deficiency assessed with respect to an estate for which the executor did not make an election to extend the time to pay on Form 706, an executor who wishes to pay the deficiency in installments must elect to extend the time to pay the deficiency under I.R.C. § 6166(h) by filing a notice of election with the IRS within 60 days after the date that notice and demand for payment of the deficiency is made.
- Request, in writing, an appeals conference within 30 days after the date of mailing of the IRS preliminary determination letter, or by any later date for responding to the letter agreed on by the executor and the IRS

- Participate fully in the appeals conference.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Estate Tax Returns Payments

71 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
1. Federal Taxation
b. Gift and Estate Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.47-68A.59

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.47[Reserved]

72 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 1. Federal Taxation
 c. Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.60

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.60 Effect of Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax on Family Businesses

[1] Imposition of Tax

[a] Transfers on Which Tax Is Imposed

NOTE

REGARDING GENERATION-SKIPPING TRANSFER TAX REPEAL. The generation-skipping tax (GST) has been repealed, effective for generation-skipping transfers after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2664]. Similarly, the estate tax has been repealed, effective for decedents dying after 2009 [I.R.C. § 2210(a)]. Until then, however, both taxes remain in effect. Moreover, under a sunset provision of the 2001 legislation, that enacted the repeals, all provisions of the legislation--including the repeal of the GST and the estate tax--do not apply to generation-skipping transfers, or to estates of decedents dying, after December 31, 2010 [Pub. Law 107-16, § 901]. Thus, unless the provisions repealing the GST and estate tax are re-enacted before 2010, the GST law in effect before enactment of the 2001 legislation will apply after 2010 [see Pub. Law 107-16, § 901; see I.R.C. §§ 2601-2663, before amendment by Pub. Law 107-16]. Many commentators feel that significant changes will be made to the estate tax law, and probably the GST, before 2010. Planning around the GST after 2001 involves to some degree guessing how long a client will live. Under the law as currently constituted, for transfers made in 2010 no GST tax will be due [I.R.C. § 2264]. But for clients who are likely to live past 2010 and make taxable transfers after that time, the same GST considerations will apply as would have applied under the law as it existed prior to the 2001 legislation because under the current statutory scheme the post-2001 law will revert to the law as it existed prior to the 2001 legislation [Pub. Law 107-16, § 901]. For more extensive commentary on the repeal of the federal estate and generation-skipping transfer tax, see § 60.112A.

The generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax is imposed on direct transfers to persons more than one generation below that of the transferor. The GST tax also applies to transfers in trust with beneficiaries two or more generations below that of the transferor, depending on which beneficiaries receive distributions from the trust (that is, "taxable distributions" or "taxable terminations") [I.R.C. §§ 2601, 2613]. If all beneficiaries of a trust are two or more generations removed, the transfer to the trust is a direct skip.

For example, a GST tax is imposed on a transfer that benefits the transferor's grandchild or great-grandchild, on the occurrence of any of the following three events [see I.R.C. § 2611]:

- A taxable termination of an interest in property held in trust.
- A taxable distribution, including a distribution of income.
- A direct skip (an outright transfer).

The following transfers are not treated as generation-skipping transfers for purposes of the GST tax [I.R.C. § 2611(b)]:

- Any transfer, other than a direct skip, from a trust to the extent that the transfer is subject to estate or gift tax with respect to a person in the first generation below that of the grantor.
- Any transfer that, if made during the life of an individual, would not be treated as a taxable gift because it was made for education or medical expenses of the transferee.
- Any transfer to the extent that the transferred property was subject to a prior GST tax, the transferee in the prior transfer was in the same or a lower generation than the transferee in the present transfer, and the transfer does not have the effect of avoiding the GST tax.

[b] Rate of Tax

The GST tax is imposed at a flat rate, equal to the maximum gift and estate tax rate, and is assessed in addition to the gift or estate tax payable on the transfer. The tax rate is multiplied by the inclusion ratio [see I.R.C. § 2642] with respect to the transfer to determine the tax due [see I.R.C. §§ 2001(c), 2641].

[2] Exemptions and Exclusions From Tax

[a] GST Exemption

The most important exemption from the GST tax is the GST exemption, which allows every individual an exemption that may be allocated to lifetime transfers of property [I.R.C. § 2631(a)]. The exemption amount depends on the year of the transfer. Prior to 2004, the basic amount of this exemption was $1,000,000, subject to annual adjustment for inflation [I.R.C. § 2631(c), prior to amendment by Pub. L. 107-16]; the adjusted amount for 2003, for example, was $1,120,000 [ Rev. Proc. 2002-70, 2002-46 I.R.B. 845 ]. Beginning in 2004, the amount of the GST exemption is equal to the applicable exclusion amount for the federal estate tax [I.R.C. § 2631(c), as amended by Pub. L. 107-16, § 521(c)]. Thus, for 2004 and 2005, the GST exemption amount is $1,500,000; for 2006, 2007, and 2008, the amount is $2,000,000; and for 2009, it is $3,500,000 [I.R.C. §§ 2010(c), 2631(c)]. For additional discussion of the GST exemption, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, § 60.16[3]. Spouses making generation-skipping transfers may elect to treat the transfer as made one half by each spouse [I.R.C. § 2652(a)(2)].

Special rules apply in allocating the GST exemption [I.R.C. § 2632]. An individual (or that individual's executor) may allocate GST exemption to any property transferred by that individual [I.R.C. § 2631(a)]. Once made, an allocation is irrevocable [I.R.C. § 2631(b)]. All later appreciation attributable to property to which the GST exemption has been allocated is exempt from the GST tax [H.R. Rep. No. 99-426, 99th Cong, 2nd Sess 826 (1985)].

If an individual makes a direct skip while living, any unused GST tax exemption is automatically allocated to a direct skip to the extent necessary to make the inclusion ratio for that property equal to zero [I.R.C. § 2632(b)(1)]. An individual can elect out of the automatic allocation for lifetime direct skips [I.R.C. § 2632(b)(3)]. If any individual makes an indirect skip [see I.R.C. § 2632(c)(3)(A)] while living, then any unused portion of such individual's GST tax exemption is allocated to the property transferred to the extent necessary to produce the lowest possible inclusion ratio [I.R.C. § 2632(c)(1), effective for transfers subject to estate or gift tax made after December 31, 2000, and to estate tax inclusion periods ending after December 31, 2000].

An individual can elect not to have the automatic allocation rules apply to an indirect skip, and any such election will be deemed timely if filed on a timely-filed gift tax return for the calendar year in which the transfer was made or deemed to have been made or on such later date or dates as may be prescribed by the Treasury Secretary. An individual can elect not to have the automatic allocation rules apply to any or all transfers made to a particular trust and can elect to treat any trust as a generation-skipping transfer trust with respect to any or all transfers made to the trust. The election can be made on a timely-filed gift tax return for the calendar year for which the election is to become effective [I.R.C. § 2632(c)(5); Treas. Reg. § 26.2632-1(b)(2)(iii)(B), (C), (4)(iv) (manner and time for making election out, and example of language that may be used in statement required to elect out)].

An election not to have the automatic allocation rules apply may be made with respect to any of the following [Treas. Reg. § 26.2632-1(b)(2)(iii)(A)]:

- One or more prior year transfers made to a specified trust or trusts.
- One or more (or all) current year transfers made to a specified trust or trusts.
- One or more (or all) future transfers made to a specified trust or trusts.
- All future transfers made to all trusts whether or not in existence at the time the election out is made.
- Any combination of the above.

An election out does not affect the automatic allocation of the GST exemption to any transfer that is not covered by the election out statement. An election out with respect to future transfers remains in effect unless and until terminated and, once made, a transferor need not file a Form 709 in future years solely to prevent the automatic allocation of the GST exemption to any future transfer covered by the election out [Treas. Reg. § 26.2632-1(b)(2)(iii)(D)].

Requests for an extension of time to allocate a GST exemption are governed by Treas. Reg. § 301.9100-3 [I.R.C. § 2642(g)(1)(B); see Letter Rul. 200322015 (60-day extension to allocate exemption granted to grantor who reasonably relied on qualified tax professional who failed to make allocation; Letter Rul. 200324041 (60-day extension to allocate exemption to lifetime transfers made to irrevocable trust granted to grantor and his wife, when accounting firm they retained to prepare tax returns related to trust failed to advise them to allocate their GST exemption to these transfers)]. A simplified alternate method for allocating the GST exemption is provided by Rev. Proc. 2004-46, 2004-31 I.R.B. 142 .

The GST tax exemption can be allocated retroactively when there is an unnatural order of death. If a lineal descendant of the transferor predeceases the transferor, then the transferor can allocate any unused GST exemption to any previous transfer or transfers to the trust on a chronological basis. A transferor may retroactively allocate GST exemption to a trust when a beneficiary (1) is a non-skip person; (2) is a lineal descendant of the transferor's grandparent or a grandparent of the transferor's spouse; (3) is a generation younger than the generation of the transferor, and (4) dies before the transferor [I.R.C. § 2632(d)(1)].

[b] Other Exclusions or Exemptions

In addition to the GST exemption, the following are excluded or exempted from the GST tax, effective for GSTs occurring after 1997 [see I.R.C. §§ 2601, 2611(b), 2651(e)]:

- All gifts qualifying for the transferor's annual gift tax exclusion [see I.R.C. § 2503], with the exception of gifts to trust subject to a power of withdrawal, when the trust has more than one beneficiary or otherwise does not meet the requirements of I.R.C. § 2642(e).
- Transfers to grandchildren if the parent is deceased (transferee treated as child of transferor and all lineal descendants moved up one generation).
- Transfers to second generation or collateral heirs (such as grandnieces and grandnephews), if the decedent has no lineal descendants at the time of the transfer and the collateral heir's parent (such as the niece or nephew of the transferor) is deceased at the time of the transfer.

PRACTICE TIP:

Often, planning for the generation-skipping transfer tax is aimed at limiting generation-skipping transfers to transfers that are exempt and fully utilizing each individual's exemption in those estates in which a skip is appropriate. The tax is complex, and a full explanation of it is beyond the scope of this chapter. For further discussion, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning . Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Generation-Skipping Transfer Taxes (IRC secs. 2601-2663)

73 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
1. Federal Taxation
c. Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.61-68A.69

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.61[Reserved]

74 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Family Business Tax Issues
 2. California Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.70

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.70 Property Tax

California taxes real property using an acquisition date valuation system. Proposition 13, passed in 1978, places a cap on property taxes by limiting reappraisals to changes in ownership rather than annual reappraisals [see Cal. Const., art. XIII(A)]. In general, transfers of any interest in real property between a corporation, partnership, or other legal entity and a shareholder, partner, or any other person, and between entities, constitute changes in ownership that may trigger the reassessment of the value of the real property and a resulting change in taxes [see Cal. Const., art. XIII(A), § 2; see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 61(j), 62; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 162.001].

A "change in ownership" is a transfer of a present interest in real property, including any beneficial use, the value of which is substantially equal to the value of the fee interest [Rev. & Tax. Code § 60]. For example, a transfer of real property from a partnership to individual general partners constitutes a change in ownership if the proportionate ownership interests are altered. [ Munkdale v. Giannini (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 1104, 1108-1114, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805 (dissolution of partnership with transfer of certain properties to one partner and other properties to other partner constitutes change in ownership); Zapara v. County of Orange (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 464, 468-470, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 555 (two-step transaction in which one partner purchased other partners' partnership interests and then partnership transferred title to partnership real property to this partner constituted change in ownership)].

However, no change in ownership occurs in certain tax-free or other specified reorganizations, or if the transfer preserves the previous owners' proportionate interests in the property and the transfer is only a change in the means of holding the property. For example, a change in ownership does not include any transfer between individuals and a legal entity, such as a cotenancy to a partnership, that results solely in a change in the method of holding title to the real property and in which proportional ownership interests of the transferors and transferees, whether represented by stock, partnership interests, or otherwise, in each piece of transferred real property, remain the same after the transfer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62(a)(2); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.180(b)(2), (d)]. Thus, a transfer of real property from A and B, as equal cotenants, to a corporation in which A and B each take back 50 percent of the stock does not result in a change in ownership. However, if A and B each take back 49 percent of the stock and C receives 2 percent of the stock, then there is a change in ownership with respect to the entire property [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.180(b)(2), Example 2]. Another example is a statutory conversion or merger of a partnership into a limited liability company or other partnership (or a limited liability company into a partnership), when the new entity remains the same or succeeds to the assets of the disappearing entity without other act or transfer and the partners or members of the disappearing entity maintain the same ownership interest in the profits and capital of the new entity that they held in the disappearing entity [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.180(d)].

The purchase or transfer of ownership interests in legal entities, such as the transfer of limited partnership or limited liability interests, does not constitute a transfer of the entity's real property unless the purchase or transfer involves a change of control or is of a majority interest in the entity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(a), (c)]. Under the "control" or "majority ownership interest" rule, if one partner acquires control of the business (i.e., a majority ownership interest in any partnership or limited liability company) a property tax reassessment occurs as to all real property owned by the business [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(c)]. A change of ownership does not result, however, from an interspousal transfer in which one spouse obtains control. For example, there is no change in ownership if a wife transfers her 30 percent ownership interest in a partnership to her husband who also has a 30 percent ownership in the partnership, with the result that he then has a 60 percent ownership interest [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.220(b)].

In addition, if a transfer to a partnership or corporation was exempt from reassessment because the proportionate interests in the entity after the transfer were the same as the proportionate interests in the property before the transfer, a subsequent cumulative transfer of more than 50 percent in the entity will cause reassessment of the underlying property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 64(d)].

Certain transfers of real property between parents and children do not constitute changes in ownership and therefore do not trigger a reassessment of the property. This exclusion applies to the principal residence of the parent and to the first $1 million of assessed value of other real property. Because the assessed value is often far less than the fair market value, this exclusion can be quite valuable [see Cal. Const., art. XIII A, § 2(h)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 63.1(c)(3) (term "child" includes any child born of parent transferor, any child adopted before age 18, stepchild or spouse of stepchild, son-in-law or daughter-in-law of parent transferor, and certain foster children)]. However, a transfer by a parent to a limited partnership wholly owned by the parent and that parent's children is treated as a change of ownership and is not eligible for the parent-child exemption [ Penner v. County of Santa Barbara (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1672, 1676-1680, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 606] .

Specified transfers of real property between grandparents and grandchildren also do not constitute changes in ownership and therefore do not trigger a reassessment of the property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 63.1(a)(3)].

No change in ownership occurs with respect to interspousal transfers of family limited partnership interests [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 63; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 460.220]. This exclusion from reassessment applies even when the transfer is to an irrevocable QTIP trust [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.220(d)]. Similarly, no change in ownership occurs with respect to transfers between registered domestic partners [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62(p); see Fam. Code § 297 (definition)].

PRACTICE TIP:

In planning a partnership or other family business entity, it can be difficult to preserve the existing property tax assessment when a family owns multiple real properties, especially if there is more than one current owner. Since an inadvertent transfer causing reassessment will likely cause increased annual property taxes, counsel should carefully plan transfers of real property to partnerships or other business entities. The cumulative effect of increased annual property taxes may be so large that significant changes are made to the business formation plan. In some cases, this impact can cause a family to decide not to form the entity. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax LawState & Local TaxesReal Property TaxGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesReal Property
TaxAssessment & ValuationGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesReal Property TaxAssessment &
ValuationAssessment Methods & Timing

75 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
2. California Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.71

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.71 Documentary Transfer Tax

Under the Documentary Transfer Tax Act [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11901 et seq.], a local legislative body may impose a transfer tax on each deed, instrument, or writing by which real property sold within the county is granted, assigned, transferred, or otherwise conveyed to or vested in another person when the consideration or value of the interest or property conveyed, exclusive of the value of any lien or encumbrance remaining on the property at the time of sale, exceeds $100 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911(a), (b)]. Thus, California counties may impose a documentary transfer tax on transfers of real property. Cities within counties that have imposed a documentary transfer tax may also tax these transfers [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911(a), (b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911(c) (credit allowed against county transfer tax for amount of transfer tax imposed by city); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 11925(b) (tax inapplicable to certain partnerships holding real property)].

A deed may not be recorded unless any required documentary transfer tax or taxes have been paid [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11933]. If a deed is recorded without the requisite payment, the failure to collect the tax does not affect the constructive notice imparted by recordation of the deed.

The rate of the documentary transfer tax may vary greatly among cities and counties.

PRACTICE TIP:

As with the imposition of property taxes [see § 68A.70], certain cities allow an existing partnership to convert to an LLC without incurring a documentary transfer tax, provided that the LLC is considered a continuation of the original partnership for federal tax purposes [see, e.g., Stats. 1996, ch. 57, § 29 (LLCs)]. Because of the potentially significant variance in the rate of documentary transfer taxes from one city or county to another, it may be prudent to advise the client about these differences. For discussion of LLCs generally, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies . Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Real Property LawPurchase & SaleGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesGeneral OverviewTax LawState &
Local TaxesReal Property TaxGeneral Overview

76 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
2. California Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.72

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.72 Inheritance Taxes

California imposes a pick-up estate tax. In general, the tax equals the amount of the excess, if any, of (1) the maximum allowable amount of the federal credit for state death taxes attributable to property located in California, over (2) the federal estate tax payable by the estate [Rev. & Tax. Code § 13302]. Like federal law [see § 68A.35], California now allows deferral or installment payment of this tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13550], although numerous questions exist regarding the application of the governing provision [see Montgomery, California Estate Tax: California Offers Deferral in Conformity With I.R.C. § 6166, 5(2) Cal. Tr. & Est. Q. 4 (Summer 1999)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax LawState & Local TaxesGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesEstate & Gift TaxGeneral OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesEstate & Gift TaxEstate TaxImposition of Tax

77 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Family Business Tax Issues
2. California Taxation

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.73-68A.79

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.73[Reserved]

78 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.80

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.80 Assessing Client's Risk Tolerance

Along with assessing the business and family goals and the dynamics of the family relationships, counsel must make an assessment of the client's appropriate level of risk, which involves the financial ability to tolerate risk and the client's attitude toward risk. Factors that may influence a client's risk tolerance include the following:

- Age and health.
- Marital status and family responsibilities.
- Current and expected future earnings, stability of employment, and the financial status of the business.
- Outside sources of income, including trusts, gifts and expected inheritances.
- Overall assets, liabilities, and net worth.

PRACTICE TIP:

Analyzing and establishing the appropriate risk level for a client is one of the most crucial prerequisites for family business and estate planning, because business and estate planning objectives may have to be adjusted to accommodate the client's emotional disposition to risk. It is clear that the IRS views family limited partnerships and valuation discounts with a jaundiced and occasionally aggressive view. Therefore, it is important to educate the client to the potential benefits and detriments of gift and estate tax savings devices.

Equally as important as assessing how well a client is financially situated to tolerate risk is determining the client's emotional tolerance for risk. Because "risk" and "safety" are highly subjective concepts, it is essential that the client define risk in his or her own terms. Counsel should also consider reviewing the client's investment history; investment experience may reveal attitudes inconsistent with what the client believes and states about his or her attitude toward risk.

Occasionally a client's financial tolerance for risk diverges from his or her emotional tolerance. In general, it is advisable to accept the more conservative of the two. A person may have a high risk tolerance by temperament, but heavy family responsibilities and limited liquid resources might nevertheless warrant a relatively low level of risk.

The financial and emotional abilities to bear risk both change over time, as a client's situation, goals, and attitudes change. Business and estate plans may need to be adapted to accommodate these changes.

Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law
General Overview

79 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.81

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.81 Coordinating Succession, Family, and Estate Planning

[1] Minimizing Separation of Management and Ownership

A common strategy in transferring business ownership to the next generation is to focus business ownership in the hands of those leading or working for the business. However, many business-owning parents wish to treat their children equally and will lean toward passing equal shares of the business to their children. For example, the senior generation might equalize wealth transfers by passing business assets to active participants in the business and nonbusiness assets to the nonparticipants. Alternatively, the client might consider transferring voting and nonvoting interests.

This approach can be problematic and disruptive in the family business context, and increasingly complicated as the business passes to succeeding generations. Sibling rivalry and feelings of alienation can erupt because of the perceived disparate treatment. If some children work in the business and others do not, their interests as to salaries, dividends, business expansion, and other business decisions will diverge.

On the other hand, transferring equal shares of the business to participants and nonparticipants alike carries its own dangers: The next generation may not be equally talented or able to effectively work together. Participants may feel that the division is unjust. Nonparticipants may feel rejected.

PRACTICE TIP:

Children who do not participate in the family business may complain about the lack of financial return, particularly in the early years when cash or property is used to fund the transfer of the business interests. Most family businesses will not be able to fund buy-outs.

If a client is unable to transfer sufficient amounts of nonbusiness assets to equalize gifts of business assets during his or her lifetime, the client may be able to use life insurance proceeds to equalize the transfer after death. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Avoiding Conflicts in Succession

To avoid succession conflicts, counsel might well consider encouraging dialogue between the older and younger generations about individual and family goals and business goals, and the best manner and methods to reach them. With a shared vision of the future, the family can identify the type of business leadership needed and assess the qualifications of the proposed successors. Counsel might consider convening regular family meetings to promote discussion and agreement or, according to counsel's comfort level, conduct individual interviews with family members. Counsel might also help to develop formal or informal family mission statements. In working with the family as a whole or with individual family members, however, counsel must always keep in mind ethical obligations regarding representation (who is the client), confidentiality, and potential conflicts of interest [see § 68A.16].

Further, counsel can help to identify prospective business leaders, and encourage the training and development of leadership in the designated successors. In addition, counsel can encourage early delegations of authority in advance of the business transfer; the younger generation may need to demonstrate its capabilities to manage the business to the satisfaction of the older generation.

Counsel can also help draft a family employment policy to define who is eligible to work for the business, when and under what conditions, and how specific individuals fit into the current and future structure of the business. An employment policy might do any or all of the following:

- Identify the class of future employees and managers.
- Specify any educational or outside business experience qualifications and prerequisites for employment and management.
- State the preferred or mandatory degree of participation and the nature of performance evaluations.
- Provide for mentoring, apprenticeship, and in-house training by senior family members or nonfamily employees.
- Address nepotism issues.

At a minimum, the employment policy should provide that family members should be employed according to their experience and ability to contribute to the growth and development of the business, or implement a training program so that family members can achieve the requisite experience and skills.

PRACTICE TIP:

The business succession plan (and any coordinated estate plan) should be fully communicated to the affected family members. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[3] Use of Buy-Sell Agreements

Buy-sell agreements come in two basic types:

- Cross-purchase agreements among shareholders.
- Redemption agreements with the corporation.

Buy-sell agreements can be used both to restrict the transfer of business interests, ensuring continuity of shareholder interest and providing for estate liquidity, and to freeze the value of the interest for gift and estate tax purposes.

However, the value of the interest will be determined without regard to the restriction unless the restriction satisfies the requirements of I.R.C. § 2703(b). For further discussion, see § 68A.40[2][d].

The use of buy-sell agreements can be very advantageous for a small business entity by providing continuity of ownership and management, avoiding potential problems, and helping in resolving problems. Among the purposes these agreements may serve include the following [see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements ]:

- Restricting management and control of the entity.
- Providing for retirement or disability income.
- Providing for post-death income.
- Ensuring continuity of ownership.
- Preventing conflicts over business policies and practices.
- Providing liquidity to pay taxes and other expenses.
- Settling major shareholder disputes.
- Restricting alienation or transfer of ownership.

Buy-sell agreements may impose several different types of transfer restrictions:

- One party must sell stock and another must buy.
- Absolute restrictions on stock transfer.
- "Consent" restrictions on stock transfer.
- "Option" restrictions.
- Restrictions on who may be a transferee of stock.
- Parties are required to buy stock on occurrence of a specified event (such as, the death of shareholder).

Under a mandatory buy-sell agreement, the estate must sell and the business entity or other buyer must buy the shares or interests at a fixed price at death. In general, only the interest holder's estate is given permission to sell the shares. If the interest holder is entitled to sell the interests during his or her lifetime, that authority must be qualified by first refusal rights granted to the entity or other buyer designated in the agreement [see, e.g., Estate of Newhouse v. Commissioner (1990) 94 T.C. 193 (1990), nonacq., 1991-2 C.B. 1 ].

PRACTICE TIP:

Under the theory that anticipating and planning for issues before they arise can ease potential problems and help prevent conflicts from erupting at inappropriate times, counsel should consider including a promise in the buy-sell agreement requiring the signing of prenuptial agreements. If this type of promise is already in place and required for all parties, a particular affected family member is less likely to object to it. Of course, it is also possible that a requirement of prenuptial agreements will provoke strong resentments from those required to comply with it. An alternative to the prenuptial requirement would be a spousal consent to a particular buy-sell agreement. Similarly, the entity agreement or a separate buy-sell agreement should address the effect of divorce. Further, the entity agreement or buy-sell agreement should also include a provision requiring confidentiality. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

For further discussion of and forms related to the use and funding of buy-sell agreements, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements.

[4] Balancing Conflicting Goals of Retaining Control, Financial Security, and Minimizing Taxes

Throughout any discussion with clients of business succession and estate planning, there may be a constant tension in objectives. A family business owner's goals often conflict with each other as well as with sound business practice. On the one hand, the owner wishes to maintain control and management of the assets, to protect his or her financial security through cash flow, and to provide tax shelter. Simultaneously, the owner wishes to limit the family's exposure to estate and gift taxes that will be due on the transfer of these assets. If the business continues to prosper, the value of the business assets in the owner's estate will also grow, as will the ultimate transfer taxes.

PRACTICE TIP:

An entity agreement can create a significant potential for deadlock, e.g., by requiring that the two decision-making general partners must agree on business decisions. The value of the fractional interest subject to transfer may be reduced and the applicable valuation discount increased by the requirement. However, the potential "cost" of a deadlock on a critical business decision may be quite high and even result in dissolution. The desire to maximize valuation discounts and minimize taxes must always be balanced against sound business practice. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[5] Use of Family Limited Partnerships and Limited Liability Companies

[a] Family Limited Partnerships

Family limited partnerships (FLPs) can be extremely useful estate planning tools. A FLP operates in a similar fashion as other limited partnerships, but provides the owners with a technique for obtaining numerous estate planning goals, including the reduction of estate and gift taxes in intergenerational transfers while maintaining control of the company. FLPs provide significant benefits in effective family asset management, the transfer of ownership interests, and potential dispute resolution [see generally Stephanson, How to Establish a Successful Family Limited Partnership, 44(7) Prac. Law 41 (1998)].

Nevertheless, caution must be exercised in using the FLP structure because the IRS scrutinizes FLP arrangements for perceived abuses, particularly in the use of valuation discounts [see § 68A.82], and challenges should be expected. Clients should be cautioned about the risk. Specifically, the IRS has focused its valuation challenges in the following areas:

- The lack of a legitimate business purpose for the FLP [see I.R.C. § 2703; see also § 68A.82].
- The impact of applicable restrictions on valuation [see I.R.C. § 2704; see also § 68A.82].
- Condensing the formation of the FLP and gifts of partnership interests into a single, "step transaction" [see § 68A.82[4]].
- The true character and separateness of the FLP.

PRACTICE TIP:

With regard to step transaction treatment, many practitioners believe that the period of time between formation of the partnership and the transfer of a limited partnership interest is irrelevant to the value of the interest. Rather, they believe that unless the transferee actually obtains control of the underlying partnership asset, the property to be valued is the limited partnership interest. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

FLPs are created pursuant to state limited partnership laws. Under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code §§ 15900-15912.07], a limited partnership must have at least one general partner and at least one limited partner [Corp. Code § 15901.02(q)]. An individual may own a general partnership interest and a limited partnership interest as long as there are at least two different partners [see Corp. Code § 15901.02(q)].

A typical FLP consists of senior family members (parents) who contribute assets to the limited partnership in exchange for general and limited partnership interests. The limited partnership interests are usually given to junior family members (children). The general partner (or partners) retains operational control over the business, making all business decisions, and remains personally liable for the debts. As limited partners, the children may not participate in management decisions without losing their limited liability [see Corp. Code §§ 15903.03].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should evaluate the facts of each client's situation to determine whether FLP formation might be better located in another state [see § 68A.40[2][e]]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Once an FLP is created, property is transferred to the limited partnership in exchange for general and limited partnership interests. As the general partners, the parents retain control of the business and can make gifts of the limited partnership interests to their children. The parents usually retain a small percent interest in the company, with the children owning the remaining percentages. However, the parents are still classified as general partners and can therefore make management decisions.

The transfer of appreciated assets to the limited partners is also a very useful planning device. When a gift of a limited partnership interest is given, the future appreciation of a proportional interest in the underlying assets will not be part of the donor's estate. Further, the income attributable to the limited partnership interests given as gifts do not become part of the donor's estate.

FLP agreements typically confer complete discretion over business matters to one or more general partners. Because this absolute authority can create continuity problems if the partnership has a sole general partner, prudence suggests the use of a corporate or other entity as a general partner, or multiple general partners. Further, if the client wishes to secure an estate tax discount on partnership units, the client should not be the sole general partner because death may result in the lapse of a liquidation right that affects valuation [see § 68A.30[2][e]; see also I.R.C. § 2704(a)]. In general, it is important for estate tax valuation purposes that no one partner has a unilateral right to dissolve the partnership [see § 68A.40[2][e]]. If multiple general partners are used, the partnership agreement should address control issues between the general partners.

PRACTICE TIP:

Although a significant potential for deadlock among the decision-making general partners may depress the value of the fractional interest and possibly increase the applicable valuation discount, the desire to maximize discounts must always be balanced against sound business judgment. Because the general partners of a limited partnership are exposed to unlimited liability, the LLC vehicle may be more attractive and advantageous to avoid liability issues [see [b], below]. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[b] Family Limited Liability Companies

Limited liability companies (LLCs) have become increasingly popular due to the attraction of corporate limited liability and partnership flow-through federal and state income tax treatment. Family LLCs are also becoming advantageous vehicles for estate planning purposes: Formation and operating requirements can be easier to explain to clients and cheaper to organize than FLPs, although the annual California tax on LLCs [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17942; see also § 68A.30] with significant gross revenues will be higher than the annual franchise tax on limited partnerships [see [a], above]. An LLC can be structured to mirror the operations of an FLP, shield members from liability, and achieve similar valuation discounts. In California, the majority dissolution provision in default law [see Corp. Code § 17350(b)] makes it easier to dissolve the LLC and may lead to somewhat lower discounts.

Although the IRS has not yet launched a concerted attack on LLCs as estate planning tools, it can be expected that attacks similar to those used against limited partnerships will be used against LLCs. For example, the IRS can be expected to argue that any provision in an operating agreement for a California LLC that requires a percentage greater than a simple majority to dissolve an LLC is an applicable restriction under I.R.C. § 2704(b) that is ignored for valuation purposes. As discussed in § 68A.40[2][e], when the decedent possesses the unilateral right to dissolve an entity, the underlying property of the entity will be valued rather than the interest in the business entity.

LLCs are created pursuant to state LLC law. Under California law, an LLC is formed when one or more persons executes and files articles of organization with the Secretary of State and the members enter into an operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17050(a), (c)]. Under the law in effect prior to January 1, 2000, LLCs must have two or more members (unless the LLC is dissolving) [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. Effective January 1, 2000, LLCs may have one or more members [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b), as amended by Stats. 1999, ch. 490].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should evaluate the facts of each client's situation to determine whether LLC formation might be better located in another state. Thus, the first step in determining whether a LLC is the most favorable way to organize a business is to examine the state LLC statutes. These statutes can significantly affect valuation discounts [see §§ 68A.42[2][e], 68A.82]. Even when state law requirements are satisfied and the company qualifies as an LLC in the state of formation, compliance does not automatically guarantee federal tax treatment as a partnership. This can result from the state law's failure to require at least two members in an LLC, a federal requirement for partnership tax treatment [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)]. For example, although California follows the federal check-the-box entity classification rules [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(d), (e)(1), 23051.5(d), (e)(1); see also Treas. Reg. §§ 301.7701-1-301.7701-6], California LLC law permits the formation of single-member LLCs [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)], which would not qualify for federal partnership tax treatment [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

Careful scrutiny of state LLC laws is necessary if the entity is planning to choose partnership tax treatment for income tax purposes. Conversely, a single-member LLC can have valuation advantages: There can be no argument about a loss of value on formation in a single-member LLC. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

For further discussion, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

[c] Planning to Avoid I.R.C. § 2701 Valuation Rules

I.R.C. § 2701 applies to family LLCs in the same manner and method as it does to family limited partnerships. The special valuation rule applies when an individual transfers an interest to or for the benefit of a family member, while retaining a liquidation, put, call, conversion or distribution right, and the interest transferred is not of the same class or proportionally the same as the retained interest [see § 68A.40[2][b]]. In the LLC context, this rule may be avoided by not creating different classes of interests or, alternatively, limiting the differences to only a difference in the right to vote or manage the LLC. For example, it might be appropriate to form a member-managed LLC, in which a member could receive additional income or compensation for management services to the LLC. This method of income shifting appears to be acceptable in both LLCs and partnerships without triggering a Section 2701 problem.

Another alternative method for shifting wealth may be to use a gift/leaseback. In this arrangement, the business owner transfers appreciating assets to younger family members through a family business entity, which freezes the estate and creates the income shifting opportunities regarding the use of the donated asset. The owner receives income in the form of lease payments from the family business entity. However, the lease must satisfy the following requirements [Treas. Reg. § 25.2701-3(c)(3)(ii) (safe harbor)]:

- The lease payments must be for full and adequate consideration.
- A good faith effort must have been made to determine the fair market value of rental property under the lease.
- The terms of the lease reflect the value as determined.

[d] Planning to Avoid I.R.C. § 2704 Valuation Rules

When an FLP agreement or family LLC operating agreement affords certain partners or members unilateral rights to liquidate, those rights may trigger the valuation provisions of I.R.C. § 2704(a). Even if there is no unilateral right to liquidate, if the transferor and family control the entity, the lapse is treated under the special valuation rules [see I.R.C. § 2704(a); see also § 68A.40[2][e]]. However, if the other partners or members cannot immediately liquidate the transferor's interest, no transfer occurs [see I.R.C. § 2704(a)]. This ability to liquidate is determined with reference to state law as modified by the partnership or operating agreement.

To avoid the application of I.R.C. § 2704(b), which ignores restrictions on liquidation that are more restrictive than state law [see § 68A.40[2][e]], the partnership agreement or operating agreement can be drafted so that any restriction on the right to liquidate is no more restrictive than the state law governing the matter. Conversely, the partnership agreement or LLC operating agreement should not be less restrictive than state law either, since the less restrictive provisions would affect valuation. The value of the transferred interest for gift and estate tax purposes is the value of future cash distributions [see I.R.C. § 2704(b); Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2704-1(c), 25.2704-2]. Alternatively, a partnership agreement may avoid the application of I.R.C. § 2704(b) by requiring the consent of a non-family partner to the removal of liquidation and withdrawal restrictions. I.R.C. § 2704(b)(2)(ii) provides no exception permitting courts to disregard the presence of non-family limited partners, even when the non-family limited partner stipulates to its probable consent to the removal of the restriction; therefore, these restrictions could not be treated as removable by family members after the transfer. Because these restrictions did not constitute an applicable restriction, they cannot be disregarded for purposes of gift tax valuation, regardless of whether the restrictions are more restrictive than the applicable state law [Kerr v. Commissioner of Int. Rev. (5th Cir. 2002) 292 F.3d 490].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel may wish to consider a variety of possibilities in structuring the partnership to ensure that no one person possesses the unilateral right to dissolve the partnership while including no restrictions on the right to liquidate in the partnership agreement that are greater than applicable state law. For example, a partner who owns a minority interest in a partnership will usually not have the ability to unilaterally liquidate the partnership under applicable state law. Similarly, a partnership with more than one general partner is often more difficult to liquidate under applicable state law than a partnership with only one general partner. Furthermore, since the death of general partner may be a dissolution event under state law, it may be appropriate to have a corporate general partner, assuming the right to liquidate the corporate general partner is not held by the transferor, or a trust, provided that the trust does not terminate upon the death of the transferor/trustee. Care should be taken, however, in attempting to achieve these goals. For example, the IRS may attack a transfer done simply to put a controlling partner or shareholder in a minority position. Further, the shift of a majority partner to minority status could also trigger property tax reassessment [see § 68A.70], depending on previous transfers to the partnership and of partnership interests. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[e] Using GRATs and GRUTs

One of the more popular ways to freeze an estate with FLP and LLC interests or S corporation stock, is to use the asset to fund a grantor retained annuity trust (GRAT) or a grantor retained unitrust (GRUT). In general, the GRAT is more popular than the GRUT because to the extent that the rate of appreciation of assets in a GRAT is greater than the applicable federal rate, a transfer will be accomplished that is not generating any estate taxes.

An entity taxed as a partnership may be entitled to basis adjustments [see I.R.C. §§ 743, 754; valuation under I.R.C. § 2702 is discussed in § 68A.40[2][c]]. However, these basis adjustments are only available if the asset is transferred at death and receives a stepped-up basis [see I.R.C. § 1014; for decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis rule generally applies, so a step-up basis does not apply (I.R.C. § 1022); see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, for a detailed discussion], which might make the use of a GRAT or GRUT less desirable if the asset has a low basis.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes General Overview

80 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.82

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.82 Using Valuation Discounts

[1] Effect of Valuation Discounts

Many factors can restrict or reduce the value of an interest in a family business, such as a family limited partnership or limited liability company. These include the following:

- The nature of the business entity.
- Provisions in the limited partnership agreement or limited liability company operating agreement.
- Indirect ownership of the partnership's assets.

If the reductions decrease the estimated value of an interest below the holder's proportionate share in the partnership assets, these reductions are referred to as "valuation discounts."

The three major areas in which the IRS ordinarily accepts valuation discounts are discussed in [2], below. However, the IRS may still reject these valuation discounts unless they represent a bona fide business arrangement--fair and comparable to similar arm's length transactions. Of course, the IRS and practitioners often disagree about the circumstances under which valuation discounts should be granted. A client's willingness to challenge the IRS should be discussed before entering into the transaction [see § 68A.80].

[2] Primary Factors Affecting Valuation

[a] Limited Control

The degree of control a holder of an interest in a family business can exercise over business decisions is a major factor affecting the value of the interest. In general, an interest with limited or no control over business decisions is worth less than a controlling interest in the business.

In most limited partnerships, control is vested in the hands of the general partners and the limited partners have very limited authority [see Corp. Code § 15903.03(b)] (actions limited partners can take without being deemed to participate in management and control), (c)(list not exclusive)]. With regard to LLCs, the degree of control depends on the management structure of the entity, that is, whether the entity is managed by one or more managers or by all the members. Nevertheless, if the fractional LLC interest carries limited decision-making authority, that interest may have a lower valuation.

PRACTICE TIP:

Typically, discounts for a minority interest and lack of marketability are claimed together in valuation discounts. Family limited partnerships and limited liability companies have generally been entitled to both minority interest discounts and lack of marketability discounts. Together these discounts can range from 30 to 60 percent.

Typically, discounts affecting gifts are higher than transfers at death because gifts usually involve minority interests. Furthermore, each gift is independently valued while the entire interest included in the estate is valued as one interest at death. Thus, the principles of gift taxation make discounts easier to achieve for lifetime transfers than for transfers at death. However, if the decedent's interest is less than 50 percent of the business at the time of the decedent's death, the estate may be able to sustain discounts similar to those available for gifted minority interests. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

The valuation discount of a fractional interest in a family business is affected not only by the relative (percentage) size of the interest but also by the number of other fractional interests that would need to agree to force some business decision. With sufficient advance planning, if the client wishes a particular percentage of interests to constitute a majority for purposes of control, the client might consider starting to give smaller interests that have no decision-making authority.

The IRS is particularly concerned with the lack-of-control discount that may be applied when FLP interests are given or transferred.

[b] Marketability and Liquidity

The lack of marketability and liquidity associated with fractional interests in family businesses is another critical factor affecting the value of the interest. The lack of marketability discount reflects the fact that it is difficult to sell partial interests in a privately held company. No ready market exists for the interests; no pool of investors is ready to purchase these interests; no clearinghouse exists to provide financial information about these interests; and no organized exchange prices or sells these interests.

Marketability discounts ordinarily range from 10 to 30 percent. Factors that affect marketability include the following:

- The amount of cash-flow distributions from the partnership attributable to the fractional interest.
- The amount and nature of partnership debt.
- The nature and value of partnership assets.
- Whether the general partner is entitled to reasonable compensation for services rendered, which will reduce the partnership's cash flow.

- Whether the general partner has discretion over the timing and amount of distributions.
- The partnership's history with regard to distributions.

Recent case activity in this area provides further guidance. In one case, the Tax Court upheld a 30 percent discount for lack of marketability and set forth a nonexclusive list of 10 factors that must be considered when determining the discount [see Mandelbaum v. Commissioner (1995) 69 T.C.M. 2852, T.C. Memo. 1995-255]. The court held that in general the entity can be valued as if it were a publicly held business and then discounted for not being publicly held. In another case, the Tax Court also discussed the use of experts and made it clear that the opinion of an expert can be ignored if it is not, in the court's opinion, properly substantiated [see Estate of Kaufman v. Commissioner (1999) 77 T.C.M. 1779, T.C. Memo. 1999-119 (court ignored opinions of both experts and ruled that because taxpayer had not met its burden of proof, IRS' valuation would be accepted)].

In another case, in which the IRS had acquiesced, the Second Circuit held that, in principle, an adjustment in stock price for a potential tax liability should be taken into account in valuing stock, even when no actual liquidation of the entity is planned. This is also true when there is no sale or distribution of assets planned by the entity [see Eisenberg v. Commissioner (1998), acq. AOD CC-1999-001, 1999-4 I.R.B. 4]. Further, the Tax Court held that in a case involving shares burdened by corporate tax liability, but if no liquidation or asset sale is contemplated as of the valuation date, it is inappropriate for the full amount of the tax to be allowed at a discount [see Estate of Davis v. Commissioner (1998) 110 T.C. 530].

[c] Restrictions on Transferability

Transfer restrictions can significantly reduce the value of an interest in a family business and form the basis for substantial discounts. In the family business context, these restrictions typically take the form of a unanimous consent to the transfer or a right of first refusal. The potential limiting effect of requiring unanimous consent of all partners to a transfer is self-explanatory, although likely to be ignored under I.R.C. § 2704(b).

A right of first refusal commonly requires an interest holder who receives an offer to buy the interest from outside the business to first offer the interest for sale to one or more of the other partners. This restriction limits the marketability of the interest: Potential purchasers may be deterred from negotiating a purchase price that can then be matched by the existing partners and the purchaser may seek a discount to compensate for that risk.

[3] Documentation of Basis for Valuation Discounts

[a] Selection of Appraisers

To sufficiently document the value of a family business interest [see [c], below], as well as any applicable discounts, clients should retain at least two appraisers. For example, if some of the underlying assets of a family business entity are real properties, one appraiser should be experienced in business valuation, while the other should be a real estate specialist. Depending on the nature of the family business and any noncash assets transferred to it, additional appraisers may be needed.

If the business owner will be making annual gifts following formation, those gifts should also be appraised. However, the cost of obtaining the appraisal should be weighed against the potential benefit.

PRACTICE TIP:

It may be appropriate to make annual gifts in December in one year and January of the following year, thus allowing one appraisal to cover annual gifts from two years. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[b] Organizational or Operating Agreement

The organizational or operating agreement of the family business entity is ordinarily the primary source for determining the appropriate valuation discount. Therefore, careful planning in advance of formation and precise drafting is critical to securing the desired valuation discount [see [c], below]. For example, a limited partnership agreement might state that limited partners take no part in and have no control over management decisions and restrict the limited partner's control over day-to-day business operations, partnership distributions, and selling partnership assets. These provisions establish that the partnership interest lacks control rights, which would support a minority interest discount [see [2][a], above]. Since that provision would be in accord with default state law, it would not be ignored under I.R.C. § 2704(b).

[c] Documentation Guidelines

In particular because of the IRS antipathy toward family limited partnership interest discounts and its history of challenging the valuation of interests subject to transfer restrictions, it is important to secure a fact-based, individualized appraisal of the partnership or limited liability membership interests. Both the IRS and the Tax Court require substantial authority to support the designated value of the interest and the amount of the discount.

The business appraiser's opinion must rely on specific, objective information, and the data used for comparison should be as comparable as possible to the interest being valued. It is not sufficient to rely on case precedent to support a valuation; the facts and characteristics of each family business are likely to be sufficiently diverse to preclude useful comparison [see, e.g., Estate of Berg (1991) 61 T.C.M. 2949, T.C. Memo. 1991-279 (amount of discounts from precedent not persuasive)].

Factors relevant to determining the value of the business interest and the amount of the discount include [see Mandelbaum v. Commissioner (1995) 69 T.C.M. 2852, T.C. Memo. 1995-255 ; see also Estate of Kaufman v. Commissioner (1999) 77 T.C.M. 1779, T.C. Memo. 1999-119]:

- The organizational or operating agreement of the business entity [see [b], above].
- The financial history of the business.
- The nature of the business assets, including the nature and amount of partnership debt.
- The income-generating ability of the business.
- Anticipated business development.
- The rate of return from the business, including a record of distributions.

PRACTICE TIP:

The valuation of family limited partnership and limited liability company discounts may appropriately be based on similar transactions involving publicly registered limited partnerships. The appraisal should identify comparable partnerships and look to secondary market transactions to estimate value.
Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[4] Avoiding Step Transaction Characterization

When formation of the family business entity, transfer of assets to the entity, and gifts of fractional interests occur in close proximity to the taxpayer's death, the IRS has successfully asserted that these transactions should be properly seen as part of a single testamentary transfer [see, e.g., TAM 97-19-006 (death within two days of FLP formation and gifts), 97-19-009 (death within 54 days of FLP formation and gifts)]. In this situation, the IRS argued the following:

- The business arrangement served merely to transfer assets to family members who would have otherwise received the assets under the taxpayer's existing testamentary plan.
- No business purpose was served.
- The arrangement served the purpose of reducing the value of the taxpayer's estate and taxes due.

Because the beneficiaries' "inheritance" was more or less unchanged by the existence of the family business entity, the IRS ignored the FLP structure and the asserted valuation discounts: What actually passed to the beneficiaries, the IRS held, were the transferred assets themselves and not fractional FLP interests [see TAM 97-19-006 , 97-19-009].

Similarly, in a series of private letter rulings dealing with family limited partnerships formed in close proximity to the taxpayer's death, the IRS viewed the steps of the transactions as a single continuous and integrated scheme. Under these letter rulings, the IRS merged the transfers into one transaction, with the result being deemed a transfer of the underlying partnership assets rather than a partnership interest. None of the transfers could be classified as bona fide, arms' length business arrangements. All of the transfers were deemed to be means of transferring property for less than full and adequate consideration and avoiding estate taxes [see Priv. Ltr. Rul. 9719006, 9723009, 9725002, 9730004].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should be particularly cautious in structuring a "death bed" family business entity. Advance planning can be critical to the success of the arrangement for gift and estate tax purposes. Of course, clients cannot be forced into estate planning, and can sometimes die without advance notice. However, when the timing will be close, extra effort should be made to establish a bona fide business purpose for the arrangement. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[5] Use of Assignee's Interest

An assignee's interest might be used to avoid the IRS's disregarding for valuation purposes a liquidation restriction that is more restrictive than the applicable state law [see I.R.C. § 2704(b)(3)(B); Treas. Reg. § 25.2704-2(b); § 68A.81[5][c]]. For example, a partnership agreement might structure an assignee's interest that is not entitled to any rights granted to a limited partner other than the right to receive all or part of the assignor's share of distributable income. Even under state law, the holder of the assignee's interest would not be entitled to withdraw and liquidate his or her interest.

The use of an assignee's interest can also be beneficial because the interest may be unattractive to prospective purchasers who may be uninterested in purchasing less than a limited partnership interest. The fact that it may be more difficult to sell the interest may tend to support a higher valuation discount.

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should consider having senior family members designate the donee of an interest as an assignee rather than as a limited partner. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[6] Penalty for Substantial Undervaluation of Property

A penalty may be imposed for the substantial undervaluation of property for estate or gift tax purposes [I.R.C. § 6662(a), (b)(5)]. Understatement of an estate or gift tax valuation is substantial if the value of any property is 65 percent or less of the amount determined to be the correct amount of the valuation [I.R.C. § 6662(g)(1)]. However, no penalty is imposed unless the portion of the underpayment attributable to the substantial understatement exceeds $5,000 [I.R.C. § 6662(g)(2)].

The IRS may waive the penalty on a showing of reasonable cause and good faith effort by the taxpayer [I.R.C. § 6664(c)(1)]. For example, the Tax Court found that a taxpayer made a reasonable valuation and good faith effort when the taxpayer lacked sophistication in valuation and tax matters and therefore relies on a professional adviser's judgment and advice [see Mandelbaum v. Commissioner (1995) 69 T.C.M. 2852, T.C. Memo. 1995-255]. In addition to reliance on experts, reasonableness and good faith may be found when the taxpayer relies on a professional appraisal.

[7] Balancing Maximum Discounts and Business Purposes

Maximizing valuation discounts to reduce gift and estate taxes is often a key goal of estate planning in the family business context. However, this goal must be balanced against the individual goals of the partners, the retirement goals of the business owner, and prudent business judgment.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law
Closely Held Corporations
Valuation
Estate, Gift & Trust Law
General Overview
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
Alternative & Special Use Valuation (IRC secs. 2032, 2032A, 2701-2704)
General Overview
Tax Law
Federal Estate & Gift Taxes
Taxable Property
General Overview

81 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.83

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.83 Avoiding Gain on Formation

In general, the contribution of property to a partnership in exchange for partnership interest does not result in the recognition of gain or loss for the partner. Rather, the partner receives a basis in the partnership interest that equals the adjusted basis of the contributed asset [I.R.C. §§ 722, 723]. However, this rule does not apply to contributions of property to an investment company partnership if the contribution "diversifies" the contributing partner's assets [see I.R.C. § 721].

When encumbered property is contributed to the partnership, the contributing partner is treated as having transferred the entire debt and assumed a portion of the debt equal to that partner's share of the partnership liability [I.R.C. § 752; Treas. Reg. § 1.752-1]. The portion of the debt from which the partner is relieved is treated as a distribution of money to that partner [I.R.C. § 752(b); Treas. Reg. § 1.752-1(c)]. The partner's share of the partnership liabilities is treated as a contribution of money to the partnership [I.R.C. § 752(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.752-1(b)]. If that distribution exceeds the partner's adjusted basis in the partnership, this partner must recognize the excess as a gain [I.R.C. § 731(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.731-1(a)]. No gain is recognized if the partner's adjusted basis in the partnership is greater than the amount of the distribution of money to the partner.

Some degree of caution should accompany the contribution of appreciated assets to the partnership or other family business entity. If a partner transfers appreciated property to the partnership and receives a distribution of property other than that property within seven years of contribution, the partner will recognize gain to the extent that the value of the distributed property exceeds the adjusted basis of the partnership interest [see I.R.C. § 737]. Similarly, the partner may recognize gain if the partnership distributes the appreciated property to another partner within seven years [see I.R.C. § 704(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships Basis (IRC secs. 704, 705, 722-724, 731-735, 737, 742, 751, 754, 755) Partner Interests Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships Contributions to Partnerships (IRC secs. 721-724) General Overview Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships Contributions to Partnerships (IRC secs. 721-724) Basis of Property Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships Contributions to Partnerships (IRC secs. 721-724) Nonrecognition of Gains & Losses

82 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.84

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.84 Appropriate Assets for Contribution to Family Business

[1] Selecting Appropriate Assets

In general, business-related assets and investment assets are the safest to transfer to the new family business entity. Personal property unrelated to business functions, such as collectibles and memorabilia, ordinarily should not be transferred to the entity. For example, when a taxpayer transferred personal property, including an automobile, to family LLCs in addition to business-related assets, the IRS attacked the transaction for lacking a business purpose [see TAM 97-36-004 ; see also I.R.C. § 2703, discussed in § 68A.40[2][d]]. The IRS concluded that the transfer of personal-use assets served no business purpose and the primary purpose of the transfer was to depress the value of the estate and avoid estate tax. Therefore, the IRS disregarded the existence of the entities [ TAM 97-36-004 (LLCs formed two months before death)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Although the special valuation rules do not apply to transfers in trust when the sole trust property is a personal residence inhabited by persons holding term interests, or transfers in which a personal residence and a limited amount of cash are placed in a qualified personal residence trust (QPRT) [I.R.C. § 2702(a)(3)(A)(ii); Treas. Reg. § 25.2702-5(c)], the exception applies only to QPRTs. As a result, it is generally not advisable to transfer personal residences to a family business.

The transfer of noncertificated personal property is achieved through a bill of sale, stock power, or other form of assignment. Assets with certificates of title require specific conveyance by writing. Transfers of real estate should be recorded, and encumbered property may require the consent of the lender. Encumbered property for which the debt exceeds the adjusted basis requires particular attention; a transfer of the property may cause recognition of gain to the transferor. Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

[2] Effect of Retention of Possession or Enjoyment of Transferred Assets

Once a family business is formed and operating, the business owner/transferor needs to respect the existence and integrity of the business and comply with the requisite business formalities. If a transferor retains possession or enjoyment of assets transferred to the business, those assets remain in the transferor's gross estate for purposes of estate tax [see Estate of Schauerhamer v. Commissioner (1997) 73 T.C.M. 2855, T.C. Memo 1997-242 ; see also I.R.C. § 2036(a)(1)]. For example, stock in an operating company that the decedent transferred to a holding company organized as a limited liability company was not includable in the decedent's gross estate because the transfer was a bona fide sale for full and adequate consideration. However, membership units in the limited liability company that the decedent transferred to a family limited partnership were includable in his estate when there was an implied agreement under which the decedent retained an interest in the transferred units [Estate of Wayne C. Bongard (2005) 124 T.C. No. 8] . Similarly, rental real estate transferred from a decedent's revocable trust to a family limited partnership was includable in the decedent's gross estate when there was an implied agreement that the decedent would retain, for her life, the right to the property's rental income and its economic benefit [ Estate of Virginia A. Bigelow, T.C. Memo. 2005-65 ] , aff'd, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 22030 .

In Estate of Schauerhamer v. Commissioner, the taxpayer established three FLPs, transferred business holdings to these entities, and made gifts of partnership interests to the taxpayer's children. Although each FLP had its own bank account, the taxpayer deposited partnership income into her personal bank account. The taxpayer used the account as her personal checking account, paying both personal and partnership expenses. No records were maintained to separate partnership and nonpartnership income. When the taxpayer died a year after forming the FLPs, her estate excluded the value of the transferred assets from the gross estate. The Tax Court disagreed, concluding that the term "enjoyment" included the economic benefits of the property. The fact that the transferor deposited FLP income into her personal account constituted evidence that the taxpayer retained the possession or enjoyment of the property [ Estate of Schauerhamer v. Commissioner (1997) 73 T.C.M. 2855, T.C. Memo 1997-242 ] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations General Overview Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Limited Liability Companies & Partnerships Contributions to Partnerships (IRC secs. 721-724) General Overview

83 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.85

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.85 Selling the Family Business

In some situations, an analysis of the unique characteristics of a family business leads to the inevitable conclusion that passing the business to heirs is not in the best interests of the family, the business, or both. For example, financial constraints, family conflict, or a lack of commitment to the business may make transferring the business intact to the next generation difficult or imprudent despite the potential for gift and estate tax savings. Alternatives to maintaining the business intact for the next generation include the sale of the business, merger, or maintaining the business by importing nonfamily members into management and ownership roles.

The business owner may decide to sell the business to the family members who actively participate in the business, if feasible. Alternatively, a business owner may decide that the best means of achieving his or her lifetime financial and estate planning goals, including maintaining some degree of family harmony, is to sell the business outside the family, either to key employees or on the open market. In addition to key employees, potential buyers include business competitors, suppliers, or customers.

The business owner's need for financial security and cash is ordinarily a top priority. However, if the business owner is not dependent on the business, the owner might consider an installment sale.

PRACTICE TIP:

If counsel will be involved in the process of selling the business, counsel should note his or her degree of involvement and the scope of representation in a client letter. Counsel should also be prepared to structure and document an adequate, organized, and efficient reasonable due diligence inquiry.

Commentary by Steven M. Goldberg.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Closely Held Corporations Dissolution & Winding Up Estate, Gift & Trust Law General

Overview

84 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Planning Strategies

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.86-68A.99

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.86[Reserved]

85 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.100

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.100 Facts for Family Limited Partnership

1. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, social security or taxpayer identification number, and taxable year of following:

- a. Client and client's spouse.
- b. Prospective limited and general partners.

NOTE:

For additional information to acquire about family members, see P 43, below.

- c. Other heirs.
- d. Existing key employees.

NOTE:

The full name and last known street and mailing address of each partner must be included in the partnership's records [Corp. Code § 15901.11(1)]. The names and addresses of the general partners must be included in the certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.11(1)(4)].

2. Name and address of agent for service of process on:

- a. Partnership.

NOTE:

This information must be included in the certificate of limited partnership; however, if the agent is a corporation, only its name need be included [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)(3)]. See the NOTE to § 68A.110, P 13b.

b. Any corporations or partnerships that are partners of partnership.

3. Type and general characteristics of business to be conducted.

4. Name proposed for partnership, such as:

NOTE:

The partnership's name must be included in its certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)(1)].

a. Family name.

b. Names of all general partners; or

c. Fictitious business name, i.e., any name other than name of limited partnership as filed with Secretary of State [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930; see also Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business].

5. Partnership addresses (including county):

a. Street address of its initial designated office.

NOTE:

This information must be included in the certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a)(2)].

b. Other business addresses.

6. Term of partnership, including:

NOTE:

Under the ULPA '08, a limited partnership has a perpetual duration [see Corp. Code § 15901.04(c)]. This default provision, however, may be varied by the partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)].

a. Date partnership is to commence operations.

NOTE:

The length of "lead time" required before the partnership can commence business will be determined in part by the estimated time it will take to sell the limited partnership interests.

b. Length of time partnership is to continue.

(1) Specified period.

(2) Specified period or until sooner dissolved and wound up in accordance with partnership agreement.

(3) Until dissolved by agreement.

(4) Until specified undertaking is completed.

(5) Until dissolved following occurrence of specific act or event.

(6) Any combination of these.

NOTE:

Generally, the family limited partnership has a significant term, e.g., 20 to 50 years, indicating its long term outlook. The longer term tends to reduce the initial value of limited partnership interests, because it alerts potential investors of the length of time it may take to recover the initial investment.

7. Partnership capital necessary to commence operations.

8. Initial capital contributions by general and limited partners.

NOTE:

This information must be included in the records to be kept by the partnership [see Corp. Code § 15901.11].

a. Cash.

b. Property, including:

(1) Description and valuation.

(2) Contributing partner's adjusted income tax basis.

c. Services rendered, including description and valuation.

d. Promissory note, including amount.

NOTE:

A partner's contribution to the partnership may consist of a promissory note or other binding obligation to contribute money or property [see Corp. Code § 15905.01]. The obligation of any partner to make a contribution may be compromised only by the written consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)]. A creditor of a limited partnership which extends credit or otherwise acts in reliance on an obligation described in Corp. Code § 15905.02(a) (obligation to contribute), without notice of any compromise, may enforce the original obligation [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)]. These rules will not be construed to affect the rights of third-party creditors of the partnership to seek equitable remedies nor any rights existing under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Corp. Code § 15905.02(d)(7); see Civ. Code § 3439 et seq.].

e. Other obligation to contribute money or property or to render services, including description and valuation.

9. Details of any arrangements made among prospective partners for future contributions of capital.

NOTE:

Ordinarily, no arrangements for future contributions of capital exist at the formation stage. However, when the partners are family members, discussions may have occurred regarding whether the partnership will be permitted to "call" for additional contributions. A partner's obligation to contribute to a limited partnership is not excused by the partner's death, disability, or other inability to perform personally [Corp. Code § 15905.02(a)].

10. Whether any general partner intends to contribute and share in profit and loss as limited partner [see Corp. Code § 15644].

NOTE:

The interest of a general partner as a limited partner must be separately stated in the partnership agreement. A person may be both a general partner and a limited partner. A person that is both a general and a limited partner has the rights, powers, duties, and obligations provided by the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement in each capacity. When the person acts as a general partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for general partners. When the person acts as a limited partner, the person is subject to the obligations, duties, and restrictions under the ULPA '08 and the partnership agreement for limited partners [Corp. Code § 15901.13].

11. Whether an obligation of any partner to make contributions may be compromised and, if so, whether consent of all partners should be required.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the obligation of a partner to make a contribution may be compromised only with the written consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)].

12. Details of arrangements for any partner to do following:

NOTE:

The ULPA '08 permits a partner to lend money to and transact other business with the partnership unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15901.12]. However, if the limited partnership is subject to regulation by the Commissioner of Corporations, there are generally restrictions on transactions between the partnership and a general partner [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.1-260.140.114.10 (real estate syndicates)]. These transactions involve conflicts of interest that will have to be carefully spelled out in any offering memorandum or prospectus [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.114.5(c)(2), 260.140.117.3; see also Ch. 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates ].

- a. Transact business with partnership.
- b. Loan property or cash to partnership.
- c. Lease property to partnership, including terms of a lease.

13. Share of each partner in profits and losses.

NOTE:

Profits and losses must be allocated in the manner provided in the partnership agreement. If that does not so provide, they must be allocated in the same manner as the partners share distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.035]. Distributions must be shared among the partners on the basis of the value, as stated in the required records when the limited partnership decides to make the distribution, of the contributions the limited partnership has received from each partner [Corp. Code § 15905.03]. An allocation not in proportion to the partners' contributions must comply with I.R.C. § 704(b), which presents considerable complications.

14. Amount of time each general partner will be required to devote to partnership business, and:

- a. Whether partner has or may have outside business activities.
- b. If partner has or may have outside business activities, restrictions, if any, to be placed on those activities.

15. Special duties, if any, each general partner will perform:

- a. Division of labor according to each partner's level of skill, training, or other factors.
- b. Designation of managing partners:

NOTE:

Each general partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the limited partnership's activities. Except as expressly provided in the ULPA '08, any matter relating to the activities of the limited partnership may be exclusively decided by the general partner or, if there is more than one general partner, by a majority of the general partners [Corp. Code § 15904.06(a)].

- (1) Designation of managing partner; or
- (2) Designation of partners to serve on management committee.

16. Any limitations to be imposed on amount or types of partnership liabilities that any general partner may incur.

17. Weight accorded each partner's vote:

- a. General partners.

NOTE:

Ordinarily, each general partner's vote counts equally toward the resolution of a partnership issue. The general partners may wish to weight some votes more heavily than others, such as by apportioning voting power on the basis of capital contribution or share in profits, and may do so in the partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15901.10, 15904.06(a)]. General partnership votes can also be based on the relative general partnership interests each general partner holds.

- b. Limited partners.

18. Vote required for approval or disapproval by general partners of administrative and/or business matters occurring in the ordinary course of partnership business.

19. Voting rights of limited partners, i.e., matters on which limited partners may be allowed to vote.

NOTE:

The ULPA '08 gives the limited partners the right to vote on, propose, or call a meeting of the partners without being deemed to be participating in the control of the business [see Corp. Code § 15903.03(b)(5)].

20. Voting rights of limited partners applicable to removal of general partner.

21. Voting requirements of limited partners applicable to admission of new general partner and election to continue business after general partner ceases to be partner and there is no remaining or surviving general partner [see Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2)].

NOTE:

The limited partners have the right to vote on these matters [see Corp. Code § 15903.03 (actions not deemed to be participation in control of business)]. A limited partnership is dissolved, and its activities must be wound up, upon the passage of 90 days after the dissociation of a person as a general partner if the limited partnership does not have a remaining general partner, unless before the end of the period consent to continue the activities of the limited partnership and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective, and at least one person is admitted as a general partner in accordance with the consent [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2)]. If the partnership's offering of limited partnership interests is subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Corporations, the Commissioner will have required that the limited partnership agreement give a majority of the partners the right to vote to remove and replace a general partner by majority vote [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.116.2]. If the partnership's offering of limited partnership interests is subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Corporations, the Commissioner will have required that the limited partnership agreement give a majority of the partners the right to vote to remove and replace a general partner by majority vote [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.116.2].

22. Amount of salary or other remuneration to be paid to any partner, if any.

a. Basis for making salary determination:

(1) Amount of time devoted to business.

(2) Performance standards rather than length of employment.

b. Whether salaries paid should be deducted before computing net profits, or charged against partners' shares of net profits [see I.R.C. § 707(c); see also Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships].

23. Rights of partners to distributions during operation of partnership.

NOTE:

A "distribution" is a transfer of money or property from a limited partnership to a partner in the partner's capacity as a partner or to a transferee on account of a transferable interest owned by the transferee [Corp. Code § 15901.02(f)]. A partner does not have a right to any distribution before the dissolution and winding up of the limited partnership unless the partnership decides to make an interim distribution [Corp. Code § 15905.04]. Furthermore, a person does not have a right to receive a distribution on account of dissociation [Corp. Code § 15905.05].

- a. Frequency of distributions to be specified in partnership agreement.
- b. Extent of each distribution to be specified in partnership agreement, either:
  - (1) Full share of profits for period involved; or
  - (2) Part of profits, with balance transferred to capital account.
- c. Details of any arrangement by which any limited partner will have priority over other limited partners.
- d. Whether obligation of partner to return distribution made in violation of ULPA '08 may be compromised and, if so, under what conditions.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, the obligation of a partner to return a money or property distributed in violation of ULPA '08 may be compromised only by the consent of all of the partners [Corp. Code § 15905.02(c)].

- e. Whether limited partners will be given right to receive property other than money in any distribution.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the partnership agreement, a partner does not have a right to receive any distribution from a limited partnership in any form other than cash [Corp. Code § 15905.06].

- f. Whether any partner may be compelled to accept distribution of assets in kind in lieu of proportionate cash distribution being made to other partners.

NOTE:

A limited partnership may distribute an asset in kind to the extent that each partner receives a percentage of the asset equal to the partner's share of distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.06; see Corp. Code § 15908.09].

- 24. Frequency with which accountings of partnership affairs will be required.

NOTE:

The ULPA '08 requires only that the partnership maintain records, including financial statements, for the six most recent years [Corp. Code § 15901.11]. The limited partners have access to these records [see Corp. Code § 15903.04].

- 25. When financial statement should be distributed to all partners.

- 26. When copies of partnership's tax returns should be:

- a. Prepared by the partnership, i.e., whether partnership should be required to prepare them in advance of date on which partners' returns are due to IRS.

b. Distributed to all partners.

27. Extent to which limited partnership interests may be assigned or sold [see Corp. Code §§ 15907.01, 15907.02].

NOTE:

The only interest of a partner which is transferable is the partner's transferable interest. A transferable interest is personal property [Corp. Code § 15907.01]. "Transferable interest" is defined as a partner's right to receive distributions [Corp. Code § 15901.02(ak)]. A transfer, in whole or in part, of a partner's transferable interest is permissible [Corp. Code § 15907.02(a)]. A partnership may be taxed as a corporation if its interests are assignable to the extent they are "publicly traded" [I.R.C. § 7704]. "Publicly traded" means either (1) traded on an established securities market [I.R.C. § 7704(b)(1)], or (2) readily tradable on a secondary market [I.R.C. § 7704(b)(2); see Conf. Rep. No. 100-495, Pub. L. No. 100-203, p. 948 (definitions)]. A partnership's interests, however, will be treated as publicly traded on a secondary market only if they were issued in a transaction registered under the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], or in a transaction that was not registered when the partnership either (1) has more than 500 partners, or (2) offers each unit of partnership interest for less than $20,000 [see IRS 1988-2 C.B. 386, Notice 88-75].

The provisions of the partnership agreement affecting the ability of a partner to transfer or assign partnership interests are among the more important provisions of the agreement. Rights of first refusal or other restrictions are common. Restrictions that are too severe may prevent the gift of a limited partnership interest from qualifying for the gift tax annual exclusion.

28. Criteria for admission of additional limited partners:

NOTE:

A person becomes a limited partner as provided in the partnership agreement, as the result of a conversion or merger [see Corp. Code § 15911.01 et seq.], or with the consent of all the partners [Corp. Code § 15903.01].

29. Rules for partnership meetings:

NOTE:

Unlike prior law [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 15637 (CRLPA, repealed January 1, 2010)], the ULPA '08 does not contain default provisions regarding partnership meetings. Therefore, the partnership agreement should set forth any desired provisions governing this topic [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 25, Limited Partnerships, § 732.01[2] (Matthew Bender)].

a. Place where meetings will held.

b. When notice of meeting will be deemed to have been sent, time of either:

- (1) Deposit in mail.
- (2) Personal delivery.
- (3) Delivery to common carrier for transmission.
- (4) Transmission by notice giver by electronic means.

(5) Oral notice communicated in person or by telephone or wireless to:

(a) Actual recipient; or

(b) Person at office of recipient who sender has reason to believe will communicate promptly to actual recipient.

(6) Other time to be specified in partnership agreement.

c. Proportion of limited partnership interests required to constitute quorum at partnership meetings.

d. Whether partnership agreement should permit or limit action to be taken without meeting on written consent.

e. Whether notice of adjourned meeting need be given.

30. Whether general partners may be removed or expelled and, if so, grounds for removal and vote required to cause removal.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 15906.03 provides that a person is dissociated from a limited partnership as a general partner upon the person's expulsion as a general partner pursuant to the partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15906.03(c)]; see also Corp. Code § 15906.03(b) (dissociation upon any event specified in partnership agreement), (d) (expulsion upon unanimous consent of partners in certain circumstances); Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.37].

31. Whether partnership agreement should provide for specific consequences to general partner for breach of partnership agreement [see Corp. Code § 15906.04 (liability for wrongful dissociation); see also Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.37].

32. Rules to govern withdrawal of general partner.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 15906.03 provides that a person is dissociated from a limited partnership upon the limited partnership's having notice of the person's express will to withdraw as a general partner or on a later date specified by the person [Corp. Code § 15906.03(a)]. The partnership agreement may not vary the power of a person to dissociate as a general partner by express will, except to require that the notice be in a record [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(8)]; see Corp. Code §§ 15906.03, 15906.04(a); see also Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.37].

33. Rules restricting or preventing general partner from assigning or encumbering partnership interest.

34. If partnership is to be for fixed term, whether partnership agreement should provide that withdrawal of general partner prior to expiration of term will be treated as breach of agreement.

35. Rules desired to govern withdrawal of limited partner:

NOTE:

A person is dissociated from a limited partnership as a limited partner upon notice of the person's express will to withdraw as a limited partner or on a later date specified by the person [Corp. Code § 15906.01(b)(1)]; see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.33].

- a. Whether withdrawal will be permitted.

NOTE:

A person does not have a right to dissociate as a limited partner before the termination of the limited partnership [Corp. Code § 15906.01(b)(1)]. However, a person is dissociated from a limited partnership as a limited partner upon the occurrence of various events specified in Corp. Code § 15906.01(b), including withdrawal; see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.33].

- b. If time or events permitting limited partner to withdraw are specified:

- (1) Time when limited partner may withdraw; or
- (2) Events that must occur before withdrawal will be permitted.

- c. Whether withdrawing limited partner will receive distribution [see Corp. Code § 15905.04 (distributions before dissolution); Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.40].

36. Whether partnership agreement should provide for specific consequences to limited partner for breach of partnership agreement.

37. Method of disposing of interest of general partner who dies, resigns, retires, or is expelled, if partnership agreement permits or requires disposition:

- a. Sale of partner's interest to remaining partners.
- b. Liquidation of partner's interest through purchase by partnership.
- c. Manner in which purchase price will be determined.
- d. Whether purchase price is to be funded by insurance and, if so, whether:
  - (1) Insurance is to be carried by each partner, or general partner on all other general partners, or by partnership.
  - (2) Necessary arrangements have been made.
- e. Identity of persons to whom partnership interest may be bequeathed and under what conditions.

38. Whether any limited partner is to have priority over any other limited partner for return of his or her contribution.

39. Rules to specify when partnership should be dissolved and wound up [see Corp. Code § 15908.01]:

NOTE:

The procedures involved in the dissolution and winding up of limited partnerships are discussed in Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships .

- a. Time to be specified for, or event that will precipitate, dissolution and winding up.
- b. Number of general and limited partners needed for written consent to dissolution and winding up.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 15908.01(b) provides that a limited partnership is dissolved, and its activities must be wound up, upon the consent of all general partners and of limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective [Corp. Code § 15908.01(b); see Ch. 16A Dissolution of Limited Partnerships ].

- c. Whether dissolution and winding up will be required if general partner ceases to be general partner and at least one other general partner remains.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(1) provides that a limited partnership is dissolved, and its activities must be wound up, after the dissociation of a general partner if the limited partnership has at least one remaining general partner, and a consent to dissolve is given within 90 days after the dissociation by partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as partners at the time the consent is to be effective [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(1); see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships ].

- d. Whether new general partner may be admitted if sole general partner ceases to be general partner.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2) provides that a limited partnership is dissolved and its activities must be wound up upon the passage of 90 days after such a dissociation, unless before the end of that period a consent to continue the activities of the limited partnership and admit at least one general partner is given by limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective, and at least one person is admitted as a general partner in accordance with the consent [Corp. Code § 15908.01(c)(2); see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships ]. Adherence to the standard set forth in Corp. Code § 15908.01 is recommended to keep the dissolution standard strict without being characterized as an "applicable restriction" under I.R.C. § 2704(b).

- e. Whether dissolution and winding up will be required if last limited partner ceases to be limited partner.

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 15908.01(d) provides that a limited partnership is dissolved and its activities must be wound up upon the passage of 90 days after such a dissociation, unless before the end of that period the limited partnership admits at least one limited partner [Corp. Code § 15908.01(d); see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships ].

- 40. Rules to govern winding up on dissolution [see Corp. Code § 15908.03]:

NOTE:

A limited partnership agreement may not vary the requirement to wind up the partnership's business as specified in Corp. Code § 15908.03 [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(10)].

- a. Which partners should be required by partnership agreement to wind up partnership business.

NOTE:

If a dissolved partnership does not have a general partner, a person to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities may be appointed by the consent of limited partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective [Corp. Code § 15908.03(c)]. If a limited partnership does not have a general partner and within a reasonable time following dissolution no person has been appointed pursuant to Corp. Code § 15908.03(c), or for other good cause, on application of any partner the appropriate court may order judicial supervision of the winding up, including appointment of a person to wind up the dissolved limited partnership's activities [Corp. Code § 15908.03(d)].

- b. If limited partners wind up partnership affairs, whether they should be allowed reasonable compensation [see Corp. Code § 15908.03(e)].

41. Rules desired for application of assets on dissolution and after satisfaction of liabilities to creditors.

NOTE:

In winding up a limited partnership's activities, the assets of the limited partnership, (including any contributions required) must be applied to satisfy the limited partnership's obligations to creditors, including to the extent permitted by law, partners that are creditors [Corp. Code § 15908.09(a)]. Any surplus remaining after the limited partnership complies with this requirement must be returned to the partners as they share in distributions [Corp. Code § 15908.09(b); see Corp. Code § 15908.09(c) (rules applicable when assets are insufficient)].

42. Whether interests in partnership will be evidenced by certificates of interest issued by partnership.

43. Information about family members, including:

NOTE:

The following information should be obtained about family members who are potential heirs of the client even if they are not currently involved in the family business.

- a. Age.
- b. Educational background.
- c. Work experience.
- d. Whether currently employed in family business.
- e. Whether employment in family business, or particular position, has been promised.
- f. Current salary.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

86 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.101

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.101 Facts for Family Limited Liability Company

1. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, social security or taxpayer identification number, taxable year, and marital status of following:

- a. Client and client's spouse.
- b. Prospective members and managers.

NOTE:

For additional information to acquire about family members, see P 43, below [see also § 68A.111].

- c. Other heirs.
- d. Existing key employees.

2. Name and address of agent for service of process on:

- a. LLC.

NOTE:

The name and address of the LLC's initial agent for service of process must be included in the articles of organization; however, if the agent is a corporation, only its name need be included [Corp. Code § 17051(a); see Corp. Code §§ 17057(b), 17061(d); see also § 12C.200].

b. Any corporations or partnerships that are members of LLC.

3. Type and general characteristics of business to be conducted.

NOTE:

This information must be included in the articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17051(a); see § 12C.200].

4. Name proposed for LLC, such as:

NOTE:

The LLC's name must be included in its filing documents [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 17051(a), 17052].

a. Family name.

b. Fictitious business name; i.e., any name other than name of LLC as filed with Secretary of State [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930; see also Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business].

5. Whether LLC will be managed by:

NOTE:

This information must be included in the articles of organization [see Corp. Code §§ 17051(a)(5), 17151(b); see also § 12C.200].

a. One manager.

b. Multiple managers.

c. Single member.

d. All members.

6. LLC addresses (including county):

a. Street address of its principal executive office.

b. Other business addresses.

c. Address of office in California in which LLC records are to be kept [see Corp. Code § 17058(a)].

7. Duration of LLC, including:

a. Date LLC is to commence operations.

NOTE:

The length of "lead time" required before the LLC can commence business will be determined in part by the estimated time it will take to sell or make gifts of LLC membership interests.

b. Length of time LLC is to continue.

- (1) Specified period of time.
- (2) Specified period or until sooner dissolved and wound up in accordance with operating agreement.
- (3) Until dissolved by agreement.
- (4) Latest date on which LLC is to dissolve [see § 68A.201[2], Section 1.03].
- (5) Until specified undertaking is completed (before termination date if one is specified).
- (6) Until dissolved following occurrence of specific act or event (before termination date if one is specified).
- (7) Any combination of above.

NOTE:

In general, a family LLC has a significant term, such as 20 to 50 years, indicating its long term outlook. The longer term tends to reduce the initial value of membership interests, because it alerts potential investors of the length of time it may take to recover the initial investment.

7. LLC capital necessary to commence operations.

8. Initial capital contributions by members, managers, and investors.

NOTE:

This information must be included in the records to be kept by the LLC [see Corp. Code § 17058(a)]. A person admitted to an LLC as a member need not make any contribution in money, property, services, or other obligation to contribute money or property or to render services to acquire a membership interest [see Corp. Code § 17200(a)].

a. Cash.

b. Property, including:

- (1) Description and valuation.

NOTE:

This description should include any liabilities to which the contributed property is subject at the time of contribution, as well as any liabilities that the LLC assumes in connection with that property.

- (2) Contributing member's adjusted income tax basis.

c. Services rendered, including description and valuation.

NOTE:

In particular, this description should include any pre-formation services and costs for which a member expects capital account credit.

d. Promissory note, including amount.

NOTE:

A member's contribution may consist of a promissory note or other binding obligation to contribute money or property [Corp. Code § 17001(g)]. The obligation of any member to make a contribution may be compromised only by the written consent of all of the members [Corp. Code § 17201(b)]. See P10, below.

e. Other obligations to render services, including description and valuation.

f. Description and valuation of any contractual rights being contributed to LLC.

9. Details of any arrangements made among prospective members for future contributions of capital [see § 68A.201[2], Section 2.03].

NOTE:

Ordinarily, no arrangements for future contributions of capital exist at the formation stage. However, when the members are family members, discussions may have occurred regarding whether the LLC will be permitted to "call" for additional contributions. Once the LLC has been formed, no member may be required to make any additional contribution unless otherwise provided in the operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17200(b)].

a. Amount, nature, description, and agreed value of any additional contributions agreed to be made by members.

b. When additional contributions are to be made.

10. Whether an obligation of any member to make contributions may be compromised or released and, if so, whether consent of all members should be required.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the articles of organization or operating agreement, the obligation of a member to make a contribution may be compromised only with the written consent of all of the members [Corp. Code § 17201(b)(1)]. However, the compromise does not affect the rights of a person whose claim against the LLC arose before the receipt of notice, if that person had knowledge of the original obligation before the claim arose and the compromise occurred after the time the claim arose. Any other person with a claim against an LLC may enforce only the existing obligations of a member to make a contribution to the LLC [Corp. Code § 17201(b)(2)]. A person with a claim against an LLC may not enforce a conditional obligation of a member, such as a capital contribution payable on a discretionary call of the LLC before the time the call occurs, unless the conditions have been waived or satisfied [Corp. Code § 17201(c)]. These rules do not affect the rights of third party creditors of the LLC to seek equitable remedies or any rights existing under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [Corp. Code § 17201(d); see Civ. Code §§ 3439-3439.11].

11. Consequences of member's failure to make required contribution to LLC.

12. Details of arrangements for any member to do following:

NOTE:

A member may lend money to and transact other business with the LLC and, subject to other applicable law, has the same rights and obligations with respect to the LLC as a person who is not a member [Corp. Code § 17004(a)]. However, if the LLC is subject to regulation by the Commissioner of Corporations, there are generally restrictions on transactions between the LLC and the managers or members [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.1-260.140.114.10 (real estate syndicates)]. These transactions involve conflicts of interest that will have to be carefully spelled out in any offering memorandum or prospectus [see, e.g., 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.114.5(c)(2), 260.140.117.3; see also Ch. 29C, Public Real Estate Syndicates ].

- a. Transact business with LLC.
- b. Loan property or cash to LLC.
- c. Lease property to LLC, including terms of a lease.

13. Share of each member in profits and losses.

NOTE:

This information must be included in the LLC records [Corp. Code § 17058(a)(1)]. Unless otherwise provided in the operating agreement, profits and losses must be allocated in proportion to the contributions of each member [Corp. Code § 17202]. An allocation not in proportion to the members' contributions must comply with I.R.C. § 704(b), which presents considerable complications.

14. Amount of time each manager will be required to devote to LLC business, and:

- a. Whether manager has or may have outside business activities [see § 68A.201[2], Section 4.03].
- b. If manager has or may have outside business activities, restrictions, if any, to be placed on those activities.

15. Special duties, if any, each manager will perform:

- a. Division of labor according to each manager's level of skill, training, or other factors.
- b. Designation of officers [see § 12C.227]:

16. Any limitations to be imposed on amount or types of LLC liabilities that any manager may incur.

17. Weight accorded vote of each manager and/or member.

18. Vote required for approval or disapproval by managers of administrative and/or business matters occurring in the ordinary course of business.

19. Voting rights of members [see Corp. Code § 17103].

20. Voting rights of members applicable to amending operating agreement or articles of organization [see Corp. Code § 17103(a)(2), (b)].
21. Voting requirements of members on dissolution and merger [see Corp. Code §§ 17103(c), 17350(b), 17551].
22. Amount of salary or other remuneration to be paid to managers and members, if any.
- a. Basis for making salary determination:
  - b. Amount of time devoted to business.
  - c. Performance standards rather than length of employment.
  - d. Whether salaries paid should be deducted before computing net profits, or charged against members' shares of net profits [see I.R.C. § 707(c); see also Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies ].
23. Rights of members to distributions during operation of business.

NOTE:

A "distribution" is a transfer of money or property by an LLC to its members without consideration [Corp. Code § 17001(j)]. Unless otherwise provided in the operating agreement, distributions that are a return of capital must be made in proportion to the contributions of each member, and those that are not must be made in proportion to the allocation of profits [Corp. Code § 17250].

- a. Frequency of distributions to be specified in operating agreement.
- b. Extent of each distribution to be specified in operating agreement, either:
  - (1) Full share of profits for period involved; or
  - (2) Part of profits, with balance transferred to capital account.
- c. Details of any arrangement by which any manager or member will have priority over others.
- d. Whether obligation of member to return distribution made in violation of CRLPA may be compromised and, if so, under what conditions [see Corp. Code §§ 17254(e), 17255].
- e. Whether manager will be given right to receive property other than money in any distribution.
- f. Whether any manager or member may be compelled to accept distribution of assets in kind in lieu of proportionate cash distribution being made to other members.

NOTE:

No member may be compelled to accept a distribution of any asset in kind except on dissolution and winding up unless the operating agreement provides to the contrary [see Corp. Code § 17253].

24. Frequency with which accountings of business affairs will be required.
25. When financial statement should be distributed to all members.

NOTE:

Members, managers, and holders of economic interests are permitted to inspect required records [see Corp. Code §§ 17058, 17106(b)]. Only LLCs with 35 or more members are entitled to receive annual statements [see Corp. Code § 17106(c)]. An LLC with more than 35 members must render an annual report and members representing at least five percent of the voting interests of members, or three or more members may request quarterly accountings [Corp. Code § 17106(c)]. Any request, inspection, or copying of business records by a member or holder of an economic interest may be made by that person or by that person's agent or attorney [Corp. Code § 17106(i)].

26. When copies of LLC's tax returns should be:

- a. Prepared by the LLC, i.e., whether LLC should be required to prepare them in advance of date on which members' returns are due to IRS.
- b. Distributed to all members.

27. Extent to which membership interests may be assigned or sold [see Corp. Code § 17301].

NOTE:

A membership or economic interest is assignable in whole or in part except as provided in the articles of organization or operating agreement [Corp. Code § 17301(a)]. The provisions of an operating agreement affecting the ability of a member to transfer or assign membership or economic interests are among the more important provisions of the agreement. Rights of first refusal or other restrictions are common. However, restrictions that are too severe may prevent the gift of a membership interest from qualifying for the gift tax annual exclusion.

28. Criteria for admission of additional members:

- a. When membership interest is to be acquired directly from LLC:
  - (1) Contributions and other financial requirements.
  - (2) Consent required.
- b. When membership interest will be acquired from assignor, whether operating agreement should admit assignee as member.

29. Rules for LLC member meetings:

- a. Place where meetings will held [see Corp. Code § 17104(a)].

NOTE:

Members may participate in a meeting through the use of conference telephones or electronic video screen communication, as long as all members participating in the meeting can hear one another, or by electronic transmission by and to the LLC [Corp. Code § 17104(f); see Corp. Code § 17001(o)(1), (2)]. Participation in this way constitutes presence in person at the meeting [Corp. Code § 17104(f)].

- b. When notice of meeting will be deemed to have been sent, time of either [see Corp. Code § 17001(ao)]:

- (1) Deposit in mail.
- (2) Personal delivery.
- (3) Delivery to common carrier for transmission.
- (4) Transmission by notice giver by electronic means.

NOTE:

Notice by electronic means will be deemed given when delivered by electronic transmission by the LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(o)(1), (2)]. Unless prohibited by the articles of organization and if authorized by the operating agreement, members not physically present may participate in person or by proxy at a member meeting by electronic transmission by and to the LLC or by electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code § 17104(a); see Corp. Code § 17001(o)(1), (2)].

- (5) Oral notice communicated in person or by telephone or wireless to:
  - (a) Actual recipient; or
  - (b) Person at office of recipient who sender has reason to believe will communicate promptly to actual recipient.
- (6) Other time to be specified in operating agreement.

c. Proportion of membership interests required to constitute quorum at meetings.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise provided in the operating agreement, a majority in interest of the members represented in person or by proxy constitutes a quorum at a meeting [Corp. Code § 17104(h)(1)]. A majority in interest of the members means more than 50 percent of the interests of members in current profits from business operations, unless a different proportion is specified in the operating agreement [Corp. Code § 15611(v)].

d. Whether operating agreement should permit or limit action to be taken without meeting on written consent [see Corp. Code § 157104(i)].

NOTE:

If authorized by the operating agreement and not prohibited by the articles of organization, members not physically present may participate in person or by proxy at a member meeting by electronic transmission by and to the LLC or by electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code § 17104(a); see Corp. Code § 17001(o)(1), (2)].

e. Whether notice of adjourned meeting need be given [see Corp. Code § 17104(d)].

30. Whether managers or members may be removed or expelled and, if so:

- a. Grounds for removal and vote required to cause removal.

- b. Whether operating agreement should provide against, or condition, expulsion because, for example, an order for relief is entered against manager under Chapter 7 of federal bankruptcy law.
- c. Notice period required before any manager's or member's removal or expulsion can become effective.

NOTE:

The operating agreement should specify when any notice will be deemed to have been sent [see Corp. Code §§ 17001(ao), 17104(a)].

31. Whether operating agreement should provide for specific consequences to member or manager for breach of operating agreement.

NOTE:

This type of provision is enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the member or manager seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing when the agreement was made. The specific consequences may include any of the following: (1) loss of voting, approval, or other rights; (2) liquidated damages; or (3) a reduction of the defaulting manager's or member's economic rights.

32. Rules to govern withdrawal of managers.

33. Rules restricting or preventing manager or member from assigning or encumbering membership interest.

34. If LLC is to be for fixed term, whether operating agreement should provide that withdrawal of manager before expiration of term will be treated as breach of agreement.

35. Rules to govern withdrawal of members.

36. Whether operating agreement should provide for specific consequences to member for breach of operating agreement.

NOTE:

This type of provision is enforceable in accordance with its terms unless the member seeking to invalidate the provision establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing when the agreement was made. The specific consequences may include any of the following: (1) loss of voting, approval, or other rights; (2) liquidated damages; or (3) a reduction of the defaulting member's economic rights.

37. Method of disposing of interest of manager or member who dies, resigns, retires, or is expelled, if operating agreement permits or requires disposition:

- a. Sale of member's interest to remaining members.
- b. Liquidation of member's interest through purchase by LLC.
- c. Manner in which purchase price will be determined.
- d. Whether purchase price is to be funded by insurance and, if so, whether:

(1) Insurance is to be carried by each member on all other members, or by LLC.

(2) Necessary arrangements have been made.

e. Identity of persons to whom membership or economic interest may be devised and under what conditions.

38. Whether any member is to have priority over any other member for return of his or her contribution.

39. Rules to specify when LLC should be dissolved and wound up [see Corp. Code § 17350 et seq.]:

NOTE:

The procedures involved in the dissolution and winding up of LLCs are discussed in Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

a. Time to be specified for, or event that will precipitate, dissolution and winding up.

b. Number of members needed for written consent to dissolution and winding up.

c. Whether dissolution and winding up will be required if manager ceases to be manager and at least one other manager remains.

d. Whether new manager may be admitted if sole manager ceases to be manager.

40. Rules to govern winding up on dissolution [see Corp. Code § 17350 et seq.]:

a. Which members should be required by agreement to wind up business.

b. If member wind up business affairs, whether they should be allowed reasonable compensation.

41. Rules desired for distribution of assets on dissolution and after satisfaction of liabilities to creditors:

42. Whether interests in LLC will be evidenced by certificates of interest issued by LLC.

43. Information about family members, including:

NOTE:

The following information should be obtained about family members who are potential heirs of the client even if they are not currently involved in the family business.

a. Age.

b. Educational background.

c. Work experience.

d. Whether currently employed in family business.

e. Whether employment in family business, or particular position, has been promised.

f. Current salary.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

87 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.102

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.102 Documents for Family Limited Partnership or Family Liability Company

1. Instruments evidencing client's, client's spouse's, and any prospective partners' or members' legal or equitable title to real or personal property intended to be conveyed to partnership.
2. Any instruments that will be used to convey title to real or personal property to partnership or limited liability company.
3. Documents evidencing leases on property to be acquired.
4. Documents evidencing leases under which partnership or limited liability company will occupy property as subtenant of one or more partners or members.
5. Licenses and permits issued to partners or members or their existing businesses.
6. Contracts and/or franchise agreements to be assigned to partnership or limited liability company.
7. Financial statements for any existing business to be acquired.
8. Insurance policies on any real or personal property to be transferred to partnership or limited liability company.
9. Licenses or other documents securing:
  - a. Copyrights.

- b. Patent rights.
- c. Trade names, trademarks, and/or service marks.

10. Relevant personal documents of client and client's spouse, including:

- a. Any previously executed wills.
- b. Any previously executed trusts.

NOTE:

Revocable and irrevocable trusts can be general partners. Existing revocable trusts ordinarily must be amended to include provisions compatible with the family limited partnership and the anticipated income, gift, and estate tax results. For example, specific authority should be given to allow the trustee to serve as a general partner. Similarly, the applicable investment standard in the trust should anticipate that the trust can invest a majority or all of its assets in the partnership without the duty to diversity.

- c. Life insurance policies.

NOTE:

Life insurance proceeds can be used to buy out heirs who do not participate in the family business. Insurance on the life of the client poses significant estate planning issues. See California Wills and Trusts, Ch. 3, Selecting the Proper Estate Planning Devices, § 3.06[2] (Matthew Bender).

11. Relevant personal documents of family members including:

- a. Any previously executed wills.
- b. Any previously executed trusts.
- c. Life insurance policies.
- d. Any judgments.

12. Documents relating to marriage or termination of marriage of client, client's spouse, and family members including:

NOTE:

The documents listed below should be requested from the client only when factual information presented by the client or otherwise adduced by counsel raises concerns that additional instruments might affect the formation or operation of the family business. For example, contentious divorce proceedings might affect the desirability of retaining a prospective former in-law in the business, the transfer of property to the business, and bequests.

- a. Existing prenuptial agreements.
- b. Property settlement agreements and separation agreements.

c. Divorce decrees.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

88 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.103-68A.109

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.103[Reserved]

89 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.110

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.110 Using Family Business for Estate Planning Purposes

1. Determine client's overall estate objectives.

NOTE:

It is not unusual for some of the objectives or goals listed below to conflict. Counsel should endeavor to rank these objectives or goals in terms of their importance to the client. Strategies used to meet one goal may counter strategies used to achieve another, and counsel should be alert to potential conflicts of interest.

- a. Income for life of client and surviving spouse.
- b. Equal division of assets to children.
- c. Minimizing estate and gift taxes.
- d. Passing business to heirs to secure their future.

2. Estimate value of client's assets.

NOTE:

Counsel must analyze and weigh the gains to be derived from estate planning against both the financial costs and the separation of assets from the client's control. As a rule of thumb, a client should have approximately $2 million of net worth and be prepared to make lifetime gifts in excess of the annual gift exclusion amount to warrant the expense of forming a family limited partnership. If the client is only planning to make annual gifts shielded by the annual exclusion, a limited partnership might still be used, but the expense of documenting the value of the gifted interest may outweigh the value of the valuation discount obtained. For discussion of gift valuation and the annual exclusion, see §§ 68A.40, 68A.41, respectively.

3. Identify current and long term goals of business owner and family business:

NOTE:

The goals of the family business should be distinguished from the goals of the family. The goal of a typical family is to nurture children into adulthood and help family members develop self-esteem and survival skills. Business goals tend to focus on economic success and generating profits. As an example of when these goals might conflict, a parent may feel that a child might not be able to earn a secure living outside the confines of the family business. The parent might wish to preserve the family business as a source of employment and income, despite countervailing concerns, but the result might also tie the child to a troubled business or negatively affect the child's self-esteem by realizing that the parent does not think the child can "make it" on his or her own.

- a. Evaluate client's current financial situation.
- b. Determine business owner's retirement goals and needs.
- c. Determine whether client is financially secure apart from business or will be relying on business proceeds for retirement.

4. Evaluate family culture [see § 68A.111].

5. Examine nature of business operations.

- a. Existing structure of business.
- b. Whether business owner manages or is involved with day-to-day business operations.
- c. Whether business is run by managers who are not family members.
- d. Whether business owner's children are involved with day-to-day business operations.

6. Ascertain client's objectives regarding family business.

a. If client wishes business to stay within family, ascertain how and to whom client wishes to transfer control of business.

- (1) Are any heirs interested in and capable of pursuing client's business?

NOTE:

Planning for management succession in the context of a family business is essential. The client must consider whom he or she wishes to run the business after the client leaves the business, as well as alternative potential managers if the chosen successor is not able to take over immediately after the client's death. However, management crises may still occur, such as the untimely death of an active business owner or the business leader. Counsel should be ready to propose alternatives, such as an interim manager or business consultant. For further information, see §§ 68A.111 and 68A.121.

b. If client wants business to support client's surviving spouse, determine how business assets can be used to provide income for surviving spouse.

c. If client wishes to dispose of business during his or her lifetime, advise client to identify pool of potential purchasers, such as key employees, large customers, suppliers, and competitors.

NOTE:

Counsel should note counsel's own degree of involvement and scope of representation in a client letter, such as whether and to what extent counsel will be involved in the negotiations. Counsel should also be prepared to structure and document an adequate, organized, and efficient reasonable due diligence inquiry. Environmental, labor, employment, intellectual property, tax, and employee benefit issues may need to be addressed. For further discussion, see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice .

7. Evaluate degree of risk client is willing to face.

NOTE:

The IRS has aggressively challenged discount valuations of family business interests. If the client is risk-adverse, the nontax advantages of the partnership can still be obtained, and the client can choose not to pursue the valuation discounts. However, in certain circumstances, the IRS may choose to assert a valuation discount, such as the death of a spouse when no estate tax is due but a step-up in basis is occurring.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawGeneral Overview

90 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.111

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.111 Evaluating Family Dynamics and Existing Management Structure; Preparing for Succession

NOTE:

Any succession plan for the business must be coordinated with the estate plan [see § 68A.110] to ensure that the business owner's goals, including retirement security, minimizing taxes, and maintaining family harmony, are satisfied.

1. Assess the dynamics or culture of client's family including:

- a. Intrafamily communication systems in business context.
- b. Intrafamily communication systems in nonbusiness context.
- c. Decision-making structure of business.
- d. Family decision-making style.
- e. How well family members get along with each other.
- f. Sibling rivalry.
- g. Expectations of family members.
- h. Current and long term goals of business [see § 68A.110].

- i. Current and long term goals of client [see § 68A.110].
2. Identify current and future business leaders and family leaders, if different.
3. Identify key employees and determine their expectations with regard to their future with business.
4. Develop informal family employment policy.

NOTE:

Counsel rarely formalizes a family employment policy in writing. Some issues are more or less covered by a buy-sell agreement. Nevertheless, even an informal policy is helpful in defining who can work for the business, under what conditions, and with what performance requirements [see P 6, below].

5. Ascertain pool of potential successors within family.
6. Establish criteria for business successor.
  - a. Family membership or key employee.
  - b. Age, gender, or marital status requirements.
  - c. Education and training requirements.
  - d. Requisite skills and experience, and whether some experience must be outside family business.
  - e. Support of other family members.
  - f. Support of key employees.

7. Identify immediate successor.

NOTE:

The client, with assistance from counsel, must identify the proper management successor(s)(and alternatives) for the business. Factors include education, experience in the family business, similar experience in other businesses, relevant talents and skills, "leadership qualities," and personal qualities such as honesty, maturity, and work ethics. The strengths and weaknesses of each potential candidate should be evaluated.

8. Identify alternative successor.
9. Establish specific responsibilities for business leaders.
10. Determine appropriate compensation.
11. Communicate succession plan throughout family and to existing employees.

NOTE:

If a formal succession plan will be distributed among family members, the plan should also cover, as needed, proportional business ownership, leadership positions and responsibilities, and a timetable for implementation.

12. Implement succession plan:

NOTE:

Counsel can assist in smoothing the transfer of business leadership by suggesting techniques that introduce and involve the successors in daily business operations and serve to train the successors.

- a. Assuming that family members are already involved in business, consider promotions, specific job titles, and inclusion on board of directors, if any.
- b. Encourage client to delegate authority and assign key tasks to successors.
- c. Evaluate usefulness of mentoring by senior employees.
- d. Consider structuring performance evaluations by client, key employee, or outside, unbiased business persons.
- e. Schedule regular meetings between officers and management.
- f. Encourage open communication and effective conflict resolution.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Management Duties & Liabilities Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

91 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.112-68A.119

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.112[Reserved]

92 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.120

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.120 Forming Family Limited Partnership

1. Identify client's business and estate planning goals [see § 68A.110].
  - a. Evaluate client's business and estate planning goals.
  - b. Estimate size of client's estate.
  - c. Determine business owner's retirement goals and needs.
2. Assess the dynamics or culture of client's family [see § 68A.111].
  - a. Family decision-making style.
  - b. Expectations of family members.
3. Educate business owner about advantages and need for advance planning and potentially dire consequence of failure to adequately plan.
4. Identify property to be transferred to business entity.

NOTE:

Personal property unrelated to family business operations, such as a personal automobile, should not be transferred to the partnership. The transfer would not likely be supported by a bona fide business purpose, and the IRS may argue that the transfer was an attempt to artificially depress the size of the estate.

5. Select appraisers.

NOTE:

Counsel should select appraisers to appraise the value of the assets to be transferred to the family business and to appraise the value of the partnership interests [see § 68A.82[3][a]].

6. Identify income and real property tax issues connected with property to be transferred.

7. If family business appears to be viable option as business and as means to pass on wealth while minimizing taxes, research applicable state laws to determine most advantageous state for formation (or reformulation).

8. Select general partner(s) from among the following:

NOTE:

It may be necessary to create a business entity as an appropriate general partner.

a. Individuals.

NOTE:

If the client plans to secure an estate tax discount on partnership units, the client should not be the sole general partner because his or her death will result in the withdrawal of the general partner, which in turn may be an act of dissolution, thereby possibly eliminating any valuation discount [see I.R.C. 2704(a); see also § 68A.40[2][e]]. Extreme caution should be exercised whenever the client wishes to use a single individual as the sole general partner.

b. C or S corporations.

c. Limited liability companies.

d. Revocable trusts.

NOTE:

Existing revocable trusts will most likely need to be amended to be compatible with the partnership and to achieve the desired income and estate tax goals. See § 68A.101, P 10, NOTE.

9. Determine successorship and formulate succession plan [see § 68A.111].

10. Determine proportional ownership issues.

NOTE:

One technique for avoiding succession problems is to transfer ownership interests only to family members who actively participate in the business. However, the interest of nonparticipating family members may diverge from those of the business and its active participants: The nonparticipants may want a higher return on their inheritances, or to be bought out, to the detriment of the business.

Although business owners typically transfer ownership to their children, it may be more effective from an estate planning view to consider the grandchildren if the parents are also transferring assets out of their estates.

11. Consider making gifts to family members in advance of partnership formation to fund purchases of capital interest in partnership or to preserve exact percentage of shared ownership.

NOTE:

A common estate planning and tax minimizing technique is to have the succeeding generation purchase business interests from the senior generation using funds derived from the income of the business. Alternatively, the senior generation may give business interests or assets to fund the purchase. In either situation, counsel should carefully assess the financial impact on the business--the cash or asset drain may seriously hinder business operations and expansion. Further, the problem may be exacerbated by the fact that many buy-out plans are staggered over a long period of time.

When assets are transferred to an entity, the assets are not subject to reassessment if the ownership is exactly the same following the transfer [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 64]. The client may wish to transfer cash or assets to children before forming the family business entity to fund partial purchases of the entity assets and avoid reassessment.

12. Secure taxpayer identification number for business.

13. Form business entity in accordance with applicable state law.

a. Draft, and have all original general and limited partners execute, limited partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15902.01].

NOTE:

While ULPA '08 requires a limited partnership to have an agreement, it does not prescribe specific language and does not require that partnership agreement to be written [Corp. Code § 15902.01; see Corp. Code § 15901.02(x) ("partnership agreement" defined)]. Under the ULPA '08, except as provided below, the partnership governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership. To the extent that the agreement does not otherwise provide, the ULPA '08 governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.10(a)]. The partnership agreement, however, may not vary certain statutory provisions [see Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)]; see also Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.21[4][b]].

(1) Establish business purpose for family limited partnership.

NOTE:

Many valid business or nontax purposes support the formation of passive or active asset family limited partnerships. Valid business reasons include: (1) consolidating family assets and diversifying risk, (2) grooming the next generation for their future roles in the business, and (3) protecting a child's inheritance from creditors including the effects of a marital dissolution.

(2) Include restrictions on transferability, such as right of first refusal.

(3) Include corporate or other entity as general partner.

(4) Provide for compensation or potential for compensation for general partner.

b. Select agent for service of process to be named in certificate of limited partnership and maintained within California [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.14(a)(2), 15901.16(d)(1), 15902.01(a)(3)].

NOTE:

After formation, limited partnerships must continuously maintain an agent for the service of process within California [Corp. Code § 15901.14(a)(2)]. The name and address of individuals or the name of the corporation designated as the agent for service of process must be included in the certificate of limited partnership [Corp. Code §§ 15901.14(c), 15901.16(d)(1)]. If a corporation is designated as agent for service of process, it must file a certificate disclosing the places it can be served with process and the name of each person authorized to accept service of process, among other matters [see Corp. Code §§ 15901.14(c), 15901.16(d)(1)]; see also Corp. Code § 1505].

c. Complete and file original and at least two copies of certificate of limited partnership [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships ], together with filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12188(b)] with Secretary of State.

NOTE:

The Secretary of State will compare and certify two copies of the certificate without charge [see Gov. Code § 12185]. For a detailed guide to drafting and filing a limited partnership certificate, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships .

A limited partnership is formed when the certificate is filed in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.01(c)]. A limited partnership that is defectively formed due to its failure to file a certificate of limited partnership may be treated as a general partnership [see American Alternative Energy v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 551, 560-562, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 686 (noncompliance with certificate requirement rendered entity general partnership with capacity to sue)].

d. Pay minimum franchise tax to Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935].

NOTE:

Limited partnerships must pay the minimum franchise tax if they are doing business in California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(a)]. For taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011, "Doing business" is defined as actively engaging in any transaction for the purpose of financial or pecuniary gain or profit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23101(a)]. For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer is doing business in California if certain conditions relating to organization, sales, property value, or compensation paid are met [see Rev. & Tax Code § 23101(b)]; see also Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations, § 12B.31]. In addition, limited partnerships that have executed, acknowledged, and filed a certificate of limited partnership [see Corp. Code § 15902.01] must pay the minimum franchise tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(b)(1)]. This tax is payable for each taxable year or portion of taxable year, until a certificate of cancellation is filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17935(b)(1)]; see Corp. Code § 15902.03].

14. Draft buy-sell agreements, or other restrictions on transfer of partnership interests [see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements ].

15. Establish separate bank account for business.

16. Prepare nonpersonal assets for transfer to partnership.

a. Retitle assets in partnership's name.

NOTE:

The transfer of encumbered real estate to the partnership may require the consent of lenders. In addition, transfers of encumbered property for which the debt exceeds the income tax basis can result in taxable gain.

- b. Record change of ownership of real property.

NOTE:

Although recording is not mandatory, counsel should advise the partnership that, on receipt of the certificate of limited partnership from the Secretary of State, it should record a certified copy of certificate in the office of the county recorder of any county in which the limited partnership owns real property [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(e)]. Recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of partnership real property in the county in which the certificate is recorded that the persons named as general partners in the certificate are all of the general partners, among other matters [see Corp. Code §§ 15902.01(e)].

17. Give partnership units to family members.

NOTE:

If feasible, it may be advantageous to delay making gifts of fractional partnership interests. Allowing the limited partnership to mature may serve to support the valuation discounts applied to the gift. Further, a significant period of time between partnership formation and the subsequent gift, whether inter vivos or testamentary, makes it less likely that the IRS will try to compress the transactions into a single, integrated step transaction [see § 68A.82[4]]. Nevertheless, once the partnership is properly formed, gifts can be made of partnership interests and delays may be imprudent.

18. Redraft contracts with important clients and suppliers.

19. Advise partnership to designate and continuously maintain within California an office at which partnership records [see P 20, below] are to be kept [Corp. Code §§ 15901.11, 15901.14].

20. Advise partnership to maintain following types of records at designated office [Corp. Code § 15901.11; see paragraph 19, above]:

NOTE:

A limited partnership agreement may not vary the information required under Corp. Code § 15901.11 [Corp. Code § 15901.10(b)(4)].

- a. Current list of full name and last known street and mailing address of each partner.

NOTE:

This list must separately identify the general partners in alphabetical order and the limited partners in alphabetical order [Corp. Code § 15901.11(1)].

- b. Copy of initial certificate of limited partnership and:

- (1) All certificates of amendment and restatements.
- (2) Executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which any certificate has been executed.

- c. Copies of partnership's federal, state, and local income tax returns and reports, if any, for prior six years.
- d. Copies of original partnership agreement and all amendments.
- e. Partnership financial statements for prior six years.
- f. Copy of any record made by limited partnership during past three years of any consent given by or vote taken of any partner pursuant to ULPA '08 or partnership agreement.
- g. Copy of any filed certificate of conversion or merger.
- h. Unless contained in partnership agreement made in record, record stating:
  - (1) Amount of cash, and description and statement of agreed value of other benefits, contributed and agreed to be contributed by each partner;
  - (2) Times at which or events upon which additional contributions agreed to be made by each partner are to be made;
  - (3) For person that is both general and limited partner, specification of what transferable interest person owns in each capacity; and
  - (4) Any events upon which limited partnership will be dissolved and activities wound up.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

93 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.121

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.121 Forming Family Limited Liability Company

1. Identify client's business and estate planning goals [see § 68A.110].
  - a. Evaluate client's business and estate planning goals.
  - b. Estimate size of client's estate.
  - c. Determine business owner's retirement goals and needs.
2. Assess dynamics or culture of client's family [see § 68A.111].
  - a. Family decision-making style.
  - b. Expectations of family members.
3. Educate business owner about advantages and need for advance planning and potentially dire consequence of failure to adequately plan.
4. Identify property to be transferred to business entity.

NOTE:

Personal property unrelated to family business operations, such as a personal automobile, should not be transferred to the family LLC. The transfer would not likely be supported by a bona fide business purpose, and the IRS may argue that the transfer was an attempt to artificially depress the size of the estate.

5. Select appraisers.

NOTE:

Counsel should select appraisers to appraise the value of the assets to be transferred to the family business and to appraise the value of the membership interests [see § 68A.82[3][a]].

6. Identify income and real property tax issues connected with property to be transferred, such as valuation, liabilities, and basis.

7. If family business appears to be viable option as business and as means to pass on wealth while minimizing taxes, research applicable state laws to determine most advantageous state for formation (or reformulation).

8. Select manager(s) from among the following:

NOTE:

The articles of organization or operating agreement may prescribe the number and qualifications of managers who may but need not be natural persons [Corp. Code § 17151(c)].

a. Individuals.

NOTE:

If the client plans to secure an estate tax discount on membership units, the client should not be the sole manager because his or her death will result in the withdrawal of the sole manager, which in turn may be an act of dissolution under the operating agreement, thereby possibly eliminating any valuation discount [see I.R.C. 2704(a); see also § 68A.40[2][e]]. Extreme caution should be exercised whenever the client wishes to use a single individual as the sole manager.

b. C or S corporations.

c. Limited liability companies or limited partnerships.

d. Revocable trusts.

NOTE:

Existing revocable trusts will most likely need to be amended to be compatible with the partnership and to achieve the desired income and estate tax goals. See § 68A.101, P 10.

9. Determine successorship and formulate succession plan [see § 68A.111].

10. Determine proportional ownership issues.

NOTE:

One technique for avoiding succession problems is to transfer ownership interests only to family members who actively participate in the business. However, the interest of nonparticipating family members may diverge from those of the business and its active participants. The nonparticipants may want a higher return on their inheritances, or to be bought out, to the detriment of the business.

Although business owners typically transfer ownership to their children, it may be more effective from an estate planning view to consider the grandchildren if the parents are also transferring assets out of their estates.

11. Consider making gifts to family members in advance of LLC formation to fund purchases of capital interest in LLC or to preserve exact percentage of shared ownership.

NOTE:

A common estate planning and tax minimizing technique is to have the succeeding generation purchase business interests from the senior generation using funds derived from the income of the business. Alternatively, the senior generation may give business interests or assets to fund the purchase. In either situation, counsel should carefully assess the financial impact on the business--the cash or asset drain may seriously hinder business operations and expansion. Further, the problem may be exacerbated by the fact that many buy-out plans are staggered over a long period of time.

When assets are transferred to an entity, the assets are not subject to reassessment if the ownership is exactly the same following the transfer [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 64]. The client may wish to transfer cash or assets to children before forming the family business entity to fund partial purchases of the entity assets and avoid reassessment.

12. Secure taxpayer identification number for business.
13. Form business entity in accordance with applicable state law.

a. Select agent for service of process to be named in articles of organization and maintained within California [see Corp. Code §§ 17051(a), 17057(b), 17061(d)].

b. Prepare, execute, and file articles of organization [see Corp. Code §§ 17050, 17051, 17056; see §§ 12C.120, 12C.200, 12C.219].

NOTE:

The original and at least one properly executed copy should be filed with the Secretary of State together with the applicable fee [Corp. Code § 17050(a); see Gov. Code § 12190(b)(fee)]. If the original is filed with two copies, the LLC unit will certify two copies for no additional charge [Gov. Code § 12185]. For a detailed guide to drafting and filing the articles of organization, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies, § 12C.120.

c. Prepare operating agreement, either before or after filing articles of organization [see § 68A.201; see also § 12C.140]:

NOTE:

While an LLC must have an operating agreement, the governing statutes do not prescribe the specific language and do not require that the partnership agreement to be written [see Corp. Code § 17059; see also Corp. Code § 17001(ab) ("operating agreement" defined)]. Rather, with limited exceptions, the governing statutes provide the rules that will apply absent a contrary provision in the agreement [see Corp. Code § 17005]. The operating agreement is not filed with Secretary of State [see Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

- (1) Establish business purpose for family limited partnership [see § 68A.201[2]].

NOTE:

Many valid business or nontax purposes support the formation of passive or active asset family LLCs. Valid business reasons include: (1) consolidating family assets and diversifying risk, (2) grooming the next generation for their future roles in the business, and (3) protecting a child's inheritance from creditors including the effects of a marital dissolution.

(2) Include restrictions on transferability, such as right of first refusal.

(3) Provide for compensation or potential for compensation for managers.

d. File initial statement of information within 90 days after filing articles of organization together with applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 17060(a); see Gov. Code § 12190(k)(fee); see also § 12C.125, 12C.210].

e. Pay minimum franchise tax to Franchise Tax Board [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17941, 23153(d)(1)].

NOTE:

For further discussion of tax filings, see § 12C.129.

14. Draft buy-sell agreements or other restrictions on transfer of LLC interests [see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements ].

15. Establish separate bank account for business.

16. Prepare nonpersonal assets for transfer to LLC.

a. Retitle assets in LLC's name.

NOTE:

The transfer of encumbered real estate to the LLC may require the consent of lenders. In addition, transfers of encumbered property for which the debt exceeds the income tax basis can result in taxable gain.

b. Record change of ownership of real property.

NOTE:

Although recording is not mandatory, counsel should advise the LLC that it should record a certified copy of its articles in the office of the county recorder of any county in which the LLC owns real property. Recording creates a conclusive presumption in favor of any bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value of LLC real property in the county in which the certified copy is recorded of the statements contained in the articles [Corp. Code § 17052(f)].

17. Give membership interests to family members.

NOTE:

If feasible, it may be advantageous to delay making gifts of fractional LLC interests. Allowing the LLC to mature may serve to support the valuation discounts applied to the gift. Further, a significant period of time between formation and the subsequent gift, whether inter vivos or testamentary, makes it less likely that the IRS will try to compress the transactions into a single, integrated step transaction [see § 68A.82[4]]. Nevertheless, once the LLC is properly formed, gifts can be made of LLC interests and delays may be imprudent or impractical.

18. Redraft contracts with important clients and suppliers.

19. Advise LLC to establish and continuously maintain within California an office at which LLC records [see P 20, below] are to be kept [Corp. Code § 17057(a)].

20. Advise LLC to maintain following types of records in an office that may, but need not be, place of its business, in California [Corp. Code § 17058(a)]:

a. Current list, in alphabetical order by name, of the following for each member and each holder of economic interest:

(1) Full name and last known business or residence address.

(2) Contribution to LLC.

(3) Share in profits and losses.

b. If LLC is managed by one or more managers and not by all members [see Corp. Code § 17151(b)], current list of full name and business or residence address of each manager.

c. Copy of certificate of articles of organization and:

(1) All certificates of amendment.

(2) Executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which articles and any amendments have been executed.

c. Copies of LLC's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns and reports, if any, for prior six taxable years.

d. Copy of original LLC operating agreement and:

(1) All certificates of amendment.

(2) Executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which articles and any amendments have been executed.

e. Copies of LLC financial statements for prior six fiscal years.

f. LLC books and records as they relate to internal affairs of LLC, for at least current and past four fiscal years.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

94 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.122

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.122 Checklist for Establishing and Maintaining Separate Character of Business

NOTE:

Counsel should consider sending a letter to the client explaining how to respect the integrity of the partnership, including the proper manner of executing documents on the partnership's behalf and how to respect and preserve the limited liability of the limited partners.

1. Maintain history of business operations for family business.

NOTE:

Creating and maintaining a history of business operations may help establish a credible business purpose for the family business and help avoid step transaction treatment [see § 68A.82[4]].

2. To extent possible, establish and substantiate bona fide business purpose for family limited partnership and transfer restrictions.

NOTE:

The IRS may challenge valuation discounts based on transfer restrictions if formation of the family business is used to transfer wealth to family members for less than full and adequate consideration [see I.R.C. § 2703; see also § 68A.40[2][d]].

3. Whenever necessary, secure independent appraisals to value partnership assets and partnership interests before transfer [see § 68A.82[3][a]].

4. Have business keep separate bank accounts.

NOTE:

Partnership income should be deposited in partnership accounts. Clients may be tempted to treat the partnership's bank accounts as their personal accounts for their personal and exclusive use. Treating the partnership's bank accounts as personal accounts will endanger the separate and independent nature of the partnership, and result in unfortunate tax results: either (1) redemption treatment triggering taxable gain to the partner or (2) compensation treatment resulting in ordinary income.

5. Maintain current records of partners' capital accounts.

6. Keep accounting and tax records current and file all requisite tax returns [see § 68A.130].

7. Document working capital needs.

NOTE:

Documentation of working capital needs is particularly necessary to maximize the "qualified family owned business interest" (QFOBI) deduction in the estate tax context [see § 68A.44]. Any portion of an interest in a trade or business attributable to the sum of cash and marketable securities in excess of reasonably anticipated day-to-day working capital needs of that trade or business is not a QFOBI [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(D)].

8. If estate plan anticipates relying on QFOBI estate tax deduction, document family members' participation in family business.

NOTE:

The above deduction is repealed for estates of decedents dying after 2003 [I.R.C. § 2057(j)].

Documentation of family members' participation in the family business is important in the QFOBI context [see § 68A.44]. For the estate to qualify for the QFOBI deduction, the decedent or the decedent's family must have owned the business and materially participated in business operations for at least five out of the eight years before death [I.R.C. § 2057(b)(1)(D)]. Further, each qualified heir or member of the qualified heir's family must materially participate in the trade or business for at least five years of any eight-year period within 10 years following the death [I.R.C. § 2057(f)(1)(A); see I.R.C. § 2032A(c)(6)(B)]. The rules governing "material participation" are both complex and vague [see I.R.C. §§ 1402(a), 2032A(e)(6)] and have been the subject of much litigation.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

95 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.123-68A.129

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.123[Reserved]

96 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
D. Related and Subsequent Procedures

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.130

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.130 Procedures After Family Business Organized

1. Advise client to respect integrity of business [see § 68A.121].

NOTE:

Counsel should remain involved with the family business after formation to help the client maintain the integrity of the family limited partnership structure. The client should not commingle family limited partnership funds with personal or nonpartnership funds and assets.

2. Advise client to comply with ongoing formalities of business.

NOTE:

A family ignores the family business entity structure at its own peril--the IRS may argue that the entire entity formation process was a sham. Counsel should consider sending the client reminder letters regarding the actions necessary to maintain the family business structure.

- a. Keep proper accounting and tax records.
- b. Document working capital needs.

NOTE:

Documentation of working capital needs is particularly critical in the context of the "qualified family owned business interest" (QFOBI) deduction for estate taxes [I.R.C. §

2057; the deduction is repealed for estates of decedents dying after 2003 (I.R.C. § 2057(j)); see § 68A.44]. Any portion of an interest in a trade or business attributable to the sum of cash and marketable securities in excess of reasonably anticipated day-to-day working capital needs of that trade or business is not a QFOBI [I.R.C. § 2057(e)(2)(D)].

c. File annual informational tax returns.

d. File any required certificates.

3. If client will be making taxable gifts, advise client to do the following:

a. Secure appraisal for annual gifts.

NOTE:

It may be appropriate to make annual gifts in December in one year and January of the following year, thus allowing one appraisal to cover the annual gifts from two years.

b. File annual gift tax returns [I.R.C. §§ 2512, 6019].

NOTE:

As with all gifts, the gift tax statute of limitations regarding transfers subject to the valuation rules governing trust interests, preferred interests in business entities, and increases in taxable gifts only runs if the transfer is adequately disclosed on a gift tax return. This requirement began with transfers subject to the special valuation rules and has now been expanded to cover all gifts. Adequate disclosure consists of providing details as to the nature of both the retained and transferred interests [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(9)]. As of the date of publication, the IRS has issued proposed regulations [see 63 Fed. Reg. 70701] containing some widely criticized requirements.

If the donor is married and both spouses make gifts, the maximum tax-free annual amount for a joint gift is twice the exclusion amount per donee, or $20,000, subject to inflation adjustments after 1998. The same "double" exclusion is available when only one spouse makes a gift to a person other than the donor's spouse, provided that the donor's spouse consents to split the gift [see I.R.C. § 2513(a)].

4. If client will be making nontaxable gifts, advise client to do following:

a. Secure reappraisal for annual gifts.

NOTE:

It may be appropriate to make annual gifts in December in one year and January of the following year, thus allowing one appraisal to cover the annual gifts from two years.

b. File annual gift tax returns [I.R.C. §§ 2512, 6019].

NOTE:

A donor need not file a gift tax return if no gifts in excess of the annual exclusion amount are made [I.R.C. § 6019]. When the client and the client's spouse make a gift of $20,000 or less to a single donee, and the gift otherwise qualifies for the annual exclusion, the client should file a return to register the spouse's consent. However, with gifts of partnership interests, it may be advisable to file a gift tax return even if the value gifted would qualify for the annual gift tax exclusion to start the statute of limitations running in regard to the value of the gift.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

97 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
D. Related and Subsequent Procedures

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.131-68A.199

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.131[Reserved]

98 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Organizational Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.200

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.200 Family Limited Partnership Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete agreement for a family limited partnership to be formed under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 (ULPA '08) [Corp. Code §§ 15900-15912.07]. It is designed for use by persons who already run a business, or will organize or purchase a business. This form is to be used when the business owner or organizer does not currently contemplate the subsequent addition of new limited partners to obtain additional capital.

Although ULPA '08 requires that the partners enter into a limited partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 15902.01; see [d], below], the agreement need not be as long or as complex as this form since ULPA '08 provides numerous rules that will apply unless the partnership agreement provides to the contrary. However, even when the drafter of the partnership agreement wishes to follow the statutory requirements, it is good practice to include them in the agreement in any case, both as an easy reference and because the law may be amended in a manner not anticipated by the partners or their counsel.

For a detailed guide to the statutory provisions that apply in the absence of provisions in the agreement to the contrary and alternate suggestions for the drafting of a limited partnership agreement, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships. For additional limited partnership agreements for use by limited partnerships that intend to make public or private offerings conforming to federal and California securities laws, see Ch. 29B, Nonpublic Real Estate Syndicates.

[b] Variation of ULPA '08 Provisions

Except as otherwise described below, the partnership agreement governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership. To the extent the partnership agreement does not otherwise provide, the ULPA '08 governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership [Corp. Code § 15901.10(a); see also Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships].

A partnership agreement may not [Corp Code § 15901.10(b)]:

- (1) Vary a limited partnership's power under Corp. Code § 15901.05 to sue, be sued, and defend in its own name.
- (2) Vary the law applicable to a limited partnership under Corp. Code § 15901.06 [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.14].
- (3) Vary the requirements of Corp. Code § 15902.04 (signature requirements for filed "records").
- (4) Vary the information required by Corp. Code § 15901.11 (information required to be retained at limited partnership's designated office) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.23[2]; see also paragraph 7.03 of this form] or unreasonably restrict the right to information under Corp. Code § 15903.04 (limited partners) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.30[1]; see also paragraph 7.04 of this form] or Corp. Code § 15904.07 (general partners) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.34[4]]. However, the partnership agreement may impose reasonable restrictions on the availability and use of information obtained under those sections and may define appropriate remedies, including liquidated damages, for a breach of any reasonable restriction on use.
- (5) Eliminate the duty of loyalty under Corp. Code § 15904.08 [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.35[2]; see also paragraph 6.03 of this form], but the partnership agreement may: (a) identify specific types or categories of activities that do not violate the duty of loyalty, if not manifestly unreasonable; and (b) specify the number or percentage of partners which may authorize or ratify, after full disclosure to all partners of all material facts, a specific act or transaction that otherwise would violate the duty of loyalty.
- (6) Unreasonably reduce the duty of care under Corp. Code § 15904.08(a) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.35[2]; see also paragraph 6.03 of this form].
- (7) Eliminate the obligation of good faith and fair dealing of limited partners under Corp. Code § 15903.05(b) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.35[2]] and of general partners under Corp. Code § 15904.08(d) [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.35[2]; see also paragraph 6.03 of this form], but the partnership agreement may prescribe the standards by which the performance of this obligation is to be measured, if the standards are not manifestly unreasonable.
- (8) Vary the power of a person to dissociate as a general partner under Corp. Code § 15906.04(a) except to require that the notice under Corp. Code § 15906.03(a) be in a record [see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships, § 16.37].
- (9) Eliminate the power of a court to decree dissolution in the circumstances specified in Corp. Code § 15908.02(a) [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].
- (10) Vary the requirement to wind up the partnership's business as specified in Corp. Code § 15908.03 [see Ch. 16A, Dissolution of Limited Partnerships].
- (11) Unreasonably restrict the right of a partner to maintain an action as provided in Corp. Code § 15910.01 et seq.

(12) Restrict the right of a partner to approve a conversion or merger [see Ch. 16B, Conversion and Merger of Limited Partnerships ].

(13) Vary the provisions of Article 11.5 (regarding dissenting limited partners' rights to dissent in a conversion or merger), except to the extent expressly permitted by those provisions [see Ch. 16B, Conversion and Merger of Limited Partnerships ].

(14) Restrict rights under the ULPA '08 of a person other than a partner or a transferee.

[c] Provisions Affecting Valuation Discounts

This form provides that the limited partners will contribute capital to the limited partnership in the form of cash, property, or services [see [2], Section 4.03, below ]. From a tax standpoint, formation of a family limited partnership looks more like a bona fide business arrangement negotiated at arm's length if all the limited partners make some cash or property contribution to the partnership. Nevertheless, it is not necessary for all family members to contribute. Later gifts of partnership interests to noncontributing family members should be respected as long as there are valid nontax reasons for forming the partnership. Consolidation of family assets, diversification of risk and the retention of management control by the general partner or partners are valid business purposes for establishing a family limited partnership.

The degree of control an owner of a business interest has over partnership decisions is one of the most significant factors affecting the value of a fractional limited partnership interest [see § 68A.82[2][a]]. This form (mirroring state law) clearly bars the limited partners from participating in the management and control of the partnership. The form also limits the limited partners' ability to participate in day-to-day operations, but allows employment [see [2], Section 6.02, below ]. However, the goal of maximizing valuation discounts must always be evaluated in the context of prudent business practice. When a fractional interest might be sufficient to affect major partnership decisions, the business owner should analyze the goals of the individual partners.

This form contains a right of first refusal, first to the general partners and then to the limited partners [see [2], Section 10.02, below ]. Partnership agreements typically contain a right of first refusal, requiring a partner who receives an independent offer to purchase a partnership interest to first offer that interest to the partnership [see § 68A.82[2][c]]. The existence of this obligation reduces the marketability of the interest because prospective purchasers may be deterred, or seek a discount to cover the risk of the partnership purchasing the interest. For example, prospective purchasers might be unwilling to incur costs or face delays while valuing the partnership interest if the general partners can match the offer and purchase the interest.

Provisions affecting dissolution are among the most important provisions affecting valuation discounts [see § 68A.40[2][e]]. The agreement should not permit dissolution in any fashion that is less restrictive than the state law standard, which requires unanimous consent of the general partners and a majority consent of the limited partners [see [2], Section 13.02, below ]. Using more than one general partner will also make it more difficult for the partnership to dissolve. Limiting the duration of the partnership to a term of years is crucial [see [2], Section 1.04, below ]. In California, a limited partner has no right to withdraw when there is no term. Thus, the use of a term should not be viewed as an applicable restriction thereby allowing an appraiser to consider the effect a long term would have on a potential investor.

[d] Formation of Limited Partnerships

In order to form a limited partnership, the partners must enter into a partnership agreement and the general partners must file a certificate of limited partnership with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see § 68A.120]. The partnership agreement need not be written [see Corp. Code § 15902.01(a); see also Corp. Code § 15901.02(x) ("partnership agreement" defined)]. However, it is advisable to memorialize an oral agreement in a written form to prevent subsequent disagreements over the agreement's terms. A limited partnership is formed when the certificate of limited partnership is filed [Corp. Code § 15902.01(c)].

For further discussion of the formation of a limited partnership, including name requirements and the need to maintain certain records and an office and agent for service of process in California, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships.

[e] Allocation of Profit and Loss

The profits and losses of a limited partnership must be allocated among the partners in the manner provided in the partnership agreement. If the agreement does not otherwise provide, profits and losses must be allocated in the same manner as the partners share distributions [Corp. Code § 15905.035]. A distribution by a limited partnership must be shared among the partners on the basis of the value, as stated in the required records when the partnership decides to make the distribution, of the contributions the limited partnership has received for each partner [Corp Code § 15905.03]. This form allows allocation of profit and loss among the partners in equal proportions, in proportion to their capital contributions, or in proportions specified in the form [see [2], Section 5.01, below]. Counsel should be aware that failure to allocate in accord with proportional interests requires compliance with I.R.C. § 704(b). For discussion, see § 68A.40[2][b].

[f] Removal of General Partner

This form allows removal of a general partner by affirmative vote of a majority or greater percentage in interest of the limited partners who are not also general partners [see [2], Section 6.05, below]. It also allows specification that a general partner may be removed only for cause. By allowing removal only for cause and specifying a large percentage requirement, e.g., 80 percent, the agreement acts to cement in control by the general partners. In no event should removal of a general partner be allowed by affirmative vote of less than a majority in interest of the limited partners.

[g] Dissolution of Partnership

This form allows dissolution by unanimous consent of the general partners and the consent of a majority of interest of the limited partners [see [2], Section 13.02, below]. Requiring more than a majority of interest of the limited partners is an "applicable restriction" under I.R.C. § 2704(b) [see § 68A.81[5][d]]; requiring a vote of less than all of the general partners and a majority in interest of the limited partners waters down or eliminates the estate tax valuation discount [see § 68A.40].

[2] FORM

Family Limited Partnership Agreement

_____ FAMILY PARTNERSHIP
LIMITED PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
ARTICLE 1. ORGANIZATIONAL MATTERS
1.01. Formation of Limited Partnership	_____
1.02. Purpose of Partnership	_____

- 1.03. Name of Partnership _____
- 1.04. Term of Partnership _____
- 1.05. Certificate of Limited Partnership _____
- 1.06. Partnership Office; Agent _____
- 1.07. Addresses of Partners _____

ARTICLE 2. DEFINITIONS

ARTICLE 3. MEMBERS OF PARTNERSHIP

- 3.01. Original General Partners _____
- 3.02. Original Limited Partners _____
- 3.03. Admission of Additional General Partners _____
- 3.04. Replacement of Sole Remaining General Partner _____
- 3.05. Admission of Additional Limited Partners _____
- 3.06. Admission of Substituted Limited Partner _____
- 3.07. Amendment of Partnership Records _____
- 3.08. Additional Partners Bound by Agreement _____
- 3.09. Tax Matters Partner _____
- 3.10. Certificate of Interest _____

ARTICLE 4. FINANCING

- 4.01. Capitalization _____
- 4.02. General Partner Capital Contribution _____
- 4.03. Limited Partner Capital Contribution _____
- 4.04. Initial Capital Contributions From New Limited Partners _____
- 4.05. Additional Capital Contributions _____
- 4.06. Interest on Contributions _____
- 4.07. Withdrawal and Return of Capital _____

ARTICLE 5. ALLOCATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS AND LOSSES

- 5.01. Allocation of Profits and Losses _____
- 5.02. Distribution of Cash Available for Distribution _____
- 5.03. Distributions Other Than Cash _____
- 5.04. Priorities Among Limited Partners _____

ARTICLE 6. MANAGEMENT OF PARTNERSHIP AFFAIRS

- 6.01. Control and Management _____
- 6.02. Restrictions on Limited Partners _____
- 6.03. General Partners' Duties of Loyalty and Care _____
- 6.04. Authority for Use of Nominees _____
- 6.05. Removal of General Partners _____
- 6.06. Limited Partners' Obligation of Good Faith and Fair Dealing _____

ARTICLE 7. BOOKS, RECORDS, AND ACCOUNTS

- 7.01. Partnership Accounting Practices _____
- 7.02. Maintenance of Records and Accounts _____
- 7.03. Required Records _____
- 7.04. Limited Partners' Right to Required Information _____
- 7.05. Access to Other Records by Limited Partners _____
- 7.06. Amendments to Agreement _____
- 7.07. Income Tax Data _____
- 7.08. Partnership Tax or Information Returns _____
- 7.09. Capital Accounts _____
- 7.10. Income Accounts _____
- 7.11. Banking _____

ARTICLE 8. RIGHTS, POWERS, DUTIES, AND RESTRICTIONS OF PARTNERS

- 8.01. General Partners' Exclusive Right to Manage _____
- 8.02. Devotion of Time by General Partner(s) _____
- 8.03. Voting Rights of General Partners _____
- 8.04. Restrictions on General Partner(s) _____
- 8.05. Compensation of General Partners _____
- 8.06. Voting Rights of Limited Partners _____
- 8.07. Loans to the Partnership _____
- 8.08. Transaction of Business With Partnership _____
- 8.09. Partners Engaging in Other Business _____

ARTICLE 9. PARTNERSHIP MEETINGS

- 9.01. Call and Place of Meetings _____
- 9.02. Notice of Meeting _____
- 9.03. Quorum _____
- 9.04. Adjournment of Meetings _____
- 9.05. Meetings Not Duly Called, Noticed, or Held _____
- 9.06. Waiver of Notice _____
- 9.07. Consent to Action Without Meeting _____
- 9.08. Proxies _____

ARTICLE 10. TRANSFER OF INTERESTS

- 10.01. Conditions for Transfer _____
- 10.02. Permitted Transfers _____
- 10.03. Death, Bankruptcy, or Incompetence of Limited Partner _____
- 10.04. Option to Buy Terminated Interest of General Partner _____
- 10.05. Sale to New General Partner _____

10.06. Purchase Price for General Partner's Interest	_____
10.07. Duties of Remaining General Partners	_____
ARTICLE 11. LIABILITIES OF PARTNERS
11.01. Liability of General Partners	_____
11.02. Liability of Limited Partners	_____
ARTICLE 12. PROHIBITED TRANSACTIONS
12.01. Specified Acts	_____
12.02. Use of Partnership Assets	_____
ARTICLE 13. DISSOLUTION OF THE PARTNERSHIP
13.01. Dissolution and Winding Up	_____
13.02. Dissolution by Consent	_____
13.03. Dissolution on Loss of General Partner	_____
13.04. Dissolution on Sale or Disposition of Assets	_____
13.05. Dissolution by Judicial Decree	_____
13.06. Winding Up	_____
13.07. Liquidation and Distribution	_____
13.08. Cancellation of Certificate of Limited Partnership	_____
ARTICLE 14. RECORD DATES
14.01. Setting Record Date for Meetings	_____
14.02. Setting Record Date for Distributions	_____
14.03. Automatic Record Date	_____
ARTICLE 15. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS
15.01. Entire Agreement	_____
15.02. Binding Effect	_____
15.03. Amendments	_____
15.04. Attorney's Fees	_____
15.05. Notices	_____
15.06. Mediation and Arbitration	_____
15.07. Exhibits	_____
15.08. Additional Instruments and Acts	_____
15.09. Reliance on Person Signing Agreement	_____
15.10. No Interest in Partnership Property	_____
15.11. Time Is of the Essence	_____
15.12. Cumulative Remedies	_____
15.13. Governing Law	_____
15.14. Severability	_____
15.15. Execution by Spouses	_____
15.16. Consent of Spouses	_____

15.17. Election of Adjusted Basis	_____
15.18. Counterparts	_____
15.19. Headings	_____
15.20. Pronouns	_____
15.21. Statutory References	_____
15.22. Other Instruments	_____
EXHIBIT A. List of Partners	_____

_____ FAMILY PARTNERSHIP
LIMITED PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT

This Limited Partnership Agreement is entered into on _____[date], by and between _____[identify general partners, e.g., _____, a California corporation, and _____ [name]] (collectively referred to as "General Partners"), and _____[name] and _____[name] (collectively referred to as "Limited Partners"). The General and Limited Partners agree as follows.

ARTICLE 1
ORGANIZATIONAL MATTERS

1.01. The General Partners and the Limited Partners agree to form a limited partnership (the Partnership), pursuant to the provisions of the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.].

Purpose of Partnership

1.02. The purpose and character of the business of this Partnership is _____[specify, e.g., to acquire, hold, operate and maintain real estate, to provide centralized management of the business of the partners, to protect certain partners from the risk of economic loss in exchange for a restricted interest in future profits, and to do all other acts as may be reasonable and necessary to further the business of the Partnership]. The Partnership may also engage in any activities that are related or incidental to that business. [Optional: In addition, the partnership has been formed to promote the long-term interests of the partners, and its investment outlook is likely to take that range of interests into account.]

Name of Partnership

1.03. The name of this Partnership shall be "_____, a California Limited Partnership." The business of the Partnership shall be conducted under that name. [Add, if desired: The name of the Partnership may be changed by the General Partners by giving written notice of the change to the Limited Partners and by filing a certificate of amendment or restated certificate with the Secretary of State.]

Term of Partnership

1.04. The term of the Partnership commences on _____ [_____ (specify the filing date of the partnership's Certificate of Limited Partnership or a date not more than 90 days after the date the certificate is received by the Secretary of State), and continues until _____ (specify either dissolved as provided in this Agreement or _____ (specify date), unless earlier dissolved) or, to state a term of years, the date _____ (specify date, whichever is earlier, either this Agreement is signed or the Partnership's Certificate of Limited Partnership was filed with the Secretary of State) and terminates on December 31 of the year that is 30 years from that date].

Certificate of Limited Partnership

1.05. The General Partners will immediately execute a Certificate of Limited Partnership and cause that Certificate to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of California. Thereafter, _____ [all or not less than one] of the General Partners will execute and cause to be filed certificates of amendment of the Certificate of Limited Partnership (or Restated Certificates of Limited Partnership) whenever required by the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.] or this Agreement. The General Partners will execute and cause to be filed original or amended certificates evidencing the formation and operation of the Partnership whenever required under the laws of any other states in which the Partnership determines to do business. The General Partners will also record a certified copy of the Certificate and any amendment in the office of the county recorder in every county in which the Partnership owns real property.

Partnership Office; Agent

1.06. The designated office of the Partnership is _____ [address], _____ County, California, or at any other place within _____ County, California, as may be determined from time to time by the General Partners. If the General Partners change the office of the Partnership, they must give written notice of the change of address to each Limited Partner at least _____ [number] days before that change. The Partnership will continuously maintain an office and registered agent for service of process in California. The registered agent is _____ [name].

Addresses of Partners

1.07. The addresses of the General Partners and the Limited Partners are set forth on Exhibit A.

ARTICLE 2 DEFINITIONS

2.01. When used in this Agreement, and except as otherwise stated in this Agreement or as the context of this Agreement requires, the terms defined in this Section 2.01, for the purposes of this Agreement, have the meanings specified in this Section 2.01.

(1) "Agreement" means this Limited Partnership Agreement, as originally executed and as amended from time to time.

(2) "Assignee" means a person who has acquired a beneficial interest in the limited partnership interest of a Limited Partner, but who is not a "substituted Limited Partner."

(3) "Assigning Limited Partner" means a Limited Partner who has assigned a beneficial interest in that Partner's limited partnership interest, but the Assignee of which has not become a "substituted limited partner."

(4) "Cash available for distribution" means total cash income from operations during any given accounting period, plus the cash proceeds, if any, from the sale or other disposition, refinancing, or liquidation of Partnership property, less cash expenses as well as any allowances or reserves for contingencies or for repair to and maintenance of properties, and anticipated obligations the General Partners in their discretion deem necessary during the same accounting period.

(5) "Code" means the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

(6) "Distribution" means any cash distributed to the Partners from cash available for distribution.

(7) "General Partners" refers to _____ [name of general partner], _____ [name of general partner], and _____ [name of general partner], or any successor.

(8) "Limited Partner" refers to any person who is admitted to the Partnership, either as an original Limited Partner or as a substituted Limited Partner, and who executes this Agreement. A "new Limited Partner" is a Limited Partner other than an original or substituted Limited Partner who has purchased a limited partnership interest from the Partnership by making the required contribution to the Partnership.

(9) "Majority in interest of the Limited Partners" means more than _____ [specify percentage, e.g., 50] percent of the interests of the Limited Partners.

(10) "Net income" and "net loss" mean the net income or net loss of the Partnership as determined for the purposes of computing federal income taxes pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles; provided, however, that the partnership in the discretion of the General Partner(s) may use the cash method of accounting.

(11) "Partners" or "the Partners" refers collectively to the General Partners and the Limited Partners. Reference to "Partner" is a reference to any one of the Partners.

(12) "Partnership" refers to the Limited Partnership created under this Agreement and the Certificate of Limited Partnership to be filed with the Office of the Secretary of State pursuant to the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.]

(13) "Partnership Interest" refers to any general or limited partnership interest.

(14) "Person" means an individual, partnership, limited partnership, limited liability company, corporation, trust, estate, association, or any other entity.

(15) "Spouse" means a person who (a) is legally married to and not legally separated from the other if the other is living; or (b) was married to and not legally separated from the other at the time of the other's death.

(16) "Tax Matters Partner," as defined by the Code [see I.R.C. § 6231] refers to _____ [name], or _____ [his or her] successor, as specified in Section 3.09, below .

(17) "Vote" includes written consent.

ARTICLE 3

MEMBERS OF PARTNERSHIP

3.01. The name of each original General Partner is as follows: _____ [name], _____ [name], and _____ [name].

Original Limited Partners

3.02. The name of each original Limited Partner is as follows: _____ [name], _____ [name], and _____ [name].

Admission of Additional General Partners

3.03. Subject to any other provision of this Agreement, a person may be admitted as a General Partner after the Certificate of Limited Partnership is filed only with the written consent of _____ [specify, e.g., each] General Partner and the vote or written consent of _____ [specify, e.g., a majority in interest or higher percentage] of the Limited Partners.

Replacement of Sole Remaining General Partner

3.04. [Add, if there is more than one General Partner: If a General Partner ceases to be a General Partner and there is one or more remaining General Partners, the Partnership shall not dissolve if the remaining General Partner or all the remaining General Partners if more than one remains, continue the business of the Partnership.] If a General Partner ceases to be a General Partner and there is no remaining General Partner, one or more new General Partners may be admitted to the Partnership on the written consent of _____ [specify number or percentage of limited partnership interests of the limited partners, e.g., a majority in interest or all] of the Limited Partners; provided that the Limited Partners agree in writing to continue the business of the Partnership pursuant to Section 13.03 of this Agreement.

Admission of Additional Limited Partners

3.05. Subject to the provisions of Article 10 of this Agreement, governing transfers of partnership interests, a person may acquire an interest in the Partnership directly from the Partnership and be admitted as an additional Limited Partner on _____ [specify, e.g., the vote of the General Partners or the vote of all members of the Partnership].

Admission of Substituted Limited Partner

3.06. The assignee of a limited partnership interest may be admitted as a substituted Limited Partner with the vote or written consent of _____ [specify, e.g., all of the General Partners and _____ (all or other proportion) of the Limited Partners].

Amendment of Partnership Records

3.07. On admission of a General Partner or Limited Partner, the General Partners will add the name, address, contribution, and that Partner's share in Partnership profits or losses to the list of Partners kept in the designated office of the Partnership.

Additional Partners Bound by Agreement

3.08. Before any person is admitted to the Partnership as a General or Limited Partner, that person shall agree in writing to be bound by all of the provisions of this Agreement.

Tax Matters Partner

3.09. (a) The Tax Matters Partner ("TMP") of the Partnership is _____[name], a General Partner, or a successor as may be chosen by a majority in interest of the Limited Partners. The TMP will keep the Partners informed of all administrative and judicial proceedings, and furnish each Partner who so requests in writing a copy of each notice or other communication received by the TMP from the Internal Revenue Service (except any notices or communications sent directly to the requesting Partner).

(b) The TMP will employ experienced tax counsel to represent the Partnership in connection with any audit, examination, or investigation of the Partnership by the Internal Revenue Service and in connection with all subsequent administrative and judicial proceedings arising out of that audit. The tax counsel is responsible for representing the Partnership. It is the responsibility of the General Partner(s) and of the Limited Partners, at their expense, to employ tax counsel to represent their respective separate interests.

(c) The relationship of the TMP to the Limited Partners is that of a fiduciary, performing its fiduciary obligations as TMP in the manner that will serve the best interests of the Partnership and the Limited Partners.

(d) The TMP is authorized to take any of the following actions without first obtaining the consent of any Partner:

(1) Enter into a settlement agreement with the Internal Revenue Service that purports to bind partners other than the TMP.

(2) File any petition contemplated by I.R.C. § 6226(a) or 6228.

(3) Intervene in any action contemplated by I.R.C. § 6226(b).

(4) Enter into any agreement extending the period of limitations contemplated by I.R.C. § 6229(b)(1)(B).

(e) The Partnership will indemnify the TMP against all judgments, fines, amounts paid in settlement, and expenses (including attorney's fees) reasonably incurred by the TMP in any civil, criminal or investigative proceeding in which the TMP is involved or threatened to be involved by reason of being the TMP, provided that the TMP acted in good faith, within what the TMP reasonably believed to be within scope of his or her authority and for a purpose that the TMP reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Partnership or Limited Partners. The TMP will not be indemnified under this provision against any liability to the Partnership or Limited Partners to which the TMP would otherwise be subject by reason of willful misfeasance, bad faith, gross negligence, or reckless disregard of the duties involved in the conduct of obligations as the TMP. This indemnification is not deemed exclusive of any other rights to which those indemnified may be entitled under any applicable statute, agreement, vote of the Partners, or otherwise.

(f) The TMP may resign by giving 30 days' written notice to each Partner. On the resignation, death, legal incompetence, or bankruptcy of the person serving as the TMP, a successor to serve in that position will be chosen by a majority of interest of the Limited Partners.

(g) Expenses incurred by the TMP constitute Partnership expenses and will be paid by the Partnership. The fees and expenses of tax counsel employed by the TMP to represent the Partnership constitute Partnership expenses and will be borne by the Partnership.

[Optional:]

Certificate of Interest

3.10. The interest of a Partner or assignee may be evidenced by a certificate of interest in the Partnership. The certificate will be in the form to be determined by the General Partners. The assignment and transfer of the interest represented by the certificate, and the admission of transferees of the certificate, will be determined in accordance with Articles 3 and 10 of this Agreement.

[Continue with the following:]

ARTICLE 4 FINANCING

Capitalization

4.01. The capital contributions of the Partners, the units issued in exchange for those contributions pursuant to this Article 4, and the percentage interests of each Partner are set forth on Exhibit A. Exhibit A will be periodically revised to reflect additional contributions, transfers of Partnership Interests, and any other changes affecting the Partners or their respective capital contributions. All capital contributions constitute general funds of the Partnership available for any purpose within the Partnership's stated purpose as set forth in Section 1.02. If a Partnership Interest is transferred, the capital contributions attributable to the transferred units will continue to be attributed to those units as set forth on Exhibit A.

General Partner Capital Contribution

4.02. (a) Each of the original General Partners named in this Agreement agrees to contribute to the capital of the Partnership _____ [specify contribution or as set forth in Exhibit A].

(b) Each new or replacement General Partner admitted after the execution of this Agreement agrees to contribute, before admission to the Partnership, a sum determined by the General Partners. In the alternative, or in addition to the contribution provided for in this Agreement, the remaining General Partners may require a General Partner who is being admitted to replace a former General Partner to purchase the interest of the former General Partner pursuant to Sections 10.04, 10.05, and 10.06 of this Agreement. These provisions are subject, however, to any requirements for approval by the Limited Partners specified elsewhere in this Agreement. If there are no remaining General Partners, the contribution and interest of a new or replacement General Partner will be determined by the Limited Partners in accordance with Section 3.04 of this Agreement.

Limited Partner Capital Contribution

[Choose one of the following:]

4.03. Each of the Limited Partners agrees to contribute to the capital of the Partnership _____ [specify contribution or as set forth in Exhibit A].

[Or]

4.03. The Limited Partners agree to contribute to the capital of the Partnership cash as follows:
 _____ [name of limited partner], $ _____ [specify amount]; _____ [name of limited partner], $ _____ [specify amount]; and _____ [name of limited partner], $ _____ [specify amount].

[Or]

4.03. The property or services contributed to the initial capital of the Partnership by each Limited Partner is as follows:

Name	Type of Contribution	Agreed Valuation
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

[Continue with the following:]

Initial Capital Contributions From New Limited Partners

4.04. Each new Limited Partner admitted to the Partnership agrees to contribute to the capital of the Partnership _____ [an amount determined by the General Partners or the sum of $ _____ in cash or describe].

Additional Capital Contributions

4.05. (a) No Limited Partner may be required to make any additional contributions of capital to the Partnership.

(b) The General Partner(s) may propose that additional capital contributions be made to the Partnership whenever funds are required for the Partnership's stated purpose as set forth in Section 1.02. The General Partner(s) must notify all Limited Partners of any proposal for additional capital contributions. A proposal for additional capital contributions must be adopted on the approval of the General Partner(s) and _____ [a majority in interest or 75 percent of the Limited Partnership Units]. All Partners must be promptly notified of any approved proposal for additional capital contributions. Unless otherwise agreed by all Partners, all additional capital contributions are to be made in proportion to the percentage interests of the Partners.

(c) If any Partner fails to remit his or her share of an approved additional capital contribution within _____ [specify, e.g., 30 days] after the date scheduled for additional capital contributions, the Partners who have remitted their share may elect to advance the amounts necessary to cover the noncontributing Partner's portion of the additional capital contribution. Each contributing Partner has the right but is not obligated to contribute the portion attributable to his or her proportion of the units held by the contributing Partners. A majority in interest of the contributing Partners may elect to handle these additional capital contributions as follows:

(1) Treat these additional capital contributions as loans to the Partnership, bearing interest at a rate of _____ [specify, e.g., 10 percent] compounded annually. These loans, with interest, must be paid in full before any distributions pursuant to a dissolution of the Partnership.

(2) Elect to issue new Partnership units in exchange for these additional capital contributions. The number of units issued will be determined by the General Partner(s) based on the fair market value of the Partnership's assets at the time of the contribution.

Interest on Contributions

4.06. No interest will be paid on any capital contributions to the Partnership capital.

Withdrawal and Return of Capital

4.07. (a) No Partner may withdraw any portion of the capital of the Partnership and no Partner, General or Limited, is entitled to the return of that Partner's contribution to the capital of the Partnership except on the dissolution of the Partnership or the withdrawal of that Partner from the Partnership and that Partner's compliance with Sections 10.02 and/or 10.03 of this Agreement.

(b) No Partner is entitled to demand the distribution of Partnership property other than cash as part of the return of that Partner's capital contribution to the Partnership.

(c) No Limited Partner has a priority over any other Limited Partner as to the return of a contribution on the dissolution of the Partnership.

ARTICLE 5

ALLOCATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS AND LOSSES

Allocation of Profits and Losses

5.01. The net profits of the Partnership are allocated to, and any net losses suffered by the Partnership will be borne by, the Partners _____ [in equal proportions or in proportion to their capital contributions or in the following proportions:]

GENERAL PARTNERS

Name

Percent

_____

_____

_____	_____
_____	_____
LIMITED PARTNERS
Name	Percent
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

Distribution of Cash Available for Distribution

5.02. The cash available for distribution, as determined by the General Partners, will be distributed to the Partners in the proportions specified in Section 5.01 _____ [specify time related to accounting period, e.g., at the close of each calendar quarter or within _____ (number) days after the close of each _____ (specify period, e.g., taxable year of the Partnership)]. In determining the cash available for distribution, the General Partner may take into account accounts payable; the need for working capital for anticipated operating expenses, capital improvements and replacements; and any contingent liabilities of the Partnership.

Distributions Other Than Cash

5.03. No Partner has the right to receive property other than money on the distribution of profits. No Partner may be compelled to accept the distribution of any asset in kind from the Partnership in lieu of any distribution of money due that Partner.

Priorities Among Limited Partners

5.04. No Limited Partner is entitled to any priority or preference over any other Limited Partner as to the distribution of cash available for distribution.

ARTICLE 6
MANAGEMENT OF PARTNERSHIP AFFAIRS

Control and Management

6.01. The General Partners have the sole and exclusive control of the Limited Partnership. Subject to any limitations expressly set forth in this Agreement, the General Partners have the power and authority to take any action from time to time as they may deem to be necessary, appropriate, or convenient in connection with the management and conduct of the business and affairs of the Partnership, including without limitation, the power to do the following:

- (1) Acquire property, including real or personal property, for the use of the Partnership on the terms and conditions as the General Partners may, from time to time, determine to be advantageous to the Partnership;

- (2) Dispose of Partnership property, either in the ordinary course of the business of the Partnership or, from time to time, when the General Partners deem the disposition to be in the best interests of the Partnership;
- (3) Finance the Partnership's activities by borrowing money from third parties on the terms and under the conditions as the General Partners deem appropriate. When money is borrowed for Partnership purposes, the General Partners are authorized to pledge, mortgage, encumber, or grant a security interest in Partnership properties as security for the repayment of those loans;
- (4) Employ, retain, or otherwise secure the services of any personnel or firms deemed necessary by the General Partners for or to facilitate the conduct of Partnership business affairs, all on the terms and for the consideration as the General Partners deem advisable; and
- (5) Take any and all other action permitted by law that is customary in or reasonably related to the conduct of the Partnership business or affairs.

If there is more than one General Partner, each General Partner may act separately for the Partnership. In the event of a dispute concerning or regarding a matter or action to be taken, the dispute shall be resolved by a vote of a majority interest of the General Partnership, determined on a percentage basis of general partnership interests owned by each General Partner. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any act of dissolution or an act that could reasonably lead to dissolution shall require the unanimous vote of the General Partners.

Restrictions on Limited Partners

6.02. (a) The Limited Partners take no part in and have no control over the partnership's management and operations. [Optional: Specifically, the Limited Partners have no authority over the amount and timing of cash distributions from the Partnership, initiating partnership expenditures or the sale of partnership assets, or hiring decisions.]

(b) The Limited Partners have no obligation or right to take part, directly or indirectly, in the general, day-to-day conduct of the business of the Partnership, except as otherwise permitted in this Agreement and except for the following:

- (1) Acting as a contractor for or an agent or employee of the Partnership or a General Partner, or an officer, director, or shareholder of a corporate General Partner.
- (2) Consulting with and advising a General Partner with regard to the business of the Partnership.
- (3) Acting as surety for the Partnership or guaranteeing one or more specific debts of the Partnership.
- (4) Approving or disapproving an amendment to this Agreement.

General Partners' Duties of Loyalty and Care General Partners

6.03. (a) The fiduciary duties that a General Partner owes to the Limited Partnership and the other partners are the duties of loyalty and care under Corporations Code Section 15904.08(b), (c).

(b) A General Partner's duty of loyalty to the Limited Partnership and the other partners is limited to the following:

- (1) To account to the Limited Partnership and hold as trustee for it any property, profit, or benefit derived by the General Partner in the conduct and winding up of the Limited Partnership's activities or derived from a use by the General Partner of Limited Partnership property, including the appropriation of a Limited Partnership opportunity.
- (2) To refrain from dealing with the Limited Partnership in the conduct or winding up of the Limited Partnership's activities as or on behalf of a party having an interest adverse to the Limited Partnership.
- (3) To refrain from competing with the Limited Partnership in the conduct or winding up of the Limited Partnership's activities.
- (c) A General Partner's duty of care to the Limited Partnership and the other partners in the conduct and winding up of the Limited Partnership's activities is limited to refraining from engaging in grossly negligent or reckless conduct, intentional misconduct, or a knowing violation of law.
- (d) A General Partner must discharge the duties to the Limited Partnership and the other Partners under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 or this Partnership Agreement and exercise any rights consistently with the obligation of good faith and fair dealing.
- (e) A General Partner does not violate a duty or obligation under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 or this Partnership Agreement merely because the General Partner's conduct furthers the Partner's own interest.

Authority for Use of Nominees

6.04. All Partners recognize that practical difficulties exist in doing business as a Limited Partnership, occasioned by third parties seeking to determine the capacity of the General Partners to act for and on behalf of the Partnership, or for other reasons. Therefore, the Limited Partners specifically authorize the General Partners to acquire all real and personal property, arrange all financing, enter contracts, and complete all other arrangements needed to effectuate the purpose of this Partnership, either in their own names or in the name of a nominee, without having to disclose the existence of this Partnership. If the General Partners decide to transact the Partnership business in their own names or in the name of a nominee, they shall place a written declaration of trust in the Partnership books and records that acknowledges the capacity in which the nominee acts and the name of the Partnership as the true or equitable owner.

Removal of General Partners

6.05. (a) Any General Partner may be removed [optional: only for cause and only] by the affirmative vote of _____ [a majority or specify larger percentage, e.g. 80 percent] in interest, not in number, of the Limited Partners who are not also General Partners. Written notice of a General Partner's removal must be served on that Partner by certified mail. The notice must set forth the day on which the removal is to be effective, and that date may not be less than 30 days after the service of notice on the General Partner. If there is no other remaining General Partner, and the Limited Partners fail to elect a new General Partner pursuant to Section 3.04 of this Agreement within _____ [specify time, e.g., 90 days] after the removal becomes effective, the Partnership will be dissolved and its business wound up and terminated.

(b) If the removal of a General Partner does not cause the dissolution of the Partnership, the General Partner's interest may be purchased pursuant to Sections 10.04 or 10.05 of this Agreement. Otherwise, removal causes that Partner's interest in the Partnership to be converted to that of a Limited Partner. A former General Partner whose interest has been converted to that of a Limited Partner has the same rights and obligations under this Agreement as any other Limited Partner.

Limited Partners' Obligation of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

6.06. Pursuant to Corporations Code Section 15903.05(b), a Limited Partner must discharge the duties to the Limited Partnership and the other Partners under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 or this Partnership Agreement and exercise any rights consistently with the obligation of good faith and fair dealing.

ARTICLE 7 BOOKS, RECORDS, AND ACCOUNTS

Partnership Accounting Practices

7.01. (a) The Partnership books shall be kept on a _____ [cash or accrual] basis. The Partnership books shall be closed and balanced and audited by an independent certified public accountant at the end of each fiscal year of the Partnership.

(b) The fiscal year of the Partnership _____ [is the calendar year or ends on the last day of _____ (specify month, e.g., June) of each calendar year or will be determined by the General Partners or specify other fiscal year].

Maintenance of Records and Accounts

7.02. At all times, the General Partners must maintain or cause to be maintained true and proper books, records, reports, and accounts in which all Partnership transactions will be entered fully and accurately. The books and records of the Partnership will be kept, and the financial position and the results of its operations recorded, in accordance with the accounting methods followed for federal income tax purposes.

Required Records

7.03. In accordance with Corporations Code Section 15901.11, the Partnership must maintain at its designated office the following information:

- (1) A current list showing the full name and last known street and mailing address of each Partner, separately identifying the General Partners, in alphabetical order, and the Limited Partners, in alphabetical order.
- (2) A copy of the initial certificate of limited partnership, and all amendments to and restatements of the certificate, together with signed copies of any powers of attorney under which any certificate, amendments, or restatement has been signed.
- (3) A copy of any filed certificate of conversion or merger.
- (4) A copy of the limited partnership's federal, state, and local income tax returns and reports, if any, for the six most recent years.

- (5) A copy of any partnership agreement made in a record, and any amendment made in a record to any partnership agreement.
- (6) A copy of any financial statement of the Limited Partnership for the six most recent years.
- (7) A copy of any record made by the Limited Partnership during past three years of any consent given by or vote taken of any Partner pursuant to the ULPA '08 or partnership agreement.
- (8) Unless contained in a partnership agreement made in a record, a record stating:
- (a) The amount of cash, and a description and statement of the agreed value of the other benefits, contributed and agreed to be contributed by each Partner;
  - (b) The times at which or events upon which additional contributions agreed to be made by each Partner are to be made;
  - (c) For any person that is both a General Partner and a Limited Partner, specification of what transferable interest the person owns in each capacity; and
  - (d) Any events upon which the Limited Partnership will be dissolved and its activities wound up.

Limited Partners' Right to Required Information

7.04. Pursuant to Corporations Code Section 15903.04(a), a Limited Partner may, on 10 days' demand pursuant to a record received by the Limited Partnership, inspect and copy any information required to be maintained pursuant to Corp. Code § 15901.11, specified in Paragraph 7.03 above, during regular business hours in the partnership's designated office. The Limited Partner need not have any particular purpose for seeking this information.

Access to Other Records by Limited Partners

7.05. Pursuant to Corporations Code Section 15903.04(b), a Limited Partner may, during regular business hours and at a reasonable location specified by the Limited Partnership, obtain from the Limited Partnership and inspect and copy true and full information regarding the state of the activities and financial condition of the Limited Partnership and other information regarding its activities that is just and reasonable if:

- (1) The Limited Partner seeks the information for a purpose reasonably related to the partner's interest as a Limited Partner;
- (2) The Limited Partner makes a demand in a record received by the Limited Partnership, describing with reasonable particularity the information sought and the purpose for seeking the information; and
- (3) The information sought is directly connected to the Limited Partner's purpose.

Pursuant to Corporations Code Section 15903.04(c), within 10 days after receiving a demand, the Limited Partnership, in a record, must inform the Limited Partner that made the demand:

- (1) What information the Limited Partnership will provide in response to the demand;

- (2) When and where the Limited Partnership will provide the information; and
- (3) If the Limited Partnership declines to provide any demanded information, the partnership's reasons for declining.

Amendments to Agreement

7.06. The General Partner(s) will promptly furnish any Limited Partner who executed a power of attorney authorizing a General Partner to execute an amendment to this Agreement with a copy of any amendment to this Agreement executed by a General Partner pursuant to that power of attorney. As used in this Section, the term "promptly" means _____ [specify, e.g., within 5 business days] after the execution of the amendment.

[For a power of attorney, see § 68A.220.]

Income Tax Data

7.07. The General Partner(s) will send to each Partner, within _____ [specify period] after the end of each taxable year, such information as is necessary for each Partner to complete his or her federal and state income tax or information returns.

Partnership Tax or Information Returns

7.08 The General Partner(s) will send to each Partner a copy of the Partnership's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns for each taxable year within _____ [specify period] days after the end of each taxable year.

Capital Accounts

7.09. The Partnership will establish and maintain individual Capital Accounts for each General Partner and Limited Partner in accordance with the Partnership's method of accounting, I.R.C. § 704(b), the regulations thereunder, and the following provisions:

- (1) The fair market value of a Partner's initial capital contribution to the Partnership; any additional contributions to the Partnership, such as a Partner's distributive share of profits; any amounts transferred to the Capital Account from that Partner's income account pursuant to this Agreement; and the amount of any Partnership liabilities assumed by the Partner will be credited to each Partner's Capital Account.
- (2) Each Partner's Capital Account will be debited for the amount of cash and the fair market value of any property distributed to the Partner pursuant to this Agreement, the Partner's distributive share of losses, and the amount of any liabilities of the Partner that are assumed by the Partnership or that are secured by property contributed by the Partner to the Partnership.
- (3) The Capital Account also includes a pro rata share of the fair market value of any property contributed to the Partnership by a nonpartner.
- (4) If the Partnership makes a non-pro rata distribution to any Partner, the Capital Accounts of the other Partners will be adjusted to reflect the fair market value of Partnership assets immediately before the capital distribution.

(5) If any Partnership Interest is transferred in accordance with this Agreement, the transferee succeeds to the Capital Account of the transferor, to the extent of the transferred interest.

Income Accounts

7.10. An individual income account will be maintained for each Partner. At the close of each _____ [specify accounting period, e.g., fiscal year], each Partner's share of the net profits or net losses of the Partnership will be credited or debited to, and that Partner's distributions received during each fiscal year will be deducted from, that Partner's income account, and any resulting balance or deficit shall be transferred to or charged against that Partner's Capital Account, as defined in Section 7.09 of this Agreement.

Banking

7.11. The General Partner(s) will open and maintain a separate bank account in the name of the Partnership with _____ [name of bank], in which there shall be deposited all of the funds of the Partnership. No other funds may be deposited in the account. The funds in that account must be used solely for the business of the Partnership, and all withdrawals from that account are to be made only on checks signed by _____ [any of the General Partners or all of the General Partners or any other person or persons whom the General Partners may designate from time to time].

ARTICLE 8

RIGHTS, POWERS, DUTIES, AND RESTRICTIONS OF PARTNERS

General Partners' Exclusive Right to Manage

8.01. The General Partners have full and exclusive charge and control of the management, conduct, and operation of the Partnership in all matters and respects. In the event of a dispute concerning or regarding a matter or action to be taken, the dispute shall be resolved by a vote of a majority interest of the General Partners, determined on a percentage basis of general partnership interests owned by each General Partner. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any act of dissolution or an act that could reasonably lead to dissolution shall require the unanimous vote of the General Partners.

Devotion of Time by General Partner(s)

8.02. The General Partner(s) must devote _____ [his/her/their entire care, attention, and business capacity to the affairs of the Partnership or the level of care, attention, and business capacity to the affairs of the Partnership as may be reasonably necessary]. [Consider adding the following sentence if the second alternative in the previous sentence is used: In this connection, the Partners acknowledge that any General Partner may be the Manager or General Partner of other partnerships and may continue to manage other partnerships, and may continue to engage in other _____ [specify types of businesses, e.g., distinct or related businesses, whether or not competitive with the business of the Partnership].

Voting Rights of General Partners

8.03. All General Partners have equal rights in the management and conduct of the Partnership business. Any difference arising with regard to the ordinary course of the Partnership business will be decided by a majority of the General Partners.

[See § 68A.213 for form restricting authority of general partners.]

Restrictions on General Partner(s)

8.04. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, each/the General Partner is subject to all the restrictions imposed on General Partners by the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.], and has all the rights and powers granted to General Partners under those statutes.

Compensation of General Partners

8.05. The General Partner(s) shall be entitled to reasonable annual compensation for [his/her/their] services to the Partnership. This compensation will be deducted by the Partnership as an ordinary and necessary expense of the Partnership business before determination of net profits or cash available for distribution.

Voting Rights of Limited Partners

8.06. (a) In addition to any other voting rights granted the Limited Partners under this Agreement, the Limited Partners have the right to vote on the following matters _____ [specify e.g.]:

- (1) The dissolution and winding up of the Partnership, pursuant to Section 13.02;
- (2) The merger of the Partnership or the sale, exchange, lease, mortgage, pledge, or other transfer of, or granting a security interest in, all or a substantial part of the assets of the Partnership other than in the ordinary course of its business;
- (3) The incurring of indebtedness by the Partnership other than in the ordinary course of its business;
- (4) A change in the nature of the Partnership's business;
- (5) Transactions in which the General Partners have an actual or potential conflict of interest either with the Limited Partners or the Partnership;
- (6) An election to continue the business of the Partnership when a General Partner ceases to be a General Partner and no General Partner remains.

(b) All of the actions specified in Subparagraph (a) of this Section 8.06 of this Agreement may be taken following the vote of _____ [specify voting margin, e.g., a majority in interest of the Limited Partners].

(c) The Limited Partners have the right to vote on the admission of an additional General Partner. Except as specifically provided in Subparagraphs (d) and (e) of this Section 8.06 or any other provision of this Agreement, the admission of an additional General Partner may be accomplished on the affirmative vote of _____ [a majority in interest of the Limited Partners or provide for vote by greater than majority in interest of limited partners].

(d) The Limited Partners have the right to vote on an election to continue the business of the Partnership and the admission of one or more General Partners after all General Partners have ceased to be General Partners. These actions may only be taken on the approval by a majority of the Limited Partners.

(e) The Limited Partners have the right to vote on any other matters related to the business of the Partnership that are made subject to the approval or disapproval of the Limited Partners by this Agreement.

Loans to the Partnership

8.07. Nothing in this Agreement prevents a Partner from lending money to the Partnership on a promissory note or similar evidence of indebtedness for a reasonable rate of interest. Any Partner lending money to the Partnership has the same rights and risks regarding the loan as would any person or entity making the loan who was not a member of the Partnership.

Transaction of Business With Partnership

8.08. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, a Partner _____ [_____ (may or may not) transact other business with the Partnership or may transact only the following types of business with the Partnership: _____ (specify)]. If any Partner transacts business with the Partnership, that Partner has the same rights and obligations with regard to the Partnership as a person who is not a Partner.

[Optional: Add if Section 8.02 does not prohibit general partners from engaging in other businesses (see § 68A.215):]

Partners Engaging in Other Business

8.09. Except as otherwise provided in Section 8.02 of this Agreement, any of the Partners may engage in or possess an interest in other business ventures of every nature and description independently or with others, including but not limited to _____ [specify types of business]. Neither the Partnership nor the Partners have any right by virtue of this Agreement in and to any independent ventures or to the income or profits derived from them.

[Continue with the following. The ULPA '08 does not contain default provisions regarding partnership meetings; the following provisions are suggestions only.]

ARTICLE 9 PARTNERSHIP MEETINGS

Call and Place of Meetings

9.01. (a) Meetings of the Partners will be held at _____ [the Principal Executive Office of the Partnership or at any place selected by the person or persons calling the meeting or specify place of meeting within or outside California] at the call and pursuant to the written request of the General Partners, or of Limited Partners representing more than _____ [specify, e.g., 10 percent of the interests of Limited Partners], for consideration of any of the matters as to which Limited Partners are entitled to vote pursuant to Section 8.06 of this Agreement.

(b) The Partners may participate in a meeting through the use of conference telephones (or similar communications equipment), providing that all Partners participating in the meeting can hear one another. Participation in this type of telephone meeting constitutes presence in person at the meeting.

(c) Partners must also meet annually by _____ [specify calendar date by which annual meeting must take place].

Notice of Meeting

9.02. In the case of a meeting pursuant to Section 9.01, subsection (a), of this Agreement, immediately on receipt of a written request stating that the Partner or Partners request a meeting on a specific date (which date shall not be less than 10 nor more than 60 days after the receipt of the request by the General Partner(s)), or in the case of each annual meeting pursuant to Section 9.01, subsection (c), of this Agreement, the General Partner(s) must give notice of the meeting to all Partners entitled to vote, as determined in accordance with Section 14.01 of this Agreement. Valid notice may not be given less than 10 nor more than 60 days before the date of the meeting. The notice must state the place, date, and hour of the meeting and the general nature of the business to be transacted. No business other than the business stated in the notice of the meeting may be transacted at the meeting. Notice must be given _____ [personally or by mail or specify other means of written communication], addressed to each Partner entitled to vote at the meeting at the address for the Partner appearing on the books of the Partnership.

Quorum

9.03. At any duly held or called meeting of Partners, a _____ [majority in interest or specify other percentage, e.g., 75 percent] of the Limited Partners represented [in person or by proxy or in person] constitutes a quorum. The Partners present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough Partners to leave less than a quorum, if any action taken, other than adjournment, is approved by the requisite percentage of interests of Limited Partners.

Adjournment of Meetings

9.04. A Partnership meeting at which a quorum is present may be adjourned to another time or place, and any business that might have been transacted at the original meeting may be transacted at the adjourned meeting. If a quorum is not present at an original meeting, that meeting may be adjourned by the vote of a majority of the interests represented either in person or by proxy. Notice of the adjourned meeting need not be given to Partners entitled to notice if the time and place of the adjourned meeting are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken, unless (1) the adjournment is for more than 45 days, or (2) after the adjournment, a new record date is fixed for the adjourned meeting, in which case notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each Partner of record entitled to vote at the adjourned meeting.

Meetings Not Duly Called, Noticed, or Held

9.05. The transactions of any meeting of Partners, however called and noticed, and wherever held, shall be as valid as though consummated at a meeting duly held after regular call and notice, if a quorum is present at that meeting, either in person or by proxy, and if, either before or after the meeting, each of the persons entitled to vote, not present in person or by proxy, signs either a written waiver of notice as defined in Section 9.06 of this Agreement, a consent to the holding of the meeting as defined in Section 9.07 of this Agreement, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting.

Waiver of Notice

9.06. Attendance of a Partner at a meeting constitutes waiver of notice, except when that Partner objects, at the beginning of the meeting, to the transaction of any business on the ground that the meeting was not lawfully called or convened. Attendance at a meeting is not a waiver of any right to object to the consideration of matters required to be described in the notice of the meeting and not so included, if the objection is expressly made at the meeting. Any partner approval at a meeting (other than unanimous approval by Limited Partners of an election to continue the business of the Partnership after the retirement, death, or adjudication of incompetence of a General Partner) is valid only if the general nature of the proposal is stated in any written waiver of notice.

Consent to Action Without Meeting

9.07. Any action that may be taken at any meeting of the Partners may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, is signed by Partners having not less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take that action at a meeting at which all Partners entitled to vote on the matter were present and voted. If the Limited Partners are requested to consent to a matter without a meeting, each Partner shall be given notice of the matter to be voted on in the manner described in Section 9.02. If any General Partner, or Limited Partners representing more than 10 percent of the interests of the Limited Partners, requests a meeting for the purpose of discussing or voting on the matter so noticed, notice of a meeting shall be given pursuant to Section 9.02, and no action may be taken until the meeting is held. Unless delayed by a request for and the conduct of a meeting, any action taken without a meeting is effective 15 days after the required minimum number of voters have signed consents to action without a meeting; however, the action is effective immediately if all General Partners and Limited Partners representing at least 90 percent of the interests of the Limited Partners sign consents to the action without a meeting.

Proxies

9.08. (a) Every Partner entitled to vote may authorize another person or persons to act by proxy with regard to that Partner's interest in the Partnership.

(b) Any proxy purporting to have been executed in accordance with Section 9.08 of this Agreement is presumptively valid.

(c) No proxy is valid after the expiration of 11 months from the date of the proxy unless otherwise provided in the proxy. Subject to Subparagraphs (f) and (g) of this Section 9.08, every proxy continues in full force and effect until revoked by the person executing it. The dates contained on the proxy forms presumptively determine the order of execution, regardless of the postmark dates on the envelopes in which they are mailed.

(d) A proxy is not revoked by the death or incapacity of the person executing it, unless (except as provided in Subparagraph (f) of this Section 9.08), before the vote is counted, written notice of the death or incapacity of the maker is received by the Partnership.

(e) Revocation of a proxy is effected by a writing delivered to the Partnership stating that the proxy is revoked or by a subsequent proxy executed by the Partner who executed the original proxy or, as to any meeting, by the attendance and exercise of the right to vote at that meeting by the Partner who executed the proxy.

(f) A proxy that states that it is irrevocable is irrevocable for the period specified in the proxy when it is held by any creditor or creditors of the Partnership or the Partner who extended or continued credit to the Partnership or the Partner in consideration of the proxy, if the proxy states that it was given in consideration of that credit and also states the name of the person extending or continuing credit. In addition, a proxy may be made irrevocable (notwithstanding Subparagraph (d) of this Section 9.08) if it is given to secure the performance of a duty or to protect a title, either legal or equitable, until the happening of events that, by its terms, discharge the obligations secured by it.

(g) Notwithstanding the period of irrevocability specified in the proxy as provided in Subparagraph (f) of this Section 9.08, the proxy becomes revocable when the debt of the Partnership or Partner is paid.

(h) A proxy may be revoked, notwithstanding a provision making it irrevocable, by the assignment of the interest in the Partnership of the Partner who executed the proxy to an assignee without knowledge of the existence of the proxy and the admission of that assignee to the Partnership as a Partner.

(i) The General Partner(s) may, in advance of any Partnership meeting, prescribe additional regulations concerning the manner of execution and filing of proxies and their validation.

ARTICLE 10

TRANSFER OF INTERESTS

Conditions for Transfer

10.01. A Limited Partner may sell, assign, transfer, encumber, or otherwise dispose of an interest in the Partnership subject to the provisions of this Article 10.

Permitted Transfers

10.02. (a) If a Limited Partner receives a bona fide offer for the purchase of all or a part of that Limited Partner's interest in the Partnership, that Limited Partner must either refuse that offer or give the General Partners written notice setting out full details of that offer. The notice must specify, among other things, the name of the offeror, the percentage of interest in the Partnership covered by the offer, the terms of payment, whether for cash or credit and, if on credit, the time and interest rate, as well as all other consideration being received or paid in connection with the proposed transaction, and all other terms, conditions, and details of the offer.

(b) On receipt of the notice with regard to that offer, the General Partner(s) [has/have] the exclusive right and option, exercisable at any time during a period of 30 days from the date of the notice, to purchase the interest in the Partnership covered by the offer in question at the same price and on the same terms and conditions of the offer as set out in the notice. If the General Partner(s) decide(s) to exercise the option, the General Partner(s) must give written notice to that effect to the Limited Partner desiring to sell, and the sale and purchase must be consummated within 30 days. If the General Partner(s) [does/do] not elect to exercise [his/her/their] option or waive(s) [his/her/their] rights in writing, the selling Limited Partner must be so notified in writing and, subject to any prohibitions or restrictions on transfer imposed by the General Partner(s) for purposes of compliance with applicable securities law, is free to sell the interest in the Partnership covered by the offer, if the sale is consummated within 90 days, or the interest once again becomes subject to the restrictions of this Article 10 of this Agreement. The sale, if permitted, must be made strictly on the terms and conditions and to the person described in the required notice.

(c) If the General Partner(s) fail(s) to purchase all of the portion of the selling Limited Partner's interest in the Partnership specified in the notice to the General Partner(s) provided in Section 10.02 of this Agreement, the General Partner(s) shall, at the expiration of _____ [number] days after receipt by the General Partner(s) of that notice, transmit a copy of the notice to each of the remaining Limited Partners. Each of the remaining Limited Partners shall have _____ [number] days after the mailing of that notice to serve on the General Partner(s) notice in writing of that Limited Partner's intention to purchase (on the terms and conditions set forth in the selling Partner's notice) that portion of the selling Partner's interest as the offering Partner's interest in the _____ [profits or capital] of the Partnership bears to the total interest of all _____ [profits or capital] of the Partnership. Provided, however, if any Limited Partner fails to purchase a proportionate share of the interest offered by the selling Partner, notice of that fact shall be given to each Limited Partner by the General Partner(s), and the interest may be purchased by any one or more of the other Limited Partners.

(d) Any assignment made to anyone, not already a Partner, is effective only to give the assignee the right to receive distributions, and allocations of income, gain, loss, deduction, credit, or similar items to which the assignor would otherwise be entitled does not relieve the assignor from liability under any agreement to make additional contributions to capital; does not relieve the assignor from liability under the provisions of this Agreement; and does not give the assignee the right to become a substituted Limited Partner. Neither the General Partners nor the Partnership are required to determine the tax consequences to a Limited Partner or the Limited Partner's assignee, arising from the assignment of a Limited Partnership interest. The Partnership will continue with the same basis and Capital Account for the assignee as was attributable to the former owner who assigned the Limited Partnership interest. The Partnership interest of the General Partner(s) cannot be voluntarily assigned or transferred except pursuant to Section 10.04 of this Agreement or when the transfer occurs by operation of law.

Death, Bankruptcy, or Incompetence of Limited Partner

10.03. If any Limited Partner dies or is adjudged incompetent or bankrupt by any court of competent jurisdiction, the remaining General and Limited Partners have an option to purchase the Partnership interest of that Limited Partner by paying to the person legally entitled to that interest, within _____ [number] days after the date of death or the adjudication of incompetency or bankruptcy, the fair market value of that Partnership interest as determined by an appraiser. Each remaining General and Limited Partner has the right to purchase that proportionate part of the deceased, incompetent, or bankrupt Limited Partner's interest in the Partnership as the remaining Partner's interest in the _____ [profits or capital] of the Partnership bears to the total interest of all _____ [profits or capital] of the Partnership. Provided, however, if any remaining General or Limited Partner fails to purchase a proportionate share of the interest offered by the selling Partner, notice of that fact must be given to each General and Limited Partner, and it may be purchased by any one or more of the remaining General or Limited Partners.

Option to Buy Terminated Interest of General Partner

10.04. When any General Partner ceases to be a General Partner, the remaining General Partner(s) may continue the Partnership business and may purchase the interest of that General Partner ("the withdrawing General Partner") in the assets and goodwill of the Partnership. The remaining General Partner(s) [has/have] an option, exercisable by [him/her/them] at any time within _____ [number] days after the date on which the withdrawing General Partner ceases to be a General Partner, to purchase the withdrawing General Partner's interest by paying to the person legally entitled the value of that interest determined as provided in Section 10.06 of this Agreement.

Sale to New General Partner

10.05. When any General Partner ceases to be a General Partner, and the remaining General Partner(s) _____ [is or are] unable or unwilling to exercise the option provided for in Section 10.04 of this Agreement, the interest of the withdrawing General Partner may be purchased by a new General Partner during the option period set forth in Section 10.04 of this Agreement, on admission of the new General Partner to the Partnership and on payment of the value of that interest determined as provided in Section 10.06 of this Agreement.

Purchase Price for General Partner's Interest

10.06. The value of the interest of a withdrawing General Partner, for the purposes of Section 10.04 of this Agreement, is the fair market value of that interest as determined by appraisal as of the date on which the General Partner ceased to be a General Partner of the Partnership. The withdrawing General Partner shall also be entitled to the General Partner's distributive share of any net profits earned by the Partnership up to the date on which the withdrawing General Partner ceased to be a General Partner of the Partnership if that amount is disregarded in determining the fair market value of the General Partner's interest.

Duties of Remaining General Partners

10.07. On the purchase and sale of a withdrawing General Partner's interest, the remaining General Partners will assume all obligations of the Partnership and shall hold the withdrawing General Partner, the personal representative and estate of the withdrawing General Partner, and the property of the withdrawing General Partner free and harmless from all liability for those obligations. Further, the remaining General Partners, at their own expense, must immediately amend the Certificate of Limited Partnership as required by the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq.], and cause to be prepared, executed, acknowledged, filed, served, and published all other notices required by law to protect the withdrawing General Partner or the personal representative and estate of the withdrawing General Partner from all liability for the future obligations of the Partnership business.

ARTICLE 11 LIABILITIES OF PARTNERS

Liability of General Partners

11.01. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, the liability of the General Partner(s) arising from the conduct of the business affairs or operations of the Partnership or for the debts of the Partnership is unrestricted.

Liability of Limited Partners

11.02. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the liability of the Limited Partners is restricted and limited to the amount of the actual capital contributions each Limited Partner makes or agrees to make to the Partnership. No Limited Partner is personally liable for any debt, obligation, or liability of the Partnership. [Optional: The Limited Partners may not be required to pay to the Partnership or to any other Partner any deficit or negative balance that may periodically exist in their respective Capital Accounts (as defined in Section 7.09 of this Agreement) as a result of any allocation made in accordance with this Agreement.]

ARTICLE 12

PROHIBITED TRANSACTIONS

Specified Acts

12.01. During the time of the organization or continuance of this Partnership, neither the General nor Limited Partners may take, and the Partners specifically promise not to do, any of the following actions:

- (1) Use the name of the Partnership (or any substantially similar name) or any trademark or trade name adopted by the Partnership, except in the ordinary course of the Partnership business.
- (2) Disclose to any nonpartner any of the Partnership business practices, trade secrets, or any other information not generally known to the business community.
- (3) Do any other act or deed with the intention of harming the business operations of the Partnership.
- (4) Do any act contrary to this Agreement, except with the prior express written approval of all Partners.
- (5) Do any act that would make it impossible to carry on the intended or ordinary business of the Partnership.
- (6) Confess a judgment against the Partnership.
- (7) Abandon or transfer or dispose of real or personal Partnership property.

Use of Partnership Assets

12.02. The General Partner(s) may not use, and specifically promise(s) not to use, directly or indirectly, the assets of this Partnership for any purpose other than conducting the business of the Partnership, for the full and exclusive benefit of all its Partners.

ARTICLE 13

DISSOLUTION OF THE PARTNERSHIP

Dissolution and Winding Up

13.01. The Partnership will be dissolved, and its affairs will be wound up, on the expiration of the term provided for the existence of the Partnership in Section 1.04 of this Agreement or on the occurrence of any of the events specified in Sections 13.02 through 13.05 of this Agreement, whichever is the first to occur.

Dissolution by Consent

13.02. The Partnership will be dissolved on any date specified in a consent to dissolution signed by all of the General Partners and a majority in interest of the Limited Partners.

Dissolution on Loss of General Partner

13.03. (a) The Partnership will dissolve and its affairs will be wound up when a General Partner ceases to be a General Partner under this Agreement, unless (1) at the time there is at least one other General Partner and the remaining General Partner, or all the General Partners if more than one remains, continue the business of the Partnership, or (2) if no General Partner remains, the Limited Partners take the actions described in Subparagraph (b) of Section 13.03 of this Agreement.

(b) If a General Partner ceases to be a General Partner and there is no remaining General Partner, the Partnership will dissolve and its affairs will be wound up unless _____ [specify a majority or specify a greater percentage] in interest of the Limited Partners agree in writing to continue the business of the Partnership and admit one or more new General Partner(s) within _____ [specify, e.g., 90 days] after the last remaining General Partner ceased to be a General Partner. [Optional: The Limited Partners agree to make _____ (best or all reasonable) efforts to select and admit a new general partner within that period.]

Dissolution on Sale or Disposition of Assets

13.04. The Partnership will be dissolved and its affairs wound up when its assets are sold or otherwise disposed of and the only property of the Partnership consists of cash available for distribution to the Partners, and there are no reasonably current plans to reinvest that cash; provided, however, that a disposition of the Partnership's assets shall require the consent of all General Partners and a majority in interest of the Limited Partners.

Dissolution by Judicial Decree

13.05. The Partnership will be dissolved and its affairs wound up when required by a decree of judicial dissolution entered under Corp. Code § 15908.02.

Winding Up

13.06. After dissolution, the Limited Partnership continues only for the purpose of winding up its activities. Pursuant to Corporations Code Section 15908.03, in winding up, the Limited Partnership may: amend its certificate of limited partnership to state that the partnership is dissolved; preserve the Limited Partnership business or property as a going concern for a reasonable time; prosecute and defend actions and proceedings, whether civil, criminal, or administrative; transfer the Limited Partnership's property; settle disputes by mediation or arbitration; file a certificate of cancellation; and perform other necessary acts. In winding up, it must discharge the Limited Partnership's liabilities, settle and close its activities, and marshal and distribute its assets.

If there is no General Partner, a person to wind up may be appointed by the consent of Limited Partners owning a majority of the rights to receive distributions as limited partners at the time the consent is to be effective. The person so appointed has the powers of a General Partner under Corporations Code Section 15908.04, and must promptly amend the certificate of limited partnership to state: that the partnership does not have a General Partner, the name of the person appointed to wind it up, and the address of that person. If one or more Limited Partners wind up the affairs of the Partnership, those Limited Partners [are or are not] entitled to reasonable compensation.

Liquidation and Distribution

13.07. The person or persons responsible for winding up the affairs of the Partnership pursuant to Section 13.06 of this Agreement will take full account of the Partnership assets and liabilities, liquidating the assets of the Partnership as promptly as is consistent with obtaining the fair value of those assets, and applying and distributing the proceeds in the following order:

(1) To creditors of the Partnership, including Partners who are creditors to the extent permitted by law, in satisfaction of liabilities of the Partnership other than liabilities for any of the following:

(a) Distributions owing to Partners before their withdrawal from the Partnership and before the dissolution and winding up of the Partnership.

(b) Distributions owing to Partners on their withdrawal from the Partnership.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, to Partners and former Partners in satisfaction of liabilities for distributions owing to them before their withdrawal from the Partnership and before dissolution and winding up of the Partnership and on their withdrawal from the Partnership.

(3) To the Partners in accordance with the provisions set forth in this Agreement for the distribution of the assets of the Partnership.

Cancellation of Certificate of Limited Partnership

13.08. On completion of the winding up of the Partnership's affairs, _____ [all or specify lesser number] of the General Partners must execute and file in the office of the Secretary of State a certificate of cancellation of the Certificate of Limited Partnership. If the Limited Partners are winding up the Partnership's affairs pursuant to Section 13.06 of this Agreement, the person authorized by a majority in interest of the Limited Partners must execute and file the certificate of cancellation of the Certificate of Limited Partnership.

ARTICLE 14 RECORD DATES

Setting Record Date for Meetings

14.01. The record date for determining the Partners entitled to notice of meetings, the right to vote at any meeting, or the right to take any other lawful action with regard to a meeting or the conduct of a vote by the Partners is the date set by _____ [the General Partners or the Limited Partners representing more than 10 percent of the Limited Partners' interests or both the General Partners and the Limited Partners representing more than 10 percent of the Limited Partners' interests]. However, the record date may not be more than 60 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting nor more than 60 days before any other action.

Setting Record Date for Distributions

14.02. The record date for determining the Partners entitled to any distribution or the right to take any other lawful action will be _____ [specify date or time in relation to the action, e.g., 10 days before that date]; however that date may not be more than 60 days before any such action.

Automatic Record Date

14.03. In the absence of any action setting a record date, the record date will be determined as follows:

- (1) The record date for determining the Partners entitled to notice of, or to vote at, meetings will be at the close of business on the business day preceding the day on which notice is given, or, if notice is waived, at the close of business on business day preceding the day on which meeting is held.
- (2) The record date for determining Partners entitled to give consent to Partnership action in writing without a meeting is the day on which the first written consent is given.
- (3) The record date for determining Partners for any other purpose is at the close of business on the day on which the General Partners adopt the record date or the 60th day before the date of action relating to that other purpose, whichever is later.
- (4) The record date for adjourned meetings is the record date set in determining the Partners entitled to notice of, or to vote at, the original meeting; however, the Partners who called that meeting may fix a new record date for the adjourned meeting and must fix a new record date if the meeting is adjourned for more than 45 days from the date set for the original meeting.

ARTICLE 15
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS*Entire Agreement

15.01. This Agreement contains the entire understanding among the Partners and supersedes any prior written or oral agreements between them regarding the subject matter contained in this Agreement. There are no representations, agreements, arrangements, or understandings, oral or written, between and among the Partners relating to the subject matter of this Agreement that are not fully expressed in this Agreement.

Binding Effect

15.02. Subject to the provisions of this Agreement relating to transferability, this Agreement is binding on and inures to the benefit of the Partners, and their respective assigns, successors in interest, personal representatives, estates, heirs, and legatees of each of the Partners.

Amendments

15.03. (a) Subject to Subparagraph (b) of Section 15.03 of this Agreement, the provisions of this Agreement may be amended by [the vote of a majority in interest of the Limited Partners and the unanimous consent of the General Partners or the unanimous consent of the Limited Partners or specify other percentage]. Any amendment of this Agreement must be in writing, dated, and executed by all Partners. If any conflict arises between the provisions of any amendment and the original Agreement as previously amended, the most recent provisions control. [Optional; do not use if inconsistent with any voting requirements specified elsewhere in agreement: No amendment shall, without the unanimous consent of all Partners, modify the Partnership interests of the Partners or the allocation of profits or losses or distributions, change the compensation provided for the General Partners, or amend this Section.]

(b) The provisions of this Agreement governing the right of the Limited Partners to vote on the admission of a General Partner or an election to continue the business of the Partnership after a General Partner ceases to be a General Partner and there is no remaining or surviving General Partner, may not be amended. [Add, if desired: Any other provisions of this Agreement that provide for the voting rights of Limited Partners may be amended only on a _____ (specify voting margin, e.g., unanimous) vote of the Limited Partners.]

Attorneys' Fees

15.04. If any dispute between the Partnership and the Partners or among the Partners results in litigation or arbitration, the prevailing party is entitled to recover from the other party all reasonable fees, costs, and expenses of enforcing any right of the prevailing party, including without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses.

Notices

15.05. All notices must be in writing, which may include facsimile. Notice will be deemed to have been given and received when delivered to the Partners at the addresses shown for them in the records of the Partnership. All notices to the Partnership must be delivered to the Partnership at its [principal place of business or principal executive office] in California. Partners may designate another address in substitution of the addresses shown for them in the records of the Partnership for notice by giving [specify, e.g., 5 days] prior written notice to the Partnership.

Mediation and Arbitration

15.06. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, all disputes arising out of, or relating to, this Agreement or breach of this Agreement will be settled by mediation, or by arbitration conducted pursuant to Part III, Title 9 of the California Code of Civil Procedure, Sections 1280 et seq., before [specify, e.g., a single arbitrator] in [location], California. Before commencing arbitration, the parties must attempt in good faith to settle the dispute by mediation. Any matter not resolved by mediation must be submitted to [specify, e.g., the American Arbitration Association for arbitration in San Francisco, California].

(b) All costs of the arbitration, including but not limited to the arbitrator's fee, any administration fees, and the costs for use of the facilities during the arbitration proceedings, will be borne equally by the parties to the arbitration.

(c) The arbitrator has discretion to award reasonable attorney's fees to the prevailing party (or the most prevailing party).

(d) The arbitrator does not have any authority to alter, amend, or modify any of the terms of this Agreement, and may not grant any remedy that is either barred by the terms of this Agreement or not available in a court of law.

Exhibits

15.07. All Exhibits attached to this Agreement are incorporated and will be treated as if set forth in the body of this Agreement.

Additional Instruments and Acts

15.08. Each Partner agrees to execute and deliver additional documents and instruments, and to perform whatever acts may be necessary or appropriate to effectuate and perform all of the terms, provisions, and conditions of this Agreement and the transactions contemplated by this Agreement.

Reliance on Person Signing Agreement

15.09. If a Partner is not a natural person, neither the Partnership nor any individual Partners are (1) required to determine the authority of the individual signing this Agreement to make any commitment or undertaking on behalf of the entity that is the Partner that is not a natural person, or any fact or circumstance bearing on the existence of the authority of that individual, or (2) responsible for the application or distribution of proceeds paid or credited to individuals signing this Agreement on behalf of that entity.

No Interest in Partnership Property

15.10. No Partner has any interest in any specific property of the Partnership. Each Partner irrevocably waives for the term of the Partnership any right to maintain any action for partition with respect to Partnership property.

Time Is of the Essence

15.11. All dates and times stated in this Agreement are of the essence.

Cumulative Remedies

15.12. All remedies under this Agreement are cumulative and do not exclude any other remedies provided by law.

Governing Law

15.13. All questions with regard to the construction of this Agreement and the rights and liabilities of the parties will be governed by the laws of the State of California.

Severability

15.14. If any provisions of this Agreement or the application of any provision to any person or circumstance are declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remainder of this Agreement or the application of that provision to persons or circumstances other than those to which it is held invalid continue in full force and effect.

Execution by Spouses

15.15. This Agreement is executed by the Partners and by the spouses of Partners when those spouses are not themselves Partners. The signature of a spouse who is not a Partner may not be construed as making that spouse a Partner or as imposing on that spouse any responsibility for any Partnership obligation, but merely as recording that spouse's consent to the execution by his or her spouse of this Agreement and to all of its terms and conditions to the extent that community property interests, if any, may be involved.

Consent of Spouses

[For separate spousal consent form, see § 68A.217.]

15.16. Within [specify, e.g., 10 days] after any individual becomes a Partner or a Partner marries, that Partner will have _____ [his or her] spouse execute a consent form (1) acknowledging that the spouse has read the Agreement; (2) consenting to any sale of that interest pursuant to the Agreement; and (3) promising to take no action to hinder the operation of the Agreement on the Partner's interest, or any interest that the spouse might have in that Partner's interest.

Election of Adjusted Basis

15.17. In the event of a transfer of all or part of the interest of a Limited Partner, the General Partners may elect, on behalf of the Partnership, to adjust the basis of the Partnership property pursuant to Section 754 of the Internal Revenue Code. All other elections required or permitted to be made by the Partnership under the Internal Revenue Code must be made by the General Partners in whatever manner as will, in their opinion, be most advantageous to a majority in interest of the Limited Partners. Each Partner agrees to supply the Partnership with all necessary and proper information in order to effectuate any tax election.

Counterparts

15.18. This Agreement may be executed in several counterparts and all counterparts so executed constitute one agreement that is binding on all of the parties, notwithstanding that all of the parties are not signatory to the original or the same counterpart.

Headings

15.19. The headings preceding the Sections of this Agreement are for convenience of reference only, are not a part of this Agreement, and are to be disregarded in the interpretation of any portion of this Agreement.

Pronouns

15.20. All pronouns and variations are deemed to refer to the masculine, feminine, or neuter, singular or plural, as the context in which they are used requires.

Statutory References

15.21. Any reference to the Internal Revenue Code, the Treasury Regulations, the Act, the California Corporations Code, the California Code of Civil Procedure or other statutes includes all amendments, modifications, or replacements of the specific sections and provisions concerned.

Other Instruments

15.22. The parties to this Agreement covenant and agree that they shall execute all other instruments and documents that are or may become necessary or convenient to effectuate and carry out the Partnership created by this Agreement.

Executed on _____ [date], at _____ [city], California.

GENERAL PARTNERS:

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

LIMITED PARTNERS:

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

SPOUSES:

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

EXHIBIT A

_____ [name], a California Limited Partnership

List of Partners

General Partners:

Name of Partner	Address	Total Initial Contribution	Units Issued	Percentage Interest
_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____	_____

Limited Partners:

Name of Partner	Address	Total Initial Contribution	Units Issued	Percentage Interest
_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____	_____

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

99 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Organizational Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.201

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.201 Family Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement--Manager-Managed

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete manager-managed operating agreement for a family limited liability company. It should be modified to meet the particular operating needs of the LLC being formed.

The members of an LLC must enter into an operating agreement either before or after the filing of the LLC's articles of organization [Corp. Code § 17050(a)]. An "operating agreement" is any agreement among all the members as to the affairs of the LLC and the conduct of its business in a manner not inconsistent with law or the LLC's articles, including amendments to those articles. For a foreign LLC, all documents that serve a like function under the laws of the jurisdiction in which the foreign LLC is organized is defined as an operating agreement under the California Act [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. An operating agreement may be written or oral, and it may be as simple as an agreement to organize an LLC [Corp. Code § 17001(ab)]. In most cases, it is best to have a written operating agreement, since it is likely to be the key document of an LLC. The operating agreement is not filed with the office of the Secretary of State [Secretary of State's LLC form packet].

Many of the same types of provisions typically found in corporate bylaws or partnership agreements may be appropriate in a LLC operating agreement if the members so desire. For a variety of corporate bylaw provisions, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . For partnership provisions, see Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships . For other provisions that may be appropriate to this type of agreement, see Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements . The complexity of the agreement depends on the drafter and the wishes of the members. For further discussion, see Ch. 12C, Limited liability Companies.

[b] Contents of Agreement

This form contains many provisions covering a great variety of topics; it must be revised as needed for each particular limited liability company. In general, a well-drafted, relatively detailed operating agreement should contain provisions addressing some or all of the following topics:

- Definitions of terms used in the agreement [see, e.g., [2], Section 5.01(c), below]. Note that an operating agreement may not vary the definitions set forth in Corp. Code § 17001, except as specifically provided in that section [Corp. Code § 17005(b)(1)].
- Extent and nature of the LLC's business.
- The operative date of the agreement.
- Specification of the rights and duties of members [see [2], art. 3, below].
- Information on initial and additional capital contributions [see [2], Section 2.01, below]. In this regard, Paragraph 2.03 permits additional capital contributions on specified terms.
- Names and addresses of members [see [2], Exhibit A, below].
- Management provisions [see [2], art. 4, below].
- Information on capital accounts and capital structure [see [2], art. 2, below].
- Amendment of operating agreement [see [2], Section 10.09, below].
- Members' right, if any, to withdraw, including buyout rights enforceable by withdrawing member and exercisable by remaining members. In this regard, the provisions in this form contemplate that members may not voluntarily withdraw [see [2], art. 4, below], that membership interests are not freely transferrable and that prior consent of the other members is required. The form contains buyout provisions giving the remaining members either the option or the duty to purchase the interest of any member who dies or who is expelled under the terms of the operating agreement [see [2], art. 4, below]. Many other arrangements for the transfer of membership interests are possible, depending on what the members want to do. If the LLC members wish to have a different type of buy-sell arrangement, consult Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies. Further, appropriate provisions from the corporate or partnership materials in this publication may be adapted to a LLC agreement [see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements (close corporations); Ch. 15, Part A, Formation of General Partnerships, Pt. A, §§ 15.240-15.262 (partnerships)].
- Allocations of items of LLC profits, losses, gain, deduction and credit [see art. 5, below].
- Accounting, records, financial statements, and reports [see [2], art. 8, below].
- Time, manner, and priority of distributions [see [2], art. 5, below].
- Dissolution and winding up [see [2], art. 9, below]. Among other circumstances, this agreement permits dissolution on the agreement of a majority interest of the members or on the occurrence of specific events that are deemed to constitute a failure of the LLC achieve its intended purpose. The latter provision is intended to provide a "safety valve" if the LLC is formed for a specific purpose and there is uncertainty over whether all the necessary conditions for fulfillment of that purpose will exist in the future [see [2], Section 9.1(e), below].

- Provisions governing indemnification [see [2], Section 10.01, below ].
- A spousal consent under which the spouses of the members consent to the terms of the Agreement with respect to any portion of the membership interests that are community property [see [2], Exhibit D, below]. This consent should be executed by all the spouses of the LLC members. For additional discussion of the law relating to this type of spousal consent, see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies , and Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements, § 8C.203.
- A schedule showing the respective contributions of cash, property, or services to be made by each member, and the percentage interest in the LLC allocated to each member. This schedule may be amended from time to time to reflect subsequent adjustments in the interests of the members due to additional contributions, purchase of the interest of a deceased or departing member, or other sources [see [2], Exhibit A, below].

The operating agreement should also specify any respects in which the default provisions of the LLC Act are to be changed or rendered inapplicable to the LLC [see Corp. Code § 17005(e); see also § 12C.10[3]]. With regard to changes in some default provisions, only a written operating agreement is effective [see Corp. Code § 17005(b), (c)]. If any provision of the articles of an LLC conflicts with its written operating agreement, the articles control [Corp. Code § 17005(f)].

[c] Conversion to Single Member-Managed Agreement

This form is drafted for an LLC that will have more than one member, and it contains provisions appropriate for that situation. However, since January 1, 2000, California LLCs have been permitted to have only a single member [Corp. Code §§ 17001(t), 17050(b)]. This basic manager-managed LLC operating agreement may be adapted for use in a single-member LLC. For federal tax purposes, a LLC with only one member is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner for federal tax purposes unless it elects to be taxed as an "association" (corporation) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-3(a)].

Counsel should consider whether the retention, deletion, or modification of the relevant provisions of this agreement is appropriate in a one-member situation. For example, provisions governing allocations and profit-sharing should be reviewed and ordinarily deleted from the agreement. However, although provisions governing contributions, voting rights, and so on may seem superfluous in a single-member LLC, it may be desirable to retain many of these provisions even when the LLC will be formed with a single member. Even if not anticipated at the time of formation, the admission of additional members may become desirable at a future time due to changing or unanticipated circumstances, and those provisions may obviate the need for revising the operating agreement of a single-member LLC that subsequently admits additional members.

[2] FORM

Family Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement--Manager-Managed

OPERATING AGREEMENT OF _____, LLC
A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY

Effective: _____

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ARTICLE 1
ORGANIZATIONAL MATTERS

	Page
1.01 Formation	_____
1.02 Name	_____
1.03 Term	_____
1.04 Office and Agent	_____
1.05 Business of the Company	_____

ARTICLE 2
CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS

2.01 Initial Capital Contributions	_____
2.02 Capital Accounts	_____
2.03 Additional Capital Contributions	_____
2.04 Adjustment of Membership Interests	_____
2.05 No Interest	_____
2.06 Loans	_____

ARTICLE 3
MEMBERS

3.01 Membership Interest; Percentage Interest	_____
3.02 Admission of Additional Members	_____
3.03 Members; Members' Approval	_____
3.04 Withdrawals or Resignations	_____

ARTICLE 4
MANAGEMENT AND CONTROL OF THE COMPANY

4.01 Management of the Company by Manager	_____
4.02 Election of Manager	_____

- 4.03 Powers of Manager _____
- 4.04 Performance of Duties; Liability of Manager _____
- 4.05 Devotion of Time _____
- 4.06 Compensation of the Manager _____
- 4.07 Competing Activities _____
- 4.08 Expenses _____
- 4.09 Limited Liability _____

ARTICLE 5
 ALLOCATIONS OF NET PROFITS
 AND NET LOSSES AND DISTRIBUTIONS

- 5.01 Allocations of Net Profit and Net Loss _____
- 5.02 Special Allocations _____
- 5.03 Internal Revenue Code Section 704(c) Allocations _____
- 5.04 Allocation of Net Profits and Losses and Distributions in Respect of a Transferred Interest _____
- 5.05 Distributions _____

ARTICLE 6
 TRANSFER AND ASSIGNMENT OF INTERESTS

- 6.01 Transfer and Assignment of Interests _____
- 6.02 Permitted Transfers _____
- 6.03 Right of First Refusal _____
- 6.04 Substitution of Members _____
- 6.05 Effect of Transfers _____

ARTICLE 7
 CONSEQUENCES OF TRIGGERING EVENTS, MARITAL DISSOLUTION, AND TERMINATION OF MEMBERSHIP INTEREST

- 7.01 Triggering Event _____
- 7.02 Purchase Price _____
- 7.03 Notice of Intent to Purchase _____
- 7.04 Election to Purchase Less Than All of the Former Member's Interest _____
- 7.05 Payment of Purchase Price _____
- 7.06 Closing of Purchase of Former Member's Interest _____
- 7.07 Dissolution of Marriage _____

ARTICLE 8
ACCOUNTING, RECORDS, REPORTING BY MEMBERS

- 8.01 Books and Records _____
- 8.02 Reports _____
- 8.03 Bank Accounts _____
- 8.04 Tax Matters for the Company _____

ARTICLE 9
DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP

- 9.01 Conditions of Dissolution _____
- 9.02 Winding Up _____
- 9.03 Order of Payment of Liabilities on Dissolution _____
- 9.04 Limitations on Payments Made in Dissolution _____
- 9.05 Certificates _____

ARTICLE 10
GENERAL PROVISIONS

- 10.01 Indemnification of Agents _____
- 10.02 Complete Agreement _____
- 10.03 Binding Effect _____

10.04 Interpretation

_____

10.05 Jurisdiction

_____

10.06 Severability

_____

10.07 Notices

_____

10.08 Mediation and Arbitration

_____

10.09 Amendments

_____

10.10 Attorney Fees

_____

10.11 Remedies Cumulative

_____

10.12 Spousal Consents

_____

EXHIBITS

Exhibit A Capital Contributions and Percentage Interests of Members

Exhibit B Investments of the Company

Exhibit C Subscription Agreement

Exhibit D Spousal Consent

OPERATING AGREEMENT OF

_____ [name], LLC

A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY

This Operating Agreement ("Agreement") of _____ [name], is made and effective as of _____ [date], by _____ [names of members and investors] and any party subsequently admitted as a Member in accordance with the terms and conditions of this Agreement (the "Members"), with reference to the following facts:

RECITALS

On _____ [date], Articles of Organization for _____, LLC ("Company"), a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of California, were filed with the California Secretary of State.

The Members have formed the Company for the purpose of encouraging and facilitating the Members' interest in acquiring, holding and managing investments in a consolidated single entity and to provide protection for the personal assets of the Members against possible future claims by Company creditors. The Members further seek to obtain the advantages of flexibility in business, tax and investment planning, and diversification of risk not available through trusts, corporations or individual ownership of assets.

The Members desire to provide for capitalization of the Company, relationships among the Members, terms and procedures for admission of additional persons as Members, rules for orderly succession of ownership and control of the Company, and appropriate restrictions to prevent ownership of interests in the Company by persons not admitted by the affirmative decision of the Members and involvement of non-Members in the management and operation of the Company.

The parties therefore desire to adopt and approve this Operating Agreement for the Company.

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, the Members by this Agreement set forth the operating agreement for the Company under the laws of the State of California on the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in this Operating Agreement.

ARTICLE 1 ORGANIZATIONAL MATTERS

1.01 Formation. _____ has formed a California limited liability company under the laws of the State of California by filing Articles of Organization ("Articles") with the California Secretary of State and adopting this Operating Agreement. The rights and liabilities of the Members shall be determined pursuant to the Beverly-Killea Liability Act as codified in California Corporations Code Section 17000 et seq. ("LLC Act") and this Agreement.

1.02 Name. The name of the Company is _____ [name]. The Company may conduct business under that name or any other name approved by the Members.

1.03 Term. The term of the Company commenced as of the date of the filing of the Articles and, unless sooner terminated under Section 9.01, terminates on [specify date, e.g., December 31, 2050].

1.04 Office and Agent. The Company will continuously maintain an office and registered agent in the State of California as required by the LLC Act. The principal office of the Company is at _____ [address], California, or other location as the Manager, with the approval of the Members, may determine. The registered agent will be the Manager or any other person or entity that may be designated by all of the Members.

1.05 Business of the Company. Notwithstanding the purpose of the Company described in these Articles, the Company will not engage in any business other than the following without the consent of all of the Members:

(a) The business of investigating, making, holding, managing, and disposing of investments in limited liability companies, marketable securities, partnerships, closely held companies and businesses and real property (referred to as "Properties" or a "Property"), including those assets listed and described in greater detail on Exhibit B to this Agreement as well as investments that may be made in the future. The Manager will amend Exhibit B from time to time to include newly acquired investments or delete those that have been sold, but the inclusion or exclusion of an asset on Exhibit B is not determinative of whether the asset is owned by the Company; and

(b) Such other activities directly related to the foregoing activities as may be necessary or advisable in the reasonable opinion of the Manager to further those activities.

ARTICLE 2 CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS

2.01 Initial Capital Contributions. _____ [Name or Each Member] will make the initial contribution to capitalize the Company in the amount shown opposite _____ [his or her or his or her] name on Exhibit A attached to this Agreement. No Member will be required to make any additional contributions to the capital of the Company. Except as provided in this Agreement, no Member may withdraw his or her capital contributions.

2.02 Capital Accounts. The Company will establish and maintain an individual capital account for each Member ("Capital Account"). In general, a Member's Capital Account will be (1) increased by (a) the Member's capital contributions, and (b) the Member's allocable share of Net Profits; and (2) decreased by (a) the Member's allocable share of Net Losses, and (b) the amount or value of any distribution made to the Member; provided, however that in the unlikely event these general rules conflict with requirements set forth in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv) of the Income Tax Regulations, or other applicable regulations, under the Internal Revenue Code ("Regulations"), the applicable provisions of the Regulations will control. In the event a Member transfers all or a part of a Membership Interest in accordance with this Agreement, the portion of the Capital Account attributable to the transferred Membership Interest will carryover to the new owner of the Membership Interest.

2.03 Additional Capital Contributions. Any Member may make additional cash capital contributions to the Company at any time, with the consent of the Manager, to the extent the Manager determines that additional capital contributions are reasonably necessary or related to the business of the Company as set forth in Section 1.04 or the establishment of reasonable reserves for those activities; provided, however, that no Member may be required to make any additional contributions.

2.04 Adjustment of Membership Interests. In the event additional capital contributions are made to the Company as set forth in Section 2.02 of this Agreement, the Members' respective Membership Interests will be modified to take account of the level of capital contributions made by each. The adjustments of the percentages of Membership Interests will be made by the Manager based on his or her reasonable judgment of the value of the additional capital contribution compared to the value of the Company immediately before the additional capital contribution. Exhibit A will be amended to reflect any additional capital contribution or adjustment in Members' Percentage Interests.

2.05 No Interest. The Company will not pay any interest on capital contributions.

2.06 Loans. Any Member may, with the consent and agreement of the Manager, lend money to the Company. If a Member makes a loan, the amount of the loan will not be treated as a capital contribution to the Company but will be a debt due from the Company and will be designated as a loan and documented in the form of a promissory note bearing interest at a rate (1) not less than the Applicable Federal Rate published under I.R.C. § 1272 for loans of identical term and duration, and (2) not in excess of the maximum rate permitted by law.

ARTICLE 3 MEMBERS

3.01 Membership Interest; Percentage Interest. Each Member will have a "Membership Interest" in the Company that comprises the Member's entire interest in the Company including the Member's economic interest, the right to vote on or participate in the management, and the right to receive information concerning the business and affairs of the Company. A Member's "Economic Interest" means the rights to receive distributions from the Company and allocations of Net Profits and Net Losses and items of income and expense from the Company pursuant to this Agreement and the LLC Act, expressed as a percentage of those items ("Percentage Interest"). Members' Percentage Interests will be set forth on Exhibit A and will be adjusted from time to time as required in Section 2.04.

3.02 Admission of Additional Members. Except as provided in Section 6.02 relating to admission of Permitted Transferees, additional Members may be admitted only with the approval of all of the Members on execution of a Subscription Agreement in the form of Exhibit C, attached to this Agreement. Additional Members will make a capital contribution as determined by the Manager, subject to the consent of all of the Members, and participate in "Net Profits", "Net Losses" (as those terms are defined in Section 5.01), and distributions of the Company on the terms as are determined by the Manager and approved by the Members. Exhibit A will be amended on the admission of an additional Member to set forth that Member's name, capital contribution, and Percentage Interest.

3.03 Members; Approval Requirements. No annual or regular meetings of the Members are required. However, if meetings are held, the meetings may be called, noticed, held, and conducted in any manner permitted under the LLC Act. In any instance in which the approval of the Members is required under this Agreement, that approval may be obtained in any manner permitted by the LLC Act. Unless otherwise provided in this Agreement, approval of the Members means the approval of a majority interest of the Members, which for purposes of this Agreement means those Members who hold a majority of the Percentage Interests held by all of the Members.

3.04 Withdrawals or Resignations. Any Member may withdraw or resign as a Member at any time on 60 days prior written notice to the Company, without prejudice to the rights, if any, of the Company or the other Members under any contract other than this Agreement to which the withdrawing Member is a party. In the event of withdrawal, that Member's Membership Interest will be terminated, that Member will thereafter only have the rights of a transferee as described in Section 6.04, the Membership Interest is subject to purchase and sale as provided in Article 7, and the Company will not be required to distribute any property or other assets or any portion of the capital contributions or Capital Account of the withdrawing Member until similar distributions are made to Members who have not resigned or withdrawn from the Company.

ARTICLE 4 MANAGEMENT AND CONTROL OF THE COMPANY

4.01 Management of the Company by Manager.

(a) Exclusive Management by Manager. Subject to the provisions of the Articles and this Agreement relating to actions required to be approved by the Members, the business, property and affairs of the Company will be managed and all powers of the Company will be exercised by or under the direction of the Manager.

(b) Agency Authority of Manager. Subject to Section 4.03, the Manager is authorized to endorse checks, drafts, and other evidence of indebtedness made payable to the order of the Company, and may sign all checks, drafts, and other instruments obligating the Company to pay money, and may sign contracts and obligations on behalf of the Company.

4.02 Election of Manager.

(a) Number, Term, and Qualifications. The Manager may be a Member, but is not required to be a Member. _____[name] will initially act as the sole Manager. The number of Managers of the Company may be increased or decreased from time to time by the affirmative vote or written consent of Members holding a majority of the Percentage Interests held by all of the Members (a "Majority Interest"), provided that in no instance will there be less than one Manager and provided further that if the number of Managers is changed, the Articles will be amended to set forth the new number of Managers. Unless he or she resigns or is removed, each Manager holds office indefinitely. Managers will be elected by the affirmative vote or written consent of a Majority Interest of the Members.

(b) Resignation. Any Manager may resign at any time by giving written notice to the Members without prejudice to the rights, if any, of the Company under any contract other than this Agreement to which the Manager is a party. The resignation of any Manager is effective on receipt of that notice, or at any later time specified in the notice. Unless otherwise specified in the notice, the acceptance of the resignation is not necessary to make it effective. The resignation of a Manager who is also a Member does not affect the Manager's rights as a Member and does not constitute a withdrawal of a Member.

(c) Removal. The Manager may be removed at any time, with or without cause, by the affirmative vote or written consent of a Majority Interest of the Members at a meeting called expressly for that purpose. Any removal does not affect the Manager's rights as a Member or constitute a withdrawal of a Member. For purpose of this Section, "cause" means fraud, gross negligence, willful misconduct, embezzlement, or a breach of the Manager's obligations under this Agreement.

(d) Vacancies. Any vacancy occurring for any reason in the Manager's position may be filled by the affirmative vote or written consent of a Majority Interest of the Members.

4.03 Powers of Manager.

(a) Powers of Manager. Without limiting the generality of Section 4.01, but subject to the limitations set forth in Section 4.03 and to the express limitations set forth elsewhere in this Agreement, the Manager has all necessary powers to manage and carry out the purposes, business, investments, property, and affairs of the Company, including, without limitation, the power to exercise on behalf and in the name of the Company all of the powers described in Corporations Code § 17003.

(b) Limitations on Power of Manager. The Manager does not have authority under this Agreement to cause the Company to engage in the following transactions without first obtaining the affirmative vote or written consent of a Majority Interest of the Members:

- (1) The merger of the Company with another limited liability company or corporation, general partnership, limited partnership, or other business entity;
- (2) An alteration of the primary purpose or business of the Company as set forth in Section 1.04;
- (3) Any act that would make it impossible to carry on the ordinary business of the Company; and
- (4) Any other transaction described in this Agreement as requiring the vote, consent, or approval of the Members.

4.04 Performance of Duties; Liability of Manager. The Manager is not liable to the Company or to any Member for any loss or damage sustained by the Company or any Member, unless the loss or damage results from fraud, deceit, intentional misconduct, or a knowing violation of law by the Manager. The Manager will perform all managerial duties in good faith, in a manner reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Company and its Members, and with the level of care, including reasonable inquiry, as an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances. A Manager who so performs the duties of Manager will not have any liability by reason of being or having been a Manager of the Company.

4.05 Devotion of Time. The Manager is not obligated to devote all of his or her time or business efforts to the affairs of the Company. The Manager will devote whatever time, effort and skill as the Manager deems appropriate for the operation of the Company.

4.06 Compensation of the Manager. The Manager is not entitled to compensation for activities or services undertaken on behalf of the Company, other than the Manager's Membership Interest in Net Profits and distributions pursuant to Article 5.

4.07 Competing Activities. The Manager may engage or invest in, independently or with others, any business activity of any type or description, including without limitation those that might be the same as or similar to the Company's business and that might be in direct or indirect competition with the Company. Neither the Company nor any Member has any right in or to such other ventures or activities or to the income or proceeds derived from those ventures and activities. The Manager is not obligated to present any investment opportunity or prospective economic advantage to the Company, even if the opportunity is of the character that, if presented to the Company, could be taken by the Company. The Manager has the right to hold any investment opportunity or prospective economic advantage for his or her own account or to recommend that opportunity to persons or entities other than the Company. The Members waive any and all rights and claims that they may otherwise have against the Manager as a result of any of these activities.

4.08 Expenses. The Company will reimburse the Manager for the actual cost of materials used for or by the Company and for out of pocket expenses incurred on behalf of the Company. The Company will also pay or reimburse the Manager for organizational expenses (including, without limitation, legal and accounting fees and costs) incurred to form the Company, prepare and file the Articles, and complete this Agreement.

4.09 Limited Liability. No person who is a Manager of the Company will be personally liable under any judgment of a court, or in any other manner, for any debt, obligation, or liability of the Company, whether that liability or obligation arises in contract, tort, or otherwise, solely by reason of being a Manager of the Company.

ARTICLE 5 ALLOCATIONS OF NET PROFITS AND NET LOSSES AND DISTRIBUTIONS

5.01 Allocations of Net Profit and Net Loss.

(a) Net Loss. Net Loss will be allocated to the Members in proportion to their Percentage Interests. Notwithstanding the previous sentence, loss allocations to a Member will, to the extent possible, be made only to the extent that the loss allocations do not create a deficit Capital Account balance for that Member in excess of an amount, if any, equal to that Member's share of Minimum Gain of the Company (as defined below). Any loss not allocated to a Member because of the foregoing provision will be allocated to the other Members (to the extent the other Members are not limited in respect of the allocation of losses under this Section 5.01(a)). Any loss reallocated under this Section 5.01(a) will be taken into account in computing subsequent allocations of income and losses pursuant to this Article 5, so that the net amount of any item so allocated and the income and losses allocated to each Member pursuant to this Article 5, to the extent possible, will be equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each Member pursuant to this Article 5 if no reallocation of losses had occurred under this Section 5.01(a).

(b) Net Profit. Net Profit will be allocated to the Members in proportion to their Percentage Interests.

(c) Definitions. As used in this Agreement, the following terms have the meanings set forth below:

(1) "Net Profit" and "Net Loss" mean the income, gain, loss, deductions, and credits of the Company in the aggregate or separately stated, as appropriate, determined in accordance with the method of accounting at the close of each fiscal year employed on the Company's information tax return filed for federal income tax purposes; provided, however that Net Profit and Net Loss does not include any items that are specially allocated pursuant to Section 5.02.

(2) "Fiscal Year" for the Company means the calendar year, unless and until changed to a different fiscal year with the consent of a Majority Interest of the Members.

(3) "Minimum Gain" means the excess of the fair market value of a Property over the tax basis of that Property, provided that Minimum Gain is never less than the excess of the amount, if any, by which the Nonrecourse Liability secured by a Property exceeds the tax basis of that Property.

(4) "Nonrecourse Liability" means any liability secured by a Property or Company assets with respect to which no Member (or a party closely related to the Member) is personally liable.

5.02 Special Allocations. Although allocations different than those set forth in Section 5.01 are not anticipated, for federal tax purposes the Company is required to follow certain special allocation rules in the event of unanticipated economic circumstances. Accordingly, notwithstanding Section 5.01:

(a) Minimum Gain Chargeback. If there is a net decrease in Company Minimum Gain during any fiscal year, each Member will be specially allocated items of Company income and gain for that fiscal year (and, if necessary, in subsequent fiscal years) in an amount equal to the portion of that Member's share of the net decrease in Company Minimum Gain that is allocable to the disposition of Company property subject to a Nonrecourse Liability, which share of net decrease will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(g)(2). Allocations pursuant to this Section 5.02(a) will be made in proportion to the amounts required to be allocated to each Member under this Section 5.02(a). The items to be so allocated will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(f). This Section 5.02(a) is intended to comply with the minimum gain chargeback requirement contained in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(f) and will be interpreted consistently therewith.

(b) Chargeback of Minimum Gain Attributable to Member Nonrecourse Debt. If there is a net decrease in Company Minimum Gain attributable to a Member Nonrecourse Debt, during any fiscal year, each Member who has a share of the Company Minimum Gain attributable to that Member Nonrecourse Debt (which share will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(i)(5)) will be specially allocated items of Company income and gain for that fiscal year (and, if necessary, in subsequent Fiscal years) in an amount equal to that portion of that Member's share of the net decrease in Company Minimum Gain attributable to that Member Nonrecourse Debt that is allocable to the disposition of Company property subject to that Member Nonrecourse Debt (which share of the net decrease will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(i)(5)). Allocations pursuant to this Section 5.02(b) will be made in proportion to the amounts required to be allocated to each Member under this Section 5.02(b). The items to be so allocated will be determined in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(i)(4). This Section 5.02(b) is intended to comply with the minimum gain chargeback requirement contained in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(i)(4) and will be interpreted consistently therewith.

(c) Nonrecourse Deductions. Any nonrecourse deductions (as defined in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(b)(1)) for any fiscal year or other period will be specially allocated to the Members in proportion to their respective Percentage Interests.

(d) Member Nonrecourse Deductions. Those items of Company loss, deduction, or I.R.C. § 705(a)(2)(B) expenditures that are attributable to Member Nonrecourse Debt for any fiscal year or other period will be specially allocated to the Member who bears the economic risk of loss with respect to the Member Nonrecourse Debt to which those items are attributable in accordance with Treas. Reg. § 1.704-2(i).

(e) Qualified Income Offset. If a Member unexpectedly receives any adjustments, allocations, or distributions described in Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d)(4), (5) or (6), or any other event creates a deficit balance in a Member's Capital Account in excess of that Member's share of Company Minimum Gain, items of Company income and gain will be specially allocated to that Member in an amount and manner sufficient to eliminate the excess deficit balance as quickly as possible. Any special allocations of items of income and gain pursuant to this Section 5.02(e) will be taken into account in computing subsequent allocations of income and gain pursuant to this Article 5 so that the net amount of any item so allocated and the income, gain, and losses allocated to each Member pursuant to this Article 5 to the extent possible, will be equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each Member pursuant to the provisions of this Section 5.02(e) if those unexpected adjustments, allocations, or distributions had not occurred.

5.03 Internal Revenue Code Section 704(c) Allocations. Notwithstanding any other provision in this Article 5, in accordance with I.R.C. § 704(c) and the regulations promulgated thereunder, items of income, gain, loss, and deduction with respect to any property contributed to the capital of the Company will, solely for tax purposes, be allocated among the Members so as to take account of any variation between the adjusted basis of that property to the Company for federal income tax purposes and its fair market value on the date of contribution. Allocations pursuant to this Section

5.03 are solely for purposes of federal, state, and local taxes. As such, they do not affect or will in any way be taken into account in computing a Member's Capital Account or share of profits, losses, or other items or distributions pursuant to any provision of this Agreement.

5.04 Allocation of Net Profits and Losses and Distributions in Respect of a Transferred Interest. If any Membership Interest is transferred, or is increased or decreased by reason of the admission of a new Member or otherwise, during any fiscal year of the Company, Net Profits or Net Losses for that fiscal year will be assigned to the Members and other holders of Membership Interests according to any method permitted under I.R.C. § 706. Notwithstanding any provision above to the contrary, gain or loss of the Company realized in connection with a sale or other disposition of any of the assets of the Company will be allocated solely to the parties owning Membership Interests as of the date that sale or other disposition occurs.

5.05 Distributions. Subject to applicable law and any limitations contained elsewhere in this Agreement, the Manager may, from time to time, cause the Company to make distributions out of funds not needed for operations by the Company. These distributions will be made in amounts and at such times as determined by the Manager. Distributions will be made to the Members in proportion to their Percentage Interests.

ARTICLE 6 TRANSFER AND ASSIGNMENT OF INTERESTS

6.01 Transfer and Assignment of Interests. No Member is entitled to transfer, assign, convey, sell, encumber, or in any way alienate, whether voluntarily or involuntarily or for full consideration or without consideration, all or any part of his or her Membership Interest or Economic Interest (in each case, a "Transfer") except pursuant to Section 6.02.

6.02 Permitted Transfers. Notwithstanding the restriction set forth in Section 6.01, any Member or Economic Interest holder is entitled to transfer, from time to time, any or all of his or her Membership or Economic Interest: (1) with the prior approval of a Majority Interest of the Members, (2) to any other Member, (3) to _____ [name] or a lineal descendant of _____ [name], or to a trust for the benefit of those persons, (4) pursuant to the right of first refusal procedures set forth in Section 6.03, and (5) pursuant to the procedures set forth in Article 7. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no Transfer will be permitted under this Section 6.02 unless the transferee complies with the requirements of Section 6.04 of this Agreement.

6.03 Right of First Refusal. If any Member or Economic Interest holder (a "Transferor") receives a bona fide offer to purchase all or any part of the Transferor's Economic Interest or otherwise proposes to transfer all or any part of the Transferor's Economic Interest (or is required by operation of law or other involuntary transfer to do so), the Transferor must first offer that Economic Interest to the Company and the other Members in accordance with the following provisions:

(a) The Transferor will deliver a written notice ("Option Notice") to the Company and the other Members stating (1) the Transferor's bona fide intention to transfer that Economic Interest, (2) the Economic Interest to be transferred, (3) the purchase price and terms of payment for which the Transferor proposes to transfer the Economic Interest, and (4) the name and address of the proposed transferee.

(b) The Company has the right, but not the obligation, to elect to purchase any share of that Economic Interest proposed to be transferred on the price and terms of payment designated in the Option Notice. The Company will exercise this right only with the approval of a Majority Interest of the Members other than the Transferor. The right will be exercised, if at all, by written notice given by the Company to the Transferor and the other Members within 20 days after receipt of the Option Notice. If the Option Notice provides for the payment of non-cash consideration, the Company may elect to pay the consideration in cash equal to the Manager's good faith estimate of the present fair market value of the non-cash consideration. The failure of the Company to submit a notice within the applicable period set forth in this Article constitutes an election by the Company not to purchase any of the Economic Interest that may be so transferred.

(c) If, for any reason, the Company does not elect to purchase the entire Economic Interest referred to in the Offer Notice, then all Members other than the Transferor have the right, but not the obligation, to elect to purchase any share of that remaining Economic Interest on the price and terms of payment designated in the Option Notice, which right may be exercised by written notice given by each other Member to the Transferor, the Company and the other Members within 45 days after receipt of the Option Notice. If the Option Notice provides for the payment of non-cash consideration, the other Members may elect to pay the consideration in cash equal to the good faith estimate of the present fair market value of the non-cash consideration, as that estimate is made by a Majority Interest of those other Members. If the total amount of the Economic Interest specified in the notices received from the other Members exceeds the amount of the remaining Economic Interest, the remaining Economic Interest will be allocated among the electing other Members pro rata according to their Membership Interests. The failure of any other Member to submit a notice within the applicable period set forth in this Article constitutes an election by that other Member not to purchase any of the remaining Economic Interest.

(d) If the Company and other Members elect to purchase or obtain any or all of the Economic Interest designated in the Option Notice, then the closing of that purchase will occur within 60 days after receipt of the Option Notice. The Transferor, the Company, and the other Members will execute all documents and instruments and make all deliveries that reasonably may be required to consummate the purchase.

(e) If the Company and the other Members elect not to purchase or obtain, or default in their obligation to purchase or obtain, all of the Economic Interest designated in the Option Notice, then the Transferor may transfer the portion of the Economic Interest described in the Option Notice not so purchased, to the proposed transferee, providing that the transfer (1) is completed within 90 days after the date of the Option Notice, and (2) is made on terms no less favorable to the Transferor than disclosed in the Option Notice. If the Economic Interest is not so transferred, the Transferor must give a new Option Notice in accordance with this Article or otherwise comply with Section 6.02 before any other or subsequent transfer of the Economic Interest.

6.04 Substitution of Members. A transferee of a Membership Interest has the right to become a substitute Member only if (1) the transferee meets the requirements of Section 6.02, (2) the transferee executes an instrument satisfactory to all Members accepting and adopting the terms and provisions of this Agreement, and (3) the transferee pays any reasonable expenses in connection with his or her admission as a new Member. The admission of a substitute Member does not release the Member who assigned the Membership Interest from any liability that that Member may have to the Company.

6.05 Effect of Transfers. Upon a Transfer in violation of this Article 6, and until and unless any transferee may be admitted as a substitute Member under Section 6.04, the transferee has no right to vote or participate in the management of the Company or to exercise any rights of a Member. The transferee is only entitled to receive the share of the Company's Net Profits, Net Losses, and distributions of the Company's assets to which the transferor would otherwise be entitled. Notwithstanding the immediately preceding sentences, any Transfer in violation of this Article 6 shall be null and void.

ARTICLE 7 CONSEQUENCES OF TRIGGERING EVENTS, MARITAL DISSOLUTION, AND TERMINATION OF MEMBERSHIP INTEREST

7.01 Triggering Event. Upon the (1) withdrawal or resignation of a Member, or (2) a Transfer or attempted Transfer of any Membership Interest in violation of Article 6, whether that Transfer or attempted Transfer occurs by reason of a voluntary or involuntary act, including death, bankruptcy, dissolution of marriage, or attempted sale ("Triggering Event"), the Company will continue, without dissolution or liquidation, unless Members holding a 50 percent majority of the Percentage Interests held by Members other than the Member who caused the Triggering Event ("Remaining Members") vote within 90 days after the Triggering Event to dissolve the Company. Unless the Remaining Members vote to dissolve the Company, the Company and/or the Remaining Members have the right to purchase, and if that right is exercised, the Member (or his or her legal representative) whose actions, or circumstances resulted in the Triggering Event ("Former Member") will sell, the Former Member's Membership Interest ("Former Member's Interest") as provided in this Article 7.

7.02 Purchase Price. The purchase price for the Former Member's Interest will be the fair market value of the Former Member's Interest on the date of the Triggering Event as determined under this Agreement (the "Purchase Price"). The fair market value of the Former Member's Interest will be determined by the Manager, and the Manager will notify the Former Member of the value determined within 45 days following receipt of actual notice of the Triggering Event. If the Former Member or that Former Member's legal representative deems the Manager's determination of fair market value to vary from the fair market value of the Former Member's Interest by more than [specify, e.g., 10 percent], that party will be entitled to require an appraisal by providing notice of the request for appraisal within 15 days after notice of the Manager's determination of fair market value. In that event, the value of the Former Member's Interest will be determined by three independent appraisers, one selected by the Former Member or that Former Member's legal representative, one selected by the Company, and one selected by the two appraisers so named. The fair market value of the Former Member's Interest will be the average of the two appraisals closest in amount to each other. In the event the fair market value is determined to vary from the Manager's determination of fair market value by less than [specify above percentage, e.g., 10 percent], the party requesting the appraisal will pay all expenses of all the appraisals incurred, and the purchase price will be the fair market value as originally determined by the Manager. In all other events, the party requesting the appraisal will pay one-half of the appraisal expenses and the other party will pay one-half of the appraisal expenses. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Triggering Event results from a breach of this Agreement by the Former Member, the purchase price will be reduced by an amount equal to the damages suffered by the Company or the Remaining Members as a result of that breach. In determining fair market value, the Manager and the appraisers will consider appropriate discounts for illiquidity and minority status of the Former Member's Interest.

7.03 Notice of Intent to Purchase. Within 30 days after the fair market value of the Former Member's Interest has been determined in accordance with Section 7.02, each Remaining Member must notify the Members in writing of his or her desire to purchase a portion of the Former Member's Interest. The failure of any Remaining Member to submit a notice within the applicable period constitutes an election on the part of the Member not to purchase any of the Former Member's Interest. Each Remaining Member so electing to purchase will be entitled to purchase a portion of the Former Member's Interest in the same proportion that the Membership Interest of the Remaining Member bears to the aggregate of the Membership Interests of all of the Remaining Members electing to purchase the Former Member's Interest.

7.04 Election to Purchase Less Than All of the Former Member's Interest. If any Remaining Member elects to purchase none or less than all of his or her pro rata share of the Former Member's Interest, then the Remaining Members can elect to purchase more than their respective pro rata shares. If the Remaining Members fail to purchase the entire interest of the Former Member, the Company may purchase any remaining share of the Former Member's Interest.

7.05 Payment of Purchase Price. The Company or the Remaining Members, as the case may be, will pay the purchase price at the closing in the form of (1) cash; (2) a full-recourse promissory note of the Company (the "Note") bearing interest at the rate published in the Wall Street Journal as its prime rate in effect on the day of Closing; or (3) a combination of cash and a Note. Principal and interest on the Note will be payable in a maximum of 36 equal monthly installments with payments commencing one month following Closing. In all cases, the Note will be prepayable without premium or penalty.

7.06 Closing of Purchase of Former Member's Interest. The closing for the sale of a Former Member's Interest pursuant to this Article 7 shall be held at 10:00 A.M. at the principal office of Company no later than 60 days after the determination of the Purchase Price, except that if the closing date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or California legal holiday, then the closing will be held on the next succeeding business day. At the closing, the Former Member will deliver to the Company or the Remaining Members an instrument of transfer (containing warranties of title and no encumbrances) conveying the Former Member's Interest. The Former Member, the Company and the Remaining Members will do all things and execute and deliver all papers as may be reasonably necessary fully to consummate the sale and purchase in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

7.07 Dissolution of Marriage.

(a) Any Membership Interest subject to transfer, disposition, or allocation in connection with a marital settlement agreement, legal separation, dissolution of marriage, or annulment of marriage (a "Marital Dissolution"), as to the entire interest, community or separate, of any Member and any Member's spouse, will be allocated in the property division to the extent possible to the Member and not the Member's spouse (the "Former Spouse"). If, however, a Former Spouse receives, retains, or is awarded any Membership Interest, the Former Spouse will promptly give notice thereof to the Company, and the Company and/or the Members other than the Former Spouse will have the right to purchase, and the Former Spouse will have the obligation to sell, that Former Spouse's Membership Interest as provided in this Section 7.07.

(b) In the event of a Marital Dissolution (and notwithstanding Section 7.03), the Member spouse in the Marital Dissolution has the option, exercisable for a period of 90 days following Marital Dissolution (or the transfer of the Membership Interest pursuant to the Marital Dissolution, if later), to purchase any or all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest at the price and terms provided in this Section 7.07.

(c) If, for any reason, the Member spouse does not exercise the option to purchase all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest within 90 days after the Marital Dissolution (or the transfer of the Membership Interest pursuant to the Marital Dissolution, if later), the Member spouse will promptly give notice of that fact to the Company and to the remaining Members. The Company will have the assignable option, exercisable at any time thereafter, to purchase and redeem any or all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest at the price and on the terms provided in this Section 7.07.

(d) A purchase of the Membership Interest of a Former Spouse pursuant to this Section 7.07 will be initiated by the Company or the Member exercising the Company's right as assignee by providing a notice of intent to purchase to the Manager and the Former Spouse. Within 30 days following the determination of the purchase price pursuant to Section 7.07(e), below, the Company or Member who filed the notice of intent to purchase will, by written notice to the Former Spouse, either confirm or withdraw that notice. If the notice of intent to purchase is confirmed, the closing for the sale of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest will be held pursuant to the procedure for closing of sale of a Former Member's Interest under Sections 7.05 and 7.06 of this Agreement.

(e) The purchase price of a Former Spouse's Membership Interest will be determined pursuant to the method set forth in Section 7.02; provided that the determination of the purchase price will be initiated by a notice of intent to purchase and all deadlines will be measured from the date of that notice rather than from the notice of a Triggering Event; and, further provided that the purchase price will be determined as of the Marital Dissolution, unless that notice of intent to purchase is given more than 180 days after the Marital Dissolution, in which event, the determination will be made as of the date notice of intent to purchase is given.

(f) If the Company and the Members collectively do not exercise their option as to all of the Former Spouse's Membership Interest, then the Former Spouse will continue to hold the Membership Interest subject to the provisions of this Agreement, including the terms of Section 6.04 which sets forth conditions on the right of the Former Spouse to become a substitute Member.

ARTICLE 8 ACCOUNTING, RECORDS, REPORTING BY MEMBERS

8.01 Books and Records. The books and records of the Company will be kept in accordance with the accounting methods followed for federal income tax purposes. The Company will maintain at its principal office in California all of the following:

- (a) A current list of the full name and last known business or residence address of each Member, together with the capital contributions, capital account, and Membership Interest of each Member;
- (b) A copy of the Articles and any and all amendments thereto, together with executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which the Articles or any amendments have been executed;
- (c) Copies of the Company's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns and reports, if any, for the six most recent taxable years;
- (d) A copy of this Agreement and any and all amendments thereto, together with executed copies of any powers of attorney pursuant to which this Agreement or any amendments thereto have been executed;
- (e) Copies of the financial statements of the Company, if any, for the six most recent fiscal years; and
- (f) The Company's books and records as they relate to the internal affairs of the Company for at least the current and past four fiscal years.

8.02 Reports. The Company shall cause to be filed, in accordance with the Act, all reports and documents required to be filed with any governmental agency. The Company shall cause to be prepared at least annually information concerning the Company's operations necessary for the completion of the Members' federal and state income tax returns. The Company shall send or cause to be sent to each Member within 90 days after the end of each taxable year

- (a) such information as is necessary to complete the Members' federal and state income tax or information returns and
- (b) a copy of the Company's federal, state, and local income tax or information returns for the year.

8.03 Bank Accounts. The Manager will maintain the funds of the Company in one or more separate bank accounts in the name of the Company, and will not permit the funds of the Company to be commingled in any fashion with the funds of any other person or entity.

8.04 Tax Matters for the Company. _____ [name] is designated as "Tax Matters Partner" (as defined in I.R.C. § 6231), to represent the Company (at the Company's expense) in connection with all examinations of the Company's affairs by tax authorities and to expend Company funds for professional services and costs associated therewith.

ARTICLE 9 DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP

9.01 Conditions of Dissolution. The Company will dissolve on the occurrence of any of the following events:

- (a) Entry of a decree of judicial dissolution pursuant to Corp. Code § 17351;
- (b) The vote of a Majority Interest of the Members;
- (c) The vote of 50 percent of the Remaining Members to dissolve in accordance with Section 7.01 within 90 days after the occurrence of a Triggering Event; or
- (d) The sale of all or substantially all of the assets of Company.

(e) The occurrence of any event that makes it unlawful or impossible to carry on the business of the Company.

9.02 Winding Up. On the dissolution of the Company, the Company's assets will be disposed of and its affairs wound up. The Company will give written notice of the commencement of the dissolution to all of its known creditors.

9.03 Order of Payment of Liabilities on Dissolution. After determining that all the known debts and liabilities of the Company have been paid or adequately provided for, the remaining assets will be distributed to the Members in accordance with their positive capital account balances, after taking into account Net Profit and Net Loss allocations for the Company's fiscal year during which liquidation occurs.

9.04 Limitations on Payments Made in Dissolution. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this Agreement, each Member will be entitled to look only to the assets of the Company for the return of his or her positive Capital Account balance and will have no recourse for his or her Capital Contribution and/or share of Net Profits against any other Member.

9.05 Certificates. The Company will file with the California Secretary of State a Certificate of Dissolution on the dissolution of the Company and a Certificate of Cancellation on the completion of the winding up of the Company's affairs.

ARTICLE 10 GENERAL PROVISIONS

[For an alternative indemnification provision, see § 12C.221[2], P 11.]

10.01 Indemnification of Agents. The Company will indemnify the Manager and any Member and may indemnify any person who was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party to any threatened, pending, or completed action, suit or proceeding by reason of the fact that he or she is or was a Manager, Member, officer, employee, or other agent of the Company or that, being or having been such a Manager, Member, officer, employee, or agent, he or she is or was serving at the request of the Company as a manager, director, officer, employee, or other agent of another limited liability company, corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, or other enterprise (all such persons being referred to hereinafter as an "agent"), to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law in effect on the date of this Agreement and to such greater extent as applicable law may hereafter from time to time permit.

10.02 Complete Agreement. This Agreement and the Articles constitute the complete and exclusive statement of agreement among the Members with respect to the subject matter herein and therein and replace and supersede all prior written and oral agreements among the Members. To the extent that any provision of the Articles conflict with any provision of this Agreement, the Articles shall control.

10.03 Binding Effect. Subject to the provisions of this Agreement relating to transferability, this Agreement will be binding on and inure to the benefit of the Members, and their respective successors and permitted assigns.

10.04 Interpretation. All headings are inserted only for convenience and ease of reference and are not to be considered in the interpretation of any provision of this Agreement. Numbered or lettered articles, sections and subsections contained in this Agreement refer to articles, sections and subsections of this Agreement unless otherwise expressly stated. In the event any claim is made by any Member relating to any conflict, omission, or ambiguity in this Agreement, no presumption or burden of proof or persuasion will be implied by virtue of the fact that this Agreement was prepared by or at the request of a particular Member or his or her counsel.

10.05 Jurisdiction. Each Member consents to the exclusive jurisdiction of the state and federal courts sitting in _____, California or the _____ District of California in any action on a claim arising out of, under or in connection with this Agreement or the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, provided that the claim is not required to be arbitrated pursuant to Section 10.08. Each Member further agrees that personal jurisdiction over him or her may be effected by service of process by registered or certified mail addressed as provided in Section 10.7 of this Agreement, and that when so made will be as if served upon him or her personally within the State of California.

10.06 Severability. If any provision of this Agreement or the application of any such provision to any person or circumstance shall be held invalid, the remainder of this Agreement or the application of such provision to persons or circumstances other than those to which it is held invalid shall not be affected thereby.

10.07 Notices. Any notice to be given or to be served on the Company or any party to this Agreement in connection with this Agreement must be in writing (which may include facsimile) and will be deemed to have been given and received when delivered to the address specified by the party to receive the notice. Notices will be given to a Member at the address specified in Exhibit A. Any party may, at any time by giving five days' prior written notice to the other Members, designate any other address in substitution of the foregoing address to which notice will be given.

10.08 Mediation and Arbitration.

(a) Mediation or Arbitration Required. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, any controversy or claim arising out of or relating to this Agreement or its breach will be settled by mediation, or by arbitration before a single arbitrator in the City of _____, California.

(b) Mediation. Before the commencement of arbitration proceedings, the parties will attempt in good faith to settle their dispute by mediation.

[For an alternative arbitration provision, see § 12C.221[2], Section 12.08.]

(c) Arbitration. Any matter not settled by mediation will be submitted to the American Arbitration Association for arbitration in the City of _____, California. The costs of the arbitration, including any American Arbitration Association administration fee, the arbitrator's fee, and costs for the use of facilities during the hearings, will be borne equally by the parties to the arbitration. Attorneys' fees may be awarded to the prevailing or most prevailing party at the discretion of the arbitrator. The provisions of Sections 1282.6, 1283, and 1283.05 of the California Code of Civil Procedure apply to the arbitration. The arbitrator will not have any power to alter, amend, modify, or change any of the terms of this Agreement, or any power to grant any remedy that is either prohibited by the terms of this Agreement, or not available in a court of law.

10.09 Amendments. All amendments to this Agreement will be in writing and signed by all Members affected by the amendment.

10.10 Attorney Fees. In the event that any dispute under or related to this Agreement between the Company and the Members or among the Members should result in litigation or arbitration, the prevailing party in the dispute will be entitled to recover from the other party all reasonable fees, costs, and expenses of enforcing any right of the prevailing party, including without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses, all of which will be deemed to have accrued upon the commencement of the action and be paid whether or not the action is prosecuted to judgment. Any judgment or order entered in the action will contain a specific provision providing for the recovery of attorney fees and costs incurred in enforcing the judgment and an award of prejudgment interest from the date of the breach at the maximum rate allowed by law.

10.11 Remedies Cumulative. The remedies under this Agreement are cumulative and do not exclude any other remedies to which any person may be lawfully entitled.

10.12 Spousal Consents. Concurrently with the execution of this Agreement, each married Member's spouse will execute the form of Spousal Consent attached to this Agreement as Exhibit D, and each Member agrees that all future spouses of that Member will execute this form on or before marriage.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, all of the Members of _____, LLC, a California limited liability company, have executed this Agreement, effective as of the date written above.

MANAGER: _____ [signature]

[typed name]

[date]

MEMBER: _____ [signature]

[typed name]

[date]

MEMBER: _____ [signature]

[typed name]

[date]

EXHIBIT A

CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS AND PERCENTAGE INTERESTS OF MEMBERS AS OF _____

MEMBER'S NAME AND ADDRESS	MEMBER'S CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS	MEMBER'S PERCENTAGE INTERESTS
	$	%
	$	%
	$	%
	$	%
	$	%

EXHIBIT B

INVESTMENTS OF THE COMPANY (As of _____ [date])

EXHIBIT C

SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT _____, LLC

A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY

I wish to become a Member of _____, LLC, a California Limited Liability Company ("Company"). I have read the Operating Agreement of the Company dated _____ [date] ("Operating Agreement") and I know and understand the terms of the Operating Agreement. I hereby subscribe to the Operating Agreement and agree to abide by and be subject to all of the terms and provisions of the Operating Agreement and agree that my Membership Interest is subject to the provisions of the Operating Agreement.

Date: _____

AGREED TO AND ACCEPTED ON BEHALF OF _____, LLC, A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY

Date: _____

_____, LLC, A CALIFORNIA LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY

By: _____

[typed name], Manager

EXHIBIT D*CONSENT OF SPOUSE

The undersigned spouse of a party to the Operating Agreement of _____, LLC ("Company") dated as of _____ [date] ("Agreement") acknowledges and agrees on his or her own behalf that: I have read the Agreement and I understand its contents. I am aware that by its provisions my spouse is subject to limited rights to receive payout of his or her investment and interest in the Company in the event of a termination of his or her participation as a Member in the Company, including my community interest (if any) in it. I further understand that these provisions apply whether the termination of his or her interest as a Member occurs voluntarily (e.g., as a result of withdrawal) or involuntarily (e.g., as the result of death, expulsion, or bankruptcy). I hereby consent to and approve of the provisions of the Agreement, and agree that the Membership Interest and my interest in it are subject to the provisions of the Agreement and that I will take no action at any time to hinder operation of the Agreement on that Membership Interest or my interest in it.

_____ [signature]

[typed name]

_____ [date]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Liability Companies Management Duties & Liabilities Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

100 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Organizational Documents

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.202-68A.209

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.202[Reserved]

101 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.210

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.210 General Partner Compensation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a partnership agreement provision stating that the general partners are entitled to compensation for services performed for the partnership [see § 68A.200[2], Section 8.05]. The amount of compensation should be reasonable and competitive as relates to comparable services. If the general partner is a parent, the compensation may provide a fixed stream of income.

Affording the general partners the right to compensation for services rendered to the partnership is one way of affecting the marketability of a limited partnership interest. Compensation paid to the general partners reduces the cash flow to the partners, potentially depressing the value of the partnership interest. Compensation for services rendered is essentially required in a family partnership by I.R.C. § 704(e)(2).

[2] FORM

General Partner Compensation

Compensation for General Partners

_____. The General Partner(s) [is/are] entitled to compensation for services rendered to the Partnership, and the Partnership will pay to the General Partner(s) compensation for any services the General Partner(s) render(s) to the Partnership in an amount commensurate with the value of services rendered, as determined by the General Partner(s). Compensation must be at reasonable and competitive rates for comparable services available in the areas in which the Partnership owns property.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities

102 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender &amp; Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.211

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.211 General Partner Succession

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision governing general partner succession designed for inclusion in a family limited partnership agreement. Typically, limited partnership agreements permit the general and limited partners to vote on the inclusion of new general partners, and afford the limited partners the right to admit a new general partner after the sole remaining general partner ceases to be a partner [see § 68A.200[2], Sections 3.03, 3.04]. This alternative provision permits someone outside the partnership to nominate and vote on successor general partners. This person might be the business owner's executor, a trusted business advisor, or a key employee.

[2] FORM

General Partner Succession

Replacement of Sole Remaining General Partner

_____. If a sole remaining General Partner ceases to be a General Partner and there is no remaining General Partner, one or more new General Partners may be admitted to the Partnership. _____ [Name of executor, trusted business advisor, or key employee] and the Limited Partners may nominate candidates for General Partner. New General Partners may be admitted to the Partnership on the written consent of _____ [name of executor, trusted business advisor, or key employee] and [specify number or percentage of limited partnership interests of the limited partners, e.g., a majority in interest or all] of the Limited Partners; provided, however, that the Limited Partners agree in writing to continue the business of the Partnership pursuant to Section [specify section number] of this Agreement.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Dissolution & Winding Up Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities

103 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.212

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.212 General Partner Has Absolute Distribution Authority

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides that general partners have absolute control over the timing and amount of cash distributions to the limited partners [see § 68A.200[2], Section 5.02]. This provision tends to reduce the marketability of a limited partnership interest, thereby increasing the applicable valuation discount and depressing the fair market value of that interest. For discussion of the use of valuation discounts, see §§ 68A.40 and 68A.82.

Counsel should note that giving the general partners absolute control over cash distributions could cause a gift of a partnership interest to fail the "present interest" requirement of the annual gift tax exclusion [see § 68A.41]. Further, the fiduciary duty of the general partners should not be weakened, since doing so could cause the IRS to examine whether a retained interest exists for estate tax purposes [see § 68A.40[2][b]].

[2] FORM

General Partner's Absolute Distribution Authority

Absolute Distribution Authority

_____. The General Partner(s) may elect from time to time to make cash distributions from the Partnership to the Limited Partners in proportion to their interests. Cash distributions may be limited in order to reinvest and grow the assets of the Partnership to further the long term outlook of the Partnership.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited

Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities

104 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.213

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.213 Limitations on Authority of General Partners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form limits the authority of the general partners to manage the family business by requiring that certain actions require the affirmative vote of a majority in interest of the limited partners, and that certain actions require the affirmative vote of all the limited partners. It can be substituted for the more general provision limiting the authority of general partners, as set forth in the complete family limited partnership agreement [see § 68A.200[2], Section 8.04]. It is important to coordinate the language of this provision with the provision governing the voting rights of the limited partners [see § 68A.200[2], Section 8.06] to ensure that they are entitled to vote on each of the actions requiring their approval. This provision must also be coordinated with any provision restricting the authority of general and limited partners to take specific acts [see, e.g., § 68A.200[2], Section 12.01 (specified prohibited transactions)].

[2] FORM

Limitations on Authority of General Partners

_____. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of [identify provision authorizing general partner powers, e.g., Section 8.03 of this Agreement], the consent of a majority in interest of the Limited Partners is required to take the following actions:

- (1) Loan Partnership funds in excess of _____ [specify amount, e.g., $25,000] to any Partner.
- (2) Loan Partnership funds to any Partner for a term exceeding _____ [specify term, e.g., one year].
- (3) Possess Partnership property, or assign rights in Partnership property, without a Partnership purpose.
- (4) Make any non-pro rata distribution or return of capital to any Partner, except as otherwise expressly authorized by this Agreement.

- (5) Perform any act that would subject any Limited Partner to liability as a General Partner.
  - (6) Confess a judgment against the Partnership.
  - (7) File or consent to file a petition for bankruptcy for or against the Partnership.
  - (8) Perform any act that renders or would render the continuation of ordinary Partnership business impossible.
  - (9) Perform any action in contravention of this Agreement.
- (b) The General Partners may not take any of the following actions without the prior unanimous, written consent of all Limited Partners:
- (1) Amend the Partnership Agreement.
  - (2) Change or reorganize the Partnership into any other legal form of business.
  - (3) Directly or indirectly hold any beneficial interests in any deed of trust, mortgage, or other encumbrance that is secured by a lien on Partnership property.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities

105 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.214

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.214 Limited Partner Acknowledgment That Cash Distributions May Not Cover Tax Liability

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides that, by signing the partnership agreement, each limited partner acknowledges that the partner may not receive sufficient cash distributions from the partnership during a particular accounting period to cover income taxes imposed on that partner's distributive share of partnership income. The form is designed to notify limited partners of the potential for phantom income. For further discussion, see Ch. 15, General Partnerships .

[2] FORM

Limited Partner Acknowledgment that Cash Distributions May Not Cover Tax Liability

_____. By signing this Agreement, each Limited Partner acknowledges that he or she may not receive sufficient cash distributions from the Partnership during a specific [accounting year or reporting period] to cover income taxes imposed on that Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's taxable income or gain for that [year or period].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

106 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.215

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.215 Limited Partners May Engage in Competing Activities

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides that the limited partners may participate or invest in business activities that might be in direct or indirect competition with the Partnership [see § 68A.200[2], Section 8.09]. The form clarifies that neither the partnership nor any other individual partner has any right to income derived from those investments. The form further provides that the limited partners may keep any investment opportunity or prospective economic advantage for themselves, need not present it to the partnership, and may recommend it to nonpartners.

This form can be tailored to limit the scope of the investment freedom provided to the limited partners. Further, this form can be adapted to cover any other family members who might not hold a limited partnership interest.

[2] FORM

Limited Partners May Engage in Competing Activities

Competing Activities

_____. The Limited Partners may, independently or with others, participate or invest in any business activity of any description, including without limitation business activities that might be the same as or similar to the Partnership's business and that might compete, directly or indirectly, with the Partnership. Neither the Partnership nor any other partner is entitled to any right in or to those other business activities, or to any income or proceeds derived from those other business activities. The Limited Partners are not obligated to present any investment opportunity or prospective economic advantage to the Partnership, including when the opportunity is of a type that, if presented to the Partnership, could be taken by the Partnership. The Limited Partners have the right to hold any investment opportunity or prospective economic advantage for their own account, or to recommend that opportunity or advantage to persons outside the Partnership.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities

107 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.216

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.216 Transfers From Custodianships

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides that, when a limited partnership interest is held by a custodian for a minor, the interest is transferable to the minor when he or she reaches the age of majority [see [b], below]. The form further provides that no offer to purchase need be made to the partnership. The form may be used when a limited partnership interest will be transferred to a minor.

[b] Gifts to Minors

Minor children do not have the legal capacity to manage their own property, and some other person must ordinarily act on their behalf. This other person may be a guardian [see Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.], a custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (CUTMA) [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.], or a trustee acting under a trust instrument.

Property held for a minor by a guardian or a custodian under CUTMA is ordinarily transferred to the minor when he or she reaches the age of 18. However, an instrument of inter vivos transfer may postpone the ultimate transfer to a later time, not to exceed the minor's twenty-first birthday [Prob. Code §§ 3920, 3920.5(b), (e)]. Any attempt to delay distribution beyond age 21 will be futile [Prob. Code § 3920.5(h)]. Because children who have attained the age of majority may still lack the maturity to properly manage substantial sums of money or property, a trust may be an appropriate vehicle to secure property management after the child reaches the age of majority.

For discussion of CUTMA, see Ch. 60A, Gifts. Guardianships for minor children are discussed in Ch. 66, Guardianship and Conservatorship Planning. Inter vivos trusts are discussed in Ch. 72, Irrevocable Trusts. For further discussion of problems faced by minors who acquire property by gift or inheritance, see California Wills and Trusts,

Ch. 28, Devises to Minors , and Ch. 37, Nomination of Guardians for Minor Children (Matthew Bender).

[c] When Transferor Should Not Act as Custodian

CUTMA permits the transferor to act as custodian of a wide variety of gifts made under the Act [see Prob. Code § 3909(a)]. In general, the transferor can act as custodian if the transfer is reflected in the public records or notice of the transfer is given to an appropriate third person [Recommendation Relating to Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, 17 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 601, 620 (1984)].

However, the transferor should not be the custodian for gifts when the transfer of possession and control to a third party is necessary to establish donative intent and consummation of the transfer [Recommendation Relating to Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, 17 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 601, 620 (1984)]. For example, a transferor cannot generally act as custodian if the transfer is not reflected in the public records and no notice of the transfer is given to a third person. The transferor cannot simply keep the gift property and purport to make an irrevocable transfer by executing and retaining an instrument transferring the property to himself or herself as custodian [Recommendation Relating to Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, 17 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 601, 621 (1984)]. This rule is designed to avoid uncertainty and discourage fraud. Further, if the transferor acts as custodian, the transfer will not ordinarily qualify as a completed gift obligation for federal gift tax purposes.

For further discussion of CUTMA and federal gift tax law, see Ch. 60A, Gifts .

[2] FORM

Transfers From Custodianships

Transfers From Custodianships

_____. Notwithstanding Section(s) [specify section(s) delineating transfer restrictions and right of first refusal provisions in partnership agreement, e.g., 10.01 through 10.04] of this Agreement, any Limited Partner Interest held by a custodian for a minor [optional: under the laws of _____ (specify state)] are fully transferable and assignable to the minor when the minor reaches the age of [specify ages 18, 19, 20, or 21, as desired]. Such a Limited Partner Interest is fully transferable without an offer for purchase being made to the Partnership.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

108 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.217

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.217 Consent of Spouse

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a spousal consent and acknowledgment form. By its terms, the spouse acknowledges that his or her spouse has granted the partnership an option to purchase his or her partnership interest, including the community property interest. The form constitutes approval of the terms of the partnership agreement, acknowledgment that any interest of the spouse is subject to the terms of the partnership agreement, a promise not to hinder the operation of the partnership agreement, and the spouse's consent to any sale of a limited partnership interest to the partnership.

This form may be included as an exhibit to the complete limited partnership agreement [see § 68A.200[2]]. It may also be used as a separate instrument to record spousal consents after the execution of the partnership agreement.

[2] FORM

Consent of Spouse

Consent of Spouse

The undersigned spouse of a party to the _____ [family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement acknowledges on his or her own behalf:

1. I have read the _____ [family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement and understand its contents.

2. I am aware that under the _____ [family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement, my spouse has granted the Partnership and/or the other Limited Partners an option to purchase all or part of his or her Partnership Interest, including my community interest in that Partnership Interest, if any.

3. I approve of the provisions of the _____[family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement, and agree that my spouse's Partnership Interest and any interest that I might have in that Partnership Interest are subject to the provisions of the _____[family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement.

4. I consent to any such sale under the _____[family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement.

5. I will take no action at any time to hinder the operation of the _____[family name] Family Limited Partnership Agreement on that Partnership Interest or any interest I might have in that Partnership Interest.

Date: _____.

_____ [signature]
[typed name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

109 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.218

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.218 Buy-Out as Consequence of Marital Dissolution

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form deals with the consequences of the marital dissolution of a limited partner. The form provides that a limited partnership interest must be allocated in the property division to the limited partner rather than the limited partner's spouse to the extent possible. The form further provides that if a former spouse receives any limited partnership interest, that former spouse must promptly notify the partnership. The limited partner previously married to the former spouse has the first option to purchase all or part of the limited partnership interest. The partnership and/or the other limited partners (other than the former spouse) then have the right to purchase the former spouse's limited partnership interest. If the partnership and/or the limited partners do not exercise their options as to all of the former spouse's limited partnership interest, the former spouse may continue to hold the interest subject to the terms of the family partnership agreement [see § 68A.200[2]].

This form is silent as to the existence of a prenuptial agreement. Although counsel should consider including a promise in the buy-sell agreement requiring the signing of prenuptial agreements [see § 68A.81[3]], this requirement may provoke strong resentment. An alternative would be a spousal consent to a particular buy-sell agreement. However, if a prenuptial agreement or other outside agreement includes provisions concerning the effect of divorce, this form should not conflict with that agreement, and the form should reference that agreement.

This form can also be used in a separate buy-sell agreement. For buy-sell agreements generally, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements.

[2] FORM

Buy-Out as Consequence of Marital Dissolution

Dissolution of Marriage; Buy-Out

_____. (a) Any Limited Partnership Interest subject to transfer, disposition, or allocation in connection with a marital settlement agreement, legal separation, dissolution of marriage, or annulment ("Marital Dissolution"), as to the entire interest, whether community or separate property, of any Limited Partner and any Limited Partner's spouse, must be allocated in the property division to the Limited Partner and not the Limited Partner's spouse ("Former Spouse") to the extent possible. However, if a Former Spouse receives, retains, or is awarded any Limited Partnership Interest, the Former Spouse must promptly notify the Partnership. The Partnership and/or the other Limited Partners (other than the Former Spouse) have the right to purchase, and the Former Spouse has the duty to sell, the Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest as provided in this Section _____ of this Agreement.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision specifying a time limit for notifying the Partnership of the intent to purchase, in the event of a Marital Dissolution, the Limited Partner has the option, exercisable for [specify, e.g., 90 days] following the later of Marital Dissolution or the transfer of the Limited Partnership Interest pursuant to Marital Dissolution, to purchase any or all of the Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest at the price and on the terms provided in this Section _____ of this Agreement.

(c) If the Limited Partner does not exercise the option to purchase all of the Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest within [specify same option period as in (b), above], the Limited Partner must promptly give notice of that fact to the Partnership and the other Limited Partners. The Partnership has an assignable option, exercisable at any time thereafter, to purchase and redeem any or all of the Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest at the price and on the terms provided in this Section _____ of this Agreement.

(d) A purchase of a Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest is initiated by the Partnership (or the Limited Partner(s) exercising the Partnership's right as assignee) by providing written notice of intent to purchase to the General Partner(s) and the Former Spouse. Within 30 days after the determination of price, the Partnership (or the Limited Partner(s) who filed the notice of intent to purchase) must give written notice to the Former Spouse to confirm or withdraw the notice of intent to purchase. If the notice of intent to purchase is confirmed, the closing for the sale must be held in accordance with the closing procedures specified in Section _____ of this Agreement for the sale of a Former Limited Partner's Interest.

(e) The purchase price of a Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest is determined as provided in Section _____ of this Agreement, except that the determination of the purchase price is initiated by the notice of intent to purchase, and all deadlines are measured from the date of that notice. Further, the purchase price is determined as of the Marital Dissolution or, if the notice of intent to purchase is given more than [specify period, e.g., 180 days] after the Marital Dissolution, as of the date of the notice of intent to purchase.

(f) If the Partnership and the Limited Partners do not exercise their option as to all of the Former Spouse's Limited Partnership Interest, the Former Spouse may continue to hold the interest, subject to the terms of the Agreement.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Dissolution & Winding Up Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

110 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.219

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.219 Provision Requiring Prenuptial Agreements for Limited Partners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision designed to be included in a family limited partnership agreement requiring all limited partners to execute a prenuptial agreement before marriage. This provision should be used in conjunction with a spousal consent provision acknowledging the effect of right of first refusal provisions (or other transfer restrictions) on the spouse's community property interest in the limited partnership interest [see § 68A.200[2], Section 15.16]. As an alternative to this form, the partnership agreement may set out the consequences of marital dissolution [see § 68A.218].

[2] FORM

Provision Requiring Prenuptial Agreements for Limited Partners

Execution of Prenuptial Agreements

_____. The Limited Partners agree to make [best or reasonable or good faith] efforts to execute a prenuptial agreement before any marriage occurring after the date of this Agreement. [Optional: The Limited Partners further promise full disclosure of their assets in the negotiation of a prenuptial agreement, and that the prenuptial agreement will be drafted and executed with the assistance of counsel.]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

111 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.220

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.220 Grant of Special Power of Attorney

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a special power of attorney, executed by the limited partners, irrevocably appointing the general partner as their attorney in fact to execute, sign, acknowledge, record and file specified partnership documents on behalf of the limited partners and the partnership. When included in a limited partnership agreement, the provision is ordinarily placed in the article containing miscellaneous provisions [see § 68A.200, Section 15.01 et seq.].

[2] FORM

Grant of Special Power of Attorney

Grant of Special Power of Attorney

_____. (a) By their execution of this Agreement, the Limited Partners, jointly and severally, irrevocably constitute and appoint the General Partner(s), _____ [name(s)], with full power of substitution, to be their true and lawful attorney in fact, in their name, place and stead, to make, execute, sign, acknowledge, deliver, record, and file, on behalf of them and on behalf of the Partnership, the following:

- (1) Deeds of trust, security agreements, and transfer documents.
- (2) Assignments of Partnership Interests or other documents of transfer to be delivered in connection with the transfer or purchase of a partnership interest.
- (3) A Certificate of Limited Partnership, any amendments to that Certificate, and any other certificates or instruments that may be required to be filed by the Partnership or the Partners under the laws of California and any other jurisdiction whose laws may be applicable to the Partnership.

(4) A Certificate of Cancellation of the Partnership and any other instruments or documents as may be deemed necessary or desirable by the General Partner on the termination of the Partnership business.

(5) Any and all amendments to the instruments described above in Subparagraphs (1) through (4) or this Section _____ of this Agreement, provided that those amendments are either required by law to be filed, are consistent with this Agreement, or have been authorized by the particular Limited Partners.

(6) Any document or instrument needed to reflect any reduction in a Limited Partner's Capital Account or percentage interest.

(7) Any and all other instruments or documents that may be deemed reasonably necessary or desirable by the General Partner(s) to carry out fully the provisions of this Agreement in accordance with its terms.

(b) This grant of authority is a Special Power of Attorney coupled with an Interest, is irrevocable, and survives the granting Limited Partner's death, incapacity, or dissolution.

(c) This grant of authority survives the delivery of an assignment by a Limited Partner of the whole or any portion of the partner's interest.

(d) The General Partner(s) may exercise this special power of attorney by a facsimile signature, or by listing all of the Limited Partners executing any instrument with a single signature as attorney in fact for all of them.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

112 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.221

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.221 Determination of Fair Market Value

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision for a family limited partnership agreement stating the method for valuing the fair market value of a partnership interest subject to transfer. The interest is valued by multiplying the current appraised value of the partnership's tangible assets by (1) the applicable percentage interest and (2) the discounted percentage reflecting the lack of marketability and other restrictions applicable to the partnership interest. The form also covers the selection and payment of the appraiser.

Use of this form should be considered in all partnerships, since I.R.C. § 2703 will normally disregard any restriction on value in a family-owned partnership and thus require the use of fair market value. The provision should alert the partners that an experienced appraiser of partnership interests will be needed.

[2] FORM

Determination of Fair Market Value

Determination of Fair Market Value

_____. (a) The "Fair Market Value" of a Partnership Interest in the _____ [name] Family Limited Partnership is the amount determined by multiplying (1) the "Current Appraised Value" of the Partnership's tangible assets [see P (c), below], by (2) the percentage interest represented by the Partnership Interest being transferred, by (3) the "Discounted Percentage."

(b) The Current Appraised Value must be determined by an appraiser selected by the General Partner(s). If there is no General Partner at that time, the appraiser may be selected by a majority in interest of the Limited Partners, excluding the interest held by the transferring Partner. The appraiser must be independent of and unaffiliated with the Partnership and the person or persons selecting the appraiser. The appraiser must have at least [specify experience requirements for appraiser, e.g., five years experience] in valuing the type of asset involved. The appraiser's fee will be paid by the Partnership.

(c) The "Current Appraised Value" equals the appraiser's determination of the Fair Market Value of the Partnership's tangible assets as of the date notice of intent to sell is given to the Partnership or the date of the event triggering the determination of value, as applicable. "Tangible assets" means all tangible assets of the Partnership, including but not limited to the properties, available cash, investment and deposit accounts; the term "tangible assets" does not include any valuation of goodwill or other intangible assets. The appraiser's valuation must account for the amount of all loans, encumbrances, liens, and other liabilities of the Partnership as of the valuation date. The valuation must take into account the fair market value of the properties and other assets, and should consider the inability of a Limited Partner to affect management and the limited liability of a Limited Partner, the potential unlimited liability of a General Partner and the effect a General Partner has on management, and all other appropriate valuation adjustments, including but not limited to adjustments for lack of marketability and/or minority interests, if applicable.

(d) The appraiser's determination must be made within [specify, e.g., 30 days] of the circumstances requiring the determination of fair market value.

(e) The appraiser's determination of Fair Market Value is final, binding, and conclusive.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Dissolution & Winding Up Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

113 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
 PART IV. FORMS
 B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.222

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.222 Waiver of Right to Seek Dissolution Not Required by Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision for inclusion in a family limited partnership agreement, under which the partners waive any right to seek the dissolution of the partnership when dissolution is not otherwise required by the partnership agreement. Specifically, the form waives each partner's right to seek the appointment of a receiver or trustee to liquidate the partnership or to seek judicial dissolution when it is impracticable to continue partnership business in accordance with the agreement, or when dissolution is reasonably necessary to protect the partner's rights or interests. Whether the use of this form is appropriate or advisable will depend to a great extent on the client's and counsel's assessment of the operating dynamics of the family [see §§ 68A.13, 68A.81, 68A.111]. This provision may also constitute an "applicable restriction" affecting the valuation discount under I.R.C. § 2704(b) [see § 68A.40[2][e]], but may nevertheless be appropriate for certain clients.

[2] FORM

Waiver of Right to Seek Dissolution Not Required by Agreement

Waiver of Right to Seek Dissolution

_____. The [Limited Partners or General and Limited Partners] acknowledge that irreparable damage could be done to the Partnership's reputation and goodwill if one or more Partners bring a judicial action to dissolve the Partnership under circumstances under which dissolution is not required by [specify, e.g., Article 13] of this Agreement. This Agreement has been drafted carefully to treat all parties fairly, and to provide an equitable value and payment for Partnership Interests. Therefore, except when dissolution is required by [specify, e.g., Article 13] of this Agreement and no one has liquidated the Partnership, each [Limited Partner or General and Limited Partner] hereby waives any right to initiate legal action to seek the appointment of a receiver or trustee to liquidate the Partnership, or to seek a decree of judicial dissolution of the Partnership on the ground that (1) it is not reasonably practicable to continue the business in conformity with the Partnership Agreement, or (2) dissolution is reasonably necessary for the protection of the rights or interests of the complaining Partner.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Dissolution & Winding Up Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships Formation

114 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
B. Related Family Business Provisions

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 68A.223-68A.239

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

[Reserved]

§§ 68A.223[Reserved]

115 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
C. Client Letters

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.240

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.240 Client Letter Summarizing Use of Family Limited Partnerships

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a client letter designed to educate the client about the need for advance estate planning and the potential benefits of the use of family limited partnerships, such as valuation discounts [see § 68A.40[2]]. The form assumes that the client has some form of family business in existence.

Educating the client about the need for estate planning is very significant. Because of high estate and gift tax rates, failing to adequately plan and coordinate business and estate planning will have a deleterious effect on the size of the overall estate passed to younger generations, as well as potentially crippling the family business. However, it is important not to oversell the use and benefits of family limited partnerships. This chapter provides guidelines for the use of family limited partnerships, in terms of financial thresholds, family issues, potentially complicated creation and administration of family limited partnerships, and the financial planning involved in maximizing the tax benefits of the entity [see § 68A.80 et seq.].

This letter can also be combined with client letters typically sent at the end of the year, that summarize the tax changes that might be of interest to the client. This type of client letter should be sent to clients sufficiently before the end of the year to permit the use of tax planning strategies, for example, the use of the annual gift tax exclusion.

[b] Reviewing Letter

Counsel should review all client letters before mailing to ensure that all issues and potential problems that can arise in the course of the subject of the letter are covered. As a rule of thumb, the letter should be reviewed with the idea that a client should not be able to state that his or her lawyer "never warned me about that."

[2] FORM*Client Letter Summarizing Use of Family Limited Partnerships

[Letterhead]

_____ [date]

[Name and address of client]

Dear _____ [Name of client] :

[I am or We are] writing to alert you to the need for estate planning, in particular with regard to your _____ [specify type of business, e.g., real estate management] business, and the potential estate tax savings that may be achieved through careful and precise estate planning. Specifically, this letter outlines the advantages and disadvantages of the use of family limited partnerships. Given the current high estate and gift tax rates, the failure to adequately plan for the transfer of the business to younger generations can seriously affect the net value of bequests and have a crippling effect on the business itself.

[If client letter will include summary of annual tax changes, add: This letter also summarizes the more significant aspects of the federal tax changes of _____ (specify year or title of act), which may affect your financial and estate plans.]

SUMMARY*USE OF FAMILY LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS

1. Business Purpose. A family limited partnership must have a bona fide business purpose. Examples include making money and securing joint management of business property.

In addition, a family limited partnership allows a family to act as an integrated economic unit. Older generations can maintain control of the business and assets while teaching business and investment skills to younger generations. With proper planning, the pooled assets can retain their economic power, or avoid division of business interests, even after the senior generation passes on. It is important to treat the partnership as a separate entity and to provide information to the partners and, where appropriate, to seek their input.

2. Asset Protection. Creditors of a partner ordinarily cannot reach the assets of the partnership without a charging order obtained from a court. A "charging order" entitles a creditor to receive distributions attributable to the debtor-partner directly from the partnership, but does not entitle the holder to require that the partnership make distributions. The partnership may repurchase the partnership interest subject to a charging order at the interest's fair market value (i.e., the discounted value of the partnership interest rather than a proportional share of the partnership's underlying assets).

3. Retained Control. The general partner retains control over the limited partnership, including investment decisions, distributions, and all other aspects of management. Under California law, limited partners may not participate in the management and control of a limited partnership without losing their limited liability. However, the general partner has a fiduciary duty to treat the limited partners fairly.

4. Valuation Discounts. The value of a limited partnership interest is generally less than the value of a pro rata share of partnership assets when a partner's ability to sell or assign the interest is significantly restricted, a single partner cannot force dissolution, or the duration of the partnership is lengthy. Further, because partners own a fractional share of the partnership, rather than a complete interest in one or more smaller assets that might be easily liquidated, the value of the partnership interest is less than the pro rata share of partnership assets. These types of discounts in the context of estate and gift taxes are typically referred to as discounts for lack of marketability and minority interest discounts. Although discounts will vary depending on the nature of the underlying partnership assets and the anticipated return on the partnership interest, these discounts can be applied to transfer the discounted value out of your estate to your children, which results in income and asset appreciation outside of your estate. The use of valuation discounts requires appraisals of the partnership interests and comparisons with other limited partnership interests that, for example, are not subject to transfer restrictions.

5. Taxation. Income derived from partnership assets passes through to the partners in proportion to their percentage ownership interests. Real property transferred to a family limited partnership is exempt from reassessment only when the property owners will own the partnership in precisely the same proportions as they owned the property before transfer. Taking advantage of this exemption from reassessment requires careful planning.

6. Advantages. Using a family limited partnership allows the business owner to achieve tax benefits without losing control. Using valuation discounts can result in substantial estate and gift tax savings. The discounts apply to lifetime gifts of partnership interests and interests transferred at death, although discounts with respect to lifetime gifts may be easier to sustain. Gifts shift both the discounted value of the interest out of the estate, as well as income attributable to that interest. This income-shifting effect can result in less income tax overall if the limited partner is subject to lower tax rates than the donor.

7. Disadvantages. Using a family limited partnership is aggressive for tax purposes, and it is a complicated entity subject to complicated income tax rules. The Internal Revenue Service views these entities with a jaundiced eye, and its use may trigger an audit. Further, estate and gift tax rules might be legislatively changed.

The cost of a family limited partnership, including legal, accounting, appraisal, formation, and ongoing expenses, ranges from [specify estimated cost, e.g., $15,000 to $30,000], depending on the complexity of the partnership and the nature of the transferred assets. However, ongoing annual expenses, such as filing fees, accounting, appraisals, and income tax compliance, are likely to be outweighed by estate tax savings.

8. Timing. Formation of a family limited partnership cannot be accomplished overnight. After the decision is made to form the partnership, an agreement must be drafted and reviewed, general partners and property appropriate for transfer to the partnership must be identified, appraisal(s) must be secured, the partnership must be registered, formal transfer of property must take place, and gifts must be made. This process can be lengthy and time and asset consuming.

[If desired, add summary of year's tax changes that might affect client's tax situation.]

[If tax summary included, add: This letter greatly simplifies the complex tax changes enacted _____ (in _____ (year) or by the _____ (name of tax legislation)). This letter is intended for general informational purposes, to inform you of recent tax developments. This letter is not tailored to your specific tax planning needs; it is not intended to provide specific legal advice for your situation and should not be relied on as such.]

[Continue with the following:]

[I or We] welcome the opportunity to consult with you on these or other concerns that you might have.

Best regards.

Sincerely, _____ [signature]

[attorney's name]

[firm name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview

116 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 68A USING FAMILY PARTNERSHIPS AND OTHER BUSINESS ENTITIES IN ESTATE PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
C. Client Letters

25-68A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 68A.241

AUTHOR: Steven M. Goldberg Practice Consultant

§ 68A.241 Client Letter Emphasizing Need for Estate and Business Succession Planning

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a client letter designed to communicate the need for estate planning as well as business succession planning for family businesses. Many family businesses do not survive the transition to the second generation, in no small part due to the lack of coordinated estate and business succession planning. The failure to act in this area can endanger the family's well-being. This letter educates the client about the advantages of planning and the potential adverse consequences of failing to plan.

Succession planning is part of the job of a family business leader. However, the business owner may be unwilling to face his or her own retirement (or death). Further, as the family business moves from one or two individuals having authority and power to run the business to a group of siblings, additional stresses are placed on the business. When succession issues are not handled in advance, family members will tend to develop their own expectations; those expectations may be more difficult to deal with in the future than facing the issue in the present. Counsel is well-advised to encourage a client to prepare and install a succession plan.

For further discussion, see §§ 68A.14[2], 68A.15, 69.43, and 68A.81[1], [2].

[b] Reviewing Letter

Counsel should review all client letters before mailing to ensure that all issues and potential problems that can arise in the course of the subject of the letter are covered. As a rule of thumb, the letter should be reviewed with the notion that a client should not be able to state that his or her lawyer "never warned me about that."

[2] FORM

Client Letter Emphasizing Need for Estate and Business Succession Planning

[Letterhead]

_____ [date]

[Name and address of client]

Dear _____ [Name of client] :

[I am or We are] writing about the important need for individual estate planning, business succession planning, and the coordination of these plans. Without a coordinated plan, a significant portion of a family's wealth may go toward death taxes, and the business may be crippled.

Because current estate and gift and generation-skipping transfer tax rates are high, an unplanned estate may suffer significant tax consequences. Most family businesses do not survive the transfer to the next generation. Optimally, estate planning should begin as wealth begins to accumulate. The earlier the planning, the more likely it is that the business owner's overall, combined objectives may be met.

Often one of the least attractive features of family business leadership is the selection of a successor. However, the failure to develop a succession plan could endanger the family's future financial well-being and may lead to family discord. Further, absent a succession plan, family members will tend to develop their own expectations about their future roles in the business, which may be more difficult to deal with in the future than facing the issue now.

Therefore, planning for leadership succession is critical to the long-term survival of family businesses and is part of the job description. By sharing your vision of the future, both family and business, and by preparing for leadership succession, you can provide your business with its best chances for survival and prosperity.

[I or We] welcome the opportunity to consult with you on these or other concerns that you might have.

Best regards.

Sincerely, _____ [signature]

[attorney's name]

[firm name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Limited Partnerships General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law General Overview

117 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide 69.syn

§ 69.syn Synopsis to Chapter 69: CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS

§ 69.01 California Statutes

§ 69.02 Federal Statutes

§ 69.03 Federal Regulations

§ 69.04 Law Reviews

§ 69.05 Annotations

§ 69.06 Text References

[1] Related Forms With Tax Analysis

[2] Related California Forms

[3] Additional Text References

§ 69.07 Pamphlets

§§ 69.08-69.09 [Reserved]

§ 69.10 Modern Role of Charitable Dispositions

§ 69.11 Legal Aspects of Charitable Dispositions

§ 69.12 Cy Pres Doctrine

§ 69.13 Rule Against Perpetuities

§ 69.14 Forms of Charitable Disposition

[1] In General

[2] Testamentary Disposition

[3] Outright Inter Vivos Gift

[4] Charitable Trust

[5] Private Foundation

§ 69.15 Federal Income Tax Deduction

[1] In General

[2] Definition of "Charitable Contribution"

[3] Excluded Contributions

[4] Contributions Qualifying for Maximum Deduction

[5] Contributions of Appreciated Property

[6] Additional Deductions for Contributions of Qualified Intellectual Property

[7] Carryover for Excess Contributions

§ 69.16 Federal Estate and Gift Tax Deductions

[1] In General

[2] Qualifying Organizations

[3] Particular Types of Contributions

[4] Valuation of Gifts

§ 69.17 Estate Tax Exclusion for Gift of Qualified Conservation Easement

[1] Nature of Exclusion

[2] Limitations on Amount of Exclusion

[3] Ownership Requirements and Qualified Contributors

[4] Location of Land

[5] Terms of Qualified Conservation Easement

§ 69.18 California Income Tax Deduction

§§ 69.19-69.99 [Reserved]

§ 69.100 Facts

Scope

§ 69.101 Documents

Scope

§§ 69.102-69.119 [Reserved]

§ 69.120 Availability of Charitable Deduction

Scope

§ 69.121 Valuation of Property

Scope

§ 69.122 Estimate of Available Federal Income Tax Deduction

Scope

§ 69.123 Other Tax Computations

Scope

§ 69.124 Acceptability of Contribution

Scope

§§ 69.125-69.139 [Reserved]

§ 69.140 Inter Vivos Gifts

Scope

§ 69.141 Testamentary Dispositions

Scope

§§ 69.142-69.159 [Reserved]

§ 69.160 General Drafting Requirements and Inter Vivos Instruments

Scope

§ 69.161 Testamentary Instruments

Scope

§§ 69.162-69.179 [Reserved]

§ 69.180 Computation of Federal Income Tax Deduction for Charitable Gifts

Scope

§ 69.181 Computation of California Individual Income Tax Charitable Deduction

Scope

§§ 69.182-69.299 [Reserved]

§ 69.300 Letter Formalizing Charitable Gift

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Need for More Formal Gift Instrument

[c] Importance of Written Record

[2] FORM

Letter Formalizing Charitable Gift

§ 69.301 Corporate Resolution for Charitable Contribution

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Federal Income Tax Considerations

[2] FORM

Corporate Resolution for Charitable Contribution

§§ 69.302-69.319 [Reserved]

§ 69.320 General Form for Inter Vivos Gift to Charitable Organization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Modification of Form for Gifts to Specific Types of Entities

[c] Execution, Delivery, and Validity in General

[d] Tax Considerations in Inter Vivos Gifts--In General

[2] FORM

General Form for Inter Vivos Gift to Charitable Organization

§ 69.321 Corporate Gift of Inventory for Care of Ill or Needy or Qualified Research Contribution

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Tax Treatment of Qualified Contributions

[c] Contributions of Inventory for Care of Ill, Needy, or Infants

[d] Qualified Research Contributions

[2] FORM

Corporate Gift of Inventory for Care of Ill or Needy or Qualified Research Contribution

§§ 69.322-69.339 [Reserved]

§ 69.340 General Form of Acceptance and Receipt

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Importance of Written Records

[c] Time Frame for Obtaining Receipt

[2] FORM

General Form of Acceptance and Receipt

§ 69.341 Acceptance and Receipt of Corporate Gift of Inventory for Care of Ill or Needy or for Scientific Research

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Acceptance and Receipt of Corporate Gift of Inventory for Care of Ill or Needy or for Scientific Research

§§ 69.342-69.359 [Reserved]

§ 69.360 Pecuniary Devise to Charity--General Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Importance of Determining Tax Consequences

[c] Description of Beneficiary

[d] Alternate Beneficiary

[2] FORM

Pecuniary Devise to Charity--General Form

§ 69.361 Testamentary Gift of Property to Charity--General Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Tax Considerations--Gifts of Partial Interests

[2] FORM

Testamentary Gift of Property to Charity--General Form

§ 69.362 Residuary Devise to Charity

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Residuary Disposition to Charity

§ 69.363 Selection of Charity to Be Made by Executor

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Selection of Charity to Be Made by Executor

§ 69.364 Selection of Charity to Be Made by Trustee

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Selection of Charity to Be Made by Trustee

§ 69.365 Disposition for Specific Purpose With Discretion to Use for Other Charitable Purpose

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Disposition for Specific Purpose With Discretion to Use for Other Charitable Purpose

§ 69.366 Disposition Exclusively for Specific Purpose--Alternative Disposition of Amounts Not So Expended

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Should Use of Gift Be Limited to Specified Purpose?

[2] FORM

Disposition Exclusively for Specific Purpose--Alternative Disposition of Amounts Not So Expended

§ 69.367 Disposition Exclusively for Benefit of Specific Organization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Application of Cy Pres Doctrine

[2] FORM

Disposition Exclusively for Benefit of Specific Organization

§§ 69.368-69.379 [Reserved]

§ 69.380 Gift for Support of Clergy Member

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Designation of Beneficiary

[c] Individual Clergy Member as Beneficiary--Tax Considerations

[2] FORM

Gift for Support of Clergy Member

§ 69.381 Gift for Construction or Acquisition of Property for Religious Purposes

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift for Construction or Acquisition of Property for Religious Purposes

§ 69.382 Gift to Support Missionary Activities

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift to Support Missionary Activities

§ 69.383 Contribution for Performance of Religious Services

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[a] Use of Form

[2] FORM

Contribution for Performance of Religious Services

§§ 69.384-69.399 [Reserved]

§ 69.400 Gift for Educational Facilities

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Federal Estate Tax Considerations for Gifts to Educational Institutions

[c] Institutions Practicing Racial Discrimination

[2] FORM

Gift for Educational Facilities

§ 69.401 Gift for Athletic or Recreational Facilities

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift for Athletic or Recreational Facilities

§ 69.402 Creation of Scholarship Fund

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Creation of Scholarship Fund

§ 69.403 Creation of Professorship or Teaching Position

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Creation of Professorship or Teaching Position

§ 69.404 Gift of Tangible Personal Property to Museum or Similar Institution

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Federal Estate Tax Treatment of Works of Art and Similar Items

[2] FORM

Gift of Tangible Personal Property to Museum or Similar Institution

§§ 69.405-69.419 [Reserved]

§ 69.420 Gift for Project or Research in Science or Medicine

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Tax Considerations in Gifts for Scientific Projects and Research

[2] FORM

Gift for Project or Research in Science or Medicine

§ 69.421 Gift of Equipment or New Facilities to Hospital

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift of Equipment or New Facilities to Hospital

§§ 69.422-69.439 [Reserved]

§ 69.440 Gift to Social Welfare Organization for Benefit of Undeprivileged Persons

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift to Social Welfare Organization for Benefit of Undeprivileged Persons

§ 69.441 Gift to Social Welfare Organization for New Facilities

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift to Social Welfare Organization for New Facilities

§ 69.442 Gift for Benefit of Institutional Residents

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift for Benefit of Institutional Residents

§§ 69.443-69.459 [Reserved]

§ 69.460 Gift of Land to Municipal Authority for Civic Purposes

[1] Comment--Use of Form

[2] FORM

Gift of Land to Municipal Authority for Civic Purposes

§§ 69.461-69.479 [Reserved]

§ 69.480 Gift to Fraternal Organization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

[b] Federal Estate Tax Considerations

[2] FORM

Gift to Fraternal Organization

118 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter deals with contributions of money and donations of property to charitable organizations. It discusses both testamentary devises and inter vivos dispositions, and covers dispositions by corporations as well as by individuals. Various methods for making charitable contributions are noted and discussed. The tax treatment of charitable contributions is discussed in detail. The Transaction Guide is designed to assist the attorney in selecting the proper method for making a charitable disposition, drafting the necessary documents, and making certain that maximum tax advantages will be obtained. The forms include instruments for various kinds of charitable dispositions.

This chapter does not discuss the formation, operation, or tax treatment of charitable trusts, which are discussed in Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts . It does not deal with the creation of charitable foundations or nonprofit corporations, which are discussed in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . Finally, it does not duplicate the discussion of the general law pertaining to gifts, which is covered in Ch. 60A, Gifts .

Charitable dispositions by individuals are often part of the estate planning process. In every case, the effect on the overall estate plan should always be considered in advance. Estate planning in general is discussed in Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

Because this chapter focuses on planning and making effective charitable dispositions, it deals only with current law. The reader should not rely on this text for discussion of the tax treatment of trusts in existence prior to the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 [Pub. L. 97-34], or charitable dispositions made prior to that time.

119 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.01

§ 69.01 California Statutes

Definition of "transfer." Civ. Code § 1039.

Voluntary transfer without consideration. Civ. Code § 1040.

Validity of transfer without writing. Civ. Code § 1052.

Transfer in writing as grant, conveyance, or bill of sale. Civ. Code § 1053.

No conditional delivery of grant to grantee. Civ. Code § 1056.

Writing necessary for transfer of real property. Civ. Code § 1091.

Definition of "gift." Civ. Code § 1146.

Delivery necessary for verbal gift. Civ. Code § 1147.

Irrevocability of gift, other than gift in view of impending death. Civ. Code § 1148.

Written consent of spouse necessary for certain gifts of community personal property. Fam. Code § 1100(b).

Joinder of spouse necessary for certain transfers of community real property. Fam. Code § 1102.

Rights of surviving spouse in community property. Prob. Code § 100.

Rights of surviving spouse in quasi-community property. Prob. Code § 101.

Property subject to disposition by will. Prob. Code § 6101.

Who may take a disposition by will. Prob. Code § 6102.

Applicability of Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities to nonvested property interests held by charity. Prob. Code § 21225(e).

Internal Revenue Code provisions relating to deductions for individuals apply to California deductions. Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201.

Internal Revenue Code provisions relating to deductions for estates, trusts, beneficiaries, and decedent's apply to California deductions. Rev. & Tax. Code § 17731.

Organizations exempt from California Bank and Corporation Tax Law. Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701-23710.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Charitable Trusts Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills Bequests & Devises

120 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.02

§ 69.02 Federal Statutes

Federal income tax charitable deduction. I.R.C. § 170.

Allowance of deduction. I.R.C. § 170(a).

Percentage limitations. I.R.C. § 170(b).

Definition of "charitable contribution." I.R.C. § 170(c).

Carryover of excess contributions. I.R.C. § 170(d).

Reduction of deduction for certain gifts of property. I.R.C. § 170(e).

Disallowance of deduction in certain cases. I.R.C. § 170(f).

Amounts paid to maintain certain students as members of taxpayer's household. I.R.C. § 170(g).

Treatment of certain amounts paid to or for benefit of educational institutions. I.R.C. § 170(l).

Treatment of income from intellectual property contribution. I.R.C. § 170(m).

Tax-exempt organizations. I.R.C. §§ 501-505.

Exemption on certain corporations, trusts, and other organizations. I.R.C. § 501.

Requirements for exemption. I.R.C. § 503.

Private foundations and termination of private foundation status. I.R.C. § 507.

Definition of "private foundation." I.R.C. § 509.

Income tax charitable deduction for estates. I.R.C. § 642(c).

Limitation on income tax charitable deduction for estates. I.R.C. § 681.

Rules for determining basis. I.R.C. §§ 1011-1023.

Basis of property acquired by gifts and transfers in trust. I.R.C. § 1015.

Definition of "gross estate" for estate tax purposes. I.R.C. § 2031.

Alternate valuation for estate tax purposes. I.R.C. § 2032.

Valuation of certain farm and business property. I.R.C. § 2032A.

Federal estate tax charitable deduction. I.R.C. § 2055.

Federal gift tax charitable deduction. I.R.C. § 2522.

Special penalty taxes on activities of private foundations. I.R.C. §§ 4940-4049.

Return required if donee of charitable deduction property disposes of property within two years after receipt. I.R.C. § 6050L.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General Overview
 Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) Disallowance of Deductions
 Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) Transfers for Charitable, Public & Religious Uses
 Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) General Overview

121 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Primary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.03

§ 69.03 Federal Regulations

Regulations governing federal income tax charitable deduction. Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-1-1.170A-12.

Documentation of deduction. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-1(a)(2).

Reduction for contributions of certain appreciated property. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4.

Future interests in tangible personal property. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-5.

Contributions of partial interests in property not in trust. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-7.

Limitations on charitable deductions by individuals. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-8.

Organizations qualifying for maximum 50 percent deduction limitation. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9.

Valuation of remainder interests in real property to charity. Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-12.

Valuation of property for federal estate tax purposes. Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-1-20.2031-10.

Valuation of annuities, life estates, remainders, and other partial interests in property. Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-10.

Regulations governing federal estate tax charitable deduction. Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2055-1-20.2055-5.

Regulations governing federal gift tax charitable deduction. Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2522(a)-1-25.2522(d)-1.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General Overview Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) General Overview Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) Allowance of Deduction Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) Disallowance of Deduction Tax Law Federal Taxpayer Groups Income Taxation of Estates, Trusts & Beneficiaries Credits & Deductions (IRC secs. 641-668, 671, 681, 685) Deductions

122 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.04

§ 69.04 Law Reviews

Wood, Charitable Contributions of Property: No Bargain Sale Deduction on Condemnation, 19 J. Real Est. Tax'n 258 (1992).

Leavitt, When Is a Gift to the Minister Not a Gift to the Church? The Impact of Davis v. United States 110 S. Ct. 2014 (1990) , 66 Tul. L. Rev. 245 (1991).

Sommer, Charitable to Whom? Rethinking the Method by Which Charitable Donations Are Made to Support Missionary Work, 15 S. Ill. U. L.J. 373 (1991).

Rapkin, Turning the Valuation Tables, 128 Trusts & Est. 59 (August 1989) .

Popovich, It Pays to Give It Away--Sometimes: Inter Vivos Charitable Remainder Unitrusts in Estate Planning, 15 Pepp. L. Rev. 367 (1988).

Teitell, Philanthropy & Estate Planning, 128 Trusts & Est. 56 (May 1989) .

Spuehler, Creative Charitable Contributions as a Tax Shelter, 33 Major Tax Plan. 2-1 (1981).

Mangum, Charitable Transfers and Estate Planning, 38 N.Y.U. Tax. Inst. 40-1 (1980).

Teitell, Charitable Donations of Art Works: The Special Considerations Involved, 51 J. Tax'n 326 (1979).

Report, Planning Considerations for Charitable Contributions, 13 Real Prop., Prob. & Tr. J. 581 (1978).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsCharitable TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & DevisesTax LawFederal
Estate & Gift TaxesDeductionsCharitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524)General OverviewTax LawFederal
Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General
Overview

123 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.05

§ 69.05 Annotations

Annot., Federal Income Tax Charitable Deductions: Property Fair-Market-Value Determinations, 90 A.L.R. Fed. 402 (1988) .

Annot., Federal Tax-Exempt Status as Nonprofit "Social Welfare" Organization Under 26 USCS § 501(c)(4), 87 A.L.R. Fed. 708 (1988).

Annot., Validity, as for a Charitable Purpose, of Trust for Publication or Distribution of Particular Books or Writings, 34 A.L.R. 4th 419 (1984).

Annot., Enforceability of subscription under conditional charitable pledge, 97 A.L.R.3d 1054 (1980).

Annot., Deductibility from testator's gross estate, under 26 USCS § 2055, of bequests for public, charitable, and religious uses, 46 A.L.R. Fed. 246 (1980) .

Annot., Payments made in connection with placing person in home for aged operated by qualified charitable organization as constituting tax deductible charitable contributions under § 170 of Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (26 USCS § 170), 34 A.L.R. Fed. 840 (1977) .

Annot., Payments made to qualified charitable organization in connection with education of taxpayer's children as constituting deductible charitable contribution under § 170 of Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (26 USCS § 170) or nondeductible expense under § 262 of Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (26 USCS § 262), 33 A.L.R. Fed. 373 (1977) .

Annot., Construction and application of statutes apportioning or prorating estate taxes, 71 A.L.R.3d 247 (1976).

Annot., Effect on charitable trust or bequest for particular school or school district, or students or graduates thereof, of change in school or district structure or organization, 68 A.L.R.3d 977 (1976) .

Annot., Taxpayer's conveyance or dedication of land to or for use of governmental entity as charitable contribution qualifying for tax deduction under 26 USCS § 170, 30 A.L.R. Fed. 796 (1976).

Annot., Division of charitable gift among several claimants where named donee is nonexistent, 67 A.L.R.3d 442 (1975).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsCharitable TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & DevisesTax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesDeductionsCharitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524)General OverviewTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General Overview

124 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.06

§ 69.06 Text References

[1] Related Forms With Tax Analysis

Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 11, Contributions to Charities
(Matthew Bender)

[2] Related California Forms

California Legal Forms (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording .

Ch. 27A, Dedication .

Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms.

Ch. 62, Codicils .

Ch. 63, Will Provisions .

Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions .

Ch. 64A, Testamentary Trusts: Trustee Provisions .

Ch. 64B, Testamentary Trusts: Administrative Provisions .

Ch. 67, Future Interests .

Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms .

Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts .

California Wills & Trusts (Matthew Bender).

Division I, Complete Inter Vivos Trust Forms, Subdivision F, Miscellaneous Trusts.

Division II, Individual Inter Vivos Trust Provisions, Pt. 4, Payments and Distributions.

Division III, Complete Will Forms.

Division IV, Individual Will Provisions, Pt. 30, Particular Devises.

[3] Additional Text References

California Wills and Trusts (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 30, Charitable Devises .

Ch. 116, Charitable Remainder Trusts .

Ch. 117, Charitable Lead Trusts .

Modern Estate Planning, Ch. 10, Charitable Transfers (Matthew Bender).

Nossaman & Wyatt, Trust Administration and Taxation, Ch. 3, Validity--Charitable Trusts (Matthew Bender).

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Trusts, §§ 289-310 (10th ed. 2005).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General Overview Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) General Overview Tax Law State & Local Taxes Estate & Gift Tax Estate Tax Deductions

125 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.07

§ 69.07 Pamphlets

IRS Publication 78, Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, available online at www.irs.gov/charities.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesDeductionsCharitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524)General OverviewTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General Overview

126 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART I. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Secondary Sources

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 69.08-69.09

[Reserved]

§§ 69.08[Reserved]

127 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.10

§ 69.10 Modern Role of Charitable Dispositions

Charitable dispositions have traditionally been motivated by social, religious, or humanitarian concerns. Although these concerns still play a significant role in charitable giving, the goal of achieving favorable tax treatment has assumed an increasingly important role in motivating charitable dispositions and serving as a guide for the selection of appropriate charitable beneficiaries. In fact, the principal practical difference between charitable and noncharitable dispositions now lies in the tax treatment accorded these dispositions. The tax aspects of charitable dispositions are discussed in § 69.15[1].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsCharitable TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & DevisesTax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesDeductionsCharitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524)General OverviewTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General Overview

128 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.11

§ 69.11 Legal Aspects of Charitable Dispositions

At common law, a disposition is charitable if (1) it is made for a charitable purpose and (2) the ultimate recipients of the disposition are the community as a whole, or an unascertainable and indefinite portion of the community [ Lynch v. Spilman (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 251, 261, 62 Cal. Rptr. 12, 431 P.2d 636 ; Estate of Henderson (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 853, 857, 112 P.2d 605]. A disposition is made for a charitable purpose if its aims and accomplishments are of general religious, educational, political, or social interest [ Estate of Henderson (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 853, 857, 112 P.2d 605]. Charitable purposes include (1) the relief of poverty, (2) the advancement of education, (3) the advancement of religion, (4) the promotion of health, (5) governmental or municipal purposes, and (6) other purposes beneficial to the community [ Lynch v. Spilman (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 251, 261, 62 Cal. Rptr. 12, 431 P.2d 636 ; Estate of Breeden (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 981, 985, 256 Cal. Rptr. 813].

The common law definition stated above has only limited relevance to the practical considerations encountered in planning and drafting most modern charitable dispositions. Although there is a large body of case law dealing with what is or is not a charitable disposition, much of the practical importance of that distinction disappeared with the repeal of provisions that formerly placed percentage limitations on testamentary devises to charity [see former Prob. Code §§ 41-43 (repealed 1971)]. However, the characterization of a disposition as charitable still has two important practical consequences: First, charitable dispositions are subject to the cy pres doctrine, which permits the court to apply a charitable disposition to some purpose other than that specified by the donor when the purpose specified by the donor cannot be precisely carried out [see § 69.12]. Second, the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities [see Prob. Code §§ 21200-21231] is not applicable to dispositions made directly to charitable donees (although it is applicable to "nonvested" future interests created in favor of charitable donees) [see § 69.13].

A discussion of whether a given disposition is a "charitable" disposition now normally refers to its classification for tax purposes. The common law definition of a charitable contribution and the tax law definitions are not identical [see Estate of Breeden (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 981, 991-992, 985, 256 Cal. Rptr. 813]. Many dispositions that may be classified as charitable at common law will not qualify as charitable contributions for tax purposes [see § 69.15[2] and succeeding headings; see also § 69.120]. Similarly, a trust may qualify as a charitable trust for purposes of the common law even though a transfer of property to the trust would not qualify as a charitable contribution under the Internal Revenue Code [see Estate of Breeden (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 981, 991-992, 985, 256 Cal. Rptr. 813].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Charitable Trusts Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills Bequests & Devises Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General Overview Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) Transfers for Charitable, Public & Religious Uses Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) General Overview

129 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.12

§ 69.12 Cy Pres Doctrine

The law favors charitable dispositions, and instruments providing for such dispositions will be liberally construed in order to accomplish the intent of the donor [ Estate of Tarrant (1951) 38 Cal. 2d 42, 46, 237 P.2d 505]. If, however, a charitable disposition cannot be given effect in the precise manner specified by the donor, a court may invoke the cy pres doctrine to permit the disposition to take effect in a manner consistent with the testator's general intent. The rule of cy pres makes it possible for a court to carry out a testamentary trust established for a particular charitable purpose if the testator has expressed a general charitable intent but for some reason his or her purpose cannot be accomplished in the manner specified in the will [ Estate of Puckett (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 46, 50, 168 Cal. Rptr. 311]. When the court invokes the cy pres rule, it directs that the property be applied to a charitable purpose related to the purpose originally intended by the transferor [ Estate of Klinkner (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 942, 951, 151 Cal. Rptr. 20]. In the case of a disposition made by will, for example, the cy pres doctrine typically results in the transfer of the devised property to a charitable beneficiary that performs the same function as the beneficiary named in the will or, if no charity performs a precisely identical function, to a charitable beneficiary that performs a function that is consistent with the testator's intent.

The cy pres rule has been applied to uphold gifts when the named recipients have refused to accept them [see Estate of Faulkner (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 575, 579-581, 275 P.2d 818], when the recipients could not be precisely identified [see Estate of Gatlin (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 644, 649-650, 94 Cal. Rptr. 295], when an organization named as devisee under a will did not come into existence until after the testator's death [see Estate of Lamb (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 859, 866-869, 97 Cal. Rptr. 46], and when the testator did not specify a precise charitable purpose or name a specific charity as the recipient of a devise [see Estate of Quinn (1958) 156 Cal. App. 2d 684, 685, 688, 320 P.2d 219 (direction that residue of estate "go to charity")].

In determining whether the cy pres rule should be invoked, the court must first determine whether the disposition was motivated by a general charitable purpose or intent. A testator is said to have had a "general charitable intent" when the particular disposition is of a generally charitable nature and not intended to benefit a specific charitable entity [ Estate of Puckett (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 46, 51, 168 Cal. Rptr. 311]. If the gift is intended to benefit only a specific beneficiary, the cy pres rule cannot be invoked, because its application would frustrate the donor's intent [ Estate of Klinkner (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 942, 951, 151 Cal. Rptr. 20].

The cy pres rule is not a substitute for careful drafting. When the amount of a charitable gift is substantial, failure to describe charitable beneficiaries clearly and carefully invites litigation by charitable organizations seeking all or part of the gift. Even when the amount of the gift is relatively small, application of the cy pres rule will require court involvement and generate unnecessary expense and delay. Precise description of the charitable beneficiary is always the best method for ensuring that a charitable disposition is actually used for the purpose intended by the donor.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsInterpretationEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & DevisesEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsInterpretationRules of ConstructionGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesDeductionsCharitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524)General OverviewTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General Overview

130 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.13

§ 69.13 Rule Against Perpetuities

Any charitable disposition that is to take effect in the future must be scrutinized for possible violation of the rule against perpetuities. In California, perpetuities are subject to the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP) [see Prob. Code §§ 21200-21231], which includes a recodification of the common law rule against perpetuities [see Prob. Code §§ 21205(a), 21206(a), 21207(a)]. Under that recodification, a "nonvested" property interest is invalid unless, when the interest is created, it is certain to either vest or terminate no later than 21 years after the death of a person alive at the time of creation [Prob. Code § 21205(a); but see Prob. Code § 21205(b) (90-year "wait-and-see" rule)]. For purposes of the USRAP, a property interest is "nonvested" when it is subject to an unsatisfied condition precedent and "vested" when it is owned free of all conditions precedent [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at 1401-1402].

A direct gift or devise to a charitable donee will not cause a perpetuities problem, since the gift or devise will be "vested" and thus not subject to the USRAP. Similarly, a charitable remainder (to take effect after an intervening life estate or estates) will not raise the danger of a perpetuities violation if the remainder is vested at all times. If, however, the remainder is subject to an unsatisfied condition precedent (for example, the death of the life tenant without issue), the remainder will remain nonvested until the condition has either been satisfied or removed. During such time as the remainder is nonvested, it is potentially subject to the USRAP.

If the life tenant is a charitable or governmental donee, a remainder to another charitable or governmental donee will not be subject to the USRAP [Prob. Code § 21225(e)]. This treatment of charitable and governmental gifts is substantially identical to the treatment of charitable and governmental gifts under the common law rule against perpetuities. Under that rule, gifts to charity were not granted a blanket immunity from the rule against perpetuities. If, however, a gift vested in a charity within the applicable period, later gifts to other charities were not subject to the rule [see former Civ. Code § 715 (no perpetuities allowed except for eleemosynary purposes), repealed Jan. 1, 1992; see also Estate of Sutro (1909) 155 Cal. 727, 734-738, 102 P. 920].

For general coverage of the rule against perpetuities, see Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Estates Created by Trusts & Wills Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Interpretation Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills Interpretation Rules of Construction General Overview Real Property Law Estates Future Interests Invalid Restraints & Rule Against Perpetuities

131 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.14

§ 69.14 Forms of Charitable Disposition

[1] In General

There is a variety of methods for making a charitable disposition, and the legal considerations related to the disposition will vary according to the method selected. A charitable disposition by an individual may be either inter vivos or testamentary. A disposition may be either outright or in trust. If the amount is sufficiently large, creation of a charitable foundation may be another option available to the donor.

[2] Testamentary Disposition

With the exception of their tax treatment, testamentary dispositions to charity are governed by the same provisions as other testamentary dispositions, and they are subject to the same general considerations and formalities in drafting and execution [see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, §§ 61.130 (general drafting rules), 61.131 (organization), 61.150-61.162 (execution)].

The Probate Code at one time limited testamentary gifts to charity to specified percentages of the testator's estate [see former Prob. Code §§ 41-43 (repealed 1971)]. These limits no longer apply, however, and a testator may now devise any portion of his or her estate (up to the whole) to a charity or charities. Of course, a will that leaves an inordinate amount to a charity while ignoring relatives may be challenged on the ground that the testator was not mentally competent at the time the will was executed [see Prob. Code § 6100.5 (persons who are not mentally competent to make a will); see also Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, §§ 61.11] or that the will was procured by duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence [see Prob. Code § 6104 (execution of will or part of will ineffective to extent procured by duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence)]. Additionally, a surviving spouse may elect to take against the will if the testator attempts to dispose of all or part of the spouse's share of the community and quasi-community property without the spouse's consent [see Prob. Code §§ 100, 101, 6101; see also Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.14[5]].

[3] Outright Inter Vivos Gift

The formal requirements for inter vivos gifts to a charity are the same as the formal requirements for inter vivos gifts to other beneficiaries. The law governing gifts in general is discussed in Ch. 60A, Gifts, and is not repeated here. Most of the legal questions related to charitable inter vivos gifts are tax-related. Because of the tax benefits, adequate documentation of charitable gifts is particularly important [see § 69.180, P 6].

Inter vivos charitable gifts may be more advantageous than testamentary transfers because of their immediate income tax benefits. However, testamentary transfers have the obvious advantage of permitting the testator to use and enjoy the property during his or her lifetime.

[4] Charitable Trust

In the strict legal sense, a trust is created by any charitable disposition, even an outright gift, because a gift to a charitable organization is deemed to have been made in trust to carry out the objects for which the organization was created [see Estate of Klinkner (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 942, 946, 151 Cal. Rptr. 20; Estate of Lamb (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 859, 866, 97 Cal. Rptr. 46]. For this reason courts frequently refer to the gift as a "charitable trust" and the charity as the "trustee" even when the gift is actually made outright to the charitable organization [see In re Estate of De Mars (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 514, 519, 67 P.2d 374; see also Estate of Gatlin (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 644, 648-650, 94 Cal. Rptr. 295]. In dealing with the law in this area, it must be kept in mind that there is a practical distinction between the trust relationship created by all charitable bequests and a trust established by a formal inter vivos or testamentary trust instrument.

To create a charitable trust, there must be [ L.B. Research & Education Found. v. UCLA Found. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 171, 177, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710 ]:

- A proper manifestation by the settlor of an intention to create a trust;
- A charitable purpose; and
- Trust property.

A gift may have a charitable purpose and yet not constitute a charitable trust. The owner of property, instead of creating a trust, may transfer the property to another on the condition that if the transferee fails to perform a specified act, the transferee's interest will be forfeited either to the transferor or to a designated third party. In such a case, the transferee's interest is subject to a condition subsequent and is not held in trust [ L.B. Research & Education Found. v. UCLA Found. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 171, 177, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710 ]. Whether a trust or a condition is created depends on the transferor's manifested intention. The fact that the word "condition" is used does not necessarily indicate that a condition and not a trust is intended, because trusts can be created by words of condition. Property given on condition that it will be applied to specified charitable purposes is particularly likely to be construed as having been given in a charitable trust [ L.B. Research & Education Found. v. UCLA Found. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 171, 177-178, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710 ]. The question to be decided in such cases is whether the donor intended to provide that if the property were not used for the designated charitable purpose it should revert either to the donor's estate or to a contingent donee, or the donor intended to impose an enforceable obligation on the donees to devote it to those purposes [ L.B. Research & Education Found. v. UCLA Found. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 171, 178-180, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710 (conditional contract, not charitable trust, was created by instrument giving contribution of $1 million to university but also providing that if this money was not used as directed, fund must be transferred to another institution)].

Modern donor-created charitable trusts usually are split-interest charitable trusts in which either the income interest or the remainder interest is paid to the charity and the other interest is paid to noncharitable beneficiaries. If the estate is not sufficiently large to justify creation of a separate trust, payment into an existing pooled income fund may be an acceptable alternative. These types of trusts are the subject matter of Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts. If the donor does not wish to split the income and remainder interests between charitable and noncharitable beneficiaries, there is ordinarily no advantage, either from a tax standpoint or for administrative purposes, to creating a separate trust rather than simply making an outright gift to a pre-existing charitable organization.

If all of the beneficial interests in a trust are held by charitable or governmental beneficiaries, the trust will not be subject to the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP), and there will be no danger of invalidating the trust or any of its provisions under the rule against perpetuities [see Prob. Code § 21225(e) and § 69.13]. If, however, the interest of the charitable beneficiary follows the interest of a nongovernmental or noncharitable beneficiary, a perpetuities problem may arise. Assume, for example, that the trust instrument requires the trustee to pay all of the trust income to the settlor's son for life, then to the son's surviving issue for their lives, with a contingent remainder to a charitable beneficiary if the son dies without surviving issue. Under these circumstances, the contingent remainder to the charitable beneficiary is a "nonvested" interest under the USRAP and subject to the rule against perpetuities [see § 69.13].

[5] Private Foundation

References to "private foundations" appear throughout the tax discussion in this chapter. The tax law related to creation and operation of charitable private foundations is one of the most complex areas in the entire Internal Revenue Code, and a detailed discussion is beyond the scope of this chapter. However, a brief summary is included here to aid the attorney in understanding the general role of private foundations. [For additional discussion of private foundations and tax-exempt organizations in general, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities; see also Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 59, Charities, § 59.04].

The Internal Revenue Code defines the term "private foundation" by exclusion [see I.R.C. § 509(a)]. A private foundation is generally a tax-exempt organization that is organized and operated exclusively for a valid charitable purpose [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); see also § 69.15[2], P 2], and that does not derive a substantial part of its support from the government or from direct or indirect contributions by the general public [I.R.C. § 509(a)(1); see I.R.C. §§ 170(b)(1)(A), 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.509(a)-1; see also Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9(e)(2) (determination whether charitable organization is "publicly supported")]. Private foundations are subject to a variety of special regulations and restrictions, including special penalty taxes for violating restrictions on self-dealing [see I.R.C. § 4941], failure to distribute income [see I.R.C. § 4942], excess business holdings [see I.R.C. § 4943], and investments that jeopardize their charitable purpose [I.R.C. § 4944]. "Private operating foundations" are special foundations that meet distribution and asset requirements qualifying them for the 50 percent maximum charitable deduction [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(vi), (E)(i); see I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3) (definition of "operating foundation"); see also Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities, § 13B.20[5]; see also Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 59, Charities, § 59.04]. Generally, private operating foundations are directly involved in performing charitable services.

In the case of extremely large estates, creation of a private foundation may be feasible. Creation of such a foundation may generate tax advantages for a very wealthy donor, while concurrently permitting the donor to exercise a greater measure of control over the activities of the charity than would otherwise be possible. However, there are numerous restrictions and pitfalls in the complex tax laws related to charitable foundations, and these should be thoroughly investigated prior to undertaking this course of action. It should also be kept in mind that the expenses generated by creation and administration of such a foundation render this device impractical in the large majority of cases.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Personal Gifts General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Charitable Trusts Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills Bequests & Devises

132 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.15

§ 69.15 Federal Income Tax Deduction

[1] In General

Taxpayers who itemize deductions are permitted to take income tax deductions for contributions made during the year to qualifying charitable organizations [I.R.C. § 170(a)(1)]. The amount that may be deducted varies, depending on the donor, the nature of the property contributed, and the character and status of the donee.

An individual donor may deduct up to 50 percent of the donor's "contribution base" (adjusted gross income computed without regard to any net operating loss carryback [see I.R.C. § 172]) for the taxable year for contributions to specified classes of charitable organizations [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A), (F); see § 69.15[4]]. Contributions by individuals to other charitable organizations (primarily private nonoperating foundations) are also deductible, but only to the extent that these contributions do not exceed the lesser of: (1) 30 percent of the individual's contribution base for the taxable year, or (2) the excess of 50 percent of the taxpayer's contribution base for the taxable year over the amount of charitable contributions to organizations that qualify for the 50 percent limitation noted above [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(B)].

The deduction for contributions of capital gain property (property that would have realized long-term capital gain if sold at its fair market value at the time of the contribution) is limited to 30 percent of the taxpayer's contribution base [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)] or, in the case of contributions to organizations that do not qualify for the maximum deduction, to the lesser of: (1) 20 percent of the taxpayer's contribution base for the taxable year, or (2) the excess of 30 percent of that contribution base over the amount of contributions of capital gain property made to organizations qualifying for the maximum (50 percent) deduction [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(D)(i)]. For purposes of these limitations, contributions of capital gain property are taken into account after all other charitable contributions [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(i), (b)(1)(D)(i)]. However, a five-year carryover is permitted for any excess over 30 percent [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(ii), (D)(ii); see § 69.15[7]]. As an alternative to the 30 percent limit, the donor may elect to have capital gain property that is contributed to an organization qualifying for the maximum (50 percent) deduction limit treated under the rules applicable to contributions of appreciated capital gain property [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(iii), (e); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-4(a), (b)(2)(iii), 1.170A-8(d)(2); see § 69.15[5]].

A corporation's charitable deduction is limited to 10 percent of its taxable income, computed in a specified manner [see

I.R.C. § 170(b)(2); see also § 69.180).

No deduction is allowed for contributions of $250 or more unless the taxpayer substantiates the contribution by a contemporaneous written acknowledgment from the donee organization [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(A)]. The acknowledgment must contain specified information in order to meet the statutory substantiation requirement [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(B)]; see also §§ 69.140 P 9, 69.160 P 6, 69.180 P 6].

In addition, no deduction is allowed for any contribution of property for which a deduction of more than $500 is claimed, unless the taxpayer includes a description of the property with the return for the taxable year in which the contribution is made or, for contributions of more than $5,000, attaches to the return a qualified appraisal of the property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(A)-(D)]. An appraisal need not be provided for a donation of cash, property described in I.R.C. § 1221(a)(1), publicly traded securities, or any qualified vehicle for which an acknowledgment under I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(B) is provided [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(A)(ii)]. For purposes of determining the dollar amount thresholds of this provision, all similar items of property donated to one or more donees are treated as one property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(F)].

A deduction for a contribution of a motor vehicle, boat, or airplane, the claimed value of which exceeds $500, is not allowed unless the taxpayer substantiates the contribution by a contemporaneous written acknowledgment of the contribution by the donee organization and includes the acknowledgment with the taxpayer's return [I.R.C. § 170(f)(12); 2005-25 I.R.B. 1287, Notice 2005-44, § 3 (requirements for contemporaneous written acknowledgment)]. A donor who is claiming a deduction for the fair market value of a qualified vehicle must be able to substantiate that value. A reasonable method for determining the fair market value of a vehicle is by referring to an established used vehicle pricing guide [ 2005-25 I.R.B. 1287, Notice 2005-44, § 5 (IRS is to issue regulations limiting fair market value of vehicle to amount not in excess of price listed in used vehicle pricing guide for private party sale of similar vehicle)].

[2] Definition of "Charitable Contribution"

For purposes of the federal income tax charitable deduction, "charitable contribution" means a contribution or gift to or for the use of any of the following [I.R.C. § 170(c)]:

- Any unit of federal, state, or local government, but only if the contribution or gift is made for exclusively public purposes.
- A corporation, trust, community chest, fund, or foundation: (1) that is created or organized in or under the law of the United States or any state, possession, or political subdivision (including the District of Columbia); (2) that is organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or to foster national or international amateur sports competition (but only if it is a "qualified amateur sports organization" [see I.R.C. § 501(j)] or does not provide athletic facilities or equipment), or the prevention of cruelty to children or animals; (3) no part of the earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; and (4) that is not ineligible for tax-exempt status [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)] for engaging in lobbying or participating in political campaigns (in the case of contributions by a corporation to a trust, chest, fund, or foundation, a deduction is allowed only for contributions to be used within the United States or its possessions).
- A post or organization of war veterans, or an auxiliary unit or society, trust, or foundation of any such organization, if it is organized in the United States and no part of its earning benefits any private shareholder or individual.
- In the case of a contribution by an individual, a domestic fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if the contribution or gift is to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

- A cemetery company organized and operated exclusively for the benefit of its members, or any other nonprofit corporation chartered solely as a cemetery corporation and not permitted by its charter to engage in any business not necessarily incident to that purpose, if no part of its net earnings benefits any private shareholder or individual.

Donations to a charitable organization are deductible only if made out of a detached and disinterested generosity. If a contribution benefits the donor as well as the charity, the primary purpose controls. A contribution may not be deducted if the expectation of personal benefit is the primary motive [ Babilonia v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (9th Cir. [T.C.] 1982) 681 F.2d 678, 679] .

A donation to a charitable organization of securities when the donor retains the right to manage the investment under a limited power of attorney may be eligible for an income tax and gift tax deduction, as long as the charitable organization has the right to withdraw any or all of the assets at any time and to terminate the limited power of attorney and management agreement. This retention of investment management control is not substantial enough to affect the deductibility of the contributed property [Letter Ruls. 200445023, 200445024].

[3] Excluded Contributions

Direct contributions to individuals (as opposed to organizations) do not qualify as charitable contributions [see, e.g., Letter Rul. 200437032 (decendent's residuary bequest to beneficiary who is individual that is member of religious order and has taken vow of poverty does not qualify for estate tax charitable deduction under I.R.C. § 2055(a))]. However, there is a limited exception for amounts paid by an individual to maintain a student as a member of the individual's household under a placement program operated by a charitable organization [see I.R.C. § 170(g); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-2].

Contributions of services do not qualify for the income tax charitable deduction. However, unreimbursed expenditures incident to rendering services to a charitable organization are deductible [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-1(g)], unless the expenditures are made to influence legislation [I.R.C. § 170(f)(6)]. The standard mileage rate used for determining a charitable deduction attributable to the use of a passenger automobile in performing donated services is 14 cents per mile [I.R.C. § 170(i) (applicable to tax years beginning after December 31, 1997)].

A gift of less than the taxpayer's entire interest in property generally is not deductible [I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(A)]. However, there are exceptions for contribution of a remainder interest in a personal residence or farm [I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(B)(i)], contribution of an undivided portion of the taxpayer's entire interest in property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(B)(ii)], or a "qualified conservation contribution" [I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(B)(iii), (h)]. A contribution of a remainder interest in a trust is not deductible unless the trust is a charitable remainder annuity trust, a charitable remainder unitrust [see I.R.C. § 664], or a pooled income fund [I.R.C. § 170(f)(2)(A); see I.R.C. § 642(c)(5)]. Income interests in trust must be in the form of a guaranteed annuity or a fixed percentage of the trust's assets distributed yearly [I.R.C. § 170(f)(2)(B)]. For a detailed treatment of this subject, see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts .

If the donor's entire interest in property consists of a partial interest, such as an income or remainder interest, the donor may claim a charitable deduction for the contribution of that interest [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-7(a)(2)(i)].

If a charitable contribution is subject to any liability, or liability is assumed by the charity or any other person, the available deduction is reduced by the amount of certain interest, to the extent necessary to avoid deduction of the same amount both as an interest deduction under I.R.C. § 163 and as a deduction for charitable contributions under I.R.C. § 170 [I.R.C. § 170(f)(5); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-3].

No deduction is allowed for contributions to an organization that conducts lobbying activities on matters of direct financial interest to the donor's trade or business if the principal purpose of the contribution is to avoid federal income tax by securing a deduction that would have been disallowed as a business expense deduction [see I.R.C. § 162(e)] (disallowance of business expense deduction for specified lobbying activities) if the donor had conducted the activities directly [I.R.C. § 170(f)(9)]. These prohibited lobbying activities include [I.R.C. § 162(e)]:

- Influencing legislation;
- Participating in political campaigns;
- Attempting to influence the public with respect to elections, legislative matters, or referendums; and
- Communicating directly with specified senior officials of the executive branch in an attempt to influence official actions.

[4] Contributions Qualifying for Maximum Deduction

The maximum 50 percent charitable deduction for individuals is available for contributions to the following classes of charitable organizations [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9]:

- Churches, or conventions or associations of churches;
- Qualifying educational organizations (including qualifying nonprofit day care centers [see I.R.C. § 501(k)]);
- Qualifying hospitals and medical research organizations;
- Organizations for the benefit of qualifying state and municipal colleges;
- Units of federal, state, or local government, if the contribution is made for exclusively public purposes [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(1)];
- Corporations, trusts, community chests, funds, or foundations operated for one of the purposes specified in the second category in the list in § 69.15[2] (religious, charitable, scientific, etc. purposes) and which ordinarily receive a substantial part of their support from federal, state, or local government or from direct or indirect contributions by the general public;
- Certain private foundations [see I.R.C. §§ 170(b)(1)(F)], including private operating foundations [see I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3)], certain other qualifying private foundations that make charitable distributions equal to 100 percent of the contributions received [see I.R.C. § 4942(g)] (definition of "qualifying distributions"); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9(h)], and certain private foundations that pool all contributions in a common fund [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(F); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9(i)]; and
- Organizations that are excluded by I.R.C. § 509(a)(2) or (3) from the definition of private foundation. I.R.C. § 509(a)(2) excludes certain organizations that receive broad public support [see Treas. Reg. § 1.509(a)-3], while I.R.C. § 509(c)(3) excludes qualifying "support organizations" organized and operated to carry out the functions of charitable organizations and certain other publicly supported organizations not classified as private foundations [see I.R.C. § 509(a)(1), (2)] and not controlled directly or indirectly by "disqualified persons" [I.R.C. § 509(a)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.509(a)-4];

see I.R.C. § 4946], as well as public safety testing organizations [I.R.C. § 509(c)(4)].

The general categories listed above have been considerably simplified due to the space limitations of this chapter. Both the Internal Revenue Code [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)] and the applicable regulations [see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9] prescribe very detailed and complex tests for determining whether organizations qualify for the 50 percent limit. If the amount of the contribution could potentially equal a substantial portion (20 to 30 percent or more) of the donor's contribution base for the taxable year, the attorney should verify that the donee organization has qualified for the 50 percent limit before making a charitable disposition to that organization on behalf of a client [see § 69.120].

[5] Contributions of Appreciated Property

The Internal Revenue Code places significant limitations on the available charitable deduction in many cases if the gift property has appreciated in value since its acquisition by the donor [see I.R.C. § 170(e); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4]. For purposes of these limitations, gift property is classified as either ordinary income property or long-term capital gain property [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(a)].

"Ordinary income property" is property any portion of the gain on which would not have been long-term capital gain if the donor had sold the property at its fair market value at the time of its contribution to the charitable organization. Examples include property held as inventory [but see discussion of special exception for certain contributions of inventory, below], a work of art or manuscript created by the donor, letters or memorandums prepared by or for the donor, or a capital asset held for one year or less [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(1); see I.R.C. § 1222(1)]. In determining the available charitable deduction, the fair market value of ordinary income property must be reduced by the amount that would have been recognized as gain (other than long-term capital gain) if the property had been sold at its fair market value at the time of the contribution [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(a)(1)]. The effect of this requirement is to limit the charitable deduction to the donor's basis in the property, which generally is its cost. Thus, the available charitable deduction will be minimal for items with a zero basis or a very low basis, such as a painting donated by the artist, which may be deducted only to the extent of the cost of the materials and not the artist's nondeductible personal services [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-1(g), 1.170A-4(a)(1), (b)(1)].

"Long-term capital gain property" is property on which the donor would have realized long-term capital gain if the property had been sold at its fair market value at the time of the contribution; in other words, gain from the sale of a capital asset held for more than one year [see I.R.C. §§ 1221, 1222(3)]. The rules reducing the charitable deduction for appreciated property are generally inapplicable to long-term capital gain property, with certain important exceptions [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(a), (b)(2); see below]. Thus, a deduction is allowed for the full fair market value of the appreciated property. However, the deduction is limited if the property falls into any of the following categories [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(2) (defining "Section 170(e) capital gain property")]:

- Property contributed to a private foundation that does not qualify for the 50 percent deduction [see § 69.15[4]], unless the property consists of securities that are capital gain property and for which market quotations are readily available on an established securities market (in which case contributions of up to 10 percent of a corporation's stock are deductible at fair market value) [I.R.C. § 170(e)(5)].
- Tangible personal property contributed to or for the use of a charitable organization which is put to an "unrelated use" (a use unrelated to the purpose or function constituting the basis for the charitable organization's tax-exempt status [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(3)]).
- Any patent, copyright (other than as described in I.R.C. § 1221(a)(3) or § 1231(b)(1)(C)), trademark, trade name, trade secret, know-how, software (other than as described in I.R.C. § 197(e)(3)(A)(i)), or similar property, or applications or registrations of this property. For discussion of special rules applicable to contributions of qualified intellectual property, see § 69.15[6].

- Property that is contributed to an organization qualifying for the 50 percent deduction and that would otherwise be subject to the 30-percent limit on capital gain property, but which the donor elects to have treated under the appreciated property rules of I.R.C. § 170(e) [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(iii)]; see also discussion in § 69.15[1].

The value of property falling into any of the above categories ordinarily must be reduced by the full amount that would have been capital gain had the property been sold by the donor at its fair market value [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B)].

Two special exceptions from the above reduction requirement are available for contributions by corporations. If a contribution of inventory by a corporation meets specified requirements and is to be used by the donee solely for the care of the ill, the needy, or infants, its value is reduced by only one-half the amount of any short-term capital gain (instead of the entire amount of that gain), plus any amount by which the charitable contribution exceeds twice the basis of the property [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4A]. A similar reduction is available to corporations that contribute scientific equipment to institutions of higher learning [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(4) (qualified research contributions)]. For additional information on the special rules applicable to these types of contributions, see § 69.321[1].

[6] Additional Deductions for Contributions of Qualified Intellectual Property

The amount of a donor's initial charitable contribution deduction for contributions of qualified intellectual property is limited to the lesser of (1) the fair market value of the property or (2) the donor's adjusted basis in the property [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(A),(B)(iii); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(a)(1) and discussion in § 69.15[5]]. However, as discussed below, a donor also may be able to deduct additional amounts based on a percentage of the income subsequently received by or accrued to the donee with respect to the property [I.R.C. § 170(m)].

I.R.C. § 170(m) permits donors to make contributions of intellectual property and obtain, in addition to the initial deduction otherwise available for the contribution, a deduction for income received or accrued up to 10 years after the date of the contribution [I.R.C. § 170(m)(1) (deduction), (5) (10-year limitation); but see I.R.C. § 170(m)(2) (additional deductions allowed only to extent that aggregate of specified percentages of qualified donee income exceeds initial deduction claimed by donor)]. This deduction permits a donor to donate qualifying intellectual property and thereafter claim a charitable deduction in future years for income received by the donee from royalties and other similar rights. The amount of the deduction is based on a decreasing scale, with a 100 percent deduction available for the first two years and gradually reduced amounts thereafter [see I.R.C. § 170(m)(7)].

The deduction is available for any net income received by or accrued to the donee which is properly allocated to the qualified intellectual property [I.R.C. § 170(m)(3)]. In each taxable year of the donor, the donor receives a deduction for income that was received by or accrued to the donee in the donee's taxable year that ended within that taxable year of the donor [see I.R.C. § 170(m)(4)]. The amount of net income for purposes of the deduction cannot exceed the net income reported by the donee [I.R.C. § 170(m)(10)(B)].

Income cannot be allocated to qualified intellectual property for purposes of this deduction if that income is received by or accrued to the donee more than 10 years after the date of contribution of the property [I.R.C. § 170(m)(5)], or if the income is received by or accrued to the donee after expiration of the legal life of the intellectual property [I.R.C. § 170(m)(6)]. The deduction is unavailable for any taxable year after the 12th taxable year of the donor which ends on or after the date of the contribution [I.R.C. § 170(m)(10)(C)].

Property qualifying for the deduction generally includes any patent, copyright (with limited exceptions), trademark, trade name, trade secret, know-how, software (also with limited exceptions), or similar property, or applications or registrations of such property [I.R.C. § 170(m)(9); see I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B)(iii)], other than property contributed to for the use of a private foundation [I.R.C. § 170(m)(9); see I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B)(ii) (limited exception for specified types of foundations); see also I.R.C. § 509(a) (private foundation defined)]. In order to qualify for the deduction, the amount of the contribution must have been reduced by operation of I.R.C. § 170(e)(1) [I.R.C. § 170(m)(8)(A); see discussion in § 69.15[5]].

In addition, the donor must inform the donee, at the time of the contribution, that the donor intends to treat the contribution as a qualified intellectual property contribution in the manner described above [I.R.C. § 170(m)(8)(B)]. A donor satisfies the notification requirement if the donor delivers or mails to the donee, at the time of the contribution, a written statement containing the following [ 2005-23 I.R.B. 1203, Notice 2005-41 ]:

- The donor's name, address, and taxpayer identification number;
- A description of the qualified intellectual property in sufficient detail to identify the property received by the donee;
- The date of the contribution; and
- A statement that the donor intends to treat the contribution as a qualified intellectual property contribution for purposes of I.R.C. §§ 170(m) and 6050L.

[7] Carryover for Excess Contributions

If an individual taxpayer's charitable contributions to organizations qualifying for the maximum 50 percent limitation [see § 69.15[4]] exceed 50 percent of the taxpayer's contribution base, the amount in excess of 50 percent may be carried forward to each of the five succeeding taxable years. The deduction claimed in any succeeding year cannot exceed the lesser of (1) 50 percent of the taxpayer's contribution base in the year the deduction is claimed, taking into account all contributions treated as having been made in that year; or (2) any remaining amount of the excess contribution not previously claimed as a deduction [I.R.C. § 170(d)(1)(A)]. The carryover is available even if the donor does not itemize deductions in the year of contribution [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-10(a)(2)].

A similar carryover exists for excess contributions to organizations qualifying for the 30 percent deduction limitation [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(B)(ii)]. Corporations are also allowed a similar five-year carryover [see I.R.C. § 170(d)(2)(A)].

Any carryover for charitable contributions must be reduced to the extent that it reduces the donor's taxable income as computed for purposes of determining net operating loss carrybacks and carryovers [see I.R.C. § 172(b)(2)], and increases a net operating loss carryover to a succeeding taxable year [I.R.C. § 170(d)(1)(B) (individuals), (2)(B) (corporations)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General OverviewTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)Allowance of DeductionTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)Burdens of ProofTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)Capital Gain & Ordinary Income PropertyTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)Carryovers

133 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.16

§ 69.16 Federal Estate and Gift Tax Deductions

[1] In General

Deductions from federal estate and gift taxes are allowed for dispositions to qualifying charities [see I.R.C. §§ 2055 (estate tax), 2522 (gift tax)]. Unlike the income tax deduction, there are no percentage limitations on the estate and gift tax charitable deductions. The gift tax charitable deduction is allowed for all qualifying gifts made during the calendar year [see I.R.C. § 2522(a)], while the estate tax deduction is available for all bequests, legacies, devises, or transfers to qualifying charities, up to the value of the gross estate [see I.R.C. § 2055(a), (d)]. However, if any federal or state death taxes are paid out of charitable bequests, the estate tax charitable deduction is reduced by the amount of those taxes [I.R.C. § 2055(c); Treas. Reg. § 20.2055-3].

[2] Qualifying Organizations

The lists of organizations that may receive contributions qualifying for the charitable deductions under the estate tax [I.R.C. § 2055(a)] and the gift tax [I.R.C. § 2522(a)] are generally coextensive. The list of organizations qualifying for the federal income tax deduction is not similarly coextensive, although most organizations that qualify for one deduction will also qualify for the other [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A), (B); see also § 69.15[2], [4]]. Contributions to the following categories of organizations qualify for both the estate tax and gift tax deductions [I.R.C. §§ 2055(a), 2522(a)]:

- Units of federal, state, or local governments, for exclusively public purposes.
- Corporations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the fostering of national or international amateur sports competition, but only if all of the following apply:
  - No parts of their activities involve the provision of athletic facilities or equipment;
  - They are not disqualified for tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) by reason of attempting to influence legislation;

- They do not participate or intervene in any campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) an candidate for public office; and
- No part of the earnings of the contribution inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.
- A trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if all of the following apply:
  - The contributions or gifts are to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals;
  - The trustee, trustees, society, order, or association would not be disqualified for tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) by reason of attempting to influence legislation; and
  - The trustee, trustees, society, order, or association does not participate or intervene in any campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) an candidate for public office.
- Any veterans' organization incorporated by Act of Congress, or its local chapters or posts, but only if no part of the net earnings of the contribution inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

In addition, certain contributions of stock to employee stock option plans (ESOPs) are deductible for estate tax purposes if they are made by charitable remainder trusts [I.R.C. § 2055(a)(5); see I.R.C. § 664(g)].

For gift tax purposes, a similar but somewhat more restrictive list of eligible recipients governs gifts by nonresident aliens [I.R.C. § 2522(b)].

Bequests to fraternal societies or orders that engage in social and fraternal as well as charitable purposes qualify for the federal estate tax charitable deduction only if the testator has limited use of the bequest to exclusively charitable purposes [ First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. United States (8th Cir. [Neb.] 1982) 681 F.2d 534, 541-542, cert. denied, 459 U.S. 1104 (1983) (no estate tax charitable deduction for bequest to chapter of Masonic order); see § 69.480].

Bequests to private nonprofit cemetery associations to maintain cemetery plots do not automatically qualify for the federal estate tax deduction [see I.R.C. § 2055(a)(3)], although they do qualify for the federal income tax charitable deduction [see First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. United States (8th Cir. [Neb.] 1982) 681 F.2d 534, 540-541, cert. denied, 459 U.S. 1104 (1983) (deduction denied when primary purposes was to maintain testator's family plot rather than to serve community interest)].

[3] Particular Types of Contributions

Split-interest contributions (contributions whereby only part of the donor's interest in the property is received by charitable organizations), whether testamentary, inter vivos, or a combination of both, generally do not qualify for the estate and gift tax charitable deductions [see I.R.C. §§ 2055(e)(2), 2522(c)(2)]. Inter vivos gifts with a life estate or other retained interest in the donor generally do not qualify for the gift tax charitable deduction [see I.R.C. § 2522(c)(2)]. However, exceptions to the preceding rules are provided for contribution of a remainder interest in a personal residence or farm [I.R.C. §§ 2055(e)(2), 2522(c)(2); see I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(B)(i)], contribution of an undivided portion of the taxpayer's entire interest in property [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(B)(ii)], qualified conservation contributions [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(3)(B)(iii), (h)], split-interest charitable trusts meeting specified requirements [I.R.C. §§ 2055(e)(2)(A), 2522(c)(2)(A); see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts ], guaranteed annuity interests, and interests providing for a guaranteed yearly distribution of a fixed percentage of the fair market value of the property ("unitrust" interests) [I.R.C. §§ 2055(e)(2)(B), 2522(c)(2)(B); Treas. Reg. § 25.2522(c)-3(c)(2)(v), (vi)]. In the case of a charitable contribution of a work of art, the work of art and its copyright are regarded as separate properties except when the recipient is a private foundation (other than a private operating foundation), and the donor's retention of the copyright therefore does not result in a split-interest gift [I.R.C. §§ 2055(e)(4), 2522(c)(3)].

No deduction will be allowed for a bequest of stock to a charity if, during the period of estate administration, a noncharitable beneficiary is to receive dividends from the stock [ Rev. Rul. 83-45, 1983-1 C.B. 233 ].

No deduction is allowable for charitable transfers subject to a condition precedent, unless the possibility that the charitable transfer will not become effective is so remote as to be negligible. A deduction is allowable if the estate or interest of the charity would be defeated by a condition subsequent, provided the possibility of occurrence of the condition appears to be negligible at the time of the gift (or, for estate tax purposes, at the time of the decedent's death) [Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2055-2(b), 25.2522(c)-3(b)].

The contribution to a qualified charity of a license to use a patent is not deductible when the donor retains the right to license the patent to others. The contribution of a patent subject to a conditional restriction also is not deductible, unless the likelihood of the reversion is so remote as to be negligible. The contribution of a patent subject to a license or transfer restriction is deductible, but the restriction reduces the value of the contribution [ Rev. Rul. 2003-28, 2003-11 I.R.B. 594 ].

The deduction may also be disallowed for a contribution to a new organization that has not yet given proper notice of intention to apply for recognition of tax-exempt status [see I.R.C. § 508(a), (d)(2)(B)], or, under certain circumstances, for a contribution to a private foundation on which a penalty tax has been imposed for violation of the restrictions on certain activities of such foundations, or which has a governing instrument that does not meet specified requirements [I.R.C. §§ 2055(e)(1), 2522(c)(1); see I.R.C. §§ 508(d), (e), 507(a), (c); see also I.R.C. § 4948(c)(4) (foreign foundations)].

For purposes of the estate tax charitable deduction, property that is included in a decedent's estate by virtue of a power of appointment [see I.R.C. § 2041] and that is received by a charitable donee is considered a bequest by the decedent [I.R.C. § 2055(c)].

[4] Valuation of Gifts

For purposes of the federal estate and gift tax charitable deductions, the value of the charitable gift is determined by the same methods used to value property in computing the taxable gifts or taxable estate.

For federal estate tax purposes, property is generally valued at its fair market value at the time of the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2031; Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-1(b)]. The executor may elect as an alternate valuation date the date of distribution, sale, exchange, or other disposition of the property, or the date six months after the decedent's death if the property is not disposed of by that time [I.R.C. § 2032(a)]. For purposes of the estate tax charitable deduction, property valued under this alternate method is valued as of the date of the decedent's death, with adjustments for any difference in value, other than differences due merely to the lapse of time or the occurrence or nonoccurrence of a contingency, as of six months after the decedent's death or, in the case of property disposed of before that time, as of the date of disposition [I.R.C. § 2032(b)]. An estate cannot elect this alternate valuation method unless the election would decrease both the value of the gross estate and the amount of federal estate tax due [I.R.C. § 2032(c)]. Special rules govern valuation of farm and certain other real property [see I.R.C. § 2032A].

For federal gift tax purposes, property is valued at its fair market value on the date of the gift [I.R.C. § 2512(a); Treas.

Reg. § 25.2512-1. When property is transferred for less than adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, the available deduction is the amount by which the value of the property exceeds the value of the consideration [I.R.C. § 2512(b)]. For purposes of the gift tax charitable deduction, the value of a partial interest in property is its value on the date of the gift. The fair market value of an annuity, life estate, term for years, remainder, reversion, or unitrust interest is its present value (as opposed to its value at the time of possession) [Treas. Reg. § 25.2522(c)-3(d)].

The Internal Revenue Service has developed extensive rules and valuation tables for the valuation of particular classes of property [see Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-1-20.2031-10 (estate tax), 25.2512-1-25.2512-9 (gift tax)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General Overview
Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) Disallowance of Deductions
Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) Transfers for Charitable, Public & Religious Uses

134 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.17

§ 69.17 Estate Tax Exclusion for Gift of Qualified Conservation Easement

[1] Nature of Exclusion

For decedents dying on or after January 1, 1998, an exclusion is available for a "qualified conservation easement" as defined in I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(b). Basically, this exclusion allows a decedent, family member, executor, or trustee to grant to a qualified charitable organization [see I.R.C. 170(h)(3)] an easement in qualifying real property [see I.R.C. 170(h)(2)] restricting the use of that property to conservation purposes [see I.R.C. 170(h)(4)(A)], and exclude a portion of the value of that property from the decedent's gross estate for federal estate tax purposes [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(1)], while retaining ownership and use of the property to the extent not incompatible with the easement. The executor must elect the exclusion on the estate tax return on or before the due date (including extensions) for filing the return, and the exclusion, once made, is irrevocable [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(1), (6)].

The exclusion is complex and subject to numerous qualifications and conditions, which are discussed in greater detail below. Among the more important of these is that the easement include a prohibition on more than a de minimis use for a commercial recreational activity [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(b)].

[2] Limitations on Amount of Exclusion

The exclusion is limited to the lesser of the following [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(1); see I.R.C. § 2031(c)(2)] ("applicable percentage"), (3) ("exclusion limitation")]:

- 40 percent of the value of the land, reduced by 2 percentage points for each percentage point (or fraction of a percentage point) by which the value of the qualified conservation easement is less than 30 percent of the value of the land (determined without regard to the value of the easement and reduced by the value of any retained development rights).
- The amount of the "exclusion limitation" available in the year of the decedent's death.

The "exclusion limitation" is determined in accordance with the following table [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(3)]:

In the estates of decedents dying during:	The exclusion limitation is:
---	------------------------------

1998	$100,000
1999	$200,000
2000	$300,000
2001	$400,000
2002 or thereafter	$500,000

[3] Ownership Requirements and Qualified Contributors

The land subject to the qualified conservation easement must have been owned by the decedent or a member of the decedent's family for three continuous years before the decedent's death [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(A)(ii)], and the contribution must have been made by the decedent, the executor of the decedent's estate, the trustee of a trust that includes the land subject to the easement, or members of the decedent's family [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(C)]. For these purposes, "member of the decedent's family" means one or more of the following [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(C); see I.R.C. § 2032A(e)(2)]:

- An ancestor, spouse, or lineal descendant of the decedent.
- A lineal descendant of the decedent's spouse or parent.
- A spouse of any lineal descendant of the decedent, the decedent's spouse, or the decedent's parent.

[4] Location of Land

Effective for decedents dying after 2000, a qualified conservation easement may be claimed with respect to any land that is located in the United States or its possessions [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(A)(i)]. For prior years, the land had to be located within 25 miles of a metropolitan area (as defined by the Office of Management and Budget) or a national park or wilderness area, or within 10 miles of an Urban National Forest (as designated by the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture) [I.R.C. § 2031(c)(8)(A)(i), before amendment by Pub Law 107-16].

[5] Terms of Qualified Conservation Easement

The term "qualified conservation easement" basically means a "qualified conservation contribution" [see I.R.C. § 170(h)(1)] to a charitable organization [see I.R.C. § 170(h)(3)] (defining "qualified organization" as a governmental unit or charitable organization described in I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(v), (vi), (c)(2), or certain private operating foundations described in I.R.C. § 509) of a perpetual easement exclusively for conservation purposes [I.R.C. §§ 2031(c)(8)(B), 170(h)(1), (2)(C)]. For purposes of the estate tax exclusion, "conservation purpose" means any of the following that will yield a significant public benefit [I.R.C. §§ 170(h)(4)(A), 2031(c)(8)(B)]:

- Preservation of land areas for outdoor recreation by, or the education of, the general public.
- Protection of a relatively natural habitat of fish, wildlife, or plants, or similar ecosystem. A contribution of property for this purpose is deductible even if the public's access to the property is restricted [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-14(d)(3)].
- Preservation of open space (including farmland and forest land) for the scenic enjoyment of the public, or under a clearly delineated federal, state or local governmental conservation policy.

The requirement that the easement be used exclusively for conservation purposes is intended to limit deductible contributions to those transfers that require the donee to hold the easement exclusively for conservation purposes; that is, they may not be transferable by the donee in exchange for money, other property, or services. A contribution of a qualified real property interest may be exclusively for conservation purposes only if it is protected in perpetuity [I.R.C. § 170(h)(5)(A); see Estate of Glass v. Commissioner (2005) 124 T.C. No. 16 (charitable contributions of conservation easements on undeveloped lakefront property to nonprofit nature conservancy were qualified conservation contributions; donee was long-standing nature conservancy, holding of conservation easements was directly related to its tax-exempt purposes, and donee agreed to enforce preservation-related restrictions included in easements in perpetuity)].

In addition, for purposes of the federal estate tax exclusion, the easement must include a prohibition on more than a de minimis use for commercial recreation activity [I.R.C. §§ 2031(c)(8)(B)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Real Property Law Limited Use Rights Easements Conservation Easements Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Definition of Gross Estate

135 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.18

§ 69.18 California Income Tax Deduction

The Internal Revenue Code sections applicable to deductions apply to deductions under the California Personal Income Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201; see I.R.C. §§ 161 et seq. (itemized deductions for individuals and corporations), 211 et seq. (additional itemized deductions for individuals), 261 et seq. (items not deductible); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17001 et seq. (Personal Income Tax Law)]. The Internal Revenue Code provisions apply as enacted on January 1 of a specified year [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1)]. For example, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2005, the California deduction is determined in accordance with the terms of the Internal Revenue Code as enacted on January 1, 2005 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1)(N)]. The legislature changes the conformity date on a regular basis by advancing the year. In theory this advancement should occur on an annual basis; however, past history has shown that it is not automatic. For example, from 1993 to 1996 and 2001 to 2004 the Legislature was unable to agree on blanket incorporation of federal changes and instead made piecemeal amendments to the Revenue and Taxation Code. To determine the conformity date for a given year, the attorney should refer to the latest amended version of Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax Law State & Local Taxes Income Tax Individuals, Estates & Trusts Deductions

136 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 69.19-69.99

[Reserved]

§§ 69.19[Reserved]

137 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.100

§ 69.100 Facts

1. Information about donor:

a. Name, address, and telephone number.

b. Whether donor is:

(1) An individual; or

NOTE:

Charitable dispositions are often a preconceived part of an individual's overall estate plan. Even when they are not, the attorney should also consider how a substantial charitable gift will affect the estate plan and vice versa. For general information on developing an estate plan, and forms to elicit the necessary information from the client, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning.

(2) A corporation.

c. Marital status.

d. General background financial information for tax purposes:

(1) Approximate gross annual income.

(2) Approximate taxable income.

(3) If client is an individual, approximate value of total estate of individual and individual's spouse.

(4) Whether donor anticipates filing federal gift tax return in year of gift.

(5) Donor's taxable year.

(6) Accounting method, if donor is a corporation.

2. Information about property being given to charity:

a. Type of property (e.g., money, securities, works of art).

b. Amount of cash gift.

c. Value of noncash gift:

(1) Current fair market value.

(2) Cost at which property was originally acquired.

d. How property was originally acquired:

(1) Manner in which acquired (e.g., purchase, gift, inheritance).

(2) Date acquired, or, if donor created property, approximate date of completion.

e. How title to property is currently held:

(1) By client.

(2) By client and spouse as joint tenants.

(3) By client and any other entities or individuals, either jointly or in common.

(4) Other.

f. If client is married, whether property is separate or community property.

g. Whether property is subject to any mortgage, note, lien, or other encumbrance.

3. Form and extent of charitable disposition:

a. Type of gift, either:

(1) Inter vivos; or

(2) Testamentary.

b. Form of gift, either:

(1) Outright disposition;

(2) Split-interest trust with both charitable and noncharitable beneficiaries [see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts ]; or

(3) Other.

c. Interest being disposed of to charity:

(1) Client's entire interest in property.

(2) Less than client's entire interest.

(a) Nature of interest being disposed of.

(b) Disposition of remainder of client's interest (sale, retention by client, or prior or concurrent gift to third party).

d. Whether disposition is to be subject to any conditions precedent or subsequent.

4. Purpose of disposition:

a. Charitable purpose:

(1) General; or

(2) Specific (described with sufficient detail to determine precise purpose), such as:

(a) Use for particular purpose or activity.

(b) Benefit of specific entity, as opposed to specific charitable purpose.

b. Tax purposes, if any:

(1) Income tax deduction.

(2) Estate tax deduction.

c. Other purpose.

5. Information about charity.

a. Name, address, and telephone number of charity.

NOTE:

In the case of an organization with many individual branches or subdivisions, such as fraternal lodges and many religious institutions, it is important to determine the particular branch that will be the recipient.

b. Individual to contact regarding donation, if known by client.

c. General activities of organization.

NOTE:

This information will help the attorney determine at the outset whether a charitable disposition by a client is practical from a tax standpoint. Methods for determining whether specific organizations qualify for the charitable deduction are discussed in § 69.120.

- (1) Organization's charitable purpose.
- (2) Whether property being disposed of will be used to further that purpose.
- (3) Whether organization engages in lobbying or other political activities.
- (4) Whether organization has tax-exempt status, if known to donor.
- (5) Whether organization is publicly supported.

6. If charitable disposition is to be a testamentary gift, names of alternate beneficiaries in the event primary beneficiary does not take gift, either:

- a. Other charities; or
- b. Noncharitable beneficiaries such as family members or relatives of client.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsCharitable TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & Devises

138 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.101

§ 69.101 Documents

1. Existing documents relating to dealings between donor and charity concerning gift, including:
  - a. Any written agreement between donor and charity.
  - b. If charity solicited gift in writing, copy of instrument soliciting gift.
2. Documents relating to ownership and encumbrances on gift property.
  - a. Deed, if real property is involved.
  - b. Documents evidencing title to personal property, if any, such as:
    - (1) Certificate of title or vehicle registration.
    - (2) Share certificates or equivalent instruments evidencing ownership of securities.
  - c. Documents evidencing any mortgages, liens, or other encumbrances on property.
3. Documents relating to value of gift property.
  - a. Copy of signed professional appraisal, if any.
  - b. Certificate of authenticity or other equivalent document, if any.
  - c. Receipt or cancelled check, if property was acquired by purchase.

d. If property was acquired by gift, copy of donor's federal gift tax return (IRS Form 709), if any.

e. If property was acquired by bequest or inheritance, copy of federal estate tax return (IRS Form 706), if any.

4. Copy of donor's most recent federal income tax return.

5. Copy of donor's prior federal gift tax returns, if any.

6. For a testamentary gift, copy of donor's existing Will.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsCharitable TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & Devises

139 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 69.102-69.119

[Reserved]

§§ 69.102[Reserved]

140 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.120

§ 69.120 Availability of Charitable Deduction

1. For an inter vivos gift, determine whether intended donee is a charitable organization that will qualify gift for federal income tax deduction [see I.R.C. § 170(c); see also discussion in § 69.15[2]].

a. If intended donee is a unit or subdivision of federal, state, or local government, and gift is made for exclusively public purposes [I.R.C. § 170(c)(1)], IRS will allow deduction regardless of whether or not it has issued ruling confirming particular entity's tax status [see Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, IRS Pub. No. 78, Preface, Part I].

b. If intended donee is a nongovernmental organization falling within any of the general categories listed in § 69.15[2], determine whether IRS has issued ruling or determination letter confirming that contributions to organization are deductible.

NOTE:

The IRS will not recognize the deductibility of a contribution to a nongovernmental entity unless the organization has received such a letter [see Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, IRS Pub. No. 78, Preface, Part I].

(1) Consult Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, IRS Publication No. 78.

NOTE:

IRS Publication No. 78 lists organizations that have received IRS rulings confirming that contributions to them qualify for the income tax charitable deduction. The most recent update of Publication 78 can be accessed online via www.irs.gov/charities. The list is extensive but not all-inclusive, and includes advance rulings.

The attorney may generally rely on a listing in IRS Publication No. 78 as confirmation that a contribution is deductible [ Rev. Proc. 82-39, 1982-2 C.B. 759 ]. However, changes and deletions of status are not listed in the quarterly cumulative supplements. In this situation, when the IRS revokes a ruling or determination letter, contributions to the organization by persons unaware of the organization's change in status will normally be deductible if made on or before the date when notice is published in the Internal Revenue Service Bulletin. However, the deduction may be disallowed prior to that time if the individual had actual knowledge of the revocation, was aware that it was imminent, or was in part responsible for or aware of the activities giving rise to the revocation [ Rev. Proc. 82-39, 1982-2 C.B. 759 ]. If the attorney is unfamiliar with the charity or has any reason to suspect its tax status, it may be prudent to verify its current status with the IRS.

(2) If organization is not listed in IRS Publication No. 78, obtain copy of determination letter from organization or Internal Revenue Service.

NOTE:

If the organization is not listed in IRS Publication No. 78, a copy of the determination letter ordinarily will serve as evidence of deductibility [ Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 , IRS Pub. No. 78, Preface, Part I]. If the letter is obtained from the organization, the attorney might consider verifying its current status with the IRS if there are any doubts [ see Rev. Proc. 72-3, §§ 13 (effect of revocation)].

Contributions to many kinds of tax-exempt organizations do not qualify for the charitable deduction. The attorney should make certain that the determination letter classifies the organization into one of the qualifying categories.

For general information concerning an organization's tax status, and information on obtaining copies of determination letters, contact the Exempt Organizations Division of the appropriate IRS District Office. The IRS District Office in San Francisco has indicated that it takes approximately one month to obtain a copy of a determination letter.

2. Determine whether contributions to organization are subject to the 50 percent or 30 percent deduction limitation [ I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A), (B); see discussion in § 69.15[4]].

NOTE:

The listings in IRS Publication No. 78 are coded to allow determination of the general class of organization and whether it qualifies for the 50-percent or 30-percent limitation. An attorney may rely on a listing in IRS Publication No. 78 as advance assurance of public charity status to the same extent that the listing may be relied upon as assurance that the contribution will be deductible [ Rev. Proc. 82-39, 1982-2 C.B. 759, 760 ; see the NOTE in § 69.120, P 1(b)(1)].

a. General categories qualifying for 50 percent deduction limitation ("50-percent organizations"):

(1) Churches.

(2) Qualifying educational institutions, including nonprofit day care centers for children [see I.R.C. § 501(k)].

(3) Hospitals and qualifying medical research organizations.

(4) Qualifying organizations for the benefit of state and municipal colleges.

(5) Units of government.

(6) Public charities.

(7) Private operating foundations [see discussion in § 69.14[5]].

(8) Certain other private foundations meeting specified requirements [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(vii), (viii), (E); see also discussion in § 69.15[4]].

b. General categories qualifying for 30-percent deduction limitation ("30-percent organizations"):

(1) Veterans organizations.

(2) Fraternal societies.

(3) Nonprofit cemetery corporations.

(4) Private foundations not qualifying for 50-percent limitation.

3. Determine whether prospective donee is in any of following categories for purposes of federal estate tax [see I.R.C. § 2055(a)] or federal gift tax [see I.R.C. § 2522(a)] charitable deductions [see discussion in § 69.16[2]]:

a. Unit of federal, state, or local government, if contribution is made for exclusively public purpose.

b. Corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, including the encouragement of art and the fostering of national or international amateur sports competition, but only if all of the following requirements are met:

(1) No part of its activities involve the provision of athletic facilities or equipment.

(2) It is not disqualified for tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) by reason of attempting to influence legislation.

(3) It does not participate or intervene in any campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) an candidate for public office.

(4) No part of the earnings of the contribution inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.

c. A trustee or trustees, or a fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if all of the following requirements are met:

(1) The contributions or gifts are to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

(2) The trustee(s), society, order, or association would not be disqualified for tax exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) by reason of attempting to influence legislation.

(3) The trustee(s), society, order, or association does not participate or intervene in any campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) an candidate for public office.

d. Veterans' organization incorporated by Act of Congress, or its local chapters or posts, but only if no part of the net earnings of the contribution inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

e. Employee stock option plan (ESOP), but only if contribution is to be made by charitable remainder trust and estate tax deduction only is sought [I.R.C. § 2055(a)(5); see I.R.C. § 664(g)].

4. Determine whether prospective donee is qualified charitable organization under California Personal Income Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17001 et seq. (Personal Income Tax Law); see also § 69.18].

NOTE:

An organization that qualifies as a charitable organization under the Internal Revenue Code will also qualify as a charitable organization under the California Personal Income Tax Law. The California charitable deduction is determined in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201] as enacted on January 1 of a specified year [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1)]. For discussion, see § 69.18.

5. Verify that deduction is available for type of property and property interest contributed [see §§ 69.15[3], 69.16[3]].

NOTE:

The attorney should be especially careful to verify the availability of the deduction when the charitable organization will receive less than the donor's entire interest in the property, as only specified categories of these transfers are eligible for a charitable deduction. For split-interest charitable trusts, see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts .

The attorney also must be on guard against inadvertently creating a split interest. For example, no deduction will be allowed for a bequest of stock to a charity if, during the period of estate administration, a noncharitable beneficiary is to receive dividends from the stock [ Rev. Rul. 83-45, 1983-1 C.B. 233 ].

6. Confirm that organization does not conduct lobbying activities, on matters of direct personal interest to donor's trade or business, that would have been disallowed as a business expense deduction for donor [see I.R.C. § 162(e) (disallowance of business expense deduction for specified lobbying activities)] if donor had conducted them directly [I.R.C. § 170(f)(9)].

NOTE:

If the donor's principal purpose in making the contribution is to obtain a charitable deduction by contributing to an organization that engages in lobbying activities for which the donor could not claim a business expense deduction if the donor had conducted the activities directly, no charitable deduction will be allowed [I.R.C. § 170(f)(9); see § 69.15[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General
Overview Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions
(IRC sec. 170) General Overview

141 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.121

§ 69.121 Valuation of Property

1. Determine applicable valuation date.

a. For income and gift tax purposes, property is valued at fair market value on date of gift [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(A) (income tax); I.R.C. § 2512 (gift tax); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-1(c)(1) (income tax), 25.2512-1 (gift tax); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201].

b. For federal estate tax purposes, property is valued at date of donor's death or at optional valuation date not more than six months after death [I.R.C. §§ 2031-2032A; Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-1(b); see § 69.16[4]].

2. Determine fair market value of property.

NOTE:

The Internal Revenue Service has developed extensive rules and valuation tables applicable to particular interests in property [see Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-1-20.2031-10 (estate tax), 25.2512-1-25.2512-9 (gift tax)].

a. If claimed value of contributed property exceeds $5,000 [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(A)-(E)]; obtain "qualified appraisal" [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(2)(i)(A)], which must:

NOTE:

An appraisal need not be provided for a donation of cash, property that is stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind that would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business [see I.R.C. § 1221(a)(1)], publicly traded securities, or any qualified vehicle for which a qualified contemporaneous written acknowledgment [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(A)] (general acknowledgment requirement), (B) (contents of acknowledgment) is provided [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(A)(ii)]. For purposes of determining the $5,000 threshold amount, all similar items of property donated to one or more donees are treated as one property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(F)].

(1) Be made no earlier than 60 days before date of contribution of appraised property [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(i)(A)];

(2) Be received by donor before due date (including extensions) of return on which a deduction is first claimed for donation [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(iv)(B)];

(3) Be prepared, signed, and dated by a "qualified appraiser" [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(i)(B)].

NOTE:

A "qualified appraiser" must (1) hold himself or herself out to the public as an appraiser or perform appraisals on a regular basis [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(5)(i)(A)], (2) be qualified to make appraisals of the type of property being valued [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(5)(i)(B)], (3) not be the donor, donee, or taxpayer [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(5)(i)(C), (iv)], and (4) understand that an intentionally false or fraudulent overstatement of the value of the property may subject the appraiser to civil penalties [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(5)(i)(D)].

(4) Include all of following information:

(a) Description of property in sufficient detail for person who is not generally familiar with type of property to ascertain that property appraised is property that was (or will be) contributed [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(A)].

(b) If property contributed is tangible, its physical condition [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(B)].

(c) Date (or expected date) of contribution [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(C)].

(d) Terms of any agreement or understanding by or on behalf of donor or donee relating to use, sale, or other disposition of property [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(D)].

(e) Name, address, and (if required under I.R.C. § 6109) taxpayer identification number of qualified appraiser [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(E)].

(f) Qualifications of appraiser, including background, experience, education, and membership (if any) in professional appraisal associations [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(F)].

(g) Statement that appraisal was prepared for income tax purposes [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(G)].

(h) Date (or dates) on which property was appraised [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(H)].

(i) Appraised fair market value of property on date (or expected date) of contribution [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(I); see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-1(c)(2) (fair market value defined)].

(j) Method of valuation used to determine fair market value [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(J)].

(k) Specific basis for valuation, such as specific comparable sales or statistical sampling [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(c)(3)(ii)(K)].

(5) Attach copy of appraisal to donor's return [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(C), (D)].

b. If claimed value of contributed property does not exceed $5,000, obtain and keep either of following:

(1) Receipt from donee showing [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(b)(1)]:

(a) Name of donee;

(b) Date and location of contribution; and

(c) Description of property in detail reasonably sufficient under circumstances; or

NOTE:

A letter or other written communication from the donee acknowledging receipt of the contribution, showing the date of the contribution, and containing the required description of the property contributed will qualify as a receipt for this purpose. Although the fair market value of the property is one of the circumstances to be taken into account in determining the amount of detail to be included on the receipt, that value need not be stated on the receipt [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(b)(1)(iii)].

(2) Reliable written record showing following [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(b)(1), (2)]:

NOTE:

A receipt is not required if it is impractical to obtain a receipt (e.g., if the property is deposited at a charity's unattended drop site) [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(b)(1)(iii)].

(a) Name and address of donee organization;

(b) Date and location of contribution;

(c) Description of property in detail reasonably sufficient under circumstances;

(d) Fair market value of property at time of contribution, method used in determining fair market value, and, if valuation was determined by appraisal, copy of signed report of appraiser; and

(e) In case of capital gain property [see I.R.C. § 170(e)] only: cost or other basis of property, reduction in amount of contribution taken into account by reason of I.R.C. § 170(e)(1), and manner in which that reduction was determined.

(3) If amount of deduction being claimed exceeds $500, include description of donated property with donor's return [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(B)].

c. Value of remainder interest in pooled income fund, charitable remainder annuity trust, or charitable unitrust is present value less value of income interest [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-7(c), 1.642(c)-6, 1.664-2(c), 1.664-4; see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts].

d. For federal income tax purposes, value of remainder interest in real property not in trust is present value, taking into account depreciation and depletion [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-7(c), 1.170A-12].

e. Other future interests are valued at fair market value (present value) on date of contribution [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-7(c), 20.2031-10, 25.2522(c)-3(d)].

3. For a testamentary gift, consider likelihood that value of property will increase or decrease between time that will is prepared and actual date of testator's death.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Deductions Charitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524) General Overview
Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) General Overview
Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Valuation General Overview

142 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
 CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
 PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
 B. Preliminary Determinations

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.122

§ 69.122 Estimate of Available Federal Income Tax Deduction

NOTE:

For additional information on computing the federal income tax deduction for charitable contributions, see § 69.180.

1. Determine donor's basis in property for federal income tax purposes [see I.R.C. § 1011].
  - a. If property was acquired by purchase, basis is donor's cost [I.R.C. § 1012].
  - b. If property is inventory, basis is most recent inventory value [I.R.C. § 1013].
  - c. If property was acquired by bequest or inheritance, basis is fair market value at date of decedent's death [I.R.C. § 1014; for decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis rule generally applies, so a step-up basis does not apply (I.R.C. § 1022); see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, for a more detailed discussion].
  - d. If property was acquired by gift, basis is original donor's basis [I.R.C. § 1015; see I.R.C. § 1041 (transfers of property between spouses)].

NOTE:

If the gift was made after September 2, 1958, the basis is increased by the amount of any gift tax paid with respect to the gift, but not above the fair market value of property on the date of the gift [I.R.C. § 1015(d)(1)(A)].

If the gift was a gift between spouses, the donee's basis is the adjusted basis of the donor, determined without regard to I.R.C. § 1015 [I.R.C. §§ 1015(e), 1041(b)(2)].

e. If property was acquired by transfer between spouses or incident to divorce, property is treated as if donee acquired it by gift, and donee's basis is adjusted basis of donor [I.R.C. § 1041(b)].

NOTE:

For purposes of the above rule, a transfer is "incident to divorce" if it occurs within one year after the date on which the marriage ceases or is related to the cessation of the marriage [I.R.C. § 1041(c)].

f. If property is subject to depreciation or depletion, refer to donor's most recent federal income tax return to determine adjusted basis at end of last taxable year, and reduce by additional depreciation or depletion allowable in current year to date of contribution [I.R.C. §§ 167, 611-613A].

g. If property is being sold to charity at less than its fair market value (a "bargain sale"), basis for computing charitable deduction is amount bearing same ratio to adjusted basis as amount realized from sale bears to fair market value of property [I.R.C. § 1011(b); see Treas. Reg. § 1.1011-2].

2. Determine character of asset for purposes of federal income tax charitable deduction, either:

a. Ordinary income property;

NOTE:

"Ordinary income property" is property any portion of the gain on which would not have been long-term capital gain if the donor had sold the property at its fair market value at the time of contribution [I.R.C. § 170(e); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(1)]. Examples include inventory [but see discussion of special exception for certain contributions of inventory, below], a work of art or manuscript created by the donor, letters or memorandums prepared by or for the donor, or a capital asset held for one year or less [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(1); see I.R.C. § 1222(a)(1)].

b. Long-term capital gain property;

NOTE:

"Long-term capital gain property" (referred to in the regulations as "Section 170(e) capital gain property" [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(2)]) is property on which the donor would have realized long-term capital gain if the property had been sold at its fair market value at the time of the contribution; in other words, gain from the sale of a capital asset held for more than one year [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(2); see I.R.C. §§ 1221, 1222(3)].

c. Inventory of corporation, or property used in its trade or business, to be used by donee solely for care of the ill, the needy, or infants [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3)(A), see I.R.C. § 1221(a)(1), (a)(2)]; or

NOTE:

Special favorable rules apply to qualified contributions by corporations [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(3), (4); see also P 3(c), below; and § 69.321].

d. Scientific equipment manufactured and contributed by corporation to institution of higher education for use in experimentation or research [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(4)].

3. Determine whether fair market value must be reduced to take into account appreciation in value or other factors.

a. Reduce fair market value of ordinary income property [see P 2(a), above] by amount that would have been recognized as gain (other than long-term capital gain) if property had been sold at its fair market value at time of contribution [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(a)(1)].

NOTE:

The effect of this requirement is to limit the charitable deduction to the donor's basis in the property. Some of the practical effects of this limitation are noted in § 69.15[5].

b. Treatment of long-term capital gain property [see P 2(b), above].

(1) No reduction in fair market value of long-term capital gain property is ordinarily required.

(2) Reduce fair market value of long-term capital gain property by full amount that would have been long-term capital gain had property been sold at fair market value [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B)] if:

(a) Property is contributed to private foundation that does not qualify for 50 percent deduction limitation, unless property consists of securities [I.R.C. § 170(e)(5)]:

NOTE:

If the following two requirements are met, contributions of up to ten percent of a corporation's stock are deductible at fair market value [I.R.C. § 170(e)(5)].

(i) That are capital gain property; and

(ii) For which market quotations are readily available on established securities market.

(b) Property is tangible personal property that is put to use unrelated to purpose or function constituting basis for charity's tax-exempt status [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(3)];

(c) Any patent, copyright (other than as described in I.R.C. § 1221(a)(3) or § 1231(b)(1)(C)), trademark, trade name, trade secret, know-how, software (other than as described in I.R.C. § 197(e)(3)(A)(i)), or similar property, or applications or registrations of this property; or

(d) Property is contributed to 50-percent organization and donor elects to have property treated under rules governing appreciated property in lieu of 30 percent deduction limit on capital gain property [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(iii), (e)(1); see also discussion in § 69.15[1]].

NOTE:

If the property is given to a 50-percent organization, an individual donor may elect either to have the 30-percent limit apply to all contributions of capital gain property or to have the reduction rule stated in P 3(b)(2), above, apply in lieu of the 30-percent limit [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(iii); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-8(d)(2)]. This election gives the donor a choice between deducting the full fair market value of the property (less any portion that would not have been long-term capital gain) up to 30 percent of the donor's contribution base, or instead deducting an amount less than fair market value (basis plus 60 percent of long-term capital gain) up to 50 percent of the contribution base. Normally, it is more advantageous to elect the 30-percent limit rather than the reduction rule. Since any excess over 30 percent qualifies for a 5-year carryover [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(ii)], a donor who elects the 30-percent limit will ultimately be able to claim a deduction for the full value of the property in most cases. However, if it is important for the donor to deduct the maximum possible dollar amount in the year of the gift, and the basis of the property plus 60 percent of any appreciation in value significantly exceeds 30 percent of the taxpayer's contribution base, election of the reduction rule will permit a greater deduction in the year of the gift.

The above election is available only for contributions to 50-percent organizations [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)]. No election is available for contributions to 30-percent organizations, which are automatically subject to the reduction rule as well as the 30 percent limit [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(i), (b)(1)(D), (e)(1)(B)(i)]. Contributions of tangible personal property that is put to a use unrelated to the purpose or function constituting the basis for the charity's tax-exempt status are also automatically subject to the reduction rule, regardless of whether the charity is a 50-percent or 30-percent organization [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(i), (e)(1)(B)(ii)].

c. If donor is a corporation and property is either inventory to be used solely for the care of the ill, the needy, or infants [see Paragraph 2(c), above] or qualified scientific property donated to an institution of higher learning [see Paragraph 2(d), above], reduction is only one half (instead of entire amount) of any gain that is not long-term capital gain, plus any amount by which charitable deduction exceeds twice the basis of property [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3)(B), (4)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4A].

NOTE:

In order to qualify for this deduction, the charity must adhere to specific restrictions on use of the gift, and the donor must receive a written representation from the donee that the use will be in accordance with these restrictions [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3)(A)(iii), (4)(B)(vii); see § 69.321 and Comment].

4. Using donor's most recent federal income tax return, determine whether donor has an existing charitable contributions carryover or net operating loss carryover [see discussion in § 69.15[7]].

5. Estimate amount of federal income tax deduction and resultant tax savings [see § 69.180].

6. If donor is a corporation, determine most advantageous time to make gift and claim deduction [see I.R.C. § 170(a)(2)].

NOTE:

A charitable deduction ordinarily must be taken in the taxable year in which it is actually made, regardless of the corporation's accounting method. Corporations on the accrual basis may, however, elect to treat a contribution as made in the year in which it is authorized by the board of directors, if it is paid on or before the fifteenth day of the third month of the following year [I.R.C. § 170(a)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax Law Federal Estate & Gift Taxes Basis of Property Acquired From Decedents (IRC sec. 1014) General Overview Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Deductions for Nonbusiness Expenses Charitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170) General Overview Tax Law Federal Income Tax Computation Valuation General Overview

143 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.123

§ 69.123 Other Tax Computations

1. For inter vivos contributions, compute estimated California income tax deduction.

NOTE:

The California deduction is determined in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201] as enacted on January 1 of a specified year [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1)]. For discussion, see § 69.18.

2. For inter vivos contributions, verify that contribution will qualify for federal gift tax charitable deduction [see I.R.C. § 2522].

NOTE:

Contributions qualifying for the federal income tax charitable deduction usually will also qualify for the federal gift tax deduction; however, there are exceptions. If tax planning is a major factor, it may be necessary to select a different charitable beneficiary if the primary beneficiary does not qualify. However, if the total value of all of the donor's gifts (both charitable and noncharitable) during the calendar year does not exceed the annual gift tax exclusion amount [see I.R.C. § 2503(b)]; for discussion of the annual exclusion and the applicable exclusion amounts, which are adjusted annually for inflation, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4]] or double that amount in case of split gifts by husband and wife [see I.R.C. § 2513(a)] (gift-splitting), it does not matter whether the charitable dispositions qualify for the charitable deduction, since they will pass free under the annual exclusion in any event.

For a guide to computing federal gift tax liability in general, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.130.

- a. Verify that property qualifies for deduction [see § 69.16[2], [3]].
- b. Determine fair market value of property on date of gift [see § 69.121].
- c. Determine amount of available deduction.
  - (1) Deduction is ordinarily available for full fair market value of property [I.R.C. § 2522(a); Treas. Reg. § 25.2522(a)-1(a)].
  - (2) When property is transferred for less than adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, deduction is amount by which value of property exceeds value of gift [I.R.C. § 2512(b)].

3. For testamentary dispositions to charity, verify that transfer will qualify for federal estate tax deduction [see § 69.16[2], [3]].

NOTE:

The utility of charitable dispositions (both inter vivos and testamentary) as an estate planning device depends on a number of factors, such as the size of the donor's total estate, the disposition of the portion of the estate not given to charity, and the probable estate and gift tax liability of both the donor and the donor's spouse. These matters are discussed in Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Tax LawFederal Estate & Gift TaxesDeductionsCharitable Deductions (IRC secs. 2055, 2522, 2524)General OverviewTax LawFederal Income Tax ComputationDeductions for Nonbusiness ExpensesCharitable Contributions (IRC sec. 170)General OverviewTax LawState & Local TaxesIncome TaxIndividuals, Estates & TrustsDeductions

144 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.124

§ 69.124 Acceptability of Contribution

1. If contribution is to be made for a specific purpose, contact prospective donee to verify that gift can be accepted for that purpose.
2. If land is to be donated for public use, contact local government to determine whether dedication will be accepted for intended purpose.
3. If contribution consists of tangible personal property, contact prospective donee to verify that contribution will be acceptable in that form.
4. Determine whether prospective donee has any established rules or procedures for accepting charitable contributions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsCharitable TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & Devises

145 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 69.125-69.139

[Reserved]

§§ 69.125[Reserved]

146 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Charitable Dispositions

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.140

§ 69.140 Inter Vivos Gifts

NOTE:

The general requirements for inter vivos gifts are discussed in Ch. 60A, Gifts. The steps listed below are typically of particular importance in inter vivos gifts to charitable organizations.

1. If donor is a corporation, draft resolution authorizing gift [see § 69.301].
2. Draft cover letter to accompany formal gift instrument [see § 69.300].
3. Draft formal gift instrument, if one will be used [see § 69.160; see also § 69.300[1]].
4. If gift is of real property, prepare deed conveying real property to charity [for deed forms, see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].
5. If necessary, draft acceptance and receipt of gift to be executed by representative of charity [see § 69.340].

NOTE:

Some charities that regularly accept contributions will provide a standard receipt. If property is given to such an organization and the donor imposes no restrictions upon the use of the property, it is ordinarily unnecessary for the donor or attorney to prepare a separate document acknowledging receipt.

If the value of the contribution is $250 or more and the donor wants to claim a federal income tax deduction for the gift, the charity's acknowledgment of the contribution must meet the statutory requirements listed in P 9, below [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)].

If the donor is a corporation and the gift is inventory contributed for the ill, the needy, or infants, or scientific property, and the donor wishes to qualify for special federal income tax treatment [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3), (4); see § 69.122, PP 2(c), (d), 3(c); see also § 69.321[1]], the donor must obtain from the charity a written statement representing that the property will be used in the manner and for the purposes specified by statute [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3)(B)(iii), (4)(B)(vii); see § 69.341].

6. Have donor execute gift instruments.

- a. Cover letter accompanying gift.
- b. Gift instrument.

NOTE:

If the gift property is community or quasi-community property, it is strongly recommended that the gift instrument be signed by both the donor and the donor's spouse [see § 69.320[1]]. If the property is held in joint tenancy or tenancy in common, and the entire property is being given, all owners should sign.

- c. Deed to real property [see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording].

7. If gift is of personal property and title is evidenced by a written instrument, such as a vehicle registration or a share certificate, arrange for instrument to be transferred or reissued to indicate change in ownership.

8. Deliver gift and gift instruments to charity, or verify that valid delivery has been effected.

9. Obtain signed acknowledgment of gift from authorized representative of charity.

- a. If value of gift is $250 or more, and donor wants to claim federal income tax deduction for contribution, obtain acknowledgment no later than the earlier of [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(C)]:

NOTE:

In order to obtain a federal income tax deduction for a charitable contribution of $250 or more, the donor must obtain a "contemporaneous" written acknowledgment from the donee organization [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(A)]. The donor must obtain the acknowledgment by the earlier of the two dates specified below in order for it to be considered "contemporaneous" for federal income tax purposes [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(C)].

(1) Date on which donor files a federal income tax return for taxable year in which contribution was made; or

(2) Due date (including any extensions) for filing such a return.

- b. If value of gift is $250 or more, and donor wants to claim federal income tax deduction for contribution, make certain that acknowledgment includes all of following [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(B)]:

(1) Amount of any cash contributed.

(2) Description (but not value) of any property other than cash.

(3) Statement whether donee organization provided any goods or services in consideration for all or part of the contributed property, and if so:

(a) Description and good faith estimate of the value of those goods or services; or

(b) If goods or services consist solely of intangible religious benefits, statement to that effect.

NOTE:

"Intangible religious benefit" means any such benefit that is provided by an organization organized exclusively for religious purposes and which generally is not sold in a commercial transaction outside the donative context [I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(B)]. Presumably, this means masses, memorial services, and other religious activities for which no fee is actually charged but for which a donation traditionally is made.

10. Obtain and provide one of following, if applicable:

NOTE:

No deduction is allowed for any contribution of property for which a deduction of more than $500 is claimed, unless the taxpayer includes a description of the property with the return for the taxable year in which the contribution is made or, for contributions of more than $5,000, attaches to the return a qualified appraisal of the property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(A)-(E)]. An appraisal need not be provided for a donation of cash, property that is stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind that would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of the customer's trade or business [see I.R.C. § 1221(a)(1)], publicly traded securities, or any qualified vehicle for which a qualified contemporaneous written acknowledgment [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(A) (general acknowledgment requirement), (B) (contents of acknowledgment)] is provided [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(A)(ii)]. For purposes of determining the dollar amount thresholds of this provision, all similar items of property donated to one or more donees are treated as one property [I.R.C. § 170(f)(11)(F)]. For a detailed discussion of the requirements for the appraisal, see § 69.121.

a. Description of donated property for which a deduction of more than $500 is claimed.

b. Appraisal of donated property for which a deduction of more than $5,000 is claimed.

11. For a contribution of a motor vehicle, boat, or airplane, with claimed value exceeding $500, obtain contemporaneous written acknowledgment of contribution by donee organization that includes following information [I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(A), (B); 2005-25 I.R.B. 1287, Notice 2005-44, § 3 (requirements for contemporaneous written acknowledgment)]:

NOTE:

A deduction for a contribution of a motor vehicle, boat, or airplane, the claimed value of which exceeds $500, is not allowed unless the taxpayer substantiates the contribution by a contemporaneous written acknowledgment of the contribution by the donee organization and includes the acknowledgment with the taxpayer's return [I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(A)(i), (B), (E)]. If the donee organization sells the vehicle without any significant intervening use or material improvement, the amount of the deduction cannot exceed the gross proceeds received from the sale [I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(A)(ii)]. To constitute a "significant intervening use," the donee organization must actually use the vehicle to substantially further the organization's regularly conducted activities, and the use must be significant. Incidental use is not a significant intervening use. "Material improvement" includes a major repair or improvement that improves the condition of the vehicle in a manner that significantly increases its value. Cleaning, minor repairs, and routine maintenance are not material improvements. An improvement funded by an additional payment to the donee organization from the donor of the vehicle cannot constitute a material improvement [ 2005-25 I.R.B. 1287, Notice 2005-44 , § 7].

An acknowledgment is considered contemporaneous if the donee organization provides it within 30 days of the sale of the vehicle or the contribution of the qualified vehicle [I.R.C. § 170(f)(12)(C)].

- a. Donor's name and taxpayer identification number.
- b. Vehicle identification number or similar number.
- c. If donee organization sells vehicle without any significant intervening use or material improvement:
  - (1) Certification that vehicle was sold in an arm's length transaction between unrelated parties;
  - (2) Gross proceeds from the sale; and
  - (3) Statement that deductible amount may not exceed amount of gross proceeds.
- d. If vehicle is not sold:
  - (1) Certification of intended use or material improvement of vehicle and intended duration of use;
  - (2) Certification that vehicle will not be transferred in exchange for money, other property, or services before completion of use or improvement.

12. If gift is of real property, verify that deed has been recorded.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsElements of Valid GiftsGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsLifetime GiftsEstate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsProceduresGeneral Overview

147 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Charitable Dispositions

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.141

§ 69.141 Testamentary Dispositions

NOTE:

The general rules and considerations in drafting will provisions, and the formalities for execution of wills, are discussed in the Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms . Codicils are discussed in Ch. 62, Codicils . For discussion of testamentary trusts, see Ch. 64, Testamentary Trusts: Payment and Distribution Provisions , Ch. 64A, Testamentary Trusts: Trustee Provisions , and Ch. 64B, Testamentary Trusts: Administrative Provisions .

1. Decide on appropriate format for disposition; either:

NOTE:

For a discussion of the considerations in deciding whether to use a codicil or draft a new will, see Ch. 62, Codicils, § 62.101[1].

- a. Provision to be inserted into new will; or
- b. Codicil to existing will.

2. Draft will provision or codicil making charitable disposition [see § 69.161].

3. Have testator execute will or codicil with appropriate formalities [see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, §§ 6.150 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsTestamentary TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsBequests & DevisesEstate, Gift & Trust LawWillsCodicilsGeneral Overview

148 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
C. Procedural Guide to Charitable Dispositions

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 69.142-69.159

[Reserved]

§§ 69.142[Reserved]

149 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
D. Drafting Guide for Instruments Making Charitable Dispositions

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.160

§ 69.160 General Drafting Requirements and Inter Vivos Instruments

NOTE:

For a general format for inter vivos charitable gift instruments, see § 69.320. For appropriate language for gifts to specific types of charities, refer to the testamentary gift forms in this chapter [see § 69.360-69.367 (general forms); § 69.380-69.383 (religious institutions); § 69.400-69.404 (educational institutions, museums, and similar institutions); §§ 69.420, 69.421 (hospitals and scientific organizations); § 69.440-69.442 (social welfare organizations); and § 69.480 (fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system)]. Inter vivos dedications of land to government entities are discussed in Ch. 27A, Dedication .

1. Identify donor and charity with certainty.

a. Full legal name and address of donor.

b. If donor is a corporation, trust, or other entity, add statement to that effect; e.g.,
" _____ [name], a California corporation."

c. Full name and address of charity.

NOTE:

If donee is a branch or chapter of a larger entity, as in the case of a fraternal order or religious organization, the specific branch or chapter should be identified.

2. Include words of gift; e.g., "I, _____ [donor], give _____ [property] to _____ [charity]."

3. If interest being given is less than an absolute interest in gift property, such as a life estate, fractional interest, income interest, remainder interest, or other future interest, clearly describe interest being given.

NOTE:

Gifts of less than the donor's entire interest in property generally do not qualify for the charitable deduction unless they come within specific exceptions [see discussion in §§ 69.15[3], 69.16[3]]. However, when the donor's entire interest in property consists of a partial interest such as an income or remainder interest, the donor may claim a charitable deduction for the contribution of that interest [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-7(a)(1)(i)].

For language creating specific types of future interests, see Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities .

4. Describe property so that it can be clearly identified.

NOTE:

Rules and suggestions for describing specific types of property are contained in Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.130. Although that discussion is directed toward testamentary instruments, it is applicable to inter vivos instruments as well.

5. Specify any limitations or conditions on gift.

NOTE:

The testator or attorney should verify that any limitations are acceptable to the charity.

a. If gift is to be used for any general purposes of donee, include statement to that effect [see, e.g., §§ 69.360, 69.361].

b. If gift is to be put to a specific use, state that use [see, e.g., § 69.320; see also § 69.365].

c. If charity has discretion to use gift for any charitable purpose other than that specified by donor, include statement to that effect [see, e.g., § 69.365].

d. If gift is to be used only for purpose and use specified by donor, and for no other purpose, include specific statement to that effect [see § 69.366].

e. If only income from gift property is to be expended, state how principal may be invested [see, e.g., § 69.320].

6. If instrument will also serve as donee's contemporaneous written acknowledgment of contribution for purposes of substantiating contribution of $250 or more for federal income tax purposes [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(8); see also § 69.140, P 9], include [see I.R.C. § 170(f)(8)(B)]:

a. Amount of cash contributed;

b. Description (but not value) of any property other than cash; and

c. Statement whether donee provided any goods or services in consideration for any part of donated property, and if so:

(1) Description and good faith estimate of value of those goods and services; or

(2) If goods or services consisted solely of intangible religious benefits, statement to that effect.

7. Include space for date and place of execution.

8. Include space for signature of donor.

NOTE:

If the gift is community or quasi-community property, space for signature of the donor's spouse should also be included [see § 69.320 and comment].

9. Include acknowledgment if desired [see § 69.320].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Personal Gifts Elements of Valid Gifts General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Personal Gifts Procedures General Overview

150 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

D. Drafting Guide for Instruments Making Charitable Dispositions

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.161

§ 69.161 Testamentary Instruments

NOTE:

The following guide contains general drafting rules and procedures. For additional information, see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms .

1. For a will or trust provision (other than a split-interest charitable trust), use general format illustrated in this chapter [see § 69.360-69.460] and in the forms in Ch. 63, Will Provisions .
2. For a codicil, use format illustrated in forms in Ch. 62, Codicils .
3. Identify beneficiary [see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.130].
4. Describe property.

NOTE:

The Probate Code classifies all testamentary gifts into six basic categories [see Prob. Code § 21117]. For discussion of these categories, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.351[1][b].

- a. Specific gift [see Prob. Code § 21117(a) ("specific gift" defined); see also Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.370[1]].
- b. General gift [see Prob. Code § 21117(b) ("general gift" defined); see also Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.351[1]].

c. Demonstrative gift [see Prob. Code § 21117(c) ("demonstrative gift" defined); see also Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.390[1]].

(1) Source or fund from which devise is to be satisfied.

(2) Item or amount of devise.

d. General pecuniary gift [see Prob. Code §§ 21117(d) ("general pecuniary gift" defined), 21118(b) ("pecuniary gift" defined); see also Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.351[1]].

e. Annuity [see Prob. Code § 21117(e) ("annuity" defined); see also Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.508[1]].

f. Residuary gift [see Prob. Code § 21117(f) ("residuary gift" defined); see also Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.530[1]].

5. If interest being given is only partial interest in property (less than fee simple), describe interest [see NOTE in § 69.160, P 3].

NOTE:

Before drafting a provision giving a partial or split interest in property to a charity, the attorney should carefully evaluate the tax treatment and effects of the contemplated disposition. For discussion, see § 69.16[3]; see also Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts .

6. Include any conditions or limitations on gift.

a. Purpose for which gift is made.

NOTE:

Although it is generally inadvisable to include a statement of motivation or purpose in a will, a clearly defined statement of purpose may be useful in a provision making a charitable disposition. If the disposition cannot be given in the precise manner contemplated by the testator, a statement of purpose may help a court determine the testator's intent for purposes of applying the cy pres doctrine [see § 69.12].

(1) If testator has general charitable intent, then:

(a) Make statement of purpose as general as possible [see §§ 69.360, 69.361]; or

(b) State primary purpose and add statement giving charity discretion if property cannot be used for stated purpose [see § 69.365].

(2) If it is important to testator that gift be used exclusively for specific purpose:

(a) Statement should be as narrowly drawn as is necessary to clearly express that purpose [see § 69.366]; and

(b) Statement may specify that gift must be used exclusively for specified purpose and for no other purpose [see § 69.366].

(3) If testator's primary concern is benefiting specific organization, rather than use of gift for a particular purpose [see § 69.367]:

(a) Add statement to that effect, and

(b) Specify that gift will either fail or go to named alternate beneficiaries if named charity does not take gift.

b. Other conditions precedent or subsequent [see the Legal Background to Ch. 67, Future Interests and Perpetuities].

NOTE:

Conditional gifts should be avoided whenever possible. The attorney should verify that any conditions will not render the gift unacceptable to the charity or result in loss or significant reduction in the available charitable deduction.

7. If gift is subject to an encumbrance (such as a mortgage on real property), consider including provision requiring encumbrance to be discharged out of assets of estate [see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.313].

8. Specify alternate beneficiary in event primary beneficiary cannot or does not take charitable gift [see, e.g., § 69.360]; either:

NOTE:

The alternate beneficiary can be named either in the provision making the charitable disposition or elsewhere in the will.

a. Alternate charitable beneficiary; or

NOTE:

It is preferable to name a specific alternate beneficiary rather than simply including a general statement to the effect that the gift is to go to another organization performing a similar function, since a general statement may encourage litigation between various charitable entities seeking all or part of the gift [see discussion in § 69.12].

b. Noncharitable beneficiary.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Testamentary Trusts Estate, Gift & Trust Law Wills Bequests & Devises

151 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

D. Drafting Guide for Instruments Making Charitable Dispositions

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide §§ 69.162-69.179

[Reserved]

§§ 69.162[Reserved]

152 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV: WILLS AND TRUSTS
CHAPTER 69 CHARITABLE DISPOSITIONS
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
E. Related and Subsequent Procedures

25-69 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 69.180

§ 69.180 Computation of Federal Income Tax Deduction for Charitable Gifts

1. Determine donor's contribution base for year of gift.

a. For individual donor, contribution base is adjusted gross income, computed without regard to any net operating loss carryback to taxable year [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(G)]; see I.R.C. § 172.

b. For corporate donor, contribution base is taxable income computed without regard to [I.R.C. § 170(b)(2)]:

(1) Charitable deduction itself.

(2) Special deductions available to corporations [I.R.C. §§ 241-250], except deductions for organizational expenditures [see I.R.C. § 248].

(3) Any net operating loss carryback to taxable year.

(4) Any capital loss carryback to taxable year under I.R.C. § 1212(a)(1).

2. Determine amount of deduction for each gift made during year.

a. Amount is fair market value, reduced as specified in (b), (c), and (d), below.

NOTE:

The treatment of specific classes of property is discussed in greater detail in § 69.122.

b. Reduce gifts of ordinary income property [see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(1)]; see also § 69.122, P 2(a)] by amount of ordinary income that would have been realized if property had been sold at fair market value [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(A); see § 69.122, P 3(a)].

c. Reduce gifts of long-term capital gain property [see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(2); see also § 69.122, P 2(b)] by full amount that would have been long-term capital gain had property been sold at fair market value [I.R.C. § 170(e)(1)(B); see § 69.122, P 3(b)] if:

(1) Property is contributed to a private foundation that does not qualify for 50 percent deduction, unless property consists of securities [I.R.C. § 170(e)(5)]:

NOTE:

If the following two requirements are met, contributions of up to 10 percent of a corporation's stock are deductible at fair market value [I.R.C. § 170(e)(5)].

(a) That are capital gain property; and

(b) For which market quotations are readily available on an established securities market.

(2) Property is tangible personal property that is put to a use unrelated to purpose or function constituting basis for charity's tax-exempt status [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4(b)(3)].

(3) Any patent, copyright (other than as described in I.R.C. § 1221(a)(3) or § 1231(b)(1)(C)), trademark, trade name, trade secret, know-how, software (other than as described in I.R.C. § 197(e)(3)(A)(i)), or similar property, or applications or registrations of this property; or

(4) In an appropriate case, donor elects to have property treated under rules governing appreciated property in lieu of 30 percent deduction limit on capital gain property [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(iii), (e); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-4(b)(2)(iii), 1.170A-8(d)(2)].

NOTE:

For a discussion of this election, see NOTE in § 69.122, P 3(b)(2).

d. If donor is a corporation and property is either inventory to be used solely for care of ill, needy, or infants, or is a qualified research contribution [see § 69.321[1]; see also § 69.122, P 2(c), (d)], reduce fair market value by [I.R.C. § 170(e)(3)(B), (4)(A); Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-4A]:

(1) One half of any gain that is not long-term capital gain; plus

(2) Any amount by which charitable deduction exceeds twice the basis of property.

3. For individual donor, categorize deduction amounts as follows [see §§ 69.120, 69.122; see also discussion in § 69.15[4]]:

a. Contributions, other than long-term capital gain property described in (b), below, to organizations qualifying for maximum 50 percent deduction limitation [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)].

b. Contributions of long-term capital gain property subject to special 30 percent deduction limitation [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)] that:

(1) Are contributed to organizations that otherwise would qualify for 50 percent limit [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)]; and

(2) Donor elects to have treated under 30 percent limit rather than reduced as specified in Paragraph 2(c)(3), above [see NOTE in § 69.122].

c. Contributions, other than long-term capital gain property, to organizations qualifying for 30 percent deduction limitation [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(B)].

d. Contributions of capital gain property to organizations qualifying for 30-percent deduction limitation [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(D)].

4. For individual donor, compute total available deduction in taxable year, in following order:

a. Contributions to 50-percent organizations [see Paragraph 3(a), above], other than contributions of long-term capital gain property described in Paragraph 3(b), above, up to 50 percent of donor's contribution base; any excess is carried over to subsequent taxable years.

b. Contributions (to 50-percent organizations) of long-term capital gain property subject to special 30-percent deduction limitation [see Paragraph 3(b), above], to the extent of the lesser of the following [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(i)]; any excess is carried over to subsequent taxable years [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(ii)]:

(1) Any portion of 50 percent of contribution base remaining after deducting amounts described in Paragraph 4(a), above; or

(2) Thirty percent of donor's contribution base.

c. Contributions to 50-percent organizations that have been carried over from past five years, starting with oldest, to extent of any remaining portion of 50 percent of contribution base; any excess from past four years is carried over [see I.R.C. § 170(d)(1)(A)].

NOTE:

If the donor also has a net operating loss carryover, any charitable contributions carryover must be reduced to the extent that the excess charitable contributions have the effect of increasing the amount of the net operating loss carryover [see I.R.C. § 170(d)(1)(B)].

d. Contributions, to 50-percent organizations, of long term capital gain property subject to 30-percent limitation that have been carried over from past five years, starting with oldest, to extent of lesser of the following; any excess from past four years is carried over [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(C)(ii), (d)(1)]:

(1) Any portion of 50 percent of contribution base remaining after deducting amounts described in Paragraphs 4(a), (b), and (c), above; or

(2) Any excess of 30 percent of contribution base over deductions described in Paragraph 4(b), above.

